

City Council's Tie Vote Retains 10:30 Curfew On Jaycee Park's Lighting

By TOM BAINES

A motion to have the Recreation Commission handle the Jaycee Park operation schedule as it does other city park facilities died when it gained a deadlock vote last night by the City Council.

for the time being the 10:30 p.m. curfew imposed by the Council for Jaycee Park operation will stand. Council member Mrs. Mildred McGrath offered the motion to allow the Commission to maintain a lighting schedule for Jaycee Park, located next to Eastern Elementary School property, using the same format applied to other park facilities here that involve tennis courts.

while Councilmen Percy Cox and John Howard voted against the measure. Mayor Eugene West exercised his option to vote and deadlocked the issue by voting with Cox and Howard.

compliance of the park with residential zoning guidelines was questioned earlier in the meeting by a resident. Taft said that he could not see that the Jaycee Park should be handled differently from other city parks. He said that more control should be exercised towards solving the problem of unauthorized use of the park grounds by motorbikes.

In voting against the motion, Howard pointed out that he felt a compromise should be worked out between the Recreation Commission and residents behind the park area who objected to the light and noise factors involved in the park operation. It was suggested that the Commission consider trying to find alternative locations for the tennis courts, especially on a nighttime-use basis.

"I think 12 (midnight) is too late," West commented. "I believe your committee, (park study committee) working with these people, can come up with something you could live with."

"It is just an unfortunate situation that the park was built where it disturbs some people," Cox noted. Hooks, a Recreation Commission member who served as chairman of the park study committee, discussed the report with the Council in detail as he had done the previous night in submitting the committee findings to the Recreation Commission.

The Commission, following the report presentation and a question and answer session which involved objections as well as favorable comments toward the use of the park, voted unanimously Wednesday night to approve an operating schedule that

Amended City Ordinance Is Given Approval

The City Council has adopted an ordinance providing for the placement of municipal government buildings in all zones except Flood Plain and containing an amendment that stipulates that a public hearing will be held prior to the placement of such a facility in a residential district.

The action on the ordinance, which amends Chapter 32 of the City Code, was taken Thursday night following a motion to reopen the matter which was tabled at the June 5 Council meeting.

The controversial ordinance, a result of the city's proposed plan to construct a fire station on Memorial Drive in a residential district, provides for "municipal government buildings, uses, and facilities as permitted uses within all zoning districts with the exception of the Flood Plain zone."

The Council referred the matter to the Planning and Zoning Commission and it was suggested by the board that an amendment be added to stipulate that a public hearing would be held before any municipal building could be located in a residential zone. The Commission indicated that it would not endorse the proposed ordinance without the amendment.

The amendment provides that "when such municipal government buildings, parks or other recreational area to be used for athletic events and/or night programs are considered being located in a residential area, a public hearing shall be properly advertised and conducted before the City Council for the purpose of hearing and considering any comments or objections by the public as to the location under consideration."

Controversy arose when the city purchased two lots on Memorial Drive and announced plans to place a fire station on the property. Property owners in the area objected to the placement of the station in a residential zone.

With the adoption of the ordinance official, the Council set a public hearing for Aug. 7 on the proposal to locate the fire station at 2405-2407 Memorial Drive. The public hearing meets the requirements of the new ordinance.

The Council also took action on two other matters that had drawn a lot of interest from Greenville Residential property owners.

Requests by John Causey for rezoning from R-6 to Office and Institutional of property on E. Fifth Street across from Wilkerson Funeral Home and by Carroll and Associates, agents for Reynolds May and David Evans Jr., for rezoning from R-9, R-20 and Neighborhood Commercial to Office and Institutional and R-6 of property located between 14th Street and U.S. 264 Bypass were denied.

Both matters were considered by the Planning and Zoning Commission and were recommended by the Commission for disapproval by the Council. The Council had the option of denying the requests last night

PICNIC DONATIONS NEEDED
A picnic for children in foster homes and their foster parents has become an annual affair, sponsored by the Foster Care Workers at the Pitt County Department of Social Services. This year's event is planned for July 23. "With the increased price of food and more foster children (130 this year, as contrasted with about 100 last year), it's going to cost a lot," Foster Care Worker Mrs. Pam Stokes said. "We appeal to merchants for donations, but have wondered this year if individuals and organizations might like to help out, also."

ROSE IS TRYING

I understood that Rose High School is not barrier-free like E. B. Aycock. Several students in wheelchairs will be going to Rose next year. It would be of advantage to the citizens of Greenville if the school were made accessible to them. Mrs. R. G.

Rose High School is committed to giving the wheel-chair-bound student every advantage any other student is, according to D.C. McLane Jr. of the School's Guidance Department. "Ramps have been built and restrooms have been modified and all doors, thank heavens, are already wide enough for wheelchairs to go through," he said. "Any student who must be confined to a wheel chair should contact the Guidance office, which will work out a schedule for him that allows him to have the classes he needs all on the first floor. If more ramps or other modifications need to be made, our industrial arts class will make them. Our goal is to eventually have the school fully barrier-free, but this can be done only when there's money available."

Disclosed Nixon Taping System Presidential Aide Said CIA Officer

By DAVID C. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Former presidential aide Alexander Butterfield, who revealed the existence of former President Nixon's taping system, was a contact officer for the Central Intelligence Agency while he served in the White House, a former CIA liaison officer for the Air Force said today.

Butterfield gained national prominence nearly two years ago when he disclosed to Senate Watergate investigators the existence of then-President Richard M. Nixon's White House tape recording system. Tapes from the system, which recorded Nixon's conversations with his top aides, were instrumental in forcing his resignation on Aug. 9, 1974.

A congressional source told The Associated Press that Prouty disclosed Butterfield's CIA role to investigators for the House intelligence committee. The committee is investigating the CIA and other intelligence agencies. But the source said the investigators have no documentary evidence to support Prouty's assertion. Butterfield, who was named head of the Federal Aviation Administration after he left the White House, was not available for comment.

Prouty's comments came just one day after CIA Director William E. Colby denied as "outrageous nonsense" earlier statements by Reps. Robert W. Kasten, R-Wis., and Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., that there was evidence of CIA penetration of the White House, the Office of Management and Budget and the treasury and commerce departments.

Reaccreditation Status Of 2 Pitt Schools OK'd

By BLANCHE HARDEE

Two Pitt County Schools received word this week from the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools that they have been approved for reaccreditation status.

Alford said he was very pleased about the reaccreditation and expressed appreciation to everyone involved, especially to the Pitt County Commissioners for extra funding to enable the schools to meet the standards of accreditation.

credit also means prestige for his school. "When students from our school go to college their transcripts will indicate that their school was accredited by the Southern Association and I feel this is meaningful," Cotton said.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the Senate intelligence committee, said Thursday his panel planned to investigate the allegations of CIA penetration in the White House and elsewhere.

Farmville Central High School and Ayden-Grifton High School were notified by the Association that the North Carolina Committee of the Commission on Secondary Schools that the two schools will be continued in membership in the Association.

Russ Cotton, principal of Farmville Central, said he was thrilled about receiving reaccreditation. "It was something we were expecting because we received excellent comments from the visitation team during their visit in March. The report made to us at that time was very positive and helpful to us," Cotton explained. "We are happy to receive the official word from the committee."

Ayden-Grifton Principal Bill Wiggins said he was glad to have completed the reevaluation and receive reaccreditation from Southern Association. He expressed appreciation for those involved in the self study to

Representatives from the two schools will go to Atlanta, Ga., in December to receive the official certificate of accreditation.

Roy Blanton, chairman of the N.C. Committee, stated in letters to the two schools, that he was pleased to announce the reaccreditation. "Let me take this opportunity to extend to you the heartiest congratulations on this accomplishment," Blanton said. "We are fully aware of the time, effort and money which was expended in connection with this project. We know from long experience that accreditation required the continuous cooperation of a great many individuals and groups."

Crop Forecast

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's flue-cured tobacco crop was forecast today at 902 million pounds, or 17 per cent more than last year. The North Carolina Crop Reporting Service blamed dry weather in June for a sharp drop in the 1975 corn crop. The service estimated corn production at 100.7 million bushels, down 13 per cent from last year. The estimated production per acre is 65 bushels as compared with last year's 74 bushels. The wheat crop was estimated 9.9 million bushels, down 2 per cent, the oat crop was estimated at 4.2 million bushels, down 11 per cent, and barley production was estimated at 2.7 million bushels, down 2 per cent.

Auto Execs Say 'Standard' Cars Are Endangered

By DON WATERS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The six-passenger sedan and station wagon would become a thing of the past if the automobile fuel-economy standards proposed in Congress become law, executives of the nation's three largest auto makers say.

or smaller," Estes added. In another gasoline-related development, the Federal Energy Administration said it is giving preliminary consideration to a plan whereby refiners could make regional differences of up to two cents a gallon in gasoline price changes.

The FEAs also identified 12 oil companies that it said may have overcharged by as much as $165.6 million on imported oil during the Arab embargo of October 1973 to April 1974.

And they said requiring them to reduce the average size of their cars would be an unwarranted intrusion on freedom of choice and would double the current high unemployment rate in the auto industry.

The executives testified Thursday as the Senate Finance Committee began hearings on a House-passed bill that would limit oil imports and require auto makers to produce a fleet of cars that average 20 miles per gallon by 1980 and 28 m.p.g. by 1985.

By comparison, 1975-model cars average 14 m.p.g. in gasoline use. Elliott M. Estes, president of General Motors Corp., said he wondered why the legislation places the burden of fuel conservation on automobiles, when they consume only 13 per cent of the nation's energy.

The highest alleged possible overcharges, totaling more than $58 million, were attributed to the Gulf Oil Corp. Others, in descending order, were:

Standard Oil of Indiana, $27,653,000; Atlantic Richfield, $24,115,000; Sun Oil, $17,649,000; Mobil, $14,167,000; Phillips Petroleum, $13,118,000; Union Oil, $4,380,000; Continental Oil, $2,748,000; Standard Oil of California, $2,082,000; Ashland Oil, $796,000; Getty Oil, $497,000; and Texaco, $366,000.

Apportioning $800 Million

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Board of Education has authorized the expenditure of most of the $800 million appropriated by the legislature to operate the public schools of the state this year.

Controller A.C. Davis told the board Thursday it would take about a week to determine how much each local school system will receive.

The legislature approved $800.3 million dollars for the schools this fiscal year and $828.7 million for next year.

'Low Bid' Too High

The low bid received earlier this week for construction of a mall in downtown Greenville as part of the city's Central Business District project is some $50,000 over the budget, Joe Laney, director of the city's Redevelopment Commission said today.

Although the bids were over the budget, Laney this morning said "I feel confident we can work it out and resolve it Monday night."

Laney indicated the Redevelopment Commission would study the bids at its Monday meeting. "We'll cover the bid opening and the options open to us at that time," he explained. "I believe we can work it out. I'll have some recommendations to present to the Commission Monday."

Experiment Stations Work On Ecology Aid

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
One benefit of concern over the environment is progress being made in stamping out chemical contaminants and in devising safer methods of ridding our homes of pests. Research laboratories concerned with fish and wildlife and agricultural experiment stations have been at work in some successful endeavors.

For example, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service says it has discovered a process for removing "one of the most toxic contaminants known to man" from the common brush-killing herbicide 2,4,5-T. With its use, dioxins and other contaminants could be removed from industrial chemicals and could decontaminate "herbicide orange" which was formerly used by the Air Force to reduce jungle growth. The process which has been submitted for patenting was developed at the Fish and Pesticide Research Laboratory in Columbia, Mo., and was discovered while scientists were working on separating pesticides and fat extracted from fish tissue.

Homeowners might be particularly interested in a technique used at the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station to control termites by the bait-block method using a pesticide which will not contaminate water. But it cannot be released for use until it has been submitted for Environment Protection Agency sanction.

Raimon L. Beard, who made the tests and who was an entomologist with the station for 40 years before his recent retirement, explained:

"This type of use would get the sanction of the EPA very quickly but it depends whether the manufacturer, who must submit it, would push for it because only very tiny amounts of the stuff would be used and they could not sell much of it. I hope to talk to them soon and I have a feeling that they might do it in the public interest."

From the standpoint of ecology, the bait-block method with mirex, the insecticide he used in his tests, is considered the most effective method of termite control at the moment.

"But it has some limitations. For example, it does not give permanent protection. A good many of our insect controls work that way but people have been educated to expect permanent protection ..."

In using minimal quantities of the insecticides, "natural control agents of the termites are not threatened and the environment is not contaminated with hazardous residues," he maintains. The technique involves taking advantage "of the incessant foraging of termites even if adequate food and moisture are involved." The bait-block method isn't new, but the new technique has proved more effective.

Briefly the method is to attract termites to a juicy block of wood and to get them to nibble happily away at it. When they become hooked on the block, it is replaced with a mirex-treated block.

