

Analysts See Ominous Action Hanoi Moving Up Reserves

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Recent U.S. intelligence reports say the North Vietnamese army has started moving elements of its home-based strategic reserve toward South Vietnam.

Some military analysts describe this as an ominous development, recalling similar enemy movements which preceded the big North Vietnamese offensive three years ago. Reports from Indochina within the past few days speak of the North Vietnamese spring offensive as having begun.

However, the Pentagon's public position is more cautious and stopped short of describing the new wave of North Vietnamese attacks as a countrywide offensive.

Defense Department spokesman William Beecher told a briefing Tuesday that "we don't see anything really massive at this stage."

Beecher said Pentagon analysts "don't foresee a major offensive on the order of Tet" in 1968. However, he did not rule out the possibility, noting that the North Vietnamese have the means to support a massive drive.

Defense sources said there are mixed opinions among Pentagon leaders on whether the North Vietnamese are embarking on a major offensive or whether this is only another in a series of "high points" in Communist military activity that may subside after a few weeks.

Exports Up

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—United States tobacco exports topped $1 billion last year, the largest export value ever, economists at North Carolina State University reported. U.S. Department of Agriculture figures show the combined value of unmanufactured tobacco and tobacco products shipped to other nations reached $1.2 billion, they said. On the other hand, tobacco imports to be used in the United States amounted to $215 million last year, the economists reported.

Japan was the leading market for American tobacco products. Shipments to that country were up 39 per cent, hitting 109.6 million pounds valued at $165 million. But, exports to western Europe were down 14 per cent.

If Ford administration leaders come to the conclusion that it is a big push, they would be faced with a decision on how to act. Their options appear very limited, unlike in 1972 when President Richard M. Nixon met the North Vietnamese offensive with a huge concentration of U.S. air and naval power.

Although U.S. armed strength in Southeast Asia has been drastically reduced since those days, the United States still has about 200 strike planes, including 17 B52 bombers, in Thailand, plus other warplanes aboard 7th Fleet carriers and on Guam.

But these could not be sent to help the South Vietnamese without specific approval by Congress, which has banned further U.S. combat in Indochina.

The Ford administration also could seek congressional approval of special new military aid to South Vietnam to deal with the enlarged North Vietnamese threat.

Defense officials say that one serious result of intensified North Vietnamese battlefield pressure, even if it turns out to be less than an all-out offensive, would be to accelerate the drain on South Vietnam's already depleted ammunition supplies.

Intelligence reports reaching the Pentagon this week have raised the estimate of North Vietnamese troop movements into South Vietnam and neighboring Laos.

The current estimate is that 56,000 North Vietnamese entered South Vietnam in the past two months and that another 9,000 to 10,000 moved into Laotian areas along the South Vietnamese border.

Intelligence men estimated that North Vietnamese infiltration so far this year has been double what it was a year ago.

Demo Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats reportedly voted a policy stand today against any U.S. military aid for either Cambodia or South Vietnam.

The vote was reported to have been 188 to 50.

The vote is only 30 short of an absolute House majority of 218, indicating the House will reject President Ford's request for emergency aid for Cambodia.

The balloting came as Sen. Henry M. Jackson proposed that President Ford send Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield to China to meet with ousted Cambodian Chief of State Norodom Sihanouk in an effort to arrange a new government for Cambodia.

Mansfield indicated he was receptive to the idea.

Seek To Collect

Pitt County Commissioners have authorized the county attorney to proceed with attempts to collect a bid bond posted by a Charlotte building contractor who was low bidder for the general construction contract on the county's new mental health center.

Bids for the new facility were opened, and contracts awarded last month.

Kinsey Construction Co. was low bidder for the general contract with a bid of $264,847. However the Kinsey firm refused to sign contracts because an error of some $53,178 had been made in its bid, Hoyt S. Kinsey said.

Commissioners, earlier this month, awarded the contract to the second-low bidder, the M.E. Perry Construction Co. which submitted a bid of $325,000, after the Kinsey firm declined to sign the contract.

The Kinsey firm posted a bid bond of five per cent of the bid, or $13,242.

ARVN Flies Troops Into Battle Zone

Associated Press Writer

SAIGON, South Vietnam

(AP) — The North Vietnamese

overran a district town 40 miles north of Saigon today as helicopters ferried thousands of government reinforcements to a threatened provincial capital in the Central Highlands, the South Vietnamese command reported.

The command said Tri Tam, called Dau Tieng when the U.S. 25th Infantry Division defended it in the 1960s, was lost after a North Vietnamese infantry and tank assault that began Monday. The command claimed seven North Vietnamese tanks were destroyed. It said the fate of several hundred government troops was unknown.

Tri Tam was the 16th of South Vietnam's 244 district towns lost by the government since the cease-fire agreement two years ago and the closest to Saigon of those lost. Four others have been lost in the past five days. However, much of the region around Tri Tam was already controlled by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

Meanwhile, hard street fighting continued for the third day in Ban Me Thuot, the besieged provincial capital in the highlands 155 miles northeast of Saigon. The helicopter reinforcements raised the government's force there to about 5,000 men, but military spokesmen said the North Vietnamese still controlled parts of the city.

The Saigon command claimed about 700 North Vietnamese killed and two dozen tanks and a dozen giant 130mm artillery guns destroyed, mostly by the air force.

Field reports said many of the city's 150,000 civilian population had fled during the night.

The U.S. Embassy said nine Americans — an official of the U.S. aid program and eight missionaries — were still trapped in Ban Me Thuot but were safe and had enough food and water.

The Saigon command said another district town 60 miles southwest of Ban Me Thuot, Kien Duc, also was holding out against North Vietnamese tank assaults.

The Saigon command said there was also heavy shelling and hard fighting at a number of other points around the country, from along the Cambodian border in the Mekong Delta to the northern quarter.

Seized Power In Portugal

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portugal's leftist military rulers announced today that they are assuming permanent political powers following an attack by two air force planes on an artillery regiment near the Lisbon airport.

After an all-night session, the 200 officers of the ruling Armed Forces Movement announced that elections for an assembly to write a new constitution would be held as scheduled April 12. But they said they were setting up a new Revolutionary Council to "institutionalize" military participation in the country's political life.

The Communist party, which has one member in Premier Vasco Goncalves' cabinet, seemed likely to get the additional representation it has been demanding. The officers voted their full support to any changes Goncalves wants to make, and the premier in a broadcast statement said the "political analysis of the Communist party has always been correct."

$9 Billion Investment Fails Cut Flood Losses

By WILLIAM L. CHAZE

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $9-billion federal investment in flood control has failed to check a steady rise in flood damage, government investigators say.

A report to Congress says annual losses have increased over the past 40 years to more than $1 billion annually and may triple that amount by the year 2000.

Prepared by the General Accounting Office, the report says a serious roadblock to solving the problem has been the reluctance of most state and local governments to restrict development of flood-prone land.

The report says the problem

Near Accord On Control Over Utilities Finances

By ALVIN TAYLOR

Reflector Managing Editor

The Greenville Utilities

Commission and the City

Council appear to be on the way toward resolving questions about the amount of control each will exercise over Utilities finances.

First, Tuesday night, the commissioners approved

what was listed on its agenda

as a "modification of salary adjustment plan to conform with plan adopted by the City Council" on Feb. 20.

The plan approved by the Utilities Tuesday night calls for a five percent cost of living increase as recommended by the City Council and effective with the first pay period in February. The Tuesday action, however, limits the increase to a maximum of $600 annually to any individual employees.

Reportedly the council had been unhappy with a Utilities-approved plan for cost-of-living increases that was not in conformance with the city plan.

Then City Manager Harry Hagerty reported to the commission Tuesday night that the City Council had tabled any action at its March meeting on a resolution calling for a consolidation of the Utilities accounting system with the city's system.

Hagerty said the two bodies had met in a "workshop" session on the matter. There has also been a meeting between the city manager, city attorney, utilities attorney and the utilities director to discuss the legal questions and methods of consolidating the city and utilities budgets, as was done for the first time this fiscal year.

Hagerty said further meetings are planned and also that the attorney general's office and the Local Government Commission are being consulted on the legal questions of complying with the state Fiscal Control Act.

The City Council had voted in February to have a resolution drawn up for its March meeting calling for consolidation of the accounting systems of the commission and the city. The action last week tabling the matter resulted, however.

Greenville is unique among municipalities owning their electric systems in that the system is operated by a board of directors appointed by the council.

Utilities Director Charles Horne said the method of setting rates for natural gas by North Carolina Natural Gas is being disputed. Payment was made for November and December under protest. January and February payments were made based on the local utilities' computations pending settlement of the matter.

He also got approval for joining four other cities in seeking an investigation of municipal gas systems status before the State Utilities Commission.

Horne also expressed concern about a Legislative bill concerning billing, collecting and customer service by utilities and said comments had been sent to Electricities. Horne said the bill would create severe problems for the utilities and would not benefit the customer.

Commissioners took no action on a suggestion that budget bill policies be Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day, but the phone service is available 24 hours a day.

CASH SURRENDER

I've asked for the surrender value of a policy I've had with Life and Casualty of Tennessee for some time. I wrote the company and they referred me to a Rocky Mount agent. I wrote him, but have heard nothing. There is $300 involved. I have been faithful in paying the premiums and I think it is only fair that they pay promptly. W. M.

Hotline got in touch with Ralph Sheppard of Rocky Mount, who promised to begin work on the matter immediately. He said he had tried to reach you by phone, but hadn't been successful and was glad to learn from us the extra information he needed. You report you got your cash surrender in what you considered a reasonable time once the phone contact was made.

TRAILER REPAIRED

When our mobile home was being moved into our lot, the exterior metal was torn. Azalea Mobile Homes promised to fix it, but it's been over a year now and it's an eyesore and also leaks. G. S.

J. T. Williams, owner of Azalea Mobile Homes, said he did consider correcting the damage done when the trailer was moved his company's responsibility. He said several months were lost trying to get replacement sheet metal from the factory and that he found it would be necessary to have his men cut and form sheet metal to match the rest of your trailer's exterior. You report that he has now done just this and you are well satisfied.

Area Realtors, Builders Say Home Mart Good

By STUART SAVAGE

Reflector Staff Writer

The cost of almost everything seems to be going up. As the story goes, there doesn't seem to be enough pay check to last until the end of the month.

One of the biggest bites out of the budget dollar is spent for housing . . . either renting or buying a home. These too, are among the items that have increased in cost.

But unlike other areas of the state and nation, the home market—both new construction and the sale of old homes—in the Greenville area is good, most local realtors and home builders contacted in a survey over the past few days, say.

Realtor Jeannette Cox of Jeannette Cox Agency says business is "fantastic. . . it's been fantastic for us this year. The only time we've had a bad time was in December. The rest of the time, we've averaged (selling) seven to nine (homes) per month."

Sales, she said, are about evenly divided between new and old homes, with "homes under $50,000 selling better than anything else. Between $23,000 and $45,000 . . . that's where the market is right now," Mrs. Cox emphasized.

In the past five weeks, she reported, her agency has sold a dozen homes, and she expressed optimism about the future. "The interest rate is falling, and the best time for people to buy is right now, through the summer," according to Mrs. Cox, who predicted interest rates will go back up in the fall.

"People are actually looking for oil heat again, or the new heat pumps. . . moving away from electricity and gas. People are more concerned with what their utilities bill is running today, rather than their house payment."

Bill Clark of Lanco, Inc. said Greenville seems to be "in sort of a world of our own," with our "economy still very healthy," due to low unemployment and an influx of people and diversification of industry.

Predicting a housing storage in Greenville within the next three months, Clark said it is practically impossible to find an apartment to rent now.

"Our activity has been fairly good," he said, with Lanco sales totaling $617,000 (13 houses) since October 18, 1974.

And since January 1, "activity has picked up considerably," with "a lot of prospects in the mill."

Loans, up until January, were "a little difficult to get," Clark explained, but now loans are "readily available and at better rates." And he noted, "money is still coming down. Money is flowing back into savings and loans, and their terms and rates are much easier to deal with now. They are now soliciting for loans."

But according to Clark, "the major thing . . . peoples' confidence will be gradually built up as they see houses sold."

As far as new construction is concerned, Clark said the "new construction market has slowed" because of the "difficulty in getting construction loans." Although construction activity seems to be down for the Greenville area, it is not as bad locally as it is over much of North Carolina and the nation, he suggested.

"With the influx of people to Greenville, building permits should go up. A lot of apartment dwellers want to buy homes. When available, they will start buying," he concluded.

Bill Blount of Blount and Ball Realty Co., "can't see Greenville is suffering as much as some of the other industrial areas," of the state.

He termed the housing market in the Greenville area "more of a buyers market than a sellers market. We've made more sales in the past two months than in a comparable period last year," and emphasized, there is no trouble getting loans. "Savings and loans have money and are anxious to lend it out."

According to Blount, "I feel like sales are better than they were last year. . . October, November and December were the slowest periods we've had. 'Confidence in the economy seems to be picking up. We've sold 10 homes within the last six weeks to two months."

He said, however, that "people seem to be looking for deals . . . buyers are a little more selective than they have been in the past."

Another realtor, Louis Clark of the Louis Clark Agency said "sales are picking up very good . . . very good. Activity is very brisk."

Saying that the housing market is "very comparable" to the same period last year, Clark theorized that many people who have been renting are now looking for a home to purchase. They haven't been able to buy in the past year or so due to high interest rates, Clark explained. Rates, he continued, "are at a level where many people can afford to buy, now. And they are finding better buys now."

High School Devoted To Art Careers

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
High school classrooms that resemble movie sets ... advertising offices ... design and art studios ... rooms with students doing their own thing in graphics, architecture, cartooning, illustration, package design, sculpture, newspaper makeup and even theater arts, are all part of the scene at the High School of Art and Design in New York, the only high school "totally devoted to art careers," insists its principal, Irwin Gross.

There are 2,200 students who come from all five boroughs, some traveling two and a half hours to the school. "We get tremendous support from industry who supply us with many materials, equipment and supplies. In a way we are doing their training, supplying them with a labor pool."

"A tremendous number of films — and most documentaries — are made in New York. In addition, we are located in the heart of the art and communications industry where about 300,000 people may be employed in 7,000 different available jobs in the field of art, textiles and the like," Gross explained.

Four out of five students go on to professional schools or colleges, he remarked. What happens to the four — 80 percent of whom go to college — he doesn't know; in fact, he doesn't know what happens to the other one. They will soon find out — an alumni association has been established. One out of five graduates has a scholarship to college — last year they had four scholarships to the coveted Rhode Island School of Design, and one of their most talented students went straight to an advertising agency as its pharmaceutical artist.

One out of four youngsters is selected by the high school after he submits a portfolio and undergoes a test of art abilities. Passing grades must be maintained in the full course of academic subjects as well as creative classes — the most loaded class is advertising arts.

If students can't keep up academically, they attend, in addition, a remedial school where classes are smaller, "but no more than 20 students are involved," Gross says.

"Almost everyone teaching art has had 10 or more years experience in commercial art, a unique relationship to students that is not equaled in academic classes," Gross insists.

