HAPPY FARMER—Tobacco farmer Neil Bullock of Fairmont is all smiles as he holds card showing his tobacco sold for $101 per hundred on opening day in Fairmont of the North Carolina Border Belt tobacco markets. (AP Wirephoto)

Border Opens To $84.92 Average

RALEIGH (AP)—First day tobacco sales on the South Carolina-Border North Carolina Belt hit 5,170,060 pounds with 11 of 15 markets reporting, but prices were low, the Tobacco News Service reported.

Tobacco experts have predicted higher prices later in the selling season as farmers offer better quality leaf from higher on the stalk. The plant matures from the ground up with lower leaves being the smallest and least valuable.

Wednesday's opening was the earliest in the belt's history. One expert said the dry weather and early opening date combined to provide tobacco that was "the worst I've seen on opening day."

Much of the leaf was bought at the federal support price by the Flue Cured Tobacco Stabilization Corp.

Floors in some warehouses were barely half full and tobacco piles were sprinkled with immature green leaves and worthless stalks.

Apollo Crew Tests

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Space agency doctors examine three American astronauts today to certify their readiness to fly a joint mission with two Russian cosmonauts next week.

The exams, scheduled to last several hours, have a dual purpose: to make sure the astronauts are physically fit and to gather baseline medical data for inflight and postflight comparison.

The tests are being conducted at the Johnson Space Center, Houston, Tex., where astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald K. Slayton are undergoing final training for the flight.

The astronauts will fly to Cape Canaveral on Sunday to be lodged in special crew quarters near the launch area where a 22-story tall Saturn rocket is being groomed to hoist them into space at 3:50 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

That is 7½ hours after Soviet cosmonauts Alexei Leonov and Valeri Kubasov are to lift off in a Soyuz spacecraft from Baikonur Cosmodrome in central Russia, 1,400 miles southeast of Moscow.

After two days of maneuvering, Apollo and Soyuz will dock 140 miles above West Germany at 12:15 p.m. Thursday.

They'll remain hooked together for two days, during which time the spacemen will exchange visits between the ships, conduct joint experiments and share meals.

Stafford, Brand and Slayton practiced in the Apollo simulator Wednesday and had a Russian language lesson. Each astronaut and cosmonaut have had nearly 1,000 hours training in the other's language and experts say there will be no language difficulty.

Released From Big Obligation

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — An heiress to textile and tobacco fortunes, Anne Cannon Reynolds Forsyth, has released Terry Sanford from obligation for a $700,000 loan to his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972.

Anne Cannon Reynolds Forsyth of Winston-Salem said Wednesday that she had filed papers with the Federal Elections Commission on May 31 freeing Sanford, former governor of North Carolina. Sanford, now president of Duke University, also is seeking the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination.

Mayors Taking Their Aid And Money Plans To Ford

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 125 big-city mayors are going to meet President Ford, united behind his plan for renewing federal revenue-sharing but hoping to convince him of the need for antirecession aid and public works projects. The mayors have just endorsed the three proposals, which would provide states and cities with $12.5 billion a year, during the annual meeting of the U.S. Conference of Mayors in Boston. Ford had invited the mayors to today's session in the White House to urge a unified front among the administration, governors, county officials and mayors to get the five-year revenue-sharing program reenacted this year.

But White House staff officials have said that Ford and the other administration participants, including Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, would be glad to discuss the other two bills as well.

Renewal of the $30.2-billion revenue-sharing program, which expires next year, has Ford's support. He's asking for $39.8 billion over the next five years.

Ford's lobbyists and Republican mayors at the Boston meeting Wednesday turned back efforts by the Democratic mayors in some older and poorer cities to have the distribution formula for that money changed so that needier cities got a greater slice.

The Republican mayors and the administration have argued that any effort to change the formula would divide the coalition supporting the program and open the way for its enemies in Congress to kill it altogether. The staff of the mayor's conference estimates that 50 more votes in the House of Representatives are needed to ensure renewal.

Congress also is considering a $2 billion antirecession aid bill for states and cities with high unemployment and a $2.5 billion public works bill. The Ford administration has lobbied hard against the latter and its representatives have expressed reservations about the former.

Oil Producers-Consumer Dialogue Is 'Advancing'

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger conferred for more than an hour today with French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing and reported "very good progress" had been made toward resuming the dialogue between oil producers and consumers. Kissinger conferred first with Foreign Minister Jean Sauvagnargues and later went with Sauvagnargues to the unscheduled meeting with Giscard d'Estaing at the Elysee Palace. As he emerged from his talk with the French president, the secretary of state said "we had very constructive talks on the most outstanding issues, in the spirit of friendly cooperation which characterizes our relationship."

A spokesman for Giscard d'Estaing said the president decided to invite Kissinger and Sauvagnargues to his office when the talks between the two ministers showed that the viewpoints of the two governments on the energy dialogue had moved substantially closer.

"The president decided to receive Mr. Kissinger and Mr.

Sauvagnargues largely to discuss in detail how the dialogue can be resumed," the spokesman said.

Later in the day he flies to Geneva to discuss the Middle East and nuclear weapons with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

U.S. officials said Kissinger believes another preliminary energy conference can begin within two months and that separate commissions dealing with energy, raw materials and the problems of developing nations can start their deliberations by the end of the year.

The first preparatory meeting collapsed in April when the United States and other industrial nations rejected demands by Algeria and other developing nations that the oil conference be broadened to include all raw materials.

Kissinger in May put forward a compromise proposal for several conferences working simultaneously. Last week, the major oil-consuming nations agreed on the three-pronged approach. Charles Robinson, the under-secretary of state for economic affairs, is visiting Brazil after stops in Iran, Saudi Arabia and Venezuela, and a senior American official commented: "It's now beginning to crystallize."

However, U.S. officials are not optimistic about holding back another oil price increase next fall. But they think it will be less than the $3 to $4 a barrel predicted in some quarters.

Newsman traveling with Kissinger were told he expects Gromyko to give him "an answer" on verification procedures and a number of other issues involved in the proposed 10-year treaty to limit the size of the Soviet and American nuclear arsenals. Kissinger in turn will give Gromyko his assessment of the Soviet position.

On Friday, Kissinger intends to raise the problems of his negotiations to work out another agreement between Israel and Egypt for another Israeli withdrawal in the Sinai desert.

While reports from the Middle East suggest the two sides have moved closer together, Kissinger dismissed as "totally wrong" a suggestion that an agreement has already been wrapped up.

"We are not anywhere near that point," he said as he left Washington.

Kissinger will meet on Saturday in Bonn with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, who is on an official visit to West Germany. Newsman were told that the unsettled points include the extent of the Israeli withdrawal and control of the electronic surveillance network that Israel now operates near the Gidi and Mitla mountain passes in the Sinai Desert.

Recreation Commission Approves Later Curfew For Jaycee Park's Use

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
Members of the Greenville Recreation Commission on Wednesday night accepted a Jaycee Park Light and Noise Report as written and approved an added recommendation that lights at Jaycee Park be left on at nights past the current 10:30 p.m. curfew hour to make operating hours for the park the same as those for other recreation facilities in the city.

Currently, on the average evening, lights in other facilities remain on until about 11 to 11:30 p.m.

The eight page Jaycee Park Light and Noise Report was compiled by a three member committee drawn from the Recreation Commission—Dr. Edgar W. Hooks, Jr., chairman, Jamie Briley and Mrs. John East. Dr. Hooks presented the report to the commission and to interested persons attending.

Committee recommendations designed to help alleviate light and noise problems for residents adjacent to Jaycee Park include—refocusing lights on the tennis courts to reduce intensity away from the court area; placement of wind screens on the tennis court fence to reduce light intensity and sound pressure outside the court area; planting of multiple rows of fast growing trees to produce a sound barrier between the park and the residential areas; and erection of a taller fence on the ball field to the tennis courts, covering it with a wind screen to serve as a sound barrier.

Recommendations also include adjustment of the curfew hours with various seasons of the year that would have no lights during cold weather; a moderate curfew in the spring before leaves appear on trees; and going to a later curfew in the summer when leaves are out and recreational programs are at their peak.

Results of light and noise level tests conducted over a period of several weeks, and traces the development of the former Hardee Farm site from initial planning in May of 1969 to purchase and development of the five acre tract adjacent to Eastern Elementary School in April of 1971. Also noted is the establishment of the 10:30 p.m. curfew on April 10, 1975.

Among factors noted in the report is one "that the Planning and Zoning Board indicated in June 1969 that acquisition of the Hardee Farm property (Jaycee Park) for recreational use was consistent with the program and general policy of the Planning and Zoning Board for the City of Greenville."

"Therefore, there seems to be no violation of the zoning code for this area of the city," the committee members stated in the report.

Miss Grace Ellenberg, speaking during a question and answer period following presentation of the report, said she had "talked to someone in Town Hall about the zoning code. I understand there is still some question as to whether or not the park is in violation of the zoning code."

"The word quiet is applicable to the general atmosphere in a residential neighborhood," she remarked.

Miss Ellenberg, who said she recognized the technical factors of light and noise level studies conducted by Dr. Hooks, added: "I think this problem can be better understood in human terms. I hope the emphasis on decibels can be modified so that the problem can be resolved in human as well as in technical terms."

Several of the approximately 40 to 50 interested persons attending the meeting spoke briefly, most of them making reference to the park as a means of extending opportunities for Greenville citizens, especially young people, to take part in athletic programs.

One of the spokesmen, Roy Selby, president of the Greenville Baseball League, presented Recreation Commission Chairman Tom Foreman, Sr. with a petition asking that the current curfew be abolished for the late spring and summer months from the 10:30 time and that a midnight curfew be established. Selby said the petition was signed by 133 people.

W.J. Simmons, who termed himself the "villain of this piece," spoke also on problems he had encountered in getting police to take action against persons making excessive noise by operating motor bikes in the area.

INVESTIGATION—The House Ethics Committee Wednesday ordered the formal investigation of the conduct of Massachusetts Rep. Michael J. Harrington after a complaint was filed asking that action be taken against Harrington for publicly disclosing secret CIA testimony. (AP Wirephoto)

SEARCH SERVICE AVAILABLE

I have saved from my childhood a delightful book of some of the best children's stories I've ever read. My children love them. My sister wants a copy of the book for her children, too, and we've found it's out of print. Do you know any way we can get a copy? Mrs. B. R.

Some book stores have out-of-print search services, many of them free. Neither of the local bookstores, do, however. It's probably more common to stores which deal in old and rare books. Check out Page 137 of the July issue of Hobbies Magazine in the periodical section of Sheppard Library. There are several ads there for search services. Hopefully one of them can help you find the book you want.

STEEL RECYCLED?

Reading about aluminum recycling, I wonder why the many, many steel cans now in use can't be recycled also. Would there be any local buyer for them? They take up a lot of room in the landfill, I know. Mrs. C.T.

