WRECKAGE OF SKY GIANT—This air view shows the crash site of the C5A that went down at Saigon today, carrying orphans on a SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—The first official U.S. evacuation flight of Vietnamese orphans, carrying 243 children in the world's largest plane, ended in explosions and flames today only minutes after takeoff from Saigon.

U.S. officials said nearly half the children survived and that the airlift to the United States ordered by President Ford would continue. There were a total of 305 persons aboard the plane, a U.S. Air Force C5A Galaxy transport that stands as high as a six-story building, officials said.

The U.S. Embassy said that in addition to the orphans, the transport carried 44 escorts, 16 crewmen and two flight nurses. A spokesman said about 100 orphans and 15 to 20 adults were pulled out alive. Hospital officials said the rest were either dead, injured or still trapped in the wreckage in a paddy field 1½ miles from the airport.

One survivor said there were not enough oxygen masks to go around, and a congressman in Washington urged that all C5As be grounded because the plane "has never performed up to specifications." The headquarters of the 13th Air Force in the Philippines refused to comment on reports that the plane's departure from Manila earlier today had been delayed by mechanical trouble.

Pages of a Donald Duck comic book flipped in the wind in the paddy field where the giant transport plummeted to earth, flattening the cargo hold where about 20 percent of the orphans were strapped in.

"Some of us got through a chute from the top of the plane, but the children at the bottom of the plane didn't have a chance," a woman survivor said.

Headless bodies were buried in the mud, and a baby's bottle, a flight manual, cushions, clothing and molten pieces of metal were scattered about in the burning grass.

"It was a horrible thing to see," one witness said. "Children were crying while the fire burned."

American rescue workers were dropped from helicopters and waded through the mud trying to find survivors as well as bodies of the dead spread along a mile-long swath.

The bodies of some headless children were wrapped in ponchos and put aboard the choppers which flew them to a morgue.

The plane arrived from Clark Air Base in the Philippines carrying emergency war materials, including 14 howitzers, for the hard-pressed Saigon government and it picked up the orphans for the return trip.

The pilot, identified as Dennis Traynor and who escaped unhurt, said he was about 18 miles from Tan Son Nhut Air Base when he had to turn back. "The aft pressure door failed and blew out," he said. "In blowing out, the door damaged the elevator and as a result there were problems in controlling the rate of descent of the aircraft. This became critical to the point of almost losing control as the aircraft made its turn into the airport..."

It was the fourth worst crash in aviation history and the first fatal one for a C5A.

North Viets Pour Troops Into South

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The North Vietnamese command is pouring more than 1,000 fresh troops a day into South Vietnam in an apparent buildup for a final blow, U.S. intelligence sources report.

Unlike President Ford, intelligence specialists are deeply pessimistic about South Vietnam's prospects. They also are doubtful that the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh can long withstand the assault by the Khmer Rouge.

Ford said Thursday that "at the moment, I do not anticipate the fall of South Vietnam." The President said, "I am an optimist despite the sad and tragic events we see unfolding."

But intelligence analysts say the North Vietnamese have enough strength in the south to finish off the South Vietnamese army and show every sign of intending to do so, perhaps in a matter of weeks.

Ford, during a speech and a news conference Thursday in California, also made these points:

—He said he had no plans to try to send American troops into Vietnam except to protect U.S. citizens as part of an evacuation plan.

—He will continue to press Congress for $300 million in additional military aid for South Vietnam.

—On several occasions, Ford said the United States will stand by its allies.

—Ford said he ordered "all available naval ships to stand off Indochina" to help refugees. He said he was examining the possibility of allowing Vietnamese refugees to enter the United States under a waiver of immigration restrictions.

—Ford said South Vietnamese President Thieu ordered an "improper and unnecessary withdrawal" of his troops from the central provinces.

Meanwhile, Gen. Frederick C. Weyand, Army chief of staff, said today the "armed forces of South Vietnam are still strong and have the spirit and capability to defeat the North Vietnamese."

Weyand, speaking to reporters in Saigon after a nine-day fact-finding mission in Vietnam, gave no indication of what he would recommend to President Ford.

Pentagon analysts, assessing the growing North Vietnamese forces, estimate there are about 225,000 North Vietnamese combat soldiers in South Vietnam. This is about 85,000 more than were reported there at the time of the Paris peace agreement about two years ago.

New Cabinet

SAIGON (AP)—President Nguyen Van Thieu announced today he has accepted the resignation of his cabinet and named the speaker of the lower house of the national assembly to form a new government.

Thieu made the announcement in a nationwide broadcast as tension mounted in the national capital in the aftermath of the huge military losses to the North Vietnamese.

Nguyen Ba Can, the speaker of the government-controlled lower house of the national assembly, was named to form the new cabinet.

Relatively Little Wind Damage Is Reported Across Pitt County

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Relatively little damage was reported yesterday as a weather front, crossing North Carolina, caused high winds in Pitt County.

Greenville Utilities Commission director Charles Horne said the commission's weather station recorded winds up to 50 miles per hour. But he said, the high winds caused only "very minor" problems for the utility.

"Frankly we were very pleased," Horne said, reporting that one tree fell across a primary line along Pitt Street, between Fourth and Fifth Streets, but "didn't knock off anybody" and noting that "we had some small number of line problems in the rural areas," which he described as "very, very, minor."

Horne said "tree trimming work done over the past or so has reduced greatly our problems from winds of this nature."

Agricultural extension agent

Leroy James said very little wind damage resulted in the rural areas yesterday. "There was no real damage to tobacco beds or this kind of thing," although some farm buildings did receive minor damage.

The wind blew over a mobile home, about five miles north of Greenville on N.C. 13, and heavily damaged the dwelling, the North Carolina Highway said. The trailer-home was being moved—being towed by a truck—when a gust of wind caught it and flipped it over on its top on the shoulder of the highway.

A large sign near the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Charles—proclaiming East Carolina University ball-game schedules—was also blown down.

According to the utilities' weather station, the high temperature yesterday at 71 degrees, while yesterday's low was 42.

Rainfall for the 24-hour period ending at midnight last night was reported as four-tenths of an inch, while the temperature at 8 a.m. this morning stood at 42 degrees.

Electric Bills For April Are Expected To Be Below March

April electric bills should be lower than March bills, according to George Reel, customer service supervisor at Greenville Utilities Commission.

Reel said that the fossil fuel charge for the month of April will be $11.44 per thousand kilowatt-hours as compared to the March fossil fuel charge of $13.17 per thousand kilowatt-hours.

"This will mean a savings on the fossil fuel charge of $1.73 per thousand kilowatt-hours," he explained. Reduction in the fuel charge from Virginia Electric Power Co., according to Reel, was due to the larger amount of energy generated from nuclear plants rather than coal and oil plants.

During the month of February, which is a part of the calculation of April fossil fuel charge, only 60 per cent was generated through the use of fossil fuels. This compares to 98 per cent generation from fossil fuels during the month of December of 1974, he added.

"It is reported that both nuclear units at the Surry Plants (Virginia) are in full operation and hopefully this should lead to a further reduction in the fossil fuel charge for May," the representative asserted.

During the months of April and May, usage of electricity normally falls off to its lowest level, it was noted. This is due to non-use of either heating or air conditioning of families are still boiling their water for drinking and others are bringing in water from outside the area.

Approximately one-third of the residents in the West Meadowbrook section were involved in the flood situation, he estimated.

The Council agreed to schedule a workshop session to discuss a request by the Transit Advisory Committee for $40,000 to implement a transit service that would meet immediate needs.

A report by the consultant firm of Alan M. Voorhees & Associates concerning immediate transit needs in Greenville was distributed and Councilman Joe Taft, a member of the transit committee, said that the board voted recently to request the funds in order to put one of five alternative transit recommendations by Voorhees into operation. The alternative involves a scheduled, fixed-route transit service utilizing one bus with a back-up vehicle.

The Voorhees study points out that the city has a "significant number of low-income, low-automobile ownership families which are generally concentrated on the west side of the city. These families have a significant need for public health and social services. A significant number are not realizing full benefits of these services because of transportation problems, or are being penalized by the need to pay high taxi costs."

Council members voted to recommend to the County Commissioners the appointment of Elvy Forrest to the Joint City-County Planning and Zoning Commission.

Appointments were also made by the Council to fill five positions on the new Environmental Advisory Commission. The board calls for representatives from five areas, including: lawyer, building contractor, land developer or someone familiar with construction techniques; a member of a local environmental group a professor of natural or physical sciences; and a professional engineer. Filling those positions in that order are Tom Taft, Ollie Harrington, Pat Daugherty, Dean Painter and Charlie Holliday.

Requests by P.O. Allen for renewal of the permit granted for the mobile home at 107 Church Street and by Mary Cogdell for renewal of the permit for the mobile home at 303 W. Dudley Street were granted for one year. Both structures are used as residences.

Permits were granted on requests by E.L. Clark to place a mobile home at 400 N. Greene Street for use as residential quarters, by Ms. Florence Johnson to locate a mobile home at 407 Moore Street for use as a personal residence, and by AAA Sales to locate a mobile home at the intersection of N.C. 13 and Airport Road for use as a sales office. All were granted for one-year periods.

The Council denied a request by Quency Gardner for a permit to place a mobile home at 701 Douglas Avenue for use as a personal residence. The property is zoned R-6 (residential) and contains some 3,330 square feet.

