Wholesale Prices Reverse Trend In April; Sharply Up

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices reversed a four-month decline and rose 1.5 per cent in April as farm prices increased sharply, the Labor Department reported today.

one-tenth of 1 per cent, the same as in March. Farm and food prices often change erratically from month to month, and because of this most economists regard trends in industrial prices as a truer measure of inflation. Nevertheless, the April increase in wholesale food prices seems to indicate a new increase is likely in retail grocery prices, which had dropped over the past two months.

products. The biggest increases in the farm area were for livestock, which rose 11.6 per cent last month, and fresh fruit and vegetables, which advanced 12 per cent. Prices of sugar and confectionary products fell sharply and cereal and bakery products, beverage materials and edible fats and oils also declined.

Ford 'Holiday'

DETROIT (AP) — Virtually all of Ford Motor Co.'s manufacturing employees will be on vacation for two to three weeks in July as the auto maker takes the unprecedented step of closing all 64 plants.

The Ford administration has forecast an inflation rate of about 6 or 7 per cent this year, or about half the 12.2 per cent increase in all of 1974 in the Consumer Price Index, the key measure of inflation. The consumer index climbed 6.6 per cent at a seasonally adjusted annual rate for the first three months of the year. Wholesale prices have risen at an adjusted annual rate of six tenths of a per cent over the past three months, compared with increases of 14.2 per cent during the final three months of 1974 and 34.9 per cent in the quarter ended last September.

Refugee Aid Is Pushed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's emergency aid request to help up to 150,000 Indochina refugees start new lives is on an accelerated timetable for House action next week, following unanimous subcommittee approval.

NEW MENTAL HEALTH FACILITY . . . This is an architects conception of what the new Pitt County Mental Health clinic will look like. The building, costing an estimated $428,400, contains about 12,000 square feet of space. Funds for the project include $300,000 in grant money, with the rest of the cost for construction and property being supplied by the Pitt County Board of Commissioners.

New Mental Health Facility Begun Break Ground For Center

GROUND BREAKING FOR BUILDING . . . Bruce Strickland, chairman of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners turns the first spade of dirt as ground was broken yesterday for a new mental health clinic building adjacent to the new Pitt Memorial Hospital. CREDIT, NOT REFUND
I am concerned about the advertising being done by some realty and mobile home companies, both in the newspaper and on television and radio, about the five per cent income federal tax credit being given for buying a new home this year. Many are using the word REFUND, which is not necessarily applicable. Would Hotline please explain this matter or caution prospective home buyers to contact the IRS or a CPA who can make it clear? BEES OKAY IN CITY
Is there an ordinance against keeping bees in the City of Greenville? R.S.

There is no money figure in the bill but authorizes such sums as may be necessary. Ford's advisers estimate the programs which it includes would cost $507 million.

Actual money would have to be appropriated in a separate action and members of the President's Indochina task force said they need that appropriation quickly to keep the refugee airlift operating.

James M. Wilson, deputy director of the task force, testified that $85.6 million of the $98 million the administration already has for refugees has been spent and the rest will be obligated by the weekend.

Cambodian Evacuees Aver Phom Penh Today A Quiet, Dead City

By The Associated Press
The last 550 foreigners trapped in Phnom Penh crossed into Thailand today and several described the Cambodian capital as a dead city littered with decomposing bodies and abandoned household goods, populated only by stray pets and Khmer Rouge soldiers.

Robert S. Gay, manager of rates, explained that a North Carolina residential customer using 750 kilowatt hours per month in May will pay $7.19 in fuel adjustment charges, a decrease of $1.39 from that paid for the same amount of electricity in April.

Gulf Oil Exec Called To Testify On Payoffs

Written Marriage Contracts: For Better Or The Worse?

By PATRICIA MC CORMACK
United Press International
On that happy wedding day, Thomasina and Thaddeus, your usual ecstatic lovebirds, mumble or whisper a lot of "I dos" —during the ceremony.

They seal a marital contract by speaking it. And what they have to show for it legally is a properly executed wedding license.

If they decide to get unlicensed later via divorce it takes a lot more than saying "I won't" —and shredding that license.

Would it be better for Thomasina and Thaddeus to draw up a lengthy, written legal contract —spelling out everything —from housework to money and sex?

Dr. Lenore J. Weitzman, sociologist from the University of California at Davis, is among a growing band of authorities picking apart the traditional marital contract —and calling for written legal instruments instead.

"The time has come for a major reformulation of the legal structure of marriage and its role in modern society," Prof. Weitzman told me in an interview.

A book-length report by Dr. Weitzman is titled "Legal Regulation of Marriage: Tradition and Change." Published in "The California Law Review," her analysis is receiving a lot of attention in legal circles.

Dr. Weitzman said the first draft of the report was written in 1969 when she was a Russell Sage Postdoctoral Fellow at Yale Law School in New Haven, Conn.

"The traditional marriage contract is arbitrary, outmoded and anachronistic," she argues.

"The need for change is evident—individual contracts and contracts in lieu of marriage."

In discussing alternative marriage contracts, Dr. Weitzman

Dental Assistants Meeting Is Set

SOUTHERN PINES — The North Carolina Dental Assistants Association will hold its 25th annual session May 11-14 at the Sheraton Motor Inn here.

The session will be called to order on Sunday with Betty Scott of Charlotte presiding. Other officers of the annual session are: President—Elet, Barbara Talbert of Chapel Hill; Vice President, Cheryl Kearney of Williamston; Secretary, Naomi Lutz of Hickory; Assistant Secretary, Mary Ann Meyer of Winston-Salem; Treasurer, Kathy Pagoota of Charlotte; Immediate Past President, Linda Heffinger of Eden.

Special guest speakers for the session Monday are Gilbert Fleming, William Nebel, M.D., Gary Smiley, D.D.S., Jeff Burkes, D.D.S., Lois Klingler, director of Education for the American Dental Assistants Association, Robert Senior, M.D., and Troy Sluder, D.D.S.

On Tuesday, a joint educational program with the North Carolina Dental Society is planned. The topic is "Acupuncture" and the speaker will be Dr. Phillip Toyama.

The annual session will adjourn Wednesday morning after installation of the new officers.

suggests that they allow individual parties to determine the best arrangement for their own needs and lifestyles.

"A man and a woman could decide, in advance, on the duration and terms of their relationship, as well as the conditions for its dissolution.

"They could specify their respective rights and obligations for the financial and property aspects of the marriage, as well as those for their more personal obligations such as responsibility for birth control and child care."

Now, consider the traditional marriage contract.

"The traditional marriage contract is unlike most contracts," Dr. Weitzman said.

"Its provisions are unwritten, its penalties are unspecified, and the terms of the contract are typically unknown to the contracting parties.

"Prospective spouses are neither informed of the terms of the contract, nor are they allowed any options about these terms.

"In fact one wonders how many men and women would agree to the marriage contract if they were given the opportunity to read it and to consider the rights and obligations to which they were committing themselves."

In her report, Dr. Weitzman examines the legal structure and concludes:

"The discrepancy between legal reality and social reality is great, and the law on the books is widely divergent from the law in action.

"The law on the books is archaic. It is the 200-year-old vestige of an extinct social structure. The law in action is a patchwork attempt to stretch this old law to deal with modern realities."

There are three essential provisions of the traditional marriage contract, under the law. To wit:

—The law recognizes the husband as head of the family.

—The law holds the husband responsible for family support.

—The law holds the wife responsible for domestic and childcare services.

Dr. Weitzman reports that the traditional contract and its "unusual contract restrictions" have been justified by a paramount state interest in the continuation of the traditional family.

But, according to the sociologist, society has undergone profound transformations during the past century.

"The state's interest in preserving the traditional family may not be important enough to offset new societal and individual needs which require more flexible and choice in family forms," she said.

Traditional marriage contracts —the "I dos" —assume that the marriage will endure until death.

But reality is different. The number of divorces increases each year.

"There is a rapidly diminishing probability that any marriage will last until the death of one of the parties," Dr. Weitzman said.

"There is a need for a legal system which recognizes that individuals may want to make their marriage contract run for a period shorter than a lifetime."

Was Lesson Learned From Experience? Local Pilot Club Honored At Meet

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am from Houston, and the women down here do not ask the men to dance. At least I've never seen it done.

I date a man who takes me to a place where people sit around and drink beer. There's music, and every now and then one of the women will ask one of the men to dance.

Last night I was feeling pretty good, so for the first time I asked my man friend if he would dance with me. He said he didn't feel like dancing. In less than a minute, a strange woman came over and asked him to dance with her. He said "yes" without batting an eye. (The woman didn't know that he had just turned me down, so it wasn't her fault.)

When he started for the floor, I said, "Okay, you just turned me down. Now there's gonna be big trouble!"

I really blew my top and asked to be taken home. He said I acted like a baby. (I'm nearly 60.)

I say, a man's lady friend should be more important to him than a stranger. He said he was just being polite. We may break up over this although I'm sure we love each other. Who was wrong?

HURT IN HOUSTON

DEAR HURT: Your man friend owes you an apology for accepting another woman's invitation to dance after having turned you down. And you owe him one for having made a scene in public. Kiss and make up. Maybe you both learned something.

DEAR ABBY: Having just read your answer to "NEEDS A REAR," I feel I must make a correction. A foam rubber fanny is not "the living end"—it's the dead end!

BAINBRIDGE, N.Y.

DEAR BAIN: Touche. . . which is also "the end."

DEAR ABBY: How do you feel about a man kissing another man—on the cheek?

When my daughter and her husband came to visit us, I first greet them by kissing my daughter, then kissing my son-in-law on the cheek. It seems a natural, friendly thing for me to do, and my son-in-law never seems to mind it.

My wife now tells me to cut it out. She says it isn't right for a man to kiss another man.

