Probe Data Due Friday

RALEIGH (AP)—A State Department of Justice report scheduled for release Friday says high officials of the administration of Gov. Jim Holshouser used the Enforcement and Theft Bureau as a private detective agency.

Persons familiar with an investigation of the bureau say that its officials and agents spent thousands of dollars of state funds for illegal political investigations and other private purposes.

Atty. Gen. Rufus Edmisten whose department conducted the investigation would neither confirm nor deny the reports. He said he would release data from the report during a news conference at 10:30 a.m. Friday. He said a copy of the report will be sent to Wake County Dist. Atty. Burley Mitchell for consideration of criminal indictments.

Edmisten, a Democrat, had said earlier in the week that the Republican Holshouser administration had used the bureau for "political espionage" purposes.

Sources close to the probe say the report centers around two major areas:

—Illegal and unauthorized abuse of investigative power, specifically against former Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan, now a U.S. senator. This included a failing effort to link Morgan with cigarette smuggling and auto thefts.

—Using state funds, property and personnel for personal benefit and falsification of vouchers for unauthorized state purchases.

They said findings will include allegations that bureau officials:

—Voided and in at least one case may have destroyed records of overweight truck fines.

—Spent $1,700 to alter the appearance of a state car which was used in the Morgan investigation.

—Purchased a submachine gun for the protection of the agent involved in the Morgan investigation and wrist microphone tape recorders for use in the probe.

Suez Canal Opened; Sadat Vows Liberation Efforts

By HARRY DUNPHY

Associated Press Writer

PORT SAID, Egypt (AP) —

President Anwar Sadat reopened the Suez Canal today as a "tributary of peace and a channel of prosperity and cooperation among men." But he vowed to liberate all Arab lands from Israeli occupation.

Sadat said Egypt, in reopening the canal, wanted to "re-mind friendly people everywhere that cherished parts of Arab land are still suffering under foreign occupation and Arab people are enduring the anguish of forced exile."

Egypt is determined "to perform the sacred duty of liberating" these lands and recovering usurped Arab rights," he declared.

Wearing his white naval uniform as commander of the Egyptian navy, Sadat proclaimed the waterway "completely cleared and purged of Israeli aggression following our glorious crossing of the canal Oct. 6, 1973.

"It is only natural that this Egyptian artery should continue to serve the prosperity of mankind and return to its role of linking the four corners of the world, promoting trade and harmony among people and nations," he declared.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli Transport Minister Gad Yaacobi said Egypt had pledged in writing to permit Israeli cargoes through the canal. He said a Liberian ship headed for the Suez with sugar for Israel would be "a test case."

Yaacobi told Radio Israel that Egypt agreed to let Israeli cargoes through the canal in the disengagement pact with Israel signed last January. "Without any doubt this is a part of the disengagement of forces agreement," he said. "It was a commitment given by Egypt to the United States, in writing."

In two days of celebrations, Sadat will travel the length of the waterway linking the Mediterranean and the Red Sea.

After the celebrations, shipping convoys will start moving through the 106-year-old canal. The first will have only seven ships, but the Egyptian government is hopeful that eventually business will at least return to the 1967 level of 60 ships a day.

Sadat was host to several hundred official guests for the celebration, including 14-year-old Crown Prince Reza Pahlavi of Iran, whose father, Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, has given Egypt more than a billion dollars since the October 1973 war with Israel.

Israel in an unexpected conciliatory move this week pulled back half of its troops and tanks and all of its artillery and missiles on its desert front line 12 miles east of the canal.

Sadat welcomed the Israeli move, but its unexpectedness was underlined Wednesday night by a Beirut broadcast in which he belligerently warned the Israelis that any blow at the canal or its cities would be met with a missile attack on Israel.

The broadcast had been recorded last week, before announcement of the partial Israeli pullback improved the atmosphere.

Recognizing the easing of tensions in the area, London underwriters decided to reduce the insurance surcharge on ships and cargo going through the canal.

Egypt closed the canal after Israel in the 1967 Six-Day War took the whole of the Sinai Desert from Egypt and established its front lines on the east bank of the 103-mile waterway. The Egyptian army crossed the canal in the 1973 war, regained the northern half of the east bank and got the rest in the disengagement agreement negotiated by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger in March 1974.

American, British, French and Egyptian mine sweepers removed 10,000 explosive objects from the canal and 686,000 land mines from its banks, while Soviet minesweepers cleared the Gulf of Suez south of the canal. Fourteen foreign freighters which had been trapped in the canal since 1967 moved out last month.

Egypt has announced plans to build three tunnels under the waterway wide enough for its tanks. Sadat is expected to inaugurate construction of the first tunnel at Suez, on the canal's southern end, on Friday.

Sadat said the canal will be closed to Israeli shipping until there is a final Arab-Israeli peace settlement, but he has indicated that cargo bound for Israel on ships of other nations may be permitted through if Israel makes further concessions.

Consider Substitute Jobs Bill

By EDMOND Le BRETON

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) —

Democrats who lost their attempt to override President Ford's veto of a jobs bill are talking of more modest legislation and of how right they were in not labeling the present Congress veto-proof.

The Democratic House majority failed by five votes Wednesday to override the veto of a $5.3-billion bill designed to provide 900,000 publicly financed jobs for the unemployed. The vote was 277 to 145; a two-thirds majority was needed to override.

A group of Republicans has introduced a $2.3-billion bill, some $265 million above Ford's recommendations, but said they thought it would be acceptable to the White House. Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., and other Democrats said they expect other substitute legislation to be introduced. There was some talk of trying to attach it to a bill, like one to extend U.S. Treasury borrowing power, that would be hard to veto.

Democratic leaders, who had made the vetoed bill a symbol of their quarrel with Ford's economic policies, did not hide their disappointment at the outcome.

"Unfortunately and disappointing," Speaker Carl Albert called it. He predicted Republicans would be hurt as a result of the veto, "but more important it will hurt the country."

O'Neill commented, "Today an unelected President and a Republican minority of the House denied 900,000 people the opportunity of employment. It is a sad day for America."

"It continues the veto tyranny he (Ford) has over the House," commented Rep. John J. McFall of California, the Democratic whip.

The AFL-CIO set out to elect a veto-proof Congress in 1974 and some Democrats campaigned in 1974 for a party majority big enough to override the vetoes then-President Richard M. Nixon was exercising. However, no party leaders claimed after the election that a veto-proof Congress had been achieved.

Republicans, including Ford, have used the phrase to needle and sometimes to blame the Democratic-controlled Congress.

Until a death reduced their ranks by one, Democrats had exactly a two-to-one advantage in the House — 290 to 145. But since party ranks, especially those of the Democrats, are rarely absolutely solid, this was not considered to constitute a veto-proof House. The Senate, divided 61 to 38 with one seat still in dispute, had not even a mathematical two-thirds advantage for the Democrats.

An override vote on a strip mining bill is tentatively scheduled in the House next week.

Referendum On ERA Is Killed In Committee

RALEIGH (AP)—A state

Senate judiciary committee killed a bill today to set up a statewide referendum on the federal Equal Rights Amendment in 1976.

The Judiciary II committee

voted to postpone the House-passed measure indefinitely.

The referendum bill was sponsored by Rep. Robert Jones, D-Rutherford, an ERA opponent. Jones and other opponents of the amendment hoped to get a strong popular vote against it to limit ERA's chances in future legislative sessions.

The results of the referendum would not have been binding on the legislature, but only advisory.

The House killed ERA ratification earlier in the session by a five-vote margin.

ERA supporters opposed the referendum measure. Gladys Tillett, president of ERLA United, said in a statement that it is the elected duty of the General Assembly to make the decision.

"It will establish a dangerous precedent for, if this philosophy is adopted, there could be many other issues on which members could wish guidance, but they are elected to decide," she said.

Sen. Mary Odom, D-Scotland, made the motion to postpone the bill indefinitely. She said the committee had more important issues to deal with as the session neared its end.

Sen. William Smith, D-New Hanover said that if the issue was put to the people it would cause "turmoil and bitterness all for nothing, just to get us off the hook."

Ending Apartheid

WINDHOEK, South West Africa (AP) — Officials today announced sweeping measures to abolish apartheid throughout South West Africa.

The move was viewed by observers in South Africa as yet another step in South Africa's campaign of detente to win friends in black Africa and ease racial tension in the sub-continent.

New legislation will provide for the admission of all races to hotels, restaurants and cafes and the removal of "whites only" and "non-whites" signs on all public buildings.

Dirk Mudge, a member of the ruling Executive Council, announced the changes before the all-white legislative assembly here.

The announcement marks the latest major effort to eliminate what has become known as "petty apartheid" in South Africa. Significantly, officials in Windhoek, the capital, recently told visiting foreign correspondents that in some ways South West Africa is a "trial run" for South Africa itself.

Mudge said the Executive Council had decided on the changes after a report by a study group appointed to investigate racially irritating laws in the territory.

Apartheid laws were brought to South West Africa by South Africa which controls the mineral-rich territory under a mandate no longer recognized by the United Nations.

ARE ADVISORY BOARDS HEEDED?

Can the City Council amend a zoning ordinance in direct opposition to a recommendation by the Planning and Zoning Commission? I understand the Greenville Council is considering doing just this tonight when a public hearing is being held on a proposed ordinance amendment to allow municipal buildings and facilities in residential areas. E.D.

The Planning and Zoning Commission is an advisory body appointed by the City Council, City Attorney David Reid said. No recommendation of any appointive body is binding on the Council, which is elected to make final decisions. "More often than not, Planning and Zoning recommendations are followed, though," Reid added.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

"TECHNICAL" KEY WORD

A Hotline item May 29 dealt with the need for a score of at least 225 on the GED High School Equivalency Test in order to be enrolled in certain courses at Pitt Technical Institute. It was stated that a veteran having earned a lower score while in service would be eligible to participate in a technical program without this GED score, but for a degree would have to have a score of at least 225.

George McRorie of Pitt Tech. said the statement was misleading because "technical" refers to degree programs at PTI. He said only "vocational" programs, which require a minimum of a tenth grade education, could be entered into with the GED score of 225. He emphasized also that any person can retake any of the five parts of the GED at any time in order to bring up his overall score.

Senate Arguing Change In State Provisions For Driver Insurance

RALEIGH (AP) — Debate on a bill that would abolish age and sex as factors in setting auto insurance rates was to continue today in the state Senate.

After two hours of heated debate Wednesday, the Senate adjourned without taking a vote. Several amendments were added to the House-passed bill and it was apparent that a number of senators had become confused about what the bill would do.

Meanwhile, the House killed the landlord-tenant bill, but the issue isn't quite dead. Another landlord-tenant bill was filed, but it isn't as comprehensive as the measure that was killed.

The House also approved and sent to the Senate a bill that would reduce the inventory tax paid by manufacturers by half over a five-year period. That tax is collected by local governments and they stand to lose revenue if the bill wins Senate approval.

As passed by the House, the auto insurance bill would simply give all Tar Heel motorists the same basic insurance rates. Then, surcharges would be added—possibly ranging from $20 to $320 a year—for accidents and violations. The surcharge would be based on points accumulated by the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Also, the state insurance commissioner would set the rates.

But, the Senate amended the bill to levy a surcharge on drivers with less than two years driving experience. Also, it would be repealed July 1, 1977, forcing the 1977 legislature to review the plan to see if it worked.

Also, rather than the commissioner setting rates, a Senate amendment would let the Rate Administrative Office do that with the commissioner giving approval.

As the Senate adjourned, the debate centered on a provision of the bill that would require one-fourth of the $240 million total premium to be paid by the surcharge, by drivers with accidents or violations.

Sen. Jim McDuffie, D-Mecklenburg, argued that the Rate Administrative Office shouldn't be tied to a specific figure but should be allowed to use any figure it believes appropriate.

Much of the confusion about the bill centered on that surcharge. Insurance Commissioner John Ingram said that his proposed surcharge table would yield almost $34 million.

No Troop-Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) —

The Senate refused today to require a 200,000-man reduction in the 485,000 American troops deployed overseas.

A troop-cut amendment by Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, was defeated by voice vote, with only a few senators on the floor.

The action followed rejection Wednesday of initial budget-cutting assaults on a $30.3-billion weapons authorization bill.

Votes were scheduled for later today on amendments to cut funding for such major new weapons systems as the B1 bomber, the AWACS flying radar system and additional advanced intercontinental ballistic missiles.

North Korean Armored Forces Are Moved Up

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist North Korea has moved strong armored forces close to the demilitarized boundary with South Korea, U.S. intelligence sources report.

Pentagon officials watching the situation said they are concerned but not alarmed and that no special alerts were ordered for U.S. troops in South Korea. Officials noted that the North Koreans have made threatening moves from time to time without launching any major military action against South Korea since 1953.

However, there has been some worry recently that North Korea might be emboldened to test the U.S. commitment to South Korea following the collapse of American-backed governments in Indochina.

