

'Supersummit' A Study In Diplomatic Ambiguity

By JAMES R. PEIPERT
Associated Press Writer

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — The European security declaration to be signed in Helsinki this week by the leaders of 35 nations, including President Ford, can mean all things to all people, very little to anybody at all.

The 30,000-word charter, a sort of code of conduct for nations but with no legal backing, is a classic study in diplomatic ambiguity.

It is the result of 30 months of negotiations among nations and blocs with widely divergent ideologies and interests. Like so many consensus efforts the 100-page document is so strewn with qualifiers that it can be interpreted to back, or at least not exclude, almost any national act.

Some points in it are so vague and noncommittal, and leave so much to good will, that some cynical wags among the British delegation circulated anonymously their own parody of it during the closing days of the preparatory talks in Geneva.

"Insofar as any significance is attached to this document documents," the parody began. It said that the participating states "generally understood that they are not committed to anything."

Rudolf Bindschedler, an eminent jurist and chief delegate for neutral Switzerland, commented last week as diplomats put the finishing touches on the document: "It is a political declaration, nothing more and nothing less. Only in two or three years will we be able to see whether it really has had historic importance."

Already, widely different meanings are being attached to the document and its scheduled signing Friday.

The Soviets, who have pushed for a European Security Conference off and on since 1954 and were the prime movers behind the July 30-Aug. 1 supersummit, have been billing it with almost evangelical fervor as salvation for a continent ravaged by two world wars this century and countless national conflicts during the past millennium.

For Leonid I. Brezhnev, general secretary of the Soviet Communist party and head of the USSR delegation, the conference will be a crowning personal achievement. It was Brezhnev, more than any other Soviet leader, who paved the way for the conference by proclaiming a program of East-West detente at the Soviet Union's 24th Communist party conference in the spring of 1971.

For the Soviets, the meat of the Helsinki declaration is in the so-called "Ten Principles" designed to govern the behavior of nations.

The key part of the third principle, the main prize for Soviet negotiators, says the participating states "regard as inviolable one another's frontiers as well as the frontiers of all states in Europe, and therefore they will refrain now and in the future from assailing these frontiers."

That principle, say critics of Western acceptance, legitimizes the installation of Communist regimes under Soviet guns in the Baltic states and Eastern Europe during and just after World War II.

Astronauts Face 10 Days Of Seclusion In Hawaii

By RICHARD SALTUS
Associated Press Writer
HONOLULU (AP) — The three Apollo astronauts, their lungs still congested from inhaling rocket fuel fumes, face a 10-day period of seclusion here because they are vulnerable to infections.

Doctors said Sunday they plan to release Thomas Stafford, Donald Slayton and Vance Brand from Tripler Army Hospital on Tuesday, then place them in "semi-isolation." Their wives were to fly here from the Houston area after it was decided exactly where the astronauts would be kept.

The isolation period — which had not been mentioned by the doctors until Sunday — is intended to keep the astronauts away from other people, who might expose them to germs that would not harm a healthy person.

Dr. Peter Bartelloni, chief of medicine at the hospital, said the toxic gas the crewmen breathed last Thursday has disabled lung cells that normally fight infections.

Originally, the men were to have been flown home as soon as they were discharged. It was decided to keep them in Hawaii, said Bartelloni, for several reasons: so that treatment can be continued by the same doctors; to avoid the long, tiring flight to Houston, and because seclusion would be easier to arrange here.

Bartelloni and Apollo crew surgeon Dr. Arnauld Nicogossian seemed slightly less satisfied than the previous day about the crewmen's response to treatment. Although the irritation in Slayton's lungs has been progressively clearing, the improvement in the lungs of the other two has practically stopped, Bartelloni said.

They still cough when asked to breathe deeply, he said. And although the men feel very well, "they could be feeling better than they actually are" because of the steroid drugs they are taking, he added.

Asked if he was confident of their complete recovery, Bartelloni replied: "There is nothing to lead me to believe otherwise. I am optimistic. I can't go any farther than that."

Both doctors agreed that the extensive precautions were not being taken just because the men are astronauts. Bartelloni said the same would be done for firemen hospitalized for smoke inhalation.

Pitt Man Killed In Train Mishap

FARMVILLE—A local man was killed when he was struck by a train near the Fields Street railroad crossing here Saturday about 7 p.m.

Acting Coroner Norman Wilkerson identified the dead man as James Green, 51, of near Farmville. He said his body was found lying under the third engine of the 119-car, four-engine Southern Railway train which struck him. The train engineer, Allen B. Murray of Fuquay Varina said he was traveling about 10 m.p.h. preparing to do some unloading when he saw something lying on the railroad bed. He said he stopped the train as quickly as possible and went back to see what it was. Upon discovering the hit object to be a man, he called his dispatcher and the Farmville Police.

No charges were made, Farmville Police Officer Jenny Childers said. The death was ruled accidental, Acting Coroner Wilkerson said.

June Saw A Record U.S. Trade Surplus

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Because of a big drop in oil imports, the United States had a record monthly trade surplus in June of more than $1.7 billion, the government said today.

It was the fifth straight monthly surplus in the surprisingly strong trade sector of the economy, the Commerce Department said.

The quantity of oil imported during June fell 26 per cent from May, to a low for the year of nearly 118.2 million barrels. It had been 159 million barrels in May.

By importing less oil, the United States saved $499 million over May, as the value of oil imports declined to slightly more than $1.3 billion, also a low for the year. May oil imports were valued at more than $1.8 billion.

The Commerce Department said the nation's trade surplus for the first six months of the year totaled more than $5.4 billion, compared with a deficit of more than $2.4 billion last year.

The huge surplus has surprised most government economists, since it had been expected that the nation's trade would be in deficit again this year by as much as $2 billion. The Commerce Department said that if trade activity continues at the same pace in the final six months of the year, the nation could end the year with an all-time record trade surplus of more than $10.9 billion.

The existing record was a $7.1 billion surplus in 1964.

One reason given for the strong U.S. trade activity is that foreign demand for U.S. goods has improved, while the recession in this country has resulted in fewer imports from abroad.

President Ford's $2-a-barrel tariff on imports also may have been a factor in the decline in oil imports in June.

Total exports during June totaled $8,691.5 million, up 6.7 per cent from May, while imports totaled $6,954.2 million, 2 per cent below May imports, leaving a surplus of $1,737.3 million.

The figures were adjusted for seasonal variation.

The Commerce Department said the increase in exports was centered in motor vehicles, wheat, power generating machinery and civilian aircraft.

The big U.S. trade surplus so far this year has been the major factor in the rising value of the U.S. dollar in comparison with many other major world currencies in recent months. This increased value means the U.S. pays less for some imports and its exports command a bigger price.

The nation had a trade surplus in May of nearly $1.1 billion.

'Blanche' Aims At Nova Scotia

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Blanche aimed 85-mile-an-hour winds and heavy rain at Nova Scotia today.

Forecasters said residents along the southeast coast were told to expect gale-force winds at about daybreak and hurricane-force winds from the storm's center by midmorning.

"Blanche poses a definite threat to Nova Scotia ... and with the present track may move inland near the central part of the southeast shore by midday," said a forecaster at the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

Blanche, which grew out of a tropical depression between Bermuda and the Bahamas last Thursday, was centered about 270 miles southeast of Halifax, near latitude 41.3 north and longitude 66.2 west, at 3 a.m. EDT.

Tear Gas Helps Move Large Crowd Blocking Street Early Sunday

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Seven persons were arrested on charges of failing to disperse after police clashed with a group of 250 to 300 persons blocking a downtown street here early Sunday morning.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the seven were arrested after officers moved in to disperse the crowd with tear gas when the group—blocking Fifth Street between Cotanche and Reade Streets—failed to disband when ordered to.

Cannon said the crowd began gathering in the street about 1 a.m. He said the crowd was ordered to disperse about 1:20 a.m. after it completely blocked Fifth Street, several passing cars had been kicked and a number of firecrackers fired.

Ten minutes after ordering the mob to disperse, law enforcement officers moved in with tear gas to disband the group. By 2:30 a.m., all was reported quiet in the downtown area and Fifth Street was reopened to traffic.

According to Cannon, between 200 and 250 persons blocked Fifth Street for a short time early Saturday morning—about 1 a.m.—but left after police asked them to disperse.

He said Sunday morning, the mob refused to clear the street so tear gas was used to move them.

Most of those in the street, according to the chief, came from downtown night spots. He noted that the clubs closed when requested to do so by officials trying to quiet the street gathering.

Cannon added, too, that the downtown clubs did not open Sunday night as they normally do. He said they were asked not to open in an effort to prevent a re-occurrence of the Saturday and Sunday incidents.

About 25 Greenville police officers, several Pitt County deputy sheriffs and two North Carolina State Highway

Patrolmen were on duty during the disturbance, Cannon explained.

Little Trial Is Begun

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—After nearly a year of preparation, the state began unveiling its case today against Joan Little, a 21-year-old black woman charged with first degree murder of a white jailer she said was trying to attack her.

The first witness called by the prosecution was Jerry Helms, a Washington, N.C., police officer who was on duty the night jailer Clarence Alligood, 62, was slain.

Helms testified that he and another Washington officer, Johnny Rose, found Alligood's body on a bunk in Miss Little's cell.

"Mr. Alligood was lying on his left side. He was naked from the waist down, except for his socks," Helms said.

Helms said Alligood's short sleeve shirt was open and that his slacks were in his left hand. A pair of men's undershorts and a pair of eye glasses were on the floor, the officer testified.

Helms said an icepick was in Alligood's right hand.

The start of testimony came after presiding Judge Hamilton Hobgood disposed of several motions presented by the defense. A 12-member jury that includes eight women was seated late last week.

Hobgood denied a motion to dismiss the indictment against Miss Little, but granted another motion blocking the use of her health, social service and prison records as evidence.

RADIATION TREATMENT?

I am a Greenville area native visiting my parents now. Several months ago I was treated for continuous sore throat for which my doctor could find no cause. It is possible I may have been given radiation treatment when I had a tonsillectomy as a child. My doctor was a Dr. Brown. Can you help me find some record of my medical care back then? N.M.

You told Hotline you thought your tonsillectomy was in the early 1950's. We checked with Medical Records at Pitt Memorial Hospital and were told they could not give the records directly to you, but that you could go there and sign a release form for them to send them to your doctor in another state upon his request. This you did.

They did tell you your doctor then was Dr. W.H.B. Brown, who's no longer practicing but still lives in Greenville. An employee of Dr. Brown found his records of 1953, the year the hospital said you were hospitalized. He also talked to Dr. Brown, who said he remembers you and knows you were never given any kind of radiation treatment. He said you should check with the hospital about whether you had routine x-rays around the time of your tonsillectomy.

ANSWER FROM LOUISIANA

I wrote to the Louisiana Department of Public Health requesting my son's birth certificate. They are either slow or are never going to send it. Mrs. J. S.

We sent all the pertinent information again, telling them that you needed the certificate right away in order to register your son for kindergarten. They were slow responding to us, too, but you report that you finally received the document this summer.

Railroad Reorganization Proposals Revealed

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal planning agency recommended today that the government consolidate seven financially ailing northeastern railroads into one 15,000-mile system in the biggest corporate reorganization in American history.

For the traveling public, the plan also called for the creation of an all-passenger railroad line between New York City and Washington and for improved passenger train service on 16 other routes.

In the report, the U.S. Railway Association told Congress that 5,700 miles of lightly used track now owned by the railroads in the 17 states they serve should be abandoned or subsidized with federal-state funds. That track carries about 2 per cent of all traffic on the seven railroads.

The plan also recommended that the remaining 2,000-plus miles of track be sold to privately owned railroads to allow those carriers to extend their lines and create competition for the proposed new railroad in all major cities in the affected region.

The USRA program was developed after months of public hearings, preliminary reports and recommendations by various government agencies. Congress has 60 working days to accept or reject the plan. If Congress does nothing, the program automatically goes into effect.

The backbone of the proposed new railroad, known as ConRail, would be the Penn Central. Other railroads to be included in the reorganization are the Erie Lackawanna, the Reading, the Central of New Jersey, the Lehigh Valley, the Lehigh and Hudson River and the Ann Arbor.

If approved by Congress, the USRA plan would set up a rail system extending across America's manufacturing heartland from the Atlantic Ocean to the Mississippi River. The 17 states directly affected by the plan contain 55 per cent of all manufacturing plants in the country and they also are major producers of coal and manufacturers of steel.

The reorganization would be the largest in history, USRA said. It would exceed even the 1911 government-ordered reshuffling of the Standard Oil conglomerate.

If the plan is rejected, USRA, the Department of Transportation and the Rail Services Planning Office of the Interstate Commerce Commission will confer and make necessary changes. The plan then would be resubmitted to Congress for a second look.

