

Tax Breaks Shaping Up In N.C. Senate And House

RALEIGH (AP) — While the North Carolina House was approving a tax break for industries Tuesday, the Senate was approving a tax break for "little people."

The Senate tentatively approved a bill that would allow persons who have no other retirement plan available to put as much as $1,500 a year into savings for retirement and not pay tax on it — yet. The tax would be collected when the funds are withdrawn.

The House had already approved such a bill, so when the Senate gave a nearly identical version tentative approval, it reconsidered and approved the House bill instead. But, the Senate amended the measure to take effect Jan. 1, 1977, rather than this year.

The later date was chosen because of the state's anticipated revenue shortage over the next two years. The measure is expected to cut revenues $1.35 billion.

The retirement plan is identical to a federal law that took effect this year. It allows a worker to take 15 per cent of his salary, with a maximum of $1,500, and deduct it from income taxes.

Sen. James Garrison, D-Stanly, sponsor of the Senate bill, said it would help truck drivers, store owners and others who don't work for companies that provide pension plans. He said it gives a tax break to the "little people" and encourages them to save for retirement.

Meanwhile, the House tentatively approved a bill that would reduce the inventory tax on businesses by half over a five-year period. Local governments would lose the tax revenue.

Supporters of the bill argued that reducing the tax would encourage industries to locate in the state. They said it would expand the tax base which would make up for the tax losses.

Another effort to cut the losses to local government is the bill's provision aimed at helping them discover inventories that previously weren't reported.

Earlier Tuesday, the Senate approved a presidential primary bill that would require candidates to pledge themselves to wage an "active and highly visible campaign" if they wanted to be on the ballot.

As approved by the Senate, the bill calls for the state Board of Elections to put persons on the ballot who say they want to be on it and if they qualify for federal matching funds for primaries.

In taking that action, the Senate rejected an effort to have all likely candidates put on the ballot. Under that proposal by Sen. Thomas Strickland, D-Wayne, the only way a candidate could get off the ballot would be by declaring he won't run for president.

The bill also would place North Carolina's presidential primary on the fourth Tuesday in March.

The Senate also killed a bill aimed at putting legislators on the Wildlife Resources Commission. As written, the bill would have put four legislators on the panel, but its sponsor, Sen. Herman Moore, D-Mecklenburg, amended that to two.

After approving Moore's amendment, the Senate killed the measure 24-22.

Several senators argued that the measure was aimed at reducing the governor's power. He now appoints all nine board members.

The legislators would have been named by the speaker of the House and the lieutenant governor.

Those favoring the measure said it would help when considering wildlife legislation for some lawmakers to have firsthand knowledge of the state's wildlife problems.

The House reversed itself Tuesday and killed a proposed amendment to the state constitution extending legislative terms from the current two years to four. Several representatives objected to longer terms because it would isolate them from the voters.

Had the measure passed and then won Senate approval, it would have been submitted to the people in a referendum.

Suez Pullback By Israel Completed

By The Associated Press
Israel completed the thinning out of its forces and firepower along the Suez Canal front today, a day before Egyptian President Anwar Sadat sails down the waterway to reopen it.

Israeli Defense Minister Shimon Peres, announcing completion of the pullback, said he hoped Israel's gesture would lead to the relaxation of tension in the entire area and help create a better atmosphere in the Egyptian cities along the canal.

Asked by newsmen if he thought Israel would make similar partial withdrawals on the other fronts with its Arab ad-

Sanford Would Drop Out

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—Democratic presidential hopeful Terry Sanford says he would drop out of contention if Alabama Gov. George Wallace beats him next year in the North Carolina presidential primary.

Sanford, in Columbia to boost his campaign on a two-day swing through the Palmetto State, said he will enter primaries across the country next year and will attempt to urge more people to talk to him about their problems and concerns.

The former North Carolina governor and current Duke University president said he is holding "citizens assemblies" to provide a forum for an exchange of ideas between him and the public.

"I'd like to demonstrate I'm the kind of candidate who can listen and learn and be the kind of president who can listen and learn," he said.

About Wallace, Sanford said "It's up to me to draw the distinction and let the people choose."

He said Wallace stands for the politics of hate, fear and negativism while he is for hope and positive action.

Sanford lost to Wallace in the North Carolina presidential primary in 1972. "If the people of your own state don't support you, there's not much reason to continue," he said, about his candidacy.

He said there are no circumstances under which he would accept the vice presidential nomination.

Tuesday morning, the Senate Utilities Committee approved a bill designed to speed up handling of rate cases before the Utilities Commission.

The bill would require utilities to file supporting documents at the time they request a rate increase. Now, utilities can wait weeks before filing supporting evidence.

The committee put off action on a bill by Sen. McNeill Smith, D-Guilford, that would require the utilities Commission to study the feasibility of peak pricing of electricity. That concept charges more for electricity when it is in greatest demand than at other times.

versaries, Peres said: "We don't see any major change on any other front that would warrant such a move on our part."

He said the Jordanian and Lebanese fronts were relatively quiet and he didn't think Syria would make any drastic change toward peace.

In Washington, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said President Ford's summit meeting with Sadat may have laid a basis for a new period of Middle East diplomacy.

"I'm not saying there is going to be progress. I'm saying there could be," Kissinger said. "We can move into a phase of more specificity" after Ford meets with Israeli Premier Yitzhak Rabin in Washington June 11-12, said a senior U.S. official who accompanied Ford on his European trip.

Peres said the partial Israeli withdrawal was "a one-sided move" made without expectation of a reciprocal concession from Egypt. Rabin in a television interview Tuesday renewed the Israeli claim that Egypt agreed as part of the disengagement agreement 18 months ago to allow cargo bound for Israel through the waterway.

He said if Egypt does not honor this pledge, Israel's position in future peace negotiations would be tougher, but "the Israeli reaction would in any case not be military."

After Israel announced it was thinning out its front-line forces as a good-will gesture Sadat indicated cargoes for Israel would be allowed through the canal if Israel made further concessions.

The withdrawal left only 3,500 Israeli troops and 15 tanks in the six-mile-wide, limited forces zone adjoining the United Nations buffer zone between Israeli and Egyptian forces on the east side of the canal.

All Israeli artillery and missiles were pulled back behind the Mitla Pass, at least 18 miles from the canal, and 3,500 troops and 15 tanks were also withdrawn from the front lines. Peres said Israel was taking a risk, but it was a political move that he hoped would be "a real contribution for an additional relaxation in this troubled area."

Approve Sale Bid On Bethel School

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
The Pitt County Board of Education yesterday gave approval to the sale of the Bethel Primary school property to Durward Harris of Greenville for $27,775.

Associate superintendent of schools Tom Craft told the board that Harris was the high bidder for the property May 16, and the board accepted Craft's recommendation that the bid be accepted.

Craft told the board that the high bid for the South Ayden school property on May 30 was $40,500 offered by Mrs. Helen G. Davis, and noted that there are still a few days remaining in which upset bids may be offered.

The associate superintendent also noted that bids for the Belvoir-Pactolus-Stokes Middle School construction will be received June 19 at 3 p.m.

Construction on the Farmville Middle school, Craft reported, should begin in about 10 days. He said all contracts have been signed and are in order and noted there should be some construction activity at the site within 10 days.

The school board also approved a recommendation from Craft on early closing of the Bethel Primary facility in order to give faculty and staff at the school more time in which to prepare for moving from the old facility into the new building.

Craft's recommendations, which were okayed by the board, called for terminating kindergarten classes at the school effective with the closing of classes yesterday afternoon. Grades one through three will be dismissed at the end of school Thursday, rather than requiring students to report for classes for the half-day session Friday.

Craft said the early closing will facilitate the move into the Bethel middle school facility during the week of June 9.

The board took no action but agreed to study a recommendation by assistant superintendent W. Jack Edwards that changes be made in the issuing of diplomas to Pitt High school graduates.

The board did approve a recommendation by Edwards that the Free Enterprise System—now required by state law—be taught as a unit in U.S. History classes in the high school.

The board honored a number of individuals at yesterday's session.

Ten students in grades four through eight — winners in the 1975 Spelling Bee — were presented with awards.

The five first-place winners honored included Amy Gibbs, grade four, at A. G. Cox school; Kelly Moore, grade five at A. G. Cox; Danny Dunn, grade six at Falkland; Lee Patrick Dixon, grade seven at Grifton and Barbara Wright, the overall winner, grade eight at Ayden Grammar.

Second place awards went to Ken Whitehurst, grade four, Bethel Primary; Anne Hosfeld, grade five, G. R. Whitfield; Suzanne Wilson, grade six, at Whitfield; Lisa Kerwin, grade seven, Belvoir Grammar, and Bryan Suckles, grade eight, Farm-

NEW YORK (AP) — Standard Oil Co. of Ohio announced today an increase of 2.1 cents per gallon in the retail cost of its gasoline.

The Cleveland-based oil company said the cost to motorists at company operated stations would now be 57.9 cents per gallon, including taxes.

The wholesale cost of Sohio's gasoline also will be increased by 2.1 cents and this increase most likely will be passed along.

The company said the increase was in line with Federal Energy Administration regulations permitting price adjustments in line with crude oil, labor and other costs.

IS RENT TAXED?

Is it legal to charge sales tax on rented items like tools? You don't have to pay sales tax on an apartment, do you, so isn't it the same? R. K.

E. R. Carraway of the N. C. Department of Revenue office here said rentals must be taxed. Permanent housing is the only exception. He said housing to be rented for more than 90 days isn't taxed, but any transient rentals like motel and hotel room, beach cottages, and the like must have sales tax added.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

Summer Recreation Program Begins Monday

Commercial Gave Victoria A Lot Of Recognition, Publicity

By TIM WHITE
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Victoria Medlin has been the victim of a misunderstanding or two. Perhaps you recall the comely locker room crasher with the long blonde hair in a recent men's hair tonic commercial. She spoke her piece, then ad-libbed a sportsmanlike pat to Miami Dolphin Bob Greise's rump — "Nice game, Bob" — as she exited.

Well, that brazen blonde was Victoria Medlin ... in a manner of speaking.

"I got a lot of publicity and recognition from that commercial," she explains. "People would stop me on the street — many of them dirty old men — expecting me to be the forward, slightly naughty type they had seen on television. But the girl in the commercial isn't me; it was a role. I would never go on the Johnny Carson Show as the 'hair oil girl' in the locker room. I was invited on those terms, but I refused."

The 23-year-old Miss Medlin has been in show business most of her life, working as a model, actress, songwriter and, principally, a singer. She began her career at the age of 5, touring with the road company of the musical, "Plain and Fancy."

"For a while I was the youngest member of Actors Equity," she says. "I had a special song in the show, a solo called 'Plenty of Pennsylvania.' The cast used to tease me because I had such a big voice for a little girl. I suspect I inherited it from my mother, who is a coloratura soprano."

Early "breaks" were numerous for the talented young Victoria, but they frequently misfired. At 14, "Boys and Girls Together" a group she sang and played piano with, recorded an album for Columbia. Despite good material and production by John Simon, the record went nowhere.

Victoria's strong, sultry voice, combined with her looks and natural acting ability, earned her a contract with Universal Pictures and its record division at the age of "16½." Unfortunately, that arrangement went awry.

"I hated California," said Miss Medlin. "I wanted to be, and should have been, back in New York drinking milkshakes with my friends, but my mother took me out there. I got roles in TV shows like 'The Virginian' and 'The Name of the Game,' but Universal was run like a factory, so I was just a factory worker."

"All I wanted to do was sing, but back then their record company was small and disorganized. This was long before they had Elton John on the label. My forte is rhythm and blues, but they wanted to make me an Olivia Newton-John type. That same year, I caught hepatitis; things weren't going my way."

After a recuperative trip to Europe, Miss Medlin returned to New York and landed the lead in "Hair." She replaced Melba Moore, who was starring on Broadway in "Purlie."

"I went to the audition of 'Hair' with a few hundred other girls," she recalls. "I sang one song and the director handed me the contract right on stage. He said, 'A lot of girls in this show are gonna hate you 'cause of this, so be ready!'"

"I think 'Hair' was really the beginning for me," she says with a smile. "Eight shows a week are far worse than two concerts a night, but I needed the maturing that comes with that kind of experience. Frankly, I also needed to stop the show every night — as a singer."

Miss Medlin's show-stopper was the number, "Easy To Be Hard," and it attracted the attention of a number of record companies, but once again, they misread her signals.

"They either wanted a sweet, middle-of-the-road singer, or they heard my tapes, thought I was black, and backed out when they discovered I wasn't."

Miss Medlin left the rock musical after a year and a half and decided to make a demo album — singing her kind of music and using her own money. Working with songwriter-partner Ned Albright and a host of musician friends, she funded the expensive project by doing commercials and modeling.

"Everybody told me I was crazy," she says. "They said that nobody does that; it's unheard of."

"I didn't care. I needed to go through the experience just to clarify my style in my own mind."

That tape, and a lot of determined legwork, has finally paid off for both Miss Medlin and friend Albright. Together, they are writing music for various artists, among them Brazilian keyboardist Deodato. Moreover, Miss Medlin has signed with London Records and located an understanding and enthusiastic producer, New Orleans r and b wizard Allen Toussaint.

She sums up the years of blind alleys and miscomprehensions with a simple credo: "I've tried to be honest with myself, to stick with what I know I do best. So many successful people never please themselves."

Bride Wants To Lock Church Doors

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My best girl friend is getting married soon, and I am her maid-of-honor. I am trying to talk her out of a crazy plan she has that sounds ridiculous to me, but maybe I am wrong.

She wants to lock the church doors five minutes before the start of the ceremony.

I have argued that this is rude, since many of the guests will be driving into a strange area from a distant place and looking for an unknown church. I also showed her an etiquette book that says the bride's mother should be seated at the time the ceremony is scheduled to start and those who arrive late must watch the ceremony from the back of the church. It does NOT say that they should be locked out five minutes before the ceremony starts.

Answer soon, since this bride-to-be thinks she is right.

BEST FRIEND

DEAR BEST: Keep trying to convince her that YOU are right, because you are.

DEAR ABBY: I just read about the mother who was brokenhearted because her son and daughter (both married with families) hadn't spoken to each other for years and were the reason she could not have complete family get-togethers.

If my own experience means anything, tell that mother not to worry. Eventually they'll make up. And although she won't live to see it, she will be the cause of it, because it will take place at her funeral.

Since everyone will be crying, anyway, the two who finally decided to make up won't be conspicuous—even though they'll be crying twice as hard as everyone else. And with good reason.

Think about it, kids. Sign me.

CRIED ME A RIVER

DEAR CRIED: I wonder how many others have to bury a relative before they bury the hatchet? It's something to think about, all right. Thanks for a timely reminder. (Nu, Charley?)

DEAR ABBY: TICKLED wrote, protesting her husband's habit of holding her down, tickling her ribs and feet until she becomes hysterical and thinking it's all just jolly fun.

Well, it isn't. It's torture. I know because my husband used to do this to me until I literally dampened his enthusiasm for this kind of "fun" when I lost control of my bladder on HIS side of the bed when he had me pinned down.

I refused to change the sheets until the next morning, and I went and slept on the sofa.

Coupon Book Saves Money For Shoppers

By JUDITH CAPAR
MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Coupons may not exactly be money in the bank, but for today's shopper facing soaring food prices, they are money in the pocketbook.

As one Memphis, Tenn., housewife says:

"When it comes right down to it, for most of us that don't have a job outside the home, this is about the only way we can help our husbands ... conserve, cut down, and save what we can for them."

The woman was interviewed during research by the Coupon Publishing Co., New York, to test its new publication, "The Little Coupon Book."

In the test, a book of 59 coupons for staple items was mailed to consumers in Milwaukee and Memphis who had answered newspaper ads. Milwaukee was chosen because of its high coupon redemption rate, and Memphis, because of its low rate.

Consumer response far exceeded projections, publisher

Robert K. Heady said in an interview.

The best estimate he received predicted the ads would pull one half of one per cent of the circulations of the newspapers in the two cities, he said. Instead, it pulled an 11 per cent total.

