Ford Will Ask Congress To Wipe Out Oil Price Controls

By RICHARD E. LERNER

CHICAGO (UPI) — President Ford said Saturday he will ask a skeptical Democratic Congress next week to wipe out price controls on U.S. crude oil, a move that could boost retail gasoline prices between 4 and 11 cents a gallon.

Calling his plan responsible and well-timed, Ford said it would reduce reliance on foreign oil by letting higher prices stimulate domestic production — without causing a "precipitous rise" in consumer gasoline costs.

In a regionally televised news conference, Ford said he would go along with an extension of the present price control law, which expires Aug. 31, as long as it gave him some flexibility. But he made clear he would view such an extension as a temporary expedient.

About 40 per cent of America's domestic oil production is considered "old oil," produced from wells that were drilled before 1972, and sells for a controlled price of $5.25 a barrel. Removing price controls would let oil from such wells be sold at the world market price, now about $13 a barrel.

Administration plans call for decontrol to take place over two years. That represents a compromise between the original administration goal of immediate decontrol and congressional pressures for a more gradual program.

Latest Federal Energy Administration calculations show gasoline is selling for a national average of 57.5 cents a gallon. Some congressional energy experts predict decontrol would push gas prices up by about 4 cents a gallon, but oil industry officials have said the increase could be from 8 to 11 cents.

Ford held his news conference during a three-day Midwestern swing billed by the White House as non-political. The trip, Ford's first since he announced his candidacy, also featured a commencement address at Chicago State University and a conference with Illinois Republican leaders.

In response to questions, the President also said:

—He does not think his administration has suffered any failures. Its successes, he said, include a restoration of "public confidence in the White House," a slower rate of inflation, strengthened ties with NATO, disengagement in Vietnam and the Mayaguez incident.

—He was pleased by news of the safe release of U.S. Army Col. Ernest Morgan, abducted 13 days ago in Beirut. He said "our representative in Lebanon worked very closely with the Government of Lebanon ... to make sure Col. Morgan was returned."

— The GOP convention will determine whether Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller is on the party's ticket in 1976, "just as they will decide whether I will be the candidate in 1976." He said both he and Rockefeller will be campaigning for convention delegates.

— He is not prepared to discuss broadening Richard M. Nixon's Watergate pardon to cover the former President's recent grand jury testimony. Ford said the pardon "was the right decision at the time and otherwise I don't think I should speculate on something that hasn't taken place and may not take place."

— He does not know personally of any Central Intelligence Agency agents now working under cover at the White House.

Palestinian Guerrillas Release Colonel Morgan

By MICHAEL ROSS

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Palestinian guerrillas who kidnaped U.S. Army Col. Ernest R. Morgan 13 days earlier freed him unharmed Saturday, dropping him at the doorstep of Lebanon's premier three hours before he was due to die.

Morgan, looking tired but healthy, declared: "It's nice to be back home."

The kidnapers, who had threatened to kill Morgan at 2 p.m. EDT, said they released him because he had confessed to being a spy and because the United States had paid their ransom.

Morgan denied he was a spy and the U.S. Embassy denied it paid his ransom.

Morgan told newsmen he had been treated well and had even developed a fondness for the Arabic food his kidnapers fed him.

"The food was great but I'm not a spy like they charged," he said.

The 43-year-old officer from Petersburg, Va., was dragged from a taxi in a Palestinian-controlled suburb of Beirut June 29 during a stopover on his trip from Pakistan to Turkey.

Twice his abductors sent Morgan's tape recorded remarks to officials and twice they set deadlines for killing him unless their demands were met. The Palestine Liberation Organization tried unsuccessfully to track down the kidnapers and persuade them to free Morgan.

In the second tape, delivered last Thursday, the colonel, who is black, asked the United States not to abandon him because of his race.

The guerrillas had demanded that food be distributed in a Beirut slum wrecked by recent fighting between Moslem and Christian militias and the food giveaway started Friday.

A statement issued by the Socialist Revolutionary Organization—the group that claimed responsibility for Morgan's abduction—said it released him after the American government gave in to its demands.

The statement described Morgan as a spy and said he "was subjected to a thorough interrogation about his activities which covered several parts of the world and he made a total confession."

Asked what he thought of the Palestinians after his experience, Morgan replied: "I want to know more about the Palestinian case. But I am not, as they charged, a spy."

RELEASED BY KIDNAPERS—U.S. Army Col. Ernest R. Morgan, 43, was released Saturday in Beirut by Lebanese Moslem revolutionaries who had held him prisoner for two weeks. (AP Wirephoto)

Soyuz And Apollo Both At Launch Pads

By CHARLES E. TAYLOR

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Russia sent its Soyuz to the launch pad Saturday and America's cool Apollo commander Thomas P. Stafford landed at the spaceport in a thunderstorm proclaiming,—We're in great shape and ready to go" on Tuesday's U.S.-Soviet rendezvous blastoffs.

"I hope we have all the bad weather today. Hope it's not like this next Tuesday," Stafford said after he zoomed into Patrick Air Force Base at 4:40 p.m. EDT through a thick layer of black storm clouds. Rain pattered on his bald head and soaked his yellow flight suit as he talked briefly to newsmen.

Fellow astronauts Vance D. Brand and Donald K. "Deke" Slayton left the Johnson Space Center at Houston in other T38 jet trainers after Stafford to fly to the launch site.

At the Soviet cosmodrome at Baikonur in the Central Asian desert cosmonauts Alexei A. Leonov, a miner's son and colonel in the Red Air Force, and space companion Valeri N. Kubasov, a civilian engineer, were reported in "excellent spirits" as they rehearsed parts of their flight schedule.

Everything was going smoothly in both countries. Even the weather, which has plagued the U.S. launch site here with lightning and gale force wind gusts for a week, showed signs of improving. The long-range forecast for Apollo's 3:50 p.m. EDT takeoff target was for partly cloudy skies and only scattered thunderstorms in the launch area.

At the Soviet cosmodrome at Baikonur in the Central Asian desert, Prof. Konstantin Bushuyev, Russia's technical director, reported that everything was on schedule in preparing the Soyuz spacecraft and its booster rocket. A huge erector raised the 162-foot space machine vertically for flight.

At the launch site here, all was in readiness for start of the final Saturn-Apollo countdown at 10:30 a.m. today.

The Russians will start the unprecedented space show with an 8:20 a.m. EDT takeoff on Tuesday. Brig. Gen. Stafford, Brand and Slayton are due to liftoff from this spaceport 8,670 miles away seven and a half hours later.

85th Tobacco Season Opens On Tuesday

The Greenville Tobacco Market will launch its 85th season on Tuesday morning with auctions scheduled to get underway at 9 a.m.

Greenville joins the 17-market Eastern Tobacco Belt in opening on the earliest date in recent history.

Last year's market opening here on July 22 resulted in a first-day average of $83.45 per hundred pounds as Greenville warehouses handled some 822,268 pounds of tobacco and paid out $686,221.

Traditional opening day ceremonies are scheduled with various visiting tobacco officials expected to be on hand for the first auctions.

Socialists Ousted In Portugal

By NAT GIBSON

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — The military ousted the Socialists from the government and put the army on alert Saturday, plunging Portugal into one of its worst political crises in recent years.

The left-of-center Popular Democrats—the only non-Communist party left in the coalition cabinet—said they would follow the Socialists into open opposition unless the military firmly guarantees the creation of a Western-style democracy.

"There is no possibility of a compromise now," one liberal politician said. "They either want democracy with wide public support or they want a military government with Communist oppression."

Socialist sources said they viewed the military's decision to place its forces on alert as an attempt to intimidate the civilian population.

"They are mad men and getting madder," one Socialist said. "They can't govern. They can only threaten and talk. They have no control over their own troops, much less the country."

The angry denunciations of the military came in the third day of a confrontation sparked by the military's Revolutionary Council handover to left-wing workers of control of the Socialist-oriented newspaper Republica.

South Korea On Emergency Alert

By JAMES KIM

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — South Korea put its entire armed forces on emergency alert Saturday and charged that six North Korean navy vessels violated South Korean waters.

In Panmunjom, meanwhile, the United Nations Command lodged a strong protest with North Korea for a June 30 attack by North Korean soldiers on a U.S. Army major. The Command also demanded that the attackers be punished.

The South Korean government said it had upgraded the alert status of all government workers, including the armed forces, from grade two to grade one.

The move followed an announcement by the Defense Ministry that five North Korean navy craft and a civilian boat crossed the border in the Yellow Sea seven miles north of Paengnyongdo Island and 130 miles west of Seoul Friday afternoon.

The civilian boat approached within two miles of the island but fled north when South Korean troops fired warning shots, the spokesman said. Navy speedboats entered South Korean waters to escort the civilian craft from the scene, he said.

"It is a deliberate intrusion to test our alertness and an act of provocation to create tension," the spokesman said.

"In case of any recurrence of such intrusion, we warn that we will not stop with warning shots but will immediately sink intruders."

The increased state of alert cancels furloughs for most military personnel and schedules more government employes on duty around the clock.

The grade two alert had been effect since last month, the 25th anniversary of the outbreak of the Korean War.

Names Campaign Treasurer

RALEIGH (AP)—Even though he claims he's not a candidate for governor in next year's elections, Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt named a campaign treasurer Friday.

Hunt informed the state Board of Elections of the action and said he just wants to be sure everything is made a public record in the event he seeks the state's highest office. Hunt is considered an almost certain candidate.

Dr. Vincent Thomas of Wilson was named to the post. Thomas, an optometrist, was treasurer in Hunt's 1972 campaign for lieutenant governor.

Deputy Wounded

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—A Forsyth County sheriff's deputy was shot Friday night as he drove up to his home in nearby Pfafftown and surprised a thief who had broken into his small sports car.

Deputy John Bell, 29, was hit once, by a bullet from a .25 caliber revolver the assailant had found in the car. Bell, wounded in the left arm below the elbow, got on the radio of his patrol car and said in calling for help, "He shot me with my own gun."

Bell was taken to Forsyth Memorial Hospital, which listed him as in satisfactory condition.

While calling for help he was able to provide a description of his assailant, a stocky man.

Rescue Man Injured

KINGS MOUNTAIN, N.C. (UPI) — Ned Bridges, 27, a member of the Kings Mountain Rescue Squad, was struck and seriously injured early Saturday by a hit-and-run driver as he directed traffic during a power outage.

Bridges was listed in unsatisfactory condition at Charlotte Memorial Hospital and the driver was still being sought Saturday.

Youth Arrested

ROXBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Theodore Rocell Poole, 19, of Roxboro, has been arrested by FBI agents and charged with aiding and abetting the Nov. 20, 1974, robbery of a Merchants and Farmers bank at Charlotte.

An FBI spokesman said Saturday that Poole was arrested here late Friday and was being held in lieu of $100,000 bond at Durham County jail.

$54 Million Highway Contracts Awarded

RALEIGH (AP)—Because impounded federal funds had been released this year, the state Transportation Board awarded Friday contracts worth more than $54 million, one of the largest awards on record.

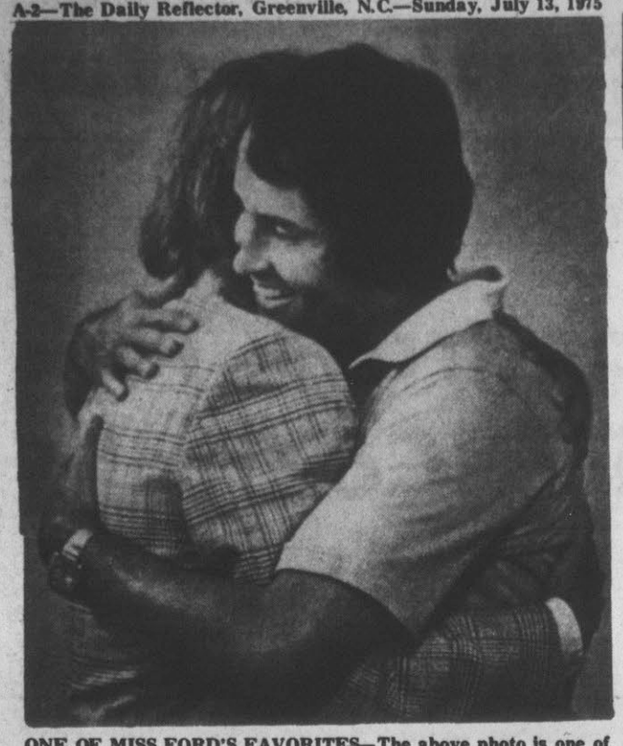
The award would have been larger but the board voted to reject the low bid for a key section of Interstate 95 in the Rocky Mount area. The bid of $10.25 million was for a 5.8-mile section of I-95 in Wilson and Nash counties. The bid was 12.2 per cent over the $9.1 million estimate by Department of Transportation engineers.

Highway Administrator Billy Rose told the board that the bid was realistic. He said the engineering estimate was impractical because of new geological information.

The panel still refused to award the contract. That section of the highway will run through a swampy area which will require extensive filling.

New bids will be sought for the project, causing a delay of at least six weeks.

Among projects winning approval were another segment of I-95, the Sanford bypass, U.S. 70 relocation in Craven County and work on the proposed extension of the Raleigh Beltline.



ONE OF MISS FORD'S FAVORITES—The above photo is one of five photos that were published in the Feature Fare of the Friday edition of the Topeka Capital-Journal that were shot by Susan Ford, the 18 year-old daughter of the President and Mrs. Gerald Ford. Scout Funds Redirected To Help The Poor

NASHVILLE (AP)—Nashville Area United Way officials have ordered Boy Scouts executives in Middle Tennessee to redirect $20,000 of their UGF requests to help poor children.

The order from the community chest organization came as a spokesman for the Middle Tennessee scouting council said council Executive Director Ward Akers and his wife, also employed by the council, have agreed to take a paid leave of absence pending a review of the scouting operations.

The investigation follows disclosure by Nashville newspapers that Akers is paid $44,500 annually and three members of his family, including his wife, receive an additional $24,100 from the scouting organization.

The scouting program relies heavily on volunteer help and receives about 10 per cent of the United Way funds raised each year. But Sam J. Friedman, United Way chairman here, said support of scouting by his organization has increased only about 7 per cent since 1968, from $112,000 to $119,839.

At the same time, Friedman said, United Way support for all agencies, depending on its fund drive, has increased about 50 per cent.

He added, however, there was a 13 per cent reduction, or about $15,000, in United Way support for scouting following what he called a scrutiny of the budget.

The newspaper stories about the Boy Scout salaries were part of a continuing look at local charitable organizations and their funds.

Following publication of a story in The Nashville Banner last spring about salaries and expenses of United Cerebral Palsy of Middle Tennessee, three top officials of that agency were dismissed.

The story also resulted in cancellation by WSM-TV of the annual Cerebral Palsy Telethon, a fund-raising program solely for that agency.

Warrants charging three UCP officials or former officials with larceny were filed this week by Dist. Atty. Tom Shriver.

Two Wrecks Investigated

Two wrecks investigated by Greenville Police Friday involved $1,250 in total estimated damages.

Heaviest damage occurred when cars driven by Lucy Davis Carr of 1217 Ebron St. and Ben Joseph Norfleet of 806 Vance St. collided at the intersection of Atlantic Avenue and S. Alley Street. Damage was estimated at $475 to the Carr auto and $275 to Norfleet's vehicle. Norfleet was charged with failure to yield right of way.

A 10:49 a.m. accident in the Bus Station parking lot involved cars driven by Beverly Charlene Phelph of Tarboro and Luke Jamon Piner of Holly Ridge. Damage was estimated at $300 to the Phelph car and $200 to Piner's auto. No charges were filed, according to police.

Three Arrested

A Greenville resident was charged with assault with a deadly weapon by Greenville Police in a 4:30 a.m. Saturday incident. Melvin L. Johnson, 18, 124 Greenway Apartments was arrested in the incident and placed under $200 bail, according to police reports.

Charles Mack Simpkins of Lot 8, Paris Ave., was arrested Friday night by Greenville

Also arrested Saturday morning was Samuel Lewis Daniels, 21, of 430 W. Third St. He was charged with damage to property and placed under $100 bail, according to police reports.

Police and charged with trespassing at the Municipal Swimming Pool on Myrtle Street. He was placed under $100 bail.

Charged With Homicide

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A 57-year-old man has been charged with reckless homicide in connection with a hotel fire that killed nine people.

Roy Jennings Beard of Portland was being held without bail for arraignment Monday after his arrest on Friday.

Saturday Accident

An estimated $350 damage occurred in a Saturday morning accident investigated by Greenville Police. A car driven by Arthur Lee Whichard of 1907-A Kennedy Circle collided with a parked car on Kennedy Circle. Police estimated damage at $250 to Whichard's car and $100 to the parked car owned by Mary Welder Moore. No charges were filed.

Energy Label Bill Passed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill that would require automobiles and major household appliances to bear a label giving their estimated annual cost for energy has been passed by the Senate.

The measure, approved 77-0 Friday and sent to the House, would apply to all products consuming on the average more than 200 kilowatts of electricity a year or 2 million BTUs of fuel.

Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, said hearings by the Senate Commerce Committee revealed that similar products often vary by up to 40 or 50 per cent in energy efficiency.

The bill provides that the Federal Trade Commission would determine whether the operating cost estimates should vary from region to region because of differences in the amount of usage.

200 Killed In Angola

LUANDA, Angola (AP) — Authorities say 200 persons have been killed in fighting involving three rival African liberation movements in this west African territory.

Friday's clashes were the worst since the liberation groups agreed last month in Kenya to cease hostilities and cooperate to prepare for independence from Portugal on Nov. 11.

The fighting eased later Friday but sporadic gunfire continued in the black suburbs of Luanda, capital of the mineral-rich territory.

Viet Death Sentence

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A South Vietnamese man found guilty of plotting against the new Communist regime has been sentenced to death by a public tribunal attended by 10,-000 people, Saigon radio said today.

Sentencing of Le Nhat Thanh in the Mekong Delta province of Chau Doc occurred July 4, the radio said. It called him "a henchman" of the former regime and said he "committed many crimes in the past... collected guns and weapons with his friends with the aim of resisting the revolutionary authorities."

Sugar Prices Up

NEW YORK (AP) For the second time this week, major sugar refiners have announced new increases in the wholesale price of grocery sugar.

The increases mean that in some areas, wholesale prices are outpacing the retail cost of sugar already on grocery shelves. But the situation is not expected to get as bad for consumers as during last year's sugar price explosion.

Accuses Schlesinger

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda today accused U.S. Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger of gearing Pentagon policy to consider use of nuclear weapons in any critical situation.

The comment by the official Communist party organ came a day after Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko reported making progress in narrowing differences over the course of strategic arms limitation talks.

20 Years, Then Elvis

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — A crowd of 10,000 West Virginians returned to the 1950s Friday night, fleeing with their memories to the days of bobbysocks, D.A.'s and rock.

Twenty years after swiveling into Americana, Elvis Presley finally got around to West Virginia. And West Virginians found that, while the wait had been a long one, it had been worthwhile.

Protest To Mrs. Gandhi

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Milwaukee Journal Editor Richard H. Leonard Saturday sent a telegram to Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India protesting treatment of American reporters in India.

Leonard is chairman of the International Communication Committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, whose president, Warren H. Phillips, also signed the telegram.

Japan To Buy PC3 Orions

TOKYO (AP) — Japan has decided to buy Lockheed PC3 Orion anti-submarine aircraft for its self-defense Navy, Japanese newspaper reports said today quoting government sources.

A decision on the date of purchase is to be made in August, but delivery would not begin for several years, they said.

Nudity Not A Right

BOSTON (AP) — "The personal right to bathe in the nude ... is not of such significance that it can be considered a fundamental right," said a federal judge in upholding a ban on skinny-dipping at the Cape Cod National Seashore.

In his ruling, U.S. District Court Judge Frank H. Freedman said Friday that although some areas of the seashore have traditionally been used by nude bathers, an increase in the number of people attracted there was causing environmental problems.

Wants To Return

FT. CHAFFEE, Ark. (UPI) — Thirty-two former Cambodian military officers who say they miss their families and their country want to go home, despite what they have heard about conditions there.

Arne Torgersen, a representative of the United Nations High Commission for Refugees, said the officers are the only ones of about 2,000 Cambodians in refugee relocation centers in the United States who have requested repatriation.

Mt. Baker Build-up

MOUNT BAKER, Wash. (AP) — A government scientist says the amount of sulfurous fumes spewing out of Mt. Baker has increased sharply in recent months and that there are indications of an increasing buildup of heat within the now-dormant volcano.

Captures Suspect

SHREVEPORT, La. (UPI) — Police and FBI agents Saturday captured a suspect in the $1 million jewel robbery of a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., art gallery and recovered a pile of gems estimated to be worth $500,000.

The defendant had more than a score of aliases but was arraigned under the name Edward Richard Jones, 32, and jailed in lieu of $40,000 bond on a charge of interstate tranportation of stolen goods.

CIA Denies Spying On Other Agencies

PLEADING FOR HELP—Martin Bauer, an employe of International Creative Management, and an unidentified woman plead for help after an electrical fire in a midtown Manhattan skyscraper trapped them amid smoke and flames Friday. By JANE DENISON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The embattled Central Intelligence Agency has acknowledged it sends employes to work in other federal agencies including the White House but denies this means it is spying on government activities.

In a rare public statement issued late Friday, the CIA specifically denied it had planted Alexander P. Butterfield in Richard Nixon's White House. While Butterfield had special intelligence clearances, the CIA said, he never worked for the agency "in any capacity."

The agency said it did detail employes to other agencies but said this by no means meant "penetration" or "infiltration," since the heads of the agencies knew about it.

Butterfield — H.R. Haldeman's back-up man in the Nixon White House who told the Senate Watergate Committee about the tapes that led to Nixon's downfall — has become the focal point of the latest controversy surrounding CIA domestic activities.

Retired Air Force Col. Fletcher Prouty touched it off when he said he had been told Butterfield was the CIA's "contact man" at the White House. Both the White House and congressional investigators said they had no evidence that was true.

The charge was also denied by Butterfield's wife. Butterfield himself, a former Air Force colonel who quit under fire earlier this year as head of the Federal Aviation Administration, remained unavailable for comment.

Prouty said the CIA has "thousands" of contacts throughout government. A secret 1973 CIA report revealed that for many years, employes have been detailed to various agencies as the need for their expertise arises, including "the White House and to components associated with the office of the President."

But the CIA said these employes were merely loaned out and always with the knowledge of superiors in the borrowing agencies.

One such employe apparently was a secretary who worked for former White House aide and Commerce Secretary Peter G. Peterson while remaining on the CIA payroll. The Washington Post said the woman, identified as Mary M. Wengrzynek, insisted she didn't tell the agency of Peterson's activities.

"I swear to God I didn't report back to the CIA," the Post quoted her as saying.

Argentine President Reshuffles Cabinet

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Labor and political leaders said Saturday President Maria Estela (Isabel) Peron's massive reshuffling of her cabinet has done little to solve the country's problems.

Antonio Troccoli, a leader of the opposition Radical party, said the changes in the government expressed "very little about the rectifications we were looking for."

An official of the powerful General Confederation of Labor called the changes "more a reshuffling of men than of policy."

Mrs. Peron, responding to mounting pressure from millions of workers, opposition leaders and critics in her own Peronist party, Friday reshuffled four places in her eight-member cabinet.

She dumped powerful Social Welfare Minister Jose Lopez Rega, her close confidante and personal secretary, and a major opposition target.

But she retained Economy Minister Celestino Rodrigo, whose economic austerity program provoked a storm of protest that led to a two-day general strike last week.

The reconfirmation of Rodrigo over stiff worker pressure provoked strong protests from from both labor and political leaders.

Trocolli said Rodrigo's retention was "like keeping a burning coal in the hand."

The National Meeting of Argentines, a coalition of leftist political parties, called the decision to keep Rodrigo "a mockery and an offense to...all of the country."

Congressman Alberto E. Stecco, a union spokesman and a member of Mrs. Peron's own Peronist party, said "Rodrigo should not remain one day more in the economic leadership" of the nation.

Peronist party Congressman Jesus Porto Thursday introduced impeachment proceedings against Rodrigo in the Chamber of Deputies, accusing him of malfeasance in office for his economic program.

The program sought a 38 per cent ceiling on salary raises. Argentina's inflation has reached a rate of 110 per cent per year.

A two-day nationwide general strike to protest the plan ended when Mrs. Peron backed off her tough stand, authorizing wage increases averaging 100 per cent for all industries.

Peace Plan May Involve Use Of American Troops

By RICHARD H. GROWALD
UPI Senior Editor

LONDON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger talked with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin Saturday about a possible Israeli-Egyptian peace plan involving stationing some U.S. troops in the Sinai desert, a senior U.S. official aboard Kissinger's plane said.

Kissinger and Rabin met for almost four hours near Bonn, West Germany, and the Israeli pronounced himself sufficiently satisfied to be able to fly home Saturday night to see if his cabinet will approve such an interim peace plan.

The secretary stopped in London briefly for an airport meeting with British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan before flying back to Washington Saturday night.

Aboard Kissinger's plane, the senior U.S. official said one matter discussed with Rabin was the use of American technology —probably including a small number of men—to provide an early warning system in the Sinai desert between Egyptian and Israeli forces.

A stumbling block in efforts to reach a settlement has been Israel's fears about having proper military alert facilities. Egypt wants Israel to withdraw from at least the key military Gidi and Mitla passes in the Sinai—seized in the 1967 war.

At their meeting at Castle Gymnich, outside Bonn, Rabin said his ambassador to the United States, Simcha Dinitz, would take word of cabinet decisions on the peace diplomacy back to Washington.

If the Israelis agree to proceed—now that they are armed with "various clarifications" supplied Rabin by Kissinger—the next step would be to sound out the Egyptians.

Renewed Fighting In Lebanon

BEIRUT (UPI) — Renewed fighting between Christians and Moslems erupted along a main highway south of the Lebanese capital Saturday night, Beirut Radio said. Gunfire could also be heard in at least once section of the city.

The radio report said heavy fighting broke out after dark between three rival Christian and Moslem villages 15 miles south of Beirut along the Beirut-Sidon highway.

Witnesses said heavy machinegun fire and several explosions could be heard between the villages of Naameh, Damour and Haret Al-Naameh.

Lebanese security forces intervened to stem the clash, which apparently following an argument between a bus driver and a policeman who was giving him a ticket. The Radio said the highway was "unsafe" and warned motorists coming into Beirut from Sidon to turn back.

A brief exchange of machinegun fire was also heard in Tarik Jedideh, a mixed Palestinian and Moslem section of Beirut, witnesses said.

Tobacco Sales

RALEIGH (AP)—The Flue-Cured Tobacco Stabilization Corp. bought 56.6 per cent of the flue-cured tobacco sold during the first two days of sales this week on markets of the South Carolina-Border North Carolina Belt as it sought to bolster sagging prices, the Federal State Market News Service reported Saturday.

The stabilization cooperative operates the government price support program for flue-cured tobacco. Its purchases this year compare with the 23.4 per cent it purchased during the first week of the sales season last year.

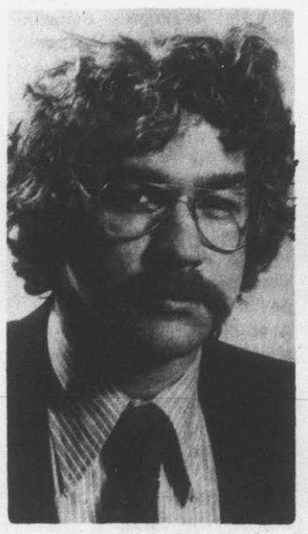
The news service reported that because of higher support prices, grade averages were $4 to $6 higher for most lugs and primings. It said demand was slow and overall quality was down as compared with opening sales last year.

Sales for the two days totaled 11.7 million pounds and averaged $84.46. This compared with 21.9 million pounds sold at a $81.74 average during opening week last year.

Ronald Gollobin Joins WCVB-TV In Boston

BOSTON—Ronald Gollobin, award-winning investigative reporter, has joined the news staff at WCVB-TV (Channel 5). News Director Larry Pickard announced the appointment.

Gollobin joins veteran investigative reporter Mike Taibbi in "The Investigator's" segment on WCVB-TV's new hour-long news. Since coming to Boston, Gollobin has uncovered a suit filed against Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Donald Alexander by six IRS agents. They protested the proposed ruling that all IRS informants be identified.



Ronald Gollobin

Gollobin, a native of Elizabeth, N.C., began his journalism career with the Greenville (N.C.) Daily Reflector following his 1967 graduation from East Carolina University in Greenville. In 1968 he joined the Norfolk (Va.) Ledger-Star as a general assignment reporter, and subsequently became an investigative reporter at the New Brunswick (N.J.) Home News in 1971. There he won several awards, including a nomination for a Pulitzer prize and the New Jersey Press Association Public Service Award in 1972. Among his prize-winning articles was a bank fraud series, which led to the indictment and jailing of two bank presidents and the disbarment of an attorney.

Gollobin studied at Harvard on a Nieman Fellowship in 1973-74. Prior to joining Channel 5, he worked briefly as an investigative reporter for the Trenton (N.J.) Evening Times.

Military Has Control Of Kenyan Government

By RAYMOND WILKINSON

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Uganda President Idi Amin Saturday reshuffled his cabinet, giving the military effective control of the government for the first time in the country's history.

Diplomatic observers said five new cabinet appointments made by Amin reflected the president's disenchantment with civilian rule and his desire to concentrate power in the hands of close allies following recent reports of coup plots.

Four of the new appointments went to military officers—giving them eight of 13 senior cabinet posts.

Diplomats said the appointments gave the military effective control of the government for the first time since the former British colony became independent in 1962.

Woman Will Not Fight Return To Stand Trial

GASTONIA, N.C, (A)—A woman charged with kidnaping a Belmont taxi driver and helping hijack a plane to Cuba says she won't fight return to Gastonia to face trial.

She is 23-year-old Dianne Vivian McKinney, who was arrested in New York City two days ago upon her return to the United States after five years in Cuba.

She had her 4-year-old son with her. She said the father is 31-year old Ira David Meeks, who allegedly hijacked the plane with her, and who remains in Cuba.

An aunt of Miss McKinney, Mrs. Rasa Ann Wilson of Gastonia, who practically raised her, says, "Dianne wasn't mixed up in that hijacking at all. I don't know what happened, but I know she hardly knew that Meeks boy. And they're going to find out she didn't have anything to do with it."

The aunt says Dianne knew Meeks only a short time, and in fact had an engagement ring from another fellow.

Utilities Public Hearing Set

RALEIGH (AP)—The possibility of making electric power rates higher or lower in accordance with demand at different times of day will be studied by the North Carolina Utilities Commission at a public hearing next Dec.16.

In setting the hearing today, the commission directed Carolina Power & Light Co., Virginia Electric & Power Co. and Duke Power Co. to file affidavits by Sept. 19 giving their positions concerning peak-load pricing, time-of-day metering, conservation, and load management.

The commission invited any person, consumer group, business or industry desiring to participate in the hearing to file position statements by Oct. 17.

A pre-hearing conference was called for Nov. 6.

The 1975 Genderal Assembly ordered the Utilities Commission to study the feasibility of making electric power rates higher at times of peak use and lower at times of little use, such as late at night.

Conservative View Expectable

The East Carolina Medical School is hardly funded by the State Legislature before it makes headlines once again around the state.

This time there were sources quoted as saying that consultants representing the American Medical Association and the Association of Medical Colleges had said that the schedule for developing the school was too tight. The sources said the first entering class might be delayed from the fall of 1976.

This latest round of publicity is one big ho-hum to us. The consultants visited Greenville and then met with various officials in Chapel Hill on a very preliminary basis. The new dean of the school, Dr. William E. Laupus, has barely begun his duties and it is really impossible for anyone to tell right at this point just how rapidly the various construction programs, faculty recruitment and all the other phases of the school's development will proceed.

We would expect the consultants to be conservative in their views of the development schedule on their first preliminary visit. It is, after all, up to the people directly charged with the school's development to show that adequate progress has been made when the consultants next visit the campus. By that time renovation of Ragsdale could be well underway and the new Pitt Memorial Hospital could be nearing completion. With some luck and given the fact that developing a new medical school is challenging, employing a qualified faculty could be well along.

What is most important now is that the new dean and other officials be given the time and support to do the job that they have been hired for. It will be fine if we can move along and begin the first class in 1976. If it turns out that the consultants are not convinced that is possible, then the schedule will be changed. The paramount thing is that a soundly based medical school be developed. It can't be anything but first class. We would like to see teaching resumed in the medical school as soon as possible, but we will all just have to wait and see how the work progresses over the months ahead.

"Aha! Caught you in the nick of time, didn't we, Mr. Runaway Inflation?"

Lands Sold To 'Outsiders'

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—A survey of land ownership in 10 western North Carolina counties shows profound changes brought about by the surge of recreational development during recent years.

Ownership patterns developed from records in the Register of Deeds in each county showed the amount of land owned non-locally increased by 26 percent between 1968 and 1973.

The amount of land owned by out-of-state interests jumped almost 50 per cent, while land ownership generally was becoming more and more concentrated into fewer hands.

Owners of large tracts—over 200 acres—increased holdings by 41 per cent, as land passed from local control to out-of-town and out-of-state interests.

One conclusion reached by the Office of State Planning and the North Carolina Public Interest Research Group which were jointly involved in the study was that local governments tend to lose control over developments carried out by the large, out-of-state groups.

A surprising by-product of the study: mountain counties find their local economies aided very little by the recreational developments.

The second home and tourist industries provided only about seven or eight per cent of the local jobs in counties surveyed, and those locally hired people generally got low salaried jobs while the high paying jobs went to people imported by the out-of-state developers.

Youth Division

One of the first steps planned by the Commission of Youth Services in the Department of Human Resources will be regional public hearings and a survey of the agencies' 685 employees to help determine the needs and directions for treatment of delinquent youngsters.

Effective this month, juvenile treatment is separated from the Corrections Department and its prisons system, and is a division in Human Resources.

The transfer affects about 917 residents at six training schools and two diagnostic centers.

Officials say a long-range plan for shifts in dealing with delinquent youths should result from the public hearings and survey.

Another Candidate

In a listing of the many candidates for the office of Lieutenant governor in this space recently, an announced contender from Murfreesboro was inadvertently omitted.

With somewhere between 16 and 20 Democrats studying the race, E. Frank Stephenson, Jr., is among the first to formally declare his intention to run.

Stephenson, 35, is director of admissions at Chowan College in Murfreesboro, and was born and raised on a farm in Maney's Neck in Hertford County.

He has a masters degree from N.C. State in personnel and guidance, has been an educator, civic leader, athlete, and eastern North Carolina booster for years, and is a historian of note with co-editorship of "Before the Rebel Flag Fell" to his credit. The book is a collection of five Civil War diaries relating to Hertford County. He has also written more than 300 articles about local history, architecture and life in early Colonial times in northeastern North Carolina.

Rounding out a long list of interests and activities, Stephenson also worked in campaigns for Democratic candidates starting with former Gov. Bob Scott.

INSIDE REPORT

Somalia Base For Russians

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Eyewitness detail of the thriving and menacing Soviet naval facility at the Somalian port of Berbera now available here leaves little doubt of Moscow's intention to make the new base its ace in the contest for control over the Indian Ocean's oil waterways.

Secret eyewitness accounts of the $100 million Soviet naval base are replete with details gathered by crews of merchant ships. These include the U.S.-owned, Greek-flag ship "Lord Byron," recently back in Greece after being detained in Berbera by the Somali government for 10 months.

The clear message they convey: detente or no detente, the Soviet Union now is building naval and supporting shore installations in Somalia that leave the U.S. no choice but to do the same on the Indian Ocean island of Diego Garcia. That is because Berbera is the focus of Soviet efforts to dominate the Indian Ocean and with it approaches to the Red Sea and the Persian Gulf, the world's two most vital waterways for oil.

Despite tightly controlled and severely limited access, even official delegations from the U.S. Congress are reporting Soviet activity at Berbera. Moscow, say these official reports, appears to be building a facility capable of storing and handling the ship-to-surface Styx missile along with other requirements for its growing Indian Ocean fleet—fuel, water, supplies, rest and rehabilitation for crews.

Eyewitness reports of frenzied efforts to conceal the Soviet presence during a visit to Berbera last month by an Arab League delegation shows extreme Somali sensitivities about the connection with Moscow.

All Soviet ships were suddenly moved out over the horizon, with the single exception of the "barracks" ship, on permanent station, which houses some Russian personnel, supplies water and food to visiting Soviet naval vessels and is the center of Soviet activity. Before the Arab delegation arrived, the standard Soviet flag was hauled down from the barracks ship and a very small Soviet pennant run up in its place.

Western seamen reported that Somalis in Berbera were overjoyed, thinking the Soviets were moving out for good. As soon as the Arab delegation left, however, the sham ended. American diplomats believe it did not dispel Arab fears that Moscow is gaining far too much influence over Somalia. Shortly thereafter, the Arab League postponed a summit meeting scheduled for late June in Somalia.

Even more disturbing to anti-Soviet Arab states is the fact that the Somalian strongman, President Siad Barre, imported Soviet KGB secret police to help him build his own state security system. That gives Moscow an inside track of potentially enormous importance within Somalia.

The unofficial reports are more revealing than anything seen by Congressmen. The Soviet facility now includes 20 three-story apartment buildings for permanent housing of Soviet naval officers and enlisted men and their families. Russian women and children are clearly visible during the daytime within the large Soviet compound, which is surrounded by a fence with only one entrance.

Soviet autonomy within this compound and in areas adjoining the main Soviet docking areas at the port is evidenced by stringent security arrangements. Every night, two Soviet patrols guard the fenced-in areas. Enclosed are barracks and living quarters, missile-storage areas, high-frequency communications stations, fuel tanks (doubled within the past year) and a cluster of bunkers presumably housing ammunition and other explosives.

The 1972 Soviet-Somali treaty provided Moscow with the legal underpinning for its naval facility. But Somalia's military-socialist government at Mogadishu, backed by the Soviet government, has disclaimed any base agreement with Moscow. One obvious reason is Somalia's fear of Arab retribution, particularly from fiercely anti-Communist Saudi Arabia and Egypt.

Moscow also has special naval rights in Aden, across the Gulf of Aden from Berbera, but original Soviet plans have gone awry. The permanent Russian shore party at Aden is limited to about a dozen men and Soviet naval visits must all be prearranged with the Marxist South Yemen government in Aden.

Likewise, fears that Moscow was about to develop a major facility on the small island of Sokotra, in the Arabian Sea, have been exaggerated. It is nothing but an anchorage with a third-rate airstrip and no signs of major change.

The heart of the Soviet thrust into Indian Ocean approaches to the Mideast is not Aden or Sokotra but Berbera. Now under construction is a 15,000-foot airstrip a mile and a half east of the port with one or two runways, capable of handling any plane in the Soviet inventory. This explains the Ford administration's anxiety to counter Berbera with a U.S. base at Diego Garcia in the Indian Ocean vacuum created by the fall of the British Empire.

Strength For Today

A REMEDY FOR DESPAIR

In one of the psalms the statement is made, "This is my affliction, but I will remember the years of the Most High."

"This is my affliction, but—" "It is the cry of a brave soul who has come to the point where he feels he can stand no more, but who, in spite of his suffering, determines to look back upon the mercies and providences of God in years past and strengthen his soul with these memories. He has unbearable affliction now, but he can remember days of pleasantness, years of good fortune, seasons when the sun shone into his life with radiance and beauty.

In times of difficulty and pain it is sometimes hard to remember that life wasn't always like this. There have been good hours and happy ones, and to think of them in days of trouble is one way to ward off despair and bitterness. "This is my affliction, but I will remember the years of the Most High."

Sunday Morning Notes

Tobacco Market opens Tuesday and it's been a year when the tobacco grower has been buffeted by skyrocketing costs of fertilizer, equipment and labor.

Then he had to worry all June about the dry weather which threatened to ruin his crop.

Finally when the rains came he had to worry about either hail beating the big tobacco leaves to death, or too much rain interfering with the harvest.

If you get by all that, it ain't a bad way to make a living.

Times have changed on the tobacco farm, but your columnist can recall handing sticks of green tobacco into the curing barns; only to wind up covered with the sticky gum.

Then the time came to remove the sticks from the barn. Being at the bottom of the process, I always managed to become covered with grit and sand that fell from each stick as it came down from the hangers.

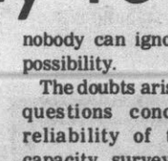
Curing was mostly done with wood at that time which meant sitting up all night at the barn during the curing process.

There were compensations, though—like pulling ears of corn from nearby fields and roasting them in the curing fire.

Finally the tobacco was all packed safely away in the pack houses. These absolutely had to be dry so that the tobacco would be in good shape for later marketing.

When the time came to remove the packed leaf from the barn I was pressed into service again. Seems like at least one nest of mice would be found every season under a pile of tobacco.

The tobacco markets opened a lot later in those days and there was a holiday atmosphere. Merchants and vendors and even the carnivals knew that money would be flowing into the farmers' hands. It was a matter of getting it then, or waiting until next year.



ALVIN TAYLOR

Now the market opens in the middle of the summer and, while it creates some excitement, it's not the same as in the old days when the opening was the highlight of the year economically. The oldtimers used to swear that the opening was also the signal for the city crews to begin tearing up streets.

Creating Scandal

(Chapel Hill Newspaper)

It came as no surprise when The Wall Street Journal reported that a large amount of fraud had hit the student-loan program backed by the government. The coordinator of one phase of the federal investigation says that the loss has already hit the $500 million figure, and that may be a conservative figure. One federal law-enforcement official says his office was in on the investigation of the Billie Sol Estes scandal in the 1960s, when the Texan sold finance companies $24 million of mortgages on nonexistent fertilizer tanks. He believes that the student loan scandal is going to be bigger than that.

While there is little reason to believe that a great amount of student-loan fraud exists at the college and university level, the Journal reports that one state university in the Southwest is under investigation for misuse of basic opportunity grant funds.

More than 8,800 schools and colleges and some 19,000 lending institutions have participated in the program. About 1,700 vocational and other schools that are run for profit are included in the above figure. While some of these schools provide a good education in their field, many of them are fly-by-night operations that are paid the student loan money, and give the student little or nothing in return. The student is often left with the obligation of repaying the loan to the bank, but the school training has done nothing to enhance his chances of making additional money in the job market.

Students and parents should be very careful about getting involved in government loans for education. Make certain that you are getting ample return for the money you are borrowing to secure a special kind of training. Check out the school and make certain that it has been established for a good period of time and has a reputation of service. It might save you a lot of heartaches on down the road.

Cloudy Darwin Future

By THOMAS KENT
Associated Press Writer

DARWIN, Australia (AP) — Children in Darwin still wake up screaming when the wind picks up. Alleys full of rubble run behind poorly patched homes and shops. Chunks of sheetmetal from destroyed buildings blow across highways.

More than six months have passed since cyclone Tracy roared through Australia's northernmost city, killing 49 people and wrecking two-thirds of the houses in town. Yet today, much of the city is still devastated.

Bureaucratic delays and the sheer magnitude of rebuilding a city whose normal population is 46,000 have made reconstruction a slow and painful process. Not one new building has been built since the cyclone struck just after midnight last Christmas Day.

The lack of progress threatens to destroy the traditional independence, resilience and community spirit of the "top-enders," who transformed Darwin from a one-horse town a century ago to a modern city. Three times they were forced to rebuild: after cyclones in 1897 and 1937, and Japanese bombing in 1942.

"There is an odd atmosphere now in Darwin," said Christopher Payne, a 23-year-old civil servant. "A slum mentality seems to be developing. Some people are leaving cyclone rubble in their gardens and not trying to improve makeshift conditions.

"It is depressing to see people shuffling around in old clothes and battered cars."

Malcolm Smith, a 35-year-old advertising executive, is moving with his family from Darwin after living here for 15 years.

George Barley gained his eighth consecutive victory for Greenville by pitching a 3-1 victory over Ayden here yesterday. Barley, a Duke University athlete, has not been defeated in Coastal Plain League warfare this year.

He yielded seven hits in the game, the same number his mates made against the flinging of Weldon and Upchurch. However, Ayden's hits were well scattered until the ninth when the visitors bunched three in a row to count their lone run.

