

Ford To Tell Energy Program

By DON WATERS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford tells a nationwide broadcast audience tonight about the next step in his energy program, with strong indications that it will include a second $1 tariff on each barrel of imported oil.

All major television and radio networks said they planned to broadcast Ford's statement live from his Oval Office at 8:30 p.m. EDT. A White House announcement said the President would disclose "his decisions on the energy program in the absence of any congressional action." The talk is expected to last about 10 minutes.

As key elements in his energy-conservation program, Ford proposed a $3-a-barrel tariff in three monthly steps and a gradual end to price controls on crude oil products.

The administration has said the program is designed to encourage fuel conservation and domestic oil production so the United States can sharply reduce its heavy dependence on foreign petroleum by the 1980s.

Officials estimate that each $1-per-barrel tax boost adds 1 to 1½ cents to the retail price of gasoline.

Ford imposed the first $1 of the tariff Feb. 1 but set aside plans to add additional dollars on March 1 and April 1 after Congress began working on its own energy tax package.

The congressional effort has been stalled, however, and Ford took note of that when he told five foreign correspondents last Friday that he was weighing whether to impose the second dollar tariff.

"The Congress has failed very badly," he asserted. "They have done literally nothing affirmatively to solve our energy problem. Perhaps the imposition of the extra dollar will stimulate the Congress to meet the problem."

The House Ways and Means Committee, which initiates all tax legislation, has approved an energy tax package, but House leaders decided to delay floor action on it until after Congress returns from its Memorial Day recess a week from today.

Under the Ways and Means bill, energy conservation would be sought primarily through a boost in the federal gasoline tax. That levy, now 4 cents a gallon, would rise by three cents in the next year and as much as 23 cents by the end of the 1970s.

Kissinger Modifies U.S. U.S. Foreign Stance For Fuel Parleys Trade Again Has Surplus

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today proposed the formation of a series of producer-consumer commissions on raw materials and other Third World concerns as a means of reopening the preparatory world energy conference.

U.S. officials acknowledged that the proposal outlined by Kissinger to the 18-nation International Energy Association represented a shift in American policy and could ultimately lead to controls against "excessive price volatility."

But they denied that the Ford administration has decided to participate in price-fixing schemes or would support the "indexing" proposal by Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi to tie the price of crude oil to major industrial products bought by the oil countries.

Kissinger told newsmen he believes the preparatory energy meeting can be resumed within a month. However, French officials said it might be several months before another meeting could be set up. The first preparatory meeting collapsed in March when the United States and other industrial nations rejected demands by Algeria and other underdeveloped nations that the future oil conference be broadened to include all raw materials.

Kissinger told the members of the International Energy Agency — IEA — that they "have no reason to recoil from a discussion of all the issues of concern to developing countries."

He said the proposed commissions would explore such questions as finance, investment, trade and production and would have no deadline for completing their work. Principal exporters and importers of food and other raw materials would participate in the commodities panel.

One observer suggested that Kissinger was trying to "fine-tune" the energy controversy by offering to consider raw materials other than oil over the long, leisurely run while pressing for a vigorous united front against oil price increases.

A new round of oil price increases, possibly in the range of 20 per cent, is considered likely when the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries meets in Gabon in June. Kissinger told the IEA that another hike would be economically unjustified since oil is now in oversupply, inflation is slowing and prices are at record highs.

"Yet the market remains under the substantial control of the producers," he said. "It will become more so unless we impose upon ourselves a rigorous energy program and put immediate impetus behind our conservation efforts."

Kissinger told the representatives of the 17 other nations that the program President Ford will announce tonight will help reduce U.S. consumption of imported oil by 1.2 million barrels a day by the end of 1977.

Kissinger said agreement within the IEA on conservation measures could accomplish a combined saving of four million barrels a day.

Over the long haul, Kissinger said, Western dependence on imported oil will become irreversible unless nuclear power and other new energy sources are developed.

He said Ford will decide by June 30 how the United States will supply nuclear fuel to the nine nations of the European Economic Community and other countries. He proposed that the leading research and development officials of the 18 IEA member nations meet in the early fall to draw up a joint energy research and development program.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Teen-age bandits robbed Memorial Day mourners standing over the graves of relatives at two cemeteries here, police report.

Two youths, both about 18, robbed Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Kehoe of Euclid of $75 in cash and a watch at one cemetery, officers said Monday.

They said Mrs. Janet Gallagher of Cleveland Heights and her 14-year-old daughter were placing flowers on a grave at St. Joseph Cemetery when two youths, about 15 years old, stole $20 from Mrs. Gallagher and 50 cents from her daughter.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's foreign trade accounts withstood a surge of imported oil in April to record their third monthly surplus in a row, the Commerce Department announced today.

Oil imports, which have fluctuated widely so far this year in response to President Ford's imposition of a $1 per barrel tariff Feb. 1, jumped by 69 per cent in April to 201 million barrels.

The oil surge drove up the value of all goods imported into the country by 9.2 per cent. The value of goods exported dropped 1.7 per cent.

The trade accounts still managed to post a $556.8 million surplus after March's record $1.4 billion surplus.

So far this year, exports have exceeded imports by $2.6 billion, compared to a $851.9 million surplus in the same period last year.

The nation posted a record deficit in its trade accounts last year, and administration economists are expecting a deficit again this year due to an increase in oil imports during the last half of the year in response to an anticipated economic recovery.

Oil imports hit a record 285 million-barrel level in January as importers rushed to beat the $1 per barrel tariff. Imports dropped drastically in February and March. Now that those swings are past, the average amount of oil imported over the first four months of this year is about on a par with the final four months of last year.

The monthly average is running 190.2 million barrels this year, compared to the 190.7 million barrels at the close of 1974. This steady demand for imported oil in the face of declining production is a big reason economists expect demand to jump sharply later.

A breakdown of April's trade figures showed a $163 million drop in the major categories of agricultural exports — rice, corn, soybeans and fats and oils. The drop more than offset an increase of $87 million in wheat and animal feed exports.

Other exports showing sharp decline were civilian aircraft, pulp and waste paper, coal, fertilizers and iron and steel tubes.

Imported products increasing along with petroleum were non-ferrous metals and sugar. Imports of iron and steel, transportation equipment, electrical machinery, and nonelectrical machinery declined.

Consider Moving Center

There is a possibility that the Northeast Regional Service Center of the State Department of Public Instruction in Grifton will be relocated to better serve all the school systems in the northeast educational region.

According to Dr. A. Craig Phillips, state superintendent of public instruction, a regional council representing the school systems served by the northeast regional center has been making a study during this past year on the pros and cons of relocating the center.

Phillips said the Grifton center is located at the bottom of the region which causes some problems for systems in the upper portion of the district. "We are sitting in limbo at the present time," Phillips said. "We probably will not reach a decision for another month or two."

The decision to relocate the center and the new location will be made by Phillips in conjunction with the regional center people, staff members and others involved.

"We are trying to make the right decision and don't have all the facts yet," Phillips said. "The matter will be studied fully before a decision is reached."

Phillips said several alternatives are being considered. "The major issue is that the location of the Grifton center is on the lower part of the district and has been the concern of many superintendents in the top part of the region."

"The whole purpose of the regional center is to distribute services and be available to all systems in the region. . . and location is an important factor," Phillips said.

Phillips said there is no animosity involved in the possibility of the relocation. "The Pitt County people have been great to work with but we feel the need for relocation may be necessary," Phillips pointed out.

The regional centers are the concept of Governor Dan Moore's study commission in 1968. During the past five years a total of five centers have been established in North Carolina. "The General Assembly is concentrating on finishing up the sequence by providing three more centers so there will be one in each educational district in the state," Phillips emphasized. The centers were established

'Dangers' In Final Weeks

Pitt County's Senators and Representatives in the 1975 General Assembly said before the Legislature began its session in January, that money would be the big issue of the year.

Things haven't changed. With adjournment maybe four or five . . . possibly six weeks . . . away, the lawmakers say money will be the major issue during the closing days of the 1975 legislative session.

"July 1 . . . I don't believe we can quit before that time and do a reasonably fair job," Sen. Julian Allsbrook of Roanoke Rapids said. "These are dangerous days. We're trying to get through . . . do a big job numerically (handling a large number of bills). We need to watch very closely . . . keep from passing bad legislation. . ."

None of the lawmakers see any surprises ahead.

House member Horton Rountree of Greenville said "we're now looking at the budget. That's the big item."

He envisions a joint House-Senate subcommittee "to knock out the differences (in the budget) if any exist. I understand the House and Senate are not too far off—$10 million maybe. There are a bunch of tax bills pending in Finance (Committee)," such as the inventory tax on manufacturers. "How that will act up, I don't know," he said.

Rountree mirrored Allsbrook's concern over the closing days of the session. "This is a very dangerous time, with all the bills now pending. It's right hard to evaluate them," in such a short time, he emphasized. He foresees a House-Senate

Refugee Trickle

AGANA, Guam (AP) — The first refugees headed for the new evacuee camp at Ft. Indiantown Gap, Pa., will come from Guam, authorities announced today.

Adm. G. Steve Morrison said a flight carrying 340 Vietnamese would leave Guam early Wednesday, Guam time. A second flight of 179 refugees is scheduled to follow within several hours and more will leave daily until June 1, he said.

The admiral said 1,779 refugees are scheduled to be transferred to the Pennsylvania camp.

This was not expected to make an appreciable dent in the size of the refugee population still on Guam. As of Tuesday, 47,081 remained on the island, with 37,631 jammed into sweltering "Tent City."

Morrison said he is not optimistic about the prospect of flights resuming at a faster pace. A month ago, when refugee flights to the mainland began, thousands were moved out of Guam daily. But the flow has decreased to a trickle, and on Monday only 262 refugees were flown out in 24 hours.

"When we first started, they were leaving at 6,000 a day," said Morrison. "I thought that would go on forever. But now I realize it was just until they filled up the camps back there."

The admiral noted that more ships carrying refugees are expected here — two of them with 355 aboard are scheduled to arrive May 31. And another 6,100 Vietnamese are at Subic Bay in the Philippines awaiting trans-

Find Skeleton

The skeleton of a man found Monday afternoon south of Bethel has been sent to the State Medical Examiner in Chapel Hill for identification.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that a construction worker found the remains in the woods about 200 yards off N.C. 11 some six miles south of Bethel and reported the finding around 3:15 p.m.

Sheriff Tyson, who said that the skeleton appeared to have been there from one to two years, pointed out that the remains were clothed although most of the apparel had rotted away.

Officers found a belt with a buckle bearing the initials JF, on the remains, it was noted, as well as an empty billfold. Shoes and socks were still on the bones of the feet, the sheriff added.

Sheriff Tyson said that a pair of eyeglasses found on the remains were being checked for prescription in an effort to gain clues as to the identity.

The State Bureau of Investigation has been called in to work with the Sheriff's Department on the matter.

Pitt Tech Graduation Rites Friday Evening

Graduation exercises for Pitt Technical Institute will be held at 8:00 p.m. on Friday, in McGinnis Auditorium on the campus of East Carolina University.

The keynote speaker for the ceremonies will be Dr. A. Craig Phillips, state superintendent of Public Instruction.

Phillips, a native of eastern North Carolina, is one of the State's most experienced and most respected educators and a long-time supporter of technical and vocational education.

Dr. William E. Fulford Jr., president of Pitt Tech called this year's graduating class "a symbolic personification of the realities of our current national situation."

"This group of graduates," Fulford asserted, "demonstrates an even more pronounced demand by our society for persons possessing refined and sophisticated technical and vocational skills. In a period of history in our country when unemployment is persons with such talents are still able to find jobs. Most of these graduates already have at least one job offering, and some have several. At the same time, their counterparts graduating from both two-year and four-year postsecondary institutions in non-technical programs are encountering great difficulty in the employment market.

