Oil Decontrol Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford said today he is ready to compromise on the critical issue of oil decontrol. He said he will go along with a plan to gradually phase out price controls over a 39-month period and a price ceiling of $11.50 per barrel on all domestically produced oil.

Ford said that, although this represents a rollback on all current uncontrolled oil prices, the $11.50 ceiling would gradually be increased by five cents per month over the length of the program which runs through Nov. 30, 1978.

Ford called his compromise plan "a critical first step in reversing our growing dependence on foreign oil."

He said it should be combined with a windfall profits tax on oil companies and rebates of energy taxes to the American people. But he did not spell out details of such a program in a statement concerning the compromise he was sending to Congress today.

House Speaker Carl Albert said President Ford's compromise energy plan will be acted on quickly by the House — and that it "might have a chance."

Albert spoke with reporters after a White House meeting at which the plan, worked out after several days of negotiation between the administration and key congressmen, was discussed in detail.

Albert said it had not yet been determined whether to try to write it into the pending energy bill, scheduled to be taken up again by the House Monday, or to follow the procedure under which a presidential proposal of this kind takes effect unless either house of Congress disapproves it within five days.

"This nation desperately needs cooperation, not confrontation on the critical energy issue," Ford said in urging Congress to accept his compromise, "so that we can get on with the solution of this most pressing problem."

Administration experts said the President's new compromise plan would increase the average price of petroleum products, including gasoline, by about five to six cents a gallon by 1978. His original plan would have raised prices by about seven cents a gallon by 1977, the White House had estimated.

The administration explained in a fact sheet that Ford wants Congress to enact his original proposals for a windfall profits tax with appropriate plowback provisions to encourage producers to seek new sources of oil. He also urged extension of the allocation act, with some modifications, to cover the now proposed 39-month decontrol period.

Congress rejected Ford's original proposal for a 30-month decontrol plan affecting so-called "old" oil, which accounts for some 60 per cent of the oil produced in this country and comes from wells that were in operation in 1972.

Ford maintained that if Congress goes along with the decontrol compromise, the windfall profits tax and rebates.

Flooded Families Returning

By JAMES KYLE
Reflector Staff Writer

The 14 lower Meadowbrook area families, driven from their homes Tuesday and Wednesday by the flooding Tar River, began to move back in this morning as the river receded over a foot since yesterday.

The National Weather Service

reported the Tar River level at 16.8 feet this morning. Yesterday morning's level was 18.0. The river is expected to recede slowly for the next several days, returning below flood stage (13 feet) by Saturday morning, the NWS reported. The water had uncovered River Drive and the Town Commonwalk this morning.

City inspector Alton Warren said this morning, "hopefully they (the families) will all be moved back in today." Around a dozen families who utilize well water will have to be given safe drinking water, Warren said. He encouraged the residents to boil all water before use.

The Pitt County Red Cross and some area churches are helping pay motel and food bills for the dislocated families, Warren said.

Jimmy Stocks of the Pitt County Health Department said the water is "out of Shady Knoll Trailer Park, but there is still some in Meadowbrook." Bacteria tests in Shady Knoll have not revealed anything dangerous in the water and boiling orders in the area have been revoked, Stocks said.

"We are still monitoring the water," Stocks said. There are still some wells under water in the Meadowbrook area. "When the water recedes, people should call us for instruction on how to disinfect wells," Stocks added.

Charles Horne, director of Greenville Utilities said his department has experienced no difficulty from the flooding. "We are holding steady and looking forward to the receding of the water," Horne said.

High winds preceding a thunderstorm struck at around 6:30 yesterday evening in Bethel, destroying two mobile homes and damaging several others.

Pitt County Fire Marshall Bobby Joyner reported damage was estimated at $30 to $40 thousand. Several trees were blown down and one temporarily blocked N.C. 11 north of Bethel, Joyner said. Although one man was in a trailer when it turned over, no one was hurt during the winds, according to Joyner.

The Greenville area is not the only place in the state being plagued by severe weather. Goldsboro had its worst flooding in 20 years Wednesday morning and flooding in the Tarboro area Monday resulted in several families evacuating their homes.

A fire believed caused by lightning damaged a building in Gaston county Thursday, exploding cans of paints and thinners. Electricity was knocked out in sections of Winston-Salem yesterday and water covered a few roads in Forsyth County, according to an Associated Press story this morning.

A Depression

MIAMI (AP) — The second tropical depression of the 1975 Atlantic hurricane season gathered strength today as forecasters said it could be upgraded to a tropical storm within 24 hours.

Packing maximum sustained winds of 35 miles an hour, the depression at 9 a.m. EDT was located near latitude 29.0 north and longitude 74.5 west — about 425 miles southeast of Wilmington, N.C., the National Hurricane Center reported.

"The present course and strengthening trend of the depression poses a definite threat to the Georgia and Carolina coasts over the weekend," the center said. "All interests should keep in touch with later advisories, especially those planning trips to the North Carolina outer banks."

The "area of disturbed weather developed about 550 miles east of Miami Thursday.

One Astronaut Passed Out 'Yellow Gas' Leak In Apollo Capsule

By RICHARD SALTUS
Associated Press Writer

ABOARD USS NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The three Apollo astronauts detected a yellow gas that caused one of them to pass out briefly during their return to earth and they remained in sick bay on this ship today as a precaution.

The astronauts also reported that the gas caused a "burning and irritation to the eyes."

Doctors said a preliminary examination of astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald K. Slayton "does not show any apparent medical problems" and the sick bay confinement was called a precautionary measure.

The doctors reported today that Brand had passed out briefly when the gas filtered into the cabin at an altitude of 23,000 feet during their re-entry Thursday. They said he recovered quickly when his fellow astronauts gave him an oxygen mask.

The doctors said they were watching for signs of pulmonary edema, a lung condition that could hamper breathing. Dr. Charles la Pinta reported that the space agency medical team on the ship said symptoms ordinarily appear between 12 and 24 hours after exposure.

This Navy carrier headed for Hawaii, meanwhile, bringing the astronauts to their first landfall since they hurtled away from earth 10 days ago to establish a beachhead in space with the Russians.

The astronauts told flight surgeons they detected the gas after their Apollo craft was parachuting toward a Pacific Ocean splashdown. They immediately donned oxygen masks, but the gas "caused burning if inhaled in sufficient concentration."

Officials said the gas was apparently nitrogen tetroxide, an oxidizer used in the propellant of the Apollo's small rocket thrusters. The chemical is very corrosive and can cause death.

The men of Apollo splashed down 330 miles west of Pearl Harbor. This helicopter carrier is expected to arrive at Pearl Harbor about 3:15 p.m. EDT today.

'Provisional' Accreditation

Pitt Memorial Hospital Director Jack Richardson said this morning he has been told during a phone conversation with officials of the Joint Committee on Accreditation of Hospitals in Chicago that Pitt Memorial has been given provisional one-year accreditation. However, this information has not yet been confirmed by letter, he said.

Some time ago the hospital administration and trustees received a list of certain conditions found by two JCAH surveyors which might prevent accreditation. An appointment was made immediately afterward for the hospital director, the Board of Trustees chairman, and the chief of the medical staff to travel to Chicago to rebut these points and make clear that the present facility will be vacated very soon, that a new hospital building is well underway.

Richardson said the new decision apparently is a result of this conference. This provisional accreditation serves the same purpose as a full two-year accreditation, he said, adding that any conditions cited in the survey that have not already been corrected will be before another survey is conducted. Physical deficiencies will, of course, be eliminated by the move to the new building set for late next year. Bylaw changes for the trustees and the medical staff, suggested by JCAH, are being worked out now.

No Arms Sales To Turkey

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford says the refusal of the House to resume U.S. arms sales to Turkey "can only do the most serious and irreparable damage to the vital national security interests of the United States."

With a dramatic last-minute shift of votes, the House rejected 223 to 206 even a partial lifting of the arms embargo it imposed on Turkey last Feb. 5 after the Turks invaded and occupied Cyprus.

On another arms deal, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee votes today on whether to reject a $350-million arms sale to Jordan. The House International Relations Committee recommended Thursday that the anti-aircraft missile and gun sale to Jordan be turned down.

In a stern message after the House vote on the Turkish arms sales, Ford said it would damage not only "normally excellent relations" with Turkey but also Turkey's North Atlantic alliance role and U.S. efforts to encourage negotiations between Greece and Turkey for a Cyprus peace.

Opponents contended that approval of renewed U.S. arms sale would be submission to blackmail because of Turkey's threat to close U.S. bases if it did not get the arms.

BIKE ROUTE?

I'd like to know about the bike route signs when there is no bike route marked. R.B.

The bike route signs are installed to warn motorists that there is a frequency of bicycles travelling along the street, Assistant City Engineer Ron Sewall said. There are two types of signs: Yellow signs warn drivers that they are approaching a bike route and green signs mark the actual route.

There are three types of bike routes: bike paths, exclusive from the highway; bike lanes marked by painted lines alongside the road and bike routes marked only by signs.

A total bikeway plan for the city is available for inspection. Copies may be picked up at city hall, Skip Browder of the City Planning Department said.

Local ESC Job Placement Role Sees Growth

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The 1975 fiscal year ending on June 30, 1975 saw a big increase—approximately 77 per cent—in the total activity of the employment mission of the Greenville office of the Employment Security Commission.

Talking about facts behind the figures for fiscal year 1975, Jim Hannan, manager of the Greenville office, said "The most important thing to remember in the success our office has had in finding jobs for people is that employers in Greenville and in Pitt County have given every assistance possible in listing openings and working with us in getting qualified people into jobs. Without the constant cooperation we've received, our efforts would have been a dead cause, there's no two ways about it."

For the fiscal year 1975, Employment Security Commission records show that a total of 6,294 new applications were registered. This compares with a total of 4,688 for fiscal year 1974 (July 1, 1973 to June 30, 1974).

"The major portion of this applicant increase reflects the rise of unemployment during the months of March, April and May this year," Hannan explained. "To understand the figures, it is necessary to explain that anyone coming in to register for unemployment must also register for work placement.

"Another important factor," Hannan said, "is that the 6,294 registering in the year's period includes people from other parts of the state and from outside the state coming into Greenville and registering for unemployment benefits. We've had a large number coming in from the western part of North Carolina."

These figures, unexplained, Hannan emphasized, can easily distort in the public mind the real mission of the Employment Security Commission.

"Our main job is not unemployment insurance," Hannan stated, "but getting people gainful employment. And in this, I feel we've been fortunate here in Greenville and Pitt County."

"One circumstance that has made an important difference in our area," Hannan said, "is that we have the full and active cooperation of the Social Services Department. People on welfare, those getting food stamps, have in many instances been placed in gainful employment. This, without saying is a desirable situation."