All of Greenville's hits and runs came off Weldon, who was relieved by Upchurch after the seventh. Upchurch fanned two while retiring the Greenies in order in the eighth.

For five innings it was a scoreless battle. The Greenies broke the ice in the sixth when Bostic singled, moved up on Ambler's sacrifice and tallied on Huiskamp's single. Two more were added in the seventh on an error and hits by Farley, Barley and Bostic.

Singles by Chappell, Collins and Tatum produced Ayden's runs.

Ace Parker starred in the field for Greenville, featuring six putouts and a couple of star catches.

Greenville remains on top of the league with a 22-8 record, followed by Kinston at 19-12.

Have We Capacity To Expand?

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — When the economy begins moving up out of the recession you'll be hearing a lot about capacity. Is there enough physical and human capacity in our system to permit an expansion?

The question is now being debated in professional circles and soon could become a rather popular subject of discussion generally, if any such economic topic can be so described.

The consequences are huge. If, as most studies seem to indicate, the economy is now operating at 10 per cent to more than 20 per cent below its capacity, then there is room for improvement. There is excess capacity to be utilized.

But, if the nation's current production is near its capacity to produce, as some economists suspect, then the outlook could be quite dismal. The First National City Bank comments on this possibility:

"Under such a scenario, bottlenecks, shortages and a rekindling of inflation would not only retard the recovery but could well result in a 'doubledip' recession — that is, a short-lived recovery followed by another slump."

First City economists are among the majority who believe there is sufficient capacity in our factories, farms and offices to permit a recovery without extremely negative consequences. But nobody can ignore the other possibility.

The doubts arise because of questions concerning the reliability of the various capacity surveys, including those done by the Commerce Department, the Federal Reserve Board and private organizations.

Skeptics claim that some companies still are operating very close to their capacity, despite the fact that business is off. If an upturn begins, they maintain, these companies won't be able to expand quickly enough.

Some critics claim the high cost of installing pollution-control equipment has delayed corporate expansion plans. And, they add, environmental requirements and regulatory costs make some operations economically unfeasible.

The suspicion exists that some of this idle industrial capacity somehow is still being counted as usable when it should be written off. In being counted as potential capacity, it distorts studies.

There's another side to that argument, however. During recession, manufacturers sometimes fail to count as effective capacity certain plants and equipment that are only marginally efficient. But if a boom comes they make use of them.

Such observations tend therefore to undermine the confidence of some forecasters in the capacity surveys. Others tend to rely on the surveys but with their fingers crossed.

Observations From Editorial Columns

The Face Of Detente

While Westerners are wondering about the advantages of detente with the Soviet Union, the individual Soviet citizen also must have a few questions.

For simultaneous with international overtures by the Soviet government, internal repression has been stepped up again. Most chilling of all, Joseph Stalin, who as a despot made Ivan the Terrible seem like a gentle soul in comparison is being resurrected in official goernment publications.

Christian Science Monitor Correspondent Paul Wohl reports that the KGB security police is getting rough again. Religion, which has managed to survive much as a flower flourishes on a rock, is under persecution in the best tradition of a Stalinist purge.

Intellectuals, of course, are under constant harassment and some suffer the same kind of brutal treatment that Alexander Solzhenitsyn described in his book, "The Gulag Archipelago."

Once again, it appears, Russia, having tried western ways, is repulsed by the scent of freedom and leaning toward familiar old ways.

The cycle has been repeated many times in Russian history. Individual Soviet citizens are quick to recognize it but Westerners seem to catch on to the trend only after the cycle has been completed.

While detente is still very much a part of U. S. foreign policy and, ostensibly, still a goal of the Soviets, domestic trends within Soviet Russia are clear hints of a shift back to the kind of repression that whose primary aim is to strike terror in the heart.

What the Soviets are saying these days isn't nearly so important as what they are doing. When the KGB flexes its muscle and Stalin's pictures appear in official publications, it is time to hedge on all bets that detente will survive.

Long-term deals should look especially shaky to western businessmen who have been trying to crack the Soviet market.

The Difference

When Judges go around totin' six shooters, then that's a pretty good indication of something. More'n likely it means that the judges don't trust the courts to protect them.

Anyhow, two of the state's judges have taken to packing guns while they are holding court. Judge James (Pou) Bailey of Raleigh and Judge Donnie Smith of Forsythe have indicated in recent days that they stand ready to handle any courtroom emergency. They have, they said, their guns at ready.

Said Judge Bailey: "It's not an unheard-of thing for a judge to get himself dusted off. I like life and I want to keep on living."

Said Judge Smith: "There's always that one nut. Any time you are trying a man for major felony you watch it. You just don't know what's going to happen."

Quite right, Judge, it does seem, however, that the courts would be offering whatever protection is necessary to guarantee decorum in the courtroom and safety to its judges. If this is not a fact, then there should be no time lost in remedying the situation.

If judges are afraid to hold court without a gun, what about the prosecutors who bring out all those bad old things about a defendant? And what about the witnesses? Shouldn't they be allowed some protection? After all, it's the witness who usually does the finger-pointing.

There used to be a time back in Old West days when judges carried the law on their hips.

Those days went out when our system of laws came in.

Is this the first step back to those days?

Brain Surgery For A Morning-After Headache

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

The House of Representatives last month voted 341-70 to extend the Voting Rights Act of 1965 for another ten years. Before the end of July, the Senate will approve substantially the same bill by about the same margin. Who can argue with five-to-one?

Permit me the privilege. The pending bill is characterized by good intentions and bad mechanics. It provides one more example (as if one more example were needed) of the legislative cure that is worse than the political ill. This is brain surgery for a morning-after headache.

The original Voting Rights Act also was drastic legislation, but it addressed a serious condition. For roughly a century, in flagrant defiance of the Fifteenth Amendment, the Southern States had discriminated against the black voter. By trickery, sophistry, intimidation and brute force, the South had denied blacks what was plainly theirs: the right to vote. It was a plausible surmise that this pattern of indefensible conduct was responsible for voter turnouts of less than 50 percent of the potential electorate in the presidential election of 1964.

Congress prescribed strong medicine. Through the mechanism of the "50 percent trigger," Congress imposed a kind of political Reconstruction on the South. Six whole States, plus a part of North Carolina, became Military Districts in which no political change could occur without approval from Washington. Federal registrars moved in. The Southern States sputtered, but the national reaction was: So what? They had brought this on themselves.

The strong medicine worked. In 1970 Congress renewed the 1965 act for another five years. The decade has seen phenomenal increases in black registration, balck voting, and black office-holding. Except in a few isolated areas, Southern Negroes are today as free as Southern whites to register and vote—or not to register and vote.

Under these circumstances, it would appear that the time has come for Congress to release the patient under some form of mild supervision. The original 1965 act was expected to be temporary legislation. Its harsh provisions, as Justice Hugo Black often observed, do grave violence to basic principles of federalism. The affected localities have been strait-jacketed too long as it is.

But Congress is now moving in precisely the wrong direction. The pending bill not only extends the original punitive law for another ten years, but also broadens its scope to take in "language minorities." Back in 1965, the "50 percent trigger" had some plausible basis. Clearly, black citizens had been deined the right to vote "on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude." No such body of evidence supports the proposed expansion.

This bill would extend the Federal reach to every political subdivisionn in which more than 5 percent of the voting-age population are members of a "single-language minority." Here English-only elections would be prohibited. All voting notices, forms, instructions, ballots, and other materail would have to be prepared accordingly, which is to say, "in the language of the applicable language minority group."

The sweep is too wide. The bill would apply, for example, to Alaskan natives who speak 20 different dialects. Most of these languages are oral; only in the past few years have writing systems been developed, and some of the languages have no word for "vote" and "ballot." The same situation occurs in certain Indian tongues. Spanish, of course, would present no problems in translation, but the fundamental question remains: Is any such Federal law necessary?

Before so heavy a hand is laid upon the States and localities, surely the existence of a gross evil should be demonstrated. The legislative hearings contain no such eveidence. In the case of Texas, with a large Mexican-American population, the evidence is to the contrary. No significant disparity exists between white registration and Mexican-American registration. If Texas today is denying any citizen a right to vote on account of race or color, the denials are minimal.

Under our federal system, Congress has an obligation to act with restraint, not with fury, in areas of traditional state responsibility. A wise policy would apply large measures to correct large wrongs; but for small wrongs, a wise policy would apply small measures—or none at all. It is immaterial, in my view, that the House voted five-to-one for this bill. The measure is unwarranted, and unwise.

Political Answers To Economic Problems Are Costly Non-Solutions

By GEORGE BRYANT

The Government in Washington long has had the unfortunate habit of giving political answers to economic questions and then trying to live with the results, no matter the consequences.

A case in point is the tax treatment of Corporate income, profits. The present system is a spin-off from World War II financing methods. It not only is regressive and discriminatory, with important impact on prices, but it serves as a drag on expansion of goods and services vital to meet the demands of a still growing population.

The faults of the corporation income tax, 48 per cent, are well known. Its defense is that it brings in a big chunk of easy-to-collect revenue, more than $40-billion. The political angle is that individuals are spared this amount, since it is taken from "soulless" corporations. Actually, though, it is a "hidden" tax on the same individuals who, one way or another, wind up paying all taxes. Owners of stock, however, are given a double lick.

Even the Roosevelt New Deal, symbolic idol of today's political left, wanted the tax repealed. Unfortunately, it tangled the measure with business reform objectives and settled for a compromise which proved both unworkable and costly. The law was repealed and replaced with a straight levy on corporate profits.

It is encouraging that the House Ways and Means Committee is giving a high priority to corporate tax problems, even though there is little prospect that major legislation will result this year. It offers evidence that Congress is at least aware of the capital shortage which plagues business and may, eventually, do something to encourage investment.

Also, the current Ways and Means hearing will provide something of a public airing of what is called the problem of capital formation. Estimates are that investment in production of goods and services will require upwards of $4.5-trillion by the early 1980s. These figures may be on the high side, but even so the amount needed will be tremendous.

While there are many faults in the current tax treatment of corporations, the two big ones are the double tax on the profit dollar and the way the system tends to push up prices, especially during periods of inflation.

It's the double tax on profits that operates to discourage the investment of savings in equity shares, common stock. The corporate profit dollar is clipped 48 per cent when it is earned. This reduces it to 52 cents. And when this remainder, or part of it, is paid as a dividend to the shareholder, it is taxed again as regular income.

The system has nothing to do with ability to pay. The corporation that earns $5-million, say, pays the same 48 per cent as a corporation which earns $100-million. This first bite out of what really is the shareholder's dollar is uniform. When a dividend is paid, the amount is then subject to the graduated income tax paid by individuals.

Common stocks represent "risk" investments. And with this sort of taxation, investors are leary of putting their savings into equity shares. This is especially true at a time when business needs equity capital.

Corporations find it necessary to rely heavily on their profits to meet capital needs. And if they have got to have a dollar from profits, then they must earn nearly $2 to provide it. And the only way they can do this is to work the tax "cost" into their price structure in advance—call on the customer for the extra buck.

The alternative to equity, or risk capital, is debt. This means that a corporation is forced to large fixed obligations—interest—through borrowings. And it is the price structure which must be looked to for the interest money. Also, interest payments, unlike dividends, are deductable from income—recognized as a business cost.

Any quick correction of the double tax would cost the Treasury upwards of $15-billion of revenue. Congress isn't about to make this up with new direct taxes. But it would be possible to have some sort of phase-out, over a period of say five years. This would cushion the revenue loss and at the same time make equity investments more attractive.

But Congress will be slow to act. Its reasons are no different today than it was right after World War II, when the decision was made to keep a heavy tax load on corporations. It had slugged individuals for all it dared, so went after corporate income, even though it meant a problem tax.

And there is another consideration. In the liberal camp, there is an attitude that if private enterprise fails to attract necessary amounts of private capital, then the Government can step in and fill the gap.

It's an old idea, backed by those who want to extend government control to rationing of credit—capital.

Public Forum

To the editor:

I think that it is time for the people of Greenville to take note of those City Council members who voted against the night recreation program for our City and remember this in our next election.

I have played in softball tournaments in many towns throughout the State and some of these ballparks are located right in the middle of residential sections and believe you me, we did not stop playing when it turned dark. As a matter of fact, some games have gone up into 1:00 and 2:00 in the morning but evidently these people understand, because these towns host these tournaments each year at the same ballparks.

It is really hard to believe that the City Council is going to let a few citizens destroy a good program for all the other citizens of Greenville. We have already become a laughing stock to our neighboring towns as they cannot believe that the lights are turned out with only three outs left in the ball game.

I believe that at this time the City Council should write letters commending those citizens who live across from Guy Smith Stadium and the Little League Park who have been so thoughtful and understanding throughout the many years of ball lights late at night and cars parked all in their driveways and up in their yards.

Remember, voters, the next election!

to hammer in one nail or to make one structural alteration," he declared. "As ambition crushers and dispellers of community spirit, the authorities have excelled themselves."

A major problem was the delay in getting a new building code approved. Until one recently was approved, the government barred people from doing anything more than reroofing and waterproofing their shattered homes. Now, the government will start work on 1,300 new homes in August. The average cost for a two-bedroom house will be $56,500, or 25 per cent above the cost of homes in the south where materials are easier to obtain.

Darwin is separated by more than one thousand miles of desert and plains from the rest of Australia. During the rainy season, roads are closed. The nearest major cities are 900 miles away.

Thousands of residents still live under the patched floorboards of raised houses, and in tents and trailers. Many of the 30,000 people airlifted from the city after the cyclone now have returned. But because shelter is so poor, another exodus might take place before the rainy season in October.

The government ordered rent cuts of 10 to 30 per cent on damaged buildings. Yet some people desperate for any type of housing have been offering landlords bonuses.

"I am now paying 80 dollars ($106 U.S.) a week for three bedrooms in bad condition unfurnished," said one young woman. "Before Tracy this would have been the same price but fully furnished and in good shape. But if I balk at the price there are 10 others who would jump at it."

There are other problems. A variety of federal and local agencies are administering various phases of the reconstruction, leaving many citizens at a loss over which agency might solve their problems.

There have been two general strikes by construction workers over pay and working conditions. Doctors and teachers are in short supply.

The rest of Australia, which pulled hard for Darwin right after the cyclone and contributed $11 million in relief funds, now seems less excited about the city and its problems.

Two Gails Complicate The Michaels Family

Sometimes I think that the only reason my husband married me was to play a practical joke on his family. Because both his sister and I are named Gail Michaels. If that isn't confusing enough, we look alike, too. The only major difference is that the other Gail is four years younger and has narrow feet.

The problems caused by having two Gails running around in the same circles are unbelievable. For instance, everyone thinks Phillip's sister Marty is becoming a tiny bit deranged because whenever someone says, "I just met your sister, Gail," she always asks, "Uh, which one?" And I've never gotten over the emotional trauma of finding out that I wasn't the one who'd been chosen for the Belk Tyler teen board. The only good thing about having an alter ego is that when you're at a family gathering and a yell goes out for Gail to set the table, you can always hide and pretend they're calling for the other one.

But, all in all, the confusion got so bad that we tried to do something to differentiate between the two of us. After all, we couldn't expect people to look at our shoe size. So the other Gail decided to cut her hair. The only problem was, that when I saw how good she looked, I went out and cut mine, too. Then she decided to pierce her ears—but when I saw how sophisticated she looked, I decided to pierce mine, too. Then I decided to adorn myself with a Toyota—but when she saw how racy I looked, she decided to buy one, too.

GAIL MICHAELS

Finally, I hit upon the perfect way to help people tell us apart—I got pregnant. Now, the other Gail thought that this was the perfect solution, too, because that was one thing she didn't particularly care to imitate. But, alas, that solution hasn't done too much good either, because, whereas I looked like a toothpick before, I just look like a warped toothpick now.

In fact, things are even becoming more confused. The other Gail is getting pretty tired of hearing the report that she's expecting.

"Listen, Gail," she said the other day, "You're going to have to get fat or something. The rumors are getting so bad that I've started wearing a girdle and I was only size six to begin with."

"What do you want me to do?" I sighed. "I've tried eating watermelon, but so far it hasn't done any good."

"I don't know. All I know is that the other day one of Mother's acquaintances came up to me, put her arm around me, and asked me if I wanted a boy or a girl."

"What did you tell her?" I asked, expecting to hear a witty disclaimer.

"I told her I wanted a girl," the other Gail giggled.

"GAIL MICHAELS!" I cried in horror.

"Well, I do," she said, shrugging her shoulders. "I've already told you I wanted a niece. Anyway, then the lady asked me what I was going to name her."

"And what are we going to name her?" I asked.

Big Business Suffering Black Eye With The American Public

By GEORGE CALLUP

(Copyright 1975, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Republication in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.)

PRINCETON, N.J.,—The business community in this country needs to undertake a large-scale public relations effort with the American people, and particularly with the younger, better-educated groups which will furnish the nation's future leadership.

Big business currently rates lower with the public than all other institutions comprising what is frequently termed the U.S. power structure. Organized religion and education rate the highest of the eight institutions tested, while big business and organized labor rank at the bottom.

But it is not the institution of business per se which receives a black eye from the public but "big" business. Whereas only 34 per cent of persons interviewed give big business a high confidence rating (that is, say they have a "great deal" or "quite a lot" of confidence in big business), the figure is 48 per cent when business is rated without reference to size.

A similar pattern obtains when survey respondents are asked to indicate their degree of confidence in large and small companies. Whereas only 35 per cent give large companies a high confidence rating, 57 per cent do so in the case of small companies.

Employees Give Own Company High Rating

Significantly, when persons in the survey who are employed by a business concern are asked to rate their own company, nearly seven in 10 give it a high confidence rating.

Reasons given most often by those who hold unfavorable attitudes toward big business are: major corporations make excessive profits; energy shortages have been manipulated to the advantage of big companies; the major companies are monopolistic and have too much power; big business is not acting in the national interest and has little concern for the public; big business has little interest in ecological matters.

The following question was asked to determine ratings of institutions:

"Would you tell me how much confidence you, yourself, have in the following— a great deal, quite a lot, some or very little?" (Note: The "great deal" and "quite a lot" categories are combined for the high confidence percentage.)

	Great deal-quite a lot	Some-Very Little-None	No Opinion
Organized religion	68%	30%	2%
Education	67	31	2
The Military	58	37	5
Executive branch presiidency	52	45	3
Supreme Court	49	45	6
Congress	40	57	3
Organized labor	38	58	4
Big business	34	61	5

Here is a closer look at the ratings of business in this country:

	Great deal-quite a lot	Some-Very Little-None	No Opinion
Big business	34%	61%	5%
Business	48	47	5
Large Companies	35	61	4
Small companies	57	39	4
Company or business you work for	67	26	7

Analysis of the findings by age reveals that young persons (18 to 29) tend to be more anti-business (and particularly anti-big business) than their elders. Unfavorable attitudes toward big business are especially pronounced among young persons who have attended college. For example, only 25 per cent of young persons who have attended college give big business a high confidence rating.

Anti-Business Mood Found in Colleges

These findings on the views of youth are consistent with earlier results from a national survey of college students which showed a strong anti-business mood to be prevalent on the college campuses of America.

The survey, conducted in early 1975 on 57 college campuses across America, showed students giving a low rating to the moral and ethical standards of business executives, in favor of greater governmental controls on business, and in favor of breaking up the big companies of the nation into smaller companies.

Concurrent with strong anti-business attitudes among students is a startling lack of knowledge and understanding of the private enterprise system. For example, students grossly overestimate the profits made by a typical large national corporation, show little knowledge of the high costs of labor involved in producing a product, and grossly underestimate the federal income taxes paid by corporations.

The results for the survey of the general public are based on 1,626 addults, 18 and older, interviewed in person in more than 300 scientifically selected localities across the nation during the period May 30-June 2.

Change Of Location In Little Trial Is Possibility

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—The first degree murder trial of Joan Little, moved earlier this year to Raleigh, could be delayed by another change of location request.

Prosecutors, concerned about a judge's publicized remarks, were considering Friday whether to ask for the change, the News and Observer of Raleigh reported in today's editions. The trial is scheduled to begin Monday.

Miss Little, a black, is charged with first degree murder in the August 1974 stabbing of white Beaufort County jailer Clarence Alligood, 62. She said he tried to rape her. If convicted, she would be sentenced to the gas chamber.

Miss Little, 21, was being held while a conviction on breaking and entering was appealed. Alligood was found in her cell with his pants down. She had fled.

Prosecutors were reportedly worried by Raleigh District Judge Carlos Murray Jr.'s publicized comment Wednesday night. He said that from what he's read of the case in the newspapers, there wasn't enough evidence to send the first degree murder case to a jury. He made the comment at a public meeting of some of Miss Little's supporters and it was reported in the local media.

If the change is requested, the argument reportedly would be that potential jurors would be prejudiced by the comment.

Dist. Atty. William Griffin of Beaufort County, head of the prosecution team, refused comment. "My mouth is zipped. I'm not going to say anything one way or the other," he said.

A prosecution source said if the attorneys decide to ask for the change it would be done Monday when court opens.

Superior Court Judge James H. Pou Bailey said earlier this week that jury selection would be made more difficult because of Murray's remarks.

The move from rural Beaufort County to Raleigh was because of publicity and attitudes in the area where Alligood was killed.

Arguments are scheduled Thursday on whether an injunction should be issued against a ban on demonstrations, assemblies or distribution of literature at the Courthouse while the trial is in progress.

A federal suit against the order was filed this week. It said the order violates the constitutional guarantee of free speech and assembly.

It was filed by the Rev. Leon White, director of the North Carolina Virginia Commission for Racial Justice.

Bailey issued the order last month. Police officials have predicted about 2,500 demonstrators and onlookers will be on hand when the trial begins Monday.

A special prosecutor was assigned Friday to help Griffin. Former Wake County Dist. Atty. Lester Chalmbers was named in response to a request by Griffin.

The court still must decide on a defense motion asking dismissal of special prosecutor John Wilkinson from the case. He was hired by Alligood's family.

Miss Little's attorneys charged that Wilkinson has a conflict of interest because he has previously defended Miss Little and her brother in other cases.

In 1807 Robert Fulton's steamboat, the Clermont, made its critics eat crow by making the trip up the Hudson River from New York to Albany in 32 hours against the current.

Wade Williams Named Head Of Ohio Program

Westinghouse Health Systems, a Division of Westinghouse Electric Corporation, has announced the appointment of Wade H. Williams, Jr. of Goldsboro as Executive Director of a new and innovative Occupational Health Program which will be developed and operated in Cleveland, Ohio.

In making the announcement, Gary L. Damkoehler, Director of Applied Research and Operation Development for Westinghouse Health Systems, described the new program as one which will focus on the early identification, screening, diagnosis, treatment and referral of employed persons and their family members who experience difficulty in job performance because of alcholism, alcohol-related or other psycho-social problems.

Williams has been with the Division of Mental Health Services, Alcoholism Programs, since 1970. For the past 3½ years he has served as Eastern Regional Alcoholism Program Director with offices in Greenville. He was previously Alcoholism Coordinator for the Wayne Mental Health Center in Goldsboro.

A native of Durham, North Carolina, Williams spent a number of years in the entertainment field as actor and director in New York City as well as managing and directing a number of summer theatres throughout the East. For a number of years he was affiliated with radio station WBOF in Virginia Beach as Program Manager, and later served as staff meterologist and newsman for WTAR-TV, Norfolk, Virginia. Prior to joining Mental Health in 1970, he was on the staff of W-GBR in Goldsboro.

Williams will assume his new duties with Westinghouse on August 1, and for several months will commute between Cleveland and Goldsboro as he plans to maintain residence in Goldsboro for the next few months.

Charles Vincent Joins Greenville Law Firm

Charles M. Vincent has joined with local attorney Malcolm J. Howard in forming the law partnership of Howard and Vincent, located in the Lee Building on Third Street.

Vincent, a Greenville native, worked as law clerk for U.S. District Court Judge John D. Larkins Jr. in Trenton for some 14 months prior to returning to Greenville.

During the past year, he served as visiting professor in the School of Business at East Carolina University.

A 1964 graduate of Rose High School, Vincent attended the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and graduated in 1968 with his A.B. degree in history. He graduated from the University of North Carolina School of Law in 1972.

The 28-year-old attorney served as an officer in the North Carolina National Guard and presently holds the rank of first lieutenant in the Inactive Army Reserve.

He is a member of the Pitt County, North Carolina and American Bar Associations.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Vincent of Greenville, the new law partner is married to the former Sandra Dough of Aurora and they have two children.

The Vincents attend Immanuel Baptist Church.

Decline In Corn Crop

RALEIGH (AP)—Last month's dry weather was blamed Friday for a sharp reduction in North Carolina's corn crop.

The North Carolina Crop Reporting Service estimated corn production this year at 100.7 million bushels, down 13 per cent from last year.

Opponents Of Duke Power Hike Win New Hearing

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Opponents of a 24 per cent electric rate increase asked by the Duke Power Co. have won the promise of Utilities Commission Chairman Marvin Wooten of another public hearing after chanting they had "been put on" by the state Utilities Commission and Duke.

The time and place will be set later, but it probably will be early next week. The chairman of the commission, Marvin Wooten made the promise Friday night at the conclusion of three days of public hearings, in Charlotte, Hickory, Burlington and Graham. Formal hearings before the commission are to begin Tuesday in Raleigh.

Duke also is asking a similar increase for South Carolina customers, and the Public Service Commission will start hearings in Columbia on Sept. 9. Duke already had put all but 4 per cent of the increase into effect in both North Carolina and South Carolina, and will refund with interest any portion disallowed.

The full increase would bring in an additional $131 million in North Carolina and more than $50 million in South Carolina.

There was an overflow crowd at Friday afternoon's session in the Burlington Municipal Building, so the night session was shifted to the Alamance County Courthouse in Graham.

A crowd estimated by newsman at 200 to 250 gathered in the municipal parking lot for a rally before the night session. Jim Hart, representing the Alamance County Labor Council, set the tone for the rally. He said, "Our wages haven't gone up 24 per cent, not even in the last four years. I'm not against Duke Power making a profit, but I am against them making an excessive profit."

Buses from Greensboro and Durham were arriving as the rally broke up for the hearing.

Most of the speakers at the night session called on the commission to delay approval of the rate hike.

One of them was Mark McDaniels, representing the Concerned Citizens for Responsible Utility Rates in Guilford County. He said his group had petitions with 70,000 signatures supporting a delay in a rate increase.

McDaniels and most of the speakers in Graham asked the commission to try the peak time rate principle, which sets higher rates for peak hour usage and lower rates the rest of the time.

In Burlington, citizens from virtually all walks of life asked Wooten to permit Duke only a "reasonable" rate increase, if there has to be one.

At the sessions in Charlotte and Hickory, businessmen generally approved the proposed increase, because they said they had to have a dependable source of power. Consumer representatives opposed it.

Duke says it needs the increase because of inflation, expensive new generating facilities, and for enough return on equity to interest people in buying Duke stock.

Jan. 21, 1924, Lenin died and the struggle for power between Trotsky and Stalin began with the latter eventually winning.

City Streets Account For Most Accidents

RALEIGH (AP)—Interstate highways had, by far, the fewest number of accidents in the first half of this year while city streets accounted for the greatest frequency of accidents, statistics compiled by the traffic records section of the state Department of Transportation showed.

The statistics also showed that traffic deaths fell 10.6 per cent in the first half of this year compared to 1974 and June's fatality rate was 28 per cent lower than the same month last year.

The report—to be issued monthly—compares the month's totals with totals from the same month a year earlier and compares totals for the year to date with the same period a year earlier.

Here are some findings from the report which is circulated to law enforcement agencies in North Carolina:

—There were 105 traffic deaths in June, down from the 146 of June 1974.

—For the first half of this year, there were 643 deaths, down from the same period last year when 719 persons died.

—Injuries were up. Some 5,935 persons were injured last month compared to 5,908 in June 1974. For the first half of this year, injuries totaled 33,979, an increase of 9.7 per cent over last year's 30,801.

—Pedestrian deaths were down. There were 18 last month, four less than June 1974; and 103 were killed in the six months, a 21.4 per cent drop from 1974's 131.

—Three bicyclists were killed in June; one was killed in June 1974. For the six months, 13 were killed, one less than in 1974.

—Traffic accidents occurred at a rate of 323 per day in June, 4 per cent less than the rate in June 1974.

—Highest accident periods on Mondays through Thursdays were 6 a.m. to 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. Highest accident rates for Fridays through Sundays were 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. to 2 a.m.

—The major cause of accidents was listed as "unsafe movement"—13,696 for the first half of this year compared to 11,297 in half of 1974.

—Speeding was the second ranked accident cause—10,296 for the six month period compared to 10,899 through June 1974.

—Drunken driving was blamed in 3,305 accidents for the first half of this year where it accounted for 3,210 mishaps in that period last year.

—Cities were the primary locations for accidents, accounting for 29,762 in the first half of this year compared to 27,274 in half of 1974.

—County roads were the second most hazardous driving areas with 14,867 accidents through June this year.

—Interstate highways were by far the least hazardous roads, accounting for 785 accidents in the first six months of this year and 696 accidents in the first half of 1974.

Despite Weight Of Evidence

Judge Refuses To Set Verdict Aside

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A federal judge says a jury's failure to order damages assessed against ex-White House aide H.R. Haldeman in a $1 million lawsuit went "against weight of the evidence." But the judge has refused to set aside the verdict or to order a new trial.

A federal jury on May 5 declined to award damages to young people who claimed their constitutional rights were violated when they were refused admission to a 1971 rally at which then-President Richard M. Nixon appeared.

They claimed that Haldeman, White House chief of staff under Nixon, and other presidential aides and law enforcement officials arranged to keep them away from the rally because of their long hair, casual dress and anti-Nixon sentiment.

"It's perfectly evident that the White House people, knowingly and intentionally, and they should have known better, were carrying out a program of excluding people from a presidential appearance," U.S. District Court Judge James B. McMillan said Friday.

But he said he would not set aside the verdict, which he said was "thoroughly understandable" in the cases of all defendants except Haldeman and two former White House advance men.

DECK, DOUBLE FIREPLACES ENRICH TUDOR PLAN

LUXURY HIGHLIGHTS UNIQUE SPLIT FOYER DESIGN

By Jerry Bishop

Adapting the rich tradition of old England to the present day is a feat well accomplished in today's featured home, the Wentworth. Offering an all-inclusive floor plan, this Tudor split foyer is favored with a dining deck, double fireplaces, and other elements found in luxurious home of the Seventies.

A square bay window protrudes from the living room to add interest to the traditional facade. Inside, the split foyer arrangement achieves an effective use of space.

On the upper level, the floor plan shows bedrooms at right and living areas at left, carefully situated for convenience and privacy. The living room, with its striking bay window suggesting artful arrangements of furniture and plants, also merits a wood-burning fireplace. Bordering the living room is a formal dining room, joined to an expansive elevated deck by sliding glass doors, and a neighboring kitchen, furnished with plentiful counter space and a cozy breakfast area.

Three airy bedrooms, each with closets stretching over seven feet in lingth, fill the right half of this level. The master bedroom is spacious and offers two closets and a large compartmented private bath with linen closet and double sinks.

On the lower level, the Wentworth shows a floor plan, that is strictly contemporary. An immense family room, warmed by a wood-burning fireplace, provides a generous area for parties, play, or family relaxation. Adjacent to the family room is the large utility/laundry center and bordering half bath.

For the hobbyist or handyman, a sizable shop skirts the double garage and provides space for working, away from the main living areas.

Traditional in its exterior design, the Wentworth exhibits an interior plan geared to contemporary living.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Every adult in your house should know where the fuse box or circuit breaker panel is located. He or she should also know which fuses and breakers protect which circuits.

A kind of guessing game begins in the average household when a fuse blows or a circuit breaker shuts off. If the one person who knows the location of the box or panel is not at home, the first guess is involved with finding him or it. But even if the knowledgeable individual is present, he then begins the second part of the guessing game: namely, which fuse to replace or which breaker to reset.

I'll tell you how to solve that problem in a minute. First, let us understand that a fuse blows (the principal is the same with a circuit breaker) because the circuit is overloaded or has developed a short circuit. If it's overloaded, you can correct the trouble at once. If there is a short circuit, call an electrician.

Overloading is the most common cause. It occurs when too much electricity is being used on a single circuit. Since the appliances that heat up — toasters, electric irons, broilers, etc. — draw the most electricity, it is likely that one of those is being utilized on a circuit which already is carrying too much current. The fuse handling that circuit blows, telling you that something is wrong. If it's an overload, disconnecting the troublemaker and everything on that line is the first step. The second is replacement of the blown fuse. If it blows again immediately, it's probably a short circuit.

All of this is simple if you know which fuse protects which circuit — and which lights and outlets are on that circuit. There's an easy way to do this at a time when there is no trouble and to avoid guesswork when there is. Turn on all the lights. While you loosen each fuse one at a time — or shut off each circuit breaker — have someone else write down which lights go out each time. Check immediately to see which fuse controlled which outlets.

When the entire operation is completed, make a diagram of the setup and paste it on the fuse box or circuit breaker panel. Then, when lights go out or appliances stop running, you will be able to tell immediately which fuse needs replacement or which breaker needs resetting.

Always replace a fuse with one of the same size. If you remove a 15-ampere fuse, put in a new 15-ampere fuse. Replace it with a larger fuse, such as a 30 ampere, and the wires then can get hot without affecting the fuse.

Extra fuses of the proper size or sizes should be kept on hand. They should be stored where they are readily visible or, at least, in a place known to anyone who might have to replace one.

(Thirty-five do-it-yourself tasks are contained in Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

Q. — The other day, in inspecting the shingles on our roof to see what kind of condition they were in, I noticed that the flashing around the chimney has developed a green color. What does this mean and will it cause any trouble?

A. — All it means is that the flashing probably is of good quality. Copper takes on a green color after a period of time. It does not affect the ability of the flashing to keep out leaks, assuming that the metal is still securely in place.

Q. — Settle a dispute, please. Is the top layer of plywood actual wood or is it a synthetic?

A. — It's real wood. However, there is such a thing as a plywood panel with a facing of plastic.

Q. — We decided to repaint our kitchen ceiling a few weeks ago. My wife washed the ceiling with a detergent and I did the painting. It came out fine. The only trouble is that now the walls look kind of seedy although they appeared to be all right before the ceiling was painted. The question is whether the walls have to be washed, like the ceiling, before repainting. We'd like to avoid this if possible because it looks as though it will be a tedious job.

A. — It's common to decide to paint only a ceiling and then find that, by contrast, the walls seem dingy. The same thing holds true in reverse if you paint only the walls because the ceiling appears not to need it. Yes, if you plan to paint the walls, you must take steps to remove the grease that so often settles on kitchen walls. The one chance you have to avoid part of the work is that, sometimes, after washing the walls, you find that repainting is not necessary.

Q. — I intend to use varnish soon. Never having used it before, I asked my father about it. He said he used to apply it with a rag. I always thought that varnish had to be applied with a brush. Please enlighten me.

A. — While varnish is generally applied with a brush (and by some, with a sprayer), it can also be applied with a cloth. Wipe lightly with the grain. Most important, be sure the cloth is dust-free, since dust is the great enemy of varnish.

Q. — Can acoustical board be used for walls or is it meant only for ceilings?

A. — Most definitely, it can be used for walls and, in fact, is used that way more often than for ceilings. It's generally used in rooms in commercial buildings where it is desired to muffle sound. No reason why you can't use it in a house.

(The techniques of using varnish, shellac, lacquer, bleach, stain, etc., are detailed in Andy Lang's helpful booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," which can be obtained by sending 30 cents and a long, STAMPED, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743.)

Remodeled Bathroom Can Cost

By DOROTHEA BROOKS
United Press International

Of the $27.4 billion home owners will spend on remodeling and modernization this year, almost 10 per cent will go into bathrooms.

That means approximately 700,000 new or facelifted bathrooms.

If yours is one of them, the tab will run anywhere from perhaps $500 or less on up to $5,000 or more, with an average remodeling costing about $2,800, according to Harold O. Staus, director of marketing research for Universal-Rundle Corp., New Castle, Pa., manufacturer of bathroom fixtures and related products.

Along with everything else, this cost has risen sharply — from an average of $1,500 in 1970, Staus said.

However, bathrooms, like kitchens, are among the most valuable of remodeling jobs — in terms of improved living and the fact it is one of the few remodeling projects that may add property value to an older home in excess of the actual cost.

Robert K. Wark, president of Village Plumbing Co., Houston, Tex., and former president of the National Association of Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Contractors, says, "It's not that difficult to replace an old bath fixture with a new one, but the more you vary the piping, the higher the cost will be." For example, he explained, it isn't necessarily costly to move the piping for a new bathtub or lavatory. What is costly is moving the drain for the water closet. So when you plan your remodeling, you can save a considerable amount of money if the position of the closet isn't changed.

The cost of fixtures generally is not a major consideration in bathroom remodeling.

Louis A. Marozzi, vice president of marketing for Universal-Rundle, says, for example, "the difference in cost between a budget faucet and a really good faucet usually is less than $15. The difference between an economy-model water closet and a deluxe model that automatically vents away bathroom odors is only about $80."

Don Ariano, president of Ravinia Plumbing Co., a large remodeling firm serving Chicago's higher income north shore area, says most customers want better products, and are interested in the many new materials that have been developed primarily for the remodeling market.

Most remodeling, he said, consists of replacing old fixtures with new ones, adding vanities, storage units, new tile, lighting and decorative features. "We find a lot usually can be done without moving any of the existing piping," he said.

Materials in the bathroom have changed considerably in the past 10 years. Fiberglass tub and shower fixtures, for instance, now account for about 35 per cent of all remodeling installations. In 1966 they accounted for about three per cent.

The fiberglass units, lightweight and easy to install, were used initially for tubs and showers. In the past three years, fiberglass lavatories also have come into use and now even water closet tanks are being made of the plastic to reduce the amount of "sweating" that takes place during the hot summer months.

In addition to the ever-popular ceramic tile for baths, a variety of other water-resistant materials are used — plastic laminates, special coated wall papers and vinyl wall coverings, even wood paneling. For floors, the choice includes ceramic tile, one of the many resilient floor coverings or carpeting. Lighting has been updated and often is combined with ventilating and-or heating units. Storage can be provided from a wide variety of ready-made or built-in units. There is a wide choice of design and color in all areas.

Given the basics, and decorative imagination, the smallest bath can combine function and glamour. Even a tiny powder room tucked into an unused closet or under the stairs will pay dividends.

Larger rooms can be compartmented to separate facilities for simultaneous use by more than one person, or to serve as family bath and powder room. They can combine other functions, such as laundry to serve the bedroom area, exercise room, mini-greenhouse or, the latest trend in master baths, as a private sanctuary combining bathing facilities with a quiet spot for reading, writing or just contemplating.

Hasn't the bathroom always been the one place in the house where you could be by yourself?

Broker Says It's Still Mostly Buyer's Market

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In this keep-your-fingers-crossed housing market, a tremendous upsurge in house referrals by realtors in April — 25.76 per cent increase — was followed by two steady months, said C.H. Touchberry of Charlotte, N.C., in an interview. He is national president of Intercity Relocation Service, known as Relo, the 15-year-old, 800-member, nonprofit association of real estate brokers who help relocate families.

"It still is mainly a buyer's market in most areas except for isolated places — Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego and so on, but the picture can change. For example, Washington, D.C., has had a turnaround in the $40,000 to $70,000 house bracket and is now experiencing a seller's market," he explained.

Omaha, Kansas City, Cleveland and Pittsburgh are among other seller's markets revealed in a recent survey of 100 of the organization's top metropolitan areas, and some suburban areas — Chicago, St. Louis and the Philadelphia mainline — have become seller's markets but there are odd twists. In Davenport, Iowa, it is a seller's market under $40,000 and a buyer's market over $60,000. But Denver, Miami, Cincinnati, Mobile and most of New England continue to report buyer's markets.

Company moves cause instant change in many areas. When an oil company mass-moved out of Shreveport, it became a buyer's market, whereas an electric company moved to Greensboro, N.C., creating a market that couldn't even be met by existing housing.

Most people seek houses that cost as much or more than their present homes because they are then not taxed on the profits. On the West Coast members indicated that younger buyers are evaluating life patterns in more realistic terms, thinking far into the future before doing anything.

In some areas the three-bedroom house is now more in demand than the four-bedroom house and in Memphis realtors are predicting "a return to the nice two-bedroom house." In higher priced suburbs of Chicago and some other cities the four-bedroom house is still preferred.

"The four-bedroom house is still popular here. There are a tremendous number of traveling men here and in Atlanta who work out of their homes," Touchberry explained. "Formerly many bought five-bedroom houses, using one bedroom for an office, but now they buy a four-bedroom house, using one room for an office and guest room."

Although location, price and resale value are prime considerations this year in the choice of a home, the survey showed, there is still a lot of interest in schools. In Erie, Detroit and Greensboro anything unusual in the school situation still is an overriding concern.

People are paying two and a half to three times their gross income for a home and often it is purchased with the combined income of husband and wife. Many are paying more in monthly payments than their weekly income, usually the rule of thumb.

"Any family who wants a home priced at triple their income should plan a large cash payment to reduce the amount they borrow. They should try to bring it down to the doubled income figure," advises Touchberry, who has been in the real estate business for two decades.

While Louisville shows a slight trend to cluster homes and condominiums, overwhelmingly the single-family home still is the most popular in most areas. Some states do not yet have laws governing condominiums.

"We have been behind in North Carolina as we have had a law governing condominiums for only six years. In other states there have been problems where some projects have gone into foreclosure and people have become scared. In Florida, they are enacting laws now that would prohibit condominium developers from leasing the land on which condominiums are built. That's where the trouble is mainly, when the leased land doubles in price."

One big concern for a transferee these days is what resale price he may receive when he must transfer again. Other concerns expressed in the survey of the realtors included those reflected by energy shortages — driving long distances to work or to airports they must use so often. Local utility rates and the fuel required in maintenance of the home are other considerations.

As for remodeling old houses because they cost less, although many bachelor buyers are doing this and in many states big old houses may be bought for less, in some areas such houses are at a premium.

Although some moves are being made by people changing their jobs, most moves today are corporate moves, Touchberry explained.

Fast Growing Hobby In Collecting Miniatures

Hobbyists who make or collect miniatures are increasing so fast that a national organization formed in 1972 says it's getting about 100 requests a day for membership.

Miniatures as a category covers everything from dolls to houses, generally 1-inch to 1-foot scale, or smaller.

"Just about everything that's made, someone is making in miniature," says Vicki Newhouse of Huntington Beach, Calif. Mrs. Newhouse is treasurer of The National Association of Miniature Enthusiasts in nearby Anaheim.

NAME's members are adult collectors of miniature antiques, houses and furniture, or artisans who make the pieces.

"In the last two years," Mrs. Newhouse said, "growth in miniatures has been phenomenal. Miniatures are affordable to everyone.

"What's nice about it is it's more of a family hobby. Many husbands are getting into the architectural part of it, designing houses and settings for the pieces their wives make or collect."

Mrs. Newhouse said the boom stems from current economic problems.

"When families go even to the local theaters, it's $3 a seat, plus popcorn and babysitter. It's getting expensive. Also more leisure time has a big effect," she said.

"Also, with the fuel shortage we won't be driving and camping as much. This is affordable and available to everyone, of every age."

She said she frequently hears from people in towns she does not recognize who want to become involved by mail, if not in any other way.

Mrs. Newhouse herself collects and creates miniatures. Her specialty is making dollhouse dolls that are replicas of people. The dolls range in height from one to six inches.

Dozens of smaller groups in southern California also are involved in miniatures. Many stage shows, sales and fairs.

NAME's 10 regional directors do the same.

Mrs. Newhouse said that NAME publishes a quarterly, "Miniature Gazette," and has scheduled a national convention for Aug. 11-12 in Milwaukee. It will include speakers, slide shows, workshops and sales.

Mrs. Betty Allen of the Gardena (Calif.) Miniature Guild, which was organized in 1967, said only in the past couple of years have collectors have been able to buy what they want.

Now many shops around the country sell miniatures.

Mrs. Allen said many clubs and groups organized because they couldn't find what they wanted, so they got together to make miniature objects.

"We always said we were the first to recycle things," Mrs. Allen said. "We don't throw anything away.