Intelligence specialists said the new concentration of North Korean armor near the DMZ is the biggest there in a long time.

The equivalent of an armored division was reported in the Kok San area about 40 miles north of the DMZ near the traditional invasion corridor into South Korea. U.S. sources counted about 250 tanks and assault guns and some 100 armored troop carriers.

South Korea's army, which gained some combat experience in the Vietnam war, is deployed along the DMZ in the main defensive positions intended to stop an invasion from the North.

The one U.S. Army division in South Korea is strategically located to help block any invasion before it reaches Seoul, the capital. Nuclear-armed U.S. missile and artillery batteries also back up South Korean divisions.

Three squadrons of 72 U.S. Air Force F4 Phantom jet fighters are stationed there to bolster South Korea's outnumbered air force.

U.S. arms strength in South Korea totals about 42,000 men. The most recent reduction came nearly four years ago when one division and its support, comprising 20,000 men, were pulled back to the United States.

There has been congressional sentiment in the past for cutbacks in U.S. military deployments overseas. But critics now appear reluctant to push for such reductions because they say this might intensify doubts among allies about the dependability of U.S. commitments to them.

Since the Indochina collapse, top U.S. officials led by President Ford have made special efforts to reassure allies in Asia and Europe.

Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger has pointedly warned that the United States would strike hard at the North Korean heartland if the Korean Communists should invade the South again as they did nearly a quarter-century ago.

Last Of DuPont Layoffs Recalled

KINSTON—Du Pont here has completed its recall of all 464 employees who were laid off from their jobs during the economic pinch last fall.
With the return to work of some 204 employees during the last recall, all of the workers who were laid off were back on the job as of June 2, according to Joe LaMotte of Du Pont's personnel section.

LaMotte said that an increase in the demand for company products allowed Du Pont to complete its recall.

The spokesman also reported that the first group of new employees to be hired under the company's facility expansion program announced in mid-1973 should be reporting for work by the middle of this month.
Du Pont originally hoped to have by now a full complement of around 300 new employees hired to man the expanded production section, La Motte said, but the economic situation held up the program.

From 50 to 100 new employees will be on the job by the middle of June and if business continues to improve, it was noted, the rest of the new 300 employee force should be working within the next three months.

The only factor that would change the hiring figure would be a downturn in the current demand picture for Du Pont products, LaMotte explained. The official pointed out that the Kinston facility has experienced a faster rate of recovery from the economic slump than the overall company structure and company-wide, projections still are for a slow, steady recovery continuing into the fourth quarter.

Miss Kinston Early Winner

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Miss Kinston, Lisa Stump, won the swimsuit competition as the Miss North Carolina Pageant opened Wednesday night.

Miss Mount Holly, Susan Smith, 21, won in talent with a ballet dance.

Both are students at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Miss Stump's measurements are 37-25-37. She is 20 years old, 5-feet-8, and has brown hair and blue eyes.

Fifty-five girls are competing. Other preliminary winners in swimsuit and talent will be chosen tonight and Friday night. The girls also compete in evening gown, but winners in this category are not announced. Miss North Carolina will be chosen Saturday night. She will win a scholarship, and represent the state in the Miss America contest.

June 13 Is A Deadline

Certain citizens in 40 communities in the state may find it hard to buy insurance against floods or to obtain a loan if those communities do not meet a June 13 deadline to enroll in the National Flood Insurance program, according to Craig Barfield, state flood insurance program coordinator.

Barfield said that the program makes "low cost" flood insurance available to citizens and small businesses in flood hazard areas. Before individuals can purchase insurance, however, the communities in which they live must enroll in the program, he noted.

In 64 A.D. most of Rome was destroyed by fire.

Carolina local governments have either applied for or qualified for enrollment, Barfield noted.

After July 1, the coordinator said, those communities that have not been accepted in the program will face a cut off of all federal assistance in designated flood hazard areas. As a result, VA and FHA loans, as well as loans from any federally supervised or regulated bank and savings and loan will not be available.

The only communities with hazard areas in this area that have not applied as of May 30 are Robersonville in Martin County, Conetoe and Pinetops in Edgecombe County, and Vanceboro in Craven County.

Court Trial For Quadraplegic

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—The case of a quadraplegic who was ticketed for unlicensed driving of a motorized golf cart has been set for court trial.

Joel Duce, 20, was charged by the California Highway Patrol with driving without a license and driving an unlicensed vehicle.

Commissioners also rejected a hunger action proposal, which would have called for a three-year, $50,000 attack on root causes of hunger in this country and abroad.

The synod also adopted a recommendation for a comprehensive study of the function of the church at the regional level as compared with the local congregational level.

The synod embraces 682 churches in North Carolina with 164,000 members.

His father, William Duce, an attorney, said his son was refused a license for the cart by the state Department of Motor Vehicles nearly two years ago.
The cart helps provide self-sufficiency for young Duce, who has been a quadraplegic since birth, the father said.

On Monday, traffic referee William E. Tredinnick scheduled the case for trial July 2, but said that if Duce gets a driver's license, "I'll dismiss the charge. If the DMV says he doesn't need a license, I'll clear him."

Personal Message To Abby Readers

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR READERS: If you have no interest in your health or the health of those you love, skip Dear Abby today: Do you know what your blood pressure is? If you do, you are one in about 10,000. If you don't, the most important thing you can do today is to call your doctor and make an appointment to have it checked. You may not realize it, but high blood pressure kills about 250,000 people a year. And hundreds and thousands more are crippled by strokes, suffer from kidney disease, or are the victims of a long list of other ailments due to high blood pressure. Tragic? Yes. But all the more tragic because our very able secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, Caspar Weinberger, tells us that high blood pressure can be eliminated or controlled by medication and diet. Also, high blood pressure is hereditary, so if your mother or father have it, that's all the more reason to check your blood pressure regularly. And have your children's checked, too. It takes less than five minutes, it's absolutely painless and if you can't afford a private physician, your local public health department will check it without charge. Now, get going!

DEAR ABBY: A close relative of mine recently announced his engagement to a girl he had been going with for a long time. They set their wedding date, and the bride proceeded to make plans for a lovely, big church wedding. The groom's mother told them if her daughter (who is married, living in another state and expecting a baby around the wedding date) delivers before the wedding, she will not attend the wedding. In other words, the groom's mother feels that being with her daughter when she has a baby is more important than being with her son on his wedding day. I was astonished! However, when I told my mother about this, she agreed with the groom's mother. I was speechless. What do YOU say?

SPEECHLESS

DEAR SPEECHLESS: I'm not speechless. I could make a long speech about why some mothers feel that it's more important to be with their daughters when they have babies than it is to be with their sons when they get married.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

No one knows what their life expectancy is, but I have a horror of leaving this world and not having anyone in the entire family know how to replace a toilet tissue spindle.

It's an awesome thought to have four grown people wandering around in a daze saying, "I thought she told you how," and another saying, "If I knew she was sick I'd have paid attention."

The tissue spindle isn't the only home skill that has been mastered by no one at our house. Consequently, I have put together a simple family survival manual when Mom is away... even for a weekend.

REPLACING TOILET TISSUE SPINDLE: Grasp old spindle and push gently to one side where there is a spring action. The spindle will release and you discard the old cardboard. Slip on new roll and insert one end of spindle in the spring action side and listen for a click into place.

WASHING TOOTHPASTE OFF SIDE OF WASHBOWL: Before toothpaste is allowed to harden-become a permanent

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Thursday, June 5, 1975—3
TURNING OFF A LIGHT: The same principle is used in turning off a light as it is turning it on. If it is a wall switch, you flick the switch up or down until you no longer see the light. If it is a chain mechanism, you compress chain between thumb and forefinger and give it a tug. The light will extinguish.
OPERATING A CLOTHES HAMPER: Don't be intimidated because there are no dials or instructions on the lid. Bending from the waist, you simply pick up a sock, a pair of pants, or a towel, lift the lid of the hamper and feed soiled clothes into it. The Good Fairy will take it from there.
Keep this manual handy for easy references. After all, if I have to take these skills with me when I go... I'm not going!

Bridal Couple Entertained

GRIFTON—On Saturday night, Miss Roberta Everett and Jimmy Herring, June bridal couple, were honored at a cocktail hour by Dr. and Mrs. J.O. Carson, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. George Saleeby.

Guests were received by Dr. and Mrs. Carson and presented to the bridal pair, their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Everett and Mr. and Mrs. James H. Herring.

In the dining room the refreshment table was covered with a white linen, lace trimmed cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow gerbera and white snapdragons. Mrs. Fleming poured punch.

Members of the younger set were entertained on the patio where hanging baskets and greenery was noted in the decorations.

Mr. and Mrs. Saleeby heard the good-byes.

Shower Given Miss Moore

Miss Cynthia Ann Moore, bride-elect of Benjamin Wright Sanford of Oldhams, Va., was honored Saturday at a kitchen shower given by Miss Sally Thumma and Miss Anne Dameron at the home of Miss Thumma in Glebe Harbour, Va.

The hostesses presented the honoree a corsage of yellow gerbera daisies. The refreshment table, covered with a white Madeira cloth, carried out a color scheme of yellow and white. Yellow gerbera daisies surrounded the punch bowl.

Miss Moore, currently teaching at the Cople School, Westmoreland County, Va., is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowenburg Moore of Ayden.

Exciting Time For Graduates

Many of our high schools are completing their work this week and seniors will be walking across stages to receive their diplomas after 12 years of hard work.

It may seem to these young people that they are leaving high school to enter a world where things are dark, indeed.

Mankind's long search for peace is far from an end. In fact, we have the capacity to wage the most fearsome war ever.

We have been beset by inflation that has affected the teen-agers budget, just as everyone else's. Now we are in the midst of a recession that has robbed many of their jobs and has made it doubly difficult for high school, and even college graduates, to find satisfying employment.

A graduate this year could be morose about the future. But if he will look at our time as compared with others of history, the graduate will recognize that we now live in the most exciting and rewarding times that Man has ever known. This is particularly true in our U.S. society. We have conveniences that kings could only dream of a century ago. Despite some shortages from time-to-time, we have plenty of food to feed our people.

It is true that there is still poverty, but as a society we are aware of it, and trying to do something about it. Other people in other times have ignored poverty because it was so prevalent that little could be done about it anyway.

There is still disease, but many of the scourges of the ancient world have been eliminated and we are making progress against human suffering every day.

While there is still the threat of wars; there is still widespread poverty and there is still human suffering, this generation should face the future with joy and excitement. We have the time, the wealth and the tools to find ways of making a better life for all mankind.

It is this new generation which will find the ways to accomplish these aims.

The N.C. SCENE

Sunshine Is Behind Clouds

By JAMES E. HARRINGTON
Secretary, Natural and Economic Resources
RALEIGH—In the past few months this country has suffered through tremendous economic problems. North Carolina citizens in some areas have been among the hardest hit during this period. But doomsday headlines have obscured the hard facts that suggest a new era of economic progress has arrived in North Carolina. It may be difficult to see the sun behind the clouds, but consider these facts.

1. Last year industrial development in North Carolina was a record high $872 million. Up $150 million from the previous record.
2. Indications are that industrial development potentials this year are continuing a strong trend.
3. Per capita income in North Carolina jumped to $4,612 in 1974 from $4,282 in 1973 and pushed our state's ranking from 38th to 36th in just one year.
4. The average starting salary for jobs created as a result of new industrial investment rose from under $5,770 in 1972 to over $7,000 in 1974.
5. The industry groups making the largest capital investments in North Carolina during the past two years have been metal working and chemicals—breaking the lock more traditional industries had on that leadership position.

What the facts show, but the headlines don't, is that this industrial expansion is being accomplished well within the environmental protection regulations of this state. We have long said that the linking of the natural and economic resources agencies within this state would prove to be an advantage. Again, the results are bearing out that belief.

Turned Corner
Yet, we certainly are not resting on our laurels. I believe it is important to recognize when a state has turned an economic corner in its history. But we recognize that we have only just turned the corner. We know thousands of North Carolinians have suffered through tremendous economic hardships recently because we have not made enough progress toward a well diversified and strong economy in this state.

For this reason, we have developed a strategy to guide business and government activities for a better future.

The goal of the strategy is: "The State of North Carolina seeks to raise the per capita income for its citizens to $5,670 which is expected to be 10 per cent greater than that of the southeastern states by the year 1990. In so doing the State shall seek an equitable distribution of income for the people and an economy which enhances the quality of life for its citizens."

To achieve this, we hope to shift more of our manpower and financial resources toward an all-out effort to recruit more diversified, higher paying industry to North Carolina. Initially, our agency has designated approximately 25 target industries we are going to go after.

Our first step to recruit those industries will be to accumulate and distribute marketing information that is in meaningful business terms. Previously, the state has waited for the industry to come to us. But there are just too many industries ignorance of the marketing and manufacturing potentials in this state. We are reaching out to these firms.

