By SAMUEL MAULL

Garbage piled up on New York City streets at the rate of 28,000 tons a day as a wildcat strike by sanitationmen went into its second day today.

planned to go to court today to seek an injunction against the sanitationmen's union to halt the walkout.
In the sprawling neighborhoods of the city, residents watched the refuse piles grow and reacted variously with resignation, anger, or bitterness.

Republican state legislators in Albany refused on Tuesday to give New York Mayor Abraham D. Beame new taxing powers to raise money for city coffers.

Senator Objects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire today requested that the joint U.S.-Soviet space mission be postponed until two orbiting Russian cosmonauts are returned to earth.
Proxmire, chairman of a Senate appropriations subcommittee handling the budget of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, coupled his request with disclosure of secret testimony by a CIA scientist.

Beirut Street War Tapers Off

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Street fighting in Beirut between religious and political factions tapered off early today, and the Lebanese began returning to work through streets strewn with war debris and rotting garbage.

The police reported more than 250 killed and 1,000 wounded in eight days of guerrilla warfare between left-wing Moslem Palestinians and Lebanese and right-wing Christian Lebanese.
Government security forces patrolled the city in jeeps and armored cars, ordering the private armies and armed gangs to remove roadblocks.

Beirut Radio reported that all roads were secure except in the eastern suburbs of Chiyah and Ein Rummneh, the main combat zones.
Scattered shooting was reported continuing in Chiyah between Christian militiamen of the Phalange party and leftist Moslems.

Chamoun said the army would not be used in Beirut because "police and security forces are adequate to cope with any eventuality." But army tanks were sent to the Christian village of El Kaa, in the northern Bekaa valley, after Shiite Moslems attacked it with mortars and rocket grenades Tuesday.

Some foreigners and local people who fled from their apartments began returning home. They had been the only guests at the city's tourist hotels, which are empty because three outbreaks of street warfare this year have wrecked the tourist trade.

Assail Ceiling Threat

LONDON (AP) — Union leaders and left-wing Laborite legislators today attack chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey's threat to put a 10 per cent ceiling on wage increases in an attempt to check the British economic slide and 25-per cent rate of inflation.
Healey told the House of Commons Tuesday that the Labor government will make a 10 per cent ceiling on all increases in wages and dividends mandatory unless workers and companies agree to that limit voluntarily within a week.

Will Sign

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will sign a compromise housing bill which supporters say could lead to construction of 300,000 new homes in the next year, giving a badly needed boost to the depressed housing market and the construction industry.

The measure also will provide up to $250 a month in mortgage payments to help homeowners who face foreclosure because of the recession and will extend an emergency home repair and rehabilitation program for one year with a $100-million authorization.

The bill was hurriedly worked out last week after the House failed in an attempt to override Ford's veto of a $1.3-billion housing subsidy backed by Democrats. The President called the measure inflationary.

An afternoon signing ceremony was scheduled in the White House Rose Garden.

Farmville Board Hears Ordinances Proposed; Turned Over For Study

By CAROL TYER

FARMVILLE—Farmville Commissioners last night heard several proposed ordinances from a Flynn and Associates, a firm hired to advise the Farmville Downtown Committee on central business district improvements.

Included in the proposals were the establishment of a Municipal Service District which would pay extra tax for special services; a ordinance to regulate planting in a particular area, and another to regulate signs in a particular area. All the proposals were turned over to the Planning Board for study.

Whether to sand blast or use a stay-dry on a wall facing the new municipal parking lot at the corner of Wilson and Contentnea Streets was discussed, but the matter was turned over to the Downtown Committee for further study.

Because there was no opposition voiced at a public hearing on the closing of Harris Street, between the homes of Bill Lewis and Mrs. Martha Bass, the Commissioners voted to close the dedicated but never-sued street.

A grant of $6,000 was received yesterday for use under the federal manpower act for town maintenance, the Mayor said.

Sewage District Grant Due To Joint Efforts

By JAMES KYLE
Reflector Staff Writer
"It's been a long fight and a long struggle, but it looks like we've finally made it," Grifton Mayor Dave Bosley said yesterday of the awarding of an Environmental Protection Agency grant to the Contentnea Metropolitan Sewage District.

The EPA grant, announced Monday by Congressman Walter B. Jones, totals over $4.7 million and will be used to consolidate the sewer facilities of Ayden, Grifton and Winterville into a regional sewage disposal plant. The three towns are presently under order from the North Carolina Division of Environmental Management to upgrade their sewer facilities.

The towns passed a $2 million bond referendum December 10, 1974, to help fund the project, and state funds are also expected.
The primary objective of the CMSD is to meet federal and state regulations set forth in the Environmental Protection Act of 1971. The funds will be used towards the construction of a waste water treatment plant, a pump station, an outfall force main and rehabilitation of sewer lines.

"The district is happy, to say the least, that we were chosen (to receive the funds)," Ayden town manager, Don Russell said. "We have been working on it since 1971."
"We are very happy it's been approved and are looking forward to putting it out to bid," CMSD chairman, Dr. Elliot Dixon said. Russell said the CMSD hopes to open bids in August and start construction in late September or early October.

Dixon said cooperation was received from federal and state agencies and it was "a pleasant experience, getting it all through."
Bosley said "the state and federal governments have shown their support for this cooperative project and it now remains for the people of Ayden, Grifton and Winterville to capitalize on the great opportunities." The area, Bosley said, "can be a model for the whole state, but it will take a cooperative effort on the part of the three towns." The area can "lead Eastern North Carolina in industrial and municipal development," Bosley said.

Winterville Mayor Walter Dail said the grant came "just in time." The town needs the new facilities "for our growth." He said he believed the District could get a good price on sewer lines because "so many contractors are out of work."
"We think it's a good thing for us, we are hoping so anyway," Dail said.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

NOT JUSTIFIED

Some time ago, Hotline published my inquiry about a traffic signal at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Greenfield Boulevard. I was told if a number of citizens in the area wrote to express the need for a signal here, a traffic count would be done to see if one is justified. I sent about 52 letters to Mr. Snell and haven't heard anything, M.T.

Perhaps by now you have received the letter signed by H.C. Rhudy, Manager of Traffic Engineering, and G.F. England, Division Traffic Engineer for the Department of Transportation and Highway Safety, which states that an investigation has been made and that they feel that a traffic signal at this intersection is not justified.

The letter sent to you, of which Hotline received a copy, was dated Apr. 14. Rhudy and England explained that the recorded traffic volume here is "far below the minimum volume required to justify a signal." They said they have on record 10 accidents here in the past three years.

They did explain, however, how the intersection is expected to be improved along with the fur-laning of Memorial Drive (US 13-NC11) already underway. "This project, which will be completed in 1977, will improve the intersection at Greenfield Boulevard by providing a left turn storage lane and taper for northbound traffic on US 13-NC 11 wishing to enter Greenfield Boulevard. Some islands will be changed to allow a smoother traffic flow through the intersection," they wrote.

PIX RECEIVED

A spot check of the recent Rose High School graduates who appealed to Hotline to check on their cap and gown pictures, long in being sent, reveal that the pictures were received last week, just as the manager of Ampix Industries said they would be. # Couple Weds In Late Afternoon Ceremony

CHOCOWINITY—Miss Rebecca Inez Riddle of Washington and John Milton James of Grifton were married in a late afternoon ceremony Saturday. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ella Dean Riddle of Washington. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Henry James of Grifton.

The six o'clock wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. K. B. Dickerson, Rt. 1, Chocowinity. Mrs. Dickerson is the sister of the bridegroom. The wedding vows were pledged before the Rev. John Moore of Greenville, associational missionary of the South Roanoke Baptist Association. Mrs. John Moore assisted in the ceremony by interpreting with sign language the marriage vows as presented by the minister and pledged in sign language by the couple. Mrs. Ray Arnold of Chocowinity was organist. Mrs. Moore sang and interpreted "O Perfect Love" and the "Wedding Prayer," by Dunlap.

Family members and invited guests were seated on the patio which was decorated for the occasion. In the center was an arch entwined with ivy and shasta daisies.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Marion Edwards of Washington. She wore a formal length gown of white polyester crepe, styled with a sweetheart neckline, short cape sleeves and a flared skirt. The sleeves were edged with floral alencon lace and her bouffant veil of sheer illusion was attached to a bandeau covered with matching lace. The bride carried a summer nosegay of garden roses, shasta daisies and snapdragons.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Dickerson home.

Floral arrangements in the party rooms included an arrangement of summer roses on an antique chest and white daisies in a china pitcher on a side table. Guests were served in the party area adjoining the living room.

The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and featured crystal table appointments. A three tiered wedding cake was cut and served by Mrs. Henry Wilborne and Mrs. Thomas James poured fruit punch.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Tarboro.

The bride received her early education in Wilson and graduated from the Morganton School for the Deaf. Mr. James also graduated from the Morganton School for the Deaf and is employed by Long Manufacturing, Tarboro.

Hotel Housekeeper Gives Tips

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Newlyweds and singles frustrated with housekeeping might psych themselves into it by adopting a system similar to that used by professional maids. Few young people enjoy a role in the domestic arts.

"In fact, many women consider it beneath their dignity to do such work. We are having more and more difficulty getting young maids to work in hotels," says Ann Husek, a hotel housekeeper who has trained many maids in her 20 years with hotels in San Francisco, Chicago and Milwaukee.

"In my day, mother was a task master," she continued. "If you didn't do a job well you had to do it over until you learned how to do it properly. It became a challenge. But young people do not have the patience to do such jobs any more."

Yet running a house can be made interesting, once you develop some pride in your efforts, Mrs. Husek contends, and working people should develop an easy-does-it routine that includes a little picking up in the morning so the house will look neat when they return home in the evening. This should avoid facing a cluttered living room, unmade beds and dirty towels before going on to the task of cooking dinner.

Before going off to work, make the beds quickly, pick up the towels for the laundry and replace those that have been used, she advises. This should take only a few minutes. At the year-old Hyatt Regency in Chicago, where Mrs. Husek has a staff of more than 100 for the thousand-or-so rooms, maids are expected to clean and make two of the two-bed rooms in an hour.

To make chores easier, choose a weekly cleaning day when you will do a thorough washdown and cleanup, and then systematize the daily tasks. Soon you will find that the routine falls into place easily.

Here are some of her useful pointers:
... When you strip the bed to change the sheets, never put bed linens on the floor. It is poor housekeeping. Give the bed a chance to air with linens removed while you clean the bathroom.

... Clean fixtures, mirror, floor and tile. Done regularly, it will always look clean and bright, otherwise grime will take longer to erase. (The same applies to the kitchen range. Wash it each time and the soil will not become encrusted.)

... She suggests vinegar or ammonia in water as one of the best ways to clean mirrors and windows. Rust-stained porous surfaces can be helped with commercial stain remover. Bleach mixed with water will remove sediment from enamel.

... Some detergents work by delayed action. Place full-strength detergent on hard-to-remove soil of bathroom tiles or shower stalls and work it into the stain before rinsing.

... Bed linens should be placed in cold (not hot) water if stained and put through the regular machine wash cycle. Do not use bleach on polyester. If coffee or cola has stained a carpet, wash it frequently to bring up all stain.

... Remove shoes before you stretch out on a bedspread or quilt. "Shoe polish is one of the most difficult things to remove from a bedspread. Men often are so tired when they check into a hotel room they stretch out on the spread leaving shoe stains that require special cleaning."

... Bedmaking is not a difficult task once you get the hang of it. In making a bed, square corners of the sheet for best fit. If there is no pillow cover, put the case on, tucking in the bottom end up over the pillow and then fold the top end under. Place top sheet six inches from the head of the bed. The blanket may be placed on the bed and all three tucked together, bottom end first. A bedspread may be put over that.

Mrs. Husek, a widow who was pushed out of the delicatessen business when supermarkets became popular, went into the hotel business to support her two children. In some ways her work has become more difficult. In addition to the turnover in maids, she must run tests on everything she buys because of all the wash and wear things available and because so many things are misrepresented. All synthetic fabrics have built-in static and may transfer stains from one thing to another.

Doctor Gives First Aid Guidelines For Heart Attack Victims

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday, a man had a heart attack at the ball park. The only member of his family present was his small son. The police and hospital were notified immediately, but it took them 20 minutes to arrive.

Meanwhile, about 30 people stood around, but nobody seemed to know what to do. The poor man hasn't regained consciousness yet, and it's doubtful that he will.

Abby, I took first aid in school and was taught what to do for bee stings and poison ivy, but I can't remember learning how to administer first aid to a victim of a heart attack. It doesn't make much sense that it isn't taught in first aid, considering that heart disease is the nation's No. 1 killer.

You would be doing a great public service if you published instructions on what to do for a heart-attack victim until professional help arrives. I am sure many lives could be saved.

CONCERNED IN N.O.

DEAR CONCERNED: I consulted one of the world's foremost authorities, Donald B. Effler, senior cardiovascular surgeon at the Cleveland Clinic. His reply:

"The victim should lie flat. Closed chest massaging should be applied immediately. (This is manually compressing the victim's chest 50 to 60 times a minute.) Mouth-to-mouth breathing should be given at the same time if possible, so the complete first-aid treatment requires two people."

"If only one is present, these two procedures should be administered alternately. Victims have been known to be revived with this emergency treatment even after the heart has stopped beating."

"Victims of suffocating and drowning should be treated in the same manner. The two life-saving essentials, oxygen and circulation, can be provided without equipment in the above manner in an emergency situation."

"Unfortunately, our society has adopted a policy of 'non-involvement'! In our major cities, people ignore the cries of victims who might be saved from homicide, rape or even violent death. In the case you mention, it is likely that one or more competent people stood by when their intervention might have saved a life."

"It's difficult for the average citizen to believe that he can get into trouble by helping his fellow man—but he can! In some states, legal action has been taken against people who have administered first aid at the scene of an accident."

"In a number of states, the so-called 'good samaritan law' has been passed to prevent taking legal action against people who try to help others."

"In my own profession, it is common practice for doctors to drive away from emergency situations on highways where they could be of very real help. This is not 'inhumanity' on the part of the doctors; it stems from the bitter experiences of many whose emergency treatment has had serious legal repercussions. We live in a strange society!"

Very truly yours,
DONALD B. EFFLER, M.D.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old girl and would like your advice on a problem I am confused about.

