Air Base Bombed, 6 Aircraft Destroyed

'Big Minh' Inaugurated; Plea Rejected

By GEORGE ESPER

Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — President Duong Van Minh was inaugurated today and proposed an immediate cease-fire and negotiations to end the war. But the Viet Cong rejected his overture. Meanwhile, planes bombed the Tan Son Nhut air base on the edge of the city, and six parked aircraft were reported destroyed. The planes bore the markings of the South Vietnamese air force. There was speculation that the bombing was the work of government pilots opposed to dealing with the Communists or that the planes were among those captured by the Communists when they took over South Vietnamese air bases in the northern and central part of the country.

The bombing touched off a rash of anti-aircraft and small arms fire in Saigon as people in the streets dashed for cover. Rumors raced through the city, but authorities and persons touring the streets agreed that Communist-led troops had not yet launched a ground assault on Saigon and that there was no street fighting.

Fifteen miles northeast of Saigon, North Vietnamese gunners blasted Bien Hoa with an artillery cannonade that left the city of 500,000 in flames. The population fled, strung out as far as the eye could see on the six-lane highway to Saigon.

A spokesman for the Viet Cong's delegation to the Joint Military Commission in Saigon rejected Minh's cease-fire proposal in a three-paragraph statement read to newsmen.

It called for "an end to the Saigon administration, a tool of American neocolonialism, and an end to the machinery of war and oppression against the population of South Vietnam."

"In this case," the Viet Cong said, "the most exalted aspirations of the population of South Vietnam will be realized in a more favorable manner under the Paris agreement on Vietnam."

The statement said the United States must strictly and completely apply Articles One, Four and Nine of the 1973 Paris agreement and must respect the fundamental rights of the South Vietnamese people.

Article One pledges the United States and all other countries to "respect the independence, sovereignty, unity and territorial integrity of Vietnam as recognized by the 1954 Geneva agreements on Vietnam."

Article Four declares "the United States will not continue its military involvement or intervene in the internal affairs of South Vietnam."

Article Nine states three basic principles for the South Vietnamese people's "right to self-determination," including a call for genuinely free and democratic general elections under international supervision and a ban against foreign countries imposing "any political tendency or personality on the South Vietnamese people."

"Those who are true patriots must put themselves on the side of the people," the statement's last paragraph read, "and fight energetically for the realization of these demands. The declaration of Mr. Duong Van Minh hardly conforms with the demands mentioned above."

Addressing the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government directly, the Saigon regime's third president in a week said in his inaugural speech:

"As a manifestation of good will from both sides, and to quickly end the soldiers' and people's sufferings, I propose that we stop immediately our reciprocal attacks."

"I hope you will accept this proposal and the negotiations will begin at once, after the government is set up, so that peace will be restored soon in our beloved country."

Minh indicated he would meet the Communist demand for an end to U.S. military aid and intervention in South Vietnam, saying: "Vis a vis our allies, the government of the Republic of Vietnam wants to maintain friendly relations and welcomes any help on the economic and humanitarian planes, without political conditions. This government is also ready to establish diplomatic relations with all countries, regardless of their ideologies, on a basis of equality, equal rights and without interference into one another's internal affairs."

Pres. Ford Warns Against 'Stampede' To Regulation

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford said today that the government should not be stampeded into writing new federal regulations on such social issues as job safety, the environment and consumer protection.

"The question is not whether we want to do something about noise and safety — but whether making changes in our regulations would make sense in terms of costs and added benefits gained," Ford said in a speech prepared for the 63rd annual meeting of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

"For example, is it worth as much as $30 billion a year of consumers' dollars to reduce the level of occupational noise exposure by approximately five decibels?" the President asked.

"Have airbags been proven sufficiently cost-effective for us to require their installation in all cars at between $100 and $300 for each?" he asked.

"All too often, the federal government promulgates new rules and regulations which raise costs — and consumer prices at the same time — to achieve small or limited social benefits," Ford said.

"We must either revise proposed rules and regulations to lower their costs or we must not adopt them."

He said he does not seek to eliminate all regulations. "Many are costly, but they are essential to preserve public health and safety," the President added.

Ford told the meeting there is an urgent need for an overhaul or elimination of many government business regulations, especially those governing competition in such industries as railroads, trucking, airlines, utilities and banking.

He said many of these regulations are obsolete and levy a hidden tax on the American people by costing more than they provide in benefits.

The President said he has several bills pending or forthcoming which are intended to reform some rules of federal regulatory agencies.

He said that among them are:

—A proposal to remove federal price controls on new natural gas sold in interstate markets. He said the present "artificially low price" of gas has curtailed exploration and development and has forced some users to either curtail operations or depend more on oil.

—An act which would enable all financial institutions to offer a wider variety of lending services and to pay more competitive interest rates.

—Legislation which would end the so-called fair trade laws which permit states to allow manufacturers to dictate the price of their products.

—A comprehensive transportation program to change regulations governing railroads, airlines and trucking firms. The first of these bills would permit railroads to begin to adjust their rates within specified limits without interference from the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Local Editor Is New Prexy Of Press Women

CHAPEL HILL—Mrs. Rosalie Trotman, woman's editor of "The Daily Reflector," was elected president of the N. C. Press Women here yesterday morning.

She succeeds Mrs. Edith Low of "The Charlotte News," Charlotte.

Mrs. Blanche Hardee, staff writer of "The Daily Reflector," was elected membership chairman of the state organization.

Mrs. Trotman has served Press Women as District Five chairman, treasurer and as vice presidents. As first vice president, she was in charge of the 22nd Spring Institute which began Saturday morning. Workshop speakers included Dr. Marian Marzolf, of the Department of Journalism, University of Michigan, James H. Shumaker and L. Edward Mullins, both of the School of Journalism, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

A member of Immanuel Baptist Church, Mrs. Trotman is a past president of the Greenville Opti-Mrs. Club. She is married to John Q. Trotman and they have a son, Tony.

Mrs. Hardee is married to Wilbur H. Hardee and they have a daughter, Christie, 22 months old. She is a member of the Tranters Creek Church of Christ where she is a Sunday School teacher and secretary-treasurer of the young adult class.

Other officers named Sunday were: First Vice President, Venus Wallace, "Denton Record;" Second Vice President, Juanita Weekly, "Greensboro Record;" Secretary, Mary Jane Park, "Salisbury Post;" Treasurer, Nancy Cain Schmitt, "Fayetteville Observer;"

District Chairman, Kathryn Yarbrow, Lincoln, District One; Lee Wilder, Winston-Salem, District Two; Delores Lavelle, Monroe, District Three; Marilyn Spencer, Raleigh, District Four; and Bessie Culpepper, Elizabeth City.

The fall meeting will be held in Raleigh and the invitation was issued by Beverly Wolter, of the N. C. Museum of Art.

Final House Action

By JIM ADAMS

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress expects to complete action this week on what may be its last legislation on South Vietnam in the foreseeable future when it votes on a $327-million humanitarian aid bill.

The House is expected to give Congress' final approval Tuesday to the bill and also to give President Ford limited authority to use U.S. forces for evacuation of some South Vietnamese as well as Americans. The Senate approved the bill Friday 46 to 17.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, meanwhile, was to consider today whether to approve $50 million in humanitarian aid for Cambodia.

The bill, introduced Friday by Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., and cosponsored by nearly all the panel's members, would approve the money only for programs that international organizations are conducting.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, both said Sunday that President Ford should bring Americans out of Vietnam quickly so that use of U.S. military evacuation forces will not be necessary.

Assistant Secretary of State Robert J. McCloskey indicated the Ford administration hopes to pull out 130,000 South Vietnamese at most.

Although administration officials have said up to one million South Vietnamese could be in danger for associating themselves with U.S. policy, McCloskey said that many could not be absorbed by the United States. He said it is a figure that "I don't think probably was ever realistic."

Senate Republican Leader Scott said the 130,000 includes up to 125,000 South Vietnamese plus 5,000 Cambodians in embassies around the world.

Both Scott and Church denounced a reported contingency plan for landing U.S. Marines to bring out 200,000 South Vietnamese.

Probe Records

CLINTON, N.C. (AP)—Possible falsification of enrollment records and nonexistent classes at Sampson Technical Institute in Clinton is being investigated by the state auditor's office.

Dr. William Cole, a state Department of Public Instruction auditor called in by the auditor's office to assist in the probe, said the state may have been charged for classes that were never conducted.

"There may have been some bogus classes (at STI) three years ago," Cole said. He added that further investigation would be required.

State Auditor Henry Bridges confirmed that an audit had been conducted and said a report was being drafted.

"They've had some problems down there," Bridges added. "We're looking into specific allegations...to see if there's any basis for them. We're trying to pin some things down."

Falsification of records could result in the school receiving state funds to which it would not be entitled.

Women Held By Gunmen

By RAY KENNEDY

Associated Press Writer

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Six terrorists armed with machine guns seized the Israeli consulate in downtown Johannesburg today, took five women hostages and sprayed the streets outside with gunfire that left at least 32 persons wounded.

Police said the gunmen were holding the hostages — four whites and one black — inside the fifth-floor offices near the modern Carlton center shopping complex.

The unidentified gunmen fought a running battle with police marksmen who surrounded the building and returned fire as authorities tried to clear thousands of onlookers from the area.

A journalist, Frank Fainer of the Jewish Herald, said that his office received a telephone call saying that Arab terrorists had taken over the consulate. But there was no confirmation of the identity of the terrorists.

One of the hostages shouted from a window for police snipers to stop firing about two hours after the attackers seized the Israeli offices.

She said there were wounded men in the offices and asked for ambulances to carry them to a hospital.

Police using megaphone then started negotiating with the gunmen, asking to send up ambulances to take away the wounded.

A rope to pick up a first-aid kit was lowered from a window and when it was hauled up newsmen saw that a walkie-talkie also was attached.

Police sent for the Israeli ambassador, J. Unna, in response to a shouted request from the gunmen.

A woman shouted from the building: "We are not coming out. We want Mr. Unna." There were also shouts from other women, "Don't shoot! Don't shoot!"

Susan Joined In 'Marathon'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Susan Ford joined 17 Georgetown University students in a rocking chair marathon over the weekend to raise money for children of servicemen missing or killed in action.

The President's 17-year-old daughter forgot to rock as photographers crowded around to take pictures, but Washington Redskins running back Larry Brown rescued her by pushing her rocker into motion.

Joining the rockathon throughout the day Sunday were Art Buchwald, Eunice Kennedy Shriver, Lynda Johnson Robb and several members of Congress. The cast of the Broadway musical "Grease" also rocked — and rolled — providing dancing entertainment.

Ford-Brezhnev Meet Still On

WASHINGTON (AP) — Plans for a meeting between President Ford and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev "are proceeding quite normally," according to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. He said Saturday night that no date had been set for the meeting, but The New York Times said it had been postponed from late June or early July until September because of a conflict with a 35-nation summit meeting concluding the European security conference in July.

DISTRIBUTOR FOUND

I sold Falcon fire alarm systems for homes several years ago. Recently one of my customers brought me one from which the freon had escaped. Since there was a 30-year warranty, I sent it back to the manufacturer, but it was returned to me undelivered. I want to help this man, but I don't know where to go now. T.C.

After considerable trial and error calling, we learned the name of the distributor of the Falcon Fire Alarms, Renn Enterprises in Winston-Salem. We contacted them and Dennis Johnson, vice president and general manager called us. He said for you to please send the unit to him and it will be either refilled or replaced free of charge. The address is Dennis Johnson, Renn Enterprises, Box 11025, Winston-Salem, N.C. 27106.

Anyone else in this area having a Falcon alarm may want to check it to see if it is still effective. Freon gas, compressed, becomes a liquid, which is dyed red. If you see red liquid through the window on the unit, it is in good shape, Johnson said. Alarms will be refilled free any time within 30 years and those set off in a fire will be replaced with a new unit, he said.

MAY KEEP IT

If you've made the mistake of opening an unsolicited package, are you obligated to accept and pay for it? A.J.

"No, you don't have to pay for it, but you may accept and keep it, according to the latest postal law," said Greenville Postmaster Lloyd Mills. "We think this will cure a lot of unsolicited mailings."

Roadblock Check Uncovers Eighteen Violations

Highway Patrolmen, operating a night checking station on U. S. 264 East of Greenville from 10:30 p.m. Saturday until almost 3 a.m. Sunday, arrested 18 persons for law violations, including 11 on charges of driving under the influence.

Patrol Lt. L. G. Pate said one of the prime objectives of the checking station was to look for drunken drivers"... trying to get them off the highway."

