Some 1,700 Orphans Airlifted Out Of Vietnam; More Later

By GINNY PITT

Associated Press Writer
Some 1,700 children had been airlifted out of Southeast Asia to the United States and other nations before Operation Baby Lift ended on a large-scale basis today. A Saigon official said from now on the children will leave in smaller groups.

Diplomatic and government officials said the airlift had reached the scheduled quota approved earlier by the South Vietnamese government. They said all the children who have been evacuated were already in the adoption process, and the airlift only speeded up the paper work and the orphans' departure.

Dr. Phan Quang Dan,

deputy premier for social welfare, said, "The large operation has ended. From now on, the orphans will leave in smaller groups."

On Sunday, two flights carrying a total of 135 children landed at Travis Air Force Base in California and one flight carrying 407 youngsters landed at Seattle. And two other planes left Saigon today with a total of more than 200 orphans, bringing the unofficial tally of evacuated orphans to 1,700. Some of the children arriving in California and Seattle on Sunday were then flown on to Chicago, New York and other points.

Nations including the United States, Australia, Canada and Great Britain began airlifts five days ago, flying infants as young as 21 days old across thousands of miles to safety and, in some cases, to hospitals for much needed medical treatment.

Many of the children have been hospitalized for treatment of malnutrition, dehydration, chicken pox and other ailments. Some have died during the lengthy and crowded flights.

But most of the daughters and sons of parents who either abandoned them or were killed in the fighting between the South Vietnamese and Communist-led forces are destined to new parents, many of whom have been waiting years for their arrival.

"All those clothes will be too small now," said Charles Bloom of White Bear Lake, Minn., who brought to the Minneapolis airport a new outfit for their 3-year-old adopted son.

Bloom, like most other excited adults greeting the new additions to their families, was full of happiness and pride.

"Look at him!" he said. "He's scared to death, but he's not even crying. Isn't that something?"

Mrs. Bob Davis of Piedmont, Okla., held 2½-year-old newly christened Valerie Eades Davis in her arms at the airport in Oklahoma City and said: "She's more than we ever hoped for. She's so happy and doesn't even seem tired."

In Detroit, 14 children completed the last leg of their journey from Saigon on Sunday, and Gov. William G. Milliken was among the crowd to greet them at Metropolitan Airport.

Some of the children who arrived in this country during the weekend are survivors of Friday's CSA Galaxy crash in which at least 200 youngsters and escorts died or are missing.

Eleven-year-old Thuy, a blind girl who survived the crash, was met in San Francisco by her new parents, Dorothy and Bob DeBolt.

"Thuy is a beautiful, beautiful little girl," said Mrs. DeBolt, whose family already includes 17 children from previous marriages and other adoptions.

"All our children are so absolutely beautiful, and everybody gets along marvelously," she said. "But it does get confusing at times. Once a girl called us and said, 'This is Jennifer. I'll be home soon.' I said, 'All right.' Then I realized we didn't have anyone in the family named Jennifer. Oh well, what's another?"

Fish Attack

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Bluefish apparently mistook surfer's fingers for their favorite food when they attacked swimmers off South Florida's oceanfront, lifeguard Jesse Alper says. Three surfers were injured.

Thousands of bluefish, known as the "bulldogs of the ocean," with pointed, razor-sharp teeth invaded the surf off South Miami Beach in a feeding frenzy, officials said. The sport fish apparently went into the shallow water while chasing a large school of mullet.

"The blues come in to feed on them (mullet)," Beach Patrol Lt. Mike Reid explained after the Saturday incident. "As they attack, their little mouths with pointed teeth start going. They don't attack bathers per se, but they feed on mullet and if a bather gets in the way..."

Fireman Rick Persson added, "Fortunately, it was early in the morning and not many people were in the water. The bluefish hit everything that was in the water."

Nearly a year ago, bluefish injured 11 bathers at Haulover Beach, about 10 miles north of Miami Beach, in a feeding frenzy.

Bluefish average about two feet and eight to 12 pounds, but some weight more than 20 pounds.

Jones Lauds Area Role Of Sheltered Workshop

WIELDING SHOVELS... at the Eastern N. C. Sheltered Workshop groundbreaking yesterday were (left to right) Director Howard Dawkins; Congressman Walter Jones, State Sen. Vernon White,

State VR Director Claude Myers; and Chairman of the Board Dr. C. F. McAndrew. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Congressman Walter B. Jones participated in a groundbreaking at the expanding East Carolina Sheltered Workshop yesterday afternoon.

Jones recalled participating in the dedication of the first permanent building the Workshop in 1969. "I am confident that during these six years, it would be almost impossible to measure the contribution that has been made, not only to individuals, but also to communities," he said.

"It is significant to note that a majority of the estimated 2,500 workshops in this country have small enrollments which obviously afford an opportunity for more personal attention and a great degree of love and warmth for those who enter these doors."

"I am always happy to be present at an event where we find the participation of the federal, state, and local governments. To me, it insures careful and proper supervision, which I am sure exists here."

"I think it is important to note that one client or patient in a North Carolina institution for one year costs the taxpayers approximately $10,000. But in a sheltered workshop, the average cost per person for one year is $2,520, and even if he lives in at the workshop, only $4,500."

He noted HEW's insistence that the facility be called a rehabilitation, rather than a sheltered workshop and praised the board and administrators of the Workshop.

Also participating were Sen. Vernon White; State Vocational Rehabilitation Administrator

Claude Myers, Howard Dawkins, executive director of the Workshop; and Dr. C. F. McAndrew, chairman of the Workshop Board.

The workshop is expanding its building by 12,000 square feet and has awarded contracts for $306,680. Added will be a woodworking shop, a furniture paint removal and paint shop, a garage area, picture framing and chair caning shop, sewing classrooms, display room for finished products, and two sub-contract work rooms.

Jones noted that the Workshop now has 151 Pitt Countians, 55 Martin Countians, and some persons from other Eastern counties enrolled.

Board Urged To Consider Funding Role

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Officials from Pitt Technical Institute and the East Carolina Sheltered Workshop today asked Pitt County Commissioners to consider funding building programs at the two facilities.

Vernon White, chairman of the Board of Trustees at PTI told commissioners that the school will lose $62,700 in state funds on June 30, and another $95,800 by December 31, unless local matching funds are approved for a building program. White noted too, that the 1975 General Assembly is expected to appropriate $250,000 for capital improvements at the school which would also require a local match.

The board chairman said the school has plans for an additional building on the campus. He said estimated cost of the new structure is $750,000.

"We must ask," White said, for $345,000 in county matching funds.

"We are bringing this to you now," White said, "so you can consider this before June 30."

Howard Dawkins, executive director of the Sheltered Workshop, told commissioners that the facility needs $66,000 in funds to match a $326,000 federal grant for construction of an 12,000 square-foot building now under construction at the facility North of Greenville.

Dawkins said $26,600 of the match could be raised "through friends" of the workshop, but asked Commissioners to appropriate $20,000 for the project. The director said Martin County commissioners would be asked for $10,000 as would the Greenville City Council. The money will be needed by September, he said.

No action was taken on either request this morning.

The Board did approve an additional $3,371 in new money for PTI for projected expenses for fuel, water and power for the remainder of the fiscal year, along with transfer of other funds already appropriated for the school to finance a projected $8,300 deficit in utilities budget for the school.

The board was told by Pitt Memorial Hospital administrator Jack Richardson that a $2 hike across the board in room fees has been proposed by the executive committee of the hospital's Board of Trustees.

BURIAL SITE

TAIPEI (AP)—President Chiang Kai-shek will be buried April 16 in the little mountain village of Tsiu, a favorite retreat of the late generalissimo of the Republic of China, official sources said today.

Richardson said the added charge is needed due to increasing costs of operating the hospital.

Richardson also told the board that construction on the new facility is about 25 to 26 per cent complete, while 43 per cent of the budget has been spent.