Ella Tyson Harris of 704 Douglas Avenue objected to the placement of the mobile home in the area on the basis of land use. She said that everyone in the community was making an effort to upgrade the area and comply with city housing standards. No other mobile homes are located in the area, she said.

Warren told the Council that

Ten Rescued Off N.C. Coast

ATLANTIC BEACH, N.C. (AP)—Ten persons—from the Naval ROTC at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill and the Camp Lejeune Marine Base—have been rescued from two rafts, the Ft. Macon Coast Guard Station reports.

They did not require hospitalization after being taken on onto a 30-foot Coast Guard vessel in high winds Thursday.

They were rescued in Brown's Inlet off Swansboro.

A Sunday 'Extra'

It was only last year that Richard M. Nixon, president of the United States, became the first chief executive to resign, a victim of the break-in of Democratic headquarters at Watergate, his own deception and cover-up of that incident and the tape recordings of his conversations which brought about his downfall.

Now Saul Pett, Associated Press special correspondent, has brought together some known facts and many new ones, for an exhaustive report of the circumstances which brought down President Nixon.

Pett's story is high drama, but it is also documentary and it is an account that a majority of The Daily Reflector readers will want to preserve for their permanent literary collections.

For that reason, the story will be printed in a special eight-page tabloid section to be included in next Sunday's edition. The section can be removed from the Sunday edition to be saved for future reference.

Look for the Saul Pett story in its own tabloid section Sunday.

QUALITY DETERMINATION

How can a person determine whether fabric or clothing purchased is first quality, irregular, or a second? D.S.

"Irregulars have imperfections of color, size, weave, or knit, which probably do not affect wearing quality of a garment," Mrs. Evelyn Spangler, clothing agent of the Pitt County Home Extension Service, said. "Seconds have flaws such as mends, tears, or runs which usually are visible and affect wear."

"Irregulars can be very good buys," she said, "if the buyer examines the fabric or garment well before he buys it. Also, many times in factory outlet stores, display items, usually of first quality, are sold. These can be real bargains."

"It's just a matter of using good judgment. A needle hole at the very bottom of a blouse is going to be your secret, if you even see it yourself. And, of course, a good seamstress can determine whether she should buy a little extra in order to cut around a flaw in a piece of fabric."

DUPLICATE DIPLOMA

I am a 1970 graduate of Rose High School. My home caught fire and my high school diploma burned. Can I get another one? How? A. P.

Rose High School Principal Robert Alligood said the school orders duplicate diplomas fairly often. You only need to give them your full name and the year you graduated and pay the current price of a diploma and they will be happy to order one from the company in Houston, Tex., which supplies all their diplomas.

Dedication Of New Farmville Center Set Sunday

FARMVILLE—The John Moses Mewborn M.D. Building housing the new Pitt County Mental Health Clinic at Farmville and the Farmville Child Development Center will be dedicated here Sunday at 3 p.m.

The dedication service will be conducted in the First Baptist Church Fellowship Hall across S. Greene Street from the Mewborn Building, where an open house will be held immediately afterwards.

"This is an auspicious occasion for the many Farmville people who have had a hand in nurturing the Child Development Center, now in its fifth year here, and in bringing a satellite of the Pitt County Mental Health Clinic to Farmville," Child Development Center Board Chairman Jack Lewis said. "And we are so pleased to be honoring a physician who served Farmville area citizens so faithfully."

The building which long served as Dr. Mewborn's medical clinic was bought by Pitt County from the Mewborn family. John M. Mewborn Jr., who is vice president of the Farmville Child Development Center, will participate in the program.

The Mental Health Clinic satellite clinic opened here last January, with a staff consisting of Dr. Henrietta Williams and Ms. Audrey Viner, both of whom are clinical psychologists. Harvey Baggett, an alcoholism counselor, is here one day a week. Volunteers serve as receptionists and all clerical work is done at the Greenville clinic. Hours are from 9 to 4 p.m. each weekday except Thursday, when the hours are from 1 to 4 p.m.

Family and individual therapy are offered at the clinic, with local physicians often acting as consultants. A group of persons who have been hospitalized for emotional problems meets there once a month. H.G. Chesson is chairman of a local advisory board, whose job it is "to monitor the growth and development of the clinic."

Mrs. Jackie Atkinson is director of the Child Development Center, a position she accepted after the resignation of Elaine Craft, who directed the Center from 1970-74. Working with Mrs. Atkinson are Barbara Cochran, Grace Williams, and Jennie Bullock.

The center now serves 16 "severely to profoundly mentally retarded and multi-handicapped children." It has a capacity for 18. It has graduated an average of two children a year into some public school program.

"Farmville people, organizations, and churches have embraced the Center and supported it well," Chairman Lewis said. The open house is a thank you to all of these benefactors as well as a way of letting everyone know what we do here."

Spray Fumes Killed Girl

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A 15-year-old schoolgirl died in a gymnasium dressing room last Thursday after inhaling fumes from a deodorant spray, an autopsy has shown.

The girl, Penny Atwood, a ninth grader, had been excused from a gym class at Eastway Junior High School at the request of her mother. She had been absent the day before because she did not feel well, school authorities said.

The Mecklenburg County medical examiner, Dr. Robert Wood, said inhalation of freon gas, used to propel sprays, caused Penny to have a cardiac arrest. He ruled the death accidental.

Police said they found a can of deodorant spray near the body.

Dr. Neil Hoffman, associate chief state medical examiner in Chapel Hill, where the autopsy was performed, said toxicology tests showed freon gas in various tissues.

Friends and teachers described Penny as an outgoing well-liked student. She was found unconscious on the floor of the dressing room, and was pronounced dead at a hospital an hour later.

Two Collisions For Northeast Still Greenville Thursday Being Battered

More than $4,300 property damage was reported by officers investigating two traffic mishaps here yesterday.

Heaviest damage resulted from a 5:20 p.m. collision on Greenville Boulevard, 51 feet West of the Hooker Road intersection involving cars driven by Connie Haddock Bowen of Route 2, Greenville; Barbara Vandford Cannon of 408 South Eastern St., and Linwood Earl Carlton of Farmville.

Police estimated damage at $125 to the Bowen car, $750 to the Cannon auto and $1,500 to the Carlton vehicle.

Carlton was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident.

Investigators said a car driven by Charles Edward Coston of Kinston collided with the rear of a log truck about 6:30 a.m. at the intersection of Fifth Street and Memorial Drive, causing an estimated $2,000 damage to his car.

Police quoted Coston as saying the driver of the truck, registered to Amos Franklin Davis of Route 1, Seven Springs, did not stop.

Investigation of the incident is continuing.

IS THE SKY REALLY FALLING?

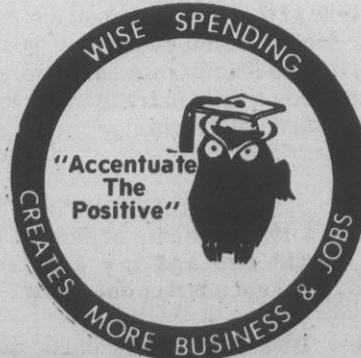

We don't think so! And we especially don't think it's falling in Greenville. Because of many built-in economic stabilizers and our diversified economy, Greenville is faring better than many parts of our country during the current recessionary slump. We have been experiencing an upward trend for the last several years.

Our bank debts, postal receipts, total employment, in-service telephones, and retail sales were all up considerably during 1974 and we're optimistic about the future.

New developments planned, or already underway will pump millions into our local economy within the next few years. One of the greatest economic expansions in Greenville's history should result from the forthcoming completion of 5 new industries, a new hospital, and other planned developments.

These and many other developments along with strong business are cause for both thankfulness and optimism in Greenville. This strong business climate hasn't developed accidentally, and we're working to keep it that way.

The people of the Greenville area have a lot to be thankful for. And we have a very positive story to tell. This owl symbolizes our positive attitude and confidence in Greenville's healthy economy. It is available to any segment of our community which wishes to express its determination to keep our economy strong and our people employed.

Bread Dough Picture Presented To Gov. Holshouser Last Week

RALEIGH — No North Carolina governor of record had ever given much thought to the artistry of bread dough.

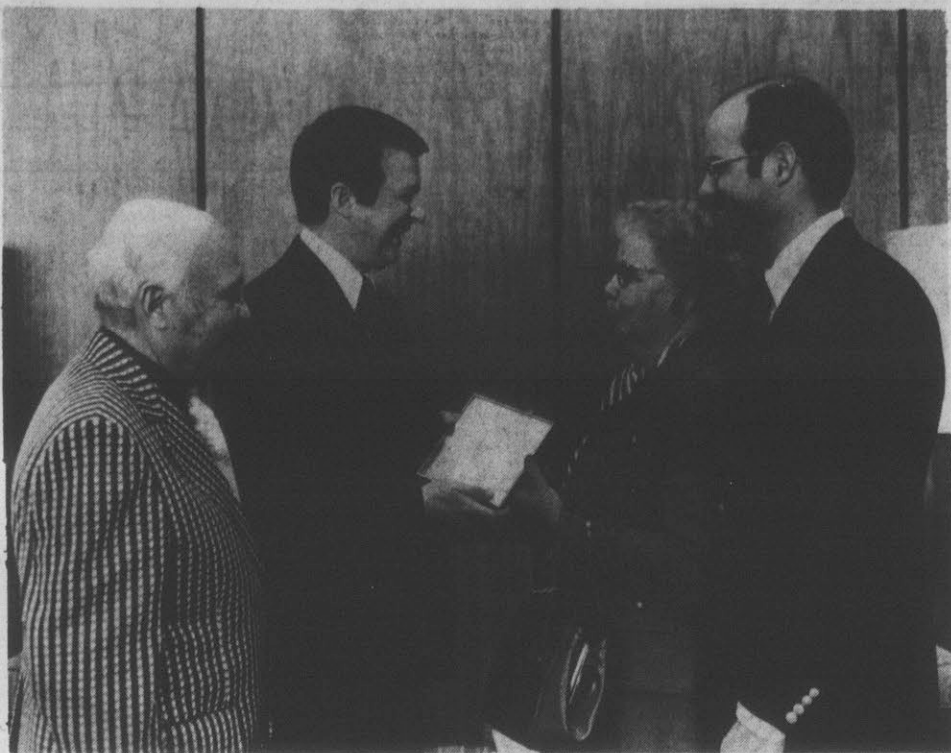

Until last week, when Mrs. Thelma Yelverton presented Gov. James E. Holshouser a framed sample of an art form so rare that the Whole Earth Catalog doesn't even mention it. The Fountain native had transformed bits of bread dough into a blooming branch of dogwood, the state flower, that resembled fine porcelain china.