In tests they used partially decayed tulip wood and other woods near shelter tubes of working termites and permitted them to come to untreated blocks which were later replaced with similar blocks treated with tiny amounts of the insecticide. As worker termites feed on the treated blocks, they are exposed to the pesticide which they carry to other colony members.

One important aspect of the research may be that mirex will do the job without contaminating a water-supply well, Beard maintains.

Trying his bait blocks at one house where termites had caused heavy damage, Beard noticed that the treated blocks terminated activity in three areas. Other successful tests included these situations:

... Bait blocks were placed near an infested decomposed oak log on the surface of the soil. After one block was attacked, it was replaced by a mirex block. Termites disappeared from the site and not one was found a month later.

... At the site of a new invasion of termites at the base of a vertical 2 by 8 board serving as the side of a garage door frame, where termites had built shelter tubes between the 2 by 8s and cinder block walls.

A poisoned block was held slightly ahead of the advancing tubes and in one day a tube was built up and around the block indicating the block was acceptable to the termites. All tube construction halted in two days and the termites disappeared. Similar methods of control were used successfully on the soil surface near a number of houses.

... In the kitchen of a church where termites emerged from a water heater, adult termites were attracted to bait blocks and worker termites built tubes around them. In about 10 days all termite activity had ceased; mirex exposure was adequate to kill a large colony.

Success is based on the absence of further termite swarms and the lack of further damage. The technique was simple and effective in eight tests made by Beard. Twelve others "appeared to be successful." In four cases he concluded that feeding on the mirex blocks may have been inadequate. In one test termites failed to find the bait blocks.

He made the tests in the laboratory, in the field, in greenhouses and at a number of residences.

Jaycettes Hold Wednesday Meet

The Greenville Jaycettes met at the Tar River Estates party house Wednesday. Guests attending were Charlotte Pierce, Donna Hatcher, Pat Meakin, and Patty Barbee.

Co-chairmen of the July 4th bake sale, Becky Dadisman and Teresa Braswell, reported that $103.72 was made in the sale. The club voted to use this money to help furnish the pediatric ward at the new hospital.

Boys Home Co-chairmen Ann Earnhardt and Pat Messick reminded club members of upcoming involvement with the 13th annual All Star Game. Jaycette participation will include providing desserts for the player's cookout July 20 and chaperoning the cheerleaders and selling programs the day of the game. Ficklen Stadium will be the site of the game on July 26 at 8:00 p.m.

The next general membership meeting will be held Aug. 9 at Tar River.

Reader Shares Anniversary Invitation

DEAR ABBY: We recently received an invitation to a golden wedding celebration. At the bottom was printed: "Your presence—not presents—is requested." Wasn't that a lovely way to say, "No gifts, please"?
MRS. J.G.

DEAR MRS. G.: Yes. Thanks for sharing.

DEAR ABBY: After 26 years of a fairly good marriage with three self-sufficient children and a paid-for home, my wife and I sleep back to back—like two fireplace logs. She rations her love as a "reward" for favors and withholds it as "punishment." And when it's given, which is seldom, it's with very little enthusiasm (an understatement).

After nearly a year of this treatment, I'm considering breaking my flawless record of a faithful marriage to seek attention elsewhere.

I don't see much difference between a wife who trades her love for personal gain and a lady of the evening who sells her favors for money. I consider myself a darn good husband. Time is running out.

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: You're confusing sex with love. Love is a gift, not an obligation. Sex can be obtained at a price. Love cannot.

If you haven't discussed the state of your marriage with your wife, it's time you did. If you both want a better marriage, I recommend counseling. But if you're asking me for the green light to pursue the red light, I'm negative.

DEAR ABBY: I have written a letter to a very dear friend of mine, and my problem is I haven't the courage to send it. If you publish it, I am sure my friend will see it. Here it is:

My dear, dear friend:
How else can I say it? You make me sick! No matter how I try to avoid the smoke of your cigarette, it's there, irritating my eyes, my sinuses, and getting into my lungs.

After a few hours with you, I'm literally ill. Sometimes when you blow your smoke directly at me, I turn my head or try to "fan" it away with my hand. You offer a small apology and move your cigarette—but you never put it out! Of course, my problem is that I am a coward. I like you too much to tell you to your face that you are selfish. I don't want to hurt your feelings, yet you go on hurting mine.

Do you know that your breath is always bad? And no amount of perfume can mask the smell of stale smoke that's constantly on your hands, clothing and hair.

I love your company. Your sense of humor is priceless, and you've demonstrated your friendship to me many times. Yet, my doctor has told me I must avoid you. Can you believe it? Your smoking is making me ill. I miss you.

Catfish Gaining In Popularity

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

Eaten any tadpole madtom goujon lately?

Maybe you know it better as catfish, a long-time subject of legends and butt of jokes.

Catfish has other local nicknames in the United States, including yaller cat, bullhead, barbed trout, horned pout, flathead, shovelhead and mudcat. Despite such unappetizing names, this fish can be delicious, deep-fried, baked or sauteed.

The growing industry of catfish farming is putting frozen fillets and steaks on tables beyond the South and the Midwest, where fresh catfish have long been popular.

Canned catfish may be next. Researchers who developed a canning process tested the product with consumers chosen at random in a few widely scattered cities. Most liked it.

Those tall tales you may have heard about the size of catfish are partly true. Maybe not, as Mark Twain told it, "... as big as a man, being 6 feet 2 inches long, and weighed over 200 pounds ... as big a fish as was ever caught in the Mississippi. I reckon."

The Russians topped Twain, of course. The Guinness Book of World Records says they claim to have taken a 660-pound catfish from the Dneiper River.

The Japanese once thought a giant, primeval catfish caused earthquakes.

Two Catholic priests on an American expedition to the Northwest in the 17th century endorsed it as "... very good cooked in water without sauce."

A novel set in the 18th century praised catfish as a great delicacy, suitable for "the table of our great ally, the King of France."

Jim "Catfish" Hunter, the New York Yankees pitcher, acquired his nickname when his former boss, Charlie Finley of the Oakland Athletics, tried to reach Hunter at home, and was told that the ballplayer had gone fishing.

Humphreys County, Mississippi, claims the title of catfish capital of the world. It has 6,000 pond-acres producing 11-million pounds of fish annually with a market value of $4.5 million.

That's more than a third of the state's annual production of 29,000 acres, which represents more than half of the United States' farm-raised catfish production.

Catfish have large, triangular heads from which long whiskers protrude. A substance just beneath the skin along the top of the fish is harmless from a culinary point of view, but it can cause skin irritations for the person who skins it raw. Men at markets that sell a lot of small, frying size catfish usually wear cotton gloves, and use pliers to pull off the tough, rubbery skin, as if they were removing unlined kid gloves by turning them inside out.

Until recently, the skinning problem made commercial processing unfeasible. Now a research team headed by G.R. Ammerman, a professor of food technology at Mississippi State University, has developed a chemical skinning and a canning process, which have been patented.

Consumer tests in New York, Minneapolis, Seattle, San Francisco, Dallas and Mobile provided one can each of catfish and salmon for individuals selected at random from phone books. The participants were asked to serve both cans of fish at the same meal in the manner they ordinarily used canned fish.

Seventy-four made fish patties or cakes, 58 used it in salad, and 98 served the canned fish in other ways—most often, fish loaves, fish and noodle casserole, chowder or baked fish.

They were asked to rank the two coded cans of fish on a scale of six to one, with higher figures representing greater preference. The salmon scored 4.94 and the catfish, 3.30.

Medical Professor Gets Grant To Begin Study

Dr. Hubert Burden, faculty anatomist in the East Carolina University School of Medicine, has received a grant of $45,631 from the U.S. Public Health Service to begin a study of ovarian nerves and the reproductive function.

Dr. Burden and his co-investigator, Dr. Irvin E. Lawrence, will observe and analyze the role of ovarian autonomic nerves during the cycle and during pregnancy.

"Most, if not all, aspects of female mammalian reproductive physiology are subject to control by neural or hormonal influences," he said.

"However, research on the role of peripheral autonomic nerves in the reproductive function has been neglected because of interest in hormonal aspects of this field."

The Burden-Lawrence research project will involve chemical or surgical denervation of ovaries and physiological study of the resulting cyclic activity, pseudopregnancy and pregnancy.

Dr. Burden said the project is expected to be funded for a total of three years, with a total budget proposal of $108,685.

would fall under the same policies as the other city parks. The Commission also recommended that the Council endorse the later curfew.

At the present time, lights at the other tennis court locations are programmed to go at midnight unless they are turned off earlier.

Hooks offered background on the development of the park, dating back to May 28 of 1969, when initial efforts were made to proceed with a park facility. Hooks also discussed a study made of the lights at Jaycee Park in relation to adjacent property owners and also the noise factor.

The chairman also presented information contained in the report dealing with zoning codes, utilization rates, a community survey, and recommendations intended to 'help alleviate the existing problems.'

Committee recommendations involved refocusing of the tennis court lights to reduce intensity away from the court area, placement of wind screens on the tennis court fence, planting of multiple rows of white pines or other fast growing trees to produce a sound barrier along the creek area between the park and residential areas, and construction of a taller fence from the leftfield corner of the baseball field to the tennis courts and placement of a wind screen over the fence.

The committee also recommended that the operating curfew be adjusted to include a moderate curfew in the fall, no lights when the weather is cold during the winter, moderate curfew before leaves grow on trees in the spring, and a later curfew when trees are in full foliage and programs are underway in the summer.

W. J. Simmons, and Miss Grace Ellenberg, who both own homes on E. Wright Rd. behind the park area, again appeared before the Council to express their opposition to the noise and light produced by the park.

Simmons, who represented a written report, asked that the park be restricted to use during the hours between 9 a.m. and sunset. He asked that the concept of a neighborhood park be utilized and he called for the removal of park equipment, as soon as another side is chosen.

Simmons said that the park as it is now used is in violation of R-9 (residential) zoning. Miss Ellenberg, who said that the tennis courts are only 47 feet from her property, suggested that the park be used only during the day.

Another resident of the park area said that he felt 10:30 p.m. was late enough to utilize the park.

City Planner John Schofield said that, from a land use standpoint, he feels the city is not in violation of zoning ordinances in operating the park.

Several residents of the city also spoke in favor of the continued nighttime use of the park and a number of them expressed hope that the park could be operated until midnight.

West said that there is "no way we can come out smelling like a rose." He said that the people who live in the area have rights and privileges and he said that he would like to see something worked out under a "reasonable hour." West contended that midnight is not a reasonable hour.

Recreation Commission director Boyd Lee said that if another location is sought for tennis courts, the Commission will have to go before the Council to seek additional funding for the facilities.

Romita Attends Calif. Session

Dr. Joseph W. Romita, associate professor of economics at East Carolina University's department of Economics, was participant at the recently held 50th Annual Western Economic Association Conference in San Diego, Calif.

Some 2,000 economists representing business, government, and universities from more than 35 states attended in search of economic wisdom and other sorts of sustenance.

British Inflation War Includes Wage Ceiling

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson announced an anti-inflation plan today that imposes a ceiling of $13.20 a week on pay raises for the next year for British workers.

Wilson, acting to curb the worst inflation rate in Europe of 25 per cent a year, told the silent, packed House of Commons there would be no increases for those earning more than $18,700 a year.

He rejected as "not realistic"

a request from the trade unions for a general price freeze to accompany the pay curbs. But he said plans to phase out subsidies that reduce the cost of food would be delayed.

The prime minister said he would try to keep basic price increases down to 10 per cent over the next year.

Appealing for support "to save our country," Wilson said: "If we do not in the next 12 months achieve a drastic reduction in the present disastrous rate of inflation, ... the British people will be engulfed in a general economic catastrophe of incalculable proportions."

Britain's 25 per cent inflation rate for the 12 months through May compared with a 9.5 per cent rate for the same period in the United States.

The pound sterling, which fell steadily in recent weeks as Britain's economic gloom deepened, rose a full cent to $2.21 today as the government's anti-inflation package was announced.

Wilson said his plan would be backed by a "full battery of weapons" including legal powers, but he stopped short of introducing legislation to impose criminal sanctions immediately. Political sources said this was probably due to conflict in the cabinet, where left-wingers are opposed to statutory wage restraints.

Prices And Quality Of Tobacco Lower

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP) — Prices and quality were lower than last year during the first week of flue-cured tobacco sales at Georgia-Florida markets.

There were no sales scheduled in the Georgia-Florida region today.

"So far, quality is below that of last year," a spokesman for the U.S. Department of Agriculture said Thursday. "They all told us that quality should be better than last year, but so far this hasn't been borne out."

On Thursday, 2,667,033 pounds were sold at an average price of $85.27 per hundredweight, a slight increase from Wednesday's price of $84.92.

For the week, 11,749,184 pounds were sold at an average price of $85.54 per 100 pounds, the Federal-State Market News Service reported.

On opening day last year the average price was $87.17.