In Milwaukee, 67,000 persons responded, but total circulation swelled to about 173,500, using additional names provided by people who had answered the ads. Eighty-three per cent of the names were from Milwaukee and 17 per cent, from Memphis.

A circulation of 15 million is planned for the national run in September.

Heady said the booklet was based on interviews with shoppers. Women told researchers they wanted a better way to organize coupons, a purse-size book format, direct mail delivery, coupons of the same size and, for staple items, a pocket in the book to store loose coupons. They suggested seasonal publication, except for summer.

Heady said the booklet was mailed only to people who asked for it, in an effort to find consumers who would use the coupons sensibly and legitimately.

Last year manufacturers issued about 50 billion coupons at a cost of $50 million to get consumers to try their product. Usually, only 11 per cent are redeemed. Heady said one purpose of the coupon book is to increase redemption rates.

Names for the September national run will be taken from responses to national ads. Those who have already received the test run can get the next copy by filling out a card in the back of the book. Heady said by April, 1976, the firm hopes to have 100 per cent request circulation.

The booklet also is designed to reduce misredemption, which costs manufacturers up to $200 million a year.

Its production is supervised by security guards, and it is mailed only upon request. It also contains a statement describing the problems and costs of using coupons on the wrong items.

The booklet reached Milwaukee and Memphis households in April. Research so far has shown a high redemption rate.

"Many manufacturers have said to us this idea is too good to be true," Heady said. "But we think, no. The consumer is very sophisticated and knowledgeable about products, and the era of anyone trying to fool the consumer is over."

BIG CHEESES

ROSEMONT, Ill. (UPI) — City people, small families and West Coast residents are the nation's biggest consumers of cottage cheese, says the United Dairy Association.

The association added that purchases increase as consumers grow older. Families with one or two members buy more than four times as much cottage cheese per capita as larger families with six or more members.

HEARING TESTS
MENLO PARK, Calif. (UPI) — Stanford Research Institute has developed methods by which a mother can use items found in any home to help test her baby for hearing defects.

The techniques, designed for infants as young as four months, are geared to spot trouble before a child is old enough to answer questions about what sounds he or she can hear.

Researchers sought devices to test responses to both high and low pitches and loud and soft sounds.

For example, a pop-top ring from a soft drink can makes a certain sound when it is shaken inside a baby food jar. So does a pencil eraser thumped against an oatmeal box or a coffee can.

PUEBLO, Colo. (UPI) — An overcrowded refrigerator encourages food spoilage, especially when too much warm food is refrigerated at once. To prevent this, cool the food first by using shallow containers, and setting them in a sink of cold water.

U.S. Airman Studies Ballet In Germany

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) — An Air Force personnel specialist by day, a ballet student by night.

That describes Airman 1.C. Zenia Bernar, a 19-year-old Air Force member stationed at Lindsey Air Station here. Miss Bernar's Air Force job is to review and process airman performance and officer effectiveness reports for the 601st Tactical Control Wing's Consolidated Base Personnel Office (CBPO).

Her off-duty time is spent mostly studying at the Hessische State Theater ballet school in Wiesbaden, a school which teaches the classical European tradition.

Miss Bernar's early interest in ballet is credited to her mother. "She took me to a ballet when I was about 8. I liked what I saw and knew that's what I wanted to be," she said.

At first, her parents discouraged her early interest in ballet. "Mom knew the work was quite involved and didn't want me getting into something that difficult. Later she changed her mind — when she found out I wouldn't change mine. So, they put me through dancing school in Cleveland," she said.

Miss Bernar almost quit dancing in 1972 because she believed there might be more important things to do in life. She joined the Air Force the same year.

After completing basic training at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas Miss Bernar was selected for technical training at Keesler AFB in Mississippi. There she learned the mechanics of the Air Force personnel system.

She was then assigned to Lindsey where a friend arranged a meeting with the Hessische State Theater balletmeister, Frau Clara Gora.

"I was extremely nervous," Miss Bernar said.

"It was the first time in two years that I had danced and I was sure that everything would go wrong." It didn't.

She has been with the school more than a year. She practices almost every evening after work, hoping one day to become a professional ballerina. Both newcomers and seasoned members practice in a large, empty room on the top floor of the Wiesbaden Opera House.

"I believe that I am the only American in the group," she said.

Frau Gora explained that it takes about eight years of daily practice before one is ready to perform as an extra in the ballet. She believes that her American pupil is almost ready for a dancing position.

"There was an opening for her as an understudy with one of our ensemble members last January but Zenia was not able to meet the daytime practice sessions," Frau Gora noted.

Miss Bernar is quick to give credit.

"I could never have seen as much, nor experienced as much, if it were not for my Air Force assignment here," she said.

Chapter Holds Business Meet

The Eta Delta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held a salad supper meeting at the home of Carolyn Powell last week.

Prior to the business meeting, the past President, Sandi McBride, presided over the ritual of jewels for the chapter's new members, Marguerite Anthony, Linda Gustafson, Elaine Ollino, Lavonna Scott and Jan Stanley.

The president, Carolyn Powell, then presided over the pledge rituals for the chapters three pledges Pat Lehardt, Beth Morin and Ann VanWagenen. Plans for the chapter's family pig pickin' to be held June 7 were finalized. The ways and means projects for the 1975-76 sorority year were presented and approved by the chapter. Carolyn Powell provided a program on "The Art of Thinking."

Carol Price's cultural program "On Any Day" — a presentation and demonstration on proper etiquette when entertaining, was chosen by chapter vote as "Program of the Year."

The next chapter meeting will be a beginning day get-together in August, at which time the 1975-76 yearbooks will be distributed to all members and all chapter activities for the year will be presented.

WATCH WHAT YOU DRINK

We frequently boast that America is the best fed nation on earth. The available supply of food energy in the U.S. is up to 3300 calories per person per day. We're eating more food, much of it's nutritious but our diets have shifted from starch to protein. In the past 25 years, we have virtually doubled our per capita consumption of beef, pork and poultry.

It would seem that Americans are eating pretty well. Yet there are some disturbing trends in nutrition. One is the number of people who skip breakfast.

We've all seen the TV commercial where the student or the married husband runs out of the house to start the day, gulping down a cup of coffee on the way to the door. That's a poor substitute for a nutritious breakfast.

Students often enjoy pop between classes from the convenient vending machine and many people, from the school secretary to the foundry foreman, grab a snack and a soft drink and call it lunch.

There are better ways to fuel one's body—take milk and dairy products.

1. A good way to make lunches more nutritious is to use milk rather than water with each can of condensed soup. Make the soup even more interesting with a garnish of sour cream, whipped cream, croutons, crumbled bacon, chopped chives, or parsley.

2. Vary your Apple-Celery Salad by adding cubed Swiss or Gruyere cheese to the fruit after sprinkling with lemon juice to keep it from discoloring. Dairy sour cream (1 cup) with ½ teaspoon of salt is enough of a dressing to hold 4 cups of apples and 1 cup of diced celery together with a cup of cubed cheese.

3. If you're looking for something different to serve the youngsters, try New England Maple Milk made by blending 4 cups of milk with ¼ cup of maple syrup. Pour into glasses and top with a scoop of butter pecan ice cream. This makes 4½ cups.

4. Peppermint Punch
Yield: Approx. 20 cups

- 2 quarts cold milk
- 2 quarts ginger ale, chilled
- Peppermint stick candy, crushed
- 1 quart peppermint ice cream
- In punch bowl, mix together milk and ginger ale. Scoop ice cream on top. Garnish with crushed peppermint candy.
- 5. Banana-Orange Float
Yield: Approx. 2 cups
- 1 ripe banana
- 2 scoops orange sherbet
- 1 teaspoon sugar

6. Peanutty Shake
Yield: Approx. 2½ cups

- 1 small banana
- ¼ cup smooth peanut butter
- ½ pint vanilla ice cream
- 1 cup milk

In blender, place banana and peanut butter; blend until smooth. Gradually add ice cream, then milk. Beat until smooth.

These Doughnuts Are Jam-Filled

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: Some time ago I cut out a column you wrote about the Italian doughnuts called Zeppole. I wonder whether you or any of your readers know how to make the jam-filled Polish doughnuts called Paczki? I have looked for such a recipe but as yet have not found one.

— CURIOUS COOK.
DEAR CURIOUS COOK: When I received your letter I felt chagrined because I had never made Paczki and moreover I had never tasted this famous Polish pastry. However, I did find recipes for it in five cookbooks on my shelves: "The Art of Polish Cooking" by Alina Zeranska (Doubleday); "Polish Cookery" by Marja Ochowicz-Monotowa (Crown); "Old Warsaw Cook Book" by Rysia (Roy); "Treasured Polish Recipes for Americans" (Polanie) and "A Quintet of Cuisines" by Michael and Frances Field (Time-Life Books). Guided by these, we evolved the following practical rule and a Polish taster pronounced our Paczki authentic and absolutely delicious.

The jam in Polish doughnuts is enclosed before frying rather than after. But it is feasible to enclose only an extremely small amount of jam in each doughnut; on account of this our recipe calls for grape jam, because it has strong flavor, and suggests passing extra jam when the Paczki are served.

One caution. The first time my recipe tester, Mary Greene, made these doughnuts in my test kitchen the jam leaked out of all of them because they needed super-sealing and no directions hinted at how to do this. After a few more tests, we evolved the method for which I have tried to give detailed directions. Using this method, on the third try the jam leaked out of only two of the doughnuts of the dozen Mary made. Another experienced cook who tried the recipe had about the same result. If anyone has a foolproof way of sealing, I'd be grateful if he or she would pass it along.

— C. B.

POLISH DOUGHNUTS (Paczki)

- ½ cup milk
- ¼ cup unsalted butter
- 1-3rd cup confectioners' sugar
- 1 package active dry yeast
- 2¼ cups (about) flour
- 4 egg yolks, from large eggs
- ½ teaspoon grated orange rind
- ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 3 tablespoons orange juice
- ¼ teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- Grape jam
- Oil for deep frying
- Extra confectioners' sugar

In a small saucepan heat the milk until tiny bubbles appear around the edge; add butter and 1-3rd cup sugar; off heat stir until butter melts. Pour into a medium mixing bowl and cool to lukewarm (115 degrees); add yeast and stir until dissolved — this takes considerable stirring. Add 1 cup of the flour, the egg yolks, orange rind, lemon rind, orange juice and vanilla; with a wooden spoon beat until blended. Stir in enough more flour to make a soft dough. On a lightly floured surface, knead until smooth and elastic — about 5 minutes. Place in a greased medium mixing bowl; turn to grease top. Sprinkle lightly with flour. Cover; let rise in a warm, draft-free place until doubled — about 1 hour.

Punch down dough; cut into 2 equal portions. On a prepared pastry cloth with a prepared stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out 1 portion of the dough so it is ½-inch thick. With a round 2½-inch cutter, cut out. Roll and cut the remaining portion of the dough the same way. With your forefinger, make a 1-inch-long indentation in the center of each round. Put ½ level teaspoon jam in each indentation. Holding a round in the palm of one hand, with the thumb and forefinger of the other hand lift up edges and pinch together hard so they meet; turn over edge, a little at a time, pinching hard as you do so, to insure a tight seal; with your forefinger held like a knife, firmly press down edge. The rounds should now be oval shape. Place, sealed sides down and well apart, on an ungreased cookie sheet; cover and let rise in a warm, draft-free place until doubled — 1 hour.

Fry in deep hot oil (375 degrees on a frying thermometer) without touching or crowding, until well-browned on bottom side — about 2 minutes; turn and continue frying until top side is well-browned — about 2 minutes more; doughnuts should be a dark brown to insure doneness. Drain on absorbent paper. With extra confectioners' sugar mashed through a sieve, dust doughnuts on all sides. Serve at once, passing extra jam. Makes 1 dozen.

New York Forced To Cut Back

New York City isn't fooling when it says it has financial problems.

The city's new budget presented by Mayor Abraham D. Beame calls for spending $11.89 billion and will cut 51,000 off the city's payroll.

A number of school programs would be eliminated. Cuts would be made in enrollment of the City University, Police, firemen, and sanitation workers would be laid off. There would be shorter hours for museums, zoos and libraries.

Mayor Beame has blasted the federal government as well as the New York State government for not bailing out the nation's largest city.

He has also jumped on the financial institutions for not responding to New York's monetary needs.

Well, New York is important to the nation. As a business and financial and shipping center what it offers the nation would have to be created somewhere else if they closed up Manhattan Island tomorrow.

But it is a sad fact that New York has simply been living beyond its means. And, like the son of the rich man who overspends his allowance, the big city simply goes crying to the state or federal government when it can't have everything it wants.

What New York needs to do is what it is being forced to do—that is, cut back on its spending. It needs to drop the frills so that it can provide essential services to its citizens.

New York has come in for all the federal grants that any other American city has been entitled to in recent years. Now, however, it wants more because it has not controlled its own municipal spending.

Not only has the city spent itself to near bankruptcy it has not used all that money to best advantage in alleviating some of its social problems. As far as we know, for instance, virtually nothing has been done toward desegregating the New York public schools.

Like everyone else New York must learn to live within the funds which are available. That means more careful management rather than blaming the federal and state governments and the financial institutions for not pumping more money into a wasteful operation.

The N.C. SCENE

Pesticide Rules Suffice

By JAMES A. GRAHAM
N.C. Commissioner of Agriculture

RALEIGH—Recently I was privileged to appear before the Agriculture Committee of the U.S. House of Representatives. My purpose was to voice opposition to licensing private applicators for restricted use pesticides. Generally restricted use pesticides are those which are exceedingly toxic or have been determined highly detrimental to the environment.

We in North Carolina are very concerned about the proposed regulations under the Federal Environmental Pesticide Control Act of 1972. I would like to discuss North Carolina's concern with the requirements under which the standards for certification of commercial and private applicators have been adopted.

Since 1947 pesticides have been regulated in North Carolina. During 1969 the General Assembly, at the request of the N.C. Department of Agriculture, passed a resolution to have the Legislative Research Commission consider additional pesticide needs.

For approximately nine months hearings were held to develop proposed changes in the laws. As a result of these deliberations, they provided a mechanism for certification of commercial applicators, governmental applicators, and provisions for regulating the sale, use, storage, disposal, analysis and registration of agricultural chemicals. License Users? During their deliberations the Research Commission considered licensing private applicators (farmers) who use restricted-use pesticides. These deliberations were prior to the development of present federal pesticide legislation. The Commissioner determined it was not appropriate to require certification of private applicators. Instead they decided it was more appropriate to regulate dealers who sold restricted-use pesticides and provide a mechanism for controlling use or mis-use of them.

Among the reasons for requiring certification of those who sell restricted use pesticides was a survey in North Carolina which showed over 80 per cent of the farmers received their pesticide information from such dealers.

A total of 24 hours of classroom training has been made available to these dealers, after which they have been required to pass a comprehensive examination. As a result, I feel the improved expertise of our dealers is being reflected by a more conscientious use of chemical by farmers.

The Commissioner also developed a mechanism for controlling the misuse of pesticides. They did this by providing the authority to enter upon all property during reasonable hours to secure a sample of any material as it was being applied from the private or commercial application equipment. This determines if pesticides are being applied in accordance with approved labels.

Over the last two years, more than 500 such "use samples" have been taken. As yet, the NCDA has not detected a use of any pesticide for which it was not registered.

Use Regulated Since the adoption of the Federal Environmental Pesticide Control Act of 1972, the N.C. Pesticide Board, which is the governing authority under the N.C. Pesticide Law of 1971, has emphatically stated that pesticides are adequately regulated in North Carolina without certification of farmers. This seven member Board has a member representing health, wildlife, nongovernmental conservation, Dept. of Agriculture, pesticide industry, pesticide consumer and an at-large member.

Due to the private applicator provision of the Federal Law, the 1974 General Assembly appointed a Pesticide Study Commission, made up of eight representatives and senators, including the Chairmen of both the House and Senate Agriculture Committee, to study the need for revising the N.C. law. They determined our present law provides a mechanism for requiring the certification or licensing of private applicators. However, they reaffirmed our present program was sufficient to control use or misuse of pesticides without the required certification of farmers.

