Adjournment Thursday Or Friday

Doors Opened With Budget Compromise

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A compromise on the state's $6.6 billion budget for the next two fiscal years and enactment of a bill that would shift state and local primary elections to the third Tuesday in August highlighted action in the North Carolina General Assembly Tuesday.

The budget compromise paved the way for final adjournment of the 1975 General Assembly which legislative leaders hoped would come Thursday or Friday.

Under the compromise, a Senate-proposed tuition increase for in-state university students would be eliminated and several House cuts in the public school budget would be restored.

The House conferees agreed to restore the full $2.2 million in state funds for school instruction and a House cut in the public affairs section of the Department of Public instruction would be reduced so that four employes would be cut the first year of the biennium and four more the second instead of the original 13.

The Senate, meanwhile gave final approval and enacted into law a bill to shift the time for state and local primaries from May to the third Tuesday in August — which comes on Aug. 17 next year.

The bill represents a compromise among those who wanted the primary in August. Several lawmakers complained that the third Tuesday was too early and that many people would be on vacation at that time while others complained that a later date would not allow enough time for a runoff primary.

The Senate also enacted a bill to let the people vote on an amendment to the state constitution. The amendment, which will be voted on at the time of the presidential primary, would allow counties to float revenue bonds to build factories or help industries purchase pollution abatement equipment. Voters rejected a similar proposal in last fall's election.

The Senate also enacted a bill that would place on the ballot next March the issurance of $43 million in state bonds to finance improvements at 14 or 16 state universities.

Only Senate approval of a House amendment stood in the way of a bill designed to partially close a big loophole in the state's traffic laws.

Under the measure, the third prayer for judgment continued (PJC) verdict a motorist receives for traffic violations in a five-year period would count as a conviction for purposes of suspending or revoking driver licenses.

Under the present law, PJC verdicts do not count as convictions and this has enabled many motorists with good lawyers to hang on to their driver licenses for offenses that cause other motorists to

Jetliner's Crash Possibly Caused By Lightning Bolt

NEW YORK (AP) — Officials are investigating the possibility that lightning struck a jetliner attempting to land during an electrical storm, causing it to crash in flames near a crowded highway. Authorities said 110 persons aboard the flight from New Orleans died.

Fourteen survivors were hospitalized.

Firemen said early today that 108 bodies had been found in the marshy area at the edge of Kennedy International Airport where the Eastern Airlines Boeing 727 plane, nonstop flight 66 from New Orleans, crashed late Tuesday afternoon. Two other persons died at a hospital.

There was still confusion today on the number of persons aboard the jet. A spokesman for the airline said there were 116 passengers and 7 crew members, a total of 123.

But the hospital where two of the victims died said a total of 16 persons had been admitted and the 14 were still alive. Added to the 108 bodies counted by the firemen at the crash scene, this would make a total of 124 aboard.

It was one of the worst airplane disasters in the history of the United States. In 1960, 134 persons were killed when a United Airlines DC8 and a Trans World Airlines Super-Constellation collided in the air over New York City. The nation's worst one-plane crash killed 111 persons when an Alaska Airlines 727 crashed near Juneau in 1971.

The survivors of Tuesday's crash included two small girls. Most of the survivors were badly burned.

The passengers included an Episcopal bishop, a professional basketball player and a group of Norwegian merchant seamen. The bishop and the athlete were not listed among the survivors. However, a hospital spokesman said early today that the 14 survivors included three unidentified men.

Mayor Abraham D. Beame, who went to the crash scene by helicopter, said, "I'm numb. It's a terrible tragedy."

The National Transportation Safety Board's area supervisor, George Van Epps, said Tuesday night that there was no record of any emergency radio message from the pilot, Capt. John Kleven, of Queens.

Van Epps said flight and voice recorders had been recovered and were being sent to Washington for study. Asked about eyewitness reports that lightning had hit the plane, he said that was "something that will be considered in the investigation."

A Federal Aviation Administration investigator at the scene who asked that his name not be used said "weather was definitely a factor."

Exhausted

RALEIGH (AP)—Veteran State Representative William Watkins, D-Granville, suffered an attack Tuesday night and was taken to Rex Hospital in Raleigh.

A close friend of the family said an early diagnosis showed he was suffering from "extreme exhaustion."

Watkins, chairman of the House Base Budget Committee, has been under heavy physical strain in recent weeks. He reportedly suffered the attack following a meeting of the House Senate budget conferees.

House Fears Defeat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Virtually conceding defeat before the battle, the House Democratic leadership will try to override President Ford's veto of a housing subsidy program for middle-income families.

Failure to muster the two-thirds vote needed to override would mark the fourth consecutive veto defeat for the House leadership despite the chamber's large Democratic majority. The vote is scheduled for today.

The housing bill, passed earlier this month, was vetoed by Ford Tuesday. It was his 33rd veto since taking office last August. Informal statistics show that President Richard M. Nixon averaged 7.7 vetoes a year, Lyndon B. Johnson 5.8, John F. Kennedy 7.5 and Dwight D. Eisenhower 22.6.

The House earlier this year sustained presidential vetoes on strip mining, an emergency jobs bill, and higher agriculture price supports.

To replace the vetoed housing bill, Ford said he would immediately release $2 billion in mortgage purchase authority. Under that plan, the Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA), a federal agency, would purchase mortgages at a loss, thus pumping more money into the housing market and encouraging lower interest rates.

Ford also said he would ask Congress to extend the GNMA program for another year to July 1, 1976, with an additional $7.75 billion in mortgage purchase authority.

Claims Five Castro Plots

By DAVID C. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Underworld figure John Rosselli's account of CIA attempts to kill Cuban Premier Fidel Castro in the early 1960s involves "cash payments, poison pellets, high-powered rifles and power boat dashes to Cuba," columnist Jack Anderson said today.

The columnist said Rosselli knows of five attempts to kill the Cuban premier.

He said Rosselli has told him there were reports that Castro was desperately ill after one attempt to poison him—but that Rosselli is not sure the illness was due to the poison or a virus.

Appearing on the ABC-TV program "AM America," Anderson said Rosselli supplied him with details after three hours of closed-door testimony before the Senate intelligence committee Tuesday.

Today, the committee scheduled a session with William K. Harvey, a former Central Intelligence Agency official mentioned in Rosselli's talk with Anderson.

The columnist reported that Rosselli said he was recruited in Los Angeles in 1960 by Robert Maheu, then an aide to billionaire Howard Hughes who previously had done work for the Central Intelligence Agency.

"Maheu put Rosselli in contact with O'Connell in New York City on Sept. 14, 1960," Anderson said. He continued:

"Thereafter Rosselli flew to Miami and recruited the assassination squad. At first they plotted to poison Castro. Poison pellets were supplied by the CIA. They were delivered to the plotters in their Miami hotel room, according to Rosselli, by Maheu.

"Maheu dramatically opened a briefcase revealing $10,000 in cash and the fatal pellets. The money was distributed to the Cuban plotters. Rosselli swore he never took any money from the CIA except for some incidental expenses. He paid the big expenses, he said, out of his own pocket...

Ask Tax Ruling On Salter Path

SALTER PATH, N.C.(AP)—A court ruling is being sought by Carteret County officials to determine who owns the coastal community of Salter Path so the county can begin collecting an estimated $50,000 in taxes there.

A complaint filed Tuesday in Carteret Superior Court asks for an interpretation of a 52-year-old judgment that allowed residents to use the land but said they did not own it.

The class action complaint names more than 300 persons as defendants, including the descendants of President Theodore Roosevelt. A tax official says taxes have not been paid on most of the property since a revaluation in 1965.

Conducting Class Here In Casualty Simulation

Visitors to the fourth floor anatomy lab in the science building at East Carolina University—where medical students can usually be seen studying the human body—this week are seeing some very tramatic "injuries."

Such things as compound fractures, severe lacerations, third degree burns, open chest wounds, arterial bleeding, amputations and eye enuncleations, as well as abdominal wounds with protruding bowels, are common place.

Why?

Sinclair Cutcliffe of Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, Canada, is conducting a class on casualty simulation. It's the second such program held in the United States. The first was held at Chapel Hill in February.

'Friend' Is A Freeloader

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I can't believe that I am actually writing a Dear Abby letter, but I need to know how to solve a thorny problem.

I have an acquaintance of many years who teaches high school. He is male and unattached, and he spends his summers traveling around the country (and, indeed, the world), freeloading on his friends.

He writes to say he'll be in the neighborhood, and asks whether he may "visit" for a few days. Then he moves in and stays a week or longer if he can get away with it. He's wined and dined, and he never, never reciprocates. In fact, when he is out for dinner, he always finds an excuse to get so deeply involved in conversation with someone at the table that the check could lay there collecting moss before he'd pick it up.

He is on his way here, then he's visiting a mutual friend and after that, another mutual friend. They don't know his game, but I do. Should I wise them up? And how would you suggest I treat this man?

JUST WONDERING

DEAR JUST: Don't wise up anyone. And treat him like you'd treat any other freeloader. No one can take advantage of you without your cooperation.

DEAR ABBY: A girl signed "Grapenuts" wrote: "My mother said that for her 40th birthday she wants to have plastic surgery to have her 'grapes' enlarged to about grapefruit size, but Dad says he likes her 'dried raisins' the way they are."

Well, please inform "Grapenuts" to tell her mother that I have a couple of honeydews I'd gladly trade for her grapes. It's no joke toting around all this excess produce. All it attracts is fruit flies!

"FUTURE WATERMELONS"

DEAR FUTURE: My mail tells me that too much of a good thing can be every bit as agonizing as too little. The trade you offer isn't possible, but a competent plastic surgeon could whittle down your watermelons to canteloupe-size.

DEAR ABBY: The "Saint" from St. Louis who declined to meet the topless dancer reminded me of an incident in my own life.

My late husband, a police detective, called one day to inform me that he was bringing a couple home for dinner. I found them to be charming, intelligent and good company.

After they left, my husband told me that she was a "madame" and he was a pimp! Some time later they were married. She quit her profession and so did he. Subsequently, we became very good friends.

When my husband's illness was diagnosed as terminal, the former pimp was the only friend who offered to finance a trip to the Mayo Clinic in the hope that it could save him.

I suggest that Mrs. "Saint" overcome her bias. She may find a fine friend in the topless dancer. Who are we to judge?

POLICEMAN'S WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: Amen.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

U.S. Again Warned To Close Mission

By DENIS D. GRAY
Associated Press Writer

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The Pathet Lao today warned the United States to shut down its aid mission by Monday or "face the responsibility for everything that might happen."

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said four officials of the U.S. Agency for International Development would depart by Monday, the deadline agreed to by U.S. and Laotian officials. But he said transfer of AID property to the Laotian government probably would not be completed by then.

Negotiations to complete the transfer of AID assets have been slow, and "not a single project has been signed over to the Lao government," the U.S. spokesman said.

The Laotians appeared to be delaying until they got instructions from Pathet Lao leaders who are meeting at their headquarters in northeastern Laos.

Meanwhile, a Saigon broadcast tended to confirm reports of fighting by former South Vietnamese army troops holding out around Thu Dau Mot, 20 miles north of Saigon, seven weeks after the collapse of the former South Vietnamese government.

The broadcast said some members of the Womens' Liberation Federation in Thu Dau Mot "led the revolutionary army blocking a caravan of fleeing personnel of the former regime while in another sector of the same province members of the federation together with the wives and loved ones of soldiers persuaded 2,000 paratroopers to disband and report to the revolutionary authorities."

U.S. military spokesmen said the U.S. Air Force would end 14 years of operations at Ubon air base in northeast Thailand on Thursday. The closedown, part of the withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Thailand by next March, leaves U.S. military contingents at four Thai bases, compared to seven at the peak of the Indochina War.

Thai officials reported an hour-long skirmish Tuesday between 40 Thai border police and about 50 Khmer Rouge From Cambodia who the Thais said crossed the border and were planting a land mine in Surin province, 200 miles northeast of Bangkok, where more and more refugees from Cambodia have been crossing the border.

Three Thai police were wounded by small-arms fire, sources in Surin said. The border police claimed that seven Khmer Rouge were killed, but this appeared unlikely.

'Tent City' In Guam Is Ended

AGANA, Guam (AP) — "Tent City," the first home on American territory for more than 90,000 Vietnamese refugees, is being pulled down.

The temporary shelter's last 3,800 residents were moved to permanent buildings elsewhere on the Pacific Island after a tropical downpour drenched the camp on Tuesday.

There are still more than 15,000 refugees on Guam, including 1,200 who have asked to return to their homeland.

Fearing Tent City would be flattened by a typhoon, officials became anxious to shut down the camp when the storm season began in May. After Tuesday's rain, the last residents of Tent City were moved out.

Seabees began folding 50,000 cots and dismantling 3,200 tents today. A Navy spokesman said it will take about a week to dismantle the compound.

The 540 Army troops who ran Tent City have started packing their gear to return to Hawaii, though they must compete with refugees for space on outbound flights.

Tent City held as many as 40,000 residents at a time during its 66 days of operation, making it the largest city on Guam. It once boasted two newspapers, a bank, daily church services, a Navy exchange, a fleet of hot dog stands, eight dining halls, five outdoor theaters and its own Zip Code.

The first refugees arrived April 25 as Seabees toiled around the clock to keep ahead of the influx, the largest wave of humanity to hit Guam since U.S. marines and soldiers stormed ashore in 1944.

Many of those who are still on Guam will be housed at the abandoned hospital compound at Asan Point, which has room for as many as 10,000 refugees in old barracks. Shelter for another 4,000 is available at Andersen Air Force Base.

Reminder: An Election Year

The City Council has approved a budget that calls for spending $21,362,884 during the fiscal year 1975-76 with $6,778,847 of this going for city government and the remainder being the Utilities Commission's funding for the fiscal year.

In a last minute surprise move, Mayor Eugene West proposed that the 64 cents per $100 tax rate be reduced by four cents for the coming year. This will mean that $106,113 will have to be trimmed from the budget to bring revenues in balance with proposed expeditures.

City officials says this can be done without disturbing basic city services and, indeed, it is a relatively small amount in comparison with the overall budget, even though it allows for a tax cut of around six percent.

It's fine with us for the City Council to cut taxes, providing that city services can be adequately maintained on the project revenues. It has to stick in the back of our minds, however, that this is an election year and there is nothing more popular at election time than a tax cut.

We suppose we will just have to wait until next year's budget is prepared to see if that four cents tax cut has to be restored, but of course by then the fall municipal elections will be past.

Looking Forward To A New Middle School

Bids have been received by the Pitt County schools for a new Belvoir-Stokes-Pactolus Middle School to be constructed on U.S. 13 at the N.C. 903 intersection.

