

Lawmakers Expect It Late Today Assembly Stage Is Set For Adjournment

RALEIGH (AP)—With only a few problems still outstanding, the 1975 North Carolina General Assembly headed toward adjournment which leaders expected would come late today.

The stage for adjournment was set Wednesday when Senate and House swiftly gave their approval to a compromise worked out by a conference committee and adopted a $6.6 billion state budget for the next two fiscal years.

The budget had been cut about $288 million from the recommendations made last January by Gov. Jim Houshouser and the Advisory Budget Commission. Revenue lag resulting from the recession made the cuts necessary.

For the first time in several sessions the budget does not include a general pay hike for teachers and state employees. A 5 per cent hike recommended by the governor and budget commission was one of the items knocked out.

Other legislative action Wednesday included House decisions to kill a bill aimed at protecting group homes and a measure to require a building inspector to obtain a warrant if a homeowner wouldn't let him in.

The House action came after the Senate exempted 58 of the state's 100 counties from the group home measure and 60 counties from the building inspector measure.

Some legislators said that the exemption of some counties from the measures had rendered them unconstitutional anyway.

In asking that their counties be excluded from the group home measure, several senators said local officials had complained the measure would restrict the power of local governments to adopt zoning, fire or building regulations.

The bill would have forbidden local governments from altering their local regulations so as to exclude group homes operated by the Department of Human Resources for the "care or rehabilitation of children and adults who are mildly or moderately mentally retarded, physically disabled, emotionally disturbed or dependent, neglected, abandoned or orphaned."

Also winning Senate approval was a House-passed bill to restructure the state Department of Administration. The department is the last to be streamlined in a governmental reorganization begun four years ago. The bill was returned to the House for approval of several Senate amendments.

Sen. Herman Moore D-Mecklenburg, explained that the Department of Administration is a staff agency for the governor. It includes such agencies as the Budget Bureau, General Services Office, Child Day Care Licensing Commission, the Human Relations Council, the Drug Commission and the Marine Science Council.

The Senate enacted into law that would end a free ride some motorists are getting. Now a person who gets a traffic ticket can at times get a "prayer for judgment continued" (JC) from a judge rather than a conviction.

A PC doesn't count as a conviction and doesn't put points against a person's driving license. This has enabled some drivers to keep their licenses while other drivers who didn't get PJC's had theirs suspended.

The new law, sponsored by Sen. Ed Renfrow, D-Johnston, requires that the third and subsequent PJC's in a five-year period would count as convictions.

Meanwhile the House Utilities Committee voted 10-6 to kill a bill by Sen. Charles Vickery, D-Orange, to block sale of the Chapel Hill electric system to Duke Power Co. The Senate had passed the measure last week.

ECU Four-Year Medical School Is Funded

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

A four-year School of Medicine at East Carolina University—authorized by the Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina last November—was funded yesterday by the North Carolina General Assembly.

The funds for capital construction for the four-year medical program at ECU—some $32 million—were included in the state budget bill adopted by both houses of the Legislature yesterday, ending a 10-year effort to establish a degree-granting medical education program in the East.

"This is an historic moment for the citizens of North Carolina and for generations to come," ECU Chancellor Dr. Leo W.

Jenkins said. "The funds for the four-year medical school... which will emphasize family practice and primary health care, have been approved by the State Legislature. We can now proceed with building the school, gaining its accreditation, and beginning its important work."

ECU's vice-chancellor for Health Affairs, Dr. Ed Monroe said, "We are grateful to the General Assembly and to the Board of Governors for bringing to fruition what we've all worked so hard for."

Monroe said this morning, "We don't see any insurmountable problems with gaining accreditation," and indicated accreditation should be forthcoming "next spring," with the first four-year medical students beginning their studies on the campus in the Fall of 1976.

The $32 million appropriated by the General Assembly yesterday coupled with funds appropriated by last year's Legislature is "adequate... ample money" to provide the clinical teaching facilities and a basic medical science building for the school, as well as operating costs Monroe said.

And plans are already under way for enlarging facilities at the new Pitt Memorial Hospital, now under construction, to accommodate the clinical teaching requirements of the medical school, Monroe explained.

He indicated plans are "moving as rapidly as possible" and theorized expansion work on such areas of the new hospital as x-ray, clinical lab, emergency room, medical records, dining and kitchen facilities, and surgery, "should start before the end of the summer."

"There is no big rush in starting the bed tower," he indicated, theorizing that work on that part of the project should begin "sometime during the next 12 months."

As for the basic medical science building, Monroe indicated money for that portion of the project will become available July 1, 1976 under the appropriations bill approved yesterday.

Renovations of Ragsdale Hall—a $500,000 project—to provide basic science teaching labs as well as faculty office space for the medical school—should start during August," Monroe noted.

All the construction projects—coupled with the hiring of faculty and staff members for the school of medicine—"has to be tied together... under the leadership of the new dean," Dr. William Edward Laupus, and "he'll come on board July 1," Monroe explained.

Jenkins said of the funding of the school by the General Assembly, "this achievement will mean a new era in medical care for citizens across the state."

"I would like to thank the many people who helped reach this significant milestone in service to North Carolina."

First, the ECU Chancellor said, "I want to recognize the thousands, even millions, of average North Carolinians who believe in the need for better health care. They knew that the goal to serve better the needs of the people was right and because

Rezoning Bids Rejected

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The Planning and Zoning Commission will recommend to the City Council that two separate requests for rezoning that would involve changes to less restrictive zones be denied.

Action on the rezoning matters followed consideration and discussion of requests by David Evens Sr., Reynolds May and Phillip Carroll to rezone property near Eastern Elementary School from RA-20 and R-9 to R-6 and Office and Institutional and by John Causey to rezone property on E. Fifth Street from R-6 to Office and Institutional.

The Evans-May-Carroll request involving some 28 acres between 14th Street extended and US 264 Bypass was tabled at the May meeting for 30 days after several property owners in the area voiced their objections to the proposed zoning changes.

The commission instructed City Planner John Schofield in May to provide information concerning the projected water run-off potential of the property as well as potential impact on the elementary school.

Schofield discussed his findings with the board and concluded that if the property is developed for multi-family or single family use, the impact on the school would be about the same. He noted, however, that multi-family development would create some five and one times more water run-off into Reedy Branch than if left undeveloped and single-family development would result in about four times more run-off.

Carroll, representing the property owners, proposed a holding lake to eliminate the run-off problems. He offered a site plan for multi-family development and explained that the developers would go along with any type of street play that the city would deem appropriate.

The O&I zone would be on the 264 Bypass segment of the property and access to the strip would be from the bypass with a service road on the rear of the property.

He said the owners would be willing to look at a traffic study for the area and he added that if school representatives feel that proposed roads would be a detriment, a cul-de-sac arrangement to provide for a closed street with a circular turn-around would be acceptable to the owners.

Carroll, who also said that the owners would leave a 30 foot natural buffer strip along Reedy Branch, noted that restrictive covenants would be proposed for the O&I zone.

Several property owners who spoke in opposition to the zoning change at the May meeting were on hand last night to again express their views concerning the request.

Bill Holley of 2912 Rose Street cited the increased traffic hazards and prevention of the Jaycee Park area from further expansion. He also said that there was no justification for the O&I strip along the bypass.

Vincent Bellis Jr. of 1205 E. Wright Road again mentioned his concern over potential drainage and run-off problems and Ann Harper of 106 Bryan Circle said that the area already has more traffic than it can handle.

Thurston Perry of 105 Templeton said he was opposed to any rezoning of the property for other than residential use and Joe Hayes of 204 Adams contended that the rezoning change would be a detriment to homes and property in the area.

Other property owners said that the 30 foot buffer strip would not be adequate and all requested that the property remain under its present zone.

The board voted two to one to recommend denial of the request. Voting in favor of denial were members Karl Faser and Ernest Eaton while Lyman Ormond Jr. voted against denial of the request.

The Causey request, which involved property on E. Fifth Between Hill Top and Brownlee across from Wilkerson Funeral Home, was also tabled for 30 days at the May meeting. The

Ford Said--

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here, at a glance, are the major points made by President Ford at his news conference Wednesday on the South Lawn of the White House:

—He declined to say whether the United States would unleash its nuclear weapons if North Korea invaded South Korea.

—He will consider asking Congress to continue the currently reduced income tax rates for another year if the economy doesn't pick up.

—Any further price increase by the oil-producing nations would be "very disruptive and totally unacceptable."

—The actions of possible opponents for the 1976 Republican presidential nomination will have no impact on his own campaign strategy. Ford said he will formally announce his own candidacy soon.

—The President said that despite a lengthy meeting with former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally last week, he has no inkling of the former Texas governor's political plans.

—Said the Soviet Union has not violated the Strategic Arms Limitation Agreement.

—A high unemployment rate is necessary for a time while his administration fights to drive down the spiraling inflation rate. "We have to be realistic," he said. Nonetheless, the current unemployment rate of 9.2 per cent can be lowered "over a period of time," Ford said.

—Negotiations aimed toward a European security conference in Helsinki, Finland, this summer are continuing.

Indira Arrests Critics

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi proclaimed a state of emergency in India today, and her government arrested more than 100 political opponents in an attempt to ward off a nationwide civil disobedience campaign against her refusal to resign.

The government also imposed censorship on outgoing news dispatches as well as on all publications within the country. Procedures for censorship of reports being sent abroad were not immediately announced.

Some newspapers were not being distributed, either because power supplies were cut off or because copies were confiscated.

It was the biggest roundup of political dissidents since 1942, when the British arrested Mohandas Gandhi and other leaders of the Free India Movement because they, too, were waging a civil disobedience campaign.

Among those reported arrested today were 71-year-old Jayaprakash Narayan, an elder statesman of the Indian independence movement and for months one of Mrs. Gandhi's most severe critics; Raj Narain, the Socialist politician whose challenge of her 1971 election victory resulted in the present crisis; Asoka Mehta, the leader of the Old Congress party which broke away from Mrs. Gandhi in 1969; and two leading critics in her own ruling Congress party, Ram Dhan, a general secretary, and Chandra Sekhar, who urged her to open a dialogue with Narayan.

