

Petitions Filed To Free Little's Lawyer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Attorney Jerry Paul's law partner, James Rowan, filed motions seeking Paul's release from jail with both the North Carolina Court of Appeals and the state Supreme Court today.

Rowan asked both courts to hear appeals of the 14-day contempt sentence Paul was given by Judge Hamilton Hobgood at the close of the Joan Little murder trial last week.

Rowan also asked the Supreme Court to set bond for Paul pending the outcome of the appeal. Neither court took immediate action on the appeals.

Rowan Sunday had asked U.S. District Court Judge John Larkins to free Paul, but Larkins refused. He said it was a matter for the state courts.

Also Sunday, Karen Galloway, also an attorney for Miss Little, delivered a message Paul had written to newsmen.

Paul defended his courtroom actions that resulted in the contempt citation. During jury selection, he had asked presiding Judge Hamilton Hobgood to remove himself from the case. Hobgood declined and Paul turned his back to the bench and made several comments about the court being "prejudiced" and helping the prosecution convict Miss Little.

Hobgood delayed citing Paul with contempt until the trial had concluded.

"While sitting in this new jail and seeing how the lack of facilities drive inmates mad, makes me more sure we did right," he wrote.

"Sexism" and "racism" were brought into the trial by necessity because they were the basis of Miss Little's indictment, he wrote. "If the state was not racist, sexist and fearful of its youth, then Joan Little would have never had to go through the ordeal she did," he said.

"In an attempt to keep a lid on things they are now out to keep the lawyers quiet so that they will not give an aggressive defense," he said referring to authorities, adding that he is a target of authorities, "I know they have more plans to get me. I have been warned about many things they are planning, but the black people, young people and honest people have protected me so far."

The attorney referred to his ill health and said he was taken to a hospital Saturday morning by "a very nice sheriff." He added, "But if one night I have an attack from my illness I may not be able to see the dream of love and freedom come true."

Paul has a history of migraine headaches and for several years has had a recurring prostate infection. His wife, Lou, said Paul suffered severe headaches during the trial and is now "physically exhausted."

In his message, Paul wrote, "The health problems I had during the pre-trial and trial are still with me, only they are getting worse..."

The message also promised an explanation of how the defense spent the money raised for Miss Little's defense, a question frequently asked by newsmen during the trial. In the months preceding the trial, the Southern Poverty Law Center of Montgomery, Ala., used national mailing lists in appeals for donations.

Paul wrote that defense costs reached about $300,000 and "at one time or another," more than 125 people worked on the case. He promised to give details on defense spending in a later message.

The civil rights attorney referred several times to the late civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King and closed his message with, "I do not hate the judge or dislike him, and am trying very hard to follow Dr. King and love the ones that wrong us."

Morgan Will Visit In Area

U. S. Senator Robert Morgan will visit Farmville and Williamston next week to meet with constituents in an effort to find out "how the people of North Carolina feel about today's problems and issues."

Morgan will be in Williamston August 26 and in Farmville August 28.

The Senator — former North Carolina Attorney General and past member of the East Carolina University Board of Trustees — will hold a press conference in Williamston at 9 a.m., then hold "office hours" and meet with as many people as possible at the municipal building from 9:30 a.m. until 11:30.

Morgan will meet with constituents from 1:45 until 3:45 p.m. at the public library in Farmville; then will meet with news media representatives from 3:45 until 4 p.m.

The visits are two of the stops Morgan will make during a swing through Eastern North Carolina next week. He is making a similar tour through the Piedmont section of the state this week.

The Congress is in its annual recess during August, but rather than taking a vacation, Morgan is taking to the road to see the people.

The visits to Farmville and Williamston will be informal and persons wishing to see Morgan may do so on a first-come, first-served basis. No previous appointments are necessary and none are being made.

An aide said "Sen. Morgan just wants to keep in touch with the people he represents and he feels he can do this by getting out and talking and listening to as many of them as possible."

Other towns on Morgan's list next week include Elizabeth City, Ahoskie, Washington, Rocky Mount, Kinston and Goldsboro.

Refinery Blaze Kills Three

By WILLIAM P. BARRETT
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Three firemen caught in a sudden flashing of flames during a spectacular refinery blaze were turned into human torches. All three died.

At least three more firemen were missing and five firemen were among the 13 persons injured in the fire that started Sunday and burned through the night at the Gulf Oil Co. Refinery.

It was declared under control early this morning by the Philadelphia Fire Board. "The flames just engulfed them," said Fire Commissioner

Joseph Rizzo, describing how he escaped the first of dozens of explosions but looked back to see three of his men sealed in flames.

"They were trying to get under the foam, but to no avail," he said. "They were human torches."

The blaze at the second largest refinery on the East Coast could be seen for 20 miles. Flames covering an area about a half-mile square roared into a spreading cloud of black smoke.

The fire started Sunday at dawn when an 80,000-barrel storage tank ignited while being filled with oil from a tanker. The ship was not damaged and the fire was brought under control by 9 a.m.

Clean-up crews moved in. They spent the day pouring chemical foam onto the smoldering tank. The firemen were relaxed. There was no apparent danger.

But according to Jack Burk, manager of the refinery, the facility's sewage system failed to drain off oil that was spilled from the first fire. Fumes backed up.

"Then it flashed," Burk said. At 4 p.m., when the area was crowded with equipment and men, a bowl of flame erupted. There was one explosion, then another. Flames were everywhere.

Within minutes the fire jumped to 11 alarms, activating 600 fire fighters.

Flames scorched the Penrose Avenue Bridge over the Schuylkill River, a key commuter artery into the city and the main route between downtown Philadelphia and Philadelphia International Airport. The bridge was closed to all traffic. The area around the sprawling refinery was sealed off, then power and telephone service in the neighborhood went dead.

Firemen tried to battle the blaze, but they realized it was useless. Commissioner Rizzo announced, "Let it burn. It'll have to burn itself out. It may take two days, maybe three, but that's all we can do."

Five of the injured were firemen who were treated at local burn centers. They were all in critical or stable conditions.

Suit Claims Hughes Dead

By BOB DUBILL
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Two Manhattan stockholders have filed suit contending that Howard R. Hughes is dead.

If the reclusive billionaire doesn't surface to respond to their suit, they intend to ask the courts to appoint an administrator for his estate.

The civil complaint in state Supreme Court alleges that while Hughes is reputed to be residing at the Hotel Xanadu in the Grand Bahamas, he has been dead for an indefinite period and is claimed to be alive "for the personal profit of various and sundry persons."

The suit was brought by Victor and Ellen Kurtz, minority stockholders of Air Liquidation Co., formerly known as Air West Inc. In the suit, they seek from the company's stockholders as a class, damages of $100 million. Air West was taken over by Hughes in 1969.

"You're kidding," was the only comment from an attorney for the New York law firm of David Cox, which represents Hughes in Air West matters.

And in Los Angeles, Hughes spokesman Richard Hanna said, "Of course he's alive. His office is in touch with him all the time."

The Kurtzes' suit contends that Hughes and some of his associates deliberately depressed the price of stock in Air West to make the sale of the airline to Hughes more attractive to stockholders and eliminate opposition to the sale.

Several suits are pending in federal court in San Francisco growing out of the Air West takeover by Hughes, including an antitrust action brought by the Kurtzes.

I. Walton Bader, attorney for the Kurtzes, said conspiracy is at the heart of the litigation and, "without Hughes, how can you prove a conspiracy?"

"The man — as far as we know — has no children. We don't even know if there is a will," said Bader. "Nobody has seen him for 10 years or more. Unless it can be proved otherwise, he is either dead or incompetent and the burden of proof must rest with Mr. Hughes or those acting in his behalf."

Ford Begins Hectic Tour

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer
VAIL, Colo. (AP) — President Ford begins a hectic two-day tour to six cities in four states by visiting an experimental oil shale mine at nearby Rifle, Colo.

The trip, during which the President makes seven speeches, includes stops today in Colorado and Iowa. He spends the night in Minneapolis and visits Illinois on Tuesday.

The midmorning visit to the Rifle mine is to underscore Ford's view that oil from shale rock is one way the United States can increase domestic energy production and decrease reliance on foreign oil.

Ford was to inspect two pilot projects for use of waste produced when shale rock is shattered and heated to turn the tarlike material into oil. Waste disposal has created environmental problems for developers of oil shale.

The projects at Rifle are designed to show the waste used as a road bed compactor and as soil for growing certain crops.

The President arranged to walk 1,200 feet into the mine to observe the digging of shale and to inspect a refining facility where oil is cooked out of the rock under 900-degree temperature and high pressure.

Before flying from Colorado to the Midwest, Ford scheduled a meeting in Grand Junction with a group of nine officials from western Colorado communities. He then flies to Des Moines to deliver a farm policy address at the Iowa state fair, where Republican Gov. Robert Ray has waived the general public's $2 admission fee for an hour during the presidential visit.

This evening, the President will attend a GOP fund-raising dinner in Des Moines before flying to Minneapolis for an overnight stay. Ford's Tuesday schedule in Minneapolis includes speech-making appearances at the American Legion national convention and before a Republican leadership rally and a luncheon.

Later Tuesday, he will fly to Illinois to speak at the dedication of the Everett M. Dirksen Memorial Library in Pekin and address a regional White House conference on domestic affairs in Peoria.

It also includes several official functions and a heavy schedule of meetings with Republican leaders.

For this reason, the Republican National Committee is paying for the entire trip except (Continued on page 6)

Bronfman Freed; Two Charged In Abduction

By HENRIETTA LEITH
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Kidnaped whisky heir Samuel Bronfman was in safe seclusion at his mother's mansion today as authorities discounted an alleged kidnaper's story that two men still at large planned the snatch.

Dominic Byrne, 53, who with Melvin Patrick Lynch, a 37-year-old city fireman, is being held on charges of extortion and illegal use of the mails, has reportedly told police and the FBI the two unidentified men commandeered his car for the caper.

Despite Byrne's claim that two other kidnapers remain at large, FBI assistant director J. Wallace LaPrade said no other suspects were being sought and no further arrests were expected.

At a news conference Sunday, officials showed the press the recovered $2.3 million in cash Bronfman's father paid for his return. The original $4.6 million ransom demand was halved during the negotiations with the abductors. It has not been explained why.

Byrne and Lynch, both Irish-born, naturalized American citizens, were to be arraigned today. Authorities said federal charges of kidnapping were not filed because the victim was not taken across state lines. But there remain possible state kidnapping charges which carry penalties of life imprisonment.

New York City Police Commissioner Michael Codd said law enforcement officials and U.S. State Department intelligence agents are checking the possibility that the two men intended to give part of the ransom to the Irish Republican Army. LaPrade discounted any IRA connection.

Samuel Bronfman, 21, after shaving his eight-day beard and showering at the Fifth Avenue apartment of his father, Seagrams chairman Edgar Bronfman, went by helicopter to the family estate at Yorktown Heights in Westchester County Sunday afternoon, accompanied by his father.

There the young man was met and embraced by his divorced mother, Ann Margaret Loeb Bronfman. He spent the night at her home in nearby Purchase, where he was living at the time he was seized.

A family friend, Jonathan Rinehart, said that at the news of Samuel's rescue, "there was a lot of smiling, a hell of a lot of smiling."

Another family friend in Yorktown Heights, Peter Kaufman, told reporters that family members came together, in the middle of the living room and "almost went through the ceiling" in a burst of joy. Jose Louis, the family butler, opened champagne for the celebration. Both at the apartment and the estate the Bronfmans declined to talk with newsmen, but the 6-foot-2 younger Bronfman, clad in work shirt and jeans, appeared unhurt.

LaPrade said it was "absolutely" untrue that Samuel had been "buried" with a 10-day supply of water and air as the kidnapers had claimed in a ransom note to Edgar Bronfman last Monday.

The young heir to part of the billion-dollar Seagrams whisky fortune was found in Lynch's Brooklyn apartment early Sunday. He was rescued about 24 hours after his father had delivered the ransom, one of the largest in U.S. history, to two men in a car in the Woodside, Queens, section of New York City.

A woman FBI agent in the car with the elder Bronfman reportedly got the ransom car's license number and city police traced the license to Lynch. The car was found parked outside his apartment house.