Begun in 1938 as the School of Industrial Arts, it has since moved and the name was changed about 15 years ago because of a misunderstanding of what industrial arts meant. "People once were afraid of terminology that implied getting dirt under the fingernails. There was also resistance from some parents. The popular conception was that you had to be something of a flake to be in the arts. New terms 'career education' and 'on the job training' are proving another kind of focus, he observed.

Gross, a painter in his 40s, who is currently having an art show of his own at a gallery, has been in education 25 years and has taught at every level from elementary school to university — Wayne State. He has been at the high school two years.

"With the possible exception of Rochester, I would guess there isn't a university anywhere that has our facilities which were initially provided us by the board to keep the students technologically abreast of the field."

For example, three enormous classrooms, similarly equipped, have 15 enlarging machines in cubicles, handsome temperature-controlled stainless sinks, large spotlights, floodlights, built-in studio niches and viewing areas all in the interest of photography, television, films.

There are no study halls. Eight periods include four 40-minute art or design classes. First and second years are devoted to introductory and exploratory courses.

"You go into your specialty in your junior year. In the senior year you have the opportunity to put together a portfolio that you can use when you apply to colleges or seek employment," said Nancy Potenzano, a 1974 graduate, now a media arts major, who was visiting the school on alumni business.

Creative Writing Winners Give Club Program

Winners in the 1974 Creative Writing Contest gave the program at the general meeting of the Greenville Woman's Club Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Ernest Holt read her winning lyric poem "Faith, Hope and Charity." Mrs. H. R. Phillips read her winning essay and Marjorie Jones, a third grader, assisted by her grandmother, Mrs. Hannah Warren, read several short poems "You Know What."

Mrs. J. L. Savage, president, conducted the meeting and Mrs. Preston Cannon gave the devotional.

The luncheon and fashion show sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club on April 12 was announced. Mrs. Clara Moye Shackle reported that a bake sale will be held March 15 at Overton's Super Market. Proceeds from the project will go to Girl's Haven.

Mrs. George Clapp gave a report on the District Arts Festival held in Washington.

The Arts Department will meet at the club house March 14 and Mrs. Edith Walker will be the guest speaker. The Home Life Department will meet March 18 at the club building. The International Affairs Department is continuing their study classes Monday evenings at 7:30.

Mrs. Mary Roscoe will be the new chairman for the Public Affairs Department, which will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Ovid Pearce will be the guest speaker for the Author's Luncheon scheduled for May 10.

Plans for the snack bar for the Sidewalk Art Show on April 27 will be formulated at the next meeting.

Engagement Announced

MS. CATHY HINES WORTHINGTON, is the daughter of Mrs. Frank Hines of Farmville, who announces her engagement to Thomas Alton Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Jarvis Campbell of Rocky Mount. The bride-elect is the daughter of the late Mr. Hines. The wedding will take place May 3.

DAR Plans Bicentennial Tribute To America

FARMVILLE—Major Benjamin May Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met Saturday at the Chapter House here. Hostesses were Mrs. G.W. Jefferson, Mrs. A.D. Holland III, Miss Christine Smith, and Miss Huldah Smith.

They were assisted by Mrs. Jefferson's daughters, Mrs. Robert Pierce and Mrs. Paul Burnett.

Dr. Emily Farnham, regent, introduced guests, Dr. and Mrs. Frank W. Eller, Mrs. Pierce and Mrs. Burnette. She welcomed Mrs. Carl Betts of Ayden as a new member.

The President General's message for the month was given by Dr. Farnham. In it, she urged all DAR Chapters to give consideration to a proposed "Bicentennial Tribute to America." The contribution suggestion, as made by the President of the United States Capitol Historical Society, is that the DAR provide a gift of ceiling murals for a corridor in the United States Capitol.

Dr. Farnham introduced the speaker, Dr. Eller, professor of science education, ECU. Dr. Eller is a native of North Carolina and has been at ECU since 1958. He did his undergraduate work at Catawba College, Salisbury, and received his doctorate from Columbia University.

His presentation was an illustrated program on eastern North Carolina, "From the Land of the Phamlyson." He explained that the word, Phamlyson, would be found in no dictionary or encyclopedia as it is a "made-up" name. It is Dr. Eller's designation of the area of North Carolina, east of Interstate 95.

Mrs. Frederick M. Tripp gave the National Defense report which was taken from the "National Defender."

Members were reminded that the NSDAR State Conference of North Carolina is being held in Charlotte March 11-13. Those going from the local chapter are Dr. Farnham, Miss Elizabeth Land, and Miss Nancy Lewis.

Mrs. W. Leroy Bass, chairman of the Junior American Citizens Committee, reported that there are five Junior American Citizens Clubs in Pitt County, and involve 150 school children.

The primary purpose of the JAC Committee, appointed originally in 1906, is to encourage the teaching of children of all races and creeds from kindergarten through high school the principles of good citizenship, its privileges and responsibilities, loyalty to the United States, respect for its flag, the history of the country and of its government.

The membership committee Chairman, Mrs. Arch J. Flanagan, announced that Mrs. Lucy Smith Lewis had been accepted as a member.

Mrs. J.O. Pollard, Chairman of the Grounds Committee, called attention to the newly redecorated Chapter House.

She announced that a meeting of the Board of Governors of the Chapter House will be held at Saturday, March 15, at 3 p.m.

Garden Club Holds Meeting

The Candlewick Home and Garden Club met today at the home of Mrs. John T. Clark.

The main topic of discussion was craft ideas, as plans for the fall bazaar get underway.

Members were reminded of the bake sale to be held Saturday at Pitt Plaza and also Downtown in front of Brody's.

The club recognized Mr. and Mrs. Dees Whitley for the donation of pine trees given the garden club for planting in Candlewick Estates.

When something is "smoother as glass," it's 300 times smoother than satin and 475 times smoother than silk.

Consult Doctor About Your Depression

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am truly desperate. Never in my wildest dreams did I ever think that when I became a mother it would be the loneliest time of my life. I am so depressed that I can't even communicate with my husband anymore, and he is tired of hearing it.

Abby, if I had even an inkling that motherhood was such a one-sided affair, I swear I would not have had a baby. I love my three-month-old baby very much, and I love my husband, too, but when does it all come together? It seems all I do is make formula and wash diapers now, and my husband and myself caring about each other comes last on the list.

Why did everything change so drastically? What I expected to be the happiest time of our lives has turned out to be a nightmare.

I have lost all my freedom, my husband (emotionally, so far) and my own identity. In spite of being a wife and mother now, I am still ME! I can't wait to go back to my job at the office.

I feel so guilty about the way I feel, but I can't help it. Please help me, Abby. I love my husband, but I have never been more miserable, and I don't want to lose what once was a good marriage.

LOST MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Please tell your doctor what you have told me. You are apparently suffering from "postpartum depression." It's not uncommon, and your doctor will help you get over it. Don't despair. Many new mothers have experienced the feelings you describe, but it need not last long.

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to "Old-Fashioned Mother" concerning her daughter and boyfriend practicing guitar in her bedroom gave me mixed feelings. They may not have been doing anything "wrong," but if allowed, the bedroom might get to be a convenient place to visit for a bit of privacy.

I am married now, but when I was in high school, I had a similar experience. A girl in one of my classes offered to teach me how to play the violin. She practiced in her bedroom, so that is where the lessons commenced.

Her mother came in and told us that she was going next door for a little while. Nothing "bad" happened, but I confess, I felt very uncomfortable the whole time.

I'm glad that in this case there were no more lessons. I might add that a year or two later this girl had to get married.

OLD-FASHIONED FATHER

DEAR FATHER: Your young classmate obviously did a little fiddling around. But why mistrust the entire next generation because of one violinist's accidental?

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for eight years and have two children. I used to have a really nice figure, but now I have absolutely no bust at all. I have been wearing padded bras so I'll look halfway decent in clothes.

I have been thinking about getting some silicone implants, but need to know more about it. How much does it cost? And how long does it take to fully recover from such surgery?

You see, my husband is going abroad for six weeks and I may want to surprise him with a new "me" when he comes back.

Hurry your answer, please.

CONSIDERING IT

DEAR CONSIDERING: The healing time varies with the patient, and the cost varies with the doctor.

Talk to your own plastic surgeon. I seldom offer unsolicited advice, but in your case I'll make an exception, and urge you NOT to surprise your husband with a new "you." If you're doing it for him, he may prefer the old "you."

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Wesleyan College A Precedent

The financial problems of North Carolina Wesleyan College in Rocky Mount illustrate the difficulties facing the private higher educational institutions of our state and throughout the nation.

It was announced by board chairman J. Phil Carlton that the school could be closed due to its financial stress. He said the board was seeking to have the state take over the campus and operate it.

The college was opened in 1956 with a lot of hope for the future. Substantial money was put into a physical plant and N. C. Wesleyan had the reputation of being a good liberal arts college. It was founded through the efforts of the people in the Rocky Mount area and the North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church. The conference, which supports two other colleges, says it simply does not have the funds to increase aid to N. C. Wesleyan.

A fund raising campaign has been initiated to keep the institution running even through this academic year, but apparently its hopes for continued operation rest with a full state take-over of the campus.

The UNC board of governors and the Legislature are now wrestling with the problem of how to increase state grants to private institutions, but apparently no matter what is decided it won't be enough to save N. C. Wesleyan as a private institution.

Making matters worse is the fact that there are rumors of other private institutions of the state being in severe financial straits, so whatever North Carolina does about taking over N. C. Wesleyan will have to be looked at as to what will be done about other private schools if they should fail financially.

The establishment of the UNC board of governors is beginning to look like a remarkable good idea. If the plan had not been proposed and successfully implemented by Gov. Bob Scott, something of a similar nature would no doubt have to be done now.

The N. C. Wesleyan situation should first be studied by the board of governors to determine if and how the institution can be fitted into the state system.

That will take some time, and certainly we all want to see N. C. Wesleyan saved, but it is a study that should be done and the UNC administration should do it.

A Real Course Urged

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Holshouser does not think a bill that would require instruction in the "free enterprise system" for North Carolina public school students is strong enough.

Holshouser's new secretary, Jack Childs, said Tuesday the governor wants students to be required to pass such a course before they can graduate from high school.

Childs said the governor is considering asking a legislator to introduce an amendment to that effect on the floor of the House this week. The bill, which has already won Senate approval, was unanimously approved by the House Education Committee Tuesday.

The bill currently would only add instruction in the free enterprise system to the list of required material for public school students that already includes five prevention, U.S. and state history, alcoholism and drug abuse and "Americanism."

It would not, according to Superintendent of Public Instruction Craig Phillips, require installation of a formal course in the curriculum.

Phillips, in an interview, said free enterprise principles are already taught at all levels of the public schools. He said the social studies curriculum tries to teach economic systems objectively, but probably presents the free enterprise system in "a more favorable light."

An examination of three standard texts used in the public schools indicated that students who read them learn about most established principles in the American economic system.

Each book, however, presents the American economy as a mixture of free enterprise and government management. Each points out various failures of the system.

But when a text makes mention of all of communist or socialist systems, it points out the advantages that the American

Bicentennial City Push

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Snug along the northern bank of the Pamlico River in Beaufort County, downeast, is a city named Washington in which the coming Bicentennial celebration is more than just a long name for a non-event.

Along the modern streets of the bustling, rebuilt waterfront city, people not only talk about history, but live it: just downstream is Historic Bath; further along, the Pungo River empties into the Pamlico and both flow into Pamlico Sound, stomping grounds of Blackbeard.

For Washington, 1976 is a double-barreled explosion: the nationally celebrated 200th birthday combines with the 200th birthday of the founding of Original Washington.

The first community in the nation to take the name of the leader of the American Revolution, Washington folk think their community ought by rights to be the state's officially designated Bicentennial City.

Bath, Too

Further claim to fame comes from Bath, also a

Beaufort County community: the oldest town in North Carolina, and the site of the oldest church in the state.

State Rep. Howard B. Chapin of Washington is carrying the banner for his hometown in the General Assembly, pushing for adoption of a resolution proclaiming Washington the Bicentennial City.

But like the waters of the Pamlico, all is not smooth sailing in the tides and eddies of the General Assembly. Chapin's resolution is running into ill winds: two other downeast communities are trying to get the same sort of designation, New Bern, and Edenton.

Further, once word gets around there will undoubtedly be more cities making claim to the title. The end result is likely to be a bevy of officially proclaimed Bicentennial Cities for sundry claims to fame, but Washingtonians persist in their strong argument for signal recognition.

"We are," states Chapin with considerable pride and emphasis, "the Original Washington." That's true enough. Let another ignorant Tar Heel from the Mountains (anywhere west of Durham) call it "Little Washington" as many are apt to do, and any Washingtonian within earshot will quickly straighten that error out.

Chapin, now retired, was a football and basketball coach and taught social studies in Washington before coming to the General Assembly for his freshman term.

Many Plans

Chapin says the title should fall upon his hometown because there is one of the few serious celebration efforts underway at this time. Starting six years ago, Washington began laying plans; before even the State Bicentennial Commission was formed.

"We took the initiative, we did not need to be prodded into action. We have a year-long series of events lined up, and restoration projects underway which would make a visit to Original Washington worthwhile for any North Carolinians," Chapin said.

The relaxed, cordial retired teacher ticks off little-known facts about Washington which make it even more interesting than the wealth of history: it was the birthplace of Cecil B. DeMille, famed film director; the home of actor Murray Hamilton; gave the nation Lindsay Warren and Herbert Bonner.

Next year's events are already pretty well set, with a host of celebrities taking part at various times. Each month will have a special theme, with churches leading the way in January, celebrities month in February, followed by observance of arts, beautification, waterways, fun, heritage, youth, the military, the harvest, industrial development, and a look to the future.

A Washington Bicentennial Medal has been struck—in silver or bronze—depicting the Washington family crest of arms, the commemorative dates 1776 and 1976, the slogan, "Original Washington—Pride in the Past; Faith in the Future," and a scene of the original Beaufort County courthouse, and the date 1636 to honor the founding of Beaufort County.

Building A Good Story

WASHINGTON—A group of us were sitting around the other night talking about Henry Ford's woes in Santa Barbara where he had been arrested for driving under the influence. Ford happened to be with a model from Grosse Pointe at the time, and his wife happened to be in Katmandu, at the coronation of the King of Nepal.

Our sympathies, of course, were with Ford, and we all started to speculate on how we would handle the situation if any of us were Henry Ford and our wife had just returned from Katmandu.

"Christina, darling, I have marvelous news. While you were in Nepal, I drove a 1975 Ford LTD from Los Angeles to Santa Barbara, and I got 18 miles to the gallon."

"I heard about it in Kat-mandu."

"Oh, you did? It was fantastic. You see, my people in Detroit asked me to talk to our dealers in California because business has been so lousy. And I figured since you were away it would give me a marvelous opportunity to jazz up sales."

"How thoughtful of you, Henry."

"Well, I happened to be at this party in Grosse Pointe the night before I was leaving, and my dinner partner, a woman from the area, said she would love to see the oil spills off the coast of Santa Barbara. She was one of those barefoot ecology nuts."

"What was her name?"

"I forgot it. But I've got it written down somewhere. Well, what could I say?"

"What did you say, Henry?"

"I said if you want to come it's all right with me, but I understand most of the spills have been cleaned up."

"And what did she say to that?"