"I wanted to do something with my craft that would represent the Bicentennial," Mrs. Yelverton said. "After a lot of thought I decided to create a picture that shows what beautiful work can be accomplished with bread dough."

The picture also features the official State Bicentennial medal, which is being sold at banks across the state, and sheet music for "The Old North State," the state song.

At the age of 76 Mrs. Yelverton is a true craftsman. She is a member of the prestigious Planters Craftsman Guild, which has received national recognition for its efforts to promote regional arts and crafts through exhibits, displays, and presentations.

"She doesn't sell her work," noted Guild President Donald Melvin of Rocky Mount. "She'd rather share it, which she does

The Craftsman Guild is the brainchild of Mrs. Virginia L. Knowles, assistant vice president and marketing officer for Planters National Bank, which sponsors the guild. Under her direction it has grown to more than 100 members, whose talents are showcased in an annual fair in the bank's lobby,

Sister Wonders About Coin Collection

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-H. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Fifteen years ago, my father died. (Mother had died before him.) While he didn't leave a great fortune, everything of value was divided evenly among my two brothers, my sister and myself. The only thing we couldn't decide on was what to do with Dad's rare coin collection.

As time was limited for us all to be together (we live in different states) my oldest brother said, "If it's all right with the rest of you, I'll keep the coin collection until we reach a decision as to what should be done with it." The rest of us agreed, and nothing more was said or done about it.

Now, years later, my sister told me that she had once brought up the subject of the coin collection to the brother who had it, hinting that she would like to see it again, but he didn't offer to show it to her. We've always been on good terms with each other, but no one wanted to risk hurt feelings by bringing up the matter.

Now the brother who has the collection has a terminal illness. He has only one child—and he is adopted. Have we waited too long in this matter to do anything? What do you advise? The coin collection is worth several thousand dollars, but of course a good family relationship is priceless. What is your advice?

IN A QUANDARY

DEAR IN: Much depends upon your brother's condition. If he is at death's door, of course the matter of the coin collection should not be brought up. But if he's reasonably well, you might suggest either dividing the coins among the four of you, or having them evaluated, and then if one wanted to buy them all, he could pay the others for their share. (P.S. Some wise person once said, "You never really know a person until you have to share an inheritance with him.")

DEAR ABBY: I am 16, and my wife of four months is 15. I married her because she said she was pregnant. She wasn't. Now she admits that she just said she was pregnant so I would marry her.

Because of our marriage, I had to quit school and get a job in a factory. I even had to borrow money from my parents to make a down payment on a mobile home. This really hurt me because my parents are hard-working people who made a sacrifice to let me have the money. I really was in love with the girl before we were married, but every time I think of the dirty trick she pulled on me, I'm turned off.

I am thinking about divorce, and want your opinion.

STUCK IN S.D.

DEAR STUCK: Granted, it was a dirty trick, but don't rush into a divorce unless you are positive that that is what you want. In the meantime, do your part to make sure there are no unwanted babies, or you'll really be stuck.

Women's Exchange Is Log Cabin

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — The women around here didn't wait for women's lib to get organized.

A visitor will find American handicrafts here in a 165-year-old log cabin in the tall pine country. The cabin was built in 1810. It houses the Sandhills Woman's Exchange, which opened its doors in 1922 and takes its name from the centuries-old sand formations in the region.

The exchange is devoted to "helping others to help themselves" by being volunteer agents for women — and some men — in the Southeastern United States.

Handicrafted items are accepted on consignment and displayed in the cabin. It has been added to, for a showroom, kitchen and tea room. The surrounding area is known as Deer Park and there is nearby the Pinehurst Country Club and Hotel.

The original operators of the exchange, a small group of women, traveled through the Carolinas teaching handicrafts and collecting the finished products. Today more than 100 members of the Sandhills organization act as salespeople and supervise the kitchen and tea room.

Prices range from 50 cents for a walnut-face doll to $200 for a large patchwork quilt. The money is sent directly to the consignors and many persons have been able to educate their children and solve family health and housing problems by selling their handiwork in this way.

Among the articles for sale are hooked and braided rugs, knitted and crocheted bedspreads, baby clothes, dolls, toys, needlepoint, pottery, bird houses, gingham sun bonnets and beeswax candles. One of the most popular items is pine kindling.

There is also a food counter with French fried peanuts, oatmeal and raisin cookies, pound and fruit cakes, divinity and fudge, as well as a section of preserves, featuring the Southern jelly made of scuppernong grapes.

The exchange is open from October to May.

President Had Little Choice

President Ford signed with some misgivings the $24.8 billion tax cut bill.

Among other things, the bill provides a 10 percent tax credit to most taxpayers up to $200 for 1974 and a $30 tax credit for each personal tax exemption in 1975, with a reduction in the standard deduction for 1975.

The law gives individuals on Social Security a $50 bonus payment this year.

The action will put billions of dollars into the economy within a few months and Congress, which fashioned the tax bill, hopes that these additional consumer dollars will help pull the nation out of the recession.

Unfortunately the action will also help increase the already huge deficit in the federal budget. The combination of more money in the economy, plus a huge deficit could well send the economy into unprecedented inflation within a year.

Congressional Democrats were elated with the signing of the bill. Sen. Russell B. Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee said the president did the right thing. "By signing the bill, the President will set the stage for bipartisan cooperation to promote the nation's interest," he said.

And the chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis. said "The President really didn't have much choice if he wanted to avoid making unemployment even worse."

President Ford had a political reality facing him if he had not signed the bill. He would have been wide open to charges of failing to act to ease the recession. If things got worse economically, he could have fallen into the Hoover image and been classified as the President who did nothing while the nation sank into depression.

While some tax action was needed this year, we think Congress went too far. President Ford had little choice but to take the bill. It was all or nothing. Still we think in a year or so we are going to pay the price in renewed inflation.

Import Sales Soaring

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — The nation's auto makers, plagued by recession, are facing an unsettling assault on the U.S. car market by importers.

For the second consecutive month, imports in March recorded a sharp sales gain over the same month last year to capture a near-record share of the U.S. market.

Without the help of broad cash rebate plans, domestic sales for the month fell 10 percent from February and 20 percent from a year ago to the lowest levels for a March since 1961.

Deliveries of U.S.-made cars in March, reported by the companies on Thursday, were 523,380, compared with 653,246 the year before, when fuel shortages were putting a big dent into sales.

By contrast, import sales of 144,784 were up 16 percent from a poor 125,200 a year ago.

While import sales did not approach the March record of 178,700 set in 1973, their strength, combined with a decline in domestic deliveries, gave the foreign makers a 21.7 percent share of the U.S. market. They achieved a record 22 percent share in August 1971.

Spokesmen for both foreign and domestic firms attributed the renewed popularity in imports to lower prices; better fuel economy and a growing belief by American consumers that foreign companies build more durable cars than the U.S. companies.

"Unlike us, the importers have huge stocks of 1974 models left over to sell at lower prices," explained one U.S. industry analyst. "Not only are the '74s cheaper than the new models, but they're rebating them like we did so we can't touch them in price." Some of the foreign manufacturers introduced their new model cars substantially later than American auto makers.

A spokesman at Nissan Motor Corp. in USA, which imports the popular Datsun from Japan, added, "We figure the domestic rebates in January and February got people thinking about buying cars again. And when they looked at prices, the

Tax Boomerang On Right

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—In the face of almost daily austerity statements from legislative leaders, and a governor who has recanted on his high-priority drive for repeal of the sales tax on food, state employees have launched a push for a cost-of-living pay hike.

State Rep. Allen Adams, D-Wake, is sponsoring the measure which would set aside $107 million in state funds to give teachers, general fund state employees, and a highway department workers an across-the-board salary hike based on the 1974 cost of living increase.

If approved by the General Assembly, the measure would give all state employees a pay raise of 12 percent. The budget prepared by Gov. James E. Holshouser Jr., provides a five percent pay hike which would cost $154.1 million in the next two fiscal years.

Adams' proposal is a one-time hike in addition to the proposed five percent which he sees as necessary to "put the employees where they should have been last year."

they're now 18 months behind."

$265 Million
The total cost of both the budget and Adams' pay raise proposals is over $265 million in the biennium.