He explained the difference in the amount of construction completed and the amount of budget already expended by saying building materials have been stock-piled and paid for that will be used as the project progresses.

Soyuz Failed Orbit

MOSCOW (AP) — Two cosmonauts who brought their Soyuz spacecraft back to earth after it failed to go into orbit are "feeling well," the Soviet news agency Tass reported today.

Tass blamed the failure of the space flight Saturday on the third-stage rocket which the announcement said went of course. An American expert on the Soviet space program said it was the first case of a booster failure in the history of manned space flight.

The latest failure in the trouble-plagued Soyuz series came a little more than three months before the joint mission July 15 by a U.S. Apollo crew and a Soyuz team. There was no indication, however, that the joint mission might be altered. Soviet authorities have said that plans for that flight have been completed.

Tass said the two cosmonauts were Col. Vasily Lazarev and Oleg Makarev, who were making their second trip into space. They rode Soyuz 12 on a two-day flight in September 1973.

The Soviet news agency gave this account of the aborted mission:

The spaceship was launched Saturday "for continuing experiments jointly with the Saljut 4," the space laboratory launched last Dec. 26.

"On the third-stage stretch the parameters of the carrier rocket's movement deviated from the preset values, and an automatic device produced the command to discontinue the flight under the program and detach the spaceship for return to earth."

"The descent module soft-landed southwest of the town of Gorno-Altai in western Siberia. The search and rescue team brought the cosmonauts back to the cosmodrome."

FLIM FLAM

Hotline has received the following letter from J.R. Hooper, vice president of Wachovia Bank here. We think the warning he gives is well worth publishing:

"Please allow us to report a flim flam operation taking place in Eastern North Carolina which is aimed at our senior citizens. This scheme has been successful in a number of communities, including Greenville.

"A con artist will make calls to various elderly people until he determines that he is talking with one with a savings account at a bank or a Savings and Loan. The con man will then introduce himself as a bank auditor and say he is suspicious of something at the bank. He asks the victim to cooperate by going to the bank and withdrawing a certain sum of money in cash. He always cautions the victim 'not to let the bank talk you into a cashiers check'.

"When the victim returns home from the bank with the money, the con artist, who has the victim under surveillance the entire time he is in the bank, calls him on the phone and congratulates him on being so cagey. The con man then tells the victim that a plain clothes policeman will come by to pick up the money to be used as evidence.

"Minutes later, the second con artist comes to the door, flashes fake identification, takes the money and gives the victim a receipt for the money, stating that the money will be returned in a day or so. With this, the con is completed.

"Please alert your readers that if anyone calls them purporting to be a bank auditor or any type official, asking them to 'cooperate' in uncovering a problem, to call someone they know at their bank or the police."

Israeli Barred

NEW YORK (AP) — President Anwar Sadat of Egypt says Israeli-bound cargo may be allowed to pass through the Suez Canal when it is reopened in June but Israeli ships will be barred, according to Time Magazine.

He said that because the Constantinople treaty of 1888 prohibits use of the canal by countries in a state of belligerency with Egypt, "Even if the Israelis ask for their cargoes to pass through in other flagships we have the full legal right to prevent it," Time quoted Sadat as saying in an interview in Cairo.

The canal has been closed since the Six Day War in 1967. Sadat announced last week it would be reopened in June. Sadat had said previously that Israeli ships could not use the canal.

HALTED BY FIRE

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Train service between New York and Washington was halted for more 4 hours Sunday night and early today when a warehouse fire forced the Penn. Central Railroad to turn off its power.

Demonstrators Jostle Senator Edw. Kennedy

QUINCY, Mass. (AP) — More than 200 anti-busing demonstrators poked, grabbed at and jostled Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, forcing police to form a protective flying wedge around him.

One woman poked at him repeatedly Sunday with the point of a stick bearing a small American flag. A man grabbed him by the leg but was pulled away by police.

Although he was not injured in the Sunday incident, his aides canceled a speech set for later in the day in Sharon when the demonstrators showed up there too. The cancellation came after demonstrators refused an offer of a meeting with Kennedy if they would agree allow him to make a speech without disruption.

Kennedy has refused to condemn busing for racial balance in schools as busing opponents have demanded.

The Massachusetts Democrat made a four-block trip on foot to a subway Sunday when he was unable to enter any of his aide's cars at a junior high school in this Boston suburb. His own car's tires had been deflated, and some of the demonstrators placed their children in its path.

It was the most violent demonstration against Kennedy, a frequent target of antibusing protestors, since a September incident when he was jeered off a stage and hit by a tomato.

Boston schools have been disrupted by sporadic violence since the integration program began last fall and National Guardsmen were called in to maintain order for a time. A school boycott continues in South Boston, a working-class Irish neighborhood that has been the center of the protest.

Three Cars In Sunday Wreck

An estimated $1,450 property damage resulted from a three-car collision investigated by Greenville police about 7:30 p.m. yesterday at the intersection of Fifth and Reade Streets.

Officers identified the drivers involved as Karlton Joe McLawhorn of 207 North Sylvan Dr., Kenneth William Edmonds of Route 4, Chapel Hill and Virginia Allen Cobb of Tarboro. Damage was estimated at $400 to the McLawhorn car, $900 to the Cobb vehicle and $150 to the Edmonds auto.

McLawhorn was charged with failing to stop for a stop signal.

FDA Insists On Expensive Lens

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dr. Harry Hollander of New York's Sight Improvement Centers says the average pair of glasses today runs between $40 and $80. This includes the eye examination, modern frames and a pair of plastic lenses.

Until this year, eye doctors could prescribe either plastic or glass lenses, but the FDA recently issued a ruling which stated that all lenses must be made of plastic, which is more expensive than glass.

Q. What are the general growing conditions for "Elephant Ears?" (Mrs. J.C., Concord)

A. Elephant Ears (Colocasia) may be started indoors in rich soil and transplanted outdoors after danger of frost. They prefer rich moist soil. Although somewhat sun-tolerant plants appreciate some shade during summer. After autumn's first frost, dig and dry tubers. Store overwinter in a place where they will not freeze, and where they will be protected from rats. The large, showy heart-shaped leaves lend a tropical accent to fish pools, creek banks, patios. Rusk Sees Hanoi Rule

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Dean Rusk, former Secretary of State, says it is likely that South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia "will be under the policy control of Hanoi for the foreseeable future."

Rusk, who served in the Kennedy-Johnson administrations at the height of U.S. involvement in the Vietnam War, added it will take years to determine whether the American war effort was in vain.

"What has happened was just the thing we were trying to prevent and we failed to do that," Rusk said.

Rusk, now a professor at the University of Georgia, made his remarks Saturday during an appearance at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

He said the military situation in South Vietnam was a result of the decision to pull U.S. forces out of the war.

"Foreign policy is like a cafeteria: you take your policy and you pay the cashier on your way out the door. You don't adopt a policy unless you're willing to pay the consequences and we're seeing some of the consequences," he said.

Q. Can globe artichokes be grown in the Rocky Mount area? (K.G., Rocky Mount)

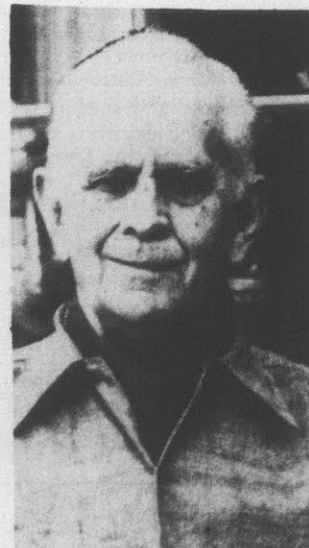

A. Not very successfully. The plants grow well, but the fruit is often tough and woody. This is because our spring temperatures get too warm too quickly for artichokes. (George Hughes, extension horticulturist)

Q. How can I get rid of honeysuckle and how long must I wait to plant azaleas in the same place? (J.P., Garner)

A. For a small area pull out by hand the honeysuckle vines and roots when preparing the azalea bed. For a larger area you can use the herbicides amitrole or 2, 4-D. Wet the leaves, not the ground, with the spray solution. A second application may be needed in August or next spring. Azaleas could be planted four to six weeks after the final application if the ground had not been wet with the chemical. (W.M. Lewis, extension agronomist)

Q. How much chicken manure can be safely used on a vegetable garden? (H.K., Wilkesboro)

A. Depends on the type of chickens you have. It's safe to use 50 pounds of dried broiler manure or 75 pounds of partially dried broiler manure per 1,000 square feet. Manure from caged layers is slightly richer in nutrients, so use 20 per cent less layer manure than you would broiler manure. (Jack Baird, extension agronomist)

Experts Offer Tips On School Tornado Safety

WASHINGTON (AP) — New suggestions for finding safe refuge during tornadoes have been developed by a team of researchers which examined the rubble of schools devastated by the storms.