"She said she knew of several coves in the area that were still covered with oil. Well, I was going out on the private plane and one person more or less didn't make any difference to me, so I said I guess she would come along."

"You're all heart, Henry."

"I didn't think anything more about it. Because I've been so upset about the economy, I can't devote my mind to anything else. When we got to L.A., I went right into a series of meetings and the woman went off to hear a lecture by Ralph Nader."

Other Editors Say A 'Must Item'

(High Point Enterprise)

With so many other tough nuts to crack, the General Assembly has thus far kept off center stage an issue which was broadly predicted to be one of the toughest of this session—a land-use control measure for the mountain areas of North Carolina. The 1974 session got a foot in the door on coastal land-use and immediately turned the spotlight on the fast-developing resort use of the mountains.

Just like the coastal areas, the ski resort areas to the south and west of Boone are developing in helter-skelter fashion that threatens their charm and future usefulness. In many areas there are no rules at all about what owners may do with their lands, an open invitation to the false-front, fast-buck crowd interested only in separating today's tourist from his dollar.

Like zoning rules before them, land-use controls have hordes of built-in enemies. Scare tactics, opponents talk in terms of confiscation, control by politicians and violation of the American right to own land and do with it what one pleases. The first is pure nonsense; the second becomes true only if local governing agencies fail to meet their own responsibilities; and the third overlooks the fact that in a developing society what one does with one's property is fine as long as it does not violate the rights of his neighbors.

Sensible development is, of course, for the long-range good of all. Uncontrolled development is often destructive of that end. The coastal system is not all that it should be, but it is an intelligent first step which coastal counties are learning simply prods their governmental units to do what they should have been doing all along.

We think North Carolina would be greatly remiss if it does not move determinedly to take that same first step for the mountain regions.

NEW YORK (AP) — Optimism about future job prospects has risen among independent and small business enterprises, according to a survey conducted for the National Federation of Independent Business.

The San Mateo, Calif., organization, which claims a membership of 410,000 businesses ranging from small shopkeepers to operators of concerns with multimillion-dollar sales, said the turnaround was noted in a recent survey.

"No panic is registered" by members regarding economic conditions, said Niel Heard, a spokesman for the organization, founded in 1943. "They appear to be concerned, but not alarmed."

Said Heard: "A lot of writers have phoned me with their mind already made up that small businesses are biting the dust in wholesale lots. Frankly, I can't find any evidence of this."

In addition to brighter employment prospects, he said that for the first time in 18 months the federation's members are more optimistic about obtaining financing, and that a growing percentage expect improved business during the next six months.

The data from which the federation draws its conclusions comes from surveys conducted by Faculty Associates, an independent research firm whose members include University of California and Stanford University personnel.

Heard said surveys reveal 20 per cent or more of smaller firms are actively looking for new workers but that most of the openings they seek to fill require skills.

Asked to explain how small, privately held businesses could weather the economic storm, Heard said one factor has been the "collapse" of some big corporate discount chains and other outlets.

"People, whether drawing wages or unemployment checks, still buy the necessities of life, and this business is now going to independents who have been able to stay open while their corporate competitors collapsed due to high overhead and often frantic financing plans," he said.

Hundreds of volunteer comments to the federation give perhaps a fuller picture than the statistics, said Heard.

"Many do not believe there is really a serious recession

A robbery of the Dickinson Avenue branch of the Home Grocery Store was frustrated by a patrolling policeman today.

Patrolman Mobley said he found the front door of the store open, but failed to find anything missing.

The staples in the door lock had been removed by the would-be thieves, who they were apparently frightened away when he approached.

A man was revealed today to have died in shackles hanging from the walls of a solitary confinement cell in Mecklenburg County, and a legislative committee plans to visit the prison camp and others like it to investigate other alleged cases of poor treatment.

Two other men allegedly suffered "frozen feet" and had to have them amputated after being confined in "solitary."

Strength For Today

PERPETUAL WAR AGAINST EVIL

Some people have the idea that when the devil is defeated at one point in the battle line, the war is over.

As a matter of fact moral progress comes from the continual, never-ending conflict with the forces that degrade human life. One generation confronts a moral problem and solves it. But the next generation must conserve that gain, and—what is more—confront the challenge of new situations about which their forebears knew nothing.

And so it is in our individual lives. We overcome a weakness only to find that we are confronted with the challenge of another weakness. We rise above one sorrow only to find ourselves saddled with something even harder to bear.

These burdens are laid upon us not because God has forsaken us, but because He loves us. A teacher who would never pose problems for school children would be a very poor teacher indeed. So it is with the Heavenly Father. When we have mastered evil at one point, he gives us the opportunity to march forward with renewed strength to overcome it at another point.

Dr. Lele, professor of experimental medicine in the Department of Mechanical Engineering, predicts that the computerized system will be ready for clinical use within 18 months. It will compare the absorption of ultrasound by dead and living tissue, to determine precisely which areas of the heart are killed by heart attack. (AP Wirephoto)

Rose High Students Form Service Club

The Anchor Club of J. H. Rose High School, about 25 members strong, is an organization of young people who are undertaking various projects for the benefit of their school and for the local community.

Their biggest area of endeavor is for Rose High—through various services to both students and teachers.

The Anchor Club at Rose High is sponsored by the Pilot Club of Greenville and is governed by the principles and policies established by Pilot International.

At Rose, Mrs. Leigh Ledbetter is faculty advisor for the Anchor Club. Mrs. Nancy Warren serves the Pilot Club Anchor Area leader for the Greenville area. The Pilot Club, is one of five international classified civic-service organizations for executive and professional women. The basic principles of both the Pilot and the Anchor Club are those of friendship and service.

As their current fund raising program, Rose High Anchor Club members are conducting a campaign to sell subscriptions to eastern North Carolina's regional magazine, New East. All proceeds realized will be applied to one of the Anchor Club's school or community projects. Persons wishing to give the young members assistance, and who may not be contacted by one of the members during the campaign, can still help by sending a subscription ($4.68) to New East, P. O. Box 727, Greenville with a note asking that credit for the subscription be given to the Rose High Anchor Club.

The Anchor Club drive will close on March 23.

BANDMAN DIES

MIAMI (AP)—Sammy Spear, 65, long-time orchestra leader and sidekick of comedian Jackie Gleason, died at his home Tuesday after suffering a heart attack. Spear, who played trumpet in the big band era for Tommy Dorsey and Benny Goodman, went on to form his own band, which became a regular feature on Gleason's network television show.

Soon Nabbed 2 Fugitives

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A man sentenced to death in the North Carolina gas chamber escaped briefly late Tuesday from the Mecklenburg County jail.

Larry Alexander Waddell, 19, eluded officers about an hour after he became the 67th person on the state's death row.

A police officer found Waddell hiding in some bushes a short distance from the jail. Patrolman D.R. Williams said he saw Waddell's feet sticking out of some hedges on the side of the street.

A second prisoner who escaped at the same time and was captured within minutes. William Eugene White, 17, sentenced earlier to 10-years in an assault case, was apprehended as he was climbing over a fence near the jail.

Sheriff Donald Stahl said the two men bolted and ran from an area in the center of the jail. He said they fled into a small office, where they brushed aside a female employee, and pushed a button opening a door to the outside.

Waddell was convicted of the first-degree shotgun murder of Alma B. Wood during an attempted robbery of Wood's dry clearing store last August.

their overseas branches are telling CIA headquarters in Langley, Va., that the practice must stop. The reason: they fear exposure by congressional investigators.

Moreover, the publicity impact on overseas undercover operatives is even worse than CIA director William Colby has indicated publicly. CIA station chiefs around the world are reporting to Langley that undercover agents fear for their lives because of possible congressional exposure and, therefore, are curtailing activities. Recruitment of new undercover operatives is impossible.

Problems caused by the investigations are not limited to CIA's covert operations. Invitations to bid for research projects are being shunned by corporations now chary about CIA links.

Darkhorse Ball

The newest, darkest but hardly the least qualified of Democratic presidential darkhorses is a Wall Street lawyer who has never run for public office: Former Under Secretary of State George Ball.

When mentioned by columnist James Reston as having presidential qualifications, Ball took it seriously and visited a political friend whose nationwide contacts in the party's dominant liberal wing are unsurpassed. He confessed to Ball that he and other liberals are not excited by present candidates and urged Ball to create an exploratory committee. Ball indicated he would.

While age (65) and anonymity are against him, Ball compares favorably with the Senate's stable of presidential hopefuls in qualifications and presence. As a senior partner of Lehman Brothers, he is respected in Wall Street; revealed as a Vietnam dove inside the Johnson administration by the Pentagon Papers, he is admired by liberals; as a native Iowan and former Chicago lawyer, he has Middle American roots.

It was a funny coincidence because, just before the call, our research people asked me if I would drive up there to test the mileage of the LTD with a new catalytic converter. As you know, Cristina, I hate to drive alone so I asked her if she'd like to come with me."

"And she accepted?"

"Well, it saved her the bus fare."

"It certainly did."

"Anyway we started driving up and I kept my eye on the gas gauge. I couldn't believe it! An LTD usually doesn't get more than 10 miles to the gallon, and this was getting 18. I was so elated we stopped at a McDonald's to have a hamburger and a bottle of champagne."

"I didn't know McDonald's sold champagne."

"They keep it under the counter where the kids won't see it. So then we took off again. And this is the real scary part. Something happened to the steering column on the car, and it kept weaving over to the wrong side of the road."

"Poor darling. You must have been frightened."

"Scared out of my wits. Fortunately, there was a squad car behind me and they helped me take the car to the police station."

"And the young lady?"

"She was terribly upset. By the time we got everything straightened out it was too late at night to see the oil spills. Well, that's it. You believe me, Cristina, don't you?"

"My grandfather was right."

"And what?"

"He said, 'Never complain and never explain.'"

Salability, according to Clark, "is about even between new and old homes," and "lenders are seeking qualified borrowers." What's ahead in the future? Clark sees a "limited supply of houses, with the maximum demand for houses this spring and summer...because so many people have rented and are getting ready to buy."

His agency has sold "12 to 14 homes in the past 60-days," Clark reported, describing those sales as "brisk."

David Evans Jr. of Garriss, Evans Lumber Co. took a different view-point, however.

"The news media," Evans said, "and the Daily Reflector in particular, have tended to give home buyers the idea that now would be a very poor time to buy, and this has turned off the consumer, when actually, now would be one of the better times to buy."

According to Evans, "the cost of building is at an all-time low, as compared to when the market does pick up." He said home builders are now "faced with customer resistance," and added that "I hope it will get better."

Evans, who explained that "personally, we haven't had a slow-down...we've been very lucky," indicated that Garriss-Evans builds primarily in a price range "not hit too hard...a lot in the $20,000 range." Houses "up in the $40,000 have been hit," Evans said.

Lily Richardson of Lily Richardson Real Estate Agency has a positive outlook.

"It really is great...sales really are," she emphasized. "Of course, they haven't been bad in our business. We've had a continuous increase."

And she added, "Greenville is a great place to sell. I think that we are unique in that sales of real estate are on the increase, while in other areas they are on the decrease."

She attributed Greenville's prosperity to "the new companies...industries, and the new medical facility that we are going to have...the university."

As for the building market—new construction—Mrs. Richardson said that's "great," too. "I guess we've had three in the past week."

There is "a great demand for all the homes...there's always a buyer." And, she noted, "we've got good money...no trouble at all in getting loans...and there's a demand for all different prices," with a lot of people buying now "between $20,000 and $45,000." Summing the market up, Mrs. Richardson exclaimed "it's a great year...fantastic...and I think things will keep improving...I know they will."

One builder, who asked not to be identified, said of the new construction market, "I think it's picking up. I think it will be a pretty good year this year. Money has eased quite a bit. You can get building loans now, and a lot of houses that were vacant have moved."

He noted that very few homes in the $65,000 to $75,000 price range are being built for speculation. Most speculation construction, he said, is now in the $38,000 to $47,500 price range.

"The sale of used housing has picked up a lot," over the past few months, Van Fleming III of Fleming and Associates, said.

"I'd say new construction is still good in the $20,000 to $40,000 range," according to Fleming, "while new construction from $50,000 up is off a whole lot. The price range has a lot to do with it (the market). People can't afford to pay for larger homes. Smaller homes are selling well."

Fleming said his firm applied for "seven or eight" building permits last week, "...all in the medium price range—$35,000 to $45,000. The faster selling houses are $35,000," he said, and foresees the market for "lower priced housing...getting better."

Joe Bowen of Bowen Realty and Loan Co. is in the housing loan business. He explained that FHA and VA interest rates have just been reduced.

"We anticipate that will certainly stimulate home sales," Bowen commented. "There's no problem getting home loans approved."

"In this area, there appears to be adequate conventional as well as FHA and VA funds for housing."

The bidding:

Opening lead: Ten of ♦.

"Give declarer enough rope and he will hang himself," says Tim Seres in his Bols Liquor Bridge Tip, the fifth of eight in the $1,000 competition. Seres, a Hungarian expatriate who has settled in Australia, is a master at this—few players in the game today have helped so many declarers cut their own throats.

North-South reached a no trump game in quick time. Since his hand was perfectly balanced, North saw no point in checking on a possible 4-4 spade fit, and simply made the value bid by jumping to three no trump.

West led the ten of diamonds, and looking at all four hands it seems impossible for declarer to go down. He has "on top" four spade tricks, one heart, two diamonds and two clubs. Yet one competent declarer failed in this contract when the hand was played in a major pair championship.

Declarer won the opening diamond lead and tested the spades. On the queen and king of spades, East casually dropped the jack and ten! Do you blame declarer for thinking that the suit was about to break 4-2, and that cashing the ace of spades would limit him to only three tricks in the suit?

South decided that his best chance was to continue with the low spade to his nine, hoping that he could later return to dummy with a heart. He then led the king of hearts from his hand, but East allowed it to win. Declarer next tried a finesse of the ten of hearts, but when that lost and a high diamond was returned, declarer could muster no more than eight tricks.

As Seres puts it: "When you can see that declarer is bound to succeed by normal play, look for a chance to give him a losing option. It stands to reason that, if you consistently give your opponents a chance to go wrong, they will sometimes take it!"

Symposium On Tobacco History Slated Mar. 20

A symposium on the history of the tobacco export trade and its impact upon North Carolina area urbanization and community growth will bring academicians and tobaccoists together at East Carolina University Thursday, March 20. Students of the history of tobacco and a cross-section of Carolina and Virginia growers, warehouse operators, processors, manufacturers, buyers and other interested persons will pool their knowledge of the tobacco trade in an effort to determine the many aspects of its impact upon North Carolina and Virginia. Dr. John Ellen, director of the ECU Institute for Historical Research in Tobacco, which is sponsor of the program, describes it "a unique effort to tell the story of the export trade associated with this great crop and to emphasize tobacco's importance to Carolinians and Virginians." The symposium program will include lectures and discussions on the story of the tobacco trade from the late colonial period up to the 1970's, and will embrace various aspects of tobacco leaf production and the export trade stretching from North Carolina to the Far East. Visiting authorities scheduled to appear on the program include Dr. Richard K. MacMaster of Bridgewater, Va.; Dr. Fred Siegel of Empire State College, Westbury, N.Y.; William S. Humphries of the NCSU agriculture faculty; and Dr. Orman E. Street, University of Maryland professor emeritus of agronomy.