Safety-Proofing For Tots Urged

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Childproof your kitchen to keep tykes out of trouble: keep trash compactors locked when not in use, place the refrigerator or freezer so the back coils, which become hot, cannot be touched, and latch the dishwasher door securely so a toddler who tries to pull himself into a standing position with the handle won't accidentally open the door on himself.

These tips are from a home appliance manufacturer, who also suggests inserting plugs in all floor level electrical outlets not in use. This reduces the possibility of electrical shock caused by inserting metal into the outlets.

The Revolutionary War ended on Sept. 3, 1783, in Paris when England signed a peace treaty.

Diggers Find Trace Of Old Gun Factory

NEW HAVEN (AP) — Eli Whitney, a Connecticut business pioneer who invented the cotton gin, is less well known for his innovations in mass-produced firearms. An excavation project at the site of Whitney's gun factory here is attempting to change that.

"We have come across quite a few bullets that date back to the early 1800s but not the actual guns themselves," says David Starbuck, a Yale University anthropology instructor who heads the project.

His group, scheduled to work through August, is sponsored by the New Haven Bicentennial Commission and the New Haven Colony Historical Society, which have granted the diggers $8,000.

J.J. Smith, executive director of the society, says "Without history, archeology is another way of helping us discover more about the processes and methods Whitney employed at his plant.

Starbuck explains, "Parts from guns may have been melted down and recast. Hopefully, we'll find some of Whitney's early machinery and gun parts and determine his actual manufacturing process."

The site is on land adjacent to Lake Whitney on the New Haven-Hamden boundary. Whitney's operation in 1798 consisted of a factory and raceway to channel the Mill River as it raced over a small dam. Other structures were added later.

"It takes anywhere from one to two weeks to dig a test pit," says Starbuck. "Each bucket of earth removed is sifted, and anything man-made or of cultural value is stashed in paper bags."

Among the items Starbuck has found are bricks with their manufacturers' signatures, chiseled stone and what is believed to be the hammer of an old rifle.

A group Starbuck headed last summer at the factory site excavated parts of a forge and the raceway. One obstacle is construction done in the ensuing years over the old building foundations.

"Written history hasn't been able to tell us what has become of the original foundations of some of Whitney's buildings," Starbuck explains. "Buildings constructed at later dates that no longer stand were placed over areas where we believe old foundations exist. We don't know if these foundation projects have had any effect on the foundations we're looking for."

Get Physical Exam Visits

CLEVELAND (AP) — Retail Store Employes Union Local 880 has set up a health system described as "preventive medicine on wheels."

The system involves bringing health checkups to the employes instead of having the employes go to doctors' offices, says Local 880 President David McDonald.

Two trailer trucks containing $1.5 million in equipment, including two computers, and staffed by eight paramedics and medical technicians make the rounds where the local's members work.

They handle about 90 persons a day, giving each a 1½-hour physical exam — "comprehensive medical screening," a spokesman says.

"We don't diagnose and we don't treat," the spokesman says. "Everything we do here is supposed to be an aid to the primary physician."

The reports on the exams are turned over to the individuals' private doctors.

A state labor spokesman who said the system is the first in Ohio expressed considerable interest in how it works out. He called it "an indication that the trade union movement is not interested just in the wages and hours of its members but in the total person."

The program was begun because many members of the local neglected to get examinations despite there having been a free service, officials said.

"So now that we got our people educated to physicals, we are tajing it right to them," McDonald said.

Andrew Jackson, unaware that a peace treaty had been signed with the British, defeated a British army at New Orleans in January of 1815.

Annual ECU Summer Music Camp Begins Today

A TIME FOR RELAXING. . .In this summer 1974 photograph, high school and ECU students listen to an impromptu open air concert. This year, hundreds of high school music makers will again be taking part in the annual ECU Summer Music Camp beginning today and continuing through July 25. (Photograph by Davis Jones)

For hundreds of teen-age music students, the annual Summer Music Camp held on campus at East Carolina University is the big event of the year.

Again this summer, from North Carolina and several other states, boys and girls of 12 to about 18, something like 360 of them, will be reporting in to the School of Music today for two weeks of specialized training mixed with the fellowship of seeing old friends and meeting new ones.

While on campus, the summer camp students will take part in a big array of musical activities—full band rehearsal, performing in sections, ensembles, clinics and in concerts. They will also have an opportunity to study conducting, arranging, composition, to take private lessons and to participate in an electronic music workshop.

Camp director Herbert Carter, Director of Bands for the ECU School of Music, has announced that music students will be performing in four large band ensembles. In addition to Carter, these are Ray Haney of Elizabethtown, Ed Jones of Woodbridge, Va., and George Knight of ECU.

Members of the instrumental staff are: Joseph Distefano, theory and administration; Harold Jones, percussion and administration; Gene Lloyd, electronic music; George Naff, instrumental ensembles; Marie Davis, flute; Craig Mills, double reeds; Luther Gillon, clarinet; James Houlik, saxophone; Ronald Byerly, trumpet; James Parnell, horn; Billy Sneed, trombone; and Guyte Cotton, baritone and tuba. Ten other staff members will assist the instrumental staff.

Four concerts by the students have been scheduled. These are open to the public and there is no admission charge for attendance. These are: Sunday, July 20 at 7 p.m., "Sunday in the Park;" Wednesday, July 23, 8 p.m., Recital Hall on campus, a concert of solo and small ensemble performances; Thursday, July 24, 8 p.m., Recital Hall, a concert of large ensembles and jazz bands; and Friday, July 25, the final and biggest concert, to be held at 2 p.m. in Wright Auditorium.

Free Concerts At Square

NEW YORK (AP) — Music at the Square will be 18 free concerts this year, outdoors at Washington Square. The first is an all-Brahms program of songs for soprano, contralto, tenor and bass.

The concerts are sponsored by the Department of Music and Music Education of New York University

Local Performers In Today's Park Concert

A quintet of young music makers highlight the "Sunday In The Park" program today beginning at 7 p.m. at the entertainment site east of Reade Street between Third and Fourth Streets.

Two couples—Billy and Sandra Stinson and Tony and Leigh Dugue, and Norah Moore will combine their talents in voice and instruments to bring the public a program of songs ranging from traditional to songs as new as "When Will I Be Loved." The five will be joined by "Sunday In The Park" coordinator Stuart Aronson.

Norah Moore, who has taught drama in the county schools, is slated to make a future appearance as a vocalist in the Nicky Cruz Crusade.

Tony and Leigh are both graduate students at East Carolina University, Billy and Sandra are teachers at Rose High School. The four were performers in one of the programs of "Sunay In The Park" last summer. Sandra and Billy are also the composers of the Greenville Bicentennial song, "Every Road Leads To Greenville."

The versatile musicians list among the instruments they play the six and 12 string guitar, dulcimer, and banjo.

Among selections to be presented by the six performers are "Maria," "Water Is Wide," "Today," "Glendale Train," "Marvelous Toy," and two songs by Billy Stinson—"Preferences" and "Where Is The Cove?"

The audience will be asked to join in singing with the group songs such as "Gypsy Rover" and "Go Tell It On The Mountain."

The 1975 "Summer In The Park" series is made possible by funds provided by the City of Greenville and the North Carolina Arts Council.

In the event of rain, a rain date for 7 p.m. Monday at the same site has been set.

Sunshine Boys Held Over

Managing Director Robroy Farquhar of the Flat Rock Playhouse has announced that "The Sunshine Boys," will be held over for a second week beginning next Tuesday, July 15.

"The Sunshine Boys" goes into the second week by popular demand. The first holdover production for the Vagabonds was in 1949 with "My Sister Eileen." The most recent was last season's "Uproar in the House."

"The Sunshine Boys" is the 21st play to be held over in the history of the Tarheel troupe. The Vagabond Players, since their organization in New York City in 1937 and debut in Flat Rock in 1941, have presented 325 productions and given 3268 performances.

A Layered Look At Life's Uniqueness

The Individual. By Paul Good and the Editors of Time-Life Books. Time-Life Books, New York. 176 pps. illustrated $8.95

This photo-rich book is like a club sandwich: Its contents are varied and interesting to observe and have been put together not so much to offer substance but rather to entertain and introduce. By no means is it filling but its filling can be enjoyed.

The first chapter begins with some interesting photos and facts about the physical uniqueness of individuals throughout the world. The high-arched nose of the Jordanian, for example, has taken on this "hooked" form to perform the function of humidifying the dry desert air before it is inhaled into the delicate inner-surface of the lungs. The chapter ends with a popularized photo essay of the individual uniqueness of teen-age twins who, though physically identical, are each unique in other matters.

Chapter two continues with even a further emphasis upon human uniqueness as determined during the early years of life, and while the photographs are often warm and touching, the narrative introduces the hardness of scientific thoughts and theories of Freud, Spitz, Skinner, and other behaviorists.

The next two chapters offer insight into two normally contrasting subjects: intellect and creativity. Man's attempt to measure, categorize, and educate the intellect is represented by a discussion of the works of Binet, Terman, and others, and a small but particularly interesting portion points out that standards of intelligence are relative to the suvival needs of societies which are ever adapting.

Those readers attracted to The Individual by the cover photo should find the chapter on creativity particularly interesting. Its effectiveness appears diluted, however, by an attempt to intellectualize and report on academic studies of matters of the creative spirit. As might be expected, the photographs help in rescuing multi-dimensional matters from two-dimensional treatment.

The personality enigma is first treated in the narrative and then presented in a method which pairs paintings and other art forms with photographs and descriptions of behaviorists and their respective points of view. Freud, Jung, Allport, Rogers, Maslow, Erikson and others each receive a full page treatment.

The final chapter focuses upon change of the individual. The transition of Polish-born naval officer Jozef Teodor Konrad Korzeniowski to British author Joseph Conrad serves as an example of change in one individual. "Skinner boxes," behavior modification, brain washing, Pavlov's dogs, Dale Carnegie, gambling in Las Vegas, more Freud, and an ocean cruise for the purpose of giving up smoking are all covered in this final chapter.

The author and editors complete this "club sandwich" by covering it at both ends with a warm, crustless, leavened layer. The "top slice" is a very attractive cover photo which entices the viewer to consume the contents. The "bottom slice" is the final page which contains Huxley's reply to those who would change, alter, or modify individual behavior so that all might be uniformly good and consistently happy: "But I don't want comfort. I want God, I want poetry, I want real danger, I want freedom, I want goodness, I want sin."

Harold Brammer's Show At Kate Lewis Gallery

Harold Brammer's senior show, which opened with a reception on Thursday night at Kate Lewis Gallery, is another example of the surprisingly varied achievements being made by a number of ECU's art students.

In this relatively large show (about two dozen works), Elon College native Harold exhibits paintings and drawings in both representational and abstracted styles. In some of the works, the influence of his minor (commercial art) shows in the stylistic, advertisement oriented style of the paintings—for example, in colorful studies of a group of zebras and of two geese in flight.

The best pieces in this student show are those that reveal Harold's talent as a draftsman, including a couple of figure drawings of female nudes. A triptych of drawings—of a man, a child in a fruit jar, and apples and women—is effectively conceived. His portrait of Debbie Gray evokes the charm and beauty of a young woman in simple, straightforward terms.

Among the abstractions in this exhibit, I find the ones painted in bolder, richer colors far more effective than those in lighter colors that in some instances are somewhat vague in structure.

Harold was an award winner in the recently held first annual Mendenhall Student Center Art Show and has also exhibited at the Greenville Art Center spring show and in his home town.

His show, which sill be on view at Kate Lewis Gallery in Whichard Building on campus for several weeks, is a well organized show with several paintings that show excellent promise for the future development of the young artist. It's a worthwhile addition to the Greenville summer art scene.

Poems That Speak Of Inner Responses To Life

Step Carefully In Night Grass (A Collection of Poems). By Susan L. Bartels. Winston-Salem, N.C. John F. Blair, Publisher. 55 pps, $4.50

Readers who of necessity must ration their reading time will find pleasure in this collection of poems by Susan Bartels.

Each of the 47 brief poems in Step Carefully In Night Grass are carefully nourished ideas, structured so naturally that they belie the discipline behind each telling word and line.

Though frugally constructed, each poem possesses a fragile toughness,. . .taut, minimal words that illuminate inner responses to living.

In the title poem, we are assured that evil heard of is not necessarily true, yet the poet cautions . . ."We step carefully in night grass—never barefoot." After this gentle warning, she quietly opens new vistas of human pleasures. . ."We lie in long grass—where the wind makes waves—halfway between two oceans—watch insects crawl on green stalks."

Mrs. Bartels never strains for effect, is never pompous or faddish. With amazing economy and simplicity, the words flower into satisfying, self-contained pictures of life, as in "Paternity." An old man, loving beyond the ordinary bounds of love, waters a flower bed in January. . ."Satisfied—the old man takes his—hose and goes inside—to wait for the first signs of spring."

Imagery in the poems is skeletal, Concise sketches guiding the reader to exercise his own imaginings; to discover the essential truth that life with all its commonplaces is beautiful, that there's magic in the seemingly insignificant.

Though spare, these poems are never vague or unfulfilled. What could better capture the truest color of rural carnival time that the final lines of "County Fair"? . . ."Children beg for rides in whines—as sweating young men move—against the flow—to brush the sleek hipped girls."

The leanness, the pared structure of these poems in no way minimizes emotional involvement. Rather, the poet tempers emotion with reasoning, saying there are choices based on the clarity of reasoning,as for example, in "Priorities," where she questions, then with assurance answers. . ."What is this talk of bones?—Before mine whiten—I will concentrate on whiter flesh—or if not whiter—soft, responsive, warm."

Mrs. Bartels gifts are as evident in staking out the feel of places as they are in measuring the human heart. Consider these lines from "Moving South." "In this fertile land—sun thwarts the regularity—of accustomed time—Rampant bamboo and kudzu—invade lush gardens—rhythm is undefined—moves us in warm—uncharted directions."

It is not too often that the efforts of contemporary poets move me "in warm, uncharted directions." The poems in Step Carefully In Night Grass do. This is a small volume I know that I will return to time and again. Each poem is a separate and special pleasure.

At The N.C. Museum of History

Appalachia Exhibit On View

Old faces, young faces—smiling or pensive, and hands at work and play—all make up "Portrait of Appalachia," the new exhibit at the Museum of History in Raleigh.

A series of photographs by famed photographer Doris Ulmann portrays the life and times of North Carolina mountains during the early 1930s. Miss Ulmann, of New York's Park Avenue, brought her camera and equipment to southwestern North Carolina. The delicate "city-lady" painstakingly won the confidence of the proud and sensitive mountain people, and left a photographic record never to be duplicated.

The photographs in the collection were taken in and around Brasstown, home of the John C. Campbell Folk School. Also included in the exhibit are wood carvings executed by these same people in the photographs. The detailed carvings—mostly animals, usually from the farms or nearby woods—and the photographs are on loan from the Campbell School.

The images recorded by the Ulmann camera reflect the life of the people at work and at play. "People don't have faces like this anymore," wrote one of Miss Ulmann's admirers.

And indeed they don't. Young and old and all in-between, the Appalachian mountain people have a unique pensive and thoughtful look. It was Miss Ulmann's genius that captured this uniqueness—a determined individuality that seems etched into each countenance.

Music, so much a part of mountain lives, is well-represented in the fiddles and other instruments amply evident in the photographs. Everyday activities of spinning, churning, rug-making, farming or carving are there also.

The photographs, mostly sepia and all signed, are mounted and hung in the second floor exhibition area.

Hospitality House

Weather, a regional magazine, cockroaches, teen-age beauty queens and a religious message are all part of Kay Currie's "Hospitality House" programs over WITN-TV, Channel 7 from noon until 1 p.m. today.

Dr. Thomas Williams of Greenville, editor of the "New East" magazine talks about the current issue of the regional magazine, which is devoted principally to the Outer Banks.

Paul Barrys, meteorologist for WITN-TV, explains extreme weather conditions such as tornadoes, hurricanes and lightning storms. Household pests, including cockroaches, is the subject of guest McRay Price of Wilson.

The religious message of the program will be presented by Rev. Irwin Hulbert of St. Peter's Episcopal Church; and also making appearances are the young contestants in the Original Washington Little Tar Heel Queen competition.

Grifton Receives Grant For Art, Music, Dance

The town of Grifton has received a $1665.00 grant from the North Carolina Arts Council to be used for art classes, music and dance demonstrations, and arts and crafts displays.

The money will be matched with local funds to provice an programs for the coming year.

Mrs. Maxine Harker, coordinator of the local program, reports that interest so far has been expressed in oil painting, childrens' art, macrame, guitar, piano, water color and sculpture.

People interested in any type of arts instruction should call Mrs. Harker at 524-4681 or Mrs. Jane Lambert at 524-4418 so that classes can be set up to match the interests of local citizens.

Instructors are available through the cooperation of the Kinston Arts Council for children's art, art in various mediums for teenagers and adults music, and folk dancing such as clogging.

In 1874 the first zoological garden in the U.S. was established in Philadelphia.

Halifax '76 Events Set

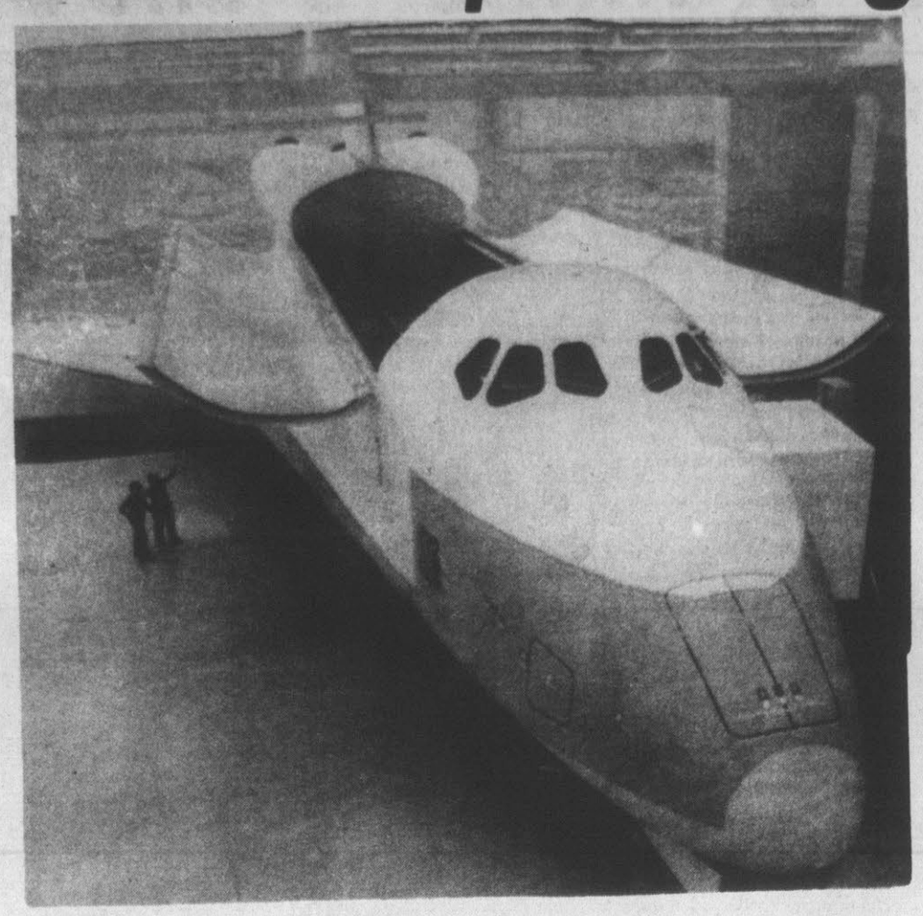
Manned Space Program Is Painfully Coming Of Age



SHUTTLE CRAFT—Employes at Rockwell International Space Division look over full-scale mockup of Space Shuttle orbiter. With payload bay doors open can be seen area in which up to 65,000 lbs. of varied cargo will be carried in Earth orbit. (UPI Photo)

By JACK V. FOX

DOWNEY, Calif. (UPI) — And now the space shuttle.

Shuttle? The name itself is banal, but with it America's manned space program is departing the glory years. Reluctantly, for some painfully, it is coming of age.

The Shepards and Glenns, Neil Armstrong's giant step on the moon—they were the pioneer heroes as were the Wright brothers, Lindbergh and Amelia Earhart in another glamor era.

You can sense the advent of the prosaic in the cavernous structures of Rockwell International where they are building sections of the shuttle craft whose powered flight in 1979 will be the nation's next manned effort after the Soviet-American linkup the middle of this month.

It is the same plant where they built the historic Apollo ships—the bell-shaped little modules that thrilled millions as they splashed down in the ocean and which one day will be as great a curiosity as the Wright's ungainly plane.

In one section of the Rockwell plant stands a mockup of the shuttle. The first reaction is surprise at how big it is. The second is how closely it resembles present giant airliners and cargo carriers.

Then comes the dawning that this is the first space workhorse. It will mean to the industry what the famous DC3 meant to aviation.

The unique feature of the shuttle is that it can be launched into orbit and then make a landing on earth, ready to go back into space in a two week turnaround period.

It can launch other spacecraft, eliminating the tricky and costly rocket shots from Cape Canaveral and Vandenberg.

It can retrieve any of the scores of unmanned satellites whirling around the globe, bring them back to earth for repair or reprogramming and then put them back on the job. It can make repairs and transfer experiments in space.

And, finally, it can take passengers to and from orbiting vehicles.

It is, in fact, the prototype of the sky bus that will one day take ordinary people, not just astronauts, engineers and scientists, into the weightless realm outside the earth's atmosphere. In its "payload" compartment is room for 200 people.

The timetable calls for the first finished shuttle to be rolled out of the U.S. Air Force facility at Palmdale, Calif., in September of next year.

Under the $5.1 billion appropriated by Congress to NASA, Rockwell has the big bite but literally hundreds of subcontractors and suppliers are engaged in the program, expected to employ 36,000 at its peak.

Rockwell is building the after thrust structure, the crew compartment and the forward fuselage. Its Rocketdyne division is responsible for the three main engines.

Beginning in the spring of 1977, NASA will start the first year of powerless tests at Edwards Air Force Base in the Mojave Desert.

The shuttle will be launched from the back of a specially modified Boeing 747 and then brought down by its first pilots in a glider landing on the dry lake beds. The shuttle, in fact, will always make powerless landings for its three engines are used only to get it off the ground.

The shuttle ordinarily will carry a pilot, copilot, flight engineer and a "payload" master. There is no word as to the composition of its first crew but one bit of scuttlebutt is that a woman will be aboard.

An old Rockwell hand recently was talking about the change in the approach to building a spaceship.

"Back in the early 1960s, (President John F.) Kennedy announced we would put a man on the moon within 10 years. Just like that. And we did.

"But we had to start from scratch. We had to invent as we went along. We would put five designers on a single project in hopes one would come up with the right idea. The funds were almost limitless.

"Now we have reached an entirely different stage. It may not be as exhilirating but in the long run it may prove to be the most important."

Backbreaking, Dangerous Home Life For The Colonial Family

By KRISTIN GOFF
Associated Press Writer

The members of the Benias Brendel family huddled around a rough-hewn wooden table and ate a dinner of venison and flour dumplings from a common dish.

At the end of a winter 200 years ago, when stored supplies of food were running low, a poor colonial farm family like the Brendels depended mainly on wild game for food. If hunting was poor, the family meals were meager.

The Brendels relied on the kitchen fireplace for cooking and to heat their three-room wood cabin. The room next to the kitchen was called "the great room." By day it was used for spinning and other chores. By night the parents and their youngest child slept there, drawing what warmth they could from the back wall of the kitchen fireplace.

Upstairs, in an unheated and unfinished loft, the other children slept bundled three and four to a bed. With them were the winter's food supply. Cloth sacks of dried beans and peas, salted and smoked meats, cormeal and flor, were tied and hung from the rafters to keep them from rats and mice.

The Brandels were a poor German farm family that lived in Landis Valley, Pennsylvania, at the start of the American Revolution. Their life was like that of 90 per cent of the 2.5 million people in the 13 colonies in the 1770s.

Like farmers throughout the colonies, they grew their own food, kept livestock, hunted, grew flax and raised sheep for their clothes, plucked geese feathers to stuff their mattresses, and chopped wood endlessly to feed their fireplace day and night.

For most families, the tasks of keeping fed, clothed and warm left little time for other concerns. But for a few, colonial life was not nearly so bleak.

Not three days' ride by horseback from the Brendels' farming settlement, John and Ruth Potts took their main, midday dinner in a formal dining room.

Their table was of imported mahogany, crafted by a Philadelphia cabinetmaker. Their floors were covered with Oriental rugs. They ate from handpainted China dishes and drank, perhaps, from pewter mugs.

Even at the end of a winter in the mid-1700s, the Potts, who owned several lucrative ironmaking furnaces, could afford to eat well.

An average dinner might include pork, chicken and mutton, soup or stew, custard, bread or corn cakes, perhaps dried fruit and nuts, and imported wine or ale.

The younger of the Potts' 13 children ate in a children's dining room, waited on by servants, and kept apart from their parents until their table manners were perfected.

There were 14 rooms in the Georgian-style mansion in the years prior to the Revolutionary War. Most of the rooms had fireplaces.

In almost all families the children played an important part in the work. Although the death rate for both infants and their mothers was extremely high, it was not uncommon for a family to have more than a dozen children.

Abigail Foote, an educated young girl of Colchester, Conn., apparently of the middle-class, jotted down her day's work in a diary written in 1775.

"Fix'd gown for Prude, — Mend Mother's Riding-hood, — Spun short thread, — Fix'd two gowns for Welsh's girls, — Carded tow, — Spun linen, — Work on Cheesebasket, — Hatchel'd flax with Hannah, we did 51 lbs. apiece, — Pleated and ironed, — Read a Sermon of Dodridge's, — Spooled a piece, — Milked the cows, — Spun linen, did 50 knots, — Made a Broom of Guinea wheat straw, — Spun thread to whiten, — Set a Red dye, — Had two Scholars from Mrs. Taylor's, — I carded two pounds of whole wool, — Spun harness twine, — Scoured the pewter."

A poorer family might not have any pewter to scour but it would have all the other chores to do.

The Most urgent task of any day was preparing meals. If the menu was large enough, the preparation of dinner, usually eaten in early afternoon, might begin even before breakfast.

Such a simple task as washing cooking pots was backbreaking work. Many of the larger iron kettles weighed more than 100 pounds and might have to be carried to a stream to be washed.

History does not record how many women were burned because flames and sparks set fire to their long petticoats. But certainly this was a constant danger of cooking over an open hearth. Fortunately, their homespun wools and linens caught fire less easily than do many synthetics today.

Spinning occupied enormous amounts of time. To spin enough thread for a single wool petticoat, or skirt, one person had to work constantly from breakfast until bedtime for four days.

There were other chores more seasonal in nature.

The fall was the busiest time of year because of the harvest and because food had to be dried and preserved for the winter, and animals had to be butchered.

One chore that wasn't as common then as today was washing.

Particularly in poorer families, where each member had only one set of clothes, it might be a month or more before a laundry was done.

Not Many Dull Days In UN General Assembly

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — "Threatening phone calls and abusive letters and bomb scares were reported almost daily" during the U.N. General Assembly last Sept. 17-Dec. 18, says a municipal office that helped deal with the situation.

They sprang from "various global disputes" and "because of the possibility of mail bombs and political kidnaping, the individual diplomats often needed special security," the New York City Commission for the United Nations and the Consular Corps explains in its recently issued 1974 report.

The commission "worked closely with the Police Department," cooperated with the U.S. Executive Protective Service and dealt with 167 cases of "acquisition of police protection when necessary because of threats to person."

The report lists almost 40 countries as having been involved. Among them are all 20 Arab countries, Israel, South Africa, South Vietnam, South and North Korea, the United States, the Soviet Union, Cuba, Ireland, Britain, France, Ethiopia, Cyprus, Greece, Turkey, Yugoslavia, Pakistan and Bangladesh.

The assembly held separate debates on Palestine, South Africa, Cambodia and Korea; touched on many other disputes in its general debate; lionized Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasir Arafat, limited Israel's right to speak and suspended South Africa from participation.

"The 29th General Assembly was a tumultuous one with a negative effect on the image of the United Nations in the city, as well as in the United States ..." the report says. "Demonstrations took place in all parts of the city."

The commission is headed by Mrs. John L. Loeb, wife of an investment banker, holding the title of commissioner.

Though part of the office of Mayor Abraham D. Beame, it is housed in the United States' U.N. mission opposite this headquarters.

The 30-page report says it serves a diplomatic community of over 31,000 people, including 5,767 in the U.N. secretariat, 1,309 in 144 U.N. missions or observer offices and 680 in 90 consulates, and their families.

The commission last year helped 120 of them get disentangled from house or apartment leases, aided 114 with parking and license-plate problems and collected over $30,000 in outstanding debts owed to New York firms and residents by diplomats immune from legal process.

On May 31, 1790, the U.S. copyright law was enacted.

Wild Inflation In Pay Scales

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tenants in New York City's Grand Central building got a first-hand lesson in inflation recently when they discovered the building's freight elevator operators earn almost $30,000 a year.

They got a whopping $14.09 an hour, the tenants were told, and porters, who handle the building's trash, get $9.06 an hour. Even the cleaning women do okay —$6.35 an hour —which is slightly over $13,000 a year.

The first postage stamp was issued in England May 6, 1840.

Spent A Day In Old School

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Second graders from the Lucas Valley School near here spent a day at the old one-room Dixie Schoolhouse to discover the difference in their modern education and that of the 1869 era.

The children dressed in clothes of the period, long dresses, bonnets, caps and hats. They sat and did their lessons at the old wooden desks. Missing was the old pot-bellied wood stove so typical of the small country schools of that day.

The Dixie School was made a historical landmark several years ago.

No fair peaking. No fun, either.
P-E-A-K...as in "peak demand".
As in electricity. As in your monthly electric utility bill.
The summer electric rate you're paying this year is based on the peak demand you established last year.
The rate you pay next year will be based, in part, on the peak demand you establish this summer.
Yes, you.
You use the electricity. You establish the peaks. You influence the rates you pay.
You can make them higher next year.
Or...you can help keep them down.
How? Simple.

don't PEAK!

Nobody's asking you to use less electricity...only to use it more wisely.
For example:
Peak demand usually comes between 5:00 PM and 7:00 PM on very hot days. Everybody gets home from work...turns on the air conditioners full blast...cooks a meal...washes dishes...maybe even washes and dries a load of laundry. Everybody does everything at the same time...creating a huge peak demand.
But!
What if the folks who're going to cook out or go out were to leave their air conditioning up around 78°, or higher, instead of turning it cooler?
What if the people with dishwashers used them only once a day...around bedtime or early in the morning?
What if everybody with laundry to wash and dry did it in the morning?
Then!
There wouldn't be a huge peak demand this year. Then you'd stand a good chance of holding down summer electric rates next year.
So?
Don't peak. It isn't wise.
Please.

Monarchs Topple Pirates On Homers

By JOHN EVANS

FAYETTEVILLE—Terry Durham and his East Carolina University teammates fell victim to some long-ball hitting by Methodist College and the Monarchs downed ECU, 6-1, in a game shortened by rain.

Durham served up two-run homers to Buddy Gooch and Sam Tolar and Robert Bryant's second triple led to two more Monarch runs.

The Monarchs scored two in the first, when Jerry Neal walked with two out and Gooch followed with a home run to left.

Durham continued to have trouble in the second inning. Tolar scratched out an infield hit and scored when Bryant slammed his three-bagger. Bryant scored on a fly ball by Mike Hayes and Methodist led, 4-0, after two innings.

ECU pushed across a run in the third off Monarch pitcher John McMillian. The Pirate runs came with one out when Ken Gentry and Eddie Lawing hit back to back doubles.

In the fourth, ECU loaded the bases with two out but McMillian retired Gentry to end the inning.

The Pirates threatened only once after the fourth, and that was in the seventh, when the rain ended the game.

After his shakey start in the first two innings, Durham settled down and controlled the Monarchs until the sixth. In the sixth, Durham walked Bobby Cobb with two out. Tolar followed with hit third homer run of the season giving Methodist a 6-1 lead. Steve Hodges blasted a long out to Glen Card in center to end the sixth. Shortly after Gentry walked to lead off the seventh, the skies opened and swamped the field, leaving Gentry and Steve Bryant stranded on the basepaths.

After a short wait the game was called and ECU had lost its third game in a row.

The Pirates are now 9-9 and Methodist is 8-10.

ECU travels to Louisburg today for a 4:00 p.m. game.

St. Louis Gains 2-1 Win On McBride's Single In Tenth

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Pinch-hitter Bake McBride singled home a run in the 10th inning, giving the St. Louis Cardinals a 2-1 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers in a nationally televised game Saturday.

Ken Reitz singled off reliever Rick Rhoden, 1-1, to trigger the rally and pinch-runner Buddy Bradford scored on McBride's bouncing single up the middle for the winning run. The hit made a winner out of relief pitcher Al Hrabosky, 4-2.

The Cardinals tied the game 1-1 in the ninth inning on Reggie Smith's leadoff home run off Al Downing. Until that point, the crafty Dodger lefthander had given up but four hits to the Cardinals.

Immediatley after Smith belted Downing's pitch into the left field seats for his 12th homer of the year, Dodger relief ace Mike Marshall came into the game and got the side out.

Earlier, Dave Lopes smashed a homer off Cardinal starter Lynn McGlothen in the fifth inning to give the Dodgers a 1-0 lead.

McGlothen retired Steve Yeager and Downing after breezing into the fifth inning, then watched helplessly as Lopes' towering drive sailed over a Busch Stadium inner fence in left-center.

Only Mike Tyson, Reggie Smith, Ted Sizemore and Luis Melendez hit safely for the Cards against Downing before he gave up the game-tying homer.

Sizemore hammered a two-out double in the sixth for the third St. Louis hit and Smith walked only to have Ted Simmons pop to right field for the rally-killing out.

Downing's start was only his third of the season and his first in three weeks.

Downing, who last year had the dubious distinction of serving the pitch Hank Aaron hit for his record 715th homer, had been trying for his 25th career shutout until Smith connected.

Before the blow, a 365-foot drive into the left field seats, St. Louis had struggled against the off-speed deliveries of the 35-year-old southpaw.

Through the first eight innings, Downing struck out five Cardinals, gettting Ted Simmons, a .500 hitter in July, on two of the occasions.

Sizemore had doubled for St. Louis with two outs in the sixth inning and Smith followed with a walk, but Downing continued his mastery at that point by inducing Simmons to pop out.

Only Smith and Tyson had delivered Cardinal hits until then, and afterward only Luis Melendez reached base on a seventh-inning single before Downing faltered in his third start of the season.

Pitt County's 13-Year-Olds Squeeze Past Greenville, 4-3

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Pitt County's 13-year-old All-Stars twice broke ties with Greenville as they battled to a 4-3 win last night in the district VI Babe Ruth tournament.

The victory sent Pitt County into the finals of the double-elimination tournament on Monday. Under a revised scheduled because of rain Saturday, Washington West will meet Craven County in a 1 p.m. game at the Jaycee Park. The winner of that game travels back to Guy Smith to meet Greenville at approximately 3:00 p.m. with the winner facing Pitt County in the finals.

The game was tied on two occassions. Once at 1-1 and again at 3-3. Both times, Greenville had fought back from 1-0 and 3-1 deficites to knot the score. In the seventh a base hit and an error profited them nothing as they tried to get back in the game.

Eugene Joyner hurled the victory for Pitt County scattering four hits. He did not allow one until the fourth. He struck out seven and walked five in the win. David Carroll started for Greenville but was relieved in the second by Peter Pace who took the loss. Pitt County, however, managed only five hits off Greenville but took full advantage of those they got.

Pitt Co. threatened in the first on a walk and an error coupled with stolen bases but didn't score until the second. Ben Hyman and Billy McLawhorn opened the inning with walks. Jeff Allen singled loading the bases. Hyman was cut down at home on Pony Credle's grounder back to the pitcher but an error on the relay to first for the double play allowed McLawhorn to score.

Greenville, getting a runner to second in the second managed to tie it in the third. Will Barrett walked and stole second. Joyner attempted to pick him off but threw the ball away and Barrett moved to third. A balk scored Barrett. Despite a walk and two errors, which loaded the bases, Greenville could not score again.

Pitt County regained the lead in the fifth. Tony Eason opened with a single and stole second. After taking third on an out he scored when Joyner reached on an error. Joyner stole second and took third on the overthrow. Tony Gardner singled to center scored Joyner for a 3-1 lead.

Greenville quickly tied it up in the sixth. Miccah Dixon led off with a double to left and Bob Morehead came in to run for him stealing third. Ricky West reached on an error scoring Morehead. Charles Daise walked and a grounder by Barrett forced West at third. Skip Topping singled to center scoring Daise with the tieing run.

Pitt County pushed over the clincher in the bottom of the sixth. McLawhorn doubled to left center and moved up on an out. Eason slapped a ball into left scoring McLawhorn.

Greenville got a runner on via a single in the seventh but the runner was thrown out trying to steal. An error put another runner on second but he died there.

Rain Causes Reshuffling

Rain Saturday forced several changes in the District VI Babe Ruth tournament being played here.

In the 13-year old tourney, Pitt County, beat Greenville 4-3 in a game played last night. Sunday, at the Jaycee Park Washington West will meet Craven County at 1:00 p.m. Greenville will meet the winner of that game at Guy Smith at approximately 3 p.m. The finals of the tournament are now scheduled for Monday.

In the 14-15 tourney, Washington West and Greenville played a winner's bracket game late last night. Today, at 1:00 p.m. at Guy Smith, Pitt County will meet Washington East. The winner of that game will meet the loser of the Washington West-Greenville game at 5:00 p.m. Finals will also be played Monday.

Yaz, Rice Power Bosox Victory

BOSTON (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski drove in three runs and rookie Jim Rice belted his 14th home run as the Boston Red Sox won their sixth straight game with a 10-4 victory over the Texas Rangers Saturday.

The run-happy Red Sox shelled the Rangers' Ferguson Jenkins, 10-10, for eight runs in less than six innings, enabling Luis Tiant to breeze to his 12th victory in a game interrupted twice by rain.

Tiant, who has lost eight games, allowed eight hits. He was nicked for two runs in the fourth on three singles and an error, then gave up two runs in the eighth in a rally capped by Mike Hargrove's RBI single.

The Red Sox, who have scored 50 runs in their winning streak, jumped in front 2-0 in the first and added two runs in the third. Rice lined his solo homer high into the left field screen in the fifth before the Red Sox kayoed Jenkins in a four-run sixth.

Yastrzemski drove in a run with a fielder's choice grounder in the first, doubled home another in the third and hit a sacrifice fly in the sixth. He also scored two runs.

Bernie Carbo had a double and single, scoring two runs and driving in one, while Doug Griffin contributed a two-run pinch double after Jim Umbarger replaced Jenkins on the mound in the sixth.

Watson, Newton Facing British Open Playoff

By GEOFFREY MILLER
AP Sports Writer

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — Johnny Miller went for broke in a bunker Saturday, failed to get out and two unrated golfers tied for first place in the British Open championship.

Tom Watson of Kansas City and Jack Newton of Australia finished with 72-hole totals of 279, nine under par, and faced an 18-hole playoff beginning at 7 a.m. EDT Sunday.

Miller finished one stroke behind and shared third place with Jack Nicklaus and Bobby Cole of South Africa.

The closest British Open in years finished with a tense drama on the 18th hole, where a stream runs across the fairway.

Miller, nine under par going to the 18th, put the ball into a bunker.

"If I had known that nine under par was going to be the demarcation line, I might have played the next shot differently," Miller said. "But I was speculating on what the last pair, Newton and Cole, would do, and I thought I had to go for a birdie. So I went for broke and took a big swing at the ball in that bunker.

"The stream was about 140 yards ahead, and I knew I had to get over it."

Miller's gamble failed. The ball hit the edge of the bunker, ran around the rolled back.

"It came almost back into my footprints," Miller said. "For a minute, I thought I would never get out."

He tried again and pitched right on to the green. But he had lost a stroke and it was too late. He took a bogey five and settled for a final-round 74.

Right up to that last hole on Carnoustie's 7,065-yard, par-72 links, all five of the leaders had a chance at the title.

Watson, who had nearly thrown his title chance away by bad putting earlier, sank one from 20 feet and birdied the last hole in three. He wound up with a par-72 for the day, and Newton had a 74.

Nicklaus, Newton and Cole all played it in par four.

So Watson and Newton, both 25 and still to win their first major tournament, will fight it out again over 18 holes Sunday for the $16,500 first prize.

At the start of the day, Cole, at 12 under par, led Newton by one stroke with Miller another stroke away and Watson at nine under. Nicklaus was in a group at eight under par and four strokes off the pace.

But the wind came up, dramatically changing conditions and scores.

For three days, Carnoustie had been calm and scores dipped to record lows. Cole had rounds of 66 on the second and third days, and Newton shot 65, a course record, on Friday.

But Saturday a westerly breeze sent scores soaring.

Nicklaus joined Watson at par, and Miller joined Newton at two over. Cole ballooned to 76.

Only three of the 63 players in the last round had sub-par rounds. Bob Charles of New Zealand, who won the title in 1963, had a 69. George Burns, a rookie pro from Port Washington, N.Y., and Graham Marsh of Australia made 71s.

Mann Adds To LPGA Lead, Moves Out By Three

By GEORGE STRODE
AP Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Carol Mann ran her two-day birdie total to 11 Saturday, shooting a two-under-par 70 that expanded her lead to three strokes in a $65,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament.

Miss Mann, who reeled off a tour-record seven straight birds Friday, posted a 36-hole total of 136, eight-under-par on the flat, 6,200-yard Riviera Country Club course.

Jane Blalock, shaking a month-long slump, also fashioned a 70 and surged into second place at 139.

Pam Higgins, who trailed Miss Mann by only one shot after the first 18 holes, slipped to a 73 and fell into a four-way deadlock for third place at 140.

Also at that figure were a trio of tour veterans, Judy Rankin, Murle Breer and Sandra Haynie. Mrs. Breer had 70, Mrs. Rankin 71 and Miss Haynie 72.

Five more pros shared seventh place at 141. They were Patty Hayes, Laura Baugh, Carol Jo Skala, 1975 leading money-winner Sandra Palmer and Jan Ferraris.

Miss Ferraris fired a 68, and Miss Baugh and Miss Hayes 69 each, Miss Palmer 70 and Mrs. Skala 71.

Twenty-two pros solved Riviera's par of 144 for the first two days, taking advantage of the short yardage and the excellent greens.

Miss Mann said she wasn't trying for another run of birdies although she accomplished them on the 2nd, 4th, 9th and 12th holes. That more than offset bogeys at seven and eight.

"I wanted to keep as much of a lead as I could," said the 6-foot-3 president of the LPGA.

"I played a controlled, yet aggressive game. I'll take anything under those circumstances," she said.

Miss Mann, 34, was confident she could collect her 36th tour victory Sunday before a national television audience (Hughes).

"I'm not going to let up," the veteran of 14 LPGA seasons said. "I'd like to shoot a 68 tomorrow. I think that would win it."

Miss Blalock knocked in four birdies and two bogeys to claim the second spot, evidently overcoming her slump.

"I'm tired of people asking me when I'm going to come out of my slump," Miss Blalock said.

She blamed part of her problems on allergy pills she was taking for constant sneezing. "They affected my coordination. I might sneeze 20 times before I teed off. A lot of wet courses in June didn't help me either," said the 29-year-old winner of 15 LPGA events.

Sharon Miller, the defending champion, struggled to a 75 for 151 and failed to make the 36-hole cut at 149.

The tournament, carrying a first prize of $9,200, is sponsored by Borden, Inc.

Eichelberger Holds To Three Shot Lead

By GORDON HANSON
Associated Press Writer

MOLINE, Ill. (AP) — Dave Eichelberger slipped to a one-over-par 72 but still clung to first place Saturday in the $75,000 Quad Cities Open Golf Tournament. His lead over a trio which included Frank Beard was three strokes.

"I was consistent," said Eichelberger. "Consistently bad on the front nine and consistently good on the back."

Eichelberger started with a 10-under-par five-stroke lead over Homero Blancas and Sam Snead. At the end of Saturday's 18 holes he had a nine-under-par 204.