Will you please tell me what is wrong with it? I do not go around kissing men as a rule, but my father used to kiss me (on the cheek), and I never thought anything of it.

AFFECTIONATE FATHER

DEAR FATHER: I think genuine affection, and any demonstration of it, is not only permissible, it's beautiful.

CONFIDENTIAL TO THE MATURE TEENAGER: The May issue of "Teen" magazine now on the newsstands has an excellent article entitled, "Your Body/His Body." I recommend it highly.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is friendly with a fellow whose fiancée dances topless in a bar. (I'll call her "Sandra.")

I'm ashamed to say that my husband has been to this bar, so he has seen Sandra practically naked. He says she has a "fantastic" body, even though she admits to having had silicone implants.

He insists that Sandra is a very "sweet and down-to-earth" person, and he keeps wanting me to meet her socially. (His buddy wants the four of us to go out together.)

Abby, I don't care to meet her. I would be very uncomfortable in the company of a woman whom my husband had seen topless. My husband says, "It's only a job," and that Sandra is as nice a person as I am.

Am I wrong to feel the way I do? What kind of a woman do you think would dance topless for a living? She can't be a very moral person.

ST. LOUIS

DEAR SAINT: Not everyone views nudity as "immoral." Some women (and men) pose nude for artists. However, if you would feel uncomfortable in Sandra's company, it's your right to avoid her.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Today's Fabrics Are Devilish

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Laundry stains are becoming devilishly difficult to exercise as today's wardrobe materials become increasingly varied and exotic. Man-made fabrics and finishes now account for about 80 per cent of all clothing sold, including a high proportion of washable knits and permanent-press fabrics that tenaciously retain stains.

Janet Butel, manager of Consumers Institute of General Electric Co. here, has as part of her job the constant updating of a stain removal guide. She says, "Successful stain and spot removal starts with the selection of a technique that is suited to both stain and fabric. Ultimate success depends largely on prompt action before stains are set by heat or age."

Miss Butel says that most stains can be successfully removed from white and colored cottons, linens and other washable fabrics by the use of liquid chlorine bleach or oxygen-type dry bleach dispensed about halfway through the wash cycle. Exceptions are spandex, wool, leather, mohair, nonfast colors, silk and many permanent-press fabrics requiring special care.

Cold water, especially coupled with enzyme products, used during the presoak cycle of modern washers, are particularly effective in removing such stains as blood, eggs, wine, food coloring, coffee or tea and some fruit and vegetable stains from all washable fabrics. However, they may not be effective on rust, ink or fat-based stains. Presoaking, for at least half an hour, also is effective in solving stain problems related to babies, such as milk, formula, chocolate, urine and mucus.

Permanent press garments pose a problem, Miss Butel says, because they stay fresh looking, so there is a tendency to postpone laundering. Once they become heavily soiled they are difficult to wash clean because of their stain retention.

Therefore, Miss Butel recommends immediate laundering if staining occurs.

Permanent-press fabrics with difficult stains such as fresh fruit juices, wine, vegetables or food coloring should be sponged with warm water as soon as possible. Any remaining stain should be treated with hydrogen peroxide or powdered bleach and the garment laundered.

Another common stain on permanent-press fabrics and washable knits is grass, foliage or flowers. Miss Butel says to dip the garment in warm, soapy water and rub the spot between your fingers. If the spot remains and bleach can be used on the fabric, soak five minutes in 1/2 cup bleach in a gallon of sudsy water, rinse well and launder as usual.

Chewing gum can be eliminated from fabrics by rubbing with ice and then scraping off as much as possible before cleaning with a safe dry cleaning fluid.

Graying comes from underuse or overuse of detergent and from improper rinsing. Yellowing is the result of a buildup of body oils. It can be prevented with hot water for whites and colorfasts and sufficient wash time. Polyesters should be washed frequently as they have an affinity for oils that cause yellowing.

Additional hints: Identifying the stain. It will help to know whether it is greasy, nongreasy or a combination stain. Greasy stains should be treated first with a grease solvent, such as ammonia or carbon tetrachloride, then rinsed. Before washing, rub in a liquid detergent or a prewash product. Use the hottest water the fabric can stand and a bleach, if appropriate to the fabric and color.

Nongreasy stains should be sponged or soaked in cool water, then rubbed in a liquid detergent, soaked in an enzyme presoaking product or sprayed with a prewash product before being placed in the washer. Combination stains should first be treated as nongreasy.

Avoid hot water on an unknown stain. Consult your clothes washer user manual or bleach label for charts for specific stains and fabrics. Follow stain removal with thorough rinsing. Then wash as usual.

Navajo bracelets and belt buckles are either wrought or sand cast. Wrought silver is pounded into shape while hot. Sand cast is made by pouring molten silver into rock molds.

Mrs. Gulati Is Woman's Club Speaker Friday

Mrs. Usha Gulati was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Greenville Woman's Club Friday afternoon.

A native of New Delhi, India, Mrs. Gulati is the wife of an ECU professor and the mother of two children. She operates an import shop in her home of Indian crafts. Her subject was the "Status of Women in India."

Women feel liberated in the home and they are not discriminated against—if they are qualified they can get a job they desire. They have close family ties and have a great respect for older people, she stated.

Mrs. J.L. Savage, president, conducted the business meeting and reported on the state convention held in Pinehurst. She announced that the International Affairs Department, chaired by Mrs. W.E. Shires, won second place at the convention and a certificate of merit was presented to the club.

Members voted to have a tea in September for new members. It was announced that 11 cakes were donated to the benefit bridge sponsored by the Pitt County Cancer Society in April.

Mrs. Dink James, chairman of the Authors Luncheon to be held May 10 at 1 p.m., urged members to obtain their tickets. Ovid Pierce will be guest speaker and awards will be presented to the winners in the Creative Writing Contest.

Arts Department Chairman Mrs. Joseph Kinnamon announced that the next meeting will be May 16 at the club. Miss Alya Taylor, Home Life Department chairman, reported on the party her group gave at the Nursing Home and said that the next meeting will be May 20 with Mrs. Eli Bloom.

A report was given on the Asian Symposium recently held at the club. Mrs. C.M. Respass, treasurer, reported on the proceeds from the snack bar held during the Sidewalk Art Show. Mrs. Preston Cannon gave the devotional.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. W.E. Avery and Mrs. Savage.

Our son, Bruce, has a friend who shares his birth date.

For the last two years his friend has appeared at the door with a birthday present and Bruce has stood there like a kid with 12 fingers and no pockets.

Yesterday he said, "Lenny is on his way over. Do you think he's got a present again?"

"You mean you don't have one for him?"

"No. I keep thinking he'll give up on me."

"Then we've got to find something around the house. Think!" I yelled at the family.

"No," protested Bruce, "not the garage rejects again. I remember the birthday party I went to last year where I took a package of Ping-Pong balls."

"What's wrong with that? They had never been opened."

"He didn't have a Ping-Pong table. That's what was wrong with it."

"How would Lenny like a hummingbird feeder?" asked his father. "I have one in the garage in the original box."

"I have a record," I said, "with the cellophane still intact."

"Is that the one with Debbie Drake exercising?" he asked.

"Look, you're in no position to be picky..."

"Why don't you give Lenny that appointment book that no one uses?"

"Or what about that little whale with the bubble bath in it."

"Mom!" said Bruce miserably.

"There's a key ring in my bureau drawer that hasn't been out of the package with a Pisces horoscope sign."

"Except Lenny isn't a Pisces."

"Why don't we give him that little kit in my sewing basket where you decorate your jeans with silver studs?"

"He gave me that last year," said Bruce.

"I could fill him a little bag of VICE' printed on it?" he winced.

Rural Living Trend Indicator

The county commissioners were asked to approve $21,600 for hiring a county recreation director and provide for the commission's operation during the fiscal year of 1975-76.

The request came from a Recreation Study Commission at the board's meeting Monday.

Steve Mohler said the director would be full-time and would head a "county-wide effort in recreation." Mohler said 37 counties now have full-time recreation directors.

The request is an indication of a trend in rural living. People who live in rural areas are asking more and more for the same type services that residents of municipal areas now have. Since they have no municipal government to look to, they must seek the services from the county government.

We now have a county landfill for garbage disposal and it is still up in the air as to how a county-wide refuse collection service can be established.

It is fine for additional services to be provided to people of the rural areas. We think as our county grows the differences between county and city living will become very small.

One problem the county commissioners face in providing services to rural areas, however, is the fact that people who live in municipalities are levying an additional tax on themselves to furnish similar services.

Since the county government collects property taxes from municipal property owners as well as rural owners it can be seen that there is going to be a disparity there.

If the county is going to get in the recreation business—and we see merit in this—then perhaps some arrangement should be made to provide some assistance to the municipalities for their recreation programs on a per capita basis. This would be the fair thing to do unless we are going to have municipal tax payers providing funds for a service they are not getting.

Looking To Future Suits

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—North Carolina has not been plagued by the excesses of malpractice suits against physicians which have hit some other places.

Still, both the medical profession and insurance underwriters are working now to protect themselves—in their own ways—against experience which they fear in coming years.

Actually the malpractice problem in North Carolina has been relatively minor: between 1969 and 1973 only a quarter of a million dollars was paid out in claims on malpractice suits. Over an 18-year time span, total claims paid was $1.3 million; against premiums collected of $5.4 million by the principal malpractice insurer, St. Paul's Casualty.

Thus the most recent four-year experience shows less than 10 per cent of the $3.5 million in premiums collected from doctors, nurses, anesthesiologists, paid out in claims.

Why The Flap?
Why, then, the flap over a sudden move by insurance companies to hike rates as much as 1,000 per cent in some cases; a threat to stop writing coverage in North Carolina unless the rate hikes are permitted?