"This has been a banner year for Pitt Technical Institute," Fulford reflected. "Our enrollment has soared. Part of this increase is probably attributable to increases in Veterans' benefits effectuated by Congress last year, but most of it is a renewed realization by the American public that the most negotiable product on today's labor market is a well-developed technical skill."

Joining President Fulford in the Friday evening ceremonies will be Senator Vernon E. White, chairman of the PTI Board of Trustees, who will confer the degrees and diplomas.

Others participating in the program will be Rev. Horace Thompson, pastor of the Winterville Missionary Baptist Church, who will render the invocation and benediction, and Miss Vanlora Finch, a senior at Ayden-Grifton High School, who

Attend Meet In Kinston

The Greenville-Kinston Sisterhood Hadassah met in monthly session at the home of Ms. Sarah Page, Kinston.

Mrs. Max Chused and Mrs. Sol Schechter reported on their meeting with Gov. Jim Holshouser. The Governor met with representatives of the Southern Seaboard Region of Hadassah in his office to present the delegation with a North Carolina flag. The flag will fly at the reopening and dedication ceremonies of the rebuilt Hadassah Mount Scopus Hospital in Jerusalem, Israel, Oct. 21 of this year. Governor Holshouser paid tribute to "the humanitarian work of Hadassah, an organization which has had the courage, determination and greatness of heart to rebuild this great medical facility after it was evacuated during Israel's War of Independence in 1948."

It was reported that The Hadassah University Hospital on Mount Scopus was designed by Bauhaus architect Erich Mendelsohn. It served the people of Jerusalem from 1939 to 1948, when the medical staff of 76 doctors, nurses and hospital personnel were ambushed and killed by Arabs. After the massacre, Arabs controlled the territory until the Six Day War. The hospital had not been used and its facilities had been left to deteriorate while in Arab hands. Renovation was begun by Hadassah in 1967 when Jerusalem was reunited under Israeli administration. Mount Scopus Hospital will be serving all Arabs and Israelis in the area where no adequate medical aid had been available for more than a quarter of a century.

Other local members who attended the meeting in Raleigh were Mrs. Sam Fuchs and Ms. Siegler.

Has 'Hopes' Hostages Survive

By ANDREW TORCHIA
Associated Press Writer
DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Beverly Carter says he has hopes that two American students and a young Dutch woman held by guerrillas in Zaire will be released despite the Tanzanian government's refusal to meet the kidnappers' demands.

Guerrillas of the Marxist Popular Revolutionary party threatened to shoot the three hostages unless the Tanzanian government within 60 days paid them $460,000, freed a number of the party's leaders held in Tanzanian jails and handed over hundreds of rifles and cannon and thousands of rounds of ammunition.

"Tanzania will not be blackmailed," said President Julius Nyerere's press-secretary after a cabinet meeting. "The Tanzanian government flatly rejects all of the demands. Now we must wait."

He said this was the "final government" statement on the matter.

Carter after a meeting with Nyerere told newsmen: "We are not without hope that a resolution of the problem can free the remaining students." He said he was not sure what the U.S. or Tanzanian government's next steps would be.

"President Nyerere expressed his personal and his government's concern about the safety of the students who are still held captive and decried kidnapping as a tool to gain publicity," the ambassador said.

The hostages being held in a wild, mountainous region of Zaire on the western side of Lake Tanganyika are Carrie Jane Hunter, 21, of Atherton, Calif., Kenneth Stephen Smith, 22, of Garden Grove, Calif., and Emilie van Zinnick Bergman, 24, of The Netherlands.

They and Barbara Smuts, 24, of Ann Arbor, Mich., were seized May 19 at an animal research center on the eastern shore of Lake Tanganyika where about 30 Stanford University students were studying chimpanzees and baboons with British anthropologist Jane Goodall.

Several of the guerrillas brought Miss Smuts across Lake Tanganyika Saturday night and released her with letters containing the ransom demands.

She said she left the other three "in good health and in good spirits," but they were convinced their captors "will not hesitate to shoot" them if the demands are not met.

The guerrillas want to overthrow President Mobutu Sese Seko of Zaire and are reported to control a sizable territory in the eastern part of the country.

Bethel's Board Adopts Budget Of $217,685

BETHEL—The Bethel Board of Commissioners has tentatively adopted a 1975-76 budget of $217,685.11 during a special Town Board meeting held recently.

$58,349.09, with water and sewer sales of $52,837 constituting the major part of that budget item.

A budget hearing is scheduled for 8 p.m. on June 17 at the town hall.

A tax rate of 70 cents per $100 property valuation has also been tentatively adopted by the board. This proposed rate is the same as the 1974-75 tax rate.

A breakdown of the proposed 1975-76 budget by main categories shows: Administrative department, $16,440.53; Non-departmental, $58,920.39; Street Department, $54,158.86; Police Department, $50,832.25; and Sanitation Department, $20,128.54.

The remaining $17,204.54 of the $217,685.11 budget has been designated for the cemetery department, health clinic, governing body, fire department, library, and rescue squad.

In addition, the town of Bethel is scheduled to receive a total of $38,700 in revenue sharing funds. These funds have been designated for: Paving, $11,940.40; curb work, $8,103.88; utility truck, $5,000; fire equipment, $2,040; fire truck, $6,700; and water pipe and materials, $4,915.72.

Few Commutations Of Sentences By Governor

RALEIGH (AP)—Republican Gov. Jim Holshouser is getting the reputation among inmates as a governor who does not commute sentences.

For prisoners serving life terms, that means they have little hope for parole unless regulations are changed or until a new governor with a different attitude takes office.

The Paroles Board policy has been to parole a lifer only if he has received a commutation from the governor and has spent time on work release.

A pilot program started by the board would allow lifers to go on work release after a minimum of 12 years if they have a good record, have earned the right to go home on weekend passes and pass certain psychological tests.

Gov. Holshouser has commuted no life sentences in more than two years in office and has commuted far fewer sentences of any length than his predecessors.

Since he took office in 1973, Holshouser has commuted 45 sentences. Robert Scott commuted 375 sentences; Dan Moore, 423; and Terry Sanford 777 during their four-year terms.

The governor may either revoke or reduce a prison term in commuting a sentence. For a person with a life sentence that can mean setting a fixed term, which makes him eligible for work release.

Holshouser recently said in a speech to the Eastern North Carolina Law Enforcement Association, "I am constantly amazed by the amount of mail that crosses my desk asking for the early release of inmates."

For many inmates, however, the governor offers the only hope for release.

One of them, Mattie Jackson, hoped for a commutation at the end of 10 years of a life sentence. That was considered to be one-fourth of her term and she was eligible for a commutation.

Mrs. Jackson, who was convicted in Madison County of poisoning her sister's child, said, "My only hope was commutation. I was hoping this governor would, because my time came up during his term. But then I was told this governor doesn't commute and my parole was turned down in January," she said.

Freedom For 7 Fishermen

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Seven lobster fishermen imprisoned in Cuba in March say they believed until two days ago that they would be held for 20 years.

"They were told that every day — suddenly the Cubans changed their minds," their employer, Peter M. Bacle, said after the fishermen returned home Monday.

The seven, all Cuban exiles and including a 13-year-old boy, were taken into custody after their two fishing boats drifted into the Communist island's territorial waters, U.S. officials said.

"We're just glad to see them back," said Bacle, whose Stock Island Lobster Co. operates the fishing vessels. "There was a real party today."

"They looked good, a little thin, maybe. They'd been interrogated and they'd been in jail, but they said they'd been treated all right. At least one of them, the youngest boy, was put to work in the fields. They were all separated."

Bacle said the engine of one of the boats, the 40-foot Willa Mae, died while it and the 65-foot Joyce Marie were fishing for lobster.

"They must have drifted too close to Cuba and were taken into tow," he said.

The Willa Mae was towed back from Cuba by the Joyce Marie.

Offering Basic Guitar Lessons

The Greenville Recreation Department is offering a summer course in Basic Guitar for beginners who wish to learn the proper care of the guitar, chords and chord structures, picking and strumming styles, hand techniques, and simple songs to play.

Each student will need to bring a guitar and will probably need to purchase an inexpensive instruction book. This is a ten week class and the cost is $20 for the entire ten weeks. This may be paid at the second class meeting.

The class will be taught by Billy Stinson. Instruction will be individualized as well as team constructed. The class will be limited to ten students. Children must be at least 12 years old to register. Classes will be held every Tuesday evening at the Elm Street Center from 7:00-8:00 p.m.

Call the Greenville Recreation Department, 752-4137, for registration and further questions. The first class meeting will be June 10.

Lewis-Pollard Vows Solemnized

BELVOIR — In a candlelight ceremony at the Belvoir Free Will Baptist Church Friday at 7:00 p.m., Miss Debra Sue Pollard and Earl Clinton Lewis Jr. were united in holy matrimony. The minister officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. David Nobles of Virginia.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby G. Pollard of Greenville. The parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Clinton Lewis Sr. of Greenville.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Tyresia Jordan, pianist, and Bobby Harris, soloist, who sang "Let It Be Me," "We've Only Just Begun," and the "Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of silk organza over peau de soie. The molded bodice with high French tucked yoke outlined with scallop peau d'ange lace reembroidered with pearls, was fashioned with rounded neck bordered with stand-up collar which held a gathered ruffle of organza, and the Camelot sleeves enhanced with inserted bands of lace, ended in split cuffs over-laid with lace ending in ruffle falling over the hands. The A silhouette skirt stemmed from the lifted waist and was highlighted with side panels and cut-out designs of lace, featuring an inner frame and border of lace, and extended into a built-in train which flowed chapel length.

Her chapel length veil of French silk illusion bordered with matching peau d'ange lace was caught to an open crown which held her double blusher veil. The bride carried a prayerbook bouquet of yellow roses, baby's breath and ivy.

Miss Brenda Pollard, sister of the bride, who was maid of honor, wore a formal gown of apple green overlaid with white flocked polyester, designed with a square neckline and full puff sleeve, elbow length. The princess skirt extended from an empire bodice and both were enhanced by gathered lace in front and back with green ribbons. She wore a spring green garden hat with a band of lace and streamers extending from a flowerette. She carried spring puffs of daisies and baby's breath with ribbons.

The bridesmaids were Sherry Grant, Tyresia French, Joyce Jones, Jo Ann Haddock, cousins of the bride, and Donna Haddock, cousin of the bridegroom, all of Greenville and Ginger Davis of Plymouth, Mich. sister of the bridegroom. Junior bridesmaids were Dawn Pollard and Candy Pollard, sisters of the bride.

The bridesmaids wore formal length gowns of buttercup yellow over white fashioned identical to that of the maid of honor. They also wore yellow garden hats like that of the maid of honor. Junior bridesmaids wore flowerettes and streamers. They also carried small spring puffs of daisies and baby's breath with ribbons.

The flower girls, Laura Davis, niece of the bridegroom and a resident of Plymouth, Mich., wore a formal gown like that of the maid of honor. She carried a basket of spring flowers.

Honorary bridesmaids were Kathy Pollard and Karen Jones, Phyllis Bullock, all of Greenville. Dressed in formal gowns, they carried long-stemmed yellow carnations with ribbons. Steve Haddock, cousin of the bride, served as ring bearer. He carried a heart-shaped pillow covered with white lace and satin streamers.

Earl Clinton Lewis Sr., served as his son's best man. Ushers were Eddie Morris, Greg Jordan, John Simpkins, Mitchell Pollard, Sammy Stocks, and Mike Pollard, all of Greenville. Marion Crisp and Chris Joyner served as groomsmen.

