

Unofficial Accreditation Consultation ECU Med School Timetable Unchanged

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
"Any conclusions drawn by the news media as a result of an unofficial consultation visit are totally inappropriate and open to prompt misunderstanding," East Carolina University Vice-chancellor for Health Affairs Dr. Ed Monroe said this morning. Monroe's comments were made in light of a news article that appeared today in a Raleigh newspaper which quoted unidentified sources as saying accreditation officials feel the schedule for expansion of the ECU medical school to four-year status "is much too short" and saying there is a "likelihood that there will be no entering class in 1976." Monroe explained that "at the request of Pres. Friday (William Friday, president of the University of North Carolina system) and Chairman Dees (William Dees of Goldsboro, chairman of the UNC Board of Governors), staff members of the accrediting agency made an unofficial consultation visit (to the ECU Campus) for several hours Monday. "Although Dean Laupus (Dr. William E. Laupus—newly-appointed dean of the medical school) and we felt that this was premature, we welcomed the opportunity to receive their advice," Monroe continued.

"The present state of plans and the few major problems remaining to be resolved were gone over with these individuals, who then reported these to Pres. Friday and Chairman Dees and others yesterday." (The accreditation officials—representing the American Medical Association and the Association of American Medical Colleges—met with ECU and UNC officials and several legislators in Chapel Hill yesterday to discuss expansion of the medical school.) "We will continue to work very hard," Monroe emphasized, "to meet the timetable that the Board of Governors recommended and for which the General Assembly appropriated funds. "Over the next few months, as developments are finalized, and problems resolved, Dean Laupus will be most happy to share this information with the appropriate concerned officials and the public," Monroe explained. The vice-chancellor said, too, that Dean Laupus will be meeting with the staff of the accrediting agency frequently over the coming months in an effort to resolve any problems that may arise so there will be no delay in receiving accreditation for the school of medicine. ECU Chancellor Dr. Leo

Jenkins said Dr. James Schofield, an AMA representative of the joint accrediting panel, had asked participants at yesterday's session not to discuss the session because of its unofficial nature. Jenkins said this morning, "It is unfortunate that partial and inaccurate leaks to the news media have occurred concerning an unofficial consultative visit . . ." by accrediting agency personnel. "Such leaks, however, are no surprise to me. Similar actions have complicated and hindered our efforts for 10 years, now," Jenkins commented. "I remain confident that we will be able to develop the medical school on the schedule which was recommended by Pres. Friday and the Board of Governors—the schedule mandated by the 1975 General Assembly—with the funds appropriated by the General Assembly." He said, "Our new Dean,

Dr. William Laupus agrees that the job can be done if he and his staff are given the opportunity to exercise the responsibility any medical school dean should have. "This includes," Jenkins said, "the responsibility and the authority to deal directly with the accrediting agency and its staff. "He also must have the full support and assistance of concerned state agencies and of President Friday and his staff.

"President Friday joins me in this request," Jenkins noted. "Dean Laupus has the full approval of Pres. Friday and he will, therefore, receive his (Friday's) full support." The present schedule—proposed by Friday and approved by the Board of Governors last November when the four-year program was authorized—calls for the first four-year medical class to begin its studies on the ECU campus in the fall of 1976.

$18,000 Given To New Hospital

FARMVILLE—Officials of A. C. Monk and Company of Farmville yesterday presented a check for $18,000 to officials for use in construction of the new Pitt Memorial Hospital. The check was presented by Monk company president A. C. Monk Jr. to Henry G. Leslie, chairman of the Pitt County Memorial Hospital Gifts Committee and W. B. Duke, chairman of the Hospital's Board of Trustees. Monk said that, although the gift was made in the name of the company, "it is donated in the interest of our employees and their families who will benefit from this new medical facility." The gift—the first from the Farmville area—will be used to purchase furnishings for 18 rooms, six on each of three floors on the front side of the new facility, Monk said.

Quality, Prices Are Low

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Low prices and poor quality marked today's opening of flue-cured tobacco sales on the South Carolina-Border North Carolina Belt. The Federal-State Market News Service said early sales averaged $80 to $84 per hundred pounds, with more than one-fourth of the leaf going under the government loan program administered by the Flue-Cured Tobacco Stabilization Corp. Most of the early sales ranged from $70 to $90 per hundred, with a few sheets of good lemon lugs selling for $99. Sales averaged $81.78 on opening day last year, when 23 per cent of the leaf went under the loan program. Company buyers showed little interest in the leaf offered today.

Leslie, who expressed appreciation for the Monk contribution, said the gift pushed the gift fund over the $350,000 mark. The gift committee, Leslie noted, has as its goal the raising of $1 to help defray costs of furnishing and equipment and other items for the new medical complex.

Report Tomlin Will Be Fired

RALEIGH (AP)—The Greensboro Daily News says Gov. Jim Holshouser has decided to fire Mrs. Fran Tomlin as head of the State Bicentennial Committee, apparently at the urging of Mrs. Holshouser. The paper also said today that Mrs. Tomlin a former legislator from Concord, will be replaced by Dick Ellis, a former television newsman in Raleigh.

WHY NO BINS?

Why aren't there any recycling bins for cans in the Greenville area? Or, if there are, where are they? D.G.

We assume you mean bins for the recycling of aluminum cans and other aluminum objects. According to a spokesman for the Recycling Program of Reynolds Aluminum, which makes bi-weekly pickups at Pitt Plaza here, bins have been tried in several places in the past, but proved unsatisfactory. "We got everything else as well as aluminum," she said. "Also, there would be a problem about payment."

She offered no hope for such a program. However, she said anyone wishing to carry the suggestion further may contact Dave Denton in Reynolds' Raleigh office, 832-8178.

MIA-POW ORGANIZATION

I would like to join the organization that is seeking to influence Congress and the public not to forget about the men missing in action and thought to be continuing as prisoners in Southeast Asia. Could you get me the address or tell me who to contact? R.R.

That's VIVA, Voices in Vital America, said to be a non-profit, non-political, charitable, and educational organization for the purpose you stated. The address is 10966 Le Conte, Los Angeles, Calif. 90024; the phone number 213-473-2901. Robert E. Treeee is the national administrator. There probably are local members, but one very active member from Eastern North Carolina that we know of is Mrs. Donna Long of Rt. 5, Box 573, Jacksonville, N.C. 28540. She recently sent us a copy of the VIVA Voice, a monthly publication of the organization, which may be ordered from the address given above. Inquiries about POW-MIA bracelets and dog tags also may be sent to this address.

Fossil Fuel Charge Made By VEPCO To Be Raised

By JAMES KYLE
Reflector Staff Writer
The fossil fuel charge made by VEPCO to the Greenville Utilities Commission will be raised to $8.69 per thousand kilowatt hours for July, it was reported at the Commission's monthly meeting last night. Commission director Charles Horne explained the increased charge was due to a load build-up on the VEPCO system and the need to add more oil and coal plants to the system line. The Commission passed a proposal for a one-year contract with an insurance consultant. The trial-period contract was made with William D. Kemp of Industrial Insurance Management Corporation. The action was made despite a proposal by City Manager Harry

Hagerty that the Commission table the contract proposal. Hagerty, who expressed concern about hiring an insurance consultant, said he planned an investigation for the City Council and suggested the Commission delay a decision until after the investigation. The Commission expressed concern over the increased use of bulk tobacco curing barns and decided on a workshop session to possibly work out special rates or requirements for them. The barns, usually equipped with a 10 horsepower motor, have a heavy load, are operated 24 hours a day during peak power weeks and are usually located near the end of the electric system causing a "burden" on the system. The Commission approved the recommendation of the insurance consultant for a new group life policy. The policy is with U.S. Fidelity and Guaranty and was said to cut premium cost to employees and the commission in half. The Commission's approval is subject to concurrence by the City Council. Authorization to write off bad debts for the past five years was approved. Although bad debts are normally written off after five years, due to an allowance in the current budget for bad debts, there was a need to write off debts for the subsequent four years, along with five year old debts. The Commission concurred with an ordinance by the City Council authorizing who may sign checks on the Commission's account. The new Fiscal Control

Ordinance, setting up the position of Deputy City Finance Officer for GUC was also approved by the Commission. The Commission approved a plan to incorporate the cost of natural gas exploration into the cost of operations. This cost would be reviewed and adjusted every six months. The Commission heard a proposal from Carroll and Associates developers asking for assurance of water and sewer service from existing or proposed mains to a development at Tripp Farm. The Commission gave tentative approval to the request with restrictions on volume to be drawn up by Horne and later approved by GUC chairman George Coffman. (Continued on page 10)

Pitt School Board Tables Bid For Sports Participation Fee

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer
The Pitt County Board of Education yesterday afternoon tabled a request from the Farmville Band Booster Club and two schools in the area that $10 per sport be charged participants in order that the schools athletic programs may be continued. The school board must take action of some kind so the programs will not be eliminated. Charles Carrick, principal of the Farmville Junior High, and Russ Cotton, principal of Farmville Central High School, asked that the two schools be allowed to charge $10 per sport so that the programs would have operating funds for another year. Carrick explained that he must have a special type of helmet for members of the football team for next year or the sport will have to be discontinued. He pointed out the helmets would cost approximately $1,000. "If the request to charge a fee for sports participation is denied, we will have to eliminate some athletic programs in our schools," Carrick said. "The Farmville athletic program has been self-supporting for many years, now. We are not asking the board for funds, but for permission to charge fees so the programs will be able to be continued. "I do not want to drop the football program at Farmville Junior High, but if necessary funds are not received, we have no choice," Carrick emphasized. Carrick said he hoped to raise between $1,000 and $1,500 from a $10 per sport fee and that Farmville Central should collect between $2,000 and $3,000 to help support their athletic program. Cotton pointed out that operating funds are not received for athletics or extra-curricular activities in the schools. "These programs must be financed through various sales or programs which the school must sponsor. It is time consuming for the administration to oversee these projects and attempt to raise enough money so that the band, dramatics, sports, etc., programs will have enough money to operate during a school year. "We get money for classroom-textbook study, but after that point, the principals, teachers and students must see that the extra-curricular and athletic programs are paid for," Cotton said. Several board members expressed the desire to table the matter until the August meeting so that the situation could be studied and that the feelings of other school principals concerning the charge and its effect on the athletic program could be obtained. Mark Owens, chairman of the board of education, said he did not feel the Farmville area should be penalized by the delay to take action. Although several of the board members expressed (Continued on page 10)

Middle School Fifteen-Item Agenda Is Awaiting City Council

The Pitt County Board of Education has awarded contracts for the construction of the proposed Belvoir-Pactolus-Stokes Middle School to be located north of Greenville on U.S. 13 at the N.C. 903 intersection. The project will cost $1,445,391.08. J.H. Hudson, Inc., was awarded the contract for general construction in the amount of $917,900. Other companies receiving contracts were: Electricon, Inc., electrical work, $122,700; plumbing contract, Brewer Plumbing, $128,982; heating and air conditioning, Electricon, Inc., $216,980. Architectural fees totaled $58,829.08. The new facility if designed for a student body of 500-550 students, and expected completion date of the school is August, 1976.

A 15-item agenda, including several controversial matters, is scheduled for consideration on Thursday at the City Council's 8 p.m. meeting at city hall. Key items include: consideration of an ordinance amending Chapter 32 of the City Code providing for municipal government buildings, uses, and facilities as permitted uses within all zoning districts except Flood Plain; Report by the Recreation Commission's study committee on the Jaycee Park; a request by John Causey for rezoning from R-6 to Office and Institutional of property on E. Fifth Street across from Wilkerson Funeral Home; and a Request by Carroll and Associates, agents for Reynolds May and David Evans Jr., for rezoning from R-9, R-20, and Neighborhood Commercial to Office and Institutional and R-6 of property located between 14th Street and U.S. 264 Bypass. The Planning and Zoning Commission, meeting in June, recommended that both the Causey and Carroll requests be disapproved. The Council may set a public hearing on either matter for the Aug. 7 meeting. Other agenda items include: appointments to boards and commissions; public hearing on a request for rezoning property at 208 E. Mumford Road from R-6 to R-6-MH; three applications for mobile home renewal permits; two budget amendments; Consideration of the Community Development budget for fiscal year 1975-76; consideration of group life insurance bids; an application for a mobile home permit at 908 Taylor Street; Consideration of an application for a taxicab operator's permit by James Perry Artis; consideration of a revised pay plan; three Traffic Commission recommendations; and consideration of requests for refund of privilege licenses.

Arrest 4 Charged With Several Break-Ins

The Pitt Sheriff's Department has arrested four young Greenville men on charges stemming from a series of break-ins that occurred in recent months. Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that the department also recovered some $2,500 worth of property allegedly stolen during break-in incidents in Pitt as well as Martin, Washington and Franklin Counties. Arrested were Lawrence Calvin Oakley, 20, of Lot 29, College View Trailer Park; William Michael Wilson, 17, of 508 Church Street; Stewart Curtis McCormick, 20, of 303 Greenwood Drive; and Kim

Brooks Nethercutt, 17, of 1805 Sulgrave Road, according to Sheriff Tyson. He said that Oakley, Wilson and McCormick are charged with breaking, entering and larceny incidents at the Chicod Pool Room on June 26, at Roland Stocks Store at Hams Crossroads, at Cecil Crandell's Service Station at

Stokes on July 4, and at Carraway's Restaurant in Farmville on April 29. Nethercutt is charged in connection with the break-in at Crandell's station. Bond for Oakley, Wilson and McCormick was set at $8,000 each while bond for Nethercutt was set at $2,000. Hearings are set for all four men on July 23 in District Court here. Sheriff Tyson said that the merchandise, which included television sets, clocks, tires, radios, tools, cigarettes, canned goods, clothes, $50 in old coins, and other items, was recovered from Oakley's mobile home. According to the sheriff, charges in connection with breaking, entering and larceny incidents in several other counties are expected to be made and other arrests are anticipated. Pitt deputies are continuing their investigation of the rash of county break-ins, it was noted.

Gower-Phillips Vows Said In Ceremony On Sunday

RALEIGH—Miss Shirley Ann Phillips became the bride of Waldo H. Gower III in a double ring ceremony in the Elba Bryan McIver Amphitheater, Meredith College, here at four o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Four toipary trees of white were placed for the ceremony with a priedieu where the couple took their vows, the closing prayer and benediction.

