Prison Disturbance Is Quelled

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—State prison authorities launched an investigation today to find the cause for a disturbance Tuesday night that left eight prisoners injured and three dormitory areas destroyed at Craggy Prison.

A spokesman for the Department of Corrections said the disturbance broke out about 7:30 p.m. after inmate Donald Kantner, 27, was stabbed by another prisoner.

"Kantner's injury was considered serious enough to have him taken to Mission Memorial Hospital," department information officer Charlotte Short said today.

"When they were transporting him, some of the inmates in the dorm began piling up mattresses and other materials and setting them on fire. It did not take long before the fire just spread throughout the institution."

She said David Jones, state secretary of corrections, and other department officials were attempting to find out what triggered the disturbance. "We don't know yet what set it all off," she said.

The 221 inmates in the minimum security prison, including 21 in segregation areas, were ordered into the yard under guard by prison security personnel, local police and the state Highway Patrol.

Miss Short said seven prisoners, in addition to Kantner, were injured—two with minor cuts and five with smoke inhalation. The two with cuts were returned to the prison. The other five were transferred this morning to the hospital at Central Prison in Raleigh.

Earlier reports had placed the number of inmates injured at 20 or more.

One hundred of the Craggy Prison inmates were taken today aboard buses to Halifax

County, in northeastern North Carolina, for confinement at Odum or Caledonia prisons.

Jones, who arrived at Craggy Prison late Tuesday night, said the prison was "the worst in the state" and should have been closed.

"The prisoners were reacting to an overcrowded situation," said W. L. Kautzky, an assistant to the prisons director.

Kautzky said the prison had been built to hold 160 inmates.

Kanter, who underwent surgery Tuesday night, was reported in serious condition today. He had been serving a sentence of five to 10 years for breaking and entering, involuntary manslaughter and drunken driving convictions in Anson County.

Reports Order Ignored; Toxins Were Retained

By DAVID C. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — In addition to deadly poisons, the Central Intelligence Agency has secretly maintained a variety of other unauthorized chemical agents, ranging from disabling drugs to insecticides, knowledgeable officials say.

The existence of the additional substances, all of which apparently were kept without the knowledge or approval of high-ranking CIA officials, was confirmed late Tuesday by both Sen. Frank Church and deputy White House counsel Roderick M. Hills.

Earlier Tuesday, Church, chairman of the Senate intelligence committee, told a news conference that the CIA had kept vials of cobra venom and a deadly shellfish toxin in direct violation of a presidential order to destroy stockpiles of biological and chemical warfare agents.

In a subsequent telephone interview, Church said the additional items consisted of "poisons, chemicals, insecticides and other disabling drugs that may or may not have violated the presidential directives" of 1969 and 1970.

Church, D-Idaho, said that before the intelligence panel begins public hearings next week his staff would seek to determine whether any actual violations occurred.

According to Hills, the inventory of substances found in a CIA laboratory earlier this year listed "10 or 12 bits and pieces" of various chemical agents retained for "purely experimental" purposes.

These other substances are "not necessarily in violation" of the presidential directives, Hills maintained.

Former CIA Director Richard M. Helms, who headed the agency at the time the directives were issued by then-President Richard M. Nixon, is scheduled to be questioned by staff members today in closed session.

Church said Helms, now ambassador to Iran, is likely to be a witness at the public hearings as well.

Hills said the White House still hoped to convince Church and committee Vice Chairman John Tower, R-Tex., not to hold public hearings but to issue a report on the matter instead.

Church said the purpose of public hearings would be "to ascertain not only all of the details concerning the cache of biological toxins, but at what level within the agency the decision was made to disobey the President's orders."

According to Church, the substances were discovered by the CIA's own investigators acting on a tip provided by an agency employee.

Church would not describe the means by which the poisons could be administered.

RALEIGH (AP) — State Rep. John M. Jordan, D-Alamance, son of the late Sen. B. Everett Jordan, announced formally today as a candidate for Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Jordan reminded a news conference that he had said he would not become a candidate for lieutenant governor if former Gov. Bob Scott entered the race.

"Recently, Gov. Scott gave me assurances he would not seek the office or any other office for that matter," Jordan said.

Viking On Way To Mars

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Viking II spaceship has joined its sister ship on a 505-million-mile journey to seek life on Mars, a planet once thought to be criss-crossed with canals constructed by intelligent beings.

A Titan-Centaur booster rocket propelled the four-ton spacecraft into a parking orbit around earth at 2:39 p.m. EDT, and less than an hour later, the Viking II was blasted out of orbit and on its way toward the red planet.

The craft followed Viking I, launched nearly three weeks ago on an identical mission in the $1 billion program.

Officials said the launch caused a fire in a supposedly fireproof building 40 feet from the launch pad. Three firemen suffered smoke inhalation fighting the four-hour blaze, officials said.

Space agency officials would not comment on the cause of the fire.

The scientific payload will sample the surface and atmosphere of Mars, conducting experiments to determine if any organisms are thriving on the dusty, dry planet and hopefully providing new knowledge of the origin and evolution of the solar system.

Utilities Audit

Greenville Utilities had total revenues of $15,552,553.15, with a net income of $1,263,876.05, for the fiscal year July 1, 1974-June 30, 1975.

The net income is after all expenses and after the turn-over to the city of $436,062. The Utilities income is used for expansion of facilities.

The Utilities annual audit showed electric income was $13,078,241.81; water was $742,234.47; gas $1,171,042.49 and sewer, $561,034.38.

As of June 30 the Utilities Commission had total assets of $26,195,497.40.

The commission Tuesday night approved the addition of six percent to the fuel charge to cover a loss within the system. Last year the loss amounted to $249,698.82.

Commissioners approved the low bid of $48,274 from Layne-Atlantic for drilling a new deep water well. Other bids came from R. L. Magette, $57,700 and Hartsfield, $62,000.

Director Charles Horne reported that an application for an EDA grant has been forwarded to Raleigh for assistance on the West Greenville sewer system addition. Bids on the work will be taken Sept. 19. A special meeting was set for Sept. 26 to consider the bids and bids for excess liability coverage.

All Signs Point To Long Strike In N.Y. Schools

NEW YORK (AP) — More than one million public school pupils are getting an extended vacation as illegally striking teachers virtually shut down the nation's largest school system for the second day.

"The strike will go on," vowed Albert Shanker, head of the United Federation of Teachers, despite a court order Tuesday, the first day of the walkout, to reopen the city's 950 schools.

Productivity and working conditions remained the key issues as pessimistic negotiations continued into the early morning hours today.

"It's going to be a rough road to hoe," said mediator Harold Newman. "The city's fiscal situation is an enormous problem and compounds everything."

School officials—whose budget has been cut by $230 million to $2.8 billion—say they will turn to the state for more funds. In Albany, however, Gov. Hugh L. Carey said there was little he could do to help.

Complicating negotiations further is the new $2.3-billion fiscal rescue plan for the city approved Tuesday by the state legislature. Under the measure, a state-dominated Emergency

Financial Control Board would have the power to review—and possibly reject—any new contract that the school board signs.

Teachers currently earn from $9,700 to $20,350, with the median salary $17,350.

Tuesday, only 37,759 pupils showed up for classes and most were sent home—the new school term only 24 hours old.

Shanker, whose own three children attend suburban schools, reiterated his warning that the walkout—the teachers' fifth since 1960—"looks like a long one."

Senate Expected Join House Vote To Override Education Funds Veto

By JOE HALL

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is considered certain to join the House in voting to override President Ford's veto of a $7.9-billion education appropriations bill.

If today's vote goes as expected, it would be the second time this session a bill had been enacted over Ford's veto. He has vetoed 10 measures.

The House tally on Tuesday was a lopsided 379 to 41, or 99 more votes than the needed two-thirds. Senate managers of the bill predicted a similar margin in their branch.

The measure exceeds Ford's request by $1.5 billion.

But members of the newly created House and Senate Budget committees disputed the President's contention that it is a budget-buster.

They said the measure would produce less spending in the current fiscal year, which began July 1, than Congress allowed last May in the congressional budget.

Ford, in submitting his $6.4-billion appropriations bill, estimated that $1.3 billion of this would be spent in 1976. The rest would produce outlays in future years.

Leaders of the budget committees said the $7.5 billion as it was sent to the President would yield $1.7 billion of spending in the current year. But they emphasized that, in the congressional budget, allowance was made for $2.2 billion of education outlays.

In adopting its budget, Congress fixed spending targets well above the President's proposals for education, health and some other domestic social programs.

But it promised to make up most of the deficits by cutting the military money bill and foreign aid.

The education bill contains $414 million more than Ford's request for aid to school districts with large numbers of children of federal employees. It also contains $368 million more for college student aid than he proposed.

It also exceeds his budget on aid to children of disadvantaged parents, which is the largest single federal aid to education program; on aid for libraries, on education for the handicapped, and on vocational education.

Union Bosses Give President Thirty Days

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany and maritime unions are giving President Ford one month to ease the impact of future Russian grain deals before deciding whether to reimpose a boycott on shipments of corn and wheat.

After meeting with Ford on Tuesday, Meany and six maritime union leaders suspended the boycott of grain shipments for 30 days.

In exchange, Ford agreed to a six-point written plan designed to lessen the impact of Russian grain sales on consumer food prices and to make sure U.S. merchant ships with American seamen aboard deliver a significant portion of the grain.

"The country must have a new procedure for the sale of feed grains and wheat to such large state purchasers as the Soviet Union," Ford said in the agreement, released not by the White House but by a spokesman for the AFL-CIO.

In addition, Ford said he would immediately dispatch a negotiating team to Moscow to open negotiations on means of spreading out future Russian grain purchases, needed desperately this year because of widespread Soviet crop failures.

Further, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said at a news conference Tuesday that discussions with the Soviets have also begun on possible exchanges of Soviet oil surpluses for U.S. grain, a proposal frequently made by Meany.

Marshmallows Are Thrown At Ambassador

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—The Indian ambassador, Triloki Nath Kaul, ducked a dozen marshmallows thrown onto the stage as he spoke Tuesday at the Charlotte branch of the University of North Carolina.

The marshmallows were thrown in two flurries by an unidentified student who had shouted, "I don't like fascists."

The audience of about 125 gave him a standing ovation after the speech.

Laos Closes Banks For Confiscation Program

By RICHARD BLYSTONE
Associated Press Writer
BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)

The Communist-dominated government of Laos has closed private banks in Vientiane for an audit so it can confiscate assets of right-wing exiles, "American imperialists and other reactionaries," according to a report received in Bangkok today from the Laotian capital.

