

Thieu Resigns, Bitterly Blasting U.S.

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP)—With tears in his eyes, President Nguyen Van Thieu announced his resignation tonight in a nationwide television broadcast as North Vietnamese forces pressed closer toward Saigon.

He said South Vietnam could not win militarily and blamed the United States for its failure, saying Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was unable to perceive that the 1973 Paris agreement "led the South Vietnamese people to death."

Although Thieu's ouster had been demanded repeatedly by the Viet Cong as the first step toward a negotiated settlement, there was no indication it would bring an immediate halt to the fighting that has swept closer and closer to Saigon.

Despite Thieu's decision to resign, some U.S. experts say that fighting in South Vietnam so favors the Communist-led forces that it is doubtful they would be willing to negotiate even with Thieu gone.

Thieu himself declared, "There will be more challenges and fierce fighting in the near future."

He named Vice President Tran Van Huong, 71, to succeed to the presidency.

Thieu, 52, who has headed the Saigon regime for two terms, or nearly eight years, stepped down as 10 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong divisions threatened Saigon. Radio contact was lost with South Vietnamese forces under heavy attack at Xuan Loc, the gateway to the capital 40 miles east of Saigon, and still another province on the coast 35 miles farther east apparently was about to fall.

There was no immediate reaction from the Viet Cong.

In his televised address, Thieu said, "I told President Nixon and the U.S. Congress that I did not demand an indefinite assistance but only assistance for five years so we can develop our economy."

"I said I was like a newly recovered patient and if I am given enough medicines soon, I will be strong enough. But later the internal affairs of the U.S. prevented the Republic of Vietnam from getting sufficient assistance."

"While the assistance is insufficient and the 300,000 North Vietnamese still in South Vietnam continue to receive tanks and artillery pieces from the Soviet Union and Red China, repair their airfields and establish more infantry divisions, South Vietnam stands under a defensive position, unable to do much, unable to bomb North Vietnam because of the lack of military aid."

"We could not back up our defense lines because we did not have enough helicopters, ammunition, weapons, and we had to retreat, and we were blamed for not being capable of defending the land."

Continuing his bitter attack on the U.S. government, Thieu, referring to American troop presence in the South, said:

Paris agreement, he asked the United States to prevent North Vietnamese aggression if there was another "invasion," to recognize Saig 5 as the sole legitimate government in the South, and to assure sufficient aid for the South Vietnamese to defend themselves.

He said former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew flew to Saigon then "but guaranteed only the first two points. There was nothing about the third point (aid) and I started to have some doubts."

STILL ADVANCE—North Vietnamese continued their advance down the coast Monday and military sources in Saigon said the fall of Ham Tan, capital of Binh Tuy province appeared imminent. Radio contact with Xuan Loc was lost as the battle for the city went into its 12 day. (AP Wirephoto Map)

RESTRAINING ORDER

Atty. Gen. Rufus Edmisten said Friday the Consumer Protection Division has been granted a temporary restraining order against Nationwide Abandoned Property Recovery Agency, Inc.

Hotline reported on this New York firm which sends legal-looking computer print-out letters to persons having the same last name as someone with an unclaimed bank account in New York State, suggesting that the recipient of the letter may be entitled to the funds in the account.

Edmisten said the firm is not registered to do business in this state. In the complaint, the Division alleges the out-of-state firm's business activities are misleading and deceptive. While it does not promise results, letter recipients are asked to send money for a research of ownership report. A hearing is to be held Apr. 28 and the order remain in effect until that date, Edmisten said.

CUT CAT

I found a persian cat with a bad cut. Is there anyway I can get him treated free? I can't keep him myself and can't afford a veterinarian's bill, yet I hate to see the cut get infected. A.A.

Liz Whalen, a member of the Pitt County Humane Society, asked that you call her. The Humane Society is extremely low on funds, she said, but, of course, will try to help you if it can. If not, perhaps you could pay the veterinarian yourself and advertise for the owner to claim him with the stipulation that he pay for the medical care and the ad. If no owner shows, surely someone would like to have the nice pet as you describe and would help you with whatever costs you might have incurred.

Report Decline Employment

RALEIGH (AP)—A decline of 6,500 in nonfarm employment in North Carolina during March was reported today by state Labor Commissioner Billy Creel.

Creel reported that employment increased 1,200 in the textile industry and 200 in transportation, but dropped in most other manufacturing industries and several nonmanufacturing industries. These drops included 900 in furniture and 1,100 in construction.

Creel said 1,970,400 Tar Heels were at work in nonfarm jobs in mid March for a decrease of 74,000 from the year ago level.

Violence Before Election

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Pre-election violence erupted in northern Portugal today, and more than 20 persons were reported injured in several incidents.

Armed leftists besieged members of the moderate Center Social Democrat (CDS) party holding a campaign rally in a theater in Guimaraes. Diplomatic sources said the leftists stoned the theater, and military units were deployed to protect the CDS members. But the siege continued.

One soldier and two other persons were reported wounded by gunfire at Guimaraes. A Lisbon newspaper said units of the 2nd Light Artillery Regiment in Oporto were sent to Guimaraes as reinforcements.

A clash between leftists and CDS members was also reported in the streets of Oporto, Portugal's second largest city. Communist youths reportedly stoned a motorcade of CDS members, but military police prevented them from attacking the party headquarters.

The election Friday of a constitutional assembly is also widening the gulf between Portugal's leftist military rulers and the Roman Catholic Church.

INTERVIEW FORD

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Ford appears on CBS television tonight at 10 p.m. in an hour-long interview being broadcast live from the White House.

U.S. Officials See Step As Largely Meaningless

By KENNETH J. FREED
WASHINGTON (AP) — The resignation of President Nguyen Van Thieu removes the one publicly stated obstacle to a negotiated peace in South Vietnam, but some U.S. officials think it may have come too late.

Viet Cong and North Vietnamese leaders have said they would never negotiate with Thieu, calling him a bandit and a murderer.

However, some U.S. experts say that fighting in South Vietnam so favors the Communists it is doubtful they would be willing to negotiate even with Thieu gone.

"It sounds like a cliché," one State Department official said. "But Saigon is just hanging there, ripe for the picking. I can't see why they would wait and let the fruit fall when they can just reach for it now."

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger met at the White House with President Ford to discuss the implications of Thieu's resignation. There was no immediate official response to the blame Thieu placed on the United States for his military setbacks.

While U.S. officials declined immediate public comment, one told a newsmen, "Things will happen now." He declined to be specific, but appeared to refer to at least some brightening of prospects for a negotiated settlement.

Initial congressional reaction anticipated the possibility of a negotiated settlement but no increase in the prospect of any massive new military aid for the Saigon government.

The ranking Republican on the House International Relations Committee, Rep. William S. Broomfield of Michigan, said he does not think Thieu's resignation will have any effect on getting any military aid from Congress.

"As far as getting any military aid," that's over," Broomfield said. "I just feel the members have already made up their minds regardless of what happens over there."

Broomfield said he believes the only aid Congress will approve will be evacuation money and humanitarian aid up for votes Tuesday in both the House and Senate.

One possible step toward a negotiated settlement would be to attempt to establish a coalition government among the North Vietnamese, the Viet Cong and remaining elements of the Thieu government.

Cost Of Postal Union's Contract Will Help To Fix Mailing Cost Hike

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The price of mailing a letter is in the balance as contract talks begin between the Postal Service and four unions representing 600,000 workers.

Postal officials have said the cost of the settlement will help fix the size of the postal rate increase planned later this year.

In the talks that begin today, the unions are determined to win a hefty hike in wages and benefits in what the Ford administration says is "the most important collective bargaining agreement" this year.

Because the settlement will be watched closely by other unions facing negotiations later this year and in 1976, the Council on Wage and Price Stability has announced it will "monitor" the talks for their potential inflationary impact.

Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar has warned that "an excessive pay package coming out of collective bargaining would contribute to price inflation" and could lead to job losses.

The Postal Service expects to wind up the current fiscal year June 30 with a deficit of more than $800 million. Although officials are concerned that higher rates could lead to a decline in mail usage and further reduce revenues, they have already announced the need to increase the price of a first-class 10-cent stamp to 12 or 13 cents.

The exact amount hinges on the size of the new contract, they say.

The current pact expires July 21, but because of long ratification procedures, bargainiers will be pressed to reach a settlement several weeks earlier. The unions are prohibited by law from striking, but several have adopted a "no-contract, no-work" stance.

Involved in the talks along with the Letter Carriers union are the 300,000-member American Postal Workers Union; the Mailhandlers Division of the Laborers International Union with 47,000 members, and the 46,000-member National Rural Letter Carriers Association.

Bernard Cushman, chief negotiator for the four unions, says that postal workers earn anywhere from 74 cents to $1.94 an hour less than employees of United Parcel Service, the government's chief competitor.

Darrell Brown, Cushman's counterpart at the Postal Service, contends wages are already comparable with private industry.

Postal workers, who won a $1,100-a-year increase two years ago plus semiannual cost-of-living adjustments, currently earn a top of about $12,000, excluding fringe benefits.

In addition to a wage boost, they are expected to seek a higher cost-of-living formula; a 35-hour week with voluntary overtime instead of the current 40 hours with up to two hours a day of mandatory overtime; fully paid life, health and retirement benefits and dental insurance.

Senator Expects 'Tests'

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. James L. Buckley says the Russians fooled Presidents Nixon and Ford on the detente issue and the Communists now will move to win control of governments around the world.

"The fact is that since the detente policy was started, the Soviets have never really shrunk to use their military power and military presence to create trouble in the world," Buckley said Sunday on the WCBSTV "Newsmakers" program.

The New York Republican said a series of Communist advances in Indochina, Portugal, the Middle East and the Caribbean gave him "a feeling they (Nixon and Ford) have been fooled by the Soviets."

He said the United States cut-back on military aid to the South Vietnamese and Cambodians has weakened confidence in America as a stabilizing force in the world and caused "serious" strategic and prestige losses by America to the Communists.

Observing that the Soviet Union and China had supplied the arms "that made it possible for the North to invade and savage the South," Buckley said the Communists are now grappling with the United States in "a test of wills."

"By falling back ... I can't help but believe they now will be encouraged to tighten, to strengthen, the so-called movements of national liberation not only in the Philippines, but also the Caribbean, the Middle East, in Africa — in other words, I think we're going to see a further proving of America's determination everywhere."

Halderman Trial Gets Underway

By ROBERT H. REID
Associated Press Writer
CHARLOTTE (AP)—Trial of a $1.2 million suit against former White House aide H. R. Halderman and 27 other defendants involved in a 1971 rally attended by President Nixon began today with attorneys estimating a two-week trial.

Halderman, former White

House chief of staff, was not in court.

The 20 plaintiffs, many of them members of a group called the Red Hornet May Day Tribe, alleged their constitutional rights were violated when they were barred from attending an Oct. 15, 1971, rally honoring evangelist Billy Graham, a Charlotte native.

Multiple Charges

Marshall Craig Smith, 17, of 1105 East Fifth St. has been charged with breaking, entering and larceny, credit card theft and six counts of forgery by Greenville Police.

Chief Glenn Cannon said that charges stemmed from a joint investigation conducted by local police and U.S. Postal Service inspectors.

The credit card theft charge, Cannon said, stemmed from the alleged theft of a credit card from a post office box at the East Carolina University station on September 21, 1974, while the breaking, entering and larceny charge resulted from a post office box break-in at the same postal station on November 25, 1975.

Smith was charged with six counts of forgery which allegedly occurred on November 11, 1974, and December 21, 1974, using checks reportedly taken in the November post office box theft.

Bond on the breaking, entering and larceny charge was set at $200, while bond on the other seven charges was placed at $500 each.

Jury selection for the U.S. District Court trial was expected to be completed by midday.

The suit was filed more than three years ago against eight Charlotte policemen and four members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Halderman, Secret Service Director H. S. Knight, and 14 other federal employees were added to the suit following the Senate Watergate hearings in July 1973.

During the Watergate hearings, former White House counsel John Dean made public a memo, allegedly from Halderman, stating that protestors would be kept away from rallies where the President was to appear.

