Protest Against Tuition Hike

By JAMES KYLE
Reflector Staff Writer
About 2,500 students gathered on the mall of East Carolina University yesterday for a rally protesting an increase in tuition rates for next year.

The rally, sponsored by the N.C. Association of Student Governments (NCASG), was staged to oppose a bill currently before the N.C. General Assembly which would raise in-state tuition by $200 per year and out-of-state tuition by $300 per year.

The students heard speeches by student government leaders, area civic leaders, and a university administration official. The rally coincided with rallies on the other 15 campuses of the University of North Carolina, according to Bob Lucas, past Student Government Association (SGA) President at ECU and currently secretary-general of NCASG.

Lucas said it was the first time that the 90,000 students represented by the NCASG had ever united in support of any cause. "For once, the students will be speaking for themselves instead of someone else speaking for them," Lucas said. Lucas said he was against the increase because it will "hinder individuals from obtaining an education. Education is at stake," Lucas said.

A delegation from the NCASG will travel to Raleigh today to meet with legislative leaders and discuss the increase proposal, Lucas said. They will try to determine the chances of the bill's passing and chart a course of action from there. A write-in or phone-in campaign may be organized, Lucas told the group.

Cliff Moore, vice-chancellor of business affairs at ECU, said the increase would cost the university more money through increased student aid than it would bring in. He said the university would probably lose 430-450 students if the proposal passes. During the second year of the increase, ECU would probably lose half of its out-of-state students, Moore said.

Moore drew cheers from the crowd when he announced that university Chancellor Leo Jenkins was against any tuition increase. Moore said Jenkins felt that anyone should be able to afford an education.

Moore said that from a personal standpoint, he (Moore) could not see how the legislature could justify an increase in tuition at a state-supported school and then give the money to students at private institutions.

A representative of the Greenville City Council, Dr. Frank Fuller, said that the council had adopted a resolution last Thursday to support the students in their fight against the tuition increase.

Curtis Hendrix, president of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and Merchant's Association, announced the support of the Chamber. He said the Chamber's Board of Directors was "vitaly concerned" over the increase.

Inez Fridley, eastern regional president of the National Organization for Women, said she was there as a concerned member of the community. Miss Fridley cited not only the business generated by students, but also their volunteerism in civic ventures as assets to the community. She said the community will lose if the increase is passed.

Lucas and current SGA president, Jimmy Honeycutt called for student signing of petitions circulated during the rally which will be taken to Raleigh today, they also asked that students write their legislators and urge their parents to do the same to support defeat of the proposed increase.

Severe Tremor Hits Oaxaca

MEXICO CITY (AP) — An earthquake of severe intensity hit the Mexican Pacific coastal State of Oaxaca early today, the Tacubaya seismological station reported. There was no immediate word of damage or injuries.

The epicenter of the quake was placed 285 miles southeast of Mexico City.

The quake was felt slightly in Mexico City and in the resort of Acapulco, which is the state next to Oaxaca.

School Closed By Fighting

ROBBINS, N.C. (AP)—North Moore High School was closed this morning after several black and white pupils began fighting in the student center.

School sources said 50 to 60 youngsters were involved in the fighting, which followed an incident Tuesday that resulted in the arrest of one pupil on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

The fight today broke out just after classes opened.

'Potential' Reductions In N.C. Budget Offered

RALEIGH (AP)—The House Administration has furnished the General Assembly a list of potential reductions in the state's proposed budget.

The list includes a one-year's delay in the proposed 5 per cent pay hike for state employees which would save $68 million and a $10 million cut in funding for the East Carolina University medical school.

Also raised was the possibility of limiting state aid to private colleges to $300 per student enrolled which would save $4.6 million and revoking the $4 million authorized for the new Housing Finance Agency.

The list was furnished legislative leaders at a meeting in the governor's office Friday, but Jack Childs, the governor's press secretary, said the list does not constitute the governor's personal recommendations and that the governor does not necessarily support all the budget cuts mentioned in the list.

Legislative leaders who had called on the governor to suggest budget cuts welcomed the list Tuesday as the administration's response to that request.

Other possible budget cuts included a $10.5 million cut in community colleges, a reduction of 13.1 million in appropriations to the University of North Carolina system, a cut in park land acquisitions by $1 million, a reduction of $2 million in airport grants, a proposal to cut $6.6 million from the Medicaid program through a guaranteed contract, and to cut $8 million from state employee disability salary continuing plan, and to cut $4 million by not raising the matching rate for the state retirement system.

"As I understand it, the governor's proposing a $10 million cut in the capital outlay for the ECU Medical School over the next biennium, along with numerous other cuts to the state budget," East Carolina University Vice Chancellor for Health Affairs Dr. Edwin Monroe said.

"My guess is that he is hoping we will be able to save this much by utilizing Pitt Memorial Hospital instead of building a separate teaching hospital. We agree with the concept and are working as rapidly as possible to give a responsible answer to Pres. Friday on whether we can do this."

The report will be completed within a few days, and Pres. Friday will use it in dealing with the Legislature, Dr. Monroe said.

Decisions Due On Evacuation From Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to provide humanitarian aid to South Vietnam and authorize U.S. troops to assist in evacuations bogged down in the Senate again today as new figures showed the administration had failed to meet its target on withdrawal of Americans.

However, the House took up a parallel measure with broader authority to use U.S. troops in the evacuations.

Sen. Floyd V. Haskell, D-Colo., said he was not consulted on Tuesday's agreement to include time limitations on the use of troops in the Senate measure. Haskell said he plans to offer amendments to bar use of U.S. forces to evacuate South Vietnamese.

"If South Vietnamese want to hop on one of our planes, that is all right with me," Haskell told reporters. "I don't want to send in troops to get South Vietnamese."

He said the Ford administration already has constitutional authority to evacuate Americans and he expressed fear that, if the Senate measure is passed

"the airlift of our people out may well slow down."

Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, said new State Department figures showed that as of 6 p.m. Wednesday, Saigon time, there were 1,887 U.S. citizens and 652 dependents remaining in South Vietnam. The total of 2,539 compares with 3,118 a day earlier. The administration had said it planned to reduce the number of Americans to 1,500 by Tuesday night, Vietnam time.

Clark said he plans to offer an amendment requiring the number of Americans and dependents in South Vietnam to be reduced to 500 within 36 hours of the measure's enactment.

Administration officials said U.S. diplomatic efforts are aimed at saving the city of Saigon from the ravages of war.

If a cease-fire and a political settlement can be achieved before Hanoi's troops enter Saigon, U.S. officials say they are confident that many thousands of South Vietnamese can be evacuated.

Up to 131,000 Indochina refugees will be permitted to enter the United States under emergency steps approved by Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi.

The total includes up to 75,000 Vietnamese who are close relatives of American citizens or permanent U.S. residents; up to 50,000 Vietnamese who would be endangered in a Communist takeover of South Vietnam; 1,000 Cambodian refugees now in Thailand; and 5,000 Cambodian diplomats and their dependents now in third countries.

In addition, there are another 3,000 Vietnamese who are relatives of American citizens and who already have filed their petitions for U.S. visas. They would be permitted to enter under existing procedures.

Officials in the Los Angeles area were making plans for the possible arrival of thousands of the refugees. Arrangements for food, shelter and interpreters were among the immediate topics getting attention from Los Angeles County officials.

Judge Refuses Dismiss Murder Indictment Of Joan Little In Beaufort

By CATHY STEELE ROCHE

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP)—A state judge denied a motion today to dismiss the murder indictment against Joan Little, a 20-year-old black woman accused of the ice pick slaying of a white jailer she was trying to rape her.

Superior Court Judge Henry McKinnon, in denying the motion, held that the selection of the Beaufort County grand jury which indicted Miss Little included sufficient safeguards to assure proper racial composition.

Miss Little's attorney, Jerry Paul, indicated he would file an appeal to the ruling. Paul and other defense attorneys had sought to show that the jury selection process tended to exclude blacks and the poor.

The defense had contended that only 12 per cent of the jurors in this eastern North Carolina county were black, although Negroes made up 30.2 per cent of the over-all population.

McKinnon said his analysis of the evidence presented during seven days of testimony and argument led him "to the conclusion that the jury lists and the jurors actually appearing to serve included from 18 to 20 per cent black."

The motion to dismiss was the first of 18 presented by Paul. McKinnon said the others would be taken up promptly.

Miss Little, who had broken weeks of seclusion to appear at the hearing Monday and Tuesday, was not present when McKinnon gave his ruling today.

Arguments on the dismissal motion were completed at midday Tuesday, but McKinnon delayed his ruling to allow time for him to study case law on jury selection.

Paul had contended that blacks were excluded systematically from juries in Beaufort County, including the one that indicted Miss Little for first degree murder.

McKinnon said he did not think the evidence established such an exclusion.

The courtroom, virtually empty except for the first day of the hearing, held about 60 spectators today, most of them black. They included Larry Little, a Black Panther from Winston-Salem who led a noisy but orderly demonstration on the opening day.

The other defense motions include requests for a change of venue and a delay in the trial itself.

Miss Little's attorneys contend racial sentiment in Washington, a town of 10,000, and Beaufort County is such that she could not obtain a fair trial. The delay is being sought on the grounds that Miss Little's physical and emotional health is too fragile for her to stand trial now.

McKinnon has indicated he may order an independent medical examination for Miss Little.

Heavy Fire Damage

APARTMENT FIRE—Fire officials inspect the damage in a downstairs apartment at the Village Green Apartments this morning after a fire caused heavy damage to the two bedroom unit. According to officials an unidentified renter was not home at the time of the blaze. An apartment above and connecting to the damaged unit received smoke damage. Cause of the fire is still under investigation. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

MAIDEN NAMES

Why doesn't your paper give mothers' maiden names in the birth announcements? There are times when I know I fail to recognize an announcement as that of an old friend because I've forgotten her married name. J. T.

Our woman's editor does use the new baby's mother's maiden name and her hometown before she was married if we receive the information. However, we get most of our birth announcements from the Medical Records Department of Pitt Memorial Hospital and they usually do not supply us this information. Because of your suggestion, we called and asked if it would be possible for them to add this. Hospital Assistant Administrator M. E. Gilstrap called back yesterday to say they will ask each mother of a new baby at the same time they ask her the baby's name if she would like her maiden name and her hometown added. If so, they will be glad to include it, he said.

SNAKE DÉTERRENT?

I am scared to death of snakes. Is there anything you can put around your house to keep them away? B.W.

Agricultural Extension Agent Ed Yancey said he knows of nothing. He advises cleaning up shrubbery, wood piles, and other hiding places because snakes like cover and the small animals like rats that they like to eat also like cover.

Herpetologist Dr. Carlton Heckrotte of the ECU Department of Biology gave the same advice Yancey did. He said he knows of no chemical or other means of keeping snakes away, though he's seen items on the market that are supposed to do just this. He said he had never heard of putting a line of sulphur around the area from which you'd like to eliminate snakes, but thought it would be about as effective as laying a horsehair rope, a method he has heard of. A long time student of snakes, he says he would kill none of them, but certainly would not eliminate those non-poisonous ones like the black racer and the black rat snake found in this area because they do eat other snakes, as well as crop-destroying rodents.

Miss Debra Jean Forrest Avoid Person Who Does 'All Talking' Weds Friday Evening

MRS. JOHNNY RODFORD CARSON

AYDEN—The marriage of Debra Jean Forrest and Johnny Rodford Carson was solemnized in a ceremony Friday night at 7:30 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tallman of Rt. 2, Ayden.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. I.J. Wall of Elizabeth City.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Forest of Rt. 2, Ayden, and Mr. and Mrs. Johnny W. Carson of Tarboro.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white gown of Venice lace with pleated sleeves and hemline.

Mrs. Jean Forrest of Rt. 2, Ayden, was matron of honor and selected a lavender floor length dress with a floral bodice and empire waistline.

The bridesmaid Judy Carson of Tarboro wore a navy blue dress with pink flowers. The flower girl, Elaine Adams of Chocowinity, cousin of the bride, wore a lavender floor length dress.

The best man was James H. Forrest of Rt. 2, Ayden.

The mother of the bride selected a blue and white knit suit and wore a corsage of white flowers.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside at Rt. 1, Tarboro.

The bride is a graduate of D.H. Conley High School and is employed by Southeastern Laboratories, Ayden. The bridegroom is a graduate of Pitt Technical Institute and is employed by Black and Decker Co., Tarboro.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Bobby Adams.

A reception honoring the couple was held following the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tallman greeted guests.

The bride's table was decorated with an arrangement of pink and white carnations flanked by pink candles. Mrs. Melvin Adams served the two tiered wedding cake and Mrs. Thomas Taylor poured punch.

DEAR ABBY: An acquaintance of ours is well-bred, refined, extremely well-educated and informed. He would be wonderful company if only he would give somebody else a chance to talk. Whenever this man is in a gathering, he dominates the conversation.

How does one deal with such a person—short of telling him off?

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Avoid him. He may be extremely well-educated and informed, but he is neither well-bred nor refined.

The person who comes into your company and hogs all the conversation is no less a hog than the person who comes to the table and eats all the food.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married for two years and are ready to start our family. The problem is my wife's weight. She is 5 ft. 3 in. and weighs 160 pounds.

I have told her that unless she loses at least 20 pounds, I am not going to impregnate her!

With all the problems women have during and after pregnancy, I think I'm doing her a favor by insisting that she lose some weight before becoming pregnant.

My wife thinks that I am being unreasonable, but I am sincerely concerned about her health as well as the health of the baby.

Three months ago I laid down the law, "No diet—no baby." So far she hasn't lost an ounce, and she doesn't even try.

What do you think about this?

INDIANA

DEAR IND: While your attitude makes sense, your problem is far "heavier" than 20 pounds of blubber. Why is she punishing you? And why are you punishing her? Don't let baby make three before you are sure you have a reasonably stable marriage.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very beautiful daughter who absolutely refuses to go out with a fellow unless he is at least six feet tall.

What is wrong with her?

UPSET MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: She's short on brains.

DEAR ABBY: I have heard it said that blondes have more fun. Is that true?

DEAR WANTS: I doubt it, but I can tell you that if my mail is to be believed, they have more trouble.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me where I can get a blood test

It must be strictly confidential since I am married.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Phone your county public health department, and they will advise you.

GOOD KEEPERS

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — Raisins are among the best keepers in the food world. Their dryness and sweetness retards spoilage during long storage at room temperature, says the California Raisin Advisory Board.

They also absorb moisture and flavors readily, for adding to baked goods, fruit mixtures, salads, puddings and main dishes. To plump them, cover with any flavorful liquid—fruit juice, coffee or other beverages, wine or liqueurs—and refrigerate overnight. Any liquid remaining can be used in cooking.

Annual Alumnae Luncheon Is Scheduled

WASHINGTON—St. Mary's College's alumnae from eastern North Carolina will meet Thursday at 12 noon for an annual alumnae luncheon meeting at the Washington Yacht and Country Club.

Alumnae from Farmville, Greenville, New Bern, Washington and Williamston are expected to gather for a social and luncheon meeting and hear a talk by St. Mary's college sophomore, Miss Debbie Webb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Webb of Greenville.

Other highlights of the meeting will include a talk by Mrs. Jane Augustine Rabon of Raleigh, executive secretary of the St. Mary's College Alumnae Association, and a presentation of new officers for 1975-77 by Mrs. Charles E. Kavanaugh of Greenville, chairman of the Nominating Committee.

Mrs. Thomas H. Sloan, president of the Eastern Carolina Chapter, will preside. The meeting will open with a welcome by Mrs. William Frederick Taylor of Washington.

Mrs. Harry G. Walker of Washington will give the invocation, after Mrs. Cornelius T. Patrick, also of Washington, registers alumnae.

Miss Webb is a member of St. Mary's Academic Council.

Media Image Of Women Was Topic Of Lecturer

"The TV commercial image of woman as a brainless, dependent and weak creature is an insulting and degrading portrayal," says Jackie Frost, regional coordinator for a national women's rights organization.

Ms. Frost was at East Carolina University as featured speaker for Women's Awareness Week speaking on "Reforming the Media to Reflect the Lives of Real Women." She is southern coordinator for the National Organization for Women (NOW), an action-oriented association of 700 chapters.

"The typical woman in the television commercial is a foolish and helpless female, dominated and manipulated by her husband or children. Most commercially use primarily male actors, leaving the empty-headed female to perform ridiculous speaking parts, or even non-speaking parts, often with a male 'voice-over.'"

In many cases, she said, women are used to "decorate" the commercial, wearing or using the product while male voices explain the product's virtues and urge the viewer to purchase it.

"Whether the featured item be a pet food, a toilet, bowl cleaner or a floor wax, women are seen as inept managers, who must be chided by the off-camera voice, or by a husband or a neighbor into buying a better product."