More Paper
In one program we are aiming our initial efforts at the paper industry. North Carolina has tremendous forest resources. We know where there are people to cut the wood. We know where there are outlets or markets for the finished wood products.

At the same time, we are working with our environmental staff to predetermine sites that would be environmentally as well as economically sound for a paper manufacturing operation.

By presenting this type of information to industries we know we are going to be a step ahead of other states and that those efforts will result in new industries for North Carolina.

Two other programs recently begun in North Carolina, demonstrate this new selective strategy.

The first is a special promotion of available buildings. Because of the current economic situation, there are a number of outstanding industrial buildings that have been vacated in North Carolina. We have prepared detailed information about those buildings and a training profile of the labor force that worked in them. The program is ideally suited to the industry that cannot afford the delays and costs of new construction.

The second program is special training for the unemployed. Special emphasis is on training persons for jobs requiring higher skills than those jobs they were forced to leave.

Our Governor's Award program and other services of the Community Assistance Division continue to result in making communities more attractive to industries.

Industries taking advantage of these programs can find an existing structure, in the correct marketing area, on an environmentally sound location with little delay between construction and start-up time. The results will be more industries and more jobs.

But new programs are not the only answer to quality economic expansion in the state. Government cannot create these needed jobs—rather it must create a climate in which private business can function competitively to create products and jobs. Two important changes in our laws can help improve our climate for these high-paying plants. These will be discussed in the next column.

Time For A Third Party?

The most important political book of the spring will be published next week: William A. Rusher's "The Making of the New Majority Party." Reluctantly, and with a keen awareness of my own fallibility, I have to disagree with its major thesis.

Rusher is publisher of National Review magazine. He is also a lawyer, writer, debater, columnist, and a serious student of American political history. His conservative credentials are impeccable.

In Rusher's view, the hour has come for the formation of a new major party that will unite economic conservatives and social conservatives in a coalition strong enough to compete on even terms with the Democratic party. He is not thinking of a "third party." A lifelong Republican, he is fed up with the GOP. He finds it "essentially meaningless." Rusher's idea is to displace the Republican party altogether, and to replace it with a new party that he provisionally dubs "the Independence party."

He would do to the Republicans in 1976 what the Republicans did to the Whigs in 1852: knock them out of existence.

Rusher draws on the Whig experience to suggest certain conditions necessary to the replacement of an old party and the formation of a successful new party. Somewhat over-simplified, these conditions demand a basic issue, a fresh impulse regarding that issue, and "A strikingly weak leadership and organizational structure in the party to be replaced."

The political picture today, as he sees it, exhibits each of those requirements.

Today's basic issue has to do with the role of government in the social and economic life of our country. Conservatives tend to oppose an ever-expanding federal involvement in welfare, health, education, consumer affairs, and business regulation. Liberals, by contrast, tend to support such extensions of federal power. The conflict, in Rusher's analysis, pits "producers" against "non-producers." He is convinced that a fresh conservative impulse, bluntly opposed to the liberal view, "Has been struggling for effective political expression in America for nearly 20 years. GOP leadership and organization are today at an all-time low."

Rusher's premises are sound enough. It is his conclusion that I question. The Republican party (and to a lesser extent, the Democratic party also) is indeed divided on the basic issue. The Democrats, for their part, stand for something; their liberal image is clear, consistent, and politically appealing. The Republicans, by

Wallace Motive Queried

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Some national Democratic officials question Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace's motives in refusing to join other top Democrats at a major party fund-raiser in New York next week.

Wallace's decision followed a behind-the-scenes dispute that began when his name didn't appear on the invitation for the $500-a-plate dinner on June 12.

National Chairman Robert S. Strauss and other national party officials said a Wallace aide hadn't given them a go-ahead in time to include Wallace on the invitation. The Wallace aide said he had.

"I don't know whether it is a mixup or a grandstand play," said Bess Abell, coordinator of the dinner, the first of several that seek to raise some $15 million to pay for the television time during the party's July 26-27 fundraising telethon.

The Republican National Committee is going on CBS Television tonight with a 30-minute commercial designed to improve the party's image.

"There is no question what this is," said another top official, asking that his name not be used. "They create this kind of situation so he can run against the establishment."

However, Mickey Griffin, Wallace's top national political adviser, denied that.

In an interview from Montgomery, Ala., Griffin insisted he had given an aide to Strauss permission to use Wallace's name.

"It's interesting that it's always Wallace's name that gets mixed up," he said.

Griffin said he personally favored Wallace's attendance at the dinner because "I thought he needed the exposure."

But he said Wallace was never enthusiastic to attend and that Wallace had told him "it really isn't our type of folks up there. It's just a bunch of rich folks."

The entire episode underlines the increasing strains that many party officials believe will develop as Wallace formally launches his fourth presidential bid later this month.

There is a virtually unanimous view among senior party officials that although Wallace is at the top of some Democratic popularity polls, he lacks the support needed to win the 1976 presidential nomination.

Some assert that Wallace wants to create incidents like

POLITICS With HOFF

Sanford 'Not Impossible'

By JOHN KILGO
Now that Terry Sanford has announced in front of bright lights and scores of national reporters that he plans to run for President of the United States, people all over are asking if the guy's serious.

If Sanford is a candidate that shouldn't be taken lightly, then neither should the above question be disregarded. How in the world can a former Governor of North Carolina, whose strength in his own state is suspect, win the biggest political prize of them all?

"Because America is looking for a fresh face," says former Vermont Governor Phil Hoff. "They're looking for someone who is uncommitted to the old political line. They're looking for a mover, a doer. Terry is the kind of candidate they're looking for."

Hoff says it's unimportant that Alabama Governor George Wallace creamed Sanford in North Carolina four years ago.

"Terry entered the race late four years ago," said Hoff, who is Sanford's National Campaign Coordinator. "He didn't have time to have a real good organization. But more importantly, America has changed since then. The mood of the people is different. People are looking for a change. They want a fresh start with a fresh face."

Hoff concedes that Sanford's chances would not be good at all if one of the other Democratic presidential hopefuls had caught on.

"But no one has caught on," Hoff says. "(Henry) Jackson started way out front, but hasn't moved much. If Terry ever catches on and starts moving, then watch out."

Hoff says the Sanford organization is way ahead of schedule. In terms of people, contributions, and battle plan, he says, the Sanford camp is three months ahead of schedule.

"Terry got tremendous national coverage when he announced for President," Hoff said. "The Washington Post, Boston Globe, New York Times... they all ran it big on the front page. The press is taking Sanford seriously, very seriously, and that's important in a presidential campaign."

Hoff says he thinks Sanford will do very well in areas outside the South. He claims Sanford has already won over much of the leadership in the Northeast, and will have no problem getting the people's support.

Why did Hoff hook on with Sanford?

"I wouldn't have if I didn't think he had a great chance to win," Hoff says. "I was sitting up there in Burlington, Vt., stewing, griping, bitching about what was happening in the country. What we were doing was the wrong way. I wanted someone for President who would do it in a different way, what many of us think is the right way. We're not crazy. If

To the editor:
According to the American Library Association, about 21 million Americans are functionally illiterate, which means that millions are unable to read and understand want ads, job applications, forms for Social Security, and even written driver's license tests. This is a challenge libraries are attempting to tackle with bookmobiles, reading classes and personal help.

While our country boasts 64,000 school libraries, some 45 per cent of all schools have no library facilities. And research has shown the presence and use of a library or media center in the elementary years has a tremendous influence on the reading skills of high school students.

All the libraries or school media centers in this community deserve not only your attention, but your support, for as our society grows more complex and the problems we all have to deal with become more and more complicated.

The power we can put to best advantage is "information". American libraries have been taking inventive and significant steps in the past decade to make the information they house more accessible. Libraries around the country are involved in helping adults continue their education. They are providing special interest and age groups with services that range from toy-lending to film-making classes.

Let's never take libraries for granted.

Actually, some of us dog owners are really upset that while walking our dogs on ropes, chains, or leashes they may urinate on a shrub near the street.

We are planning to organize and send our dogs to toilet training schools. After all, after being confined most of the time to their own houses or yards, who are we to think these creatures are good enough to put a paw on a City street, even while restrained?

If they don't pass toilet training school, then we could just have a law passed to eliminate them entirely, and then perhaps anti-animal people could be truly happy and content and pro-animal people could bring shrubs inside the house and cultivate them as pets.

Can you imagine the sheer joy on a little boy's face when you give him his very first boxwood!

Strength For Today

HE OVERWORKED A HOBBY
"Violon d'Ingres" is a French phrase meaning "hobby," and has a curious origin.

Jean Auguste Ingres was a noted French painter of the early nineteenth century, but throughout the whole of his life he believed and declared that he was a much better violinist than artist. As a matter of fact he was a very ordinary violinist, yet he always tried to convince his contemporaries that he was much better with the bow than with the brush for the simple reason that he wanted things to be that way. Ingres wanted to make a secondary thing in life primary. He deceived himself into believing that he could do much better the thing he wanted to do than the thing the Lord had made it possible for him to do.

All of which constitutes a parable of how the restless human heart turns so often from the beauty of the actual to stand fascinated and in bondage before the lure of illusion.

Near Self-Sufficient In Gold

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Virtually overnight, the United States has become almost self-sufficient in gold and able to exert considerable influence over world gold prices.

The development has been at least partially responsible for a decline in world gold prices from a peak of $199 an ounce late last year to around $165 an ounce recently.

In addition, the United States has not needed to import any gold so far this year, compared with net imports of about 4.5 million ounces in 1974.

The supply of gold that has made the United States self-sufficient has come from the U.S. Treasury, which possesses the world's largest gold stockpile. Treasury officials say a government gold auction later this month will help reduce the amount of imports and thus help keep U.S. dollars from flowing out of the country.

The U.S. stockpile totals about 276 million ounces, equal in value to about $45.5 billion at the recent market price of about $165 an ounce.

"We own more gold than anybody else in the world; nobody will have as much gold as we do for the next 20 to 25 years," said Thomas W. Wolfe, director of the Treasury Department's office of domestic gold and silver operations.

The gold, accumulated over the years, formerly was the government's chief monetary asset and used to back up U.S. currency and to settle international debts.

The treasury held its first public gold auction last January, a few days after Americans received the right to own gold for the first time in more than 40 years.

The treasury has scheduled another gold auction for June 30 when it hopes to sell 500,000 ounces and officials say additional auctions may be held.

Without any more sales of treasury gold, the United States might need to import 2.5 million ounces during the remainder of this year, officials said.

Since the United States traditionally has purchased about 15 to 20 per cent of the annual world supply of gold, the elimination of U.S. gold purchases on world markets for even the past six months has had a depressing effect on prices.

Wolfe said other factors that have restrained world prices have been the low interest by Americans in owning gold for speculative purposes, and a decline in use of gold in this country for jewelry and industrial purposes.

Capture Suspect In Stolen Car Wreck

DUNN, N.C. (AP) — A murder suspect who escaped from a Bridgeport, Conn., state jail a week ago by covering himself with butter was captured after his stolen car hit a rescue truck on Interstate 95, police said today.

The suspect, Bela Krajger, 42, of Stratford, Conn., was caught Wednesday night after he left the accident scene to get his car repaired at a garage, said Police Chief Joseph Davidson.

Krajger is charged with murdering Elizabeth Seeley, 77, a retired museum curator in her Bridgeport home on Sept. 6. Authorities said he escaped early May 29 when he covered his 5-foot-7, 130-pound frame with butter and slipped out a window.

Davidson said Krajger was charged at the garage with leaving the scene of an accident. But he complained of sore legs and was taken to the hospital emergency room where he broke away from officers and ran. He was captured within minutes.

The chief said Krajger had shaved and cut his hair. He was driving a car stolen from a Fairfield, Conn. church last Sunday, Davidson said.

Miss Seeley, a distant cousin of showman P.T. Barnum and retired curator of the Barnum Museum, was found in a bedroom with her feet tied to bed posts with silk stockings. Krajger was charged in a bench warrant while held at the jail on an unrelated burglary charge. He had been held on $200,000 bond.

Hired Recreation Program Supervisor

WINTERVILLE—The Winterville Board of Aldermen Monday night hired Michael Sutton to serve as recreation supervisor for the town's summer recreation program. Sutton is a graduate of D. H. Conley High School and is currently attending East Carolina University.

The board set Monday, June 9, as the date for a public hearing to review the town budget for the coming fiscal year. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the municipal building.

The board named a portion of Secondary Road 1713 from the railroad tracks to the intersection of Church Street to be known in the future as Carroll Street. The property, which runs in front of the new Sonoco Plant, will be annexed into the town limits on July 1. The annexation was done by the N. C. Legislature.

The board asked for a contract price from Worsley, Farley and Prescott, CPA firm, for the audit year ending June 30.