The Rev. William Barrett of Scotland Neck performed the ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Woody Hayes, organist, of Raleigh, Miss Carolyn Ward of Nakina, soloist.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Nolan C. Phillips Jr. of Nakina, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Gower of Grifton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white organza designed with standing collar with a ruffle, a band of wide cluny lace formed a yoke affect in front and back. The long full sleeves were self-embroidered and had bands of lace at elbow and at the wrist. The A-line skirt featured two ruffles edged with cluny lace and bands where attached to the skirt which flowed into a brush train.

Her chapel length veil of illusion fell from a camelot cap of cluny lace which also edged the veil. She carried a bouquet of white glamelias and white roses.

Mrs. Kay Wells of Garner served as matron of honor. She wore a formal length gown of maize sheer screen print polyester voile designed with a shirred bodice with straps at the shoulders and the sun-back. An eton jacket with self-ruffles completed the gown. She wore a wide brimmed straw hat with matching streamers and carried a French bouquet of summer flowers in blending shades of maize.

Bridesmaids were Miss Susan Carter of Rose Hill, Miss Anita De Sio of Wingate, Miss Olivia Reeves of Grifton, Miss Janis Smith of Nakina, and Mrs. Walter Scholtz of Charlotte.

MRS. WALDO H. GOWER III

sister of the bridegroom. Their gowns and flowers were similar to that of the honor attendant.

The father of the bridegroom served as best man, ushers were Walter Scholtz of Charlotte, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Van Tucker, Glenn Tucker, Mike Hudson, Paul Moore, and John Manning all of Grifton.

The mother of the bride wore a formal gown of ceil blue chiffon with a white orchid on her purse. The bridegroom's mother chose a formal gown of pastel pink chiffon and carried an orchid. The maternal grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Versie Long, of Nakina was presented a white orchid corsage.

The bride is a May graduate of Meredith College, Raleigh, and plans to attend graduate school in microbiology. The bridegroom, a May graduate from North Carolina State University, Raleigh, will be employed by Pratt Whitney Aircraft, Hartford, Conn.

Following the rehearsal Saturday, the bridegroom's parents entertained at a cocktail hour and dinner at the Angus Barn, Raleigh.

Following the wedding the bride's parents entertained at a reception at the Mae Grimmer Alumnae House on the Meredith College Campus.

On Sunday morning, at the Velvet Cloak, Raleigh, a wedding breakfast was given for the Gower-Phillips wedding party, families and friends.

Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scholtz, Mr. and Mrs. Witt Scholtz of Charlotte, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Branscome, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Hardee, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Reeves, Mrs. Robert B. Mewborn, Mr. and Mrs. G.L. Tucker, Dr. and Mrs. B.C. Troutman, Mr. and Mrs. George G. Sugg, Dr. and Mrs. Bill Rasberry, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. John Glenn of Grifton, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nixon of Sunbury.

After a wedding trip to Jamaica, the couple will be living in Hartford, Conn.

GOOD YARN
WOODLAND HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — Vera Belio, who has been knitting and crocheting since 1942, has invented a device to wind a skein of yarn in minutes into balls that unwind from the center. Mrs. Belio says her lightweight plastic winder will roll a 22-ounce skein of wool in minutes.

One way to do this is to use the word "hand" as a guide. The "H" in the word hand could stand for heavy. Lift the melon. Juicy, luscious cantaloupes should be heavy for their size. "A" stands for aroma. Does it smell like a fresh cantaloupe? Appearance and aroma are important choosing points. "N" equals netting. Look at the outside netting before you buy a cantaloupe. Is it raised? Is it easy to see?

And the "D". Well, that stands for depression. The stem end should have a smooth depressed scar on smooth sunken indentation where the melon was attached to the vine. Any attached stem fragments indicate that the melon was picked before maturity.

So before a cantaloupe goes into your shopping basket, make sure it meets the HAND test. Heavy — aroma — netting — and depression.

Approximately 175 relatives from the eastern part of the country attended the reunion, which started 13 years ago. As relatives arrived from Connecticut, Maryland, New York, District of Columbia, Georgia, Alabama, Virginia, Massachusetts and North Carolina they were greeted by the host and hostess. Games and sport activities were provided during the day.

Charlie Best, host, gave the welcome and prior to the buffet dinner, the Rev. E.R. McNair gave the invocation. After dinner Mrs. Rosa McNair headed the get-acquainted and talent hour.

The business session was conducted by the National Chairman, Lonnie Lowe, of Washington, D.C. The session included reading of minutes of the last reunion by the secretary, Doris Dixon, of Greenville, group discussions concerning the reunion, selecting a name for the fund set up, and a speech delivered by the national chairman on "Are We Thankful?"

The reunion will be held next year in Columbus, Ga.

Flutist Finds Instrument Popular

By DONALD SANDERS
Associated Press Writer
Doriot Anthony Dwyer, speaking of the flood of new musical compositions which has been commissioned by the Bicentennial, says, "I hope some of it will be flute music — there has been a big upsurge of flute playing."

Miss Dwyer becomes something of a zealot when she talks about the flute, as well she might. She has been principal flutist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra for more than 20 years — the first woman appointed a principal player with a major U.S. musical organization.

"It can be used in many different ways," she said in an interview. "And there are more great players performing in public."

She performed in three recitals called "Doriot Anthony Dwyer and Friends" at Carnegie Recital Hall in New York in the past season and has been invited back next year. She recently completed a tour of the country with the Boston Symphony Chamber Players.

Bruno Walter first hired her as first flutist with the Hollywood Bowl Symphony after she had played with the National Symphony in Washington and the Los Angeles Philharmonic. It was Charles Munch who auditioned her, after hearing many male flutists, and gave her the first chair position with the Boston.

"It was quite hairy at one time, being a woman musician," she said. "Lots of times I wouldn't get my letters answered when I was looking for a job, because I was a woman."

As for what she regards as the upsurge in popularity of the flute, she notes that it is easy to carry around and, that while not inexpensive, it does cost less than an organ, a piano or a harp.

"You can play notes faster than on a stringed instrument," she added. "String playing is so long and tedious — it's a very difficult art."

At the time of the Civil War the flute was a household instrument, but there was very little music written for it — no one took it seriously.

"The ancient Greeks had it, and it was a household instrument then. It became so addictive they banned it; I guess it just took up too much of people's time."

Miss Dwyer, a divorcee in her late 40s with a 14-year-old daughter, has been cited for her musical accomplishments by her alma mater, the Eastman School of Music at the University of Rochester, N.Y.

She was honored last summer by the National Organization for Women — NOW — and the Women's Hall of Fame at Seneca Falls in upstate New York, both for her own accomplishments and those of her great aunt, Susan B. Anthony, an early crusader for women's rights.

Miss Dwyer has appeared with the Boston Symphony throughout the world. Walter Piston composed a concerto for her.

Rice Cake Comes From Family Recipe

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
DEAR CECILY: I've heard about an Italian Rice Cake but I've never seen a recipe for it. Can you track one down? — CURIOUS COOK.

DEAR CURIOUS COOK: Here's the dessert you want — or rather one version of it. Mrs. Anna Cirelli, who lives in Philadelphia, was happy to pass along her family recipe. I tracked it down through Mrs. Cirelli's daughter, a New Yorker, who told me that her mother usually makes twice the amount because she is a very generous person who loves to share food with her relatives and friends. The Cirelli Rice Cake is very sweet, but most of the tasters who sampled it liked it that way. — C.B.

MRS. ANNA CIRELLI'S RICE CAKE
3 eggs
1½ cups sugar
12 ounces (1½ cups) ricotta cheese
½ cup milk
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind

Beat together the eggs and sugar about ½ minute. Mash cheese slightly and mix with milk and lemon rind; add to egg mixture; stir in rice. Turn into a buttered square glass baking dish (8 by 8 by 2 inches) or similar utensil. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 1 hour. Serve warm. Leftover cake may be covered with foil and reheated in a 250-degree oven for about 30 minutes to retain its original texture and flavor.

FORAGE FEEDING
COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — The Southern states will eventually develop large scale production of forage feed beef for the American market.

Egyptian Planners Are Working

By HODA SERAG el DIN
CAIRO (AP) — Aziza Bilal was 29 with five children, ages 11 years to 6 months, when her husband decided he'd had enough of her and them and divorced her. She now works as a washing woman and regrets not having listened to radio announcements on the use of contraceptives.

Fears of divorce through childlessness, the belief that a good Moslem's prestige is measured by the number of wives and children he has, memories of high child mortality, the argument by al Azhar religious sheikhs that the birth of a child is the "act of God" are factors that encourage women in Egypt to have large families.

A farmer does not have to worry about feeding his seven children. A child of 5 in any Egyptian village can earn his or her keep. For the father more hands at work means more produce for sale and, maybe, a new cow.

Despite four wars in which thousands were killed, Egypt has been trying for over a decade now to curb a population that has jumped from about 19 million to 37 million in almost a generation.

A new plan followed warnings that the traditional birth control campaign had been ineffective over the past few years and that, if left untackled, the accelerating growth rate could bring the country's development to a standstill.

The 10-year plan aims at reducing the birth rate from about 34 to 25 per 1,000 by 1982. If successful it would give Egypt a population of 41 million instead of the 58 million projected by demographers.

"Spontaneous" birth control through a "change in attitude" is what social researchers and planners have already begun working for.

"We are dealing with human beings. To get what we want we must change their attitude ... by changing their situation," said Marcel Herz, a U.N. adviser to the Supreme Council for Population and Family Planning here.

"What's the use of having more than 3,000 family-planning clinics that are not massively visited?" he asked. "We must create better living conditions, raise the standard of living, to get a new attitude."

A good example of this is Me-halla el Kobra, a thriving industrial town north of Cairo in the Nile Delta region. It now boasts the lowest fertility rate in Egypt and one of the lowest in the world. The average number of children per family is 2.2.

Almost half of the town's working women practice birth control compared with 20 per cent in other urban areas and 2 per cent in the villages, said the population council's chairman Aziz Bindari.

Women's employment, however, was not the only reason for the decline in fertility. A 20-year-old complex known as the First Workers' City Village provided homes, schools, nurseries, clubs and medical centers to about 700 families connected with the town's textile company.

A company worker gets a full meal for three piasters (6 U.S. cents). A bottle of local cola costs two piasters. His wife can work without having to worry about leaving a baby with a neighbor. And there's someone who can tell her what to do when she's pregnant or if her husband is ill.

They don't need more children to increase their income or make up for lost children.

Homemaker's Haven

Why Blanch Vegetables?
There's one step in the freezing of vegetables that some homemakers think they can ignore. And that step is blanching.

But blanching — that is, the scalding of vegetables in hot water or steam before you put them into the package — is a must.

Here's why. Blanching inactivates most of the plant enzymes that might otherwise cause toughness, change in color, mustiness, loss of flavor, softening and loss in nutritive value.

And — blanching vegetables before freezing reduces the number of micro-organisms in the food.

Also, blanching can enhance the green color of vegetables — including peas, broccoli and spinach — giving them a fresh-from-the-garden look.

It also wilts leafy vegetables — such as spinach and other greens — making them easier to pack in the freezer container.

In addition, blanching displaces air that is trapped in the tissues of vegetables—and it saves and reserves the flavor of fresh vegetables.

So, if you're thinking about saving a step — and not blanching your vegetables — reconsider.

The session included reading of minutes of the last reunion by the secretary, Doris Dixon, of Greenville, group discussions concerning the reunion, selecting a name for the fund set up, and a speech delivered by the national chairman on "Are We Thankful?"

The reunion will be held next year in Columbus, Ga.

Miss Kathy Kleppinger Work On Building Weds Saturday Morning Self-Confidence

The marriage of Kathy Jane Kleppinger and Daniel Downey Sprau was solemnized Saturday at 11:00 a.m. in the St. James United Methodist Church. The double ring ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Roderick Randolph.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kleppinger of Richwood, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Sprau of Detroit, Mich.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Frances Cain, organist, and Sheila Marlowe, vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal, length gown of snow white dotted swiss designed with a round scooped neckline. The full encircling two layed collar of dotted swiss was edged in scalloped lace which originated on the center of the bodice. The cap sleeves formed beneath the collar. The gathered skirt fell from the modified empire waistline which was trimmed in scalloped lace.

She wore an elbow length veil edged in daisy lace and attached to a Juliet cap of crisscross design of lace. The veil was created by the bride. She carried a nosegay of orchid miniature carnations mixed with white daisies.

The maid of honor was Cathy Jourdan of Winston-Salem. She wore a formal length gown in a mixed pastel pattern fashioned with a square neckline bordered in matching Nile green satin ribbon. The ribbon banded the empire waist. She wore a crown of white daisies in her hair and carried a white wicker fireside basket of daisies tied with white satin ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jenny Blackman of Bristol, Ind., and Ms. Connie Burgess of Greenville. They were dressed identical to the honor attendant.

The best man was George Sprau of Detroit, Mich., and ushers were Gregory Sprau of Lynchburg, Va., and Harry Kleppinger of Prospect, Ohio.

The bride received her M.A. in college student personnel at Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio. She was employed as residence hall administrator at East Carolina University.

The bridegroom received his M.S. in radiological health at Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., and is presently employed as

The couple will reside in Gaithersburg, Md.

A reception followed the ceremony.

The reception table was covered with a pale yellow cloth and decorated with a three tiered wedding cake.

A rehearsal picnic was held Friday night at the Tar River Estates party room and guests included friends and relatives.

DEAR ABBY: A young lady wrote to you about her boyfriend's refusing to shake hands with anyone, and you said he probably had a "thing" about germs.

That's possible, but there could also be another reason, one that's plagued me for years—sweaty palms.

The only time my palms aren't wet is when I'm asleep. They even sweat in cold weather. In school, I used to wad up a handkerchief and keep it in my hand while I wrote. Otherwise, the sweat would drip off my palm onto the paper, and the ink would run.

I hesitated to ask a girl to dance because I'd get the back of her dress wet before the first dance was over. And the hand I held would get wrinkled from sweat until it looked like she just did a sink full of dishes.

No doctor has been able to help me, so I just live with it. It's rude to refuse to shake hands, so I just wipe my hands on my pants leg or coat at the last moment before shaking hands—but it's embarrassing.

I sympathize with anyone with this problem because I know how frustrating it is. If you should ever hear of a remedy, please let me know.

SWEATY PALMS

DEAR SWEATY: Doctors say it's nervousness. And the only remedy for nervousness is to build self-confidence and a better self-image. Work on it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are both 63. His father is 84, and a more handsome, robust, vigorous man you couldn't hope to meet.