Featured luncheon speaker is B. G. Andrews of the Tobacco Division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture Foreign Agriculture Service. The third annual program of its type at ECU, the symposium is funded by grants from the N. C. Humanities Committee and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

All symposium sessions will be held in the Thomas W. Willis Building Auditorium at the corner of First and Reade Streets. The only cost of attending the symposium is the charge for the subscription luncheon.

Further information about the symposium is available from Dr. Ellen at the ECU Department of History, telephone 758-6587.

Committee Is Hosted

FARMVILLE—Farmville Central High School honored the visiting committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools last night with a dinner at the school.

The dinner preceded a day of observation by the committee which is evaluating Farmville Central for reaccreditation. The committee, composed of state public instruction department members, teachers and principals, spent Wednesday observing classes as part of their evaluation.

The guests were welcomed by Farmville Central principal Russ Cotton and Student Government President Kenny Patterson. Individuals who spoke briefly included Mayland McDonald, of East Carolina University, Dr. Robert Holt, ECU Vice-Chancellor and Pitt County School Superintendent Ott Alford.

Entertainment was provided by the Farmville Central Choral ensemble, and the stage band.

N.C. Broiler Future Good

RALEIGH (AP)—Demand for broilers—one of North Carolina's top agricultural commodities—is expected to increase during the next several years, a North Carolina State University professor predicted.

R. Charles Brooks said rising demand will result from population growth, higher incomes and continued improvements in production and marketing methods. "Annual broiler production for the United States by 1980 may increase almost 20 per cent over 1973 output," he said.

Broiler production in North Carolina rose dramatically in recent years. In 1940, production was but four million birds. It jumped to 28 million in 1950, 157 million in 1960 and 309 million in 1970.

Since 1970, production has been between 290 million to 302 million birds a year, he said. Also, during the past decade, broilers have ranked second only to tobacco as a source of agricultural income in North Carolina, Brooks said.

Weigand To Be Speaking Friday

Dr. George R. J. Weigand, director of the East Carolina University Guidance and Counseling Center, will address a gathering of 600 North Carolina high school students in Greensboro Friday, March 14. The students will be delegates to the "Health Careers Clubs Congress" sponsored by the N. C. Hospital Association.

Dr. Weigand will speak to the group about orientation to college life and success in academic achievement. Other speakers at the weekend congress include representatives from medical, paramedical and health-related professions.

Organize UCYM At Meeting

Youth representatives from churches throughout Greenville met at Saint James United Methodist Church Sunday to form an organization called the United Christian Youth Movement.

The officers elected were: Clay Shugart, president; Margie Snell, vice president; Leslie Dickens, secretary; Kathryn Haynes, treasurer; Jim Lee and Lee Whitlock, ministerial advisors; Mrs. Charles Dickens and W. J. Sansbury, advisors. In addition each church appointed a delegate to UCYM.

The purpose of UCYM is to promote interdenominational, interracial co-operation in the Greenville community. Upcoming programs include a city-wide Easter sunrise service, support of the Community Ambassador project, a summer festival and a fall celebration.

Scientists Lacking Knowledge Of 'Slow Viruses'

Editor's Note — This is the first in a series of articles on diseases that can't yet be cured or prevented because scientists lack fundamental knowledge about them.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — "Slow viruses," they are called. For years they may slowly cause vague symptoms or "sleep" in your body until they waken to invade the brain, the nervous system or an organ, often disastrously.

Slow viruses may be one fuse that ignites some human cancers.

A slow-working measles virus 20 years later may cause the destructive nerve disease, multiple sclerosis.

By contrast, the viruses of polio, flu, the common cold, all strike rather quickly.

Medical researchers are frankly stalled in efforts to identify most of the slow viruses, as a first step toward controlling them. Yet they cause a significant amount of illness and death. No one knows just how much.

The slow viruses are one example of what may be called the "stalled diseases," meaning those in which there are roadblocks to full understanding of how they come about and how they can be cured or prevented.

Our two major killers, heart disease and cancer, are stalled in varying degrees.

So also are other diseases — some caused by viruses — which receive far less money for research and cure, but which impose an enormous burden of human pain, disability, and death upon millions of Americans.

Those to be described in this series are multiple sclerosis, diabetes, allergies, hepatitis, kidney diseases, and arthritis.

In truth, they are not completely stalled; there has been some heartening progress. But the frontal assaults to find cures or controls have foundered primarily for lack of basic knowledge of why and how these diseases occur.

Lack of research funds also has been a problem.

National Institutes of Health funds for research in cancer and heart disease have increased rapidly in this decade. For cancer, they rose from $190 million in 1970 to $527 million last year, and for heart disease and stroke, they have gone up from 176 million to $296 million the five years. In contrast, NIH budgets for research into multiple sclerosis, allergies, arthritis, hepatitis, diabetes and kidney diseases ranged last year from $4.2 million to $28.4 million.

Several hard questions are blocking major progress.

In one case or another, not enough is known yet about autoimmune diseases, in which the body's natural defenses become subverted to produce diseases rather than to prevent them.

Not enough is known yet about all the ways that cells and organs "talk" with one another, including through the genetic code; the way instructions sometimes go awry or are disobeyed.

Not enough is known yet as to how to grow and harvest a number of disease viruses, to identify them, perhaps to make vaccines with them.

Not enough is known yet about "receptor sites" in the body onto which hormones and vitamins and some drugs must latch in order to become effective. When receptor sites are missing, deficiency diseases can occur, such as rickets from inability to respond to vitamin D.

"There is a flock of such diseases, not a single one of them yet treatable or curable. And they won't be without further chemical and cell studies," says Dr. Dewitt Stetten Jr., deputy director for science of the National Institutes of Health.

Slow virus diseases are equally baffling. Some scientists consider them to be "incomplete" viruses that remain inactive in the body until something happens to supply the missing component.

Various bits of evidence link measles virus to the development later in life of multiple sclerosis, and another more rare nerve disease, subacute sclerosing panencephalitis, nicknamed SSPE. A fatal disease, SSPE strikes perhaps one in a million children or young adults.

In most cases, the SSPE victims had contracted measles in the first year of life, when normal immune mechanisms are not yet well developed, says Dr. Donald B. Tower, director of the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Stroke.

Four out of five Americans may be infected with another agent, the cytomegalovirus (CMV), which rarely causes illness in adults. When it does, it produces fever and swollen glands.

But unborn babies who catch CMV from their mothers are sometimes born with brain and liver defects, or babies who appear perfectly healthy at birth may some years later suffer from deafness or borderline brain damage.

A slow virus is suspected of causing Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease, marked by early and exaggerated senility with forgetfulness, slowed body movements, erratic gait, and mental deterioration.

C-J disease, named for its discoverers, occurs sporadically through the world, and tends to run in families. It can be surprisingly transmissible, Dr. Tower says, telling of a report of an eye operation in which a person who received a corneal transplant from a donor who had had C-J disease came down with the disease 18 months later.

The virus of the cold sore or fever blister, Herpes simplex, "hides" in body tissues quite harmlessly until something triggers it into action. The triggers can be sunburn, common cold or the onset of the menstrual cycle. This virus is so widespread that it might provide some insight into the behavior of other latent or slow viruses.

A major roadblock to understanding and controlling slow virus and other virus diseases is the inability, in many cases, to isolate and identify them, says Dr. John Seal, scientific director of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases.

As an example, he says that the virus causing "intestinal flu" with its penalties of vomiting and diarrhea, can be seen and identified. But all efforts to grow it in tissue culture, as a step to harvesting enough virus with which to make a vaccine, have failed so far.

Dr. Seal, in an interview, questioned whether it would be wise or feasible to try to develop vaccines against all the many flu-like diseases that come along in waves without killing people.

There are perhaps 100 rhinoviruses suspected of causing common colds, he said. Even if vaccines could be developed against all the 100, no one knows what adverse effects might follow the pumping of dozens of vaccines into people.

"Might there not be a boomerang effect, from sensitizing people to the agents you are injecting in vaccines?" Dr. Seal asks.

The question may become urgent when and if progress comes against the stalled diseases.

Grifton Bd. Agrees Finish Construction

GRIFTON — The Grifton Board of Commissioners last night agreed to complete construction work on the concession-rest room facility that is being built on the Grifton School property.

The facility, located on the athletic field, is being built in cooperation with the Grifton Recreation Commission and the Town of Grifton.

The project will cost an estimated $3,000, with $619 being paid with federal funds and the remaining money being paid by the Town of Grifton.

The board turned down a request that Dawson Street be opened from Church Street to Highland Avenue (old N.C. 11). The request stated the street should be opened because of the Contentnea Metropolitan Sewerage District lines but the board felt the request was not necessary for completion of the sewerage project.

The board approved the purchase of a flatbed dump truck and authorized Alton Clements, Clifton Gentry and Gene Coley to supervise the purchase.

The tax collector was authorized to foreclose on delinquent taxes.

Arrested For Home Break-In

William (Buddy) Hulon, 19, of 212 Gum Rd. and Steve Wendell Hulon, 20, of 209 Mumford Rd. were arrested on charges of breaking, entering and larceny yesterday in connection with a February 17 break-in at 1103 Van Dyke St.

Chief Glenn Cannon said that in addition to the two Hulons, Kenneth Leroy Nalley, 25, of Route 4, Greenville was arrested on charges of receiving stolen goods in connection with the same case.

Cannon said a television, valued at $150 and a tape player, valued at $300, were reported taken in the VanDyke Street break-in.

Bond for each of the three men was set at $500.

BOTANIC GARDEN

NASSAU, Bahamas (UPI) — The Nassau Botanic Garden, one of the Bahamian capital's newest attractions, has numerous species of semitropical and tropical trees, plants and flowers, nearly all of which are identified by nameplates.

Guthrie's Song All Over State

Throughout the state tomorrow thousands of Tar Heel School children will be joining students throughout the nation in singing Woody Guthrie's "This Land Is Your Land" as part of the first "Music in Our Schools" Day.

Besides singing Guthrie's song, students will take part in many special events.

Gov. James E. Holshouser Jr. has declared the day "Music in Our Schools" Day with a proclamation.

Two Arrested For Two Thefts Here Yesterday

Two Virginia men were arrested yesterday by Greenville Police in connection with the theft of money from two local businesses here during the afternoon.

Cannon identified the two as Willie Lewis Jr., 33, of Petersburg and Jacob Thomas Moultrie, 34, of Richmond.

Lewis was charged with larceny, and Moultrie with aiding and abetting in larceny in connection with the theft of $255 from the Etna service station on West Fifth St., about 4:15 p.m. Cannon said the money was taken from a cash register and from a box in a room at the rear of the station.

He said both men were charged with larceny in connection with the theft of $145 from Shoney's on Greenville Blvd.

Bond was set at $500 on each of the two counts against each of the men.

GUEST SPEAKER

Evangelist Carroll Harvey will be the guest speaker at the Christian Bell Study Hall Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

The church is located on Brown Street and the pastor is Elder E. M. Davis.

LOVE STUDY—Dr. Ellen Perscheid, a University of Minnesota psychology researcher, says social scientists need to know why people are attracted to one another. Her $84,000 research grant was criticized Tuesday as a "study of why people fall in love", by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis. (AP Wirephoto)

Developing Fresh Ideas In Transport

By ALINE MOSBY
PARIS (UPI) — Despite some spectacular failures, at least a half dozen countries in Europe are developing workable new public transportation systems in an effort to beat the energy crisis.

France, West Germany, Italy, Spain, Switzerland and Britain are working on about 100 new ideas for mass urban transport to lure people out of their polluting, gas-eating automobiles, according to a report just published.

It was prepared by the Transport Research Group, a private Paris organization that does research for governments, investment firms and industries.

The report says the majority of the proposed systems would cost too much, be unsafe, use too much energy or cause too much pollution.

But a half dozen are already working. About 24 others are judged by the report to have potential for the 1970s. Another dozen show promise for use in the 1980s.

"Our cities are being served by pretty much the same collection of transport systems that were in place 50 years ago," the report says, largely because of "savage criticism systematically leveled at new transportation as unrealistic and outrageously costly."

David Greenstein, an American engineer who worked on the transportation study, said, "One reason why cities have outmoded transport systems is because manufacturers are dragging their feet."

The current business crisis is urgent for manufacturers of equipment. Their lifeblood is cars but car production is down. They must start making mass transport or go out of business."

The report admits setbacks have discouraged many cities. "Toronto ordered the West German government-sponsored 'Transurbain,' a wheelless, silent streetcar that runs on a magnetic track. The 12-passenger cars operated successfully on German test tracks but ran into trouble after being put into actual service in Canada."

In 1971, Washington, D.C., estimated the subway system being built there would cost $6 billion. Now the estimate has doubled. A new subway under construction in Lyon, France, will cost three times the original estimate.

French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing quashed an anti-environmental and costly a plan to install the French electric Aerotrain on an air cushion track in a Paris suburb.

The Morgantown, W.Va., "personal rapid transit", private vehicles on guideways — "invariably gets slaughtered every time it comes up for discussion," the report said.

But it also lists the following "promising" developments:

—Tridim, the smallest of three French Aerotrain models being tested by the national electric company near Fontainebleau. Its electric motor and gear-teeth track are suited for cities or ski resorts. Tridim soon will be installed in the French ski resort Courchevel to eliminate cars.

—Vertobrate, a two-rail elevated Spanish train that runs on a Y-shaped guideway 20 feet off the ground. It is already working in the Canary Islands.

—Cabinex Taxi, made by the West German Messerschmidt firm, an enclosed electric car running on an elevated track. Another car runs underneath in the opposite direction so no parallel tracks are needed. No prototype has been built yet.

—L'Urba, a French air cushion, elevated streetcar run by electricity with no moving parts to wear out. Now being tested at Lyon, it still has "unsolved problems," the report says.

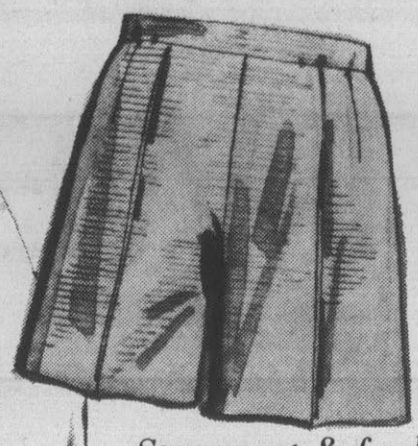

—Aerobus, a German-built 100-passenger cabin on a suspended cableway like a ski lift, is scheduled to go into service in Mannheim, West Germany, this year.

—Hitachi-Alweg Monorail, a Japanese-designed elevated car running on a guideway developed in 1951. The fourth version is being installed in 15 new sites in Japan.

Cities throughout the world are turning to new buses. This month Paris put into service three buses using natural liquified gas instead of the more costly diesel fuel or gasoline.

LaForce Auto Engine Getting Second Chance

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The LaForce automobile engine, catapulted to national attention and then relegated to obscurity within a few months, will get a second chance to show whether it can radically improve fuel economy.