Is it right for a girl my age to accept a present from a boy she has never met? Mike is 21, and a good friend of my cousin's. She said Mike saw a picture of me, and he just flipped over it, so he bought a present for me. His problem is that he is very shy.

Should I accept it or not?
CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: No. Tell your cousin that you would be pleased to meet Mike, but you don't accept gifts from strangers (even shy ones).

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

It Takes An Hour To Smell Real Perfume

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Being a woman, a perfume chemist and a registered pharmacist, careers often dominated by men, Nancy Hayden has given a lot of thought to what makes a fragrance a success when you wear it. She comes up with some new ideas that are helpful in the present economy.

"At perfume counters, women may try a number of scents and then decide on one they want to buy more or less on the spur of the moment."

"Instead they should wait until the perfume evaporates after it is put on a pulse point. It takes about 10 minutes for the 'top note' to evaporate, the first notes the olfactory senses pick up. Then you get the middle of the perfume and after about one hour the real perfume comes through," she explained.

Then, too, she says, if you are blonde, you have fewer oils in your skin so the lighter perfumes tend to lift off your skin better than, say, Oriental-type perfumes which are heavier. Oriental scents and heavier florals, woody or mossy notes are better for brunettes. In warmer weather there is more interest in lighter, citrusy scents with "green" airy top notes. Heavier scents with more base notes are likely to have more appeal in winter, she observed.

Some years ago, Mrs. Hayden originated a highly successful musk perfume by adding a "top note," the first olfactory sensations that the nose picks up. She is fragrance director of Jovan.

"Musk is very difficult to smell. What happens to most musk users is their olfactory sense is desensitized. They cannot smell it on themselves," she explains.

"People often write urzaso they have been buying musk for years but can no longer smell it. But it is really always there creating an aura."

One of her biggest challenges has been brewing scents for men, who are turned on, she says, by "animal scents and sweet vanilla-like notes." The most successful men's fragrances have incorporated sweetness, she claims. But men are not too sure of their own preferences and often choose a scent by asking "what is selling."

"The most important thing in the man's fragrance is to include notes that appeal to women," she says. "A man wants you to know he is wearing a fragrance."

She thinks women wear perfume basically for their own enjoyment. It serves to fill out the wardrobe. But most women do not have definite taste in fragrance. If they can smell the perfume they are satisfied. Often they will choose it because it smelled good on another woman, definitely the wrong way to select perfume, Mrs. Hayden says, because "it must suit one's own skin chemistry."

We live in an age when fragrances should be recognized by the olfactory senses. Somebody else should pick up a discernible quality. We want our good taste noticed in everything we wear.

In concocting perfumes the concept often precedes the fragrance, she says, although they put together a grass oil because "a green trend is here," one reason we hear so much about green in scents.

She tries not to duplicate what has been done in the trade. On the other hand she must ask herself whether "this is a masterpiece but will not have universal appeal." She had worked for perhaps nine months on one fragrance and one week before production the company decided not to manufacture it, she says. She wanted them to wait a while "but nobody wants to create and wait. They want initial sales returns."

Of the classic florals, lilac is the best seller, she says, with lily of the valley a close second and modern florals, third. Flowers that can be identified are far more popular than mixed flowers which have an uncertain identification in her opinion.

Mrs. Hayden, 32, blonde and beautiful, is married to an eye doctor. She was graduated from the University of Illinois College of Pharmacy and received her degree in chemistry from the University of Cincinnati. She worked in pharmacy while attending college but found that though "the hours were great, there was no place to go as a pharmacist unless you owned your own store."

On the other hand, industry has always fascinated her and she wanted to team her technical skills with marketing.

Homemaker's Haven

By Evelyn Spangler

School is out. Summer-the season children seem to love most. Long, sunny days which offer active youngsters a chance to release pent up energies. A time to run and jump and throw and climb. All those things that were discouraged by adults during winter months which had to be spent mostly indoors.

Such outdoor activities as these are not only great fun, but are also important to a child's development. Running and jumping, throwing and climbing are all skills which need practice if children's large muscles are to develop to their maximum potential. So it is important that adults—parents, grandparents, and others who will be spending time with children this summer—take a few precautions which will insure that outdoor play will be a safe, happy, and stimulating experience for their children.

Elaborate outdoor play equipment is not necessary, but it is important to be sure that any equipment is safe and in good working order. It is maintenance time for tricycles and bicycles. Check chains and pedals. Are they rusty? worn? Do they need replacing?

If you have a swing set, check for rust and nuts and bolts which may be out of place. Is the swing set properly anchored?

Look around for danger spots in the yard. Are there any bits of broken glass, rusty nails or other potentially dangerous objects about? Be sure that boundaries are clearly defined so that children know where they may and may not play.

Most children love small swimming and wading pools. These are fun but also high on a list of danger spots. Never water in such a pool. A small child can drown in less than one inch of water. And never, never leave small children alone in a swimming pool, no matter how small it is.

These are a few summer safety precautions. You will think of others. Think safety and fun for your children this summer.

Hemlines Flash!
Lowering hemlines? If the crease shows, make up a solution of two parts water and one part white vinegar. Test the solution for color fastness on a small fabric scrap before proceeding. Next, dab the crease line with the solution. Steam press over a press cloth. Allow fabric to completely dry before moving the garment. After fabric is dry, proceed with above steps until the hem is completely pressed with the vinegar solution.

For hard to remove hemlines, try this technique. Remember always test first on a scrap of fashion fabric. Pace two strips of aluminum foil on either side of the hem (shiny sides next to garment.) Dab the crease line with the vinegar solution. Steam press around the hem, remember to allow the fabric to completely dry before moving it.

Flash! Goods News For Consumers

North Carolina's Fair Trade Act was repealed by action of the legislature on April 23, 1975; repeal will become effective on July 1, 1975.

Sponsors of the repeal bill stated that fair trade practices now cost American consumers about $21 billion a year and increased prices 18 to 27 percent when comparing prices in states with and states without fair trade laws.

Fair trade practices are most frequently applied to high-margin items such as jewelry, electronic products, watches, and certain lines of home appliances and sports equipment. Now, more than ever, smart shoppers will find it to their advantage to do price comparison in shopping.

Totally Absorbed With Money

This year's Legislature came across as one totally absorbed in the problems of money. The lawmakers came to Raleigh in January expecting a tight revenue situation. Within a short time they found that even the projected revenues would be short and they would have to cut up to $300 million from the recommended budget.

From that point on the legislators were totally immersed in a process of studying not only capital improvements and program expansions, but also the ongoing programs of government. Because of this there was a feeling that the Legislature was doing little else.

But Ned Cline, respected Raleigh correspondent for the Greensboro Daily News, says that though special interests fared well this year, there were some actions never before experienced by the people of North Carolina.

"While special interests continued with many of their normal successes, lawmakers still managed to tune in more closely to middle and low income people than at any time in history," Cline wrote.

Cline cited reforms in Utilities Commission handling of rate cases, as an example of the people being heard by the legislators.

The Legislature also eliminated age as a factor in setting auto insurance rates and allowed some stores to sell milk at below wholesale to meet chain competition.

Both the Utilities Commission and the Milk Commission were expanded, which could bring new thinking to both boards.

It is too soon, of course, to tell how any of these moves will affect prices of electricity, telephones, milk or insurance but at least we have had a General Assembly which turned a small part of its attention to consumer interests.

That could be the opening of an era in North Carolina, and if it is, the 1975 General Assembly could be one of the most significant in a long time.

THIS AFTERNOON

Tar Heels Should Watch

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Savvy Tar Heels interested in what will happen to state programs and policies in future years, keep a close eye on legislative study groups.

This year, with all legislative studies lumped together under the single vehicle of a Legislative Research Commission, citizens with particular interests and concerns will be able better to keep track of discussions and research which will lead to legislative proposals in coming months and years.

A total of 20 studies will be carried out by teams consisting of both members of the General Assembly and interested citizens. Meetings will be open to the public, with interest parties able to provide information and opinions.

While the machinery for the study procedure is not complete at this time, scheduling and staffing will be under the general direction of the Legislative Services Office of the General Assembly.

20 Studies
Here are the studies scheduled:

—Problems of the hearing aid business: a probe of the manufacture, distribution, sale, and repair of hearing aids.

Sexual Assaults in North Carolina: analysis of statistics on reported rapes and disposition; follow-up of long-term impact of assault on the victim; study of social and psychological profile of rapist aimed at appropriate punishment and rehabilitation; reasons rape cases not reported or prosecuted; and review of criminal codes.

—Compensation for crime victims: problems involving a plan to compensate crime victims for injury or loss, including types of crimes and injuries for which compensation should be awarded, possible sources of aid, review of similar operating programs elsewhere.

—Sex discrimination: a review of state law and practices as they may deny equality of rights to females, and impact of passage of the Equal Rights Amendment to the U. S. Constitution.

—Emergency Medical Care: training, standards, examination and qualifications for volunteer rescue unit personnel and others engaged in emergency medical care.

—State-operated fisheries training vessel: need for fishing ships to teach vocational programs.

Prison Programs
—Using inmate labor in prisons construction: a look at construction of new prisons and expansion or conversion of existing facilities using prisoners to do the work. Other studies involved with the Department of Corrections include a probe of Prison Enterprises, and a look at rehabilitation and education programs for women in prison.

—Licensing boards: a look at use of funds, need for various licensing boards, whether such procedures restrict entry into the professions, and means of getting more people into needed professions.

—Local building inspectors: an examination of training opportunities, improved pay, etc., aimed at increasing professionalism and efficiency of building inspectors.

—Relationship between community colleges and the State Department of Public Instruction: a preliminary to splitting community colleges from supervision of the State Board of Education, possibly setting up a separate board and administrative unit.

Effect of tax-exempt government property on local government income: Does presence of state property benefit local government; does state property cost local government more in services?

—Land records: a study of data processing for land records, updating procedures, and considering establishment of a state registrar's office to oversee county deeds operations.

—Services for blind: a review of present approaches, and recommended improvements.

Magistrates: method of appointment, pay, and allocation to local areas.

—Problems in foreclosure law: a look at laws governing foreclosure, taking and sale of property.

Also, studies are slated on fire and casualty insurance rates, need for actuarial services in the Department of State Treasurer, and the operation of the state retirement system.

INSIDE REPORT

Ford's Energy Showdown

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Giddy with his latest veto triumph over the Democratic Congress, President Ford is now ready for a new round of energy hard-ball: force Congress to accept his plan to decontrol "old" oil, comprising about two-thirds of all domestic production, or watch him veto legislation extending the controls law, which expires Aug. 30.

On the performance of his recent veto battles with the overwhelming Democratic majority in the House—four battles and four wins for Mr. Ford—the President is now confident he could sustain a veto of the bill extending the basic price control authority, called the Emergency Petroleum Allocations Act. Moreover, Republican leaders in Congress have quietly informed the White House they will accept all political risks in such a new game of energy hard-ball.

Those risks are formidable. Allowing the controls law to expire would trigger a rapid rise in gasoline prices of between 10 and 16 cents a gallon, and a similar, but possibly smaller, increase in all other petroleum products.

The President's decontrol plan has been sitting on his desk for weeks waiting to be sent to the House and Senate. It would phase decontrol over a two-year period. Once the plan gets to Congress, either House can kill it by a majority vote.

Thus, the Democratic Congress holds the whip hand on presidential decontrol. But with the controls law expiring, Mr. Ford holds a more potent whip: power to veto the extension bill.

For weeks, presidential aides and energy czar Frank Zarb have hedged on whether to use hard-ball strategy to a major part of the Ford energy plan—use free-market mechanisms and the $2 oil import duty to raise the price of energy, reducing consumption and dependence on foreign oil.

Strongly tipping the balance toward tough action was House Commerce Committee approval of a decontrol plan last week regarded as totally inadequate in the White House. It would take effect gradually over five years and sets a $7.50 ceiling on almost all domestic oil (the price of uncontrolled or "new" oil is now about $11.50). In the short term, it would actually reduce the cost of energy—exactly reversing the Ford strategy.

Bargaining to avoid an explosive veto showdown will get serious when Congress reconvenes after its July 4 vacation for a mere three weeks before its August vacation. Mr. Ford will offer to stretch his decontrol plan over three instead of two years.

But because Mr. Ford now feels so confident he holds the upper hand, he won't offer much beyond that.

A footnote: Mr. Ford's willingness to risk an explosive increase in gasoline prices is partly based on private polls now under White House study showing that 50 per cent of the public is now aware of the energy "crisis" and wants something done.

Watergate's Shadow

The latest sign that the ghost of Watergate haunts the Republican party is top-level consideration now being given to Robert C. Moot, former comptroller of the Defense Department, to be treasurer of President Ford's 1976 election campaign committee.

A career government employee who started out in the Turman administration, Moot's credentials as a nuts-and-bolts certified public accountant are gilt-edged, exactly what is wanted by political advisers of Mr. Ford, squeamish about my financial hanky-panky.

The new campaign financing law bristles with legal strictures which require fastidious reporting of every penny raised and spent. Now 64 and recently retired as comptroller of Amtrak, Moot bears little resemblance to Hugh Sloan, the youthful 1972 treasurer of Richard Nixon's Committee to Reelect the President, who was often an unwitting tool of Nixon's top political henchmen.

Moot was hired by former Democratic Defense Secretary Clark Clifford in 1968 to run the comptroller's office and remained during Nixon's first term, after which he went with Amtrak.

Although legal papers filed with the Federal Election Commission 10 days ago listed David Packard, former Deputy Defense Secretary, as both finance chairman and treasurer, the two jobs will be split.

A footnote: Army Secretary Howard (Bo) Callaway is about to take over as Ford campaign chairman. With Assistant Defense Secretary Robert Ellsworth a candidate for a top campaign role, Moot on tap for treasurer, and Packard named as finance chairman, Mr. Ford's campaign HQ is assuming the proportions of a little Pentagon.

Where Are My Files

WASHINGTON—Everyone worth his salt in Washington believes the FBI, CIA, State Department and IRS keep voluminous files on him. Most people may pretend they're furious about anyone monitoring their activities. But in their hearts it's a great ego builder to know that Big Brother considers them important enough to keep tabs on them.