Eight years ago, when my father-in-law was 76, his wife died. A year later he married a 40-year-old maiden lady. To everyone's surprise, a year later they became proud parents of a baby boy!

Obviously, this child is my husband's half-brother. The problem is that it sounds so utterly ridiculous for a 63-year-old man to introduce a 6-year-old child as his brother. People either say, "You're kidding," or they look at him as though he's crazy. (Everyone assumes the boy is his grandchild.)

Is there some way to get around this since the child calls my husband by his first name?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Why try to get around it? If an 84-year-old man doesn't mind being called "Daddy" by a 6-year-old, your 63-year-old husband shouldn't worry about introducing the boy as his brother.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Peanut Oil Good Base For Salads

By TOM HOGE

AP Newsfeatures Writer
An item which appeared in the newspaper recently said that the U.S. Department of Agriculture has been inundated with a bumper crop of 640 million pounds of peanuts.

Since the department is obligated by law to buy up U.S.-produced peanuts from the nation's 79,000 goober farmers at certain price support levels, it is going to turn out a lot of salad and cooking oil this year. Which calls to mind another item I recently noted from the other side of the Atlantic.

It seems that the bulk of the oil used in the homes and restaurants of France for both salads and frying is derived from the peanut. The French acquired a taste for this type of oil through development of the peanut crop in the African colonies they administered before the parade to statehood on that continent in the early 1960s.

If France, one of the world's most salad-conscious nations, dresses greens chiefly with the oil of the peanut, it must have something going for it.

For one thing, peanut oil is light and delicate and blends well with vinegar, herbs and spices. For another, it clings evenly to lettuce leaves and other salad ingredients, without adding an identity of its own.

Many chefs and housewives who have developed a salad dressing to their liking tend to shroud it in mystery. But the fact is that these dressings are among the easiest seasonings to prepare.

It may be as basic a blend as three parts oil to one part vinegar plus salt and pepper to taste. Or its flavor range may be expanded to include garlic, dry mustard, parsley and other herbs. So long as the ratio of three parts oil to one part vinegar is maintained, a cook can hardly go wrong.

If you prefer a lightly seasoned salad, try a dressing of peanut oil, vinegar or lemon juice, salt, pepper and a touch of dry mustard. For a spicier, more robust dressing for a salad main course or a salad which accompanies a hearty evening meal, try this dressing, which should be served at room temperature.

- 3/4 cup peanut oil
- 1/4 cup vinegar
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/4 teaspoon dried oregano or basil
- 1 clove garlic

Place peanut oil, vinegar and remaining ingredients in a pint jar with a tight-fitting lid. Mix well. Remove garlic clove before serving. Makes 1 cup dressing.

May Point Way To Solutions

Congressman Walter Jones announced grants of $470,000 for support of a health care system in Greene County in ceremonies at Snow Hill this week.

The money will go to Greene County Health Care Inc. and the funds will come from Rural Health Initiative under HEW and the National Health Service Corps.

As the congressman pointed out, there are 15,000 people living in Greene County, but only two practicing physicians and no dentists.

"This grant will aid the county in obtaining medical and dental service personnel and equipment and will provide for the renovation of buildings for the delivery of health services," Jones said. He cited the Office of Community Health Services under the ECU School of Allied Health and Social Professions for assisting in obtaining the grant.

Those who are looking for solutions to the health care problems will be watching the developments in Greene County as these grant funds are put to work in seeking better health care.

Greene County has had the problem that so many North Carolina counties have faced; that is how to attract trained health personnel to a rural area when more lucrative situations beckon in the cities. The health care problem that faces rural areas, they have in common with the less affluent areas of the cities. Thus the solutions which are developed in Greene County may provide answers to similar problems in other rural counties and in the poorer areas of the cities, as well.

North Carolina is at work on many fronts these days attempting to provide better health care for all its citizens. Some or all of these programs should bring results in the years ahead, and it could be that this recently funded program in Greene County may point the way to solutions of many of our health problems.

OLD STONE FACE MAKING UP HIS MIND!

A Shark In Washington

WASHINGTON—The great white shark swam back and forth in the reflecting pool in front of the Lincoln Memorial. A Democratic congressman was skinny-dipping in the pool with his girlfriend after a hard day's work. Suddenly the shark's eyes spotted the body in the water and attached. His huge jaws clamped to torso of the congressman who screamed once before disappearing into the depths of the pool as a pinkish red circle of blood rose to the top.

The frightened girl ran to a park policeman. "A shark in the reflecting pool just ate a Democratic congressman." The park policeman wrote all the information down, and out about the shark no one will come to Washington. "Yet if we don't act and another Democratic congressman gets killed by the shark they might accuse us of a coverup," an aide pointed out. "I think the first thing to do is to find out how the shark got there. Does anyone know if the CIA put a shark in the reflecting pool?" the President said.

Tourist Shows Tried

By DONALD SANDERS Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is providing live entertainment for tourists while they wait, sometimes for two or three hours, to see some of the capital's monuments.

Five young actor-musicians, the Strolling Troubadours, will perform through August at tourist sites in Washington.

The $38,000 program is supported jointly by the National Endowment for the Arts and National Capital Parks.

Heads of the two federal agencies, Nancy Hanks and Jack Fish, attended the opening performance Tuesday on the Ellipse, just south of the White House.

The performers, who will do four shows a day Tuesday through Sunday plus extra presentations, have prepared a variety of programs which they will try to tailor to their audiences — Western, Southern, mid-American or whatever.

Miss Hanks said the idea was hatched in the National Council on the Arts, a presidentially appointed panel of 26 members which acts in an advisory capacity to her agency.

"We were talking about using young, creative people and the bicentennial and we said where would you find so many people from all over the country, waiting to get into our monuments?" she said. The five performers tell stories, do mime, encourage audience participation and sing songs.

If the idea catches on, it will be repeated during the bicentennial year of 1976.

It seemed to have caught on Tuesday, although a few people were surprised by the idea.

Mary Krug, a spokesman for National Capital Parks, said several tourists approached her and asked, "What are they doing?"

When she replied that they were entertaining people waiting in line, Mrs. Krug recounted, they said, "You've got to be kidding."

THIS AFTERNOON

Individual Route On Crime

By BILL NOBLITT RALEIGH—Is North Carolina nearing a period of time in which it's almost every man for himself in the fight against crime? With record numbers of citizens arming themselves, business and industry relying heavily on private security, housing developments building chain link and barbed wire fences, isolated communities banding together to provide armed anti-crime patrols, it seems to some crime experts that this may be the case.

Viewing these developments increasingly across the state, State Bureau of Investigation Director Charles Dunn is concerned.

It's a fact, Dunn confesses, that the crime problem is increasing, while Law enforcement generally is not increasing in manpower, techniques, or successful solutions fast enough to keep pace.

The Tragedy The tragedy of North Carolina's apparent trend toward an armed camp is that all the energy, effort, and money being spent is not going toward support of organized law enforcement, Dunn thinks. The reality is, however, that despite massive doses of public support and dollars, law enforcement simply can't keep pace with the spiraling crime rate.

The reasons are many and complex, having to do with the leniency of the courts, the admitted failure of prison officials to successfully rehabilitate convicts, a breakdown in societal values, continuing failure of home, church, and school to meet the shifting demands of modern time—even the current recession.

At some degree, Dunn believes, increases in burglaries and armed robberies across the state are the result of the recession.

Not, he says, because people are hungry; but because they can see certain advantages to making a living as a criminal. "It is to some degree brought on by a lack of job opportunities causing some to turn to crime..." but Dunn does not believe those individuals are forced into crime.

Inflated Values Rather, they see an area in which they pay no taxes, in which they can make more money than many current legitimate opportunities provide, and in which they can speedily catch up and keep up with modern-day inflated values on consumer goods: the flashy car, stereo, sporty clothes.

The result, alarming increases in crime statistics, made real for Tar Heels at home who see homes broken into in previously untouched neighborhoods; rural housewives who are afraid to open the door at night. So, while official figures cannot describe the extent, North Carolinians, arm themselves, form private law enforcement, clubs, and patrol their own communities.

If things continue in this direction, Dunn believes, in another two decades citizens will be more dependent upon those private techniques for protection than upon law enforcement systems.

That growing apprehension among people and their intention to protect themselves, Dunn thinks, would be better directed into official law enforcement channels.

At the same time, he recognizes the political realities of the situation and has come out against rigid gun control legislation.

The alternative, he thinks, goes in the direction of licensing gun owners, and requiring training in the use of firearms—much as auto drivers are now policed.

The INSIDE REPORT

'De-Americanizing' Moves

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK MANILA—Attempts by President Ferdinand E. Marcos to balance suppression of Moslem insurgents with courtship of the Arab oil bloc reflects the new de-Americanized foreign policy of the Philippines.

To the dismay of army officers, Marcos has pulled military punches against escalated guerrilla operations on the southern island of Mindanao rather than give Arab states the impression of a Christian nation waging holy war against its Moslem minority. What's more, he has turned the other cheek to Moslem countries aiding the insurgents.

Such deference to the Arabs was prompted by Philippine economic suffering from higher oil prices last year with their big American brother standing helplessly. That was one of several shocks — beginning with the 1969 Nixon Doctrine and climaxed by the 1975 Indochina debacle — adding to U.S. decline in East Asia and causing Marcos to end Manila's echoing of Washington. Besides the Arab courtship, the new policy emphasizes regional Asian ties, abandons vocal anti-Communism and embraces Communist China. Nor does the Philippines any longer copy American political and social models. Martial law under Marcos is flourishing after 1,000 days, reflecting a consensus that American democracy is simply not for this country. Marcos returned last month from Peking rapturous about the Chinese system and suggesting its applications here. For better or worse, the Filipinos are no longer, in William Howard Taft's unfortunate phrase, "our little brown brothers."

Marcos's determination to establish a distinctly Philippine foreign policy is shown by its interaction with his worst domestic problem: the Mindanao insurrection. While scattered Communist insurgents are no problem, Moslem guerrillas grow stronger and recently pulled off two bloody ambushes of Philippine troops (unreported in the controlled Manila press). Some 30,000 Philippine troops in Mindanao are not close to suppressing guerrillas whose ancestors plagued Spanish and American colonialists.

But overshadowing the insurgency has been the world oil crisis, stunning for this poor, oil-importing country. Impromptu remarks by Marcos in the town of Lucena last February more clearly reflect his thinking than formal speeches. What will happen, he asked, "if all these countries producing oil — Arab nations — would support this (Mindanao) secessionist movement?... Where will we go? The United States is in a chaos too. She cannot even help Vietnam or Laos."

Since then, not only did Marcos unequivocally support the Arabs in the Mideast but, confide his generals, he restrained the anti-guerrilla campaign in Mindanao. Although Marcos confirmed to us that Libya is supplying insurgents with European arms, he has raised no international furor.

Marcos also confirmed to us that the rebels are aided by Tun Mustapha, chief minister of the Malaysian state of Sabah, and that insurgent leaders have been trained by Malaysia's central government. But seeking to erase the American-puppet stigma and work closely with Malaysia and other Asian nations, Marcos has not protested.

At the heart of his new foreign policy is China. Could not the communique establishing diplomatic relations be interpreted as a non-aggression treaty? "Well," he replied in our interview, "suppose I don't interpret but merely quote Chairman Mao Tse-tung. He said we will not plot, conspire against each other or seek to overthrow each other." Marcos has few illusions about how much protection that provides. But he was captivated by China — to the unease of rich Filipinos. We heard him address civil servants here, admonishing them to avoid copying "foreign models" and then praising Chinese practices. Clearly, "foreign" meant "American."

In our interview, the President described Chinese "self-reliance, their unity, their dedication, their self-abnegation." Did he find anything unattractive there? "No," he answered, adding that workers and peasants could criticize commune leaders. "It gave a taste of democracy." My impression was always that it was authoritarianism and that orders came from above. But the impression that I got was the other way around.

Marcos's "new society" does resemble Chinese "democracy" more than the American original. The President told us he favors martial law continuing here so long as the world recession and the southern insurgency continue — probably a very long time. There is no doubt of his authoritarian regime's popularity. While poverty and corruption persist, Marcos has curbed the crime and social disorder which dominated when we last visited here in 1970.

With his ten years in power comprising one-third of total Philippine independence, Marcos looms as the dominant figure in the republic's history. Charismatic and a brilliant (Continued on page 5)

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor: I would like to publicly thank Senators Julian Aillsbrook and Vernon White for voting to adopt the conference report for House Bill 28 to abolish age discrimination in automobile insurance.

This is legislation that the people of our State need and want, and I am proud that your Senators voted for the people and for fairness in automobile insurance rates.

For much too long our young people and their parents have felt the sharp edge of age discrimination, and I know that they are as proud of this vote as I am. It was a landmark victory. No safe driver should receive a rate increase.

North Carolina is the first State in the Nation to abolish the "Assigned Risk" with a Reinsurance Facility and to abolish age discrimination. These two accomplishments make North Carolina a National leader in automobile insurance reform.

I have already started hearings to implement House Bill 28 effective September 2, 1975. I am sure the people of your District will want to thank Senators Aillsbrook and White for supporting this needed reform.

JOHN INGRAM Commissioner of Insurance State of North Carolina

To the editor: I'm getting tired reading letters to the editor in The News & Observer complaining about the establishment of a four-year medical school at East Carolina University.

We taxpayers here on Indian Beach do not feel that "we was robbed." We live on seafood (charcoal mullet and squid a specialty) and seldom need a doctor. If, however, we should cut our toe on a seashell we might need a good country doctor to sew it up!

With the leadership of Dr. Jenkins, the backing of The Daily Reflector, and the backing of many other newspapers, perhaps we can progress without the help of the "Old Reliable." We here on Indian Beach are solidly behind Leo and the new med school. Who knows, we might even elect Leo governor where he would really be in the driver's seat!