DEAR ABBY: I am a physician. About 72 hours ago, a previously healthy, beautiful, 16-month-old child was brought to our department with obvious burns around his lips and mouth.

Only a few hours before, while visiting his grandparents, he discovered a bottle of lye and ingested only one mouthful. Fourteen doctors, and dozens of nurses and operating personnel have been involved in the three operations that this child has already undergone.

The boy is now in our intensive-care unit, his eyes held shut with plastic tape, his breathing controlled by a machine and his life supported by tubes placed in his neck, chest, abdomen, penis, arms and legs. All of his esophagus and most of his stomach were destroyed by the lye and had to be surgically removed. If he lives, he will have to be fed through a hole in his abdomen for months.

Abby, please, ask your readers to inspect their kitchens, bathrooms, basements and garages, and to place all dangerous chemicals outside the reach of small children. And ask them to pass the word on to their friends and neighbors who may not have children but who occasionally have young visitors.

This type of needless suffering and death to small children can be stopped today without spending one penny for research or donations.

I hope you will consider this worthy of your column, which is probably read by more people than any other.

Demo Telethon Short Of Goal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Democratic party officials say their weekend fundraising telethon fell $1 million short of a $6 million goal.

California telethon director Pam Duffy said Sunday the total would approach $4.7 million when all pledges from the star-studded 22-hour show were counted.

California Democrats apparently responded better than those in other states, Miss Duffy said, and "have evidenced a strong belief in small contributions."

"Although we didn't do as well as originally hoped, in California we were down about 15 per cent from where we were last year, whereas in the rest of the country, it looks like they were down about 40 per cent," Miss Duffy said. The state's total should near $700,000, she added.

The party, trying to pay off $2.6 million in debts and raise money for upcoming campaigns, spent an estimated $2.6 million to produce the show, which originated from the American Broadcasting Company studios in Hollywood.

"People seem to feel it was a nice show to watch but nobody was phoning in," said Art Kosatka, an official of the Democratic National Committee.

But he said viewers seemed to react well to what he called the hard-sell approaches of Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss and Minnesota Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey.

"We don't have Watergate and we don't have the elections ... it's a nothing-happening year," Kosatka said.

Officials said the average contribution this year was $12, compared to $20 last year.

Funds raised from the telethon will be divided among state and national party organizations.

In addition to many prominent Democrats, the program featured entertainers Helen Reddy, Della Reese, Jackie Cooper, Warren Beatty, Lorne Greene, Tony Orlando, Susan St. James and Joseph Campanella.

N.C. Advertising Theme Ready

By ROBERT B. CULLEN

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's $600,000 per year advertising program is telling potential tourists and industrial developers such things as:

"North Carolina laborers are mostly native born with a rural background. The employer and employee relationship in North Carolina has always been one of harmony, free of strife and ill feeling.

"North Carolina laborers have resisted unionization, the rate of unionization being the second lowest in the United States. Virtually all segments of the population support the present right to work law."

That was in a special $7,000 industrial advertising supplement in Fortune Magazine last October. In other business publications that year, businessmen were told that for those who located plants in North Carolina:

"State government helps by lowering taxes, providing a stable base, and assists in arranging financing...Our statewide network of technical institutes and community colleges will work out a custom tailored training program for your business at no cost...You'll find excellent wet sites along our waterways."

Other ads were aimed at luring tourists to the state. "The best camping in the south is north—North Carolina." Or the best golfing, skiing, and fishing.

Most southern states advertise in similar ways. North Carolina business and tourism ads are often sandwiched between pitches like "Alabama has it all," or "The call of Kentucky in Spring."

The state's ads are written and placed in magazines and newspapers around the world by an agency headed by Jerome Louchheim III, a Floridian who handled the advertising for Gov. Jim Holshouser's 1972 campaign.

After Holshouser won, Louchheim opened an office in Raleigh and, as is traditional, was awarded the state contract. He takes a standard 15 per cent commission.

Not everyone is happy with the advertising. Christopher Scott of the North Carolina

AFL-CIO said the statements about labor in North Carolina "appeal to the cut and sew operations, the low wage industries that want to come in an exploit workers. The problem, in general, is not getting more jobs as much as getting high-paying jobs. To sell North Carolina labor cheap is the wrong way of going about it."

Scott said the labor organization has almost completed a study that shows that from 1965-72, new industry entering the state paid lower wages than the businesses already here.

Robert Goforth, an industrial development specialist for the Department of Natural and Economic Resources, said that he didn't personally like the statement about the state's labor pool.

"If you really want to get into it, I guess that statement (about completely harmonious relationships) is not completely accurate. That's not the way we want to sell."

Goforth said he also didn't understand the statement that the state lowers taxes for new businesses, "because we don't do that. What the agency intended was to pass on the information that taxes are generally lower," he said.

But Goforth said the program was fundamentally sound. "It only takes a couple of new plants to generate enough tax revenue to pay for the program. Each year we get about 400 qualified responses and I'd guess that about 60-70 per cent of the new plants built here heard about the state first through advertising."

The new director of the state's travel promotion division said he plans some changes in the advertising, especially since responses are down from previous years.

William Arnold said that in 1974, there were 81,000 queries to his office. About 21 per cent were identifiable as responses to the ads' invitation to "write to Gov. Jim Holshouser" for more details. A few years ago, the average was 127,000 with 35 per cent identifiable as advertising response, he said.

Arnold said that he would insist that the ads begin spotlighting specific attractions in North Carolina, reversing a longtime policy. "This business is too sophisticated to get by anymore with a pretty color picture and a general statement," he said.

He said part of the problem with the program was lack of continuity due to the succession of travel and promotion directors and new advertising agencies every four years.

He said he believed the lower response rate was partly due to advertising problems and partly due to the recession.

Both Goforth and Arnold said the advertising was a profitable program for the state, since it generated more tax revenues than it spent.

Arnold said the state must compete with other states for recreational dollars. Goforth said it may not be so important that the ads praise North Carolina's transportation, educational system, and industrial climate.

The fact that they are there, he said, convinces businessmen that the state in fact does want new industry and is willing to accommodate it.

'Tax Rebellion' Is Taking Shape

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press Writer Americans fed up with rising taxes have rejected proposed school budgets at a record rate this year, defeating spending plans requiring increased levies on property and other items.

An Associated Press spot check showed the mood of discontent seemed strongest on the East and West Coasts, although there were signs of rebellion elsewhere.

New York State officials said 622 school district budgets were submitted to voters during May and June. They said a record 155 or 23.4 per cent were rejected. The previous high rate of defeat was in 1969 when just under 20 per cent of the budgets were rejected.

The biggest setbacks came in suburban areas where property taxes already are high. Some of the proposed tax increases ranged up to 20 per cent, with local authorities claiming they needed the money because state aid to education is not keeping pace with inflation.

The trade publication, the Nation's Schools & Colleges, estimated recently that it cost almost $1,170 to educate the average public school student in the academic year that ended last month. That was 14.4 per cent higher than a year earlier and school officials say next year's costs are rising even faster.

The biggest expense for most districts — ranging up to 80 per cent in some areas — is salaries, with fuel costs running second on the list of problems.

Local taxes on real estate and personal property provide the largest chunk of school funding in many areas and the voter rejections of levy increases have forced authorities to reshuffle budgets and cut spending to keep within existing revenues.

Maynard Mathison, a spokesman for the superintendent of public instruction in the state of Washington, said about 2,000 teachers are losing their jobs as a result of the cutbacks.

Washington officials said voters in 67 of the 275 school districts that had elections this spring turned down spending proposals, for a rejection rate of 24 per cent. In contrast, only 9 per cent of the tax plans submitted to the voters last year were defeated.

The turndowns — including one in Seattle where voters rejected the proposed budget in two separate elections — affected about 300,000 of the state's 750,000 pupils. Only $205 million or 53 per cent of the $390 million requested was approved. The same districts requested about $319 million last year and got all but $20 million.

Bears Threatened; So Created A Zoo

DANIELTOWN, N.C. (AP) —

Rutherford County has a zoo that holds more animals than the North Carolina State Zoo at Asheboro and it doesn't cost the county a dime to run the place.

But the zoo is not the result of a well-devised plan by county fathers; it's because of a new state law which threatened Lester Toms' black bears.

The 67-year-old Toms, whose retired, had spent years collecting a menagerie of 70 species on his Western North Carolina farm. They ranged from rabbits and racoons to buzzards and bobcats.

This year the General Assembly enacted a law that prohibited keeping black bears in cages unless they were being confined for educational purposes. The law also said that anyone keeping bears had to turn them loose or sell them to state game wardens for up to $100 apiece.

Toms felt it was unfair, especially since he had imported the bears and bred them. The law was partially aimed at protecting North Carolina's dwindling bear population.

"There's not a bear here that would be in North Carolina if I hadn't taken $300 nine years ago and gone up to Virginia to buy them," he said.

In addition, he said his bears could not survive in the wild. So he turned to the Rutherford County Commission for help.

The commissioners decided to make Lester Toms' Game Farm and Zoo the official Rutherford County Zoo — since municipalities are allowed to keep caged bears. They stipulated, though, that Toms must always let school and church groups in free and that the zoo could not cost the county any money.

Toms has never made much money at his zoo. In fact, up-keep cost him $1,300 more last year than he collected charging admission of 25 cents per person to visit his animals.

"If I wanted to make money," he said, "I wouldn't be out here in the hot sun all day long, taking care of my animals."

Couple Speaks Vows On Sunday Barbecue-Splash Party Given Debutantes

On Sunday at three o'clock in the afternoon in a candlelight ceremony at First Christian Church, Miss Donna Lou Hinnant became the bride of Robert Lee Oldham Jr.

The Rev. Frank R. Ellis Jr., pastor of the bride, officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. Jack Kittrell of Greenville presented a program of nuptial music. Mrs. Richard Langley of Greenville sang "One Hand, One Heart," "Until the Twelfth of Never" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The church was decorated with a basket of white mums and yellow daisy pom poms, two tree candelabras interspersed with jade greenery. The family pews were marked with gladioli and greenery over white satin ribbons.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil P. Hinnant Jr. of Greenville, was given in marriage by her father. She selected a candlelight formal gown in silk organza, designed with a pintucked front and back, edged with rose point lace ruffles. The high lace neckline and long bishop sleeves, tucked from shoulder to elbow and trimmed with lace bands, was finished with three tier lace gauntlet cuff. The back was enhanced with built-in train, with three rows of matching lace extending into a chapel length.

Her matching rosepoint lace Juliet cap was accented with seed pearls, attached to a long illusion veil, bordered with lace and flowing cathedral length. She carried a cascade of baby's breath, tube roses, daisies and white roses.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Oldham Sr. of Greenville. Miss Kim Hinnant, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a yellow and green organza gown trimmed in white lace. The empire gown was sleeveless and was designed with a V-neckline and white collar, with matching long sleeve jacket also trimmed in yellow and green. She wore a white wide brimmed hat trimmed with yellow and green bridal illusion. She carried a nosegay of yellow and white pom poms and tube roses.

The bridesmaids were Miss Dawn Flowers, cousin of the bride, of Wilson, Miss Donna Dixon and Miss Pam Singleton, both of Greenville. Their gowns were styled identical to that of the maid of honor and they each carried nosegays of yellow and white pom poms and tube roses.

The flower girls were Miss Lisa Harris and Miss Lana Harris of Greenville, nieces of the bride. They wore yellow flocked organza gowns and carried baskets of yellow and white daisies.

Mrs. Oldham served as his son's best man. Ushers were Roy Oldham, brother of the bridegroom, Tony Skinner, cousin of the bridegroom, Rooney Haddock of Ayden, and Michael Thaxton of Grifton.

For the wedding, the bride's mother selected a blue polyester floor length gown with long chiffon sleeves. She wore a white orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother chose a yellow polyester floor length gown with a chiffon collar. She wore a white orchid corsage.

The grandmother of the bride wore a white orchid corsage. Mrs. George A. Whitehurst, sister of the bride, directed the wedding.

For the wedding trip, the bride changed into a beige knit pants suit trimmed in yellow. The couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride is a graduate of J.H. Rose High School and is employed as a secretary for Frank O. Freuler Jr., C.P.A. The bridegroom is a graduate of J.H. Rose High School and is employed at Eaton Corp.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception in the parlor of the church was given by the bride's parents.

Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Downing and Mr. and Mrs. Alston Cheek.

The bride's table was centered with an epergne of white and yellow daisy pom poms interspersed with white tube roses and flanked by two single yellow candles on a white lace cloth. The wedding cake was served by the members of the Christian Womens' Fellowship, who were in charge of the reception. Punch was poured by Mrs. Thomas N. Harris of Greenville, sister of the bride.