A staff report published by the Senate Commerce Committee today recommended that new, independent tests be conducted on the controversial engine in an effort to resolve discrepancies among earlier federal, state and private tests.

The report said the Environmental Protection Agency, which flunked the engine last year, should test it again if the results are promising. The agency stands by its earlier findings but has agreed to follow the Senate investigators' recommendations.

"We are very pleased with the staff's recommendations and will do everything practical to follow them," said Edward LaForce of Richmond, Vt., who, with his brother Robert, developed the LaForce-modified engine.

But Edward LaForce indicated in a telephone interview that he is skeptical of independent laboratories and said, "We will have to find one that doesn't have a conflict of interest."

LaForce spokesmen previously have claimed that many labs receive funding from EPA and thus can't be objective.

The inventor also said his firm, Ventur-E Inc., is trying to raise funds to buy its own testing equipment to run the same tests that the environmental agency conducted.

The Internal Revenue Service seized the LaForce lab about 10 days ago for nonpayment of employee withholding taxes and has been making arrangements to sell the property. And three former employees have filed suit to force the firm to pay them back wages they say the LaForces owe them.

Edward LaForce said he is optimistic that he and his brother will have those problems ironed out soon and can go back to work.

Several years ago, Edward LaForce and some of his associates were accused by the Securities and Exchange Commission of fraudulently selling unregistered securities in a company that was developing a device they claimed could remove harmful emissions and improve mileage.

LaForce denied the charges but consented to an injunction barring further sale of the securities.

LaForce said in the interview Tuesday that he had been unable, until now, to give the securities commission enough technical information about the invention to register the company and sell stock to raise money for research and development.

"Now our patent problems are cleared up and we will be able to give the SEC the information they need," he said.

There are 39 islands in Rhode Island.

Flag Given St. Raphael's

Congressman Walter B. Jones presented a U. S. flag to St. Raphael School, Greenville. The flag was flown over the U. S. Capitol, Washington, D.C.

A flag raising ceremony was held Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. at the school. The ceremony was opened with the singing of "America" by the student body.

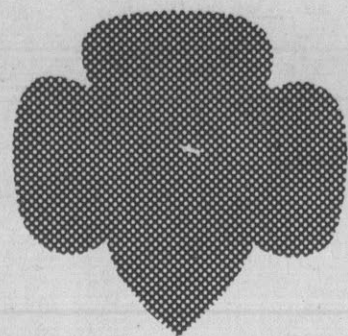

Fred T. Mattox president of the Home-School Association, presented the flag on behalf of Congressman Jones to Brian Kilcoyne, a representative of the student body. Kilcoyne gave an acceptance speech for Sister Cieta Marie, principal, faculty and students.

The flag was raised "by Kilcoyne and Robert Robbins followed by the Pledge of Allegiance and the National Anthem.

How Tar Heel Representatives And Senators Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON—Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Feb. 27 through March 5.

House
Depletion Allowance—Adopted, 248 for and 163 against, an amendment ending the oil and gas depletion allowance, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1975. If enacted into law, the amendment will terminate the tax provision which, in general, exempts 22 per cent of a producer's gross income from federal taxation. One rationale of the controversial allowance has been that it is an incentive for oil and gas exploration to offset the depletion of known reserves.

The amendment was attached to emergency "anti-recession" legislation (HR 2166) which will, if enacted, reduce 1974 and 1975 corporate and individual income taxes by roughly $20 billion. The bill was subsequently passed and sent to the Senate.

Supporters said current world oil prices have made the depletion allowance obsolete. The allowance is no longer needed to keep domestic oil competitive with cheaper foreign imports, which was the case in 1926 when the allowance was written into law, they argued. Rep. Charles Whalen (R-Ohio) said tax losses suffered by oil companies "will be offset by the price they now receive in the market place."

Opponents said the amendment would diminish exploration for new oil, especially exploration by the smaller independent oil companies, and that consumers would thus be subjected to higher prices. Rep. Don Clausen (R-Calif.) said it "reflects an emotional commitment to punish the so-called big oil companies." Some members opposed the amendment because, they said, its controversial nature might delay action on its much-needed parent bill.

Rep. Walter Jones (D-1), Ike Andrews (D-4), Stephen Neal (D-5), Richardson Preyer (D-6), Charles Rose (D-7) and W. G. Hefner (D-8) voted "yea."

Reps. David Henderson (D-3), James Martin (R-9), James Broyhill (R-10) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "nay."

Rep. L. H. Fountain (D-2) did not vote.

Tax Axe—Passed, 317 for and 97 against, an "anti-recession" tax cut bill (HR 2166) which seeks to stimulate the economy by cutting 1974 and 1975 corporate and individual income taxes by $21.3 billion. It reduces 1974 individual taxes by providing ten per cent rebates, not to exceed $200. Also, it cuts low-and middle-income taxes during 1975 and raises the 1975 investment tax credit for businesses from seven to ten per cent.

Supporters said poor Americans are hurt most by the recession, and thus deserve special treatment in tax-relief legislation. Rep. Thomas Ashley (D-Ohio) said HR 2166 is a "critical first salvo in our long-range battle to reverse the decline of the American economy."

Opponents said the bill would do little to spur the economy because it emphasized relief to Americans with little or no spending power. Rep. Robert Michel (R-Ill.) said, "If we are going to stimulate the economy we have got to do something for middle-income Americans... who are providing the lion's share of the productive capacity of America today."

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Rose, Hefner, Broyhill and Taylor voted "yea."

Martin voted "nay."

Interest Rates—Adopted, 367 for and 55 against, a "Sense-of-the-House" resolution asking—but not requiring by force of law—the Federal Reserve Board to lower long-term interest rates. The board was created by Congress in 1913 to administer and, to a large degree, regulate U.S. monetary policy.

"I am confident that the Federal Reserve will not want to frustrate congressional intent in carrying out its constitutional monetary duties," said one supporter, Rep. Henry Reuss (D-Wis.), Banking Committee chairman.

Many opponents agreed with the objective of lower interest rates, but objected to the resolution because it either lacked the force of law or did not acknowledge other causes of the economic crisis. "We are just kidding ourselves and the American public if we hold out

(the resolution) as a meaningful answer," said Rep. Leonor Sullivan (D-Mo.).

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Neal, Preyer, Rose, Hefner, Broyhill and Taylor voted "yea."

Martin voted "nay."

Andrews did not vote.

Senate

Rule 22—Adopted, 73 for and 21 against, a motion which moved the Senate closer to a final resolution of its disagreement over filibuster rules which had tied up the Senate for two weeks. As a result of this vote, the Senate was able to begin direct debate on S Res 4, a proposal to make it harder for a minority of senators to conduct filibusters.

Of the 12 technical filibuster-related roll calls conducted during the (Feb. 27-March 5) legislative week, this vote was regarded by supporters of S Res 4 as the most crucial in their effort to resolve the issue and move the Senate on to other business.

At the week's end, it appeared that the Senate would settle the issue by changing the rules to permit three-fifths of the Senate (60 senators) to cut off filibusters. Under present rules, extended debate can be ended only if two-thirds of those present vote to invoke cloture.

Supporters generally favored changing as soon as possible Senate Rule 22 to make filibusters more difficult to sustain. Opponents were against the proposed rules change.

Sens. Robert Morgan (D) and Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

Kite-Flying Contest Set

The Greenville Recreation Department is sponsoring an annual kite-flying contest on Saturday. Pre-registration begins 1:30 p.m. The contest begins 2:00 p.m. at Evans Park on Arlington Drive off Hooker Road. Everyone from grades one through nine are invited to bring a kite and compete for prizes.

Competition will be within three separate groups: grades one-three, four-six, and seven-nine. Prizes will be given to the highest and best flown box kite, regular kite, and bird or bat kite.

Prizes will also be awarded to the best home-made kite, the largest kite, and the most attractive balancer or tail kite. All kites must be flown to be eligible for a prize. No fishing poles are allowed.

For further information, call the Greenville Recreation Department at 752-4137, ext. 251.

In case of rain, the contest will be held on Saturday, March 22 at the same time and place.

Survey Slated For March 17-21

During the week of March 17-21, the U.S. Bureau of the Census will conduct its regular monthly survey on employment and unemployment in this area, according to Joseph R. Norwood, director of the Bureau's regional office in Charlotte.

Mrs. Jean C. Wilson of Grimesland will be the local interviewer.

In addition to the usual questions of current employment, the March survey will have questions on the work experience and income of household members last year, and whether they have moved since the 1970 census was taken.

Opponent Says ERA Deprives Women Of Pedestal

By CATHY STEELE ROCHE
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—An opponent of the Equal Rights Amendment for women accused "liberals and radicals" Tuesday of trying to rob women of their "pedestal."

Patricia Howell, public relations director of the Wilson County Speedway, said she has made it in a man's world and welcomed the discrimination she has encountered along the way.

"I want to have the respect afforded me," Mrs. Howell said. "I am in a man's world, but every courtesy has been given me. I ask for this discrimination to continue."

She was one of 28 ERA opponents who testified before the House Constitutional Amendments Committee in a public hearing on ratification of the federal amendment. Thirty-four states have ratified the Equal Rights Amendment and four others must approve it for it to become the 27th amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Opponents told the committee that the amendment violated God's laws, would disrupt family life and would hurt the status women now enjoy under the law.

Speeches against the amendment continued for two hours, one hour longer than the allotted time and by the time the hearing ended only a handful of legislators remained. The legislative auditorium was crowded with women wearing bright red Stop ERA buttons and the crowd spilled out into the hall and the Senate gallery.

Busloads of ERA foes came to Raleigh for the hearing and they roamed the halls of the legislature and watched the sessions from the galleries before the hearing.

Dorothy Slade of Reidsville, chairman of the North Carolina Stop ERA group, promised that opponents would continue to make their presence known at the legislature, even if the amendment was ratified this session.

"If it is ratified this time, you can be sure we will be right back down here asking you to rescind," Mrs. Slade said.

Mrs. John Matthews of Rocky Mount, head of North Carolinians Against ERA, told the committee that a total of 37,000 signatures have been collected on petitions against ERA in North Carolina.

Several ministers spoke against the amendment, citing Biblical references to a woman's place in the home, subject to her husband.

The Rev. J. Malloy Owens of St. Marks United Methodist Church in Raleigh said the amendment would threaten churches by requiring them to ordain women. He said churches could lose their tax exempt status if they violated the amendment.

"If we refused to marry two men or two lesbians to one another, would we then be placed in court and deprived of our tax exempt status as churches? I believe we would," The Rev. Owens said.

The Rev. James Loy of Raleigh said the Equal Rights Amendment represented "a radical, immoral social philosophy" and called it "pseudo intellectual witchcraft."

The Rev. Loy said ERA proponents believed marriage is a trap, men are "oppressive sex maniacs," children are "a mistake, an imposition and a nuisance," and that all sex is "rape."

Nancy Drum of Winston-Salem, chairman of ERA United, the coalition of groups supporting the amendment, said after the hearing that proponents planned no rebuttal. She said she did not think legislators would take the opponents' arguments seriously.

The opponents' arguments included the charge that ERA is Communist. Janine Johnson of Raleigh said Communists favor ERA because it would divide families. She drew enthusiastic applause and an "amen sister" when she said divisiveness produced by the amendment is "the way Communists can flourish in this country."

The Constitutional Amendments Committee, chaired by Rep. Hartwell Campbell, D-Wilson, will continue consideration of the amendment next week. Former U.S. Senator Sam Ervin, D-N.C., is scheduled to address the committee March 10.

Ervin led the floor fight against ERA in the Senate. Rep. Herbert Hyde, D-Buncombe, predicted Tuesday that the bill would get out of committee and be approved by the House.

Bighorn Sheep Again In Canyon

HELLS CANYON, Idaho (AP)—There are bighorn sheep in Hells Canyon for the first time since before the coming of the white man.

The Idaho Fish and Game Department and the U.S. Forest Service have planted a dozen of the wild and timid game animals from the edge of the Idaho Primitive Area to the area of the mile-deep canyon between Idaho and Oregon.

The transfer took two days, but was two years in the planning stage. Biologists found that archeologists digging in Hells Canyon, the deepest gorge in the nation, had discovered bones of bighorn sheep, indicating that early Indians in the canyon used them for food.

The game biologists studied the habitat and food in the canyon and then investigated ways of moving the animals without harm.

Finally a crew went into the 17-below-zero cold of the Panther Creek Drainage near Salmon to trap the wary mountain animals. A biologist watched from a far tree as a small herd of sheep moved toward a wire mesh trap baited with alfalfa. The trap had been there two months to allow the sheep to get used to it.

As the biologist watched through his binoculars, several sheep moved into the trap, but there were no rams. The same thing happened the second morning, but this time there was a ram with a healthy half-curl to his horns.

When there were nine ewes, two lambs and the ram in the trap, the biologist set off blasting caps that held the trap open and the door slammed shut.

Biologists said the sheep leaped in every direction, hitting the mesh and threatening to break out of the circular trap. The game workers frantically reinforced the trap with ropes, then dragged the sheep and tied them up.

The men then had to get the sheep as quickly as possible to Hells Canyon, more than 700 miles away. Senior research biologist Bill Hickey, game biologist Walt Bodie and Dean Jackson of the Bureau of Engineering went without sleep more than 55 hours to get the animals to their new home.

Each sheep was tagged with a toboggan and slid down a snow-covered hillside to a road and loaded onto a covered truck. The men drove 30 hours to get the animals to the other side of the state to Hells Canyon Dam.

The sheep were then hog-tied again and put in wooden crates. The crates were lashed to the sides of a helicopter and carried to their final release point in the impassable country down the Snake River from the dam.

Each sheep was tagged. Some carried radio collars around their necks to keep track of their movements. Regional biological Paul Hanna and game manager Chuck Jensen will follow the radio signals. Biologists will fly over the canyon each week to see where the animals have gone to set up housekeeping in their new home.

Scouts Join Committee

Three Eagle Scouts of Pitt County have been added to the usually all-adult committee for "Scout-O-Rama '75" which is scheduled for the National Guard Armory on March 22 at 2 p.m.

Charles Thomas, Edward Garvin and Melvin Johnson will be assisting in the layout and operation of the show. Johnson is planning the operation of the Pinewood Derby championship races while Garvin and Thomas are working with the Space derby and the general layout.

Recent additions to the list of display subjects are the Merit badges on Firemanship and Fingerprinting. Another recent addition to the layout plan is a complete troop campsite layout as is done in Camporees and long-term unit camps.

Deleted from the layout plan is the proposed artificial canoeing area. This exhibit proves to be too expensive, District Scout-Executive Ken Davis said.

LWV Meetings Announced For March

Barbara Caspar, first vice-president of the Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters, announces five planned events for the remainder of the month of March. All of the listed meetings are open to the public.

The events are: March 13, 8 p.m. 1608 S. Elm Street, a membership coffee.

March 15, 10:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m., Pitt Plaza, a used book sale. (If a rain date is necessary, this will be on March 22 at the same hours).

March 18, 8:00 p.m., Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church, International Relations, Year of the Woman.

March 25, 8:00 p.m., 316 Crown Point Road, and March 26, 10:00 a.m., 204 Cherrywood Drive, both meetings on the topic of environmental quality.

