

Ford Challenging Congress On Oil Price Decontrol

IRISH CONNECTION?—English scholar Timothy Severin, 34, and his wife, Dorothy, look over a scale model of an open boat made of leather smeared with butter he plans to use to prove that Irish monks could have discovered America 900 years before Columbus. Severin and a four-man crew will embark on the 4,000-mile voyage next May. The banana-shaped vessel is 36 feet long, eight feet in beam and made from 25 ox-hides, oak-bark tanned, stretched over Irish oak ribs and an Irish ash frame, with no nails in it. The ship is held together by 1,000 leather thongs. (AP Wirephoto)

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford announced today a move to gradually lift price ceilings on domestic oil but minutes later decided to delay formally presenting it to Congress to allow time for "discussion and public dialogue."

In retracting a statement that Ford's blueprint for administrative action would go to Congress today, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford's decision to wait until later in the week grew out of an early morning meeting with Democratic and Republican congressional leaders.

However, Nessen said Ford has no plane to alter the key elements of his planned administrative action.

The presidential blueprint would lift present oil price ceilings over a two-and-one-half year period and fix an eventual ceiling of about $13.50 a barrel for all domestically-produced oil.

Ford estimated the decontrol price hike would result in a saving of 300,000 barrels of oil a day and, combined with his other programs, would help save up to 900,000 barrels a day.

Nessen said the delay in formal submission of the plan to Congress was to allow further discussion of a complex matter inasmuch as, once it is submitted, either house would have five days in which to block Ford's move if it was deemed unsatisfactory. The press secretary said by waiting, members of Congress will have more time in which to make up their minds.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., responded quickly to Ford's plan. Jackson, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for president, said he will seek Senate approval of a resolution to disapprove Ford's action.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said after the breakfast meeting with Ford he recognized that the United States is facing increasing imports and declining domestic resources. He said the President's decontrol plan will up domestic supply somewhat, but will increase the cost of gasoline.

"I am concerned about the effect on inflation," Mansfield said. "It is now about 9.5 per cent, and may return to double digit inflation with an increase in the cost of gasoline."

Until Sunday, Jackson said in a statement, President Ford "was advocating instant oil inflation by taking the price lid off on Aug. 31. Now he has backed off but is trying to slip it through on the installment plan."

The Ford program he said "means windfall profits for the oil companies, reduced purchasing power for the consumer, increased inflation for the economy and abdication of domestic price controls to the OPEC cartel."

In a statement issued in Ford's name, the President said that if Congress blocked his decontrol move, he would veto any legislation to extend the present oil price control law that expires next month. If such a veto were upheld, the result would be removal of all oil price controls as soon as the present law dies.

Ford labeled his own intended administrative action a "compromise oil decontrol plan."

Ford estimated his blueprint, if accepted by Congress, would add seven cents to the price of a gallon of gasoline by 1977 and reduce demand for imported oil by 300,000 barrels a day in the same period.

In a statement, Ford said, "There is no cost-free way to reduce our dependence on increasingly expensive foreign oil." He said the price boost entailed in his plan would represent "a small price to pay for our independence from the costly whims of foreign suppliers."

The oil that would be decontrolled under the President's proposal would be that coming from domestic wells that went into production before mid-1972. Under present regulations, such oil is subject to a ceiling price of about $5.25 a barrel. By contrast, domestic oil coming from more recent wells is uncontrolled and sells for about $13.

Under the Ford plan, the present controls on so-called old oil would be gradually removed over a 30-month period starting August 1 and ending in January 1978.

By 1978, the price would be increased, by White House reckoning to about $13.50 a barrel, including a per-barrel charge of $2 to equal current special fee imposed on imported oil.

The President said the combination of the $2 import fee and his phased decontrol plan would result in daily import savings of 900,000 barrels.

Before making his plan public Ford held a breakfast meeting with congressional leaders of both parties.

"If the Congress acts on this compromise, on my other proposed energy taxes including the tax on excessive profits of oil companies and on the energy tax rebates for the American consumer, then the burden of decontrol will be shared fairly. Our period of economic recovery will continue. We will be able to protect American jobs."

The President noted that 60 per cent of all domestically-produced oil is subject to the $5.25 per barrel ceiling. He said:

"This price discourages the use of new and more expensive production techniques. It encourages wasteful use of this limited and domestic resource."

Under current law, either house of Congress can block Ford's decontrol proposal. But the President has a counter club of his own as he emphasized in his statement:

"I urge the Congress to accept this reasonable compromise. If it does not, my only alternative to insure continued progress toward energy independence, will be to veto an extension of the oil price control law, which will expire in August."

If such a veto were upheld, there would be an immediate limiting of all price controls on domestic oil which presumably would jump immediately to $13 a barrel.

"I think they are. I think they're wiser than the Congress."

Under a law due to expire at the end of next month, the price of "old oil" — produced from wells that began operating before mid-1972 — is set at $5.25 a barrel compared to the world market price of almost $13.

Ford has been arguing since January that American oil producers must have a greater price incentive to find domestic oil and that higher prices will make it easier to develop alternative energy sources.

Meanwhile, the Senate and House are working this week on various energy proposals being pushed by Democrats.

The Senate begins three weeks on energy and will consider legislation extending through Dec. 31 the law that controls the price of "old oil." This oil accounts for about two-thirds of U.S. production.

The House takes up a bill that would force down the price of "new oil" from its present level to around $7.50 while allowing "old oil" to increase gradually until both prices merge in the early 1980s.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader said Sunday the end of oil price controls would cost the average family an additional $900 a year. "Coal will go up, interstate natural gas will go up and the ripple effect in food prices, transportation prices, and all the other prices that rely on energy, will also go up," Nader said.

John Swearingen, chairman of Standard Oil of Indiana, who appeared on ABC's "Issues and Answers" with Nader, disagreed. Swearingen said federal officials estimate the consumer costs would rise by only $121.

Kissinger Begins Own Campaign-Style Swing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Home from meetings with Soviet, Israeli and French leaders, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is leaving again, this time for the Middle West to tell Americans they should have confidence in his foreign policy.

After meetings last week in Paris, Geneva and Bonn, Kissinger reported Sunday night to President Ford about progress toward arms limitation and a Sinai settlement.

He departs today on a campaign-style swing through Milwaukee, Wis., where a summer fest much like the one Kissinger helped celebrate in Bonn wound up Sunday. The secretary then goes to Minneapolis, Minn., for two speeches and two news conferences.

The trip is one of a half dozen he has made this year within the United States. Kissinger has said the purpose "is to give the people... a sense that the government has a foreign policy and that they should have confidence in it."

At each stop on his European trip, which ended Saturday, Kissinger reported progress:

"Very good progress" in a meeting with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing in Paris on resuming dialogue between oil producing and oil consuming nations.

"Progress" in more than seven hours of talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in Geneva on a new treaty limiting nuclear offensive weapons.

"Progress" during a session with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin in Bonn on "achieving an understanding of the elements that are needed" in a Sinai settlement between Israel and Egypt.

However, at a stopover in London on his way home, Kissinger said "we will have to wait and see" about the Sinai. "Significant differences still remain, and we will know in the course of the next few weeks whether they can be bridged."

Israel has resisted Egypt's demand for return of the strategic Gidi and Mitla mountain passes on the Sinai Peninsula, gateways for a tank invasion into the eastern Sinai.

The passes are now manned by a thin Israeli force.

Aboard Kissinger's jet on his way home Saturday night, a senior U.S. official said the United States would help set up an electronic warning system in the desert to insure Israel against any surprise Egyptian attack.

In return, the U.S. official indicated, Kissinger had persuaded Rabin to draw a new line of withdrawal. If authorized by the Israeli cabinet, Ambassador Simcha Dinitz will carry the proposed withdrawal to Washington when Kissinger returns from Milwaukee.

Kissinger meets with about 60 state and community leaders this afternoon at a Milwaukee hotel and addresses a dinner tonight.

On Tuesday, he meets with more state and community leaders in Minneapolis, addresses a lunch and holds a news conference before returning to Milwaukee to throw out the first baseball at the major league All-Star Game.

Check-Up For Freed Colonel

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) — The U.S. Army flew Col. Ernest R. Morgan to Munich today for a medical check-up and questioning about his two weeks as the captive of Arab guerrillas in Lebanon, the U.S. military reported.

Morgan, 43, of Petersburg, Va., was accompanied by his wife and son, with whom he was reunited Sunday in Turkey.

An Army spokesman said Morgan was sent to West Germany for questioning about his ordeal "because it was considered more appropriate away from his assignment in Ankara. He's been subjected to a lot of stress."

The spokesman added that U.S. medical facilities "are somewhat more complete" in West Germany.

"We don't know yet what Col. Morgan's ultimate assignment will be or whether he will be returning to Ankara," the spokesman said.

"Col. Morgan will also be given the opportunity to meet with the press after his debriefing," the spokesman added.

Morgan, a member of the U.S. military aid mission in Turkey, was kidnapped on June 29 when he stopped for the night in Beirut on his way back from a meeting in Pakistan. He was taken from a taxicab when he went to the airport to buy some magazines at the height of street fighting between leftist Moslems and rightist Christians.

The colonel's captors identified themselves as the Revolutionary Socialist Action Group, a previously unknown organization, but the Palestine Liberation Organization charged that he was taken prisoner by the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine-General Command, a more radical group than the PLO.

Morgan was released Saturday after the Lebanese government complied with the kidnapers' demand for the distribution of food, clothing and building materials to a Moslem slum district that was badly damaged during the street fighting.

The colonel was given a checkup at the American University hospital in Beirut, talked with Lebanese security officials and U.S. Ambassador McMurtrie Godley and spent the night at the hospital.

Appearing before newsmen Sunday before leaving the Lebanese capital, he read a statement, appeared in good condition and refused to answer any questions.

"I think you all know that my mother and others in the United States offered prayers for my safe return," he said. "There were many groups who made personal appeals, and I may add these had a profound effect on the people who were controlling me."

Morgan, who is black, was referring to appeals from black American organizations.

Internal Problems Are Before House, Senate

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sticky internal problems in both the House and Senate remain to be solved as Congress resumes work after a weekend break.

In the House, the fate of the Select Intelligence Committee is set to be decided this week with members able to choose between a resolution that would abolish the panel outright and one to expand it by three members.

The Senate meanwhile has scheduled its first vote on an issue in the New Hampshire senatorial seat that has been disputed since the November election.

The House Intelligence Committee has been deadlocked in a dispute between its chairman, Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., and other Democrats over whether Nedzi can lead an aggressive inquiry into the activities of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Earlier, the House refused to accept Nedzi's resignation of the chairmanship.

The Senate has set Tuesday for a vote on the first of 35 issues that have stalemated its Rules Committee in the contest between Democrat John A. Durkin and Republican Louis C. Wyman.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said in a weekend interview with reporters that the Senate cannot avoid its constitutional responsibilities by turning the contested election back to the voters.

"We (Democrats) are being accused of politicking and partisanship, but I don't see what else we can do," he said.

"We're going to stay with it. The Constitution makes us," Mansfield said he has had no indications that Republican leaders are ready to drop their demands that the seat be declared vacant and a new election be held.

Asked if it is possible that the dispute would last all year,

'Demonstrate' For Own Park

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Blacks who want a park in their own neighborhood in Charlotte have adopted a good-natured twist of the old civil rights tactic of sit-ins.

Each Sunday they will take busloads and carloads of their supporters to a different park in a predominantly white neighborhood of the city.

The tactic started Sunday. Blacks took over a park in an affluent white neighborhood. Children romped on the merry-go-round, teen-agers played on the tennis courts, and adults picnicked in the shade.

The only clue that a demonstrating was occurring in Edgemoor Park was a sign saying, "The People's Park Today."

Police Nab A Witness

RALEIGH (AP)—The state's key witness in the shoplifting conspiracy trial of Marguerite Lightner, wife of Raleigh's mayor, was arrested Sunday on charges of shoplifting and possession of heroin.