In that I am responsible for enforcing the N.C. Pesticide Law of 1971 and those regulations adopted by the N.C. Pesticide Board, I asked the U.S. House Agriculture Committee to delete the provisions requiring certification of private applicators from the Federal Law.

I am not saying that I am against providing additional voluntary training of farmers. We do have some misuse of pesticides and some unfortunate accidents. I believe that making available an extension pesticide training program, without the required demonstration of competency can accomplish many of the goals at a cost that can much more easily be justified, especially during the economic turmoil currently being experienced.

I understand bills have been introduced in Congress for a pesticide registry and self-determination of competency by private applicators in lieu of the present provision. I believe a system such as this is not necessary.

Therefore, I must re-emphasize the position of the 1969 Legislative Study Commission, the Pesticide Board, the 1974-75 Legislative Pesticide Commission and the N.C. Dept. of Agriculture, which is pesticides are adequately regulated in the state.

Washington Show Biz

WASHINGTON—Last week I tuned in my television set and I saw a man holding up a large calendar. As he talked he kept ripping the pages off the calendar. At first I thought it was a commercial for acid indigestion, but when I looked closely I realized it was the President of the United States.

Apparently the President's TV advisers have told him he can no longer sit in his Oval Office and just talk to the American people. In order to make the most use out of the medium he has to resort to visual aids.

This means holding up his energy message so that all of us can see it, and illustrating with a calendar how Congress has dragged its feet in passing any comprehensive legislation. It was a great performance, but what worries me about it is that in order to do it well it requires tremendous rehearsal time which no President of the United States can spare.

For example, it took at least three hours for the President to rehearse his 14-minute energy speech.

"Okay, Mr. President, let's run through it once again. Remember now, when you talk about Congress let's have more of a frown on your face and try to look angry."

"I looked angry the last time. It's not my fault I can't show anger."

"I'm not criticizing you, sir. It's just that you have to get more emotion into it. Don't forget you have submitted the most comprehensive energy policy of any President of the United States, and Congress has just twiddled its thumbs. We've got to get that across to the American people. Now we want you to hold up this book as you say, 'Four months ago I sent the Congress the 167-page draft of detailed legislation'—like this."

"I did it that way the last time."

"But you stopped talking as you did it. It should be one motion with your hands as if you're doing it naturally."

"It's not as easy as you think to pick up a book and talk at the same time."

"But you can do it, Mr. President. After that, you pick up this calendar and you refer to January. Then you tear off January and talk about February and the fact Congress did nothing in February."

"Except the last time you did it you tore off January, February and March at the same time. It threw the teleprompter people something awful."

"Okay. Now what comes after March?"

"April."

"I think I can remember that. I have one other question. When I say four months have gone by without any action from the Hill—how many fingers do I hold up?"

"Four, Mr. President."

"It's hard to hold up four fingers and hang on to the calendar."

"Why don't you set the calendar aside when you hold up your four fingers?"

"I guess I could if I remember it. Could you give me the signal to put down the calendar and hold up four fingers?"

"Yes, sir. You just watch me."

"Now when I announce I'm raising the tariff on oil a dollar a barrel, do I put up one finger?"

"You better not. It might look obscene."

Doubt Space Skills

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSOI
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate opponent of the upcoming American-Soviet space mission is asking the Central Intelligence Agency if secret data on Soviet space failures justifies cancelling the project.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., has called Carl Duckett, the CIA's deputy director for science and technology, to testify before a Senate panel later today about Soviet space technology.

An American Apollo and a Soviet Soyuz spacecraft are scheduled to be launched July 15, and the U.S. ship later will attempt to rendezvous and dock with the Soviet craft.

Proxmire has long been a critic of the project's $225 million price tag and its over-all risks. He said he is asking the CIA to provide data from its monitoring of the Soviet space program and to give details on the problem areas it has found.

In April 1974, CIA Director William E. Colby gave this estimate of the Soviet space program to Proxmire's subcommittee on priorities in economy and government:

"Now you know they've had a terrible time on their civilian space program and they've had some very bad, bad experiences. I mean a whole string of them have not worked. They lost the astronauts and they've put things on various planets that have not worked and all the rest of it."

Proxmire said the record shows the Soviets have experienced failures in the launch, rendezvous, docking and re-entry phases of space flight. He asserted that 5 of the last 19 Soyuz flights were total or partial failures, saying this amounts to a failure rate of 26 per cent.

The Wisconsin senator cited the 1967 flight of Soyuz 1 in which Col. Vladimir Komarov was killed during re-entry and

Public Forum

To the editor:

Prior to this time there has been some public discussion about the repeal of the sales tax on food with eventual withdrawal of support from this bill by Gov. Holshouser. Currently there are bills before the Senate & the House of the N.C. General Assembly to repeal the food tax. Many have claimed that the time is not right for such legislation. We suggest that we examine the issue more closely before making up our minds. The bills before the General Assembly would benefit close to 90 per cent of the people of this state with the repeal of the food tax, including most families with annual incomes below $25,000. How can legislation with such widespread positive impact not be enacted? There are many myths about the repeal of the sales tax on food—here are a few: 1) "The food tax is the only tax some people pay." On the contrary, everyone, even the poor, pay taxes in addition to food tax—such as the sales tax on clothing and other necessities. In fact, the total tax burden on those earning less than $1,150 is more than 11 per cent in state taxes alone. 2) "The state and counties can't afford to lose $70 plus million in food tax revenue." We agree. However, the bills now in committee provide compensation for tax losses by the following measures:

- 1) Increased income tax rates for the very rich will raise $44 million.
  - 2) Increased taxes on alcoholic beverages will raise $22 million.
  - 3) Taxes on dividends from N.C. corporations will raise $8 million.
  - 4) Elimination of the sales tax ceilings on luxury automobiles, yachts, and private airplanes will raise $2 million.
- The sales tax on food is the most unfair of North Carolina's taxes. The burden of the food tax is FIFTY TIMES HEAVIER on the poor than the wealthy! North Carolina's for Tax Reform (110 Cox Ave., Raleigh 27605) is a statewide coalition of church, civic, and labor groups backing these bills. Write to them for more information. Most importantly, write Horton Rountree, Sam Bundy, Julian Allsbrook, and Vernon White c/o the N.C. Legislative Building in Raleigh 27611. The bills are stuck in committees and will need special attention to get them through before the end of this session. Tax Reform Now!

INSIDE REPORT

Ford Focusing On '76 Race

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON—Gerald R. Ford is now focusing hard on his 1976 presidential campaign and is known to feel that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is his most probable—and strongest—Democratic opponent. He also believes Nelson Rockefeller might be denied the vice presidential nomination by the Republican national convention.

Those views, privately expressed by the President before his European trip, closely parallel public comments to newsmen on May 13 by his longtime friend and political adviser, Melvin R. Laird.

But while Laird's remarks were interpreted as typical Lairdian ploys to saddle the Democrats with Teddy Kennedy's problems and deflect conservative Republican opposition away from Ford and toward Rockefeller, the President himself is no political gamesman. His unadorned view is that Kennedy would probably be his strongest opponent and that, realistically, Republican delegates must be given final say on Rockefeller for Vice President.

Mr. Ford is known to believe Kennedy would have no trouble being nominated for President if he is willing and that nobody but Kennedy knows whether he will be. But the President feels the odds are that he will do it.

While some White House aides regard Kennedy as highly vulnerable, the President considers him formidable opposition and probably the strongest candidate the Democrats could find. Mr. Ford has trouble precisely assessing the impact of Chapquiddick, regarding it as an issue that should not be talked about by the Republicans but that speaks for itself—with the verdict of the voters unknown.

As for the Republican ticket, Mr. Ford in private does not qualify his support for Rockefeller as Vice President. He feels Rockefeller, has performed extremely well in the post and would not be a political liability on the ticket.

Nevertheless, the President carefully avoids a flat forecast that Rockefeller will be his running mate in 1976. Mr. Ford is saying that, to be realistic, the delegates to the national convention in 1976 are going to make the final decision—though, of course, that never has been the case in the Republican party.

In contrast to Laird's suggestions that a conservative challenge against Rockefeller by Ronald Reagan might clear the air, however, there is no hint Mr. Ford is trying to deflect conservative opposition away from himself and toward his Vice President. The President did not discuss the matter with Laird before his May 13 remarks, though it did come up briefly in a subsequent conversation between them.

The President does not know whether Reagan will in the end actually challenge him for President. He feels that a Ford state-by-state

WHAT IS THE KINGDOM OF GOD?
In describing the kingdom of God St. Paul said that it "is not meat and drink; but righteousness and peace, and joy in the Holy Spirit."
Just as it is not meat and drink, so it is not the redistribution of wealth or better government, or more highly advanced civilization. All of these things will doubtless accompany the Kingdom of God, but they do not compose the kingdom; they are the result of it.
The kingdom of God is an inner spiritual state in the heart of the individual. It is righteousness, peace, and joy; and these things spring not from the abundance of what one has, but from the fullness of what one is. The kingdom of God means the rule of God in the heart.

When God comes in to take possession of the human heart, then the true benefactions of life are experienced. Then also, the many problems about meat and drink fade away or find an easy solution.

Paid Vacations Getting Longer

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Paid vacations are getting longer.

This might seem to be a distorted reflection of the present economic scene, with millions looking for work and not finding it and others unable to afford a vacation even if paid. But it is indisputable fact.

A survey of corporation vacation practices in 1964 showed only 2 per cent permitted paid vacations of up to five weeks. A similar survey about a decade later showed the percentage at 28. And the six-week vacation had arrived.

The Conference Board, which conducted both surveys of about 1,800 concerns, found that paid time off costs companies the equivalent of an average 8.2 per cent of payroll in 1973, up more than one per cent in six years. Vacations and days off for personal affairs also may be getting more frequent. Time off for birthdays, and floating holidays, to be used when and as desired, are among the innovations.

The notion of paid time off has come a long way from the early days of the Industrial Revolution, which was supposed to have put machinery to work in behalf of mankind but which may have affected just the opposite.

Time off with pay apparently now is becoming one of those inalienable worker rights.

One of the biggest changes found by the board, which describes itself as a private, nonprofit educational and research organization, was the addition of two paid holidays in the past decade.

Most companies now recognize six standard holidays and three more that vary with the employer. New Year's Day, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas are standard almost everywhere.

No other single day was specified by a majority in the study, but the most commonly named were: Thanksgiving Friday, Good Friday, Washington's Birthday, Veterans Day, Columbus Day and a day before or after Christmas.

While it is true that a growing number of companies now grant five- and six-week annual vacations with pay, the average company's maximum still remains close to four weeks.

In most companies, the board found, that is the reward for a minimum of 20

Nonoffice workers are treated less generously than office workers in the category of nonleisure paid time. Coverage of jury service and bereavement leave is almost universal for both categories is widespread, but then the differences appear.

Office workers generally are paid during time off because of trial witness service, military duty for summer encampments and civil emergencies, voting, and for medical and dental appointments.

About half the companies paid nonoffice workers for brief, temporary military duty, but almost any other remaining time is at their own expense.

40 Years Ago Today

June 4, 1935
Death estimates in three mid-western states and Mexico today mounted to the 500 mark as rampaging floods continued their widespread destruction. A daylight check over the ravaged portion of the federal district in the valley of Mexico revealed that approximately 400 persons had perished there.

Damage in Nebraska, Missouri, and Kansas was estimated at $17 million.

Election dates had been set today in all 18 of the N.C. counties which the 1935 legislature authorized to vote on the question of establishing county liquor control systems.

In one county, New Hanover, dries have obtained a temporary restraining order to prevent the referendum there, July 2.

Pitt County Commissioners set June 6 as the referendum date here.

The East Carolina Teachers College campus is quiet this morning after the biggest commencement in its history. Summer school will open next Tuesday morning, June 11.

Ozzie Nelson's Funeral Friday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Services will be held Friday at Forest Lawn Memorial Park in the Hollywood Hills for Ozzie Nelson, the nice guy father in the television series, "The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet."

Nelson died Tuesday in his home with his wife and series co-star, Harriet, by his bedside. He was 69 and had undergone surgery for cancer of the liver eight months ago.

An athletic 170 pounds most of his life, Nelson had thinned to 130 pounds and was confined to his home for the past two months, no longer able to take his daily two-mile ocean swim.

When first informed of his malignancy, Nelson's reaction was: "Isn't that odd for a guy who never drank or smoked?"

Born Oswald George Nelson on March 20, 1907, in Jersey City, N.J., Nelson became at age 13 the nation's youngest Eagle Scout and a representative of the United States at the first Boy Scout Jamboree in London.

He went on to become an honor student at Rutgers University and a star on its debating, football and boxing teams. In his spare time, he played the banjo and sang in a band, inheriting his musical talent from his parents.

He earned his law degree in 1930, financing his studies by coaching football at a Jersey City high school. However, prompted by the depression, he formed a dance band instead of going into law practice.

The Ozzie Nelson band clicked and it was booked into dance halls and on radio across the country with Nelson doing an unabashed imitation of crooner Rudy Vallee.

In 1932, Nelson married Harriet Hilliard, a singer from Des Moines, Iowa, and the following year they began a radio series, appearing with comedian Joe Penner, "Believe It or Not" man Robert Ripley and eventually with actor-comedian Red Skelton.

Miss Hilliard branched into films on her own, starring in such movies as "Follow the Fleet" and "Coconut Grove," while Nelson stayed with the band. But, in 1944, the Nelsons launched "The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet" on radio, working together on the series.

The show quickly became a phenomenon, lasting 10 seasons on radio and 14 years on television, with a two-year overlap. It became a family affair on Feb. 20, 1949, when the couple's sons, Ricky and David, replaced child actors hired to portray them on the series. After they were married, their wives also joined the cast.

The sons, who are 35 and 39 now, respectively, were reported almost daily visitors at their parents' home.

The series finally went off television in 1966, but the Nelsons made a brief return in 1972 with a syndicated television series called, "Ozzie's Girls."

Besides his widow and sons, Nelson is survived by two brothers and five grandchildren.

Temporary Bridge Set

SILOAM, N.C. (AP)—Engineers from Ft. Bragg will begin construction today of a temporary one-way bridge over the Yadkin River at Siloam.

The truss-type structure, similar to temporary bridges erected in combat zones, will replace a suspension bridge that collapsed Feb. 23. Four motorists were killed and 16 injured when seven cars plunged into the river.

Equipment and sections of the new bridge started to come onto the Surry County side of the river Tuesday. The bridge is being brought from New Cumberland, Pa. It will be erected by the 548th Engineering Battalion from Ft. Bragg. The state secretary of transportation, Jacob F. Alexander, says the bridge and approaches should be completed and open for traffic by July 1.

The federal government is funding a permanent structure which will cost about $1 million.

The deadline for Reagan's decision, the President feels, may come in early autumn. By then, Mr. Ford believes Reagan will have to start collecting delegates—a process the President intends to have started for himself this summer.

Mr. Ford is known to believe he cannot stay out of presidential primary contests—including some Southern primaries—if Reagan does run. He regards those Southern contests as a risk, but he is organizing his campaign in such states and was cheered by the reception he received in one Southern primary state, North Carolina, on a trip there May 20.

Overall, the President understands he has continuing problems with some conservative elements in the Republican party, North and South, but feels he is in good shape with what he calls moderate conservatives. As to specific grumbling by many conservatives that he should have vetoed the tax cut bill, Mr. Ford believes that his political problems would have been much worse had he not signed it.

He selected Dean Burch, former Goldwater and Nixon political operative, to run his campaign operation because of his immediate need for somebody knowledgeable, loyal and ready to operate. But because Burch does not want to leave his Washington law firm, the President perceives him as a temporary manager who will be replaced before the convention.

Believes Medicaid Fails N.C. Needs

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Dr. Hubert Eaton, who treats predominately poor, black patients, many of whom use Medicaid, says North Carolina's Medicaid system is set up in such a way that patients can't receive the care they need.

The Wilmington physician is asking the U. S. attorney in Raleigh to investigate.