The markets opened earlier than usual this year and primings—leaves pulled from growing plants—made up 75 per cent of the sales through the week.

The U.S. Crop Reporting Board, meanwhile, predicted that nationwide production of flue-cured tobacco this season would be up 12 per cent over last year.

The board predicted that total production would be 1,395, 740,000 pounds. It predicted Georgia's production would drop to 150,000,000 pounds from 160,920,000 last year and that Florida's crop would increase from 25,097,000 pounds to 26,445,000.

Large increases were predicted in North Carolina and South Carolina.

Cher 'Flighty', But No Fooling Over Narcotics

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two sides of television superstar Cher were revealed this week in separate but equally revealing instances.

Statements she made about the divorce action she filed against her husband of nine days revealed a flighty, indecisive nature. But Cher emerged as a level-headed, strong-willed woman in grand jury testimony surrounding the drug overdose death of a rock musician.

The 29-year-old singer-comedienne was credited with saving the life of another rock musician who attended a party last September at which Average White Band performer Robbie McIntosh, 28, died of a drug overdose.

Kenneth Moss, 31, host of the party and a former Wall Street "whiz kid," pleaded innocent at his arraignment Thursday on a charge of murdering McIntosh.

In grand jury testimony, Cher said she saw McIntosh inhale two "hits" — or doses — of a white powder given to him by Moss. She said that when she arrived at the party, Moss offered her some white powder in a piece of tin foil. She said she believed the powder was cocaine and that she refused it.

Later, McIntosh became ill and Cher said she urged Moss to call a doctor, but Moss refused, saying it was "no big deal." Another Average White Band musician, Alan Gorrie, also became ill, and police said Cher took him to her home and provided treatment that saved his life.

Cher and her former husband and singing partner Sonny Bono, 40, were long known to be antidrug within the rock music environment where drugs often flow freely.

Cher cited "irreconcilable differences" in filing for divorce from Gregg Allman, rock music composer and performer, whom she married three days after her divorce from Bono was finalized.

For nearly 11 years, Cher's personal and financial activities were supervised by Bono. Court action on custody of their daughter, Chastity, 6, and division of community property is still pending.

"I am trying to make my own decisions now after years of having had them made for me," Cher said Wednesday after moving to dissolve her marriage to Allman. "I am bound to make wrong ones from time to time, and this was one of those times."

Allman, 27, had said the divorce action was a misunderstanding and that it would not be completed. But Cher said Thursday, "I have not changed my mind. I am proceeding with the divorce."

Currently reported to be in seclusion in Southern California, Cher has postponed for two weeks the taping of the first episode of her hit CBS-TV variety show for fall.

Dissatisfied With Tomlin

RALEIGH (AP)—It was dissatisfaction, not disagreement that led to the firing of Frances Tomlin as North Carolina's Bicentennial administrator, Gov. Jim Holshouser said Thursday.

In a prepared statement, Holshouser said he "frankly was dissatisfied" with Mrs. Tomlin's performance in the $18,000 a year job.

The governor said reports that Mrs. Tomlin had been dismissed because of disagreements with Mrs. Holshouser were not accurate. He acknowledged, however, that the two women had disagreements.

Mrs. Tomlin had been in the post five months when she was fired. She is a former Republican state legislator from Concord.

Richard Ellis, a former television newsman, was named to take over the post effective today. He is the fourth person named by Holshouser to head the bicentennial effort in the state.

"I have such a deep personal interest and commitment to a meaningful Bicentennial effort in North Carolina that obviously we're going to be doing everything we can to insure its success," Holshouser's statement said.

Alleged Dope Czar Is Held

NEW YORK (AP) — An alleged Corsican dope czar, accused of conspiring to smuggle "tons" of heroin worth as much as $2 billion into this country, was held today on an unprecedented $5 million bail shortly after he was flown here from Spain.

Brooklyn U.S. District Court Judge Jacob Mishler set the high bail at the request of Asst. U.S. Atty. Bernard Fried and scheduled arraignment for July 18. The suspect, Francois "Marcello" Rossi, 36, faces 200 years in prison and a $25,000 fine if convicted on charges leveled in two indictments.

Authorities said the bail set for Rossi was the largest ever decreed in Brooklyn federal court. They said they were unaware of anyone anywhere ever being held in more bail.

Officials said that after Rossi's arrest in Barcelona in February 1973, there was a two-year "heroin panic" and narcotics shortage on New York streets. Rossi had fled from Buenos Aires, Argentina, to Spain when he earned U.S. officials were after him. Extradition proceedings were completed just this week and he was flown in custody to Kennedy International Airport.

Hospital Wants Revoke Hoke Privileges

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Memorial Hospital has asked U.S. District Court to be allowed to revoke the staff privileges of Dr. Harold R. Hoke as unfit.

He operates the Hallmark legal abortion clinic in Charlotte. He says the hospital's request is not based on sound medical evidence, and he will be vindicated in court.

It's the second time in 18 months that Charlotte Memorial Hospital has sought to rescind Dr. Hoke's staff privileges. The hospital took them away in December of 1973. But U.S. District Judge James McMillan ordered the following April that they be returned on a probationary basis. The judge found that Dr. Hoke's constitutional rights had been denied because hearings on his privileges had been conducted in close session, and he had not been allowed to present opposing arguments.

Isabel Forming 'New Cabinet'

By HENRY S. ACKERMAN
Associated Press Writer

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — President Isabel Peron reorganizes her cabinet today, but it was not known what she would do about her controversial right-hand man, Jose Lopez Rega.

A government spokesman, announcing that Mrs. Peron would announce a "new cabinet," gave no hint of what changes would be made.

Lopez Rega, the 58-year-old welfare minister and private secretary to both Mrs. Peron and her late husband, has become virtual prime minister of Argentina. There was speculation that the president would try to preserve his power by removing him from the cabinet but retaining him as her secretary.

However, military, congressional and labor leaders have demanded that he leave the government entirely. They have also sought the dismissal of Economy Minister Celestino Rodrigo, a Lopez Rega man and the official sponsor of the austerity policy which labor torpedoed with a general strike early this week.

A congressman from the Peronist coalition called on Congress Thursday to put Lopez Rega on trial. He accused him of instigating right-wing assassination squads and cheating the country on a huge oil deal with Libya.

A provincial legislator challenged Lopez Rega to a duel last weekend but got no reply.

Lopez Rega and the seven other cabinet ministers resigned last Sunday in a futile attempt to head off the two-day general strike with which the General Labor Confederation forced Mrs. Peron to lift the 50-per-cent ceiling she had put on wage increases. She took no action on the resignations, and the cabinet remained in office.

Wants Inquiry Into FDA Allegations

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has asked the Justice Department to investigate allegations by Food and Drug Administration scientists that a pharmaceutical firm misrepresented its research on the safety of two of its products.

Two FDA researchers told the Massachusetts Democrat's Senate health subcommittee Thursday that Searle Laboratories of Chicago may have falsified data on experiments into whether two of its products could cause cancer in laboratory animals.

Searle officials were scheduled to testify today as the panel continues its probe into the U.S. pharmaceutical industry.

Kennedy called the testimony "a shocking situation" and said that it appeared to indicate that Searle had engaged in "basic and fundamental misrepresentation and distortion."

At issue are two Searle products: Flagyl, a drug used in combating vaginal infections, and Alcolcine, an antihypertension drug.

Dr. Adrian Gross and Alice Ling, two FDA researchers, told the panel that research by Searle on the drugs appeared to indicate the drugs to be safer than later investigation by the FDA had demonstrated.

The FDA approved both drugs based on research submitted by Searle that the FDA scientists said minimized the possible danger of the drugs.

They testified that subsequent investigations had shown that the original reports were misleading and may have been falsified.

They said that the drugs have been shown to produce cancerous tumors in test animals.

Farm Machinery Rule Is Relaxed

Farmers no longer have to obtain special permits to move their machinery over state roads if the equipment is less than 18 feet wide, according to an announcement by the Department of Transportation.

The 1975 General Assembly eliminated the requirement for special permits for farm equipment and machinery of less than 18 feet in width.

Billy Rose, State Highway Administrator stressed, however, that the equipment still must be moved during daylight hours and a red flag must be displayed on the front and rear of the equipment. And if the equipment is to be moved more than 10 miles, it must be preceded by a lead car.

All other requirements for permits to move farm equipment of more than 18 feet in width remain in effect and will be enforced, according to Rose.

Ford Looms Large In Future

Gerald Ford has officially become a candidate for president of the United States.

The president announced his candidacy without much fanfare at the White House. Then he immediately went back to the job of being president.

President Ford had all but announced on previous occasions that he would run for the nation's highest office. Thus it was no real surprise that he formally announced, although there was always the possibility that he might decide not to run.

The president will have a tremendous advantage next year in that he is the incumbent. What makes him different from any other president or candidate in history is that, though he holds the office, he was not elected to it nor to the vice presidency. Ford was chosen by Nixon for vice president when Spiro Agnew resigned. Then he succeeded to the White House following Nixon's resignation.

Despite all that Gerald Ford came to the White House clean politically. He was not involved in Watergate nor in the Agnew scandal and he had a reputation for honesty.

There has been little hint of scandal since Ford took over as president and he has done a pretty good job of taking over the reins of government and getting things running smoothly again after the disaster of Watergate.

As president, Gerald Ford will be strong going into the GOP convention. It is difficult to imagine the Republican party turning to anyone else for the presidential nomination. In the election it is a question of who the Democrats nominate and how much the voters hold Watergate against the Republican candidate in general.

There will also be the question of how liberal the voters are thinking in 1976. President Ford is of a conservative bent, and this could help him next year since there seems to be some feeling around the country that big government is going too far in too many fields.

Gerald Ford is far from a shoo-in in 1976, but still he is more popular at this point than Harry Truman was prior to the 1948 elections. And we all remember what happened then.

Only a year ago it looked as if the Republican Party might be doomed because of Watergate. Now, however, we still have a Republican president and he is rapidly putting his brand on government. Ford looms large in next year's election, now that he is an avowed candidate.

Doubt Hanoi's Offer

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials are highly skeptical that North Vietnam is sincere in its professed desire for normal relations with the United States.

Officials offer this assessment in explaining why the United States has not responded affirmatively to a North Vietnamese overture to Washington, made just a few weeks after the American-backed regime in Saigon surrendered on April 29.

One reason for the American skepticism is that Hanoi conditioned establishment of ties on U.S. agreement to provide Vietnam with reconstruction aid, a demand which U.S. officials say North Vietnam knows is "completely unacceptable."

In unofficial circles, the theory has been advanced that the North Vietnamese proposal may be serious because of a desire to use the United States as a counterweight to Soviet and Chinese influence in Southeast Asia. However, competent officials say there is no evidence to support this view.

In anticipation of the establishment of a civilian government in South Vietnam in the near future, the United States has been negotiating with an unidentified foreign country to represent American interests in Saigon. No similar arrangement is contemplated for Hanoi.

Still, the United States has not ruled out entirely some sort of relationship with North Vietnam once the bitterness accumulated over the past two decades subsides.

In a speech last month, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said that the American attitude toward Hanoi and other Communist regimes in Indochina "will be influenced by their conduct toward their neighbors and their attitude toward us."

THIS AFTERNOON Political Hat For Phillips

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—Wearing one of his several hats as the state's chief public school official, Dr. A. Craig Phillips is off and running for re-election to his post in 1976. He first took office in 1969.

Phillips has told his top staff people that he is definitely running for re-election, acknowledging that he must wear a political hat to do so.

"But this will mean no change in our day-to-day working relationship with the people across this state. It doesn't affect you... except I would urge you to do a better job," Phillips told his staff.

At the same time, talking with some 350 central staff and regional officials, Phillips charged that the budget-chopping efforts by the General Assembly in the closing days of this past session were a personal and political vendetta aimed at him.

Too Much Fat?
"The critics say we are top heavy. There's all kinds of criticism... A lot of folks think there are too many people sitting in the auditorium today... that we are a bureaucracy with a lot of fat," Phillips told his assembled staff recently.

Without naming names, Phillips accused the "House leadership" of taking a conservative, short-sighted approach to education; viewing as expendable anything besides classroom teachers.

Phillips' department "took a beating in sustaining an 11 per cent cut... but it could have been a whole lot worse," he said.

Early cutting efforts were aimed at taking some $25 million from the schools, including some teaching slots. Later cuts were aimed instead at departmental slots and programs in research and evaluation, public relations, and in-service training.

Privately, top education officials point at House Speaker James C. Green, Base Budget Committee Chairman Billy Watkins and especially two members of that committee—John Ed Davenport of Nash County, and Mary Nesbitt of Buncombe—and at Constitution Committee Chairman Hartwell Campbell of Wilson and Graham Bell of Gastonia as principal opponents.

All are in the House of Representatives; all are Democrats, like Phillips.