Snead and Blancas faded on the 6,305-yard Oakwood Country Club course while six others fired sub-par rounds to move into contention.

Grouped at 207 were Beard, Terry Dill and Howard Twitty Jr. Beard and Dill shot 69s and Twitty, playing in his first PGA tournament, finished at 68.

Blancas shot a 73 and finished at 210 while Snead soared to a 214 with a 77.

"I drove the ball better today than the first two rounds," Eichelberger said. "That front nine plays tough. It was a little windy and I was a little shaky."

Beard, coming off a prolonged slump, said he believes his experience gives him some advantage in Sunday's final round. "The ball is moving in the right direction," he said. "I feel I can win the tournament if nobody gets in at eight or under."

That was before Eichelberger, whose lead at one point dropped to one stroke because of his front-nine problems, came back strong.

Eichelberger bogeyed the 380-yard second hole when his nine-iron shot fell short and he was forced to putt twice. He bogied No. 4 after using three putts from the green's edge, and got a third when he missed the 340-yard seventh hole, pitched onto the green and again two-putted.

He missed an ace on the 140-yard 14th when the ball rimmed the cup and stopped inches away. He parred 11 with putts of three to 30 feet, and got three birdies with strong iron shots and tight putting on the back nine.

Beard also bogeyed No. 2 after shooting into the rough, and got a second on the last hole after hitting into a bunker.

"The greens are real difficult to negotiate," Beard said.

Dill, who returned to the tour two months ago after a three-year absence, bogeyed four holes. But he scored an eagle on the 510-yard No. 15 after driving to about 20 yards of the green.

"I was then eight under par," Dill said, but he bogeyed the last two holes.

"Today I was all over the lot," Dill said. "I didn't play well."

Twitty, 26, the first-round leader with a 66, eagled No. 16 to help bring him back into contention after shooting a 73 Friday. He carded 68 Saturday.

Gary McCord and Mark Hayes shot 70s to tie at 208, five strokes off the pace. Last year's winner, Dave Stockton also shot 70 for 209.

Rain Temporarily Halts Endurance Race

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — A heavy rain halted the Six Hours of Endurance Race for sports cars on the Watkins Glen road-racing circuit Saturday for 70 minutes midway through the event.

The track was still damp when the cars roared out to resume racing. Rain tires had been put on the machines while they were in the pits.

The 70-minute delay counted as part of the six hours. The race began at 1:06 p.m., EDT.

Two Alfa Romeos were leading when the driving rain began. Most of the cars on the track began to skid with their slick racing tires although they had slowed considerably.

The Alfa Romeos had taken a solid lead after two turbocharged Renault Alpines ran into quick mechanical trouble.

The Renaults were in the front row for the start of the race, but quickly ran into mechanical problems which have plague them in the past. One of them dropped out of the race.

Henri Pescarola of France and derek Bell of england were sharing the driving in the leading Alfa Romeo. Arturo Merzario of Italy and Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., were co-drivers in the second Alfa.

Jody Scheckter of South Africa had the pole position in a Renault for the start of race over the winding 3.37-mile course and pulled steadily away from the rest of the 30-car field.

Then on the 29th lap, he suddenly pulled into the pits and out of the race with engine problems.

The second Renault, driven by Frenchmen Gerard Larrouse and Jean Pierre Jarier, pitted on the seventh lap and again on the 14th, both times because of turbocharger probems. The car fell back as far as 15th place, but remained in the race and moved up to fourth with four hours left.

"Something in the engine is broken," Scheckter said after leaving the race. "I'm not sure what. I missed a gear change earlier in the race and that may have casued a problem."

Perry Hurls A's To 7-1 Decision

OAKLAND (AP) — Veteran Jim Perry pitched a three-hitter to lead the Oakland A's to a 7-1 decision over the Baltimore Orioles Saturday.

Perry, who pitched a one-hitter against the Orioles earlier in the season, won his fourth game against seven losses. The only hits he allowed were a single by Lee May in the second inning, a single by Bobby Grich in the fourth and a run-scoring triple by Grich in the ninth.

The A's pounded All-Star pitcher Jim Palmer for four runs in the first three innings. A walk to Billy Williams and a double by Reggie Jackson scored a run in the first inning. A walk to Sal Bando, a stolen base and a double by Angel Mangual made it 2-0 in the second.

Oakland got two unearned runs in the third. With one out, Williams singled and Jackson was safe on an error by shortstop Mark Belanger. Joe Rudi singled to score Williams and Gene Tenace got Jackson in with a sacrifice fly.

The victory was the sixth for Oakland in seven games with Baltimore this season.

Monday, Morales Lead Cubs To Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Rick Monday and Jerry Morales delivered key hits in a pair of three-run uprisings in the first two innings Saturday leading the Chicago Cubs to a 6-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants Saturday.

Monday doubled home two runs in the first to wipe out a 1-0 San Francisco lead and then scored on a single by Andy Thornton.

Morales delivered a two-run single in the second inning after Jose Cardenal was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded, forcing in a run.

The Giants took the lead in the first inning when Bobby Murcer singled with two out and scored on a double by Willie Montanez. They scored another run in the third on Derrel Thomas' homer and in the eighth on a home run by Chris Speier. It was the fourth of the season for each.

Winner Steve Stone, 7-3, ran into trouble in the seventh when Gary Thomasson and Steve Ontiveros singled and Dave Rader doubled home a run. Stone then struck out Glenn Adams, Von Joshua and Thomas, stranding runners on second and third.

Mike Caldwell, 5-9, was the loser. He faced only two batters in the second before being lifted.

Wilmington Romps Past Pirates, 10-0

Woody's Ramblin's

BY WOODY PEELE

That good old American spirit of majority rules has gone down the drain in many ways during the past few years, but never has it been more evident in the action taken by the Greenville City Council on Thursday night.

The Recreation Commission, based on a study they had performed, and on the wishes of a large number of people, recommended that the current 10:30 p.m. curfew at Jaycee Park be abolished in terms of a more reasonable one.

The primary reason for this is the fact that most of the baseball games at the park have been halted with just a little more play left to go. These have had to be made up at a later date, and it all gets to be a little more confusing than it ought to be. Very few of the games played there have been completed. A couple that were halted were later forfeited rather than having to go through the problem of suiting up for an inning or less.

Twice, too, the lights were cut out by the city employee assigned to do so, without warning. Once this occurred just as the pitcher had released the ball—an action that could have had tragic consequences.

The Recreation Commission's report called for a "no lights" situation during winter months, when trees along the side of the park where the complaints have come from are bare of foliage. During the spring and fall months, a "lights on; but early cutoff" was proposed. During late spring and summer months, a later "lights on" time was proposed, when greenery blocked out most of the light from the fields.

This seems to be most reasonable—far more reasonable than the arguments about games being played, "365 days a year, 15 hours a day." The baseball field was only used for Babe Ruth ball twice a week from June through the present—not counting nights when games were postponed because of rain, the Greenville play in the State Tournament, and the current Babe Ruth tournament. The softball leagues have used the field no more than once a week, and always finish early because of the time limits on their games.

The Babe Ruth season is scheduled to end in late July, so baseball would only be played there for two months—and then not every night—so there is no "15 hours, 365 days a year" argument there.

Tennis, of course, is played much more—and according to the reports, the light problem here is greater than from the baseball field. These problems could be solved easier however, by following recommendations in the Commission's report.

The current curfew at other parks is midnight for tennis. The ball fields really don't have a true curfew, but seldom are the lights on beyond 11 or 11:30 p.m. Under current plans, the Babe Ruth League, the principle user of Jaycee park would seldom if ever, go beyond these times. Most games could be completed by 11, since most of these stopped were either in the final inning, or just prior to playing it.

The issue is not dead, that is for sure. At the next meeting of the City Council, it will come up again. Hopefully, some sort of compromise can be come to during the coming weeks.

If not, Greenville will lose a valuable asset.

Jerry Yandrick, Randy Ourt and Mike Good batted in three runs apiece to lead the University of North Carolina at Wilmington to a 10-0 summer league baseball victory over East Carolina University in Wilmington Friday night.

Put together poor pitching, poor hitting and poor fielding and there are the reasons behind East Carolina's Friday night performance-everything.

The Pirates could muster only four hits against Seahawk pitcher Parker Davis, but managed to leave 12 runners on the bases as Davis walked five and hit two batters. The same curve ball which was the cause of Davis' early wildness was the weapon he used to strike out 13 East Carolina batters, including Robert Brinkley four times and Eddie Lawing three times. Twice Davis fanned Lawing with the bases loaded to end the inning.

ECU loaded the bases three times off Davis, but came away empty handed on each occasion.

The first occasion came in the first when Davis hit Robert Brinkley and Smith with two out and followed by walking Howard McCullough. Davis struck out Addison Bass to end the inning.

The Pirates loaded the bases again in the fourth and sixth innings, but Davis went the strike out route each time to halt the rally.

In the fourth, Smith singled to lead off the inning and moved to second on a balk. McCullough flied to left and Bass went down swinging, but Card scratched out a hit to short and Gentry walked to load the bases with two out. Davis, however, fanned Lawing and the inning was over.

In the sixth Davis walked Smith, McCullough and Card to load the bases with one out, but Gentry and Card struck out to end the final ECU threat of the evening. ECU came up with two infield hits after the sixth, but neither man advanced beyond second.

Wilmington, however, scored seven runs in the final two innings to turn a 3-0 contest into ECU's worst defeat of the summer.

And the principal force behind the Seahawk rout was the trio of Yandrick, Ourt and Good. Between them, the trio accounted in some way for all 10 Seahawk runs.

Wilmington scored all they needed off, starter, and loser, Dean Reavis in the third. With one out, Ken Carter reached on Gentry's error and Van Lewis singled. On Lewis's single, the ball got away from centerfield Card and there were men on second and third.

Reavis got Herk Ivey to ground out, but Yandrick singled to score Carter and Lewis. Ourt later singled Yandrick across and Wilmington was ahead, 3-0.

The Seahawks added three off Reavis in the seventh, with Yandrick scoring on an error and Good driving in two runs with a single, to take a 6-0 lead.

Pete Conaty was rocked for four runs in the next inning before Bob Feeney retired the final two batters in a pouring rain to end the onslaught.

In the eighth, Yandrick, batted in a run and later scored, along with Ivey on a single by Ourt. Good singled to add the final run before Feeney relieved Conaty.

The loss was ECU's second in a row and dropped the Pirates to 9-8 for the season. UNC-W is now 9-9.

AL Making Concentrated Effort To Win All-Star Game

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Baseball's 46th All-Star Game, showcasing the game's top players, will be staged in County Stadium Tuesday night with the American League once again seeking to end a National League domination of the midseason showdown.

AL President Lee MacPhail pledged an all-out effort to beat the Nationals in last summer's game at Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium. But the NL prevailed with a 7-2 victory to give it a 26-18 edge with one tie in the series that started in 1933. The Nationals have made the game a virtual one-league show for the last dozen years, winning 11 times to take control in a series they once trailed 12-4.

The Americans will attempt to end their All-Star frustration with an Oakland A's-New York Yankee dominated line-up featuring five first-time starters against an NL cast that is made up almost entirely of Los Angeles Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds and is virtually the same one that began last year's game.

The first-time AL starters will be three Yankees, catcher Thurman Munson, outfielder Bobby Bonds and third baseman Graig Nettles, along with two Oakland A's, catcher Gene Tenace and outfielder Joe Rudi.

The other AL starters are two more A's, outfielder Reggie Jackson and shortstop Bert Campaneris, and second baseman Rod Carew of Minnesota, whose 3,165,614 votes was the highest total for any player in the nationwide fan balloting.

Opposing the AL starters will be a starting NL line-up populated almost completely by the Reds and Dodgers. Cincinnati's contingent is headed by catcher Johnny Bench, who led all NL players with 2,930,147 votes. The other Reds are Pete Rose in the outfield and the second base-shortstop combination of Joe Morgan and Dave Concepcion.

From the Dodgers, fans elected first baseman Steve Garvey, the most valuable player in last year's game; third baseman Ron Cey and outfielder Jimmy Wynn. Breaking the Dodger-Red control of the NL starting team was outfielder Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Except for Concepcion and Brock, the NL lineup is the same one that started last year. Concepcion beat out Philadelphia's Larry Bowa, last year's starter at shortstop, and Brock replaced Hank Aaron, traded to the American League Milwaukee Brewers over the winter.

Opposing Managers Walt Alston of the NL and Alvin Dark of the AL will name their starting pitchers Monday. Alston picked three Dodgers, Don Sutton, Andy Messersmith and Mike Marshall, to head his staff allong with Tom Seaver and Jon Matlack of the New York Mets, Tug McGraw of Philadelphia, Jerry Reuss of Pittsburgh, Phil Niekro of Atlanta and Randy Jones of San Diego.

Dark's pitchers include two of his Oakland hurlers, Vida Blue and Rollie Fingers, along with Catfish Hunter of the Yankees, Baltimore's Jim Palmer, Nolan Ryan of California, Kansas City's Steve Busby and Jim Kaat and Rich Gossage of the Chicago White Sox.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will throw out the ceremonial first ball. The last federal government official to handle that job was former President Richard M. Nixon, who did it at the 1970 game in Cincinnati.

Tuesday's clash marks a return to Milwaukee for the All Stars. The game was last played in County Stadium 20 years ago. The Nationals won that 1955 game 6-5 on Stan Musial's 12th inning home run. Musial and Mickey Mantle, who had a three-run homer for the AL that year, will return for Tuesday night's rematch, serving as honorary coaches and accompanying the two managers to home plate for the pre-game exchange of lineups.

Aaron, who is suffering from a shoulder injury and may not play in his selected reserve role for the AL, could tie Musial's record of 24 All-Star Game appearances if he does play.

The game will be televised by NBC, which estimates a viewing audience of 50 million in the United States.

Following the game, major league baseball will hold its annual summer meeting with important matters certain to come up for discussion. On the agenda are reports from the franchise and player relation committees and possible consideration of extension for Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's term of office, which is reportedly opposed by several American League owners.

The franchise committee was established at last winter's meetings to seek short and long-range solutions to the game's franchise problems. Included in its duties is consideration of possible expansion and studying cities requesting major league teams. Seattle, New Orleans, Toronto and Washington have been pressing for franchises.

The Player Relations Committee report comes just as bargaining is beginning with the Major League Players Association over a new basic agreement and benefit plan. The current basic agreement ends Dec. 31 and the benefit plan expires March 31.

Kuhn's seven-year term expires Aug. 12, 1976, but baseball rules allow for consideration of renewal between six and 15 months before expiration. He must get favorable votes from nine owners in each league to have his contract renewed.

Greenville, Washington West Get Wins

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Greenville and Washington West moved along in the winners' bracket of the District Six Babe Ruth Tournament underway at Guy Smith Stadium on Friday. Craven County and Creswell found themselves eliminated from the field after their second losses.

Washington West opened the 14-15 year old play with a 4-0 win over Creswell, followed by Greenville's 13-2 romp over Pitt County. Then, in losers' bracket games, Washington East eliminated Creswell, 5-0, and Pitt County dumped Craven County, 13-0.

The opening game saw the first shutout of the tournament in the 14-15 year old group as Bill Batchelor of Washington tossed a three-hitter at Creswell. The three came in the first three frames, one in each, and Batchelor shut them out on hits in the final four frames. He struck out six and walked eight. Oddly enough two of the hits off him were doubles.

The game was a scoreless shutout between the two teams as Creswell hurler Russell Holton also held off Washington most of the way. He allowed no hits in the first three innings, and only one prior to the fatal seventh when three Washington runs scored. He fanned 14-walked eight in taking the loss.

The first run came in the sixth. Octavus Wallace walked, stole second and moved to third on an error on the play. He scored when a pickoff attempt went astray.

The other four runs came in the seventh. Batchelor walked and Greg Rowland singled. Both moved up on a passed ball and a hit by Billy Mitchell scored both. Mitchell was then cut down stealing. Richard Pfeiffer reached on a wild pitch on the third strike and stole second. He scored on C. B. Manning's hit with the final Washington run.

Jerome Ross tossed a three-hitter at Pitt County in the second game, but couldn't get the shutout. Greenville fell behind by 2-0 in the first two frames, but after allowing two hits in the second, Ross allowed only one more the rest of the way.

Pitt County took the lead with one in the first. Nuggie Worthington walked and stole second. Kevin Adams walked and both moved up on an out. Scott Evans sacrificed in Worthington.

The other Pitt County run came over in the second. Mike Phillips singled and was sacrificed up. A wild pitch put him on third and Roger Jenkins singled him in.

Greenville tied it up with two in the second. Greg Lee walked and Danny Hester singled. Doug Selby singled to load the bases and a walk to Lance Weatherington scored Lee. Hester tied it up, scoring on a wild pitch.

Greenville put it away with five more in the third. Michael Shank opened the inning with a triple to right. Gary Allen walked, as did Lee, loading the bases. Hester reached on an error, scoring Shank, and Selby walked to score Allen. Weatherington singled in Lee and Hester, and Selby scored on Ross's sacrificed fly.

Two more came over in the fourth. After Allen singled, Derek Brewington became the first Babe Ruth player to slap a homer out of Guy Smith Stadium, easily clearing the fence in left center.

Greenville added four more in the sixth for the final 13-2 margin.

Another fine pitching job came in the first of the losers' bracket games as Ronnie Nooney tossed a three-hitter for Washington East against Creswell.

Washington took the lead in the first with two runs. Tony Christiano singled and Glenn Davis walked. Paul Moore singled to load them up, and a hit by Crew Roberson scored both Christiano and Davis.

It stayed that way until the fifth, when the other three scored. Christiano walked and Davis singled. Both moved up on a wild pitch and a double by Roberson brought both in. Doug Whitehead doubled in Roberson.

The final game ended after only four and a half-innings, as Craven County decided to call it quits after falling behind 13-0, on the finest pitching job of the day.

Allen Hill tossed four frames of no hit ball against Craven for Pitt County, then oddly enough was removed for the final frame. Hackney Yelverton completed the game, allowing no hits in his one inning of work.

Hill, in his four innings, walked three and struck out 11, including four in one inning—one reached on a passed ball third strike. Yelverton walked one and struck out three.

Pitt County got four in the first to put it out of reach. Kevin Adams singled and stole both second and third. Hill walked and stole second. Scott Evans, attempting to sacrifice, reached on an error, driving in Adams. Hill scored on a passed ball, and Evans came over on a sacrifice fly. Mike Teachery tripled and scored on a wild pitch.

Three more scored in the second. Dale Bailey tripled and scored on a wild pitch. Roger Jenkins singled and moved around on a passed ball, a stolen base and a wild pitch. Adams walked and also came around on wild pitches.

Pitt added three more in the third and three in the fourth to close it out.

Pitt County, Washington West 13-Year-Olds Claim Victories

Pitt County moved into the semifinals in the winners' bracket of the 13-year-old Babe Ruth Tournament at Guy Smith Stadium Friday, downing Craven County. In the other game, Washington West eliminated Wasington East.

Pitt County rallied from an early 6-2 deficit and came back with a 16-13 victory over Craven to gain the right to meet Greenville in a scheduled Saturday game with the winner to move into the finals. Washington West also came back from behind, winning, 10-9, in one extra inning.

Pitt County grabbed the lead in the first inning, getting a pair of runs. Tony Eason reached on interference and scored on Carl Arnold's triple. Eugene Joyner grounded out, scoring Eason.

But Craven County then came back with six runs in its half of the frame. Jerry Gladson singled and Gene Neal reached on an error. Ronnie Blunt singled, loading the bases. A wild pitch scored Gladson, and Rusty Lefever walked, reloading them. Tod Stilley reached on an infield hit, scoring Neal, and a walk to Randy Williams brought in Blunt. Byron Brown's walk scored Lefever. Jack Coombe, trying to sacrifice, reached on an error, scoring Stilley. The error also allowed Williams to score.

Three more Craven County runs came over in the third. Coombe singled and Gladson got a hit. Neal's single scored both runners. Blunt tripled to score Neal for a 9-2 lead.

Pitt County started its rally in the fourth, scoring three. Curtis Spencer reached on interference and stole second. Tony Gardner singled him in and went all the way to third on an error. Mike Edens reached on an error, plating Gardner, and moved up on a balk. He scored when Eason was safe on an error.

After Craven County got one in the bottom of the fourth, Pitt County put on a seven run rally in the fifth, sparked by six hits. That pushed them into a 12-10 lead. Craven came back with two to tie it up again in the bottom of the frame.

It stayed that way until the seventh, when Pitt County came up with four runs to win it. Jeff Allen led off with a single and he moved up on a passed ball. Spencer walked and a wild pitch advanced both, as they scored on Gardner's single. Edens reached on a fielder's choice that nailed Gardner at second, and Billy McLawhorn walked. Both moved up on a wild pitch and Pony Cradle grounded out, scoring Edens. Eason reached on an error, scoring McLawhorn for a 16-12 lead.

Craven got one more run, but couldn't get a rally going.

In the losers' bracket game, Washington East grabbed a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Donnell Roulhac walked and moved up on an out. He scored when Chris Jones reached on an error. He moved up on an error and a hit, scoring on a wild pitch.

Washington West tied it with two in the fourth. Charlie Wallace singled and Don Sawyer walked. Both advanced on an out and a wild pitch scored Wallace. Sawyer scored on Ray Campbell's hit.

In the fifth, Washington West took a 4-2 lead. Mike Bowen walked and moved up on an error on a pickoff attempt. A wild pitch then scored him all the way from second. Pete Lee reached on interference and stole second. A wild pitch put him on third and an error on the attempt to get him scored him.

Washington East rallied for four in the sixth, including a inside the park homer by Douglas Pane that drove in three of them, for a 6-4 lead. West cut it back by one in the bottom of the frame. East gained two more in the seventh, but three by West in the seventh tied it at 8-8.

East regained the lead in the top of the eighth. Jones walked, moved to third on a balk and a hit by David Crisp, and scored when Charles Parker reached on a fielder's choice.

West, however, scored two in the bottom to win it. Wayne Waters walked with one down and Pete Lee reached on an error. Wallace reached on an error, and a hit by Sawyer singled in Waters to tie it. A wild pitch then brought in Lee with the winning run.

KFC Clinches Title Tie

Kentucky Fried Chicken gained a 20-3 win over Morgan Printers Friday night to clinch at least a tie for the championship of the American Division of the City Softball League.

Pier 5 remained a close second with a 24-3 win over Baggetts while in the other game, the Chargers fell to the Little Sluggers, 13-3, in the first game of the night.

The Sluggers took the lead in top of the first 3-0, but the Chargers picked up one in the bottom of the frame. The Sluggers got the winner in the next inning picking up a single run. Donnie Craft had a homer in the seventh for the Sluggers.

KFC did all the damage it needed to do blowing eight runs across in the first inning. One in the second, five in the third and six in the fifth sewed it up. T. Jamieson had a home run for Morgan in the sixth.

Pier 5 broke open a 0-0 tie in the second pushing four runs past Baggetts. Baggetts cut the lead in half in the fourth, 4-2, but six runs in the fifth sent Pier 5 on to the rout. Pier 5 added 14 in the sixth.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Wooden will be honored Oct. 14 at a combined 65th birthday party and retirement dinner, UCLA officials announced Friday.

The former UCLA basketball coach officially retires after 27 years at the Westwood campus and the banquet in his honor will be held at Pauley Pavilion, home of his basketball team which is adorned with 10 NCAA basketball championship banners.

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — The University of Massachusetts announced Friday it will join the new Eastern Independent Collegiate Basketball League for the 1976-77 season, severing ties in the sport with the Yankee Conference after a membership of 28 years.

A university spokesman said membership in the EICBL will give Massachusetts "more visability and recognition" and lead to "an outstanding basketball schedule."

Other members in the new league will be Duquesne, George Washington, Pittsburgh, Penn State, Rutgers, Villanova and West Virginia.

Hurt Luzinski Hurts Houston

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

"A lot of people have been hurt by the All-Star voting," said Greg Luzinski with a shrug.

A lot of people have been hurt by Greg Luzinski, too. Like Doug Konieczny and the Houston Astros on Friday night...and the rest of the National League on just about any other day or night.

Luzinksi drilled two singles, a double and a decisive home run to lead the Philadelphia Phillies past the Astros 2-1. In the rest of the National League, Pittsburgh swept San Diego 6-2 and 5-0, Cincinnati swept New York 4-3 and 4-1, Chicago beat San Francisco 8-6, Los Angeles edged St. Louis 6-5 and Atlanta beat Montreal 2-1 in 10 innings.

"There's not much you can do about the voting system," said Luzinski, whose 24 homers and 76 runs batted in—both tops in the majors—and his consistent hitting (his 4-for-4 night raised his average to .305) was overlooked by the fans who named the starters in next Tuesday night's All-Star Game.

"Don't get me wrong," he added. "But other people have been hurt by the voting, too. Richie Zisk of Pittsburgh had a good year last year and didn't go. That wasn't right."

Pirates 6-5, Padres 2-0

John Candelaria pitched a four-hitter for his fourth straight victory and his first shutout in the nightcap victory that gave the Pirates their sweep of San Diego and permitted them to widen their East Division lead to 6½ games over the Phils.

He got all the backing he needed from Willie Stargell, who drove in three runs with a homer and two singles, and Ed Kirpatrick, who hit a two-run homer. Dave Parker singled, doubled and tripled and scored two runs in the opening-game victory.

Reds 4-4, Mets 3-1

Pete Rose's single wrapped up a three-run sixth inning that gave the Reds their first-game triumph, then Johnny Bench's three-run homer in the first inning started Cincinnati on its way to the sweep of the Mets. With the two victories, the Reds opened a 10½-game margin over the Dodgers in the West.

Cubs 8, Giants 6

With the Giants leading 6-5 in the eighth-inning, Chicago's Manny Trillo singled, went to second on a passed ball and scored the tying run on a single by Pete LaCock. After Don Kessinger singled, Bill Madlock hit a grounder to San Francisco shortshop Chris Speier, who threw wildly past first as LaCock scored the deciding run.

Dodgers 6, Cardinals 5

Bill Buckner's two-run single in the seventh inning, his third hit of the game, vaulted the Dodgers past St. Louis.

Braves 2, Expos 1

Boston Hitting Gets Extra Wind As Red Sox Romp Past Texas

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Boston Red Sox had the wind with them, which is like giving four strikes to Hank Aaron.

As if they aren't tough enough at Fenway Park, Boston's muscled batters got help from a strong wind and ripped 16 hits en route to an 11-8 victory over the Texas Rangers Friday night.

"You can see the way the wind was blowing," said Boston Manager Darrel Johnson. "You just get the fat part of the bat on the ball and it goes."

One of those aided by the elements was Bernie Carbo, whose three-run homer in the sixth put the Red Sox ahead for good 7-5. Another was Carl Yastrzemski, who got two hits, including a two-run single in Boston's four-run eighth.

"You can't get enough runs in a game in this ballpark," said Yastrzemski. "Particularly not when the wind has been blowing out lately. But everyone seems to be hitting for us now. That's how we're winning."

The victory was the fifth straight for the Red Sox, the leaders in the American League East.

In the other American League games, the Cleveland Indians beat the California Angels 5-3; the Baltimore Orioles blanked the Oakland A's 4-0; the Chicago White Sox turned back the Milwaukee Brewers 5-3; the Kansas City Royals tripped the Detroit Tigers 5-2 and the Minnesota Twins routed the New York Yankees 11-1 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing the second game 4-3.

Carbo hit his 14th homer of the season into the screen in left-center off Stan Thomas, 4-2, after singles by Bob Heise and Tim Blackwell with one out in the sixth.

Indians 5, Angels 3

Rick Manning's inside-the-park home run with a man on base capped a three-run rally in the seventh inning, lifting Cleveland over California.

Orioles 4, A's 0

Mike Torrez pitched a four-hitter, leading Baltimore over Oakland. Torrez, 10-5, had a season high of nine strikeouts while outdueling Oakland left-hander Vida Blue, 12-7. Blue gave up nine hits, including five for extra bases.

White Sox 5, Brewers 3

Jerry Hairston's double with two out in the sixth inning scored two runs and triggered Chicago past Milwaukee.

Royals 5, Tigers 2

Buck Martinez' sacrifice fly capped a two-run fourth-inning rally that lifted Kansas City past Detroit and broke the Tigers' nine-game winning streak.

Twins 11-3 Yankees 1-4

Tony Oliva and Johnny Briggs blasted home runs to back Bert Blyleven's six-hitter as Minnesota beat New York in their opener. Roy White's tie-breaking single in the fifth inning gave New York its triumph in the second game.

Ferrari Won't Quit Racing

By PIERO VALSECCHI
Associated Press Writer

MARANELLO, Italy (AP) — At the age of 77, Enzo Ferrari is barred from driving his own racing cars. But that hasn't stopped him from designing ever-more powerful engines.

After a 10-year spell, he is watching his blood-red racers head toward a seventh Formula One world title.

As persevering and self-confident as when he founded the racing factory in 1929, Ferrari still directs most company activities. He supervises projects for new engines and the production of luxury cars, a separate branch exploiting the advanced technology of the racing division, and arranges Ferrari's racing schedule.

He could retire—the future of his factory, employing 1,200 workers, has been guaranteed since 1969 when he sold a 50 per cent interest to Fiat Spa., the Italian auto company. His only son, Alfredo, an engineer with the company, died 10 years ago.

But Ferrari, who decades ago gave up dreams of a singing career to dabble with cars, still devotes virtually all his time to his job.

He went to the movies once—20 years ago—and has no time for them but he does read and sometimes watches television.

An expert judge of men as well as cars, Ferrari always chose his drivers himself. He hired aces like Juan Manuel Fangio of Argentina, Alberto Ascari and Gigi Villoresi of Italy, Phil Hill of the United States and John Surtees of England.

Now he has turned to Niki Lauda, the Austrian who is leading the world standings after he drove a Ferrari 312-T model to four Grand Prix victories this season.

Lauda has piled up 47 points in the world standings so far against 25 for second-place Carlos Reutemann of Argentina. But Ferrari still is cautious in forecasting the final outcome of the championship.

"Lauda's margin is still narrow. We will have to wait for a few more races before saying the title is ours. In addition, we have to keep our cars competitive. English makers are preparing new models and we must be ready to face the challenge," Ferrari said.

His engineers are studying a new 312-T-2 model for this purpose.

The division assembling luxury models, including the prestigious Daytona model which has enjoyed a big success in the United States, keeps producing four cars daily.

The prestige of the Ferrari name, renewed by the Formula One successes, is paying off—despite a worldwide auto crisis.

Even now that he can no longer drive the fast cars he produces—the age limit for driving powerful automobiles has been lowered to 65—and that he can no longer follow races because of the emotional strain, the roar of engines is still his favorite music.

Camps Opening To NFL Veterans

By The Associated Press

Veteran players for 11 National Football League teams report to training camps this week, with the remaining 15 clubs due in the following two weeks to begin preparations for the 1975 season.

Seven clubs, the Chicago Bears, New Orleans Saints, San Francisco 49ers, New York Giants and Dallas Cowboys in the National Conference and the Baltimore Colts and San Diego Chargers in the American Conference, welcomed rookies into their camps last week. The remaining rookies will be checking into camps of the other 19 teams this week.

The first veterans to report will be the Cincinnati Bengals, who are due in along with the rookies at the team's Wilmington, Ohio, training complex Sunday.

The defending champion Pittsburgh Steelers welcome their veterans at St. Vincent College, Latrobe, Pa., on Wednesday. San Diego's veterans are due at U.S. International College in San Diego on Thursday. Kansas City and San Francisco veterans have Friday reporting dates, the Chiefs at William Jewell College in Liberty, Mo., and the 49ers at California-Santa Barbara in Santa Barbara, Calif.

A half dozen other teams have Saturday reporting dates for the veterans. They are the New York Jets at Hofstra University in Hempstead, N.Y.; Baltimore at Goucher College, Towson, Md.; the Washington Redskins at Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa.; the New York Giants at Pace University, Pleasantville, N.Y.; the Green Bay Packers at St. Norbert College, DuPere, Wis., and the Bears at Lake Forest College, Lake Forrest, Ill.

Six new head coaches will be running their first camps, four of them in the American Conference. The new AFC bosses are Paul Wiggin at Kansas City, Forrest Gregg at Cleveland, Bum Phillips at Houston and Ted Marchibroda at Baltimore. In the NFC, Bart Starr takes over at Green Bay and Jack Pardee at Chicago.

Trial Is Winding Down To Final Stages

By GERRY NELSON
Associated Press Writer

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A federal court trial on the National Football League's "Rozelle Rule" is in its final stages after a week of testimony suggesting removal of the rule would shake the very foundations of the sport.

It would be "the beginning of the end" of the NFL as it now exists, said Jim Finks, vice president and general manager of the Chicago Bears.

Two club owners, Lamar Hunt of the Kansas City Chiefs and Carroll Rosenbloom of the Los Angeles Rams, predicted "utter chaos" unless the rule is kept.

And the man the rule is named after, NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, forecast the wholesale failure of teams within five years.

The dire predictions came as the NFL rested its case Friday in defense of antitrust accusations by 15 past and prssent players. The players' suit contends the Rozelle Rule interferes with their right to sign with other teams once they have played out the option year beyond their contracts.

In effect, say the players, once drafted by a football team, they become economic slaves, bound to their teams by NFL rules and policies.

The league contends that the whole structure has resulted in joint prosperity for both players and owners. Without the rules, the sport would crumble, according to league witnesses.

Testimony began in February and thus far totals about 10,000 pages of typed transcripts. There are hundreds of exhibits, ranging from minutes of NFL meetings to copies of player contracts.

Salaries of players, usually hidden in a "terms were not announced" phrase, have been described in great detail in the courtroom.

The case involves only the "option compensation clause," a portion of the NFL constitution adopted in 1963. That is the formal name of the Rozelle Rule.

The clause deals with what happens when a player completes his contract and plays out the one-year option period. During that year, a club can cut the player's salary 10 per cent, but is not required to do so.

Once the year is over, the player is technically free to put himself on the market, making his own deal with either his old team or another club. But if he signs with a new team, that club must pay off with draft choices or players to the old team.

If the two teams don't agree, Rozelle makes an award.

Rozelle said he's been forced to rule only four times—in the cases of Dick Gordon from Chicago to Los Angeles, Dave Parks from San Francisco to New Orleans, Phil Olsen from New England to Los Angeles and Pat Fischer from St. Louis to Washington.

Rozelle said he studies each case, weighing the needs of each club, the age and accomplishments of the player, and desires of the fans and the "future of the system."

The gist of the players' argument is that the system allows Rozelle to make the price so steep that teams are afraid to take a chance on a free agent player.

Fire Tower Is Headquarters

Pitt Rangers Keep Watch Over Forest Lands

In spotting forest fires from a fire tower, "most people think we can see the fire, but all we really see is the smoke," county ranger Mark Webb said. But where there's smoke, there's fire and, by pinpointing the location of the smoke, the rangers can find the fire.

To pinpoint the location of the smoke, two towers have to see and report it. Each of these towers gets a reading on the location of the smoke in relation to the tower by sighting it on a large compass. For example, a smoke might be located on a line of 15 degrees from one tower and a line of 75 degrees from another tower.

By drawing both of these lines on a map, the rangers get the location at the intersection of these lines. "We can usually get to within a mile of the smoke bv this method," Webb said.

After a smoke has been pinpointed, someone is usually dispatched to check it out. "On certain days (called 'high readiness plan' days), we check every smoke. If it is a field burning, we check for proper precautions, burning permits, and to see if someone is watching the fire," Webb said.

When someone is dispatched to check the fire, the equipment operator readies the equipment in case it is needed. If it is a fire that needs fighting, the equipment will be ready to go when the checker calls in.

"On high readiness plan days, if smoke is in a wooded area, the equipment will move out as soon as she (tower operator) sees the smoke," Webb said.

The equipment at the Pitt County fire tower in Winterville includes a crawler-tractor (a bull-dozer with a fire plow on the back), portable bridge, a pick-up truck with tank and hose (a small fire engine) and a chemical tank and pump located at the airport to load fire-fighting chemical into planes.

According to Webb, 42 wild fires were reported in the county last season.

The fire-tower operator, Hazel Manning, has been on the job for over 20 years. While in the tower, she is "constantly looking for smoke," Webb said. She is only employed during the "fire season"—October until May or June. The peak months of the season are October, November, December and February through May. She works five to ten hours a day, depending on the weather.

During periods of low readiness, tower work can get "boring," Wedd said.

"All we can have up there is a radio and I listen to that," Mrs. Manning said. "Most of the time we look," she added. She also listens to a rural fire department monitor because "sometimes a house fire can catch the woods on fire." Mrs. Manning "answers the phone, which rings right much. And I keep up with reports." She is required to fill out a report on every smoke she sees.

During periods of high readiness, "she is real busy," Webb said. "She usually is talking on the phone and radio at the same time."

There is little danger in being in the fire tower "except during thunder storms' and then we come down," Webb said. Although wind can sway the tower, it is "no problem. The tower has been here during several hurricanes and ain't gone nowhere yet," Webb said. The tower is 100 feet high.

The public is permitted to climb the tower, Webb said, although the top is locked during the summer. Children are not permitted on the tower without adults, however, and persons climb at their own risk.

With Occasional Funny Incidents

Giving Driver Examinations Is Always A Serious Undertaking

"The funniest thing that has happened to me since I have been here," driver's license examiner Cecil Morgan said, "I was giving a driving test and asked the boy to make a quick-stop. When he did, the two front wheels fell right off the car. The boy said, 'I told Pa that bailing wire wouldn't hold.'"

Upon checking the front of the car, Morgan found that, sure enough, the front wheels of the car had been fastened on with bailing wire.

Humorous, and sometimes dangerous, incidents such as this are not uncommon during driving tests, Morgan said.

"Our object is to determine if a person can operate a motor vehicle safely to protect himself and the motoring public," according to Morgan.

Although they also issue identification cards, mainly for cashing checks, to those who do not have a driver's license, the examiners' main duties deal with testing for driver's licenses and learner's permits.

About 150 persons are tested per day at the Greenville license location, Morgan said. Four basic tests are given: a written test, a vision test, a sign test and a driving test. Other types of tests may be given in special cases.

To obtain a learner's permit, one must pass the written, vision and sign tests. If a person has a valid learner's permit and wants to get a license, he needs only to take the driving test. If he has no valid permit, he must take all of the tests to get a license.

To renew a license, one must have his renewal card, which is mailed to him. If a person has no recorded violations for the past four years and is in good physical condition, he only has to take the sign test and vision test. People with violations must take the driving test, written test or both before they can get a license.

If a person fails his test, his mistakes are explained to him so he can practice to take the test at a later date, Morgan said.

The state driver's license division keeps a closer check on drivers than most people realize, Morgan said. In special cases, a person can be required to take a test every six months, every year or every two years to keep his license. These are usually people with physical or mental problems.

"A lot of people who come in have vision problems that they were not aware of," Morgan said. "We refer many to doctors."

Although they have no special insurance, the job is not always a safe one. The examiners must drive with people they do not know, many who have never driven before.

"I was taking a boy down Tenth Street," Morgan said of a driving test he gave a few years ago, "and we had to turn right on Elm. He forgot to slow down and when we made the turn, all the hubcaps fell off the car. I finally got the car stopped in the mayor's yard and asked him what was wrong. He said, 'Well, I've been driving in the country and I never had to turn a corner before.'"

Examiner Jack Woodley said, "We've had people run into the building, tear down shrubbery and even run up the hill in the parking lot and end up in the Exxon station next door."

"See that crack in the wall?" Morgan asked. "A lady made that after we had gotten back into the parking lot. I had relaxed already. I had to grab the wheel twice while we were on the road."

Woodley said he had been stopped by the police while giving a test. The driver "cut across lanes of traffic and drove in the turn lane for awhile. A police car finally pulled us." After learning that Woodley was giving a driving test, the officer said "Oh, I didn't know what the trouble was. Go ahead."

"People ask me if I get scared," Woodley said, "Dang tootin' I do."

"I stay scared," Morgan added.

Even though it is sometimes hazardous, Morgan likes his work. "It's not a job you get into for the money," he said. "You have to really care about helping people and highway safety. A lot of people think we are working against people, but we try to help them. It's really hard to take someone's license away."

Woodley has been an examiner for 20 years and Morgan has been in the business for over 18 years.

SPECIAL TEST. . .Driver's license examiner Cecil Morgan administers an oral test to an illiterate license applicant. The applicant answers questions Morgan reads to him by pointing to the correct picture. Morgan emphasized that the test is no easier than the regular written test.

Peace Corps Trainees Immersed

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the Peace Corps serving in 68 developing nations around the world the training program for new volunteers is "far out" — geographically as well as academically.

A volunteer might study well-digging in a bush village near Ouagadougou, Upper Volta; urban planning in Isfahan, Iran; teacher training in Nuku'alofa, Kingdom of Tonga; or agricultural co-ops in Huehuetenango, Guatemala.

For 12 crammed weeks, Americans are prepared in formal and informal sessions to work on their own in remote, often primitive, villages and towns. According to many "graduates" their training combines all the elements of a first-rate technical college and a language school blitz — with the rigors of a military survival course thrown in for good measure.

"Volunteers have to realize what they're in for," explains William Lovelace, Peace Corps training officer for Africa. "There are major physical and psychological adjustments to make."

The three-part program in linguistic, technical and cross-cultural education varies from country to country, but the trainee's ability to master the skills in each of these areas is crucial to success, or lack of it, trainers say.

According to Peace Corps chief John Dellenback, the ability to speak the local language, perhaps more than anything else, sets Peace Corps volunteers apart from others working in foreign aid and development. The corps uses native speakers to teach approximately 50 languages and dialects. Intensive, total immersion sessions and a conversational approach force the students to express themselves from the start in the new tongue.

"When we see a toubab (white) speaking Wolof," says a Senegalese government official, "we know that person must be a Peace Corps volunteer. The others never bother to learn our language."

The technical part of training is designed to equip volunteers to do the specific jobs that have been requested by host country governments. The classes are conducted by former volunteers, training specialists or educators on leave from American universities.

Under their guidance, union electricians, plumbers and machinists learn how to transmit their skills to local workers, becoming vocational education teachers in the process. Farmers, engineers and physical therapists are taught how to apply their skills under local conditions and train host country counterparts to take over for them when their two years of service ends.

In a sizable number of Peace Corps projects, liberal arts graduates with backgrounds in farming or construction work have been found to be more effective than specialists.

"For well-digging you don't need to be a mason or bricklayer. We teach the guys all the necessary skills," says Phil Infelise, a former corpsman whose three-week course is guaranteed to produce blisters and backaches as well as a firm grasp of "Basic Hydrology," "Digging a Straight Hole" and "Confronting Fluid Soil."

The continuous thread running through language and technical training is cross-cultural education, a kind of baptism in local customs and lifestyle that begins on one's first day in-country.

There are formal lectures on the country's social and religious mores, economic conditions and cultural and historical realities. There are excursions to the marketplace where the volunteers quickly learn that a few hesitant words in the local language will bring smiles — and often a lower price from which to start bargaining. Lunch might bring a bowl of rice with a watery, strange-smelling sauce — and no utensils. What to do?

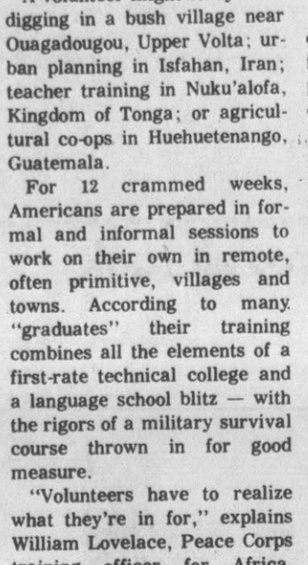
Peace Corps trainers emphasize that volunteers must not impose their own values or American standards on their adopted communities. English teachers may find, for example, that students leap to their feet and stand at attention when their instructor enters the classroom, a practice not widely observed in the United States. Much as a volunteer may inwardly cringe at such formality, the Peace Corps way is to learn to accept it.

As cross-cultural instructor Len Libresco of Hayward, Calif., puts it, "We don't try to control the environment. To be effective, you've got to learn to act within it."