Linda Shaw Jones, 27, and two other persons were arrested on heroin charges. Miss Jones was additionally charged with two counts of concealing merchandise in grocery stores and a count of failing to appear in court June 4 on a charge of driving without an operator's license, police said.

William Allen Hester, 27, and Alonnie Bernice Hedgepath, 21, both of Raleigh were arrested with Miss Jones on the heroin possession charges.

Mrs. Lightner was acquitted by a jury in January after a week-long trial in which the state tried to prove that the mayor's wife conspired with Miss Jones in a shoplifting operation. The state tried to convict Mrs. Lightner of agreeing to buy merchandise which Miss Jones would then steal.

During the trial, Miss Jones admitted being a heroin addict and police officers testified that she was the best shoplifter in the area. Several shoplifting charges against Miss Jones were dropped in return for her testimony against Mrs. Lightner.

Yacht And Pot Seized

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP)—Federal and state law enforcement officers today seized a 42-foot yacht loaded with 8,000 pounds of marijuana and arrested four men.

Harold Stein, head of the United States Customs office in nearby Charleston, said it was the largest seizure of marijuana on record in South Carolina.

Arrested were Paul Witwi, 33, of Hinton, W. Va., David L. Wells, 38, of Long Beach, Calif., Keith W. House, 42, of Willington, Calif., and Bayard Stockton, 63, of Stuart, Fla.

They were charged with possession of marijuana with intent to distribute. Officers said other charges may be filed later.

Stein said the origin of the marijuana was Colombia, South America.

He estimated its street value at $2.4 million.

The boat was seized around 2:30 a.m. at Bram's Point, a residential area on this resort island.

Customs agents, along with officers from the State Law Enforcement Division and Beaufort County sheriff's deputies, had staked out the area after a tip from an informant.

The four men were to receive a preliminary hearing before a U.S. magistrate in Charleston later today.

Man Tells His Side Of Divorce

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Married for nearly 20 years. Four children. A large, comfortable suburban house. Why did his wife want out?

It has been three years since Albert Martin's wife told him she wanted a divorce "to find herself" and he hasn't yet been able to understand or accept it.

"There are an awful lot of mysteries associated with what she did," he said in an interview, still trying to answer the question, "Why did she leave?"

"In physical circumstances her situation was not in any way unattractive. In psychological terms something was obviously lacking. But at what price do you buy self-fulfillment?"

Martin pondered this question a couple of years ago in an article for the New York Times Op-Ed page — "It was a scream I had to get out of my system and I thought too she might read it and stay."

The response, pro and con, from all over the country, led him to write a book based on a journal he kept during the family upheaval, "One Man, Hurt."

"It's a very intimate book and I think using my real name would be quite an intrusion on the privacy of the family," he explains of his use of the pseudonym Albert Martin. "It's not who we are, but what happened to us that's important."

Martin, 46, with graying hair and bewildered eyes behind black-rimmed glasses, insists he couldn't believe Jean, also 46, wouldn't change her mind, "it seemed so unthinkable."

"I fought the divorce desperately. I didn't believe in it," he says. "I went for counseling to save the marriage but she went not to save the marriage but to clarify why she wanted the divorce, so we were working at different purposes. I think the counseling didn't work because it was directed at saving the individual, identifying individual needs, fulfilling the individual."

Though the counseling didn't save the marriage Martin feels it helped them to know more about themselves, "how to listen properly, how to communicate, how to pay attention to feelings. But it didn't tell us how to put that all together to fulfill the primary commitment of our lives."

"If I were the one who was unhappy I honestly feel I could not do what she did. It's not my value system and it originally wasn't hers either. Then something happened that's happening in marriages all over the country. What do we do? She supplies one answer: get out of it. That's not the answer. Six lives were involved and she satisfied one — her own. That doesn't make good mathematical sense to me nor does it make good human sense."

Martin claims the soaring divorce rate correlates with the new counseling and psychological approach which says "do your own thing." He admits it is no more commendable for men than women to leave their commitments and responsibilities, but says that most men have left for more conventional reasons.

"There are whole new ground rules for terminating a relationship, psychological reasons: I need to get out of an inhibiting relationship, need to know myself. There's no reason you can't accomplish that within a marriage."

"I don't think life is all about self-fulfillment," he goes on. "I recognize now you can't force someone to be married, to carry out a relationship. But we owe it to ourselves, our children and our society to do better in family relationships."

While he doesn't put the entire blame on the women's liberation movement, Martin thinks it has contributed to "the climate that makes it more acceptable for the mother of four sons after nearly two decades of marriage to set off alone. We are creating a whole future generation who view commitment, responsibility, marriage and family as kind of an optional thing."

A major concern, he says, was the effect of the divorce on the four boys, now ranging in age from 18 to 9, and adds that if the child psychologist he consulted had thought it best for them all to stay with their mother he would have agreed, "though it would have killed me."

As things turned out the two older boys elected to stay with him and the third, who also wanted to stay with his father, was allowed to do so by a court ruling. The youngest is with his mother, who works in an office, but he spends weekends with his father and brothers.

"The boys and I do everything. I do the cooking, sometimes around midnight," says Martin, a New York writer and public relations executive. "But there's no way I can fill the vacuum of the mother who isn't there."

Martin recently started to date and does not rule out the possibility of marriage, which he sees as "two adult human beings standing on their own feet taking care of themselves but committed to each other."

CINNAMON COFFEECAKE—It's made with sour cream and streusel and tastes good with tall iced drinks.

Coffeecake Adds To Cool Refreshment

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

A big coffeecake that has a baked-in filling and topping and that stores well may be just what you would enjoy having on hand during warm weather to serve with iced tea or coffee, fruitades or milk. Here then is a new recipe for that all-time favorite, sour cream streusel coffeecake.

This version has cinnamon flavor throughout the batter instead of just in the streusel and it's more economical than the usual recipe because it calls for half sour cream and half milk instead of all sour cream.

CINNAMON COFFEECAKE
3 cups all-purpose flour, stir to aerate before measuring
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract
1/2 cup commercial sour cream
1/2 cup milk
Streusel, see below

On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. In a large mixing bowl cream butter and sugar; beat in eggs one at a time along with the vanilla. Stir in flour mixture in 4 additions, alternately with sour cream and milk, just until smooth each time. Turn half the batter into a greased 9-inch angelfood cake pan; spread half the Streusel over the batter; add remaining batter; top with remaining Streusel. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean — about 45 minutes. Stand cake in pan on a wire rack for 10 minutes; with a small metal spatula loosen cake around edges and tube; turn out on wire rack; with another rack, turn right side up. Cool completely. (If desired, stir together 2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar with 1 teaspoon water and drizzle over top of cake.) Store in a tightly covered tin box; if refrigerator-stored, bring to room temperature before serving.

Pair Seeks Best Fishing Grounds For Rich Catch

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: To make a long story short, another girl and I are interested in finding husbands, and we don't want to waste a lot of time and money looking. I am 30 and she is 31.

Can you tell us where to look for eligible men—preferably with money? Or do you believe in that old saying, "Everything comes to him who waits?"

LOOKING IN ST. PAUL

DEAR LOOKING: Get out of Minnesota. There are only 81 eligible men to every 100 single women in your age bracket there.

Your best bet is Alaska. The unmarried men outnumber single women two to one.

The pickings are good in Hawaii, Nevada and Rhode Island. The ratio there is about six men to every five women.

Florida, California and Arizona are loaded with older eligibles who are loaded. But prepare to compete with rich widows.

The only thing that comes to those who wait is gray hair. Good luck and happy hunting, girls!

DEAR ABBY: We are a middle-age couple. We are neighbors to a young couple I'll call Tom and Ann who go out of town frequently. They gave my husband a key to their house so that he can feed their dog, water their plants and keep an eye on their house in their absence. I have never gone into their house while they are not home.

Recently we went away on a trip, and my husband gave Tom and Ann a key to our house so they could keep an eye on it.

We've been back three months, and they still have our house key. Yesterday when we returned from shopping, we found a note stuck on our door. It read: "We called, got no answer, so we came in and borrowed some chairs we needed. Signed, Tom and Ann."

Abby, I feel that this was presumptuous. I don't want anyone in my house when I'm not home. And I certainly don't want them borrowing anything without my permission. True, had I been home, I would have let them borrow the chairs, but I feel they had no business helping themselves.

I've asked my husband to ask them for our key. He says I'm being foolish. I will abide by your decision. If you say I'm wrong, I'll apologize.

OVER 60 AND ANGRY
DEAR OVER: No apologies necessary. I think you're right.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I attended a small dinner party at the home of a friend. For dessert she served a lemon custard cake topped with whipped cream and coconut icing. It was delicious! Everyone raved and no one left a crumb.

The next morning I telephoned my hostess to thank her again for the lovely dinner party. Then I asked her for the recipe for the dessert. I was shocked when she said, "It's my own creation and I don't give out the recipe, but if you ever want one, I'll be glad to make it for you—for $10, which will be donated to my church."

How do you feel about that, Abby?
DUMBFOUNDED

DEAR D.: It's her recipe and her right to refuse to give it out. I think it's a good deal for everyone—including the members of her church.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Picnic Held By BPW Thursday

Mrs. Irma Worthington's home on the Ayden Highway was the setting for the picnic supper for members and guests of the Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club.

Mrs. Lucille Moore, president, presided at the Thursday event. Co-hostesses for the supper were the Arrangements Committee, Cotton Smith, chairman, Margaret Riddick, Naomi Edwards, and Kay Lotterhos.

The president reminded members that 1975 dues must be paid before July 15. It was announced that Ruth Garner is on a European trip, attending the Baptist World Conference, Stockholm, Sweden, and touring other countries.

The Ways and Means Committee displayed and sold items of merchandise for the club.

Guests for the evening were Lucy Stokes and Rosalind Causey of Greenville, Sallie Parker of Crisp, and Elenora Torrence of Durham.

Training And Planning Meet Held By WOTM

Women of the Moose members from 10 eastern North Carolina chapters and one in South Carolina met at the Greenville Moose Temple Sunday afternoon after a training and planning session.

Members of Greenville Chapter No. 1308, WOTM, served as hostesses and Miss Ada Jones, deputy grand regent for North and South Carolina and a member of the Greenville chapter, presided.

During the afternoon session recent changes in the order's rules and regulations were discussed and plans for participation in the annual state convention in Greensboro in August were made. Ways of generating enthusiasm and increasing membership were also discussed and a question and answer period concluded the session.

The 47 WOTM members attending represented chapters in: Jacksonville; Wilson; Swansboro; Newport; Jones County; Greenville; New Bern; Havelock; Washington; Elizabeth City, and Casey, S.C.

Following the meeting, members of the Greenville Chapter served refreshments to the ladies and their husbands.

Guest Editorial

A Policy That Suits My Own

By CONGRESSMAN WALTER B. JONES
I appreciate the opportunity to submit a guest editorial to the Daily Reflector.

As an avid reader of editorials, I have often speculated as to what I would write if I were a regular editorial writer. In retrospect, I think I would pursue the same editorial policy as the Daily Reflector has during the years.

First, I would advocate and help promote the expansion of East Carolina University, for it is obvious that its economic impact on the City of Greenville, and the State of North Carolina for that matter, cannot be overemphasized.

I would also continue the editorial policy of attempting to attract new industry into the general area, which the Reflector in the past has been of great assistance in doing.

I would further continue the diligent surveillance of the public office holders from the local level to the national level, and through the editorial pages I would feel free to commend for jobs well done, with the equal right to condemn for indifference or negligence on the part of our public officials.

Being an independent newspaper I would feel free to express the newspaper's views on any and all subjects, with the full awareness that some expressions would be totally unpopular, but they would be based on my conviction of what is right and what is wrong.

In conclusion, I think my conception of an editorial policy is exactly that which has been practiced by the Daily Reflector for many years, and as a strong supporter of this policy, I hope and am positive that it will continue in the future.

Early Starter In GOP

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP)—The leading active candidate for the 1976 Republican gubernatorial nomination delivered his 150th civic club speech of the last two years at a Raleigh barbecue house last week.

Secretary of Corrections David L. Jones, though he has not yet announced his candidacy, is running hard for the nomination. He is the leading candidate at this time in part because he is the only candidate. No one else of statewide stature seems to want the GOP nomination.