According to Gordon Douglas, vice president of Greenville Parts and Metals here, steel cans are coated with a terneplate (a thin layer of tin), which keeps the contents of the cans from absorbing the elements of steel. "This tin has been considered to make them unusable by the recyclers of steel until just recently," he said. Now some effort is being made to recycle cans, though it must be done on a very large scale to be profitable. The only way it's been done successfully so far is when a large city or regional refuse collection program installs a separator which extracts metal from the other refuse. The only way we can send it to the steel mills is by the carload. A carload is 50 tons.

Anyone having further questions may call Douglas at 752-7197, he said.

Some South Vietnamese Resisting Communists

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some South Vietnamese religious groups are resisting the new Communist leaders of their country, U.S. intelligence sources report.

Tri Quang, a Buddhist priest and critic of the ousted anti-Communist regime, was said to have made a speech recently in Saigon denouncing executions by the Communists. There was no word on whether the Communists took any reprisal action against Tri Quang as a result.

Two religious sects, the Hoa Hao and Cao Dai, were reported to be putting up militant opposition to the Communists.

According to information reaching U.S. intelligence, armed members of the Hoa Hao have been harassing Communist troops in the rice-growing Delta region south of Saigon.

Some Cao Dai leaders were said to have told their adherents in Tay Ninh Province, northwest of Saigon, not to cooperate with the Communists.

And some Cao Dai members were reported to be melting into the countryside possibly to become guerrillas.

U.S. intelligence men refused to discuss their sources of information, but at least some of it is believed to have come from Vietnamese who have slipped out of South Vietnam in recent weeks.

Meanwhile, Hanoi's official Vietnam News Agency said Wednesday that the Communist government in South Vietnam has reaffirmed its determination to uphold religious freedom in the country.

VNA, in a broadcast monitored in Hong Kong, said this was stated by the National Front for Liberation committee of the Saigon-Gia Dinh area in a meeting with 200 Christian representatives in Saigon.

Persistent reports in Washington also tell of hit-and-run attacks against Communist troops by South Vietnamese paratroopers and infantrymen in two coastal areas, Phuoc Tuy province and near the old resort city of Vung Tau.

Intelligence analysts doubt that the resistance will amount to a serious, long-term threat to the Communists, who completed their conquest of South Vietnam more than two months ago.

Successful sustained guerrilla warfare requires food and other support from the peasants, and U.S. officials doubt the warweary population in South Vietnam will provide that kind of support.

Alternatives Given To Teenagers Copycat Cookery: Krazy Krackers

By LYNN B. VILLELLA
Albuquerque Tribune Writer
ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — Glenda, at age 17, is pretty, unmarried — and very pregnant.

She is a senior at Albuquerque's New Futures School and next year will continue studies at Technical-Vocational Institute.

Glenda has been hurt. She no longer sees the father of her baby. She is openly distrustful of others and overly sensitive to criticism.

New Futures School has helped Glenda to "sort things out."

After lengthy counseling, she has decided to give her baby up for adoption. She has learned about birth control methods. She has developed healthier eating habits and she is receiving regular prenatal care.

"I plan on starting out fresh when this is all over," said Glenda after classes one day recently.

And she is one of the approximately 750 school-age girls in Albuquerque who will deliver babies this year.

The school, located at the old Albuquerque High School, has a comprehensive program for school-age parents. It offers educational, health and social services for young women and their families "at a most crucial time in their lives."

The school is a joint project of the Albuquerque Public Schools and the YWCA. It receives support from various community, state and federal agencies and its program enrollment is open, free of charge, to any pregnant adolescent.

According to Caroline Gaston, school director, the institution's program goals are:

To instill a healthy self-concept.

To help solve personal problems that may lead to or result from pregnancy.

To aid in the development of a satisfactory relationship with family and society.

To prepare girls for motherhood.

To ensure that girls receive early and continued prenatal and postnatal care.

Students at New Futures range in age from 13 to 19. Like Glenda most of them come because they feel awkward and embarrassed in regular public high schools. They are girls who have ruled out abortion.

According to Miss Gaston, 40 per cent of the young women are married. But married or not, pregnancy sets a teen-ager apart from her peers.

"I got married the summer before my senior year," says pretty, petite Sandra. "Kids in school made me feel out of place just because I got married. But when I got pregnant everything just got worse."

Sandra entered New Futures School, claiming she wanted out of public school as quickly as possible. She says that her studies at New Futures have kept her "from falling apart." And she believes that her young husband has learned much about the physiological and emotional aspects of pregnancy.

Sandra was in despair when, after only a few weeks of married life, she learned she was pregnant. Frightened, she was determined to seek an abortion.

"It was my husband who kept me from having the abortion," Sandra recalls. "I personally had never believed in abortion. You never do until it happens to you."

"Right now I'd really be suffering if I had gone ahead and had the abortion."

Curiously, she claims that pregnancy is placing no strains on her marriage. "I don't have the pressure that so many other pregnant girls do," she declares. "My husband didn't 'have to' marry me." She says she is no longer frightened.

Sandra plans to be a nurse. She'll begin her training in the fall. Future children will be carefully planned and carefully spaced. Sandra has learned through counseling at the New Futures School that her life will be irrevocably changed with the arrival of her baby.

"My husband always calls me his baby," she says, a trifle sadly. "I wanted to be the only baby in his life and for a long time I deeply resented this baby coming."

Nationally, more than 600,000 girls under age 20 give birth each year. The majority of their babies are illegitimate. Further, most of the teen-age mothers will drop out of school and, if they marry, their spouses are likely to drop out of school also.

Of the 17,000 school districts in the country, only one-third have programs for pregnant teen-agers. "Albuquerque is way out ahead in this area," claims Caroline Gaston. "New Futures School is considered to be one of three model programs in the nation. The other two are in Tulsa and in Delaware."

That the local facility is successful is demonstrated by observable behavior changes among its students, by the low rate (10 per cent as compared with 60 per cent nationally) of repeat pregnancies during the teen years, the high rate of students who return to public schools and the low dropout rate within the school itself.

At Wit's End

There's an old chestnut going the rounds that money can't buy happiness.

The other night my husband was squinting over a book when he said, "How big is the lightbulb in this lamp?"

"I think it is 40 watts," I said. "You have a bigger one in your sewing machine. How much would a 150-watt lightbulb cost?"

"About 89 cents." He recorded 89 cents on a slip of paper. "And how about salt and pepper shakers for the table? I've heard of some families that have one set for the stove and one for the table. How much would an extra set cost?"

"You could get a little cheaper for a buck or so." He scribbled down $1 and continued, "What are pencils selling for these days? The little wooden ones that you put by the phone and write down messages when someone calls?"

"I think pencils are still a dime or 15 cents. What are you doing?"

"I see. And what about a simple comb? One that I could have for my very own without hair in it that doesn't match mine. Are they out of sight?"

"A comb costs about 29 cents."

"Very good. Now, what about a whole newspaper?"

"A what?"

"A whole newspaper. One that hasn't been turned inside out, clipped, folded, bent, spindled, mutilated and littered all over the bathroom before I get to read it?"

"Fifteen cents," I said tiredly. "Incredible!" he said touching a ballpoint pen to his tongue. "Are they still selling those little woven cushions for the car seat? The ones that are new and don't have the metal springs ripping into your leg everytime you slide into the seat?"

"Write down $3.98," I said. "Oh, and what about those little tables that some people put their forks and tongs on when they cook out of doors instead of using a garbage can lid?"

"They would run you about $5.95."

Busily, he tallied up the total. "Can you believe it? $12.41 would not only buy me happiness, it would buy me ecstasy!"

That's the recession for you. There was a time when $12.41 would have bought hysteria!

Mom Snowed Under By Gift-Giving Girl Friend

DEAR ABBY: I knew Lt. Col. John W. Kellogg, the Catholic who proudly wore a Star of David, a symbol of the Jewish faith, in honor of three Jewish comrades in arms.

John was a bomber navigator in WW II. After a bombing run over the Ploesti oil fields in Roumania, his plane was badly shot up. While the plane limped back to the Air Force base in Italy, the men tossed out everything that was loose to lighten the plane's load until nothing remained but the shell. It looked as though they weren't going to make it. When the Italian coastline was spotted, the captain ordered all his men to parachute to earth.

John bailed out and landed in a plowed field where an Italian farmer and his son were working. John was so grateful to be on terra firma that he dropped to his knees and began a prayer of thanksgiving.

The two Italians, having witnessed the scene, came over, doffed their caps, bowed their heads and also began to pray—loudly.

After a few moments, John looked up and said, "F'chrissakes, shut up! I can't hear my own prayers!" The John I knew could be both reverent and irreverent.

ROY J. ARNSTON: LAGUNA BEACH

DEAR ROY: Thanks for the memories!

DEAR ABBY: How do I go about telling the girl whom our son dates to please stop buying our family expensive gifts for every occasion? We do not want them because we can't afford to reciprocate.

She has a very large family, and because she gave everyone in our family she ever said hello to a very expensive Christmas gift last year, my son felt that he had to do the same for her family. (He is still paying for them.)

For St. Valentine's Day she gave ME a present and also my husband. On Mother's Day, another one, and she's not even engaged to our son. She even found out when our birthdays were (mine and my husband's, the other children's, even the grandparents!) and the presents come.

Please, please help me solve this. I have no objections to her and my son exchanging gifts, but I wish she would leave the rest of his family alone.

TOO MANY GIFTS

DEAR TOO MANY: Ask your son to tell the young lady that he appreciates her thoughtfulness and generosity but prefers that she discontinue the gift-giving to the members of his family. And if that doesn't do the trick, send her thank-you cards for the gifts, and let it go at that.

DEAR ABBY: This message is for Ed in La Mirada, who for 31 years has been saying things to his wife that might sound like insults to others but who insists he didn't mean them as such.

Ed, ole buddy, your technique is abundantly clear. For 31 years, you've been announcing to everyone within earshot that your awareness of your own inferiority compels you to belittle your wife so that your own lack of worth will be less conspicuous.

You poor jerk, you might just as well have worn a big zero on your forehead.

Corporation Aid Banned

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic and Republican national committees may have to take a second look at potential sites for their national conventions because of a ruling from the Federal Election Commission.

The commission ruled Wednesday that the national political conventions can't accept free services from private industry beyond what those corporations would be willing to offer any other gathering. According to that ruling, the free automobiles and buses and the free beer and soft drinks always in plentiful supply at past presidential nominating conventions will be missing in 1976.

The two national chairmen, Mary Louise Smith of the Republicans and Robert S. Strauss of the Democrats, were not available for comment on the ruling.

The commission ruled that the parties could accept free services from state and municipal governments although it specifically warned against using them as conduits for corporate donations.

The ruling could influence whether the Democrats choose to hold their convention in New York City or Los Angeles. Madison Square Garden in New York is privately owned and thus could not be offered rent-free to the Democrats. The convention hall in Los Angeles is publicly owned and could be offered rent-free.

Under the commission ruling, the City of New York could rent Madison Square Garden, paying the normal rate, and then offer to let the Democrats use it for free. But somebody, either the city or the Democrats, would have to pay for use of the hall.

All five cities under consideration by the Republicans have publicly owned halls. They are Los Angeles, Miami Beach, Cleveland, New Orleans and San Francisco.