TARANTULA ON GUARD—A tarantula named Henrietta is pictured on the job in the window of a San Francisco jewelry store, and the owners say since she was installed she has proved an effective deterrent to burglaries. Rudy Christian, head of a Canine Protective Service, says he supplied the tarantula after the store owners found a guard dog wouldn't fit in the window. (AP Wirephoto)

New Partner In Law Firm

Thomas C. Duncan, a native of Greenville, has been named a partner in the Greensboro law firm of Jordan, Wright, Nichols, Caffrey and Hill.



THOMAS DUNCAN

Duncan graduated from Rose High School in 1963 and received both his undergraduate and law degrees from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, after attending Randolph-Macon College.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Duncan of W. Rock Spring Road.

Spray Gun Can Be Hazardous

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Consumers have been warned by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission that high pressure airless paint spray guns may be hazardous under certain conditions.

The commission said the hazard may arise if the user's hand, finger or other parts of the body come in close contact with the jet spray of paint. Because the paint in airless spray guns is ejected with a great deal of pressure and velocity, the user's skin could be penetrated, injecting paint into the underling tissues.

The resulting injury to the skin and tissue may cause permanent damage or require surgical amputation.

Business Letter Costs See Rise

CHICAGO (AP) — The cost of producing a single, standard business letter has jumped 11 per cent in the course of a year, up from $3.41 in 1974 to $3.79 in 1975. And, if postage goes up as predicted, the basic cost will be pushed over $3.80.

According to the Dartnell Institute of Business Research here, this new cost figure reflects salary and materials increase. The survey revealed that the average salary of the dictator (the man who initiates the letter) has risen from $250 a week to $302.

BOOZY DIED FROM THE JOB

HOVE, England (AP) — Boozy, a nine-inch-long giant African snail, who appeared on television drinking beer, was found dead by its owner Christopher Hudson. "He died from alcoholic poisoning," said Hudson, 19, who raises money for charities by staging snail races. Boozy had performed for beer commercials on TV.

Miss Patricia Dennis Weds Saturday Evening

BETHEL—Miss Edna Patricia Dennis and James Van Taylor III were united in marriage Saturday in the Bethel United Methodist Church at 8:00 p.m. The Rev. Ellis J. Bedsworth, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The chancel of the church was decorated with tall baskets containing mixed arrangements of snapdragons, fugii mums, daisies, and asters. Branched candelabra holding cathedral candles and jade greenery completed the setting.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Earl Dennis and Mr. and Mrs. James Van Taylor Jr., all of Bethel.

Traditional wedding selections were presented by Mrs. Robert Harold Staton, organist, and Mrs. Mary Wells Andrews, soloist, who sang "Beloved It Is Morn" "O Perfect Love" and "The Wedding Benediction." Trumpeteer was Jay Bedsworth of Bethel.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding a formal gown designed by Priscilla of Boston. Fashioned of peau de soie and re-embroidered alencon lace it was designed with an empire waistline, scooped neckline and fitted sleeves with an overlay flounce of English net and lace. The sleeves and back featured the traditional bridal button closings. An A-line skirt, accented with lace appliques, fell into a chapel length train.

For her headdress the bride wore a family mantilla of Brussels lace and she carried a candlelight bouquet of white phalaenopsis orchids accented with pink sweetheart roses, baby's breath and sprays of English ivy tied with pink and white ribbons. The bride's only jewelry was a necklace of gold and pearls, given her by the bridegroom.

Ms. Donna Dennis of Bethel, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Mrs. Gale Foss Mooring of LaGrange, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor.

Bridemaids were Miss Denice Dennis, sister of the bride, Mrs. Anne Hardee Jones of Greenville, and Mrs. Sue Noble Smith of Trenton, cousin of the bridegroom.

The bridal attendants were attired in formal gowns of Cerese chiffon over peau de soie. The gowns were fashioned with empire bodices, V'd necklines and double cape effects creating the sleeves of the gown. The A-line skirt of each gown was bordered with a ruffle which flowed down one side of the skirt. Their headpieces, corresponding in color to their gowns, were ruffled picture hats trimmed with elbow length illusion falling from the centers of the hats. Their bouquets were cascade arrangements of pink miniature carnations, fugii mums, marguerite daisies accented with baby's breath.

Miss Leigh Taylor of Farmville, cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Her dress was similar in design and color to those of the bridesmaids and she carried a nosegay of miniature pink carnations and marguerite daisies.

Van Taylor Jr. was best man and groomsmen were Vance Taylor of Farmville and Gene Carson of Greenville, cousins of the bridegroom, Charles Smith of Trenton, Ferrell Blount of Bethel, Ed Atkinson of Murfreesboro, Tenn., and Ed Dennis of Bethel, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Dennis, mother of the bride, wore a Paris pink chiffon long dress with a cascade crystal pleat front and with long sleeves ending in cascade cuffs.

Mrs. Taylor wore a lemon yellow chiffon long dress designed with a re-embroidered lace bodice and long butterfly sleeves.

Mrs. Robert Joseph Whitehurst of Bethel directed the wedding.

The bride is a graduate of Peach College and of East Carolina University. She is presently employed by the Pitt County Board of Education.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Woodberry Forest School, Orange, Va., and of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, where he was a member of the Alplha Tau Omega fraternity. At present he is attending graduate school at East Carolina University.

Following a wedding trip to Mexico the bridal couple will be at home in Greenville.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social area. Arrangements of bridal flowers and glowing candlelight decorated the rooms and the refreshment tables.

The Taylor-Dennis wedding party and out-of-town guests were entertained at a pre-wedding dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Tetterton Saturday evening.

Saturday morning the bridal couple, members of their wedding party and out-of-town guests were honored at a wedding breakfast by friends of both families at the Candlewick Inn, Greenville.

On Friday evening, Mr. and Mrs. James Van Taylor Jr. and friends of the bride and bridegroom families entertained at the Candlewick Inn with a rehearsal dinner and dance.

A bridesmaids luncheon was held at the home of Mrs. Vance Taylor in Farmville Tuesday in honor of the bride-elect and bridal attendants.

Allen-Alexander Vows Spoken In Robersonville Saturday

ROBERSONVILLE—Emily Jane Alexander and James Alfred Allen of Farmville were married Saturday at 3:00 p.m. at the First Baptist Church here.

The Rev. James O. Hagwood officiated the double ring ceremony. Craig Everette, organist, and Miss Pat Cochran, soloist, provided the nuptial music. She sang "More" and "I Believe."

The parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Dennis William Alexander Jr. of Robersonville, and Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Allen of Farmville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of imported white organza fashioned with garlands of scalloped chantilly lace encircling the A-line skirt, oval neckline and full bishop sleeves. The lace trim was highlighted by small satin bows and pearls. To complete her ensemble, the bride's full length mantilla of imported silk illusion was trimmed with matching scalloped lace and a cluster of pearls accented the headpiece.

The bride carried a colonial bouquet of yellow rosebuds and baby's breath interspersed with feathered carnations accented with greenery and yellow and white streamers.

Mrs. John Bruce Clark of Raleigh, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a formal length sleeveless gown of maize floral chiffon over maize taffeta designed with a scooped neckline and full skirt. The empire waistline and the neckline were accentuated with white cording.

She carried a nosegay of daisies, talisman rosebuds and yellow pom pons tied with yellow ribbon.

The bridesmaids were Miss Gail Jenkins of Robersonville, Mrs. Joyce Wilson of Elizabeth City, Mrs. Doris Tolan of Greenville, and Mrs. Angela Tripp of Bethel. The bridesmaids dresses and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

Miss Debbie Craft of Winterville and Miss Christin Mallory of Wilmington were flower girls. They wore full length yellow dresses fashioned with a scooped neckline and puffed sleeves. Green velvet ribbon complemented their dresses at the waistline. They carried white baskets of rose petals.

The ushers were Elmer Flake, Carlos Moore, and Ronnie Wainwright, all of Farmville, Jeff O'Neal of Bell Arthur, and Danny Alexander. The father of the bridegroom was best man.

The mother of the bridegroom selected a formal gown of pink polyester crepe with long organza sleeves encrusted with pearls. She wore matching accessories and a white cymbidium orchid.

The grandmothers of the couple were honored with white carnation corsages.

Miss Carol Smith of Fountain directed the wedding.

The parents of the bride entertained the wedding party, relatives, and friends at a reception in the church fellowship hall. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. D.M. Hardison. Mrs. Al Cochran presided at the register and directed the guests to the refreshment table which was decorated with a white polyester lace cloth accented with bows of yellow satin. Two silver candelabra of burning yellow tapers flanked a centerpiece of yellow and white gladioli, snapdragons, daisies and baby's breath.

After the bridal couple cut the four tiered wedding cake, Mrs. Ernest Alexander and Mrs. Loftus Stocks, aunts of the bride, served the cake. Punch was poured by Mrs. Clifton Heath and Mrs. George Massey.

Craig Everett entertained with piano music during the reception.

Good-byes were said to Mr. and Mrs. J. Sidney Malloy, aunt and uncle of the bride.

For a wedding trip to the mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee, the bride changed into a knit dress of red poppy print on a white background. The bride wore her mother's corsage.

The bride, a graduate of Meredith College, is presently employed by the Martin County Schools.

The bridegroom attended Pitt Technical Institute and is now employed by Pitt County Tobacco Inc.

The couple will make their home in Greenville.

Miss Chance Weds William Holland In Saturday Ceremony

GREENSBORO—Miss Sally Margaret Chance of Greensboro and William Robin Holland III of Hickory were married Saturday at 5:00 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Bill Brown officiated at the ceremony.

The parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James Edward Chance of Greensboro and Mr. and Mrs. William Robin Holland of Ayden.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of dotted swiss with touches of Venise and val trim on the high neckline. The dress featured a V-bib high rise bodice and bishop sleeves. The easy skirt has a lace bordered flounce ruffle.

Her headpiece was a lace banded cap covered with a free flowing lace banded mantilla. The bride carried a cascade of yellow sweetheart roses and stephanotis centered with a yellow throat white orchid and accented with baby's breath.

The matron of honor was Mrs. David Spivey of Greensboro. Mrs. Spivey wore a dress of mint green organza over tafetta, accented at the fitted bodice and square scooped neckline with white Venise lace. The bodice had short gathered sleeves and a flared A-line skirt with ruffled flounce border.

The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Evans Harrison of Gastonia and Miss Sharon Holland of Ayden. The attendants wore dresses identical to that of the honor attendant's. They carried nosegays of yellow daisies accented with baby's breath and tied with yellow ribbons.

Jimmy Mayo served as best man. The ushers were Jeff Chance, brother of the bride, of Greensboro, Tim Holland, brother of the bridegroom, of Ayden, John Furchess of Winston-Salem and Mike Thomas of Rocky Mount.

Immediately following the double ring ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride.

After a wedding trip to Pipestem, West Va., the couple will live in Hickory.

The bride attended Western Carolina University and received a degree in speech and hearing. She was a member of Kappa Alpha Little Sisters and Kappa Delta Pi, honor society in education. She is presently employed as a speech therapist for the Newton-Conover City Schools.

The bridegroom attended Western Carolina University where he obtained a B.S. degree in finance. He was a member of Kappa Alpha Order and is now employed as a veteran's representative for the Veteran's Administration, Hickory.

TAFFY CREAM CAKE

We've revived a delicious sponge cake.

1¼ cups sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking power
⅛ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
4 large eggs, separated
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup molasses
½ cup sugar

On paper sift together the flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt. In a small mixing bowl beat egg yolks until thick and pale color; beat in vanilla, then gradually the molasses. In a medium mixing bowl with a clean beater, beat the egg whites until stiff; gradually beat in the sugar; fold in molasses mixture, then gradually the flour mixture. Turn into two ungreased loose-bottom round (8 by 1½ inches) layer cake pans; be sure to use pans of this size and divide batter evenly to prevent mishap during the baking. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — about 20 minutes. Cool on wire racks; remove from pans. Cut each layer in half horizontally; fill and frost with a pint of heavy cream that has been whipped, sweetened with 2 tablespoons sugar and flavored with 1 teaspoon vanilla; chill; just before serving, sprinkle top of cake with coarsely crushed coffee crunch candy. Makes 8 to 12 servings.

Couple Speaks Vows In Candlelight Ceremony

GRIFTON—In a candlelight service Saturday afternoon at four o'clock, the marriage of Miss Mary Helen Bradley and William Horace O'Neal was solemnized in the Grifton First Baptist Church. The Rev. William S. Brown officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Archibald Bradley of Grifton, and the bridegroom is the son of the late Mrs. George Champion and the late Mr. William Wesley O'Neal of Louisburg.

Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson of Kinston presented a program of nuptial wedding music.

The altar was decorated with palms, a circular candelabra and two nine-branched candelabra, all interlaced with mums and greenery.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white silk jersey designed with an empire bodice and featuring a high neckline trimmed with Venise lace and embroidered with seed pearls. Her long traditional sleeves had lace and pearled cuffs. The flowing skirt extended into a Camelot chapel train.

Her short mantilla was edged in matching Venise lace. She carried a bridal bouquet of roses, miniature carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Paula Kay Bradley of Atlanta, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a formal gown of rose petal pink jersey. The empire bodice was designed with a V-neckline and fitted traditional sleeves. The waistline was highlighted by a matching cummerbund. She wore a matching picture hat in rose petal pink and carried a colonial nosegay of mixed summer flowers.

Charles E. Ford Jr. of Louisburg was best man and the ushers were George F. Hall, Peter S. Allen, Terrell O. Nash, and Al Peoples, all of Louisburg.

MRS. WILLIAM HORACE O'NEAL

The mother of the bride wore a floor length gown of blue silk jersey and an orchid corsage.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Eunice Casey of Grifton.

The bride is currently employed by the Raleigh City Schools and the bridegroom is a real estate broker in Louisburg.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will make their home in Louisburg.

Immediately following the wedding the bridal couple was honored at a reception held in the fellowship hall of the church. Guests were greeted by Mrs. Edward Fleming, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Milton Hart.

The reception table was covered with a pink satin cloth with an overlay of white net and was centered with an arrangement of candles and flowers in shades of pink. Punch was poured by Mrs. James Bradley and Mrs. Arthur Edwards, aunts of the bride, and the wedding cake was served by Mrs. S.Y. Daniel, aunt of the bride. Mrs. David Edwards presided over the guest register and Mrs. Robert Edwards said good-byes.

On Friday evening prior to the rehearsal, the wedding party was honored at a buffet dinner given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Murphy.

Other hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Don Casey, Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Waters, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Phillips, and Mrs. J.L. Tucker.

On Saturday the wedding party and out-of-town guests were entertained at a wedding breadfast at the Holiday Inn, in Greenville. Hostesses were Mrs. Maude Hart, Mrs. Esther Coward, Mrs. Ruth Rucker, Mrs. Ruby Bass, Mrs. Elizabeth Hart, Mrs. William Hart, Mrs. Salina Nelson, Mrs. Brownie Smith, Mrs. Ann Davis, and Mrs. Janie Paget.

On Friday evening at nine o'clock, William O'Neal entertained at a rehearsal party at the Holiday Inn, Greenville. Guests included the wedding party and the out-of-town guests.

Women Better At Taking Ailing Car In For Repairs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Car repair bills might be lower if husbands let their wives take ailing autos to the garage, a female transmission expert suggests.

Men are often hesitant to show how little they know about their cars, and in an effort to hide their ignorance they may agree to whatever repairs a mechanic advises, says Lucille Treganowan, who operates "Transmissions by Lucille" in suburban Penn Hills.

"This makes a man more vulnerable to rip-offs than their wives, who aren't hesitant to ask 'dumb' questions," said Mrs. Treganowan, also a member of the Pittsburgh chapter of Automotive Service Councils of America.

Mrs. Treganowan teaches powder puff courses on auto mechanics and she says her students "would walk out if a garage repairman makes a decision without first checking their car." In an effort to show the public that most auto repair shops have integrity despite the shoddy practices of a few, the council is encouraging consumers to be more selective about who works on their cars.

Frank Gentile, president of the local council, said the organization is policing its own people. The group is made up of experts in every facet of auto repair — transmission, radiator, air conditioning, body work, mechanical and glass, he said.

The local chapter, which covers Allegheny County, recently established a consumer review board made up of the county Bureau of Consumer Protection and a private group called the Alliance of Public Affairs.

"We wanted to remove the black eye so many back alley garages have given the industry," said Milo Carlson, chairman of the council's auto body repair council.

"The review board gives patrons of a shop access to impartial review procedure to help resolve his complaints," Carlson said.

If the review board finds a member shop wrong in a dispute, the shop must correct the problem or face expulsion from the council.

"Most complaints have been settled amicably. Good members don't want to be thrown out," Gentile said.

Mrs. Treganowan said the service council is also pressing for legislation to require the licensing of repair shops.

"As it stands now, anyone who wants to can hang up a sign. Until there is such legislation, we're trying to clean up the industry ourselves," she said.

'Nagging' Wife Still Plugging

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am 26-years-old, married for seven years, and have worked every day since I was 17. My husband has wandered from job to job and has had periods of unemployment up to nine months. On one occasion I have even had to work two jobs. Fortunately, I was smart enough not to have any children. My husband is presently unemployed (always, conveniently, in warm weather) and spends most of his time riding around on his $4,000 motorcycle.

Nothing irks me more than to come home from working all day and have to clean, cook, do laundry, etc. In seven years of marriage, I have never come home to a meal on the table. My arm was in a sling for a week, and I had to wash dishes one-handed. On the day I came home from the hospital after surgery, I spent the afternoon cleaning because I couldn't stand the mess. If I ask for help, he says I am "nagging" and that "no other guy helps his wife with the housework; that is strictly a 'woman's job.'"

I think marriage should be 50-50. If, after men left their mothers' bosoms, they made marriage a 50-50 deal, the divorce rate in this country wouldn't be so high.

FED-UP BUT STILL PLUGGING

DEAR FED: You don't tell me what your problem is, but you have given ME one. What are you still "plugging" for? I must have missed something.

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column that a teenage boy, much to the dismay of his mother, had long hair and tried to justify it by saying that Jesus had long hair. His mother then said, "So you want to be like Jesus? O.K. Jesus didn't have a car—he had to walk everywhere. So just hand over the car keys!"

And you, Dear Abby, said: "That Jesus story doesn't hold up very well because nowhere in the Bible does it state that Jesus had long hair. In fact there are Biblical injunctions against long hair. (New Testament, I Corinthians, Chapter 11, Verse 14.)"

Well, Dear Abby, you are mistaken: Jesus DID have long hair because Jesus was a Nazarene, and the laws for the Nazarenes are given in Numbers, Chapter 6: "All the days of the vow of separation there shall be no razor come upon his head, until the days be fulfilled, in which he separated himself unto the Lord, he shall be holy, and shall the locks of the hair of his head grow."

D.H.J.: RALEIGH, N.C.

DEAR RALEIGH: Before I throw in the towel AND the razor, let's hear from a Bible college student in Los Angeles:

DEAR ABBY: First of all, if Jesus had long hair, what has that to do with today? In His day all men had long hair. It was the custom. We could take that same logic re George Washington and powdered wigs. He wasn't the only man in his day to wear powdered wigs, so why do we use him as an example?

I am tired of hearing people quote Corinthians 11:14 ("Doth not even nature itself teach you that if a man have long hair, it is a shame unto him") to support their stand against long-haired men.

What the Bible really says is that it is a shame for a man to wear a hairdo in imitation of women.

I hope that through your column you can get people to stop using Jesus Christ as an excuse for wearing long hair, beards, sandals, robes or whatever the wearing apparel of the day was. Judas Iscariot and Pontius Pilate also had long hair. Why don't people use THEM as examples? Sign me . . .

HEAT GAIN

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Up to 26 per cent of the heat gain or loss in most American homes is through windows, says a housing expert with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Denise Beigbeder said window areas should be protected during summer months by outside awnings or shade trees.

Shades and other devices inside the house offer little protection after the sun hits the windows, she said.

"Although providing additional insulation may appear a major investment, a savings of 25 per cent in fuel costs should help the improvement pay for itself."

Miss Brenda Denise Branch Weds In Double Ring Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Brenda Denise Branch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Cleveland Branch of Greenville, and Jon Christopher Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Purl Davis of Southern Pines, took place Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in Saint James Methodist Church.

The Rev. James Lee performed the double ring ceremony. Prior to the ceremony, a program of nuptial music was presented by Joseph Goodwin. Sammy Pittman, soloist sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the benediction. The church was aglow with candlelight from a background of tiered, seven and spiral candelabra with tall standards of greenery and arrangements of white gladisli, mums, and snapdragons.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal gown of candlelight satta peau and Venise lace designed with an empire waistline and a scooped neckline. The bodice fratured a doubled ruffled cape that formed the short sleeves of the gown. The A-line shirt was appliqued with lace roses and the skirt was bordered with ruffle and lace that fell into a chapel length train.

The bride's headpiece was a chapel length veil of imported silk illusion designed by Priscilla of Boston. It also featured a blush veil trimmed in Venise lace attached to a Juliet cap of ivory Venise lace.The bride carried a formal bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids, yellow roses and babys breath tied with yellow and white satin.

Miss Linda Eldridge Branch, twin sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore formal length gown of print organza in shades of lavendar and blue in floral bouquets on white over sky blue taffeta. The portrait neckline was accentuated by a double flared bertha collar of organza. She wore a blue braid hat and carried a nosegay designed with cascades of pink, blue and white daisies, miniature carnations and baby's breath tied with matching bows.

Bridesmaids were Jean Thompson Britt of Clinton, Perry Davis Prince, sister of the bridegroom of Charlotte, Virginia Scales Handcock, Mrs. Bernice Cleveland Branch Jr., Mrs. James Oliver Bond Jr., Mrs. Thomas Donald Taylor and Mrs. James Harvey Ward III, all of Greenville. Their gowns and nosegays were identical to the maid of honor.

The bridegroom's father, served as best man. Ushers were Dr. William Clarke Davis, brother of bridegroom, of Louisville, Ky., Dr. Robert Edward Cline of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., James Alexander Chatham of Elkin, Gifford Hatch Fisher of Pinehurst, James William Fletcher III of Sperryville, Va., Bernice Cleveland Branch Jr., brother of the bride, and John Bryant Kittrell III, both of Greenville.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the Blue Room of the Candlewick Inn.

The tables were covered with white satin cloths, garland with green springerii, centered with an arrangement of summer flowers flanked by silver candelabra. The tiered wedding cake on the bride's table was encircled with springerii and yellow and white flowers.

Assisting in serving and receiving were Mr. and Mrs. Amos Evans, Mrs. Ernest J. Cassick, Mru. Bill Goin, Mrs. Hugh D. Johnson, Mrs. Milton P. McLamb, Mrs. James R. Eldridge Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Branch, and Mrs. Lester Branch.

The couple planned a wedding trip to Myrtle Beach, S.C. The bride is a graduate of J. H. Rose High School, UNC-Chapel Hill where she was a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority and Phi Beta Kappa. The bridegroom is a graduate of Episcopal High School, Alexandria, Va., and East Carolina University. The couple will reside in Southern Pines where the bridegroom is associated with Sandavis, Inc.

On Friday, Mrs. Maxel E. Minges and Mrs. James Oliver Bond entertained at a bridesmaid's luncheon at the Minges home. The bride, maid of honor, bridesmaids, and respective mothers were honored.

An after-rehearsal dinner was given Friday night at the Beef Barn by the bridegroom's parnets to honor the wedding party and guests.

On the day of the wedding, the wedding party and guest, were entertained at a lunchion in the Red Room at the Candlewick Inn. Hosts and hostesses were Dr. and Mrs. Robert Edward Cline and Dr. and Mrs. William Clarke Davis.

Steady Drainers Can Sink Family Budget

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

Heinz Biesdorf finds ways to pinch pennies that make Scrooge look like a spendthrift.

Biesdorf, an associate professor of consumer economics and public policy at Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., talks about steady drainers of the family budget such as unnecessary or overlong phone calls, long-distance calls at daytime rates, special phone instruments for which there is an extra charge; on vacation, staying at premium-priced motels on turnpikes instead of seeking the inexpensive, no-frills kind on less crowded roads.

In a telephone interview, Biesdorf said an extra five miles worth of gas spent looking for a little mom-and-pop motel can save a family as much as $5 to $15 dollars a night.

"Look for special deals that permit children in the room. Free parking. Maybe there's only one bar of soap instead of two, or two bath towels instead of seven."

He said dozens of such places exist, especially in the south, where a room for two costs only $7 a night. You have to rise early and stop early to find a vacancy, he added.

"By 6 o'clock they're filled."

According to Biesdorf, large cities like New York have dozens of small, inconspicious places where the food is cheap but palatable, where for about 60 cents you can breakfast on coffee, two eggs and three slices of toast with jam. He suggests looking in areas with lots of small specialty stores or office buildings where clerical help are the steady customers.

Save money on your car by skipping whitewalls for less expensive models, he said.

"When you are in the car, you can't see them. How fast are they going in traffic? Faster than other tires?"

Biesdorf recommends replacing of expensive appliances like refrigerators before they break down.

He said they tend to wear out after about 15 years, so he starts reading ads for sales after 10 years. He doesn't wait for the old refrigerator to stop, usually late on a Saturday afternoon when there's no time to shop around for a good buy. He replaces it earlier, with a sale-priced appliance, and puts the old one in the basement to hold beer or soft drinks.

For saving money on reading material, Biesdorf recommends shopping around for magazine subscriptions or sharing with friends.

"Don't buy from a door-to-door salesman, that's the most expensive way. Buy directly (from the magazine) or from a subscription service (that offers a discount).

"Don't buy insurance from your college classmate, your union or your club without making comparisons on the premiums. Before you buy health and life insurance, ask what happens if you leave the group or retire. Talk with your insurance agent, get him to tell you what to expect.

"Except in inflationary times, an annuity is a better buy than life insurance. There are not a lot of alternatives, but you should get as many options as possible."

Avoid impulse buying, he said. "Go around your apartment or house. Pick up everything you've bought in the past two years. Recall when and why you bought it, and how often you use it.

"There are two kinds of impulse buying. (In one) you make price comparisons, and look for better quality for the same amount of money."

Biesdorf has even found a way to avoid banking charges. He banks by mail where no minimum balance is required.

Harris-Richardson Vows Solemnized In New Bern

NEW BERN—Beech Grove United Methodist Church here was the scene of the Saturday wedding ceremony of Bertha Elizabeth Richardson and Dennis Irvin Harris Jr.

Daughter of Mr.and Mrs. Oliver Graham Richardson of Rt. 2, New Bern, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She was escorted by her uncle, Waldron Street Richardson, of Clinton.

The bride was attired in a white formal gown of bridal satin and re-embroidered alencon lace styled with a natural waistline, high neckline and full bishop sleeves. Rows of alencon lace and bridal buttons embellished the bodice and sleeve cuffletts of the gown. The lace appliqued A-line skirt fell into a chapel length train.

Her veil of illusion and lace was attached to a crown of lace and she carried a colonial nosegay of white sweetheart roses, daisies and gypsophila.

The parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Irvin Harris of Greenville.

The bride is a graduated of the East Carolina University School of Music and is now choral director with the Kinston City Schools. The bride is a graduate of N. C. State University and is an engineer with E. I. Dupont, Kinston.

The double ring ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Claude T. Wilson. A program of organ music was presented by Craig Barfield of Raleigh and Warren Kilgore Barfield of Raleigh, soloist.

The best man was Keyma Donald Harris of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were C. J. Harris of Stoneville, brother of the bridegroom, and Frank A. Wilson Jr. of Newport News, Va.

The couple will reside in Greenville after a wedding trip to unannounced points.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church fellowship hall.

The bride's table was covered with an imported cloth of Brussels linen and lace and centered with an arrangement of white flowers flanked by silver candelabra with epergnetts of matching flowers and white tapers. The four tiered wedding cake was served from a table covered with a white embroidered cloth.

Those assisting in serving and receiving were Mr. and Mrs. Charles McNeil Ipock, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Tull Rcihardson Jr., Mrs. Graham Tull Richardson III, Mrs. Oscar Bryan Jarman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Arendell Ipock, Mrs. Raymond Alexander Watson, Mrs. James Henry Ipock, Mrs. Thomas Sugg, Mrs. Joe Allen Ipock, Mrs. Marion Lee Barfield, Miss Susan Ipock, Miss Gwendolyn Ipock, Miss Julia Ipock and Miss Nancy Parker, all of New Bern, Mr. and Mrs. Waldron Street Richardson of Clinton, Mrs. W. Robert Gray and Mrs. Hilton Kennedy, both of Kinston, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Wilson Jr. of Newport New, Va.

A rehearsal party was given Friday by Mrs. Raymond Alexander Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Lee Barfield and Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Wilson Jr. at the home of the bride.

The house was decorated throughout with arrangements of summer flowers.

Minority Woman Is Using Her Status To Help

By LARRY CALLOWAY
Associated Press Writer

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Grace Olivarez's decision to leave the security of tenured law professor and her job as director of a social research institute to become state planning officer, at an $8,000 cut in pay, brought back some painful memories of the day she dropped out of high school.

Her Spanish-speaking parents had separated and Grace accompanied her mother and the other children to Phoenix from the small mining town that had been their home. They were poor.

The high school was a rich, new campus that overwhelmed her the first day.

"I was 15½. I was tall, skinny, had a bad case of acne and buck teeth. I was fresh out of the hills. And I couldn't cope with it," she said.

So she went to work to help support her broken family, taking a few business courses along the way. But despite her own rise to prominence, Mrs. Olivarez still admonishes, "It doesn't pay to leave school. I don't care how you slice it."

In 1952, thrown out of work in a recession, she took a job with a Spanish-language radio station and became the first woman disc jockey in Phoenix.

Her occasional comments on social issues drew surprising response from the Mexican-American community. Complaints that were futile in ordinary channels began to fill her daily mail.

"That's when I became interested in services to the needy. I became a crusader, I guess you'd call it," she recalled.

In her 10 years of broadcasting she gathered the evidence to prove that discrimination existed in Phoenix, she said.

She testified before the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights in a Phoenix hearing in 1962.

It began her friendship with the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame University and a commission member, but it also created pressures that led to her quitting the radio station.

Mrs. Olivarez worked for the next four years with a Phoenix foundation to help the poor. Her work, including organization of the first national conference on bilingual education, drew national attention.

By now the war on poverty and the fervor for minority representation and hiring quotas was storming the land.

As she freely acknowledges, "I'm a package deal — both a woman and a member of a minority. I'm going to milk it until the vogue is out — for the sake of the improvement of New Mexico."

Her resume includes being a member of a U.S. Labor Department task force on the unemployed, an adviser to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, and consultant to both the U.S. Bureau of Census and Purdue University, the latter on municipal law.

She also was, among other things, a panel member of the White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health and vice president of the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund.

The old anxiety about being a high school dropout returned, she recalls. There was a new wave of youngsters with graduate degrees in social work and she felt she was working with people who looked down on her.

In 1967, she had a chance meeting in an airport with Father Hesburgh. "I blurted out my frustrations," she says. With his help, she was admitted to Notre Dame's law school and for three years she endured "the misery of trying to learn when you've never had the discipline."

The hard-earned law degree was the first ever granted to a woman by Notre Dame.

Armed with the degree, she became director of the national Office of Economic Opportunity food program and in 1972 joined the University of New Mexico law school faculty. She settled with her son — she's divorced — in Albuquerque and became director of the University of New Mexico's Institute for Social Research and Development.

When Jerry Apodaca was elected governor last year, he asked Mrs. Olivarez to be his state planning officer, regretting that he couldn't meet her salary.

She accepted, she says, "because I caught myself being among those who sit on the sidelines and criticize how things are going."

Her main concerns, she says, are to improve per capita income — New Mexico's residents rank 49th among the 50 states — and to improve education and health services in New Mexico.

Cooking Is Fun

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

You get good results, we've discovered, if you use sour cream as the liquid in preparing pound cake from a mix. We did that recently and then split the cake into layers for a fresh peach dessert. If you are interested to follow suit, here's the recipe.

FRESH PEACH SHORTCAKE

17-ounce package pound cake mix
1 cup commercial sour cream
2 eggs, separated
¼ cup finely diced syrup-preserved or candied ginger,if desired
2 pounds fresh peaches
1 cup heavy cream

In the large bowl of an electric mixer blend the pound cake mix and the sour cream; beat at medium speed for 3 minutes. If used, stir in the ginger. With clean beaters, beat egg whites just until they hold stiff straight peaks when the beater is slowly withdrawn; fold into batter. Pour into a greased 9 by 9 by 2 inch cake pan. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 50 to 55 minutes. Let cake stand in pan on a wire rack for 30 minutes; with a small metal spatula, loosen sides; turn out on rack; with another rack, turn right side up. Cool completely.

Skin and pit peaches; slice; sprinkle with orange juice to keep from discoloring; add sugar to taste; chill.

Shortly before serving, with a long serrated knife cut cake in half horizontally. Whip cream, adding sugar and vanilla to taste. Spread half the cream over bottom layer of pound cake; top with half the peaches; cover with second cake layer; arrange remaining peaches on top; add remaining cream. Chill until served. Makes 9 to 12 servings.

Note: If candied ginger is used, rinse in hot water to soften before dicing.

Former Model Is Walking Encyclopedia On Cooking

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jeanne Jones is a walking encyclopedia on healthful cooking, and an outstanding example of what it can do for your looks in addition to your well-being.

Mrs. Jones, a former model, is 5 feet 8, weighs 108 pounds and glows with good health. She is also diabetic. She first made news as a cookbook author in 1972 when she wrote a cookbook for diabetics that actually made a sharply restricted medical diet appetizing. The book led to her appointment as food editor of "Diabetes Forecast," a magazine published by the American Diabetes Association.

Now she has written a similar book for people on low cholesterol, low saturated fat and sugar-free diets. In addition to recipes, it contains extensive lists of foods rated for calories and milligrams of cholesterol per serving; an excellent glossary of cooking terms and menus and nearly four pages of equivalents, can size contents and metric conversion directions.

"Diet for a Happy Heart" (101 Productions, distributed by Scribners), like her earlier book, "The Calculating Cook," grew out of a personal situation. She explained in an interview that she wrote it to help her husband, former newspaper executive Robert Letts Jones, lower his cholesterol.

"Within six months after our marriage, it was normal. He was living on my diet," she said.

So are her sons, David, 12, and Tom, 14.

Touring the United States and Canada to promote the book, Mrs. Jones said many mothers ask for advice about medical diets for children.

"One big question is how to keep Johnny from snacking," she said. "That's what puts weight on."

First, she recommends keeping forbidden foods out of the house.

"Then, teach him to cook as early as possible. Get him involved with things that he and his friends will enjoy. Don't have cookies, candy, whole milk and butter in the house."

Mrs. Jones emphasizes that she is neither a doctor nor a dietitian.

"They tell you what you can eat. I tell you how to put fun, excitement and good flavors back into your diets," she said.

Her recipes range from a low-cholesterol, low saturated fat version of a grilled ham and cheese sandwich to coq au vin, souffles, cold caviar soup, salmon mousse, meat loaf, rice pudding, a chocolate sundae, a banana split, pineapple boats with mock coconut sauce and banana cream and grasshopper pies. All the desserts are sugar free and low in saturated fats and cholesterol.

A list with each recipe tells the number of calories and milligrams of cholesterol per serving, and the number of milk, fat, starch and protein portions per serving.

The two questions she hears most often from audiences are, "what can I serve for breakfast instead of bacon and eggs?" and "how can I entertain on this diet program?" She answers the first with recipes for souffles, omelets, cinnamon toast, french toast, even pancakes and breakfast pizza, made from english muffins with ricotta cheese topping sweetened with sugar substitute. She even has a recipe for angeled eggs that mimic deviled eggs. She fills the whites of hard-cooked eggs with a seasoned mixture of cooked liquid egg substitute instead of high cholesterol egg yolks.

"I also recommend cottage cheese for breakfast," she said. "It's excellent with fruit."

On the question of entertaining or family meal planning, mum's the word.

"Don't tell your guests it's diet food," she said. "Don't tell the children that everybody's eating on Daddy's coronary diet."

Feet Benefit From Exercise

CHICAGO (AP) — Physical fitness doesn't stop at the ankles. Feet benefit from exercise, too. After all, they carry around a heavy burden and are often cramped in close quarters inside shoes.

Feet can stand regular limbering up to strengthen and firm muscles and stimulate circulation.

Here are some easy-to-do exercises which take little time but will give you a good understanding. They come from Scholl Inc. here.

Standing barefoot, stretch up on toes, hold for a few seconds then lower heels to the floor. This builds firmness from toes to thighs.

Stand on a thick board or book and curl toes out around the edge, holding on with the balls of the feet. Lean forward and feel the pull through the toes and instep.

Sit down and place feet flat on the floor. Keeping soles firmly in place, raise the toes up. Spread toes apart, hold for a few seconds then press them closely together. Repeat several times.

To firm ankles, keep heels flat to floor but lift up the front of the foot. Roll heels back and forth to each side, keeping toes pointed upward.

Play toe games: in bare feet pick up pencils, marbles or other small objects with the toes. This activity will help limber up the arch, strengthen toes and ankles.

Shop for shoes in the afternoon, since feet tend to swell slightly as the day goes on. Be sure to have the salesperson measure both feet; they often differ in size.

The shoe should measure a half-inch longer than the foot but fit snugly at the heel and across the arch to prevent slipping.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

My old alumnae association wrote last week and asked me to tape about 10 minutes to open up a Career Planning Workshop for women returning to the job market.

They pointed out I was representative of thousands of women who based their careers in the home and still served the needs of their families.

I knew what I wanted to say to the group. "In order to successfully combine the best of two worlds, there must be a warm, personal atmosphere, one of love and trust. . ." (I found my husband's tape recorder hidden under a stack of underwear with a large note, "DON'T TOUCH! YOU ARE BEING WATCHED BY HIDDEN CAMERAS. STEALING IS AGAINST THE LAW. VIOLATORS WILL BE PROSECUTED!" The batteries were dead.)

Then I would tell them that "a career involves the sharing of the entire family and all the needs have to compete for priorities."

("Go to the drugstore and get your mother some batteries to fit the tape recorder." Answers: "I'm on the phone." "I'm watching Gilligan's Island." "I went the last time." I went myself.)

"Learn to deal with the little frustrations that crop up in the daily routine." (Telephone rings and tape is ruined and I must start at the beginning.)

"Learn to deal with the little frustrations that crop up in the daily routine." (Having put phone off the hook, the phone company responds with a piercing bleep that again ruins the tape.)

"Learn to deal with the little frustrations that crop up in the daily routine." (Dog is whining on the other side of the closet door where I have gone to tape in privacy.)

"A new kind of awe will develop in your children for a mother who develops a new dimension to her life and speaks yet another language." ("How do you erase something from a tape?" I asked my son. He listens, "Mom! You said THAT!" "Shut up and erase.")

"Time is a precious commodity. Learn how to plan it, budget it, and make every minute productive." ("I am going out to mail this tape. Anyone need anything?" Answers: "There's nothing in the house to eat." "I have no clean clothes." "The car is out of gas." "The post office closed at noon today.")

"In closing, it is important to remember that you are an individual. Know who you are, where you are, and where you are going." ("Where are you going, Mom?" Answer: "I'm running away from home.")

Fur silhouettes go in two directions, one slim, one full. New York designers show lots of straight coats, many with the slim shape falling from yoked fronts and backs.

Pool Health Conditions Are Checked

Any bather who happens to step into a Pitt County swimming pool this summer can be assured that he is swimming under approved health conditions.

According to Willie Pate, director of the Pitt County division of environmental health, each swimming pool in Pitt County must receive a permit every year to operate under established health guidelines. The Health Department has the job of inspecting and approving plans, water recirculation systems, and drainage equipment, and issuing permits. "The permit is necessary to all except backyard pools," says Pate.

After a pool receives its operating permit, the high health standards must be maintained throughout the months of operation. Each pool is rechecked for health safety approximately every two weeks. The rechecks involve a test of the pool's chlorine or other disinfectant level, and pool area sanitation. If the Health Department has doubts about the pool water, a complete laboratory analysis is performed on a sample.

If a pool located in Pitt County does not maintain the health safety standards set up by the County Commissioners and enforced by the Health Department, its permit shall be revoked. No pool is allowed to operate without this permit.

Pate reports that all 37 pools located in Pitt County are presently permitted to operate by the Health Department.

CHECKING THE CHLORINE—Sarah Dixon, health Department pool inspector, and Supervisor Jimmy Stocks check the chlorine content in the Greenville City Pool. The chlorine check is part of the Health Department inspection of Pitt County swimming pools. (Reflector Photo by Jordy Whichard)

WWII POW Remembers Good Things

By MARIAN FOX
Associated Press Writer

MEMPHIS (AP) — Few prisoners of war remember their encampment with kindness — much less have a desire to return — but Edwin Pelz for 30 years has carried good feelings about the two years he spent as a POW at the Memphis Depot during World War II.

The memories are of the Mississippi River, the cotton fields, the legend of Beale Street where the blues was born, Sundays in the sun and, most of all, the people who befriended him despite the war.

"I will remember this as long as I am alive," said Pelz, who spent 1944-46 in the camp that quartered 1,550 enemy soldiers at one time.

Pelz, 54, wrote a letter on the 30th anniversary of his encampment to The Commercial Appeal, a Memphis newspaper, saying: "Many thanks for all the acts of kindness, friendship and goodwill your people showed me as a German prisoner of war ..."

Intrigued, the newspaper wrote Pelz and produced a three-part series on POW camps in the Mid-South. The series led to a fund drive that raised $1,600 to bring Pelz and his wife back to Memphis.

"It is like a dream," said Pelz after his arrival. "Many things have changed but not the people. The people are still the same."

Pelz was taken prisoner in the invasion of France at Cherbourg, 18 days after D-Day. "The first American soldier I ever saw was a Ranger, one of the toughest units in U.S. forces," said Pelz. "He was helping care for our wounded."

Few people are aware POW camps existed in the Mid-South. Actually, there were more than 55 camps in Tennessee, Arkansas and Mississippi. Arkansas had 31, Mississippi 17 and Tennessee, 7. Even those closest to the prisoners either never knew a lot about POW life or have forgotten the details.

Pelz remembers graphically. He remembers a trip to Alabama on a Pullman: "The night was warm and thousands of insects were chirping. The stars overhead were like the stars at home."

He remembers most vividly the lights. "Europe was dark at that time. No lights at all were allowed. America was another world ... We had forgotten how everything looked without a full blackout."

Pelz, then 22 years old, stayed no more than a month at Aliceville, Ala. He was sent to Memphis in August 1944 and decided it was a good place to be under the circumstances.

For one thing, there was real coffee.

"I also had pineapples and other things that I had not had before. Peanut butter was delicious. There was turkey on Thanksgiving, the first time in my life for that. And goose for Christmas. Our rations were the same as GIs in the Army got."

Most of all, he remembers the people.

"There was a regulation that they could not speak to us, but nobody paid any attention to that," he said. "They would wave to us in the cotton fields and we would wave back."

Despite those moments, Pelz said he never forgot he was a prisoner.

"The camp was well guarded. At each corner stood a tower with a machinegun."

Pelz, a host at the Hotel Romischer Kaiser in Dortmund, West Germany, and his wife received red-carpet treatment from the people of Memphis, where a recent Chamber of Commerce drive attempted to restore faith in the city where Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was killed seven years ago. City officials are trying to create a wholeness where today there is divisiveness.

Project Led To A 'Book'

NOVATO, Calif. (AP) — Ruth Lescohier is a school teacher who became a publisher because she asked a question of her students. It was: "How did they come to name Throckmorton Avenue in Mill Valley?"

The students' efforts and research resulted in a book containing 28 pages, hand lettered and put together by Mrs. Lescohier, in the tradition dating back to the Middle Ages monasteries. It is called "The Search for Samuel Throckmorton Avenue, a Mill Valley Story."

The book tells the history of a man who gave Southern Marin County such place names as Homestead Valley and the forts on the Marin Headlands.

Throckmorton, a New Jersey native, became a land and properties specialist in San Francisco during the Gold Rush. After a few years, the history book discloses, he took over the tottering fortunes of Capt. William Richardson, one of Marin's early day "dons," who was unable to cope with the onslaught of progress and was in danger of losing his vast Southern Marin holdings.

Research showed that the way Throckmorton handled the estate led to two years of litigation between the Richardson heirs and "$5" Throckmorton.

