Food, Gasoline Prices Cited

Consumer Price Index Rises

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharply higher prices for food and gasoline pushed the nation's Consumer Price Index up eight-tenths of one per cent in June, double the May increase and the highest monthly jump in consumer prices since last September, the Labor Department reported today. Food prices increased 1.5 per cent in June, the largest increase since last September when the increase was 1.6 per cent, and the price of food in grocery stores rose 1.9 per cent, the department said. Among increases, meat prices were reported up 5.8 per cent and prices of fruits and vegetables rose 2.4 per cent. The price of gasoline was listed as up three per cent to an average of nearly 57 cents a gallon for regular and 60 cents a gallon for premium, compared to 55 cents for regular in May and 59 cents for premium. Gasoline prices have risen even further since information was gathered for the June price index.

The Consumer Price Index in June stood at 160.6 per cent of the 1967 average of 100. This meant it cost $160.60 to buy a statistical sample of goods that cost $100 in the base period. For the 12 month period ending in June, consumer prices rose 9.3 per cent, slightly below the inflation rates of last year.

The size of the June increase appeared to catch administration economists by surprise. They had expected some increase, especially in the food and fuel area, but there were no predictions that prices would increase as much as reported.

If the June increase were continued over an entire year, that would be an annual inflation rate of about 9.5 per cent. The May increase of four-tenths of one per cent, if continued for a year, would have led to a rate of about five per cent. The figures in the Labor Department report were adjusted for seasonal variations. But even on an unadjusted basis, overall consumer prices were up the same, eight-tenths of one per cent, officials said. In the category of nonfood commodities, which includes such consumer goods as furniture, appliances, and

Jones Is Omitted From ECU Board

By CAROL TYER

The University of North Carolina Board of Governors, meeting in Chapel Hill yesterday, refused to reelect East Carolina University Trustees Chairman Roddy Jones to the Board.

William Stanley of Rocky Mount was named to replace Jones on the Board. The other new member is Dr. John D. Bridgers, a High Point pediatrician who is a Greenville native, and an ECU graduate, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam good member and a good chairman," Whichard said. "I'm sorry the Board did not see fit to reelect him." Jones, a 1958 graduate of East Carolina College, is a partner in Davidson and Jones Contractors, a commercial and industrial contracting firm in Raleigh, and five other firms. He has been an ECU Board member since 1973, and was unanimously elected chairman the same year. He was named ECU Alumnus of the Year in 1972.

Stanley is president of People's Bank of Rocky Mount. He was born in Lake View, S.C., but has lived in Rocky Mount for nearly 26 years, and in Eastern North Carolina 30 years, "so I consider myself an Eastern North Carolinian. I realize very well what East Carolina University has meant to this area and I look forward to working with this Board," he said.

Also not reappointed by the Board of Governors were Dr. Wiley T. Armstrong of Rocky Mount, chairman of N.C. Central University Board, and Beverly C. Moore of Greensboro, chairman of the UNC-Greensboro Trustees, who requested not to be reappointed.

The new chairman will be elected by the Board itself. Ashley B. Futrell, editor of the Washington Daily News and a former state senator, is vice chairman at present. Daily Reflector Editor and Publisher David Whichard, a Board of Governors member, said he nominated Jones from the floor after the nominations for the ECU Board were read. He offered the name in competition with that of Stanley, since Stanley had been nominated to fill the two unexpired years of the term of Wayne Corpening of Winston-Salem, thinking this would be easier to win than pitting him against the four nominated for full four-year terms. Besides Stanley and Dr. Bridgers, incumbents K. Edward Greene of Dunn, Futrell, and Troy W. Pate of Goldsboro were nominated and elected.

"I think Roddy has been a

The boards of North Carolina State University and Chapel Hill campus were left intact with four incumbents reappointed on each panel. Each trustee board has 13 members. Eight are appointed by the Board of Governors, four by the governor plus the school's student body president is an ex-officio member.

The six new governors sworn in Monday were Irwin Belk of Charlotte, Wayne A. Corpening of Winston-Salem, Daniel C. Gunter Jr. of Gastonia, Mrs. John L. McCain of Wilson, Joseph J. Sansom of Raleigh and Harley F. Shuford of Hickory.

In 1972, the system was reorganized with a board of trustees for each university under the board of governors. Before then, a single board governed the entire system.

Dunn Is Re-elected City School Bd. Chairman; Carter Vice Chairman

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
Incumbent Greenville City School Board chairman Henry Dunn was unanimously reelected for another year term as chairman and Ed Carter was elected vice chairman for the coming year. Carter succeeds Dr. Badger Clark in the vice-chairman position.

The elections took place during the school board meeting Monday night at the central school office. Members unanimously approved a motion by member Mrs. Terry Shank that the minutes of the previous meeting be amended to show a more definite commitment to a two-grade middle school. In action on school staff personnel, board members approved the resignation of eight teachers and the election of 39 teachers. Of those elected, three are returning from maternity leave, 16 are teachers who were employed in the past school year on an interim basis, and 19 are teachers new to the staff.

One of the newly elected teachers, Mrs. Dottie Jo Knight, will fill a new position in the city school staff as an instructor in band for the elementary grades. This is a part time teaching role. Supt. Glenn Cox explained that this appointment makes it possible for band staff members James Rodgers and Johnny Wooten to devote more time to band instructing at Aycock and Rose.

In addition, the string teacher, Harold Turbyfill, who last year was employed through an arrangement whereby the city school paid East Carolina University salary money, will this year be employed directly as a school staff member. School board members expressed pleasure about the enlarged instrumental staff which will permit an expanded teaching time for band.

Expanding and improving the quality of band instruction has been a subject for which board members have repeatedly expressed concern. Approval was given to Charles Ross to submit a Title I project request for about $153,890. Ross explained that officials had directed the program for the coming school year to be submitted for an amount 15 per cent less than the project for the past year.

Last year, Title I funds provided some $181,000 in funds to the Greenville City Schools. Title I planning by law must include input from non-public schools. Ross noted that private schools had been invited, but that only St. Gabriel had sent a representative to the planning meetings.

Title I funds again this year will focus on reading as the primary part of the program. The $153,890 will provide funding for three kindergarten teachers (a reduction from six provided by these funds last year); six elementary resource teachers;

The river level was 18.0 feet at 8:00 this morning, according to Tom Dickens of the weather service. "It shouldn't go up more than a couple of inches, if at all," Dickens said.

Greenville Utilities director, Charles Horne said his department is still ready to handle problems. Horne said, "I think we'll be able to hold our own."

No major problems are expected from the flood waters in Greenville, according to reports received this morning. Agricultural extension agent Ken Bateman said he doesn't think there has been any flood damage to crops in the county. "We do have some drowning, but it is not caused by the flood waters itself," Bateman said. The drowning has been caused by rain water.

"I haven't been all over the county, but we haven't had any reports of drowning from flood waters," Bateman said. Jimmy Stocks of the Pitt County Health Department said, "The water's higher than yesterday, but it hasn't reached a point where we think it's going to cause any problems.

Around 30 boiling orders were expected to be issued this morning to residents of the lower Meadowbrook area, Stocks said. A number of these orders, requiring persons to boil water

Confirmed
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today confirmed Dr. Forrest David Mathews, President of the University of Alabama, to be secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. Mathews, 39, will succeed Caspar W. Weinberger in the cabinet post. President Ford's nomination of Mathews was approved by voice vote after drawing high praise from Senate leaders of both parties.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

DISCRIMINATION?
I am a single person and have encountered a problem in finding an apartment or house to rent. A number of landlords in town will, as a blanket policy, not consider single persons as renters. Isn't this a violation of federal laws against discrimination? N.P.

Jesse Harris, Director of Human Relations for the City, said if a landlord has a policy against renting to single persons in an apartment complex and he has no single persons in the complex, he is within his rights. If, however, he refuses to rent to a single person when he has other single persons in the complex, he is in violation of the law. If you feel you are being discriminated against, Harris said his office will investigate for you. He can be reached through the city switchboard, 752-4137.

I sent a check for $1.75 to Right On Magazine for two back issues my children wanted. I have my canceled check, but no magazines. E. F.

We sent a Hotline postcard asking for the back issues, and you report you received them at once.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK
ROACHES DEFENDED
Roaches are the most important household pest and the least dangerous. They eat not only "crumbs" as Mr. Pate and Mr. Whichard stated in answer to the problem at ECU dorms, but also flies, ants, spiders, termites, and other small, but more destructive creatures. Most important: They will not touch a human being or go where a human has been. I lived with them for 13 months in a Vietnam P.O.W. camp and had not the first hint of bad manners. W.D.H.

Tobacco Damaged

RALEIGH (AP)—Heavy rains which ended last week caused considerable damage to North Carolina's tobacco crop. The excessive rainfall left much tobacco standing in wet and flooded field causing the green leaves to flop on the stalk and wither.

Requirements For Hospital Funds Are Set

CHAPEL HILL—Funds — about $13 million—to adapt Pitt Memorial Hospital as a teaching hospital of the East Carolina University School of Medicine will be allocated when three requirements are met, the UNC Board of Governors decided yesterday.

These requirements include an acceptable agreement between the hospital and the school; approval by the state hospital planning authorities of the hospital's planned changes to accommodate the school, and the hospital's accreditation, which appeared at one time to be in jeopardy. Plans call for modifying the central portion of the hospital to provide the x-ray, laboratory, and other facilities for the medical school and possibly the addition of a 100-bed tower.

Furney A. Todd, N.C. Agricultural Extension Service tobacco disease specialist, estimated that farmers in counties north and northeast of Raleigh will suffer losses of 5 to 15 per cent, while some may lose as much as 40 per cent. Todd cited Halifax, Warren, Granville, Person and Vance as the hardest hit.

The Board agreed to hold a special meeting in August, if necessary, to approve the completion of these requirements. Unless a special meeting is called, the Board will not meet until September.

Dr. William Laupus, Dean of the ECU Medical School, said he considers the Board's action

However, there were reports of drowning and scalding of tobacco in several other counties, including Guilford, Alamance, Edgecombe, Wayne and Johnston counties and along the North Carolina-South Carolina border. Damage of $1 million to $1.5 million was estimated in Guilford County, and a farm official in Alamance said damage there was "every bit as much."

primers and lugs and, for the most part, that prediction held true as leaves from the lower part of the stalk dominated the selling space. A substantial portion of the opening week's offerings went to the government loan program at the federal support price. The Greenville Tobacco Market began its second week of sales on Monday after an opening three-day week that produced an average of $85.38 per hundred pounds.

For the first week, the market sold 1,977,334 pounds for $1,688,611, with the opening day sales topping the week in poundage (800,430) and average ($85.57).

Following Tuesday's opener, the market posted an average of $85.29 on Wednesday and $85.28 on Thursday. Tobacco officials had predicted that early sales volume would be made up of disappointment at early prices in view of the improved offerings. Cyrus said that quality was up from last year's opening day which brought an average of $83.45 per hundred pounds. The local market opened with two sets of buyers and

Further Large Grain Sales Made To Soviet Union

NEW YORK (AP) — The Soviet Union has agreed to buy more than $600 million worth of corn and barley from the Continental Grain Co. in the third major U.S.-Soviet grain deal of 1975. Meanwhile, Australia announced today that it has sold 750,000 tons of wheat to the Soviet Union for 100 million Australian dollars — $130 million. Wheat Board chairman Jack Cass said in Melbourne that the wheat would come from this season's harvest and be shipped between September and May. Announcing the Russian purchase Monday, Continental Grain said shipment of the 4.5 million metric tons of corn and 1.1 million metric tons of barley would begin in the fall. Last week some criticism was sparked from Congress and longshoremen when two other grain exporters said they had sold 3.2 million metric tons of wheat to the Soviet Union. Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz said Monday he had "caught a lot of flak" on Capitol Hill because of that sale of hard red winter wheat to the Soviet Union. "It is far better that we exchange bushels than bullets," Butz said during a news conference in Kansas City while attending a regional meeting of representatives of the Agriculture Department's one-stop service centers. Butz also discounted speculation that continued purchases of U.S. grain would drive up grain prices in this country. While American farmers are expecting record harvests of corn and wheat this year, the Soviet Union has been hard hit by bad weather in its grain belt and could harvest as little as 185 million metric tons, U.S. Agriculture Department sources say. A 185-million metric ton harvest would be the smallest Soviet crop since 1972 when a secret billion dollar deal between the Americans and Russians over 19 million metric tons of grain tripled wheat prices from $2 to $6 a bushel and contributed to the increase in domestic food prices. U.S.D.A. sources have said repeatedly that because of the expected record U.S. harvest, the grain sales to the Russians are not expected to result in the same kind of soaring prices. Despite these assurances, longshoremen meeting in Miami Beach will consider a resolution later this week calling on the 132,000 members of the International Longshoremen's Association to refuse to load the 3.2 million metric tons sold last week to the Russians.

Sanford Kentucky Quest Did Bring Demo Factions Together

By SY RAMSEY
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — If Terry Sanford's quest for presidential votes in Kentucky did nothing else, it brought all factions of the Democratic party together momentarily. Among the 150 guests at a luncheon Monday were almost every Democratic former governor or lieutenant governor. Sanford, the president of Duke University and former North Carolina governor, commented, "This is an indication of the kind of unity we need today." Forgotten were some of the deep schisms and personal rivalries that characterized state Democratic politics in past decades as the politicians greeted each other effusively and joked with each other. Sanford, whose wife, Margaret Rose, is a Hopkinsville native, was making a quick tour in Kentucky as a contender against six other announced rivals for the Democratic nomination next year. He made additional stops later in the day for fund-raising at Louisville before leaving to continue his national organizational efforts. In a news conference and at the luncheon, Sanford emphasized jobs as the key to the nation's future. He said that if people are given work, the economy will take care of itself. He accused the national Republican administration of lack of concern about unemployment and concentration on special interests. Among those at the luncheon were former Govs. Lawrence Wetherby, Albert Chandler, Bert Combs and E.T. Breathitt in addition to Gov. Julian Carroll.

Chandler announced that former Gov. Earle Clements expected to join Sanford on a boat ride on the Ohio river at Louisville Monday night. Former U.S. senator, could not be on hand. Former Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield, leading the state effort for Sanford, quipped that "when you get Happy Chandler and Combs at the same meeting, you've accomplished something." The entire Democratic secondary statewide ticket was there, as were Louisville Mayor Harvey Sloane, Jefferson County Judge Todd Hollenbach and Presidents Robert Martin of Eastern Kentucky University and Adron Doran of Morehead State University. Sanford said he thinks other Democrats have been campaigning too early, and that he is pacing his campaign to build up next winter, when he said voters will begin to get excited about the presidential race. Told that Carroll has asked presidential hopefuls not to interfere with Kentucky's gubernatorial primary—he is the Democratic nominee—Sanford said he would not do anything to jeopardize a sensitive political situation. He said he intends to run in the Kentucky presidential primary next spring and, turning to his wife, commented: "I'll be in terrible trouble at home if I don't." Sandford also said he will be seeking revenge against Alabama Gov. George Wallace, who defeated him soundly in North Carolina's 1972 primary. He said he thinks there is a "50-50 chance" that Wallace will hold back as a third party candidate "if he runs at all."