Phillips credits senate leader as "our friends in the senate who found out what was happening and put it back in" as house efforts to trim were often thwarted.

Some Light
From the darkness, Phillips sees some light. All the problems of governance over education, board responsibility versus the superintendent, control over purse strings were aired, "and maybe things will be better."

Behind legislative scenes criticism and charges against Phillips went far beyond surface conflicts centering around educational philosophy and bureaucracies.

In the offices and back halls, some legislators attacked Phillips in a viciously personal way as they sought to cut his budget, and his political base.

Phillips is aware of those attacks, and privately summarizes them: "If true, I would be the most politically powerful, richest, and most pleased man in North Carolina." The gossip often turned to Phillips' personal life.

Close aides to Phillips lay the bitter opposition at the feet of racism, blaming bedrock conservatism in some sections of North Carolina which refuses to accept Phillips' goal of equal education for all children regardless of race. That, some of the experts agree, is the foundation of resistance to occupational education programs in the public schools.

Opponents see such steps as keeping more low-income blacks in the schools; perhaps moving away from middle and upper-income priorities on college preparation.

By ART BUCHWALD All That's Fit To Print

The main test of news is whether or not it is out of the ordinary. Unfortunately most of the stories being printed these days are no longer surprising to anyone. In the dog days of summer, people wonder why the papers spend so much time on multinational company corruption, CIA wrongdoing, government wiretapping and congressional foot-dragging, since none of these events is news any more.

These are the stories that would be news if they ever happened.

WASHINGTON—Secretary

of Defense James Schlesinger said today that the Soviets were dismantling missiles and there was no longer any reason for the United States to build new weapons systems. "The Pentagon has enough money for everything it needs and we are asking Congress to withhold any supplemental funds as it would only be a waste of money."

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—Northrop Aviation announced a new contract with Saudi Arabia for the delivery of 100 F-5 fighter planes. Company officials said the Saudi Arabian military chose Northrop because it was the only company who did not try to bribe them with under-the-table "commissions." A Saudi Arabian minister said, "Accepting bribes is against the Koran, and no self-respecting Arab minister would ask for a gratuity in exchange for a military hardware contract."

HOUSTON, Tex.—The American Petroleum Institute turned down an offer by the U.S. government to deregulate petroleum and gas. A spokesman said, "Most of our members are making tremendous profits as it is, and it would be unfair to the American people to take advantage of the energy crisis at this time. We believe the economic health of the country comes first and, while we appreciate the government's concern that oil prices are too low, we'd rather see that there is enough fuel for everybody at prices the average person can afford."

And what can be the use of him is more than I can see.

The INSIDE REPORT Marcos And The 7th Fleet

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
MANILA—President Ferdinand E. Marcos, placing new stress on balance between the great powers in the Western Pacific, will soon propose to Washington that it turn sovereignty over bases here to the Philippine government while continuing to use them for U.S. air and naval forces.

In an exclusive hour-long interview from the presidential office in Malacanang Palace, Marcos revealed to us for the first time his position in forthcoming negotiations over Clark Air Base and Subic Bay Naval Base. This first public utterance since visiting Peking to establish diplomatic relations last month reflects a significant change in tone. While his speeches before going to China suggested possible abandonment of the U.S. bases on grounds they might actually invite an attack against the Philippines, his interview with us pressed hard for great power equilibrium in East Asia—a favorite Chinese theme.

Nor is Marcos any longer suggesting unattainable guarantees of automatic retaliation in the U.S.-Philippine mutual defense pact in return for base agreements. Also vigorously denying he is after heavy American rent for the bases, he indicates he wants only Philippine control over them similar to base agreements in Thailand and elsewhere—a relatively small asking price for an important strategic advantage.

Actually, with the Vietnam war ended and the U.S. planning a new air base on Saipan, Clark Field may no longer be needed. But Subic Bay is essential for the U.S. Seventh Fleet to counter the increasingly visible presence in the Western Pacific of Soviet naval power. That fact is abundantly clear to Communist China, a great power without naval strength.

Thus, an ironic Chinese connection may help keep the Seventh Fleet in Subic Bay. Like other East Asian leaders, Marcos was stunned by U.S. abandonment of Indochina. Doubting the safety now afforded by U.S. treaty commitments, he sought friendship with Peking. Had the Chinese demanded that the Americans give up their bases here, U.S.-Philippine relations could now be in crisis.

Marcos now asks an end to U.S. sovereignty and criminal jurisdiction over the bases, calling it "extraterritoriality"—a 19th century term describing humiliating European concessions within imperial China. "We feel that extraterritoriality can no longer be tenable in Asia," he told us. "This is a lesson that we draw from the debacle in Indochina."

He then stated his proposal: "That the bases now become Philippine military bases run by the Philippines. We are, however, ready to extend such facilities as may be necessary to the American Navy and the Air Force as will not weaken the United States position in the Western Pacific." Putting it another way, Marcos offered to help the U.S. "in maintaining an equilibrium of power" while asking U.S. help in meeting

"a serious challenge to our national identity and pride" in southeast Asia.

Marcos dropped previous feelers that the U.S.-Philippine defense pact provide the same automatic retaliation as the NATO treaty, conceding now that congressional sanction would be needed even in the case of fulfilling the NATO treaty. While he asserted the U.S.-Philippine pact is being reassessed, high-placed Philippine sources confide it will not be subject to serious negotiation.

Marcos flatly denied insinuations from Washington he is bargaining for higher rent. "We cannot take into account any other factor, like military aid, monetary payments and other compensation," he told us, indicating that only the end of "extraterritoriality" will insure that his country no longer looks like an American puppet to other members of ASEAN (Associated Southeast Asian Nations).

Would the U.S. Navy operating out of a base which flies the Philippine flag satisfy the ASEAN prohibition against foreign bases? "I am not too sure that it would," he replied. But Marcos obviously is more concerned by the view from Peking.

Other Editors Say Shaw's Problem

(Raleigh Times)

Shaw University has one problem common to most private schools and one that is unique. It is feeling a severe money pinch yet it is enjoying a boom in admissions.

The predominantly black school in downtown Raleigh has enjoyed a 125 per cent increase in enrollment since 1964—more than any other private school in the state. It now has 1,625 students.

Shaw's problem, purely and simply, is collecting from its students. Facing an anticipated operating deficit of $118,000 for the coming year, the university's unpaid bills from last year's students alone total $431,528. As a result, Shaw's faculty and staff are taking pay cuts ranging from 15 per cent for those making over $20,000 to two per cent for those making between $10,000 and $5,000.

Shaw's appeal to black students lies in its tradition as well as in such innovations as the University Without Walls program begun in 1972 and now accounting for almost a fourth of the school's enrollment. The program has attracted international attention and is responsible for much of the strong appeal the university enjoys. Most of Shaw's students come from out of state with many from foreign countries.

President J. Archie Hargrave has performed remarkably well in bringing Shaw from a deficit of $1 million in 1972 to the current $118,000. But he cannot keep the budgetary miracles coming, and he cannot keep imposing on faculty and staff with salary cuts. Also, state schools, now integrated and with tuition half of the $1,980 Shaw charges, are ever-present competition.

Shaw, which in effect has been providing free education for many of its students, is going to have to adopt a hard line in collecting bills from its students. Regardless of how high the enrollment, unless students pay their way, Shaw, which is filling a significant role for those who still wish to study at a black university, will like many other private colleges, soon face the danger of having to close its doors because of lack of money. That would be a shameful sacrifice.

MOBILE, Ala.—Gov. George Wallace told a group of foreign newspapermen that in his opinion the United States did the right thing when they fought the Germans and Japanese in World War II. "We had no choice," the governor said, "and I would hate to think what the world would be like today if Hitler and Tojo had won. Of course, we couldn't have done it alone. Thank God, the Russians were on our side."

WASHINGTON—Sen. Teddy Kennedy said today that he is a candidate for President in 1976. "All this talk about me not running is pure foolishness. The Democratic Party has a lot of good men, but I can't see myself supporting any of them. I'm the best man for the job, and I wish the press would stop saying I'm not interested in the Presidency as it's hurting my fundraising campaign."

Pitt and Beaufort county officers, in a smashing drive against illicit whiskey dealers of the two counties, captured two whiskey distilling plants, two operators, 500 gallons of whiskey, 10,000 gallons of mash and a boat in the Tranters Creek area yesterday afternoon.

The stills were located on the Pitt County side of the creek and the whiskey was stored in a small house on the Beaufort County side of the stream.

Pitt County has had the heaviest rainfall so far this July of any similar month on record, and crops have been damaged only to minor extent in communities where precipitation was the heaviest.

B.T. Clark, local weather observer, said this morning his records showed 6.23 inches of rain since July 1 compared with 2.32 inches in June. The report covers precipitation through yesterday and last night.

While heavy rains have done damage to crops in some communities, E.F. Arnold, local farm director said this morning he did not think crops in the county as a whole suffered to any extent.

Strength For Today

HOW TO TAKE DEFEAT
The boys who played with Andrew Jackson when he was growing into a tough backwoodsman in Tennessee used to say that the trouble with Andy was that when he was "thrown" in a "wrestlin" he never "stayed thrown."

Some people are like that. When they are "thrown" they just won't "stay thrown." Like the frontier lad who went to the White House, they never allow any circumstance, no matter how disconcerting it may be, to keep them in a permanent state of dejection and defeat. Most people go down to defeat not because defeat is inevitable but because it is easy. It is easier to stay down and be sorry for one's self than to get up and try again. Everyone in the course of his career is going to be defeated sometime. Nothing is more important than to know how to take these setbacks. Most of them will not be permanent unless allowed to become so. When treated as a stimulus for further effort they become milestones on the road to victory.

Offshore Oil Targets Dropped

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interior Department has officially abandoned President Richard M. Nixon's orders to lease 10 million offshore acres a year for oil exploration because it was impossible to meet that goal.

Instead, the department Thursday proposed six lease sales per year through 1978, including major "frontier areas" never before leased. But it proposed no new annual acreage targets.

A revised, tentative schedule of proposed sales was published last month but did not spell out the department's abandonment of the 10-million-acre quota, which Nixon had ordered in January 1974.

That quota remained the basis for Interior's preliminary draft environmental statement last November, but even then, officials including then-Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton were backing away from it.

"Comments received from the public, as well as further internal review, have persuaded the department to drop specific acreage figures as planning targets," the final environmental impact statement said.

"Hence, the target figure of 10 million acres" to be leased in 1975 (in the original proposal) has been dropped as an element of the present proposal.

This basic change in offshore leasing strategy was the biggest single difference between the final impact statement and the earlier draft.

The Interior Department statement said that "certain events and new information indicate that this leasing goal is unattainable."

Its lease sale off south Texas last January offered more than 3 million acres but sold only 626,000, a poor showing, and the department said industry was not showing much interest in a forthcoming sale in the central Gulf of Mexico, either.

Instead of the 10 million acres Nixon ordered, "it is entirely possible that no more than 3 million acres will be leased in 1975, even assuming that all six proposed sales are held," Interior said.

As did the draft study, the final environmental statement forecast that massive offshore oil drilling and development would unavoidably bring oil spills—a few large ones and, perhaps even more damaging, many small, chronic ones.

This time, the department hazarded a guess as to how much oil might be spilled.

"This proposal could eventually result in annual production of approximately 3 million barrels per day and annual spillage of approximately 200,000 barrels."

And it admitted that "because of the immense size of the proposal, it is virtually certain that oil spilled during future OCS (Outer Continental Shelf) oil and gas operations will impact the beaches of at least some of the OCS areas."

Discourts Membership Wedge

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — The president of a conflict-ridden Lutheran denomination strongly discounted today claims by a moderate wing that new disciplinary measures would drive a fourth of the members from the church.

conciliation in the process. The convention told the church's district presidents, similar to bishops, to stop placing in local pulpits the graduates of a breakaway seminary and authorize procedures invoked in mid-July 1976 to remove them from office if they don't comply.

More than 500 delegates of the 1,600 here for the convention rallied in a show of support for the dissenting leaders here Thursday in an auditorium near the convention hall.

Leaders of the moderate wing said the disciplinary measures, including a condemnation of the moderate group as schismatic, would strengthen their cause but probably force it outside the church.

The convention has served "notices of eviction," said the Rev. Dr. Samuel J. Roth, a Ferguson, Mo., pastor and president of the countrywide moderate organization, Evangelical Lutherans in Mission.

The separation "may come either voluntarily or by coercion," he told newsmen. "But make no mistake about it, it is to come."

Moderates estimated that 25 per cent of the church's membership would be involved in the break as the new measures are enforced, with added numbers becoming involved as impact of the new policies is felt.

Only 24 women are among the convention's 1,120 voting delegates, Dallas, Tex., was selected as the site for the next convention in 1977. The current eight-day meeting ends tonight.

"No way," said The Rev. Dr. T.A.O. Preus of St. Louis, head of the conservative administration of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. "They've got to be dreaming."