The FBI staked out the car, but it was not until Byrne's 17-year-old daughter, Mary, appeared in a stationhouse with a note from her father that the case was cracked.

City detectives returned with the girl to the Byrne home, around the corner from the Lynch apartment where, unknown to them, young Bronfman was lying on a couch, blindfolded and gagged and bound hand and foot with adhesive tape.

The girl told the detectives her father was deathly afraid of two men in a car parked across from his home and this had led him to seek police help.

As the detectives approached the car, saying "Freeze — don't move a muscle!" one of the men in the car shouted "We're FBI!"

Apparently by coincidence, one of the many FBI cars staked out near the Lynch apartment had parked across from the Byrne home.

Det. Thomas Cerbone said later when they went up to Byrne's second-floor apartment, "We didn't know whether we were following just another dead end. We didn't know if we would find a psycho at the top of the stairs or what."

After Byrne told his story — that Bronfman was in Lynch's apartment nearby and he, Byrne, had fed him recently — (Continued on page 6)

HOTLINE

752-1336

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

RESUCITATION COURSE?

I'd like to know if a cardio-pulmonary resuscitation course is taught anywhere in Greenville, P.E.

Ruth Taylor of the Pitt County Red Cross said no such course is currently offered in Greenville because "we don't have anyone trained to give it yet." She said, however, that training sessions are in progress and a course is planned here for the near future. For further information, Mrs. Taylor said persons should call the Red Cross office at 752-4222.

NO REDEEMER

Hotline has been hearing since the column was begun over a year ago from persons who say they have thousands of empty cigarette packs collected for a worthy cause. The lady for whom we published an appeal July 4 as to where they could be redeemed said she was told hers could help pay for cobalt treatment for someone who has cancer.

Our appeal turned up nothing—not a single response. So we decided to write to various tobacco companies inquiring about any kind of redemption program they might conduct or know about. R.J. Reynolds answered immediately, enclosing a news release from the Tobacco Institute, Inc., said to be the spokesman for all cigarette manufacturers, as well as a clipping from Parade Magazine and a Washington Post column on the same subject.

The information boils down to the same in all—there is no way of redeeming empty cigarette packs or cellophane opening strips for charitable causes. The Tobacco Institute says no cigarette company participates in any such scheme and it knows of no other bona fide program for such redemption.

Hotline dislikes being the bearer of this bad news, because we know all the savers are highly motivated people who wanted only to do someone somewhere some good.

Russian Missile Has Two Straight Failures

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — One of Russia's most advanced long-range missiles has suffered two consecutive flight failures, raising the possibility of problems with this recently deployed Soviet nuclear weapon.

U.S. intelligence sources report that the SS19 missiles flopped during training launches in June and July after an unbroken string of 25 flawless tests over the past two years. In both cases, the failure occurred in the missile's second stage.

The SS19, with a range of about 6,300 miles, has been rated by U.S. experts as the most successful of four new Soviet intercontinental ballistic missiles.

It was the first Russian ICBM to be deployed for combat with multiple warheads (MIRVs) that can be aimed precisely at separate targets.

Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger said in June the Russians had deployed some 50 SS19s in operational bases and that its deployment "continues apace." The missile has carried six warheads during tests. Each warhead is twice as big as those mounted on U.S. Minuteman ICBMs.

The United States uses spy satellites and other means to monitor Soviet missile tests, practice launches and construction of missile facilities inside the Soviet Union.

Turkey's shutdown of four U.S. electronic intelligence-gathering stations there late last month has significantly reduced that ability, U.S. officials say.

These officials say that unless those stations are allowed to resume beaming into Russia, it will be more difficult to verify whether the Soviet Union abides by terms of a new nuclear arms limitation agreement now being negotiated.

Intelligence reports indicate Russia's missile activity rose in July to 21 launchings after an average of only 11 test and training shots a month in April, May and June. A broad variety of offensive weapons were fired, including land-based and submarine-launched missiles.

One firing involved a new submarine-launched ballistic missile never before flight-tested. U.S. intelligence sources say they believe it is designed for a range of about 3,500 miles.

Refugees Fight In Thai Camp

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Fighting erupted at a refugee camp for Cambodians near the Thai-Cambodian border over the weekend and at least two Cambodians were killed and several wounded, Thai Interior Ministry officials said today.

The officials said a three-man team has been sent to the Ban Klong Yai camp to investigate the incident.

Meanwhile, the English-language newspaper Bangkok Post said four refugees were killed and 10 wounded Saturday and quoted police as saying a gunfight erupted when a group of refugees protesting government regulations clashed with refugees who opposed them.

The newspaper said seven Cambodian "agitators" were arrested and 30 others escaped into the jungle and were being tracked down by police.

The camp, which houses about 1,600 Cambodian refugees, is located in Chanthaburi Province about 130 miles southeast of Bangkok. It is one of several border camps which accommodate about 7,000 Cambodians who fled their country after the Communist takeover there.

Radio Phnom Penh reported today that Cambodia's Vice Premier Khieu Samphan has admitted the country faces "difficulties and obstacles" in its reconstruction and is counting on China's support.

In a speech at a banquet in Peking Friday, Khieu Samphan said Cambodia is being transformed into a "vast work site" and that a new society is being built that would outdo the glory of the ancient Khmer civilization of Angkor, the broadcast reported.

The vice premier did not specify what difficulties were being encountered, but reports from Cambodian refugees and from Western observers in Thailand say Khmer Rouge efforts to change Cambodia rapidly into a revolutionary society have created widespread hunger, disease and discontent among the population.

Burial Comes; 65 Years Later

CAZADERO, Calif. (UPI) — Guitarist Dean Forshee sang this ballad for the Kendalls: "On this fine summer's day 'We're gonna quit our crazy foolin' around 'And get 'em in the ground.' It was a funeral for rancher Tom Kendall and his parents, Enoch and Eura — all killed in a brutal murder in this northern California logging community 65 years ago. Their ashes were found recently in two mason jars in the attic of the General Store. They apparently had been stored there as evidence. The Kendalls' killer, a Japanese woodcutter, was never caught. The townspeople thought it was time to give the Kendalls a proper funeral. And Saturday the services — complete with a buckboard as a hearse — were conducted and the ashes, now in two urns, were placed in a vault next to the grave of their old neighbor. Some 400 persons — many from as far away as San Francisco — turned out at the General Store for the procession to the cemetery less than a mile away. Friday night the local residents through a wing-ding of a wake with plenty of booze and plenty of dancing in the Cazadero Bottling Works. It went on into the wee small hours of the morning. And as everyone gathered for the procession, many were seen sipping cold beer to nurse their hangovers as the warm sun peeked through the afternoon clouds. "We're gonna do it," Rex Nance, 35, the organizer of the funeral, said as the buckboard pulled by two mules moved away from the grocery. When everyone arrived at the cemetery, Forshee sang his ballad. Gary Rodgers delivered this eulogy: "This gathering today is to complete what was begun 65 years ago... so today we are here to release the Kendalls from the attic of the General Store and place them in the ground once and for all." The Kendalls' ashes were placed next to the monument of Francis Drake Trosper, an early settler of this community about 75 miles north of San Francisco and 20 miles inland from the Pacific.

"We figured ole Trosper and the Kendalls were neighbors in real life, and they might as well be neighbors now," Nance said. The two official mourners, Martha Schneider and Sue Boom, placed bouquets of sweet peas and sword ferns on the Kendalls' final resting place. "Someone had to take the responsibility," Miss Boom said.

Rodgers ended the ceremony by saying: "Forever rest the Kendalls." But not all the local residents were happy about the send off. "It was too much of a circus atmosphere," tavern owner

Elvyra Holsclaw said as the city folks drove away from this quiet, rustic village.

Marajuana Charges

Four persons were arrested by Greenville Police on marijuana possession charges here yesterday afternoon following a search of a dwelling at 1505B Halifax St.

Chief Glenn Cannon identified those charged as Jackie Lee Dupree, 19, of 1505B Halifax; Carolyn Gwen Whitehurst, 19, of 701 West Fourth St.; Thomas Earl Dupree, 19, of 706 West Fourth St. and Johnny Ree Dixon, 20, of 1118 South Greene St.

Cannon said the four were charged about 5 p.m. after officers found 10 plastic bags full of marijuana, as well as some loose "grass" under a bed in the dwelling. Value of the marijuana was set at $250.

Bond for Jackie Dupree was set at $3,000 while bond for the other three defendants was set at $500 each.

Portuguese Premier Sets Public Rally

By FENTON WHEELER
Associated Press Writer
LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Premier Vasco Goncalves, struggling to stay in power against growing opposition to his Communist-line policies, today scheduled his first public appearance in nearly two months.

The premier planned to address a rally in Almada, a Communist industrial stronghold across the Tagus estuary from Lisbon.

On Saturday, Communist party leader Alvaro Cunhal and about 1,500 supporters attending a rally in Alcobaca, 65 miles north of Lisbon, were trapped for more than three hours by a mob of anti-Communists armed with pistols and cudgels. The Communists fired back with shotguns and more than 20 persons were injured before troops finally stepped in.

Hours before the Alcobaca incident, Goncalves admitted to the nation that his ability to govern had been "seriously compromised." But he vowed to stay in office and appealed to political parties and military men to unite to save the 16-month-old revolution. There were indications that the armed forces, showing increasing opposition to Goncalves, would not move against civil violence while he remained in power.

The country's internal security organization, COPCON, gave no explanation why troops were not on the scene in Alcobaca to prevent the predicted violence on Saturday.

COPCON is headed by Gen. Otelo Saraiva de Carvalho, a radical who shares power with Goncalves and President Francisco da Costa Gomes in the ruling triumvirate. Carvalho has joined in the calls for Goncalves' ouster.

Leftist parties, including the Communists, blamed the moderate Socialist and the centrist Popular Democrat party for the wave of anti-Communist violence that began after the two parties quit Goncalves' government in early July. The parties have disclaimed responsibility.

More than 50 Communist and left-wing party offices have been wrecked by crowds angry at what they see as a slide toward a Communist dictatorship under Goncalves.

North Pitt Registration

James W. Allen, principal of North Pitt High School, requests all students not already registered in the North Pitt school district, to please do so by August 27 by coming to the school between 8:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m.

This would include all students not enrolled at North Pitt or who were in the eighth grade of one of the middle schools in the North Pitt district in the late spring of last year.

Alexander Will Speak

RALEIGH—Department of Transportation (DOT) officials have announced that Transportation Secretary J. F. Alexander has accepted an invitation to be the featured speaker at the next Greenville Chamber of Commerce Merchants Association meeting.

The meeting will be held at the Greenville Country Club and is scheduled for 12:30 p.m., August 21.

Secretary Alexander's speech before the Greenville audience is expected to deal with transportation and highway construction matters of interest to Pitt County residents. It is expected that during his Greenville visit Secretary Alexander will also meet with local city and county officials. Accompanying the Secretary to his Greenville trip will be Bob Campbell, Special Assistant to the Secretary, and a number of members of the North Carolina Board of Transportation.

Defends Gandhi's Actions

WASHINGTON (AP)—India's ambassador to the United States says Prime Minister Indira Gandhi was justified in imposing press censorship because the Indian press was "publicizing incitement to revolt."

Ambassador Triloki Nath Kaul also said Sunday that within the next few months Mrs. Gandhi will end the state of emergency in India and "we'll return to normal."

"But if the opposition and other elements do not cooperate, the emergency will have to last a little longer," he added. Appearing on the CBS television program "Face the Nation," Kaul said in defending the press censorship that "neither the press nor anybody else is above the law."

He said the government found it advisable to apply the same rules to local and foreign reporters, even though he found a great contrast between the Indian and American press.

He noted that the United States has a 200-year-old tradition of press freedom that included "a system of moderators."

The Indian press, he said, was "owned mainly by a few big business houses and industrialists... they were publicizing incitement to revolt... treating facts as free and views as sacred."

Kaul also dismissed the possibility of a military takeover in India, saying "our army has a tradition of accepting civilian supremacy."

Rally To Support Trooper

GREENWOOD, S.C. (AP) — An estimated 1,500 whites gathered at the fairgrounds Sunday in support of a white highway patrolman who shot and killed a black man last month.

The rally took place one day after 800 blacks marched through the town to protest the July 26 incident.