On the national level there have been surgeons' strikes in San Francisco; nurses' strikes in Florida. Suits have mushroomed, and juries have shown a propensity to hand out hundreds of thousands to victims of medical malpractice.

The battle in North Carolina is out front of that experience, but is recognition by medical practitioners and the insurance industry of things to come.

Unless steps are taken now to head off the prospects of future problems, says Lincoln County physician John Gamble, things can reach a crisis stage in this state.

Gamble, a member of the N. C. House of Representatives, is sponsor of a proposal in the General Assembly to move the action in two directions; establishment of a study commission to come up with long-term solutions; an immediate, temporary measure of setting up a medical malpractice reinsurance exchange to provide coverage now.

But Gamble is the first to admit that the insurance pool idea for malpractice coverage—similar it is a temporary solution to keep the insurance market available until some other approaches can be developed.

All Must Write
Under the exchange program, every general liability company in the state (some 250 firms) would be required to join in providing malpractice insurance, spreading the business among them all and warding off both the threat of cancellation, and the present skyrocketing rates which have seen some coverage, especially for nurses, go from $42 yearly to $420 yearly.

State Rep. Ernest B. Messer, chairman of the House Insurance Committee, in backing Gamble's proposals said "some of the insurance companies are acting like Arab hijackers with a gun at the doctor's back."

Gamble insists that physicians don't want a free ride—they're willing to pay fair rates for insurance, "but we don't want to be forced to pay excessive rates." He also worries that nurses and anesthesiologists face even stiffer rate hikes—but work on salary and can't pass the increased cost on to patients the way physicians can.

But the big issues lie ahead as the study commission digs into the complexities of medical malpractice insurance. Discussion will zero in on problems such as attorneys who collect up to half of the awards; massive awards given by juries for corrective medical work, but never spent for that; absence of a statute of limitations; the tendency of doctors to "over-practice" medicine, requiring unnecessary examinations, lab tests, X-rays as a defensive step in case of future malpractice suits; and probably the key ingredient of future action—some form of ceiling on the amount of money a jury can award in a malpractice suit.

INSIDE REPORT

GOP Split Spurs Reagan

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
CAPE MAY, N.J.—South Jersey Republicans who paid $100 each for a lavish seafood buffet and a handshake with Ronald Reagan at former Rep. Charles W. Sandman's estate here are ready to back Reagan for President, showing why President Ford conceivably could be denied the 1976 nomination by his party.

In New Jersey, as in other states visited on his barnstorming lecture tour, Reagan encountered hardly anyone not ready to abandon Mr. Ford at the drop of Reagan's hat. But in New Jersey, as in most states, other prominent Republicans would have nothing to do with Reagan.

Thus, the widened split in the Republican party, which was horribly debilitated and demoralized by the 1974 election, provides a ready-made vehicle for Reagan to challenge Mr. Ford. Instead of Reagan weakening and dividing the party by threatening the President, it is the weakened and divided party that makes Reagan's threat viable.

This was experienced by Reagan throughout his recent five-day transcontinental jaunt. Liberal Republican Gov. Robert Ray of Iowa was absent as Reagan addressed cheering Republicans in Des Moines; Reagan had turned down a personal plea from national chairman Mary Louise Smith to cancel because the affair was outside regular party channels. The next night in Southfield, Mich., a Detroit suburb, Reagan was speaking under more orthodox auspices at a fund-raiser for the Oakland County Republican organization; even so, liberal Republican Gov. William Milliken did not show up.

But splits in those Midwestern states are straightforward compared with the Byzantine divisions of the bedraggled, penniless New Jersey party. Appearing at three fund-raising functions in the state, primarily to reduce the massive debt of Sandman's disastrous 1973 campaign for governor, Reagan was sponsored by the party's right wing—a coalition of old guard

Republicans and a newer element of Italo-American businessmen.

The State's Republican establishment, moderate and patrician, wanted no part of it. Veteran national committeeman Bern Shanley, a top White House aide in Eisenhower days, led the boycotters. Although solicitations for the Reagan functions claimed part of the take would go to the state party, the New Jersey Republican finance committee kept away.

Webster Todd, a 75-year-old party veteran who served as state chairman from 1961-1969 and returned to the post this year, tried to walk the middle road—and was savaged for his pains. When he urged other party leaders to attend the Reagan functions, they spurned Todd as a sellout. But the conservative wing regards him as a supporter of Vice President Nelson Rockefeller. Will Todd back the Ford-Rockefeller ticket? "Who cares?" replied one hard-line munching shrimp at Sandman's house. "We're going to get rid of him anyway."

Reagan's supporters may not have that much strength. Nor is it certain where Sandman himself will land. But the party split is so pronounced that Reagan, with minimum effort, can win most South Jersey delegates and score impressively in the rest of this liberal, industrialized state.

By contrast, Reaganites run the party in the three Deep South states visited after New Jersey: Mississippi, Florida and Georgia. What's more, they seem close to crossing their Rubicon to deliver entire delegations to Reagan against a sitting President.

In Mississippi particularly, the delegation seems Reagan's for the asking. Dynamic, right-wing Clarke Reed, in his 10th year as state chairman, seems close to a public break with the President. Billy Mounger, the state's veteran Republican finance chairman, introduced Reagan to a party dinner in Jackson as a Moses to lead Republicans from the wilderness.

But even in Mississippi's growing, well-financed and energetic Republican party, there is factionalism. Some younger party workers grumble that the Reed-Mounger leadership is anchored to conservative clichés and complain about abandoning the President. One of the state's brightest Republican prospects, 28-year-old Jackson city commissioner Doug Shanks, told he would support Mr. Ford in a showdown with Reagan.

Reagan, as Ron the Baptist preaching the old-time conservative religion, makes no attempt to smooth over

WHO'S N-N-NERVOUS ABOUT THE D-D-DOMINO THEORY?

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Virginia's Blah Spring

SCRABBLE, Va. — The last of the juncos packed up and left about April 15. Billy the kid, the punch-drunk grosbeak, arrived on the 29th. The two events made it officially spring in Rappahannock County, but believe me, thus far it has been one blah spring.

We have few of these in Virginia. Ordinarily, here in the Blue Ridge, the ten weeks from mid-March to mid-May are about as close to heaven as one gets on earth. Ordinarily the earth warms, and the sun smiles down, and we have a breeze as soft as a woman's hair. Ordinarily the days of spring are quite simply sublime. Only South Carolina approaches Virginia in April.

This year, for no reason that can be imagined — for Virginia has not offended anyone lately — it hasn't been that way at all. St. Patrick's Day came and went in flurries of snow and crusts of frost. April arrived with a ten-day gale. We have never known such wind. It was worse than the U. S. House of Representatives. It was worse even than the U.S. Senate, where at least the air is hot.

The wind toppled TV antennae, stripped our tin roofs, and felled some enormous trees. The trees fell across fences, creating gates that the cattle obligingly marched through. Then we had torrential rains that flooded the country roads and washed out some one-way bridges. In the whole month of April, for the first time in the memory of man, it never climbed above 80 degrees. We are still burning firewood, and the bills from the electric co-op are staggering.

Virginia is a lady, but this spring Virginia has been behaving like a — well, you know how Virginia has been behaving. In the damp intervals between long spans of sogginess, local farmers managed to get their plowing done, but everyone is late with his garden. Half of our green peas rotted in the ground, and the rabbits ate two-thirds of what was left. It has not been what you would call a salubrious season.

Other Editors Say Appointing Judges

(Raleigh Times)

On one hand, North Carolina Courts Commission Chairman Ruffin Bailey is quite on key in urging that the state's judges be appointed instead of elected. But on the other hand, gubernatorial appointment of judges upon recommendation of a layman and lawyer panel has its pitfalls, too.

Actually, more than 80 per cent of the state's Superior Court judges were first appointed to their judgeships. And before last year's general election, all 16 appellate judges were similarly appointed.

One doesn't have to look far to find in states that appoint judges that the system opens the way for bribery and graft. There will always be some attorneys with strong aspirations for the bench who will not be above greasing palms with promises or cash.

On the other hand, the present system of rough and tumble politics, not to mention campaign costs, prevent many highly qualified attorneys for running for a judgeship. And, while elections force philosophies and opinions into the open, the system of allowing the voters at Manteo to vote on a stranger at Murphy by no means assure a knowledgeable vote statewide.

Certainly the party nomination is no assurance the people will always get quality in their jurists. Take the case of Elreta Alexander, a respected black Greensboro attorney. Despite her qualifications as the nominee of the Republican party, she was rejected at the primary polls in favor of an unlettered fire extinguisher salesman.

No system is perfect. But the case for appointment, under close scrutiny of a public winning to protest when politics gets in the way of qualification, outweighs the present system of electing judges. That's why Bailey's recommendation and a bill for merit selection of judges now in the House Courts and Judicial subcommittee deserves serious consideration during the current session.

Benefit Cutoff Queried

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A battle is developing over President Ford's plan to eliminate veterans' education benefits for persons joining the armed forces after July 1, a move military officials fear might reduce enlistments in the volunteer army.

Ford made the proposal Wednesday when he announced that with the end of the Vietnam war several other special benefits were being eliminated for new members of the armed services.

The wartime benefits eliminated by presidential order include primarily pensions for nonservice connected disability and burial allowances. The dollar value of these allowances and the education benefits varies according to a veteran's financial circumstances.

Ford stressed that his actions "will not affect the eligibility of the millions of Vietnam veterans already discharged, or those presently serving in the armed forces."

But while Ford ended the minor benefits immediately by order, he will have to get congressional approval to end post-service education benefits, and opposition is already developing there. He suggested removing the benefits for anyone joining the Army, Navy, Marines or AirForce after July 1.

A bill to eliminate the education benefits is being introduced by 23 House members.