The official newspaper of the Communist Pathet Lao said police and members of the Revolutionary Committee moved into four banks and a moneychanging firm on Monday.

The Lao Vieng Bank was confiscated because it was owned by Phoui Sananikone, the former rightist president of the National Assembly who was condemned to death in absentia last week for crimes against the Laotian people. Thirty other rightist exiles were convicted with him, given prison or death sentences, and the court ordered confiscation of their properties.

Mail deliveries in Vientiane and international telephone communications in and out of the city were also suspended, but informed sources said this was because the Communists were holding "re-education" seminars at the post and telegraph department.

Radio Phnom Penh reported that Cambodia's Communist leaders gave a banquet in the Grand Palace in the Cambodian capital Tuesday night for Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the chief of state who returned home Tuesday after more than five years in exile.

The North Vietnamese radio reported that President Tong Duc Thang presided at a ceremony in the Hanoi's Binh Dinh square marking the 20th anniversary of South Vietnam's National Liberation Front and said: "Both North and South are working vigorously toward a unified Vietnam in the spirit of building a bigger and more prosperous country for the future."

South Vietnam's Liberation Radio reported that 500 non-commissioned officers and soldiers of the South Vietnamese army who have been attending "reform" courses were allowed to rejoin their families for the National Day celebration Sept. 2.

TIME AND A HALF?

I'm working in a tobacco factory. I thought all employers had to pay time and a half for more than 40 hours a week work. But they don't out here. Why not? D.W.

Your employer is claiming Section 7-M of the Fair Labor Standards Act, which exempts seasonal agricultural employers from paying overtime unless the employee works either more than 10 hours a day or more than 48 hours a week, whichever is of more benefit to the employed person. The employer may use this exemption 14 weeks a year, and the only requirement is that a notice be posted designating the week as one in which Section 7-M is claimed. This information was given to Hotline by J. E. Mangum, compliance officer with the Wage and Hour Division of the U.S. Department of Labor.

She Gives High Marks To Her Airport Job In Operations

By CHRIS CONKLING
NEW YORK (AP) — When Lee Cromier "ops," few people on a plane notice, though she plays an important role in getting their flight into the air.

"Ops" is airline lingo for operations agent, a species of the genus station agents. Briefly, Mrs. Cromier directs planes in and out of their gateway and onto the runway for takeoff. She is one of only a few women in the country who are today doing what was until recently considered a man's job.

It has been a year since Mrs. Cromier started trafficking planes for National Airlines at LaGuardia Airport in Queens. She considers the job ideal for now.

"I got tired of selling tickets behind a counter and I never wanted to learn to fly, even though I grew up near an airport in Haverhill, Mass., and could've learned anytime," the pretty, quiet-spoken 26-year-old blonde said in an interview after sending a plane off to Miami. "There's too much responsibility up there when you're piloting a plane load of people. I've found a job that's different every day, without the tremendous worry."

She understates the importance of her duties on the ground. Hers is a nearly invisible job; when she's working she cannot be seen from inside a plane.

Before she can send up the four planes a day she's responsible for, she first must calculate certain crucial weight factors.

To start she computes the air temperature. As the mercury climbs the plane must weigh less if it is to climb off the ground.

Next she figures the "operational empty weight" of the craft — the weight of the empty structure plus the crew — which is a constant number for each plane. With this she combines the weight of cargo, baggage, passengers and additional loads, minus the fuel, which results in the "zero fuel weight."

Finally the fuel is added, which gives the "gross takeoff weight." This figure cannot exceed a predetermined "allowable runway weight," which is different for each of the airport's four runways and partly determined by the wing flap settings on the plane.

When these figures have been calculated and double-checked and relayed to the flight engineers the plane is ready for flight.

Standing beside the plane while it is still in its gate Mrs. Cromier dons a pair of headphones that are attached to the nose of the plane to communicate with the pilot. When she receives clearance from the flight tower she orders the auxiliary power cable — which feeds ground power to the plane — to be cut and directs the tractor that hauls the plane to move off the gate and onto the common taxiway.

The plane is positioned on one of three diamonds painted on the taxiway. Here the engines are fired and, after Mrs. Cromier reports to the pilot that there are no obstructions, the plane may leave the diamond for the runway, and the sky.

Once the plane is airborne Mrs. Cromier teletypes the vital statistics to its point of destination. Then she can relax.

"I was a nervous wreck on my first flight," she recalls. "I had never been out on a ramp before and I knew everyone was watching me, because I was new at it and because I am a woman. But I got confidence with each new try. I'm not nervous any more."

She remembers being kidded by her male colleagues when she started, but she says the joking was good natured and brief. "But the guys from the beginning have given me all the support and cooperation I've needed." Her husband, Jack, never laughed at her. He is a ticket agent for National at LaGuardia.

After her bid to become an operations agent was granted, Mrs. Cromier had to teach herself the job. There was no training program. "When I became an ops agent there had just been a strike," she says. "There were no flights for two weeks and that's when I learned my job. I had to learn quicker than most because the man who would have taught me was not around. That was my on-the-job training."

Problems on the job have been few, she says. "About the only difficulty I've had has been with winds. I remember a day when the wind was blowing at 145 miles-an-hour. I was standing under a wing of a plane and I knew that if I moved from that spot I'd be blown away. So I just clung to the side of the plane until a rather heavyset agent, who was not about to leave the ground, came and carried me to safety."

Girls State Program Given At Meet

Miss Ann Williams and Miss Donna Goodson, seniors at Rose High School, presented the program at the meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary Thursday night.

Introduced by Mrs. Etta Gill, Girls State chairman, Miss Williams and Miss Goodson reported on the week they spent at Girls State which was held in June.

Mrs. Sarah Ashton, president, conducted the meeting and announced that the First Division meeting will be held Sept. 20 at 2 p.m. at the Pinetops Presbyterian Church. Members wishing to attend should contact Mrs. Ashton by Sept. 16 in order that reservations can be made. A Leadership Development Course will be held Oct. 4. The unit voted to endorse Mrs. Lois Dail for candidacy for the office of First Division president.

The group also voted to send a cash gift to a lady veteran in the nursing home.

Mrs. Lou Wilson, sunshine chairman, reported on two members.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ashton and Dr. Betty Levey.

FINAL OKAY—Lee Cromier, an airlines operations agent at New York's LaGuardia Airport, confers with Capt. Roger Browne on flight data she has prepared prior to directing his plane onto a runway for takeoff to Florida.

A Gift Is A Gift, Not An Obligation

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were married eight months ago. When I mailed the wedding invitations to his relatives who all live out of state, I enclosed a little note inside, which read, "Money would be the gift most appreciated."

The main reason I did it was to avoid duplications of gifts and to save them postage on the gift. I was only trying to do them a favor, but I got a lot of criticism for it.

Was that wrong? And if so, why?

MEANT WELL

DEAR MEANT: I think you were wrong. An invitation to a wedding should be just that—an "invitation." To express one's preference in a gift indicates that a gift is expected. And even more presumptuous is the request for money. A gift is a gift—not an obligation.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 72-year-old man. Two weeks ago when I went to my son's house, his wife greeted me at the door topless!

She said my son was not home, and she stood there smiling, then asked me to come in and have a cup of coffee. I didn't know what to do, so I just kept looking her in the face and told her I just remembered I had to meet a fellow in a few minutes. Then, I left fast.

I said nothing about this to my son or anybody else, but yesterday my son asked me to meet him at his house.

When I got there, his wife greeted me at the door with absolutely nothing on! I told her I left some tools in my car and then I got into my car and drove straight home.

Abby, I don't think I can ever look that girl in the face again. I hate to tell my son, but if his wife acts like this with me, I am afraid she acts this way with others.

Should I tell my son or just forget about it?

NAME WITHHELD

DEAR NAME: Tell your son. His wife is in need of psychiatric help—and the sooner, the better.

DEAR ABBY: "Warm in Georgia" asked if there was a dress code for church.

It seems a young married woman came to church in a halter with her bare middle showing. You said, "Common sense and a little old-fashioned respect for a house of worship are all the dress rules necessary."

Well, I'm only 17, but I could have given a better answer than yours. What the heck difference does it make what that girl wears to church? The point is that she's there worshipping God.

I'm sure it makes no difference to God if she was stark naked or wearing her Sunday best.

WORSHIPS IN CUTOFFS

DEAR WORSHIPS: It may make no difference to God, but how about a little consideration for the other worshippers?

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Laskey Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Planning Pays Off

When the interior of your home deserves a face-lift be sure to make a total plan, using available resources for ideas and then proceed. Even in budget conscious times, room changes are possible by planning carefully and by making the project a family affair. With paint, wall coverings, fabrics, some greenery and a little imagination, a real face-lift can be achieved.

Rearranging furniture is often the beginning of new-founded space and a different view of a room. Instead of shuffling furniture from place to place, an easier way to rearrange your room is to make a floor plan. Measure the distances from wall to wall, as well as window and door widths and write down the measurements on the sketch. Use graph paper (1/4-inch equals one foot is a good equivalent to work with) and draw the room to scale. Measure furnishings, draw them to scale on paper of a contrasting color and cut out. Move the scale model pieces around until you find a suitably arrangement. The scale drawing of your room will also come in handy if you plan to buy new pieces of furniture.

Before actually starting the project concentrate on the room and consider all possibilities — new style curtains or draperies; additions or rearrangements of wall hangings; shelves or wall units to accommodate television, books and art work. Then ask yourself the following questions. "Is there a need to

Women's Group Holds Meeting

The first meeting of the year of the Saint Peter's Woman's Club was held at St. Raphael's School recently.

Miss Ada Jones reported on the pilgrimage to the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, Washington, D.C. The bus will leave Friday, Oct. 3, at 5:15 p.m. from the church and the services at the shrine will be on Saturday at 2 p.m. Reservations must be made by Sept. 16.

Mrs. Roy Thompson, president, conducted the meeting and welcomed four guests, Mrs. LeBlanc, Mrs. Fagan, Mrs. Roddy and Mrs. Ryan.

Projects discussed were the annual card party, visits to the nursing home, coffee and doughnut sale after each mass on Sunday and a bake sale.

It was announced that the annual church fall picnic will be held Sunday, Sept. 28, at 3 p.m. on the school grounds.

Co-hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Kensky, Mrs. Murphy and Mrs. Thompson.

Mrs. Betty Ellington resigned as secretary and Mrs. J. Sherwood was named to fill the position.

The meeting was opened with a prayer by Father Maurice Spillane, moderator.

Mrs. Byrd reported on her trip to the International Convention of ADK held in Los Angeles. She announced that the 1976 regional convention will be held in Richmond, Va., in July.