In another ruling the commission said that loans to pay the cost of an upcoming Democratic fund raising telethon are contributions subject to the Campaign Reform Act of 1974, which imposes a $25,000 ceiling on the amount that any individual can contribute in one year.

Air time for the telethon scheduled for July 26 and 27 is estimated to cost $1.5 million which must be paid in advance. The commission ruling would prohibit the Democrats from raising that money with a few large loans which then would be repaid from the telethon proceeds.

In anticipation of an unfavorable ruling the Democrats have been raising money in smaller chunks and now have collected nearly $800,000.

SAILBOAT SUNK—Attorante, a 46-foot sailboat, was apparently rammed and sunk by a whale early Wednesday 300 miles off the California coast. The Coast Guard said six people aboard the boat were rescued by the yacht, Swiftsure. The boat, owned by Mrs. Nancy Sherman of Del Mar, Calif., is pictured in a race last year near San Francisco. Mexico, U.S. Disrupt Ring

By GREGORY A. GROSS
Associated Press Writer

At least 25 persons have been arrested and others are being sought by Mexican and U.S. authorities in what was described by a Mexican official as "the world's most important drug smuggling band."

Mexican Atty. Gen. Pedro Ojeda Paullada said Wednesday that agents in his country have confiscated 660 pounds of cocaine with a street value in the United States of $45 million. It was described by both Mexican and U.S. officials as the largest single seizure of cocaine in history.

Ojeda Paullada said the drugs were flown from Colombia to Mexico for processing before being sent to the United States. He said Americans, Colombians, Argentinians and Cubans were involved in the ring.

A spokesman for the federal Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) in San Diego, Calif., said the ring had been crushed with the arrests of eight persons in California and 17 in Mexico. He said nine others were still being sought.

The spokesman said the drugs illegally shipped to the United States spread as far as Florida and Maine. He said marijuana also reached the United States through the ring.

Agents said the group was responsible for 42 tons of marijuana seized last year in a joint investigation by the DEA and Mexican police, the largest marijuana seizure ever recorded.

"We've put together a tremendous conspiracy case against the top people in the organization," said John Windham, DEA agent in charge in San Diego.

TV Networks Line Up Recent Movies

NEW YORK (AP) — Paramount Pictures says it will get about $76 million for the television rights to 42 of its movies, including "Chinatown," "The Great Gatsby" and a lengthy combined version of "Godfather Parts I and II."

RCA Corp.'s National Broadcasting Co. will pay about $15 million for the two "Godfathers" which will in effect become a television mini-series, Paramount said Wednesday.

Francis Ford Coppola, director of the "Godfather" films, plans to launch the Mafia family saga into a third phase by re-editing and reassembling the two movies and adding material that was originally cut from the films.

The new version would run 9 or 10 hours over several nights, probably during the 1976 season, an NBC spokesman said.

Paramount, a subsidiary of Gulf Western Industries Inc., said the American Broadcasting Co. and CBS Inc. will pay about $61 million for the other 40 movies. The final details of the agreements are still being worked out.

The package, to be divided about equally between ABC and CBS is mostly for one-time TV showings. Also included are "Serpico," "Death Wish," "Paper Moon," "Catch 22," "Lady Sings the Blues" and "Save the Tiger."

Last year, NBC paid Paramount nearly $10 million for a one-time television showing of "The Godfather," the 1972 Academy Award-winner, and aired it in two, two-hour segments.

Sunday Musical Program Set

A musical program will be held at Burney's Chapel FWB Church Sunday at 6 p.m.

Featured on the program will be the Stephenson Singers of Grimesland and Simpson.

This program is the second in a series of Sunday afternoon services in support of the annual men's day program scheduled for July 27.

CONDUCTING SERVICES

WINTERVILLE — The Hammonds Brothers will render the service at the Mt. Shiloh Baptist Church Sunday. The Rev. David Hammond will speak at the 11:00 a.m. service and the Rev. Kenneth Hammond will speak at 3:00 p.m. and the Cedar Grove church will be represented with him. His church's choir will render the music.

Bond Referendum

GRIFTON — The Grifton Board of Commissioners Tuesday night passed a resolution authorizing a $50,000 water bond referendum.

The date for the referendum has been set as Tuesday, Aug. 26.

If approved, the bonds will be used for expansion of the water system in the Town of Grifton, including the construction of additional water storage and distribution facilities and the acquisition of necessary land and rights of way.

In other business, the commissioners approved the 1975-76 fiscal year budget in the amount of $1,522,380 and adopted a tax rate of 75 cents per $100 valuation (the same as last year).

Board members increased the tap-on fee for water to $25 and water tap-on to $50. The board increased the minimum water rate to $4.20 and the minimum sewer rate to $2, an increase of approximately 20 percent.

David Bosley, Mrs. Alfred H. Bremer, W. Richard Johnson, Mrs. Donald Koon, the Rev. Edwin Respass, Mrs. Robert Wheeler and Mrs. Jean Williams were named to the Library Board of Trustees.

Two Hint Infiltration Of White House By The CIA

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two congressmen say the House intelligence committee has evidence the CIA infiltrated the White House and several other federal agencies, but the CIA denies the allegations.

"I'm not sure spying is the right word," said Rep. Robert W. Kasten Jr., R-Wis. "But it looks like there was infiltration by the CIA."

Kasten said committee staff members saw documents at the CIA indicating the agency had contacts in the White House, the Office of Management and Budget, and the commerce and treasury departments.

It is unclear what the purpose of the infiltration was, Kasten told newsmen Wednesday. But he said it was clear the contacts were reporting what they saw back to the CIA.

One Injured In Collision

One person was injured and more than $350 property damage caused in two collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers reported Mahlon Alan Dickens of 2911 Ellsworth Dr. was injured when the bicycle he was riding collided with a car driven by Diane Wade Rader of 3005 Phillips Rd. about 2:05 p.m. on Ellsworth Drive, 120 feet West of the Danway Road intersection.

Investigators estimated damage to the Rader car at $40 and set damage to the Dickens bicycle at $20.

No charges were reported. No charges were made following investigation of a 7:16 a.m. collision on Chestnut Street, 38 feet East of the Skinner Street intersection.

Officers reported cars driven by Randolph Emmitt of 308 Tyson St. and Douglas Allan Jackson of 301 Allendale Dr. collided, causing an estimated $75 damage to the Emmitt car and $250 damage to the Jackson auto.

He said the staff found the evidence of the infiltration because there are CIA documents showing there was "a reporting procedure for keeping track of these people."

Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., said it was clear to him the "intelligence people were planted in high decision-making places in the agencies — and that is frightening."

Kasten and Dellums said there was no indication in the CIA documents whether any president or agency heads knew about the infiltration.

The two congressmen said they disclosed the findings in an effort to show a need to keep the select House committee alive.

Kasten mentioned the CIA infiltration briefly to the House Rules Committee as it considered a resolution to abolish the committee and replace it with a new one. He and Dellums elaborated to newsmen later.

The Rules Committee is scheduled to vote this afternoon on a resolution to abolish the committee.

The Senate intelligence committee was to hear today from former Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other witnesses. Retired Army Gen. Maxwell Taylor testified Wednesday.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

Mostly cloudy with a chance of showers and thundershowers Saturday through Monday. Highs in the 80s and lows in the 60s.

In another development today, plans for a lawsuit against the CIA were to be announced by relatives of a man whom they say committed suicide after being given LSD without his knowledge during a CIA drug experiment. The victim was identified as Frank Olson, who died after plunging from a 10th story window in 1953.

Following the statements by Kasten and Dellums, the CIA denied that it ever had spies in the White House. An agency spokesman said:

"There has been no penetration or infiltration of the White House at any time. Any agency personnel on duty there had been detailed there with the full knowledge of the White House."

The CIA spokesman said that statement also applied to the other agencies cited by Kasten and Dellums.

Kasten said the documents also indicated CIA involvement in the print and broadcasting media and that it dominated a small news service.

He said the staff also found that a pension fund for CIA employees was extremely profitable and raised the question whether the agency somehow was getting inside information about business corporations.

Dr. Norris Will Be Preaching Sunday

Dr. J. Allen Norris Jr., president of Louisburg College, will be the featured preacher at both the 8:45 and the 11:00 a.m. services Sunday at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church.

The title of his message will be "The Essential Mission of the Church," and the scripture text will be Luke 9:1-6 and Matthew 28:16-20.

A native of Raleigh, Dr. Norris received the B.A., M.A.T., and the Ed.D. degrees from Duke University.

He taught in the public schools for two years in Greensboro, was employed by Duke University for one year as instructor on the Dept. of Education, and as an assistant in the Master of Arts in Teaching Program. In 1964, Dr. Norris went to Rollins College, Fla. where he served as Professor of Education and in various administrative roles including Director of the graduate program in Education, Assistant Dean for Academic Affairs, Acting Dean of Academic Affairs and Dean of Liberal Arts and Vice Provost of the College. In December of 1974, Dr. Norris was named president of Louisburg College.

Dr. Norris is an active participant in various professional organizations, among them, the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, and The American Council on Education.

Dismissal Ruling Upheld

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—An appeals court has upheld a decision that Shirley O'Neal was dismissed as a clerk in the Durham County, N.C., registrar's office because she wouldn't promise to vote for Democrats.

But the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals found Wednesday that the lower court should have heard evidence on her efforts to find other work before awarding her three months pay in damages. The circuit court sent the case back to Judge Eugene Gordon of U.S. Middle District Court in Greensboro, N.C., for further hearings on the damages award.

She had complained that she was dismissed on Dec. 29, 1972, by A.J. "Buck" Gresham, the registrar, after she had refused to say how she had voted in a recent election and wouldn't pledge support to Democratic candidates.

Gresham had countered that her job was understood to be temporary, and that she had the burden to seek and accept comparable employment.

Sanford In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Terry Sanford laid his Democratic presidential nomination hopes before local labor leaders Wednesday with an attack on President Ford's economic policies.

The Duke University president likened Ford to another Republican president, Herbert Hoover, and said current Administration claims that the economy is bottoming out reminded him of the depression era song, "Prosperity Is Just Around the Corner."

Contending Ford "is not doing anything for (economic) recovery," Sanford said if interest rates were lowered to pre 1968 levels, expanded industrial and housing output would lead the nation out of the current recession.

Sanford, a former North Carolina governor, told a meeting that included local Teamsters and United Auto Workers leaders that current appropriations in Washington for temporary jobs should be expanded tenfold.

Chairman For Young Lawyers

ASHEVILLE — Greenville Attorney Laurence S. Graham was elected chairman of the North Carolina Bar Association's Young Lawyers Section during the Association's 77th annual meeting here.

Graham moved into the top post of the young lawyers group after serving for a year as chairman-elect, and a year as vice chairman.

He succeeds Joseph W. Moss of Greensboro who was headed up the young lawyers group since last July.