But Chairman Vance Hartke, D-Ind., of the Senate Veterans Affairs Committee, protested that the move would be "short-sighted" and "contrary to the best interests of the nation."

Hartke noted that an armed forces testing report last fall indicated that one out of every four servicemen said they would not have enlisted if GI education benefits were not available.

Defense manpower chief William K. Brehm said last February that "the major reason most people come into the service is to be trained and for the educational benefits they can earn while in the service."

The recession probably will keep enlistments at a high level for as long as it lasts, and all of the services have been topping their enlistment quotas since last November. But defense officials are concerned that halting government-financed education and training opportunities may cause a dropoff in enlistments after the economy recovers and jobs be-

Strength For Today

LET US HAVE EARTHQUAKES
An archbishop of Canterbury once suggested to the clergy that they encourage their parishioners to observe "a quiet time." One young rector wrote back, "Your Grace, what my parish needs is not a quiet time but an earthquake."

Certainly peace is one of earth's greatest blessings. But lasting peace comes only after an inner struggle with our shortcomings, so tumultuous that in retrospect it may appear to have been an earthquake.

We get peace when we control our tempers, rise above our irritations, turn from wayward company, say no to indulgences which have held us in bondage, stop wanting what we cannot have, close the door on the mistakes and the lost hopes which are a part of the dead past.

The next time we start longing for peace of heart, we might ask what it is which is destroying peace. If we face the issue squarely we might start an earthquake. But this will be the prelude to a lasting peace.

Small Businessmen Win Point

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A year or so ago some of the nation's small businessmen decided they had taken enough. Through the National Small Business Association they vented their outrage.

"We have condoned and inadvertently encouraged the manipulation of the national economy for the benefit of the big, and at the expense of the small," the association said of Americans in general.

The fiery emotions may have cooled since then, but the determination is firm. This year the small businessmen have tasted victory in a small way, and they want more.

The victory was the Emergency Tax Reduction Act. "For small business, that act was the first forward moving tax measure since 1958," the association said. "Our process of government worked well—if 17 years late."

The two major aspects of that victory were:
—For companies which earn less than $25,000, a cut in the tax rate to 20 per cent from 22 per cent.
—For companies earning more than $25,000 but less than $50,000 pretax, a reduction of the tax rate to 22 per cent from 48 per cent.

Other concessions also were won, but the businessmen say they've still got a lot to do before overcoming what they feel is a continued governmental bias toward big business.

In numbers, says the association, small business—the definition varies; in manufacturing it means a company employing fewer than 500—is holding its own. "Its 10.5 million firms are 98 per cent of the country's total business units, making jobs for 65 per cent of the nongovernment work force."

But it adds, "In market share, assets and profits, small business is losing ground disastrously." And one of the reasons, they maintain, lies in the operation of the tax system.

"We need permanent, long-term changes in the tax code," says Milton Stewart, president, pointing out that the recently enacted tax relief is only temporary. And he doesn't disguise his belief that small business should be a major beneficiary.

Stewart refers to a report by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate Small Business Committee, which suggests that the present tax system is choking entrepreneurship, risk-taking and individual effort.

Here's How To Be A Sponsor

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Want to sponsor an Indochina refugee?

Here's how: Call a toll-free telephone number in Washington where you will be asked for the following information:
—Are you calling as an individual or for a group?
—Are you calling about a specific family or in general?
—Are you offering temporary or long-term assistance?
—Are you offering food, housing, clothes, a job? What skills are involved in the job?

This information will be fed into a computer and matched with information gathered from interviews with refugees at the resettlement centers around the country.

So far, hundreds of calls have been received. A firm in Connecticut needs a secretary or clerk. A town in South Carolina needs a town doctor and some laborers. A church in Louisiana is offering to sponsor three individuals.

A spokesman for the Inter-Agency Task Force which is coordinating the effort said, "We're asking people to think of something they can offer—free rent, food or something that will help put these people on their feet."

Such efforts have been done many times in the past, the spokesman said. "We took in about 40,000 Hungarians in 1956, about 650,000 Cubans in the early 1960s, about 1,700 Uganda-Asians in 1972. In a few months or, in the outside, a year, these people have been taxpaying members of the community."

The toll-free number is 800-368-1180. In the District of Columbia, you can call: 632-9800. There are 16 phones, and operators answer calls from 8 a.m. to midnight EDT.

Those who wish to write can send the information needed to 'The American Council of Voluntary Agencies for Foreign Service, 200 Park Avenue South, New York, New York 10003

The annual London Sunday Times Invitational Pairs tournament is one of the most prestigious in Europe. This year, the field consisted of 18 selected pairs from 14 countries. And only Britain, with five pairs, had more than one entry. The tournament was won by Alan Sontag and Peter Weichsel, representing the U.S. Sontag has previously won this event with another partner, and he is the only player ever to have won the event twice.

Defense is the name of the game, and Sontag starred on this hand from the competition. South's opening bid was artificial and strong, and his rebid of two no trump showed a balanced hand of 23-24 points. North had a close decision whether to bid game or pass, and opted for the more aggressive action.

Weichsel, West, made the normal opening lead of the queen of diamonds, taken by the king. Declarer was not thrilled with his dummy. He had only six top tricks and a sure seventh in hearts, and the only suit to develop was clubs. However, even if he could set up the clubs, there was no apparent entry to dummy to cash any winners.

Since there was no alternative, declarer played the ace of clubs and another at tricks two and three. West's jack was a welcome sight, and dummy's queen lost to Sontag's king. Declarer won the diamond return with the ace and, in an attempt to force an entry to dummy, he continued with the jack of hearts.

Had Sontag taken the queen, declarer would have been home. The ten of hearts would have been an entry to dummy's two club tricks. However, Sontag was aware of this, so he allowed declarer's jack to win the trick. This sacrificed a heart trick for the defense, and permitted declarer to score four tricks in that suit. But that brought his trick total to only eight, and he had no way of collecting the game-going trick. By sacrificing one trick in hearts, Sontag prevented declarer from scoring double that number in clubs, and with it the game.

divisions. Asked in a press conference at Newark whether he would welcome Gov. George Wallace into his party, Reagan said he would, paused, and then added with superb timing: "I'd like to welcome Cliff Case into the Republican party." Former Rep. John Hunt, a stalwart conservative foe of liberal Republican Sen. Clifford Case, chortled from the back of the room.

Reagan scorns accommodation with the likes of Cliff Case. Arguing the party must paint itself in "bold colors, not pale pastels," he invariably excites conservative audiences even beyond their elevated expectations. With his hope for the nomination based on a party schism not of his making, his campaign insensitively widens the gap.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved indecisively today with profit taking affecting the blue chip and glamor sectors.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 3.13 to 833.31. But gainers on the New York Stock Exchange held a solid, 2 to 1 lead over losers.

As the market opened today, the government reported wholesale prices in April rose 1.5 per cent, reversing four consecutive months of declines.

"We're in an indecisive market," observed analyst Harry Laubscher of Blyth Eastman Dillon. "Investors are torn between the bad news on wholesale prices and the fact that the market wants to continue up on its built-in momentum."

Accept $16,418 Bid For Painting Water Tank

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
FARMVILLE—A bid for painting the municipal water tank on S. Main Street was approved by Farmville Commissioners here last night. The bid accepted was that of Utility Service Company of Madison, with $16,418. An OSHA representative will be consulted before painting begins.

A public hearing on the closing of Harris Street, a never-used dedicated street between the homes of W. H. "Bill" Lewis and Mrs. Martha Minges Bass was set for the next regular meeting.

Some $933.78 from the town's centennial fund was transferred to the general fund. Town Attorney Jack Lewis and Administrator Andy Martin were asked to discuss how Farmville may participate in the Bicentennial celebration with the county bicentennial chairman. Administrator Martin was asked to see to the letting of bids for the purchase of gasoline and other motor vehicles supplies during the next year.

Martin and Attorney Lewis were asked to examine the Mid-East Amended Bylaws and recommend whether the commissioners should approve them.

A request by James B. Fountain to make the stoplight at the intersection of Wilson and 258 South a no turn on red one was discussed. The light is adjacent to Fountain's Warehouse. The Administrator was asked to consult the N. C. Department of Transportation and follow its engineer's recommendation.

Water and Light Director J. A. Wooten said the new water tank on 264 West is in use and a well at the site should be ready well before the peak water use season coming on. The Joyner's Crossroads well is even nearer readiness, he said.

Walter Bullock Jr. appeared asking the Commissioners to tile a ditch which runs near his property and behind the baseball field near Sugg School. It was added to the Town's tiling priority list.

Mrs. Thomas Liverman appeared asking when the vacant houses on Perry Street will be torn down. She was promised it would be soon. Commissioner W. R. Duke said he believes H. P. Norman, building inspector, should be commended for the work he has done in cleaning up Farmville and should be advised to keep on going as fast as possible.

Jack Cobb appeared asking when the town is going to move a small one-truck fire station on the corner of his barbecue business on S. Main Street. The Commissioners agreed that this should be done and told Cobb they would talk to him after the meeting.

A letter from Emile LaCoste commending the Farmville Police Department, and especially Sgt. Bryan Pippin was read.

James Ridley Sr. appeared berating the town for having a too-large Police Department and for making too many arrests on S. Main Street in proportion to those in the rest of the town.

Arrest Boy On Drug Count

Dale B. Steele, 16, of 104 Avon Lane was arrested yesterday by Greenville Police on charges of possession of marijuana.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the arrest stemmed from an incident on April 17 at Rose High School, where Steele allegedly had a small quantity of marijuana in his possession.

Giving Musical Program Sunday

A musical program will be presented at Moyewood Recreation Center Sunday at 1 p.m. by the Gospel Chimes and The Consolators, both of Greenville, and others. Bishop Lucille Chance is the sponsor. The public is invited.