Economy Index Is Up For 3rd Month In Row

federal index designed to anticipate economic trends advanced for the third straight month in May, the government reported today. This was seen as a solid signal of recovery and a hint that the resurgence could be strong.

The Commerce Department said its Composite Index of Leading Indicators rose 2.1 per cent in May, bringing the three-month climb to 5.7 per cent.

Economists who fashioned the index regard a three-month advance as a sure sign of a turnaround in the economy. So the latest rise provided support for the opinion of many economists that the worst recession since World War II is ending.

The latest figures also contained an encouraging signal about how strong the recovery will be.

The April increase, which originally had been reported as a record 4.2 per cent jump, was revised downward to a 3 per cent increase. But that rise still equaled the previous record set in June 1958.

And the May increase of 2.1 per cent—aside from the April rise—was the sharpest since a 2.2 per cent increase in December of 1970.

Most economists generally like to see more than three months of a new trend before they decide whether the index is giving a true signal of the strength of that trend. But they do consider the index signals on strength to be significant.

The index is composed of a dozen individual economic statistics which are selected for their tendency to move in advance of the economy generally.

Only 10 of the individual statistics were available for the May report, but eight of them pointed up. The other two—the lay-off rate in factories and the average work week in factories—were unchanged.

Among the other factors, companies reported an improved performance from their suppliers. Assets which could be quickly converted into cash rose. Key wholesale prices advanced. Business spending on factories and equipment rose. Stock prices also advanced; the supply of money in the economy expanded, more contractors took out building permits, and new orders placed with makers of consumer products increased.

Revised City Budget Ordinance Formally Approved

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Final approval of the 1975-76 city budget ordinance reflecting revisions that were necessary to balance with a reduced property tax rate was given Wednesday by the City Council.

Action on the revised city segment of the budget took place during a special call meeting at 4 p.m. at city hall.

The Council, meeting earlier this month, adopted a 60 cents per $100 valuation rate which necessitated adjustments in the recommended city budget. Adoption of the assessment rate, which was four cents below the 1974-75 figure, meant that some $106,113 would have to be adjusted to provide a balanced figure.

City Manager Harry Hagerty reported yesterday that he was able to make the adjustment up in increased anticipated revenues and no budget cuts in programs were necessary.

Some questions arose following the June 19 meeting as to whether formal adoption had been given to the budget ordinance. The 60 cents tax rate gained approval but it was not clear whether the ordinance, subject to the necessary adjustments, had been approved.

The Council, therefore, approved a motion for final adoption of the budget ordinance Wednesday totaling $6,778,847. The Greenville Utilities Commission budget ordinance was approved earlier totaling $21,362,884.

In other action during a brief session, the Council adopted an ordinance amending the 1974-75 city budget to provide funds for the acquisition of some 338 acres of land across the Tar River from the East Carolina

PEG LEG

I have been an amputee for many years. Sometimes my artificial leg rubs a sore and I have to leave it off till there's time for healing. It's a real handicap in my kind of work to have to use a walker because it ties up both my hands. Do you know anyone who could make me an old-fashioned peg leg? J. M.

Hotline suggested Mr. Mack Smith of Bell Arthur, a 96-year-old blacksmith and woodcrafter. You said you went to see him within the same hour and found that he knew exactly what you wanted, but could no longer do the job because of his eyesight. You renewed a 40-years-ago acquaintance with him, though, you said, and he sent you to Curtis Elks, a woodworker near Grifton, who promises to have your peg made within a day or two.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

APPEAL UNANSWERED

Hotline's appeal for a place to leave bicycle parts for the man who anonymously rebuilds bicycles for the Pitt County Social Services Department's Foster Children's Santa Claus Program has been unanswered. We did receive one call giving us a name, but when we contacted the person named he declared he is not our man. Several persons have called since the appeal to say they have old bicycles to donate. Hotline would be interested in learning of any person or group who could make use of such used bicycles and bike parts for charitable causes.

Woman Wants To Do The Right Thing

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have fallen in love with a man who has had a past history of mental illness. Years ago, his mother placed him in a state hospital. Now he lives in a half-way house. He sees a therapist weekly and is on medication.

I know he still has some problems, but they're not as severe as they were. I want to have a relationship with him because he has so many of the qualities I am looking for in a man. He said he has never had a relationship with a woman. He is 27 and unsure of himself. I am 21 and on my own.

I know I will have to make the first move because he is not aggressive. My mind is somewhat made up already, but I need assurance that I am doing the right thing. What is your opinion?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: You are a wise girl to stop, look and listen before you leap. Since I know nothing about the young man's emotional maturity and the seriousness of his mental condition, it's impossible for me to advise you. Please don't initiate a relationship without first talking to his therapist. He is qualified to guide you. I am not.

DEAR ABBY: Hoorah for the young man who doesn't

Miss Springs Likes Being Orkin Lady

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — K Springs likes her job, but she keeps a bottle of perfume handy to erase the reminders.

She's an Orkin lady — the kind that crawls under houses looking for termites, bugs and other crawly things. And after two years on the job, the chemicals still get to her.

"I disliked working with chemicals because I felt like I smelled like them. Even now, I keep a bottle of perfume in my car and every time I come back out, I spray. I feel like I stink," the striking, 29-year-old blonde said.

Miss Springs — K is her first name, with no period and no other letters — is a part-time, free-lance model and a full-time salesman for Orkin in Charlotte. She was second in sales in a nine-office district last year.

As a salesman, she makes the first call to a home where eradication may be needed. That means she is also the first under the house, to make the first treatment. Her working uniform is a set of coveralls and a hard hat.

"People are always saying, 'You mean you know about this? You know about termites?' It's really necessary to prove that you know what you're talking about, particularly in commercial (sales), or else they'll think, 'Well, this is just some sweet young thing they sent out to win over my confidence,'" she said.

Miss Springs, who says she is not a women's libber, admits she is proud that she excels in a job once reserved for men. At first, she dreaded the job, keeping it only because of the extra money and the challenge of a change.

But, she said, "When I began to prove to them that I wasn't such a dumb blonde after all, that's when I really got to enjoying it and decided I would stick with it."

"I do run into a lot of spiders and spiderwebs. That's about the worst thing about it, that and dead animal carcasses — dead rats, squirrels. You just sort of get used to it, that's all I can say," she continued.

"When I crawled under my first house, though, I was scared. I had this image of all houses being really dark and damp."

There are some problems. "One time recently when I asked the wife when I could get together with her and her husband, she looked me up and down and said, 'I don't think it would be possible to get together with my husband,'" Miss Springs said.

Household Hints

Before inserting a zipper in any garment, overcast the edges of the fabric to prevent loose threads from catching in it.

Stretch leftover barbecued meat or chicken by adding cooked and raw vegetables, including greens, to make a salad. Add a favorite liquid dressing, homemade or bottled, toss and serve.

shake hands with anyone—and don't bet too heavily on the germ theory.

A few months ago I had a right hand painfully sprained when I shook hands with a professional football player.

A few weeks ago, I shook hands with a retired plumber who apparently wanted to prove that he was the strongest man on earth. Result: one fractured bone.

A few days ago, a slightly built law student finished the wrecking job on my hand. This note is written in pain.

If those strong men want to prove their masculinity, let them find another victim. I'm for the Oriental custom of bowing.

SUFFERING IN SCOTTSDALE

DEAR SUFFERING! Let's shake on that!

DEAR ABBY: I have long hair and make no apologies for it. Long hair is one of the most stupid things for anyone to argue over because long hair is just that—long hair. It doesn't hurt anybody, and if a man wants to wear it that way, he should have the right to do so without getting hassled.

In fact, have you ever noticed that people with short hair are always telling people with long hair to get their hair cut? But it is very rare to find a person with long hair who tells people with short hair to let their's grow!

People with long hair seem to be more mature than people with short hair because they let people look the way they want to instead of feeling that everyone's looks are their business.

Please print this letter so that all the critics with short hair will lay off those of us who like long hair. Thanks. BOB IN PASADENA

At Wit's End

By ERMA BOMBECK

I have always admired mothers who can reach out, give their kid a belt or a thump and that's it. The punishment for the misdeed is done.

I use visuals. Me.

When a child comes in late, I refuse to shout or scream about it. Instead, the next morning I will drag out to the kitchen looking like an avocado that has gone bad and say, "Go ahead. Kill your mother. Do I ask a lot? Eighteen hours of sleep a day. That's all I ask. But you—Mr. Night Vision. You run around like a hamster."

"Mom! Why don't you go to bed?"

"Did you hear that?" I asked the refrigerator. "Go to bed, he says. Why, I'd just have to get up when the policeman came to tell me you're in a ditch somewhere."

"Mom..."

"Put me out of your mind," I said. "But when I fall asleep in the dentist's chair, just tell yourself, 'I did that to Mom!'"

Some parents say visuals don't work as disciplinary measures. They say they're too subtle and too dramatic, but I have a few grabbers that have been effective.

Once when my daughter gave a party and didn't clean up, I was doing dishes at four in the morning. I know she felt rotten, even as she slept through it.

Probably my finest hour came last week one son dropped me off at the beauty shop with instructions to "Call when they're finished with the estimate."

I called several times and no one answered. "I'll just have to punish him," I said and began the three-mile trip home by foot in the hot, blazing sun.

Forty-five minutes later I stood before him, hair styled like a Brillo pad, face red as a beet, breathing irregular, white anklets dusty from the walk. He was connected to his stereo with a pair of earphones.

"I know this is more punishment than a child should bear but I had to do it to you," I said gasping for breath, "to teach you a lesson."

He slid off the earphones. "I can't hear you with these earphones on."

"You're just going to have to live with your own guilt," I said, "and remember me as I stand before you... weak... but brave on the brink of a coronary."

"Does that mean you won't get to the store?" he asked.

Did I tell you he'd feel rotten?

IN DOWNTOWN GREENVILLE

We're Losing A Major Asset

Greenville and the entire area are losing one of our most tireless workers with the departure of Dr. Joe Pou, Wachovia Bank vice president and agribusiness officer.

Dr. Pou came to Greenville 14 years ago following a period of service as director of agricultural extension service with the University of Arizona.