To look at achievement figures contained within the 6,294 applicant totals, the Greenville office figures show that in fiscal year 1975 a total of 4,867 were referred to jobs. This compares to 3,896 referrals to jobs made in fiscal year 1974.

From the 4,867 referrals, the number actually placed in jobs was 1,488 in 1975—the figure was 1,221, in 1974.

"Veterans form a good share of the people we work with," Hannan commented. "For example, this year we had 793 veterans register as job applicants. Of this number, 436 were placed in jobs."

Hannan feels too that there is significance in the fact that non-whites were placed in jobs in numbers disproportionate to their make up in the area's population. "Non-white, mostly blacks with some Orientals, make up roughly 35 per cent of the area population," Hannan said. "However, of the 1,488 placed in jobs, 712 of this number, or almost 50 per cent, were non-whites."

The type of jobs in which applicants are placed constitute a wide salary range, Hannan points out. "Job placements have covered everything from the 90 cents an hour restaurant waiters and waitresses, where of course," he noted, "their salary is supplemented by tips, to jobs carrying an annual salary of $21,000."

"I would say," Hannan said, "that the biggest spread is in the salary range of roughly $5,000 to $8,000 yearly. It might be interesting to note, too, that approximately 30 per cent of those placed in jobs are in the $10,000 and above salary bracket."

Hannan said that for the Greenville area, job placement was heaviest in construction, clerical work and wholesale-retail positions.

Anyone Can Make Granny's Cookies

By LORETTA TOFANI
PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Rose Naftalin is a grandmother who makes cookies like few grandmothers can. Now she wants to show the world how it's done.

Mrs. Naftalin, 77, introduced Portland to cognac cheesecake, 16-layer chocolate cream cake and Austrian peach cookies.

Now the rest of the nation can get a taste by culling recipes from her new book, a best seller on the gourmet list, says Random House, the publisher. It is called "Grandma Rose's Book of Sinfully Delicious Cakes, Cookies, Pies, Cheesecakes, Cake Rolls and Pastries."

In cooking schools, buying cook books and talking to friends.

When her husband lost his job in Toledo, Ohio, the couple bought a delicatessen there.

"We bought the delicatessen because my husband felt I had a flair for cooking and baking," she said. "We had to survive."

All the while, Rose continued her correspondence courses and learning from whomever she could. "One time, I saw roses on the cakes in a bakery window," she said. "I asked the baker if he'd teach me how to make them. It cost me $1.25 — a lot of money in those days — but it was worth it."

When Rose could afford a day off, she traveled to Chicago or Detroit to learn to make new pastries or decorations on pastries.

After her husband died, Rose moved to Portland to be with her children and to begin a restaurant here.

She sold the restaurant nine years ago, but she never stopped looking for new ideas for cakes and pastries and building those ideas into new creations.

"You never know where you'll get an idea," she said. "Once, I saw a rolled wafer in a specialty shop. The way it was rolled attracted me. Years later, when I was monkeying with batter for cookies, I thought of the wafer and made the cookies rolled up like a cigar."

Those cookies became the favorite of the late comedian Joe E. Brown, and she named them after him.

Rose, despite sampling those goodies, still is slim and eager about life and cooking.

Her advice in making cheesecakes is not to worry about it: "Overcooking will make the cake granulate." Another tip is that she keeps a split vanilla bean in cans containing granulated and powdered sugar. "This way your sugars are always flavored."

Mother-In-Law's Nerves Are 'Shot'

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter-in-law runs her house without any schedule or system. She is 31 and so is her husband. Their children are 2 and 4.

They eat when they're hungry and go to sleep when they're tired.

I told them nicely that they should get on some kind of schedule, but they paid no attention to me. I also sent them a book on basic child care and nutrition, but I haven't seen any signs of their having read it.

She puts off the housekeeping chores that almost every homemaker does routinely. She just plays with the children and dresses them like dolls, forgetting that balanced meals and a set routine are important to good health.

Please tell me what to do. My nerves get shot every time I go over there and see what is going on.

MOTHER-IN-LAW

DEAR MOTHER-IN-LAW: Be kind to yourself, and don't go over there so often if it upsets you. If your son isn't aware that his wife needs straightening out, let it go. You've done all you can.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 14-year-old girl. My problem is that I am flat, and most boys go for built-up chicks. I know you are going to say, "Wear padded bras," but where will that get me?

I eat everything that is good for me. Fresh fruit, and vegetables, and milk, but it all goes to my stomach, thighs and butt.

I am always cut down because I'm flat. I have to wear children's clothes because I have a 30 AA bust and my hips are 31½. I am 5' 1" and weigh 95 pounds.

I see stuff advertised in magazines, but I haven't sent for any because, in the first place, I don't see how creams can put inches on your bust, and, in the second, my Mom opens all the mail. She would kill me if she knew I was even thinking about anything like that.

Please be a friend and put your answer in the paper. There must be at least a million girls with my problem.

FLAT

DEAR FLAT: You are a very wise girl to wonder how creams could put inches on you. They can't. Be patient. And I AM going to tell you to wear a padded bra. At least you will look better in clothes.

DEAR ABBY: About the woman who was "fuming" because her teenage daughter had her ears pierced while she was away for the weekend, knowing that she wouldn't have approved:

I am the proud father of two clean-cut-looking BOYS, ages 17 and 18. Each one wears a round gold ring through his left pierced ear.

This doesn't bother me. I view it as a sign of the times, and the possible revival of the days when it was customary for males to wear earrings.

More Women Donn Hard Hats In Their Jobs

BOSTON (AP) — What's a nice girl doing pouring concrete and wielding a welding rod?

"Plenty — with a growing number of women involved in construction."

So observes Jackson W. Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Co., which works with lenders by insuring high-ratio conventional mortgage loans.

In third place are building materials suppliers, while architects rank fourth and construction engineering firms fifth.

"More than one out of four of these women report an annual income of $15,000 or more — most are in the $7,000-$10,000 range.

"The survey also indicated that 55 per cent have been in the business for more than 10 years.

Even now, every phase of construction boasts of having women in its ranks, he says.

"Nearly 14,000 members of the National Association of Women in Construction are plying trades once unheard of for distaffers," Goss notes.

"They hold responsible positions in architecture, general construction, subcontracting, material supplying and construction engineering."

The greatest proportion of the women, according to a recent survey, work for general contractors — almost 37 per cent — but the number employed by subcontractors runs a close second.

"The typical female construction worker is between 35 and 40," Goss says.

He foresees more youthful college graduates seeking jobs in construction.

"As building picks up, small construction firms — once the stronghold of male workers — will have openings.

"There will be an increase in the number of young female singles entering the field in the latter half of this decade," Goss predicts.

Why do women seek such work?

"It is challenging, unconfined, stimulating — and lucrative," Goss concludes.

Tobacco Men Visit Test Sites

By JORDY WHICHARD
Reflector Staff Writer

The Extension-Research on Wheels program continued in Pitt County Thursday with a tobacco field tour. The tour visited pre-selected test sites showing tobacco varieties, chemical disease control, and new strains of tobacco.

First stop on the tour was the James A. Little farm near Winterville. The Little farm was the site of a tobacco variety test. Planted on the farm were 32 different tobacco varieties. Each variety was planted in two rows. One of each variety was treated with a soil chemical, and the other was left untreated. The purpose of the test was to show the observers crop response of each type of plant to the chemical treatment. Tour master J.C. Jones called the tobacco variety test "the backbone of the tobacco disease control program."

Next stop on the tour was the Speight Seed Farm, also near Winterville. Here, tour participants saw the inner workings of the seed processing operation. After leaving the production plant, the tour visited the Speight test fields. The fields had been planted with new tobacco varieties developed by the Speight Farms. The plants had been grown to test their resistance to certain diseases, as well as to determine the plant quality of the new varieties. According to M.L. Grimsley, field test supervisor for the Speight Seed Farms, a new seed variety needs six years of extensive testing before it can be grown as a test plant. It usually takes about ten years from a new seed's beginning before it can be available for widespread growth on the farm.

The last stop on the tour was the A.L. Gurganus farm near Bethel. The farm was the site of the soil fungicide test. Its purpose was to show how well certain chemicals were working against Black Shank and other tobacco diseases. Local extension agent Ken Bateman said the test was successful. "The weather stress we have experienced recently is ideal for the presence of Black Shank on the plants. If the chemicals have kept the disease down so far, we will be real pleased."

Overall, the Pitt County section of the Extension-Research on Wheels program was considered a success. Furney A. Todd, spokesman for the field tour said "Tour interest and participation has been excellent, especially in the areas of new varieties and chemical treatments." Area organizer for the tour, extension agent Ken Bateman, also expressed pleasure at the success of the event. "We've had a real fine turnout," said Bateman. "Those who were not able to attend missed a real good tour."

Sees Possible Arthritis Cure

By PETER MUCCINI
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Dr. Roger Wyburn-Mason, who claims to have discovered the cause and probable cure for rheumatoid arthritis, says he first got the idea from a laboratory technician at Yale University.

The 53-year-old British doctor, who was an associate professor at Yale in 1958, said the technician had worked out a method of extracting a certain type of minute worm from soil samples.

The method was to freeze a chunk of soil and surround it with a solution of body warmth temperature. The worms then left the chilled soil for the warmer solution in a process known as thermotaxis.

Wyburn-Mason, who said he believed that rheumatoid arthritis was caused by a protozoan — a minute one-cell animal of the amoeba family — took tissue from people who had died of rheumatoid disease.

He chilled the tissue, surrounded it with body-warmth saline solution and after two hours, he claimed, the amoeba had moved from tissue to the surrounding solution.

From his observations, Wyburn-Mason said he decided to try the drug clotrimazole on rheumatoid arthritis patients. He said the drug, hitherto used to fight fungal infections of the body, cleared up the symptoms within 14 days and patients were able to use their limbs freely.

Wyburn-Mason says he also will try his treatment on diseases related to rheumatism, "but I cannot say any more than that at present."

"I believe the treatment represents a major advance in the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, but it still needs much testing in other fields."

British doctors were extremely cautious in their reaction. One leading rheumatologist who declined to be identified said, "It seems there may be an advance but it is much too early to say anything."

Two Attended Annual Water Works School

Michael P. Bell and James Wisely, both of Greenville, attended the 36th annual Water Works Operator's School held last week at N. C. State University at Raleigh.

The school was conducted by the Department of Civil Engineering, School of Engineering and the Division of Continuing Education, with the assistance and sponsorship of the North Carolina League of Municipalities and the State of North Carolina Department of Human Resources, Health Service Division.

The purpose of the school was to improve the general level of water plant operation. The latest developments and sound techniques were taught in the classes.