Disappointing, Just Like '74

The Georgia-Florida and Border Markets have opened for tobacco sales and, like last year, the opening day averages were very disappointing. In fact, Georgia-Florida, with 10 of 12 markets reported on opening day sales, saw an average of $86.45 per hundredweight. That was below opening day's average of $87.17 last year. Even that figure caused concern for tobacco farmers to the south and those in this area. Gradually prices improved, however, and the Georgia-Florida belt ended the season with a record average of $102.81 per hundredweight.

Of course, even higher prices will be required by the farmers this year if they are to make a profit. Inflation has hit the tobacco grower even more so than other segments of the economy. Much fuel is needed in planting, harvesting and curing a tobacco crop and we all know what has happened to oil prices in the past year. In addition, tobacco is a high labor crop and additional labor expense is reflected in the overall cost of growing tobacco.

Julian Bennett, president of the National Farmers Organization in Georgia, has said that an average of $120 per hundred pounds must be reached this year if tobacco growers are to make a reasonable profit.

We are a long way from that on the Georgia-Florida Belt opening average; however we can expect higher prices as better tobacco moves on the warehouse floors. It is this leaf that the companies want most, and it is the quality leaf that the tobacco buyers pay the highest prices for.

The question at this point is, will prices move high enough so that the producers can move into the profit column when they begin receiving money for their crop? It is too soon to paint a dismal picture based on the disappointing first day's averages.

THIS AFTERNOON

Class Of '72 Scrutinized

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—The Class of '72 will be a much discussed one among educators across the nation.

That graduating high school group nationwide has been tabbed for an in depth probe by the North Carolina-based Research Triangle Institute.

The key question involved in the research is: "what happened in relation to what you hoped would happen?"

It isn't really that simple. But Research Triangle investigators will probe the students to determine how many of them originally wanted to go to college, which college; how many wanted what kind of jobs; how many were able to achieve their ambition, and if so, are they happy with it.

Dr. George R. Herbert, president of Research Triangle Institute, describes the national study as part of a growing trend in his organization to move strongly into the fields of education and social priorities.

Strong Growth

Now 20 years old, the research group has grown into a nationally recognized unit with 660 staff members, and research contracts this year totalling $16 million.

The institute forms the nucleus of the North Carolina Research Triangle Park, a thriving development housing a number of national research operations and corporate operations for such giants as IBM and the Burroughs-Wellcome drug firm.

Surrounding communities daily feel the impact of the presence of the research park, as do the major universities in the area which were initially involved in organizing the effort during Gov. Luther Hodges' administration.

The success story of the Research Park has led some who ponder future directions of economic growth for Tar Heel communities to suggest similar developments.

Herbert cautions against that. It takes a unique set of circumstances to make a research park work, he warns, including the highest levels of educational expertise to draw on.

While North Carolina's endeavor has thrived, there have been many across the nation which now consist of little more than "a sign and some overgrown weeds," Herbert said.

Current activities at the Research Triangle Institute are devoted about half to social science studies; a fourth to laboratory work; a fourth to engineering studies.

In Medicine

Medicine has become another important area of operations, with the laboratories forming a national center for research in applications of space technology to health problems.

An exotic project is also underway on cancer research; staff teams are searching through the multitudes of home remedies around the world, testing leaves, bark, roots, twigs for any chemical ingredient potentially valuable as a cancer-fighting agent.

Many studies coming out of the Research Triangle

Institute complex have a more direct application in North Carolina, including last year's first phase report on a North Carolina Economic Development Strategy.

Looking ahead to the year 2000, that study projected need for changed focus on kinds of industries and development of grouped complexes consisting of related industries such as paper, paper products, printing, and forest production in areas suitable for that.

The goal: to raise the potential for Tar Heels to improve job skills and earnings.

A related project currently underway covers the Piedmont of the state, with an eye to expected economic growth and population expansion.

The object is to outline what the future is likely to be under current growth conditions—and what state and local governments should do now in developing land use, mass transit, housing, services, etc. in planning for a better future than might otherwise develop.

Reflections On Crime

The news business is subject to two pressures that probably never will be relieved—the pressure of time, and the pressure of space.

Pressures have pretty well flattened President Ford's Crime Message of June 19, and more's the pity. Mr. Ford gave us much to talk about.

This was a long message, packed with specific recommendations for changes in the federal approach to criminal justice. Because of the pressure of space, newspapers could give full coverage to only half of them. Television could touch even fewer. One is reminded of David Halberstam's speculation on how TV would have covered Moses on Mt. Sinai. "He sat down on the most important are."

It is part of the nature of news that, like bread and milk, news has a short life on the shelf. After 48 hours, the Crime Message was stale stuff. It vanished like a crate of wilted lettuce, leaving only a leaf or two behind. This is the way the news business is—there is nothing anyone can do about it—but it wastes a lot of food for thought.

We might usefully return to what Mr. Ford had to say about punishment for violent crime:

"Imprisonment too seldom follows conviction, even for serious offenses. It is my firm belief that persons convicted of violent crime should be sent to prison. Those who prey on others, especially by violence, are very few in number. A small percentage of the entire population accounts for a very large proportion of the vicious crimes committed. Most serious crimes are committed by repeaters. These relatively few persistent criminals who cause so much worry and fear are the core of the problem. The rest of the American people have a right to protection from their violence."

Expanding on this theme, Mr. Ford noted that in the 1960s, while crime rates were soaring, the number of state and federal prisoners actually declined. "A study of one major jurisdiction showed that of all convicted robbers with a major prison record, only 27 percent were sent to prison after conviction."

"There should be no doubt in the minds of those who commit violent crimes—especially crimes involving harm to others—that they will be sent to prison if convicted under legal processes that are fair, prompt and certain."

Mr. Ford then proposed that prison sentences be made mandatory under federal law for a limited class of offenders—those who use a dangerous weapon, those who commit such serious crimes as kidnapping or trafficking in hard drugs, and those repeat offenders who commit crimes that cause "or have a potential to cause" personal injury. He called on the states to establish similar mandatory sentencing systems.

"I would emphasize," he said, "that the aim of this program of mandatory imprisonment is not vindictive punishment of the criminal, but protection of the innocent victim by separating the violent criminal from the community."

Now, this is the sort of proposal—the Crime

Recall Scopes Trial?

By ESCAR THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer
DAYTON, Tenn. (AP) — It is a half-century ago today that the Scopes evolution trial, one of the most widely publicized court cases in the history of American jurisprudence, started.

And a little table still in use in Robinson's Drug Store is a memento of a major preliminary step to the trial. During a casual conversation at the table on May 5, 1925, Rhea County High School biology teacher, John Thomas Scopes, agreed to be the defendant in a test case of Tennessee's new evolution law. A plaque notes the date.

The statute forbade the teaching in public schools of any theories that denied the divine creation of man as taught in the Bible.

Scopes had been teaching Darwin's theory that man evolved from a lower form of life.

The case, which went to trial July 10, 1925, attracted worldwide attention. Clarence Darrow, the most famous trial lawyer of the times and an agnostic, headed the defense. William Jennings Bryan, a Bible fundamentalist and three times Democratic nominee for president, joined the prosecution staff.

During the 10-day trial, Darrow poured scorn on what he called Tennessee's "Monkey Law" and Bryan stoutly defended it. Scopes was convicted and fined $100.

On appeal, the state supreme court upheld the constitutionality of the law but threw out the fine on a technicality, denying Scopes grounds for appealing the decision to the U.S. Supreme Court.

All of the principals are now dead except Sue K. Hicks, 79, a retired circuit court judge who lives near Sweetwater. Hicks, a member of the prosecuting team for the Scopes trial, re-

A BICENTENNIAL SPECIAL

The Revolution's Children

By DENNIS MONTGOMERY
Associated Press Writer

"We hope to plant a nation, where none before hath stood." So wrote a poet among the earliest Virginia settlers. That their hope bore fruit, historians say, is a measure of the diligence with which colonials sowed their chief crop: children.

Nurtured by a steady stream of immigrants, the seed of a country scattered along the banks of the James River in the 1600s had grown by 1775 to a harvest of more than two million in total population from Maine to Georgia.

America at the start of the Revolution was an agrarian land and children often were thought of as additional farmhands. Broods of 10 were common. One South Carolina woman bore 34.

A Delaware journalist, writing the obituary of a Wilmington woman in 1771, underlined the chief object of marriage by devoting most of the obituary to the woman's descendants. Her 16 children, he noted, had extended her family an additional three generations, which he enumerated. "In all," he wrote, "238 living offspring survived her: the generation of the just shall be blessed."

Blessed indeed, for many children died before age 10. For whites, adults and children alike, the death rate was 35 per 1,000, and it was twice that for blacks. About half were children.

Rickets, caused by lack of vitamin D, was epidemic. Milk would have curbed the disease but children rarely drank it after their second birthday, when most were weaned. Diphtheria, malaria, yellow fever, smallpox, typhoid and dysentery also robbed cradles.

For medicine, parents relied on generally ineffective herbal remedies with an emphasis on strong, foul-tasting purgatives. There were few qualified doctors. Those who tried their hands at medicine prescribed large quantities of ipecac, calomel, quinine, mercury and opium.

Even for those who survived, childhood was short. Youngsters were thought of as miniature adults. Girls and boys wore clothes modeled on the rather elaborate costumes of their parents. They were expected to be good at their chores, which often were adultized. Discipline was strict. Father's were undisputed heads of household and demanded respect.

Historian Russel Blaine Nye notes: "In a frontier society boys and girls had to make their own way in life as soon as possible. Children of the late 18th and early 19th centuries reached maturity swiftly because they had to."

Educational preparation for adulthood varied widely with locale and class. In general, it was poor. "Teaching... did not always attract men of the highest type," Nye says, "and contemporary school board minutes show numerous references to alcoholics, thieves, sadists and plain ignoramuses."

Textbooks, many of which had to be imported from England, were expensive and correspondingly limited. Among the most popular was the New England Primer, first published in 1690 and still in wide use during the 1770s. It emphasized morality and attention to scripture. The 1737 edition began with the admonition: "He who ne'er learns his A, B, C forever will a blockhead be."

The alphabet was illustrated with rough woodcuts portraying biblical events, many of them morbid.

For example, the letter X is illustrated with a man in a coffin and the accompanying verse reads, "Xerxes did die, And so must I." For Y, the illustration is a skeleton waiting to spirit away three young men at their cups. The verse: "While Youth do cheer Death may be near."

Youngsters still managed to amuse themselves. Among the diversions were dancing, spinning bees, barn raisings, whist, skating, wrestling, choirs, foot races, marbles, horse races, a few dolls, picnics, cricket, swimming, sailing, shooting, bowls, hunting, a version of soccer, backgammon and sleighing. Children were as rambunctious then as now, judging by a no-nonsense Albany, N.Y., law: "Whereas ye children... do very unorderly to ye shame and scandal of their parents ryde down ye streets... with small and great sleighs... by which accidents may come... it shall and may be lawful for any constable... or any other person to take any sleigh or sleighs from every such boys and girls rydeing or offering to ryde down any hill... and break any sleigh or sleighs to pieces."

Apprenticeship was common. As commerce grew, training in a trade shop could be of more monetary value than the classical studies—Latin, Greek, natural science—offered in the country's nine colleges.