Supt. Ott Alford said the school authorities are pleased with the bids received totalling $1,429,862. It is anticipated that the contract will be let at the July meeting of the school board.

This new county school facility should be a welcome addition to the school system.

THIS AFTERNOON

High-Risk Assembly Days

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—The final hectic days before adjournment of the General Assembly are especially important for conscientious citizens and lawmakers.

The chances for error are plenty; it will be weeks, even months, before people figure out what has happened in some cases.

During that rush to adjournment is brought even more strongly home the truth of that old political saw: there are two things in life a sensitive fellow ought not watch—lawmaking and sausage making.

"We ought to quit and go home, leaving things undone instead of rushing along headstrong into trouble," opined State Rep. W.S. Harris Jr., D-Alamance, as he watched the hatchet committee wade in often total confusion through nearly 60 legislative proposals in less than four hours.

Some Killed

Echoing the general mood, State Rep. Craig Lawing, D-Mecklenburg, admitted that a lot of good bills get killed, and some bad ones get passed, in that rush for adjournment.

Stories are numberous of past mistakes, and possibilities of them.

The Speaker Ban debacle is a prime example from years past; last year's near adoption of a technical amendment which would have made liquor by the drink legal in Mecklenburg is another.

This year's situation is aggravated by the fued of some duration between upper chamber senators, and lower chamber house members. The feeling has simmered for weeks, but has broken open so violently in the final days of the session that in some cases bills have been killed by one or the other body only because they passed the opposite chamber.

In addition, Lt. Gov. James B. Hunt and House Speaker James C. Green are possibly facing off early for bids to win the Democratic nomination in the governor's race.

Green proclaimed an adjournment date, and pushed hard to make it; Hunt resolved that the senate would move steadily ahead without regard to rushing for adjournment.

Meanwhile, a feud erupted between State Sen. Julian R. Allsbrook, D-Roanoke Rapids, and State Rep. J. Guy Revelle, D-Northampton, which resulted in any Revelle measures being frozen in seante committees or floor action, and Allsbrook's proposals invariably meeting automatic rejection in the house without regard for merit.

The feud had to do with local legislation regarding transporting dead game by boat. The feud was worked out, but not without some damage.

Rules Committee

Back at that Rules Committee session recently, Chairman John S. Stevens, D-Buncombe, ramrodded things, with typical member comments running something like this:

"What senator's bill is that. . . Allsbrook? Move unfavorable report (kill it). . . second. . . unanimous."

"What does this bill do? I haven't read it. . . has anybody read it? We don't know what new things might be in it. . . move favorable report. . . all in favor . . . passes."

"This is a complicated bill. . . does anybody know what's in it? Let's hold it till next session, Mr. Chairman."

"Here's another bill. . . only got one copy, my secretary's typing it, but appreciate go ahead and pass it. . . move favorable. . . passed."

"Here are two senate bills. . . they're too complicated. . . move unfavorable . . . passed."

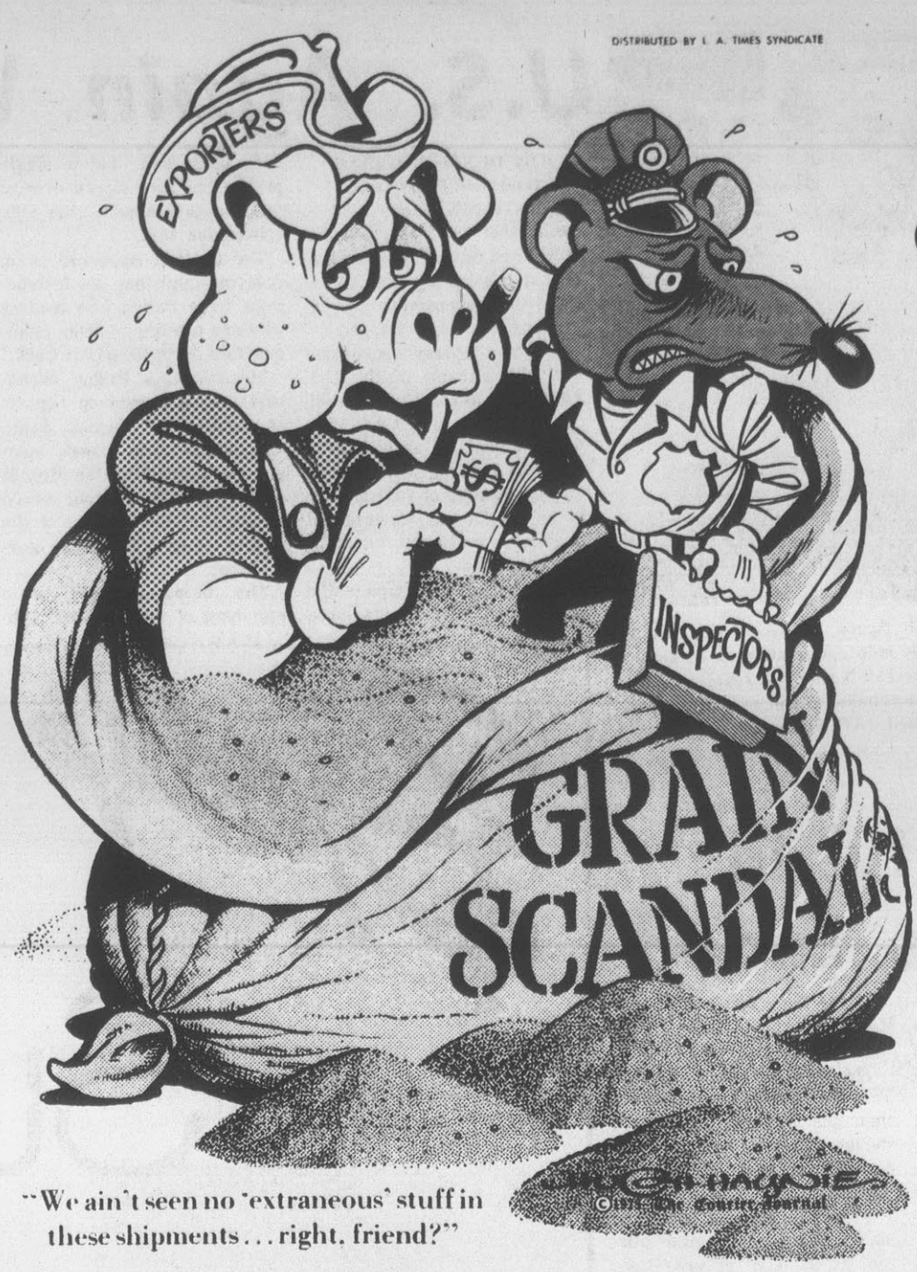

Stevens defends the closing process, saying handling it in his committee is fairer than past practice in which a hastily named Calendar Committee served as the hatchet. At least, every bill is given a fair opportunity for debate and the process is being handled openly, with sponsors notifed of the actions.

"But things do get killed—abruptly and mercilessly. We've got to stop this machine somehow," Stevens said. It is, he confesses, a difficult and agonizing task.

Stevens is also a vice chairman of Finance Committee and was presiding over that group when a last-minute proposal almost slipped by. State Rep. Allen C. Barbee, D-Nash, and chairman of the Transportation Committee, had a proposal approved that very morning by his committee. He didn't have copies, but wanted Finance to endorse it right away clearing the way for final action later the same day.

Stevens and State Rep. Carl J. Stewart, D-Gaston, bucked the procedure as against the rules, then found that the proposal was to cut taxes for private truckers, costing the state $3.5 million a year.

At that, committee members insisted on full consideration and debate before taking any action whatsoever.

Franchise For The CIA

WASHINGTON—You know the fellow in the TV commercials who sold his friend stock in a company making electric forks? Well, he came to see me the other day with a great idea.

"I want to franchise the CIA," he said.

"What do you mean?" I asked.

"Well, with the Rockefeller Commission's report and all the hearings going on, the CIA is the biggest thing since fried chicken. Every government, from the left to the right, needs the CIA, and we can sell franchises all over the world."

"Why would they need a CIA?"

"From now on anyone running for office will have to claim his opponent is financed by the CIA. If someone dies of old age, his political party can say the CIA killed him. If a crop fails, the head of state can say the CIA poisoned the water. A train wreck, an earthquake, a plague—all can be blamed on the CIA. It gives every government a free rein to do what it wants in the name of fighting a CIA plot."

I couldn't disagree with him.

"Let's say a general who is in charge of a junta wants to knock off three of his colonels for one reason for another. He arrests them for plotting with the CIA to overthrow him. Our franchise provides the evidence, and after the trial it's off with their heads."

"I understand how important it is for everyone to have a CIA to kick around," I said. "What I don't understand is why these countries would want to deal with a franchise. Why can't they just accuse the CIA of all the dastardly deeds without paying for the privilege?"

"Because they need a license. You can't open up a McDonald's or a Kentucky Fried Chicken in a foreign country without obtaining a franchise. The same thing will go for the CIA. Once we register it with the patent office, no one will be able to accuse the CIA of anything unless they go through a legitimately franchised CIA shop."

"What will they get besides the right to accuse the CIA of plotting against them?"

"We'll provide tape recorders, short-wave radios, poison darts, cigarette careras, false heels, gun silencers, mail-opening facilities and LSD. The country who buys the franchise will get free advertising, and we will train its employees. But they'll have to keep the premises clean. No one likes a dirty CIA store."

"Kentucky Fried Chicken has Colonel Sanders and McDonald's has Ronald McDonald to represent them. Do you have any charismatic figure whose picture you can put on each franchise wall?" I asked.

"We thought we might sign up Dick Helms to be our Colonel Sanders, if he would agree to dye his hair white and grow a beard."

"I don't imagine Castro would be interested?" I said.

"No, he doesn't want to work for the company, but he has asked to purchase the first franchise. The CIA has done him a lot of good in Cuba."

"Do you have anything like a McDonald's arch that would be easily recognized by someone driving by?"

"We've been playing around with a few logos. Someone suggested we fly a red wig and false nose from the building. Of course, if

Bristle Over A Course

By JOHN PERRY

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Free enterprise is one of America's icons, a symbol of national character that ranks with motherhood and apple pie.

In North Carolina, it has school officials bristling.

The state legislature has passed a law requiring that free enterprise be taught in public high schools, and classroom administrators see it as nothing short of meddling.

"I resent it," said Walter S. Rogers, superintendent at Roxboro, a small town 30 miles north of Durham.

"I resent the legislature telling the Board of Education what has to be taught."

Amended to delete a definition of free enterprise, the law says only that students should be exposed to the "history, theory (and) foundation" of free enterprise and "the manner in which it is actually practiced."

A separate course is not required.

"We are of the opinion that we have been teaching it all along," said superintendent Harry H. Thomas at Elizabeth City, a town of 14,000 on the northern coast.

Like most school systems in North Carolina, Elizabeth City teaches social studies to its students from the fourth through the 12th grades.

"During the course of their high school years, they're certainly involved in one course or two in the social study and history area where they would be exposed to the free enterprise system," said Thomas.

The idea for the law originated with Gov. James E. Holshouser Jr., who suggested in January that "our young people are coming out of the public schools with no idea what the free enterprise system is all about."

Holshouser quickly found a legislative ally in William K. Mauney, a hosiery mill operator and member of the General Assembly's Democratic majority.

Mauney, introducing the legislation in the Senate,

A Final U.S. Humiliation

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

VIENTIANE, Laos—After six weeks of pressuring and humiliating the dwindling band of U.S. officials here, the newly Communist-controlled Laos government is demanding U.S. aid—perhaps as the price of continuing the last, miniscule American presence in Communist Indochina.

Whether Communist Pathet Lao leaders would respond to a refusal of aid from Washington by provocations intended to end U.S.-Lao diplomatic relations is unknown. The Pathet Lao central committee has been meeting hard by the North Vietnamese border at its fortress city of Samneua, forbidden territory for U.S. officials. That means the U.S. embassy here, once the military and political nerve center of Laos, awaits news of its fate decided by men the Americans have never met at a place they have never seen.

Thus, following the sudden collapse of South Vietnam and Cambodia, American humiliation in Laos lingers on as a reminder of the utter failure of U.S. policy in Indochina. The first, inevitable domino after the Vietnam debacle, Laos is also visible evidence to the rest of Southeast Asia of what happened to those who cast their lot with Washington.

Under an agreement signed here May 27 while a Communist-led mob howled outside and three Americans were held captive, the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID) will close June 30 and turn over its property to the Lao government. U.S. personnel here, once approaching 2,000, totals 99 at this writing and will soon drop to 50.

But statistics do not reflect the systematic harassment of Americans here. On the pretext that it is permitted by the May 27 agreement, homes of departing AID officials have been ransacked by some of the 6,000 Pathet Lao soldiers who have entered this dusty little capital. Similarly, four autos from the U.S. Defense attache's office have been seized. When a U.S. Air Force major vigorously protested one such seizure, a Pathet Lao trooper ended the debate by sticking his rifle in the major's face.

Such outrageous behavior is accompanied by demands for aid. A U.S. officer recently met with Kham Ouane Boupha, the Communist now running the defense ministry, to discuss longtime U.S. rice handouts to the Royal Lao army (which is now controlled by Communist unit "advisers"). But first, said the American, how about getting back our four cars? The reply: "Let's not talk about trivia, but discuss something important: rice distribution."

That priority on aid was emphasized by one Pathet Lao official here who told us, "The Lao people are ready to receive aid without strings." Repeatedly emphasizing that readiness during a one-hour interview, he also declared that "American bombing for 20 years. . . has made the Lao people very angry at the American government." Translation: the Pathet Lao want cash payments in lieu of war reparations.

While insisting they will not tolerate coercion, U.S. diplomats here seem to favor some aid — which runs $30 million for the current year — on grounds that Laos is no Cambodia, a point stressed to Assistant Secretary of State Philip Habib during his recent visit here. They see aid as a possible lever to soften Laotian Communism, reduce North Vietnamese control and perhaps maintain a vestigial American influence. But this view might soon be proved as erroneous as was the embassy's past forecast that the shaky Laotian coalition would survive the fall of Saigon.

Prince Souvanna Phouma, who remains as nominal prime minister, has succumbed to wishful thinking and contends he has achieved his lifelong goal of an independent, unifed Laos. In truth, he has become a figurehead without power.

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

On Monday, June 16, we drove a truckload of scrap to the city landfill. As we began to dump, we heard a whine that we could not distinguish. Our search led us to an opened box where we found a newly-born pup struggling for life. He was crawling helplessly in the box over seven other pups, only they were dead. To see the pups in the box was not only heartbreaking, but sickening. We carried the pups to the gate and explained the situation and also expressed our disgust.