Patrolmen charged one seconds too late.

Thomas David Lamm of 2525 Fernwood Dr. was charged with driving under the influence after the car he was driving crashed into the rear of a vehicle driven by Daniel Scott Wheelock of Fayetteville, about 1:50 a.m.

The Wheelock vehicle was stopped at the checking station at the time of the collision, trooper W. E. Brinson reported.

Damage was estimated at $500 to each of the two cars. Lamm and 10 other drivers were charged with driving under the influence, while there were two arrests each for driving while license was revoked and driving without a license. One person was charged with driving while his license was permanently revoked, one for having an expired inspection sticker and another for public drunk.

Six Patrolmen, including one breathalyzer operator, was assigned to the special enforcement operation.

Indira Expects Visit By Ford

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi says President Ford plans to visit India this fall despite speculation that the trip might be canceled because of India's criticism of the lifting of the U.S. embargo on arms shipments to Pakistan.

"We are told he will be coming and we have heard nothing to the contrary," she said Sunday before leaving for Kingston, Jamaica, for a commonwealth prime minister's conference.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

To test your knowledge of modern agriculture, try this question: How many farm workers are needed to supply 100 persons with food, fiber and other farm products they need?

The Answer: only two.

According to Bill Humphries, Agricultural information specialist at N. C. State University, two workers on the farm, in fact, could do a little better than that. In 1972, the latest year for which such statistics are available, they supplied 105 persons — 84 Americans and 21 persons in other countries.

Economists at North Carolina State University say these figures demonstrate dramatically the efficiency of today's commercial farmers.

They attribute the unparalleled productivity of modern American farmers to a post-World War II "explosion of technology" that greatly increased yields and sharply reduced the amount of farm labor required. To a large extent, capital has been substituted for labor.

According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, in 1972 the nation's farmers spent nearly $37 billion on current farm operating expenses. Each year they purchase enormous quantities of seed, feed, fuel, fertilizer, pesticides and other chemicals, as well as machinery and equipment, from off-farm suppliers.

Man-hours of labor used for farm work, meanwhile, have declined from 20.5 billion in 1940 to 15 billion a decade later and only slightly over 6 billion in the early 1970's. In 1968-72, producing 100 bushels of corn, sorghum, oats or wheat required only six to nine hours of labor.

On a per-ton basis, producing hay required only 1.7 hours; white potatoes, four hours; sweet potatoes, 17 hours; and sugar beets, 1.6 hours.

Peanuts and dried beans required 0.9 hours each per 100 pounds. Tobacco, still largely unmechanized at that time, required 24 hours per 100 pounds produced. For cotton, labor needs averaged 25 hours per bale.

Labor needed in animal agriculture also has been reduced. The 1968-72 averages were 0.7 hour for 100 pounds (46 quarts) of milk, 1.8 hours for 100 pounds of beef, and 1.2 hours for the same quantity of pork.

Turkeys were down to one hour, and commercial layers to 0.4 hour per 100 eggs.

If farmers still depended on horses and mules instead of mechanical power, feeding and caring for those animals would require millions of man-hours of labor and many millions of acres of good farmland for feed production.

Latest figures indicate the nation's farm population is stabilizing at 9 to 9½ million persons. In North Carolina, however, many thousands of residents still doing farm work are expected to seek other jobs as mechanization of the tobacco harvest picks up steam and the need for workers in tobacco is further reduced.

D. H. Conley Highlights

Now that the fifth marking period has passed, seniors are really getting excited. Caps, gowns, and invitations have arrived. Cap and gown portraits will soon be arriving. June 6 — only six weeks away!

SCA elections were held last week. Officers for the 1975-76 year include Gary Moore, president; Gregory Daniels, vice-president; Patricia Buck, secretary; Cynthia Patrick, treasurer; and Dawn Branch, inter-club chairman.

Patty Joyner and Sharon McGowan represented Conley Wednesday in the beginners' division at the District Typewriting Contest for Eastern North Carolina. Patricia Smith Wanda Joyner competed in the Advanced division. The contest was held at East Carolina University.

Recently Debbie Toler, Cindy LaMonica, JoAnne Brown, Nettie Tyson, and Debbie Pfeiffer received Gregg shorthand awards for writing shorthand at a speed of 60 words per minute for five minutes with 95 percent accuracy. Patricia Smith received an award for writing at 60 words per minute for three minutes with 95 percent accuracy.

Congratulations go to Wanda Joyner, Cindy LaMonica, Tanya Peele, Debbie Toler, and Gloria Bostillo for they are winners in the April Gregg Shorthand Theory Contest. These students were given a test composed of 100 words of Gregg shorthand theory. They wrote the theory words in shorthand and transcribed the material with 90 percent accuracy.

Practices for "Headin' for a Weddin'" a play produced by the publications class, are in full swing. Performances for the student body will be held on May 7, 8, and 9 during school. A night performance for the public will be held on May 8. Get your 75 cents tickets now from any publication student.

Students of the week in IPS include John Waldrop, second period; Donald Ribeiro, third period; Robert Adams, fourth period; and Greg Stokes, fifth period.

Hearing For Local LWV Delegation A Hijacker At 14th Biennial Meet

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A Richmond, Va., man faced arraignment today on a charge of air piracy in the hijacking Friday of a United Airlines 727 jet on a flight from Raleigh, N. C., to Newark, N. J.

Frank Page Covey, 44, was arrested during a refueling stop at Atlanta's Hartsfield airport, about two hours after he ordered the pilot to head for Cuba.

Authorities said Covey kept one hand in an airline bag and threatened to blow up the plane if his demands were not met. FBI agents who made the arrest said they found no weapon and no explosives in the bag.

Covey was arrested after he allowed the 60 other passengers and three stewardesses off the plane and the three remaining crew members snaked off, leaving him alone on the aircraft. Authorities said he offered no resistance when he was taken into custody.

Passengers said Covey appeared drunk when he boarded the plane in Raleigh and had several drinks while the plane flew to Atlanta. Richmond police said Covey had been arrested a number of times since 1955, most frequently for public drunkenness.

Costly Damage From Collision

Rufus Eugene Buck of Route 1, Grimesland was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident following investigation of a 9:06 p.m. collision here Saturday night on Dickinson Avenue 55 feet West of the Columbia Avenue intersection.

Officers said the Buck car collided with a vehicle driven by James Edward Jones of 505 West Third St. about 9:06 p.m., causing an estimated $4,000 damage to the Buck car and $1,200 damage to the Jones auto.

No injuries were reported.

Marijuana Is Found In Search

John Daniel Carpenter, 19, of 21 West End Trailer Pk. was arrested by Greenville Police yesterday on charges of possession of marijuana.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the arrest resulted from a search of Carpenter's trailer home about 10:30 p.m. Saturday by Greenville police and Pitt County Sheriff's Deputies. Officers, Cannon said, found two ounces of marijuana in the dwelling.

Value of the marijuana was set at $400.

LECTURED HERE

Dr. W. Robert Mann, professor of mathematics at UNC Chapel Hill, presented a colloquium lecture at the East Carolina University Department of Mathematics Thursday.

The 14th-Biennial Convention of the League of Women Voters of North Carolina was held April 22-24 at Montreat. Representatives from the Greenville-Pitt County LWV included Rhea Resnik, Anne Frost, Kay Davis, and Pat Marshall.

Ms. Resnik, president of the Greenville-Pitt County LWV, participated on a panel of three LWV members who discussed ways in which Leagues can take action based on their principles, basic tenets of the LWV.

Featured speakers included Eliza Paschall, a member of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission from Atlanta, and Elizabeth Griffith of Washington, D.C., who identified herself as a politician, historian, and feminist. Both Ms. Paschall and Ms. Griffith urged that women get involved in local, state, and national politics by communicating with elected officials and by running for political office themselves.

The delegates passed the following resolution: "Be it resolved that the League of Women Voters of North Carolina in Convention April 24, 1975, continue its active efforts toward ratification of the 27th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution — Equal Rights Amendment." A copy of this resolution is to be sent to all members of the North Carolina General Assembly.

The delegates also approved a State Program for 1975-77 consisting of items related to North Carolina which the NCLWV will study over the next two years. Leagues will study criminal justice, emphasizing justice for adults, and the tax system of North Carolina. There will also be a reassessment of the merit selection of judges.

Officers include a member of the Greenville chapter, Marion Moeller, who will serve as treasurer of the state organization for the next two years.

On the Farm Testing

Several farmers in Pitt County are joining others throughout North Carolina in a widespread effort to gain new knowledge of improved farming practices. They are the cooperating farmers who are conducting on-the-farm tests with Pitt County Agricultural Extension agents.

An on-the-farm test, or demonstration, is a double-barreled tool used by Extension agents. This is a good way to let farmers see new practices under local conditions. It is also a good method for conducting research.

Pitt County Agricultural Extension agents and cooperating farmers are conducting tests in 1975 that involve tobacco, corn, soybeans, peanuts and cucumbers. Varieties will be compared, fertilizer rates will be examined and new chemicals will be evaluated. Some of the tests will be for observation only but others will be scientifically designed so that data gathered will be meaningful and dependable.

For example, a tobacco weed control test being conducted in 1975 includes seven different treatments. The treatments are repeated and randomized to reduce the effect of soil differences. In all, there will be 14 plots. Tobacco will be harvested and cured separately from each plot. Yield and quality data will be evaluated to determine which treatment gives the best economic returns.

Data from on-the-farm tests in Pitt County are combined with that from other locations by Extension Specialists at N.C. State University. In this way other farmers benefit from the new knowledge gained.

Farmers and others interested in new farming practices are invited to visit on-the-farm tests sites during the growing season. Most are marked with the Extension sign. For more information about these tests and their locations, contact a Pitt County Agricultural Extension agent.

Awarded Grant For Heart Study

A grant of $2,375 has been awarded to Dr. Hisham Barakat of the East Carolina University School of Medicine by the N.C. United Community Services for a study of heart disease.

Dr. Barakat's project involves study of the accumulation of lipid droplets in the hearts of diseased laboratory hamsters. According to Dr. Barakat, the research is a pilot project toward an expanded area of research that may shed light on the causes of myopathy in human hearts.

AP Newsfeatures Writer Making the man king of his castle is the sure-fire formula for marital happiness. There's nothing new about the idea. It was first promoted in the Bible, says a pretty, honey-blond housewife, Marabel Morgan, 37, of Miami, who advocates the idea in her fast-growing marriage enrichment course.

"It works 99 per cent of the time," she explained in an interview. "Results may be obtained in four hours, but then again you may need to wait 24," she said with assurance. The formula has even reunited divorced couples, says Mrs. Morgan, whose prescription for ailing marriages began with her own faltering one.

"Many wives have lost the way to a happy home. They have been reading things that aren't true and they have become so confused they vacillate between trying to be good wives and demanding their rights. Meanwhile both husbands and wives are miserable."

She didn't like a lot of what she read, and two years ago wrote a book, "The Total Woman," which outlines her simple four-lesson course and gives assignments to the reader. The book has sold 400,000 copies in the United States and Canada.

The message that can earn marriage points is built around the simple truism — a husband will not leave an adoring wife. Accept, admire, appreciate him and adapt to his life (as a mistress might do) and he is yours forever. Doting on a man's needs — salad, sex or sports — is the answer to "putting sizzle into your marriage." And don't worry who takes the initiative — the 50-50 deal idea — someone must begin and it might as well be you, she says.

Mrs. Morgan and her husband Charlie, 35, an attorney, hadn't communicated for six of their 11 married years when she decided to do something constructive about it. "When a man doesn't speak to you, you feel like a maid," she says.

"My big fault was nagging, the way many women try to solve their problems. Tears don't help — you turn him off that way because he's afraid anything he might say will offend you."

After she found the light — even her children like her better now that she is no longer a shrew — she mentioned her husband's joy to a friend. Other wives wanted the prescription and she began small classes. Wives of five Miami Dolphin football players are among her teachers. The year the Dolphins were undefeated and went to the Super Bowl, 10 of their wives attended the classes. It had begun with Bobbie Evans, wife of Norm, who was unhappy because he traveled so much.

"In adapting to Norm's life, present a demonstration three times a day. During a visit with her, persons will have an opportunity to learn about camp food safety, packing for the weekend, commercial and homemade equipment as well as the latest in freeze-dried and dehydrated foods.

The Foods Heritage and Horizons Festival is co-sponsored by the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service and the Northeastern District Extension Homemakers Association. Admission is $1.00 and the hours are 10:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m.