Adams, a Wake County attorney, said he was pleased to sponsor the special pay increase measure since his home county contains so many state employees. He said he was asked by officials of the North Carolina Association of Educators to introduce the bill.

The educators had previously agreed to join forces with other lobbyists, including the two state governmental employees associations, in a joint effort for cost-of-living pay hikes.

Adams defends the measure in the face of certain criticism from taxpayers. "We are going to spend $6 billion in the next biennium for something... it's a question of what we spend it on."

"Private employees can get their pay raises immediately. State employees and teachers have to come to the General Assembly and are always one or two years behind. This 12 percent raise would only put them where they should have been last year... we are 18 months behind," Adams said.

Lobbyists for the statewide educators association were asked to get the measure introduced before the association convention held this week. Adams said frankly he did not know why he was selected as the sponsor, but was pleased to introduce the bill.

He said he could not judge chances of passage, and that a realistic appraisal would suggest a pay raise somewhere between five and 12 percent.

Way To Improve
Asked how he could justify a pay raise for teachers which would put the average salary for teachers well over $12,000 annually, while unemployment is high and average industrial salaries remain low, Adams said he believes better education and state services offer "a hope to remedy that disgracefully low per capita income in North Carolina... our industrial wages rank 49th in the nation."

"Teachers are very costly... but they are the most important people we have in terms of improving the potential for our people," Adams said.

The legislative program being pushed by the State Department of Public Instruction does not include a cost-of-living salary proposal, and spokesmen said they are not opposed to the proposal but do not consider it a priority in terms of the educational program.

State employees have announced intentions to push for cost-of-living pay increases throughout the coming two fiscal years, seeking 10 percent for the coming year; another 10 percent the next fiscal year, and an additional three percent pay raise to make up for a lower salary hike than sought in the last session of the General Assembly.

The present push for raises does not look beyond the coming fiscal year, since it is assumed the General Assembly will hold a second session in 1976 to adjust budget items left hanging by the recession.

Has Anyone Seen Patty?

WASHINGTON—A few weeks ago heavily armed agents of the FBI broke into a young lady's apartment in Alexandria, Va., at 10:30 at night and said they were looking for Patty Hearst. They had no search warrant, and claimed they didn't need one because the warrants already out for Patty Hearst covered them. Obviously they didn't find Miss Hearst, but they scared the hell out of all young ladies living in the Washington area.

I received a call from the daughter of a friend of mine who lives on Capitol Hill. She wanted to know what she should do if someone knocks on her door late at night and says he's from the FBI.

"Well," I said, "the FBI has very clear guidelines on that. They've been warning women for years to bolt their doors at night and not open them to anyone."

"But if I don't open the door they'll break it down," she protested. "And then the landlady will make me pay for a new door."

"Now wait a minute. The only reason the FBI broke into that lady's apartment in Alexandria is because her neighbors said she looked like Patty Hearst. You don't look like Patty Hearst, do you?"

"How do I know what Patty Hearst looks like?" she said.

Everyone knows what Patty Hearst looks like. She has long hair, wears a black beret, an Army jacket and carries a submachine gun in her hand at all times."

"That's the picture they print in papers," the young lady protested. "But she also wears wigs and dresses and high-heel shoes. Some people have even said she was seen in blackface. Every girl in America could look like Patty Hearst."

"That's true," I admitted. "I agree you have a problem. Let's see, suppose when the person from the FBI knocks on the door you demand he shove his credentials under it?"

"The girl in Alexandria did that, and that's when they broke down her door. The FBI said they thought it was a trick."

"I can see it from their point of view," I said. "After all, if you are from the FBI and someone demands your credentials you could indeed believe the person is Patty Hearst. If the girl had nothing to hide, she'd take the FBI's word for it."

"So you're suggesting I open the door if someone knocks on it and claims he's a G-man?"

"I'm not saying that exactly. Perhaps you could go to the phone and call the FBI and ask them if they had sent someone."

"The girl in Alexandria did that and the agents pulled their guns on her. They were going to shoot her. I'm telling you I'm scared stiff. I used to be afraid of just burglars and rapists. Now I'm afraid of the Justice Department."

"Couldn't you put a large sign on your door saying, 'Patty Hearst Is Alive And Well And Living In A Lesbian Commune In Disneyland'?"

"I guess so," my young friend said. "But why can't the FBI find another way of catching Patty Hearst without breaking into everyone's apartment because some kooky neighbor says she lives there?"

"In all due respect, I don't think it's your job or mine to tell the FBI how to catch

Other Editors Say That Time Again

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

It's about that time again. "That time" means approaching spring and summer when vacationers, fishermen and others of an outdoor inclination get their boats out of mothballs and head for the river, the lake or the ocean.

And with the influx of boating people to the waters comes an increase in boating fatalities.

Such tragedies do not often gain the publicity that attends traffic smash-ups and other disasters. But the toll from boating accidents and drownings is high each year and should warrant a word of caution.

Each year the Coast Guard conducts literally hundreds of searches for missing or overdue boats. Boats that are only known to be "out there somewhere" often force searches to be conducted without even a clear description of the missing vessel.

The Coast Guard doesn't want to discourage the reporting of missing or overdue boats. It does, however, want to make the boating public aware of the necessity of filing a Float Plan before making even the shortest trip.

A Float Plan can be very informal, just the necessary information given to a responsible person on shore. Necessary information must include an accurate description of the boat; exact details of destination, including routes to be taken, estimated times of departure and arrival, people on board. Such forms are included in many state and federal boating safety publications.

Once a Float Plan is filed, it should be kept updated, with any changes in plan that might be made, and terminated when the trip is finished.

Frequently, the Coast Guard has conducted an exhaustive search for an overdue boat, only to find the boat safely tied up in harbor. The operator had changed his plans or finished his trip and neglected to notify those concerned.

Giving proper notice can save thousands of tax dollars and many man hours spent looking for someone when in fact no emergency exists.

It works both ways. When you are in trouble, you want help fast as possible. Given the proper information, the Coast Guard and other search parties will be there.

Food Tax Repeal Put To Rest

By JOHN KILGO

Democrats in the North Carolina Legislature—a great many of them, at any rate—are heaving darts at Gov. Jim Holshouser, who had to make a 180 degree turn in his fight to have the food tax repealed.

Gov. Holshouser had taken this fight to the people. He had petitions signed, and some members of his administration were running around the state making tough speeches that said the money definitely is available to repeal the food tax.

It was last Wednesday that Gov. Holshouser said the financial picture in the state had turned so bleak that there is no way the food tax can be repealed.

"That was the only thing the Governor could say," said Rep. Craig Lawing, co-chairman of the Joint Committee on the Economy.

"He knew from the start that he was grandstanding. I really believe the Governor was trying to put us (the Legislature) in a bad light with the people. It was clear to most people in the Legislature from the start that the money wouldn't be available this year to repeal the food tax."

Some legislators still do not buy this kind of reasoning. State Sen. McNeill Smith of Goldsboro says the food tax should still be repealed, with the lost revenue made up in other tax structures.

Sen. Smith talks of raising the tobacco tax and changing the income tax structure to make up for the funds lost by repealing the food tax. He maintains the food tax is unfair.

The Governor's statement, along with remarks by House Speaker Jimmy Green and Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt that they knew all along the food tax couldn't be repealed this year, pretty well puts the issue to rest for this session. It would take a major miracle for Sen. Smith and his allies to win this battle now.

State government faces tough financial times this year, there's no question about that.

Rep. Lawing and Sen. Billy Mills co-chair the joint legislative committee on the Economy. They've investigated the financial picture for months now and have come back with discouraging news.

"The budget we're working under now," Lawing says, "was based on a rate of growth of 11.5 percent. That was considered a conservative figure when it was adopted, because our rate of growth in the state is usually around 13 percent. But January and February were awful months. At this point our growth rate is only 10.7 percent, which is below what we budgeted."

Lawing says this quarter's growth will be critical. If it doesn't increase enough to bring the total growth up to 11.5 percent, Lawing says the state faces the very real chance of having a deficit.

"We can't by law have a deficit budget," Lawing said, "which means we would have to cut salaries or some programs in order to come up with a balanced budget. These are unusual times. I knew when the Governor was making his State of the State address and calling for the food tax repeal that he was playing politics. There's no way we can consider repeal of that tax this year, and I have to believe the Governor knew that when he addressed the Legislature in January."

The INSIDE REPORT

Launch Pay Boost Drive

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Paving up what may be one of his last, best chances to appease the Republican right by vetoing the tax cut bill, President Ford again rejected advice from his staunchest congressional supporters — and probably his own instincts — to follow the urgings of White House aides.

The veto recommendation came not merely from stoneage Republicans who long ago deserted the President but from longtime Ford loyalists such as Rep. Barber Conable of New York, chairman of the House Republican Policy Committee. Conable, a moderate, urged a veto partly because he considers the tax bill a mess but also on political grounds. His message: the president has to do something soon for conservatives or risk polarization of the party, which will endanger his election in 1976.

However, there is no sign that placating Republican conservatives was even given serious weight in White House veto deliberations. Rather, both Mr. Ford and senior aides seem to underestimate division within the party and the threat to his nomination posed by Ronald Reagan and the right.

Internal debate over a veto began at 4 p.m., March 26, when, with the final tax cut version taking shape in a chaotic Senate-House conference, Republican congressional leaders were called to the White House. Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Rep. John Anderson of Illinois urged the President to sign the bill. But their advice is generally regarded less seriously than what is said by party leaders more steadfast in following the party line.

