

Construction Of Evans St. Mall Is On Schedule

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Construction of the new Evans Street Mall in the downtown area is proceeding according to schedule, Joe Laney, executive director of the Redevelopment Commission, reported Monday night.

Laney told commissioners that the contractor actually began work in the two block area between Third and Fifth Streets slightly ahead of schedule and is moving along nicely in the demolition stage of the project.

The director said that two meetings were held in July with merchants of the Central Business District to explain the mall construction program. He added that the sessions attracted approximately 50 businessmen who showed a great deal of interest and enthusiasm in the project.

During the briefings, the overall mall construction schedule was discussed and questions were brought up concerning various elements of the program, including parking for downtown employees and the provision of loading areas.

According to Laney, a preconstruction hearing was also held prior to the initiation of work in the mall area and was attended by various representatives who have key roles in the construction stage. Various items that needed to be taken care of prior to construction were discussed and the need for the provision of an entrance to the parking lot at the corner of Evans and Fourth Street from Fourth was emphasized.

The official pointed out that both the city and Utilities Commission gave full cooperation to the project and moved in ahead of schedule to take care of important matters.

Three lots were conveyed to the city the first of August for parking use in the CBD area, it was explained. They included a lot behind H.L. Hodges Co., the former Bancroft Moseley property at the corner of Fourth and Cotanche Streets, and the former Blount-May lot behind Globe Hardware.

In addition, four lots will be operated by the city and Parking Authority as temporary leased parking sites for employees of downtown business establishments.

City Manager Harry Hagerty reported that the lots have been color coded and spaced off to provide parking for 99 vehicles.

The lots, according to Laney, are located between Third and Fourth Streets behind Planters Bank, on Evans Street adjacent to the library, on Evans between Belk Tyler and Home Savings and Loan Association, and on Evans Street adjacent to Belk Tyler.

Real Estate officer Kirby Boyd told commissioners that two acquisitions were made in the CBD project area since the July meeting while no demolition took place.

No demolition or acquisition took place in the Southside Project since the July meeting, Boyd reported.

Commissioners accepted bids for the sale of a parcel in the CBD area and for a tract in the Southside section, subject to approval by the City Council and the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

A bid of $9,162.47 for a 4,072 square foot parcel on Cotanche Street was accepted from Janet Soughton and a $1,150 bid for a parcel at the Corner of Wyatt and Garland Streets was accepted from the Bachelor Benedict Club. Bid openings for both parcels were held on July 28 and only one bid was

Veto Cast Twice By United States

By GENE KRAMER
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States has vetoed United Nations membership applications by North and South Vietnam in retaliation for the exclusion of South Korea.

U.S. Ambassador Daniel P. Moynihan cast separate vetoes in rapid-fire succession Monday as the 15-nation Security Council voted 13 to 1 favoring admission of the Hanoi and Saigon governments. Costa Rica abstained.

Moynihan recalled that 26 years ago the United States forever use of the veto on membership questions, but said it had changed its position because of the council's refusal last Wednesday even to take up South Korea's membership application.

The U.S. action brought charges from Communist and nonaligned countries that the United States was reviving Cold War practices and exercising a "tyranny of the minority."

Several council members charged that the United States, frustrated by defeat of its allies in Indochina, was using the Korean question as a pretext to keep Hanoi and the new Saigon regime out of the United Nations.

This accusation was also made in a joint press statement by the U.N. observers of the two Vietnamese regimes. They arrived in New York last month and watched Monday's session.

Moynihan said the United States is prepared to agree with membership for the two Vietnams if South Korea is also admitted.

He said that the United States has always favored universal U.N. membership, but "will have nothing to do with selective universality, a principle which in practice admits only new members acceptable to the totalitarian states."

Monday's vetoes were the eighth and ninth cast by the United States. The Soviet Union has used the veto 110 times, many of them to block the admission of new members, including four times against South Korea's application.

Britain has cast 11 vetoes, France six and mainland China two. The Chinese Nationalist government on Taiwan used the veto once before it was ousted in 1971 from the world organization.

Defending the exclusion of South Korea, Chinese Ambassador Huang Hua said the "sole legal sovereign state of the Korean nation" is North Korea, which opposes U.N. membership so long as Korea is divided.

Some Western diplomats were said to feel that exclusion of the two Vietnams might bring pressure on North Korea by its Communist allies to change its policies so that the two Koreas and the two Vietnams, like East and West Germany, could enter the world organization.

Repair Delays Viking

CAPE CANAVERA, Fla. (AP) — Technicians are replacing a sticky valve on a Titan-3E Centaur rocket that forced a three-day delay in the launch to Mars of America's twin Viking spacecraft.

The blastoff of the first spacecraft was postponed Monday after a last-minute test showed a valve about the size of a silver dollar was stuck in an open position. The launch was rescheduled for 5:08 p.m. EDT Thursday.

The valve is one of 24 which ring the inside of the rocket nozzle of each of two solid-fuel engines which serve as the first stage of the launch vehicle.

The chemical nitrogen tetroxide is squirted through the valves under high pressure to deflect the exhaust flame and steer the rocket.

Kennedy Space Center officials said they will not know what caused the malfunction until the valve is removed, a process which requires draining of pressurized tanks containing the nitrogen tetroxide.

The 72-hour postponement will force a similar delay in the launch of a Viking sister ship because workers need 10 days between shots to prepare. The launch of the second Viking was reset for Aug. 21.

Together, the two Mars flights will cost taxpayers $1 billion.

Meanwhile, Robert Kraemer, director of planetary programs for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, discounted speculation by a British space expert that Russia could try to upstage the U.S. effort to land on Mars July 4, 1976, the 200th anniversary of American independence.

SUSPENDED

WASHINGTON (AP)—Richard G. Kleindienst, former attorney general, was suspended from practicing law in Washington for a month by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals. The action was for "misrepresentations" concerning White House involvement in the ITT antitrust case.

Seek Postponing Of Grain Sales

By BRIAN B. KING
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration is asking American grain traders "to refrain from further negotiations" with the Soviet Union for at least a month because of declining expectations for the U.S. harvest this year.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said Monday that it would take five months to unload at Russian ports the 9.8 million metric tons of U.S. grain already bought, so "there is no real hurry about additional sales to the Soviets."

Butz said it is more important now "to make sure American livestock production is not short-changed" for lack of feed grains just to boost exports or supply the Russians with their needs.

Butz said he expected discussions and good relations to continue between U.S. traders and Moscow until negotiations resume. Further sales definitely will be forthcoming, he said.

Butz has received heavy criticism for his support of the sales already made, which critics say will lead to price increases at American grocery stores.

He said he still feels consumer food prices will not be appreciably affected by the U.S. grain sales or the crop report, which lowered the Agriculture Department's forecast of the corn harvest by 3 per cent.

The department has predicted a 6 to 8 per cent increase in food prices this year over last year. Food price increases have been about 14.5 per cent in each of the last two years, with the 1972 Russian purchase of 19 million metric tons of grain one factor.

The secretary said he hoped for further but better-spaced Russian purchases. He told a news conference that "obviously ... the actions we take are with the full knowledge and concurrence of the President."

Butz spoke shortly after the department's Crop Reporting Board announced that, based on Aug. 1 growing conditions, the corn crop should be a record 5.85 billion bushels. That would be 26 per cent greater than last season's drought-stricken harvest.

July dry spells in Iowa and other areas of the eastern Corn Belt led to the reduction in the crop estimate.

However, Iowa and Nebraska officials said the Agriculture Department estimates for their states were overly optimistic because the corn crop has deteriorated since the Aug. 1 sampling.

Don Paarlberg, the department's top economist, said that since the Aug. 1 field surveys, rain has been sparse in Iowa and other eastern Corn Belt areas and "continued or increased stress" on the crops is likely.

The soybean crop was estimated at 1.458 billion bushels, up 18 per cent from 1974.

Corn and soybeans, as livestock feed, are the key ingredients for producing the meat, milk and poultry products American families buy at the supermarkets.

The crop report also indicated a record U.S. wheat crop of 2.14 billion bushels, up 19 per cent from last year.

Good Intentions Fail

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon referred to the federal food stamp program today as a "haven for the chislers and rip-off artists" and cited the program as an example of a function people should be performing for themselves.

Simon used food stamps, which supplement the food buying power of about 19 million Americans, as an example of the growth in federal spending which he identified as one of the threats to the free enterprise system.

"The free enterprise system is the foundation of our economy, the rock upon which we have built our earthly kingdom," he said in remarks prepared for a conference of Junior Achievement, an organization that teaches business skills to teenagers.

And yet, Simon continued, "we see the threat to free enterprise in the growing domination of government spending within our economy.

"Why has government spending exploded? Because, I would suggest, we have been willing to assign to the government the responsibility for solving many of the problems that people should be solving for themselves.

"We begin with the best of intentions but wind up with social programs that are spinning out of control."

Simon said the food stamp program began as a $14 million experiment in 1962 but will cost $6.6 billion this year, "and it is a well-known haven for the chislers and rip-off artists."

President Ford recently asked Congress to tighten eligibility requirements for the stamps, calling the program "another massive, multi-billion-dollar program, almost uncontrolled and fully supported by federal taxpayers."

Joan Little Stands By Her Testimony Under Prosecutor's Quizzing

By CATHY STEELE ROCHE
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP)—Prosecutor William Griffin hammered Joan Little with questions today on why she had never "screamed, hollered, slapped, or run" when jailer Clarence Alligood began making sexual advances at her.

Griffin, in staccato questioning, took Miss Little through every detail of her testimony Monday in which she said Alligood had forced her to engage in oral sex before she stabbed him. At each point, Griffin asked her how she had resisted Alligood.

She said she told Alligood several times to leave and that she did not want to have sex with him.

"You didn't slap him or push him away?" Griffin asked repeatedly.

"No," Miss Little said. At one point, Miss Little asked for a chance to explain her answer. "No, just answer the question," Griffin said. But the court later instructed Miss Little to explain her conduct.

"Mr. Griffin, if you had been a woman, you wouldn't have known what to do, either. I didn't know whether he was going to kill me or not. I was scared so I just let him..." Miss Little said.

Miss Little testified earlier that she had not reported the white jailer's advances because she felt a black woman's word would not be taken over that of a white.

"In Washington, North Carolina, coming up as a black woman, it's different saying what you did and having your word go up against a white person's," she said.

As cross examination continued today, the state sought to show Miss Little, 21, as a young lovesick woman desperate to get out of jail. The prosecution contends she killed jailer Clarence Alligood, 62, in order to escape.

Miss Little testified Monday that Alligood forced her to perform oral sex on him before she stabbed him with an icepick and fled the Beaufort County jail last Aug. 27.

Griffin repeatedly questioned Miss Little about previous occasions on which she said Alligood made advances when he visited her cell late at night to bring her sandwiches.

Griffin suggested Miss Little could have used the sandwiches as evidence of the jailer's visits to her cell.

She replied with a set expression, "Mr. Griffin, sometimes you have evidence and you tell the truth and they twist it in a way so to make you not tell the truth."

Through an afternoon of cross examination the prosecutor sought to show that Miss Little had a friendly relationship with Alligood for some time before the slaying. His questions reflected the state's contention that Miss Little's flight from the jail was planned.

She contends she fled in fear for her life. According to her testimony, Alligood was alive and standing in the doorway of her cell grinning when she ran.

Griffin asked her to read at length from notes she made while in jail, which recorded nighttime visits by Alligood and other law enforcement personnel. Much of the material focused on her desire to get out of jail to get back to her boyfriend, Julius Rodgers.

No Leads, No Clues, No Hoffa

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

LAKE ORION, Mich. (AP) — James R. Hoffa's son said a new witness claims he saw the ex-Teamsters president kidnapped, but the Federal Bureau of Investigation today rejected the man's account as "a complete fabrication."