The theme of Jones' speech was, of course, the desperate straits of the prison system. But he departed from it several times, giving an indication of what his gubernatorial campaign might be like.

"I'm one of those proud Americans who's proud of that flag and what it stands for...I'll give you this country boy's common sense opinion. I think our country will continue to be in a mess until we get back our confidence.

"The situation reminds me of a voice that keeps ringing in my ears when I see radicals, liberals and communists tearing down our flag, spitting on it, and burning their draft cards...Nikita Krushchev saying 'We will bury you without firing a shot.'

THIS AFTERNOON

In-Service Training Hurt

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—While classroom teachers and in-school programs were spared in General Assembly budget cutting efforts, special projects carried out from the state level suffered a severe blow.

The in-service training effort, for one, has been severely restricted.

"There is not an industry in this state which won't tell you that the way to improve a product is to improve the people involved in making that product," State Superintendent of Public Instruction A. Craig Phillips argues.

Still, educators are attempting to carry on their special preparations; kindergarten teachers are going ahead with a seminar, and vocational teachers are meeting at a statewide conference without state money to pay the costs.

Serious Cuts
The "most crucial thing is to work with the people in the classrooms...to improve the teachers and the principals."

Phillips said, as he denounced "serious cuts in materials, consultants, and staff development." While General Assembly budget cuts were generally aimed at trimming some $300 million from a total $7 billion state budget for the coming two years (that's about a four per cent cut), public schools were hit with a cutback of some $25 million for an 11 per cent trimming; central staff operations in Raleigh were cut $1.8 million.

The central staff cut represented 18 per cent of the $10 million departmental budget, Phillips protests.

Legislators pointed to bureaucratic fat and the need to keep available dollars at work in the classrooms—not paying supervisors and regional advisors.

Scoring what he sees as a legislative attitude of getting rid of everything except the teachers, Phillips said the central staff operations will "be hurting."

Funds and personnel for a variety of in-service training programs were scrapped in numerous departmental budget lines. The people involved are being kept on the job by transfer to other offices, in this coming fiscal year. But such transfers will not be possible the next fiscal year, if further cuts are sustained.

Political Act?
Phillips blames personal and political actions aimed at him and a lack of understanding among some legislators for the cuts in educational programs. There was an atmosphere in the General Assembly of cutting bureaucratic fat, especially among the leadership in the House of Representatives, he says. At one point the House Base Budget Committee "cut eight consultants from the reading program overnight...our friends in the Senate found out about it and put them back in," Phillips said, but blames the confusion and lack of communications among legislators with damaging the education program.

At another time, he said, there was considerable agitation among representatives to cut kindergarten expansion with "all kinds of substitute proposals...doubling up...half days..."

Educators were "all alone" except for voices from the field and parents saying "my youngsters is left out...kindergarten has got to keep growing," Phillips said.

The end results will be another regular expansion of the kindergarten program with $70 million additional; a minimal $2 million reading program demanding local plans for intensive effort; funding for exceptional children programs in the amount of $9 million which is "half the need," but with the major cuts hitting central staff operations.

Phillips is high in his praise of educators who are moving ahead with the job despite cuts, particularly the "maturity among teachers and central staff officials in accepting the realities of the problems in this economic shortage and foregoing a pay raise."

An Oshkosh Collect Call

WASHINGTON—"Hello, I have a collect call from Miss Joyce Robinson in Oshkosh, Wis. Will you accept the charges?"

"Yes, operator, we will."

"Hi, Pops. How are you?"

"Fine. What are you doing in Oshkosh? I thought you were driving to Cape Cod to visit Aunt Rose."

"We were, but Cynthia wanted to stop off and visit a boy she knew from school who lives in Minneapolis."

"Who is Cynthia?"

"She's a girl I met in New Orleans."

"New Orleans? I didn't know you went to New Orleans."

"I wasn't planning to, but Tommy said there was a great concert of the Grateful Dead scheduled to play in the stadium. He got the day right, but the wrong month."

"Tommy?"

"He was hitchhiking on 95."

"You started out with Ellen Mulberry. Where is she?"

"She met some kids she knew in Fort Lauderdale, and they were driving to Mexico, so she decided to go with them."

"Do Mr. and Mrs. Mulberry know this?"

"I think Ellen called them after the accident."

"What accident?"

"The camper she was in had a blowout, and Ellen got banged up a little."

"So you're now traveling with Cynthia and Tommy."

"No. Tommy stayed in New Orleans and Cynthia left yesterday. She said she couldn't wait until my car was fixed."

"What's wrong with your car?"

"The motor fell out. That's what I'm calling you about. The garage man said it will cost $550 to fix it up."

"That's a fortune!"

"You don't have to pay it if you don't want to. I can leave the car here. I met a guy who has a motorcycle, and he says he'll take me as far as Detroit."

"I'LL PAY IT!"

"How's Mom?"

"She's on the extension. I think she was fine until we got our call. Where are you staying until you get your car fixed?"

"I met some nice kids who have a religious commune near here, and they said I could stay with them. I promise to devote the rest of my life to God."

"That's nice."

"The only problem is I have to shave my head."

"Can't you stay at a motel?"

"I don't have any money left."

"What happened to the $300 I gave you?"

"Two hundred went for expenses and one hundred of it went for the fine."

"What fine?"

"We were fined $100 for speeding in this little itty-bitty town in Arkansas."

"I told you not to drive fast."

"I wasn't driving. Fred was."

"Who the hell is Fred?"

"He's a vegetarian, and he says capitalism is finished in the West."

"That's worth $100 to hear. Are you going to Cape Cod to visit Aunt Rose or aren't you?"

"As soon as I get the car fixed, Pops. Send me the (Continued on page 5)

Public Forum

To the editor:
In reply to Mrs. E.B. Parker's July 8 letter to the editor lambasting our Sheriff Department, please let me write a few words in behalf of our Sheriff Department.

First, we know that not all crimes are solved. Not even Kojak on TV solves all the crimes in his precinct, but I will put our Sheriff Department far above average in solving our local crimes, both petty and criminal.

Did it ever occur to you, Mrs. Parker that perhaps the Sheriff Department did not have any real leads to go on or perhaps they were working on other cases at the particular time you called them? Did it ever occur to you that our Sheriff Department is undermanned and over worked?

If you do not believe our Sheriff Department is doing a good job, you inquire around the county and ask our merchants, farmers, and others, and they will give you a positive answer in support of the Sheriff Department.

Evidently the majority of the voters in Pitt County do not believe as you do or we would have another sheriff.

If you do not feel that you are getting your full tax dollar for protection, take the time and visit the county jail and see that it is full of persons apprehended by our sheriff and his well qualified deputies.

If you do not believe our Sheriff is qualified to administer his office, why do you not ask him for his credentials? I can guarantee you that he is unequivocally qualified to administer and enforce our laws.

I think our tax money is very wisely spent in regards to the sheriff and his fine deputies.

You are entitled to your opinion. You expressed it, and I am expressing mine.

The INSIDE REPORT Hidden Face Of Indonesia

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
JAKARTA, Indonesia—Behind the firmly fixed mask of third world neutralism, this island giant of Southeast Asia has been shaken by the Communist takeover in Indochina and looks—with doubt and apprehension—for Washington to maintain great power balance in this region.

The nonaligned mask is worn with great finesse by longtime foreign minister Adam Malik, who publicly endorses turning Southeast Asia into a "zone of peace, freedom and neutrality" free of great power influence. But Indonesia's hidden face is shown privately by key generals in this military government who want U.S. aid, present U.S. bases, existing U.S. treaty commitments and, most of all, the U.S. fleet in Southeast Asia.

Indonesia, thereby, reflects ambivalence throughout East Asia over the post-Vietnam U.S. decline. Public accommodation to newly dominant Communist power is accompanied by private pleas for balance through continuing U.S. military presence in the Western Pacific.

The public view was articulated to us in an interview with Malik, a senior world statesman in nonaligned politics. He stressed the stand of ASEAN (Associated Southeast Asian Nations) against foreign bases, writing off the huge U.S. naval base at Subic Bay in the Philippines as "not important." Malik expressed doubt of Chinese or Vietnamese support for Southeast Asian insurgencies, asserted the need for diplomatic relations between ASEAN members and Peking to counter Soviet influence and minimized the need for U.S. military aid here.

The antithesis is the view given us by several generals, some close to President Suharto, who dominate the military government established when the army crushed a 1965 attempted Communist coup.

What worries the generals most is the Soviet fleet in Indonesian waters. "Do you really think," one general asked, "that we could have crushed the Communists (in 1965) if the Russian fleet was steaming by looking over our shoulders?" Fearful that South Vietnam's Camranh Bay may become a Soviet naval base, Indonesian generals want the U.S. Navy at Subic Bay, ASEAN prohibition or not.

The generals, believers in the domino theory, are skeptical about commitments of both Thailand and Malaysia against rising insurgency, underwritten by Hanoi and Peking. While insurgency is no problem here, they fear the infection spreading southward.

To counter growing Soviet power and spreading insurgency, the Indonesians want two kinds of help from Washington:

First, continued U.S. defense pacts with South Korea, Japan, the Philippines and Australia, symbolized by the comforting presence of the Seventh Fleet—a protective girdle around Indonesia. "Korea is far away but very important to us," one general told us.

Second, U.S. aid in modernizing the big (200,000-plus) but poorly trained and miserably equipped Indonesian army. Although this military government has concentrated on economic development at the army's expense, the generals since Saigon's fall have been demanding new equipment.

What one prominent Indonesian described to us as "my country's doubletalk" is embodied in the bland, enigmatic and unrevealing style of President Suharto. Talking privately with U.S. Deputy Defense Secretary William Clements here last December, Suharto was sympathetic to U.S. plans for an Indian Ocean naval base at Diego Garcia (a concession to his generals). But after Clements revealed the existence of that sympathy, the government publicly declared its opposition to any great power confrontation in the Indian Ocean (acknowledgment of the Malik mask).

Some U.S. officials believe Malik, a gifted diplomat, influences Suharto more than is generally recognized. The prevailing view, however, is the assessment of one cabinet minister: "I would compare him to your Mr. (William) Rogers as Secretary of State."

A test is forthcoming on resuming relations with China, "frozen" after the 1965 attempted Communist coup. Malik wants relations normalized quickly, following ASEAN policy; the generals want it delayed until 1978, after the presidential election. On this point, some Western diplomats feel Malik may win.

The generals may also lose on the oil-aid equation. Realizing that another price increase by the oil cartel (of which Indonesia is a very junior member) may finally eliminate U.S. aid, one general advised Suharto to urge restraint on the Shah of Iran. But civilian economic officials eagerly await further oil price hikes to help solve money woes.

In fact, U.S. aid, dwindling from $500 million-plus in 1972 to less than $100 million for next year, has a dim future. Vastly more important to

Strength For Today

THE END OF ENMITY
John Edward Redmond, the Irish patriot, once determined to end a political enmity with a fellow politician which had rankled both men for years. So Redmond went to the other politician and asked for his vote in an upcoming election. With a scowl on his face the other man replied, "I'd vote for the devil first."

Nothing daunted, Redmond replied cheerfully, "That's quite all right. I expect a man to stick by his friends, but in case the devil isn't nominated I'd appreciate it if you would vote for me."

The politician laughed heartily and the feud was at an end. From this time forward the two men joined forces in many good causes.

Many people caught in feuds of one kind or another would like very much to end them peacefully, but can't seem to find a way to do it. Humor sometimes does the trick. Laughing at ourselves loosens many tensions and dissolves much hostility.

Now Unified Court Counseling

By BILL WALLACE
Durham Sun Writer
RALEIGH (AP)—For the first time in history, North Carolina has a unified court counseling system for delinquent and undisciplined youth.

Unification of the system has been carried out in less than a year by the Youth Services Division of the Administrative Office of the Courts in Raleigh.

The division was authorized by the 1974 General Assembly and had its official beginning in September when Dr. Thomas A. Danek of Pittsboro was appointed administrator.