At least eight districts comprising a total of about 500,000 members of the 2.8-million-member denomination, are openly involved in installing new ministers from the rebel seminary in St. Louis.

About an equal number of other districts have done the same thing quietly but only the eight publicly declare they will continue doing so in defiance of church's national administration.

He expressed hope that he would not actively have to implement the measures but that regional districts involved would change their ways voluntarily and comply with demands on them.

"I will do everything I possibly can to bring them into harmony with the position of the synod," he said, adding that there is considerable chance for values and purpose. Without that, he says, churches lose their vitalizing core.

He and other church thinkers, participating in a recent conference sponsored here by the United Church of Christ on problems of church growth, all are advocates of applying religious principles in action to improve social conditions.

Church Hosting Youth Team

Fifteen young people and their adult advisors will be the guests of Oakmont Baptist Church Sunday.

They are from New York and surrounding areas, with one young lady coming from Montreal, Canada. They will be spending seven weeks in Greenville while participating in a Summer Work Project sponsored by the American Jewish Society for Service.

Jules Hirsh, their director will speak at the morning service, after which, the BYF will host a cookout for the team members and their leaders.

The public is invited to attend the service.

with Hanoi is expected to be shaped largely by Hanoi's policy toward the 2,300 Americans still unaccounted for in Indochina since before the 1973 cease-fire.

About 900 of them, including 30 civilians, are still listed as missing, while the rest are declared dead but their bodies unrecovered. Under the Paris agreement, Hanoi pledged to help account for the missing and to return the remains of the dead.

However, he says the drama of worship has been "lost in the modern world," and with that "dramatic enactment of religion being lost, the heart of religion has been eclipsed."

"When the black folk walk into the white church they say, 'You don't have anything going here,'" he observed. "And I think they're right."

The Rev. Dr. Max Stackhouse, professor of ethics at Andover Newton Theological School in Newton Centre, Mass., said the vitality of any group, religious or secular, depends on some kind of "doctrine at its core."

However, he noted that Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping told him China was in no hurry about removal of U.S. forces from Taiwan. Moreover, the Chinese stressed to him that their enemy of enemies is Russia.

If there is now an opening for solution of the base problem here, the old father-son relationship between Washington and Manila is no more. Bristling at the U.S. congressional investigation of his authoritarian regime to determine its fitness for U.S. aid, the president told us: "We are reaching the point where the Philippines must decide whether military or economic aid is worth all this intervention."

CHARGED WITH HIJACKING—Dianne Vivian McKinney, 23, is escorted from FBI headquarters in Manhattan Thursday shortly after the 90-pound, 5-foot-2 woman arrived at Kennedy airport from Kingston, Jamaica. Ms. McKinney is charged with kidnapping a cab driver and skyjacking a private plane to Cuba at gunpoint five years ago from Gastonia, N.C. An FBI official said that she and her companion, who is presumed to still be in Cuba, had been on the island since they landed there on April 23, 1970. (AP Wirephoto)

The softer tone about U.S. relations he took with us certainly does not mean that Ferdinand Marcos is about to faithfully echo the foreign policy of Gerald Ford as he once did of Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon. However, he noted that Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping told him China was in no hurry about removal of U.S. forces from Taiwan. Moreover, the Chinese stressed to him that their enemy of enemies is Russia.

If there is now an opening for solution of the base problem here, the old father-son relationship between Washington and Manila is no more. Bristling at the U.S. congressional investigation of his authoritarian regime to determine its fitness for U.S. aid, the president told us: "We are reaching the point where the Philippines must decide whether military or economic aid is worth all this intervention."

The softer tone about U.S. relations he took with us certainly does not mean that Ferdinand Marcos is about to faithfully echo the foreign policy of Gerald Ford as he once did of Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon. The fact that China probably could have torpedoed negotiations over Subic Bay reflects the over-all de-Americanization of Philippine foreign policy in the wake of declining U.S. influence in East Asia.

Many of us grew up with pictures of caravans crossing the sands of the Sahara. Those in the West know that the desert has many faces. One of our common mistakes in life is to assume that trees make a forest, flowers a garden, clothes a man... that appearances promise reality. One of the invaluable influences of Christianity upon society has been its distinction between the facade and the truth. Christ taught that men must be known by their faith. Lack of spiritual concern is the surest way to make the world a desert of trees... a society of people without a sense of responsibility. Wastelands cry out for reclamation. The Church Christ founded is reclaiming our society for Him. You need its Message.

Suspect Neglect Church Scholars

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of church scholars, analyzing why church membership and participation have slumped during the past decade, say it often is because churches have not concentrated on their prime task: nurturing faith.

They've tended to stress working for social betterment rather than on instilling religious premises for it, according to several of the experts. They say such efforts are fine, but don't basically energize church life.

The first essential to church vitality is the job of bolstering convictions, devotion and a steady perspective on reality, the theologians and sociologists say, with social action derived from that prior function.

If churches simply join secular forces in good causes, such as struggles for social justice, without fueling the religious roots of it, the church is "committing institutional suicide," says the Rev. John Neuhaus of Brooklyn, a Lutheran.

He says the health of the churches requires that they be "distinctive enough to warrant real gut commitment" by deepening awareness of ultimate values and purpose. Without that, he says, churches lose their vitalizing core.

They also are "denying the world the distinctive perception and resources of the Christian community," he says.

He and other church thinkers, participating in a recent conference sponsored here by the United Church of Christ on problems of church growth, all are advocates of applying religious principles in action to improve social conditions.

But they noted a balancing trend in mainline denominations — those which have been most active on social issues and whose membership has sagged — to restore more emphasis on the rudimentary task of nourishing of basic concepts and principles.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, recovering from a mild early decline that followed a prime rate increase by New York's First National City Bank.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 1.72 at 873.59, but losers maintained a moderate lead over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow slipped a little more than 3 points in the first half hour after Citibank's announcement that it was raising its prime, or basic rate on corporate loans, from 7 to 7 1/4 per cent.

But analysts said it appeared the market had largely absorbed the impact of the news in advance with declines at the

The California Supreme Court ruled Thursday that Municipal Court Judge Noel Cannon of Los Angeles County "had engaged in a course of conduct which had maligned her judicial office and clearly established her lack of temperament and ability to perform judicial functions in an even-handed manner."

Judge Cannon, 48, was appointed to the bench 12 years ago by then-Gov. Edmund G. Brown and was censured in 1967 by fellow jurists for "exhibitionist conduct." She may appeal to the court for reconsideration of the removal order, which is effective immediately.

The court said it acted on the unanimous recommendation of the Commission on Judicial Qualifications, which investigates accusations against judges alleged to be unfit or disabled.

The commission said that after a policeman cautioned Judge Cannon about excessive use of her automobile horn at an intersection, she told a bailiff: "Give me a gun. I am going to give him a .38-caliber vasectomy."

NO NEW TRIAL—W.A. "Tony" Boyle, above, the former United Mine Workers president convicted of ordering the 1969 assassination of a union rival, Joseph Yablonski, was denied a new trial Thursday. A Delaware County judge directed that Boyle be brought to Media, Pa. on August 5 for sentencing. (AP Wirephoto)

The following steps should be taken for damaged acres to be abandoned or put to another use: —the loss must be reported to the county office and an inspection made prior to disposal of the crop; —an appraiser will determine potential production of acres prior to release of affected acres; —before or after crop certification, disposal of planted acres by producer prior to inspection by an appraiser will result in an assigned yield equal to the larger of the pre-acre yield on harvested acres or the payment yield.

Steps to be taken for damaged crops to be carried through to harvest: —file report with the county office not later than 15 days following completion of harvest of the affected crop; —not dispose of crop residue until ASCS verifies the damage and production; —furnish production evidence after harvest.

The payment for corn is 46 cents per bushel. "This represents one third of the farm program target price, which is $1.38 per bushel," Evans said. "The payment for the farm will be computed on a quantity equal to the difference between the payment yield times the farm allotment (or planted acres if smaller) and the total farm production."

Farmers who have questions concerning the disaster provisions may call or visit the ASCS office.

Later Opening At Leaf Marts
RALEIGH (AP)—Tobacco markets in Durham, Oxford, Louisburg, Henderson, Roxboro and Mebane will begin sales July 29, and remaining North Carolina and Virginia flue-cured markets will open on Aug. 5.

These dates, set Thursday by the Flue-Cured Tobacco Advisory Committee, are a week later than ones which had been considered earlier because growers complained their tobacco would not be ready for sale by the earlier dates.

John Cyrus, head of the field crops division of the N.C. Department of Agriculture, said the delayed openings "provide markets for growers when they're ready to sell."

Tobacco Price Average Sags
RALEIGH (AP)—After two days of sales, the season average price for flue-cured tobacco on the South Carolina-Border North Carolina Belt dropped to $84.57, the Federal-State Market News Service reported.

Thursday's average price of $84.14 was 75 cents lower than opening day prices Wednesday. With 11 of 12 markets open Thursday reporting sales amounted to 4,834,676 pounds for $4,067,742.

For the season, sales total 11,447,189 pounds for a price of $9,680,978.

or setting public hearings for Aug. 7.

Assignments were made to the newly formed Public Transportation Commission. Named for three-year terms were James Keel Sr. and Ed Yancey while Liz Wilkerson and A.E. Dubber were appointed for two-year tenures. Sarah Ashton, John Taylor and Linda Hicks were named to one-year terms.

A request by Mr. and Mrs. Nat Sutton for rezoning from R-6 to R-6-MH of property located at 208 E. Mumford Road and containing 14,000 square feet was approved following a public hearing. Councilman John Howard voted against approval of the rezoning request.

Ordinances rescinding Ordinance No. 544 and amending Ordinance No. 545 were adopted as a technical matter to provide for the carry-over of some $75,000 to the current budget for land acquisition from the East Carolina University Foundation.

Two amendments were also approved concerning the present budget involving the adjustment of funds in the general fund and revenue sharing. Both matters are routine and do not mean any changes in the final budget totals.

The Community Development Budget for fiscal year 1975-76 was adopted in the amount of $1,908,000.

The Council approved a low bid for group life insurance from U.S. Fidelity and Guaranty Insurance Co. The low bid, which was submitted in three parts, involves a basic life insurance premium of 50 cents per $1,000 coverage, six cents per $1,000 coverage for accidental death and dismemberment, and a 70 cents premium for dependent life insurance.

Under the insurance plan, the city pays half of the coverage and the employee pays the other half. Both the city and Greenville Utilities employees are covered under the plan.

Bid openings on the group package were held on Monday morning and the accepted bid was the low offering among ten bids.

A request by Dalton Gray Davis for a permit to place a mobile home at 908 Taylor Street for use as a personal residence was approved. The property, zoned for R-6 (residential) usage, contains some 6,050 square feet.

Other action included: approval of an application for a taxicab operator's permit by James Perry Artis; approval of a revised pay plan; approval of three recommendations by the Traffic Commission involving placement of "no parking" signs on the east side of E. Berkeley Road from N. Overlook Drive to Treemont Drive, placement of "no parking" signs on the south side of N. Overlook Drive from Elm Street to E. Berkeley Road, and placement of "no parking" signs on the north side of Berkeley Road from Treemont Drive to Fieldside Drive.

In No Hurry To Protect

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite backing by more than half the House and a third of the Senate, Congress is dragging its feet on a bill to curb access to Americans' tax returns, its sponsors say.

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., and Rep. Jerry Litton, D-Mo., urged action on their bill in appearances Thursday before the investigating subcommittee of the House Ways and Means Committee.

The bill is designed to protect the confidentiality of personal tax returns by restricting government officials' access to the information.

"Over the past two years a massive public record has been compiled documenting wrongdoing connected with the Internal Revenue Service. Yet, faced with this litany of abuses, the Congress has failed to take one positive step to restore the integrity of our tax system," Weicker said.

Litton said IRS "is there for one purpose — to collect taxes to run this country, not to collect information on the lives of private citizens like some Gestapo agency to turn over to whomever is in power in the White House."

Litton and Weicker said their bill is sponsored by 237 of the 434 House members and 38 of the 99 senators.

Rather than present law's provision that tax returns constitute public records except as otherwise limited, the Litton-Weicker bill would make tax returns confidential records except as spelled out.

Budget Reduces Museum Hours
NEW YORK (AP) — The Metropolitan Museum of Art says it will close down two days each week and will eliminate evening museum hours because of a budget-forced cut-back in its security staff.

The museum, closed Mondays since 1971, will close down Tuesdays as well, shorten its weekend hours and rope off some galleries during portions of each day starting next week. Museum Director Thomas Hoving blamed the curtailment of services on the city's financial problems.

Bargain Stores Will Be Closed
NEW YORK (AP) — S. Klein's department store, the bargain hunter's paradise at 14th Street and Union Square for some 65 years, will close within the next few weeks, according to industry sources. Its three branches in the metropolitan area will close later this summer.