Operators who attend the school and pass the examination meet the requirements of the certification law passed by the 1969 General Assembly.

Highways For A Growing City

A friend visited our office the other day. He had lived in other communities and now that he has moved to Greenville he is struck by the lack of major highways serving a city of this size.

We had to agree that Greenville has indeed suffered from lack of adequate highways connecting our community with the cities to the north and the populous Piedmont of North Carolina.

We may have the poorest highways serving our city of any municipality of our size in the state. We suppose we can blame the politicians for this, but it is a fact that Greenville was just not in the path of the super highway routes which were developed in this state. I-95 runs well to the west of us. U.S. 70 is currently being developed from the coast to Raleigh as a dual lane highway, but unfortunately it lies south of our city.

U.S. 17, an historic north-south highway may be improved someday but it lies 17 miles east of Greenville. Now there is talk of developing a new dual lane corridor along U.S. 64 but that is 11 miles north of Greenville at its closest point.

We had to agree with our visitor that Greenville has developed despite, rather than because of good highways. We simply don't have them and to go very far in any direction one has to take to the older highways.

Yet with the kind of growth Greenville and other communities in Pitt County and adjacent areas are experiencing it must soon be made clear to the state highway planners that this is a situation which cannot remain as it is forever.

We need a good dual lane road particularly connecting Greenville to the super highways of the Piedmont. Most likely such a highway would involve a new corridor following U.S. 264 as was once considered. It is time for the highway planners to treat Greenville as a growing city that it is, rather than as an out of the way crossroads of the state. We have been denied adequate highway access for too many years.

Screening Plans Move Fast

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Grateful to a General Assembly which funded North Carolina's early childhood screening effort at a time when budget-cutting was the rule, top officials of the Department of Human Resources are moving that program into high gear.

North Carolina will be the first state in the nation aimed at pre-kindergarten testing of all 85,000 children in that age bracket each year, hoping to uncover early the estimated 10 per cent of kids who have some physical, mental, or emotional problem which will give them trouble in school later on.

The General Assembly approved $3.6 million for the first two years of the screening program, and another $2 million for the related evaluation centers which will probe deeper into problems uncovered by the screening.

Four Pilot Areas

Four regions will be the first to launch the program, starting in October to screen children scheduled to enroll in kindergarten in the fall of 1976: Durham, Boone, Raleigh, and Greenville.

Each city is the center of a larger area, covering a total of 24 counties in the initial launching.

Also in October, directors will be hired for four additional regional centers: Fayetteville, Greensboro, Cullowhee, and Wilmington.

About three months later, those will also be ready to begin screening, so that before the current fiscal year ends, screening will be available for 10,000 Tar Heel four-year-olds.

Next June, another four centers will open: Asheville, Concord, Morganton, and Winston-Salem, more kids screened, and the program will be on track for full coverage of all 85,000 children in the state by 1978—also the target date for full availability of kindergarten space in the public school program.

So anxious are Dr. Mary W. Haynes, program director of the Developmental Evaluation program of Human Resources, and Secretary David T. Flaherty to get the screening program off and running that they are shuffling bureaucratic assignments elsewhere in the department to smooth the process.

The legislature normally hands out funds for new programs with a six month time lag built in, knowing that gear-up time is lengthy.

"But we're ready to go now, and while the appropriation doesn't start until October, we will apply those funds against current vacancies elsewhere in the department to get started," Flaherty said.

Validity Tests

Validity studies on the tests to be used have already been carried out in Winston-Salem, Mt. Airy, Raleigh, Chatham County, Alamance County, Durham and Fayetteville.

The test and the process of talking with the kids and their parents was "developed from scratch, and will be evolutionary... taking years to develop further," Dr. Haynes said. No previously tested method is available for such a pilot project.

At first, it looked like developing the test might delay the start of screening. The professionals and others involved got together, however, and decided that it would take years to design the perfect test—a process which has delayed screening in other parts of the nation—and the best bet here would be to get started as soon as possible.

In a validity test in Winston-Salem, 50 children were screened; five were found with developmental problems needing attention. That seems to confirm the notion that 10 per cent will be the rule of thumb in pinpointing problems.

Dr. Haynes is intent on keeping the screening program from becoming another mass bureaucracy thing. She says the effort is already involved in a "love-in" with the public schools, and local efforts are to tailor each screening system to local needs and problems. Local agencies, public or private, churches, daycare centers, schools, physicians; all are involved to the degree they will join, she said.

The INSIDE REPORT

The Ford Transformation

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

MARENGO, Ill.—In just three months, Gerald R. Ford has transformed himself from a "nice guy" who simply did not belong in the White House into a forceful leader both of his country and his party, who now runs far ahead of Ronald Reagan.

That transformation in this rock-ribbed Republican town (pop. 4,235) 65 miles from Chicago would have seemed impossible when we came here last April and found Reagan pressing hard on the heels of an appointed President without a constituency.

Some of the same registered Republicans who were saying in April that President Ford was badly miscast for the White House now see him as a President who (says one dress shop sales clerk) "doesn't soft-soap and pussy-foot around." Our interviews with 50 Republicans, conducted with the help of Patrick Caddell's

Cambridge Survey Research, give the President high marks on handling foreign policy in an almost exact reversal of three months ago: 28 "excellent" and "good," to 28 "fair" and "poor."

The Mayaguez affair was mentioned, but at least as important was strong support for the President's attempt to play an even-handed role in the Middle East crisis. "We've given Israel too much for too long," the owner of a small beauty shop told us. Overall, 37 Republican voters said the U.S. should not get involved on either side of the Arab-Israeli struggle but should "keep out of it" altogether.

The real surprise from our interviews, conducted with Caddell's Midwest representative, Henrice Taylor, was the new perception of Gerald Ford as leader of his party. In April, when we asked the question, "Whom would you like to see your party nominate for President?" only 12 of 55

Republicans volunteered Mr. Ford's name. Last week, he was chosen by 25 of 50 Republicans.

All told, Mr. Ford now outdaws Reagan for the 1976 nomination in Marengo by 35 to 11, a sensational demonstration of party acceptance by Mr. Ford compared to April, when the margin was 32 to 22.

Part of this sharp rise for the President undoubtedly stems from publicity about his 1976 campaign, dramatizing the tactical weakness of Reagan's continuing indecision to run or not to run. Had Reagan himself announced for his party's nomination last April when Mr. Ford was at his nadir, he might have gained a major advantage over the President.

Thus, judging from the dramatic rise in strength Mr. Ford is now exhibiting among Republicans here, Reagan is taking dangerous risks with each day's delay in making up his own mind.

Nevertheless, Reagan retains impressive political support against an incumbent President. "I am getting to like Ford," a housewife told us, "but I'd sure vote for Reagan if I have the chance. He just has a little more push than Ford." A real estate salesman described Mr. Ford as "a disappointment," Reagan as "a real leader."

This potential support for Reagan is buttressed by the favorable voter reaction to Reagan, scarcely different from their reaction to the President. In answer to our question, "Do you have a generally favorable or unfavorable reaction?" they gave Mr. Ford a 7-to-1 favorable rating, Reagan almost 8-to-1 (with Vice President Nelson Rockefeller just a shade ahead of even). When we matched Reagan against Rockefeller in this conservative heartland, Reagan outscored the Vice President by a 3-to-1 margin.

Overshadowing Reagan's latent strength, however, is the preemptive aspect of Mr. Ford's announced candidacy. "I feel a lot better about Ford than the last time we talked," said a retired postal worker who was an all-out Reaganite when we questioned him in April. A cabinet maker told us: "Ford is just beginning to get the experience he needs and I think we should keep him."

Such evaluations are made possible by these voters' perception of better economic conditions, for which Mr. Ford gets credit. In April, just before national unemployment topped 9 per cent, the President's rating on the economy was miserable: only 12 of 55 voters gave him a "good" mark. Now 23 of 50

Strength For Today

A cynic recently announced an "updated" version of the Golden Rule. It was, simply, "Do unto the other fellow as you think he is going to do unto you, and do it first."

Unfortunately, throughout the course of history this version of the Golden Rule has been applied more often than the version we try to abide by. There is a world of difference between this rule and, "All things therefore whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them: for this is Travels With Henry K.

BONN—Every American going abroad should travel with Henry Kissinger at least once. I had the pleasure a couple of weeks ago of flying around Europe with the secretary of state while he held useful and constructive talks in a friendly atmosphere with Giscard d'Estaing of France, Andrei Gromyko of the Soviet Union, Helmut Schmidt of Germany and Yitzhak Rabin of Israel.

There is no greater honor than to be selected as one of the elite 14 journalists to fly on Mr. Kissinger's well-appointed Air Force 707 and share in the joys and heart-break of American jet diplomacy.

The advantages of traveling with Mr. Kissinger are enormous. You don't have to go through customs, you don't have to carry your own luggage and you don't have to tip taxi drivers.

The only disadvantage is that you have to stand in hotel lobbies and in front of old castles for five or six hours doing nothing until he is ready to leave for his next stop.

The one thing every journalist must agree on when traveling with Mr. Kissinger is that you may not identify the person who gives background briefings on the plane by name: You can't even say a high U.S. official with wavy hair, horn-rimmed glasses and German accent who had his garbage stolen last week said—

The only attribution permitted is "a senior American official on Dr. Kissinger's plane," and since I took the pledge I don't want anyone guessing who that could be.

What I didn't realize until I traveled on the Kissinger plane is how involved you can become in the secretary's foreign policies. Because you are with him, the foreign press waiting on the ground assume you know something they don't, and pretty soon you find yourself holding press conferences and giving interviews on the steps of chateaus and castles in Paris, Geneva and Bonn. When you're new on the plane you tend to deny inside knowledge concerning Kissinger, but in a short while you become convinced you are an expert and answer every question posed to you by desperate news-hungry press.

While I was willing to talk frankly with the foreign journalists I insisted anything I said had to be attributed to a senior American correspondent traveling with a senior American official.

This is how these conferences would go:

Swiss radio correspondent: Why didn't Nancy come to Europe with Henry?

Senior correspondent: We felt since these were exploratory talks it would be too early for her to make an appearance.

German newscaster: Did Nancy come to the airport and if so what was her mood?

S.C.: She seemed relaxed and smiling and both she and Henry agreed that they had frank dialogues and fruitful exchanges during their dinner of the previous evening.

French correspondent: Why did Dr. Kissinger come to Europe at this time?

S.C.: It is very hot in Washington now and he hadn't been out of the country in two weeks.

Israeli TV man: If Dr. Kissinger fails in these talks what will he do next?