The findings, which run counter to some popular folklore about tornadoes, are being distributed by the National Weather Service to help school officials prepare for the impending peak tornado season.

The researchers said their key finding was that the winds swirling about the fringes of the storms push walls inward. At the same time, they challenged the notion that the vacuum created by the center of a tornado causes walls to explode outward.

Combining their findings with the observation that 90 per cent of tornadoes move from a southwesterly direction, the team of engineers and architects offered these recommendations for safety in school buildings:

—Stay out of large rooms such as gymnasiums, cafeterias and auditoriums with free-span roofs. These roofs are subject to lifting forces and are more prone to failure than more well-supported roofs.

—Avoid the southwest corners of schools. Since the tornado is likely approaching from that direction and since the winds are 100 miles an hour or so higher on one side, the result is even greater pressure on southerly and westerly walls. Weather Service officials noted that the advice runs counter to the folklore of huddling in the southwest corner of a structure.

—Seek out spaces protected by interior walls. They are more shielded from the direct impact of the winds and they usually don't bear the load of holding up the roof.

—Corridors are usually good havens, but avoid if at all possible corridors facing west or south. They tend to become "wind tunnels." Corridors facing north are best, and those facing east are next best.

—Avoid areas with large spaces or glass.

—Basements are safest. First floors rank next.

The Weather Service is providing the results to schools as a guide to determine the safest refuges before any tornado hits. The researchers indicated their findings also could be applied to other public institutions, such as hospitals, which are built to meet similar architectural and engineering standards.

Weather Service officials said the findings would not be applicable to most homes. For people caught at home during a tornado, the Weather Service recommended they go to a basement if possible, get under the stairwell and stay away from chimneys, which are liable to fall. In homes with no basement, officials recommended a small first-floor room such as a closet or a bathroom.

West Suffers Wintry Storm

By The Associated Press
Snow and winds howling to nearly 70 miles per hour rode the tail of a storm across the western United States today.

Another storm dumped hail and isolated heavy rains over Texas, Oklahoma and southern Kansas.

Flagstaff and Williams, Ariz., received more than three inches of new snow Sunday, and the Grand Canyon area got two inches.

Winds up to 58 m.p.h. accompanied a thunderstorm at Winslow, Ariz., Sunday, and 70 m.p.h. winds were recorded at the Petrified Forest in northern Arizona.

Scattered snow drifted down on the northern Rockies, while drizzle covered the northern plains. Temperatures dipped into the teens and lower in Nevada and Montana.

Skies were generally fair in the far western states and eastern half of the nation. There were some clouds along the north Pacific coast, and snow showers drifted across the eastern Great Lakes, northern Appalachians and New England. Buffalo, N.Y., and Burlington, Vt., received another inch of snow.

Isolated severe weather was reported in southwestern Texas, where a band of thundershowers developed Sunday evening. A tornado was reported near Uvalde, and hail caused considerable property damage at Eagle Pass.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 74 at McAllen, Tex., to 3 above at Cut Bank, Mont.

FIRE VICTIMS

YORK, S.C. (AP)—A pre-dawn fire swept through a home about four miles northwest of York Sunday, killing three children asleep in the upstairs of the two-story house.

Nonbelligerent Pledge Required

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—Former Defense Minister Moshe Dayan says Israel is "ready and willing" to give up captured Egyptian territory if Egypt ends its belligerency toward his country.

Diplomatic observers believe that Israel's insistence on an Egyptian statement of nonbelligerency was one of the principal reasons for the failure of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's peace mission last month.

The Egyptians would agree to no such public declaration as a precondition to further Israeli withdrawals.

Dayan, in a speech Sunday at Wake Forest University, called on the United States to support Israel "militarily, economically and morally." He said the Israelis want U.S. arms and diplomatic support rather than American troops.

Dayan said Israel would turn to the United States if the Soviet Union entered any Middle East war on the side of the Arabs.

"If and when the Russians want to come in in an active way — fighting — then we turn to you because you're the only country in the world that can stand up against Russia," Dayan said.

Dayan, who served as defense minister from 1967 until last June, is on a speaking tour of the United States.

Dayan's speech was delivered under tight security to some 2,500 persons at the university's Wait Chapel. Guards checked the chapel beforehand, and searched those who entered with camera cases or large bags.

Readers Give Pros And Cons On Women Wearing Pants

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: What's with Mel in Belleville? Is he crazy? He says pants on women should be declared valid grounds for an uncontestable divorce.

Doesn't Mel know that lots of women wear pants because they're warm in the winter? (My mother has arthritis, and pants have been a Godsend for her.)

I find them very practical on my job because I do a lot of stretching and bending and stooping. I'm not exactly petite, and while I never could get a dress in my size that was long enough to cover my knees, I can always find pants that cover me modestly.

Also with pants, I can wear different blouses, shirts and jackets. How many different ways can you wear a dress? NUTS TO MEL

DEAR ABBY: I'm with Mel. I'm a woman who is tired of pants, but I can't find a decent looking dress anywhere. All the stores are loaded with pants suits.

My husband says I've got the best-looking legs in town, and I'm not about to hide them if I can help it.

Where are the designers who will make women look like women again? LOVES DRESSES

DEAR ABBY: This is for Mel: Speaking as a man (and I am not a homosexual or a transvestite), I personally find pants generally uncomfortable, as in private I wear pants as little as possible.

I would like to see the return of the Roman toga for males. In fact, there have been many civilizations in which men wore robes or skirts (the Catholic clergy), and even in Scotland, the kilts were popular.

The one advantage of pants for men were the pockets. But now, pants are made to fit so skin-tight that pockets are useless.

Sadly, comfort and efficiency are rarely the determining factors in fashion. Clothing is a big business that demands constant change for full employment and maximum profits. Maybe pants are men's revenge for Women's Lib. Anyway, when it comes to comfort, pants are the worst. COMFORT-LOVING MALE

DEAR ABBY: Where does Mel in Belleville get off saying that all women look terrible in pants, only some look worse? And he thinks women should get back into skirts because that really arouses a man.

Well, I have news for Mel. He should try wearing a dress in Iowa in the winter. He'd freeze his fanny off. He should also try sitting on a metal chair or riding a bicycle in a skirt. Furthermore, many men think nice, tight-fitting pants are much sexier looking than a dress. FOR PANTS IN S.C., IOWA

DEAR ABBY: I like pants for two reasons. (1) It has cut my hosiery bill down to nothing. (No one can see the runs in my stockings.) (2) My husband and I wear the same size, so it's increased my wardrobe by 50 per cent. PANTS-HAPPY IN MIAMI

DEAR ABBY: My advice to Mel is: Please, don't criticize my wearing apparel until you've walked a mile in my skirt—preferably on Michigan Avenue in February. CHICAGO PEDESTRIAN

A Ms. By Any Other Name Isn't Happy

By ELLEN L. SLOTT PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Janet Bly still receives mail addressed to Mr. and Mrs. James Rosenberg. She is not and never has been Mrs. Rosenberg.

