No Change Voted
In Racial Distribution

Assignment of students within the Greenville City Schools and district lines for school attendance will remain unchanged for the 1975-76 school year as a result of school board members Monday night voting to leave student assignment as presently aligned based on the projected 1975-76 attendance pattern.

The vote of approval followed a fairly lengthy discussion on five attendance alternatives. About two dozen interested persons, all white, were in attendance at the August meeting held at Rose High.

Two board members, Ed Stallings and Mrs. Terry Shank, voted against the alternative adopted. The issue will be the subject of a workshop scheduled for Monday, September 8, with an attorney to be present for the meeting.

The five alternatives under study were prepared by Supt. Glenn Cox and his staff in accordance with a request made in July by board member Ed Stallings. At that time Stallings had noted that the pupil racial pattern at Sadie Sautler was becoming predominantly black, with a predominant white pupil pattern existing at two other elementary schools, Eastern and Wahl-Coates.

Figures based on current enrollment schedules show the following black-white student numbers and percentage ratios: (The city wide overall ratio at the elementary level is 45.1 per cent black and 54.8 per cent white)

Table with columns: School, Black, White, Total. Rows: Sadie Sautler, South Greenville, Third Street, Wahl-Coates, Totals.

One factor that entered into three of five of the alternatives offered was the idea of assigning approximately 75 out-of-district students to Sadie Sautler. (Out-of-district students, who pay an annual tuition fee of $60, have no choice of school to which they are assigned. Currently, they are slated for assignment to Elmhurst School.)

In remarks on the alternatives, Cox noted that any of the four other than the no-change one adopted would result in moving teachers, and in some instances, mobile units.

The four alternatives that would have involved a change in pupil assignment are:

(1) Move out-of-district students to Sadie Sautler (from Elmhurst) without moving any black students out of Sadie Sautler. This would increase total pupils at Sadie Sautler from 500 to 575; with a proportionate decrease in pupils at Elmhurst from 488 to 413. It would also have changed the racial pattern at Sadie Sautler to 57.2 per cent black and 42.8 per cent white; and at Elmhurst to 48.9 per cent black and 51.1 per cent white.

(2) Move out-of-district students to Sadie Sautler; move 50 black students to Wahl-Coates; and move 50 black students to Elmhurst. This would result in 475 students at Sadie Sautler; 463 at Elmhurst; and 522 at Wahl-Coates. Under this plan, racial percentages would be: Sadie Sautler, 48.2 per cent black, 51.8 per cent white; Elmhurst, 54.4 per cent black, 45.6 per cent white; Wahl-Coates, 41.9 per cent black; and 58.1 per cent white.

(3) Move 50 black students to Wahl-Coates and 50 black students to Elmhurst, all from Sadie Sautler, (with no change in assigning out-of-district students to Elmhurst). Under this alternative, student numbers at Sadie Sautler would drop by 100 to a total of 400; and increase 50 each at Elmhurst and Wahl-Coates. Racial ratios under this plan would be: Sadie Sautler, 57.2 per cent black; 42.8 per cent white; Elmhurst, 46.8 per cent black, 53.2 per cent white; and Wahl-Coates, 41.9 per cent black, 58.1 per cent white.

(4) Move out-of-district students in grades 4,5,6 from Elmhurst to Sadie Sautler, move 50 black students out of Sadie Sautler—25 each to Elmhurst and Wahl-Coates. Under this plan, enrollment would be Sadie Sautler, 486; Elmhurst, 478; and Wahl-Coates, 497. Racial ratios would be: Sadie Sautler, 57.4 per cent black, 42.6 per cent white; Elmhurst, 47.4 per cent black, 52.6 per cent white; and Wahl-Coates, 39.0 black, 61.0 per cent white.

In all five alternatives, the other three Greenville elementary schools—Eastern, South Greenville and Third Street, were not taken into consideration as part of the plans offered.

Following Cox's presentation, Mrs. Shank asked how determination would be made on which students to move and how district lines would be changed.

Cox replied that the 100 black students mentioned for change to Wahl-Coates and Elmhurst could be effected by changing lines a couple of blocks in the New Town area for Elmhurst and dropping down south a couple of blocks on West Fifth Street for Wahl-Coates. "This is where we could pick up about 50 black students in each zone who now go to Sadie Sautler," Cox said. Stallings pointed out that Sadie Sautler currently has no teacher's lounge as the area originally designed for that purpose was now used for a resource room. Also, though Sadie Sautler is a smaller school plant than either Elmhurst or Wahl-Coates, it has a higher enrollment—500 as compared to 488 at Elmhurst and 472 at Wahl-Coates.

Speaking on the situation, Stallings said: "There has been a growing concern that the racial imbalance is not fair. We're not

Sniper Takes Shots At Police Picketing San Francisco Station

By LINDA KRAMER
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Snipers fired shots at a police station early today, less than 12 hours after policemen unpinned their badges and hoisted picket signs in a strike for more pay.

Striking policemen at the station abruptly left their picket lines after the shooting began and helped arrest three young men.

In an earlier incident, an angry motorist ran over two picketing policemen.

City officials have pledged that the strike will not lead to a reign of lawlessness.

More than 90 per cent of the 1,935-member force struck Monday afternoon after the San Francisco Board of Supervisors refused to meet pay hike demands by the 1,800-member Police Officers Association.

Picket lines immediately went up outside the city's nine police stations, including headquarters at the Hall of Justice.

Police reported two sniping incidents at the Ingleside station beginning at 1:25 a.m. Shots were fired from the San Francisco City College area and from a nearby construction firm.

Officers inside the station shut off all lights, and police picketing outside discarded their signs and joined in a chase of three teen-agers who fled on foot to an auto, officer Jim Cannon said.

One of the fleeing men was wounded in the foot before the three were arrested and booked for investigation of attempted murder and assault on a police officer, Cannon said.

The three were identified by police as Terrence Ng, 19, Calvin Woo, 18, and Mike Ming Loo, 19, who was treated at a hospital for a foot wound.

No other injuries were reported.

The shots fired from the construction site were from a heavy-caliber rifle, Cannon said. No one was arrested in that incident.

Earlier, two striking policemen were hit by a car as they picketed outside the Mission station. Nonstriking police arrested Thomas Oxtien, 50, at a bar about midnight, said Sgt. James McCarthy. Neither officer was seriously injured, authorities said.

"Major crimes such as rape, robbery, murder and serious assaults will be answered, but such things as barking dogs and broken windows will not," Police Chief Donald Scott said.

Police public affairs officer Lt. Frank Jordan said detectives, plainclothesmen, juvenile hall staff and sergeants at the patrol force level were replacing striking officers. He said only three or four patrol cars were out, compared with the usual 45 to 50.

"We want to put the citizens' fears to rest. There is police coverage," Jordan said. "We feel confident we have the manpower on patrol and standby to handle emergencies. We may have a problem if numerous emergencies come in."

Police reported late Monday night that there was no indication of a noticeable upswing in crime in this city of 877,000.

The police association is demanding a 13 per cent raise in salaries. The Board of supervisors approved a raise of 6.5 per cent.

City firemen, also seeking a 13 per cent pay boost, vote today and Wednesday to decide whether to stage their own walkout.

Under the current scale, police and firemen receive wages ranging from $16,044 for cadets to $44,832 for chiefs.

A 13 per cent raise for police would cost the city an estimated $13 million and put San Francisco officers at parity with Los Angeles police. San Francisco traditionally has paid its police and firemen at the same rate as the highest-paying communities in the state.

Gerald Crowley, president of the police association, said the board's refusal to meet police demands "probably caused the most tragic day in San Francisco history."

He said striking police will refuse to provide emergency service until the board agrees to start negotiating with them.

Mayor Joseph L. Alioto had vowed to fire any officer who failed to report for work, but there was no indication of any firings.

Officers signing up for around-the-clock picket duty were directed by the police association to have "no guns visible, no booze, no badges visible."

Strike Call Is Unheeded

By FENTON WHEELER
Associated Press Writer

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The Communist-dominated central trade federation Inter-sindical called a 30-minute general strike today to protest "escalating fascist reaction" and attacks on Communist parties across the country.

But many of the two million intersindical workers — approximately two-thirds of the nation's work force — defied the strike call though the federation had said it expected 80 per cent support. As the strike began at 11 a.m. — 6 a.m. EDT — most taxis, buses, subways and hotels ran normally in Lisbon. The national airline TAP, however, halted its operations.

Some taxi drivers blocked Lisbon's main street, Avenida da Liberdade, and a crowd gathered and fistfights broke out; but as strike time ran out, the crowd dispersed and normal traffic resumed.

The Socialist party issued a statement urging its members to "ignore, despise and fight this desperate maneuver to control workers."

Communist party leader Alvaro Cunhal planned to lead a rally tonight in the Crystal Palace at Porto, 175 miles north of Lisbon, continuing his battle for Communist control of the Portuguese revolution.

In Moscow, the Soviet Union accused "imperialist forces" of interfering in Portugal, called for "massive solidarity" behind its Communist leaders and charged that North Atlantic Treaty Organization military forces staged maneuvers to threaten the Lisbon government.

An article in Pravda said Western powers were using pressure tactics reminiscent of "things that happened just before the Fascist coup in Chile." Kremlin propagandists have endorsed charges that the American CIA helped overthrow Chile's Marxist president Salvador Allende and install a rightist junta.

The general strike was called after an evening in which a Communist worker was killed and 100 persons injured in a shoot-out in a small northern town and Premier Vasco Goncalves lashed anti-Communists in a speech to 5,000 left-wing labor union members in Almada, near Lisbon.

Reports from the town of Ponte de Lima said Antonio Lima, 47, was caught in a crossfire when soldiers opened fire at an anti-Communist mob trying to attack a Communist worker center.

Lima, a Communist worker from Lisbon vacationing in the town, was shot by Portuguese (continued on page 6)

STREET BLOCKED

There is a problem with children playing in Contentnea Street between Imperial Street and Douglas Avenue. They ride bicycles in the street and play ball there so it is nearly impossible to drive without fear of hitting a child. What can be done about this? A.W.

Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon said he was unaware of the problem on this particular street. He asked that any persons with complaints about it call him and appropriate action will be taken.

STAKE REPLACED

There is a fire hydrant next to Darwin Waters Service Station on North Green Street that is constantly being hit by cars. The City finally put up four stobs made of railway rails. One of these has been broken off and is just the right height to tear a hole in a gasoline tank on a car if it's hit. We saw this happen for the fourth time yesterday. I don't have to tell anyone how lucky we are not to have seen one explode and go up in flames yet. The City keeps putting us off about fixing this stob. J.W.

You brought in a polaroid picture of the hydrant and the broken stake, plus one of a mutilated gas tank. We called Greenville Utilities about the matter. They said a work order would be issued to have the job done the same day. By the next day, the broken stake had been replaced, the hydrant had been repaired, and all four stakes surrounding it had been painted a brilliant red.

Charges May Be Brought Against Pilot After Helicopter Rescue

TRAUNSTEIN, West Germany (AP) — A wounded American helicopter pilot faces possible border violation charges for flying three East German refugees out of Communist Czechoslovakia under a hail of bullets, the Bavarian state border police said today.

A police spokesman said the American, Barry Meeker, 33, of Hartford, Conn., was under investigation for alleged illegal border crossing from West Germany into Austria initially, violation of foreign air space and filing a false flight plan. Meeker, according to police, reported on departing Munich-Riem Airport Sunday that he was making local flights.

Investigators also were trying to determine whether Meeker had flown similar escape missions in the past, the spokesman said.

Meeker, describing himself as a decorated Vietnam war veteran and former member of Special Forces, said friendship motivated him to take part in the perilous airborne escape.

"I wanted to help an East German family to flee," Meeker told reporters at his hospital bed. "They were friends of friends of mine."

He brought out two men and a 14-year-old girl who was shot in the leg, but he said that gunfire forced him to take off without a man who had requested the rescue and an injured woman.

German authorities identified the man as "Thaddeus K.," a stateless person from Marburg, West Germany.

Meeker emerged as a mystery man to American and West German authorities. There was speculation that he was working for an organization that smuggles refugees out of Eastern Europe.

Meeker recalled the last moments on the ground in Czechoslovakia in an interview on Monday.

"It was terrible, they started firing right away ... They could at least have given us a warning," he said.

"The two men with the family had already boarded and my friend actually threw the (wounded) girl into the helicopter," he said.

Then shots, apparently from a rifle equipped with telescopic sight, "came at intervals of about five to seven seconds," he said.

"Ahead of me was an elderly lady on the ground, obviously injured, and then suddenly bullets hit me right through the helicopter," he said the bullet pierced his elbow.

Meeker said the family was not at the pre-arranged meeting spot when he landed and "the whole affair was delayed. Instead of 10 seconds, as previously calculated, I had to remain almost two minutes on the ground. When the refugees arrived at the helicopter, I noticed that the girl was shot through her leg."

Fearing that the shots might ruin the entire mission, Meeker said he signalled his friend to leave the injured woman and come aboard.

"But he did not see me. When I heard another shot fired at the helicopter, I thought, 'Now you've got to get out of here fast, or else we've all had it.'"

"I took off, flying toward Munich at high altitude, but noticed very quickly that my fuel was running low. Having been a rescue pilot before, I knew my way to Traunstein hospital and had exactly the amount of fuel to reach it," he said.

The West German Foreign Ministry said it had received no diplomatic protest from Czechoslovakia.

Auto Mechanics Course Okayed Appeals Court Will Decide On Paul Case

Auto mechanics will be available to students of Rose High School this year. The course, previously not included in the curriculum due to budget cuts, was unanimously reinstated at the August meeting of the school board on Monday night. Supt. Glenn Cox informed the board a qualified instructor had been found. The board approved rental of a facility originally designed as a U-Fix-It Garage at 120 Ficklen Street as the classroom for the course, and authorized payment of an annual rental fee of $7,800. Board member Mrs. Terry Shank asked that the one year rental agreement include a 60 to 90 day notification in event the owner of the facility wanted to terminate the lease. Rose High School has been granted a continued accreditation and membership in the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. Cox reported that Roy Blanton, Chairman of the N.C. chapter of the association, had notified that Rose High had been upgraded following the elimination of a couple of deficiencies last year.