"The implication that women, who constitute at least 60 percent of the nation's consumers, are this stupid and inefficient, is absurd."

"Women are far too often the victims of the desire of commercial advertisers to sell products."

Media reform is proceeding, albeit slowly, she said, after the recent National Advertising Review Board survey of TV commercials revealed that female commercial images actually bore little resemblance to the lifestyles, concerns and

Ms. Jackie Frost

"There is still very little on TV that these women can relate to. Programming for women seems to consist chiefly of sewing and cooking. What about the real problems and concerns of women, such as birth control, unemployment, poverty and drug abuse?"

"Most TV programs feature male stars, and radio announcers continue to be overwhelmingly male."

Jackie Frost's campus appearance was co-sponsored by the ECU Women's Residence Council and the Eastern Carolina NOW chapter. She spoke to several ECU classes during her Greenville visit and was speaker at a NOW chapter meeting.

A native of Alabama, Ms. Frost is promotion manager for the Charlotte firm, Carolina Color and Chemical Co. She is also a member of the N.C. Women's Political Caucus Board of Directors and was a member of the N.C. Democratic Executive Committee in 1972-74.

DIET SUCCESSFULLY

Eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow you may diet. If this seems to be the story of your eating habits, here's some advice.

Fad diets generally work at first. You lose. But most dieters tend to abandon a diet after reaching their goal. And then first thing you know, they've gained back all that weight — and sometimes more. Then it's time to reduce again.

Most people don't stick to fad diets forever. And while you may lose some weight, the trick is to keep those pounds off once you've reached your goal. Otherwise you may end up bouncing from one diet to another.

Maintaining a certain weight shouldn't be done by a succession of ups and downs on the scale. In fact, such a yo-yo reducing pattern may be more dangerous to your health than just living with a few pounds of excess weight.

To diet successfully in the long run, you must be prepared to change your lifestyle. Accept the fact that you must permanently change your eating habits to consume fewer calories than before. Or just accept those extra pounds and learn to live with them.

Checkout by Computer

Computers might help trim your grocery bill in the next couple of years. Here's how. Computer checkout systems should help cut grocer's costs — and savings can be passed on to consumers.

Fewer checkout clerks will be needed if computers take over the checkout aisle. Also, prices will not be individually marked as packages will arrive price coded from manufacturers. So fewer employees will be needed to mark prices.

Besides helping the grocer cut his operating costs — a computer system will help keep tabs on what we're buying. He should be able to move fresher products and reduce costs through less storage and less spoilage.

The computer can do all the checkout calculations — even those for discounts, food stamps, refunds, coupons, taxes and figure correct change. And all without mistakes.

But there are some disadvantages, too. Prices will be marked on shelves and each package will only have the coded price. This will make it harder to compare items that are not right next to each other on the shelf.

Also, computer checkout systems could invade your privacy. For example, if you paid your grocery bill by check, you and your shopping habits could be identified.

But computer checkout systems seem to be in our near future. There may be some disadvantages, but this new system could save consumer time and money.

STATE TAPESTRY

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Home extension clubs in Nebraska are making a state tapestry to help celebrate the United States' Centennial next year.

Club councils in each of the state's 93 counties will design and stitch blocks depicting the heritage and landmarks of industry of their areas.

The completed blocks will be put together in a single wall hanging.

FAMILY DINNER
Fish Steaks Potatoes
Broccoli Salad

Apricot Cobbler
APRICOT COBBLER
Uses only a modest amount of sugar.

1 tablespoon cornstarch
8 tablespoons sugar
30-ounce can unpeeled apricot halves in heavy syrup
1 cup cake flour, fork-stir well to aerate before measuring

1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
6 tablespoons milk

In a medium saucepan stir together the cornstarch and 6 tablespoons of the sugar. Drain apricots; gradually stir 1 and 1-3rd cups of the apricot syrup into the cornstarch mixture until smooth; add apricots; cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until boiling and clear; keep hot. In a medium mixing bowl stir together the flour, remaining 2 tablespoons sugar, baking powder and salt; with a pastry blender cut in butter until particles are fine; with a fork stir in milk, mixing as little as possible. Turn hot apricot mixture into an 8-inch-square cake pan or dish; drop batter from a teaspoon in 12 small mounds, spacing evenly, over hot apricot mixture. Bake in a preheated 425-degree oven 25 to 30 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 6 servings.

Women Attend Creative Workshop

Mrs. Albert Bell of Fountain and Mrs. Richard Worsley from Greenville were the Pitt County women attending a creative design workshop conducted by Doris Richards.

Miss Richards, a retired art design teacher from Wales, took first place last year in world competition for her wall hanging "The Cook."

Miss Richards, who believes that designs can be made from practically anything, spent the adult years of life teaching various forms of art. She was a tutor at Swansea College of Art and later at Durham Institute of Education, both in her home country.

Beginning as an artist and gradually expanding her abilities through summer sessions at the Royal College, Miss Richards became adept at fabric design, weaving, jewelry making, metal work, dress design, embroidery and wood carving. Miss Richards believes Americans depend too much on "kits" and too little on their own individuality and ability to design their own crafts. "In Wales we have a different level of crafts. You design you own," Miss Richards says. "Simple as it may be, at least it's your own."

During the workshop Miss Richards stressed the fact that inspiration for design is everywhere. She helped craftsman to realize the importance of individual design and personal expression. The workshops, held in Raleigh and Edenton, were sponsored by the Agricultural Extension Service.

The Leadership Was At Fault

Exit President Thieu.
The former president of a dying South Vietnam left office with a blast at the United States.
It was the United States fault that South Vietnam had failed in its fight with the Communists, Thieu maintained.
“We could not back up our defense lines because we did not have enough helicopters, ammunition, weapons, and we had to retreat, and we were blamed for not being capable of defending the land,” Thieu said. Aid cuts by the United States led to the disastrous South Vietnamese retreats and casualties and the loss of much territory in recent weeks, according to Thieu.
Well there is no question that United States’ vacillation over continued military aid to South Vietnam in the late stages of the war had a devastating effect on morale. We have no doubt, too, that Communist forces were adequately supplied by their expansionists-minded patrons, the Soviet Union and China.
Still, the blame for South Vietnam’s collapse belongs only one place—and that is on the leadership of that nation. Leadership was supposed to start with President Thieu. He couldn’t, or wouldn’t clean up the corruption in his government and he failed to instill the spirit in his people that would inspire them to fight for their homeland.

The poorly organized withdrawal from the northern provinces allowed huge amounts of military supplies to fall in enemy hands, as well as bringing about great casualties among the South Vietnamese forces.
We had hoped that once American forces were out of South Vietnam, its military forces would develop the leadership and will to defend their homeland. If the South Vietnam army had shown even some ability to successfully carry on the war, we believe that the decision on future military aid from this country would have gone differently.
The tragic collapse of South Vietnam is not far away. Fixing of the blame will go on for a long time, but in our opinion no one should bear any more of the blame than former President Thieu.

THIS AFTERNOON Are All Of Them Needed?

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—A casual stroll through any office or business establishment is likely to produce an impression that a lot of people are not really working very hard.
But visitors to state office buildings in Raleigh continue to insist that state governmental employees are busily not working very hard much more than are employees of private industry.
True enough, regular treks in and out of back-hall work rooms around town disclose plenty of coffee-breaking, newspaper and magazine reading, conversation, and just plain “loafing off.”
And there are those who sometimes think the state’s work could be done equally as expeditiously with half the people.
State Property Control Officer A.L. (Bim) Henderson ran into that attitude firsthand the other day as he met with a budget study subcommittee of the House of Representatives.
New Offices
Henderson was telling about state plans for new buildings in the governmental complex, and how much difficulty it was to dovetail all the details of space requirements for various agencies; timing the moves from currently leased space into the new buildings under construction; need for expansion room as employees are added by various agencies.
It became increasingly clear to the legislators present that not only do employ salaries make up the single biggest chunk of state money being spent, but that simply providing work space for the growing numbers of employees also costs a bundle.
And that led to some pondering over whether all those employees are really necessary.
Most legislators could recall visits to various state agencies in which observation showed work habits which might be questionable, and even agency representatives present for the discussion agreed that they themselves from time to time had been smitten by similar observations—in other state departments, not their own, of course.

State Rep. John Ed Davenport, D-Nash, chairman of the group studying the administrative budget, wondered if the committee should organize a visitation program for members of the General Assembly.
“A sort of pop tour of state buildings by legislators from time to time... each could be assigned to cover a specific operation and could just pop in to see what is going on. Tell your people.” Davenport suggested to the agency heads, “they’ll never know when we’re coming, but we will just walk through.”
Second Visit
Other legislators agreed on the idea, but also suggested that the work load is likely to be slack at some time or another, so one bad impression doesn’t necessarily add up to a full-time goof off situation. Well, a second visit would certainly take care of that concern, Davenport said.
Rep. Joseph E. Johnson, D-Wake, calls Raleigh home and his constituency is largely governmental workers. He recalls making the traditional tours of government buildings while campaigning and called it a “revelation” as he endorsed Davenport’s suggestion.
There is one particular state office, Johnson said, where he visited several times, and “there was this particular lady who was on break every time I went in.”
Rep. Jack Hunt, D-Cleveland, went along with the idea of checking on employee performance, but figures that “this building (Legislative Building) is a good place to start... we have a good bit of this going on right here.”
Committee members agreed, and if things work out, members of the General Assembly may soon find themselves scheduled to spend a couple of hours each week learning the maze of stairways and backrooms which make up state government in Raleigh.

The INSIDE REPORT Ford's Political Warning

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — President Ford’s top political advisers were issued a private warning last week calculated to shatter the pollyanna climate at the White House: under today’s conditions, Ronald Reagan would sweep delegates from the 13 Southern and Border states against Gerald R. Ford in a race for the Republican nomination.
That assessment came from the Republican chairmen of those 13 states, meeting secretly at the Sheraton-Carlton Hotel here April 14. Three Ford aides, who came to the hotel from the White House, were informed the President’s prospects in the South were irretrievable unless plans for 1976 were started now — and not one day later.
The upshot: the state chairmen perceived a sympathetic ear from political counselor Robert Hartmann and his deputy, Jack Calkins. But their consensus was that the third and most important Ford adviser attending the meeting, White House chief of staff Donald Rumsfeld, went away unmoved and unimpressed.
When the state chairmen compared notes before the presidential aides arrived, they were amazed by the unanimous report of Reagan strength—even in the Border states of Oklahoma and Kentucky. Florida state chairman Bill Taylor reported a big Reagan lead in his state’s early presidential primary that could knock President Ford out of the race.
These results were presented to the Ford aides by Clarke Reed of Mississippi, leader of the Southern chairmen, who stressed this was no anti-Ford conspiracy but a sincere effort to help the President. Richard M. Nixon started running for reelection the day he entered the White House, Reed said, but Mr. Ford has done nothing. Since better than half the Southern delegates in 1976 will be picked in primaries rather than conventions, he warned, the President cannot pull together backroom support at the eleventh hour but must build state organizations which require time to perfect.

The only unpleasant moment came when Reed, analyzing the President’s Southern problems, criticized him for not duplicating what Nixon did about the Voting Rights Act (now limited to the Deep South): propose that it either be repealed or extended to all 50 states.
Mr. Ford “didn’t have the guts” to make that proposal, said Reed. Rumsfeld flared up at that as casting aspersions on the President’s courage. Reed then corrected himself to say he really meant the President’s lack of guts. Hartmann somewhat cryptically responded he could agree with Reed about that.
A footnote: Reagan’s political advisers are not interested in Gov. Meldrim Thompson of New Hampshire as a stand-in against Mr. Ford in the state’s first-in-the-nation primary, immediately preceding Florida’s. Thompson has revealed his interest in a favorite-son candidacy. But if Thompson has a good chance to beat the President in New Hampshire, Reagan has an even better one and ought to get the credit himself, his advisers believe.
Percy And Israel
Despite harsh attacks on him by the American-Jewish community, a forthcoming report by Sen. Charles H. Percy on his recent Mideast tour courageously calls on Israel to establish speedy contact with the Palestinian Liberation Organization (PLO), in Israel’s own interest and long-run security.

The Percy report, to be submitted to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee soon, also warns Israel — in carefully temperate language — that it must exhibit more flexibility in negotiating with the Arabs or risk losing some U. S. support. American aid is essential to Israel’s military strength and economy.
When Percy returned from a Mideast trip earlier this year, his demand that both Israel and the Arab states show more flexibility, coupled with his warning that Israel risks the loss of U. S. political backing, resulted in what one Percy aide called a “firestorm” of criticism from American Jews. Percy’s official report on his trip, while striking a critical balance between Israel and the Arabs, holds to that line.
The most controversial portion of the Senator’s findings is his appeal for Israel to deal openly with the Palestinians. His thesis: until the West Bank is returned to the Palestinians, there is no chance for an overall political settlement and no hope for real Israeli security.
Percy’s demands on the Arabs include an end to the anti-Israel boycott, the start of trade, assurances of non-belligerency and the free passage of both Israeli cargoes and Israeli-flag ships through the Suez Canal.

By ART BUCHWALD Detente With Vietnam

WASHINGTON—Will the United States survive the loss of Indochina? If past experience is any proof, the answer is “yes!” For a year or two, or maybe three, there will be much soul-searching as to why Cambodia and South Vietnam went down the drain and a lot of finger pointing by everyone. But then, after a period of bitter silence, this is what will probably happen.
The People’s Republic of Vietnam will start a ping-pong team. A small item about the team beating the People’s Republic of China will appear in a newspaper in College Park, Md. This will give the University of Maryland a brilliant idea. Why not invite the People’s Republic of Vietnam’s ping-pong team to play against the best ping-pong team the Americans can muster?
The State Department is furious about the idea and reminds the students that we have no diplomatic relations with the People’s Republic of Vietnam. But secretly they’re intrigued with the idea. The secretary of state suggests the American cultural attache in Paris feel out the PRVN about a match. The answer comes back that the PRVN will not send a team to the United States but is willing to play the Americans in Hanoi.

A mixed team consisting of half American students and half CIA agents is sent to Hanoi and fiercely trounced by the Vietnamese. This gives the Americans an opportunity to invite the PRVN to the United States. When they arrive in Maryland with their team consisting of half Viet Cong students and half political commissars, a secret meeting is arranged between the secretary of state and the coach of the ping-pong team who is really deputy secretary of the Vietnamese Communist Party.
The coach suggests that the secretary of state make a secret trip to Hanoi and visit with Gen. Giap, the president of the country. The secretary

Public Forum

To the editor:
Things I don’t understand:
1. Why aren’t federal, state, and county budgets slashed like private business has to do in order to survive? Instead we get new studies, new schools, new or warmed over programs without regard for paying the costs.
2. Why do many citizens think that getting money from the federal government is FREE? “Matching funds” is just another name for our taxes.
3. Why our special interest legislature increased the small loan interest rate to 36 per cent? Did you know some of these poor small loan companies are owned by large financial institutions?
4. Why should the legislature consider changing Pitt Technical to a Community College? We don’t need another college. We need a trade or craft school.
5. Why isn’t Pitt Technical Institute more self-sustaining? The average cost of a course is less than $10 per quarter. You and I are underwriting this balance of the cost, including many non-essential courses.
6. Why should we underwrite a large part of the college tuition for state students? For every dollar paid by students for tuition and fees, our taxes are paying more than $5. For example, tuition and fees of $450 paid by a student—our taxes are paying $2,250. In my opinion, these reduced prices allow many of the students to have their apartments, cars, and some to participate in the “drug fun.”
7. Why doesn’t the City Council appoint engineers and power experts to the Greenville Utilities Commission instead of medical doctors.

agrees and flies to Pakistan where he announces that he has a bad stomach and will be out of action for a few days.
But instead he boards a plane and flies into Hanoi where he is given a state dinner of hot Vietnamese food and toasts the friendship of the American people and the People’s Republic of Vietnam.
The secretary then flies directly back to Washington to report to the President that Gen. Giap would like him and his lovely wife to visit their country, something no American President has dared do since Thieu was driven from the mainland.
The U.S. President, who needs some way of distracting the people from domestic problems at home, considers the idea a bold stroke of diplomacy and one which will make him the leading statesman in the world.
He accepts the invitation and in four months the American people watch on satellite TV a grand banquet in the Haiphong Hall of Heroes where the U.S. President and the PRVN president pledge friendship and peace and sign a trade and cultural pact. This makes both the People’s Republic of China and the Soviet Union furious, which is what the secretary of state had in mind in the first place.
In no time at all every newspaperman worth his salt visits the PRVN and writes back glowing reports on how clean the streets are, how hard the Vietnamese people work and the fact that there is no tipping in the country.
The PRVN sends us the famous Ho Chi Minh Ballet Theater and we send them Shirley MacLaine. Pepsi-Cola announces that it has made a deal to sell Pepsi in Vietnam, and IBM announces it will soon start repairing all the computers that broke down right after the war.
Then President Giap will be invited to Washington and there will be Vietnamese flags all along Pennsylvania Avenue and flying from the White House.
Eventually there will be few people who will remember that we were once at war in Indochina. The only

Scandal Helped Coup

By TOM WELLS
Associated Press Writer
MEXICO CITY (AP) —The overthrow of President Oswaldo Lopez Arellano of Honduras had been in the making for some time, and the banana scandal just helped things along, according to a high-ranking Honduran military source.
The source said young officers had been unhappy with the performance of 53-year-old Gen. Lopez and the other older military leaders long before Tuesday’s bloodless coup that installed a new military government headed by Col. Juan Alberto Melgar.
Lopez was implicated this month in the scandal resulting from the admission by United Brands, the American firm that dominates the Honduran banana industry, that it paid a $1.2-million bribe to Honduran officials to get the banana export tax reduced.
The Wall Street Journal reported that the bribe was paid to Lopez. The president vehemently denied the charge, but a commission named to investigate the scandal said he refused to let it examine his foreign bank accounts.