Gave Program For Collectors

Ronnie Moyer presented the program at the meeting of the Greenville Collectors Club held Monday night at the home of Francis Belcik.

He spoke on kites and their history. Moyer assembled a giant bird kite for the group. Belcik gave a mini program on monochrome and polychrome china.

A trip was planned for Sunday, March 23, to attend a flea market in Suffolk, Va.

Convicts at the Huntsville, Tex., state prison hold a public rodeo on weekends in October.

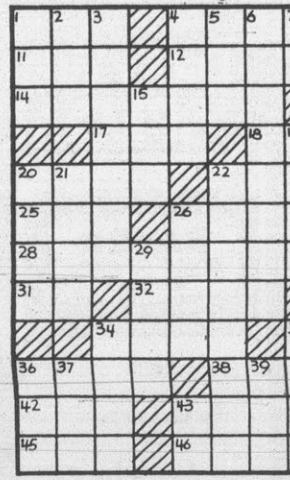

Community Sing March 18

D. H. Conley High School will sponsor a community singing at the school Tuesday, March 18, at 8 p.m.

Advance tickets are on sale for 50 cents and tickets may be purchased at the door.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Cotton quotations were steady Tuesday on the Charlotte market. Quotations for staple lengths of 1-1-32, 1-1-16 and 1-3-32 inches respectively were: middling 39.75, 41.25, 41.50; strict low middling 38.25, 39.75, 40.00; low middling 34.00, 36.00, 36.25; strict low middling light spotted 34.25, 36.25, 36.50.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets were stronger, supplies about adequate and demand good.

Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs delivered in cartons to nearby outlets: grade A large whites 68.77, medium whites 62.04, small whites 45.89.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Corn and soybean prices were sharply higher on North Carolina's leading grain markets Tuesday. No. 2 yellow shelled corn was quoted at 2.70-2.93, mostly 2.88-2.93 in the East and 2.65-2.90 in the Piedmont. No. 1 yellow soybeans were 5.15-5.41, mostly 5.35-5.41 per bushel.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hog market steady to 50 lower today. Wilson 38.00-39.00; High Falls 37.25-38.25; Rocky Mount 38.50-39.00; Kinston 38.50-39.50; Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Elizabethtown, Pink Hill, Pine Level, Chadbourn, Ayden, Laurinburg and Benson 39.25; Salisbury 38.50.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina broiler market steady today with firm undertone. Supplies barely adequate, demand very good. The North Carolina FOB dock weighted average price for less than truck lots of sized plant grade broilers to be picked up at docks this week is 40.36 cents per pound. Estimated slaughter today totaled 1,084,000 head.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market settled back in profit taking today and the pace of trading slowed.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 4.38 at 766.51. Losers held a 3-1 advantage over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Most of the declines came in the first half hour, with the Dow falling more than 7 points in a spillover of the selling that appeared late in Tuesday's session.

"I think this is a normal reaction after a very large gain," said Newton D. Zinder at E.F. Hutton & Co. "The market has come a long way in a very short time."

After the initial setback, the market firmed somewhat amid

Cherry
SALTER PATH — Funeral services for Mrs. Ola Bell Cherry, 52, will be conducted Thursday at 3 p.m. at Salter Path United Methodist Church by the Rev. Foster Reynolds and the Rev. Henry Frost. Burial will be in Gale's Creek Cemetery.

Mrs. Cherry died Tuesday in Carteret General Hospital. She was a Greenville resident for 37 years.

Surviving her are her husband, Paul Cherry of Greenville; her father, George Eddie Nixon of Salter Path; two sisters, Mrs. E. L. Baysden and Mrs. Harold Jones, both of Salter Path; two brothers, Jessie and Elmer Lee Nixon, both of Salter Path.

Davis
FALKLAND—Funeral services for Mr. Edgar E. Davis, 62, were held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. Marshall Tredway. Burial was in the Falkland Cemetery. Mr. Davis died in North Carolina Memorial Hospital Friday.

Gibbs
Funeral services for Mrs. Emma L. Gibbs of 114 Acton Place, Farmville, who died Saturday in Wilson Memorial Hospital, will be conducted Thursday at 2 p.m., from the St. James Free Will Baptist Church, with her pastor, Rev. T.T. Platt, officiating.

Burial will follow in Sunset Memorial Park.

Mrs. Gibbs was a native of Spring Hope, but had made her home in Farmville for many years. She was a member of the St. James Free Will Baptist Church, where she served as a member of the Senior Choir.

She is survived by two sisters; Mrs. Rebecca Tyson of Farmville, and Mrs. Jublin Howard of Spring Hope.

The body will be at Joyner's Mortuary after 6 o'clock tonight. Visitation hour will be tonight from 8 to 9 p.m.

The family will be at the home of Mrs. Rebecca Tyson, 105 Acton Place, Farmville.

McCarthy
Mr. John J. McCarthy, 55, died at Pitt Memorial Hospital Tuesday. He resided at 1406 Polk Avenue.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 a.m. Thursday at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by Father Maurice Spillane. Burial will be Maplewood Cemetery in Wilson at 12:30.

Mr. McCarthy originally from Staten Island, N.Y., lived in Wilson for a number of years prior to moving to Greenville 13 years ago. He was a member of St. Peter's Catholic Church and had been employed at East Carolina University as a policeman.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Juanita Langley McCarthy; a son, John Joseph McCarthy Jr. of Greensboro; a daughter, Miss Alice McCarthy of the home; and two grandchildren.

The family has suggested that those desiring to make memorial contributions consider the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities, P. O. Box 6398, Greensboro, N. C. 27405.

eliminated, pending a poll of the 40 customers taking advantage of the service. Budget billing allows all electric customers to pay an average amount each month with a final settlement for any excess at the end of the 12-month period.

Commissioners approved a request of the City Council for authority to institute civil action to collect bills up to $5,000. Horne said the action would make it simpler to collect damages, as in the case of a utilities pole being broken by an auto.

The commission approved the request of Bank of North Carolina to be designated as a depository for the GUC clearing account. A similar request by Branch Bank and Trust Co. was not acted upon on grounds that the bank was not located within walking distance of the Utilities office downtown.

Commissioners approved an amendment to engineering fees for the projected water plant with the stipulation that an accounting be received of time involved in the studies.

Horne reported that water, sewer and electric relocations will have to be carried out on N. Memorial Drive in connection with the dual laning of the road. Additional pipelines are projected for the new bridge. The road project is expected to get underway this spring.

Commissioners approved bids for two transformers costing $5,636, one at $2,692 and one at $1,959, with the RTE company submitting all low bids.

A low bid by Whitehurst and Sons Fence Co. of $3,204 for fencing the ECU electric substation was approved.

Commissioners also approved a proposal of $1,800 from Lann Corp. for converting magnetic ledges to cassette tape.

NEWTON, Conn. (AP)—The attic walls of an old house have yielded dozens of cartoons sketched more than 40 years ago by humorist James Thurber.

Frumpy, stooped men march along one wall on their way to fish. Nearby, a dog takes a typical Thurber-dog nap in a chair.

Some of the characters have names — presumably people and animals the humorist knew when he lived in the house from 1931 to 1934.

"My husband was up in the attic trying to figure out where the old staircase went," said Catharine Coster, who with her husband, Allen, now occupies the home.

"He pulled layers and layers of wallpaper off the attic walls looking. And then suddenly he found the pencil sketch entitled, 'The Life of a Dog.' He was so excited he woke me up at 6 o'clock in the morning."

Careful stripping of additional paper bared three walls covered with cartoons, although some are faint and hard to see.

Helen Thurber, the humorist's second wife, said the attic was his writing room and there is "no question" that he did the wall cartoons — "He always did drawings on people's walls."

The Costers believe Thurber wrote several books in the room between 1931 and 1933, including "The Owl in the Attic," "The Seal in the Bedroom," and "My Life and Hard Times."

The Costers want to share their find with the public, but the narrow winding stairway makes the room nearly inaccessible. They are considering moving the plaster walls to a library, possibly at the Department of Thurber Studies at Ohio State University.

In what may have been a very personal panel, Thurber drew an aggressive woman thrusting a flower toward a cowering, small man with the caption, "Rosemary-for remembrance."

Thurber divorced his first wife in 1935. They had a daughter, Rosemary.

"Daniel and his gang going fishing at Riverside" depicts four men marching single-file beneath a fluffy cloud.

One of the largest scenes shows "The Newtown Clown Band," five men in clown suits. One is playing a piano, another a drum, a third a horn and a fourth a banjo. The fifth is just sitting on the piano.

Thurber, who died in 1961, illustrated his stories with similar caricatures. His best known work was the short story, "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty."

Appeals Court Decides 'Fling' Is Not Adultery

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Moon Ho Kim had a wife in Korea and a mistress in the United States. Was he committing adultery? No, says the U.S. Court of Appeals.

Appeals courts are not often arbiters of such questions, but it became important in Kim's case.

Kim was a Korean national who was allowed to enter the United States to attend Roosevelt University in Chicago.

After he completed his studies, the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service sought to deport him, but Kim asked to be allowed to leave the country voluntarily. Deportation would mean he can't come back to the United States. Voluntary departure means that he may.

Enter the other woman, Sue Hyun Chai. She testified at his deportation hearing that Kim had lived with her as man and wife in Los Angeles and Chicago. She said that relationship lasted until the true Mrs. Kim arrived in this country.

The appeals court said that raised the issue of whether Kim "was a person of good moral character" as required for voluntary departure permission. The court searched state laws for a good definition of adultery.

"A number of states follow the common law rule that adultery depends upon the married status of the woman without regard to the marital status of the man," the court said.

"Others require open and notorious cohabitation. Still others have adopted the ecclesiastical rule that only the married party to the extra-marital relationship is guilty of adultery."

And still others, signed the court, "hold that adultery is committed if either party is married."

Because of this "patchwork standard" the judges rejected these various state cases and adopted this definition from an earlier federal case: Adultery is "extra-marital intercourse which tends to destroy an existing, viable marriage, and which would represent a threat to public morality."

How does that apply to Kim? Kim's "relationship with another female was not one that tended to destroy his marriage, for it only existed while he and his wife were living, for some years, in different countries," the court ruled.

Furthermore, said the judges, there is nothing to show Kim's conduct was a threat to public morality because "there is no evidence that the public, or any portions thereof was aware of any immoral conduct on the part of (Kim) and the unmarried woman."

Guilty Plea By Stans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans pleaded guilty today to five misdemeanor counts of violating campaign laws while he was chairman of Richard M. Nixon's 1972 re-election finance committee.

He was the third member of Nixon's Cabinet to plead guilty or be convicted of criminal offenses in the post-Watergate era.

Although he pleaded guilty, Stans said his violations of the campaign laws were unintentional.

"In each of these transactions I made a good faith judgment at the time that the Finance Committee was complying with the law, but it now turns out that was not the case," Stans said in a prepared statement outside the courtroom.

Stans could be sentenced to one year in jail and a $1,000 fine on each count but that is considered unlikely. U.S. District Judge John Lewis Smith asked for a presentencing report and did not set a date for sentencing.

East Carolina University and Arizona will open up the second annual National Commissioners Invitational Tournament Thursday at 7:05 p.m. at Freedom Hall in Louisville, Ky.

And Coach Dave Patton feels that it will be as great a challenge as the Bucs have faced this year.

"They are ranked 14th in the country by Basketball Weekly, and they're on both of the major wire service polls," he said. "We're listed as number 55 by Basketball Weekly, so you can see that we've got our work cut out for us."

The Wildcats, along with Southern California and Tennessee appear to have been established as the co-favorites in the annual battle of the runners-up. This year, since some conferences have two teams invited to the NCAA, the Commissioners' entry is the third team.

But the field is still a good one. Arizona brings in a 20-6 record, while the Pirates are 19-8. Playing in the same bracket with them, but slated for 7:05 p.m. Friday are Missouri of the Big Eight (18-8) and Purdue of the Big Ten (16-10).

The other bracket has Southern California (18-7) of the Pacific Eight meeting Drake of the Missouri Valley (16-10) Wednesday at 9:05 while Tennessee of the Southeastern (18-7) collides with Bowling Green (17-9) of the Mid-American at 9:05 p.m. Friday.

Semifinals will be held on Saturday, with the finals at 1:10 p.m. Sunday, telecast over the CBS television network.

Patton said that the Wildcats will be one of the bigger teams faced by the Bucs this year. "They're 6-10, 6-8 and 6-9 across the front, and they try to get the ball inside to these guys. I've been told by some that they don't like to run." Another report, however, is that the 'Cats do like a running game.

"Our biggest problem is going to be getting the ball off the boards to start our fast break. And we'll have to shoot a good percentage so we won't have to worry too much about second shots."

Patton is hopeful that the Pirates won't play like they did in the semifinals of the Southern Conference tournament when they were upset by William & Mary. "Despite that, I'm extremely proud of our guys. They are to be commended for the year they've had. I've talked to all of our players individually and they're all looking forward to this trip."

The Buc coach called the tournament entries "pretty class competition. Not many teams get to play this type opposition," he said.

The two teams didn't play a common opponent, but there is one bond between them. Earlier this year, Arizona played in the Old Dominion Classic at Norfolk, losing to California, 84-82, in the first round. Host Old Dominion then downed California, 97-73. Later in the year, the Bucs topped the Monarchs, 71-69.

The Bucs will take 12 players with them, but Patton isn't sure who he'll start. "We're going to have to play better defense than we have lately," he said. "We've got to be more aggressive and we have to rebound well. When you get into class competition like this, there are no easy games. We respect everyone in this tournament, but we're not afraid of any of them."

"This tournament will mean a lot of prestige for us, just by being there. It's an honor to be in this group, and a boost for our program. I just hope we can represent East Carolina and the Southern Conference well."

Arizona, the runner-up in the Western Athletic Conference, has posted its best record in 24 years under the leadership of Coach Fred Snowden.

Chief among their players is 6-8 junior Al Fleming, whom Snowden calls a true All-American. He's averaging 20 points a game, and leading the WAC in rebounding with 12.1 per game.

In addition, he's hitting 56.9 per cent of his shots from the floor. And that's a comedown from last year, when he tied the NCAA single season record of Lew Alcindor of UCLA (now Kareem Abdul-Jabbar) of 66.7 per cent.

Despite all this, 6-10 sophomore Bob Elliott is the leading scorer with 22.8 points a game. Jim Rappis, a 6-2 junior, is the only other scorer in double figures with a 12.9 average.

Overall, the team is scoring 81 points a game, while allowing just 73 per cent. They are pulling down 47.8 rebounds a game, as compared to 39.9 for their opponents, making them one of the tops in the nation in rebounding. From the floor, they are hitting 48.4 per cent, while making 65.9 per cent from the line.

Another help for them will be the return to action of 6-5 Herman Harris, who, in limited action, has averaged 6.9 per game.

East Carolina, on the other hand, is led by Gregg Ashorn in scoring with a 14.9 point average. Robert Geter is at 11.9, while Larry Hunt holds an 11.4 mark.

Hunt leads the team in field goal percentage at 59.0 per cent. He's also the leading rebounder at 10.2.

The Bucs are scoring 84 points a game, and allowing 77.6. They've hit 49.4 per cent of their shots from the floor, and 67.9 from the line.