Danek had served as chief court counselor for Orange, Chatham and Alamance counties.

Danek said the division's main goal in its push towards unification is to "find ways to serve the child and the court."

Some court counseling programs were established on a local basis in 1966, Danek said, but it was not until last year that all 30 state court districts had the programs.

In its first nine months the division has set up uniform training programs for counselors and also has established administrative controls.

Two major functions of the counselors are to recommend to the court what action should be taken for a youth and then to supervise those youths placed on probation.

Some court districts also have an intake function, which screens juveniles to see if court action is necessary. Danek said the process often can settle problems out of court, acting independently or in coordination with other agencies.

Danek said the division is now establishing the intake program statewide.

Another project is to provide interagency training for law enforcement, court and youth service personnel. Danek said the training is designed to improve working relations between the agencies.

"In the long run, this will upgrade services," he said. The division established community volunteer programs in seven districts last year to get more local citizens involved in helping juveniles. "Children need people they can look up to," he said.

A project started on a trial basis in Orange and Alamance counties allows youths coming in contact with the counseling system to meet regularly on a group basis to "look at what is going on in their lives" in an effort to help each other, he said. Trained counselors preside at the meetings.

The division also plans a study of possible improvement in the way youths are represented by legal counsel in court.

For the future, Danek predicts a trend toward shorter probationary periods, allowing more intense work with each youth, and fewer commitments to training schools.

New Standards By Commandant

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Louis H. Wilson, the new commandant of the Marine Corps, has declared war on fat Marines and on officers who let them get that way.

"If I see a fat Marine, he's got a problem, and so does his commanding officer," said Wilson, who keeps lean by running two miles every morning.

Wilson told a group of newsmen he plans to send the Marine inspector general around to check on how unit commanders enforce physical fitness standards. "If they have fat Marines, then they are going to have to answer for that," he said.

Virtually every recent commandant has taken aim at flabby Marines. If Wilson gets everybody to shape up, he will be the first to succeed.

From the moment he became commandant June 30, the 55-year-old Medal of Honor winner has sounded as though he feels the corps needs a general bracing. "I call on all Marines to get in step and do so smartly," he said as he took over from Gen. Robert E. Cushman.

Now, two weeks later, Wilson said he intends to raise enlistment standards and weed out Marines "unwilling to accept discipline."

"I'm willing to sacrifice quantity for quality," Wilson said. He added, however, that he expects the Marines to attract enough quality recruits to fill requirements even after the economic recession ends.

Wilson said he will insist that the Marines recruit a higher percentage of high-school graduates. Indicating the goal is still under study, he said it will be well above the current 55 per cent level.

"I believe there is a majority of opinion that the more high-school graduates we have, the less problems we're going to have with discipline," he said.

For recruits lacking high-school diplomas, Wilson said the corps will demand higher entrance test scores, particularly in the verbal and arithmetic categories. The goal here is to increase the acceptable level from a score of 85 to 95.

Wilson acknowledged continuing problems with crime in the barracks and absence without leave. He attributed these problems, in part, to changing lifestyle patterns among young Marines and noncommissioned officers.

Divorce Is Also Party Occasion

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Everyone had such a good time at the Smiths' wedding 15 months ago, the couple decided to invite all the guests back for another party.

The champagne they received as a wedding gift was opened, and the best man was there to perform the honors — this time removing the wedding bands from the fingers of Ed and Mari Smith.

Ed and Mari filed divorce papers on July 9. Under California law, the final decree will be issued in six months.

The couple hugged — Ed called her "babe" and Mari called him "honey" — and everybody cheered.

Invitations to Saturday night's party read: "You are cordially invited to join us in celebrating our divorce."

Ed, 44, said the party was thrown "to show our friends that Mari and I are not mad at each other."

Mari, 24, agreed: "Ed and I are still buddies. Ed's awfully nice, but we just couldn't stand living together."

The party was Ed's idea, Mari said.

"Everybody thinks that divorce is some kind of a terrible thing, like a funeral. But if two people are not getting along it is good to find out quickly. Then it's nice to celebrate," she explained.

"I first thought he was a smart aleck and then I realized he was being cooperative. My husband amazes me. He's very ingenious."

The couple rejected one suggestion that Ed and Mari throw rice at the guests. Mari did offer to wrap and return all the wedding gifts, "but nobody accepted my offer."

In keeping with the spirit of things, Ed and Mari worked together on obtaining their divorce.

"The how-to-do-it book cost us $5 and the court costs are $53 and then that's it," Mari said.

By DAVID C. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Former presidential aide Alexander Butterfield today described as defamatory allegations that he was a Central Intelligence Agency contact officer at the White House, but the man who made the original charge was sticking by his story.

"I don't back off from any of that," retired Air Force Col. L. Fletcher Prouty said Sunday night after Butterfield had denied the allegations on the CBS program "60 Minutes."

In a statement today to reporters, Butterfield said: "Mr. Prouty's initial public statements about me were sufficient to lead reporters to allege that, in my case, there was a spy motive, that I had infiltrated the White House, or in other words, that while there I served two masters."

"Those serious allegations are altogether false," Butterfield said. "Moreover they are defamatory. In that I stated my White House duties in full under oath to the Senate Watergate committee and other high-level investigative bodies, Mr. Fletcher Prouty's allegation is tantamount to a charge of perjury. The damage to my reputation has been done...."

Butterfield said, as he had in the Sunday night interview by CBS correspondent Mike Wallace, that "the fact of the matter is I never was assigned, never was attached and never have been their (CIA) designated contact man. That is absolutely false."

In the interview, Butterfield also said that he has never met convicted Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt Jr., the man Prouty claims told him that Butterfield was the CIA contact man at the White House.

"I have never met Howard Hunt in my life," Butterfield said. "I have never seen Howard Hunt in my lifetime."

Referring to that statement later, Prouty said, "I think his words are chosen," explaining that one of Hunt's associates in the Washington public relations firm of Mullen & Co. may actually have contacted Butterfield in connection with Prouty's attempt to get White House backing for a project involving Indochina prisoners of war.

Prouty said his claim was based on the fact that Mullen was a firm with CIA connections and that Hunt was a 20-year veteran of the CIA.

Prouty contended, therefore, that whoever Hunt said he would contact at the White House "is by definition a CIA contact man."

On Friday, when Prouty originally made his claim about Butterfield and the CIA, he also said that he had first learned of the alleged link in 1971 from two retired Air Force officers who had worked for the CIA for long periods of time. One of those officers has since flatly denied Prouty's account although he has refused to be quoted by name.

The CIA says that Butterfield "has never been assigned to or worked for CIA in any capacity." However, the agency acknowledged that during his military career and during his years in the White House as an aide to chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, Butterfield was given clearances for access to sensitive agency material.

"I read everything that went to the President's desk so I had to have a clearance for handling CIA material, which is not a big deal," Butterfield said Sunday on the television interview.

Two Carolinas Seeing Rebound

By The Associated Press
The economy of North Carolina and South Carolina is rebounding from the recession. The improvement is led by the textile and apparel industries, where 23,000 persons have returned to work since February.

Unemployment rates in the two states are the lowest since December. And the manufacturing workweek is the longest since October, according to the latest figures.

"The increase in the workweek serves as the strongest possible indicator that we're coming out of the recession," says Ken Flynt, economist for the North Carolina National Bank in Charlotte.

Insured unemployment in the Carolinas now is below the national average of 9 per cent after being well above most of last spring.

There were still 172,000 Carolinians drawing unemployment benefits the last week in June, the latest period for which figures are available. But that represented a 46 per cent drop from the 321,000 persons of the peak periods of late January and early February.

At the end of June, North Carolina's insured unemployment was 6.5 per cent. That figure includes 30,000 persons who were drawing extended benefits after exhausting their 26 weeks of regular unemployment checks. North Carolina's insured unemployment peaked in January at 12.6 per cent, nearly double the latest figure. It hung around 10 per cent until April, when it began a downward slide that has continued each week since.

The average manufacturing workweek in the state has risen steadily, from a low of 35.8 hours in January to 38.1 hours in May, the latest reporting period.

South Carolina's insured unemployment for the last week in June was 8.2 per cent, including 15,000 persons on extended benefits. The peak insured unemployment was 12.6 per cent in February.

The averaging manufacturing workweek in South Carolina was 38.6 hours in May, compared with 36.7 at the low point in January.

Will Argue Peak Pricing

RALEIGH (AP) — Whether peak pricing will alter patterns of consumption of electricity will be one of the major questions the state Utilities Commission hopes to answer through a public hearing beginning Dec. 16.

As called for by the legislature, the commission has ordered an investigation into the peak pricing concept. Under such a plan, higher rates would be charged for electricity use in periods of high demand and lower rates in periods of low demand. It's similar to the varying rates for long distance telephone calls.

The commission directed the state's major electrical suppliers to submit affidavits on peak pricing by Sept. 19. Anyone else who wants to participate in the December hearing has until Oct. 17 to file a position statement with the commission.

The commission noted that other states and federal officials are also studying peak pricing, but "a basic research effort must be made with particular attention paid to North Carolina."

Three Hurt In Accidents

Three persons were reported injured and an estimated $1,650 property damage caused in two mishaps here Saturday night.

Police said Wesley Ruben Puryear of Route 2, Greenville, and two passengers in his car, were injured when the vehicle collided with a utility pole about 10:40 p.m. Saturday at the intersection of 14th and Pitt Streets.

Puryear was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign by investigators who estimated damage to the vehicle at $1,000.

Umesh Chandra Gulati of 102 Pearl Dr. was charged with following to close following investigation of an 8:45 p.m. mishap on Greenville Boulevard 175 feet West of the Belvedere Drive intersection.

Police reported the Gulati car collided with an auto operated by Riley Carroll Mills of Route 2, Greenville causing an estimated $350 damage to the Mills car and $300 damage to the Gulati auto.

Audrey Hepburn 'Never Quit'

MONTE URBASA, Spain (AP) — Audrey Hepburn says she has never quit acting and is not staging a comeback in her new film "Robin and Marian" about Robin Hood and Maid Marian.

Sitting on a stump overlooking a plain in Spain where the movie was being shot, she said her eight-year absence from movie-making was to find out what she wanted and who she was.

"After all, I had worked nearly all my life. I started teaching ballet when I was 13, and for years I was undergoing the discipline ballet demands. When you're in films, it means you're completely absorbed for three months or more. Your life isn't your own."

Miss Hepburn, 46, won an Oscar in 1953 for her performance in "Roman Holiday," and received Oscar nominations for her roles in "Sabrina," "Breakfast at Tiffany's," "The Nun's Story," and "Wait Until Dark."

Most To Co-Op

RALEIGH (AP) — Most of the tobacco sold in the opening week on the South Carolina Border North Carolina belt went to the Flue-Cured Tobacco Stabilization Corp.

The Federal-State Market News Service reported that 56.6 per cent of the leaf was bought by the corporation. The stabilization cooperative bolsters sagging prices and operates the federal price support program for flue-cured tobacco.

Last year's opening week saw the cooperative buy 23.4 per cent of the leaf in the belt.

The higher price support caused average prices for most lugs and primings to be $4 to $6 higher per 100 pounds, the news service said.

The average price for sales last week was $84.45 and the volume was 11.7 million pounds. Last year's average price was $81.74 with 21.9 million pounds sold the first week.

Officers said Kennedy was stopped Saturday night near New Market, Va., after police observed a car speeding at 92 miles per hour on Interstate 81. The speed limit is 55 m.p.h.

Kennedy was held briefly at the Shenandoah County jail until the registration of the car was checked. He was issued a summons and released pending a hearing in General District Court here July 25.

Holton is accused of robbing a Seattle bank in 1973. Following his arrest for the robbery he escaped from custody and was charged with the Nov. 1, 1974 slaying of a bartender during a holdup in Omaha, Neb.

Tour Set By DAV Vans

Nineteen North Carolina communities will be visited July 21-August 15, 1975 by the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) fleet of mobile Field Service Units. Eighteen traveling DAV service offices housed in specially-equipped 26-foot GMC motor vans, are on a year long nation-wide tour of the United States. The Mobile Field Service Units will be on display at Pitt Plaza Shopping Center, 264 Bypass, in Greenville on July 30.