Lopez came to power in a military coup in 1963, was president in 1969, then headed the armed forces until he seized power again in 1972. The military source said opposition to him and his associates began developing among the younger officers in 1969 when El Salvador’s forces marched several miles into Honduras during a four-day war.
Younger officers who had trained abroad felt the army was an unprofessional fighting force that needed to be brought up to date. Their discontent reportedly came to a head after Hurricane Fifi devastated the country last September, killing thousands. The army directed the relief program, and there were charges that it was sloppily handled and that some officers stole relief goods.
In December, the young Turks forced Lopez to replace older colonels heading fighting units. In February, they seized control of the 25-member High Military Council and forced the retirement of several pro-Lopez officers.
On March 31, the young officers called Lopez before them and demanded he resign as chief of the armed forces. He complied, but on Tuesday, the High Military Council stripped him of his other post, chief of state.

The new military government apparently intends to keep the country further to the right. It said in a radio broadcast that it would not tolerate “disjointed, anarchist or destructive ideas.” The announcement said private investment, by both Hondurans and foreigners, will be stimulated.
It also said it would continue a land reform program inaugurated by Lopez. But political sources in Honduras say the program has not been advanced aggressively.
Military sources in Tegucigalpa, the Honduran capital, denied that Lopez was under house arrest although six soldiers were on guard outside his home. They said that was the normal guard there, and one military official said: “The general is free to do anything he wants to; he is not under arrest.”

Strength For Today

THE MEASURE OF A MAN
We sometimes win the greatest victories of our lives amid circumstances of reversal and sorrow. No normal person would choose trouble if he could avoid it. Yet the fact remains that the things we like least in life often contribute in the end to our peace and happiness. It was said of William of Orange that his defeats were ever greater triumphs than his victories. Lincoln’s character was fashioned for great responsibilities by a series of misfortunes. We are told that even our Lord was made perfect through suffering.
We would not choose that way to learn if the choice were left with us. But if trouble does come upon you, accept it as a test of character. A person’s character is measured not by the extent to which he has avoided trouble, but by the extent to which he has met it with courage and faith. Under these circumstances misfortunes can become our most useful learning experiences.

Guarantees For A Home-Buyer

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Guarantees, sometimes useless ones, often accompany $5 purchases, but for the biggest purchase of all, a home, they have been nearly nonexistent. Now they are available.
Last August the National Association of Homebuilders enrolled the first new home sold under its program. Since then, 10,000 new homes have been registered under its Homeowners Warranty Program.
Sometime in July, the National Association of Realtors hopes to begin an insurance program on resale, or used, homes. Formal approval is anticipated at the annual meeting in Chicago May 5.
Since three times as many used homes are bought and sold each year, the realtors’ program could have a more pronounced effect on real estate markets which have been depressed by, among other things, extreme caution on the part of buyers.
Art Leitch, a San Diego realtor and current president of the national association, reports that “many local boards are standing by waiting for this and have been for several months.” However, it is up to the individual realtors as to whether they will insist on such insurance accompanying a home they list.
The national association worked out the program with two large casualty insurers and one warranty company who, says Leitch, must remain anonymous until formal contracts are signed in May.

Under the program, the seller would pay one-half of 1 per cent of the selling price for an inspection and clearance by a trained engineer, and insurance for the first year on the home’s major components.
Since the median price of a one-family home offered for resale in 1974 was $33,000, the cost of the inspection-insurance program should range generally from about $150 to $200.
Components or segments included are plumbing, heating, air-conditioning, wiring, roof and walls, and the structural soundness of floors, ceilings and basements. All items would be covered on a $100 deductible basis.
After the first year the owner can continue the program if he chooses, although it is still too early to determine at what rate. As Leitch sees it, “Our feeling is that if the property is brought up to acceptable condition, we’d think the second-year rate would be lower.”
The program is a voluntary one on the part of the realtors, of whom there are more than 110,000 in 50 state associations and 1,658 real estate boards. They may or may not choose to insist that the seller provide such protection.
Moreover, the program is expected to be available to all buyers and sellers, whether they negotiate the transaction through a realtor, who considers himself to be a cut above the ordinary agent in knowledge and experience.

Volunteering To Fight Again

By EDMUND PINTO
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Bart S. Bonner says he has 100 American volunteers ready to fight in Vietnam for the Saigon government and that they'll march under the banner of the Confederacy if they can't carry the Stars and Stripes.

"We are going to make every effort to fight under our (American) flag. In searching for a symbol if it is not possible for us to carry our own flag, the stars and bars — the Confederate flag — is a beautiful flag and if that's what we have to carry, we'll carry it," Bonner said.

Bonner is a 34-year-old ex-Marine who operates a telephone answering service in Waretown, N.Y. He told a news conference Tuesday that his organization, the Veterans and Volunteers for Vietnam, wants to send combat-trained troops to fight Communists in South Vietnam and "to offer assistance to any country who wants to oppose Communist aggression."

He says he has 100 men ready to go right now. His plans are to fly them into South Vietnam within 10 days whether or not the United States or the South Vietnamese government wants them there.

"Transportation needs are being arranged in this country," he said. He wouldn't provide specifics, but he said departure areas are being prepared in Texas, California and the Washington, D.C. area.

The South Vietnamese embassy here has given the idea a cool reception. An embassy spokesman said earlier that Vietnam wants U.S. weapons but not American personnel.

Sports Medicine Conference In May

A sports Medicine Conference for high school athletic coaches and trainers will be offered by East Carolina University May 2-3.

All events will be held in the Carol G. Belk Allied Health Building.

Purpose of the conference is to provide athletic personnel with necessary skills and techniques for developing a systematic and successful program of treatment and rehabilitation of athletic injuries.

Instructors for the conference are Janet Schweisthal, ECU anatomy instructor; Dr. James Bowman, orthopedic specialist; Dr. Richard Evans, dentist; Dr. Al Woodworth, general practitioner; and Rod Compton, sports medicine director at ECU.

Also featured will be Head Trainers Ed Cristman of the College of William and Mary and Andy Clawson of the Citadel.

Persons interested in attending the conference may receive further information and registration materials from the ECU Division of Continuing Education, Box 2727, Greenville. Advance registration is required, and all applications must be received by the Division before April 25.

Oil Companies Report Profits Decline

By The Associated Press
The four largest American oil companies say the repeal of the oil depletion allowance contributed to declines in profits ranging from about 11 per cent to 66 per cent.

"The increased taxes from the repeal of the percentage depletion alone are estimated to increase Exxon's taxes about $200 million for the full year 1975," Exxon Chairman J. K. Jamieson said Tuesday.

Exxon Corp., the world's biggest oil company, said first-quarter profits fell 11.1 per cent from last year's post-embargo peaks.

Texaco, Inc., the second largest U.S. oil company, said first-quarter earnings plunged 66 per cent. No. 3 Mobil Oil Corp. reported that earnings declined 28 per cent and fourth-largest Gulf Oil said its three-month profits were down 33 per cent from last year.

The U.S. Tax Reduction Act of 1975 which repealed the oil depletion allowance for large oil companies and changed some of their foreign tax credits sizably reduced earnings, the companies said.

The companies also said the lowered industrial activity because of the worldwide recession, consumer conservation and a relatively mild winter combined to cut sales volume and reduce earnings.

Meanwhile, the Air Transport Association said the nation's scheduled airlines lost a record $190 million in the first three months of 1975.

The first quarter traditionally is a losing period for the airlines, which make the bulk of their earnings during the spring, summer and fall months.

The trade association blamed the record loss on rising fuel and labor costs and decreased traffic.

In other economic developments:

—AFL-CIO President George Meany called for greater federal spending to create jobs. Without extraordinary measures the recession will not be ended before the summer of 1976, he said.

—Labor Secretary John T. Dunlop asked Congress to extend temporarily a program providing an extra 13 weeks of federal supplemental benefits.

—Assistant Treasury Secretary Gerald L. Parsky said the world's major oil exporting nations expect to have significantly less money to invest in other countries in the years ahead than was estimated earlier.

Appointed To Awards Board

State Rep. Sam D. Bundy has been appointed a member of the State Board of Awards.

The Board of Awards reviews bids and contracts for the purchase of goods and services amounting to $200 million annually and approves or rejects as it sees fit. Upon this Board is placed the responsibility of securing value for state expenditures.

Public Took To The Idea

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Southeastern Pennsylvania Transportation Authority had what it thought was a good rainy-day idea for area commuters.

The SEPTA public relations office decided it would be nice to provide umbrellas for its customers to borrow on rainy days. So umbrella-filled drums were left at the Reading Terminal and the 30th Street Station.

SEPTA reasoned that the project would not only be a courtesy to its riders, but also would clear out some 200 unclaimed umbrellas in its lost and found department.

Commuters apparently took to the idea, and the umbrellas. SEPTA says that within two days all the umbrellas had been borrowed — permanently.

Now commuters are finding a new use for the 55-gallon drums used to hold the umbrellas. They're filling them with trash. "That's okay with us," a SEPTA spokesman said Tuesday. "At least they're being used."

Tuesday Saw 2 Collisions

More than $2,700 property damage resulted from two collisions investigated here yesterday by Greenville Police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted when cars driven by Ellen Walsh Jones of 212 Fairway Dr. and Kathryn Anna Beavans of 709 Fletcher Dorm collided about 8:40 a.m. at the intersection of Charles and 13th Streets.

Damage was estimated at $1,500 to the Jones car and $1,000 to the Beavans vehicle.

No charges were reported. Lou Anne Baldree of Route 1, Ayden was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 5:50 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Tenth and Charles Streets.

Police reported the Baldree car collided with an auto driven by Mary Lou Orłowski of 106B Eastbrook Dr., causing an estimated $200 damage to the Baldree car and $75 damage to the Orłowski car.

'Exemption' Given Utility

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP)—Duke Power Co. has apparently won its multi-million dollar fight for an exemption from road construction standards in a bill advancing through the state Senate.

The Senate Transportation Committee, taking the advice of Duke lobbyist John Hicks, Tuesday adopted an amendment to the bill which would exempt 4,000 lots owned by a Duke subsidiary, Crescent Land and Timber Co.

The bill, introduced by Sen. John Winters, D-Wake, requires that developers pave roads up to standards set by the state secondary roads department.

If they do not, the bill says, they must inform buyers that their roads are "private" and tell them who will maintain them.

Winters, a homebuilder, said he was trying to stop unethical developers who leave buyers with substandard roads that the state refuses to take into its maintenance system.

The Department of Transportation has promised to begin caring for existing substandard roads if Winters' bill passes and puts a stop to construction of new ones.

Crescent, however, owns 4,000 lots connected by dirt roads around four lakes along the Caydaba River. It presently leases the lots, but hopes to sell them at prices from $5,000 to $30,000. Paving the dirt roads would add so much to the price of the lots that they would be unmarketable, the company says.

Hicks said the four counties involved have local ordinances prohibiting subdivision lot sales except on public roads, obviating the second option in Winters' bill.

Crescent wrote an amendment to Winters' bill that would exempt leased lots around the four lakes. The amendment was introduced by Sen. Herman Moore, D-Mecklenburg.

Winters opposed the amendment. He said it would weaken the bill and make it subject to constitutional challenges. Trying to compromise, he offered a different amendment that set up another category of semi public roads.

Hicks told the committee that Duke would be "willing to see" Winters' amendment passed. But Murdock said that it would entail enough risk to the state to cause him to renege on the promise to begin maintaining existing roads.

With that, the committee passed Moore's amendment. Winters' was the only dissenting vote.

Winters said he was disappointed but would not fight the amendment on the floor of the Senate.

Continuing Reorienting

RALEIGH (AP)—Democrats are continuing their reorientation of the State Milk Commission.

House Speaker James C. Green Tuesday appointed a former chairman and a Fayetteville dairy executive to positions on the new 10-member panel.

Green named F. Rockwell Poisson of Charlotte and Russell E. Davenport of Fayetteville.

Poisson was chairman of the commission until a year ago, when he was replaced by Republican Gov. Jim Holshouser. Davenport is president of Sycamore Dairy, Inc.

Earlier this year, the Democrats in the legislature enacted a bill restructuring the commission by increasing the proportion of dairy industry members and diminishing the appointment powers of the governor.

Holshouser and Lt. Gov. James B. Hunt Jr. must still announce their appointments before the new commission is complete. The governor has three and Hunt has two.

During legislative debate on the issue, the Republicans charged that Democrats, influenced by the dairy lobby, were trying to undercut Holshouser's efforts to give the consumer a break by permitting competition in the retail sale of milk.

Will Discuss Port Site

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — A one-day meeting in Houston late in May has been set between oil company executives and the governors of Georgia, North Carolina and South Carolina to discuss locating a deep-water port in the Southeast.

Jack Hawke, federal co-chairman of the Coastal Plains Regional Commission, said Tuesday the governors would discuss the construction of a deep-water port, which would allow large oil tankers to unload their cargo at sea through a pumping system.

Hawke said Gov. George Busbee of Georgia, Gov. James Holshouser of North Carolina and Gov. James Edwards of South Carolina, are attempting to "let private investments for that (deep water ports) in this area."

Hawke said at present there is no indication that any major oil company is considering the port in the area.

Hawke, of Washington, made his comments at a two-day economic development workshop which ended Tuesday. About 125 city and county government officials from Georgia attended the meeting sponsored by the commission.

The first Jewish community was established in North America in 1654, when 23 refugees fled Brazil after the Dutch lost it to the Portuguese.

GALLATIN, Tenn. (AP) — last January after the Pentagon officially listed Fitton as dead. Mrs. Horinek said she knew Fitton was dead then.

Perry's father said his son married Lakkana Sagnak of Thailand just seven months before his last flight on Dec. 21, 1972, and that efforts to locate her have been unsuccessful.

"I don't have any idea where she is," he said. "She's in this country, but we haven't been able to find her and neither has the Air Force."

Perry, an employee at the E.I.
Du Pont De Nemours & Co.
chemical plant at Old Hickory, Tenn., said that while the finality of the message was a relief, it hurts deeply.

"If a person has never experienced this, it would be needless for me to try to explain it," he said. "He was our only son. I hope and pray there'll never be another American family that will have to go through this like we have. It's been over two years now that we've been on pins and needles."

"It's not like having someone in your family, a loved one, die and then burying them. There was always the dread that he was being tortured, that he was crippled. He was only 28 years old when he was shot down."

Prize-Winners Named In International Festival

A booth prepared by the Spanish and French Clubs of E.B. Aycock Junior High School was first place winner in the second annual International Festival held last Friday in Wright Auditorium on campus at East Carolina University.

Dr. Michael Bassman, an assistant professor in the Foreign Language Department

ECU, noted "about 2,020 students attended the festival this year. About 40 schools east of Raleigh were represented. This is the second annual Student's International Festival. The one held last year drew about 1,000 students and was so popular we decided to hold it again this year."

The festival has been sponsored both years by the Foreign Language and Literature Department at East Carolina University.

Dr. Bassman said entries — in booths, skits and poetry readings, focused on four languages, French, Spanish, German and Russian, with French and Spanish predominating.

For their prize winning booth, Aycock students had as its theme "Think Romance," representing the five major romance languages — Spanish, French, Italian, Portuguese and Romanian.

The Aycock French Club was represented by the Arch of Triumph through which visitors entered the area of exhibits.

Second place booth winner was Hale High School, Raleigh; and third place judging resulted in a four way tie between North Pitt, Columbia, Rose and Farmville Central High Schools.

Top winners in the French skits were Rose High, first place, and Sanderson High, Raleigh, second place.