Ceremony Was By A Janitor

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The young couple from Indiana were an hour late for their marriage appointment with a judge. It was 6 p.m. and no other judges could be found in the Hennepin County Government Center. James Craig, 21, and Kathleen Michaels, 18, had to be back in Cedar Lake, Ind., by Monday and they wanted time for a honeymoon. The janitor who was cleaning the courtroom was asked where the couple could find the nearest minister. "Right here," said the Rev. Tom Byrtus, who is working as a janitor to finance his studies for a master's degree at Bethel College and Seminary. He explained that he was an ordained minister with the Assemblies of God Church and was a pastor for 10 years in Marshall, Minn., before quitting two years ago to pursue a graduate degree. The janitor said he was asked to perform the ceremony, but explained that he had never married a couple before first counseling them. So they waited until his 8:30 p.m. lunch break, then he went outside and talked with the couple in their car. The wedding ceremony was then performed Friday night on the steps of the 24-story building in downtown Minneapolis. The Rev. Mr. Byrtus said he found two janitors to act as witnesses. "It was a simple, beautiful ceremony," the minister-janitor said Monday.

Two Jailed In Homicide

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — Two North Carolina men have been jailed under bond of $10,000 each on charges of criminal sale of dangerous drugs and negligent homicide in the drowning of a 16-year-old youth from Bozeman. They are Robert M. Johnson, 28, of Raleigh, and John Vincent Currie, 24, of Southern Pines. The complaint alleges that last Tuesday they sold chloral hydrate to Jeff Fahrenbruch and another 16-year-old from Bozeman, James Wellcome, who were camping in the the Lava Lake area, 25 miles from Bozeman. Authorities said the negligent homicide count was filed because Fahrenbruch was under the influence of an hallucinogenic drug when he drowned in the lake Wednesday, and the North Carolinians allegedly also supplied him with that drug. Divers recovered Fahrenbruch's body Saturday in 20 feet of water. Johnson and Currie were arraigned Monday in state District Court. They were placed under bond, and arraignments were continued until next Monday.

Anti-Communist Mobs Turning Violent In Northern Portugal

By FENTON WHEELER
Associated Press Writer
LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Anti-Communist mobs rampaged in northern Portugal today, defying tear gas, warning shots by troops and an appeal from the nation's leftist military leaders for a return to order.

The Revolutionary Council, the 30-man military body running the country, also heard reports on fighting in Portugal's West African colony of Angola and of new anti-government unrest in the Azores islands in the mid-Atlantic. The domestic violence erupted first in the northern town of Acozca, where they hurled files, books and papers from the windows of a Communist party headquarters and set them on fire. Newsmen on the scene said one man was brutally beaten in the street before soldiers put him in an ambulance.

In the nearby town of Lourinha, about 500 persons menaced two Communists trapped inside a nationalized bank before troops escorted them to safety. A bomb destroyed a radio installation at the town of Vilar Fomoso.

Brown Pelican Seeing Comeback From DDT

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The office of venerable biologist Carl Hubbs sits at the edge of the Pacific where Hubbs is overjoyed by what he sees through the window: a slow comeback of the California brown pelican. When the species almost died out because of the pesticide DDT, only adult pelicans were winging by Hubbs' office at the Scripps Institution of Oceanography. Now, the 80-year-old scientist says: "I've seen hundreds of them, and there are lots of young out there, too." It was only five years ago that the hollow-boned, bandy-legged bird that skims the ocean like a hovercraft seemed to be dipping close to extinction. DDT washed into the ocean worked its way into the marine food chain. The pelicans ate DDT-contaminated fish. The pesticide interfered with the birds' calcium metabolism, scientists said. The result: the birds began laying thin-shelled eggs that collapsed under the weight of nesting adults. In 1970, a single bird was born in the major breeding colonies located on the San Benito Islands off the Baja California coast, 300 miles south of San Diego, and on Anacapa Islands off Ventura County. No more than five were hatched that year on the Coronado Islands a few miles south of the U.S.-Mexican line. Because of the soft-shell syndrome and other effects of DDT, the pesticide was banned in June 1972. What has happened since has been encouraging. The Coronados produced at least 1,200 young pelicans last year, although Dr. Joseph Jehl of the San Diego Natural History Museum says nearly one-third of the eggs were too thin-shelled to hatch. DDT presumably was still the cause, Jehl said. "We can only presume that the shell-thinning observed this year was due to the residual toxic effects in some birds," Jehl said.

"I think this may be an additional demonstration that these birds are an excellent monitor of the environment. ... We are cautiously optimistic about the status of our pelican population." But in Louisiana the news on the brown pelican is disheartening. Officials say that almost 80 per cent of the state's brown pelicans have been wiped out in the last two months by pesticides. "It look like we are down to 100 birds from a restocked population of more than 500," said J. Burton Angelle, director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission. He said lab tests showed that the pelicans were killed by eight pesticides, most of them used in agriculture. All the dead had lethal amounts of a potent pesticide called Endrin, used to kill insects. He said he fears the survivors are also infected with the poison. The brown pelican once numbered in the thousands in the state and is the state bird.

Indicted In Grain Probe

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Federal officials say they are continuing their probe of the export grain industry after the return of indictments naming the Bunge Corp. of New York and 13 present and former executives. Sources said further federal indictments are likely to result from the two-year investigation. The indictment returned Monday charges that Bunge employees stole more than $1.8 million in export grain by misgrading it or short-weighting it at elevators in Destrehan, La., and Galveston, Tex. Bunge is one of the world's largest grain exporters. Among those named in the indictment are Walton F. Mulley, vice president in charge of Bunge's Kansas City, Mo., office; and Clayton F. Wilcox of Hinsdale, Ill., assistant vice president and regional manager at Bunge's St. Louis and Destrehan offices. They and the others are accused of conspiring "among themselves and with other unnamed parties to embezzle, steal and convert to themselves large quantities of grain from ships that were to transport the grain to foreign ports during the 12 years covered by the indictment." It said 857,449 bushels of corn, wheat, soybeans and sorghum valued at $1.5 million were sold in 33 fictitious sales between 1965 and 1970 alone. It also said short-weighting occurred when Bunge officials manipulated elevator scales during loading, then issued false weight certificates and falsified records. In addition to theft, the defendants are charged with defrauding the United States by evading federal supervision of the elevators and failing to maintain true records. Maximum punishment on conviction for the individuals named in the indictment would be five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Heavy Damage In Three-Car Collision Case

A collision involving three cars at the intersection of Cotanche and E. Third Streets Monday morning caused $1450 in estimated damage, according to Greenville Police reports. Cars driven by Lorenzo Gaston Catlett of 200 John Ave. and Betty Neal Credle of 1912 E. Eighth St. collided, hitting a third car. Damage was estimated at $800 to Catlett's car, $400 to the parked car and $250 to Credle's auto. Both drivers were charged in the mishap. Catlett was charged with a failure to decrease speed at an intersection and Mrs. Credle was charged with a stop light violation. An accident at the intersection of Tenth and Washington Streets Monday night involved cars driven by Viola Harris Brown, Rt. 4 Box 40 and Carlin Tatum, Rt. 6 Box 330 A. Police estimated damage at $600 to Tatum's vehicle and $50 to the Brown car. Brown was charged with a safe movement violation.

Cher, Allman Have Meeting

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Singer Cher and musician Greg Allman have left on separate flights after spending 4½ days together in suburban West Seneca. A law firm representing Allman arranged the secluded accommodations, and a lawyer called the meeting a "very personal encounter." The lawyer added, however, that the meeting may not have changed the status of Cher's California divorce suit citing irreconcilable differences with Allman, who is with the Allman Brothers band. Cher, who filed for divorce only nine days after the couple's wedding, flew to Los Angeles Monday to resume work on her TV show.

Leftist parties in the Azores, including the Communists, called for the dismissal of the area's military commander, Gen. Altino Pinto Magalhaes. The general has been in charge of a governmental junta to give the islands more home rule. The leftist demands, however, were considered insignificant since the left is believed to represent less than 4 per cent of the islands' population.

Couple Weds In Double Grades Show Teens Are Living Under A Bad Influence

The Philippi Christian Church was the scene of the candlelight wedding ceremony of Miss Teer Cherry and James Clarence Harris Saturday at 4:30 p.m. The double ring ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Elbert Williams.

A program of wedding music was presented by Roger Ingram, organist, and Mrs. Ella Harris, soloist, who sang "Because," "O Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Cherry of Greenville. The bridegroom is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Harris of Greenville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown of white organza over taffeta designed with a high neckline encircled with white floral Venise lace and ruffled organza. The bodice featured a sheer yoke edged in the floral lace. The full Bishop sleeves were styled with fitted cuffs edged in lace and ruffled organza. The empire waistline was enhanced by the Venise lace. The flared skirt and attached chapel train featured a border of romance blue underskirt banded in the Venise lace.

She wore a bouffant veil in blue and white illusion held in place by a Camelot headpiece trimmed in floral Venise lace over romance blue to match her gown and beaded in pearls. She carried a semi-cascade bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids and miniature carnations accented with pink miniature carnations.

Miss Anita Ebron of Greenville was maid of honor. She wore a formal length paly blue dress with princess seamed skirt with set in bell style elbow length sleeves. The high round neckline with stand up collar was trimmed in white daisies cross and around the waistline. She carried a semi-colonial bouquet of miniature carnations, daisies embedded, in clouds of baby's breath tied with rainbow satin and long streamers.

Bridesmaids were Michele McDowell, Josette Daniels, Jackie Ferebee and Sheena Teel, all of Greenville.

The bridesmaids wore formal length gowns of baby blue fashioned identical to that of the honored attendant with matching headpieces. They also carried bouquets similar to that of the honor attendant.

The flower girls were Miss Tonya Moore and Miss Gwen Moore, both of Greenville, cousins of the bride. They wore formal length white V-shaped neckline polyester dresses with ruffle short puff sleeves. The dresses featured picot edging and lace fabrics over the front section with blue and white ribbons in their hair. Montez Boyd of Greenville was ring bearer.

The best man was Johnny Harris of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom, and ushers were Kenny Cherry, brother of the bride, Calvin Moore, cousin of the bride, Kelvin Dickens and Larry Staton, all of Greenville.

The mother of the bride wore a formal length sleeveless gown of sky blue knit designed with an open V-neckline outlined in tiny pearls.

Seated on the bridegroom's side was Mrs. Doris Hansley, who wore a mint green two-piece ensemble with lace jacket. Mrs. Cherry wore a white carnation corsage while Mrs. Hansley wore a yellow carnation corsage. The grandmothers were remembered with white carnation corsages.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. W. Jasper Harris of Greenville.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride changed into a polyester peach color midi dress and an orchid corsage lifted from her bouquet. The couple will reside in Greensboro.

The bride is a senior at J. H. Rose High School. The bridegroom is a grauate of J. H. Rose High School and is presently employed by Voice of America.

A wedding breakfast was given by Mrs. W. D. Small and Mrs. J. E. Gatlin at the home of Mrs. Small for the bridal party, relatives and out-of-town guests.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church given by the bride's parents. Mrs. William Moore presided at the register.

Mrs. Aaron Shambley introduced the receiving line.

Miss Ruby Jean Moore poured punch. After the first traditional slice of cake was cut, the cake was served by Mrs. Cornelius Williams, aunt of the bride. Mrs. Ruby Taylor assisted at the refreshment table. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cherry.

Good-byes were said by Mrs. Clara Cherry and Zeno Moore Sr.

DEAR ABBY: I have two teenagers, ages 14 and 16. Their father and I divorced five years ago and both remarried. For years, the children have been begging me to let them live with their father because they felt that their stepfather and I were too strict. Also, their real father promised them the moon.

Last year, I let them go on the condition that they keep their grades up (both were honor students) and continue their confirmation classes.

Well, they are flunking in school and have practically dropped out of confirmation class. (They also let four years of music lessons go down the drain.)

I know they prefer living with their father because he doesn't discipline them at all. When they came home, my daughter had so much makeup on I didn't recognize her.

Should I let them go back with their father, or should I insist that they stay with me until they finish high school? My husband has been a wonderful stepfather, although they never showed him the proper respect. He is willing to have them back if I say so.

I know it will be difficult if they return, but I hate to see them ruin their lives because I know they will regret it later. Please advise me.

MOM

DEAR MOM: Bring them home. Their grades are sufficient evidence to justify it. These are important years. They desperately need a firm hand, guidance and discipline. They'll thank you later. And if they don't, at least you'll know that you did all you could for them.

DEAR ABBY: What is the correct way to address a letter to a lady whose husband has just died? Also, how does one address a woman whose husband has been dead for several years?

D.S.

DEAR D.S.: A widow is always addressed as "Mrs. John Jones" — regardless of how long John has been dead.

DEAR ABBY: I could not leave unanswered your reply to "Nameless," whose wife made several suicide attempts. My mother died a natural death two years ago. My father died last month at 73 of carbon-monoxide poisoning.

I am proud to say that he finished the last page of his long "note" on the night before he died, after dictating it to his best friend. On Sunday morning, my two daughters and I arrived at his home for a lunch date to find the sheriff and coroner there.

My family will bear its share of guilt for not preventing his death — each in his and her own way. But I say, "Greater love hath no man."

He did not want to live on as a vegetable; he left a six-page letter of explanation in lovely, lucid English. I miss both my parents. But I honor their memory in the only way I know: I share their love with all other living things. That is their legacy to me. And if I am lucky, my three children will share this love with the family of man. You may use my name.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Remember when children were being prodded into intellectual pursuits, such as piano and ballet?

Well, they're still being prodded, but nowadays it's activities like baton twirling and modeling. A school in the south is taking children as young as 2-1/2 years and-or whenever they are potty trained. (I can see a kid sit on his baton and have it rust, but why would you have to be toilet trained to model?)

As I read the story, I said to my mother, "You see, here's a mother of a 10-year-old baton twirler who attacked a judge with her daughter's baton when the girl lost a contest. Had you been a little more aggressive, I might have been dancing today with Nureyev."

"You've got to be kidding," she said.