On the register table was the bride's book where guests registered and were acknowledged by Mr. and Mrs. Donald LaBar, of Dallas, Pa., grandparents of the bride. Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Taylor of Greenville.

The Oldham-Hinnant wedding party and out-of-town guests were entertained at an after-rehearsal party at the banquet room at First Federal.

Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Taylor and directed to the refreshment table by Mrs. Eugene Moore of Greenville. The table was covered with a linen cloth trimmed with white satin ribbon and wedding bells and was centered with an arrangement of white mums and yellow daisy pom poms flanked by two single white candles.

The host and hostess were parents of the bridegroom.

A barbecue-splash honoring 18 "down east" debutantes was held Saturday night at Lake Ellsworth.

Honorees and their parents included: Ahsokie, Julia Elizabeth Hoggard, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Norfleet Hoggard; Bethel, Catherine Elizabeth Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Curtis Martin; Burgaw, Deborah Lynn and Valerie Deane Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Murphy Sr.; Camden, Mary Adams Ferebee, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clay Ferebee III; Farmville, Marsha Sue Hardy, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Thomas Hardy, Jr.; Henrietta Louise Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Clay Williamson; Greenville, Nancy Lee Deyton, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Guy Deyton Jr.; Catherine Harris Joyner, Mr. and Mrs. Max Ray Joyner; Deborah Vee Massey, Mrs. Moulton Braxton Massey Jr. and the late Mr. Massey;

Elizabeth Pannill Moseley, Mrs. Bancroft Ficklen Moseley and the late Mr. Moseley; Nancy Lou White, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Jordan White Jr.;

Hertford, Lois Suzanne Stokes, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clay Stokes Jr.; Kinston, Alice Council Wooten, Mrs. Dal Floyd Wooten Jr. and the late Mr. Wooten; Washington, Mary Patricia Capehart, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Ashbourne Capehart; Sarah Alston Homes, Dr. and Mrs. Garland Richard Homes; Mary Todd Mackenzie, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Preston Mackenzie Jr.; and Martha Elizabeth Partick, Dr. and Mrs. Cornelius Theodore Partick.

The honored debutantes wore natural straw hats adorned with a monogrammed band.

The area around the party house and pool were highlighted with lighted torches. The buffet table was covered with multi-colored cloths and decorated with an arrangement of mixed summer flowers and hurricane lamps.

Music for the evening was provided by the Bill Bolen Quartet from Chapel Hill.

The statewide party for debutantes and their guests was attended by approximately 300.

Miss Paula Gray Clark Weds Capt. Charles M. Nusbaum

FAYETTEVILLE—In a double ring ceremony Sunday at 4:30 p.m., Miss Paula Gray Clark became the bride of Capt. Charles Michael Nusbaum. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. C. J. Calvert in the Massey Hill Baptist Church, Fayetteville.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Clark of Fayetteville, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an heirloom wedding gown which was worn by her mother on her wedding day. The gown was designed in ivory faille featuring a ballerina bodice with shepherdess sleeves ending in a tapered point and a train of chapel length.

Her cathedral length mantilla of ivory silk illusion was trimmed with imported chantilly lace styled over a Camelot cap in a madonna drape. She carried a colonial nosegay of ivy, sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Parents of the bridegroom are Lt. Col. (Ret.) and Mrs. Charles S. Nusbaum of Atlanta, Ga.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina University and the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. She has taught in the Cumberland County Schools for the past four years. The bridegroom is a graduate of North Georgia College and has just returned from a tour of duty in Korea where he was an executive officer of the United Nations Command Honor Guard.

Mrs. Michael Yarborough of Kirkland, Wash., was the honor attendant. She was dressed in a floor length gown of ivory voile with a floral print in a hand screen effect with shades of orchid, green and gold. She carried a basket of ivy, baby's breath, and mixed summer flowers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Michael Misenheimer of Grover, Mrs. Breeden Blackwell of Fayetteville and Mrs. George Royal of Camp Pendleton, Calif., sister of the bridegroom. Their gowns were identical to that of the honor attendant.

Miss Tina Talley of Fayetteville was flower girl and wore a dress patterned after those of the attendants. She carried a miniature basket of mixed summer flowers.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Jerry Hatch of Clinton, organist, and Mrs. Dennis Riley of New Bern, vocalist.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Arthur Shelfer and Rick Askew, both of Atlanta, Ga., Danny Williams of Morehead City, and Dennis Riley of New Bern.

After a wedding trip to Saint Simons Island, Ga., the couple will reside at Fort Knox, Ky.

The parents of the bride entertained at a reception immediately following the ceremony in the garden of their home.

The parents of the bridegroom entertained at a rehearsal dinner at the Holiday Inn Restaurant Saturday for members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests.

Mrs. Breeden Blackwell, Miss Mavis Brown, and Mrs. Haywood McLawhorn honored Miss Paula Clark at a bridesmaids luncheon Saturday at the Highland Country Club.

We Can Breathe A Bit Easier

It is very pleasing to us to learn that provisional accreditation has been given to Pitt Memorial Hospital for a one-year period.

Hospital Director Jack Richardson reported that he was informed of the decision in a phone conversation last week.

The hospital's accreditation had been threatened following the visit of two surveyors from the Joint Committee on Accreditation of Hospitals.

Local officials visited Chicago to point out that a new hospital building is under construction and will be ready for use next year. This will answer the problems raised about physical facilities for Pitt Memorial.

There were bylaw changes recommended by the survey team and this is being worked out in line with an agreement for joint use of the hospital by the ECU medical school.

Actually the hospital's accreditation was never withdrawn, but the threat was there. This cloud has been removed now with the one-year provisional accreditation.

There are many complex problems ahead as Pitt Memorial Hospital works out the arrangements for affiliation with the ECU medical school. There will be a specific agreement to be drawn up spelling out how the staffs will interrelate. An addition to the building will have to be planned and constructed and many other details remain to be handled.

At the same time, the hospital administration must continue to work toward meeting the accreditation requirements of the Joint Committee of Accreditation of Hospitals. It can be seen that there is much to do, but first priority was taking steps to satisfy the accrediting committee.

That has now been done and we have little doubt that bylaw changes can be made during the year which will be satisfactory. Then the opening of the new hospital, which will involve nearly a $30 million investment if the medical school affiliation develops, should take care of the physical facilities problems.

We can all breathe a little easier.

Human Touch Is A Factor

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—An 85-cent sack of keys and other common household objects—and a warm, human approach—will be the critical factors in North Carolina's fledgling early childhood screening program which gets underway in four regions this fall.

"We can do it anywhere, and we will... depending on local situations. We don't have to have a particular place," says Dr. Mary W. Haynes, chief of the Department of Human Resources developmental evaluation section which will run the screening program.

Depending on local problems, and willingness of people to cooperate, schools, health departments, child-care centers, churches, etc. will be involved.

But above all, parents will not be asked to bring the child to stand in line, register, and go through the screening process.

All Voluntary
"This is all voluntary, and we want to keep it warm and human, designed to be helpful to the parent, and to protect their rights and the rights of the child," Dr. Haynes said.

Here is how the process will work:

Local publicity will launch the effort in the 24 counties surrounding Durham, Boone, Raleigh, and Greenville as the first program moves into operation in October. It will be statewide by 1978.

In some cases notices will be sent from schools; in others parents may contact school, health department, area Developmental Evaluation Centers, or their private pediatrician; local news outlets will be heavily depended on to spread the word.

Parents of children scheduled to enter kindergarten in 1976 will be the ones involved this year.

On contacting the screening program, parents will be given an appointment—no mass lining up or hours of waiting involved.

Screening will be done on Saturdays or in the evenings, to make it more convenient, and can be done anywhere—at schools, daycare centers, local agencies, even in the home if necessary.

A team of three screeners—headed by a person with a masters degree, and the other two with at least a bachelors in some human services field, will spend about 30 minutes with the child and the parents.

The child and one screener will go one-on-one through a series of games, questions, and simple tasks designed to uncover any early signs of hearing, sight, motor, mental, emotional, or physical difficulties likely to interfere with learning later on when the child enters school.

Talk To Parents

Parents will be asked how they think their child is doing; about any peculiar habits, problems, or questions.

If the child has had a physical exam recently, access to that will be requested; if not, help will be offered in arranging one either with a private doctor or the health department.

The object is to build a "profile," not attach labels, Dr. Haynes explained. "We will be able to show that the child is either above, below, or on the average line in an overall way... if there is a problem, further diagnostic steps will be recommended."

In no event will information be shared with others. "The information will be passed on only to the parents, and discussed fully with them," Dr. Haynes said. It is then up to parents, with the help of screening experts, to decide what to do, who to share the results of the screening with, and further steps.

"Success depends largely on the people operating the screening, and the response of agencies called on as a result. "We will have problems associated with giving bad news... people don't want to hear it.

"But there is no way around that," Dr. Haynes said, "and that is one reason we have master-level counselors in charge of each team. We will lose some parents... some won't cooperate. But we will urge them to get someone else to take a look at the child, and as enlightened as people are these days, we expect a lot of success."

Going Down The Drain

LONDON—No self-respecting American newspaperman can visit London without doing a "Is Britain going down the drain?" column. The English pound is being attacked, the miners are in revolt, the Labor government has lost control and the papers (when they are printed) scream "crisis," "shock," "strike," "protest."

The real problem for me is that I have been visiting Britain for 26 years, and every time I come here it's "going down the drain." The headlines are always the same, and if you believe them the entire country will be under water in two months.

An English friend of longstanding with whom I was sharing some strawberries at Wimbledon told me, "You know, we are going down the drain." "You told me that 20 years ago," I reminded him.

"Oh, yes, but this time it's serious. We've lost the will to work, inflation is at an all-time high and there is going to be a very bad mango crop this year."

"But the restaurants are crowded, the hotels are full of tourists, the streets are packed with cars. How do you explain that?"

"All of you have come over here to watch us go down the drain."

"That's not true," I said defensively. "If there is one thing we don't want, it's for England to go down the drain. Where would our public television get its BBC documentaries if you went down the tube?"

"The drain—not the tube," he cautioned me. "You must take my word for it. It's hopeless. Even Prime Minister Harold Wilson can't save us."

"I can't believe that."

Wilson hand. And don't forget you now have oil in the North Sea."

"But we can't get it out in time. Our major fear is that as we sink down we'll meet the oil coming up and we'll drown in our own petrol."

"Yet if what you say is true, why are there so many Arab sheiks in London now?"

"They're here to take out their money just before we go down the drain. Every time things get bad they come here to sell their pounds, and that weakens our money which makes it easier for us to go down the you-know-where."

There is always the possibility that Reagan will give up and go back to California, enabling Holshouser to endorse Ford without annoying anyone. That's important if the Republicans are to enter the 1976 state elections in a unified way.

Then there are the governor's occasional thoughts of running for the Senate against Jesse Helms in 1978. He has not decided to do it, but it's an option to be kept open. It would not

Besides, they can do other things in London that they can't do at home."

"Like what?" I asked him. "Watch the British Open Golf Tournament on television."

"I forgot about that. I notice that for the first time the British are not blaming the Americans for going down the drain. Why is that?"

"We've got the Common Market to blame now. It's much more fun to blame the French for our troubles than the Yanks. But we are very upset with your Eric Sevareid."

"Why is that?" I said. "He did a broadcast in America in which he said England was sleepwalking toward oblivion. He compared us to the Titanic, drinking and laughing as we were heading toward the iceberg. I don't think that was very nice—do you?"

"But you more or less have just told me the same thing." "I know. It's one thing for the British to say we're going down the drain. But it's an entirely different matter for an American to point it out to the rest of the world. After all, it is our drain."

No Big Rush In Backing

By ROBERT B. CULLEN

Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP)—To begin with, it's important to understand that the world is not exactly waiting with baited breath for North Carolina Gov. Jim Holshouser to announce his choice for president in 1976.

Holshouser's backing is not likely to start a landslide for either Gerald Ford or Ronald Reagan. It will not change the course of history. It will probably be one small piece in the mosaic that will become the 1976 election.

But he is one of the senior Republican governors, partly because there are only 12 in the country, and his endorsement will help whomever receives it.

He has been approached by both camps. But, as he did last week, he has refused to say where his sympathies lie. But sources close to the governor say it is inevitable that Ford will be the man.

To begin with, he likes Gerald Ford both personally and politically. Ford practices Holshouser's kind of pragmatic Republicanism, while Reagan is aligned with the ideologically pure, electorally suspect wing of the party.

Then there are Holshouser's personal considerations, very prominently including the fact that he will be looking for a job at the same time the next president is inaugurated.

Therefore, he'd like to pick a winner. Gerald Ford, with all the advantages of incumbency, looks like the best bet. It is axiomatic in politics that if you're going to jump on a bandwagon, you'd better hop on in time to get a seat up close to the driver.