In the French poetry division, where individual students memorized and interpreted a French poem, the top winners were:

—Level I: Lauri Liatman, Hale High School, Raleigh, and Kathy Talton, Southern Wayne High School, Dudley.

—Level II: Libby Braxton, Farmville Central High School, and Denise Miller, New Bern High School.

—Level III: Albert Walston, Farmville Central High School and Terri Broadner, Rocky Mount High School.

Winners in the Spanish poetry division, with requirements the same as contestants in the French division, were:

—Level I: Edwilla Evans, Wallace High School, Rose Hill and Maria Baro, Aycock.

—Level II: Christina Daro, Rose High School and Yvonne Cooper, Plymouth High School.

—Level III: Chris Flower, Rose High School and Gary

Davis, East Carteret High School.

The two top winners in the Spanish skit division were Plymouth High School and Aycock Junior High.

Booths in the festival emphasized the land, culture and language of the various countries through the use of posters, articles, maps, national flags and food.

Teachers from Aycock coordinating activities of students entering the festival were Miss Sharon Barrett, Mrs. Carolyn Howard and Mrs. Mimi Magre.

Rose High teachers coordinating with students in the festival were Mrs. Betty Beacham, Mrs. Dora Adler and Mrs. Bernadette Morris.

THE PRIZE WINNING BOOTH . . . Using the theme "Think Romance" students at Aycock Junior High won first prize in the second annual International Festival held on campus at East Carolina University last Friday. Shown in the booth are Gwen Tyson and Rae James.

Arrival Of Quintuplets Proved Surprise To All

By NORM CLARKE
Associated Press Writer
CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — "We knew there were at least three. We were amazed. They just kept coming," says the doctor who delivered quintuplets to a 28-year-old Fairfield, Ohio, woman.

The three girls and two boys, an estimated four weeks premature, were born Tuesday to Pamela Levy, the wife of an advertising aide for Procter & Gamble Manufacturing Co. They were her first children.

Pediatricians at General Hospital said the prognosis for the five infants, as yet unnamed, "is quite good."

The lightest male infant underwent a blood transfusion after developing a high hemoglobin count, according to doctors. They listed his condition as guarded.

Dr. James Sutherland, who is handling post-birth care, said the next 72 hours would be critical for the quint.

"We weren't trying for a world speed record," said Dr. Allen Shade, who delivered the quint by caesarean section over a two-minute span at General Hospital.

The first birth came at 4:14

p.m., a girl weighing 4 pounds, 13 ounces. Then in succession came a 4-pound girl; a 3-pound, 12-ounce boy; another boy at 3 pounds, 3 ounces; and a girl at 4 pounds, 2 ounces.

Mrs. Levy's husband, Mark, also 28, shunned newsmen. He told hospital officials he wanted to avoid massive publicity.

More than 50 quintuplet births have been recorded this century, according to the American Medical Association (AMA), but only six sets of quint have survived.

Mrs. Levy, who said she used a fertility drug 11 months ago, entered the hospital Monday and underwent eight hours of labor prior to delivery.

The mother reacted to the news "with disbelief," said Dr. Shade, 40, a native of Delaware, Ohio. "She could hardly believe it."

The father was equally astonished, he said.

"As we kept delivering the babies, the father kept getting more and more excited," Shade said.

Hearing Set Friday On Pamlico Fishery Problems

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, N.C. — The Division of Marine Fisheries of the North Carolina Department of Natural and Economic Resources will hold a public hearing at 7 p.m. Friday at the Beaufort County Court House here to receive comments on fisheries problems in the Pamlico River area.

Mike Smith, chief of the research and development section of the Division of Marine Fisheries, said a number of complaints have been received from property owners and sports fishermen along the river in the past several weeks about commercial fishing activities in the river—primarily long-haul seine operations.

Both long-haul and short-haul seines have been used in the Pamlico Sound-Pamlico River area by commercial fishermen for years. However sports fishermen and property owners have seemed to be more vocal in their protests over the past several weeks.

The Division of Marine Fisheries has received complaints, saying nets from three to five miles long are being used to take fish and that the commercial seine operators will strip the river of its fish population.

Actually, short-haul seines use nets about 800 yards long, with some as long as 1,000 or 1,100 yards in length. They are also known as swipe nets. Long-haul seines use nets that are longer—ranging up to 1,700 or 1,800 yards long. Both nets have cork floats on their top edge and lead sinkers at the bottom. The nets hang vertically in the water and when the ends are drawn together, prevent larger fish trapped inside from escaping. Fishermen worked the net into an increasingly smaller circle until all the fish are encircled by the bunt (bundle or bagging) portion of the net where they are dipped from the water and loaded onto a boat.

Seiners use big-mesh nets so smaller fish can escape. "We don't want to catch little fish," Marcus Gaskill of Hobuck said. Gaskill is a short-haul seine operator.

The 55-year-old Gaskill has been fishing commercially since he was 14 years old. While he and his crew fish mainly near the mouth of the Pamlico River he doesn't want to be restricted by regulations from fishing up-river—possibly as far as Core Point. Under the present regulations, commercial fishermen may now fish as far up-river as the railroad bridge at Washington.

"We don't go as far up as Indian Island, but would like the privilege if I wanted to," he said.

"Sports fishermen come down here and set nets. They are in my way a lot of the time. But I would like them to have the privilege to do it." He said too, "The target range (a Navy bombing range in Pamlico Sound) is restricted to us." It used to be Brandt Island, he explained. "They started bombing the island and it wasn't long before the island went away. That is some of the best fishing grounds," Gaskill explained. Hyman Hopkins from Hobucken, who is beginning a long-haul seine operation this year, said in his opinion those who are complaining of the commercial fishing operations are "people who have already had their living trying to cut other people out. My boys need to work." His "boys" include his six-man crew and the ten dependents they have to provide a living for.

Long-hauling, according to Hopkins, "is not a destructive thing for fish at all. It's utilizing a resource." Hopkins said if commercial fishermen destroyed the fish they would put themselves out of business.

Street said Department of Fisheries inspectors have been patrolling the river and sound area to gain information to be presented at the hearing Friday. "We've flown the river almost daily," Street said, "...conducted regular surveillance. There has been some activity near the mouth of the river, but we've seen no long-haul seining."

Ford Urges Keeping U.S. Navy 'Strong'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today called for a strong U.S. Navy and warned that the Soviet Union "is outspending us on defense by at least 20 per cent."

"The Soviet Union understands the importance of seapower," the President said. "The Russians built up their navy while we permitted ours to shrink."

Hospitalization In Fifth Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former First Lady Mamie Eisenhower has begun her fifth week of hospitalization for treatment of what is described by a hospital spokesman as "an intestinal obstruction."

Mrs. Eisenhower, 78, remains at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, where she has been since April 14. A spokesman there said Tuesday she probably would remain at the hospital through this week.

Mrs. Eisenhower was first hospitalized at the Ft. Gordon, Ga., Medical Center March 25 with what was reported to be intestinal bleeding.

The spokesman at Walter Reed said Mrs. Eisenhower was "still in good condition and comfortable."

In a speech prepared for delivery before the 73rd Annual Navy League convention in New Orleans, Ford said the size of the U.S. Navy has been cut in half since 1968 and that the U.S. fleet of 501 ships is the smallest since 1939 — two years before Pearl Harbor.

He said the Russian navy now "freely roams the world's seas." Ford said that in the past few days, four fleets of the Soviet Union have completed global maneuvers with more than 220 Soviet ships deployed in all the oceans of the world, including more than 50 ships in the Atlantic.

Ford spoke to the convention while on a one-day trip to New Orleans, which included a tribute to Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., former chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

His first stop in New Orleans was for ground-breaking ceremonies for a $500,000 library in honor of Hebert. The project has run into local opposition.

Coed Awarded Scholarship

FORMER NURSE DIES
BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Mary Alice Newton, 107, a retired nurse who served with Teddy Roosevelt during the Spanish-American War, died Tuesday. Mrs. Newton was in Alaska during the gold-rush years and lived near San Francisco during the 1906 earthquake.

Miss Mamie Ellene Maye has been awarded a $250 scholarship from the Petersburg Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority in its annual honors and awards day program Friday.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Beatrice C. Maye of Greenville and the late J.W. Maye.

How Tar Heel Representatives And Senators Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON—Here's how area House members were recorded on major roll call votes April 10 through April 16. There were no Senate votes.

House
EDUCATION—Adopted, 259 for and 143 against, an amendment to increase fiscal 1976 appropriations for several education programs by $487.5 million. Included are programs involving disadvantaged and handicapped students, bilingual education, court-ordered desegregation, vocational training, land grant colleges and their students, and school libraries. The amendment was attached to a Department of Health, Education and Welfare appropriations bill (HR 5901) for fiscal 1976. HR 5901, with a price tag of $7.8 billion, was subsequently passed and sent to the Senate.

Supporters said higher funding levels were needed to assure "quality" education for all. Rep. Edward Roybal (D-Cal.), a sponsor, said, "Education services are experiencing reductions due to dwindling state financing at the precise moment that courts are imposing new requirements. . . . Rep. Herbert Harris (D-Va.) said, "Our school budgets are being stretched to their limits because of zooming utility and other energy costs."

Opponents said the "financial climate" requires sacrifices, even in high-priority spending areas such as education. Rep. Margaret Heckler (R-Mass.) said the "amended bill, resulting in an increase of $1.5 billion over the (Administration's) budget request, goes too far." Rep. Daniel Flood (D-Pa.) said the admirable objectives contained in "these heart-twisting and heart-rending programs" did nothing to lessen the $73 billion federal deficit.

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), David Henderson (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Stephan Neal (D-5), Richardson Preyer (D-6) and Charles Rose (D-7) voted "yea."

Reps. L.H. Fountain (D-2), James Martin (R-9) and James Broyhill (R-10) voted "nay."

Reps. W.G. Hefner (D-8) and Roy Taylor (D-11) did not vote.

COED INTEGRATION—Adopted, 253 for and 145 against, an amendment to preserve the legal basis for federal funding of institutions which operate single-sex activities such as sororities, fraternities, scouts and physical education classes. It was attached to an appropriations bill (HR 5901, above which provides fiscal 1976 funding for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The amendment specifically prohibits using HEW funds to promote sexual integration of youth organizations, and would prevent HEW from withholding funds because an organization maintains a single-sex orientation.

Rep. Bob Casey (D-Tex.), the sponsor, said local school districts should not be subjected to HEW orders to "integrate the physical education classes" on one hand and maintain "separate toilet facilities" on the other. He said the amendment would not diminish equal opportunity for females.

One opponent, Rep. Bella Abzug (D-N.Y.), said the amendment was "backward" and contrary to the new federal law prohibiting federal funding of educational programs which discriminate "against girls and young women who have a right to receive an equal amount of funds, an equal amount of facilities and an equal opportunity to develop their physical education."

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Martin and Broyhill voted "yea."

Neal, Preyer and Rose voted "nay."

Hefner and Taylor did not vote.

HOMES—Passed, 321 for and 21 against, a bill (HR 5398) to provide federal loans of up to $250 per month, for as long as two years, to help homeowners meet their mortgage payments and thus avoid foreclosure. The Department of Housing and Urban Development would be authorized to loan a total of $500 million to an estimated 300,000 homeowners who are either underemployed or unemployed as a result of the recession. New loans cannot be made after June 30, 1976. A bill similar to HR 5398 is pending in the Senate.

Supporters said anti-recession legislation passed earlier in the year to stimulate construction and purchase of new homes would be ineffective unless Congress also acts to protect current homeowners. Rep. Garry Brown (R-Mich.) cautioned that the measure, though justified, was no "panacea," adding that "the one thing that is best for . . . the fellow who has to make mortgage payments is to have a sound economy where he has a job. . . ."

Opponents said that because the bill lacks administrative guidelines it leaves too much to the discretion of HUD. Rep. John Rousset (R-Cal.) said "a new and terribly costly bureaucracy may be required" to determine on a "case-by-case basis" who is eligible for a loan, how much money he should receive, and whether his plight is legitimate.

Jones, Henderson, Neal, Preyer, Rose, Hefner and Broyhill voted "yea."

Fountain voted "nay."

Andrews, Martin and Taylor did not vote.

HOUSE CONDUCT—Adopted, 360 for and 37 against, a resolution (H Res 46) regarding the treatment of House members who have pleaded guilty to, or have been convicted of, a crime punishable by at least two years in jail. The resolution, which recommends rather than requires penalties, directs members to abstain from voting in committee and on the House floor. It does not discourage non-voting participation and would not affect a member's salary. To regain his or her vote, an affected member would have to be reelected or found innocent in the appellate process.

H Res 47 amends the House Code of Official Conduct. It does not go to the Senate.

Supporters said the resolution would promote "public confidence" in Congress. Rep. John Flynt (D-Ga.) said "a more severe procedure while the appeals process is pending would not be appropriate, since a reversal of the original conviction would reinstate presumption of innocence."

One opponent, Rep. Fortney Stark (D-Cal.), said the resolution would be "ineffective and possibly unconstitutional." He said, "The House has the power both to censure and expel. It also has the power to urge members to resign. In such a case, a vacancy would occur and a special election should be held—in the shortest possible time. . . . so the people would be given the critical representation to which they are entitled."

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Rose, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "yea." Hefner did not vote.

House Jam-Packed For Vote On ERA

RAMBLING IN THE HOUSE WITH SAM D. BUNDY

Tuesday and Wednesday were jam packed days. People began arriving in the House galleries at 8:30 and 9:30 a.m. in order to get seats to listen to the debate and watch the action on the Floor of the House with respect to the ERA legislation. By 1:00 p.m. each day the House galleries were full to overflowing. Both sessions on these two days lasted about 3½ hours. The debate was calm and deliberate and tempered with respect for the viewpoint of the other legislator.

The dramatic moment on Tuesday came at the end of the roll call vote when it appeared that the vote was 59 to 59 and Representative Ronald Mason changed his vote from "No" to "Aye", thus making it 60 to 58 in favor of the bill. On Wednesday after three hours of debate the roll call vote ended with a 62 to 57 vote against the bill. Thus ended three months of study, discussion and debate. Under the rules, the ERA cannot come before the General Assembly until 1977. In 1973 the ERA lost in the Senate by four votes and this year lost in the House by five votes.

I voted "No" and I feel my constituents should know my reasons. First of all, I was convinced that the majority of people and even the majority of women did not want it. On a statewide basis (outside my own district) people who contacted me by letter, phone or in person — 70 percent said "No" and 30 percent said "Yes". In my own district of Pitt and Greene, 60 percent said "No" and 40 percent said "Yes". On this basis I concluded the majority of people and the majority of women were against it and, may I say, that 90 percent of the people contacting me were women.

In the second place, the second section of the amendment was my basic objection. This section says that "Congress shall have the power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article." Many of us thought this placed in the hands of Congress too much power and, henceforth, the States would be left out of the picture. Frankly, it was too open-ended and we would not know or could not even guess what Congress would do and how the Courts would interpret. Many people complain about Washington taking over the powers, rights and responsibilities of the states and, in this instance, we would have been giving Washington more power and handing it to them on a silver platter.

Mrs. Bundy and I were dinner guests of Governor and Mrs. Holshouser at the Governor's Mansion on Wednesday evening. See you next week.

Testing One Of Services

Testing is one of the many services offered to the community by the Employment Security Commission. The two types of tests given include a battery of clerical tests and aptitude tests.

According to Jim Hannan, manager of the local ESC office, the clerical tests measure typing speed, shorthand speed, and spelling accuracy.

The aptitude test does not measure what a person has already learned but his ability to learn something new. These tests tell an applicant which jobs he could probably learn and which jobs he should avoid.

Information obtained from testing includes: how well an applicant can use his hands and fingers; how well an applicant can make visual comparisons and discriminations and see slight differences in shapes and sizes, how an applicant makes moves which coordinate the hands and the yes, and how quickly a person can understand instruction and principles.

The test results, when interpreted by a counselor or other skilled person, can predict areas of success for the applicant.

Persons interested in being tested may contact the ESC office, 1002 S. Evans St., for assistance.

Auto tires will last longer if the driver avoids high speeds, fast turns and sudden starts and stops.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets Tuesday were generally unchanged on large and mediums and slightly stronger on smalls. Supplies were barely adequate and demand good. Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby retail outlets: grade A large white 58.77, medium white 54.40, small white 46.53.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Corn prices were slightly weaker and soybeans sharply weaker on the state's leading grain markets Tuesday. No. 2 yellow shelled corn was quoted at 2.81-2.95, mostly 2.81 in the East, and 2.80-3.00 in the Piedmont. No. 1 yellow soybeans were 5.23-5.61, mostly 5.45-5.50 per bushel.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hog market steady today. Wilson 41.00-42.00; High Falls 40.25-41.25; Kinston 41.00-42.25; Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Elizabethtown, Pink Hill, Pine Level, Chadbourn, Ayden, Laurinburg and Benson 42.50; Salisbury 39.50.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina broiler market steady today. Supplies adequate and demand good. Weights desirable. The North Carolina FOB dock weighted average price for less than truck lots of sized plant grade broilers to be picked up at docks this week is 39.42 cents per pound. Estimated slaughter today 1,092,000.