Grandmothers of the bride, Mrs. Dora Manning and Mrs. Ryan Pollard, of Greenville were remembered with white miniature carnations. The mothers wore rose corsages.

Mrs. Marcia Moran directed the wedding. Mrs. Magdalene Jones presided over the guest register.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride changed into a shrimp-colored pants suit and wore a rose corsage.

The bride is a graduate of North Pitt High School and is presently attending Pitt Technical Institute. She is also employed with Tom Togs, Inc. The bridegroom is a graduate of North Pitt High School and has attended North Carolina State University. He is Sales Representative with Hydrotex, Inc.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the fellowship hall.

Hostesses for the reception were Mrs. Pat Pollard, Mrs. Margie Pollard, and Mrs. Barbara Pollard, assisted by Mrs. Eunice Bell, Mrs. Brenda Stancill, Mrs. Louvenia Stancill, Mrs. Myrtle Holland and Mrs. Betsy Harris.

On Thursday evening, a pre-rehearsal dinner honoring the wedding party, families and friends, was given at the Tarboro Inn, Tarboro, by the bridegroom's parents.

Traditional Image Of Women Has Greatly Changed

NEW YORK (AP) — Remember how in the dark, dim pre-Women's Lib past, the human female was frequently portrayed as considerably less than bright? And when she was shown to possess an abundance of intelligence, how she might even minimize it herself, like "playing dumb to get a man"?

Back then, an apparent lack of intelligence on the part of a woman was often considered a sexual attribute. Well, according to a recent survey of super-intelligent women, such thinking is as passe as the old-fashioned petticoat.

Super-bright women of today have very definite and liberated views of their sex roles — and their roles in sex, too, for that matter.

Every one of the more than 300 women who had their opinions on sexual attitudes evaluated are as super-intelligent as any women, anywhere. All of them are members of Mensa, the international organization that admits members solely on the basis of an IQ that's in the top 2 per cent of the general population.

The survey's results, as recorded in Manfred F. DeMartino's recently published book, "Sex and the Intelligent Woman," clearly show that the traditional image of women has greatly changed.

We learn, for example, that highly intelligent women believe psychological aspects more important than physiological ones in their appraisal of men as lovers.

Apparently, intelligence helps make good marriages, too. Fifty-one per cent of the Mensa women surveyed describe their marriages as essentially happy — a tremendously impressive figure in these days of rising divorce rates.

On the clinical side, 56 per cent of the women tested see the strength of their sex drives as either "above average," "strong" or "very strong." One primary factor is their intensity of feelings of love or affection for their sexual mate.

One progressive attitude of the great majority of the Mensa women was their willingness to discuss openly virtually every aspect of sex and love-making. This openness is understandable considering that Mensa women (and men, also) represent just about every socio-economic level and are from every walk of life — housewives, professionals, students, laborers, merchants. They meet regularly in social gatherings to discuss everything from politics and sex to cooking and fashions. Membership in the high IQ organization is achieved on the basis of proof of ratings on previously taken tests, or by taking the initial step of contacting the national headquarters to obtain a preliminary self-administered test.

Undoubtedly, the results of the Mensa survey reflect the growing spirit of Women's Lib. In evaluating it, psychologist-writer Albert Ellis states, "We now have byoboggedillions of women who are militantly opposing the double standard of sexual morality and asserting the rights of women to choose the kind of sex-love affairs that they truly want."

Your Brother Should Be Complimented

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My brother is dating a widow. Her daughter is going to be married soon, and my brother has been asked to give the bride away.

The bride-to-be has been living with her fiancé for two years, so there is nothing to "give away," and everyone knows it. Under the circumstances, my brother is concerned over the propriety of accepting this dubious honor.

I'd appreciate an answer in your column. We all read it, and this would inform us without complications. Thank you.

DEAR SIS: The custom of "giving away" the bride need not be taken literally. Your brother would be standing in for the bride's father. He should be complimented, not critical. (P.S. Should he refuse, he would be giving HIMSELF away.)

DEAR ABBY: Isn't it true that animals (especially dogs and cats) have a sixth sense when it comes to telling who likes them and who doesn't?

I mean, it's possible for people to deceive other people about things like that, but you can never fool an animal, right?

ANIMAL LOVER

DEAR LOVER: Wrong! I know a man who strongly dislikes both dogs and cats, but they are drawn to him as moths are to a flame. I know that his show of affection for animals is only an act, but he fools all the pets all of the time!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 20-year-old college junior. I made a bad mistake in my freshman year. I wanted to be popular so I gave in to several guys on the first date, hoping one would like me enough to stay with me. None did, and all I got was a lousy reputation.

About five months ago, a dude who was really neat started to notice me. I made up my mind that I would play hard to get with him because being easy got me nowhere. The first time he asked me out I fought it and fought it but gave in because I wanted to see him again. He never called me after that. I wanted to see him so much, I called him, but he always made excuses so he wouldn't have to see me.

He is the only guy I really felt anything for, Abby. How can I get him to realize that if I have him, I wouldn't look at another dude?

I think about him night and day. I can't sleep or study. I'm going crazy. Please tell me how to get another chance with him.

HEARTSICK

DEAR HEARTSICK: Sorry, but there is no way to get a guy to see you, date you or even give you a second glance if he's not interested. You blew it when you gave in to him. Bed hopping is not the way to get a man. Counseling is available on your campus, so please take advantage of it. You need more help than I can give you in a letter.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOOKING FOR A BETTER LIFE": Faint heart never won fair maiden or any kind of man. Invite that attractive dentist to something for which you just happen to have a pair of tickets (buy them, of course), then let him take it from there.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

A reader in Orlando wrote that in a Christmas letter from her niece, she casually mentioned that her senior class trip this year would be to Jamaica.

"We went to Jamaica on our honeymoon!" said the writer, "and thought it was a big deal. Not only that, for our senior trip we took a bag lunch on a bus to Starved Rock State Park with an intermediate stop at Indian Burial Mounds and liked to have fainted from the excitement. Have I missed something?"

The only thing I can figure is while you were skipping rocks at the state park, someone invented the round wheel and the square credit card and the world got smaller.

Admittedly it gets tougher and tougher trying to impress today's young travelers.

A few summers ago I rode all over New York City with my sons on a sightseeing bus with instructions, "If you see anything you want to return to, let me know."

As we climbed off the bus, I poised my pencil and said, "Okay, fellows, what'll it be? A tour of the United Nations? A trip to the top of the Empire State building? A cab ride through Central Park?"

One son spoke up, "There was a store near the river that had cut-off jeans for a buck ninety-nine. They're open until 8:30."

On another occasion, I took one of them with me to Philadelphia where I was doing a Mike Douglas show. I showed him the Liberty Bell, Betsy Ross's house, Ben Franklin's grave, and the Wax Museum and let him touch Marty Allen's hair.

but it wasn't. Today's children are seeing more of the world than they have ever seen before and in spite of their worldliness there is something to be said for finding joy in a pair of jeans for a buck ninety-nine, playing on the elevators, or chuckling over a magazine.

And one day when they are saturated with worldliness, it wouldn't surprise me a bit to hear a senior class president say, "Look, everyone has 'done' Europe, South America, most of us Asia, and some of us Africa. How about a trip to Starved Rock State Park with an intermediate stop at Indian Burial Mounds?"

Luncheon Meet Held By Group

The Pitt County Association of Insurance Women held their business luncheon Wednesday at the Olde Towne Inn.

President Sarah Jenkins read her annual report which was given at the N. C. State Convention of Insurance Women held in Charlotte recently.

The program was given by Hugh Benson, juvenile officer with the Greenville Police Department. He told of the development of the position through the past 20 years and the differences in its image.

Benson said one of their goals was to better inform the public of the services of the juvenile officer's role and it would help by addressing civic groups or speaking to classes.

East Carolina University graduated its largest class in history in ceremonies Sunday.

They heard the university's most distinguished graduate Sen. Robert Morgan, who delivered the commencement address. The senator's appearance before these young men and women should serve as a reminder that there is nothing that they cannot accomplish as they go out into the world to follow their chosen careers.

The graduates leave a campus that has changed immeasurably even in the relatively short four years that they have been there. Some of this change is easily seen in the construction on campus such as the splendid new School of Art building, part of which has been constructed and the other part underway. These graduates also saw the new student union opened and an outstanding addition to the library placed in service.

The university has also strengthened itself in a number of programs in recent years, and now an entering freshman at ECU can choose from among many majors in selecting the career to be followed upon graduation.

Certainly the most spectacular addition to the ECU programs has been the School of Medicine, which has been offering the first year of medical training for three years. Now the program has been approved for full four-year status. With the $15 million already on hand and additional funding from the present Legislature the first class which will eventually graduate as physicians is expected to be admitted in the fall of 1976.

Many things have happened on the ECU campus during the four years that this year's graduating class has been in attendance. There are many, many positive programs now underway so that that a young person can obtain the training he needs to move ahead in life.

Even with this year's poor economic conditions and the tight job market, there are exciting possibilities ahead for this year's graduates that should make a great future for them.

Forced Out Of Uniform

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Many Army and Air Force officers, mostly captains, are due to get word in the months ahead that they'll be forced to leave the military as the services gear down from the Vietnam era.

An Army personnel board is meeting this month to pick 2,150 from among 2,700 officers being considered for involuntary separation during the fiscal year starting July 1. In a departure from past practice, the board was told to give equal consideration to regular officers and reservists on active duty.

Maj. Gen. George W. Putnam, the Army's chief of personnel, estimated about 900 would be regulars. He said "we found we were cutting out reserve officers who were more qualified" than regulars being kept. But the Air Force is confining its cuts to reservists and will sever between 1,200 to 2,000 during the next fiscal year, depending on how many leave voluntarily.

So far, 512 reserve Air Force officers have been ordered out by July 31. This is in addition to 621 others told to be out by June 27.

The 621 brings to 1,500 the total of reserve officers that the Air Force has forced out in the two fiscal years ending July 1, according to Maj. Gen. Oliver W. Lewis, Air Force director of personnel. This will reduce the number of Air Force officers to around 105,000.

The Army forced out 5,000 reservists in fiscal 1972 and another 4,900 in fiscal 1974 in trying to reduce its officer force from a peak 170,000 in fiscal 1969 to 98,000 in the fiscal year ahead.

The Marine Corps and Navy plan no forced reductions in the year ahead, but the Navy plans to cut back about 1,500 officers by other means.

The Army is cutting back a total of 4,400 officers in the year ahead but counts on getting all except the 2,150 out by promotion passover rules and cutting back on procuring new officers.

THIS AFTERNOON Surprise In Re-Write Job

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — An attempt to clean up the state's conflicting and confusing gambling law may produce a result not counted upon by the authors.

Typically conservative Tar Heels are likely to raise considerable objection to one minor sentence in the proposal introduced in the Legislature by Senator Julian R. Allsbrook, D-Halifax.

Tucked away among the "definitions" at the opening of the bill is a provision that opens the door for all types of gambling and lottery activities to be carried on openly so long as the proceeds are for charitable purposes.

Obviously, church bingo games and the junior high school TV raffle would qualify; but some legislators looking ahead to the prospects if the measure should become law think that the door would also be open for poker parties at the local fraternal club; crap tables in the civic club headquarters; roulette wheels at the ladies' bazaar.

Senator Didn't Know
Confronted with that prospect, Allsbrook pleaded ignorance. He had not seen that exclusion of "any scheme or game of chance designed to produce income solely for charitable purposes when the entire net income after deduction of reasonable and necessary expenses is applied to such purposes."

The Halifax senator said he was introducing that proposal, along with a host of others, for the attorney general. "I honestly didn't read it. . . I just introduced it. . . if there's anything wrong, we can fix it as we go along."