Meanwhile Saturday, 300 blacks in the Berkeley County town of Moncks Corner staged a peaceful rally to protest the shooting death of a black by law officers in that county.

Four blacks have been shot to death across South Carolina this year in encounters with police.

The local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has demanded that Patrolman J.R. Stephenson be suspended pending a grand jury investigation into the shooting death of Herbie Ron Morton, 24.

Ben Campbell, who organized the white rally, accused NAACP leaders of "being racist, unaware of public knowledge surrounding the Herbie Ron Morton shooting incident, making false and misleading statements at NAACP rallies, to public officials and members of the news media."

State highway patrol officials have refused to suspend the officer, saying he fired after a high speed chase and after Morton threatened him with a shotgun.

On Aug. 8 a coroner's jury recommended that Stephenson face grand jury action in Morton's death.

Petitions supporting Stephenson were circulated through the crowd.

Following Saturday's march in Greenwood, the Rev. M.G. McCallum, state president of the NAACP, said it was "Un-American, Un-Christian and inhumane for white people to keep their mouths shut" regarding Morton's death.

In the Berkeley County incident, Patrolman Gordon Paul shot and killed Tom Key last May. A coroner's jury exonerated Paul.

"A man ought not to be shot because he is alleged to have committed a misdemeanor," said the Rev. Mr. McCallum. "The most he should have gotten was a $25 fine, but some stupid, thoughtless law officer says, 'If you don't do what I say, I'll kill you.'"

Couple Weds Sunday Afternoon

Miss Lillian Elaine Vernelson and Walter Richard Taylor Jr. were united in marriage Sunday at 3:00 p.m. in Trinity Free Will Baptist Church by the Rev. Alvin Davis and the Rev. J.D. Vernelson.

The bride is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Vernelson of Rt. 2, Belhaven. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Richard Taylor Sr. of Rt. 2, Belhaven.

A program of wedding music was presented by the Rev. Phillip Cooper, pianist, and Shirley Harrison, organist. Sammy Pittman, soloist, sang "The Wedding Song", "Walk Hand In Hand" and for the benediction "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of silk organza over taffeta designed and created by her mother. Re-embroidered imported lace trimmed the high ring collar and empire bodice. A braid of scalloped pearls edged the sheer neckline and cuffs of the bishop sleeves. The full skirt was styled with a ruffle of organza edged with pearl trim and extended into a train.

Her elbow length veil of silk illusion, also created by her mother, was edged with re-embroidered lace and attached to an organza bow trimmed with pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white butterfly roses and pom poms centered with a cattleya orchid, tied with white lace streamers. When the bride and her father reached the altar, she turned sang "More" to the bridegroom.

Mrs. Ann James of Burgaw, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. She wore a formal length gown flocked with blue, ink, yellow, lavender, and orange flowers. It featured a scooped neckline surrounded with a ruffle and the skirt ended in a ruffle. She carried a chrysanthemum nosegay surrounded by baby's breath and tied with blue ribbon streamers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Linda McLawhorn of Winterville, sister of the bride, Miss Brenda Welch of Nashville, Tenn., Miss Renaye Vernelson, niece of the bride, Mrs. Donna Coghill, Mrs. Sherry Vernelson, sister-in-law of the bride, all of Greenville, and Mrs. Brenda Williford of Fayetteville. They all wore gowns fashioned like the honor attendants', lined with pink. The mother of the bride created the gowns. They carried nosegays like the honor attendant, tied with pink streamers. All of the attendants wore white garden hats tied with ribbons to match their gowns.

Miss Karla Lynn McLawhorn, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She was dressed identical to the honor attendant, and carried a white basket of rose petals tied with pink, blue and yellow streamers.

The father of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Hilton, John, Joe, and Wayne Vernelson, all brothers of the bride of Greenville, Karl McLawhorn of Winterville, and Douglas James of Burgaw, brothers-in-law of the bride.

Wesley McLawhorn, nephew of the bride, was the ring-bearer. He carried a white lace heart-shaped pillow decorated with lilly-of-the-valley and a wedding ring.

The mother of the bride wore a formal length gown of peach formal length gown of light blue polyester lace. She wore matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Mrs. Dorothy Tetterton, grandmother of the bridegroom, was remembered with a white carnation corsage.

Kathy Jo Vernelson and Rhonda Vernelson, nieces of the bride, gave the guests wedding scrolls as they entered and rice bags as they left the wedding. Mrs. Margaret Balder presided over the bridal register, and Mrs. Margaret Landen directed the wedding.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride changed into a yellow pants ensemble and wore the white orchid corsage lifted from her bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of North Pitt High School and attended Free Will Baptist Bible College, Nashville, Tenn. She is presently employed with First State Bank, Greenville.

The bridegroom graduated from high school in Belhaven and East Carolina University, Greenville. He is now employed by the State of North Carolina as an accountant.

Flanagan-Ross Vows Solemnized Saturday

GRENADA, Miss.—First Presbyterian Church was the setting for the ceremony uniting Miss Martha Lynn Ross, daughter of Mrs. Donald G. Ross Jr., and John Roberson Flanagan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Hooker Flanagan of Greenville, N.C.

Vows were exchanged Saturday at six o'clock in the afternoon. The Rev. Henry Clay Calhoun III officiated at the ceremony.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Gayle Smith Dorroh, organist. The church was decorated with tall backgrounds of palm greenery and arched candlelight candles. Spiral candelabras held arrangements of white mums and daisy pompons interspersed with gypophelia. Palms were encircling the front and foot of the altar.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her twin brothers, Ernest and Ralph Ross, the bride wore a traditional wedding gown of white silk organza and cotton point de Venise lace, styled with a low neckline. The sleeves were long and puffed from elbow to fitted cuffs. Lace bands enhanced and outlined the empire waistline, with vertical lace bands and a bordering edge of dirndl which extended down the front of the A-line skirt. Watteau pleats added fullness for the full court train.

Her floor length veiling of English silk illusion was attached to a matching organza and lace fitted cap. The bride carried a colonial bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids and tube roses with gypophelia.

Serving the bride as maid of honor was Miss Mary Jane Flanagan, sister of the bridegroom. Mrs. Karen Ross Spencer, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. The attendants wore formal dresses of brown dotted swiss with halter tops and A-line skirts, topped with portrait-like scarves. Each attendant carried bouquets of white and yellow pompons daisies with baby's breath.

Mr. Flanagan served his son as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ross wore a formal ice blue embroidered organza gown with a matching jacket. Mrs. Flanagan selected a long formal gown of peppermint green organza. Mothers and grandmothers of the couple wore corsages of white orchids.

The bride's mother entertained immediately following the ceremony with a garden reception at her home. The bride and bridegroom, Mrs. Ross and Mr. and Mrs. Flanagan greeted guests.

The bride's table was overlaid with handmade lace and net cloth. The four tiered wedding cake was circled at the base with smilax and white and yellow daisies. Centering the table was a silver epergne holding arrangement of white and yellow daisies and baby's breath, with slender white tapers at either side.

Mrs. Joe B. Williams and Mrs. Ken Lundberg served the cake. Mrs. W.E. Thimmes and Mrs. Phil Poovey Jr. poured punch. Mrs. W.H. Fedric also assisted during the afternoon. Mrs. Donald G. Ross Sr., presided at the guest registry. The table was overlaid with a white damask cloth and held an arrangement of white and yellow daisies.

Friends of the bride that assisted at the reception were Miss Mary Semmes and Miss Rachael Semmes of Grenada, Miss. Miss Stacey Spencer, Miss Robin Harper, and Miss Elizabeth Pollard assisted as rice girls.

For a wedding trip to the Grand Cayman Islands, Bahamas, the bride wore an ecru colored two-piece dress.

After their wedding trip, they will make their home in Jackson, Miss. where the bridegroom is employed by Doulton and Compny of England and the bride is employed by Carter's Jewelers of Jackson.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. E.L. Boteler, Jr., of Jackson, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. R.E. Brownell, of Corpus Christi, Tex.; Dr. and Mrs. James A. Chustz, of Jackson, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. James C. Foster, of Jackson, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. David N. Heard of Natchez, Miss.; Mr. Jim Inman of Jackson, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. E.G. Miss Cathy Sue Whitehurst Weds John David Whisnant

Miss Cathy Sue Whitehurst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Warren Whitehurst of Bethel, was married Sunday afternoon in a single ring ceremony to John David Whisnant in the Hickory Grove Free Will Baptist Church.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted William Whisnant of Drexel.

The Rev. Hubert Burriss performed the ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. William Terry Whisnant, pianist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown of white organza over taffeta designed with an open portrait neckline accentuated by a berth collar of rosepoint chantilly lace edged in scalloped lace. The princess line gown featured a flared skirt applied in the floral patterned lace. A ruffle flounce on organza trimmed in a border of the scalloped lace edged the hemline and attached chapel length train.

She wore a white illusion veil edged in chantilly lace held in place by a bandeau headpiece trimmed in lace to complement her gown and carried a nosegay of miniature white carnations and red sweetheart roses.

Miss June Kuleen Whitehurst of Bethel, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a floor length gown of blue polyester cotton applied with green and blue rosebuds. The bodice, which gathered at the waistline, had a V-shaped neckline and was accented with flared sleeves. She carried two long-stemmed red roses.

Bridesmaids were Miss Robin Marie Romer of Mitchellville, Md., cousin of the bride, Mrs. Joseph E. Pilgreen of Bethel, and Miss Martha Jean Ballentine of New Bern. They were dressed as the maid of honor and each carried a long-stemmed red rose.

Miss Janie Louise Whitehurst of Rocky Mount, cousin of the bride, and Miss Gretchen Marie Whisnant of Carrollton, Ga., niece of the bridegroom, were flower girls. They carried baskets filled with white miniature carnations, Marquise daisies and red sweetheart roses.

The mother of the bride wore a formal gown of mint green crepe and a corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a formal gown of aqua polyester crepe and a corsage of red roses. The grandmothers were remembered with corsages of white carnations.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers were Joseph Warren Whitehurst and William Steven Whitehurst and Bethel, brothers of the bride, William Terry Whisnant of Carrollton, Ga., brother of the bridegroom, Edward D'Allessandra of Bethesda, Md., and Howard Marshall of Greenville.

Mrs. Frances Bland directed the wedding.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception at their home.

Little Doubt As To Verdict

The trial of Joan Little in Raleigh has ended in a verdict of not guilty, and thus she is cleared of the ice pick death of Clarence Allgood, the white Beaufort County jailer.

It has been apparent for some days in the trial that the state had not proven its case and in fact, Superior Court Judge Hamilton Hobgood had reduced the charge from first to second degree murder following the state's presentation of the evidence.

Finally the jury was left with the choice between second degree murder, manslaughter or an innocent verdict for Joan Little and among most knowledgeable trial observers there was little doubt that there would be a verdict of not guilty or a mistrial.

The case had brought international attention to North Carolina justice and the trial was ordered moved from Beaufort County to Wake County. Our own Pitt County had been a prime consideration as the location for the trial. While we feel that a jury of Pitt Countians could have rendered a fair decision, it was probably a wise decision to move to the state capital where security could be better controlled and the large number of news people and other observers could be accommodated.

THIS AFTERNOON Gov. Defends Efforts

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—Republican Gov. James E. Holshouser, Jr., has come out swinging in recent days, defending his efforts and his aims from partisan attack.

This departure from his usual stance of standing quietly while the opposition takes potshots is surprising to close observers of the governor's methods. While he has been willing in the past to level criticism at groups or ideas or the collective General Assembly, he rarely engages in personal politics.

Apparently the outspoken criticism of his personal job as governor rankled, however, as Holshouser has responded in kind to both House Speaker James C. Green and to Waverly F. Akins former president of the N.C. Association of County Commissioners and a member of the Wake County governing board.

Green blasted the governor for inaction in settling the squabble between the state Department of Transportation and Department of Corrections in putting prisoners to work on road maintenance and cleaning.

No Squabble? There is, the governor argues, no "petty squabble" between the two departments—the problem is that no funds were set up to pay prisoners for the labor.

In sum, Holshouser argues, "what is keeping prison inmates from doing road maintenance work is the fact that the legislature handed us a bill that is a mess."