We made several calls to City Hall to save the pup, but were informed it is against the law to remove anything from the landfill. We then talked with the dog warden. He told us the pups were brought to him to be put to sleep, and that he was informed that one was already dead. We do not fault the warden for this incident; we assume he was carrying out city policy. It is the policies that are questionable, the fact that the dogs were disposed of in an opened box and would be bulldozed under with the other trash. It is clear that this manner of disposal is inhumane, irresponsible, detrimental to public health and does not comply with the law. State Veterinarian, Dr. T.F. Zweigart, stated N.C. law on animal disposal. Animals must be (1) disposed of within 24 hours of death, (2) buried at least three feet beneath the surface, and (3) buried no closer than 300 feet to any flowing stream or public body of water.

It is the responsibility of Greenville citizens to investigate such matters and to see that the policy of animal disposal is changed. The animals cannot speak for themselves.

P.S. When a City Inspector finally arrived, although we wanted to save the pup, his destruction was ordered!

40 Years Ago Today

June 25, 1935

Bo Farley's Greenies made merry yesterday at the expense of New Bern's pitcher-cramped Bruins to collect 19 hits off three hurlers and gallop to a 15-3 victory.

So pressed was Manager Chick Doak for pitchers, that he went to the mound himself in the fourth and hurled the ball better than the previous two pitchers, remaining in for the rest of the game.

The veteran State College coach, who as a player was at home at just about every position, gave the Greenies only one run in the last five innings.

Definite word from President Roosevelt reached Capitol Hill today that since a satisfactory substitute for the old NRA had not been found, Congress,in all probability, could expect to go home without enactment of the new recovery law.

Authoritative sources said the President informed congressional chiefs that, in place of the NRA, he will rely on the Wagner labor dispute and Guffie coal stabilization bills and measures allowing the government to fix wages and hours stipulations.

PUNISHMENT

There is a tribe in Africa which submits young boys entering manhood to painful, ritualistic beatings. In order to demonstrate their ability to accept the responsibilities of manhood the boys are supposed to pay no attention to the beatings but to smile and sing joyful songs. Almost always the boys perform as expected.

By our standards this is a barbarous introduction into manhood, but the reaction of the boys teaches us something very important about how to meet life. Most of us can escape physical beatings of this type, but at some time nearly all of us will suffer emotional or economic beatings which can be even more painful. And these provide a test for quiet, unobtrusive heroism. To remain cheerful and unconcerned regardless of the pain is indication that we have passed the test of adulthood. Our wounds and scars will be silent testimony that we can meet the trials and tribulations of life without faltering.

Office Of The Future Is Here

By DEIRDRE DONNELLY
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The office of the future with instant filing, videoscreens and electronic mail is now within our reach, leading office equipment makers say.

The change from the office computer to the computerized office will be under way within the next 10 years, although high costs and working habits of people need to be conquered, they say.

"It is no longer preposterous to discuss the possiblity of holding coast-to-coast video conferences, transmitting several business letters per second over the telephone or eliminating hard copy memos with audio recordings," said W.C. Bethke, a vice president of International Business Machines Corp., the biggest company in the office equipment field.

Most of the component parts for a future office system are already in place. Centralized dictating systems, high-speed electronic typewriters, telecopiers and computer filing systems with videoscreens are used today by many companies to save time on clerical work.

"The idea is to bring these things together into a whole where data will be accessible to everyone (in a business)," said Robert Verrando, head of office equipment marketing at Xerox Corp., IBM's nearest competitor.

No one company yet makes all the pieces. IBM, which dominates 90 to 95 per cent of the market for data processing equipment, is missing a telecopier in its product line and Xerox is lacking a dictating system.

Many smaller manufacturers make some equipment designed always to be compatible with the IBM or Xerox equipment in the market. Some of these firms are Sony Corp., Burroughs Corp., Sperry Rand Corp., Vydec Inc., a subsidiary of Exxon Corp., and Reactron Inc. to name a few.

The transmission of data is one of the keys to linking together the future office system.

Company analysts agree that two major problems persist: cost and people's working habits.

"People are an obstacle in how they are accustomed to organizing their work individually. It is extremely difficult to mechanize," said R. John Labinski, the national sales manager at Xerox. "The costs are also too high now."

A centralized dictating system currently costs $3,000 to $5,000 he said. Telecopiers run $1,650 to $8,500, small computers with videoscreens begin at $35,000 and the newest generation of high-speed magnetic tape typewriters at Xerox cost $9,800 to about $12,000 each. All this is exclusive of the electric bill.

Secret Files Show FBI Tried Unseat 3 Teachers

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI secretly tried to get three teachers fired, distributed phony right-wing newsletters on two college campuses, and wrote anonymous letters to the parents of student antiwar activists during the 1960s, newly disclosed FBI documents show.

Those activities were part of the agency's counterintelligence operation against the New Left. The FBI says the operation, dubbed COINTELPRO, began May 9, 1968, and ended April 28, 1971.

The 256 pages of documents were the latest COINTELPRO files obtained and made public by the Socialist Workers party in its damage suit against the FBI. The agency turned over the files in compliance with a court order.

"Only the complete release of all secret files will tell us how many more people the FBI railroaded out of jobs and harassed in other ways because their political views were unpopular with the FBI," said Syd Stapleton, national secretary of the Political Rights Defense Fund, which is providing legal assistance for the Socialist Workers suit.

According to the memos, Evelyn Rose Sell was teaching in the Austin, Tex., school system's Head Start program in the 1969-70 school year.

Austin FBI agents covertly fed information about her Socialist Workers activities, including her unsuccessful candidacy for the Michigan state school board in 1968, to Austin police who relayed the information to school officials.

The school system chose not to renew Mrs. Sell's contract at the end of the school term. The Head Start program was separated from the ustin school system in 1970, and Mrs. Sell was hired by the new managers, the memos said.

In another operation involving a teacher, Detroit FBI agents in 1969 sent an anonymous eight-page letter criticizing Wayne State University Prof. David Herreshoff to Robert J. Huber, then a state senator investigating campus protests.

The letter, signed "a fed-up taxpayer," described Herreshoff's involvement with left-wing political groups and suggested that he should be fired.

In a third case, FBI agents sent an anonymous letter to the Washington, D.C., school superintendent in 1969 in an unsuccessful effort to get Maude Adams White fired as an elementary school teacher.

The only reason cited for the effort was the teacher's participation in the Young Socialist Alliance, youth affiliate of the Socialist Workers.

The memos also described phony right-wing newsletters published and covertly distributed by the FBI at the Bloomington campus of Indiana University and at American University in Washington.

The memos said the purpose of the activity was to discredit campus antiwar and left-wing movements.

Evans-Novak...

When he ordered demonstrators removed from the U.S. AID compound, for example, his Communist ministers said yes, sir, and then ignored the order.

Even the top Communist in the government, foreign minister Phoumi Vongvichit, ranks no better than third or fourth in the Pathet Lao hierarchy. The real leader is Kaysone Pehomvihan, who has never left the caves of Samneua to visit Vientiane. "I have misgivings about the outlook of a man who sepnds his life in a cave," one Western diplomat here told us.

Athough North Vietnamese are not visible in Vientiane, they may well by ruling this country from the caves of Samneua. King Savang Vatthana, after paying his first ceremonial visit to Samnuea last month, remarked privately that an awful lot of Vietnamese seemed to be around. Unlike Cambodia, the war in Laos was fought mainly by North Vietnamese troops who remain here in force (an educated guess: 20,000).

Nor is it likely that the present sleepy brand of Communism in Vientiane will last long. While having taken control of the government, Pathet Lao ranks are still thin with no more than five Communist officials in some ministries. Many more will follow. Moreover, with crime and inflation both rampant in Vientiane, harsher rule is inevitable.

The question, then, for Washington: shall any aid be given to a government dominated by Communists, probably controlled by Hanoi and managed from caves out of bounds for Americans? Add the coercive tone in demands for aid following the Pathet Lao behavior of recent weeks, and this might be one East Asian nation where total disengagement — while keeping diplomataic relations, if possible — could prove the least humiliating U.S. course as seen by the rest of the region.

Perry Col....

proclaimed it "a nonpartisan bill."

"Businessmen have been concerned for some time because many young people see a stigma in owning a business," he said.

The measure received fast support in a legislature dominated by small town lawyers and businessmen, but not every floor speech was an endorsement.

"The next thing you'll see is a bill saying you can't teach something," said Rep. Herbert L. Hyde, a cigar-chewing lawyer from Asheville.

One speaker, apparently with George Orwell's novel in mind, suggested that the law take effect in 1984.

In the end, opponents of the bill succeeded in removing its definition of free enterprise:

"An economic system characterized by private ownership of capital goods, whether to privately owned corporations or individuals, by investments that are determined by private decision rather than by state control and prices, production and the distribution of goods that are determined in a free manner."

With the definition out, the bill was enacted with the ease of a motherhood resolution, leaving one senator worried that the subject, as taught, would be either "brain washing or Mickey Mouse."

Dallas Herring, chairman of the state Board of Education since 1957, is unconcerned.

"We have a requirement to teach Americanism," Herring said. "I guess that the idea of Americanism includes free enterprise."

Jobs Grant: $46 Million

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina will get $46.2 million to fund employment projects, Gov. Jim Holshouser said Tuesday.

Holshouser said the Labor Department had informed him of the federal grant which would provide jobs for 9,200 persons and continued funding for 6,000 more jobs. The congress-approved funds await President Ford's signature.

Of the money for North Carolina, $37 million is for continuation of 6,000 emergency jobs and to provide 8,000 jobs for the unemployed.

The other $9.2 million will fund 1,200 public service career positions.

James Daniel, director of the state Office of Manpower Services, said the $37 million figure "represents a significant increase in funding over last year's $13 million. The federal government is responding to North Carolina's severe unemployment problem."

Buchwald . . .

Helms took the job we could put his picture up in lights. But it really isn't that important. The beauty of the CIA is that it's a household word in every country in the world."

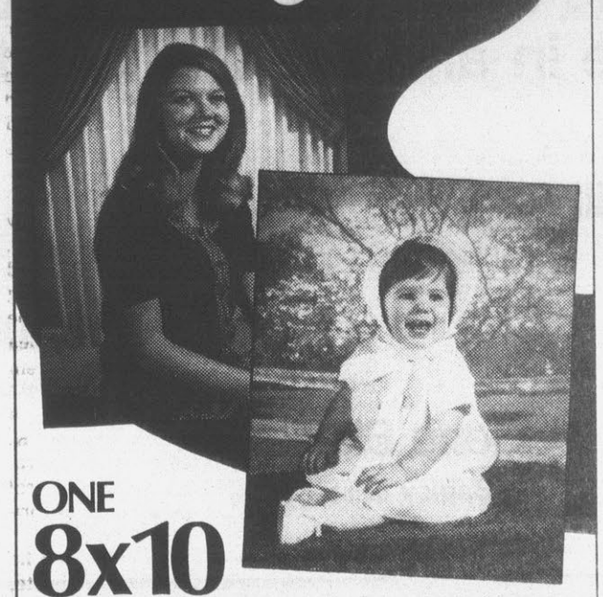

"I'll be honest with you," I said. "When you first suggested investing in your plan, I was going to stash my money in a savings and loan. But now that you've explained it to me, I want part of the action. Besides investing money in the parent company, can I buy a franchise somewhere as well?"

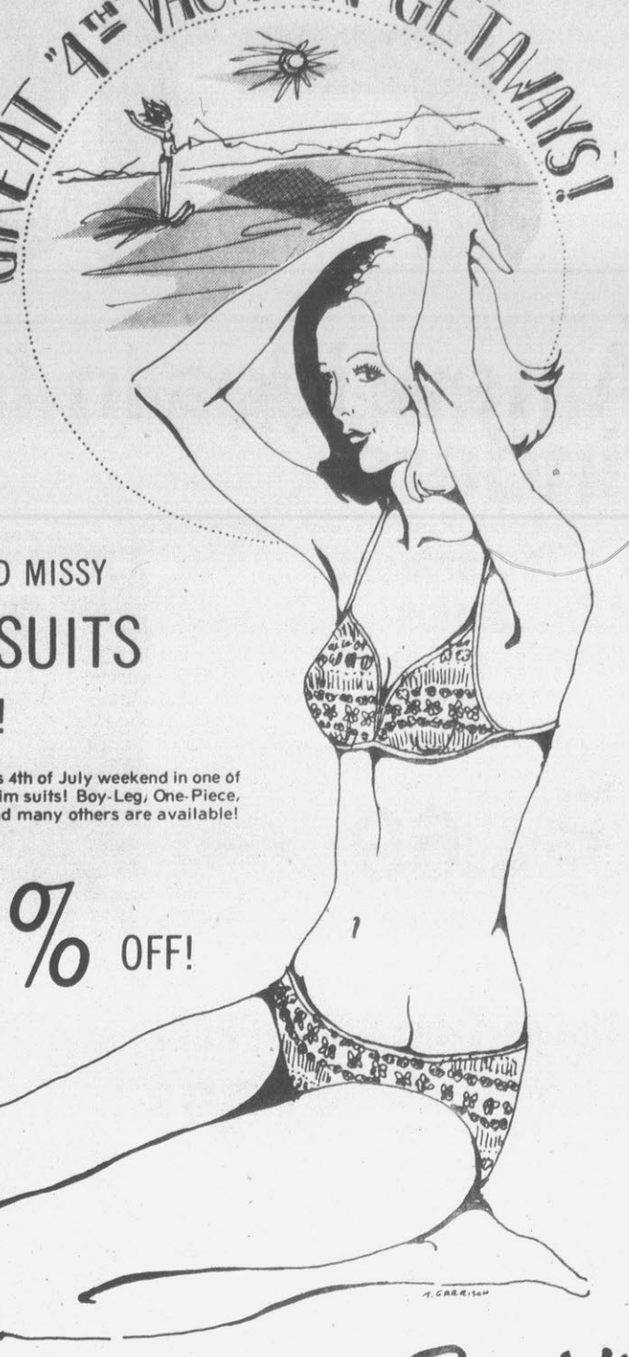

"Sure, we still have a few open. Where do you want one?"