Bobbie has never been happier," says Mrs. Morgan, "and Norm is so happy he has told her he would even give up football if she asked him to."

Too many women do not set goals for themselves, she insists. When their marriage teeters they escape to soap operas and bonbons. Her marriage formula may sound naive, she says, but "it will provide zest without detracting from being a home executive."

The plan provides a whole new day for the woman trying to put her marriage back on the orange blossom trail. For example, she may prepare dinner and set the table after breakfast and she'll be in the bubble bath at 5 o'clock instead of hanging over a hot stove.

Stress on sex (and super-sex) includes "an atmosphere that has been carefully set all day" beginning with a husband's first waking moments (a kiss, a backrub, a whisper), perhaps a love note in his lunch box, purring phone calls to his office maybe, sweet scents greeting him at the door. The promises-promises routine goes on to a favorite dinner at a candlelit, flower-fragrant table as a prelude to a blissfully romantic evening.

Such tactics are foolproof, she says, her ecstatic students and readers have emphasized by letter, postcard and phone calls — more than 100 a day.

"Lovemaking comforts a man," Mrs. Morgan says simply. It is a line that "brought down the house" when she spoke at a staid business men's meeting.

The Bible backs her up all the way, she contends. In addition to the passages about sex from the scriptures, there are others tantamount to commands, "wives should love their husbands," "hold him in reverence," "must submit to a husband's leadership ..." and so on. The woman is queen of the house, a role she can play to the hilt, she insists, once he knows he is king. Only then, perhaps, will he take out the garbage without being asked.

"In the mirror your husband sees himself as an 18-year-old ... admire his muscles ... see him with new eyes, perhaps as his secretary or your neighbor sees him. Sincerely flatter him with a compliment each day ... he'll thrive on it," she adds.

She Fights Problem To Save Marriage

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this letter in hopes that it will help some other drinking housewife who won't admit that she has a problem.

For the past seven years, I was slowly becoming an alcoholic, and I wouldn't face it. I gave myself all the possible excuses: The kids were getting on my nerves; my husband worked too many hours; I needed a few drinks to "relax" me in the evening.

I kept the house neat and managed to take care of the kids long enough to get them into bed, but then Mommy would pass out with a "headache."

Finally, my husband gave me a choice. The bottle or my family.

First I went to a mental-health clinic. They referred me to Alcoholics Anonymous. It was a big step to admit that, at 28 years of age, I was an alcoholic. It was painful to realize how much it affected the lives of the people I loved the most.

They say that most alcoholics don't go for help until they reach rock bottom and have lost their jobs, families and homes. I was lucky. I didn't have to fall that far.

I haven't quite made it yet. But I am trying with all the strength I have to stay away from alcohol just one day at a time. I don't even mind telling people I can't drink. It seems that everyone knew it long before I did.

D. IN NEW BRITAIN, CONN.

DEAR D.: Thanks for an inspirational letter. I think you're going to make it!

DEAR ABBY: I read in the newspaper that a group of people in Milwaukee, Wisconsin organized a "Free the Apes" movement, also known as "The Ape Liberation Movement."

They want to take all the apes, monkeys and gorillas out of the zoos and cages, and put them to work in factories and on farms. They claim that monkeys can be trained to handle

It was announced that Congress has declared May 1 as Loyalty Day and area citizens are urged to fly their flags.

Following the closing ceremonies, refreshments were served by Mrs. Edna Simmons, Mrs. Kathleen Woolard and Mrs. Gill.

Officers Named On Thursday

Officers of the VFW Auxiliary were named at the meeting of the group Thursday night. Mrs. Carrie West will serve as president.

Others are: Mrs. Marjorie Angstadt, secretary; Mrs. Etta Gill, senior vice president; Mrs. Addie Campbell, junior vice president; Mrs. Margaret Brown, treasurer; Mrs. Margaret Joyner, conductress; Mrs. Myrtle Meeks, chaplain; Mrs. Dorothy Golden, guard; and Mrs. Rubie Upton, trustee, three years.

The installation of officers will be held May 29 and will include a covered-dish supper with post members attending.

Mrs. West announced that the district meeting would be held in Goldsboro April 27 and delegates attending were Mrs. Ruth Evans, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Angstadt.

The convention will be held in Greensboro June 26-29. The house parents and the children of the North Carolina Cottage of the VFW National Home, Eaton Rapids, Mich., will be guests of the Department of North Carolina.

A gift was sent to the retiring State President, Mrs. Elsie Shook.

Mrs. Gill gave a program on "Americanism."

certain jobs as well as people—like picking berries or cotton and working on assembly lines. They could even be trained to tend bar. (No complicated mixed drinks—mostly just pouring beer.)

Abby, with so many people out of work, I think it's a crime to consider putting monkeys to work instead of people.

What is your opinion?

UNEMPLOYED IN W. VA.

DEAR UN: Don't worry. Even though monkeys would be glad to work for peanuts, until they can read, write and vote, the labor unions will see to it that people get preference.

DEAR ABBY: I've never written to you before, but there was a letter in your column that really threw me. It was from "Bone Tired," the young mother who wasn't able to get all dolled up in the morning because she'd been up half the night with a sick baby. And when she served her husband his breakfast in her bathrobe, he gave her the dickens because he likes to see his wife all prettied up at breakfast.

Now I've heard everything! I'm a working woman myself, and I say, "Let the guy make his own breakfast." Furthermore, if he expects to look at Elizabeth Taylor in the morning, his wife should lay out a magazine with the food. I'll bet she never made Richard Burton breakfast!

LINDA

DEAR LINDA: Probably not. Do you suppose if she had, they'd still be together?

Bias Not Now Insurmountable

Mrs. Millie McGrath, a member of Greenville's City Council, had some advice for women who want to enter politics, speaking at a Greenville Forum meeting last week.

"Women who enter politics must be very thick skinned and not afraid to be put down," Mrs. McGrath told the group.

Mrs. McGrath obviously feels that more women should be seeking public office and she said women are "selling themselves short and staying away from politics."

Of course, when we talk of women running for political office the question has to be raised as to whether females will face a bias with male voters. That possibility is always there but too many women have already won political races for this to be considered an insurmountable obstacle.

Our own Millie McGrath has won election to the City Council, for instance and Susie Sharp was elected chief justice of the North Carolina Supreme Court. Mrs. William Shires, now a Greenville resident, served as a member of the State Legislature from another district of the state at one time, and there have been quite a few other women members of the Legislature.

Still, there have been far fewer women in elected office than men and the only way this disparity will ever be corrected is for women to become actively involved in the political process.

Mrs. Janice Faulkner, who spoke at the forum, noted that women's right to vote came only after a campaign of 72 years.

Since that time, women have come to exercise this right about as well as men. Women have also been active in political party affairs, and women have been quite prominent in the campaigns for governor and other high office. The only trouble is that the women more often than not are supporting the campaigns of men.

Women who are interested in the political process should seek out opportunities to serve on various governmental boards and commissions. This involvement would give women the chance to observe the governmental process and it certainly can lead to their seeking and being elected to office.

THIS AFTERNOON Program Is For Real Jobs

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Real jobs in new industrial plants now under construction is the reward at the end of an experimental job training program underway in some western North Carolina counties.

All too often, in the past, critics of federal manpower training efforts have pointed to money spent to teach people who didn't want to learn, skills needed for non-existent jobs.

In the midst of this recession, with its accompanying unemployment problems, critics worry that temporary, public service jobs will not work toward solving long-range problems.

State officials hope the experimental effort in Buncombe, Haywood, Madison, and Henderson counties will work toward some permanent solutions.

An Emergency

"I consider the critical unemployment situation in this area an emergency," said Gov. James E. Holshouser Jr., as he cleared spending from a special fund the half-million dollars needed to fund the crash job-training program. Technical schools in the mountain counties will provide most of the training, and the governor is pleased that the program brings together federal, state, and local governments in a concerted attack.

The mountain counties are perhaps harder hit than any other section of the state by the recession. The rayon division of American Enka has closed, putting 1,700 people out of work near Asheville; the federal aerial photography lab is also shutting down; and other depressing changes have pushed unemployment to alarming highs.

In Haywood County the unemployment rate is 14.2 per cent; Madison has 15.9 per cent out of work; Henderson unemployment is 9.6 per cent; and in Buncombe, the level is 12.1 per cent.

That, Holshouser believes, is an emergency requiring special attention.

"We could use these funds for temporary emergency public service jobs

But under this program, workers trained would have permanent full-time jobs awaiting them upon completion of their training," the governor said.

State officials have commitments from new industries locating in the area for 450 jobs to be filled by people taking the specialized training courses provided by the program.

James W.C. Daniel, director of the governor's manpower training program, thinks the beauty of the approach is the availability of "virtually guaranteed jobs... in new kinds of industries for this area."

New Skills

Seven new plants are under construction and will require skills not now present in the work force of western North Carolina—things such as components for digital time pieces; miniature light bulb production; truck axle production; stainless steel product manufacturing; tool and machine work, etc.

Here is an instance where federal and state manpower training efforts will go to help people who want to work, don't need incentive training or grooming tips, and who upon completion of the training can be depended upon to commit themselves to holding down a full-time job.

"I'm optimistic about this approach," Daniel said. "If this pilot project proves out, we can do this on a much larger scale in other sections."

The common-sense nature of this approach to job training programs appeals widely to local and state officials for some additional reasons as well.

The approach goes hand in glove with Holshouser's push for dispersal of industry widely across the state so that people can find jobs at home rather than having to move to the urban, Piedmont centers.

Additionally, this program and a related effort launched recently in Gaston and Alamance counties pulls together community colleges, local governments, state officials, and federal funds into a concerted program with regional impact.

The N.C. SCENE Vietnam And The Detente

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Policy decisions two weeks ago by President Ford in the wake of the Vietnam debacle, made in an offhand manner despite grave misgivings high in his own administration, now seem to have worsened what at best was an impossible situation for him.

The President's State of the World address April 10 contained two basic decisions: Asking $722 million in Vietnam military aid, and blaming the U.S. fiasco in Southeast Asia on Congress rather than Moscow and Peking. That speech and remarkable events since then are viewed by some important Ford supporters as further undermining his shaky presidency.

The blundering last-ditch struggle for huge, new military aid unnecessarily added another chapter to the domestic political saga of Vietnam, delaying a fresh start. More complicated but more important was the President's insistence on detent-as-usual, dismaying

Republicans inside and outside his administration. Everybody in the administration agrees that niggardly military aid allowed Saigon by Congress the past two years hastened the disaster. The disagreement came over the point of no return—when no further aid could possibly help. The overwhelming consensus was that the South Vietnamese army (ARVN) was beyond salvation after its northern divisions collapsed last month.

But Gerald R. Ford was not part of that consensus. "The President is a politician and a former football player," one adviser told us. As a politician, he did not want publicly to concede defeat. As a former football star, he felt no game—even the deadly game of war—was lost until the final gun.

Thus, the President dispatched Gen. Frederick Weyand, the Army's estimable chief of staff, to Vietnam as both fact-finder and seeker of a winning game plan. As a fact-finder, Weyand's assessment of military ruin was deadly realistic. As a game winner, his $722 million proposal to re-equip four ARVN divisions to stabilize the military situation was wildly optimistic.

Returning to Washington, Weyand ran into skepticism from Pentagon civilians including Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger. Feeling Weyand's plan had only a minuscule chance to work, these skeptics wanted the President to propose a smaller sum for military aid, but high enough to persuade Saigon the U.S. had no plan to cut and run. This would "buy protection" for thousands of Americans trapped in Saigon, and would be quietly sold to Congress as such.

But by the time Mr. Ford got back from Palm Springs, he had bought the Weyand plan in full. Whereas Weyand privately viewed its chances as marginal at best, the President had convinced himself it was a sure game winner. It went into the State of the World address without internal debate (most presidential advisers viewing it useful for psychological effect on Saigon).

But Congressmen home for Easter had encountered passionate voter opposition to one more cent for Vietnam. The President reacted to this hostility by cranking up a hard-sell campaign, declaring his faith in what his experts perceived as hopeless—Saigon's military revival. In sum, Mr. Ford committed his prestige to a program which could neither work nor be enacted.

The decision on detente was reached even more informally. Schlesinger, a backstage critic of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's detente policies, was not a principal. White House chief of staff Donald Rumsfeld is known to have cautioned Kissinger about exaggerating the fruits of detente.

But during hectic speech-writing before the State of the World address, Rumsfeld proposed, unsuccessfully, one small change about detente. Accordingly, Mr. Ford blamed Congress instead of the Communist superpowers for Vietnam, presumably to save detente.