"A patient entering the Medicaid system is facing a sad and depressing ordeal," Dr. Eaton said in a letter mailed Tuesday to U. S. Atty. Thomas McNamara. "Physicians attempting to provide quality health care for Medicaid patients are up against a system that prevents them from doing it."

Eaton says the state's system reimburses doctors only for treatment of patient's symptoms; it will not pay doctors for treatment of actual illnesses. "Such treatments are deemed too comprehensive," he says.

Until May, the state Medicaid system was administered by the North Carolina Department of Human Resources. Administration was turned over to a private company May 1, but this company, Health Applications Systems, still pays doctors under guidelines set up by the state. The guidelines call for doctors to be paid for "Necessary, not comprehensive work."

Eaton's son, Dr. Hubert Eaton Jr., talked to a committee of doctors last fall who were consultants to the Medicaid office of the state Department of Human Resources. When he complained that he and his father were not being repaid for medical services they deemed necessary, the younger Eaton said he was told, "We think you should treat a patient's symptoms and immediate problems only...we don't think these patients should be getting the Cadillac workup...after all, these are only service patients."

Dr. George Watson, a Medicaid consultant who attended that meeting, says he does not remember anyone making that are really necessary, including expensive operations. Questionable Medicaid claims are handled by the Medical Peer Review Board, a board of 23 doctors subcontracted by Health Applications Systems. State regulations say the board's determinations are to be based solely on the medical necessity of services.

"Under the present system," Eaton says, "patients float from doctor to doctor, having only their symptoms treated while their illnesses get worse."

Pitt Native Is Assigned Here

A Pitt County native with more than 11 years service with the North Carolina Highway Patrol has been assigned to duty with the Highway Patrol here, according to Troop A Commander Capt. John T. Jenkins.

Trooper Kenneth R. Ross was reassigned to Pitt County last month, Capt. Jenkins said.

Ross, a Winterville native, graduated from Winterville High School and served four years in the U.S. Navy—including three tours in Europe as a fire control technician aboard a heavy cruiser. He then worked for a Greenville car dealer for a year before joining the Highway Patrol in February, 1964.

KENNETH R. ROSS

After joining the Patrol, Ross was first assigned to Warsaw, then later transferred to Goldsboro where he was assigned until last month.

Ross, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Ross of Winterville is married to the former Phyllis Paramore of Black Jack, and the couple has two daughters, Deana, 9 and Kenya, 3.

Ross's brother, Douglas Ross, is a sergeant with the Greenville Police Department and his first

Ten Are Chosen For Boys State

Ten rising seniors from high schools in Pitt County and Greenville have been selected to attend the American Legion Boys' State to be held at Wake Forest University from June 8-14. Announcement of the ten has been made by Phil L. Goodson, Jr., Commander of American Legion Post No. 39.

The ten candidates, sponsored by Post No. 39, were selected from Rose, North Pitt and D.H. Conley High Schools. They are:

- Rose High School — Clayton Lyle Shugart, Mike Belton, Robert S. Wilkerson, Edward Connolly and Joseph Godette;
- North Pitt High School — Paul A. James, Joseph Nelson and Thomas E. Glisson.
- D.H. Conley High School — Michael W. Clendenen and Michael J. McClanahan.

The ten Pitt County students will be leaving Sunday for the Wake Forest campus at Winston-Salem and will return on Saturday, June 14.

Lester E. Adams is Post No. 39 chairman of the Boys' State Committee and has coordinated arrangements between the post and the schools in the selection of candidates for Boys' State.

Objects To Restriction

Chancellor Leo Jenkins of East Carolina University says he favors eliminating a University of North Carolina policy which limits political activity by administrators.

Jenkins, frequently mentioned as a possible Democratic candidate for governor, said Tuesday he will ask that the UNC policy be changed.

"I don't think it's good for the state," he said at a news conference.

Without commenting on his personal political ambitions, Jenkins said he did not think a person should be restricted from public office because of his position.

"We encourage our professors and students to become deeply involved in government. This is the American way," he said.

The UNC policy was passed by the board of governors last summer.

Her Rescuer Is Unidentified

An unidentified man may have saved the life of a 58-year-old Greenville woman who jumped from the Greene Street Bridge into the Tar River early yesterday, afternoon Police Chief Glenn Cannon said.

According to Cannon, Mrs. Mildred Stewart of Riverview Estates jumped from the bridge into the river about 2:04 p.m. in an apparent suicide attempt. An unidentified man jumped in and brought her to safety.

Cannon said Mrs. Stewart was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital by the Greenville Rescue Squad, but noted that she did not appear to be injured.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed in a continued show of uncertainty today. The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down a fraction, while 7 took a 4-3 lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

It appeared the market was still meeting with resistance near the 850 level in the Dow — an area from which it has turned back on several occasions recently.

In the economic news, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon told a congressional committee that the recession was ending. But he added that signs of a rebound "will not quickly be evident in all of the measures of economic activity."

Today's prices included Pennzoil, up ¼ at 22½; Microdot, up ½ at 13¾; International Paper, off ¼ at 49½, and U.S. Steel, down ½ at 58½.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average slipped .47 to 846.14 while most other indicators registered modest gains.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose .17 to 49.35.

Advances outnumbered declines by about an 8-5 margin on the Big Board in turnover of 26.56 million shares.

The American Stock Exchange market value index was up .11 at 89.61.

Fifteen retiring school employees were also honored by the board and presented certificates for their years of service to the Pitt County school system.

Those teachers retiring as of June 30 include: Clinton Winslow, Wyatt Highsmith and Annie L. Whitford from A. G. Cox; Elizabeth Edwards and Lurlene Wheelers from Farmville Central; Wilma Lewis Smith, Frances Stokes Porter and Sarah Perry from Chicod; Margaret Lewis Speight from Sam D. Bundy; Hilda Carson from North Pitt; Mary E. Mayo from Falkland; Paul Bradley from Ayden-Grifton; Edwena Whitley from Grifton.

Others retiring include Mrs. Edna Whichard, a lunchroom program employee at Chicod and James Gray, building custodian at Chicod.

Gray came to the board meeting armed with a tool of his trade—a shovel.

The purple and gold shovel was inscribed with the note: "To warm the bodies and hearts of Kids," and indicated that he has shoveled "9,270,000 pounds of coal" into the furnace at the Chicod School to keep it warm for the students there during the 45 years he has worked there.

In other business yesterday, Mayhew Buck was approved by the board to serve the unexpired term on the Grimesland Advisory Council of Robert Wilson who has resigned; and tabled action until August on a request by several local school advisory councils that the Board reconsider the school calendar adopted in May. The concern expressed was that of the early opening of school when possibly there will be a need for students to work on farms.

The school board also tabled action on a request by principal Bill Wiggins and the Ayden-Grifton Advisory Council that final examinations for seniors with a 93 average for the year be dropped.

The board acknowledged the selection of Mrs. Helen McClanahan, a member of the D. H. Conley faculty, as "Teacher of the Year in Pitt County," and approved the appointment of Joshua Potter, who has served as interim principal, as principal at the Falkland Elementary School.

William Moore, on leave as principal for the past year, has resigned.

No action was taken on a request by representatives from the Ayden-Grifton area that a music education—band program be started in the Ayden-Grifton area.

Bill Mahoney—saying he represented more than 200 parents in the area—suggested that an instructor be hired to conduct a music education program that would include music instruction in grades four through eight in the Ayden-Grifton area as well as a music and band program at the Ayden-Grifton High School.

He said surrounding counties and the Greenville City Schools have active programs in music and indicated that parents in the Ayden-Grifton would like a similar program.

County Superintendent Arthur S. Alford told Mahoney the board is aware of "the differences that exist between the city and county schools" and said "if we had the same money, we could do the same..."

Virginia Electric & Power Company's fossil fuel charge will be less in June than originally anticipated, according to George Reel, customer service supervisor for Greenville Utilities Commission.

Reel said that the fossil fuel charge for June will be $0.00755 per kilowatt-hour, which is less than the May charge of $0.00959. The charge for June is slightly higher than the June charge of a year ago which was $0.00632.

According to Reel, the continual decline over the past few months in the fossil fuel charge is due entirely to the continued operation of the nuclear power units at Surry, Va. During the month of April, he noted, only 50 per cent of generation of Veeco's system came from oil and coal, while last winter over 90 per cent of its power was generated from oil and coal.

The spokesman said, however, that as the summer load begins Thursday of each month at 2:00 p.m. at Elm Street Center.

Stuart Aronson will direct the program again this year. Beginning time is 7:00 p.m. with the first presentation is on June 8. Entertainment will include a Jazz Quartet, The Cherry Point Marine Band, The Flatland Family Band, a Folk Music Concert and a Nostalgia Night.

Beginning dates are June 9, 9:30 a.m. at Elm Street for the youth and June 9, 7:00 p.m. at Elm Street for adults. Classes will be taught by Coach Rick Bankston.

For information about any of these programs, call the Recreation Department at 752-4137, ext. 220.

HOLDING SERVICES

Elder Fred Donaldson Jr. from Rochester, N.Y. will render the services at Christian Bell Study Hall on Brown St. each night this week at 8:00 p.m. The pastor, E. M. Davis invites all to attend.

to build throughout Veeco's system, coal and oil fired units will be brought back into operation and some increase in the fossil fuel charge should be evident by July or August.

If a nuclear unit has to be taken out of service for repairs, this would automatically require more coal and oil fired units to be put back into production, Reel added, resulting in higher fossil fuel charges.

Hogan Believes Jack Could Win The Slam

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ben Hogan is now a businessman, but the game of golf is closest to his heart. In the second of a three-part series based on a lengthy interview, he discusses the state of the game and its future.

HOGAN TODAY—Ben Hogan, one of golf's greatest shot-makers who retired from competition four years ago, is shown as he looks today as a 62-year-old businessman. (AP Wirephoto)

By DEENE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Ben Hogan leaned forward for eye-to-eye contact with his visitor to make certain there would be no misunderstanding on what he was about to say. "I'm glad Jack Nicklaus is breaking my records because he is a superb golfer," Hogan said. "What a credit to the game of golf this man is. He has built his game since he was a child. "He has a strong body and is a vicious competitor. And, of course, there is in his concentration. You only get that through one thing — practice." Hogan relaxed back in his leather office chair. Then he added, of Nicklaus, "He's a very nice man."

The once-feared Texas Hawk doesn't hand out compliments just because they look nice in print. And when he speaks of the game he loves and once dominated, he speaks precisely. His comments on Nicklaus were his first public statements on the man who dominates the game today.

Hogan, 62, now directs his golf equipment company and presides over construction of a new golf course. He has given up competitive golf. As a subject, Nicklaus was a natural because Hogan has come closer than any other man to winning professional golf's "Grand Slam." Nicklaus, who recently won the Masters and has 15 major titles, is considered the biggest threat today to accomplish the Slam, in what would be the greatest feat ever in golf. Hogan said the Slam will be made. "Somebody will surely do it, and I hope they do, because it would be a great thing for the game."

Hogan is the only player ever to win in one year three of the four championships which make up the Grand Slam, and he didn't play in the fourth — the PGA — in 1953 because of his injured knee, suffered in a car accident that almost claimed his life.

QUICK RICHES
LIVONIA, Mich. (UPI) — The seventh race trifecta at Detroit Race Course on May 8, 1975 paid $21,823.40. Fan Tu (No. 6) won the race and paid $70.80 in the straight mutuels. In a trifecta, bettors must pick the exact 1-2-3 order of finish, and only two winning tickets were sold on the 6-8-4 combination.

"Nicklaus, of course, is very capable of winning the Slam," said Hogan, who stepped out of competitive golf four years ago.

"Golf must have its leaders to draw the imagination of the public. Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller, Lee Trevino and Tom Weiskopf—players like that—to stimulate interest like Arnold Palmer in the 1960s."

Besides Nicklaus, Hogan is impressed with fellow Texan Lee Trevino. Trevino is capable of record-shattering binges, Hogan said, because "he knows what he's doing...he came from a caddy yard."

Asked how he believes he could do against golf's current stars if he were in his prime, Hogan pondered a moment, then said:

"I think I could make a living."

Grid Loop Meeting

HENDERSONVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A new conference, for football only, is in the works for colleges in the Carolinas and Tennessee.

Presidents of eight schools met here Tuesday and agreed to seek it, subject to administrative approval by each college.

Represented were Mars Hill, Elon, Catawba, Lenoir Rhyne and Gardner-Webb of North Carolina, Newberry and Presbyterian of South Carolina, and Carson-Newman of Tennessee.

The presidents set July 1 as the deadline for accepting or rejecting the proposal.

Dr. Fred Bentley, president of Mars Hill College, was elected interim chairman of the proposed conference. He said it would allow a school 26 football grants for 1976-77 and 25 for the following season. The conference basically would observe rules of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, the NAIA, he added.

Gulford, a member of the present Carolinas Conference, had declined an invitation to be represented at Tuesday's meeting, but was invited to join the proposed league.

The Carolinas Conference voted last December to cut football grants to 18 from the present 26, effective with the 1976-1977 school year. Basketball grants also will be trimmed, to 7½ from 9.

Mars Hill, Elon and Catawba are members of the Carolina Conference. Lenoir Rhyne, Newberry and Presbyterian are former members. Carson-Newman and Gardner-Webb are independents.

Pirates Open Summer Slate

East Carolina University and the University of North Carolina will open the 1975 North Carolina Collegiate Summer Baseball League season here with a 7:30 p.m. contest Saturday at Harrington Field.

The opener will be the first of 80 regular-season games in the five-team league. ECU and the Tar Heels have not faced each other in nearly two years, but Pirate head coach George Williams said that rivalry between Southern Conference and Atlantic Coast Conference schools will surface, whatever the game and whenever the game is played.

"I can't think of a better way to start the season in Greenville except with UNC," said Williams. "We would like to beat them any time of the year."

Williams noted that the Tar Heels wouldn't be the only team in the league that will give the Pirates problems.

"Louisburg just finished third nationally in the junior college tournament," said Williams. "And UNC-Wilmington is competing in the NAIA finals. Plus we figure that Methodist has one of the best teams it has had in years. In short, it will be a tough 32-game regular season, not to mention the playoffs to whoever gets there."

Williams will field a team that has seven starters returning from the 17-12 team of the spring. Gone will be Ron Staggs, Bobby Harrison, super-sub Jack Elkins and senior lefthander Steve Herring. Returning will be Howard McCullough (c), Steve Bryant (2b), Ken Gentry (ss), Geoff Beaston (3b), Glenn Card (cf), Addison Bass (rf-dh) and Pete Paradossi (dh-2b). Pitching will be Bob Feeney, Terry Durham, Joe Heavner, Mike Weaver and most notably Dean Reavis, who sported a 6-2 regular-season mark.

Firefighters, Ayden-Grifton Take Victories

Ayden-Grifton remained unbeaten in the Senior Babe Ruth League last night, while the Firefighters won their second game in three starts.

Ayden-Grifton downed University Kiwanis, 8-4 while the Firefighters took a 14-3 decision over Taff Office.

A-G is now 2-0 on the year, while Firefighters are 2-1. Both Taff and University Kiwanis are 1-2.

In the game played at Ayden-Grifton, A-G broke into the lead in the first inning, scoring all they were to need as five runs came in. Ricky Haywood led off, reaching on an error. Randy Nelson walked and Vern Davenport's double scored both runners. Steve Noble walked and Chris Riggs doubled, driving in both Davenport and Noble. Dennis Carter singled to score Riggs.

It stayed that way until the fifth inning, when Ayden-Grifton added three more runs for an 8-0 lead. Davenport was hit by a pitch and Noble singled. Riggs hit a sacrifice fly to score Davenport. Sammy Whitehurst walked and Timmy Shadle was hit by a pitch loading the bases.

A wild pitch brought Noble in, and Al Butts walked. Butts was then caught off first and while in a rundown, Whitehurst scored.

The Kiwanis came up with four runs in the sixth. McLawhorn walked and Baker singled. Harrell reached on an error, filling the bases. Causey was safe on an error, scoring McLawhorn and Baker. Roberson then singled to score both Harrell and Causey.