The purpose of the tour is to carry the many free services provided by the DAV to wartime disabled veterans and their dependents who live some distance away from Veteran's Administration Regional Offices. Qualified DAV National Service Officers, most of whom are Vietnam era disabled veterans, will be on board the Field Service Units to assist wartime disabled veterans and their families in their claims for Federal and State benefits to which they are entitled by law.

Stuart Aronson, coordinator for the "Sunday In The Park" series, reminded local citizens that the folk music presentation cancelled yesterday will be held this evening at 7 p.m., weather permitting.

Various groups are slated to take part in the concert program, he added.

Tobacco Mart...

spotty throughout the belt, he added, but rainfall in the last week or so, although light until this weekend, was a great help to the tobacco crop.

The warehouseman said that he looked for a "much better market" as soon as "we get through with the lower leaves and move up the stalk."

Harold Watson of Farmers Warehouse said that everything has gone well in making preparations for tomorrow's opener.

He noted that Farmers has one of the opening sales tomorrow and a number of visiting tobacco officials, including Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Graham and John Cyrus, tobacco marketing specialist with the N. C. Department of Agriculture, are expected to be on hand for the opening festivities.

Sonny Belcher of New Independent Warehouse here said that he feels that marketing will be slow for the first two or three weeks but he added that the early opening was "kind of serving the need the program was set up for." Farmers who have bulk curing barns and wish to go ahead and move their tobacco are accommodated by the early opening, it was pointed out.

Belcher added that he hopes farmers will not be too disturbed about opening prices being paid on the Border Belt. He said that "quality is low and frankly, we didn't expect primings to sell all that well. Demand is slow."

He said that he is "very optimistic about the better grades of leaf bring improved prices" here. Grading will play a big part in the marketing program this year, Belcher contended.

He advised farmers to "go ahead and get rid of first primings" and not be in "too big of a rush on the upper stalk leaves."

Commenting on the growing season and overall tobacco situation, Pitt Agricultural Extension chairman Ed Yancey said that the rains came in time to save most of the county's tobacco crop.

He said that "we may be hurt a little and in some spots in the county the rain may have been a little late but, generally speaking, the tobacco crop makes a pretty remarkable recovery anyway and I think it has."

Yancey said that it is a little too early to tell about the quality of this year's leaf but early indications are that it will be good. The rain should be helping to fill out the upper stalk leaves, he noted.

The Extension chairman said that a percentage assessment of crop damage in the county has not been made but he said that "it looks like a good average crop" from what started out to look like a bumper crop.

According to Stacy Evans, manager of the local Agricultural Stabilization & Conservation Service office, the only difference in selling procedures this year will be in the use of warehouse codes on tobacco marketing cards. He said that farmers who have designated tobacco for more than firm should make sure that they have the correct marketing card for each warehouse when they sell.

Evans noted that most growers designated only one warehouse but in cases where more than one firm was designated, the correct card should be brought to each warehouse.

Sale this year are under the same grower designation plan utilized last year, he noted, and "it looks like we'll have a smooth for corn in the state. After Sunday's rain, three highways were closed in Roxboro, where 13.67 inches of rain has fallen since July 4.

opening."

Bryan listed the names of the owners and operators of the warehouse firms in Greenville. They include: Cannon's Warehouse, W. T. Cannon, Carlton Dail; Farmers, Harold L. Watson, T. Jack Warren and Willie Edwards, sales manager; Growers, Jasper L. Tripp; Keel's, J. A. Worthington, J. B. Worthington, Fenner Allen and A. T. Venters;

New Carolina, Larry Hudson and Laddie Avery; New Independent, Winston A. Pruitt, Harold Forbes, J. B. Belcher and Jack S. Warren; Raynor-Forbes & Clark, A. A. Forbes, Billy Clark, Loyd Fornes, Ray Harrington and Norman Porter; and Star-Planters, Harding Sugg.

Buying companies located here, according to Bryan, include: American Tobacco Co., Homer Compton, branch manager; Austin-Carolina Co., H. N. Hardy Jr., president; Carolina Leaf Tobacco Co., William B. Glenn, president; Export Leaf Tobacco Co., Joe Gaston, branch manager; Greenville Tobacco Co., C. W. Howard Jr., president; Imperial Tobacco Co. Ltd., Joe D. Exum, buying supervisor; International Tobacco Co., P. K. Andresen, president; Liggett-Meyers Tobacco Co., A. B. Ayers Jr., head buyer; A. C. Monk & Co., A. C. Monk, president; R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Gene Averette, branch manager; and J. P. Taylor Co., V. E. Wells, area supervisor.

A. A. Forbes Jr. is president of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade and J. B. Belcher is vice president.

Bryan commented, "The tobacco trade of the world is anxious for a greater quantity of the kind of tobacco sold on the Greenville Market. Greenville warehousemen have changed and improved their procedures to meet the demand of the buying companies and the growers who sell in Greenville. 1975 should be the best season the history of the Greenville Tobacco Market.

Better Leaf Anticipated

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)—The second week of sales begin at Georgia-Florida flue-cured tobacco markets Tuesday and industry officials say they expect higher prices when better grades of leaf begin to arrive at the auctions.

Prices on the belt last week averaged $85.41 per hundred pounds compared with $86.27 during the first week last year. But an industry spokesman said much of the leaf was primings from the lower stalk.

Despite the lower average, some grades brought higher prices last week, he said. The Stabilization Corp. received 36 per cent of gross sales last week, compared with only 5.4 per cent during the opening week last year.

Fewer selling days per week are being held this year and will result in an extended selling season. Industry spokesmen say this is an effort to organize the auctions better in the five tobacco belts.

Sales on the Georgia-Florida belt began July 8 while sales in South Carolina and the southern part of North Carolina started the following day. Eastern Belt sales begin next Tuesday and the Central Belt opens July 29. Auctions in western North Carolina and Virginia begin Aug. 5.

The U. S. Crop Reporting Board has predicted flue-cured production nationwide will increase 12 per cent over 1974.

Carl Snavely's Funeral Services Set Tomorrow

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Last rites will be held Tuesday for Carl Snavely, a soft-spoken football coach for more than three decades who guided North Carolina to three major bowls in the post-World War II era.

Snavely, whose teams operated from the single-wing offense, died Saturday of a stroke at 82. He had been in failing health for several months.

Snavely, known as the "Gray Fox," began a collegiate coaching career at Bucknell in 1927 and directed the school to an undefeated season in 1931.

After compiling a 42-16-8 record in seven seasons at Bucknell, he shifted to North Carolina for his first of two terms spanning 10 years there but left in 1934 to coach Cornell.

His Cornell teams won three Ivy League crowns in nine seasons, but his greatest prominence stemmed from a 1940 game involving a fifth-down victory over Dartmouth. Cornell trailed 3-0 in the game but emerged with a 7-3 win after referee Red Friesell mistakenly awarded the Big Red an extra down. Snavely, after viewing films of the contest and at the instruction of Cornell president Edmund Ezra Day, wired Dartmouth Coach Earl "Red" Blaik that "Cornell relinquishes claim to victory and extends congratulations to Dartmouth."

A return to North Carolina in 1945 for an eight-year period preceded a final stop at Washington University in St. Louis for Snavely, whose over-all coaching record for 32 seasons was 180-96-16.

At North Carolina, where All-American halfback Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice was his star, Snavely led the Tar Heels to the Sugar Bowl in 1946 and '48 and to the Cotton Bowl in 1949.

"He was probably one of the biggest factors in my life," Justice said Sunday in Greensboro, N.C. "He handled me in a way that I didn't get spoiled."

Snavely later coached six seasons at Washington University beginning in 1953 and, following his retirement, operated a car wash.

The son of a minister, he was a three-spot star at Lebanon Valley College in Pennsylvania and afterward played two seasons of minor league baseball before entering coaching at the high school level.

In later years Snavely, a former president of the American Football Coaches Association, voiced steep criticism of high-powered athletics.

"The only thing that justifies bigtime, subsidized college football is the fact that many boys who otherwise wouldn't get an education get one on a football scholarship," he said.

Survivors of Snavely, who in 1965 was inducted into the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame, include a son, Carl Grey Snavely III, and a brother, Francis B. Snavely. Another son, Carl Grey Snavely Jr., was a Navy pilot who was killed during World War II.

Funeral services are scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Bopp Funeral Home chapel in suburban Kirkwood. Burial will be in St. Louis.

cause the two men — both veterans of space — have become such close friends during two years of training for this mission. Both believe that moments like this, high in space, can speed detente between Soviets and Americans on earth.

The two commanders spoken by long distance telephone Sunday.

Stafford said Leonov and Kubasov told him "that everything was real fine at the Soviet cosmodrome" and he told the cosmonauts that things were good at the Cape, except for "sweating out" the weather.

Meteorologists say the afternoon thunderstorms that have swept the Cape daily are a matter for concern, but "the amount of thunderstorm activity is expected to decrease by Tuesday."

Chester M. Lee, NASA's program director, held a 2 1/2-hour readiness review Sunday and reported: "We are satisfied we are ready to carry out our part of the Apollo-Soyuz Test Project mission."

From Baikonur the report was the same: "All activities are being carried out according to the time line of the pre-launch flight plan."

President Ford, Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin, other diplomats and James Fletcher, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, plan to watch television coverage of the Soviet launching at the State Department auditorium. Dobrynin and Fletcher will then fly to Cape Canaveral to see the Apollo launch.

Today, all five spacemen planned to check flight plans and brush up on the language of the other country. The astronauts are scheduled to fly proficiency runs over central Florida in T38 jets.

During two days of linkup in space, the astronauts will speak Russian and the cosmonauts English. They will visit each other's spaceships, share meals, conduct joint experiments and exchange gifts.

All five say that their orbital meeting won't just be a "handshake in the sky" but a mission leading to future cooperative flights in large space stations and perhaps to the planets.

Cite Evidence Of Tax Cheats

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan's national tax administration agency does not believe all Japanese are honest and it has some evidence to prove its contention.

The agency says it has found 70,600 Japanese understate their income and evade tax. These people were not among some 50 million employees of government offices and private firms whose income tax is deducted from their pay every month.

It says the amount of unreported income in fiscal year ending March 31 amounted to 162 billion yen ($540 million) and this represented 47 billion yen ($156 million) in unpaid taxes.

Memorial Day was observed for the first time on May 30, 1901.

Easing Of Cuban Trade Ban May Be In Offing

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Organization of American States is expected to take up the Cuba embargo this week with some indications the 11-year trade ban may be eased.

The 12-day meeting in Costa Rica beginning Wednesday marks the third time in as many years the Cuba embargo has come up, and American officials believe there is a better-than-even chance the OAS will either repeal or substantially weaken the embargo at this meeting. That view is disputed by some Latin American diplomats.

One reason American officials foresee affirmative action is that the United States itself is prepared for the first time to support a change in the 11-year-old OAS policy.

U.S. officials see the embargo as a contentious element in hemispheric relations but they say no effort will be made at the meeting to influence the position of other countries. The American delegation will be headed by OAS Ambassador William S. Mailliard.

Eight months ago in Ecuador, the last time the OAS voted on a repeal proposal, 12 of the 21 nations were in favor but the embargo continued because the vote fell short of the required two-thirds majority of 14.

At Quito, the United States joined Brazil, Guatemala, Nicaragua, Bolivia and Haiti in abstaining, while Chile, Uruguay and Paraguay cast negative votes. The embargo ostensibly forbids OAS members from es-ablishing trade and diplomatic relations with Cuba but a number of countries have ignored the ban.

Team Fails Scale Peak

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP)—An American mountaineering expedition has failed in its attempt to reach the summit of K2, the world's second highest mountain, according to a radio message received Monday.

The message said the 10 Americans, headed by Jim Whittaker of Seattle, Wash., had suffered serious delays because of strikes by the porters and bad weather. Whittaker had previously led the first successful U.S. expedition on Mt. Everest.