The October meeting will be held Oct. 2 at 6:30 at the Ramada Inn. This meeting will be a special Founders' Day celebration and Alpha Nu will host Alpha Iota.

refurbish old pieces of furniture already on hand? Will it be necessary to buy some new furnishing items?" Be sure and jot down a complete list of all items needed for the room revival.

Think color! Big news this year in paints, wall coverings, accessories and utensils includes rich earth tones that are restful and soothing. Deep chocolate browns, clear yellows, bright greens, brick red, sand and grey are stressed along with white or beige for background appeal. Primary color schemes in red, blue and yellow have become increasingly popular too. Remember that it is most important to select color combinations that are pleasing and refreshing to your own family.

Finally choose the right accessories to finish achieving the atmosphere you want to create. When selecting accessories don't forget that baskets can be used to perk up any area of the home including the bathroom. Baskets are available in many styles and sizes with a variety of textures and weaves. They can provide both a new decorative note and added storage space. In fact there is a basket available for most every need.

A basket near the bathtub will hold soaps, lotions, bath oil, shampoo and sponges. For unique towel storage, fasten the bottom of a basket with a handle to the wall. Fill the basket with colorful towels and use the handle as a towel rack. There are also handsome baskets which can be used for hampers and waste paper containers. A small potted plant might be used inside a basket to brighten a tank top or to add a colorful note to a shelf. Imagination can help make the selection and placement of accessories more interesting.

With careful planning, the wise use of available resources and a touch of creativity any room can enjoy a face-lift.

Fire Ants Inching Nearer Pitt

EDITOR'S NOTE: A check with the Pitt County Agriculture Extension Service reveals that the imported fire ant has not yet been verified as being present in Pitt County. However, the vicious little insect could soon be here, as it has been confirmed that fire ant mounds have been located in Pamlico County at sites about 50 miles from Greenville.

If you live in the South, your chances of experiencing the vicious sting of a fire ant appear to be increasing. Even the inhabitants of the Northern and Western states are not completely immune from the fire ant threat.

Reports that the stinging pests have spread into formerly unfested areas have led the U. S. Department of Agriculture to extend fire ant quarantine restrictions of the movement of certain agricultural items to cover additional parts of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina and Texas.

There is also concern that the imported fire ant species could establish themselves in California and in the watered lawn or irrigated areas of the Southwest if they are inadvertently transported by man, according to Richard V. Carr, entomologist at Velsicol Chemical Corporation, Chicago.

If the natural process of evolution holds true for the fire ant as it has for other insects, they may eventually adapt to colder climates and invade the Northern states. But from the people point of view, it's the effects these insects have on humans that is disturbing. USDA researchers in Gainesville, Fla. and Gulfport, Miss., report that individuals who have been stung by the fire ant occasionally may have "systemic reactions, including nausea, vomiting, dizziness, cyanosis and other symptoms typical of severe allergic reactions. In severe cases, if medical assistance is not received, they may even die."

A double invasion of two species of fire ants, 35 and 56 years ago, brought the insects to Mobile, Ala. from their native

South America. Since then, about 120 million acres of land in at least nine Southeastern states and Texas have been infested. The warm, wet weather of the South is ideal for the fire ants and their colonies have flourished in the prime grazing and crop land, along roadsides, and in parks and lawns, according to the scientists who studied the biology and control of imported fire ants.

In 1957, Congress authorized a cooperative federal state eradication or control program. However, last spring the Department of Agriculture announced it was quitting fire ant control because stringent EPA regulations on the use of mirex, a chemical used to control the pest, made the fire ant control program "totally unworkable."

The Environmental Protection Agency recently announced its notice of intent to suspend, two pesticides that have been used effectively to control fire ants around homes and industrial sites, industrial parks and recreational areas in Houston and other areas of the South.

Problems created by the imported fire ants, according to USDA scientists, are: feeding on plants, particularly seedlings or germinating seeds and okra flowers; stinging of livestock; damage to farm machinery that strikes the mounds in the fields; loss of hay and grazing area; refusal of workers to enter heavily infested fields to cultivate or harvest crops; and hazards to human health from stings that may cause systemic reactions or complications from secondary infections.

The scientists also report that they have documented evidence of telephone cables and lighting cable for airports being gnawed by the fire ants to the extent that water entered cables and shorted circuits.

Bargaining Is Allowed

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The Norfolk City Council has agreed to allow its municipal employees to bargain collectively with city officials for such things as salaries and hours worked.

The 4-3 vote by the council Tuesday followed a three-hour public hearing during which 37 persons gave their views on the ordinance, which has a no-strike clause.

Mayor Irvine B. Hill, Vice Mayor Joseph A. Jordan Jr., council members Betty Howell and R. Stanley Hurst voted for the measure. Dissenting were Robert E. Summers, Claude J. Staylor and Mason C. Andrew.

The council also passed a resolution calling on the city school board to adopt a similar bargaining agreement for teachers.

There is a good possibility that the collective bargaining ordinance will be challenged in court, or that efforts will be made to get enough votes for a referendum on the issue.

"Let me remind you that this decision can be overridden by a referendum," Staylor said.

The ordinance is scheduled for a second reading at council's meeting next Tuesday, and then will go into effect 30 days later.

All Voted To Override Veto

WASHINGTON (AP)—All representatives from the Carolinas voted Tuesday to override President Ford's veto of a $7.9 billion education appropriations bill. The House overrode, 379-41.

In the Senate, Ernest F. Hollings, South Carolina Democrat, was the only senator from the Carolinas to vote for the adoption of an amendment banning the use of the drug DES as an additive to cattle feed unless it is proved the drug will not cause cancer in humans eating beef. The amendment by Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., was adopted Tuesday, 54-35. Voting against were Republicans Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and Jesse Helms of North Carolina, and Democrat Robert Morgan of North Carolina.

Singles action has newcomer Tony Rocca meeting Charlie Fulton.

The opening bout has Klondike Bill facing Joe Soto.

Greenville Traffic Sees 3 Accidents

An estimated $1,050 property damage resulted from a series of three mishaps investigated here yesterday by Greenville Police.

Officers reported an estimated $200 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in an 11:25 p.m. mishap at the intersection of 11th and Forbes Streets.

Drivers involved in the mishap were identified as Frank Junior Konkle of 415 East Third St. and Glenwood Jordan Waters of 312 East 11th St.

Officers charged Waters with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of the collision.

Michael Arthur Martin of Bethel was charged with having improper equipment following investigation of a 6:05 p.m. collision at the intersection of Greene Street and Mumford Road.

Investigators reported the Martin car collided with a vehicle driven by Evelyn Connor McLawhorn of Hookerton resulting in an estimated $100 damage to the McLawhorn car and $300 damage to the Martin auto.

A 4:40 p.m. incident on Fifth Street, 69 feet East of the Evans Street intersection involved a truck driven by Willie Williams of Bethel and Bennie Roy Dail of Drum Ave., investigators reported.

Police, who estimated damage to the Dail car at $250, charged him with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety and with having no operators license.

No damage resulted to the Williams truck, according to officers.

Set Classes At Adult Center

Pitt Technical Institute will begin fall classes at the Newtown Adult Learning Center on Monday.

The classes will run each morning, Monday-Friday, from 8:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m.

Adult Basic Education courses will be offered as well as refresher courses needed to prepare for the high school equivalency examination. The cost for the fall classes will be $3. For further information, interested persons may call 756-3130, ext. 53 or 756-2860.

Slogan-Changing Man Given Revised Verdict

SMITHFIELD, N.C. (AP)—The guilty ruling against a man who had obscured the "First in Freedom" slogan on his North Carolina license plate has been changed.

Superior Court Judge Donald Smith reduced the guilty finding to prayer for judgment continued (PJC)—which means neither guilty nor innocent—for Walter William III, a student at North Carolina Central University. Williams had been given a five-day suspended sentence on conviction of covering the slogan and of speeding.

Smith had offered a PJC when Williams was found guilty by a jury Thursday, but Williams and his attorney rejected that because they planned to appeal the decision. They had promised to take the matter to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary. A PJC cannot be appealed.

Williams and his attorney, Deborah Mailman, argued that a person may obscure the slogan under protection of the state constitution and the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution which guarantees free speech.

In an earlier case in Durham County, a similar charge was dropped after Atty. Gen. Rufus Edmisted advised the prosecutor that state law apparently doesn't prevent obscuring unsentential parts of a license plate. Only the year, numbers and letters and state name are mentioned in the law. Edmisted also said there was a good possibility that such an action is protected by the Constitution.

Williams has said since his

Planned Annual Benefit Dinner

WINTERVILLE—The Free Will Baptists of Pitt County held an organizational meeting last night to plan their annual benefit dinner for Mount Olive College.

The meeting was held at the Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church according to Harold Herring, director of development at Mount Olive College.

The Pitt County dinner is one of 17 held annually throughout eastern North Carolina on behalf of the college which is sponsored by the State Convention of Original Free Will Baptists.

N.C. Budget Sees A Tight Fit

The 1975 Legislature faced the darkest financial picture that any Legislature has seen in many years.

Revenue estimates were steadily revised downward throughout the session, and it is to the credit of the lawmakers that they accepted their responsibility and whacked away at the budget until it met the projected income figures.

All that meant that virtually all cost of living salary increases for state employees went out the window, as did a number of projects and expansions, some of which were easily justifiable.

United Press International reported last weekend that even the downward revised income estimates might not reflect the true picture.

Budget Officer Ken Howard and Legislative Economist Lloyd O'Carroll both reported that July tax revenues were about $17 million below the estimates made in preparing the 1975-77 budget. Nobody is panicking yet, but if that trend continued throughout the fiscal year it is obvious there would be less income than was projected to meet the budget. And since North Carolina law prohibits deficit spending, the Legislature would have to do something fast, probably in an emergency session.

Howard wasn't unduly disturbed, pointing out that a "very slow growth period for the summer" had been predicted. If there were not improvement by December a problem could exist, he indicated.

Even if revenues don't come up to expectations, there are ways to avoid a deficit. The governor could order state agencies to tighten down on their spending and perhaps not fill vacant positions to hold state spending under the appropriated amounts. This happens every year to some extent and the unspent appropriated funds (reversions) are carried over to the next budget year.

The budget makers had been hoping that reversions and an improving economy would create funds for some salary increases next year and perhaps to meet other needs, but it may be that everything will be needed just to meet the already approved budget.

At any rate this is a time when the administration should watch spending on every level of state government. No money should be spent just because it is in the budget. Whatever we can save in efficient operations this year might keep North Carolina out of the hole at the end of the fiscal year.