Mrs. Lescohier even carved a linoleum block to make the large map that illustrates Throckmorton's holdings and carved a piece of wood to make the front cover.

"I discovered you have to carve the letters backwards," said the author-publisher.

In a 10-year war ending in 1200 B.C., the Greeks defeated the Trojans and destroyed the city of Troy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have to go after your wishes in a more positive manner if are to attain them now. Show that you are a thoughtful person.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can handle public work admirably now. Show others that you're a conscientious person. Use care in motion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study new ideas and obtain information that can be helpful in your line of endeavor. Relax with friends in the afternoon.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A good day to keep those promises you have made to others so that you and they are satified. Your intuition is fine now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't ask too many questions of a friend or you could irritate and embarrass this person. Think along more practical lines.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY.... he or she will require more rest than others and should be taught to look on the bright side of life. A smile instead of wanting to challenge other is evident in this chart. Be sure to give ethical and religious training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, JULY 14, 1975

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Discuss with those involved the best means of coordinating actions for a successful project. Take some time to handle matters requiring color, art, precision.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Talk over mutual projects with partners for a fine meeting of minds. Then get to work in earnest. Fine social evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Become more skillful in handling your routine work for greater benefits. Make your surroundings more charming.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Once your work is done, get out with congenials for recreation you need. More affection shown mate brings greater happiness.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) After you have handled business affairs, this is a good day to enjoy personal desires quietly. Eat sensibly.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Enjoy socializing with good pals. Show how much you admire and appreciate them. Gain personal aim now that was difficult before.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Handle career or civic responsibilities; get good results. Take care of that credit affair cleverly. Be happy with loved one in p.m.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be more open-minded and use a different approach to become more successful. Plan that short trip to make money.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get finances on efficient basis. Daytime is best for handling any problem with mate. Then step out happily for entertainment.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Handle partnership matters conscientiously and you gain a new upswing and uplift in spirit as well.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Do home duties. Please higher-ups more. A new situation develops that is good for you, so go along with it quickly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Put ideas to work that will ingratiate you into the good graces of those who mean much to you. Put more purpose into a plan.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Find the right ways and means to make your living more purposeful and successful. Discuss future plans with mate for ideas.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will go out of his or her way to please others, cooperate with them, so be sure to slant education along secretarial, personnel, philanthropic, or trouble-shooting lines. The good entertainer is also in this chart, so have many playmates around during adolescence. Give good religious, ethical grounding early. Permit to participate in sports.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

TV SHOWTIME

For The Week Of July 13-19, 1975

All Networks On 'Go'

The three major networks will present extensive live coverage of the nine-day Apollo-Soyuz space mission set for July 15-24.

A pre-launch documentary special on preparations for the historic flight, its background and mission goals, will air Sunday, July 13, from 9:30 to 10:30 p.m. on ABC-TV.

On the eve of the mission, Monday, July 14, NBC-TV and CBS-TV will present special programs devoted to a preview of the flight. Airing on NBC-TV will be two half-hour programs. The first, designed to help young people understand what is happening in space during the historic event, will be telecast from 4 to 4:30 p.m. The second, a preview of the mission for adult viewers, will be presented from 11:30 p.m. to 12 midnight. The preview on CBS-TV, airing in the same time period (11:30 to 12 midnight), will provide information on the training of the two crews and plans for the mission.

Anatoly F. Dobrynin, Soviet Ambassador to the United States, will be the guest of ABC-TV News on launch day, and at other times during the space mission if his schedule permits. Ambassador Dobrynin will be asked to trace the origins of the bilateral discussions that spanned three years and led finally to the joint space venture.

Members of the three-man ABC News team are Jules Bergman, Peter Jennings and Frank Reynolds, who will begin coverage with a broadcast Tuesday morning from 8:11 to 8:45 a.m.

Reporting during key phases of the mission for NBC-TV are co-anchormen John Chancellor and Jim Hartz, joined by John Dancy and Roy Neal. Acting as special on - the - air consultant for NBC News during the flight will be Rear Adm. Alan B. Shepard Jr. (retired). Their coverage will begin with three brief progress reports, the first at approximately 5:30 a.m.

CBS News Correspondent Walter Cronkite will be joined by former astronaut Walter M. Schirra as special analyst, and CBS correspondents Steve Young and Nelson Benton. Coverage on CBS begins at 8 a.m.

Throughout the nine-day joint mission the news team will present special progress reports as developments warrant, and will be prepared to go on the networks at any other times to cover any important unscheduled events.

The final reports will be broadcast Thursday July 24, and will show the splashdown of Apollo in the Pacific Ocean near Hawaii and the recovery of the Astronauts by helicopter to the U.S.S. New Orleans.

SPACE VETERANS—Left to right, Air Force Brig. Gen. Tom Stafford, American Apollo commander, and Col. Aleksei A. Leonov, Soyuz commander and the first human being to walk in space, are interviewed by Rear Adm. Alan B. Shepard Jr. (retired), America's first man to fly in space and the fifth human being to walk on the moon. Shepard will join co-anchormen John Chancellor and Jim Hartz during the NBC News' special live coverage on NBC-TV of the nine-day joint Apollo-Soyuz space mission scheduled for July 15-24.

A Return Trip To Milwaukee's Park

When NBC last telecast an All-Star Game from Milwaukee's County Stadium, color television was still a novelty, instant replay had not yet been conceived, hand-held cameras were those carried by photographers, and five cameras were used to capture action in the 22nd All-Star Game culminating in Stan Musial's dramatic 12th inning home run off Frank Sullivan that gave the National League a 6-5 victory.

Today, 20 years after that 1955 contest, instant replay, slow motion and isolated cameras are very much part of the sports television lexicon. Nine color cameras, including a hand-held 'mini-camera' that can freely roam the confines of County Stadium, are being employed by NBC-TV to provide home viewers with a box seat for the 46th All-Star Game. And Henry Aaron, baseball's all-time home run leader, is now an American League All-Star after a long and distinguished National League career that began with the Braves in Milwaukee.

About the only thing that hasn't changed from that initial NBC All - Star visit in 1955 is Harry Coyle, the network's veteran sports director who called the shots for his first All-Star Game in that original County Stadium classic. Harry, who first directed a World Series game for NBC in 1947, is once again in his appointed place at the controls — to the right of Producer Roy Hammerman in the NBC mobile unit.

NBC Sports' coverage of Major League Baseball's 1975 All-Star Game (to be televised Tuesday, July 15, at 8:15 p.m.) could also be labeled "Silver Plus One" — since the telecast of last year's Mid-Summer Classic from Pittsburg marked the 25th consecutive year NBC has presented All-Star competition to the American television audience.

A pair of ten-year All-Star veterans head up the NBC broadcast crew on hand for this year's game. Curt Gowdy, the television voice of every All-Star Game since 1966, will once again be in the NBC broadcast booth, sharing the microphone chores with Joe Garagiola and Tony Kubek.

'Miss Universe' One In 60,000 Hopefuls

When a girl enters a local beauty pageant in hopes of winning it and eventually going on to walk away with the title of Miss Universe, the odds are about one in 60,000 that she'll actually do it.

An estimated number of 60,000 beautiful girls from all over North America, South America, Asia, Africa and Europe participate in preliminary pageants throughout the world in the hope of being chosen as a contestant in the "Miss Universe Beauty Pageant." The beauties eventually selected will be seen during the broadcast of the pageant special Saturday, July 19, 10 p.m. to midnight, on CBS-TV and Ch. 9-11.

In the United States, a girl first competes in a local pageant. If she is successful, she goes on to the state event, vying to represent her home state in the Miss USA Pageant. Then it's on to the Universe competition. This year's pageant will air live, via satellite, from the 15,000-seat National Theater of El Salvador in the country's capital, San Salvador.

When the contestants arrived in El Salvador several days ago, they faced still another challenge — to be chosen one of the 12 finalists. Highlighting the special will be the announcement of these 12 semi-finalists and the crowning of Miss Universe by Amparo Munoz of Spain, Miss Universe 1974.

PLEASE NOTE

The Apollo-Soyuz Space Mission may interrupt or cancel regular programming.

The international bevy of beauties will compete with Summer Bartholomew of Merced, Calif., who was crowned Miss USA this Spring in Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Singer Helen O'Connell and television personality Bob Baker will serve, for the ninth consecutive year, as hostess and master of ceremonies for the final competition.

When the decision of the judges is announced and Miss Universe, wearing her crown in joyful relief, takes the traditional walk down the ramp — knowing that after many months of hoping, she is truly one of 60,000.

'Happy Ever After'

SERIAL STAR— Young and beautiful Trish Stewart portrays Chris Foster, who is one of "The Young and Restless" on that daytime serial, seen weekdays (1-1:30 p.m.) on CBS-TV.

Can a beautiful young lady who was once a Girl Scout leader, a stewardess, and a cosmetics model in Paris, successfully pursue a theatrical career and finally end up living happily ever after as the star of a daytime drama? If the lady in question happens to be Trish Stewart, the answer is undeniably, "Yes!"

The striking blond actress who plays Chris Foster on "The Young and the Restless," seen each weekday on CBS-TV, was born in Hot Springs, Ark., because her parents were, yes, just passing through town. When your dad is an Air Force oral surgeon, you pass through many places before eventually living on your own in faraway France. Trish lived in 28 different places by the time she was twenty years old!

Place Number 28 was Paris and where Trish studied literature and philosophy and worked as a model for French cosmetic companies. She loved the city and remained there for three years until her job as a stewardess with Pan American Airlines brought her back to the States.

Trish eventually ended up as a contestant on a quiz program in California, where she met Michael Ofiens, a young TV executive connected with the show. They were later married. She doesn't credit Michael with her decision to act, because she was discovered on her own to do a commercial for the airline. "I give Michael the credit for, perhaps, my continuing," she explains.

Eric Sevareid And Key World-Shaper

He is the man who built the Pentagon. He was involved in almost every major governmental decision in World War II. And, he is sometimes called the most powerful private citizen in America today. That is the way CBS News Correspondent Eric Sevareid describes John J. McCloy, the diplomat, the lawyer, the businessman, and the subject of the first in the series of CBS News Specials, "Conversations with Eric Severeid," Sunday, July 13 (6 - 7 p.m.) on the CBS Television Network.

CBS News National Correspondent Eric Sevareid, in more than three decades as a journalist, has covered most of the events and the people McCloy dealt with in his long and varied career of public service. In the first of their unique reminiscences, Sevareid and McCloy, who says he will never write his memoirs, discuss the era of "The great war" — World War II — ranging from amusing anecdotes to developments and strategies of profound world importance. (A second conversation with John J. McCloy, to be presented Sunday, July 20, will cover McCloy's involvement with the Warren Commission, the Bay of Pigs and other matters.)

Their conversation covers such noted world figures as George Marshall, Henry Stimson, General George Patton, Sir Winston Churchill, the Presidents Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Dwight D. Eisenhower, and Harry Truman. It provides additional insight into the occupation of Germany and why the U.S. Army did not penetrate further into that country in the closing days of the war, the relationship between Roosevelt and De Gaulle, the firing of General MacArthur, the decision to drop the Atomic bomb, and the unfolding of the cold war between East and West.

Sevareid discusses events that have shaped the world with McCloy, who draws on his experiences as an active participant in the ways of law, government and business as they involved the Atlantic Alliance, the Soviet Union, Japan, the Middle East, and disarmament, and as an official advisor to four United States Presidents.

In the following weeks on the series, Sevareid will hold conversations with George Kennan, former U.S. Ambassador to the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia; Marietta Tree, former United States Representative to the Human Rights Commission of the U.N. Economic and Social Council; Willy Brandt, former Chancellor of West Germany; Leo Rosten, author, film writer, social and political scientist and lecturer; and Robert Hutchins of the Center of the Study of Democratic Institutions in California.

TRAVELING COMPANION — Linda Evans portrays Nicole Avery, the traveling companion of an author who is marked for death, in "Night Train to L.A." a "McMillan & Wife" segment of "NBC Sunday Mystery Movie" July 13 (8:30-10:20 p.m.) on Channels 6-7.

For Telly-- Why Kojak?

Choice acting plum that it is, the part of Lt. Theo Kojak was still given a lot of thought by Telly Savalas before he agreed to accept the starring role in the new series "Kojak," broadcast Sundays (8:30 to 9:30 p.m.) on CBS-TV.

Savalas first wondered, "Does the world need another television cop show?" He thought it did not — until confronted with the role of Kojak, which he first played in "The Marcus-Nelson Murders," a movie shown on CBS-TV. Both Savalas and the movie received 1972-73 Emmy nominations.

"There are a lot of reasons why I agreed to re-create the character in a series," Savalas says. "I like the character, and I have a great deal of regard for the creative team behind the series."

"Kojak is a New York City cop who grew up among the people. He cares about them. And sometimes he is fooled by them, which makes him a real person. He can be tough when it's necessary, but he also knows when to look the other way."

Although the series is based in Hollywood, it uses actual New York City locations as much as possible, to provide the realism the series demands, Savalas notes.

"I think this series shows the American public just how tough a job policemen have in this country," he continues. "Each and every day they expose themselves to all kinds of danger, while still being the target of criticism."

Another factor in Savalas' decision to do the series was the people behind "Kojak." Academy Award-winner Abby Mann, the series' executive producer, won an Emmy for his script of "The Marcus-Nelson Murders." Matthew Rapf, the supervising producer, previously was the producer of "Slattery's People," "Ben Casey" and "Longstreet." James McAdams, the producer, previously produced "The Virginian," "A Road West" and "Ironside."

"That's enough talent to make any actor confident," says Savalas.

Murder Case In Train Trip

An eight-hour train trip to Los Angeles for a police convention turns sour when all the policemen aboard become suspects in the slaying of a controversial anti-police author, in "Night Train to L.A.," a "McMillan and Wife" drama starring Rock Hudson and Susan Saint James, to be colorcast on "NBC Sunday Mystery Movie" July 13, 8:30 to 10:30 p.m., on Channels 6-7.

Paul Burke, James McEachin, Linda Evans, Murray Matheson and Michael Callan guest-star in the drama, which also stars series regulars John Schuck, as Sgt. Enright, and Nancy Walker as Mildred.

Railroad board chairman Aaron Hildreth (Matheson) invites arrogant author Tommy Browne (Callan) along for a train ride to Los Angeles for a Police Convention, hoping to mend fences between the cops and Browne. But Browne proceeds to alienate everyone and when he is found slain, every cop is a suspect.

In Strange New World

Three astronauts, after surviving in suspended animation for 180 years, return to a world they never knew, where some people live forever and some live with wild beasts and worship an ancient government guide book, in "Strange New World," an imaginitive drama of the possible future, making its world premiere on the ABC Television Netowrk's "The ABC Sunday Night Movie," July 13 (7:30 - 9:30 p.m.).

Narrowly escaping with their lives, the three new citizens of Earth discover a forest area inhabited by a tribe that lives in an ancient zoo with "The Code of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service" as their holy book and another tribe of savage poachers with whom they are eternally at war.

Czech Movie In Two Parts

"Six Bears and a Clown," comedy film from Czechoslovakia about the adventures of a circus clown, will be rebroadcast in two parts on Saturday, July 19, and Saturday, July 26, 1 to 2 p.m., on "The CBS Children's Film Festival."

The hero of the film is a clown who has a popular circus act with six trained bears and a chimpanzee. When the manager of the circus trades the bears for a pig act, the clown, now without a job, applies for work as a cook at the local school. Homesick for the clown, the bears escape from their new circus to join their friend, thus creating utter chaos at the school.

"Six Bears and a Clown," filmed in 1972, was directed by Oldrich Lipsky from a story and screenplay by Milos Macourek and himself.

LASTING STYLE
When selecting furniture for your first home, an important thing for the bride to remember is to choose a style that not only pleases her at present, but one that will stand a good chance of successfully passing the test of time. This can be said of many different styles, but of course you must like to as you will live with it a long time. Make the upholstery selections carefully. Remember you want to enjoy it but you will also have to take care of it.
Carpet selections are just as important as your furniture selections. Choose your carpet carefully. You want to enjoy its beauty and comfort and be able to care for it easily. Eastern Carpet Inc., 602 West Greenville Blvd., Greenville. 756-1944. "Where There's Always A Sale."

Host Of Top Entertainers Play In Late Night Shows This Week

Steve Allen is again the bemused host, and Phyllis Diller returns as the envious color commentator, in "The 2nd Annual Unofficial Miss Las Vegas Showgirl Pageant," a "Wide World: Special" to be rebroadcast among other late-night attractions on the ABC Television Network in the week of July 14-18.

Teresa Graves, Nina Foch, Elizabeth Hartman, Polly Bergen, Edward Albert, Celeste Holm, Tom Bosley, Kate Jackson and Richard Long will be among the starring players in three "Wide World: Mystery" dramas during the week, which will also include a new edition of the magazine-format "Geraldo Rivera: Good Night America."

All five programs will be presented in the 11:30 p.m. - 1:00 a.m. time period.

Teresa Graves stars as a beautiful police undercover investigatory in "Get Christie Love!," which will be rebroadcast as a "Wide World: Mystery," Monday, July 14. Miss Graves, as Christie Love, conducts her investigation of an underworld narcotics operation by becoming a friend of a syndicate strongman's mistress, who is in possession of a ledger that could lead to his arrest and conviction.

Harry Guardino also stars in the drama as Christie's boss, Det. Sgt. Reardon. "Get Christie Love!" was originally seen on ABC's "Tuesday Movie of the Week," January 22, 1974.

A young writer comes to the terrifying realization that his wife's mental illness may be the result of an ancient family curse in "A Little Bit Like Murder," a "Wide World: Mystery" to be rebroadcast Tuesday, July 15.

Nina Foch, Elizabeth Hartman, Roger Davis and Sharon Farrell star in the 90-minute drama, originally seen March 29, 1973.

Celeste Holm and Tom Bosley, Richard Long and Polly Bergen, and Edward Albert and Kate Jackson star as the married couples who have won a pleasure cruise in a contest, only to find that their tickets have guaranteed them a one-way passage to death in "Death ruise," to be seen as a "Wide World: Mystery," Wednesday, July 16.

"Death Cruise" was originally seen on ABC's "Wednesday Movie of the week," October 30, 1974.

Geraldo Rivera will take a new look at contemporary life in another edition of "Geraldo Rivera: Good Night America," a "Wide World: Special" to be seen Thursday, July 17. Program details will be announced later.

"The 2nd Annual Unofficial Miss Las Vegas Showgirl Pageant," the "Wide World: Special" for Friday, July 18, features nine beautiful showgirls representing as many Las Vegas strip hotels. The program follows the three-stage ritual of all pageants in which winners are determined by displaying their merits and other attributes in such categories as swimsuits, costumes, talent and poise.

This pageant, however, has an added dimension — it's for laughs.

The contest, with Steve Allen as host and Phyllis Dillas off-stage commentator, was judged by Jane Meadows, Louis Nye and Rip Taylor. The program was originally seen February 6, 1975.

Stacy Keach Destined For An Acting Career

Stacy Keach, star of "Caribe," seen Mondays (10 to 11 p.m.) on ABC, is the son of a drama coach and was destined to become an actor. His parents met while both were studying drama. Stacy played his first starring role, the lead in "Rip Van Winkle," while still in grammar school in Savannah, Georgia.

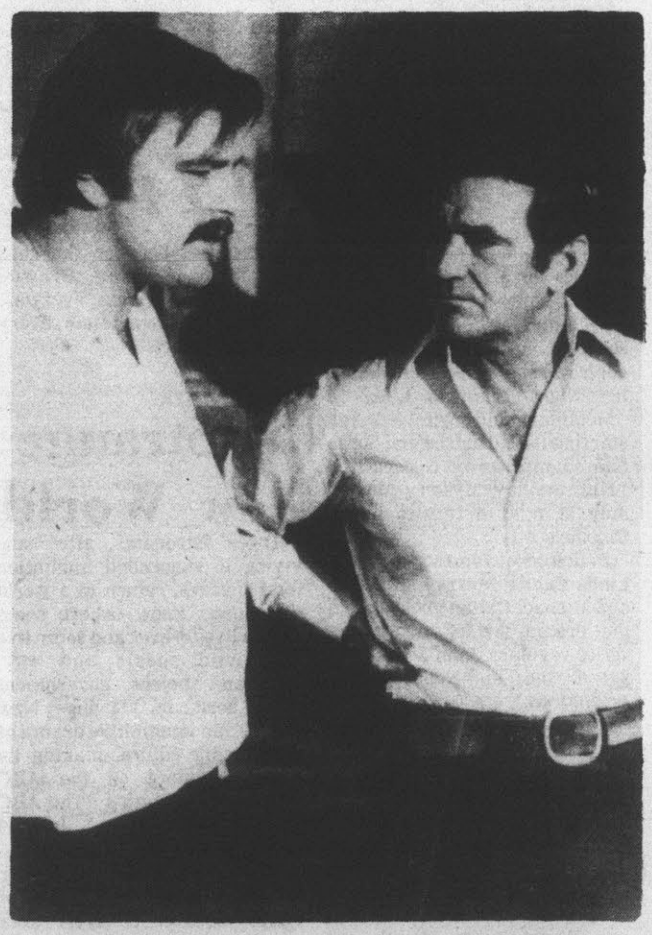
The family moved to Los Angeles when the elder Keach was sent for by Universal Studios to coach Maria Montez. Stacy went on to the University of California at Berkeley, where he became involved in all phases of the theatre. After graduation he attended the Yale School of Drama, later winning a Fulbright scholarship which enabled him to study for a year at the London Academy of Music and Dramatic Art.

Returning home, Stacy broadened his experience by playing a variety of roles with such groups as the Lincoln Center Repertory Company, the Yale Repertory, and the New York Shakespeare Festival, among others. He also appeared in a number of off-Broadway plays, one of which - "Mac Bird" - won him an Obie award for distinguished performance.

Stacy made his Broadway debut in 1969 in "Indians," playing the lead. Subsequently, his portrayal of Jamie in "Long Day's Journey Into Night" won him a second Obie. He added to his reputation in 1974 in a highly acclaimed version of "Hamlet" at the Mark Taper Forum in Los Angeles.

Stacy's film credits include "The Heart Is a Lonely Hunter," "Brewster McCloud," "The New Centurions" and "Fat City." He has appeared on National Education Television and on ABC, where he starred in "All the Kind Strangers."

He and his wife, the former Marilyn Akin, reside in Los Angeles.



PRIVATE EYE — Rod Taylor (right), as Shamus, works to solve a case involving a small-time informer and Dick Butkus portrays Heavy, in "A Matter of Wife . . . and Death," to be colorcast on "NBC Double Feature Movie," Monday, July 14 on NBC-TV. The first half of the "Double Feature" "The Rangers" will begin at 8 p.m.

Space Mission Preview On Monday Night

CBS News Correspondent Walter Cronkite, with Navy Captain and former astronaut Walter Schirra, will report from the Kennedy Space Center on the eve of the first U.S.-U.S.S.R. space mission. The CBS News Special Report, "Apollo-Soyuz: A Meeting in Space," previewing the historic nine-day mission, will be broadcast on the CBS Television Network Monday, July 14, 11:30 p.m.-12:00 on channel 9-11.

Animated and still models of the space crafts — Apollo, Soyuz and the docking module — will illustrate the preview.

Personal profiles of the American astronauts and Soviet cosmonauts will be included on the broadcast, which will also outline the major plans and goals of the mission.

Cronkite and Schirra will discuss the scientific and diplomatic significances of the joint space effort, including such considerations as language differences and safety factors.

CBS News Correspondents Steve Young and Richard Roth will report from Moscow, and Correspondent Nelson Benton will report from the Johnson Space Center in Houston, Texas.

Russ Bensley, Director of Special Events for CBS News, will be the executive producer of this CBS News Special Report.

He's No Longer Ronny

In his current TV series, "Happy Days", young Ron Howard, who just got married, incidentally, goes back 20 or so years for his role as a teenager in the 1950's.

Strange thing is Howard wasn't even born then. He just returned 21, but he has been acting 17 of those years.

When did he drop the 'Ronny' and to 'Ron,' and why?

"Just prior to "Happy Days." I had intended to do it for the film, 'American Graffiti,' but they but had already done the credits. So, for the TV series, I made the change immediately. I wanted to make sure the people knew I had made the transition, and I was growing up, and I couldn't remain being called 'Ronny' all my life."

Have people forgotten he was once 'Opie' on Andy Griffith's show, and is there a possibility of him working with Andy again?

"No, not completely, athough a kind of nice thing has happened since "Happy Days.' People come up to me and say, 'Hey, Ron,' not 'Opie,' or 'Ronny.' Kids who've been seeing the re-runs are a bit confused, however, not knowing whether that's me or not. You know, I shot that show from age 6 to 14.'

"There was a chance twice for Andy and me to work together on a movie, but both times he or I had to fold out because of something else coming up."

What has he found the most difficult thing about acting?

"The majority of it comes pretty easy for me. I guess to maintain by concentration is the most difficult. You must have it so you are disciplined and giving 100 percent on each scene. It's easy to do film in bits and pieces with two or three lines, but later you wished you had bore down on it.

'HAPPY DAYS' — Ron Howard (left) as Richie Cunningham, and Donny Most as his friend, Ralph, are happy because Richie promoted free tickets for them and their group to a concert by a celebrated rock group, "Johnny Fish and the Fins," (played by Flash Cadillac and the Continental Kids) in "Fish and the Fins," on ABC-TV's "Happy Days," Tuesday, July 15 (8-8:30 p.m.) on Channel 3W-5-12.

Space Flight Has Russians Excited

"The thing that makes this flight such an exciting one for the Russian people is that they have never witnessed on Soviet television, live coverage of the launch of one of their own manned spaceships."

Speaking is NBC News correspondent John Dancy, who will be reporting from Moscow during NBC News' live coverage of key phases of the nine-day joint Apollo-Soyuz space mission, set for July 15-24.

"The Russians have always been very cautious about showing live a manned launch on television because of the possibility of failure," says Dancy. "In the past their coverage has always been taped and then shown on a special program 15 or 20 minutes after the shot, or later during their regular news programs. So it really is a big event . . . not only for Americans, who will see a Russian launch live for the first time too, but for Soviet people as well."

SUCCESS AND FAME—Connie Stevens, as Kelly Williams, discovers both the thrill and loneliness of success of a famous movie star in "The Sex Symbol", a contemporary drama on ABC-TV's "Wednesday Movie of the Week", July 16 (8:30-10 p.m.) on channels 3W-5-12.

Glamor Wardrobe For Connie Stevens In Film

Not only does Connie Stevens have what she considers her "role of a lifetime" in "The Sex Symbol," the "Wednesday Movie of the Week" which will air July 16 at 8:30 p.m. on ABC, but she found herself in her glory in the most glamorous wardrobe she has yet worn in a film.

Connie portrays a composite of several Hollywood sex goddesses in the movie, and she has no less than 36 different outfits to wear.

She also slipped into an additional 12 sexy creations for special pinup photo sessions, the results of which are seen throughout the movie as pictures on walls, magazine covers, poster art and inserts denoting her rise as filmdom's reigning sex symbol of the 1950's.

The costumes were intriguing for Connie because they were fashioned after the period of the picture - slinky evening gowns that hug every curve, plunging necklines, a silver lame pants outfit that Connie literally had to be sewn into.

Robert Shaw Will Star As Sherlock

Acclaimed British actor Robert Shaw will become England's matchless sleuth when he stars in "Timex Presents Sherlock Holmes," a special drawn from the works of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle which is to be telecast on the NBC Television Network in the spring of 1976.

Shaw has been praised for his performance in the new film, "Jaws," and won acclaim for his acting in the Academy Award-winning movie, "The Sting." He was in another recently released motion picture, "The Taking of Pelham One Two Three." Shaw was nominated for an Academy Award for his portrayal of Henry VIII in "A Man for All Seasons."

His other movies include "From Russia With Love," "The Battle of the Bulge," "The Birthday Party," "Young Winston" and "Figures in a Landscape" (for which he wrote the screenplay). Shaw's five published novels include "The Man in the Glass Booth." He wrote the stage version of the book which was presented in London and on Broadway. The play was later turned into a motion picture.

The one-hour mystery drama will be under the full sponsorship of Timex Watches (through Warwick, Welsh & Miller, Inc.).

The director will be Alan Bridges (who directed Shaw in the movie, "The Hireling"). The script is by Terence Feely. Cates said he obtained rights to three Sherlock Holmes short stories from the Conan Doyle estate for the special, to be taped in England during the winter.

STAR IN SERIES — Tony Orlando and Dawn (Joyce Vincent Wilson, left and Telma Hopkins, center) star in a comedy-music-variety series, "Tony Orlando and Dawn" which can be seen on Wednesdays (8-9 p.m.) on CBS-TV.

Bill Conrad Is Fat And Happy In TV Series

By Bill Conrad's own admission his clothes are tailor-made — he has no choice since his waist is a firm forty-plus inches while the lower portion of his physique is that of a much slimmer man. His shoulders are broad, and the round, full face gives the impression that he has no neck. His arms are short and muscular. Such a figure tests the talents of even the best tailors, but it is of little concern to the man himself. Bill's fat, there is simply no other way to put it, and he'd be the first to describe himself the same way.

He stands 5-feet-9 and prefers to maintain his weight at "somewhere under two hundred and thirty." However, since the inception of his successful TV series "Cannon," (seen Wednesdays on CBS-TV from 9 to 10 p.m.) Bill admits that, even though he works twelve to fourteen hours a day, and sometimes six days a week, he's gained weight.

"I've been flirting with two-fifty pounds ever since I did the pilot movie," he says with that familiar grin, and in that rich kettledrum voice.

"The reason is simple. I'm happy. I really enjoy doing the show. I love it. I get a real kick out of coming to work every day. And when you're happy, as I am, there is a tendency for a person to get a little fatter, I think."

Being fat has never prevented Bill from doing what he's wanted to do because his weight has never been a concern.

"I am as healthy as I can be. I haven't felt so good in twenty years. We had a stuntman do the long shots in the pilot film, but then I had to do the same thing in closeups. So, I said to myself - if this show is going to run, I'll have to get in condition."

He pauses for a moment to tap some loose ashes from his pipe, and then with a grin adds, "So I started going to a gym. I despise working out, but I went and did the whole thing there. The weights, steam rooms, all of that. And would you believe it, I gained twenty pounds!"

The Zoo Gang In Segments

"The Zoo Gang" — a six-hour mini-series starring Brian Keith, John Mills, Lillie Palmer and Barry Morse based on the novel by Paul Gallico — will be presented on the NBC Television Network in three, two-hour segments Wednesday, July 16 and 23 and August 6, 9-11 p.m. on Channels 6-7.

Paul and Linda McCartney composed the theme music for the adventure programs (the first time the couple have composed for a TV series). Reginald Rose wrote the script for the first one-hour segment, "Revenge: Postdated," and developed the project for television. Writers for the other segments are Howard Dimsdale, John Kruse, William Fairchild, Peter Yeldham and Sean Graham. The directors are Sidney Hayers and John Hough.

All on-location filming took place along the French Riviera, including Nice and other sections of southern France — the locales for the original Gallico story. Interior scenes were filmed in England.

The stories focus on four sophisticated people who reunite to fight injustice nearly 30 years after they had been part of the same World War II underground resistance group battling the Nazis in France. They were labeled "The Zoo Gang" during World War II because of the code names they used: "The Fox," "The Elephant," "The Leopard," and "The Tiger." The four — one American, one British, one French and one Canadian—are reunited in Nice after a man who betrayed them to the Gestapo is spotted in the French city.

Keith portrays the American, Stephen Halliday ("The Fox"), a former OSS agent, now a business executive in New York City and an excellent organizer who is familiar with electronics.

Mills is the ex-British Commando officer, Capt. Tommy Devon ("The Elephant"), living in Nice, where he runs a jewelry shop. He is skilled with his hands and has a remarkable memory.

Palmer plays the French widow, Manouche Roget ("The Leopard"), whose husband, a member of the wartime group, was murdered by the Gestapo. She operates a cafe, the meeting place for the quartet. She has retained her skills as a safe cracker and lock picker. Her son, Georges (played by Michael Petrovich), is a lieutenant on the French police force.

Morse plays the Canadian, Alec Marlowe ("The Tiger"), who was a World War II lieutenant in the Royal Canadian Air Force and operator of an auto repair shop in Vancouver before meeting with his friends in Nice. He is counted on for his mechanical expertise.

Randall, Charo Join Orlando

Guest stars Tony Randall and the fiery Charo join Tony Orlando and Dawn in a comedy version of a prize-fighting drama, on a rebroadcast of "Tony Orlando and Dawn" Wednesday, July 16, 8 to 9 p.m., on CBS-TV and Channels 9-11.

Against a musical theme of "Body and Soul," Orlando plays Kid Ghetto, a dedicated boxer whose mother wants him to play the tuba, but instead sees him run a foul of Randall, as a crooked promoter, and Charo, as his torrid sweetheart.

In a featured musical number, a zoot-suited Randall joins Telma Hopkins and Joyce Vincent Wilson — the show's Dawn — in singing hits of the 1940s, including "Hubba, Hubba, Hubba," "Don't Sit Under the Apple Tree" and "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy."

Tony Orlando and Charo sing "Cherry Cherry." And, in a musical trip to Hawaii, Orlando and Dawn dance the hula and sing "The Hawaiian War Chant."

KEEPS IN SHAPE — Ed McMahan, of the "Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson" says that it takes discipline to keep yourself in shape. Ed McMahan, who played end on the Fordham Football Team in 1941-42, has been concerned with exercise since his college days.

Ed McMahon Is A Fitness Fiend

By ED McMAHON
of
"The Tonight Show
Starring Johnny Carson"

We all do a lot of things we don't enjoy, or find hard to do.

For me, one of them is exercising and keeping in shape. Spending many hours inside studios or flying around the country, I have a devil of a time with both. But I try.

I've been concerned with exercise since my college days. I played end on the Fordham football team in 1941-42. I was almost 6-feet-4 then, and weighed 200 pounds. And when I was attending preflight school at the University of Georgia in Athens, I played center and line-backer and was captain of the team. So even then I kept in shape.

Since I have no sports hobbies now, such as golf or tennis, to help with my exercise, I have to devise ways to keep in shape.

I still do the Royal Canadian Air Force exercises, 11 minutes a day no matter where I am.

When I can, I go to the Bahamas for 10-day periods. I've been there three times so far and it's fantastic! It is a complete revitalization. It is therapy to the entire system.

Exercise and weight are even tougher to control when I'm on the road. For example: on one weekend, I left on a Saturday flight, at 1:25 a.m., California time, for Houston. I got there at 6 a.m. and had to be ready for a noon rehearsal. I did two stage shows that night, went to a sponsor's party and repeated the process on Sunday. I was at work the following Monday. I get wrapped up in what I'm doing and the thought of keeping in shape leaves the mind.

TwoHours-4 Comedies

Four half-hour comedy programs — "Rosenthal and Jones," starring Ned Glass and George Kirby; "Wives," starring Janie Sell and Penny Marshall; "Grandpa Max," starring Larry Best; and "Harry and Maggie," starring Don Knotts and Eve Arden — will be rebroadcast on "The CBS Thursday Night Movies" Thursday, July 17 (9-11 p.m.) on the CBS Television Network.

Glass and Kirby portray, respectively, Nate Rosenthal and Henry Jones, retired widowers who share a low-rent apartment rather than live with their grown children, in "Rosenthal and Jones" (9-9:30 p.m.).

Miss Sell plays the pivotal role in "Wives" (9:30-10 p.m.), centered on several women who meet weekly for an afternoon of card games and their own game of playing with their lives, families and problems.

Best stars as "Grandpa Max" (10-10:30 p.m.), a crusty widower who decides to move into a senior citizens' home because he resents his overly-protective sons treating him like an old man.

"Harry and Maggie" (10:30-11 p.m.) stars Knotts and Miss Arden in a story about the clashing lifestyes of a grumpy Iowa widower and his flamboyant, sophisticated sister-in-law.

For the fans of "Kojak," you should see Telly Savalas on a Las Vegas stage, singing, dancing and philosophizing. Supported by two trios of beautiful young women, Telly successfully stretches his creative muscles as a live performer, be it the up-tempo "Love Will Keep Us Together" or the heart-tugging "The Boys In My Little Girl's Life."

After opening at Lake Tahoe, Telly took his show to the Sahara Hotel in the gambling city, and this correspondent was priviledged to be among the visiting press who saw the big man step out of his TV character into an impressionable entertainer. Don't be suprised if CBS slips Telly into a variety special soon, he's that well polished.

Elsewhere, Helen Hayes, mother of "Hawaii Five-O" co-star James MacArthur, guests on the police drama this upcoming season.

On the MASH front, Alan Alda has signed a new contract, calling for an estimated $22,500 per segment. And Wayne Rogers' role as Hawkeye's sidekick will be filled with a new character, B.J. Hunnicutt, played by Mike Farrell.

With Sally Struthers in arbitration with Tandem Productions, which will determine her future on the popular "All In The Family" series, as well, possibly, as the show's future, Rob Reiner has co-written a play and will star in it should the series fade from the schedule.

Malden 'Revisits' Part Of His Past

"Who said you can't go home again?"

So asked Karl Malden, starring as Det. Lt. Mike Stone on the ABC Television Network's "The Streets of San Francisco," airing Thursdays, 9 to 10 p.m.

Before embarking upon an acting career, Malden had worked in the steel mills in Gary, Indiana. One day, on his hiatus from the series, Malden took time to go back 'home' — to the Kaiser Steel Corporation located in Fontana, a Los Angeles suburb.

"I quit college during my freshman year when I got clobbered in football and ran out of money at the same time. I returned to Gary in the midst of the Depression. I found a job — after two years — in a steel mill. I worked for two years as a 'cinder snapper' on U. S. Steel's No. 2 open hearth. It was the roughest job on the floor — cracking the brick to let the liquid flow through. I was damned lucky to have the job," Malden related.

"When the mill in Fontana was started, more than 3,000 men were hired from Gary. Most of the men were Serbian and they dubbed the new town in California 'Little Gary.'

"Going to Fontana was such an enjoyable experience," said Malden. "It was marvelous reliving a part of my life. And what a thrill to see 255 tons of molten steel being tapped from an open hearth furnace. And watching a crane pull a white-hot steel ingot from a soaking pit for delivery to a rolling mill. (Temperatures for this procedure vary from 2,800 to 3,000 degrees.) I enjoyed recapturing the days I spent in the mill again and talking to the guys.

Helen Reddy New Host

Helen Reddy, who hosted the premiere of the NBC Television Network's "The Midnight Special" February 3, 1973, will become the first permanent host of the series starting with the program that follows (1-2:30 a.m.) the Friday, July 18, colorcast of "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson."

The announcement was made today by Dick Ebersol, Director, Late Night Programming, NBC-TV.

Including the premiere, Reddy has hosted five editions of "The Midnight Special."

Citing the acquisition of Reddy as the most important development for "The Midnight Special" since its premiere, Burt Sugarman, creator and executive producer of the series said: "I'm extremely proud to be associated with a superstar of Ms. Reddy's caliber. As our regular host, she will bring to "The Midnight Special" an extra element, namely continuity, from week to week. We welcome her with the greatest degree of enthusiasm."

Reddy, Grammy Award winner for her hit record, "I Am Woman," was born in Australia, the daughter of Max Reddy, a writer, producer and actor, and actress Stella Lamond. As a child, she performed with them on their long-running radio show in that country.

In 1966 she won a talent contest run by an Australian TV station. The prize included a trip to New York. In 1968, after moving to Los Angeles, she played small fairs and many one-nighters until she was signed by Capitol Records. Her initial release, "I Don't Know How to Love Him," backed with "I Believe in Music," was a solid hit.

During the summer of 1973, Reddy headlined her own musical-variety series on NBC-TV, "Flip Wilson Presents the Helen Reddy Show."

Beginning with "The Midnight Special" that follows the June 20 telecast of "The Tonight Show," two near features will be part of the series: "Rock Rap," with Carol Wayne offering news of the world of contemporary music; and "Midnight Special Tribute," in which celebrities of the record industry will be saluted.

Stan Harris is producer-director of "The Midnight Special."

Almost Declined Detective Role

Efrem Zimbalist almost turned down the role of detective Harry Hansen in the NBC-TV drama "Who Is The Black Dahlia?" because he's trying to escape his policeman image. Actually, he's never played a cop before, but in television, he's spent 16 years in law enforcement.

Candid Words By Peggy Lee

"People should take something with them when they go away from a performance. I think they should take, maybe, a little soul — maybe just a few moments of forgetting their troubles or remembering pleasant experiences," says songstress Peggy Lee in a candid, revealing conversation with Jeanne Wolf on Wed., July 16 at 8:30 p.m. on UNC-TV.

Taped at a rehearsal at the Diplomat Hotel in Miami, Peggy Lee talks woman - to - woman about her career, her marriages and her belief in life after death. About her four marriages she states, "I've been married once. The other three were only costume parties."

In a discussion of life after death, she says, "I do believe in the hereafter - I don't know in exactly what form . . . I think there's a higher plane of consciousness than this and so that's one thing. I think some of my songs will and that's a good feeling."

ONLY TEMPORARY — Redd Foxx, as Fred Sanford, gets a break from the household chores when his neighbor's sister moves into the Sanford home temporarily in "Julio and Sister and Nephew," on NBC-TV's "Sanford and Son" Friday, July 18 (8-8:30 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

Elke Sommer Stars As Pretty Refugee

Elke Sommer stars as a lovely athlete who becomes involved in an international tug of war, in "The Wicked Dreams of Paula Schultz," comedy to be shown for the first time on television as the first part (8:00-9:30 PM) of a double-feature presentation on "The CBS Friday Night Movies," Friday, July 18 (8:00-11:00 PM) on the CBS Television Network. Bob Crane and Werner Klemperer also star.

Paula Schultz, a leading East German athlete, is expected to win golf medals at the Olympic games. But, rebelling at her dowdy uniforms and annoyed by the advances of the propaganda minister, Paula pole vaults over the Berlin Wall and lands in the arms of a fortune-hunting profiteer, Bill Mason. He is torn between using Paula as a means to force money out of the West and giving in to the East's demands for her return.

Scott As Mobster

George C. Scott stars as a mobster whose decision to take a chance becomes his last chance, in "The Last Run," action drama to be shown as the second part (9:30-11 p.m.) of a double-feature presentation on "The CBS Friday Night Movies," Friday, July 18 (8-11 p.m.) in color on the CBS Television Network. Also starring are Tony Musante, Trish Van Devere and Colleen Dewhurst.

Harry Garmes, former getaway driver for a gang, has been living in obscurity for nine years. Finally, boredom drives him back to crime. He picks up a young gunman, Paul Richard, who has escaped from the police, and they rendezvous with the gang.

When Garmes realizes the gang only wants to kill him, he tries to help Richard and the young man's girl escape.

SATURDAY HOST—Veteran character actor Will Geer will host "GO" on Saturday, July 19 in anticipation of the Bicentennial celebration on NBC-TV.

Michele Will Tell

I am truly sorry for my incorrect answer that appeared recently in this column. Sadly so, Don Rich was killed when his motorcycle hit a road divider near Morro Bay, Calif. According to an article in Country Music Magazine, Buck Owens consoled himself by saying, "I guess God needed him more than we did." It is indeed a tragedy when a talented, outstanding person such as Don is suddenly taken from us.

TO L.C.H., LEXINGTON, N.C. I too was confused about the "World Premiere Movie" having been shown before. Actually, the name of the program is "World Premiere Movie," and movies that 'premiered' on it are now being re-run. "What's My Line" is syndicated and the segments were taped a long, long time ago.

TO H.D., ROCK HILL, S.C. The movie "Jesse James," filmed in 1939, may well have aired during the early days of TV, but not recently. Why does WRET-TV 'cut' movies? This is an independent station, AND . . . if they want to cut 'em . . . they golly well can!

ALL YOU TONY ORLANDO AND DAWN FANS: Tony Orlando and wife Elaine have been happily married for ten years. Joyce Vincent Wilson is married and Telma Hopkins is single.

TO S.J., YORK, S.C. Bill Mumy (Weaver in "Sunshine") is a native Californian and a real outdoors guy. When he's not filming, he's camping out or appearing with his combo, "Redwood." As a freckle-faced, red-haired youngster, he was in several Disney films. His first TV series was "Lost in Space." His address? C-o the show, NBC-TV, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y., 10020.

