Jurors Acquit Joan Little On All Counts

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A jury of six whites and six blacks acquitted Joan Little of all charges today in the icepick stabbing of her white jailer.

The panel deliberated less than an hour and a half before returning its verdict in the case of the 21-year-old black woman who said she stabbed Clarence Allgood, 62, to defend herself during a sexual attack.

The state had charged Miss Little with killing Allgood in an attempt to escape from the Beaufort County Jail in Washington, N.C., where she was being held while appealing a breaking and entering conviction.

Miss Little sat quietly at the defense table, showing little emotion, as jury foreman Mark Nielsen read his verdict:

"We find the defendant, Joan Little, not guilty."

Hobgood had given the jurors three choices: guilty of second degree murder, guilty of voluntary manslaughter or innocent of all charges.

After charging the jury, Hobgood broke the silence he had imposed since the start of the trial five weeks ago, telling newsmen that the state's evidence "was not as strong as the average murder case I've tried."

After dismissing the jury, Hobgood sentenced chief defense attorney Jerry Paul to 14 days in the Wake County jail for contempt of court during the early stages of the trial. The sentence began immediately.

Hobgood quoted Paul's remarks on the second day of the trial that accused the judge of "sitting there like the queen of hearts" and "taking us back 100 years."

He said he found that Paul had tried to disrupt the trial and force the court to find him in contempt to create a mistrial.

Hobgood said he had delayed his ruling until the trial's end to avoid that possibility and then handed down his sentence.

Paul had been predicting during the trial that he would receive a 30 day sentence for the incident.

Hobgood also cited Paul for failing to sit down when told to, turning his back on the court and addressing the news media with critical remarks and accusing the court of bias in favor of the prosecution.

The jury had before it a decision on whether Miss Little, a 21-year-old black, killed her white jailer to defend herself against sexual attack or, as the state contended, in order to escape from the Beaufort County jail.

Jailer Clarence Allgood,

62, was found stabbed to death in Miss Little's cell last Aug. 27. He was naked from the waist down. Medical testimony showed that he had been stabbed 11 times with an icepick.

The trial, which began July 14 with jury selection, has been widely characterized as a test of Southern justice in the face of racism and sexism.

Miss Little originally was charged with first degree murder, which carries a mandatory death penalty upon conviction, but Hobgood reduced that charge after ruling the state had not shown sufficient premeditation.

In his charge, Hobgood reviewed the testimony and told the jurors that, because Miss Little pleaded innocent, she was to be presumed innocent unless the state proved her guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.

He pointed out that there were no eyewitnesses to Allgood's death. Accordingly, Hobgood told the jury, the state had built its case on circumstantial evidence.

"Circumstantial evidence is a recognized concept in law. The state must prove that circumstances taken together show beyond reasonable doubt that guilt exists," Hobgood said.

Miss Little testified that Allgood came to her cell in the middle of the night, threatened her with an icepick and forced her to perform oral sex on him. She said she took the icepick

Ford To Veto Extension Of Price Controls On Oil

By HOWARD BENEDICT Associated Press Writer VAIL, Colo. (AP) — Calling the nation's energy problem a "giant puzzle," President Ford said today he will veto an extension of price controls on domestic oil and promised to remove his $2-a-barrel tariff on imported oil if Congress sustains the veto.

The President said the twin actions would increase the price of petroleum products only a few cents a gallon, "contrary to what others have predicted."

"Tough decisions are needed now," Ford said in remarks prepared for a Vail symposium on energy and the environment. "We're running out of time."

He said his program is needed to increase domestic oil prices gradually, thus forcing energy conservation, stimulating domestic production and reducing U.S. dependence on imported petroleum.

The President's talk was scheduled before an estimated 1,000 persons at a mountaintop restaurant reached only by cable-lift gondola. Ford also was to answer questions submitted in writing by delegates and selected in advance by a symposium committee.

"The on-again, off-again congressional approach to energy is hazardous, expensive and frightening,"

Filing Time

Today at noon marked the opening time for the filing period of candidates for the office of mayor and six city councilmen in Greenville, and for mayors and three commissioners in Farmville.

For both communities, the filing period will close at noon on September 5. Filing fees are $50 for the office of mayor in Greenville; $25 for city council candidates; and in Farmville, the fee is $10.00 each for mayor and for commissioner candidates.

Ford told the delegates. He urged Congress to end its months-long battle with the White House on energy policy.

Ford also declared the nation must reduce its dependence on oil and gas for energy and use its technology over the next 25 to 50 years to develop alternate sources, such as solar energy.

He said the safe and environmentally sound tapping of the nation's vast coal reserves is essential.

"The nation's capacity to convert coal into clean, gaseous and liquid fuel can and must be developed," he told the audience of Westerners, whose states harbor nearly half of U.S.

Reform Law Is Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Court of Appeals today upheld the Watergate-inspired Federal Election Reform Act in the face of a challenge by Sen. James Buckley and others.

Specifically, the court said Congress acted within its powers when it provided for public financing of presidential elections and strictly limited the amount of money that politicians may raise and spend in seeking election to any federal office.

The ruling was a rebuff for a conservative-liberal coalition which argued that the law favored incumbents and major party candidates and restricted free speech. Defenders of the law had argued before the eight-judge panel that unlimited money used to influence the outcome of an election is not the same as unlimited speech.

The court did rule one minor provision of the 1974 law unconstitutional. And it declined to rule one way or the other on a number of other provisions. But it upheld the fundamental thrust of the statute.

Under the law, contributors to political campaigns are allowed to give no more than $1,000 to any candidate in a single election and no more than $25,000 to all candidates.

coal reserves.

Current oil price controls, which limit the price of 60 per cent of domestically produced oil to $5.25 a barrel, are scheduled to expire Aug. 31. Congress voted to extend the controls six months, and it plans to send the legislation to the White House late this month.

Anticipating a Ford veto, the House has scheduled a veto override attempt for early September.

"If Congress also enacts my two proposals — for energy refunds to consumers and a windfall profits tax on oil companies, then the impact of decontrol, cushioned by the removal of import fees, will not hinder economic recovery."

If the veto is sustained, and Ford said it "must" be, the price of so-called old domestic oil is expected to rise to the free-market price of about $12 a barrel.

The lifting of the $2-a-barrel import fee, which Ford imposed in two steps earlier this year, is one of several measures he is considering to soften the inflationary impact of higher prices that would result on a number of petroleum products if controls are removed.

A U.S. Court of Appeals ruled earlier this week that the fee is illegal. However, the administration said Thursday that it will appeal the decision to the Supreme Court in an effort to establish that Ford does have the authority to impose such fees.

Given 84 Units

"We had a marvelous visit at Union Carbide yesterday," Billy Ross, Pitt County Blood Chairman, said. "Eighty-four pints were collected, with only 10 deferrals."

"This was our first visit to Union Carbide. We appreciate every person who contributed or sought to. And we especially thank Personnel Manager Charlie Pope and Plant Nurse Mary Alvan, who worked hard to set up the visit. Special recognition also should go to Lester Bunting, a Union Carbide employee who finished giving his seventh gallon of blood yesterday—56 times he has given. His seventh gallon pin was presented by Plant Manager F.T. Motsinger."

The Red Cross Bloodmobile was in Pitt County for three days. Some 213 pints were collected in two days at the Moose Lodge here.

N.C. Response To HEW Set By Holshouser

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser said Thursday he will submit reports next week to the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare that should answer most of its allegations that the state has not lived up to desegregation commitments in its university and community college systems.

The original deadline for responding to 40 charges by HEW's Office of Civil Rights was Aug. 10. Holshouser asked for a 20-day extension of the deadline, saying that the state did not have enough time to prepare a response.

Holshouser said HEW agreed Thursday to extend the deadline, and that next week, when Holshouser plans to forward to HEW semi-annual reports of the University of North Carolina and community college systems, would be soon enough.

After meeting with HEW Secretary David Matthews in Washington Thursday, Holshouser said that a meeting would be set up between Office of Civil Rights Director Peter Holmes and university officials to settle any differences that remain after the report.

HEW has threatened to stop $60 million in annual federal aid to higher education in North Carolina if the response to allegations is not adequate.

A major complaint lodged by that office is the proposed location of a new veterinary school. The UNC Board of Governors has decided to locate the school at predominantly white North Carolina State University instead of predominantly black North Carolina A&T, which also put in a bid for the school.

The Office of Civil Rights says it was only after it insisted that the Board of Governors even considered the racial impact of its decision.

UNC President William Friday has contended that the board's decision on the vet school was not racial, but based on educational values.

He said the Office of Civil Rights had ignored the university's success in getting greater numbers of blacks on predominantly white campuses and more whites in predominantly black schools.

Bangladesh President Dies In Military Coup

By MYRON L. BELKIND Associated Press Writer NEW DELHI, India (AP) —

President Mujibur Rahman of Bangladesh, hero of his country's struggle for independence from Pakistan 3½ years ago, was killed early today in a military coup, Radio Bangladesh announced.

The radio said Sheikh Mujib had been replaced by a former close associate, Khondakar Mushtaque Ahmed, and that a 24-hour curfew had been imposed. An army officer identified as Major Dalim called in the broadcast for all citizens to "remain calm and stay at home."

Diplomatic reports reaching New Delhi said that Prime Minister Mansoor Ali and two of Sheikh Mujib's nephews had also been killed in the coup.

The reports said the coup leaders had renamed the country the "Islamic Republic of Bangladesh" instead of the "People's Republic of Bangladesh," indicating the new government planned to stress Islamic policies rather than Sheikh Mujib's socialist line. About 90 per cent of Bangladesh's estimated 77 million people are Moslems.

The coup followed growing dissatisfaction with Sheikh Mujib's failure to come up with solutions to the country's staggering economic problems.

The diplomatic reports said the coup was staged at 5:15 a.m. (7:15 p.m. Thursday EDT) and there had been sporadic fighting in the early stages around Dacca, the capital. However, two hours later "by and large everything is quiet," the reports said.

These reports were backed up by the United News of India news agency, which reported from Dacca that everything was calm in the capital and there was no indication of any opposition to the new rulers. Tanks patrolled the main streets of the city and guarded roads leading to Sheikh Mujib's residence, the agency said. Dacca airport was reported closed to flights from India.

The Indian government radio said martial law had been proclaimed following the coup, but there was no word on this from Bangladesh.

The new president, speaking on the radio three hours after the coup, called for the support of the armed forces, police and paramilitary organizations, and appealed to "all the peace-loving countrymen to do your duty and cooperate with the new government."

Ahmed, who was foreign trade minister under Sheikh Mujib, also asked foreign governments to extend diplomatic recognition to his new government. There was no immediate reaction from Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

Meet Monday

The regular meeting of the Greenville City Board of Education for the month of August will be held Monday at 8 p.m. at Rose High School. The meeting will be in the library.

Items on the agenda include discussions on an auto mechanics course, Rose High accreditation, a lease amendment for the C. M. Epkes property, free lunch policy, and a progress report on the proposed middle school.

BABY SWIM INSTRUCTION?

Is there any swimming instructor in Greenville who will accept an infant as a student? J.C.

Both the Ray Scharf Swim School and the Raynez Swim School accept infants. Scharf said he started taking his own son into the water at about two months, but accepts paying students six months and older. He or one of his assistants teach infants on a one-to-one basis, offer no guarantees, but have had substantial successes. The charge is $27 for nine lessons, but Scharf said his teaching is over for this year.

Mrs. Ray Martinez said she has almost finished teaching for this summer, but that if you will contact her right away, she will try to teach your baby, especially if there's a pressing need like taking the child boating regularly. She, too, teaches infants one-to-one and charges $45 for 10 half-hour lessons. She likes to start with eight-to-nine-month-olds, she said. The Raynez phone number is 756-4900.

MORE COLLECTION BOXES?

Why doesn't the Police Department have more parking fine collection boxes installed. I think we need at least one box on each lot. G.F.

"We have had such a terrific problem with the collection boxes being broken into and rifled that we've decided not to replace them as they are destroyed," City Manager Harry Hagerty said. "It's a problem, not only because of the money stolen, but because we then have no way of knowing who had paid his fine and who has not. We do hope to continue to have the boxes in front of the Police Station as a convenience for our citizens, however."

Pitt County Farmer Has Filed Suit Against Tobacco Companies

A Pitt County farmer, J.C. Galloway of Greenville, has filed an anti-trust class action suit against 33 tobacco companies charging that they and U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz have conspired to monopolize trade in tobacco.

The suit, filed in U.S. Eastern District Court April 25, came to light earlier this week when spokesmen for Export Leaf Tobacco Co. of Richmond, Va., — the second largest purchaser of North Carolina leaf — said the firm would buy less tobacco this year.

Galloway's complaint names among the defendants such companies as R.J. Reynolds, Phillip Morris, Liggett and Myers, Imperial, Export, Brown and Williamson, Carolina Leaf, A.C. Monk and Greenville Tobacco, as well as Sec. Butz.

The suit charges a "conspiracy to restrain... in commerce... in flue-cured tobacco... to monopolize... interstate and foreign... trade."

interstate and foreign... trade.

According to the complaint, the defendants have agreed to "pay plaintiff uniform, arbitrary, non-competitive and artificially low prices... eliminate competition... since 1970, and 'undertook... percentage purchase agreements, parallel bidding, collusive bidding and other acts, to monopolize the marketing sale and purchase of flue-cured tobacco.'"

The suit asked that the defendants be restrained from monopolizing the tobacco market and seeks "three-fold the damages determined to have been sustained... by the plaintiffs."

Attorney Frank M. Wooten of Greenville said today it may take two to three years for the case to be heard in Federal Court.

"It takes a long time getting ready for trial," he explained.