R. E. Boyd and Mrs. Marguerite Dunn requested that funds totaling $960 be included in the town budget for 1975-76 so that a library could be established in the town. Mrs. Dunn, a board member at Sheppard Memorial Library, explained she would do all she could to get a library set up in the town. She explained a building had already been obtained to house the library. The matter was taken under advisement.

Town Clerk Elwood Nobles was asked to contact Seaboard Coastline Railroad and inform them about the condition of several railroad crossings in town. The board said they had received several calls concerning the need for repairs.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Joan Little, 21-year-old black, received a check for $22,000 Wednesday to aid in her defense at her murder trial. She is accused of the icepick slaying of a 62-year-old white jailer in Beaufort County, N.C.

The money was raised in the Memphis area. Miss Little said a defense fund has raised $115,000, the amount of her bail.

She claims she killed the jailer in self defense because he was trying to rape her.

the alleged snub involving the New York dinner to make it easier for him to bolt the party in 1976 and run again as the nominee of the American Independent Party as he did in 1968.

At the same time, the Alabama governor is coming under sharp fire from several of his 1976 Democratic rivals, most notably Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona and former Govs. Terry Sanford of North Carolina and Jimmy Carter of Georgia.

Strauss, however, has paid considerable attention to Wallace over the past two years, placing Griffin on the party's executive committee and going out of his way to assure that the Wallace view is presented in party councils.

He said Wednesday that he hopes Wallace reconsiders his decision against attending the New York dinner.

opinion is waiting to be served. The GOP manifestly is not serving it.

The Whig analogy is persuasive, but not convincing. The basic issue in 1850 was the extension of slavery; it was a much sharper, more explosive issue than the basic issue Rusher postulates today. The Whigs were themselves a young party, not long established; today's Republican party, feeble as it is, has been around a long time. In 1850, the country consisted of 31 states and 23 million people; fewer than 3 million votes were cast in the Pierce-Scott election of '52. Today's political structure is massive.

The weakness in Rusher's argument, or so it seems to me, is that a new major party, if it would succeed, demands more than ideas,

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Thursday, June 5, 1975—5 issues and fortuitous circumstances. It demands human leadership. Rusher's Independence party has no such leadership. He mentions Ronald Reagan, but Reagan modestly declines the honor. He also mentions George Wallace, but Wallace is no conservative. Wallace is a political Bobby Riggs, a hustler, a showman, a master of the trick shot. Without aggressive, respected, commanding leadership, an Independence party would go nowhere.

Other objections come to mind. Our national parties are structurally the sum of 50 state parties; it would take some ingenious political engineering to build a new structure from the top down. A new Independence party would start broke; a respectable national camaign would require funds not easily obtained under new limitations on political contributions. As Rusher himself repeatedly warns, a new major party would have to resist the zealotry of right-wing extremists—the party would have to compromise, and to many of Rusher's friends, "compromise" is a dirty word.

I may be quite wrong, but secession now strikes me as untimely and unwise. If today's conservatives had a Robert E. Lee, it might be a different matter.

Coyotes Howl In West Los Angeles

By JAMES J. DOYLE
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — An encyclopedia describes the coyote as a "valuable scavenger and destroyer of rodents" but some residents of West Los Angeles have other words for the coyotes when the prairie wolves journey into town.

A spokesman for the Los Angeles Animal Regulation Department says it's a sensitive issue.

Starting about this time of year, and through the hot summer months, the coyotes leave the relatively wild areas of the Santa Monica Mountains and move into neighborhood streets in search of water and food. The mountains become virtually waterless in summer.

The spring exodus began weeks ago, and the Los Angeles Times received many letters, pro and con the wily coyote. Some were expressions of pure panic from residents who said they had seen coyotes traveling around with cats in their mouths, and added that it would be children next.

They were quickly answered by ecology-minded citizens who claim coyotes are harmless to pets and the worst they do is knock over an occasional garbage can.

Robert Rush, head of the city's animal regulation department, said the coyotes start moving into the city in the spring when they have their pups. They are found mostly on the west side but, he added, "we get complaints from other parts of the city," even downtown Los Angeles.

He said the coyotes have made the transition to city life and have been able to adapt and survive in an urban area.

"That's quite an achievement in itself."

He said the department doesn't get too many complaints about coyotes marauding but when such complaints are voiced, they frequently find the coyotes have merely been visible.

"They are around but they are not bothering anybody," Rush said. "Normally we just leave them alone. If they are knocking over garbage cans and so forth, we remove the one animal that's doing it."

Then that animal is destroyed. But Rush said coyotes are not pack animals and present no danger to humans. They are family animals. He has never heard of a case where a coyote attacked a human, child or adult.

He said about 400 to 500 coyotes move through the city of Los Angeles during the hot months. Their haunting cry can be heard from the Santa Monica Mountain foothills near Hollywood and Westwood, to the Verdugo Hills in Glendale and Burbank.

"It's really too bad," Rush said. "There are a lot of people who love the coyotes and other wildlife. And right across the street there may be someone who gets panicky."

"The wildlife is here and we are preserving it to the best of our ability."

"Frequently we check complaints of a coyote and find it was a German shepherd. And you tell people and they don't believe you," he said.

Recently in Denver, some Colorado legislators argued for a resolution to urge President Ford to relax a ban on certain poisons that would control coyotes. The resolution was drafted by legislators from the sheep producing areas of that state.

One such legislator said coyotes would be roaming the countryside long after the environmentalists, and everyone else, was dead.

He may have been right. Coyotes have demonstrated an uncanny ability to adapt to civilization, even urban life, unlike many other forms of wildlife. They continue to thrive despite man's encroachment upon their wild domains.

Los Angeles has its share, and the animal regulation department has taken a stand that no wildlife will be destroyed without good reason.

Will Attend Fla. Meeting

Selected As HE Trainee

Miss Judy Norton, a senior at Campbell College, was selected to be a trainee for the Home Economics Extension Office here in Pitt County for the summer. Miss Norton, a home economics major, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Norton of Southern Pines.

Officials of the Federal Land Bank Association of Washington will attend the annual conference for directors and presidents of Federal Land Bank Associations and Production Credit Associations at the Diplomat Hotel, Hollywood, Fla., June 8-10.

The announcement was made by Joe B. Griffin, president of the Land Bank Association. The theme of the conference will be "Improving Rural Life."

Griffin said the conference has been announced by R. A. Darr, president of the Federal Land Bank and Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Columbia, S.C.

The Federal Land Bank Association of Washington serves the long-term credit needs of 1,200 farmers, growers, ranchers and rural homeowners in Beaufort, Pitt, Martin, Washington, Tyrrell, Dare, & Hyde counties with $33,000,000 in outstanding loans.

Other officials of the FLBA of Washington who will attend the conference are R. G. Coburn of Jamesville, chairman; Douglas W. Davenport of Creswell, vice chairman; B. G. Carawan of Pantego, director; Sam C. Winchester of Greenville, director; and Leon G. Ballance of Englehard, director.

JUDY NORTON

This summer trainee program is designed to provide the student with a general understanding of extensions approach in planning and carrying out educational programs.

As a trainee for the Extension Office, she will work closely with each of the extension agents as well as the home economics agents in the county. Miss Norton will visit homes, attend meetings and tours in the areas of child care, home furnishings, nutrition and write newsletters.

Miss Norton hopes to continue her education and then work in the field of home economics.

Man Who Talks With Horses Teaches His Skill To Others

By GREGORY JENSEN
LONDON (UPI) — Henry Blake takes so much pleasure in talking with horses that he's trying to teach everyone to do it.

Blake is a real-life Dr. Doolittle who chats with horses as easily as he talks to another person. He's just written a book to teach horse language to others.

"There's nothing mysterious about it," Blake said, eyeing a passing pony outside a riding stable near Hyde Park.

"Communicating with horses is quite simple, and there's nothing superhuman about it." But there is something eerie about watching Blake with a horse. He is a wiry, jockey-sized outdoorsman of 49, and when he concentrates on a horse something almost tangible passes between them.

Blake, visiting the London stable from his farm in north Wales, broke off an interview in mid-sentence as a small brown mare walked up.

Blake looked hard at the horse. He blew softly into the mare's right nostril, the equine way of saying a friendly hello. Gently the horse nibbled his hand.

"We're on the same wavelength at once, she and I," Blake said. He had never seen the horse before. For about three minutes they chatted—there is no other word—without making a sound.

"We're just exchanging messages of friendship, reassurance, general understanding," Blake said. "I wish I could make you see how ordinary this is."

Ordinary or not, Blake's Souvenir Press book, "Talking With Horses," propounds the theory that telepathy and extra-sensory perception are major parts of horse language. He knows this is highly controversial, though he cannot see why.

"People have been using ESP to control horses for 5,000 years," he said. "They don't think about it, so they aren't consciously aware of it."

"But my wife and I have been studying horse language for 20 years, and we are absolutely convinced that ESP does exist." His book details repeated experiments to prove that horses can communicate without seeing or hearing each other.

Only a small part of horse language uses sounds. Blake has sorted out these sounds, and a horse's meaningful gestures and compiled a remarkable "English-Horse dictionary."

"In it," he writes, "we have taken each of the 47 phrases used by the horse, together with 54 submessages, and we have noted the various ways in which most horses will convey each meaning."

This gets complicated. A horse has 26 different ways of saying "I love you," Blake said, and some phrases have up to 30 variations.

"This fellow won't say anything at all," Blake said, gesturing at a towering black stallion named Commodore. "I can't even get him to say 'hello.' He's just telling me to get lost."

It is rare that Blake can't make a horse do what he wants.

"I am a true centaur, half man, half horse," he writes. "Maybe I am not quite sane, but horses have been my whole life."

He discovered his affinity for them before he could walk. For 30 years he has trained horses others found unmanageable and tamed wild ones from the Welsh mountains.

Now he takes only the toughest cases, for the challenge. He has given up farming and runs riding holidays with the 15 horses he keeps. One of them nearly became the only horse he couldn't tame.

"A pony named Spitfire, appropriately enough," he said. "She'd been beaten and mistreated for eight years until she simply hated humans. She wasn't far off getting to the end of me."

Blake even got around Commodore before long. After 10 minutes with the uncommunicative stallion he was vigorously scratching Commodore's mane—"horses nibble another's mane to show friendship," he said. In a few moments Commodore was telling him just where to scratch.

"People are doing this all over the world," Blake said. "Some do it with dogs. I happen to have made a special study of horses, so I do it with horses."

"What I hope my book does is help people extend the knowledge they already have, and widen the communication they have with their horses."

Fears Of Massive Summer Disorders Are Easing

By G.G. LABELLE
Associated Press Writer

Most authorities say high unemployment and cutbacks in job and recreational programs will not cause the kind of massive rioting that plagued cities in the 1960s. But some expect an upsurge in minor violence and crime.

A few officials also say they are concerned that unemployment and cutbacks may create more extensive violence. Others question the optimistic forecasts for a calm summer.

"It's understandable that mayors, chiefs of police and others are very reluctant to talk about it on the theory that the more you talk about it the more likely it is to occur," said Mayor Richard Hatcher of Gary, Ind.

Hatcher and some other officials have expressed fears of troubles in cities unless the federal government provided extra employment funds, particularly for teenagers. Wednesday the House failed to override President Ford's veto of $5.3 billion for the kind of emergency employment aid Hatcher and the others had sought.

The bill provided $485 million for teen-age summer jobs. The U.S. Conference of Mayors Legislative Action Committee had asked $706 million for such jobs, saying cities will need 1.2 million positions for teenagers this summer.

Cutbacks in job programs from last year's levels seem inevitable.

Hatcher, cochairman of the Legislative Action Committee, said that at best there will be delays in planning job programs just as millions of teenagers begin looking for summer work. Even cities hoping to maintain the same or increased levels face difficulties.

"Because of severe unemployment, especially among minority youths, there will be hundreds and perhaps thousands more seeking jobs," was how Mayor Abraham Beame explained the problem for New York.

Last year, 18,000 youths applied for 3,300 jobs in Kansas City. This year, officials were planning on 4,000 jobs, and applications are already double that, with more applying daily.

In Chicago, Joyce Bolinger of the City Manpower Department said it was hoped the federal government would provide funds to maintain the 36,000 summer jobs of last year, but she said without federal funds there would be only 18,000 such positions.

Police are uncertain about the relationship between unemployment and crime — some see no such relationship — but there is no doubt about high unemployment in cities, particularly among minorities and young people.

While many cities don't keep exact jobless figures for youths, it's agreed teen-age unemployment is far above the over-all rate. The latest figures put over-all unemployment at 15.4 per cent in Detroit, 11.6 per cent in Baltimore, 13.4 per cent in Boston and 12 per cent in Los Angeles.

Nationwide, the over-all unemployment rate in April, the latest month for which figures are available, was 8.9 per cent. It was 14.6 per cent for blacks, 20.4 per cent for teen-agers and 40.2 per cent for minority teen-agers.

Even with the high unemployment and cutbacks in job programs, there are arguments for saying there will be no large-scale violence.