The message said that the expedition took a very difficult route up the 28,250-foot-high mountain and then was hit by "severe storms" which halted the team for 20 days.

"Time has run out," the message said.

It reported "all team members are healthy" but said one porter was seriously ill and had been carried down to 15,000 feet to be taken off the mountain by helicopter.

The message, signed by Whittaker, said the expedition had returned to its base camp, at 17,600 feet, and would leave there on Tuesday. The climbers expect to arrive at Skardu, in the foothills, by July 28, the message said.

K2, also known as Mt. Godwin Austen, has been climbed only once.

One other recent expedition, the French team that climbed Gasherbrum 2, complained of demands by their porters. Because of the porters' ever-increasing demands, the French climbers ran out of money, and extra cash had to be sent from Islamabad.

All-Star Break Is Break National Needed

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

The National League deserves a break today.

It's got one. The Cincinnati Reds aren't playing. The Reds have been acting like starving men in a hamburger joint — eating up everything in sight. If a few days of enforced idleness can bring a halt to Cincinnati's momentum, then the All-Star break is the best thing that could've happened to the other 11 teams.

But Pete Rose thinks the three-day absence from the diamond will make the Reds' hearts grow even fonder of beating everyone else.

"We've always been a good second-half team," he said. "I don't think we'll do anything but get better."

Rose's bases-loaded two-run single capped a four-run seventh inning Sunday that propelled the Reds to their 10th consecutive victory, a 5-3 triumph over the New York Mets.

The victory, the Reds' 41st in their last 50 games, also widened their West Division lead to a mind-boggling 12½ games over Los Angeles, which was beaten 2-1 by St. Louis. In the rest of the league, Pittsburgh lost 7-5 to San Diego but retained its 6½-game East Division edge over Philadelphia, which fell 9-5 to Houston. Atlanta beat Montreal 5-4 in 14 innings and San Francisco defeated Chicago 4-1.

Tom Seaver was cruising along with a 3-0 lead and a two-hitter, a pair of Rose singles, before the Reds woke up. Joe Morgan walked, stole second and scored on Dan Driessen's double. Cesar Geronimo and Dave Concepcion then singled for another run and pinch-hitter Terry Crowley drew a walk, loading the bases.

That brought Rose to the plate and Rick Baldwin out of the bullpen. Rose greeted Baldwin with a clean line-drive single to center that put the Reds on top.

Cardinals 2, Dodgers 1

For the second straight time the Dodgers lost 2-1 to the Cards. And for the second straight time, Dave Lopes' homer produced the Dodgers' lone run. St. Louis' winner came on Bake McBride's triple and Reggie Smith's single off Mike Marshall in the bottom of the ninth.

Padres 7, Pirates 5

Hector Torres' two-run double in a three-run fifth helped the Padres down Pittsburgh. Pirates' third baseman Richie Hebner also helped with two errors in the inning.

Astros 9, Phillies 5

Cliff Johnson's two-run triple gave Houston a first-inning lead, the Phils scored four in the third, then Roger Metzger's single, Rob Andrews' double, Wilbur Howard's triple and Greg Gross' single in the fourth put the Astros on top to stay.

Braves 5, Expos 4

Atlanta's Darrell Evans drew a one-out walk in the 14th inning against Montreal and took off on Mike Lum's single to right. Evans beat the throw to third and Lum went to second on the play.

And when Larry Parrish threw to Pete Mackanin at second, Evans jumped up and beat the throw home.

Giants 4, Cubs 1

Bruce Miller drilled three hits, drove in one run and scored one for the Giants while John Montefusco and Charlie Williams stopped the Cubs on six hits. Chris Speier also scored twice and drove in a run.

Watson's Eagle On 14th Hole Helps Win British Open Playoff

CARNOSTIE, Scotland (AP) — Any golfer who birdies par-five can feel pleased with himself.

Jack Newton of Australia did it in Sunday's playoff for the British Open. But Tom Watson went him one better. He eagled it.

Watson, who was earning a history of choking in major tournaments, went on to win the crown and he said his eagle chip at the 14th was the stroke that counted the most toward the title.

"I hit a good wood for my second shot, and it landed in short grass just off the green, about 30 feet from the pin," Watson said. "I took a chipping wedge for my third shot and it ended in the hole."

Watson went on to a one-under-par 71 over the 7,065-yard, par-72 course and edged Newton by one stroke. It was the fourth time in five days that Watson had shattered par on the famous course, and it helped ease bitter memories of two consecutive U.S. Opens when he blew chances to win.

The 488-yard 14th, where the playoff turned in Watson's favor, is called "the spectacles" because two big round bunkers peer out in front of the green.

Watson steered past the bunkers with his second shot but missed the green. The chip, however, was one of the outstanding shots of a memorable tournament.

Carnoustie is a dragon when the wind comes up, but for the first three days there was scarcely a breath of wind. Watson had scores of 71, 67 and 69 on the first three rounds; Newton shot 69, 71 and a course-record 65.

Then a westerly wind came up, and in the fourth round, the title was up for grabs as player after player bowed in the stiff breeze.

Watson made 72 and Newton 74. The scores put the two 25-year-olds even at 279, one stroke ahead of Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller and Neil Coles, and they went to an 18-hole playoff.

Sunday the wind blew again, but from the east.

"I guess we saw Carnoustie in different conditions," Watson said. "But I know we haven't had real Carnoustie weather. I expected it to blow 100 miles per hour."

Watson won the title, the first major victory in nearly four years as a pro, along with the $16,500 first prize. Newton owned the course record and $13,200 as runner-up.

Watson was the sixth American to win the British Open in the last seven years. The sequence was broken last year when Gary Player of South Africa won it.

Blue Pitched Last American League Win

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The last time the American League won an All-Star Game was in 1971 when rookie Vida Blue was the starting and winning pitcher.

Blue, who went on to win the Cy Young and most Valuable Player awards that year, is being counted on to help get the American League back on the winning track Tuesday night at the 46th All-Star Game at County Stadium.

AL Manager Alvin Dark, who also manages Blue with the world champion Oakland A's, last week named the 25-year-old left-hander to oppose the National League, winner of 11 of the last 12 of these mid-season classics.

Walter Alston, manager of the National League, also was expected to choose a southpaw starting pitcher — John Matlack of the New York Mets — at today's news conference to give the starting line-ups.

Matlack last pitched Friday and is known to be highly regarded by Alston, whose own Andy Messersmith — pitched Sunday — and Don Sutton — groin injury — aren't ready.

When Blue gained the All-Star victory in 1971 despite giving up three runs in three innings, he got three two-run homers in a 6-4 victory. Harmon Killebrew, Frank Robinson and Reggie Jackson smashed those homers for the AL. Only Jackson, who put his blast over the roof at Detroit, in a pinch-hit effort, is a member of this year's AL All-Stars.

He finished second in the voting for an outfield berth in a nationwide voting of fans. Bobby Bonds of the New York Yankees, an All-Star in 1971 and 1973 for the National League, and Joe Rudi of Oakland are the junior circuit's other outfield starters.

Alston will have three of his Dodgers in the starting lineup — first baseman Steve Garvey, MVP of the 1974 All-Star game, third baseman Ron Cey and outfielder Jimmy Wynn.

Greenville Edges Washington W., 3-1

Greenville moved into the finals of the 14-15 District VI Babe Ruth tournament with a 3-1 win over Washington West, Saturday night on a one-hitter by Danny Hester.

Hester allowed Washington only a single but the hit got Washington its only run in the game. Hester struck out 11 but walked seven batters.

Greenville gained control in the bottom of the frame with two runs. Lance Weatherington singled and Jerome Ross got a hit sending Weatherington to third. Ross took second on the relay. Michael Shank sacrificed Weatherington across to tie the game and Gary Allen got a single to score Ross.

Greenville made it 3-1 in the fourth as Jeff Aldridge was hit by a pitch, took third on an error and scored on a passed ball.

Greenville will play the winner of today's games, Tuesday.

Maltbie Rallies To Win Quad Open

MOLINE, Ill. (AP)—"One of things I've been concerned about is my consistency," said rookie golfer Roger Maltbie. "For the last few months I seemed to have lost it."

Wherever it had been, the first-year tour pro found it Sunday to come from seven strokes off the pace set by leader Dave Eichelberger to claim the $75,000 Quad Cities Open.

Maltbie, 24, who joined the Professional Golf Association last November, had a four-round total of 275, nine under par, to win $15,000. Eichelberger finished at 276.

Eichelberger, whose last tournament victory was the 1971 Milwaukee Open, moved to a five-stroke lead Friday and was ahead by three starting Sunday's round.

"I'm having trouble getting my confidence back," the disappointed Eichelberger said afterward. "I've played so bad for two years. Several years ago, when I was in contention about five times, I felt great. Now all of a sudden when I was in there, I felt nervous and that hurt me."

Maltbie immediately gained two strokes on the 510-yard No. 1 hole when he scored an eagle and Eichelberger bogeyed.

After the first nine holes, Eichelberger, Maltbie, Howard Twitty Jr., and Terry Dill were ted for the lead with six under totals of 272.

But in an ever changing race during the rain-delayed tournament, Mark Hayes came on with a 69 to place third with 277, two strokes off the pace. Gary McCord (70) followed at 278, and Homero Blancas (69), Dill (72) and Twitty (72) were tied at 279.

"Being a tournament winner—that's the big thing," the exultant Maltbie said, noting "there are three different categories" when tournament pairings are made. He said rookies are matched against rookies, the better players as determined by their current money winnings are paired with each other, as are tournament victors.

Maltbie quipped that he just recently joined the list of the top 100 money winners and was "getting a little better class of friends."

Now, as a tournament winner, he said: "Who knows? I may get Jack Nicklaus next week."

Included in the field of 147 were golfers such as Sam Snead, Doug Sanders, Dave Hill, Tony Jacklin and Dave Stockton.

Snead was in contention after rounds of 69-68. But he soared to 77 Saturday before returning with another 68 Sunday to finish two under at 282.

Evans Steals Show For Braves

ATLANTA (AP)—The Montreal Expos learned the hard way Sunday never to trust Atlanta's Darrell Evans, who stole a game for the Braves with his alert baserunning.

The victim was rookie second baseman Pete Mackanin of the Expos, who turned his back on Evans, allowing the Atlanta third baseman to score the winning run in a 5-4 victory over the Expos in 14 innings at Atlanta Stadium.

The triumph, Atlanta's third in the four-game series with the Expos, was set up when Evans drew a one-out walk from reliever Don DeMola, 3-4.

After Earl Williams fouled out, Mike Lum drilled a hit to right field and a sliding Evans beat the throw to Larry Parrish at third with Lum taking off for second. Parrish threw to Mackanin at second trying to get Lum, and Evans kept on running to easily beat Mackanin's throw home.

"I was going right away," explained Evans afterward. "I was already up from sliding (into third) when Mike went into second, so I got a good jump. He (Mackanin) was waiting, I think, to see if the umpire called Mike safe or out. By that time, he didn't have much chance to get me, because when I took off, Mackanin's back was turned."

Montreal Manager Gen Mauch, however, defended his young second baseman. "I thought Mackanin had dropped the ball, for that's the only way the runner could have been safe. Mackanin didn't make a mistake in holding the ball, for I'm sure he thought the runner was out, too. The umpire just made a slow call."

Winning reliever Ray Sadecki, 3-1, who hurled one inning of scoreless relief, welcomed the run but didn't expect it to come in that unusual fashion.

"You think of a lot of ways to score when you're rooting for a run. But I bet no one ever thought of that way."

Williams drove in three of Atlanta's four runs in the first two innings off Montreal starter Steve Rogers on a pair of singles. The other Atlanta run came on an errant pickoff toss by Rogers.

But the Expos, who have now lost six of seven entering the All-Star break, tied it in the eighth on Tim Foli's single. Foli also produced a sacrifice fly earlier while Parrish had an RBI single and another run came in on a wild pitch.

The Expos will be represented in Tuesday's All-Star contest in Milwaukee by rookie Gary Carter, who stroked a pair of home runs and drove in five runs in Saturday's doubleheader, but was held hitless Sunday.