At Greenville, the Firefighters pushed over one in the top of the first. Randy Adams reached on a fielder's choice and stole second. He scored on Keith Gould's single.

The Firefighters added three more in the third. Max Joyner reached on an error and stole second. Greg Coward walked as did Joey Baggett. Adams reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Joyner, but getting Coward at third. Gould reached on an error, scoring Baggett, and Adams stole home.

Taff broke the ice with one in the fourth. Leavy Brock singled and Jimmy Peszko reached on an error, allowing Brock to come around.

The Firemen picked up seven more in the fifth. Adams was safe on an error, and came around when a pickoff play was errored. Gould walked and took second on an error. Eugene Forrest singled and Randy Edens reached on a fielder's choice, getting Forrest at second, but scoring Gould. Edens then stole both second and third. Donnie Cox walked, as did Joyner. Coward reached on an error, scoring Edens as Cox. Baggett walked and Adams singled in both Joyner and Coward. Baggett came in with the final run on an error.

In the seventh, three more Firefighters scored. Gene Pittman walked and moved up on an error. Brian Forrest reached on another error, scoring Pittman. Baggett doubled in Forrest and he scored on Gould's hit.

Taff picked up two more in their half of the seventh. Mell Boyd singled and Jimmy Buck got a hit by score him. Buck stole both second and third, scoring on a balk.

North Bumcombe, Williamston Meeting For State 3-A Crown

WILLIAMSTON—Williamston High School, a surprising finalist, will play host to North Bumcombe High School in the best-of-three series for the 3-A state baseball title starting Thursday.

The Thursday and Friday game at the Williamston field, will begin at 8 p.m. Saturday's game, if needed, is tentatively set for 2 p.m., but may be played at night also.

"I don't know a thing about North Bumcombe," Williamston Coach Dink Mills said. "I've heard that they have a couple of real good pitchers that Appalachian State University is going to sign. But aside from that, I'm in the dark."

Mills admits that he is somewhat surprised to see his Tigers in the 3-A finals. "Back at the start of the year, I said several times that it would be an act of God if we won another conference championship. "We had lost several key players at key positions, and I just didn't think the people we had to fill their shoes could do a good enough job, but they have surprised me."

Mills noted that three positions that had to be filled were catching, second base and shortstop. "I just didn't think we could have the people there to do the defensive job we needed, especially since we had very little experience."

The coach also felt that the hitting of the Tigers would be weak. "I thought we'd have good pitching, but I figured that we'd have to win on that." The hitting has been strong, however.

The pitching hasn't been a problem although it did take a dip in midseason. But generally it has been strong as the Tigers worked their way to an 18-4 season. Three of their four losses were by one run.

"Butch Davis (left field) and Tim Hardison (right field) have really hit well for us, especially in the stretch," Mills said. Davis has had eight hits in the playoffs, so far, while Hardison is the leading hitter on the team, and is just a sophomore.

"I've also been pleased with the play of George Brown (third base). At the start of the year, I figured that we'd been weak both in hitting and in fielding."

but he's proven me wrong on both counts."

Greg Roberson, who moved into the shortstop position, and Ken Herman, who gained the second base spot, both have played "excellently," Mills said. Mike Koesy, who finally took over at catcher, has done a "credible job."

"I guess it all just fell together," Mills said. "It surprised me, but I'm very pleased about it."

He's also been pleased with the hurling of Roy Lilley, who hasn't given up an earned run in the past 30 innings. "He's just phenomenal," Mills said.

Needless to say, Lilley will be on the mound tomorrow night for the first game of the series.

Graniteers Rip Big Value Drugs

The Graniteers romped to a 20-5 victory over Big Value Drugs yesterday in the Tar Heel Little League. The Graniteers now post a 5-4 record, while Big Value has yet to win in nine starts.

The Graniteers pushed over five runs in the first inning to take the lead for good. Lance Searle reached on an error, as did Steve Holloman. Mike James singled in Searle and Jeff James reached on a fielder's choice, loading the bases. Jamie Byrd then hit a grand-slam home run for the 5-0 lead.

Big Value came up with one in its half of the frame. Bert Singleton reached on an error and Lloyd Jackson singled. A passed ball moved Singleton up, and he scored when Danny Kelly singled.

The Graniteers got two more in the second. Searle singled and Holloman got a hit. Both moved up on a passed ball and Mike James' out brought in Searle. An error let Holloman score.

Big Value got one in the third, that on a Jackson home run with none on.

The Graniteers got one in the fourth. Mike James doubled, took third on a wild pitch and scored on Jeff James' double.

Big Value also got one in the fourth. Emmett Walsh singled and Singleton got a hit. Jackson reached on an error, and another miscue let Walsh score.

The Graniteers, already leading 8-3, put it away with 12 big runs in the fifth. Mike Fuller led off with a single and moved up on a passed ball and an error. Bubba Briley walked and Searle was safe on a fielder's choice, loading the bases. Holloman reached on an error, scoring Fuller. Mike James singled in Briley, and Jeff James got a hit to score Searle. Byrd singled in Holloman and an error let Mike James score. Mike Tucker doubled to score both Jeff James and Byrd and Fuller walked. Art Pittman also walked, and Searle reached on an error, scoring Tucker and Fuller. Holloman ended the Graniteer scoring with a three-run homer.

Big Value finished its scoring with one in the fifth. Tony Burroughs singled and scored when Walsh slapped a home run.

Confused Reed Hurls A Victory

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Ron Reed didn't know where he was going ... but he certainly had the right direction on his pitches.

Reed, a longtime member of the Atlanta Braves, started against his old teammates Tuesday night as a member of the St. Louis Cardinals and admittedly almost walked into the wrong dugout by sheer force of habit.

But he got straightened out after a while, and so did his pitches, as he led the Cardinals to a 4-2 victory.

"A couple of times after the third inning I started toward the Atlanta dugout," Reed said. "Then I said, 'Wait a minute. You're wearing the white uniform tonight.'"

Reed, 5-5, who was acquired last week by the Cardinals, permitted the Braves 11 hits and two unearned runs before getting last-out relief help from Al Hrabosky.

In the other National League games, it was: Chicago 6, San Francisco 5 in 10 innings; Philadelphia 12, San Diego 1; Cincinnati 8, Pittsburgh 4; Los Angeles 6, Montreal 5 and New York 4, Houston 3.

Ron Fairly's seventh-inning homer triggered a three-run rally that helped Reed beat his ex-mates. The Cardinals, held to four hits through six innings, erupted as Fairly tagged Atlanta starter Buzz Capra, 4-7, for his second home run of the season.

Luis Melendez followed with a triple to the wall in right-center field, Ken Reitz doubled home Melendez and Reitz scored on Biff Pocaroba's error at home to cap the rally.

Cubs 6, Giants 5
Bill Madlock, who tied the score with a leadoff home run in the ninth inning, greeted reliever Dave Heaverlo with a run-scoring double in the 10th to lead Chicago past San Francisco. Madlock's game-winning hit scored Don Kessinger, who had walked and moved to second base on a sacrifice.

Phillies 12, Padres 1
Mike Schmidt and Greg Luzinski tagged a pair of home runs and drove in nine runs between them as Philadelphia beat San Diego.

"This is something we've been waiting for — a bust-out," said Luzinski, who knocked in four runs and boosted his home run total to 10 for the season.

"I feel like I'm the Mike Schmidt of last year," said Schmidt, whose 36 homers led the majors in 1974. Schmidt, shaking an early slump, has been on a hitting rampage of late and Tuesday night's homers were his eighth and ninth of the year.

Reds 8, Pirates 4
Joe Morgan belted a bases-loaded triple in the fourth inning to lead Cincinnati and Gary Nolan over Pittsburgh.

Dodgers 6, Expos 5
Dave Lopes' two-run double in the eighth inning provided the winning runs as Los Angeles' Don Sutton became the National League's first 10-game winner with his victory over Montreal.

Mets 4, Astros 3
Dave Kingman walloped a three-run homer and Bob Apodaca provided sparkling relief work to help New York beat Houston.

Kiwanis Falls To R.C. Cola

R. C. Cola held off the Kiwanis yesterday to take a 10-8 victory in the North State Little League. The win left R. C. with a 4-5 record, while the Kiwanis are now 0-9.

The Kiwanis scored a run in the first inning. Spencer Mayo singled and John Parnell walked. Both moved up on a wild pitch and Eric Lee walked, loading them up. Jeff Simpson walked, forcing in Mayo.

But R. C. came roaring back with seven runs in the bottom of the first. Dwayne Fisher singled and Chris Joyner walked. Doug Berry walked, loading the bases. Tracy Mills walked, scoring Fisher. A wild pitch scored Joyner, and Stacy Mills walked, reloading the bases. Vince Hankins singled in Berry, and an error let Tracy Mills score. A wild pitch let Stacy Mills across, and an error scored Hankins. William Rhodes singled and moved up on an error. He was wild pitched around for the 7-1 lead.

The Kiwanis came back with five runs in the second. Mayo singled and Parnell walked, as did Lee. Tom Brown was hit by a pitch, scoring Mayo. Grant Stackhouse doubled in both Parnell and Lee, and an error let Brown score. Another miscue scored Stackhouse.

R. C. added two in the second. Tracy Mills singled and was wild pitched to third. Stacy Mills brought him home when he reached on a two-base error. He scored on Hankins' double, making it 9-6.

The final R. C. run came over in the fifth. Jeff Wilson was hit by a pitch and scored on Fisher's double.

The Kiwanis picked up two in the sixth. Stackhouse reached on an error and Mike Thurber walked. David Welborn reached on an error and Jay Whitehurst's double scored both runners.

An error in the scorebook Saturday caused R. C.'s Tracy Mills to be credited with five innings of pitching and Dwayne Fisher with one inning. Mills actually pitched three perfect innings, then ran out of eligibility for the week. Fisher came on to pitch two hitless innings before being tagged for the loss.

The scorebook was corrected yesterday.

Knicks Taking On Rest Of NBA

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The New York Knicks take on the rest of the National Basketball Association today. "It kind of looks that way," said Bill Russell, coach and general manager of the Seattle SuperSonics, when asked if there's a united front against the Knicks.

New York's signing last week of American Basketball Association star George McGinnis has the other 17 NBA clubs stirred up, particularly the Philadelphia 76ers who hold NBA draft rights to the big forward.

"It could ruin the league," said Coach Larry Costello of the Milwaukee Bucks.

The NBA's 18-man Board of Governors, composed of owners or their representatives, opened a two-day meeting today. The McGinnis issue is expected to be taken up Thursday.

The league's coaches and general managers met Tuesday, with the general managers adopting a resolution urging new NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien to take "strong and decisive action" against New York. The coaches voted in support of the resolution.

"We were just putting in our two cents worth," said Coach Bill Van Breda Kolff of New Orleans. "But the vote was 17 to 1."

in the owners' meeting, with Philadelphia's Irv Kosloff pressing for action against the Knicks which presumably would include the league refusing to recognize the signing of McGinnis, ABA scoring champion who played four seasons with the Indiana Pacers.

There have been similar cases in the past, with teams signing players on other team's negotiation lists. Another ABA star, Julius Erving, was signed by the Atlanta Hawks and used in two exhibition games in 1972 although the Bucks held NBA rights to negotiate with him.

The Hawks were fined $50,000 by former commissioner Walter Kennedy who refused to approve the contract. But the Hawks reportedly received $400,000 from the New York Nets of the ABA when they gave up Erving in a rare inter-league deal.

Milwaukee's request for compensation from Atlanta is another item on the meeting agenda here.

Moye Inks Buc Pact

Pirate head baseball coach George Williams has announced the signing of Sonny Wooten and Macon Moye to a baseball grants-in-aid for the coming school years.

Wooten, a power-hitting first baseman, is a native of Rocky Mount. He recently was a factor in Louisville College's third-place finish in the national junior college tournament.

Moye, a righthanded-hitting outfielder, has been instrumental in Rose High School advancing to the state 4-A baseball playoffs. He was a three-sport athlete at Rose High, competing in football and basketball as well.

With the graduation of Pirate first baseman Ron Staggs, both should figure prominently in the Pirate plans for 1975 as they have shown to be excellent hitting prospects.

Beltone Still Setting Pace

Beltone continued to pace the Women's Softball League, claiming its ninth straight victory against no defeats last night. Also coming away with wins were Piggly-Wiggly, Little Mint and Coca-Cola.

In the opener, Beltone romped to a 23-2 victory over The Daily Reflector. Beltone pushed over three runs in the first, while the Reflector came back with two.

Beltone then jumped on the Reflector for 10 in the third, including a homer by L. Rouse. They added one in the fourth, three in the fifth, five in the sixth and one in the seventh.

Coca-Cola rolled past Daniel Construction, 11-2, in the second game. Coke pushed over two in the second, and added three in the fourth. One came over in the fifth and five in the sixth. Daniel got one run in the sixth and another in the seventh.

The third game saw Piggly-Wiggly take a 24-0 victory over Burroughs-Wellcome. Piggly-Wiggly pushed over nine runs in the first inning. They added six in the second, with D. Pfeil homering, along with D. Brewer. Nine more came over in the third, with L. Whitehurst hitting a home run.

The final game saw Little Mint take a 14-7 win over Wachovia Bank. Wachovia scored four runs in the first, then came back with three in the second, including a D. Bryant homer. That gave the Bankers a 7-0 lead.

But Coke scored two in the second on D. Garrish's homer, then got one in the third. They added two in the fourth and four in the fifth to take the lead, 9-7. They added five more in the sixth, with C. Nichols homering.

Presenting a program for almost perfect sucker control in '75.

Off-Shoot-T 85 introduces an extraordinary new program for sucker control that is not just improved, but almost perfect. It comes after years of research and testing—and solid data that it works.

Last year, one application of Off-Shoot-T 85 gave you excellent sucker control... excellent leaf quality... and excellent yield. But this special program produces results beyond that, even with an uneven crop.

Here's how it works. Spray Off-Shoot-T 85 in the early button stage. Then apply a second application around 5 to 7 days later. This will help control the suckers that were undeveloped or shielded by the cluster of top leaves at the time of the earlier spraying. What's more, this will also help control any new sucker growth. Top either before or after the second application, and follow in about 10 days with maleic hydrazide.

Result: almost perfect sucker control—and at a cost that's usually less than one application of Off-Shoot-T 85, plus hand "cleanup," plus maleic hydrazide.

Get all the details, as well as an informative new booklet about sucker control, at your local Off-Shoot-T 85 dealer. Look for the special window seal identifying him (shown to the right)—and check the new information center inside. See him today—and order Off-Shoot-T 85.

It's your way to almost perfect sucker control this year.

Contact Lenses Provide Pole With Eye To Go With His Arm

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

Dick Pole, an unheralded right-hander from Trout Creek, Mich., thinks he's found the secret to success in the major leagues.

He's always had the arm and now he's got the eye, too. He's switched to contact lenses.

"I think the contact lenses are a big help because I see the plate much better now," said Pole after pitching Boston past Chicago 4-0 Tuesday night.

Elsewhere in the American League, Kansas City dumped Cleveland 5-2, Milwaukee shaded Oakland 5-4, Baltimore defeated Texas 6-3, New York edged Minnesota 5-4, and Detroit downed California 8-4.

Pole, who donned his recently acquired contacts for the first time Tuesday night, has been on and off, mostly off, with the Red Sox since 1973. He had never pitched a complete game before but, on the strength of his three-hit, eight-strikeout shutout, he appears set in Boston's starting rotation, for a while anyway.

Rookie Jim Rice provided Pole with all the offense he needed by clubbing a three-run homer off Lloyd Allen, 0-1, in the first inning. It was Rice's ninth homer of the season. Juan Beniquez singled home an insurance run in the fifth.

Royals 5, Indians 2
John Mayberry knocked in two runs with a homer and single and Al Cowens contributed a two-run single as Kansas City made it 10 victories in the last 11 games. Dennis Leonard, 2-1, won it with a six-hitter and Fritz Peterson, 4-5, lost it.