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock prices were lower across a broad range today in a wave of selling triggered by rising interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 5.94 to 808.20 at 11:30 a.m. and declining prices outnumbered advances about 3 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Stock sales were very active and trading frequently ran ahead of the exchange's high-speed ticker tape.

The NYSE composite index was off .26 at 45.88 and the American Stock Exchange market-value index fell .44 to 83.82 at 11 a.m.

Rising long and short-term interest rates touched off the selling, brokers said. On Tuesday, Treasury bills rose sharply and several long-term bond rates approached their 1975 highs. The rising rates are rekindling investors' fears of inflation, brokers said.

"The big problem is the indication that interest rates may pop up again for a while," said William Nelson of Moody's Investors Service.

"The higher yields of bonds also makes them more competitive with stocks," said Eldon Grimm of Birr, Wilson & Co.

Polaroid, the most active NYSE stock, rose 3/4 to 30 1/2 despite the company's prediction that the SX-70 camera would be

Career Day Event Held

The third annual Career Symposium was held at Mendenhall Student Center under the sponsorship of Phi Beta Lambda, business fraternity at East Carolina University.

Dr. Ross Piper, faculty adviser, said that the symposium was expected to draw attendance from high schools throughout the eastern part of the state as well as from the student sector of ECU.

Piper said that at least 300 students were expected for the one-day session on career opportunities that featured presentations by eight members of the business community of North Carolina.

Speakers included: Fuller Motesinger of Union Carbide Corp.; Jack Richardson, Pitt Memorial Hospital; L.A. Bailey, Belk Tyler Co., Rocky Mount; Frank Guild, Planters National Bank, Rocky Mount; Dick Harr, Ernst & Ernst accounting firm, Raleigh; A.P. Carlton of Carlton & Co., Realtors of Greensboro; Herb Howell, Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Co., Goldsboro; and Dr. Bill Durham of the Department of Business Education and Office Administration at ECU.

April 24th: Find out if you have what it takes to speculate in commodity futures.

Come to our next Merrill Lynch Forum.

Commodity futures speculation isn't for the fainthearted. Or for small investors seeking maximum return with minimum risk.

But if you're the kind of man who has the intellectual discipline to outline a trading plan and stick to it, and the financial strength to back up that plan with a sizable amount of risk capital, speculating may be for you.

In the forum we'll tell you how commodities like silver, potatoes, and corn are traded as futures. Why commodity futures speculating offers more leverage than any other organized form of trading. Merrill Lynch's 9 rules for successful commodity futures speculation. Common mistakes to avoid. How to get started. And more.

The forum is free. No reservations are necessary. Just come.

• Thursday, April 24th, 7:30 p.m.

At ECU Campus, Rawl Building, Room 130, Greenville.

The topic for this forum will be: Merrill Lynch's Concept of a Professional Approach to Managing Risk While Speculating in Commodity Futures.

Farm Bureau Adopts Plan

The Pitt County Farm Bureau voted last night to approve the Identification Operation Project proposed by the North Carolina Farm Bureau Women's Committee.

The identification pencils will be available in the Pitt County Farm Bureau office.

Farm Bureau members were encouraged to put their driver's license number on all their valuables so that stolen articles could be easily identified.

John Radford, chairman of the Young Farmer's Committee, announced that open house would be held at Greenwood Dairy May 23 and 24.

President David H. Smith presided at the meeting. Special guests included Pitt County Commissioners Burney Tucker, Alton Gardner, Charles Gaskins, and County Auditor H. Reginald Gray.

Placed High In Auditions

Two East Carolina University sophomore voice majors placed high at the recent Southeastern Regional Auditions of the National Teachers of Singing.

They were Craig Wood Maddox of Elizabeth City and Nancy Field Beavers of Roanoke, Va. Maddox, a student of Antonia Dalapas, placed first in his category; and Miss Beavers, a student of Gladys White, was tied for second place in her category.

Both are voice majors in the ECU School of Music, and competed with voice students from the Carolinas, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and Washington, D.C.

The auditions were held in conjunction with the Singing Teachers' Annual spring meeting.

Award Benefits To Entertainer

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Entertainer Ann Miller has been awarded $4,651.78 in workman's compensation benefits as the result of a 1972 injury suffered at the St. Louis Municipal Opera.

Miss Miller was injured when she was struck by a steel curtain during a performance of "Anything Goes."

She had sought $1.5 million in damages against the theater.

St. Louis Circuit Judge Daniel Tillman made the workman's compensation ruling Tuesday.

Approve Bill To 'Revamp' Commission

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP)—The House Public Utilities Committee unanimously approved today a measure that would revamp the state Utilities Commission and eliminate the automatic fuel adjustment clause.

Approval came after the committee rejected a Republican effort to delete a portion of the bill which Rep. Fred Hutchins, R-Forsyth, said was like "spitting tobacco juice in the face" of Gov. Jim Holshouser.

The bill would increase membership of the Utilities Commission from five to seven, would provide for the commissioner members to sit in panels of three in hearing cases, and would replace the automatic fuel adjustment clause with provisions to speed up Utilities Commission consideration of rate increases based on increased fuel costs.

Hutchins's amendment would delete a provision of the bill under which the lieutenant governor and the House speaker would appoint the two additional commission members initially. Hutchins said this was a "slap in the face" of Holshouser because after the two initial appointments the governor would appoint all commission members as vacancies occurred.

Democratic members of the committee denied the provision was intended as a slap at Holshouser. Rep. J.P. Huskins, D-Iredell, said the purpose of the provision was to keep Holshouser from appointing five of the seven commission members.

"I don't think any governor ought to have the right to appoint five of the seven members of the commission," Huskins asserted.

Approve Bill Amending Constitution Of N.C.

RALEIGH (AP)—Proposals to amend the North Carolina Constitution to forbid discrimination on the basis of sex and to fix 21 as the minimum age of state senators were approved by the House Committee on Constitutional Amendments today.

The committee, which two weeks ago approved the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, voted unanimously in favor of a bill which would insert the word "sex" in a constitutional provision which says that no persons shall "be subjected to discrimination by the state because of race, color, religion or national origin."

The antidiscrimination proposal was sponsored by Rep. Hartwell Campbell, D-Wilson, who strongly opposed ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution when it was defeated by the House last week.

The other amendment approved by the committee would continue the minimum age for House members at 21 and would reduce the minimum age of senators from 25 to 21.

The amendment also would make every qualified voter eligible for election to public office except where other provisions of the constitution said otherwise.

The proposed constitutional amendments would be submitted to a vote of the people in the general election next year.

Another Cambodian Leader Flees Reds

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—Another Cambodian leader on the Communist death list has fled to Thailand, leaving only two of the seven unaccounted for.

Thai officials said former Premier In Tam fled across the border last Saturday with three other persons as they were being pursued and fired on by Khmer Rouge soldiers. The sources said they were in police custody in Prachin Buri province, in eastern Thailand near the border.

In Tam headed the government in Phnom Penh in 1973 while President Lon Nol was in the United States for medical treatment. After the Communists captured Phnom Penh, he vowed to lead a guerrilla movement in northwest Cambodia.

Of the other six men the Khmer Rouge said they would execute as traitors, only former Premier Long Boret and Sisowath Sirik Matak are believed to be in custody in Phnom Penh, or they may have been executed.

The other four who escaped from Cambodia are former President Lon Nol, who is under medical treatment in Hawaii; Gen. Sosthene Fernandez, head of the Cambodian armed forces; Cheng Heng, chief of state after the coup that ousted Prince Norodom Sihanouk, and Son Ngoc Than, head of the Khmer Serei guerrillas which the United States raised in South Vietnam and trained.

Robersonville Edges Past West Edgecombe To Retain Its Lead

ROCKY MOUNT—Robersonville High School held onto its lead in its division of the Eastern Plains Conference with a 5-4 victory over West Edgecombe High School yesterday.

Robersonville pushed over two runs in the top of the first. Neno Hayes singled and stole second.

Jimmy Stalls walked and Ricky Spruill ran for him. Carl Bullock reached on an error, allowing both Hayes and Spruill to score. West Edgecombe came back with two in their half of the first to tie it up. Bruce Turner singled and Allen Gay singled. An error on the play allowed Turner to score. Gay took third on a passed ball and scored on Barry Williams' hit.

West took the lead with another run in the second. Gary Morse walked and Donald Rhodes singled him to third. Rhodes tried for the delayed steal, and was caught in a rundown. Morse scored during the play.

Robersonville came up with one in the third to tie it up. Reid Bullock singled and stole second. Hayes walked and Carl Bullock also walked. Robin Fowler then hit a sacrifice fly to score Reid Bullock.

The Eagles pushed ahead with two in the fifth. Carl Bullock scored. Gay took third on a passed ball and scored on Barry Williams' hit.

Greene Central Defeats Hawks

SNOW HILL — Greene Central scored both early and late to take a 6-3 victory over North Lenoir yesterday.

The Rams pushed over two runs in the first inning for the lead. Tim Butts singled and William Brown reached on a fielder's choice. Thomas Hooker was hit by a pitch, loading the bases. Ronnie Whitley reached on an error, scoring both Butts and Brown.

In the second, Greene Central added another run. Floyd

Adams singled and Lindy Pridgen walked. Don Blizard also walked and a hit by Brown scored Adams.

North Lenoir rallied for three to tie it up in the fourth. Mike Eubanks was hit by a pitch and Donald Rouse walked. Craig Walton walked to load them up and Kendall Daniels singled in Eubanks and Rouse. A wild pitch let Walton score.

But the Rams came right back with one in their half of the fourth to regain the lead. Brown reached on a fielder's choice and Hooker walked. Whitley singled in Brown.

Greene Central added two more in the sixth. Jerry Carraway singled and stole second. Brown reached on an error and Hooker squeeze bunted over Carraway. Jeffrey Warren reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Brown.

Greene Central is 6-6 overall and 5-3 in the Eastern Carolina Conference. They will play Farmville Central on Friday. N. Lenoir 000 300 0-3 4 3 G. Central 210 102 x-6 8 1 Daniels and Thorbs; L. Pridgen, J. Pridgen (7) and Whitley.

Rose Girls Defeated

ELIZABETH CITY — Northeastern High School romped to a 24-3 victory over Rose High School's girls in a softball game yesterday.

The Rampant girls scored all three of their runs in the fourth inning. Jill Carney doubled and scored when Fannie Johnson slapped a home run. Shirley Johnson followed with a hit and scored when Peggy Leggett doubled.

Details of the Northeastern scoring was not available. The loss left the Rampant girls with a 1-2 record. They will host Kingston on Thursday.

Williamston Trims Ahoskie

AHOSKIE — Williamston High School stayed close to the top of the Northeastern Conference with an 11-6 romp over Ahoskie High School yesterday.

The Tigers are currently 5-1 in league play and are up to 8-3 overall.

Williamston pushed over one run in the first to take the lead. Ron Lilley singled and was sacrificed up. He scored when Tim Hardison reached on an error.

But Ahoskie came back with two runs in its half of the first. Donnie Brinkley tripled and Mark Sharp followed with a two-run homer.

Ahoskie added another run in the third. Sharp singled and scored when Tim Newsome reached on an error.

Williamston rallied for five runs in the fourth inning to regain the lead, 6-3. Eric Godard doubled and scored on George Brown's hit. Mike Bryant doubled in Brown and Greg Roberson singled. Mike Koesy got a hit, scoring Bryant. Butch Davis singled in Roberson and Phil Selby sacrificed over Koesy.

Williamston added another run in the fifth. Brown singled. stole second and scored on Koesy's hit.

Ahoskie came back with three in the bottom of the fifth. Brinkley reached on an error and Sharp hit his second home run. Newsome followed with a third Ahoskie homer to cut the lead to 7-6.

But the Tigers came up with four more in the sixth to put it away. Lilley singled and Selby reached on an error. Godard doubled in Lilley and Brown slashed out a three-run homer to end the scoring.

Williamston, now 5-1 in the conference and 8-5 overall, will play host to Robersonville on Thursday. Williamston 100 514 0-11 14 4 Ahoskie 201 030 0-6 8 2 Lilley, Godard (3) and Koesy; Reddick and Wynne.

ROCKY MOUNT—Rose High School took advantage of an error to get a four-run rally started in the fifth inning, and went on to record a 5-2 victory over Northern Nash yesterday.

The win kept the Rampants atop the Division I standings with a 7-1 conference record. The Rampants are now 12-2 overall.

Northern Nash fell off to 6-6 overall and 3-4 within in conference.

Rose had been handcuffed for most of the way by Knight pitcher Tim Sikes, although they had been able to put men in scoring position in each of the first four innings. But each time, the Knights came up with the play needed to get away unscathed.

Rose meanwhile, had few problems until the fourth when Northern Nash touched Rampant hurler Wesley Deal with two hits for a run. The other run came in the final inning as the day told on Deal.

Having pitched two straight gems, Deal didn't have quite the same stuff against the Knights, allowing five hits, one of them a homer and two others, doubles.

He walked just two, however, and struck out five in going the distance to record his fourth victory against one loss.

Oddly enough, all five of the Rose runs were unearned because of two errors by the Knights. Both of their runs were earned.

Rose got off a threat in the first when Kelly Heath singled and stole second with two away.

Then, in the second, Ron Hunt reached on a fielder's choice, stole second, and with two outs, headed home when Eddy Connolly lofted a high fly to the infield. The ball was dropped, however, giving Hunt the chance to score. However, thinking the ball was going to be caught, he had slowed rounding third, and was thrown out as he slid into home.

Rose threatened again in the third as Griff Garner singled and stole second with two away. In the fourth, Rose had another chance when Keith Jones and Hunt both walked, again with two down.

Meanwhile, Northern had gotten off a threat in the second when Sikes walked, and courtesy runner Willie Arrington moved up on a sacrifice and a fielder's choice.

But it was the fourth before the Knights got something across. With two men out, Mike Leonard singled to center, the first hit of the day off Deal. Ronnie Boddie then lofted a long fly into the left field corner, and Leonard came all the way from first to score as Boddie pulled in with a double.

Rose came back in the top of the fifth to charge back into the lead. With one down, Jack Jenkins reached on an error. Then, with two away, Heath walked. Mike Brewington followed with a single to right, scoring Jenkins to tie it up.

Macon Moye slapped a double to left, driving in both Heath and Brewington to put Rose into the lead. Jones followed with a single to left, scoring Moye, and Rose held a 4-1 edge.

Northern got a rally going in the fifth, but couldn't get a run over. Johnny Willis doubled with one down and Royce Wells got an infield hit, then took second on a chance when Keith Jones and Hunt both walked, again with two down.

Meanwhile, Northern had gotten off a threat in the second when Sikes walked, and courtesy runner Willie Arrington moved up on a sacrifice and a fielder's choice.

But it was the fourth before the Knights got something across. With two men out, Mike Leonard singled to center, the first hit of the day off Deal. Ronnie Boddie then lofted a long fly into the left field corner, and Leonard came all the way from first to score as Boddie pulled in with a double.

Jones followed with a single to left, scoring Moye, and Rose held a 4-1 edge.

Northern got a rally going in the fifth, but couldn't get a run over. Johnny Willis doubled with one down and Royce Wells got an infield hit, then took second on a passed ball. Deal came back with a strikeout and a ground out to get out of the jam.

Rose pushed over another run in the sixth. Connolly doubled to center after his pop foul fly was dropped, giving him new life. Courtesy runner David Dixon moved to third on an out and scored on Jenkins' sacrifice fly.

The other Northern Nash run came in the seventh inning when Dickie Duke slammed a lead-off home run. But Deal came back with three straight outs to end the game with no further damage.

The Rampants return home Thursday, hosting Wilson at 4 p.m. at Guy Smith Stadium.

North Pitt Snaps Losing Streak, 6-4

Medich Had Right Medicine As He Sparks Yankees To 5-0 Win

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

Dr. George Medich had just the right medication for patient George Medich ... and a lethal overdose for the Boston Red Sox.

"This ought to kill all the virus," Medich said Tuesday as he held up two cans of beer. The New York Yankees' 6-foot-5 right-hander had just stopped Boston 5-0 on three singles although he wasn't in the best of health.

"I woke up with a cold," the University of Pittsburgh medical student diagnosed. "It started yesterday when my lungs became congested. I took some aspirin before the game. I was bothered a little in the early innings, but it went away as things progressed."