The Gospel Chimes will be at Oak Grove Holiness Church Sunday night.

Animal Fund Drive Friday

The annual fund drive for Be Kind To Animals Week by the Pitt County Humane Society will culminate in a door-to-door canvas Friday in Greenville and at collection stations at Pitt Plaza, Nichols Dept. Store and Kings Shopping centers on Saturday, May 10th.

Pirates Top Campbell In 14th Inning

DEFENSIVE GEM — Washington Bullets' Wes Unseld takes a rebound from the floor away from Boston Celtics' Jo Jo White (10) in the second period of Wednesday night's NBA playoff game at Capital Centre. The Bullets won the game, 119-108 to take a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series for the Eastern title. (AP Wirephoto)

BUIES CREEK — Pity poor Burt Cayson.
After scattering 10 hits and two runs while pitching for Campbell College for 13 innings Wednesday night, inning 14 proved to be his undoing and East Carolina University got past Campbell 6-2.

Steve Bryant beat out a bunt with one out in the fateful 14th. Ron Staggs walked. Joe Roenker then slapped a single to score Bryant from second and, when the relay throw from centerfield got past the plate, the Campbell righthander was in position, backing up the plate expertly. Problem was he fired the ball into left field, allowing Staggs to score with the insurance run, and Roenker to race all the way to third. Bruce Leary walked and a Cayson pickoff attempt wound up in right field, allowing Roenker to score and Leary to move to third. Leary scored the final run on a wild pitch. Cayson's iron-man performance didn't go without merit, though, as he walked eight batters and struck out 14. He served up a home run pitch to Staggs in the third and was victimized by alert baserunning by Roenker, who walked, moved around on a single and fielder's choice, then scored on another wild pitch in the eighth, for the Pirates' two initial runs. Meanwhile, his club had staked him to a pair of runs and the temporary lead in the seventh. Dave Johnson singled off Pirate starter Terry Durham to open the inning, then Durham walked Neil Kabinoff and Don Chance. Pirate head coach George Williams lifted Durham in favor of Dean Reavis, but Mark Little smacked a sharp single to center to score two runs

Optimists Rip Kiwanis, 19-3

The Optimists romped to a 19-3 victory over the Kiwanis yesterday in the North State Little League as the two teams opened the 1975 season. The Kiwanis pushed over one run in the first. Tom Brown reached on a fielder's choice and moved up on an error on the play. He scored when Grant Stackhouse doubled.

The Optimists came back with four runs in their half of the first. Sammy Hodges walked and so did Kenny Kirkland. Billy Dough doubled to drive in both runners. Jeff Porter doubled Doug in, and scored when Jonathan House singled.

The Optimists picked up six more in the second to put the game away. Hodges reached on a fielder's choice and Kirkland singled. Tony Heath singled in Hodges and Kirkland and Dough reached on an error, scoring Heath. Porter reached on another error, scoring Dough, and House singled. Paul Macmillan reached on another error, scoring Porter. Andy Holloman was safe on a fielder's choice, allowing House to score. The Kiwanis got another run in the third. Brown singled and stole second. He scored when Jay Whitehurst reached on an error.

The Optimists added seven more in the fourth. House was safe on a fielder's choice and MacMillan reached on another. Holloman singled in House and Michael Moon walked. Hodges singled in both MacMillan and Holloman and Mike Iaboni walked. Moon scored on a fielder's choice and a wild pitch let Hodges score. Iabone scored on Heath's single, and he moved to third on an error. Dough hit a sacrifice fly to score Heath.

The other Kiwanis run came in the fifth, as Brown reached on an error and moved to third on a wild pitch. Whitehurst reached on an error, scoring Brown.

The Optimists closed out their scoring with two in the fifth. House doubled, stole third and scored on an error as Andre Wooten reached. Moon then singled to drive in Wooten. In yesterday's story, it was stated that the first league homer of the year was hit by Mike Pollard. Actually Barry Tyson hit a homer in the opening game on Monday, and claimed that honor.

Under the new rules, all fish over 13 inches caught in the lake will have to be returned. Also, fishing in the tributaries above the upper falls will open for fishing on Aug. 1 instead of the usual July 15. Officials said the changes were adopted to protect larger fish in the lake and also allow spawning fish in the streams to reach headwaters.

Greenville's women's tennis team in the Eastern Carolina Tennis Association captured a 7-2 victory over Rocky Mount yesterday. Greenville took four of the six singles matches then came back with a sweep in the doubles to win going away.

Daniel Only Unbeaten Team In Industrial

Daniel Construction moved into sole possession of first place in the Industrial League last night, as the Moose knocked the Daily Reflector off the unbeaten list.

Daniel now is the lone unbeaten in the league with a 3-0 record.

In the opener, the Moose took a 12-4 win over the Reflector. The Reflector scored first, getting three runs in the first inning. But they didn't score again until they got their final run in the seventh, and by then, it was too late.

The Moose came up with two in the third and then pushed into a 5-3 lead with three in the fourth. They added two in the fifth on D. Jeffers home run. They added two more in the sixth and three in the seventh to wrap it up.

In the second game, the Jaycees handed Greenville Utilities their first loss, 12-11, making GUCO 1-1 on the year. GUCO pushed ahead with four runs in the second, while the Jaycees came up with one in the third. GUCO added five in the fourth inning, while the Jaycees scored four in their half of the frame. GUCO added another in the fifth and one in the sixth, giving them an 11-5 lead. The Jaycees got two in the sixth and then came up with five in the seventh, scoring the winning run on a double by B. Brown to take the victory.

The final game saw Daniel take an 11-0 victory over Burroughs-Wellcome. Daniel broke the ice with one in the third as Browning homered. They added one in the fourth on Lewis' homer, then got three in the fifth. Six more crossed the plate in the sixth inning, ending the scoring.

This past weekend, I joined the Carolinas Golf Reporters annual meeting at Myrtle Beach where I had the pleasure of playing three fine courses—the Dunes, Myrtle Beach National and Deer Track.

While I brought no trophies back, it was an enjoyable weekend, and we would like to thank the two host pros Ed Bullock of Myrtle Beach National and Billy Delk of Deer Track for their fine promotions.

Myrtle Beach is rapidly becoming one of the tourist havens for golfing along the mid-Atlantic coast. There are several dozen courses in the area (Myrtle Beach National has three and another in the works), and for those looking for some challenges, a visit to some of them could prove interesting.

Aycock Tops Greene Central

PIKEVILLE — Joey Durham tossed a two-hitter at Greene Central last night, and his teammates helped out with two runs, allowing Charles B. Aycock to take a 2-0 victory.

The game turned out to be pretty much of a pitching duel between Lindy Pridden of the Rams and Aycock's Durham. Durham gave up only two hits, singles by Thomas Hooker in the second and by Pridden in the fifth. Greene Central got only one real threat, when two walks and Hooker's hit loaded the bases.

Durham struck out ten and walked two. Pridden fanned seven and walked a pair. He gave up six hits, with four of them coming in the first two innings when all the scoring was done.

Aycock pushed over all it needed in the first with a run. Jackie Dunn walked and took second when a pickoff attempt went awry. Ricky Cannon then singled him in.

In the second, the Falcons got their insurance run. Ed Finch singled and advanced on an infield out. He scored on Glenn Lancaster's hit.

Greene Central is now 9-9 overall and 8-6 in conference play. The Rams travel to Southern Wayne on Friday.

Haven Is Provided For London's Brutalized Wives

By GREGORY JENSEN
LONDON (UPI) — The house is seedy and rundown, and it teems with young married women.

Four of them washed the floor around the kitchen's three stoves. Two tended babies in cribs among a cramped bedroom's eight bunks. One watched two boys of about seven playing Ping Pong on a narrow basement table with upended books as a net. It was a curiously happy place.

Women's Aid groups in Britain. Holland and Australia have opened refuges for beaten wives. Slowly the problem is surfacing in the United States.

The British government has begun to take action to protect abused wives.

Parliament has an all-party committee studying the problem. London's municipal government has asked for action reports from all its 33 boroughs. For the first time, government finance has been promised.

"The problem is urgent and immense," said Member of Parliament William Hamilton, who heads parliament's study committee. "A figure of 100,000 battered wives a year is probably a gross underestimate."

"We have 76 women and children living here now," Mrs. Pizzev said. "We have never had less than 70. There have been as many as 135."

Paint Sample Kit Helpful

By ED ROGERS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — For $33 apiece, local police laboratories can buy a kit of automobile paint samples from the government. As a crime detection tool, satisfied customers say, it's a bargain.

The Justice Department's Law Enforcement Assistance Administration issued 171 of the kits to crime laboratories around the country last year. Each kit is a notebook containing small, rectangular metal panels in 140 shades of paint actually used by various automobile manufacturers, accompanied by a list of corresponding car models.

The LEAA said a number of police agencies reported the kits, when shown to witnesses, proved helpful in identifying the exact year and model of cars involved in hit-and-run accidents, thefts, kidnap-rape and other crimes.

Andrew H. Principe said his Northern Illinois police laboratory in Highland Park handles about 15 hit-and-run cases a month in the 40 municipalities it serves, and uses the paint samples in every case.

Principe told of one case in which a kidnap-rape victim told police only that her assailant's car was blue. "When she looked at the samples she was able to

"Most of the women here have been beaten to unconsciousness, time and again," Mrs. Erin Pizzev said quietly. "They've been burned, stabbed, throttled. There are tens of thousands like them."

Mrs. Pizzev crusades for women whose husbands beat them regularly and often savagely.

Just over three years ago, Mrs. Pizzev founded an organization to help such women and their children. Since then, Women's Aid has spread around the world.

Already there are 84 practise in rural areas," she said.

"Too many medical schools have concentrated on training specialists and forgot to consider general practice training."