He accused Green of passing the buck and said the "embarrassing episode of legislative bungling" could have been avoided if "the Speaker had spent more time scrutinizing legislation... instead of running for governor."

Green, who along with his colleagues in leadership of the assembly insist that highway maintenance funds were earmarked for prison labor—and that this was agreed to by top officials of both Transportation and Corrections—refused to respond to the governor's comments.

Holshouser was the but of much outspoken criticism at last week's meeting of the

All-in-all we think Judge Hamilton Hobgood presided over this case well. He was faced with many problems including the curious grand-standing of civil rights attorney William Kunstler during the course of the trial and handled them with a minimum amount of disruption of the court proceedings.

Probably North Carolina was on trial as much as the defendant as this case got underway. As it proceeded, however, it became obvious to us that Judge Hobgood intended to see that trial procedures would be such that Miss Little's right to be judged fairly would be protected. The result was first a reduction of the charges and finally an outright acquittal.

There are those who argue that Miss Little should never have been charged in the death and no trial should have been held. Those who say that put small value on human life; for here was a man stabbed with an ice pick, dead on a cell bunk. If the trial had not been held, the unanswered questions would have been many. Only in a court of law could the facts in this case have been determined.

The verdict is in for Joan Little. We are satisfied that North Carolina has done the best it could to be fair with the defendant.

Legislative Services Commission. To one suggestion that the governor be called upon to settle the problem, veteran Rep. Liston Ramsey, D-Madison, snorted: "He can't settle the problem... hell, he is the problem."

Speaker Green smiled, and asked Ramsey to repeat his comment... to make sure everybody heard it.

Lack of Leadership Meanwhile, Akins had told fellow county commissioners at a convention in Asheville that lack of initiative and leadership in the governor's office had caused problems for local officials; blasting Holshouser personally in the process.

In a five-page response, Holshouser listed a host of things he has done to "work vigorously to accomplish a full partnership between state and local governments" including setting up an intergovernmental relations office, establishing field offices for state government activities, pushing the activities of regional organizations of government, seeking increased federal revenue sharing, and others.

Holshouser indulged himself in some personal attack by noting that Akins "showed such ignorance... that it can only be attributable to the fact that he is an unannounced candidate for lieutenant governor."

"If Mr. Akins hopes to be a successful candidate for lieutenant governor, he will find out in a hurry that one thing the people look for the most is a candidate who tells the truth..."

While there have been numerous times that Gov. Holshouser has defended his programs from assault, he seldom has engaged in such personal exchanges. This seems to signal a trend for actions during the remainder of his lame-duck term as the first Republican governor in this Century.

Or perhaps the important fact is that when both statements were issued in written form by his office, the governor was out of town on vacation... it is hard to imagine Holshouser saying such personal things about others before reporters and television cameras.

"Now is the time for this good man to return to the aid of his party."

(Many years ago Mr. Buchwald broke a story revealing the true role of the CIA. People laughed at the time—but they aren't laughing any more.)

WASHINGTON—The CIA has been getting so much publicity that one starts to wonder how secret our secret service really is. Esquire magazine devoted an entire issue to the CIA, the New York Times had a five-part series on it, and the CIA is MIAMI (AP) — A Deep South tobacco heiress is holding a celebration here with 88 blacks, Chicanos and other minorities who participated in her million-dollar experiment — the integration of 20 upper crust Southern private schools.

The experiment began in the early 1960s, when Anne Reynolds Forsyth, the granddaughter of North Carolina cigarette magnate R.J. Reynolds, inherited $500,000 from the estate of her mother.

She says she decided "to spend it some other way than on trinkets for myself."

So she spent it on people, using the money — plus another $500,000 in her mother's memorial trust, the Anne C. Stouffer Foundation — to send about 100 minority students to exclusive schools.

Mrs. Forsyth says she did it to show "white boys, the future leaders who mostly come from the private schools, that black people, their contemporaries, could be good students, persons to have conversations with — as well as good at athletics, which they already knew."

Marvin Barnard, one of six children in a black, fatherless family from Richmond, Va., was among the students who joined Mrs. Forsyth on a cruise from Miami to Nassau, Bahamas, this weekend.

Barnard, 22, graduated from Virginia Episcopal School in Lynchburg, Va., and is now a Phi Beta Kappa medical student at Howard University in Wash., D.C.

"I am the first one in my family to go to college — not just my immediate family, my extended family," he said. "Only two people in my family made it to high school."

Cheryl Bass, of Norfolk, Va., and Barbara Mitchell of Winston-Salem, N.C., were the first black students at St. Catherine's girls' boarding school in Richmond in 1970. The school now takes two minority students per year up to six at three grade levels.

"Every year, they say they have two black faces where they had none before," Miss Bass said.

The INSIDE REPORT Did Try Come Too Early?

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
LISBON—The staggering, humiliating defeats that have put the Communist party in a remorseless political squeeze portend a climactic new stage in the Portuguese revolution, restoring a measure of Western influence and ending, at least for a time, the politics of near-anarchy.

Well-informed Soviet-bloc Communists here say privately it is "an unhappy fact" that the Portuguese Communist party, by far the most disciplined and best organized force in this stolid land of nine million, has "stupidly" damaged itself by moving too fast in its reach for total power.

The result: the extraordinary influence of the Catholic church has been unleashed in full fury against the Portuguese Communist party (CPC); youthful military revolutionaries, fired with emotional zeal to impose new forms of some vague, undefined political system following a half century of fascist dictatorship, are suddenly frightened by the spectre of full-blown Communism, and numerically dominant socialists, though fragmented by ideological conflicts, have taken a new offensive.

The abrupt halt of the CPC's steady climb toward total power in Western Europe's only underdeveloped country (and a member of NATO) may prove temporary. Nothing is certain here except uncertainty. But as of today, it is surely not illusory.

The well-publicized, systematic trashing of CPC headquarters in the moderate-conservative northern regions are no longer a phenomenon. The Communist-dominated press long since gave up any attempt to conceal these nightly assaults by inflamed, anti-Communist mobs (and in fact has futilely tried to stimulate a backlash).

Other Editors Say Proving A Point

(Chapel Hill Newspaper)

The joke is old and corny, but it might well prove our point. It concerns the banker who got out of banking and purchased a service station. His first customer came in and ordered 12 gallons of gas. Before the banker realized he was no longer in the banking business he replied, "Now don't you think you could get by on 10?"

One can always get by on a little less than they think they can. The 1975 General Assembly cut the budget of the North Carolina Advancement School at Winston-Salem from $950,000 to $186,000. That tremendous cutback was supposed to be the end of the Advancement School, and that $186,000, in the minds of most members of the legislature, would be needed to phase out the operation.

No such thing. Last week the school moved out of the old City Hospital building in Winston-Salem to smaller, more practical quarters at Graylyn. Owned by Wake Forest University, Graylyn is one of the older, larger homes in the Twin City. Built on the order of Quail Roost, Wake Forest had been using same for a conference center. Wake Forest administrators felt that it could be put to better use for the Advancement School, so a minimal rent arrangement was worked out.

The staff has been cut to be bare survival level, but the Advancement School will continue to operate. It will direct its program to thousands of educators from all over the state who are really concerned about teaching the underachieving student. That $186,000 could well be the best spent money appropriated by the General Assembly.

Should the school continue to carry out its function on this small budget during the next 12-months then the legislature should correct its mistake and appropriate additional money to the program. It is a good sign when people working for a good cause place that cause above their personal needs. Evidently this is the reason for the Advancement School to still be operating. The state should be grateful to both the staff and Wake Forest University. And as the banker said...

To the editor:

Everywhere a kind of neo-paganism resurges and takes over. Its adherents sit in Christian churches of all sorts, in other churches of all sorts, and in no church of any sort. It is the worship of the great god Gonad. Its language is well-known: sex therapy, consenting adults in private, liberated men and women, the ridicule of virgins, situation ethics, proving your love, old enough to have an affair, nudism, the new morality, etc. It equates love with lust. It abhors marriage blessed by the church or legalized by the state. Its members are true gentilians. Lust is only one of the seven deadly sins, but it is the one emphasized by the present and pervading neo-paganism. The Bible is clear in condemning fornication, adultery, onanism, yet many neo-pagans wear Christian labels. Pagan high priests publish magazines, make movies, write books, kill babies — all in worship of Gonad. This new paganism is the worst cancer of our time.

Plan Could Cut Accident Deaths

By VAN VANUICH
Associated Press Writer

A Charleston physician has proposed a plan which he says could substantially reduce the number of deaths from traffic and other accidents.

Dr. Vince Moseley, writing in the latest issue of the South Carolina Medical Association Journal, says the public needs to be trained in first aid.

"Improvement in emergency services is vital, and steps being taken to upgrade them are laudatory, but to effectively decrease traumatic deaths from automobile and other accidents, the public needs to have training and knowledge of first aid, with clear guidelines for action to reinforce this knowledge when an accident occurs," says Moseley.

How would he go about seeing that the public gets this medical training?

"A list of directions and advice should be furnished to home owners by insurance policy agencies, health departments, local medical societies and, also, be placed in every automobile for a start in the right direction. "Spot TV and radio announcements to reinforce such a pamphlet, as a public service, is also a feasible approach. The first aid list could be automatically included in the car owner's manual and kept in the car at all times for quick review."

In order to be effective, Moseley says, any list of first aid procedures should be written clearly and concisely, with simple illustrations. He also suggests the list include a "universal emergency telephone number."

Moseley also advocates a restructuring of driver training programs and licensing tests to insure that motorists have some knowledge of first aid.

"Because of the increasing lethal outcome of automobile accidents, first aid should be included as part of a driver's education program, and questions concerning first aid procedures might also be included on the driver's license test."

He says doctors and other medical personnel are continually being better trained to handle emergencies as the result of accidents. However, he adds, "Better trained emergency technicians, nurses and doctors will not be enough to do the job or make for truly significant reductions in accidental deaths."

"All too often death is as a

OPPORTUNITY COMES ONCE

Alexander the Great had a barbarous, but very dramatic and effective custom. When he besieged a city, he lighted a beacon fire in full view of the city's defenders. They were told that if they asked for mercy before the fire went out, their plea would be granted, but if they did not the city would be pillaged and destroyed.

There is something very elusive about opportunity. It comes and goes, and woe to hold on it when it passes by. We recognize this in business matters, in romance, in friendship, in the fulfilling of personal ambitions. It is most apparent of all in the opportunities God offers us for salvation and the peace of our souls.

Alexander said, "Surrender before the light goes out."

Jesus said, "Yet a little while is the light with you. Walk while ye have the light lest darkness come upon you..."

Firing Report Is Unconfirmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has refused to confirm a report that W. Beverly Carter Jr. has been fired as U.S. ambassador to Tanzania.

The published account reported that Carter was removed from the post because of his involvement in negotiations to free three Stanford University students and a Dutch woman kidnapped from Tanzania by Zaire rebels.

When questioned Sunday by newsmen at the Western White House in Vail, Colo., Kissinger denied that Carter had been transferred out of the State Department, but avoided a direct answer when asked if Carter had been relieved as ambassador.

He said, however: "We are trying to maintain a principle that terrorists cannot negotiate with American officials."

"We want to protect the thousands of Americans who could become victims all over the world once we started that process — not only American tourists and students but also American officials," he said.

The published report said the black diplomat was being reassigned to the U.S. Information Agency, with a reduction in status and pay.

Members of the congressional black caucus said they plan to question Kissinger about the matter at a meeting on Tuesday.

Coast Guard Grabs Trawler

NEW YORK (AP) — The Coast Guard held a Soviet trawler here today after boarding parties scoured nine Soviet fishing vessels and found 25 pounds of protected lobster and crab on board the impounded ship.

A Coast Guard spokesman said Nikolai Ivanovich Nikonov, the master of the 247-foot stern trawler Zaraysk, was to be arraigned today for illegally taking the catch from the Continental Shelf.

The Zaraysk was seized Sunday about 80 miles east of Atlantic City, N.J., then led into port here at the Coast Guard station on Governor's Island.

The seizure was the sixth this year since the government stepped up enforcement of the Continental Shelf Resource Law, which protects American northern lobster, deep-sea crab, stone crab and other marine life for American fishermen.

Although the United States observes a 12-mile limit, the law protects marine life on the underwater shelf, which at some points extends 200 miles into the Atlantic.