Mrs. Bly, 26, of Philadelphia, is one of the increasing number of women who are retaining their birth-given names after marriage. And like most, she has faced fewer problems with the banks and credit companies than with her family.

"Neither family has really recognized it," she said. "Sometimes when we are with our family my husband or I have jokingly said something about the way the mail was addressed. But it's never heard by anyone."

Gina McQuinn, 26, Cherry Hill, N.J., who kept her name following her marriage to W.R. McClellan, said she, too, faced problems with her family.

"We haven't had any problems except for family. Family members seem to think that there was some kind of peer group pressure that made me do this," she said. "They think it's totally insensible and if I were an intelligent woman making my own decisions, I wouldn't be doing this."

"They finally said, 'Fine, but we're going to call you Mrs. McClellan anyway.'"

World Sees A U.S. Setback

Even as Southeast Asia goes down the drain in the world Communist advance, the United States must do a complete reassessment of its foreign policy and its relation to its allies.

For, no matter how much we are told that Vietnam was not essential to our own defense, the fall of South Vietnam is a disastrous blow to our world prestige.

We have spent billions defending that little nation and we have seen our own young men killed and maimed in the Southeast Asian war.

The world powers have followed this avidly and it is not lost even on our friends that we have suffered a monumental defeat.

Since World War II we have furnished the defense for many nations friendly to us. In return, these nations have maintained close ties with us and they have not developed nuclear weapons; instead relying on our arsenal.

These nations now might not blame us for the loss of Vietnam but they do question our ability to defend them in the event of attack. That will encourage some to increase their own arms, and perhaps even develop nuclear weapons.

The Communist powers will be more eager to test us, now, that we have failed in Southeast Asia. They will probe more boldly, with the possibility of miscalculation.

We can look back to the Cuban crisis for a comparable situation. There the Soviets miscalculated in placing missiles in Cuba. A brave President Kennedy reacted and the world stood on the brink of nuclear war. Fortunately the Soviets backed down and holocaust was averted.

We don't have much doubt that within the next decade a U.S. President will have to react bravely again to reassert our might. There will be grave risks but our fall in prestige as the result of the Southeast Asia debacle with bring on a new miscalculation by a Communist power.

THIS AFTERNOON

Slowdown Deeper, Longer

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — The state's unhappy economic plight continues to plague both members of the General Assembly and the Republican administration of Gov. James E. Holshouser alike.

The recession dominates all the decisions being debated in various quarters of state government, and promises to continue to unsettle influence on that major General Assembly function: appropriating money for a $3 billion state budget.

As the days go by without happy announcements of an upturn in the economy, legislators continue the dreary task of wrestling with proposals—minus any solid ideas on how much money will be available, or when.

Principal victim to date is the governor, whose major thrust for repeal of the sales tax on food has been blunted; robbing him of that politically and widely popular project.

Hard Decision

Holshouser needed a popular and successful repeal campaign, and had put a lot of his prestige on the line in that direction: calling for and getting petitions from across the state backing his move; pitting the "people" against the Democratic legislature.

The decision to scuttle the fight came hard, and only after weeks of research.

And while the decision was influenced strongly by revenue projections put forth by governmental staff people—in the governor's office, the Department of Revenue, and the General Assembly—it was finally private sector economists who turned the tide.

The governor met privately in his office with a number of economists from the state's banks and other financial institutions; he found them echoing basically the same predictions being heard from legislative staff people across the street in the State Legislative Building.

Legislative Fiscal Research analysts now foresee a shortfall of between $113 and $156 million over the coming two fiscal years.

In announcing the end of the fight for repeal of the food tax, Gov. Holshouser said recent economic data forces him to predict a shortage of a minimum of $50 million—and perhaps as much as 100 million.

The key factor, he said, is a prediction of an easing of the recession in the third and fourth quarters of this calendar year, but a "recovery that is reasonably slow; not as swift an upturn as originally thought which would move us back where we were in 1974."

Long Session

What does all of this mean to the lawmakers who must also bite the recession bullet? The governor will not be the only one who must publicly recant on plans and admit inability to meet popular demands for programs.

The legislature will have to trim sharply, with the prospect that not only expansion programs will be cut, but some existing state activities curtailed.

The only sure thing to come of all this is a long, long session of the General Assembly. Usually by Easter the lawmakers are talking about possible dates to finish and go home. The budget is always the final, big thing to be done.

This year, adjournment isn't being talked, and it is clear that it will be May before the basic decision on income can be made.

After that the three major spending committees can get down to work; right now all they are doing is going over spending requests and "flagging" some to come back to later for possible trimming.

And this year the process will be rather more difficult than in years past: there is no single, powerful appropriations sub-committee to make the final decision. That leads to the likelihood that prolonged conference committee work is in offing, followed by unusually heavy debate and budget fighting on the floors of the house and senate—a procedure usually avoided in the past.

TEACHER MEASURE

Opposes Vacation Benefit

By CATHY STEELE ROCHE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP)—Sen. William Mills, D-Onslow, plans to introduce legislation this week to prevent North Carolina public school teachers from collecting unemployment compensation during their two-month summer vacation.

Mills, who is chairman of the Senate Economy Committee, which often considers such legislation, said he asked an attorney with the Employment Security Commission (ESC) to do preliminary work on the drafting of the bill. Mills said he hoped to have it ready early this week.

The federal Special Unemployment Assistance Act opened the door for teachers to receive unemployment benefits. It extended unemployment compensation to workers formerly not covered, including state and municipal employees, domestics and farm workers.

Whether to include teachers on summer break in the unemployment program will apparently be left up to the states. H.D. Harrison, chief counsel for the ESC, said there have been no federal guidelines to indicate whether Congress intended to include teachers in the program.

Ann Elmore of the N.C. Department of Public Instruction office in Washington, said that a staff member of the House Education and Labor Committee informed her that the committee declined to deal with the question of teachers under contract who were out of work during the summer.

She said the staff member told her that it was clearly intended that a teacher who was laid off should be included. The eligibility of teachers on summer break was left up to the states, the staff member said.

Harrison said the Unemployment Compensation Subcommittee of the U.S. House Ways and Means Committee would hold public hearings this week on the Special Unemployment Assistance Act and that guidelines might emerge from those hearings.

An aide to the subcommittee chairman, Rep. James C.orman, D-Calif., said the teacher coverage issue would be taken up toward the end of the hearings.

Mills and Rep. Craig

Lawing, D-Mecklenburg, chairman of the House Economy Committee, both hoped for federal guidelines to establish a uniform national policy. They said a delegation from the General Assembly urged the state's congressional delegation at a recent meeting to press for a federal policy against the payments.

Harrison said that even without legislation specifically excluding teachers, their eligibility for benefits would be questionable under present ESC policy.

In order to draw unemployment benefits, he said, a person must sign a paper stating that he is available for work. "Is a teacher who has a contract to begin work the following school term in September really available?" he asked.

Harrison said if a teacher did not have a contract for the following school year, he would be more likely to qualify. "I doubt that it will be a blanket thing, I imagine it will be on an individual case to case basis," he said.

Harrison said persons filing for benefits have to be available for work for which they are qualified that is reasonably related to their profession and pays a comparable salary. This would preclude forcing teachers to menial jobs during the summer.

"Certainly for the summer period we wouldn't put them to digging ditches," he said.

Under the special assistance program, teachers who became eligible would receive payments ranging from about $75 to $90 a week, all of it federal funds.

Floyd Issac, assistant executive secretary of the North Carolina Association of Educators, predicted that only a small percentage of the state's 59,408 school teachers would apply for unemployment benefits. He estimated that 60-70 per cent of the state's teachers already had summer plans, either to work or go back to school.

"Another 10-15 per cent wouldn't find it in their own hearts to go down and seek unemployment," Issac said.

NCME director A. C. Dawson said many teachers are not particularly interested in being employed in the summer. But he said some, particularly those with families to support, needed summer work to supplement their salaries.