Elsewhere in the American League, the Texas Rangers edged the Oakland A's 2-1, the Baltimore Orioles nipped the Milwaukee Brewers 1-0, the Chicago White Sox downed the Kansas City Royals 7-3, the Detroit Tigers trimmed the Cleveland Indians 6-2 and the Minnesota Twins trounced the California Angels 7-1.

Medich has won three in a row — two of them shutouts — since losing on opening day. He was locked in a scoreless duel with Rick Wise until Bobby Bonds delivered a run-scoring single in the sixth inning. Bonds homered in the eighth following a suicide squeeze bunt by Elliott Maddox and New York added two more runs in the ninth on Chris Chambliss' RBI double and Sandy Alomar's triple.

"The reason he's pitching so well is that he's trying to make enough money to pay the first premium on his malpractice insurance," quipped coach Dick Howser.

Rangers 2, A's 1
Ferguson Jenkins stopped Oakland on two hits and Tom Grieve tripled home the winning run in the fourth inning as Texas ended the A's four-game winning streak. Grieve's triple off Ken Holtzman scored Jim Fregosi, who led off with a double.

The only Oakland hits were a second-inning homer and seventh-inning single by designated hitter Billy Williams. Jenkins' long-time former teammate with the Chicago Cubs.

The Rangers, who had dropped four in a row, scored an unearned run in the first inning on Willie Davis' single, a hit batsman and an error by shortstop Bert Campaneris.

Orioles 1, Brewers 0
Bobby Grich's home run with two out in the eighth inning produced the only run while

Jim Palmer pitched a six-hitter for his second shutout of the season. Grich slammed his second home run of the year into the left field stands after Milwaukee starter Pete Broberg had fanned the first two batters in the eighth.

White Sox 7, Royals 3
Coming off a bout with the flu which sidelined him for 10 days as a starter, Jim Kaat got well in a hurry by pitching the White Sox to their first victory in six starts with seventh-inning help from Terry Forster. It also ended Kansas City's five-game winning streak and was Kaat's ninth consecutive victory since last Sept. 4.

He was staked to a big early lead when the Sox hammered Bruce Dal Canton for five runs in the first two innings and then salted the game away on Brian Downing's two-run homer off Marty Pattin in the third.

Tigers 6, Indians 2
Ron LeFlore's scratch double keyed a five-run fifth inning as Detroit rallied behind Lerrin LaGrow's six-hit pitching. Cleveland's Gaylord Perry was breezing along with a 2-0 lead at the time of LeFlore's hit, a two-out fly that popped out of center fielder George Hendrick's glove after a long run. It scored Dan Meyer and Art James, who had singled. Gary Sutherland singled home another run and Willie Horton followed with a two-run homer.

Twins 7, Angels 1
Vic Albury stopped California on six hits and Minnesota scored four times in the fourth inning. Albury, the eighth lefthander to start against California in 12 games, lost his shutout in the seventh on an unearned run.

The Twins took advantage of an error by California shortstop Orlando Ramirez to stage their big inning, which was capped by Craig Kusick's two-run single. The Twins then chased Chuck Dobson with three runs in the eighth, two on Bob Darwin's homer.

Williamston Girls In Romp

WILLIAMSTON—Williamston's unbeaten Lady Tigers roared to an 18-7 victory over Bertie yesterday in softball.

The win moved Williamston to a 4-0 overall mark and a 3-0 conference record.

Bertie scored first, getting two runs in the first inning. Alston reached on a fielder's choice and moved up on an error. Capehart singled and Powell's hit scored Alston. Rascoe singled and Cherry got a hit to score Capehart.

But Williamston came roaring back scoring 11 runs in the bottom of the first to put the game out of reach. Belinda Spruill led off with a single and Debra Rogerson got a hit. Valeria Barnhill tripled in both runners. Cynthia Tyre slapped a home run, clearing the bases and making it 4-0. Sissy Taylor kept it going with a double and she scored on Debra Bell's double. Cindy Cullipher singled and Terry Hopkins reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Bell, but getting Cullipher at second. Cynthia Rogerson singled and Spruill got another hit. Debra Rogerson singled in Hopkins and Cynthia Rogerson. Barnhill then singled and a three-base error allowed everyone to come around, making it 11-2.

Bertie went on to add two in the sixth and three in the seventh. Williamston picked up two more in the second and five in the sixth.

Williamston will travel to Rocky Mount on Friday.

BETHEL — J.D. Vernelson dropped in a Texas league single to score two runs in the bottom of the sixth and the North Pitt Panthers hung on to win their first game of the season, 6-4, over Farmville Central, yesterday.

Not only was the victory the first of the year for the Panthers, it broke a very long losing streak that extended back a couple years. They had to work hard to keep the win as the Jaguars got the tying run on in the top of the seventh but a pop-up ended the game.

Jay Bedsworth went all the way for the Panthers on some shaky pitching. He fanned just one batter, walked four and gave up four hits. Tony Oakley was the loser in relief of starter David Rigbsy. Rigbsy went five innings striking out three and walking two while giving up five North Pitt hits. Oakley gave up the winning runs, both earned, two hits and two walks and rounding out his string of two's, fanned two batters.

North Pitt fell behind by one right at the outset but they rallied for three in the third to tie in front. Farmville Central tied it with a pair of scores in the fifth and tied it again 5-5 in the sixth. Vernelson's bases-loaded bloop hit to right won it in the last of the sixth.

Noel Whitley, under the threat of losing his moderately long hair if he did not get a hit, did one better slapping two for the Panthers. Vernelson and Aubrey Wynne also had two hits each.

Scott Evans led off the game with a walk for the Jaguars and an error on his attempted steal let him go to third. The ball got by the centerfielder as well and Evans scored.

After that, Bedsworth pitched no-hit ball until the fifth.

Meanwhile, his teammates had given him a two-run lead. With two out in the third, Whitley and Vernelson both singled. An error on the relay of Vernelson's hit let Whitley score. Wynne brought in a second run with a double to right center and Wynne came over on a double by Willy Briley.

In the fifth, Bedsworth gave up a triple to Emerson Hobgood. Rigbsy walked and both runners scored on a double by David Joyner.

The Panthers regained the lead in the bottom of the fifth as Whitley walked, took third on an error as Vernelson reached on a fielder's choice and scored on a ground out.

The game was retied in the sixth. Tommy Cobb led off reaching on an error and Jaguar David Winborn brought him around with a base hit.

But after that, it was North Pitt's game. Eddie Hemingway led off the last of the sixth with a walk and was sacrificed to second. Roy Briley walked and Whitley's single loaded the bases. Vernelson's pop-up behind second base fell in and Hemingway and Briley both scored.

The Jaguars threatened to come back in the seventh as Don Holloman beat out an infield hit and Mike Jenkins singled to left.

Tigers Defeated

PLYMOUTH—Plymouth High School rolled to an 8-1 victory over the Williamston High School tennis team yesterday.

The lone Williamston victory came in the number three doubles. Otherwise, the Tigers were shut out except for taking one set in the number one singles.

Williamston is now 2-9 on the season. They are next in action on Thursday, traveling to Washington.

Summary:
Barry Harris (P) defeated Jim Manning, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2.

Brian Williams (P) defeated Terry Griffin, 6-2, 6-3.

Tom Coulter (P) defeated Parnaz Green, 6-2, 6-1.

Bobby Outten (P) defeated Steve Dickens, 6-1, 7-5.

Dana Outten (P) defeated Frankie Norris, 6-1, 6-4.

Ronnie Lewis (P) defeated Lin Boyd, 6-1, 6-1.

Harris-Mike Griffin (P) defeated Manning-Griffin, 8-7.

Outten-Outten (P) defeated Green-Norris, 8-1.

Dickens-Boys (W) defeated Clyde Naylor-Chris Frank, 8-5.

Aycock Nips Ayden-Grifton

LITTLEFIELD — Charles B. Aycock High School nipped Ayden-Grifton in an eight-inning Eastern Carolina Conference baseball game last night, 8-7.

Aycock scored first, getting a run in the first inning. Jay Edgerton walked and stole second. He scored on Ricky Cannon's double.

The Falcons added three more in the second. Randy Pittman singled and Jackie Dunn got a hit. Gary Davis' hit brought in Pittman and Edgerton sacrificed in Dunn. Cannon hit a sacrifice fly to score Davis for a 4-0 lead.

Ayden-Grifton got its first run in the fourth when Vern Davenport hit a solo home run.

Aycock came up with three more in the sixth. Dunn doubled and scored on Davis' single. Davis stole up, then scored when Finch doubled. Cannon singled in Finch for a 7-1 lead.

Ayden-Grifton got another run in the bottom of the sixth. Davenport walked and Steve Tripp singled. Randy Nelson got a hit and an error on the play let Davenport score.

The Chargers then rallied for five in the seventh to tie it at 6-6. Eddie Taylor and Paul Ricciarelli both singled. Steve Nobles got a hit, scoring Taylor. Davenport walked and Bill Wilson singled in Ricciarelli. Tripp singled to score both Nobles and Davenport. Paul Setliff reached on an error, allowing Wilson to score.

But Aycock came back with the winning run in the eighth. Edgerton singled and was sacrificed up. Cannon then singled him in.

Ayden-Grifton is now 5-3 in the league and 7-5 overall. They will travel to Southern Wayne tonight.

Bear Grass In Win Over Aurora

AURORA — Bear Grass High School rolled to a 9-0 victory over Aurora yesterday in the Beaufort-Hyde-Martin Conference.

The game was scoreless until the third when the Bears put the game away with five big runs. Jerry Wynne singled and stole second. Jimmy Wynne singled to score him, and moved up on the throw to the plate. Mark Gardner singled and that scored Wynne. Danny Peaks reached on an error, scoring Gardner. Ray Wynne singled in Peaks, and Keith Williams got a hit. Richard Harrison was safe on an error, allowing Wynne to score for the 5-0 lead.

The Bears picked up two more in the fourth. Jerry Wynne doubled and scored when Peaks reached on an error. Ray Wynne also was safe on an error, allowing Peaks to score for a 7-0 lead.

One more run came over in the fifth. Alton Cratt singled and moved up on an error on the play. Junie Wynne reached on an error, scoring him.

In the sixth, the Bears closed it out with one more run. Terry Wombleton walked and Williams reached on a fielder's choice. Harrison was safe on an error, scoring Wombleton.

Mark Gardner tossed a two-hitter in the shutout. He struck out six and walked none.

Bear Grass, now 5-3 in the league and 7-3 overall, will host Pantego on Thursday.

Southern Wayne Nips Vikings

DUDLEY — Southern Wayne High School spotted D. H. Conley a three-run lead in the first inning, then came back to win, 4-3, in eight innings last night.

Conley got all of its scoring in the first frame. Clennel Streeter doubled and took third on a wild pitch. Donnie Cox walked and also stole up. Randy Adams singled in Streeter and a double by Baron Tyson brought in both Cox and Adams.

The Vikings held a 3-0 lead until the fourth when Southern cut the margin to 3-2. Craig Clark doubled and Nelson Smith reached on an error. Keith Neal also was safe on an error, allowing Clark to score. Haywood Outlaw then singled in Smith.

The tying run came over in the seventh. Ron Pettitier singled and scored when Clark reached on an error.

The game-winning run scored in the eighth. Smith singled and was sacrificed up. Brad Hood then singled to score Smith, ending the game.

The loss dropped Conley to 3-5 in the league. They are 4-6 overall. The Vikings will play host to Farmville Central today.

Houston Fans Help Boston Take Win Over Rockets; Warriors Win

By The Associated Press
Fans are becoming more and more important as the National Basketball Association playoffs progress. They meant victory Tuesday night to the Boston Celtics and Golden State Warriors.

It was unfortunate for the Houston Rockets, however, that it was their own fans who helped the Celtics score a 122-117 triumph. The decision gave Boston a 3-1 edge in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference semifinal series.

The Rockets had whittled down a big Celtics' lead as the fourth-quarter minutes ticked away. When Houston center Kevin Kunnert was called for a loose-ball foul, the throng erupted.

They threw ice, paper cups and even a pair of men's shoes as the Celtics scattered for cover. Boston Coach Tommy Heinsohn got conked with an unidentified flying object, but didn't seem to mind after the triumph.

"I am ashamed that the fans have to be the story of the game," Heinsohn said. "It was a terrible display."

"But I'll tell you one thing: Houston's crowd helped us out. It took about five minutes to get the court cleared and we all got a nice little rest."

Apparently, the rest benefited the Celtics more than the Rockets, who face extinction Thursday at Boston. Rest also helped the Warriors' Rick Barry, who watched most of the third period as his teammates blitzed the Seattle SuperSonics 124-100 to take a 3-2 lead in that Western Conference semifinal.

Those were the only playoff games scheduled Tuesday night. The other Eastern Conference semifinal resumes tonight with the Washington Bullets taking their 3-2 lead to Buffalo, while in the West the Chicago Bulls lead the Kansas City-Omaha Kings by the same margin entering tonight's sixth game.

Dave Cowens and Don Chaney finished with 29 points as Boston survived 35 points by Houston's Calvin Murphy and 31 more by Mike Newlin. The Celtics built a big lead on a second period in which they shot 52 per cent from the field, made all six free throws and outrebounded the Rockets 17-8.

Barry, the league's second-leading regular-season scorer, left the game with weary legs early in the third period. And he said, "We played a lot more aggressively when I was out of there."

The Warriors increased their lead from 16 to 27 points with Barry on the bench, a fact that impressed Coach Al Attles. Also impressive was the performance of Barry's substitute, Keith Wilkes, who scored a game-high 24 points and grabbed eight of his team's 62 rebounds.

"The Sonics have their backs against the wall now," said Wilkes, the NBA Rookie of the Year. "They know it and we know it. They're going to be tough in that next game."

Attles had a secret thought about handling the Sonics in what could be the clincher Thursday night. "I'd like to bring 12,787 of our fans with us," he said.

Local Boy Makes Good, But It Costs Local Team As Phils Win

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
The headline could read, "Local Boy Makes Good." ... which would be fine if he were on the local team.

But Greg Luzinski, who spent lots of time in his early years in the stands at Chicago's Wrigley Field, is with Philadelphia now. And on Tuesday, the one-time kid from suburban Niles, Ill., pleased a few fans in the stands, to the dismay of the majority.

He drove in three runs with three singles, leading the Phillies to a 7-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

In Tuesday's other National League games, the New York Mets beat St. Louis 9-5, Montreal edged Pittsburgh 4-3, Atlanta defeated Los Angeles 3-2, San Diego downed Houston 2-1 and Cincinnati nipped San Francisco 5-4.

"I don't let the fact that I'm a local boy bother me," said Luzinski. "I refuse to allow added pressure to build up because I might have friends or relatives in the stands."

"I've always liked to hit in this park." The benefactor of Luzinski's hitting was Wayne Twitchell, who got only his second career victory over the Cubs, with eight-inning relief help from Gene Garber.

In the second inning, Rick Monday tripled and one out later Twitchell walked three straight batters to force in a run.

Mets 9, Cardinals 5

When the Mets traded for centerfielder Del Unser, they were after his glove. But he brought along a pretty hot bat, too. His three hits, one of them a two-run single, in the triumph over St. Louis, raised Unser's average to .409.

The Mets pounded out 10 other hits that included two doubles by Felix Millan and a single and double by Rusty Staub.

Expos 4, Pirates 3

Unbeaten Dave McNally, in his Jarry Park debut, won his third game of the season for Montreal, with the help of a sixth-inning passed ball by Pittsburgh catcher Manny Sanguen that let Pepe Mangual scoot home with the tie-breaking run.

But McNally struggled with control problems through most of the frigid day and finally needed ninth-inning relief help from Dale Murray after Duffy Dyer hit a one-out triple.

Braves 3, Dodgers 2
Ralph Garr greeted reliever

Jim Brewer with a bases-loaded ground-rule double for two seventh-inning runs that vaulted the Braves over Los Angeles.

"I'm glad that the hit I got helped us win," said Garr, who was 3-for-23 at the plate prior to the double.

Padres 2, Astros 1
Willie McCovey's homer opened the second inning and Tito Fuentes' run-scoring single ended it as the Padres, behind Dan Spillner's four-hitter, scored their eighth victory in 11 games and handed Houston its ninth loss in the last 10.

Rocky Mount Tops Aycock

ROCKY MOUNT — Rocky Mount Junior High School handed E.B. Aycock its fourth loss in six starts yesterday, taking a 5-1 decision.

Rocky Mount scored early, then padded its lead with what proved to be the decisive runs in the third. Aycock's lone run came in the final inning.

The first Rocky Mount run came in the first. Hugh Wilkin reached on a fielder's choice then stole second. Gaither Weeks reached on an error, allowing Wilkin to score.