The result: sharp private criticism by Republicans, including some old Ford advisers. To no avail. Questioned before the American Society of Newspaper Editors April 16, the President pronounced Moscow and Peking guiltless. Yet when shown an advance text of Kissinger's remarks to the editors for April 17 castigating the Communist powers for violating detente, the President called it "excellent."

Did Mr. Ford not appreciate the gulf between what he and Kissinger were saying? Some administration officials think not. Moreover, they regard the President's kid-glove treatment as ex-

WASHINGTON—There will probably be a lot of finger-pointing about the debacle in Vietnam. It's hard to fix the blame on any one person so, to satisfy everyone's political persuasion, here is a small choice to pick from. A larger choice can be found in a book titled "The Experts" by Clyde Edwin Pettit from which I lifted most of these quotes.

French Gen. Jean Lecleir: "I didn't come back to Indochina to give Indochina back to the Indochinese." (Sept. 31, 1945)

U. S. Gen. Mark Clark: "I am also impressed by the French military plans, by the apparent Vietnamese determination to fight. I could not make any better plans than those already in existence here..." (Feb. 24, 1953)

Sherman Adams, assistant to President Eisenhower: "At a Sunday night meeting in the upstairs study at the White House, Eisenhower had agreed with Dulles and Radford on a plan to send American forces to Indochina under strict condition." (April 4, 1954)

Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.): "Ngo Dinh Diem's government stands for decency and honesty while those conspiring to bring him down represent corruption." (April 30, 1955)

U. S. Gen. Earle K. Wheeler: "It is fashionable in some quarters to say that the problems in Southeast Asia are primarily political and economic. I do not agree. The essence of the problem in Vietnam is military." (November, 1962)

Assistant Secretary of Defense Arthur D. Sylvester: "It's the inherent right of the government to lie to save itself." (Dec. 6, 1962)

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara: "The South Vietnamese armed forces have now attained the experience, training and necessary equipment required for victory. Victory is in sight." (Feb. 19, 1963)

U. S. Gen. Paul D. Harkins: "By Christmas it will all be over." (April, 1963)

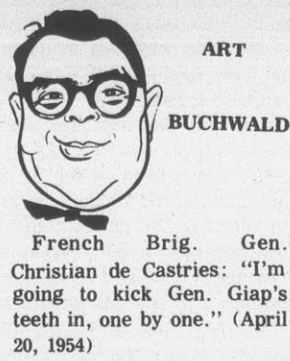

President John F. Kennedy: "I can't do it (withdraw from Vietnam) until 1965—after I'm re-elected." (Spring, 1963)

Secretary of State Dean Rusk: "Part of the problem (of creating a broad political base in the South) has been that those who have collaborated in the war days and immediate postwar days with Ho Chi Minh were pretty much ruled out of consideration in Vietnam and properly so." (1963)

Secretary of State Dean Rusk: "The Laotians are very interesting people. They don't like to kill each other." (Sept. 15, 1963)

President Lyndon B. Johnson: "We are not about to send boys nine or ten thousand miles away from home to do what Asian boys ought to be doing for themselves." (Oct. 21, 1964)

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.): "Presently the military operations appear to be going better. There have been reports from a military point of view in recent weeks. We have also insisted on continuing the bombing as we did in the spring. The President made some very impressive speeches in that direction." (Oct. 24, 1965)

Other Editors Say Ingoring History

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

North Carolina's Stephen L. Neal is not only a newcomer to the U. S. House of Representatives, but judging by a speech he gave on the House floor last Thursday, he must be a newcomer to classes in history.

For what he said indicated he either knows very little about Communist history or is simply ignoring it.

He introduced a resolution urging President Ford to withdraw support of South Vietnam's government and help establish a coalition government.

Well, he's not the first person Congress to ask the White House to undercut the legitimate government in Saigon. But he may very well be among the first to seriously suggest that that unhappy country fall in with the Reds to form a "government."

History plainly shows that "coalition" governments are of short duration. The process is almost as inevitable as the budding and blooming of a flower, only to be followed by certain withering and then death.

In coalition governments the Communists always win. But perhaps Rep. Neal didn't know this and if that is the case then he can be pardoned for his ignorance.

In another part of his resolution, Rep. Neal contemplated congressional action to provide "adequate funds for humanitarian and economic assistance to all the peoples of Vietnam, such assistance to be distributed by reliable international agencies and contingent upon continued cessation of hostilities and demonstrative progress toward a peaceful political settlement."

In short, he is offering an incentive to help rebuild all of Vietnam after fighting ceases.

Surely he does not mean that we should help rebuild North Vietnam, that we should offer economic assistance to the Communists of North Vietnam. It is enough that we have pulled the rug out from under an ally. To appropriate still more millions to put the aggressor back on his feet while he builds a police state to run the whole of Vietnam would be one of the worst follies, and Uncle Sam has been guilty of some unique follies in recent years.

Less Efficient In Production

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the most obvious reasons for inflation is the tendency of American industry to become less efficient in production. Productivity, or output per manhour, is lagging.

The lag isn't only in relation to previous productivity within the United States. Productivity lags also in comparison to that being achieved in other industrialized nations.

Uncorrected, the situation inevitably will make all the more difficult the job of restraining price increases, correcting the imbalance of international payments and achieving economic stability.

Academic, industry and government authorities all agree on the analysis that productivity improvements are basic to improvements in the American way of life. When he was chairman of the Price Commission, C. Jackson Grayson Jr. said it was the only real answer to inflation.

When he headed the National Commission on Productivity and Work Quality, John T. Dunlop argued in much the same manner. Now secretary of labor, Dunlop is again pressing the argument.

Testifying last week before a House Banking subcommittee, Dunlop called for the establishment of a productivity center, and for more investment in research and capital improvements.

But his argument sounded like a refrain. For years

Some 'Make' Trouble

By ROBERT B. CULLEN

Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP)—To understand why the General Assembly so often seems to do nothing, you have to understand that there are a few trouble-makers.

Take Sen. McNeill Smith, D-Guilford. A lot of his colleagues would like to take him—and gag him, probably.

Last Thursday, the Senate got around to considering Sen. John Winters' bill to require subdividers to put standard paving on their streets. Well, not all subdividers.

When the bill was in committee, Duke Power Co. inserted an amendment that would exempt it from paving the dirt roads leading to about 4,000 lots it wants to sell around its Catawba River lake system.

Winters opposed the amendment on the general grounds that what's good for the rest of the state ought to be good for Duke Power. But he quickly saw that he was outnumbered. He decided to let Duke have its exemption in order to get his bill passed.

Now, you have to understand that while the newspapers had correctly identified the beneficiary of the exemption, Duke's name was nowhere in the bill. Nor, until Sen. Smith stood up to make trouble, had anyone mentioned it in debate.

It's sort of an unwritten law in the Senate that while you might obey Duke Power, you don't mention its name. Anthropologists would call it a form of reverence not uncommon in certain societies.

But Smith, playing dumb, stood up and asked subcommittee chairman Sen. Thomas Strickland, D-Wayne, if he happened to know who owned this exempted land. Strickland, as he explained later, had not researched the title to every piece of land that might be affected. So he replied that no, he wasn't sure who owned it.

Then Smith pulled his low, troubling stunt. He introduced an amendment that would remove the exemption. By doing so, he forced every Senator to face the prospect of going on record for or against Duke's exemption.

There was muttering and consternation in the legislators' seats. In the press gallery, hackles were whetted as reporters rushed to get their roll call tally sheets.

Suddenly, everyone wanted to find Sen. Herman Moore, the Charlotte Democrat who introduced the amendment at the request of his constituents at Duke Power. They sent the sergeant-at-arms to find him so he could explain the amendment.

But by that time, Moore was halfway to the Raleigh-Durham airport. He was not coming back until Monday.

Meanwhile, Sen. I.C. Crawford, D-Buncombe, was confused. He said he wasn't quite sure what the bill did, but he was going to object to any final consideration that day.

Obviously, it was no time for decisive action. Sen. Marshall Rauch, D-Gaston (who, by the way, had the nerve to call Duke Power's name in public) moved that the whole mess be postponed until this week. His motion was hastily and gratefully accepted.

So, because of one trouble-maker, McNeill Smith, the day ended with another postponement. And that's why it so often seems that the General Assembly can't get anything done.

Most Have No Plans For Using Tax Rebate

By JAMES KYLE
Reflector Staff Writer

Most Greenville area residents have not made plans for their tax rebates which should begin going out about the middle of next month.

Most of those who have made plans, however, plan to spend the extra money for a variety of things.

Ruth Taylor of the Pitt County Red Cross said she is going to "put it in the bank, in savings, to replace what I had to take out to pay my income tax."

Joseph M. Laney, executive director of the Greenville Housing Authority said his rebate would "probably go in the bank to pay the increased costs of groceries and gas."

Rudolph A. Manning, manager of Cozart's Auto Supply, is "not going to spend it until I get it." He hasn't made any plans.

Mrs. Evelyn Meeks, wife of city fireman Joseph B. Meeks, said they would spend their rebate to pay some bills.

Ben W. Overton, supervisor and buyer of White's Stores, said he doesn't anticipate the rebate "having any effect on my plans."

Mrs. Linda Stancill, librarian at Sheppard Memorial Library hasn't given any thought to her tax rebate.

J. L. Askew, retired businessman, said he doesn't think he will save his rebate, but he doesn't know what he will spend it for. Askew is also eligible for the $50 social security rebate, but he hasn't made any plans for it either.

Lee Ball of Blount and Ball Realty hasn't "even thought about it. It will be a pleasant surprise when it comes."

William H. (Bill) Clifton of Bill Clifton Insurance Agency said, "I won't be getting one, but I would spend it if I did."

Mrs. Faye Anderson, operator of Faye's Styling Roon, hasn't made "any plans at all" for her rebate.

Ben R. Mann, a salesman at Coffman's Men's Wear will use his tax rebate to pay bills and possibly pay for a vacation.

Mrs. T. Graham Jefferson of Jefferson's Florist is going to put her rebate in savings.

John W. Hollingsworth of Hollingsworth Opticians said he didn't know what he was going to do with his rebate. "I haven't even talked about it," Hollingsworth said.

CRIME STATISTICS

CARACAS (UPI) — Sixty per cent of the crimes in the Venezuelan capital are carried out by drug addicts or minors from the slums, according to Gen. Hernan Delgado Sanchez, commander of the metropolitan police force.

RALEIGH (AP)—Here is the status of important measures pending before the North Carolina General Assembly:

ERA—Since the defeat of the bill ratifying the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, the House has received a bill calling for a referendum on whether the state should ratify the amendment. The House Constitutional Amendments Committee approved a bill to amend the state constitution to ban discrimination on the basis of sex.

Presidential Primary—A House-passed bill to abolish North Carolina's presidential primary is still before a Senate

State Government subcommittee. The subcommittee also has before it a measure to change the state of the regular state primary. A bill before the House calls for holding the presidential primary on the first Tuesday in March in 1976.

Utilities—The House Public Utilities Committee has approved after making some amendments a Senate-passed omnibus utilities measure. It would enlarge the Utilities Commission from five to seven members and provide for the commission to sit in panels of three in hearing cases. It would also abolish the automatic fuel adjustment clause. A bill to repeal the forward test period law has passed the House and is now before the Senate.

Auto Insurance—A House subcommittee is studying no-fault auto insurance legislation, and another no-fault measure is before a Senate committee. A bill that would eliminate age as a factor in setting auto liability insurance rates, won tentative House approval Thursday and will be up for final House action Tuesday.

Crime—A House judiciary committee is considering Senate-passed bills to crack down on crime, including one to increase the maximum sentence for armed robbery to life imprisonment.

Taxes—The House and Senate finance committees have bills to repeal the sales tax on food and to increase the income tax in the higher brackets. Also before the Senate Finance Committee is a bill to phase out the manufacturer's inventory tax.

Government—A House committee still has bills to amend the state constitution to allow the governor and lieutenant governor to serve two consecutive terms.

Death Penalty—The Senate Judiciary 1 Committee has taken no action on a bill to substitute life imprisonment for the death penalty.

Mountain Area Management—Senate and House committees are still studying legislation to create a 12-member commission to regulate development in North Carolina's mountain area. The committees held a public hearing on the issue last week and will hold another hearing in Asheville.

pressing the true Ford-Kissinger position, choosing to write off Kissinger's warning to Moscow and Peking as a tactic, not a strategy. The end result: growing Republican dissatisfaction with detente.