I have to confess I also have felt this way. In my fantasies I have always thought that there is a giant computer buried at Mt. Weather in the West Virginia mountains whose sole function is to keep track of everything I write, say or do. This computer is working day and night and is being fed by thousands of federal bureaucrats who have been assigned to me because I am considered the most dangerous man in Washington.

Soon after the Freedom of Information Act was passed, making it possible for American citizens to demand to know what data the government kept on them, I wrote letters to the FBI, CIA,

State Department and IRS requesting my files. I offered to pay the cost of research (each agency has its own rate card) and told them I expected the information within 10 working days as the law provided.

All of them responded to the request and said they would get back to me as fast as possible.

As I read their letters I imagined the chaos I was causing at State, Langley (CIA headquarters), the FBI and the IRS.

Meetings were probably going on to discuss how much information could be released without hurting national security.

I was sure Henry Kissinger would insist on dealing with my State Department files personally. Bill Colby at the CIA would have to call back Dick Helms from Teheran. Clarence Kelley would pull a dozen agents off the Patty Hearst search to comply with my request, and the IRS would have to stop giving rebates in order to make the 10-day deadline.

But 10 days later I heard from the four agencies. They all needed more time. Robert Young, whose title at the Central Intelligence Agency is Freedom of Information Co-ordinator, wrote, "I assure you that we are continuing to process your request, but this work has not yet been completed. We have received hundreds of requests, each which requires a thorough search of records and a thoughtful review of any material located."

Barbara Ennis of the State Department wrote that my file was at the Federal Records Center in Suitland, Md., and retrieval would take longer than expected.

Clarence Kelley of the FBI wrote me personally (at least

Other Editors Say Feathers Its Nest

(Wilson Daily Times)

Much is being written on this freespending Congress, but very little has been said on the subject of the way Congress voted $10 million in additional office expense allotments in secret, and without a floor vote. What the public is buying for the representatives is more staff, more free travel home, more money for district telephones and the financing for newsletters the members send to their constituents.

Efforts to undo the raise in office allowances provided by the House Administration Committee were not successful. Republicans have called for public debate and public voting on recommendations to increase office allowances in the House. Regardless of whether you are a Republican or a Democrat, the public's right to know is withheld when money is appropriated in secret, and without a recorded vote, and by a small committee behind closed doors.

Efforts have been made to rescind H.R. 457 which permits expense allowance benefits for members of the House of Representatives to be approved in secrecy. Regardless of the need, or lack of need, no bill which includes the spending of the taxpayers' money should be approved in secrecy.

House Speaker Carl Albert alibied: "The people sent us here to do a job for their behalf, and when you consider a difference of a few dollars to better represent them, they will understand."

The bill will increase House costs by $10 million. It is on its way to the Senate and Democrats are expected to dig further into the taxpayers' pockets.

Another point of disappointment is the reasoning advanced by House Speaker Carl Albert. During the present time when government is calling on the people to make sacrifices, the Congress, which is said to represent the people, should also do what is possible to hold down expenses. The $10 million to be added to the deficit is unnecessary and certainly discouraging to the taxpayers who are carrying the burden of the present economic situation.

Immigration To Israel Reduced

By DAVID LANCASHIRE
Associated Press Writer
TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) —

Fears of war, recession and Arab guerrilla attacks have severely reduced immigration to Israel. So few American Jews are moving here that the Jewish Agency is closing three immigration centers in the United States.

Immigration, which Israel considers vital, has been falling since the October 1973 Arab-Israeli war — from 56,000 in 1972 to 32,000 last year, official figures show — and only 6,000 Jews of various nationalities have moved to the Jewish state in the first five months of this year.

"Many people are afraid to come because they fear for their security, and because of Israel's economic problems and its quality of life," says Uzi Narkiss, a retired army general who heads the Jewish Agency's immigration department.

At the same time, more and more Israelis, fed up with inflation, high taxes, low salaries and frequent military service, are leaving Israel to look for higher living standards abroad.

Israel's living standards, which are comfortable but don't compare with conditions in the U.S. consumer society, also discourage Americans from moving to the Jewish homeland as they did at the rate of 7,000 a year in the heady times that followed the 1967 Middle East war.

Narkiss told The Associated Press that only 800 Americans settled in Israel between January and the end of May this year. "Most of them are young and they have come to face the challenges," he said.

The Jewish Agency, which handles the bulk of the newcomers, was closing its immigration bureaus in St. Louis, Mo.; Atlanta, Ga., and Union, N.J., Narkiss said, because of the slump and lack of funds.

Nine immigrant recruiting offices will keep working in other American cities.

But it is difficult to find an Israeli, even a onetime immigrant, who will admit that he or she is leaving Israel. Quitting the country is regarded as a social disgrace — even the Hebrew word for immigration is "descent" — and most Israelis who put their furniture up for sale claim they are going abroad only for a year or two.

A recent report to parliament, however, said that 20,000 citizens emigrated last

Risk In Beirut Strife

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
Lebanon's political schizophrenia, which has produced fratricidal strife three times this year, could menace the whole peacekeeping process in the Middle East with calamitous consequence for the industrial West.

The fighting between Moslem-Arab extremists and rightist Christians has raised the possibility of civil war. That could produce widespread tumult not unlike the situation in 1958, when President Eisenhower landed American troops to restore order.

A painful squeeze from the late Gamal Abdel Nasser's Syria on one side and allied Egypt on the other to force Lebanon into the Nasser camp provoked the 1958 crisis. This time the crisis is more of an internal one, though the volatile Libyan regime may be aiding the Arab extremists.

In any case, the situation is being deadly dangerous. Some feel the very existence of Lebanon as a sovereign state is at stake unless the new "government of reconciliation" can pull it together.

The background: Lebanon, ancient land of the Phoenicians, has been independent only three decades. It existed as an entity by accepting a fiction — that the population of 3 million was divided precisely half and half so that power could be shared by Moslems and Christians equally. The president must be Christian, the premier Moslem, the cabinet divided.

40 Years Ago Today

July 2, 1935

Hail, riding one of the most terrific thunderclouds visiting this part of the state, this summer, struck in scattering sections of Pitt County late yesterday afternoon, inflicting considerable damage to the tobacco crop, according to reports trickling into Greenville today.

The hail struck between Greenville and Grimesland and south of Ayden, doing damage on the farms of Ben Buck and L.W. Tucker near Grimesland and on the farms of Doe Loftin and Sam Manning south of Ayden.

Sam Buck was reported to have lost five acres of tobacco as hail stones ripped the leaves from the stalks. The full amount of damage could not be determined in other areas, but it was known that several acres were damaged.

The storm in Greenville was accompanied by a terrific electrical display and heavy rain. Lightning struck several parts of the county, damaging trees and telephone poles, but no loss of life has been reported from any section.

Precipitation was the heaviest of the summer and the help to crops was valued at a million dollars by crop observers throughout the county. Although two rains have visited various sections the past two weeks, tobacco and other crops were suffering from lack of moisture.

One area east of Ayden was reported to have gone without rain for nearly two months.

LIFTING UP THE EYES

As people go through the Louvre Museum in Paris they are generally so intent upon the priceless art treasures hanging on the walls or standing on marble pedestals that they fail to see that some of the best art in the museum is on the ceilings of the different rooms. The Louvre was formerly a royal palace, and the wealth of kings was placed at the disposal of artists engaged to decorate it.

We live in a world where we miss much of its beauty by not looking up. Few people in the city appreciate the beauty of the sky by day or the stars at night. We have become so busy that we seldom take time off to watch a sunset. We rush through life with very little time to drink in the natural beauty of our surroundings.

It was a wise psalmist who said, "I will lift up my eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord, who made heaven and earth."

Wounded By Montagnard Exiles To Shark Bite Western Washington

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Although Jim Krentz' parents have gone to see "Jaws," the hit movie about a shark's attacks on swimmers in Long Island, N.Y., waters, Jim has yet to see the film.

The 14-year-old youth has been on crutches for the last 10 days with a gash in his right foot that a doctor has diagnosed as a shark bite.

Krentz, a member of the Richland High School swim team before his graduation this year, was swimming off Windy Hill Beach near Myrtle Beach, S.C., the afternoon of June 23. "It was low tide and I was out about 50 yards, in water about up to my chest. All of a sudden I felt a tug. I could see the teeth in his mouth," Krentz said of the fish that attacked him.

He says he yanked his foot from the fish's mouth and headed for shore.

It took more than 50 stitches and a skin graft to close the wound. The doctor who treated the youth said he has fished for sharks near Windy Hill and estimated from the tooth marks that the fish which attacked Krentz was at least four feet long.

As for the movie "Jaws," Krentz says, "I'm going to see it as soon as my foot gets better."

Ryan.....

The army of 15,000, its officers mainly Christian, has seen its function as preserving that balance. But Lebanon has a tradition of private armies. Today they greatly outnumber the official army.

Since 1948, Arab-Israeli hostility has been the foundation of Lebanon's woe. Camps on Lebanese soil shelter some 300,000 Palestinian refugees.

The rightist Phalange party, made up mostly of Maronite Christians and drawing support from the middle class, has a heavily armed private army of about 6,000 men drilled in urban guerrilla warfare.

Many Christians see the Palestinians as a state within a state, eroding Lebanon's sovereignty and threatening to draw her into an unequal military clash with Israel. Guerrilla use of Lebanon as a base for attacks on Israel and Israeli retaliation raise the prospect of steady escalation.

The dangers of a permanent state of turbulence are manifold. If recurrent urban guerrilla warfare should become all-out civil war, the Moslems might rally against the Christians. Syria, which supplies weapons and other support to the Palestinian guerrillas, might intervene.

The balanced Moslem-Christian facade would be destroyed. Lebanon, a quasi-neutral in the Arab-Israeli conflict, would probably be swung into the anti-Israel camp.

That could mean Israeli action. The whole Arab East would be in an uproar. Another round of the Arab-Israeli war would be just about inevitable, with all its dire consequences in terms of another oil stoppage.

TRAVEL NOTE
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Motorists in the United States last year traveled a total of 1.26 trillion miles, according to the Highway Users Federation for Safety and Mobility.

By BILL GARDNER
Associated Press Writer
CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP) — Montagnard tribesmen from Irdochina, thrust into the modern world by defeat in a war they scarcely understood, will be resettled in remote mountain areas of western Washington, officials here say.

Their knowledge of the outside world is so little that for sheer survival they must remain together," Nick Thorne, director of the refugee program, says of the Montagnard refugees.

Thorne said the Montagnards will be placed in villages of their own in western Washington, where the altitude and climate most nearly match that of their lost homes on the Laos-Vietnam border.

Washington state officials said they knew of no such plan. Tom Pryor, head of the Washington state Office of Emergency Services which administers the state's Vietnamese refugee program, expressed surprise.

"I'm overwhelmed," Pryor said. "I believe they (Camp Pendleton officials) would be well advised to contact us about it so we could listen to the proposal and then say 'yes' or 'no.'"

The Montagnards, who fought the Viet Cong from their mountain homes, are completely unprepared to deal with the 20th Century, Thorne said. He said some had never been more than three miles from their villages before their flight to the United States. "They have lived a relatively immobile existence at a very primitive level," Thorne said. He added that he had recommended they be given jobs with the National Park Service because they are "damn good woodsmen."

He said residents of Washington state should have no fears that the tribesmen will become a public burden.

"They won't show up on the relief roles," Thorne said. "Their standard of living is not very expensive."

About 40 Montagnards have arrived at this Southern California refugee center and another 400 are expected, Thorne said.

Nixon Requests Tapes, Papers

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon says time is running short and he cannot adequately write his memoirs unless he obtains the tapes and documents left behind when he resigned as president.

"I am 62 years old and desire to complete the task of reviewing my presidential materials during my lifetime," Nixon says in a sworn affidavit. "Each month that these materials remain unavailable for that purpose can never be recaptured and thus represents an invaluable loss."

The Nixon affidavit was the latest legal document in his fight with the government over ownership of the 42 million documents and 880 reels of tape recordings amassed in the 5½-year Nixon presidency.

The affidavit was filed late Monday with a three-judge court considering Nixon's claim that Congress acted unconstitutionally by giving the government possession of the materials. The government and other parties involved in the battle have another month to respond.

"Even though for nearly 200 years former presidents of the United States have been considered the owners of their presidential materials, the materials of my administration have been impounded at a location nearly 3,000 miles from my home in California and under restrictions which prevent any access by me or my authorized agents..." Nixon said.

Nixon said the materials involved are of "almost limitless variety," including correspondence, memoranda, personal, official and political.

He said his associates would not have engaged in frank discussions if they had known that control of documents would be taken from Nixon.

"These discussions, if made public even now, would not necessarily jeopardize the national security or be embarrassing to the participants, but they would surely chill the willingness of persons in similar positions now and in the future to engage in such candid and robust discussions for fear that their thoughts too may be made public by congressional act," the affidavit said.

BATH TUB RING

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — The Greeks undoubtedly had a word for it—the equivalent of "bath tub ring." Infrared photographs of a bathtub taken by art historian Ethel S. Hirsch on research at Pylos, Greece, and analyzed by Eastman Kodak expert Thomas P. Hurgen disclosed that a dark band around the inside of the tub was left by the body oils of the unidentified bather.

Buchwald...

(Continued from page 4) his signature was on the letter, telling me it would take at least 30 days to find my files (no wonder they're having so much trouble finding Patty Hearst).

I decided to give them all the extension they asked for out of the goodness of my heart. I assumed there was so much data on me no agency could find everything in the 10-day period.

But I must say I was starting to worry about my government. Suppose I were a spy or a tax evader or an agitator. It seemed to me I could skip the country before anyone could get their hands on my files. I made up my mind that after I got the information they had on me, I would call for a complete investigation of all federal filing systems.

The following days were pleasant ones for me. I kept thinking of all those people in government poring over my data, working late into the night, collating the raw files that they had collected over a period of 26 years.

There would probably be shocks and gasps from the younger researchers who weren't used to handling such sexy stuff. But I figured if they were in the Freedom of Information business, they would have to get used to it.

Just as I was about to lose hope, the first file arrived. It was from the CIA. My hands trembled as I opened the large brown envelope. I started to read. (To Be Continued)

Pool For Pres. Ford Is Ready

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new White House swimming pool, paid for by public contributions ranging from two cents to $1,000, is ready to help President Ford beat the heat of a muggy Washington summer.