In overall rebounds, the Bucs are pulling in 44.7 and losing 40.7 per game.

Buc Wrestlers In Nationals

Seven members of the East Carolina University wrestling team will travel to Princeton, N.J., March 13-15 to compete in the NCAA National Wrestling Championships.

The Pirate wrestlers qualified for the event by finishing in either first or second place in the Southern Conference Wrestling Tournament held earlier in Richmond, Va.

The Pirate matmen finished 25th last year with eight points and are making their fifth straight appearance in the finals.

Pirate head wrestling coach John Welborn has been very pleased with the progress of his team throughout the season and is confident that some of his wrestlers will place in the tournament.

"I thought we had an excellent season since we were really going through somewhat of a rebuilding year," said Welborn. "Anytime you can place wrestlers in the NCAA finals it's a real accomplishment. I just hope that we will give a good account of ourselves and have some individual that will place high."

Danny Monroe (126) will be making his fourth appearance in the NCAA finals while juniors Tom Marriott (142), Ron Whitcomb (167), and Mike Radford (190) have recorded the top individual records for the Pirates this season.

Jim Blair (118), Paul Thorpe (150), and Willie Bryant (Hwt.) are also strong contenders in their weight classes.

"I think every one of our wrestlers are capable of placing in the tournament and if they get some lucky breaks as far as seedings go, a couple could really do well," said Welborn. "Blain, Monroe, Marriott, Radford, and Bryant all have had previous NCAA Tournament experience. They will be able to handle the pressure a little bit better and consequently should wrestle up to their potential."

Ayden-Grifton Tops Kinston

KINSTON—Ayden-Grifton evened its record to 1-1 yesterday with a 4-2 baseball victory over Kinston which had beaten the Chargers in the season opener, Friday.

The Chargers went to work with a run in the top of the first but Kinston evened things up with one up in the last of the frame. The Chargers then pushed over two in the fourth to win it.

Dennis Cristiano went the distance for A-G fanning five, walking three and giving up three hits. The Vikings used two pitchers.

Stevie Tripp led off the first with a walk and stole second. He was sacrificed to third and scored on Eddie Taylor's double.

Kinston's Norvicky tripled in the last of the first and came over on an error.

In the fourth, A-G came up with the eventual winner. Taylor singled and Randy Nelson reached on an error on his bunt attempt. Billy Wilson singled driving in Taylor and a double by Steve Nobles scored Nelson.

Kinston had a chance to score in the fourth loading the bases on a hit batter and two walks but a bunt with two outs was muffed by the Vikings.

A-G added another tally in the fifth as Paul Setliff walked and came around on Nelson's double. The Viking's final score came in the sixth as Hardison singled, took second on a passed ball and scored on an error.

Taylor led the hitting with two for the Chargers.

A-G travels to Farmville Central for a game on Friday.

Ladies' Golfing

Events Begin

At Club Friday

Ladies' Day golfing events will begin on a regular basis this Friday at Greenville Golf and Country Club with a Ladies Get Acquainted Tournament.

Friday's tournament will get underway at 10 a.m. with a shotgun start, the club announced.

Club officials encouraged all new golfers to sign up for the ladies' event and everyone who wishes to play are asked to sign up at the golf shop or call in advance.

Pairings will be set up so that new golfers will play with a veteran member as part of the get-acquainted format.

A club spokesman said that Ladies' Day events will be scheduled each Friday, beginning with the tournament for new members.

TSU Basketball Coach Relieved

HOUSTON (AP) — Kenneth McCowan has been relieved of his duties as head basketball coach at Texas Southern University.

TSU Athletic Director Rod Paige made the announcement Tuesday. He said no replacement for McCowan was named. Paige said a committee will compile a list of applicants and make recommendations.

TSU finished with an 8-16 season mark, the worst for the school in 15 years. Last year's team had a 15-13 mark.

McCowan was an assistant at TSU prior to becoming head coach in 1973.

Rested Johnny Miller Ready For Doral

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Johnny Miller, fresh and rested after some time off, returns to tour competition this week and takes on Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino in the $150,000 Doral Open Golf Tournament.

"I always seem to play my best after taking a break," said Miller, a three-time winner and the sensation of the winter tour. "You look at my record. "Except for the U.S. Open, and the times I've won two or three in a row, all of my wins have come immediately after

I've had some time off. I just seem to play better. I'm more enthusiastic, after I've had a break."

Miller has had a two-week rest at his home in Napa, Calif., coming into the Thursday start of this 72-hole chase for a $30,000 first prize over the 7,065-yard, Doral County Club course.

At one time Miller, the runaway, record-setting winner of the two Arizona tournaments that opened the tour this season, had planned to skip this event, but he decided to enter at the last minute. He's the probable favorite, but Nicklaus and Trevino are close behind. "It always gives you a lot of confidence when you win your first tournament of the year," Trevino said after his front-running triumph last weekend in the Citrus Open at Orlando. "I seem to be a streak player. When I get it going, I sometimes keep it going for a while. And I'm playing a golf course that I like."

Nicklaus also has a history of success in this event, winning the tournament in 1972. He's coming off a one-week break and will be trying to wipe out the memory of a final-round collapse that cost him the title in his last start,, the Jackie Gleason Classic.

Some other standouts include Sam Snead and his nephew, J.C., millionaires Tom Weiskopf and Bruce Crampton of Australia, defending champion Buddy Allin and Gleason winner Bob Murphy.

Ben Crenshaw, who broke a lengthy slump with a strong performance last week, heads a list of young turks that also includes Tom Watson, Forrest Fezler, Tom Kite and Jerry Heard.

Arnold Palmer and U.S. Open champ Hale Irwin are not competing.

Mayes Again Is Player Of Year For SC

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—While Clyde Mayes of Furman was "hoping" he'd be named Southern Conference basketball player of the year for the second straight time, he was just as concerned with the Paladins' upcoming National Collegiate Athletic Association playoff game.

"We know Boston College is big and strong and they'll be coming as ready as we are," Mayes said Tuesday of the Paladins' Saturday night opponent at Charlotte, N.C.

"We'll have to play a good game if we expect to come out on top. They can't key on Moose (Leonard) and myself any more because (Michael) Hall and (Craig) Lynch have really been coming on lately," Mayes said.

But the 6-foot-9 Mayes, a senior from Greenville, S.C., is the man most responsible for the fact Furman has won the last three Southern Conference championships.

He was selected the league tournament's most valuable player his sophomore year and has been the conference player of the year the last two—a feat accomplished only five other times since 1952. He has been an All-Southern Conference choice three years in succession.

"I was hoping this would happen," Mayes said of his choice as player of the year. "I feel like it's a real honor to win the award over a player like Bob McCurdy. It's my senior year and I'm real happy to win it."

Mayes received 44 of the 64 votes cast by members of the Southern Conference Media Association. McCurdy, the Richmond sharpshooter who leads the nation's major colleges in scoring, received 18 votes. Robert Geter of East Carolina got one and one ballot was voided.

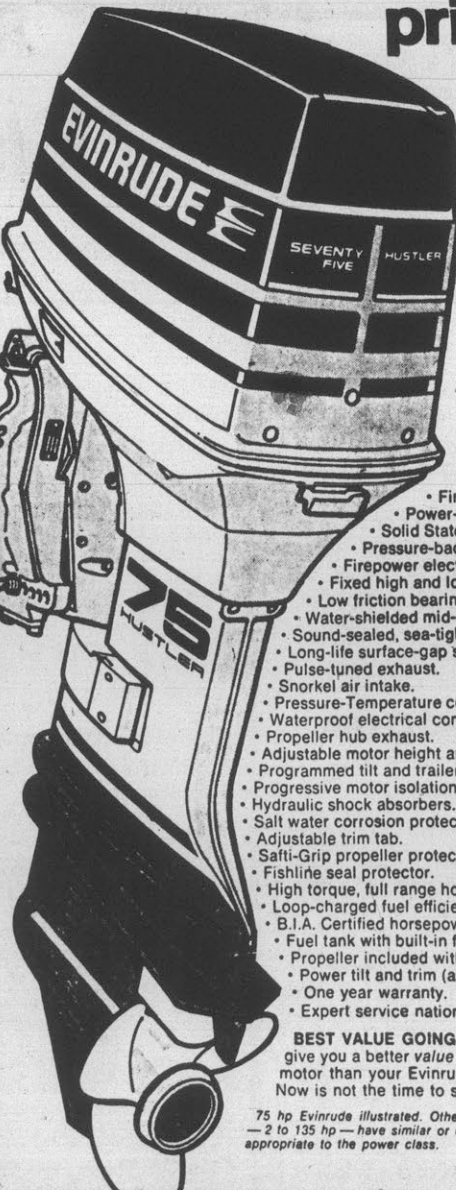

In leading Furman to a 22-6 over-all record, Mayes has scored 583 points for a 20.8 average, third best in the conference, and has grabbed 375 rebounds for a 13.4 average, tops in the league and fifth in the country.

Mayes had 54 points and 38 rebounds in the three tournament victories by which the Paladins won the league championship, but his best effort of the season was in a 102-87 defeat by North Carolina State in which he scored 24 points and hauled down 25 rebounds.

Only once has a player of the year award been won three times—by Fred Hetzel of Davidson in 1963, 1964 and 1965.

Two-time winners prior to Mayes were Furman's Frank Selvy in 1953-54 and Darrell Floyd in 1955-56, Jerry West of West Virginia in 1959-60 and Mike Maloy of Davidson in 1969-70.

Food Stamps Are A Big Help!

As food prices rise, more people become eligible for food stamps. You may be included.

- Eligibility depends on how much of your income is available to buy food. You do not have to be unemployed or on welfare to take advantage of food stamps.
- You can increase your food buying power 25 to 50% by using food stamps. The amount you pay for food stamps depends on your income.
- You have a right to food stamps, just like Social Security or unemployment compensation. Food stamps are provided by Congress and the U.S. Department of Agriculture so that every citizen will get enough food for proper health and nutrition.
- For full and complete information, contact your local food stamp certification or welfare office.

Talented Giants Named To 'Little All America'

HE WAS ROBBED—Reggie Jackson, Oakland A's right fielder, holds up three World Series rings he borrowed from teammates to show police after his apartment was robbed and his rings were part of the $10-$15,000 worth of jewelry and other items taken. Jackson was particularly upset about losing the rings. The rest of the jewelry can be replaced easily. The rings are another matter. (AP Wirephoto)

NEW YORK (AP) — Marvin Webster, Morgan State's feared "Human Eraser", and Eugene Short, the high-powered forward from Jackson State, were among those named today to the Associated Press' 1975 Little All-America basketball team.

Joining the talented giants on the AP's glamour team are forward Gerald Cunningham of Kentucky State; guard Lloyd Free of Guilford and guard Ike Williams of Armstrong State. Webster, a 6-foot-11 senior called "a near-pro franchise" by one scout, and Short, a 6-7 junior termed the best forward ever to play at Jackson State, are repeaters from last year's first team. In addition, Webster was a second team All-America two years ago.

Free, a 6-2 junior, was a second-team All-America last year. Cunningham, a 6-7 sophomore, and Williams, a 6-4 senior, are in the blue ribbon group for the first time.

Webster was the heart and soul of Morgan State's team for the third straight year, although falling off from previous seasons because of a hepatitis attack.

Certain to go on the first round of the pro draft, Webster averaged 17.4 rebounds and 16.4 points a game this season. Webster owes his colorful nickname to awesome shot-blocking talents. This ability has classified him as the top center in the country by pro scouts. Short, one of the nation's most fluid big men, averaged more than 26 points and over 9 rebounds a game.

The lanky Cunningham, a

Mike Hardy Is Accident Victim

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Mike Hardy of Goldsboro, wide receiver on the North Carolina State University football team, died Monday when he fell from a moving car in Glen Cove, N.Y.

The 20-year-old junior has been visiting a teammate, B.J. Lytle of Glen Cove. Police said that Hardy was clinging to the open door of a car driven by Lytle when he apparently lost his grip and fell to the shoulder of the road, suffering head and neck wounds. He was dead on arrival at Glen Cove Community Hospital.

200-pounder with grace, led his team into the NAIA playoffs and his coach, Lucius Mitchell, calls him "the best player in the country this year, barring none." The muscular forward scored nearly 25 points and averaged more than 13 rebounds a game for Kentucky State.

He hit on 71 per cent of his field goals, a figure that led the nation, and managed 95 steals during the course of 25 games. Cunningham was drafted last year as a freshman by an American Basketball Association team and will be on the "Wanted List" again this season.

Free has been termed one of the 10 best players in the country, including both small and major colleges.

"If there's a better guard in the nation, I haven't seen him," says his coach, Jack Jensen. "Free is a great guard."

Free, an inspirational leader at Guilford, averaged 25.4 points a game while connecting on 51 per cent of his shots from the field. In addition, the blue chip guard averaged nearly 6 rebounds a game.

Williams was an unexcelled team leader, averaging 21 points, 6 assists, 5 steals and 5 rebounds a game. He's the best player they have ever had at Armstrong State, his coaches say.

The Second Team includes,

Major Jones of Albany State; Jim Blanks of Gardner-Webb; Bayard Forrest of Grand Canyon; Brian Hammel of Bentley and Lewis Linder of Kentucky State.

The Third Team: John Grochowalski, Assumption; Gerald Walker, Gannon; Wilson Washington, Old Dominion; Larry Wright, Grambling and Jerome Holland, New Orleans.

AFTERNOON FOOTBALL
ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The University of New Mexico will play all of its 1975 home football games during the afternoon.

The Lobos, member of the Western Athletic Conference, played all of its 1974 home games at night.

$164 Billion To Foreign Aid Since '46

"Don't weaken! You've made it passed Hamburger Heaven and Pancake Paradise. One more donut shop and you're home!"

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has spent an estimated $164 billion for foreign aid since 1946 to rebuild Europe and Japan, help develop poor countries and arm its allies.

Some of the U.S. aid has been used for diplomacy, such as keeping nonaligned nations in that status in the 1950s and most recently to help negotiate a Middle East peace.

The $164 billion was estimated Monday by the House Appropriations Committee in a report accompanying a $3.5 billion appropriation bill it approved, including $2.8 billion for more foreign aid.

The committee estimated the federal government has probably paid $106 billion in interest on borrowing for the $164 billion, for a grand total of $270 billion.

The new bill shows the mix of purposes that U.S. aid serves.

There is $490 million for military assistance, not much above the $375 million low hit in 1969, to be allocated as the Ford administration thinks best among nearly 50 countries. Congress recently voted to eliminate all military aid eventually.

The bill includes no military aid for Cambodia or South Vietnam, despite Ford's warning that Cambodia will fall without it. The Indochina aid request is being considered separately in Congress.

The new bill also includes $300 million for foreign credit loans to buy U.S. arms, all of it for Israel.

There is $2 billion for a broad range of economic assistance including food programs, population planning, health, education, economic development and famine and disaster relief.

In a new twist for U.S. aid, the $2 billion also includes $674.5 million as part of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's effort to bring about a Middle East peace.

That money includes $324.5 million for Israel, $250 million for Egypt and a $100 million fund possibly going partly to Palestinians and Syria. The money is intended to make America an unbiased peace-maker, adding peaceful development throughout the Middle East.