GAMBLING In recent years we have seen a great upsurge of gambling in this country. Race track betting is now common, and an increasing number of states have inaugurated lotteries. Nevada, with its completely unrestricted gambling, is one of the most notorious sports of its kind in the world. Aside from the moral question involved, licensed gambling is an uneconomic and inequitable way for states to raise money. It is highly regressive insofar as the money raised almost always comes from the people who can least afford to

Middleman Found 'Not Guilty'

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — When things go wrong in our economic life we tend to look for scapegoats, and so we blame the Arabs, big business, big labor, the government, speculators, politicians, and on through an endless list. Quite easily we satisfy ourselves about their culpability and don't bother to search for deeper explanations, of which there are often quite a few. Remember the ubiquitous middleman and high food prices in 1974. The middleman, presumably everyone who stood between the farmer and the consumer, was stealing money right out of our pockets, or at least we liked to say that. His greed became legend. He was ruining the country. Well, now the middleman has been cleared, if it makes any difference at this late date. He was not to blame, said the Council on Wage and Price Stability, for the 12.2 per cent increase in food prices last year. Instead, it said, higher world oil prices, the end of government price controls and rising wages, among other factors, contributed to the increase. There were no villains, said the council. No villains? There has to be, you say. Well, perhaps there was one: You. Food bills are rising for many reasons, the council said, but one of them is the fact that Americans are eating at restaurants more often. Even when Americans eat at home, the study showed, they tend to choose convenience foods, or foods that already have been partially prepared. Whereas we use our own labor when we prepare raw foods, we pay for somebody else's when the food comes processed. The truth is, the council continued, pricing patterns between farmers and food marketers, or middlemen, haven't changed very much over the past half century. Forty per cent of the food bill goes to farmers, 60 per cent to processors, wholesalers and retailers. With the villain theory removed, Americans are forced to look inward for their explanations. One of those explanations lies in rising expectations, which we have come to think of as our heritage.

Especially during the 1960s, Americans believed strongly that their lives would become better by the day. Higher wages, more luxuries and conveniences and comforts, and better services were expected as a right. The dream came true for many Americans and, rather than being satisfied, they seemed to aspire for even more. Human desires, said George Katona, a pioneer consumer scholar, are never satisfied. But progress, even of this sort, doesn't take place in a straight line. Reality intruded in the form of bills to pay and rising taxes and recession and inflation. The adjustment was difficult. Surveys now show that Americans aren't that cocky anymore about the future.

'New Directions Home' Director Is Announced

Brenda Wilkins has been named director of the New Directions family care home for delinquent and potential delinquent adolescents of Pitt County, it was announced by Dr. Stephen K. Creech, area director of the Pitt County Mental Health Center.

Her duties will include setting up and supervising treatment services for nine boys and girls who will live in the group home and providing counseling services for their families. Mrs. Wilkins will also be responsible for designing screening, admission, and evaluation procedures.

"Mrs. Wilkins will seek to create a community-based, comprehensive treatment program," Creech said. "The new director and counseling parents will work closely with the courts, law enforcement agencies, schools, social services, churches, and volunteer agencies and groups."

"This project seeks to demonstrate that working closely with children in a small group setting can be much more effective than in large institutions," he said.

Mrs. Wilkins was graduated from Richmond Professional Institute, Richmond, Va. She was previously employed as a caseworker in the Lenoir County Department of Social Services in the area of child neglect and abuse.

She resides with her husband, Robert, and daughter, Kerri, six, in Greenville. Wilkins is employed by IBM. The family attends St. Gabriel's Church.

Rising prices for raw sugar may mean consumers will pay more for the sweetener they stir in their iced tea and sprinkle on their fruit this summer. But the experts do not anticipate anything like last year's sharp increase.

Two major refiners said Monday that they were boosting their charges for grocery sugar — the kind they sell to supermarkets. It was the first increase since last November and followed 15 price decreases.

The move put the wholesale price of sugar at about 26 cents a pound or $1.30 for a five-pound sack. The amount and timing of any increase at the retail level depends on several factors, including the amount of lower-priced sugar the stores have in stock and whether they are willing to risk the wrath of consumers who boycotted sugar last fall when prices skyrocketed.

The refiners said the price they pay for sugar had gone up, although it remained well below what it was a year ago. The price of raw cane sugar on the New York market was 17 cents a pound at the start of this week, up three-fourths of a cent from the end of last week.

A year ago, the same sugar sold for 26 cents a pound and by the start of last November, prices had gone up to 60 or so cents a pound.

Fred Gray of the Economic Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture said, Tuesday he did not think the new increase was the start of another price spiral.

"The price might go up some, but it would seem to be temporary," he said.

Gray said one factor in the increase might be recent rains in the upper Midwest which hurt the sugar beet crop. But he said he did not expect the kind of worldwide shortage that there was last year.

"Based on available supplies, there is no reason for the price to go up that high," Gray said, referring to last year's increases.

He warned, however, that if people in the sugar industry believe there might be a shortage — whether real or imagined — the price could jump temporarily.

Hope For $10 Million Campaign

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's campaign managers hope to spend the full $10 million permitted by law in his campaign for the 1976 Republican nomination, an informed source said today.
Ford campaign officials said the spending limits in the new federal campaign law mean the President Ford Committee will have about 50 to 55 employees. By contrast, President Richard M. Nixon's 1972 campaign committee had more than 200 employees.
Following Ford's formal announcement of candidacy Tuesday, his campaign managers were said to be considering whether to seek the $10 million all in private funds or accept up to $5 million in federal funds, the source said. The new law gives candidates matching federal funds after they raise $250 in contributions of under $250 in each of 20 states.
Another early decision will be where to find permanent office space for the committee headed by former Secretary of the Army Howard H. Callaway and the fundraising operation headed by former Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard.
The current law limits candidates to spending $10 million in pursuing the nomination. Once nominated, they can spend another $20 million in the general election. The total limit of $30 million is about one-half of what President Richard M. Nixon's 1972 campaign spent and also is less than what was spent by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., the 1972 Democratic challenger.

Ford, however, is gearing up in anticipation of a primary battle. His announcement came the same day that it was disclosed a committee is being formed for a possible challenge to the President by former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.
Reagan denied reports that he had decided to challenge Ford and said his future plans "will be announced some time this year."
He said he was aware of the efforts to organize a committee to examine his chances as a candidate. "The committee people told me of their intentions and I neither encouraged nor discouraged them," he said.

Ford formally announced his candidacy in a 350-word statement he read to reporters while seated behind his desk in the White House Oval Office.
He pledged to conduct "an open and above-board campaign" to win a full four-year term in the office he inherited when Nixon resigned 11 months ago. He said he acted "with the strong support of my family and my friends."

Feeble Impact By Tax Credit

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the appeal of a $2,000 tax credit, new home sales still are insufficient to bring about a major reduction in the nation's big backlog of unsold homes, a government agency says.
As a result, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board concludes that any real boom in construction of either single-family housing or multi-family dwellings "is a long way off."
The board said Tuesday the tax credit that took effect in late March appears to have had a weak impact on the inventory of unsold homes, in part because new housing starts are relatively high compared to sales.
The board said sales increased 11,000 in April compared to March but the inventory of unsold single-family homes declined only 7,000 units to a total of 380,000 homes in April, the month the program should have had its greatest impact, it said.
An analyst for the board, which regulates savings and loan associations, said the April backlog of homes was equal to about 8.1 months of sales. That was a high figure, though an improvement from previous months, he said. Figures for May were not yet available, though new housing starts in that month increased 14.2 per cent over April's total.

The sales situation for multi-family dwellings, such as condominiums, is even worse, he said.
Congress enacted the $2,000 tax credit in March — as part of the 1975 tax reduction program — at the urging of Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La. The purpose was to help home builders unload their huge backlog of homes and to get the depressed housing industry back on its feet.
In its simplest terms, the credit is equal to 5 per cent of the purchase price of a new home, with a maximum credit of $2,000. To qualify, a home must have been under construction before March 26 of this year.

Could Get More Rain

By The Associated Press
North Carolina is in position for copious rains during the next several days over portions of the state.

The rains will be in the form of scattered thundershowers about every day.

Scattered showers have been falling the last few days to give drought-stricken areas much-needed relief.

There has been a shift in the upper winds from the northwest to the west and southwest during the last few days. The surface winds have also become southwesterly. The pressure is relatively low over the mid-Atlantic states. There is a moist layer of air about 12,000 feet thick over North Carolina. Now that the rains have started, it is easier to get more. All these indications add up to a good chance of rain during the next few days.

Roxboro hit the jackpot on rainfall. It reported two and two-thirds inches in a big thunderstorm that filled ditches and small streams to overflowing Tuesday night. There was also some half-inch hail at Roxboro.

Hickory measured two-thirds of an inch Tuesday afternoon.

A large thunderstorm moved over Randleman Tuesday night and dumped more than two inches. That brought a 36-hour total of about three and two-thirds inches.

Testing Jetfoil For Cities' Commuter Transport

By BRUCE DUNFORD
Associated Press Writer
HONOLULU (AP) — When it's sitting at the dock, the 90-foot 112-ton vessel looks like just another ungainly double-deck harbor cruise boat. But when its twin gas turbine waterjet engines begin sucking up and expelling 220 tons of seawater per minute, the hull rises smoothly and the craft quickly accelerates to nearly 50 miles an hour, only knife-like steelstruts slicing the water. This is the Seafite Jetfoil, billed as the nation's first commercial hydrofoil and an eventual answer to commuters' dreams in many cities. The first of three Jetfoils built by the Boeing Aerospace Co. for Seafite was tested here for several weeks and began passenger service in mid-June with less than capacity crowds aboard. The craft makes daily runs to neighboring islands, competing with established airline service. But the Jetfoil is being watched closely for its potential on shorter commuter runs. Its designers talk of pleasant, smooth commuter service from Great Neck to Manhattan in 18 minutes, San Francisco to the San Francisco Airport in 38 minutes and Bremerton to Seattle in 21 minutes. Hawaii officials including the governor have ridden the Jetfoil and are looking at the possibility of buying and subsidizing the 250-passenger craft to cut the traffic jams between Honolulu and its seaside suburbs. "It does have a jiggle, joggle," says a Seafite technical adviser, Justus Muller.

"It's like a ride on a train back in the days when there was such a thing as a good train ride." To many who took demonstration rides here the Jetfoil also suggested a plane, and in fact there are marked similarities. The submerged hydrofoil beneath the struts is like the wing of an airplane, and the 3,000-horsepower engines do essentially the same thing with water that a jet aircraft engine does with air. Passengers sit in a two-level air-conditioned cabin complete with airline-style seats, fold-down trays and attendants to serve food. The ocean swells and chop pass beneath the hull, and the motion the passenger feels is more like a plane in flight turbulence than a ship at sea. The smooth ride is aided by a computer-controlled automatic pilot. "In effect the skipper operates the vessel by telling the computers which direction he wants to go, at what speed and at what height," says Muller. "The computers do all the rest. The skipper and co-pilot really only serve as lookouts." In swells higher than eight feet the automatic pilot follows the rise and fall slightly. When a swell reached 20 feet the Jetfoil begins to pitch and dive, officials say. But they note that sea that heavy is rare even in Hawaiian waters, which are generally rougher than most areas where the Jetfoil could be used for tourists or commuters. Because of its nearly waveless wake the Jetfoil can be used close to shore and in tight channels, Seafite officials say. They maintain that it is extremely safe.

Evidence Of Soviet Base

WASHINGTON (AP) — A member of a Congressional study committee that recently toured the military complex at Somalia says the group saw many signs of advanced military technology, believed paid for and put there by the Russians. Rep. Floyd Spence, R-S. C., said the 10-member group saw a port, a newly-constructed airfield, missile handling and storage facilities, a high frequency communications complex and a barracks complex at Berbera, on the eastern tip of the African country. "It is a perfect location for a Soviet base, since we have nothing, with the exception of Diego Garcia, in the Indian Ocean," he said. "At this location, the Russian fleet would have a command of the Indian Ocean, the Red Sea area, the Suez Canal and a vital part of the Mideast. Also, it would be the only place outside Russia for refueling Soviet ships and replenishing missile stock aboard those ships," Spence said. The South Carolina congressman said the group was not allowed to take photographs of the missile facility and was not permitted to board a Russian barracks ship anchored at the port. He said the ship had apparently been docked at the port for several years. "We have to do something, protect our own interests. We must try to obtain a facility of our own. We would have to expand Diego Garcia," Spence said.

Wm. Burton To Address Meet Of Engineers

CHARLOTTE—William J. Burton of Charlotte, vice president of Corporate Communications for Duke Power Co., will be the keynote speaker for the summer meeting of the Professional Engineers of North Carolina July 10-12 at the Myrtle Beach Hilton, Myrtle Beach, S.C. TO SEEK PRESIDENTIAL AID—New Orleans Mayor Moon Landrieu, second from left, addresses newsmen at a press conference of big-city leaders at the U.S. Conference of Mayors in Boston. The mayors said they will seek President Ford's support this week for three federal aid bills that would give states and cities almost $12.5 billion a year. From left are mayors Kenneth Gibson of Newark, N.J.; Landrieu; Abraham Beame of New York, and Joseph Alioto of San Francisco. (AP Wirephoto)

Pitt School Bd....

Board members also tabled action, for the second consecutive meeting, concerning the exemption of students from taking final examinations. The board adopted a policy in May that all students must take final examinations and no students would be exempted.

Since that time, Ayden-Grifton High School Principal Bill Wiggins has asked the board to reconsider its decision and allow seniors with averages of 93 or above to be exempted from the final examination.

Board member Dr. Jack Carson of Grifton said he had talked with Wiggins, several faculty members and students in the Ayden-Grifton area and that the feeling was final exemption for seniors with 93 or above average was good for student motivation and that the students worked a little harder so they would be exempt for the examination. The principals of the other three county high schools said earlier they were in favor of no exemptions for examinations, regardless of the grade average.

Bill McLawhorn, board member of Ayden, said he felt the final examination would not have any real bearing on the students who have put forth effort and have made good grades during the year... it is just another senior privilege to be exempt for the final exam. "If the students were exempt from taking examinations in their good subject areas, more time could be spent in studying the weaker subjects. The exemption would help a student who might be good in math or history but who needs additional time to study his English."

McLawhorn said. Board member Tom Patterson of Farmville said he agreed that the final examination would not have that much meaning but he wondered if exemption of the final examination for seniors would not lead to further "chipping away" of examination requirements.

Board members accepted a bid submitted by Mrs. Helen G. Davis for the South Ayden School property. Her bid totaled $40,500.

McLawhorn asked that the funds be used to fill several needs in the Ayden Schools. He requested the funds be set aside until concrete uses are determined.

"There are many needs in our area and I would like for the board to review our situation and make the best possible use of the money," McLawhorn said. The board agreed to put the funds in escrow until utilization of the money is determined.