Since then he has been active in almost every phase of community life in Greenville, Pitt County and the entire east.

Now he has resigned his position with Wachovia to take a position with the University of Georgia and to join his wife who is dean of home economics at Georgia.

Dr. Pou has served as president of the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association, Pitt United Fund, Coastal Plain Planning and Development Commission and Association of Agricultural Bankers. He is on the board of N.C. State University, his alma mater.

Obviously his interest in the community have gone far beyond his duties as a bank official.

R. W. Howard, senior vice president and regional executive of Wachovia, expressed it for all of us. "What can you say when one of the nicest guys of the community finds it necessary to leave? We understand it completely and think the community will understand that he wants to join his wife in Athens."

Howard said he couldn't say enough nice things about Pou.

"We'll miss him tremendously at the bank but we certainly wish him well," Howard concluded. The entire community will miss Joe Pou. We hope he will keep his contacts with Greenville and Pitt County.

Tax Cut Hopes Wrecked

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—These are the people who have nobody to represent them. They're not organized. . . they don't have lobbyists," State Rep. John J. Hunt, D-Cleveland, complained bitterly shortly after watching his tax break for low-income Tar Heels go down to defeat.

Hunt had just sat through an early morning meeting of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Committee of the house, hastily called at his own insistence to consider his proposal for an income tax break for people making less than $9,000 per year.

"Yesterday afternoon I had enough votes on this committee to approve this. . . it turned over during the night. The committee was trying to just hold the bill and not take action, but couldn't do that under the rules," Hunt said.

A dozen or so representatives of the liquor industry made up the audience as the committee considered ever-so-briefly the Hunt proposal which would have put a higher tax levy on alcoholic beverages to cover the cost of the tax cut.

Lobby Works
Liquor lobbyists obviously had worked hard overnight. Instead of enough votes to approve the measure, the committee shot it down with only two representatives (Neal Smith and Dan Lilley) supporting Hunt.

"This would have been something for people who aren't organized and don't have lobbyists," Hunt complained.

Chances of any other tax cuts, especially the sales tax on food, have been killed in the assembly, and at the end, Hunt's measure gained considerable support and he thought he had enough votes for approval if he could get a vote on the floor.

Basically, the proposal would allow an additional $500 exemption on income tax forms for people earning $9,000 or less per year. Typically, that would have returned anywhere from $25 to $50 dollars into the pockets of low-income taxpayers.

Loss in state revenue would have been $26.7 million; while increased taxes on beer, wine, and whiskey would have produced $28 million to cover the loss.

The tax amounted to three cents on a tall can of beer; three per cent on a bottle of whiskey; 30 cents per gallon on wine.

"It was not a moral effort, or one to penalize the liquor industry. . . I don't think it would have hurt them at all. It was simply a good way to raise additional money," Hunt said.

People In Favor
A poll in his home district showed 86 per cent of his constituents favored the measure, Hunt said, and the step would have given "some assistance in this economic crunch to people who are getting no help from anybody else."

Arguments against Hunt's proposal took two basic forms:

—The low-income people affected are the ones who drink the most beer, and would more than spend any tax savings through the increased cost of beer;

—The amount of savings is just a pittance and not worth the trouble.

Hunt rejects both arguments outright. "The first is not worth mentioning

. . . that these are the people who drink the beer.

"The argument that $25 or $30 doesn't mean anything to anybody. . . well that's just sad.

"It's too bad. . . it's distressing. . . that our people in the General Assembly are so far out of touch with the people that they think this is not enough money to mean anything to anybody. . . they just don't know what it's like for a lot of our citizens. That money does mean something to a lot of people," Hunt said.

"It's sad that the people here in Raleigh do not think $25 or $50 will help our people."

State Rep. Laurence A. Cobb, R-Mecklenburg, made the motion that killed the tax cut, saying he believes the increased liquor price would encourage bootlegging; that it would be a burden on the state to send out refund checks; and that the amount and handling of the reduction would be discriminatory.

About 1.5 million of the state's two million taxpayers are in the lower income category and would have benefitted.

This Matter Of Honor

The question is raised: What should the House of Representatives do in the matter of Congressman Michael Harrington of Massachusetts? The answer, in my own view, is plain: The House should expel him.

Mr. Harrington, by his own unrepentant admission, willfully violated a major rule of the House. His misconduct occurred in June of last year; it was investigated late in September; but it was not until 10 days ago that other members of the House learned of the incident. Now Congressman Robin L. Beard of Tennessee has taken the matter to the House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct. The affair cannot be ignored. This is what happened: On April 22, 1974, William Colby, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, testified before the House Subcommittee on Intelligence. His testimony, taken in executive session, dealt with CIA activities in Chile between 1962 and 1973. In accordance with House procedures, a transcript of his testimony was typed up, and put under lock and key in files of the Armed Services Committee.

On June 4 and again on June 12, Mr. Harrington visited the committee's office. He asked, and was granted, access to this Top Secret transcript.

On each occasion, Mr. Harrington's attention was called to Rule XI of the House, and to Rule 9 of the Armed Services Committee. The House rule says that no testimony taken in executive session may be released without committee consent. The committee rule applies to members who wish to read classified information in committee files. It says: "The contents of such classified information will not be divulged to any unauthorized person in any way, form, shape or manner."

On each occasion, Mr. Harrington signed a statement: "I have read the Rules of the Committee on Armed Services relative to access by Members of the House of Representatives to classified information in the committee files, and I agree to honor those rules."

Notice, if you will, the verb: To honor. Mr. Harrington did not promise merely to obey, to accept, to abide by, or to be governed by the rule. He promised to honor the rule. And at once he dishonored the rule.

Overcome by the Colby testimony, Mr. Harrington concluded that destiny had chosen him as an instrument of revelation. He disclosed the details to Lawrence Stern of the Washington Post. He conveyed the information to "a fellow named Jerome Levinson who works for Frank Church." He prepared and sent explicit letters to Thomas E. Morgan, chairman of House Foreign Affairs, and to William Fulbright, then chairman of Senate Foreign Relations.

On September 6, Seymour Hersh of The New York Times got hold of a copy of Mr. Harrington's letter to Dr. Morgan. Mr. Harrington made no objection to publication. On the contrary, (Continued on page 5)

No New Nuclear Policy

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — White House officials insist President Ford was being consistent with policies of past presidents when he declined to rule out first use of nuclear weapons.

Ford was not intending to set new policy at his press conference Wednesday, when he left open the possibility that the United States might strike first with nuclear weapons if the national interest was at stake, the officials said. Instead, he was stating what he considers to be the past policy, they said.

The general interpretation of U.S. policy over the years has been that the United States would not be the first to unleash strategic nuclear weapons, such as powerful long-range missiles, against the Soviet Union.

The U.S. nuclear arsenal — including land-based missiles in underground launch bases, missile-firing submarines and heavy bombers — has been designed to absorb a surprise attack and to retaliate with pulverizing force.

The assumption has been that knowledge that the United States could do this would deter the Russians from attacking, if they were tempted to do so.

On the other hand, administrations back to President John F. Kennedy have indicated publicly that the United States would use tactical nuclear weapons — less powerful and generally shorter in range than strategic weapons — if necessary to prevent NATO or South Korea from being overrun by superior Communist conventional forces.

Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger said last week the possible use of tactical nuclear weapons in Korea would be carefully considered "if circumstances were to require" such use, meaning an overwhelming attack from North Korea.

The issue of tactical weapons was raised at Ford's news conference Wednesday when a reporter asked the President if the United States would disown first use of them.

UN Far Short Of Ideals

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations Charter is 30 years old Thursday and the anniversary finds the membership, swollen to thrice its original size, toying with a potential self-destruct mechanism.

Many residents of the glass house on New York's East River have been throwing stones; recklessly, say some Westerners. Conceivably such activities could start the organization on the sort of path to oblivion taken in the 1930s by the League of Nations.

A charter, supposedly supreme law for all, was signed June 26, 1945, by 51 nations still reeling from World War II. Among the stated purposes were these: to shield successive generations from war; to reaffirm faith in freedom, human rights and the dignity of person; to promote social progress.

Article VI provided that a member continually violating the charter should be expelled.

Today, a United Nations bursting with 138 members, many of them microstates with less population than a good-size American city, remains far short of the ideals enunciated in the charter, and indeed, if Article VI were enforced, considerably more than half the members would have to be tossed out.

The United Nations is not what it was meant to be any more than was the League, perhaps because dreams seldom come true. The euphoria that had much of humanity talking in terms of brotherhood after the big war long ago faded.

Three perilous decades have passed without another world war. The balance of nuclear terror may have played the key role in that. Still, the United Nations has demonstrated it is eminently useful. Even now, the physical presence of U.N. soldiers as buffers in the Middle East is a measure of assurance against sudden and immense world crisis.

But there is much on the debit side, including the fact of the United Nations' division into blocs, blocs within blocs and overlapping blocs. A majority, about 75 nations, likes to consider itself "non-aligned" with either the Soviet or the Western camp, and thus a "Third World." In reality, there are five or six worlds, often at a variety of cross purposes. There are an African group of 42 nations, an Arab bloc of 20, an Asian bloc, a Latin bloc, a Soviet bloc and a Western bloc.

Nations with 10 per cent of the world's population that produce 5 per cent of its goods have a voting majority in the General Assembly. The "Third World" can and does push through the assembly any measure it wants, even in violation of the charter, as was the case in the last session when it suspended South Africa, a right supposed to rest only with the Security Council.

The United States, as the richest and most powerful member, has become the main target of this clamorous majority. Responsible Americans call the 29th session that ended in December something of a disaster. Dominated by a Third World truculence that was encouraged by opportunity-seeking Communists, it evoked angry reaction in the United States. Ambassador John Scali hotly denounced what he called "the tyranny of the majority."

Might the United States one day run out of patience? Americans still seem to have considerable patience left, but they and others at the same time see something like a crisis of accomplishment afflicting the United Nations and find it unconvincing in the role of protector of the peace.

Critics find the organization united in name only; clumsy, unwieldy and inflexible in a time of swift change; capable at best of negative stopgap measures, a finger in a dike.