The General Assembly from time to time is faced with a local proposal to permit raffles, lotteries, bingo, or other games to raise money for religious or charitable causes. The state has a hodge-podge of regulation in this field, with some local ordinances permitting it, and state law taking precedence in some locales.

The provision in the gambling law revamping would make the law uniform across the state.

Officials in the attorney general's office said the North Carolina measure is taken from a model statute in use in Ohio. Talks with law enforcement people in Ohio showed no major problems with the simplified version, spokesmen said.

The prospect that North Carolina would be opening the door to all sorts of legalized gambling so long as the proceeds go to some charitable cause would become subject to court rulings, should the measure become law.

Whether the use of slot machines, roulette wheels, etc., would be legalized is debatable, but probably such paraphernalia would be illegal under other sections of the proposed statute.

Minor Offense
Aside from the relaxation of regulation governing charitable gambling activities, the new approach takes a first step in the direction of relaxing the law toward people who participate in gambling; but cracking down harder on those who operate gambling activities for profit.

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK On Power Of The Press

Washington and Lee University wound up a series of lectures here last week on a theme of abiding concern. The theme was power. Having considered economic power, judicial power, and presidential power, the students turned at the end to the power of the press.

What is the role of the press in a free society? As an anchorman in this forensic relay, I submitted that the press indeed has great power; that its power is unique; that its power occasionally is abused; but that the power of the press is indispensable to the survival of free institutions.

It was a large load for a warm evening, but those of us in the news business so seldom talk about the news business that perhaps the exercise was useful. If the press made a greater effort to tell people about the press, and why we think the press is indispensable, maybe the press wouldn't be in a fix it is in.

Mind you, our troubles are ancient. George Washington resented the press. Thomas Jefferson despised it. John Kennedy imposed anathema upon the Herald-Tribune. The memory of Messrs. Nixon and Agnew is vivid. And denunciations of the press come not only from the highest levels of public life, but from other levels also. The pollsters regularly seek to measure the people's confidence in various American institutions. The press invariably ranks toward the bottom, a cut above ad men, lawyers, and union labor, but far below doctors, judges, and trash-men. Loveable though we are, we are not loved.

Why are we held in low esteem? One explanation rests in the theory of the messenger who brings bad news. It is said, especially of TV, that our news judgment is biased. We are thought to be unfair, inaccurate, and sometimes snooty. We are too big for our britches. A bitter faction still insists that the press "hounded Mr. Nixon out of office." I cherish my own theory that one reason for the widespread mistrust lies in the practice of some of the great media to blur straight news and editorial opinion.

Underlying all these complaints, or so it seems to me, is our failure to explain the singular role of the press, and to talk about the only true power we have. This is the power to inform. In the end, that is all there is to it. Our power to "mold public opinion" or to "guide public decisions" is vastly overrated. The one indispensable role of a free press is to tell the people what is going on. Then let them decide what to do.

The founding fathers feared an excess of power in the hands of government. In

INSIDE REPORT A New Tactic In Lisbon

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — After months of resisting it, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has quietly agreed to a desperate, eleventh-hour policy change intended to prevent all-out Communist control of Portugal: taking off the straitjacket imposed on the U. S. embassy in Lisbon.

Such a loosening has long been pressed on Kissinger by some of his aides and by Pentagon strategists worried by increasing American isolation from the military-dominated left-wing government. Now, the door will be widened for Ambassador Frank Carlucci and top aides to seek close contacts with leading Portuguese politicians and, more importantly, military officers.

The new Kissinger policy will free the American embassy to operate in normal diplomatic style with all political and military factions, a change that many officials here believe was long overdue. Remembering that Communists always have come out second best in a struggle for power with a nation's armed forces, some U. S. officials believe Portugal's young leftist officers — radical and anti-American though they are — may be the country's only hope of stopping short of total Communist domination.

Kissinger had imposed a rigid policy of arm's-length dealings with the revolutionary government following its sharp turn toward Moscow-style Communism shortly after the 1974 overthrow of the right-wing dictatorship. His hope: U.S. remoteness would chill the dangerous drift to the left and bring Portugal back to its senses.

The opposite has happened. With Moscow pouring in money, technicians and the largest staff of any embassy in the country, and with Western Europe preoccupied with its own problems, the U. S. and the West have been

Other Editors Say A Brighter Side

(Greensboro Record)

Understandably, North Carolina's Secretary of Human Resources choose to look at the bright side of a federal report on errors in welfare management. It's possible, however, that Davis Flaherty has overlooked a side brighter yet.

The Feds have collected evidence that this state leads the nation in the percentage of erroneous AFDC payments attributable to clerical mistakes. Social Service workers, not recipients, were responsible for 72.9 per cent of state payment errors, say HEW officials between threats of retribution against commonwealths which do not soon become more precise.

Things are not really so bad as the imposing 72.9 makes them appear, says Mr. Flaherty. The North Carolina error rate to which 72.9 per cent must be applied to bring conditions into perspective is only 6 per cent, the secretary testifies, and 6 per cent error in dealing with welfare funds is below the national average.

State bookkeeping habits do look a bit tidier in that perspective, of course. But better news than that can, if one is intent on it, be dredged from the federal findings.

For, if 72.9 per cent of North Carolina error is assignable to clerks (or maybe their supervisors), only 27.1 of North Carolina error is assignable to clients. And 72.9 the worst clerical percentage in the nation, 27.1 inevitably becomes the best recipient percentage in the nation.

Mr. Flaherty, patently, has at least two things more to brag about than 6 per cent. Fewer Tar Heel welfare recipients are dishing the government than in any other state. And a larger percentage of error-committers than in any other state are vulnerable to a Secretary of Human Relations determined to make them mend their ways.

Public Forum

To the editor:

What are the net results of the SBI action against medical doctors? As a factor in the solution of the overall drug problem, it is in my opinion that the effect is zero.

The techniques used to obtain evidence—patient impersonation—can have a lasting negative effect. Subsequently, the doctors seeing the largest number of patients were the primary target. There is now an accelerated reluctance among some doctors to see new patients for fear of being victimized. Hence, more people are being left to suffer the fate of inability to get medical care.

Finally, a most tragic result is the damage to individual reputation even if judged innocent.

The NRA was killed today by the Supreme Court. The court unanimously voted that Congress had unconstitutionally delegated powers to the President to proclaim codes and fix wages and hours of work. The ruling had the effect of wiping out 557 codes in force.

The court ruled unconstitutional section three of the Industrial Recovery Act under which Congress delegated to the President the authority to make codes. It held this authority had not been sufficiently limited to be defined.

Senator King (D-Utah) proclaimed, "Thank God for the Supreme Court."

Declaring that it is the "little things in life" that lead to big achievements, the Rev. Worth Wicker, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church delivered the annual sermon to the graduating class of Greenville High School last night.

Fighting Distrust Of Business

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)

Thomas Murphy, the General Motors chairman, is becoming one of the most vocal defenders of the free enterprise system against what he fears is "a growing distrust — if not hostility — toward business."

"Profit has made General Motors, just as profit has made the United States of America," he said earlier this month at a Chamber of Commerce meeting in Flint, Mich.

Americans should realize, he suggested then, that it isn't only business that lives on profits, but employees, schools, hospitals, welfare systems, police, fire departments, national defense, playgrounds, libraries.

And now, he cautions, all that is at stake if the demands for economic central planning are imposed on the economy, and on the free choice of the producers and customers whose efforts make that economy.

Murphy returned to the theme at the annual meeting Friday in Detroit, advising stockholders that a powerful and vocal minority is disenchanted with the ability of the American public to "direct, determine and decide for itself."

"The untidiness and unpredictability of the free market offend such people," he said. "They call it irrational, and for remedy they prescribe national economic planning."

He continued: "We ask no favors. We ask only freedom from unreasonable regulation, an entrepreneur's freedom to give the customer what he wants."

And that involves some questions.

While General Motors maintains it is aware of the needs of the American car buying public, how can one account for the fact that 20 per cent of the domestic market has been lost, temporarily at least, to imports?

Although the advocates of national planning are a varied bunch, they are held together by two common concerns: The concern over big business' ability to rule lives, and the concern over its responsiveness to the public.

The automotive industry, for example, not only affords a living to millions but, because of its cyclical nature, also makes their lives periodically insecure. Layoffs are a way of life.

And a layoff or production cutback in Detroit eventually has repercussions in thousands of communities all over the country, because suppliers of textiles, rubber, plastics, metals and so on must cut back.

The question that advocates of planning are asking is whether or not this instability can be corrected. Is there some way of planning so that so many lives won't be so damaged by economic ups and downs?

Detroit has an answer for that. Who is better able to forecast what lies in the automotive industry's future than the men who run the affairs of that industry?

Is it conceivable, Detroit asks, that some bureaucrats in Washington are better able to see the future? Is it possible that Washington somehow would be able to study the minds of people and tell Detroit how to respond?

The odds are that nobody in

Executing 'Thieves' In Saigon

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The new South Vietnamese government newspaper published photographs today of an alleged thief being executed by a firing squad in Saigon before a large crowd.

The newspaper Giai Phong (Liberation) blamed the current crime wave in the capital on the United States and former President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Giai Phong said the two men executed had been sentenced by "people's tribunals" and that two others had been given long prison terms.

There had been reports of several thieves executed in Saigon but the photos were the first documentary evidence. One photo showed a youth identified as Vo Van Ngoc, 23, tied to a stake at the foot of a bridge in Cholon, the Chinese quarter of Saigon. Two soldiers were taking aim at him with AK47 rifles.

The newspaper said Ngoc was a South Vietnamese army soldier who had been repatriated after the fall of Saigon on April 30.

"However," it said, "he had hidden some weapons with which he threatened a passerby in Cholon to steal a watch. When he was captured by the population, he resisted instead of surrendering. He was shot to death by revolutionary justice."

The paper also reported that 30,000 citizens attended a people's tribunal trying three men who admitted using weapons to commit two robberies. It said one defendant, Dang Quoc Phu, was sentenced to death and that the other two, Dang Van Loi and Phan Thanh Hieu, were given unspecified long prison terms.

Meanwhile, the new regime indicated that rice will be a key item of barter and payment in the economy. This was disclosed when the Military Management Committee announced pay scales for civil servants from the old regime who are still employed by such special agencies as scientific and technical organizations, schools and universities, professional branches, the fire department, and government-run factories and firms.

Although their pay has been roughly halved to the equivalent of $10 to $23 a month, they will receive a family allowance in rice of 22 pounds per month for a wife and half that for each child.

Under the Thieu regime, there was major corruption in the civil service. The new government's policy appears aimed at eliminating American-oriented consumer living in which refrigerators, automobiles, television sets and electric appliances were considered essential items.

Betty Ford In Shape To Take More Active Role

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Betty Ford leaves Wednesday for Europe on her first foreign trip with the President amid signs that she is ready to assume a much more active role as First Lady.

Plagued by illness over the past nine months, Mrs. Ford reports she now has regained her health and strength and is in "tip-top shape."

She has been proving it by increasing her activities, ranging from dancing past midnight on recent occasions to taking on a four-day trip to California, where she made speeches, gave interviews and toured a tent-city for Vietnamese and Cambodian refugees.

Mrs. Ford is even looking down the road to campaigning for her husband's election in 1976, and the European tour will be a major test for her physical stamina.

The White House has not announced her schedule for the six-day, 11,000-mile trip the Fords are taking to Belgium, Italy, Spain and Austria. But Mrs. Ford told reporters she has her own ideas.

While Ford is conferring with foreign leaders, Mrs. Ford said she'll be off "doing my own thing ... sight-seeing, window-shopping and seeing some of the country." The lack of a schedule leaves her options open, in case she doesn't feel like doing much when she gets there.