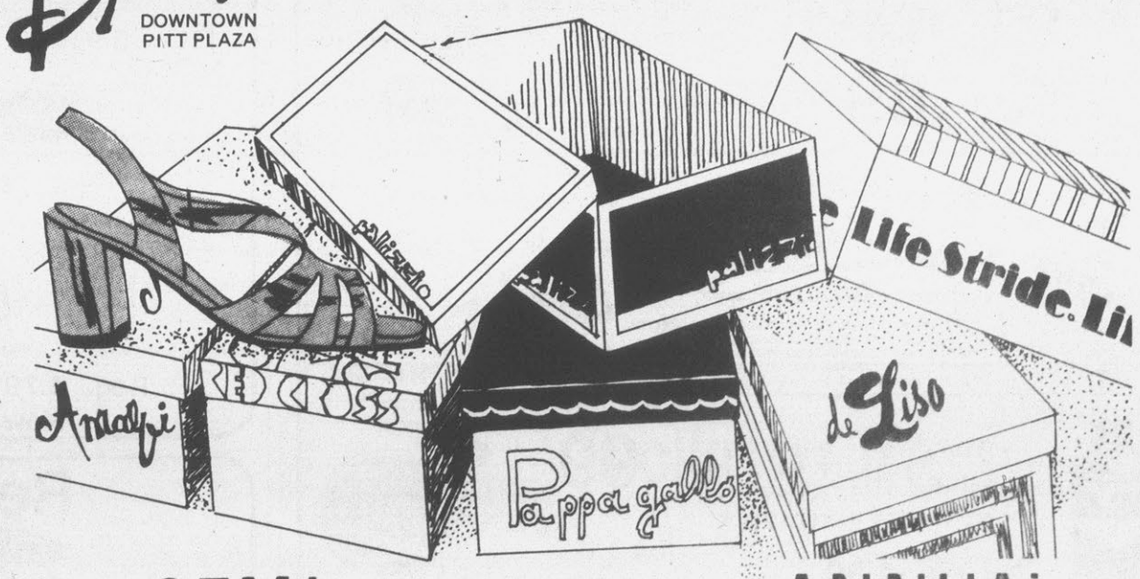

"Portugal?"

"I'm sorry. That one's been spoken for already."

Precautions Advised To Avoid Woods Fires

Mark Webb, Forest Ranger for Pitt County, is asking local citizens to take special precautions against the possibility of field and forest fires during the current critical dry spell.

"So far we've been fortunate," Webb said, "and have had only a few small fires in the county." Webb was one of the area firemen who spent several days late last week and early this week containing the 700 acre fire in the Silver Hill Community of Pamlico County. Webb said the main danger is the spread of fire from debris fires. He described debris fires as those where farmers or others clearing land burn large piles of left over tree tops and limbs.

"The situation has not reached a stage where the State Forester has imposed a ban on open burning," Webb said. "However, due to circumstances at this time, we would very much appreciate being notified by anyone who plans to do debris burning, especially if it's on a large scale. That way "we can be aware of what's going on and be ready to help more quickly if there's a need.

"One of the main things is that anybody doing debris burning have somebody stand by to keep an eye on the fire. Also, burning should never take place on a windy day."

Anyone planning to burn a field or debris is asked to notify Webb at the Greenville Fire Tower, telephone 756-0414. If there is no answer at that number, the person should call the Pitt County Fire Marshall at 752-5136.

Simulation...

of Health Affairs at ECU—the course is designed to teach medical and para-medical personnel to simulate realistic disasters so hospital disaster drills can be carried out more effectively.

Graduates of this course will return to their home areas to provide instruction to people in their area so more realistic disaster and training sessions can be conducted.

Casualty simulation is widely used in Canada and several European countries. Since there are no qualified instructors in the U.S., Cutcliffe is conducting the four-day program in Greenville.

The "tools" of the casualty simulation trade include grease paint, petroleum jelly, starch, food coloring, false teeth, cold cream, face powder, nails and sticks (representing foreign bodies in puncture wounds) detergent, and even bones and eyes from slaughtered hogs.

Among injuries students learn to simulate are severe hemorrhage, amuptations, eye enuncleations, compound fractures, abdominal wounds with protruding bowels, open chest wounds and first, second and third degree burns.

During a practice session earlier this week, an ECU secretary was fitted with a simimulated laceration on a forearm. When she returned to her office, other workers were ready to take her to the hospital for treatment of the wound.

The dozen students enrolled in the class come from such places as Greenville, Grifton, Jamesville, Pittsboro, Richlands and Kinston.

Assisting Cutcliffe in the program is George Reich, a graduate of the Chapel Hill program (taught by Cutcliffe and two other Canadian casualty simulation experts), who is regional coordinator for the state's Office of Emergency Medical Services in Raleigh.

North And South Korea Heat Up War Of Words

By K.C. HWANG
Associated Press Writer

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — South and North Korea fired new volleys in their war of words today on the 25th anniversary of the start of the Korean War.

President Chung Hee Park in an anniversary statement accused North Korea's Communist regime of "attempting to provoke even more overtly a war of invasion against the South" following the recent collapse of American policy in Indochina.

"They are busy seeking an opportunity and a pretext for invasion of the South, not only by massing a large number of troops and continuously expanding military equipment, but also by digging invasion tunnels across the truce line," Park said.

North Korea charged the United States and South Korea were creating a dangerous situation in which a war may break out at any moment. A statement from the North Korean foreign ministry accused the United States of "war provocation maneuvers" that it was attempting to justify with "vociferous" talk of North Korea's "threat of southward aggression."

Park warned that if the North Koreans "recklessly launch an invasion against the South again as a result of their miscalculation of our will and ability, they would be digging their own graves and choosing the path to self-destruction."

The South Korean government last Saturday put all government offices and government corporations on a third-degree alert, the first since the war. This canceled all leaves and required all facilities to be manned by at least a tenth of their personnel at all times.

On Tuesday the government ordered a second-degree alert, one away from war footing. It requires facilities to be manned by one-fifth of the personnel.

The anniversary was observed in the South with ceremonies and rallies held by various government agencies and civic organizations.

Investigate 2 Collisions

An estimated $4,500 property damage resulted from two collisions investigated here yesterday by Greenville Police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 4:32 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Brimley Drive involving cars driven by Willard C. Ballew of Route 1, Muscadine, Ala., and Lorena Levonne Morgan of Poolesville, Md.

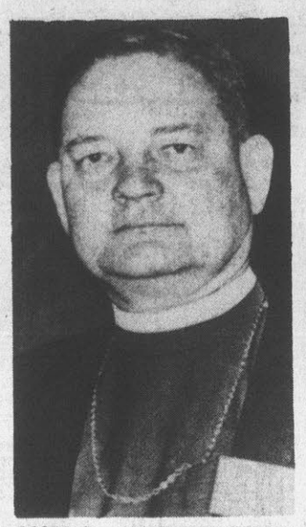

Police, who charged Ballew with failing to yield the right of way, reported a passenger in the Morgan car was injured.

Damage was estimated at $2,700 to the Ballew vehicle and $800 to the Morgan car.

No charges were reported following investigation of an 8:50 a.m. mishap at the intersection of Tenth and Charles Streets.

Officers identified the drivers involved as Beverly Tucker Joyner of Route 2, Greenville and Linda King Hargett of 1302 East First St.

Damage was placed at $400 to the Joyner car and $600 to the Hargett auto.

AMONG VICTIMS—Iverson Noland, above, the Episcopal bishop of Louisiana, was aboard the Eastern Airlines jet that crashed Tuesday in New York. He was traveling to church conference in New York. (AP Wirephoto)

Assessment

HIGH POINT—The Soil Conservation Service has negotiated a contract with Wm. F. Freeman Associates of High Point to prepare an environmental assessment of the Swift Creek Watershed Project covering 11 0,230 acres in Pitt, Beaufort, and Craven Counties. The work, to be done in two phases, will cost $70,616.

Phase One, will entail making an environmental assessment for environmental, economic, and social conditions for present conditions and future conditions if no watershed project is carried out.

Phase Two, will compare the future conditions of the watershed without project action and the future conditions with watershed project actions by determining the beneficial and adverse effects of the planned project and three alternatives.

Budget Will Be Tripled

GRIFTON—Barring any changes before final approval by the Town Board sometime this month, Grifton's budget for the 1975-76 fiscal year will total $1,522,380, nearly three times the total amount of last year's budget.

The increase comes in the areas of water capital improvement and sewer capital improvement where over $1.1 million will be spent. These expenditures are necessary due to annexation by the town of new areas, said Nannie Smith, town clerk, and are funded through bonds and state and federal grants.

The tax rate will be the same as last year, 75 cents per $100 valuation.

Other large budget items include $233,092 for the general fund and $57,322 for the water and sewer fund.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced slightly again today on the momentum of the rally of the past four trading days.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 2.58 at 871.64, and gainers held a 5-4 lead over losers in relatively light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts noted little in the economic news to influence the market strongly, beyond some continuing caution over the recent rise of short term interest rates.

But they said the market had some substantial internal factors working for it.

It appeared that the Dow's rise to new 1975 closing highs on Monday and again on Tuesday had convinced many investors that the rally that began more than six months ago had further to go.

Cluett Peabody, among the volume leaders on the Big Board, was up ¼ at 7¼ in a 100,000-share block trade.

United Technologies, opening late, slipped 1¾ to 60. A Wall Street Journal article said some analysts had moved to a more cautious view of the stock's prospects because of its recent sharp runup in price.

Lafayette Radio led the active list at the American Stock Exchange, up ½ at 7¾ in a Solitron Devices gained ¾ to 5½ on the Amex. The company reported a sharply reduced loss for the fiscal fourth quarter ended Feb. 28.

The NYSE's composite index gained .08 to 50.36 in the first hour.

The Amex market value index rose .15 to 91.63.

Mills Elected To Ass'n Office

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va.—Robert L. Mills Jr. vice president of Carolina Leaf Tobacco Co., was elected treasurer of the Leaf Tobacco Exporters Association at the organization's 34th annual convention Tuesday.

Mills, a native of Iredell County, graduated from the University of Virginia. He worked with Dibbrel Brothers in Danville, Va. before coming to North Carolina. He has been in Greenville for about eight years.

In being elected to the post, Mills succeeded Thomas H. Harvey of Kinston, a senior vice president of Carolina Leaf.

Named to the LTEA executive committee were Tom Evins of Oxford, William C. Monk of Farmville and Robert B. Glenn of Winston-Salem.

Tuesday's convention sessions were curtailed by the absence of the scheduled speaker, Rep. W. C. (Dan) Daniel, D-Va., who was prevented from making the trip from Washington by congressional business and a heavy ground fog in this area: Malcolm B. Seawell, retiring executive vice president of LTEA and the Tobacco Association of the United States for more than 13 years, was presented a gold wristwatch in ceremonies Tuesday. The presentation was made by W. Carrington Bidgood and William I. Monk, who is stepping down as TAUS president.

R.L. MILLS, Jr.

Dr. Hugh C. Kiger, for many years director of the tobacco division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's foreign agricultural service, will take over as chief administrative officer of both organizations on July 1.

The Senate concurred in House amendments and enacted another measure to crack down on armed robbers. The measure would make persons serving time for a second offense of armed robbery ineligible for parole or probation. Earlier, the General Assembly had enacted a measure that would increase the maximum punishment for armed robbery from 30 years to life.

Up for Senate consideration today was a measure to streamline the State Department of Administration as a part of state governmental reorganization which began four years ago. The bill contained some revisions in supervision of day care centers.

Tentatively approved by the Senate was a bill that would forbid local governments from changing zoning or fire regulations just to put a group home out of business. However, the bill was amended to exclude 48 counties. Backers of the measure said this action would kill it. Group homes are used to house persons with mild mental disorders or mental deficiencies.

DETROIT (AP)—Counter to the usual trend, U.S. auto sales in mid-June rose an estimated 4.5 per cent over mid-May levels, providing another modest sign of improvement in the slumping new car market.

Energy Bill Set For House Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — An energy conservation bill imposing gasoline efficiency standards for autos and forcing price cuts for domestic oil has been cleared for consideration by the House after its Fourth of July recess.

The House Commerce Committee approved the measure Tuesday by a vote of 26 to 17. The bill is companion legislation to energy tax legislation which passed the House last week.

One major provision of the conservation bill would force domestic oil that is free from price controls down from its present $11 or $12 per barrel price to $7.50. Oil now controlled at $5.25 a barrel would be freed gradually so that in the early 1980s, both types of oil would meet at $7.50 and begin gradually to rise.

The bill also would give the president authority to ration gasoline as a last resort to solve energy problems.

In addition, the president would be authorized to order cutbacks of energy use by public or private consumers or to order oil fields worked at their maximum efficient rate.

Another provision would hold domestic consumption of oil at the level of 1973-74.

The bill's gasoline efficiency requirements for automobiles are the same as those contained in the tax bill. Both would impose fines against automakers for failing to produce models of cars that attain an over-all mileage per gallon standard, beginning with 19 models. The standard wou be 18.5 miles per gallon in 19 and would increase from th each year.

SMITHFIELD—Louisburg College scattered 12 hits off East Carolina starter Bob Feeney to down the Pirates, 3-2, in a summer league games in Smithfield last night.

For Louisburg, pitcher Randy Warrick did it all, with the help of rightfielder Charlie Stevens.

Warrick, last year's summer league MVP at third base, pitched a six-hitter against the Pirates and helped himself at the plate by belting out two hits and scoring the winning run.

Stevens, who plans to attend ECU next fall, collected three hits for the Hurricanes and knocked in two runs.

Louisburg hit safely in every inning except the last when Pete Conaty retired the side in order.

Neither team wasted time in scoring.

ECU loaded the bases in the first with one out, but failed to score when Glenn Card hit into a double play.

Louisburg scored in the first when Kelly Miller singled to right and moved to second on a fielding errror by Addison Bass. Warrick's double failed to score a run, but Stevens grounded out to allow Miller to score with the first Hurricane run.

ECU scored a run in both the third and the fourth innings to take a 2-1 lead.

In the third, Geoff Beaston walked and stole second. Then, with two out, Robert Brinkley doubled to score Beaston with the tying run.

Glenn Card reached on an error to open the fourth and moved to third on a single by Bass. Howard McCullough followed with a single to score Card. Ken Gentry sacrificed Bass and McCullough up a base, but the next two batters, Pete Paradossi and Beaston, failed to come through.

After the fourth the game was all Louisburg as the Pirates only threatened once more in the eighth.

In that inning, Bass doubled with two out and McCullough walked. Gentry then sent Louisburg's leftfielder Steve Coats to the wall to haul in his shot at a home run.

After ECU took the lead in the fourth Louisburg did not wait long to tie the game.

Louisburg threatened in the sixth before pushing across the winning run in the seventh.

Miller reached on an error by Beaston to open the seventh, but was forced at second by Warrick. Stevens singled to left, moving Warrick to second. Feeney then got Sonny Wooten to pop to McCullough and there were two outs. Coats, however, singled to right and Warrick pranced home with the winning run.