Dear old golden-rule days

Words, Not Wheat

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Higher food prices resulting from U.S. grain sales to Russia are caused by controversy and concern over the deals and not by any threat to American supplies.

The problem is words, not wheat. U.S. farmers are producing three times as much wheat as the country will use this year. U.S. firms have sold the Russians only one-third of the wheat that is expected to be left over at the end of the year after domestic consumption and regular exports.

The controversy eased a bit Tuesday when AFL-CIO President George Meany, acting after a meeting with President Ford, told dock workers to resume loading Soviet-bound grain voluntarily.

Ford told Meany he could make no promises about what would happen to food prices. But he extended until mid-October a moratorium on new grain sales to Russia and said he would try to work out a long-term agreement to minimize the impact of any future sales.

An AFL-CIO spokesman said the boycott suspension was for one-month only, pending further developments. The controversy continues.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates the 1975 wheat crop at a record 58.3 million metric tons. Added to stockpiles, that gives the nation a total supply of 67 million metric tons.

Only 19.4 million metric tons of wheat will be used at home; 34 million metric tons will be exported to countries other than Russia. That leaves almost 13.6 million metric tons.

Thus far this year, U.S. firms have sold the Russians about one-third of that 13.6 million metric tons, leaving just over nine million metric tons for storage in grain silos across the country.

If supplies are adequate, why are prices going up?

One reason is that people still remember what happened after the 1972 grain sales to the Soviet Union. The traditionally large American stockpiles were almost depleted; wheat prices quadrupled, from $1.32 a bushel in July 1972 to $5.29 in January 1974; food prices went up almost 30 per cent in two years.

Surprises At Lake Gaston

By BILL NOBLITT
LITTLETON—It's kind of surprising to stumble upon a genuine steam engine, a replica of an 1890 train depot, and a string of freight and baggage cars lined up in the woods alongside Lake Gaston.

But that's just one good example of what Lake Gaston is becoming for a lot of people in northeastern North Carolina; a lot of surprises, and most of them pleasant.

Built as a generating reservoir by Virginia Electric and Power Company, the sprawling 2,000 acres of Lake Gaston has a 360 mile shoreline gracing both this state and Virginia. Warren, Halifax, and Northampton Counties in North Carolina and two Virginia counties make up the boundaries.

Early Planning
With still lots of open shoreline acres remaining, the counties are benefiting from an early move into careful zoning along the banks.

There are campers and mobile homes, small cottages, weekenders roughing it on lots which will contain their cottages somewhere down the road, and larger, plush vacation-retirement homes pushing into the $100,000 bracket looking over the clean, clear water.

To civic and governmental officials, the lake has meant a tangible increase in the property tax base, meaning more revenues without tax hikes.

To the average citizen, it has become a Mecca for fun from as far away as Raleigh or Richmond. And to communities, the lake has become a magnet for new citizens who bring their ideas and experience into the largely rural or textile-dominated sections.

Harry Guinivan is one such. Retired from his post as one of the nation's earliest and leading computer experts, Guinivan traveled most of this nation and much of the world as a top man with the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads.

Readying for retirement, he picked one of the best spots he had seen on those wide travels, and a brick home complete with boathouse and tracks for hoisting his boat out of the water make days pleasant.

Put To Work
Not content to fish, though, Guinivan was quick to put his talents to work for his new community, and now is chairman of the Halifax County Memorial Hospital board.

Meanwhile, back at Camp Willow Run, workmen have finished locating an 80-foot, 250,000-pound private railway car once used by the president of the Laurinburg and Southern Railway, Hervey Evans.

The plush car with its velvet and brass fixtures, inlaid mahogany woodwork—even servant quarters—will become a museum for the camp.

A 19th Century train theme dominates the 13.4 acres of camp which covers a half mile of Lake Gaston shoreline.

Mrs. Linda Mangum and her late husband, a Baptist minister, started the camp as a Christian retreat. Southern Railway donated 14 boxcars and a caboose which serve as dormitories; baggage cars are classrooms, and the depot dining hall seats 115.

It is, those connected to it say, the only railroad run completely by faith. Started by the Littleton Baptist Church, funds come from volunteer gifts, from employees of the State Department of Youth Development, church groups, camp fees, and a host of backers including U.S. Senator Jesse Helms.

This summer, 320 juvenile offenders from training schools across the state got a taste of camp life, hiking, swimming, and taking part in religious and ethics discussions. The weeks when the juvenile offenders are in camp are the hardest, Mrs. Mangum says. But also the most rewarding. At other times, church groups from as far away as Greensboro and Norfolk, Virginia, use the facilities.

Henry's Final Shuttle

WASHINGTON—The easy part of Henry Kissinger's negotiations in the Middle East is over. He managed to get an agreement between Egypt and Israel. The tough part now begins. He has to persuade Congress he did the right thing.

This will require shuttle diplomacy of infinite delicacy, and Henry will be traveling between the White House, the State Department and Capitol Hill for the next two weeks trying to get the Senate and House to forget their bitter differences with the Administration and agree to his peace formula.

It won't be easy. For one thing, when Henry is shuttling in the Middle East he is treated as the secretary of state of the most powerful country in the world. He gets police escorts wherever he goes; helicopters are at his command. He is put up in the lavish guest houses and wined and dined by Israeli and Arab leaders. Nothing is too good for Kissinger when he is in the Middle East.

But in Washington it's another story. To most people in this town Henry is just another pretty face. When a secretary of state negotiates in his own country, protocol goes out the window and the most Kissinger can hope for from Congress in his shuttle diplomacy is that they'll save him a parking place.

This is how I imagine it will go.

Kissinger leaves the White House in his limousine and arrives up on The Hill where there is no one to greet him. After his briefcase is searched by a guard, he is directed to the Senate Foreign Relations Room.

He sees Sen. Henry Jackson and goes up and kisses him on the cheek.

Jackson pushes him away. "What the heck are you doing?"

"I'm sorry," Kissinger apologizes, "I've been negotiating with the Arabs for so long I automatically kiss anyone I see."

"Well, I don't like to be kissed."

"I understand," Henry says. He takes Jackson's hand in his and starts walking down the aisle with him.

"Now what are you doing?" Jackson yells.

"We always walk hand in hand in the Middle East," Kissinger says.

"Well, you're not in the Middle East now and we want to talk to you about what you did over there."

"I'll be happy to explain it to you," Kissinger says. A joint committee of senators and representatives seat themselves as Henry begins his briefing.

"Gentlemen, this is the best deal we can probably get at this time, and I urge you to go along with it in every detail."

Other Editors Say Criticized All Over

(Washington Daily News)

Sometimes ago this editor was talking with a N. C. Superior Court judge, and he told us how, in his opinion, the Federal Bureau of Investigation or FBI as we know it, had goofed on the job in a very serious case right here in Beaufort County.

As we understand it, in this particular case the judge pointed out what he believed as inept efforts of the FBI and what he believed as bungling.

Since early boyhood we have looked upon the FBI with great respect and with a certain degree of awe. That old expression "G-Man" held a deep meaning for us, and over the years news stories, movies, television plots, and the like have all added a lustre to the FBI that has stamped it as the great "crime-busting" organization.

J. Edgar Hoover's name was tantamount to saying that "the FBI is on the job." He gave it great strength and his efforts gave it an appeal and a romantic cloak that were unbelievable. Mr. Hoover is gone, but the organization he spent lifetime in building is still with us. But how effective is the FBI today? Answering that question fully and completely is beyond the ability of one person. We look around us over this country right now, and we realize that Patty Hearst has been at large for more than a year and the FBI has not been able to apprehend her.

Just recently James Hoffa, former president of the Teamsters' Union a man who has served time in prison, was abducted, and at this writing he has not been found.

We realize that in many other cases the FBI has done a quick and marvelous job in fulfilling its goals. Yet in the two cases listed above, Miss Hearst and Mr. Hoffa are still at large and unfound.

People over the country are comparing today's FBI with J. Edgar Hoover's FBI. They are saying "if J. Edgar Hoover were alive and running the FBI, Miss Hearst would have been caught long ago and James Hoffa's disappearance would have been solved quickly."

We realize it is easy to make such statements. No one can really prove anything here, but the talk continues.

Maybe the FBI lacks a spirit of dedication. Maybe the FBI is not getting the young people of great ability into the organization who came along a few years ago. Maybe the Watergate case did bruise the FBI somewhat.

Whatever the cause, we do feel that too much talk is going on over this nation today in ridicule of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. After all, we as Americans need the FBI far more than we might realize and appreciate.

is absolutely neutral about his running-mate.

But whenever publicly asked about Rockefeller, the President's praise grows more fulsome on each occasion. On a television interview in Newport, R.I., Aug. 30, one day after meeting Callaway, Mr. Ford delivered an encomium that received little attention over the Labor Day weekend but was regarded by some senior presidential aides as a virtual endorsement of Rockefeller: "He (Rockefeller) has exceeded any expectations that I have had. He has done a superb job. He has been a good teammate. I don't dump good teammates."

That undercuts Callaway's campaign to sign up conservatives for Mr. Ford who will then pressure Reagan to stay out. At Wrightsville Beach, for example, Callaway urged state chairmen to telephone Reagan and warn him that his candidacy would split the party. At least one chairman, Lynn Lowe of Arkansas, agreed to call Reagan. Overall, Callaway has been immensely successful in recruiting conservatives for the President.

But none of this is likely to restrain Reagan from running. Meeting on Aug. 28 with political advisers, Reagan indicated he will not announce until year's end in order to retain lucrative (Continued on page 6)

the President that Ronald Reagan will not run, Callaway repeats this message to anti-Rockefeller Republicans: I have helped turn around the President to where he is no longer pro-Rockefeller but now has an "open mind." Simultaneously, however, President Ford's public statements become more and more pro-Rockefeller and less and less open-minded.

Senior White House aides say they have never heard Mr. Ford describe himself as open-minded on Rockefeller, as claimed by Callaway. Nobody questions Callaway's integrity, so two explanations are possible:

One, the President may be talking out of both sides of his mouth about Rockefeller, which would be uncharacteristic; or, two, exactly what Jerry Ford means may be exceedingly blurred, which is quite characteristic in the Oval Office today.

Although Callaway was told a month ago to stop making dump-Rockefeller declarations, he described Mr. Ford's "open mind" about Rockefeller Aug. 23 at the Wrightsville Beach, N.C., meeting of Southern Republican state chairmen—to the delight of the conservative Southerners. After meeting Mr. Ford at the White House Aug. 29, Callaway was more certain than ever that the President

Strength For Today

LOATH TO GROW UPRIGHT

In a Florida town there is a palm tree whose trunk, after emerging from its roots, runs twenty feet along the ground before turning upwards. It seemed to have gotten the wrong start at the beginning, and only after many years' growth turned its head to heaven and began to grow in the natural manner.