The Hoffa family said the witness underwent an "intensive interview" by the FBI and offered "substantial leads."

But Jay E. Bailey, FBI agent in charge of the Hoffa probe, said, "We went into this one in depth and it has absolutely no basis in fact."

Hoffa dropped from sight 13 days ago.

The mystery intensified late Monday when his son, Detroit attorney James P. Hoffa, said a man who claimed he witnessed the abduction of Hoffa on July 30 gave "very substantial leads which are being followed up very, very carefully."

His words conflict with statements by FBI investigators. They say hundreds of tips and leads are pouring in and being checked out, but that they have nothing promising to go on.

Speaking to reporters at his father's lakeside home 41 miles north of Detroit, the younger Hoffa said, "One lead we thought was very interesting and which is being checked out has to do with an individual who claims he was an eyewitness to the abduction at the Machus Red Fox." The Red Fox is a fashionable restaurant where Hoffa was last seen.

The FBI said it did not know to whom Hoffa referred.

Women's Discussion Group Tackles Problems

By SHELLY COHEN
Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP)—Motherhood used to be as All-American as, well, apple pie.

But the Pill, the women's movement and concerns about overpopulation are taking their toll on young mothers and many of them are turning to each other for the support they say society no longer gives them.

"A lot of their problems are due to the low status of motherhood today and the lack of role models women can relate to," said Maureen Finnerty Turner, director of COPE — Coping with the Over-all Pregnancy Experience.

"Often they have no family nearby," she said, "and even if their mothers do live in the area women today are better educated than their parents and have different ideas about mothering."

So on a Friday morning in suburban Newton, a group of seven women aged 23 to 33, each with her first child, sip steaming mugs of coffee and share their experiences and their feelings.

COPE is one of a handful of organizations in the country which brings women together in discussion groups, each led by a trained "facilitator" to discuss mothering. The 2½-year-old nonprofit organization operates out of the basement of a townhouse in Boston's South End. It has discussion groups meeting in 10 communities and from groups for pregnant women and new mothers has expanded to include groups for mothers of toddlers, single parents, postabortion groups and next year hopes to have a father's group.

The morning coffee klatch is nothing new to American mothers, but is new to the growing ranks of young professional women who suddenly wonder what they're doing home with an infant.

"So many women work right up to their due dates," Ms. Turner said. "Then they come home from the hospital and try to be mother and housewife, whatever that means. And because they can't do it all, they feel inadequate, tired, angry and unappreciated."

These aren't therapy groups, but discussion groups, Ms. Turner, a psychiatrist's nurse, emphasized. The women aren't patients or clients, but members. They don't have severe problems but rather are trying to prevent problems before they start.

So each week in the living room of a two-family home in Newton, a former social worker, former teachers, a city planner, a tennis professional and administrator and a Head Start teacher recently returned from Micronesia discuss their in-laws, their new babies, breast feeding, vacations and their husbands.

The Newton group started in February, when four of the women were still pregnant.

Debbie Beck, a psychiatric social worker, serves as group leader, guiding the discussion, seeing that each woman gets a chance to speak and acting as a resource person.

"Many of the women are trying to adjust to being mothers and whether to go back to work or what kind of activities they want to get involved in. But most of all they're struggling with how to maintain their sense of self," she said.

A former COPE group member herself, Ms. Beck, now the mother of a 20-month-old girl, said, "When I was pregnant I didn't know anyone else who was. My friends either had older children or they were single. I was pleased with the medical care I was getting, but there was no way to talk about my feelings."

Although an ardent feminist, Ms. Turner—who along with the other women prefers the Ms.—added that "the women's movement has further confused the issue."

"A woman thinks, 'Why should I be here with a colicky baby, when I could be in a lab doing research work?'" she said. "They get no pay for being a mother and our work is really into other things."

One 28-year-old mother explained, "Having a baby is a very isolating thing. You're nurturing someone else all the time. There's no time to nurture yourself. And there's really not a lot of prestige in it. It just isn't stimulating."

As the birth rate continues to decline, the pregnant woman becomes more and more an oddity, even a freak to be stared at in the street.

"I joined this group because I didn't know any other people who were pregnant or even who had been pregnant," said one of the young mothers in the Newton group.

They come for a variety of reasons, some to discuss anxieties about pregnancy, others to have "something to get dressed and get out for."

And they stay because as one woman put it, "You can say things here you wouldn't say elsewhere. It's an unbiased atmosphere and a caring atmosphere."

Another young mother said, "When people hear I'm in COPE, they ask, 'What's the problem?' It's no problem. It's just a need."

How Are Cousins Counted As Cousins?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My first cousin Randy and I got into a real shouting match last night, and I need you to back me up.

I say that Randy's children are my second cousins and THEIR children are my third cousins.

Randy says I'm wrong. If I'm wrong, what are Randy's children and grandchildren to me?

Also, if Randy's children are not my second cousins, who are?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Randy's children are NOT your second cousins. They are your first cousins, once removed. And Randy's grandchildren are your first cousins TWICE removed.

If your grandfather had brothers and sisters, THEIR grandchildren would be your second cousins.

DEAR ABBY: I am confused and distraught. My daughter and her boyfriend, both in their late 20s, are self-supporting. They both experienced disastrous divorces in their 20s.

When they decided to live together six months ago, my husband and I were very upset since we don't believe couples should live together out of wedlock. We were very fond of Betty's boyfriend until this happened.

We told her how we felt and that we would not set foot in her house under those conditions. We further told her that as our beloved daughter she would always be welcome in our home but never to bring Alan with her.

She replied that she was sorry we felt that way, but she wouldn't think of marrying again without having first lived with the man for at least a year. Our only communication since that time was an anniversary card from her.

Today, I ran into Betty downtown. She bought me lunch, and we chatted like old times. She's happier and more mature now than I've ever seen her. When we parted, she said, "Remember, Mama, our door is always open."

I cried all the way home. It's been a painful separation for all concerned. What do you think we should do?

MAMA

DEAR MAMA: Do what your heart tells you to do. Call Betty and tell her that although the lifestyle she has chosen is not your style, you respect her right as a person to live her own life—and your door is open to her and any of her friends.

DEAR READERS: The following letter was sent to me by a reader. I pass it along without comment:

Dear Customer: We at the _____ company wish to express our deep appreciation to all our customers and friends for your kind expressions of sympathy when we lost our beloved wife and mother. Every kind word, every warm handshake and every helpful act was gratefully appreciated.

Therefore, we are having a special "thank you" sale. Special pricing has been made possible for this event through the cooperation of our distributors.

The first 100 customers will receive $10 worth of food coupons.

Sincerely,

(NAME OF STORE WITHHELD)

DEAR ABBY: The man I have been living with and I would like to get married, but we don't want it in the newspapers because our grandchildren think we are already married.

Is it possible to do it here (don't mention the town, please), or do we have to go elsewhere? Is there a three-day waiting period? How about blood tests?

I have been married before, but he hasn't. He helped me raise my children, and we are raising a grandchild left to us by my daughter who recently died.

WANTS TO KNOW

DEAR WANTS: The information you seek is available through your local county clerk. In some states (California is one), you can be married by a clergyman; the marriage will be recorded in the church records but by request will not be made public in the newspapers.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Spinster Did Own Analyses

CLAREMONT, Calif. (AP)—A Southern California spinster who never earned more than $150 per month, but who had a knack for profitable investments and who accumulated more than $1 million in her long lifetime, has been honored by Pomona College, the principal beneficiary of her large estate.

Details of this unusual example of educational philanthropy, by a woman who achieved slightly more than a grammar school education herself, were disclosed here by Dr. David Alexander, president of Pomona College, when he announced the establishment of the fully endowed "Minnie B. Cairns Chair in Geology."

Actually, the story of Miss Cairns is both simple and complicated, according to Dr. Allen F. Hawley, retired vice president of Pomona College. Hawley is the man credited with originating the Pomona Plan of Annuity and Life Income Gifts, a concept he conceived in 1948 and which has become a model for similar plans now in use at hundreds of American colleges, hospitals and a variety of other service and philanthropic organizations.

Hawley, now 80 and a resident of Claremont, says the simple parts of the story of Miss Cairns are those which involve her early life on farms in Illinois and Kansas, her education in a country school and a summer course at a university where she obtained a teacher's certificate, her first jobs as a cashier and a stenographer and a move to California in 1935, when her total assets did not exceed $38,000. The more complicated parts of her life story concern the uncanny ability she displayed in selecting profitable investments.

A man whose rigid business principles seldom allow disclosing the details of a donor's wealth or the nature of their gifts to Pomona College, Hawley said Miss Cairns once told him that the basic facts about her gifts could be revealed after her death. She died at 90 in 1971 in Glendale, where she lived quietly, and alone, for almost 31 years.

How did Miss Cairns first become interested in Pomona College and its life income programs which allow a benefactor to receive income from whatever funds are placed with the college? Hawley said she merely answered an advertisement in the early 1950s, requesting some information about the plan. He decided to make a personal call on Miss Cairns at her Glendale home.

Hawley said he arrived at the home during the early evening. He knocked at the front door, noticing that it contained a peephole.

Hawley explained that he was representing Pomona College, and he was prepared to answer any questions she might have. The entire conversation, conducted through the peephole, was brief and to the point.

"I think I can do better with my investments than you can," Miss Cairns said.

"If I ever change my mind, I'll let you know."

True to her word, a few years later Miss Cairns did place the call to Pomona College. A friendship blossomed, and this female investment genius started making a series of gifts which totaled $133,950 during her lifetime. Assets at the time of her death in 1971 amounted to $993,204.82, most of which have been distributed to Pomona College. Two other educational institutions received smaller amounts of her estate. Hawley says he never learned just what technique she developed for picking the best of the blue chip stocks or the land mortgages which were to bring the highest prices during the fantastic growth years in Southern California. But she offered a few clues.

Never buy from a salesman, was one of her rules. She obviously felt that brokerage salesmen would recommend only those stocks in which they, or their employer, had a special interest. She made her own analyses.

She decided that the genuine blue chip stocks are those used to make up the Dow Jones Averages. Not all of them, she would caution, just those that would grow, increase their dividends and value during the market conditions which prevailed during and immediately after World War II.

Another clue to her success in the perilous world of investments probably stems from the experience she gained during the years she worked in the Omaha area as a cashier. She spent a total of 26 years, from 1908 to 1934, with a farm loan company and it was there, Hawley believes, that "she learned how to handle money."

I was walking along a center aisle of a department store the other day when a representative of a cosmetic firm smiled and beckoned me over to the counter.

"You mean me?" I giggled. She nodded. Then she leaned over, sized me up and whispered, "I can help."

I was overwhelmed with the way she looked and the way she smelled. There sure wasn't any peanut butter under her fingernails.

"First, dear," she said, "I want you to walk for me."

I felt like a fool. Stiffly, I swaggered out to handbags and back again. "Are you carrying your money in a knotted handkerchief tied to your knees?"

"Why? Am I walking funny?"

"A bit self-consciously perhaps," she said. "We'll work on that later. Now, we are going to create a new you. First, your shape. You can do all kinds of artificial things to change it. Don't turn your back to me, dear."

"I'm not," I said miserably. "Oh, Well, all that can be fixed with padding. As for your hips and waist, there are cinchers to wear. Now, for the important part. Do you do anything to your hair?"

"I put three rollers each morning on the side I slept on the night before."

"Perhaps a wig," she mused. "We'll just slip this one on for effect. Now, what about eyelashes?"

"Those fake ones make me drowsy."

"You weren't putting them on properly," she said authoritatively. "Now, we'll accent your cheekbones with a dark makeup making your face look thinner. You are rather sallow. We'll add this rouge to make you look vibrant and healthy. There now. Have you always worn glasses?"

"Only since college when I went steady with a parking meter for three years."

"I would suggest contacts. They really give the eyes a new dimension. And your nose. Are you happy with it?"