Bill House of Bethel asked the board to use funds from the recent sale of the Bethel Primary School property for library furniture, drainage and playground improvement at the Bethel Elementary School. Approval was given by the board.

Assistant Supt. Jack Edwards discussed the concern of school principals concerning the high school diploma which is awarded by the Pitt County Schools at the completion of necessary requirements.

"Students graduating from Pitt County Schools have such a wide variation in quality points earned and knowledge obtained, yet they are receiving an identical high school diploma and causing concern with the high school professional personnel and with the general public," Edwards said. "For example, one student may have earned 144 quality points while another student may have earned only 20 quality points. Each will receive a high school diploma from the Pitt County Schools.

Edwards, representing the high school principals, recommended that the board consider awarding an academic, general or vocational diploma, depending on what areas of study the student was involved in during his high school years.

It was recommended that the first class to be affected by the request, if approved, would be the graduating class of 1979.

"We feel this would not only eliminate those students who do not have the mental capacity to achieve, but also those who have put forth no effort," Edwards said. "This is an attempt to upgrade the educational program in Pitt County."

Students who do not meet the requirements to receive a high school diploma will be awarded certificates showing their subject unit totals and quality points for four years of high school.

The board tabled action on the diploma matter until the August meeting.

A revised maintenance budget totaling $438,000 was approved for the 1975-76 fiscal year.

The board had requested $668,000 for maintenance from the Pitt County Commissioners but the commissioners approved a budget of $438,000.

Items which were deleted from the maintenance budget for next year included $3,000 for refinishing of the gym floors in the four high schools; furniture for the proposed middle schools at Farmville and Belvoir-Pactolus-Stokes, $24,000; OSHA equipment and materials was changed from $10,000 to $5,000; and the municipal water system at G.R. Whitfield School, $4,000.

The board signed an agreement with the State Board of Education to provide a hot lunch, breakfast, and special milk to students in keeping with the rules and regulations of both the State Board and Pitt County Board.

Nationwide Insurance Co. was approved for school insurance for the next school year. The cost will be $3.25 per student.

Associate Superintendent Tom Craft told the board that he had met with the Ayden Advisory Council to discuss a kindergarten addition to be built at Ayden Elementary, as well as a preliminary discussion of the selection of a site for construction of a new Ayden Grammar School.

A committee will be named to study available sites for the proposed school and a report will be made to the board at a later date.

Board members agreed to offer the Farmville Middle School site to the Town of Farmville for the appraisal value of $156,000. If the town is not interested in purchasing the property, which is located in downtown Farmville, the property will be put up for public auction with the bidding to start at the appraisal value.

John McKnight, director of testing for the Pitt County Schools, was employed for another month and will be paid by county funds if federal funds can not be obtained.

McKnight, who has been implementing a testing, evaluation and research program for the Pitt County Schools, will be working to obtain federal funds so that the testing program research can be completed. So far, the program has not been funded for another year.

Recommended changes to a new position classification plan were passed without discussion.

It was decided to employ an engineering firm to prepare plans and determine access for a new line to the proposed Middle school at the intersection of N.C. and Stokes Highway. No money for the new line will be budgeted by the school board until next year, it was learned, but the commission decided to begin study of the new line so it can be built as quickly as possible when the money comes. Present plans call for the school to be ready by August of next year. The cost of work by the engineering firm will be reimbursed to the Commission, Horne said.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—Trading was moderate on the North Carolina egg market Tuesday. Prices were steady to weak, offerings were light to moderate and demand moderate.

Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs delivered in cartons to nearby retail outlets: Grade A large whites 57.77, medium whites 49.40, small whites 39.14.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—Prices were sharply higher on the state's leading grain markets Tuesday.

No. 2 yellow corn 2.87-2.90 in the East and 2.85-3.00 in the Piedmont; No. 1 yellow soybeans 5.35-5.46; No. 2 red winter wheat 2.82-2.90; No. 2 red oats 1.25-1.34; and barley 1.55-1.65.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina hog markets were steady today. Kinston and Wilson 56.00-57.00; High Falls 55.25-56.25; Salisbury 52.00; Tarboro and Bethel 53.50-54.00.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—Broiler and fryer market trading was moderate today. Prices unsettled for next week. Supplies light to moderate. Demand moderate to good. The North Carolina FOB dock weighted average price for less than truck lots of sized plant-grade broilers to be picked up at docks this week is 54.09 cents per pound. Estimated slaughter today was 1,142,000.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market staged a strong advance today, inspired by hopes for an end to the recent rise of interest rates.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 8.14 at 865.93. Gainers overpowered losers by more than a 3-1 margin in accelerated trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts noted that the market had begun to turn upward at midday Tuesday, when open market money rates turned back after a significant climb in recent weeks.

Short-term rates were mixed today, with Treasury bill rates up a bit. But brokers said Tuesday's declines had nevertheless served to remove some fears from the market that a renewed upsurge was developing in the cost of money.

Brokers also said the market was benefiting from General Motors' rise to new highs for the year Tuesday and again today. As the largest company in one of the nation's largest industries, GM is frequently described as a 'bellwether' issue.

GM shares were trading at 49 1/2, up 1/4 on the day, after touching 50. Walt Disney Productions jumped 2 1/2 to 51 1/2. The company said its earnings for the latest fiscal quarter and nine months reached record levels.

Polaroid was up 3/4 at 40 1/4 in active trading after a 2% gain Tuesday, when the company said its second quarter earnings would be better than had generally been expected at the start of the year.

The NYSE's composite index picked up .39 to 50.35 in the first hour. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained .51 to 92.88.

Harrill
SPINDALE—Mrs. Ramona Padgett Harrill, 46, of 205 Ellington Heights, Spindale, died Tuesday in the Rutherford County Hospital.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 11 a.m. from Crowe's Funeral Chapel by the Rev. Joseph Nolan Jr. and the Rev. Tom Frady.

A former correspondent of The Spindale Sun and The Rutherford County News, she was a graduate of Gardner-Webb College and Pitt Technical Institute, and a member of the First Baptist Church of Spindale.

Surviving her are her husband, Bobo Harrill of the home; a daughter, Mrs. Linda Brown of Greenville; her mother, Mrs. Eunice White Padgett of Mooresboro; and a brother, O.K. "Bud" Padgett of Cliffside.

Meet Tonight

The headline to an announcement in Tuesday's "The Daily Reflector" indicated the monthly meeting of the Greenville Recreation Commission would be held Tuesday night. That information is in error. The Recreation Commission meeting is taking place tonight beginning at 8 p.m. at the office of Recreation Department director Boyd Lee in the gymnasium on South Elm Street.

School Library Offering Books

FALKLAND—As announced earlier to parents and students, Falkland Elementary School is making available to students library books for the summer. Students are encouraged to take advantage of this opportunity to read for enjoyment and to maintain good reading habits. Teachers have chosen books from the library which seem to be favorites of students. Books may now be checked out through August 15 at the school office.

Arrested On Drug Count

A 26-year-old Washington man was arrested Monday by Pitt deputies and charged on three drug possession counts, resisting arrest and public drunkenness.

Richard Eugene Cauley of 1310 N. Market Street was charged following his arrest at 4:30 p.m. with possession of heroin, possession of marijuana, and possession of a Schedule Four drug (quallude), Sheriff Ralph Tyson reported.

He said that arresting officers confiscated a quantity of drugs and $500 in cash.

Bond on the heroin charge was set at $5,000, it was noted, as well as $5,000 on the quallude possession count, $500 on the marijuana charge, $200 on the resisting arrest charge, and $50 on the public drunkenness charge.

A hearing has been scheduled for Aug. 12 in District Court here.

Arrested On Morals Count

Guy Vernon Smith Jr., 39, of Route 1, Maysville, Ky. — a former Greenville resident — was arrested here about 6:40 p.m. Monday on indecent exposure charges following investigation of an incident that was reported a short time before.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Smith allegedly exposed himself to two teenaged girls walking in the 700 block of Maple Street.

Smith was placed under a $100 bond pending hearing of the case, scheduled for District Court here July 22.

Trio Sentenced In Assault Case

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Three of six Camp Lejeune Marines who were charged with raping a 15-year-old Swansboro girl last May pleaded guilty to reduced charges and were sentenced to prison terms of 16-20 years Tuesday.

David F. Ray, Bobby Bennett and Connie Ivory Jr., pleaded guilty to second degree rape and were sentenced by Superior Court Judge John Webb.

Another Marine, Nathaniel Griffin, pleaded guilty to aiding and abetting second degree rape and was given a 12-16-year sentence.

Henry Vega is to be tried later for first degree rape. A sixth Marine, David Michael Ellis, is in a Raleigh hospital for psychiatric examination at the request of his attorney.

Greenville—a manufacturer and distributor of plant foods and crop protection chemicals—has donated a self-contained compressed air breathing unit to aid firemen in close-in firefighting, a movie projector and screen, and a new fire hose.

The equipment donated by Swift Chemical—which maintains a large farm service center here—was obtained through a cooperative marketing program with Dow Chemical U.S.A. which provides for contributions to community service organizations from distributors of Dow's agricultural products. The awards are based on sales incentive.

R. A. Jenkins, area sales manager for Swift, presented the equipment to fire department president Neal Gaggett.

Ga.-Fla. Leaf Prices Below 1974's Opening

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)—Georgia and Florida growers of flue-cured tobacco, who had hoped for a jump in the value of their crops, saw sales begin Tuesday at a price slightly lower than the average on last year's opening day.

The Federal-State Market News Service reported the average price at 10 of the 12 Georgia-Florida markets was $86.45 per hundredweight, compared with $87.17 on the first day of auctions a year ago. No reports were available from the other two markets. Julian Bennett, Georgia president of the National Farmers Organization, had said growers must have $120 per hundred pounds to make a reasonable profit.

Growers complained during early sales last season that prices were too low but bids rose to finish at a record average of $102.81 per hundred weight.

The market news service said sales at the 10 markets totaled 3,770,427 pounds, down from 7,230,920 pounds sold on opening day last season when 18 markets held auctions. Better grades brought as much as $102 to $105 per hundredweight while lesser grades sold for as little as $80, the service said.

Archery Class

The Pitt County 4-H Clubs will be sponsoring Archery Classes for Pitt County youngsters ages 9-19. The classes are to be taught by Anna Dail of Winterville.

Registration for the classes will be held July 15, at 2:30 p.m. in the Pitt County Extension Office, 203 West Third Street, Greenville.

Babe Ruth Tournament Opening Here With Four Games Thursday

The Babe Ruth League's district tournament will get underway at Guy Smith Stadium Thursday at 2 p.m. with four games slated for play on the first day.

The tournament will continue through Sunday with the winners moving on to state competition. Separate tournaments are being held for the 13-year-old teams, and the 14-15 year-old teams. Five teams are competing in the 13-year-old group, while six are participating in the 14-15 year-old bracket.

The 13-year-olds open play at 2 p.m. Thursday with Washington (East) meeting Pitt County. At 4 p.m. Washington (West) will meet Greenville. Craven County received a bye.

Friday, at 10 a.m. Craven will meet the winner of the first game, while the losers of the Thursday games meet at 12 noon.

Saturday, the teams left in the winner's bracket meet at 10 a.m., with the two losers' bracket teams meeting at noon. The two survivors then meet at 2 p.m. If needed, a final game would be played on Sunday.

In the 14-15 year old group, two games are set Thursday at 6 p.m. Washington (West) meets Craven County in game one. Game two, at 8 p.m. sends Pitt County against Washington (West). Greenville and Creswell drew byes.

Game three, at 2 p.m. Friday, finds Creswell meeting the game one winner, while game four sends Greenville against the other Thursday winner at 4 p.m. At 6 p.m., the losers of two and three meet, while the losers of one and four meet at 8 p.m.

Saturday at 4 p.m. the two winner's bracket survivors meet, followed at 6 p.m. by the winners of games five and six. The winner of that game meets the loser of the 4 p.m. game at 8 p.m.

The finals will be played on Sunday at times to be determined.

Ryan Suffers 5th Loss In Row

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

It had all the earmarks of a great pitching duel ... Jim Palmer against Nolan Ryan, both named to the American League All-Star team this week.

It was great duel, all right, but the pitchers didn't dominate it. Palmer wasn't involved in the decision although he came within one out of becoming the first 14-game winner in the majors. And Ryan suffered his fifth consecutive defeat as the Baltimore Orioles downed the California Angels 8-5 in 10 innings Tuesday night.

Elsewhere, the Boston Red Sox edged the Minnesota Twins 6-5, the New York Yankees blanked the Texas Rangers 4-0, the Kansas City Royals trounced the Milwaukee Brewers 9-1, the Oakland A's wallopped the Cleveland Indians 15-5 and the Detroit Tigers downed the Chicago White Sox 3-0.

Palmer, although he allowed only six hits, was charged with all five California runs in 8 2-3 innings and blew a 5-3 lead with two out in the ninth. Ryan, who hasn't won since June 6, yielded 10 hits, six walks and eight runs — three of them unearned — in nine innings-plus.

The Orioles won the game on Mark Belanger's two-run single in the 10th following a walk and a two-base throwing error by first baseman John Doherty.

Red Sox 6, Twins 5

Fred Lynn's tie-breaking pinch single with the bases loaded in the ninth inning drove in the winning run. Jim Rice opened the ninth by beating out an infield hit and was sacrificed to second. After an intentional walk to Carlton Fisk, rookie reliever Tom Johnson, making his first appearance of the season, also walked Rick Burleson to load the bases. Lynn, who hasn't started the last few games because of a bruised hand, grounded a game-winning single into right field.

Yankees 4, Rangers 0

Catfish Hunter pitched a seven-hitter for his 12th victory and fifth shutout and Ron Blomberg hit a two-run homer in the first inning. Blomberg's homer off Steve Hargan was his fourth of the year and his first since he injured a shoulder April 26 while hitting a home run against Milwaukee.

Royals 9, Brewers 1

Harmon Killebrew's two-run double highlighted a five-run first inning against Bill Travers and John Mayberry added a three-run homer off Pete Broberg in the fourth. Meanwhile, Dennis Leonard scattered nine hits and blanked the Brewers until George Scott hit his 16th home run in the seventh.

A's 15, Indians 5

Gene Tenace drove in four runs with a homer and single, Billy Williams hit a two-run homer and Claudell Washington tripled twice, drove in two runs and scored twice. Ken Holtzman earned his fourth consecutive triumph with help from Jim Todd in the seventh.