Conaty came on to relieve Feeney and retired Gene Sessions when Card made a shoe-string grab of his sinking line drive.

Conaty set Louisburg down in order in the eighth, but Warrick accomplished the same feat against the Pirates in the ninth to preserve the win.

A bright point in the evening for the Pirates was the batting of Brinkley and Bass. Brinkley went 3-for-4 to raise his season average to .355 and Bass hiked his average to .346 with a 2-for-4 evening at the plate.

The loss dropped East Carolina to 2-6 for the summer and Feeney is now 1-3. Louisburg's record stands at 4-3.

The Pirates' next game will be on Friday when they host Methodist College at Harrington Field. The game will start at 7:30.

Game Is Halted

The College View-Home Builders Babe Ruth game was suspended by light curfew last night at Jaycee Park and will be completed at a later date.

The game had reached the sixth inning and had one frame left to play with College View holding a 9-2 lead over Home Builders when the 10:30 p.m. "lights out" time arrived. The final inning was thus postponed until a later date, further crowding the already crowded Babe Ruth slate which must be finished by July 3.

Optimists Top Coke; R.C. Downs Kiwanis As Playoff Berths Set

R.C. Cola and the Optimists picked up victories in the North State Little League yesterday, as the standings fell into their final places. One game still remains to be played in the regular season, but no place finishes will change.

R.C. downed the Kiwanis, 15-12, in the replay of a game originally called a forfeit last week. Area supervisor Dan Gordon voided the forfeit and ordered a replay of the game from the start. The Optimists downed Coa-Cola, 7-2, in the other game.

The results set up the first round of play in the league playoffs starting Friday at Guy Smith Stadium. At 4 p.m., the Optimists will meet Coca-Cola, while R.C. Cola takes on the Kiwanis at 6 p.m. The first game winner will meet the Lions Saturday at 2 p.m., with the second game winner facing regular season champ Jaycees at 4 p.m. The two survivors meet Monday at 4 p.m. at Elm Street for the title, with the winner moving into the city tournament.

R.C. Cola jumped into the lead with three runs in the first inning. Tracy Mills singled and Doug Berry got a hit. Stacy Mills singled in Tracy Mills, and a double by Vince Hankins scored the other two runners.

Two more scored in the second. Chris Joyner reached on a fielder's choice and moved up on a wild pitch. Eric Sawyer reached on an error and Tracy Mills singled to score Joyner. Berry reached on a fielder's choice that got Sawyer, but a double by Stacy Mills scored Tracy.

The Kiwanis got into the action in the third with two runs. Jay Whitehurst reached on an error and Grant Stackhouse singled. An error on the play let Whitehurst score. Mike Thurber singled in Stackhouse.

R.C. came back with 10 runs in the fourth, however, to put the game out of reach. Berry singled and Stacy Mills doubled. A passed ball scored Berry, and another brought in Mills. Hankins walked and scored on Mike Livingston's double. Jeff Wilson walked and Joyner singled in Livingston. Dwayne Fisher singled in Wilson and Berry got a hit to score Joyner. Stacy Mills reached on an error, scoring Fisher, and Hankins reached on an error, scoring both Berry and Mills. A passed ball let Hankins score.

The Kiwanis rallied for eight in the bottom of the fifth, then scored two in the sixth, including a solo homer by Stackhouse, but couldn't quite catch up.

The Optimists came up with two in the second to take the lead over Coke in the second game. Tony Heath reached on a fielder's choice and moved up on an out. Paul MacMillan reached on an error and stole second. An error let both Heath and Macmillan score.

Two more came over in the third. Billy Dough singled and Jeff Porter smacked a triple scoring Dough. Heath reached on an error, scoring Porter.

The other three Optimist runs came in the fifth. Kenny Kirkland walked and moved up on a passed ball and a wild pitch. Porter walked and stole second. Heath singled in Kirkland, and Jon Hause grounded out, scoring Porter. MacMillan reached on an error, scoring Heath.

Both Coke runs came in the sixth. Danny Agee walked and Michael Smith ran for him. Todd Lovette singled and both moved up on a passed ball. Billy Brannigan doubled to drive in both runners.

Rocky Mount Barges Past Legion, 7-2

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Greenville's American Legion baseball team spiraled to its third straight defeat last night as Rocky Mount waltzed to a 7-2 win over Post 39.

The loss knocked Greenville down to a 4-4 record in league play, while Rocky Mount climbed to a 6-4 mark. At the same time, Williamston downed Snow Hill to keep the race tight. Everyone has lost at least four games now.

Rocky Mount's Tim Sikes went the route for them, scattering eight hits. Four of those came in the final two innings and accounted for the runs. One of those was a solo home run by Macon Moye.

Greenville didn't lack for scoring opportunities, however, as they put men on second or third in four of the first seven frames.

But Greenville was unable to hold down the Rocky Mount team, which came to the plate swinging and picked up 10 big hits, scoring in four different innings.

Starter Jim Wilkerson, hurriedly pressed into the role after it was determined that Kelly Heath was unable to start because of a sore arm, kept Rocky Mount at bay for two innings, allowing only one base runner and no hits.

He didn't allow a hit in the third, but he helped to bring on two runs with two errors and four walks.

Curt Fulcher opened the third with a walk and Sikes, trying to bunt him down, reached on an error as Wilkerson underthrew first. Both runners moved up on the play. Wilkerson then tried to pick off Sikes at second, but the ball was thrown away, and Fulcher scampered home with the first run. Sikes moved to third and scored on Tommy Crocker's sacrifice fly.

Rocky Mount added three more in the fifth. With one down, Crocker lashed a triple into right field. Then, after a pop fly, Doug Henley singled to center, scoring Crocker. Henley stole second and took third on a wild pitch. Greg Proctor walked and advanced unmolested. Gary Ward then singled to left, scoring both Henley and Proctor for a 5-0 lead.

Another run came in the sixth. Sikes led off, reaching on an error. Singles by James Wells and Larry Joyner brought him around.

The final Rocky Mount run came in the seventh. Proctor singled and Ward got a hit. Both were sacrificed up and Proctor scored on Sikes' infield grounder.

Rocky Mount threatened again in the eighth, putting men on second and third, but Greenville was able to hold them this time.

Greenville offered its first threat in the second, when Mike Belton doubled and took third when a pickoff attempt was muffed, only to die there. In the third, Griff Garner reached on a fielder's choice and moved to third on Heath's hit, but again, nothing came of it.

In the sixth, Heath opened up with a double, but never got any further. In the seventh, Gil Whitford reached on a two-base error and Wright Hooks was safe on an infield hit, but neither advanced.

Finally, in the eighth, Moye unloaded his shot to left to avoid a shutout.

Then, in the ninth, Greenville got its other run. With two down, David Dixon walked. Garner beat out an infield hit and Heath singled to score Dixon.

Greenville is at home again tonight, playing host to Williamston at 8 p.m. at Harrington Field.

Fire Fighters Cling To Lead

Randy Adams had three hits and Keith Gould pitched a three-hitter to lead the Fire Fighters to a 7-1 win over University Kiwanis and keep the Senior Babe Ruth League lead and Ayden-Grifton won the second game of a doubleheader, 8-4 over Taff Office, last night.

Gould went the distance striking out five and walking none.

The Fire Fighters broke a scoreless game in the third inning rallying for four runs. Randy Edens singled with one out and Bill Ellington got a hit. Clennel Streeter singled to score Edens and hits by Adams and Gould scored Ellington and Streeter. Adams also scored on Gould's hit.

Kiwanis countered with its only run in the top of the fourth. Doug Causey doubled and a passed ball put him on third. Bill Ellington sacrificed him over.

Streeter was safe on fielder's choice in the fifth and took second on an error. Greg Coward moved him to third with a hit and Adams drove him in on a single. An error on the play moved both runners up and Coward scored on an out.

The Fire Fighters added another run in the seventh. Ellington, Streeter, and Coward had two hits each for the Fire Fighters.

A-G got one in the first as Al Butts stole home. A-G then got the eventual winning run in the fifth. With two out, Randy Nelson singled and Vern Davenport walked. A walk to Chris Riggs loaded the bases and hits by Steve Noble and Kevin Nelson drove in Randy Nelson, Davenport, Riggs and Noble for a 6-1 lead.

Taff got one in the bottom of the fifth with Greg Lassiter scoring on an error.

A-G pushed over three more in the seventh to ice the win. Tim Shadle walked and Sammy Whitehurst singled. Al Butts walked loading the bases and hits by Ricky Haywood and Randy Nelson scored Shadle and Whitehurst. Butts scored when Davenport was hit by a pitch.

Tallied for three in the last of the seventh but fell four runs short of tieing the game.

Nelson had four hits for A-G, Lassiter three for Taff.

Tolar Week's Summer Player

Methodist College coach Paul Sanderford watched the second week of North Carolina Collegiate Summer League play with almost complete anguish.

First, a .350 hitter named John McMillan broke an ankle in a game against UNC-Wilmington. Then Jerry Neal, a hard-hitting first-baseman, reaggravated an old hamstring pull as the Monarchs were pounding ECU 10-4. Robert Redd, a Monarch third-baseman, was then stricken with intestinal flu and is expected to miss some games this week.

All has not been sour with the depletion of the Methodist ranks, though, as Sam Tolar has carried more than his share of the duty. Tolar belted the ball at a .444 clip for the week, going 8 for 18 including two doubles and a grand slam home run for 11 runs batted in and for his work has been named the second league "Player of the Week" for the 1975 season.

From Sanderson's viewpoint, it may be a good thing the blonde slugger from Hope Mills has brought his average from .142 to .360 with the week's work.

"With these injuries, I don't even have anybody to tell jokes to in the dugout when the team's on the field," Sanderson deadpanned. Of course, one Methodist player said the injuries weren't the only reason nobody sat around to listen to the jokes.

"Sam has picked us up this week," Sanderson continued. "I guess pitching to him is no laughing matter either."

FOR WHAT IT'S WORTH DEPARTMENT: Methodist College righthander Earl Bunn, a Zebulon, N.C., native, has pitched a whopping 42 and two-thirds innings in the Monarchs' first eight games, making appearances in all but the 3-1 loss to ECU Sunday.

Bunn said he was just going to take it easy Saturday night, having pitched nine innings in the 10-4 win over ECU Thursday night.

"Coach Sanderford told me he might use me in short relief," Bunn laughed. "But how did I know what was going to happen?"

Bunn entered the Saturday night game against UNC in the third inning. The game went 15 innings, Bunn hurling the final 13, before being called at 12 o'clock due to a curfew in Red Springs, with the score at 7-7.

The University of North Carolina had the hottest team of the week, climbing from fourth to first place with a 5-3 record. Coach Mike Roberts promised followers prior to the season's start that the team would be an exciting one to watch and, in a come-from-behind 3-2 win over ECU, it proved Roberts' point.

With one out and runners on first and second in the bottom of the ninth, a slow roller was hit to second base. The runner was forced at second and while the Pirate shortstop was getting untangled from the play Bill Lee just kept running and scored the winning tally, beating the relay throw home.

East Carolina University coach George Williams was doubly pleased with the 3-1 Pirate win over Methodist Sunday. His club had dropped a 2-0, 10-inning contest Monday to UNC-W, then fell to UNC on Tuesday. Thursday, Methodist pounded four Pirate pitchers for a 10-4 win and the rains washed away Friday's return battle with the Seahawks.

"We haven't hit the ball at times," said Williams. "And at times we have played some sloppy defense. But what can you do? You just have to keep playing and pretty soon things will drop."

Pirate pitchers have the 1-3-5 spots in the pitching statistics this week, indicating things can't be all bad. But with a 2-5 record, who can argue?

While Pirate pitching is dominating the statistics there, Louisburg has done its share of damage with the bats.

Morrow In Lead

Vikki Morrow Karate moved into first place in the Junior Putters League at the Greenville Putt-Putt yesterday.

Morrow downed Eckerd's, 20-10, to move its record to 5-1 on the year. In other matches, J.H. Hudson beat Jerry's Sweet Shop, 17-13; Home Builders downed Waffle House, 17½-6½; and Kwik-Pix downed Jefferson Standard, 11-7.

Trailing Morrow in second place with 4-2 records are Jefferson Standard, Eckerd's and J.H. Hudson.

Rodney Speight, Robert Sturtevant, Robert Stancill, Ryner Bullock and Joel Mauger are the top point leaders at this time in the season.

Pitt Plaza Romps To Win

Pitt Plaza romped to a 22-2 victory over Auto Specialty last night in the Prep Babe Ruth League, thus giving the first half-season title to the Graniteers.

The victory left Auto Specialty with a 4-5 record, while Pitt Plaza is now 3-5. The Graniteers, with a 7-1 record, cannot be caught in the remaining games.

Pitt Plaza pushed over one in the first inning. Don McGlohon walked and moved up on a passed ball. After Mark Shank walked, Allen Collier singled in McGlohon.

Five more crossed in the second. Jeff Quinn doubled and Jeff Parnell walked. McGlohon also walked, loading the bases. Howard Wilkerson reached on an error, scoring Quinn. David Carroll then doubled to drive in all three baserunners. Collier tripled to score Carroll for a 6-0 lead.

Pitt Plaza added 10 more runs in the third. George Wilkerson walked and Quinn reached on an error. Parnell walked, loading the bases. McGlohon walked to score Wilkerson and Howard Wilkerson walked, scoring Quinn. Shank walked to score Parnell. Collier then singled to score McGlohon and Skip Hill walked, bringing in Howard Wilkerson. Quinn singled in both Collier and Shank, and Parnell walked to reload the bases. McGlohon walked, scoring Hill, and a walk to Howard Wilkerson scored Quinn. Shank reached on a fielder's choice scoring Parnell with the final run.

Pitt Plaza added one in the fourth and four more in the fifth.

Both of the Auto Specialty runs came in the fifth. Graig Gardiner singled and William Sneed reached on an error. Ashley Taylor singled in Gardiner and an error let Sneed score.

Leaders Post Wins

Both church league leaders, Oakmont and Grace, remained at the top of their division standings with wins last night and Arlington St. broke its winless string with a 10-8 win over Temple.

The Arlington win game in one of the first games. Arlington St. built a 2-0 lead by the top of the third but Temple rallied for four in the bottom of that frame. Arlington blew over seven runs in the fourth to win it.

Trinity held off a sixth inning rally by Mt. Pleasant to get a 7-6 win. Mt. Pleasant got a 2-0 lead in the first but Trinity got the advantage in the second, 3-2. Trinity made it a 7-2 lead in the third and choked off a rally in the sixth after Mt. Pleasant cut the gap to 7-6.