The First Lady underwent breast cancer surgery last September and has had recurring problems with neck and back pains from osteoarthritis. She stayed at home when Ford traveled to Japan, the Soviet Union and Korea last November, and when Ford traveled in December to Martinique where he met with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

Mrs. Ford says she now feels better than before her cancer surgery.

"I have gained my strength back ... I feel in tip-top shape," she told reporters on her California trip last week.

During her West Coast tour, Mrs. Ford proved her stamina and her ability to handle a varied schedule with aplomb. The trip was her longest, most ambitious effort as First Lady.

She went mainly to support two big art fund raising events in Los Angeles and San Diego, but she constantly added to her schedule and included private visits with friends and wealthy art patrons.

On the five-hour flight each way, she worked on correspondence with her secretary and gave interviews to traveling reporters.

At 57, she looks well despite the appearance of being thin. She had died before her cancer operation and remains around 110 pounds, which is light for her 5-foot-six-inch frame.

Mrs. Ford does not think a President's wife should have a political role of her own but she said she sees no reason why she shouldn't express herself on issues, perhaps even going on the road to endorse the Equal Rights Amendment.

"I consider myself a citizen, not First Lady," she declared.

Skipper Denies Suit's Charges

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Capt. Charles T. Miller of the Mayaguez today denied a crewman's charges that his ship was not seaworthy and that he disregarded U.S. government warnings against sailing too close to Cambodia.

"It is not true we were warned by U.S. authorities," Miller, 63, of Fountain Valley, Calif., told a news conference here aboard the freighter, which is owned by Sea-Land, Inc.

The suit was filed Friday in San Francisco by Albert Minichiello, the ship's assistant engineer. Clifford Harrington, chief engineer of the ship, said Minichiello "is not speaking for the members of the crew. We are not joining the suit."

Miller said Minichiello had "been on board the ship only six days, and I don't think he got to know the members of the ship."

The captain said the Mayaguez was declared "in first-class condition by the U.S. Coast Guard" three weeks before the Cambodians seized it.

The Cambodians seized the ship because they suspected it was carrying "bombs, arms and ammunition into Thailand, but not because the ship was in Cambodian territory," he said. "We were taking a route considered a normal traffic route for all commercial ships. We were 61 miles off the coast of Cambodia, and I did not feel we were cruising in dangerous waters."

After the ship was captured, the U.S. government issued a routine notice to mariners to avoid the waters around the offshore island near which the ship was captured.

agent, Dr. Raymond Sitta, he telephoned Alexander for an explanation. So sorry, said Alexander, but since the two letters had been written on Griffin's own national committee letterhead, and not on Wallace-for-President stationery, they had apparently not been brought to his attention.

To the contrary, Griffin told us, he is convinced the letters were deliberately unanswered so as to give the legislature time to repeal the primary law before Wallace found out. Similar efforts to repeal primaries in other states have been defeated by Wallace's personal efforts.

Griffin's complaint of "deliberate stealth and subterfuge" to deny Democratic voters an open primary plays into Wallace's hands, advertising national Democratic fear over his popularity. In fact, Griffin last week formally complained to the national Democratic executive committee, demanding more cooperation from his party.

Washington or anywhere else is so endowed, but that doesn't take the pressure off Detroit. Its own best forecasters are widely divided on the immediate future.

At GM they see 1975 as a "recovery year." But at Ford they're writing off the 1975 model year, and at Chrysler they don't seem to be much more optimistic. Somebody is wrong, and the national planners are watching closely.

If GM is wrong, then the Fair Grounds and other open spaces around Detroit are going to be packed with unsold cars. And if Ford and Chrysler are wrong, its dealers are going to have empty lots when demand is high.

Either way, jobs are at stake, and the economies of hundreds of communities, as well as the schools, hospitals, welfare systems...

ranks are getting forced out because they were the ones who came into the military service at the peak of the Vietnam war from 1967 to 1970 when the military was urging officers to stay beyond the required time after being commissioned.

This created a large number of lieutenants — now captains — which threw the desired rank distribution out of kilter.

The officers being forced out must be given at least 90 days notice and will be paid for accrued leave. But the main compensation will be "readjustment pay" of between $10,000 and $15,000 per individual. It is paid at the rate of two months basic pay for each year of service.

every conceivable way, they sought to provide checks and balances against the abuse of power: recurrent elections, two-year terms in the House, senatorial confirmation, the power to veto, the power to override a veto, judicial review, impeachment, all the rest. But they perceived one more restraint upon power, greater than the others—the power of an informed people to redress error and to purge evil.

A controlled press, or a licensed press, could not possibly accomplish the informing function. The press could not be subject to governmental imprimatur. It had to be free. This was the old Miltonian concept: Let the winds of doctrine blow! The founding fathers were serenely confident that out of a haystack of information, tempest tossed, the people in time would pluck the needle, truth.

It all ties together. Jefferson gave memorable voice to the concept that government derives its just powers "from the consent of the governed," but there is a rule of law: "informed consent." In contractual relationships, agreements are invalid of material facts are withheld from one party or another. Without informed consent, decisions are made in the dark.

It sounds vainglorious to suggest that we of the press are bearers of light, but that is our role nonetheless. Granted, it is sometimes a flickering light we bear, faint and uncertain, obscured by smoky rumor and by fogs of misunderstanding. Our purpose is to transmit facts, but facts are elusive. Facts are seldom simple. The good men and women in our craft do the best they can, and the very survival of a free society offers some hope that a free press has not done too badly, that it has not done too badly at all.

Declares Wallace Speaks For Many

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Assistant Democratic Senate leader Robert C. Byrd said today that Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, more than any other public figure, "articulates the dissatisfaction and discontent that millions feel."

Byrd declared in a speech for a Democratic breakfast here that the Democratic party "must meet head on the issues that trouble so many of our citizens."

"The people know what all too few politicians are willing to admit — that government has grown too big, too complex and too removed from the citizen," the West Virginia Democrat said.

"There are too many programs, too much regulation and too little fiscal responsibility," he said.

Byrd said "the same old solutions and the same old rhetoric will not work any more" and that the people are looking to a united Democratic party to run the country.

He said the Democrats should realize the decline in party loyalty and what he called "a strong element of protest against things as they have been in government."

"A quick look at the wide-spread following Gov. Wallace enjoys is all that is needed to indicate that this is so," he said.

Byrd said the "Democratic party has yet to fully recover from the disastrous debacle it suffered in 1972, when the voters decided it had strayed too far from reality, too far from the mainstream of American life."

TAX MONEY

THE HAGUE (UPI) — The finance ministry announced the State of the Netherlands received a total of 50,356 million guilders ($20,142 million) in taxes in 1974, an increase of almost 12 per cent over 1973.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market turned mixed today, with profit taking blunting some early gains.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial was down 1.49 at 830.41, while gainers held on to a modest lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Trading was moderate.

The buying that lifted the Dow a little more than a point in the early going was attributed to a carryover of enthusiasm from Friday's rally that greeted a new prime rate cut by New York's First National City Bank, from 7 1/4 to 7 per cent.

The market showed signs of cooling off, however, after the First National Bank of Chicago elected not to match the reduction, holding its basic charge on corporate loans unchanged at 7 1/4 per cent.

"There are some people who think the prime isn't going to go much lower," observed Eldon A. Grimm at Birr, Wilson & Co.

Pacific Gas & Electric led the NYSE's most-active list, unchanged at 19 1/4.

Lockheed gained 1 1/2 to 12 1/2 after a 2 1/2 jump Friday on the company's bright assessment of its earnings outlook over the next two years.

Simplicity Pattern, which came in with higher quarterly earnings last week, rose 1 1/2 to 18 1/2 on top of a 2 1/2-point rise Friday.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index climbed .38 to 88.11 in the first hour.

McCulloch, Oil, the Amex volume leader, rose 1/4 to 4 1/4.

to put the services of the state department of education closer to the individual school systems. The center is the coordinating arm for getting those services closer to the schools, according to Phillips.

"People who would normally be working out of Raleigh and going to various systems in the state are located out in the areas which they serve. This eliminates travel for these people and puts the services closer," Phillips said.

"The centers are instruments for improving the distribution of services of the state department of public instruction," Phillips said. "The centers have been highly successful and have saved considerable funds for travel. They have built better relationships with the people involved."

The Grifton Center has a total of 27 positions whose salaries are paid by various school programs, including occupational education, food services, reading, and other budgets.

The relocation of the center to another county would mean a loss of $9,600 annually to the Pitt County Board of Education.

According to Tom Craft, associate superintendent of the Pitt County Schools, the local school system has received $9,600 each year from the State Board of Education for use of the facility and renovations.

Craft said the Pitt County Schools are willing to let the center remain in its present location.

compromise on the question of a date for primary elections, "possibly August, with the presidential preference primary in March. It costs a half-million dollars to run that primary. Some people think they all ought to be held at the same time in May... it would mean a savings in money," he explained.

The Legislature, according to Rountree, would "certainly like to give state employees and teachers a pay increase. But the money is just not there. Once a pay increase is included, it comes on next year, and from now on. It's in the continuation budget," he explained.

According to Representative Sam Bundy of Farmville, a no-fault auto liability insurance bill will probably die in committee.

The Senate-approved no-fault measure, he said, "will come to the House Insurance Committee. My guess... in all likelihood the House will kill this one."

"Age and sex discrimination in liability insurance is now pending in the Senate," also, Rountree noted. "I don't know what they will do with that."

An ethics bill, and bills to repeal the death penalty and other measures designed to deal justly but firmly with the criminal element are also pending.

But as they said in January, "the big problem is going to be... bringing the budget into balance," Sen. Vernon White said.

"Money, that's the main thing," said Allsbrook... "the big item," said Rountree.

The problem, according to White, is the fact that the budget is $42 million out of balance from what has been recommended. The big problem is going to be to find $42 million to bring the budget into balance. It's going to have to be done in the very near future.

Bundy said, "We're hoping, by June 1, to be able to make final recommendations. Then for the next couple of weeks, we'll work on that in the House and Senate."

"We're going to fight to the end for capital improvements... including East Carolina University. We're going to have to keep that money in if we make progress on the medical school," Allsbrook explained.

And locally, the budget... and what happens to the requested funds for capital construction for the four-year medical program at ECU... is of great concern.

"This is sort of a problem," Rountree emphasized. "Whether or not it (the medical school) can be fully funded or not."

Rural Site Considered For Nuclear Park

By BILL RAWLINS

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)

A rural Tennessee site on the Kentucky line in the Tennessee Valley Authority's Land Between the Lakes area is being studied as a possible site for a nuclear park, a Nuclear Regulatory Commission spokesman confirmed today.

The Stewart County site, on Kentucky Lake, is one of four in the nation being studied statistically for possible nuclear park locations, said Ken Clark, NRC regional information director in Atlanta.

A nuclear park, like an industrial park, is a cluster of nuclear energy facilities. It could contain several nuclear power reactors, a power reactor, fuel fabricating and enrichment facilities or a combination of the facilities.

"This does not mean that these sites will in fact be used for these energy plants," said Clark. "It does not mean that they won't be."

A source at the Tennessee Capitol said the Stewart County park, if approved, would be four to 10 times as large as the controversial site for TVA's Hartsville nuclear power plant.

Clark said, however, the Stewart County site is not a TVA project but that all four sites are being studied as a result of the 1974 Energy Reorganization Act that separated the Atomic Energy Commission into two agencies.

According to White, "It's safe to say" that funds for the medical program will be in the budget. He said $9.1 million will be included for the 1975-76 biennium. "That will be done," with the balance appropriated for the 1976-77 fiscal year.