Colonial High Fashion Was Always Expensive

EDITOR'S NOTE — They wore saques and fichus and panniers and pushed up their bosoms with whalebone and scratched where the wig lice itched. But colonial dames, as well as fastidious gentlemen of the day, would go to whatever length — or width or height — to keep in the fashion.

ensure a close fit, some shaved their heads or closely cropped their hair.

By the middle of the century wigs gradually began declining in fashion. Instead, gentlemen grew their own hair long and had it groomed and powdered.

Still, there were other unpleasanties associated with both wigs and hair styles for men and women.

Weevils found cozy homes in many a colonial wig. Head lice and other vermin nestled in some of the best-dressed heads of the times.

Wigs, sometimes made of human hair but also of goat hair or wool, were set with perfumed animal fat and powdered with talcum, flour or cornstarch.

Trends in hair styles and clothing often followed the styles which were popular in the courts of England and France.

Costly silks, laces, brocades, velvets and cottons were imported for clothing worn by both sexes. Travelers were eagerly questioned for news of the latest fashions abroad.

The interest in styles and high fashion was by no means widespread among the general population. Most colonials were poor and commonly made their own homespun clothes from flax, wool and other materials at hand.

The Watteau gown, or sacque, was one of the popular style of dresses worn by women. It was a flowing gown with a wide back pleat to the floor-length hem. There were variations in the basic style but it was generally low cut at the neck, shaped with stays and worn with a corset to produce the fashionable look of the up-pushed bosom.

Women often wore fichus, or scarf-like garments, over low-cut bodices, but it is likely that warmth and comfort were as much a factor as modesty. Low-cut necklines were prevalent in dress for all classes of women. It likely was a functional style in origin for mothers who breast-fed their babies as they went about their chores.

Underpants were not worn by colonial women but other types of underclothing were. A shift, roughly akin to a slip with sleeves, was the basic undergarment. Women also frequently wore six or eight petticoats to puff out a fashionable gown.

Panniers, undergarments which attached basket-shaped objects to each hip to fan out a skirt, were popular for a time. So were hoops.

Toward the time of the Revolution, a sentiment against the British Stamp Act caused some patriots to put away their finest imported clothes. Along with boycotting tea, many turned to homespun clothing produced in the colonies.

George Washington, customarily an elegant dresser, wore a brown suit of homespun broadcloth for his inauguration in 1789.

Boy Or Girl Babies To Order

By BARRY WATERS
BELGRADE (UPI) — Natives in East Africa dangle a needle on a thread over the stomach of a pregnant woman. If it swings back and forth, they believe the child will be a boy. If it goes round in a circle, it will be a girl.

Svetomir Cvetkovic has a more scientific way of enabling parents to select the sex of their child before it is conceived. Already he is being hailed by the Yugoslav popular press as the man who could change the balance of the human species.

Cvetkovic, a 57-year old biologist attached to Belgrade's main maternity hospital, claims a nearly perfect record in predicting the sex of a child.

During the past two years 17 couples have approached him — 16 wanting a boy and one a girl — and in each case Cvetkovic, a former elementary school teacher and psychologist, has forecast correctly the proper time for conception to take place to achieve the desired result.

He is deluged with requests from couples who don't want to take chances on the sex of their next baby, and now is advising about 200 women — a sample which he feels is big enough to give scientific weight to the results.

"But even a sample of 17 is impressive with a 100 per cent success rate," said Dr. Dragomir Mladenovic, director of the Belgrade maternity clinic.

Cvetkovic, however, is cautious.

"I have no doubts at all about the success of my methods and indeed I'm not the only specialist in the world working in this field. But I need approximately another year to gather sufficient case histories to back my theories with full scientific weight," he said.

Cvetkovic declines to reveal much about his methods but summed them up like this: "Basically all I do is a very complete series of tests and analyses in about 30 different disciplines — biochemistry, genetics, endocrinology, gynecology and the rest — and on the basis of what I find, recommend a day when conception should take place in order to achieve the desired results.

"The tests can take anything from a few weeks to several months and sometimes require the presence of the man as well as the woman."

Cvetkovic began his research by making analyses of women who were already pregnant and then charting common patterns according to the sex of the baby.

"Already, however, his interest has gone beyond simply deciding the sex of the child and he believes the most beneficial aspect of his work will be the elimination of hereditary disabilities and undesirable traits.

He also said it will be quite easy to ensure that a child is born with the looks and characteristics of the father or mother or even a mix of the desirable characteristics of each one.

"This may all sound futuristic but this is the point science has now reached. And the problems of course are perhaps more moral than scientific and possibly legal. With the ability to decide on the future sex of a child, it may be necessary to legislate at some future stage in order to retain the balance between the sexes. Most countries, as you know, prefer boys to girls," he said.

Secretary Broke From Treating Boss To Coffee

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Several months ago a new lady boss came to work in the firm where I am a secretary.

She began asking me to please get her a cup of coffee or a candy bar. (We have dispensing machines.) She is always in a hurry, rushing to another meeting, and never has her purse with her.

Of course, I oblige. She is so lady-like and has such lovely manners, I thought she would reimburse me, but she never has.

Abby, I like my job and don't want to make a big deal out of it, but over the months her coffee and candy bars have put a hole in my budget.

What would be a tactful way of handling this without appearing cheap, embarrassing my boss or getting stuck for more?

STUCK

DEAR STUCK: It's not "cheap" to ask for what is owed you. But you will have to make a choice between recouping your losses and sparing the lady boss from embarrassment. As for protection against being stuck again: When she asks for something from the machine, ask her for the change because you're "fresh out."

DEAR ABBY: I have an uncle who calls himself "Doctor" because he was given an honorary degree at some little obscure college to which he gave a lot of money after he struck it rich.

He introduces himself as "Doctor." When he makes reservations for trips and even at restaurants, he always makes it in the name of "Doctor So and So." Is it legitimate for him to do this? He didn't even graduate from high school.

NO NAMES

DEAR NO: Persons who appropriate the title "Doctor" solely upon the pretense of an honorary degree are reaching for self-esteem and are rather pathetic. But your uncle is harming no one, so let it ride.

DEAR ABBY: I have attended many weddings this summer and am so annoyed by one of the traditions that I have to get this off my chest.

When the bride starts to walk down the aisle, everyone stands up! (I suppose it is to pay tribute to the bride.)

Then everyone (except those who are lucky enough to be sitting next to the aisle) starts to twist and turn and bob around, trying to get a look at the bride. Usually, all they can see are the backs of others who are also trying to get a look.

From the center seats, there isn't a chance of seeing the flower girl or ring-bearer. This is unfair to everybody.

Will you please ask ministers to request that everyone remain seated when the bride makes her entrance?

The Farmer Counts On Selling

No matter which way the ball bounces there will be criticism.

American farmers raise crops to be sold at the best prices obtainable; that's the way it is and the way it has always been.

This year and last year farmers have been necessarily looking for high prices because their operations have cost them more and just like everybody else their cost of living has risen.

Here at home the farmer is looking at tobacco prices, and in many cases complaining. The crop is larger and the export market isn't what it used to be.

Grain crops are something else. The export market is promising because the biggest foreign customers are looking to the United States.

Corn and wheat growers are especially hopeful. It means they'll do better than "break even" on this year's crop and for many of them that's a nice change of pace.

That is not such a good omen for consumers because when the farmer gets his "good price", the consumer has to pay more; and consumers have a loud voice in airing their complaints. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz is their favorite target these days because he's the most visible and vocal of the government's spokesmen for the agricultural economy.

This week Sec. Butz called on grain traders to brake their foreign sales until a better assessment can be made of crop production. It makes sense; the United States should not allow itself to be caught short. Cautious estimates indicate there will be enough to go around.

Even so, Americans should expect to pay more at the grocery store. Consumers, just as do producers, have to bear the burden of inflation.

All of us should be pleased and gratified that U.S. agricultural production has a big demand abroad. Were it otherwise, farmers would be forced to sharply reduce their productivity and many choose to simply go out of business. We would be in pretty bad shape in that event.

It would be a mistake, as Secretary Butz reminded, to short-change domestic needs just to feed the rest of the world or to maintain a big export trade. Still, we believe there is good reason to think we can afford a good foreign market as well as meet our own needs. Another year might not see such good prospects.

The situation today does suggest the need for even closer surveillance of crop production in this country as it relates to domestic and foreign demand. That belated braking order on sales to the Soviet indicates such surveillance is, if not haphazard, at least not all that it should be.

Bible 'Family Tree'

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Is it a timetable? An illustration of some intricate vascular or nervous system? A complex electrical wiring plan? A maze? No, it's a family tree. It traces the long, labyrinthine blood lines of the Bible.

An Oklahoma City artist, real estate dealer and Bible class teacher, puzzled by all those ancestors, "begats" and descendants recited profusely in the Scriptures, has put them all together in one, interstitched genealogical chart.

"It was like putting together some enormous jigsaw puzzle," says Mary Lou Farris. "But the parts fit, once you find where they belong." The assembled pedigrees, printed on a big, 2-by-3-foot chart in a half-dozen colors, traces human descent through thousands of years of ancient Biblical origins, branches and connections from Adam and Eve to Jesus.

Together, the chart contains about 1,100 names, including both minor and major figures in the successive unfolding of the generations.

"The purpose is to enable people to see the whole picture instead of in just bits and pieces," Mrs. Farris said in a telephone interview. "It's to help them understand the Bible. You can't fully follow the action without knowing who the actors are."

Mrs. Farris, 49, who taught art for several years at Penn State University and the University of Florida and whose paintings have been exhibited in several cities, spent two years compiling the Biblical genealogy.

She said a check of a college class once brought out that students were familiar with more characters in the novel, "Gone With the Wind," than in the Bible, probably due partly to the fragmentary way in which the Bible is approached.

"It's usually consulted piecemeal, like an almanac, rather than read as a unitary, interlocking story," she said.

For that reason, she added the many characters, their relationships, and how they are linked into the overall progression of events and human striving tends to get blurred and lost in episodic segments.

But with the help of her "Adam and Eve Family Tree," she said, a person can keep "the various characters in mind and be better able to follow."

Training In Two-Wheelers

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—Motorcycles are a fact of life these days, witness the growing numbers of them on the roads—and especially parked outside North Carolina high schools.

Public school officials, aware of the increasing number of kids riding motorcycles, are launching an experimental program in driver education for the two-wheelers.

At the same time, an experimental program for the more sedate family sedan is being set in motion: teaching young drivers how to make basic emergency driving maneuvers.

Both new approaches hold the promise of reducing accidents and making better drivers of Tar Heel youngsters—whether on two wheels or four.

Larry W. Phillips, a member of the driver training staff of the State Department of Public Instruction, is working with officials of the North Carolina Highway Safety Research Center at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in designing the two pilot projects.

Six Test Sites
Six tests sites for the emergency driving program have been selected: Burke, Yadkin, Gaston, Pitt, Craven, and Wake Counties.

Six locations for the motorcycle training programs are now being picked, and when school gets underway this fall some 600 students will get specialized training on motorcycles; between 750 and 800 will be trained in emergency driving techniques.

In both cases, safety experts will keep track of the students, and follow through on any accidents which those students may have following completion of the course.

The object is to see if the new approaches can make for safer driving.

In both projects, the training will be done at off-the-road facilities.

"We are trying to develop ways of making driver education more comprehensive and more effective," Phillips says. The traditional cautious and guarded passing of Driver Education cars with a student at one wheel, an instructor at the other, doesn't really prepare the driver for emergency situations which come up in actual driving experience.

What does a driver do, for instance, when a wheel drops off the pavement at normal speed; when wet pavement sends the car into a sideways spin; when sharp evasive maneuvering is required to miss an object in the road; when sudden braking makes a car swap ends?

Get The Feel
Textbooks and lectures can tell a student what to do, but only experience can give the feel of the car when those things happen, how a car responds under given circumstances, and sharpen the reflexes so that proper response takes place rather than panic.

A big question in the minds of driver training experts is whether a 16-year-old can be taught to handle a car under such conditions. "We don't have the answers... that is why we need to run these pilot programs to see if they can, and if better drivers result," Phillips said.

The emergency driving exercises to be used in the program were selected by safety experts studying wreck statistics. "We didn't pick them haphazardly... but those most commonly involved in accidents," Phillips said.

Both pilot project will be used for future statewide direction in driver training classes in the public schools, and officials expect to present findings to the General Assembly and the State Board of Education as the studies result in refinement of the present program.

The Highway Safety Research Center will also help secure specialized equipment for the program as part of the contract which totals $84,000 for the emergency driving project, and $34,000 for the motorcycle training.

Those Leaves Of Grass

(As part of the Bicentennial celebration Mr. Buchwald has left behind a column he wrote in 1921 when he was gardening editor of the Plymouth Post.)

The Commerce Department revealed last May that Americans spend $1.5 billion yearly on their lawns. The figure isn't hard to believe if you have a lawn. As a matter of fact, it's quite low. All you have to do is to buy a few feet of sod, some fertilizer, some grass seed, a hose and an electric lawn mower, and you've blown a million right there.

No one is quite sure who was the first one to start the lawn competition in America. It is rumored that it was a Pilgrim named Sam Snodgrass who was responsible for the whole thing.

One morning the Pilgrims got up and found Sam out front sprinkling seeds on the ground. "What art thou doing, Sam?" his neighbors asked. "Planting grass." "But why? Canst thou eat it?"

"No, neighbor, but it will give me something to cut in the summertime."

The Pilgrim men, who rarely laughed, made merry of Sam. But when spring came and Sam's lawn started to grow, the wives of the other Pilgrims became very upset.

"Look thou at Brother Snodgrass' lawn," they said to their husbands. "It is verily a shame that we have nothing but dirt in front of our houses."

The other Pilgrim men were sore as hell, but there wasn't much they could do about it. So they all started planting grass in front of their houses. Pretty soon they were so busy working on their lawns they forgot to plant any crops, so when winter came they almost starved to death.