The loyalists — Conable, Rep. John Rhodes of Arizona, Rep. Robert Michel of Illinois, Sen. John Tower of Texas — wanted a veto. They contended it could be sustained more easily than vetoes of future spending bills, a forecast confirmed by Mr. Ford's own Capitol Hill lobbyists.

At that meeting, the President himself seemed to be following his natural allies and instincts toward a veto. Rhodes, Mr. Ford's successor as House minority leader, was so convinced that he roamed the House Republican cloakroom the next morning cheerfully predicting a veto.

But others at the White House meeting learned more of the future by watching the President's aides instead of the President. Political counselor Robert T. Hartmann's expressively glowering face did not hide displeasure over veto recommendations. "That told me a lot," one onlooker said. "I figure Bob Hartmann always gets the last word."

Donald Rumsfeld, powerful and pokerfaced White House chief of staff, gave no hints but this time was backing sometime rival Hartmann. Also strongly urging a signature were economic adviser Alan Greenspan, far more disturbed by continuing recession than he publicly admits; economic aide William Seidman; and budget chief James Lynn. Alone in urging a veto was Treasury Secretary William Simon, warning of havoc from runaway deficit spending. By Thursday, March 27, Mr. Ford was turning against the veto.

To rationalize his decision to conservatives, Mr. Ford has privately contended an override fight would be "nip and tuck" (contradicting his own Congress-watchers). Nor do hopes for quick economic revival explain his approval; there is no certainty in the administration that the Democratic-engineered tax cut will do more good than harm in the long run.

In truth, the decision was essentially political. "How could we explain the President recommending a tax cut and then vetoing it?" one aide asks. Or, he might ask, how can the veto of any tax reduction be explained?

But such political considerations ignored predictable outrage from the Republican right. The President shied away from a veto, one prominent Congressman told us, "because they're so damn mushy down there." That "mushiness" may be met by unwillingness of angry conservatives to back vetoes of special interest spending bills.

Outside Congress, Mr. Ford's decision was greeted by shrieks from the right — such as Gov. Meldrim Thompson of New Hampshire bellowing from Concord. Cooler Republican heads were quieter but not less

Strength For Today

EDUCATION IN CHARITY

Many years ago in a church in a small town, a special collection was taken for the poor. A little boy, son of parents in very modest circumstances, saw his father take a five dollar bill out of his pocket and drop it into the collection plate. Five dollars was a lot more money then than now, and certainly meant a great deal to this family. The little boy was so surprised at the size of his father's donation that he never forgot it.

This little boy, now a very wealthy man, recently made a donation to charity of hundreds of thousands of dollars. The reason for this generosity was that he had been so impressed by what his father did that he felt morally bound to make a gift of equal proportions.

But the moral of this story is not charity but education. The most important education we ever receive comes from our parents when we are young. That is why God-fearing, generous parents are probably the best educational institution in the world.

A Review High Marks For 'My Fair Lady'

A very beautiful thing took place at the end of the opening performance of My Fair Lady at Rose High School. The big cast of the musical, accepting a standing ovation, in turn sought out their director, Claude West, West, Chairman of Vocational Education, who directed the play, was seated high in the bleachers. The young actors and actresses would not give up until their man threaded his way through the packed crowd to join them on stage. This was a touching and fitting tribute to a talented, modest man who has worked so hard behind the scenes in a number of good things that have taken place at Rose High over a number of years.

In this third annual production of a major musical by students at Rose High, a full opening house audience once more showed their enthusiastic approval of the tremendous effort put forth by these young people in tackling the challenge of mounting a full scale musical. Within the limitations inherent in the experience and capabilities of high school students — and any effort to judge the final result of a high school production must be made on that basis — the Rose High production of My Fair Lady rates high marks.

Pamela Bath is a petite lovely Eliza Doolittle with a fine, clear voice. Robert Wease in the role of Henry Higgins is convincing as the insufferable, yet human figure of a spoiled bachelor. All of the major supporting characters — Mose Stocks as Alfred P. Doolittle; John Miller as Freddy Eynsford-Hill; Kim McKinney as Mrs. Higgins; Don Sullivan as Colonel Pickering, provide excellent support.

The finest moment in this production are those in which the stage is filled with principals and/or the various ensembles of Cockneys or fashionable members of society. Dedicated hours of rehearsal pay off well in these smooth scenes that would do justice to a professional group.

Perhaps the worst flaw in the play is the attempt to have players speak altogether in Cockney accents. At times it was difficult to equate the dialogue with an understandable American equivalent. Also, it might be wise in productions as ambitious as My Fair Lady to do some judicious cutting in order to shorten the playing time—in this case three hours, including a short intermission).

What is really astounding is the technical achievements evident in this play. The lighting is superb, and the sets are indeed of a quality not expected in a school production.

In addition to West's consistently sensitive directing, choreographer Christina Williams, music conductor Steve Koch and Anne Langdale's costumes all contributed in great measure to the overall excellence of My Fair Lady.

This youthful look at one of America's great musicals is rewarding, and area people have tonight and tomorrow night to set aside to take it in. It's a heart-warming event. You'll love it.

Revival Series To Begin Here Sunday

The Rev. Richard Little will be the guest speaker for revival services at the Trinity Free Will Baptist Church Sunday through Thursday.

REV. RICHARD LITTLE

A native of Milwaukee, Wis., the Rev. Little grew up in Anniston, Ala., and graduated from Davidson College. He received his B. D. degree from Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va., and did further graduate work at Lancaster Theological Seminary, Lancaster, Pa.

He has served as assistant pastor of the Tinkling Springs Presbyterian Church and chaplain of the Woodrow Wilson Rehabilitation Center, Fishersville, Va. He has been youth recreational leader for several conferences at Massanetta Springs, Va., and was pastor of the Parkview Presbyterian Church, Newport, Va., for six years.

Since April, 1965, the Rev. Little has been engaged in fulltime preaching evangelism under the auspices of the Presbyterian Evangelistic Fellowship.

Sessions on personal evangelism will be held at 7 p.m. followed by the revival services beginning at 7:45. Special singing will be held and a nursery will be provided.

Al Davis, pastor of the Trinity Church, located at 264 By-pass and Golden Road, invites the public to attend.

cost of operation, fuel economy and quality they started thinking import."

A New York import dealer said his customers have complained that U.S. cars aren't built as well as they used to be. Some U.S. analysts said they are not overly concerned with the recent gains by the imports.

"As soon as the imports run out of 1974 models, they'll return to their customary (16 per cent) share of the market," said one.

Another analyst said March domestic sales were low because the cash rebates that ended Feb. 28 boosted February deliveries by borrowing sales from March.

"We expect to bounce back in April and May," he said.

Attorney To Be Speaker

John R. Dyer III, an attorney at law in Shelby, will speak to the newly reactivated Greenville Chapter of the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship at the American Legion Building located on Saint Andrews Drive on Monday night, April 7.

His talk, "a moving testimony," is scheduled following a supper at 7 p.m. in the Legion Building. The meeting will begin at 7:45 p.m. and is free and open to the public. There is a charge for the supper. Julian R. White Jr. will introduce the speaker.

Dover comes to Greenville under the sponsorship of five acting officers and 14 directors of the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship. Officers are John Montgomery, president; Percy R. Cox, vice president; Scott Dixon, second vice president; Roy L. Honeycutt III, secretary; and Hugh McGowan Jr., treasurer.

Mrs. Helen Higgs Kirkpatrick, is responsible for reactivating the Greenville Chapter.

Others on Monday night program will include Mr. and Mrs. Wayne West of Williamston, who will sing several special selections. Mrs. West is the former Ruth Cotton Taylor of Greenville.

indignant. One party leader, up to now a Ford loyalist, told us: "I think now we've got to challenge Ford's nomination." All that stops him from going public is doubt that Reagan, the logical challenger, will run.

Singing the tax bill is seen by such Republicans at the latest in their ideological grievances: Vietnam amnesty, selection of Nelson Rockefeller, planned deficit spending, cabinet appointments, the Senate filibuster fight, liberalized convention delegate selection. Until Saturday night, they hopefully viewed a tax cut veto as a unique opportunity to erase these disappointments. No equally ripe chance may soon present itself to Mr. Ford.

Gospel-Singing Set Saturday

BETHEL — A gospel singing will be held at the Church of God here Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

The Holland Family will be the guest group and will also be present for the Sunday morning worship service.

The public is invited to attend.

Sponsoring Car Wash Saturday

The Layman's League of the First Free Will Baptist Church will sponsor a car wash Saturday from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. at the church.

The cost will be $1.50 for outside cleaning only or $3.00 for inside and outside. Proceeds will be used toward the development of church property.

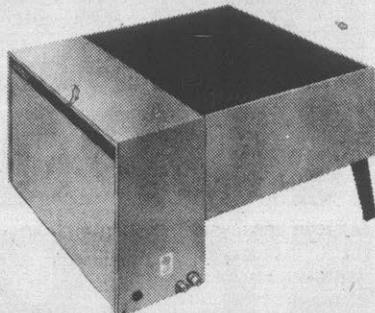

The church is located at 2800 S. Charles St.

Quite A Girl!

Aunt Sara looks about as stern as they come, doesn't she? As they used to say, "butter wouldn't melt in her mouth." I don't remember the occasion of this picture, since I was the baby. But I do remember Great Aunt Sara very vividly and she was quite a girl!