In a 9:30 game, Memorial shutout Fiest Free Will, 7-0, getting all that counted in the first, two runs. Memorial added three in the third and two in the fifth.

Presbyterian took an easy win over Immanuel as Immanuel forfeited.

Oakmont did all its scoring in the second inning picking up seven runs. Oakmont gave up two in the third and three in the fourth to People's for the 7-5 win.

In the final game, Grace whalloped St. Gabriel, 15-5. Both teams scored in the first with Grace holding a 2-1 edge. Grace pushed over four in the second and four in the third to ice the victory.

Hunter's Victory Puts Yanks In Lead

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Catfish Hunter, who was supposed to itch the New York Yankees into first place, finally did it Tuesday night.

The three-million-dollar man checked Baltimore on four hits -- two in the first inning, two in the ninth — and the Yankees downed the Orioles 3-1 in a baseball-beanball duel.

Coupled with Boston's 8-6 loss to Cleveland — George Hendrick's three-run homer capped a four-run ninth for the Indians — the Yankees climbed into first place in the American League's East Division by one-half game, ending the Red Sox' month-long stay at the top.

In other action, the Milwaukee Brewers swept a doubleheader from the Detroit Tigers 5-0 and 4-2, the Oakland A's edged the Minnesota Twins 6-4, the Kansas City Royals defeated the California Angels 5-3 in 11 innings and the Chicago White Sox shaded the Texas Rangers 7-5.

The only Baltimore run off Hunter was Ken Singleton's leadoff homer in the first inning. The Yankees tied it in the second against Mike Torrez on a hit batsman and singles by Graig Nettles and Terry Whitfield. They scored two in the fourth on singles by Munson, Chris Chambliss and Nettles and Whitfield's sacrifice fly.

The beanball fuss began when Torrez clipped Munson with a pitch in the second inning. Hunter nicked Elrod Hendricks in the bottom of the second and zeroed in on Bobby Grich in the sixth after a Torrez pitch came close to Munson in the top of the inning.

Indians 8, Red Sox 6

Hendrick's second home run of the game was a two-out, fired a three-hitter for his sec- three-run shot in the ninth inning. It came after Carl Yastrzemski, playing the outfield for the first time in almost a year, hit a two-run homer in the eighth to put Boston on top 6-4. Hendrick, who tagged Bill Lee for a first-inning homer, connected off Dick Drago in the ninth. Charlie Spikes also homered for Cleveland.

Brewers 5-4, Tigers 0-2

George Scott, who homered earlier, drilled a tie-breaking two-run single to cap a three-run seventh inning in the nightcap as Bill Travers scattered eight hits for his first complete game in the majors. Jim Slaton won consecutive shutout and third straight victory in the opener.

A's 6, Twins 4

The A's took advantage of four walks and two wild pitches by Minnesota's Joe Decker in the first inning to score four runs. They got another in the sixth on a walk and Bill North's double and Gene Tenace walloped his 13th homer in the seventh.

Royals 5, Angels 3

Hal McRae delivered a tie-breaking single in the 11th inning and John Mayberry added an insurance run with a sacrfice fly. California took a 1-0 lead on Andy Etchebarren's second-inning homer. The Angels tied it with two runs in the seventh on a walk, Billy Smith's single, Mickey Rivers' single and an error.

White Sox 7, Rangers 5

Jorge Orta drove in four Chicago runs with a homer, single and sacrifice fly and Bill Melton drilled a pair of run-scoring singles, helping Claude Osteen notch his second victory of the season after 11 fruitless quests.

Phils In Pair Of Victories

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Phillies threw a pair of 21-year-old pitchers to the Lions but the Lions turned out to be pussycats.

Larry Christenson and Tom Underwood, the Phils top two draft choices three years ago, tamed the fearsome Pittsburgh Pirates Tuesday night as the Phils swept a double header 6-3, 8-1 to pull to within two games of the first-place Bucs in the National League East.

Christenson, 2-1, allowed six hits and two runs through seven innings in the opener, while Underwood, 8-5, went the distance with a five-hitter in the nightcap.

Elsewhere in the National League, Cincinnati blanked Atlanta 3-0, New York topped St. Louis 5-1, Los Angeles dumped Houston 8-3, San Diego swept a pair from San Francisco 2-1 in 10 innings and 3-0 and Chicago routed Montreal 13-6.

The Pirates swept into Philadelphia Monday night with victories in 12 of their last 13 games and a five-game bulge over the Phils. But three straight losses ended Pittsburgh hopes of a runaway, for the time being anyway.

Ollie Brown's tie-breaking double in the seventh was the big blow for the Phils in the opener, while Greg Luzinski drove in three runs with a pair of singles in the finale.

Luzinski's first single, a two-run poke, came off Bruce Kison in the first inning. Kison also surrendered four walks and left without getting anyone out, the second straight start he has failed to retire a batter.

Reds 3, Braves 0

Joe Morgan accounted for all the scoring with a three-run homer in the third inning as the Reds won for the 10th time in 13 games. It was his 10th of the season. Pat Darcy, Fred Norman and Pedro Borbon combined on a six-hitter with Darcy, 2-4, getting the victory. Phil Niekro, 7-6, took the loss.

Mets 5, Cardinals 1

Jerry Koosman posted his 100th major league victory with a five-hitter as the Mets snapped a seven-game losing streak and a 35-inning scoreless string.

Dodgers 8, Astros 3

Doug Rau hurled a six-hitter, collected three hits and drove in two runs for Los Angeles. Steve Garvey belted a three-run homer in the first and Ron Cey followed with a solo shot to put the Dodgers on top for good.

Padres 2-3, Giants 1-0

Randy Jones notched his 10th victory in the opener, scattering 11 hits over the 10 innings. Enzo Hernandez scored the winning run, racing home from third on an error by second baseman Derrel Thomas.

In the nightcap, Brent Strom fired a two-hitter for his second victory in three decisions. Willie McCovey homered and Mike Ivie contributed a run-scoring double for San Diego.

Cubs 13, Expos 6

The Cubs pounded four Montreal pitchers for 15 base hits, three by Tim Hosley who drove in three runs. Chicago broke it open in the third with six runs, two on Andy Thorton's double. Winning pitcher Bill Bonham, 7-5, contributed a two-run triple.

Marxist Mozambique Receives Independence

By LARRY HEINZERLING
Associated Press Writer

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (AP) — Samora Machel, bearded 41-year-old leader of the guerrilla war that ended Portuguese rule in East Africa, is to be sworn in today as the first president of the new People's Republic of Mozambique.

Machel greeted Portuguese Premier Vasco Goncalves with a hug and long handshake before 35,000 persons at a midnight ceremony Tuesda marking the independence of Portugal's second largest overseas territory.

Scores of exuberant troops of FRELIMO, Machel's Mozambique Liberation Front, fired their Chinese and Russian rifles at random, sending nearby persons rushing for cover and hitting at least one man. The shooting lasted about 20 minutes.

Japan immediately announced recognition of the new People's Republic of Mozambique, Africa's 43rd independent nation with a population of 8.5 million and an area twice that of California.

Recognition by the United States is expected to be a long time coming because of the revolutionary Marxist character of Machel's movement and the strong backing it has from both the Soviet Union and China. The U.S. Consulate in Lourenco Marques, in operation since 1852, closed at midnight.

The independence ceremony in Machava soccer stadium was attended by hundreds of delegates from the Communist powers and African and other Third World countries. Official representatives from the United States and other major Western nations were not invited, but two black members of the U.S. House of Representatives — Charles C. Diggs, D-Mich., and Cardiss Collins, D-Ill. — were among the Americans who came with personal invitations.

Diggs said Mozambique's independence was the "most important development" since Ghana's independence in 1957. He said the U.S. government's failure to support black liberation movements in Africa has damaged American standing at the United Nations and could be harmful economically.

The independence celebration began with a 21-gun cannon salute into the African night dampened by a freak dry-season rain. Every crash of the guns brought echoing shouts of "Viva! Viva!"

A Portuguese sailor in dress whites slowly lowered the red and green flag of Portugal for the last time to the thunder of rolling drums and the roar of the largely African crowd. Even louder cheers went up as the Portuguese colors were replaced by the new national flag of Mozambique — green, red, yellow, white and black stripes and an industrial cog surrounding a crossed rifle and hoe over an open book.

Machel declared the "total and complete independence of Mozambique," delivered a searing attack on colonialism and imperialism and called for national sacrifice. The speech was laced with Marxist rhetoric underlining the new regime's solidarity with the socialist nations of the world.

The new constitution promises a "new society free of exploitation of men by men," with land and all other natural resources the property of the state and a planned economy run by the state.

BERLIN TRAVEL

BERLIN (UPI) — Almost one million West Berliners visited the Eastern part of the divided city in the first four months of the year, according to the West Berlin city administration.

The city spokesman said in that period 794,121 West Berliners made one-day trips, and 135,878 remained longer in the Eastern zone, bringing East Germany $2.5 million in visa fees alone.

Summer Electricity Rates In Winterville

WINTERVILLE—Town Clerk Elwood Nobles announced today that the summer electrical rates will be in effect in the June 20 billing for services rendered since May 20.

Nobles explained that with the new summer rates and the large amount of electricity used during the current billing period that electrical bills will reflect "quite a tremendous" increase over the last billing period.

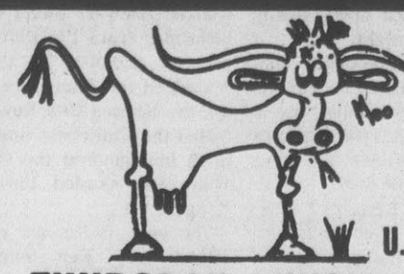

"The electrical bills received later this month will show a considerable increase due to the fact that it has been very hot during the past few weeks and the cost of electricity has shown a large increase." Nobles said.

"The town has no choice but to charge the summer rates," Nobles said. "Due to the increase in cost of electricity purchased from VEPCO, the town has to increase its rate."

The cost of electricity during the months of June through September includes'; first 90 kwh. 7.27 cents per kwh; next 120 kwh; 4.07 cents per kwh; next 390 kwh is 2.96 per kwh; and all over 600 is 3.14 kwh.

The fossil fuel charge now is $7.55 per 1,000 kilowatts.

"The bills this month will be much higher than they were in May and I want our customers to be aware of the fact," Nobles explained.

Solutions Suggested For N.C. Natural Gas Famine

RALEIGH (AP) — To ward off a possibly disastrous natural gas shortage this fall and winter, state officials were told that North Carolina should seek a ban on the use of natural gas to fuel boilers and industries should buy gas direct from producers.

Those suggestions and others, such as the deregulation of natural gas prices, were voiced at a public hearing Tuesday chaired by Gov. Holshouser and held by the State Utilities Commission and others.

The problem tackled by energy, government and industry officials at the hearing is a predicted cutback in the state's allocations of natural gas that may for the first time affect residential customers.

The state's only supplier — Transcontiental Gas Pipeline Corp. (Transco) — warned that this winter's cutback will probably be 60 per cent. Last year's cutback of 40 per cent caused some plants to close.

Energy experts testified that the industries could get gas if they wanted it enough to pay three to four times as much as they're currently paying for it. They said firms could circumvent federally imposed natural gas cutbacks by buying the gas directly from producers in Texas and Louisiana.

Then Transco, acting only as a distributing agent, could move the gas to North Carolina. Witnesses said the higher prices would be no more expensive than switching to oil or coal.

Another possible solution offered would be for the federal government to ban the use of natural gas used to fuel electric power plants boilers and other boilers. Energy experts claimed the boilers could just as easily be operated with coal or oil.

"Twenty per cent of all gas is used for boiler fuel," said Morton L. Simons, the state commission's Washington-based attorney.

Simons and others said by prohibiting the use of gas for boilers, more gas would be available for textile, brick, glass, aluminum, fertilizer and other industrial processes.

More than 100 representatives of the state's industries attended the hearing, fearful that a shortage next winter will close their factories. Even if alternative fuels are used to keep their plants open, they say costs will rise. And they add that that would increase their prices, possibly to the point that they were uncompetitive with other state's manufacturers.

Reports that for the first time the shortages may afffect residential and small commercial customers were confirmed by gas company officials. Transco President W.L. Bowen said gas shortages in North Carolina will be more severe than anywhere else in the country.

The state's shortages are greater because of its higher percentage of industrial customers. The Federal Power Commission's plan calls for homes to be served first and industries last.

Hardest hit by the allocation cutbacks would be North Carolina Natural Gas Corp., headquartered in Fayetteville and serving much of eastern North Carolina.

A Transco spokesman said N.C.N.G. would have no gas for large commercial and industrial customers, but could, under fairly good weather conditions, serve all its residential customers. But he said it would be able to serve only seven per cent of the gas needed by its small commercial customers.

The other two major distributors in North Carolina wouldn't be hit as hard but would have almost no gas for industrial customers, who make up a smaller percentage of their customers.

Those two are Piedmont Natural Gas Co., serving Charlotte, Winston Salem and Greensboro, and Public Service Co., serving Raleigh, Durham Gastonia and Asheville.

Holshouser called the FPC plan inequitable.

"Wouldn't it make more sense to spread the emergencies more equitably across the system so that one segment (North Carolina) is not penalized?," Holshouser asked.

And Transco President Bowen Tuesday morning attacked Congress for not deregulating the price of gas newly-discovered at the well-head.

"It's elected officials in Washington who continue to restrict Transco from buying this onshore gas. If we could just pay the price, we could get gas for you next winter," Bowen said.

Gov. Wallace Preparing Make TV Ads For Primary Season

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace, who is seeking the presidency even if he hasn't formally announced yet, will make a number of TV ads in late fall for use in Democratic presidential primary races next year.

That's the word from his national campaign manager, Charles S. Snider, who says the Alabama governor probably will tape from nine to 15 commercials for use in many, but not necessarily all, of the primary races.

He says the ads, from one to three minutes long and consisting mainly of film excerpts of Wallace speeches on various issues, aren't being made because Wallace has any "voter recognition" problem.

"Voters know what he looks like and what he stands for," he said.

The ads will be aired simply to "restate his position on the various issues" and to combat any complacency Wallace supporters may feel about his chances of winning a state in which he is strong, Snider said.

It's not the first use of TV advertising by Wallace in a presidential race. Snider says Wallace first used paid TV spots in his third-party campaign for president in 1968, but on a very limited basis.

He said Wallace, crippled by a gunman's bullets while campaigning in the Maryland primary race in 1972, had made 22 TV ads for use in 12 Democratic primaries that year.