Some lives are like that. People gather around this strangely distorted palm tree and marvel over the fact that the trunk grew along the ground for many years before turning upward. Yet all around us are lives growing along the ground. Sometimes they never turn up at all. Millions of people are born into this world, get the wrong start, and drag out their existence at low levels of sin, frustration, and even crime.

The tree was at the mercy of forces over which it had no control. But that is not true with us. We need not grow along the ground unless we choose to do so. At any time we can look up, and grow toward heaven.

On August 22 and 23 Greenville's longest softball game was played at Evans Park. Over two hundred players and volunteers participated in the Softball Marathon. Two umpires set an unofficial world record by umpiring 26 continuous hours.

The Softball Marathon was a great success in that everyone that participated in it enjoyed playing and at the same time approximately $1,200.00 was raised to support recreation for handicapped citizens.

The interest and support of each player, volunteer, sponsor and spectator is greatly appreciated by the Recreation Department and the Northeast Chapter of the Easter Seal Society, but most of all by the citizens that will be able to participate in recreation activities for the first time.

Third Provincial Congress Rejected Colonial Tax

By H.G. Jones, Curator
North Carolina Collection Written for The Associated Press
CHAPEL HILL (AP) — September 10, 1975 fell on a Sunday, but the delegates to the Third Provincial Congress meeting in Hillsborough were anxious to finish their business and go home. They had been in session for three weeks, and both the weather and crowded though hospitable conditions at the Piedmont village had added to their discomfort.

The tempers of the delegates were warm for other reasons — namely, the growing conflict between the colonists and the British government. A resolution on that day of adjournment conveyed their attitude: "That it be recommended to such of the inhabitants of this Province as may not be provided with Bayonets to their Guns to procure the same as soon as possible, and be otherwise provided to turn out at a minute's warning."

The Congress had, in effect, firmly rejected the claim of Parliament to tax the colonies; and to defend the colony from the enforcement of such laws by the use of force, it resolved that "this Colony be immediately put into a state of defence."

Accusing Governor Josiah Martin of having deserted the colony, the Congress adopted what Historian Allan Nevins called "the most elaborate provisional government on the continent." The Provincial Congress, composed of five delegates from each county and one from each of the borough towns, was to be the legislative body; and the Provincial Council, composed of thirteen members elected from across the colony, was to exercise executive powers. Each county, town, and military district was to have a Committee of Safety to run local affairs.

Thus supporters of the American cause, elected by eligible male voters, replaced officials who had governed North Carolina since its settlement. North Carolinians were prepared to defend themselves against what they considered illegal policies of the British Parliament.

To put the colony on a war footing, two regiments of 500 men were authorized for the Continental Line. Cols. Robert Howe of Brunswick and James Moore of New Hanover were given charge of these regiments.

Mike Mansfield asks.

"Because it could lead to a lasting peace in the Middle East. Now to reassure you that the United States has Congress' best interests at heart, I have been authorized by the President to tell you that if you accept the package we will supply the Capitol with 100 Hawk missiles, a squadron of F-16 fighter bombers and our latest laser-beam antitank gun."

The senators and representatives are astounded at the offer.

Henry continues, "To sweeten the pot we will also see that you have a supply of oil for next winter, and we're even willing to train your navy in nuclear submarine warfare."

A congressman says, "It sounds good, but how do we know you can deliver on your promises?"

"I always deliver on my promises," Kissinger says. "By accepting the Middle East agreement we guarantee you military parity with the White House."

"How can we be sure the President won't pull a sneak attack on us?" Rep. Carl Albert asks.

"We will station American troops along the passes on Pennsylvania Avenue with electronic sensors to warn of any attack President Ford makes on Congress in the election year," Kissinger says.

"Tell the White House we want it in writing," House whip Tip O'Neill says.

"Thank you," Kissinger gets up and starts to kiss Teddy Kennedy.

Sen. Mansfield slams down his gavel. "Mr. Secretary, up here a plain handshake will do."

and the grain sales shared the blame with rising energy costs and government price controls that disrupted production cycles.

There are several differences between the situation now and in 1972:

—U.S. firms have sold the Soviets less corn and wheat this year — a little more than nine million metric tons compared with about 18 million metric tons in 1972.

—There is more grain available for export to Russia. The 1972 sales represented 99 per cent of the U.S. wheat carryover — the amount left after domestic use and regular exports — in contrast to this year's 33 per cent.

—The world grain situation has improved from 1973 and 1974 when drought and famine in developing countries increased demand for wheat and corn from U.S. stockpiles — stockpiles that had been depleted by the 1972 Russian sale.

Nonetheless, fear of a potential shortage can drive up prices just as surely as a shortage itself. Warnings can turn anticipation into reality. That is what has happened this year.

In addition, six battalions of 500 "minutemen" each were authorized, one from each of the six military districts. Alexander Lillington of Wilmington, Richard Caswell of New Bern, James Thackston of Hillsborough, Thomas Wade of Salisbury, Nicholas Long of Halifax, and Edward Wall of Edenton were appointed to head these regiments.

Privates were paid one shilling, ten pence per year and an allowance of ten shillings per man was offered for the furnishing of "a good smooth bore or Musket" and twenty shillings for a rifle. A bounty of twenty-five shillings was provided each man for furnishing his own "hunting Shirt, Leggings, or Splatter dashes and Black Garters."

A poll tax was levied on each taxable to pay off the $125,000 in bills of credit issued, and the collection of all back taxes was ordered.

An "Address to the Inhabitants of the British Empire," introduced by William Hooper, expressed the vain hopes of the delegates. Professing "affection bordering upon devotion" to King George III, the address stated, "Could these our sentiments reach the Throne, surely our Sovereign would forbid the Horrors of War and desolation to intrude into this once peaceful and happy land, and would stop that deluge of human Blood which now threatens to overflow this Colony."

The state gem of Texas is topaz.

Search For 'Rembrandt' Lady Artist

By BARBRO LARSON
STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Stockholm's National Gallery, seeking to disprove the old adage that there is "no female Rembrandt," has assembled an exhibition of the work of 45 European women artists.

The exhibition of oils, wash drawings and charcoal sketches runs from the 17th century to present. It demonstrates how women's styles developed from traditional classicism to a freer, lighter approach as their political and social awareness heightened.

"During the 17th and 18th centuries the few women painters concentrated on portraits, landscapes and still-lives," Goerel Cavalli-Bjoerkman, manager of the show, said in a recent interview. "They were often daughters of artists and started as helpers in their fathers' studios."

"Women in those days could not compete on equal terms with their male colleagues since art schools were closed to women and they were not allowed to use nude models," she said.

Famous women artists from this early period included Elisabetta Sirani of Italy and Judith Leyster from Holland, both represented at the Stockholm show.

Sirani gained renown through church and palace decorations, drawings and graphics.

"It is very unlikely that a painter at work looked that way but the portrait shows how men saw female artists — fragile creatures who wore their profession as one of many decorations," Ms. Cavalli-Bjoerkman said.

Self-portraits by women give a different impression. The Swedish painter Mina Carlsson-Bredberg painted herself dressed in her working coat in front of the easel, with frizzed hair and no make-up.

A 19th century Danish artist, Bertha Wegmann, went to Munich to study art with her Swedish friend and colleague Jeanna Bauck, who opened an art school for young women. Wegmann's portrait of Bauck shows a gay, lively woman sitting in her studio, laughing and full of energy.

"Men tended to paint women with a dreamy look on their faces and certainly never laughing," Ms. Cavalli-Bjoerkman said.

It was not until the end of the 19th century that Swedish art schools opened their doors to women. Many left for Paris, where some eventually married male colleagues and gave up their own careers.

While still in Sweden, the "Parisian girls" shocked conventional society by forming summer colonies together with male friends to work, study and play.

Painting techniques changed drastically during this time. A sample by the still living Vera Nilsson resembles early Picasso and her colors show similarities to Miro.

Also at the turn of the century, political motives began to appear in paintings by women. Swedish artist Hildur Hult received the Academy of Arts royal medal in 1899 at the age of 27.

Siri Derkert, perhaps Sweden's most famous female painter in modern times, is also represented at the exhibition, arranged and guided partly by her son, Carlo.

Cranked Last Telephone Call

VIRGINIA CITY, Nev. (AP) — Mrs. Kate Tannehill, 80, Virginia City's oldest native still living in this one-time Comstock boom town, is losing her telephone and it's not because she hasn't paid her monthly bill.

The phone company has phased out all its old hand-cranked, magneto-type telephones and Mrs. Tannehill's is one of the last to go. The crank-type phones were installed in Virginia City in 1882.

Mrs. Tannehill made the last magneto call from the Sundance Hotel on Main Street to the Opera House. There were no wreaths, but a local musician played taps in the background.

Grain Trade Troublemaker More Popular Today

By BILL CRIDER
Associated Press Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) —
People in the multibillion dollar grain trade have been calling

Harlan L. Ryan a troublemaker for years. The difference now is that it is clear why he made trouble.
The havoc he has caused — at New Orleans grain docks, at Chicago's grain terminals, in grain grading offices around Des Moines, Iowa — gained Ryan his reputation — and a group of detractors who used to imply he only imagined crooks along the grain chain.

But now — after indictments against 48 men and four companies from a continuing federal investigation of grain export operations at New Orleans — they no longer accuse him of an overactive imagination.

The crackdown pleases Ryan, who heads the U.S. Department of Agriculture's grain inspection field office here, which oversees private agencies that grade and inspect wheat, corn or soybeans being loaded into ships.

"You can be popular in this job, it's easy to give in to the grain trade, but I can't see that," he said.

Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, and others cite Ryan as a key figure in bringing on the federal probe which, along with a controversy over wheat sales to Russia, put the grain trade under a more watchful eye than has usually been cast on it.

The probe exposed a pattern of bribery, short-weighting, misgrading, theft and fraud amounting into the millions of dollars.

The FBI and the General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress, were subsequently assigned to check over grain operations in Chicago, St. Paul, Minn., Dallas, Portland, Ore., Seattle and other points. Congressional staff members pored over grain records. New laws were proposed.

The GAO is supposed to make its report to Congress in February, and the investigation may grind on another year.

Ryan, 47, said he got a strong push toward a role as reformer back when he was a farm boy of 14, growing up near Manchester, Iowa. One day his father took him along to drive the soybean crop to market. At the elevator, the Ryan beans were deemed to be of a lower grade than Ryan's father felt they actually were. On the trip home, with less cash than he counted on, his father was sunk in gloom. The trip left a vivid memory with Ryan.