In school personnel for the 1975-76 school year, ten resignations were accepted, and 15 teachers elected. In addition, three teachers were elected on an interim basis to fill upcoming maternity leaves. Two of the 15 elected teachers will be half time personnel.

Approval was given for East Carolina University to use a 65 foot wide strip of land along 14th Street between Elm Street and Berkley Road. ECU will improve the land for use as a parking area, and will take care of complying with city ordinances for access and exit requirements. A rental fee of $100 for the year's lease was established by the board.

In another school property matter, board members approved a city government request that the building at the C.M. Eppes School property be placed on the insurance plan for the city schools, with a notation that the city is a party of interest in the insurance of the building. In turn, the city will reimburse the schools for the premium on the property. Currently, the city leases the building for use by the Greenville Recreation Department.

Approval was also given the Pitt County Medical Auxiliary to hold a second annual Health Fair. The fair will be for all fourth graders in the city school system and will take place November 10-14.

Formal authorization was given by the board for the city schools to participate in the federal free lunch reimbursement plan.

Milk, ice cream and bread bids were accepted for the coming school year. For half-pint units of milk, Carolina Dairies had a low bid of 10.7 cents per unit; and for low fat chocolate-milk, the low bid was Cobles' at 10.83 cents. Carolina Dairies' successful bid for plain ice cream was $1.37 per unit, with Carolina Dairies and Maola each being awarded one half the contract for ice cream on sticks at $1.37 per dozen. Holsum, low bidder on two bread items, was also awarded the bid on a third bread item for which Holsum had a bid at the same price as another firm. Students will pay nine cents for milk.

A complete list of various student and supplementary incomes fees for all types of activities for students was approved with the exception of the portion dealing with school fund raising projects. This category of income will be discussed at the next school board meeting at which time a policy will be set governing school fund raising projects.

Permission was granted by board members for vocational students at Rose to execute an option for a lot in the Tuckahoe Sub-division. Eventual purchase of a lot will be made for the construction of a house to be sold as the live-project for vocational students.

In court, FBI special agent Joseph Conley said Lynch, described as the "prime mover" in the alleged plot, prepared the ransom letter to Edgar Bronfman sometime in June "demanding a ransom and further informing him he and his son would die if payment were not made as instructed."

None of the Bronfman family attended the court proceeding and Samuel spent his first full day of freedom at his mother's Purchase, N.Y., estate watching TV soap operas and swimming, according to his brother, Matthew, 16.

So far, Sam has been shielded from the press and a close friend told newsmen who continued to camp outside the gates of the Purchase estate Monday: "As far as the family is concerned, the story is finished. Sam does not wish to be interviewed."

Sam's safe return enabled his father to go ahead with kidnap-delayed plans to wed Georgiana Eileen Webb, a 25-year-old Britisher he met about a year ago.

Appeals Court Will Decide On Paul Case

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina's Court of Appeals was expected to decide today whether it would review the jailing for contempt of court of Jerry Paul, Joan Little's chief defense attorney.

Monday, the state Supreme Court refused to review the case. After a conference of justices, the court held that attorneys for Paul must follow the usual appeal procedure by first asking the Court of Appeals to consider the matter.

Paul was sentenced to 14 days in the local jail Friday, moments after Miss Little, a 21-year-old black, was acquitted of a second degree murder charge in the Aug. 27, 1974, stabbing death of white Beaufort County jailer Clarence Alligood, 62.

In the event the Appeals Court refuses to consider the case, Paul's attorneys may file a petition in the U.S. Supreme Court or with federal district court because all avenues of appeal through state courts will have been exhausted.

Jim Rowan, Paul's law partner and counsel for Miss Little, filed petitions Monday morning with both the Appeals Court and the Supreme Court. The Appeals Court held off consideration of the matter until the higher court decided whether to take immediate jurisdiction.

A separate petition asked that Paul be released from jail under bond until the matter is settled. Paul has complained of illness. He has a history of migraine headaches and a recurring prostate problem and was to undergo tests after the trial.

In a brief filed with the courts, Rowan said trial Judge Hamilton Hobgood had improperly sentenced Paul because the charges against him weren't made available and Paul wasn't allowed a hearing. Those procedures could have been followed because Paul's actions took place on the second day of the five-week trial, Rowan said.

Hobgood had obvious personal feelings in the case and Paul's actions were not serious enough to justify a 14-day sentence, Rowan argued.

Paul had accused Hobgood of bias after the judge ordered the defense to restrict its questioning of potential jurors to traditional queries. The defense team used a set of questions developed by psychologists and sociologists after several months of study and citizen surveys.

Hobgood's contempt order said that after his ruling on questioning jurors, Paul turned his back on the judge and said, "And to sit there like the Queen of Hearts and say off with their heads, the law is the law, is to take us back 100 years."

Over the weekend, Rowan had asked U.S. District Judge John Larkins to intercede. Larkins refused, saying it was a matter for state courts to handle.

Wallace, Reagan Tell VFW Fight Should Have Been Won In Asia

By DOUG WILLIS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — America's failure to fight to win in Vietnam was a tragic mistake for the nation, say Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

In separate addresses Monday before delegates to the Veterans of Foreign War's 76th annual VFW convention, Wallace and Reagan voiced almost identical pleas for a strong military force and a new, more critical look at detente with the Soviet Union.

Democrat Wallace and Republican Reagan, both prospective presidential candidates next year, received loud, lengthy and standing ovations. Wallace also attacked what he called a "so-called elitist intelligencia" for bungling American foreign policy for the past 50 years.

"The liberals in this country who make the most noise about Vietnam — they're the ones that got us into it and wouldn't let us win it. They're the ones who bogged us down," said Wallace.

"I'm not advocating confrontation. I'm advocating peace. But the only way to have peace in this world today is to be strong that nobody dares do anything but negotiate with us."

Reagan called the Vietnam war "a shame on our nation. Those who fought in Vietnam did not lose a war. They were just not allowed to win. We walked away not only from a war, but from an ally."

Reagan called for "a sharp increase in our defense program, including production of the B1 bomber and the Trident submarine."

In separate news conferences, Wallace and Reagan — who did not meet with each other Monday — both said they will not make final decisions on their prospective presidential campaigns until later this year. Wallace said he will probably run. Reagan said he has not decided.

Wallace also said he "could be very comfortable" on the same ticket with Reagan. Reagan did not comment on that possibility.

In a television interview,

Wallace said he will support legislation proposed by Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., to reopen the investigation of the 1972 attempt on his life in Maryland that left him paralyzed from the waist down.

Wallace said of Arthur H. Bremer, who was convicted of the shooting:

"I don't believe that the person that shot me acted alone. I don't believe that a man who never made any money in his life could follow me all over the country and buy guns and automobiles and stay in the Waldorf Astoria."

"In other words, I am not satisfied, even though I have no evidence that points to anyone else."

Ford: Detente Is No License

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — President Ford warned the Soviet Union today that detente "is not a license to fish in troubled waters" and said he will seek additional strategic weapons if there is no new agreement on limiting nuclear arms.

The President chose a strongly anti-Communist audience, the American Legion's national convention, to declare that the United States is keeping a wary eye on the Soviet Union, especially in Portugal, to determine its true intentions on detente.

The speech highlighted a second busy day of a two-day swing through four states. He planned appearances later in the day in Pekin and Peoria, Ill.

In the prepared text for his Legion address, Ford said that to him detente means "moderate and restrained behavior between two superpowers — not a license to fish in troubled waters."

The President told the Legion group, which has criticized detente, that he would continue to work toward relaxation of tensions between the two nations.

He said his meetings with Soviet Leader Leonid I. Brezhnev have been "constructive and helpful," but "future success will depend on concrete developments."

"We are now carefully watching some serious situations for indications of the Soviet attitude towards detente and cooperation in European security."

"The situation in Portugal is one of these," Ford said. "We are deeply concerned about the future of freedom in Portugal."

The President said that in Portugal, where Communists are exerting a strong influence in the government, "The wishes of a moderate majority have been subverted by forces more determined than representative."

On national security, the President told the Legionaires, "I am committed to keeping America's defenses second to none."

He said he hoped to hold down spending on nuclear forces next year, but "this tentative judgment is conditioned on real progress in SALT II. But the Congress and the American people must realize that, unless agreement is achieved, I will have no choice but to recommend to Congress an additional $2 billion to $3 billion for strategic weapons programs in the current and coming fiscal years," the President warned.

On other subjects, the President said:

"Any reckless congressional action to cripple the effectiveness of our intelligence services in legitimate operations would be catastrophic." But he said, "I do not condone improper activities or violation of the constitutional rights of Americans by any personnel or agency of the federal government."

"He is troubled by Congress' refusal to permit shipment of arms to Turkey but added "I know that when the bottom line of any issue is the ultimate security of the United States, the Congress and the President have always found the way to close the ranks and act as one."

The President started today with an early breakfast meeting with newspaper and broadcasting executives from Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa and Missouri.

After a tense week of waiting and the delivery of the $2.3 million ransom, he was rescued unharmed Sunday by the FBI and city police from Lynch's Brooklyn apartment.

FBI Says Plot Was Months Old

NEW YORK (AP) — The alleged kidnapers of whisky heir Samuel Bronfman 2nd planned the abduction months ago and threatened to kill him and his multimillionaire father unless a ransom demand was met quickly, the FBI says.

In a complaint filed Monday in U.S. District Court, the FBI said Mel Patrick Lynch, a New York City fireman, and Dominic Byrne, a limousine operator, admitted seizing the 21-year-old victim.

Rejecting a defense plea that the two were "amateurs involved in some kind of lark," U.S. Magistrate Martin D. Jacobs set $500,000 bail for Lynch and $200,000 for Byrne on a charge of extorting the $2.3-million ransom.

Later Monday, Westchester Dist. Atty. Carl Vergari said he would press state kidnaping charges against the two Irish-born Brooklynites because they had not taken their alleged captive across state lines, a necessary qualification for applying federal kidnap statutes.

Samuel was seized early August 9 sometime after he left the lavish Yorktown Heights estate of his father, Edgar, the head of the Seagram Company, Ltd., the world's largest distillers.

After a tense week of waiting and the delivery of the $2.3 million ransom, he was rescued unharmed Sunday by the FBI and city police from Lynch's Brooklyn apartment.

The ransom money was found under a bed in a nearby apartment.

In court, FBI special agent Joseph Conley said Lynch, described as the "prime mover" in the alleged plot, prepared the ransom letter to Edgar Bronfman sometime in June "demanding a ransom and further informing him he and his son would die if payment were not made as instructed."

None of the Bronfman family attended the court proceeding and Samuel spent his first full day of freedom at his mother's Purchase, N.Y., estate watching TV soap operas and swimming, according to his brother, Matthew, 16.

Gordon Stanley Pomfrey, 48 — a Massachusetts native identified as an unemployed horse trainer — was arrested by Greenville police yesterday on charges of cashing more than $23,700 worth of worthless checks here a year ago.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Pomfrey is charged with cashing a $7,500 fraudulent check here August 2, 1974; a $7,257.42 forged check on July 28, 1974; a $350 forged check on July 30, 1974; and a check for $8,648.40 on July 31, 1974.

The checks, Cannon said, were all passed at North Carolina National Bank's Five Points office.

Miss Louise Bost Weds Perkinson-Rollins Vows Exchanged On Saturday DeLyle Mooring Evans

MRS. DELYLE MOORING EVANS

In a ceremony Saturday at 4:30 p.m. in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Miss Louise Goodson Bost became the bride of DeLyle Mooring Evans. The double ring ceremony was performed by James Cooke.

Parents of the bride are Mrs. Louise Stone Bost of Winter Park, Fla., and Mr. John Shipman Bost of Clinton. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Evans Jr. of Winterville.

A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Cathy Warren, organist, and Miss Anne Kizer Bost, sister of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of ivory organza over peau de soie with a fitted bodice of Venise lace, split mandarin collar and long bishop sleeves with Venise lace appliques.

She wore an ivory picture hat of Venise lace and ivory illusion. The bride carried a prayerbook covered with miniature yellow roses, daisies, baby's breath and ivy.

The maid of honor was Linda Golightly of Winston-Salem. She was dressed in a powder blue knit gown fashioned with an A-line skirt and narrow straps with a matching full cape. She carried a nosegay of white and yellow daisies and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Nan Ratledge of Greensboro, Mrs. Paul Magnabosco of Raleigh, and Miss Isabelle Partin of Goldsboro. They were dressed like the honor attendant. Honorary bridesmaids were Miss Marguerite Gilbert and Miss Virginia Gilbert of Myrtle Beach, S.C.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers were Walter Bost of Lake Worth, Fla. brother of the bride, Phil Minton of Chapel Hill, Ed Evans of Winston-Salem, and Holt D. Robinson of Florence, S.C.

The bride is a rising senior at ECU. The bridegroom was graduated from UNC-Chapel Hill, the Wake Forest University School of Law and is now practicing in Ayden.

After a wedding trip to Hawaii, the couple will reside in Greenville.

SUSAN

DEAR ABBY: In reference to the husband who was being driven up a wall because his wife used "you know" at least once in every sentence; I recently made a tape-recording to send to a friend, and when I played it back, I couldn't believe my ears. I had said, "and what not" at the end of nearly every sentence.

After that, I vowed to overcome that obnoxious habit. The husband who is tired of hearing his wife say, "You know," all the time ought to rent or buy a tape recorder and get first-hand evidence of all those "you knows." After she hears it, she will clean up her act.

DEAR SUSAN: You know, that's a dandy idea!

DEAR ABBY: My husband is an executive with a large insurance company. My problem is my husband's boss. He's not an alcoholic, but when he drinks too much (which is every time we entertain him in our home), he loses control of his kidneys, and I can't tell you what he has done to our furniture! (I had to re-cover a satin brocade chair because the cleaners couldn't get the stain out.)