True-Life Events For Film-Makers

Dramatizations of significant true-life events will constitute the largest percentage of the variety of themes to be presented on "NBC World Premiere Movie" in NBC-TV's 1975-76 season.

Four major studios and independent packagers will produce the World Premiere films for NBC-TV. In addition to true-life dramatizations, the 1975-76 line-up of films will feature comedies, mysteries and suspense dramas.

"These dramas are in keeping with the tradition NBC-TV has established in presenting critically acclaimed, fact-based dramas such as the Emmy Award-winning "The Execution of Private Slovik" and "A Case of Rape," said Stanley Robertson, Vice President, Motion Pictures for Television, NBC-TV.

Performers set to star in the upcoming season's "World Premiere" movies include: Claude Akins, Ralph Bellamy, Stephen Boyd, Beau Bridges, Susan Clark, Bradford Dillman, Jose Ferrer, John Gavin, Farley Granger, Anthony Hopkins, James Earl Jones, Shirley Knight, Michael Learned, Michele Lee, Lera Miles, Ricardo Montalban, Elizabeth Montgomery, Patricia Neal, Estelle Parsons, George Peppard, Carl Reiner, William Windom and Dana Wynter.

Family Living Like Ancestors

In anticipation of America's forthcoming Bicentennial celebration, NBC Television Network's "GO" program Saturday, July 19, 12:30 to 1 p.m., visits a family living as our colonial ancestors did.

Will Geer, host of this edition, takes viewers on a tour of Turkey Run Farm near Washington, D. C. which is run by the United States Park Service. There, the Alexander family — father, mother and four children— live and dress as our colonial forebears did.

Sarah Miles In Two--Hour Special

Sarah Miles will star in James Michener's "The Americans," an original work created for television by the Pulitzer Prize-winning author which will be telecast on the NBC-TV Network during the 1975-76 season.

Miles will appear as the determined wife in the two-hour special, a drama following the activities of a fictional family set against the backdrop of factual events which shaped the course of this nation from 1820 to 1860.

Michener originated the concept and detailed the thrust of the story and its main characters. The script for the special was prepared by Emmy Award winner Sidney Carroll.

Miles recently co-starred in the NBC-TV special, "Great Expectations." She was nominated for Academy Awards twice — for "The Servant" and for "Ryan's Daughter." She received a special citation at the Cannes Film Festival for her performance in "The Hireling."

Michener won the Pulitzer Prize for "Tales of the South Pacific" and Carroll received an Emmy Award for an NBC News special, "The Louvre."

Yank Catcher Is Determined

How could somebody get Thurman Munson, the seemingly dour, quiet catcher for the New York Yankees, extremely angry? Simply by telling him that he is not the best player in the American League behind the plate. Thurman is actually an outspoken, thoughtful individual who is never afraid to express an opinion, especially when it comes to his ball-playing ability. The Yankee catcher will be behind the plate for the American League when they meet the rival National League in the 42nd showdown of Baseball's All-Star Game, to be telecast on the NBC Network on Tuesday, July 15, at 8 p.m.

Ever since he was selected first in the free agent draft in 1968 by the Yankees from Kent State University, Munson has been one of the top catchers in the American League. The native Ohioan was named American League Rookie of the Year in 1970, and was immediately recognized as an outstanding baseball player both offensively and defensively. During that first season, he hit a glittering .302, and led all major league satchers in fielding in 1971 with a .998 mark, committing just one error in 615 chances. Thurman has already been named to the All-Star team three times in his brief five-year career.

The New York backstop had no idea of being a catcher when he played in Pony Leagues, participating as a shortstop on a team with a 45-0 record.

"In my senior year at high school, we had a pitcher who threw so hard that no one would catch him," Munson said. "I volunteered to catch him although I had never caught. I caught him five or six times and that was all my high school catching."

Golf Prizes Have Grown

". . . and the first prize in the U.S. Women's Open Golf Championship — a $100 savings bond!"

That may sound ridiculous, but it happens to be true. The Year was 1941, and the best female golfer in the United States — perhaps the world — was the legendary Patty Berg, who won the U.S. Women's Open and took home that queenly sum for her efforts. Prize money on the Ladies Professional Golf Association circuit has improved dramatically over the years. Consider this year's U.S. Women's Open Golf Championship, to be played at the Atlantic City Country Club in Northfield, New Jersey: the purse has climbed to $55,000. ABC Sports will present 2½ hours of exclusive, live coverage of the Open — the most extensive coverage ever accorded this prestigious event — on Saturday, July 19 (4 to 5 p.m.), and Sunday, July 20 (4:30 to 6 p.m.), on the ABC Television Network.

Last year's championship, which took place at the LaGrange Country Club near Chicago, almost didn't come off. A threatened boycott, raised when it was discovered that the purse would be only $40,000, was nervously averted when the USGA agreed to change the purse allotment, add two women golfers to the TV team, thin the rough, soften the greens and widen the fairways so that the golf scores would appear relevant instead of outrageous.

With increased interest and healthier purses, women's golf no longer resembles a quiet, Sunday stroll. Now the prosperous ladies are into six-figure winnings, gallery ropes, television ratings, player performance points, pretournament qualifying, endorsements, commercials, player card review, tour caddies, corporation pro-ams and sponsor associations, just like Arnie, Jack and Gary.

Many of the top pros themselves feel that one major reason for this upsurge in the popularity of women's golf is television coverage of their competitions.

Veteran Mickey Wright said she believes that TV "has made instant celebrities of golfers."

Betty Burfeindt, a brilliant newcomer on the tour, said "TV has had a very beneficial effect on golf. It has given us the exposure to reach millions, whereas a local tournament without TV will be seen by only 10,000 or 20,000."

Ten-time tour tournament winner Susie Berning noted, "TV has exposed golf to so many people . . . it has helped our attendance, which in turn has helped our prize money."

California's Pam Higgins may have observed the most important aspect of televised women's golf when she stated, "It gives people the opportunity to relate to these players."

RAISES TROPHY — Last year Sandra Haynie raised her trophy in victory after her impressive win at the U. S. Women's Open Golf Championship. This year she'll be defending her title at the Atlantic City Country Club when the Open is televised by ABC Sports, Saturday July 19 (4-5 p.m.) on Sunday, July 20 (4:30-6 p.m.) on ABC-TV.

Hank Stram On CBS Staff

Hank Stram, one of the most successful coaches in the history of professional football, has joined the broadcasting staff of CBS Television Sports for the CBS Television Network's coverage of NFL football games, beginning in September 1975. He will serve as an expert analyst on the broadcasts.

Stram left the Kansas City Chiefs organization in 1974 after serving as head coach and vice president of the team for 15 years. During that time, his football team won more games than any other original American Football League team, and also participated in the first Super Bowl ever played. The Chiefs, under Stram, won Super Bowl IV in 1970.

Stram has been involved in coaching since his graduation from Purdue University in 1948. He was selected in 1960 to coach the fledgling Dallas Texans of the American Football League by the team's owner, and league's founder, Lamar Hunt. The Texans were moved to Kansas City in 1963. Through the end of the 1974 season, Stram was the only head coach the organization had ever had, and he retired from the Chiefs as the second most successful active coach in the NFL, trailing Paul Brown of Cincinnati.

In making the announcement for CBS, Robert Wussler, Vice President of CBS Television Sports, said, "Hank Stram is one of the most knowledgeable football men the game has ever produced. His addition to our broadcaster lineup has to be a major plus for CBS and for our viewers. We expect him to be an asset to our coverage for a long time to come."

Diahann Portrays Baker

Award-winner Diahann Carroll will portray Josephine Baker in the two-hour dramatic special about the legendary singer - dancer to be filmed for future presentation on NBC-TV.

The special, tentatively titled "The Josephine Baker Story," will focus on the engrossing life story of Baker, the girl from St. Louis who attained stardom in Paris as a young girl and who remained a headliner for 50 years until she died last April 12 at age 68.

The script is being written by the husband - and - wife team of Les and Tina Pine, television and motion picture writers whose credits include "Claudine," the motion picture which starred Carroll and James Earl Jones. Carroll received a Best Actress Academy Award nomination for her performance. The Pines also wrote the scripts for the films "Poppi" and the soon - to - be - released "Fred."

The special will cover Baker's early career in New York (in the Broadway revue, "Shuffle Along" and at Harlem's Cotton Club), as well as her overnight success in Paris and her long career in the French capital. It also will be devoted to her World War II activities on behalf of France, which had become her permanent residence. She was awarded the Croix de Guerre and the Legion of Honor with the Rosette of the Resistance for her battle against Nazism.

Carroll, acclaimed by television viewers, stage and night club audiences for her acting and singing, won a Tony Award for her starring performance in Richard Rodgers's "No Strings." She also received an Emmy Award nomination earlier in her career for her work in an installment of the "Naked City" series.

Pageant To See Another 'First'

The 1975 "Miss Universe Beauty Pageant," to be broadcast live by means of the global satellite communications system from El Salvador, will be the first international television broadcast ever to be emanate from Central America.

The two-hour special will be presented on Saturday, July 10, p.m. to 12 midnight, on CBS-TV and Channel 9-11.

The NICATELSAT Earth Station, located near Managua, Nicaragua, is now being adapted for television transmission specifically for the pageant. Prior to this, it has been used for voice data communications only.

When a severe earthquake leveled the capital city of Managua in December 1972, the station, which had just begun operations, was virtually the only link to the outside world from the stricken city. Having been built to withstand earthquakes, the station was not damaged. It continued operations throughout the emergency on power from its own generators.

The global communications system is composed of satellites in geostationary orbits over the Atlantic, Pacific and Indian Oceans and a worldwide network of more than 100 antenna stations. The NICATELSAT station, located in the center of a caldera, or collapsed volcano crater, is linked with a satellite in orbit 22,300 miles over the Atlantic.

Yul Brynner As Solomon

Yul Brynner and Gina Lollobrigida star in the title roles in "Solomon and Sheba," an epic drama detailing one of history's greatest romances, on "NBC Saturday Night at the Movies" July 19 (9-11:30 p.m.). George Sanders co-stars in the 1959 United Artists release.

Upon the death of King David (Finlay Currie) of Israel, his son, Solomon (Brynner), succeeds him.

Solomon proves to be a wise ruler and under him, Israel thrives. Because of his success, he incurs the jealous rath of the Egyptian Paraoh (David Farrar), who schemes to attack Israel.

Pharaoh's political ally, Magda, Queen of Sheba (Lollobrigida), has another, more subtle, plan; she will personally visit Solomon, ostensibly to effect a trade alliance, and then will proceed to destroy him in mind and body.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR SEN. ALAN CRANSTON (D-Calif.)

What gives the government the right to take tax from a 17-year-old's paycheck when that 17-year-old can't vote? Isn't that taxation without representation?—Mark Waggoner, Alta Loma, Calif.

● Think of the four- and five-year-old child stars earning thousands of dollars in movies, TV and commercials. I don't think you'd favor giving them, and all other four-year-olds, the right to vote because some of them earn taxable incomes. Nor do I think you'd want them to go tax free. Everyone who enjoys the benefits and protections of our society, and those who earn, should help pay their own way, at whatever age. But remember, the 17-year-old worker is covered by our unemployment compensation, Social Security, occupational health and safety laws, among other things. So while he doesn't get the vote, he gets a lot else. You must admit that even though 18 is an arbitrary cutoff (as was 21) there has to be a reasonable limit to how much we can lower the voting age.

FOR MICHAEL LEARNED

How did you get your great role as Mother Walton?—A.G., Asbury Park, N.J. [Editor's note: Ms. Learned received more votes in FAMILY WEEKLY's 1974 and 1975 Celebrity Surveys than any performer in any category.]

● Maybe the producers sensed my love for children. That's the only reason I can think of, since so many other talented actresses were tested. Or maybe it was just obvious that I was more experienced at being a housewife and a mother (I have three sons) than I was at being an actress!

FOR BOBBY RIGGS

Do you believe in having the last word when it comes to women?—N.G.C., Visalia, Calif.

● I believe in the hearts-and-flowers method (which I have no doubt was started by Adam with Eve). I say, "I'm sorry. Please forgive me. Let's kiss, make up and forget all about it, because I love you." I go on in this way until the apologies are coming out of my ears. Then, when everything is forgotten and things are tranquil once more, I get even—I give her a great big piece of my mind!

FOR JOHNNY UNITAS

Why did you always wear those high-top shoes when you played football? Were they for good luck?—Lance Ortega, Rocky Ford, Colo.

● I liked them. I felt good in them. It was as simple as that. Luck wasn't considered. You make your own luck on the football field.

FOR REP. BARBARA JORDAN (D-Texas)

Your clear diction and fine use of English are impressive. How did you train yourself so well?—Mrs. R. S. Luttrell, Whittier, Calif.

● I had no special training, but I did participate in oratorical contests in junior and senior high school and also during my undergrad years. I was a member of the debating teams at each level of schooling. That was it!

FOR JIMMY WALKER, "J.J." on TV's "Good Times"

It's morbid, but I'm always hearing reports of your "death." Why?—B. Walker, Altoona, Pa.

● I'm completely stumped as to how or why those rumors started. It's impossible that I could have taken an overdose because I don't drink, smoke or swallow anything. I don't play dangerous sports—except tennis. So I'm not likely to meet my Maker in any athletic pursuit either. I'm as curious as you are to know how this kind of story gets started.

FOR ANN-MARGRET, star of the movie "Tommy"

What do you like to wear most?—A.B., Santa Monica, Calif.

● Anything made out of cashmere. That's the only time I really enjoy shopping, because I'm a cashmere freak. Once when I was appearing in Las Vegas, I heard that a store in Los Angeles had received a new shipment of cashmere sweaters. I was frantic because I couldn't go. So I called a friend—in the middle of the night—and told her to go to the store first thing in the morning and get some for me.

FOR JEANE DIXON

Do you predict an early marriage for Jackie Onassis?—Mrs. Art Rohr, Devil's Lake, N.D.

● Although I do foresee another marriage for Mrs. Onassis, I do not predict an early wedding for her. If she takes time to think things through, to reorder her life now that she is moving on to another very vital segment of it, she will find romance and all other aspects of her life coming together to create the peace and permanence she has always sought. I wish her well.

FOR JACK LA LANNE

Is 38 too old for a man to develop his body?—R.W. Alexander, Gastonia, N.C.

● Age has nothing to do with it. I know of many men in their 40's who had outstanding success in exercise programs. One man even began at 55 and got fantastic results! Some of the biggest winners are men who join weight programs in their 40's. But they do have to stick to proper nutrition and systematic exercise!

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

Is Arlene DeMarco, the novelist, also the singer who was part of a children's act back in the '40's?—S.M., Troy, N.Y.

Arlene De Marco

● She sure is, and she doesn't exactly have fond memories of those days either, judging by what she replied when asked if her children should follow in her footsteps. "Over my dead body," said 36-year-old Arlene. "Parents who push kids into entertaining are nothing but greedy monsters after big bread." She's also the same Arlene DeMarco who once toured with the Harry James and Louis Prima bands, and she's the same one who was married to Keefe Brasselle. Her own childhood was practically nonexistent. She debuted on stage at five, and she and her four sisters soon were vaudeville veterans, appearing with vulgar comics, strippers and female impersonators. She's written two books (the new one is "Make-Believe Children") and her publisher thinks she's a budding Jackie Susann.

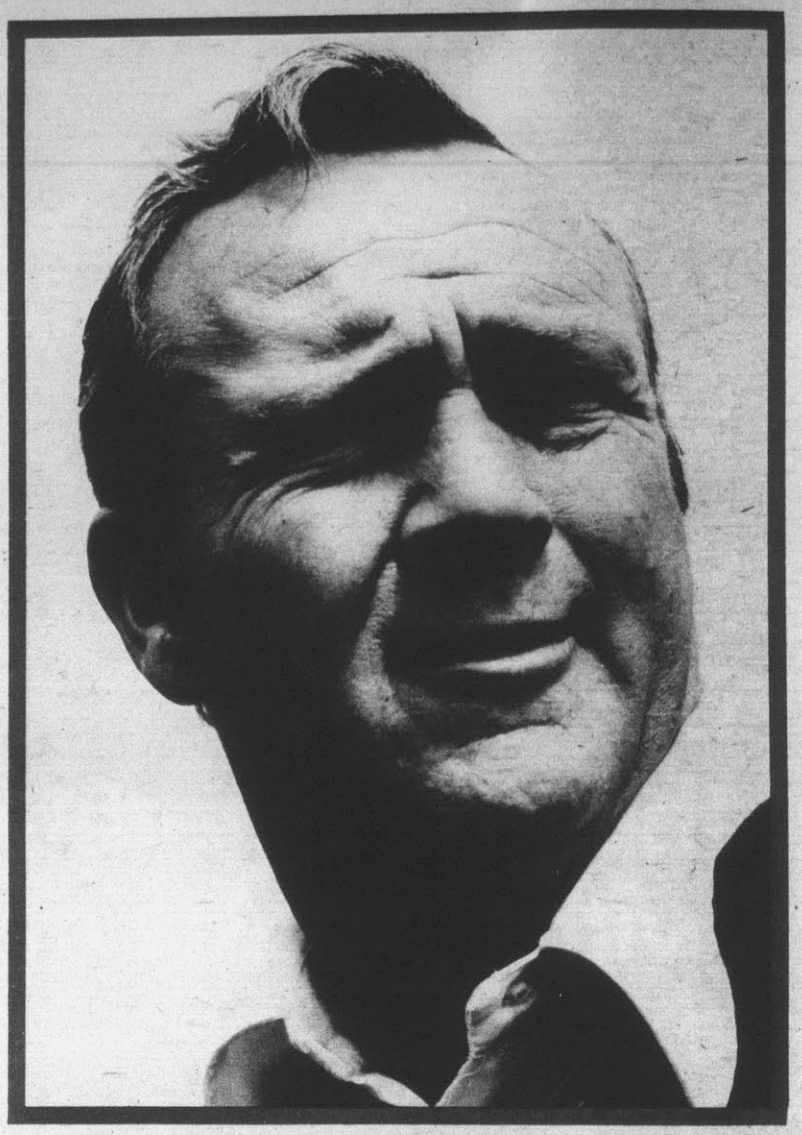
Arnold Palmer at 45:

What Keeps an Athlete Going After 40?



At this year's Spanish Open, trailing by a stroke on the last hole, a par 5, Palmer uncorked a perfect drive down the center of the fairway. His second shot, a four-iron, carried to within seven feet of the flag. He calmly putted the wet ball home. It was the first time in his career that Palmer had ever won a tournament with an eagle on the final hole.

By Larry Bortstein

From their separate studies of life cycles, three leading American scholars conclude that, after the age of 44, most males have settled down and no longer have the motivation to succeed that dominated their earlier years. The three scholars—psychiatrists Roger Gould of UCLA and George Vaillant of Harvard, and psychologist Daniel Levinson of Yale—obviously have never met Arnold Palmer.

Palmer will be 46 on September 10, yet in his 21st year of professional golf he shows no inclination to retire from competition. Quite the contrary. This past spring he ended a two-year winless drought by capturing the Spanish Open and the British PGA championships. The victories have been like an elixir for the Latrobe, Pa., native.

"Winning still means a lot to me," he says. "Probably more than ever, in fact. Everybody wonders how I still can maintain my interest in competing and my drive for winning. 'You've done everything,' they say. 'You've made all the money you can possibly make. Why don't you relax and just enjoy it?'

"People say, 'You've made all the money you can possibly make. Why don't you relax and just enjoy it?' That wouldn't be me."

"That wouldn't be me," Palmer says. "I still get the same kicks out of competing that I ever did. In fact, I'll end up playing more tournaments this year than I did last year. I don't expect to win that much, but I still get as mentally 'up' for the big tournaments as ever—the U.S. Open, the Masters, and so on. The only reason for me to stop playing would be if I weren't playing well at all—but that's not happening."

Palmer's success is gratifying to his legions of fans, on and off the world's courses. Arnold was the first golfing conglomerate, and his enormous successes of the late 1950's and early 1960's coincided with the emergence of tournament golf as a big-money, high-exposure international sport. No one is quite certain whether Palmer first made golf important or golf first made Palmer important, but the fact remains that in 1955, Arnold's first year on tour, the total prize money awarded to competitors in the 36 events on the circuit was $782,010. Last year, there were 57 tournaments and the touring pros played for prize money totaling more than $8 million.

"Arnie's Army," as the thousands of pursuing galleryites were dubbed, still cheer every move their hero makes, win or lose. "It gets a little embarrassing sometimes," he sighs. "I'll be way behind in a tournament on the last day and there'll be more people walking the course with me and my partner than with the people playing for the championship. It's tremendously gratifying for me to know there are still all those people out there pulling for me, and I try to give them my best efforts. One rule I always have stuck by has been never to withdraw from a tournament on my own, as a lot of players are guilty of doing when they see they're not going to finish among the leaders. It's one thing not to make the cut after the first 36 holes—the rules say you have to withdraw then. But to withdraw without playing out the 72 holes after you've made the cut—well, that just shouldn't be done. I think the players owe more than that to the fans."

Palmer is not only immensely popular with fans, both young and old, but is also tremendously well liked by fellow tour travelers. "We all want Arnold to do well," says Hubert Green, one of the young stars of the tour who won four events in 1974. "When he does well, it's one of the best things that can happen to the tour. He has done so much for all of us. What he has done for the game of golf has helped to put money in all our pockets and has made golf a really big-time sport."

Pancho Gonzales, who once dominated pro tennis, admits he's mellowed.

Willie Shoemaker wouldn't know what to do with himself if he stopped riding.

When he won $128,000 on tour in 1963, Palmer became the first golf pro to go over the $100,000 mark in a season, and he subsequently became golf's first million-dollar earner. Although his first prizes in this year's Spanish and British events aren't recorded with his prize moneys from the Professional Golfers Association of America tour, he surpassed several weeks ago the $36,293 he won in U.S. events in 1974. That figure ranked him 72nd among all U.S. tour competitors, the lowest ranking of his career. (He topped the money lists four times—in 1958, 1960, 1962 and 1963.)

"Even though last year was a bad one for me, I always felt I could keep playing well," Palmer points out. "I had a full checkup earlier this year and the doctors told me my muscle tone was great, and that I was in better shape than I had been for a while. It took me a long time—about four years—to completely get over the arthritic shoulder condition I first developed when I had to pull out of the 1966 PGA after the first round. I went on an exercise program that finally beat the condition in 1970."

Palmer carries a lean 183 pounds on his 5-10½ frame. "I've never been a fancy eater," he says. "A creamed-chicken sandwich on toast is my idea of a good lunch, and I'm a steak-and-potatoes man at dinner. I watch my weight because you do tend to weigh more as you get older, but it's never been a serious problem with me. The amount of golf I've played over the years has kept me in pretty good shape."

Arnold still seems to rise to challenges. His best showings last year were two fifth-place finishes—at the U.S. Open and at the Western Open. Interestingly enough, these two events pro-

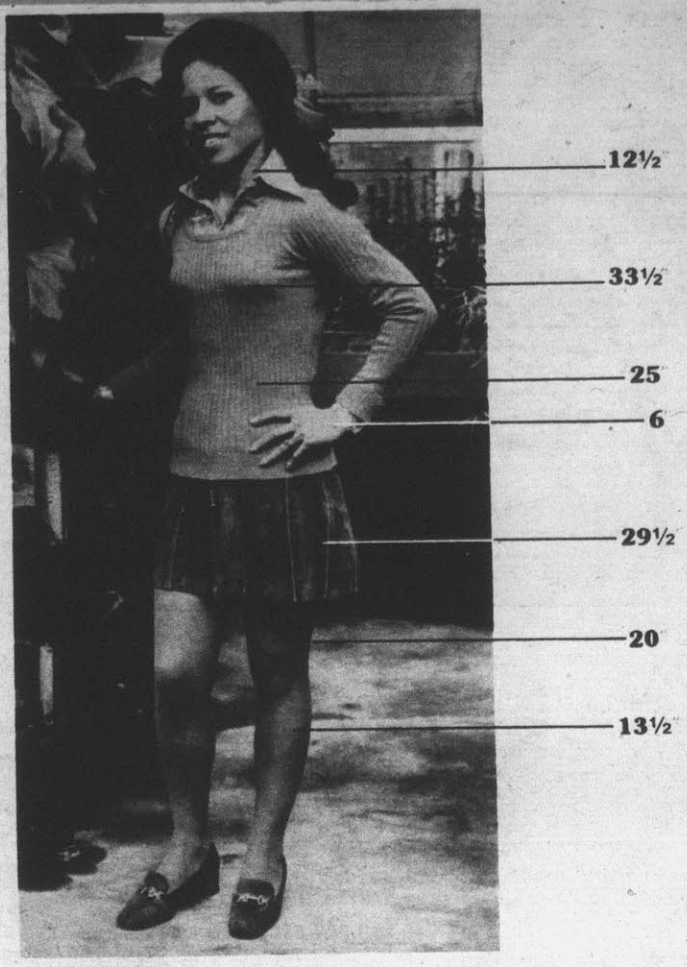
"When I stood up at 175 pounds, my fat was really hanging out, as you can see."



"When I got to 110 pounds, my measurements came down, too. And, is my husband proud!"

I left 65 pounds and 47 inches in Hawaii. See!

By Carrie Bilgera — as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

When I look back at pictures of me fat, I can say I sure resembled an Adobo chicken — a plump bird boiled first in water, soya, vinegar and garlic; then fried in fat. It's a favorite dish of my husband, José. Only thing is, it helped turn me into a 175 pound-five-feet-two bird who had to wear loose overblouses and huge Hawaiian Muu Muus.

Now, I was never what you'd call skinny, even when I was married at 17. But it wasn't until after my second child was born that my fat really began to bother José. He said: "If you'll lose weight by this time next year, I'll give you $500 for your anniversary." I guess he wanted me to look glamorous — especially since I was just past twenty. So I tried all sorts of diet pills, but in the end I gained even more.

We lived in Hawaii, then, where José was stationed at the Navy Base (Volcano National Park). We had a great crowd of friends and we all belonged to bowling teams. There were 84 of us in the league. We used to gather once a week at the Alley, more for the social life, I believe, than the sport. And since the manager was a close friend of José, he let the teams bring their own "Pot Luck" suppers. We'd get there about 7:00 p.m. and stay until midnight, stuffing ourselves all the time.

I used to wear an overblouse, hoping it would hide the bulges. But it didn't. It simply caused a lot of remarks. Like once, one of the men pinched me and said in front of everybody: "Your fat is really hanging out there, Carrie." That's when I decided I'd really better lose some weight.

Fortunately, while waiting for my son to have a haircut at the barber shop, I picked up a magazine and saw some pictures of a woman who'd slimmed down on the Ayds plan. I went straight to the drugstore for a box of Ayds® Reducing Plan Candy—the chocolate fudge kind. When I learned they contained vitamins and minerals, but no drugs, I started on the plan right away. I took one or two Ayds before each meal — with a cup of hot coffee — and they actually helped me satisfy my appetite.

One great thing about the Ayds plan. It didn't stop me from "party-ing." The first week I was on the plan, a group of us went to a discotheque to hear a well-known singer from Honolulu. One of the men at our table ordered a cola drink for me, but I quickly said: "No, thanks, I'm watching my weight. I'll just have coffee." Secretly I was going to have an Ayds, too, then dinner. But he just laughed and said: "Carrie, you're never going to lose."

When we got home that night, I told José: "This time I'm going to show those guys." And I did! Once a week I weighed myself at exactly the same time. Then I'd write my new weight on the chart that comes with the direction folder. No guessing for me this time. My record was going to be there in black and white.

At the end of the first month, I'd lost 20 pounds on the Ayds plan. The second month, I was down 10 more. And each month after that, I took off a little more, until I reached 110 pounds and had lost 47 inches.

José just couldn't get over it. He insisted on taking pictures of me in a bikini to send to my family. We wanted to prepare them for the new me, before we left Hawaii to visit them in Virginia. I had to laugh though when they wrote back: "You look like a kid again." Of course, I really don't. But I do know that I've made José the proudest man in the Navy.

His buddies even kidded him about being in love all over again — which we are. And now that we've settled at José's new base in Japan, I'm proud to say, thanks to the Ayds plan, my husband has a slim "bride" to show off.

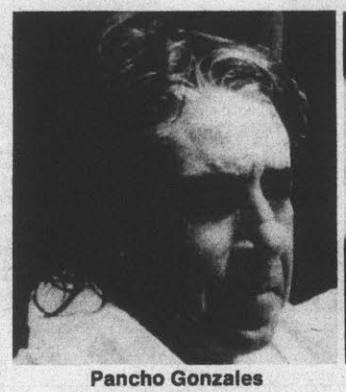
vided the two toughest tests on the 1974 tournament trail. A score of seven over par earned Hale Irwin the U.S. Open crown at Winged Foot in Mamaroneck, N.Y., and Tom Watson won the Western Open with a three-over-par score at Butler National in Oak Brook, Ill.

Consider, moreover, the manner in which Palmer won this year's Spanish Open. Since 1965, he has worn either eyeglasses or contact lenses when playing. "Without them, the ball blurs on me," he says. On the last day of the Spanish Open, a miserable driving rain forced Arnold to do without his glasses. "I would have spent all day trying to keep them dry," he recalls.

Despite this handicap, Arnold staged one of the greatest finishes of his career. Trailing by a stroke on the 72nd and last hole, a par 5, he uncorked a perfect drive down the center of the fairway. His second shot, a four-iron,



Pancho Gonzales

carried to within seven feet of the flag. From this point, he calmly putted the wet ball home for an eagle three and victory by a single stroke. It was the first time in his career that Palmer had ever won a tournament with an eagle on the final hole.

Sam Snead, whom Palmer calls "a physical marvel," still enters several PGA events a year, and is now 63 with no desire to retire. But only one regular touring pro has been on the circuit longer than Arnold—Gene Littler, who began in 1954, one year before Palmer. However, Littler, who turns 45 this month, is ten months younger.

Two other internationally renowned athletes of that period whose names still command respect and honor in their sports are Pancho Gonzales and Willie Shoemaker.

PANCHO GONZALES AT 47

Gonzales is perhaps the most famous tennis star America has produced, and the man who dominated professional tennis before the advent of open competition in 1968. Once the most feared competitor in his sport, Gonzales is now retired from competition and spends most of his time as director of tennis at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas. "I've put on 25 pounds in the past couple of years," Pancho says, "and I now weigh 210. People who used to hate me for the way I used to play and fight for everything on the court now tell me I've mellowed. I guess I have. You can't fight any more when you get to a certain age. Who has the energy?"

Gonzales won the U.S. singles championship in 1948 and 1949, and was the scourge of pro tennis during all of the 1950's and much of the 1960's. In 1969, when he was 41, he defeated 25-year-old Charlie Pasarell in the first round at Wimbledon in a five-set marathon that lasted 112 games and five hours, 12 minutes—the longest singles match ever played at the hallowed British tennis shrine.

WILLIE SHOEMAKER AT 43

Shoemaker, who turns 44 in August, is the winningest jockey in history. He has been riding thoroughbred horses professionally since 1949, and his career marks entering this season showed more than 6,000 victories, including more than 100 in stakes races of at least $100,000 in purses, and more than $20 million in winnings. Unlike Gonzales, he still competes regularly in his sport, even more so than Palmer.

"I don't ride as much as I used to," the Shoe says, "but I still ride as much as many guys because I wouldn't know what else to do with myself if I stopped. I had two big reasons to quit. In 1968 and 1969 I had serious injuries at the track. I broke my leg one year and my pelvis the other year, when a horse tried to climb the starting gate. I was laid up for four months, but physical therapy helped me get back in condition and I never thought about quitting again."

Here's an indication of how motivated this man is: After riding a losing race aboard Avatar in the Preakness Stakes at Pimlico in Baltimore on a Saturday afternoon in May, Shoemaker flew to New York and spent the night at a hotel. Early the next morning, he caught a flight back to his Los Angeles home. He arrived on the West Coast in time for the fourth race at Hollywood Park, where there is racing on Sunday. Instead of going home, he went to the track and promptly rode three winners in three races. [On June 7, Shoemaker won the prestigious Belmont Stakes aboard Avatar. For Shoemaker, it was his fifth win in the Belmont.]

One could point out that Shoemaker hasn't yet reached that critical age of 44, when, according to those highly regarded life-cycle studies, motivation supposedly ebbs. But when Bill marks his 44th birthday next month, it isn't likely that his drive to succeed will blow away along with the flames on his birthday candles. FW

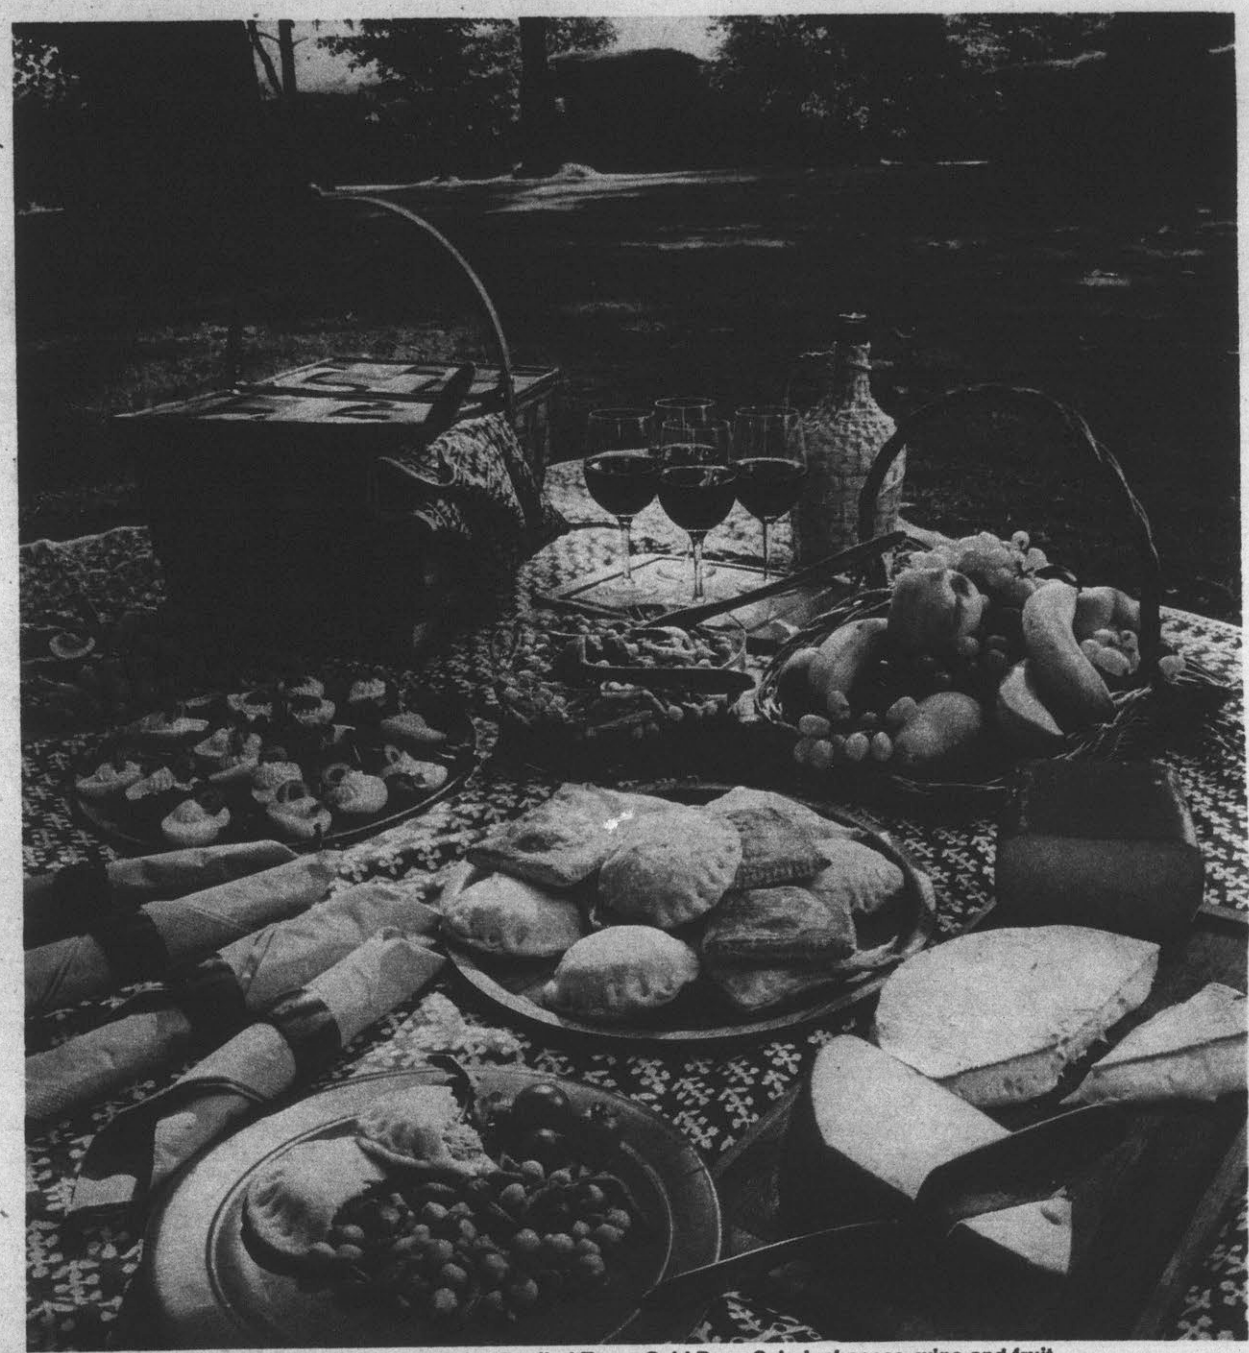
Great Picnics You Can Make In Half the Time

Remember the hearty, "enough-food-for-all" picnics we enjoyed as kids? Well, here are some picnic ideas that won't keep Mom in the kitchen for hours. In fact, most of them are easy enough for any family member to prepare!



Clint Clemens, Tanglewood, Mass.

A tempting feast of appetizing Beef Turnovers, Deviled Eggs, Cold Bean Salad, cheeses, wine and fruit.

Picnic Menu One

Easy Liverwurst Triangles*
Hearty Beef Turnovers*
Deviled Eggs* Cold Bean Salad
Dry Red Wine
Assorted Cheeses Basket of Fresh Fruit
Toasted Almond Brownies*

*Recipe given

EASY LIVERWURST TRIANGLES

1 pkg. (8 ozs.) refrigerated crescent rolls
1 can (4¾ ozs.) liverwurst spread
3 tablespoons chopped canned mushrooms, drained
1 tablespoon brandy
¼ teaspoon thyme leaves
1 egg, optional
1 tablespoon water, optional

1. Preheat oven to 375°F. Remove rolls from package and separate into 8 triangles. Pat triangles into ⅛-inch thickness.

2. In a small bowl, combine liverwurst, mushrooms, brandy and thyme leaves. Spread on 4 triangles to within ¼ inch of edge. Cover with remaining triangles, pinching edges to seal in filling.

3. For a shiny surface, beat egg with water and brush surface of triangles. Bake 10-13 minutes, or until golden. Makes 4 stuffed triangles

HEARTY BEEF TURNOVERS

1 pkg. (8 ozs.) refrigerated buttermilk flaky biscuits
1 can (4½ ozs.) corned beef spread
2 tablespoons well-drained sauerkraut
¼ cup diced Swiss cheese
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
15 slices dill pickles
1 egg, optional
1 tablespoon water, optional

1. Preheat oven to 375°F. Separate dough into 10 biscuits. On lightly floured board, flatten 5 biscuits to 4-inch rounds. Make other 5 biscuits slightly larger.

2. Combine corned beef spread, sauerkraut, Swiss cheese and pepper in small bowl.

3. Put heaping tablespoonful on top of 5 smaller biscuit rounds. Top each with 3 pickle slices. Cover with remaining biscuits, pressing edges together securely to seal in filling. For a shiny surface, beat egg with water and brush turnover tops. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and bake for 15 minutes. Makes 5 turnovers

DEVILED EGGS

6 hard-cooked eggs, shelled
¼ cup mayonnaise
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
½ teaspoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon minced onion
Stuffed green olives, sliced

1. Slice eggs in half lengthwise. Scoop yolks into a small bowl. Set whites aside.

2. Mash yolks and combine with remaining ingredients, except olive slices. Using a pastry tube with a No. 8 star tip, fill whites with yolk mixture. Garnish with olive slices. Refrigerate. Keep in well-chilled cooler on way to picnic. Makes 12 deviled eggs

COLD BEAN SALAD

1 can (1 lb.) whole green beans, drained
1 can (1 lb.) red kidney beans, drained
1 can (1 lb.) garbanzos or chick-peas, drained
½ cup chopped pimiento
½ cup chopped onion
1 red onion, sliced into rings

1 cup wine vinegar
½ cup salad oil
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon ground black pepper

1. In large bowl, combine green beans, kidney beans, garbanzos, pimiento and onions.
2. Combine remaining ingredients in small bowl. Stir well and pour over bean mixture, tossing gently. Cover; refrigerate to chill and blend flavors. Transfer to tightly covered container to take to picnic. Makes about 10 servings

TOASTED ALMOND BROWNIES

½ cup butter or margarine, softened
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon pure vanilla extract
2 eggs
2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
½ cup unsifted all-purpose flour
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 cup sliced unblanched toasted almonds

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Lightly grease an 8x8x2-inch pan.
2. In medium bowl, with electric mixer at medium speed, beat butter until creamy. Gradually add sugar, beating until well blended. Add vanilla.
3. Add eggs and beat until well combined. Blend in chocolate. At low speed, add flour and salt.
4. Stir in ½ cup almonds. Spoon into prepared pan, spreading evenly. Sprinkle remaining almonds on top. Bake about 30 minutes, or until a cake tester poked in center comes out clean. Cool. Cut into squares when cool. Makes 16

*Recipe given

SALMON-STUFFED CELERY

1 stalk (bunch) celery, chilled
1 can (7¾ ozs.) salmon, drained and flaked
¼ cup minced scallions
½ cup sour cream
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ - ½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground white pepper
Paprika

1. Trim stem end of celery; cut off leaf portion (save for soups, stews, etc.).
2. Separate celery into ribs. Rinse in cold water and dry; set aside.
3. In a medium bowl combine salmon, scallions, sour cream, lemon juice, salt to taste and pepper.
4. Use about 3-4 tablespoons salmon mixture to fill each rib. Cut in half or leave whole. Sprinkle lightly with paprika. Serve immediately, or refrigerate, covered, until serving time.*
Makes 1½ cups filling

*Salmon mixture may also be used as a dip, arranging celery ribs in an attractive container.