Officials said three of the inspected vessels were in complete compliance with the law; five others had minor infractions which were referred to Soviet inspector ships.

If convicted, Nikonov faces a maximum one-year prison term and $100,000 fine.

Agriculture is up to, the CIA immediately leaks a story to the press of some momentous blunder the CIA committed and everyone, including the Russians, thinks we goofed again.

The reason the Department of Agriculture was chosen to be our intelligence arm is that no one really cares what the Agriculture people do. They have an inexhaustible supply of funds that they are supposed to pay out to the farmers for not growing crops.

Using this as a pretext, the department can siphon off large amounts of money to its agents in the form of farm subsidies and no one is the wiser.

Besides this, the department has crop-dusting aircraft, which are really used for spying operations, and all the storage facilities which are supposed to be holding surplus commodities are, in fact, filled with the latest and most sophisticated spy equipment.

The only time the Department of Agriculture was even remotely in the limelight was during the Billie Sol Estes swindle. But just when the heat was on, the CIA pulled off the Bay of Pigs caper, and everyone forgot about Estes.

The CIA angrily denied the charges that they were a front for the Department of Agriculture when I called them. But the evidence is so overwhelming that their protestations just added to, rather than detracted from, my theory.

No organization that gets in the paper as much as the CIA could possibly be part of our secret service, and no organization that gets in the papers as little as the Department of Agriculture could be anything but a worldwide intelligence network.

Let this be a lesson to those who believe the U.S. government does not know what it is doing.

Scotts Claim FBI In Constant Harrassment

By LARRY MARGASAK
Associated Press Writer
HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Attorneys for sports critic Jack Scott and his wife, Micki, say the FBI is subjecting them to massive harassment in its search for fugitive newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst.

The constant surveillance became so severe earlier this year that the couple hid from federal agents between Feb. 27 and April 10, the Scotts charged in legal briefs.

At an Aug. 7 hearing for Mrs. Scott, U.S. Atty. Brandon Alvey called the harassment charge "a figment of somebody's imagination." He had no comment on the new legal briefs.

The papers were filed by the Scotts' attorneys in preparation for a hearing today in U.S. District Court. The Scotts are trying to quash subpoenas ordering their appearance before a federal grand jury investigating the harboring of Miss Hearst.

Mrs. Scott offered sworn statements of several incidents that she said constituted FBI harassment.

She said last July 30 she called a Portland record shop to order tickets for a concert, and told the salesperson she would be right over. When she and her husband arrived, federal agents served them with subpoenas.

"To the best of my knowledge, these agents did not follow us to the record store — they were waiting there for us when we arrived," Mrs. Scott said. "I believe that the only way they could have known where we were going was to have monitored my telephone conversation with the salesperson at the record store."

The Scotts say the harassment covered not only themselves but their friends, including professional basketball star Bill Walton.

They also charge "the exploitation of the physical ailments and emotional instability of Jack's brother, Walter Scott, in order to intimidate and terrorize him into falsely accusing the witnesses, their family and friends of a variety of criminal acts."

The first Canadians were Indians and Eskimos believed to have come from Asia by way of a land bridge to Alaska.

Walter Scott, who had earlier accused his family of aiding Miss Hearst and then offering to turn her in for $100,000, told the Associated Press Friday he would no longer cooperate with the government. But he denied charges by his family that he is an alcoholic and psychopathic liar.

If the Scotts lose their motions to quash, Mrs. Scott could appear before the grand jury this week. Miss Hearst's mother, Catherine, has confirmed she will appear Tuesday in response to a subpoena. The jury is not meeting today.

Jack Scott's subpoena calls for a Sept. 4 appearance. The Scotts have pledged not to testify if forced to appear and expressed willingness to be jailed for noncooperation.

The grand jury is investigating whether the pair rented a house in South Canaan, Pa., near Scranton last summer in which Miss Hearst and two other fugitives, William and Emily Harris, stayed.

Miss Hearst, 21, whose father is president of the San Francisco Examiner, was kidnapped Feb. 4, 1974, by the Symbionese Liberation Army. Later she said she had joined the terrorists group and is now sought with the Harrises on bank robbery and weapons charges.

Seeking Missing

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Searchers dig through the debris of a burned out British oil tanker today for three missing crewmen.

Three bodies were found Sunday during an initial search of the Globtik Sun, which burst into flame Friday after colliding with an oil platform in the Gulf of Mexico. Forty of the 46 crewmen were rescued after the collision.

"The search was only about 10 per cent effective because there was so much debris and ashes aboard," said a Coast Guard spokesman.

"We didn't move the remains because we were afraid of disturbing the ashes and losing any possible clue to their identities. But due to the condition of the remains, it appears unlikely we'll be able to identify them positively."

Coast Guard planes searched an 800 square mile section of the Gulf of Mexico for any survivors until dusk Sunday. The search was to resume at dawn today.

The Globtik Sun, which had been carrying 350,000 barrels of crude oil from the West Indies to Baytown, Tex., was towed to a site about 25 miles south of Galveston, Tex., where the search party boarded it Sunday.

The oil spill was minor.

Wallace Declares He's Able To Be Candidate

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Those who say George Wallace isn't healthy enough to run for president "are paralyzed above the neck," the Alabama governor has declared.

Wallace, here to address the 76th annual convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars this evening, has refused to give up his political ambitions despite being paralyzed from a 1972 assassination attempt.

And although he has not yet formally declared his intentions for the 1976 presidential race, he told reporters Sunday, "I certainly am considering running" in next year's Democratic primaries.

Another prominent conservative considering a 1976 presidential bid, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, was scheduled to speak this morning to the 15,000 VFW delegates.

Asked whether he would consider running next year on a third-party presidential ticket with Reagan, Wallace said he would not rule out the possibility. Nor would he issue a flat refusal to accept a Democratic vice presidential nomination.

"We're in a fluid political condition in this country and anything can happen," Wallace said.

Meanwhile, VFW delegates will vote on resolutions to return Veterans' Day to Nov. 11, to improve pensions, to improve benefits for veterans of the Vietnamese era and to back a national health insurance plan for veterans.

Another resolution under consideration calls for VFW opposition to the Equal Rights Amendment because, it claims, it would cause women in the armed forces to be assigned to combat duty and would result in reverse discrimination in admitting women to the service academies.

Vice President Nelson Rockefeller declined an invitation to address the convention and VFW officials said they considered it a snub.

Officials said the VFW delegates also were miffed at the refusal of California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. to greet the delegates. The official convention program has a black-bordered blank space where Brown's picture would have been placed.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina hog markets were steady today. Tops reported at Wilson 56.50-57.50; High Falls 56.00-57.00; Rocky Mount 57.00-57.50, Salisbury 55.00, Tarboro and Bethel 55.50-56.00.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina hen markets were active today with prices steady. Games were moderate; demand was good. Weights were desirable.

The North Carolina FOB dock weighted average price for less than truck lots of sized, plant grade broilers to be picked up at docks this week is 49.63 cents per pound.

The estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers today was 1,130,000 head.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market put together a moderate advance today on the momentum of last Friday's rally.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 2.74 at 828.38 on top of an 8.60 gain on Friday.

Advancing issues outnumbered declines by better than a 2-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

But trading remained light. Analysts said it was difficult to assign much significance to the uptrend because of the continued sluggish trading.

After the close Friday, the government reported that industrial production rose again in July, matching June's 5 percent increase.

But within that rise were some mixed figures—a strong rise in output of consumer goods, offset somewhat by sluggishness in the business equipment and construction products sectors.

Perhaps the primary favorable influence, analysts said, was the market's own recent performance. The Dow Jones industrial average posted a 7.90 gain last week to break a chain of six weekly declines.

MacMillan was the Big Board volume leader, unchanged at 4% in trading that included a 199,800-share block at 4 1/2.

Inexco Oil rose 3/4 to 7 1/2 in active trading. The stock rose a point Friday after the company reported on results of recent test drilling for uranium in northern Saskatchewan.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks added .20 to 46.22 in the first hour.

The American Stock Exchange market value index was up .25 at 86.41.

Kissinger...

with President Anwar Sadat in Alexandria, Egypt. Kissinger also plans brief visits to Syria, Jordan and Saudi Arabia.

Announcement of the forthcoming trip followed the Israeli cabinet's approval of negotiations conducted so far between Kissinger and Israel's ambassador in Washington.

However, a communique issued after a four-hour cabinet meeting in Jerusalem said there are "important issues still to be settled" in trying to reach a new interim accord for disengagement of Israeli and Egyptian forces in Sinai.

Informed sources said several cabinet ministers were dissatisfied with terms of the agreement, contending that Israel was being shortchanged.

Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon said later that he welcomed Kissinger's return to the Mideast but "there are still problems of clarification and agreement."

In Cairo, a high-ranking Egyptian foreign ministry official said about the Vail announcement: "Of course it's good news."

At the Rocky Mountain resort where he is on a two-week working vacation, President Ford said in a statement Sunday:

"I have worked many hours with the secretary of state analyzing and assessing the situation in the Middle East, and I have now directed him to return to that region in an effort to bring the discussions to a successful conclusion."

"I am hopeful that the parties will successfully conclude an interim agreement which not only would be in the best interest of the parties involved, but also in the best interest of the entire Middle East region and indeed of the whole world."

Kissinger said that among issues still to be worked out are the disposition of forces in the Sinai area and the proposed stationing of American personnel to operate an electronic early warning system in the Sinai buffer zone.

Such direct U.S. presence is considered essential to Israeli willingness to abandon the strategic Mitla and Gidi passes. "The idea of a possible monitoring team has as yet not been fully decided," Kissinger said, adding that in any case, Person of Newark, N.J.

Family visitation will be held at the chapel Tuesday from seven to eight o'clock.

"American participation would be entirely technical."

He emphasized that such an American group, composed of about 100 civilian volunteers, would be stationed in the disputed Sinai territory "only if approved by Congress."

Kissinger noted there would also be a United Nations force interposed between Egyptian and Israeli troops "in a zone of greater depth than has ever existed between hostile forces in the Middle East."

Israeli sources said that in return for Israel's withdrawal eastward in Sinai, under the proposed agreement Egypt must pledge to ease its diplomatic and economic warfare against Israel and formally declare "non-use of force" to solve Mideast disputes.

One issue still in dispute, the Israeli sources said, is the future of the territory Israel will vacate. Israel wants it demilitarized and under U.N. control, a condition Egypt rejects, they said.

In other Mideast developments:

—A U.S. helicopter carrier was to arrive today in Port Said at the northern end of the Suez Canal to be command ship for new minesweeping operations, the official Middle East News Agency reported.

—Small bombs exploded Sunday in the twin cities of Ramallah and El Bira in the occupied West Bank near Jerusalem, causing slight damage but no casualties, the Israeli state radio said.

New Tower

KINSTON — The Federal Aviation Administration will dedicate its new airport traffic control tower at Stallings Field here Thursday at 11 a.m.

An open house will be held at the facility from 12 noon to 3 p.m.

Construction on the new 50-foot tall tower began about a year ago and was completed in April. Cost of the control tower was some $229,000.

By Tuesday night, Ford is to be back in Vail to resume his vacation stay. After more golf, tennis and socializing, he is to return to Washington next Monday, stopping en route in Chicago and Milwaukee.

Lynch, who had worked full shifts Thursday and Friday as a fireman at Ladder Company 172 in Brooklyn, reportedly was asleep on the floor when the lawmen burst in. They said he jumped up, yelling, "What's going on?"

Cerbone said the first thing young Bronfman did after his bonds were removed was to call his father and tell him "Thanks, dad. I'm great. I'll never forget it."

Samuel reported later that he was fed mostly ham sandwiches and cola and his life was threatened throughout the ordeal.

After his rescue, he was taken to his father's apartment while police and agents, acting on Byrne's directions, went to an apartment near Byrne's and found the ransom, still in the two large black plastic trash bags in which Bronfman had delivered it.

Dr. Best Honored

Greenville physician, Dr. Andrew A. Best, was named a member of the Executive committee of the National Medical Association at a meeting of the group in Miami, Fla., last week.

Dr. Best was also cited for extraordinary service to the medical profession with special reference to family practice for his work with the family practice section of the NMA.

Best has served as chairman of the Section of Family Practice of the National Medical Association for the past five years.