The 19-store chain began to run in the red, and in the fiscal year ended last Jan. 31, the stores lost $8 million after taxes.

Ten of the stores have been closed in the last year and the leases of five others were transferred to another bargain chain, the Korvette division of Arlen Realty and Development Corp.

Julian Bond No '76 Candidate
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Julian Bond, the black Georgia state senator, announced Thursday night that he will not be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1976.

"It's simply a matter of not having the money," said Bond, 35, who was nominated for vice president at the 1968 Democratic National Convention. Bond, who had said he was considering a run for the presidency, said he had been able to raise only $11,372 for his campaign.

School Returns To Old-Fashioned Drill

DENVER (AP) — Students enrolled in an experimental "old-fashioned" school have scored well beyond expected levels on standardized achievement tests.

Students at the Fundamental School in suburban Jefferson County gained as much as two years in basic skills over the six months the school has been in operation.

"Our whole idea is based on order, discipline, high moral standards, respect, courtesy," said school principal Paul Rold.

"We expect the children to be well-behaved. Teachers and children know what to expect of each other."

That part of the school's philosophy, Rold admits, is "old-fashioned," but he contends that old-fashioned does not necessarily mean outmoded, as shown by the test results.

The school — one of several of its type in the nation — was started at the request of a group of parents under the Jefferson County system's "alternative school policy," which provides for experimental programs to be set up if enough parents want them.

About 300 children are enrolled in grades kindergarten through sixth at two locations — a set of cottages and an old school building which had been phased out.

The school stresses basic skills — reading, math, writing — and teaches them to a large extent by drill.

"When a child is finished with the third grade, he should know his multiplication facts. He should not have to look them up on a chart," Rold said.

"We believe rote memorization is the way a child is going to learn the basics. When he has those, he can go on to exploration kinds of learning. He has the tools."

The school uses a phonetic approach to reading. Its foundation program takes 16 weeks. At the end of it, the students can read, Rold said.

"Our children read fabulously," he said proudly.

The achievement tests showed students performing "well beyond" the levels that their intelligence quotients would indicate.

Only students in the sixth grade failed to score above national norms.

Washington West, Pitt Co. Take Wins

By WOODY PEELE
 Reflector Sports Editor
 Attention, Recreation Department! Place one order for a new home plate at Guy Smith Stadium. The one there was worn out yesterday.

 By the time the District Six Babe Ruth Tournament had completed the first day's action, playing four games, two 13-year-old and two 14-15 year old, a total of 92 runs had crossed that plate, wearing it to a frazzle.

 In the 13-year-old division, Pitt County held off Washington East, 16-13, and Greenville gained a 24-0 win over

Washington West. (See other story) In the 14-15 age group,
 Washington West ripped Craven County 19-1 and Pitt County downed Washington East, 15-4.
 Today's 14-15 year old games

sent Creswell against Washington West at 2 p.m., followed by Pitt County at Greenville at 4 p.m. Washington East is to meet the loser of the first game today at 6 p.m., while the second game loser meets Craven County at 8 p.m. in the double-elimination tournament.

Billy Mitchell hurled the victory for Washington West, allowing only three hits. He struck out 14 batters, facing only 27 batters, just six over the minimum for a seven-inning game. He walked seven, however, and lost his shutout in the final inning of play.

Washington jumped into the lead in the first inning, pushing in five runs. Greg Rowland walked and after a sacrifice,
 Mitchell drew a walk. Octavus Wallace also walked, loading the bases. A walk to C.B. Manning brought in the first run, and a hit by Richard Pfeiffer scored Mitchell and Wallace. Manning and Pfeiffer both stole up, and Manning then stole home. A wild pitch scored Pfeiffer.

 Another run scored in the second. Mitchell reached on interference and stole second.
 He scored when Wallace reached on an error.

Washington ran the score to 8-0 with two in the third. Fritz Tanner singled and stole second and third. Bill Batchelor also walked and stole up. Both scored on Wallace's hit.

The fourth saw two more score. Pfeiffer walked, as did Gary Anderson. Tanner's grounder was played to second but was not in time to get Anderson. Pfeiffer, meanwhile, kept digging for home, reaching safely. Anderson then stole third and scored on a sacrifice fly.

After scoring once in the sixth,
 on an error and a hit,
 Washington West finished their scoring with eight more in the seventh, taking advantage of two hits, five errors, three walks and a hit batter.

The lone Craven County run came in the bottom of the seventh. Benny Stotesbury singled and moved to third on wild pitches. He scored when Eddie Dawson grounded out.

Washington East scored first in its game with Pitt County. In the first, Ronnie Nooney led off with a walk and Tony Christiano singled. Both moved up on a wild pitch and walks to Paul Moore and Drew Roberson scored Nooney.

Pitt County tied it up in the bottom of the first. Kevin Adams doubled, stole third and scored when a pickoff attempt was overthrown at third.

Pitt County moved into the lead on a freak play in the second. Byron Tyson led off with a single and Bernard Paige got a double that never got out of the infield. His line shot to third hit Lawrence Tolston on the shoulder and ricocheted into foul territory. It passed the dead ball line before it could be chased down and by then, Paige was on second and Tyson on third. Both were awarded one base on the dead ball rule. Paige then scored on Mike Phillips' sacrifice fly.

 A walk and a hit scored a run in the third, making it 4-1, but the real killing came in the fifth when six runs scored for Pitt County. Nougie Worthington walked and Adams tripled to dead center, scoring one run. An error on the relay let Adams score. Scott Evans reached on an error and Tyson ripped another triple to center. Mike Teachey walked, as did Phillips, loading the bases. Dale Bailey singled in two runs, and a hit by Roge Jenkins brought in another for a 10-1 edge.

Four hits, two errors and a pair of walks helped to score five more in the sixth.
 Washington East added one in the sixth and two in the seventh but never really threatened Pitt again.

Greenville Roars To Opening Round Win

Greenville's 13-year-old Babe Ruth All-Stars gained an easy first round victory yesterday, romping to a 24-0 win over Washington West. In the other game, Pitt County had to hold off a late rally by Washington East for a 16-13 win.

Two 13-year-old games were set for today in the District Six Tournament at Guy Smith
 Stadium. At 10 a.m., Craven County was to meet Pitt County, while Washington East and Washington West meet at noon in the losers' bracket game.
 Greenville received a bye into the Saturday action, meeting the winner of the Craven-Pitt game.

Greenville's Glenn Moore
 tossed a two hitter in gaining the shutout victory. One hit came in the opening inning and the other in the second. The remaining five innings saw no hits. Moore struck out seven and walked two. He faced just 25 batters, four over the minimum for a seven-inning game.

The game rolled along at a fast pace until the seventh inning when the dam broke. Greenville had moved out to a 7-0 lead at that point. But during the inning, they batted around over two full times, scoring 17 runs in that one frame alone.

Greenville grabbed the lead in the first inning with a run. Will Barrett walked and moved to second when a pickoff play was errored. He scored when Peter Pace doubled.

Another run came in the third.
 Barrett lined a shot to deep center and raced around the bases while the ball was being chased down.

Two scored in the fourth. Pace doubled again and took third on a wild pitch. Moore walked and Skip Topping's hit scored Pace.
 Charles Daise singled in Moore.

Three more came over in the sixth as Greenville sent nine men to the plate, giving warning of what was to come. Bob Morehead singled and stole both second and third. Moore singled him in, but was thrown out at second on Topping's grounder.
 Daise walked as did George Wilson. Barrett singled to drive in both Topping and Daise.

Then came the frantic seventh. Greenville got seven hits during the frame and Washington made eight errors.
 There were four walks and two hit batters. The first 11 batters reached safely before the first out was made. The second out was made by the 20th batter as a total of 22 came to the plate
 during the frame.

Pitt County jumped out to an early lead in its game, building up a 15-0 lead after three and a half innings. But Washington East, still down 16-6 after four and a half, rallied for seven in the fifth and cut the lead back to 16-13, but were held off the rest of the way.

Pitt County jumped into the lead with four in the first inning.
 Tony Eason walked and stole up, scoring on Carl Arnold's triple.
 Billy McLawhorn singled him in and Ben Hyman reached on a fielder's choice. Curtis Spencer walked to load them up, and a hit by Jeff Allen scored McLawhorn and Hyman.

Two more came over in the second. Eason walked and stole up, scoring when Arnold reached on an error. Hyman reached on another miscue, scoring Arnold.

In the third, Pitt County added six more for a 12-0 lead. Allen singled and stole up, moving to third on an error. Richard Smith reached on an error, scoring Allen. Mike Edens singled and an error on the relay let Smith score. Eason tripled and scored on a passed ball. Arnold walked, stole second and took third on a wild pitch. McLawhorn was safe on the error, scoring Arnold.
 McLawhorn stole up and scored on Spencer's hit.

Three in the fourth put the game away, and one more was scored in the fifth.

Washington East got six in the

 and moved to third on an error on a pickoff attempt. Walker

Lynch walked and Phillip Paul singled in Thompson. A hit by Kyle Hickman brought in Lynch, and Chris Jones reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Paul.
 Douglas Pane walked and Chick Parker singled in Hickman. A walk to Chris Elks scored Jones and Pane scored on Thompson's

The other seven came in the

Dodgers Fall Ten Games Back Of Reds, Lose To Bucs

By GARY MIHOCES

 PITTSBURGH (AP) — No offense, Joe DiMaggio; it was just another night's work for Willie Stargell.

"Milestones are to be enjoyed once your career is over," Stargell said after his 361st career homer tied him with DiMaggio for 24th place on the all-time major league list and secured the Pittsburgh Pirates' 4-1 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Thursday night.

In the only other game in the National League, the Chicago Cubs defeated the San Diego Padres 3-1. The Montreal-Atlanta game was postponed by rain.

"I know I've got two games tomorrow and that milestones aren't going to be much help," Stargell said after the Pirate victory.

"When you're playing you just have to grind it out," he added.

Stargell ground it out against the Dodgers with a run-scoring single that broke a 1-1 tie and a two-run insurance homer off Dodger reliever Mike Marshall. The victory was the 10th in 13 games for the Pirates, who moved six games ahead of the idle Philadelphia Phillies in the National League East. The Dodgers dropped 10 games behind the first-place Cincinnati Reds in the West.

Cubs 3, Padres 1
 Ray Burris stopped San Diego on eight hits and Chicago scored a pair of unearned runs in the second inning en route to victory over the Padres.

With two out in the second inning, Manny Trillo walked and Steve Swisher doubled. Burris then grounded to shortstop Enzo Hernandez, who threw wild past first as both runners scored.

Burris had a three-hit shutout going until there were two out in the sixth inning. Bobby Tolan and Willie McCovey both singled and Dave Winfield followed with a run-scoring double.

McGinnis Playing Mostly For Money

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — George McGinnis, who signed to play with the National Basketball Association Philadelphia 76ers Thursday for a reported $3.2 million, says he plays basketball for fun and profit, mostly the latter.

He's interested in endorsements, promotions, investments and real estate.

"Get it while you can, and when you've got it, put it to good use," said the 6-foot-8 forward, one of the best in the pros, after signing his six-year contract.

"I want to have something when I get through with basketball," he said at the Spectrum after a news conference with Sixers management.

"A lot of guys in this game get their money and they spend it. The average guy who plays basketball comes out with nothing. I want to have something then for me and for my mother.

"I'm pretty conservative with my money. I'm a reserved person. I guess if I throw it away on anything it's on cars. I have a thing about antique cars."

The 25-year-old McGinnis, laughing, told of his six autos, two of them vintage European racers, "and my 'Vette, I use for getting around."
 McGinnis starred for four years with the American Basketball Association Indiana Pacers.

Ben Hogan's 22-year-old course record of 68 was broken by five players.

Cole's 66 is the new course record and it put him into strong contention. But he is two strokes back of Huish, 31, a teaching Scottish pro who delighted his countrymen in the gallery of 16,000. The last Scottish-born player to win this crown was Tommy Armour in 1931, and by then he was a U.S. citizen.

Some of the U.S. players like Irwin are apprehensive. "I go out fearing for my life, but nothing happens," said the man who stands at 139 and is sixth.

Others, like Watson and John Mahaffey, who is tied with Irwin at 139, are disappointed. "I haven't seen Carnoustie play as I've been told it does," Mahaffey said. "Jack Nicklaus was telling me about it and it certainly is easier than he said."

"I'd like to see Carnoustie show its teeth a bit," said Watson. "I came here expecting wind and cold — a sort of challenge — and all I get is the weather you get on U.S. courses."

The 153 starters were cut to 86 for today's third round, with 149 as the cut-off point.

Twice during the second round the course record, which Oosterhuis had equalled in Wednesday's first round, was broken, first by Graham Marsh of Australia with 67 then by Cole's 66. And three other players — Huish, Watson and Britian's Bernard Gallacher — also had 67s.