Brewers 5, A's 4
Pedro Garcia hit a two-run double and John Briggs raced home with the game-winner on a wild pitch by Richard Todd in the sixth for Milwaukee. Reggie Jackson homered for the A's who dropped out of first, one-half game behind Kansas City, in the AL West.

Orioles 6, Rangers 3
Dave Duncan backed the nine-hit pitching of Mike Torrez with a three-run homer and Tommie Davis and Lee May added run-scoring singles for Baltimore. Torrez, 6-3, picked up his first win since May 14. The Rangers, who lost for the ninth time in 10 games, played without disgruntled outfielder Willie Davis, who never showed up for the game.

Yankees 5, Twins 4
Bobby Bonds blasted his 12th homer of the season and Alex Johnson pinch-hit a two-run double in the eighth for New York. Bonds' homer marked the 29th time in his career he has led off with a home run in his team's first at-bat, breaking the major league record he shared with Eddie Yost. Steve Brye and Rod Carew homered for Minnesota.

Tigers 8, Angels 5
Detroit exploded for five runs in the ninth to win it. Bill Freehan and Dan Meyer singled home on run each and Gary Sutherland knocked in two. Willie Horton homered, his 12th, for Detroit and Lee Stanton hit one for California.

NCAA Fears Title IX May Signal End Of Athletics As Now Known

By TOM SEPPY
AP Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — New rules prohibiting discrimination against women in sports may signal the end of intercollegiate programs as they have been known in recent decades, says the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Michael Scott, a Washington attorney representing the NCAA, made the comment Tuesday, immediately after the Ford administration made public its long-awaited and controversial new regulations interpreting Title IX of the 1972 education amendments.

The NCAA's main concern was that the new regulations, which now go to Congress for consideration, do not exempt revenue-producing sports such as football and basketball, as the NCAA sought.

"Excessive revenues from football and basketball at many colleges have defrayed the costs of men's and women's programs in other sports, and regulations which do not make it clear that revenues from a particular sport may first be used in that sport eventually means the erosion of the strength of that sports program and consequent loss of revenue," said Scott.

HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger said the administration considered exempting the money-producing sports from the force of the regulations but rejected the idea, especially since Congress also refused to exempt them by statute last year.

"I can't see anything in the regulations to let them earn less money or not have a sufficient amount to spend on their own purposes," Weinberger told a news conference. "I can't see anything in the provisions to put intercollegiate athletics out of business."

Weinberger said the regulations are written "to eliminate the very evident and obvious discrimination that has taken place against women in athletics over the years, most unconsciously."

"At the same time, we did not want to disrupt the entire pattern of American college life," he added. "We tried to work between these boundary lines," he said.

"I think the legislation will do what it is supposed to do — enhance markedly the opportunities for women in athletics — but it will also allow schools a certain flexibility."

Congress has 45 days to consider the regulations, which go into effect by July 21 if neither the House nor Senate rejects them.

Hearings are expected to be held by a House education subcommittee by the end of the month.

Weinberger said the proposed regulations have one basic requirement: schools must provide equal opportunity for both sexes to participate in intramural, interscholastic and intercollegiate athletics.

Pele Coming Out To Play

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Pele, one of the world's two most famous athletes and considered the best ever to play the game of soccer, will come out of retirement to play in the United States.

Pele, whose worldwide fame is equalled only by that of heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali, informally announced in Brazil Tuesday he has agreed to play for the New York Cosmos of the North American Soccer League. The decision was announced here simultaneously by the Cosmos.

The imminent signing was immediately regaled not only as a major sports coup but a diplomatic accomplishment as well.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, in a telegram to Brazil and Pele, said:

"Should you decide to sign the contract, I am sure your stay here will substantially contribute to closer ties between Brazil and the United States in the field of sports."

The Brazilian newspaper Folha de Sao Paulo bannered the headline: "Kissinger roots for Pele."

It's not a new sensation for the 34-year-old Pele.

He has been feted by heads of state, proclaimed the "King of Soccer" by ardent European soccer fans, made a national commodity by his home country of Brazil, and is regarded as the world's wealthiest athlete after 18 years with the team Santos.

His financial status will be enhanced by the Cosmos, who are offering a contract that will make Pele the highest paid athlete on any team in the world.

Pele says he is not as interested in the money as in "helping soccer to become a popular sport in the United States." But it took a three-year contract with a price tag estimated as high as $7 million to entice him out of a retirement which he had said repeatedly was permanent.

Throughout prolonged talks and wrangling that spanned four years and three continents, the Cosmos steadfastly refused to discuss the financial arrangements that would ultimately lure Pele to the United States.

Pele retired in October, 1974, after scoring a remarkable 1,220 goals in 1,300 games. He is the only player ever to have played on three World Cup championship teams — 1958, 1962 and 1970 — though he refused to come out of retirement for the 1974 World Cup in Frankfurt.

Siderowf Works On His Putting

By NOEL HUGHES
AP Sports Writer

HOYLAKE, England (AP) — Two hours after Dick Siderowf of Westport, Conn., won through to the third round of the British Amateur Golf Championship, the seasoned U.S. Walker Cup star was still practicing on the putting green.

"I've got to get my putts right," said Siderowf, a 37-year-old stockbroker who won the coveted amateur crown two years ago.

"My putts are awful," he moaned as he battered away at a dozen or more balls in front of Hoylake's famous Royal Liverpool Clubhouse.

Siderowf's problem was mirrored in the play of several other American hopefuls as they reached the halfway stage Wednesday over Hoylake's 6,979-yard par-72 layout.

It wasn't the gale wind which threatened to wreck the tournament on the opening day that worried most of the American survivors in the tough match play competition.

And even Jerry Pate, the joint top seed and U.S. Amateur champion who tumbled to defeat in his opening match here, wasn't blaming the weather.

"The wind didn't bother me," said Pate from Pensacola, Fla. "The trouble was I only hit about four decent putts since I got here. Sometimes I hit the ball as if I never played golf before."

An exception to the poor-putting disease was George Burns, a bulky salesman from Port Washington, N.Y., and the other top seed here.

"I didn't hit many fairways, but I putted very well," he said after he moved into the second round with a mighty 8 and 6 win over local player Mike Brabner.

Burns now meets South African Gavin Levenson in the next round.

Siderowf's third-round opponent Wednesday is Findlay Black, an experienced Scottish player.

Some New Touches Added To The Kemper

By KEN ALYTA
Associated Press Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — When the $250,000 Kemper Open Golf Tournament gets under way Thursday the touring professionals will find the same carefully groomed Quail Hollow Country Club course—with some new touches.

The scarcity of rough and traps in the past led to scores well under par.

However, rye grass has been planted around each green, creating a thick rough to catch short shots. Rough in the fairways has been allowed to grow.

More than 300 trees have been moved closer to the fairways on the 7,160-yard, par 72 course. Traps have been added and redesigned.

The 18th hole, formerly without a trap near the green, now is guarded by bunkers on both sides and 20 large trees have been added on the left, some 250 yards from the teeing area.

All this, in theory, should make the course yield fewer scores in the 60s. Jack Crist, greens committee chairman, says, "We're trying to make the course tighter, forcing more careful planning of tee shots."

Tournament director Billy Booe says the rough should be the source of the greatest trouble.

The Charlotte area was pelted by 12.5 inches of rain last month, the wettest May in 89 years. This has helped the growth of the rough.

Bob Menne shot a tournament record 270 last year to tie Jerry Heard, then won a one-hole playoff with a 30-foot birdie putt for the $50,000 top prize.

The pros tore apart the well prepared course, aided by ideal weather and true greens. The 36-hole cut was 142, two under par, the lowest of the year on the pro tour.

Players who completed 72 holes averaged 71.3 strokes. Lee Trevino and Tom Kite each shot a tournament record 64.

The field this year includes 15 of the current top 20 money winners, although the top three—Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller and Tom Weiskopf—are not entered.

U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin, fresh from his Atlanta victory Sunday, is on hand. Others entered include Gene Littler, Al Geiberger, Bruce Crampton, Bob Murphy, Billy Casper, Charles Coody, John Mahaffey, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player.

CBS will televise nationally a portion of the last two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Suffering In Rural Exodus

EDITOR'S NOTE — Africans by the thousands are abandoning mud hut villages for ramshackle city slums, leaving their cattle and farms for urban jobs that often don't materialize.

By LARRY HEINZERLING
Associated Press Writer

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — This seaside capital is an urban jungle and a dramatic example of a major crisis in black Africa — the rural exodus to the cities.

Chaotic traffic conditions, power cuts and water shortages are so serious that some industries have given up relying on public utilities and have built their own power plants and water systems.

"Lagos can't really be as bad as they say it is," insisted the wife of a businessman visiting Nigeria's capital.

A diplomat swished his cocktail, stole a swift glance at the nearest Nigerian 15 feet away and whispered, "It's worse."

A Ford Foundation study has found the city "well on the way to becoming the Calcutta of Africa."

Port facilities are as overloaded as public transportation and the telephone system in this bustling city, fast approaching a population of two million, breaks down continuously.

Most residents live in slums surrounding enclaves of modern homes for the wealthy and new skyscrapers that tower over polluted lagoons.

Destitute thousands ply the streets seeking nonexistent jobs with the government, the city's single largest employer, or with private companies, or as domestics in homes. Schools and hospitals are overtaxed, as are police and fire services.

Most alarming of all, the capital of Africa's most populous nation represents not an exception but the norm for many African cities.

Ironically, black Africa is overwhelmingly rural. Only 26 million — 11 per cent of the estimated 242 million people — live in towns with a population greater than 20,000.

This compares to the world's 30 per cent average, Latin America's 25 to 40 per cent and the more than 55 per cent in the United States and Europe.

But the soaring rate of the urban population's increase in black Africa's 35 nations is by far the highest in the world, averaging 5 to 6 per cent a year.

Lagos and Kinshasa, Zaire — the only black African cities with over one million population — are growing at a staggering rate of 14 per cent a year. So are Abidjan, Ivory Coast; Dakar, Senegal; Accra, Ghana, and Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

A United Nations study describes this rapid urban growth as "exploding cities in unexploding economies." U.N. population projections indicate the total population of black Africa will jump from its present 242 million to 303 million by 1990, 395 million by 1990 and 525 million by 2000.

If the rush to the cities continues, Africa's urban population would increase five times in the next 30 years.

Each year, thousands of Africans abandon their mud hut villages, their farms and their past. They flock to the faraway cities by car, bicycle, train and on foot. They find the thousands who came before them, many illiterate, unemployed and wretchedly poor.

In most cases, the rural exodus is sparked by the push from the squalid villages, where life for many has become intolerable.

Farmers in Senegal, Nigeria, Ghana and Cameroon earn between $60 and $150 a year. In such poverty, wealth is measured in wives or livestock, possibly a transistor radio or, in a good year, a bicycle.

Outside the major towns there is no electricity or running water. The nearest paved road may be miles away. There are no hospitals or schools.

African governments lacking funds, technical know-how and experience seem helpless to stem the tide toward the cities. There are only 60 town planners in all of Nigeria, a nation of 60 million, according to Arthur Ling, president of the Commonwealth Town Planning Institute.

About one-quarter of the Ivory Coast's population of 4.3 million is "foreign Africans" who have emigrated from neighboring countries, mostly Upper Volta and Mali.

Most have descended upon Abidjan, the country's skyscraper capital, to share in the wealth of the so-called "Paris of Africa."

With graceful freeways and modern buildings, Abidjan is one of West Africa's most beautiful and best-planned cities. But the crunch is on.

In 1945 it was a somnolent tropical town of 20,000. Today it is a metropolis of over 500,000 and by 1980 the population is expected to exceed one million.

Africa's political leaders are aware of their urban problems but have few solutions. Trying to improve conditions in city slums is apt to attract additional migrants from the country, they say.

LONG-HAIRED COUNTRY BOY—Charlie Daniels is one of the Southerners that have emerged in rock music in the last few years. (AP Wirephoto)

Southern Rock Gains Strength

By MATT YANCEY
 Associated Press Writer
 NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—
 After years of being ignored by almost all areas of the music industry except country, the south has risen again in the field of rock'n'roll.
 Not that it ever left, really. Elvis Presley and Jerry Lee Lewis, reared on a tradition of blues and country and western, have always stirred enough interest to keep serious rockers aware of their roots.
 But the Southern style of rock found itself taking a back seat to the British groups and the more bizarre and elaborate stage productions of some American bands beginning in the mid '60s.
 A tune by a group out of Atlanta called "Midnight Rider" kindled a new pride among Southerners in their music. Soon afterwards, the rest of the nation's latent hard rockers were on to the Allman Brothers Band.
 Now, the Charlie Daniels Band has put it all in song. The two featured singles from the Mt. Juliet, Tenn., group's latest album are "The South's Gonna Do It Again" and "Long-Haired Country Boy."
 "The old Allman Brothers Band was the flagship of the movement," Daniels says. "They weren't just another super group; they meant something to a lot of people, funky street people."
 At 38, Daniels is emerging in his own right with a style that picks up from bluegrass, folk, Negro spirituals, blues, big-band and country.
 It's not hard to see why. For years he was regarded as one of the top studio fiddlers and guitar pickers in Nashville, recording with Bob Dylan, Ringo Starr, Pete Seegar, Leonard Cohen and Flatt & Scruggs, among others.
 Daniels attributes the revival in Southern music to a new emphasis on getting back to rural roots and the same type of feeling that causes people to identify with George Wallace.
 "We play music like George Wallace makes speeches," Daniels says. "I wouldn't vote for Wallace, but I can understand every word that comes out of his mouth."
 "Ralph Nader's got something important to say, but he'll get on television and speak in such stilted terms that people will turn the channel."
 "People identify with George Wallace because they know what he's talking about. Southern bands are the same; they play basic music that people can understand."
 Daniels' popularity, along with that of other Southern rock acts like the Marshall Tucker Band, Wet Willie, Lynyrd Skynyrd and the Allman Brothers exemplifies a turn away from the more decadent and theatrical. There's no jumping around all over a stage when they put on a show.
 Daniels lives a quiet middle-class, middle-class lifestyle when he's home with his wife and 10-year-old son. Helped by success motivation books, he's reduced from 325 to 250 pounds in the last year.
 "It has to be the music," he says. "I surely ain't a sex symbol."

Loyalty And Courage Hallmark Of Gurkha Soldier

Improved Phone System Given French Priority

By EDWARD GIRARDET
PARIS (UPI) — It can take up to five years and $260 to get a telephone installed in France. Even then it does not mean you can call when you like and where you like.

Thousands of frustrated people are on the waiting lists, and only one household in four has a telephone. Because the system is not yet fully automatic, many persons with telephones spend frustrating hours trying to place long-distance calls.

Painfully aware of the situation, the French government has designated the improvement of the telecommunications system a top priority in the republic's next four-year plan.

The government intends to spend 4.2 billion French francs ($1 billion) on the project in the next two years.

The government installed about 580,000 telephone lines in 1974. It is projecting a total of 12 million lines by 1978, twice the number now in operation.

French communications expert Jacques Collette said, "France has the prospects of becoming one of the world's most advanced countries in telecommunications. The national center for telecommunications studies is experimenting with a highly advanced telephone system. It will just be a matter of time and money before (the telephone company) can expand the network to incorporate the whole of France."

Meanwhile, he said, the trouble is that "the telecommunications system is part of the same administration as the postal service. The postal system runs on a deficit and drains finances from the telecommunications system, which is profit-making."

"The French telephone system is prehistoric," said Hendrick Vollers, an executive of a Paris-based property firm. "You can spend hours phoning the provinces, and even then you might not get a line. It's sometimes simply impossible to ring England."

"The trouble is that the French only recently realized that the telephone is in fact an important business tool. Previously, it was always regarded as a luxury item."

One irate British businessman referred to the French system as "the worst performing telephone network" of the European Common Market countries.

"For a country which aspires to be the technological and industrial leader of Europe, it's a disgrace," he said.

One would-be subscriber, Paul Clair, said, "I have been waiting for three years now. I've even tried to bribe, but I must have picked the wrong guy."

Another resident, Hilal Schwartz, said, "My daughter will probably have to wait five years to get hers."