"It works good."

"I meant the shape of it. You know cosmetic surgery is very commonplace these days. You should have it bobbed and give your face a better profile. Of course you were planning to have your teeth capped."

She worked on me for over an hour. At the end of the session, I was laden with creams, liners, rouge, powder, nutrients, fake eyelashes, wig, waist cincher, padding and suggested doctors to cap my teeth, fix my nose and outfit me in contact lenses.

"Thank you very much," I stammered. "You've certainly been a help."

"Just one last bit of advice, dear," she said softly touching my shoulder. "Be yourself."

Travel Dollars Mean A Lot

Money spent by people visiting Pitt County might not be our biggest source of income; on the other hand its a pretty substantial amount.

The 1974 North Carolina Travel Survey reported that travel spending in our county during 1974 amounted to $8,287,534. It was also encouraging that the amount had increased by 60 percent over the 1973 figure of $5,194,143. Even taking into account the effects of inflation, that's a startling increase.

North Carolina has some noted resort areas, of course, and Pitt County's total was only a small part of the $978.9 million which was spent on travel throughout the state in 1974. But our increase far exceeded that for the entire state. The 1973 figure was $923.2 million, for a six percent increase in 1974 over 1973.

The report doesn't say where the travel money came from in Pitt County but we can assume that most of it was from the ever increasing number of state, regional and even national meetings which are being held here, along with the many activities which draw visitors to the university campus.

The important thing is that over $3 million in additional money was put in circulation last year over the previous year through people coming to our county from other areas.

If any industry came to Pitt County with a $3 million payroll we would rejoice; if we found a new farm crop which would produce that much new revenue we would certainly be most happy.

We can do even more to attract travel dollars to Pitt County. We can work to bring additional meetings and conventions here. That might be encouraged through the development of a convention center. It is possible that tourists attractions such as Carowinds and Kings Dominion might be feasible in this area. There are areas of Pitt County where the topography is ideal for development of golf courses, such as are in Southern Pines and Pinehurst.

It is obvious that there are millions of dollars which can be brought into our county. We already have a pretty good foothold in the travel industry. Now is the time for us to get serious about ways to attract more tourists and visitors to Pitt County.

Can GOP Turn Enough?

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Can the Republican Party turn sharply enough to the right to capture the support of a growing conservative population, and ward off growing threats of a third-party splinter?

That, based on comments made on the floor and from the podium at a recent Raleigh gathering of the GOP hierarchy, is emerging as the overall strategy for the 1976 elections.

In more or less similar words, Gov. James E. Holshouser, Jr., Congressman James T. Broyhill, and James G. Martin, and the co-chairmen of the state committee to elect President Gerald Ford sounded the same theme—echoing the mood of a host of other GOP leaders on hand:

Put On Brakes

The brakes must be sharply put on a liberal, free-spending Democratic majority in Congress which is carrying the country rapidly into Socialism; the remedies are to cut federal spending, remove or restrict governmental regulation of business and encourage a return to a free enterprise atmosphere for business.

And to accomplish that will require a Republican President and Congress—a feat not possible so long as some conservatives desert the party to support third-party candidates, thereby opening the door to election of liberals who pick up a solid vote while the conservatives vote is splintered.

Republican leaders taking part in the meeting denied that any overall campaign strategy had been decided upon, or that speakers had been asked to zero in on the conservative theme.

It just happened, they say, because all of them realize that this is the direction needed for Republican politics.

Is hammering on Socialism designed to alarm voters and raise emotional issues, or is that a real potential?

"There's a real cause for concern," says U.S. Rep. James G. Martin, former chemistry professor at Davidson College and recently elected to his second term in Congress.

Martin said his own assessment of the voting records in Congress show the Democratic majority voting on the liberal side 75 to 80 percent of the time—"even members of our own North Carolina delegation, and others from the Southeast who even though Democrats would normally be expected to remain conservative."

Nationalize Business

The result, Martin explained following the formal meeting, is a growing number of congressmen who "would like to see our national leaders take over—nationalize—a lot of sectors of our free economy—principally our railroads, and the energy segments."

But the industries in question are in trouble largely because of governmental "over-regulation," and removal of the profit motive from free business activities, resulting in the near-demise of the traditional open market concept in the economy.

Thus, Martin says, this country is moving perilously close to meeting the true definition of Socialism—governmental control over production and distribution of goods and services.

Paradoxically, while the general public has shifted toward stronger conservatism, the voters have sent more liberals to Congress, Martin said.

He blames the focus on Watergate for that phenomena—public rejection of Republicans as a result of the Watergate affair automatically built liberal Democratic strength in elective jobs.

And at the same time, Martin added, efforts to field third-party conservative candidates further deteriorate Republican chances, guaranteeing even more Democratic control.

Martin believes it is up to people in traditionally conservative states to determine the future course of the nation by "halting the present trend in Congress and restoring national stability." It will take a unified Republican effort to accomplish that, he said.

CONGRESS IS TRAVELING THIS MONTH--ON US!

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Moscow Doesn't Relax

Consider, if you will, a few passing events in the news, and slug them copy-desk style: Helsinki, Solzhenitsyn, CIA, Portugal, Zumwalt. These are separate stories. Collectively they cause concern.

This is the concern: As a people, as a nation, we are forgetting what communism is all about. We grow bored with the topic. The risk seems remote that the Soviet Union and the United States ever will engage in nuclear war. Lesser risks arouse less interest. Why be paranoid? Let the Communists look after their interests, and we will look after ours.

Call it apathy. Call it indifference. Call it the New Isolationism. By whatever description, the old watchfulness relaxes; the anti-communist fervor wanes. Eternal vigilance, said one of the founding fathers, is the price of liberty. The founding fathers are also a bore.

There is a flabbiness here, a flabbiness of the spirit. The world summit at Helsinki passed with a few ripples of dissent, but with no waves of opposition. Granted, if the Helsinki conference stood alone—if the signing of that gauzy document were an isolated event—its limited significance would have small meaning. But the Helsinki statement was a yielding by the West; it was one more perceptible retreat; and the event did not stand alone.

On June 27, obedient to an act of 1959, the President issued Proclamation 4381, designating the third week of July as Captive Nations Week. The proclamation was as perfunctory as a motion to waive the reading of the minutes. The President called upon the people to observe the week with appropriate ceremonies, and he urged rededication to the aspirations of all peoples for self-determination and liberty. And he stifled a yawn.

Other Editors Say Lack Of A Buck

(Gastonia Gazette)

The North Carolina General Assembly voted to put prisoners back on the roads but failed to set any money aside to do the job. The idea is to give the minimum security prisoners $1 a day to work at jobs along the highways. Mostly, they would be picking up litter and weeds and doing other odd jobs that sound more like fluff than puff.

Anyhow, the cost would run around $1 million a year, or so the estimate goes. The bill, sponsored by Gaston's Graham Bell, was to be effective July 1. But up until now, the prisoners are still sitting on their thumbs, waiting to get out in some of that good, hot North Carolina sunshine.

There once was a time when prisoners were sent out on the road gangs with chains around their ankles and stripes on their clothes. If one of them made a break for it, he had to chance some stray buckshot from the gun of the friendly neighborhood guard.

But along came humanitarianism and some soft nannies who thought that this kind of treatment was cruel and inhuman punishment. The chains and stripes went, along with the road gangs.

Back then, a family didn't have to lock its doors at night, and it didn't have to put bars over the windows and doors when they went out in the daytime, for fear that some crook would come calling and heist all the family jewels while the family was away.

Maybe it's a good idea to give these prisoners a few dollars as incentive, but let's don't lose sight of the idea that prisoners have done something pretty obnoxious or they wouldn't be in prison.

A little work, however, ought to keep them from fretting over being prisoners.

At about the same time, Alexander Solzhenitsyn came to Washington. He is the greatest living spokesman of the ideal of human freedom. He speaks of communism with a terrible conviction, forged of his own suffering. Prophet and poet, this bearded Elijah stands in the tradition of those who sound the alarm. Laocoon, who warned in vain of the Trojan horse, was put to death by serpents. Solzhenitsyn found the same reptilian reception.

The President of the United States, acting on advice from his resident Machiavelli, would not see Solzhenitsyn. For the President to honor the Russian exile might give offense—offense to the Kremlin. A meeting would symbolize the bad old days of the Cold War. Mr. Ford wanted no such symbols. So he chatted instead with the brothers of Apollo-Soyuz; and

The INSIDE REPORT

The CIA's Bargain Budget

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—The irony of the budget battle between Congress and the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) is that top secret figures show the government spending far less annually for intelligence than the average citizen imagines: under $700 million by the CIA itself and around $4 billion for overall intelligence.

CIA critics in Congress who have seen these budget figures claim they do not include all money spent for intelligence. But even if highly debatable areas are included, the overall cost is little more than $6 billion. In support of a $100 billion defense budget, that represents a rare bargain.

Hence, CIA director William Colby might be doing himself and his agency a favor by releasing rounded-out figures. But Colby, extraordinarily candid for a career intelligence officer, has been privately criticized at the White House for talking too much. He will not be authorized to reveal budget aggregates until President Ford decides upon overall CIA reform.

The CIA was frozen for years at something over $650 million, and recent increases have lagged far behind inflation.

Another $1 billion or so is spent by the National Security Agency (NSA) for communications intelligence. Including support for troops manning radio intercept stations, this represents an effort substantially below previous years because of inflation and skyrocketing army pay scales.

The remaining $1.2 billion includes spy satellites, U-2 spy planes and the Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA). Rep. Otis Pike of New York, chairman of the House Intelligence Committee, refused to discuss secret budget figures but told us "an awful lot of money" is kept out of the official intelligence budget. Such criticism suggests routine air reconnaissance flights and submarine missions that gather intelligence should be financed from the intelligence budget. The CIA maintains that these functions serve mainly as military training and so should come mostly out of the Pentagon budget.

Disagreement over government accounting, however, bears no relation to innuendoes of profligate, clandestine spending of the taxpayer's dollar by the CIA.

Bayh And Wallace

Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, a serious new suitor for presidential support from the Democratic party's dominant left wing, has found himself stuck—after squirming a bit—with a year-old statement accepting Gov. George Wallace as a possible vice presidential candidate.

Fighting for his life in a 1974 reelection campaign in a state with heavy Wallaceite strength, Bayh was interviewed by the Indianapolis News. The transcript of the tape-recorded interview, published in the News last Oct. 15 contained this exchange:

"O: If George Wallace is on the Democratic national ticket in 1976, either for President or Vice President, will you personally support him?"

We read this over the long distance telephone to Bayh in Indianapolis last Wednesday and asked whether this was still his view. "No, it isn't," he replied. When did he change? Never, replied the Senator, because he had not said it in the first place.

"The Indianapolis papers have not been known for accuracy," Bayh charged. Did he protest the quotation when it appeared ten months ago? "I did not. I can't go through life protesting everything."

After Bayh returned to Washington Thursday and conferred with his press secretary, Bill Wise, he decided not to deny the contents of a tape recorded interview. "Sure," said Bayh, "I did say something to that effect." Wallace is not his choice for Vice President, but he could support a ticket with him as running-mate. If he had misled us, said Bayh, it was "inadvertent."

The Ford administration's private forecast of a gloomy future for the automotive industry is particularly pessimistic about the Chrysler Corp.

Describing how the recession hit Chrysler harder than other automakers, the confidential quarterly economic review of the cabinet-level Economic Policy Board (EPB) adds: "Despite drastic cutbacks

Business Guidelines 'Fuzzier'

By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — These are difficult times in which to be doing business. The guidelines seem to have become fuzzed. Some of the old institutions seem unable to adapt to the new requirements.

New regulations are proposed or imposed almost daily, it seems, and while that means jobs for the lawyers it means uncertainty for those who run businesses. And uncertainty stops planning dead in its tracks.