Nicklaus, who won the Open five years ago, is poised at 140 along with Johnny Miller. Tom Weiskopf and Lee Trevino are at 145 and Arnold Palmer and defending champion Gary Player at 146.

Alan Tapie is at 142, followed by Ray Floyd at 143. Danny Edwards, George Burns and Spike Kelley are at 144.

Course Is Not Giving Players A Challenge

By ROBERT JONES
 AP Sports Writer
 CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — There are more than a few differences between a weekend golfer and a top tournament professional. One of them is that the pro likes a course to be tough enough to challenge him.

And that is what Carnoustie, the sprawling 7,065-yard, par-72 course on the edge of the North Sea has not done to the 1975 British Open players.

After the first two rounds, the field of 153 is led by David Huish, a tough, dour, unknown

Scott, who followed his first-round 69 with what would have been a course-record 67 in Thursday's second round.

That put him at 136, eight under par and two strokes ahead of Tom Watson of Kansas City, Mo., Britain's Peter Oosterhuis — the first-round leader — and South Africans Andries Oosthuizen and Bobby Cole.

Carnoustie, described by former U.S. Open champ Hale Irwin as a "sleeping giant," was still sleeping as the second round finished, and after rain had broken a five-week drought it was playing quietly. In fact, more scored in the sixth. Presbyterian picked up all five of its runs in the fourth.

In the other division, University-Mt. Pleasant led off with a 12-9 win over Immanuel Baptist. Immanuel got one in the first, but U-MP came up with five in the third. They added four in the fourth and got what proved to be the difference in the sixth. Immanuel added two each in the third and fourth, sixth and seventh.

Black Jack downed First Free Will in the second game, 12-4. Black Jack got one in the first, three in the second, two in the third and six in the sixth. Free Will got two each in the third and fourth.

People's Bible romped to a 22-0 win over Arlington Street in the final game. People's scored one in the first, nine in the second with S. Cobb homering. They added four in the third, two in the fourth, four in the fifth with a homer by M. Sutton, and two in the sixth.

Leaders Remain In Tough Fight

First Christian and Oakmont continued their tight battle for the American Division lead in the Church Softball League last night. Both won, leaving First Christian with a half-game lead.

In the opening game on one field, Christian romped to a 6-1 win over Memorial. Memorial got its run in the top of the first, but Christian came back with two including a homer by Hawkins in the bottom of the frame. They added four more in the third.

Oakmont romped to a 13-7 win over Temple in the second game. Temple got three in the first, but Oakmont came back with seven in the second with homers by Hall and Singleton (two). Oakmont added one in the fourth, two in the fifth and one in the sixth. Temple got three in the fifth and one in the seventh.

The third game saw St. Gabriel take a 10-5 win over First Presbyterian. St. Gabriel pushed over six in the second and got one in the fifth. Three more scored in the sixth.

In the other division, University-Mt. Pleasant led off with a 12-9 win over Immanuel Baptist. Immanuel got one in the first, but U-MP came up with five in the third. They added four in the fourth and got what proved to be the difference in the sixth. Immanuel added two each in the third and fourth, sixth and seventh.

Black Jack downed First Free Will in the second game, 12-4. Black Jack got one in the first, three in the second, two in the third and six in the sixth. Free Will got two each in the third and fourth.

People's Bible romped to a 22-0 win over Arlington Street in the final game. People's scored one in the first, nine in the second with S. Cobb homering. They added four in the third, two in the fourth, four in the fifth with a homer by M. Sutton, and two in the sixth.

Alston Fills Out National Roster

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three Philadelphia Phils, two Pittsburgh Pirates and one player from each of six other National League clubs were chosen today by Manager Walt Alston as National League All-Star reserves for Tuesday's game against the American League All-Stars at Milwaukee.

Philadelphia selections were outfielder Greg Luzinski, the league leader in home runs and runs batted in, and the second base-shortstop combination of

Dave Cash and Larry Bowa. Manny Sanguillen was named backup for starting catcher Johnny Bench of Cincinnati, and outfielder Al Oliver is Pittsburgh's other reserve player.

The remaining six reserves are Tony Perez, Cincinnati, and Bob Watson, Houston, first base; Bill Madlock, Chicago, third base; and outfielders Reggie Smith of St. Louis, Bobby Murcer of San Francisco and Gary Carter of Montreal.

In addition to Bench, the Reds have second baseman Joe Morgan, shortstop Pete Rose in a starting lineup that includes St. Louis outfielder Lou Brock and three of Alston's Los Angeles Dodgers.

Starters for the Dodgers, who also have three men on the nine-man pitching staff, are Steve Garvey 1b, Ron Cey 3b, and Jimmy Wynn, outfield.

Today's reserve selections left the New York Mets, San Diego and Atlanta with only pitching staff representation on the NL team.

Reserves Sanguillen, Perez, Cash, Madlock, and Bowa all ran second at their positions in the All-Star balloting. Luzinski polled fifth high among the outfielders, behind Smith.

Murcer, who was on the last four American League All-Star teams as a New York Yankee, was the eighth-high outfielder in the voting, while Carter and Oliver were not among the dozen top vote-getters.

For Luzinski, Madlock and Carter it will be the first All-Star game, and for Smith, Watson, Bowa, Cash and Oliver, the second. Perez has been in five and Sanguillen two.

into the game and left the potential tying run stranded.

Red Sox 8, Rangers 7
Cecil Cooper's run-scoring single in the bottom of the ninth offset Texas' three-run burst in the top of the inning and gave Boston its victory over the Rangers.

The Rangers had tied it 7-7 with two outs in the top of the ninth when Toby Harrah and Jim Spencer singled and Jeff Burroughs hit a full-count pitch by Reggie Cleveland, 6-6, over the left field wall for his 17th home run of the season.

But in the bottom of the inning, Denny Doyle drilled a two-out single to left off Gaylord Perry, 7-14. Doyle took second on a passed ball by Ron Pruitt and scored when Cooper singled to left. The victory widened Boston's American League East lead to 2½ games over the Milwaukee.

Twins 6, Yankees 3
Tony Oliva ripped four hits, one of them a home run, and triggered three rallies, leading Minnesota over New York. It was the 27th career four-hit game for the Minnesota veteran.

Oliva's homer leading off the second preceded a two-run double by Glenn Borgmann, helping the Twins to a 3-0 lead. Oliva also singled in the third and started rallies in the sixth and eighth with singles.

Orioles 7, Angels 3
Elrod Hendricks led Baltimore's extra-base hit assault with two doubles and a triple and Mike Cuellar scattered nine hits as the Orioles beat California. The Orioles blasted out nine extra-base hits — five doubles, two triples and a pair of home runs in helping Cuellar lift his record to 7-6.

Tigers Get Ninth Straight

By KEN RAPPOPORT

The Detroit Tigers have certainly had their ups and downs this season. Right now, they're up.

The Tigers, who couldn't win a game for the longest time, now can't lose and Thursday night defeated the Kansas City Royals 3-2 for their ninth straight victory.

"There's really no answer for our slump and now our winning streak," said Detroit Manager Ralph Houk. "That's how baseball goes. We were playing real close ballgames in the slump. We were in all the games but we couldn't get the hit at the right time."

Before the recent successes, the Tigers had suffered through losing streaks of four, six and five games.

In the other American League games, the Boston Red Sox nipped the Texas Rangers 8-7; the Minnesota Twins stopped the New York Yankees 6-3 and the Baltimore Orioles turned back the California Angels 7-3.

Vern Riffe teamed with Bob Reynolds for an eight-hitter and Jack Pierce belted a home run to help the Tigers beat the Royals.

Pierce walloped his homer in the fourth to tie the game at 2-2 and the Tigers scored their winning run in the fifth with the help of Ron LeFlore's base-running. LeFlore led off the fifth by beating out a chopper to third, stole second, moved to third on Gary Sutherland's groundout and raced home on Leon Roberts' bouncer.

Ruhle, 8-5, gave up two unearned runs before leaving in the ninth with one out and a man on second. Reynolds came

Dark Ignores Voting; Makes Aaron Reserve

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It figured that Alvin Dark wouldn't go strictly by the numbers when he filled out his roster of American League all-stars.

The numbers were the record 7,357,811 ballots cast by the fans for the players of their choice. As a result, Dark's Oakland A's and the New York Yankees have a monopoly on the starting lineup next Tuesday night in Milwaukee.

But Dark also ignored some of those fan-mailed numbers. Being runner-up in the voting didn't automatically mean being an all-star reserve. In some cases the second-place, third-place and further-down-the-list-place players were bypassed by Dark.

The least surprising reserve named Thursday was Milwaukee's Hank Aaron, named to his 25th all-star squad and his first as an American Leaguer. The Brewers' designated hitter was eighth in voting among AL outfielders.

Aaron was selected to 24 in the National League with the Milwaukee and Atlanta Braves (sitting out an all-star game in 1962 with an injury) and was traded to the Brewers last winter after surpassing Babe Ruth's record 714 career home runs. If he plays Tuesday night, he'll tie the record of 24 all-star appearances by Willie Mays and Stan Musial.

Aaron said he was proud to be chosen, but said he was not sure whether he would be able to play because of an injured shoulder.

Oakland's Claudell Washington and Cleveland's George Hendrick were also selected by Dark as reserve outfielders, despite the fact they didn't even show up among the fans' top 12 choices.

The remaining two backup outfielders are Boston rookie Fred Lynn, who managed fourth in the voting as a write-in candidate, and Kansas City's Hal McRae, sixth in the balloting but chosen over the Texas Rangers' slump-ridden Jeff Burroughs.

Lynn and first baseman Mike Hargrove of the Rangers were the only runners-up in the voting who were named to the AL roster by Dark.

Catchers Ray Fosse of Oakland, Carlton Fisk of Boston and Ellie Rodriguez of California were 2-3-4 in the voting but Dark opted for fifth-place Bill Freehan of Detroit as his No. 2 man.

The New York Yankees' Chris Chambliss and Baltimore's Lee May were 3-4 among first basemen but the next two in line — Carl Yastrzemski of Boston and George Scott of Milwaukee — got the nod from Dark.

Similarly, Dark bypassed Kansas City's Cookie Rojas, Baltimore's Bobby Grich and the Yankees' Sandy Alomar to name Jorge Orta of Chicago as a reserve second baseman.

He also overlooked Oakland's Sal Bando and Cleveland's Buddy Bell to pick rookie Dave Chalk of California at third base and chose Chicago's Bucky Dent over runner-up candidate Robin Yount of Milwaukee for reserve shortstop duty.

The manager of the world champion A's has plenty of "home-grown" talent with which to work. Oakland uniforms will be on seven of the 28 players, the fourth straight year that the three-time world champions have outnumbered the remaining 11 AL clubs.

P-W Upset

Wachovia pulled off a stunning upset of Ladies Softball League leader, Piggly-Wiggly, last night, 12-5, sending the leaders down into a tie for first place with Beltone which crushed Coca-Cola, 40-2.

In the first scheduled game of the night, Little Mint won by forfeit over Daniels.

The Daily Reflector won the second game of the night beating Burroughs-Wellcome, 18-11. The Reflector broke the ice in the first scoring five runs and after B-W got one in the second, TDR added four including a homer by Casper. The Reflector added a run in the third and one in the fourth and then pushed over the winner with a four-run rally in the fifth. B-W rallied for seven in the seventh.

Both Wachovia and Piggly Wiggly scored twice in the first inning of their game. Wachovia got the lead back in the second with three more runs and added three in the third. P-W cut the lead to 8-5 in the fifth but a homer by Brown in the sixth and three tallies in the seventh put the win away for Wachovia.

Beltone got all it needed in the first picking up 13 runs. Coke countered with its only two in the bottom of the inning. Beltone got 14 in the last inning to run the score up to 40-2.

Reds Cruising On Big Lead

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds are brimming with confidence as they make their way toward the All-Star break.

Record, Crowds Made Decision

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—North Carolina State All-American David Thompson says the Denver Nuggets' winning record and attendance were factors in his decision to play in the American Basketball Association.

"I felt comfortable with the situation there," he said in an interview here Wednesday night. "They had a winning team and everything. Atlanta is a nice city and I knew a couple of their ball players pretty well, but Denver had a winning record and good attendance."

The Atlanta Hawks of the National Basketball Association had drafted Thompson. He announced earlier this week he would play in the ABA instead.

Thompson, who led N.C. State to the NCAA title in 1974, said Denver "should be one of the best teams in the ABA."

"We'll have to wait and see about my particular role on the team," he added.

"There ain't no way we can lose this thing... We can only give it away," said Manager Sparky Anderson after his team moved into its biggest lead of the season after beating Philadelphia Wednesday.

The Reds have turned the National League Western Division race into a cakewalk during the past month, moving 10 games in front of the Los Angeles Dodgers. During that time, the Reds have won six in a row, nine of 10, 15 of 17 and 37 of 46.

Proclaims Anderson: "The players ain't worrying about LA no more. They're just going out and playing baseball. LA, to them, don't exist."