But Wallace's purchase of TV time then was well below what other major Democratic candidates spent in the primaries, he added.

According to Federal Communications Commission figures, the highest Democratic spender was Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, whose troops spent nearly $1.2 million for broadcast advertising — $750,000 of it on TV — during the 1972 primaries.

Other big spenders were the committees for Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., which respectively shelled out $541,000 and $517,000 for broadcast ads in primary races that year.

Wallace's campaign committee was the fourth largest time buyer in the 1972 Democratic primaries, coughing up $432,246 for broadcast ads, of which $308,526 went for TV, according to the FCC.

In 1976 presidential races, the spending by candidates is bound to be lower since the new federal election laws limit each presidential campaigner's total expenditures — for anything — to $10 million.

Snider, who pointed this out, said there's been no decision yet on how much will be spent on Wallace's radio-TV ads, nor is it known yet in how many of 29 scheduled state primary races the ads will appear.

But he said that as in 1972, the ads will be made in Montgomery, Ala., by Wallace's own committee, sans help from Madison Avenue. The producer will be former Montgomery TV newsman Bob Gambacurta.

Wallace already has made campaign films for nonbroadcast use by his state committees, Snider said, but he won't start taping his radio-TV spots until late fall after he formally announces his candidacy.

None of the ads will be aired until next year and no national air time for them will be purchased, he added.

President Morton opened the business meeting with the pledge of allegiance. Plans of work of the three divisions for the 1975-1976 Club Year were presented and approved. Mrs. Addie K. Jenkins, coordinator, projects division, outlined a detailed community services plan. The diversified plan includes activities ranging from a donation to the Mental Health Emergency Medical Fund to continuing the beautification of the downtown Pilot Garden spot. The budget request of the division is $921.

Mrs. Jean Cox reviewed plans for Outreach Division. The major emphasis of this division is marked for Public Relations and Anchor Club. Various activities in the area of membership are also planned, including new, prospective, and present membership. The budget request is $738. Mrs. Kay Whitehurst is coordinator.

Excerising the theme "Service Today Insures Tomorrow", the 49 Pilot Club members will carry out plans to utilize a total budge of $4,108 in service to the residents of the City of Greenville and the surrounding communities.

President Morton will be the official delegates to Pilot Club International Convention, Houston, Texas, July 13-17. Mrs. Sue Smith will attend as alternate delegate.

Julia Will Produce And Direct

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Said Julia Phillips to the Columbia Pictures brass: "I would like to propose an idea whose time has come — me."

She was making a bold proposal: that she direct as well as produce the film version of Erica Jong's sensational novel, "Fear of Flying."

Only a handful of women, notably Dorothy Arzner, Ida Lupino and Elaine May, have succeeded as directors of American movies.

Mrs. Phillips recalled the reaction over lunch by Columbia Pictures president David Begelman: "After compulsively consuming 14 rolls, he agreed that it might be a good idea."

She discussed the new adventure at her Benedict Canyon home where she was pausing briefly from preparation of six films.

On the hearth was the Oscar she won for coproducing "The Sting" with her estranged husband, Michael, and Tony Bill.

"Some people are saying that I had it in mind all along to direct 'Fear of Flying,'" said Mrs. Phillips, a plain-talking, curly haired woman of 30. "Not true. I certainly would prefer to direct something smaller for my first picture.

"Do I have any qualms? No — but a lot of anxiety. Let's say I'm confident — and scared witless."

Born Julia Miller in New York, she majored in political science at Mount Holyoke College but her major interest was in writing a novel and short stories.

She met and married a Dartmouth student, Michael Phillips, and helped put him through NYU Law School by publishing jobs.

She moved into work for film companies, and the Phillipses and Bill produced "Steelyard Blues" for Warner Bros. It was a bomb. Their next film wasn't.

"The Sting" made millions for everyone. The marriage ended, but the partnrship remains.

Why haven't more women directed movies?

"Maybe because they haven't been given the opportunity," Mrs. Phillips says. "It is difficult for women to get the chance, and I don't delude myself into thinking that I was chosen because of my inherent talent.

"I got the job because I happen to be the owner of a very hot property."

The continuing success of "Fear of Flying" has overcome the doubts Columbia once had about the property. Book sales have hit 3½ million, with 5 million expected.

Mrs. Jong's tale of a New York girl's search for self has evoked controversy over its sex and language ("How can a woman write like that!").

Said Mrs. Phillips: "I don't anticipate making a pornographic film. Sex is organic to 'Fear of Flying,' but I hope to show the humor of it, too. And I'd like the picture to look as elegant as Paris and Vienna can look.

"I see the main character as an articulate, brazen, quaking-inside heroine. The story is more 'Tom Jones' than 'Last Tango in Paris.'"

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♣	3NT	Pass	Pass
Dble.	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♥.

The average bridge player expects to make a normal number of errors in any evening. He tends to think that the bridge expert is immune to such human failings. Nothing could be further from the truth. Just as the expert has a tremendous talent for making the right play, so he has a tendency every now and then to make a spectacular gaffe. When this hand was played in the European Championship, two of Europe's best players held the North-South cards.

The bidding needs some explanation. The opening bid was the artificial club opening used by proponents of the Roman System to cover a wide variety of hands—in this case, it showed a strong balanced hand, as confirmed by East's double at his second turn. South's jump to three no trump was of the gambling variety, based on a long, strong minor suit and some outside cards. North must have been mightily impressed with his queen-jack of diamonds when he left his partner in three no trump doubled—prudence would seems to suggest a removal to four clubs, allowing partner to convert to diamonds if that was his suit. We will never know where East-West would have ended up had North not elected to stand for the double.

Fortunately for the defenders, West could not lead a club even had he wanted to. Instead he made his natural lead of the queen of hearts. East rose with the ace and South's king was a most pleasant surprise—for the defenders. To cut a long story short, when the queen of spades dropped as well, the defenders ended up with all thirteen tricks for a penalty of 2,600 points.

Even that was not a record for the European Championship. However, North's comment at the end is worth preserving for the record: "Well, we're an old partnership. It happens to us all the time!"

Irrigation Makes Difference During A Dry Spell

By JAMES KYLE
Reflector Staff Writer

Compared to the one inch of rain per week which is normally required for tobacco growth, Pitt County has only received three-fourths of an inch in the past three and a half weeks. Would irrigation help area farmers?

Experiments have shown that about 15 per cent more yield can be obtained through irrigation, depending on the stage of growth, Agricultural Extension Service agent Ken Bateman said.

Proper moisture is most important during the knee-high to early flowering stage. This is the stage that most area crops are presently in, Bateman said.

Irrigated tobacco generally has larger leaves which are spaced further apart, increasing the yield of the plant. Irrigated crops are also usually lighter in color, thinner and lower in oil, nicotine and total alkoloids, Bateman said. Irrigation also reduced the firing, the burning of the lower plant leaves, which can occur during hot dry weather.

An irrigated field grows faster and matures earlier than one which goes through a drought or moisture-stress period.

While proper moisture is most important during the knee-high to early flowering stage, moisture stress in a young plant is not that important. In fact, a moisture stress period can help a young plant establish a better root system, Bateman said. Mature plants lose less water so water stress is not as much of a problem to them either.

Cost of an irrigation system depends on many factors. A larger farm can operate an irrigation system at a cheaper per-acre rate than a smaller farm. The distance the water must be pumped and the type of irrigation used also figure into the cost.

The farmer wants to irrigate the area eight to 12 inches below the ground surface — where most tobacco roots are. If too much water is applied, fertilizer can be washed down below the root level.

If irrigation water is applied faster than it can soak into the soil, it will run off the end of the rows in puddles, Bateman said. If this happens, the farmer won't know how much water has soaked into the soil.

A good rule of thumb for irrigation, according to Bateman, is: If tobacco does not show any sign of wilting by 11:00 in the morning, it probably has enough moisture.

It is usually best to irrigate at night because less water will evaporate then.

A farmer should also make sure he is getting water from an uncontaminated source, Bateman said. Contaminated water can spread plant disease and cause chemical injuries to the plants. Human diseases can also be spread through irrigation with contaminated water.

Humans Require Personal Space

CLEVELAND (AP) — A University Hospitals researcher says his studies indicate that when someone says, "Don't crowd me," he means it.

Humans need a kind of "body buffer zone" or personal space, and when that space is violated, flight — and possibly fight — is the normal reaction, said Dr. Leslie Lothstein, an assistant psychology professor at Case Western Reserve University.

Lothstein, whose research in the long-recognized theory of personal space has dealt with the relationship between aggression and increased interpersonal space requirements, said in a recent interview that such "human territory" may be involved when persons wind up in fights or as the victims of assault.

Persons unable to respond in a nonviolent way inherently need larger areas of personal space, Lothstein said. He called it a form of self-defense.

Lothstein suggested that teachers, school administrators and police consider concepts of personal space in dealing with hostility and violence.

"Sometimes just the laying of a hand by a policeman violates personal space and body space, and an individual with an inflexible set of boundaries may be provoked to violence," Lothstein said.

"When a person tells us to respect his distance, it may not simply be a challenge but a plea for help, and we must respect it," he added.

He also said the need may indicate that interrogation rooms in police stations should be larger, so an individual wouldn't feel personal space was being violated.

Lothstein said personal space boundaries may include one's car, which he said represents an external body armor to many persons.

He recommended that policemen stopping a car should have the occupant get out of the car, as many officers do routinely, so the occupant wouldn't be in a position of defending his territory.

He said research indicates that being approached by a person or object is seen as more threatening than approaching the person or object.

His research with young men showed that the degree of a person's aggression could be measured by the physical distance the person placed between himself and his adversary, Lothstein said.

Lothstein said he was attempting to devise a test for "assault proneness." Other practical applications which he said should be considered are training programs for those who work with violence potential and for desensitizing those who have abnormal need for space.

On Ramapo Mountain, Outsider Is Anyone Beyond The Next Road

By RITA SHADE

RINGWOOD, N.J. (UPI) — Uncle Benny shuffled through a maze of construction work, poking his head into every room of the new house. He fingered his lips, examined the blue bathroom and nodded approvingly.

"I like it, 'cept for the flowered wallpaper. Too bright for me. Nope, don't think I'll live up here. I'd like to. But I have to take care of mamma. She's 87."

Uncle Benny is 70. His dilapidated brown shingled home and outhouse sit at the entrance to the city dump.

With 96 other families, racially mixed and socially isolated, Uncle Benny lives in poverty-stricken Mine Hill, once an iron ore mining town in the Ramapo Mountains on the New York-New Jersey border 35 miles from Manhattan.

The new house he stood in was among nine homes built through a federal program that marked the first time Ramapo folk cooperated with outsiders to improve the community.

Brian Hennessy of the Community Action Council of Passaic County said his agency nurtured a trusting relationship with the people who have been politically ignored and socially snubbed.

"This is the first time the 900 people on Ramapo Mountain have identified with being helped by outsiders—and an outsider is anyone past the next road," Hennessy said. "The people don't want money doled out to them, they just want a little freedom from poverty.

"They are embarassed about their poverty. They are not a stupid people. They have a great sense of pride and a wealth of cultural hand-me-downs. Most lack a formal education past the eighth grade because of the pressures of attending the schools in the affluent communities at the foothills," Hennessy said.

"Myths have hardened the stigma of being from the mountains. They don't conceive of their lifestyle as scandalous, as it appears to outsiders."

Mine Hill residents — like other settlements in Mahwah, N.J., and Hillburn, N.Y.—are victimized by cruel legends.

Ramapo people are not, as these myths would have it, ancestors of Hessian deserters from the British Army, or escaped slaves, or British and West Indies prostitutes brought to Manhattan by a sea captain named Jackson, although they are uncharitably referred to as "Jackson whites."

They are descendants of freed slaves of the Dutch who settled New Amsterdam, and of American Indians. Their ancestors were given land, migrated from the dirt road called "Broadway" and became the first non-Indian settlers in the upper Hackensack River Valley.

Four families, the core of the Ramapo people, moved to the mountains. But racial snobbery and geographic isolation forced them to intermarry and today Ramapo people share 24 surnames.

Mine Hill settlers, poorest of the three groups, were tenant farmers or worked for the railroad or in iron mines. Industry died and the mines closed in the 1950s, leaving them no jobs, little education and no skills. Annual income barely passes $2,000 now. Most are on welfare or receive social security or unemployment.

The Community Action Council, an outgrowth of the War on Poverty, tries to generate jobs and make the community self-sufficient.

It directed the housing project under the Farmers Housing Administration program, trained residents as teachers aides for Head Start and sent some women to nutrition school to learn to operate a kitchen that prepares meals for the elderly and children in Head Start. The council plans to set up a food co-op, day care center and a clean-up campaign to recycle garbage largely uncollected by the city.

Through the FHA program, the people obtained 10 acres of land in the Mine Hill area from the city of Ringwood and were trained in construction skills. The FHA provided equipment and tools and financed homes at low interest.

The Council aims to secure more land and build homes for remaining families who now pay $25 monthly rent for two-story shanties left over from the mining days.

Meanwhile, Uncle Benny, a small man with goldish-brown skin pulled taut over high, sculptured cheekbones that cradle impish blue eyes, talks about his ancestors, the De-Freeses, one of Mine Hill's founding families.

His father worked as a blacksmith, but he never cared to learn the trade. His grandfather spoke Cherokee and taught him songs. His dad taught him to play the guitar. He enjoys jam sessions, but doesn't take much to dancing, 'cept with his girlfriend. He has a swarm of grandchildren, but "don't like babysittin'" after raising about a dozen of his own.

"Been here all my life. Don't plan to leave," he said. "Where would I go? These are all my people."

Pack A Gun In Guerrero

GOV. RUBEN FIGUEROA of Mexico's state of Guerrero, packs a gun and has been carrying one since the age of 11. (UPI Photo)

BY MATTHEW T. KENNY

ACAPULCO, Mexico (UPI) — Nobody knows for sure how many persons, excluding tourists, carry guns in Guerrero State, a region sometimes dubbed "the Wild West" of Mexico.

Some Mexicans claim that almost everybody over 12 years of age "packs a rod" in Guerrero.

One man who began carrying a gun at age 11 is the state governor, Ruben Figueroa, 74. And he still carries it today, bulging prominently from beneath of the shirt-tail of his "guayabera" or jacket.

"I've been in the habit of carrying a gun since I was 11 years old because my mother taught me that in this world it is necessary to take care of yourself," Figueroa said.

A barrel-chested man with a strong voice, Figueroa currently is feuding with local newspapers which accuse him of intimidation and trying to control the press. One editor even claimed that Figueroa threatened to "eliminate" him if he continues publishing critical stories about Acapulco, a Pacific coast tourist resort that is Guerrero's best known city.