The Braves will also have only one representative in the classic, right-hander Phil Niekro, who has an 8-7 record.

Lose Opener

HONOLULU (AP)—The Charlotte Hornets opened their exhibition season Saturday night with a 32-14 loss to Hawaii.

The Hawaiians capitalized on a pair of second quarter fumbles and a 60-yard pass interception to whip their World Football League rivals.

Leading 24-14 after three periods, Hawaii wrapped up the victory when linebacker John Ketchoyan picked off a pass by Hornet Gary Danielson and scampered 60 yards for a touchdown.

Hawaii scored its first touchdown after a fumble by Charlotte's Brian Dowling on his own 39. Calvin Hill scored.

A few moments later, Charlotte fumbled again on the 16 and Clayton Heath converted on a four yard end sweep.

The Hawaiians scored again in the second on a seven-yard pass from Sonny Sixkiller to Mark Grannucci.

Oakland Setting The Pace For Other A L Teams

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer Wave bye-bye to the Oakland A's.

Those perennial world champions are not only first in the American League West at the All-Star break — but they're first by a whopping 8½ games. "The pressure is on the other teams now," said Oakland's Bill North after the A's beat the Baltimore Orioles 4-3 Sunday and moved further ahead of the pack.

Traditionally, the team ahead by the All-Star game winds up winner of its division.

The second-place Kansas City Royals dropped another notch behind the A's by losing an 8-4 decision to the Detroit Tigers. The Boston Red Sox, meanwhile, improved their lead in the American League East to 4½ games by whipping the Texas Rangers 7-5.

In Sunday's other American League games, the Cleveland Indians nipped the California Angels 8-7 and the Chicago White Sox stopped the Milwaukee Brewers 5-0. Rain postponed action between Minnesota and New York.

Billy Williams' two-run double capped a three-run second inning and Ken Holtzman won his fifth straight game and 11th of the season as Oakland edged Baltimore. Holtzman needed relief help from Jim Todd and Rollie Fingers after Brooks Robinson hit a two-run homer in the seventh inning, cutting Oakland's lead to one run.

The A's scored all their runs off Ross Grimsley, 5-11, who lasted only 1 2-3 innings.

Tigers 8, Royals 4 Aurelio Rodriguez belted three hits and triggered two rallies as Detroit erased a three-run deficit in the first inning and went on to beat Kansas City. Rodriguez doubled off loser Dennis Leonard, 5-5, and scored the Tigers' first run on Gary Sutherland's sacrifice fly in the third. He added singles in the next two innings when the Tigers erupted for four and three-run rallies.

Red Sox 7, Rangers 5 Rookie sensation Fred Lynn drove in four runs and veteran Carl Yastrzemski had five straight hits, leading Boston over Texas for the Red Sox' seventh consecutive victory. Boston got a first-inning run on doubles by Yastrzemski and Lynn, then chased Steve Hargan, 6-5, with three more in the third. Bernie Carbo and Yastrzemski singled, Lynn doubled them home, then Jim Rice singled.

Sunday, It Was Redman's Turn To Be The Winner

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP)—Brian Redman of England and Mario Andretti of Pennsylvania, the first in the nine-race series, after Andretti won an engine. But Andretti won at Mosport in Canada, nipping Redman by only 6-10 of a second.

And so, the stage was set Sunday for a showdown between the pair in the third race of the nine-race series.

Unfortunately, Andretti had to leave the battle to Redman and Oliver.

And quite a battle it was, with Oliver leading for 14 laps and Redman right on his tail. Redman said later that he knew Oliver was going to have trouble because of leaking oil from the engine.

"I couldn't pass him" Redman said. "He wouldn't let me. He weaved, and he shut me off."

Redman's opportunity finally came on the 15th lap, and he shot ahead of Oliver on a straightaway. Four laps later it was all over for Oliver, who blew his engine and skidded off the course at a 90-degree turn.

The victory left Redman comfortably ahead in the Formula 5000 series with 96 points. Al Unser, the two-time Indianapolis 500 winner, finished second Sunday and moved up to second-place in the point standings with 48 points. Andretti, who had been second, dropped back to third with 41 points.

Redman averaged 119.22 miles-an-hour during the race after he and Andretti had both shattered previous lap records for a race here in preliminary heats.

Ladies Have Bizarre Finishing Round

By GEORGE STRODE AP Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—It must have ranked as one of the most bizarre final rounds of a Ladies Professional Golf Association Tournament.

"I've never been involved in anything like this before. Just rotten, terrible," said LPGA President Carol Mann of Sunday's attempted finish of a $65,000 tour event at Riviera Country Club.

Miss Mann carried a shaky one-stroke lead into her final four holes today over Jan Ferraris. The last three three-somes were forced to quit because of darkness.

However, the rest of the field finished. Most of the players headed for Atlantic City Country Club, the site of the U.S. Women's Open this week.

Miss Mann was seven under par and Miss Ferraris six under when they resumed play at the spot of their interruption.

Of the others still playing, Laura Baugh, Jane Blalock and Sandra Haynie were all four under. Judy Rankin, Pam Higgins and Murle Breer three under.

The clubhouse leader was Carol Jo Skala, the wife of a Sacramento surgeon. She sloshed to a two-under-par 70 Sunday, good for a five-under-par 54-hole total of 211.

One shot back at 212 came JoAnne Carner and Australian Penny Pulz. Both closed with 70s.

The wild final round included:—Four weather delays totaling 4 hours, 15 minutes, stretching the round to almost 11 hours.

—Thunder, lightning, wind and rain, shortening the national telecast from 90 to 30 minutes, overturning two television towers and ripping away the huge clubhouse scoreboard.

—Confusion between the players and LPGA tournament supervisor Bill Hall over the siren signaling the end of day's play. Most of the pros thought the siren ended their round. Others continued to finish their holes.

Precautions Can Be Saving To Farmer

With local tobacco markets opening July 15, farmers need to be aware of special considerations concerning their tobacco marketing cards. The Pitt County ASCS lists the following precautions that can save the farmer time, trouble, and possible penalty payments. Upon receiving the card, examine it carefully to see that it is correct. Check to see that the name, address, farm serial number, and quota are correct.

North East South
2NT Pass ?
What do you bid?

A.—You have a hand that could easily produce a slam opposite a two trump opening bid, and we suggest you get the message across with a big bid in hearts. Our own choice is five hearts, asking partner to bid six with a maximum. However, we do not mind if you start the proceedings with a bid of three hearts, provided you intend bidding over game at your next turn.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q1074 ♥93 ♦AK82 ♣743
Partner opens the bidding with four hearts. What action do you take?

A.—Pass, and hope you have enough for partner to make the contract. Four hearts is a preemptive bid, which, at this vulnerability, shows about seven playing tricks. With a bit of luck, your hand will produce the three tricks needed for game.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQ965 ♦AQJ743 ♣Q6
The bidding has proceeded:

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
Pass 1 ♥ Pass 2 ♣
Pass 3 ♥ Pass 4 ♣
Pass 4 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—The hand looks slamish, and the question is how we can best investigate the possibilities. A cue-bid of three spades could be the winning move, but we prefer a rebid of three hearts to complete the picture of your distribution. There is always time for a spade cue-bid.

Q.7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A876 ♥AK92 ♦AQJ ♣6
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass Pass INT
Dble. 2 ♣ Pass Pass

A.—Five hearts. You have a very good hand for a partner who could make a jump rebid, but your chief worry is the spade suit. It is just possible you might be off the first two spade tricks, and your bid asks him to go onto slam if he has that suit controlled.

Q.8—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠854 ♥K62 ♦AJ1054 ♣A6
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
Pass 1 ♥ Pass 1 ♣
Pass 1 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Three diamonds. We are not enchanted with the idea of making a jump rebid in a relatively weak five-card suit, but the auction has left us without a reasonable alternative. We hope partner has the spade stopped trump.

Q.9—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠854 ♥6 ♦QJ654 ♣J976
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 ♥ Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—Pass. We do not subscribe to the theory that you should keep the bidding open under any circumstances when you have 60 on score. All too often such action spurs partner to great heights after the opponents compete, and costly doubles often result. Remember, partner has no way of knowing that you bid out of courtesy.

Scores Of Newsmen At Raleigh Murder Trial

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Newsmen from five states and the District of Columbia were expected in Raleigh today for the opening of the Joan Little first degree murder trial.

Dozens of reporters were to be on hand, representing four television networks, five wire services, a number of newspapers plus some individual radio and television stations.

For months, national attention has been focused on Miss Little. The 21-year-old black woman is charged in the August 1974 death of Clarence Alligood, 62, a white Beaufort County jailer.

She has contended that Alligood tried to rape her while she was being held pending appeal of a breaking and entering conviction. Alligood was found nude from the waist down. State law requires death in the gas chamber on a first degree murder conviction.

To prepare for the trial, court officials had 30 additional pay phones installed in two rooms for newsmen to file their reports. Because there were more newsmen than seats in the courtroom, a second courtroom was wired so all reporters can at least hear the proceedings. The first two rows of seats, which will accommodate 32 people, were set in the main courtroom for reporters and artists. The last three rows of seats are for the public on a first-come, first-served basis.

Many of the news organizations obtained credentials for several newsmen—14 in one

Sales Pact In Bulgaria

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. has announced an agreement with the Bulgarian state tobacco monopoly providing for the manufacture and sale of Winston cigarettes in Bulgaria. The agreement was signed Monday in Sofia, Bulgaria by officials of Reynolds Industries, the parent company, and Bulgartabac, the Bulgarian monopoly.

R.J. Reynolds, the nation's largest cigarette manufacturer, signed two similar agreements last week with the Soviet Union.

The agreement, the first ever arranged between Bulgartabac and a Western manufacturer, calls for Reynolds to provide technical assistance to Bulgartabac in the growing, harvesting and processing of tobacco, a Reynolds spokesman said.

Bulgartabac controls tobacco in Bulgaria from the plant to the finished product and is a major exporter of cigarettes to Soviet bloc countries.

Iron Curtain countries accounted for about a third of the 3.2 trillion cigarettes consumed worldwide last year, a Reynolds official said.

Taxes Taking A Larger Bite

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Food costs are taking a smaller bite while taxes are taking a larger one out of personal income than they did seven years ago, according to Finance Facts, a newsletter of the National Consumer Finance Association. About 16 per cent of personal income goes for food, compared to 17 per cent in 1965, while taxes now take 15 per cent, up two points in the period, the association says.

case—in the event a reporter must be replaced. It has been estimated that the trial will last four to six weeks.

Here is a list of news organizations that have obtained credentials: ABC, CBS and NBC television networks and UPI TV news; The Associated Press; United Press International; Reuters, a British wire service; The New York Times and The Washington Post, each of which also has a wire service; The Washington (D.C.) Star-News; The Poverty Law Reporter; The Atlanta Constitution; Newsweek.

From North Carolina: The

News and Observer of Raleigh; The Charlotte Observer; The Winston-Salem Journal; The Greensboro Daily News; The Raleigh Times; The Carolinian; The Washington (N.C.) Daily News; WKIX radio; WILE radio; WPTF radio; the North Carolina News Network; WRAL TV of Raleigh; WTVD-TV of Durham; WBTV-TV of Burlington; WGHP-TV of Greensboro-High Point; and WITN-TV of Washington, N.C.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JULY 15, 1975

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: It is difficult now to reach a meeting of minds with those with whom you have any sort of contact, so try not to upset anyone, or to place pressure on them. Do for yourself whatever work requires precision, neatness and exactness. Sudden events require calmness and poise.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Partners may be under pressure, so don't try to discuss much with them today. Make new contacts. Do your work efficiently.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) The situation could be tense with co-workers or partners, so keep busy at your own job and all ends well. Don't criticize.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't overspend on recreation, or you will regret it later. Be patient with mate. Concentrate on past happiness and good nature.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't argue, or you can start a battle royal, best avoided now. Buy small gifts for kin that please, instead.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Drive with care and use a wise choice of words to keep out of trouble. Check statements for errors. Work in measured way.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Listen to monetary experts. Don't take risks or think you know it all, or it could cost you plenty. Avoid overspending on fun.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Busy yourself with duties and avoid feeling imposed upon or unhappy. Attend social affairs you like that will be free of arguments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Keep secret worries to yourself, or you could annoy others. Lose them as friends. Don't force issue with loved one.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Following every regulation that applies to you safeguards reputation, security now. Scrape up the money instead of arguing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Far fields are not greener, so stick to present set-up which is good, but needs a little revision, more effort.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Your brilliant ideas are not practical, so forget them. Not a good day to plan a trip. Catch up on routine work.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Use your best judgment instead of following that erroneous hunch, and so avoid trouble. If mate acts frisky, don't be angry.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be full of energy, will want to jump into things without forethought about results, so teach early to think first and then act with deliberation. Give training that will lead your progeny in right directions, an education that is constructive, and give good books to read. Teach to smile more and to use ingenious methods in whatever the forte may be.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Can Use Old Tires In Paving

NEW YORK (UPI) — A study by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency shows that paving roads with used tires is just one of the solutions to the waste disposal problem posed by the 200 million tire casings abandoned every year, reports the Tire Retread Information Bureau.