"A performer is only as forceful as her mother. I always say. Don't you think Shirley Temple had bad days when she cried, 'Please Mom, do I have to dance anymore?' I just want to grow up and be ambassador to Ghana. But her mother said, 'Shut up, Shirley, and shuffle.' She became a star!"

"As I remember," said Mother. "I enrolled you in a dance class in the hopes of in-roducing you to poise and grace."

"So I was shy and didn't like meeting new people."

"Face it! You were an awkward child."

"That's not true," I said. "I danced Swan Lake when I was 11."

"With all the grace of a wounded buffalo."

"Are you saying that I could not have excelled in baton twirling?"

"I am saying you were 15 before you could hand-feed yourself properly."

"Stars are not born, they are molded by mothers who refuse to accept defeat. Why do you think Gloria Connors attends every tennis match Jimmy plays in?"

"To carry chewing gum."

"You gave up on me, Mother."

The talent was there just waiting to be nudged. Do you remember that talent show I entered at the PTA Follies where I sang, 'It's Only a Paper Moon'? When I lost, you should have personally grabbed the judge by the throat and made him change his decision in my favor."

"I couldn't do that," she said. "The judge was your father."

Some mothers just don't have the makings of a star.

Place a 4-pound beef pot roast (preferably a cut that is slightly marbled with fat) in a 4-quart casserole; add 2 cups water, a medium onion stuck with 4 cloves, 2 large ribs celery (pared and sliced), 6 sprigs parsley, 2 bay leaves and 1/4 teaspoon dried thyme. Cover tightly and bake in a 325-degree oven until meat is so tender that a fork inserted in the center will twist easily — 2 1/2 to 3 hours. Remove beef and chill. Strain stock and chill. (Discard bay leaves; vegetables may be pureed in an electric blender and used in a soup.) Cut away fat from outside of beef; slice thin. Remove hardened fat from broth — use the amount of broth called for in the Marinade below and freeze remainder for some other use. Spread a little of the Marinade in a shallow utensil — we used a 14 by 8 1/2 by 2 inch baking pan of porcelainized iron; add layers of the beef, spreading each slice with a little of the Marinade. Cover and chill for 8 to 12 hours; using a large fork and spoon turn beef slices, a batch at a time, once during this period. Let stand at room temperature about 1 hour before serving, then arrange on a large platter and sprinkle copiously with minced parsley; surround with lettuce, cherry tomatoes (2 baskets) and 2 cucumbers (pared, scored and sliced thin). Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Marinade: Beat together 1/2 cup olive oil, 1/4 cup red wine vinegar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/8 teaspoon white pepper and 1/2 cup of the clear fat-free beef broth; add a very large clove of garlic (peeled and smashed); cover tightly and refrigerate while beef and stock are chilling. Remove garlic before using.

'Goofer Dust' Has Believers

By GENE PRICE
Editor

Goldsboro News—Argus

That "goofer dust" story out of Raleigh recently is a signal that the practice of witchcraft is not dead.

A defendant in a Raleigh court case sprinkled strange black dust on the judge's table and also sprinkled some along the hall between his chambers and the bench.

"Goofer dust" is supposed to be taken from a graveyard and its use, suspicion holds, puts a hex on its victim.

There was a celebrated case of goofer dust being used in the courtroom up in Elizabeth City 30 years or so ago.

The defendant in that case had been charged with trespassing. But it wasn't a simple case of trespassing. This woman was accused of putting "fire" in the collards and salad greens of her neighbors' gardens.

A police captain was explaining to the court the complaints he had received from the neighborhood.

"The neighbors brought some salad greens to the police station and said they had 'fire' in them," explained the captain.

He then related that he put them in a pot on a small stove in the back of the station.

"What happened?" asked the prosecutor.

Everyone was on the edge of his seat.

"Sparks flew out of them," declared the veteran police officer.

The old woman on trial glared at the courtroom filled with her neighbors who not only had brought charges but had gone to the expense of hiring a special prosecutor.

The court took a recess.

When it reconvened, a circle of black dust surrounded the judge's bench and the jury box.

"Goofer dust!" The word spread like wildfire around the courtroom.

The judge and the prosecutors shrugged it off and continued with the trial.

But the jury found the old witch woman not guilty.

And the courtroom was cleared of her neighbors in seconds.

Foreign Policy Critic

By MARTIN MERZER
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany has renewed his attack on the administration's economic and foreign policies, saying President Ford and much of Congress is "running scared" in the face of the recession and the Russians.

"No matter what the administration economists pronounce ... (high) unemployment will continue for the rest of this decade unless strong actions are taken, and taken immediately," Meany told 350 delegates to the International Longshoremen's Association convention here Monday.

Meany said the administration seems to be "determined to make its intolerably high unemployment predictions come true."

"The idea that the federal government would impose a tight budget strait jacket on itself in the face of the most serious unemployment is absolutely ridiculous. Those who say otherwise — the President and the majority in the Congress — have no faith in America."

"They run scared, and at a moment when America needs bold, courageous leadership."

Meanwhile, ILA President Thomas W. Gleason predicted that the delegates, representing 132,000 Canadian and American dock workers on the East and Gulf coasts, would approve a resolution that members refuse to load Canadian and American grain aboard ships bound for the Soviet Union.

Meany said he didn't know all the details, but "if the union votes that way, I would support it."

Administration officials have said that selling millions of tons of U.S. grain to Russia would not raise prices for American consumers.

But Meany said, "Why should we sell them wheat at all? This is an act of cooperation to help them out, but I'd like to see a two-way street."

Secretary of Labor John T. Dunlop, also here to address the ILA convention, refused

Slow Returning To Roads

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—July is come, and high gone.

How many prisoners are there working alongside North Carolina's highways, picking up litter, cutting grass, cleaning out ditches, repairing signs?

"Zero," grunts Department of Transportation Secretary Jacob F. Alexander.

The General Assembly passed a law saying put the prisoners back to work on the roads, effective July 1, 1975.

Lots of people said that was good; it would get the litter and weeds cleaned up, save money, and give prisoners who have been grousing about the lack of anything to have something to do.

But it is not all that simple in the Raleigh bureaucracy.

No Money

First, there's the matter of money. Legislators didn't appropriate any money, and the Department of Corrections is aiming at paying the prisoners one dollar per day for the work.

That, says Corrections Secretary David L. Jones, would take a million dollars per year.

Some quick arithmetic gives one pause at that figure. Taking 260 working days per year (even prisoners get holidays and weekends), one million dollars comes out to 3,846 prisoners.

But Jones and State Rep. Graham Bell, D-Gaston County, who sponsored the roadwork legislation, agreed that 1,000 prisoners would be used on the roads.

"We can scrape up $250,000 from highway funds," says Alexander. "But Jones wants us to pay a dollar for prisoners working in other places... not on the highways."

"We're short of funds. We don't have money to pay for non-highway labor."

The quarter-million,

Alexander argues, would cover the 1,000 prisoners he figures could be used profitably on road work.

The alternatives are two: —Alexander and Jones could work out an agreement whereby only prisoners needed on the roads would be sued, and the Department of Transportation would pay just for that;

—Both departments could wait until the General Assembly returns for a session next May, get the million dollars for all public service work for inmates, then put some on the road.

Long Delay

That second course is probably the one to be followed. Alexander and Jones are talking over the situation, but communications between their bureaucratic underlings has been severed.

"But no decision has been made... and the earliest could be next spring," Alexander confesses.

Meanwhile, there's the problem of transportation. It costs money to run buses to carry the prisoners. Prisons have buses but Transportation doesn't. Still, who will pay for the gas?

Finally, many highway people across the state still remember when prisoners worked on chain gangs, under the gun. Supervisors in the field fear without such restraint there will be escapes; trouble. Also, some supervisors feel inmates won't do the work assigned properly.

"That's all true," Alexander said. "Our people don't want them... but taking them is part of the job. The assembly says do it, and we will."

"Many have the attitude they'd rather not be bothered, and some wonder how much the prison labor will be worth. "We figure," Alexander said with a tight grin, "We'll get a dollar's worth of work out of them each day."

The INSIDE REPORT

Special Limbo For Rocky

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—A backstage effort among conservative Republican politicians to solve President Ford's most nagging party problem by an early designation of Vice President Rockefeller to become Secretary of State following the 1976 election has run into an immovable barrier: the opposition of Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller.

Rockefeller tells intimates he has only one ambition at age 67: to help President Ford help the country. The vice presidency, he feels, is the only vehicle for doing that. Since Rockefeller's enthusiastic collaboration is essential to the success of any plan to move him into Dr. Henry Kissinger's seventh floor suite in the State Department in January 1977, the plan is aborted.

That condemns Rockefeller to months of political limbo. With Ronald Reagan increasingly committed to challenge Mr. Ford, the temptation to dump Rockefeller to entice conservatives becomes partially balanced by outrage from the Republican left. Rejecting the Secretary of State escape route, Rockefeller now enters an uneasy period of non-acceptance and non-rejection as the Ford-Reagan confrontation looms.

That became clear when Howard H. (Bo) Callaway, Mr. Ford's campaign manager, slipped into the Vice President's office for a private chat Tuesday with some reassurances which scarcely seemed reassuring. He informed Rockefeller that the vice presidential nomination was farthest from his mind and from his assignment: to get Gerald R. Ford nominated for President with the least possible hassle from Ronald Reagan or anyone else.

He regretted headlines following his press conference July 9 calling Rockefeller a "liability" to Mr. Ford's nomination. He had intended to make simple point: second place on the Ford ticket was far beyond his jurisdiction or personal feelings.

There was, of course, not the remotest hint of Rockefeller becoming Secretary of State. However, just such an option was suggested to Callaway by a key Republican seeking a solution to the "Rockefeller problem." Callaway, like some other party leaders, was interested.

Quiet talk along those lines started with conservative, pro-Ford Republicans looking for some way to strengthen his pre-convention hand by giving him total flexibility in picking a running-mate, hoping for these results:

First, taking the wind out of Reagan's presidential sail. "Half the Reaganites would probably instantly move to Ford if Rockefeller wasn't in the picture," one uncommitted conservative Republican told us.

Second, putting the vice presidential gleam in countless eyes of ambitious Republicans who, to enhance their own prospects, would embrace Mr. Ford.

These Republican conservatives theorize Rockefeller would genuinely have to want some other job, and the only other job that would offer full sway to his energy and talents would be Secretary of State. But with Rockefeller opposed, Callaway's campaign to woo conservative Republicans who might join Reagan only because of the "Rockefeller problem" becomes a semantical juggle.

That's because the President ordered press secretary Ron Nessen to announce June 16 that "the President will be for Nelson Rockefeller for the nomination," adding the sop that "the delegates will make the decision."

Thus, Mr. Ford is stuck with a personal commitment to Rockefeller. No matter how many times Callaway and other presidential operatives claim Mr. Ford's neutrality and declare an open convention for the second spot, Reagan backers can point to that presidential commitment.

Meanwhile, Callaway's frenzy to widen the gap between the President and Rockefeller threatens an explosion not from Rockefeller but from Republican liberals and moderates—as witness the attitude of Rep. Margaret Heckler of Massachusetts, a longtime Rockefeller backer.

A Nat'l Appeals Court?

The U. S. Supreme Court is in recess now, preparing for the new term that will start in October, and the cool marble halls offer little but long lines of respectful tourists. It is a good time to review last month's proposal for a National Court of Appeals.

The proposal came from a special study commission headed by Sen. Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska. The commission concluded that the present case load on the Supreme Court already is too large to be handled desirably. As the country grows, and new acts of Congress create new litigation, the load is certain to get still more unmanageable. It would be wiser to act now, in the commission's view, than to wait until a crisis develops.

Some relief could be afforded by modest measures: Congress could modify certain rules of appellate procedure, or Congress could create specialized "little Supreme Courts" in such fields as tax law and patent law. The Hruska commission believes the growing problem is too serious for such temporizing.

The commission therefore recommended an entirely new court, to consist of seven judges nominated and confirmed as the Constitution provides. For the most part, the National Court of Appeals would act upon cases referred by the Supreme Court after the high court, for one reason or another, had declined to hear them. The new court would thus act in perhaps 150 cases a year that would not otherwise have a nationally binding review.

As a general proposition, with some specific reservations, the commission's proposal has the support of Chief Justice Burger and Justices White, Blackmun, Powell and Rehnquist. Justice Douglas sees "no need" for such a court. Justice Brennan remains "completely unpersuaded." Justice Stewart is "not convinced." Justice Marshall believes a new court is "overly strong medicine." The high court itself is thus divided 5-4, a not unfamiliar condition.

I can speak only as a non-lawyer who has followed the Supreme Court for many years, in varying moods of admiration, dismay, delight and outrage — but always with affection. My own impression, for what it may be worth, is that the Court needs help. The proposed National Court of Appeals would provide such help. I'm for it.

Twenty-five years ago, about 1,200 cases were filed in the Supreme Court. Now the number annually exceeds 4,000. Yet the Court cannot hear and decide more than some 150 cases a year. Scores of cases that once would have justified full review have to be declined; meanwhile, in

Other Editors Say Over-Reacting

(Raleigh News & Observer)

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is making a ridiculously big deal out of a possible meeting between President Ford and exiled Russian author Alexander Solzhenitsyn. What ought to be a matter of routine, apolitical White House courtesy is being made by Kissinger to seem the ideological clash of the century, at the very least.

Solzhenitsyn and the Ford administration are a twain that likely will never meet on the issue of how to approach Moscow. Out of personal experience, the author has good reason to be critical of accommodation. Out of a different kind of experience, the White House has good reason to pursue detente in preference to the Cold War.

The author is in position to make strict moral judgments about whatever goes on inside Russia; he has to speak only for himself. The Ford administration, charged with conducting this nation's foreign policy, cannot afford the same luxury.

All of that is quite apparent here, and it undoubtedly is in Moscow too. But Kissinger appears to think that if Ford had Solzhenitsyn to the White House for a chat and a cup of tea, the meeting would set off a charge heard 'round the world and the Kremlin would practically go haywire.

"I believe that if his views became the national policy of the United States we could be confronted with considerable threat of military conflict," said Kissinger about Solzhenitsyn on Wednesday. But if Ford received Solzhenitsyn, it would be for the purpose of extending official courtesy to a great writer, not of reshaping U. S. policy toward Russia. Ford has received a great array of people without taking ideological orders from them.

The comrades in the Kremlin are reputed to be a dour bunch, but they are probably getting some chuckles out of the flap over Solzhenitsyn. Indeed it is rather humorous to suppose, while Apollo and Soyuz connect and East-West wheat deals are cooking, that detente is so shaky it couldn't survive a simple social occasion.

Basis For Forecasting Upturn

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A rationale for forecasting an upturn in the economy is contained in the soaring personal income and personal savings figures for June, although you'll still find many people with a "show me" attitude.