Tigers 3, White Sox 0

Joe Coleman and John Hiller teamed up on a five-hitter and Ron LeFlore and Leon Roberts homered as the Tigers extended their winning streak to seven games.

Game Is Delayed

The Babe Ruth League found the plug pulled on it again last night at Jaycee Park with three outs left to go in the game.

Home Builders had battled into a 10-5 lead over College View and had only the final three outs to make when the lights were cut off by the city at the 10:30 p.m. curfew rolled around.

At the time, College View had loaded the bases with none out. It marked the fourth time in the past five games that the curfew has forced a postponement of the conclusion of the final game at the park, all with just a short-time left to go.

Leaders Get Win

Two shutouts were recorded by Ladies Softball League teams as Little Mint smashed Burroughs-Wellcome, 34-0, and Beltone bashed Daniels, 43-0.

In other games, Wachovia beat the Daily Reflector, 15-8 and Piggly Wiggly beat Coca-Cola, 15-9.

Little Mint got all it needed in the first pushing over 15 runs. They added 14 in the third.

The Daily Reflector jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the top of the first but it was short lived as Wachovia pushed over six in the bottom of the inning. Four in the second gave Wachovia the win.

Beltone got all it needed in the first against Daniels scoring four. Beltone added 11 in the second, 14 in the third and 14 in the fourth.

Coke pushed over six runs on P-W in the first and added three in the second for a 9-0 lead. P-W began to come back in the second with two tallies and then stormed ahead in the third with 11 runs. One in the fifth and sixth innings iced the win.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF INTENT TO PERFORM FLOOD ELEVATION STUDY

The Federal Insurance Administration of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development announced today that under authority of the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968, as amended, (P.L. 90-448) and the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973, (P.L. 93-234) it will fund a detailed study of the flood hazard areas in Greenville, North Carolina.

The study will be performed for the Federal Insurance Administration by the Wilmington District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The purpose of this study is to examine and evaluate the flood hazard areas in the community which are developed or which are likely to be developed and to determine flood elevations for those areas. Flood elevations will be used by the community to carry out the flood plain management objectives of the National Flood Insurance Programs. They will also be used as the basis for determining the appropriate flood insurance premium rates applicable for new buildings and their contents, as well as determining the rates to be used for the second layer of insurance on existing buildings and contents.

This announcement is intended to notify all interested persons of the commencement of this study so that they may have an opportunity at a public meeting, soon to be announced, to bring any relevant facts and technical data concerning local flood hazards to the attention of the Chief Executive Officer of the community for forwarding to the appropriate representatives of the Federal Insurance Administration.

The University of North Carolina got an "early" start last night and jumped on East Carolina for a 5-1 lead in the first three innings and it stood up for them, snapping the Buc winning streak at seven games.

The Pirates did come back for one more run, but the final 5-2 margin kept the Tar Heels firmly atop the North Carolina Collegiate League with an 11-4 record. The Pirates, in second place, are now 9-7.

Early Jones, the Tar Heel center fielder did most of the damage for the Chapel Hill team, smashing a three-run first inning homer, then coming back in the third to single in the fifth run.

Bob Feeney, chased by Jones' second hit of the game, was replaced by Pete Conaty, who turned in a gem the rest of the way. He came on with one out in the third, and didn't allow a hit until one was out in the ninth. He faced only 23 men during the six and two-thirds innings he hurled.

But his effort did little good for the Pirates as they were held in check on six hits by Bob Thompson. The Bucs hit the ball off him, recording only four strikeouts, but generally, they were right at someone.

It all got started in the top of the first with one away. Jim Baldwin walked and Kevin Haerberle singled to left. Bernie Menapace slapped a hit through the gap of the right side, allowing Baldwin to score, and moving Haerberle to third. After Menapace stole the first of four bases he was to swipe during the night, Jones stepped in and powered the ball over the fence in right for a three-run blast, giving the Tar Heels a 4-0 lead.

The other North Carolina run came over in the third. With one down, Menapace walked and proceeded to steal both second and third. Jones provided the punch again, singling to center to score Menapace.

That brought on Conaty, who got his job on the mound started by picking off Jones and getting out of the inning without further damage.

Only twice more did the Tar Heels get runners into scoring position. In the sixth, Menapace walked, stole second and moved to third on a long fly to right center. But on an attempted squeeze, he was caught off base and put out. Randy Porch reached on an error in the seventh and stole second, but died there.

The lone hit off Conaty was also by Porch, coming in the ninth with one man out. Porch was cut down stealing, however, as Conaty ended up with a one-two-three inning after all.

For the Bucs, however, it was a night of frustration. After they fell four runs down in the first, they were never able to mount a

Graniteers In Prep Victory

Mike Campbell had three hits, two triples, to lead the Graniteers to an 18-2 rout of Auto Specialty in the Babe Ruth Prep league last night.

Campbell drove in four runs and scored three times. The Graniteers pushed in ten runs in the first and coasted the rest of the way.

Auto Specialty slipped into the lead with a run in the first. Marian Crisp, walked and Rusty Davenport reached on a fielder's choice. Crisp stole third and a single by John Haynes scored Crisp.

Chip Davis reached on an error to start the Graniteer first. Eddie Moyer walked and Jeff Worthington reached on a fielder's choice to load the bases. David Holley walked forcing in Davis and a single by Todd Galloway drove in Moyer. An error on the play scored Worthington. Campbell tripled to right scoring Holley and Galloway.

Melvin Stocks kept things going with a walk and he stole second. Davis walked loading the bases and a single by Moyer scored Campbell. Worthington got a hit driving in two runs and hits by Holley and Galloway drove in the ninth and tenth runs.

The Graniteers scored one in the second, five in the third and two in the fourth. The only other Auto Specialty run came in the third as Crisp reached on an error and was later squeezed across.

Worthington and Galloway had two hits each for the Graniteers.

real threat.

Their first run came in the second. With one down, Howard McCullough reached on an error and courtesy runner Stuart Hatihcock moved to third on passed balls. He scored on a fielder's choice by Glenn Card. Ken Gentry followed with a two-out single, but the rally died there.

In the fifth, Eddie Lawing and Geoff Beaton both singled with two away, but nothing came of it.

The only other chance came in the seventh, when the second run scored. Addison Bass led off with a single, and Card got a hit. Both moved up on an out and Bass scored under the throw on an infield grounder by Lawing. A double play then got Carolina out of the jam, ending the last Pirate threat.

The Bucs are idle until Friday when they travel to Wilmington.

Gentry Top Summer Player

East Carolina University rolled up six straight wins last week in North Carolina Collegiate Summer Baseball League play. The feat moved the Pirates from fifth to second place in league rankings, marking the Pirates as the hottest team of the week.

No Pirate was hotter than shortstop Ken Gentry, though. The 5-11, 165-pound rising senior blasted nine hits in 22 at bats, including a three-run and a grand slam home run against Louisville, to earn "Player of the Week" laurels for the fourth week of summer league play. Gentry picked up nine runs batted in during the week, and played a flawless defensive game to match the hitting prowess. Normally not regarded as one who may someday challenge Henry Aaron in a home run hitting contest, Gentry nevertheless said he made a change in his hitting style during the week.

"Since playing college ball, I have been content to try to just get a piece of the ball, or just place my hits," Gentry explained. "I have been tired of hitting in the 200 range, though, so last week I just thought I would go back to being a free-swinging."

Gentry wasn't the only free-swinging on the club. Centerfielder Glenn Card matched Gentry's hit totals, but without the home runs and fell four short in runs batted in. Rightfielder Addison Bass belted the ball at a .375 clip for the week, driving in nine runs with the same number of hits.

On the mound, the Pirates got two wins and a save out of righthander Dean Reavis, while Terry Durham chipped in with a pair of wins as well.

With the Pirates putting some heat on league-leader UNC, the Tar Heels nevertheless have been showing that a 10-4 record is indicative of the hard work the Tar Heels have been putting in. Wayne Long turned in an almost unbelievable pitching performance against Louisville Friday. It was unbelievable because he shut the Hurricanes out on just six hits for the first seven innings, while striking out seven in the Tar Heels' 11-0 victory. Louisville has raked pitchers all over the league so far this season, as Charlie Stevens and Sonny Wooten continue to lead the league in hitting and three other batters remain over .300 in the statistics.

The "Gutsy Performer of the Week" award goes to Jerry Neal of Methodist. Neal, playing with a pulled hamstring suffered during the second week of the season against ECU, was 5 for 10 at the plate, and pitched 2.3 shutout innings to preserve a victory over Louisville.

Church Loop Leaders Win

Both of the divisional leaders in the Church Softball League, First Christian and Grace recorded victories last night as the league resumed play following the Fourth of July break. In the opening game on one field, Oakmont kept within a halfgame of Christian by downing St. Gabriel, 9-8. St. Gabriel pushed over two in the second, but Oakmont came back with three. St. Gabriel regained the lead with three in the third and added three more in the fourth for an 8-3 lead.

Oakmont rallied for six runs in the bottom of the seventh, however, to pull it out. The winning run came over on a hit by Singleton. Trinity nipped St. James, 14-13, in the second game. St. James pushed over three in the first, as did Trinity. St. James added five in the second and five more in the fifth for a 13-3 lead. But Trinity came back with one in the fifth, then added four in the sixth. They scored seven in the bottom of the seventh, with a double by Manning driving in the winning run.

Christian romped to a 15-3 win in the final game to maintain its American Division lead, downing First Presbyterian. Christian got one in the first and added five more in the second. They scored two in the third, four in the fourth and three in the fifth.

Presbyterian got two in the fourth and one in the fifth. In the National Division, Grace, the leader, opened up with a 14-5 win over People's Bible. Grace got three in the first with Lewis Hardee homering. They added six in the third and two in the fourth. Two more came over in the sixth and one in the seventh.

People's scored two in the first, one in the third and two in the sixth, trailing all the way. University-Mt. Pleasant took a 17-3 win over Arlington Street in the second game. U-MP scored nine in the first to put it out of reach. They added one in the third, four in the fourth and three in the fifth.

Arlington got two in the fourth and one in the seventh on B. Taylor's homer. In the final game, First Free Will upset Immanuel, 9-8. Both teams pushed over a run in the first. But FWB got two in the third to take the lead. They added six more in the fourth for a 9-1 lead, with Hines homering. Immanuel got two in the fifth on H. Helmer's homer, and came within one with five more in the seventh.

Marshall Cools Opponents' Bats

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
Mike Marshall on the mound for the Los Angeles Dodgers is a sight for sore eyes — not to mention sore rib cages.

"Mike's healthy now, and when he's healthy he's one of the best," said Los Angeles Manager Walt Alton after his ace relief pitcher helped the Dodgers beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0 Tuesday night. The broad-shouldered right-hander looked like the Marshall of old, checking the Pirates on one hit over three innings after taking over for injured Don Sutton in the seventh inning.

Marshall, last year's Cy Young winner, has been having a painful season this year due to a rib injury. But he threw with ease in batting practice for 20 minutes before putting the Pirates down and out. In the other National League games, the San Diego Padres beat the Chicago Cubs 8-6 in 15 innings; the New York Mets stopped the Atlanta Braves 4-3; the Cincinnati Reds trimmed the Philadelphia Phillies 2-1; the Houston Astros turned back the Montreal Expos 5-1 and the San Francisco Giants downed the St. Louis Cardinals 6-4. Sutton, 33-8, led 3-0 on a two-hitter going into the seventh when he was forced to leave the game. Unearned runs in the third and fourth innings helped Los Angeles to a 2-0 lead off loser Dock Ellis, and Jim Wynn homered to left with two outs in the sixth. Padres 8, Cubs 6
Fred Kendall's two-run single in the 15th inning lifted San Diego over Chicago. With one out in the 15th, Don Hahn doubled off Tom Detmore, 2-2, and Dave Winfield was walked intentionally. The runners moved up on a grounder by Hector Torres before Kendall singled to left.

Joe McIntosh, 7-7, San Diego's sixth pitcher in the game, got the victory that snapped the Padres' threegame losing streak and handed the Cubs their fourth straight loss. Mets 4, Braves 3
Dave Kingman's 15th home run of the season, a three-run blast in the sixth inning, powered New York over Atlanta. Wayne Garrett opened the game with his third homer of the year, giving the Mets 13 homers in their last eight games.

Reds 2, Phillies 1
Gary Nolan notched his first victory in almost a month with relief help from Rawly Eastwick as red-hot Cincinnati edged Philadelphia. Nolan, 8-5, scattered six hits in 6 2-3 innings before departing in the seventh when the Phillies scored their run. Astros 5, Expos 1
Dave Roberts fired a four-hitter and drove across two runs with two singles to lead Houston over Montreal. Giants 6, Cardinals 4
Bobby Murcer belted a two-run homer and Von Joshua ripped three hits and scored two runs, helping San Francisco beat St. Louis despite Ron Fairly's grand slam homer. The Giants, scoring early at the expense of Cardinal right-hander Bob Gibson, 2-8, built a 5-0 lead before Fairly crashed the seventh bases-loaded homer of his career in the sixth inning.

Thompson Signing With Denver; Second Big Blow For Older NBA

NEW YORK (AP) — All-American David Thompson has decided to sign with Denver of the American Basketball Association rather than Atlanta, dealing the Hawks and the National Basketball Association a second major setback in less than a month.

Atlanta, which held the NBA rights to Thompson, also lost Marvin "The Human Eraser" Webster to the Nuggets, who signed him for an estimated $1.2 million to $1.5 million. The deal for Thompson is expected to cost Denver as much as $3 million spread over six years and would make Thompson the highest paid rookie in the history of pro sports.

In Denver, the Rocky Mountain News reported in its late editions that it had learned the former North Carolina State star signed a Denver contract Tuesday in New York.

The story by News columnist Woodrow Paige Jr. said the signing will be announced on Monday, after sale of the Nuggets franchise to a Colorado group is completed.

Confirmation of Thompson's decision came Tuesday from Atlanta Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons.

"Atlanta has been informed by Larry Fleisher, Thompson's agent, that Thompson has made a decision to play in the ABA with Denver," Fitzsimmons told The Associated Press.

Fleisher, reached in New York, said, "David called me at 11:30 this morning and told me he had decided to play for Denver."

Management of the Atlanta team, which reportedly has been struggling financially, was distraught at the loss of Thompson, a three-time All-American at North Carolina State whose super leaping ability tabbed him for almost immediate pro success.