Young men intent on professions learned them not at college but afterwards with men practicing in their field. Thomas Jefferson, for example, learned law after leaving the College of William and Mary to study under George Wythe, the colony's foremost barrister. Patrick Henry taught himself the law.

When war came, young men routinely bore arms. In most colonies, they were obligated to join the militia at 14.

Other Editors Say Cross-Purposes

(Greensboro Daily News)

In dealing with the state's prison system and its inhabitants, present and future, the 1975 General Assembly gave some and took some away. Maybe that sounds like an evenhanded policy. In fact, it was a policy that contradicted itself.

Corrections Department officials are now trying to judge the net effect of the legislature's various actions in this field. One of their problems is having to cram 13,000 prisoners into quarters built for a maximum of 10,000. The departed legislators, faced with a tight budget, didn't help ease the situation much. They eliminated all except $6 million of a proposed $38 million prison construction program.

Prisons Director Ralph Edwards was quoted as saying that the new liberalized parole laws "will have the temporary effect of decreasing (prison) population and will give some temporary relief." But the 1975 legislature also enacted new laws that permit judges to impose life sentences for armed robbery and that prohibit probation, parole or suspended sentences for second offenses of armed robbery.

And that, Mr. Edwards said, "will have a tendency to further increase the percentage of felons in the prison system." It certainly will, most especially in an extended business slump such as the one the country is experiencing just now—and may have to endure for some time yet. And the increase in the number of felons in the prisons will make it necessary to hire more guards and other prison employees. It will also exacerbate the existing overcrowding.

Yet despite prison overcrowding and signs of widespread unrest inside the system, the legislators failed to give serious consideration to the decriminalization of such so-called victimless crimes as public drunkenness, the use or possession of marijuana, prostitution or gambling.

As W. W. Finlator of the North Carolina Civil Liberties Union has pointed out in a letter to Public Pulse, although such activities may be offensive to a majority of North Carolinians, it is doubtful that criminal processes offer a satisfactory solution for dealing with them. Strictly speaking such conduct may not always be "victimless," but usually the only victims are those who knowingly engage in it.

In summary, in dealing with the prison issues the General Assembly appears, consciously or unconsciously, to have been working at cross-purposes. Let us hope the net effect for the short term is a reduction in the prison population and that the next legislature will accomplish more in the way of prison reform than this one seems to have done.

A Poor Battleground For 'Lib'

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) —

Despite equal opportunity laws, it will be a long time before women managers in numbers will be pulling the levers at high levels of American industry, a management specialist says.

The explanation, says Eugene Jennings, has nothing to do with sex, courage or ability. It may, however, have a lot to do with intelligence, the desire for achievement and job satisfaction.

"The woman manager is discovering what male managers have known for years, that much of managerial work is tedious and boring," says Jennings, a professor at Michigan State University and a business consultant.

Many women, he continues, "are no different than many men who after 8 or 10 years in the managerial world learn it is not what it is cracked up to be. A lot of the work is simply routine and almost meaningless if you don't have a reason to justify it."

Jennings believes that "the married male with a family can justify the tediousness and onerousness of his work because he is supporting a family; but a woman whose husband is a good breadwinner cannot do so."

After a decade or less in managerial work, many high-achieving women have learned a great deal about carrying the authority and responsibility of managing in terms of profit objectives and budgeting for performance.

Many of them are in the $20,000 to $40,000 salary category and have had experience running a branch office or department or zone. They are just being noticed for possible promotion to division manager.

At this point many of them leave managerial work, Jennings notes, and seek something more rewarding. Finding herself on what she considers a treadmill in terms of job satisfaction, a woman often goes into business for herself.

Another alternative noted by Jennings, who is credited in managerial circles with having built the first computer program to monitor executive mobility, is to work for a smaller, service-oriented corporation that requires more initiative and creativity.

A third alternative is to stay with the corporation but to quit line, or supervisory work, and take on staff work, such as planning, advertising, personnel and aspects of finance that seem more technically than managerially oriented.

Jennings stresses that the decisions made by women aren't signs of inadequacy. "Not all men are cut out for management and not all women are either," he says. But the women, seemingly, have a chance to do something about it.

The corporate world is a poor battleground on which to prove women's liberation, says Jennings. It has its own requirements, and they sometimes conflict with personal ambitions.

Strength For Today

TWO GENERALS

The generals on the military staff of the Emperor Alexander of Russia were telling him one day of the great exploits of Napoleon and his generals. The Russian military men then advised the Emperor to avoid war against these supermen if at all possible. The Tsar chuckled and replied, "I have two generals better than any Napoleon has—General January and General February."

The loss of 250,000 of Napoleon's men in his subsequent invasion of Russia proved the wisdom of the Tsar's observation.

The outcome of this struggle is something we should keep in mind when we contemplate the many instances in which the right appears on the verge of succumbing to superior force. Often there is a reserve of defensive power in some area where we should least expect to find it. No general, no matter how intelligent, can identify all of his potential opponents. Somewhere there may be Generals January and February waiting in the wings.

Congressman Jones Donates His Files To ECU Collection

Representative Walter B. Jones of Farmville has donated his congressional files to East Carolina University for preservation in the ECU Manuscript Collection.

Jones, who has represented the First Congressional District since 1966, is chairman of the House Subcommittee on Tobacco. He is a ranking member of the Agriculture Committee where he also serves on the Subcommittee on Livestock and Grain and the Subcommittee on Oilseeds and Rice. In addition, Jones is a member of the Committee on Merchant Marine & Fisheries and the subcommittees on Merchant Marine, Oceanography, and Coast Guard and Navigation.

Jones was first elected to Congress in February, 1966, to fill the unexpired term of the late Herbert C. Bonner. Previously he had served three terms in the State House of Representatives and one term in the State Senate.

According to Collection Director Don Lennon, approximately 60 cubic feet of files covering the years from 1966 to 1970 have already been transferred to ECU. These papers include correspondence, legislation, reports, committee files, and related materials which reflect the operation of Congress.

Lennon explained that the present acquisition constitutes only the non-current portion of the Congressman's papers.

"It is anticipated that ECU will continue to receive additions to the collection every two or three years for as long as Mr. Jones remains in Washington. It is impossible to overemphasize the research potential of these files, particularly in the areas of agriculture and coastal studies."

ECU Chancellor Leo W. Jenkins commented that "the Walter B. Jones Papers constitute a very important gift to the University. Congressman Jones has been a great builder of the East and a great friend to East Carolina University. His papers will help document for future generations of students and scholars the progress that has been made in our region, the state, and the nation."

The papers will be housed with other collections in the East Carolina Manuscript Collection in the Joyner Library on the ECU campus.

Holshouser Comments Draws Local Complaint

Dr. William McConnell of Greenville has complained to Gov. James Holshouser about a statement the governor made at a news conference regarding the accreditation of Pitt Memorial Hospital.

In a letter to the governor, dated July 2, the local physician said "your comments regarding the un-accreditation of Pitt County Memorial and the ECU Medical School are inappropriate and insulting to me and probably all other citizens in this area."

"I am a Republican who worked hard for your election and a member of the staff of Pitt County Hospital," Dr. McConnell continued. "Your comments confirm my previous suspicion that men in high office often make comments about things of which they have little information."

"Before making uncomplimentary implications about Pitt County Hospital you should have factual information."

"We have the best, and most complete medical staff in Eastern North Carolina," the physician wrote.

"Our present hospital is old and overcrowded and still accredited. We are undergoing an appeal in the accrediting process, and hope to clarify our position."

"Many of the accrediting deficiencies will be corrected by our new Pitt County Hospital."

Dr. McConnell said his letter was written after the Governor opened remarks about the ECU

School of Medicine at a news conference with comments about Pitt Memorial Hospital's accreditation.

The Governor, according to Dr. McConnell, indicated that Pitt Memorial Hospital has lost its accreditation and raised the question whether it is a wise idea to put state money into a medical education program affiliated with the hospital.

Actually, the hospital has not lost its accreditation, but is in the process of appealing a ruling that might result in the loss of accreditation for the medical facility.

Dr. McConnell, president of the local Medical Society and vice-chief of staff at Pitt Memorial, said he wrote the governor as an individual rather than as a spokesman for the hospital's medical staff or the medical society.

Municipal Pool Is Said Well-Attended

The Greenville Municipal Swimming Pool "has so far been very well attended," Recreation Department director Boyd Lee told members of the Recreation Commission Wednesday night.

"There's been an average of 500 people a day using the pool, with right at 100 of these people taking swimming lessons," he said.

Lee noted that if this rate of usage continues, "we may be able to pay half of the expenses of keeping the pool going through fees collected."

The monthly Recreation Department report for the month of May, the first high attendance month following the winter season, shows the following average daily attendance: Elm Street Park, 659; South Greenville, 295; and West

Greenville, 130.

For individuals events, some of the most attended were: (Figures given are for average attendances) at Elm Street—Service league, 93; senior citizens, 80; P-VAC, 36; adult softball league, 260; square dancing, 32; and elementary track, 84.

At South Greenville—Softball, 43; elementary track, 55; tutoring class, 38; Little Leaguers, 49; gym (night), 69; and gym (Saturday), 78.

At West Greenville—Girls' softball, 13; and Bible Class, 28.

Wrong Smith In The Grave

RALEIGH (AP)—Members of Ralph Smith's family are wondering who they really buried in a grave in Wilmington back in 1951.

At the time, authorities at Cherry Hospital told them it was their kinsman, Ralph Smith who had entered the mental hospital in 1924 at the age of six who was dead.

Last May, the family was notified again of Smith's death. Members of the family viewed the new body and asserted it was not Ralph Smith.

The hospital authorities called on the State Bureau of Investigation which concluded that the real Ralph Smith died last May 10.

The SBI was unable to throw any light on who was buried in the Wilmington grave in 1951.

Birthplace On The Move Again

RALEIGH (AP)—The wandering birthplace of former President Andrew Johnson is on the move again.

The tiny, four-room house in which the 17th president was born is being moved from a spot in a Raleigh recreation park to Mordecai Historic Park which is being developed as a center of historic interest. It will be one of several buildings in the park.

It was the fourth move in the last 100 years for the house which stood originally in downtown Raleigh.

Suspect Dry Weather Cut Soviet Grain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hot, dry weather in Soviet grainlands is expected to reduce grain harvests to a level about 10 per cent short of Moscow's 1975 goal, says the Agriculture Department.

And Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said Wednesday that reports of an impending grain deal with the Soviets "may be more than rumors." He told a news conference in Kansas City that intelligence sources indicate that Russia will have to buy American wheat this year.

The Agriculture Department predicted a Russian harvest of 195 million metric tons of grain this year, nearly 10 per cent below its goal of 215.7 million tons. This would still be almost as large as last year's harvest and the third largest in Russia's history.

But the Kremlin has made a commitment to increase supplies of meat, poultry and other livestock products for consumers. Analysts say this is a major reason for the apparent Soviet willingness to make up shortfalls in their grain production effort by buying foreign grain.