But the United Nations isn't a legislature and can be only as effective as its members permit. At each session, the assembly adopts scores of resolutions, some of them all but meaningless and voted in response to bloc pressures. Each session the assembly hears millions of words of oratory. But it lacks power.

What power there is rests with the Security Council, originally 11 members, now 15. But its five "permanent" members each has a veto that can frustrate any measure that fails to please. Of the 134 vetoes in 30 years, the Russians cast 110.

Still, over the years the United Nations contributed to human hopes for the future—or to hopes that there would be a future. One contribution was the simple fact that it was there.

It was there in 1946, using the force of world opinion to make the Russians give up an attempt to grab Iran's province of Azerbaijan. It set up an atomic energy agency and helped develop concepts such as limits on testing and nonproliferation of nuclear weapons. It intervened in a series of nasty crises in the Middle East, Cyprus and the Congo. It provided a (Continued on page 5)

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

I attended a Regional Meeting of The National League of Families of POW-MIAs in April. Present were family members, chairmen of concerned groups, and Mr. Messer (N.C. State Jaycee Chairman for MIAs).

The meeting was focused on POW-MIA legislation—in particular HR 335. This House Resolution calls for a "select committee" to be set up to look into the entire POW-MIA issue. We have been working for this type of unbiased investigation for over two long years.

Upon my return, I wrote to the N.C. Congressmen I had been asked to. I received immediate replies from Representatives Henderson and Martin (both co-sponsored). I received no response from Rep. Jones. I was informed by Henderson's office that my second letter to Rep. Jones had been forwarded there since I was HIS constituent.

It is obvious that Rep. Jones feels since I'm not in his district that he need not consider or even answer my plea for help to account for our missing sons. So I am asking you (in his district) to please write and urge him to add his name and support to HR 335. We have 250 signers (over half the House), 7 of N.C.'s 11 representatives are among them. Unless Rep. Jones has added his name recently—he is not. I can't imagine why any representative wouldn't support this long overdue study.

This is not a local issue—it's a national one. It doesn't matter if our men are from the 1st District in North Carolina or Anchorage, Alaska. They're ALL Americans, who answered their country's call. It is the responsibility of each and every representative (who helped send them over there in the first place) to work for an accurate accounting.

I would appreciate receiving a copy of Rep. Jones position from someone who receives a reply.

Economic Consensus Shapes Up

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The tealeaf readers and the electronic computer analysts both agree that the economy should be in better shape within six months or so and both claim evidence to prove their position.

This is another way of saying that a consensus seems to have been reached among forecasters, but it doesn't mean there aren't some dissenting views and some aberrant statistics.

One of the popular consumer sentiment polls shows that despite forecasts of an economic recovery, "a fair degree" of pessimism has crept back into the minds of Americans.

There is a matter of interpretation, too. George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, can't agree that the bottom has been reached or is being approached so long as unemployment remains above 9 per cent.

On the other hand, the National Federation of Independent Business, which just concluded a meeting in Washington, complains about a shortage of skilled workers, primarily among blue collar craftsmen.

The federation assigned an independent research group to sample the job situation among its members. "The findings show that 14 per cent of the respondents currently have unfilled jobs," it said.

Also hard to assess but equally not to be ignored is the finding of one of the popular consumer sentiment polls that "a fair degree of pessimism surrounding a business recovery has crept back into the minds of American consumers."

One ingredient of a healthy recovery would be stable interest rates, but a bit of doubt is creeping into that area. Rates have been falling, but just this week short-term rates on big business loans tended upward.

Worth watching will be the rate of new business incorporations. As the recession deepened so did the number of new businesses drop. But in April, Dun & Bradstreet reported a turnaround.

Nevertheless, in the first four months of 1975 a total of 104,345 businesses were incorporated, compared with 113,173 in the January-April period of 1974. The turn, therefore, is still too new to be called a trend.

The housing market seems to be more active lately, but many private housing industry officials are far from being optimistic. Lenders are still nervous about interest rates and aren't pushing loans with great enthusiasm.

May Never Know Who Ordered Castro Plots

Blake Assigned Telethon Role

By DAVID C. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate intelligence committee might never be able to determine where orders to assassinate Cuban Premier Fidel Castro originated, according to Chairman Frank Church.

"It may just be we'll be unable to find evidence that establishes the chain of command," Church, a Democrat from Idaho, said Wednesday following five hours of closed-door testimony by a former CIA officer allegedly involved in plots to kill Castro.

Meanwhile, Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi declared Wednesday that he was shocked at reading still-secret material on alleged CIA assassination and domestic-intelligence activities and that he hoped Justice Department decisions on whether to prosecute the individuals involved could be made quickly.

Levi declined to say what had shocked him, saying that was a personal question. He has been given the confidential portion of the Rockefeller Commission report dealing with assassinations and the back-up material to the report's conclusions about other CIA activities.

He also said the department, not the White House, would make the decisions about whether to prosecute.

"I would feel obligated to inform the President, but I would not expect the President to tell the department what to do," he said.

In another development Wednesday, CIA Director William E. Colby declined to assure a House subcommittee that the CIA no longer has undercover agents operating inside organizations within the United States. But Colby insisted that any such activities would be strictly for the purpose of gathering foreign intelligence and would fall within the limits of the agency's statutory authority.

Colby also said 30 of the 75 present members of Congress revealed by the Rockefeller Commission to be subjects of CIA files have turned over to them at their request.

Colby said the files were kept because in some cases the members of Congress had cooperated in giving the CIA information and in other cases security checks had been made on them or employment information compiled about them before they were elected.

But subcommittee chairman Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., said she had seen several of the files and they contained mostly information about antiwar activities.

The Church committee spent all Wednesday questioning William K. Harvey about his role in alleged plots on Castro's life. According to columnist Jack Anderson, mobster John Roselli, who testified before the committee Tuesday, has identified Harvey as the CIA officer in charge of plans to kill Castro during the period following the aborted 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion.

Church refused to discuss Harvey's testimony except to say that "he filled out the story further." But Church added that the question of whether government officials above the CIA in the chain of command were involved in the plot "remains very confusing."

Church repeated an earlier statement that the committee has uncovered "no evidence linking these assassination plots to former presidents."

Col. Charles R. Blake of Greenville has been appointed by the Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee to head the county's participation in the National Democratic Party Telethon.

The telethon is a Democratic fund-raising event to be televised July 26-27 on the NBC-TV Network. Money contributed during the telethon will support the party's efforts within the county, the state and on the national level.

As telethon chairman, Blake will be calling on Pitt County Democrats for their services and contributions. He will also appoint a steering committee to assist with the local preparations involved in the two-day nationwide telecast.

A native North Carolinian and an active Democrat, Blake is retired from the Air Force and is currently assistant to the Chancellor at East Carolina University. Prior to joining ECU in November, 1974, he was assigned to the Pentagon in Washington and served as an adviser to the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Colonel Blake is married to the former Nina McLeod of Robbins. They have three children.

framework for international cooperation in fields of culture, technology, trade, health, food, child and refugee assistance and related matters. It provided a forum for investigation of world environmental problems and its Stockholm Conference of 1972 is credited with much success in getting cooperative efforts on the road.

But on major issues, matters such as disarmament and superweapons, spheres of influence and war and peace, the United Nations is bypassed by the two superpowers who, in the long run, have the only truly decisive voices.

Especially lately, questions have been raised whether the United Nations is going to be able to cope with the grave challenges ahead.

Communist China, a member now for four years, is an important factor in the new look, claiming as it does to speak for a Third World demanding bigger shares of the earth's wealth.

The assembly performance in 1974 generated American and West European resentment. At a special session on raw materials in the spring, the majority bulldozed through a declaration demanding a "new world economic order," voting it 120 to 6 over strenuous U.S. objections after blaming "imperialism," meaning the Americans, for just about every one of the world's current woes.

The regular 29th Assembly in the fall, dominated again by an Asian-African-Arab coalition, was clamorously anti-American and anti-Israel. It extended to the representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization extraordinary honors customarily accorded only to a chief of state.

Highly placed Americans questioned whether the United States should continue participating in the assembly and in fact, whether it should be encouraged to leave New York.

The United States has been, in fact, reviewing its attitudes toward the United Nations. Polls have turned up some public trends toward isolationism, although on the whole Americans seem to be heavily in favor of the United States retaining its membership. The incoming U.S. ambassador, Daniel P. Moynihan, is known to favor staying put, but at the same time dropping defensive or apologetic attitudes and fighting back.

There is talk now among the "Third World" of suspending Israel at the forthcoming 30th session, in the manner South Africa was suspended. Should that happen, the United States might seriously question its own participation — and without the United States, the United Nations would hardly be a world organization.

he welcomed disclosure. He felt the Colby testimony had to be imparted to the country "without regard for the rules of the House."

On September 25, Mr. Harrington appeared before an executive session of the Subcommittee on Intelligence. There he freely admitted what he had done. His conscience, he said, had been "twinged," but it had not been twinged much. Congressman Bob Wilson asked if he had not felt bound by the pledge he had signed.

"In a strange way," replied Mr. Harrington, "it is sort of a yes and a no." It was mostly no: "I didn't feel . . . any compunction at all at that point in time about those rules."

Incredibly, the subcommittee took no action. Chairman Lucien Nedzi says lamely that "no one wanted to make a martyr out of Harrington." Besides, the House had just been through the trauma of the Nixon impeachment hearings, and adjournment of the 93rd Congress was close at hand. The subcommittee let it go, and if Mr. Harrington two weeks ago had not again demanded access to confidential files, only to be refused, the matter might never have come to light.

In the fashion of a wife who condones her husband's adultery, or vice versa, the House may have condoned Mr. Harrington's dishonorable act by its failure to punish his behavior either in September of last year or, following his re-election, in January of this year. But the House did not know what had happened.

Three members of the House were expelled in 1861. None has been expelled since. But if Mr. Harrington's brazen contempt is not cause for expulsion, no cause will ever be found.

Princess Plans Wed Saturday

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — Princess Christina, youngest of the Dutch Royal family's four daughters, will marry Jorge Guillermo, a Cuban-born New Yorker and a social worker in the slums of Harlem, on Saturday.