Ford, an avid swimmer who used to relax twice a day in a pool at his suburban home before moving to the White House, inspected the $66,840 pool Tuesday and said he was eager to take his first plunge.

After 1½ months of construction, the 22-by-54-foot pool behind the west wing of the White House was filled with water over the weekend and readied for the President.

The pool ranges in depth from three to nine feet and is equipped with a diving board and a hydrotherapy area. It has an electric heating system, adaptable for future conversion to solar power, for cool weather swimming.

The pool originally was estimated to cost $61,314. More than 450 persons made individual contributions for the project and a total of $118,495 was raised, according to an unofficial tally. The remaining money will be donated to the U.S. Olympic Committee, according to one of the project's sponsors.

A list of contributors made public Tuesday by William J. Schulling, a Washington banker who was treasurer of the fundraising White House Swimming Pool Committee, said 73 persons gave $1,000 each, the maximum contribution allowed.

The $1,000 contributors included Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, auto executive Henry Ford II, former Army football coach Earl H. Blaik and several GOP contributors, including Max M. Fisher of Detroit, Col. and Mrs. Edgar W. Garbisch and the J. Willard Marriott family foundation.

Seniors Try Their Skills In Business

CHICAGO (UPI) — With a little help from the government, several hundred elderly women here are turning their old-fashioned needlework skills into a business with a $300,000 a year potential.

Group members, whose average age is 75, work through a nonprofit corporation called Elder Artisans.

They crochet attractive little mice, ducks, roosters, donkeys and assorted other beasts which wholesale for $2.50 to $22, depending on size. They knit elegant pure wool coats (as warm as fur) which wholesale for $300, short wool jackets wholesaling for $125, and matching cloche hats.

Their work is of such quality it has been snapped up by top stores across the nation, including Neiman-Marcus, Bloomingdale's, Bergdorf Goodman, Garfinkels, Marshall Field, I. Magnin, L. S. Ayres and Bullock's.

The project started in 1972 in the mayor's Office for Senior Citizens. It still is dependent on the city for funding. However, Robert J. Ahrens, director of the city's senior citizens program, believes Elder Artisans can be self-sustaining and doing a $300,000 to $350,000 annual business within the next year or two.

Ahrens says the idea for the project started when people working with the elderly noticed beautiful hand-sewn objects for sale in the gift shops of public housing projects for the aged.

Orders from big department stores are filled by only 169 women, some of whom turn out one small animal a week and some, an animal a day.

The project is not yet self-sustaining. The women are given their raw sewing materials free, and are paid most of the wholesale price of their work. For example, they get $1.90 of the $2.50 price of a small animal that takes 45 minutes to make.

More women are being recruited for the project. Ahrens figures that 400 could produce enough work to bring in $300,000 or more a year, which would enable the project to break even.

The group already has a board of directors. It includes both Illinois senators, Adlai Stevenson and Charles Percy, and many of the city's top business leaders.

"These women are really proud to see their work sold in these stores," Ahrens says. "The one thing they have built up over a lifetime is their needlework. None of this is being sold on sympathy, it's being sold on quality."

He thinks there is potential for similar projects in cities across the nation.

"But to do that, you're going to need businessmen to take it over," he said.

Energy Saved In Recycling Of Aluminum

NEW YORK (AP) — The 2.3 billion all-aluminum cans Americans returned to recycling centers in 1974, a 44 per cent increase over 1973, represent a sizable savings in energy, according to Samuel L. Goldsmith, president of the Aluminum Assn.

The energy saving results from the fact that aluminum can be recycled at 5 per cent of the energy it took to make it in the first place and it can be recycled over and over again.

The aluminum cans returned in 1974 represent about 103 million pounds of aluminum, equivalent in weight to aluminum used in energy-saving storm windows for 760,000 homes or solar collector systems on 140,000 homes.

Move From Business To New Careers

By BARBARA BROWN
New Haven Register
NEW HAVEN (AP) — Tom Taylor, 44, was in his 16th year with IBM making $40,000 a year when he says he asked himself: "Why am I working so hard to make all this money? This life isn't working."
Ken Landall, 34, was vice president of a savings bank, owned a nice home and earned a good salary, when he says he found himself asking: "Is this all there is?"
John Rick, 34, was in his fourth year as a marketing manager with General Foods when he says it occurred to him that he did not love money and profit for their own sake.

Today all three are students at Yale Divinity School, completing their studies for ordination as ministers. They represent a special breed of seminarian that is older, wiser and more realistic about the world in which religion exists.

"I'm hoping that my dual perspectives will benefit me in a parish," said Landall, a second-year student.

When people ask him about his call, he replies: "It wasn't a 'bolt out of the blue' lightning flash, but a persistent thing that kept wearing away at me and finally made me realize that there's really something here, whether it's within me or outside me."

He said that during his 10th year with City Savings Bank of Pittsfield, Mass., he and his wife, Claudia, realized they were "in a rut."

"Neither of us felt comfortable in the role of bank executive and wife, having to join the country club and all that implies," he said.

Their experiences with the Congregational Church were supplying far more satisfaction at that point," he recalled. Mrs. Landall was Sunday School superintendent, Landall worked with the youth group and both sang in the choir.

Landall's life has undergone some radical reversals as a result of his 1973 application to the seminary. His wife has gone to work with Connecticut Savings Bank and assumed the breadwinner's role. He, on the other hand, has taken over many housewifely duties, including the care of the couple's two children.

"I've become an ardent women's liberationist," he said. "I wish that all men, at some time in their lives, could switch roles with their wives and see what it's like on the other side."

Tom Taylor, after 16 years with IBM, was in admirable financial shape. At the time of his resignation in 1972, he was a program manager whose responsibility for contracts representing a quarter of his division's business put him in "really big business."

"I felt I was in a position of moving up that corporate-executive ladder," he said, "and I guess one of the points is that I didn't like the looks of that ladder and what was involved in climbing it."

Taylor's three oldest girls were out of school and on their own; his youngest child, a son, was just approaching high school and it "seemed like a good time to make the move," he said.

With "no money put away, no securities," Taylor now goes to school full time and works part time at United Illuminating.

"But I feel so excited about life, about what we've done and what we're doing. The family has changed. We're a group again, people who can talk to each other."

Both Taylor and Landall are heading for the parish ministry. One step ahead of them is John Rick, who was ordained May 3 into the Episcopal priesthood at Christ Church in New Haven and will soon begin looking for a parish placement.

Rick is ahead of the others because he left business sooner. In marketing management at General Foods for four years, he eventually opted for the ministry because he felt business is for the purpose of profit-making. "And I couldn't come to like money or profit for their own sakes or even as standards of measurement." In 1971 he resigned and came to Yale Divinity School.

"The three years I've spent studying at Yale have been ones of increasing joy, in which I've become further aware and more confident that it was the right decision to make," he said.

Unlike Landall and Taylor, Rick is not married and has therefore been less concerned with the loss of security which such a decision involved. Hardest for him has been the switch in subject matter, from advertising strategy to theology, he said.

Similarity In Marking Independence

CHICAGO (AP) — Almost all countries of the free world set aside a day to celebrate their independence. And while the dates differ, the celebrations have a universal similarity.

Here in the United States, the Fourth of July is marked by parades, speeches, dedications and fireworks displays. The tradition dates back to 1777, when Independence Day was celebrated in Philadelphia.

Ships in the harbor fired 13-gun salutes to mark the occasion, while citizens on land lit bonfires, rang bells and ignited fireworks, according to World Book Encyclopedia. Ironically, music for the official dinner was provided by the Hessian band which had been captured by George Washington at Trenton, N.J.

In 1778, Philadelphia again hosted a special Fourth of July celebration. This time it commemorated both Independence Day and the ratification of the Constitution. The celebration featured a parade which stretched one and a half miles long.

European countries also celebrate their Independence Days with traditional ceremonies, parades and fireworks. In France, for example, Bastille Day is marked by parades and dancing in the streets. It is celebrated on July 14 to commemorate the storming in 1789 of the infamous Bastille in Paris, which housed political prisoners during the reign of Louis XVI.

In Israel, where the lunar calendar is used, the date of Independence Day changes. Israel declared independence on May 14, 1948, at the time the British Mandate over Palestine ended. In the years since, Independence Day has been celebrated on a number of dates including some in April.

Egyptians celebrate "National Day" on July 23. Cairo, the largest city, hosts the most elaborate celebrations, featuring parades through Liberation Square commemorating Egypt's freedom from foreign rule.

In Switzerland, the town of Gruyere adds to the traditional Independence Day ceremony with a procession through the town's ancient archway at sunset. The people of the town dress in their traditional colorful costumes and march along to the pealing of bells until the parade is climaxed with the lighting of bonfires on the hills surrounding the town and the singing of songs.

In Mexico, the President opens the national Independence Day celebrations on the evening of September 15. Standing on the balcony of the National Palace in Mexico City, he repeats the historic "Grito de Dolores" (Cry of Dolores), first issued by Miguel Hidalgo Y Costilla, priest and revolutionary leader who is recognized as the father of Mexican independence.

On September 16, 1810, Father Hidalgo issued the "Grito" from his parish at Dolores, sparking Mexico's long revolt from Spanish rule.

The Mexican Independence Day ceremony is closed with the President ringing the independence bell, the bell which Father Hidalgo rang in his church on that historic date. Bells are then rung throughout the city and fireworks are ignited in all of the state capitals throughout Mexico.

Control Shower Temperatures

SKOKIE, Ill. (UPI) — A control dial has been developed that is said to prevent sudden bursts of hot or cold water in the shower and tub. It adjusts water flow to changing conditions, including water pressure variations and water being drawn elsewhere in the house or apartment. The temperature control unit can be coupled with a kit to control water from the tub faucet as well as the shower head. It is made by the Powers Regulator Co. here.

Double-Faced Dyeing Utilized

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new dyeing technique for cotton textiles will permit manufacture of reversible fabric with different colors on each side. The method was developed by scientists of the USDA's Agricultural Research Service as an outgrowth of the wash-and-wear and durable-press finishes developed by the textile industry.

N. Dakota, Minnesota Crops Flooded By Rainfall

By JOHN SCHWEITZER
Associated Press Writer
BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — Four days of pelting rains have flooded more than a million acres of cropland in several North Dakota and Minnesota counties. Officials estimate losses will top $125 million.

The wake of torrential rains which have dumped up to 12 inches of water on southeastern North Dakota and western Minnesota since last Saturday. Scattered tornadoes and hail added to the havoc.

The National Weather Service predicted that occasional showers and thunderstorms will continue through Sunday, and it said extensive flooding could be expected as water drains off the fields into such rivers as the Red, James, Sheyenne and Maple.

He said a firm damage estimate will not be available for a week or more because some farmers cannot get into their fields, but he said a "wild guess" would put losses at several hundred million dollars — from lower yields, crop planting costs and damage to the ground.

VEPCO Told Convert Ten Of Plants To Coal

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP) — The Virginia Electric & Power Co. has been told to convert 10 oil-burning generating at three sites to coal as part of a plan to save 4.2 million gallons of oil a day.

The Federal Energy Administration issued orders Tuesday barring the use of oil or gas at eight generating plants run by four utilities in Region III.

which includes Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

Veeco was ordered to convert to coal four units at Chesterfield, four at Portsmouth and two at Yorktown.

Veeco and state officials have resisted the conversion, which FEA Region III Administrator Joseph A. Lasala said will save 4.2 million gallons of oil a day.

Similar orders were issued for units at two plants owned by Potomac Electric Power Co., three run by Baltimore Gas & Electric Co. and one belonging to Delmarva Power & Light Co.

The order requires the utilities to meet with U. S. Environmental Protection Agency representatives within 90 days to determine how environmental standards can be met in making the conversions.

EPA then has 60 more days to tell FEA what antipollution devices will be needed to meet air quality standards when the units are converted to burn coal.

After EPA clearance is granted, the FEA will set timetables for the utilities to complete the conversions.

Veeco, Virginia's State Corporation Commission and state attorney general's office opposed the conversion at a public hearing here May 27.

Stanley Ragone, a senior vice president with Veeco, said it would cost $150 million to convert all of the units to coal, a cost that would have to be borne by the utility's customers, who already are concerned over rising electric bills.

Veeco said it already is converting two units at Chesterfield back to coal because major capital expenditures aren't required.

Members of the SCC said the conversions would "act to the detriment of Virginia's citizens," and Asst. Atty. Gen. Frederick S. Fisher said, "No unnecessary costs should be imposed on Veeco."

More than $2,700 property damage resulted yesterday from a series of five traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 1 p.m. collision at the intersection of Charles and 11th Streets involving cars driven by Majorie Whitehurst Morris of 106 Lakewood Dr. and Joyce Owens Pettis of Greenville.

Investigators, who charged Mrs. Morris with failing to yield the right of way, estimated damage at $700 to the Morris car and $600 to the Pettis auto.

Describe Plight Of Fisk Univ.

NASHVILLE (AP)—Fisk University's financial troubles, revealed late last week, includes operating on credit from banks, cutting salaries 20 per cent and slashing its current operating budget 25 per cent, the Tennessee said in a copyrighted story in its editions today.

An endowment that was $10 million within the past decade has dwindled to $4 million. About $2 million of that amount is tied up as collateral for bank loans obtained by the university to meet expenses, the Tennessee said.

In addition to the 20 per cent salary cutbacks, 10 per cent of

Will Begin Prison Term

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A North Carolina man described by narcotics agents as a kingpin of one of this country's largest heroin smuggling rings has surrendered at the federal prison in Atlanta to begin serving a 19-year prison sentence.

Warden M. R. Hogan said Leslie "Ike" Atkinson, 49, of Goldsboro, reported Tuesday. Atkinson had been free under $1 million bond since his sentencing last month.

Atkinson was sentenced June 10 after pleading no contest to charges of mailing four pounds of pure heroin from Bangkok to Goldsboro last January. Authorities estimated that the heroin carried a $3 million street value.

Narcotics agents say Atkinson owned a bar in Bangkok where heroin shipments allegedly have been originating since the early 1960s.

One allegation advanced by agents, although never proven, was that heroin shipments from Thailand were concealed in the bodies of American soldiers killed in Vietnam and flown to the United States.

Accepted For College Entry
William Newton Howard Jr. has been accepted for admission to Campbell College at Buies Creek.