Under his leadership—since reactivation in 1970—the section has grown to be the second largest section of the NMA.

Pirates Face 'Jaws' On Return To Home

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates are undoubtedly happy to be back home after four disastrous games in Cincinnati.

But after a two-game mid-week series against San Francisco, the Bucs will find themselves face-to-face once again with the National League's version of "Jaws." The Reds, who have chewed up virtually everything in sight this year, invade Pittsburgh for another four games starting with a twin-night doubleheader next Friday.

Actually, Cincinnati only nibbled at Pittsburgh on Sunday — but the result was the same. A pop-fly single by Dan Driessen broke a sixth-inning tie, then Bill Plummer and Pete Rose singled for seventh-inning runs that gave the Reds a 3-1 victory, their eighth straight triumph.

And it was the Pirates' sixth straight defeat and 11th in their last games, a nosedive that has slashed their once-imposing lead in the East to a scant one-half game over Philadelphia.

In Sunday's other NL games, the Phillies beat San Diego 10-4, St. Louis pulled within two games of first by ripping Atlanta 8-1, New York shut out San Francisco 3-0 to climb within 3½ games of the top, Los Angeles downed Montreal

5-3 and Chicago defeated Houston 11-7.

Phillies 10, Padres 4
In a 14-hit Philadelphia attack on San Diego, Larry Bowa singled for a run in the first inning, then the Phils got three in the second, two on Dave Cash's triple. They got two more in the third on successive homers by Jay Johnstone and Greg Luzinski, his 31st of the season, and wrapped it up with four in the eighth, two on a single by Garry Maddox.

Cardinals 8, Braves 1
The Cards might be working up a love-hate relationship with the Reds. Cincinnati, having helped them the past four games, now invades St. Louis for a three-game set before heading for Pittsburgh.

"I expect the Reds to play us the way they've played us all year," Cards' Manager Red Schoendienst said. "It's important for a team to have momentum — and that's something they've had all year. But we've got a little momentum, too, and we'll battle them."

They beat the Braves handily as Ken Reitz drove in three runs and Ron Fairly added two RBI.

Mets 3, Giants 0
Tom Seaver drove in one run and scored one to become the league's first 17-game winner with relief help from Jerry Koosman. Seaver pitched three-hit ball for 7 1-3 innings and fanned six Giants to take over the NL strikeout lead with 175.

The Mets gave him the only run he needed on third-inning doubles by Mike Phillips and Del Unser.

Dodgers 5, Expos 3
Bill Russell's two-run single capped a decisive three-run, second inning that carried Los Angeles past the Expos.

Blanda Helps Beats Steelers

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

When George Blanda broke into the National Football League with the Chicago Bears, he was the third-string quarterback behind Sid Luckman and Johnny Lujack.

Luckman and Lujack are just fond memories now, but Blanda is still winning NFL games, although he's still the No. 3 quarterback.

Sunday, the 47-year-old Blanda passed to Morris Bradshaw for a 53-yard touchdown, then kicked a 20-yard field goal with eight seconds remaining to lift the Oakland Raiders to a 24-21 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Sunday night, fullback Joe Wilson, given a chance when Sam Cunningham was injured, sprinted 6 and 34 yards for touchdowns as the New England Patriots crushed the Minnesota Vikings 36-10.

In Saturday's games, it was Miami 20, Detroit 14; New York Giants 17, San Diego 7; Los Angeles 10, San Francisco 6; New Orleans 24, Denver 21; Houston 24, Washington 13; Green Bay 13, Chicago 9; New York Jets 14, St. Louis 13; Cleveland 14, Philadelphia 6, and Atlanta 10, Baltimore 3.

Dallas is at Kansas City Monday night.

Blanda, who holds the NFL record for most completions in a game, now usually sees action only as a placekicker. But after Ken Stabler, Oakland's starting quarterback, connected with Fred Biletnikoff for a 40-yard TD, Blanda got his chance. He responded with the scoring pass play to Bradshaw.

Then, in the closing seconds, rookie quarterback David Humm, who threw a 27-yard scoring pass to Dave Casper, moved the Raiders downfield to the Pittsburgh one. Two plays later, with Oakland on the three and eight seconds remaining in the game, Blanda booted the winning field goal.

Pittsburgh scored on a 26-yard pass play from Terry Bradshaw to Frank Lewis, a 55-yard run by Bradshaw and a four-yard run by Preston Pearson.

At Foxboro, Mass., Wilson got his chance when Cunningham suffered a bruised hip on New England's second series of downs. The Patriots other TDs were scored by Mack Herron and rookies Allen Carter and Steve Grogan, while John Smith added a 31-yard field goal.

Minnesota's Sam McCullum returned a punt 79 yards for a touchdown and Fred Cox booted a 28-yard three-pointer. Los Angeles defeated San Francisco for the 12th time in 13 exhibition matchups. But the Rams lost rookie guard Greg Horton, who suffered ligament damage to his left knee. Horton underwent surgery Sunday and may be lost for the season.

Tony Baker's four-yard scoring run and Grant Guthrie's 19-yard field goal gave the Rams the victory.

John Hadl and Jerry Tagge each passed for touchdowns as Green Bay defeated the Bears. Barry Smith caught a 12-yard TD pass from Hadl while Tagge combined with Eric Torkelson for a one-yard TD. The Bears got a 51-yard scoring pass from Bobby Douglass to Bo Rader.

Rookie Fred Winfrey and veteran Norm Bulaich helped Miami to victory. Winfrey scored the winning touchdown in the third period on a 39-yard run. Bulaich caught an Earl Morrall pass for a nine-yard score.

Hitting on eight straight passes, Craig Morton led the Giants by San Diego with first-period scoring tosses to Walker Gillette and Joe Dawkins. Archie Manning found the target on 23 of 29 passes for 212 yards and two touchdowns as New Orleans knocked off Denver.

Houston's Dan Pastorini threw scoring passes to Ken Burrough and Billy Johnson and Johnson also added an 89-yard punt return as the Oilers clipped Washington. Dave Hampton scored from the three and Nick Mike-Meyer booted a 28-yard field goal as Atlanta trimmed Baltimore.

Quarterback Mike Phipps clicked with rookie Willie Miller for a 32-yard score and Hugh McKinnis scored from the one in Cleveland's triumph over Philadelphia, while Al Woodall and John Jones filled in for a sidelined Joe Namath and passed the Jets to victory, but it was Bobby Howfield's point-after kick that decided the contest against St. Louis.

BOSTON (AP) — The Montreal Canadiens will help the Boston Bruins open their 1975-76 National Hockey League season at Boston Garden Oct. 9.

It will be one of 40 home games. The Bruins have a regular 80-game slate plus an exhibition game against the Soviet Union First Division champions Jan. 8 in Boston.

Kiner Makes Hall Of Fame

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Ralph Kiner Sr. never saw his son play baseball. Beatrice Kiner wanted her son to be a doctor. But Ralph Kiner Jr. wanted a life in sports, and he got his way — the way that led to the Hall of Fame.

"If I got my baseball ability from heredity, it wasn't from my father," he said fondly before his induction into the shrine. "My dad was such a terrible player, they wouldn't let him into the games. But since he was the most honest guy around, the fellows let him hold the money they'd bet on the games."

Kiner got his talent from someplace, starting out shagging flies for a neighbor's son in a vacant lot in Alhambra, Calif., some forty years ago. Then it was sandlot games, minor league ball, and eventually the majors — with some stops along the way.

"During the depression, I had a magazine route. But it took up my afternoons, so I started burying the magazines in my back yard and mowing lawns in order to give the magazine back its money," he recalled. "It worked out great until my mother found out. She sent me to a military academy."

Beatrice Kiner, a nurse during World War I, is bedridden now, totally blind and 80 per cent deaf at 93 years of age. She wasn't here to watch her boy accorded the highest honor a baseball player can earn.

Kiner was installed by the Baseball Writers Association of America, receiving only one more vote than the minimum for election 15 years after ending a career that produced 369 home runs, 1,015 runs batted in and a .279 batting average over 10 seasons with the Pittsburgh Pirates, Chicago Cubs and Cleveland Indians.

He was to be joined by Billy Herman, a busy second baseman who set or equalled four records for putouts and was one of the top hit-and-run batters during the 14 active years of his career with the Cubs, Brooklyn Dodgers, Boston Braves and Pirates.

Orantes Wins

Nastase Gets Nasty Again

By TIM WHITE
AP Sports Writer

Make believe you haven't heard it before: Manuel Orantes is in the winner's circle and Ilie Nastase is in the doghouse.

The Spanish clay court ace topped the ill-mannered Romanian 7-6, 6-0, 6-1 Sunday to capture the men's single title and the $16,000 first prize at the Canadian Open Tennis championships.

It was the second consecutive clay court title for Orantes, who secured the U.S. Championships last week at Indianapolis.

It also marked the umpteenth time that Nastase's on-court insolence had raised the ire of international tennis officials.

The organizers of the tournament afterward filed a formal complaint with the Men's International Professional Tennis Council over not only Nastase's allegedly listless play, but also the repeated double faults of Bjorn Borg of Sweden and Jan Kodes' poor sportsmanship.

Kodes stalked off the court during a second-round match he was losing.

Nastase, who has a history of unsteady play in the wake of unfavorable calls, had command of the early match with leads of 3-0 and 4-1 before Orantes, the No. 3 seed, got his bearings.

Marcie Louie of San Francisco scored a 6-1, 4-6, 6-4 decision over Charlotte Dupont in

William And Mary Looks Ahead After Close Call By Student Body

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(Second of a series)

With one week left in the football season last year, William & Mary was on the verge of disaster. The Indians had just bowed to East Carolina, 31-10, and a meeting had been set to decide the future of the entire athletic program at the country's second oldest institution of higher learning. There were many members both of the faculty and the student body who wanted to de-grade athletics to a more-or-less intramural level.

The Indians were 3-7 at that point and were going up against Richmond, a team that had thriddled East Carolina earlier. Morale was so low it was almost not present at all. Most team members, along with the coaching staff believed that this would be the "final" game in more ways than one. Most were wondering where they would be next year.

But, surprisingly, the school voted to continue the athletic program, and to try and build it even better than it had been in the past.

That news turned the season around for the Indians. That Saturday they destroyed Richmond, 54-12.

It doesn't mean the Indians are a contender this year. "In four years, we've gone from contender to last," Coach Jim Root admits. "But we've had a lot of problems during that time, mostly the financial ones."

Now, however, the alumni appear to have come to the rescue, giving more help. "We've already raised $60,000 more than last year," Root said. "We have a super attitude right now. But we have to impress people that it doesn't happen like that," Root said, snapping his fingers.

The long battle over finances and the future of the athletic program has resulted in the downfall of the Indians as contenders. Because of this, the most talented people on the team have graduated, or are in the freshman class.

"We have youth and enthusiasm," the coach said. "It's going to be rough to win without experience. We don't have any super athletes, so we're going to have to do a lot on enthusiasm with limited talent."

The Indians in the past few years have relied heavily on the running game. They will still operate out of the veer, but will put more emphasis on the passing game. "We won't have anyone among the leading rushers in the conference," Root said, "but we should have one of the better passers."

Root is pinning his leadership hopes on senior Paul Kruis, 6-1, 180, who will take over for the departed Bill Deery, a three-year starter. He will see competition for the quarterback spot however, but appears likely to hold to it.

Joining him in the backfield will be Tommy Smith, a junior back at the tailback spot, and Scott Goodrich, a junior with experience at fullback.

The end spots are somewhat up in the air. Keith Fimian, a sophomore; Bob Szczypinski, a senior, and junior Eric Bahner are working at split end. Randy Knight, and Tommy Butler, both sophomores, are trying for the flanker spot, with Kevin Barnes, a senior, and Tom Cheslock, a junior, battling for the tight end position.

The interior line does have experience. Senior Paul Witkovitz and junior Jack Kroeger return at guard. The tackle spots see junior Evar Lewis joining by less experienced sophomores Allen Goode and Bill Melrose. A junior, Doug Gereck appears set for the center position.

Defensively, the Indians will operate from the 5-2 formation. Steve Dalton and Bruno Schmalhofer return at ends, and Root feels these two men are among the best in the conference. Ken Brown returns at one tackle, with Doug Pearson moving into the other one.