But this did not dismay the Pilgrim wives. When spring came, they insisted that their husbands work on their lawns again.

"Look thou at Sam with wavy a weed in his yard," they grumbled.

"Women," the husbands cried, "we must plant crops instead."

"Better to starve," the women replied, "than to have an unkempt lawn."

And so the next winter all the Pilgrims died. But the tradition of having a neat lawn lived on in the New World, and America became a great nation because the wives of its men always thought the grass was greener on the other side of the hedge.

ART BUCHWALD

Today a man is judged by the lawn he keeps. If it is trim and green and looks like a carpet, he is a loyal American. If it grows tall, has weeds and straggles over the sidewalk, he is a Communist.

And so once again this summer, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, American men, egged on by their wives, were toiling in their front yards, devoting their strength, their lives and their waking moments, not to mention $1.5 billion a year, to keep up with their neighbors' lawns.

The Pilgrims started it, but where will it all end? Sod only knows.

The INSIDE REPORT

Crude Oil Price Going Up

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON—Contrary to claims by the administration's economic policymakers of no likely boost in the world price of oil, the harsh truth is that another increase by the international oil cartel in September seems inescapable — thanks partly to congressional destruction of President Ford's energy policy.

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) is almost certain to increase Saudi Arabia's "marker" crude about $1.50 a barrel from the present $11.25, with immediate adverse economic effects on Western Europe and Japan. The cartel's ability not only to hold its greatly increased prices of 1973 but to push them still higher can be traced to the lack of any firm U.S. response to the OPEC challenge.

If Congress overrides President Ford's veto of a six-month extension of domestic oil price controls when it returns in September, the administration's energy program will be comatose. An override would destroy the last Ford attempt to reduce U.S. oil consumption through higher prices, with no prospect for an alternative scheme. The United States, then, will be increasingly at the mercy of the oil cartel.

In fact, administration officials have long taken it for granted that OPEC would increase crude oil prices this year. That assumption was implicit in a confidential memorandum to the Economic Policy Board on July 25 by Dr. Paul W. MacAvoy, newest member of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. Matter-of-fact acceptance of this prospect is reflected by MacAvoy's language: "The price increase is expected to be from $1 to $3 per barrel, but to center on $2 per barrel. Prices higher than $3 appear unlikely, because they... could reduce the revenues of OPEC. Prices lower than $1 are unlikely, as well, because they would give the appearance of 'backing down,' and thus, would reduce the confidence of OPEC members in the abilities of the cartel to control world oil markets."

Mac Avoy's memo generated no commotion inside the administration until we reported his $2 forecast in a recent column. Policymakers then contended this was no forecast but merely a hypothetical assumption. What's more, say these officials, the cartel so fears Western Europe's reduced demand in the wake of recession that it likely will not raise crude prices at all or, if it does, will increase them less than one dollar.

This rosy talk, unfortunately, is more propagandizing than forecasting. Administration officials fear that OPEC, upon learning that a top U.S. government economist was expecting a $2 increase, would assume a green light from Washington. Thus, high officials are trying to counteract any such reaction by declaring confidently they expect no increase at all.

But the cartel, experts agree, is less influenced by such atmospherics than by what it correctly perceives as the failure of the Ford energy policy. Private American consultants travelling abroad are told by oil ministers that their oil price plans are heavily influenced by U.S. unwillingness to reduce consumption.

Moreover, oil producing nations contend the West's inability to control inflation forces higher oil prices. "You have had two years to get your house in order," says one knowledgeable Venezuelan official. "You have not done it, and now a price increase cannot be avoided."

Therefore, the consensus among government and private oil experts ("I would say 95 to 99 per cent certain," one precise private consultant told us) is for a $1.50-a-barrel increase in Saudi marker crude, traditional pace-setter for other crude prices. Some optimists hope the increase will be limited to Saudi oil, but most authorities feel it will spread. The impact on the U.S. of a $2 increase was forecast by Dr. MacAvoy at 200,000 to 300,000 additional unemployed for 18 months.

To the editor:
As a native-born son of eastern North Carolina (Stokes), I was educated in this area (Stokes High School and East Carolina University) before leaving to further my education at the University of Wisconsin. I now teach and make my home in the Madison area, but for the past three summers have returned to the eastern N.C. area to make my summer home.

This past summer I was apprised of the Joan Little case and have been told that many area people have been offended by being characterized by national reporters as "rednecks" when they visited and reported on the area. I would say that if they find the label offensive, then they could easily eradicate it by changing their life style, philosophy, etc. Indeed, it was the "redneck" mentality that forced me and many of my ECU classmates to seek employment elsewhere. As an Episcopalian, I would be appalled at being labeled a theist, but if I were atheist, I could change the label by changing my philosophy and social attitudes. My contention is, if the shoe fits, wear it.

Strength For Today

OF BIRDS AND MEN
There are many striking mural paintings in the League of Nations building in Geneva, Switzerland. One depicts a dead soldier surrounded by a weeping mother, widow, and sisters. But to the side a bird and his mate are building a nest. Happily engaged in weaving together bits of grass into a nest for their young, their cheerful demeanor, reflecting hope for the future, is in striking contrast to the grief of the weeping women. The meaning which the artist wishes to convey is clear. Humans are shown as the destroyers of themselves, and as a result the agents for bringing grief into the world. On the other hand, the birds, whose welfare is in the hands of God, are happy and free. They think not of death but of life; not of a tragic past, but of a hopeful future. They do not destroy life; they create and nurture it. This painting is an interesting commentary on the words of our Lord, "Consider the birds of the air..." —by Elisha Douglass

Arizonans Know Hot Weather

By MAX JENNINGS
Associated Press Writer
GILA BEND, Ariz. (AP) — The rest of the country may complain about heat waves off and on, but people in the Arizona desert know what hot weather really means.

Somewhere in Arizona, almost every day in the summer, the nation's highest temperature will be recorded.

And the desert is no place to be unless you know how to cope with the egg-frying temperatures.

The temperature recently hit 120 degrees in this western Arizona town of 2,000 at the edge of the Mohave Desert. Gila Bend has the dubious distinction of often being the hottest spot in the nation.

Mrs. Paul Drudge helps her husband and son run a refrigeration shop here. Although business is booming these days, she confesses she has not adjusted to the summers.

"They put a thermometer on the ground the other day and it registered 150 degrees in the sun," she says. When she remains outside for very long, Mrs. Drudge says, "I get heat exhaustion and I get sick." Despite the heat, residents here and elsewhere in a desert which spans western Arizona have developed ways to cope with the heat.

Construction workers go to work before dawn and finish well before the temperature peaks in midafternoon.

Swimming pool companies install special spray cooling devices to fight the temperatures.

Specialty stores sell sun screens for home and car windows, and air conditioner repairmen race about in radio trucks, responding to refrigeration unit breakdowns like ambulance drivers.

Of course, people lived through summer in Arizona before the advent of pools and air conditioning.

A retired newsman, Ben Avery of Phoenix, is a lifelong Arizonan who remembers children wrapping up in wet sheets before taking their afternoon naps. He slept on the front yard of a Phoenix church under the lawn sprinklers. "People going by on their way to church would wake us up," he said.

The record high temperature in Arizona was 127 degrees at Parker in 1905.

Claim Sinai Accord Near Between Egypt And Israel

By The Associated Press
Diplomatic sources in Jerusalem say Israel and Egypt have agreed on all major points regarding an interim Sinai settlement.

Sources in Cairo report Washington has initiated contacts with Syria aimed at a further separation of forces on the Golan Heights front after the Sinai pact is completed.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is "almost certain" to arrive in Israel by the middle of next week to take up the unresolved minor points concerning Sinai, the Jerusalem sources said Thursday.

Kissinger was expected to concentrate on the problem of manning the early warning radar stations in the Mitla and Gidi passes.

Egypt reportedly has not yet accepted Israel's demands that both Israeli soldiers and U.S. technicians man the facilities.

The State Department has reiterated pledges that the Ford administration would ask Congress to approve in advance any deployment of U.S. technicians at Sinai monitoring posts.

As the two sides appeared to near agreement, Cairo sources close to the United Nations peacekeeping force in Sinai reported an increase in violations of the 1974 disengagement pact.

In Tel Aviv, a faction of Israel's rightist Likud opposition called on Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin to resign on grounds that Israel was negotiating away its main line of defense in the Sinai.

The Likud opposes an interim agreement with Egypt, preferring direct negotiations with the Arabs for an over-all peace settlement.

In other Middle East developments:

—A young Israeli woman soldier is on trial in Haifa for illegally crossing into Syrian territory with her boyfriend, an Austrian officer in the U.N. peacekeeping force on the Golan. She was dishonorably discharged and the Austrian returned home, newspapers said.

—The Greek Catholic patriarch of Beirut, Maximos Hakim, said Archbishop Hilarion Capudji of Jerusalem is in danger of complete paralysis as a result of imprisonment in Israel and needs surgery. Archbishop Capudji, 54, is serving 12 years for allegedly smuggling arms to Palestinian guerrillas.

—North Yemen has decided to expel Soviet military experts, the Beirut newspaper An Nahar reported today from San'a. The move followed a pledge of $700 million aid from Saudi Arabia, which opposes the Soviet presence in the Arabian peninsula.

—Egyptian President Anwar Sadat inspected military positions near the border with pro-Soviet Libya on Thursday. Sadat reportedly told a gathering near the border: "As a father, I tell you that (Libyan leader Moammar) Khadafy is a sick man and abnormal member of the Arab family... Therefore, we advise Khadafy to stay in his place and remain within his boundaries."

Excellence Award Goes To Empire Brushes Inc.

The employees and management of Empire Brushes Inc. of Greenville were honored this week by Sears, Roebuck and Co.

Al Stewart, buyer of housewares for Sears, explained the Sears Symbol of Excellence Award for 1975 to all plant employees during brief meetings throughout the plant and made a formal presentation at a civic luncheon at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

James Hecker, local Empire Brushes plant manager, accepted the award on behalf of the plant employees.

The award was again presented by Stewart at a luncheon where it was accepted by Jack Gantz, president of Empire Brushes.

The Symbol of Excellence Award was one of 379 presented this year to suppliers judged the most outstanding out of 12,000 merchandising sources. Empire Brushes received the award previously in 1970, 1972, 1973 and 1974 and in receiving the award for the fifth time, becomes one of only 165 companies out of 12,000 to do so, it was noted.

Empire Brushes was host for the luncheon and was represented by Gantz; Ted Uly, vice president of sales; and Larry Pontillo, production control manager, off of Port Chester, N.Y.

Representing the Greenville staff were Hecker; Joe Gantz, general manager; Stanley Zieherman, manufacturing superintendent; Leon Wright, personnel manager; Robert Osswald, data processing manager; Cecil Gurganus, plastics manager; John Huber, industrial engineering manager;

Bobby Harris, assistant manager production control; Eddie Bailey, plastics supervisor; Elsie Garris, packing supervisor; Tommy Harris, twist-in-wire supervisor; Helen Burroughs, mop-broom-cordless electric supervisor; Sid O'Neal, receiving supervisor; H.T. Wainwright, shipping supervisor; Dwight Foster, maintenance supervisor; Victor Wade, senior scheduler; Bill Bryant, industrial engineer; and Travis Wooten, machine designer.

New Ballistics Tests Ordered

THE GUN—A Los Angeles judge Thursday used this gun, used in the assassination of Sen. Robert Kennedy, to be fired again. (AP Wirephoto)

LOS ANGELES (AP) — New ballistics tests have been ordered in an effort to resolve lingering questions about a "second-gun" theory in the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Superior Court Judge Robert A. Wenke on Thursday ordered the eight-shot .22-caliber pistol taken as evidence in the June 5, 1968 slaying fired again.

The order came during a hearing on a suit by Paul Schrade, one of those wounded in the volley of shots fired at Kennedy. He was joined in the court action by the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors. His suit to reopening the investigation into Kennedy's death seeks release of a 10-volume police report on the assassination and all physical evidence in the case.

Sirhan B. Sirhan is serving a life sentence for killing Kennedy. The case is being reopened to resolve doubts by some persons over whether Sirhan acted by himself.

Criminologists Herbert McDonnell of New York and Lowell Bradford of Campbell, Calif., maintained after examination of pictures of the bullets fired in Kennedy's assassination that two of the bullets were fired from two different guns.

Wenke's order directs attorneys to report to him by Sept. 11 on whether they have agreed upon a method to test-fire the weapon wrestled from the hands of Sirhan at the scene of the crime. If no agreement is reached, he said he will study briefs and appoint experts to test-fire the gun.

Car Ran Into Utility Pole

A 2:45 a.m. mishap today resulted in an estimated $1,350 property damage, Greenville Police investigators reported.

Officers said a car operated by Jennings Lee Pulley Jr. of 106 Andrews Dr. collided with a utility pole on St. Andrews St. about 110 feet South of the Dexter Street intersection.

Damage was estimated at $1,000 to the car and $350 to the pole. No charges were made.

Candidate For Mayor's Seat In Farmville

FARMVILLE—W.C. "Bill" Garner has announced his candidacy for Mayor of Farmville. He will be running against incumbent mayor, Will Joyner seeking his fourth term, and Jimmie Lee Smith who ran for the same office two years ago. Garner is the retired operator of Garner Furniture Company and Garner Gas and Equipment Company here. He now has an advertising specialties business. He has been a Town Commission for four years.

A member of the First Baptist Church he is a former president of the Farmville Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Town Planning Board. His wife is the former Louise Gay of Walstonburg. He has one daughter and two stepdaughters.

Filing for municipal office began yesterday.