Howard will join approximately 700 other freshmen and transfer students for Campbell's fall term beginning August 25.

Howard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W.N. Howard Sr. of Greenville.

Electrical Shock Fatal

FARMVILLE—James Andrew Barrett, 27, of Rt. 1, Farmville was accidentally electrocuted yesterday afternoon while working on the farm of Jimmy Joyner.

Pitt County Coroner E.W. Harvey said Barrett died instantly. His body showed seven or eight electric burns, he said.

Witnesses said Barrett and his brother, Ronald, were putting a tarpaulin over a metal frame to serve as shade for workers around a tobacco barn, located on Highway 13 about a mile from the Lang's Crossroads intersection of Highway 264 and Highway 13. Andrew secured a metal hinge to a wire and was attempting to throw it across the frame to hold the canvas in place. He threw too high, Harvey said, and the wire touched an electric line about five or six feet above the frame. He was knocked to the ground dead, Harvey said.

The accident occurred about 1 p.m.

Arrest Man In Robbery Case

Detective Capt. L.J. Russell said two men were arrested Saturday and charged with robbery in connection with the incident.

Parker, Capt. Russell said, was taken into custody by officers about 10:30 p.m. at his residence and placed under a $2,000 bond pending hearing of the case in court.

The police official said the other two men arrested in connection with the case, Danny Moore Smith of 1215 Battle St. and Bobby Joe Dupree, of 705 Carolina Ave., were placed under $5,000 bond each.

Highway Awards

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina will have record highway construction awards during this calendar year. State Transportation Secretary J.F. Alexander said Tuesday that the state will award near $275 million.

He said North Carolina awarded contracts for $239 million of federal funds for highway construction for the fiscal year ended June 30. Alexander said that's three times the normal amount.

He said the state was originally allotted a maximum of $86 million in federal money for fiscal 1975.

More money was made available in February when President Gerald Ford released an additional $2.2 billion dollars of impounded highway funds.

Alexander said the North Carolina Highway Improvements Program was a major factor in the state's being able to get the added federal money. The Board of Transportation and Gov. Jim Holshouser formally adopted that program.

Actor's Son Shoots Self

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — The son of actor Dan Dailey committed suicide by shooting himself in the mouth outside a local hospital shortly after seeking emergency treatment there, police said.

Mrs. F.J. Roberts of St. John's Hospital said Daniel J. Dailey III, 27, went to the hospital office shortly before 4 a.m. Tuesday and "asked for directions to an emergency hospital. Since we are not an emergency hospital, we directed him to Santa Monica Hospital six blocks away, which has 24-hour emergency service. He was fine when he left here."

She said young Dailey did not say why he wanted emergency treatment.

Police Sgt. Richard Johncola said the young man's body was found on the front lawn of St. John's early Tuesday. He said a note was found beside the body, but the contents were not disclosed.

"We are satisfied that the wound was self-inflicted," Johncola said.

An autopsy was scheduled for today.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY DIANE
I Honestly Love You
Hope To See You Soon!

Analysts noted uneasiness among investors looking ahead to the weekly announcement by New York's First National City Bank of its prime rate plans.

There were expectations that the recent upswing in open market money rates would prompt Citibank to raise its basic charge on business loans from the current 6 1/2 per cent level to 7, and possibly to 7 1/4 at the end of next week.

Rising interest rates are usually an adverse influence on stock prices for two reasons—they mean increased costs of doing business, and they add to the attractiveness of interest-bearing investments, which compete with stocks for investors' funds.

Asarco was the most active issue on the Big Board, down 1/2 at 18 1/2. An 86,600-share block of the stock moved at that price.

In the glamor sector, Philip Morris dropped 1 1/2 to 52 1/2; Digital Equipment fell 1 1/2 to 114 1/2; Johnson & Johnson was off 1/4 at 95, and IBM, which announced some price cuts Tuesday, slipped 2 1/4 to 206 1/4.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index gave up .43 to 50.25 in the first hour.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .52 at 92.72.

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (AP)—An Oklahoma man being held as a material witness in the shooting deaths of two FBI agents allegedly bragged to friends about the gun battle in which the agents and an Indian died.

An affidavit filed Tuesday in Rapid City by Asst. U.S. Atty. Lawrence Von Wald alleges that David Sky, 20, of Claremore, Okla., remarked to friends two days after the gun battle on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation, "You should have been there, we had fun."

FBI agents who interviewed Sky, also known as David Ski and David Scott, alleged in the affidavit that Sky made the remark after walking from Ogala, where the shootings occurred, to Wounded Knee.

Sky is being held under $50,000 bond in the Pennington County Jail and will testify later this month before a federal grand jury.

The affidavit said Sky was arrested by Bureau of Indian Affairs officers Saturday in the Ogala area and charged with vagrancy. That charge was dismissed Monday in Pine Ridge and Sky was taken into custody by the FBI.

FBI spokesman Tom Coll said Sky is being held because he probably knows who was involved in the shootings or might have witnessed them.

The affidavit said Sky was placed at the site of the shootings through the help of a professional dog handler who had one of his tracker dogs sniff Sky on Monday.

The FBI said it does not know whether Sky might have been a participant in the shootings or an observer, or whether he was just in the area when the shootings occurred.

Coll said the FBI search of the reservation for 16 suspects in the slaying of FBI agents Ronald Williams and Jack Coler is "winding down." He said two South Dakota National Guard armored personnel carriers and several jeeps were returned to the Guard Tuesday.

Coll said some 150 agents remain on the reservation, but some of them may be returning to their home bases later this week if the search fails to yield any of the suspects.

Meanwhile, Indians began a traditional Sioux wake for Joseph Bedell Stuntz, 24, an Idaho Indian who was found dead on the reservation following the Williams-Coler slayings.

The Indians refused to let newsmen and photographers witness the burial ceremonies, which were to take four days.

FBI agents are continuing their search of the 3,150-square-mile reservation for 16 persons wanted in connection with the deaths of Williams and Coler, both 28.

Williams and Coler were shot down as they approached a farmhouse on the reservation to serve arrest warrants on four men sought in connection with an alleged kidnaping.

BIA police and FBI agents rushed to the scene after a radioed call for aid, but occupants of the farmhouse slipped away under cover of darkness after two attempts to negotiate their surrender failed, a BIA spokesman said.

Stuntz' body was later found in the farmhouse. He had been shot.

The BIA spokesman said a woman attorney who was involved in one of the negotiating efforts said there were about 16 men and eight women and children in the house.

she gave them or the groceries it was to buy.

At the store, the officers watched a 10-year-old with six to eight children waiting in line — drop a penny in the jar. It landed in the cup and Robert J. Lee, a clerk at the store, paid the child three cents.

Lee was arrested and charged with violating a section of the city code forbidding gambling. He was later released on $100 bond.

"Robert is a terrific guy and a good friend of mine," Tollison said.

The store owner has hired an attorney to defend Lee, because "really the blame belongs to me and not Robert."

Lee's case is scheduled to be heard in city recorder's court next week.

Anderson, S.C. (AP)—"It was my idea," said A. L. Tollison. "I had the little game set up for the kids. I accept full responsibility."

The little game Tollison set up was a water-filled glass jar with an overturned cup in the bottom. Children lined up all day Sunday at Tollison's Grocery to drop a coin through a slot in the jar top.

If the coin landed atop the cup at the bottom, triple the value of the coin was the prize. If the coin missed, it stayed in the jar. The kids loved it.

But Patrolmen Charles Griffin and Jim Sosebe of the Anderson Police Dept. received a call from a mother whose children returned from the store empty-handed — without the $3

Pirates Top Seahawks For 2nd Straight

By WOODY PEELE
 Reflector Sports Editor
 Terry Durham held UNC-Wilmington in check long enough for his Pirate teammates to jump off to a lead, and the East Carolina baseballers went on to record a 7-4 victory over the Seahawks last night. The win was the second in a row for the Pirates at home, and raised their record to 4-6 in the league. Wilmington is now 5-6. Glen Card helped the Pirates on the basepaths, slaming out two hits in four trips, one of them a two-run triple. He had three runs batted in during the game. Durham had a perfect game going through four innings, but Wilmington tagged him for four hits in the fifth as the Seahawks batted around and got three runs, leaving the bases loaded.

Their other run came in the sixth. The Bucs got three double plays to help them out of jams, while Wilmington came up with a pair that saved them further grief. East Carolina scored runs in the first, fourth, and fifth inning, pushing over four in the fifth to put the game away. Durham, in marking up the win, gave up nine hits. He walked four and struck out three.

East Carolina jumped into the lead in the first with a run. Geoff Beaton led off with a single to left and Steve Bryant walked. Robert Brinkley sacrificed them up, and a hit by Alan Smith scored Beaton. A double play then got the Seahawks out before more damage could be done.

The game sailed along without either team getting another runner until the fourth, when the Bucs picked up two more runs. With one down, Smith and Howard McCullough both walked. Smith moved to third on a passed ball, but courtesy runner Stuart Haithecock held first. Then, after a fly-out, Card slapped a single into left, scoring Smith. Both he and Haithecock advanced when the leftfielder fumbled the ball. Ken Gentry was hit by a pitch, loading the bases and a walk to Eddie Lawing forced in Haithecock for a 3-0 lead.

Durham's bid for a perfect outing vanished in the fifth as Larry File opened the frame with a slap into right. Randy

The Bucs didn't let it stay tied long, coming up with four runs in the bottom of the inning. With one down, Brinkley and Smith both drew walks. McCullough singled driving in Brinkley. Haithecock came on to run for McCullough again. Addison Bass singled to right, driving in Smith. Card then sent a shot up the alley in right center, scoring both Haithecock and Bass. Card pulled in with an easy triple on the hit.

Wilmington got one more run, in the sixth. File again opened up with a single and Ourt got a hit. Hollins grounded into a double play, but File moved to third. Good then came up with a three-bagger for the Seahawks, scoring File.

The Seahawks put runners in scoring position twice more, but the Bucs held them off the rest of the way to seal the victory. East Carolina travels to Lousiburg on Thursday for its next outing.

Dodgers Win The Fight, But Not Game As Padres Take 10-1 Victory

By KEN RAPPOPORT
 AP Sports Writer
 The Los Angeles Dodgers are hitting for a change — but this time it's with their fists, not their bats. The Dodgers, no doubt bothered by their poor performance of late, took out their frustrations on the San Diego Padres Tuesday night with a bench-clearing brawl. The Dodgers won the fight, but lost the game, 10-1. "The brawl might spur 'em on, make them a better ballclub," said Dodger Manager Walt Alton, whose team lost its sixth game in the last seven,

"but I sure hate to lose Joe Ferguson for eight weeks." Ferguson, the muscled Los Angeles catcher who was one of the main event sluggers in the eighth-inning bout at Dodger Stadium, suffered a fractured wrist as a result of the blood-letting. Ferguson was thrown out of the game along with teammates Willie Crawford and Dave Lopes. San Diego's John Grubb, another of the free swingers, also was forced to leave the field. The fight apparently stemmed from an incident in the top half of the eighth when the Padres attempted to squeeze in a run, although they already held a 10-1 lead. Dodger reliever Charlie Hough, obviously thinking the run unnecessary, hit batter Dave Winfield with a pitch. Ferguson had to restrain the Padre slugger from challenging Hough. In the bottom of the eighth, San Diego relief pitcher Bill Greif came back at the Dodgers, throwing four pitches dangerously close to Crawford. After the last one almost hit his ribs, Crawford stormed out to the mound and blasted Greif off his feet with some hard punches. Then Ferguson and the others jumped into the fray. Elsewhere in the National League, the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Philadelphia Phillies 6-5; the Cincinnati Reds tripped the Houston Astros 8-7 in 15 innings; the Pittsburgh Pirates routed the Montreal Expos 10-4; the Chicago Cubs nipped the New York Mets 5-4 in 10 innings and the San Francisco Giants pounded the Atlanta Braves 9-1.

While the Dodgers were using their fists, the Padres were using their bats. Mike Ivie cracked a grand slam homer to key an eight-run fifth inning and also singled home a run. In all, the Padres sent 12 batters to the plate, 10 of them getting on base. The eight runs and eight hits were the most in one inning against the Dodgers all season. Cardinals 6, Phillies 5
 Bake McBride drove in three runs with a pair of singles and stole two bases to lead St. Louis past Philadelphia. Al Hrabosky, the Cardinal relief ace appearing in his fourth straight game, recorded his 12th save of the year. Reds 8, Astros 7
 Joe Morgan, who homered earlier, singled home a run in the 15th inning as Cincinnati won a marathon battle with Houston. The Reds tied the game 7-7 with a three-run ninth. Pirates 10, Expos 4
 Bill Robinson drove in three runs to key Pittsburgh's 17-hit attack as the Pirates buried Montreal. Rookie John Cande-

Stevens Again Is Top Player

Charlie Stevens continued his assault on North Carolina Collegiate Summer League pitching last week. The rising junior, a native of Princeton, smacked seven hits in 14 trips to the plate including two doubles and a home run to earn, along with UNC's Bernie Menapace, "Player of the Week" honors for the third week of the season. In doing so, Stevens also had four runs batted in, to push his league-leading total to 19 in that department. Lousiburg College, last year's regular-season champions for whom Stevens toils, split four games in keeping its record at the .500 level, at 5-5. Stevens shares the honor with Menapace, who was four for seven at the plate, scored four runs, had three runs batted in, two stolen bases and a pair of doubles, along with one triple in the weekly totals. Menapace's hitting performance has aided the Tar Heels in remaining in the top spot in the Summer League with a 7-3 record. Coach Mike Roberts has the Tar Heels just "runnin' and gunnin'" and they have been improving in some areas with almost every game. Terry Durham, the Pirate statistical pitching leader, has not pitched for ECU since a game two weeks ago at UNC. The 6-4 righthander suffered what he called a "strained elbow" and his future status was uncertain at this writing. (Editor's note: Durham pitched a 7-4 victory over UNC-Wilmington last night for the Pirates.) The Pirates, meanwhile, played Tuesday night, will play Friday through Tuesday of this week, and Pirate head coach George Williams hopes things will pick up for his already-thinned pitching staff. "I told 'em at the start of the season not to lookin' the dugout in the seventh inning" said Williams. "Because there wasn't that much relief help available. Coming up this week will be probably our strongest test of the season." Williams has gotten pitching support from Pete Conaty, who didn't play for the Pirates in the spring. Conaty, it was reported, throws harder than anyone on the Pirate staff, but is still working on learning the fundamentals of being a pitcher and not merely a thrower. What ever the case, with the Pirates' non-stop schedule coming up this week, Conaty is bound to be called upon.