To some worried officials inside the administration, Vietnam shows detente has not brought world stability. They feel the administration now faces a choice between worldwide re-engagement of U.S. power or tacit accommodation with alarming Soviet power-growth under the umbrella of detente.

But no great internal debate is expected. "The President has his mind made up, and there's no use carping about it," one high official told us. That suggests the same disorganization in foreign policymaking which prevailed this month, deepening the melancholy in official Washington.

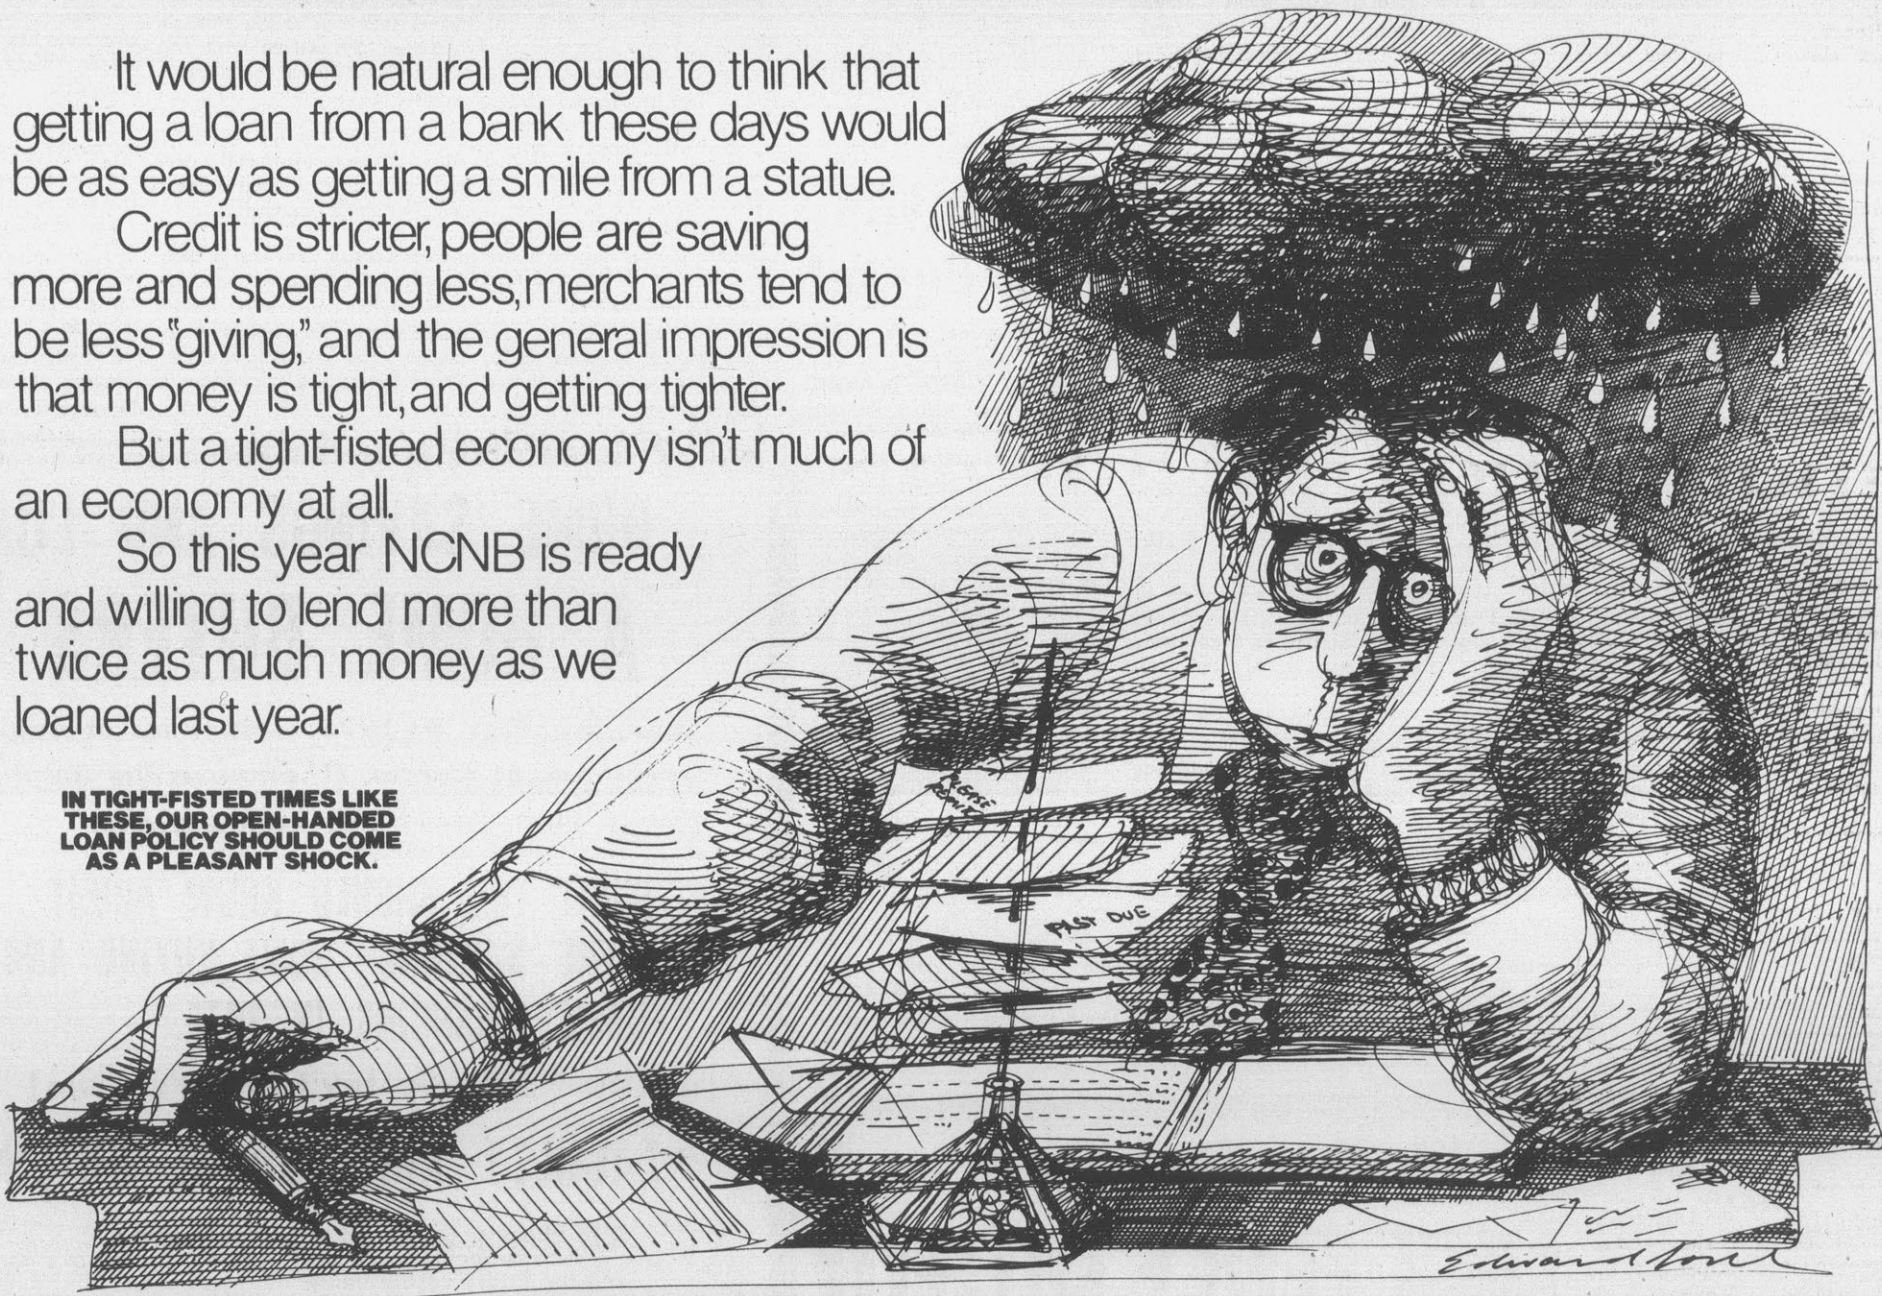

It would be natural enough to think that getting a loan from a bank these days would be as easy as getting a smile from a statue.

Credit is stricter, people are saving more and spending less, merchants tend to be less "giving," and the general impression is that money is tight, and getting tighter.

But a tight-fisted economy isn't much of an economy at all.

So this year NCNB is ready and willing to lend more than twice as much money as we loaned last year.

IN TIGHT-FISTED TIMES LIKE THESE, OUR OPEN-HANDED LOAN POLICY SHOULD COME AS A PLEASANT SHOCK.

Each month during 1975 NCNB will have more than $21 million for people who need it. Family people and single people both. And we'll be as open-handed as possible.

Money for automobiles, major appliances, home improvements, medical and dental expenses, college tuitions, vacations: everything.

So if you've been worrying about where you can go these days for the money to put a car in your garage or to put a garage around your car, well now you can stop worrying.

And if you've been wondering how to bring your daughter to the altar or take your whole family to Acapulco, well now you can relax.

Maybe we're not doing what the other banks are doing. But we think it's what we ought to be doing.

MONEY ISN'T TIGHT AT NCNB.

New Killings For Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Police believe Protestant terrorists were responsible for the killing of three middle-aged Roman Catholic men and the wounding of a fourth in a darts club Sunday night.

"The gunmen kicked in the door and let fly, spraying the people inside with bullets," police reported.

Police said although a few Protestants also belong to the club, "as far as we can tell, only Catholics were in the club playing darts when the terrorists struck."

The attack occurred in Bleary, a village 20 miles southwest of Belfast.

The killings raised the confirmed death toll from violence in Northern Ireland to 59 since the Irish Republican Army declared a cease-fire on Feb. 10 in its guerrilla war against British and Protestant rule in Northern Ireland.

Most of those killed have been Catholics, and the police blame Protestant extremists trying to sabotage the truce.

In other weekend violence, three men were wounded, one seriously, by a bomb planted in their car while they were drinking early Sunday in a Catholic bar at Banbridge, County Down. Another bomb wrecked a Protestant's home near Ballygawley, County Tyrone.

British troops came under fire in a Catholic district of Belfast and fired into the air to disperse hostile crowds in Londonderry. Twenty persons, including 14 policemen, were injured Saturday in Belfast when several hundred Catholics tried to disrupt thousands of Protestants marching in an Orange Order parade.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

Partly cloudy and mild Wednesday through Friday. Highs will be in the mid to upper 70s and lows in the 50s.

MAKING PROGRESS—Construction on the new Pitt County Memorial, according to hospital administrator Jack Richardson, is about 33 percent complete. The view above of the new facility is a front view with approximately all of the steel in place. Richardson said that the possible completion date is December of 1976. The new hospital will have 370 beds. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Thirteen Dead In N.C. Traffic

By The Associated Press
A Raleigh woman was killed Sunday when her car was struck by a police car answering an emergency call.

Police claim the car in which the victim, Brendatins Bullock, 18, was riding pulled into the path of the police car.

Miss Bullock was among 13 persons who lost their lives over the weekend in traffic accidents across North Carolina.

The latest victims brought North Carolina's highway death toll for the year to 385, compared with 456 for the same period last year.

Thomas Lee Jones, 29, of Plymouth was killed Sunday in a head-on collision seven miles west of Pantego.

Rickey Franklin Gadd, 18, of Biscoe died when his car crashed off a rural road near Spring Lake.

Juanita Morris Corvett, 42, of Weldon was killed in a collision

11 miles north of Scotland Neck.

William Michael McCracken, 28, of Henderson died Sunday when his motorcycle overturned eight miles north of Franklinton.

James M. Monroe, 4, of Rt. 4 Fayetteville was struck and killed by a car near his Cumberland County home.

Glenn P. Johnson, 25, of Winston-Salem was killed when his motorcycle crashed before dawn Sunday in Winston-Salem.

Jayne Melissa Henson, 19, of Boone died late Saturday when the car in which she was riding ran off a road near Boone and plunged down an embankment.

Diane T. Weldon, 17, of West Hartford, Conn., was killed Saturday when the car in which she was riding struck a guard rail on Interstate 95 near Weldon.

Stephen Lane Stilwell, 20, of Rt. 5, Thomasville and Cindy Anne Grainger, 15, of Thomasville died when their car struck a tree near Thomasville late Friday.