First, most police officials say they've seen no signs of violence developing. Two other reasons given are that authorities are more aware of minorities' problems now and that the frustrated minorities who rioted in big cities in the 1960s have become more sophisticated.

"More people realize that burning and looting don't do any good," said Chicago Deputy Police Superintendent Sam Nolan. "Some of the areas that were burned down in 1968 are still void of buildings. The people realize that the poor only get poorer when this happens."

And the Rev. William Cunningham, who heads a civil rights program in Detroit, said the current recession may be less dangerous than were the rising expectations in 1967, when Detroit suffered a major riot.

"In 1967 there was no economic squeeze," he said. "People saw the light at the end of the tunnel and decided to run for it instead of walk. Now, there is no light."

"There is no mood of rebellion in inner-city Detroit now, no mean mood. The economic problems are very constraining."

Both Gunther and Father Cunningham expected an increase in personal crime, and Hatcher said he was worried the despair and sophistication the two spoke of could produce large-scale violence.

"It's a matter of people becoming so frustrated that they go out and take things into their own hands," he said, adding that knowing not to burn down one's own neighborhood may produce something more ominous than the riots of the 60s.

Victims Identified In Pot Plane Crash

DAWSONVILLE, Ga. (AP) — The Covington, Ga. airport manager and a man under federal indictment have been identified as the victims in the crash of a World War II bomber loaded with a ton of marijuana.

The bodies, found charred in the smoking wreckage, were identified by the Georgia Bureau of Investigation as William H. Flanigan, 48, of Covington, and Augustus Andrew Platt of Duluth.

Flanigan, a native of Norcross, was a flight instructor for 20 years and ran Flanigan's Aviation Co. in Covington. He managed the Covington airport but was not salaried.

Flanigan was a mechanic in the Army Air Corps in World War II and received his pilot's license in 1947.

Platt and another man, identified as Dallas Norman House, faced a federal indictment on charges of bringing a plane loaded with 5.2 tons of marijuana to an airport near Windermere last Aug. 21.

The B25 bomber, which was being chased by U. S. customs agents for a neutrality violation, crashed into a hillside near Dawsonville early Tuesday morning.

Investigators found more than 40 bales of carefully wrapped marijuana about a mile from the crash along with spotlights apparently used to mark the drop area.

Authorities estimated the street value of the marijuana to be $600,000.

The Federal Aviation Administration said its records showed the plane once belonged to Ben Kerr III of Dallas, Tex. Kerr said he sold the plane in 1973 to I. N. Burchinal of Paris, Tex.

Burchinal said he sold it last year for $14,000 to Charles Vance Moody of Tampa, Fla., who expressed an interest in restoring the plane to military configuration.

Unprepared To Aid A Former President

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Harry J. Humphries says he wanted to help a Southeast Asian refugee reach America. But he was "not quite prepared for having a president of a country."

Humphries and the Calvary Lutheran Church of suburban Brookfield, joined to help find a home for the family of a worthy refugee.

The worthy refugee turned out to be Cheng Heng, interim president of Cambodia in 1970. His identity had been kept secret to avoid publicity and Humphries didn't discover his identity until last Friday.

Mrs. Humphries, whose husband operates a tennis court construction company, said Tuesday the plan had been to provide a refugee family with employment. But, she said, "We can hardly put a president behind a shovel."

"I feel a little disappointed," Humphries said. "All I have is a construction company to offer."

He said Cheng, a prosperous farmer who had to flee his land in the Cambodian highlands during the Khmer Rouge rebellion, might be interested in working with a division of the company involved with artificial court coverings.

Thirteen members of the Cheng family arrived here from Paris during the weekend, and became guests in four homes of church members.

Cheng, 55, was president of the National Assembly and served a few months as national president in 1970 after the government of Prince Sihanouk was overthrown.

He said through an interpreter as saying he "is willing to do anything that is productive" to earn a living.

Participate In Tennis Lessons

GRIFTON—Thirty-four tennis students have been participating in the spring series of tennis lessons sponsored by the Grifton Recreation Commission, according to instructor Larry Brooks. Classes are held at 6:00 p.m. on Mondays and Thursday at the Town Park and both adults and young people are participating.

Brooks says he plans a tournament soon.

Short Day

Superintendent of City Schools Glenn Cox has announced abbreviated hours of operation for Friday, June 6, the final school day of the 1974-75 school year.

For Agnes Fullilove and the six elementary schools, dismissal time will be at 12:15. Dismissal hour for Aycock Junior High and Rose High will be at 1 p.m.

Lunch will be served prior to dismissal at all the schools except for Rose High.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market slipped into a broad decline today, depressed by a further rise in wholesale prices and concern over oil costs.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 6.42 at 833.54. Losers outstripped gainers by more than a 2-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Trading was fairly active. Brokers blamed the selling partly on the government's report that wholesale prices rose at a 4.8 per cent annual rate in May, while the rise was less than the 18 per cent annual rate recorded in April, analysts said it nevertheless contrasted unfavorably with the declines posted in the four months before that.

There were two sources of uneasiness on the oil price outlook. The head of Iran's central bank warned that petroleum producing nations might post a 30 to 35 per cent price increase in September.

And a Saudi Arabian official indicated that his country was dropping its stand against higher oil prices.

Also looming over the market was the unemployment rate for May, due to be released Friday morning.

Central & South West was the most active issue on the Big Board, unchanged at 16 1/4. A 100,000-share block changed hands at 16.

The NYSE's composite index fell 31 to 48.93 in the first half hour.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index slipped .10 to 89.94.

Investigated Three Mishaps Yesterday

More than 1,300 property damage resulted from three collisions investigated here yesterday by Greenville Police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 5:59 p.m. mishap on Greenville Boulevard, 175 feet East of the Arlington Boulevard intersection involving cars driven by Vanessa Johnetta Davis of Roper and Marvin Eugene Whaley of 2710 Shawnee Pl.

Police, who estimated damage at $225 to the Davis car and $350 to the Whaley auto, charged Mrs. Davis with failing to yield her intended movement could be made in safety.

Joann Ward Parks of 407 Arbor St. was charged with following too close following investigation of a 4:26 p.m. mishap on 14th Street 90 feet East of the Charles Street intersection.

The Parks car, officers reported, collided with a vehicle driven by Susan Thompson Cole of 402 Lewis St. causing an estimated $190 damage to the Cole car and $230 damage to the Parks vehicle.

Ada Mae Sasser of Ayden was charged with failing to yield the right of way following investigation of a 10:54 a.m. mishap at the intersection of First and Cotanche Streets.

Officers said the Sasser car collided with a vehicle driven by Kathy Casper of Route 4, Greenville causing an estimated $225 damage to the Casper vehicle and $110 damage to the Sasser auto.

Patients Join Doctors In Big Insurance Suit

By the Associated Press
A group of doctors and patients has filed a $100 million lawsuit in Rhode Island against four insurance companies, and the American Medical Association president says a doctors' union may have to be formed to solve the malpractice insurance crisis.

The class action suit was filed Wednesday in federal court at Providence on behalf of eight doctors and seven patients. It accuses the firms of conspiring to restrain trade in the sale of malpractice policies to Rhode Island doctors.

The suit alleged the four companies violated the Sherman Antitrust Act in the introduction of a new form of malpractice insurance coverage, the "claims-made" policy.

"Claims-made" insurance protects a doctor against claims filed during the life of a policy. But the doctor may be unprotected if sued after the policy expires, even though the alleged malpractices occurred during the life of the policy. "Occurrence policies" protect a doctor as long as the alleged malpractice occurred while the doctor carried the insurance.

The defendants are St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance Co., Aetna, Travelers and Hartford. The suit asked the federal court to issue injunctions against the four companies to end their refusal to insure all physicians and hospitals on an occurrence basis.

Meanwhile, Dr. Malcolm Todd, the AMA president, said in Chicago that the malpractice crisis could be solved by state legislatures within hours, but doctors may have to unionize to force them to act.

"In Atlantic City (site of the upcoming AMA convention) I am going to recommend creation of a committee ... to inform our members about collective bargaining," Todd told a group of doctors and nurses in a speech at Columbus Hospital here.

"It may be imperative that we take this militant stance," he said. "It seems to be the only way we can get the attention of our legislators."

Todd said the AMA will consider forming a doctor-owned company to underwrite malpractice insurance. He also said the organization will concentrate on limiting contingency fees paid to attorneys handling malpractice suits.

In Pennsylvania, an out-of-court settlement between a firm which owns 40 hospitals in 11 states and one of the nation's largest malpractice insurance companies was reached Wednesday to assure continued coverage through next year.

American Medicorp, Inc., based in Bala Cynwyd, Pa. had sought an injunction against the Argonaut Insurance Co. from canceling a malpractice insurance contract with Medicorp.

An attorney for Medicorp, William Taylor, said Argonaut agreed to honor its contract through May 1976. "They will write the same policy with the same terms for the same rate," Taylor said.

Work slowdowns continued Wednesday in several states, including New York where Gov. Hugh Carey set up a special panel to review the malpractice insurance situation.

Leaders of a doctors' protest over New York's new medical malpractice insurance law planned to meet with colleagues today to persuade them to end a job action in the New York City area.

But, the bill would require surcharges to total about $60 million and it wasn't clear whether Ingram's surcharges were too low or if drivers with clean records would face a general rate increase because of the plan.

Carlton Hall by Thomasville.

The new affluence accompanying England's rise as the world's mightiest nation in the early 18th Century created an unprecedented demand for fine furnishings. Cabinetmaking flourished and cabinet-makers began enjoying new status with the freedom of expression they had never known. So innovative, so fashionably resplendent and so elegant were the works of this era that it is known as the Golden Age of Furniture. Thomasville's CARLTON HALL is a meticulous blending of the best of these 18th Century English designs ... from Queen Anne on through the Georgian, Chippendale and Hepplewhite periods. Willow design pulls with pierced backplates are finished in bright brass to add a glowing, jewel-like quality to the collection. And for additional authenticity, CARLTON HALL features premium cherry solids and veneers on all exposed surfaces. A medium wood tone Hepplewhite finish of richness and character is artfully applied to enhance the quality construction materials and provide furniture you'll cherish for many years. CARLTON HALL offers you the 18th Century beauty and the Thomasville quality that your home deserves.

Golf, Tennis Coaches Named

Assistant Athletic Director Bill Cain has been named the new head tennis coach at East Carolina University. Cain will fill the vacancy left by Wes Hankins, who resigned at the end of the 1975 season.

For the past two years Cain has served as head golf coach. His being named tennis coach created a vacancy on the golf staff, which has been filled by Walter (Mac) McLendon.

McLendon served for two years as assistant golf coach under Cain on a volunteer basis. He is also a faculty member of East Carolina in the Department of Secondary Education, School of Education.

Cain joined the East Carolina staff in 1968 as freshman football coach. Since that time he has served as Business Manager of Athletics, head golf coach and Assistant Athletic Director. He is a graduate of East Carolina University and a native of Rockingham. McLendon joined the East Carolina faculty in 1971, following a brief stay at Indian Trail Junior High School in Union County. At Indian Trail, McLendon was head basketball and baseball coach.

A native of Oakboro, McLendon graduated from Mars Hill College in 1964 and earned his Master's Degree from East Carolina University in 1971.

Athletic Director Clarence Stasavich commented, "Bill Cain is somewhat more familiar with tennis than golf and will be in a position to continue with our improvement of the tennis program."

"Mac McLendon has given considerable assistance in golf over the last two years and is acquainted with our golf program such as to keep it at its current high level."

Both men take over their new positions immediately.

Exchange Gains Tar Heel Lead

The Exchange took a 7-4 victory over Pepsi-Cola yesterday in the Tar Heel Little League and took over sole possession of first place in the league.

The two went into the game tied for first, a half-game ahead of the Moose. The Exchange is now 7-2 for the year, while Pepsi and the Moose are tied for second with 6-3 records.

Pepsi got the first run of the game, pushing ahead in the top of the second. Ed Yancey walked and moved up on a wild pitch. Tim Shank singled, driving him in.

The Exchange came right back in their half of the frame to push into the lead, scoring a pair of runs. John Williams singled and Steve Irwin cracked out a two-run homer.

Pepsi tied it up in the top of the third on Jeff Wilson's solo homer, making it 2-2.

But the Exchange again came right back on the heels of that to take the lead. This time they pushed in three runs for a 5-2 lead. Billy Kittrell reached on an error and moved up on an out. Gordon Douglas singled and a double by Irwin brought both runners around. Billy Bost singled, driving in Irwin.

In the fifth, the Exchange added its other two runs. Kittrell singled and Mark Douglas got a hit. Gordon Douglas singled, loading the bases. Irwin singled in Kittrell, but Mark Douglas was cut down. Bost reached on an error, scoring Gordon Douglas.

Pepsi got two more in the sixth. Scott Wilson singled and Kevin Richards doubled. An error on the play let both come around to score.