George Daly Jr., an attorney for the plaintiffs, had sought to obtain a sworn statement from Nixon for use in the trial. That effort was abandoned, however, after Nixon suffered a flareup of plebitis.

Daley excused five prospective jurors this morning, including one Vietnam veteran and one man who said he knew Graham.

S. Dean Hamrick, a Charlotte attorney representing Halderman, would not comment on whether Halderman would appear at the trial. Halderman was in Charlotte last year to provide a deposition.

More Than 200 Lives Rest On Court Decision

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 200 lives are at stake as the Supreme Court prepares to hear an argument that the death penalty is unconstitutional because it is cruel and unusual punishment.

If the court makes a broad ruling that the death penalty in any form is unconstitutional, more than 200 prisoners on death rows in prisons around the United States would be spared.

The court is hearing oral arguments today in the appeal of Jesse T. Fowler, a 27-year-old janitor from Raleigh, N.C., who shot and killed a friend in July 1973 after an argument that started in a dice game.

Fowler is represented by the Legal Defense Fund, Inc. Arguing his case is Anthony Amsterdam, a law professor at Stanford University.

U.S. Solicitor General Robert H. Bork and North Carolina Deputy Atty. Gen. Jean Benoy will argue in favor of upholding the death penalty.

In a lengthy brief submitted earlier, the defense contends the death penalty is a misfortune that befalls only the "outcasts of society."

The brief states that arbitrary judgments by police, prosecutors, judges and juries still tend to make administration of capital punishment capricious.

Caprice was an important element in the court's 1972 decision in Furman vs. Georgia when a 5-4 majority held that juries acted too capriciously in deciding which men to condemn and which to sentence to life imprisonment.

Because all states with death penalties at that time gave juries that power, all condemned inmates were given life sentences instead as a result of the court's ruling.

Shortly afterwards, states began devising ways to restore the death penalty within the limits of the Furman decision. North Carolina was one of the first to do so, and it removed the element of caprice by making death the only possible penalty for a capital crime.

To date, 70 North Carolinians have been condemned under this mandatory procedure. Of the 30 states that have adopted new death penalty statutes, North Carolina has the largest death-row population.

The brief filed by Benoy, the North Carolina official, defends the rights of the states to protect themselves from an "unbridled criminal element."

Bork's argument on behalf of the U.S. government includes a statistical analysis purporting to show that capital punishment has some deterrent effect on the incidence of murder and rape. Previous academic studies of neighboring states with and without death penalties have shown little or no difference.

'The Wiz' And 'Equus' Captured Top Honors For Broadway Shows

followed up her Oscar victory by winning a Tony as best actress, shared honors with "The Wiz," which carried off the award for best musical and a handful of other awards. (AP Wirephoto)

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Wiz," a swinging black musical based on one of childhood's favorite fables, and "Equus," a taut British drama about a youth crazy over horses, are Broadway's champion shows of the 1974-75 season.

Top individual winners of the coveted silver medallions for "outstanding achievement" which were announced during elaborate ceremonies Sunday night included Ellen Burstyn, repeating her Oscar triumph; and in joint citation, John Kani and Winston Ntshona.

In their South Africa homeland the pair are able to work on stage only under an employment subterfuge as "house servants."

Angela Lansbury and John Cullum were named the year's star musical performers.

Besides being chosen as the best musical, "The Wiz" scooped up six of the other 17 competitive trophies. Peter Shaffer's "Equus," the best drama, also won a directing prize for John Dexter.

The virtual blitz of tune show honors by the Afro rhythm version of "The Wonderful Wizard of Oz," and the Kani-Ntshona victory highlighted an otherwise easily predictable sequence of the triumphs which took place on the stage of the Winter Garden theater during a two-hour telecast over the ABC-TV network.

The Tonys, officially the Antoinette Perry Awards, are voted upon in secret ballot by about 450 representatives of all branches of the stage profession, under the auspices of the New York League of Theaters and Producers, in association with the American Theater counterparts of Hollywood's Oscars.

Geoffrey Holder was the evening's only double winner, taking both musical director and costume designer awards for "The Wiz." The show's other victors were Ted Ross and Dee Dee Bridgewater, for supporting actor and actress; Charlie Smalls, best score; and George Faison, choreographer.

The dramatic acting award to Kani and Ntshona, the first joint citation in Tony history, was for their performances in two plays which they co-authored with Athol Fugard, "Sizwe Bansi Is Dead" and "The Island." The dramas examine aspects of black existence under the apartheid laws of their homeland.

Ellen Burstyn said she was accepting her trophy also on behalf of Charles Grodin, the only other performer in "Same Time, Next Year," who did not get a nomination.

Supporting drama acting Tonys went to Frank Langella of "Seascape," and Rita Moreno in "The Ritz." She seemed slightly unhappy about her category, declaring "the only thing I support in the show is my beads."

Miss Lansbury took the star musical actress award, the third Tony of her career, for the revival of "Gypsy." Cullum was honored for his part in "Shenandoah." That show,

Probing 3 Break-Ins

Greenville police today are investigating three break-ins reported yesterday and this morning in which two safes were reported forced open and money taken from a third safe left unlocked.

Chief Glenn Cannon said only old deeds were reported missing from a safe forced open at an office at the Hugh Winslow residence on Hooker Road. That break-in was reported at 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

Thieves, he said, took a jar containing an estimated 25 pennies from an open safe at Farmer's Warehouse on North Greene St. after gaining entrance to the building through a rear door. That incident was reported at 5:30 p.m. Sunday, according to Cannon.

The third break-in was reported this morning at Greenville Parts and Metal Co. on North Greene St.

Cannon said the safe there was forced open and an some money was taken, he noted.

Smith-Brown Vows Said On Sunday Afternoon

AYDEN—The Ayden First Baptist Church was the scene of the wedding ceremony of Miss Hazel Diane Brown and Charles Martin Smith Sunday at 3 p.m.

The Rev. Gilbert G. Mister officiated at the double ring ceremony.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Glenn L. Swanson, organist and Miss Janipat Worthington, pianist. Mrs. Gary Bostic of Greenville sang "Wedding Song" and "It Seems I've Always Loved You". The bride sang "The Wedding Prayer" as the benediction.

Parents of the couple are Dr. and Mrs. Oscar H. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. James Burley Smith, both of Ayden.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white Satapeau designed with a high neckline encircled with sculptured Venice lace beaded with pearls. The sheer bodice featured a V-Shaped overlay of beaded sculptured lace with Satapeau ruffles edged in Cluny lace. The long fitted sleeves featured matching lace to the elbow.

Tiers of the Cluny lace edged the hemline and extended around the Chapel length train.

She wore a tiered illusion Mantilla edged in matching Cluny lace attached to a Camelot cap of the Cluny lace embroidered in pink rosetta and beaded with pearls. She carried a bouquet of flowers on a white Bible.

Miss Rebecca Brown, attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a formal length gown of white voile flocked with yellow roses accented with spring green leaves. The gown featured short puffed sleeves and an open sweetheart neckline. A tie of self-fabric accentuated the gown back. The hemline of the modified A-line skirt was edged in a deep ruffled flounce.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. J. Bryant Kittrell of Greenville, Miss Valerie Joan Hooper of Wrightsville Beach, Miss Connie Lynn Nobles of Kinston, and Miss Marina Ray Cox of Winterville, cousin of the bride. They wore dresses identical to the honor attendant and they carried ruffled voile parasols in spring green.

Mr. Smith served his son as best man. Ushers were Major Pelham Smith, brother of the bridegroom, William H. Johnston, Jr. of Greenville, cousin of the bridegroom, Allan M. Wilson of Kinston, and O.H. Brown, III, brother of the bride.

The mother of the bride was dressed in a pink polyester knit dress and matching coat. She wore a corsage of white carnations. The mother of the bridegroom wore a pale green polyester knit dress with matching coat. She was remembered with a corsage of white carnations.

The grand mothers were also remembered with corsages of white carnations.

The bridal couple and their parents received their guests directly after the wedding. Mrs. Thomas E. Powell of Kinston resided at the register.

The bride is a graduate of Wayne Community College where she attained her A.S. degree in Dental Assisting and Dental Hygiene. She is presently employed by her father as a dental assistant.

The bridegroom is a graduate of N.C. State University where he received his B.S. degree in agriculture education. He is presently engaged in farming. The couple will reside on Route 2, Greenville.

An after rehearsal party was held Saturday night in the Ayden Community Building for friends of the bridal couple. The hostess was Miss Becky Brown.

Following rehearsal, the

parents of the bridegroom entertained the bridal couple and wedding party with a cake cutting. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Pate of Kinston greeted guests and Mr. and Mrs. James Madison Smith of Salisbury said goodbyes. Mrs. Ruth Watson and Mrs. Grady Smith assisted in serving.

Prior to rehearsal, the bride's parents and Mr. and Mrs. Thermon Mills honored the bridal couple with a dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mills in Ayden. Guests included the wedding party and family members.

Mrs. Reid Hooper and Miss Valerie Hooper of Greenville entertained the bride at a bridesmaids luncheon at their home Saturday. The bride

Mission Team To Work In Haiti

Eight members of a work mission team are making plans to be in Haiti in June. It was announced today by the Rev. James Bailey, minister of Jarvis Methodist Church.

Members of the team are Dr. and Mrs. Dick Douglas, the Rev. John Farmer, associate pastor of Jarvis Methodist Church, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Braswell, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Freeze and Miss Laureen Taylor, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Allen Taylor.

The team will leave Greenville June 8 and will be involved in building a much needed school-meeting center building in Saint Martins, Haiti. They will return to Greenville on June 21.

Financing for the mission team is being partially sponsored through a treasure sale to be held in the fellowship hall of Jarvis Methodist Church Wednesday, April 23, from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Items included in Wednesday's treasure sale will include garden tools, home furnishings, dishes, silver, china, kitchen equipment, cameras, clothing, works of art, handmade items and antiques. The public is invited to attend.

Agency Provides Helpful Service

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to the woman who was so deeply in debt was all right as far as it went, but it didn't go far enough.

We were also in debt over our heads. Then we heard about Consumer Credit Counseling Service, which turned out to be the answer to our prayers.

It is a non-profit agency that will figure your wages and debts, and contact all your creditors who usually are willing to cut your payments down to where you can handle them. Then every payday, you pay the Consumer Credit people a set amount and THEY pay off your bills. That way you don't have any creditors hounding you, and you keep your self-respect.

Someone helped me by telling me about Consumer Credit; now it's my turn to help others.

GRATEFUL IN OREGON

DEAR GRATEFUL: Apparently, Consumer Credit Counseling has been a good friend to many because yours was one of many letters I received recommending it. Thanks for writing. I'll spread the word.

DEAR ABBY: I have no one to talk to, so I am going to cry on your shoulder, if you'll let me.

It's an old story. An affair that never should have started. Nine years ago I fell in love with my boss. (We were both married. I had always been a good wife and mother, and had a religious background, but I wasn't strong enough to resist this man.)

After eight years of deceiving my husband, I filed for a divorce and told my husband everything. My lover told me that he would do the same. Well, you know the rest. He never did. So now I am divorced, and I don't have my husband or my lover.

I have prayed to God to help me stop loving this married man because now I know that he will never leave his wife and family.

Will I ever get over this, Abby? I desperately need some encouragement. Maybe this letter will keep some other woman from making the same mistake that I did.

WEAK AND FOOLISH

DEAR WEAK: Yes, you will get over it, but not until you stop dwelling on the past and blaming yourself for your "foolishness" and weakness.

There is a lesson to be learned here: "Don't discard the old kettle until you're sure the new one holds water."

DEAR ABBY: Re the college student who wouldn't shower regularly—to the displeasure of those who had to live with him. In 1951, during basic training, my company commander told me of a soldier who had not bathed in 13 weeks. (This included two weeks of bivouac!) He asked me to see to it that that smelly soldier get a daily shower—or else.

I got five of the strongest men I could find, and we approached this unwashed soldier and told him that if he didn't get into a shower, we would get him into one. He refused, so we stripped him and carried him bodily into the shower. The others held him while I proceeded to scrub him with a G.I. scrub brush. Halfway through the bath, he pleaded for mercy and promised to finish the rest himself. He did. And after that, he was Mr. Clean.