The mix of U.S. aid goals has evolved from what started in 1946 as U.S. loans for reconstruction in Europe and Japan after World War II and became the formal European Recovery program in 1948.

It began almost entirely as a reconstruction program, with only about $1.4 billion of the $26 billion approved by 1950 going to military uses.

But with strong U.S. backing of Nationalist China on Taiwan in 1949 and the beginning of the Korean war in 1950, the program turned into the combination of economic and military aid that it has been since.

U.S. aid hit a peak of $7.5 billion in 1951, including $5.2 billion for military aid and $2.3 billion for economic aid.

It fell to a low of $1.75 billion in 1969 — $1.38 billion for economic aid and $375 million for military aid — and has steadily risen since then to the new $2.8 billion level.

The 1969 low for foreign aid is explained by the fact that Congress then approved what was then the biggest single defense bill in history: $71.9 billion, including $25 billion for the Vietnam war.

In addition to the estimated $140 billion military cost of the Vietnam war, the House Appropriations Committee report estimates that South Vietnam has received $22.5 billion in U.S. aid — more than any other country.

The Defense Intelligence

Agency estimates U.S. military aid to South Vietnam has totaled about $12 billion since 1966, rising from $393 million that year to a peak of $2.3 billion in 1973.

The House committee report says $1.7 billion in U.S. aid has gone to Cambodia, $2.3 billion to Laos and $1.9 billion to Thailand.

The report says other major recipients of U.S. aid after South Vietnam have been South Korea, $11.9 billion; India, $7.6 billion; France, $7.3 billion; England, $6.4 billion; Turkey, $6.3 billion; Nationalist China, $5.9 billion, and Italy, $5.5 billion.

Agency estimates U.S. military aid to South Vietnam has totaled about $12 billion since 1966, rising from $393 million that year to a peak of $2.3 billion in 1973.

The House committee report says $1.7 billion in U.S. aid has gone to Cambodia, $2.3 billion to Laos and $1.9 billion to Thailand.

His sermons for the series, are designed to strengthen the faith and deepen the level of Christian commitment.

The Rev. Richard Gammon, pastor of the local church, said a nursery will be provided during all services and urged local residents to attend the series.

A Fort Pierce, Florida native, Dr. Hughs grew up in Moultrie, Ga. He attended Mercer University, the University of Edinburgh in Scotland, and studied one semester at the University of Heidelberg before receiving his undergraduate degree from Edinburg in 1958. He received a B.D. degree from Yale University Divinity School in 1961; a Th. M. degree from Union Theological Seminary in Richmond in 1962, and his Ph. D. degree from the University of Edinburg in 1970.

Dr. Hughs has spent time in West Europe, the Near East, India and Japan, and has visited Presbyterian mission work in Portugal, Zaire and Ghana.

He has served pastorates at the Third Presbyterian Church, Norfolk, Va., and the Kirkwood Presbyterian Church in Springfield, Va., in addition to his present post in Charlotte.

He is married to the former Ina McAfee Jones — granddaughter of Dr. Robert S. Boyd who was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here from 1939 to 1947 — and has three children.

Supper Meeting On Anniversary

GARDNERVILLE—The members of the Gardnerville Volunteer Fire Department observed their third anniversary with a supper meeting Monday night.

President Robert D. Halstead presided at the meeting. Fried chicken and anniversary cake was served to approximately 45 members and guests.

Mrs. Annie Dixon served as chairman of the refreshment committee.

There are approximately 65 volunteer firemen in the Gardnerville Fire Department.

Before adding new animals to a herd, farmers should isolate them for a period of three to four weeks to allow signs of disease to show up.

A Final Look At Mercury

By RICHARD SALTUS
AP Science Writer
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Burning its last drops of fuel, Mariner 10 will take a third and final closeup look at sun-scorched Mercury on Sunday.

The bug-shaped space explorer will make a four-hour fly-by, passing at one point only 131 miles from the surface of Mercury. It will be the closest fly-by of another planet yet attempted.

The encounter will exhaust the 1,000-pound probe's altitude control gas and propellant. It will go into orbit around the sun, a space age ghost ship.

In addition to snapping about 650 photos, the fly-by's primary objective is to gather data about Mercury's unexpected magnetic field. It was discovered by Mariner on its first rendezvous with the planet March 29, 1974.

Is the field generated by a "dynamo" deep within the planet, or is it an effect created by charged particles streaming from the sun?

Controllers at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here say the answer will help fill in questions about Mercury's interior and about the evolution of the sun's closest planet.

It may also answer fundamental questions or perhaps raise new theories about the genesis of planetary magnetic fields.

It will be the fourth planetary encounter for Mariner. The sturdy craft scouted Venus en route to its first rendezvous with Mercury. It revisited Mercury last Sept. 21 after circling the sun.

On its final pass, Mariner's twin television cameras are expected to beam back the sharpest, most detailed pictures yet taken of the heavily cratered, lunar-like surface.

Little was known about Mercury before Mariner's first fly-by. Astronomers were foiled because the little planet hides in the glare of the sun.

The only other planets in the solar system known to have magnetic fields are earth and Jupiter. They were developed by the planets' rapid rotation.

But Mercury rotates relatively slowly — too slowly to generate a magnetic field, scientists thought.

If the field is somehow generated from a "dynamo" created by heavy metal core despite the slow rotation, theories of planetary magnetism will have to be reviewed, laboratory controller James Dunne said.

Still, Mercury's field — 1-25th the surface strength of earth's — may be simply induced by solar wind or it may be left over from some early period when the planet rotated more rapidly, Dunne said.

Four Attended YDC Meeting

RALEIGH—Four local persons attended the meeting of the Young Democrats of North Carolina in Raleigh over the weekend.

Attending were: Carl Darden, first vice chairperson; Ms. Susie Prevette, first district secretary; Donnie Rains of East Carolina University; and Tina King of Ayden.

The group passed resolutions to abolish the presidential primary in North Carolina; to require that all bills and resolutions be reported out of committee; and a third resolution instructing the North Carolina Congressional delegation to oppose the appropriation of any additional funds for and to the existing government of Cambodia.

Cars Collided Last Night

Edward Noah Barber of River Bluff Apts. was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety yesterday after his vehicle collided with a car operated by Stephen Ray Ellerbe of Fayetteville about 9:05 p.m. on U.S. 264, 400 feet east of the Plaza Drive intersection.

Investigators estimated damage at $300 to the Barber vehicle and $250 to the Ellerbe auto.

Researcher Carberry Is Never There

By KEN FRANKLING
PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — When students and faculty gathered last Dec. 13 to discuss Professor Josiah S. Carberry's latest invention, the researcher didn't appear. He wasn't expected.

He has never shown up for a lecture, including his own. Carberry, described as a world traveler, hasn't been seen at Brown in the 46 years that he has been a professor of psycho-ceramics. The explanation is that he is "always traveling."

Carberry was born at the Ivy League campus in 1929 when a young faculty member spotted the glass cover unlocked on the official bulletin board and put up this notice:

"On Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in Sayles Hall, J.S. Carberry will give a lecture on Archaic Greek Architectural Revolutions in Connection With Iolian Phonology."

When now-retired Latin professor Ben C. Clough spotted the notice as a hoax he didn't take it down. Instead he inserted the word "not" between "will" and "give." The whimsy has continued ever since.

Treatises under the distinguished Carberry name have appeared in numerous journals and the scholar, with the help of faculty members and alumni, keeps up steady correspondence concerning his travels.

His latest research mission brought another invention: a rectangular camera lens which makes more efficient use of negative space and won't roll off tables.

In years past, Carberry suggested a messenger service be created under his name "for picking up remarks that would otherwise be uncalled for." On a trip to Cape Cod, he invented steel sails for boats.

The Archives at the John Hay Library preserves letters, postcards and clippings that document the latest Carberry exploits. One letter, from the Japan Astronautical Society, replies to a Carberry query about its future plans to explore the moon, reserving 80 lunar acres so Carberry can build a university there.

The society thought psycho-ceramics meant "molding of the minds." Carberry half-jokingly, as the spoof experts are called, say it means "cracked pots."

Carberry's travels have been reported from Mozambique, Zurich, Alaska, Rome, Springfield, Mass., and the Middle East. His wife, Laura, and daughters, Patricia and Lois, also are globetrotters.

One postcard sent by Lois from the Hotel Statler in Boston had the caption "1,300 rooms and bath." On the back was written, "The bath gets terribly crowded."

On June 6, 1966, Brown awarded J.S. Carberry a bona fide masters degree. It was awarded in abstentia because the professor, of course, was traveling at the time.

While most Rhode Island newspaper editors have Carberry-proofed their publications from the spoof, newspapers and magazines elsewhere have been taken in by the serious tone of his exploits.

Every Friday the 13th is "Carberry Day" at Brown. Pottery jugs are placed around the campus for student contributions to the Carberry Book Fund, which currently contains more than $2,400.

Librarian Charles Churchwell says it is used to purchase books "of which Professor Carberry might or might not approve."

Each volume gets a special book plate bearing the name of the fund, the design of a month's calendar with Friday the 13th appearing in red, and a Latin motto selected by Dr. Clough which translated says: "It is pleasant and proper to be foolish once in a while."

Many Uses For Discarded Tires

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study by the U.F. Environmental Protection Agency shows that paving roads with used tires is just one of the solutions to the waste disposal problem posed by the 200 million tire casings abandoned every year, reports the Tire Retread Information Bureau.

Tire casings can also be used to generate power and as artificial reefs, impact absorbers on highways and in retreaded tires.

Chapter Holds Meet Thursday

The Northeastern Tarheel Chapter of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers will hold its March meeting on Thursday at the Beef Barn here.

The session will begin with a 6:30 p.m. social hour, followed by dinner and the business meeting.

Subject for the meeting will be "Motivation and Leadership" with Bob Sebald, corporate systems director of Hampton Industries, scheduled to be the guest speaker.

Primary sub-topics slated for discussion include "Who Do You Motivate and How," "Major Motivational Theories and Models," "Problems in Motivation," and "Leadership Techniques."

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, MARCH 13, 1975

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: There is an opportunity in a.m. to get one of considerable ability to let you in on a good course for the future. Then the p.m. finds you eager to get into all the intellectual ideas necessary to make this plan work.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Organize plan to make the future brighter and discuss with friends. Join with prominent persons at social functions that will help you get ahead.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Contact a powerful individual who can help you progress faster, then get into the work connected with plan outlined. A group affair is worthwhile.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Find better methods to rid self of problems early in the day. Then concentrate on improving your social life.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Discuss a good new idea with a bigwig. Handle credit matters. Get the data you need for a trip you want to take.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You are inspired about how to get along better with mate, so carry through with ideas, then off to some new outlet of interest.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get partner's approval of a contract. Talk over some new idea with experts before you put it into operation for big success.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Keep promises made to the letter, then meet with partners in p.m. to plan better future. Improve vitality.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Discuss with co-workers how to expand in the near future, then be off to recreation that relieves tensions. Use creative talents.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make home more harmonious. Talk any problems over with kin intelligently. Get out together for amusement in p.m.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Run errands in a.m., and make plans for a possible trip that will yield right results. Your home is your best bet tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Study your financial position, then discuss with an expert how to improve it. Be practical and stop dreaming so much.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are thinking very clearly in a.m. and should reach the right decisions about money and future. Enjoy social life in p.m.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have all the advantages early in life, so be sure to teach habits of work and how to spend money early, and give right kind of religious training. Then your progeny can mature properly and the position in life will be enhanced, or at least maintained, otherwise the vicissitudes of life could easily mar the fine promise here. A most pioneering nature.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Broadcasts Are Again An Issue

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The issue of live TV and radio broadcasts of House and Senate floor debates is knocking about in Congress again, after an initial Senate proposal died in the last days of the 93rd Congress.

On this go-around, Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, and Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., each have introduced resolutions their offices say would:

—Provide a closed-circuit test of broadcasting floor debate for a period of up to six months, the coverage piped to certain members of the House and Senate.

—Allow commercial and public broadcasters, after approved by both houses, to plug into the circuit after the test period, and air live or taped broadcast of the proceedings.

Brooks and Metcalf are the chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the Joint Committee on Congressional Operations, which last October recommended that live broadcast coverage of the Congress' floor proceedings be allowed on a one-year trial basis this year.

The proposal was given impetus by the nationally-televised Senate Watergate hearings in 1973 and the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment hearings last year.

But the House hasn't allowed live broadcasts of its regular floor sessions since 1947, when it permitted TV coverage for the opening session of the 80th Congress.

The Senate relented only last December, and then only for the swearing-in of Vice-President Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Although the joint committee report recommends that the Congress consider "inviting" the Public Broadcasting Service to submit proposals for operating the congressional TV system, committee officials say the Metcalf-Brooks resolutions don't urge such an invitation.

The measures instead leave operation of the system, as well as coverage ground rules, to be decided by the House and Senate organizations concerned with the matter, the officials say.

In the Senate's case, the decision-maker would be the Rules Committee. On the House side, it would be the newly-formed House Commission on information and facilities.

Wins Honors Scholarship

RALEIGH—Miss Mollie Allen of Greenville has been awarded a competitive Honors Scholarship for the 1975-76 academic year at Peace College. Announcement of the scholarship award is made by Dr. S. David Frazier, president of the Raleigh college for women.

Miss Allen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Allen Jr. of 1713 Forest Hills Drive, Greenville.

Peace grants these scholarship awards based on the student's high school academic record, College Entrance Examination Board Scholastic Aptitude Test results and citizenship.

Miss Allen is a senior at J. H. Rose High School where she is a member of the French Club, the Science-Ecology Club, the Art Club, the Kiwanettes and the Class Float Committee. She also serves as president of the Youth Fellowship of the First Presbyterian Church.

In the past decade NATIONAL CHEMSEARCH has become one of the fastest growing industrial corporations in America and we intend on doing even better.
Our average first year representatives' earnings exceed $18,000 in commissions, and the opportunity for management responsibility can be as fast as your capabilities allow.
Our keys to success are very simple. Quality products for the industrial and institutional markets, honest and imaginative merchandising, and people like yourself who are willing to work hard for the success they must achieve. And we provide people like yourself with a liberal weekly drawing account and an excellent fringe benefit package for your family's security.
If you lack opportunity, maybe we can share some of ours.

For A Limited Time
The early buyers of UNIVERSITY CONDOMINIUMS may pick the shade of shag carpet, the conglom pattern and the wallpaper in the kitchen from the many samples we have to choose from.
This is just one of the many sound reasons to purchase your home at UNIVERSITY CONDOMINIUMS.

DO YOU BELIEVE YOU CAN HAVE A BETTER FUTURE?
The answer is "NO" . . . unless you find an unlimited opportunity with a top company willing to expend the effort, money, and has the know how to teach and train you . . . and . . . unless you are willing to accept the responsibility to study, learn, and apply what is taught and we'll do the rest! You start with $1000.00 a month.
Qualify for one of our Career sales positions where you can earn $10,000, $20,000, $25,000 or more your very first year! You must be age 22 or over, willing to work hard and follow instructions, are bondable, have a car and are a high school graduate or better. No previous sales experience necessary although helpful. Remember.
"Good salesmen are trained, not born!"