The controversy with the press may be one of Figueroa's lesser problems. He governs a state which he admits is rampant with drug runners, and whose population is mainly illiterate, as well as economically inactive.

The state has also produced two of Mexico's best known self-styled guerrilla leaders, Jenaro Vazquez Rojas and Lucio Cabanas. Vazquez was killed in 1972 and Cabanas last December.

Cabanas' demise came only three months after the Mexican army rescued Figueroa, then a senator, from three months' captivity by the guerrilla leader.

Figueroa surprised newsmen recently by disclosing that his family had paid 25 million pesos ($2 million) ransom to Cabanas, who had been asking 50 million.

He said $1.12 million of the money paid out was recovered by the army at the time of his rescue. He said another $40,000 was subsequently retrieved but did not give any details.

What became of the remaining $800,000 paid to Cabanas remains a mystery.

However, Figueroa said he had reason to suppose that an unidentified priest, who was acting as intermediary in making the ransom payment, may have kept $240,000.

Figueroa said the payment to Cabanas was made by his family with the help of friends after President Luis Echeverria flatly ruled out negotiations of any kind by the government with the guerrilla leader.

In private life Figueroa owns a big truck transport company and is part owner of an interstate passenger bus line.

He was elected governor last December, his candidacy sustained by the powerful Revolutionary Institutional Party even while he was being held by Cabanas.

Figueroa recently estimated that 60 per cent—about 1.4 million of the state's two million population—is illiterate.

He also said that Guerrero is plagued by widespread, although clandestine, production of marijuana. Drug traffickers supplied Cabanas with arms in return for help with their operations, he said.

Crime statistics in Guerrero are difficult to obtain. But last January one local newspaper carried an estimate by a Mexican expert in public administration who said that among the member states of the United Nations "Mexico occupies first place in crime and the state of Guerrero generates 50 per cent of it."

Figueroa said one reason he goes armed is to guard against possible aggression by some marijuanero, a "hop-head" deranged by drugs.

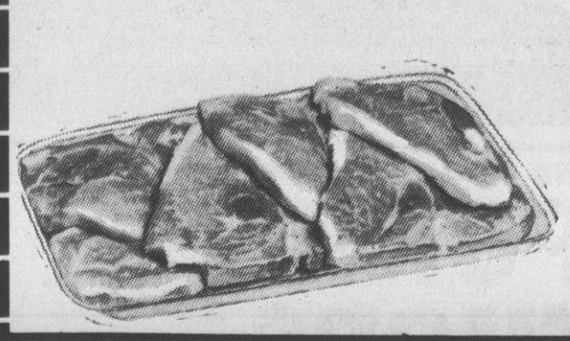

Groundwater Resources To Be Evaluated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Geological Survey says the 113,500-square-mile upper Colorado River region, which includes parts of Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, New Mexico and Arizona, is the first of the nation's 21 major water resource regions to be evaluated for groundwater development.

The survey says groundwater resources —perhaps 15 to 20 times larger than the volume of streams, lakes and reservoirs —are expected to play an important role as major water sources in many sections of the nation.

Gerald Meyer, chief of the survey's groundwater branch, said the upper Colorado region could tap an estimated 115-million-acre feet of water from underground supplies. He said this region needs the water for oil shale development.

Woman Cadet Is A Sharpshooter

WANDA OLIVER says she feels right at home on the firing range. (AP Wirephoto)

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP) — The ROTC cadet kneeling in the dust at this Army post's firing range was chewing up the targets with an M16 rifle when a young noncommissioned officer walked up to offer a suggestion.

His major cut him short.

"Forget it," the major said. "There's nothing you can tell her about marksmanship, soldier. She's a better shot than most of the guys out here."

Wanda Oliver, one of 59 women cadets attending Reserve Officer Training Corps summer camp at Ft. Lewis for the first time, is the No. 1 conventional target college shooter among both men and women in the United States.

"This is familiar territory for me," she said as she waved toward the brush-shrouded targets on the base south of Tacoma.

Mrs. Oliver, an Eastern Washington State College senior whose husband is also a cadet and sharpshooter, recently was selected to the All American First Team in rifle maksmanship. She also is rated second among both U.S. amateur and professional women shooters.

She says she joined the Army for an obvious reason — target practice.

"It's the only opportunity I'll have to make a world competition," she says. "It's an expensive sport outside the military and this way I'll get to practice all I want. Especially if I qualify for the Reserve Rifle Team at Ft. Benning, Ga."

Army personnel directing the six-week advanced field training session say the women cadets are holding their own in summer camp.

"For the most part, they came here in better condition than the men cadets," said Maj. Tom Raley, commander of Mrs. Oliver's unit.

"They know it's the first year women have been in the program and they want to prove themselves."

The women aren't allowed to drive tanks or fly attack helicopters — skills which come under the heading of offensive tactics and are now off limits to Army women — but they are offered training in firing the M16, machine guns, antitank recoilless rifles and hand grenades. It's the first time since World War II and Korea that women have been offered weapons training, officers say.

Wanda Oliver says no male cadet is going to carry her load at the camp.

"They (male cadets) have been teasing us a lot about women slowing them down," she says. "So we're going to prove them wrong. So far we've really been hanging in there."

No Meters For Parking

VIENNA (AP) — The City Fathers here have found a cheap way — for them — to charge parking fees in downtown Vienna.

Foreign motorists, used to feeding dimes — or an equivalent — into parking meters, will look in vain for them.

The city administration asserted that parking meters were disgracing streets and instead they introduced tickets which the motorists have to buy beforehand and put on their windshields.

The measure marked the first time that Viennese motorists had had to pay for parking. The City Fathers intended to introduce the fees some time ago, but then shelved the idea when elections were scheduled and when the Automobile Association announced it would go to court against the fees.

The Association lost the case but promised to continue the fight on another level.

Since April 15, parking fees of two Schillings (about 11 U.S. cents) must be paid for each half hour parking time. The maximum parking time is 1½ hours.

The parking tickets, which have to be marked with the day, month, and arrival time, must be displayed in a way that police checking them have no trouble seeing them. The tickets come in three denominations, for 30 minutes, one hour, and 1½ hours.

A motorist without any parking ticket at all in an area — mostly in downtown Vienna — where parking fees must be paid, is fined a minimum of 50 Schillings ($2.80).

Farm Family Living Costs Sharply Rose

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Farm families' living expenses averaged $10,786 in 1973, or three and a half times the average in 1955 when the last similar survey was made.

Extension specialists at the University of Nebraska here say transportation accounted for the largest share, or $3,109, with housing second —$2,671, and food, excluding homegrown products, $2,103. Clothing and medical care cost $647 and $624 each. Compared with the earlier study, the shares of total expenses for housing, food and clothing dropped, while the share for transportation rose sharply.

In 1973 only 25 per cent went for housing, 18.7 per cent for food and six per cent for clothing. In 1955, housing accounted for 28 per cent, food, 25 per cent, and clothing, 13 per cent. Transportation's share was 29 per cent in 1973, an increase of 18 per cent over 1955.

No Success In Televising Catastrophe

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Tokyo Broadcasting System thought that natural catastrophe would be a wonderfully popular theme for a TV series. But "The Submersion of Japan" lost out in the ratings.

By BARRY J. SCHLACTER
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Filming the total destruction of Japan wasn't easy, and the television network that did it found it still couldn't get all the nation's TV viewers on the edges of their seats to watch.

Actually, the destruction went on for months until a TV news announcer appeared with tears streaking down both cheeks and composed himself long enough to tell a fearful nation, "Fellow countrymen, sayonara (Farewell) ..."

The picture on the tube jumped as the studio was thumped asunder by a powerful earthquake and the TV screen momentarily went blank.

When the picture returned, a tableau of destruction and horror was laid before the viewers' eyes. One by one, each of Tokyo's landmarks tumbled down, covering the streets with rubble and killing millions of the people in this Japanese capital of 11 million people.

What occurred next on prime time Sunday night television was an impossible act to follow — or even repeat.

The Japanese islands, ravaged for 26 weeks by earthquake and fire, slowly slipped beneath the water and settled permanently on the bottom of the Pacific Ocean.

And the television series called "The Submersion of Japan" came to an end. It had not been a big success.

The network, one of five in Japan, believed that bad news would be good business. Two years ago, Japan's novelists and moviemakers turned to themes of doom, and found an eager market among the nation's 110 million people, melancholy over an economic downturn.

"Submersion" started out with 18 per cent of the Sunday evening audience. By the time Japan sank, however, only 13 per cent remained.

If the show's popularity wasn't all that Tokyo Broadcasting System had hoped for, one reason might have been the acting. The story of the ever-eroding archipelago seldom got away from melodrama.

But the special effects were something else.

It took two days' shooting for two minutes of suitably shocking footage, said officials at Tokyo Broadcasting.

Each installment was preceded and followed by a special announcement informing viewers they were watching a fictional account.

In one episode, powerful tremors struck the picturesque old city of Kamakura and its giant statue of Buddha shook and trembled before being swallowed up by the earth. The city's terrified residents tried to escape by boat only to be called back — too late — with news of an approaching tidal wave.

Kyoto, spared by American bombers during World War II because of its rich cultural heritage, lost each of its famous temples and castles down gaping chasms before another tidal wave turned the ancient city into a vast watery grave.

The story has the United Nations organize a massive evacuation that manages to save millions when Japan's final doom becomes apparent. The population is divided up and given shelter in the United States, the Soviet Union, Canada, Australia and elsewhere.

"The Submersion of Japan" TV series was adapted from a popular science fiction novel of the same name. The book sold more than 3.5 million copies and a feature-length film soon followed.

The movie became the biggest earning Japanese film in 1974.

But after the two year media blitz, the Japanese seem to have lost interest in the theme. And "Submersion" lost the ratings battle to a drama of sex, violence and intrigue in 17th Century Japan.

CONSERVATION

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Energy conservation techniques implemented by Gov. Dolph Briscoe have cut energy consumption by state agencies by almost 10 per cent below 1973 levels.

Although electricity use is up 6.2 per cent, use of natural gas by state agencies has dropped 13.6 per cent, and overall energy consumption is down 9.3 per cent since the conservation program began.

Old Jungle War School Now Closed

By A.E.H. TAYLOR

KOTA TINGGI, Malaysia (UPI) — A British grenadier guards soldier emerged from the green horror of the Malaysian jungle sweaty, wary, hungry and clawed.

His tutors in the not-so-gentle art of jungle warfare briefed him on what he did right, gave him hell for what he did wrong and then waved him on his way —the last graduate of the last course at the only British jungle warfare school.

His passing marks the end of an era which saw tough British instructors put soldiers and officers from more than 20 nations through three-week courses of jungle survival and warfare.

The British withdrawal East of Suez and the growing conviction that British troops will never again fight in the jungles led to the order to shut down the jungle warfare school.

The school opened in 1947, and since then virtually every unit of the British army has passed through it along with Americans, Vietnamese, Thais, Australians, New Zealanders and Malays. The last course was completed June 1.

The students learned how to survive the snakes, mosquitoes and bamboo thorns, how to to set booby traps and avoid them, how to lay ambushes and escape them, how to catch and eat rats, monkeys and snakes and what wild plants will provide the nourishment to keep a man going.

With a little help from the superb Gurkha soldiers of Nepal, they quickly learned how little they knew of jungles and survival in them.

A British officer recalled how a class of 30 Americans started the course protesting that they already knew jungle warfare right, left and center.

They were warned that a force of 30 "enemies" would be operating against them on a scheduled three-day operation, but the Americans marched off laughing.

Five hours later each of the Americans was marched back into camp as the personal prisoner of a Gurkha half his size.

A favored eye-opener at the British school was carefully briefing each new class on the dangers of leaving any garbage in the jungle, explaining how ration cans become key parts of booby traps and how the garbage can be "read" for indications of unit strength, direction and speed of travel.

The class would then be sent on an overnight jungle mission, shadowed by instructors who picked up behind them.

Seeks Sanction Trial Marriage

LIMA (UPI) — A leading Lima lawyer has called for the legal recognition of a centuries old custom among the Peruvian Indians: trial marriage.

Ernesto Valdivia, solicitor general of Peru, said the ancient Incas of Peru had a custom known as "Servinacuy," permitting engaged couples to live together before their lifetime commitment.

Modern Indian villagers in the Andean slopes continue the custom, and some young men find themselves in trouble with zealous prosecutors on charges of statutory rape when they return a fiance to her parents after a trial proves unsatisfactory.

Valdivia proposed that the custom be sanctioned by law in those parts of the country where it now exists.

Labels On Wood Must Conform

STILLWATER, Okla. (UPI) — Labels on wood must conform to five Federal Trade Commission classes: genuine, solid, species combined and imitations.

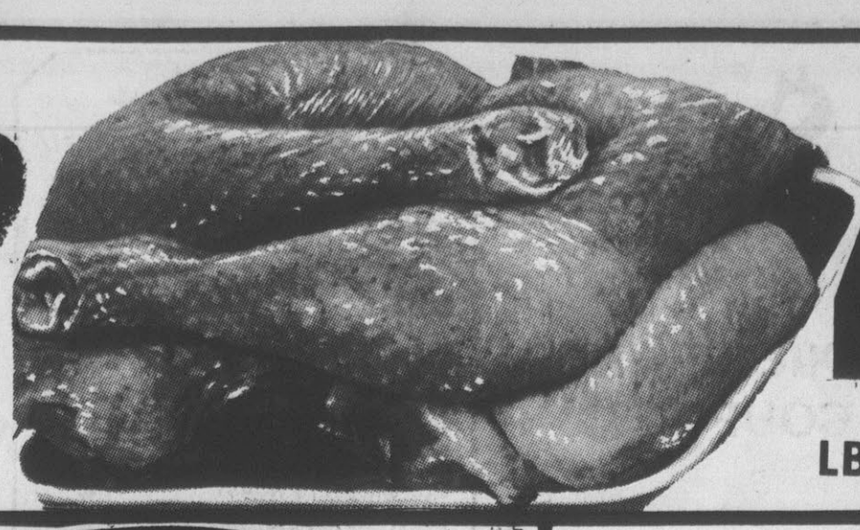

Genuine means the exposed structural parts and flat surfaces must be of the named wood. Solid means exposed portions of both frames and panels must be of the designated wood. No veneer or plywood is allowed.

Species combined must be labeled with names of all woods used. Imitations such as painted or printed grain patterns on hardwood, metal, plastic and lumber must be labeled.

Oklahoma State University extension forester Lee Clymer says this also includes photographic reproductions of wood grain on paper glued to another surface.