Ford is trying to get that bandwagon rolling early enough to discourage Reagan from even running. But Holshouser has not yet hopped on, publicly at least.

That's characteristic of the governor. He does not like to make anyone mad unless he has to. For example, he's refused to say what he'll do with his power to spare the lives of the Death Row population, hoping that the U.S. Supreme Court will take the cup from his hands before he has to taste it.

There is always the possibility that Reagan will give up and go back to California, enabling Holshouser to endorse Ford without annoying anyone. That's important if the Republicans are to enter the 1976 state elections in a unified way.

Then there are the governor's occasional thoughts of running for the Senate against Jesse Helms in 1978. He has not decided to do it, but it's an option to be kept open. It would not

Public Forum

To the editor:

I would like to express my personal appreciation to Ronald Vincent, Glen Gulleedge, Howard McCullock, Steve Bryant and Marion Jarman for the excellent job they have done as baseball coaches for the Greenville Recreation Department this summer. Not only have they taught baseball skills to the boys and girls on the teams in the three leagues, but they have helped these children develop attitudes of good sportsmanships; they have strengthened their feelings of personal worth; and they have made playing ball a fun thing that is free of stress and pressure.

Thanks to these young men for their patience and for the example they have set for our children.

The GALLUP POLL

Afraid To Walk At Night

By GEORGE GALLUP

(Copyright 1975, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Republication in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.)

PRINCETON, N.J.—President Ford's statement that crime is "making us fearful of strangers and afraid to go out at night" is supported by alarming findings from the latest nationwide Gallup Poll.

Nearly half of Americans (a record 45 per cent) are afraid to walk in their neighborhoods at night. In the nation's largest cities (500,000 and over) the figure reaches well over half (56 per cent). And among women in these urban areas, a startling 77 per cent are fearful of venturing out after dark.

In addition, many do not feel safe and secure even within the confines of their own homes. As many as one person in five (a record 19 per cent) nationwide admits to being fearful of household intruders.

Important differences emerge on the basis of racial background and by income level. Although non-whites and persons in lower income brackets have been particularly hard hit by the economy, these groups name crime as a bigger problem in their cities and communities than either unemployment or high prices. In addition, a considerably larger proportion of non-whites than whites express fear about walking in their neighborhoods after dark. The proportion of non-whites who say they do not feel safe in their homes at night is twice that of whites.

Crime Is Top Community Problem

As reported in part one of the current three-part series, crime is the top concern of residents of cities of all sizes, and is named ahead of even pressing economic problems. A generation ago, crime was far down the list of the worries of city inhabitants.

The percentage saying they are fearful of walking in their neighborhoods at night has climbed from 31 per cent in 1968 to 42 per cent in a late 1972 survey to 45 percent today. The percentage who say they are fearful in their homes was 17 per cent in 1972 (when the measurement was started) and is 19 per cent today.

While the figures on fear of crime have changed little since 1972 for the nation as a whole, dramatic changes are found in terms of the views of specific population groups. Among non-whites, for example, the percentage fearful of walking in their neighborhoods has increased from about one person in two to three persons in five. Some evidence of an uptrend is also found in terms of fear within the home.

Most Believe More Crime In Community

The trend on the growing fear of crime is consistent with other findings from the current survey which shows about half of Americans (29 per cent in the sample) holding the belief that the crime situation has worsened in their communities over the last 12 months. Only one person in eight (12 per cent) says "less," while 29 per cent say there has been little change.

General agreement is found among the various population groups that the crime situation has worsened over the last year. Following are the two questions asked to measure fear of crime, the results and findings from earlier surveys:

"Is there any area right around here—that is, within a mile—where you would be afraid to walk alone at night?"

Most fearful of their neighborhood after dark are women, non-whites and persons living in the nation's largest cities, as seen in the following table:

Per Cent Fearful of Walking in Neighborhood at Night

Other Editors Say Marijuana Laws

(Greensboro Daily News)

District Court Judge Darl Fowler let it be known the other day that he intends to crack down on people convicted of simple marijuana possession charges in his court. From now on, he said, such offenders may be given a short spell in the clink rather than the customary suspended sentence. The judge's frustration is understandable. But his approach to the problem, if we may say so, is likely to prove counter-productive.

On a practical level there is little point in singling out marijuana offenders for jail sentences. The prisons are already crowded enough; there is hardly room for the dangerous felons, much less for those few luckless misdemeanants who manage to get caught on marijuana charges. And with a backlog of some 11,000 criminal cases in the High Point and Greensboro District Courts in the second quarter of this year alone, district attorneys have enough to do without having to handle the inevitable appeals to Superior Court that would accompany active jail sentences for marijuana offenders.

Beyond that, public attitudes toward marijuana are shifting dramatically. The drug's occasional use by all classes and ages of citizens is widespread. Other states, notably Oregon and Alaska, have "decriminalized" simple possession of marijuana by making it a civil offense—like today's traffic ticket. Even the North Carolina General Assembly in recent years has lessened the penalties for marijuana possession, partly in response to reports of harsh jail sentences for young offenders.

The scientific evidence on the effects of marijuana is by no means all in. But consistent indications are that marijuana use is at least no more harmful than consumption of alcohol (a drug to which nine million Americans are addicted), and perhaps even less so. This does not by itself suggest that marijuana use ought to be legalized outright; it does strongly suggest that the General Assembly ought to consider further liberalization of North Carolina's marijuana laws.

In the meantime, we well understand that officials in Judge Fowler's position will have to walk a delicate line on punishment of marijuana offenders. It of course remains the judge's prerogative to send these young people to jail. But the only real long-term benefit of such drastic action will be to spur efforts to get the laws changed.

Strength For Today OK For Some, Bad For Others

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—The recession is being declared over by numerous private and government economists who rapidly are turning their attention to what they confidently declare is the coming recovery.

Meanwhile, the latest jobless rate was 8.9 per cent of the civilian labor force. Some private analysts, who include long-term dropouts from the labor force, put the figure at closer to 11 per cent. The Commerce Department announced that another 1.3 million Americans were disappointment, loneliness, failure, neglect—these are the destroyers constantly taking human lives no less than epidemics or wars.

Don't look to some far distant spot and dream of putting your religion into operation there. Sometimes the greatest opportunities are so near we can't see them. Jesus did most of his good works in homes, on crowded streets, along the open road. And we should remember that he who is faithful in what is least, is faithful also in much.

added to the nation's list of poor last year, bringing the total of poor to 24.3 million, or 12 per cent of the entire population.

Median family income—that is, the midpoint of all incomes—was set at $12,840 for 1974, which means that, adjusted for price increases, it was down 4 per cent from 1973.

Interest rates are rising, and that includes rates on home mortgages. Prices are rising, especially for food. All predictions include more price increases and only a slow reduction of unemployment.

At present prices, many families would have to work six months in order to pay for a new automobile that might break down in three years. At present prices, many families cannot even dream of owning a new house.

No wonder that that ordinary Americans sometimes ask if they are living in the same world as the bankers and economists and politicians who peruse their favorite sets of statistics and issue their opinions.

Somewhere along the line a good many of the nation's leaders seem to have forgotten that statistics might look like numbers but really they are human beings. They aren't averages or indicators, but people.

There are statistics that do indeed indicate the economy's momentum is beginning to pick up. Output is rising. Inventories have been worked off. Some retail sales are beginning to rise. These are a few.

Continued over a period of weeks and months, such figures are accurate indicators of the economy's direction. It can't very well be denied that if economic activity is picking up then we are coming out of recession.

HEW Administered LSD In Experimental Studies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another government agency administered the drug LSD in tests on about 2,500 prisoners, mental patients and paid volunteers to test the drug's medical value, sources have revealed.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare conducted the tests, which took place between 1954 and 1968, but denies anyone was given the drug without his or her knowledge and consent.

HEW also gave millions of dollars in grants to more than 30 university researchers for additional LSD experiments with human subjects.

The matter has become one of increasing interest because of recent disclosures that the Central Intelligence Agency and the Army gave LSD to scientists and servicemen without their knowledge to study the drug's effect.

The department's "in-house" experiments with the drug were conducted at the National Institute of Mental Health in suburban Bethesda, Md.

The experiments were conducted years before HEW's informed consent procedures were tightened to protect human research subjects. The department did not explain how informed consent was obtained during experiments conducted on mental patients at Spring Grove State Hospital at Catonsville, Md.

The purpose of the experiments was to determine whether LSD had any value in treating the mentally ill and alcoholics, or in inducing classic symptoms of "mental illness which could possibly serve as "model psychoses" for further study, a spokesman for the NIMH said.

Other said the experiments suggested that LSD might have some limited value in curing certain alcoholics.

The NIMH's own experiments cost, at most, "a couple of million dollars" over the 14-year period, a spokesman said.

Another source said that 84 outside research projects involving LSD were funded through about $7.5 million in grants between 1953 and 1974.

More than 30 of those university research projects involved tests on humans and the rest were conducted with animals, the NIMH said.

A spokesman said no follow-up on the LSD research patients for possible signs of recurring effects of LSD was planned. Although the names of the research subjects probably still are available, most of the researchers who conducted the experiments are "long gone from NIMH," he said.

Pope Applauds

Helsinki Meet

CASTLE GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — Pope Paul VI says the European Security Conference convening Tuesday in Helsinki, Finland, is a "solemn affirmation" of peace.

In an address to 3,000 people gathered here Sunday at the papal summer retreat, the pontiff called on all men to welcome the conference and asked Christians to pray for it.

Hunt Two For Crime Series

WILMINGTON (AP)—Police in Wilmington are looking for two men suspected of a string of armed robberies, a kidnap, and a rape.

A 17-year-old waitress was taken from the scene of the last of the armed robberies Saturday. She told police she was raped twice by the men before she escaped when their car overheated and stalled.

Tax Statements

The 1975 tax statements for the City of Greenville will be mailed July 30, according to Floyd Little, City Tax Collector. Taxes are due September 1, 1975, and net amount of tax will be payable through December 31, 1975. On January 1, 1976, two percent interest will be added and three-fourths percent interest thereafter per month until paid. Pre-payments during the month of August will receive a two percent discount, as provided by City Ordinance No. 381.

The office of the Tax Collector also reminds everyone that City of Greenville Privilege Licenses were renewable July 1, 1975. A five percent penalty will be added effective August 1 for late purchasing. There is also a possible fine of $50 per day in violation of business or occupations not displaying current license.

Coast Guard Is Preparing To Police A New 200-Mile Limit

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — If the United States declares a 200-mile fisheries limit, how will millions of square miles of ocean be policed?

problem: Keep an eye on the few square miles of ocean where the fish are. "We know the fishery pattern, where the fish will be and in what season. We can pretty well predict their presence," says Coast Guard Capt. Adrian L. Lonsdale, a spokesman for the service that would enforce the limit law. And where the fish are is where one finds the super efficient trawler fleets of the Russian and Soviet Bloc countries as well as the Japanese and West Germans.

The 200-mile limit is being given serious consideration in Congress because fishing grounds close to the continent — a historical preserve of American and Canadian fishermen — are being picked clean by foreign nets. The current U.S. limit for fishing is 12-miles, adopted in 1966 after the three-mile limit was deemed inadequate for protection of the U.S. fishing industry.

Supporters of the 200-mile limit are talking about congressional passage by Christmas. Some 30 other countries already have adopted a 200-mile fishing limit or are considering it.

In hearings on the legislation, the Coast Guard told Congress it would need $63 million to start up its policing program, and another $47 million annually to operate it.

Some congressmen think the Coast Guard estimate is too low, but are leaving that alone for the moment. There is some talk, too, about giving a part of the enforcement role to the Navy.

Essentially, the Coast Guard Plans to search broad ocean areas with C130 Hercules transports, built by Lockheed. Cutters would patrol below, awaiting radio commands. Aboard the cutters would be helicopters for close-in supervision and transfer of personnel.

The Coast Guard says it will need 1,700 more men, 16 C130s six medium range Albatross aircraft; and 10 more helicopters. Six cutters would be taken out of mothballs at their berths in Curtis Bay, Md., near Baltimore. They've been there for three to four years after having been used in the Indochina war.

The current Coast Guard budget is about $1 billion annually. Strength of the service is 37,000 in uniform and 6,000 civilians.

Advisory Group Meets Tuesday

A meeting of the Title I ESEA Parents Advisory Council for the Greenville City Schools will be held Tuesday, July 29, at 8 p.m., according to Robert Moore, council chairman. The meeting will take place in the board room of the city school office, 431 West Fifth Street.

The purpose of the public meeting is to review and approve the ESEA Title I project for the 1975-76 school year. All interested parents and citizens are invited to this public meeting.

No Leads In Aerial Hunt

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP) — The search for a twin-engine plane carrying five persons, missing since Friday, resumed today but the Civil Air Patrol said it had no firm leads.