Another time the boss had one of those "accidents," my husband let him wear his best bathrobe for the rest of the evening. The boss wore it home, and I never saw it again. It happens to be the robe I gave my husband last year for Christmas, and I want him to get it back, but he doesn't have the nerve to ask for it because he doesn't want to embarrass his boss.

DEAR NAMELESS: Since your husband is in the insurance business, perhaps you are covered for such damages and losses. (Have you flood insurance?) In any case, if your husband lacks the courage to ask for the robe, write off the loss. And the next time you entertain the boss, make it a beach party.

DEAR ABBY: I am 64. I raised my children alone after an early divorce. Somehow, I never took the time to make myself glamorous or think of a second marriage.

Two years ago (at age 62), I had an excellent secretarial job. A man my age came from another state to be my boss. He was extremely attractive but he had a good marriage and grown children, so I had no designs on him.

Because he went home only on weekends, we dined together every night, and soon our friendship developed into an affair. It was the greatest thing that ever happened to me, although I knew there was no future in it.

He has now been permanently based with this office, and his wife has moved here. She and I have become the best of friends. (I am now retired.)

The wife and I visit each other, but the man I see as her husband is not the man who comes to visit me when he gets a night out alone. I still love him deeply, but I'll never do anything to cause another woman any pain. We are very discreet and no one knows. (Can you imagine two people in their 60s having an affair such as ours?)

He will eventually retire and make his home in a distant state, and I'll probably never see him again. Meanwhile, I'll enjoy whatever happiness I have with him. When he leaves, it will be over.

I enjoy my family, travel a lot and will just kill time until I'm old enough to die. I consider myself a respectable woman. There is no problem, so no solution is needed. Thanks for reading this. I had to tell someone.

"AN OLD FOOL?"

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

It is with some relief that since the release of the film "Jaws," 20 people have sighted sharks off the Massachusetts coastline that have turned out to be pieces of wood or beer cans catching the sun's rays.

I say relief because movies have always had a stimulating effect on my imagination. You might as well know I haven't taken a shower since seeing "Psycho" 20 years ago.

Frankly, any more fright movies and life will hardly be worth living. Behind every bee stands a Gloria Swanson with a command to kill. Every little mouse is a Ben who views me as if I were basted in peanut butter, and after seeing "The Birds," I got rid of our parakeet because I felt he was definitely a militant.

The "Poseidon Adventure" has eliminated boats from my life, "Airport," any future of air travel, and "The Boston Strangler" from having my plumbing fixed.

A few years ago, I saw a Japanese film in which a blob of slime slithered out of a New York subway and disintegrated a girl in her apartment as she readied for bed.

The next morning I opened my refrigerator door and immediately slammed it shut as my whole body turned into a block of fear.

"What's the matter?" asked my husband.

"Don't open this door! There's a blob in there!"

"There's always a blob in there," he said dryly. "Let me see if I can identify the year on this one."

DARLINGTON—Miss Janice Cecelia Rollins of Littleton and Howard Alan Perkinson of Ahsokie were married Saturday in a 3:00 p.m. ceremony at Ebenezer Methodist Church here Saturday.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Roger Rollins Sr. of Littleton. His parents are Mrs. Davis Richard Harlow of Darlington and Mr. Gordon Allen Perkinson of Richmond, Va.

The Rev. Charles Rectnor performed the double ring ceremony. Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Dorothy Scott of Littleton, organist, and Maurice Glen Rollins Sr., of Scotland Neck, uncle of the bride, soloist.

Accompanied to the altar by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white satepeau designed with a high neckline encircled with re-embroidered alencon lace. Panels of the alencon lace beaded in pearls accentuated the sheer yoke of the empire bodice and crocheted lace draped the waistline. The alencon and crocheted laces entwined the full, lantern sleeves with the fitted cuffs edged in the crocheted border. The flared skirt, which extended to an attached chapel train featured the crocheted lace in a draped pattern interspersed with beaded appliques of alencon lace. The hemline was edged in the crocheted lace.

She wore an elbow length illusion veil edged in re-embroidered alencon lace held in place by a Camelot cap trimmed in beaded alencon lace. Roses, multi-color carnations and daisies, stephanotis, baby's breath and ivy composed the wedding bouquet.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Kenneth Wilson Bunn of Chapel Hill. She wore a full length woven polyester blue gown designed in princess style with heart shaped neckline, tie sash, bordered in a hemline ruffle. She wore a white picture hat with matching blue ribbon and carried a nosegay of multi-colored carnations, daisies and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. James Bellamy of Enfield, Mrs. Stephen Floyd of Roanoke Rapids, Mrs. Greg Clark of Tarboro, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Richard Moore Perkinson of Darlington, sister-in-law of the bridegroom. Their dresses and accessories were styled identically to the honor attendant.

Miss Sharon Hope Perkinson of Darlington, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Her attire was identical to that of the bridesmaids. She carried a basket of mixed flowers. The bridegroom's grandfather, Howard Orlandea Hux, of Darlington was best man. The groomsmen were Richard Moore Perkinson, Gordon Brantley Perkinson, both brothers of the bridegroom, William Jackson Boseman III, all of Darlington, and Kenneth Kolb of Kingstree, S.C.

Mrs. Ethel Crawley of Littleton was mistress of ceremonies.

The bride is a graduate of Weldon High School and attended Hardbarger's Business College. The bridegroom is a graduate of Aurelian Springs High School and attended Fayetteville Methodist College. He is currently employed as manager of Carolina Production Credit Assn., Ahsokie.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Ahsokie.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. C.D. Rollins of Bethel.

Saddle-stitched western-style denim jackets and vests, western-style shirts and jeans look dandy on boys bound for school. Many articles are reinforced at points of strain for longer wear.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parent's entertained at a reception in the fellowship hall of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jackson Boseman Jr. greeted guests. Mrs. Richard Darnell Ellis of Charleston, S.C. presided at the register.

Mrs. William Lyle Eagle of Fayetteville, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Betty Auten, aunt of the bridegroom, poured punch to the guests from a table covered with a white linen cloth. The bridal table was decorated with a center arrangement of mixed summer flowers and a pair of candelabrum. The three-tiered wedding cake was served to the guests by Mrs. Ferrell Lee Rollins Sr. of Tarboro, aunt of the bride.

Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Marion Thomas Hux of Tarboro, aunt and uncle of the bridegroom and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Hardee of Endfield, great aunt and uncle of the bridegroom.

After the wedding rehearsal, Mr. and Mrs. William Jackson Boseman Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Hardee entertained the bridal couple, members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests at the Boseman home in Darlington.

Howard Lee Discusses The East

Chapel Hill Mayor Howard Lee is a sure candidate for lieutenant governor. Even though he won't formally announce until around November, the Democrat Lee is already off and running.

He has announced that he will not seek reelection as mayor of Chapel Hill and last week he made a swing through Greenville, which included a "social visit" with the editors of The Daily Reflector.

Lee, of course, is black and one of the few black mayors in our state. He is also a pretty sharp politician. He has a good record in serving as mayor of Chapel Hill, and most important for a black seeking the second highest office in the state, he has a solid record as a Democratic party regular. He has actively campaigned for Robert Morgan, now U.S. senator and Rufus Edmisten who was elected state attorney general.

A tall and personable man he exhibits a "feel" for politics which all North Carolina will be seeing more of as the campaign warms up next year.

He said, for instance, that he had found a feeling here in the East that the Piedmont wielded control of North Carolina government and politics, and he expected to discuss that further in the campaign. We who live and work in the East know the feeling well, but too many candidates for high office have run the other way when it was brought up in the past.

The affable Lee lit up a cigarette on his visit here. Of course, you might win office in North Carolina without smoking, but a man who uses cigarettes has gone a long way toward winning himself a place in the hearts of the tobacco farmer.

And Mayor Lee casually let it be known on his local visit that he has a son attending East Carolina University, and he seemed to be proud of it. Nothing could make an ECU zealot happier.

There were also comments on tax reform—the kind that would put more spendable income in the hands of the consumer—and a recognition of the concern for health care throughout the state. Finally there was a comment that he wouldn't promise anything that he did not have a reasonable chance to deliver.

So we have a picture of a Democratic party stalwart with a genuine interest in the problems of Eastern North Carolina. No one would expect Lee to put eastern problems ahead of those of other sections of the state, but he does leave the impression that he will put eastern development on par with the Piedmont.

All indications are that candidates for lieutenant governor are going to be numerous and it wouldn't be smart to even begin to make any predictions as to the outcome now. It's going to be interesting, however, to see how Howard Lee develops his eastern theme in the months ahead.

"Oh, dear! My new string bikini isn't nearly so flattering as I'd hoped."

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK He Said A Mouthful

Eric Sevareid, the veteran CBS commentator, turned up the other evening at the Sheraton-Park Hotel, where he received an award from the International Platform Association and made a little gem of a speech. He said some things that need to be said both in defense of TV and in criticism of TV. It was solid stuff.

The occasion also saw tribute paid to Lowell Thomas, who at 83 is still the very active dean of broadcast journalism. Thomas got into radio news in 1930, Sevareid in 1939. They've been around a long time.

In those pre-war days, Sevareid remarked, radio benefited with such men as Ed Murrow, Elmer Davis, and Raymond Gram Swing; and it suffered from such "shouters and gossipers"; as Father Coughlin and Walter Winchell. In time, the fire-alarm boys vanished from the scene.

"Those who think broadcast journalism had today do not remember yesterday. I believe it steadily improves and I believe the same is true of the printed press. And it will improve still more if the

Story Started Snowball

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — By the end of the Joan Little trial, even Judge Hamilton Hobgood was reading his press clippings.

"I've noticed that many of you have been writing about the voluminous notes I've been taking during this trial," Hobgood lectured from the bench on the trial's penultimate day. He explained that a North Carolina statute requires judges to summarize the evidence for the jury in criminal trials. Thus, he must take detailed notes.

Then Hobgood, like so many of the participants in the trial, took advantage of the forum it gave him to do a little lobbying. "North Carolina is the only state which has such a law. The judiciary has lobbied to have it repealed, but the General Assembly, composed mostly of lawyers, has not heeded us," he said.

His lobbying was certainly the least of the transgressions into public relations that characterized the trial. It was a media event of unprecedented proportions in North Carolina. How it got to be that way is itself an interesting story.

Clarence Allgood's death and Joan Little's arrest were not, in themselves, major news outside of North Carolina. But early this year, a friend happened to mention them to Wayne King, a roving New York Times reporter who covers the South from Atlanta.

"After she was charged with first degree murder, I wrote about it because I thought she was getting a raw deal," King said. He did not know at the time that the first degree charge could be reduced by the jury.

40 Years Ago Today

August 19, 1935

Tomorrow will be a "red letter" day for Greenville, and thousands of people are expected to be on hand to help the local ball club of the Coastal Plan League celebrate "Flag-Raising Day."

The flag captured by this club in the championship against Kinston last year will be raised as the highlight of the Greenville-Kinston ball game. The two old rivals will square off for one of the greatest games of the season following the exercises. With Kinston in second place and fighting hard to again have the honor of meeting Greenville in the flag series this year, fans are assured of seeing one of the best brands of ball seen here this year.

Arrangements for two, and possibly three, memorial ceremonies were being made today as the body of Will Rogers was brought back to California from the aerial voyage which he said would end for him "just somewhere."

Private services with only the family in attendance will be held Tuesday afternoon at Fores Lawn cemetery.

At the same time, one, and perhaps two, tributes will be paid in memory of the actor-humorist who lost his life in an Alaskan air crash which also killed noted pilot Wiley Post.

THIS AFTERNOON

Set Up Central Training

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—A plush state training center complete with private video studio, an auditorium for screening movies or slide programs, conference rooms, and a complete photo lab for producing audio-visual aids has been established in Raleigh.

"If we had to build and furnish this facility from scratch, we couldn't afford it," says State Personnel Director Al Boyles.

Money for the indoctrination center was buried in various places in the budget—never revealed to the public or the General Assembly as what it is: "One of the finest training centers in the state... a million-dollar facility by any measure," Boyles said.

Lot of Borrowing

Frankly admitting that he did a lot of promoting, shifting funds, begging, borrowing, Boyles says bluntly, "It would have been ridiculous to go to the General Assembly in times like this with a request for funds to build such a center."

Boyles defends his action, noting that he did nothing devious or dishonest—he just used the bureaucracy to best advantage.

The result is a modern, comfortable, spacious training center located on Peace Street at the outer edge of the downtown governmental complex which is striking in appearance and surprising in sophistication of furnishings and audio-visual equipment.

Some Democratic governmental officials are already complaining at the plusher of the facility; wondering how the Republican administration could come up with such an expensive layout in a year of austerity.

The answer, Boyles says, is full use of available materials and dollars: the whole setup cost less than $60,000.

The video equipment—a studio with two cameras, boom mikes, a rear screen projection backdrop, and an adjoining control room with editing, recording, timing, and control gear—was bought from Broyhill Industries in Lenoir for $23,000. It's worth easily $75,000 or more, says Boyles, who came to his state job from a slot at Broyhill where he was in public relations, advertising, industrial relations, and personnel work. The equipment was being phased out, so he made a pitch for sale to the state at low cost; the equipment was completely refurbished before delivery, and includes lights, cable, control panels, etc.

About $15,000 was spent for furnishings, Boyles said. Three large conference rooms are in the building, two set up with central tables surrounded by chairs, the other a living-room setting with plush sofas, side-tables, soft chairs—an atmosphere designed to provide a quick change from the more severe conference settings elsewhere and encourage more relaxed interchange of ideas.

The building itself is the real surprise. A modern, spacious, one-storied structure with brick and stone facing, the interior is split into a comfortable lobby, flanked by glass-walled and sound-proofed rooms now used for the conference rooms and video studios. The state paid $315,000 for the property.

"The building is just the way we bought it—except for cleaning some draperies and painting," says Boyles. The structure was designed and used as a music company sales facility—thus the expansive glass walls, sound-proofing, and comfortable floor and ceiling installations. The state bought the building as it acquired property for the governmental mall in downtown Raleigh, and the facility was assigned to the personnel division by the governor and council of state.