ESC attorney Howard Doyle said for retirement purposes teachers are credited with a year of state employment for 10 months of teaching. He also said the state paid social security for teachers on a 12-month basis.

He said those factors contributed to questions about whether teachers are really unemployed during the two-month break.

Doyle said the legislation being drawn would extend to teachers, a current state statute that excludes college and university personnel for unemployment benefits.

Strength For Today

BETTER OR BITTER
Trouble either makes us better or bitter.

The words "better" and "bitter" differ in only one letter, but it is significant that the one letter is "i". "Better" becomes "bitter" when the letter "i" crowds out the letter "e". That mischievous little letter "i" causes no end of trouble in life. When "i" crowds itself into any situation, take care. Starting out as "i" it will quickly grow into "I"; beginning with a little assertion of self, it will end up at last the giant of selfishness which rules our every mood.

When people think of their troubles in terms of self, of how much they are being persecuted and misused, then the letter "i" gradually wins out and a sorrowful experience leaves them bitter.

Try to forget yourself in the midst of your sorrow. Think of how your troubles might have spilled over and afflicted someone else. And remember the loving God who in the cross showed that He shares our sorrows.

Tax Rebate For Dundee

WASHINGTON—The day Malcolm Dundee's $200 income tax rebate was scheduled to arrive, a large crowd gathered on his lawn. Word had gotten out that Dundee was to be the first person in Clarion Falls to get the rebate, and the town was full of excitement. His congressman, Jeremiah Lowball, had flown in from Washington for the occasion, the Clarion Falls High School Band had suited up in their blue-and-gold uniforms and a television crew from Grimstead had set up their cameras to record the historic event.

Dundee had made his children get dressed up in their Sunday clothes, and he and Mrs. Dundee stood nervously on their porch awaiting the arrival of their check.

"Here it comes!" someone shouted as the mail truck hove into view.

It stopped at the curb and the mailman got out holding the familiar brown government envelope with the green check peeking through the cellophane window.

A TV correspondent pushed a microphone in front of the mailman's face and he said, looking into the camera, "Neither snow, nor sleet, nor heat of day would stop me from delivering this tax rebate to Malcolm Dundee of 110 West Zitherford Drive."

The crowd broke into a cheer and the band struck up "Pennies From Heaven."

"Give him room," someone yelled, "to deliver the check."

The mob reluctant opened up a path on the sidewalk.

Dundee was beaming, and his wife squeezed his hand. "Did you ever think we'd see the day," she whispered to him, "when we'd get a tax rebate?"

"I dreamed about it," Dundee whispered back, "but I never thought it would happen."

The mailman walked slowly up the walk as Dundee waited, hand outstretched. Suddenly from out of the crowd a man jumped forward and grabbed the check.

"Hey, what are you doing?" the mailman said. "This check belongs to me," the man said.

"Who are you?" "I'm from the electric company. We've just raised our rates and the $200 check should cover it."

Another man grabbed part of the check from the electric company representative. "Well, I'm from the telephone company and this check belongs to us."

"Be careful," Dundee cried, "you'll tear it."

A third man joined the melee and grabbed the envelope.

"I'm from the bank. Dundee owes this for interest on a loan we made to him to pay his income taxes."

A fourth man pushed the banker away. "Not so fast. I'm from the county real estate tax assessor's office and this check must go for the surcharge we put on Dundee cycle and to look ahead to 1977."

Nobody Ready To Run

By ROBERT B. CULLEN

Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina Democrats have said many gubernatorial hopefuls right now that the party might have to enlarge its proverbial ring so that all the hats can be tossed in. No so the Republicans.

While Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, Sen. Thomas Strickland, drug-store magnate Edward O'Herron and perhaps half a dozen others begin lining up support for the 1976 primary, the Republicans are searching about for just one presentable candidate.

In the past year, some prime GOP prospects have ruled themselves out or have seen events rule them out.

Congressmen Wilmer Mizell and Earl Ruth lost in the November elections. Both have left the state as beneficiaries of White House patronage.

Two of the most attractive Southern Republicans, James Martin and James Broyhill, both appear happy accumulating seniority in Washington and have let it be known they do not intend to lose their seats in a risky gubernatorial race.

Incumbent state chairman Thomas Bennett has said he wants no part of an expensive, time-consuming campaign. Milk Commission chairman Hamilton Horton has left his law practice in Winston-Salem to meditate in the mountains and will soon be leaving the commission.

Jim Gardner, the nominee in 1968 and a challenger in 1972, has suffered some severe business reverses as the economy has foundered. Gardner, however, is unpredictable enough to surface as a candidate at the last moment.

In the legislature, a couple of survivors from the 1974 debacle at the polls are weighing the issue. One is House minority leader Larry Cobb, a Charlotte attorney. But Cobb suffers from his status as a transplanted North Carolinian, both in New Jersey.

Rep. Fred Hutchins, a Winston-Salem lawyer, is a possibility. But Hutchins has never run statewide or held a post that would give him a statewide name.

For some time now the incumbent Secretary of Corrections, David Jones of Fayetteville, has been considering a race. Some members of his party do not consider him gubernatorial timber, but he appears to be the man most likely to run.

Events in the prisons themselves—a riot at Central Prison, for example—could have an impact on a potential candidacy by the former used car dealer.

The Party may turn to someone who does not now hold office. Raleigh attorney Tom Ellis and Charlotte stockbroker Charles Jonas Jr. both have political connections and ambitions. Ellis managed the 1972 campaign of Jesse Helms and Jonas did the same for Richard Nixon.

Or it may find itself nominating someone who has never been involved in politics—a corporate executive with the money and right people behind him. "This 1976 may be the year for a nonpolitician," said one Republican.

A successful Republican primary campaign can be put together in much less time than a similar effort in the Democratic primary. The gubernatorial picture may become clearer after scars have formed over the 1974 wounds and

Statistical Illogic Manifest

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Of all the misleading statistics that emerge from the numbers gatherers in Washington, none is sadder than that of "discouraged workers." There are 1.1 million of them. They don't count.

They don't count as unemployed, that is, and so the jobless rate in March was 8.7 per cent of the labor force instead of a full percentage point more than that.

The reason: Discouraged workers who give up looking for jobs are not counted as part of the labor force. They don't contribute to the jobless rate, even though they are clearly among the worst off of the jobless.

This is just the latest example of how government statistics often mislead the public. The purpose isn't to mislead; the effect is to do so.

The figures for gross national product are, of course, among the most misleading. We hear continued references to this being a trillion dollar economy. By whose standard and what measure? By any sane measure it still hasn't been reached.

The trillion dollar economy does exist if you include inflation, instead of excluding it, as you logically should. Just because prices go up doesn't mean the economy is bigger. Goods and services, not prices, make an economy.

In fact, the gross national product is almost always defined as the total production of goods and services. Inflation is not production; it is merely a higher price tag.

If you use inflated dollars to measure the GNP you will come up with a figure of more than $1.4 trillion. But if you use the dollar as it was valued in 1958 you'll have a total of $900 billion or less.

It looks good if the purpose is to impress. But it's illogical and deceitful. The calibrations on the measuring stick are different.

Misleading also are the personal income figures. Misleading, at least, for popular consumption. In February, for example, payrolls fell for the fourth month in a row, but personal income rose.

Many people interpret this to mean that somehow people were better off despite the recession. The real explanation is that unemployment benefits are included in the category called personal income.

Are you proud that this is the nation in which free enterprise rules supreme? It's still taught that way in books, but by several measures the United States is far down the list.

If, for example, you measure the amount of social versus free enterprise by figuring out the total tax revenue as a percentage of GNP, you might find the United States somewhere around the middle.

Among other countries, France, Italy, Switzerland, Greece, Portugal, Japan, Turkey and Spain have lower taxes as a percentage of total output.

But none of these deceits equals the moral or statistical illogic of calling discouraged job seekers no longer members of the work force.

The men were now rolling on the ground trying to get their hands on the brown envelope.