It remained 1-0 until the third when Rocky Mount scored its other four runs. Jacob Lassiter reached on a fielder's choice and Wilkin walked. Weeks singled, scoring Lassiter. Robbie Coats then reached on an error, allowing both Wilkin and courtesy runner Mike Lewis to score. Greg Clark grounded out, advancing Coats, and he came the rest of the way on an error.

The lone Aycock run came over in the seventh. Michael Shank walked and Joey Downing singled. Jerome Ross doubled, driving in Shank with the run.

Aycock returns to action on Friday, playing host to Nash Central.

Cindy Hill Aiming For North-South's Crown

By KEN ALYTA
AP Sports Writer
PINEHURST, N. C. (AP) — "Winning the National Amateur last summer, especially after losing twice in the finals, was a big confidence-builder for me," observed Cindy Hill before setting out in today's second round of the North and South Amateur golf tournament.

At 27, she has become one of the premier woman golfers in the nation. She had been ranked among the best in the country since the decade began, but usually fell just short of the top plateau.

She was national runnerup in 1970, and again in 1972. Finally, last year, she won the title, dethroning the defending champion, Carol Semple, in the finals. Cindy then went on to lead the U. S. team to victory in the World Amateur team championship in the Dominican Republic last October.

Then she went back to her Colorado Springs, Colo., job in the women's sports apparel shop operated by golfers Barbara McIntire and Judy Bell.

Cindy slipped down to Florida in January to win a couple of the so-called grapefruit circuit tournaments, then returned to her job.

Last week, she went back to Florida for several days of preparation for the 73rd North and South Amateur at the Pinehurst Country Club. The work has been paying off.

After shooting women's par of 74 to win the qualifying medal over the No. 2 course, shortened to 5,900 yards, she again led the field in Tuesday's first round of match play. Her two under par was the sharpest shooting of the 16 matches as she beat a former champion and her Curtis Cup teammate of last summer, Beth Barry of Mobile, Ala., 3 and 2.

Her newfound consistently strong play resulted from, as Cindy put it, "swing changes, a different attitude and better putting."

She headed the lower half of the draw going into today's schedule of two rounds that will set up semifinals Thursday. The lower half of the draw produced the sharpest first round play.

Five of the eight lower bracket winners shot par golf or better.

In the upper half only defending champion and two-time winner Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit of Ontario, Canada, managed to shoot par golf. She scored a 4 and 2 victory over 17-year-old Sally Voss of Bethesda, Md., who threw a birdie at the little Canadian to start the match.

Other upper half victors included top contenders Mrs. Judie Oliver of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Sue Higgs of Regina,

Can., Mrs. Lida Kinnicutt of Bloomfield, Conn., and Mrs. Nancy Roth Syms of Colorado Springs, Colo., a two-time winner here.

Mrs. Higgs nipped Bonnie Lauer of Orchard Lake, Mich., a Curtis Cup player last year, 2 up, and Mrs. Kinnicutt upset Nancy Hager of Dallas, Tex., 4 and 3, winning the last three holes, and Mrs. Oliver ousted two-time runnerup Connie Day of Cleveland, Tenn., 3 and 2, in major first round matches.

In the lower half, still around for today's play were Lancy Smith of Snyder, N. Y.; Connie Chillemi, 17-year-old long hitter from Naples, Fla.; and Mrs. Nancy Fitzgerald of Indianapolis, who, at 30, is expecting her third child in July.

'Cats In Surprise

COLUMBIA (AP)—Davidson rode the crest of six consecutive hits in the sixth inning Tuesday night and Joe Tew survived a 13-hit Gamecock attack as the Wildcats upset the fifth-ranked Gamecocks 4-3 in a college baseball game.

South Carolina second baseman Jeff Grantz, who had three hits during the game, clubbed a two-run homer in the fourth inning to give the Gamecocks a 2-0 lead.

However, in the Davidson sixth, Gary Pomeroy led off with a single and George Weiker followed with his ninth home run of the year.

Mark Rodman and Ed Willingham then followed with singles and Gamecock starter Mike Cromer was replaced by Chuck McLean.

Billy Lynn beat out a bunt to load the bases and Bill Todd doubled home two runs before McLean halted the uprising.

The loss brings South Carolina's record to 34-4 and Davidson advances to 17-14.

Johnson Named Coach Of Year

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Life has been full of surprises for Phil Johnson, head coach of the Kansas City-Omaha Kings, who once hoped to be coach of a high school basketball team in Utah by the time he was 45.

Walter Kennedy, commissioner of the National Basketball Association, announced Tuesday that Johnson had received 21 of 54 votes from a panel of sports writers and broadcasters in the league's 18 franchise cities, making Johnson NBA Coach of the Year.

Al Attles of Golden State was second with 10 votes, followed by K.C. Jones of Washington with five and Bill Fitch of Cleveland and Bill van Breda Kolff of New Orleans, four each.

Johnson, 33, who pulled the Kings from abject disorganization and helped them into the playoffs, said, "It's really a surprise. I thought there were some other people who would get it. But individual honors come from winning. No. 1, the players have played well. No one person is responsible."

Johnson reached the basketball heights in November, 1973 by accepting the Kings' offer to become their coach.

At the time, the Kings had an eight-game losing streak, the worst record in the NBA, 6-18, and the demoralization natural after the unexpected resignation of Bob Cousy.

At the news conference when Johnson's selection was announced, Joe Axelson, Kings' president and general manager, said, "I have told him that winning is secondary to getting us organized again and on the right track. He is under no pressure whatsoever to produce any certain record this year."

Johnson's wife, Ann, said, "Our biggest dream then was for Phil ... by the time he was 45 ... to be a head coach in a double-A school in Utah."

Knight Paces Pacers To Win Over Nuggets

By JOHN MOSSMAN
AP Sports Writer

DENVER (AP) — Rookie Billy Knight hadn't scored as many as 44 points in a game since high school, so he admitted being somewhat surprised at achieving that feat amid the pressure of the playoffs.

The 6-foot-7 forward from Pitt, capitalizing on the extra attention Denver was giving to Indiana's leading scorer, George McGinnis, helped the Pacers to a 131-124 victory Tuesday night that squared their American Basketball Association series with the Nuggets at 1-1.

St. Louis is at Kentucky tonight in the second game of their Eastern Division finals with Kentucky leading the best-of-seven series 1-0.

"Denver was double-and triple-teaming George," Knight explained, "and when that happens he looks for me. I got a lot of layups as a result."

Knight, who during one stretch hit 10 straight shots, made good on 18 of his 22 field goal attempts and eight of nine free throws.

The playoff series resumes Thursday night in Indianapolis. Game No. 4 is scheduled for Friday night, also in Indianapolis.

After a seesaw first quarter, the Pacers accounted for 13 of the 15 points scored in a three-minute span of the second quarter, moving to a 40-34 advantage.

With Knight, McGinnis and guard Bill Keller doing most of the damage, Indiana took a 12-point lead into the dressing room.

Early in the third period, McGinnis scored twice and assisted on two others as Indiana reeled off eight straight points for an 18-point bulge with 10 minutes left in the quarter.

Denver gnawed away at the deficit, pulling within five points late in the quarter, but got no closer than that until the final period as the Pacers matched each Nugget basket.

The Nuggets hit four straight three-point baskets, three by Mack Calvin, to move within 127-124 with 42 seconds left, but Indiana got the final four points of the contest.

It was only Denver's third loss at home in 47 regular-season and playoff games.

Keller added 21 points for the Pacers, while McGinnis and Len Elmore scored 18 apiece. McGinnis also had a game-high nine assists.

Denver was led by Ralph Simpson with 29 points and Mike Green with 22.

Forego, the 1974 thoroughbred of the year, is trained by veteran Sherrill Ward.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — "I went to raise my voice against Richard Nixon, to let him know we were still here," a young carpenter has testified in a $1.2 million suit growing of Nineteen young people, some of them members of the Red Hornet May Day Tribe, a local group to which the witness belongs, have brought suit with the help of the American Civil Liberties Union.

"My purpose was to confront Richard Nixon" the witness

Robert Binner, 26, of Charlotte, testified in U.S. District Court Tuesday.

The public rally at the Charlotte Coliseum on Oct. 15, 1971, was on behalf of pro-segregationist Bill

The plaintiffs claim their civil rights were violated because they were excluded because of their long hair or unconventional dress.

The defendants include H. R. Haldeman, former White House chief of staff, who allegedly approved a memo stating that dissenters would be kept from rallies at which Nixon was to appear. Haldeman came to Charlotte last year and gave a deposition. There is no indication he will appear at the trial.

Other defendants include 12 Secret Service employees, three White House advance men, eight Charlotte policemen, and four members of a Charlotte chapter of the Veterans of Foreign Wars who served as ushers at the rally.

Binner said he was denied admission by a doorkeeper who accused him of having a counterfeit ticket.

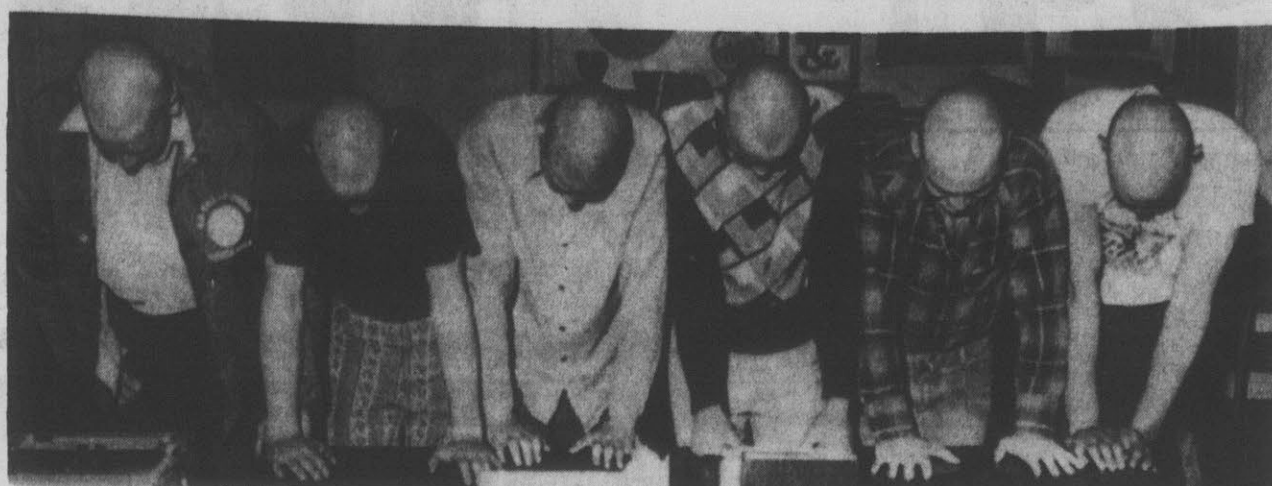

A defense lawyer has acknowledged that the tickets weren't counterfeit, but that this contention was used to keep some persons out of the coliseum. The defense has said this was necessary to prevent an expected disruption of the rally.

Schools See Bankruptcy

By ED SHAFER
Associated Press Writer
EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — Poverty, population decline and corruption threaten to strangle this Mississippi River city's major hope for its future — the education of its children.

School District 189, with 20,000 students the fifth-largest in Illinois, is on the threshold of political and financial bankruptcy and may soon become the first in Illinois ever taken over by state authorities.

The decay of the school parallels the decay of the city itself. Factories and businesses have closed, 10,000 jobs have vanished in a decade, the crime rate is one of the highest in the nation, and the downtown area is a collection of vacant lots and decaying buildings.

Abandoned warehouses dot the East St. Louis shoreline, directly across the Mississippi River from the giant Gateway Arch that symbolizes urban revival for St. Louis, Mo.

In this "backyard city," however, less than 50 per cent of the 20,000 buildings are classified by the Building Department as sound for occupancy. There is no new construction. Empty, partially destroyed buildings are everywhere.

An official in the office of Dr. Joseph Cronin, state superintendent of education, says: "We are checking to see if we have the authority to take over the schools. We assume that we could on an emergency basis, forcing a court test of our authority."

Meanwhile, Cronin is sending 10 state specialists in education and finance and management to prop up the school district. The state "will pump millions of additional dollars into East St. Louis in the next two years," Cronin says.

Four of the school district's seven board members — Charles Merritts, Fred Kimbrough, Harry Tharp and Roosevelt Peabody — have been indicted on federal charges of extortion, fraud and perjury in connection with alleged kickbacks on contracts let by the board.

Merritts is a businessman who has grown powerful recently in Democratic politics in St. Clair County. Kimbrough is a former black activist who until recently was a high official of the state community college. That school also is being investigated by federal officials.

Peabody is director of the St. Clair County Economic Opportunity Commission and Tharp is city building commissioner.

Merritts, the school board president, has also been charged with offering an undercover FBI agent $2,500 to murder Clyde C. Jordan, a fellow board member who had been critical of the Merritts administration.

Until the 1950s, East St. Louis was a thriving city of more than 82,000 people about half black and half white.

William E. Mason, the school system superintendent, won election this month as mayor of East St. Louis. Mason ran as a Democrat and defeated Mayor James E. Williams who had sought re-election on a reform ticket. But the change in administrations is not likely to solve the school system's problems.

The teachers, demanding salary increases, have been promised one for next year, although school officials say they don't know where the extra money will come from. The teachers now average less than $10,000 annually.

One city official, Commissioner Elmo Bush, said he believes a bigger problem is the lack of teaching supplies.

"How can the teachers teach art without art supplies, shop without tools or chemistry or physics without materials for experiments? It's just a shame," said Bush, who ran for mayor in this month's election.

Rich Roth, vice president of the East St. Louis teachers union, says he hears many complaints about the schools' physical plants.

"Teachers in some of the schools tell us the buildings are infested with rats and insects," Roth said. "And in some places paint and plaster are falling from the walls and the plumbing doesn't work. How can you teach in an environment like that?"

Age and increasing vandalism have taken their toll on many of the buildings. Several schools were closed during periods of cold weather this year because the heating plants didn't work.

Voters approved $8 million in bond issues for the schools during the 1960s, but, because of the city's unfavorable financial condition, buyers cannot be found for the bonds.

State officials are reluctant to commit themselves to state takeover of the system. "It would have to get pretty bad before we did that," Cronin said.

But officials agree that another state option, stripping the district of its accreditation and cutting off state funds, would not solve the problem either.

"I would hate to say it's gotten to that point," said Inez Galvin, local PTA president, commenting on state takeover. "But if that's the only way to get things moving again, I say do it."

Pessimists, and there are many here, believe there is little to be done for the schools as long as the city itself is depressed.

The once-bustling central business district is sparsely dotted with stores now. Residential neighborhoods neatly kept 10 years ago have a bombed-out look. Random vandalism is evident.

"It doesn't take long," said one former resident. "Within days after people move out a house is stripped of wiring, plumbing fixtures, anything that can be sold. From then on it's just a matter of time before a fire is started and the place burns to the ground. Some of those old brick homes could never be replaced."

East St. Louis, designated an All-American City in the 1950s, seems locked into a downward spiral, and taking its children with it.

Chapel May Join London Bridge

LONDON (AP) — The famous London chapel of Methodist pioneer John Wesley could be shipped to the United States if British Methodists cannot restore it, suggests the Rev. A. Stanley Jones of Doncaster, Yorkshire.

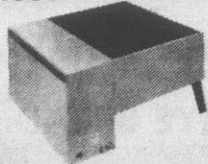

Despite an appeal to Americans to contribute to the cost of renovating the 18th-century building in City Road, London, Methodists are still uncertain the job can be done. In a letter to the Methodist Recorder weekly, Mr. Jones said that the money raised in the U.S. might be used to transport the building to America so that it can be reconstructed at a suitable center there, as was done with London Bridge.

However, another Methodist minister, the Rev. Courtney Johns, wrote that the chapel "is a part of our English heritage and should be preserved as such."

Mt. Everest Holds Allure

MT. EVEREST—Porters move up the "trough" between large ice pinnacles. The rather ordinary looking mass of rock in the distance is the North Peak of Mt. Everest. (UPI Photo)

By BHOLA RANA
KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI) — Mt. Everest has been conquered several times but it remains the biggest attraction for climbers throughout the world.

Its sheer, dizzying height, reaching nearly six miles into the sky, makes Everest a mountaineer's dream.

More than two dozen persons have sacrificed their lives in the past two decades in attempts to acquire the fame of conquering Everest.

The Nepal foreign ministry that grants permission for expeditions to the 29,028-foot peak, the world's tallest, says firm applications for climbing permits have been received for expeditions planned up to 1981.

Currently, an all-woman expedition from Japan is making the first female bid to conquer the peak.

In the autumn, noted British climber Chris Bonington will lead a British expedition in the hope of putting the first Briton on the summit.