Gary Edward Blue, 18, of Asheboro was killed when his car struck a freight train in Asheboro and exploded early Saturday.

Lisa Rochell Blankenship, 5, was fatally injured by a car Friday near Charlotte.

Church Will Trim Budget

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Presbyterian Church of the U.S. says it will cut its budget by $1.4 million and order five per cent pay cuts for denomination employees in an economy move.

The action taken by the 900,000-member denomination's General Executive Board over the weekend is an attempt to recoup a $2 million deficit in the 1974 budget, the board said.

During the four-day meeting the board also elected Rev. George Telford to replace Rev. Joseph L. Roberts Jr. as staff director of the Division of Corporate and Social Missions.

Dr. Roberts resigned in January to become pastor of Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta when Rev. Martin Luther King Sr. retires later this year.

The board voted to trim the denomination's 1975 budget from $9 million to $7.6 million, spreading the pay and program cuts among the church's six divisions.

Arrest Two Viet Refugees Feeling Shock

FOUNTAIN — Two persons were arrested near here early Sunday morning on charges of participating in pre-arranged racing by the North Carolina State Highway Patrol, assisted by Fountain Police Chief Floyd Lucas.

Trooper W. A. Basnight of Farmville, identified the two drivers charged with pre-arranged racing as Robert Earl Bynum of 203 Greenfield Blvd., Greenville, and Edmond Earl Phillips of Route 1, Fountain.

According to Trooper Basnight, he and Chief Lucas saw the two cars driven by Bynum and Phillips race three times along rural paved road 1238 just North of Fountain. Following the third race, the vehicles stopped near the intersection of U.S. 285. The officers then ran to the stopped vehicles, jumped in with the drivers, and placed them under arrest.

Between 50 and 75 spectators ran from the scene when the two lawmen ran from their hiding place to make the arrests.

Both cars, a 1965 and a 1969 Buick were confiscated pending action by the court in the cases, and Bynum and Phillips were placed under a $500 bond each.

The arrests took place about 2 a.m.

AGANA, Guam (AP) — Displaced and stunned, thousands of Vietnamese refugees clustered in sweltering tents today in Guam waiting for word of their fate.

"My wife just doesn't know what happened to her," said one Vietnamese. "Suddenly we have no home."

The mood of the dusty, sun-scorched "Tent City" where more than 5,000 now live is a state of shock.

"My little girl just cries and cries," said a Vietnamese mother. "I try to tell her the freedom life will come soon. But in Saigon she had so many toys. Here she has nothing. We have nothing."

Inside a steaming tent, a 7-month-old baby, wearing only a diaper, swung in a make-shift hammock.

"In Saigon, he had his own air conditioned room," said his mother. But the baby gurgled and smiled. He was adjusting.

The adult tenants of "Tent City" do not fare as well. Water is in short supply and residents must hike as much as a mile for it.

A similar long walk faces the refugees at meal time, when they hike to a central mess tent to be fed. Hundreds of men, women and children stood in long lines under a blazing sun today to get their rations of rice, chili, canned fruit and a hamburger bun.

One young woman, waiting in the sun for 90 minutes, slumped to the ground and was carried away. Others have fainted while standing in the food line.

Groups of newly arrived refugees came to "Tent City" in yellow school buses where they sat quietly for long hours awaiting processing.

Those already settled in the make-shift community languished outside tents, taking shade under small awnings of cardboard. Others waited at the immigration tent, numbers pinned to their clothing, waiting their turn to leave for the new life promised them.

GCC Championship For Vance Taylor

Vance Taylor fell off the pace of his first round 70 to score an 80 but managed to hang on to a one stroke victory over sudden-death second place finisher Dick

Evans, Jr. and win the Greenville Country Club Golf Championship, this weekend. Taylor's 150 two-day total was a shot better than Evans' 151 who was tied with Frank Hill and last year's champ Lee Ball after the regulation two rounds. In the playoff, Hill fell out on the first hole. He caught a bunker with his approach shot and two-putted for a bogey. Evans and Ball both carded pars. Ball's tee shot on the second hole was wide right but Evans lined a one iron down the middle of the fairway, ball's second shot sailed over the green while Evans' sand wedge hit the middle. Ball chipped within 35 feet of the green but two-putted as Evans parred the hole and claimed second.

The winner of the first flight was first round leader Connor Merritt, III with a 154. He won a playoff over Joe Murrad and Charles Vincent who also scored 154's.

Charlie White edged Boyd Lee by a stroke to win the second flight, 161-162 with Cameron Dudley taking third at 165. Reg Aiken had a close battle with Dan Wooten coming out on top by two strokes with a 167.

Ed Tipton carded a 164 to win the fourth flight. He had a 78 Saturday for the first round lead beating Tom Haigwood, 168, and Bill Turcotte, 169. Reid Hooper won the fifth flight by the biggest spread of the tournament beating Alex White by six strokes. Hooper shot a 185 and White a 191. Ken Harris took third in the flight with a 195.

Catfish Throws Three-Hitter In Winning His First For Yankees

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Catfish Hunter almost earned his $3 million in one fell swoop Sunday.

He came within four outs of pitching the New York Yankees' first no-hitter since Don Larsen's perfect game in the 1956 World Series, finally settling for a three-hit 10-1 triumph over the Milwaukee Brewers in the second game of a doubleheader.

And it came just when the New York Yankees were starting to wonder whether the fellow they shelled out all that money for was the same pitcher who won 88 games in the last four years for the Oakland A's. He brought an 0-3 record and 7.36 earned run average into the game.

"I might have gotten more publicity by losing than winning," Hunter said. "I think it will settle down now."

Hunter had to share the spotlight with Milwaukee's Hank Aaron, whose two-run double in the Brewers' 7-0 victory in the opener enabled him to tie Babe Ruth at the top of the all-time RBI list with 2209.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Detroit Tigers edged the Boston Red Sox 5-4, the Baltimore Orioles trimmed the Cleveland Indians 6-1, the Oakland A's whipped the California Angels 7-1 but dropped the nightcap 9-1 and the Chicago White Sox shaded the Kansas City Royals 8-6. The Texas-Minnesota doubleheader was rained out.

Hunter allowed Milwaukee only a third-inning walk and had retired 15 batters in a row when rookie Sixto Lezcano stroked a single between third and short with two out in the eighth. Tim Johnson followed with a bloop single and Robin Yount homered with one out in the ninth, spoiling the millionaire right-hander's shutout bid.

The Yankees backed Hunter with an 11-hit attack, including home runs by Herrmann and Elliott Maddox.

Milwaukee won the opener behind Pete Broberg's three-hitter. Aaron bounced a two-run double inside third base off reliever Dick Tidrow during a five-run uprising in the seventh inning, driving in runs No. 2,208 and 2,209 of his 22-year career to catch Ruth. However, the 41-year-old slugger went hitless in four trips against Hunter.

"He's a $3 million pitcher," Aaron said.

Tigers 5, Red Sox 4
Ben Oglivie drove in three runs, two with a homer, as the Tigers made three in a row over the Red Sox and remained atop the AL East. Ron LeFlore snapped a 2-2 tie with a solo homer in the fourth and an inning later Oglivie unloaded his first homer of the season after Dan Meyer singled. Bernie Carbo hit two homers and Dwight Evans had one for Boston.

Orioles 6, Indians 1

Jim Palmer, continuing his comeback from major arm trouble, notched his third victory, stopping Cleveland on seven hits. Palmer, 7-12 last year after four consecutive 20-victory seasons, was supported by an 11-hit attack which included a solo home run by Ken Singleton.

"He's throwing the ball as good as he ever did," Manager Earl Weaver said of Palmer, who has an 0.78 earned run average, having given up only 22 hits and three earned runs in 342-3 innings while winning three of four decisions.

A's 7-1, Angels 1-9
California's Bruce Bochte drove in three runs with a homer and double in the nightcap and then was hit in the head by a pitch, triggering a sixth-inning melee. The A's took the opener 7-1 as Vida Blue fired a five-hitter and became the first five-game winner in the American League. He has lost once.

Bochte was struck on the helmet by a pitch from reliever Jim Todd after the Angels scored four runs in the sixth, boosting their lead to 9-1. When Bochte slumped at the plate, California Manager Dick Williams, the former Oakland skipper, charged from the dugout

Petty Grabbed Lead To Take Virginia 500

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP)—Richard Petty, the Randleman, N. C., Dodge driver who looks on Martinsville Speedway as almost a second home, says, "I wasn't able to do anything until we got in about 200 laps" of the 20th annual Virginia 500 Grand National stock car race.

But Petty took the lead on the 201st lap and held it for 263 of the last 300 as he posted his 14th career victory Sunday over the .525-mile track in the $71,675 event, the richest short-track race in National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing history.

The triumph, the 169th in Petty's 18-year career, earned him not only the top prize of $14,000 but $5,000 for leading the most laps. In a race slowed by a slippery track and four caution flags for 62 laps, Petty averaged 69.282 miles per hour.

Petty was 17 seconds ahead of Chevrolet driver Darrell Waltrip of Franklin, Tenn., after taking the lead for the final time with just 20 laps left.

Defending Virginia 500 champion Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S. C., was third in a Chevrolet; Bobby Allison of Daytona Beach, Fla., fourth in his first short-track start in a Matador; and Dave Marcis of Wasau, Wis., fifth in a Dodge.

Benny Parsons of Ellerbe, N. C., who started on the pole for the first time in his NASCAR Winston Cup career, led the first 63 laps, but had troubles—including a flat tire—and finished sixth.

Waltrip tried to beat out Petty by running the last 125 laps without a pit stop for fresh tires. "I pretty well knew I could catch him. Old Darrell was doing a fine job out there, but I figured it would have been more of a gamble to run the rest of the way without stopping for tires than it was to stop," said Petty.

So Petty pitted 50 laps from the end for right-side tires.

"I was leading by about 11 seconds when I made the final stop, and I was behind by about 11 seconds when I came back on the track," said Petty.

"Right there at first, it looked like we might be in trouble. But then Darrell, he couldn't stick a lick, he was slipping and sliding all over the place, and I caught right up."

Petty closed in on Waltrip's rear on the 480th lap, dropped low into the third turn and Waltrip had to give way as Petty grabbed the lead and pulled away unchallenged.

Waltrip earned $8,000, Yarborough $5,000, Allison $4,000, Marcis $2,500 and Parsons $2,800, including $1,300 for winning the pole.

Seven drivers exchanged the lead 18 times, and two bigname starters were casualties.

David Pearson of Spartanburg, S. C., went out after 280 laps with differential problems and outside pole winner Donnie Allison of Hueytown, Ala., quit after 248 laps when he lost his brakes.

Because of the early heavy traffic, Petty bided his time.

"I couldn't go nowhere, 'cause nobody could pass the way that track was, so I just kinda waited until everybody else started slowing down."

Polyglas Radial WT Whitewall

Goodyear's new Polyglas tire makes it easy to join the switch to radials—especially during this sale period. This 70-series wide tread combines radial handling and performance with the built-in qualities of fiber-glass cord belts and polyester cord body. The grip-block tread was designed to grip dry pavement with an assurance you can feel. When roads are wet, wide tread grooves help channel water out from between the road and the tire for good road contact, good stopping traction. This 30,000 mile radial is a remarkable value—especially during this sale period. Act now.

Friday Game Decides Third Place In S.C.

By The Associated Press
With The Citadel's Bulldogs having won the championship and Davidson's Wildcats having clinched the No. 2 spot, the only bone of contention in the Southern Conference baseball race is third place.

That will be settled Friday night when East Carolina's 1974 champion Pirates invade The Citadel for the last league game of the season. A victory for East Carolina, 8-5 in league play, would give the Pirates the

No. 3 spot.

Should the Pirates—who ended The Citadel's eight-game over-all win streak and 10-game string inside the conference with an 8-6 victory Saturday—fall this time to the Bulldogs, East Carolina would finish tied with Furman's Paladins and Richmond's Spiders, both 8-6.

Saturday's defeat dropped The Citadel to 11-2 in league play, but Davidson nailed second at 10-4 with a 5-4, 7-0 sweep over Virginia Military's Keydets.

Richmond fell into a tie with Furman by dividing a Sunday twin bill at Appalachian, the Spiders winning the opener 4-1 and the Mountaineers the nightcap 11-4. That lifted Appalachian to 6-8, followed by William and Mary's Indians at 3-11 and VMI at 1-13.

In a Sunday nonleague encounter, The Citadel boosted its over-all record to 21-5 with a 13-3 romp over Coastal Carolina as Gene Dotson set a school season record by hitting his eighth home run.