College View Throws Block In HB's Path

College View took two wins over Home Builders while North Carolina National Bank and Pepsi-Cola fell victim to the 10:30 blackout at the Jaycee field last night in Babe Ruth League play.

The Builders lost the first game. It was a completion of a game that was called because of the curfew, 9-3. When it was called, College View held a 9-2 lead in the sixth inning. Home Builders got one in the last of the seventh as Gary Allen doubled and scored on a hit by Lance Weatherington.

Morrow On Top

Vikki Morrow Karate continued to pace the Junior Putters of American league at the Putt-Putt with a 20 1/2 to 9 1/2 victory over Jerry's Sweet Shop yesterday. Home Builders downed Jefferson Standard, 22 1/2 to 7 1/2, while Eckerd's took a 20-10 win over J. H. Hudson. Waffle House beat Kwik-Pik, 18-6, to snap its loss string and gain its first victory.

Morrow continues to lead the league with a 7-1 record. Eckerd's is second at 6-2, followed by J. H. Hudson, Home Builders and Jefferson Standard, tied at 4-4.

L. Austin and Henry Wooten forced in two more runs. Mike Adams relieved Toates on the mound but could not stop the leak as he walked Reggie Spain and Timmy Harris bringing in two more CV runs. Jeff Aldridge reached on an error scoring Wooten and ground out scored Spain.

Home Builders battled back to tie the game in the third. But walks led to College View regaining the lead, 8-7, in the fourth. College View iced the win as it rallied for six more runs in the sixth. Michael Shank and Aldridge cracked doubles in the sixth driving in three runs.

Home Builders had tied the game 8-8 in the top of the sixth as Toates scored on an error and got one in the seventh.

Pepsi was holding a slim, 3-1, lead over NCNB in the bottom of the fifth inning when the lights went out ending the game, temporarily. The game was tentatively scheduled for completion on Thursday.

NCNB scored first getting a run in the first. Doug Selby walked and scored when Jerome Ross reached on an outfield error. Pepsi got it back in the bottom of the inning as Danny Hester walked, stole second, moved to third on Will Sanderson's hit and scored on a sacrifice.

Pepsi went ahead in the third on two runs. Greg Lee walked and moved to third on Ray Kilpatrick's hit. An error on the play scored Lee. Kilpatrick took third on a wild pitch and Kevin Haut sacrificed him in.

NCNB got two men on in the fourth by walks and two on in the fifth by a double and a walk. Neither time were they able to score.

Then the lights went out. Play will resume in the bottom of the fifth with Pepsi coming to bat.

Fire Fighters Nearing Title

Four runs in the first inning powered the Fire Fighters to a 6-3 win over Taff Office and into at least a tie for the title of the Senior Babe Ruth League, last night.

In the second game of a doubleheader, Farmville beat University Kiwanis, 4-1.

The Fire Fighters will play Ayden-Griffon, the only team within striking distance this Thursday.

The Fighters got all they needed in the first. Clennel Streeter walked as did Joey Baggett. A passed ball moved both runners up and another scored Streeter. Randy Adams walked and stole second while Baggett was stealing home. Gene Forrest singled Adams to third and a passed ball scored Adams. Greg Coward singled moving Forrest to third and Donnie Cox drove in Forrest with a hit.

Taff got a run in the second. The Fire Fighters added two in the sixth. Taff got two in the seventh.

In the second game, Kiwanis pitcher Rick Harrell threw a three hitter at Farmville but still lost. He struck out 13 and walked four.

Neil Gordon led off the first for Farmville reaching on a catcher's error after striking out. Gary Cowan walked and both were sacrificed up. Passed balls scored both runners.

David Cochran singled to start the second and after moving to third on an error and a fielder's choice, he scored on passed ball. Farmville added one more in the third.

The only Kiwanis run came in the seventh as Larry Boyette reached on an error and scored on Howard Vainwright's hit.

Graniteers In Close Win

David Holley walked to force in the winning run in the bottom of the sixth and the Graniteers cut off a rally by Cox Realty in the seventh to preserve a 5-4 Babe Ruth Prep League win.

The Graniteers finished the season with a 10-1 record.

Graniteers pitcher Todd Galloway won his sixth game against no losses hurling a six-hitter at Cox. He walked three and struck out four.

Cox scored first getting two runs in the top of the fourth. Eric Deal reached on an error and stole second. Liles Stott was safe on a fielder's choice and an error let Deal score and Stott go to second. Hits by Mike Moye and Terry Skinner drove in Stott.

The Graniteers battled back to take the lead in the bottom of the fourth. Ricky West reached on an error as did Lynn Jackson. Jeff Worthington singled leading the bases and Melvin Stocks walked forcing in West. Chip Davis reached on a fielder's choice scoring Jackson and leaving the bases full. Al Shackelford reached on a fielder's choice forcing Worthington at the plate. Holley singled driving in both Stocks and Davis.

Worthing led off the sixth with a single to center and walks to Galloway, Shackelford and Holley brought him in.

Cox Realty rallied in the top of the seventh cutting the lead to 5-4. George Wilson and Steve Hawkins both singled. Junior Hardee grounded out scoring Wilson and a double by Roger Clemmons drove in Hawkins. The next two batters went down ending the game.

ASHE DOWNS BORG TO GAIN SEMIFINALS—Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., returns the ball to Bjorn Borg of Sweden Tuesday in the Wimbledon lawn tennis championships. Ashe won, 2-6, 6-4, 8-6, 6-1 in the quarterfinal contest. (AP Wirephoto)

Connors Says Nastase Aided His Victories

By JEFF BRADLEY
AP Sports Writer
WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Fiery Ili Nastase is no longer competing at Wimbledon this year, but he may be a prime reason why Jimmy Connors is the odds-on favorite to retain his singles' title here.

Connors has reached the semifinals without dropping a set and says he owes much of that success to the controversial, temperamental Romanian, an early casualty in this year's competition.

One of his secret weapons, he says, is a daily practice with Nastase, his close friend and doubles partner. "Every day he plays different," said Connors, explaining why he's able to sharpen his game against any sort of tactics.

Connors, 22, powered his way past Mexico's stylish Raul Ramirez 6-4, 8-6, 6-2 Tuesday, making some mistakes but playing what he described as "really tough tennis" when he needed to.

The defending champion is one of three American semifinalists who will play on Thursday. He'll face fellow left-hander Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., who survived a testing five-set quarterfinal against Guillermo Vilas of Argentina to win 6-4, 5-7, 6-8, 6-2, 6-2. Tanner relied on his big serve to ace Vilas 23 times.

The other men's semifinalist is between veterans Arthur Ashe, 31, from Miami, and 30-year-old Australian Tony Roche. Ashe beat Sweden's Bjorn Borg 2-6, 6-4, 8-6, 6-1, Tuesday, with Borg complaining later of a groin injury. Roche reached the semis by outlasting Tom Okker of The Netherlands, 2-6, 9-8, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2.

The top two American women of the past 15 years — Billie Jean King of San Mateo, Calif., and defending champion Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. — meet in a singles semifinal today.

The other women semifinalists are Australians Margaret Court and Evonne Goolagong Cawley. All four are former Wimbledon champions.

Thompson Thinking

ATLANTA (AP) — David Thompson, the No. 1 draft pick of the National Basketball Association, has gone into seclusion to decide whether he wants to play with the Atlanta Hawks of the NBA or in the rival American Basketball Association, says his attorney.

Thompson has decided offers from Atlanta and the ABA are acceptable, and probably will make his decision known later this week, says attorney Larry Fleischer.

"David finds the offer Atlanta made acceptable on all terms, and that of the ABA equally acceptable," Fleischer said of the North Carolina State star.

The Hawks already lost their No. 3 choice, Marvin Webster of Morgan State, to the Denver Nuggets of the ABA. Thompson was picked in the ABA draft by the Virginia Squires.

The Atlanta club is also beset with ownership problems.

Hawks owner Tom Cousins announced last month the sale of the majority share of the club to Simon Selig Jr. But Selig backed off when the NBA announced it was fining the Hawks $400,000 for illegally signing Julius Irving three years ago.

Former Hawks President John Wilcox asked a meeting of the NBA Board of Governors Tuesday to remove from its agenda a request for approval of sale of the club to Selig. The request was interpreted by some to mean the sale of the club has fallen through.

But Selig said not so. "It is my understanding that this item of business was removed from the agenda because the Board of Governors will not approve the transfer until a contract is signed," he said. "While it is true that I have not signed a contract, I am still hopeful that things can be worked out."

Orioles, Brewers In Position To Challenge

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Last weekend, the Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees only had eyes for each other. Suddenly, they're eyeing the Milwaukee Brewers and Baltimore Orioles, as well.

The Orioles outslugged the Red Sox 10-6 while the Brewers were defeating the Yankees 6-3 Tuesday night, further tightening the race in the American League's "East Division. The Red Sox lead the Brewers and Yankees by one game, with the defending champion Orioles just 6½ games out.

Milwaukee, which begins a three-game set against the Red Sox tonight with a doubleheader, trailed by five games two weeks ago while the Orioles were nine games back as recently as last Friday.

"Elsewhere, the Detroit Tigers downed the Cleveland Indians 6-2. The Oakland A's trounced the Chicago White Sox 10-1 and opened an eight-game bulge in the AL West over the Kansas City Royals, who bowed to the Texas Rangers 5-4. The Minnesota Twins routed the California Angels 12-3 after dropping the doubleheader opener 4-3 in 10 innings.

Brewers 6, Yankees 3

The Brewers posted their fourth consecutive victory behind the five-hit pitching of Jim Colborn and Rick Austin. George Scott had two doubles and a single, drove in a run and scored twice while ex-Yankee Mike Hegan drove in two runs with a single in the two-run first inning and a grounder in the Brewers' four-run third.

"I don't think we're hot," Colborn said, even though the Brewers have won 11 of 14 and 16 of 22. "This is the way we should play."

Orioles 10, Red Sox 6
Don Baylor broke a tie with a three-run homer off Reggie Cleveland in the seventh inning after Lee May singled and Paul Blair beat out an infield hit. May belted a run-scoring triple in the fourth, singled home a run in the eighth and also had a double. Bernie Carbo homered for the Red Sox.

Grant Jackson, the fourth Baltimore pitcher, ended a bases-loaded threat in the sixth by retiring Fred Lynn on a foul pop with the score tied 6-6 and worked 31-3 scoreless innings to earn the victory.

"We're starting to put some runs on the scoreboard once in a while," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver. "It's beginning to look as if the ball is finally starting to drop for us. That's been our biggest problem all season.

Tigers 6, Indians 2
Mickey Lolich pitched a three-hitter — one in each of the first three innings — and Ron LeFlore hit a two-run homer. Lolich upped his career mark against Cleveland to 30-15, most wins of any active pitcher against the Indians.

A's 10, White Sox 1
Vida Blue allowed four hits and one run — Carlos May's second-inning homer — in eight innings in coasting to his 12th triumph and Joe Rudi rapped three run-scoring singles as Oakland snapped the White Sox' nine-game winning streak, longest in the majors this season.

Claudell Washington had two singles, stole two bases and drove in a run and during the game A's owner Charles O. Finley announced he was giving the 20-year-old outfielder a $10,000 raise. Washington went into the game with a .304 average, 42 runs batted in and 29 stolen bases.

Rangers 5, Royals 4
Mike Cabbage homered and Mike Hargrove and Jim Sundberg rapped out three hits apiece for Texas. Ferguson Jenkins got the win despite three home runs by John Mayberry and one by Harmon Killebrew.

Angels 4-3, Twins 3-12
Mark Wiley, a 27-year-old rookie, gained his first major league victory by scattering eight hits in the nightcap while Rod Carew drove in five runs and Steve Braun and Steve Brye homered for Minnesota.

The Angels took the opener on a 10th-inning homer by Ellie Rodriguez.

Manila Thriller Next For Ali

By KENNETH L. WHITING
Associated Press Writer

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — "I want you like a hog wants slops," Smokin' Joe Frazier crooned to heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali.

Frazier made this elegant expression of desire after Ali said Tuesday that his eight-day-old retirement announcement was inoperative.

Ali had insisted he was sick of the boxing rat race ("the only thing good about this is the money") and planned to hang up his gloves after disposing of British challenger Joe Bugner. Nobody — except perhaps Ali — seemed to expect that the 33-year-old titleholder was serious.

Within hours after outclassing the 25-year-old Bugner in a 15-round decision victory, Ali was exchanging more or less friendly insults with Frazier as the publicity campaign got under way for their fight in Manila on Oct. 1.

Promoter Don King has dubbed their third match "Superfight Three." Ali terms it the "thriller in Manila." Frazier hasn't given it a name, promising only to knock Ali's block off.

"That chicken ain't nothing but feathers and I'll pluck him," Frazier added.

Ali flew out of Kuala Lumpur Wednesday for a three-day rest in the East Malaysian State of Sabah, on the Island of Borneo, as guest of the government.

He announced tentative plans to stay in Southeast Asia to keep in shape and remain acclimatized until the Frazier fight.

However, a member of the Ali camp said Wednesday that this plan was subject to the same chance of change as the retirement.

The Manila fight was expected to have much the same format as Ali vs. Bugner: a mid-morning contest to allow for closed-circuit theater-TV in the United States. The Oct. 1 fight in the Philippine capital will be seen the previous evening in the United States thanks to the international date line.

Bugner was scheduled to return to London Thursday.

Baker Is After Pole

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Buddy Baker has his sights on the pole position for the July 4 Firecracker 400 stock car race after a practice speed of 184.892 miles per hour at Daytona International Speedway.

Baker's speed Tuesday in the 2.5 mile tri-oval made him the favorite in runs scheduled today to determine the first 20 spots in the 40-car field. The rest of the field in the $127,375 race is to be determined Thursday.

Baker, 34, of Charlotte, N.C., finished in a dead heat for third with Cale Yarborough in last year's Firecracker. He pushed his 1974 Ford to about two miles an hour faster Tuesday than defending champion David Pearson.