More than 1,000 guests including Queen Juliana and her consort Prince Bernhard will attend the wedding in the 13th Century cathedral church of Utrecht.

Before the church service, a civil ceremony will be held in Baarn, a small town of 25,000 where Christina attended grammar school. The civil ceremony is mandatory in Holland.

The couple, both 28, have said they will reside in New York City where they first met. Christina, nearly blind from birth, works there as a French and music teacher at a Montessori school.

Industrial Title Goes To Daniel

Daniel Construction Co. captured the Industrial Softball League title last night, squeezing past the Jaycees, 10-9, to clinch the crown.

In the opening game of the evening, Burroughs-Wellcome gained an 8-4 win over Carolina Telephone. Carolina Telephone scored first, getting a run in the first. Burroughs-Wellcome pushed ahead with two in the third, but one by Carolina Telephone tied it up in the bottom of the frame.

Burroughs-Wellcome then pushed ahead for good with two in the fourth. They added three in the fifth and one in the sixth. Carolina Telephone got one in the fourth and one in the sixth. The Moose romped to an 18-0 victory over Greenville Utilities in the second game. The Moose got two in the first with Jeffus homering. They added two more in the third as Jeffus again homered. Seven runs crossed in the fourth with a homer by Puryear. Then, in the sixth, they added seven more to wrap it up.

In the final game, Daniel got its 10-9 win and the title. Daniel got one in the first, but the Jaycees came back with three. Daniel added one in the second, but three by the Jaycees in the third made it 6-2.

Daniel scored two in the fourth, then came up with five in the sixth to take a 9-6 lead. The Jaycees scored two in their half to cut it to 9-8. Each team then scored one run in the seventh.

For a man who supposedly had a sore arm, Kelly Heath could never have convinced Williamston that he was in any sort of pain. Having trouble in two of the nine innings he pitched, Heath scattered seven hits and gave up two runs, while striking out 11. But his teammates decided to wait before they would give him the satisfaction of winning.

Greenville's Post 39 scored four times in the bottom of the eighth to break a 2-2 tie and come away with a 6-2 win to put them over .500 at 5 wins in nine tries.

Williamston drew first blood in the fourth inning when leadoff batter George Brown singled, stole second, went to third on Jeff Warren's sacrifice, and scored on a single by Raymie Styons. Williamston increased their lead to two in the sixth inning in an exact copy of the first run—Brown's single and stolen base, and infield out by Warren, and a single, this time by Butch Davis.

Post 39 tied it up with two in the bottom of the sixth when Keith Jones drew a walk, went to third on a single by Robin Woolard, and scored when the rightfielder's relay to third got through for an error. Woolard moved up to third on the error and scored on a sacrifice fly by Wright Hooks.

Greenville won the game when Eddy Connolly led off with a walk, and was sacrificed up by Jones. After a strikeout, Wright Hooks got his second RBI with a double up the alley in left to score Connolly. Buster Allen followed with a single to move Hooks to third. David Dixon walked to load the bases, then Grif Garner delivered a single to rightfield to score Allen and Hooks. The rightfielder made an attempt to throw Allen out at the plate, but the catcher errored the ball, and Dixon came around from first with the fourth run of the inning.

Williamston made a threat in the ninth, getting singles by Styons and Danny Peaks, and a double by Greg Roberson. On Roberson's double, all three base runners were caught between second and third, leaving one runner with no place to go but to the plate, and he was tagged out to kill the threat.

Eric Godard took the loss for Williamston. He had outpitched Heath until the sixth inning when the tie occurred.

Greenville has successive road dates with Rocky Mount and Wilson before returning home Saturday night for a doubleheader at Harrington Field against Wilson. Game time is 7 p.m.

Life On Track Is No Pleasure

By JERRY GARRETT
AP Sports Writer

LONG POND, Pa. (AP) — At dusk, the hibachis glow, the hamburgers sizzle and a crowd of weary figures gets ready to bed down in the infield of the Pocono International Raceway.

Racing fans? Hardly. These are the mechanics, officials and even some of the drivers who, along with their families, retire to what is home away from home after a long day at the track.

Life on the road in big-time auto racing is far from the glamour the drivers and their crews enjoy when on the race track, hovering around their gleaming racing machines, some of which cost up to $100,000.

With a price tag like that just to compete, there is in most cases little left for the refinements of a hotel or motel, restaurant meals or evening entertainment.

As Sunday's 500-mile race for Indianapolis-type cars draws near, the motor homes and campers of the likes of Johnny Rutherford, Gordon Johncock, Pancho Carter and others are parked in the sandy infield. Some head for motels at night, others stay at the track to avoid the mountain resort prices.

Even those who shell out for the "luxury" of a motel often sleep with a crew member or a relative or two in the motor home in the parking lot. During the day, the motel room, rented for one or two days, will be the headquarters for up to a dozen people, using the showers, the swimming pool, game room or tennis courts. But many racers, especially the shoestring operators, camp out the entire 10 days they are here before this race. They sleep in the backs of trucks in sleeping bags, eat out of an ice chest or the cafeteria and wash up in the restrooms.

At Milwaukee two weeks ago where the road show went for a 150-mile, one car owner and his wife slept across the seats of their two-seated pickup truck, parked in the parking lot of a motel near the track. When race morning came, they waited until someone they knew walked out, then asked to use the lodger's room to clean up.

Home Builders Ups Lead; Pepsi Falls

Pepsi broke the shutout in the fifth with one run. Chris Keyes doubled went to third on a wild pitch and scored on a hit by Danny Hester.

Planters got it back in the fifth as Perry Worthington walked, stole second and came in on two passed balls.

The winning run came over in the top of the seventh as Calvin Williams reached on an error moving him to second, was sacrificed to third and scored on a wild pitch.

Pepsi tried to rally in the bottom of the seventh but came up a run short. Hester and Will Sanderson both singled. Hester scored on the second hit after moving to third on an error.

Derek Brewington got a hit to score Sanderson and Brewington scored on Micky Finn's single.

In the afterpiece, Carolina Dairy collected 12 hits, Home Builders 10. The Builders took the opening lead in the first as Ronnie Chapman walked, stole second and came in on a passed ball and a wild pitch.

Carolina Dairy tied the game in the second. Howard Tucker led off with a triple to right and scofed on Marshall Heath's single.

The lead went back to Home Builders in the third. Chapman again led it off with a walk. Tim Allen doubled him to third and Chapman scored on an out.

The Dairymen fought back into a tie in the bottom of the inning. Mike Williams walked and stole second. Bobby Woronoff singled him to third and a hit by Randy Hodges brought him in.

Things began to erupt in the fourth as Home Builders struck for three runs. Micky McGrath tripled to center and Mike Adams grounded out scoring him. Reggie Selby walked and Chapman reached on an error scoring Selby. Allen doubled again to drive in Chapman.

Carolina Dairy rallied to take the lead. Wayne Stokes walked and Gary Chapman got a hit. Williams reached on an error and John Coffman singled to score Stokes. A double by Woronoff scored Chapman, Williams and Coffman.

Carolina Dairy scored five in the fifth to run the lead to 11-5. But it did not hold long as Home Builders rallied for seven in the sixth. Selby walked and Chapman got a hit. Both scored on Allen's third double. Toates tripled to score Allen and a double by Gary Allen drove in Toates. Jay Wood reached on an error sending Toates to third. Lance Weatherington walked and a hit by Mike Adams scored Allen. Ronnie Chapman reached on an error scoring Wood and Weatherington to go ahead 12-11.

Toates reached on an error and after moving around on a passed ball and a wild pitch, scored on Gary Allen's sacrifice. Jay Wood reached on an error moving him to second and a single by Weatherington drove him in.

Carolina Dairy got its last run in the last of the seventh as John Coffman reached on an error and scored on a wild pitch.

Graniteers Dump Pepsi By 14-3

The Graniteers romped to a 14-3 victory over Pepsi-Cola yesterday as the Tar Heel Little League closed out the regular season.

Following an open date today, the league playoff will get underway on Friday. The schedule calls for Integon to meet the Moose at 4 p.m. Friday at Elm Street, with the Graniteers taking on Big Value Drugs at 6 p.m.

On Saturday, the winner of the first game will meet Pepsi-Cola, while the second game winner takes on the Exchange. The two winners meet Monday for the title, with the winner moving into the city championship.

Leaders Take City Victories

Kentucky Fried Chicken opened up a half-game lead in the American Division of the City Softball League, while National leader Little Sluggers moved right along in games last night.

In one game played on the other field, Morgan Printers helped the Sluggers by downing Jock's, 5-0, in an interdivisional game. Morgan scored one in the first and added another in the second. The other three scored in the third.

One-Hour Koretizing won its second game of the year with a 7-6 win over helpless Baggett's. Baggett's jumped into the lead with four wins in the opening inning. One-Hour picked up three in the third, while Baggett's scored one in the fourth.

One-Hour added one in the fifth, then pushed ahead with three in the sixth, making it 7-5. Baggett's got one in the seventh on Ronnie Stepps' home run, but the rally died there.

The second game saw the Sluggers take a 16-4 win over the Rockets. The Sluggers opened up with three in the first, then added five in the second. Four crossed in the third, one in the fifth and three more in the sixth. The Rockets got three of their four in the fourth, and added the one in the seventh.

Pleasant Visit For Cleveland

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

Boston is a nice place to visit and Cleveland Indians' Manager Frank Robinson wouldn't even mind living there for a while.

"It's been a very pleasant visit," said Robinson after his Indians completed a three-game sweep of the Red Sox at Fenway Park with an 8-5 victory Wednesday.

"We're definitely putting things together now. This is what I want, the type of team play I've been looking for since the start of the season."

Elsewhere in the American League, New York edged Baltimore 2-1, Chicago turned back Texas 5-2, Kansas City outlasted California 6-2 in 12 innings, Oakland dumped Minnesota 7-1 and Milwaukee shaded Detroit 7-6.

The Indians exemplified Robinson's one-for-all, all-for-one theory of baseball as only Boog Powell failed to get a hit.