Excited as he is over the facility, Boyles is even more excited over launching a unified management training program and employee indoctrination series for all 17 state agencies using the central facility and equipment, and also producing training programs to take on the road to local community colleges and technical schools for training state employees in the field.

The INSIDE REPORT

Undelivered Speech

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
Moynihan's Undelivered Speech

WASHINGTON—The State Department bureaucracy last week killed a blunt speech drafted by Ambassador Daniel Patrick Moynihan and aimed at third world members of the United Nations, showing that the reality of U.S. isolation in the UN is not yet accepted at Foggy Bottom.

Even Dr. Moynihan's veto of UN membership for Communist North and South Vietnam was a surprisingly close call. Despite some opposition within the State Department, he got the green light to veto the two Vietnams in response to the UN Security Council's refusal to even consider membership for South Korea.

Moynihan had planned to accompany the Vietnam vetoes with tough talk relating them to the Korean exclusion. He drafted a speech noting that votes over the years on South Korea's membership in the UN had been supported by countries with multi-party systems and opposed by countries with one-party systems.

Moynihan's draft speech then delivered this message to the Communist and third world one-party nations: You cannot turn the UN into a one-party system by excluding the South Koreans and including the Vietnams.

Such realism is not objected to by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. But with Kissinger in Montreal for a speech on veto day, Aug. 11, the State Department bureaucracy succeeded in ash-canning the speech. Instead, Moynihan made a brief statement barely suggesting the outlines of the full speech.

The State Department's attitude reflects its congenial insistence on maintaining warm bilateral relations with individual countries no matter how roughly they treat this country in multilateral organizations. Moreover, in handling third world countries with kid gloves, Foggy Bottom seems to be living in a past world when U.S. strategy at the UN was aimed at maintaining majority support on key votes.

The harsh inevitability that the U.S. will be badly outnumbered on future UN votes means Moynihan may well resurrect his one-party speech. Beyond speeches, however, the U.S. may have to start pressuring individual nations to convince them that consistent anti-American votes could be costly for them.

Probably Israeli-Egyptian agreement in the Sinai will prevent a showdown of third-world efforts to expel Israel from the UN. But Ambassador Moynihan and the U.S. will face a tough test when the regular General Assembly session next month votes on a Communist-third world resolution calling for removal of U.S. troops from Korea.

N.Y. or L.A.?

The deepening New York fiscal crisis has turned site selection for the 1976 Democratic national convention into a real horse race between New York City and

Los Angeles which could be decided by just how hard national chairman Robert Strauss pushes for New York.

As recently as two weeks ago, the Democrats seemed certain to go to New York for the first time since 1924. But the increasing prospect of New York City defaulting on its bonds has disturbed members of the convention site selection committee which meets in Washington for its final decision Aug. 27.

Despite assurances from New York officials that the city's problems will be resolved by next summer, many Democrats worry that their convention could be disrupted by a garbage strike or other disturbance. On a broader basis, they fear New York City's image of crisis and decline rubbing off on the Democrats.

California state chairman Charles Manatt made a strong Los Angeles pitch to Strauss recently over a lunch at the Del Mar (Calif.) racetrack. But two of Strauss's closest allies, Gov. Hugh Carey and state chairman Pat Cunningham, head the New York push. Strauss also remembers the respective response for badly needed pre-television funds this year from businessmen in the two states: New York. (Continued on page 5)

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

In response to Mr. Don Roebuck's letter in the August 15 edition, I offer the following:

I find it difficult to determine the exact intent of Mr. Roebuck's letter; however, having been a lifelong resident of Pitt County, I strongly object to his allegation that our area is populated by "Rednecks" and that the mentality of our county is to be described as "Redneck." Having found no clear definition for the term, I must assume that redneck depicts a backward, opinionated person.

After being absent from our county for a number of years, Mr. Roebuck by mere observation during his summer visits should have noted new four-lane by-passes, a new hospital under construction, many new subdivisions, several new industries, and other progressive innovations which indicate a healthy, growing county fostering a good life style. All of the previous are a result of a very positive and progressive philosophy.

I must confess, we in Pitt County are opinionated. We have very definite ideas in regard to humanity, justice, and integrity. We also have a very deep and personal pride and love for Pitt County.

In conclusion, I regret that Mr. Roebuck felt compelled to move from our unpretentious area that gave him a basic background, formal schooling and part of his higher education. I am sure I would have felt some sense of loyalty after accepting the best of her offering. I hope that I can be considered one of Mr. Roebuck's so-called "Rednecks" as I know that a redneck indicates long hours laboring in the sun to make Pitt County the great place to live that it is.

Statistical Flukes Turning Up

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Those things called statistical flukes seem to be turning up everywhere, upsetting our notion of things economic, undermining our hopes, misleading our forecasters. A fluke is the all-purpose alibi, serving economists in the same way that a "freak disturbance" provides the weather forecaster with what seems to be an explanation for his own poor performance.

Is the nation's balance of payments situation improving or deteriorating? It's hard to tell; something's fluky.

As measured by the net liquidity balance, payments showed a $1.2 billion surplus in the June quarter. That represented a deterioration from the first-quarter surplus of $2.9 billion.

Measured by the official reserve transactions basis, payments showed a $1.6 billion deficit, but that was an improvement from the $3.3 billion deficit registered in the first quarter.

Perhaps not to be placed in the category of fluke, but too important to ignore in any compilation of misleading indicators, is the latest report on retail sales.

In July, sales rose 2.4 per cent to $49.97 billion from $48.76 billion in June. It was the largest one-month increase in a year, and put revenues 7.8 per cent above the year-earlier figure of $46.36 billion.

You may conclude from this that sales are spurring. And you may draw the conclusion that the nation is moving up out of the recession.

However, those figures really show that sales volume declined. If sales were to show a gain they would have to come to a total at least 9.5 per cent higher than the year before to compensate for the rise in consumer prices.

Criticism of the jobless figures reported by Washington also seems to be growing because of what could be a very serious error of methodology that undoubtedly will be passed off as a fluke.

Doubts about the reliability of the unemployment figures arise from the practice of dropping from the labor force figure individuals who have become so discouraged that they no longer look for work.

First National City Bank economists are warning Americans not to become too optimistic over a drop in joblessness to 8.4 per cent in July because it could be temporary.

When the economy begins to improve, they say, discouraged dropouts might re-enter the work force. A goodly number will fail to obtain jobs immediately, and thus will be added to the jobless rolls.

Sindlinger & Co., a polling and research firm, goes so far as to suggest that most of the improvement in the unemployment rate this year can be attributed to this situation.

Albert Sindlinger, president of the firm, says it is unlikely that the correction will show up in August unemployment figures. But he suggests the nation might be in for a shock on or about Oct. 6, when the September figures are released.

Sindlinger, who maintains that unemployment was above 11 per cent in July—that is, counting individuals the government drops from its calculations—insists the government is erring, not just fluking.

Strength For Today

SLIPPERY SPOTS
"Be careful," said a friend, as I started recently a night drive over a lonely mountain road in the winter. "There's a place on the other side of the mountain where the sun never reaches," he continued, "and it is always slippery in winter."

In the lives of most of us there are little areas which we, in our selfishness and sin, keep hidden from the beneficent sunshine of God. Accordingly these areas are icy and hard, steep, dangerous, and slippery. It does not take an acre of ice to cause an automobile accident. A little icy spot a few feet square can hurtle men to destruction, and one little area in our lives untouched by the love of God, and untouched because we would have it so, may one day be the means of much pain and sorrow. And unnecessary pain and sorrow. The sunshine of God is never hidden by clouds. All we have to do to receive it is turn our faces toward it.

Farm Leaders Hit Out At Refusal Of Dock Workers To Load Grain

By The Associated Press
Farm organization leaders and political figures in key grain states are reacting strongly against the announced refusal of maritime unions to load U.S. grain on ships headed for the Soviet Union.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said Monday the unions will refuse to handle the grain cargoes until the Ford administration guarantees that consumers are protected from higher prices and takes steps to provide more work for American seamen.

The boycott is being imposed at Great Lakes, Gulf and East Coast ports because the grain sales to the Soviet Union would "cost American consumers billions of dollars," Meany told newsmen in Washington.

The stop-work order came after the International Longshoremen's Association and five other AFL-CIO maritime unions last month threatened to boycott the new Soviet grain shipments.

There was no immediate reaction from Ford administration officials.

However, Gov. Robert F. Bennett of Kansas — the nation's biggest wheat-producing state — called the boycott "arrogant."

"The refusal of longshoremen to load American wheat on vessels bound for the Soviet Union is an ill-conceived grandstand play that could have tragic consequences for the wheat-producing Midwest and our entire nation," Bennett said.

The governor urged President Ford "to take quick and forceful action to see that the export of U.S. grain is not disrupted."

Board members of the Kansas Farm Bureau directed John Junior Armstrong, their president, to investigate the possibility of a $1-billion class action suit against the AFL-CIO and the International Longshoremen's Association.

"It's hard to believe that one man can bring economic havoc on American agriculture, but Meany did it," Armstrong said.

Meany said orders were issued Monday to stop handling grain on two ships in the Port of Houston until it can be determined whether the cargo involves new purchases or shipments under an earlier deal. Old purchases will be loaded, he said.

However, longshoremen in Houston continued to load grain bound for Russia. A spokesman for the AFL-CIO said later there apparently was a lag before the longshoremen received official orders not to load ships.

Citing rising prices for flour, wheat, corn and soybeans over the past month, Meany told a news conference the new grain purchases will "give the Russians an open door to our private grain market ... in a way that is going to cost the American consumer billions of dollars."

"The American housewife is still paying" for the 1972 grain deal which resulted in higher domestic prices, Meany said, asserting that "this is not going to happen again."

Meany suggested that any new grain purchases should be made on a government-to-government basis instead of permitting private industry to negotiate the sales.

The grain boycott affects ports on the East and Gulf coasts and the Great Lakes, where the longshoremen's union represents dock workers. West coast dock workers are represented by an independent union which has not joined the protest.

Building Industry, In Slowest Year Since WW2, Shows Increase

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's home building industry appears destined for its slowest year since the economy emerged from World War II, but signs are that the worst is over.

Industry economists say the key now is how fast the federal government can convert into bricks and mortar its paper promises to support construction of new low-income housing units.

The Commerce Department reported Monday that builders reported July construction of new housing at an annual rate of 1,238 million units after adjustment for seasonal factors.

That was a monthly advance of 14 per cent but left activity 6 per cent behind a year earlier. The industry ended 1974 about 34 per cent behind 1973 construction and it wasn't until this spring that builders began pulling out of a nosedive which started in 1972.

The number of new building permits issued, a sign of future activity, was up for the fourth straight month in July, this time by 6 per cent.

Carla A. Hills, secretary of housing and urban development, called the statistics encouraging. "This trend seems to indicate a continued recovery for the housing industry," she said.

The latest estimate from the National Association of Home Builders is that the industry will start 1.08 million new apartments and houses this year, compared to 1.352 million last year. This year's projected production would be the lowest since the 1.02 million started in 1946.

"It won't be a big year," said Michael Sumichrast, chief economist for the home builders. But he said the best half of the year is ahead with starts hitting an annual rate of 1.4 million by year-end.

And even that modest projection is based on the assumption that the Department of Housing and Urban Development will make good by December on the 35,000 low-income apartment units it has promised to support with rent subsidies to low-income families.

Meanwhile, there were these other developments affecting consumers:

—The Federal Energy Administration says consumer petroleum prices may be boosted no more than about 3 cents a gallon as a result of the expected end of oil price controls Aug. 31 but that the price increases may come sooner than expected.

—Old aluminum wiring in mobile homes poses a "more serious, more dangerous" threat of fire than in houses and apartments, Lawrence Kushner, a member of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, said. The commission is developing mandatory federal safety standards for aluminum wiring.

—Ford Motor Co. is seeking to overturn the Department of Transportation's authority to fine automakers who contest and lose the department's automobile safety recall orders. The automaker said the practice violates due process.

—Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., chairman of a House consumer subcommittee, said a proposed Federal Reserve rule will cost credit card users billions of dollars extra each year by allowing merchants to add a surcharge to every credit card purchase and not have to divulge it if the surcharge is no more than 5 per cent.

Judges Gain Inflation Pay

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal judges now can look to retiring at full pay with guaranteed automatic pension increases to keep up with increases in the cost of living.

Pension immunity from inflation for the more than 600 federal judges is one effect of the pay-raise bill signed recently by President Ford and brings the federal bench to a par with a number of state courts.

The pay-raise measure affects judges' pensions because their retirement pay generally is defined as the full salary for their last post, court administrative officials say. Therefore, as basic pay for judges goes up under terms of the pay-raise bill, pensions for retired federal jurists also will increase.

The new law also provides pay raises for the vice president, members of Congress, Cabinet members and other top officials. But their pensions are calculated differently, and they don't retire at full pay.

All pay hikes under the new law will be keyed to rises in the consumer price index, which is used to measure changes in the cost of living. The pay raise this year could be as much as 8

Says Israel, U.S. Near Pact

TEL AVIV (AP) — The newspaper Ha'aretz reported today that Israel and the United States will sign a secret agreement of understanding containing about 40 clauses as part of a second stage Sinai pact.

The paper said the pact will cover three years and will include these major points:

—The United States will ensure that another force independent of the U.N. Security Council will replace U.N. troops in the Sinai buffer zone if renewal of the U.N. peace-keeping mandate is vetoed in the Security Council.

—The United States will not press for a partial settlement with Jordan.

—Washington will agree that no more interim settlements with Egypt will be initiated without Israeli approval.

—Washington will coordinate future political moves in the Middle East with Israel, including strategy at the Geneva peace conference, if it is reconvened.

—Israel will agree to negotiate another partial settlement with Syria, but it will provide only "cosmetic changes" of the present cease-fire lines.