"It made a deep impression on me," he said. "He knew he had been taken, but he didn't know how to do anything about it."

Ryan has known what to do about such things since he grew up and got into the grain inspection line: enforce the grain act and check for conflicts of interest.

His reform career started small and worked up.

At Des Moines, he argued that it wasn't right for the inspection and grading company to be owned by the very elevators whose grain it inspected.
Not much came of that, but he did force the firm to adopt uniform fees for all instead of charging farmers more.

Transferred to the Chicago office, which oversaw the work of a state grain inspection agency, he quickly raised a stink about misgrading, incompetence, cheating on overtime, theft and featherbedding.

At the time, the state agency had 127 inspectors to work Illinois grain terminals and was losing $250,000 a year.

"Plain mismanagement," said Ryan. He helped have Illinois grain inspections turned over to a private company.

"When I left there, the company was doing a good job with just 44 inspectors," he said.

Word that Ryan was being transferred to New Orleans, the world's largest grain port, wrought dismay in some quarters. Ryan said that part of the resistance to his coming to New Orleans was in the federal operation here, but he would not elaborate.

"Some people fought my coming down here," he said.
"There were things to overcome in our department. I was called a witchhunter, a troublemaker. But it worked itself out."

Shortly after arriving two years ago, he notified the USDA in Washington that he had found so many problems "I felt we were going to mushroom into a large-scale scandal."

The port handles about a billion bushels a year and foreign customers were howling about low quality and false weights, but couldn't do much about it.

In late 1973, Ryan proposed a federal grand jury investigation. In February 1974, U.S. Attorney Gerald Gallinghouse got the probe under way.

Five private companies, plus one state-operated inspection agency at Baton Rouge, handle grain inspections at the eight big elevators beside the Mississippi River in the New Orleans area.

"We kind of ate around the bottom and worked up," said Ryan, in a thumbnail description of the federal investigation, which began with inspectors and has extended into executive circles.

A vice president of Bunge Corp., one of six big grain companies that dominate the trade, was the highest executive indicted.

Ryan has often popped out of bed at 2 or 3 a.m. to drive 40 or 50 miles and back up a federal inspector involved in a hassle with grain elevator officials.

His efforts in exposing the grain mess have brought threats. One of his aides quit when told that a contract had been let to have both his kneecaps smashed.

Ryan shrugs all this off, but his wife does not. She insists on riding with him when he makes one of those unexpected night trips. She waits in the pickup truck while he's inside.

"I guess she figures if I'm going to be thrown in the river, she's going to get thrown in,
too," he said.

WHEE, WHAT WHEELS!—All's wheel that ends wheel in this tree-like structure adorning the parkway at a motel-restaurant near Dodgeville in southern Wisconsin. The "tree" is made from discarded metal wheels of outmoded farm machinery. (AP Wirephoto)

Higher Cost To Students

RALEIGH (AP)—Students at private colleges in North Carolina are encountering higher costs, even though the state increased tuition grants this

The 1975 legislature responded to the urging of the private schools and doubled aid by giving the colleges a $200 grant for every North Carolinian enrolled. Officials from private colleges had said the number of students had declined because of higher tuition costs.

A report by the North Carolina Association of Independent Colleges and Universities showed that students still face higher costs even though the tuition grant program was expanded. The average college tuition increase was $140 and the average increase by private junior colleges was $100.

The association said that reports from 29 of its 38 members showed the largest increases were reported by Duke University which went up $285 to a year's tuition cost of $3,060; Salem College went up $300 for a total of $2,949; and St. Mary's College, up $259 to a total of $1,939.

Queens College had the only reported decrease in tuition, a drop from last year's $2,270 to $2,160.

Underwriters Offered Courses

The Pitt County Association of Life Underwriters announced that all area insurance agents interested in "Life Underwriters Training Council" courses should contact L.U.T.C. chairman Scott Smith (752-3163 or 758-4699) as soon as possible.
Smith said that classes are scheduled to begin the week of Oct. 27.

About 5,000 directories are printed annually in the United States, including 2,287 published by the Bell System. The total circulation of Bell directories alone is 184,415,000.

Street Fighting Tapers Off In Tripoli

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) —

Street fighting tapered off in Tripoli amid reports that the Lebanese army would intervene between Christians and Moslems battling in northern Lebanon.

Security officials said negotiations were under way to establish buffer zones manned by the army between the forward positions of the warring factions. It would be the first time the 18,000-man army has intervened this year in the sectarian fighting.

Premier Rashid Karami, a

Sunni Moslem, said after a cabinet session Tuesday that he would announce "efficient measures" to end the fighting in Tripoli, Lebanon's second largest city, and Christian villages east of it.

Karami had been opposed to calling in the army because the Moslems contend the military command is dominated by Christians. But the local press said the cabinet had agreed to give the army's Maronite Christian commander, Gen. Iskandar Ghanem, a six-month leave of absence.

Some reports said Ghanem would be replaced by Brig.

Gen. Said Nasrallah, the chief of staff and a "neutral" Druze, a member of Lebanon's third religious sect. Several papers predicted the army intelligence chief, Gen. Jules Bustani, would be named acting commander. He is a Christian but is considered acceptable to the Moslems.

Moslem sources in Tripoli said a force of 3,000 Moslems advancing on the Christian town of Zagharta, five miles east of Tripoli, had taken the Christian villages of Erdeh, Alma and Dier Ashash. The sources said this put the Moslems' mortars within a two-mile range of Zagharta.

Government security forces were reported establishing checkpoints in the rear of the Moslem militia, on roads to the Zagharta area and on the northern and southern approaches to Tripoli.

Officials said a total of 83 persons were known to have been killed and 212 wounded in the fighting, which began a week ago and escalated into fullscale warfare Sunday. But officials predicted the toll would rise as government patrols penetrated more areas of fighting.

Palestinian guerrillas were helping Lebanese security patrols in Tripoli. Guerrillas and security men were seen together negotiating local cease-fires and trying to prevent looting of some at 350 fire-bombed shops. The fighting is the fifth major outbreak this year of warfare between Lebanon's Christian and Moslem communities. Their traditional animosity has been fueled by the presence in the country of more than 200,000 Palestinian Moslems whose guerrilla operations against Israel are supported by Moslem leftists and opposed by conservative Christians.

More than 2,000 persons were killed in fighting in Beirut in April, May and June, and 34 persons were killed in August in Zahle, in eastern Lebanon.

End Crisis At Marshall

MARSHALL, N.C. (AP)—Cecil Blackwell used a diving rod to find water for this mountain town of 1,000. His efforts, and those of the National Guard, which is trucking in water from Asheville in two 5,000-gallon containers, have helped make the shortage in Marshall no longer critical.

Blackwell, who is from nearby Marshall, has found two likely spots for wells. One of the wells already is pumping 75 gallons a minute into a million-gallon storage tank. A private drilling company was to sink a shaft today at the other spot.

Another well also is producing several thousand gallons a day to boost the level in the reservoir above the danger point. Water also is being pumped in from the headwaters of Hunter's Creek.

The shortage was caused by breaks in the earthen dam which impounds water from the creek, the main source of supply. The breaks caused the water level to drop and the remaining water became contaminated.

Will Not Permit Women Priests

RALEIGH (AP)—The Rt. Rev. Thomas A. Fraser, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of North Carolina, says women will not be allowed to perform priestly functions in his diocese until the church decides that ordination of women is proper.

In a pastoral letter that will read in churches Sept. 21, Fraser also lashed out at the Rt. Rev. George Barrett, resigned bishop of Rochester, for having "defied the Bishop of Washington, a strong supporter of the ordination of women," by ordaining four women as priests.

Reagan Visiting N.C. Saturday

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Ronald Reagan is scheduled to speak in Charlotte Saturday afternoon.

The former California governor who may enter North Carolina's March 23 presidential primary is to address dealers of a door-to-door chemical products company in the Charlotte Coliseum.

The meeting is open to the public but tickets will cost $2. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., will address the group Saturday night.

Reagan will speak to dealers in Amway products.

Sunday in Washington, D.C. Fraser said the ordinations "can be nothing more than an act of desperation to force the issue of the ordination of women to the priesthood before the General Convention of 1976."

He said the "revolutionary method" of going outside the accepted processes of the church "embarrasses those who might support them."

"The time has come for all of us to reaffirm our obedience to the discipline of the Church. I believe it is unwise to support further so-called 'prophetic disobedience' by inviting any of the fifteen unlawfully ordained priests into our congregations."

Fraser and the Rt. Rev. John M. Allin, national presiding bishop, each objected Tuesday to the ordinations of 15 Episcopal women as "invasions of the rights and responsibilities of others."

In a telephone interview, Allin charged Barrett with "adding greater confusion to the issue, rather than opening the way to the proper solution to the problem" with the ordinations Sunday.

One of those ordained Sunday, the Rev. Alison Palmer, said in a telephone interview that the bishops are "begging this issue." She contended that women's ordinations should be recognized as just as valid and binding as those male priests.

Big Price Hikes Could Hurt Libya

By HILMI TOROS
Associated Press Writer
TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — The prospect of an increase in oil prices has put Libya's radical rulers in the same tent with the industrialized Western nations they used to squeeze for all the petrodollars they could get.

The Libyans fear that if the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries imposes another hefty boost in prices at its meeting late this month, Libya also will eventually be stung because it has too much of a good thing — low-sulphur oil.

This premium product is now priced a dollar or so higher than standard Persian Gulf crude, which is about $10.50 a barrel. The Libyans fear that when higher prices began to pinch their customers, they would again reduce purchases of the more expensive crudes, as they did last winter.

Diplomats and oil analysts say Libya is just emerging from a severe drop in output that created a cash problem. The wells are putting out just over 2 million barrels a day, nowhere near the peak 3.7 billion barrels five years ago but almost double production in the first quarter of this year.

In the first half of 1975, oil output trailed last year's by 41 per cent. The shortage of cash forced the government to delay payment for goods contracted abroad, reduced foreign exchange reserves from $3.5 bil-

Fire Claims Four Lives

FAIRMONT, N.C. (AP)—A man who had escaped from a fire went back to rescue three children, and all four died in the flames.

They were Willie Dial, 49; Warren Connors III, 7; Virginia Ann Hunt, 6, and Trena Ann Hunt, 5.

The cause of Tuesday's fire in a home north of Fairmont in Robeson County of southeastern North Carolina, was not determined. But deputies quoted a survivor, Danny Hunt, as saying two fans had been connected to electric outlets only by bare wires stuck into the wall outlets.