Spurred by lower income tax withholding and by tax rebates, both figures indicate that consumers now are in a position to go out and buy houses and cars and other big ticket items.

Disposable personal income — after tax income — jumped $63.3 billion in the second quarter, or nearly 10 times the increase that had occurred during the first three months of the year.

Savings soared to an annual rate of $114.6 billion, which meant consumers were able to put away an astounding 10.6 per cent of their disposable income. It was the highest savings rate in 29 years.

A perspective on that level of savings is obtained by comparing it with the rate for other years. During the past 25 years, for instance, the U.S. rate has ranged between 4.9 per cent and 8.1 per cent.

In the view of many economists, including some in Washington, the high level of savings means that the consumer is poised for a buying assault that soon will bring the range back to "normal" levels.

Others point out, however, that the figures also mean the consumer hasn't been buying, although he is in a position to do so. Houses, autos and many retail items remain unsold.

The truth is that nobody can say with certainty just what a high level of savings means. Only a study of consumer psychology, of the mental disposition of consumers, gives even a hint.

As the dean of consumer psychologists, George Katona, observes, a buying situation is created only when consumers have both the ability and the willingness to spend. It isn't enough to have money; you must have the mood too.

The mood of many Americans is one of insecurity, it seems safe to say. The jobless rate is extremely high. Inflation, while coming under better control, is still a menace in the minds of most people.

To some observers, therefore, the high rate of savings is a measure of insecurity rather than a simple mechanical indicator of ability to buy. People could be saving for a rainy day instead of a buying binge.

In the past, a low level of personal savings often meant that people were taking a chance on the future, that they were optimistic about raises, that they felt financially secure. They were willing to commit themselves.

The current, extraordinarily high rate for the United States bears close watching over the next month or two. If it remains high it could mean that a high level of insecurity has developed in the country.

And if this is so, those optimistic forecasts for rebounds in housing and autos, which most economists feel are necessary for the ascent out of recession, might be a long time in being fulfilled.

—James Kyle

TRUSTING THE UNTRUSTWORTHY

To trust a person, especially if he or she is generally conceded to be unworthy of trust, is one of the surest ways of arousing a sense of moral responsibility. It is easy to trust the reliable; it takes faith to trust a person morally unstable, reputedly dishonest, or careless and indifferent. But if we only knew it, there are thousands of people who need to have someone put confidence in them to give purpose and direction to their lives.

We can never help anyone—especially our children—until we trust them. It is a great grief to us when they fail. But think of what a shock it is to them suddenly to be confronted by distrust and dislike from their own parents.

We may have to take considerable chances when we trust people, but these chances are worth taking. What we may lose if we do is very little when compared with the lost opportunity to change a character for the better if we decide to play it safe and withhold our trust and confidence.

Probing CIA Decision Not To Prosecute 9 Cases

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Central Intelligence Agency decided not to prosecute nine cases of lawbreaking by its employees for fear of disclosing secrets, CIA officials have told Congress.

Rep. Bella S. Abzug, D-N.Y., called a hearing today to find out more about the nine cases and the agreement between the CIA and the Justice Department that empowered the CIA to decide for itself when to prosecute employees' wrongdoing.

In another investigation, the new chairman of the Select House Intelligence Committee says he wants to focus first on whether U.S. intelligence money is being properly spent.

Chairman Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., said he hopes to begin hearings within two weeks on "how much money is spent over-all and who makes the decisions where it is spent and how it is spent."

Meanwhile, there were these developments:

—The Washington Post reported today that congressional investigators have received information that on the day President John F. Kennedy was killed, the CIA was making arrangements in Paris for a plot to assassinate Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963. One unidentified source cited by the Post said on the same day the CIA was passing guns "and, I think, poison" to an anti-Castro "hit man" in Paris.

The sources did not say how far this particular plot against Castro was carried, according to the Post.

Some investigating the CIA have developed the theory that Lee Harvey Oswald, identified by the Warren Commission as Kennedy's sole assassin, may have acted as a Cuban agent, presumably to retaliate for U.S.-sponsored plots against Castro.

—When Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., noted Sunday that a news story published in September 1963, just two months before Kennedy was killed, quoted Castro as threatening to retaliate if there were attempts on the lives of Cuban leaders, he apparently was referring to a Sept. 7, 1963, Associated Press dispatch from Havana.

That article quoted Castro as saying that if "United States leaders ... are aiding terrorist plans to eliminate Cuban leaders, they themselves will not be safe."

—Former Kennedy aide Theodore Sorensen said that, as far as he knew, President Kennedy was never involved in plans to kill foreign leaders. Other Kennedy aides have made similar statements.

Rep. Abzug released a letter Monday in which the CIA said it has found 30 cases of alleged illegal activity by its employees since the 1954 agreement with the Justice Department.

CIA legislative counsel George L. Cary said 19 were referred to the Justice Department for possible prosecution and two to another government agency and the remaining were dropped.

Money Machine In Supermarket Test

MEMPHIS (AP)—Grocery shoppers may soon withdraw money to pay for their purchases without leaving the supermarket.

Money machines are being installed by First National Bank in Memphis supermarkets. Shoppers will be able to withdraw a plastic package containing $25 in bills, which will be deducted from the customer's account.

Brandon Davis, a First National vice president, said the machine installed in a Memphis supermarket last week is the first of its type in Tennessee and one of the first in the South.

A bank in Jackson, Miss., has installed a similar machine in a supermarket, but there are some technical differences in the machines, he said.

Earlier automatic teller devices permit customers to withdraw funds, but they are not tied directly into the bank's computer.

First National's automatic teller machines, each costing about $20,000, are connected to the bank's central computer, permitting instantaneous readouts showing the customer's account balance.

Davis said installation of the automatic tellers means bank customers can have access to their money at any time of the day.

order to resolve inter-circuit conflicts or to hear "appeals of right," the Court must accept many cases not worth its time.

The troublesome problem of inter-circuit conflicts will not get better. Given the complexity of tax law (and other regulatory law), it will only get worse. Some 40 or 50 serious conflicts develop every year, when one federal circuit interprets a statute in one way, and another circuit rules in precisely the opposite way. In conflicts of no great magnitude, the proposed National Court of Appeals could provide a single authoritative decision.

Creation of a new mini-Supreme Court might improve the quality of the high court's output. This is a subjective judgment, no more than one man's impression, but I risk it anyhow: The quality of this Court's work is not high. Granted, the law is not literature, and judicial opinions are not meant for summer reading. Even so, many of the Court's opinions are turgid, verbose, and yawningly dull. If the recent term produced a single memorable phrase, the phrase escapes memory. With the deaths of Frankfurter, Black and Harlan, and the decline of Douglas, the Court lost its writers; only lawyers sit there now, and lawyers, as a class, write almost as murkily as theologians or chemists. Feeding on the Court's tough paragraphs, one hungers for John Marshall's lucid line.

The nine members of the Court must be given time for study, for reflection, for the exercise of unhurried reason. Freed of intolerable pressures, the Court might not have handed down so poor a piece of law as it rendered in the abortion case. Backstopped by a National Court of Appeals, the Court might concentrate to better effect upon the truly great cases that it alone must decide.

Creation of the proposed new court presents obvious political problems. A Democratic Congress doubtless would be cool to the idea of a Republican President's nominating seven judges to sit high on Olympus. But that difficulty could be resolved by prudent negotiation, and the new court could be brought into being. Balancing one thing against another, it's worth a try.

Staging Annual N.Y. Pageant

PALMYRA, N.Y.—The 38th anniversary production of the outdoor Hill Cumorah Pageant, staged by The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormons) will be presented July 25 through Aug. 2.

The pageant is based on the Bible and the Book of Mormon and features a cast of more than 600 volunteer performers, who present the show nightly at nine o'clock except Sunday and Monday.

Republican Campaign Committee, in the crowded Senate office building caucus room during Alexander Solzhenitsyn's reception last Tuesday, Mrs. Heckler burst out: "You'd better be careful on Rocky. Don't do anything to him or you will inflame a large percentage of the Republican party."

So far, Rockefeller has kept himself well above the battle. He is now filling out the calendar for a killing campaign-speaking schedule this fall, all for Mr. Ford. He will continue to say that he is not a candidate next year, that no one "runs" for Vice President, and that Jerry Ford will do the choosing at the convention.

On the surface, then, he is relaxed and confident with the President's personal endorsement in his pocket. In fact, he is in limbo, in the eye of a political storm beyond his control. If Reagan wins an early primary or two, conservative pressure on the President to denounce Rockefeller might become irresistible. More than all the President's liabilities put together, it is Rockefeller whom the dominant conservative wing of the party insensibly regard as their hated enemy.

Thai Border Residents Find A New Profession

ARANYAPRATHET, Thailand (AP) — Residents of this tiny border town have found a new profession which gives them a handsome income: selling gasoline and diesel oil to the fuel-short Khmer Rouge.

Hundreds of persons here work around the clock shuttling back and forth to Poipet, just across the border carrying fuel in plastic bags or in the tanks of their motorcycles or cars.

They sell it to Khmer Rouge soldiers in a forest at the edge of Poipet. The Khmer Rouge know them and do not harm them.

Men, women and children buy diesel oil and gasoline for 20 cents a quart in Aranyaprathet and sell it for 50 and 45 cents, respectively. Payment is in either Thai currency or U.S. dollars, Thai border patrol policemen said.

A fuel shortage in Cambodia has been reported by refugees and by Phnom Penh radio. Widespread fuel smuggling has prompted border policemen to set up a checkpoint a mile away from the border.

Meanwhile, Saigon Radio said that the wives and mothers of some military officers of the former South Vietnamese regime have undergone "reform courses" designed to clarify "their duties in educating their husbands and sons."

The broadcast said 262 mothers and wives attended the courses in the Mekong River province of Bac Lieu during the first half of July. The policies of the Revolutionary Government were emphasized during the courses, the radio said.

Saigon Radio also announced the resumption of bus service between the old imperial capital of Hue in northern South Vietnam and Vinh in North Vietnam after an interruption of 20 years.

In Bangkok, Col. Prapat Krisanasti, commander of the naval patrol unit in north-eastern Thailand, told newsmen that Pathet Lao patrol boats fired on Thai patrol boats 20 times since the Communist takeover of Cambodia and South Vietnam in April. He said the Thai boats returned fire seven times to protect the lives of the crews and Thais living along the Mekong River. No casualties were reported.

Indira Says Liberties Impossible

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, in a speech that provoked a brief uproar from the opposition, claimed today in the lower house of Parliament that disorder stirred up by her opponents made political liberties impossible in India.

"Political liberties and political rights can exist only as long as order remains," she declared.

"Here in India democracy is evolving in a unique set of circumstances. It is a question of striking a balance, a balance between the political rights of people and the economic rights of the dejected masses."

The 57-year-old prime minister intervened on the second day of a debate on her government's request for parliamentary approval of the June 26 emergency decree that suspended civil liberties in India.

She was backed by shouting and table-slapping members of her Congress party which holds a two-thirds majority her government is counting on to push through its request. A vote is expected Wednesday.

Mrs. Gandhi, who is appealing a conviction on a charge of corrupt election practices, imposed the emergency after accusing her opponents of conspiring to oust her.

She accused opposition groups — particularly the right-wing Hindu Jana Sangh party and its paramilitary action group, the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh — of sedition and attempts to foment trouble among the people and the armed forces.

comment on the ship-loading issue.

During his speech and in a later interview, Meany also criticized U.S.-Russian detente.

"What it amounts to is a series of unilateral concessions on the part of the United States of America to the Soviet Union," Meany told the delegates.

"It seems to be the philosophy that the way to get along in the Soviet Union is to give and keep giving, and what will they give us in return? A great big goose-egg, a zero.

"To put it very bluntly, our standing (in the world) is low, and I think the reason for this is the ineptitude of the people who are in charge of our foreign policy."

Christina Onassis To Marry Greek Magnate

By PHILIP DOPOULOS
Associated Press Writer
ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Christina Onassis is planning to marry Alexander Andreadis, son of a wealthy Greek businessman, in a ceremony today that will unite two of Greece's biggest fortunes. The bridegroom's longtime girlfriend said she was "shocked" by the news.

The wedding is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. — 12:30 p.m. EDT — in a tiny chapel that holds only six persons, Andreadis family sources said. The chapel is in the garden of a priest who built it himself in the exclusive seaside suburb of Glyfada, 10 miles from Athens.

The sources said that Christina's stepmother, Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, was to fly in from the Onassis-owned Scorpis island in the Ionian Sea to be present at the wedding. She is the widow of shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis. Denise Sioris, 24, of Washington, D.C., said she had been Andreadis' girlfriend for "two years and two months to be exact. I was going with him up to a week ago."

The vivacious Miss Sioris, a Greek-American whose father is with the U.S. Foreign Service, added, "I have never talked about my relationship with Alexander in all the time I was going with him. It's time I spoke up."

Alexander, a 30-year-old bachelor-playboy who has expensive tastes like antique cars and sailboats, was eyed by many of Athens's wealthiest girls as a potential husband. Tall and husky, he has done graduate work in economics in Swiss and British universities. He is expected to play a key role in running Christina's shipping empire.

Christina, 24, inherited the bulk of her father's estimated $1 billion fortune on his death in March.

She has been married once before, in 1971 to Los Angeles real estate broker Joseph Bolker, a man more than twice her age. They were divorced nine months later.

Since then her name has been linked with her long-time companion Peter Goulandris, son of another shipping magnate, and her father reportedly begged her to marry him. But in May she said she had no such marriage plans.

In recent weeks Christina has been seen almost every night with Andreadis, dancing and dining at the Athens Hilton Hotel owned by the Andreadis family.

Andreadis, 30, is currently nearing the end of his military service in the Greek army. Stationed in Athens, he is due to be discharged in January and is expected to direct the family's shipyard, one of the country's most important. He is one of three sons of Stratis Andreadis, who controls banks and owns ships and various industries in Greece.

Since her father's death Christina has taken an active role in running his extensive business interests.

For the next few months, we'll help you build a complete set of flatware in either of the patterns pictured above while you build your savings.

All you have to do is open a PNB savings account with $25 or more, or add $25 to an existing savings account, and we'll give you a 5-piece place setting to get you started.

You'll receive a dinner knife, dinner fork, salad fork, soup spoon, and teaspoon. All free. All in the pattern of your choice.

Then, every time you add $25 more, you can add to your collection. Additional place settings and accessory pieces are available at $3.50.

About half their regular retail price. What's more, if you would rather buy the entire set now, instead of picking it up a little bit at a time, you can. Service for eight, in either pattern, (73 pieces in all) is available with a deposit of $400 or more, for $52.50.