S.C.: Kissinger never fails. Sometimes he may not reach a full agreement and then he is willing to settle for a narrowing of the differences

Other Editors Say Should Stay Home

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

Howard K. Smith said something on his ABC news program the other night that made a great deal of sense. He voiced his opposition to President Ford's plans for attending an East-West supper summit in Helsinki July 30, a meeting at which the Soviet Union and 33 other nations will attend.

The purpose of the meeting is certainly one the United States should not agree to and should not condone—that is, official confirmation of Russia's post-World War II influence over Eastern Europe.

By attending such a show, Ford is giving sanction to a shameful act of aggression that took place during and at the end of World War II when Soviet troops overran numerous countries of Eastern Europe in their pursuit of German forces—and stayed.

Stalin used World War II as an excuse to subjugate all of Eastern Europe with brute force, a move that the Allies condoned at the time, although Winston Churchill warned the Allies they should never permit the Russians to remain in the countries formerly occupied by German troops.

The upshot of the whole matter was that the citizenry of those countries traded one tyrant for another, while the Allies lifted not one finger to stop it.

In the process, thousands of East Europeans who hated Communism were murdered, countless thousands of others were driven off to Siberian slave camps and never heard from again.

Today the Russians own a nice little empire, bought and paid for with Western Allied help and money, supplied during the hectic days of World War II. Without Lend-Lease from the United States, Russia would never have even pushed the Germans out of Soviet territory.

So with our aid, the Russian hordes came and stayed. And today, Moscow wants the United States and other nations to go to Helsinki and give their blessing to the Kremlin gangsters, thus making the rape of Eastern Europe legal and official. President Ford should boycott that meeting, as should every other nation that still has decency as a basis for its existence.

40 Years Ago Today

July 25, 1935

Major R. C. Flanagan has returned from Raleigh, where he went to ascertain details of the law providing for PWA loans and grants for paving operations in the various towns and cities of the country.

The major, who conferred at considerable length with officials of the local government commission, said they were in sympathy with the plan of the city to obtain a grant and loan for such operations here. Officials said they plan to cooperate with this municipality in every way possible.

In view of the movement to provide pavement in every part of the city where desired, the major said the board of aldermen was at this time considering petitions of this nature. He urged all persons desiring street paving or curb and gutter improvements to file their petitions with the board as soon as possible.

This request is made, the major said, so the aldermen will be able to determine the exact amount of money needed for such operations here.

Small Bills Have Better Chance

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Send a small bill to a very large corporation, even if you supplied it with no product or service, and there is some chance you'll get paid. Less chance perhaps than a year ago, but still a chance.

The reason is that some companies have a policy of automatically paying very small bills, reasoning that to check all of them would result in an even greater cost. And in some companies they're just careless. Bogus bills slip by.

With an emphasis on cost controls, however, companies have tightened their bill-paying practices, and so the defrauder has to be more sophisticated. He must adapt to his environment, and sometimes he does it well.

One of the cleverest schemes today involves the bogus bill for distributing a company's annual report and proxy materials. Hundreds of companies are paying for such "services" and receiving nothing of value.

The background: Brokerage houses often buy stock for their customers and keep it in "street name," meaning the name of the brokerage house. The corporation sometimes never knows who these stockholders are.

But, for investment and public relations purposes, the corporation wants to keep in touch with these shareholders. It agrees to pay the brokers 50 cents for each set of proxy materials the brokers order and distribute.

In the course of a year a publicly held company might get orders from dozens of brokerage houses, orders that it automatically fills and for which it pays 50 cents per order, a fee set by the N.Y. Stock Exchange.

This provides the opportunity for what appears to be hundreds of small-time operators to seek to be distributors of annual reports. They set up business and christen themselves with one of those long, brokerage house-type names.

They submit their orders on official-looking forms for 20 or 25 reports and then quickly follow with their bills. Usually they keep them below $25 so there'll be less chance of being questioned.

One corporate secretary, T.C. Tyler Jr. of J.M. Smucker Co., found that such phony bills, if paid, would have cost his company $5,000 in one year, to say nothing of the postage and printing costs involved. Many annual reports cost in excess of $2 a copy to print.

Quite often the requester never intends to redistribute the reports, although some do reshuffle materials to colleges and libraries. Others just throw the reports away. They have no operation other than a box number.

Pressed for an operating address, the bogus firm sometimes supplies a street number that turns out to be a vacant lot or a rooming house.

Too often to be ignored, the address is either a college dorm or a house near a college campus, particularly one with a school of business administration.

Energy Costs Up 30 Per Cent

By RANDOLPH SCHMID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The price Americans paid for electricity jumped 30 per cent last year due primarily to higher fuel costs, according to a report from the Environmental Protection Agency.

The EPA authorized the study to determine how much of an effect antipollution measures were having on electricity costs, and reported these only accounted for 5 per cent of the increase.

However, EPA Administrator Russell E. Train noted that "increases attributable to environmental regulations may increase over the next five years as the utilities phase in capital expenditures for pollution control."

The report, released Thursday, said that "1974 saw an unprecedented increase in the cost of electricity." It estimated that total revenues of the electric industry totaled $40 billion during the year, an increase of $9 billion over 1973.

Thus, for the average American, the price of one kilowatt hour of electricity rose from 1.97 cents to 2.57 cents, the study said.

The report said that on average electricity rates increased 23 per cent for residential customers and 33 per cent for commercial and industrial users of electricity to make the average 30 per cent.

"Consumers along both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts were the most seriously affected by the higher rates, the report said. And 'New England and the Middle Atlantic regions, which historically have had the highest electric rates, also had the highest rates of increase during the last year'."

The report said fuel prices accounted for 60 per cent of the higher electricity costs. Nonfuel electricity costs increased only 16.8 per cent during the year, with the largest factor in this category the rising interest rates on borrowed money, the report said. Fuel-switching from high sulfur to low-sulfur coal and oil, and coal-to-oil and coal-to-gas conversions of generating plants accounted for only 2.5 per cent of the higher costs, the report said. In addition, the report estimated that about 8 per cent of utilities' capital expenditures were attributable to environmental factors.

The report was prepared for EPA by the independent research firm of Temple, Barker and Sloane, Inc.

Mid-East Plan Given Approval

The 10 sponsors of the Mid-East Resource Conservation and Development Project have approved the long-range plan for the Mid-East Region. The Plan has been named "Natural Resources for Today and Tomorrow." It contains 141 different measures which, when carried out, will have a considerable economic and social impact in the five-county area, which is, Beaufort, Bertie, Hertford, Martin, and Pitt Counties.

The Plan was developed by the Mid-East RC&D Council, assisted by resource committees, local groups and individuals. The eight resource committees including Agriculture, Fish and Wildlife, Forestry, Land and Water, Recreation and Tourism, Business and Industry, Communication and Transportation, and Community Facilities and Services, have reviewed the RC&D Measures.

The Plan has been presented to Governor James E. Holshouser, Jr. for his review and approval. It then will go to Washington, D.C., for approval by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Three people from Pitt County are members of the Mid-East RC&D Council. They are J.H. Mobley of the Pitt County Planning Board; Burney L. Tucker of the Board of Pitt County Commissioners; and Ralph C. Tucker of the Board of Supervisors for Pitt Soil and Water Conservation District.

(Continued from page 4) serve as a "takeoff" for traditional treaties that would make the human-rights provisions binding. More important, it serves detente, the policy that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has pursued through the Nixon and Ford administrations. Another bond has been struck between East and West, giving promise of more understandings, such as a projected treaty to limit offensive nuclear weapons.

On a practical level, President Ford will seize the opportunity of the summit setting to talk to Brezhnev about verification and other outstanding issues that are blocking completion of the weapons pact. Unless they are resolved, Brezhnev's planned visit to Washington this fall will be delayed — or held without a treaty signing.

Moreover, in the Helsinki declaration the Soviets make the gesture of agreeing to give 21-day advance notice of maneuvers involving 25,000 soldiers or more within 175 miles of their western borders. This applies also to Soviet troops in East Germany or elsewhere.

Whether the document would restrain the Soviets from applying the Brezhnev doctrine, the self-proclaimed right to intervene in a Warsaw bloc state, or from meddling in Portugal, is highly problematic.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — "It's just a bunch of huggin' and kissin' and shoutin' and I didn't get no champagne."

So spoke a disgruntled buddy of 12-year-old Kevin Brand, one of the few splashdown party spectators unimpressed or uninvolved in the revelry hailing the return to earth Thursday of the Apollo astronauts.

Television viewers across this space community watched the bull's-eye splashdown and recovery of Tom Stafford, Deke Slayton and Vance Brand, but it was something special for the astronauts' families.

"It's still the same old tense splashdown," sighed Faye Stafford. "I cried a bit," admitted Marjory Slayton.

"It was marvelous, wasn't it?" asked Joan Brand.

Following custom, Mrs. Stafford and Mrs. Slayton invited friends into their homes for private television sessions and parties.

But not Mrs. Brand, who broke totally with tradition, first by working all day at her job as construction supervisor for a Houston area home-builder.

Then she opened the doors of a nearby office for a madcap TV party punctuated by the sounds of popping champagne corks and attended by at least 100 persons, including kids and a gentleman clad in orange cowboy boots and turquoise western suit.

"Down the hatch," said Mrs. Brand happily as she led off a champagne toast with sons Kevin and Patrick, 17, and daughter Susan, 21.

The Brand family got a special treat in that Stephanie Brand, 19, appeared on the live telecast of the splashdown and recovery as a guest of one of the national networks.

"I'm not sure what I thought about that, but I laughed a lot at her," said Kevin, who watched most of the proceedings sprawled across his mother's lap, then joined a group of young friends for a party of his own.

He was not impressed by the champagne — "I've had it before at New Year's Eve. I don't like the taste but I drink it anyway."

Mrs. Brand intended to send her husband a special message in Hawaii today to mark their 22nd wedding anniversary. And she figures Brand is already pondering his next space mission.

"I imagine he will now more than ever want to stay with the space program," she predicted.

Mrs. Stafford, meanwhile, took note of her husband's four space missions to date and said, "I think this is the last one. But that is what I thought on Apollo 10."

Mrs. Slayton, whose husband had waited 16 years for this, his first space flight, emerged from her home, lifted a champagne glass skyward and said simply, "To Dad and the other guys."

In Coma For 2 Years, And Dies

MIAMI (AP) — For two years, Ronda Seaman slept in a deep coma, unaware of the heated legal battle that surrounded the futile treatment of her injuries in a hospital which had sued her for trespassing.

Thursday, she died. In June 1973, her parents, Irwin and Adele Seaman, moved Ronda with them from New York to Miami, despite the serious skull fracture she suffered in an auto crash on the Long Island Expressway.

Before the crash, the 19-year-old junior college coed was looking forward to entering the University of Miami. But she never regained consciousness after the accident.