Ron Staggs Is Montreal Choice

NEW YORK (AP)—Otis Foster, who batted .475 and hit 30 home runs for High Point College, has been picked by Boston in the first round of the professional baseball free-agent draft.

Foster also has been chosen for the NAIA all-star team by a committee of coaches.

Gary Robinson, a catcher who hit .390 for Gardner-Webb College, also made the All-NAIA.

Sixteen rounds of the baseball draft were held Wednesday, with more than a dozen Carolina-area players among the 384 selected. A secondary phase of the draft is being held today.

Here are Carolina players besides Foster who were drafted: Round three—Philadelphia, Raymond LaPointe, pitcher, Baptist College; St. Louis, Michael Ramsey, shortstop, Appalachian State.

Round four—Philadelphia, Dickie Noles, pitcher, Charlotte; Atlanta, Hank Small, outfielder, South Carolina.

Round six—Montreal, Ronald Staggs, first baseman, East Carolina University.

Round seven—Pittsburgh, Heyward Edgington, catcher, Blair, S.C. Round nine—Houston, Jimmy Hickman, outfielder-third baseman, Loris, S.C.

Round 11—California, Stephen King, catcher, South Carolina; Texas, Hal Hutchens, pitcher, Wilmington, N.C.

Round 12—California, Mike Merritt, pitcher, North Carolina.

Round 13—Philadelphia, Gregory Norris, pitcher, Brunswick, N.C.; Baltimore, Gregory Ward, pitcher, South Carolina.

Round 14—Chicago, White Sox, Jon Dempsey, pitcher, N.C. State.

Round 15—Chicago Cubs, Richard Alexander, outfielder, Matthews, N.C.; Kansas City, Henry Greene, pitcher, Bluffton, S.C.

Beanball Exchange Livens Up Contest

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

San Diego's Bill Greif played hit-and-run against the Phillies but slugger Greg Luzinski wasn't playing.

The Padres and the Phils enlivened their game with an exchange of beanballs Wednesday night. First Greif hit Philadelphia's Dave Cash in the sixth. Then Tug McGraw threw close to San Diego's John Grubb in the seventh. When Greif fired one over Luzinski's head in the bottom of the seventh, the big outfielder charged the mound.

"I hit him a few times," said Luzinski. "He ran looking for help. What I said to him isn't printable."

Both teams emptied their benches, there was a lot of milling around and shoving, but the only casualty was Padre third baseman Ted Kubiak who caught an elbow on the head. The umpires, surprisingly, decided not to kick anyone out of the game.

"They were two people wanting each other," explained plate umpire Doug Harvey. "Just let 'em go at each other. We surrounded the group looking for cheap shots. A cheap shot and the man goes."

No one went. Oh yes, Philadelphia won the ballgame 7-2.

Mike Schmidt and Ollie Brown homered for the Phils and Wayne Twitchell, 4-6, was the winner. Schmidt's homer was his 10th of the season and fourth in the last three games.

Jaycees Upset By Coca-Cola

Coca-Cola pulled off a 6-4 upset victory over the Jaycees in the North State Little League yesterday, handing the league leaders their first defeat of the season.

The Jaycees, however, held onto their lead, with an 8-1 record, while Coke climbed to 4-5.

The league leaders scored first, getting three runs in the first, as if they were going to continue their winning streak. Larry Talbert singled and Teddy Gartman walked. Mike Pollard reached on a two-base error, scoring Talbert. Gartman stole home, as Pollard stole third. An error then allowed him to come home with the third run.

It stayed that way until the fifth inning when the Jaycees added another run to make it 4-0. Talbert walked and Gartman singled. Kenny Barnes doubled, driving in Talbert.

Then, in the bottom of the fifth, Coke exploded for six big runs, charging into a lead that won the game for them. Todd Lovette led off with a single and Billy Brannigan got another hit. Jeff Camp singled, loading the bases. Barry Tyson reached on a fielder's choice that was errored, scoring Lovette. Ricky Hardee walked, scoring Brannigan. Chuck Allen hit into a fielder's choice, getting Camp at the plate. But Skip Cannon walked, scoring Tyson, and Raynor Casey singled, driving in Hardee with the tying run.

Lovette then reached on a two-base error, letting both Allen and Cannon score, providing Coke with the runs needed to pull off the upset win.

Pirates Host Heels In Summer Opening

The Fifth North Carolina Collegiate Summer Baseball League season will get under way Saturday at 7:30 p.m. when the University of North Carolina collides with East Carolina University here at Harrington Field.

The game is the first of 32 for each team this season. For Walter Rabb and George Williams, the visiting and home coaches respectively, it won't be the easiest game of the year either. Along with UNC and ECU, two national placers and a much, much improved team will provide opposition: Louisville College and UNC-

Wilmington finished third and was still competing in the junior college and NAIA tourneys, respectively, while Fayetteville Methodist College has had one of its best teams in years this past spring.

The opening game marks the return of East Carolina to the summer loop after a one-year absence. In 1974, Louisville all but ran away with the regular-season title, while the Tar Heels battled the Hurricanes down to the wire to capture the tournament title.

League president Jim Mallory reported that attendance was up in 1974 and, with the strong field ready for 1975 play, interest and competition should be higher than ever.

The 1975 schedule:
June 7 UNC at ECU; 8 ECU at Methodist; 9 UNC-W at UNC; 10 Louisville at UNC and Methodist at UNC-W; 11 Louisville at ECU; 12 UNC at Methodist and ECU at UNC-W; 13 UNC-W at ECU; 14 Methodist at Louisville; 15 UNC-W at Methodist and UNC at Louisville; 16 OPEN; 17 Louisville at UNC-W and ECU at UNC; 18 Methodist at UNC; 19 Methodist at ECU and Louisville at UNC; 20 ECU at UNC-W; 21 UNC at Methodist and UNC-W at Louisville; 22 ECU at Methodist and UNC-W at UNC; 23 OPEN; 24 ECU at Louisville and Methodist at UNC; 25 Louisville at UNC-W; 26 UNC-W at Methodist and UNC at Louisville; 27 Methodist at ECU; 28 UNC at UNC-W and Methodist at Louisville; 29 Methodist at Louisville; 30 Louisville at ECU.

July 1 UNC-W at ECU; 2 UNC at UNC-W; 3 UNC-W at UNC; 4 Methodist at ECU and UNC at Louisville; 5 ECU at UNC and Louisville at Methodist; 6 UNC-W at Louisville and Methodist at UNC; 7 OPEN; 8 UNC at ECU; 9 Louisville at Methodist and UNC at UNC-W; 10 Methodist at UNC-W; 11 Louisville at UNC; 12 ECU at Methodist and Louisville at UNC-W; 13 ECU at Louisville and UNC at Methodist; 14 OPEN; 15 Methodist at UNC and ECU at UNC-W; 16 Louisville at ECU and UNC-W at Methodist; 17 UNC at UNC-W; 18 Louisville at Methodist; 19 ECU at UNC and Louisville at UNC-W; 20 Methodist at Louisville; 21 ECU at UNC-W; 22 ECU at Methodist and UNC-W at Louisville; 23 UNC at ECU; 24 Methodist at UNC; 25 ECU at Louisville and UNC-W at Methodist; 26 Louisville at UNC and UNC-W at ECU; 27 Methodist at UNC-W and UNC at Louisville; 28 Louisville at UNC; 29 UNC at Methodist and UNC-W at ECU; 30 Louisville at Methodist and UNC at ECU; 31 UNC-W at Louisville.

Aug 1 Louisville at ECU and Methodist at UNC; 2 UNC-W at UNC; 3 ECU at UNC.

Rampants Set Playoff Dates

Rose High School will play host to Harding High School of Charlotte starting Wednesday at Harrington Field for the State 4-A Baseball championship.

The Rampants, as the Eastern champions, gained the home field advantage. Rose won the Division I title and went on to down Hoggard, Richmond County and Laurinburg in the east. Harding, runner-up in Division X, captured the Western title.

Games will be played Wednesday, Thursday and, if needed, Friday at 8 p.m. nightly, all at Harrington.

Admission for the games will be $2 per night for all spectators.

For the series, parking facilities will be expanded. In addition to the lot beside the field, with entrance from Charles Blvd., the lot behind the track, next to the practice football field, entering from Fieldside, will also be opened.

Business Now Hogan's Pride

EDITOR'S NOTE: What does one of golf's premier players do when he has retired from competitive play? In the final installment of a three-part series based on a lengthy interview, Ben Hogan discusses his current activities and his future.

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Ben Hogan no longer stands in the fairway with a five-iron in his hand. Thousands of dollars no longer ride on his precise swing.

Instead, the man who won nine major golf championships can be found sitting behind a mahogany desk in a lushly carpeted office, puffing a cigarette, pausing for a sip of coffee and studying business plans.

Golf is still Ben Hogan's all-consuming love. No longer, however, does he dream of winning a fifth U.S. Open. His competitive playing days are over. But the 62-year-old golfing immortal is still competitive off the fairways.

Hogan, a bit of gray now showing at the temples and a limp in his walk from a near-fatal automobile accident in 1949, runs the company which bears his name. It puts out a top brand of golf balls, clubs and bags.

"It's a challenge and you have to keep ahead," he said. "We come out with a new model club each year, just like the automobile makers do. I refuse to approve anything unless it's good."

Arriving early in the morning, Hogan checks with engineers, designers and assembly line workers. Sometimes pausing for only a brief lunch, he will take new clubs and balls and test them himself.

"I still enjoy hitting a golf ball," said Hogan, who now plays only an occasional round with friends because of his knee injury.

And once Hogan puts the finish on the day at the plant, it's off the Trophy Club, a 36-hole championship layout he is building between Dallas and Fort Worth.

He plans to spend most of his time at the course when he retires from the golf equipment company in three years. "I like building things and that's my recreation now," he said in an interview. "Golf isn't fun anymore because I can't play like I used to."

"I certainly don't feel cheated because I can't play regularly anymore like Sam Snead," he said. "I think it's marvelous that Sam can keep going the way he does. I love golf, but I have other ways to keep close to the game."

"I wake up in the middle of the night and have an idea about a new club shaft and leave myself a note..."

He says in three years he expects to complete work on a course he's had in mind designing for some years.

And when he gets that course ready, Hogan will get himself a moving truck—he'll need a large one—and truck all his trophies to it. The course and all around it will stand as constant reminder of one of the game's greatest.

Jim Smith, a senior at Reid Ross High School in Fayetteville, has signed a grant-in-aid to play football at East Carolina University, it was announced today.

Smith, 6-4, 225-pounds, is an offensive tackle. He will play in the North-South All-Star game in July in Greenville.

Reportedly, the youngster had narrowed his choices down to East Carolina and the University of North Carolina prior to making his final decision.

"Jim is an outstanding offensive lin man, and will provide some help for us in an area where we need it," East Carolina Coach Pat Dye said.

Grifton
Grifton Golf and Country Club's annual club championship matches are underway now in both the women's and men's divisions. About two rounds still remain to be played.

Robersonville
Pat Smith picked up a hole in one during the past week at the Robersonville Golf and Country Club. Smith's ace came on the 180-yard eighth hole. He used a four-iron for the shot. Playing with him were Cobby Deans, Johnny Ross and Roy Ballard.

Brook Valley
Twenty-two teams took part in the Mixed Spectacular Tournament held this Sunday at the Brook Valley Golf and Country Club. First place went to the team of Betsy and Walker Allen, and Maria and Jim Keenan. They recorded a 63.

Second place was Mary and Earl Bruton and Jane and Dick Worsley with a 66. Third were Fred and Jane Sauve and Marge and Larry Taggart with a 67.

Ed Reep recorded a 36 for his best nine-hole score. Bill Collier Jr. had a 39-36-75 for his best round.

The Pitt County Golf Tournament will be held this Saturday and Sunday. The first round will be played at the Ayden Golf and Country Club on Saturday. The second round will be held Sunday at Brook Valley. A total of 64 golfers are participating.

A junior clinic will be held June 11, 12 and 13 for both boys and girls, 8-18. It will be held daily from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Those interested should call the pro shop for registration.

The Father-Son Tournament will be held June 14-15. Those wishing to play must sign up prior to June 13.

The junior championship will be held on June 17-18 at the club. It is open to members children, 8-18. Players must sign up prior to June 16.

Farmville
The Farmville Golf and Country Club will play host to the Kiwanis Tournament on Saturday and Sunday, June 14-15. The 36-hole tournament will be played after the first day's round. Sign ups are now underway at the club.

Greenville
At the last Ladies Day at the Greenville Golf and Country Club, a Captain's Choice tournament was held. The team of Joan Warren, Dardie Longino, Dorothy Doyle and Betty Kittrell took first place with a 35.

Also shooting a 35, but finishing second after comparing cards were Nancy Monroe, Mary Vars and Mary Mann. Third was Della Dayson, Clara Shackell and Gay Waldrop with a 36.