She was what they call a "pillar of the church." She must have baked an astronomical number of chicken pies for church suppers and served on almost every committee at one time or another. You might say she was pious, a word we don't usually care for. What I mean is that she revered her God and loved Him.

She also had a tremendous sense of humor. I remember she used to tell the funniest stories.

The point is this. So often people mistake religious fervor for a certain "holier than thou" attitude. They don't believe that humor and religion go together. But Aunt Sara proved them wrong. The Church encompasses all of life—humor and wit—as well as love and compassion . . . and so much more! You can easily find out for yourself.

the size of the lot would afford very little room for a mobile home after setback requirements are met. Councilman Percy Cox asserted that the board could not approve the matter "even if we wanted to."

Applications for taxicab operator's permits were approved for Emmitt Ray Halfhill, Joseph Daniels, and James David Drake. The application of William Elton Atkinson was tabled until the May 8 meeting.

Five streets in Section I of Cambridge Subdivision were accepted to be added to the city maintained system. They include Cambridge Road, Lancaster Drive, Chadwick Lane, Sir Walter Drive and Roanoke Place.

Three requests for refunds were also approved. The requests were by Lacy Wilson Daniels for a refund of 1974 taxes in the amount of $5.98 due to a double listing error; by Mobile Home Industries for a 1974 tax penalty refund in the amount of $250.50; and by Fieldcrest Mills Inc. for a refund for 1974-75 fire protection fees in the amount of $2,154.12 due to an error in listing property.

penalty of $69.37 for 1973 discovered taxes was approved. The Bostic Sugg matter passed by four-to-two margin with Council members Mrs. Mildred McGrath and Dr. Frank Fuller voting against release of the penalty payment.

The Council also voted by a four-to-two margin to proceed with placing an order for metal city tags for 1976 in lieu of decals. Fuller and Councilman John Howard voted against the measure. Howard offered an earlier motion that the matter be tabled until information could be obtained concerning permanent tags.

Authorization was given to the submission of a resolution requesting the North Carolina Board of Transportation to initiate a corridor or corridors study for the development of U.S. 64-U.S. 264 West of U.S. 301 and eastward to U.S. 17 and to include the proposed highway or highways in the state's Seven Year Highway Program. Mayor Eugene West said that the matter was discussed at a meeting of area officials this week in Rocky Mount.

Two items not included on the business agenda were scheduled for public hearings at the May 8 meeting. They involved certificates of convenience and necessity for Otis Lee Tucker and Leina Matusko and dissolution of limousine service from Greenville to Kinston.

Approval was given to the sale of Disposal Parcel D-6 in the Central Business District to S.G. Wilkerson and partners by the Redevelopment Commission. The 6,074 square foot parcel is located directly east of the present Wilkerson Funeral Home facilities on Evans Street. The firm submitted a bid of $3,948.10 and was the only party to bid on the parcel. Cox and Mrs. McGrath voted against the motion to approve the sale.

A bid of $3,208 by Harley-Davidson Motorcycles of Raleigh was approved for the purchase of a motorcycle unit for the Police Department. Harley-Davidson submitted the low bid on the unit while J.W. Motorcycle Sales offered a bid of $3,437.05. Stan's Sport Center submitted an offer of $2,600 but the bid did not meet specifications sought by the city.

Approval was given for the waiver of privilege license requirements for the operation of a concession stand by the Optimist Club at the boat show at Nichol's.

Dock Ellis Picks Up Where He Left Off; Medicine For Pirates

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

Dock Ellis has picked up this spring where he left off last fall and that may be just what the doctor ordered for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Ellis allowed three hits and two unearned runs over the first seven innings Thursday in the Pirates' 3-2 exhibition triumph over the Chicago White Sox. In 36 innings this spring he has allowed only one earned tally.

Last July 10 Ellis' record was 3-8 with a 4.54 earned run average. Starting with a 3-1 triumph over Houston on July 15, he won eight consecutive games and nine of 10. During that 9-1 stretch he pitched seven complete games and went into the ninth inning of two others. His ERA was 1.91.

But his season came to an end Sept. 11 when a line drive off the bat of Philadelphia's Willie Montanez fractured his right wrist.

The Pirates defeated the White Sox when Willie Stargell, who earlier belted a solo homer, singled home the winning run in the eighth inning following Richie Hebner's triple. Elsewhere on the exhibition trail: Oakland A's 10, Los Angeles Dodgers 9; San Diego Padres 2, Cleveland Indians 0; Baltimore Orioles 6, Kansas City Royals 4; Cincinnati Reds 3, Detroit Tigers 1; New York Yankees 7, New York Mets 3; St. Louis Cardinals 10, Houston Astros 5; Minnesota Twins 2, Boston Red Sox 1; Montreal Expos 4, Philadelphia Phillies 3; Chicago Cubs 6, Milwaukee Brewers 4; Atlanta Braves 3, Richmond of the International League 2. The California Angels and San Francisco Giants were rained out.

Bert Campaneris led off the bottom of the ninth with his second home run of the game and Claudell Washington singled home the winning run as the A's rallied to edge the Dodgers. The game between the 1974 World Series rivals drew a crowd of 4,824, largest for the A's in their seven years of training at Mesa, Ariz.

San Diego left-handers Randy Jones, Dave Tomlin and Rich Fulkers combined to pitch a one-hitter against Cleveland. Baltimore's Lee May drove in three runs with a homer and double against Kansas City. Cincinnati's sore-shouldered Gary Nolan breezed through his final tune-up, scattering five hits in seven innings against the Tigers.

Larry Gura pitched seven scoreless innings to outduel Tom Seaver, and Alex Johnson, Walt Williams and Lou Piniella drove in two runs apiece, leading the Yankees past the Mets before a record crowd of 8,439 in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

St. Louis reached Houston's Larry Dierker for seven runs in the fourth inning — five unearned — in walloping the Astros. Glenn Borgmann's seventh-inning single enabled Minnesota to beat Boston behind Bert Blyleven, who fanned 10 in seven innings.

Philadelphia's Eddie Watt surrendered a bases-loaded walk to Larry Bittner in the eighth inning, capping a three-run rally that lifted Montreal over the Phillies. Jerry Morales' tie-breaking eighth-inning homer paced the Cubs over the Brewers. Dusty Baker's two-run homer in the third inning helped the Braves down their Richmond farm team.

Cavaliers Whip Knicks, 100-95

By RICHARD BILOTTI
AP Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Jim Clemons, Dick Snyder and a screaming, league record crowd kept the Cleveland Cavaliers' hopes alive for their first National Basketball Association playoff spot Thursday night at the Coliseum.

In the only NBA game of the night, the Cavaliers defeated the New York Knicks 100-95 before 20,239 fans. The crowd set an NBA record for a single game. The previous record was 19,694 which has been set in Madison Square Garden numerous times.

Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch and New York Coach Red Holzman agreed that the support from the fans made a big difference.

"We played in front of some great fans," Fitch said. "I've always said that the reason why the Knicks do so well in New York is because of the fans. You're scared not to do well with that many people. You don't want that many men going into the parking lot and beating their wives."

The Cavaliers still have to win their final game against Kansas City Sunday in order to make the playoffs. But they won't have the home court advantage, because the game is scheduled for Omaha.

The Cavs are now 40-41 with one game remaining and are fighting with the Knicks and Houston for the postseason action. The Knicks are 39-41 with two games left.

"The good crowd is always an advantage," said Holzman. "It's great to see a crowd like this in Cleveland."

Holzman added that "Cleveland was very aggressive and did a good job on defense. They got a couple of good bounces. We had our chance to win, but didn't make the shots."

After sharing the lead with New York several times, the Cavaliers entered the final quarter with a 73-73 advantage that Clemons produced with two field goals in the closing second of the third period.

Snyder, who was high for Cleveland with 22, hit for eight points in the opening minutes of the last quarter, putting the Cavaliers up 90-80 with seven minutes remaining in the game.

Walt Frazier, who scored 20 for the Knicks, kept New York in the game, and his six points in the last minutes along with Earl Monroe's layup brought the deficit to 96-95 with 1:20 remaining.

Clemons then came through with two foul shots and Jim Brewer stuffed one at the buzzer, giving the Cavs a cushion.

Clemons, who scored only two points in the first half, followed Snyder on the Cavs list with 19 points.

The Knicks play tonight at Milwaukee and at home on Sunday and must win those two games to make the playoffs, unless the Cavs lose Sunday, then a split would give New York the wild card spot.

Ali Signs To Fight Lyle In TV Bout; Then Have Fight In Egypt

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali will appear in the nation's living rooms in May, but you'll probably have to go to the theater to watch him perform in September.

"The fight is on, the money is up," Herbert Muhammad, Ali's manager, said Thursday in Chicago about an Ali title defense against Ron Lyle in Las Vegas May 16, which will be shown live on home television by ABC.

"The terms are agreeable and we will sign a contract," said Irwin Rose, Lyle's manager of record, who added that he had talked with Lyle's business partner, Bill Daniels, owner of the pro basketball Utah Stars.

Ali reportedly will get $1 million and Lyle $100,000.

The first home telecast of a heavyweight title fight since Joe Frazier stopped Ron Stander May 25, 1972, will be promoted by Don King Productions, Inc., and Video Techniques, Inc., promoters of Ali's title winning performance against George Foreman in Africa last Oct. 30 and his defense against Chuck Wepner March 24 at the Cleveland Coliseum.