By HARIHAR KRISHNAN
HONG KONG (UPI) — His creed is Kaphar Hunnu Bhandu Marnu Ramro: it's better to die than be a coward.

An old Indian saying has it that if you have him as a companion, you can face six tigers.

"I have never in my 29 years of military service come across an incident when he failed or betrayed us," a British army colonel said in Hong Kong.

The man so venerated is the Gurkha soldier, whose bravery and loyalty are part of the rich heritage of his native Himalayan kingdom of Nepal, as lofty as the slopes of Mt. Everest where he makes his home.

"If you study their background, you will know why they are so brave and make such excellent soldiers," John Thornton, colonel of the crack 6,500-man British Gurkha Brigade in Hong Kong, said in an interview.

"He is a Himalayan mountain man and lives at a height of between 6,000 and 8,000 feet under the most rigorous and tough living conditions," he said.

Thornton has spent his entire military career training and commanding the Gurkhas of the British army.

"Loyalty and bravery are two things the Gurkha learns from his childhood," he said. "It is this tradition, this tremendous tradition, and the very, very hard life he is accustomed to, that helps him to become an extremely well-disciplined soldier."

Thornton has led Gurkhas in action during the 1947 partition of British India, the Malayan anti-guerrilla campaign, and the Burma reoccupation. He speaks a variety of Nepalese and Indian dialects, including the Gurkhas' Gorkhali.

For 150 years the Gurkhas have served in the British Army and have earned their reputation as one of its finest fighting units.

The Gurkha takes his name from the small principality of Gorkha on the slopes of the Everest, Annapurna and Dhaulagiri ranges of the Himalayas. A Gorkha king conquered most of Nepal in the 18th Century, and his successors grew so powerful they began making incursions into British colonial India to the south.

After peace was made between Britain and the Gurkhas, Britain raised four Gurkha battalions to serve in the East.

During the bloody 1857 Sepoy mutiny in India, Nepal poured in Gurkha reinforcements. At one stage, the Gurkha king himself came to join the ranks.

About 200,000 Gurkhas enlisted in World War I, and there were no fewer than 40 battalions during World War II. In Hong Kong, the Gurkha brigade mans the territory's strategic border with China.

"The most memorable incident of Gurkha loyalty and valor I would like to recall was during the partition of India in 1947," Thornton said. "The Gurkha is a Hindu-Buddhist, but when he was assigned to escort Hindu and Moslem refugees back and forth between India and Pakistan, none of the Gurkhas ever failed us. One day the Gurkha would be escorting Moslem refugees to Pakistan, and the very next day he would be escorting Hindus to India."

The religious rivalry between the Hindus and Moslems was so intense at the time of the partition that nearly a million people on both sides were killed or maimed in the riots.

"The Gurkha was the only one in our Army who never took sides and performed his job with remarkable courage," Thornton said.

Thornton proudly displayed the list 13 of his Gurkhas who have won the coveted Victoria Cross, the equivalent of the U.S. Congressional Medal of Honor.

The latest was won in 1965 by Lance Corporal Rambahadur Limbu, one of Thornton's lieutenants in the Borneo campaign against Indonesian guerrillas who claimed the Malaysian part of the island as their own.

The lengthy citation said Limbu single-handedly saved his wounded companions, carrying them on his shoulders while under intense enemy machine gun fire at point blank range.

Despite the decision to pull out most of its troops east of the Suez, Britain continues to recruit Gurkhas.

In recognition of the Gurkha service to the crown, Britain does out nearly a million dollars annually in pensions to Gurkha veterans. The income has become a main source of foreign exchange for the Himalayan country.

"We are very proud to be working for the British Army," Maj. Harikant Rai, a Gurkha in the Brigade said. "Our Vedas (ancient Hindu scriptures) and our concept of Dharma (Hindu custom) teach us loyalty. We are not big business people, and so we are not dishonest. I joined the force because my relatives were in the Gurkha brigade."

Warrant officer Dhanprasad Chetri said he did not think the Gurkha tradition of joining the British army would change soon.

"My father was in the British Army, and so were my five brothers," he said. "I have one son, and if he wants to join the Army, I will have no objection. That's our tradition."

Introducing Life-Links. Eat them to your heart's content.

Life-Links are not a funny-tasting health food. They're plump. Tender. Delicious. And with their nutritious ingredients, everyone can enjoy them.

Lower in animal fat than hot dogs.

Regular hot dogs contain 28% to 30% animal fat. Life-Links contain less than 5%. And they're prepared with polyunsaturated vegetable oils. So they're better for most people. Even healthy teenagers, who quite often have an unhealthy build-up of fat in the heart's circulation system.

Of course, if you're not 19 anymore, fatty foods may have become a strict "No-No." But doctors will tell you that with Life-Links you can pretend you're a kid again. Enjoy.

Taste like quality hot dogs.

Life-Links are made with lean beef. So they're not greasy. They're not mushy, either. No fillers such as cereal are added.

What we add are spices to make Life-Links taste like the best hot dogs you can buy. Bake them in a casserole. Grill them. Or boil them. Then serve them any way you want.

Cost less than many hot dogs.

Life-Links cost less than many hot dogs. And in value, there's no comparison. Not when you consider how much healthier Life-Links are for your family.

Try Life-Links. It'll do your heart good in more ways than one.

Hodges 'Most Outstanding' In History Class Poll

By DR. H.G. JONES
For the Associated Press
CHAPEL HILL (AP)—History is the study of what was. It attempts to deal with facts, not opinions. Therefore, the history classroom is no place for hero worship or the promotion of personal views. That's why some educators and propagandists want to eliminate history from the schools.

Historians assume that individuals should be free to formulate their own opinions after learning the facts surrounding all sides of an issue. Polling students, therefore, is hardly an acceptable teaching device in history. Still, it was a temptation not to be denied to poll students in a spring semester North Carolina history course at UNC. The course covered the period from 1835 to the present, and the students presumably became familiar with the persons, forces, and events that shaped present-day North Carolina. On the final examination each student was asked to make a nomination for "Outstanding North Carolinian, 1835-1975" and to give a justification for the same.

The results confirmed the validity of the historical method, for they revealed that students indeed think independently—or at least differently—when not indoctrinated. The 38 students nominated 15 different men and one woman as the outstanding Tar Heel of the past 140 years,

Showboat's 10th Year

WILMINGTON, N.C.—The USS North Carolina Battleship Memorial's night-time Sound and Light Spectacular opens its 10th season on Friday, June 6. The outdoor drama, titled "The Immortal Showboat," will continue nightly at 9:00 p.m. through Labor Day.

The famous drama has attracted some quarter million persons to the site of the WWII Memorial since its initial performance in 1965. The spectacle is 70 minutes of sound and light, telling the story of the mighty dreadnought from the time of her keel laying in 1937 to the end of hostilities in the Pacific in 1945.

War-time action is depicted at such locations as the East Solomon Sea, Iwo Jima, and Okinawa. The performance includes simulated air and submarine attacks on the battleship and shore bombardment by her huge 16 inch guns.

During the air attacks, the crack of the close range 20 mm and 40 mm guns join the 5 inch anti-aircraft guns as the crews downed attacking enemy planes.

The sound portion of the show is produced through 170 high fidelity speakers while 370 lights of varying hues and intensities provide the dramatic illumination which enhances the audio presentation.

and many of the justifications were persuasive. Luther H. Hodges was the leader, with nine nominations, followed by Leonidas L. Polk, five; Zebulon B. Vance and William W. Holden, four each; Furnifold M. Simmons, three; and David L. Swain and W. Kerr Scott, two each.

Supporters of Governor Hodges gave weight to his role in bringing industry to the state, establishing the Research Triangle, handling the school integration problem, and serving in the Kennedy-Johnson cabinets. Some students may have been swayed toward Hodges because they were familiar with his presence in Chapel Hill until his death last year.

Polk was supported because of his encouragement of better farming methods as president of the Farmers Alliance and as editor of the "Progressive Farmer," and for leading the farmers' revolt until his death in 1892.

Zebulon B. Vance was nominated because of his courage in upholding state rights against the Confederacy while fighting the Yankees, and for his long and effective service as a United States Senator. Interestingly, Vance's perpetual opponent, William W. Holden, editor and governor, received the same number of votes. A couple of Holden's nominators noted that the question called for the "outstanding" and not necessarily the "favorable" North Carolinian.

Those who nominated Senator Simmons did so because of his influence rather than their admiration for him. Simmons was perhaps the most powerful single political leader in North Carolina for three decades.

David L. Swain, governor from 1832 to 1835 and later president of UNC, was given two votes by those crediting him with stimulating interest and pride in North Carolina history and literature.

Two votes also went to Gov. W. Kerr Scott for his role in building schools and roads, thus bringing rural areas into the mainstream of the state, and for "lighting fires" under power and telephone companies to persuade them to extend service to rural areas.

multiple votes, eight men each received a single nomination as outstanding North Carolinian of the period: Jonathan Worth (governor 1865-1868); Charles B. Aycock (governor 1901-1905); Terry Sanford (governor 1961-1965); Dan K. Moore (governor 1965-1969); James B. Duke (industrialist); Frank P. Graham (U.S. senator, university president, and UN mediator); William C. Friday (president of UNC); and Sonny Jurgensen (Washington Redskins quarterback). The sole woman nominee was Cornelia Phillips Spencer, the outspoken Chapel Hill author who helped reopen the university following the Reconstruction era.

The wide variety of opinions concerning outstanding North Carolinians is encouraging evidence that students are again beginning to think for themselves.

Incidentally, the answer to the question did not affect a student's grade.

When this hand came up in a team game, both South and East displayed exemplary technique. Unfortunately for one team, the good play occurred at different tables, and their opponents walked off with a huge gain and the match.

After he received jump support for his spade suit, South felt he could afford to show a good hand by cue-bidding the opponents' suit. North needed no further spur to blast into a spade slam.

West led a low heart and declarer made a good play when he ducked in his hand. (Had he taken the ace and drawn trumps, he would have come to no more than eleven tricks when the clubs failed to break 3-2.) East's ten won and he returned the

DRINKING MORE

THE HAGUE (UPI) — The Central Statistics Office said per head of population the Dutch drank 160 pints of beer, 22 pints of wine and 5.8 pints of spirits last year. Compared with 10 years ago, beer consumption in 1974 rose by 116 per cent, wine consumption by 260 per cent and spirits consumption by 86 per cent, the office said.

suit to declarer's ace.

The ace and queen of trumps were cashed, and declarer crossed to the queen of clubs and ruffed dummy's remaining heart. Now he led a club to dummy's king, and when East showed out, declarer's foresight was rewarded. He ruffed a club to set up the suit, entered dummy with a diamond ruff and drew the remaining trump. Now all of dummy's clubs were good, and the slam rolled home.

A low heart was also the opening lead at the other table, and here, too, declarer allowed East's ten to win the first trick. At this table, however, East shifted to the king of diamonds, with killing effect. Declarer was forced to ruff in dummy, and now he could no longer handle the 4-1 club break because his entry to dummy had been dislodged prematurely. His only hope was that both trumps and clubs would break 3-2, so he tried three rounds of trumps and then started on clubs. When West turned up with a club stopper, declarer had to be satisfied with only nine tricks—down three. The successful declarer's side gained 1,130 points, or 15 International Match Points.

Miami Butters Up Its Tourist Trade

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Taxi-drivers, waitresses and maids in this vacation mecca have been scolded for biting the hand that feeds them.

So the city has kicked off a massive campaign to remind them, "Tourists are our bread and butter — butter 'em up."

Six chorus girls in cutaway coats and bowlers strutted Tuesday as a blonde in a skimpy outfit sang "We're a happy little island" to the tune of Yankee Doodle Dandy.

A city policeman, a bus driver and a hotel executive paraded with flags of the United States, Florida and Miami Beach — freshly christened, "The happiest island in the world."

"If enough tourists stop coming, we'll have to move back to New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland ..." warned the narrator of a slide presentation on the courtesy campaign.

Mayor Harold Rosen said the campaign was triggered by complaints from convention delegates who reported rudeness in the resort's hotels, restaurants and taxicabs.

"We in Miami Beach are first class all the way, and we want to be sure our attitude is first class too," Rosen told more than 300 guests at the plush Fontainebleau Hotel.

Hotel executives estimate conventioners spend more than $47 million each year on the beach.

The campaign will include signs, posters, decals and the slide show, which will be used in a series of training seminars for resort employees. National advertisements are planned to entice people to visit.

Confided one airline executive, "You know, I feel like I'm at a General Motors sales rally."

An Increasing Peanut Problem

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Weed problems cost Texas peanut farmers $6 million last year, the Texas A&M University Agricultural Experiment Station reports.

Weeds caused lower yields, lower quality and higher expenditures for control efforts, the station reported.

Dr. Morris Merkle of the station said two species of nutsedge grass, in particular, are becoming problems in peanut farms throughout Texas.

"Verman is the only chemical effective against nutsedge that has Environmental Protection Agency clearance for use in peanuts," Merkle said.

The station has an extensive research program under way to provide additional control measures for nutsedge, Merkle said.

Beautification Bid Has Farmville Board's Okay

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
FARMVILLE—The bid of David Starling Nursery for beautification of the municipal parking lot at the corner of Wilson and Contentnea Streets here was approved by Town Commissioners here last night. Starling's bid was $2,650. Billy Wooten of the Farmville Recreation Department appeared asking the Commissioners to allow $250 extra for Fourth of July fireworks. The display this year will cost $250, he said, but hopefully some of the cost will be defrayed by the sale of hotdogs and soft drinks. Mayor Will Joyner appointed Commissioner Durwood Little as Farmville's representative to the Mid-East Commission and Adam Corbett as the town's Civil Defense director. Town Administrator W. A. Martin read a letter from the State Department of Transportation saying that the state will participate in the improvement of Main and Wilson Street here to the extent of $200,000. They said the state would not be able to draw up plans until February and suggested that the town go ahead and have it done. The Commissioners decided to ask Town Engineer Jack McDavid to draw specifications which will be submitted to the state for approval as soon as possible. It was decided that charges for the opening of graves by town employees will be increased from $50 to $60, with an extra $5 charge for those done Saturday afternoons, Sundays, and holidays. Commissioner Leroy Redden expressed concern for the children who must cross Main Street near Bennett Park, and asked that some kind of light or sign be erected. Administrator Martin said the town has learned that it must not erect any sign on a state-maintained street, but said he has contacted Gerald England of the Department of Transportation, who has agreed to check traffic volume in the area and make recommendations for warnings according to what he learns. The Commissioners expressed concern for the health of Police Chief Carl Tanner who has been out of work due to back trouble.

The Pony Express, speeding the mail across country by fast horses, was started in 1860 and its route was from Sacramento to St. Louis. It ended in 1861.

Avers N.C. Air Cleaner

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's air is cleaner than it was five years ago because of a stepped up pollution abatement program. James E. Harrington, state secretary of natural and economic resources, said Tuesday that 2,700 industries, companies and public concerns have spent nearly one quarter of a billion dollars since 1970 to install equipment to protect the air. Harrington said in a prepared statement that about 90 per cent of North Carolina's sources of air emissions are in compliance with federal standards. Many of the remaining sources are not in compliance, he said, because of delays in delivery of equipment, and technological problems. "We expect nearly all of the remaining sources to be in compliance within a year," Harrington stated. Automobile pollution is still a major area of concern, he said, adding: "In some of our metropolitan areas, that type of pollution at times exceeds the federal standards. But those emissions are subject to Environmental Protection Agency standards on new cars. We are confident that as the older models go out of service, the level of pollution should decrease automatically." In 1497 Portugal expelled Jews who refused Catholic conversion.

Child Killed By Lightning

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A 9-year-old girl whose mother tried in vain to reach her at school and tell her to wait out an electrical storm was killed by lightning while walking home, officials say. "All she kept getting was a busy signal," said a neighbor of Mrs. William Forester's efforts to reach her daughter, Stephanie, during the Tuesday storm. "She wanted Stephanie to stay after finishing safety patrol duty." Stephanie had put up her flags and was about a block from school when she was hit. Witnesses said an unidentified telephone workman tried in vain to revive her. Mary Wallace, who lives near the school, said her husband, Jim, reached the scene shortly after the telephone workman. "She was just lying there with her little tennis shoes knocked off on the ground beside her," said Mrs. Wallace. "The young man was working on her." "Tears were in his eyes and when he couldn't get her heart started again he looked up and said: 'Mister, I tried and tried. I sure tried.'" "Then he lay down and cried." High man in the circus doesn't mean "the boss" but is the man who winds up on top of the human pyramid.