Theme of the meeting was "Rural Health Care: Frustration or Innovation." About 260 persons attended the meeting.

Speaking on a panel discussion at the annual meeting of the N.C. Public Health Association's Eastern District, Rep. Chase praised the progress made by the state in public health services since the state Board of Health was established during the yellow fever and smallpox epidemic in 1877.

"Solutions have not been found in all areas, but much progress has been made," she noted. "Since my first term in the legislature in 1963, I've seen many changes in health services. North Carolina has one of the highest ranking public health services in the country."

If the proposed four-year medical school at East Carolina University is established with the chief purpose of producing primary care physicians, a significant number of graduates might be attracted to Erin Pizzev is a large, motherly woman who moves with bracelets jangling and trailing an aroma of baby lotion through days of perpetual crisis. More than once she has turned away violent husbands who burst into the refuge in search of their wives.

Mrs. Pizzev, 36, the happily married mother of two, handles every crisis with calm good humor and unruffled patience. Four years ago, Mrs. Pizzev enlisted other bored housewives to renovate a small house as a club.

"I wonder, if we'd known what was to happen, whether we might not have put down our paint brushes and run," she said.

"As soon as word got around that there was somewhere women who suffer violence could take refuge women started coming. They never stopped coming."

A building firm donated a bigger house. Women's Aid grew without plan or money but with unending improvisation. Mrs. Pizzev began to discover what a vast area of social need and neglect she had tapped.

Mrs. Pizzev gestured at two women sitting nearby. "She had boiling water poured over her," Mrs. Pizzev said. "Lucy, beside her, came here with both eyes black and her arm broken."

"People still think this is a matter of a slap and a cuff. It isn't. We hear stories you wouldn't believe—stories of unimaginable cruelty."

"These women come here with a fear that blots out all reason. When a woman comes here it's like coming out of a concentration camp."

Recently Mrs. Pizzev wrote a slim, frightening book to demolish theories people have about violence in the home—that women must invite it, must somehow like it, that they exaggerate their problems, that if they're badly mistreated they can always leave.

"How can a woman leave?" she asked. "A man can always escape, because he has the money and he rarely has the responsibility of the children. A woman usually has children and no money and nowhere to go."

"They are caught in a trap, and there is no way out but suicide. Many have tried that."

Social groups which should help abused wives—the police, social welfare agencies, lawyers, divorce laws, housing agencies—inevitably fail, Mrs. Pizzev said. How and why they fail takes up much of her book, entitled "Scream Quietly or the Neighbors Will Hear."

Volunteer sociologists and psychiatrists have begun to work with Women's Aid groups and to look beyond daily emergencies.

"We're now certain that violence begets violence," Mrs. Pizzev said.

"Nearly every man who beats his wife—and they are of all social classes, doctors and policemen as well as dockers and working men—virtually every one has experienced violence in his own childhood. It runs from generation to generation."

Mrs. Pizzev discussed aid now being offered, even by Queen Elizabeth, who sold a house on her private Sandringham estate for use as an abused wives hostel.

"But it's still a sort of hostile subject, women running away from men," Mrs. Pizzev said. "And everybody in government is frightened. They know that when they open the doors, there will be hundreds and thousands of women clamoring for help."

Health Ass'n Hears N.C. Representative

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH — N.C. Representative Nancy Chase (D-Wayne) challenged an eastern North Carolina gathering of health professionals to "share your knowledge with legislators" regarding basic health needs for rural areas Thursday.

LEAA Administrator Richard W. Velde said the 1974 pilot program, which cost the government $36,000 after sales, will be expanded to a $50,000 project this summer.

"That's a relatively small expenditure for a useful program," he said.

April Alarm Count Down

There were only 23 fire alarms reported in Pitt County by the 18 Rural Fire Departments during the month of April, representing a total of 22 fires and one false alarm.

Eight of the calls were for house fires; five for miscellaneous fires; four for grass or woods fires; three auto fires; and one was for a building other than a house. One mutual aid response, where one station goes to the aid of another, was reported.

Staton House Fire Department was the busiest of any of the departments, answering eight alarms during April.

An estimated property loss of $13,050 was reported by Pitt County Fire Marshall Bobby Joyner, who also reported that property valued at $36,700 was involved in the fires. Additional property estimated at $75,000 was reported exposed to the 21 fires.

Combat Glider Pilots Sought

"A search is on to locate former World War II combat glider pilots," according to Rufus R. Frost, state captain of the National World War II Glider Pilots Association.

"So far about 950 of the original 3,000 have been located by the headquarters of the association," Frost added. "I am asking old glider pilots... to please contact me."

Frost, headquartered at 311 Cashwell Drive, Goldsboro, pointed out that the next reunion of the association will be held in Milwaukee during September.

Judge-Must-Be-Lawyer Requirement Is Killed Off

By NOEL YANCY
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — An effort to amend the North Carolina Constitution to require that all judges be licensed lawyers was defeated Wednesday.

This result was obtained despite the fact that the Senate voted 27-21 for the bill which would have submitted the issue to a vote of the people in the general election next year. The vote was just three short of the three-fifths total which is required for bills to amend the constitution.

Supporters of the bill had planned to make a move either Thursday or later to get the issue reconsidered, but they were outmaneuvered when the Senate voted 22-21 to apply the "legislative clincher" to the measure. This means that the bill can only be considered again by a two-thirds majority of those voting.

Hardison's maneuver caught several supporters of the measure off the Senate floor.

Immediately after the Senate vote on the bill, its sponsor, Sen. Russell Kirby, D-Pitt, had voiced optimism about the chances of making a successful bid for reconsideration of the measure. However, after Hardison applied the clincher, Kirby admitted defeat.

"I intend to make no move whatever," Kirby said when asked if he would attempt to get the bill reconsidered. "As far as I am concerned it's finished."

"I don't know. It all depends on what is indicated by the membership," said Sen. Julian Allsbrook, D-Halifax, another backer of the bill, when asked the same question.

The vote on the bill came after the Senate voted 25-22 to reject an amendment by Hardison that would have exempted district court judges from the requirement that all judges be licensed attorneys.

During the Senate debate it was pointed out that about 10 of the state's 112 District Court judges are non-lawyers but that all of the Superior Court, Appeals Court and Supreme Court judges are attorneys.

However, several speakers pointed out that James Newcomb of Williamston, a fire extinguisher salesman, won the Republican nomination for chief justice of the State Supreme Court last year. He was defeated in the general election by Chief Justice Susie Sharp, a Democrat.

Kirby said that situation "very dramatically" pointed out "the need for this bill."

"I think every person is entitled to be tried by a person who is knowledgeable in the law," Sen. Jim McDuffie, D-Mecklenburg, told the Senate in opposing the Hardison amendment.

Sen. Donal Kincaid, R-Caldwell, supported the Hardison amendment. To back his contention that laymen can make competent district judges, Kincaid said, "If the laws are too complicated for the average person to understand, then perhaps we ought to change the laws."

Sen. Willis Whichard, D-Durham, told the Senate the California Supreme Court had ruled that the constitutional right of persons accused of crime were not protected when they were tried by judges who were not lawyers.

"I think if the question is presented to our court, we might get the same decision" Whichard stated.

Federal Funds Cutoff Threat Raised For N.C. State Univ.

RALEIGH (AP)—N.C. State University's proposed new veterinary school may turn out to be more expensive than originally estimated—about $70 million more expensive.

That is the amount of federal assistance that William Thomas, regional director of the U.S. Office of Civil Rights, says he will recommend the state lose if it persists in building the school at N.C. State.

Thomas, in a telephone interview Wednesday, said he has no alternative but to recommend that desegregation enforcement proceedings begin against the University of North Carolina for its decision to locate the veterinary school at predominantly white N.C. State in Raleigh.

Enforcement could mean that the university system would lose its annual allocation of approximately $70 million in federal funds.

Thomas said that the university has violated its higher education desegregation plan by not locating the school at predominantly black North Carolina A&T State University in Greensboro.

He said he would make his recommendation to the Department of Health Education and Welfare before the end of May.

The recommendation, he said, would result in either a suit against the university or a hearing before an HEW administrative law judge. The government's sanction would be withdrawal of its monetary support.

Thomas said the decision to locate the new school at N.C. State is "exactly the type of process (the desegregation) plan is designed to prevent."

Late last year, the university Board of Governors turned down the bid of N.C. A&T and chose N.C. State, saying that the Raleigh campus had better basic animal science facilities on which to build the veterinary school.

The Board recommended that the legislature allocate $4 million to begin development of the school. That appropriation is currently before the legislature, which is faced with cutting appropriations to meet a projected $232 million deficit.

UNC President William Friday was not available for comment Wednesday night. But he said earlier this week that he did not think Thomas's office had any grounds for action until and unless the legislature appropriated funds for the school.

Thomas disagreed. "My understanding is that the decision has been made (between N.C. State and N.C. A&T). We can act, based upon the recommendations to the legislature. I personally feel it's our responsibility to resolve the question prior to the state's taking action," he said.

Thomas was responding to a letter written to him last week by Friday. In it, Friday said he did not feel the desegregation plan obliged the university to locate new programs at black institutions when other factors dictated to the contrary.

But Thomas said that black institutions, which have suffered from years of neglect, will never catch up unless they are given special consideration for programs like the veterinary school which entail massive infusions of extra state funds.

Renew Appeal Schools Adopt Food Stamp Role

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer
Representatives of Project REACH appeared before the Pitt County Board of Education Tuesday afternoon to ask the board to reconsider a decision made last month which denied Project REACH permission to distribute literature about the Food Stamp Program in the Pitt County Schools.

Rick Cagan, coordinator of the project, asked the board at the April meeting that he be allowed to distribute the information in the schools so that more families could be reached in the county.