THAT'S JUST HOW THEY STACKED UP—For fun the children in the Eastern Street area got together and constructed a tower of discarded aluminum soft drink cans. Mary Joanne Cox (top) with the help of her brothers and sisters, and some neighbors stacked in about a half-hour, 164 cans to a height of 36 cans tall. Ilana Mallenbaum (bottom) looks on. The children were saving the cans to sell as scrap aluminum. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Mrs. Hearst Ready To Testify Before Grand Jury

TOURING THE TOWN—A convoy of Cessna 170 aircraft took an aerial tour of Memphis Thursday as part of a convention of about 100 owners of the planes, which are no longer in production. The meeting that runs through Saturday is being held at West Memphis, Ark. The aircraft shown are being piloted by owners all from Long Beach, Calif. (AP Wirephoto)

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Catherine Hearst, the mother of fugitive newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst, will testify before a federal grand jury in Harrisburg, Pa. But she says she has no idea what she will be asked and "I don't know why I'm going."

Meanwhile, her husband, Randolph A. Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner, denied allegations by a man in FBI custody that the Hearsts may be sending money to their daughter.

"Mrs. Hearst and I do not know where Patty is, have never known and have never contributed one dime to her support since the kidnaping," Hearst said Thursday.

Mrs. Hearst said she will obey a subpoena to appear in Harrisburg Tuesday. Her daughter, who joined the radical Symbionese Liberation Army which kidnaped her, has been missing for 18 months.

The same grand jury has subpoenaed sports activist Jack Scott and his wife, Micki, to testify Monday. They say they will not cooperate.

Walter Scott, Jack Scott's brother who disappeared last week only to turn up in custody of the FBI, has suggested the Hearsts are supporting Patricia. He has suggested his brother, sister-in-law and parents are involved with the missing heiress.

Walter Scott, a 43-year-old ex-Marine, was described by his father Thursday as an alcoholic and a psychopathic liar who has been "in and out of mental hospitals." Jack Scott said his brother has "severe personal problems."

Bowles On State Tour

RALEIGH (AP)—Greensboro businessman Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles Jr. has been traveling through the eastern part of North Carolina recently, getting reacquainted with supporters of his unsuccessful bid for governor in 1972.

But Bowles said Thursday that it is to early for him to formally announce his candidacy for the 1976 Democratic nomination for governor.

Bowles said his small group meetings were designed "just to keep everybody sort of ready" for a campaign.

"We're going to move all over the state. It's time for me to start, but I'm not going to do it with any drums going or flags raised," Bowles said in a telephone interview from Greensboro.

"I don't want to have to get up and make a rip-roaring speech. This ain't no big stuff. I don't think it's time to start a campaign," he said.

Bowles is not alone in pre-campaign activity — three other Democrats are have begun initial steps also. They are Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, Charlotte businessman Edward O'Herron and state Sen. Thomas E. Strickland of Goldsboro. Also expressing interest in running are House Speaker James Green and former House Speaker James Ramsey.

Prisoner Meets Long Missing Daughter In Whiteville Prison

By LUKE WEST
The Fayetteville Times
Written for The AP
WHITEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — John Rozier Bullard and the 15-year-old daughter he had not seen in as many years both pressed hard against the chain link prison fence, wanting desperately to embrace but unable to.

Elizabeth Anne Bullard had never seen her father, not that she could remember. And Thursday she saw him for the first time through a prison fence that separates Bullard from Society.

Elizabeth Anne had traveled from Atlanta to Whiteville to see her father.

"He's my daddy and I always have and will love him even though I've never know him," she said after the tearful reunion. "It makes no difference that he's in prison, because he's my daddy."

"To be with Elizabeth Anne means so much," Bullard said as he embraced the daughter he had not seen since his wife left him 15 years ago.

Elizabeth Anne was six months old then. And Bullard said "a family quarrel" resulted in the separation.

"I searched in vain for them, but couldn't find them. I've lost so much and it's been so long. Seeing her now makes getting out so much more important. Her love, knowing that she wants to see me and that I can see her now, gives me something to really look forward to."

Bullard almost saw his

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market staged a moderate technical rally today in extremely light trading.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 3.36 at 820.40, and gainers took a 5-3 lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers were inclined to read little significance into the advance since it came amid some of the lightest trading of the year.

They said investors might have drawn some encouragement from the Wall Street Journal report that a decision had been made at the Federal Reserve to stand as a lender of last resort to financially troubled New York City.

At midmorning, Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Fed, said there was "no basis whatever" for the report.

But it appeared some investors were still putting credence in the story.

Reliance Group's preferred C shares led the NYSE's most-active list, up 3/4 at 10 1/2. A 163,000-share block of the issue changed hands at that price.

Inexo Oil jumped a point to 6 1/2 in active trading. The company reported results of recent uranium drilling tests at a site in north Saskatchewan.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks gained .15 to 45.79 in the first hour.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index picked up .07 to 85.92.

Jurors Acquitted

In closing arguments Thursday, chief defense counsel Jerry Paul said Miss Little was an instrument for attaining justice for black women. He said he felt God had called him into the case.

"She was a hero, because she stood up for what was right and she had the courage to come back and tell you about it," Paul said.

Beaufort County Dist. Atty. William Griffin accused the defense of putting up smoke screens in an attempt to confuse the jury with alternate theories.

"I ask you only to do one thing, not to try this case on sympathy, but to try it on facts," Griffin said to the jury.

He said Miss Little's story, "doesn't wash. It's like a sieve that doesn't hold water."

Griffin theorized that Miss Little waited until Alligood was weakened by sexual excitement and then stabbed him to gain her freedom.

"There was a sexual act going on and at the moment of ecstasy, the petite death," she let him have it," Griffin said.

The prosecution sought to portray Miss Little as calm and calculating at the time of the slaying.

They backed up that contention with the testimony of a telephone operator who said a person who identified herself as Miss Little made a collect call from the jail in Washington, N.C., between 3 a.m. and 4 a.m.

Special prosecutor John Wilkinson said Miss Little stabbed the jailer then went to his office and used the phone to inform her friends in Chapel Hill that she was out of jail and wanted help.

The visit was to have been in return for a state visit to Britain two years ago by Gen. Yakubu Gowon, overthrown in a military coup last month.

The trip was postponed by agreement between the British and Nigerian governments and no revised date set, the British spokesman said Thursday.

Royal Couple Postpone Visit

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II and her husband, Prince Philip, have postponed their planned visit to Nigeria in October, a Buckingham Palace spokesman says.

The visit was to have been in return for a state visit to Britain two years ago by Gen. Yakubu Gowon, overthrown in a military coup last month.

The trip was postponed by agreement between the British and Nigerian governments and no revised date set, the British spokesman said Thursday.

Final Planning Meet Sunday

The final planning meeting for the reunion of the Eppes High School class of 1965 will be held Sunday.

The meeting will be held at the home of Hattie Spain Crandall, 515 Vance St., beginning at 6 p.m.

All class members are urged to be present.

IT'S A WHOPPER—Mrs. James H. Smith of 307 S. Eastern St., likes to grow plants in her back yard. Early this spring she planted an "Elephant Ear" plant which in its natural habitat grows very large. Mrs. Smith holds two of the giant leaves on one of the two plants she has. The leaves measure 32 inches wide and 47 inches long. According to a local nurseryman, this size is very unusual for the area, since the plant is found usually in the tropics. # Portugal's Communist Tanker Burns In Party Offers To Share

LISBON (AP) — Communist leader Alvaro Cunhal says his party is willing to cooperate with any other political party to solve Portugal's political and military crisis.

Cunhal made his offer at a Thursday night rally, while less than two miles away some 20,000 Socialists marched through the streets demanding the immediate resignation of Communist-backed Premier Vasco Gonçalves.

Cunhal, who said he set no preconditions for dialogue, pleaded for unity to hold back "a wave of Fascist violence."

He accused Socialist party leaders of feeding what he called "counter-revolutionary fervor" but said "the Communist party is ready to cooperate with everyone and any party who realizes the seriousness of the situation."

Three weeks of anti-Communist violence has left four persons dead, dozens injured and almost 50 party offices in ruins.

Cincinnati Shows No Respect For Pirates

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
Sparky Anderson says you still have to treat the Pittsburgh Pirates with respect ... but what George Foster and Gary Nolan did to them was downright impudent.

21st homers of the season Thursday night to drive in five runs and Gary Nolan muffed the Pirates' bats on just four hits in eight innings as Anderson's Cincinnati Reds cruised to a 6-1 victory.

broke up his perfect game and no-hitter with a leadoff single in the sixth inning, then ruined Nolan's shutout with a homer in the eighth. Will McEnaney took over in the ninth and got the final three outs with no trouble.

Sports Briefs

CHICAGO (AP) — Retired Chicago Daily News columnist John P. Carmichael will be inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., Monday.

Carmichael, 73, gained national fame for his column, "The Barber Shop," which he still writes occasionally for the Daily News. He officially retired from the newspaper in 1972 after 41 years as a sportswriter and now works as the community relations representative of the Chicago White Sox.

Carmichael will be inducted into the Writer's Division of the Hall of Fame Monday and will be presented the J.G. Taylor Spink Award, which was named after the founder of "The Sporting News."

DENVER (AP) — The Denver Nuggets and National Basketball Association champion Golden State Warriors will play a home-and-home pre-season series in October, officials of the American Basketball Association team announced Thursday.

The Nuggets will meet the Warriors at the Oakland Coliseum-Arena on Oct. 10. The following night, Golden State will play in the new McNichols Sports Arena here as part of an ABA-NBA doubleheader. The other game of the twinbill will match the ABA's Utah Stars and the NBA's Kansas City Kings.

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Assistant Football Coach Steve Kazor has resigned from the University of Texas at Arlington staff to accept a job coaching the defensive line at Colorado State University, it was announced Thursday.

Kazor, a graduate of Westminster College in Utah, coached at Camden Military Academy in South Carolina and was head coach at the College of Emporia in Kansas before coming to UTA in 1974.

CHICAGO (AP) — Eight Eastern colleges have adopted a constitution for a new basketball league, to be known as the Eastern Independent Collegiate Basketball League (EICBL).

Athletic directors of Duquesne, George Washington, Massachusetts, Penn State, Pittsburgh, Rutgers, Villanova and West Virginia approved the charter Thursday and agreed to begin play in the 1976-77 season.

The directors, in Chicago for the National Collegiate Athletic Association meetings, said they will petition the NCAA for an automatic qualifying spot in the 1976-77 championship tourney.

Drills Pleasing Rose Coach

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
It is only August 15, but already, Rose High School's Rampants have gone through two full weeks of football practice, and they have three more to go before they play their opening game of the season.

It's a long practice period, but Coach Dave Bumgarner feels that a lot is being accomplished, and that it is one of the best things that has happened to the Rampant program in years.

"Normally, after our week of conditioning, we have had about 2½ weeks of actual practice to get ready," Bumgarner said. "This year, we have four weeks, and the extra time has enabled us to accomplish so much more than we have been able to do in the past."

Bumgarner said the coaching staff has not had to rush to put in the kicking game, passing, and the line. "It's been ideal for us," he said.

So well have things gone that Bumgarner has cancelled some scheduled practice sessions. "And the players have complained about it," he added.

"This way our practices are well planned and organized. We considered in advance the possibility of rain or of a heat wave. This would have really hurt us with a short practice. Drills have been much more relaxed and we've been working at our own pace. The kids who have jobs have been able to stay on them longer since most of our practices have been late in the day. I'm really pleased with the way it's gone."

Bumgarner admitted that the possibility of getting stale is there, but he really doesn't feel that it will happen. "We've taught more this year than ever before, and the players like it."

So far, too, there haven't been many surprises or disappointments for the coach. The defending Division I champs have some holes to fill, but they've got a lot of veterans returning too.

The backfield, for instance, returns two fulltime starters, and two others who played a lot, one a sometime starter. Quarterback Henry Trevathan returns for his third year, while hard-running fullback Doug Paschal is also a senior. Joining them in the backfield are letterman Dave Davis, who switched from quarterback, and sometime starter last year William Joyner. "We have three or four others who could come in and get the job done too," Bumgarner said.

The line has experience in Joe Godette, Ronnie Goodall, Eddie Connolly, and Mike Murad. Derek Brewington, a junior, will likely move into the line also.

The ends are the most inexperienced part of the offense. "It's been a problem so far. Trevathan's passing has improved and he's been hitting the ends consistently. Only now, they're just not holding onto the ball."

and Jay Chener at linebacker, and Harry Pair in the secondary.

"Overall, we really have more

Defensively, the Rampants return John Mallow and Phil Gibbs in the line, Howard Hill, Rocky Butler, Mike Brewington experience than ever before. We're going to be playing a lot of people," the coach said. "We'll keep about 50 on the varsity, mostly juniors and seniors. Right now we are thinking of only three sophomores, Mike Joyner and Robert Williams, both running backs, and Jeff Aldridge, who'll be our backup quarterback."

Rose will continue to work as they prepare for their opener with Goldsboro on September 5. This coming Friday, August 22, they will hold a scrimmage in Ficklen Stadium against South View of Fayetteville at 7:30 p.m. That scrimmage will be open to the public.

Bucs Set To Open Practice

The largest contingent ever of would-be East Carolina University football players report to camp tonight. Head coach Pat Dye, entering his second year with the Pirates, is expecting approximately 140 candidates.

The Pirates will not begin actual workouts until Monday. For at least six days the candidates will be facing three-a-day workouts. The second week of work is expected to revert back to normal two-a-day practices.

East Carolina will open the 1975 season against rival N.C. State in Raleigh at Carter Stadium. Last season, the Pack ripped the Pirates 24-20 in a contest on regional television. This year's opener is set for 7 p.m.

Dye points out that defense is his staff's major concern for fall practice.

"We have no winners up front on defense or a linebacker," says Dye. "It's a must that we find some. That's the reason we're going three-a-day to start with. I'm going to find the players who can and want to play. If it's not but 25, then it'll be only 25 going to Raleigh. I won't make the mistake again this year of working with players that aren't willing to put it all on the line."