Clinics are scheduled this month for junior boys and girls. The junior girls clinic will be held on June 16 from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m., and is limited to the first 15 to sign up. The junior boys clinic will be on June 18, at the same times, and is also limited to the first 15.

The junior boys tournament will be held on June 19, with a June 14 deadline for signing up. The junior girls tourney will be June 17, with a June 12 deadline. The tournament is open to members' children, 8-15.

A Beginner Ladies Clinic, for those with a 36 handicap or no handicap will be held on June 16 from 10 to 11 a.m. It is limited to the first 20 signing up. A tournament will be held on June 17 at 4 p.m., with two flights. A winner and runner-up trophy will be awarded in each flight.

Two women recently turned in their best nine hole scores. Dorothy Woolees recorded a 43, while Kathy Blount had a 47.

Molt Massey III carded a hole-in-one on the third hole, a 139-yarder. He used a seven iron for the shot.

Odom Gains Ground With Shutout Victory

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

John "Blue Moon" Odom made a strong pitch for more money Wednesday night ... in fact, he made several strong pitches.

Odom, fighting with the Cleveland Indians for a higher salary, added weight to his argument with a splendid 4-0 shutout over the Kansas City Royals.

"I had to prove something out there tonight," said Odom after his sparkling two-hitter. "I had to show them I could go out and pitch. I think other ballclubs are looking at me."

Odom, traded May 22 to the Indians from the Oakland A's, was immediately unhappy with the salary paid him at Cleveland. He claimed that the Indians have to make up for play-off and World Series money he might get with the defending World Champion A's, which amounts to about $8,000. Odom has been with the A's in their past three championship years.

Odom said that if the Indians don't cough up the money he wants, he'd like to leave Cleveland and would prefer to either be traded to the Texas Rangers, or go back to the A's.

In the other American League games, it was: Boston 7, Chicago 6; Texas 3, Baltimore 2 in 12 innings; New York 6, Minnesota 3; California 2, Detroit 1 and Oakland 11, Milwaukee 3.

Home runs by Boog Powell, John Lowenstein and Alan Ashby backed Odom's great pitching.

Daniel Loses First Contest

State Highway ended the Daniel Construction victory streak last night, handing the Industrial Softball League leader its first loss of the season. In other games, Greenville Utilities and The Daily Reflector look wins.

State Highway captured its victory, 13-8, in the opening game. State Highway opened up with one in the first, while Daniel came back to match that in their half of the inning. State Highway came back with five in the third inning, including a homer by Worthington. They added three in the fifth and four in the sixth to wrap it up.

Daniel came back with one in the fourth, one in the fifth on Collins homering, four in the sixth with Gray homering, and one in the seventh, with another homer by Gray, but it wasn't enough. Greenville Utilities downed Carolina Telephone, 9-2, in the second game, eliminating Carolina Telephone from any chance at the title. GUCo pushed over two in the second, three in the fifth and four in the sixth.

Carolina Telephone got both of its runs in the seventh on a homer by J. Whitehurst.

In the final game, The Daily Reflector took a 15-8 win over the Jaycees. The Reflector got three in the first, then added one in the fifth. Four more came over in the sixth, and they closed out with seven in the seventh to wrap it up, leading all the way.

The Jaycees got tow in the second, one in the fifth, four in the sixth on a homer by W. Rivenbark, and one in the seventh.

Four American Gain British Amateur Wins

By NOEL HUGHES
AP Sports Writer

HOYLAK, England (AP) — Vinny Giles, Jay Haas, Dick Siderowf and John Grace, all U.S. Walker Cuppers, scored fourth-round victories today in the British Amateur Golf Championship.

Meantime, Craig Stadler of La Jolla, Calif., another Walker Cupper, suffered a 2-up fourth-round loss to England's Geoffrey Marks.

Giles, of Richmond, Va., was the first American to gain the lead 16 when he beat Scotland's Peter Wilson 5 and 4; Haas, of Winston Salem, N.C., rallied to down Scotland's Ian Carslaw 2 and 1; Siderowf, of Westport, Conn., scored a 1-up triumph over England's Keith Tate, and Grace, of Fort Worth, Tex., defeated Geoff Godwin of England 3 and 1.

An original U.S. entry of 37 hopefuls had started as hot favorites to produce a winner, but the American contingent was almost shattered by a mixture of bad weather, bad luck and plain bad play.

Even the winners were nervous.

Dick Siderowf, a stockbroker from Westport, Conn. and winner of this coveted match play crown in 1973, summed up his thoughts this way: "I'm feeling very shaky and I'm certainly not going to win when the pressure comes on if I don't get my game right."

Another survivor into the fourth round, 27-year-old John Grace of Fort Worth, Tex., said his game also wasn't 100 per cent yet.

"I just hope it comes right when it really matters," said Grace, a real estate businessman.

Even the usually cheerful and talkative Craig Stadler, a senior at the University of Southern California, was subdued and anxious.

"I'm getting to know the course better each day," Stadler said. "But I'm still doing poorly on the front side."

There are plenty of reasons for all the worrying thoughts.

Six out of the eight seeded players were gone at the end of round three Wednesday. The only surviving seeds were Siderowf and England's Dick Eyles.

Upsets were the rule. They included little Neville Chesses, a 17-year-old English youngster who bounced out U.S. champion and joint top seed Jerry Pate of Pensacola, Fla., and Nicky Faldo, another 17-year-old from Scotland who overwhelmed seeded Englishman John Davies with an astonishing seven birdies.

Then there was Gavin Levenson, unknown outside his native South Africa, who stunned George Burns of Port Washington, N.Y., the other top seed, with a two-hole second round win.

Hoping to put these shocks behind him, Siderowf now meets England's Jack Tate. Grace is up against Geoffrey Godwin of England while Stadler's fourth round opponent is Geoff Marks of England.

The other American fourth round hopes hinged on Hay Haas of Winston-Salem, N.C., and Vinny Giles of Richmond, Va. Haas takes on Scotland's Peter Wilson and Giles meets the seeded Eyles.

Tourney Tee Times

The Pitt County Men's Golf Championship will be held Saturday and Sunday at Ayden Golf and Country Club and the Brook Valley Golf and Country Club.

Saturday's round will be played at Ayden, while play will move to Brook Valley for the final round on Sunday.

Foursomes will play at the same times on both days.

Tee-off times are as follows:

9:30: Raymond Linco, James Langley, Jim Ross, Tom Lewis
10:00: Jim Agee, R.G. Burnett, Cletus Jackson, Andy Bales
10:30: Glen Strickland, Bill Wingeat, Edward Serua, John Phillips

Summer Track Briefs

The Coastal Carolina Track Club, in conjunction with the Greenville Recreation Department, will again sponsor age-group, all-comers track meets this summer at the East Carolina University track.

All meets will be held on Saturday with registration starting at 3 p.m. Field events will begin at 4 p.m. and the running events at 5:30 p.m.

The first meet is scheduled for June 14, with the schedule continuing through August 2, when a championship meet will be held.

The program promoted physical fitness and at the same time provides for competition for self-improvement. Participants will be competing against people in their own age group.

Age division will be as follows, 9 and under, 10-11, 12-13, 14-15, 16-19, 20-24, 25-29, 30-34, 35-39, 40-44, 45-49, and 50 and over. Awards will be given to the top three place finishers in each event in each age group.

Competition will be held in the long jump, high jump, shot put, discus, triple jump, hurdles, 100-yard dash, 220, 440, 880, mile, two mile and either three or six mile, 440 relays and mile relays.

An entry fee of 75 cents per person will be charged, with no limit on the number of events a person may enter.

Further information can be obtained from Clem Williams, 825-9431.

Jock's Upset In City Play

White's Insulation pulled off a 9-8 upset of second place Jock's in the National Division of the City Softball League last night. Other winners included Pier Five and Morgan Printers.

In the opening game, Pier Five took an 8-4 victory over the Rockets. Pier Five pushed over two runs in the second and came back with two more in the third. They added one in the fourth, then got two in the fifth with W. Briley homering. One more came over in the seventh, as Briley got another round-tripper.

The Rockets got three in the fourth and one in the sixth as they trailed all the way.

Morgan Printers romped to a 22-4 victory over Baggett's in the second game. Morgan got five runs in the first inning to effectively put the game away. They added six in the third, four

Many Marijuana-Smuggling Planes Said Crashing

By MARTIN MERZER
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Every day about 150 airplanes laden with marijuana cross the borders of the United States, and federal officials say a growing number of them aren't completing their illicit missions.

"The pilots come a dime-a-dozen. Whether they can fly is immaterial," Jacques Kiere, director of a federal drug enforcement intelligence agency, said Wednesday.

Kiere said his agency, the El Paso (Texas) Intelligence Center, knows of 49 crashes since Jan. 1 involving planes smuggling marijuana into this country. While many of those crashes occurred in other countries, all involved planes connected with marijuana traffic in the United States, he said.

Officials attribute the number of failed missions to the greed and inexperience of smugglers and enforcement efforts of local and federal officers.

"The smugglers tend to overload their planes, and the pilots often land on undeveloped strips and pieces of road," Kiere said.

David Costa, deputy regional director of the Federal Drug Enforcement Agency in Miami, said a major operation by Jamaican and American agents last year dealt a severe blow to the Jamaican marijuana industry.

The mission, dubbed Operation Buccaneer, ended with the confiscation of 730,000 pounds of marijuana and 8,083 pounds of marijuana seeds, Costa said.

As a result, smugglers began concentrating on the Colombian and Mexican brands.

To carry the marijuana that far, smugglers needed long-range, large-payload, dependable machines. Enter the World War II B25, Lockheed Lodestar and Constellation airplanes.

"The bombers can carry pot in the bomb bays, which are doubly effective because if the pilot suspects he is being followed he can dump the stuff before we catch up or just pass low over trucks or whatever and make the delivery without even landing," Kiere said.

For people seeking to make a lot of money quick, marijuana smuggling offers large rewards at comparatively little risk.

Pot retails on the street for about $300 a pound, depending on quality and location. It can be bought in large quantities for $8-$10 a pound in Colombia.

If 150 planes cross the borders each day, that means about 52,500 flights a year.

Last year, only about 1,700 persons were arrested for trafficking in marijuana, said Ted Swift, a spokesman for the DEA in Miami.

In the Southeast and Caribbean area, about 35,500 pounds of marijuana — the equivalent of 20 plane-loads — were confiscated last year. Swift said the region accounts for most of the drug confiscations.

Kiere said the B25 that crashed Tuesday in a field near Dawsonville, Ga., had a subsidiary gas tank that allowed it to travel 3,000 miles at 275 miles an hour.

Two men were killed in that crash, and a ton of marijuana was found within a mile of the crash site.

In other recent incidents: —A converted World War II Navy patrol plane, a Lockheed Lodestar, crashed last week near Rockwood, Tenn. It was carrying a ton of marijuana wrapped in Colombian newspapers. Two Florida men died.

—Last September, a DC3 carrying two tons of marijuana wrapped in Colombian newspapers was seized by police at Chattanooga, Tenn. Two Florida men were arrested.

—At least three planes carrying marijuana have crashed in Florida this year, including one in a swampy area near Gainesville. Two men survived the crash. They were extricated from an upside-down plane, which police said yielded 1,000 pounds of pot.

Last year in Florida alone, there were about half a dozen crashes of planes connected with marijuana deliveries, officials said.

Kiere said most of the smuggling planes are operated by well-financed drug rings.

"A Constellation costs about $1 million and we have run across organizations with as many as 26 planes," he said. "That group was partially busted. It's the old story — we arrest the pilot and a few others, but the financiers and the other big boys get away."

EPIC, a joint operation created last year by the DEA and the Border Patrol, works with Customs, Coast Guard and federal aviation officials to keep tabs on suspicious planes.

But manpower shortages throughout the enforcement agencies keep officials from intercepting planes virtually certain to be carrying illegal drugs, Kiere said.

"During one test period in Albuquerque last month, we counted 35 planes of highly suspicious nature sighted within 90 minutes," he said.

"Our agents said that if they had the men, they could intercept one airplane a day in New Mexico alone."

NASHVILLE, TENN.—Kelly Bruce Mills of Rt. 1, Winterville, will receive his doctor of medicine degree during commencement exercises at Meharry Medical College Sunday.

KELLY BRUCE MILLS

The son of Mrs. Jessie M. Mills of Rt. 1, Winterville and the late Mr. Henry S. Mills, he is a graduate of W.H. Robinson High School in Winterville and N.C. A&T State University in Greensboro. While attending Meharry, he was affiliated with the Student National Medical Association and the National Association of Interns and Residents. He is also a member of Alpha Kappa Alpha Fraternity. July 1, he will begin his internship at Cook County Hospital in Chicago, Ill. He plans to do his residency in internal medicine.