BIRMINGHAM LAWYER

DEAR LAWYER: Now that's what I call a reasonable man under the circumstances.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 49700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Wedding Invitation

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest T. Buck request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter, Pamela, to Milton James Jr., on Friday, April 25, at 7:00 p.m. in the Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church.

Seira Club Holds Meet

Mrs. William Heymann presided on Tuesday afternoon when the Seira Book Club met at the home of Mrs. G. Henry Leslie.

Mrs. Elvin Holstius introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Janet Valtie Schweisthal, assistant professor at the School of Allied Health and Social Professions. Mrs. Schweisthal spoke about the curriculum, the opportunities offered, and her work.

Guests at the meeting were: Mrs. Daniel Carlson, New Britain, Conn.; Miss Catherine Barbion, Brussels, Belgium; Mrs. Norma Hattin, Kitchner, Ontario, Canada; and Mrs. Elizabeth Leslie, Greenville.

Couple Speaks Wedding Vows

PACTOLUS—Miss Penny Lee Toler became the bride of Dennis Edward Braxton in a ceremony Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Pactolus Baptist Church.

The Rev. Tommy Payne officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Thurman E. Toler of Rt. 5, Greenville, and Mr. and Mrs. William F. Braxton of Greenville.

A program of wedding music was presented by Danny Dixon of Rt. 3, Washington, organist, and Mrs. Brenda Cox of Washington, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of silk organza over peau do soie, styled with Alencon lace bib front and a wedding band collar. The full bishop sleeves were trimmed with matching lace. The full empire skirt ended in a wide ruffle trimmed with matching lace had featured a chapel length train. Her shoulder length veil was attached to a silk organza Juliet cap trimmed with matching lace and tiny seed pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and white pom poms.

The bride's only jewelry was a single strand of pearls and earrings, a gift of her parents.

Miss Marie Vernon of Pactolus was maid of honor. She wore a formal length dress of rose pink double knit polyester styled with a lace bib front, lace inserts, round stand-up collar and short puffed sleeves trimmed with lace. She carried a long-stemmed white mum with pink and white streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss

MRS. DENNIS EDWARD BRAXTON

Darlene Braxton of Greenville, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Kay Knox of Bethel. They wore dresses of teal blue styled identical to that of the honor attendant and carried long-stemmed mums with blue and white streamers.

Johnny Harris of Greenville was best man. Ushers were Gene Toler of Rt. 5, Greenville, uncle of the bride, and George Foley of Greenville.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Merl-Lou Nobles of Washington.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside at Ft. Bragg, Fayetteville.

The bride attended North Pitt High School. The bridegroom is a graduate of Kaiserslautern American High School in Kaiserslautern, Germany, and is currently serving in the U.S. Army stationed at Ft. Bragg.

An after rehearsal party was held Friday night. After the bridal couple cut the first slice of cake, Mrs. Merl-Lou Nobles served cake and the bride's mother poured punch.

Mrs. Futrell Gives Program

The Home Extension Club of Sweet Gum Grove met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mayo J. Rogers.

Mrs. Eloise Futrell, who toured the Holy Land recently, presented the program and discussed the life and traditions of the people there. She also showed different types of plants that grow there.

Others reporting on Israel were Mrs. Eva Brown, music, Mrs. Margaret Briley, family life, Mrs. Eric Whichard, clothing, Mrs. Margaret Terterton, Mrs. Clarence Tripp, home management, and Mrs. Rogers, food.

Leader reports given were "The Wise Way in Using Sugar" by Mrs. Brown, health leader, and Mrs. Rogers, citizenship. "Respect The Law," Mrs. Whichard gave the devotional.

Club Members Tour Garden

The Dig'N Delve Garden Club toured Mrs. Charles White's garden in Brookgreen for the April meeting.

After the tour, the group assembled at the garden on Elm Street for a tailgate party and work day. The spring work was done and the summer bedding plants were planted under the supervision of the landscape chairmen.

Hostesses were Mrs. Joe Davis and Mrs. Charles Gilbert. The next meeting will be the annual luncheon and plant exchange.

GARMENT CARE CENTER

AHEC Promises Real Service

The Area Health Education Center at Pitt Memorial Hospital may soon begin to show real results for the people of our area.

Dr. James G. Jones, AHEC Family Practice Residency Program planner reported to the Pitt Memorial board of trustees last week that resident physicians should be assigned here by July, 1976.

The AHEC program was designed to establish residency training centers throughout the state of North Carolina. Through it young physicians will get the training they need and at the same time render medical service at various points in the state.

The local AHEC is not directly connected with the planned new ECU Medical School, but it expected to work closely with the school.

The AHEC program, which is administered from Chapel Hill, is an outgrowth of the decade of debate over medical care that has gone on in North Carolina. The ECU School of Medicine and rural health centers also grew out of this attention to the problems of health care.

We think the AHEC program is going to be a fine adjunct to medical care in North Carolina. It appears that planning is moving along without delay and we should soon see concrete results from this program.

Jury's Verdict Should Be Accepted By Public

John B. Connally, who only a short time back, appeared destined to be a prime possibility for president on the Republican ticket in 1976, had been tried and adjudged innocent on a bribery charge.

A jury rendered the innocent verdict after hearing Connally's testimony and that of Jake Jacobsen.

Connally has indicated he might pick up the pieces of his temporarily shattered political career. Whatever he does in the future politically, the jury's verdict should be accepted by the public as vindication for Connally. This unfortunate incident should not haunt him forever.

Answer In Three Agencies?

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — While it is still too early to tell exactly how the General Assembly will go about answering the call for action on top-level school problems issued by Lt. Gov. James B. Hunt Jr., much thought is going in the direction of severing the two agencies now combined under the Department of Public Instruction.

That department embraces both public school (kindergarten through grade 12), and community colleges; the same State Board of Education oversees both operations. But the top administrator of public schools is elected statewide; the community college chief appointed by the board.

"A number of people close to the problem feel that this is the basis of the conflict," one knowledgeable insider said.

"The loyalties of some board members and Chairman Dallas Herring are often split when it comes to a question of whether funding should go to public schools or community colleges."

Separate Agencies

The obvious solution would be to let one board and one chief administrator look after one agency, some are now thinking.

That is how the university system now works, with President William Friday appointed by the board of trustees. Some say the community colleges could well be moved under that structure, but opponents to such a move think this would put the 57 technical institutes or community colleges into competition with higher schools.

The split-off of community colleges into a system of its own could be accomplished without amending the state's Constitution.

A constitutional amendment would be required to change the manner of naming the superintendent of public schools. Thus, those favoring the three-school-system proposal say major change could be brought on with the least possible uproar, by following this outline:

—Keep the elected superintendent of schools and the State Board of Education appointed by the governor, with that agency responsible for public schools; giving the superintendent budgetary authority.

—Shift community colleges under a board appointed by the General Assembly, with the superintendent appointed by the board as he now is.

—Keep colleges and universities under the present board of governors system with the president appointed.

Some Say No

Some critics of this suggestion contend that it would create another level of bureaucracy, working against efficiency and unity; but those who favor a split say it would at least get the conflicts and competition out in the open for public debate.

Insiders at the Department of Public Instruction say the three-agency plan has the support of Dr. A. Craig Phillips, superintendent of schools, and his key people.

"It is not the perfect solution, but it would alleviate the most critical parts of the problem... not the whole thing," one source said.

Still others see the most reasonable solution being in the direction of more closely merging the now-competing agencies of public education into one super-agency.

There is, these people argue, conflict and competition between the vocational and career education elements in public schools and those in community or technical schools; public schools fear the technical schools will take away some of their clients; and some point to a tendency of technical schools to want to become community colleges and community colleges to want to become junior-college university affiliates.

Recent studies have pinpointed these and other concerns and scolded the agencies for not working toward cooperation and exchange of services and ideas rather than competing.

Whatever the end result of this hassle, it is likely to be as Lt. Gov. Hunt has suggested the most important work done in this session of the General Assembly.

Superman Shuns A Job

WASHINGTON—"Henry, Cambodia has falling, Vietnam is in shambles. This is a job for Superman. Go to a telephone booth and put on your blue suit."

"I'm not going to do it, Nancy, I'm fed up with being Superman."

"How can you say that, Henry? The whole world is depending on you to save it."

"Nobody appreciates anything I do any more. I'm going to stay home and play dominoes."

"You can't sulk, Henry. Have you ever seen Superman refuse to go on a mission?"

"That's easy for you to say. But Superman never had to deal with Sen. Jackson or the Democrats on The Hill. He never had to explain detente or what it means to lose our credibility amongst our allies. I've had it, Nancy, I'm hanging up the suit."

"You can't do it, Henry. What would President Ford do without you? What would President Thieu do without you?"

"It's no good, Nancy. It was fun being Superman when I could fly over Hanoi and bomb the city and mine the harbors and make incursions into Cambodia. But what good is it to be Superman if I can't punish anyone for violating the Paris peace accords? Sure I'll go in the phone booth and I'll put on the damn suit. What do I do then?"

"You'll think of something, Henry. You always do. Maybe you could deliver more tanks and guns and planes to South Vietnam so they could stop the onslaught of godless communism."

ART BUCHWALD

"You need money for that—$700 million to be exact. Where am I going to get it? Congress won't give it to me, and we can't find any more accounting errors at the Pentagon. I'm sorry, Nancy, I'm sticking around the house for a while."

"It's not like you to be so down, Henry. The trouble is that you've been wearing street clothes and no one has been taking you seriously. If you put on your Superman outfit and went up on The Hill, Congress would give you anything you wanted."

"You think so?"

"I'm sure of it, Henry. When you fly over the Capitol and land on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's windowsill, they'll have no choice but to vote you all the military power you need to convince the North Vietnamese they made a big mistake when they underestimated the will of the American people's commitment to Indochina."

"All right, I'll give it a try. Where's the suit?"

"I just had it laundered and pressed."

(Ten minutes later)

"Nancy, I'm calling from the phone booth. The suit seems to have shrunk in the laundry. It doesn't fit any more."

"That's because you've been putting on so much weight at those state dinners in the Middle East. Are you sure you can't get into it?"

"I ripped the seat trying to put it on. I'll look awfully

The N.C. SCENE

CIA Chief On Hot Seat

By ROWLANDE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Tucked into President Ford's speech to Congress, and ignored in the emotional controversy over Vietnam, was a carefully worded warning that secret operations of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) must be protected from "altered" congressional oversight that threatens "essential secrets."

Mr. Ford's purpose: repeal of an oversight provision stuck into a new law last December. That provision requires the President to notify "appropriate committees" including the notoriously leaky Senate Foreign Relations and House International Relations Committees, before approving any overt CIA operation abroad. Such wide distribution of this country's most secret operations "Makes the protection of vital information very, very difficult," Mr. Ford said.

This presidential concern comes not a moment too soon for the few friends of the CIA still willing to buck the political lynch-mob psychology which began with disclosures about the CIA's clandestine work in Chile and illegal spying on American citizens.

Indeed, the apparent reluctance of both the White House and embattled CIA director William Colby to shout their fears about destruction of the agency has infuriated serious-minded intelligence experts. "For the life of me," one such expert told us, "I cannot figure out why President Ford and Colby have handled this 'assassination' issue so ineptly."

Asking anonymity, this uniquely well-informed official continued: "As far as I know the CIA never killed any foreign leaders. Plotting may be something else again, but if every thought a man had were translated automatically into action, there would be few of us out of jail or still alive. Would you like to be hung for every nasty fantasy in which you indulged? But assassination, no sir, and I defy anyone to prove differently."

But when the charge of possible CIA assassinations of foreign leaders surfaced, the instinctive White House reaction was to hand that hot issue to the presidential commission headed by Vice President Nelson Rockefeller. That only gave new wings to rumors that CIA may, indeed, have been executioner at high levels.

Colby, a straight arrow without guile, is desperately trying to hold back the floodgates by offering his full cooperation to the separate, year-long probes about to start in the Senate and House. Intimates say that when the assassination charge first came up, he refused categorical denials on grounds that these probes might turn up shreds of evidence — unknown to him — tending to link CIA summit murders.