Frank Duffy had three singles, two RBI and scored twice, Alan Ashby hit a two-run homer and Duane Kuiper drove in two runs and turned in a pair of sparkling fielding plays at second base.

Roric Harrison, 1-2, and Tom Buskey combined to limit Boston to six hits, including a two-run double by Jim Rice in the first and a two-run single by Denny Doyle in the ninth. Dick Pole, 1-4, took the loss.

The Tribe has now won four straight after a horrendous one-for-13 streak. The Red Sox have dropped five of their last six games.

Yankees 2, Orioles 1
Walt Williams tripled to lead off the ninth and scored the winning run on Thurman Munson's sacrifice fly as New York moved 1½ games ahead of second-place Boston in the AL East. Munson tripled and scored on a single by Chris Chambliss for the first New York run. Sparky Lyle, 2-5, won it in relief and Jim Palmer, 12-4, lost it.

White Sox 5, Rangers 2
Jim Kaat picked up his 11th victory against four losses and Jorge Orta drove in two runs with a double and triple for Chicago. Deron Johnson also knocked in a pair of runs for the winners with a sacrifice fly and a single. Mike Bacsik, making his major league debut, lost it for Texas.

Royals 6, Angels 2
Frank White cracked a grand slam home run in the 12th inning to lift Kansas City over California. Steve Busby went the distance, spacing a dozen hits to raise his record to 11-5. Al Cowens had a two-run homer for the Royals. Ellie Rodriguez singled in one Angel run and Jerry Remy scored the other on an error.

A's 7, Twins 1
Ken Holtzman, 7-7, scattered seven hits as Oakland beat Minnesota for the 10th time in 12 meetings this season. Ray Fosse, Phil Garner and Bert Campaneris drove in two runs apiece for the winners. Fosse's RBI were his first of the year.

Brewers 7, Tigers 6
George Scott belted a pair of solo homers, his 12th and 13th of the season, as Milwaukee beat Detroit for the fourth straight time. Bill Freehan belted a two-run homer for the Tigers who dropped their sixth straight game and their 16th in the last 19 outings.

Salesman Sets Nastase Down

By JEFF BRADLEY
AP Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Sherwood Stewart is a former computer salesman who quit the business scene for the "bust and hump" world of professional tennis.

But he made the 1975 Wimbledon championships come to life Wednesday before a record crowd when he mastered fifth-seeded Romanian Ilie Nastase in an electrifying five-set contest.

Helped to victory by an out-of-form Nastase, the tall, bearded American ignored the Romanian's extrovert antics and his tantrums over a disputed final set line call and sent Nastase spinning out of the men's singles 8-6, 6-8, 6-2, 1-6, 6-3.

"I planned to play to Nastase's backhand all the time, because he's just not hitting his backhands any good any more, and it worked," said Stewart, 29, ranked No. 15 in the United States.

"It was a big win," he added, "because of where you're playing and who you're playing if you beat one of the seeds."

The native of Goose Creek, Tex., now called Baytown, ran into trouble in the fourth set when he suffered cramps in both legs. "But I took some salt tablets and glucose and recovered."

Stewart also underwent a cartilage operation on his right knee in March.

A junior tennis player, Stewart worked for IBM for two years after graduating from college in 1969. But in 1971 he decided to play full-time, working up the hard way by qualiifying for all the big tournaments. "It was really the bust and hump school, as we say."

He laughed when he learned that his third-round opponent was to be boyhood friend and tennis chum, Mike Estep of Dallas, who also made it through the second round Wednesday by beating Robin Drysdale of Britain.

As the men entered the third round Thursday, only 11 of the original 16 seeds were left, with Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia falling to Australia's Geoff Masters 2-6, 2-6, 6-4, 8-6, 6-4 and John Alexander losing to fellow-Australian Paul Kronk 1-6, 9-8, 9-8, 9-8 on Wednesday. Also out are Americans Stan Smith and Vitas Gerulaitis of Howard Beach, N.Y.

Still heavily favored to retain his title is Jimmy Connors, who overcame hay fever to defeat Vijay Amritraj of India 9-8, 6-0, 8-6.

His one-time fiancée, now friend, Chris Evert, zipped into the third round by beating Elly Appel of The Netherlands 6-0, 61. Miss Evert is defending the women's crown.

One of the eight women's seeds, Kerry Melville-Reid of Australia, went out Wednesday, retiring when trailing Britain's Sue Barker 4-6, 0-1. Mrs. Melville-Reid said she was not feeling well.

Wednesday's record crowd was 37,081.

Cincinnati 'Doubles' Up Victory Over Atlanta; Los Angeles Loses

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

It's double or nothing when the Cincinnati Reds play the Atlanta Braves these days. The Reds reel off double plays and the Braves get nothing.

After turning four double plays in blanking the Braves 3-0 Tuesday night, the Reds pulled off five more Wednesday night in a 2-0 triumph. Coupled with the Houston Astros' 5-4 victory over Los Angeles, the victory boosted the Reds' lead over the Dodgers in the National League's West Division to four games.

In the NL East, the Philadelphia Phillies chopped Pittsburgh's lead to one game by defeating the Pirates 7-6 in 13 innings and sweeping the four-game series.

Elsewhere, the New York Mets nipped the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1, the Montreal Expos exploded for 10 runs in the seventh inning and whipped the Chicago Cubs 12-6 and the San Diego Padres downed the San Francisco Giants 6-2.

Tom Carroll, who pitched eight innings of three-hit ball, issued a leadoff walk in the ninth and Will McEnaney took over following a 43-minute rain delay. Ralph Garr bounced into a forceout and Marty Perez rapped into a game-ending double play.

The Reds scored against Carl Morton on sacrifice flies by Joe Morgan in the sixth inning and Dave Concepcion in the ninth.

Astros 5, Dodgers 4

Roger Metzger singled and Cesar Cedeno tripled off Don Sutton in the seventh inning to break a 4-4 tie. Cedeno homered in the first inning and the Astros added two more in the second on Bob Watson's double, Enos Cabell's triple and a grounder. The Dodgers tied the score in the third on Jim Wynn's three-run homer and both teams scored in the sixth before Houston got the winner in the seventh.

Phillies 7, Pirates 6

Mike Schmidt drew a bases-loaded walk from Dave Giusti with one out in the 13th to force in the winning run. The Pirates had a 6-0 lead after 2½ innings.

Jay Johnstone opened the 13th with a double and Greg Luzinski, whose two-run homer tied the score in the seventh, was intentionally walked. Dick Allen, who tripled two runs across in the fifth, sacrificed and Giusti walked John Oates intentionally to load the bases, but then walked Schmidt on a 3-2 pitch.

Mets 2, Cardinals 1

Tom Seaver and Rick Baldwin combined on a four-hitter and Rusty Staub slammed a two-run triple in the seventh. It was the sixth consecutive triumph for Seaver, 11-4, who had allowed only one run in his last 38 innings until St. Louis scored in the ninth.

Expos 12, Cubs 6

Pepe Manguel belted a three-run homer to cap a 10-run Montreal outburst in the seventh inning. All the runs were unearned thanks to a pair of errors by Chicago shortstop Don Kessinger.

Padres 6, Giants 2

Rich Folkers sopped San Francisco on eight hits and ex-Giant Willie McCovey contributed a pair of run-scoring singles.

Advantage May Have An Effect

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League's decision to determine the home field advantage for post-season games on regular season win-loss records could have had a profound effect on last year's playoffs if it had been in effect then.

Based on last year's American Football Conference final standings, Oakland, with the best record, would have hosted Buffalo, the wild card playoff qualifier; and Miami, with the second best record, would have been home against Pittsburgh in the opening playoff round.

There are those who believe that the Super Bowl champion Steelers would have had more trouble in the Orange Bowl against the Dolphins than they did at home against Buffalo, their actual first round opponent.

In past years, home site priorities for the playoffs were based on a rotation system of the divisions within each conference. The new season's rotation, which was scrapped by Wednesday's decision, would have been Central, East, West in the AFC and Central, West, East in the National Conference.

"What we have done," said Commissioner Pete Rozelle, "is to place a premium on regular season records and reward regular season performance. This makes all 14 games important. Now, we are rewarding the teams that do best."

Last season, for example, because of previously determined playoff site priorities, Miami with the second best won-loss record in the regular season, was forced to open the playoffs on the road. The Dolphins were eliminated in Oakland. Meanwhile, Pittsburgh, with a poorer regular season record than Miami, enjoyed the home field edge in the first round of the playoffs.

The plan adopted gives the teams with the best records the home edge throughout the playoffs.

In other action Wednesday, the proposal to eliminate the coin flip before the game was withdrawn. It had been suggested that the traditional coin flip be replaced by giving the visiting team the option of deciding in which half it wished to receive the kickoff. Tradition won that argument.

Seattle and Tampa, the NFL's newest franchises, got something for their fans to look forward to when the league voted to allow those cities to host the Pro Bowl Games in 1977 and 1978. The 1976 game is scheduled for New Orleans the same week that the two new teams will be stocked with players in the expansion draft.

Seattle drew the 1977 game and the 1978 game went to Tampa. Both cities assured the league of sellouts for the game between all stars of the two conferences which has had trouble generating excitement in recent years.

Both clubs said the Pro Bowl Game would be included in their season's ticket programs.

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — They are taking no chances about rain interfering with the Muhammad Ali-Joe Bugner heavyweight title fight here Tuesday.

A transparent plastic roof mounted on thick steel supports is being fabricated to cover the ring and several rows of seats in open air Merdeka soccer stadium.

In addition, officials confirmed Wednesday, a "Bomoh" has been assigned the task of keeping the skies clear for the mid-morning match. (Thanks to the international date line, the bout will be seen on Monday, June 30 on closed circuit TV in the United States.)

The Bomoh is traditional in Malay society. One expert identified him as a "specialist on folk medicine and spirit beliefs."

In other words he's Malaysia's version of the witch doctor.

Dato Haji Harun Idris, 49, leader of the Umno Youth Group, which is sponsoring the contest, said he was confident that the Bomoh was useful. Umno stands for the ruling United Malay National Organization.

Athletics Not Main Issues

By TOM SEPPY

AP Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee chairman says too much emphasis has been placed on the sports section of new federal regulations implementing a law banning sex discrimination in the nation's schools.