And if you deposit $1,000 or more, the entire set, plus an elegant silverware chest, is yours for just $49.95. So take your money out of your sugar bowl, come to PNB, inspect the silverware, and start your collection and bank account at the same time.

Because in addition to beautiful tableware, we can give you something else your sugar bowl can't. The highest interest rate allowed by law.

NEW YORK (AP) — The one-two punch of inflation and interest rate worries dealt the stock market a sharp setback today.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 10.48 at 844.26, and losers outnumbered gainers by more than a 4-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Trading was moderate. As the market opened, the government reported that its consumer price index rose at a 9.6 per cent annual rate in June, double the rate recorded in the previous month.

Brokers also noted uneasiness over Federal Reserve dealings in the money market Monday which seemed to suggest that the central bank was taking another step to tighten its credit policy.

Those two developments raised fears of a new flareup of the kind of high inflation and interest rates that plagued the economy last year, analysts observed.

There were also some apparent shock waves from Xerox's announcement that it was getting out of the main frame computer business, taking an $84.4 million write off in the process. Xerox shares were down 1 1/4 at 63 3/4. Among other big-name glamor issues in the office-equipment group, IBM was off 2 1/4 at 198 3/4; Digital Equipment lost 1 1/4 to 114 1/4, and Burroughs was down 1 1/4 to 100 1/4.

Burlington Northern tumbled 5 3/4 to 30. The company omitted its quarterly dividend Monday.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was down .49 at 49.19.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index lost .90 to 94.44.

Congress Expected Kill Controls Veto

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is expected to kill President Ford's plan to end oil price controls following the President's veto of a bill that would have added more of those controls.

The House, which is unlikely to produce the two-thirds majority needed to override Ford's veto, was expected today to muster the simple majority needed to reject the administration's plan to phase out price controls on U.S. oil over a 30-month period.

Ford's plan goes into effect unless a majority vote of either the House or the Senate rejects the President's program.

Under the administration's plan, old oil — the 60 per cent of U.S. oil that now has a price ceiling of $5.25 a barrel — would gradually be allowed to rise in price until the end of the 30-month period. Then it would be free of controls and sold at world prices, which now are around $13 a barrel.

The Ford administration claims the President's plan would produce a 7-cent-a-gallon boost in gasoline prices by the end of 1977. However, some Democratic critics argue the hike would be 15 cents a gallon.

The U.S. oil that now has no price controls, so-called "new oil," would have come under an $11.25 ceiling in the bill that Ford vetoed Monday.

Ford said he vetoed the measure because it failed to encourage greater U.S. oil production and thus encouraged U.S. reliance on imported oil.

Meantime, Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb prompted speculation that a compromise was being worked out between the administration and Congress. Zarb said Monday that he met with some congressmen during the weekend and again on Monday to talk about differences on energy policy.

One congressional source later said there was talk of allowing more time for price controls to be gradually lifted. The source said a three-year period was talked about, compared with the 30 months specified in Ford's program.

Time is becoming a major factor in the energy stalemate between Congress and the administration. The existing controls on "old oil" expire Aug. 31, unless they are extended. Furthermore, Congress plans to begin a month-long recess Aug. 1.

Ford said Monday that he will veto any measure that merely extends existing price controls for six months. Such a bill was passed by the Senate and is awaiting House action.

Lunch Room Prices For City Schools Approved

Lunch room prices for the coming school year for Greenville City Schools were approved at Monday night's school board meeting.

Supt. Glenn Cox, in commenting that prices recommended are unchanged from those charged at the end of the 1974-75 school year, said "I feel we have reached the point of diminishing returns. Our primary need now is for increased participation, and I'm convinced that upping prices would drive the number of paid lunches down."

Prices approved for lunches are: Elementary lunch, 50 cents; student breakfast, 20 cents; secondary lunch, 60 cents; and adult lunch, 75 cents.

Milk prices are to be set at a later date following receipt of results of bids being let.

Also approved were prices for a number of supplementary food items. These are: Meats, hot dogs, hamburgers and sandwiches, 30 cents; French fries, 20 cents; fruits, vegetables and salads, 15 cents; soup and crackers, 25 cents; gelatin, ten cents; fruit pies, 20 cents; cake, 15 cents; ice cream, 20 cents, milk shakes, 25 cents; rolls, five cents; and sweet rolls, ten cents.

Cox stated that in food planning, "We must meet nutritional requirements and at the same time provide what children like. The two are not always compatible."

FBI Statistics Show Another Surge In Crime

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley plans to announce a new citizen crime-fighting program after the latest FBI statistics show still another 18 per cent surge in the nation's crime rate.

Kelley and Patrick Murphy, president of the Police Foundation, scheduled a joint news conference today to launch what they described as "a new program designed to involve citizens more effectively in efforts to combat crime."

Kelley reportedly initiated the program and enlisted support from the private nonprofit foundation. A major feature of the program involves community organizing efforts to protect the elderly from criminal predators, it was learned.

The FBI on Monday released the quarterly Uniform Crime Report showing an 18 per cent increase in serious crimes across the nation for the first three months of this year, compared with the same period a year ago.

The crime rate has been climbing at about the same rate for at least 18 months.

There was a 19 per cent increase recorded in the final three months of 1974. Preliminary figures for 1974 point to a full-year increase of 17 per cent in the nation's crime rate, based on the number of crimes reported to state and local law enforcement agencies in more than 7,000 jurisdictions.

Final 1974 figures are due for release in September.

Atty. Gen. Edward M. Levi said the latest increase is "one of the terrifying facts of life, which we have come to accept as normal, and which we must not accept as normal."

He said the statistics "again point up the need to improve the nation's criminal justice system."

The FBI report showed increased crime in communities of all sizes, in all sections of the country, and in all seven crime categories covered.

According to the report, the crime rate rose 21 per cent in rural areas, 19 per cent in suburbs, and 17 per cent in cities over 25,000 in population.

The crime rate was up 21 per cent in northeastern states, 17 per cent in north-central states, 20 per cent in the South, and 13 per cent in the West.

In the nation as a whole, robberies soared 28 per cent, the largest increase of any crime category. Murders were up 7 per cent, rapes 4 per cent, assaults 10 per cent, burglaries 20 per cent, larcenies 19 per cent, and motor vehicle thefts 6 per cent.

The greatest increase in any crime and population category was a 53 per cent jump in robberies in cities between 10,000 and 25,000.

There were minute, but not statistically significant, declines in rapes and motor vehicle thefts in medium-sized cities.

$85.23 Day At Farmville

FARMVILLE—The Farmville Tobacco Market yesterday averaged $85.23 per hundred pounds after selling 431,044 pounds of tobacco for $367,388.

According to Louis Williams, sales supervisor for the Farmville Tobacco Market, all firms had a full sale yesterday. The volume yesterday consisted mostly of primings and more lugs appeared on the floor than any other sales day this season.

Primings accounted for approximately 90 percent of the sales.

"Quality grades of primings sold from 95 cents to $1.02 per pound," Williams said. "Top price paid for lugs was $1.04 per pound."

So far this season, the Farmville market has sold 1,927,933 pounds of tobacco for $1,640,240, for a season average of $85.08 per hundred pounds.

'Lucky To Be Alive' In Double Bomb Explosion

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "I am just lucky to be alive," janitor Mario Lopez said after two bombs ripped through the 34th floor of a financial district building, where offices of the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms are located.

"I should not be alive now," said Lopez, who had unknowingly plucked the bombs from a container in a women's restroom in the Tishman Building on Market Street Monday night and carried them to a freight elevator.

Seconds after Lopez left the floor, the bombs exploded. The blasts buckled walls and doors, ripped acoustical tile from the ceiling and knocked an elevator out of operation, police said.

Charles Nixon, public affairs officer for the federal agency, said initial estimates placed damage at more than $250,000.

Police said the only injury was to a security guard who received a minor cut from falling debris. Five security guards were on the floor at the time.

Lopez said he was cleaning the ladies' restroom when he noticed two boxes in a waste container.

"It is my job to keep the place clean," he said. "So, I took them out and was taking them to the freight elevator to be picked up. They felt heavy, about 20 or 30 pounds.

"Then I noticed a paper taped across the top, saying 'This is a bomb. Put it down immediately and call police.'"

Lopez said he notified security guards and then with other workers went up to the 37th floor. He said the bombs went off at about 10 p.m.

Minutes before the explosions, a man identifying himself as a member of the Red Guerrilla Family called The Associated Press and said that a bomb had been planted at the Tishman Building.

The same group claimed responsibility last March for the bombing of a building in nearby Berkeley housing offices of the FBI.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — An estimated three quarters of Brazil's coffee crop has been hit by frost, meaning housewives around the world may be paying 50 per cent more for coffee by this fall.

All exports have been halted until the full damage can be assessed.

Camilo Calazans de Magalhaes, president of Brazil's Coffee Institute, said Monday that the frosts over the past week were the worst in 50 years, that trees were damaged "nearly down to their roots," and that this will affect the next two growing seasons.

"We were trying to produce as much as 28 million bags in the next (1976-77) crop, but now, with the frosts, we will be lucky if we produce 10 or 12 million bags," he said.

Brazil, the world's largest coffee producer, exported 12.1 million bags last year, more than half of it to the United States. In all, Brazil supplies a third of all world coffee sales.

There has been fierce trading on the London coffee market because of the Brazilian crisis and the price has advanced an unprecedented 62 per cent in two days. On Monday, the price for coffee to be traded in September skyrocketed $391 per metric ton, closing at $1,881.

"The Brazilian crop which has been partly destroyed is next year's, but it is present prices which are affected and it is these which manufacturers must pay to replenish existing stocks," the Financial Times of London said.

Experts of the Brazilian Rural Society estimated the 1976 coffee harvest would be only four million bags compared with 27 million in 1975.

In the first five months of 1975, Brazil exported 1.2 million bags of coffee, far below initial projections of 17 million bags by the end of the year.

Meanwhile, authorities in the flood-stricken northeastern Brazilian state of Pernambuco reported that 78 persons were confirmed dead and an estimated 60,000 were homeless.

Gen. Anabal Amaral, the interior minister's adviser on public disasters, said about 60 per cent of Recife, the capital of Pernambuco state, was flooded but that the waters have receded.

Recife and eight other municipalities have been declared disaster areas.

Accept Bid For A Truck

WINTERVILLE—The Winterville Board of Aldermen Thursday night awarded a contract to Utility Distributors, Inc., Richmond, Va., for a used bucket truck to be used by the town.

According to Town Clerk Elwood Nobles, seven bids were received. Utility Distributors did not submit the lowest bid but because of the condition of their equipment, the town board voted to accept the bid from Utility. Their bid totaled $17,300 plus sales tax.

Other companies submitting bids were: Map Enterprises, Burlington; Ken Thickstun Co., Worthington, Ohio; Baker Equipment and Engineering Company, Charlotte; Power Equipment Co., Charlotte; Line Equipment Co., Charlotte; Sumpter Builders, Inc., Sumpter, S.C.

In other business, the board agreed to pay Taylor Iron and Supply Co., estimate number four for work done on the town's water expansion project. The amount paid was $12,757.50. Taylor Co. is building the town's new water tank.

Prices of services rose seven-tenths of one per cent in June, up from two-tenths of one per cent in May, largely because of an increase in home mortgage interest rates after six consecutive months of decline, the department reported.

There also were reported large increases for natural gas, electricity, telephone service,

Pirates Get A Break Thanks To The Rain

By JOHN EVANS
Special to the Reflector

They like to joke in southeastern North Carolina about the rain cloud which seems to hang over Wilmington daily, dropping rain showers on the port city much too often.

Or at least much too often for the North Carolina Collegiate Summer League. The Wilmington rain, which has been a headache for league scheduling all summer, rained out the East Carolina-University of North Carolina at Wilmington game last night. It was the third time this season that ECU has been rained out at Wilmington.

Despite the rainout, one will have to excuse ECU coach George Williams and his club if they didn't seem disappointed about not playing last night.

The rain brought another day for the Pirates to seek a remedy for the five-game losing streak they are currently in the midst of. This streak comes after a seven-game winning streak which had elevated the Pirates into second place in the summer league standings.

That win streak was halted by UNC-Chapel Hill two weeks ago and since that time the Pirates haven't come close to winning.

Over the last two weeks, the Pirates' caliber of play has been as poor as it was great when they were winning. For example: — In the last five games, ECU has scored only four runs. During the first 15 games of the season they averaged six runs a game.

—During the present losing streak, the Pirates are batting .167 as a team. Before the slump, the Pirates were hitting .258 as a team. —No ECU batter hit a home run since July 3 when Kenny Gentry blasted two against Louisville. —The ECU pitching staff has given up 32 runs in the last five games and two pitchers are giving up four runs a game apiece.

And to make matters worse, the Pirates' leading hitter, Gentry, sprained an ankle last week while jogging. Gentry's injury has forced regular courtesy runner Stuart Haithcock into an emergency role at third base. With Gentry possibly out for the rest of the summer, conditions could get worse for the Pirates before they get better.

But all is not dismal for the Pirates, who now stand at 9-11 and in fourth place. Two bright spots are Glenn Card and Dean Reavis.

Card has gone 16-for-36 since the beginning of the month and is batting .724, second best on the team to Gentry's .338 average.

Reavis at 3-2 is the only Pirate pitcher with a winning record and his 1.88 ERA puts him second in the league.

And the rain may have helped the Pirates, who play four games in the next five games, to come to some conclusion to their problem.

Tonight the Pirates are on the road against Methodist College, before returning home to play league leader North Carolina on Wednesday night.

Martin Gets Third Strike, Thrown Out Of A Job

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Billy Martin is out of baseball.

"I don't think I can come back into baseball because my reputation precedes itself no matter where I go," said the feisty Martin, who was fired Monday by Texas Ranger majority owner Brad Corbett and replaced by former Philadelphia Manager Frank Lucchesi.

Martin, the American League Manager of the Year in 1974, was fired by the Rangers for the same reasons he was given the axe at Minnesota in 1969 and Detroit in 1973: disputes with the front office.

He said of the Rangers, "They want a winner and they want a 'yes man,' but I can't be both."

Martin brashly predicted a pennant for the Rangers in 1975 but their defense fell apart and the pitching quickly followed.

Texas was 15½ games out of first place going into Monday night's game with Boston.

"I'm happy about one thing," said Martin. "I brought Texas a winner ... I brought them a million fans and I brought them some real major league baseball."

A bitter Martin said Corbett "knows about as much about baseball as I do pipe." Corbett is in the plastic pipe manufacturing business in Fort Worth.

"Corbett is in baseball one year and all of a sudden he's a genius," added Martin, his eyes reddened by 48 sleepless hours. "I was against the Willie Davis trade all the way."