Within a few months, the family's medical insurance was virtually exhausted. Within a year and a half, the family owed some $65,000 in bills to Doctors Hospital, where a series of specialists advising internal specialist Dr. John D. Liebler attempted to save her. But eight months ago, Dr. Irwin Perlmutter, a neurosurgeon, said, "She hasn't got the function of her cerebral hemispheres and she's without hope of recovery."

The hospital, hoping to cut its losses, sued Ronda last November for trespassing. The suit was never resolved.

"Technically, it's still filed, but it's inactive," said hospital administrator Joseph McAloon after Ronda died from undetermined complications. "There were some payments on her bill from Blue Cross, about $15,000. But that still leaves a balance of about $110,000."

"I don't think her parents are in any position to pay. We'll have no alternative but to absorb the charges if they can't

Odd Rising Of Polytheism Among Americans As Cults Proliferate

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — The "gods" are multiplying in America. In contrast to the traditional monotheistic view of one universal God recognized through events of Jewish-Christian history, there is a rising, mixed polytheism.

That is a conclusion drawn these days by numerous religious and social analysts.

It's apparent "in the proliferation of cults," says Dr. Robert Ellwood, a religious sociologist at the University of Southern California and a specialist on new religions in modern culture.

"Withdrawal groups," he calls them.

He says they diverge from historic concepts of "church-type" groups oriented to normative values of society and family. In the cults, stronger group cohesiveness takes the place of the family and very authoritative leaders take the place of the father."

Dr. Walter Martin, a professor at the Melodyland School of Theology here, says the cults have "become very powerful in the United States" and display a "semantic jungle" of religious terms and ideas about divinity.

"The problem in dealing with cults is that words undergo redefinition," he says. "This makes for multifarious definitions of God, a kind of pantheism or polytheistic theology that does not bear any relation to historic religion."

David L. Miller, associate professor of religion at Syracuse University, sees evidence of the shift in current "interest in the occult, in magic, in extraterrestrial life, in Hindu India and Buddhist Japan, in multidimensional China, in sorcery, in 'new religions' and many other meaning systems hitherto foreign."

College students now demand "massive and total access to all the gods of men, Eastern and Western, primitive and modern, heretical and orthodox, mad and sane," he writes in a book recently issued by Harper and Row, called "The New Polytheism: Rebirth of the Gods and Goddesses."

Citing ancient cultural roots of American democracy, he says, "The gods and goddesses of Greece are our heritage. Sooner or later, it is they who will return."

Some scholars suggest there are contemporary tendencies toward conditions of ancient Rome, when minority Judaism and fledgling Christianity were part of a scene dominated by the official Roman pantheon of gods.

Ellwood and Martin, who spoke here at a recent annual meeting of the Religion News-writers Association, including news reporters of religion from across the country, noted the rapid growth of various closely communal cults.

Martin, author of "The Kingdom of the Cults" recently issued by Bethany Press, noted that Jesus predicted a rise of false "Christs" and "gods" as the world moved toward its consummation. Martin added: "The massive proliferation of cults would indicate we're in that age."

Ford Highway Proposal Prompts State Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's proposal to dismantle the Highway Trust Fund has prompted state and local officials to put in claims for more funds from the multi-million-dollar spending program.

Govs. James Holshouser of North Carolina and Ray Blanton of Tennessee said the states want the trust fund retained much as it is, with money from the four-cent federal gasoline tax earmarked for highway construction.

But the two governors told a Senate public works subcommittee Thursday states should have a larger share in administering the fund.

Holshouser suggested that the states be given control of three fourths of the trust funds' revenue.

But Michael J. Lazar, transportation administrator for New York City, urged that federal highway aid be given directly to large cities and not through the states.

Holshouser, a Republican, and Blanton, a Democrat, spoke on behalf of the National Governors Conference. Lazar represented the National League of Cities and the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

Under Ford's proposal, the four-cent per gallon tax would be used this way: two cents for the general treasury, one cent for completion of the interstate highway system and one cent to be returned to states that increase their own gasoline tax by a penny.

All four cents now go to the trust fund, which is used only for highway construction.

Holshouser recommended that the two cents Ford recommended go into the general fund and the one cent be proposed be set aside for the states should all go to the states.

"We do not consider the President's proposal, to divert funds from the trust fund to the general fund to be valid," Blanton said. "Highway needs are still prevalent."

Lazar said the cities want direct highway grants from the federal government because the current distribution process leads to "an extremely burdensome proliferation of red tape."

Farmville Mart Volume Heavier

FARMVILLE—Volume of sales was heavier yesterday on the Farmville Tobacco Market than on Wednesday with more quality grades of lugs on the warehouse floors than on any previous day this season.

Sales supervisor Louis Williams said that primings and non-descript grades continued to account for most of the volume. Stabilization receipts here Thursday, according to Williams, were about the same as on Wednesday when totals showed a sharp decline from previous days.

The supervisor said that the market sold 284,828 pounds of tobacco yesterday for $246,653, an average per hundred pounds of $86.60.

To date, the market has sold 2,655,456 pounds for $2,256,089 in averaging $84.96.

DESTINY: THE MINOR LEAGUES?

Headed for the "Majors" — that's his dream. But don't count on it, even if he stays in baseball!

For in thousands of cities and towns across America we know that baseball isn't just the major leagues. We know boys on their way up... and men on their way down... and fellows who have gone about as far as they can go. A real ball player is one who gives his club his best—in any league.

How close this comes to a fundamental conviction of the Church!

Christianity gives a man solid footing for his faith in God and in himself. To achieve the full potential of our God-given talents is primary; to fulfill every dream is secondary.

The Church promises no man earthly success. But it helps us to appraise the gifts God gave... to use them honestly and unselfishly. And, startlingly, it points the way to new goals, far beyond our dreams.

Special Use Permit Request Sees Lengthy Hearing

The Greenville Board of Adjustments had one of its longer meetings in recent months last night as discussion, both pro and con, centered around a request by the Pitt County Mental Department for a special use permit.

The department requested a special use permit in order to operate a school for the mentally retarded at 1600 E. Greenville Boulevard.

Following discussion by the Board with residents of the area who opposed the request as well as with supporters of the school program, board members voted to grant the request with the stipulation that the Pitt department come back before the board at the August meeting to seek a variance.

The awarding of the special use permit carried the stipulation that the permit would be subject to the granting of the variance at the August meeting. Four other stipulations were attached to the granting of the request, stating that the special use permit would be valid for a term of one year and be subject to review at the end of a year; that no more than 20 students be involved in the program; that there be no night classes; and that a fence be erected to screen the school property from the Archie L. Henry property at 1602 E. Greenville Boulevard.

The board received several letters stating support for the Mental Health program and a large crowd of supporters was on hand at city hall for the meeting, in addition to several residents of the school area who opposed the request.

A petition containing approximately 40 names was submitted to the board in a show of opposition to the request. Most of the opposition was based on the noise factor and possibility that the school operation will constitute a nuisance to the neighborhood. Residents were assured that the school would not be a nuisance.

No more than 20 persons, 16 years of age or older, will be involved in the school program, it was pointed out. The students will be trained at the school in preparation for work at the Sheltered Workshop.

In other business during the meeting, the board granted a request for a special use permit by Herman Heath who sought to operate an Army surplus and miscellaneous goods store at 1501 Evans Street.

A request by James Wesley Health for a special use permit in order to operate a real estate office in the structure at 213 S.

Library Street was granted with the stipulation that a sign will not be installed.

A request by Ed E. Rawl and sons for a special use permit in order to construct and operate a roller skating rink on land (1.65 acres) directly behind Shoneys on the 264 Bypass was granted with no opposition stated.

A request for a special use permit by Ida Staton in order to place a trailer on the lot at 206 Ebron Road on property zoned Flood Plain was tabled until the Aug. 24 meeting.

Officers for the coming year were reelected, including William B. Whitehurst, chairman; Howard Porter, vice chairman, and Ginger Barber, secretary.

Captured U.S. Weapons Shipped To N. Vietnam

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—North Vietnam has started shipping home some of the billions of dollars worth of U.S. weapons it captured from defeated South Vietnamese forces, Pentagon sources report.

The sources said 25 U.S. 105-millimeter howitzers were seen recently in Haiphong harbor aboard a landing ship tank originally supplied by the United States to the South Vietnamese navy.

The North Vietnamese captured about 1,000 howitzers when the South Vietnamese army collapsed last spring, according to Pentagon estimates.

Over-all, the Pentagon has calculated that the North Vietnamese got about $2 billion worth of serviceable American-made planes, tanks, artillery pieces, ammunition and other equipment when South Vietnam fell.

Another $3 billion or so in arms that came under North Vietnamese control was believed to be in unusable condition because of damage or lack of spare parts and maintenance.

In the case of the howitzers, U.S. intelligence specialists say the North Vietnamese should be able to obtain ammunition and spare parts from the Communist Chinese, who make artillery very similar to the U.S. 105-millimeter howitzers.

Meanwhile, Pentagon sources say the North Vietnamese are forming four new air force regiments in South Vietnam and equipping them with about 180 captured U.S. F5 jet fighters and A37 light bombers, as well as Russian-made MIG21s.

There has been one instance since the fall of South Vietnam in which it was reported that the North Vietnamese used A37 bombers in battles with the Communist Cambodians over several small disputed islands in the Gulf of Thailand.

Pentagon officials said last month they believe the A37s may have been flown by U.S.-trained pilots who served in the South Vietnamese air force until North Vietnam won.

Intelligence men have been watching for evidence that the North Vietnamese may be sending some of the huge stock of captured small arms to insurgents in other Southeast Asian countries.

So far, there has been one report that a quantity of U.S. M16 rifles were provided by the North Vietnamese to Moslem rebels fighting government troops in the Philippines.

On the other hand, intelligence continues to receive word of holdout resistance by South Vietnamese soldiers who apparently have some American arms and ammunition.

The most recent reports tell of remnants of the South Vietnamese 9th Infantry Division in Chau Doc province where they are said to be cooperating with members of a militant religious sect against the Communists.

A Review

'Jaws' Plotline In Movie Is Different

If you think you can take a book and a flashlight and follow the plotline of "Jaws," forget it. The movie is a far cry from the book, and a lot better.

For the record, "Jaws" is the best-selling book by Peter Benchley which was transformed into one of the year's great screen thrillers. The setting is Amity Island, a seaside resort on Long Island. Roy Schieder stars as police chief Roy Brody, who really is unaccustomed to the waters off Long Island, and would rather settle for New York City, along with his wife.

Brody's fears of the waters are confirmed when a cottager takes a midnight swim, and is ripped to bits by the man-eating white shark. The police chief is forced to coverup the death when the town mayor and top realtor feels that any revelation of the death will cause the summer business to be frightened away. His feelings change, however, when a second victim is claimed by the killer shark.