Colby's policy is passionately debated by him and top-level CIA officials with their own conflicting views. Colby contends that in today's rancid political climate, his job is to reveal almost everything to any duly-constituted congressional committee and claim executive privilege only in extraordinary cases.

Some former intelligence officials believe he has no alternative. Within the agency itself, one group of officials has pressed for total exposure of everything the agency has ever done and for prosecution of officials who broke laws.

But another faction violently disagrees. Their thesis: almost everything the CIA has done was under direct orders from a President of the United States. Yet the agency is now asked to take the rap for extra-legal activity. So, take the heat — but tell nothing that could compromise the CIA's daily routine.

In fact, daily routine is already compromised to a point that the agency is now engaging in a bare handful of covert "operations" abroad, none particularly sensitive. Moreover, exchange deals with foreign intelligence agencies are drying up and U.S. businessmen, acting for years as invaluable informants and CIA fronts, have become "impassioned" in breaking off all CIA contacts.

Also evaporating are the highly useful deals by which a foreign nation's intelligence service does field work for the CIA in "coattail operations" financed by the

Strength For Today

OUR LITTLE FIFTEEN PER CENT

We are told that a farmer contributes about fifteen per cent to the production of a harvest. The other eighty-five per cent is the result of weather conditions, fertility, seed quality, and other factors over which the farmer has no control whatsoever. In other words, God is eighty-five per cent responsible for a bushel of wheat, and man, by the right use of his powers, is fifteen per cent responsible.

In a figurative sense, somewhat the same proportion prevails in other areas of our lives. The wise man is conscious that life with its possibilities is the gift of God. The realization of this should make us humble. Most of all, however, it should indicate the course of our activities. Since life is so completely in the hands of God, that man shows his wisdom who trustfully yields himself and his power into these hands so that he may be used to good ends. With the great achievements of science in mind, we may think that man's powers are great. Actually they are small indeed in the sight of God.

Ethics Faced Reality

By ROBERT B. CULLEN, Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP)—State Sen. John Winters, D-Wake, did not intend to take on Duke Power Co. when he introduced his bill to force subdividers to lay down adequate paving in their developments. He is not quixotic by nature.

Winters, a homebuilder in private life had often been rankled by less ethical colleagues who would pave a road with perhaps half an inch of asphalt, sell the homes and lot along it, then leave the homeowners in a lurch when the paving cracked and wore away.

So he introduced a bill that would require developers either to pave their roads to state specifications or to notify buyers that the substandard road would be theirs to care for in perpetuity.

He found that the bill would not only put a stop to a rip-off of the mostly lower middle class people who settle in such subdivisions. It would also help those already left in the lurch.

The Department of Transportation told him that if his bill passed, it would begin improving and maintaining the existing substandard roads. If it did not pass, the Department said it would have to continue its policy of ignoring the bad roads, for fear that paving them would just encourage developers to build more of them.

Enter Duke Power. One of its subsidiaries, Crescent Land and Timber Co., owns about 4,000 lots along Lake Norman. Currently, the lots are leased on a long term basis to homeowners.

But Crescent has decided to sell them. At between $5,000 and $30,000 per lot, they would provide an infusion of millions of dollars in cash to the company's coffers.

The rub was that all the lots were reachable by dirt roads. Crescent says that county zoning ordinances around the lake prohibit private developments. So, its only alternative, if Winters bill passed, would be to pave those miles of dirt road.

That would raise the price of a lot beyond the going rate, effectively ending the possibility of selling them and depriving the company of all those millions.

Crescent decided it wanted out of Winters' bill. The company's attorneys wrote an amendment which would exempt them. Sen. Herman Moore, a Charlotte Democrat, introduced it.

Winters opposed the amendment. He disagreed in principle, and he was afraid that the amendment would, in some way, gut the bill's general application in the rest of the state.

He managed to prevail last Thursday when a subcommittee voted 3-2 against Moore's amendment. The full Senate Transportation Committee will consider the bill Tuesday, and Duke's lobbyists will be pushing to have the amendment included then.

The entire episode has been very educational for Winters, who is serving his first term in the legislature.

"It indicates that unless you have hired representation, your point of view is rarely heard," he said.

"I'm not trying to penalize major businesses. But it offends me personally that there are these avenues to protect certain interests in the state. I know its legal and there's nothing really wrong with it. Maybe I'll just have to get accustomed to it."

An Ideal Rather Than A Reality

By JOHN CUNIFF, AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Producers and customers under the American system "are not enemies, but partners," President Ford said in a speech at Concord, N.H., but the statement really applied to an ideal rather than a reality.

It is true that you can't have consumers without producers, and that most people are both producers and consumers, but somehow the lines have been drawn that separate people emotionally into one or the other category.

Each feels the other enjoys unfair advantages that should be restrained. Each attacks the other while remaining conscious of the fact that they cannot exist except in relation to each other.

Complicating rather than clarifying the relationship is the role played by government. Each category calls upon government to be its ally. Each tries to state its case through rigid legislation.

Maybe this is considered competition, but the end result isn't competition but the reduction of it. There is widespread agreement today that much marketplace legislation is counterproductive.

Various agencies and laws maintain prices higher than they might be with free competition — the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Federal Aviation Administration, public utility commissions, fair trade laws.

The latter, which prevail in 36 states, permit manufacturers to set the retail price of their product and, in some instances, permit them to refuse goods to outlets that try to cut prices.

All in all, the President said, government regulation costs every American $2,000 a year, a figure whose origins he didn't reveal. The precise figure might be disputed, but not the fact. It has been amply demonstrated that much regulation is wasteful.

But it isn't only consumers and academicians and government officials who seem to have lost sight of the mutual dependency of producers and consumers. In their zealous efforts to sell, some producers overemphasized consumption.

It is only recently that industry has made any important effort in its advertising to stress the importance of production. Almost every ad was a plea to consume more — toothpaste, cereal, autos, travel, cosmetics.

The realization that the massive production of the United States was, in the process, damaging the environment of consumers has further sharpened the line.

Something had to be done to reduce pollution and ecological destruction. Few people will disagree. But some critical observers now believe the country might have hamstrung production by too much heavy-handed regulations.

Some regulations to protect the environment have, for example, led to layoffs. Regulations to make automobiles safer have led to higher car prices. And attempts at legislating the good life for consumers has led to higher taxes.

Can there be more proof, as the President attempted to point out, that what affects one group affects the other — that producers and consumers are one and the same?

No Results By Housing Agency

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — The agency set up by the 1974 North Carolina General Assembly to help the poor acquire housing has not yet financed its first house. It may never finance one.

The North Carolina Housing Finance Agency represents the second state effort to assist the poor in financing housing. The North Carolina Housing Corp. was set up by the 1969 General Assembly. It was dissolved last year after it had spent about $500,000. It, too, never financed a house.

Under prodding by Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, the 1974 General Assembly set up the new housing finance agency. The legislature appropriated $4 million as a measure fund to serve as security for its bonds. One reason the old housing corporation never got off the ground was that there was no security for the bonds it proposed to issue. There was an understanding that the 1975 General Assembly would add another $4 million which would make possible the issuance of $100 million in bonds to finance houses for low income families that could not obtain financing through regular channels.

Since the housing finance agency was set up, a board of directors has been appointed and it has gone to work with Fred J. Herndon, a Durham builder, as its chairman.

Because the law said the agency was to provide financing only for low income people, it is trying to decide just what figure constitutes low income. When this is done, it may reach the conclusion that the only way the poor can acquire housing at today's prices is through direct government subsidy.

"A person of low income finds it awfully difficult to afford a home today," said Harlan Boyles, deputy state treasurer under whose office the housing finance agency operates. "The evidence seems to be that a supplemental payment, a subsidy, will be necessary if people of low income are to acquire housing."

"If that evidence is found to be accurate, then the entity of government to provide that subsidy logically is the federal government," Boyles continued.

Status Of Legislation In General Assembly

RALEIGH (AP) — Here is the status of important measures pending before the North Carolina General Assembly:

ERA—A bill to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution was defeated by the House Wednesday after winning tentative approval Tuesday.

Presidential Primary—A House-passed bill to abolish North Carolina's presidential primary is still before the Senate State Government Committee. Before the House is a bill to hold the primary next year on the first Tuesday of March.

Utilities—A Senate-passed omnibus utilities bill is pending before a House Public Utilities subcommittee. It would expand the Utilities Commission, abolish the automatic fuel adjustment clause and repeal the forward test period. Several other utility measures also are pending.

Auto insurance—A House subcommittee is studying no-fault auto insurance legislation. Another no-fault measure is before a Senate committee.

Crime—A House judiciary committee has before it Senate-passed bills to crack down on crime, including one to increase the maximum sentence for armed robbery to life imprisonment.

Taxes—The House and Senate finance committees have bills to repeal the sales tax on food and to increase the income tax in the higher brackets. Also before the Senate Finance Committee is a bill to phase out the manufacturers inventory tax. A Senate-passed bill to allow deduction of child care expenses that allow parents to work is before the House Finance Committee.

Government—A House committee still has bills to amend the state constitution to allow the governor and lieutenant governor to serve two consecutive terms.

Death Penalty—The Senate Judiciary 1 Committee has taken no action on a bill to substitute life imprisonment for the death penalty.

Mountain Area Management—House and Senate committees are studying bills to create a 12 member commission to regulate development in North Carolina's mountain area.

Appropriations—Several committees and subcommittees are studying the proposed state budget for the next biennium. They are trying to cut $232 million from the proposed budget.

Landlord-Tenant—A bill to spell out the rights and responsibilities of landlords and tenants is pending before the House Judiciary 3 Committee.

INSURANCE UP

NEW YORK (UPI) — The amount of life insurance sold by U.S. firms last year was double the figure of seven years earlier, according to the Institute of Life Insurance. Estimates by the institute put the 1974 figure at $290 billion, a rise of 23 per cent from the 1973 total.

NCNB CASH RESERVE. NOW YOU DON'T HAVE TO DEAL WITH LOAN OFFICERS TO DEAL WITH LIFE.

Stores seem to run their best sales exactly when you don't have the ready cash to take advantage of them. The bill from the dentist comes in on the same day that your washing machine goes out. And no emergency ever came when someone was expecting it.

But with NCNB Cash Reserve, you can face life squarely even when it throws you nothing but curves.

You arrange for NCNB Cash Reserve just like you would for any other kind of credit.

NO EMERGENCY EVER CAME AT THE RIGHT TIME. BUT WITH CASH RESERVE,
YOU CAN FACE LIFE SQUARELY EVEN
WHEN IT THROWS NOTHING BUT CURVES.

But once your application is approved and your credit-line is established, you might never have to go through the traditional loan application process again.

The money is there for you to use whenever you need it. Up to $5,000 at any given time.

And instead of seeing a loan officer each time fortune pulls a fast one, you simply write yourself a loan by writing yourself a check.

To pay unexpected medical bills. To repair your car or replace it. To buy things you need when you need them, or when the price is too right to pass up.

And nobody ever has to know that you're using credit except you and us.

Ford Relaxes At Burning Tree

WASHINGTON (AP) — Relaxing after a busy week of travel and speechmaking, President Ford went to the Burning Tree Country Club in nearby Maryland for a round of golf.

In his foursome were Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex.; Rod Markley, a vice president of Ford Motor Co., and William Whyte, a vice president of U.S. Steel.

The President had returned Saturday from a two-day trip to New England where he launched the U.S. Bicentennial celebration at the sites of the opening battles of the American Revolution.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices moved slightly higher today in active trading, supported by predictions of economic improvement and hopes that the resignation of President Nguyen Van Thieu may lead to a negotiated settlement in South Vietnam.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11:30 a.m. was up 3.37 at 811.80. Advances led declines by 663 to 407 among the 1,507 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Larry Wachtel of Bache & Co. said Thieu's resignation has had "some psychological impact" on the market, but added that technical factors, such as the last week's strength, appeared to be more controlling.

The resignation "helps a bit," said Alan Poole of Laidlaw-Coggeshall, in that it may lead to a negotiated settlement and make it easier to get Americans out of South Vietnam.

Comments by leading businessmen over the weekend who said the economy had bottomed out also encouraged investors, brokers said.