Tire casings can also be used to generate power and as artificial reefs, impact absorbers on highways and in retreaded tires.

Doctor Travels By Mule, Jeep

Duke Power Co. Rate Hearing To Begin Tuesday

By CHARLES C. HILL
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Duke Power Co. will attempt to justify its expansion and construction programs to the North Carolina Utilities Commission when a formal hearing on its 23.6 per cent rate increase request begins Tuesday.

The hearings are expected to continue for about four weeks.

Duke Power put a 20 per cent rate hike into effect July 1, as allowed to do under state law which says utilities can institute rate increases if the Utilities Commission doesn't act on requests within six months. The company must refund with interest any part of the increase charged but not granted. If the commission delays action for nine months, the utilities can put into effect the total increase and it isn't subject to refund.

The requested increase would raise the average monthly bill of a customer without electric heat from about $28 to $33 and an all electric customer's bill from $49 to $59.

Consumers charge that the company overestimates the power needs of the future in its building program and that it isn't doing enough itself to conserve power.

They say conservation efforts by residential, commercial and industrial customers are still being implemented and haven't been given a chance to show their effect.

And they say customers simply won't be able to pay the higher rates with the economy suffering as it is.

Duke Power contends it needs the extra $131 million the rate hike would bring in annually to compensate for spiraling inflation and to pay for an estimated $2.85 billion worth of construction in the next five years. It says the added revenue would allow it to boost the rate of return its common stock holders earn to a level which would allow it to attract investors to finance building plans.

Duke Power President Carl Horn, Jr. says a construction program cutback would hurt the company financially and create severe power shortages in the early 1980s, possibly causing brownouts and power disruptions.

The company must be allowed a rate of return greater than 14 per cent, using an historical test period, says W.H. Grigg, Duke Power senior vice-president for legal and financial affairs. If that amount isn't allowed, increased costs will offset added revenue, Grigg says in pre-filed testimony.

Duke Power officials also call for considerations for regulatory lag and projected inflation. They complain that in the past, by the time rates have gone into effect, inflation has made them too low.

Dr. Arthur Dietz, professor at Emory University, recommends in pre-filed testimony as a Duke Power witness that a rate of return of 14.5-15 per cent be earned by the company.

Duke officials say the requested rate increase would bring the rate of return up to 15.11 per cent. They say that in the past, the amount allowed by the commission has differed by about three percentage points from what is actually earned so that the earned rate achieved after the increase would be about 12.11 per cent.

Duke Power claims that it is one of the most efficient power companies in the nation, that it has tried hard to hold costs down. And it says it has deferred $1.5 billion worth of construction of generation, transmission, distribution and other facilities through 1979.

The Utilities Commission drew mixed responses last week as it heard public opinion on the increase request in Charlotte, Hickory, and Burlington.

The most active and vocal protest came in Burlington, where 300 citizens opposed the increase and pressured Utilities Commission Chairman Marvin Wooten to promise that another public hearing would be held. That hearing may come this week.

A representative of the Concerned Citizens for Responsible Utility Rates for Guilford County said he had a petition with 70,000 signatures supporting a delay in the increase until Duke Power demonstrate a willingness to promote conservation.

Mark McDaniels quoted from a Duke Power publication for stockholders, which he said considered conservation efforts as "adversely affecting their earnings."

Also speaking at the various hearings were some businessmen who said they supported the rate hike request with mixed emotions. They explained that they preferred higher rates to brownouts and disruptions which would be extremely expensive to businesses.

Assistant Atty. Gen. I. Beverly Lake Jr. charges the rate of return Duke Power Co. is asking for, between 14-15 per cent, is too great. He said Sunday he thinks a reasonable rate of return would be around 12-13 per cent.

The commission, in granting Duke Power all it requested in a 16.8 per cent, $61.3 million rate hike in October 1974, deemed 12.35 to be a fair and reasonable rate of return on common stock equity, Lake said.

He says the company's construction program is based on exaggerated estimates of future needs and that it is being implemented unwisely. Lake says its generation plans lack needed diversity, that the company shouldn't "put all its eggs in the nuclear basket," which he said is an expensive and slow venture.

And the company's unreasonable expectation for growth and electric power demand has brought the company "dangerously close to extreme financial difficulty," Lake said.

Lake says utilities can legitimately ask for consideration of regulatory lag and inflation, but that Duke Power is asking for too much compensation. He said regulatory lag will not be a problem if the commission returns to hearing cases within six months instead of waiting as long as 15 months.

The North Carolina Consumers Council says North Carolinians can ill afford added expenses now. Its legal counsel, Tom Barringer of Raleigh, called for more conservation efforts. He and others have urged the company to put "peak load pricing" into rate schedules to cut down the need for added plant.

And Jesse Riley, president of the Carolina Environmental Study Group, called for a 40 per cent rollback in Duke Power's rates. He lashed out at the company's "fantastic, overblown reserves" which he said were due to the unreliability of nuclear power plants.

Duke Power serves much of the Piedmont of North Carolina and South Carolina. It has also asked the South Carolina Public Service Commission for a rate increase.

Natural Gas Shortages Termed Exaggeration

CHARLOTTE (A)—An official of the Piedmont Natural Gas Co. says reports of the anticipated extent of the natural gas shortage in North Carolina this winter have been exaggerated scare talk.

"There's a lot of scare talk going around," said Dan Lindner, vice president for technology. "The only news we've had lately is encouraging—our summer allocation is being increased by pretty good amount, and some of it is bound to carry over into fall."

At the Public Service Co. in Gastonia, the state's second largest supplier after Piedmont, spokesman Jack Knox said, "Most of our industrial customers have made plans to install propane and heating oil to protect themselves (if they can't get natural gas). If there's a bad winter and oil and propane run out, there could be a serious impact, but we don't know yet."

Regardless of what happens to industry, homes and schools will not be cut off from natural gas. But if the industry situation gets enough, people may be asked to turn their thermostats down voluntarily, like they did two winters ago.

But officials of state government and of gas companies and industry say that for things to get that bad, a lot of iffy things would have to happen. That would include such things as a natural gas situation worse than the 60 per cent cutback for the state now predicted, an unusually cold winter, a disappearance of propane and heating oil reserves, and perhaps a new Arab oil embargo.

Lindner was asked how the story that a natural gas disaster was upon North Carolina got started.

He said he believed some of it was drummed up to create public pressure for lifting price regulations from natural gas at the wellhead. Producers say deregulation is necessary to encourage more exploration.

The North Carolina secretary of natural and economic resources, James Harrington, was quoted as saying in a speech in Raleigh last month that "some homes would be affected and that all industries and most businesses in the state would be hard-hit" by a natural gas shortage this winter.

However, last Thursday Harrington discounted the statement as "normal hyperbole."

"One of the unfortunate things about being in public office is that if you try to say something sensible, nobody's going to listen to you and nobody's going to write it," he said. "I had to make a noise in order to get attention to the fact that the energy crisis isn't over yet."

Harrington said part of his motive was to create a favorable opinion for deregulation. As he put it, "Things are serious and there can be a disaster in the long run unless the public responds with conservation measures and if we don't respect some of the actual costs of producing gas."

Three Collisions In Greenville Sunday

Three persons were reported injured and an estimated $9,075 property damage resulted from a series of three collisions investigated in Greenville Sunday by Police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 2:18 a.m. collision at the intersection of Colonial Avenue and White Street involving cars driven by Juliantant Dankitigane of 1305 Colonial Ave. and Jacquelyne D. Moore of Brooklyn, N.Y.

Officers, who set damage to the Dankitigane car at $1,800 and damage to the Moore vehicle at $3,500, charged Miss Moore with failing to stop for a stop sign.

John Hubert Carraway of Bethel was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign following investigation of a 7:45 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Raleigh Avenue and Chestnut Street.

IRA Bomb Blitz In Britain Said Plotted

By GRAHAM HEATHCOTE
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP)—British police have uncovered a plan by the Irish Republican Army's Provisional wing for another bomb blitz in Britain and the assassination of Britons if the Provos' cease-fire in Northern Ireland breaks down, British and Irish newspapers report.

The Dublin Sunday Press said that the partly burned documents found in a raid in Liverpool described an IRA plan to set bombs in London and cities in the English Midlands if full-scale warfare resumes in Northern Ireland.

The London Sun said the British police have details of IRA plans to shoot British judges and policemen. It suggested that the guerrilla army might have been responsible for the shooting of seven policemen in English cities since Christmas.

The paper also said a buildup for the planned violence in Britain has been going on for months.

The raid in Liverpool last week netted IRA gunman Sean Kinsella, who escaped from a jail outside Dublin with 18 other IRA members last August. The Liverpool police said they also found the biggest IRA cache of arms and explosives ever uncovered in Britain.

Two Protestants and a Roman Catholic were shot to death in Belfast Saturday and Sunday as the Protestant Orange Order held its annual marches in celebration of the Protestant victory of the Battle of the Boyne in 1690. But there were no clashes.

One 20-year-old Protestant's bound, gagged body was found in a suburban lane. "We suspect he was shot by his own people for violating their code," said a police source.

A 21-year-old Protestant was shot at close range and killed by two men outside a Protestant club, and a companion was wounded.

British troops killed a 16-year-old Catholic and seriously wounded his companion after their car failed to stop at a checkpoint, and one of the youths fired on the soldiers, the army reported.

The three deaths raised the confirmed death toll in nearly six years of Protestant-Catholic warfare to 1,251.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

Farm Scene

By Henry C. Riddick,
Assoc. Agricultural Extension Agent
Control Peanut Diseases

The leafspot disease of peanuts can be costly when not properly controlled. J.C. Wells, plant pathologist with N.C. State University, estimates that if no treatment were used, it could cost N.C. peanut growers as much as 10 million dollars per year. Fungicides suggested for peanut leafspot control fall into the following categories: Organic fungicides, sulfur fungicides, copper fungicides, or copper-sulfur fungicides. All of these materials are used as protectants and prevent infection up to 14 days, depending on weather conditions. Therefore the suggested disease control schedule is based on 14-day intervals for maximum efficiency of the chemical.

Wells also suggests to growers who have problems with diseases such as botrytis blight, pepper spot and rust that they rotate the use of leafspot chemicals. This will help reduce the chance of build-up of several different types of diseases.

A list of suggested materials for 1975 may be obtained from the County Extension Office, 758-1196.

Peanut growers should be on the lookout for disease problems in their fields and undetermined problems should be directed to the county Extension office. Care should be taken to not mistake southern stem rot of peanuts and black root rot—both are costly diseases.

Fall Gardens
When September rolls around it's too late to grow a fall garden. Now is the time to check your garden schedule for planting dates. Generally, August 1 is the target date for planting fall gardens in this area.

Fall Irish Potatoes
The only way to do an effective job of growing fall Irish potatoes is to start with seed that were carried over from the spring seed supply. If these seed are showing evidence of sprouting, they can be planted directly. If not, a few days out of storage will probably initiate sprouting. New potatoes dug this year must go through an eight-week dormancy period before you can successfully plant them.