Martin said, "He (Corbett) accused me of being disloyal. Well, I might be a miserable little guy but there's one thing I'm not and that's disloyal. I'd rather be dead than be disloyal."

With one year remaining on his contract, Martin collided with the Ranger front office over the acquisition of Tom Egan, a catcher released by the California Angels.

Rangers General Manager Danny O'Brien didn't want Egan because he didn't fit into the Texas youth movement mold.

"It all happened over a petty thing," Martin said. "I wanted Egan because Faney has a bad hand and can't play."

Greenville Drops Opener In Eighth

KINSTON—Greenville's Babe Ruth All-Stars gave up a run in the bottom of the eighth on an error that cost them a game as they fell to Broadmoor-Pnieville in the state Babe Ruth tournament this morning.

Greenville have taken a 4-3 lead in the top of the eighth as Doug Selby scored on a bases-loaded walk. But three hits and an error in the bottom of the frame led to B-P's win.

Jerome Ross started on the mound for Greenville but was received in the fifth by John Coffman.

B-P took a 1-0 lead in the second. Mark Roberts led off with a single and moved to second as Butch Miller reached on a fielder's choice. Trey Safret walked and a pass to Tolly Goode forced in Roberts.

Greenville got the run back in the top of the third. Lance Weatherington was hit by a pitch and Ronnie Chapman singled. Ross reached on a fielder's choice leading the bases and a walk to Gary Allen brought in Weatherington.

and put B-P ahead scoring on Gary Barber's triple. Miller squeezed Barber across.

But Greenville bounced back to tie the game, 3-3 in the top of the next inning. Selby doubled to right and Greg Lee walked. Both were sacrificed up and a single by Chapman scored both runners.

Selby opened the eighth reaching on an error and Weatherington walked. Chapman and Coffman both walked forcing in the go-ahead run.

Curtis Wilson led off the bottom of the eighth with a single and stole second. Barber singled him home to tie the game, and a hit by Roberts moved Barber to third. But an error on Robert's hit allowed Barber to keep right on going to scored the winning run.

Greenville will play again tomorrow at 8:30 facing the winner of the Union County-District II game later today. Chapman had two of Greenville's three hits. Greenville left 11 men on base leaving them loaded three times.

Planters Bank, NCNB Get Wins

Planters Bank pushed over two runs in the top of the third and never trailed as Pepsi-Cola fell to the bankers, 5-3, and North Carolina National Bank rallied for 11 in the bottom of the fifth to beat College View 13-2.

Planters Bank is now in first place in the second-season standings at 4-0. Carolina Dairy is in second at 2-0 followed by Home Builders, 1-0, College View, 1-2, NCNB is 1-3, and Pepsi has yet to win.

In the first game, Planters spotted Pepsi a run in the first as Bob Morehead reached on a passed ball, took second on a passed ball and later scored on a sacrifice fly by Chris Keyes.

Planters took the lead for good in the second. Perry Worthington singled up the middle and James Hawkins' bunt was errored moving Worthington to second. Worthington stole third and an error on the relay back to the pitcher scored Worthington and moved Hawkins to second. Greg Gambrel got a single driving in Hawkins.

Planters made it 4-1 in the third. Chris Moyer singled and David Pettus walked. Worthington hit into a fielder's choice moving Moyer to third. Hawkins also reached on a fielder's choice but Moyer beat the throw to the plate. Hawkins stole second and scored on an error.

Randy Lorimer led off the third with a hit and Morehead singled for Pepsi. Keyes reached on a fielder's choice scoring Lorimer and a hit by Calvin Parker scored Morehead.

But after that Pepsi could not get another run. Planters iced it in the sixth as Al Alston singled moved to third on Mac Stokes's double and scored on a hit by Moyer.

Pepsi put a man on third in the bottom of the seventh on a walk, a ground out and a pop-fly but he was caught off third on a double steal attempt.

Parker and Lorimer had two hits each for Pepsi. Moyer, Stokes and Alston had two each for Planters. Perry Worthington won his third game of the second season. Stokes had a save.

NCNB slipped into the lead in the bottom of the first. Will Barrett singled and Cliff Fearington walked. An error moved both runners up and an out scored Barrett. Fearington scored on an error.

College View cut the lead to 2-1 in the second as Marshall Crumpler reached on an error, was sacrificed to second, took a wild pitch to third and scored on a hit by Eric Deal.

Neither team could score again until the fifth when NCNB erupted for 11 runs. Barrett, Taylor Pace, Bryant Morton and Joey Mathies each had hits in the inning as NCNB streaked out to a 13-1 lead.

College View tried to stay in the game picking up a run in the top of the sixth as Ricky West singled driving in H.L. Austin who had walked on. The game was called after the sixth inning.

Torre Finally Makes A Record

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

Joe Torre is a lifetime .300 hitter. He's driven in 100 runs or more in five different seasons. He's won the Most Valuable Player award. But he's never gotten into baseball's record book.

Monday night he made it. Future generations will find Torre under "Most double plays hit into — four."

Torre became the third major leaguer in history, and the first in the National League, to hit into four double plays in one game when he turned the trick during the New York Mets' 6-2 loss to the Houston Astros.

He did it in the first, third, sixth and eighth innings, squashing budding rallies each time, to join fellow immortals Goose Goslin, who did it with Detroit in 1934, and Mike Kreevich, Chicago White Sox class of '39, in the hallowed halls.

"When I retire I'm gonna buy a shortstop and put him in my den," said Torre. "At night, when I'm lonely, I'm gonna go down there and hit grounders to him."

Elsewhere in the National League, St. Louis blanked San Diego 4-0, Cincinnati rocked Philadelphia 10-4, Atlanta beat Montreal 4-1, Chicago shaded Los Angeles 1-0 and San Francisco dumped Pittsburgh 7-2.

The Astros built up a 6-1 lead against loser George Stone and Co. after four innings, and then lay in wait for Torre's ground balls. Ken Forsch, 4-7, surrendered 11 base hits but went the distance anyway.

Felix Millan got four singles for the Mets but never reached second, getting caught on the front end of all Torre's DPs.

"I couldn't have set a record without Millan," said Torre. "He ought to get an assist."

Cards 4, Padres 0

Harry Rasmussen, a 23-year-old right-hander, tossed a seven-inning shutout in his major league debut and also singled in a run. Ted Simmons hit a home run for the Cards but it was cancelled when umpires ruled he used an illegal bat. Lou Brock left the game early with a minor ankle sprain after stealing his 42nd base.

Reds 10, Phils 4

Tony Perez doubled to start a five-run Cincinnati rally in the second inning and capped it with a bases-loaded walk. George Foster singled home a run in the second and doubled in two more in the sixth for the Reds. Johnny Oates singled home two runs for Philadelphia.

Braves 4, Expos 1

Vic Correll belted a game-tying double in the eighth and scored on Dusty Baker's pinch single for Atlanta. Earl Williams added a two-run homer in the ninth for the Braves. Reliever Mike Beard, 3-0, got the win.

Cubs 1, Dodgers 0

Rick Reuschel, 7-10, teamed with Oscar Zamora on a five-hitter. Jerry Morales singled in the ninth inning, took second on an error, was sacrificed to third and scored the game's only run on Manny Trillo's single. Andy Messersmith, 12-8, took the loss.

Giants 7, Pirates 2

Chris Speier's three-run double in the seventh helped Jim Barr post his first victory since May 24. Barr, 7-8, had allowed just five runs while losing five straight games.

First Christian Adds Half Game

Oakmont dropped a Church League softball game to Memorial Baptist in a contest held last night at Jaycee Park. Memorial Baptist's 11-9 victory gave First Christian a game and a half lead in the division.

Oakmont started things off in the first inning, exploding for 5 runs in that frame. Oakmont then went on to pick up 2 in the second, and one each in the fifth and sixth innings.

Memorial Baptist was a bit slower getting started in the contest. Memorial managed only 2 runs in the first three innings. In the fourth however, 6 more runs crossed the plate. A home run by C. Odum in the fifth put the game on ice for the Memorial Baptist club.

In the second contest last night First Christian downed Trinity 19-14 in a slugfest. Trinity jumped out to an early lead in the game, managing 3 runs in the first. First Christian then caught fire and exploded for 8 runs in a big second inning. They never trailed again in the game.

C. Andrews of Trinity, and Batts of First Christian recorded homers in the contest.

The Church League All-Star game will be played Wednesday, July 23 at the Jaycee park at 8:15.

By JOHN LUNDQUIST
Associated Press Writer
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Nearly two months of testimony have been concluded on the trial of the National Football League's Rozelle Rule, but there's no prospect for a quick end to what has become a festering sore to the NFL Players Association, league officials and club owners.

It may take another three years for a final verdict, in the view of U.S. District Judge Earl R. Larson. He said in an interview he doesn't expect to hand down a verdict until late this year.

An appeal is almost automatic, no matter which way he rules, meaning the case would head for the U.S. Court of Appeals before possibly reaching the U.S. Supreme Court.

The class-action suit was filed on behalf of all players in 1972 but was reduced to 15 plaintiffs as the case began before Larson last February. Former Minnesota and New England quarterback Joe Kapp blazed the trail for the NFLPA suit. He prevailed in a legal attack on the standard players contract, which also resulted in a ruling against the Rozelle Rule. The question of damages is pending.

NFL officials and club owners prefer the term "option compensation rule," but it's commonly known in sports as the Rozelle Rule. By playing the club's option year after a contract expires, usually at a 10 per cent pay cut, the player is a free agent the next May 1.

In event he signs with a new team, the club losing the player must be compensated by the other team. And if the teams can't agree on the compensation, Commissioner Pete Rozelle must dictate terms — usually involving a pick in the next college draft or a player trade.

Baker's Appearance Is Bad For Expos

MONTREAL (AP) — Dusty Baker's appearances at Jarry Park were limited during this National League season, but as far as Montreal pitcher Dan Warthen is concerned, Baker made one appearance too many for Atlanta Braves.

Baker, who missed the two games played Sunday with a sore hamstring, cracked a pinch-hit single in the eighth inning Monday night to drive in Vic Correll with the game-winning run and Atlanta Braves went on to defeat Montreal 4-1.

"Somebody asked me if I had something against playing in Montreal," Baker said. "The first time we were here, I got sick with the flu and missed most of the series."

Baker pulled his hamstring in a game against the Expos on July 13 and did not play in the Braves brief visit to New York after the all-star break.

"The leg's still sore," he said. "I still can't run. It's depressing."

After he stroked his game-winning hit, he was replaced on the basepaths by pinch-runner Mike Lum.

The Expos carried a 1-0 lead into the eighth inning behind a sparkling three-hit pitching effort by Warthen. But the Montreal left-hander walked Clarence Gaston to lead off the eighth and after fanning Larvell Blanks for his eighth strikeout, Correll boomed his second double of the game to score Gaston with the tying run.

Warthen, now 4-3, was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth and the Braves added two more runs in the ninth when Ed Williams homered off Don Mola with a man on.

"I tell you, this is a good one to win," Baker said. "We just a game out of fourth and we're not that far out of this. We're in a good position to make a move. You never can tell what's going to happen."

Meanwhile, the Expos continued to slide further into the NL's East Division cellar.

As has been the case several times during the season, Montreal failed to get key hits when they needed them Monday night.

Three times the Expos had runner on with one out after they scored their lone run, but the timely hit just never came.

In the bottom of the seventh the Expos had two runners on with two out but Barry Foot, who hit into a pair of double plays in his first two at bats, flied out to end the inning.

After the Braves got the lead Montreal went down quietly in the eighth and ninth innings against Elias Sosa, who recorded his second save of the year.

Left-hander Mike Beard, who gave up two hits in two innings of relief, gained credit for his third victory in as many decisions.

New Rules Took Effect Monday

By TOM SEPPY
AP Sports Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Most university athletic departments, some reluctantly, began facing the reality today that women will have to have equal opportunity to participate in their sports programs.

Congress enacted Title IX of the Omnibus Education Act three years ago banning sex discrimination in schools receiving federal funds. But the regulations implementing the legislation did not become effective until Monday, after much wrangling in Congress.

The regulations prohibit discrimination on the basis of sex in 16,000 school districts and 2,700 institutions of higher education and educational association.

They apply to a wide variety of educational areas such as recruitment, hiring, admissions and scholarships, but the section on athletics was the most controversial and brought the most discussion.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association and its member schools have claimed that no one is opposed to equal opportunity for women in sports but they believe it means "equal expenditures." The Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which wrote the guidelines, denies this.

Efforts to block the legislation were defeated in the House and Senate last week, but the NCAA says it will pursue passage of an amendment to the law which, in effect, would exempt money-producing sports such as football and basketball.

Under the amendment, money produced by football and basketball would first be spent on those sports and what remained could then be used for the rest of the athletic program.

"We feel that this is not only a very desirable but necessary amendment," said Thomas Hanson, assistant NCAA executive director, by telephone from Kansas City.

He said the NCAA plans a convention in Chicago next month to see how economy moves can be made. "It is ironic that much of the saving we could expect in Chicago would be more than offset by Title IX," he said.

"We have to accept that it is law and do all we can do to comply within reason," he said. "The reason ends when you demand that football and basketball programs be matched."

In a survey of NCAA schools by The Associated Press, most athletic directors said their schools had already begun efforts to comply with the law, long before the Monday effective date of the regulations.

At several schools, such as William & Mary and Northwestern, a survey of the students will be conducted to see what sports they are interested in, a proposal that was in the original HEW regulations but later discarded.

Lucchesi Takes Over Texas Team After Martin Gets Axe

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Frank Lucchesi was worried about how Texas' fans would treat him as their team's new manager. It took only a few minutes for the Rangers to put his mind at ease ... for the moment, anyway.

"I was, of course, concerned about the fan reaction," Lucchesi said after he took over as the Rangers' head man Monday night, only a few hours after fiery Billy Martin was fired.

"But that four-run first inning sure helped. Tonight's game meant a lot."

Rookie Dave Moates hit his first major league home run to trigger the outburst that took the heat off Lucchesi and enabled the Rangers to breeze past the Boston Red Sox 6-0 behind Ferguson Jenkins' five-hitter.

In the rest of the American League, Baltimore beat Oakland 6-2, Minnesota blanked New York 3-0, Kansas City defeated Detroit 3-2, Milwaukee defeated Chicago 7-4 and Cleveland slipped past California 2-1 in 11 innings.

Lucchesi, who had been Martin's third base coach before the axe fell, acknowledged that one victory doesn't make a season and that he could still feel the fans' wrath if the Rangers don't show a marked improvement on their 45-51 record that has them buried in fourth place in the West Division, 14½ games out of first.