King also said Thursday that he expects to make the Ali-Lyle fight the second half of a home television doubleheader with middleweight champion Carlos Monzon or lightweight champion Robert Duran.

Then, under questioning, King said he expects the next "big fight" to be in Egypt in September. Ali would probably meet Foreman or possibly Joe Frazier in a closed-circuit television match in Cairo.

For Lyle the shot at the title comes after a series of setbacks.

The 33-year-old ex-convict from Denver was all but signed to fight Ali in Madison Square Garden March 24, but the bout fell through and Ali ended up with Wepner. The Garden still hoped to make an Ali-Lyle fight for June but Lyle then was outpointed by unheralded Jimmy Young.

Then Lyle was arrested on a charge of shooting at his wife. He currently is out on $3,000 bail on felony menacing and second-degree assault on a complaint filed by his wife.

"A man is innocent until proved guilty, and I don't think Lyle's being out on bail would keep him from going to Nevada," said Denver County Dist.

Atty. Dale Tooley Thursday. "It's simply a guarantee he will return. We wouldn't want to set a trial date that would conflict with personal plans like these."

Qualifying For Qwyn Stanley

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — With the winners of five of the season's first six races among the entries, qualifying was scheduled today for the 15th Gwyn Staley Memorial 400 Stock Car race at North Wilkesboro Speedway.

Richard Petty, the sport's all-time hero, was favored to grab the front row pole position for Sunday's 2 p.m. start. Petty is an 11-time winner at the five-eighths-of-a-mile oval.

The 37-year-old Dodge star and his two chief rivals here, Chevrolet's Cale Yarborough and Ford's Buddy Baker, were shooting at the track's all-time lap mark of 107.558 miles per hour set three years ago by Charlie Glotzbach in a Chevrolet.

The first eight positions in what will become a 30-car starting field were to be decided in today's trials. The remaining 22 births will be filled Saturday. The race drew 34 entries, only the third event of the season where there will be a surplus of cars.

Petty, stock car racing's top money winner with $330,347 last year, won this race in 1974. Yarborough prevailed in the Wilkes 400, the track's fall production.

In addition to Petty, Baker and Yarborough, several other top runners hope to make the Gwyn Staley — the race was named for a driver who was killed in 1957 — their first entry into a Grand National winner's circle.

They include Chevrolet aces Darrell Waltrip and Lennie Pond and Dodge-driving Dave Marcis.

All have been running strong in the early events and could break the ice if the top trio fails. Also in the long-shot group are Daytona 500 winner Benny Parsons and Dick Brooks, a journeyman driver whose big moment came when he won the rich Talladega (Ala.) 500 in an upset two years ago. Brooks has a well-prepared Ford this year.

Saturday's program also will be spiced by a 100-mile event for compact sedans.

GSU Leads Furman Golf

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Georgia Southern leads the Furman Invitational Golf Tournament being played at the Furman University golf course at five strokes above par after the first round.

The tourney, with 24 schools represented, was hampered throughout the opening round by high winds that some coaches say has hurt the team scores.

Georgia Southern leads with a 293, Georgia and East Tennessee State are tied for second with 299, followed by North Carolina with 300 and North Carolina State and Appalachian State with 301.

The tournament, which got underway Thursday, continues through Saturday on the par-72 course.

Individual leaders include Mark Hope of North Carolina with a 69, Tim Simpson of Georgia with 70, Skeeter Heath of East Tennessee State and Ken Kriger of Georgia Southern with 71, and Bill Mitchell of Georgia Southern and Vance Heafner of N.C. State with 72.

Georgia Southern coach Ron Roberts said, "We're grateful to be ahead. We haven't played since the Palmetto Invitational Tournament in Orangeburg, S.C. two weeks ago, where we finished fifth."

Nets, Colonels Meet For Title

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

After 84 regular season games, the New York Nets and the Kentucky Colonels will play a winner-take-all game — the winner getting a chance to take on the Memphis Sounds in the first round of the American Basketball Association Eastern Division playoffs.

Both New York and Kentucky won their final regular season games Thursday night, finishing with identical records of 58-26 and tying for first place in the East. So they'll play an extra game Friday night at Kentucky to determine the East champion.

The game will determine the playoff pairings. The team that finishes first will open against the fourth-place Sounds in the best-of-seven series while the runnerup meets the third-place Spirits of St. Louis.

Because Kentucky won the season series against the Nets, 6-5, the game will be played in Louisville where the Colonels have defeated New York five times while losing only once.

The Nets came back from a 16-point deficit with 4:18 remaining in regulation play to defeat the Virginia Squires 116-111 in overtime, while Kentucky handed the Sounds a 103-93 defeat Thursday night.

In other games, Utah crushed St. Louis 128-98, San Antonio defeated Indiana 137-122, and Denver outlasted San Diego 148-121.

Colonels 103, Sounds 93 "It all boils down to one game and I love it," said Kentucky Coach Hubie Brown. "This is what basketball is supposed to be all about."

Wilbur Jones, who joined Kentucky this season after playing out his option in Memphis, scored 16 points and had nine rebounds in the second half to pace the Colonels. He finished with 19 points and 12 rebounds.

Nets 116, Squires 111

"We were in trouble," Nets Coach Kevin Loughery admitted.

With 4:18 remaining in regulation time, the New Yorkers were down by 16 points. But Julius Erving, who finished with 38 points, Brian Taylor and Wendell Ladner led a Nets rally that sent the game into overtime.

Stars 128, Spirits 98 Pouring in 73 points in the first half, the Utah Stars wound up the regular season with a convincing victory over St. Louis. Utah's Ron Boone led all scorers with 30 points while rookie Marvin Barnes topped the Spirits with 25 points.

Spurs 137, Pacers 122 George Gervin scored 34 points to pace the San Antonio Spurs to a victory over the team they will meet Saturday in the opening round of the Western Division playoffs. San Antonio finished second in the division while the Pacers were third.

Nuggets 148, Conquistadors 121 Denver ran away from San Diego to post its 65th victory of the season against only 19 losses. The Nuggets, paced by Byron Beck's 21 points, had nine players in double figures as the Conquistadors' last lead was 97.

The playoffs will begin Saturday with Indiana at San Diego. On Sunday, Utah will travel to Denver in a Western Division clash while the Eastern pairings will depend upon tonight's game between New York and Kentucky.

GIRL PITCHER

ROTONDA, Fla. (UPI) — When Paul Blair of the Baltimore Orioles faced softball pitching star Joan Joyce in a brief exhibition early in 1975 he managed to foul off a few pitches but hit none into fair territory.

only three greens in the clubhouse, buffeting winds.

"I had it on the right side of the fairway to shoot at the green," he said. "I had it on the right side of the green. I made all my makeable putts. I had it close."

Weiskopf won seven tournaments in four countries—including the British Open—in 1973. But, plagued by a hand injury and some flares of temperament, he failed to win last season. He finished second three times. And he was second again last week in the Heritage Classic.

Now, he says, he's ready to win.

"That's one of the finest rounds I've ever played," he repeated for the second or third time. "It's just a matter of time. I've got my swing back to where it was in '73."

He scored from 15 and 20 feet and once reached a par five in two for a three-under-par score going out. He holed it from a sand trap on his 12th hole and then reeled off the closing string of three consecutive birdies. One came on an 18-foot putt, the other two after he hit short irons inside of six feet.

In addition to Hill, only four other players could break par. They were Perry Leslie at 68, South African Bobby Cole at 69 and Bud Allin and Jerry Heard at 70.

Circus Project Aiding Hospital

The Greenville Jay-Cettes are sponsoring the Clyde Beatty-Cole Bros. Circus at the Fairgrounds on Thursday, April 10th with two performances—at 4:30 and at 7:30 p.m. Proceeds from the event are to be used to help furnish the pediatrics ward of the new hospital and for handicapped and crippled children in Pitt County.

Jaycees are assisting Jay-Cettes and offering their share of the proceeds to the building fund for the new hospital. Local businesses and individuals have purchased children's tickets for distribution through several outlets such as Boys' Club, Operation Sunshine, and the Department of Social Services.

Karen Turner, Jay-Cette president, and Jim Smith, Jaycee Director, encourage the purchase of tickets at the ticket booth locations at Nichols Discount City and at J. C.

Penneys prior to circus day; tickets are more expensive at the gate and less money will apply to the local purposes if people wait to purchase tickets on circus day. Ticket booth hours are: Penneys: 6-9 p.m., Thursday, Friday, Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday; and 10 a.m.-9 p.m. on Saturday. Nichols: 6:30-9:30 p.m., Thursdays, Friday, Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday; and 10 a.m.-9:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Prices are $3.00 adult general admission, $2.00 for children general admission, and $1.00 additional for all reserved seats. Warren Stroud and David Dadisman are serving as Chairmen for the Jay-Cette Circus Assistance Project.

Safe-Diving Road Rally Here Saturday

Greenville is the starting point for the East Carolina Council Explorer Safe-Diving Road Rally Saturday at 11 a.m.

William A. Heyman, chairman of the Council's Explorer committee, announced that this year's rally is being sponsored by Smith Waldrop Motors here and "staged" by the Tar Heel Sports Car Club.