While the defense presents grave problems, Dye can relax just a bit when thinking of his offense. All interior linemen return, including All-Southern Conference tackle Ricky Bennett and guard Jimbo Walker. In the backfield, two-year leading ground gainer, Kenny Strayhorn returns, along with masterful quarterback Mike Weaver. The two will lead the wishbone attack in '75.

"I'm eager to get this year underway," said Dye. "Some of our players have worked very hard during the off season. We are bigger, quicker and stronger. But overall we have so many question marks facing us. However, I promise you we will be in better shape than any of our opponents and we will be competitive come kickoff time. We won't be embarrassed by, or afraid of, any opponent."

Dye's team will face the most demanding schedule in the school's history, playing three members of the ACC (N. C. State, North Carolina, Virginia) on the road, along with six Southern Conference teams, Southern Illinois and Western Carolina.

Dial-A-Pirate

It's now possible to keep tabs on East Carolina University athletics day or night, seven days a week. "Dial-A-Pirate" has come to the East Carolina campus.

"Dial-A-Pirate" is a recorded telephone message which may be dialed at any time. The two-minute messages will contain comments from the coaches on past games, up-coming games, players comments, player interviews, ticket information, game summaries and score from around the Southern Conference.

The "Dial-A-Pirate" number is (919) 758-6900.

Leading Isn't Biggest Thrill

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — He's an obscure little club pro who had just shot himself a smooth seven-under-par 64 and, in probably the biggest surprise of the season on the pro golf tour, owned the first-round lead in the $200,000 Greater Hartford Open.

Pretty exciting for Dannie Meyer, right? Thrilling stuff. Leading a pro tournament and shooting 64 and going for a $40,000 first prize. It's got to be exciting, nervous-making, right?

"It does not compare with playing with Arnold Palmer," said Dannie Meyer. "That was the highlight of my golfing career."

Meyer, a 31-year-old pro at a public course outside Palm Springs, Calif., played with Palmer last week in the third round of the PGA National Championship.

"I played with Palmer and I lived through it," the still awestruck Meyer said Thursday. "This is a cupcake after that. I don't think I'll ever be nervous again."

Meyer, cool, calm and collected as could be in this, only his sixth tour event of the year — and maybe his last — scored eight birdies, one-potted 10 times and once holed a breaking, curling, 40-foot sidehill putt to saving here but last week Dave Stockton (the defending champion in this event) told me it was a pretty short course.

I'm not a very long hitter and I figured if it was short, well, maybe I'd have a chance to make the cut."

And that's still his objective. He really doesn't entertain any thoughts of winning the tournament or staying on the tour. He's going home as soon as this one is over.

"I've got a nice home and a nice wife and a nice family," he said. "I don't think I want to try it on the tour unless something unforeseen and unexpected happens — like winning the tournament."

Meyer held a one-stroke lead over his playing partner, rookie tourist Austin Straub, and Don Bies, tied at 65.

The group at 66, five under par on the tight, little 6,598 yard Wethersfield Country Club course, was made up of J.C. Snead, Hubert Green, Mike Hill, Andy North and David Glenz.

U.S. Open champion Lou Graham topped a group at 67. Johnny Miller birdied two of his last three holes for a 69 and was tied at that figure with Gary Player and Stockton. Lee Trevino fought to a 72, eight strokes back of the surprise leader, and must improve if he is to make the cut for the last two rounds.

Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf, Bruce Crampton and four-time Hartford winner Billy Casper are not competing.

Decision Won't Be A Quick One

NEW YORK (AP) — It became clear Thursday that there will be no quick decision by the National Labor Relations Board on the charges of unfair labor practices by the National Football League's club owners.

NLRB Chief Examiner Charles W. Schneider heard testimony from Houston Oilers defensive end Elvin Bethea and Minneapolis attorney Dan T. Lindsay Thursday, the seventh and eighth witnesses in a case which began Monday and will last until October at least.

The NFL club owners have been charged by the NFL Players Association with 15 unfair labor practices stemming from the player strike before the 1974 season.

Bethea completed his testimony, begun late Wednesday, that center Bill Curry — at the time of the strike the president of the NFLPA — was the best center on the Oilers when dropped by the team. NFLPA lawyers charged that it was Curry's position with the player group, not a knee injury suffered the season before, that led to Curry's departure from the club.

Lindsay, an attorney working for the NFLPA at the time of the strike, gave evidence on the situation at the training camp of the St. Louis Cardinals during the strike. The Cardinals, Kansas City Chiefs and Dallas Cowboys have been charged by the NFLPA as having denied the group proper access to rookies during the strike.

Defense attorney Don T. Pace, on behalf of the owners, had not completed his cross-examination of Lindsay when the weekend recess was called. In deference to the heavy weekend schedules of the players and coaches involved, the court schedule calls for hearings on Tuesday through Thursday until player-coach testimony is completed.

Attorney Thomas T. Trunkes of the NLRB, representing the public's interest in the matter, estimated that the players' presentation would last at least two weeks more. The owners' counsel could take at least that long, then 35 more days are permitted for the lawyers to write their summations of the proceedings before Schneider begins deliberation and makes final judgement on each of the NFLPA charges.

Hey! Tigers Didn't Lose!

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

The Detroit Tigers didn't lose Thursday. They didn't play, either, and it may be just as well. The Bengals' fans, just like the players, have lost patience after 18 consecutive losing days.

"Is it true they're going to put paper bags on the seats at Tiger Stadium like they do on airplanes?" asked one frustrated fan in a letter to a Detroit newspaper.

"No, not true at all" was the printed reply. "It's the garbage on the field that's the problem."

Another reader said, "The Tigers should be charged with fraud for impersonating a professional baseball team."

The charges were pending as the Tigers boarded a plane for — no, not oblivion, but for Anaheim, Calif. Against the Angels tonight, Detroit will try to break the 18-game losing string that has brought them within two of the American League record and five of the modern major league mark held by the 1961 Philadelphia Phillies.

"There's no question that the attitude that has built up this last week on the team is that we gotta win this game tonight," said Tigers Manager Ralph Houk. "No one likes to lose a ball game. All losses are frustrating. One isn't more frustrating than another. It hasn't gotten to what are called Dog Days yet."

But the kennel beckons. The Angels have a one-game winning streak.

California rode a five-run third inning to a 5-3 triumph over the Boston Red Sox Thursday night, and elsewhere, the Oakland A's topped the New York Yankees 5-1 and the Chicago White Sox tripped the Cleveland Indians 6-4 in an abbreviated American League schedule.

Angels 5, Red Sox 3
A two-run double by Jerry Remy and a two-run single by Lee Stanton keyed a five-run third inning and backed Bill Singer's first victory since June 9 as California beat Boston for the second time in three games.

Red Sox rookie Fred Lynn had two RBI, raising his league-leading total to 85.

White Sox 6, Indians 4
Pat Kelly cracked a home run and a two-run triple to power Chicago past Cleveland for Jim Kaat's 17th victory.

Kelly's eighth home run of the season came in the seventh inning to tie the game at 4-4 before doubles by Jorge Orta and Deron Johnson gave Chicago a 5-4 lead.

John Ellis and Rico Carty cracked solo home runs off Kaat. Bill Stein launched one for the White Sox.

A's 5, Yankees 1
Bill North's tie-breaking single in the eighth and sloppy New York fielding led to a four-run inning and lifted Oakland to victory. The crowd of 14,140 gave the A's a season home attendance of 853,455 — more than 8,000 over their total for last season.

Dick Bosman pitched a five-hitter to beat Rudy May, who has received a total of five runs in support over his last four games.

ONE THAT DIDN'T SINK—Johnny Miller looks pained as he watches his try for a birdie come up short on the first green at Wethersfield Country Club Thursday during the opening round of the Greater Hartford Open. Miller's luck changed, however, and with birdies on the 16th and 17th, he finished at 2-under-par 69. (AP Wirephoto)

Jets Seek To Bolster Their Defensive Unit

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Joe Namath is under contract once again. All's right with the world.

Or is it? After all, in 1974 the New York Jets' charismatic quarterback eluded the injuries that had dogged him in previous seasons and the National Football League team still wound up with a mediocre 7-7 record thanks only to a six-game winning streak.

The Jets, whose hallmark for so many years was protecting Namath in the passing pocket at all costs, seemed to run into linemen who had exactly the same idea when it came to their own quarterbacks. On an unnerving number of occasions, the opposition passers had all the time in the world to stand back, find an open receiver and unload a back-breaking bomb.

As a result, the Jets wound up 24th in the 26-team league in total defense and 23rd in passing defense.

With that in mind, three of the Jets' top four choices in the annual college draft were for defensive stars. The first choice and fourth, in fact, were not choices at all. They were trades.

New York gave its No. 1 pick to New Orleans and, in return, received defensive end Billy Newsome, rated as one of the league's top pass rushers, the Saints' most valuable player in 1973 and their defensive captain that year and last. And No. 4 went to Baltimore for end Jim Bailey.

The third choice was used to pick up linebacker Richard Wood, the first three-time All-American in the history of the University of Southern California.

The No. 2 pick didn't work out so well. The Jets went for a glamour name, running back Anthony Davis of the Southern Cal — and Davis wound up signing with Southern California of the World Football League.

But the Jets have a pair of solid running backs in John Riggins and Emerson Boozer, who rushed for 680 and 563 yards respectively last year when they each sat out games with injuries. Behind them are Mike Adame, Hank Bjorklund, Jazz Jackson and, from Houston, Bob Gresham.

Namath, when he's healthy and not throwing interceptions — he threw 22 of them last year to go with his 20 touchdown passes — has a wealth of receivers headed by Jerome Barkum, Richard Caster, David Knight and Eddie Bell.

The key to the Jets' success will be in the trenches and in the defensive secondary. Tackles Robert Woods and Winston Hill, guards Randy Rasmussen and Gary Puetz and center Wayne Mulligan anchor the offensive line.

Newsome, Bailey or Ed Galt, Carl Barzilauskas and Richard Neal will lead the defensive line charges, backed up by linebackers Godwin Turk — succeeding the retired Ralph Baker — Jamie Rivers and Rich Lewis at the linebacker spots, with John Ebersole and rookie Wood in reserve.

Delles Howell, Rich Sowell, Roscoe Word and Earlie Thomas will be contending for the cornerback slots and Burgess Owens, Phil Wise and Steve Tannen will be dueling for the two starting safety jobs.

The National League made it four in a row and 12 out of 13 when it beat the American League 6-3 in the 1975 All-Star game in Milwaukee.

Music Didn't Mix With Sport

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — William Julius Johnson never became much of a trombone player. A different sound, the infectious melody of baseball, caught his ear.

"The street I was living on faced the playground," said the 75-year-old Johnson of his boyhood days in Snow Hill, Md. "I'd be trying to practice my trombone, but I'd hear the other kids yelling, 'Slide! Slide!' and I'd just have to put it down."

"Notes and baseball just don't mix."

So with a hand-me-down glove gift from his father, young William started a career that led right to the Hall of Fame. He'll be honored there Monday as the sixth man selected by the Committee on the Negro Leagues.

"The glove, well, it was raggedy as an old mop. It wasn't much bigger than the gloves people wore in the winter to keep their hands warm. Kids at that time didn't have such a thing as a glove."

"Baseballs cost a nickel — a 'nickle rock' they called it — and a better ball cost a quarter. After a bunch of us would form a team, we'd buy a ball. You could play nine innings with it if it didn't get wet."

You could play nine innings with a white man as your teammate — something that didn't happen in the major leagues.

"When we'd play in the playground, it didn't matter if you were White or Negro, as long as you wanted to play. Saturdays were the big games. Saturdays it would be White vs. Negro," he recalled by phone from his Maryland home.

"I asked Connie Mack once why they didn't have Negroes in the major leagues. He said there were just too many of us to come in all at once."

So it was a Negro League career that brought fame to Johnson, a smooth third baseman. "All the records show is that I hit .300," he says. "The team secretary was driving the bus most of the time, and a lot of records didn't get down on paper."

The bus brought Johnson's barnstorming teams to places like Darby, Pa. and Atlantic City, N.J. "Sometimes we'd use two cars — nine guys to a car — to get from place to place. It was torture."

He started with a team called the Chester Giants for $5 per game, then came the Hilldals.

"The Hilldale club was in Darby; they played Thursdays and Saturdays; then we'd go to Atlantic City on Sunday because the crowds were bigger."

The crowds were good, the money wasn't. "My first professional contract with Hilldale, I made $150 a month." He graduated to $500 a month when serving as player-manager of the famed Homestead Grays.

"That was big money in those days."

Mack signed Johnson as a coach for his Philadelphia A's in the early 1950s, some 15 years after his Negro League career had come to an end. He later worked with the A's two black players, Vic Power and Bob Trice, never begrudging the fact that they had made the majors.

It took a while, but he's in the real majors now.

Fireworks Seen As Proposals Considered

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association prepared for some wordy battles today over recruiting and the size of coaching and income distribution in a continuing attempt to combat the skyrocketing costs of intercollegiate sports.

The final day of the second special convention in NCAA history seemed certain to provide more fireworks than Thursday's opening business session, which consisted mainly of chopping major athletic schools from 105 scholarships to 95 in football at any one time and from 18 to 15 in basketball.

The delegates also: —Cut football grants in Division II from 105 to 60 and in basketball from 18 to 12.

—Trimmed the total number of athletic scholarships in minor and non-revenue sports — everything except football and basketball — from 209 to 80 at any one time in Division I.

—Passed a resolution instructing the policy-making NCAA Council to prepare a comprehensive plan for establishing a financial-aid program based on need.

However, a proposal to do away with all athletic scholarships was withdrawn by the sponsoring Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

"We didn't achieve all we hoped for, but there were several encouraging signs," said John A. Fuzak, president of the NCAA and associate dean of the School for Advanced Studies at Michigan State University.