"The emphasis on athletic activity is not the chairman's," Chairman James G. O'Hara, D-Mich., told a witness testifying before the postsecondary education subcommittee Wednesday. "It is far down on his list of concerns."

Caspar W. Weinberger, secretary of health, education and welfare, was the scheduled primary witness in today's finale of six days of hearings before the subcommittee, which is reviewing the regulations to see if they conform with the law.

"Athletics are not the major issue in the regulations," O'Hara said. "I'm very unhappy about this focus. It muddles some of the other issues."

O'Hara said sports probably has become the center of the controversy over the rules because of the appearances by representatives of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the American Football Coaches Association before his subcommittee and their opposition to the implementing of the regulations.

"The athletics section is a very complex and difficult problem," said O'Hara. "The real problem is that the one thing both sides of the issue have in common is their distrust of the people who will administer the regulations."

"TRES MUCHACHOS"... a study of three boys, is among the dozen paintings in Ron Long's show on this week only at the Greenville Art Center.

Colorado Artist's Work On Display At Center

In the final "additional" show of the 1974-75 year at the Greenville Art Center, Aspen, Colorado artist Ron Long is showing a dozen paintings and a couple of watercolors in the upstairs gallery of the center.

The lonely sweep of miles of desert sand, distant hills and a sky clear of clouds are explicitly pared down to essential elements of poetic line and color in the abstract paintings forming the major share of this show. Desert browns, tans, pale washed sky colors of far away blues, and occasional touches of gold and thin sage greens constitute the artist's range of colors. The sharp, clear light of open country is captured by the artist. In several paintings, he effectively juxtaposes satiny smooth surfaces of paint with smaller impasto areas built up lightly with a palette knife.

There's a couple of figurative paintings. The larger of these, "Tres Muchachos East of Cuzco" is a striking full length portrait of three youngsters, shy and awkwardly posed.

Ron's show will be on view for only a couple of more days before the center closes for the summer. This show, coupled with the current main show of photographs by ten local photographers, are well worth taking time to see.

'Bad Faith' Is Said No Factor

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, showing sharp divisions as it nears the end of its term, has handed civil rights lawyers a sweeping victory in what the lawyers regarded as their biggest job discrimination case in four years.

The court ruled Wednesday that victims of job discrimination can collect back pay without proving their employers acted in bad faith. In the same ruling, it held that employment tests which screen out blacks may not be used unless they are shown by "professionally acceptable methods" to be job-related.

"We think it will have tremendous practical importance," attorney Barry L. Goldstein of the NAACP Legal Defense Fund said of the decision.

"It makes it very clear that if a company is guilty of racial discrimination or sex discrimination and this results in economic loss to a class of black or female workers, the company in the vast majority of cases is going to have to pay for the discrimination."

The Legal Defense Fund had said it considered the dispute, in which it represented black workers at a southern paper mill, to be its most important employment discrimination case since 1971.

In that year, the Supreme Court ruled employment tests which discriminate against black workers must be shown to be related to the job sought. Until Wednesday, however, the court had given no guidance as to how this was to be assured.

The court decided the case by a 7-1 vote, but in two other significant decisions it split 5 to 4.

One ruling, rebuffing inner-city residents who sought to challenge a suburban zoning ordinance in court, prompted a pair of the most sharply worded dissents of the term.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr. accused the majority of "an indefensible hostility" to the claim of the low-income minority people who brought the suit. And Justice William O. Douglas said he thought his colleagues were looking at the case "with antagonistic eyes."

Amid indications it will end up its current term Monday, the court also ruled 5 to 4 that federal law does not give labor leaders the right to trial by jury for disobeying injunctions against picketing.

The job discrimination case arose at the Albemarle Paper Co. mill in Roanoke Rapids, N.C. To validate its employment tests, the company hired an industrial psychologist who spent a half-day at the plant and devised a study to be conducted by company officials without his supervision.

Better Job Prospects By 1980

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — For this year's college freshman the job market upon graduation four years from now should be fairly good in the South, but it depends on the field chosen, according to a study by the Southern Regional Education Board.

State Marking Autistic Week

THE POSTER CHILD... for the 1975 N. C. Society for Autistic Children's fund driver is Robert Horne of Winterville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Horne. He is shown here with Mrs. James Holshouser, the Society's honorary chairman.

June 23 marks the beginning of National Autistic Children's Week, Mrs. Pat Holshouser, honorary chairman of the North Carolina Society for Autistic Children, announced today.

The week is designated to bring attention to the plight of autistic children throughout the country. Autism is a malady which limits children's ability to learn and to relate to the world around them.

North Carolina has the TEACCH Program (Treatment and Education for Autistic and Related Communication Handicapped Children), which operates diagnostic and treatment centers in Chapel Hill, Greenville, and Asheville. In addition, TEACCH has classrooms for autistic children in the public school of Greenville, Asheville, Chapel Hill, Charlotte, Elizabeth City, Fayetteville, Gastonia, Greensboro, Hickory, High Point, and Wilmington.

The Society sponsors a camp each summer near Efland for autistic and communications handicapped children. The camping program served 160 children from all over the state this year, and was free to the children. The camp costs the Society approximately $100 per week per child.

Charge Driver In Collision

Mildred Jenkins Stewart of Riverview Estates was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 9:10 p.m. mishap yesterday at the intersection of Tenth Street and Greenville Boulevard.

Police reported the Stewart car collided with an auto driven by Sylvia Louise Wilson of Simpson, causing an estimated $450 damage to the Wilson car and about $500 damage to the Stewart auto.

No injuries were reported.

Here is what the study showed some of the job prospects should be like in 1980:

For the health professions, except pharmacy — good.

Accounting — good.

Engineering — good.

Library science — good.

Social work — good.

Business administration — good.

Education — poor.

Communications, including journalism — poor.

Law — poor.

The study, released Wednesday, said those seeking employment in the traditional professional-technical-managerial areas in 1980 will find a surplus of applicants of between 7 and 9 per cent.

But, the SREB said, "For those college graduates who view their job market as encompassing not only these traditional roles, but the entire ranges of occupations listed by the U.S. Bureau of Census, there will be more than enough jobs to go around."

The bureau lists 421 occupations, and colleges are required in a growing array of them, the SREB said.

"If these trends continue, there will be a deficit of 13 per cent in number of graduates per job opening," the SREB said.

The study showed there should be a demand for members of the health professions but that there will be more pharmacists than job openings.

"It appears likely that graduates in accounting, engineering, library science and social work will have a hospitable welcome from employers," the SREB said.

But there will be more lawyers than needed and education, already overcrowded, will become more so, the study said.

Communications, including journalism, which has had increased enrollments since Watergate, also will be oversupplied, according to the SREB.

"In many areas traditionally associated with the liberal arts, the ill-matching of graduate to openings will be particularly apparent," the report said.

"Foreign languages, for example, will have five to seven times as many graduates as job slots; likewise, in the broad field of 'letters' or 'the humanities,' where the projected supply of market-ready graduates will far outstrip projected job openings."

Business administration majors will be in demand, the SREB said, with about 34,500 graduates and as many as 95,000 openings.

SREB is devoted to the social, economic and educational gains in the South. It has been ratified by legislatures in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia.

'New Directions' Home Being Prepared For Youths

A group home to be used as an alternative to sending some young people to juvenile institutions or training will be opened in Pitt County soon. The New Directions Group

Home should be ready to receive up to nine residents in August or September. It is to be located in the E. R. Semmons home on Hooker Road here. Its realization is a result of a $65,000 grant approved by the Governor's Commission on Law and Order June 6.

The Mid-East Criminal Justice Division, funded through the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, submitted a sub-grant proposal for the community-based youth facility. During the first year federal monies will finance 90 per cent of the project, with state and local funds, set at five per cent each, making up the balance.

The contract was awarded to Pitt County and the implementing agency is the Pitt County Mental Health Center, assisted by other professionals in the community, as well as interested private citizens.

The basic idea of the Home is for "pre-delinquent and adjudicated delinquents" to have an "ideal" home situation. Approximately nine young people, ages 11 to 18, will be chosen to live there from six months to a year. Emphasis will be placed on follow up and contact with the home even after their departures. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilkins will be the Home's counseling "parents."

Most of the residents will be referred from the juvenile courts, although the school systems, police departments, mental health center, social services department, family members, and interested citizens also may refer to the screening committee for participation. Parents' consent will be necessary before a child may take part.

Residents will continue to attend their same schools and outings like picnics and attendance at entertainment events will be arranged by the counseling parents. The child's original parents will be encouraged to participate in all phases of the group home programs.

Behavior modification will be used in the home, as well as a token economy system which allows each youth to earn or lose points according to his behavior. Points are exchangeable for privileges. After some months under this system, a resident will progress to a merit system. Visits in the original home will be arranged.

Working closely with professional agencies in the community, the counseling parents hope to offer each youth in their care a "comprehensive coordinated approach to his own special needs." Throughout his stay, the resident will continue to be exposed to the community so as, hopefully, to make the transition from the treatment program to normal life situations smoother than for the youth who is placed in an institution.

A spokesman for the Mid-East Criminal Justice Division said July 1 is the tentative date for the receiving of funds for New Directions.

Regional Mental Health will administer the program, and the non-profit organization, New Directions Inc., will act as an advisory group.

College Board Will Evaluate Prospects

RALEIGH (AP) — Kittrell College is evaluating its future and whether it can overcome a $1 million debt, fires, a freeze on federal income and the death of its president to re-open in the fall.

The chairman of the board of the trustees at the Vance County school, Bishop Henry W. Murph of Washington, D.C., said Wednesday that an emergency meeting of the board will be held. Murph said he couldn't make a judgment as to whether the school would be operating in the fall.

Kittrell President John A. Middleton died Saturday after a heart attack in Atlanta, Ga.

Cameron P. West, president of the N.C. Association of Independent Colleges and Universities said Middleton's death puts the "leadership of the institution in a precarious position to respond to the emergencies they have."

"Everything has gone helter-skelter since his (Middleton's) death," Murph said. He said compounding the problem of the school's $1 million debt is an Internal Revenue Service freeze of federal funds that might be going to the school.