Graceful In T-of-C Loss

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — "It's nice," observed Gary Player, "to see the nice guys win once in a while."

But, while he gave full credit to Al Geiberger for the bold birdie putt that beat him in a sudden death playoff for the title in the Tournament of Champions, Player had some second thoughts, too.

"Now I'm going home to South Africa," said the globetrotting Player. "It's 10,000 miles. I'm leaving tonight. And I'll tell you one thing: Ten thousand miles is a long way to think about missing a putt."

He missed one of about 12 feet, perhaps less, on the play-off hole that would have extended the tourney at least another hole.

"I thought it was a perfect putt," he said. But it missed. He slumped over, his hands dangling in despair as it just slid by the left side.

Then Geiberger, whose timidity had cost him a shot at an outright victory on the last hole of regulation play, firmly, authoritatively, rammed home a shorter one — maybe nine feet — for the birdie that secured him his seventh title in 16 years on the pro golf tour.

"I didn't want to go back out there," the soft-spoken, easy-going, mild-mannered Geiberger said of the playoff. "I was just holding on. I had to pull myself together to make myself go back out there."

He got some help.

Geiberger went to the last hole of regulation play with a one-stroke lead over Player. He put his approach some 35 feet from the cup and needed only to get it down in two.

But he timidly left his first putt six or seven feet short. And he missed that. It was a bogey and he and Player were tied at 277, 11 under par on the 6,855-yard La Costa Country Club course. Geiberger, the leader since the second round, had a closing 73 and Player made up six shots with a 67.

With the 1975 track season drawing toward its close, the Rose High School track teams continues to dominate the area's times and distances.

Friday's Pitt County Meet turned into a lopsided affair as the Rampants ran away with the boys' title. This afternoon, the girls' are set to vie for their first championship.

The boys' meet, however, was spoiled by the non-showing of Ayden-Grifton and North Pitt. Only Rose, Farmville Central and Conley turned out for the event.

Among the girls' teams, Rose and Farmville Central had already won their respective league titles, with the boys' meets, and the Northeastern girls' meets this week.

Lindberg Morris of Rose High School is the only triple leader in the area. He has the best time in the 220-yard dash, and the best distances in the triple and long jumps. Doug Paschal of Rose is the only other double winner, leading in both the shot and the discus.

Maritha Kilpatrick of Ayden-Grifton is the leading girl with best times in the mile and the 440-yard dash. Fannie Johnson of Rose leads in two events also, the 220 and the 100, but she is only a share-holder in the 100, having her best time matched by Valerie Speller of Williamston.

In the boys events, Rose has the best times distances in 11 events. They are tied with Greene Central for another. The Rams have one other leader. Farmville Central leads in three events.

The Rose girls pace the way in five events, tying with Williamston for another. The Tigerettes lead in one other. Ayden-Grifton and Farmville Central both lead three events, while Conley leads one.

Connors Is Rated 'Best'

By PATRICK ARNOLD
Associated Press Writer
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Jimmy Connors has erased any doubt — even in the minds of the Australians — who is the world's No. 1 tennis player ... and he gained himself a half million dollars in doing so.

Armed with confidence, speed and accuracy, Connors defeated No. 2-ranked John Newcombe Saturday in an internationally televised match at Caesars Palace 6-3, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4.

And today, Australian newspapers crowned Connors the world's best, though none professed a liking for the irascible tennis star.

"John Newcombe, looking like a tired old man, doffed his hat to Jimmy Connors, the young hell-raiser of tennis," the Sydney Daily Telegraph said.

But the newspaper went on to say: "For a sportsman, competitor and all-around good bloke, we couldn't ask for a better emissary."

Sluggers Captured Preseason Tourney

The Little Sluggers captured first place in the combination City-Church League preseason tournament this weekend, winning their way to the finals where they beat Black Jack, 8-0.

In reacting the finals, the Sluggers beat Kentucky Fried Chicken, 5-2, and Trinity, 17-1, in Sunday games after advancing in Saturday's play with a 23-2 romp over Baggett's.

Sunday's title game saw the Sluggers scoring four runs in both the third and fifth innings while holding Black Jack scoreless to win easily.

In other games Sunday during the single-elimination tournament, Black Jack, which had drawn a first-round bye along with Kentucky Fried Chicken, advanced with wins over Moose, 7-3, and Pier Five, 5-3. Pier Five had advanced by eliminating One-Hour Koretizing, 6-4. The only other game leading up to the finals saw Trinity stop Daniel's Construction 11-10 before losing to the Sluggers, 17-1.

Sign Three For Coaches' Game

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Three more players have been signed to play June 21 in the 15th annual Coaches All-America football game here.

Baylor Coach Grant Teaff, who will lead the West team, signed one of his former players, quarterback Neal Jeffrey, who led the Bears to their first Southwest Conference football title in 50 years last season.

East Coach Steve Sloan, formerly of Vanderbilt but now coach at Texas Tech here, added two players. They are Michigan's David Brown and Miami middle guard Rubin Carter.

Johnny Miller In May Classic

DALLAS (AP) — Johnny Miller, one of the hottest stars on the pro golf tour last year and at times this year, has committed to play in the $175,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic May 5-11.

Miller was the 1974 PGA Player of the Year, winning eight championships and banking $353,000. He won the first two tournaments of the second and finished second in the Masters.

Aycock Edged Out By Greene Central

SNOW HILL — Greene Central High School pushed over four first inning runs, then held off Charles B. Aycock's fifth inning rally to take a 4-3 victory Saturday night.

Dunn moved to third. Fitch singled Dunn in with the third run. With two away, the next two batters walked to lead them up, but the Rams were able to kill the rally there.

The Rams got all their runs in the opening frame. Jerry Carraway walked and Tim Butts singled. William Brown got a hit to score Carraway and moved on to second on the relay. Thomas Hooker drove in both Butts and Brown, and also moved up when the ball was thrown home. Ronnie Whitley then singled in Hooker.

All four of the Aycock hits were infield hits.

Greene Central is now 7-3 in the Eastern Carolina Conference and 8-6 overall. They travel to Eastern Wayne on Thursday night.

Stuttering Helped Mel In Country Music Field

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Stuttering has helped Mel Tillis in his country music career and now he hopes it aids him in getting a situation-comedy television series.

"It could be about a person who stutters," Tillis said in an interview in his song-publishing office. "I wouldn't want it to be offensive, but helpful to people who do stutter."

"I'd like to do something where people say, 'Look at that guy. He stutters but he's making people laugh. Maybe I can do that too.'"

"I like comedy," he added. "I think I have a good shot at it."

Tillis, 42, has stuttered since contracting malaria at age 3, although it doesn't affect his singing.

"Singing is a kind of mechanical helper," he explained. "I'm stuttering better every day," he said. "Seriously, it's getting better, but I don't know if it will disappear. Fifteen years ago I couldn't say a thing without stuttering."

"It's been helpful to me; it's opened a lot of doors for me," he said.

He does several routines poking fun at his stuttering.

"I like an audience — I like to make 'em laugh," he said. "I've got a lot of ham in me."

He was a regular on the Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour and has appeared on the Tony Orlando & Dawn show, Hee Haw, Love, American Style and various talk shows.

His show on Love, American Style was called "Love and The Stuttering Cowboy."

He had his own syndicated music show last winter but lost his sponsor.

Although he has written close to 1,000 songs, he's been concentrating the past few years on television appearances and recording.

"Best Way I Know How," his current hit, has been as high as

No. 7 on the country music charts.

Aside from his stuttering and his television appearances, he's best known in music circles as the writer of "Detroit City," a standard, and "Ruby, Don't Take Your Love To Town."

He said he measures success by "work, dedication and a certain amount of discipline. I may be out on my tractor at my farm, but I'm still thinking about a song."

Worker Trend To New Jobs

NEW YORK (UPI) — A desire to change job, a fairly new phenomenon in Japan, is on the increase among workers there. A survey by economists of The Fuji Bank Ltd. shows that 4.4 per cent of all Japanese workers would like to change their jobs. Just two years ago the figure was three per cent.

Scientists Go Deep In Earth

BARBERTON, Ohio (AP) — Scientists are going deep below the earth's surface in their relentless quest for more knowledge about the stars.

In the world's deepest limestone mine, half a mile below PPG Industries' chemical complex at Barberton, a stellar observatory has been installed to measure energy believed released by dying stars.

This star study links similar underground observatories at the Homestead Mine at Lead, S.D., and the Mont Blanc tunnel in Italy.

It is designed to track and measure antineutrinos, massless high-energy particles thought to be emitted by collapsing stars.

"Historically scientists have concentrated on studying the surface of the stars," said Dr. Kenneth Lande, a University of Pennsylvania physics professor in charge of the Barberton project.

"One of the interesting questions now is how the energy a star radiates is created and given off."

Lande, colleagues from his university and scientists from the University of Texas, hope to show that antineutrinos are emitted by dying stars, to locate the sources of the particles and to measure the frequency of the bursts.

To capture the elusive particles, huge steel containers filled with tons of deionized water have been installed at each site. The sites deep in the earth were selected to protect sensitive measuring equipment attached to the containers from cosmic radiation common on the earth's surface.

The deep earth sites present no problems in studying antineutrinos. Lande said antineutrinos pass completely through matter and detectors count as many impulses coming through the other side of the earth as through the roof of the mines.

When an antineutrino enters a detector it reacts with water, creating a light impulse which is monitored by photo tubes at one end of the container. The intensity of the light impulse and the entry time of the particle are recorded by clocks capable of measuring time to one 20-millionth of a second, Lande said.

By comparing entry times of particles at each observatory, the direction of the neutrino's flight can be determined by a process similar to triangulation, Lande said.

Addition of a fourth observatory in the Soviet Union this

Art Show Focuses on The Human Body

By C. G. McDaniel
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — The torment that creative artists suffer is graphically — almost too graphically — portrayed in an exhibition of "Bodyworks" at the Museum of Contemporary Art in Chicago.

This exhibition, said to be the first in an American museum devoted to this type of work, is made up of photographs, adapted photographs and videotapes of artists obsessed with their own images, their own bodies.

The work is, in a sense, in the mainstream of art in that historically artists have been fascinated with their own images and have painted numerous self-portraits.

But these images go beyond such portraiture in that they are designed to depict various personalities of the artists, often in various guises, and their various moods — including suicidal.

The tormented beings to be seen in many likewise recall the disturbed Vincent van Gogh, who cut off his ear.

Among the least tormented of the pictures are 112 photographs of Klaus Rinke of Düsseldorf, Germany, who uses his arms and hands to disguise, exaggerate or emphasize various aspects of his face.

Bruce Nauman of Pasadena, Calif., is playful in his self-imagery. One photograph shows him squirting water into the air and is called "Self-Portrait as a Fountain."

Lucas Samaras, a Greek living in New York, shows himself naked in a series of highly autoerotic photographs and photographic collages and transformations in the most imaginative of the presentations of self.

Alan Sonst, a New Yorker, poses naked as a corpse in a series called "Body Continues after Death as a Work of Art."

Gina Pane, who lives in Paris, is represented by blood photographs of her slashed stomach.

Rudolf Schwartzkogler, an Austrian, achieved the unenviable ultimate in using himself as a medium. He mutilated himself until he died in 1969, at age 29.

Arnulf Rainer of Austria is shown in a series of photographs with some overdrawing in poses of religious martyrdom.

The exhibition can hardly be said to be pleasant or fun, except for a masochist.

It does, however, put the viewer in touch with troubling emotions and associations which lie deeply buried in the unconscious mind. These can be hard to take.

Others represented in the show, which ran through April, are:

Eleanor Antin, Solana Beach, Calif.; Ben Vautier, Nice, France; Joseph Beuys, Düsseldorf; Gunter Brus, Berlin; Chris Burden, Venice, Calif.; Gilbert and George, London; Ross Hamilton and Curtis Fisher, Chicago; Urs Luthi, Zurich; Adrian Piper, Cambridge, Mass.; and Vito Acconci, Peter Hutchinson, Robert Morris, Dennis Oppenheim and William Wegman of New York.