Last year at this time it was a reverse situation with the Dodger 10½ games in front of Cincinnati. This season, the Reds have been widening their lead steadily since they took the lead for good on June 7.

During a highly successful June campaign, the Reds batting order fattened its average. The team hit .285 during the month and currently has four players batting over .300.

Joe Morgan, who leads the team with a .349 average, hit .374 during June, while Johnny Bench hit .316 last month to lift his average to .298. George Foster hit .317 in June and is now batting .298, while Ken Griffey's current average of .315 was helped by a .317 average during last month's trips to the plate.

Four of their starters — Bench, Rose, Morgan and Dave Concepcion — will be starting in the All-Star game next Tuesday, with Bench getting more votes than anyone else in the National League.

Heads started to shake sadly when Reds' pitching ace Don Gullett was sidelined with a broken thumb, but even though he was the last Red to pitch a complete game, on June 11, the Reds' bullpen, led by young Will McEnaney, has risen to the occasion.

In fact, the Reds have been able to award their late-inning relief help with victories. This season, the Reds are 9-3 in extra-inning contests and have not lost in five extra-inning affairs since June 1.

"These sleepers are waltzing," said Phillies slugger Greg Luzinski after his team had just been swept in three straight by the Reds. "The way they're going, they'll have it wrapped up by next month. I'm glad to get out of here."

Miller Defending Riviera Title

By GEORGE STRODE
AP Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ray Volpe, their admiring new commissioner, watched the players on the Ladies Professional Golf Association in an official capacity for the first time today.

"They can play golf. From an avid 25 handicapper's view, it's nice to see all those good, graceful swings," said Volpe, hired this week as a replacement for the fired E.M. "Bud" Erickson.

Volpe met with the LPGA members Thursday before they teed off today in this $65,000 tour stop at Riviera Country Club.

Sharon Miller was defending her title against 17 other pros and three amateurs. First prize is $9,200.

During a press conference Thursday, both LPGA President Carol Mann and Volpe expressed interest in a proposed men's-women's tournament.

"I'd be in favor of it to increase our exposure," said Miss Mann of the event in the talking stage for March 1976.

"I'm going to meet with Deane Beman (the men's commissioner) as soon as possible. I'll discuss it with him. The concept is very appealing," said Volpe.

Plans for the unique event would have one man and one woman playing on a team. They would alternate shots, posting only one stroke score.

With the exception of all-time money-winner Kathy Whitworth, the game's big names were on hand for the 54-hole Riviera tournament. All of the top 10 1975 money-winners were on hand.

The par-72 course has been shortened 200 yards from last year. Because of the move, most of the field predicted it would take a lower score than Miss Miller's 211 in 1974.

"The greens are in such good shape, you can hit the ball right at the pin," said JoAnne Carner, bidding for her fourth victory in her last seven LPGA tournaments.

"This is not a good course for me though. It's wide open and I tend to let my tee shots fly. The course favors the aggressive iron player, such as Judy Rankin or Sandra Haynie," added Mrs. Garner.

Richardson Fired By Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Spec Richardson, general manager of the Houston Astros for the past eight years, has been swallowed up by one of a series of tremors rumbling through the Astros organization that Judge Roy Hofheinz built.

Sidney L. Shlenker, appointed Wednesday night as president of the Houston Sports Association, which owns the Astros, called a news conference Thursday afternoon to fire Richardson, a focal point of fan criticism this season.

Shlenker told the hastily called news conference that firing Richardson was a difficult decision "but recent poor team results caused such action to be necessary."

The decision to fire Richardson was another move in the HSA's reorganizational plans in recent weeks.

Richardson was criticized mainly for his handling of trades that failed to help the Astros during his years as general manager.

One of Richardson's most criticized trades came in 1972 when he traded second baseman Joe Morgan, pitcher Jack Billingham, outfielder Cesar Geronimo, infielder Denis Menke and outfielder Ed Armbrister to Cincinnati for first baseman Lee May, second baseman Tommy Helms and outfielder Jimmy Stewart.

Morgan, Billingham and Geronimo have played key roles for Cincinnati since the trade. Stewart has retired, May was traded to Baltimore last season and Helms has not played much this season.

A Good Briefing On Space Event

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Millions of words already have been written about next Tuesday's historic joint space flight of American astronauts and Russian cosmonauts.

But if you'd like a concise, well-organized video briefing on what it's all about and how it came about, tune in ABC's "Union in Space" documentary this Sunday night.

Reported by Jules Bergman, it's an uncommonly thorough, yet easy-to-understand study of what has been called a mission of "high-flying detente" between the Soviet Union and the United States.

The first part uses Soviet and American film clips to illustrate the start of the great space race of the two countries, which began in October 1957 with Russia's launching of the Sputnik satellite.

It goes from there to a well-edited recap of the successes and failures of both countries in space, following that up with how next Tuesday's Apollo-Soyuz flight got started in the first place.

There also are fascinating glimpses of the history, technology and major figures of Russia's manned space program, plus quick, often humorous looks at American astronauts in Russia and Russian cosmonauts training here.

But Bergman, a veteran space flight reporter for ABC, doesn't get carried away by the euphoria accompanying the new spirit of Soviet-American cooperation.

He somberly reminds that even with the new spirit, there's still "tight discipline and secrecy" surrounding Russia's space program.

For example, he says that even though the Russians say their launch site is at the Baikonur Cosmodrome, 1,400 miles southeast of Moscow, "that turns out, as many of us suspected, to be just not true."

"Baikonur, in fact, is a city 135 miles away from the real launch site at Tyuratam," he says, adding that the Russians weren't even going to let America's astronauts look at the launch site until mission commander Tom Stafford "laid down the law — declaring, 'If we don't see it, we don't fly the mission.'"

Even though the Russians gave in, they let the American astronauts look only at the Soyuz launch area and nowhere else, he says.

In the closing part of the show, Bergman doesn't speculate on whether Russia ever will ease its tight secrecy, but he does think next week's flight will lead to more — "if this mission succeeds."

Acting Head Of Institute

CLINTON, N.C. (AP) — Robert G. Smith, assistant to the president of the state community college system, has been named acting president of Sampson Technical Institute.

Smith was named Thursday in Raleigh by the state Board of Education to replace Dr. James E. Vann, who was fired

Wednesday night by the institute's board of trustees. Vann, who had served as president of the institute since its creation in 1965, had come under increasing pressure following the release of two state audits documenting that school enrollment figures were inflated. Enrollment figures are used to determine state funding for technical institutes, and to a certain degree, the salary of the institute's president.

Dr. Ben E. Fountain Jr., president of the community college system, said that Smith will not become the permanent president.

He added that he is still recommending that a special task force be named to investigate administrative problems at the institute. The state Board of Education has not acted on that request.

The Sampson Board of Trustees has not renewed contracts of any institute employees, prompting speculation that additional firings may be forthcoming. All personnel contracts expired June 30. Dr. Vann said Thursday he has "no malice, only pity" for the trustees who fired him.

He added that he has three "excellent job opportunities" open to him. He would not elaborate except to say that they are all in North Carolina and in higher education.

When the U.S. government enacted the first conscription act, there were draft riots in New York in 1863.

New N.C. Auto Insurance Rating Plan Unveiled

SUPER TANKER—The 11,000-foot, 264,000-ton Howard W. Bell, too large to dock anywhere in the U.S., transfers oil to the 784-foot Howard C. Vesper, halfway between Pompano Beach, Fla., and the Grand Bahamas. Oil has never been taken off a VLCC—a very large crude carrier—in these waters. The operation, which began Wednesday, will deliver the oil in four once-a-week trips to a Standard Oil Co. refinery depot in Perth Amboy, N.J. Both ships are owned by Chevron Shipping. (AP Wirephoto)

RALEIGH (AP)—A new rating plan for auto insurance was unveiled Thursday that will lower the cost of insurance for some drivers—particularly young men—and raise the cost for others—primarily those with accidents or violations.

The plan was worked up by the North Carolina Automobile Insurance Rate Administrative Office, an organization representing about 200 insurance companies. The plan must be approved by Insurance Commissioner John Ingram and is scheduled to take effect Sept. 2.

Under a law passed by the 1975 General Assembly, age and sex cannot be used as factors in setting auto insurance rates. What a driver pays will be determined by use of the car, experience and his driving record.

The basic rate for minimum liability coverage would be about $75 a year—a little more than it is now. A surcharge of about $40 will be put on any driver with less than two years experience, regardless of sex or age.

Reaping the greatest benefit from the new plan will be males under the age of 25. Now, they are charged as much as $250 a year even if they have a clean record for seven or eight years.

On the other hand, females in the 16-18 age group will pay the surcharge for inexperience where under the current system they pay no more than an adult for coverage.

Adult drivers with clean records probably would see little change in rates. But, a chargeable accident causing at least $200 in damage will result in higher rates as will traffic tickets.

Under the current system, drivers don't face increased insurance cost if convicted of minor violations such as failing to yield the right-of-way or running a stop sign. Under the new law, those tickets will force rates up.

One industry representative said "an awful lot of people will be surcharged who haven't been in the past."

The surcharge will be based on the driver's record over the previous three years when he buys or renews insurance.

The plan isn't final yet. Another hearing will be held on it July 22, Ingram, who pushed the new system through the legislature, said he wouldn't comment on the industry proposal until after the hearing.

Here are a few examples of how the plan will work if adopted as proposed:

—A driver with one accident also convicted of illegal passing and failure to yield the right-of-way now pays about $106 but would pay almost $180 under the new plan.

—A convicted drunken driver would pay more than $280 rather than the current $192 for minimum liability.

—An over-25 driver caught speeding less than 55 miles per hour would pay $95 rather than $80 and two convictions would raise it to $116 rather than $92.

—Speeding between 55 and 75 m.p.h. would result in a rate of $116 rather than $80 and two such convictions in a three-year span would mean a rate of $158 instead of $92.

—Running a stop sign one time would mean a charge of $95 instead of the current $70 and doing it twice would jump the insurance cost to $241 where now the cost would be only $154. Two convictions of passing a stopped school bus would have the same price.

—A 16-year-old girl with a clean record now pays $70 for coverage but under the plan she'd pay $106.

—Ramming into another car and causing more than $200 damage would raise a person's rate to $116 rather than the current $92. Doing it a second time in three years would jump the rate to $158; it would be $115 now.

Porguguese Socialists Drop Out Of Cabinet In Protest

By STEPHENS BROENING

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portugal's largest political party, the Socialists, quit the coalition cabinet today after the country's leftist military rulers took over publication of the party newspaper.

A spokesman for the centrist Popular Democratic party, which with the Socialists took two-thirds of the votes in the April 25 constitutional assembly elections, said the party sympathized with the Socialists but would not automatically follow them out of the government.

Popular Democrat leaders asked for an urgent meeting with President Francisco da Costa Gomes to see if they could patch up the crisis, which threatens to end the facade of public representation in the military-controlled government.

The Socialists had two ministers in the 20-man cabinet. But they and the other non-Communist civilian ministers had no voice in the policy of the military regime. This is set by the officers of the Armed Forces Movement, who overthrew the fascist dictatorship nearly 15 months ago, and its politburo, the Revolutionary Council. The military is also in complete control of the government administration.

The Socialists quit after the party newspaper Republica, closed eight weeks ago after its Communist printers occupied the newspaper plant, resumed publication Thursday with an army officer as editor and the printers in control.

A Socialist statement, describing freedom of the press as a crucial issue, said the party's leaders "decided that cabinet ministers and secretaries of state immediately cease their functions in the government."

Party leader Mario Soares was a minister without portfolio and Francisco Salgado Zenha was justice minister. The statement said they would not return to the government unless the newspaper was restored to the party's control.

The first edition of Republica under its new management said it was now "an independent newspaper free of party tutelage which will effectively serve the interests of the Portuguese people and the working class in particular."

Says 'Victimized' By Subordinates

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — John R. Bartels is telling senators he did a good job as head of the drug enforcement administration but was victimized by unreliable subordinates who went over his head when their performance was questioned.

"The American people now have what I believe is the mistaken impression that this agency is the bubonic plague of law enforcement," said Bartels who was fired at the height of the controversy.

He was scheduled to return today for further testimony before the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee, which is probing allegations that Bartels impeded an agency investigation of Vincent Promuto, DEA's former public relations director.

In a memo delivered to DEA last September by Washington police, Promuto, a former guard for the Washington Redskins professional football team, was alleged to have been seen often in the company of underworld figures.

An investigation was begun, and in early November, Andrew Targalino, DEA's acting deputy administrator, and George Brosan, the acting chief inspector, complained to Bartels' Justice Department superiors that the investigation was being impeded.

Bartels testified that accusation was made immediately after the completion of a report highly critical of the operations of Brosan's inspection division.

Bartels said that in the Promuto case, he was trying to be fair but was not blocking the investigation.