Pension fund administrators are wary of making investments because of the personal legal liabilities written into the Employment Retirement Income Act of 1974. Wariness results in hesitancy rather than aggressiveness.

Nobody seems to have suggested it so far, but there is some chance that disgruntled stockholders in some of the big New York City banks might demand to know why money was lent to the city at less than prime rate.

Isn't the prime supposed to go only to the most credit-worthy customers? Why, therefore, they might ask, was subprime offered to a municipality whose credit standing is suspect?

A related observation is made by the Securities and Exchange Commission, the government watchdog over investment vehicles. It is considering action, never attempted before, against offending municipalities.

A.A. Sommer Jr., an SEC commissioner, told a meeting of the American Bar Association in Montreal last weekend that his group might act against cities that sell securities without disclosing their full financial condition.

Sommer's reference was made in regard to New York City having sold bonds while failing to disclose that it had huge "hidden" deficits, but his remarks clearly were intended to apply to other municipalities too.

The plight of the cities put the big institutions in a dilemma. They have a vested interest in keeping the cities from collapsing, but they have a responsibility to their investors too. And there are no guidelines to help.

In the board room of corporations there are insecurities too. Once these directors' meetings were almost social affairs, but now the individual directors must beware of suits should they not protect the stockholder's interests.

Down on Wall Street there are problems too, one of them being the cosmic transition to a great central marketplace, a change that has been evolving slowly and with considerable resistance.

Identities are being lost there. The government wants more cooperation among the various exchanges, which heretofore have traded their own private lists of stocks. Wouldn't it be better if there were national markets instead?

That's what they're supposed to be moving toward, but there are some problems along the way. The government also wants to break monopolistic pricing and pit brokers against each other in order to lower commissions.

This has resulted in the demise of some firms which simply could not compete. Tradition, which seemed to nourish the inefficient year after year, is being tossed out.

Some of the nation's best known corporations, meanwhile, have involved themselves in a game they apparently don't play very well, which is politics, secretly and deviously shifting investor assets to the coffers of candidates.

Overseas, they have lost their way perhaps more scandalously, some of them paying enormous sums to corrupt politicians and then arguing that this was the way things were done and they couldn't challenge the system.

This contention is now the subject of debate in professional and business journals. Many businessmen claim a bribe should never be resorted to; others maintain that cash payments shouldn't even be called bribes.

Some businessmen claim that they are forced today to perform in a fishbowl and that somebody — the government or consumer groups or special interests — is always swishing the water about.

But it hardly can be ignored that business too seems to be rolling the waters.

A Big Grape Harvest

By ROD ANGOVE

Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California will be overflowing with grape juice again this year but it doesn't mean lower wine prices, industry experts say.

They say the price of grapes will probably drop in the near-record harvest, except maybe for the prime varieties that go into the best dry wines. But they say the cost of grapes accounts for so little of the retail price of wine that a decrease cannot make up for inflationary pressures on other factors.

If there's any price cutting, look for it in the wines from France or Italy, they say.

The state Crop and Livestock Reporting Service forecast Monday that this year's grape crop will be 3.85 million tons, including a record 1.35 million tons of wine varieties. It said the total crop should be one per cent larger than 1974, but one per cent under that of 1973.

The record is 3.97 million tons in 1965.

Earlier forecasts had placed this year's crop at 4.22 million tons, with 1.4 million tons of wine varieties.

Picking is just beginning. The first white wines from the 1975 crop should reach the stores in December and the reds in early 1976.

"Some people are predicting lower wine prices, but all we can say is that a lower price for grapes could offset other price rises," said Harvey Posert of California's Wine Institute.

Jerry Vaughn of the E. & J. Gallo Brothers Winery said he expects small increases in wine prices — "No big jump, but some. The better varieties might rise a little. But the general trend is up."

40 Years Ago Today

August 12, 1935

Greenville and Ayden players evidently thought yesterday was "home run day" as they banged out a total of eight circuit drives at Ayden in the playoff of a game cancelled July 10. Ayden finally won the game 10-7.

Each club accounted for enough homers for three or four ordinary games and fans who like to see plenty of stick work had their dreams fulfilled yesterday. Ayden registered five of the long-range blows and Greenville had three.

The day before, Greenville had defeated Tarboro 7-6 in one of the hardest-fought games this year. Ace Parker again grabbed the limelight with the bat with a home run in the seventh to score Wagner, who had doubled to get on.

Greenville still leads the Coastal Plain League with a 40-16 record. Snow Hill and Kinston are pushing the Greens; however, they are tied for the second spot with 35-22 records.

Strength For Today

TO DESTROY BEAUTY

During Napoleon's invasion of Italy, the museum containing the original of da Vinci's "Last Supper" was used as a military barracks. It was said that the French soldiers amused themselves by throwing stones and refuse as the figures in the painting.

Beauty is a sacred thing, no matter where we find it. And often we find it in unexpected places, and in forms other than visual. Actually, the most beautiful things in the world are to be found in the hearts of people. We cannot betray love or slight friendship or disregard the rights of little children, or tramp our fellow men down in a heartless spirit without doing violence to those beautiful qualities of heart with which God has endowed us.

It horrifies us to think of men marring a beautiful masterpiece hung on a museum wall. How much more should we be horrified when men betray and ruin their own lives or the lives of their fellows.

TVA Spokesman Raps Excessive Coal Profits

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Coal producers are making unconscionable profits at the expense of Tennessee Valley Authority rate-payers, TVA Chairman Aubrey J. Wagner has said.

Wagner told a civic club Monday he believes some American coal companies could charge as little as $8 a ton and still make a decent profit.

TVA now pays an average of more than $18 a ton, he said, as opposed to $4.73 a ton in 1970.

"Not all (coal) producers are gouging, but many of them are," Wagner said.

Critics of higher TVA power rates have focused little attention on coal producers and those companies that own and control the domestic supply and cost of coal and oil, he said.

"Instead, electric power suppliers — TVA and others — have borne the brunt of the complaints," he said.

"The overwhelming factor in increased power rates has been the unconscionable, skyrocketing cost of coal that TVA must have to meet your electric energy needs," he said.

Suffer Effect Of Ant Poison

HOPEWELL, Va. (AP)—A Virginia State Health Department doctor plans to survey the neighborhood of a chemical plant here after several plant workers were hospitalized with toxic ant poison in their blood.

The Life Science Products Co. voluntarily stopped production Monday of "kepone" after elevated levels of the chlorinated hydrocarbon were found in the blood of several workers.

Virginia health officials were informed July 18 by the Center for Disease Control (CDC) in Atlanta, Ga., that a contaminated blood sample was found during a routine screening at the Hopewell plant.

"Not much is known about the irreversible effects of this poison on humans," said Dr. Philip J. Landrigan of the CDC.

The entire world supply of the poison, used to control fire ants, is produced at the plant. Officials said 20 per cent is distributed in this country and the rest is shipped to Europe.

Several of the plant's 22 employees were reported ill in late July with symptoms that included uncontrollable shaking in the limbs and twitching of the eyes.

Dr. Robert S. Jackson, state epidemiologist, said a followup by the state Health Department found that all plant employees who had worked with the chemical had elevated levels of the poison in their blood.

Since then, about a half-dozen Life Science workers have been hospitalized and one worker at the Hopewell sewage treatment plant 1.5 miles away was treated at a hospital. Fred Hughes Jr., director of public works here, said the firm is now releasing four to five times the allowed levels of kepone and its constituent chemicals into the Hopewell sewage system.

Joel Whitley, one of the city sewage plant workers, was overcome May 29 after breathing fumes from Life Science's effluent, Hughes said. Whitley was treated at a local hospital and released.

Three of the hospitalized employees reportedly have talked with lawyers about possible legal action against the firm. They are Nickey F. Shown, 24, and Dale F. Gilbert, 34, both of Hopewell, and Delbert R. White, 29, of Cedar Bluffs.

Scott Is Out

GREENSBORO (AP)—Former Gov. Bob Scott has taken himself out of consideration as a candidate for office in North Carolina in 1976.

"I won't be a candidate for anything next year. I can't take my family through another campaign at this time and I decided I needed to make some money instead of spending it," he said.

Scott will resign from his position as vice president of the North Carolina Agribusiness Council to devote full time to several business ventures. One, he said, is a political consulting firm that includes former Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor of Wadesboro. He will also develop land he owns along Interstate 85 in Alamance County.

Scott had been mentioned as a possible candidate for offices ranging from lieutenant governor to state treasurer.

Treasure, Trash Sale Saturday

A treasure and trash sale will be held Saturday at the Elm Street Recreation Center beginning at 10 a.m.

The sale is being sponsored by "The Group", the Easter Seal Society and the Greenville Recreation Department.

"The Group" is composed of 14 physically and mentally handicapped adults from the Greenville area.

Proceeds from the sale of trash, treasures, crafts, and baked goods, will enable the members to take a weekend trip to King's Dominion in September.

Will Debate Decriminalization

By JOSEPH R. TYBOR
Associated Press Writer

MONTREAL (AP) — American lawyers, having heard from Supreme Court justices and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, can now get down to business on a proposal that would make hookers happy: re-writing the statute books so that prostitution is no longer a crime.

A resolution calling for decriminalization of prostitution in the 49 states that have such laws will be considered by the American Bar Association's governing House of Delegates on Wednesday.

Passage of such a resolution would put the prestige and lobbying resources of the ABA behind attempts to change prostitution laws.

Last year, the same governing body spurned the pleas of Margot St. James, a hooker from San Francisco and star attraction at the ABA's annual meeting even though it was held at the height of Watergate.

This year, supporters say chances for passage are better.

The ABA's Criminal Justice Section dropped its opposition during a meeting after the Section on Individual Rights, author of the proposal, accepted compromise wording.

Instead of asking for the "repeal of all laws prohibiting commercial sexual conduct," the proposal as amended asks for the "repeal of all laws which subject to criminal sanction commercial sexual conduct in private."

Ohio Appellate Judge Jack G. Day of Cleveland, last year's chairman of the section opposing the proposal, said it now reads to mean "you can still have some control with licensing, solicitation and offensive overt acts by prostitutes." Day said his objection last year centered on solicitation.

"In other words, if the prostitutes take it off the streets and out of public view, there would be no law making it a criminal offense," he said.

The report favoring the proposal lashes out at a "double standard of sexual morality" and entrapment by vice squad detectives.

"The woman who sells her body is punished criminally and stigmatized socially while her male customer, either by the explicit design of the statute or through a pattern of discriminatory enforcement, is left unscathed," it reads.

Prostitution is now a crime in every state except Nevada, where local counties may opt for legalization.

In five states — Indiana, Louisiana, North Dakota, Wisconsin and Wyoming — prostitution statutes explicitly apply only to females. According to traditional case law, the report says, a prostitute is by definition a female.

Supporters of the resolution say the move could help unplug crowded court dockets by serving as a trendsetter in speeding decriminalization of other victimless crimes. It also would free law enforcement agencies to concentrate on violent street crime instead of victimless crime, which backers of the move say now constitutes 40 per cent of all arrests.

Unplugged, Still Alive

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — When Chuck McCracken removed himself from a life-sustaining kidney dialysis machine, he figured death would come within two weeks.

But three weeks later, he is still alive, and a family member reports McCracken's "spirits are high and he is praising the Lord."

His legs are paralyzed, his eyesight gone and his condition is compounded by diabetes. Yet he was reported well enough Monday to sit on a couch chatting with friends and send messages on his ham radio.

"The doctor is amazed that he has made it as long as he has," said friend Jim Conley. "They didn't expect him to go this long."

McCracken, 36, decided to unplug himself from the kidney dialysis machine July 22 after doctors said he had no more than a 30 per cent chance of living a year — even if he stayed on the dialysis machine.