Pearson, who nipped Richard Petty last year for his third straight Firecracker title, recorded a speed of 182.141 mph in a 1973 Mercury.

Petty, who has finished a frustrated second in the race for four straight years, was clocked at 179.515 mph in a Dodge.

Pearson, who holds the National Association For Stock Car, Auto Racing (NASCAR) record for 32 victories on super speedways, won the pole position last year with 180.759 mph.

Leaders Take Women's Wins

Belton stayed hot on the heels of Piggly-Wiggly in the Women's Softball League last night, but the Little Mint lost ground.

Belton romped to a 25-2 victory over the Little Mint in the opening game. Belton pushed over five in the first inning with V. Jones homering. They added nine in the second frame, then got four in the third. Four more came over in the fourth, with G. Potter homering. The final three crossed in the fifth.

Little Mint got both of its runs in the second.

The Daily Reflector took a 6-5 victory over Coca-Cola in the second outing. Coke pushed over two in the first, but the Reflector matched that on a home by K. Casper. Coke scored two more in the second, and the Reflector got one. The Reflector tied it up at 4-4 with one in the fifth.

Coke went back out in front with one in the sixth. But the Reflector came back with two in the seventh, the winning run coming on a single by S. Spivey.

Piggly-Wiggly, leading the league by one game, took a forfeit victory over Daniel Construction.

The final game saw Wachovia Bank romp to a 32-7 win over Burroughs-Wellcome. Wachovia got all it was to need in the first inning, scoring 15 runs. They added four in the second and got four more in the third. Nine came over in the fourth.

Burroughs-Wellcome pushed over five in the second and added two in the third.

Wachovia's C. Mattocks slapped a homer in one inning, while D. Bryant had four consecutive home runs and added a triple in her other time at the plate.

Seattle Likely To Get Transfer

By JOHN ARMSTRONG
Associated Press Writer

SEATTLE (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn says a major league team definitely will be assigned to Seattle, perhaps for the 1976 season.

Because baseball owners have cooled on expansion, the Seattle franchise more likely would be given an existing team having trouble in another city rather than a new team, Kuhn indicated.

He refused to speculate on which teams would be candidates for Seattle, but, in answer to questions, he said the San Francisco Bay area cannot continue to support two teams.

Kuhn said neither the world champion Oakland Athletics nor the San Francisco Giants "has made any commitment to move the ballclub," but both have supported his negotiating efforts with officials of the two cities. Each team has a long-range lease commitment on a local stadium.

Kuhn was in Seattle to inspect King County's 60,000-seat domed stadium, scheduled for completion next March, just prior to the 1976 baseball season. He also discussed with County Executive John Spellman possible lease arrangements for a major league team.

"If I were a betting man, I'd bet major league baseball will be played in Seattle in 1976," Spellman said following the meeting.

"That's what we want to do," said Kuhn. He stopped short of promising a team for next year but conceded a major league team in Seattle is inevitable.

Baseball owners will have to make a decision on Seattle because of a $20 million lawsuit pending in Superior Court challenging the 1970 transfer of the Seattle Pilots' American League franchise to Milwaukee, where the team was renamed the Brewers.

The plaintiffs in the suit — Washington state, King County and the city of Seattle — agreed early last year to defer a trial until the owners decided whether they intended to return major league baseball to the city. The financially-troubled Pilots operated in Seattle for only one season.

Kuhn said Tuesday there has been no change in the status of the lawsuit.

Kuhn also said he is awaiting a report from American League President Lee MacPhail before taking any action on alleged clubhouse harassment and attacks against writers.

Detroit Manager Ralph Houk was charged with assault after an altercation with a Baltimore Evening Sun writer, and a Boston Globe columnist said he was jostled and chased from the Boston Red Sox locker room by second baseman Doug Griffin. Both incidents occurred last week after the newsmen had written stories critical of the teams.

"Obviously it is not anything that can be condoned," Kuhn said of the incidents. "It is wrong. I will do everything necessary to prevent it from happening again. This can't be permitted to happen again."

How Tar Heel Senators And Representatives Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON—Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call voted June 19 through June 25.

House
BIG BANKS—Defeated, 183 for and 205 against, a bill (HR 6676) to give Congress a general picture of where the nation's 200 largest commercial banks allocate credit. The Federal Reserve Board, which gathers data from all credit-granting institutions, would have collected and supplied the information. HR 6676 directed the Fed to semi-annually provide Congress with a special nine-category breakdown.

Congress thus would have had a general overview of the amount of credit supplied for purposes such as capital investment, financing small business and agriculture, consumer needs, home building and buying, and the financing of municipal, state and federal governments.

Supporters said the bill would give Congress the data it needs to determine whether the credit practices of commercial banks require more federal oversight. Citing the unwillingness of banks to disclose credit information, Rep. Henry Reuss (D-Wis.) said that "... just as any other great industry in this country" banks must give Congress "the broad outlines of what they are doing."

Opponents said the bill in effect established nine national priorities of credit, politicized the Federal Reserve Board and meddled with the free enterprise nature of credit demand. Rep. Willis Gradison (R-Ohio) warned that the bill, if enacted, would be the "forerunner of a mandatory credit allocation system."

Reps. L.H. Fountain (D-2), David Henderson (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Stephen Neal (D-6), Richardson Preyer (D-6), Charles Rose (D-7), W.G. Hefner (D-8), James Martin (R-9), James Broyhill (R-10) and Roy

Taylor (D-11) voted "nay." Rep. Walter Jones (D-1) did not vote.

NUKE SALES—Rejected, 117 for and 139 against, an amendment to prevent the U.S. from furthering the nuclear capabilities of nations which fail to sign the nuclear Non-proliferation Treaty or otherwise ignore international nuclear safety pacts. Direct sale of U.S. nuclear materials and technology to such countries, or to middleman suppliers such as France or Germany, would have been prohibited unless—the President considered such transactions vital to nation security.

The amendment was proposed to a subsequently-passed bill (HR 7001) authorizing funds to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission through September 1976. The Administration opposed the amendment.

Rep. Clarence Long (D-Md.), the sponsor, said: "Here is a chance for the United States to take the lead and for the President to work in partnership with the Congress toward a truly bipartisan goal in foreign policy—the prevention of nuclear holocaust."

Opponents said the amendment would cripple Administration efforts to control the spread of nuclear weapons. If the U.S. stops supplying countries such as Israel which are not signatories to the non-proliferation agreement it will lose influence over their use of the nuclear materials, said Rep. John Young (D-Tex.)

Martin and Broyhill voted "yea."

Fountain, Henderson and Taylor voted "nay."

Jones, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Rose and Hefner did not vote.

ENERGY—Rejected, 150 for and 270 against, a motion to send back to committee the first major energy conservation bill (HR 6860) approved by the House this year. After defeat of the recommitment motion the measure was passed and sent to the Senate.

Recommitment was proposed after the House rejected a central feature of HR 6860 that had been written by the House Ways and Means Committee—an at-the-pump gasoline tax to lower gas consumption.

As passed, HR 6860 sets tariffs and quotas on imported oil, penalizes manufacturers of energy-inefficient automobiles, creates tax incentives inducing individuals and businesses to switch to non-oil energy sources, and sets up a trust fund to finance development of new energy sources.

Rep. Barber Conable (R-N.Y.) who moved to recommit, said the bill's failure to encourage domestic oil production plus its "substantially reduced" conservation provisions add up to a "nonpolicy."

Rep. Al Ullman (D-Ore.), chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, said recommitment would be a "dead end." Opponents said the bill was a significant first step and that it would probably be strengthened by the Senate and in conference.

Martin and Broyhill voted "yea."

Jones, Fountain, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Rose, Hefner and Taylor voted "nay."

Henderson did not vote.

HOUSING VETO—Failed, 268 for and 157 against, to achieve the two-thirds majority needed to override President Ford's veto of an anti-recession housing bill (HR 4485). Ford said the measure would be too expensive and ineffective. The veto to sustain marks Ford's fourth veto victory this year over the House's Democratic majority, against no defeats.

HR 4485 was designed to create an estimated 400,000 housing starts and 800,000 housing industry jobs. The stimulus was to have been federal subsidies to middle-income home buyers. Mortgage interest rates of six or seven percent, or cash grants of $1,000 for down payments, would have been made available. HR 4485 offered loans of up to $250 a month for two years, repayable at interest rates of no higher than eight percent.

Supporters said the bill, instead of raising inflation, would raise tax revenue by increasing employment. Speaker Carl Albert (D-Okla.) urged that the veto of the "alltime record-breaking no-job President" be overridden.

Opponents said HR 4485 invited a veto with its inflationary price tag of more than $2 billion. Rep. John Rousselot (R-Cal.) said the best way to aid "the middle-income citizen is to refrain from enacting new federal spending programs which in turn require new Federal borrowing."

Jones, Henderson, Neal, Preyer, Rose, Hefner and Taylor voted "yea." Fountain, Andrews, Martin and Broyhill voted "nay." NEW HAMPSHIRE—Failed, 56 for and 41 against, to achieve the three-fifths majority (60 "yeas") needed to stop a Republican-led filibuster on the continuing Wyman-Durkin dispute that has been snarling the Senate floor proceedings. The vote further delayed a final decision on who won the 1974 New Hampshire U.S. Senate election—Republican Louis Wyman or Democrat John Durkin.

All but four Democrats voting supported cloture while all Republicans voting were opposed to it. Opponents feared that the Democrats would take advantage of their numbers and force a premature decision in favor of Durkin.

Sen. Robert Morgan (D) voted "yea." Sen. Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

Three devastating hurricanes named Anna, Carla and Hattie occurred in 1961.

Public Education Became Assembly Battle Ground

By CATHY STEELE ROCHE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Public education became a major battleground during the final weeks of the North Carolina General Assembly as the House and Senate fought over spending plans for the 1975-77 biennium.

Although budget questions provoked the most intense debates on education, other policy conflicts surfaced for legislative attention. Some were only partially resolved and study committees will investigate further.

East Carolina University was the big money winner in the higher education budget. A $28 million capital improvements appropriation for a new four-year medical school survived the economic crimp.

Piedmont and western legislators were unsuccessful in their attempts to kill the appropriation and to replace the direct medical school funding with a bond referendum. By battle's end, the mandate for the ECU medical school was clear.

The only other major UNC capital improvement money to survive was a $3 million appropriation for a new law school building at North Carolina Central University. That school faces possible loss of accreditation if improvements are not made.

A special bill appropriated $500,000 to begin development of a veterinary school at North Carolina State, but improvements at all of the other UNC campuses are riding on a $43 million bond referendum, to be held next March.

More than $2.4 billion of the state's $6.6 billion was appropriated for public schools, $583 million for the University of North Carolina 16-campus system and $212 million for the community colleges.

The budget for the public schools was the most hotly contested, spending issue, as the House sought to sharply cut administrative programs in the Department of Public Instruction and also to reduce state contributions to local school systems for instruction in reading, math and cultural arts.

The bulk of the administrative cuts remained in the budget for the second year of the biennium, but the classroom funds were restored. House Base Budget Committee chairman Rep. Billy Watkins, D-Greenville, said cuts in the Public Affairs, Planning, Research and Development and Evaluation and Assessment sections of the department made it possible to boost funds for classroom programs.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Craig Phillips claimed the cuts in his department were part of a political vendetta against him. He accused conservatives in the legislature of trying to thwart his efforts at educational programs. "Conservative forces have taken a whack, in my opinion, at anything that was a better way to teach kids," Phillips charged.

Watkins said the overall budget of the Department of Public Instruction was increased, despite the cutbacks in the superintendent's office. He said 1,000 new kindergarten teachers were added, 500 new teachers for exceptional children and a staff of eight consultants and four secretaries for a new reading program.

Rep. Mary Nesbitt, D-Buncombe, a former school teacher, praised the work of the budget makers. "This legislature has done more to improve instruction with the amount of money we had available than any time in history," she said.

Limited funds prevented any speed-up of the expansion of the public kindergarten program, but the budget will allow expansion to proceed on schedule. In-service training for new kindergarten teachers was only cut slightly.

Phillips' fights with the legislature did not stop with his department's budget. He unsuccessfully sought to block a bill to give the state Board of Education more authority over his office.

The measure was designed to define responsibilities of Phillips and board chairman Dallas Herring, who have had a running battle over educational policy. The bill was watered down to remove a provision that the board be allowed to approve department employees before they are hired.

The Senate committee on Education, chaired by Sen. Dallas Alford, D-Nash, was authorized to hold interim meetings to study the relationship of the public schools and the community college system within the Department of Public Instruction. Alford said the vagueness of the state constitution on direction of the education system and the conflict between Phillips and Herring prompted the legislative inquiry.

A $10,000 appropriation was made to fund a special study commission to look into the research, development, evaluation and assessment programs within the Department of Public Instruction. The provision was included in the budget bill as part of a compromise under which the House agreed to partially restore funds for the programs.

Phillips headed off a constitutional amendment that would have made the office of superintendent of public instruction an appointed instead of elected position. A measure to have the Board of Education elected instead of appointed also failed.

The legislature voted to increase out-of-state tuition at the University of North Carolina and the state community colleges by $100 per year. In-state tuition increases were turned down. State aid to private colleges was increased from $200 per student to $400 per student.

Teacher pay raises fell victim to a $288 million revenue shortfall that eliminated general a state employee raise. About $5.9 million was set in reserve for merit raises for university and community college academic personnel not covered by the state personnel act.

The Advancement School in Winston-Salem, an experimental program for training under-achievers, was phased out with only a $106,452 grant-in-aid, that for the first year of the biennium.

Only one legislative action sought to direct school curriculum. Early in the session, the General Assembly enacted a law requiring the teaching of the free enterprise system in the public schools.

It is not expected to make a great deal of difference, because courses currently offered already covered the material.

Acid Whey Now Quality Protein

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Little Miss Muffet may be ahead of her time when she sat on that tuffet eating her curds and whey.

U.S. Department of Agriculture researchers have developed a process to turn acid whey that causes disposal problems into a liquid containing high quality protein.

Acid whey is a product of soft cheese manufacturing. With the new process, it can be converted into an alcohol that has already been used as a substitute for vodka in mixed drinks, and a protein-rich liquid that can be dehydrated and used as a nutritious food.