Twenty teams from Greenville, Wilson, Rocky Mount, Washington, Jacksonville, and Kinston will compete for trophies as they demonstrate ability to follow directions, read maps, and obey traffic rules. The teams, each made up of a driver and a navigator, will start at Smith Waldrop's car lot and drive a prescribed course of more than 100 miles. Each must arrive on time at each of eight checkpoints to pick up instructions for the next segment. The course will end at Stallings Field in Kinston, where Rally Master Bouie Gray of Wilson and Rally Director Bob Mosley of Greenville will present trophies.

Winners of this rally will compete with other North and South Carolina winners for the honor of competing in the National Rally in Detroit, Mich. this summer.

Appreciation Day Scheduled

Youth Appreciation Day will be held Sunday at Holly Hill FWB Church, beginning at 11 a.m.

The Rev. J. L. Perry will be in charge.

Dinner will be served at 2 p.m.

Artist Will Be 'In Residence' On Saturday

G. Michael Smith, a native of Raleigh and well known wild life artist of the Tar Heel state, will be the artist-in-residence at the Grifton Shad Festival on Saturday, April 5.

A meticulous draftsman, Smith has the knack of bringing to life the birds he paints and details of nature — leaves, grasses, water and skies that surround the birds.

The young artist, who is partially paralyzed, has gained wide recognition for his prints of wildlife, particularly birds. In Grifton, he will be at the Crafts and Arts Division of the Shad Festival. The public is invited to stop by and see the artist and his work.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, APRIL 5, 1975

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Early in the day brings an opportunity to do some serious thinking about the future. Later get together with friends and engage in recreations you enjoy. You can now express your personal aims.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A good day to get in touch with as many good friends as you can and come to better terms with them. Show your appreciation.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study your progress where career is concerned and know where to make improvements. Get bills paid and improve your credit.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get out of that rut and engage in more interesting and profitable outlets. A good time to follow your hunches. Be wise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Reach a better understanding with mate and work together pleasantly. Avoid one who is a troublemaker. Relax tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A fine day for discussing mutual aims with associates and reaching a fine understanding. Evening is fine for the social.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A good time to engage in favorite hobby with congenials. Much happiness with mate is possible now. Use care in motion.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make appointments early with congenials for the recreational activities you want to enjoy later. Avoid one who quibbles.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you cooperate more with kin, you find that harmony is restored in the home. Take time to improve your surroundings.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A perfect day to make calls on friends and make plans for the future. Attend a fine social affair this evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Put those clever ideas to work and contact proper persons who can be of great help to you. Don't neglect health treatments.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Friendliness is the keynote and you can now impress others with your fine personality. Be sure to dress in good taste.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Those new ideas you have need to be thought out more carefully before taking action. Ideal evening for romantic happiness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who loves people, but should be taught to discipline the mind and discriminate between those who can be of help and those who are detrimental to progress. Much success and happiness here, especially in the teaching field.

Will Prepare 'Wak' Plans

A kick-off meeting to prepare final plans for the annual spring Greenville walk for Humanity has been scheduled for Monday, April 7 at 7 p.m. in the Baptist Student Union, 511 East 10th Street.

Mike Hamer, publicity spokesman for those working on plans, says the Monday meeting is an important one for all persons interested in helping shape up the program.

Hamer also revealed that the date for the Greenville walk for Humanity has been set for Saturday, April 26 and that full details will be forthcoming soon. An announcement will also be made soon on the local and international charities chosen to be joint recipients of proceeds from the annual event.

Sponsor cards for walkers are now available, and may be picked up at the Baptist Student Union from 1 to 4 p.m. daily.

Some 1,600 feet is the deepest point in Lake Tahoe, which crosses the state lines of California and Nevada.

Rev. Bob Clyde is coordinator. Additional information can be obtained by calling 752-4646.

Local Woman Appointed Refugee To Justice Dept. Post

RALEIGH — Attorney General Rufus Edmisten has announced the appointment of Miss Norma Harrell of Greenville to a newly created position in the Department of Justice.

Edmisten said Miss Harrell will direct and oversee implementation of the Administrative Procedures Act (APA). Miss Harrell will define and organize the responsibilities of the Attorney General's office as set out in the Act.

"This new phase of our work will prove to be of tremendous help to individual citizens and other state agencies. It is designed to provide information about the state's general statutes and how they apply to citizens and to state department functions," Edmisten said.

"We have the highest regard for Miss Harrell's capabilities and believe she will direct this effort exceptionally well," he said.

Miss Harrell, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Harrell of Greenville, completed undergraduate work at Wellesley College in Wellesley, Mass., and graduated with honors from the University of North Carolina law school. She will take the state bar exam this summer.

During law school, she served as a summer associate in a New York City law firm. When she joined the Justice Department, Miss Harrell worked as a research analyst in the trust and estates section, and later worked in the corporate division.

Areawide Hearing Set On Serving The Aged

A public hearing will be held in Martin County, April 10, on the Comprehensive Plan on Aging for the Mid-East Region.

The purpose of the plan is to foster a comprehensive and coordinated service system to serve older persons in the five county area. The region includes Beaufort, Bertie, Hertford, Martin and Pitt Counties.

The following long and short term goals have been set through the Mid-East Region Comprehensive Plan on Aging: to serve and maintain maximum independence and dignity in a home environment for older persons capable of self care with appropriate supportive services and to remove individual and social barriers to economic and personal independence for older persons.

Inclusive in the second goal is the provision for opportunities for employment and volunteer activities in the communities where older persons live.

The areawide plan sets forth these goals with measurable objectives and identifies the planning, coordination, administration, social services and evaluation activities to be undertaken in carrying out the purposes during fiscal year 1976.

A copy of the Area Plan will be placed in each county courthouse for prior review.

All persons in the five county region are encouraged to attend the hearing which will be held at the Martin Technical Institute auditorium in Williamston, at 10:30 a.m.

Rescue By Sea

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — A U.S. Navy task force ordered to Indochina waters by President Ford six days ago began evacuating Vietnamese refugees from the Phan Rang area 160 miles northeast of Saigon late Thursday afternoon, the U.S. Embassy announced Friday.

It was the first use of uniformed American military forces in the evacuation. Four other American ships that have been loading refugees off the northern and central coasts for more than a week are chartered by the U.S. government.

Two of the four ships in the task force took part in the first evacuation, the Embassy said. They were the amphibious cargo ship Durham and the landing platform dock Dubuque, with 700 U.S. Marines aboard to keep order among the refugees.

By dusk Thursday, the Durham had loaded more than 1,400 people and the Dubuque had taken another 80 aboard.

The majority were women and children. Among the men were a few unarmed South Vietnamese soldiers, the Embassy reported.

To Investigate UFO Sightings

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP)—A representative of the National UFO Center was expected in Lumberton today following two nights of sightings of a mysterious flying object.

The Robeson County Sheriff's Department said it had requested the representative of the private organization headquartered in Illinois. It did so after about 50 law enforcement officers and civilians in the county reported sightings between 10:03 p.m. Thursday and 2:30 this morning.

Policemen and deputies in Robeson and other counties in southeastern North Carolina reported sightings the night before.

The craft was described as V-shaped, about the size of a small plane, with a bright light in the nose, and a row of blue and a row of red lights on each side. It was described as flying up to about 200 miles an hour from 100 to 300 feet above the ground.

The Robeson Sheriff's Department said there had been one report that the craft had landed in a field near a highway before taking off again. It said the field would be examined today for any physical evidence of a landing.

A musical program will be held at Oak Grove Holiness Church, Bonners Lane, Sunday at 6:30 p.m.

It also said it had asked Pope Air Force base to send planes up to look for the mysterious object, but had been told no planes were available for such a mission.

Parent-Training Class Scheduled Each Friday

Pitt Technical Institute will sponsor an Adult Growth and Parent Education (AGAPE) class at the Holy Trinity United Methodist Church on the Red Banks Road beginning Friday.

The class will meet each Friday morning from 9-12:00 a.m. for eight weeks. The course content will cover parent-child relations, effective communications, and understanding and developing self-esteem and respect for the needs and feelings of others.

Tuition for the course will be $2 and books may be purchased from the instructor. Interested persons should plan to attend the first class meeting on Friday.

Anyone desiring further information should call Pitt Technical Institute, 756-3130, Ext. 53 or Mrs. Carolyn Daughtrey, 756-5504.

HUD Approves Grifton Program

Congressman Walter B. Jones announced today the approval by the Department of Housing and Urban Development of subsidized flood insurance for the town of Grifton, beginning April 10.

Grifton became qualified under the program when it agreed to adopt land use and control measure that will minimize flood damage to future construction. Local insurance agents may obtain policies and other information from the National Flood Insurers Association Servicing Office, which is the Kemper Insurance Company, 1229 Greenwood Cliff, Charlotte, N.C., 28204.

Singing Program Planned Sunday

WINDSOR—A singing program will be held at the Windsor Pentecostal Holiness Church Sunday at 2 p.m.

The Harper Family of Clayton will be special guests and other groups will participate.

A spring revival will begin Monday night at 7:30 with Steve Leicester as guest evangelist. Special singing will be featured during the services.

The Rev. G. S. Holliday, pastor, invites the public to attend.

Planning Survey On Euthanasia

A survey of attitudes toward Euthanasia (mercy killing) among adult eastern N. C. residents will be conducted by East Carolina University sociologist Donald D. Stewart this summer.

Dr. Stewart will interview residents of Pitt, Lenoir and Martin Counties in the course of his survey, which will be funded by a grant from the ECU Foundation.