Hunt is an uncle of the two dead Hunt children. Other survivors were their parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Hunt, and their 3-year-old brother.

It was the worst fire involving a dwelling in Robeson County since five persons died in a fire at Maxton in 1973.

Manson Attorney Says Squeaky Fromme Didn't Intend Kill Ford

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A Manson trial attorney says Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme confided during a jailhouse visit that she never intended to kill President Ford when she aimed a loaded gun at him. "What are they mad about?" attorney Daye Shinn quoted Miss Fromme as asking. "The gun didn't go off."

Shinn said in an interview Tuesday that Miss Fromme, still loyal to mass murderer Charles Manson, claims she was seeking attention for Manson and three women followers she feels were unjustly convicted in the 1969 Sharon Tate murders.

The attorney quoted Miss Fromme as saying of the Ford incident here last Friday: "I wasn't going to shoot him. I just wanted to get some attention for a new trial for Charlie and the girls."

Miss Fromme, 26, was charged with the attempted murder of the President after she pointed a .45-caliber semi-automatic pistol at Ford from a distance of only two feet during a presidential visit to the California capital.

Shinn, a Los Angeles lawyer who represented Susan Atkins in the 1970 Manson trial, said Miss Fromme also said she intended to serve as her own attorney if brought to trial.

Later Tuesday, U.S. District Court Judge Thomas J. McBride issued a sweeping publicity "gag" order at the request of Miss Fromme's attorney, federal Public Defender E. Richard Walker.

McBride said the order applied to Miss Fromme, Walker, grand jury witnesses and federal, state and local law enforcement officials. He said violators would be subject to contempt of court proceedings.

A federal grand jury is meeting here today, and the government is seeking an attempted murder indictment against Miss Fromme.

Manson, 40, is now serving a life term at San Quentin Prison for the murder of Miss Tate, an actress, and six others.

A preliminary hearing for Miss Fromme, who is being held in lieu of $1 million bail, is scheduled today. She entered no plea at her arraignment after the Ford incident Friday.

Among key witnesses expected to testify before the grand jury is Harold Eugene Boro, 66, who owned the gun Miss Fromme pointed at Ford.

Boro, a native of Jackson, Calif., an old Gold Rush town, was described by an official source as the "Sugar Daddy" to Miss Fromme and Miss Good.

Boro reportedly has told the FBI he showed the gun to Miss Fromme and she later took it when he wasn't looking. Authorities say Boro is not a suspect in the assassination attempt.

In Los Angeles, the Superior Court judge who sentenced Manson to prison told the Los Angeles Times that Miss Fromme had called him at home six or eight weeks ago and warned she was about to do something desperate.

Judge Raymond Choate said Miss Fromme "said she wanted to talk to me because she was going to do something desperate. At first, I thought she meant she was going to kill herself, but she specifically said she didn't mean suicide."

Highest Day On Farmville Mart

FARMVILLE—The Farmville Tobacco Market yesterday received its highest average for this selling season.

The market averaged 108.83 per hundred pounds after selling 384,453 pounds of leaf for $418.415.

According to Louis Williams, sales supervisor, averages continue to climb as more quality grades of tobacco appear on the warehouse floors.

Less primings and nondescript grades were on the floors yesterday than any sales day this year. Stabilization receipts amounted to 2.43 percent of total sales yesterday.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market took another sharp drop today in a continuation of Tuesday's late selloff. The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 9.46 at 818.29 after the 12:36-point loss recorded Tuesday.

Losers outnumbered gainers by more than a 4-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was moderate. Analysts said expectations had apparently been building up for a rally once the threat of an immediate default by New York City on any of its obligations was removed.

But the buying that followed enactment of a financial rescue plan for the city early Tuesday lasted less than an hour, resulting in an evident psychological letdown for investors.

Vote Could Open Door To Millions Of Dollars

WASHINGTON (AP)—If the Senate follows the lead of the House and votes to override President Ford's veto of the $7.9 billion education appropriation, North Carolina schools stand to gain millions of dollars, a supporter of the effort said Tuesday.

John Hartness, a Winston-Salem teacher, lobbied the North Carolina congressional delegation to override the veto. All of the Tar Heel congressmen voted to override. Hartness is president of the state chapter of the American Federation of Teachers which fought the veto.

Here are the major Tar Heel programs Hartness said would gain if the Senate votes to override Ford: programs for poor children, now scheduled to get $53 million, would get an additional $4.5 million and aid for handicapped children would go up $1.5 million; the vocational education program now gets nothing but would get $13 million; school integration funds would be upped from $6.8 million to $7 million.

Also, low income college students would get an additional $13 million through grants, loans and the work-study program. Now, the grants and loans programs are unfunded, Hartness said.

Mickey Rooney Will Wed Again

HONG KONG (AP) — Actor Mickey Rooney, who has been married and divorced seven times, claims he's finally found his dream girl and will marry her later this year, a Hong Kong newspaper says.

The tabloid Star said Rooney's bride-to-be is Jan Chamberlain, a 25-year-old singer from Los Angeles.

Two Items

Only two items are on the agenda for the monthly Recreation Commission meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. tonight. The meeting will take place in the office of Recreation Department Director Boyd Lee at Elm Street Center.

A report on the Community Development Program and a report on the first season of the city municipal pool are the two items slated for discussion by the commission tonight.

Some Surprises In 1st Week's Games

Looking at the whole picture, last Friday night wasn't too good a night for area football teams. Three came up winners; five did not.

The scoring: Farmville Central over Williamston, 12-6; D.H. Conley beat East Carteret, 34-2; Roanoke raided Rock Ridge, 47-8; Kinston edged Ayden-Grifton, 14-13; Eastern Wayne squeezed past Greene

Central, 7-6; Columbia bottled Jamesville, 34-6 and North Pitt was stopped by West Edgecombe, 16-6.

Farmville Central got off to a good but shaky start with a 12-6 win over Williamston (one of the losers). Even though they won, the Jaguars did not escape having their share of problems. The Jaguars worked up a 12-0 halftime lead but in the second half Williamston got its act almost together and rolled up 91 yards. Farmville Central coach Gene Brewer blamed the better Tiger performance on poor blocking by the Jags.

"We just stopped blocking," he said. "We did a good job the first half but they must have gotten complacent in the second half. We had no blocking."

Dink Mills said of his team, "Anybody we play will be tough.

This is the weakest team I've had." The Williamston coach is now down to one quarterback: one was hurt Friday night, the other is out as a result of surgery.

The Jaguars travel to meet former conference foe Eastern Wayne Friday and Williamston hosts Roanoke.

DHC's Jeff Riggs

D.H. Conley was also a victor taking a 34-2 win over East Carteret. The Vikings get to try the other side of Carteret County this Friday night, West Carteret. Conley's Chuck Dunn singled out Lennox Green, Jeff Riggs, Mike Nobles and Randy Edens for their defensive play. "The defense played pretty good," he said. "I was pleasantly surprised. Clifton Clemons scored twice for the Vikes as they exploded in the last quarter to run away with the game."

And then there's Roanoke. Need anything else be said?

Coach Nolan Respass's Redskins rolled over the Raiders in their first conference clash. He used nine running backs in his Wishbone to pick up 386 yards rushing, 400 in total offense. Tony Purvis recorded a touchdown-netting 75-yard punt return for the 'Skins.

Respass may have trouble keeping his stables contained this Friday night against Williamston.

Now, those on the other end: Ayden-Grifton battled a tough Kinston team to a 14-13 final, the win escaping the Chargers on a missed extra point attempt. "There were a lot of fireworks," said Coach Mike Overton. "We expected it to be tough. Both teams had real good defensive games."

NP's Jesse Harris

Overton criticized an official on a call. "The official blew the ball dead on the (first) touchdown and everybody but the ballcarrier stopped. He (the official) said he didn't and did not have the guts to say he did (blow it dead)."

"We were prepared. We just stopped ourselves. Ned Craft had a fantastic defensive game."

The Chargers have another tough opponent this week as they face Ahsokie.

Greene Central lost its opener, a close one to Eastern Wayne. Again, a missed extra point was the culprit as the Rams tried to go for two in the last period but failed. The Rams had 270 yards total offense but could not get the important yards.

Jamesville lost its opener also being swamped by Columbia. The Bullets were in the game momentarily as they tied the game in the second period, 6-6, but could not stand up to a Columbia onslaught later in the second period. Jamesville hosts Chocowinity this Friday.

Finally, North Pitt, looking to turn things around this year, almost did Friday. Trailing 6-2 going into the final period, West Edgecombe rallied for two TD's to jip the Panthers out of a win.

Panther QB Donnie Perkins threw a scoring strike to Jesse Harris for the only Panther tally. The Panthers travel to West Craven this week.

Farmville's Wilkes Is Offensive Weapon

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer.

FARMVILLE—Framville Central's 5-11, 177-pound running back Jeff Wilkes began his senior season big Friday night leading the Jaguars to a 12-6 win and picking up 117 yards on the way.

Wilkes carried the ball 26 times for the Jags and scored a touchdown as Farmville Central beat Williamston in the Jags' season opener.

Wilkes is beginning his third year on the FC varsity but has been playing football for a long time. Jeff says he got his start in organized football in the Farmville midget league and from there went to junior high and senior high football.

SNOW HILL—Three things stand in the way of a good year for Greene Central's girls tennis team: Farmville Central, C.B. Aycock and Greene Central.

This is the first year for girls tennis at the school and according to coach Tony Stanley, "Things are looking bright and we have a lot of potential."

But most of that potential is in three girls who have some experience. All three are seniors.

Theresa Whitley, Celeste Mewborn and Shelia Wade have looked the most impressive so far. "Whitley has a good serve and a good forehand," said Stanley. "Mewborn is inexperienced but she has lots of hustle. Wade has a strong serve and moves to the net well."

Stanley actually started the program last spring by holding two clinics for the girls after boys' season was over. "I went over things they could do over the summer to get better," Stanley said. "I tried to start before school but the hot weather had something to do with it. After school it was better."

Stanley said he has a good group of juniors and sophomores that will learn and help the team next year. They will all be battling for positions this year. "I'd say the number one spot is locked up, Whitley has that. Second to sixth will depend on weekly practice."

The girls have seemed to progress rapidly. "They have adapted to everything that's been presented to them. Especially those that have been playing have been a big help. I even had to teach a couple how to keep score."

Even though, the Ewes are in their first year, Stanley feels they have as good a chance as the other two teams to take the conference. "I would say we have as good a chance as anyone. I'd say Farmville Central will be out toughest match. We should be equal with Aycock."

"Farmville has a good program and its a big asset. We play Smithfield, Southern Wayne, Garner, all those are tentative."