The chief hires shark specialist Matt Hooper, a bearded college graduate played by Richard Dreyfuss. Hooper, who is up to his neck in shark facts, determines that after the town holds a shark hunt and comes up with one, they have not caught the killer.

Enter Quint (Robert Shaw). He had demanded $10,000 from the town fathers to hunt and destroy the shark. The council hedged at first, but when Brody's son is nearly eaten, and another victim loses a leg, the town pays up.

The great expedition begins, with Quint, Brody, and Hooper in search. Hooper believes his oceanographic equipment will trap the killer, while Quint believes good old fish sense will capture the shark. Brody would just as soon be on dry land. Soon enough, they all get to see the 20-ft. monster and go about the task of trying to kill it.

After three tries, and many harpoons and bullets, the shark meets his death, but not before taking Quint with him. Hooper, after being driven to the ocean floor out of his shark observation cage when the shark attacks the cage and rips it up. Brody kills the shark with a shotgun, but screen writers have made the ending exciting.

Major revisions between the book and the screenplay streamline the plot, keeping the scope of the movie within the search for the shark. Hooper's extra-curricular activities in the book are eliminated from the movie, and a few humorous moments are included to break the continual suspense.

"Jaws" may convince you not to go swimming in the ocean again, but the movie will convince you that it will go down as one of the classic excitement movies in many years. The Pitt Theatre features "Jaws" starting tonight.

SPRIT OF '76 — An American flag fluttered from the Greenville Utilities water tank at First and Jarvis Street Thursday afternoon. The flag had been attached to the cable which marks the water level of the tank. Was it honoring the nation's bicentennial? Utilities Director Charles Horne said the commission doesn't know how the flag got up on the tank. "I think is very patriotic," he said. "But I don't believe we can let it stay up there." The pranksters had to climb a fence surrounding the tank grounds and then a ladder to the railing around the tank. There is also a locked entrance to the catwalk around the tank which had to be traversed. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Eddie Lawing singled with two out in the eleventh inning to score Addison Bass with the winning run in a 4-3 East Carolina victory over Louisville College in Bunn last night.

The real drama in the inning came in the bottom half though when Louisville threatened to come back and win the game. The Hurricanes put men on first and second with one out with a single, an error and a sacrifice off Pirate hurler Terry Durham.

At this point, Pirate coach

George Williams ordered an intentional walk for David Warrick loading the bases and giving ECU a possible force at home.

Louisburg coach Russ Frazier countered with a pinch hitter, Carl Carlisle. This is where the commotion started.

On Durham's first pitch to Carlisle, the plate umpire ruled a close pitch a strike. With the call, Frazier came storming off the bench.

After a heated dispute, which was won by the umpire, Frazier returned to the bench. Two pitches later when Carlisle was called out on another close strike by Durham, Frazier again charged the plate.

This time the umpire was waiting for him.

When Frazier arrived, he was warned that he better go back to the bench or leave.

"I might go back, but I'll be coming back this way if you keep calling the pitches the way you have been," said Frazier, as he retreated to the bench.

After all this commotion, the next Louisville batter did not stand a chance against Durham.

The batter, Kelly Miller, went down on three pitches by Durham and ECU had its third straight win.

The game contained more than a few close plays as the Pirates and Hurricanes battled back and forth to a 3-3 tie before Lawing's heroics. In the eleventh, Howard McCullough led off by grounding out before Bass reached base on an error. Louisville pitcher Randy Warrick got the second out when Glenn Card fled to left, but walked Ken Gentry to move Bass to second. Lawing, who was 2-for-5 for the game, then belted a single to left and Bass outraced the throw home for the winning run. ECU also scored the first run in the game. That run came in the second when McCullough singled and his courtesy runner Bob Feeney, scored from second on a hit by Card.

Card, Feeney and McCullough were also involved in the two Pirates runs in the sixth. Tied 1-1, ECU scored twice to take a 3-1 lead before the 'Canes rallied in the eighth to knot the score. Allan Smith walked with one out in the sixth and McCullough singled. When Bass hit a chopper which went for a hit to short, Smith and courtesy runner Feeney advanced to load the bases. Card then stroked a single to left, scoring Smith and Feeney.

ECU had another chance to score in the seventh when it loaded the bases with nobody out, but a fly out and a double played left the Bucs empty-handed.

Louisburg tied the game in the eighth. Timmy Warrick walked with one out and Miller doubled. Durham then walked Craig Weisner to load the bases for Charlie Stevens. Durham seemed to have Stevens' number, though, as the right-fielder dribbled a ball towards third. Charging the ball to make the play home, Geoff Beaton bobbled the chance and Warrick scored to make it 3-2.

When Sonny Wooten forced Stevens at second on the next play, Miller scored the tying run. Steve Coats then grounded to Smith at first to end the last major Louisville threat until the eleventh.

Card, with three rbis, and McCullough, with three hits, were the hitting stars of the game until Lawing's hit in the eleventh.

Durham went the distance for ECU, just as Louisville's Randy Warrick did for the Hurricanes record, his third win in five decisions. Warrick is 5-3.

The win moved the Pirates, now 12-11 into a three-way tie for second with Methodist and UNC-Wilmington.

The Pirates and Hurricanes will meet in Bunn again tonight at 7:30 before ECU returns to Harrington Field Saturday to host UNC-Wilmington. Gametime is 3 o'clock.

North May Have Tallest Team On Record

If this year's Boys Home All-Star football game doesn't set any football records, it might just set another one. The North might just be the tallest team on record.

North Coach Daryl Allen of Ahsoskie has 10 linemen on his squad all at least 6-3 and weighing from 225 to 235. "We thought about tall folks for the line when we were selecting the squad, Allen said. The taller people seem to stand the heat better than the shorter person.

high school in football. Many won awards in other sports as well.

One player has some bowl game experience already. John Rushing, was a first string tight end in the Shrine bowl. Rushing has signed a grant to play football at Carolina. He was also an MVP in his conference and has played both tight end and tackle.

Four players, John McDonald, Reggie Jackson, Bake Baker and Danny Holt were all selected to Prep-All-American teams. McDonald was listed in Who's Who in American High Schools. He is going to Duke.

The 60 players have few hobbies outside of the realm of sports. Some of those listed were listening to music, dancing, drawing and church activities.

The East-West football game, which will be played next Thursday in Greensboro, may enjoy an edge in age and tradition but its shine is slowly being tarnished by the Boys Home game.

Boys Home coaches feel the contest is growing mainly because it supports Boys Home at Lake Waccamaw. The game will host 60 of the best players in the state, just as the East West game does. The game continues to gain in prominence because of the results of the game. The E-W game is sponsored by the coaches.

Tonight the players will be treated by the Jaycees to a banquet. The feast will be at the Candlewick Inn and the guest speaker will be Duke Head Football Coach Mike McGee. In years past, the banquet has had such speakers as Lou Holtz, N.C. State head coach, ECU's Pat Dye, and John Baker, a former pro football player.

The game Saturday night will be the first athletic event under the new lights at Ficklen Stadium. RoseHigh was the first to use the lights when they held the graduation ceremonies in early June.

Game time is set for 8:00. Tickets can be purchased from any Greenville Jaycee or at the gate.

Games Are Changed

Three Babe Ruth league games scheduled for Saturday have been shuffled around as a result of a softball tournament scheduled for the Jaycee park.

Saturday's schedule called for Auto Specialty to play Pitt Plaza and Graniteers to play Cox Realty at the JC park. The game will be played at Guy Smith with the Auto Specialty-PP game beginning at 12:00, and the regularly scheduled game for Guy Smith, Planter vs. College View being moved up to 4:00.

Greenville Loses On Homer In Seventh

KINSTON—Danny Bolin knocked the first pitch he saw in, the bottom of the seventh inning over the left field wall to give Kings Mountain a 3-2 win over the Greenville Babe Ruth All-Stars, yesterday.

The loss eliminated Greenville from the state tournament. Greenville lost its first game of the tournament but won the second. Danny Hester pitched for Greenville and served up the killing shot. Hester gave up five hits, walked two and struck out two.

Kings Mt. got the initial lead with a run in the first. Vincent Haynes singled and an error moved him to second. A second error moved him to third and Haynes scored on a double steal after Steve Lancaster walked. Greenville tied it in the fifth and went ahead in the sixth. With one out in the fifth, Lance Weatherington hit into a fielder's choice. Ronnie Chapman singled him to second and a hit by Doug Selby drove Weatherington across.

Gary Allen led off the sixth with a single to center and Derek Brewington singled. Both were sacrificed up and a fly by Greg Lee scored Allen.

But Kings Mr. got a run in the bottom of the sixth as Haynes singled and scored on a sacrifice fly to tie the game, 2-2.

Greenville "put the lead-off man on in the top of the seventh but he was forced by Chapman. Chapman moved to second on an out and Michael Shank walked. Allen singled Chapman to third but Chapman overran the bag and was caught in a rundown. Bolin came up in the bottom of the seventh and hit the first pitch from Hester over the wall in Kings' Grainger Stadium winning the game.

Williams Resigns Post

CHAPEL HILL, N.C.—Jack E. Williams, sports information director at the University of North Carolina the past nine years, has resigned effective July 31 to enter private business.

Williams also disclosed that he plans to write a book on Dean Smith, the Tar Heels' colorful basketball coach. Williams said the book will reveal many intimate details of Smith's career and his rise to the top of his profession.

Homer Rice, UNC Director of Athletics, said that Rick Brewer, an assistant in the Sports Information Office the past seven years, has been named Sports Information Director on an interim basis.

Williams was named Sports Information Director at Carolina in August, 1966, succeeding Bob Quincy. He is only the third man to have held the position.

Alston Still Optimistic

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

It's a do-or-die weekend for Walter Alston and the Dodgers. And while a lot of people seem to feel the Dodgers already have one foot in the coffin and can only step out of it by sweeping four games from Cincinnati this weekend, Alston is as unflappable as ever.

"I feel that we have to win six of our remaining 11 games with the Reds to stand a chance," he blithely announced Thursday. "But no one game is any bigger than another."

Oh, yeah? Try asking his players—like Steve Garvey, for example—and you'll find out differently.

"Until we can get it together against the rest of the teams, it looks like the only way we're going to get close again is in the head-to-head games with Cincinnati," Garvey said. "We need to take this series for more than the obvious reason. Maybe it can help us get our adrenalin going again."

They got it going pretty good on Thursday against St. Louis, routing the Cardinals 8-2. But despite the victory, Los Angeles remained a whopping 12½ games back of the Reds in the National League West going into this evening's two-night doubleheader in Cincinnati.