However, Dr. Stephen Horn, president of Long Beach State University, who sponsored several proposals that raised the hackles of the major football schools, said the convention, "failed on one of the major issues," by only cutting Division I football scholarships from 105 to 95.

Dr. Horn had proposed eliminating all initial football scholarships — the limit was kept at 30 in any one year, but no more than 95 at one time — while slicing the total number of such grants-in-aid to a maximum of 65 by Sept. 1, 1978.

The current figures of 30 and 105 were adopted at the NCAA's annual convention in January, 1974, but the 105 limit wouldn't have taken effect until the 1977 season. Most coaches at major schools opposed the reduction to 95, but weren't overly upset.

Some of the legislation to be voted on today would:

—Limit the number of coaches in football to seven assistants, plus two part-timers, and in basketball to one and one.

—Reduce the size of game squads and the lengths of seasons.

—Share the wealth of football and basketball bowls and television income.

—Limit off-campus recruiting in football from Dec. 1 to the first Saturday in February and in baseball from Feb. 15 to the second Saturday in April.

—Limit off-campus contact with a prospect to two visits.

—Limit the number of expense-paid campus visits to 75 prospects in football and 12 in basketball.

—Limit a prospect to visit four institutions.

erally encouraging signs," said John A. Fuzak, president of the NCAA and associate dean of the School for Advanced Studies at Michigan State University.

Right Decision

MIAMI (AP) — "I'm 100 per cent positive I made the right decision," says running back Donny Anderson, who retired and left the Miami Dolphins training camp rather than put his 32-year-old legs through another season.

"I always like to think I'm a front runner," Anderson said Thursday. "And when you're finished, you're finished."

"It would be disappointing for me if I was put into a situation where I had to perform for Coach (Don) Shula and I didn't do it. It would be very humiliating for me."

Anderson's career included 54 National Football League touchdowns. He signed a $600,000 contract with the Green Bay Packers in 1966, which was the highest ever negotiated at that time, moved to St. Louis six years later and came to Miami last year in a trade for wide receiver Marlin Briscoe.

In nine NFL seasons, Anderson gained 4,696 yards rushing and 2,548 yards on pass receptions. He averaged 39.6 yards in punting.

But he was one of nine running backs in the Dolphins camp and his chances of making the team appeared slim.

Anderson said the fact his wife, Karen, was in Dallas expecting their second child at any time contributed to his decision.

"She and my family are the most important things in my life," he said. "They always have been, they always will."

"One of the things I weighed was the injury factor," he said. "I don't want to be 50 and crippled so I can't support my family or play golf or go fishing or whatever."

"There's more to life than playing football and stretching it out as long as you can. I've got investments, real estate, insurance. I wouldn't be lost without football."

He said he knew he no longer had the speed to go outside on sweeps, so his value as a runner was diminished.

"That's not good," he said. "You're really cheating yourself and cheating your teammates."

Gomez Asks About Future

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros Manager Preston Gomez says he has asked new General Manager Tal Smith for a quick decision before the end of the present home stand, concerning his future as manager.

"Every day, it seems, there is some rumor in the paper about me," Gomez told Joe Heiling of the Beaumont, Tex., Enterprise, "that I am going to be fired ... that somebody else is going to be named manager to replace me."

"I just hope Tal makes a decision before this home stand ends," said Gomez, rumored on the way out much of the season. "I think it's only fair for everybody concerned — for me, my coaches and for the organization. It's not good to wait until the middle of September to make a change — if that's what he wants."

The current home stand ends next Wednesday with a three-game series against the New York Mets.

Smith, named last week as general manager of the Astros, was in New York Thursday night and unavailable for comment.

Houston, with a 45-78 won-lost average, is mired in the basement of the National League West, 36½ games out of first place.

Gomez may already have been offered another job in baseball but he denies it.

"I can't talk to anybody else until something happens here," he said. "It's against the rules."

But if Gomez does lose his job as manager, he could wind up with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"Walter O'Malley told me when I was manager of the San Diego Padres that before I ever take a job, I should call them first," Gomez said. "I am sure this invitation still stands, but I have not talked to anybody about my situation. I can't until Tal makes a decision."

Orantes Wins Another Round

TORONTO (AP) — Manuel Orantes, winner of the U.S. Clay Court title last week, is continuing — with a vengeance — his winning ways.

Orantes was lacking in neither skill nor stamina Thursday, emerging the victor in a tripleheader of sorts that saw the aggressive Spaniard down Jan Kamiwazumi of Japan 6-2, 6-4 in second-round play, and then advance by defeating American Norman Holmes 6-2, 6-0 in a third-round match. Finally, he joined with countryman Juan Gisbert to overcome Britons Gerald Battrick and Graham Stillwell 4-6, 7-5, 6-4 in men's doubles.

Ilie Nastase of Romania likewise had a busy day, topping Thomas Koch of Brazil 6-2, 6-2 and then teaming up with Czech Jan Kodes for a doubles triumph.

in women's third round singles. 19-year-old Dianne Fromholtz of Australia, who spent three months last year studying under fellow countrywoman Margaret Court, posted a 6-3, 3-6, 6-2 upset over her top-seeded teacher.

Meanwhile, the top two seeds in the $50,000 Buckeye Tennis Championships in Columbus, Ohio, scored easy victories.

Stan Smith, the No. 1 seed, breezed by Ken McMillan 6-4, 6-2, and second-seeded Bob Lutz ousted Mike Estep 6-1, 6-3.

However, unheralded Jim Delaney surprised third-seeded Karl Meiler of West Germany 7-6, 6-3 and Sherwood Stewart upset sixth-seeded Ulrich Pinner of West Germany 6-3, 6-0.

Fifth-seeded Tom Gorman was pushed to three sets before turning back the upset bid of Anand Armitraj of India 5-7, 7-5, 7-6.

Says Dr. King's Name Exploited

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
ANNISTON, Ala. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Sr. told the Southern Christian Leadership Conference Thursday night that his son's name had been exploited by some for millions of dollars.

The 75-year-old Baptist minister told the national convention of SCLC which his civil rights leader son founded 18 years ago:

"Millions of dollars are raised in the name of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., saying it would be used to keep alive this organization and to help keep alive the Martin Luther King Jr. Center for Social Change.

"I'm going to tell you—a bigger lie has never been told. "If that had been true, this organization would be financially sound," King said to heavy applause from nearly 2,000 persons.

King said he and his family would not turn to legal remedies. "We're going to move in on this exploitation." He declined to elaborate.

Then, King, who ended his 44-year ministry at Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta two weeks ago, said, "I'm a one-time pastor of the church. Now I'm pastor of the world."

King was then presented with a special SCLC award.

Earlier, Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., was presented the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. award for his chairmanship of the House Judiciary Committee during the Nixon impeachment hearings a year ago.

At an afternoon session during the four-day meeting, a Black Muslim minister advised SCLC delegates to "wake up and realize the civil rights movement has just begun."

Dr. Na'im Akbar of Chicago said, "The rank and file are not better off than when we started. We have to go back to the streets."

Akbar said he was not talking about street riots but advocated gaining "control of your own mind. We are a race of sleepwalkers. We are asleep and we don't know it."

This was the first time a national SCLC convention has been addressed by a Black Muslim, a spokesman for the SCLC said.

An official of the National Education Association said that school desegregation in the South has caused a heavy displacement of black principals and teachers.

Dr. Sam Ethridge, director of NEA's teacher program in Washington said that 32,000 black teachers and 2,235 black principals have been displaced in 17 southern and border states.

"This does not mean they were fired," he said. "It means that black teachers who resigned or retired in some instances were not replaced."

Ethridge added, "The North is guilty, too." He said statistics showed that New York state and Boston had displaced black teachers as much as southern states.

Ethridge said that Boston and New York with their many universities should be "citadels of democracy, paragons of virtue, and epitomes of American democracy at work instead of being the graveyard of the yellow school bus."

Provisional Govm't Of Angola Now Disbanded

By FENTON WHEELER
Associated Press Writer
LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portugal has disbanded Angola's provisional government and resumed direct control of the war-torn colony after feuding between rival liberation movements pushed the territory to the brink of full-scale civil war.

However, a high official said today that Lisbon still intends to give the West African colony independence in November.

Vasco Viera Almeida, economy minister in the defunct administration, said Lisbon decided to take over control of the colony late Thursday "precisely to save independence for Angola. We will make every effort to see that the colony gets its independence on Nov. 11."

In Luanda, a military commune said many people had been killed in heavy fighting in southern Angola involving all three rival factions. It gave no casualty figures.

Heavy weapons were employed in the fighting at Lobito, Angola's largest port, and ships left the port to seek safety, sources said.

Shortly after Almeida flew to Lisbon from Angola, the high commissioner in the Angolan capital of Luanda, Gen. Ferreira do Macedo, announced that he had "resumed responsibility for the administration of Angola in the name of the Portuguese republic."

He said he acted "in the absence of any functioning government and under the Alvor agreement" signed in January by Portugal and the three liberation groups.

Almeida met in Lisbon with President Francisco da Costa Gomes and Premier Vasco Goncalves on Thursday and told reporters later, "In Angola, there is no government."

Almeida was one of Portugal's representatives in the transitional government, dominated by members of the colony's liberation movements — the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA), the National Front for the Liberation of Angola (FNLA) and the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola (UNITA).

Luanda radio reported that UNITA and FNLA have joined forces and taken control of Lobito Airport, but it gave no further details.

Sec. Of Navy Is An Entertainer

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — J. William Middendorf III is the first secretary of the Navy to perform in public as a big, brown bear.

Some of his admirals frowned at the performance Thursday night. There was some question whether his boss, Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger, thought it was such a good idea.

But some 7,000 kids and their parents seemed to love it.

And a beaming Middendorf obviously had a great time as the star of a Navy band "Lollipop concert" — even though his shabby-looking rented suit was a little constricting here and there.

It actually was a double event for the unconventional Middendorf.

A composer of seven symphonies, he heard his "Lollipop March" played for the first time — by an orchestra of 30 boys and girls blaring away on kazooes, blowing whistles and banging on wooden spoons.

The 6-foot-4, 220-pound Middendorf seemed a bit nervous as he squeezed into his bear suit behind the scenery.

"If Schlesinger could only see me now," he murmured as his face disappeared into the bear's head.

Then came his big moment. "A lollipop bear is on the loose!" the Navy band announcer shouted into a microphone.

That was Middendorf's cue to high-step onto the open-air stage in front of the Jefferson Memorial.

He capered. He cavorted. He snatched the band leader's baton and flourished it through a few bars of music.

Then he picked up a barrel full of lollipops and threw handful into the air as hundreds of youngsters almost buried him in a rush to pick up the candy.

It was over in minutes and Middendorf ducked behind the scenery again after pulling off the bear's head and taking a bow.

Sweat streamed down his face as he reached for a can of beer.

"Now I've got to get back and start working on aircraft carriers again," he sighed.

Winterville's Population Up

WINTERVILLE—The population of the Town of Winterville has increased from 1,430 in 1970, to 1,750 through 1974.

According to Town Clerk Elwood Nobles, the population figure came from the State Office of Planning. The increased population figure will help the town in acquiring more funds from state and federal sources State Powell Bill.

Nobles said the town's population increased only by 10 persons from 1960 until 1970 so the increase in population during the past four years will be a great asset to the town.

Warn Miami Beach On Way To A 'Ghost Town'

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — This resort city will become a ghost town unless money is spent, and spent soon, to attract more out-of-towners, leaders of the tourist industry warn.

"We are begging you people," Herbert Schiffman, head of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees Association, told the City Council Thursday. "Unless we all get together, we are not going to have a Miami Beach, and I don't think you want to preside over a ghost town."

Visitors are deserting the city this summer, the council was told. The tourist industry officials urged councilmen to approve emergency funding for beach restoration, a national publicity campaign and new attractions to lure tourists.

They asked also for tax relief for hotel renovation.

"A majority of our hotels are in such bad physical shape that it's hard to attract the conventions you want," said convention consultant Art Weider.

"You've heard about the hotels that are closed. But you may not know that possibly a dozen more are on the verge, trying to beat the wolves away from the door."

Many speakers said restoration of the city's eroded beaches is the top priority in the campaign to attract tourist dollars. They urged councilmen to examine the county treasury, federal revenue-sharing aid or the city's general fund as possible sources for a $2 million advance to keep a beach restoration project going.

The federal government, which was expected to fund the bulk of the project, has balked at advancing money in this tight budget year, officials said.

There was one bright spot in the generally bleak tourism picture Thursday. City officials said national Republican leaders are considering Miami Beach as a site for the 1976 GOP convention.

But Joel Gray, president of the Southern Florida Hotel and Motel Association, said more immediate help is needed.

"Tourism is sick on Miami Beach and needs remedies now before it is too late," Gray said. "We need help and we need it now. Next year is going to be a little too late."

Recent hotel occupancy and other tourism figures were not available.

Joins Local Law Office

Edward J. Harper II, a Snow Hill native, has entered the general practice of law with the firm of Everett and Cheathan in Greenville.

A 1971 graduate of East Carolina University, Harper entered the Wake Forest Law School where he graduated, with honors, in 1974.

While at Wake Forest, Harper served on the Board of Editors for the Wake Forest Law Review and had two articles published in the periodical.

Before entering private practice here earlier this month, Harper served as a research assistant for North Carolina Supreme Court Justice Joseph Branch.

Single, Harper is a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Francis Harper of Snow Hill.

Hunt Offers Crime Ideas

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt offered a list of crime-fighting suggestions Thursday which included compensation for crime victims and an endorsement of capital punishment in cases of premeditated murder.

Speaking at a Charlotte civic club, Hunt said he felt crime was the social problem foremost on the minds of North Carolinians.