"There's been no change since midnight Saturday," said Maj. Cris Harris of the CAP. "We've found no leads, we're just continuing to search."

Harris said a light rain was falling in the Savannah area, hampering searching efforts.

"We'll continue to watch the coast from South Carolina to Florida," Harris said, but added that they will concentrate on the Savannah-Brunswick area.

In nearby Ware County, meanwhile, authorities were checking out a Florida pilot's report that he had spotted what appeared to be the wreckage of a twin-engine plane among some trees.

"We're checking it out," said Harris, "but it sounds like an old wreck of a single-engine plane. Every time we have a mission in that area someone spots that old wreck. . . . It's in such an inaccessible area that we can't dispose of it."

Warn Against Tabs In A Beverage Can

By C.G. McDANIEL
AP Science Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — It's not a good idea to drop pull tabs from soda and beer cans into the can until after the beverage has been drunk, say two Chicago physicians reporting on patients who consumed the tabs along with the liquid.

This is intended to reduce litter and protect wildlife. But the practice can be hazardous, the physicians warn. Rogers and Iginii suggest the tab be placed on a finger or in a pocket until the beverage is consumed, unless a waste receptacle is immediately available.

It is sometimes difficult for physicians to determine if a pull tab has been swallowed, or, if it has, where it is lodged. This is because the tabs are made of aluminum, which shows up only faintly on X-ray pictures, the doctors point out.

In the cases they describe, one of the tabs was retrieved with an instrument inserted into the esophagus. Another passed through the digestive tract.

Local Youth To Serve As Page

Don McGlohon Jr. of Greenville will serve as a Governor's Page in the office of Go. Jim Holshouser this week. Don, a rising eighth grader at Aycock Junior High School here, will work in the governor's office and will participate in tours of the Capitol, the Legislative Building, the Executive Mansion, and museums. The Governor's Page program is an innovation of the Holshouser administration. Unlike legislative pages, those who serve receive no pay.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Don McGlohon, he is on the Pitt Plaza Babe Ruth Baseball team and is a member of Immanuel Baptist Church.

So it's probable that Holshouser, when he met with Reagan last week, did what he could to discourage the Californian, making it clear that he would not have Holshouser's support until and unless Ford dropped from contention.

At the same time, he carefully refrained from saying he planned to endorse Ford and smiled and looked friendly whenever Reagan and his 2,000 conservative backers were around.

Sources close to the governor say that he will wait a little longer, hoping that Reagan will drop out and at the same time keeping an eye on the choice seats on the Ford bandwagon.

If and when Reagan does give up, or if and when the choice seats are almost full, Holshouser will come out for Ford. It may only be a matter of weeks.

Tobacco Barns Lost To Fire

The Red Oak Fire Department responded to a tobacco barn fire Sunday at 9:41 a.m. on a farm belonging to R.D. Harrington, and tended by James Baker. The farm is located on County Road 1203.

According to the Pitt County Fire Marshal's Office, the fire completely destroyed one tobacco bulk barn and one conventional tobacco barn, both full of tobacco. Damages were estimated at $8,000 for the bulk barn, and $2,500 for the tobacco in the bulk barn. The value of the conventional barn and tobacco was placed at $3,500.

The Bell Arthur Fire Department was called on to aid the Red Oak Fire Department in containing the blaze.

Cause of the fire is unknown.

Charge Driver In Sunday Mishap

Clyde Gilbert Lynn of 210 North Library Street was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 12:16 p.m. mishap here Sunday on Library Street, 150 feet North of the First Street intersection.

Officers reported the Lynn car collided with a car driven by Mable Dunn Hathaway of 1108 East 10th St. causing an estimated $1,000 damage to the Hathaway car and $500 damage to the Lynn vehicle.

The British government in the British Parliament passed the Tea Act granting the East India Co. remission of all tea duties in 1773.

Freezer Locker Closing Aug. 8

FARMVILLE—W.A. Allen has announced the closing of the Farmville Freezer Locker Aug. 8.

Patrons have been sent letters advising them of the impending closing date. Allen explained in the letter that the plant has been leased and subleased since February, 1974, but that he has been unsuccessful in finding another lessor to run the plant.

He said all electric current will be cut off Aug. 8, after patrons have had sufficient time to remove the food stored there. However, he added, "If we find that we can make satisfactory arrangements to keep the locker open, we will notify you of this, also."

Revival Series Is Underway

GRIMESLAND—Revival services are continuing at the Grimesland Free Will Baptist Church.

The Rev. A.C. Morgan is the guest speaker for the services which begin nightly at 7:30.

The public is invited to attend according to Charlie Dixon, pastor.

NEW-YORK (AP) — The stock market drifted lower today in the midst of continuing concern over inflation and rising interest rates.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 2.97 at 831.12 on top of its 47.72 loss over the past eight trading days.

Declines outpaced advances by more than a 2-1 margin in quiet trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The quarter-point increase in the prime lending rate to 7 1/2 percent continued to spread in the banking industry.

And brokers reported that investors seemed to be looking ahead warily to the government's report early next month on its wholesale price index's showing during July.

Alan Greenspan, President Ford's chief economic adviser, predicted last week that the July reading for the index would reflect a sharp rise because of recent increases in grain prices.

One plus factor was the news this morning that the nation had a record trade surplus in June, with exports exceeding imports by $1.74 billion.

Litton Industries was actively traded, dropping 3/4 to 6 1/2. The company said it was experiencing cash-flow problems because of a dispute with the Defense Department over certain payments on Litton ship and submarine contracts.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was down .21 at 47.66 in the first hour.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index slipped .36 to 90.78.

Robintech led the active list on the Amex, down 1/4 at 28 1/2.

Congress Looks For Very Close Votes

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Some very close votes are being predicted in Congress this week as the legislators confront the energy problem with oil price controls scheduled to expire Aug. 31.

The majority leaders of both houses indicated Sunday they expect some movement in Congress to cope with the scheduled expiration, which would lead to a relatively fast increase in the price of gasoline and other petroleum products. Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said on CBS' "Face the Nation" that he thinks Congress will reject President Ford's compromise proposal but adopt its own similar measures.

O'Neill said an amendment similar to what the President has suggested will be proposed this week and he expects it to win approval. And, he said he anticipates that with such an amendment, Ford will agree to a temporary extension of current controls. It will be very close, whether the amendment is passed, O'Neill said. Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said on NBC's "Meet the Press" that he thinks there is a "50-50 chance" that Congress will accept President Ford's compromise proposal to remove controls over 39 months. Congress must consider Ford's plan this week. If Congress does nothing by Friday, the administration's program goes into effect automatically. If nothing is done, "then it means controls will go off ... and prices for gasoline will skyrocket," Mansfield said. "The only alternative would be a three-to-six-months' extension of present controls" while another plan can be worked out, he said.

Currently so-called old oil, that produced from wells in operation before 1972, is frozen at $5.25 a barrel. It makes up about 60 percent of the oil produced in the United States. New oil, not controlled, sells for more than $11 a barrel. Ford has proposed ending these price controls to encourage more oil exploration and development, and the battle has been over this point. Ford's compromise proposal calls for easing the controls gradually over 39 months, with a top limit of $11.50 a barrel during that period. He also has proposed a windfall profits tax levied on the oil companies' added profits as a result of their higher prices and encouraging the companies to plow the money back into oil exploration. Consumer advocate Ralph Nader issued a statement Sunday opposing Ford's plan, saying it will only add money to the coffers of the oil companies. And Nader said members of Congress who have private interests in gas and oil should disqualify themselves from voting on this legislation. In other Congressional action, as the legislators try to clear the decks for their August vacation beginning at the end of the week, the arms embargo against Turkey is expected to be a major item of discussion, although O'Neill said he doubts that it will come up again for House action this week.

Rangerettes Attend Camp

FORT BARNWELL—The Farmville Woodmen of the World Rangerettes attended camp here last week.

The girls competed in various events throughout the week with other towns in eastern North Carolina. The Rangerettes won five first place ribbons, one second place ribbon and three third place ribbons. A plaque was awarded the Rangerettes for being "Unit of the Week" third place.

The first place ribbons were awarded in the areas of track and field, kickball, talent show and charm competition. Beth Massey was awarded first place for the most valuable played in kickball. The second place ribbon was awarded in the field of archery and third place in swimming, basketball and riflery.

The girls were under the leadership of Connie J. Moore, who was recognized by Michael Russ for her ability to be with younger people.

Attending from the Farmville Unit were: Laura Bea Shiver; Sara Beth Fulford; Lisa Wilson; Beth Massey; Becky Fisher; Tammy Fisher; Cindy Byers; Betty Gray Creekmur; and Lori Byers.

Three girls from the Stocks Unit were assigned to the Farmville Unit including Teresa Bridges, Rhonda Eastwood and Scarlet Edwards. They were with junior counselor Nancy Fush.

Plan One-Shot Antelope Hunt

LANDER, Wyo. (AP) — Seven three-man teams have agreed to take part in the 32nd annual One-Shot Antelope Hunt near this central Wyoming community Sept. 20.

Tom Hubbard, president of the One-Shot Antelope Club, said Wyoming Gov. Ed Herschler will captain the host team. He said other teams will be captained by Gov. Richard Lamm of Colorado, Gov. James Eron of Nebraska, Gov. Thomas Edwards of South Carolina.

Hubbard said there will be two other teams, one headed by Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., and the other by actor Robert Stack. Hubbard said several invitations have gone out to fill the regular eight-team roster.

Energy Stamps Plan Proposed

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Energy stamps, like food stamps?

The president of Duke Power Co., Carl Horn of Charlotte, would like to see it for people on Social Security, welfare or in low-income brackets. He said in an interview Sunday the stamps could be used for electricity, natural gas, fuel oil, coal, and fireplace wood. They would be available at reduced price, as are food stamps.

Partly cloudy with widely scattered showers Wednesday through Friday. Highs in the 80s, lows in the 60s.

Ford In Poland

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — President Ford flew to Poland today for a two-day official visit, the first in a series of meetings with East European Communist leaders.

The President was greeted at Warsaw's military airport by Polish Communist party leader Edward Gierek. President Henryk Jablonski and Premier Piotr Jaroszewicz.

After a welcoming ceremony, Ford and Gierek left the airport in an open limousine and drove through streets lined with cheering Poles to Ford's guest residence in the Royal Wilanow Palace just outside the capital.

Ford arrived in Warsaw after talks with West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt

Boston Is Running Away, And Loving It All The Time

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer
Break up the Red Sox!!!!
The boys from Boston are running away with the American League East and they don't expect to be caught from behind.
"I don't think we can blow it," said Manager Darrell Johnson. "These boys just love to play baseball and they play the hell out of it."
"Lose? No chance," said rookie outfielder Fred Lynn. "Well...there's always a possibility but the chances are really slim."
"If we stay healthy, no one is going to catch us," added pitcher Bill Lee. "We have the best ballclub."

ters and Reggie Jackson and Joe Rudi homered in each game as Oakland upped its lead in the AL West to 9½ games.
Orioles 7-11, Brewers 4-6
Baltimore rallied for six runs in the ninth to tie the second game and five more in the 10th to win it. Doug DeCinces' two-run triple and Al Bumbry's two-run homer keyed the rally in the ninth while Tommie Davis hit a grand slam homer in the 10th.

Angels 7, Twins 6
Dick Lange, 4-3, posted his first complete game victory of the season and had a shutout until Tony Oliva homered in the ninth.
Royals 2, Rangers 1
Steve Busby, 13-8, bested Gaylord Perry, 9-15, as Kansas

City won its fifth straight game, four of them under new manager Whitey Herzog.
Tigers 8-2, Indians 7-8
Detroit rallied from a 7-2 deficit to take the opener on Aurelio Rodriguez' tie-breaking triple in the eighth inning.
Cleveland came back in the nightcap behind Fritz Peterson, 5-7, who won for the first time in two months.

Memphis Carried To Win By Ex-Miami Dolphins

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—The three Miami Dolphin stars who jumped to the Memphis Southmen this year have finally found their footing in the World Football League.
It was the two touchdown catches of wide receiver Paul Warfield and the rushing yardage picked up by Larry Csonka and Jim Kiick that gave the Southmen a 14-7 victory over the Shreveport Steamer here Saturday night.
Warfield had caught only two passes in Memphis' two earlier games, both losses.
"It has been harder getting adjusted to playing pre-season games in the WFL than I anticipated, starting so early in June," he said.
John Huarte threw both of the touchdown passes, for 33 yards in the first period and eight yards in the third.