Bundy said "I feel fairly good" about the medical school money. "It's still in the budget in both houses. As far as we've gone now with this thing... with the $15 million reserve fund... I think we have as good a chance as anybody else to stay in there. I think it's too late now to back-track."

Allsbrook indicated that "there are two schools of thought." One group thinks appropriations should be made for the biennium, while another thinks appropriations should be made this year on an annual basis.

There is something to be said for both viewpoints.

"We can go on and make appropriations now for the biennium and, of course add to it. But it might be a futile thing to do," Allsbrook explained. If the economy fails to improve sufficiently, or takes a down-turn, what is appropriated this year may have to be cut next year.

One thing Rountree doesn't want to see is a bond referendum for the medical school.

"I'm a little leary about any kind of bond referendum. I think the debt service for the state is in a rather precarious position."

He explained that the debt service is now $27 million. With other obligations such as the clean water bonds and school bonds "in the next three years the debt service could go as high as $41 million. 'It's this kind of thing you have to watch,' he emphasized.

and Development Agency, has responsibility for over-all development of the nation's energy resources, including nuclear energy. The NRC is charged with the responsibility of licensing and approving sites.

Under the 1974 federal act, Clark said, statistical studies of the four sites being studied on a feasibility basis must be in the hands of Congress by Oct. 11.

"This is a matter of national energy policy," Clark said.

The other sites being studied, Clark said, are in Southern California, southern New Jersey and upstate New York near the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Assert Fire Set By Fans
SPROUT SPRINGS, N.C. (AP)—A Lee County sheriff's deputy claimed Monday that a fire which destroyed the stage at a weekend rock music festival was set by fans after a broken sound system halted the show.

"It was a riot," Deputy B.E. Sturgill said. "The hippies set the straw on fire and we just let them go at it. What could we do with a thousand people or so there with no light except from the fire?"

Sponsors of the "Carolina Rock Out" disagreed. They said the fire was started when a spark from a campfire was carried to some straw around the truck trailers that served as a stage.

The concert was halted after winds blew a large speaker off a scaffolding, knocking out the sound system. Canned Heat and other rock music groups were scheduled to perform at the festival Saturday night.

Angry fans, some of whom had paid $12 for tickets, pelted the stage with bottles when the concert was halted.

About 1,200 spectators gathered at a Lee County farm off N.C. 87 for the event.

Promoter Charles Billings of Fayetteville said there would have been trouble if the storm hadn't come up. The event had been strongly opposed by the sheriff's department and other Lee County officials.

Actual appropriations must be made later under separate legislation.

Robby's Talk Sparks Cleveland To Win

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

It may never go down in history alongside Knute Rockne's legendary "win one for the Gipper" tearjerker, but the Cleveland Indians got the same result Monday from Manager Frank Robinson's little pep talk.

They went out and clobbered the California Angels 9-3 after Robinson talked them out of boycotting the game to protest his three-day suspension. And before turning the reins over to coach Dave Garcia, he also asked them to "play as hard for Dave as you have been for me."

Elsewhere in the American League, the Oakland A's edged the Baltimore Orioles 6-5 in 11 innings, the Boston Red Sox outslugged the Texas Rangers 7-5, the Kansas City Royals nipped the New York Yankees 6-5 in 11 innings, the Chicago White Sox downed the Milwaukee Brewers 4-2 and the Detroit Tigers defeated the Minnesota Twins 6-2.

Coach Tom McCraw said Robinson's pep talk "was nothing dramatic. He hasn't lost his cool all year." But the Indians, who had dropped 23 of 38 starts under Robinson's leadership, battered four California pitchers for 13 hits, including Charlie Spikes' first home run of the season.

On the flight to California, the Indians, in a show of unity led by pitchers Tom Buskey and Dave LaRoche, drafted a petition to the league office stating they would join Robinson in sitting out the suspension which he drew for a bumping session with umpire Jerry

Neudecker in a game May 17. "It made me feel good and I was deeply touched," Robinson said, "but there was no way I could let them send the petition."

A's 6, Orioles 5

Gene Tenace drove in his fifth run of the game with a two-out single in the 11th inning. It was Baltimore's fifth consecutive setback and ninth in 10 games and dropped the Orioles into last place in the AL East.

Tenace, who knocked in Oakland's first four runs with a single and a three-run homer, delivered his game-winning hit off Doyle Alexander following two-out singles by Joe Rudi and Angel Mangual. Phil Garner also homered for the A's.

Red Sox 7, Rangers 5

Dwight Evans' tie-breaking two-run homer in the eighth inning capped a late-inning exchange of home runs and enabled Boston to open a 1½-game lead over Milwaukee in the AL East. Evans' fifth home run of the season came off reliever Steve Foucault, who also yielded a three-run homer to Bernie Carbo in the seventh when the Red Sox scored four times and erased a 3-1 deficit. It was Carbo's eighth.

Royals 6, Yankees 5

Frank White's suicide

squeeze bunt scored Jim Wofford with an unearned run in the 11th inning, capping a late Kansas City rally.

After being held to one run and three hits for seven innings by Doc Medich, the Royals tied the score with two runs in the eighth and two in the ninth. Chris Chambliss paced the Yankees to a 5-1 lead with two doubles and a single. He scored three times.

White Sox 4, Brewers 2

Bucky Dent and Brian Downing belted consecutive two-out homers off Jim Colborn in the ninth inning. Dent's first home run of the season broke a 2-2 tie and Downing followed with homer No. 3. Jorge Orta hit his third home run in the third inning after the White Sox took a 1-0 lead in the second on a walk and singles by Tony Muser and Dent.

Tigers 6, Twins 2

Home runs by Dan Meyer and Aurelio Rodriguez backed the six-hit pitching of Vern Riffe as Detroit ended the Twins' four-game winning streak. Both homers came in the first two innings off Bill Campbell, a relief specialist, who was making his third major league start and first since 1973. Rodriguez added a two-run double off Tom Burgmeier. One of Minnesota's hits off Ruffe was Tom Kelly's first big league home run.

Rampant Track Teams Close Year With Best Area Times, Distances

The Rose High School track teams, paced by two multiple winners each, showed the way in times and distances this spring, "winning" the area track titles.

The Rose boys team, led by Lindberg Morris, and Doug Paschal, coasted to an easy victory, based on best times and distances turned in during the year. Morris was a quadruple winner, while Paschal was a double winner.

Bonnie Lee and Fannie Johnson led the Rampant girls to their title, each winning two events.

Rose's boys finished the mythical meet with 121½ points based on a 6-4-3-2-1 point award for times and distances. The girls won their meet with 81½ points.

Following the boys came Farmville Central with 57-one-third; followed by Greene Central with 43-five-sixths points. Next was Conley with 12, trailed by Williamston with 8-five-sixths, North Pitt with 5½, and Ayden-Grifton with three.

In the girls' matchup, Farmville Central nipped Ayden-Grifton for second, 52¼ to 48½. Williamston took fourth with 27½, while Conley finished fifth with 12¾.

Morris ended the year with the best times in the 100 yard dash (9.7 seconds); the 220-yard dash (22.2 seconds); the best distances in the long jump (22 feet, 7¼ inches) and the triple jump 45 feet, 2½ inches).

Paschal ended up the year by winning both the shot put (55 feet, 6 inches) and the discus (150 feet, 6 inches).

Miss Lee was the only true double winner for Rose, having the best times in the 60 hurdles (9 seconds) and the 110 hurdles (16.6 seconds). Miss Johnson won the 220 (26.8 seconds), but had to share first place in the 100 (11.5 seconds) with Williamston's Valerie Speller.

There was one other double winner, Ayden-Grifton's Maritha Kilpatrick. She had the best time in the mile (5:28) and in the 440 (1:01).

Pepsi-Cola In Win Over Integon

Kelly Kee and Ricky Sutton smashed fifth inning home runs yesterday breaking a 2-2 tie and powering Pepsi to a 6-2 win over Integon.

Pepsi had gotten a run in each of the first two innings but Integon rallied to tie it in the bottom of the fourth. Pepsi got three runs on the two homers in the fifth to win the game.

Sutton was the winning pitcher giving up just three hits, four walks and striking out eight. Integon used two pitchers but neither could hold Pepsi.

Tim Shank drew a walk to start the game and a balk moved him to second. A passed ball sent him to third and Kee brought him in with a single.

Kevin Richards reached on a two-base error in the second and scored on Scott Wilson's hit giving Pepsi a 2-0 lead.

Van Warren was walked to lead off the last of the fourth and Steve Hall reached on an error. Both moved up on a fielder's choice and a single by Junior Neal scored them both to tie the game.

Shank walked and scored on Kee's homer and Sutton followed with his to put Pepsi back in front, 5-2.

Ed Yancey got the last Pepsi run as he reached on an error and scored when Kee reached on an error.

Both Kee and Sutton had a pair of hits while Neal had two for Integon.

Petty Moving To 2nd Million

By RICHARD WATERS
Associated Press Writer
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) —

Richard Petty's triumph in the World 600 netted him $2,190 and put him just $53,000 short of becoming the first race driver to ever win $2 million, the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing announced Monday.

The victory also widened Petty's lead in the Grand National point standings. He has a total of 2,094, with 496 coming in the second leg of the point competition. Darrell Waltrip has 1,716 and 437.

Twenty-four hours earlier Petty won the 10th World 600 Sunday, his first triumph at the Charlotte Motor Speedway in 28 tries. He has never won the companion National 500.

The 37-year-old Dodge driver crossed the finish line at a record speed about one and three-quarters of a mile ahead of early-leader Cale Yarborough.

"I sniffed for an unusual order. I listened for a strange noise. I scanned the instrument cluster constantly. I just knew something was going to fall off the car and I wouldn't finish," Petty said.

"I didn't really accept winning the World 600 until I pulled into victory circle. After all the agonies we've had here, after losing by two or three car lengths more than once, I couldn't let myself count on anything before it happened," he said in his usually calm manner after the grueling 600-mile race.

Now Petty has won on all of the so-called "old time" super-speedways. Only at the newer Ontario, Calif., track has Petty failed to finish first. His best finish there is third.

Petty appeared in trouble when he made two unscheduled pit stops during the first 54 circuits of the 1.5 mile asphalt track. His crew had to adjust the chassis to eliminate a severe handling problem.

Then, on the 110th lap Dick May spun out, bringing out a caution flag and setting the stage for Petty to take the lead.

The Randleman, N.C., speedster beat Yarborough's Chevrolet from the pits while the caution flag was still waving. From then on, it was Petty's race.

He turned in an average speed of 145.327 miles per hour, eclipsing the old record of 142.255 m.p.h. set in 1972. David Pearson, who started his Mercury from the pole, finished third four laps behind Petty after encountering tire and handling problems in the late stages of the $176,530 race.

Waltrip, Buddy Baker and Charlie Glotzbach finished fourth, fifth and sixth respectively, both five laps off the pace.

The track temperature, estimated at more than 140 degrees under a blazing sun, was expected to be a problem. Asked why it didn't take a heavier toll, Petty explained that most of the drivers set their cars up to race 600 miles in the heat.

Only 12 of the 40 cars fell out of the 400-lap event.

"It was an easy race. I can't recall many races in which so little happened. Me and Cale and David did the racing and most of the others were sitting back waiting for us to fall out," Petty said with a smile.

Sunday's race brought Petty's winnings for the year to $123,410. Pearson is second in earnings for 1975 with $85,730.

Fans Go Wild After Bench Hits Grand Slam For Sweep Of Pair

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The fickle fans at Riverfront Stadium have been up and down on Johnny Bench during his career with the Cincinnati Reds.

Monday they were up — literally.

Bench, who has had a love-hate relationship with the crowds at Cincinnati, was treated to a rare standing ovation after hitting a grand slam home run that keyed the Reds to a 5-4 victory over the Montreal Expos and a doubleheader sweep.