"We're extremely disappointed, but life goes on," said Hawks President and General Manager Bud Seretean. "We tried everything possible. We just didn't get it." Seretean said the Atlanta offer was substantially the same as Denver's.

"What we have to do is pick up the pieces and run with them—not bury ourselves in the sand," said Seretean, who spent most of the day with Fitzsimmons in attempts to reach either Fleisher or Thompson.

"I don't feel that Cotton and I were out celebrating tonight," he added.

He said the Hawks now would concentrate their efforts on signing second-round choice Bill Willoughby, a 6-8, 210-pounder from Dwight Morrow High School in Englewood, N.J.

Meanwhile, Nuggets' Coach Larry Brown was understandably delighted.

"I do think we signed the best two players coming out of college," Brown said. "The NBA felt that way and we felt that way all along. For the league to get a kid of his ability...it's really a good thing."

Formal signing of the 6-foot-4 Thompson was expected within a week. Bob King, assistant general manager of the Nuggets, said he didn't expect Thompson to be "signing anything for four or five days." Nuggets General Manager Carl Sheer was in New York to talk to Thompson and Fleisher, and to discuss other matters with ABA Commissioner Dave Debusschere, King said, and was returning to Denver Tuesday night.

One highly placed ABA source said: "We felt pretty sure of getting him (Thompson). We had indications as long as two weeks ago he would sign with Denver. If he does sign, it'll be just super for our league."

Kupec Loses In 1st Round

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (AP) — Chris Kupec, University of North Carolina quarterback seeking another year of eligibility, has lost his first round in court.

U. S. District Court Judge Hiram Ward has denied a motion for a preliminary injunction in his suit against the Atlantic Coast Conference and its commissioner, Bob James.

The injunction, denied after a hearing Tuesday, would have in effect overturned the ACC's hardship rule which Kupec is contesting.

Kupec, an all-conference quarterback from Sposset, N. Y., played three years of football at North Carolina. He played a part of two games in 1973 and broke his collarbone, which prevented him from playing anymore that season. The ACC hardship rule per-

CIA Report Differs Little From Commission's

By DAVID C. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA's own accounting to President Ford acknowledges some domestic misdeeds but contains few major differences from the findings of the Rockefeller Commission.

Like the Rockefeller report, the CIA document, which was delivered to the President last December and made public late Tuesday night, contains no evidence on the subject of alleged plots to kill foreign leaders.

Meanwhile, it was revealed that Richard M. Nixon, who reportedly refused to testify before the Rockefeller panel, now faces possible questioning by the Senate intelligence committee about assassination plots and other alleged agency wrongdoing.

Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Tuesday the committee would contact Nixon's lawyer about testifying.

"At this time we have no reason to believe that his testimony will be very important in connection with the assassination issue" but the committee would "have good reason to approach Mr. Nixon" about such subjects as illegal intelligence gathering, Church said.

The Senate panel on Tuesday questioned retired Maj. Gen.

Edward G. Lansdale about his role in CIA covert operations against the Cuban regime of Fidel Castro. Lansdale, who declined to speak with reporters, has been quoted on two occasions as saying that, while working on orders from the White House, he drew up contingency plans for the removal of Castro by any means, including assassination.

CIA director William E. Colby's report on domestic wrongdoing, which has come to be known as the "Vail Report" because it was delivered to the President while he was on a Christmas skiing vacation in Vail, Colo., outlines essentially the same instances of domestic surveillance documented by the Rockefeller Commission. The report, consisting of a six-page letter and 58 pages of documents, refers to two programs not mentioned in the Rockefeller report — recruitment of construction workers as informants during construction in the early 1960s of CIA headquarters at Langley, Va., and infiltration of agents into the

I-95 Work

RALEIGH (AP)—Contracts are expected to be awarded Friday for a 25 mile section of Interstate 95 that would complete the highway in the Rocky Mount area.

Bids for the project were opened Tuesday with apparent low bids totaling $41.5 million. Those bids, plus contracts awarded last month would complete the highway in the Rocky Mount area. It is expected to be opened in October 1979.

North Carolina's only section of I-95 still incomplete would be in the Fayetteville area.

Also opened Tuesday were bids on a half-mile section of the Raleigh Beltline. The apparent low bid was $2 million. Completion is scheduled for July 1977.

former Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, presumably for counterintelligence purposes.

The Vail report makes no mention of a program described by the Rockefeller Commission in which for a six-month period in 1973 the CIA monitored long-distance telephone calls between the United States and Latin America in an effort to identify narcotics traffickers.

Both reports were prepared for the President in response to allegations published by the New York Times that the CIA had conducted a massive illegal spy campaign against anti-war activists and other dissidents.

Colby assured the President that the agency was not guilty of massive domestic wrongdoing while the Rockefeller report said that, although the majority of CIA domestic activities were within the law, the agency also conducted a number of "plainly unlawful" activities which "constituted improper invasions upon the rights of Americans."

No Pool Funds From HUD

BELTON, S.C. (AP) — Plans for a public swimming pool here were killed Tuesday — not by citizens who labeled it a "cesspool of lust," but by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Mayor Jones Ellison said the city's application for $160,000 to build the pool has been rejected.

After three well-attended public hearings and a referendum on the issue, the City Council voted to seek a share of $6.8 million offered to the state's smaller municipalities this year through the 1974 Community Development Act.

The HUD rejection letter said only 17 projects had been awarded funds for this year.

Dissent Among Lutherans Nears Critical Decision

ANYONE FOR A SNORKEL?—Norwegian Gunn Loyd is all set for a little snorkeling off Miami Beach. A native of Bergen, Norway, she's currently living in Miami Beach and attending Miami Dade college as a drama student. (AP Wirephoto)

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — After tears, long arguments and pleas for brotherhood, a national Lutheran convention today neared an official decision on whether to force dissenting district leaders to get in line or get out.

The action, if taken, was seen as sparking potential rebellion on the home front.

But it was pressed as essential to order by the conservative-backed administration of the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod, embroiled in conflict with a minority but sizable wing of moderates.

The proposed measure would order district presidents, equivalent to local bishops and often called that, to stop installing graduates of a break-away seminary in local pulpits or else face expulsion.

The exiled seminary stems from a 1974 student-faculty walkout from the church's official St. Louis seminary in resistance to administrative pressures to impose a uniform, literalistic interpretation of the Bible.

More than 200 graduates have since been turned out by the unofficial seminary.

"Our duty requires that the services of these young men be used," insists the Rev. Emil Jaech of Portland, Ore., president of the Northwest District and one of the eight openly accepting the new ministers.

Altogether, nearly half of the church's 38 districts have accepted graduates of the rebel seminary in their ministry, although only eight have openly declared it.

"Far from being rebels, we have acted out of loyalty to the church and God's ministry," said the Rev. Dr. Rudolph Resmeyer of New York City, head of the Atlantic District.

The issue was debated sharply and emotionally for two hours Tuesday by representatives of the 2.3 million-member church, second largest of three major Lutheran bodies in the country.

At one point, the church president, the Rev. Dr. J.A.O. Preus, turned to district leaders seated beside the podium and offered to recommend squelching the measure if they would halt their practice.

"Will you walk with us, or insist on going your own way?" he asked. "That's where it's at, fellows."

Loud applause arose from the 1,600 assembled delegates, followed by a long hush.

The same offer had been made, and rejected, at closed negotiations the night before, and eight of the district leaders already had defended their actions on the floor as a matter of conscience.

Dr. Preus daubed at his eyes, obviously tearful. "I get a little emotional," he said.

The Rev. Dr. Robert Reidel of Springfield, Mass., head of the church's New England District, and one of the eight, said the projected crackdown would be contrary to the Lutheran tradition of freedom from institutional rule.

"It would replace congregational autonomy with central authority," he said.

However, the Rev. Dr. Karl Barth of Milwaukee said the dissenting leaders had flaunted regulations and were "troublemakers in Israel" involved in "busting up the church."

The Rev. Lloyd Behnken of Hollywood Park, Fla., a district president not named among the eight, but defending them, said the measure "has almost suicidal aspects" for the church.

The Rev. Harold H. Hecht of Detroit, head of the English District, a special nongeographic countrywide unit, told the convention:

"You may pronounce judgment, but I rest my case with God who is my judge."

Others among the eight are the Revs. Paul E. Jacobs of Belmont, Calif.; Waldemar E. Meyer of Aurora, Colo.; Herman Frincke of Buffalo, N.Y., and Herman Neunaber of Belleville, Ill.

Mount Baker Rumbles And Spouts Steam

By ELDON BARRETT
SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — The question of whether Mt. Baker is about to blow its top is up in the air. The answer lies down below.

The 10,778-foot North Cascades peak has been heating up like a primus stove for more than three months and has been spouting steam, ash, sulfur, various gases and a clay-like material identified as heat-altered rock. Mt. Baker last erupted more than 100 years ago.

U. S. Geological Survey scientists with the cooperation of experts from the University of Washington and Forest Service rangers have been monitoring the mountain and they say the symptoms do not necessarily mean Baker is on the verge of erupting.

But, the USGS added: "In view of the potential hazards that could develop if an eruption should occur...or if significant heating and melting of snow should continue, the full range of possible consequences should be considered."

The consequences could be not only lava flows, earthquakes and clouds of ash generally associated with large eruptions, but also mudflows, avalanches, floods and forest fires.

Those most concerned are the residents of Bellingham, a city of 40,000 on Puget Sound 30 miles west of the peak, and persons living and working in the Nooksack River watershed which has its beginnings on the mountain.

Mt. Baker's current activity was first noticed by Bellingham residents last March 10 when rain clouds parted for a short time and revealed plumes of "smoke" spewing from the mountaintop.

Since then several scientific expeditions have been made to Sherman Crater near the summit to observe and to plant detection instruments. Only authorized investigators are being allowed in the area from the crater down to Boulder Creek near the mountain's base. The Forest Service has classified this area as hazardous because of the danger of avalanches of either snow or mud loosened by the internal heat of the volcano.

The detecting devices so far have revealed that about 2,800 pounds of sulfur are belched from Baker's numerous steam vents each day, that other gasses are spewing out of the mountain and that low-level seismic shocks are frequent. But there is no evidence these readings are related to volcanic activity. There also are indications that slight amounts of acid rain occasionally fall in the area and the waters of Boulder Creek contain chemicals originating from the vents.

Mt. Baker has been blowing its stack intermittently for the last 10,000 years. By studying the terrain around the mountain, volcanists have a clear picture of the results of these past eruptions. Mudflows repeatedly have moved down the valleys on the east and west side of the peak, the largest traveling 16 miles down the middle fork of the Nooksack. During the past centuries, ash has been distributed over the northeast side of the mountain and currently is about two inches thick.

Based on these facts, the USGS experts believe that any eruption in the near future most likely would include the emission of increased amounts of steam and ash. This might be accompanied by relatively small mudflows and floods triggered by increased heat.

They see the main hazard in this situation as confusion, fear and panic on the part of the populace. The last time Baker erupted was in 1870 when only a few white traders, trappers and prospectors had penetrated the wilderness around the base of the peak.

Until steam started spewing from Baker this year, Mt. St. Helens in southwestern Washington was considered to be the "hottest" peak in the Cascade chain which stretches northward from Mt. Lassen in Northern California. Lassen was the last volcano in the range to act up, popping off intermittently from 1914 to 1921.

Mt. Rainier, the 14,410-foot granddaddy volcano 50 miles south of Seattle, hasn't erupted in 240 years. St. Helens has blown within the last 150 years as has Glacier Peak, which rears up between Baker and Rainier.

Check First For Shallow Water

CHICAGO (AP) — You can break your neck by diving rashly into shallow water, says a University of Chicago neurosurgeon. And if you damage your spinal cord, the injury may be irreversible.

"A frequent mistake by well-intentioned persons giving first aid is improper handling, which may result in irreparable injury," warns Dr. Pearson. The spine should remain straight at all times from the head to the buttocks, says Dr. Pearson. "The victim's head, shoulders, trunk, hips and legs should be kept aligned."

"Four or five people should carefully place the victim on a cot or flat board and take him or her immediately to the hospital."

A New Look At Road Renewal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Highway planners are taking a new look at old roads, according to Donald B. Stabler, president of the Road Information Program.

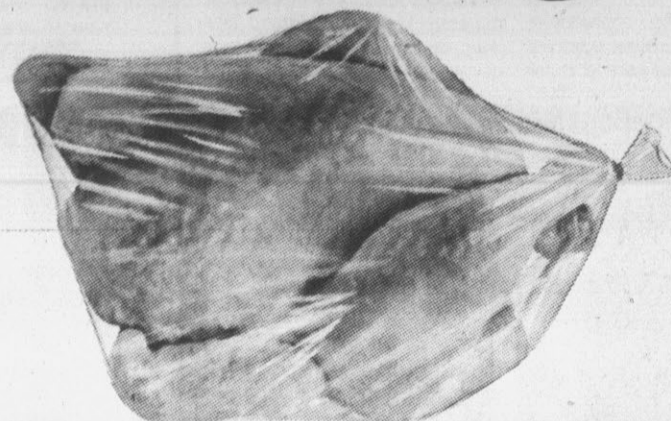

"Three million miles of roads are in rural areas and 88 per cent of that mileage is inadequate for day-to-day use," Stabler said. "The states have recognized that their 20-year concentration on construction of new roads has resulted in deterioration of existing ones."

Stabler said plans by the various states call for spending two-thirds of an estimated $350 billion through 1990 on improvements to worn-out rural roads.

Proposed To By Bigamist

By RONALD THOMSON
Associated Press Writer
LIVERPOOL, England (AP) — The boss of Scott's Detective Bureau claims to be the only private eye who ever got a proposal of marriage from a bigamist on a train.

She's a toothsome sleuth, Zena Scott-Archer, so perhaps the offer wasn't surprising. But she was meant to be trailing the bigamist, not marrying him.

"One of his two current wives suspected what he was up to and assigned me to follow him everywhere," Mrs. Scott-Archer recalled. "It got so I knew what socks he wore and what he liked for lunch.

"There was this train leaving London. We came face to face in the buffet bar and he proposed before we cleared the suburbs. He had me lined up for No. 3. I went all fluttery and said 'This is so sudden' — and it was."

She sidestepped the bigamist, who later slipped away to Canada. After a few months he sent for the suspicious wife and she went off to join him, happy to be asked.