"I fully believe that unless an all-out effort to control crime is made in America today, crime and the criminals who commit it are going to destroy this country," he declared.

Hunt, considered a likely candidate for the democratic gubernatorial nomination in 1976, also advocated trials within 90 days, less discretion for judges and stiffer punishments for crimes.

Saying his proposals were "unfinished" but a step in the right direction, he added, "We absolutely must develop a new and far greater respect for law officers in our society. This is perhaps the most important and yet the hardest thing for us to do in the kind of society that has developed in America."

THE SIZE OF THE CREATURE

No doubt the dinosaur thought—if dinosaurs thought at all—that he was big enough, powerful enough to survive anything. But the dinosaur is extinct.

Man used to think that his brain, his cleverness, his frightening weapons made him a cinch for survival. Now we talk seriously about man's "hope of survival."

No wonder the dinosaur has become fascinating. Poor fellow—so big and powerful and extinct. Surely if he'd had our intelligence and our nuclear war-pile, he'd have made it!

But there's always that gnawing uncertainty—maybe it takes something else!

Come to church and you'll be rubbing shoulders with people who are sure it does. For them, mankind's hope is in the size of the creature... but in his soul.

Charlotte Baker Has Market For 'X-Rated Cakes'

By DENNIS ROGERS
Charlotte News Writer
Written for The AP

CHARLOTTE (AP) — People who walk into Gene McIntyre's bakery in the Park Road Shopping Center are sometimes taken aback by a particular cake in the display counter.

The $10.50 cake with its pale pink icing looks remarkably like the upper portion of a woman's anatomy.

McIntyre makes cakes like that. Some are even more difficult to describe in a family newspaper.

The X-rated one that sits in the counter, drawing strange glances and an occasional snicker is called the Playboy Cake.

"We sell about eight to 10 of them a weekend," McIntyre said. "And its about half and half with men and women."

His wife Betty is in charge of the decorating department and has to deal with the customers, including those who want the Playboy Cake.

"A lot of them giggle when they come in here," she said. "They'll say they want a special kind of cake they heard about and I'll ask them what it looks like.

"A lot of them will giggle and say, 'I really don't want to say' and I usually know which one they mean."

Gene dreamed up the idea of the Playboy Cake a year or so ago as a special order for some male customers who wanted to surprise a friend.

He took two conical baking pans and was off and running.

"I felt funny decorating them at first," said Betty. "But not anymore, although people do tend to stare at me when I'm decorating one of them."

But the Playboy Cake is just the beginning of McIntyre's strange line of pastries.

Last week two slightly embarrassed men walked in and asked for a male version of the Playboy Cake. McIntyre obliged.

"I haven't run into anything yet that I can't do with a cake," he said.

Once the owners of a new motel wanted a cake version of their inn. The cake covered a 4 x 8 foot sheet of plywood and took seven men to carry it from the bakery.

"It had a parking lot with sparking spaces, doors, windows and a roof that looked like gravel and it had a swimming pool with furniture around it," McIntyre said.

McIntyre, a baker for 25 years, finds it easy to whip out cakes that look like a bowling ball and pins, or a motorcycle, a sports car, a bikini-wearing girl, alligators, frogs, tractor-trailers, fire extinguishers, beer bottles or a giant hamburger.

Most customers accept McIntyre's unusual cakes with a sense of humor. But he can remember one call from a woman who thought it improper to display a Playboy Cake in the shop window.

"I told her it wasn't even supposed to be there," he said. "One of our girls put it there by mistake so we just took it out."

"Why just the other day we had a preacher come in and ask Betty what kind of cake that was. She told him it was supposed to be exactly what it looked like and he just stood there and laughed. He thought it was funny."

What was McIntyre's strangest decorating job?

It seems he was in a bar in Danville, Ill. one night having a few when a woman dared him to decorate her like a cake. He went back to the bakery, got his equipment and presto!

"It went pretty good," said McIntyre. "I put pretty roses on her. But she called up the next day complaining about it. She was mad because they had melted."

Learning About Handling Pets

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The dogs are going to school in California. So are cats, rabbits, chickens, hamsters, mice and birds.

A petmobile jointly sponsored by the public schools and the city Animal Regulation Department acquaints students with the proper care and handling of the most common pets. Children are permitted to fondle the animals while two animal control officers pass along bits of useful information on basic pet care.

The students also are warned of dangers in handling strays, and are taught to look for signs of common pet illnesses.

Cites Economic Factor In Prison Experiments

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Dr. Peter B. Meyer, a professor of economic planning at Pennsylvania State University, says medical experimentation on prisoners may result more from economic than social or moral factors.

Dr. Meyer explores the issues of prisoner exploitation in a monograph, "Medical Experimentation on Prisoners," published by the Correctional Economics Center of The American Bar Association.

His study finds that prisoners, by virtue of their incarceration, are willing to participate in experiments and incur risks at rates in excess of five times the voluntarism exhibited by free persons, and with little foreseeable benefit to society as a whole.

"It appears that this imbalance between the social and individual benefits from experimentation exists largely because of the exceptionally low cost of subjects to experimenters granted access to prisons," Dr. Meyer said.

"Reduction of the subsidy provided — having the experimenters bear more of the normal costs of their endeavor — can be seen to reduce this phenomenon."

A secret of winning bridge is to play for every possible chance that might allow you to bring home your contract. South's technique on this hand was impeccable, and he richly deserved his reward.

Once North jump raised his suit, South became interested in slam. The Blackwood Convention was of no use to South on this hand, for even if he found out that North had an ace and two kings, he would not be sure that he did not have two quick losers in one of the minor suits. Therefore, South started his probe with a cue-bid of the ace of spades and, after North showed the ace of clubs, South jumped over game to say that he was interested in slam but had two losers in the unbid suit. North's bid of five no trump showed the king of diamonds, in case the hand should be played in no trump, but South converted to the heart slam.

Fearing a crossruff, West led a trump, and when dummy appeared, it seemed that the club finesse would decide the fate of the contract. However, South managed to improve his chances slightly. He won the king of hearts and cashed the ace of hearts and ace of spades. He then entered dummy with a trump to the jack and cashed the king and queen of spades, discarding two clubs from his hand. Now, he led a low diamond from dummy.

East won the ace, but had no safe exit. A club away from the king would allow declarer to win the queen, while a spade would allow him to ruff in one hand while discarding his club loser from the other.

Note that if either defender had won the ace of diamonds and been able to exit with a diamond, declarer could still have fallen back on a club finesse. The line he chose gave him about a 3 per cent chance (the odds on a 4-1 break are just over 28 per cent, and in one of 10 cases, East will have a singleton ace). However, in this case, that extra 3 per cent meant the difference between making and going down in a slam!

When should you double—for penalty or for take-out? Charles Goren explains all about doubling in his latest book. For a copy, write to "Goren's Doubles," in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 259, Norwood, New Jersey 07648. Enclose $1.25 in cash or checks, payable to NEWS-PAPERBOOKS.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Get out of any groove into which you have sunk and extend your activities far beyond their present boundaries. An open mind is essential if you are to obtain the amazing benefits that can now be yours. Keep active.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Do work impossible on weekdays. Make your home more charming, functional. Follow your hunches which are accurate and make new friends.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You understand how to handle finances, so make the right contacts now. Make your position with attachment more tenable. Avoid a hypocrite.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Talk over joint ventures with partners for intelligent improvement. Fine day also to reconcile with those who've opposed you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get at the duties not possible during work week. Good day for shopping. Buy new clothing to bring out your charm.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Put aside all thoughts of work and have a good time and relieve tensions you are under. Make new, interesting acquaintance.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make home improvements which please kin. That new project can be started with much success. Be an active, interesting person.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are thinking brilliantly and can now get together with associates and make fine plans for the future. Handle correspondence.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Spend part of this day with a good adviser so you know how to improve your financial worth. Put your clever ideas to work.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Getting into activities you enjoy and being with congenials is fine today. Attend group affairs that are pleasurable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Think big if you want to get big now; sit down in the privacy of your study and plan well. A quiet social evening with friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get about socially and make new friendships, renew old ones, and gain respect and affection. Keep away from peculiar conditions.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Handle public matters that bring you more prestige with bigwigs. Take care of any credit matters with wisdom and dispatch.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will relate well with bigwigs early because of the highly tuned subconscious powers here, so be sure to give the best education possible from early youth to enable this progeny to achieve the finest success and prevent him or her from becoming a mere hanger-on, or from becoming frustrated because of not being properly equipped with formal education. Give good spiritual training early, and permit to take part in sports.

Begs Kidnapers For New Sign

By SAMUEL MAULL
Associated Press Writer
YORKTOWN HEIGHTS, N.Y.
(AP) — Multimillionaire Edgar Bronfman says he has complied with all demands of his son's kidnapers and is begging for a sign that Samuel Bronfman 2nd is still alive and well.

Saying the 21-year-old whisky scion's abductor's "have failed to follow through," Bronfman noted that "time is going by" and pleaded with the kidnapers to renew contact through an agreed upon secret telephone number.

The concern with fleeting time referred to a warning from the kidnapers that a record $4.5 million ransom would have to be paid within 10 days for Samuel's safe return.

They said the victim was buried somewhere in Westchester County with only 10 days' supply of water and air.

The kidnapers failed to say when the 10 days began, but officials have assumed they meant 10 days from the day of the warning, Monday.

Jonathan Rinehart, a public relations consultant and Bronfman family friend, broke a 2½-day family and official silence that had shrouded developments in the case when he met reporters Thursday on the landscaped grounds of the 150-acre family estate here and read a handwritten statement.

The statement, which he completed in two minutes, read:

"As you know, the family received a tape recording containing instructions and other evidence that these people have Sam. We are very grateful for receiving that evidence.

"We want to assure them we intend to comply with instructions and we have done so. However, the abductors so far have failed to follow through. We ask them now to renew their contacts by calling us at the number they originally indicated.

"But time is going by. We need additional evidence that Sam is still alive and well. We repeat, we are prepared to comply with instructions, which must be clear, specific and practical. And we urge them to contact the family with additional evidence that Sam is still alive and well."

Rinehart refused to answer questions or say anything beyond the text of the statement, apparently worded to smooth negotiations for Samuel's return.

The quickened pace of developments Wednesday night and increased traffic of helicopters and carloads of FBI agents in and out of the estate had raised

Truth Serum Is Used In Hoffa Probe

DETROIT (AP) — A confidante of ex-Teamsters boss Jimmy Hoffa revealed while under truth serum that reputed Mafia figure Anthony "Tony Jack" Giacalone tried several times to set up meetings with Hoffa before the union leader disappeared, sources say.

Louis Linteau reportedly told a psychiatrist hired by the Hoffa family that Hoffa informed him on July 29 that he was to meet Giacalone the next day. Hoffa has not been seen since July 30.

The essence of Linteau's reported interview with Dr. Bruce Danko was printed in today's Detroit Free Press.

The newspaper quoted an unidentified source as saying Danko hypnotized Linteau and several of his Airport Service Lines employees who said Hoffa told them he was to meet "Tony G and Tony P" and a third man, whose name they could not recall.

The newspaper said it was informed that Linteau told authorities Giacalone asked him twice in July to arrange meeting with Hoffa. Both meetings fell through, Linteau was quoted as saying.

Sources previously have said Hoffa was planning to meet Giacalone, former Teamsters vice president Anthony "Tony Pro" Provenzano, and a third man. Other sources said the third man was underworld figure Leonard Schultz, but the Free Press said it could not be confirmed through the Airport Service Lines employees.

Giacalone and Provenzano both deny having arranged to meet with Hoffa. Both have solid alibis for the period when Hoffa dropped from sight, sources close to the FBI investigation have said.

In Dallas, meanwhile, former Teamsters official Don Vestal said it's his theory that Hoffa engineered his own disappearance.

Vestal said Hoffa was fascinated with what some authorities speculated was a staged 18-month disappearance of Costa Nostra chieftain Joseph "Joe Bananas" Bonanno in 1964.

"Hoffa studied the history of a lot of those old-time gangsters like Harry Truman did a lot of the old-time presidents," Vestal said. "And he thought about the slickest trick that was ever pulled was about this Joe Bonanno."

Historical Ass'n Forms

"The consensus of our group is to join together to give cultural, historical and preservation projects in northeastern North Carolina a sense of direction," E. Frank Stephenson, Jr. interim chairman of a 17 county historical association-in-the-making commented.

Members of the 17 historical societies and other persons held a day long meeting Tuesday in the Tom Willis Building at the corner of Reade and First Streets to formulate policies and approaches which Stephenson said "will seek to attract more financial and other forms of assistance through a group effort rather than through individual county efforts. This should benefit all the counties and give a coordinated direction to all the projects."

Stephenson, president of the Murfreesboro Historical Society, was asked to serve as interim chairman. Also appointed as members of a steering committee are Bruce Beasley of the Mid-East Commission, Washington, Mrs. Jean Winston of Hertford, Mrs. Carol Parker, Enfield, and Bruce McDougal, a member of the Department of Archives and History, Raleigh.

The 17 counties involved are Pitt, Beaufort, Bertie, Camden, Chowan, Currituck, Dare, Edgecombe, Gates, Halifax, Hertford, Hyde, Martin, Northampton, Pasquotank, Perquimans, and Tyrrell.

Another day long meeting has been scheduled at the Willis Building to begin at 10 a.m. on October 21.

Church Bazaar Set Saturday

The Pastor's Aid of Mt. Calvary Free Will Baptist Church is sponsoring a Church Bazaar in the basement of the church Saturday starting at 11 a.m.

A variety of items will be presented with prices ranging from ten cents to $3.

Construction Delay To Cost TVA Consumers

By The Associated Press
Construction delays on the proposed Hartsville nuclear power plant could cost Tennessee Valley Authority consumers $15 million each month, TVA General Manager Lynn Seeber says.