Mrs. Helen Johnson told board members yesterday that the North Carolina Association of Educators had taken the lead in bringing up the matter about food stamps.

"Project REACH can help those families who do not know whether or not they are eligible for food stamps," Mrs. Johnson said. "We request that you reconsider your decision and let the information be distributed in the schools."

Rick Cagan explained the idea of distributing materials in the schools is not a new one. He said that the program has been done in the Nash County and Concord City Schools and that the programs had been successful.

He explained the school distribution was one way to reach all the families who needed assistance.

"We feel the food stamp program is important to families in Pitt County and also feel that the program pays for itself," Cagan said. "We need to take a look at the long term benefits."

Ann Frost of the League of Women Voters added her organizations support for the proposal.

Board members agreed to discuss the matter again and a decision would be made soon.

The board of education agreed to join 16 other school boards in the Eastern Region in support of an agreement with the State, Board of Education that a full-time in-service education director be hired to work with the 17 school administrative units.

Principal Ike Baldree of Grifton School was given permission to hold graduation exercises for the eighth grade class on Thursday, June 5, so there would be no conflict with the Ayden-Grifton High School graduation on Friday, June 6.

Mrs. Ellen Brown, lunchroom worker at Ayden Elementary School, and Mrs. Louise Lee, an employee in the central office, were given permission to continue working with the schools, although both women have reached the age of 65.

Board members agreed to sell to the Town of Farmville the present athletic field at a price of $50,000, with the board to retain possession of the fence and bleachers.

The board also agreed to work out an agreement on the use of the field until the one at Farmville Central High School is completed.

A request will be sent to the North Carolina Department of Transportation for assistance in developing a connecting road between the proposed Farmville Middle School and the Farmville Central campus.

Board members approved employment of personnel and granted maternity leave to three teachers.

A driver's education budget for the next year was approved in the amount of $75,696.48.

The budget, designed to serve 1,361 students, includes funds for salaries, operation of cars, hospitalization and retirement.

Set No Date For Primary

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina is going to have a presidential primary in 1976. The only question now is when it will be held.

The Senate State Government committee voted Wednesday to kill a bill to abolish the primary which had passed the House in March.

The bill had aroused the opposition of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, who traveled to Raleigh to testify against it before the committee.

Wallace issued a statement from Montgomery Wednesday saying he was certain the people of North Carolina were grateful to the committee.

Wallace had characterized the bill as a move to deny him the North Carolina delegates he would be able to win in a primary. He carried the state in the 1972 primary.

A rematch of that 1972 race now seems likely. Former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford has said he is eager to take on Wallace again.

But there may also be other candidates. The committee approved another bill which would require that all active presidential candidates and contenders be placed on the ballot.

The date for the presidential primary is now open to change. A separate movement is gaining support in the legislature to move the date for state primaries to late August.

In 1972, both primaries were held in early May. If the state primaries were moved to August, there would be no reason to keep the presidential primary in May, when many legislators feel it is too late to be influential on the course of national politics.

Further Cutbacks Facing Japan's Tiny Army, Navy

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer
TOKYO (AP) — Thirty years after the crushing defeat of World War II, Japan's once mighty military establishment is hobbled by inflation, public indifference, detente and doubts about its very right to exist.

Down to a mere 232,936 men — 33,000 below authorized strength — the nation's Self Defense Force is only the palest shadow of the tough, old Imperial Army of five million which conquered much of Asia and the South Pacific.

Seventy years ago Japan established itself as a military power in Asia with its victory in the Russo-Japanese war. Now it is a world power without heavy bombers, long range missiles, aircraft carriers, atom bombs or other weapons associated with offensive warfare.

One reason so puny a force is protecting a nation of 110 million is psychological, a nationwide revulsion against atomic warfare and against the militarism of the 1930s and 1940s which brought Japan close to extinction as a nation and created a country of dedicated pacifists.

The second is constitutional. Under the American-inspired 1947 constitution, Japan renounced war as a sovereign national right, and stated: "Land, sea and air forces, as well as other war potential, will never be maintained."

It is this provision which prompts many Japanese to question the right of the Self Defense Force to exist at all. It is also why Japan has joined no regional security alliances, and sent no combat soldiers overseas since 1945.

The third reason is economic. Japanese youths just out of high school have, until recently, preferred to take the examinations which put them on the economic escalator as lifetime employees of big business. Though high school graduates get a respectable salary in the new army — $8,200 yearly or $194 monthly and 5.2 months of bonus pay yearly — private industry pays more. To many Japanese youths, the army is a short adventure, not a career.

has resulted in a slight increase in enrollments recently. But 20,000 men of the all-volunteer forces quit each year. The Self Defense Agency says there is no money for a concentrated enlistment drive to bridge the gap.

Finally, Japan can maintain so small an army at a bargain basement price — less than one per cent of the gross national product — because under a 25-year-old security treaty the United States guarantees to come to its assistance in case of attack.

That Japan has a military force at all is due to an anxious afterthought: the Korean War in 1950 and the Communist conquest of China the year before persuaded U.S. and Japanese leaders that Japan needed at least a nominal protective shield of its own to confront what they saw as a widening Communist threat to North Asia.

Aware of questions surrounding the birth of the defense force, successive conservative governments have adopted a low posture to gain it public acceptance. Accenting peace and its purely defensive role, they have involved it in a variety of community services from flood control to rescue work after earthquakes and typhoons.

The militaristic stigma clings to today's ground, maritime and air defense troops, self-effacing and public spirited though they are. For a time, troops were too ashamed to wear their uniforms in public.

Universities refused to accept them as undergraduates. Left-wing political parties portrayed them as germs of an abhorring militarism.

The problem still confronts Prime Minister Takeo Miki. In a January budget address to the Diet (parliament) he said: "Let me stress again that the Self Defense Forces will not be able to manifest their true worth as long as they remain aloof and isolated from the people."

Most Japanese discount the possibility in this different day and age that the fledgling force — there are 153,658 men in the Army, 38,196 in the Navy and 41,090 in the Air Force — contain the seed of rebellion or incident militarism.

The defense program is buffeted today by a new and unexpected enemy — inflation. The current five-year buildup plan was budgeted for $15.4 billion. With nearly one year left to go, it has eaten up $14.3 billion and the new estimate is for a total of $20 billion.

This means that 20,000 tons of planned naval construction will have to be delayed as well as acquisition of new tanks and remodeled ground support fighter planes.

Perhaps more damaging than inflation is the sense of uncertainty that pervades the Self Defense Force itself.

"Our position today is dubious," said one soldier. "We are neither fish nor fowl. We carry out our mission almost by stealth. This has to be changed. We must become legal."

The question of the Self Defense Force's legality is in the courts. One lower court ruled that it was illegal and the appeal is pending.

ALASKA PIPELINE CONSTRUCTION—Just north of the Yukon River, crews install pairs of supports for a section of the trans-Alaska pipeline which will be installed above ground. A cross beam will later be placed between the 18-inch diameter supports. Some 70,000 supports will be needed on construction of the oil pipeline. (AP Wirephoto)

Church Orders Wedding Delay For Under-19s

By ANN HELLMUTH
Associated Press Writer
ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — In attempt to curtail the rising divorce rate, the Roman Catholic Diocese in Orlando has set a three-month cooling off period for anyone under the age of 19 wishing to marry in the church.

Under the "Youthful Marriage Policy," priests also will scrutinize teen-agers to see if they are mature and financially stable enough to make a success of marriage.

Adopted Tuesday by the diocese's policy-making board, the program was drawn up by a committee of priests and laymen headed by the Rev. John Bluet, director of the Diocese's Family Life Department.

The diocese, which includes 33 Central Florida counties, has more than 140,000 members.

Father Bluet estimated that about 100 to 120 cases a year would be affected by the policy.

He said the right of couples to marry who gave evidence "of required minimal maturity" would be guaranteed.

"The right to marry is a natural right of high priority," the committee's said. "It is not, however, an unrestricted right. Both Church and State can establish legitimate restrictions. Such restrictions must be founded in serious causes, whereby the proposed marriage is shown to be in conflict with Christian revelation, or posing a threat to the common good of society."

The committee said the goal is to fight divorce "where it begins — in hasty or ill-advised marriages, particularly among the young."

It said 33 per cent of all divorced couples are teen-agers and "seven out of 10 marriages involving teen-agers end in separation. In teen-age marriages where pregnancy was a factor, 90 per cent break up...."

"Many priests feel helpless where the legal and the minimal spiritual requirements are met by the couple, but their youth and-or pregnancy factor leads the priest to believe that marriage has little hope for success."

Under the policy, couples seeking marriage "when either party has not yet reached his or her 19th birthday" are required:

—To wait three-months from the time of their first interview with a priest to the date of their marriage.
—Have in-depth interviews with the priest dealing with family background, parents' attitudes, desire to escape an unpleasant home situation, pregnancy, degree of infatuation.

—To submit to a study by the church of the couple's financial status and its ability to handle money.

—To attend special instruction and counseling sessions.

—To get written permission from the diocese's marriage court before the ceremony could be performed.

—To delay setting a firm wedding date until complying with all sections of the marriage policy.

Will Holler On June 21

SPIVEY'S CORNER, N.C. (AP)—Spivey's Corner, not even a speck on North Carolina's map, will be one of the noisiest places on earth June 21 when the seventh annual National Hollerin' Contest begins.

In addition to the hollering, there will be conch shell blowing and fox horn blowing contests plus the second annual Green Pepper Contest, which promises to find the "world's most beautiful pepper."

Typical of such events, it is sponsored by the Spivey's Corner Volunteer Fire Department. The food, of course, will be "fried chicken with all the trimmings."

A brochure on the contest said: "This event promotes the almost lost art of hollering, a custom that was traditional in this area years ago. Farmers would holler early in the morning or late in the afternoon as they were on their way to and from the fields."