They were joined by a collector from Group Health, the gas man, a water inspector and a lawyer who helped fill out Dundee's tax return.

"In no time at all the check was in shreds. Mrs. Dundee was in tears.

"Congressman, can't you do something?" Dundee said.

"It's out of my hands," Lowball said. "We voted you a rebate to spur the economy but we can't tell you how to spend it."

NEW YORK (AP) —The Stock Market declined broadly today, picking up where it left off in last week's steady slide.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 5.94 at 741.32. Losers outstripped gainers by nearly a 3-1 margin in continued sluggish trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said investors were still apparently concerned over the future course of interest rates after recent increases in bond market rates and signs of a leveling off in the bank prime lending rate.

Brokers also noted some edginess over the situation in Southeast Asia and impending first quarter earnings reports, which are generally expected to be poor.

Pasco was the most active issue on the Big Board, up 3 1/4 at 22 1/2. On Friday the company said it had received a verbal offer of $220 million in cash for its Wyoming oil producing properties.

Standard Oil of Indiana, which this morning identified itself as the maker of the offer, was down 3/4 at 37 3/4.

And Studebaker-Worthington, 55 per cent owner of Pasco, gained 2 1/2 to 28 1/4.

Some of the glamor issues which ran ahead of the market last week sold off today in profit taking. Walt Disney Productions, for example, was down 1 at 49 1/2, and Fairchild Camera lost 1 1/4 to 39 1/4.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks fell .30 to 42.68 in the first hour. At the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was down .11 at 78.90.

International Banknote, the Amex volume leader, was down 1/4 at 11-16.

Phnom Penh Defenses Falter Under Pressure

By RICHARD BLYTONE
Associated Press Writer

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The Khmer Rouge made new attacks on Phnom Penh's northern defense lines today as Premier Long Boret prepared to return to the capital, vowing it would never fall.

Field reports said another isolated government enclave was in danger of falling. Insurgents moved into Kompong Speu, 30 miles southwest of the capital, after a shelling attack that wounded 30 persons.

Field reports said rebels on the east bank of the Tonle Sap River north of Phnom Penh were harassing the road along the west bank between Phnom Penh and Prek Phnou with mortar and machine gun fire. The sources indicated the daily toll on the battlefield was in the low dozens as weary government troops avoided close-quarters combat.

Continued pressure also was reported northwest of the capital in the "rocket belt" area menacing the city's airport lifeline. Eighteen rounds in three hours killed two persons and wounded one, but the U.S. airlift of rice, fuel and ammunition went on. Informed sources said the daily tonnage of ammunition has dropped in recent days as appropriate supplies dwindled.

Field reports said a shell landed in a military hospital Sunday at Prek Phnou, seven miles away, killing two persons and wounding 10.

Baseball Season 1975 Sees Opening Games Today

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

AP Sports Writer
The weatherman must be a Sunday and a further warming trend is expected to push the thermometer into the 60s today for the opener of the major league baseball season between the Reds and the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Three more games are scheduled under the lights as the National League begins its 100th campaign and the American League its 75th.

In the NL, the Montreal Expos will be in St. Louis to face the Cardinals while the Atlanta Braves invade Houston to play the Astros. The lone AL contest finds the Kansas City Royals in Anaheim against the California Angels.

The Royals and Angels meet again Tuesday night while eight other AL clubs get under way — the New York Yankees against the Indians in Cleveland, the Milwaukee Brewers against the Red Sox in Boston, the Minnesota Twins against the Texas Rangers in Arlington and the Chicago White Sox in Oakland against the world champion, Catfish Hunter-less A's.

In NL games Tuesday, the Philadelphia Phillies face the Mets in New York, the San Francisco Giants meet the Padres in San Diego and the Braves and Astros go at it again in Houston.
The recent storm that tormented the Midwest caused two of Tuesday's scheduled openers to be called off. The Chicago Cubs will host the Pittsburgh Pirates in their NL opener on Wednesday instead while the AL's Baltimore Orioles will oppose the Tigers in Detroit on Thursday in a regularly scheduled game. Tuesday's game will be made up later in the season.

The Dodgers finished four games ahead of the Reds in the NL West last year and the two teams are expected to pick up where they left off. Don Sutton, 19-9 in 1974, will pitch for the Dodgers against Cincinnati's Don Gullett, 17-10, before a sellout crowd of 52,000 in Riverfront Stadium, including Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Sen. Robert Taft, R-Ohio, who will throw out the first ball.

After viewing the Dodgers and Reds, Kuhn will rush to St. Louis to watch veteran pitcher Bob Gibson begin his final season. Gibson, the winningest active pitcher with 248 victories but trying to bounce back from a sore knee that dropped his record to 11-13 last season, will be opposed by Montreal left-hander Dave McNally, 16-10 with the Baltimore Orioles, who traded him during the off-season.

In Houston, the Braves, minus Hank Aaron for the first time in 22 years, will use knuckleballer Phil Niekro against the Astros' Larry Dierker.

However, the best may come when California's Nolan Ryan hooks up with Kansas City's Steve Busby. Ryan closed out 1974 with his third career no-hitter while Busby has pitched a no-hitter in each of his first two seasons.

Top Showing By Bradley

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—Vesco Bradley of Florida State has been named the outstanding performer in the 13th annual Carolina State-Record Relays after winning the 100 and 220-yard dashes and anchoring a record-breaking 440-yard relay effort.

Bradley reeled off times of 9.3 in the 100, which would have been a new record at the University of South Carolina track except that it was wind-aided, and 20.9 in the 220. His 220 record was also disallowed because of a strong wind.

Bradley teamed with Gary Bassa, Clayton Merrick and Jesse Forbes to slash seven-hundredths of a second off the 440 relay time of 41.1 set by Georgia Tech in 1969 and equalled by East Tennessee in 1971.

Jerome Hutchins of Georgia had the only other record-breaking performance of the day, leaping 51-11½ in the triple jump.
Hutchins' effort beat the old mark of 51-0½ set by East Carolina's Walter Davenport in 1972.

Florida State's Marvin Dixon captured the 440 with a time of 48.4, Furman's Phil Barker claimed the 880 in 1:55.1 and North Carolina's David Hamilton won the three-mile in 14:12.2. All, along with the 220, were new events.

Georgia's James Barrineau won the high jump with a 6-11 leap. Florida State's Phares Rolle took the pole vault at 15-6.

South Carolina's Bernie Allen and Alan Shultz won the 120 and 440-yard hurdles events in times of 14.1 and 53.2 respectively.

Glenn Hodges, Earl Carruthers, Glen Kettenacker and Marvin Dixon won the mile relay for Florida State with a time of 3:16.7.

Mike White of Georgia Tech won the mile in 4:15.3.

Former Olympic Champion Dies

NANTUCKET, Mass. (AP) — Tell Berna, a former gold medal Olympic track champion, died Saturday of a heart attack. He was 83.

Berna won his medal for the two-mile run in the 1912 Olympics in Stockholm, setting a record for the event that held for 15 years.
One of his Olympic teammates and a former gold medal winner that year was Jim Thorpe.

A native of Hoboken, N.J., Berna worked for 20 years as general manager of the National Machine Tool Builders Association. He retired in 1957 and moved to Nantucket.

Survivors include three daughters, a brother and seven grandchildren.

The funeral service was scheduled for today on Nantucket.

Vol Lineman's Arm Broken

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Mickey Marvin, Tennessee offensive lineman, suffered a broken arm Sunday riding a horse and will be lost for the remainder of spring football drills, Coach Bill Battle said Monday.

Marvin, 6-foot-4 270-pounder from Hendersonville, N.C., was a standout guard on the Vols' offensive units last fall. He fell off a horse and broke his right arm.

The U.S. Lawn Tennis Assn. reports that Chris Evert topped women tennis winners with $261,460 in 1974. Only three men in 1974 won more purse money.