The Foreign Ministry would not comment on details of the report. A spokesman said only that Israel will sign an agreement with the United States as one of three parties to a Sinai accord.

It was understood the agreement would require approval by the U.S. congress, other newspaper reports said.

Haaretz political correspondent Matti Golan said the matter of aid in the secret agreement has not been settled. He said Israel has requested $3.2 billion but Kissinger has spoken of $2 billion.

In military action, an Israeli army patrol clashed with Arab gunners in Lebanon on Monday night in a cross-border skirmish, the military command in Tel Aviv reported.

It said there were no Israeli casualties.

Jordan and Syria were preparing today for Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's Middle East shuttle scheduled to begin on Thursday.

King Hussein flew to the Syrian capital for five days of talks with President Hafez Assad to coordinate positions on a Sinai settlement.

In Cairo, military leaders of Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates agreed Monday that a $1.04 billion Arab Authority for Military Industry had "specified advanced arms to be produced and that it will begin its activities immediately."

No details were announced.

Venezuela To Nationalize Oil

By WILLIAM H. HEATH
Associated Press Writer
CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Legislation to nationalize the huge American-owned oil industry is expected to reach the desk of President Carlos Andres Perez for signing by the end of the week.

The senate on Monday sent the legislation back to the lower house, which passed the original measure on July 28 and now must approve minor changes.

The oil companies have not objected to the plan which would put them under a new parent company, Petroleos Venezolano — or Petroven.

The bill calls for total takeover of the 2.5 million barrel-a-day industry which last year earned the state more than $10 billion.

Subsidiaries of Exxon, Royal Dutch Shell, Gulf, Texaco, Mobil and Sun Oil will be required to return to the state by Dec. 31 oil concessions covering some 5.4 million acres.

The government will take over a dozen company-owned refineries with a total capacity of 1.6 million barrels daily, hundreds of miles of pipeline, production equipment capable of handling 3.5 million barrels daily, storage facilities for 152 million barrels of crude and refined products as well as terminal facilities at Venezuelan ports.

The foreign companies, several of which began work in Venezuela in the early years of the century, would receive still-to-be-determined compensation which, under terms of the bill, would not exceed net book value of their assets, officially estimated at $1.1 billion.

Company and government representatives are negotiating the amount of compensation each firm would receive, following deduction of employee benefits and pending taxes. Compensation will be payable in government bonds over a 10-year period.

Nationalization will mark the end of a process of increasing state control over the industry. Foreign oil workers, who numbered more than 5,000 in 1957, now total fewer than 700 — less than 3 per cent of the industry's 24,000-man work force.

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — Emergency crews were called to the Lumberton Airport Monday afternoon to stand by as a small, private plane with landing gear problems made an emergency, crash landing.

The pilot, George Donald Dixon of Washington, N.C. and his passenger, G.R. Harmon, were uninjured after the plane belied to a halt. The Cessna 210 suffered about $1,000 damage.

Dees sent hundreds of thousands of letters to people on his mailing lists, including a photocopy of King's article in each one. The letters, over the signature of Julian Bond, chairman of the center, asked for contributions to help in Miss Little's defense.

The letter, displaying The New York Times' imprimatur, galvanized editors and broadcast executives in New York and Washington. Articles were commissioned and television crews were sent to Beaufort County to get the story.

The coverage snowballed. Once one network ran the story, the others wanted to match it. Where the Times led, other papers and magazines followed. By the time the trial started the Washington Star-News was calling it "the civil rights trial of the '70s."

broadcasting is the most personal form of journalism ever. The press communicates through cold print, not through voices and faces. Yet the news in broadcasting does not have to be acted. It must be popularized, in the sense of being simplified so that all may understand, but it does not have to be vulgarized. Show-business aspects of news broadcasting will always be there, but the pressures for these aspects to dominate are becoming too strong.

"American journalists today—and this includes many of the printed press as well—have been forced and lured out of their normal and proper role in our society. They are becoming, not just the critics in the aisle but actors in the play. Journalists furiously write about other journalists, and an unhealthy self-consciousness is infecting their ranks. We are important; but we are not that important."

Let me add an amen to all that. I am a newspaperman, first, last, and always; I travel in TV on a passport, and I seldom enter a studio without looking around for an exit visa. But even on the far-out fringes of this alien land, I have begun to understand the awesome, flattering, disturbing power of recognition that television can convey.

Cronkite, Severeid, Chancellor, Brinkley, Reasoner, Smith—these are among the most familiar names in our land. They are celebrities. In cities large and small, it is the same: The stars of local TV are stars in local galaxies. The "who" in broadcasting outstrips the "what" of the news. Out of personalized journalism, God save us, comes the personality. It is a profoundly depressing thought.

A little modesty, Severeid concluded, would well become those who are thus thrust into public consciousness, for as Winston Churchill once remarked in another context, they have much to be modest about.

Check Effects Of Gambling

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Writer
CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Does legalized casino gambling promote prostitution?

Dr. Ethel Allen of Philadelphia, member of the National Gaming Commission, asked the question Monday as officials and gambling industry spokesmen appeared before the panel.

"Everybody tells us about all the side effects that come from legalized gambling," said Dr. Allen. "That was one of the issues in New Jersey last year when legalization was before the voters."

"The opponents said all the prostitutes would come to the state," Dr. Allen said in commenting on the New Jersey ballot question rejected by voters.

"In this legalized climate I'm interested in finding out from officials if such things as prostitution have the tacit consent of law enforcement officials," she said.

Dr. Allen queried Phil Hannifin, chairman of the state Gaming Control Board, on whether legalized gambling encouraged prostitution.

Hannifin replied he didn't see a connection between legalized gambling and prostitution, and added "where are there more prostitutes than in New York City?" where casino gambling is illegal.

Prostitution is allowed in Nevada on a county-option basis, but counties where major casino centers are located don't allow legal bordellos.

The Commission on the Review of the National Policy Toward Gambling, the panel's formal name, continues its hearings into waging in the United States with three days of hearings in Las Vegas.

The commission opened up its first of a week-long session in Nevada with the Monday meeting here.

The Commission must make a report and its recommendations on legalization of gambling, along with its side effects, to the President and Congress by October 1976.

Refinery Fire Is Dying

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A single crude oil storage tank continues to burn as the killer fire at the Gulf Oil Co. refinery here slowly dies out.

The bodies of six city firemen were recovered Monday from pools of hot crude, foam and water around the tank where the blaze erupted before dawn Sunday.

The fire forced closure of the Penrose Avenue bridge, main artery between the city and Philadelphia International Airport, but police opened the span to traffic at the start of the evening rush hour Monday.

A major threat was eliminated Monday morning when three Gulf employees pushed an aluminum rowboat across oil and water to shut off a valve on a tank leaking highly flammable naphtha.

A curtain of water sprayed by other Gulf workers protected the three men from intense heat as they cut the valve just 100 feet from the point where the naphtha was igniting in mid-air.

Six persons remain hospitalized, four of them city firemen in critical condition with second- and third-degree burns. The other two were Gulf fire officials who suffered heart attacks Sunday.

The dead were identified as Joseph Wiley, 34; John J. Andrews, 50; Robert J. Fisher, 43; Ralph Campana, 41; Hugh McIntyre, 53; and Roger Parkers, 28.

The fire started early Sunday as Venezuelan crude was being unloaded from a ship. The blaze was declared under control Sunday morning, but eight hours later it exploded out of control.

The six firemen who died were incinerated in the sudden flash.

Gulf said it lost about $10 million in facilities, equipment and oil, but a company spokesman said fire damage "would be adequately covered with a modest deductible."

Fire Commissioner Joseph Rizzo said the city lost $1 million. Rizzo and City Managing Director Hille Levinson said Gulf would be billed for the lost equipment.

getting closer to change. I'd like to alleviate the situation of too many blacks at Sadie Sautler. When you compare the reverse situation at Wahl-Coates, I think we certainly ought to reverse this situation that has existed for too long."

School board chairman Henry Dunn, noting that the current attendance pattern is the result of a 1971 federal court order to desegregate the schools, added "since that date, there has been an almost complete flight of whites away from the Sadie Sautler district which has changed the attendance ratio figures drastically in the past four years."

Board member Ed Carter touched on problems any attempt to equalize percentages at this point would involve. "There's many complexities in the transfer of students so close to the beginning of a school year," he said. "Moving students out of Sadie Sautler now is putting the burden of integration on the student."

Carter and several other school board members emphasized that because of the time factor, and the possibility of legal action that could ensue, they felt it would be wiser to evaluate the total requirements of this problem before taking action.

A workshop session on the overall problem has been scheduled for Monday, September 8, with other sessions to be set as needed. Cox assured Stallings the workshop meeting would be scheduled at some place sufficiently large to permit public attendance by interested persons.

Pete Fagan, one of several among those at the meeting to comment on the issue, stressed his concern over the "crowded conditions at Sadie Sautler, aside from the racial imbalance." Referring also to Carter's statement that it was not fair for a black student to have to go into a predominantly white school against his wishes, Fagan said "if that means the black student has an option, the white student should also have the same option. I feel, too," he added, "you're using these figures too lightly to back up one position or another."

Another spokesman, Bill Fowler, remarked "I'm appalled at the ratio of black and white at Eastern, Wahl-Coates and Sadie Sautler. I think it's high time for the Greenville City School Board to straighten the situation out. Let's bus the kids. The law says we've got to, so why can't the board get on with it?"

Kent Trial Is Nearing Jury

By CLINT SWIFT
Associated Press Writer
CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Guardsmen who testified they fired only in the air. They were James K. Brown of Orville, 1970 Kent State University Ronnie B. Myers of Wooster shootings enters the rebuttal and Lonnie D. Hinton of Ashland.

Court sources said the case could go to the jury as early as Thursday afternoon.

The plaintiffs — nine students who were wounded and the survivors of four who were killed during a campus antiwar demonstration — will attempt to counter defense testimony that one of the wounded might have been hit by a nonmilitary bullet.

Lawyers defending present and former state officials and Ohio National Guardsmen in the suit introduced testimony from an Army surgeon that a bullet which hit Donald S. MacKenzie in the back of the neck, had it been a military round, would have ripped away most of MacKenzie's cheek when it exited.

Much of the defense's case has centered on the theory that a shot from other than a guardsman's weapon could have set off a 13-second volley of gunfire during a campus antiwar demonstration. The plaintiffs contend the only shots fired at Kent State on May 4, 1970, came from guardsmen's weapons.

After the defense rested Monday, the plaintiffs dropped their claims against three former guardsmen who testified they fired only in the air. They were James K. Brown of Orville, 1970 Kent State University Ronnie B. Myers of Wooster shootings enters the rebuttal and Lonnie D. Hinton of Ashland.

The motion reduced the number of defendants to 29, including Gov. James A. Rhodes, ex-Adj. Gen. Sylvester T. Del Corso and former Kent State President Robert I. White.

Guard Capt. Dwight W. Cline, a defendant, told the jury Monday the shooting started after two bullets ripped into the earth a few feet behind some of his men.

Cline said the shots sounded like small arms fire, but he admitted under cross-examination he could not be sure where they came from. He conceded they could have been fired by other guardsmen.

Hunt Gives Crime Program

RALEIGH (AP)—Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt says the problem of crime control and how to deal with it should be given the governor's highest priority.

Hunt, a Democrat, has not announced as a candidate but is expected to seek his party's nomination for governor next year.

In a speech before two Raleigh civic clubs Monday, Hunt said he fears that criminals "are literally going to destroy this country." After the speech, Hunt told newsmen that crime and "the inability of our children to read" are North Carolina's greatest problems.

Monday's talk was a rerun of the speech Hunt has given in several parts of the state. He said an Asheville audience gave the talk the "greatest response" he's ever had for any speech.

Though Hunt noted he's not a formal candidate, his speech was along the lines of promising an anticrime program he would pursue as governor.

"The governor of North Carolina ought to go before the General Assembly and the people with a special program to fight crime in this state. And it should be the top priority in his administration," he said.

Hunt also said he supports the death penalty for first degree murder and rape. He would commute few, if any, death sentences to life imprisonment if he were governor, he said.

Among Hunt's suggested efforts to stem crime were unarmed citizen patrols to help police, speedier trials plus higher standards, training and pay for police.

Hunt also said victims of crime should receive financial aid from the state to help offset loss. He is the highest state official to endorse the concept that was defeated in the last session of the legislature.

At Almada, a Communist industrial stronghold, Goncalves told the union crowd that "some fascist elements are steering the process" of anti-Communist violence and called on "patriots and revolutionaries" to support the ruling junta.

"There must be freedom, but not freedom like that.... Freedom is not absence of restrictions. Liberty must be defined," he said.

Goncalves indicated he would not give in to his critics, including the two largest political parties — the Socialists and the centrist Popular Democratic party (PPD) — and the Roman Catholic church.

RALEIGH (AP) — Robert Shaw, 50, head of Guilford County's Republican Party was to announce his candidacy for chairmanship of the North Carolina Republican Party today in Raleigh.

Shaw, a restaurant owner and member of his county Board of Commissioners, is the first and is expected to be the only candidate to seek the two-year post.

If he is the only contender, the election of a state GOP Chairman this time will be in marked contrast to the election of two years ago when then-Chairman Frank Rouse was challenged by Morehead City attorney Tom Bennett.

Bennett, who had the backing of Gov. Jim Holshouser's moderate party wing, won the bitter contest.

Shaw is said by most party members to have good rapport with both the conservative and moderate wings of the party.

Phillies Take 1st Place Tie; Pirates Lose To IL Stars

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates are so low they can lose twice without playing against major leaguers. The Pirates, hooked on a six-game tailspin, had a night off from the major league rat race but still took it on the chin, losing some pride and then sole possession of first place in the National League East.

The International League All-Stars, not above hitting a team when it's down, stepped on the Pirates 5-2, then the Philadelphia Phillies, interested in putting the Pirates down, clubbed the Atlanta Braves 6-3 to join Pittsburgh atop the NL East.