That leaves the nose guard spot, and there a battle is shaping up between Gary Meenan, Bob Booth, and Ron Duman.

Root also is pleased in his linebacking crew, calling them two of the best in the conference. They are Craig McCurdy and Jeff Hosmer, both returning starters.

Scott Hayes, who lettered last year as a freshman, will probably handle the strong safety, while Lou Case returns at the free safety slot.

A number are viewing for the other two spots, including Gray Oliver, Mickey Carey, Sam Patton and Scott Back, all of whom started at one time or another in the past.

"Our defense is going to have to improve this year," Root said. "In the past, we've been able to outscore our opponents. But this year, we've got to hold them down to be able to win."

"We really have two seasons. We play four of our toughest games on the road to open the season—North Carolina, East Carolina, Pittsburgh and The Citadel. After that, we'll know what we've got by the time we finally come home."

The Indians appear to have hopes for the future, but this year, they've been picked by most as the team most likely to hold down the bottom (not including ineligible Davidson). Root is hopeful that it won't be that bad, but admits that for the Indians, the best is yet to come.

The William & Mary schedule: Sept. 6, at North Carolina; Sept. 20, at East Carolina; Sept. 27, at Pittsburgh; Oct. 4, at The Citadel; Oct. 11, Ohio; Oct. 18, at Rutgers; Oct. 25, Furman; Nov. 1, VPI at Norfolk Oyster Bowl; Nov. 8, at VMI; Nov. 15, Colgate; Nov. 22, Richmond.

Scores Oakland Faces Hot Tigers

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

The three-time world champion Oakland A's don't scare easily, but they were scared of the baseball Sunday, and tonight their knees are shaking because they're up against one of baseball's hottest teams — the Detroit Tigers.

The reason for their baseball phobia was Milwaukee fireballer Pete Broberg who hit three A's batters, the same number who hit him back. Broberg gave up three hits, none of them in the second inning when the A's scored all their runs in a 3-1 victory over the Brewers.

Broberg walked Billy Williams, then hit Sal Bando and Gene Tenace on successive pitches to load the bases. A walk to Jim Holt forced in the first run, Bando scored on a double play grounder, then Tenace scored on Robin Yount's 34th error of the season.

The A's are afraid of being bitten by the Tigers, who have finally found their teeth after 19 straight losses. Ray Bare broke the futility string Saturday night with a two-hitter as the Tigers won 8-0, then rookie Vern Riffe made it two in a row Sunday with a five-hit, 7-0 victory over the California Angels.

Riffe, whose 2-0 victory over the Yankees July 28 was the Tigers' last victory before Saturday night, was backed by an 11-hit attack which included Tom Veryzer's two-run homer and three hits by Ron LeFlore.

Orioles 4, Rangers 0

Baltimore's Jim Palmer, the major league's first 19-game winner at 19-7, silenced Texas on four hits. This was his third shutout in his last four outings, two of which were two-hitters. He has pitched nine shutouts this season.

Ken Singleton, who stroked a two-run double to extend his hitting streak to 11 games, now has 19 hits in his last 33 at-bats for a .633 pace.

Indians 14, Twins 5

Left-hander Fritz Peterson now owns both Indians victories in their last six games. But this triumph actually belonged to Cleveland's hitters who mauled five Minnesota pitchers for 19 hits, highlighted by George Hendrick's three-run homer and Buddy Bell's four RBI.

Royals 5, Yankees 3

John Mayberry took over the American League lead in home runs with his 29th of the season — his third in the last three games — to help Kansas City beat Catfish Hunter and the Yankees. Paul Splittorff pitched a five-hitter and sent Hunter to his 12th defeat in 28 decisions.

Red Sox 2-4, White Sox 6-3

Denny Doyle's two-out single in the 11th inning gave Boston a second-game triumph after Jorge Orta's two-run single in a three-run second inning carried the White Sox to victory in the opener. The split, coupled with Baltimore's victory over Texas, cut the Red Sox' AL East lead over the Orioles to 6½ games.

Bies Takes Hartford Win

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — "Winning never left my mind," Don Bies said.

"I was trying to get it out of my mind, trying to blank it out, trying not to think about winning and just concentrate on what I'm doing."

"But I couldn't do it. I was beginning to wonder if I'd ever win."

The wonder, along with the frustration, failure and disappointment, came to an end Sunday when Bies, an easy-going former club pro, rolled in a six-foot birdie putt on the second playoff hole and beat Hubert Green for the title — and $40,000 — in the Greater Hartford Open Golf Tournament.

"I couldn't believe it — I still can't believe it — when the putt went in the hole and I was a winner," he said.

Bies, who joined the tour almost by accident eight years ago, had won a lot of money but nothing else in his pro career. At 37 he may be the oldest first-time winner ever. The records don't show.

"I thought I might never win," Bies said. "I've played reasonably good over the years. I've been in contention before. About half those times, when I was in contention, I played pretty good. It wasn't like I was choking all the time. Sometimes the putts just wouldn't fall. Sometimes somebody just played better than I did."

This time the quiet, low-key Bies got it home.

It was a battle.

Navy Has Smallest Number Of Ships Since Before Pearl Harbor

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP)—Navy Secretary J. William Middendorf says the U. S. Navy now has "the smallest number of ships since 1½ years before Pearl Harbor" and must expand.

Approximately 600 persons were present Saturday as Middendorf and Georgia Gov. George Busbee spoke at the commissioning of the Navy's newest nuclear-powered attack submarine, the USS Richard B. Russell, named for the late chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

"Sen. Russell would have harbored a healthy suspicion of what we know as detente. He would have wanted disarmament as much as any man...but he would have demanded a firm guarantee of no violations," said Busbee of the Georgian for whom the ship was named.

Middendorf followed a theme that has become characteristic of speeches by Navy officials when he said the U.S. fleet is down to 482 ships—"one-half the number we had six years ago. We must rebuild."

The main effort should be in "pursuing the frontier of technological knowledge" in future shipbuilding, Williams said.

The Navy's 106 nuclear-powered submarines include 40 attack subs.

The Richard B. Russell is the 38th and last of the Sturgeon class and carries the most advanced sonar and underwater weapons systems available today.

Busbee said the submarine "embodies the spirit of Dick Russell. It is a ship of peace."

He recalled a speech in which Russell had said that "future generations of Americans, serving as...slaves, will forever curse us if we fail to take every necessary step to ensure our national safety and security."

"This commissioning of a great nuclear submarine bearing the name of Richard B. Russell is but another of those necessary steps," said the Georgia governor.

Storm Hits Chapel Hill

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—While much of Chapel Hill was inconvenienced by a power loss caused by a wind storm Sunday evening, restaurants and movie houses enjoyed a booming business.

Power was knocked out shortly after 5 p.m. and repair crews worked through the night removing branches from power lines, resetting fuses and repairing transformers. City cleaning crews were also busy clearing streets, some of them blocked, of tree limbs, trash cans and other debris.

Two of the seven circuits serving the area were out and the other five were damaged, Grey Culbreth of the University Service Plants said. Police said there were no injuries.

He described the downtown area as "eerie" before power was restored. "As night falls in this community, the lights come on. But the lights didn't come on," he said.

Power for the police station was interrupted for a while but the hospital was spared the storm's effects. Power officials said the area around the hospital has few trees so the lines remained intact.

Levinson said business boomed for restaurants and movie houses that still had power were well attended.

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KQ9 ♠KQJ752 ♣A72
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
3 NT Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—Two diamonds. Despite a powerful suit and good overall values, this hand does not measure up to a jump rebid of three diamonds, which would create a forcing-to-game auction. True, your encouraging rebid might result in missing a game, but the alternatives are unappealing, so you just have to hope that if partner has a good hand, he will bid again.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q10954 ♠QJ98 ♣KQ102
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♠ Pass Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 NT Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—Obviously, partner has a good hand but was compelled to pass at his first turn because of his length and strength in the enemy suit. Nevertheless, your hand is so unbalanced that you should view a no trump contract with disfavor and look for a better contract. We suggest a bid of three of either minor, with a slight preference for clubs.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠K8 ♠QJ8752 ♣94 ♣A73
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ 2 ♠ 2 ♠ Pass
2 NT Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—Bid five clubs. Even though you might have responded under pressure, partner leaped to four hearts. Your king of spades is a most powerful card and suggests a possible slam. Cue-bidding the ace of clubs is a sound way to launch the investigation and is slightly superior to a bid of five hearts.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AQ763 ♠K9 ♣AJ2 ♣1087
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ 2 NT ?
What action do you take?

A.—Pass. East surely intends his no trump overall as unusual—a takeout for the minors—but since you have a minimum opening bid, you are relieved of the responsibility of making a rebid. Partner's next action will give you a clearer idea of the hand's possibilities.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠965 ♠92 ♣AQ7 ♣109643
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass
3 ♠ Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—Bid four spades. Although you have no more than the minimum 6 points, you promised with your response and partner's bid is not forcing, your hand contains two features partner doesn't know about—three-card spade support and a ruffing value in hearts. That is just enough to tip the decision in favor of raising to game.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K98 ♠1072 ♣J84 ♣K762
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass
2 ♠ Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—Give preference to three hearts. Partner's "reverse" shows a strong hand with longer hearts than spades. Therefore, it is your clear duty to return to his first-bid suit, where you have at least an eight-card fit. This action shows no extra values on your part, so partner is free to pass if he has a minimum for his previous bidding.

NORTH CAROLINA Farm Tips

From
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

By Dr. J. W. Pou

North Carolina, which in 1974 moved up two notches to eighth place among the states in number of hogs and pigs on farms, may strengthen its relative standing in pork production even further this year, according to Bill Humphries, Agricultural Information Specialist at North Carolina State University.

Largely because of high feed prices and other rising costs, the nation's hog producers cut back on pig output this year by about 15 percent. The number of pigs farrowed this spring, in fact, was the smallest since 1935.

Tar Heel farmers, however, reduced spring farrowings by only around 8 percent.

Smaller supplies of pork have been on the market this year as a result of the cutbacks. Per capita consumption may fall to 58 pounds or less, compared with about 66 pounds in 1974.

Economists J. E. Ikerd and C. R. Weathers of North Carolina State University expect consumer demand for pork to be relatively weak in 1975. They said smaller increases in personal income, more widespread unemployment, and an abundant supply of beef will be negative demand factors for pork during the year.

For a number of years, hogs have accounted for a major portion of the state's gross income from livestock other than poultry. In 1973, cash receipts from hog sales plus the value of pork consumed on the farm reached a record $215 million.

Hog production by Tar Heel farmers continues to become more commercialized. More than a third of the hogs produced in 1973 came from herds of 500 or more head.

However, because of rising costs of other foods, there was an increase in 1973 in home consumption of pork. The value of hogs consumed on the farm rose from $11.6 million in 1972 to $17.9 million in 1973—a reversal of a downward trend extending back to World War II.

Hog prices to producers have fluctuated sharply over the past three years—from a low of about $24 per 100 pounds in April, 1972, to a high of nearly $60 in August, 1973. These are average figures paid for barrows and gilts at seven national markets.

The average price to producers in 1974 was $35.50, down $5 a hundred from 1973. Prices recently in North Carolina have been considerably above last year's average.

Future prices for both slaughter hogs and feeder pigs will be influenced by the size of this year's grain harvest. The nation's 1974 corn crop fell short of expectations by 2 billion bushels. If there is a large grain crop this year, considerable expansion in hog production probably will follow.

While many hog producers are taking a wait-and-see attitude, especially regarding grain supplies and prices, the North Carolina State University economists believe that North Carolina farmers who expand swine production will be ahead of the game.

"Hog production will be profitable in North Carolina over the next few years. A good time to expand has always been when the current hog business was not very profitable," Ikerd and Weathers said.

Favor Recycling For Packaging

NEW YORK (AP) — "Many would-be corporate users may feel that consumers believe recycled packaging is less desirable, but results of a recent survey show this belief to be mistaken," says Herbert C. Upson, a paper industry official.

Upson, manager of the Recycled Paperboard Division of the American Paper Institute, reports the survey shows that nine out of ten consumers like the look of recycled packaging. Further, half stated that, other things being equal, they "definitely" or "probably" would switch to brands in recycled packages.