The 25,034 fans at the Reds' ballpark, already giddy over the 4-3 victory in the opener, went absolutely berserk when Bench's homer capped a five-run rally in the fifth inning of the second game and incidentally tied him for the Reds' all-time grand slam leadership.

Being Stroker Paid For Him

By DARRELL CHRISTIAN
Associated Press Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) —

In auto racing circles they're called strokers. They just hang back, let everyone pass when they want and hope they'll finish in one piece.

To be called a stroker also is considered an insult by many drivers, but for Bill Puterbaugh the strategy paid off with rookie of the year honors at Monday night's Indianapolis 500-mile race victory dinner.

"I saw guys coming up behind me all day and I just got out of their way and let 'em go," said the 38-year-old Indianapolis veteran of the sprint and dirt track circuits.

"We just wanted to stay out of trouble and finish the race."

He finished seventh, eight spots higher than he started and five better than his closest rookie competitor, Sheldon Kinser of Bloomington, Ind.

Puterbaugh was almost too cautious, though.

He wanted to end his first run on the champ car circuit prematurely after developing rear end problems.

"I thought maybe I had lost some rubber on a tire because the car was really vibrating," he recalled. "I went around once and came back into the pits and said, 'Hey, something's wrong with this car.' They (his crew) said, 'Go ahead and run until it quits.'"

The problem turned out to be a broken ring and pinion gear

"That's exciting," said Bench when informed that his bases-loaded shot gave him six for his career, tying Vada Pinson's figure with the Reds. "Wow, that's really something for a club established this long."

In Monday's other National League games, the Chicago Cubs stopped the Atlanta Braves 6-0; the New York Mets beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-3; the Pittsburgh Pirates bombed the Houston Astros 10-2; the Philadelphia Phillies took the San Francisco Giants 1-0 in 11 innings and the San Diego Padres beat the St. Louis Cardinals 9-6.

Montreal's Steve Renko had a two-hitter and a 4-0 lead going into the Cincinnati fifth of the second game. Then Bench and his teammates got busy.

Light-hitting Darrell Chaney opened the rally with his second single of the day. Renko struck out pinch hitter Ed Armbrister, then issued consecutive walks to Pete Rose, Ken Griffey and Joe Morgan to force in a run.

Bench then drilled his 10th homer of the year to take over league leadership and increase his RBI total to 33.

Cubs 6, Braves 0

Manny Trillo's slump-breaking home run touched off a five-run fifth inning and Ray Burris pitched a four-hitter as Chicago whipped Atlanta and snapped a five-game losing streak.

Mets 6, Dodgers 3

Pinch hitter Wayne Garrett blasted a three-run homer in the ninth inning, giving New York its victory over Los Angeles.

les and previously unbeaten Andy Messersmith.

Pirates 10, Astros 2

Bruce Kison pitched a five-hitter and Willie Stargell hit a two-run triple and a bases-empty home run, leading Pittsburgh over Houston.

Phillies 1, Giants 0

Larry Bowa singled with two out in the 11th inning and came around to score on two San Francisco errors, enabling Philadelphia to beat the Giants and snap a six-game losing streak.

Padres 9, Cardinals 6

Willie McCovey's run-scoring single triggered a three-run rally in the ninth inning as San Diego beat St. Louis.

Excited Fans Welcome Champs

OAKLAND (AP) — The Golden State fans cut down the nets after the Warriors won the third straight game of the championship series, but after the fourth victory, they stole owner Franklin Mieuli's hat and broke through police lines at San Francisco International Airport.

"We're number one, we're number one," an exuberant crowd of 3,000 chanted Monday as the Warriors came home kings of the National Basketball Association. The throng was restrained by a cordon of police until they caught sight of their deplaining heroes.

Sixty San Mateo County Sheriff's deputies and airport police stood by helplessly when the fans surged past them, swarming over taxi cabs for a better look at the Warriors.

They waved signs such as "Go Warriors Go" and "Only the Warriors do things right in Washington," where they beat the Bulls 96-95 Sunday for the title.

Coach Al Attles mounted a makeshift platform along with his players and thanked the crowd for their support. San Francisco County Supervisor Bob Mendelsohn, acting mayor, declared this Warrior Week here, saying, "We're happy to share this championship with Oakland."

"The fans were great," shouted Rick Barry, who scored 20 points in Sunday's victory. "We couldn't have done it without the fans." The crowd screamed happily.

Meanwhile, Mieuli scanned the group hoping to catch a glimpse of his checkered deerstalker cap. "Somebody stole my hat," the owner muttered. "It was my security blanket."

"I don't know why anyone else would want it," Mieuli mused. "It's really soggy. Rick (Barry) soaked it with champagne twice after the final game."

"There will be a substantial reward if I get that hat back," he added. "Whoever has it can have a ride on my boat, season tickets to the Warriors' games next year, a ride on my motorcycle and a lot of love. They can take their pick."

Progress Reports On RIS Projects Heard

In order to determine what progress has been made in their projects, the students of the Research and Independent Studies (RIS) classes of Rose High School held a conference Wednesday evening, May 21.

Following a dinner at a local restaurant, the conference was moved to the Rose High's cafeteria for students' explanations of their projects.

Evelyn Maurakis gave a welcoming speech before the group was led over a student-prepared nature trail by Tim Caspar, Mike Dixon, Charlie Hayek, Charles Kernan, and Roy Carlton. They explained that the trail would be available to all Greenville City Schools. A teacher's guidebook is in preparation.

Guests then heard from Doreen Rountree, whose idea of an "Ecologically-oriented Zoo" would have 12 acres where animals would roam freely and people would be in cages.

Speaking on "Establishing Underwater Habitats," Don Freeman pointed out his own ideas for a habitat in three modules, and added that students in Illinois have developed a working model of such a habitat.

Charlie Hovek gave a talk on "immunological Responses in Mice," a project on which he received assistance from doctors of the East Carolina University Medical School.

Refreshments were then served and Lauren Brehm provided entertainment.

Jordy Whichard spoke of his improved class ranking system which provides "weighting" more difficult courses for college-bound students.

Under the heading of "Psychological and Sociological Studies," Linda Lambeth explained her survey dealing with desired courses and feelings of students and teachers. Monica Lee discussed her study of juvenile delinquency, Bonnie Lee and Lynn Gant spoke on geographic and economic areas effects on people's voting habits. Lauren Brehm explained her poll of student's attitudes towards sex.

James Shoe explained "Interrelationships Between Students" and Charles Kernan showed a movie on "Student Behavior," which showed the apathy of students.

Larry Zicherman and Dave Middleton discussed careers guidance. Zicherman showing a slide program on the Greenville Fire Department and Middleton discussing the Kuder Interest Test Battery.

A panel discussion on tutoring exceptional students was held by Mary Holliday, Vicki Howard, Tina Longnecker, and Evelyn Maurakis.

A film on stereotypes of marijuana users was shown by Jerry Bellis, Lauren Brehm, Mark Daughtrey, and Evelyn Maurakis.

The conference was concluded with a musical program by Joey and David Howell.

The RIS program at Rose is designed for students to work independently of teacher pressure. Also participating in the conference was a group from a similar program at Williamston High School.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 28, 1975

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A tendency to look on the dark side of life should be replaced now by an awareness that you're able to make progress by keeping your nose to the grindstone. Maintain your self-control.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A higher-up thinks you are not handling your duties wisely, so you have to prove that this is not the case.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Finish important work at hand before looking into new outlets. Don't take advice from one who is not qualified to give it.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get facts and figures straight before discussing future with higher-ups. Avoid any arguments with associates. Relax tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you are in a bad mood today and want to annoy an associate, it is wise to tone down, or you could regret it.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't make any changes where your work is concerned, or you could spoil the plans of co-workers. Don't lose your temper now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) This could be a strange day where work is concerned, so be alert at all times. Show others you can be relied upon.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Give some time to a situation at home that requires a practical solution. The evening is ideal for the social. Be poised.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Use courtesy in dealing with others and avoid arguments, or you could get into trouble. Show more devotion to family.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Try to spend less and save more in the future, or you could regret it later. Consult business expert for advice.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take the treatments that eliminate any flaws you may have and make a better impression on others. Be more cheerful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take care of all those small tasks that have been accumulating and steer clear of the social for now. Be logical.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Try not to be too critical of good friends today. Take time to do something thoughtful for mate tonight. Be happy.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will want to take on the problems of others but teach early in life to do so only when the cause is right. Direct the education along government or investigative lines. A fine sportsman or sportswoman in this chart.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Feels Good In Cap, Ribbons

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Twice a year, Jack Siegel gets up early, pins seven medals to his chest and dons an old American Legion cap.

"I put them on, I feel proud," Siegel said. "They make me alive again."

Siegel, 75, who saw service in World Wars I and II, puts on his frayed and tattered ribbons, brass bars and Purple Heart and goes to Miami Beach to honor the dead on Memorial Day and Veterans Day.

Siegel and about 300 other veterans and auxiliary women brought flags and flowers Monday to a stone war monument beside Miami Beach City Hall.

For years Siegel played "Taps" on his bugle while flags waved over the caps of the Legion; the Disabled American Veterans, the VFW, the Jewish War Veterans, the Veterans of World War I, the Masonic War Veterans, the Legion of Valor.

Now the Siegel bugle rests in a case at Post 85 Legion Hall.

"You can't bugle with false teeth," he said.

This day teen-agers from Miami Beach Senior High School played martial music. Trumpeter Bruce Turkel, 17, waited nervously. "It'll be all right when I start to play," he said.

The speakers said their trumpet and sent the clear, on Washington Avenue, few glancing at the ceremony at the flower-banked monument. Four M16 rifles cracked.

Young Turkel lifted his silver haunting, notes of "Taps" over the crowd.

"The kid, he did a good job," Siegel said as he turned for home.

Gentlemen of the jury:

You are here today to render a verdict in the case of North vs. South. The facts are not in dispute. North, the plaintiff, considers South guilty of negligence in the play of this four heart contract.

The auction was routine. South did not want to bypass three no trump, so he jumped to only three hearts at his second turn. North strained to raise to four hearts—had his partner's bid not been forcing, he claims he might well have passed.

West led the queen of spades, won by the ace. Declarer cashed the king of spades, ruffed a spade in dummy with the nine of trumps and then finessed the ten of hearts.

West won this trick with the future in the "pointed" suits (spades and diamonds), shifted to the king of clubs. East signalled his appreciation with the nine. West continued the suit and scored a ruff for a one-trick set.

North contends that it was gross negligence on the part of South that led to the contract's failure. A rank novice would have known better than to take the trump finesse. Had declarer simply cashed the ace and king of hearts, he would have been home free.

In his defense, South has pointed out that East might have started with four hearts headed by the queen and a doubleton club. In that case, the only way to make the contract would be to take a trump finesse, but naturally, he wouldn't expect a beginner like North to work that out.

How do you find?

Guilty, though the negligence was not gross. South's line succeeds only if East has the long hearts and a doubleton club. Against that, the heart finesse rates to lose whenever West has the queen of hearts and either opponent has a doubleton club. Also, cashing the trump ace-king could drop the queen.

Town Without A Policeman

STANFIELD, N.C. (AP) — The Stanly County town of Stanfield, population 474, is again without a policeman.

Its only police officer resigned recently. It has five applicants for his successor at about $8,000 a year. He will be chosen by Mayor C.F. Henkle, the five-member Town Council, and Sheriff Ralph McSwain.

He will be deputized, wear a deputy's uniform, and work under the sheriff's supervision. This is so he won't be confined to the town limits, but can be used outside if needed.