"Being kept alive by doctors is not quite humane," he said at the time, adding he preferred to put his life "in the hands of Jesus."

a few days after the joined capsules whirled about the globe, Mr. Ford trotted amiably off to Helsinki, there to attest, with appropriate ceremonies, the captivity of the captive nations.

Meanwhile, on Capitol Hill and in the great organs of the press, the methodical campaign continued for the destruction of the Central Intelligence Agency. One thinks of blind Oedipus, rendered sightless for his sins. The CIA has functioned as our eyes. We gouge them out. For a quarter of a century, under successive presidents, the CIA engaged in those unsavory assignments that amounted to the fighting of fire with fire. In the shadowy, dangerous fields of intelligence, espionage and subversion, it battled the Soviets' KGB on equal terms. Now the anti-communists, suffering fits of morality, have left the CIA discredited and disarmed.

Do we care about these things? We drowse. Communism never sleeps. Vietnam is gone, and Laos, and Cambodia. Portugal teeters. Mozambique falls. The November winds will bring word of Angola's bloody conquest. Communism gains in Italy and Spain. Out of retirement, Admiral Elmo Zumwalt voices a grave warning of Soviet naval strength. His warning is a one-day story.

Look. Let us give the Communists credit for candor. Over and over, for the past 30 years, without worrying about giving offense, they have made their intentions clear: They mean to dominate the world. They mean to exterminate the values of Western freedom.

"We mean," said the jovial Khrushchev, "to bury you." And he laughed.

But let us observe, with Hamlet, that one can smile, and smile, and be a villain. If the alternative to holocaust is coexistence, of course we must coexist. If ultimately this is not to be the coexistence of slave and master, we must understand, in the very heart and soul of our national being, that communism is the enemy of freedom. We are not understanding this now.

NCAA Seeks Economic Solutions

CHICAGO (AP) — Faced with a controversial proposal to redistribute television revenues, officials of the National Collegiate Athletic Association have begun considering ways to reduce the cost of college athletics.

The council met Monday without ruling on a proposal by Dr. Stephen Horn, president of Long Beach State College, that major football powers share their television wealth with the less affluent.

Horn said at a press conference Monday in Los Angeles that, "Only 10 per cent of the major colleges are making money from their football programs, and the rest of the schools are not breaking even."

"If the big 30 schools want to have professional football teams," Horn said, "then let's quit the Mickey Mouse and fund these pro teams and let them be farm teams to the NFL."

Horn's resolution asks that 50 per cent of TV revenues go to Division I schools, the major independents and conference members. Division II schools would get 25 per cent and Division III schools, the smallest in the NCAA, would get 25 per cent. There are 238 schools in Division I, 185 in Division II and 280 in Division III.

The council is weeding through 73 resolutions, all dealing with the financial status of athletic programs, to be considered by the NCAA's Special Convention meeting Thursday and Friday in Chicago.

The first resolution, proposed by the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, calls for an outright ban on athletic scholarships, though NCAA President John A. Fuzak of Michigan State said Monday night that "the likelihood of its passing is very slim." He refrained from comment on Horn's resolution, No. 65 on the agenda.

Fuzak said the council must decide if the television resolution is in order. "We haven't formally considered it yet, though we've been talking about it quite a bit."

"Even if the Council decides it is not in order," he said, "I'm sure it will be appealed at the Special Convention. If not, we will simply have to face it at another time."

The larger members of Division I have indicated they might drop out of the NCAA if the resolution is approved.

Other primary considerations, Fuzak said, involve restricting coaching staffs, grants-in-aid in all sports, limitations on recruiting and various other economic measures.

A Houston businessman, Joseph Conte, talked Monday with NCAA staff members, offering to set up a $1.2 million trust fund to establish a national championship game for college football.

His plan, not yet formally presented to the NCAA, calls for a game matching bowl winners that appear closest to first and second in wire service rankings. The game would not eliminate bowl games, but rotate from one bowl site to another.

Conte reportedly is offering participants $500,000 each and the NCAA $200,000.

Fuzak commented that such a game "doesn't quite fit in with our bowl games," but said he had not heard Conte's proposal in full. He said there is a lot of opposition to such championship games and that most schools would find it disruptive.

Alert Bench Keeps On Going; Sparks Rally

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

The Cincinnati Reds prefer to bludgeon the opposition with base hits but a little fancy footwork now and again doesn't hurt.

The fancy feet belonged to slugging catcher Johnny Bench Monday night. Bench made it all the way from home to third base on an infield grounder in the fifth inning and the Chicago Cubs never recovered, eventually falling to the Reds 9-3.

"If a pitcher's not watching me, I'll get a jump and go," warned Bench.

No one was watching him in the fifth, least of all the Cubs. The Reds, trailing 3-1, picked up a run when Pete Rose doubled, Ken Griffey singled and Joe Morgan hit into a force play to score Rose. Bench then grounded to Bill Madlock at third but was safe when first baseman Andy Thornton came off the bag too soon.

Morgan tried to go all the way to third on the play but was thrown out and Madlock, thinking the side was retired, rolled the ball to the mound. The Cubs trotted toward the dugout but Bench headed for third.

"It was just one of those freak things," said Bench. "I heard the umpire holler safe and then everybody looked to third."

Bench even crossed up umpire Chris Pelekoudas. "He was cleaning off the bag at third," said Bench.

"I thought he was out at first," admitted third base coach Alex Grammas. "Then I heard all the yelling and I thought a fight broke out."

Tony Perez got Bench home with a game-tying double and the Reds broke it open with two runs in the sixth and four more in the eighth.

Elsewhere in the National League, Los Angeles whipped Philadelphia 7-1, Pittsburgh clubbed Atlanta 8-1, San Francisco bombed Montreal 9-2, Houston dumped St. Louis 7-2 and New York beat San Diego 8-4.

Dodgers 7, Phillies 1

Andy Messersmith stopped Philadelphia on four hits and drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly and a bases-loaded walk as Los Angeles won its fourth straight game. Willie Crawford hit a two-run homer and Dave Lopes contributed a two-run double for the winners.

Pirates 8, Braves 1

Pittsburgh broke open a close ballgame with six runs in the ninth inning, two on Manny Sanguillen's double. Left-hander John Candelaria limited Atlanta to four hits in six innings and Kent Tekulve finished up, allowing only a home run by Darrell Evans in the eighth.

Giants 9, Expos 2

Ed Halicki, 6-9, struck out 12 batters and hit a two-run single before leaving in favor of Randy Moffitt in the eighth.

Perry Hands Tigers No. 16

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

In the hot and uncomfortable dog days of August, Joe Schultz has the easiest job in baseball.

Schultz is the third base coach of the Detroit Tigers, who haven't needed a third base coach in their last three games. The Tigers bowed to the Texas Rangers and Gaylord Perry 7-0 Monday night, becoming the first Detroit club to suffer three consecutive shutouts — one short of the major league record — and extending their team record to 16 losses in a row.

The Tigers haven't scored in 29 innings. They managed only five hits off Perry and only Aurelio Rodriguez, who doubled in the eighth inning, made it as far as second base. He was promptly cut down trying to take third when a pitch rolled a few feet away from catcher Jim Sundberg.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Oakland A's edged the Boston Red Sox 4-3, the Baltimore Orioles blanked the Kansas City Royals 4-0 on Mike Cuellar's two-hitter, the speedy California Angels stole a club record six bases in routing the New York Yankees 8-1 and the Minnesota Twins outslugged the Milwaukee Brewers 8-7.

Detroit Manager Ralph Houk stocked his line-up with left-handed batters against Perry but right-handers Rodriguez and Willie Horton collected four of the Tigers' five hits.

Toby Harrah's two-run homer in the second inning was all the support Perry needed.

A's 4, Red Sox 3

Vida Blue blanked Boston for seven innings — five hits, nine strikeouts — and then needed help from three relievers following a long-bat attack in the eighth. The Red Sox struck suddenly on a home run by Fred Lynn, Jim Rice's single and Carlton Fisk's homer.

Paul Lindblad and Jim Todd each retired a batter with the potential tying run on third base in the ninth inning as the A's boosted their lead to 6½ games over Kansas City in the AL West. The Red Sox had their East Division lead over Baltimore sliced to six games.

Orioles 4, Royals 0

Bobby Grich ripped a two-out, two-run double off Steve Busby in the seventh inning to break up a scoreless duel. Grich scored on Ken Singleton's single and Don Baylor homered in the eighth. Meanwhile, Cuellar held the Royals to John Mayberry's fourth-inning double and a single by George Brett in the fifth and retired the final 14 Kansas City batters.

Angels 8, Yankees 1

California stole four bases in a three-run fourth inning and Mickey Rivers had four hits and stole three bases, running his season total to 60.

Frank Tanana, pitching for the first time since suffering a broken finger on his right — nonpitching — hand July 28, allowed five hits in seven innings and fanned six to take the major league lead at 171, two more than teammate Nolan Ryan.

Twins 8, Brewers 7

Minnesota wiped out a four-run deficit on Eric Soderholm's three-run homer in the third inning and Steve Braun's two-run shot in the fifth. Don Money, George Scott and Hank Aaron homered for Milwaukee.

Shula: Miami Can Win It

MIAMI (AP) — For his first five seasons with the Miami Dolphins, Coach Don Shula figured he had ingredients for the National Football League's championship with Larry Csonka, Paul Warfield and Jim Kiick.

Shula is just as optimistic this summer that he can make the Super Bowl without the three, now playing in the World Football League.

He should find out how right he is in the Sept. 22 opener with Oakland. The Raiders stopped Miami's bid for a fourth straight Super Bowl trip by taking last season's first playoff game 28-26.

"The big hole we have to fill is Csonka," said Shula of the fullback who regularly gained 100 yards per game. "We have to take on a new offensive identity. Our whole training camp objective is to establish this."

He believes Don Nottingham, who scored eight touchdowns and averaged 4.1 yards a carry last season, can do an adequate job at fullback.

Injuries to the line last year are cited for many of the problems the Dolphins had moving the ball. Tackles Wayne Moore and Doug Crusan sat out most of the year with injuries, but have returned at full strength to join Norm Evans. Shula calls center Jim Langer and guards Bob Kuechenberg and Larry Little the best inside trio in the NFL.

The outside running game will be handled by Mercury Morris and Benny Malone. Morris, who gained nearly 2,000 yards in Miami's 1973 title seasons, has recovered from a left knee injury which sidelined him most of last season.

Malone, currently playing ahead of Morris, gained 468 yards and averaged 4.1 yards a carry as a rookie last year.

Shula admits Miami may have to pass more and is reading quarterback Bob Griese, tight end Jim Mandich and wide receivers Nat Moore, Melvin Baker, Howard Twilley, and rookie Freddie Solomon for the challenge.

Griese, one of the best in the NFL at reading defenses and changing plays at the last second, completed 60 per cent of his passes last year for 1,968 yards and 16 touchdowns.

As a rookie, Moore replaced off-injured Warfield as the No. 1 receiver with 37 receptions for 605 yards. Linebacker Nick Buoniconti calls Moore "super star class."

The defensive unit, which ranked at the top of NFL statistics in 1972-73, returns intact. The defense gave up only 150 points in 1973 but yielded 216 last year, a fact many players blame on trouble adjusting to defensive coordinator Vince Costello, who is now with Kansas City.

Jake Scott, recovering from knee surgery, is the only veteran being held out of practice, but Shula said Scott should be ready to team with Dick Anderson at safety against Oakland.

Other defenders are linemen Vern Den Herder, Bill Stanfill, Manny Fernandez and Bob Heinz, linebackers Buoniconti, Doug Swift, Mike Kolen and Bob Matheson and cornerbacks Curtis Johnson and Tim Foley.

Garopremian remains one of the NFL's best placekickers.

NFL Clubs Are Cutting Players

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Dozens of able-bodied young men will join the ranks of the unemployed today.