Orleans 6, A's 2
Baltimore's Lee May continued his assault on the league's pitchers with three hits and two runs batted in, one on a tremendous homer, to help beat Oakland.

May, who drilled a homer to start a two-run second inning, singled to help build a run in the third and doubled to knock in the first of three runs in the fifth, hitting .533 in his last eight games and has raised his season average to .270.

Twins 3, Yankees 0
Bert Blyleven fired a four-hitter for his first shutout of the year to beat the Yankees. The Twins gave him a run in the second inning on successive singles by Jerry Terrell, Rod Carew and Tony Oliva, then singles by Carew and Oliva, a bunt and Lyman Bostock's two-run single wrapped it up in the seventh.

Moose, Highway, B-W, GUCo Win

Three games were played in the Industrial League's first round of the double elimination championship tournament.

In the opener, Greenville Utilities blasted Carolina Telephone by a score of 16-1. Utilities had an easy night as they opened up a nine run league in the second inning. GUCO then added 5 in the third and 2 in the fifth to complete the scoring. Carolina Telephone's only tally came in the top of the seventh.

Burroughs-Wellcome overcame a stubborn Union Carbide team to take a 19-12 win in the night's second contest. B.W. got the lead with four runs in the first frame. Union Carbide then came back in the third to take a 6-5 lead. B.W. put the contest out of reach as they tallied 11 runs in the last three innings.

The third game of the night pitted The Daily Reflector against the Moose. Moose came out on top in that game with a 10-0 shutout. Three runs in the top of the second gave the Moose all the security they needed in the contest.

In the final contest of the evening, State Highway squeezed out a 13-12 victory over the Jaycees. State Highway jumped out to a 3-2 lead in the first. Jaycees came back with seven in the fourth. The lead seasawed back and fourth until State Highway put the game away with 5 runs in the bottom of the seventh.

Dolphins' Losses Will Hurt Team Physically

By JOHN R. SKINNER
AP Sports Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Veteran receiver Howard Twilley says the loss of Larry Csonka, Paul Warfield and Jim Kiick to the World Football League hurt the Miami Dolphins physically, but it helped them psychologically.

"I know many of our veterans have a rededicated attitude," said Twilley, adding he expects players to respond as they did in 1972 when quarterback Bob Griese was hurt and missed 10 games.

"I think the attitude then was, 'Let's all reach back and give it a little extra,'" he said. The Dolphins, with Earl Morrall replacing Griese, went undefeated on the way to the 1972 National Football League title.

"Many of our veteran players realize you don't replace a Csonka, Warfield and Kiick," he said of the trio which led Miami into the playoffs five straight years and to two Super Bowl titles.

"Not that our current players aren't good," he added. "It's just that these kind of people aren't around all the time."

Csonka and Warfield were perennial All-Pro selections and Kiick was dependable to pick up needed short yardage against stacked defenses.

Twilley, who along with tackle Norm Evans is the last of the original 1966 Dolphins, had his best showing ever in the 12-minute run Monday by completing 12 laps and 50 yards around the football field.

With Marlin Briscoe traded, Twilley finds himself as the only wide receiver on the roster with more than one year's experience. The others are second-year men Nat Moore and Melvin Baker. Coach Don Shula also is hoping to get a big year out of rookie Freddie Solomon.

"I don't think there's a lot of pressure on me," said Twilley. "I have a responsibility to do the best I can do. That's all anyone can ask of anybody."

Elsewhere in the NFL Monday, New York Giants running back Ron Johnson revealed he had not signed a contract for the 1975 season and had decided to play out the option year of his contract.

At the New York Jets' training site in Hempstead, N.Y., wide receiver David Knight suffered a stretched ligament in his left knee and will be lost for about a week.

In Amherst, Mass., the New England Patriots signed veteran linebacker Steve Zabel to a multi-year contract, announced that two rookies had retired voluntarily and placed six others on waivers.

The Jets cut two free agents, as did the Kansas City Chiefs.

Chicago Bears cornerback Joe Taylor was hospitalized for observation after severely pulling a left calf muscle while lifting weights before reporting to the club. At the same hospital, Bears receiver George Farmer underwent surgery for a shoulder separation suffered in the club's first practice.

Rookie Green Bay Packers Coach Bart Starr set the tone for his regime by working his players twice in full pads in broiling heat and humidity on their first full day in camp.

Royals 3, Tigers 2
John Mayberry's 19th and 20 home runs of the season led Kansas City past the Tigers. His solo shot in the first inning and the decisive two-run belt in the third off Mickey Lolich gave him 11 in the month of July, setting a Royals' record.

Brewers 7, White Sox 4
Bobby Darwin's three-run homer and Hank Aaron's two-run single propelled Milwaukee past the White Sox. Aaron's single in the third inning followed a single by Robin Yount, a walk, a sacrifice and an intentional walk to George Scott. Darwin's 11th homer of the season capped a four-run outburst in the eighth.

Indians 2, Angels 1
Oscar Gamble's sixth homer, a leadoff shot in the 11th inning, carried the Indians over California. Lee Stanton hit his 10th homer in the second inning for the Angels and Cleveland tied in the fourth on Rico Carty's grounder.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The University of Michigan basketball team will leave July 31 for a 15-day tour of Egypt, university officials said Monday.

The team will play eight games during the trip and participate in three basketball clinics in several Egyptian cities. Ten players will make the trip, along with a student manager and head coach Johnny Orr, assistant coach John Dutcher and their wives.

The NCAA-approved trip is sponsored by the U.S. State Department and the People to People Sports Committee, officials said. The tour is financed through private contributions.

TORONTO (AP) — Japan continued its domination of the international Olympic-class women's volleyball tournament with a 3-0 victory over the Soviet Union at Maple Leaf Gardens Monday.

Japan, which is undefeated in the tournament, won 15-6, 15-1, 15-6 over the Soviets.

Canada defeated 3-1 by the United States in another match.

The tournament continues today in Winnipeg.

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Bears' owner George Halas, 80, has returned home after a week-long stay at Northwestern Memorial Hospital.

A spokesman for the hospital said Halas, former head coach of the National Football League team, went home Monday. He was operated on for a hernia.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Francis Jackson Heath, pioneer Charlotte automobile dealer and twice a runnerup for the Southern Amateur golf championship, died Monday at the age of 72 after an illness.

The family said he was often a golfing partner of pro Walter Hagen.

Heath had attended the University of North Carolina and Georgia Tech, and was a graduate of Baylor University.

Candidacy Will Affect Decision

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — CBS News chief Richard S. Salant says CBS live coverage of President Ford's future news conferences is in doubt for the time being. The reason: An "equal time" question.

June 1972, when President Nixon, having become a declared candidate six months earlier, held his first televised news conference in more than a year.

He said now that CBS has petitioned the FCC on the matter, "the commission will review our 1964 decision and see if we should change it or not." He said he didn't know when a ruling would come.

Salant said the equal time question is acute because Ford has promised to hold an average of one news conference a month. He was asked if CBS will stop its live coverage until an FCC decision.

"I can't answer that," he said. "I don't want to decide that until it stares me in the face." He later was asked if CBS' live coverage of Ford's news conferences is in doubt until an FCC ruling.

"Yes, that certainly is true," he said. "We certainly have not made the decision—until this is cleared up—that we'll go ahead anyhow."

It was raised by CBS after Ford's early announcement this month that he'll seek another term in 1976. It involves the Federal Communications Commission's "equal time" law on broadcast coverage of political candidates.

According to the FCC, CBS last week asked the agency to reverse a 1964 ruling and exempt live coverage of presidential news conferences from the equal time law.

CBS contends that any legally-qualified Republican candidate opposing Ford for the presidency might now be able to demand equal time on the air within seven days of live broadcasts of a Ford news conference.

There aren't any such candidates now, but CBS notes that several have been mentioned as getting ready to enter the GOP ring, among them former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Milt Gross, an FCC specialist on political broadcast laws, says legally-qualified Democratic presidential candidates currently can't demand equal time because they're considered competing only among themselves now.

"Between now and the primary elections and the (Democratic) party convention next year, only the Republicans would have the right to ask for equal time against President Ford," he said.

The issue has lain dormant since 1964. That year, after a CBS query, the FCC ruled 34 days before the November elections that live coverage of presidential news conferences (President Johnson was seeking re-election then) wasn't exempt from equal time demands.

Goss said the issue didn't come up in 1968 because Johnson wasn't seeking re-election. Nor, he said, did it come up in

Bank Loses Prisoners' Work Release Money

RALEIGH (AP)—The bank that lost the $1 million account of handling money earned by prison inmates while on work-release said Monday it wasn't asked if it would pay interest on the funds.

Under an order by Corrections Secretary David Jones, the money was transferred to the 10-month-old Western Carolina Bank and Trust of Asheville, which is operated primarily by a group of western North Carolina Republicans.

With the transfer, inmates will earn 5 per cent interest on their money for the first time, Jones said. Under the old agreement with Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., the inmates weren't given any interest.

Also, some of the paperwork for the accounts that had been handled by corrections officials will be taken over by the bank under the new agreement, a savings to the state of about $40,000 a year, Jones said.

Jones is an appointee of Republican Gov. Jim Holshouser. Jones said the $1 million account would be a tenth of the new bank's assets. "It's the only bank that expressed any interest in it. It's a positive step," Jones said.

A spokesman for Wachovia said that company wasn't asked if it would pay interest on the money. "We would have given it every consideration...it's a good concept," he said.

Jones is considered a likely candidate for Republican gubernatorial nomination next year.

Ten of the 17 directors of the Western Carolina Bank are prominent Republicans. Charles Taylor of Brevard, a former state senator, suggested the bank handle the funds, Jones said.

Other Republicans on the board are Orville D. Coward, a Sylva attorney and regional leader of Holshouser's 1972 campaign; William W. Cagle of Sylva, district GOP chairman; John R. Mitchell, a Holshouser appointee to the secondary roads council; William A. Banks of Burnsville; Harry W. Clark of Asheville; Mary Charles Griffin of Asheville; Dr. W. Boyd Owen of Waynesville, Taylor's father-in-law; John Bemis Veach, a Buncombe County GOP fund-raiser; Herman H. "Bull" West of Murphy; and James M. Baley III of Asheville, son of a GOP judicial appointee.

Leaf Growers Dissatisfied

TIFTON, Ga. (AP) — A group of tobacco farmers in Tift County said they would hold their tobacco off the market today if prices don't rise dramatically in south Georgia sales.

Meanwhile, the Federal-State Market News Service in Valdosta reported prices soared to a season high Monday as the Georgia-Florida flue-cured tobacco market opened its third week of auctions.

The state president of the National Farmers Organization, Julian Bennett, said Monday night that 30 tobacco farmers meeting in Tifton had voted to withhold tobacco unless bidding climbs to 25 per cent above government price supports.

The 30 farmers, representing

1,089 acres, voted to withhold their crop if prices don't rise to $118 to $125 per hundred pounds for tobacco that has government support prices of $97 to $101. Highest prices paid so far this season have been around $110 per hundredweight.

Normally, the government, through the Stabilization Corp., buys tobacco at the support prices if no higher bidder is found. But Bennett said the farmers would sell to neither private companies nor the government unless prices reached the higher levels.

The farmers also voted to withhold their better grades of tobacco later if prices do not improve, Bennett said.

The farmers at the meeting sell mostly at the Tifton and Moultrie markets and a few at Nashville, he said.

"We believe the tobacco companies will respond with money," Bennett said. "We hope they do because we desperately need it."

The increase in prices Monday was primarily due to a better quality of offerings, the market news service said. It reported 4,057,086 pounds were sold Monday at an average price of $93.63 per hundred pounds.

Ayden Plans For Festival

AYDEN—The Town of Ayden will hold its first Collard Festival Saturday, Sept. 13.

The event, in honor of the collard plant, will include a street dance, rides, games, parade, pet show, a Queen Pageant and a concert.

The festival will officially begin on Sept. 12 with a street dance from 8 p.m. until 12 midnight. Music will be provided by the Spectaculars. Saturday activities include various games and booths as well as displays of handicraft and novelty booths. Several "collard contests" will precede the parade which will begin at 1 p.m.

Ayden's first "Miss Collard" will be crowned during a pageant Saturday night at the Ayden Grammar School, beginning at 7 p.m. A concert featuring Loois McGlohon, Ayden native, will be held following the pageant.

Fire Truck His Birthday Gift

By JAMES C. ROGAL
Associated Press Writer
BATAVIA, Ill. (AP) — When August Gering turned 4 last week, his parents bought him a fire truck to play with. A real one.

It cost $511, is 19 feet long, has a 500-gallon water tank and could be used to snuff out a fire at the neighbor's house.

"August has wanted to be a fireman since he could walk and talk," said his mother, Elvynor Gering, a registered nurse. "So when we saw an ad in the paper for one we put in a bid and it was accepted."

The 1946 Dodge, complete with two hoses, sirens, horns and a ladder, now sits in the driveway of the Gering's home in Batavia, Ill., about 30 miles west of Chicago.

"It's in very good working order," said Mary Sue Bowman, Mrs. Gering's sister. "When we turn it on with the key the siren works perfectly, which is why the key has been hidden."

Another reason to hide the key is that state law prohibits the private use of sirens, such as that on August's new toy.

"They can't turn on the red lights either, because that's against the law, too," said John Peterson of the Batavia Police Department.

When the Gering's $511 bid was accepted by the St. Charles Fire Department, Mrs. Gering said August went wild.

"He was all enthused and jumping up and down yelling, 'We won it, we won it!'" she said. "We had to tell him we didn't exactly win it, his daddy had to pay for it."

August's father, John, a truck driver, already has taken August, his 6-year-old sister, Katherine, and just about every other kid in the neighborhood for rides on the truck almost daily, Mrs. Gering said.

"August's big thing is to hang on the back when we take him for a ride," she said. "He thinks that's the big time."

Mrs. Gering said she and her husband plan to keep the truck as a "toy" for the children and use it in local parades.

As for August, "I'm gonna drive it to high school," he said.

Sometimes picking up an extra trick in a side suit is vital to the success of a contract. On other occasions, there are valid reasons why a gift trick should be refused.

North-South reached an eminently sound four spade contract. Since his hand was perfectly balanced, South explored for a possible no trump game by rebidding two no trump. However, North had excellent spade support and an unbalanced hand that revalued to much better than minimum in support of his partner's suit, so he wisely preferred to play the game in the known suit fit. Note that three no trump is doomed with a heart lead.

A heart lead might also sink four spades—providing East shifts to a club after winning the first heart trick—but West cannot be blamed for selecting a club. Dummy played low and East's queen lost to the ace. After drawing trumps in three rounds, declarer ran the diamond queen, losing to the king. East put his partner on lead with a club, and the heart shift yielded two more tricks to the defenders for a one-trick set.