"Many times a farmer would holler and then listen for his neighbor to come back with a holler. This would often happen with several neighbors finally joining in on the hollerin'."

The Wild Places

“Where the earth and its community of life are untrammelled by man, where man himself is a visitor and does not remain”—such a place is the Gila Wilderness, which predated that definition from the 1964 Wilderness Act by forty years. Gila, in southwest New Mexico, was the first wilderness set aside, June 3, 1924, to begin the nation's wilderness system. Gila embraces the Mogollon and Black Range Mountains, canyons and rivers, and the largest unbroken stand of Ponderosa pine in the world.

Wilderness is more than pristine geography. As a state of mind, a spiritual sanctuary, it becomes more and more precious in an increasingly noisy, crowded and polluted world. In fact, wilderness use is growing three times as fast as other Forest Service recreation land use—and now we have to be careful that, as a wilderness area overseer has put it, those who love the wilderness don't love it to death.

Milestone For Phone Service

TARBORO—Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company on Wednesday marked the attainment of one million carrier channel miles of long distance circuits.

The achievement was highlighted by a telephone call between Lt. Gov. Jim B. Hunt, Jr., in Raleigh and Carolina Company President J. F. Havens here.

Hunt praised the company for its growth and achievements since 1957.

To comprehend the firm's most recent milestone, it is necessary to understand the term, "carrier channel mile."

A carrier is a device which superimposes many telephone conversations over a single pair of wires or a single radio channel. They may be employed with a cable pair, and open wire circuit, or a microwave circuit. They may be used to transmit long distance calls, data, computer terminal traffic, extended area service calls, private line service, and other types of traffic.

Thus the company's attainment may be likened to having a single pair of wires stretching 1,000,000 miles (or to the moon and back twice). All of these carrier channel miles are in East North Carolina.

Following are a few of Carolina Telephone's growth figures from the end of 1957 to the end of 1974:

- Carrier channel miles—from 81,908 to 1,000,000.
- Long distance messages per year—from 10,053,156 to 54,963,134.
- Telephones in service—from 153,279 to 627,124.
- Plant investment—from $78,108,807 to $485,285,936.
- Taxes paid to state of North Carolina per year—from $1,829,654 to $12,418,592.
- Employees—from 2,267 to 4,608.
- Annual salaries and wages—from $7,369,517 to $41,256,359.
- Customers—from 129,859 to 372,139.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, MAY 9, 1975

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Be practical and down-to-earth during this New Moon period. Wind up whatever has been left undone of a practical nature, so you will be able to clear your decks for action on the new exciting interests about to happen.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Confer with banking experts, men in business, etc., who can help you make your life more secure and future brighter. Avoid tangents.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study your reflection well and see how to get it at its peak and make a fine impression on others. Accept some worthwhile invitation.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) In solitude, make decisions about important matters. Later, be of assistance to one who comes to you for help and is deserving. No moochers.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Some personal affair requires perseverance if you are to get it worked out properly now. Enjoy a hobby later with congenials.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Show some civic bigwig that you admire his work and gain favor with this person who can be of big help to you. Rest tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Fascinating situations develop that can bring you advancement quickly in your line of endeavor. Ally yourself with those of different background.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Planetary aspects are dramatic today, so make the best use of them. Reach greater rapport with mate. Don't be led by a foolish person.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Placate partners now by some seemingly unimportant small courtesies and reach a fine understanding. Help an associate who's depressed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get busy early and polish off those duties ahead of you with enthusiasm, even if they seem boring. Add charming item to wardrobe.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You may feel depressed and should plan recreation that can lift your spirit. Avoid one who is trying to lead you wrongly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Please family more by some thoughtful act. Find the right mechanicals that make your home more charming, efficient running. Watch strangers.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Keep appointments made. Run important errands. Making our reports and statements accurately is vital now. Accept an invitation.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be most practical and yet also will have a flair for the idealistic side of life. While young, this progeny will want to handle money intelligently, should be given an allowance early to invest, and probably will be highly successful by the time others are only getting started. Permit to have many little friends around early, too.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Asked Public To Select Movies

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Station officials usually decide what old movies will be shown and when during non-network hours. But a Minnesota TV station says it recently invited the public in on the programming act.

While Minneapolis area viewers didn't get to decide the time WCCO-TV airs their favorite flicks, they did get to help pick most of the films shown since Feb. 10 from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. on weekdays.

"The idea was to get audience involvement and hopefully increase our ratings," says Tom Cousins, WCCO's promotion director. "And it's almost doubled our ratings for that afternoon show."

It began, he said, when WCCO last October ran a two-page ad in local newspapers, polling viewers on their old-movie favorites from a list of 650 films—none older than 1970 vintage—in WCCO's film library.

Viewers also were asked whether they'd like the films on at 10:50 p.m., at "Midnight or other" or at 3:30 p.m.

Cousins said the films were characterized as "Gems from the 30s and 40s," "Singing and Dancing Extravaganzas" and "Chilling Tales of Horror and Science Fiction," among other things.

Students at Holy Angels Academy, an area high school, tabulated the complete results. When the final tally was in, more than 6,000 Minneapolis area residents had voted in the picture poll, WCCO says.

According to their count, the highest vote—1,738—went to "The Thin Man," a 1934 comedy classic, with four "Thin Man" sequels following in popularity. The least-popular, movie "Dime With a Halo," got 75 votes.

Most viewers—3,723—wanted their old movies on at 10:50 p.m., while just 993 wanted the weekday afternoon time period. But WCCO had to put the voter-approved films in the latter time period because its current late-night schedule isn't suitable for a string of "movie weeks" featuring films voted on by viewers.

Cousins said the station's 10:50 p.m. slot now is filled with CBS late-night movies on Sundays, Mondays and Tuesday night and WCCO's own "Come-

Prison For Bogus Bills

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (AP)—Three men have received prison sentences for their roles in what the Secret Service described as a $428,000 counterfeiting scheme.

U. S. District Judge Hiram H. Ward imposed the sentences Wednesday on Bennette Preston Simpson and Vernon Winfrey Newell, both of Winston-Salem, and Wesley Calvin Newton of Pulaski, Tenn.

Newton was sentenced to eight years in prison. Simpson received six years and Newell was given 18 months.

Several persons testified that the three were well known and respected before their arrests following a raid last Christmas Eve on a Winston-Salem printing shop owned by Simpson.

Witnesses described Newton as a well known gospel singer at one time, Simpson as a civic-minded benefactor and Newell as a talented artist.

Newton and Simpson pleaded guilty to printing counterfeit money and Newell pleaded guilty to a conspiracy charge. Four other charges against them were dropped.

Willie E. Oliphant, a Secret Service agent, testified for the government. He said the agency learned of a counterfeit plot Dec. 18 and kept Simpson's printing shop under surveillance until the Dec. 24 raid.

Farm Bureau Women Hear Miss Cherry

Reflector Staff Writer

Mrs. Ruth Cherry, a director of North Carolina Farm Bureau and chairman of the N.C. Farm Bureau women's committee, was the keynote speaker at a luncheon Wednesday for Pitt County Farm Bureau women.

The meeting was sponsored by the Pitt County Farm Bureau women's committee which includes Mrs. Ruel Dilda, chairman; Mrs. David H. Smith, Mrs. John Radford, Mrs. Frankie Singleton and Mrs. Wilbur Worthington.

Mrs. Cherry is active in many women's organizations on both the state and national level and is currently serving as a commissioner of Edgecombe County. She and her husband, Mayo, live near Rocky Mount.

Mrs. Cherry discussed the aims and ambitions of Farm Bureau women.

"There are more than 100,000 farm families in North Carolina and most of those families are members of Farm Bureau," Mrs. Cherry said. "Farm Bureau is a family organization."

She explained Farm Bureau was organized many years ago for the purpose of raising standards of farm living.

"Farm improvements determine all aspects of our lives, including education, many conveniences, education of our children, and good community relations," the speaker said.

"We get things done by involving our people. We get the opinions and ideas of our members and work to carry out as many ideas as possible," Mrs. Cherry said.

better facilities for rural people."

Mrs. Cherry said Farm Bureau people have worked toward a better understanding internationally.

"We currently have a project called 'Save the Sight' which is being conducted in India for poorly nutritioned children.

"We believe that good leaders must continue to be involved and be willing to get involved in what is going on around them," Mrs. Cherry said.

I feel the time has come when we should stop talking about rural and city people . . . we are fast becoming one. We must work together to have a great country in which to live in," Mrs. Cherry stated.

Doug Jackson and Doug Ross, members of the Crime Prevention Division of the Greenville Police Department, talked to the group about "Operation Identification" which is available to Greenville citizens through the local police department.

Jackson emphasized the importance of homeowners engraving their property with their driver's license number so quick identification could be made in case of theft.

They showed a film entitled "Invitation to Burglary" which gave pointers on how a homeowner can make his home more secure and protect his property from burglary.

"It is a simple matter to protect your home against burglary and it doesn't have to be expensive," Jackson said.

He stated that 'Operation

Identification' was started in Greenville about two years ago by the Greenville Jaycees. He said the service is free to Greenville residents. They just have to call the local police department and ask for someone to help them mark their possessions.

Mrs. Wilbur Worthington told those present that the local Farm Bureau had purchased eight engravers for their members to use in identifying their personal possessions. They may be obtained from the Pitt County Farm Bureau office. Stickers will also be provided for homeowners to put on their doors which show that the items in the home have been marked for identification purposes.

Jackson said the project in other cities has shown that homes which have such stickers on their doors are robbed less often than homes that do not.

Mrs. Irby Walker of Raleigh, who is secretary-treasurer of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation, was a special guest.

Mrs. David H. Smith, secretary of the Pitt County Farm Bureau, presided at the meeting.