Knicks Again A Shoo-In For NBA Playoffs

By The Associated Press
For the ninth straight year, the New York Knicks are a shoo-in for the National Basketball Association playoffs. But this time it's a pretty tight fit. The Knicks, who used to breeze into the playoffs in past years, had to squeeze in this time — and in fact needed the help of another team to do it Sunday.

The Knicks beat the Buffalo Braves 105-93 and then had to sweat out Kansas City-Omaha's 95-94 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers. The results gave both teams identical season-ending records of 40-42, but the Knicks claimed the wild-card berth because they beat the Cavaliers 3-1 in their season series.

"We really played like the Knicks of old," said Walt Frazier, who led the Knicks with 26 points. "The ball was zinging around and we were really moving. Buffalo likes to do a lot of switching on defense, and we made them pay for it. We found the open man."

"For pride's sake, it always is nice to get into the playoffs," added Frazier's backcourt mate, Earl Monroe.

The Knicks landed the 10th and last berth and will face Houston Tuesday night in the opener of the Eastern Conference playoffs. In another first-round game Tuesday night, Seattle will play Detroit in the Western Conference.

In other games Sunday, the Washington Bullets beat the New Orleans Jazz 119-103; the Portland Trail Blazers walloped the Los Angeles Lakers 126-97; the Seattle SuperSonics stopped the Phoenix Suns 114-111 and the Chicago Bulls ripped the

Bt Weiskopf, a winner again after 18 months of frustration, was not the only one to turn a happy face toward Augusta, Ga., and the upcoming Masters, that annual spring rite that occupies a unique position in the game of golf.

While Weiskopf's relatively easy, front-running, three-stroke triumph Sunday made him the happiest man in the Greater Greensboro Open, there was a large number of pro golf's greats who found their own ray of a sunshine in the wind and cold that plagued this old event.

"I think I accomplished what I wanted to," said Johnny Miller, a three-time winner this season who made a surprise entry here to bone his game for the Masters.

"I played a good, solid tournament," he said. "My game is good. My swing is good. My putting is coming along. It isn't great yet, but it's good." He tied for sixth.

"I'm really quite pleased," said Gary Player, the gritty little South African who holds the British Open crown and will defend in Augusta. A final round 69 brought a big smile to his face.

"That's the best round I've played in several years," said Arnold Palmer. "It's really very encouraging." After shooting himself out of contention in the early going, Palmer closed with a five-under-par 66 in the final round but, like Player, was far, far back.

"Fantastic," said Lee Elder, who will be the first black to play in the Masters. "Maybe I can surprise some people." He scored a rare double eagle—holing a 181-yard five iron second shot on the par 5 14th hole.

And Lee Trevino finished a very creditable fourth in the wind and biting cold that sent him digging for extra sweaters every round. "I was wearing everything I owned," said Trevino, who shot a late round 68 for 281.

But Weiskopf, a leader since his opening round of 64, was the happiest of them all. He pushed his bulging lead to six shots with a 15-foot sidehill putt for an eagle on the ninth hole, then cruised home with a 68 and a 275 total, nine under par on the 6,643-yard Sedgefield Country Club course.

Veteran Al Geiberger quietly slipped in to take second with a 66—278 after Jerry McGee, Weiskopf's only real challenger in the final round, hit in the water and made a double bogey on the 17th hole. He was third at 68—280.

"I'm swinging the way I did in '73," said the obviously delighted Weiskopf, "I'm hitting the same type of shots."

That was his banner season, one of the great seasons anyone has compiled in recent years. He won seven times in four countries and included the British Open among his triumphs. But he hadn't won since. "I'd played injured last year," Weiskopf said, referring to a hand ailment that plagued him most of 1974. "I compensated, and I got my swing fouled up. This year I've worked hard. "I'm back. "No one can say 'I'm going to win at Augusta.' "But I can say that if I don't win this year, it's just a matter of time."

Petty And Foyt Add Victories In Sunday Races

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
Richard Petty and A.J. Foyt, rated by many to be the best race drivers America has produced, added victories to already bulging trophy cases during the weekend.

Petty, already a $1.82 million winner in stock cars, rode his red and blue Dodge to an overwhelming victory in the 250-mile Gwyn Staley Memorial Grand National race at North Wilkesboro, N.C., on Sunday.

It was the 37-year-old Petty's 168th career triumph, his 12th in 28 starts on the five-eighths of a mile North Carolina oval and his fourth in seven outings this year.

Foyt, racing's all-time money winner with more than $3 million in a career span that matches Petty's 17 years, beat 1974 Indianapolis winner Johnny Rutherford to the wire to capture the Trenton 200 for U.S. Auto Club championship cars.

The 40-year-old Foyt, known variously as "Super Tex" and "Tough Tony," established a new race record of 154.625 miles per hour for the 1.5 mile Trenton Fairgrounds layout.

Petty, toiling on a much smaller oval, the rustic North Wilkesboro Speedway, loafed around for two hours, 46 minutes and 39 seconds to beat the Chevrolet-driving Cale Yarborough by almost four laps.

Foyt, taking home the 50th career victory in the hot USAC championship cars, now has won three of his four starts this year and appears an odds-on favorite to pick up an unprecedented fourth triumph at Indianapolis, the next stop on the USAC tour.

The Texan started 10th in the line-up at Trenton — rain canceled time trials Saturday and forced the drivers to draw starting assignments from a hat — but he grabbed the lead on the 21st lap and never was headed.

The race was run without a yellow light being shown as Mike Moseley came home third, Wally Dallenbach fourth and Tom Sneva fifth.

Petty lost the front row pole position at North Wilkesboro to upstart Chevrolet driver Darrell Waltrip of Franklin, Tenn. But he beat Waltrip to the starting line and was never worse than fifth in the early stages. He was in and out of the lead several times before taking command for good at the 159th lap.

His average speed was 90.009 m.p.h., held down by four yellow lights involving 34 laps. His share of the purse was $6,675. Foyt was paid about $15,000.

Placing third behind Petty and Yarborough was Buddy Baker in a Ford. Dave Marcis drove a Dodge to fourth place while 1973 Grand National Rookie of the Year Lennie Pond came in fifth in a Chevrolet.

Scholarship For Woman Athlete

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Cindy Brogdon, a 5-foot-11 forward who averaged 28.9 points per game in a four-year high school basketball career, has become the first woman to receive an athletic scholarship from Mercer University.

"She could have gone anywhere she wanted to go," Coach Peggy Collins said of Miss Brogdon, 18, one of Georgia's most sought-after female basketball players.

"She is one of the finest players I have ever seen."

Miss Brogdon was named Georgia's top woman player three times and led Greater Atlanta Christian of Roswell to three state basketball championships.

Plan Return Of The Ringneck

SHOSHONI, Wyo. (UPI) — Fremont County is going to start a campaign to bring back the ringneck pheasant.

The Shoshoni and Fremont County Chambers of Commerce are behind the plan, with the aid of the Wyoming Game and Fish Department.

State Game Biologist George Derr has already met with leaders to explain the factors, such as predators, which control pheasant populations.

After costly and extensive prior treatment failed, this skin disease was believed incurable. At this point, Happy-Jack mange medicine was used with dramatic success. Contains NO hexachlorophene! Also, HAPPY JACK flea-tick spray or powder most effective where ordinary flea collars fail, yet SAFE! At better drug & feed stores.

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠83 ♣Q872 ♦AK53 ♠1063

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass

3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four diamonds. Not only do you have a maximum no trump response, but in support of hearts, your hand is worth 11 points. There is no question about playing in game. However, by cue-bidding on the way to four hearts, you show your maximum and diamond control, which is all partner might need to bid a slam.