Seeber gave that estimate Thursday to the Tennessee legislature's energy task force in Knoxville amid several other TVA-related developments.

Aubrey Wagner, TVA chairman, defended the handling of a March fire at the Brown's Ferry nuclear plant in northern Alabama. The plant has been closed because of the blaze and is scheduled to reopen about Jan. 1.

Wagner was responding to a report by the Nuclear Energy Liability and Property Insurance Association, which concluded the fire could have been extinguished in 10 minutes instead of six hours if water had been used instead of carbon dioxide and extinguishers.

"The last time I talked to our people about it, they said they would make the same decision again," Wagner said. "Generally water is not used on electrical fires because it can cause short-circuits and somebody handling the equipment can be killed."

The plant's closing for repairs has forced TVA to purchase more coal, contributing to rising fuel adjustment charges.

Wagner said TVA hopes to announce a noticeable reduction in its monthly fuel cost rate at that time.

In another development, the Council on Wage and Price Stability was asked by Sen. Bill Brock, R-Tenn., to investigate recent price increases of coal sold to TVA.

"There needs to be an extensive examination of the sources and prices of coal used by generating plants to determine reasons for increased utility rates," Brock said.

The council has already begun studying the general area of coal pricing, he said.

"This is one matter that might well be outside the control of the TVA," he said. "As TVA has been forced to enter into new contracts, every supplier of coal has demanded a higher and higher price."

The proposed Hartsville plant, which would be the world's largest nuclear generating facility, would have a capacity of 1,300 megawatts or 1.3 billion watts.

The $2.5 billion plant is opposed by some conservationists and environmentalists. TVA hopes to begin operating it in the early 1980s.

Actor Cleared In Party Brawl

MIAMI (AP) — Actor Robert Conrad admits he hit someone dressed like Santa Claus at a party last year, but a local disc jockey who claims he was the object of the actor's displeasure has lost a damage suit.

Conrad, who starred in the television show "Wild Wild West," denied in testimony before a circuit court jury that he hit disc jockey Ronald Shaffron.

Shaffron had sought $160,000 in damages from Conrad, claiming he was hit on the nose and jaw during the "Christmas in July" party in Fort Lauderdale. The jury ruled Wednesday in favor of Conrad.

Cars Collided At Intersection

Cars driven by Roland White of 1812 Norcott Cir. and William Robert Mercer of Fountain were involved in a 10:01 p.m. collision yesterday at the intersection of fifth and Pitt Streets police reported.

Investigators, who charged Mercer with failing to stop for a stop light, estimated damage at $100 to the White car and $175 to the Mercer vehicle.

Farmville Mart Leaf Grades Up

FARMVILLE—The volume of leaf grades showed a sharp increase on yesterday's sales on the Farmville Tobacco Market.

Leaf and cutter grades accounted for approximately 40 percent of sales. Primings and lugs continued to drop in volume and more nondescript grades were on the market yesterday than any previous day this week.

Top price paid for some quality leaf grades was $1.21 per pound.

The market sold 394,288 pounds of leaf for $379,946.74, giving an average of $96.36 for the season. To date the market has sold 9,247,124 pounds of leaf for $8,367,417, for an average of $90.49 for the season.

Slow Riches For Norway

W. JOHN VINOCUR
Associated Press Writer
OSLO, Norway (AP) — In five years Norway will be one of the world's major petroleum exporters. But the country has chosen to bridle the bonanza, and get rich as slowly and gracefully as it can.

A blend of practicality, idealism and righteousness will hold down production, limit exploration and keep a tight rein on how much of the expected profits of $3 billion a year are sluiced back into the economy once the oil production target level is reached in 1980.

Some Norwegians, including Finance and Foreign Ministry officials, have said that their approach, rejecting quick growth and profits, could serve as an example to the West. Others, less inclined to give lessons, say Norway is acting the only way it can to avoid drowning in its oil wealth.

The riches are these: With barely 20 per cent of its continental shelf explored, Norway will be producing 630 million barrels of oil a year by 1980. The figure is a self-imposed limit, which will be six times Norway's own needs, and about 10 per cent of Western Europe's projected consumption.

In the area of initial production, in the North Sea below the 62nd Parallel, the Ministry of Industry has estimated that Norway's reserves put it on a par with Venezuela and Algeria. Although the government has been cautious on estimates of how much oil could be found above the 62nd Parallel—where test drilling will begin in 1977, some experts say there is likely to be three or four times as much as below and others have projected that the reserves could be as great as the entire Middle East.

"We could be going very much faster and we've been criticized about our selfishness by some people," said Trade Minister Einar Magnusen in an interview. "The problem is, of course, that we'd tear our society apart in the process."

The Norwegians see their new wealth as a threat to the traditional areas of activity—like fishing and farming—which they consider socially important. The difficulty comes because Norway, with a population of four million, has had only 0.8 unemployment in 1975 and new jobs would pull people away from the fishing boats and farms and tend to depopulate the north of the country.

At its peak, the oil industry will employ about 30,000 people. Magnusen says it is not the industry itself but spending the profits that provides the danger because government projections show that for every $230 million put into public improvements 19,000 new jobs are created. This would be more jobs than people available.

Norway could import foreign workers, but the official position is that the country does not want to import anyone to turn them into a second-class citizen.

Rory Calhoun Files Lawsuit

PARADISE VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Cowboy actor Rory Calhoun has filed a $1 million lawsuit against a land developer who he says is threatening his "good name."

Calhoun says the Daniel Towers Corp. hired him last year to promote land sales in central Arizona and the business of the Crystal Pistol saloon.

The saloon ran into financial troubles, and state Atty. Gen. Bruce Babbitt says Daniel Towers, head of the corporation, is a defendant in a federal lawsuit alleging he milked funds from a bankrupt company.

The 53-year-old Calhoun claims his "good name" is at stake because of his association with the company. He said, "I'm asking for $1 million in punitive damages plus the $80,000 annual salary promised but never paid."

Towers' secretary said he would have no comment about the allegations.

Dictator Gone, Club Remains

CARACAS (UPI) — The military club in Caracas, built by former Venezuelan dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez, is probably the most luxurious of its kind in the world.

The complicated cloverleaf approach to the facilities were made to form the initials of the ex-dictator, MPJ.

He was overthrown in 1958 and now lives in Spain.

zen. There is also no small amount of unspoken racism involved in bringing in workers from southern Europe and North Africa.

With its employment dilemma, Norway will hold down its revenues, spending half of the yearly profits of $3 billion in private consumption, a quarter in the public field, with the rest going into paying debts and making foreign investments.

Since the oil is expected to last between 100 and 150 years, the foreign investments will provide future wealth without directly involving the Norwegian economy.

The relatively slow pace will also let Norwegians take over virtually all the expert jobs in the oil industry, many of which have been held by Americans, Britons and Frenchmen.

But there has been criticism of the government's approach, although the polls give it 60 per cent approval. Trouble in the shipbuilding industry, partially attenuated because the biggest shipbuilders have gotten into the construction of oil rigs, has led to some calls to speed things up. Resistance among fishermen in the north, fearing pollution, is dying down and fears of turning society upside down seem to be lessening as well.

Hope Single Magnetic Pole Particle Is Found

By MIKE DUNSTAN
Associated Press Writer
BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Scientists say they have discovered tracks of what they believe is an elusive, tiny particle with only one magnetic pole. If the finding is confirmed, it could open a new world of matter and energy for scientists to explore and revolutionize the electronics industry.

With other experiments, the discovery could establish the existence of a subatomic particle, a "magnetic monopole" comparable to the electron in electricity. It could also alter a major premise of modern physics, the scientists announced today.

Deny Congregations Back Synod Split

By CHERYL L. DEBES
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — A group trying to enlist support for a split with the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod has no backing from the congregations, a church spokesman says.

"According to our information, there is not one congregation of the 6,000 that intends to leave the Missouri Synod," the Rev. Robert C. Sauer said.

The Rev. Mr. Sauer's forecast was in reaction to a resolution passed unanimously by Evangelical Lutherans in Mission earlier in the day. "Apparently, the lay people want to continue in the present fellowship which has been such a blessing before the intrusion of liberalism," he said.

About 2,000 ELIM members voted here to "form clusters of congregations, groups and individuals" and meet next February to "define their direction" as a single body.

ELIM, a moderate group that objects to the synod's literal interpretation of the Bible, claims the new organization could attract as much as one-fourth of synod membership, including some 2,500 churches with 800,000 members.

Farmer Owns Missile Site But Can't Decide How He'll Use It

By STEVE WEINER
Associated Press Writer

EGYPT, Wash. (AP)—Ed McCaffery owns a dinosaur of the missile age.

McCaffery, a wheat farmer, owns an Atlas missile site, one of nine built in eastern Washington in the early 1960s and abandoned almost before the paint had dried.

The sites were built for $150 million in an effort to help convince the Soviet Union not to fight a nuclear war. McCaffery's 22-acre area cost between $13 million and $20 million to build and equip.

He bought it in 1967 for just under $5,700.

"I don't know what to do with it," said McCaffery. "My idea is to turn it into a casino."

The nine sites are like small, underground cities, each capable of withstanding anything other than a direct nuclear hit. They were built as part of the Atlas network and surrounded Fairchild Air Force Base just west of Spokane.

Each site was in operation 24 hours a day, with a crew of 12 always ready to fire the device. The Atlas rocket, fueled by liquid oxygen and a chemical like kerosene, lay on its side inside an enormous, buried "coffin." Around it, also underground, were the steel-encased firing control centers and living quarters.

None of the rockets was fired and the Atlas system was superseded by new kinds of missiles. In 1965, the 567th Strategic Missile Squadron was deactivated and the missiles and tracking equipment were removed.

The General Services Administration sold the sites two years later.

The buyers included farmers seeking to reclaim land, and companies hoping for the bargain of a lifetime.

Power has been turned off at most sites. Cows graze, grasshoppers bound through tall grass and debris is everywhere. McCaffery finds that sheep like to graze inside his Atlas base. He also stores an antique truck inside the base and his combine sits where a missile once lay.

McCaffery got a Quonset hut with his purchase and provides free storage for boats and campers of his neighbors. But primarily the place is wasted, he said.

Good Nutrition No More Costly

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Good nutrition is no more expensive than bad nutrition, according to Texas health experts.

Health department officials complain most people don't bother to follow what they know to be good dietary practices.

"Too many people fall for brightly packaged foods, or foods that can be prepared quickly and eaten on the run, rather than the sensible choice of foods that provide a nourishing, balanced daily diet," one expert said.

Stamps In A Teaching Kit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Stamps will be used to teach school children about the nation's history.

"The Colonial Post Rider" is the first of the U.S. Postal Service's "Image of America" filmstrip teaching kits issued in connection with the nation's Bicentennial.

About 15,000 kits already have been ordered by school teachers. The kits use special issue stamps as a point of departure for presenting noteworthy developments or events in American history.

In the case of the "Post Rider," the package includes a full color filmstrip, a tape cassette or a record, a reproduction of Bicentennial stamps, and a teacher's study guide for planning class projects. It also traces the history of early letter carriers.

It starts with the pre-revolutionary colonies and goes up to the battles of Lexington and Concord.

In the second kit, "Almost an American," colonial mailmen cross the Delaware River with Washington on their way to the battle of Trenton. The kit is scheduled for issue this fall.

Four physicists — Paul B. Price and E. K. Shirk of the University of California at Berkeley, and W. Z. Osborne and L. S. Pinsky of the University of Houston — were involved in the research.

They said the passing of the subatomic, magnetic particle was recorded through a special film and plastic-like sheet carried aloft by a balloon in September 1973 over Sioux City, Iowa.

"It is the first member of what may be a whole family of magnetic particles smaller than the atom which we have not discovered," Price said in a telephone interview.

The long-accepted theory of quantum electrodynamics — one of the two basic theories upon which modern physics is founded — asserts that all matter is comprised of tiny electrically charged particles. If the existence of monopoles were confirmed, it would disprove the theory by proving the existence of magnetic subatomic particles, Price said.

If the particles could be captured in quantity or manufactured, "They could revolutionize the electronic industry," he said.

Price and the other members of the scientific team said it was too early to determine practical applications of the discovery. But they said possibilities include particle accelerators much more powerful than those in existence now, extremely small and efficient motors and generators, new cancer therapies and new sources of energy.

Price said that the monopole, estimated to travel at about half the speed of light, is energized by simple magnetization and could be used as a limited power source utilizing the earth's magnetic pull as a catalyst.

"What this means is that you might drive ships across the seas by putting a few monopoles in the ship and having the earth's magnetic field tug it across the ocean," he said.

He added, however, that monopoles would probably not become an alternate energy source.

Another use Price cited was the use of monopoles to fight cancer in areas inaccessible to surgeons.

"If you directed a monopole into the brain of a person who has brain cancer, you could rapidly move the monopole back and forth in the region where the cancer is located by turning magnetic fields on and off," he said.

Despite the apparent rarity of monopoles, Price said, scientists could reproduce them by energizing only one and "banging it against matter." The catch, however, is catching the first one.

Easy to put up. Easy to afford.

Meco-Master

The Meco-Master Utility Building . . . designed to give you maximum space for your needs at minimum cost . . . AND WITHOUT SACRIFICING DURABILITY!

- Choice of Widths - Select from five basic widths. 50', 40', 30', 26' or 24' and almost any length through the addition of bays.
- Heavy Duty Roof and Wall Panels - 26 gauge commercial grade galvanized with 1 1/2 inch major ribs for maximum leak protection. Roof slope 2:12 for added leak protection.
- Rust Inhibitive Structural Paint - All structural steel members coated with high quality rust inhibitive primer.
- Easy Erection - Detailed erection instructions included with each building.
- Options - Roof ventilators, insulation, translucent wall lights, pedestrian doors and factory baked on paint.