It's cut-down day in the National Football League, the first major roster trimming of the preseason. All clubs must be down to 60 players, not counting those who played in the College All-Star Game, by 4 p.m. today.

Some teams, like Buffalo, are already at the limit and don't have to do any cutting. Some must only drop a handful of players, while others must jettison a dozen or more.

Some of the cuts are obvious. Virtually every camp has a couple of players who are just there for the thrill of the tryout, knowing full well they have little more than a prayer of making the team.

But most of the cuts are painful ones, as any coach can say. It's not easy to tell a veteran who's heard the Sunday cheers for so many years that his legs just can't carry him fast enough anymore. Or to say to a rookie who has dreamed of jam-packed stadia and Super Bowl glory that he just doesn't have what it takes to cut it in the pros.

Monday nights are sleepless ones in the pro football training camps. For every Joe Namath or O.J. Simpson, secure in his stardom, there are many like Doug Cunningham and Tim Paulus, aching to hang on.

One week from today the roster limit goes to 55, then to 49 by Sept. 2 and 46 by Sept. 9. The final cut is to 43 by Sept. 15.

Today's cuts are based on three weeks of training camp and, in most cases, just one exhibition game. It's not much on which to make decisions that will end men's careers, and the fringe prospects know they've got to take advantage of even the slightest opportunity.

One who did just that was Bob Hammond of the New York Giants. An unknown rookie from Morgan State, Hammond was near the bottom of a list of 10 running backs fighting for six roster spots. But in Sunday's exhibition game against New England, he ran back a kickoff 44 yards; he caught a pass for 25 yards; he gained 31 yards on six carries, and he scored the go-ahead touchdown in a 28-14 victory.

That showing probably moved Hammond a couple of notches up the totem pole, and kept him off this week's casualty lists.

Others, like Cunningham and Paulus, were not as fortunate. They were among the players who got the ax on Monday as a number of teams did their cutting a day early.

Cunningham, a nine-year veteran running back who was once a starter for the San Francisco 49ers, and Paulus, a rookie wide receiver trying out for the second time, were among 11 players dropped by the Washington Redskins.

Veteran quarterback Dean Carlson was one of 13 players dropped by the Los Angeles Rams.

Most of the other players cut around the league were rookies, free agents and low-round draft choices who came into training camp without high-priced contracts or big reputations, but with high hopes and big dreams. More will have their hopes dashed and their dreams shattered today.

Washington Coach George Allen's words about Paulus could be applied to the vast majority of the casualties:

"There was just too much competition for him here."

Death Report Was False One

NORTH CONWAY, N.H. (AP) — Jimmy Connors, who broke down and cried at an awards ceremony Sunday because he had been told of the death of his friend, longtime tennis umpire Gus Lanna, learned Monday that it was all a mistake.

Lanna is alive and well, his wife Eleanor reports.

Mrs. Lanna said Monday that her husband was in Baltimore attending an arbitration hearing for his firm, Lanna Associates, a private arbitration and management consulting company. She said her husband read the story of his death in a newspaper and phoned to tell her he was disappointed: "I'm only on page three," he said.

"The first we heard about it was a friend called the house," said Mrs. Lanna. "She had read it in this morning's Miami paper."

"But I knew it wasn't true because I had talked to my husband last night. Still I was a little distressed when I heard about the story because if people read that he's dead, they might not call for his arbitration service."

Connors was told on Sunday that Lanna had died, and he broke down and cried at the presentation ceremony following his victory in a $100,000 international tennis tournament.

here. Connors' emotional reaction over the announcement of Lanna's death was reported by The Associated Press.

Bill Bigelow, a member of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association's umpires committee, said the error apparently arose because of the death two weeks ago of another longtime tennis official, Gus Campsie, who had worked the U.S. Open at Forest Hills, N.Y.

Three of Boston University's four home football games this fall are under lights.

Eight rivals on Columbia's football schedule beat the Lions in 1974.

After starring in the All-Star game, southpaw Jon Matlack of the New York Mets lost his next start to Atlanta, the result of two infield errors.

St. Gabriel And Black Jack Win

Black Jack and St. Gabriel moved into the Church Softball League's finals last night, downing opposition to remain unbeaten in the double elimination field.

Tonight, the two teams will meet in a best-of-three series to determine the overall champion. The first game gets underway at 7:30 p.m. at Evans Park's field one.

St. Gabriel made the finals by downing regular season champ First Christian, 14-7, in the American Division finals. St. Gabriel went through the field without a loss.

Christian scored first, getting a run in the first, but St. Gabriel came back with five runs in the second inning. They added three in the third for an 8-1 lead.

St. Gabriel picked up three more in the fourth with Daniels slapping a homer. One crossed in the fifth and two more came in the sixth with Daniel homering again.

Christian added one in the fourth, two in the fifth and three in the sixth.

In the National Division, regular season champ Grace was dumped by University-Mt. Pleasant, in a game that was restarted after being halted following a protest last week. 10-3. U-MP picked up a run in each of the first two innings, but two by Grace in the third tied it up. U-MP, came up with eight runs in the third, however, to put the game out of reach. Harris slapped a homer in the inning. Grace picked up one more in the sixth.

Black Jack, which had moved into the finals in the winners' bracket, then beat U-MP, 8-4, for the title of the National Division.

U-MP pushed over three runs in the first inning, while Black Jack came up with two in the third. The tying run came over in the fourth. U-MP pushed over another in the fifth to lead 4-3.

But Black Jack came up with three in the bottom of the inning to take the lead. J. T. Mills slapped a two-run homer to aid the rally. Black Jack then added two more in the seventh to wrap it up.

Ford May Field Teen Questions

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — If no snags develop, President Ford may be among top government leaders fielding questions this fall in a new public affairs series in which high school kids, not journalists, do the asking.

The 30-minute show is called "Face the Students." It's being co-produced and distributed by the Agency for Instructional Television, a non-profit organization based in Bloomington, Ind.

Beverly Kintgen, an AIT spokeswoman, says the series will be offered on a rental basis to public TV stations, as well as to schools and school systems willing to rent or buy copies of the programs.

She said from 25 to 30 high school students, drawn from schools in the city in which each show is filmed, will be the questioners on each show. The filming would be done in a studio.

She says between 15 and 30 programs will be filmed — the number depends on how much financial support AIT can drum up — and plans call for the first show to be filmed in early September and probably in Washington, D.C.

She said no guest has been picked for the opening show, but that Ford, Vice-President Rockefeller and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger all say they're willing to face the teen-aged questioners.

So are such other notables as Chief Justice Warren Burger, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and Alabama Gov. George Wallace, she added.

"All of them have responded positively, but of course, we'd have to work it around their schedules," she said. The filming would be done by the series' co-producer, JRH and Associates of Sacramento, Calif.

Miss Kintgen said there is a possibility that top American business leaders also will be invited as guests on the series.

More kid stuff: "Big Blue Marble," a critically cheered children's TV show paid for by International Telephone and Telegraph Co. and offered free to stations, will start its second season in September.

The series, which like last season's effort will consist of 26 programs, currently is seen on 130 stations in 12 markets in the U.S., according to its producer, Henry Fownes.

Most of the stations are commercial, he adds, and because each show runs 25½ minutes, the stations can insert advertising or public service announcements at the opening and close of each program.

Fownes, who estimates the cost of last year's "Blue Marble" at $2.5 million, including its "Pen Pal" letter exchange service, says he's visited 73 countries to film segments for the series.

The aim of the show, he says, is to "find kids or even adults who are involved in activities interesting to kids in other countries. It goes from hanging in California to kids running a railroad in Hungary ... there's no set format as long as it's interesting."

It soon will be seen in foreign markets for the first time — though stations will have to pay for it — if negotiations with Fownes' production company work out, an ITT spokesman says.

Arrest Two For Killings

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Two Fayetteville-area men were arrested today and charged in the slaying a week ago of the manager and a woman customer in a 7-11 convenience store on the outskirts of Fayetteville.

The men were booked as 26-year-old Bobby Earl Dowden and 22-year-old Gregory A. Cousin. Police report they have been charged with two counts of murder and two counts of armed robbery.

They were denied bond on the murder charges. Bail of $100,000 was apiece set on the armed robbery charges.

They were arrested at Cousin's home south of Fayetteville at 2 a.m.

Police report a .22-caliber Saturday Night Special pistol thought to be the murder weapon was seized.

Cousin and Dowden are described as prison paroled.

Sheriff O.F. Jones said he would give details of the arrest at a news conference today. A reward of $11,000 had been offered for information leading to conviction. Ten thousand dollars was offered by the 7-11 chain, which is headquartered in Dallas, Tex., and $1,000 by the Quick Stop and Little Giant convenience stores of the Fayetteville area.

Cousin and Dowden are accused of robbing the clerk, 19-year-old Larry Lovette of his wallet containing $50 dollars, and of taking $126 from the cash registers, before fatally shooting him and Mrs. Norma Ehrhart.

SAN FRANCISCO PLAYS IN CONCORD
CONCORD, Calif. (AP) — The San Francisco Symphony will play five concerts at the new Concord Pavilion, starting Aug. 15 with an all-Beethoven program.

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — Religious and antipornography leaders say they are aghast, shocked and appalled at First Lady Betty Ford's comment that she "wouldn't be surprised" if her 18-year-old daughter, Susan, had an affair.

Elsewhere, Mrs. Ford gained some support. Marion Malonson, president of the Washington state chapter of Church Women United, said, "I'm happy to at least see her mention such things and talk about them. They too often get ignored and hushed up."

Sheila Weidenfeld, Mrs. Ford's press secretary, said

Monday that a tally of telegrams received at the White House so far ran 15 pro and 13 against, but that telephone calls were against Mrs. Ford's views by a 2 to 1 margin.

President Ford, who planned a round of golf today as the first family continued its vacation at Vail, Colo., remained above the controversy. A White House spokesman has quoted Ford as saying in reaction to Mrs. Ford's statements that he has never tried to keep his wife from speaking her mind.

Mrs. Ford also said Sunday on the CBS program "60 Minutes" that she thought premarital sex might, in some cases, lower the divorce rate and that the Supreme Court's legalization of abortion was "a great, great decision."

Among some of the comments relayed by Mrs. Weidenfeld were:

"Object to your stand on abortion, cancel my vote in '76." "How can you approve of abortion and promiscuity in one breath and speak of faith in God in the next?" "For the love of Jerry — be discreet."

On the other side were such sentiments as:

"At last a first real lady." "Congratulations on the first open press conference in our history. You have set an example for all future first ladies. We love you, Betty." "You make me extremely proud to be a woman and an American. Because of you, I will support your husband."

Scattered comment from religious leaders was mostly adverse.

Dr. W. A. Criswell, pastor of the 20,000-member First Baptist Church of Dallas, the world's largest Baptist congregation, said, "I was aghast.... I cannot think that the First Lady of this land would descend to such a gutter type of mentality.... For her to offer her own daughter in this kind of illicit sexual relationship with a man is unthinkable.... Her own daughter!"

A spokesman for the Most Rev. Edwin Broderick, bishop of the Albany, N.Y., diocese, said the Roman Catholic prelate was "really shocked."

Mary Whitehouse, a British campaigner against pornography, said she was appalled at Mrs. Ford's views.

Susan, herself, approves of them wholeheartedly. But she said Monday she has no affairs to tell her mother about yet.

Except for Liberty's, the Ford's golden retriever, who she says may be pregnant. "Maybe she'll have babies and they can have some other babies to worry about besides me," Susan said.

The Fords Danced To Nostalgia Music

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — President and Mrs. Ford made an unexpected appearance at a nightclub to dance cheek to cheek on a crowded dance floor to the nostalgic music of the Inkspots.

They stayed for more than an hour Monday night, dancing to 11 numbers and shaking hands with the other dancers.