Reports published in London earlier this week said the Russians were in the market for substantial quantities of corn and wheat.

The reports triggered sharp increases on the Chicago Board of Trade and other futures markets. The trend continued Wednesday with wheat, corn, oats and other futures rising sharply in price.

However, Butz said that no American company had reported any grain deal with Russia to his department. Notice is required within 24 hours on sales of 100,000 or more tons upon completion of the deal.

calls: "I wrote the warrant for Scopes' arrest. Some members of the school board came to me and my brother, Herbert, and asked if we would represent the county in trying Scopes. We agreed."

Hicks said he wrote Bryan asking him to join the prosecution.

"Bryan used our law office as his headquarters," Hicks said. "I recall that he told my brother and me, 'You boys will probably live long enough to know whether evolution is true, but I won't.'"

Although Bryan won the case, he emerged from the trial a beaten man and died five days after the trial ended.

Scopes, who did not testify during the trial, left Dayton shortly after the trial and became a petroleum geologist in Shreveport, La. He died of cancer there in October 1970.

"I thought all along, ever since 1925, that the law was unconstitutional," Scopes said in later years.

He returned to Dayton only once, in 1960, and observed then that "the town hasn't changed much since 1925."

Amtrak Seeks Hire Thousands

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of unemployed persons would be put to work patching up deteriorating railroad tracks throughout the nation under legislation before Congress.

Officials of Amtrak and railroad labor organizations gave their support Wednesday to four bills designed to reduce unemployment while improving the rail system.

Testifying before the House subcommittee on transportation and commerce, Amtrak President Paul Reistrup said that top priority for all upgrading should be given on routes on which Amtrak operates.

He noted that Amtrak is modernizing its aging fleet of passenger cars and has placed more than $25 million in orders for new locomotives, cars and turbine powered trains.

"The federal government is not going to get full value received for the investment in new, high-speed equipment unless track is improved," he said. He cited 17 lines which need extensive rehabilitation, most of them owned by the financially troubled Penn Central Railroad Co.

Harold C. Crotty, president of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and representing the Railway Labor Executive Association, told the panel the labor group would support any of the four pending bills.

However, the association maintains the secretary of transportation should have discretion to select lines which need upgrading, Crotty said. Some of the bills would limit the authority.

Fifty Stitches

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A 66-year-old woman had to have about 50 stitches in her neck after being attacked by two youths in a daylight robbery. Mrs. Marie Rowe Scott gave this account:

She had just left her work at a department store and was going to her car when she was hit from behind and knocked down Tuesday.

One youth said he was going to cut her throat if she didn't give him her pocketbook. About that time she saw blood running.

Then the two fled with her purse from a parking lot in the downtown area. It contained $9.

She went to an auto center about half a block away for help.

Little Sluggers Capture Title

The Little Sluggers captured the National Division title in the City Softball League, and Kentucky Fried Chicken moved to within two games of clinching the American title last night.

The Sluggers downed Pier Five, 11-6, while Kentucky Fried Chicken gained a 13-1 win over One-Hour Koretizing to help open the American gap.

In the opening game on one field, Jock's took a 4-2 win over Morgan Printers. Morgan pushed over both of its runs in the first for an early lead. Jock's came back with single runs in the second, third, fifth and seventh innings to gain the win.

The Rockets nipped the Chargers, 7-6, in the second game. The Chargers scored one in the first and got another in the second on a homer by Vine. But in the bottom of the second, the Rockets came up with six runs to take the lead. They added what proved to be the winning run in the fourth.

The Chargers picked up one more in the fifth and three in the sixth, but fell one short of catching up.

KFC picked up its win in the final game. They scored three in the first, then came back with five in the second. One scored in the third on Charles Meeks' homer. They scored four more in the fourth.

The lone One-Hour run came in the fifth.

White's Insulation gained a 15-3 win over Baggett's in the first game on the other field. White's got a run in the first, but Baggett's came up with one in the top of the second to tie it. White's then scored three in the second on a homer by Ron Hartis. They added two in the third, six in the fifth and three in the sixth.

Baggett's other two both came over in the third.

The Sluggers' title clincher came in the second game. Pier Five scored first, getting five runs in the top of the first. The Sluggers came back with three, including a homer by Bill Kuykendall. In the fourth, the Sluggers pushed over three more to push ahead. They added one in the fifth and four in the sixth. Pier Five's other run came over in the sixth.

Planters Bank Wins Second In Row; College View Downs NCNB

College View picked up its first victory of the second season, and Planters Bank ran its streak to 2-0 with wins last night in the Babe Ruth League.

Planters downed Pepsi-Cola, 13-9, while College View took an 11-4 win over North Carolina National Bank. Planters is now 2-0 on the second season, while College View is 1-0. Both NCNB and Pepsi are 0-2.

Planters grabbed the initial lead in the opening game in the second inning. Perry Worthington walked and moved up on a wild pitch and an error. James Hawkins walked and stole second. Jim Kernan grounded out, scoring Worthington. Blair Smith reached on an error, allowing Hawkins to score.

Planters added four more in the third. Chris Moye doubled and Davis Pettus singled him to third. A balk then scored Moye. Jarvis Campbell walked, and moved up on a wild pitch. On the same play, Pettus was out trying to score. Campbell took third on another wild pitch and after Hawkins walked, the two pulled a double steal, scoring Campbell. Kernan reached on an error, scoring Hawkins. Greg Gambrell also reached on an error, allowing Kernan to score.

Pepsi got on the scoreboard in the fourth, scoring four runs.

Chris Keys doubled and Ray Kilpatrick singled to Calvin Parker running for him. Kevin Haut reached on an error, scoring Keys and Kilpatrick. Ben Parker walked and a hit by Marty Worthington scored both Haut and Parker.

Planters added another in the fourth. Mac Stokes doubled, moved up on an out and scored when Worthington reached on an error.

The fifth saw Planters put it out of reach with six more runs. Smith singled and Stokes reached on an error. Moye walked to load the bases. Pettus singled and an error on the play allowed all four runners to come around. Campbell walked and so did Worthington. Hawkins singled and a walk to Gambrell scored Campbell. Another to Smith brought in Worthington with the 13th Planters' run.

Pepsi, down 13-4, rallied for five runs in the seventh, but couldn't pull it out.

In the second game, NCNB took the initial lead, scoring a pair of runs in the second. Donald Little was hit by a pitch and Jim Heath reached on an error that scored Little. Ronnie Winstead then singled in Heath.

College View came back with three runs in the bottom of the frame. David Lowe walked and Chris Cannon did too. Two wild pitches scored Lowe. H.L. Austin walked and stole second and Henry Wooten singled in Cannon. Timmy Harris singled to score Austin.

College View added another in the fourth. Henry Wooten reached on an error and stole second. He came around on wild pitches.

The fifth saw two more score. Marshall Crumpler singled and Lowe walked. Austin singled to score both runners.

The sixth saw the other five runs score for an 11-2 lead.

NCNB, however, came up with two in the top of the seventh. Cliff Fearrington singled and Taylor Pace reached on an error. Bryant Morton singled in Fearrington and Donald Little singled to score Pace. The rally ended there, however.

Towe Signing Might Be Key

By JOHN MOSSMAN
AP Sports Writer

DENVER (AP) — David Thompson was lured away from the established National Basketball Association by a thriving young team, a dynamic coach, rabid fans—and perhaps one of his closest friends.

Thompson's decision to sign with the Denver Nuggets of the American Basketball Association was the result of a carefully orchestrated coup which could have far-reaching implications. It represents the first time a No. 1 draft choice of the NBA has agreed to play for an ABA team.

Denver President and General Manager Carl Scheer says he believes a number of factors influenced Thompson's decision to play for Denver instead of the NBA Atlanta Hawks, which reportedly offered the 6-foot-4 Thompson the same money as Denver, reputed to be as much as $3 million over a six-year period.

"I think David felt more comfortable here in Denver," Scheer said Wednesday. "We were sincere and honest with him, not that Atlanta wasn't."

"He was obviously impressed with (Coach) Larry Brown, and seemed to have good rapport with our players. He saw our new arena, and witnessed the enthusiasm of our fans when he came here for a playoff game. And he said he felt this was a winning situation."

The clincher, however, may have occurred several weeks ago when the Nuggets signed one of Thompson's closest friends and teammates at North Carolina State, Monte Towe.

"They're very close and that had to be a factor," Scheer conceded, "although I'm not sure how much."

Oosterhuis In One Stroke Lead

By ROBERT JONES
AP Sports Writer

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — Carnoustie's 7,065-yard, par-72 championship course is a "sleeping giant," according to Hale Irwin, the 1974 U.S. Open champion.

And anyone hoping to win the British Open title, and the $16,500 that goes with it, must be praying the giant doesn't wake up.

Peter Oosterhuis, the tall British favorite, tamed Carnoustie Wednesday with a four-under-par 68 to gain the lead in the field of 153. But Jack Nicklaus, the hot favorite, also tamed this famed course, and stands just one stroke back going into today's second round.

Tied with Nicklaus were Irwin, Australians Jack Newton and Bob Shearer, and South Africans Andries Oosthuizen and David Huish.

Almost without exception, the leaders came to grief on the very last hole — a 448-yard, par four split twice by a looping burn that cuts across the fairway and again just in front of the green.

Nicklaus, firing on all cylinders, was five under par at one stage but fired a bogey on the final hole to lose a share of the lead. Also bogeying No. 18 were Oosterhuis and Irwin.

The consensus among the players was that the course was relatively docile Wednesday. But all of them were wary about what could happen if the wind — so far scarcely strong enough to ruffle the flags dotting the course — should suddenly blow in from the sea.

It was the menacing back nine, particularly Nos. 10, 15 and 18, that caused ruffled brows among the players and proved the graveyard for a sheaf of first-round hopefuls. There were 36 birdies on the front nine, but just 19 on the back nine.

Two more casualties of No. 18 were defending champion Gary Player of South Africa and Liang-Huan Lu, the cheerful Taiwan golfer who has been a favorite of fans here since he came in second in 1971.

Both found their way into the burn.

After today's round the field of 153 will be cut to the top 80 for the third round Friday. The top 60 will then play the final round Saturday.

Despite the favorable conditions, only 38 players were able to beat or match par Wednesday. They include Americans Alan Tapie and Danny Edwards, at 70, and Johnny Miller, George Burns, Ray Floyd, Tom Watson and John Mahafey, at 71.

Americans at par 72 were Eddie Pearce, Hubert Green, John Jacobs and Mark Pfeil.

Tom Weiskopf, the 1973 British Open winner, started today's play at one over par 73, while Arnold Palmer was among those at 74. Lee Trevino, winner of the British Open in 1971 and 1972, was well back at 76 and in need of a strong round to survive the cut.

Tom Valerio of Philadelphia has been elected captain of Army's 1975-76 basketball team. He led the cadets in scoring last season, averaging 17 points a game.

Woman Umpire Is Doing Well

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (AP) — Christine Wren, the only woman in blue in professional baseball, says she doesn't turn the other cheek when she hears blue words either from the men on the field or the fans in the stands.