The peak was discovered by Westerners in the middle of the last century by an Englishman and the first successful expedition in 1953 was from Britain. However, the two men from the team who climbed it were New Zealand's Sir Edmund Hillary and Nepal's Tenzing Norkay.

The 1953 conquest of Everest was to be a gift to Queen Elizabeth II on her coronation. Both Hillary and team leader John Hunt were knighted by the queen.

After 1953, expeditions from Switzerland, the United States, India, Japan and Italy have put more than two dozen climbers atop the summit.

China claims one of its expeditions climbed the peak from the Chinese route in 1955 but international climbers have rejected the claim.

Westerners can approach Everest only from Nepal since China has closed its route through Tibet.

Everest, like other Himalayan peaks, also brings in much-needed foreign exchange for Nepal.

The foreign ministry charges a royalty fee of $1,000 for an Everest expedition. Such treks also cost between $80,000 to $100,000 to hire porters and Sherpa guides and buy equipment that is normally left behind after the expedition.

Mountaineers are looking for new Everest challenges. The traditional South Col route to the top is already considered too easy.

A French team last year tried to make a summit assault without oxygen but gave up after an avalanche killed one of its members and five Sherpas. In the spring of 1971, a Japanese climber attempted to ski down from the summit and barely escaped with his life.

Although it has been tried four times, Everest has not been scaled via the southwestern slope, considered the most hazardous because of the constant danger of avalanches and a vertical rock face of more than 1,000 feet.

Only two Americans have so far succeeded in climbing Everest through the west ridge. The climbers performed the feat in 1963 and later came down the south side, thus also achieving the first traverse of a major Himalayan peak. One of the climbers, Dr. Willi Unsoeld, lost his toes to frostbite.

Everest becomes practically invincible in winter because of extreme cold, but two Japanese made a winter trek to the top in 1973. The climbers spent an entire night slapping each other's faces to keep awake after they came down from the summit. One of them also lost his toes to frostbite.

Day To Honor Our War Dead

CHICAGO (AP) — Though no one knows when Memorial Day, often called Decoration Day, originated, it is believed to have been first observed by grieving Southern women during the Civil War. The women, says The World Book Encyclopedia, chose May 30 to decorate the graves of both Union and Confederate soldiers.

Now, Americans observe this national holiday to honor those who lost their lives in all the country's later wars, including the Spanish American War (1898-1899), World War I (1917-1918), World War II (1941-1945), the Korean War (1950-1953) and the Vietnam War.

Mild Praise By Iowa Farmers

DES MOINES (AP) — A recent poll of Iowa farmers by Wallaces Farmer, a rural magazine, shows that President Gerald Ford is mildly approved of or undecided upon by about the same number.

The question: "In general, do you approve or disapprove of the job Gerald Ford is doing as President of the U.S.?" Thirty-seven per cent mildly approve. Thirty-six per cent are neutral or undecided. Fifteen per cent mildly disapprove, 6 per cent strongly disapprove and 6 per cent strongly approve.

'Special Olympics' To Begin Thursday Morn

Beginning with a Parade of Athletes, the second Annual Greenville Special Olympics Track meet will open at 9:30 a.m. on Thursday, April 24. The meets, sponsored by the Pitt County Association for Retarded Citizens, the Greenville Jaycees and the Greenville Recreation Department, will have more than 200 special needs children participating.

The young people, all from be performing in. Special Olympic events such as the softball throw, the fifty yard dash, high jump, long jump, shot put, broad jump and the 220-yard dash. The meet will take place at the ECU track on Charles Boulevard across from Stratford Arms.

Special Olympics is a year round athletic training and competition program for handicapped children. It began in 1968 in Chicago and is sponsored nationally by the Joseph F. Kennedy Foundation. There are over 300,000 Special Olympics athletes in the United States.

Miss Alice Keene, coordinator of the Special Olympics program remarked that "the Special Olympics is a program which needs much community support. Right now the Greenville Special Olympics is supported by a number of local organizations and agencies, but we can always use more support."

Present supporters in the local area include, in addition to the sponsoring agents, East Carolina University, Knights of Columbus, the Student Council for Exceptional Children, Greenville and Pitt County Schools, McDonalds and Coca-Cola.

Track events at the annual meet Thursday will be run by physical education students from ECU under the direction of Miss Catherine Bolton.

In the first annual Greenville Special Olympics held last spring, 45 young people competed with 35 of that number going on to Raleigh for the statewide competition.

"This year," Miss Keene pointed out, "the program has mushroomed to the extent that over 200 young people from the Pitt County area who will be taking part.

"One of the ways we hope the public will show it's support," she added, "is to come out and see these young people perform and to root for them."

The events will take place from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. with about an hour's lunch break at noon.

Winners in Thursday's event will be eligible to compete in the Area Special Olympics to be held in Wilson on Friday, May 2. In turn, area winners will be eligible for selection to represent their towns and counties in the State Meet in Raleigh for the three-day period May 23-25.

Registration of athletes begins at 8:30 a.m., one hour prior to the opening Parade of Athletes.

Ford Hosted 6 Secretaries

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford took six White House secretaries to lunch in honor of National Secretaries Week.

Joining the President Tuesday were Helen Donaldson, who has served under six presidents; Dorothy Downton and Mildred Leonard, who have served with Ford for eight and 20 years, respectively; Mary Rawlin, who has served under five presidents; Ann Whitman, a member of Vice President Rockefeller's staff; and Nell Yates, a White House staffer since the Eisenhower administration.

Set Business Meet Saturday

The business meeting of Brown Chapel Holiness Church, held on the fourth Saturday at 12 noon, will take place at 3 p.m. Saturday.

Elder C.D. McNeill of Kinston will be the guest speaker for the youth service Saturday night at eight o'clock.

Blind Girl Member Of Fencing Club

BY WARREN TALBOT
PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) —
When Maryanne Masterson appeared at Marvel Gymnasium for a tryout with the Brown University Fencing Club, the only thing setting her apart from the other girls was her seeing-eye dog.

Maryanne, 20, has been blind since birth but that has not stopped her from becoming an intercollegiate fencer.

Her coach, Duncan Smith, says she probably never will be a champion in a sport that depends so much on sight. "But she's a champion already in her own right and has the admiration of her teammates and opponents."

She took up the sport in 1971 to improve her coordination while a student at St. Paul's Rehabilitation Center in Newton, Mass. Following high school she enrolled at Providence College, which does not have a fencing program.

After being turned down by several other university fencing teams, she turned to Smith, coach of the Brown University Fencing Club, a coed organization not supported by university funds. Smith accepted her.

"I'm not a person who gives up easily," she said. "I feel that I am not attempting something which is beyond my reach. I'm doing something which is very much attainable."

"I know that my road is a difficult one. But by using the abilities that I'm sure I have, I know I can fence well enough so that my handicap won't make any difference."

Maryanne's seeing-eye dog is no longer allowed inside the gymnasium. "The only problem we had when Maryanne first joined us was that she brought along her dog," Smith said.
"Everything was okay until someone started fencing with her and then the dog became somewhat agitated. So we cut the dog from our squad."

At first most of her opponents were blindfolds as a concession to her handicap. Then on Feb.
24 the coach of the University of Rhode Island fencing team objected to putting the blind-folds on his women fencers.

It was on that day that Maryanne had her first intercollegiate meet against a sighted opponent. "I can't tell you how petrified I was. I had no idea where the other woman was. I lost all my bouts that day, but my coach told me I fenced really well. It won't matter to me anymore if my opponents wear a blindfold again. I have confidence now," she said.

In competition, Maryanne has a 6-5 record against blindfolded opponents but is winless in 10 matches against sighted opponents.

Smith said, "It's not her record that counts, because in a sense every time she makes a touch, she's had a victory." He said it is not the philosophy of the Brown Fencing Club to "win or else."

There are many blind fencers. But Smith says as far as he knows, Maryanne is the only one who does so on an intercollegiate level against sighted opponents. In Europe, fencing schools sharpen the skills of students by using blindfolds.

In fencing against a blindfolded opponent certain concessions are made. They are allowed to cross foils at the beginning of the match, allowing the blade contact necessary to know where each other is.

"If I'm to fence against sighted opponents, these concessions will not be made.
And it will be up to me to be aggressive and to force the blade contact," Maryanne said.

Penny Can Test The Tire Tread

WASHINGTON (AP) — A penny doesn't buy much these days, but it can insure your family's safety on the road, according to the Tire Retread Information Bureau.

The condition of a tire's tread is crucial for automobile safety.
To check the tread of your tires
try the penny test.

Insert the head of a penny upside down into the tire tread.
If the tip of the head shows, your tread rubber is low and it should be turned in. Tires with low tread are 44 times more likely to blow out during highway driving.

The only place in the world where Beardslee trout can be found is Lake Crescent in Olympic National Park in Washington state.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Avoid confusing conditions at all costs; be receptive to solid and secure plans, methods by means of which you can be successful. Evening favors social events, romantic happiness.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Cooperate more with loved one and don't expect to have your own way all the time. Be more generous with gifts. Show understanding to all.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make your abode more charming for greater happiness, better results in entertaining. Buy attractive clothing within your budget.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) See persons you like and enjoy pleasures together, have delightful conversations. Doing something thoughtful for mate brings more affection.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Doing more entertaining within the home is wise since it is safer and more enjoyable. Make small improvements to it first.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan early with congenials for entertainment later in the day. Handle business matters, correspond. Visits bring good results.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Do whatever will make your property more attractive and valuable. Shop around to avail yourself of real bargains. Think.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Planets favor you now, but don't be too forceful in dealing with others. Dress well. Take it easy tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) That puzzling situation can now be solved intelligently. Plan quicker future advancement and then put plan in operation in p.m.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Some interest needs the aid of a friend, but you have to explain it more thoroughly, or there is trouble later.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be conscientious in career matters. A higher-up is in a bad humor, so handle with kid gloves. Attend some nice social affair.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make plans for future; don't go off on any tangents that could spoil them. A new acquaintance can make helpful suggestions.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Keep promises made conscientiously for good results. It is vital to make relations with mate more ideal now. Act intelligently.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she can do much to make the lives of others happier, so slant the education along lines of entertainment, personal embellishment, art, the social amenities, and the like. Teach early not to be too fussy or others could resent this quality. Also teach while young the value of a dollar and how to budget wisely. A fine sport in this chart. Religion important here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

The bidding:

Pass Pass 1 ♠ Pass
1 NT Pass 4 ♠ Pass

Opening lead: Ace of ♠.

Even seemingly impregnable suit holdings are occasionally vulnerable to attack. Declarer failed to consider this possibility and suffered the consequences.

With only 16 HCP and a freak hand, South realized that it was most unlikely that an opening bid of one spade would be passed all round. North dredged up a one no trump response in the hope of getting to play at a low level in one of his suits, but began to regret the action when South leaped to four spades at his second turn.

West led the ace of diamonds and continued the suit. Declarer ruffed and, feeling very secure in his contract, led the king of spades. He was soon disillusioned. West won the ace of spades and, since South had not tried to ruff a club, West reasoned that declarer was not worried about that suit. Therefore, he shifted to a heart. Declarer made the technically correct play of the king, but East won the ace and returned his remaining diamond. Declarer's goose was cooked—whether he ruffed high or low, West's ten of trumps was promoted to a trick. Down one in a contract that should have been made.

Had declarer been aware of the potential threat to his trump holding, he could have taken a simple but effective countermeasure. A loser-on-loser play would have made the contract impregnable against any 3-2 trump break.

After ruffing the second round of diamonds, declarer should have entered dummy by ruffing one of his master clubs. Now, a diamond is led from the table and, instead of ruffing, declarer simply discards his heart loser. By exchanging his heart loser for a diamond loser, declarer breaks communications between the defenders' hands and neutralizes the threat of an overruff or a trump promotion play. Whatever the defenders do, declarer can get to his hand twice with relative safety to draw the outstanding trumps, thus making his contract.

SHOP GIVES GOODS TO NEEDY

NOTTINGHAM, England (AP) — Roman Catholic Bishop Edward Ellis has opened a shop which gives away goods to people in need. Help is not restricted to Catholics and no payment is asked for. In its first week the shop helped nearly 200 families.

The shop is run by the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, which makes appeals for goods, mostly furniture, clothing and crockery. The society first raised $1,200 for a year's rent of the premises and then another $1,680 for a pickup truck to collect goods.

STARTS FRIDAY "GONE WITH THE WEST" R

Britisher Is An Authority On Hickock

BY ROBERT MUSEL
LONDON (UPI) — Eternal vigilance being the price of the life he led, J.B. Hickock always played poker with his back to the wall. But on this day the wall seat in Saloon No. 10 was taken and the occupier was not about to give it up.

So, despite a premonition of death that made him extra cautious, Hickock took another seat — after all, the men playing with him were friends and a late-arriving kibitzer, Jack McCall, was the man he had staked to supper the night before.

There was some good-natured chaffing over one of the hands and, with everybody chipping in his own comment, no one seemed to notice that McCall had drawn a gun. The first they heard were the words, "Damn you, take that!" almost drowned out by the blast of a shot into the back of Hickock's head.

Killed instantly he fell forward, the cards he was holding slipping from his fingers — a pair of aces and a pair of eights, still known to poker players as "the dead man's hand."

So died Wild Bill Hickock, one of the greatest of the heroes of the Old West, in Deadwood, S. D., on Aug. 2, 1876, only a day after he wrote to his wife: "Agnes darling. If such should be we never meet again, while firing my last shot, I will gently breathe the name of my wife."

Hickock did not get a chance to fire that shot. McCall, who never revealed what led him to kill his benefactor of a few hours before, goes down in the lore of the West as a coward and assassin.

Yet, Joseph G. Rosa believes Hickock was suffering at the time from eye trouble so serious a gunman like McCall would have had an odds-on chance in a confrontation.

McCall was hanged for the murder on March 1, 1877.

Rosa probably knows as much about Wild Bill and his era as any man alive, and the remarkable thing is that he became an authority on the subject and wrote the definitive biography of Hickock before he ever left the shores of Britain. He is also the author of "Alias Jack McCall" and "The Gunfighter: Man or Myth?" an impressive study of the pistoleros and their weapons.

Now that he has finally visited the United States and talked to the Hickock family and others who knew or had letters and documents relating to the Old West, Rosa has had a new edition of "They Called Him Wild Bill" published by the University of Oklahoma Press.

"It was worth doing," he said, "because, despite all the millions of words that have been written, there are still new things to discover."

"We sometimes forget the actors in many of the dramas of the Old West lived till fairly recent times and there are people alive who heard the stories from their own lips. Two of the most controversial gunfights, for example, were the Earp-Clanton duel in Tombstone in 1881 and the Incident at Rock Creek with Wild Bill and Dave McCanles as the principals in 1861.

"Earp died in 1920. Sarah Shull, the femme fatale in the Rock Creek shootout, lived until 1932."

Rosa was a teleprinter operator when he saw the film that changed his life, "The Plainsman" in which Gary Cooper played Wild Bill. From then on research into Hickock became an obsession.

He worked to such rigid definitions of accuracy that although Hickock was credited with killing 200 people in dime novels, and was said to have admitted 36, Rosa can only count seven beyond the shadow of doubt.

But the Legend of Wild Bill did not have to stretch the truth very far. He was over six feet, handsome, with thick hair down to his shoulders, flamboyantly dressed with two guns in his waistband or sash, butts reversed, and generally two single-shot derringers hidden in his waistcoat. He had the hands of a violin virtuoso and did not coarsen them when he could help it.

The ordinary cowboy was a poor man with a handgun, Rosa says. His hands were calloused and thickened by long hours of work and, on his low pay, he could not afford the best guns. Multiple guns were needed because so many jammed or broke down when a moment might mean death.

Rosa said there may have been faster men with two guns, though not many. What set Wild Bill apart was his ability to shoot fast and straight while being shot at. He killed Dave Tutt at 50 yards in the public square of Springfield, Mo., in 1865, apparently in a duel over his attentions to Tutt's sister.

"There was a woman usually behind most of his fights," Rosa said.

Hickock knew how to stay alive in the world of Earp and Doc Holliday and Terrible Jack Slade, who used the ear of one of his victims as a watch fob. He avoided dark alleys and dark sidewalks. He paced down the street right in the center. He never let anyone get too close, especially from behind, without facing them.

He always sat with his back to the wall while playing cards, except on that afternoon of Aug. 2, 1876.

Now that he has completed his Wild Bill project does Rosa find his idol has feet of clay?

"No," he said, "I like him. Most westerners were coarse, harsh and unwashed. He was clean, gentlemanly, well-dressed and well-mannered. He was a product of his time, a time that was short both for him and for America. An ancient Wild Bill Hickock would have been unthinkable. Perhaps fate, taking him away at 39, shared that view."