Knieval Through? Promoter Doubts It

By RONALD THOMSON
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP)—Evel Knieval said he would never jump again after suffering painful injuries in a motorcycle leap over 13 single-deck London buses that he thought failed to set a distance record.

But promoters of the stunt and most of the newsmen who watched the 35-year-old American daredevil hit the dust at 100 miles an hour Monday night accepted the claim of his aides that he had set a new flying motorcycle mark of 140 feet.

"In two or three days, Evel may well reconsider the decision not to ride again," said his publicity man. "He is in considerable pain and the last thing in the world he wants to be thinking about at this stage is riding a bike." A few persons said they thought Knieval's 750cc Harley Davidson touched the roof of the 13th bus and that caused him to fall before 70,000 screaming spectators in London's Wembley Stadium. But most of the experts agreed he cleared the buses and crashed on landing.

The publicity man, Brian Cartnell, said the motorcycle split a plywood plank when it came down, throwing Evel and the bike into the air. The motorcycle landed on top of him.

He limped to a microphone, his costume in tatters and his face blackened, and told the crowd:

"Ladies and gentlemen of this wonderful country, I have got to tell you that you are the last people to see me jump. I shall never jump again and that is the truth. I am through."

Then he was rushed to the London Hospital. Cartnell said he had a crushed vertebra in the middle of his back, a fracture of the right hand, other spinal damage and severe bruises.

The 140-foot jump bettered Knieval's previous mark of 104 feet, set in Toronto, and was the second longest he had ever attempted. The longest was his unsuccessful attempt to rocket over the Snake River Canyon in Idaho last September. Before that, he had tried to hurtle himself over cars, trucks and other objects more than 300 times. He failed in 11 attempts and broke 50 bones.

The accident forced Knieval to cancel the rest of a British tour.

BEFORE THE FALL—Daredevil Evel Knieval approaches the landing ramp during an unsuccessful effort Sunday in London at a 140-foot leap over 13 buses. Knieval crashed at 100 miles an hour, damaged his spine and announced "I am through". A spokesman said he cleared all 13 buses before the crash "but unfortunately a piece of plywood on the ramp came loose as Knieval landed on it." (AP Wirephoto)

Wake Countian Plans Bid For Lt. Governor

RALEIGH (AP)—Wake County Commissioner Waverly Akins said Monday he plans to announce as a candidate for the 1976 Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor late this summer or early this fall.

Akins, a wealthy tobacco farmer and lawyer from Fuquay-Varina, said he is now making plans and analyzing other candidates for the lieutenant governor's office.

Chapel Hill Mayor Howard Lee announced earlier this month that he would not seek another term as mayor, but would start working on a Democratic campaign for lieutenant governor.

Akins said Lee, who is black, "probably won't be one of the stronger candidates in the race." He added that he thought there are some unannounced candidates that could be strong, but declined to name them.

Akins has been a Wake County commissioner since 1969 and was chairman of the commission from 1970 until he resigned from that post last December. He is president of the N.C. Association of County Commissioners.

Akins said his campaign would stress a state growth policy "designed to ensure quality or controlled growth over the next 25 years."

"We can't say North Carolina will have no more industry or growth," he said. "But there has got to be a set of criteria for this state that must be met if an industry plans to relocate here. If that industry fails to meet these standards, then it would not be welcome."

Akins blamed the state's low average hourly wage and high unemployment on the preponderance of the textile industry. He said North Carolina needs a "better mix" in its industrial base.

"What we need is more research-oriented and skilled blue-collar industry," he said.

Portuguese Opposition To Communists Rebuked

By STEPHENS BROENING
Associated Press Writer
LISBON, Portugal (AP) —

The ruling military clique rebuked the Socialist party today for its fight to check the growing power of the Communists.

lutionary Council.

Socialist party officials said the stand taken by the Armed Forces Movement, the leftist-dominated assembly of 240 military men, probably set the stage for the breakup of the military-civilian government and open military rule supported only by the Communists.

The military assembly said in a communique after a long meeting that it "approved a recommendation ... to rapidly resolve the (political) crisis, informing the leaders of the Socialist party of the hard general tone of the criticisms expressed in the assembly because of the party's failure to take part in the last cabinet meeting."

There was no criticism of the Communists, who started the crisis by seizing the Socialist party newspaper.

The assembly said it would develop its own "popular organizations" to overcome partisan disputes and "guarantee a correct carrying out of the revolutionary process." However, it attempted to reassure the existing political parties, saying the formation of the new organizations were not an "attempt to marginalize the mass organizations already existing."

Some Socialist leaders said the party could either back down and give the Communists further encouragement or quit the government and leave the Communists as the military's only visible political support. However, they said no decision would be taken until another round of discussion later in the week with the military's Revo-

Four Drown Over Holiday

By The Associated Press
Four persons were reported killed in separate drowning incidents in North Carolina over the long Memorial Day holiday weekend. Two of the victims were from Gaston County.

An 18-year-old Wake County man drowned in a pond near Raleigh Monday afternoon, the Wake County Sheriff's Department reported. A witness told authorities that Matthew Lee Moore had been swimming about half an hour when he went under after calling for help.

Twenty-nine-year-old Edward Bell of Mount Holly drowned Monday while swimming in the Catawba River near Mountain Island Dam, authorities said. Witnesses said they saw Bell struggling in the water but were unable to reach him in time.

Charles Dockery, 15, of Gastonia drowned Sunday while swimming in Robin Wood Lake. A friend said he had been diving in the lake when he disappeared.

The body of 14-year-old James Milton Lee of Rocky Mount was found in the Tar River Sunday night after he apparently fell from a railroad trestle, police said. Rescue personnel searched the river for seven hours before finding Lee's body.

The two Socialist members of the coalition governments, party leader Mario Soares and Francisco Salgado Zenha, have been boycotting cabinet meetings to protest the government's closure of the Socialist party newspaper Republica after its editorial staff refused to take orders from Communist printers who seized control of the newspaper's building.

Republica was the only paper in Lisbon not controlled by the Communists, who also dominate the trade union movement and many local governments. Soares has threatened to withdraw the Socialists from the government unless the Communists are checked.

The military assembly also reaffirmed its support of leftist Premier Vasco dos Santos Goncalves.

The assembly's statement was viewed as another move toward Marxism and a further erosion of non-Communist civilian political influence.

Seven Killed In Holiday Traffic

By The Associated Press
Seven persons died in North Carolina traffic accidents over the Memorial Day weekend.

The count for the year rose to 497, or 62 fewer than at the similar time last year.

The N.C. Motor Club had predicted 12 traffic deaths over the holiday. The count was kept for 3 1/4 days or 78 hours, from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight Monday.

Jeffery Voyle Chavaler, 9, of Cary near Raleigh, was struck and killed by a car at the Melvin Daniels Bridge between Nags Head and Roanoke Island on the Outer Banks. He was on a weekend fishing trip.

Edward Erthie Godwin, 32, was killed in the collision of two cars in his hometown of Greensboro.

Pamela Denise Griffin, 2 months old, of Indian Trail in Union County, was fatally injured in a head-on collision near Monroe.

Judy Capps Beswick, 33, of Carrboro, lost her life when the car in which she was riding collided with another vehicle. The accident occurred on the U.S. 17 bridge across the Neuse River at New Bern.

Charles Lee Hoover, 42, died after he fell from a car in his hometown of Charlotte.

The highway patrol said that James Alfred Tatum, 20, of Reidsville was the victim of a hit-and-run driver on U.S. 158 in Rockingham County.

Robert Carroll Case, 54, of Rt. 2, Candler, died after his car hit a bridge abutment near Asheville.

Physicians To New Quarters

Three Greenville physicians will be relocating to new quarters during the weekend.

Dr. Ray Evans, Dr. Al Woodworth and Dr. Dave Pearsall, whose offices are now located in the Physicians Quadrangle near Pitt Memorial Hospital, will be relocating to new offices at 118 Oakmont Drive.

The move will take place during the May 30-June 1 weekend and the new offices will be open on Monday, June 2.

Rescue Squad Training Requirement Killed Off

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina House has killed legislation that would have reduced the training requirements for rescue squad members.

The bill was supported in debate Monday night by a host of rural legislators, who acted in response to complaints from rescue squad units in their areas about tough new training standards imposed by the state last year.

The new standards, which will remain in effect, require that rescue squad members pass "emergency medical technician" courses of 81 hours.

They will mean, warned Rep. Nancy Chase, D-Wayne, the demise of the traditional volunteer rescue squads in rural areas. The new standards, she said, are too time consuming and expensive for rural areas.

But others said they were needed to improve the calibre of rescue squad members. Rep. Edward Holmes, D-Chatham, said the volunteers in his area were anxious to move beyond the "load 'em and roll" practices of the past.

The bill would have permitted oral examinations if the student preferred. It also would have set up an "ambulance attendant" classification with lesser training requirements.

The ambulance attendant would have needed to take a 40-hour course rather than the 81-hour course called for to qualify as an "emergency medical technician."

Backers of the bill said state officials had informally agreed to allow oral examinations and the lesser classification, but the agreement wasn't kept. One backer of the bill called it "she-nanigans going on at the bureaucratic level."

In other action Monday night, the House accepted a minority report on a resolution critical of a proposed trip to Japan this summer by a group of 50 North Carolina educators. The trip will use $12,600 in state funds and $50,000 in federal funds.

Acceptance of the minority report means that the House can still pass the resolution, which would have no legal force. The resolution had been voted down by a committee last week.

In the Senate, Sen. Kenneth Royall, D-Durham, introduced a bill allowing recipients of sex-change operations to get new birth certificates listing their new sex.

Royall said the bill was introduced at the request of officials at Duke Hospital, where such operations are performed.

House Speaker James C. Green sent a Senate-passed bill on minimum highway speeds to a judiciary committee. The bill would make it an offense to impede traffic while driving less than 55 miles per hour in the left lane of a four-lane road.

Job Prospects

RALEIGH (AP)—This year's college and high school graduates face the toughest job market since the Depression of the 1930's, according to North Carolina Employment Security Commission director Manfred Emmrich.

The ESC director said in a television interview that most employers with jobs to fill will favor family bread winners over recent high school graduates seeking full time employment.

Liberal arts college graduates, Emmrich said, will have difficulty finding jobs. He said that for college graduates, prospects are good only for accountants, engineers and data processing majors.

Taylor, Haynes Address Class

Greenville Community Ambassadors designate Roslyn Taylor and Kathryn Haynes, both students at Rose High, spoke to seventh grade students in Exploratory Classes at Agnes Fullilove School last Friday.

Roslyn plans to go to Switzerland this summer and Kathryn plans to go to Austria. Mike Allen, last year's community ambassador, also spoke to the approximately 100 students in the classes.

"A lifetime of working didn't turn my hair white. But retiring with just Social Security did."

"On the day I retired I never dreamed that the golden years of my life could become a nightmare.

But they have. Very unexpectedly. I stopped working about 7 years ago, after 40 years with the same company. It was a small firm, too small to provide me with a pension plan, but I wasn't worried because I thought I had enough savings to see me through.

An unexpected illness, though, took care of that. I had to fall back on Social Security, and I aged overnight.

What I needed to protect me is what I'd like to tell you about: a new program, authorized by Congress, that lets anyone who does not have a pension plan set up his own. With considerable tax free benefits, I am told.

It's called the Individual Retirement Account, or IRA. And a good place to find out about it is the company that is paying me to tell my story, Planters National Bank.

Planters can't help me now. But they can still help you. Go and see them. Now. So that you don't ever have to tell anyone the kind of story I'm telling you.

What bothers me most is that if they had had this program when I was young, not only would I have money in the bank today, but a lot of it would be money I've paid in taxes over the years.

Instead, all I have to look forward to is a Social Security check.

And it's not enough."