"Four-letter words are part of baseball," said Wren, an umpire in the Northwest League the past three weeks. "It doesn't bother me. I grew up with it. I've probably called umpires everything anybody will ever call me."

The 26-year-old Miss Wren said when coaches argue with her, she doesn't take it personally.

"He's not mad at me; he's mad that his player is out," she said. "On a close play, it's good for a coach to argue. It gets his players up."

Miss Wren, a native of Yakima, Wash., said she still has a lot to learn about the game, and even though most coaches give her more advice than she needs, she listens to valid arguments from experienced coaches.

"You have to listen," Miss Wren said. "And I'd just as soon listen — but I don't have to listen to the same line twice."

Concentrating 100 per cent on the game in front of her is of paramount importance, she says, explaining that, like the players, she mentally psyches herself up for each game.

"If you don't psyche yourself up you're dead on your feet. Your bounce is gone, your hustle is gone and so is your game. You owe it to the ballplayers to be psyched for every game."

Bill Berrer, manager of the Bellingham Dodgers, said, "I think she's out there trying but I think there's times when she makes up her mind before the play develops. If she would just wait a split second to make her decision and not anticipate, she'd do a lot better."

Miss Wren would give herself pretty good marks as an umpire.

"I think I've done a pretty good job," she said. "I wouldn't say it was excellent, but I've seen worse."

"Umpiring is the only profession I know where you have to start out perfect and work your way up from there."

The New York Nets of the American Basketball Assn. set 12 club records last season. One of the records was a 10-game winning streak.

Pro golfer Sandra Haynie is the home pro at the Lake Country Estates Country Club in Fort Worth, Tex.

Chips and putts from area golf courses:
Greenville

Several people turned in their best rounds recently at the Greenville Golf and Country Club. Among the top nine hole rounds were Jane Collie with a 47; Katie King with a 46, Mary Everett with a 50, while 18-hole scores included Connor Merritt III, a 71, Peggy Hallow with a 96; Don Wilkerson with an 83, Ed Monroe with an 80 and Carl Pierce with a 70.

On July 4, tournaments were held for men and women. The tournament actually continues from Friday through Sunday, with a golfer allowed to enter his nine-hole score up to three times.

The women's tournament was a low gross-net affair. Low gross went to Helen Bach, while Jean Creech was second, and Joan Jooper, Della Dayson and Joan Warren tied for third. The low net honors went to Helen Bach, while Della Dayson and Helen Bach tied for second. Joan Hooper was third.

In the men's tournament, a better ball of pair was held. First was the team of David Womack and Bill Grantmyre with a 59. Second place went to Reid Hooper and John Wooten also with a 59. Ties were resolved by matching cards.

Third were Graham Jefferson and Joe Davis with 60. Fourth was Ed Monroe and Tom Haigwood with 60, followed by Garry Pegram and Danny McNally with 60, also. Sixth were Connor Merritt III and Karl Thurber with a 62, while J.C. Whitehurst and Connor Merritt were seventh with a 62. Larry Graham and Sonny Lea were eighth with 62, while Graham Jefferson and Joe Davis finished ninth, also with a 62.

The Mother-Daughter tournament will be held on July 22, while the Father-Son is slated for July 24. Times and pairings have been posted in the pro shop, but additional teams may still be added.

Ayden

Sidney Roberson picked up an eagle three on the par five second hole at the Ayden Golf and Country Club. He went on to record a 32-36—68 round.

Gwyn Merritt eagled the second hole also, hitting a seven-wood into the hole. John Bulow also had an eagle on the hole, sinking a half-wedge.

James Langley had his best round a 92, while Pat Joyner had one of her better rounds, an 81.

A Superball Tournament with one Lady will be held this Sunday at the club. Interested members may sign up by calling the pro shop.

Brook Valley

On July 4, a Family Day activity was held at Brook Valley Golf and Country Club. First low gross went to the Charlie Bill Moye family of Charlie Bill, Matha, Macon, Chris and Simon. They carded a 31.

Second low gross went to W.L. Allen Jr. and Jim and Katie Ward with a 32. Third was Perk, Becky, Sid, and Sterling Ashby, along with Dan Mayo, with a 33.

First low net went to Harold and Jeanette Thomas and Ted, Edwin and Jim Hall with a 34. Second was Joe, Shirley and Ashley Taylor and C.W. Strother with a 34. Bill, Sandra Byron and Mark Smith were third.

Tom Adams had his best round a 75, which included five birdies. He was playing with Billy Woolfolk, Les Turner and Guy Langston.

Two holes-in-one were recorded at the club. Mary Edgerly aced the fifth hole while playing with her husband, Don. Harold Thomas got an ace on the twelfth hole, using a seven iron. He was playing with Ben Harrison, Troy Riddle, Red Hawley and Paul McMahon.

Hurting Seaver Makes Atlanta Sick Of Him

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer

Baseballs slipped out of Tom Seaver's hand. His shoulder hurt. And he couldn't get his curve ball over. He had all kinds of problems pitching to the Atlanta Braves.

And the Braves had all kinds of problems hitting him.

Even when he's troubled, the New York Mets' finest pitcher is hard to beat and he proved it Wednesday night with a classy, 2-1 decision over Atlanta in 10 innings.

"He's been pitching great all year," said Rusty Staub, who hit the game-winning homer in the 10th. "If we had gotten him a few runs in some other games, he'd have even more victories than he has."

Seaver's 13th victory of the season was gained despite some frustration and pain.

"I had a lot of trouble getting my breaking ball over," acknowledged the right-hander. "Me and (catcher Jerry) Grote laughed about it."

About the slipped baseballs: "At one time, home plate umpire Shag Crawford came out and asked me if the balls were too slick for me."

Seaver, who has been pitching lately with some tenderness in his shoulder, sat soaking the painful arm in ice after the game. "I was advised to do it by doctors as a precautionary measure," Seaver noted.

In the other National League games, the St. Louis Cardinals blanked the San Francisco Giants 9-0; the Houston Astros nipped the Montreal Expos 4-3 in 10 innings; the Cincinnati Reds whipped the Philadelphia Phillies 9-7; the Pittsburgh Pirates trimmed the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2 and the San Diego Padres tripped the Chicago Cubs 3-2.

Cardinals 9, Giants 0
Willie Davis and Ron Fairly pounded home runs and Ted Simmons collected four hits, leading St. Louis and John Denny over San Francisco. Backed by a 15-hit attack, Denny coasted to his fourth victory with an eight-hitter.

Astros 4, Expos 3

Cesar Cedeno's run-scoring single in the 10th gave Houston its triumph over Montreal. Trailing 3-0 after 1½ innings, Houston finally caught up when Doug Rader hit his sixth home run of the season with one out in the ninth inning off starter Dennis Blair. Don DeMola hit Wilbur Howard with a pitch to open the 10th and Greg Gross sacrificed. The Expos elected to pitch to Cedeno and he singled to score Howard and gave the Astros their fourth victory in a row.

Reds 9, Phillies 7
Johnny Bench drilled a game-tying home run and Dave Concepcion singled home the go-ahead run as sizzling Cincinnati scored five times in the eighth to beat Philadelphia. Bench walloped his 18th homer leading off to pull the Reds into a 5-5 tie. Tony Perez, who earlier hit a two-run homer, then singled and one out later moved to second on Cesar Geronimo's infield hit.

Concepcion drove home Perez with a single to left, giving the

Padres 3, Cubs 2
Hector Torres' tie-breaking single in the fourth inning scored Dave Winfield and Brent Strom checked Chicago on six hits through eight innings, leading San Diego over the Cubs. The loss sent Chicago reeling to its fifth straight defeat, matching the Cubs' longest losing streak of the season.

Pirates 3, Dodgers 2
Bruce Kison and Dave Giusti combined on an eight-hitter and Richie Hebner drove in two runs to help Pittsburgh beat Los Angeles. Loser Andy Messersmith, 12-6, fell behind 1-0 in the second inning when Willie Stargell walked, took second on a wild pitch and scored on a single by Hebner.

Poetic Justices As Angels Win On Error

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

AP Sports Writer

It was poetic justice.

First, Brooks Robinson took advantage of a third-strike wild pitch that would have ended the eighth inning and delivered a two-run single to put the Baltimore Orioles in front of the California Angels 2-1 Wednesday night.

But in the bottom of the eighth, the brilliant Robinson, winner of 15 consecutive Gold Glove awards as the American League's premier fielding third baseman, made a wild throw — only his second error all season — and the Angels promptly rebounded for a 3-2 victory on Dave Collins' two-run pinch triple.

Elsewhere, the Boston Red Sox wiped out a six-run deficit and edged the Minnesota Twins 9-8, the Texas Rangers blanked the New York Yankees 4-0, the Milwaukee Brewers downed the Kansas City Royals 6-4, the Oakland A's beat the Cleveland Indians 3-1 and the Detroit Tigers won their eighth straight, beating the Chicago White Sox 6-2.

The Red Sox boosted their lead in the East Division to two games over New York and Milwaukee and six over Baltimore while Oakland has a seven-game bulge over Kansas City in the AL West.

Robinson's error to start the Angels' eighth was followed by a sacrifice. Doyle Alexander replaced Ross Grimsley with a 2-0 count on Winston Llenas and completed the walk to pinch hitter Joe Lahoud. Collins was then called upon to pinch hit for the first time in his 3½-year pro career and delivered his big triple.

Red Sox 9, Twins 8

Jim Rice's two-out double in the bottom of the ninth inning scored Doug Griffin with the winning run. Boston had tied the game earlier in the ninth on Cecil Cooper's pinch homer. Then Griffin delivered a pinch single and scored all the way from first on Rice's hit.

Brewers 6, Royals 4

Don Money hammered two solo home runs and Bobby Darwin hit one for the Brewers. Money led off the game with his fourth homer of the season and hit No. 5 in the fifth Darwin's 10th homer triggered a four-run uprising against Nelson Briles in the second.

Rangers 4, Yankees 0

Ferguson Jenkins pitched a four-hitter for his first shutout of the season and Jim Sundberg belted a three-run homer. Tom Grieve doubled home the Rangers' first run in the opening inning and Sundberg cracked his sixth home run in the sixth.

A's 3, Indians 1

Dick Bosman, Paul Lindblad and Rollie Fingers combined to pitch a five-hitter for Oakland. Bosman, who started the season with the Indians, gave up two hits, both in the fourth.

Cleveland didn't score until the ninth.

The A's got two runs off Eric Raich in the first on a walk, singles by Claudell Washington and Reggie Jackson and Joe Rudi's double.

Tigers 6, White Sox 2

Bill Freehan hit a three-run homer and Jack Pierce drove in Detroit's other three runs with a single and a grounder. Ray Bare scattered eight hits, including Brian Downing's two-run homer, the first runs off Tiger pitching in 21 innings.

Bubonic Plague Horror Remains In Background

By BILL ROBERTS
Associated Press Writer
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — "You've never seen anything more frightening in your life. I mean, his whole body was black. He was as sick as any human could be and still live."