The Reds retained their lead by beating New York 2-1. In the rest of the league, Atlanta beat Philadelphia 5-4, Houston edged Montreal 6-5 and Chicago defeated San Francisco 4-3. San Diego and Pittsburgh were not scheduled.

Seaver. They beat him for the 16th time in 25 career decisions and the third time in four decisions this year, all that despite the fact that Seaver surpassed the 2,000 strikeout mark in his career, only the 27th pitcher to do so in major league history. Seaver gave up what proved to be his downfall in the second inning on run-scoring singles by Cesar Geronimo and winning pitcher Fred Norman.

Braves 5, Phillies 4
Phil Niekro hurled a five-hitter and doubled home Atlanta's winning run in a two-run seventh inning to drop the Phils 4½ games behind idle Pittsburgh in the East Division.

With one out in the seventh, Larvell Banks singled and Biff Poceroba doubled to break a 3-3 tie, then Niekro won the game—chasing Larry Christenson in the process—with his double down the right field line.

Astros 6, Expos 5
Larry Milbourne drilled a two-run triple to highlight a four-run sixth inning that carried the Astros past Montreal.

Bob Watson's single, a balk by Steve Renko and an Milt May's hit tied the score 3-3. Then Roger Metzger singled, both runners scored on Milbourne's shot to right-center field and Milbourne came home on Wilbur Howard's single.

Cubs 4, Giants 3
Gene Hiser drove in one run and scored one to lead Chicago past the Giants. The Cubs got two runs in the first inning on a bases-loaded walk and Hiser's sacrifice fly, then Hiser singled in the fourth, triggering a two-run inning with the scoring coming on a single by pitcher Bill Bonham and Don Kessinger's sacrifice fly.

ROANOKE RAPIDS—Kenny Barnes smashed a three run homer in the bottom of the sixth inning to break a 4-4 tie and give the North State Little League All-Stars a 7-4 win over Morehead City in the district Little Tournament, yesterday.

Greenville had taken the lead in the third, 3-1, but Morehead City battled back to tie the game in the fifth on a two-run homer by Gregory Guthrie.

Bosox Are Hot But Yanks Are Doing The Sweating

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

It's the Boston Red Sox who are hot...but it's the New York Yankees who are sweating in the American League East.

The Red Sox hold an eight-game lead over New York and intend to enhance it as they confront the Yankees tonight in the start of a four-game series.

"New York's eight games behind us and they've got to get a split with us this weekend or it doesn't do them a bit of good," said Carl Yastrzemski after the Red Sox stopped the Minnesota Twins 6-2 Thursday for their 14th victory in 16 games.

"With the starters we've got, I think we're in pretty good shape. This is by far the best Red Sox team I've played on."

Luis Tiant, one of the premier starters referred to by Yastrzemski, will pitch the series opener in Shea Stadium against New York's Rudy May.

Rick Wise, another of those excellent Boston pitchers, stopped the Twins on nine hits Thursday while the Yankees were losing a doubleheader to the Chicago White Sox, 4-3 in 11 innings and 1-0.

"The pressure isn't on us," said Darrell Johnson, Boston's smug manager. "It's on the other teams in the division and we're doing everything right at present."

The Baltimore Orioles, virtually tied with New York for second place, beat the Milwaukee Brewers 10-7 to stay within hailing distance of the Red Sox.

The Detroit Tigers stopped the Oakland A's 5-2 in the only other American League action. Rain postponed the Cleveland-Texas game.

Wise, 13-6, won his sixth straight game and eighth in the last nine decisions while beating Minnesota. He got offensive support from Jim Rice, who walloped a two-run homer in the first inning, his 16th of the year.

White Sox 4-1, Yankees 3-0

Catcher Brian Downing, the ninth batter in Chicago's lineup, hit his sixth home run of the season, a one-out shot off Dick Tidrow in the 11th inning, to carry Chicago to a dramatic victory over New York in the first game of their doubleheader.

Then Tidrow hit Bill Melton with a pitch with the bases loaded and two out in the eighth inning, forcing in the run that gave the White Sox their victory in the second game.

Orioles 10, Brewers 7

Jim Northrup and Doug DeCinces drilled run-scoring doubles in a four-run sixth inning, triggering Baltimore to its victory over homer-happy Milwaukee. The Brewers blasted five homers, including Hank Aaron's 743rd career shot.

The Orioles were losing 4-2 when a walk to Lee May triggered their winning rally in the sixth. Northrup doubled home May and took third on the relay throw from the outfield. Then he scored on a wild pitch by Pete Broberg.

Tigers 5, A's 2

Joe Coleman and John Hiller combined on a three-hitter, helping Detroit snap a four-game losing streak with its victory over Oakland.

Coleman, 8-12, worked 62-3 innings and allowed all three Oakland hits before Hiller came in and recorded his 14th save of the season. Detroit hit three sacrifice flies, two by rookie Jack Pierce.

Wood Expected To Be Named First Black Coach

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

The Green Bay Packers, once the kingpins of the National Football League, dominate the pro football scene again...but not with the Pack.

Willie Wood, a former All-Pro safety with the Packers when the Green Bay team captured the first two Super Bowls, is expected to become pro football's first black head coach since Fritz Pollard led several teams in the early 1920s when the NFL was an infant.

Wood is "the prime candidate" to succeed Ron Waller, who resigned Wednesday as head coach of the World Football League's Philadelphia Bell.

Wood joined the Bell this year as Waller's defensive coordinator. When Waller resigned, he recommended Wood be named his replacement.

Gale Gillingham, Wood's teammate on the Packers, announced his retirement Thursday. The 31-year-old offensive guard was a four-time All-Pro selection during his nine-year NFL career.

A Green Bay spokesman said lineman Malcolm Snider, a seven-year veteran, had informed the team he is also retiring to attend medical school, although the Packers had not received an official document stating his intentions.

Another former Packer, tight end Marv Fleming, still hasn't shown up at the Washington Redskins' training camp. Fleming, who has appeared in five Super Bowls—two with Green Bay and three with the Miami Dolphins—was traded to the Redskins by Miami for the NFL negotiating rights to running back Charley Harraway.

Also missing from the Redskins' camp is running back Duane Thomas, a free agent since May 1. Allen said he had nothing to add to team President Edward Bennett Williams' remarks that Thomas, as of now, is out of the Redskins plans.

Beltone Gets Tourney Win

Beltone, Piggly Wiggly, and Burroughs-Wellcome advanced a notch in the Ladies Softball Tourney last night. Beltone smashed Wachovia 22-5, Piggly-Wiggly defeated Little Mint 12-3, and B-W took a forfeit over Coke after four and one-half innings, when Coke couldn't put nine players on the field.

After spotting Wachovia four runs in the top half, Beltone took the lead back with a seven-spot in the bottom half of the first. They added two in the second, three in the third, and ten runs in the fifth inning, including homers by Bennett and Rouse. Wachovia added single runs in the second and third innings, and two in the fifth.

Piggly-Wiggly broke a three-all tie with three more runs in the third when D. Johnson smashed a homer with two on. P-W put two more on the board in the fourth, and four runs in the sixth. V. Davenport also homered for P-W.

B-W had already put their game with Coke out of reach, scoring ten runs in the first three innings before Coke could get four of their own in the bottom of the third. B-W had built up an 18-7 lead when the forfeit was called. Tolson hit a three-run homer for Coke.

Next Tuesday's schedule lists Beltone vs. Piggly-Wiggly, and in the loser's bracket, Wachovia meets Burroughs-Wellcome and The Daily Reflector faces Little Mint.

Lightning Chases Golfers Again

ILE BIZARD, Que. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus didn't wait for the storm to hit.

"Everybody in our group had hit their second shots to the green and we all had it about 20 feet from the hole," Nicklaus said. "We could see the clouds building up and hear the thunder in the distance."

"We just tapped in those little putts," he said, smiling, "just in the interest of speed, and sought shelter. They hadn't called play at that time but it was coming and it could have lightning in it and we just didn't want to get hit."

So Nicklaus, who went six-under-par through 12 holes with his "little tap-in" of 20 feet, was one of the first off the golf course Thursday when a violent thunderstorm held up, for 3 hours and 2 minutes, first-round play in the $200,000 Canadian Open Golf Tournament.

Playing conditions changed when the lengthy, violent thunderstorm finally abated and Nicklaus could return to the course. He lost one stroke to par over his six remaining holes but still finished with a course-record, five-under-par 65 and tied close friend Tom Weiskopf for the first round lead in this national championship.

After the long weather delay—Nicklaus sought shelter in a private residence adjoining the 6,628-yard Royal Montreal Golf Club course for the 3 hours and 2 minutes of delay—play was resumed at 7 p.m. EDT and finally halted by darkness at 8:45 p.m. Fourteen players, including British Open champion Tom Watson were stranded and were scheduled to complete their rounds early today.

Six players, including South African Gary Player, were tied for third at 67, three-under-par and two off the pace.

Player was tied for third with John Schlee, Bob E. Smith, Gary McCullough and Pat Fitzsimons.

Arnold Palmer, also caught by the storm, had it four under par—just one off the lead—through 16 holes then made double bogey five after missing the green and blading a chip on his 17th hole. He finished with a 68.

Johnny Miller matched pr 70. Defending champion Bobby Nichols and Lee Trevino had 71s. U.S. Open champ Lou Graham shot a 73.

Tomlin Bringing A Happy Special

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — First, the bad news: Lily Tomlin's hour-long special on ABC tonight, her second this year, is the last called for in her contract with the network, according to ABC.

The good news is that her farewell gig displays grade-A humor, writing, acting and pace, save for a long closing cocktail lounge drama that proposes a slice of life and produces a bathos sandwich.

But I have no beef — it must be lunchtime or something — about the rest of the proceedings. In the Tomlin tradition, they contain some of the sharpest, most perceptive humor at large on TV today.

For example, in the opening salvo, she takes those women's hairspray commercials to their logical conclusion.

Posing as Judy Beasley, a flat-voiced housewife who says she is a real person, not an actress, she shows how Sta-Put hairspray keeps her tresses in place no matter what the circumstances.

She does this by sitting in a chair atop a platform that rolls through a carwash.

Later, she takes on "confession" magazines, noting that "good women" stories always use words like "meat loaf, budget, mending and curtains" while bad women yarns use "throbbing, lurid, sordid, seamy."

This causes a fallen women sketch in which she plays a bored housewife whose sole goal is to have her husband, a mailman, become president.

"Ed, why don't you enter a primary or something?" she nags.

She later confides to a housewife neighbor that she and Ed don't have much of a sex life. Try an affair, the neighbor suggests, citing one she'd had with a teen-age boy who'd been baby-sitting for her.

That wouldn't work with Ed, Lily muses: "Since we have no children, he would be suspicious if I hired a baby sitter."