The IRS is investigating the school for failure to pay federal taxes withheld from college paychecks. Federal investigators have determined that finances at Kittrell have been mismanaged. No one has been accused of any crimes, though.

A fire which destroyed the college's library and records in 1973 has hindered investigators in their investigation. And this spring, a three-story dormitory was destroyed by fire.

Murph said the only employees at the campus are a caretaker and several security guards.

He said no teachers are under contract and that two administrators who stayed at Kittrell after classes ended last year have been asked to seek other employment.

Twenty-One Years Of Fighting Murder Case

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Back in 1954, attorney Mark M. Hennelly took on a murder case. Twenty-one years later, it is one of the longest uninterrupted court battles in the history of American criminal law.

Hennelly now is 59 and no longer in criminal law, except to defend J.W. "Slick" Stidham, a life term inmate of the state penitentiary, who is nearing 50. When Hennelly accepted the case, Stidham was a 28-year-old convict serving 25 years for armed robbery.

Then, in September 1954, there was a riot at the prison. During it, inmate Walter Lee Donnell, who had testified against a St. Louis armed robbery gang, was slain.

After the riot, confessions were obtained from Stidham and six other inmates in the Donnell murder. In court, the men said they were tortured into confessing. Their requests for lie detector tests were denied.

Hennelly was asked to take the case by the Rev. Charles Dismas Clark, the so-called "Hoodlum Priest" of St. Louis. Father Clark died in 1963.

"It was never any secret that I tried all of Father Clark's cases for him," Hennelly recalled in a recent interview. "He told me that he had seven boys in Jefferson City who were being railroaded for a murder that occurred during the riot down there. Clark said the state was going to ask for the death penalty in these cases, and asked me to defend them."

Hennelly accepted. "Originally, I defended all seven, but other St. Louis lawyers offered their services, so I took the Stidham case, because they considered him the ringleader."

He said he still strongly believes that Stidham was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment for a murder he did not commit. In that belief, Hennelly has continued his defense of Stidham on appeal twice to the U.S. Supreme Court, twice to the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, three times to the Missouri Supreme Court and every court in between. He has borne the entire cost out of his own pocket.

A fellow attorney estimates that $150,000 would be a conservative estimate of what Hennelly has invested in the case, now on appeal in U.S. District Court here.

When Hennelly argued Stidham's case before the U.S. Supreme Court in October 1972, he was executive vice president of the $1.5 billion Mississippi River Corp. The justices were curious why he continued to argue the case for a penniless convict.

Hennelly replied: "This case is like a fingernail on a blackboard with me — as it should be with any lawyer. As long as I believe that a man's in prison for something he didn't do, I can't rest."

The bidding:

Opening lead: Queen of ♠

When this hand was played in a recent national pairs championship, most of the declarers could not resist the temptation of an early trump finesses, and ended up down one. The few who displayed better technique were well rewarded for their efforts.

North had an uncomfortable response to make after his partner opened one spade. While he would have preferred holding a fourth spade, or three to an honor, for his immediate raise, the alternative response of one no trump was even less appealing. It all worked out to the best when South had enough to leap to four spades at his second turn.

The queen of diamonds was invariably led, and most declarers won in dummy and took the spade finesse. When this lost, they ended up losing a trick in each suit, for West returned a diamond and declarer had no way of handling his fourth club. The successful declarers gave themselves an extra chance by winning the first trick in the closed hand with the king of diamonds and leading a low club toward the queen. They would still have had time to fall back on the spade finesse. On the actual lie, though, West won the queen of clubs and continued with the jack of diamonds to dummy's ace. After cashing the jack of clubs, declarer crossed to his hand with a high trump and discarded a diamond on the king of clubs. Now, a diamond was ruffed in dummy.

Declarer was now in the fortunate position of being able to give up a trump trick and still make his contract, for the only other tricks he could lose were a heart and the club trick already taken by the defenders. The trump finesse, however, had become an extremely dangerous proposition because if it lost, declarer would expose himself to a club ruff, which would defeat the contract. So, in the interest of safety, a trump was led to the ace, and when the queen dropped declarer was home with a surprising but well-earned overtrick.

NEW YORK (AP) — Profit taking kept the stock market from making much headway today in response to the news of another gain in the government's index of leading economic indicators.

Crisis Center Fund-Raiser

The REAL Crisis Center at 1117 Evans Street here will have a trash, trinkets, treasures, and toys sale Saturday from 9 a.m. to dark.

Refreshments and games will be available for occupying children while their parents shop. In addition to usual yard sale items like clothes, records, and books, there will be large selections of candles, plants, and t-shirts. A special feature will be a quantity of Carolina Country Pottery from Teague Pottery Company in Robbins.

Proceeds will be used as local matching money for available state grant funds for the Crisis Center. It is hoped the sale will raise at least $275, the amount needed by June 30, according to Director Marge Baney.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up .39 at 873.12, and gainers held a 5-4 edge over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

At the opening bell, the Commerce Department reported that its leading-indicator index rose 2.1 per cent in May for its third straight monthly increase.

The index is designed to point up future economic trends, and its further rise was taken as strong additional evidence that the economy was heading into a recovery from the recession.

But a sizeable number of investors, following a long-standing Wall Street practice, apparently seized on the occasion of some favorable news to cash in on profits.

Texaco, by far the most active issue on the Big Board, was down 3/4 at 26 1/4. A huge 600,000-share block of the stock traded at 26 1/2.

Varian Associates, also active slipped 3/4 to 16 1/2 after a rise of 6 1/4 points over the two previous sessions on the company's report that it had developed a new small solar energy cell.

The NYSE's 11 a.m. composite index was off .03 at 50.48. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index picked up .17 to 92.45.

Rezoning...

request was sought in order to permit construction of a flower shop on the property.

M.E. Cavendish, attorney representing Causey, told board members that the property owner proposed to build a two-story building on the site containing some 15,000 square feet on each floor. The property has some 225 feet of frontage on Fifth Street, it was noted, and is some 225 feet deep. Cavendish said that 22 parking spaces would be provided.

Commission chairman Eddie Howell read a letter from Dr. Rexford Piner, principal of Wahl-Coates School, expressing concern over the rezoning and a petition containing approximately 150 signatures was also displayed that indicated opposition to the rezoning.

In addition, several property owners of the Fifth Street area spoke in opposition to the request including Melvin Stanforth who said that the rezoning could affect property values in the area and permit uses that were not compatible with the residential district.

Faser said that as far as the proposed building was concerned, it might not be as bad as the residents think but he said that he could also put himself in their places as a resident living in the area. Faser said that he would oppose the rezoning if he lived in the neighborhood.

The board voted unanimously to recommend denial of the request.

An amendment to the controversial ordinance pertaining to location of public facilities in local zones gained the concurrence of the commission. The amendment would provide that a public hearing be required before the city could place a municipal government building in any zone.

A great deal of opposition had surfaced concerning the ordinance which many citizens, including several council members, contended gave the city blanket authority to place a municipal building wherever it pleased without prior notice or discussion from the public.

In other business last night, a preliminary plat of Section III of Westhaven Subdivision was tabled for further study in order to allow the developer time to of possible objections from the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare on consideration of building an additional bed tower for Pitt Memorial to accommodate the teaching needs of the ECU Medical School.

A report released by HEW a few weeks ago pointed out a surplus of hospital beds in North Carolina. Pitt County, of course, has experienced a severe shortage in recent years with beds in the halls at Pitt Memorial a daily occurrence. The new hospital now being built will have 315 acute care beds and 55 rehabilitation beds.

Promoters of the use of the county hospital by the East Carolina University Medical School have said it would be less expensive to add beds to this hospital than to have two separate ones.

Richardson said today that the hospital has had no communication about the wisdom of adding the bed tower either directly from HEW or from the Comprehensive Health Planning group through which HEW delegates much of its dealing with local hospitals. "We have decided, though," he said, "to divide our applications for additional space, the need for which is cause of the ECU affiliation, into two separate parts—ancillary services and additional beds. Guided by the Comprehensive Health Planning agency, we expect to complete applications for about 70,000 additional square feet before we even begin work on the bed tower idea. The reasoning is simple. We need to incorporate the ancillary additions in the present construction—a bed tower can be added any time. Modifications are planned for the radiology, laboratory, emergency, surgery, outpatients, dietary, physical therapy, and supply areas to serve the needs of the increased number of patients and staff and students expected with the hospital-medical school affiliation.

"Pitt Memorial has become and is expected to be more and more the time a hospital serving the Eastern North Carolina region rather than Pitt County only. HEW has a say-so over local actions because Medicare and Medicaid funds finance the services provided so many patients of the hospital," he explained.

Jenkins said, too, "I want to express our deep appreciation and gratefulness to our own Board of Trustees for their leadership and encouragement and to Dr. Edwin Monroe, our Vice-Chancellor for Health Affairs, whose leadership and wisdom guided our efforts."

Jenkins also expressed thanks to UNC president William Friday and the Board of Governors "for their willingness to help us work toward our goal... and to our alumni and countless friends..."

The chancellor concluded, "There are some who did not live to see the conclusion of this struggle but whose memory, as well as work they did, lives on. University Foundation. The amendment, it was noted, involves a transfer of $75,000 to the budget's general fund to provide advance money for the acquisition. Half of the purchase cost will be reimbursed to the city from the N.C. Land and Water Conservation Fund and the other half will be provided in Community Development Program funds.

An ordinance implementing the Local Government Budget and Fiscal Control Act as it relates to the Greenville Utilities Commission was also approved. Adoption of the ordinance creates the position of deputy finance officer.

A resolution was approved designating the assistant city treasurer as the deputy city finance officer for the purpose of signing city checks. Under the current operating policy, in compliance with the Fiscal Control Act, city checks must be signed by either the mayor or city manager and also finance officer or deputy finance officer.

The Council also adopted a resolution designating the signatures of either the director of Greenville Utilities or the chairman of GUCO and the city finance officer or deputy finance officer to be required on GUCO checks.

Both resolutions require that two signatures appear on city checks and two signatures on Greenville Utilities checks.