Dr. James Favata reflected on the month-long struggle to save 23-year-old Ralph Fulp from bubonic plague, an ordeal Favata described as a "nightmare for everyone."

He said Fulp, of Chino Valley in north central Arizona, will live but will lose parts of most fingers and some toes. Of seven plague cases confirmed nationwide this year, the Arizona Health Department says five occurred in Arizona, most on the Navajo Indian Reservation in northern Arizona. All have been nonfatal. The disease is usually transmitted by fleas. In an interview on Wednesday, Favata recalled the morning of June 14 when Fulp struggled into his office. "I told his mother then that if he had been on the reservation or in that area, I would say he had the plague," Favata said. "But the idea seemed so outlandish. The plague was something I read about in medical textbooks 15 years ago. I never in my wildest dreams thought I would be treating it. The case was a nightmare — for him, for his parents, for me, for everyone."

Hospital tests confirmed Fulp had the plague. "By Sunday, he started to fail rapidly and went into severe shock," the doctor said. "He became extremely short of breath and his blood pressure fell to nothing."

Favata said that at one point Fulp's temperature was so high it wouldn't register on an electronic thermometer. "By Monday, he was black from the tip of his head to the tip of his toes," Favata said. "I've treated a lot of people, but I've never seen anybody as sick as he was. By Monday, the odds of him dying were good."

In those first few days, the problem was not how to treat the plague, but how to keep Fulp alive until antibiotics took effect, Favata said. He said it was two weeks later before he "felt pretty comfortable" that Fulp would live. State Health Department officials have been trying without success to track down where Fulp contracted the plague and that extensive trapping of rodents near Chino Valley has failed to produce clues. According to medical journals, the last U.S. outbreak of the plague occurred in Los Angeles in 1924-25. Thirty-three persons contracted the disease, 31 died. Last May, a 17-year-old girl died of the plague in an area north of Los Angeles.

Cher Says Marriage A Mistake, Asks Divorce

By KEVIN MCKENNA
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) —
"Gregg and I made a mistake," entertainer Cher said in announcing that she was seeking a divorce after nine days of marriage to rock musician
Gregg Allman.
"I've always believed it best to admit one's mistakes as quickly as possible," she said late Wednesday. "We just cannot live together as man and wife."

A spokesman for Cher said
the couple had been separated since last Friday, and Cher had
Cher said, "I am trying to make my own decisions now after years of having had them made for me. I am bound to make wrong ones from time to time and this was one of those times."

But after filing for divorce from Allman, 29-year-old Cherlyn LaPiere Bono Allman reportedly was not sure her latest decision was the right one either.

Less than two weeks ago,
Cher had shed her first husband, long-time singing partner
Sonny Bono.
A spokesman for Allman said the latest divorce action was all a misunderstanding. He claimed Cher had already reconsidered, and he said he thought she might not go through with the divorce.

"The papers have been filed but the litigation will not go through," said Mike Hyland of Allman's recording company, Capricorn Records. There were also reports, later withdrawn, that Cher was unaware of the divorce action.

Later, Hyland said, "I think they had a misunderstanding. I think they got things straightened out, but I really have no way of knowing. I know they were on the phone this afternoon."
He said Allman was "pretty much surprised" by Cher's di-

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Thursday, July 10, 1975—11
vorce petition, which cited "irreconcilable differences."
Hyland said it was possible the couple would get together over the weekend in Georgia, home of the Allman Brothers
Band, or Los Angeles.
Allman, 27, was in Macon,
Ga., recording an album.
Cher, a long-haired beauty with one of the most frequently photographed navels in the history of American television, and Allman were married June 30 in Las Vegas in a small ceremony in the Caesars Palace suite of Cher's lawyer, Milton Rudin.
She had been divorced from Bono for only three days.
"I have my own feelings about divorce," Cher had said after her split with Bono. "So many people get divorced today. I think you shouldn't regard it as a failure. Just a change."

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pushed ahead again today in heavy trading set in motion by Wednesday's sharp rally.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrialists was up 5.79 at 877.66, and gainers outpaced losers by about a 7-2 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow rose more than 7 points through midmorning after Wednesday's 14.08-point surge.

Then, with the average pulling even with its 1975 closing high of 878.99, reached 10 days ago, some profit taking appeared.

Analysts said investing institutions evidently had been prompted to step up their buying by favorable second quarter earnings estimates at Polaroid and Walt Disney Productions, two glamor issues with wide followings on Wall Street.

They also noted a continuing air of optimism over the interest rate outlook following the mid-week pullback in short term money rates.

Disney rose 3/4 to 53 1/2 after a 3-point gain Wednesday.

Polaroid, which had climbed 3 1/2 over the two previous sessions slipped back 1/2 to 39 1/2.

Among other glamor stocks, Xerox was up 1 1/2 at 71 1/2; Texas Instruments rose 2 1/2 to 119, and Johnson & Johnson added 1 1/2 to 96 1/2.

Buffalo Forge rose 2 1/2 to 25. The company reported sharply higher earnings for the six months ended May 31.

Harnischfeger lost 1 1/2 to 27. The company announced plans to file for an offering of 1 million common shares.

The NYSE's composite index gained 37 to 51.10 in the first hour.

The American Stock Exchange market value index was up .91 at 95.02.

Recreation...

Simmons said "I am not against parks if this was a neighborhood park for children to play in, and not a recreation facility for every adult in this county to play in all night long, seven days a week, 365 days a year."

"I think money spent to maintain lights at night could be better spent for daytime recreation for children," he added.

Other persons speaking as advocates of maintaining night time activities at Jaycee Park included Dr. Eric Fearrington, Mike McCormick, Floyd Mattheis, Mrs. Jean Deal, Curtis Lee, and Jim Decastro.

"One thing I'd like for you to think about," Mattheis said, "is that the direction you take on this situation could be like a cancer that would spread, something that could shut down all the recreation facilities at night. Whatever you do, I feel, should be equitable for all the facilities in Greenville. It seems inconsistent to pick out one park this way."

Decastro, who works with the Babe Ruth program, noted he personally felt it was "a shame that the facility had to be put that close to the residences of Simmons and Miss Ellenberg's, but the fact is it's there and it's zoned for that use."

"It's being used, but it's not zoned for that purpose," Simmons replied to Decastro's remarks.

The report, as being presented by the Recreation Commission to the City Council, shows that the light reading "near Mr. Simmons' house is less than one foot candle; and that the highest noise level (in decibels) during the play of baseball is 70 decibels in Simmons' backyard and 65 decibels in Miss Ellenberg's backyard."

OSHA defines noise pollution as sound pressure above the level of 90 decibels—the Environmental Protection Agency indicates that pressure above 85 decibels is detrimental to the environment.

Freed By Uganda

LONDON (AP) — A British radio correspondent in Uganda reported that President Idi Amin today freed Denis Hills after a meeting with British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan.

The correspondent for Independent Radio News, a commercial network, said Hills, whom Amin had sentenced to death for calling him a village tyrant, told him: "I'm feeling very well. I'm very happy indeed."

The report said the 61-year-old British lecturer was expected to be back in Britain "within 24 hours."

Another report from Kampala, the Ugandan capital, said Callaghan and Amin met for more than an hour, and Callaghan then drove to Entebbe airport to fly back to Britain.

It was assumed that Hills would accompany him.

Deciding Today Advancement School's Fate

RALEIGH (AP)—The state Board of Education was expected to decide today whether to back an effort to save the North Carolina Advancement School in Winston-Salem.

At an informal discussion meeting Wednesday, the board was told the General Assembly had sharply cut the school's funds for this fiscal year and had appropriated no money to the facility for next fiscal year.

Last year the school had a budget of more than $900,000 but only $186,000 granted for this fiscal year.

The advancement school was begun during the administration of former Gov. Terry Sanford. It is aimed at helping pupils with at least average intelligence who haven't performed well in a regular classroom. It has also trained nearly 15,000 teachers in methods of dealing with underachievers.

Dr. John Bridgeman, school director, predicted the school's staff would be cut from 58 persons to nine because of the small budget.

The Board of Education was urged by the school's board of governors to use its influence in efforts to save the facility.

Also, the Department of Public Instruction staff asked the board to help seek funds for the school so it can continue next year. "We're going to need a tremendous amount of support to bring us back where we were. We've got an uphill battle," Dr. Von Valletta, an assistant superintendent, said.

Wednesday's board meeting was an informal discussion session. The board held its official meeting today.

$3 Million In Cash Scattered In Texas

BECKVILLE, Tex. (AP) — It was the answer to a scavenger's dream: $3 million in bills and coins scattered along Texas 149, deep in the pine forests 35 miles west of the Louisiana border.

But, then, there was also Charles Cammack, an off-duty policeman, and his trusty shotgun.

It happened Wednesday, when a Purolator Security armored van carrying currency from the Dallas Federal Reserve Bank to banks in east Texas and northwest Louisiana collided with a pickup truck.

Investigators said that after the impact, the security van skidded broadside for about 150 feet, then overturned. The doors flew open and out spilled sacks filled with up to $100,000 each.

They split open. Bills swirled in the breeze and coins bounced along the roadway.

Despite minor injuries, the three men in the armored car scrambled about to retrieve the loot. Cammack, who happened by at the time of the crash, leaped atop the van with shotgun in hand and warned passing motorists against getting into the act.

Authorities said all of the bills were recovered, but that highway patrolmen, sheriff's

$1.5 Million

For New Test

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Board of Education has been told that developing a new test for certifying North Carolina teachers would cost about $1.5 million.

The 1975 General Assembly directed the board to develop a new test to replace the controversial National Teachers Examination (NTE) which is under attack in federal court.

James T. Burch, assistant state superintendent of public instruction for special services, told the board Wednesday that Educational Testing Service which developed the NTE estimated 50 different tests would be needed and said it would cost $25,000 to $30,000 each to develop.

A suit challenging the NTE contends it discriminates against minorities.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special public advisory committee has called for a revamping of the U.S. Employment Service into a "streamlined, hard-hitting" organization where the jobless "can have a reasonable expectancy of finding work."

Among its major recommendations, the committee urged that the Employment Service and the Unemployment Insurance Service be separated both physically and organizationally.

"The image of, or public confidence in, the Employment Service is usually damaged by being located in the same building with us," the committee said. The public thinks of Employment Service offices not as centers in which to find work but as places to file unemployment insurance claims—"the place of last resort," it said.

The employment agency, part of the Labor Department, tries to find jobs for the unemployed. Persons who go on unemployment are included in its listings of those looking for work. It also tries to match job openings with job seekers.

The report, prepared by the National Employers' Commission for the Improvement of the Employment Service, was released by Secretary of Labor John T. Dunlop, who called its findings candid and indicated that many of its recommendations would be adopted.

The committee was chaired by Laurence L. Vickery, director of employment practices for the General Motors Corp. Other members represented other major corporations.

In a 32-page report, the committee called for creation of a nationwide "labor exchange" using the facilities and resources of the employment service which would have the prime responsibility of "of placing job-ready applicants of all skill levels in jobs promptly."