To fill her empty hours, she gets a job as a department store executive, almost has an affair with the lecherous boss — John Byner — but finds true happiness following some sort of plot and the gift of a fur coat and $10,000 in cash.

It's a nifty skit, but the classic in the show is "Dull City," a fable done in documentary style. It concerns a girl who had the misfortune to be born a clown — complete with clown greasepaint and wig.

Her problem is that she lives in a city with antifun laws. Those convicted of funning are sent to a center for serious training and taught never to throw pies in peoples' faces.

Opening lead: King of ♣.

Quite often you, as declarer, will have to negotiate a contract that cannot be guaranteed against all distributions. In those cases you have to go with the odds and pick the line which gives you the best chance. Cover up the East-West cards and decide how you would play six hearts against a club attack.

North is perhaps a trifle light for a forcing two bid, but he could see no better bid on a three-loser hand. After South rebid his suit, North cue-bid his spade strength and, on learning that his partner held the ace of clubs, invited slam by leaping to five hearts. South had sufficient values to accept.

After the king of clubs' opening lead, South has several ways to play the hand. He can win the ace, ruff a club in dummy and cash the ace of trumps. Now he discards two clubs on the top diamonds and, in order to draw trumps, attempts to get back to his hand by ruffing a diamond. A glance at the full diagram shows that this line is doomed to failure, for West will overruff and return a spade, leaving declarer stranded in dummy.

Declarer had available a far better line that succeeds whenever trumps split 3-2, and will even work against some 4-1 distributions. After winning the ace of clubs, he should lead a heart to the ten. As the cards lie, declarer can now make an overtrick when the finesse wins. He cashes ace of hearts, ruffs a diamond, draws the outstanding trump and crosses back to dummy with the ace of spades to run the diamonds.

However, the reason we recommend the play is not because it succeeds. Suppose the finesse loses. East cannot attack dummy's spade entry, so his best defense is to play another round of clubs, forcing dummy to ruff with the ace of hearts. But declarer can return to his hand with a diamond ruff and cash the king and jack of trumps, drawing the rest of defenders' trumps in the process, if the suit divides normally. He can get back to dummy with the ace of spades to take discards on dummy's diamonds, and his only loser is the queen of trumps.

SCS Dams Meet Test

Despite heavy rainfall and some flash flooding in North Carolina in recent weeks, every flood prevention dam built to Soil Conservation Service engineering specifications has functioned with no washouts or other failures, it was disclosed today by State Conservationist Jesse L. Hicks of Raleigh.

Working with local sponsors, the Soil Conservation Service has completed 61 earthen dams as part of watershed projects, and another eight multi-purpose dams in the North Central Piedmont Resource Conservation and Development Project.

"We are very proud that these dams have withstood some severe tests of high water," Hicks commented. "Since the program began in North Carolina in the 1950's, not a single dam has failed."

The dams provide protection from flooding to farm cropland, urban areas, highways and other public facilities.

"NEXT! MEL BROOKS "BLAZING SADDLES" (R)

After-Effect From 17-Year-Old Drug Experiment

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A Huntsville minister says he doesn't know if he is going to take legal action against the U.S. Army for giving him a powerful hallucinogenic drug — a drug that gave him a three-day military pass 17 years ago and recurring effects today.

In a conversation with The Huntsville Times, the Rev. Albert Ben Wharton said during the eight-day experiment at the Army Chemical Warfare Laboratories in northeast Maryland, now Edgewood Arsenal, he was given the drug three times. And each time, he said, he didn't know what it was or what it would do.

"They lied," the Huntsville Baptist Temple minister said. "No one ever said anything about the after-effects of the drug."

Since the 1958 experiment, the 37-year-old Wharton said he occasionally has periods when "I'll be trying to write something and my whole body will start shaking. My pencil will drop out of my hand because I can't hold on to it."

"But when I look at my hand," he added, "it will appear steady."

Wharton said he plans to write the Army seeking information what drug was administered to him. Asked if he would sue, the minister said: "If the drug causes some sort of permanent handicap—well, I just don't know."

knew it was the same program I participated in.

"It involves the same place, the same people, the same year, with drugs given for the same reasons and having the same after-effects," he said. He told the newspaper that the Army "said only that it was a drug being experimented for use in military action."

"They said the drug would immobilize persons for military combat," Wharton said.

He said the ordeal started when he was in the Army, stationed at Ft. Bragg, N.C. A directive was received, he said, asking for a soldier to participate in a drug experiment at the Maryland laboratory.

"I let it be known to someone at headquarters, I can't remember who, that I was interested," he said. "Within a few days, I received orders to report to Edgewood and within a week, I was sent."

Another two days passed and he was administered his third, and final, dosage.

He said he was in a room with mesh cages on the windows and no knobs on the doors. "I saw all kinds of things—animals coming at me and things."

"Then I felt like I was paralyzed," he remembered. "It affected my whole nervous system. I could look at my body, my hands and they were steady."

Wharton said he felt his whole body shaking inside. "It was like two persons, iron on the outside and human inside."

A maintenance man entered the room, not knowing that Wharton was under the influence of the drug, and the minister told the newspaper he bolted for the door.

After running "for several miles" he said he collapsed on the post's parade ground and was returned to the laboratory.

Later, while still under the influence from the last dosage, he said he was allowed to do anything he wanted to do.

"I wanted to ride, so a medic took me in a jeep and we rode for hours. I wanted to run and we did that."

During the entire 24 hours under the influence of the drug, he said he underwent a physical once an hour and "I was questioned about the way I felt. It was all recorded on tape."

After the ordeal, he returned to Ft. Bragg and received a letter of commendation from Col. Albert R. Driesbach, director of the center.

The minister said: "When I received the letter of commendation and read where I was 'commended for exposing myself to experiments above and beyond the call of duty,' I wondered that if there was supposed to be no danger, why were they referring to this as 'exposing' myself and if it wasn't dangerous, why was it 'above and beyond the call of duty'?"

Sgt. Capello New Head Of Recruiting Station

Sergeant First Class (E7) Rosario Antonio (Russ) Capello, a veteran of 14 years Army service, has taken up his newest assignment. Sgt. Capello is the U.S. Army Recruiting Station in Greenville, which is headquarters for a six-county recruiting area comprising Pitt, Martin, Beaufort, Bertie, Washington and Tyrrell Counties. He succeeds Master Sergeant (E8) Ray O. Boose in this post.

A native of New Kensington, Pa., Sgt. Capello is a first generation son of Italian immigrants from Platania in southern Italy. His father served in the Italian Army before emigrating to the U.S.

A career man, Sgt. Capello has been in the Army since shortly after graduating from New Kensington High School. Following basic training and attendance at the Army Personnel School, Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, he served at Ft. Jackson before reporting for overseas duty at Rhein-Main Air Base, Frankfurt, Germany. It was there that he met and married Judith McWilliams, daughter of a career Air Force man. The couple now have three young daughters, Anita, Denise and Stephanie.

In 1967-68 Sgt. Capello served in Vietnam, first in Long Binh, then later in Saigon as member of a Composite Administrative Team.

Among decorations awarded him are the Vietnam Service Ribbon with four campaign stars.

On returning to the U.S. from Vietnam, Sgt. Capello was selected for recruiting duty and since then has served in Goldsboro and Kinston before being chosen to head the Greenville station.

He is a Catholic, is currently a member of the Kinston Jaycees, is Chairman of the (Kinston) Mayor's Energy Crisis Committee, and is also a member of the Lenoir County Energy Committee. His non-military hobbies are woodworking and playing the classical guitar.

Wharton added, "So I threw them aside and grabbed the food with my hands."

Then a major, sitting across the table from him, started "harassing me, calling my mother and father names and accusing me of not being able to do my job."

Wharton said he leaped across the table at the major and "if I had gotten hold of that man, I would have killed him. The effects of that drug made me homicidal."

Two days later, he was given another dose of the drug and placed before a typewriter. Wharton said he was to retype a letter.

He recalled: "The same ma-

"We're looking for qualified people who are searching for both an opportunity to serve their country and help themselves at the same time," Sgt. Capello remarked on the goals of Army recruiting today.

"There's a need for young people in the fields of communications, combat arms, electronic missiles and especially for those willing to volunteer for duty in Europe," he added.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was mixed today, still struggling to break out of the slide that set in a week and a half ago.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 2.11 at 838.16, while gainers maintained a slight lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Trading was sluggish, as it often is on Fridays in summer. The session opened with a brief flurry of buying, with brokers noting a possible psychological lift in the fact that New York's First National City Bank held its prime lending rate unchanged at 7 1/2 per cent.

On each of the three previous Fridays, Citibank had posted a quarter-point increase in the basic rate on business loans.

But analysts also said there were persisting concerns over the direction of the Federal Reserve's credit policy would take.

Weekly figures released after Thursday's close by the Fed showed a continued growth in the money supply at a rate well above the central bank's goals.

Unless the money supply growth slackens, market-watchers reasoned, the Fed might well move to restrict credit further.

General Foods was the most active issue on the Big Board, down 3/4 at 24 1/4.

Hulhes Tool rose 3/4 to 96 3/4 on top of a 1 1/2 gain Thursday following the company's announcement of a 100 per cent stock dividend and sharply higher second quarter earnings.

The NYSE's composite index edged up .01 to 48.28 in the first hour.

The American Stock Exchange market value index added .26 to 91.83.

'Toby' Returned To Young Owner

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

AYDEN—Sherry Williams lost her dog, Toby, over a year ago.

Today, Toby is back home because Sherry never lost faith and because a concerned citizen took the time to help a sick and homeless animal.

Judy Arenz, who lives in the Lake Ellsworth section in Greenville, said that she found the poodle last Saturday and ran an ad in the paper. Judy, who noted that the dog was sick when she discovered it wandering around the neighborhood, took the animal to a local veterinarian who treated it.

Little Sherry, ten-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Mumford of 808 W. Fifth Street, Ayden, noticed the ad and called to get more information on the dog.

'Outlet' In Obscenities

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Four-letter words may be peace-makers, says a study by a Duke University scientist.

Dr. David Paletz says four-letter words may be emotional safety valves for some people who might otherwise show their discontent with violence.

Paletz, in a report to be published in the "Journal of Politics," concluded that the use of obscenities as "the chanting, magical agent of political and social heresy may be an expression of a need for individuality."

Paletz made the study with his associate William F. Harris in the Duke community. The uses of four-letter words, according to the study, include as a disruptive basis, a psychological weapon and as a linguistic threat.

But the impact of such words is in danger, says Paletz, as their usage increases.

"The supply of four-letter and longer 'obscenities' does not appear inexhaustible, and it seems to take a considerable period for new, potent words to develop," the study says.

And they say the blue collar class can use the words more effectively as challenges to authority than can college students.