Learning In Wilderness

By BRENDA W. ROTZOLL ANDOVER, N.H. (UPI) — What happens when you take a child with learning disabilities who's been called "dummy" all his life and throw him into the wilderness with normal students?

He learns he's just as good as anyone else and gains so much confidence he can start to cope with his reading, writing and arithmetic problems, Proctor Academy finds.

"One of the problems with these kids is they lack confidence. They are constantly called dummies when they're younger, before someone realizes they have a problem," said Sanford Elsass, director of development at the 127-year-old school.

Proctor Academy started working with learning disability students in the 1950s when almost nothing was known about the problem. It keeps a ratio of 25 per cent students with learning disabilities among its 225 coed population.

"This country has just begun to recognize the problem. Fifteen per cent of all the kids in the school systems around the country have learning disabilities, things like seeing the word 'saw' and reading it as 'was', or seeing a 6 upside down and saying 9," Elsass said.

Proctor emphasizes individual commitment and an interest in the environment. Each spring one group will spend the whole term in the wilderness, mountain climbing as well as doing school work. This year the term was spent in the newly acquired camp next door at Ragged Mountain, doing a land use plan for the school's 2,000 acres of wilderness.

For the second year Proctor is running a special summer course of six weeks for children with learning disabilities and three weeks each for two groups of normal children.

The first three weeks for the children with problems are just heavy Outward Bound-type activities, Elsass said. The second three weeks combine those activities with intensive math and reading tutoring in a wilderness setting.

"The tutors go right along with the kids when they go rock climbing and camping and they do their school work at lunch or around a campfire," Elsass said.

"The kids build up confidence and often can do the Outward Bound things better than ordinary kids. They aren't dumb at all—for the most part kids who have learning disabilities have a much higher IQ than the kids with normal learning ability. I don't know why."

The program is aimed at boys and girls 11 to 15 years of age. They go backpacking in the White Mountains, do map and compass work, learn first aid and survival skills, keep daily journals and work out group problems.

"The group succeeds or fails. No individual fails. The situations are structured so there is a great chance for success. Many kids have never succeeded in anything in their lives. It gives them a warm feeling to be involved with something that succeeds," he said.

Proctor started the summer program when it bought the former Ragged Lake summer camp next door.

The program is run by two teachers from the Carroll School in Lincoln, Mass., which works entirely with learning disability students in grades one through eight. Michael Stratton, who also teaches for Outward Bound, Inc., around the world, handles that end of the program, and Nancy Folberth runs the learning disabilities section.

"The key ingredient we work with is trying to break down the kid's negative self-concept. It's not a typical classroom situation, which the kids have come to dislike because they didn't succeed," Elsass said.

Proctor likes its students to be aware all year round. It has its own fire department and emergency medical training unit.

Americans Find The Good Life In New Zealand

By PETER O'LOUGHLIN Associated Press Writer
QUEENSTOWN, New Zealand (AP) — Parker B. Mudge, a retired U.S. Air Force Colonel, sits in his easy chair and gazes reflectively out of the huge picture windows of his living room.

Before him spreads 52-mile-long, 1,000-foot-deep Lake Wakatipu, stocked with trout and salmon. In the background, 14 miles away, rise 7,000-foot peaks of New Zealand's Southern Alps, where there's some of the world's best skiing.

"I'll live here until I die," said the former fighter pilot.

Mudge, 60, his wife, Ruth, and teen-age daughter, Melita, are among several thousand Americans — no one knows for sure exactly how many—who have made new homes in the peace, quiet and considerable beauty of New Zealand.

Mudge is chief pilot for Mount Cook Airlines, a small tourist line that flies to the fiords, ski runs and resorts of New Zealand's South Island.

Mudge came to New Zealand 21 years ago with a $2,000. "We decided to stay for two years no matter how rough it got," said the Connecticut Yankee.

"When we came here it was like going back 30 years in time. My wife had never bottled fruit and never had gardened. Automobiles were antiques by U.S. standards; central heating was practically unknown. The food was good and wholesome, but lacked variety. "But we both like the simpler outdoors life... we don't miss night clubs. The only place in the States that's like this is the Pacific West Coast around Oregon."

Mudge has only once thought seriously of returning to the United States. He was offered a job with an American airline at five times his New Zealand salary.

"We sold everything and were ready to go," he said. "But then we thought it over and thought of Melita's schooling, the multiracial problems and decided that material things were not that important."

Mudge, like most Americans who have moved here, has kept his American citizenship. New Zealand, with its three million people and relaxed life-style, is as close to Paradise as the Mudge family and others like them expect to get on earth. Milk costs 5 cents a pint, bread is 21 cents a loaf, meat is cheap and beer costs about the same as milk does in the United States.

On the debit side, however, wages are low — average $6,800 a year — and taxes are high, about 40 per cent of the average income.

But unemployment is less than one per cent, compared with 9.2 per cent in the United States.

And the white New Zealanders, or pakekas in the Polynesian based language of the native Maori, live and integrate without obvious tension with the local people who are 10 per cent of the population.

Neal Grove, a retired U.S. Army colonel, had one tour in New Zealand as defense attache at the U.S. Embassy in Wellington. He decided after a further tour in Turkey that with retirement coming up, the place where he wanted to live was New Zealand.

"The thing I like about it most is the people. They are friendly and outgoing and we find the climate very agreeable. We'd never had a home, because you move around so much in the military, and we'd never lived in the States a lot."

Grove now is administrative executive of the Anglican Diocese of Wellington. "Any guy, no matter what his age or condition, can go out and get a job here," said Grove, who is in his 60s.

Grove's wife, Rachel, is from Cincinnati, Ohio, and is "Crazy about New Zealand. She's on the national YWCA board," Grove said.

Grove is careful not to make comparisons between his new and old homes. But he tells Americans who write to him thinking they might emigrate that manufactured goods, such as cars and refrigerators, cost twice as much as they do in the States. And that taxes are high.

LONESOME ME—On a Saturday afternoon in the fall, parking spaces would be at a premium in this lot near the football stadium at Clemson; but a motorcyclist had the place to himself the other day. So, with acres of empty spaces to choose from, he decided not to park in a marked space after all. (AP Wirephoto)

Nashville' Film Pleases Some, Displeases Others

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Robert Altman's movie "Nashville" opens in 12 cities across the United States this week after raves from film buffs in New York and Los Angeles. The movie won't open to the public here until August, but a preview showing for those of the music industry involved in the filming was shown last month.

"Nashville" is a catch-as-catch-can look at the lives of 24 people during five days in Music City. Country music stars and those who dream of being like them are the central characters in a variety of plots loosely connected by a third-party presidential campaign.

While the movie has drawn praise as a broad vision of American culture and its values and dreams, the main question here has been whether it's an accurate portrait of the country music capital.

"It's amazing, that's the way it really is," one record company executive said after the preview showing. And, David Peel, the only Nashville native with a major role, said he thinks the movie captures the city's essence.

Others, including a few Music Row studio musicians who had bit parts in the film, said the movie and the 27 songs in it are an inaccurate slur on country music and its people.

"They're all exaggerated stereotypes," said an official at Opryland. "There are some people like that here, but only a small segment. It's like saying all Tennesseans are hillbillies or that all blacks are lazy."

Musicians criticized the soundtrack as not being the Nashville sound at all. They contended some songs were treated as spoofs while others had more of a Memphis rhythm and blues or a Los Angeles pop sound.

Both Altman and the movie's music arranger, Richard Basin, brush off the criticisms.

"I think it probably got a little too close to the truth," Altman said. "The people at Blakely spent several days with Miss Lynn in preparation for her role.

Despite their petty desires and dreams of power and fame, all 24 characters are treated with affection. "I like to think of the characters in the film as members of my own family," Altman said. "They have faults but that doesn't stop you from loving them."

He admitted he is upset that the reaction in Nashville has been critical and noted that characters from New York and Los Angeles are shown as having the same foibles. "Why don't they criticize movies like 'W.W. and the Dixie Dance Kings' or 'Deliverance' that make most white Southerners look like cretins?" he asked.

"Nashville" is a satire about people trying to connect and never quite making it. Altman's film has no central plot and the viewer is given the task of putting it all together.

The political pitch from a sound truck that's always in the background and the sometimes syrupy, sometimes moving lyrics to the 27 songs show that while everybody's talking, nobody's listening.

A dominant theme is the conditioned resilience of Americans. The characters experience humiliation and tragedy, tune it out within minutes, and, in the words of one song, "Keep 'a Goin'."

Pope May Be U.S. Visitor

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — If Pope Paul VI attends the 41st International Eucharistic Congress here in 1976, it will be his first official visit as Pope to this country. He visited New York in 1965 but it was an official visit to the United Nations, which is international territory.

In endorsing the congress and its selection of the City of Brotherly Love as its site Aug. 1-8, 1976, Pope Paul indicated that he hoped to be in Philadelphia for the event.

"It is expected the Pope will favorably respond by coming," says the Rev. Walter J. Conway, executive secretary of the congress. "It depends primarily on his health at the time." Pope Paul is 77 and suffers from arthritis.

He attended two other Eucharistic Congresses as Pope — one in Bombay, India, in 1964, the other in Bogota, Colombia, in 1968. But he did not go to the last one in Melbourne, Australia, in 1973.

Series Pilot Airing On July 4 May Be Wasted

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — On Friday, July 4, ABC is airing a series pilot based on "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner," the 1967 movie which starred Sidney Poitier in a story of interracial romance.

Bill Overton, who has the Poitier role in ABC's half-hour version, is pleased that he got the job. But he says he's ticked off at ABC for rescheduling the show from May 28 to the night of July 4.

On that night, he reasons, few viewers will be around. They'll be out watching fireworks shows, travelling to holiday campsites and otherwise passing up TV.

The 28-year-old actor, in a phone interview from Boston where he's visiting relatives, said he didn't know why ABC reset the program for a night he feels will have a small TV audience.

ABC says the move was made "because we felt it would play better in July. It's a fresh program that will be competing only with reruns."

And ABC vigorously denied any suggestion the move was made to reduce adverse audience reaction to a program about the marriage of a black man to a white woman.

Overton who'd made such a suggestion in a newspaper interview last month, didn't repeat it this week when asked if he had any idea why ABC had shifted "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner" to the night of July 4.

"Not really," he said. "I really can't point the finger at anybody. But it's frustrating because the show is a fabulous piece of material, a fabulous opportunity for me and a great opportunity for the educational values of the whole project."

By educational values, he said, he meant that the show, with its mixed-marriage theme, attacks racism "right in the eye... we've never had this kind of situation before (on TV), had a man other than a Caucasian having a romantic situation with a white woman."

In the movie, directed by Stanley Kramer, Poitier played a distinguished black scientist engaged to a white woman—Katherine Houghton.

French Diplomat Says Gunfire Is Heard Each Night In Saigon

By DENIS D. GRAY
Associated Press Writer
VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A French diplomat from Saigon reported today that shooting is heard nightly downtown in the South Vietnamese capital.

"By 8:30 p.m. the city is dead. People are afraid to go outside," said the diplomat, who arrived Tuesday and refused to be quoted by name.

He speculated that the clashes in Saigon and conflict which has been reported in the countryside would get worse as the new Communist regime imposes its will on the population.

Saigon's Liberation Radio reported clashes in provinces near Saigon and the capture of armed troops who had been holding out.

In the Mekong Delta, a broadcast said, authorities in the province of My Tho recently organized a demonstration to encourage the population to reveal "henchmen and ex-soldiers who are still in hiding places."

Another broadcast said officials in the vicinity of Hue, the former imperial capital on the northern coast, were forming security units to patrol the Cambodian border, a mountainous, jungled potential sanctuary for antigovernment elements, and the South China Sea coast.

Meanwhile, a program of repatriation for South Vietnamese began today under United Nations auspices with the return of two diplomats who represented the former Saigon government in Malaysia. Ly Van Tam, an administrative officer at the Kuala Lumpur embassy, and Nguyen Thai Lam, an assistant press attaché, flew from Vientiane to Saigon aboard a plane chartered by the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees.

Both signed declarations stating their repatriation was voluntary.

Alexander Casella, a Swiss official of the U.N. refugee office, said more than 2,000 South Vietnamese have applied for permission to return. He said the number is expected to increase as information about the program circulates.

There are about 130,000 South Vietnamese refugees in the United States and its territories, and thousands more in other Asian countries.

Westerners returning from South Vietnam said about 50 Americans are still there, including missionaries, businessmen and relief workers. The sources predicted most of them would leave when transportation problems and bureaucratic procedures are ironed out by the new government.

$865,363 In Construction

Building permits totaling $865,363 were issued in Greenville during May, according to a report issued by Billy Creel, state Labor Commissioner.

Greenville totals for the first five months of the year were $5,057,503, according to Creel.

Neighboring eastern cities and their May and five-month totals included: Elizabeth City, $156,200, $3,081,310; Goldsboro, $620,000, $2,698,500; Jacksonville, $229,686, $1,146,628; Kinston, $588,600, $2,010,390; New Bern, $145,700, $689,700; Roanoke Rapids, $1,880,550, $2,884,121; Rocky Mount, $1,768,161, $5,407,690; and Wilson, $868,684, $2,778,491.

According to Creel, permits totaling $65,784,800 were issued in 38 North Carolina cities during May, gaining 14.8 percent over the figure for May of last year. Permits for the first five months totaled $237,345,384, he said, for a 12.6 percent decline from the 1974 figure.

Declarer had a club loser to dispose of, and he tried to discard it on the diamonds. Unfortunately, East ruffed the third round of diamonds. While he couldn't return a club, which would have beaten the contract immediately, a spade exit was just as good. Declarer had no way of getting to dummy's established diamonds, so eventually he had to concede the setting trick to West.

Declarer could have seen that his plan was unfeasible by simply counting the hand. East had shown up with seven spades, three hearts and a club. Therefore, he could not have more than two diamonds, and trying to discard a club on dummy's diamonds was foredoomed to failure.

The only hope was that East's three cards in the minor suits were precisely two diamonds and one club. In that event, declarer could afford to concede a trump trick, because East couldn't reach his partner and the defenders would be unable to cash a club trick immediately.

After surrendering a trump to East, declarer can win any return and then take his discard on the diamond suit. If you need a specific distribution to make your contract, you should assume that it exists!