⅛ teaspoon seasoned pepper
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 can (8 ozs.) green peas, drained
1 can or jar (4 ozs.) pimiento, diced
1 can (12 ozs.) luncheon meat, cut in strips

1. Add salt to rapidly boiling water. Add macaroni gradually so water continues to boil. Boil uncovered about 12 minutes, until tender, stirring occasionally. Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water, drain again.
2. Pour Italian dressing over asparagus; chill.
3. Blend mayonnaise, remaining seasonings and vinegar. Add macaroni, peas and pimiento; toss and chill.
4. Spoon macaroni salad on serving plate; alternate asparagus and luncheon meat in rows on top. Makes 4 servings

CARMALLOW WALNUT FUDGE

1 pkg. (14.3 ozs.) caramel-frosting mix
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
1 cup miniature marshmallows

1. Lightly oil or grease a 9x5x3-inch pan. Combine frosting mix, butter, orange juice and rind in saucepan. Stir over low heat 1 to 2 minutes, until smooth and glossy.
2. Remove from heat, then fold in walnuts and marshmallows. Turn out into prepared pan and let stand until set. Cut into 1x1½-inch pieces.
Makes 30 (1x1½-inch) pieces

CHERRY-ORANGE PICNIC PUNCH

1 can (46 ozs.) cherry royal Hawaiian punch, chilled
1 can (18 ozs.) unsweetened orange-grapefruit juice, chilled
Ice cubes

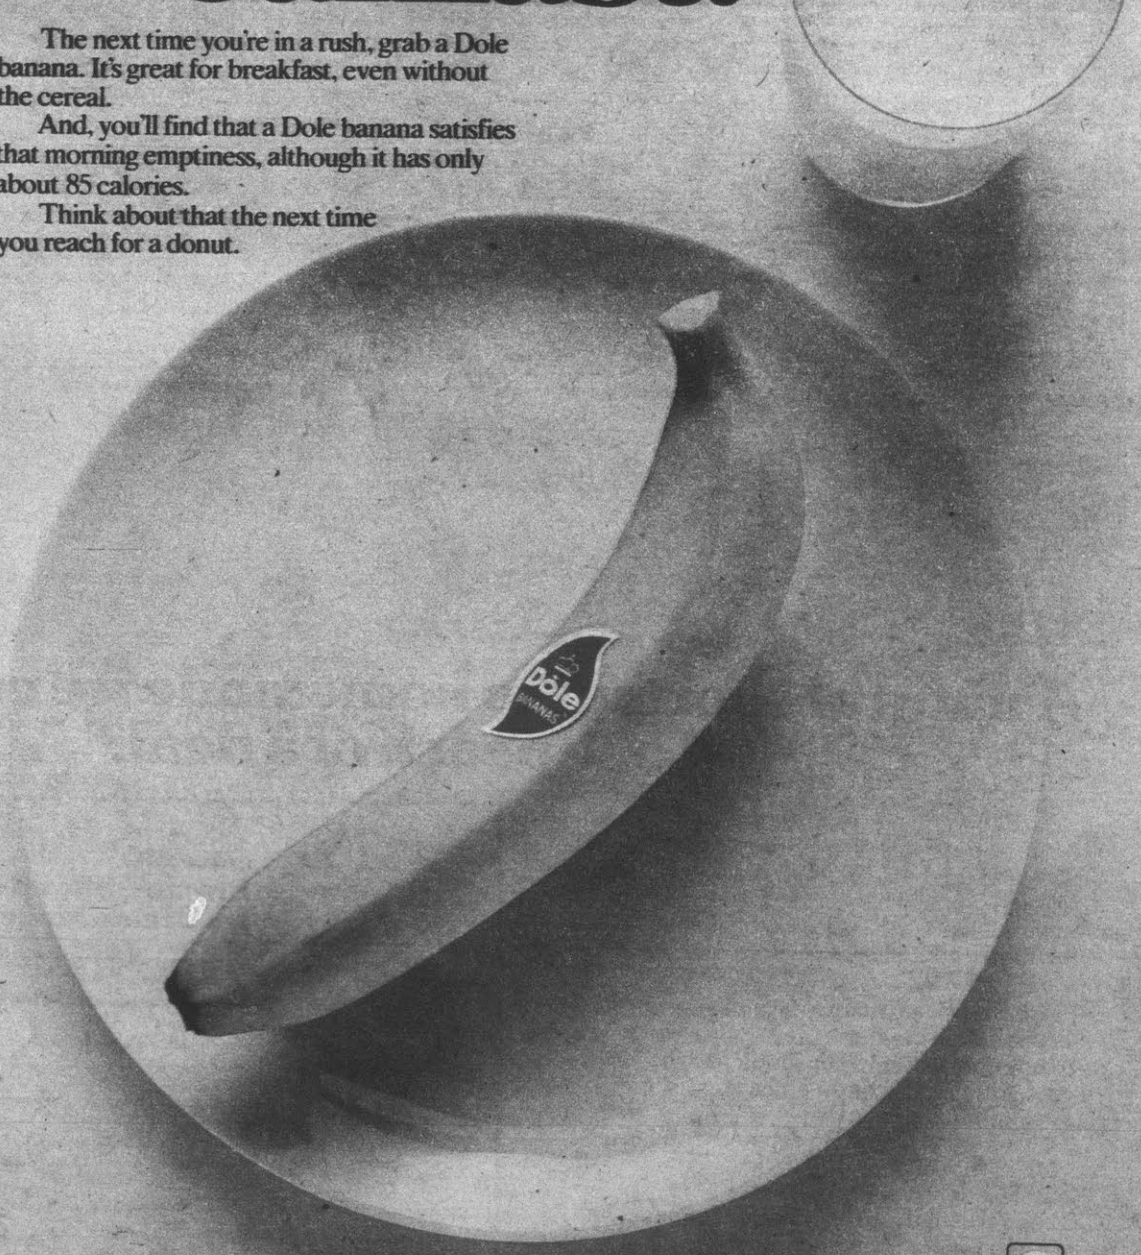
1. Combine punch and orange-grapefruit juice in large pitcher or picnic jug; stir well. Add ice cubes. Pour into cups or glasses.
Makes about 2 qts. or 8 (8 ozs.) servings

The 60 Second Breakfast.

The next time you're in a rush, grab a Dole banana. It's great for breakfast, even without the cereal.

And, you'll find that a Dole banana satisfies that morning emptiness, although it has only about 85 calories.

Think about that the next time you reach for a donut.



The Dole. Banana. As a snack, it's a natural.

BEEFY CHEESE BALLS

3 jars (4-oz. size) dried beef
3 pkgs. (8-oz. size) cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons Accent
Few drops Tabasco

1. Shred beef in blender. Save ½ cup shredded beef.
2. With a large spoon blend cream cheese, onion, remaining shredded beef, Worcestershire, Accent and Tabasco.
3. Shape into 2 large or 4 small balls. Roll in reserved shredded beef. Serve at room temperature with crackers. Freezes well.
Makes 2 large cheese balls or 4 small ones

Recipe suggested by Mrs. Jane G. Mattison, Stonewall, Miss.

PICNIC PICKLE BEEF ROLL

1 flank steak, about 2½ lbs.
Mustard
Seasoned salt
Seasoned pepper
6-8 dill pickles, quartered lengthwise
4-5 carrots, quartered lengthwise
6-8 scallions
¼ cup vegetable shortening
2 cups water
1 beef bouillon cube
¼ cup vinegar
1 cup dry red wine
1 teaspoon whole black peppercorns
2 bay leaves
4 sprigs parsley
2 stalks celery, cut in 2-inch pieces
8-10 seeded rolls, split
Butter or margarine, softened

1. Spread steak liberally with mustard and sprinkle with seasoned salt and pepper. Starting at narrow side, alternate rows of pickles, carrots and scallions on top of steak. Roll up in jelly-roll fashion and tie securely with string at 1-inch intervals.

2. Heat shortening in Dutch oven. Brown steak on all sides; pour off drippings.

3. Add water, bouillon cube, vinegar, wine, peppercorns, bay leaves, parsley and celery. Cover; bring to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer 2½-3 hours, or until meat is tender. Chill in liquid in covered bowl.

4. To serve, take meat from liquid and remove strings. Place on serving platter and cut diagonally into slices about ½ inch thick. Spread rolls with butter and mustard, fill with meat slices to make sandwiches.

Makes about 8-10 sandwiches

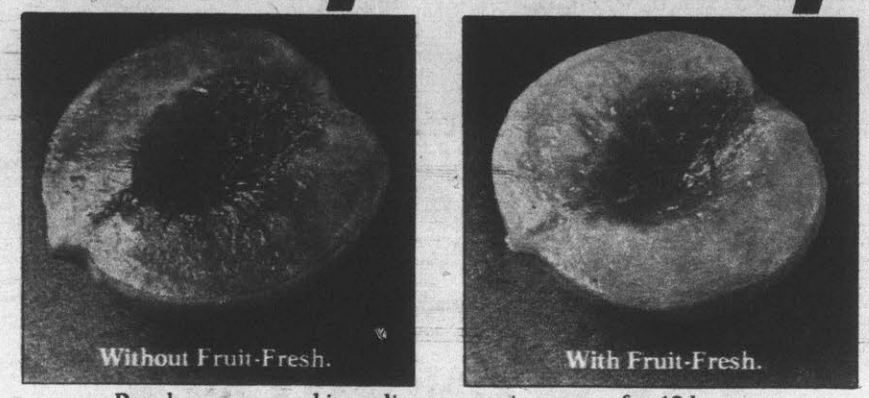
Yukky. Yummy.



Peaches preserved in ordinary canning syrup for 12 hours.

Fruit-Fresh. You need it for canning, freezing, and fresh fruit.

If you want all the fruit you serve to look and taste its freshest, what you really need is Fruit-Fresh. Because Fruit-Fresh contains a special ingredient that locks in the natural, "just-picked" color and flavor. Which means no more brown, mushy-looking peaches.

Fruit-Fresh is economical, too. A 5-oz. can will preserve up to 75 lbs. of peaches. Here's how: For Canning: simply add Fruit-Fresh to the regular syrup. For Freezing: add Fruit-Fresh to the syrup or dry sugar. For Fresh Fruit: sprinkle Fruit-Fresh on your just-sliced fruit before refrigerating. Sound good? It tastes delicious.

Keeps fruit looking and tasting fresher.

Collectors' Classic

Old-Fashioned Brandied Peaches

This month we capture the lush ripeness of fresh peaches, sweetened with a spicy syrup, then topped off with brandy and some orange slices for a subtle citrus flavor.

Moss Photography

BRANDIED PEACHES

- 4½-5 lbs. freestone peaches, small to medium in size
- 2½ qts. water
- 3½ tablespoons ascorbic acid powder
- 1½ cups sugar
- 4 sticks cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon whole cloves
- 2 small oranges, sliced (optional)
- 1½ cups California brandy

1. Peel peaches, leave whole. Place in large bowl containing 2 qts. water and 3 tablespoons ascorbic acid powder.

2. Combine remaining 2 cups water, ½ tablespoon ascorbic acid powder, sugar, cinnamon and cloves in large saucepan. Heat to boiling, stirring until sugar dissolves.

3. Add peaches, and orange slices if desired, and simmer 5 minutes. Pour ¼ cup syrup into each hot, sterilized pint jar (use ½ cup for a quart jar). Fill with peaches and orange slices.

4. Add ¼ cup brandy for each pint of fruit, then add enough syrup to fill jars to ½ inch from top. Seal jars.

5. When jars are filled, set on rack in deep kettle with boiling water halfway up jars.

6. Add more boiling water to cover jars. Reheat to boiling; process 20 minutes after boiling resumes.

7. Remove jars from water bath at once and let stand until cold before storing in cool, dark place. Makes 6 pints or 3 quarts

Harry Belafonte:
The Sign in My Kitchen Reads, "Mad Scientist at Work"!

"I grew up in the tradition of good food. My mother was a domestic worker and my father was a cook. Being a Depression baby, living and growing up in Harlem during the forties, I really learned how to cook."

By Harry Belafonte
In conversation with Helen Dorsey

When it comes to food, Americans are the most chauvinistic people I know. When they travel to a new country, they can get a darn good meat, but often they don't like it unless it's prepared in the American style. On the other hand, Americans are probably the best-fed people in the world, with perhaps the greatest approach to dietary needs. Certainly, Americans are very diet-conscious.

I grew up in the tradition of good food. My mother was a domestic worker and my father was a cook. Being a Depression baby, living and growing up in Harlem during the forties, I really learned how to cook.

We eat very simply at our house. We have a cook who does most of the cooking, but I can turn out a good roast and nice vegetables. I get my chance in the kitchen when we stay at our farm up in the country. I must admit I'm a bit of a ham in the kitchen—I even put on a chef's hat. We have a sign that says, "Mad scientist at work. Do not invade the laboratory."

I'm happiest when both my wife and I take to the kitchen. She's taught me how to make delicious lamb kidneys, English style. And we both like to cook up huge pots of soup. She makes wonderful homemade soup. My contribution is split pea soup. Most of all, I love to be able to see what I eat. That's why I leave green beans whole in chowder or stews. When vegetables are all chopped up, you just don't feel like you've eaten them at all!

COUNTRY SOUP CHEZ BELAFONTE

- 1 large soupbone, cracked
- 2 lbs. lean boneless soup meat
- 2 lbs. chicken parts
- 2-3 qts. water
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 3 yellow onions, peeled and chopped
- 2 bay leaves
- 8-10 bruised peppercorns
- 5-6 ripe tomatoes, peeled and quartered
- 1 green pepper, chopped
- 1 cup carrots, diced
- 2-3 potatoes, peeled and cut in pieces
- 1½ cups fresh or frozen lima beans or strings beans
- 1½ cups fresh, frozen or canned corn
- Seasoned salt to taste
- Pepper to taste

1. Put soupbone, soup meat, chicken and enough water to cover in large stockpot. Bring to low simmer.

2. Add salt, celery, onions, bay leaves and peppercorns. Simmer 2-3 hours slowly, skimming off foam that forms on top. Add more liquid as needed.

3. Cool to room temperature. Cover; refrigerate. Remove congealed fat layer that forms on top; discard. Reheat soup.

4. Add tomatoes, green pepper, carrots and potatoes. Cook about 45 minutes.

5. Add lima beans and corn. Cook until all vegetables are tender, about 30 minutes longer. Taste to correct seasonings, adding seasoned salt and pepper.

6. To serve: Spoon liquid into soup bowls. Carve and divide meat among bowls. Soup improves when reheated the next day. Makes 12 servings

RICE FOR ROAST

- 1 cup chopped green onions with tops
- ½ cup chopped green pepper
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3 cups hot rice, cooked in beef broth
- Salt to taste
- Pepper to taste

1. Sauté onions and green pepper in butter until tender. Add rice and seasonings to taste. Toss lightly and serve with roast beef. Makes 6 servings

PAN-FRIED KIDNEYS

- 6 lamb kidneys, trimmed of excess fat
- 1 scant tablespoon butter or margarine
- ½ teaspoon seasoned salt
- Freshly ground black pepper to taste
- Lemon wedges, for garnish

1. Wash kidneys; pat dry with paper towels. Slice, but not too thin.

2. Brown meat on both sides in butter until it begins to turn white.

3. Season well with seasoned salt and pepper. Garnish with lemon wedges. Serve at once with scrambled eggs and split, toasted English muffins.

Makes 4 servings

INTRODUCING-
SUPER-HYPNOTISM!

A new way of combining instant self-hypnotism—with the power to hypnotize any other person you choose, even without their knowing it!

Time To Learn—As Little As 30 Minutes!
Immediate Benefits—ALL THE FOLLOWING:

• The ability to break bad habits—such as smoking, drinking, stuttering, over-eating, etc.—so that it is literally "impossible" for you to go on performing them!

• Explosive self-confidence! So you have the drive, the energy, the get-started and stick-to-it power that gets you the things you set out to get, far faster and easier than you have ever dreamed before!

• Automatic mobilization of inner healing powers! So that the agonizing pain of arthritis, neuritis, common headaches, even childbirth and serious illness suddenly seem to be "blocked off" from reaching your brain! So much so that your doctor may actually decide to stop giving you drugs! Or, if you go on taking them, they may suddenly begin to work twice as fast, and twice as strong!

• Super-performance in sports! So much so that medical doctors have published incredible new records, under this kind of hypnosis, that have astonished their colleagues!

• Plus the ability to turn memory on or off, like a faucet! Develop "steel-trap concentration," that laughs at interruptions! Condense weeks of learning time into a few short hours, so you amaze your friends with your skyrocketing knowledge! Tap hidden creative powers, so new ideas seem to "jump" into your mind from nowhere!

Plus Perhaps The Most Astonishing Powers Of All—The Ability To Perform Instant And Undetectable Hypnotism On Others, PRACTICALLY FROM THE VERY MOMENT YOU ESTABLISH EYE CONTACT!

Including:

• How to determine the type of hypnotism the other person will give way to, simply by the appearance of his face!

• How to turn "problem subjects" into easy subjects, by a simple little twist of technique!

• How to gain complete access to the mind of the subject, including the unconscious mind which ordinarily would be entirely hidden from your view!

• How to impart to the other person (or to yourself) the "conditioned ability" to banish insomnia, at will!

• How to "wash away" unconscious blocks and frustrations that are entrenched deeply in that other person's mind, and replace them with vibrant feelings of courage, self-confidence, and self-mastery!

• How to give that other person (or yourself) one of the most priceless gifts of all—the ability to solve problems while you sleep!

• How professional hypnotists accomplish "instant hypnosis," in less time than it takes to state a single command!

• Secrets of "Waking Hypnosis"! Of "Post-Hypnotic Suggestion," that takes charge hours or even days after you have left the subject!

• How this "Super-Deep Hypnotism" can help in cases of asthma, migraine, ulcers, high blood pressure, skin diseases, allergies—and even with neuroses, depression and delusions!

But We Must Make One Warning: This "Super-Hypnotism" Is So Easy To Learn, And You Are So Wide Awake When You Practice It On Yourself Or Others—THAT YOU SIMPLY MAY NOT BELIEVE ITS STARTLING RESULTS AT FIRST!

For Super-Hypnotism was invented . . . perfected . . . and taught now to you by the same exact man who has taught it to doctors, psychiatrists, university professors, and stage hypnotists! It is actually "streamlined hypnotism"! Shortcut hypnotism! And—most important of all—Fail-Safe Hypnotism!

For Super-Hypnotism is based on a single, fundamental, vital idea—that the most powerful form of self-hypnotism is one in which you do NOT sink into a coma! In which you do NOT "go to sleep" or lose track of your surroundings in any way! In which YOU DO NOT LOSE CONTROL for a single second!

This is Wide-Awake Self-Hypnotism! All that happens to you really—this way—is that you learn an ingenious, incredibly-powerful way to established contact with YOUR FULL MIND . . . instead of merely the top 10% of that mind that you are using today!

In other words, this way, you first open the door to the massive power of your unconscious . . . and then you consciously seize control of that power!

It is like being able, at last, to put your hands on the steering wheel of your great unconscious mind! And therefore, from that moment on, direct that mind anywhere you wish!

So Powerful That It Has Worked, In Case After Case, Where Professional Hypnotists Have Completely Failed!

Once again, in brief summary, the goal of this Super-Hypnosis is quite simple: it is COMPLETE SELF-MASTERY! It is a way to gain that self-mastery, without risk and without struggle, simply as a result of using at last natural laws which have been built into the human mind since man first elevated himself above the animals surrounding him!

Super-Hypnosis, at last, liberates both of these titanic built-in powers—Hypnotic Mastery over the Self . . . and Hypnotic Mastery over Others!

It takes as little as thirty minutes to learn! The self-hypnotism . . . only a matter of days to learn hypnotic mastery of others! There is no loss of control, no feelings of strangeness—only dazzling new strength and awareness!

There is no "quicksand trance" to wake up from! No danger at all!

The powers released are enormous! They include new freedom from pain (so great that some women using these techniques in childbirth, actually had their babies painlessly)! Freedom from previously-unbreakable habits (so strong that when men and women learned these techniques to stop smoking, they found their hands effortlessly and automatically "putting out the cigarettes" less than five seconds after they had just lit them)!

But Even Such Thrilling New Freedom Is Only The First Step To The Real Goal Of Super-Hypnotism!

And that is New Mastery—new mastery of yourself, and new mastery of the world around you! This includes:

The ability to control feelings and moods! To switch yourself over, at command, from the feeling of being "foredoomed to failure" to being "predestined to success"!

The ability to sketch out exactly the ideal personality you wish to own! And then make your mind give it to you—trait by trait . . . confidence by confidence . . . triumph by triumph!

The ability to select just that part of your environment that will propel you towards physical and economic success! Called by those who do not understand "intuition" or "luck," it is actually a way to make your subconscious super-awarenesses work for you, instead of against you, as they do today!

The ability to plant "Accomplishment-Motors" in your subconscious mind! That go underground there, like seeds! And that bloom, day after day, week after week, in seemingly "spontaneous" ideas . . . statements . . . solutions . . . personal magnetism that may soon transform your very life!

And Much, Much More Than We Can Ever Describe Here! All Yours In This "Encyclopedia Of Super-Hypnotism," For You To Read From Cover To Cover! Without Risking A Penny!

Yes, even if you are skeptical right now, ask yourself one question: What if it works?

What if it really is as good as all the physicians, psychiatrists, professors and other professional men claim it is? What if it CAN transform your life?

If so, wouldn't it be a tragedy if you did NOT try it—when such a trial would not even cost you a single cent!

You have nothing to lose! A whole new life to gain! Why not send in the No-Risk Coupon—today!

Eddy Arnold: My Ten Favorite Records

Eddy Arnold has been making records—and breaking them—for more than 25 years. In 1970, RCA Records honored Eddy for selling over 60 million records. It's now over 70 million, and Eddy is listed among the top four recording artists of all time. Born in Henderson, Tenn., the son of a sharecropper, Eddy was raised listening to the blues and mountain music of the area. His mother taught him to play the guitar. When he wasn't working the farm, he practiced the guitar and harmonica and listened to records. His success with various touring shows led to an RCA contract in 1944. Eddy calls himself "a Heinz 57 singer—I sing many different kinds of songs, which mean something different to many different kinds of people."

INTRODUCING-
SUPER-HYPNOTISM!

A new way of combining instant self-hypnotism—with the power to hypnotize any other person you choose, even without their knowing it!

Time To Learn—As Little As 30 Minutes!
Immediate Benefits—ALL THE FOLLOWING:

• The ability to break bad habits—such as smoking, drinking, stuttering, over-eating, etc.—so that it is literally "impossible" for you to go on performing them!

• Explosive self-confidence! So you have the drive, the energy, the get-started and stick-to-it power that gets you the things you set out to get, far faster and easier than you have ever dreamed before!

• Automatic mobilization of inner healing powers! So that the agonizing pain of arthritis, neuritis, common headaches, even childbirth and serious illness suddenly seem to be "blocked off" from reaching your brain! So much so that your doctor may actually decide to stop giving you drugs! Or, if you go on taking them, they may suddenly begin to work twice as fast, and twice as strong!

• Super-performance in sports! So much so that medical doctors have published incredible new records, under this kind of hypnosis, that have astonished their colleagues!

• Plus the ability to turn memory on or off, like a faucet! Develop "steel-trap concentration," that laughs at interruptions! Condense weeks of learning time into a few short hours, so you amaze your friends with your skyrocketing knowledge! Tap hidden creative powers, so new ideas seem to "jump" into your mind from nowhere!

Plus Perhaps The Most Astonishing Powers Of All—The Ability To Perform Instant And Undetectable Hypnotism On Others, PRACTICALLY FROM THE VERY MOMENT YOU ESTABLISH EYE CONTACT!

Including:

• How to determine the type of hypnotism the other person will give way to, simply by the appearance of his face!

• How to turn "problem subjects" into easy subjects, by a simple little twist of technique!

• How to gain complete access to the mind of the subject, including the unconscious mind which ordinarily would be entirely hidden from your view!

• How to impart to the other person (or to yourself) the "conditioned ability" to banish insomnia, at will!

• How to "wash away" unconscious blocks and frustrations that are entrenched deeply in that other person's mind, and replace them with vibrant feelings of courage, self-confidence, and self-mastery!

• How to give that other person (or yourself) one of the most priceless gifts of all—the ability to solve problems while you sleep!

• How professional hypnotists accomplish "instant hypnosis," in less time than it takes to state a single command!

• Secrets of "Waking Hypnosis"! Of "Post-Hypnotic Suggestion," that takes charge hours or even days after you have left the subject!

• How this "Super-Deep Hypnotism" can help in cases of asthma, migraine, ulcers, high blood pressure, skin diseases, allergies—and even with neuroses, depression and delusions!

But We Must Make One Warning:
This "Super-Hypnotism" Is So Easy To Learn, And You Are So Wide Awake When You Practice It On Yourself Or Others—THAT YOU SIMPLY MAY NOT BELIEVE ITS STARTLING RESULTS AT FIRST!

For Super-Hypnotism was invented . . . perfected . . . and taught now to you by the same exact man who has taught it to doctors, psychiatrists, university professors, and stage hypnotists! It is actually "streamlined hypnotism"! Shortcut hypnotism! And—most important of all—Fail-Safe Hypnotism!

For Super-Hypnotism is based on a single, fundamental, vital idea—that the most powerful form of self-hypnotism is one in which you do NOT sink into a coma! In which you do NOT "go to sleep" or lose track of your surroundings in any way! In which YOU DO NOT LOSE CONTROL for a single second!

This is Wide-Awake Self-Hypnotism! All that happens to you really—this way—is that you learn an ingenious, incredibly-powerful way to established contact with YOUR FULL MIND . . . instead of merely the top 10% of that mind that you are using today!

In other words, this way, you first open the door to the massive power of your unconscious . . . and then you consciously seize control of that power!

It is like being able, at last, to put your hands on the steering wheel of your great unconscious mind! And therefore, from that moment on, direct that mind anywhere you wish!

So Powerful That It Has Worked, In Case After Case, Where Professional Hypnotists Have Completely Failed!

Once again, in brief summary, the goal of this Super-Hypnosis is quite simple: it is COMPLETE SELF-MASTERY! It is a way to gain that self-mastery, without risk and without struggle, simply as a result of using at last natural laws which have been built into the human mind since man first elevated himself above the animals surrounding him!

Super-Hypnosis, at last, liberates both of these titanic built-in powers—Hypnotic Mastery over the Self . . . and Hypnotic Mastery over Others!

It takes as little as thirty minutes to learn! The self-hypnotism . . . only a matter of days to learn hypnotic mastery of others! There is no loss of control, no feelings of strangeness—only dazzling new strength and awareness!

There is no "quicksand trance" to wake up from! No danger at all!

The powers released are enormous! They include new freedom from pain (so great that some women, using these techniques in childbirth, actually had their babies painlessly)! Freedom from previously-unbreakable habits (so strong that when men and women learned these techniques to stop smoking, they found their hands effortlessly and automatically "putting out the cigarettes" less than five seconds after they had just lit them)!

But Even Such Thrilling New Freedom Is Only The First Step To The Real Goal Of Super-Hypnotism!

And that is New Mastery—new mastery of yourself, and new mastery of the world around you! This includes:

The ability to control feelings and moods! To switch yourself over, at command, from the feeling of being "foredoomed to failure" to being "predestined to success"!

The ability to sketch out exactly the ideal personality you wish to own! And then make your mind give it to you—trait by trait . . . confidence by confidence . . . triumph by triumph!

The ability to select just that part of your environment that will propel you towards physical and economic success! Called by those who do not understand "intuition" or "luck," it is actually a way to make your subconscious super-awarenesses work for you, instead of against you, as they do today!

The ability to plant "Accomplishment-Motors" in your subconscious mind! That go underground there, like seeds! And that bloom, day after day, week after week, in seemingly "spontaneous" ideas . . . statements . . . solutions . . . personal magnetism that may soon transform your very life!

And Much, Much More Than We Can Ever Describe Here! All Yours In This "Encyclopedia Of Super-Hypnotism," For You To Read From Cover To Cover! Without Risking A Penny!

Yes, even if you are skeptical right now, ask yourself one question: What if it works?

What if it really is as good as all the physicians, psychiatrists, professors and other professional men claim it is? What if it CAN transform your life?

If so, wouldn't it be a tragedy if you did NOT try it—when such a trial would not even cost you a single cent!

You have nothing to lose! A whole new life to gain! Why not send in the No-Risk Coupon—today!

Eddy Arnold: My Ten Favorite Records

Eddy Arnold has been making records—and breaking them—for more than 25 years. In 1970, RCA Records honored Eddy for selling over 60 million records. It's now over 70 million, and Eddy is listed among the top four recording artists of all time. Born in Henderson, Tenn., the son of a sharecropper, Eddy was raised listening to the blues and mountain music of the area. His mother taught him to play the guitar. When he wasn't working the farm, he practiced the guitar and harmonica and listened to records. His success with various touring shows led to an RCA contract in 1944. Eddy calls himself "a Heinz 57 singer—I sing many different kinds of songs, which mean something different to many different kinds of people."

1. Behind Closed Doors, by Charley Rich (Epic)
2. Let Me Be There, by Olivia Newton John (MCA)
3. Stop and Smell the Roses, by Mac Davis (Columbia)
4. Love Song, by Anne Murray (Capitol)
5. If We Make It Through December, by Merle Haggard (Capitol)
6. Mantovani Magic, by Mantovani (London)
7. The Pops Goes Country, with Chet Atkins and Arthur Fiedler (RCA-Victor)
8. The Best of Mancini, by Henry Mancini (RCA)
9. Strangers in the Night, by Bert Kaempfert (MCA)
10. Movin' On, by Danny Davis (RCA-Victor)

†Available on records and cartridges only

Yes, it's true!—if you join now, you may have any 11 of these records or tapes for only $1.86. And just look at the wide range of recorded entertainment you have to choose from—not only the best and latest from the huge Columbia catalog...but also new releases and old favorites from A&M, ABC/Dunhill, Bell, Epic, MCA, Motown, MGM, Capitol, United Artists, and many, many other labels!

To order your 11 records or tapes just mail the application, together with your check or money order for $1.86 as payment. That's all you pay for your first 11 selections—there are no additional membership dues or fees for joining. In exchange...

You agree to buy 9 more selections (at regular Club prices) in the coming three years. That's right—you'll have three full years in which to buy just nine selections...that's only three a year...so you are not obligated to buy a record or tape every month, or even every other month! And you may cancel your membership at any time after you've purchased your nine selections.

Your own charge account will be opened upon enrollment. Selections you order as a member will be mailed and billed at regular Club prices, which currently are: cartridges and cassettes, $6.98 or $7.98; reel tapes, $7.98; records, $5.98 or $6.98—plus shipping and handling. (Multiple unit sets and Double Selections may be somewhat higher.)

You may accept or reject selections as follows: every four weeks (13 times a year) you will receive a new copy of the Club's music magazine, which describes the Selection of the Month for each musical interest...plus hundreds of alternate selections from every field of music. In addition, up to six times a year you may receive offers of Special Selections, usually at a discount off regular prices. A response card will always be enclosed with each magazine.

...if you do not want any selection offered, just mail the response card provided by the date specified

...if you want only the Selection of the Month for your musical interest, you need do nothing—it will be shipped automatically

...if you want any of the other selections offered, just order them on the response card and mail it by the date specified.

You will always have at least 10 days in which to make your decision. If you ever receive any Selection without having had at least 10 days in which to decide, you may return it at our expense, for full credit.

You'll be eligible for our bonus plan upon completing your enrollment agreement—a plan which enables you to save at least 33% on all your future purchases.

What in the World!

Shirley Boone and her husband Pat. As a child, she found it "tough being named after Shirley Temple."

QUOTE: "If you don't like to tap dance in public, it's tough being named after Shirley Temple. But that's where I got my name—from adorable, dimpled Shirley, who could sing and dance and act and who had nice, bouncy, sausage-shaped curls. I came from a talented show-business family, but whether I had talent or not was a mystery I worked hard to preserve. Mom and Daddy tried to teach me 'cute' songs, and I learned a few; but I remained a normal, gangly kid whose insecurities deepened every time I compared myself to America's favorite moppet. . . . Mama dressed me like a doll and carefully coiled my reluctant hair into numerous sausage-shaped ringlets. However, I offset the effect by being a tomboy." From "One Woman's Liberation," by Shirley Boone (Bantam, $1.50). UNQUOTE.

PASTOR ON NEW TURF
Religion—and horses

Women are breaking into areas traditionally regarded as the strict preserves of manhood, but 34-year-old Christina Odenberg of Sweden has gone one step farther. She has built her career around two disparate occupations—preaching and horse racing. Her success as a country pastor is equaled by her feats as a jockey—this year her winnings at the track total more than $2,000. Christina's life, however, is devoted to the church. Despite her love of animals, and riding in particular, she says her human flock comes first. But how many men or women can say that they save souls and ride winners all in the same day?

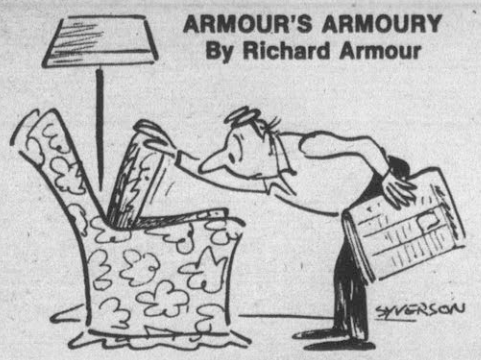
ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour



AT A LOSS

I ask my wife searching questions,
Our life is one constant quiz.
You can tell from my voice and expression
How worried this husband is.

Such searching questions I ask her,
While looking all over the place,
As "Where in the world are my glasses?"
Or "Where is my glasses case?"

Or maybe it's "Where is my toothbrush?"
Or "Where are my keys? I'm bereft them."
And my wife always has an answer
That's helpful: "Wherever you left them."

My nephew Mark came running into the house. Frightened, he told his mother that there was a spider outside. His mother anxiously asked, "What kind of a spider is it?" Mark replied, "I don't know its name, but I think it's one of those that her husband died."

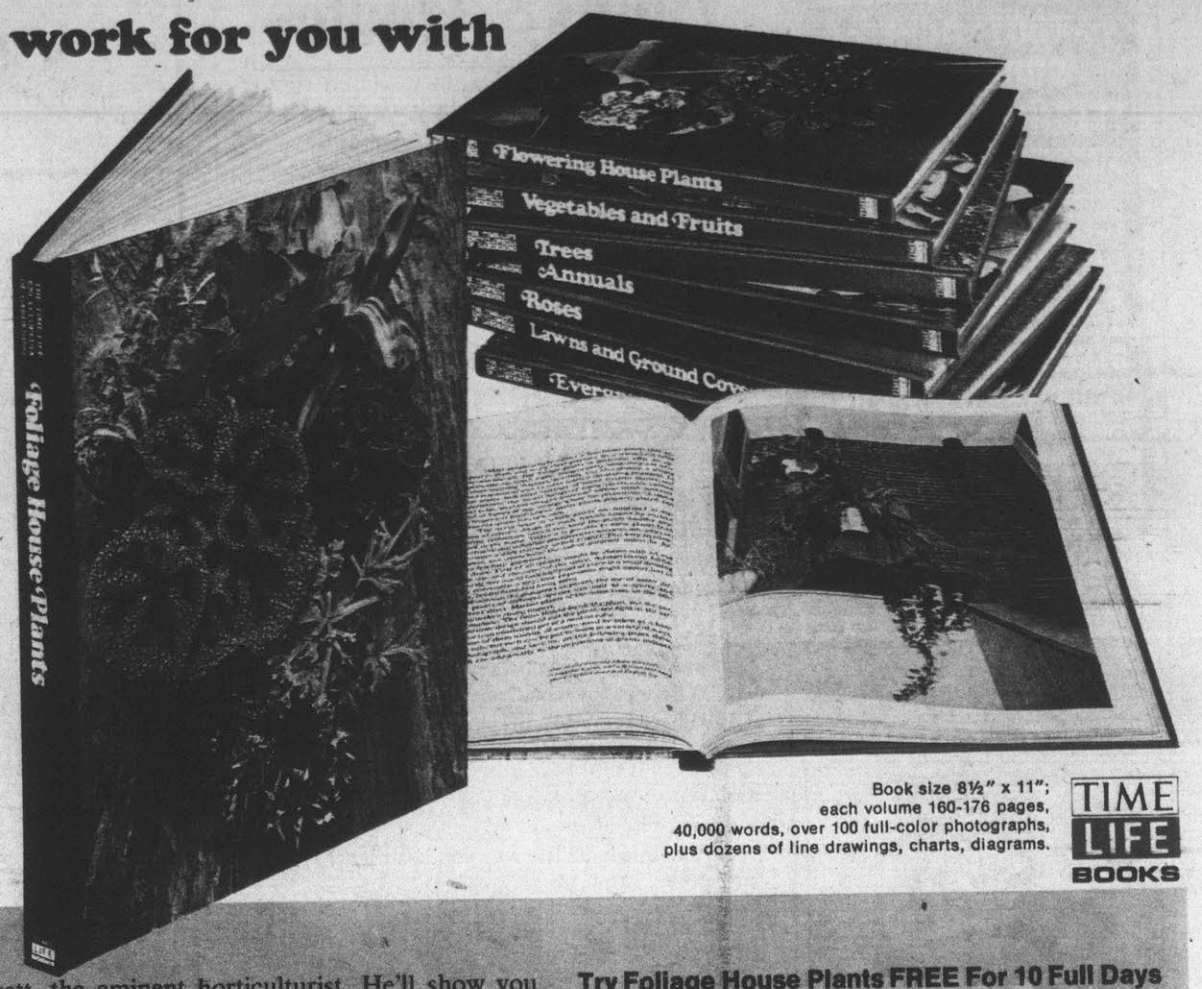
Put your plants to work for you with

Foliage House Plants

your introduction to THE TIME-LIFE ENCYCLOPEDIA OF GARDENING



Book size 8½" x 11";
each volume 160-176 pages,
40,000 words, over 100 full-color photographs,
plus dozens of line drawings, charts, diagrams.

TIME LIFE BOOKS

The plant boom is on

All across the country—in suburban split-levels and big-city apartments—people are discovering the challenge, the pleasure, the satisfaction of doing something new and exciting with plants. In Foliage House Plants, your introductory volume to THE TIME-LIFE ENCYCLOPEDIA OF GARDENING, you'll discover hundreds of ingenious ways to work with plants. Special illustrations show you how to make a bottle terrarium, a window greenhouse. And you'll find solid, no-nonsense advice on how to keep your plants healthy and happy. Here are some of the exciting things you'll discover in Foliage House Plants.

Hang It, Trail It, Train It, Bottle It . . .

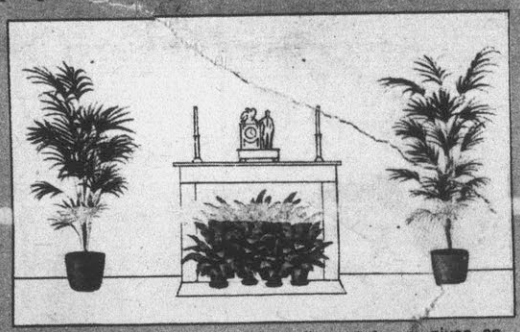
Foliage House Plants will show you how to use scale, emphasis and repetition to solve key decorating problems. You'll learn how to divide a large room into intimate areas with plants; how to shorten a long, narrow room with plants; how to round out troublesome corners with plants. We've included full-color photographs and how-to drawings to show you exactly what we're talking about.

One Man's Cactus Is Another Man's Schefflera

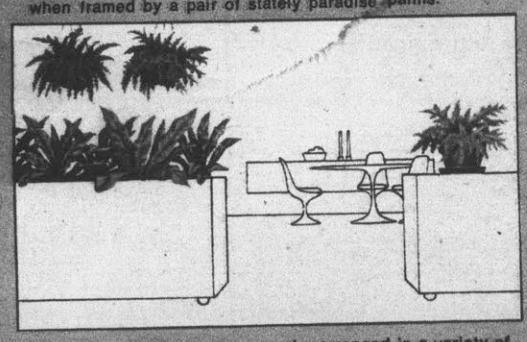
The tremendous variety of house plants available today allows you to create the exact decorating effect you want. There are foliage house plants to suit every taste, every budget. But how can you tell what they look like from a lot of Latin names? That's why Foliage House Plants includes full-color paintings of 103 genera house plants. You'll also find a six-page chart listing the characteristics and special uses of 239 varieties of house plants.

Getting The Most Out Of Your Green Thumb

Unlike flowering plants, whose blooms last only a week or two, foliage house plants provide pleasure and beauty year round, year after year. Provided they receive the proper attention. Foliage House Plants offers you advice from an expert—James Underwood Crockett, the eminent horticulturist. He'll show you how to start plants from stem cuttings, how to provide the proper light, how to use fertilizer properly.



Massed foliage, like that of bird's-nest ferns, gives an empty fireplace an elegant look in summer, especially when framed by a pair of stately paradise palms.



Plant boxes set on casters can be arranged in a variety of ways to divide a long room or create an entrance hall where none exists.

Try Foliage House Plants FREE For 10 Full Days

Enjoy Foliage House Plants for 10 days as the guest of TIME-LIFE BOOKS. Try some of the decorating ideas. Look over the spectacular illustrations. If you decide to keep it, you pay just $6.95 plus shipping and handling. We'll then enter your subscription to THE TIME-LIFE ENCYCLOPEDIA OF GARDENING, and other volumes will be shipped to you one volume at a time, approximately every other month. If you wish to return any volume, you may do so within 10 days without any obligation whatsoever.

Each volume in THE TIME-LIFE ENCYCLOPEDIA OF GARDENING offers the same unique qualities as Foliage House Plants. Solid information. How-to illustrations. Easy-to-follow directions. In Vegetables and Fruits, for example, you'll learn how to get maximum use out of a small vegetable garden. In Annuals we'll help you to plan a garden that will bloom from early spring up to the first frost.

Why not begin your horticultural adventure today with Foliage House Plants? Use the coupon below or write to TIME-LIFE BOOKS, Time-Life Building, Illinois 60611.

Prince Valiant

by Hal Foster

Our Story: PRINCE VALIANT COMES DRIPPING FROM HIS BATH TO FIND OOM FOOYAT BEING MENACED BY SEVERAL RUFFIANS. OOM IS ALL SMILES: "WE ARE SAVED BY THESE GENTLEMEN," HE ANNOUNCES. "THEY WILL TAKE OUR DRAGON AWAY."

"WHAT DRAGON? THERE ARE NO DRAGONS HEREABOUTS," DECLARES ONE RASCAL.
"NOT SO," ANSWERS OOM, "FOR, SEVERAL DAYS AGO, WE MET THE AFFECTIONATE DRAGON AND HAVE NOT EATEN SINCE.

"BUT LET ME TELL YOU THE STORY: ONE DAY I WAS DINING WHEN SOMETHING STUCK ITS NOSE INTO MY PLATE. I SLAPPED IT AWAY. I HEARD A SOBBING AND SNIFFLING. I LOOKED UP AND THERE WAS THE DRAGON.

"TEARS WERE RUNNING DOWN ITS CHEEKS, SO I SOOTHED HER AND GAVE HER MY DINNER. SHE HAS COME TO DINNER EVER SINCE. ONCE WE TRIED NOT TO FEED HER AND SHE ATE OUR HORSES, AS YOU CAN SEE!

"WE ARE STARVING, FOR SHE GAMBOLS THROUGH THE VILLAGE STREETS EATING A DOG OR TWO AND MAYBE A COW, AND THE FRIGHTENED SERFS LOCK THEIR DOORS AND WILL NOT OPEN THEM TO GIVE US FOOD.

"SO WE STARVE, AND THIS VENISON YOU SEE COOKING IS NOT ENOUGH TO SATISFY HER HUNGER. WHEN WE ARE GONE SHE WILL FOLLOW YOU GENTLEMEN."

"DO YOU BELIEVE THAT DRAGON STORY?" PANTS ONE RUFFIAN. "NO," GASPS THE OTHER, "THERE ARE NO DRAGONS HEREABOUTS."

I FIGGER IT'S TH' LADYLIKE THING TO DO
RICE

Hi and Lois

by Mort Walker and Dik Browne

I CAN'T GO TO THE DANCE SATURDAY — MY SUIT IS ALL WRINKLED.
THAT'S OK. I'LL PRESS IT.
DON'T WORRY... YOU'RE GOING TO HAVE A GOOD TIME.
I DOUBT IT.
I WONDER WHAT GIRL IS GOING TO ASK ME TO THE TURNABOUT DANCE ON SATURDAY?
IT BETTER NOT BE LULU ANN MERKLE! UGH!
WHAT IF IT'S SOMEONE I DON'T EVEN KNOW? WHAT WOULD I SAY? ARE YOU PRETTY? CAN YOU DANCE?
IF IT'S ANYONE TALLER THAN ME, FORGET IT!
OR ANYONE'S LITTLE SISTER!
BUT WHAT IF NO ONE CALLS?!
RING
I'LL BE GLAD WHEN SATURDAY'S PAST!

THAT'S THE WAY TO RIDE A HORSE, POKEY
BETTER GIVE LOCO A LITTLE REST NOW
YOU'RE GETTING PRETTY GOOD AT RIDING, POKEY...
...BUT THERE ARE OTHER USES FOR A HORSE THAN JUST RIDING HIM THAT YOU SHOULD LEARN
NOW, LET'S SUPPOSE YOU'RE IN BATTLE FOR AN EXAMPLE...
IF YOU EVER GET CAUGHT OUT IN THE OPEN...YOU MAKE YOUR HORSE LAY DOWN
7-13
...THAT WAY HIS BODY ACTS AS A SHIELD AGAINST THE ENEMY BULLETS!