Elsewhere in the NL, the Cincinnati Reds rolled to their ninth straight victory by beating the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2 and in the process eliminated the Houston Astros from any mathematical chance at the NL West title. Undaunted, the Astros blanked the Mets 4-0. The Los Angeles Dodgers tripped the Chicago Cubs 3-1 and the Montreal Expos beat the San Diego Padres 4-1 before losing the second game 5-2.

Pennsylvania has both NL East leaders now, which is great for state pride but not much for civic pride in Pittsburgh, where the burghers have seen the Pirates lost 11 of their last 12 games. Both the Pirates and Phillies have 67-55 records and a hand on first place, a spot Pittsburgh has occupied since June 6.

Mike Schmidt, home run hero in the Phillies victory over the Braves, hit his first homer of the night in the first inning, after Dick Allen, making his first appearance in Atlanta since he refused to play for the Braves earlier in the season, belted a two-run shot. Schmidt led off the seventh with his 28th homer of the season.

Reds 3, Cardinals 2
Don Gullett, the high-flying Red's ace pitcher, pitched Monday night for the first time since a hairline fracture of his right thumb sidelined him June 16.

Gullett delivered 67 pitches and five shutout innings before giving way to Pedro Borbon ... who gave way to Will McEnaney ... who gave way to Clay Carroll ... who gave way to Rawley Eastwick ... who finally nailed down the Reds' ninth straight victory. The loss dropped the Cardinals 2½ games off the pace in the NL East.

The Reds remained 17½ games ahead of the second-place Dodgers.

Astros 4, Mets 0
Houston Manager Preston Gomez saw the figures on the wall long before Monday night. "We've been out of it for two months," he said.

The rest of the schedule is for the future, which seems very promising for James Rodney Richard, who beat the Mets on a six-hitter.

Dodgers 3, Nubs 1
Los Angeles pitcher Burt Hooton, 11-9, gained another shot in the arm with his victory over his former teammates, the Cubs, giving up five hits before leaving for Mike Marshall in the eighth.

Expos 4-2, Padres 1-5
Ted Kubiak and Bobby Tolan drove in two runs apiece to lead San Diego to its second-game victory over Montreal. Jose Morales' tie-breaking pinch-single triggered a three-run eighth inning that carried the Expos to victory in the first game.

Lame Spiders Seen As Small Factor In Final Southern Conf. Campaign

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

The University of Richmond's lame duck Spiders are in their final year of membership in the Southern Conference, and most of the forecasters are not picking them to be much of an influence in the football race this fall.

But Jim Tait, in his second year as the Richmond coach, isn't sure that the Spiders might not be underrated, quite a bit in fact.

Tait feels that Richmond, with some early maturity by some of the younger players, and some breaks in the injury department, could easily win the conference title this year, closing out Southern membership in a big way.

But to be successful, the Spiders are going to have to find some answers on defense. They feel that they have a strong offense, but too many questions remain on the opposite side of the line.

In the past, Richmond has been a strong offensive team, with good quarterbacking—mainly oriented to the pass. This year, with inexperience at quarterback, Richmond will probably do more running, but Tait feels that tradition will follow as the Spiders once again come up with a good quarterback.

The top candidate for that job is junior Larry Shaw. Tait says he has all the qualifications to get the job done. "Everyone is wondering about him, but we've always had good quarterbacking. Shaw will be an outstanding quarterback, too. He can throw and run."

If Shaw does come through, coupled with the return of the two top running backs of the Spiders last year, the offense could be very strong. The offensive line is mostly intact from last year, so maybe the Spiders can outscore their opponents if the defense doesn't hold.

Tait rates the offense as the true strong point of the team. Eleven lettermen return on offense, including six at the tackle and guard spots.

Rodney Elam, 6-2, 225, will be the anchor of the line at the strong tackle position. He's started every game since his sophomore year, and will be going into his third year at that position. Joining him will be junior Doug McGee, who started much of last year. He's added 28 pounds to his 6-1 frame during the off-season weight program, moving up to 248.

At the guard spots will be Cubby Pritchard, a 6-2, 215-pound sophomore, and Lou Bonato, a 6-1, 220 soph. But both could be challenged by juniors, James Cones and Joe Palazeti.

Center is the only question mark. Allan Werle was a reserve last year and started number one during the spring. But Keith Waldrop, a 6-1, 215-pound sophomore, could move him out.

Tim Manwaring, 6-4, 220, transfer and Mike Rafferty are battling at tight end, while Rickey Brown, who caught 19 passes as a sophomore, has switched to the flanker spot from tight end.

Fullback John Palazeti and tailback Bob Allen return for their fourth varsity season and are the likely candidates for their positions. Ed Kreilis could see a lot of action at tailback too.

The kicking game also looks strong with Terry Carter and Johnnie Jones returning. Defensively, seven starters return, but it's not all that great. Richmond was one of the weakest defensive teams in the league last year, ranking eighth against the rush and sixth in total defense.

Two junior college transfers could fill the hole at middle guard. They are Gary Edwards, 6-0, 225, or Frank Blua. The tackles are likely to be Orlendus Branch and Dickie Childress. The ends are up for grabs, however, with Mike Copley a top candidate to return—if he recovers from a knee injury. Steve Colantuoni is behind him. Ritman Rock and Garland Branch are the top men on the other end.

Linebacking is another area that is unsure. Dave Sowder is coming off surgery and is questionable. Rene Fretz did well in the spring game and could start. Bob Hanback and two JC transfers Steve Dodd and Dave Templeton could also figure in the picture.

The brightest spot is the secondary, where Carroll Craig takes over one corner spot after being switched from flanker. Dave Sylvester or Behle Schaafl will take the other spot. Jeff Satyshur will be at one safety, while Mike Andrus will be at the other.

"We're going to have to tighten up and do the best we can to keep from making young mistakes," Tait said. "We definitely will be a young team, and some of the incoming freshmen could figure in."

Despite the problems, Tait warned the Southern not to count Richmond out of the race. "We can do it—it just depends on how quickly our young men come along and how healthy we stay."

Richmond's schedule: Sept. 13, at Cincinnati; Sept. 20, Furman; Sept. 27, at Virginia Tech; Oct. 4, at East Carolina; Oct. 11, Ball State; Oct. 18, VMI; Oct. 25, at Appalachian State; Nov. 1, at Georgia; Nov. 8, The Citadel; Nov. 15, West Virginia; Nov. 22, at William & Mary.

Lund Rites Set Today

CROSS, S.C. (AP)—Around the stock car circuits they called him Tiny because he was 6-foot-4 and weighed 250 pounds.

Because of his age, he had never landed a first class Grand National Division "ride" for any length of time in recent years.

Although 45-year-old DeWayne "Tiny" Lund may never be mentioned in the same breath with the Richard Pettys and David Pearsons, he earned more than $175,000 in his career on the NASCAR circuit, that of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

He had been competing mostly on small tracks. But he took a shot at Sunday's Talladega 500 on the Alabama International Motor Speedway big track—and lost his life in a six-car pileup.

Funeral services were scheduled for 4 p.m. today in St. Michael's Lutheran Church in nearby Moncks Corner. Burial will be in Berkeley Memorial Gardens near the church.

Lund estimated that he had won more than 250 races in his career. His last victory was at Powell's Speedway in Summerville, S.C., where he earned $1,600 last Wednesday.

His high mark was 1963, when he placed among the top 10 in a dozen races.

Little League Builds Character In American Youth

Colts Voted Most Likely To Succeed In '75

By GORDON BEARD
AP Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Colts have been voted the National Football League team most likely to improve, and local bumper stickers proclaim: "We will arrive in '75."

After three consecutive seasons of downsliding, with their record getting progressively worse, the Colts have nowhere to go but up.

Actually, there is some reason to believe that the Colts are making progress on the comeback trail following the complete dismantling of the 1971 Super Bowl champions by General Manager Joe Thomas.

While posting a 2-12 record last year, the Colts dropped nine of the decisions by 13 points or less, including one and 10-point losses to the Miami Dolphins.

The offensive line which permitted 49 sacks and otherwise had quarterback Bert Jones running for his life, has been beefed up considerably since then. And the relatively young defense, anchored by middle linebacker Mike Curtis, should improve with experience.

If Jones can get time to set up, the third-year pro should benefit from the expertise of Ted Marchibroda, the former offensive coordinator of the Washington Redskins who is making his head coaching debut after 14 years as an NFL assistant.

To help bring those qualities to the fore, Thomas moved to strengthen the line in front of Jones.

In trades, Thomas acquired tackle George Kunz, a three-time All-Pro selection, and tackle Ed George, who was named the outstanding offensive lineman in the Canadian Football League in 1974 — his fifth season in the league.

The Colts also made guard Ken Huff of North Carolina their No. 1 draft pick, and he could be a starter after making up the time he lost with the College All-Star team.

Marchibroda lists Jones, Huff, wide receiver Roger Carr and cornerback Doug Nettles as the players who hold the key to Baltimore's development.

Carr, a first-round pick last year, made 18 of his 21 receptions in the second half of the season after battling back from early injuries.

Marchibroda is counting on Carr, wide receiver Glenn Doughty and tight end Raymond Chester to get away for some big gainers on pass receptions.

Jones and his backup, Marty Domres, tossed only nine TD passes last year, and five of those went to backs. The Colts scored just 190 points, and had difficulty crossing the goalline from close in.

A stronger line should make things easier for Lydell Mitchell, who led the Colts with 757 yards rushing and with 544 yards on pass receptions.

Bill Olds, who rushed for 475 yards last season, probably will join Mitchell in the starting backfield, with veteran Don McCauley and rookie Roosevelt Leaks backing them up.

The defensive line includes second-year ends Fred Cook and John Dutton, and third-year Joe Ehrmann at tackle. Fighting for the other tackle spot are Mike Barnes and Bill Windauer, both in their third seasons, and rookie Dave Pear, a third-round pick from Washington.

"Havelock 3" Goes About Task Of Winning Pirates SC Crown

By WILIE PATRICK
Special To The Reflector

Something unusual happened to three Havelock natives here Monday morning, Aug. 18. As they collectively agreed, the proceedings were about as expected; rather, was the timing that was all wrong.

At 6:20 a.m., approximately 125 football prospects were roused from their beds to begin the first day of pre-season football practice at East Carolina University. With cries of "Free the Havelock 3," Jacob Dove, Cary Godette and Larry Lundy went to work, doing their part in an effort to put the Pirates back on top of the Southern Conference ladder.

Collectively, the trio presents a formidable 18 ft., six inches and 705 pounds of what one assistant coach terms "the best representatives any town in America could hope to have."

But at that time in the morning? "I have never had three-a-day practices in my life," said Lundy, an offensive tackle and all-conference academic team member. "One thing is for sure, though: we will come out of this in top-notch shape."

The early-morning routing was just as interesting to Godette and Dove as well. "It is strange getting up with the birds and going out to play football," Godette chimed in. "But after sitting out last year, I guess I would play about any time of the day or night."

An all-conference defensive end in 1973, Godette suffered torn knee ligameny in 1974 and missed the entire season. The Pirates have but four returning defensemen from last year's 7-4 club, so the so-called addition of the veteran Godette will be an added plus, as will that of Dove, who returns to a defensive tackle slot after a one-year absence. Dove spent the 1974 season on the other side of the pit, in the offensive line, after his freshman season as a defensive tackle.

With all kidding about the early hours aside, the trio agreed that the much-needed workouts would be beneficial to the Pirates. The team as a whole reported in what Sports Medicine Director Rod Compton called "the best shape ever I've seen at ECU" and it is a safe bet that Dove, Godette and Lundy, judging from their summer routines, were near top of the proficiency list.

Lundy spent the summer with Pirate center Tim Hightower in construction work at St. Simons Island, Ga., Hightower's home town. He said they worked out

"after we got off from work, which was a pretty good workout in its own right." Dove and Godette spent the summer in Greenville, "going to school, working and working out." Dove said it was a combination of the three that gave him a pretty rough time for a while.

"I was going to school and working two jobs," said Dove. "Workout time came at about 12 at night. That didn't last but about a week, though. . . I just found out a way to get all my time organized better and there were no more problems."

Being a part of a group of 125 would make most people feel a bit small. But Dove, Godette and Lundy feel that the numbers game isn't important in football, as long as everyone has something to contribute to making a good football team. To survive a rigorous pre-season training schedule as the one head coach Pat Dye has instituted, the trio said that all the physical aches and pains could become secondary, all the pre-season workouts null and void, if the strength and quickness were void of "mental toughness."

"You have got to be willing to pay the price," said Godette. "Coach Dye believes in football and what he is doing, so you just have to suck it up and go to battle when called upon."

Lundy, meanwhile, reiterated his belief about the hard work being beneficial, both before the beginning of camp and from then on.

"I know, from past experience, that if I am not in shape when practice starts, I will just about die," said Lundy. "That knowledge will stand in your mind a lot when other things fall."

"Also, there is a large dose of determination needed. You know the ups and downs are coming, and you have to take things as they come."

Dove had a similar explanation, too.

"You have to be mentally tough because so much of the work is repetition," said Dove. "You have to know what you are doing to such a degree that you can actually forget what you are doing and just go do it."

Individually, as well as collectively, the trio has been making a mark in Pirate football circles. They all have their own contribution: Lundy explained that "being a member of an interior line is like being in a group all to yourself." Godette said his contribution he enjoyed is "just rushing the passer," something he did with great zeal prior to the knee injury. And

Carew Beats Quiet Manager

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Rod Carew loves beating the Baltimore Orioles — but he loves beating his manager even more.

Carew banged out three hits in three at-bats Monday night and scored a pair of runs in Minnesota's 6-1 victory over the Orioles. "I love to beat Baltimore — and particularly Earl Weaver because he pops off so much," Carew said later.

Weaver wasn't popping off after the loss, which cost the Orioles a shot at closing the gap with first-place Boston in the American League East. But he wasn't exactly docile, either. "Sure, every one you lose hurts, but we've got plenty of time to catch Boston," he said of the Red Sox' seven-game lead. "Last year we were nine games out on Aug. 29 and now we're only six out in the loss column."