The survey, conducted by a leading market research firm, indicates that half of the consumers interviewed—the majority of whom are homemakers—would have a higher regard for brands packaged in recycled fibers, according to Upson.

It also shows, he adds, that consumers consider recycling the best means of "disposing" of waste paper. Knowing that the newspapers they save for recycling can return to them as new packaging, consumers said, makes saving those newspapers more meaningful.

"Though consumers seem to favor stepped-up recycling efforts, less than one-fourth of all paper and cardboard consumed in America today comes from recycled paper waste," Upson points out.

According to Upson, about 65½ million tons of paper and paperboard were used in the United States in 1974. Approximately 14 million tons of this went into permanent use in books and as various periodicals and papers that were permanently filed and stored.

About 14 million tons were recycled into new newspaper, paper and paperboard and building material, while the rest eventually entered the solid waste stream and was disposed of as municipal solid waste by being incinerated, put into sanitary landfills or deposited in open dumps.

Paper waste disposal costs cities about $35 to $40 a ton—one of the largest of municipal expenditures after schools and roads, according to Upson.

"Although more total tonnage of waste paper is recycled today than in 1945, the rate of recycling has been declining since World War II," he points out. "Currently, production of recycled paperboard (cardboard) is showing particularly strong declines, off 35 percent from year-ago levels, on an average."

"The sagging economy has caused demand for recycled paper among big users in the auto and housing industries to decrease sharply. It's estimated, for instance, that 300 pounds of recycled newspapers are used in the manufacture of an average American-made car, and 2,000 pounds are used in the construction of a new home."

Open House

A special open house for military retirees and their dependents will be held at Seymour Johnson AFB on Friday, August 29.

Activities for the special open house will begin with a formal military parade at 8:30 a.m. on the flight line in front of base operations.

Other activities being planned include briefings and question and answer sessions on topics of interest to local military retirees. Such topics include hospital and dental clinic expansion, use of special service facilities such as the clubs and golf course, and use of BX and commissary facilities.

In announcing the special day, Col. Robert D. Russ, 4th Tactical Fighter Wing commander said, "A number of retired personnel live in nearby communities. These men and women have served with distinction. It is only fitting and proper that we should honor them by setting aside a special day."

Farm Scene

By HENRY C. RIDDICK
Associate Agricultural Extension Agent

Dry weather in June has resulted in severe reduction to the corn crop in certain areas of the county. A number of fields obviously did not recover and will not have enough grain to harvest. Many other fields appeared to recover, especially fields with single-cross hybrids which normally have been pollinating the last week of June. In these fields the upper portion of the plant recovered and it looks like normal ear development except that they have very few kernels. These fields suffered from very poor pollination.

If you fall into this situation of extremely low corn yields, you should contact the ASCS Office about your eligibility for collection of disaster payments. Two very important points in qualifying are that you request assistance within 15 days after harvest and that you do not destroy the residue in the field until adjustments have been made. For further information, contact the ASCS Office, telephone 752-6112.

Fall Gardens

Gardeners should pay close attention to insect attack on germinating seedlings. A well-timed insecticide application may make the difference between having or not having a stand.

The application of a sidedress fertilizer to those long season plants like tomatoes, okra, and egg plant would help ensure productive plants through frost. If your tomato plants are beginning to look extremely bad, with few fruit being formed, prune them back to a good, strong sucker, fertilize and you will be surprised at the outcome.

Advise Bark In Mulching

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Dr. Walter W. Johnson, a wood product specialist at Pennsylvania State University, says bark is gaining in popularity as a mulching material and soil conditioner.

He said use of bark mulch protects plant roots from excessive heat and drought in summer months and aids in resisting alternate freezing and thawing during the winter.

In addition, as the bark mulch breaks down through a natural decaying process, it helps to improve soil texture. Also, bark mulch will not crust, blow away or wash away under normal conditions.

Dr. Johnson said because of the bark's long life, it is possible to realize its benefits for three to six years after the initial application with only a minimal amount of new material added to maintain a proper depth.

Bark mulch comes in various sizes and grades. Bark dust is usually offered in three grades—fine, medium and coarse. It is also available in nugget sizes and in chunks that may range from two to three inches.

"Bark mulch, properly applied, makes a neat and artistic appearance," Johnson said. "It also brings renewed vigor in new rich humus beds to the plants."

Copters In Varied Roles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The helicopter has become a valuable aircraft because of the energy crisis.

The National Geographic Society says a survey shows that the whirlybird is in demand by oil and coal companies.

It also ranges far beyond coal and petroleum fields to perform mercy missions, herd livestock, dust crops, control traffic, fight crime, fight forest fires, reseed forests, stock fish in remote lakes and streams and aid in pollution-control projects.

Helicopters fly regular pollution patrols over places like San Francisco Bay.

But helicopters are also taking the place of the cattle rustler and his horse or truck. Not long ago, a whirlybird swooped out of the sky and spirited away a number of large hogs.

The first helicopter destined for useful work was not seen publicly until an early Sikorsky model rose from Bridgeport, Conn., in 1942 for delivery to the U.S. Army Air Corps. It mystified onlookers on its 600-mile maiden voyage. One startled air-raid spotter reported, "A windmill just flew by."

LITTLE ROCK IS PERMANENT CAPITAL. LITTLE ROCK (AP) — In 1821, Little Rock became the capital of Arkansas Territory. It has been the permanent state capital since 1836, when Arkansas became the 25th state of the Union.

NEW 1975, 12 x 60, 2 bedrooms, carpet in

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I was invited to a house party last Saturday given by a young woman who works with me. (I'm a 23-year-old divorcee.)

A rather good-looking guy introduced himself and said, "Another fellow and I have a $20 bet on. He says you're wearing falsies, and I say you're not. If you prove it to me, the $20 is yours."

It so happens that I am 38-26-34, and I don't need falsies, so I said, "You win." Then I took him into the bedroom, unbuttoned my blouse just far enough to prove it and gave him a quick look.

He collected the $20 from his friend and gave it to me. I told him I was going to put it in the poor box at church the next morning, which is exactly what I did.

On Monday it was all over the office that I had done a strip-tease dance at the party!

Abby, I swear, I'm telling it like it was. Do you think what I did was so terrible? It was for a good cause.

MISS JUDGED

DEAR MISS: Face it, dear. You sold a quick peek for $20—a foolish gambit for a young woman who values her reputation.

DEAR ABBY: When does a mother say no? I am 77, have worked in factories for 44 years and have raised three sons alone after an early divorce. Two of my boys are fine. The youngest is my problem.

Mel, now 50, was in the Navy and graduated from college under the G.I. bill, but his big dream was getting into show business. (He is a good musician but not good enough to work the big time, which is all he will settle for.)

I have lost track of all the money Mel has cost me. It seems like all I do is draw money out of the bank for him. My income is only $260 a month, and I am eating up my nest egg.

My other sons tell me I am a fool and that Mel can work if he wants to. (They have both sent him money but gave up.) Mel can sell, but he hates to get up in the morning and work a regular routine. He still thinks he can make it in show business.

How can a mother refuse her son? I love him so much. He never married. What am I to do?

MOTHER LOVE

DEAR MOTHER: Don't send Mel another penny! He probably never stuck with a job because he knew he didn't have to—Mother would support him. Tell him that you are all tapped out.

Not everyone can do what he wants to do for a living, in which case he does what he CAN. At 50, it's time Mel became a man. And at 77, you've earned a rest.

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter written by the lady who was told off when she mistook a little boy for a "nice little girl" in the supermarket.

When I was a kid, I remember going to the carnival, and for 25¢, a man would guess your weight. Now for another 25¢, he'll guess your sex.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Volunteer Says LSD Helped Him

CLAREMONT, N.C. (AP) — A North Carolina man says he voluntarily took LSD in 1964 as part of a National Institute of Mental Health project and the drug has changed his life for the better.

Fifty-two-year-old Russell Snyder of Claremont in Catawba County says he cannot understand why many persons object to government testing of the powerful hallucinogen on volunteers.

"It just kind of made me see things in a different light," says Snyder, who took the drug while undergoing psychiatric treatment in Baltimore. "It gave me an entirely different attitude. Afterwards, I joined the church and my life greatly improved."

Snyder said he took LSD on December 23, 1964, at the Spring Grove Hospital near Baltimore under the supervision of Dr. Sanford Unger. He said the 10-hour treatment followed two weeks of physical testing and preparation by staff psychiatrists.

Unger said he is not free to talk about it. He would not say if Snyder was ever under his care.

Snyder, who manages a truck terminal, said the doctors told him they had a powerful drug which might help doctors in treating mental disorders. He and his wife were told the drug could either change him for the better, make his problems worse or have no effect.

In a report prepared for the staff, Snyder wrote in these words: "Prior to this day, I never believed in miracles. But now I can truthfully say there is such a thing."

The National Institute of Mental Health, an agency of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, has conducted LSD experiments on volunteers since 1953 to determine if the drug were useful in treating neuroses, alcoholism and schizophrenia, according to a spokesman.

Spring Grove State Hospital outside Baltimore is the site of the Maryland Psychiatric Research Center, whose superintendent, Dr. Albert Kurland, recently acknowledged that LSD experiments had taken place at the facility.

Kurland declined today to discuss Snyder, saying "We need permission to release any information on a patients." He also declined to say whether Snyder had been treated at the facility.

Technology Could Aid In Dictator's Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Senate panel probing U.S. intelligence agencies says the government has the technological capacity to impose "total tyranny" if a dictator ever came to power.

"There would be no place to hide," Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the committee, said Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Church said the eavesdropping technology given the government by intelligence agencies would enable the government to impose total tyranny "and there would be no way to fight back because the most careful effort to combine together in resistance to the government, no matter how privately it was done, is within the reach of the government to know, such is the capability of this technology."

Church said that U.S. intelligence agencies, "in the need to develop a capacity to know what potential enemies are doing," perfected a "very extensive capability of intercepting messages wherever they may be in the airwaves.

"Now, that is necessary and important to the United States as we look abroad at enemies or potential enemies. We must know," Church said.

"At the same time that capability at anytime could be turned around on the American people and no American would have any privacy left, such as telephone conversations, telegrams, it doesn't matter."

In other matters, Church said: "Covert CIA actions on behalf of Portugal's non-Communist majority would 'at least conform to our values as a country and to our professed principles.' But he indicted such a move would be unwise because 'right now there is a very grave risk of CIA exposure' and because Portuguese democrats were getting help from European countries."

He did not share the view that Central Intelligence Agency Director William E. Colby should be replaced. Colby "has been forthcoming" with his committee, Church said.

—There was no hard evidence linking any former president or other high administration officials to plots to assassinate Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

—He now would qualify the statement he made in mid-May that every major or politically sensitive covert CIA operation had been cleared by the White House and presumably was known to the various presidents. Church indicated that more recent evidence has led him to conclude that such an absolute statement is inaccurate.

—He stands by his earlier statement that the CIA acted as a "rogue elephant" out of control and said such a characterization is supported by the evidence.

—He declines to rule out a possible presidential candidacy in 1976 but said any such decision would be deferred until after his committee's work is finished.

TV Service Claims May Be Prohibited

WASHINGTON (AP) — The makers of GE and Panasonic color television sets would be prohibited under a proposed government order from claiming superiority for their appliances unless the claims are backed by valid data.

In complaints filed Sunday, the Federal Trade Commission alleged that General Electric Co. and Matsushita Electric Corp. of America were guilty of false advertising when they claimed their sets were more reliable than those of other manufacturers.

The agency's action resulted from responses by six major TV producers to an FTC order to substantiate their advertising claims.

The four other companies — Zenith Radio Corp., RCA Corp.,

Philco-Ford and GTE-Sylvania Inc. — were not named in the complaints.

The FTC said in its complaint against GE that there was no "reasonable basis" for claims that its color sets required less service than those of Zenith or RCA. It also said independent surveys failed to support GE's claim that its sets required less service than all other major U.S. brands.

The agency said Matsushita advertised that its Panasonic Quattracolor CT 701 color set was rated by the National Electronics Association as the "easiest to service of all color televisions they tested in plant through June 1973."

In fact, the FTC said, the electronics group's tests did not establish the Panasonic as easiest, least time-consuming or least expensive to service. It also said the tests did not include a broad sample of major sets.