Q.2—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠J1097532 ♣KQ52 ♠93

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

Pass Pass 4 ♠ Dble. Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. When you removed partner's double of two diamonds to two spades, you told him you had a weak hand with long spades. Armed with this information, he has, nevertheless, elected to double three diamonds. Trust him, secure in the knowledge that you have an ace more than he might expect.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠QJ87543 ♠95 ♠A843

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ 2 ♠

Dble. Pass 2 ♠ Pass

2 NT 3 ♠ Pass Pass

Dble. Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. When you removed partner's double of two diamonds to two spades, you told him you had a weak hand with long spades. Armed with this information, he has, nevertheless, elected to double three diamonds. Trust him, secure in the knowledge that you have an ace more than he might expect.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AK1073 ♠9863 ♠8 ♠AKJ

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ 2 ♠ Dble. 2 ♠

4 ♠ Pass 5 ♠ Pass

What action do you take?

A.—Double. It is obvious that the opponents are in trouble. You have more than your quota of defensive tricks and even though you have only four low hearts, East will have difficulty in managing the hand. Partner's double is a warning that he might be short in spades, so you should not rebid your suit, which risks running into a bad break and a minus score instead of a substantial profit.

Q.5—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AK982 ♠J76 ♦A105 ♠Q9

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass

4 ♠ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Five spades. Slam depends on whether partner has a diamond control. By bidding two suits, then jumping over game in a third, you announce no control of the first-round diamond control. Partner cannot bid unless he has either first or second-round control of that suit.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South with 60 on score you hold:

♠AK982 ♠J76 ♦A105 ♠Q9

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass

4 ♠ Pass 5 ♠ Pass

What action do you take?

A.—Six diamonds. You are committed to six spades at least, but partner might have the right hand to bid a grand slam if you show first-round diamond control. Partner actually held the hand shown in Question 7, and had done his all. He would simply bid six spades over your cue-bid, and you see that slam is an excellent contract even if you have to lose a trump trick.

Q.7—Neither vulnerable, as South with 60 on score you hold:

♠AK982 ♠J76 ♦A105 ♠Q9

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass

4 ♠ Pass 5 ♠ Pass

What action do you take?

A.—Double. It is obvious that the opponents are in trouble. You have more than your quota of defensive tricks and even though you have only four low hearts, East will have difficulty in managing the hand. Partner's double is a warning that he might be short in spades, so you should not rebid your suit, which risks running into a bad break and a minus score instead of a substantial profit.

Farm Scene

By STEVE C. RIDDICK

Extension Agent

Soybean meal currently represents the only bright spot in an otherwise cloudy hog feed ingredient picture. SBM prices have fallen dramatically from peak levels of last fall.

Soybeans are the major source of world protein comprising over half the world's high-protein vegetable meal trade.

Recent research in swine nutrition have proven a reduced dependence by swine for the need of high levels of animal protein. Even though protein prices generally do not have as major an effect on total ration cost as does the current stability of protein supplies and price should be reassuring to hog producers.

With rising world population and higher standards of human nutrition, demand is bound to grow. The demand for protein is bound to grow also and it affects the hog industry which must look to alternative protein sources. One of these sources appears to be higher protein content in feed grains. Many universities are looking at the feeding of recycled waste materials.

Already the cattle industry has begun using poultry waste in their feeds. One of the major problems seems to be what psychological response the consumer will have to this new idea.

More slaughter hogs to come from feeder pig operations. So predicts many market analysts. Within the next five years they predict half the hogs finished for slaughter will come from feeder pig operations. Currently, 40 percent of the hogs fed to market weights are fed by some one who didn't farrow the pigs.

The main reason for this may possibly be that most farmers do not have the help needed to do a good job with a farrowing operation or they are too old to become interested.

Billion Dollar Oil Search Appears Gigantic Flop

By BILL CRIDER
Associated Press Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The final word isn't in but some oilmen already see the billion dollar search for oil off Florida's Gulf Coast as a gigantic flop.

Ten dry holes that drillers call "dusters" threaten to turn much of Florida's offshore area into a splendid tax write off instead of an oil and gas bonanza.

It's a severe comedown for the Mississippi, Alabama and Florida offshore area that brought the federal government $1.49 billion in an oil lease sale held in New Orleans on Dec. 20, 1973.

Drillers may hit pay yet, but there's no sign of the anticipated rich fields that led to such high bids — though they're still bringing in producers in other parts of the Gulf of Mexico.

Called the MAFLA Frontier, the three-state coastal area was virgin territory for drillers.

The output was counted on to help ease the fuel pinch a few years hence, after oilmen had time to sink about 1,000 wells, raise 300 or 400 control platforms, lay a few hundred miles of undersea pipeline.

Instead, the final result may be one of those impressive losses that big oil companies would rather talk about than the huge profits which cost them the depletion allowance.

The sale was held over the opposition of environmentalists who feared inevitable pollution. Dusters could give them the victory that eluded them in federal courts.

Opened to drillers a year ago, the MAFLA was reputed to cover 3.2 billion barrels of oil and 3.9 trillion cubic feet of natural gas.

The biggest believer was a combine formed by Exxon Co. USA., Mobil Oil Corp. and Champlin Oil Co. It paid a record $212 million for an oil lease on three square miles of seabottom on the Destin anticline.

There, 40 miles southeast of the fishing port of Destin, far beyond the gaze of frolicking vacationers on the sugar sand at Fort Walton Beach, the combine is making its latest test.

A semisubmersible rig named Western Pacesetter III was set up in 250 feet of water and began drilling a $5 million deep hole in the anticline after six shallow ones at $1 million each.

An anticline, a geological formation often involved in oil finds, is a hump caused by a fold in the earth's crust.

Will Exxon and partners bite the bullet, surrender their leases and pull out if this hole also is a duster? The combine has $632 million sunk in leases on six contiguous tracts making up 18 square miles of prime anticline.

"We have made no decision as to what action we will take if this hole is dry," an Exxon spokesman said. "We will have to get together with our joint owners, look over all the data and determine where we go from there. But the enthusiasm is lagging a little bit."

The rig, one of three now drilling in MAFLA territory, started its hole in early March and is past 11,000. Permit depth is nearly four miles. A well that deep takes four to six months of work.

One reason enthusiasm wanes is that an expensive deep well already has been plugged and abandoned at a point about 10 miles further eastward along the anticline.

Odeco's Ocean Star, a jack up rig that stands on the seabottom, spent nearly five months atop its long still-like legs boring to 17,798 feet.

At that point, the 15 partners in the deep test gave up the attempt. The hole was plugged March 4. The partners were the owners of four contiguous tracts where the combined lease cost totaled $173 million.

In addition to the Exxon combine's deep test, Shell Oil Co. has a jack-up rig working in 118 feet of water 50 miles west of St. Petersburg with a permit to drill to 18,800.

A Shell spokesman said the rig, Stormdrill VI, has down below 16,000 feet and should reach the permit depth within a month. Sun Oil Corp. is a partner.

Texaco Inc. has a jack up named Mr. Sam standing in 105 feet of water 40 miles west of Tampa, with a permit to drill to 20,000.

Gulf Oil Corp. plans a deep test, to spud in late in April about 70 miles south of Pensacola, Fla., with a permit to drill to 21,000 feet.

Costs skyrocket on deep wells.

"A well drilled to 20,000 feet doesn't cost twice as much as one drilled to 10,000 feet, it costs five times as much," said Bleu Beathard, an Exxon spokesman.

Deep tests are going for the Jurassic strata formed 170 million years ago, a time of dinosaurs, flying reptiles and huge swamps. The strata lies over 15,000 feet below the surface.

Earlier shallow holes aimed at the younger Cretaceous layer.

Geological seismic tests of MAFLA territory were bright.

"What it proves is that all our techniques, computers, geological and geophysical data will only show underground formations which may have trapped oil or gas," said Beathard. "The only way to find out for sure is drill a hole."

Guide

How to get pleasure from a dog bite

Being bitten by a dog can be fun. However, if the dog is engaged to your best friend, it can be embarrassing.

If you are looking to get bitten by a four-legged dog, there are several things you can do:

- Make a noise like a bone.
- Dress like a cat.
- All of the above.

Some people think being bitten by a dog is a pain in the leg. This is not always so. Some dogs are very tall.