In the rest of the AL, Detroit defeated Oakland 5-3, California beat Milwaukee 5-4 and, in a two-night doubleheader, Cleveland swept Texas 4-3 and 4-2.

Dave Goltz limited the Orioles to six hits while Dan Ford and Johnny Briggs drove in two runs apiece for the Twins.

Tigers 5, A's 3

Bill Freehan's 13th homer, a three-run shot off Vida Blue in the third inning, paved the way to the Tigers' third straight victory and trimmed Oakland's West Division lead over Kansas City to 5½ games.

"I'm not surprised we've won three in a row," said winner Joe Coleman, reflecting on Detroit's recent club-record losing spin. "The law of averages was on our side after that streak. Nobody expected us to lose 19 in a row."

Angels 5, Brewers 4

Lee Stanton's three-run homer in the ninth inning vaulted California past the Brewers. Milwaukee starter Tom Hausman took a 4-2 lead into the ninth but, with one out, Adrian Garrett, who had slugged a seventh-inning homer, stroked a single. Tom Murphy replaced Hausman and gave up Bruce Bochte's single and Stanton's 11th homer.

Indians 4-4, Rangers 3-2

Boog Powell drove in three runs and Frank Duffy hit a tie-breaking single in the sixth inning to lead Cleveland to its first-game victory, then the Indians made it a sweep of Texas on the strength of homers by Rico Carty and John Lowenstein.

Dove, well he just likes to do whatever he can do to put up a steady performance.

"If I can play steady, it will help pick up the people having a bad day," said Dove. "And if that will help the team, I feel like I have done my job."

No argument was forthcoming when the trio was proclaimed prior to the third practice session of the day, as Dye put it, "solid citizens." They are solid, all right. All 705 pounds worth, three of the best representatives of a football town and program anywhere in America.

Colleges' Brainstorm; It's 'Super Conference'

NEW YORK (AP) — First it was the Super Bowl and the Super Dome. Now the colleges have a brainstorm: the Super Conference.

A mammoth conference of approximately 75 of the nation's major football powers has been formally proposed to the National Collegiate Athletic Association and could become a reality as early as next season.

The plan was presented to the policy-making NCAA Council last week at the special convention on economics in Chicago by the NCAA's Special Committee on Reorganization. The Council said the plan would be considered at its next meeting in October.

"I'd say the Council probably will officially sponsor the proposal at the annual NCAA convention next January," a source close to the NCAA told The Associated Press Monday. "It has very strong support on the Reorganization Committee."

"This super association was one of the things the larger schools proposed four years ago when the Reorganization Committee was formed," according to the NCAA. "It was shouted down at the time and we kind of compromised instead of dividing the majors into two groups."

The NCAA split into three divisions two years ago, but talk of a super conference surfaced again in Chicago last week when the special convention passed new recruiting and personnel regulations that put all 134 of the current Division I schools on equal footing.

A preliminary plan calls for what basically would be a football conference composed of 75 schools — seven conferences plus 15 independents. The conferences are The Big Eight, Southeastern, The Big Ten, Pacific-8, Southwest, Atlantic Coast and Western Athletic. The independents are Notre Dame, Penn State, Pitt, Georgia Tech, Miami of Florida, Florida State, South Carolina, Tulane, Boston College, Syracuse, West Virginia, Air Force, Utah State, Memphis State and Virginia Tech.

The next division would consist of nine conferences — Big Sky, Ivy League, Mid-American, Missouri Valley, Ohio Valley, Pacific Coast, Athletic Association, Southern, Southland and Southwestern Athletic — plus the following independents:

Akron, Army, Cincinnati, Colgate, Connecticut, Dayton, Delaware, Florida A&M, Hawaii, Holy Cross, Illinois State, Indiana State, Louisville, Massachusetts, Marshall, Navy, Nevada-Las Vegas, North Texas State, Northeast Louisiana, Rutgers, Southern Mississippi, Temple, Tennessee-Chattanooga, Tennessee State, Villanova and Western Carolina.

The rest of the nation's football-playing NCAA colleges would be divided into Division II or III. The super conference would be called Division I, with the other majors Division I-A.

Possible criteria for membership in the super conference are the number of football scholarships, future scheduling patterns, past performances against other teams in the new division, number of varsity sports and athletic facilities.

To remain a member, a school would be required to play 51 per cent of its nonconference games against other teams in the division while independents would have to play 51 per cent of all games against other "super powers."

Hunters Given Chance To Ask About Regulations

RALEIGH—Tarheel waterfowl hunters will again have an opportunity to offer suggestions and comments on proposed regulations for the upcoming duck and goose seasons.

"Each year in the past about this time, Federal authorities who control the seasons and bag limits for waterfowl hunting have sent to all states a list of options," explained Clyde P. Patton, executive director of the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission. "They are asked to select season options desired by waterfowl hunters."

"This year the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is requesting comments prior to the setting of any final list of options," said Patton.

Those waterfowl hunters who wish to comment on the tentative Federal options must do so before August 23 by contacting either the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Washington, D.C. 20240 or the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission, Raleigh, N.C. 27611. Suggestions received in Raleigh will be forwarded to Washington.

Final options on the Federal framework will be sent to the N.C. Commission on August 25, 1975.

The Commission will meet in Raleigh on August 27, 1975, in the fourth floor conference room of the Albemarle Building at 9:00 a.m. to consider which of the final options to select. Choices will then be sent to Washington and the final Federal waterfowl regulations should be adopted and published shortly after.

"Waterfowl hunters who would like to participate in the selection of available options are invited to attend the August 27 meeting," said Patton. "If you can't attend the meeting and would like to present suggestions, you can write or telephone us."

The tentative options being offered by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service are as follows:

Between October 1, 1975, and January 20, 1976, North Carolina can tentatively select conventional open seasons on ducks, coots, and mergansers of:

—47 days with basic bag limits on ducks of four daily and eight in possession of which no more than two daily and four in possession may be black ducks.
—47 days with basic bag limits of ducks of five daily and 10 in possession of which no more than one daily and two in possession may be black ducks.

—50-day season under either of the above options providing the season is opened on a Wednesday at noon, local time. If the season is split, each opening must occur on a Wednesday at noon.

Another option—chosen for the first time by North Carolina last year—is the point system. This is an alternative to conventional bag limits for ducks. It may be either 47 days under the framework dates above or 50 days with the Wednesday at noon opening. Hen mallards, black ducks, noddled ducks, wood ducks and hooded mergansers will count 70 points each; blue-winged teal, green-winged teal, pintail, gadwall, shoveler, scaup, sea ducks, and mergansers (except hooded) will count 10 points each. All other ducks will count 25 points each. The daily bag limit is reached under the point system when the point values of the last bird taken—added to the sum of point values of other birds already taken during the day reaches or exceeds 100 points.

The Federal framework permits states to split their seasons for ducks and geese without penalty under certain conditions.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is also offering a 50-day season within the October 1 to January 20 framework on Canada geese with a daily bag limit of one and a possession limit of two; however, for the first time in many years, a season is being offered for snow and blue geese. North Carolina may select a 30-day season on snow geese with a daily bag limit of two snow geese and a possession limit of four, as long as this season is selected to fall within the regular waterfowl season.

Details on Federal waterfowl regulations on which the states have no options may be obtained by writing the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Washington, D.C. 20240.

By JENNIFER KERR
Associated Press Writer
PROSPERITY, W.Va. (AP) — Mrs. Beatrice Gill strode to her wooden fence, waving her arms at the people with cameras who crept around the two giant green-and-chrome trucks toward her once-quiet home.

"Go on back," she shouted, her sunburned brow furrowing. "There's nothing you can see ... that crying baby ruined the whole scene."

The parents of the tot edged back. They looked guilty at having interfered with the filming of an episode of NBC's "Movin' On," which moved into Raleigh County this summer for a story about coal mining.

"It's more of a hassle than I ever thought," sighed Mrs. Gill, whose house was being used for some scenes in the show. "I'm really getting tore up."

She said the "Movin' On" people just knocked on her door one day and asked to use her house for filming, probably because it has what Hollywood calls authenticity. It sits alone, surrounded by piles of coal waste and there's an abandoned tippie nearby.

"Movin' On," filmed entirely on location, circled the West and Northwest last season. The West Virginia trip was its first venture East and the story it was filming concerned a strike by coal miners.

They worked at a small coal mine, "Prosperity No. 1," whose owner, portrayed by Patricia Neal, can't afford to pay salaries and meet state and federal mine safety rules at the same time.

Her non-union mines go on strike for improved safety conditions after a roof fall at the mine. It forces the two truckers of the series to take sides in the dispute.

The tough, pragmatic Sonny Pruitt (played by Claude Adkins) keeps on delivering supplies to the mine, saying he's just trying to make a living.

His partner, the college-educated Will Chandler (Frank Converse) takes the side of the striking miners.

CLAIMS VISIONS—Mary Ann Van Hoof, who says the Virgin Mary has been appearing to her for more than 25 years, was photographed last year as she left the shrine on her former farm near Necadah, Wis. On Aug. 15, 1950, a crowd er of the episode, said he wrote to various state chambers of commerce in coal-producing states when seeking a good spot to film the show. West Virginia got the nod.

He said when he heard about the Beckley Exhibition Mine, a city-owned mine that has been made into a coal-mining museum, he decided that "it was a natural for our purposes."

Mrs. Gill's grey frame, four-room, located near a closed mine, was cast in the show as the home of a miner, Sampson Eubanks (played by Gary Merrill), who is leading the strike against "Prosperity No. 1."

Despite Mrs. Gill's efforts to keep crowds away and the attempt by the "Movin' On" crews to keep filming sites secret, a constant stream of people kept driving along the road in front of her home north of Beckley, edging by sheriff's deputies and taking snapshots of Converse and Adkins and their trucks.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A 34-year-old medical technician, released just three months ago after five years in prison for threatening former President Richard M. Nixon, has been arrested for allegedly threatening President Ford.

A Secret Service agent said the man, Thomas D. Elbert, has a history of mental treatment.

Agent Doug Duncan said Elbert "called up our office here late Friday. He told our night duty man, 'I'm going to kill your boss, President Ford'."

Duncan said Elbert told agents where he was calling from, but by the time they arrived he was gone. But Saturday they picked Elbert up at the Gospel Mission after he bragged of the threat, Duncan said.

Ford's schedule includes a visit here Sept. 5.

"They put up with your sports car and your imitation of Harry James every night, but they might mention the yard ..."

Abortion Is Woman's Decision

By ERIC NEWHOUSE
Associated Press Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The right of a girl or a woman to have an abortion is strictly her own, says a federal appeals court. A wife doesn't have to ask her husband; a minor doesn't have to ask her parents.

In affirming the decision of U.S. District Court in Miami, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals declared two Florida abortion statutes unconstitutional.

One of the statutes protected the rights of a husband. But the appeals court noted Monday that the statute dealt with the husband — not necessarily the fetus's father — and said: "The rights of the husband, which arguably spring from his interest in the fetus, are of doubtful applicability in this case."
It added, however, that it may be paradoxical for the federal government to hold both that men have a right to beget and raise offspring and that women have a right to abort them.

"The magnitude of the minor's interest ... suggests that the developmental differences between adults and minors do not warrant denying constitutional protection to the minor's abortions," the appeals court said.
It said most girls would normally consult their parents, but it added that the decision would prevent a hostile set of parents from forbidding an abortion without considering the best interests of their daughter.
"The requirement of parental permission is unlikely to achieve the state's aim of insuring the preservation of the family," the court said. "If a minor's pregnancy has fractured the family structure, imposition of a parental prohibition of abortion cannot reasonably be expected to restore the family's viability as a unit."

The state may secure the man's procreative rights by merely making unconsented abortion a grounds for divorce," it suggested.
"The man may then enter into a new marriage relationship and the state may thereby protect his procreative interests without infringing upon the former-wife's right to abortion."

The appeals court said a minor's right to an abortion must be upheld because teen-age motherhood could seriously impair a girl's physical and psychological health.

By JACK LEFLER
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Agriculture is California's No. 1 business and some people say the use of illegal aliens is a key to its success.

"Our entire crop was harvested last year by illegal aliens," says a Yuba County orchard owner.
Phil Crawford of the state Department of Employment Development, says: "If it were feasible for the Border Patrol to apprehend all illegal aliens in the harvest season, it could create some spot shortages."
"It would take time for growers to gear up with domestic labor and some crops don't last that long."

In many farming operations close to the Mexican border, illegal aliens are welcomed with the advent of seasonal crops, especially those requiring stoop labor and other difficult work.
"They're part of the family," said a Vista farm wife. "Without them, the industry would collapse."
How many illegal aliens in California? Guesses range from one million to four million. More than 250,000 were arrested last year.
Crawford said that last mid-September, a peak harvest season, there were 365,900 farm jobs in the state, including 72,000 farmers and unpaid family members.
Lewis Barlett, agent in charge of the Fresno office of the Border Patrol which covers a six-county area of the Central Valley, said there are more illegal aliens in his territory than ever before.

"We are sending back more than 2,000 this month alone," he said. "Each month the number goes up."
Harvey Hann, manager of the rural Fresno County area for the state Farm Labor Office, says, "We haven't lost any crops from an actual labor shortage in several years."
The Border Patrol estimates that a substantial part of the millions of dollars earned by illegals is sent out of the country, hurting the U.S. balance of payments.
Since 1972 a worker has had to prove citizenship or legal residence in the United States to get a Social Security card.
But there are thousands of counterfeit and pre-1972 cards in circulation and often a worker will not have a Social Security card but a number on a piece of paper. He will tell an employer he lost his card.
Some ranchers say they can't tell the difference between an illegal alien and a Spanish-speaking migrant who is a citizen.
Harry Kubo, head of the Nisei Farmers League representing 1,300 small farmers in the Fresno area, said, "As growers, we prefer to hire local help but there's no way to define an alien and a citizen."
He added: "The idea that we pay different wages is a complete falsehood. There is no double standard. Right now in the valley the minimum wage for agricultural workers is about $2.55 an hour, regardless of who they are."
"Prices of crops are not controlled by wages in any event. They are controlled by supply and demand."