Britons Cool To European Unity Talk

By RICHARD C. LONGWORTH BRUSSELS (UPI) — Even if Britain stays in the Common Market, it will still shy away from European unity.

This warning by one of the pro-Europeans in the British government, Minister of State Roy Hattersley, jibes with caveats by British and other diplomats in Brussels against rosy assumptions that the British referendum will end Europe's problems with London.

Even British politicians who favor continued British membership in the Common Market generally oppose anything resembling a "United States of Europe."

Bitterness generated by the referendum campaign is not expected to make Britons more Europe-minded, whatever the outcome.

The national referendum June 5 will decide whether Britain, which joined the Common Market two years ago, stays in or gets out. Most public opinion polls indicate a pro-Common Market vote.

Hattersley, in Brussels for a recent Common Market meeting, was asked whether the Labor party government will be ready to forge ahead toward European union once the referendum is out of the way.

"The prospects of European union are very remote," said Hattersley, who has split with some other Labor party ministers in his enthusiasm for the Common Market. "And it's not the policy of the British government to promote it."

As for the more immediate goal of economic and monetary union, he passed that off as "having the same status as total and complete disarmament"—in other words, a pipe dream.

Coming from a relatively pro-European British politician, this was a splash of cold water. But it should not have been a surprise.

For years the French veto on British membership in the Common Market overshadowed the reluctance of many Britons to join Europe.

The decision by the previous Conservative party government to enter the Common Market in 1973 stirred a major political storm.

The Conservatives themselves had no intention of submerging queen and parliament in some all-European federation. Once in, they blocked new projects and moves toward European unity with such persistence that Europeans began calling them "the new French."

In some cases, the British played rough. They alienated all their partners by trying, unsuccessfully, to veto benefits for Luxembourg.

For all that, the other eight nations were sorry to see Conservative Prime Minister Edward Heath go and Labor party Prime Minister Harold Wilson come to power.

This was because Wilson's Labor Party had promised to submit the membership question to a national referendum. The other eight felt that the Common Market could not prosper in the long run if Britain, no matter how recalcitrant, stayed out.

First, Wilson demanded that the terms of British membership be renegotiated. This was done, grudgingly, over the past year, although most Common Market officials in London feel what Britain gained was too little to justify the trouble it took.

During the year of renegotiation, all other Common Market business came to a halt. Since the crisis came in a year of worldwide economic crisis, the Europeans found themselves powerless to take joint action to protect themselves. Some Common Market officials charge privately that by forcing the Market to fiddle while Europe burned, Britain may have doomed it as a dynamic bloc.

Technically, it is the result of the negotiations that will be voted on in the referendum. Wilson has recommended a "yes" vote.

Halfway through the renegotiation it became clear that Wilson and most other British government leaders wanted Britain to stay in. From that moment, the renegotiation largely became a charade aimed at giving Wilson ammunition to argue for a "yes."

FOOD TIPS
from AGNES . . .

REMEMBER, JUNE IS DAIRY MONTH... — SAY CHEESE . . .

It pays to buy your cheese supply in bulk. Do your own slicing and grating. Aged or sharp natural cheeses usually cost more than mild ones. Domestic cheeses cost less than the imports. Cream or cottage cheese flavored with pineapple, fruit cocktail, pimiento or chives will be more expensive than plain cheese which you can season or flavor at home. Be cautious in cooking with cheese. Use low heat, and do not overcook. When cheese is melted, it is cooked.

Has 5,000 Troops In Mini-Army

By MAXWELL A. FARRELL
PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Jim Merk "commands" one of the largest mini armies in the world.

Regiments of Prussian, Russian, French, Hungarian, English, Scottish, Polish, Austrian and Dutch soldiers are at his fingertips.

All are garrisoned in a second-floor den of his suburban Pittsburgh home.

Merk collects military miniatures — not toy soldiers. He started his hobby at the age of nine — about 40 years ago. He paints the 15 to 54 millimeter (one quarter inch to seven eighths inch) figures by hand.

"The hobby for collecting military miniatures mushroomed only within the past 10 years in the United States," Merk says.

His collection contains dating figures from 18th and 19th EUROPEAN ARMIES, the heyday of colorful uniforms for officers as well as enlisted men.

In one corner of the room are members of famous Russian regiments — attired in uniforms of the czarist era of 1840.

Soldiers of the Scottish Argyle Regiment, which acquitted itself valiantly in the Crimean War of the middle 1850s, occupy another corner.

On a shelf above the work bench where Merk paints his figures, stand members of Frederick the Great's Grenadier Regiment and members of the Maison du Roi — the french king's household troops.

All the tiny soldiers are housed in drawers and on shelves in Merk's den and all of them are protected by glass covers.

Merk estimates that he has about 5,000 figures.

"I don't consider it a large collection," he says.

A 15 millimeter figure is smaller than a thimble. And Merk hand paints these figures down to the last stripe and button.

The painting requires a fine eye and a steady hand. Merk has both.

He said at one time he used a magnifying glass to do some of his painting but now uses only the naked eye.

"I made most of my 15 millimeter figures. This requires making the molds and then casting them in a lead and tin alloy."

"I can paint about three or four of them on a production-line basis during an evening. The larger figures take a lot more time."

The larger figures are 20 and 30 millimeters high. Most of his figures fall into this category.

He uses fine sable brushes and oil paints.

"Most of the time consumed in painting is waiting for one color to dry before applying the next color," Jim says.

The uniforms of the figures are authentically painted from illustrations.

Merk, manager of a book store near the University of Pittsburgh, says unpainted figures start at about $3. Painted figures are more expensive.

Merk says England was the major supplier of miniatures, with France second.

"It is difficult for manufacturers to find qualified persons to paint the figures, and labor costs are becoming almost prohibitive," Merk said.

He said in recent years more firms in the United States are turning out the miniatures.

Merk's collection is heavy with figures of the Seven Year's War between France and England (French and Indian War in America) in the mid-18th century.

Of all his soldiers, Merk expresses a special fondness for a figure of the Duke of Cumberland riding in a carriage escorted by 18th century British Dragoons.

SERIOUS MUSIC AIDED
NEW YORK (AP) — To help make serious music by living American composers more widely available through recordings and printed scores, the Ford Foundation has announced a second recording-publication program. A total of $400,000 has been allocated for it over the next three years.

The foundation will contract with record companies to provide up to $15,000 per LP for the cost of musical talent during recording time. The record companies will pay technical, production, advertising and distribution costs of the recordings and publishers will pay for printing and marketing the scores of the recorded works.

Swallows Return To Novato, Too

NOVATO, Calif. (AP) — Capistrano isn't the only area on the Pacific Coast to which the swallows return for their annual summer sojourn on the same date each year.

It's been going on here for years, says Bea Clark and she reported seeing the first swallow of the season a few hours after the much publicized arrival in San Juan Capistrano. By mid afternoon, she said many more followed.

How Tar Heel Representatives And Senators Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON—Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the days immediately preceding the current recess. The recess began at the close of business May 22 and will end on June 2.

House
RECESS—Voted, 233 for and 99 against, to begin a ten-day recess spanning the Memorial Day holiday.

Although there was no floor debate on the resolution (S Con Res 42), supporters generally felt that the recess was deserved, that the House has been productive this year, and that members need the opportunity to check the pulse of their constituencies.

Opponents generally felt that the House, which already had two ten-day recesses during 1975, and which has additional time off scheduled (including all of August), should stay on the job in Washington.

Many of the members had already departed Capitol Hill when the vote was taken at about 3 p.m. on May 22.

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L. H. Fountain (D-2), David Henderson (D-3), Richardson Preyer (D-6), W. G. Hefner (D-8), James Martin (R-9) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "yea."

Reps. Ike Andrews (D-4) and James Broyhill (R-10) voted "nay."

Reps. Stephen Neal (D-5) and

Charles Rose (D-7) did not vote. BENEFITS—Rejected, 148 for and 262 against, an amendment to block increases in personal office funds and other benefits for each of the 435 House

Recession Sent Readers Back Into Library

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP)—In the opinion of San Rafael librarian Vivian Smith, Marin County residents are taking out library books in greater numbers this year, prompted in part by hard times and the high cost of buying books.

In the month of February this year circulation for the Marin County library and all its branches reached 68,231, compared with 60,915 for the same period in 1974.

Some of the increase can be attributed to the fact that people can't afford outside entertainment, the librarian noted. The cost of a book, "about $9," is a factor. "I am sure the recession has something to do with it."

She reported that more people are taking out books on careers, do-it-yourself projects, vegetable gardening and more books on the creative use of leisure time — books on music, arts and crafts.

members. The amendment was proposed to HR 6950, a legislative appropriations bill covering July 1, 1975 through Sept. 30, 1976.

At issue was Administration Committee action to increase each member's annual staff payroll allowance from $204,720 to $227,270, permit a maximum of 18 rather than 16 employes per member, increase from 18 to 26 the number of free trips home per member per year, earmark public funding for the first time of constituent news-letters and raise the telephone allowance for each member.

Failure of the amendment meant that the increases will take effect.

Supporters of the amendment said the House should economize and objected to the need for some or all of the increases. Many supporters objected that the increases approved by the Administration Committee would have taken effect automatically without a recorded vote had this amendment not been introduced.

Opponents said the increases were needed to help members meet their responsibilities, and they noted that the increased benefits were optional and not forced on members. Citing the "economy" argument, Rep. John Seiberling (D-Ohio) said, "I did not notice a great many of the people who are pleading for this minor economy today voting with us yesterday in our efforts to cut billions of dollars of unnecessary expenses out of the bill for military procurement."

Fountain, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "yea." Jones, Henderson, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Rose and Hefner voted "nay."

BENEFITS—Rejected, 152 for and 259 against, an amendment that sought to change House rules so as to require action by the full body on proposed increases in staff payroll outlays, members' travel allowances and other emoluments and allowances.

Record votes by the membership are now possible

(above) but not mandatory on increases approved by the Administration Committee.

Rep. Robert Bauman (R-Md.), the sponsor, said the main question was why the entire House "should not consider these matters individually themselves and accept full responsibility" for any increases.

One opponent, Administration Chairman Wayne Hays (D-Ohio), said his committee is "responsible" in its deliberations and that the day's previous vote (above) in favor of increases was "a vote of confidence in the committee."

Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "yea." Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Preyer, Rose and Hefner voted "nay."

Neal did not vote.

RAIL REPAIRS—Rejected, 16 for and 46 against, a measure to cut $700 million—as the House had requested—from the conference report on a supplemental appropriations bill (HR 5899). The funds would be used to repair some of the nation's rail beds.

The Senate's refusal to "recede" in accordance with the House's wish makes necessary another conference with the House; both chambers agreed on the remainder of HR 5899's conference report. The one point of disagreement, however, means that the $14 billion emergency measure, appropriating funds for many federal programs and agencies through June 30, cannot be enacted until after Congress returns to work on June 2.

Supporters said it was crucial to pass the money bill before adjourning for Memorial Day. Opponents were unwilling to drop the rail bed funding solely because of the approaching recess.

Sen. Jesse Helms (R) voted "yea." Sen. Robert Morgan (D) did not vote.

Islanders See Employment Up

TORTOLA, B.V.I. (AP)—The total population of this group of 30-odd tiny British islands in the Caribbean is only 10,000. Its government Labor Department has just released the results of a survey showing an employment increase for the past year of 14 per cent over the year before.

The total labor force, including self-employed persons, was estimated at "very roundly 3,300 — 2,200 males and 1,100 females."

The construction industry alone accounted for a 28 per cent increase, with the tourist industry second, up 17 per cent. Tourism is the largest employing sector, with 347 males and 225 females. According to Ralph G. O'Neal, chairman of the BVI Tourist Board here, tourism in the last five years has increased 15-20 per cent annually.

Sifting Ground Under Building

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI)—Archaeologists are sifting through the ground beneath the floor of New Mexico's first state capitol, the Palace of the Governors, for relics of the past.

The 365-year-old structure on Santa Fe's plaza is believed to be the oldest government building in the United States. It served as a capitol for New Mexico when the state was under the rule of Spanish, Mexican and United States governments.

The archaeological "dig" began last spring and resumed in April. When the work is completed, the portions of the building involved in the excavation will be remodeled and used for museum display.

Great Britain is not larger than Minnesota, but 15 times as many people live there.

Hong Kong Fishermen Live In Boat 'Village'

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD HONG KONG (UPI) — An aging couple crouch over a pot of soup in a small Chinese junk, crowded with chairs, pots, sleeping mats and the tools of the fishermen's trade. Nearby is an ornate floating restaurant, packed with tourists fash from sampan rides and loaded with souvenirs, chattering about the "local color."

Across the street rises huge government housing projects that have lured many boat dwellers from their cramped lives on the water into more spacious flats on land.

But for the elderly man, his wife and their thousands of poor neighbors constituting Hong Kong's floating population, the sea is their life.

Aberdeen, one of the British Colony's oldest settlements, is a picturesque fishing village of about 25,000 fishermen and 4,000 vessels, ranging from tiny junks to large craft specially designed to accommodate huge families and also equipped with tanks to bring hundreds of live fish back to shore.

The ways of the ocean, her currents, drifts and the location of the best fish have been passed on from father to son for generations for thousands of years.

Nicholas Ng, the city District Officer whose jurisdiction includes Aberdeen, said, "It is inevitable that Aberdeen will change." He added nostalgically, "I cannot foresee a time when the fishing population will disappear or that there won't be some who choose to live on the sea."

The floating population in Aberdeen has fallen off considerably over the years, Ng said, citing the tendency to settle ashore and seek factory jobs. The streets of Aberdeen are filled with shops, many run by former fishermen who have given up on the sea.

But despite the fishermen's poor income, Ng said, there is no great rush to totally abandon the boats for the towering cement apartments.

A typical income for a family of six runs about $200 a month, "but their roots run deep," Ng said. "There is a sense of belonging, of tradition."

Ng said Aberdeen dates back to civil wars in China centuries ago.

"People fled, and when they came here many former farmers and fishermen saw the advantages of Hong Kong harbor and immediately took to the sea."

The loss of some fishermen to land-based industries has not cut down on productivity because of the introduction of modern techniques, Ng said.

During the past 10 years, the value of fish sold through Hong Kong's Fish Marketing Organization increased from $11.7 million in 1964 to $40 million in 1973, he said.

Craft that previously used fishing gear made from natural fibers have turned to ret-resistant synthetic fiber nets, lines and copes, many almost invisible in water. Diesel engines have replaced the sails that once marked almost every fishing boat.

Freeing the boats from sail also freed the younger members of the fishing families to attend school.

Ten years ago truancy was a big problem, with youngsters working on their parents' crafts for days at a time. Now, Ng said, mechanization allows adult members of the family to manage the boat in one-day trips that brings it home to waiting youngsters.

On a visit to the large junk of the Ming family, I found tanks filled with a vast array of fish.

While the mother was busy in the large back room that served us kitchen, dining room and sleeping quarters for her nine children, the father proudly sorted through the fish on the front deck.

Their son Leung, 18, speaking adequate English learned in high school, pointed to his younger brothers and sisters, lounging on their bunks or scurrying around the ship.

"They all go to school," he said, "but this life is exciting, and I've decided to stick with it."

An older brother nodded enthusiastically as he helped his father get the vast catch ready for sale.

In the harbor there was the bustle of the closely berthed junks and the strong smell of fish and sea.

"This is the life for me," Leung said.

Ng said one very satisfying aspect of Aberdeen is the nearly total absence of crime.

"These people living on their boats have known each other for decades," he said. "Fathers and grandparents knew other fathers and grandparents, who also clung to the sea."

"Aberdeen is like a tremendous family, and there is no inclination to hurt a family member."