"It's funny," Mrs. Scott-Archer mused. "Some women just like having their husbands followed. Not to do anything about it, but just to know what's going on."

Britain's top woman private investigator operates from a third floor office not far from the Liverpool night club where the Beatles began twanging the tunes that brought them fame.

The bureau was founded in the 1930s by Zena's father, Detective Sgt. Sydney James Scott of Scotland Yard's Flying Squad, who had left London to work as a fraud investigator for one of the big soccer pools based in this northwest port city.

Mrs. Scott-Archer joined the bureau in 1946 and took it over when her father died in 1953.

"I never had stars in my eyes about the private detective business," she said. "But I turned out to be a natural. In an emergency, women are more determined, more calm and certainly less easily embarrassed than most men."

It was a somewhat shaky business she inherited, but things have been steadily improving. Now she employs two full-time operatives (male) and can call on three part-timers (one male, two female).

She is the only woman on the board of the Association of British Investigators.

Amusing and elegant, in her early 50s, with rich dark hair under saucy hats, she is as stylish a Sherlock as ever clicked a spy camera or cased a hotel register.

She keeps a magnifying glass (shades of the great Holmes) in a jar on her desk by a big bow window overlooking the hectic Liverpool traffic.

On one wall is a landscape painting by her husband, David Archer, a chemist. They married in 1941.

Against that contented home background, she prowls this city of more than 800,000, and often far beyond it. Items from her dossier:

The case of the nude salesgirl: —Liverpool fashion store reports regular daily theft of expensive clothes. Calls in Zena, who poses as customer, gets suspicious of one salesgirl who always comes to work by taxi. How can she afford it? Zena surprises girl in rest room one morning, discovers she's stark naked under her coat and about to put on stolen clothes which she would wear until time to put coat on again to go home. She'd been getting away with it for weeks.

The case of the cruising lover: —Rich married man hires Zena to watch over morals of his pretty young mistress while she's off on long Mediterranean cruise. Zena joins cruise, ship hits storm in Bay of Biscay, mistress falls down companionway, breaks ribs, confined to cabin, no chance for mischief. Zena: "I just enjoyed myself from then on. Nothing to worry about, no one can make love with broken ribs."

The case of the doctor's rival: —Physician believes wife having an affair. Zena sees wife enter shopping arcade, spends 12 hours waiting for her to emerge. When she does, it's from liquor store, hardly able to walk. No lover, only a friendly proprietor who lets her keep regular private date with the bottle. Doctor wins divorce on cruelty grounds.

The case of the buxom barmaid: —Someone stealing the takings from a Liverpool pub. Owner recruits Zena to watch staff, but with reservations. Indicates attractive, very shapely barmaid, says: "If she's the thief I don't want to know. That figure is worth its weight in gold to this pub."

'Little Change' At Yellowstone

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK (UPI)—Vacation travel experts at Yellowstone National Park say there is a growing trend today for vacationers to return to the relaxed touring of national parks.

In a year of shaky economic and energy questions, tourists are trying to get the most for their vacation dollars, they say, and Yellowstone's almost 3,500 miles offers it. Officials say Yellowstone hasn't changed much since it was made a park in 1872 except, instead of stagecoaches, people today usually see the bears from automobiles.

The Wyoming State Historical Society and Wyoming State Archives and Historical Department will sponsor the trek to Red Lodge, Mont.

The 1975 trip will be the first of three annual treks that will cover the entire route, and the two-day journey will conclude with a dinner in Lander. Buses will be used.

Geologists Study Site Of Reservoir

By KEVIN FOLEY
Associated Press Writer
BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Two Indiana University geologists are trying to find out what life was like in Indiana some 400 million years ago, when the region was covered by salt seas.

Their findings may influence the development of a proposed $31 million reservoir near Columbus.

Prof. Gary Lane, a paleontologist, and graduate student Gary Ausich of Galva, Ill., are scraping and chipping away at rocks at the site of the proposed Clifty Creek Reservoir.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is paying for the study under a one-year-old federal law that says the government must pay for salvage and review of any significant scientific, prehistorical, historical or archaeological data that might be destroyed because of a federally funded or licensed project.

Lane and Ausich are interested in Waldron shale, considered by geologists to be one of the best fossil-bearing rock strata in the United States. A large segment of the shale will be submerged when the reservoir is built.

The shale is named after the town of Waldron in southern Indiana. Lane said it provides a diverse, abundant and beautifully preserved assemblage of 400-million-year-old fossils.

One group of fossils — trilobites or extinct three-lobed, segmented marine animals — can bring in as much as $20 or $30 to fossil collectors, he said.

But Lane and Ausich aren't interested in fossil collections. "Our study goes far beyond the 'gee-whiz, isn't that a pretty trilobite' attitude," he said. "We are interested in fossils as they represent a community of animals. We hope to reconstruct how these animals lived together in that period."

The fossils come from the Silurian Period, a geologic age 420 million years ago. Lane says virtually all of Indiana and much of the Midwest was covered by inland salt oceans. There were only very primitive fish and no land animal life at that time, he added.

Ausich already has made a preliminary trip to the 42-square-mile site in Bartholomew and Decatur counties. And Lane says he's cleaning up and categorizing the material he has found.

The two are the only scientists currently involved in the survey. And Lane said they are using only hammers and chisels to knock the fossils out of the rock.

The proposed reservoir would require an estimated 3,000 acres. However, before it can be built, the corps of engineers will need an environmental impact statement on the reservoir's effect on the area.

Ausich's report on the fossil findings, due Jan. 1, will be part of the statement.

Lane said the geologists have no intention of trying to block the reservoir. "We just want to find out all that we can about this period and this shale before it's covered over again," he said.

Minister Tries A New Approach

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — In Crown Center, an urban redevelopment project, there's a 730-room hotel, a retail complex with 90 shops, five office buildings, a bank — and a minister.

The Minister is the Rev. Chris Morgan of the United Church of Christianity, who runs free counseling service in this commercial setting.

"This is the kind of ministry that is coming on strong," he explains. "It's out of the churches altogether. It's people listening to what people are, not what you wish them to be. I believe that is what Jesus did in the marketplace; he accepted people where they were and this is all I am attempting to do."

Aver Oil Prices Spurred Trade

DALLAS (UPI) — "Energy World News," published by Energy Communications Inc., says high petroleum prices have helped world trade more than hurt it.

In a recent edition, the newsletter said world trade exports in 1975 will top $1 trillion, compared to $750 billion in 1974.

The newsletter said some of the increase could be traced to inflation, but most resulted from expanded world purchasing by oil nations.

FCC Passes Along The Allegations Of Payola

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — For the past two years, the Federal Communications Commission hasn't investigated allegations of "payola," the bribing of radio station employees to play certain records on the air.

The reason: All such claims sent the FCC were and still are being passed on to the Justice Department for inclusion in the department's continuing national probe of payola, an investigation begun in the spring of 1973.

William Ray, chief of the FCC's complaints and compliance section, says the step was taken at the request of the Justice Department, which "asked us to pass along every complaint or piece of information we got."

He said no FCC investigation of payola allegations — which at most could lead to a broadcast license loss — has been made since the Justice request. The idea, he said, is to avoid jeopardizing federal criminal investigations — which could lead to jail sentences for some — now underway.

The word on what Ray calls the FCC's "hiatus" on payola investigations came in a phone interview in which he was asked what action the FCC may take in the wake of federal payola indictments returned last month.

The indictments charge that several record companies and their executives — none of the firms are major ones — made illegal payoffs to radio station employees in at least 16 cities.

Acceptance of payola isn't a federal crime, only the failure of the recipient to report it to the station's license-holder, Ray says.

The licensee is required by the FCC to "exercise reasonable diligence" is guarding against payola and, if it discovers it, to announce on the air that a payment-for-play was made and who made it, he added.

Failure to take such steps, Ray said, can result in various administrative actions by the FCC, ranging from a letter of admonition to a rarely-used "hearing order," an earlier-than-normal license renewal hearing.

Singer Avers Illusions Fading

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — John Stewart is touring the country now and says he is "not making any money" because his record company (RCA) has decided he is not profitable enough to promote heavily.

JOHN STEWART
From 1960 to 1967 Stewart was with the Kingston Trio. "Your past is your past and there's no sense in denying it," he says now. "The trio was three frat boys touring town.

There certainly wasn't any idealism to it."

Playing big and small clubs eight months of every year for 16 years has given him a fond but realistic view of America as delivered through his folk-rock-country ballads.

The fondness is reflected in a ballad like "Survivors." The song hails a patriotic family man in Ohio and a schoolchild in Wyoming who have become disillusioned by "the outlaws in office."

"I believe Harry Truman's remark that the American people can survive five bad presidents in a row," Stewart says, "Well, we've had two, maybe three."

Stewart is 35. He admits his worries about "making it" have grown recently, particularly when he looks at other, younger songwriters. But he grins and remarks that it's important to remember that it's just a game.

On a song about outlaws and how every woman at one time or another wants one, Stewart will assume a deep Johnny Cash-like voice and "talk" the first verse rather than singing it.

His "Summer Child" about a hired man's desire for a Southern vamp who stands with her back to the light in front of a window is treated the same way.

But before the peddle steel comes in, he'll make tongue-in-cheek remarks about macho cowboys or ladies who yearn to let their hair hang down. Halfway through, he'll interrupt it with a couple of verses of "Brown Sugar" ala Rolling Stones.

"I want to let them know I don't take this whole thing seriously," he says. "People don't want to hear about everyday life. They're very innocent, sort of child-like."

The understanding of the human condition remains after the fantasies have been tickled. "Some guys can sing to a woman and set up a particular illusion and they'll buy it; I can't," he says.

The son of a race horse trainer, Stewart was raised in California. His emotional pitch is at its height on such songs as "Let the Big Horse Run" and "Mother Country," which deals with a trainer's love for a horse.

Stewart recorded one of his seven albums here in 1972. He calls Nashville "Hollywood Southeast" because of what he says is a myth both thrown upon, and perpetuated by, the

Many Jobs Are Unfilled

RALEIGH (AP)—More than 11,000 jobs are unfilled in North Carolina even though there are about 100,000 people out of work.

Most of the jobs offer good pay and include 232 stenographer openings, 312 insurance salesman positions, 1,537 benchworker jobs, 1,520 construction positions and 116 secretaries.

State employment officials, who provided those figures, said the problem is that those out of work can't fill the openings because of location or training. "We've never been able to completely match the available skills with the job opening," H.E. Davis of the Employment Security Commission, said Tuesday.

Because of the recession, the number of openings is down from last year's 18,500, Davis said.

Sometimes workers turn down job offerings. George Poole, president of the National Employment Service in Raleigh, said, "It's hard to get excited about working as a dishwasher or street sweeper."

As to location, Davis said, "An unskilled worker who was making $9,000 a year in Burlington isn't likely to move to Rocky Mount to take a lower paying job."

Second Budget Cut By Martin School Board

WILLIAMSTON—A second budget cut, one of $50,000 in the current expense portion of the 1975-76 Martin County School budget, was approved Monday at the July meeting of the Martin County School board.

Consideration of the cut followed a recommendation by the County Commissioners that the school board find a means of trimming $50,000 from the proposed budget.

In another action, the board voted to enlarge its retirement policy to include additional personnel, such as those in food and custodial services.

Some of the personnel being included in this coverage and who were not previously covered will face mandatory retirement at the end of the 1975-76 school year by virtue of having reached the age of 65.

A date of noon, July 14 has been set for resale of the Jamesville Township School property. Starting bid for the building and approximately four acres of land will be $16,325. The resale will take place at the courthouse in Williamston.

Acceptance was given plans for have pupil insurance handled for the coming school year by the Walker Insurance Agency. Rates are $5.00 per student for school hour coverage and $20 per student for 24 hour coverage.

Bids for an activity school bus were accepted. Successful bids went to the Thomas Bus Company of High Point, both for the chassis at $6,153, and the body, at $4,725.

School board members approved an unofficial administrative letter to HEW in response to certain questions. The questions HEW raised involved personnel hiring and pupil grouping within the schools.

Grant Awarded LWV For 3-Part Program

A $1,595 grant has been awarded the Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters by the North Carolina Humanities Committee for a series entitled "Education in Transition: Private Rights and the Public Good." The project cost of $4,250 will include the $1,595; grant and $2,655 local matching funds in kind, consisting of time, services, and meeting facilities, provided by members of the LWV and the community.

According to Project Director Doris Jean Haggard, programs will be held on three Tuesday evenings in October. The format for each program will include an address or addresses, a panel discussion, and questions and discussion from the audience.

On October 14 Dr. Carl Dolce, Dean of the School of Education, North Carolina State University, and Dr. George Kahdy, Assistant Superintendent for Instructional Services, State Department of Public Instruction, will speak on the kind of education needed in North Carolina today and tomorrow.

On October 21 Miss Anne M. Dellinger, Institute of Government, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, will address herself to the question: "Who runs the schools?"

On October 28 Dr. James L. Smith, Assistant Professor of Philosophy, East Carolina University, will talk on "What is the purpose of education?"

While this series may have special appeal for professional educators, it is also intended for parents and other interested members of the community.

After checking on aces, South settled in the small slam when he learned that one of the key cards was missing.

With any lead other than a spade, declarer would have had an easy time. He would have drawn trumps and forced out the diamond ace, and then would have had all the time in the world to take spade discards on dummy's diamonds.

West got his side off to a fine start with a high spade lead, and declarer captured West's king with the ace. It seemed that the contract was booked for defeat, but declarer had other plans. He played all seven of his clubs. This was the position when he led his last club:

1♠ Pass 3♠ Pass
3♠ Pass 3♠ Pass
3NT Pass 4NT Pass
4♥ Pass 4NT Pass
5♥ Pass 6♠ Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠.

It is difficult to overstate the value of a long suit. Besides its obvious trick-taking ability, running a long suit can force the opponents to make embarrassing discards. Consider this hand.

North-South conducted an orderly auction to reach a sound slam. After forcing with three clubs, South rebid his spade fragment, which allowed his partner to show a heart stopper by bidding three no trump. South's four club bid then showed slam interest (otherwise there is no reason to take out three no trump), and North cue-bid his heart strength.

♥ J107
♣ 3

West could not stand the pressure of the last round of trumps. He had to keep the king of spades to guard against North's jack, and the ace of diamonds was vital. Therefore, he discarded a heart in the hope that his partner held the queen. Declarer discarded a diamond from dummy, then took four heart tricks to fulfill his slam.