The most-active issue on the Big Board was Gulf and Western Industries warrants, steady at 4 7/8.

CBS, Inc., gained 1 1/4 to 49 1/4. Last week the communications company declared better quarterly earnings and Forbes magazine gave a positive write-up in a cover story this week.

Natamas rose 2 1/4 to 50 1/4. The company says it has discovered a huge oil producer offshore Indonesia.

Gold stocks fell as bullion prices dropped sharply in Europe and the United States. ASA, Ltd., dropped 2 1/4 to 67 1/2 and Dome mines was off 2 at 45 1/4.

Buttes Gas, up 3/4 at 20 1/2, was the most-active American Stock Exchange issue. The market-value index at 11 a.m. was ahead .53 at 83.94.

The Big Board's composite index gained .16 to 45.92.

Charge Two In Slaying

RALEIGH (AP)—Two Bladen County men are facing murder charges in the shooting of Raleigh policeman W. B. Holland Jr. the night of Nov. 10, 1973.

Chief Wake County Deputy L. W. Kelly identified the men as Edward Martin McKenna, 30, of Bladenboro and James Charles Pittman, 19, of Rt. 3, Bladenboro.

Holland, 28, was found shot in the head in the bedroom of his home south of Raleigh. Officers theorized that he apparently returned from work about 2 a.m. and surprised burglars in his home. His wife and daughter were visiting relatives in Clinton at the time.

Kelly said McKenna was arrested several days ago by federal officers on a firearms charge. He was in the Cumberland County jail Sunday under $10,000 bond on the firearms charge. Kelly said Pittman was arrested at his home Sunday.

Ex-Combat Marine Is Backing Death Penalty

By ROBERT B. CULLEN Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jean Benoy has never met Jesse Thurman Fowler. But today he argued that the state of North Carolina should be permitted to put Fowler to death.

Benoy is a stocky, ex-Marine gunnery sergeant who is now a deputy attorney general. His haircut and demeanor are consistent with the 12 years he spent as a Leatherneck before working his way through law school.

One of his major arguments before the Supreme Court was based on his military experience. Death in the gas chamber, he said, was no more cruel than death on the battlefield.

He is a staunch defender of

To dramatize the point, he quoted long passages of an account of Marines being blown to bits on a Pacific beach in World War II.

To Benoy, the federal government's authority to send men to such deaths in the defense of national security is analogous to the state's right to execute convicted murderers and rapists in defense of domestic tranquility.

Benoy has little regard for what he considers the "sophistry" of the arguments in Fowler's defense. They ultimately lead, he contends, to the proposition that the state, through its constitutional authorities, cannot defend itself against an "unbridled criminal element."

He is a staunch defender of the fairness of North Carolina's system, believing that it touches black and white, male and female, with an equal hand.

"I know what inequality is. I was an enlisted man for 12 years. And we do not have it here in North Carolina," he said in a recent interview.

Some 250 miles from the Supreme Court, in Central Prison's overcrowded Death Row, Jesse Fowler has a different opinion.

Fowler, a truck driver until he shot John E. Griffin in July 1973, thinks the state would be guilty of murder if it took his or anyone else's life.

Arrested For Rape Attempt

WASHINGTON, N.C. — Curtis Lester Burroughs, 43, of 405 Millbrook St., Greenville, was arrested here Saturday by Beaufort County Sheriff's Deputies on charges of kidnapping, assault with intent to commit rape, and crime against nature, Sheriff O. C. Davis said this morning.

Burroughs, Sheriff Davis reported, was charged after a 20-year-old Greenville woman told officers Burroughs took her to a trailer home East of Washington Friday night, and attempted to rape her.

Davis said Burroughs was placed under a $25,000 bond pending a hearing in District Court in Washington May 6.

Scientist Says Human Jaw Is Getting Smaller

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The human jaw is getting smaller, its chin is receding and its teeth are getting more crooked, says a University of Michigan scientist.

"Our whole facial structure below the eyes is falling to pieces," says Dr. James E. Harris, chairman of the department of orthodontics. "When we see a person with perfect teeth, it's so rare that we take pictures."

Harris has spent the past decade studying the teeth of ancient and present day Nubians, a genetically distinct tribe who lived along the banks of the Nile River for thousands of years.

Harris and his colleagues studied the Nubians, who exhibit the facial features of Caucasians and the bone structure of black Africans, because skeletal remains dating back to 200-

1500 A.D. were available.

He began his study to determine why so many people — particularly Americans — suffer from malocclusion, or "bad bite."

The scientists compared the dental and skeletal records of present day Nubians with those of their ancestors.

Harris found that the average Nubian's teeth are not nearly as crooked as the average American's. The reason may be the greater mix of racial groups in America, he said.

"You take people with long heads, round heads, square heads and you throw them all together, you're asking for trouble. You're asking for a harmonious face from a series of genes that are not programmed to produce a harmonious result."

"It's remarkable we look like humans," he said.

Harris said the primary reason humans regularly suffer from malocclusion is their jaw is growing smaller with the teeth getting smaller, too, but at a far slower rate.

Thus, teeth crowd into an undersized jawbone and the consequences are jammed, crooked teeth.

Normally, genetic changes harmful to a species — like too-small jaws — are not reproduced because the species usually does not survive to breed.

But with civilization and softer foods, children with malocclusions have survived and passed on defective genes to their children.

"The cranio-facial system is the only system in the body that can completely collapse and you can still reproduce," said Harris.

Harris foresees a gradual worsening of human teeth over the next several thousand years.

"There is no reason to believe the face is not going to continue to get worse and worse," he said. "We will have more and more poorly formed teeth, and a consistently worse bite."

Cars In Mishap Here Saturday

An estimated $5,500 property damage resulted from an 8:30 p.m. collision here Saturday at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Glenwood Drive, police reported.

Officers identified the drivers of the cars involved as William Lacy Fornes of 100 Cemetery Rd. and Walter Marvin Pollard of 111 Glenwood Dr.

Fornes was charged by officers with driving under the influence and driving after his license had been revoked.

Damage was estimated at $2,500 to the Fornes car and $3,000 to the Pollard auto.

Bucs Snap Boone Jinx, Roll Over Appalachian 10-4

Pirates Hang On, But The Citadel Is Poised

By The Associated Press

East Carolina's Pirates have retained their one-in-a-million shot at a second straight Southern Conference baseball championship, but The Citadel's Bulldogs can shoot them and the other six league clubs down by sweeping a doubleheader today at last-place Virginia Military.

The Pirates upped their conference record to 6-5 with a 10-4 victory Sunday over Appalachian State's Mountaineers in a game that was postponed from Saturday after East Carolina had been beaten 5-3 in the first game of what was to have been a doubleheader.

But The Citadel boosted its front-running record to 9-1 by beating William and Mary's Indians twice, 7-0 and 4-1, and must lose its four remaining league games while East Carolina wins its last three for even a tie to be created.

Only Davidson's Wildcats, 8-4 after an 11-7 decision Saturday over Furman that dropped the Paladins to 8-5, has a mathematical chance of beating out The Citadel—also only if the Bulldogs lose the rest of their games and Davidson wins its last two.

Trailing The Citadel, 17-4 over-all; Davidson, 16-12; Furman, 10-7; and East Carolina, 12-11, are Richmond's Spiders at 4-7 and 11-14, Appalachian at 4-5 and 14-14-1, William and Mary at 3-9 and 10-15; and VMI's Keydets at 1-8 and 2-12.

East Carolina scored four runs in the first inning Sunday against Appalachian on Geoff Beaton's double and singles by Ron Staggs, Glenn Card and Bob Harrison and got three in the sixth. Card had two doubles and two singles and four RBIs and Staggs had three hits.

Mike Ramsey, who had two hits Sunday, and Mark Dunn each had two hits and a run batted in Saturday in Appalachian's victory. With the Mountaineers ahead 5-2 the Pirates scored a run in the seventh and had the bases loaded with one out, but relief pitcher Mike Ellis struck out one batter and got the next one on a pop fly.

The Citadel got six-hit pitching from Hank Welch in the first game at William and Mary and a four-hitter by Mike Mazzucco in the second. Ken Feaster had four hits in the two games for the Bulldogs.

Gene Dotson had a two-run single and an RBI triple for The Citadel in the opener, which the Bulldogs wrapped up with four runs in the seventh. Singles by Mike Hawkins and Randy Cooper, a two-triple by Larry Leonard and a single by Feaster scored three in the fifth inning of the nightcap.

Davidson trailed Furman 7-2 going into the bottom of the sixth inning, but the Wildcats scored twice in that inning and seven times in the seventh to pull it out.

BOONE—East Carolina finally snapped its Boone jinx yesterday and rolled to a 10-4 victory over Appalachian State University. The game was the second of a doubleheader. The first had been played on Saturday, and the second halted by rain and delayed a day.

It was the first time since Appalachian State joined the Southern Conference that the Pirates had won a baseball game at Boone. Two years ago, the Bucs dropped a doubleheader there that cost them the Southern Conference championship. Saturday's first game loss also assured the Pirates that they had no chance at defending the title they won last season.

East Carolina banged out 13 hits in the victory, including four doubles. They pushed over four runs in the first inning and never were headed.

Glen Card led the Pirates with four hits in four trips, including two doubles. Ron Staggs picked up three hits, while Geoff Beaton and Bobby Harrison each had a pair of hits.

Steve Herring started the game, but failed by one-third of an inning to go the required five innings to claim the win. It went to Bob Feeney, who came on during the fifth and finished the game.

The Pirates jumped on Appalachian for four runs in the first inning. Beaton led off with a double and scored when Staggs singled. Card singled to drive in Staggs, then he scored on Harrison's hit. Bruce Leary followed with a single, and an error on the play let Harrison come around.

The Bucs boosted the lead to 6-0 with a pair of runs in the second. Beaton walked and stole second, scoring on Staggs' hit. Joe Roenker walked and Card doubled in Staggs. That made it 6-0.

Appalachian finally cracked the ice with one in the bottom of the seventh. It came on a solo home run by Greg Isbell.

The Pirates got another in the third. Howard McCullough singled, and Robert Binkley came on as a courtesy runner. Ken Gentry reached on an error and Beaton's single scored Brinkley for a 7-1 edge.

The fifth saw Appalachian score their final run, closing the gap to 7-4. Ramsey singled and moved up on an out. Isbell singled to drive him in.

East Carolina closed out the scoring in the sixth inning, scoring six more runs. Steve Bryant walked and Staggs singled him to third. On the delay steal, both runners moved up a base with Bryant scoring. Card got his second double, driving in Staggs. Harrison then doubled to score Card with the 10th Pirate run.

The victory raised the Pirate overall mark to 12-11, while they went to 6-5 in Southern Conference play. Appalachian is now 14-14 overall and 4-6 within the league.

East Carolina travels to Williamsburg, Va., on Wednesday to meet William & Mary.

Terps Easy Track Kings

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—As expected, Maryland's Terps have won the Atlantic Coast Conference track and field championship for the 20th consecutive year.

Paced by double winners Nick Basciano and Jeff Nichols, Maryland piled up 105½ points Saturday to 67½ for runner-up North Carolina State. Clemson received 48, Duke 33, North Carolina 28, Virginia 20 and Wake Forest 2.

Duke's Robbie Perkins was voted the outstanding performer. The Richmond, Va., sophomore won the mile and three-mile to capture the Robert A. Fetzner award on a vote by the conference coaches.

Basciano repeated as ACC champion in the 100 and 220 and anchored the Terps in the 440 relay. Nichols won the 120 high hurdles and 440 intermediate hurdles and ran on two relay teams.

Virginia's Keith Witherspoon set a meet record of 51-11½ in winning the triple jump.

Overall, Maryland had eight winners.

Chris Evert Enjoyed World Series And Winning $50,000

By DAN McDONALD

Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Chris Evert says she would like more tournaments like this past weekend's $100,000 World Series of Women's Tennis to which only four players were invited.

But, then why not? She pocketed the $50,000 first prize — the largest sum ever in women's tennis — after downing a determined and angry Billie Jean King 4-6, 6-3, 7-6 Sunday before a national television audience.