Kiick had carried the ball only seven times for nine yards prior to the Steamer game, but emerged from it as the leading rusher with 115 yards in 30 carries. He credited the Southmen offensive line.
"I couldn't have gained the yards I did if it was not for the big holes they opened up," he said.
Csonka, who ran 16 times for 73 yards against Shreveport, thinks the gap between the WFL and the National Football League is closing.
"I cannot see any difference in the caliber of play between the two leagues," he said after the game. "The WFL has improved 100 per cent over what I saw last season on TV. This was a good hardheaded performance. There are some good players in this league."

Weiskopf Gains Measure Of Revenge With Win

ILE BIZARD, Que. (AP) — There was an air of deep, intense satisfaction, almost retribution, in Tom Weiskopf's attitude.
He'd just conquered Jack Nicklaus in a sudden death playoff Sunday for the Canadian Open Golf Championship.
And Weiskopf's thoughts drifted back to the spring of the year and "the greatest disappointment of my life," at Augusta, Ga. and the Masters.
He lost that tournament by a stroke to Nicklaus, a record fourth time he's been second there.
"I thought I got over it in a couple of weeks," he said. "But I didn't. It really took it out of me. I haven't played much since then and I haven't played very well. The disappointment is the reason."
"It's a great thrill, it means a lot to win a national championship."

front of Weiskopf, appeared to have his first Canadian national championship in his pocket when he stood on the 18th tee. But, not knowing that Weiskopf was in trouble and on his way to a bogey on the 18th, Jack pull-hooked his drive into a lake on the left of the 18th and eventually made bogey. That cut his lead to a single stroke.
Weiskopf, a close friend who will play as Nicklaus' partner in the National Team championship later in the year, rammed in an 18-foot birdie putt on the 17th to tie and chipped up close to make par on the 18th, setting up the playoff.
They finished the regulation 72 holes in a drizzling rain tied at 274, six-under-par on the 6,628 yard Royal Montreal Golf Club course. Nicklaus, who had shared the lead at the end of the first three rounds, had a closing 68, two under par. Weiskopf shot 67.

On the first playoff hole, Weiskopf lofted his seven iron approach shot over water to within two feet of the cup. Nicklaus responded with a seven iron to about 6-8 feet. Both had distinct birdie possibilities. But Jack missed.
Nicklaus earned $22,800 for second, which boosted his money-winnings for the year to $203,599, well in front of Johnny Miller, now second at $183,170.
Gay Brewer, a gray-haired, 43-year-old veteran who scored his last victory in this tournament three years ago, missed the playoff by a single stroke with a closing 69 and a 275 total. He'd shared the lead with Nicklaus at the end of the second and third rounds and was in a three-way tie for the top as late as the 15th hole of the last round.

Arnold Palmer, who scored his first pro victory in the Canadian Open 20 years ago, birdied his last hole for a 67 and fourth at 277.
Bruce Crampton of Australia was next with a 69 and 278. J.C. Snead was the only other man under par with a 279 total that included the best score of the final round, a 66.
Gary Player of South Africa and Lee Trevino were at 280.

Shot On 15th Gets Mann LPGA Victory

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "I knew I had to pull myself up by the scuff of the neck," said Carol Mann.
That isn't exactly an easy trick for a 6-foot-3 gal like Mann, but she did the trick.
After bogeying the first hole Sunday, she rolled in three birdie putts, and didn't falter again until she had the $40,000 George Washington Classic locked up with a final round 70 for a 210.
Another three strokes back at 213 were Jo Ann Prentice and Miss Whitworth, both recent Women's Golf Hall of Fame inductees. Miss Prentice finished with a 71, and Miss Whitworth a 74.
Miss Mann said the key to her victory was at the 15th hole, where she was in a bunker on the second shot, and her closest competitor, Miss McAllister, was on the green 18 feet from a birdie on the par four hole.
Miss McAllister's putt however, was two feet right of the hole, and she pushed it in for par. Miss Mann came out of the bunker and holed a 15-footer for par.
"If I bogey and she birdies there, it would have been a swing of two strokes, and I'd be three ahead with three to go," Miss Mann explained. "Instead it was a swing or nothing. I still led by five."

JoAnn Washam finished fifth with a final round par 72, for a three round total of 214. Kathy Ahern carded a 75 Sunday for a 215, while defending champion Sandra Haynie, rookie Bonnie Lauer, and Stacy Hollis deadlocked at 216. Miss Haynie finished with a 72, and Miss Lauer and Miss Hollis, each 74. Donna Young, who shared the first round lead with a five under par 68, faded with a 77 to 217.
Sandra Palmer, recently crowned open champion, had rounds of 74-75-71 for a 220.

Philadelphia Trying To Catch East's Leaders

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Now that Cincinnati seems to have locked up the West Division, the question is who'll volunteer to try and stop Pittsburgh in the East?

Thank you, Danny Ozark.

"Somebody has to and we'll do our best," Philadelphia's fiery manager said as he looked forward to tonight's opener of a three-game series in Pittsburgh against the front-running Pirates.

The Pirates, steamrolling

Montreal 4-1 and 5-3 in a doubleheader Sunday, got a bit of unexpected help from St. Louis, which dumped the Phillies 9-6 and dropped them 5½ games out of first place.

In the rest of the National League, Los Angeles beat Cincinnati 5-3, San Diego defeated Atlanta 3-1, San Francisco downed Houston 5-3 and, in another twinbill, Chicago split with New York, winning the opener 4-2 before the Mets took the 10-inning nightcap 4-1.

Ted Simmons' mammoth seventh-inning home run carried the Cardinals past Philadelphia. It was his third hit of the game and made a winner of 39-year-old Bob Gibson.

The one-time fireballing right-hander hadn't won a game since June 27 and he won this one in only his second relief role since 1965.

Pirates 4-5, Expos 1-3

Willie Stargell borrowed a light bat from pitcher John Candelaria and slugged a three-run homer in the eighth inning of the nightcap to give Pittsburgh its sweep over the Expos.

OPPOSING POINTS—Montreal Expos manager Gene Mauch, left, appeals to thirdbase umpire Ed Sudol on a call during the eighth inning in the second game of a doubleheader in Pittsburgh, Sunday afternoon. Mauch lost the argument and his team lost both games to Pittsburgh, 4-1 and 5-3. (AP Wirephoto)

Bradshaw Taking Reins Like Never Before

LATROBE, Pa. (AP) — Terry Bradshaw emerged as a cool, confident quarterback in the Pittsburgh Steelers' 1974 Super Bowl drive. And the feeling in the Steeler training camp is that it was nothing more than a prelude for the best Bradshaw has to offer.

"He walked into this training camp and took over the offense like he never has before," said Coach Chuck Noll. "Everything he does now, he does with total confidence. He gets better by the day."

Bradshaw, the first player chosen in the 1970 National Football League draft, agrees that he's gained confidence—but to him that earns the confidence of his teammates.

"I always believed in myself, but I needed others to believe in me as much as I did," he said before a recent workout. "I had to earn that, and it wasn't until the playoffs last year that I did."

"Now I know what I have to do, and my teammates know I can do it, too. I'm ready to make up for some of the leadership that I haven't provided before."

Bradshaw has always been known for his strong passing arm. However, it was his play-calling and use of the running game that made him especially effective last season in playoff victories over Buffalo, Oakland and Minnesota.

"Now, if I find myself throwing the ball more than 20-25 times a game I'll say, 'Hey, wait a minute. Something is wrong here.'"

"It took me a long time to understand the running game and appreciate its value. But now I do," he said.

Bradshaw augments the Steeler running game with his own ball-carrying. He ran 20 yards for a touchdown for the only score of a Steeler scrimmage Saturday.

He averaged 7.6 yards per carry in last season's playoffs, and he ran for several key first downs. He figures he'll run even better this season because he's reduced his weight to 204 pounds from the 225 he weighed a year ago.

"I just felt sloppy at 225," he said, "and there is no room in this league for being sloppy. I feel stronger and quicker, now than I have in years."

Bradshaw rode the bench for the first six games of last season while Joe Gilliam played quarterback, and prior to last season Bradshaw had dined Terry Hanratty for the job.

However, Bradshaw has undisputed control of the starting job at this time.

"I think I've earned it, and apparently others do too," he said. "Now, I have to prove we were all right."

Jones Uses Sinker On Sinking Braves

ATLANTA (AP) — Randy Jones has discovered something both he and the Atlanta Braves have in common. A sinker.

The young San Diego left-hander used it to baffles the Braves on six hits Sunday in a 3-0 triumph for a four-game sweep over the sinking Braves, who have dropped seven of eight starts.

"That was my first victory against Atlanta in three years," said Jones, who lifted his record to 13-6 and lowered his National League leading earned run average under 2.00.

"It was the first time I've ever had a good sinker ball against them, and I threw a lot of them today," said Jones.

"But I'm still not out of the dog house with them," he said, referring to his 1-6 record against the stumbling Braves.

Dave Winfield drove in a pair of runs for the Padres with a sacrifice fly in the opening inning of loser Bruce Dal Canton, 0-3, and an infield hit in the third. Mike Ivie, an Atlanta product who had 10 hits in the four games and is 18 for 28 this year at Atlanta Stadium, delivered the other with a sacrifice fly in the fifth.

Atlanta broke through for a run in the eighth on a walk and singles by Ralph Garr and Marty Perez.

"Last year I sort of lost my confidence," said Jones, who had an 8-22 record a year ago.

"The other team would get one run and I'd say here we go again. This year it's different."

Jones, 25, said that this year, "the defense is more solid and we're getting more runs. That takes some of the pressure off."

The sweep pushed the fourth place Padres 4½ games ahead of the Braves, now 43-58.

"We're ahead of Atlanta and Houston in the standings and we play both of those teams again in the next two weeks," said San Diego Manager John McNamara.

"We'll find out just how good we are. We still have to prove to people that we're a decent team. And we are a decent team."

McNamara said if he can beat the teams below him, the Padres have a good chance of moving up.

"First place is awfully steep," he said, "but I think we have a chance at second."

Draws Fine; Expects Trade

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta Braves outfielder Mike Lum was fined for "lackadaisical play" during a Saturday night loss to San Diego, Atlanta Manager Clyde King revealed Sunday.

Lum reacted to the fine by saying he expected to be traded.

The fine was prompted when Lum played a routine single by Bobby Tolan into a double in the eighth inning of the 4-2 loss to the Padres Saturday night. Tolan later scored the final run.

"That's happened before this year on this club and nobody's been fined, but Mike Lum gets fined," Lum said following the 3-1 loss to San Diego Sunday.

It gave the Padres a sweep of the four-game series and left the Braves floundering in fifth place in the National League West with a 43-58 record.

"I've been here for eight years, and never said a word. Now I say things and this happens," said Lum, who is batting .235 with four home runs and 21 runs batted in.

"I just don't give a damn anymore. It's just a small fine. I don't care," said the 29-year-old native of Hawaii.

"I don't mean I don't care if we win or lose, or how I play," he said. "But I'm sure I'm going to be traded. Don't quote me as saying I'm asking to be traded, because I'm not, but I wouldn't mind it."

"Something's got to happen," he said. "We just keep losing and losing, and when teams trade, they usually start with their veterans. I think I'm gone."

It had originally been announced that Lum had first been suspended, then reinstated and fined.

King would not disclose the amount of the fine but Lum said: "Heck, so they fine me $100? What's that. I've lost that much before in other ways. It was just a small fine."

"I fined Mike Lum for lackadaisical play on the Tolan hit," said King. "I won't discuss fines with him or any other player beyond that. I never do."

"There have been times this year when a single has been stretched into a double, but not because of a lack of effort by a player."

King made no mention of trading Lum, who also plays first base.

"That's for him to say, not me," he said.

Hornets Fall To San Antonio

By The Associated Press

Instead of remembering the Alamo, the Charlotte Hornets would like to forget it.

They attacked at Alamo Stadium Saturday night. But the attack had shortcomings like four fumbles and three interceptions, all but one of these errors in the second half. And they lost 27-10 to San Antonio Wings Saturday night in the opening regular season World Football League game. "When you've had the ball 13 times and you only score 10 points and you only punt twice, you know you've given it away a lot," said Hornets coach Bob Gibson. "You cannot have turnovers like that and win. If these had not happened, it wouldn't have been a contest."

Three of the four fumbles resulted in San Antonio assuming control inside the Charlotte 22-yard line.

The Wing's offense had to travel a total of only 82 yards to get their 27 points.

The defeat was even more galling because the Hornets practiced hard against fumbles in training camp. "If a guy fumbled, we got him out of there and emphasized it to him, made him conscious of holding onto the ball," Gibson said. "It's a lack of concentration when you're not holding onto it."

Halfback Don Highsmith had the ball jerked away on the Hornets' first possession and the Wings drove 27 yards for a 7-0 lead.

Rookie receiver Randy Cobb dropped a completed pass and the Wings went 16 yards for 22-10.