The Fords and several dinner guests decided on the spur of the moment to take in the Inkspots at a popular Vail night-spot run by former Austrian ski champion Pepi Gramshammer and his wife.

The Fords slipped into the darkened nightclub with their Secret Service detail and went unrecognized until they began dancing to such numbers as "You Always Hurt the One You Love," "I Don't Want to Set the World on Fire," "Blueberry Hill" and "Sentimental Journey."

John Dix, one of the Inkspots, told the crowd it was "the greatest moment of my life when I heard this distinguished gentlemen and his wife were here."

Ford laughingly told the audience, "I am a has-been" as he enjoyed the music of yesterday. He and Mrs. Ford switched partners to dance with the Gramshammers, whom they have known for several years.

Mother Wins Car In 84-Hour 'Touch'

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — A 30-year-old mother of five has won a new car by touching it for 84 hours, 15 minutes and 18 seconds. The unusual contest began Saturday and ended Monday night.

"What I really want is a bath," said Mrs. Laverne Adams of Washington, N.C., after her only remaining opponent removed his hand from the car to straighten hat and was disqualified.

The runnerup, Clarence Bullock, a 45-year-old Washington garage owner, took off his hat to comb his hair with his free hand, and then took his other hand off the 1975 Dodge Colt to straighten the hat.

The contest, sponsored by radio station WSFL, began at 8 a.m. Saturday with 31 contestants. By 7 p.m. Sunday, the field has dwindled to nine, and by 7 p.m. Monday, 83 hours later, only Mrs. Adams and Bullock were left. The contest ended at 8:18 p.m. Monday.

Mrs. Adams said she planned to give the car to her parents whose old car was worn out. She said she never thought she wouldn't win because she had prayed for it, and was doing it for a worthy cause.

Rules of the contest allowed the entrants a 10-minute every two hours; otherwise, they were required to keep the flat of one hand on the car continuously. They were required to stand and were not allowed to sit or lean against the car or change hands.

A nurse was on duty around the clock, checking blood pressure and administering salt tablets. The contest was held at a downtown department store.

Nearly Lost TV Shows

CHARLOTTE (AP) — They are to start shooting in Charlotte next Monday on three episodes of the NBC television series "Movin' On," which tells of the adventures of two truckers moving around the country. But the city almost lost the show in a dispute over the first script.

The script called for a Charlotte scrap metals yard to serve as a fence for stolen goods. Some scrap metals dealers objected, and no suitable yard in the city was found.

The producer said that if one could not be located, the other two episodes scheduled for Charlotte also would have to be filmed elsewhere.

However, a location scout reported that a suitable yard had been found in Rock Hill, S.C., 25 miles south of Charlotte. Some scenes of the first episode will be shot there, with the other two episodes also will be filmed in Charlotte.

The first episode will be called "The Elephant Story," will have guest star Keenan Wynn, regulars Claude Akins and Frank Converse, and extras from the Charlotte area.

Opening lead: Ace of ♠.

In theory, every simple finesse is strictly an even money proposition, but in practice, that is not so. The bidding and play often indicate that a finesse is sure to succeed or that it has no chance at all. The successful declarer is one who can read the clues and put the results to work in his favor.

North's choice of a takeout double at his first turn meets with our approval. The danger of a two club overcall is that the heart suit might get lost. In view of the vulnerability, South was reluctant to settle for a small penalty, and instead elected to try for the rubber.

West led the ace of spades and continued with a low spade to his partner's king. (In view of later developments, he might have been wiser to continue with the queen.) Declarer ruffed, and it would appear that the contract hinged on a successful finesse in either red suit. However, the signs were there that both red-suit finesses were doomed to failure. West had opened the bidding and despite East's preemptive raise, had competed to the four-level. East had already shown up with the spade king. Therefore, declarer opted to strive for an endplay. For that to succeed, West would have to hold no more than two clubs.

Declarer cashed the ace of hearts on the offchance that the king was bare, then followed with two rounds of clubs. When both defenders followed, the groundwork had been successfully completed. Now declarer simply exited with a trump and a prayer. When West won the king and East followed, declarer was home.

West was faced with a choice of unpleasant alternatives. A diamond would be into declarer's major tenace, so allowing him to avoid losing a trick in that suit. But a spade return would be no better, for declarer would ruff in his hand while discarding a diamond from dummy. It would be a simple matter to cash the ace of diamonds, and either ruff two diamonds in dummy or discard one on the long club. The only tricks declarer could lose were a spade and a trump.

Bond Sales Remain High

Sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds in Pitt County during the second quarter of 1975 totaled $198,454, according to R.W. Howard, county volunteer chairman.

Howard said that sales for the January through June period amounted to $456,703 and represented some 55.1 per cent of the overall 1975 goal of $828,240 for Pitt County.

E and H Savings Bonds sales in the state during the second quarter were $24,519,198, the chairman reported, the highest second-quarter sales recorded since 1945.

Nationally, total cash sales of bonds for the second quarter of 1975 declined slightly from the same period last year, to $1.69 billion for E Bonds and $69 million for H, but were still second highest for the quarter since 1952, Howard said.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 13, 1975

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is certainly no day to state critical ideas to those who have any control over your affairs. A tactful and diplomatic attitude is important now. Organize thoughts before discussion and thus eliminate problems.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Forget fun and go after aims important for future security. Don't let any more grass grow under your feet. Happy p.m. with kin.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Those business talks should not include family affairs, or you could lose out where it means the most to you. Increase goodwill.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take better care of health. Schedule activities sensibly. Don't permit nitwits to waste your valuable time.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Put your finest talents to work with a vengeance early. Evening is ideal for being with the one you love. Use charm.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Show more concern for kin or there could be big trouble at home. Whatever annoys you of a personal nature should be gotten rid of.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Forget personal worries. Get out in the business world and make a better place for yourself so you increase income.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Consult a monetary expert so you can build up your own assets wisely. Don't permit friends to waste your time now. Romantic p.m.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Wind up personal affairs, relegating business to background today. Avoid trouble by steering clear of higher-up in bad mood.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Before beginning fine new ideas, clear up present situation logically, starting early. Put a productive new idea to work in p.m.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Go to some dynamic friend who can help you solve some problem easily. Avoid those persons who are eyeing your assets.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Show great efficiency in vocational matters and derive better benefits therefrom. Steer clear of partner who overrates self.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Delve into unknown matters and learn much for future that will be profitable. Attend to necessary duties early. Sociable p.m.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will want to decide upon some course of action and then carry through with it in a most positive fashion, therefore teach ethics so the energies will be expended in the right directions, otherwise the mentality might work in just the opposite way. Much success is possible here and a pillar of the community is in this chart. Give sports early, too. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Urge Stepping Up Of Tax Prosecutions

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is pushing U.S. attorneys to handle more tax prosecutions in an effort to reduce an 800-case backlog and free top officials to tackle corporations and bigtime tax cheats.

As part of the drive, the department's tax division has trained about 130 U.S. attorneys and their assistants in the intricacies of tax prosecutions at three seminars this year and expects to continue the program next year.

"It was really an attempt to shift the trial burden out of Washington to the local offices," said Cono R. Namorato, chief of the division's criminal section.

About 40 per cent of some 1,500 criminal tax cases brought by the government each year are prosecuted in federal courts in Washington and handled by Namorato's staff of about 50 lawyers.

"The thought was that we might be able to reduce that percentage and have more of them handled locally," Namorato said in an interview. "We're very overworked. We've got a tremendous backlog of cases and we also have an unbelievable number of requests for trial assistance around the country."

Namorato said the backlog now stands at about 800 cases, up at least 35 per cent from the figure a year ago. Most of the pending cases have been received from the Internal Revenue Service during the past year, he added.

The tax division handles all criminal prosecutions for tax evasion, false tax returns and other tax charges. The division receives cases investigated by the IRS and referred to the department for evaluation and prosecution.

Namorato said he hopes to cut the backlog so that each case could be processed in three months.

In addition, he said, spreading the work load to local prosecutors' offices would free top officials to pursue major alleged violators.

Namorato said he also hopes to step up prosecutions against individuals who have perpetrated major tax frauds, particularly through the use of overseas bank accounts. But he said the size of the fraud alone does not determine whether the department pursues a criminal charge.

He said, "Our goal here is to force the voluntary compliance with the tax laws. In order to do that, we have to strike out at all levels of taxpayers."

Carter Raises $5,000 In N.C.

ATLANTA (AP) — Former Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia has raised $5,000 in North Carolina in his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Under federal law, candidates for the Democratic and Republican nominations must raise at least $5,000 in 20 states to qualify for matching federal money.

Carter's staff said the candidate had raised the necessary $5,000 in each of 16 states, including North Carolina.

Planned Sell Explosives

CHICAGO (AP) — Police have arrested three men and confiscated a crate of plastic explosives that officers said was about to be sold piece by piece to teenagers in a North Side residential neighborhood.

Sgt. Hugh Carroll said the crate, found Monday night in the trunk of a car, contained 79 individually wrapped sticks of a putty-like explosive normally available only to the military.

Each stick is powerful enough to "blow up a large apartment building," he said.

Also found were 29 blasting caps necessary to detonate the explosives, police said.

No plastic explosives have been reported stolen in the Chicago area, and investigators were attempting to learn where the trio acquired them.

Police said the arrests were made after they heard rumors of the alleged explosives vendors. Four policemen staked out the area and rushed the car as soon as it was parked.

Arrested and charged with unlawful possession of explosives were Glen Kimell, 28; Carey Koba, 22, and Paul Gillingham, 20. All said they were from Acosta, Pa. Kimell, who was carrying .25-caliber automatic pistol, also was charged with unlawful use of a weapon.

Charles Manson Sees Little Release Hope

By LINDA KRAMER
Associated Press Writer
OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Former hippie cult leader Charles Manson is pushing for appeal of his mass murder conviction, but he says he has little hope of ever being a free man.

Manson says he has a hard time getting along with other inmates at San Quentin Prison but that he doesn't believe they are afraid of him.

"I don't think I'm basically a threat to anyone," said the man whose followers testified during a nine-month murder trial in Los Angeles in 1970-1971 that he was "perfect."

The interview aired Monday night by station KTVU was Manson's first since he and three codefendants were found guilty of the murder of actress Sharon Tate and six others.

Manson, now 40 and sporting a short beard and inch-long fingernails, was interviewed in the prison by reporter Stan Atkinson.

At one point, Manson said that "getting out (of prison) is so far away in my mind, I would just like to be left alone."

"If you spend a lot of time in prison, it doesn't get better or worse, you get a balance with whatever you have to deal with."

He said that if he ever regained his freedom, it might be difficult for him to confront the "fear of the Manson name and family."

Manson; Susan Atkins, 26; Leslie Van Houten, 25; and Patricia Krenwinkel, 27, were sentenced to death for the August 1969 murders.

The sentence was changed to life after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that capital punishment as generally applied by most states was unconstitutional.

"Those incidents that took place (the murders) have nothing to do with me personally, even though I'm responsible and could accept a certain amount of responsibility," Manson said.

He claimed that evidence by Los Angeles Asst. Dist. Atty. Vincent Bugliosi never put him at the scene of the murders.

Of his efforts to gain freedom, Manson said, "You see, my problem is that I'm scattered all over the place. I've got three girls that are locked up and I have to file their motions with my motions. I don't have typewriters and I don't have books. In other words, I'm working slowly because I certainly have plenty of time."

Manson, who spent much of his life before the Tate murders in jail for petty crimes, was asked if he felt there was no place in this world for Charles Manson. He replied:

"Not no place; I made an attempt to adjust, I just can't seem to adjust to your society because no matter what I do it is wrong."

He Has Jaws

WILMINGTON, Calif. (AP) — When the movie "Jaws" hit it big at the box office, Ralph Ferguson was ready.