Miss Evert, the year's leading money winner with $183,450, said, however, she did not want to win just for the money. "The $25,000 second-place prize would have been good," she said.

In the consolation match, Evonne Goolagong of Australia picked up $15,000 by beating Russia's Olga Morozova 2-6, 6-3, 6-3. Miss Morozova's $10,000 prize will go to the Russian Tennis Federation as usual.

The scene was set for a true championship match Sunday after Miss Evert trounced Miss Morozova 6-4, 6-0 Saturday and Ms. King blasted Miss Goolagong 6-1, 6-3. Each match lasted about an hour.

Sunday, Miss Evert and Ms. King traded shots for over two hours before Miss Evert took the match with a 5-2 tiebreaker in the final set.

The closeness of the match where only five points out of the 239 played separated winner from loser was almost overshadowed by Ms. King's anger over a call by a linesman in the last set with Ms. King leading 6-5.

Ms. King claimed a linesman had initially indicated a return of service by Miss Evert was out of play. The linesman's hand signal indicated the ball had hit in play and he refused to answer Ms. King's heated questions about his call.

After the match Ms. King said she had wanted an answer from the linesman. "What are they there for?" she asked in a news conference.

Tournament umpire Jason Morton refused to change the linesman's call and Ms. King went on to lose the set, the tiebreaker and the match.

Morton said although the linesman did start to indicate an

WINNERS TROPHY—Jerry McGee grins as he carries his winners trophy after winning the $125,000 Pensacola Open with a score of 13 under par 271. (AP Wirephoto)

Jerry McGee Figured It Was His Week

By ED SHEARER
AP Sports Writer
PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Jerry McGee figured this was his week before the first shot was fired in the $125,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament. "Wednesday night, I ate oysters on the half shell and the first oyster I ate, I got a pearl," an elated McGee said Sunday after ending more than eight years of frustration on the pro golf tour by capturing his first victory. "I told Jill (his wife) this may be the week," he said. "I didn't want to mention it before today because it might have jinxed me." McGee appeared on the verge of blowing his shot at victory when he played the front side in a fat 38, three-over-par, but regained his composure, strung together three straight birdies beginning at No. 10 and broke out of a deadlock with another birdie on 16 to win the $25,000 first prize with a 13-under-par 271 total.

The closing 70 on the 6,679-yard, par-71 Pensacola Country Club course gave McGee a two-shot victory over Wally Armstrong, a soft-spoken 29-year-old who saw his dream of a first victory vanish with two bogeys on the final three holes. McGee said he thought he had only a one-shot edge until he saw the scoreboard as he strolled to the 18th green.

"I was thinking so much about getting back in the Masters coming up the 18th fairway," he said. "I played in it twice and I was really disappointed when I didn't get to play in it this year."

The victory automatically qualifies McGee for next year's Masters, plus the Tournament of Champions in California which begins Thursday. "They'll probably think I'm a caddy out there," said the 5-foot-9, 160 pounder.

McGee was playing in the final threesome with his friend, Australian Bruce Crampton, who at one point was lodged in a three-way tie with McGee and Armstrong at 12-under before falling back with a bogey on 15 and another on 17.

"I don't think anybody has ever appreciated a victory on the tour more than I have this one," said McGee, who credited his attractive wife with helping him.

"Jill got me thinking in the right direction, she calmed me down," he said. "She is the sole reason why I'm sitting here now."

"And Crampton has taken me under his wings the last three years and helped me a lot. He told me to settle down after my double bogey and I told him, 'If I don't win this golf tournament, you win it.'"

Crampton, winless in 22 months, fell into a three-way tie for third with veteran Miller Barber and Dwight Nevil at 274. Nevil closed with the best round of the day, 65.

Amateur Jerry Pate, playing on his home course, was alone in fifth at 275 with a 66.

Eastern Wayne Beats Ayden-Grifton By 9-6

LITTLEFIELD—Eastern Wayne High School outlasted Ayden-Grifton Saturday night, 9-6, in an Eastern Carolina Conference baseball game.

The defeat was only the second in conference play for the Chargers, now 5-3 in the league and 7-4 overall.

Ayden-Grifton scored first, getting a run in the first. Randy Nelson singled and Ned Craft got a hit. Paul Ricciarelli's single was misjudged, allowing Nelson to score.

Eastern tied it up on Willie Jernigan's home run in the top of the second.

The Saints pushed into the lead with their second run in the third inning. Woody Sutton reached on an error, and Roger Sutton, trying to sacrifice, also was safe on an error. Bo Graham then singled in Woody Sutton.

Eastern moved out to a 5-1 lead with three runs in the fourth. Jernigan led off with his second home run of the night. Joe Kelly followed with a walk and Greg Gabriel singled. Larry Ward singled to score Kelly, but Gabriel was thrown out at third. Woody Sutton and Roger Sutton both reached on errors, loading the bases. Graham was safe on another miscue, scoring Ward.

Ayden-Grifton came back with a run in the bottom of the fourth. Steve Tripp walked and Bill Wilson reached on a fielder's choice. Ned Craft singled, scoring Tripp.

Jernigan finished up his home run derby, cracking his third of the night in the fifth, making it 6-2.

The Chargers then put on a fifth inning rally, coming up with four runs to tie the score. Ricciarelli, Mike Teachey and Steve Nobles all walked, loading them up. Al Butts ran for Teachey. Davenport walked, scoring Ricciarelli. Randy Nelson also walked, scoring Butts. Wilson singled to score Nobles, and Davenport scored when the ball was misplayed, knotting it at 6-6.

But Eastern came back with three in the sixth to get the win. Woody Sutton walked, as did Roger Sutton. Woody scored when Graham doubled, and Roger came home on a wild pitch. Terry Taylor then singled in Graham with the final run of the night.

'Disobeyed' But Nobody Minded

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta's Darrell Evans disobeyed an order from Manager Clyde King but nobody seemed to mind... except the San Diego Padres.

The Braves were trailing 3-2 when Marty Perez opened the Atlanta ninth inning with a double, bringing Evans to the plate. "I told Darrell not to try and pull the ball," said King. "Go with him. If it's outside, go that way. Don't try to jerk it, or pull it, just try and hit the run in."

The left-handed Evans listened intently then swung at southpaw Rich Folker's first pitch, pulling it just barely fair down the right field line for his fourth home run of the year and giving the Braves a 4-3 triumph Sunday.

The victory enabled Atlanta to capture one game of the three-game series from the Padres, who remain first in the West Division of the National League with a 6-4 record. The Braves are tied with Los Angeles at 7-6.

"We had to struggle to beat those guys one out of three," said King of the club his Braves had beaten 17 of 18 times a year ago.

"What's going on down there?" he said of the Padres, who have finished last in each of their six years in the league. "That's a great one for morale," Evans said of his homer, which gave him 12 runs batted in for the season. "That's one we'll remember all season."

Evans said the victory will give the club a lift for the pair of upcoming two-game series with Los Angeles and Cincinnati starting tonight.

"Every comment you read, they say we're the three clubs to watch," said Evans. "We're always mentioned with the Dodgers and Reds, and that shows people respect us."

Evans said Atlanta took San Diego for granted. "I guess. Anyway, we lost two out of three. San Diego is playing looser. They've got fantastic pitching, and they're really a good ball club."

The victory was also the first this season by the Braves in which a starter had not gone all the way. In the six previous Atlanta wins, Carl Morton went the distance three times, Buzz Capra twice and Phil Niekro once.

Niekro went eight innings Sunday with Tom House earning the victory with one scoreless inning of relief.

The Padres scored on Willie McCovey's run-scoring single in the third inning and consecutive solo home runs by Dave Winfield and Mike Ivie.

Atlanta's other runs came on

Evans' RBI single in the opening inning after Ralph Garr singled and stole second and Mike Lum's run-scoring double in the fifth.

North-South Play Begun

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — The women's North and South Amateur Golf Tournament, 73 years old and still going strong, began today over the 5,900-yard No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club.

About 70 players sought 31 places in match play which begins Tuesday and runs through Friday's 18-hole finals. There will be two rounds Wednesday.

Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit, 41-year-old Canadian, who won last year for the second time, is exempt from the qualifying play.

Today's field included two former winners, Beth Barry of Mobile, Ala., and Mrs. Nancy Roth Syms of Black Forest, Colo.

Two of Miss Barry's 1974 Curtis Cup teammates, national amateur champion Cindy Hill of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Bonnie Lauer of Orchard Lake, Mich., also are on hand.

Other top contenders include Nancy Hager of Dallas, Tex.; Judy Oliver of Pittsburgh; Pat O'Brien of Delray Beach, Fla.; Lancy Smith of Snyder, N.Y.; Connie Day of Cleveland, Tenn.; and Janet Aulisi of West Caldwell, N.J.

Captured Sixth Straight Title

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina won its sixth straight Atlantic Coast Conference tennis title Sunday and its 19th in the league's 22 years.

The North Carolina Tar Heels' Billy Brock won the singles title and was part of the doubles championship team.

He defeated Mark Meyers of host Duke 7-6, 7-5 in the singles final. In doubles, he and Tommy Dixon defeated John Lucas and Fred Winkelmann of Maryland, 6-4, 6-4.

North Carolina finished the three-day event with 65 points. Maryland and Duke tied for second with 56. Wake Forest was fourth with 43. Then came Virginia, 35; Clemson, 32; and N.C. State 27.

Jogging Fad Stretches Boston Marathon Field

By DAVE O'HARA
AP Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Way back in 1897, when the first Boston Marathon was run, there were 15 entries. And marathon officials were all smiles as John J. McDermott ran and walked to victory, covering a short route in two hours, 55 minutes, 10 seconds.

The starting field expanded gradually each year after the first run, and the route was extended for 24½ miles to the official marathon distance of 26 miles, 385 yards. Up until a decade ago, the starting field was only 250.

Then the jogging fad took hold. The field grew by leaps and bounds. Little did the founders of the marathon know what they would leave to succeeding officials, other than a legacy.

Despite strict regulations, requiring an entrant to certify he has run a marathon in 3½ hours or less, the Patriots' Day run from Hopkinton to Boston has grown completely out of whack.

There were about 2,400 entries, including 52 women, down to start at high noon today in the 79th annual classic. The traditional laurel wreath and a solid gold sunburst medal awaited the winner. There were trophies for the next nine finishers, and medals for the next 90.

Just three trophies were reserved for the women, running a special race within a race among themselves. Every other official starter hoped to receive a certificate, for finishing within the 3½-hour timing period, or merely a bowl of beef stew.

Champs For Ninth Year

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Wake Forest has easily won its ninth straight Atlantic Coast Conference golf championship.

Based on scores of the best five shotmakers on each team, the Wake Forest Deacons finished the 54-tournament Saturday in 1,099 strokes. That was 36 better than the 1,135 of runner-up North Carolina State.

Next in order came North Carolina, 1,141; Maryland, 1,142; Clemson, 1,264; Duke, 1,182; and Virginia, 1,185.

Wake Forest, the NCAA champion, has the first three individual finishers. They were Curtis Strange, the national college champion, 213, three under par; Bob Byman, 216; and Bill Argabrite, 220.

Steve Lejko of Maryland was fourth with 221. Jimmy White of Clemson was fifth with 223.

A TEXAS MERRIWELL DALLAS (AP) — Texas junior Dan Krueger set some sort of a record recently when his foul shooting won three straight games within eight days.

In the last 10 seconds against Baylor, Krueger sank two foul shots for a 63-62 win. He sank another pair with 35 seconds left in a 60-59 victory over Rice. Then, again against Baylor, he made six fouls in a row in the final two minutes in the 70-69 triumph.

In Southwest Conference play, Krueger sank 51 of his first 55 foul shots this season. The answer seems to be — don't foul Krueger late in a close game.

Cousy Coaching ACC Cagers

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Former Boston Celtics' great Bob Cousy will coach the Atlantic Coast Conference team in next weekend's second annual Four Star Basketball Classic here.

The classic pits teams comprised of graduating seniors from the ACC, the Southeastern Conference, the Pacific 8 Conference and the Missouri Valley Conference.