Halfback John Sykes started too soon on a pitchout from Brian Dowling. Then the Wings drove two yards and kicked a 33-yard field goal for 19-10.

"None of those fumbles should have happened," Gibson said. "You get hit blindsided occasionally and you can't help but fumble, but our four weren't that way."

VISTA Offers A Variety Of Service

A variety of opportunities for volunteer service are available to local citizens of all ages, according to VISTA volunteer Arthur Pigram.

Pigram coordinates listings of needed volunteer positions which are gathered by the East Carolina University Student Volunteer Association and Volunteer Greenville.

All types of volunteers are especially needed during the summer months, he said. Persons interested in volunteer work are urged to telephone Pigram at 758-2030 or visit him at the Volunteer Greenville headquarters at 503 East Fifth St.

A partial list of agencies and programs requiring volunteers follows:

Wahl-Coates Elementary School needs tutors for their summer program each weekday morning.

AJSS, a group of students sent to Greenville to work on beautification projects, needs skilled supervisors in painting, carpentry and masonry. Each supervisor would be asked to give a few hours each week.

Boys Club summer program for boys needs leaders in arts and crafts, chess and sports.

Operation Sunshine, all-day program for girls, needs leaders in arts and crafts, dance and singing.

Earth, a home for autistic and emotionally disturbed children, needs volunteers to play with the children, work on self-help and establish friendships.

WAGS (Winterville, Ayden and Grifton Child Development Center) needs help with making learning materials. They will supply needed materials.

4-H Club needs volunteer for archery, sharpshooting and other activities.

Later this year Volunteer Greenville will be permanently established as part of the Greenville Human Relations Council.

GOREN BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF © 1975, The Chicago Tribune

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠95 ♠A762 ♠1093 ♠9843
The bidding has proceeded: North East South 1 ♠ Dble. ?
What action do you take?
A.—Raise to two hearts. This bid shows no particular strength after East's takeout double. It is simply a mild preemptive measure aimed at stealing some of the opponents' bidding room.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK984 ♠K1065 ♠74 ♠A8
The bidding has proceeded: East South West North 1 ♠ Dble. Pass 1 ♠ Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Bid two hearts. Your hand is somewhat better than a minimum double, and even though you have forced partner to bid, the possibility of game still exists if partner has some useful values. Advise him of this.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A1065 ♠A863 ♠AK93
The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1 ♠ Dble. 1 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—While we do not object strongly to a jump of four hearts, we feel that the chances of slam are too good not to make some sort of try. We suggest that you

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A76 ♠82 ♠AK92 ♠AJ85
The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Two clubs. With 16 points in high cards, your hand is too good to rebid one no trump but not good enough to jump to two no trump. Therefore, your only alternative is to rebid your second suit and await partner's next action.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KQ10954 ♠Q ♠Q1084 ♠73
The bidding has proceeded: South West North East Pass Pass 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Bid three spades. Your hand has considerable playing potential, and the auction suggests that partner will have suitably fitting values, since he does not rate to have much in hearts. In view of your original pass, this bid is not forcing.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AK76 ♠95 ♠AQ83 ♠KQ7
The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—One spade. Stretching a point in order to jump rebid two no trump would not normally be criticized, except that this is not the hand for that bid. With our wealth of first- and second-round controls, the hand should play better in a suit if we can find a fit. We can always bid no trump at our next turn.

Q.7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A106 ♠AQ7 ♠AJ32 ♠874
The bidding has proceeded: North East South West Pass Pass 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass 2 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Three spades. You could hardly have a better hand for partner, based on your bidding to this point. You have the maximum high-card count allowable on your bidding and excellent fits for both of partner's suits. You describe this holding exactly with a jump preference.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AQ54 ♠KQJ97 ♠8532
The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Two spades. The alternative bid of four clubs would crowd the auction, and interfere with an orderly investigation of slam possibilities. Partner's next call will help clarify his holding, and we still have jump support in clubs in reserve should we decide to exercise that option.

Lightning Hit 10 Picnickers

WHITEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — Lightning struck a group of 10 picnickers huddled beneath a tin-roofed shelter Friday, killing one person and injuring two others.

Columbus County Coroner Buell Lanier identified the fatally injured victim as Mrs. Verna McPherson, 51, of Rt. 1, Chadbourn.

The group was under a shelter in a grove of pecan trees in the Beaverdam community seven miles south of Whiteville, according to Coroner Buell Lanier.

He said he was told it had not yet begun to rain when the lightning struck.

The injured were identified as Mrs. Marian Gore, 38, and her daughter, Sharon, 8, both of the Beaverdam community. They were reported in satisfactory condition at Columbus County Hospital.

Ponchos, tube dresses and knits were highlights of the fall ready-to-wear fashion shows in France and Italy.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

As the human population approaches 4 billion, pressures are mounting to develop and till all arable lands of the world.

Substantial increases in farm production are needed each year just to keep pace with population growth and maintain present consumption levels, which are woefully inadequate in many countries, according to Bill Humphries, N. C. State University agricultural information specialist.

But the global effort to bring new lands into cultivation carries with it a not-so-obvious but very real danger, according to plant scientists with the North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station.

Primitive forms of cultivated plants, along with related wild species, are being destroyed. As a result, the scientists say, vast reservoirs of genetic variability which could be "of immeasurable value" to future plant breeding efforts are being lost.

Just a few months ago, crop scientists at North Carolina State University warned in a public statement that a development known as "monoculture" poses a threat to the high levels of crop productivity in this country.

What they meant was that most varieties of major U. S. crops are so similar in genetic makeup that they are vulnerable to unpredictable attacks by new pests or new strains of old pests, including insects and disease organisms.

An example of this occurred in 1970 when an unexpected epidemic of Southern corn leaf blight disease reduced the nation's corn harvest by hundreds of millions of bushels.

To minimize the problem of monoculture or genetic vulnerability, crop scientists with the N. C. Agricultural Experiment Station have been investigating new plant breeding approaches. They are attempting to "resynthesize" some of the genetic variation in primitive plants and assess its potential value in the improvement of cultivated plants.

The studies involve tobacco but the principles could be applied to other crops as well.

A few hybrid tobaccos have been developed over the past decade or so, in Kentucky and elsewhere, but generally their performance has been disappointing. The hybrid vigor principle that has worked so well in such crops as corn just hasn't paid off to any appreciable extent in tobacco.

But the "introgressive hybridization" program in North Carolina looks promising. Stable breeding lines have been developed that produce from 10 to 35 percent higher leaf yields than the flue-cured variety used to initiate the breeding program.

Some day, then, U. S. and world farmers may be able to harvest much larger crops of tobacco — and other crops too — on just about the same amount of land they are now using.

The Bomb That Is Due Thursday

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It has been written that in the event of a missile attack, we'll have only a few minutes' warning. We should like to give you far more advance warning about a bomb ABC will drop on us Thursday.

The device bears the title of "Almost Anything Goes." It's an hour-long, five-week summer series. It has small-town teams participating in zany athletic contests in the spirit of the old potato sack races.

We got an advance look at it last week. We fled after a half-hour, pledging to make a serious attempt at reading "War and Peace," a project we undertake each summer when TV viewing reaches the dregs.

We always fail on account of drink or laziness. But, by nedies, after watching half of "Almost Anything Goes," we're going to read "War and Peace" on Thursday nights for the next five weeks.

The ABC show is that bad. It's a numbing example of what happens when people having fun doing silly sports are covered by sportscasters who are All Business about their chosen calling.

We refer to Charlie Jones and Lynn Shackelford, ABC's reporting team. Their coverage of the just-for-laugh proceedings is as intense and cliché-filled as that normally given pro basketball.

Thursday's show, taped at Murphy Park in Putnam, Conn., has teams from Putnam, Webster, Mass., and Burrillville, R.I., battling for the series "Eastern Regional Championships."

It starts with the blare of a high school marching band and Shackelford's solemn report that the teams' home towns are in a 15-mile radius of each other, "which means there may be no home field advantage."

Team members are solemnly introduced, their ages and backgrounds solemnly recited. Then three referees in striped shirts are gravely presented. Then the first event light-heartedly commences.

A young man and woman plunge into a pool, climb on a bobbing raft and try to don formal evening wear in 90 seconds. Jones gives a play-by-play recital that is mind-boggling. He is totally serious.

A second set of contestants later jumps in the pool. Jones carefully notes because they are in their 30s they might have more experience in dressing formally "and perhaps their age will be a factor."

To the library now for a copy of "War and Peace." True, it'd be easier to loaf or watch Channel 21's "Hello, Long Island" for the next five Thursday nights. But we made a pledge. Besides, our set can't get Channel 21.

Common misconceptions about wills may prove very costly. Your will is probably the most important document that you will ever sign. Yet an amazing number of people today do not have a will. Many fail to understand that a will represents the heart of estate planning and the price of misunderstanding comes high.

Only rich people need wills? (Wrong.) If you own any property at all, you need a will. Even if your estate is small, by leaving a will, you exercise your legal rights to provide for the welfare of your family to distribute your assets as you think best and to secure the efficient management of your property.

If I die without a will, the law will usually dispose of my property according to my intentions. (Wrong.) In this case you're not here to express your "intentions." Every State has a set of laws designed to dispose the property of individuals who have not made a will. These are called the Laws of Descent and Distribution. Every effort is made to be fair and equitable but the ultimate disposition rarely coincides with the intentions of most people.

My life insurance is a good substitute for my will. (Wrong.) Too many people rely on life insurance "to take care of everything." Life insurance is simply one kind of property you may own and proceeds paid to a named beneficiary are not governed by your will. My children will be excluded from an inheritance if they are not mentioned in the will. (Wrong.) Any child born after the date of the will receives what he would have gotten if there had been no will at all. The portion will depend on what the state laws of descent normally provide when the parent dies without a will.

Begin Gurney Deliberations

By PAT LEISNER
Associated Press Writer

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A jury begins deliberations today on whether former Sen. Edward J. Gurney took part in a corrupt scheme to raise money by selling his influence to Florida contractors with federal housing projects pending.

Closing arguments concluded Saturday in the 23-week-old bribery-conspiracy trial of the Florida Republican and three others. Weary jurors asked for a one-day holiday before getting the case.

U.S. District Judge Ben Krentzman agreed to a Sunday recess, telling jurors he would instruct them on the law and send them out to deliberate when they returned today.

Krentzman must first dismiss four alternates before he charges the 12 men and women who will weigh the testimony of 106 witnesses and 500 exhibits in evidence.

The panel has been sequestered since last Tuesday, when closing arguments began.

Gurney, 61, ex-aide Joseph Bastien, 33, plus Federal Housing Administration officials Ralph Koontz, 51, and K. Wayne Swiger, 61, are charged with conspiracy to raise an illegal $233,000 campaign fund for Gurney by peddling his influence with the FHA.

Gurney also is charged with bribery, accepting unlawful compensation and lying to the federal grand jury that indicted him a year ago. He faces a maximum jail sentence of 42 years if convicted of all the charges.

Bastien additionally is charged with receiving unlawful compensation — $180 a month apartment rent from a builder in return for FHA help. All of the defendants have taken the stand and denied the charges.

The case centered around the fund raising activities of Larry Williams, who testified for the government that he collected $400,000 in Gurney's name between 1971-73 by shaking down builders by promising them favored FHA treatment. Williams spent time in jail for his part in the scheme.

Bogus Cops On N.C. Highway

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Jereld R. Baker, 33, of Leola, Pa., says he was stopped about 4:30 a.m. last Thursday on I-86 near Lexington by a car with a flashing blue light.

His 5-year-old daughter was asleep in the back seat; they were on their way to Virginia Beach, Va., he said.

Baker, personnel manager for Itek Corp., said two men wearing dark uniforms, badges and guns told him he was charged with speeding.

He said they told him to following them to a magistrate's house. But while on a dark road, he said, they stopped him and advised him he could post a $100 dollar bond with them since magistrate would be asleep.

Baker said they then asked to search his car. "I told them I didn't understand why, but I wasn't going to argue," he said later.

As one man searched the trunk, Baker said, "I got rapped on the head, knocked down to my knees." He said he was hit three times while his daughter slept through the whole ordeal.

Mrs. Meir Sues U.S. Publication

TEL AVIV (AP) — Former Premier Golda Meir is suing Commentary magazine for $3 million and she says any money she is awarded in the libel suit will go to helping immigrants to Israel.

The American publication claimed Mrs. Meir provided Josef Stalin a list of Soviet Jews who wanted to fight in Israel's war of independence, and it said Stalin sent the Jews to concentration camps.

Mrs. Meir, who filed the suit in New York, called the report "false and malicious."

The Davidson County Sheriff's Department reported early today that their had been no arrests in the case. Sunday, a sheriff's spokesman officers were "investigating a couple of leads."