Branch, authorized to sell at Public Auction, for Cash, the hereinafter described real estate to make assets for the Estate of L. N. Branch; and, whereas, pursuant to said Order the undersigned, North Carolina National Bank Administrator D.B.N. of the Estate of L. N. Branch, will on the 26th of May, 1975, at 12:00 Noon, at the door of the Courthouse in Greenville, North Carolina, offer for sale to the highest bidder for Cash, but subject to the confirmation by the Court, those certain tracts or parcels of land lying and being in Ayden and Greenville, Winterville Townships, Pitt County, North Carolina, and more particularly described as follows:

FIRST PARCEL: Lying and being in Ayden Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, and more particularly described as follows: Lying and being on the South side of First Street, Town of Ayden, North Carolina, and beginning at a point in the southern edge of First Street which point is 26 feet west of the intersection of the southern edge of first street and the western edge of Venter Street and running thence in a southerly direction with the Jenkins line 130 feet to a corner; thence in a westerly direction almost parallel with first street 26 feet to Helen Smith's line; thence with Helen Smith's line in a northerly direction 131 feet to a point in the edge of First Street; thence with the southern edge of First Street in an easterly direction 26 feet to the beginning. Being the same property deeded to John Artis and the heirs of John Artis by C. E. Smith by that deed which is recorded in Book G-24, at page 89 of the Pitt County Public Registry and subsequently conveyed to Linwood L. Branch by that deed of record in Book X-30, page 177 of the Pitt County Public Registry.

SECOND PARCEL: Situated in the Town of Ayden and on the West side of Railroad Avenue, BEGINNING at A. B. Garri's corner on said avenue and extending a southerly course 110 feet; thence a westerly course 113 feet to a ditch; thence a northerly course with said ditch 113 feet; thence an easterly course 113 feet to the beginning. Being the same lot or parcel of land formerly owned by J. A. Johnson.

On other tract or parcel of land adjoining the above described property, BEGINNING at a stake at the west end of the line of L. C. Stokes and extending a southerly course 14 feet, more or less to J. B. Garri's or Hatfield Armstrong's line; thence an easterly course with J. B. Garri's or Hatfield Armstrong's line 48 feet to a ditch; thence a southerly course with said ditch 14 feet, more or less to the beginning. The above described property being the identical property described in a deed from W. H. Woodard, liquidating agent of the Bank of Ayden to S. K. Jackson.

The above two lots being the same property deeded to Katie Sawyer Jackson by S. K. Jackson, by that deed which is recorded in Book K-18, page 289 of the Public Registry and conveyed to L. N. Branch by deed of record in Book J-34, page 588 of the Pitt County Public Registry.

The above described tracts or parcels of land shall be offered for sale separately and the successful bidder therefor shall be required to deposit ten (10 percent) percent of his bid as evidence of Good Faith, pending confirmation of this sale by the Court. This sale if further made subject to any outstanding taxes and assessments on said property.

MAY I PLAY THROUGH?—This young squirrel fell out of a tree on a golf course and apparently mistook golfer Robert Heff's golf club for just another limb. After deciding there was nothing tasty around a driving tee, the squirrel scampered up a nearby pine. (AP Wirephoto)

Seedlings To Be Forests

FORT TOWSON, Okla. (UPI) — The first commercially raised loblolly pine seedlings produced by a private firm in Oklahoma are ready for transplanting to become future forests.

"Next year at this time we expect to produce as many as 35 million seedlings—a 10-fold increase over our first year's production here at Fort Towson," nursery superintendent Richard Franklin said.

Franklin said the Fort Towson Forest Regeneration Center is the newest of nine tree nurseries the Weyerhaeuser Co. has established throughout the nation to grow most of the estimated 200 million trees the company will plant during 1975 on 5.7 million acres of timberland.

The 295-acre Oklahoma nursery, the first privately owned facility of its kind in the state, includes a modern seedling packing building and a cold storage room with a 20-million-seedling capacity. It was not located by chance in the gently rolling sand hills of Choctaw County, Franklin said.

"We had to find a relatively large site, with deep, sandy soil," he said. "We also had to have plenty of water available for irrigation; a good local, seasonal labor supply; and the final site we selected had to be located close to the natural range of loblolly pine."

Tap Dancing Sees Revival

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Tap dancing is making a comeback.

"Tap dancing is more popular now than it has been any time since the 1940s," says Rose Ann Tyler, who has been teaching dancing in this area for 29 years. "We have had 40 new tap students in the last two weeks. I've never had that happen before."

Mrs. Gladys Gairaud, manager of the Menlo Park Academy of Dance, has 129 women and three men taking tap lessons there.

"We're in hard times, looking for things to give us a good time, some body conditioning and a chance to walk away feeling happy," says Mrs. Gairaud. "We're going back to the era of the '30s.'"

"That's Entertainment," a film collection of highlights from movie musicals, is believed to be partly responsible for the tap dance making a comeback.

Michael Brown, 17, of East Palo Alto, has seen "That's Entertainment" four times. "The artists in that movie were total entertainers, Fred Astaire and all of them. Tap is a means of becoming a whole entertainer. It always has been," Brown plans to continue with his lessons.

C-of-C Plans Honor Autry

CHELSEA, Okla. (UPI) — Gene Autry sometimes passed the hours by singing when he was a Frisco Railroad telegrapher in Chelsea. Among those who liked his singing was humorist Will Rogers.

At Rogers' suggestion, Autry auditioned at a Tulsa radio station and began a career in recording and motion pictures that made him one of Hollywood's most wealthy performers.

The Chelsea Chamber of Commerce plans to make Autry an honorary member and will send him a plaque denoting his membership.

Live Annimals On Library Loan

By JAMES O. CLIFFORD
WALNUT CREEK, Calif. (UPI) — The best sellers at the Pet Library Club live in cages.

Children in this San Francisco Bay Area community not only get a chance to read about animals, they also can take home one of their furry little friends.

The unusual club, which works just like a regular library, is part of the Alexander Lindsay Jr. Museum which contains hundreds of wild and tame animals children can touch and hold.

"Only the tame, domesticated animals can be checked out by the children, of course," museum director Sam Smoker said. "The wild animals are just too erratic in behavior."

The youngsters can pick from 250 animals to take home for a week. The animals include rats, rabbits, guinea pigs and chinchillas.

"We probably have the most extensive checkout program of its kind in the country," Smoker said. "Mostly we try to have animals that are native to our area."

The purpose of the lending library is to give children an opportunity to learn the responsibility needed for taking care of a pet. The museum provides a cage and food.

"The children have to be 6 years old and parents must sign a form," Smoker said. "It is very rare that we have a case of mistreatment."

The museum conducted a study over a two-year period and found that 10,046 children and teachers borrowed animals for a total of 70,322 days.

"This is equivalent to one person having an animal out for 192 years," Smoker said.

Smoker attributes the library's success to an army of 300 volunteers who "have installed new enthusiasm throughout our entire program."

Adult volunteers work with local schools and help with the animals while youth workers take part in various programs that simultaneously teach them skills and keep the museum running.

The animal lending library is only one aspect of the extensive museum.

Visitors can also come in contact with hundreds of "tame" wild animals they can pet.

"It's only through getting to know and understand the wild creatures that people can learn to appreciate and protect them," Smoker said as he walked through the museum reptile room.

"People have fears regarding certain animals and by getting to know them these fears can

Curtailed By The Economy

NEW YORK (UPI) — Current economic conditions have forced many youth-related groups and public school systems across the country to curtail or eliminate activities in the areas of athletics, science and recreation. According to Information for Business of New York City, the recession has affected the Girl Scouts of America, Camp Fire Girls, Science Clubs of America and public school athletic programs in New York City, San Francisco, Philadelphia, Kansas City, Mo., Cincinnati and Savannah.

be overcome."

As he talked a rattlesnake, separated from the viewer by a window, began to rattle. A newsman walking with Smoker jumped a little and then stepped back.

"See what I mean," the museum director said.

In a cage next to the rattler was "Claire," the resident boa constrictor.

Volunteers frequently take Claire on tours to local schools where children can pet her.

The museum literature tells children they can discover for themselves "that snakes aren't cold and slimy. How? Why by touching and handling some of them, silly!"

If the visitor is bothered by the sound of the rattler he'll jump again when he steps into the next room and sees two giant uncaged black vultures flapping their wings.

It may be hard to convince a city dweller, but staff members insist that to "know a vulture is to love a vulture."

Other favorites in the museum are two San Joaquin foxes, a ringtail cat, a great horned owl, a raven and a raccoon.

"Porky" the porcupine is one of the animals visitors love to pet, but usually only after museum workers assure them "she can't throw her quills any farther than you can throw your hair."

the Newport Alive with pleasure Guide

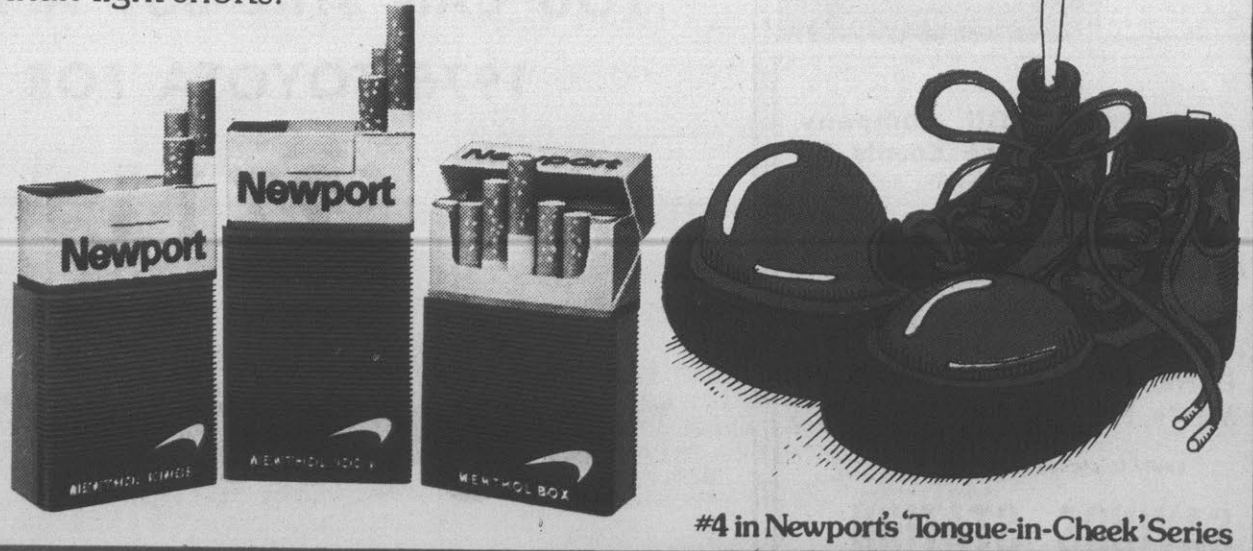

How to get pleasure from tight shoes.

Tight shoes can really be a laugh, that is if they're on someone else's feet.

When tight shoes are on your feet, keep in mind:

- a) They'll keep your socks pressed.
- b) They'll make the blood rush to your head, and you'll look like you've been to Florida.
- c) They'll aid agriculture, your corns will flourish.
- d) They'll teach your toes the true meaning of togetherness.

And remember, tight shoes are always better than tight shorts.

Garden Can Please Eyes And Stomach

BOSTON (UPI) — A gardener who plants cabbages among the chrysanthemums and lettuce beside French marigolds will have a feast for the eyes as well as the stomach.

Companion planting has many rewards and few hazards, writes Joan Means in Horticulture magazine. It is an old idea revived. Tomatoes and globe artichokes once were grown only as ornamentals, while roses, nasturtiums and chrysanthemums were for eating.

Mrs. Means warns against using the rose garden for companion planting because some fungicides and insecticides used on flowers can be dangerous if they drift onto food plants.

Cabbages and globe artichokes make attractive borders beside the house, she wrote, and they have the added advantage of being nearby for picking.

Mrs. Means uses New Zealand spinach as groundcover under rugosa roses and blueberries as ornamental shrubs.

She recommends dwarf curly kale for edging and regular size kale for accent plants. Brussels sprouts pruned of their lower leaves resemble miniature palm trees, and pepper plants can be pruned to look like miniature elms.

Purple cauliflower, which turns green in cooking, also makes a good accent plant, she wrote.

Mrs. Means suggests rhubarb on the sunny edge of a shrub border or in a foundation planting, but warned that the ribbed leaves, although beautiful, are poisonous. For a similar but small-scale effect, she recommends Swiss chard for hiding the stems of tall zinnias or the dying foliage of Oriental poppies.

If you do grow vegetables among your flowers, she said, be sure you can identify the edibles and inedibles.

"Mistaking daffodil leaves for onion tops or foxglove leaves for spinach would be the sort of thing only an Agatha Christie villain should do."

HIGH GODDESS

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Ceres, the mythological goddess of grain and bountiful harvests, stands 400 feet above the Missouri River atop the state capitol.