Cotton Fitzsimmons, coach of the Atlanta Hawks, will coach the SEC team. Joe Mullaney, coach of the Memphis Sounds, will direct the MVC squad and Butch van Breda Kolff, coach of the New Orleans Jazz, will coach the Pacific 8 team.

Huskies Win Annual Regatta

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — Rowers from the University of Washington won the 12th annual Corvallis Invitational Regatta Sunday with a team score of 264. Host Oregon State University was second with 248.

The winners took all four of the men's and women's eight-member boat races and the freshman heavyweight fourman race. Oregon State had three wins in the four-member races and second places in four of the eight-member races.

The Lake Washington Rowing Club of Seattle won the other major race, the four-member women's lightweight competition.

ONE FOR ARNIE MURCIA, Spain (AP) — Arnold Palmer shot an eagle 3 on the final hole and posted a one-stroke victory over South African John Fourie in the $67,000 Spanish Open golf tournament.

Ohioids Capture Kepler Tourney

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's A team, led by medalist Wayne Bartolacci, scored a 54-hole total 1,138 to outdistance the Buckeye's B team and capture its second straight Kepler Invitational golf tournament Sunday.

The D team was second at 1,173. Illinois State was third, followed by pre-tournament favorite Indiana.

Bartolacci, a junior from Fairless Hills, Pa., battled high winds and near freezing temperatures to shoot a final-round 73 for a five-over-par 222. He finished three strokes ahead of teammate and defending champion Paul Davis, 225. Michigan's Tom McParlan was third at 227.

Won Singles Bowling Title

TORONTO (AP) — Bill Toprani of Montreal defeated Dave Cattanach of Kitchener, Ont., in the finals of an invitational singles bowling tournament Sunday.

Toprani, a native of Pittsburgh, scored a 261-255 final-game victory over Cattanach, the top qualifier.

THREE-WAY TRIPLE

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — Some stables, trainers and jockeys are thrilled to get one or two winners on the same program. But Audley Farm Stable, trainer Mark Wallerstedt and jockey Burl McBride turned in a consecutive triple at Garden State Park here on Feb. 18.

Their winners were Star Fantasy in the feature race, De Soto King and Green Is Beautiful.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be encouraging with one you love instead of criticizing and you have true accord. Plan for both future entertainment and personal adornment.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Though you may have to be away at business, at least think about how to improve conditions at home. Make kin happier.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Those around you may be frenzied owing to the planets, so keep calm and poised. Double check facts, figures for accuracy.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Keep your mind clearly on that monetary plan you are working out, otherwise you could spoil it. Don't overspend. Keep important dinner appointment.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't be impatient because some situation is not working out as you wish, since it soon will do so. Improve by proper exercise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you handle worries one at a time, you can easily get them behind you. Keep some promise made, though tempted not to.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't be disappointed if a friend does not meet your expectations today, since this person is under pressure. Don't argue at social affair.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Correlate assets and indebtedness so your life becomes easier and more prosperous in the future. Guard reputation. Please influential.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Look at some problem objectively and solve it easily. Get into some new plan in spare time, but don't put it in operation yet.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Use your good judgment, forget intuitive promptings which are apt to be wrong just now. Avoid argument with loved one.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't argue with an associate who does not understand you right now, but try to find out what caused the trouble. No snap decisions.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will like to delve into just about anything that comes up to such an extent that it will be difficult later to get out of involvement, so be sure to teach to handle own personal affairs exclusively and be more practical. A good chart for business, personnel work, building, etc. Give good spiritual training early. Sports are fine here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Music Students Giving Recitals

Five advanced students in the East Carolina University School of Music will perform in recital this week. Each recital will be held in the A.J. Fletcher Music Center Recital Hall and is free and open to the public.

Scheduled to perform are graduate student Robert Seligson of East Meadow, N.Y., alto saxophone, and four seniors: Terry Venita Thompson of Elizabeth City, voice; Janine Reep of Greenville, Piano; Michael M. Green of Salem, Va., euphonium; and Thomas W. Shields of Matthews, bass trombone.

Seligson will perform Tuesday, at 7:30 p.m. His program will include works by Robert Mrczynski, K.P.E. Bach, Elwood Derr, Francois Daneels and Elliot Del Borgo. He will be accompanied by pianist Dale Tucker and assisted by soprano Sheila Marlowe.

A candidate for the Master of Music degree in saxophone performance, Seligson is the son of Isidor Seligson of 779 Wendwood Drive, East Meadow, N.Y. He is a student of James Houlik of the ECU music faculty.

Scheduled to perform at 9 p.m. Tuesday is Terry Thompson, whose recital will include songs and arias by Handel, Strauss, Debussy, Massenet, Samuel Barber and Duke Ellington.

She will be accompanied by pianist Sally Williams and assisted by organist Lee Hendricks on the Ellington songs.

Miss Thompson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Casper C. Thompson of 1314 Highland Ave., Elizabeth City. A candidate for the Bachelor of Music degree, she is a voice student of Virginia Linn.

Performing April 24, at 8:15 p.m. is pianist Janine Reep. A student of Richard Lucht of the ECU keyboard faculty, Miss Reep will perform selections by Bela Bartok, Haydn, Brahms and Scott Joplin.

Shields and Green will perform a joint recital Friday. Both are students of George Broussard of the ECU brass faculty, and are candidates for the Bachelor of Music Education degree.

Green will perform euphonium compositions by Marcel Bitsch, Rimsky-Korsakov, Kent Kennan and Paul Hindemith. He will be accompanied by pianist Glenn Moore.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. W.M. Green of 225 Emmett Ave., Salem, Va.

Shields, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Shields, Sr. of Matthews, will perform trombone selections by Patrick McCarty, Paul Hindemith and Robert A. Spillman. His accompanist will be Robert McDuffie.

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♥KJ762 ♦QJ983 ♠KQ7
The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ 1
2 ♠ 2 ♠ 3 ♠ Pass
4 ♠ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Bid five clubs. Since partner opened the bidding and made a free raise to two hearts, you have not yet done full justice to your hand. You should make one more move toward slam. When partner hears of your club fit, he should realize that his diamond holding is the key to slam.

Q.2—As South vulnerable, you hold:

♠KQ852 ♥74 ♦KJ8 ♠AJ5
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. Your hand is not quite good enough for a rebid of two no trump, which normally shows a minimum of 15 points. The odds are that partner will bid again. If he doesn't, you are probably in the right spot, since to have a reasonable play for game you have to find partner with enough strength for a second bid.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KQ1095 ♥AQ85 ♦AK6
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 1 ♠ 2 ♠ 2 ♠

What do you bid now?

A.—Three diamonds. There are big things in sight, and on the surface this might appear like an underbid and you might prefer a cue-bid of three spades. However, since you are rebidding a new suit at the three-level, this bid is forcing, and more specific information might be exchanged at a lower level than if you were to cue-bid.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠KQ972 ♦Q76 ♠AJ8
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass
3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—To continue on to three no trump with such a doubtful diamond stopper would be the height of folly. Partner's bidding suggests that he has a hand with five or six spades and four clubs, so for the moment we favor a preference to three spades.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable with 70 on score, you hold:

♠KJ8 ♥AQK ♦AJ92 ♠J103
What is your opening bid?

A.—One no trump. No, we have not made an arithmetical error—we realize full well you hold 19 high-card points. However, the partnership could lead you into dangerous rebid problems if you open one diamond and partner responds in a major suit. You are less likely to go wrong in the auction if you start with the slight underbid.

Q.6—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠Q8742 ♥76532 ♦107 ♠7
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 ♠ Dble. ?

What action do you take?

A.—Some preemptive action is called for, and we recommend a jump to three spades as a barricade to the opponents' entering the auction or finding their right contract. Note that after the opponent's takeout double this bid is not forcing.

Q.7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AKQ7 ♥KQ ♦AK8 ♠A1092
What is your opening bid?

A.—Though this hand counts up to 25 points and is balanced and thus qualifies for an opening bid of three no trump (which we would, therefore, adjudge correct), we prefer an opening bid of two spades. This gives us the opportunity of playing in several alternative contracts that might prove safer than three no trump, where we might not have the time to set up nine tricks after the opponents attack hearts.

Q.8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠A872 ♥K92 ♦AK ♠AQJ7
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—It is a close decision between a jump to four spades and a jump shift to three diamonds, preparatory to raising spades at our next turn. Though we wouldn't quibble with either action, we have a slight preference for the jump out of respect for our wealth of first- and second-round controls.

Recipients Of Scholarships

Connie Moore Nanney of Farmville, and George Michael (Mike) Parsons of Monticello, Ind., honor students in the East Carolina University Department of Political Science, are the recipients of political science scholarships.

The scholarships are available only to students who qualified for and participated in a departmental honors program.

Parsons completed his honors essay on the International Court of Justice in February and became the 33rd ECU student to earn "Honors in Political Science" since the program was established in 1967.

He is the son of Margaret Parsons of Monticello, Indiana.

Connie Nanney, the daughter of David Arthur Moore of 505 North Contentnea St., Farmville, will complete her essay on George Kennan and the policy of containment sometime during the spring quarter.

New Frontiers 'Harder To Find'

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It may sound odd, but Bob Dylan, the young guru of social comment in song in the early 1960s, complains that it's tough to write that kind of song now. He says "it's hard to find a frontier."

The reclusive songsmith and singer made the comment in a taped interview with singer Mary Travers — once of the Peter, Paul and Mary trio — for her syndicated "Mary Travers and Friends" radio show.

The program is being broadcast this week on about 80 stations.

Dylan, who lists the late Woody Guthrie as a major influence in his songwriting career, was asked if he felt social comment in song is sort of an unreasonable position to take these days.

"No, it's a very reasonable position to take now," he said. "It's just ... hard to be specific about what we're even talking about here, let alone try to write a song ... or make some kind of art form out of these big situations which are happening in the world."

He didn't elaborate on which situations he had in mind.

The rarely interviewed performer, whose hit compositions include "The Times, They Are A-Changin'," complained to Miss Travers that the changes seem to be coming too briskly nowadays.

"From day to day, they're just rolling over too fast to keep your eye on," he said.

"Whereas back then (in the 1930s), when Woody (Guthrie) was doing all his writing things, the media wasn't so powerful."

Dylan didn't make clear if he was putting the blame for swift changes on the media. But he agreed with Miss Travers that whatever was in need of changing took longer to change back in the Guthrie era.

Now, he said, "it can be confusing if you want to write what they call topical songs."

It's hard to find a frontier."

Dylan, who of late hasn't written what you'd call protest songs, said he was writing that kind of song well before they came into vogue, but called a halt when other performers and writers got into the act.

"Everybody gets on your case," he groused. "You just don't want to do it anymore."

And, in an apparent reference to recording executives who wanted him to stay in the protest bag as long as hits resulted, he said that "you don't want to do what you're told to do."

"It's discouraging, plus you're just running over the same ground ... say it again, say it again." That's what they want.

Dylan, who last year came out of near-total seclusion to make a successful concert tour of the United States, didn't discuss his personal life or future plans during the interview, taped early this month in Oakland, Calif. But he did offer his method of recording an album.

"I just play what I want to play, and what comes out comes out," he said. "I don't plan albums. All that pressure's off. I don't have to go in and make an album every six months. I don't think of it that way."

"I just continue to play my gee-tar and if there's a song that's in my heart to do, I'll do it."

THE INCREDIBLE TRUE STORY OF THE MIAMI STING... PLAYBOY PARTY TRICKS...

Dismay George Burns

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — George Burns sang two bars from "You Lose All Your Senses When The Music Commences," making instant enemies of two acquaintances and several strangers.

The waiter turned away in contempt. A woman having lunch at an adjacent table pushed her food away. A couple got up and left.

Burns, age 79, took no umbrage. Smiling benignly he said, "I love my singing no matter how anyone else reacts. I don't knock other great singers like Jimmy Durante. I'm not jealous."

Burns was enjoying a day off from "The Sunshine Boys," the movie adaptation of the Broadway hit in which he stars with Walter Matthau.

Full of energy and quips, Burns has become something of a national treasure simply by outliving his contemporaries from the prehistoric days of vaudeville and burlesque.

"I'm fortunate to be starting a new career at my age," he said in a voice calculated to frighten small children and high strung dogs. "It's been 36 years since I made a picture."