Scholarship Recipient

Bertha Anita Phillips of 904 S. East Ave., Ayden, daughter of Bertha P. Warren has been awarded the Daily Reflector Memorial Scholarship for 1976.

BERTHA PHILLIPS

Miss Phillips is a 1975 graduate of Ayden-Grifton High School and has had an A grade average for four years.

During her four years in high school, she served as president of the National Honor Society, vice president of the Senior Class, was a newspaper editor, and a member of the Task Force, Science Club, French Club, Annual Staff, SGA, church chorus, community choir, was a junior marshal and participated in the Advanced Biology Seminar.

She will attend East Carolina University this fall where she will major in English. She hopes to teach school after she has finished her education.

The scholarship is valued at $250 per year and is renewable for four years.

Buy Land For Factory Site

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—About 2,800 acres of land has been purchased by Amoco Chemicals Corp. in Berkeley County on the east side of the Cooper River for a $100 million polyester manufacturing facility.

According to R. P. Noble, the firm's vice president for manufacturing, the site includes 1,000 acres of marshland. He says the facility will produce a billion pounds of raw material for polyester fibers each year.

The proposed factory was the subject of extensive debate in the South Carolina Senate earlier this year after Sen. Rembert C. Dennis, D-Berkeley, advocated $5 million in state bonds be issued to finance a railroad spur to the site.

Eventually, the legislature decided to amend the law forbidding private companies from building railroads to let Amoco foot construction and land acquisition costs.

SALT SENT
BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Argentina's biggest mineral export during the month of March was common salt.

The Economy Ministry said 4,150 tons of salt were shipped to Uruguay and Paraguay during the month. Other mineral exports were borate and fluoride.

The Aristocrats

These are the aristocrats. Classic cars, mellow as fine, old wines, their age and breeding put them in a different class from today's "late models." Most of them don't mix with the masses too much now, in the roaring hurly-burly of traffic. But for special occasions, polished and primed, they sally forth in stately manner to consort with their peers, and to be respectfully admired.

This special occasion, the fourth annual Mackle Antique Auto Tour, brought about fifty vintage vehicles to Marco Island, Florida, from all over the state. Model T Fords seemed to be the breed represented in greatest numbers, the best of show award went to a 1929 Duesenberg—and an elegant 1930 Pierce Arrow proved the knockout favorite in a public ballot.

'Moses' Glowing Over Summer's TV Specials

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — I met Moses the other day. He had a slight limp from recent knee surgery, but otherwise looked fairly spry. He was in town to talk about his coming TV debut. It's a Biblical show, of course.

The press agent's book of revelations disclosed Moses actually was Burt Lancaster, at 61 one of Hollywood's most durable film stars in a career spanning nearly 30 years and more than 50 movies.

Come June 21, the veteran actor will appear on CBS in the first of six one-hour summer drama specials called "Moses — the Lawgiver." It's based on the Book of Exodus and filmed both in Israel and Rome.

Lancaster, a polite, quiet-spoken man, praised the project and most everyone connected with it in glowing terms. But he grinned and abruptly backed off after realizing his visitor hadn't seen it yet.

"It's terrible to talk about these things when you're talking in limbo," he conceded, lighting a cigarette. "You might say, 'Is this man full of bull or isn't he?'"

He said his decision to appear as Moses had its genesis in 1968 when he was making "Castle Keep" in Yugoslavia. The castle accidentally burned down, halting production for five weeks he spent in Italy.

It was there he bumped into a friend, a leading Italian cameraman named Pepe Rottuno, "and while we were talking, he said, 'Would you be interested in doing a television show here in Italy?'"

Rottuno introduced him to Vincenzo Labello, who was producing the Moses show for Italy's RIA Television and ATV, Ltd., a British TV production firm run by showman Lew Grade.

Lancaster then got a 150-page outline of the project, and declared himself greatly interested. Four months later, he got a 300-page script co-authored by Anthony Burgess of "Clockwork Orange" fame. "And it was lovely, just lovely," Lancaster said. "So La-bella says, 'Will you do it?' And I said yes. It was as simple as that."

Filming began in July 1973, the actor said. It didn't end until a year later, the work having been delayed by the Yom Kippur war. Lancaster said he worked on the show a total of seven months.

The actor, whose only previous starring role in a movie about Biblical matters was in "Elmer Gantry," said he and the makers of the Moses show aimed at emphasizing the human side of the story. They didn't want to make it the gaudy sort of Biblical spectacle of Hollywood legend.

Playing Moses as a human and not as a stock pagent figure was rugged, Lancaster said: "You had to be very careful you didn't get rhetorical and pontifical."

His only gripe about the show is that CBS is airing it this summer rather than in the fall or Easter, when more viewers are at home nights.

"I hope it's successful enough that they'll bring it back in another period, another time," he said. "Because I think it merits it. It's really that good."

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 6, 1975

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Get small, important everyday details cleared off so you have more time and money for important things later. Pay bill. Make collections.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get busy now on important financial matters so all will be easier for you in the future. Discuss situation with an expert.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Improve appearance. Then off to the social affairs that are important to your well-being. Reconcile with estranged person.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Either quietly think over how to rid yourself of petty annoyances, or get an expert to help you with them. Aid one in trouble.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Discuss whatever is on your mind with good friends and get beneficial results therefrom. Some group activity brings fun, fortune.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A civic matter gains community respect for you. Have more enthusiasm for your regular work and command greater future benefits.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make new arrangements that will help you advance. Make new associates with varying backgrounds. An interchange of ideas benefits you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Mate wants some special favor today, so be sure to agree and have more happiness in the future. A hunch solves a problem.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Improve standing with associates by being more cooperative, establishing more teamwork. Get that work done with the okay of a higher-up.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Schedule work carefully so it is done quickly and properly. Get into whatever gives you more energy. A fine social evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A good friend can pave the way to more interesting social life. Doing something thoughtful for mate increases affection.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Buy the gadgets that make your home function more efficiently and win kin's approval. Study new projects before starting any.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Run errands, keep appointments and improve routines. Make out reports accurately. Start weekend with a happy evening.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be more than willing to take care of tasks, but may be so overly conscientious that it will take him or her far longer than necessary, so teach early to give everything its proper value and time. Teach the importance of money as well. Then the life will be fairly easy, instead of a mere struggle for existence. Some musical talent here. Sports can be a help to this youngster.

LAST DAY! "Murder On The Orient Express" To Be Held Over Plaza Cinema Starting Friday

Crowded With Refugee Family

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Elmo Zumwalt III and his wife took in a family of 11 Vietnamese refugees Wednesday with the observation that things would be a little crowded in their two-story, four-bedroom home.

"It's a little inconvenient for us having 11 people but put yourself in their shoes and think what they've been through," Zumwalt commented to a reporter.

He added, "If the situation were reversed, I think they would have done the same for me."

The family of Ung Van Duc, 32, arrived in Fayetteville by plane late Wednesday afternoon. The family is one of three being sponsored by Zumwalt's father, Adm. Elmo Zumwalt Jr., former chief of naval operations who hopes to relocate the other two families near his Washington home.

The younger Zumwalt, a Fayetteville lawyer, and his wife of five years, Kathy, have a four-month-old daughter. "We're more than happy to do something for them," said Mrs. Zumwalt, who admitted she had mixed feelings at first.

Duc was a Navy lieutenant on the staff of the Vietnamese chief of naval operations, the elder Zumwalt's counterpart, and the younger Zumwalt said he got to know Duc during his year's tour of duty in Vietnam.

Duc's family includes his wife, her mother, three children, an aunt, his sister-in-law, her husband, and their two children. The family left their home and two cars in Saigon, making their way to the Philippines in Navy ships in the last days of the war.

Duc and his wife speak English and French as well as their native language, but Zumwalt has arranged with a woman who teaches languages at nearby Ft. Bragg to help in the Americanization of the family.

Asked why he left Vietnam, Duc replied, "I could not live with the Communists. Sure, I was afraid they would kill me." He added that if he had stayed behind, he likely would have had to shoot himself.

Meanwhile, at a late hour at the Zumwalt home Wednesday night, he told a newsman, "Everybody is pitching in together to work out sleeping arrangements. The women are getting together on the cooking."

He said his wife probably would learn some Vietnamese dishes and the Vietnamese women would learn some American dishes. And until the visitors can find employment, they have a home with the Zumwalts, the host said.

Lutherans Gathering

HICKORY, N.C. (AP)—The North Carolina Lutheran Synod opens its annual meeting tonight with discussion forums on juvenile corrections and on the handicapped. The meeting may act on these and other topics during its sessions, which continue through Sunday.

Environmental concerns will be discussed at a forum Friday evening.

The first contest at the convention is expected on a proposal by a special committee that nominations from the floor be discontinued. Action on the proposal is expected at the first business session Friday morning.

Lay and clerical delegates from 207 congregations in the state will attend the sessions at Lenoir Rhyne College. Dr. George R. Whittecar of the church's state headquarters in Salisbury will preside. His presidency began in 1962 and continues to 1978.

The pastor, the Rev. N. Harris, will preach Sunday at 11 a.m. The Rev. J.R. Peterson and Mount Olive Missionary Baptist Church of Ayden will conduct the service Sunday at 2 p.m. The Waterside Male Chorus will assist.

Ministerial Ass'n OKs Sponsoring Volunteers

On Monday night members of the Greenville Ministerial Association approved the association's role as sponsor of a program that will bring young Jewish volunteers to work in Greenville this summer.

The American Jewish Society for Services (AJSS), with sponsorship approval by the local ministerial association, will be sending a group of 18 young students to Greenville at the beginning of July. The group is scheduled to remain here until August 18.

Basically, the young people will be working in beautification and renovation projects for individuals, church groups, and charitable organizations. They will concentrate on projects such as assisting senior citizens and low income families with home improvements and yard beautification.

The AJSS, founded in 1950, sends volunteer students in the 16 to 18 year old age group to communities throughout the country that request the services of these young people.

Jules Hirsh, who will be coming to Greenville with his wife and two children as supervisor of the volunteers, notes, "This is a program where children of financially able Jewish families give their time and effort without charge to help in various communities. It is like a summer camp in that each volunteer has to pay his way. Each student pays $400 to become a work volunteer."

Because each member of the group pays his or her way as a volunteer, there is no support involved from the community except that of providing a place for the group to stay, local transportation for work, and where required, technical supervision.

Rev. E. Gordon Conklin, president of the Greenville Ministerial Association, notes that the association endorsed the project because of the broad base of support indicated by interested individuals and groups in Greenville. Five basic areas of responsibility have been assumed by local people. These are: Houses to work on, Faye Brewington; Supervisory personnel, Ray Rogers; Housing for the group, Curtis Hendrix and Bramy Resnik; Transportation, Linda Williams; and Materials needed, Curtis Hendrix and Harold Creech.

Responsibility for coordinating the activities of the local people in charge of areas of activities of the AJSS group has been assumed by Dr. Bramy Resnik.

Mrs. Graham's Trial June 27

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The trial of Mrs. Billy Graham growing out of her snatching a placard from a protester has been set for Friday morning, June 27, in state District Court.

The evangelist's wife is charged with simple assault, a misdemeanor, for taking the placard from a man three weeks ago while President Ford addressed a bicentennial celebration in Charlotte's Freedom Park.

'Fire College' At Rocky Mount

Arrest Youth For Break-In

David Lee Braxton, 18 of Route 1, Greenville has been arrested on charges of breaking, entering and larceny in connection with a February 14 break-in at Nelson's Restaurant and Lounge on Memorial Drive.

Cheif Glenn Cannon said Braxton was taken into custody in South Carolina earlier this week and returned to Greenville.

Coin operated machines in the Nelson building were broken open and money taken from them, Cannon explained.

ROCKY MOUNT—Representatives of the Greenville Fire and Rescue Division will participate in a program Sunday afternoon here to kick-off the 47th annual North Carolina Fire College and Pump School to be held here Monday through Thursday.

Members of the Greenville Rescue Squad will stage a demonstration of heavy-duty rescue skills at 1 p.m., and the Fire Department's 85-foot snorkle will be demonstrated.

Fire Chief John Sykes said the Greenville fire and rescue units will be among 45 pieces of fire fighting and emergency equipment — ranging from antique to very modern — to be displayed at Tarrytown Mall Sunday afternoon.

Vacation Bible School Readied

The First Free Will Baptist Church of Greenville will conduct its annual Vacation Bible School program Monday through Friday.

There will be classes for all age groups, infants through adults. Activities will begin each night at 7 p.m. and will conclude at nine o'clock.

A commencement service will be held Sunday, June 15, at 7

1929 as a joint effort by the state firemen's association and the North Carolina Department of Insurance. For a time, the fire college was held in Greenville. More recently the school has been held in Charlotte. Next week's session is the first time the training program has been held in Rocky Mount.

Several hundred firemen from among North Carolina's 1,000 organized fire departments are expected to attend the four-day school, sponsored by the North Carolina Firemen's Association and the Rocky Mount Fire Department.