But Wendy Batson of the United Farm Workers Union said, "We have affidavits from about 800 people concerning the issue of wages. Some say they have to commute 50 or 60 miles looking for a job that would pay because illegals knocked down the wages."
She said UFW contracts were averaging $3-$3.10 an hour. The Teamsters Union and UFW say they don't permit illegals in their ranks, but privately officials admit "It's impossible sometimes to tell who's an alien."
A Yuba County orchard owner says: "... We realize that money is going out of the state and into Mexico, but they (illegal aliens) are the only ones who will harvest the crops. They make about the same as domestic workers would."
"It's a great risk for the growers to hire these people ... because on any day they could be hauled off by the Border Patrol and you'd be left with no hands to pick the fruit."

UF Group To Meet

Jones Blasts Leaf Report

First Congressman Walter Jones has blasted a report by the Public Citizen's Health Research Group on the tobacco support program, saying the report should be labelled, "Warning: This document is hazardous to the facts."

The report by the Ralph Nader group recommended that the tobacco support program be eliminated and asserted that tobacco smoking is the "single, scientifically established cause of 85 per cent of all lung cancer in the United States," Jones said.

Jones said the report "is about what can be expected when a law student teams up with a doctor to hammer out a summer research project on agricultural economics, a subject far afield from whatever expertise they may possess."

The report, Jones emphasized, "is a mass of confusion... a disservice to the Congress, the American people, and, not the least, to the credibility of Ralph Nader, under whose auspices the Health Research Group operates."

"It should not be taken seriously," he said. "Unfortunately, it will be given credence by people whose animosity to tobacco will sustain any proposal up to and including prohibition."

"Without a doubt," the congressman said, the report's recommendation to eliminate the tobacco support program "is a callous and arrogant attempt to restrict smoking behavior by ploughing under thousands upon thousands of tobacco growers and their families, collectivizing their individual family farms into corporate plantations, and reducing their status to welfare and food stamp recipients."

Jones said the report failed to mention that in 1974 the realized cost of the tobacco price support program was less than $50,000 and that the tax revenue collected by local, state and federal governments, on tobacco products totaled in excess of $6 billion.

Jones contended that the elimination of the support program would be "counterproductive" to accomplishing a reduction in smoking.

"Rather than diminishing smoking," Jones said, "the elimination of tobacco supports would lead to more tobacco production, lower prices and in turn to increased smoking."

As far as the report's contention that tobacco causes 85 per cent of all lung cancer in the U.S. Jones said "tobacco smoking is a gigantic red herring being dragged across the trial of scientific research. It is disheartening to see Mr. Nader and his group helping to pull the fishy carcass."

Jones said, "I hope Mr. Nader can find the time to visit with this subcommittee (the Congressman is chairman of the House's subcommittee on tobacco) and exchange some more productive thoughts about tobacco, its role in the economy, and its association with health, real or alleged."

He said too, that "I would like to discuss with him the possible inconsistency of the present Health Research Group report and a previous one on diseases among workers in the auto industry which stated, 'These data... seriously challenge the traditional view by management and much of the medical profession that workers' lung and heart diseases are largely caused by cigarettes rather than by workplace poisons.'"

According to Jones, "I wonder how the same group can link toxic chemicals in the workplace to lung cancer in March, and attribute the same disease overwhelmingly to tobacco smoking in August."

THURMONDS' EXPECTING FOURTH CHILD—Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., in an informal statement to his staff in Washington, announced that his wife Nancy is pregnant with their fourth child. He told the staff that the baby is due in January. Thurmond, 72, and his wife, Nancy, 28, are shown in this 1972 file photo. (AP Wirephoto)

Patty's Mother Will Talk To Grand Jury

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The mother of fugitive newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst is ready to tell a federal grand jury today what she knows about the alleged harboring of her daughter at a Pennsylvania farm house.

The grand jury is investigating allegations that sports activist Jack Scott and his wife, Micki, rented the house at South Canaan in which Miss Hearst reportedly hid out for several weeks last summer.

Catherine Hearst will be the first witness to testify before the jury about her 21-year-old daughter.

Scott, former athletic director at Ohio's Oberlin College, and his wife have also been subpoenaed to testify, but they say they will not cooperate, even if they are offered immunity from prosecution.

Miss Hearst, whose father, Randolph A. Hearst, is president of the San Francisco Examiner, was kidnaped Feb. 4, 1974, at Berkeley, Calif., by members of a small terrorist band which called itself the Symbionese Liberation Army.

She later renounced her parents and said she had joined the SLA. She is now being sought with two other SLA fugitives, William and Emily Harris, on bank robbery and weapons charges.

"I think she (Mrs. Hearst) can offer useful information as to harboring," U.S. Atty. John Cottone said after a court hearing Monday in which the Scotts and Martin Miller, a Scott friend now studying in New York, sought to quash their subpoenas on grounds they had been wiretapped, harassed and threatened by the FBI.

Government attorneys denied there was any wiretapping or harassment.

U.S. District Court Judge R. Dixon Herman took the Scott-Miller requests under advisement.

Mrs. Hearst told newsmen in San Francisco last week she had no idea why she was subpoenaed to testify — "I don't know why I am going."

Scott's brother, Walter, had also been subpoenaed, but Cottone said his appearance — scheduled for today — was canceled.

"We didn't think it would be productive and might just prolong the legal hassling," Cottone said.

Walter Scott has repudiated statements in which he claimed he had seen Patricia Hearst twice since she went into hiding, and that his family helped harbor her.

In an affidavit filed with the court by Jack and Micki Scott's attorney, William Kunstler, Walter Scott said he was drinking and taking pills when he told newsmen last week about seeing Miss Hearst in his parents' Las Vegas apartment and again in New York City.

In the affidavit, Walter Scott also retracted statements that his brother knew where Miss Hearst was now and that Jack Scott demanded $200,000 from the FBI to deliver her into custody.

Edmisten Says There Are Too Many Laws

By JAMES KYLE
Reflector Staff Writer

"We are governed to death," State Attorney General Rufus L. Edmisten told the Pitt County Kiwanis Club yesterday. "There are more regulatory agencies trying to govern the thoughts of the people than any other time in history."

Edmisten said he agreed with English philosopher Thomas Hobbes who said, "That government is best which governs least." He said we have spent "thousands of years and millions of laws attempting to improve on the Ten Commandments."

Edmisten complained of "too many so-called regulatory agencies that do nothing but keep people out of professions." He added, "Before long, citizens will have to tell the government everything. I think we have come to that dangerous stage."

Turning to the crime rate, which he said increased in the state by 30 per cent last year, Edmisten said, "I don't know what's the matter." He said North Carolina has one of the hardest systems of penalties for crimes of any state in the country. However, "yelling 'law and order' is not the answer," Edmisten said.

Citizens should practice good law and order, according to Edmisten, by appearing in court as jurors and witnesses. But a few minutes later he added, "I can't blame people for not going to court." He said some people are called into court three or four times before their case comes up.

Edmisten also said the public should "make the climate for law enforcement people good so we can get good people in there." He said he strongly supports a high minimum salary for law officers and "got down on my knees and begged" to get the bill passed in the state legislature this year.

"That's the kind of thing I think we need instead of yelling 'law and order,'" Edmisten said. "Have the best out there and you'll cut down on some of this crime."

Another way to cut down on crime is to speed up the judicial system, Edmisten said. "The hardened criminal doesn't want his Eighth Amendment right to a speedy trial. That's the last thing he wants because witnesses' memories dim and other things."

"All we've got left in this country is our youth," Edmisten said, "let's stretch forth a saving hand."

"When you put one of our youngsters in the prison system, they will graduate with a doctor's degree in how to be a criminal." Education is the key, according to Edmisten, "After a while, there is no such thing as rehabilitation."

St. James Sets Pre-School Dates

St. James Weekday Kindergarten and Nursery Schools begin their 11th year of operation this September.

Janie Clark teaches three-year-old children in a two-day program and a three-day program. Ten children will be enrolled in each group.

Helen Kleiner teaches four-year-olds in two-and three-day programs, with 12 children in each group.

Kindergarten is taught by Martha Moye five days a week with an enrollment of 18.

All these teachers have graduated from East Carolina University and will be assisted by students from the Home Economics department of ECU. Mrs. Clark begins her fifth year, Mrs. Kleiner her 11th year and Mrs. Moye her 11th year at St. James this fall.

The teachers have attended pre-school workshops at ECU and leadership labs on pre-schoolers sponsored by Southeastern Jurisdictional Training Programs. Mrs. Moye also attended and observed a patterned British infancy school.

Public teacher workdays are not observed at St. James, but public school holidays and St. James holidays are the same unless otherwise notified.

Opening date is September 4 for the kindergarten and two-day programs and September 5 for the three-day program. Hours are 9-12 for kindergarten and 9-11:45 for nursery school.

Children will attend chapel weekly with ministers alternating sessions. All children are insured while at school. Closing date for this year is the last week in May.

Farmville Has Best

FARMVILLE—The Farmville Tobacco Market yesterday averaged $102.43 per hundred pounds, the highest average received so far this season.

Offerings of better cutters and leaf grades accounted for the high average. Some grades increased as much as $3 per hundred pounds.

Primings and lug grades accounted for less volume than any day this year and the volume of nondescript grades continued to decline.

Stabilization receipts, the lowest this season, totaled 8.83 percent of the volume.

Three Injured In City Wrecks

Three persons were reported injured in a series of mishaps here yesterday that resulted in an estimated $3,175 property damage.

Police said heaviest damage resulted from a 3:23 p.m. collision at the intersection of Chestnut Street and Paris Avenue, involving cars driven by Olga Dean Wallace of Route 1, Pinetown and Peggy Ann Youngblood of Albemarle.

Both drivers were reported injured by officers, who estimated damage at $1,000 to the Wallace car, $1,200 to the Youngblood vehicle and $100 to the lawn and a tree at 1503 Chestnut St.

Investigators charged Mrs. Wallace with failing to stop for a stop sign following investigation of the collision.

No charges were reported following investigation of a 1:30 p.m. collision at the intersection of Tenth and Charles Street involving cars operated by Richard Rhea Gammon of 603 South Elm St. and Joanna F. Taylor of Route 2, Colerain.

Officers estimated damage at $250 to the Gammon car and $300 to the Taylor vehicle.

A 3:30 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Evans Street and Arlington Boulevard involved a car driven by Nina McLeod Blake of Cherry Court Apts. and a bicycle ridden by Ivan Kilpatrick of Lakeview Terrace, police reported.

Officers, who made no charges, estimated damage at $50 to the bicycle and $275 to the Blake car.

Kilpatrick was reported injured in the collision.

Soviets Might Aid In Search

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Alexei Kosygin has mentioned the possibility of the Soviet Union playing a role in helping the United States obtain information about soldiers missing in Vietnam, according to presidential aspirant Terry Sanford.

Sanford, president of Duke University and a former Democratic governor of North Carolina, talked with Kosygin for 1½ hours Monday and later met with newsmen.

He said he asked Kosygin about U.S. soldiers missing in action.

Kosygin replied that he thought the Vietnamese government would be "very responsive to a proper approach by our country" and might allow U.S. research teams into the country, Sanford said.

However, Kosygin said there "might be a quid pro quo," mentioning American opposition to admitting North and South Korea into the United Nations, Sanford said.

Sanford also reported that Kosygin assured him the Soviets feel "bound by the total agreement" reached at Helsinki this month.

He said he told Kosygin reports of a meeting last week between Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev and a U.S. congressional delegation left the impression the Soviets do not believe the humanitarian concerns in the all-European accord were "binding."

"Mr. Kosygin said that just wasn't so and went to some length to stress that they intended to be bound by the total agreement," Sanford said.

Set New Texas Fish Record

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI) — Buster Dorough of Kress, Tex., pulled an 18-pound, two-ounce northern pike from Grenbelt Lake this summer to set a new Texas fish record.

Dorough's fish was 41 and three quarters inches long and 17 inches around. It was taken by trolling an artificial lure on 20-pound test line.

The previous record was for a 17-pound, five-ounce pike taken from the same lake in May.

Producer Works Hard In America

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two years ago Italian producer Dino de Laurentiis told his wife at their Roman villa, "I'm going to America."

His wife, the beautiful star Silvana Mangano, said, "How many days will you stay?"

"I'm not going to visit, but to stay," he replied.

"I don't believe you," said his wife.

Nor did the Italian film industry, of which de Laurentiis was the kingpin. But he did indeed move his family and his operations first to New York, now to Hollywood.

He has already produced several films, including the controversial and successful "Death Wish" and "Mandingo" and the upcoming "Three Days of the Condor" with Robert Redford and Faye Dunaway.

He plans to release 10 films in 1976.

The producer now operates from Beverly Hills.

"I had to move out from New York," de Laurentiis explained in an interview. "The talent is here, and I was wasting a day each way as I flew back and forth from New York."

book manuscript and like it, I buy it. If you wait for the book to be published, you will never get it."

With such a philosophy he has acquired two of the nation's bestsellers — "Ragtime," which will be filmed by Robert Altman, and "The Great Train Robbery," which Michael Crichton will adapt from his own novel.

Dino de Laurentiis is a vigorous 56. His English continues to improve, but sometimes he buzzes his bilingual secretary to translate a word like "bureaucracy."

Why did he leave Italy? "In some ways it is very easy to explain, in other ways it is not. In September 1973, when I made the move, I was beginning to smell a situation in Italy that was not good.

"In every country the economic situation is related to the political situation. When the political situation gets bad, then the country's economy goes bad. That is just what has happened in Italy.

"Also production costs have risen higher and higher in Italy. Italian actors can cost just as much as American actors, but the difference is that the Italians don't mean anything in other countries, and the Americans do.

"I know it is possible to still make money on pictures for Italy alone. But I am not interested in making films only for Italy.

"And the bureaucracy in Italy has become terrible. So I put all these problems together and I said, 'Enough.'"