"In the old days I always played myself in those college pictures at Paramount. Gracie (his late wife Grace Allen) and I were in Bing Crosby's first movie, but nobody compared our voices. In this picture I'm not playing Burns. I'm acting."

The oldtimer replaced Jack Benny, his closest friend, in "The Sunshine Boys" after Benny's death last January.

"They asked me to read for the part when Jack was very sick," Burns said. "I didn't want Jack to go and I didn't think it would be right. When Jack made his exit I said okay. 'You can't just stop,' he said. 'If you do, you better start something that takes twice as much effort. You got to have something to get up for.'"

Burns rises early every morning and spends precisely 2 1/2 hours at his General Service Studios office as he has each day for the past 24 years. At exactly 12:15 he has lunch, including a martini, at Hillcrest Country Club where he's been a member for 40 years.

Burns plays bridge there with three ancient cronies before returning home for a couple of hours rest.

He has a brace of martinis before dinner. "But if a dame comes along and wants to put me in show business I let her take me out to dinner."

Show business is his life. Undoubtedly George survived open heart surgery last year just to take a bow for the attending surgeons.

"Vaudeville is coming back," he vowed. "I'll bet you a million dollars my singing will do it."

Throughout his life Burns' voice and hoary songs have been an outrage to friends and an affront to strangers.

"Guys like Sinatra put a finish on their performances so audiences can bring them back," said an unconcerned Burns. "I don't need a finish and I don't need an audience."

"I never cared if my voice was bad. I just wanted to be in show business. Until I got bad. I was pathetic. Then I got bad. I don't know what I'd have done if I hadn't met Gracie."

Burns' fund of old songs is encyclopedic. He recalled "The Gaieties of 1919" and reeled off tunes from the musical: "Red Rose Rag," "In The Heart of a Cherry," "Tiger Girl" and "You Lose All Your Senses When The Music Commences."

He rarely finishes a song, explaining, "I don't take chances. If I finish I'm asking for applause. I'm not anxious to know if the audiences like me or not.

"The nice thing about my songs is that nobody else sings them. When I'm performing I don't care if there's a fire; if it's in my key I'll sing."

George Burns grinned broadly and made haste to leave the restaurant which he had emptied with his singing. It was time for his afternoon bridge game.

TRACT NO. 2. Those certain lots or parcels of land known and described as Lots No. 46, 47, 42, 43, 44, 45, and 46 according to the map of the S. I. Dudley home place which said map is duly of record in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County in Map Book 3 at page 30, saving and excepting so much of said Lots as was conveyed by deed of North Side Lumber Company to Kathryn Ward VanNortwick by deed dated the 31st day of October 1952, which said deed is likewise duly of record in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, and said land being a part of the land conveyed to North Side Lumber Company by deed of S. I. Dudley, et ux which is duly of record in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County in Book T-20 at page 42, and to which deeds and map reference is hereby directed for a more perfect description.

TRACT NO. 3. That certain lot or parcel of land known and being in the City of Greenville, Pitt County, North Carolina, on the north side of West Fifth Street and being the identical property conveyed to North Side Lumber Company as the second parcel in that certain deed in which Bessie A. Jones which deed is dated May 20, 1946 and is duly of record in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County in Book F-36 at page 15, to which deed reference is hereby directed for a more perfect description.

But this sale will be made subject to the liens of three certain other deeds of trust, executed by North Side Lumber Company to W. W. Speight, TRUSTEE for Home Savings and Loan Association as follows:

(a) Deed of Trust of record in Book K-39, page 171;
(b) Deed of Trust of record in Book C-42, page 362;
(c) Deed of Trust of record in Book C-42, page 366, and provided that the undersigned trustee will offer the third parcel hereinabove described for sale free and clear of the liens secured by said deeds of trust and will said parcel either subject to or free and clear of the said liens in such manner as will develop the larger amount of money for application to the debt secured by this deed of trust.

This sale will also be made subject to all outstanding and unpaid taxes and municipal assessments, including those to be levied or assessed as of January 1, 1975.

The successful bidder or bidders will be required to deposit the statutory portion of the bid, pending confirmation of the sale or sales by the Clerk of Superior Court of Pitt County, North Carolina.

This 27th day of March, 1975.

Guitar Course In Demand

CHICAGO (AP) — Fifty years ago a famous ad showed a gentleman seated at a piano surrounded by doubters. The ad read: "They laughed when I sat down at the piano, but when I began to play ..." The ad was for the U.S. School of Music, a division of LaSalle Extension University. Since then over a quarter of a million correspondence students have taken the course.

Today the ad might read, "They laughed when I picked up a guitar ..." because the guitar course is what most students now want. "I guess we're still reflecting society," said school director John Murphy. "Fifty years ago the piano was the instrument of the times. Now it's the guitar."

Phase II
will go on the market May 15, 1975
A bit quicker than we anticipated and perhaps before they're ready to show. But Phase I has sold so fast that unless we put Phase II on the Market, we won't have anything to sell.
There is a kicker though. We are also going to raise the price May 15th. Not a lot, at the most 5 per cent. And we're not going to mealy-mouth about inflationary-equationary-spiral-economic factors forcing us to raise prices. We decided last month when we put Phase I on the market that those first people with enough consumer sense to recognize one-hell-of-an investment should be rewarded with a sales price somewhat less than what we had originally planned. Plus, we decided to put more money into the units in terms of quality shag carpeting, no wax conglom in the kitchen, wall paper, etc. At $19,500.00 these homes are far and away the best buy in the Greenville Home Market, especially with 95 per cent financing, and they will remain so even with our little 5 per cent or less price increase.

Blue mold is recognized by a bluish, cottony mold on the underside of diseased leaves. Leaves will wilt and have a scalded appearance.

Plants which are affected with anthracnose have small circular spots about 1/8 inch diameter on the leaves. These spots become larger. This disease stunts the growth of these small plants.

Damping-off is characterized by a brown or black rot on the stem near the soil line. Plants will wilt and die.

Cool nights accompanied by cloudy days and frequent showers are considered ideal weather for the spread of the diseases. Hot weather checks the diseases (night temperatures above 70 degree F.) and sunny days.

All three diseases are controlled by spraying or dusting with any fungicides containing ferbam, zineb or maneb. These fungicides are effective only when used as preventives. This is the reason farmers need to treat their beds immediately after uncovering and once a week after that time until transplanting is completed.

Following completion of transplanting and replanting, the old bed site should be destroyed and a summer crop seeded.

Wearing masks and other devices to simulate actual bodily injury, the Fullilove students will perform as victims of a school bus accident. They will be used in a demonstration of how mass casualties are sorted and treated in an emergency situation.

The demonstration is directed by three members of the ECU comprehensive nursing class, Richard Berry, Carolyn Ann Smith and Rosemary Sink.

Purpose of the project is to demonstrate "triage," or the medical process of classifying the sick and injured according to the urgency and the types of conditions presented, so that each casualty may receive optimum treatment and care.

Decisions and quick selections must be made in mass disaster situations, said Berry, so that "the greatest good can be rendered to the greatest number in the shortest time within the means available."

"Because of recent tornado threats in this area, we wanted to simulate the impact on a local hospital emergency room should a serious accident occur which causes a large amount of death and injury to a bus load of school children," he said.

Also assisting in the classroom demonstration will be members of the Greenville Rescue Squad and the Police Department.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

Greenhouses have been around for a long time, but they have been used mostly for agricultural research and for the production of flowers and other ornamentals.

Now, according to Bill Humphries, N. C. State University Agricultural information specialist, scores of North Carolina farmers are using glass or plastic structures to grow vegetables.

Though still small, greenhouse vegetable production is the fastest growing segment of the state's food industry.

"We're now raising about $2 million worth of vegetables, mostly tomatoes, in greenhouses each year," said Dr. A. A. Banadyga, in charge of extension horticulture at North Carolina State University.

Banadyga foresees continued rapid expansion of greenhouse farming as consumers increasingly learn that vegetables grown in a controlled environment usually are of exceptionally high quality.

The state's tomato production under glass or plastic already has reached about 6 million pounds a year. The amount of greenhouse space available for raising "off-season" tomatoes, cucumbers, leaf-ty lettuce, onions and other crops is nearly 2 million square feet.

For many years greenhouses were too costly for widespread use because they were made of glass and required sturdy framing. A much less expensive material, polyethylene plastic film, began to be used successfully in the 1950's.

A number of Tar Heel farmers have been growing tomatoes and a few other vegetables in plastic structures for several years. Now, interest is increasing by leaps and bounds.

The North Carolina Greenhouse Vegetable Growers Association was organized last year with about 50 members. Most are producing a relatively new hybrid tomato that can be left on the vine until fully red-ripe and then kept in the home at normal room temperature for 10 days to two weeks. No refrigeration is required.

"The tomatoes grown by these producers are excellent in appearance, taste and keeping quality," said Edwin A. Proctor, extension marketing economist at N. C. State University.

Some farmers are beginning to produce a European cucumber described as "seedless, burpless and bitterless." Its 12 to 14 inch length, twice that of ordinary cucumbers, may cause some consumers to hesitate to buy it, but Proctor said it is of very good eating quality and can be cut or sliced as desired.

Keeping bees in greenhouses to pollinate cucumbers has been a problem in the past. The European hybrid does not require pollination.

The advantages of growing commercial vegetables under cover are many. Temperature and moisture can be controlled, fewer pesticides are needed, and the clear plastic permits natural lighting and normal maturing of the crop.

Now that tobacco farmers have removed their plastic plant bed covers, they should be on the lookout for three major plant bed diseases. These are blue mold, anthracnose and damping-off. All three of these are fungus diseases.

Blue mold is recognized by a bluish, cottony mold on the underside of diseased leaves. Leaves will wilt and have a scalded appearance.

Plants which are affected with anthracnose have small circular spots about 1/8 inch diameter on the leaves. These spots become larger. This disease stunts the growth of these small plants.

New Cars For Chrysler Corp.

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. is beginning development of two new autos to bolster its small-car lines, including a subcompact with front-wheel drive for introduction in 1979, a company source says.

Both the subcompact and "a shrunken compact for 1978" would be smaller than any other U.S.-built cars Chrysler has offered, The Associated Press has learned.

The moves come at a time when Ford Motor Co. and General Motors are committed to bringing out smaller, lighter and more fuel-efficient cars than those now offered.

The new Chrysler cars are not yet named and their projected cost is not known. The compact is scheduled to come off the drawing board and go into the preprototype stage in July, the source said. The subcompact is likely to remain in the designing stage for another year.

At both stages there is little cost involved but if Chrysler cannot sustain future capital investment requirements, the programs could be cancelled.

A Chrysler spokesman Sunday declined comment on the new models. However, Chrysler President John J. Riccardo revealed last week that the firm had plans to build a domestic subcompact in the near future.

Chrysler is the only American auto company without a U.S.-built subcompact. It currently imports a subcompact from Japan for Dodge; next year another subcompact imported from Japan will be added, this time for Plymouth.

The source, a Chrysler engineer who asked not to be identified, said the 1978-model compact will have a wheelbase of 100 inches, about five inches longer than other American subcompacts and eight inches shorter than Chrysler's current Valiant and Dart compacts.

The so-called "K-body" compact car will be marketed as an economy model and will come in just one version, a two-door hatchback.

It will be the same width as current Chrysler compacts, about 200 pounds lighter than the regular compacts planned for 1978 and will be powered by Chrysler's current six-cylinder, 225-cubic-inch engine.

The source said it would be about the size of Volkswagen's new Rabbit and the new "T. Body world car" General Motors is introducing this fall.

The subcompact, a hatchback model, will have front wheel drive and be powered by the French four-cylinder engine.

Mao, Belgian Premiere Meet

TOKYO (AP) — Chinese Communist party chairman Mao Tse-Tung met with Belgian Prime Minister Leo Tindemans over the weekend, according to Peking's Hsinhua news agency.

The Hsinhua broadcast, monitored in Tokyo, did not say where the meeting on Sunday took place or what was discussed. The prime minister arrived in Peking on Saturday.

The first adhesive stamps were authorized by Congress July 1, 1847.