Declarer did not make the most of the opportunity he received when he escaped a heart lead. While the actual lead presented him with an extra trick in clubs, it was a trick he really did not need. Since dummy held only two clubs, there was no way declarer could lose more than one trick in the suit.

The ace of clubs had a more important function to fulfill—to keep West, the danger hand, off lead so that the king of hearts would be protected from being led through. Observe the difference if declarer allows East to hold the first trick.

East may as well return a club—no other suit offers better prospects. Declarer wins the ace, ruffs a club in dummy, draws trumps in three rounds and runs the queen of diamonds. East wins, but has no way to reach West for a heart lead. Declarer thus limits his losers to one trick in each side suit.

One Of Volunteers For LSD Testing

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Roscoe Blackwell, a retired soldier and father of two teenage children, says he was one of the volunteers from Ft. Dix, N.J., who participated in drug experiments in June 1959 at the Army's Chemical Warfare Laboratory at Edgewood Arsenal, Md.

"It looked like an easy duty, a chance to goof off and get temporary-duty pay," Blackwell said. "I'm not sure what the drug was exactly, but from the news I've read in the papers I think it was LSD."

He said he was given the drug one time, was under its influence for eight to 10 hours, and was left with a terrible hangover.

Blackwell said he learned of the experiments through a letter circulated to Ft. Dix units requesting volunteers for drug-related experiments.

He told an interviewer that although he was not informed of the dangers in taking the drug, he got the impression there was some risk involved because of the paperwork involved with his volunteering.

He confirmed previous Army reports that all experimentation was closely supervised by Army medical personnel. He said 30 volunteers were in his group and that 30 new volunteers came in every month he was there.

The Army has confirmed that it conducted LSD experiments in an effort to obtain a chemical agent that would render an enemy helpless but would not kill him.

Uniform-Makers Are Cashing In

By GAY PAULEY
 UPI Women's Editor
 NEW YORK (UPI) — The people who make uniforms give three cheers for the red, white and blue.
 They're cheering especially the rest of 1975 and all of 1976. For the nation is throwing a giant birthday party and millions are, or will be, dressing for it. All of which adds up to more sales for manufacturers of uniforms (or career apparel as its also called).
 The rest of the clothing industry is hurting along with the national economy. But the uniform people have prospered with a 9 1/2 per cent sales gain every year for the past 10 years, as more business and industry dressed employees in wardrobes to help establish and enhance an image. Estimates are that uniforms now are a $1 billion business yearly, that some 11 million Americans wear them.
 With the Bicentennial, the sales prospects are even brighter. The event will mean the biggest mobilization of uniforms since World War II, says Howard A. Wolfe, executive secretary of the National Association of Uniform Manufacturers.
 Wolfe already wears a Bicentennial tie — a red, white and blue print with an early flag and today's, plus the dates 1975-1976 worked in. "I think we've just seen the tip of the Bicentennial boom," said Wolfe in an interview. "I believe by the start of '76 we will see an intense outpouring of patriotism. Even the most sophisticated will sit back and think: 'This is America. This is what it's all about.'" Because there will be more parades and more marching bands involving veterans' organizations, ladies, auxiliaries, fire and police departments, college groups, and special Bicentennial commissions, Wolfe expects many will order new uniforms.

 But not every wearer of career apparel in daily life will deck out in red, white and blue. Many simply will attach emblems and patches showing the Liberty Bell, the Bennington or Betsy Ross flags, and other symbols of the revolutionary period.
 Personnel of a private detective agency serving La Guardia Airport wear red, white and blue uniforms, plus bicentennial ties for men and scarves for women security officers.
 Employees at the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission are coordinating with light blue shirts, navy trousers and a special emblem reading "Bicentennial 1976."
 Committees for historical towns and sites are ordering patriotic clothing. Police, sheriffs and fire departments are putting on patches and some are using tie tacks and bars with the Bicentennial motif. And there are dozens of other jewelry items including bracelet charms and lapel pins with such designs as crossed flags with "76" in the center.
 What about patriotic apparel for children, who love to dress up? Wolfe said the industry "doesn't get too involved in this area" but he won't be surprised to see Scouts, Camp Fire Girls and other youth groups adding emblems.
 "Some of our members have been asked to make pure colonial dress," said Wolfe. "But it's almost impossible because of cost of materials used then, even if available, and the production problems." He figures the association will leave this area to costume makers.
 Wolfe said uniforms are about as old as recorded history. The knights' coats of armor were both protection and identification. Military uniforms date to the Egyptians, Babylonians, Assyrians, Greeks and Romans.

 Postal uniforms go back as far as the 16th Century in Scotland. Fire uniforms were first worn in England in 1683, he said. In modern times, we have numerous uniforms marking various occupations and also the "uniforms" of fashion — the era of the bobby-soxers, saddle shoes, and of course today's jeans, an international uniform.

Thornsby...

"It won the '500' — it went 500 yards from the showroom before falling apart."

Charles Martel defeated the Moslems in 732 A.D. checking their advance into Western Europe. It was called both the Battle of Tours and the Battle of Poitiers.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

IMAGINATION abounds in this front-to-back split level. The ceiling over the living and dining rooms slopes upward along the rafters to include the balcony of the bedroom level. Horizontal lines are emphasized on the dramatic exterior. A massive 15-foot-high fireplace wall in the living room contains chimneys for three fireplaces, including one in the master bedroom upstairs. Plan HA888M has 1,581 square feet on the living and bedroom levels and 573 on the foyer level. Architect Rudolph A. Matern, 89 E. Jericho Turnpike, Mineola, N.Y. 11501 will answer queries about the cost of the blueprint if they are accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Torturous Time For A Native

By Dr. H. G. JONES, Curator
 North Carolina Collection
 Written for Associated Press
 CHAPEL HILL (AP) — When Edward Stanly arrived in New Bern in May, 1862, to take up his position of military governor of occupied North Carolina, he was serenaded by a Union Army band. But if he expected an enthusiastic reception by the people whom he had represented in Congress in better days, he was disappointed.

In fact, the next ten torturous months in the town of his birth were perhaps the most miserable of his career. Considered a traitor by those loyal to the Confederacy and held in suspicion by Northern Radicals, he could hardly have been successful in his mission of persuading North Carolina to quit the Confederacy and return to the Union.

Edward Stanly was the son of Congressman John Stanly who had represented the New Bern district in Congress and whose fame rested partially on his killing of former governor Richard Dobbs Spaight, Sr., in a duel in 1802. Two of John's brothers were themselves killed in duels. It may not be surprising, therefore, that Edward was involved during his career in one bloodless duel and in two fistfights on the floor of Congress.

Family Deeply Moved By President's Apology

By MARGARET SCHERF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—A son of Dr. Frank Olson, who plunged to his death after being given LSD by the Central Intelligence Agency, says the family may not file suit against the CIA because of President Ford's personal apology to them.

"You can't conceive of how moving it was to hear him say he was outraged at this travesty of American history," Nils Olson said in a telephone interview Monday night from his Frederick, Md., home following a White House visit with Ford. Nils, his brother Eric, their sister Mrs. Lisa Hayward and mother Alice spent about 17 minutes with the President. The White House said Ford apologized on behalf of the U.S. government for the circumstances of Olson's death.

The family previously had announced plans to file suit against the CIA for several million dollars. However, Nils Olson said there now is a good chance the suit will not be filed.

"We'll have to see how it goes," he added.

Nils Olson said the family had three concerns—that they have full access to any data available on the case, that they receive an apology and that they get some sort of financial settlement from the CIA.

Ford promised to make available information on the case and said he had asked the attorney general to meet with the Olsons' legal representatives "to discuss the claims they wish to assert against the CIA by reason of Dr. Olson's death," White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen announced after the meeting.

"The President told us that he in no way wanted our meeting with him to prejudice our case against the CIA," Nils Olson said. He said he understood that the attorney general would discuss a financial settlement with the family's legal representatives.

And he said the family felt Ford's personal apology was adequate and that one would not be sought from the CIA. "Our feeling after coming out of the meeting is that he is to us kind of the manifestation of the will of the government," Nils Olson said. "We were all very much amazed at how genuine and sincere he was at extending his sympathy and concern," he added.

The circumstances of Olson's Nov. 28, 1953 death came to light after the Rockefeller Commission report on the CIA disclosed experimentation with the hallucinogenic drug LSD.

Pitt Bloodmobile Schedule Set

"It is estimated that about 5 percent of the potential donors give all the blood that is utilized in the United States."

The speaker: Dr. Lee West, pathologist at Pitt Memorial Hospital, discussing the 1975-76 Red Cross Bloodmobile campaign before members of the Greenville Moose Lodge last night.

Dr. West told his listeners that Pitt Memorial Hospital was the fourth-largest user of blood among the 59 hospitals in the Tidewater Region. He said Pitt County was using about 2500 units of blood per year; that figure including blood units given Pitt patients being treated in hospitals outside the county.

The goal set by the American Red Cross for Pitt County blood donors in 1975-76 he said, was 2,450 pints. Eighteen visits by the bloodmobile have been scheduled to achieve that goal. To meet it, he reminded, would call for not less than 130 units per visit.

"Blood," said Dr. West, "is not a problem in my view. It is a vital natural resource; and there is only one source, the human body."

The speaker said the volunteer programs, such as that conducted by the Red Cross, supply the safest and best qualified donors. The country as a whole, he added, uses about nine million units of blood each year.

To fill needs of the Tidewater Red Cross Blood Center, four bloodmobile units emanate from Norfolk, the Regional Central Office.

The schedule of visits to Pitt County by the Bloodmobile for the new year begins August 12 and 13 at the Moose Lodge; at the Union Carbide plant on August 14. It will be at East Carolina University on October 21, 22, and 23. At Farmville on December 16, at the Moose Lodge on December 17, and at the DuPont plant on December 18.

On February 23 and 24 it will again be at the Greenville Moose Lodge and on February 25 in Ayden. The Bloodmobile will be visiting East Carolina University April 27, 28 and 29; at the Burroughs-Wellcome plant on June 16, and at the Moose Lodge again on June 18.

The Moose will sponsor the Bloodmobile's August 12-13 visits.

"I know," said Dr. West this represents one of the most difficult times for you to accept sponsorship of a bloodmobile visit because so many people who might contribute will be on vacation. But the Red Cross knows from past experience the Moose has been one of the strongest supporters for the program."

Following his talk, there was a question-and-answer period largely devoted to eligibility requirements for donors.

Oil Slick Still Poses A Threat

MIAMI (AP)—The Coast Guard is calling for reinforcements in its fight to keep a slick of tar-like oil off the sandy beaches and coral reefs of the Florida Keys.

Coast Guard spokesmen said Monday night that clean-up equipment had been requested from Elizabeth City, N.C., along with specialists to operate it.

Lt. Cmdr. George Davis said up to 120,000 gallons of "bunker c" oil—a grade burned in the boilers of steamships and electric generating plants—may be involved in the spill.

"Beaches from Boca Chica to Big Pine Key are being directly threatened," said Coast Guard spokesman Steve Frasier. He said oil has already blackened some of the beaches along that 25-mile stretch.

The Coast Guard officials have begun asking port captains along the Atlantic coast to identify ships that may have passed the Keys recently.

Davis said that although the ship that spilled the oil could have been hundreds of miles away when the slick was discovered Sunday, enforcement officers will try to make a case if it hasn't refilled its tanks.

"Oil can be identified like fingerprints," Davis said. "If we find any suspect ships, we will take samples from the oil in their tanks and try to make a match."

Oil spills carry fines up to $5,000, and under federal law, failure to report a spill carries a $10,000 fine and one year in prison.

Exile Irked By Summitry

VALLEY COTTAGE, N.Y. (AP)—Exiled Soviet writer Alexander Solzhenitsyn, irked by President Ford's plan to attend a 35-nation European summit, said Monday he could see no basis for a conversation with Ford.

In a translated statement prepared during a visit here to 91-year-old Aleksandra Tolstoy, the one living daughter of author Leo Tolstoy, Solzhenitsyn said Ford's attendance at the summit in Helsinki next week means he is joining in "the betrayal of Eastern Europe."

Solzhenitsyn expressed concern that a document scheduled to be signed to end the European security conference would solidify the division of Europe into Communist and non-Communist nations.

The White House has said it is holding open an invitation to Solzhenitsyn, a reversal of Ford's earlier decision not to receive him when he arrived in Washington for a June 30 speech.

Author Weds For 3rd Time

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—William Peter Blatty, author of the bestselling novel "The Exorcist," and amateur tennis star Linda Tuero have been married here.

Asked by friends why he decided to marry, Blatty replied: "An angel made me do it."

Blatty, 47, and Miss Tuero, 23, of New Orleans were married Sunday. It was the third marriage for Blatty.

Guests included Mario Puzo, author of "The Godfather," and comedians Don Rickles and Buddy Hackett.

Arrests For Bogus Bills

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A Lenoir man has been charged with distributing bogus $20 bills that apparently came from a large batch of counterfeit money made in the Roanoke, Va., area, the Secret Service said today.

Spokesmen for the agency said several arrests have been made in the Roanoke area and in North Carolina so far this year in connection with the manufacture and distribution of the phony bills.

The latest arrest was that of Barry Randall Earp, 25, of Lenoir, who was charged last week with violating the counterfeit money statutes. A U.S. magistrate in Charlotte has found probable cause for the charge, fixing Earp's bond at $15,000.

"We anticipate presenting additional cases to the grand jury when it next meets," a Secret Service spokesman said in Charlotte.

The agency said that, on a national basis, the volume of counterfeit money confiscated during the fiscal year that ended June 30 probably was record.

In North Carolina, however, the amount of money seized has been greater in previous years. There have been numerous arrests, the spokesman said, but did not give a specific number.

Scali Returning To News Role

NEW YORK (AP)—An American Broadcasting Company spokesman said Monday night that former chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations John Scali will return to ABC News shortly as a Washington correspondent.

The spokesman said ABC and Scali, 57, have reached agreement on his return to the network, where he was a diplomatic correspondent before entering government.

Gunfire

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The Navy is investigating mysterious gunfire that shook up the crew of an amphibious ship off the North Carolina coast last Wednesday.

An Atlantic Fleet spokesman said two rounds exploded in the water off the bow of the amphibious troop transport Francis Marion and two more burst in the air nearby as she operated 40 miles east of Albemarle Sound.

The spokesman said there were no other military aircraft or military ships operating in the area, but that one crewman on the Marion reported that two merchant ships were visible.

The Marion was conducting independent engineering exercises and was out of range of coastal gun batteries.