Meanwhile, Lexington City Police are investigating a similar complaint about two men posing as officers. A man, whose name was not available, told police that the men stopped his car on U.S. 29 at 4:45 a.m. Wednesday, searched his car and found a gun.

He told officers that the men told him he would have to place a $200 bond for carrying a concealed weapon.

Will Visit An Underwater Lab

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lowell Weicker and Rep. Bill Alexander are going to the source to gain knowledge of underwater resources.

Weicker, a Connecticut Republican, and Alexander, an Arkansas Democrat, will spend part of their August vacation taking part in three days of experiments in a 16-foot-long research cylinder 60 feet under the Atlantic Ocean.

Starting Aug. 4, they will join two scientists from the National Ocean and Atmospheric Administration in the eight-foot-diameter Hydro-Lab. The NOAA has been using the lab for three years as an underwater center for research on animal life, energy and pollutants.

In what was later termed the turning point in the Civil War, Gen. George Meade's Union forces defeated the Confederates under Robert E. Lee in 1863 at Gettysburg, Pa.

Eleven Died In Accidents

By The Associated Press
Eleven persons died in traffic accidents in North Carolina over the weekend, including a Greensboro youth whose car collided with a Highway Patrol vehicle which was chasing another car.

The youth was 18-year-old Clyde Michael Perdue. The head-on collision occurred near High Point. Trooper Douglas Owenby, 24, of High Point, as treated for a broken jaw. He said he was chasing a violator when his car skidded into the opposite lane.

The highway death toll in the state this year rose to 767, or 84 fewer than at the corresponding time last year.

There was one double-fatality accident. David Monroe McMahan, 26, of Asheville, and Donna Grace Affenit, 20, of Rt. 1, Weaverville, were killed when their car hit a tree in Asheville.

Victims of other weekend accidents were: Reiko Miller, 42, of Hope Mills in Cumberland County.

Lawrence Dowdy, 21, of Philadelphia, Pa., killed in an accident near Elm City in Wilson County.

Ivan Morgan, 53, of Bailey in Nash County.

Davis Lee Harris, 15, of Rt. 1, Stokes in Pitt County.

Alexandr Paul Rogers III, 20, of Tabor City.

Two-year-old David Lee Keir of Teachey in Duplin County.

Scott Everett Sneed, 7, of Cherokee.

James Douglas Reed, 22, of Charlotte.

Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Philippines became American territories between 1898 and 1901.

Several 'Catches' To The Coastal Energy Bonanza

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oil companies and the Ford administration claim that new and massive drilling on the ocean floor may be just the ticket to reduce America's dependence on imports. So why not take that plunge?

According to a burgeoning number of environmentalists and coastal state leaders, there are reasons aplenty. While few deny at least the possibility of an energy bonanza beneath offshore waters, many fear that any rush to capture it would trigger an environmental — and possibly economic — backlash of disastrous proportions.

"What's an oil company care about Cape May County?" asks New Jersey Gov. Brendan T. Byrne. "Once they've got a lease and they've got oil out there, what do they care?"

Massachusetts Gov. Michael S. Dukakis agrees. "I don't think anybody really trusts them," he said of the petroleum industry.

Right or wrong, such suspicions, aimed both at Big Oil and the Interior Department, were heard repeatedly in interviews with local leaders, environmentalists and others as the department hurried to lease huge undersea beds never before drilled.

The 17 offshore basins which may hold oil and natural gas cover some 180 million underwater acres, more than the total area of Rhode Island, Delaware, Connecticut, Hawaii, New Jersey, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont, Maryland, West Virginia, South Carolina, Maine, Indiana, Kentucky and Ohio.

Their undiscovered oil and gas may equal the nation's entire 116 years of past production, worth perhaps $340 billion at current prices — and it's public property; every taxpayer has a stake in it.

Shell Oil Corp. estimates that tapping offshore petroleum can limit imports to 36 per cent of U.S. oil consumption; without it, imports would approach 50 per cent within 15 years. Current imports total about 38 per cent of U.S. consumption.

But offshore production also threatens to bring oil spills and industrial blight, and many coastal states are demanding more information, more control, more money, more time to prepare.

The Interior Department, on the other hand, is not waiting to sort out these demands.

The department wants to auction 1.6 million acres in new areas off Southern California this October; California is suing.

Interior also plans to auction 1.8 million acres in the unexplored Gulf of Alaska this December; Gov. Jay Hammond is pressing Congress to block the sale.

The first East Coast leasing, off Middle Atlantic states, was tentatively scheduled at 2.6 million acres for May 1976; two counties and five towns on Long Island, N.Y., have sued to prevent it.

Opposition also runs strong in New England, faced with an August 1976 leasing of about 1.3 million acres on Georges Bank, one of the world's richest fishing areas.

Only two coastal areas — the Southeast, due for an undetermined amount of leasing in October 1976, and the Gulf of Mexico, accustomed to offshore petroleum since 1954 — seem at all satisfied.

"Unleash the oil companies and let them go to work and start drilling," urged South Carolina's Gov. James B. Edwards.

"The criticism has been justified in the past," said Edwards, "but I think the modern-day industries are more sensitive to human needs, to the desires of the environmentalists.

"I think they can be profit-oriented and people-oriented all at the same time."

New Jersey Gov. Byrne declared that turning the oil companies loose offshore "is trusting the free enterprise system on a set of standards I can't accept."

"I think their standards are to get the oil, to make a profit on it, and have whatever concern for the environment is consistent with the free enterprise system.

"The standards have got to be a little more carefully drawn in that regard."

In Maine, Ronald Poitras, director of coastal planning, said, "They've gotten a more intensive public relations campaign to make it look like they're more responsible, but frankly I don't think they are."

"I think the size and the incredible power of these large oil companies make them suspect from the beginning ... They're bigger than state governments."

Long Island's suit against Atlantic leasing contended it would increase the power of major oil companies which "function as a cartel in setting prices, protecting profits and minimizing competition from independents."

Such charges are discounted by officials in Louisiana, an oil state since 1902. "We think it's competitive as hell," said Commissioner of Conservation Ray Sutton.

The Interior Department, as manager of the offshore leases, has proposed to ban joint bidding by major companies as a move to give smaller companies a better chance at winning or sharing leases.

But the Long Island suit charged that Interior itself was dominated by the oil industry and should not be allowed to regulate the same offshore development it is trying so hard to promote.

Alaska Gov. Hammond said the leasing of "frontier areas" was a foregone conclusion, adding that Interior even ignored the recommendations of the President's Council on Environmental Quality (CEQ).

Early last year, CEQ rated the environmental risks of oil development in the three Atlantic areas and the Gulf of Alaska.

Meanwhile, oil companies listed for Interior their preferences among 17 offshore areas.

Among the four areas on both lists, this was the result:

—The CEQ put the Gulf of Alaska last, as the worst environmental risk. The oil industry put it first, as the best petroleum prospect. Interior scheduled it first.

—Both CEQ and the industry rated the Mid-Atlantic their second choice. Interior placed it second in the leasing schedule.

—The North Atlantic was CEQ's first choice. The oil industry put it in third place, and so did Interior.

—The CEQ ranked the South Atlantic third. Industry placed it fourth, and so did the Interior Department.

"There is great suspicion about the administration's posture in this," said Dukakis of Massachusetts, "because there's a feeling — whether rightly or wrongly — that things are done quickly and without much consultation, so that opposition can be headed off."

The widespread mistrust has spilled over, not only into the courts, but into Congress through proposals for greater public disclosure of offshore information and more direct federal control over petroleum development.

Interior's assistant secretary Roy Hughes, in charge of the offshore program, said the department can protect the public interest and doesn't need any new laws from Congress.

But Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., a leading spokesman for Interior's critics, said that the public, with 180 million acres and hundreds of billions of dollars at stake, needs the protection only new laws can provide.

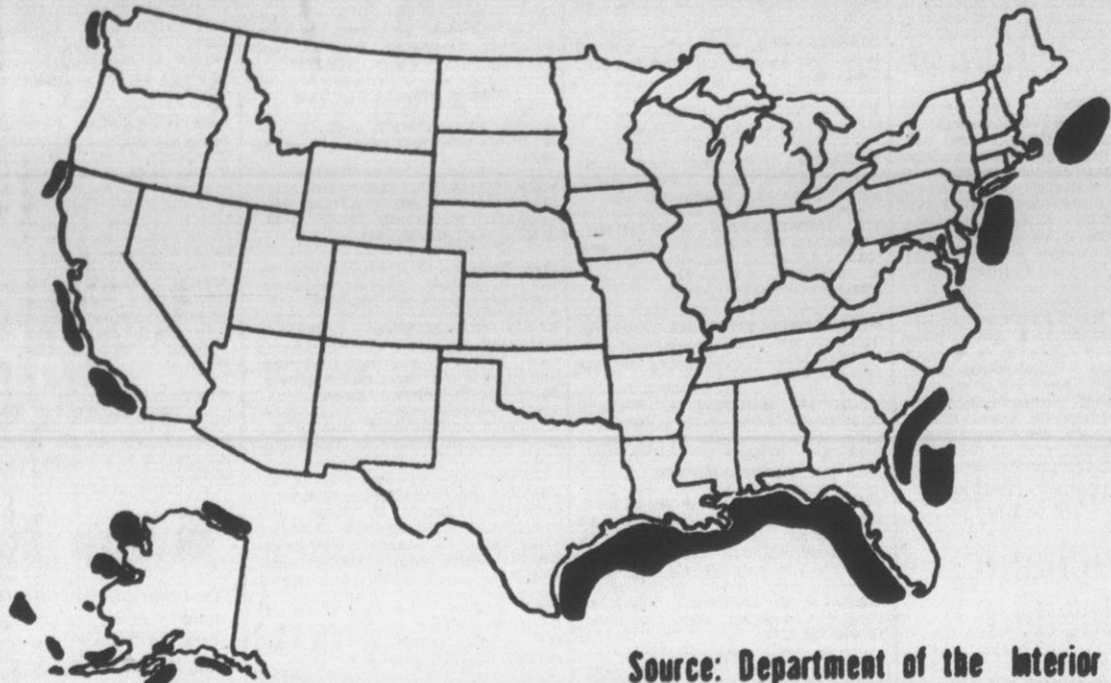

Hollings said times have changed and Interior just hasn't caught on yet.

"We've moved from dark operations of the House of Oil (Interior) that was run by the API (American Petroleum Institute) ... and the buddy-buddy system," Hollings drewled.

"It's all got to be done in a different fashion now."

"The public's not going to stand business-usual down there by Big Oil and the Interior."

Plane Given To Manager

MEMPHIS (AP)—Elvis Presley has given his long-time manager Col. Tom Parker a $1.2 million turbo-prop jet, a published report said Sunday.

Parker, reached by telephone in Las Vegas by a reporter from the Commercial Appeal, was overwhelmed.

"You've got to be kidding," Parker said.

Presley had the plane flown to Las Vegas Saturday to surprise the cigar-chomping promoter, who is Presley's exclusive manager.

The white Grumman Gulfstream G-1 has a gold carpeted interior with a stereo system, flight phone and bar. Parker probably won't use the bar because he doesn't drink, the report said. The plane will seat as many as 12 persons.

Presley last month bought himself an 84-passenger airplane for a reported $1 million.

A source close to Presley said the singer decided to buy the planes after it took four leased aircraft to carry the last concert touring company.

Said Potential CIA Director

NEW YORK (AP)—Elliot L. Richardson, former attorney general and now U.S. ambassador to Britain, is "a prime possibility" to become the next director of the Central Intelligence Agency, Time magazine says.

The newsweekly said in this week's edition that CIA Director William Colby "sooner or later, quite possibly by the end of this year, seems certain to be asked to leave."

Time said other candidates under consideration for Colby's job are former Treasury Secretary George Shultz, former Deputy Attorney General William French Smith and former Deputy Defense Secretary Cyrus Vance.

Bagged 4 Wild Boar In Hunt

BONN, West Germany (AP) — President Ford's 23-year-old son Jack bagged four wild boar here during a predawn hunt at a game preserve.

Jack, who is accompanying his father and mother on their 10-day European trip, took part in a hunt at the game preserve owned by Joerg Baron von Holzschuber, owner of the Gymnich Castle where the Fords stayed during their West German visit.

CARD OF THANKS OF CLEO CANNON

In our recently hour of Bereavement it was so comforting and encouraging to find so many true friends and relatives at our side offering Prayers, Kind Words of Sympathy and Condolences also many Cards, Floral Tributes and Expression of sympathy in his home going.

Since it is impossible to thank each one personally we take this opportunity to express our deepest gratitude and special thanks to Rev. W.L. Lee, Elder W.J. Best, D.U. Brown's Nursing, Inc., Perry Funeral Home of Newark, N.J. and Norcoff & Company Funeral Home of Ayden, N.C.