Shark jaws had collected dust for years on the shelves of Ferguson's warehouse in this suburb near the Los Angeles Harbor. Suddenly, the phone started ringing off the hook and the boom was on.

Amusement parks wanted to order hundreds of the jaws. Retail stores asked for as many as they could get, and individual buyers from across the country wanted to take the jaws home as souvenirs.

Ferguson says that within weeks his original inventory of 15,000 jaws was down to 5,000, and he says the rest are going fast.

Ferguson says he bought the authentic jaws from large marine supply firms.

"It's a joke," says Ferguson, who has operated a marine supply store here for 30 years. "Since the movie, all of a sudden people are begging for them."

He said that originally he had hundreds of two-foot jaws in stock. But they were snapped up in a hurry, and the remainder are mostly of the six-inch variety. They sell for 50 cents apiece, wholesale.

Ferguson said Sea World officials called to order 2,600 jaws for their amusement parks in California, Ohio and Florida. Busch Gardens and Universal Studios ordered 200 each.

Dee Dee Stone, a saleswoman at Ferguson's store, said one retailer bought several crates of jaws and "came back the next day hollering, 'How many more can I get?' Like it's an emergency or something."

Four Attending World Session

Four Greenville boys are among 17,500 boys and leaders from 96 countries in Lillehammer, Norway to attend the 14th World Scout Jamboree.

The boys are Tom Proctor, Don Tucker, Billy Billica and Roger Billica. Roger Billica is serving as assistant scoutmaster.

The huge scouting event is being hosted by the five Nordic nations: Norway, Denmark, Sweden, Iceland and Finland. Days are filled with multi-national activities, ranging from volleyball to pioneering and nature study. The Nordic hosts have also arranged for an orientation in the history and culture of this region.

The boys are part of a 2,500-member U.S. contingent — the largest group from a single nation.

Employment Survey Slated

Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment and unemployment in this area during mid-August.

The August survey will have the usual questions about the current employment situation plus additional questions about the use of food stamps in 1975.

Mrs. Jean Wilson of Rt. 1, Grimesland, will conduct local interviews.

Says Cattle Thrive On Turkey Manure

WADESBORO, N.C. (AP) — Eddie Lee is using processed turkey manure as part of the food for his cattle. He says they are thriving on it.

The 38-year-old farmer, educated at North Carolina State University, says the manure-enriched food is so high in protein that his cattle are gaining three pounds a day at a cost of 30 to 32 cents a pound. That compares 52 cents a pound reported by Midwestern feedlots.

The turkey manure is stored in a 750-ton silo, where it is aged 60 days or more. A 550-ton silo holds traditional corn silage. And a 7,000-bushel silo holds barley.

Lee gets truckloads of turkey droppings, free in most cases, from turkey farms in Anson County, where his bees operation also is located. He blows the turkey litter, which also contains some wood shavings, into the silo.

The tremendous heat in the silo breaks down the wood fiber to cellulose, the same as cattle get from grass. Lee says the cellulose gives off a gas that chemically changes the manure to protein. The finished product has a pungent silage odor and the texture of ground coffee.

Lee says analysis showed the processed litter was 28 per cent protein. An animal can't utilize more than 20 per cent protein, so Lee cuts the litter with one-fourth barley. He says Clemson University in South Carolina has become interested in his novel cattle feeding, and has begun working with him to keep track of the results.

Three Face Drug Counts

Greenville Police last night arrested three persons on marijuana possession charges, Chief Glenn Cannon said this morning.

According to Cannon, Brian Bender, 20, of Richmond, Va., was arrested in his Aycock Dorm room on the East Carolina University campus about 8:30 p.m. after a small quantity of marijuana was found in his possession during a search of his room.

Bender was placed under a $500 bond pending hearing of the case in District Court.

Mark S. Dunlap, 21, and Rodney Thomas Smith, 21, both of Greenville Apts., were charged following a search of their residences, about 10:20 p.m., the chief said.

Dunlap, charged with felony possession, was placed under a $1,000 bond while bond for Smith, charged with a misdemeanor, was set at $500.

Draws Prison In Barn Fires

Edmond Christopher Cook, 21, of 2705 Tryon Dr. was sentenced to eight to 10 years prison in Pitt County Superior Court yesterday after being found guilty on unlawful burning charges in connection with a series of tobacco barn fires earlier this year.

Cook was charged in January and March in connection with five tobacco barn fires.

Back-To-School Advertisements

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Public school students in Milwaukee are being urged to attend classes this fall in advertisements on buses, billboards and storefront signs.

"Don't Waste Your Time, Don't Cheat Your Mind. Be In School Sept. 2," the message says.

It is being carried around the city on about 50 buses, and will be seen on five outdoor billboards and in several department store advertisements.

New School Supt. Lee McMurrin has listed improved attendance in the city's 158 schools as a top priority.

Man Mauled By A Pet Cougar

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — A neighbor's 100-pound pet cougar badly mauled a 65-year-old man as he watered his lawn.

Authorities said the cougar snapped its chain Monday and attacked Warren Hobson. He was treated at a Riverside hospital for deep slashes about his head and back.

A sheriff's deputy who was summoned to the scene diverted the cougar's attention while county animal control officer Daryle Hitchcock attempted to capture it.

Hitchcock slipped behind the animal, whipped the loose end of its chain around a tree and padlocked it.

Dewey Parsons, Riverside County's chief of animal control, said county officials would file no charges against Hobson's neighbor, Don Baskett, who owned the cougar. Parsons said county residents are allowed to keep one exotic animal without a permit.

Wives Discuss Bicentennial

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Wives of governors from five Southern states are meeting today and Wednesday to discuss Bicentennial plans.

The meeting is at the North Carolina governor's official residence atop Patton Mountain in Asheville. The host is Pat Holshouser, wife of Gov. Jim Holshouser.

Also attending are the wives of Govs. George Busbee of Georgia, James B. Edwards of South Carolina, Ray Blanton of Tennessee, and William Waller of Mississippi.

Large Advance In Retail Sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail sales during July showed their biggest advance in a year, the government reports. July sales rose $49.97 billion, a jump of 2.4 per cent and the largest gain since a 4 per cent increase in July 1974, according to the Department of Commerce figures released Monday.

Shuttle Diplomacy Is Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says he likely will decide within the next 10 days whether to undertake a new round of shuttle diplomacy in the Middle East.

Kissinger said that chances of a peace settlement are "better than they have been in a while," but added a decision on resuming shuttle negotiations will come after advanced technical discussions with a two-member Israeli negotiating team set to begin today in Washington.

He made the remarks Monday as he left Montreal after addressing an American Bar Association convention.

The talks with the Israelis will cover "certain points related to the interim agreement" on a second Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai peninsula, State Department spokesman Robert L. Funseth said earlier Monday. However, he cautioned against too much optimism.

Funseth said the talks "are part of the over-all process. They reflect that we have made progress, but there are still hard questions to solve. It is encouraging but I counsel that you do not draw far-reaching conclusions."

In response to a question, Funseth told a news conference the talks do not signal an end to U.S. reassessment of its Middle East policy.

American officials and the Israeli team are expected to draft the text of those parts of a hoped-for Israeli-Egyptian agreement on which there is already some accord as well as to define areas of disagreement, according to other officials.

In Alexandria, Egypt, American Ambassador Hermann F. Eilts presented Israel's latest reply on a new troop separation agreement to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy.

No substantive details of the meeting were released, but one source said it was "obvious final details are being taken up."

In other developments:

—A second Israeli negotiating team is in Washington for talks on Israel's financial future with the Agency for International Development. The discussions, a follow-up on talks begun several weeks ago, begin Wednesday. Funseth said the talks will not cover military hardware being sought by Israel as part of a $2.8-billion request for economic and military assistance.

—Libya banned Egyptians from entering Libya in a continuing dispute over Arab attempts to oust Israel from the United Nations. Libya recently charged Egypt with selling out the Palestinian cause by refusing to support a resolution to expel Israel from the world body.

—A Palestinian guerrilla group in Beirut claimed a team of its commandos blew up an Israeli bus, causing more than 30 casualties. But an Israeli spokesman denied the claim, noting news reports that a bus had overturned on the highway between Tel Aviv and Eilat Sunday, slightly injuring 30 passengers.

Claim Following HEW Guidelines

RALEIGH (AP)—Wake County school officials admitted they assign teachers and other personnel on the basis of race, but they said they are following guidelines of the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Therefore, school officials said Monday, a suit against the system should be dropped or HEW should be made a co-defendant.

School officials were answering a suit filed in federal court by the parents of 78 black pupils last month. The suit said there is discrimination against blacks in assignment of personnel plus in meeting out discipline.

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese Red Army terrorist incident at Kuala Lumpur cost Japan Air Lines about $666,000, informed sources said today.

Five guerrillas seized the U.S. Embassy in Kuala Lumpur on Aug. 4, taking 52 hostages, including the American consul. Your Search for the Perfect Business...

Let's suppose we approach the Business School of any major university and lay down a set of specifications asking them to try to find for us the perfect business. We might ask them to find a business opportunity matching the following: The product or service, or whatever it is, is to be oblivious to the law of supply and demand. It should be an endless, unlimited supply and yet its demand should be great and constant, whether times are good or bad. There should be NO:

1. Manufacturing problems
2. Production problems
3. Transportation problems
4. Problem of obsolescence or style changes
5. Depreciation or deterioration
6. Foreign imports to hurt it
7. Tariffs to harass it
8. Union problems
9. Account receivables
10. Labor problems

Once located, we want it to be professional in nature. Because of the continuing service rendered, an element of mutual trust will be developed. We want the company which offers this to supply complete training facilities. They should have a financing arrangement to launch us, at no cost to us. In effect, we expect the company to supply all necessary capital and operating resources not only at the start, but also after we are established. Once we are under way, we want to both own and operate this business for ourselves. Rewards must come, based upon ability and performance. We want no problem of seniority blocking us; no limit on our income. This business must offer us an annual built-in compensation increase. Naturally we would expect this comprehensive compensation to also include the security of a complete program of doctor, hospital, dental and all other modern day health care coverages with the business paying the majority of the cost.

In order to avoid misunderstanding, we prefer everything having to do with this be contractual in nature. We want the relationship with the clientele to be through a contract which the clientele controls so that our customers will always be able to refer to the ground rules of their business relationship with us. We want our contract with whatever company this is to spell out very clearly the compensation arrangements we have just defined. It will thus permit us to control our own destiny.

There should be no compulsory retirement at age 65. Since the business will be ours, we want the right to keep on operating it after age 65, earning all that we wish; but we do insist that a pension be paid on top of whatever we earn. In other words, if we choose to keep on working, we expect a pay raise at age 65 when everyone else is taking a cut in pay.

When you locate this unique business, we want one more important provision which we realize will be difficult.

We do not want a mandatory educational requirement such as doctors, dentists and attorneys must meet. Though we realize additional education is always beneficial, we would like our opportunity to be based on pure courage, self-discipline and the willingness to work. We realize that a college degree is important but we would want our business associates to have the opportunity to enter our business regardless of the type of degree they have.

When we find this business opportunity, we promise to do certain things. We will study constantly to keep well informed realizing that the professional nature of this occupation will demand it. We want, to earn as much as we want, and to vacation when we please. We will promise to render continuous and high-class service to our clients and be loyal to our company.

Well, it becomes rather obvious, doesn't it? The business we seek is the life insurance business. The product it provides — the life insurance contract — is the only answer to the universal desire for security, both present and future, and because of this it has become a necessity of life. It is the only sure protection against the economic consequences of dying too soon or of living too long and for this reason it meets well the test of supply and demand.

This could be the perfect business for you. To help you evaluate your potential for success, why not drop me a note or, better still, give me a call and we will arrange a convenient time to thoroughly evaluate your potential as the Man from Equitable in Greenville. All contacts will be held in strictest confidence. Yes, this could be the perfect business for you... why not take a good look.