A third place finish might not be so unattractive despite there being only three girls teams in the ECC but if Stanley has anything to do about it, his girls will definitely be shooting for the top.

Wilkes is also taking over the kicking job this season having to fill a gap left by one of Farmville Central's best kickers, Tony Oakley. And that will be tough, says Jeff.

"I think it is. Tony kicked barefooted last year but I can't. Sometimes I'll get off a good one but other times it will go off to the side. If I work hard I'll be able to get it."

During football season, Wilkes doesn't have much time for other activities besides school and football. "I like fishing otherwise I'm trying to recuperate from football." At other times, he likes to play basketball.

If Jeff Wilkes can continue in the pace he started Friday night, he might not only be Farmville Central's leading rusher but one of the conference leaders, this season.

Rose Girls In Loss To Kinston

Kinston bested the Rose High School girls' tennis team yesterday, 5-4, in a grueling five-hour match.

It marked the second straight year Kinston had captured a 5-4 win over Rose on its own courts. It was also the opening match of the year for the Rampant lassies.

The match, which started at 3 p.m. on the Jaycee Park courts, was completed until the final doubles match ended at 8 p.m. "It was a tremendous match," Coach Gwen Waller said. "We didn't have a lot of split sets, but it just went on and on."

Only two matches went to third sets, both in the singles, and the doubles all decided in pro sets, were long ones. The two teams split the singles matches for a 3-3 score, and the first two doubles events were also split, leaving the score at 4-4 before the final doubles event ended with Kinston taking the victory in an 8-6 match.

Rose also had one exhibition doubles match, won by Sally Augspurger and Kathy Murphy over Kinston's Andrea Tyndall and Beth Vail, 8-6.

Missouri Jumps To Fifth Place

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

The Missouri Tigers, unheralded in the preseason rankings, have climbed into fifth place in this week's Associated Press college football poll thanks to Monday night's nationally televised 20-7 upset of Alabama.

The stunning setback dropped the Crimson Tide, runnerup in the first 1975 poll, all the way to 13th.

Oklahoma's defending national champions held onto first place, although they don't open their season until Saturday. The Sooners received 51 first-place votes and 1,108 points from a panel of 56 sports writers and broadcasters across the country.

Alabama's defeat allowed Michigan, Ohio State and Southern California to move up one spot each to second, third and fourth, respectively. Michigan received one first-place ballot and 918 points, Ohio State got three No. 1 votes and 787 points while Southern Cal earned 746 points. None of the three has played a game yet.

The remaining first-place vote went to Missouri and the Tigers' total of 579 points shot them all the way up to fifth place ahead of Nebraska, Auburn, Notre Dame, Texas A&M and Penn State, who round out the Top Ten. Missouri and Penn State are the only members of the first regular-season Top Ten to have seen action.

Penn State fell from sixth to 10th after barely edging Temple 26-25 and the drop allowed Nebraska, Auburn, Texas A&M and Notre Dame to move up one place each.

The Second Ten consists of Michigan State, Texas, Alabama, Maryland, North Carolina State, UCLA, Arizona, Pitt, Florida and Tennessee. Last week, it was Texas, Michigan State, N.C. State, UCLA, Florida, Arizona, Maryland, Tennessee, Arkansas and Stanford.

Maryland climbed three places by blanking Villanova 41-0, N.C. State trimmed East Carolina 26-3 and Pitt cracked the Top Twenty with a 19-9 victory over Georgia. By making the Top Twenty, Missouri and Pitt pushed Arkansas and Stanford out.

Twins, Giants Said Moving

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK (AP) — It was difficult to sort fact from fiction today after a published report that baseball's franchise committee would recommend that the Minnesota Twins move to Seattle and the San Francisco Giants shift to Toronto.

Committee members appeared as mystified regarding the story published Tuesday in the Toronto Star that the committee would suggest the moves at a meeting in Kansas City on Sept. 24.

"I called the American League office and asked them what the hell was going on," said Minnesota Twins Owner Calvin Griffith, who added that the committee had not contacted him on a possible move.

"I haven't heard anything like that," said New York Mets Board Chairman M. Donald Grant, a committee member who labeled the story "erroneous."

"I flatly deny this story," said Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. "The franchise committee has not made any recommendations and there's no guarantee it will happen in Kansas City."

That's where conflicts begin to arise, Griffith said: "There's no question they'll be meeting on this."

Giants Owner Horace Stoneham told The Associated Press: "We're not ready to sell, and if and when we are, the Giants will be sold in place. They are not going to leave San Francisco."

However, Stoneham was quoted by the San Francisco Examiner as saying: "If the new owners want to move, that's not my concern. The Giants will be sold and—that's right—there will be no stipulation that they can't be moved."

"I don't know where they got anything on Minnesota going to Seattle," added Griffith.

Writer Neil MacCarl's story quoted a well-informed U.S.-based source who asked not to be identified.

There is evidence that the move is possible: —Baseball is looking for a tenant in Seattle to avert a lawsuit arising from the transfer of the Seattle Pilots to Milwaukee following the 1969 season. —Baseball also wants to break up the West Coast clog of teams which has the Giants and Oakland A's competing for entertainment dollars in California's Bay Area. —There were reports earlier this year that the A's would move to Chicago while the White Sox transferred to Seattle to prevent the lawsuit. But baseball moguls were steadfast in their denials. "That Toronto story can not be confirmed," said Grant of the Mets. "If there was anything to it, you'd sure think I'd know what we were going to do," said Griffith.

Are Sooners Next On Upset Parade? Nope!

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Can what happened to Alabama happen to Oklahoma?

Has Missouri's impressive 20-7 thumping of Alabama, in which the Tigers completely shut down the Crimson Tide's heralded Wishbone running attack, given new hope to harassed opponents of the ground-gobbling offense?

"After watching Missouri play, we might reevaluate our Wishbone thinking," said Coach Carl Selmer of Miami of Florida. "Missouri put eight people up there and generally destroyed Alabama's blocking scheme. Your offensive linemen have to be generally sound in blocking technique because the eight-man defensive line, by odd spacing, disrupts blocking assignments."

Oklahoma, whose Wishbone is more explosive than anyone else's, begins defense of its national championship Saturday against Oregon, a team trying to bounce back from a 2-9 season. The Ducks will bounce back, all right, and they'll keep bouncing...back and back and back. Oklahoma 49-14.

The opening week of the campaign produced a 17-5 forecasting record with one tie for a percentage of .773.

Sixteen members of The Associated Press Top Twenty will be in action this weekend, all except fifth-ranked Missouri, No. 13 Alabama, No. 17 Arizona and No. 18 Pitt.

Michigan at Wisconsin: The Wolverines barely edged Wisconsin 24-20 last year...and they'll barely edge them again. Michigan 17-14.

Ohio State at Michigan State: Ohio State didn't edge Michigan State last year. In fact, the Buckeyes bowed to the Spartans 16-13 for their only regular-season blemish. Woody Hayes wouldn't want revenge, would he? Ohio State 20-10.

Duke at Southern California: John McKay says the Trojans are a year away from greatness. That's great for Duke. Southern Cal 30-12.

Louisiana State at Nebraska: The only other time these teams met was in the 1971 Orange Bowl. Nebraska won 17-12 and nailed down the first of two straight national championships. Nebraska 28-14.

Memphis State at Auburn: The Tigers want to make Shug Jordan's last season one to remember. War Eagle! Auburn 24-0.

Mississippi at Texas A&M: Last weekend, Ole Miss traveled to Waco, Tex., and lost to Baylor. This time, the Rebels travel to College Station, Tex., to lose to...Texas A&M 35-7.

Notre Dame at Boston College: These teams have never met before, although the late Frank Leahy coached at both schools. The Era of Ara is over at Notre Dame and it remains to be seen how fine is Dan Devine. Upset Special of the Week...Boston College 14-13.

Stanford at Penn State: The Nittany Lions squeaked past Temple last week 26-25. Joe Paterno's teams tend to get better. Penn State 21-7.

Colorado State at Texas: Darrell Royal wanted to go listen to guitar-pickers but the football season got in the way. Texas 35-21.

Maryland at Tennessee: A rematch of last year's Liberty Bowl, which Tennessee won 7-3. A new year and a new deal...Maryland 17-16.

Chips and putts from area golf courses:
Greenville

Several golfers turned in their best scores at the Greenville Golf and Country Club during the past week. They include Betty Akin, 88, Peggy Hallow, 88, and Scott Hill, 34.

A Toddlers' Clinic and Club Championship will be held on Tuesday, open to members' children, 3-5 years old. No experience is necessary. The event will run from 9 to 10:30 a.m.

A Captain's Choice Tournament will be held on Sunday, September 21, with a 2 p.m. Shotgun start. Couples or individuals may sign up at the pro shop.

The M.B. Massey Jr. Memorial Fall Match Play Championship will be held in October. The tournament, for juniors, has two flights, 10 and under and 11-15 years old. Those wishing to play must sign up by October 1, and pairings will be listed then. Final matches are scheduled for October 19.

The Ladies Match Play Tournament will be held during October. Sign ups are now underway.

Members may wish to note that during the last days of September, the greens at the club will be overseeded with winter rye and top-dressing.

Ayden

Three teams deadlocked for first place in the Superball Tournament held at Ayden Golf and Country Club over the weekend.

Emmitt Koonce, Jamie Jones, Harry Mumford and Lib Stocks tied with Dean Wingate, Al Tenpenny, Mack Harkrader, and Mary Lou Wingate; and Jamie Jones Jr., Cecil Himant, Ray Lenco, and Virginia Bradley. Each team had 61.

Fourth place went to the team of Blanie Moye, Marion Claybrook, Sheril Brynn, and Cheryl Claybrook with a 63. A four-way tie for fifth occurred, between Pete Beamon, Orren Babcock, W.A. Moye and Donna Lane; Dallas Jackson, Mike Martin, James Langley and Savon Alexander; Tony Ankudowicz, John Ham, Mike Sutton at Pat Joyner; and Jimmy Walls, Kenny Beamon, Jim McDermott and Diane Walls, all with 64s.

Ralph Loftin had his best round recently, a 66, while Bill Loftin carded a 75.

A Mixed Scotch Foursome will be held Sunday. Members wishing to participate may call the pro shop.

Brook Valley

Several golfers turned in top scores at Brook Valley. Tommie Little had a 72, including two bogies, two double bogies, and an eagle on the 13th hole. Ted Hall had a 74, Louis Clark had an 81 and Charlie Snell had a 40.

The N.C. Seniors will hold a four-ball tournament at Brook Valley this Saturday and Sunday. The course will be closed to open play until 1 p.m. each day, and members are requested to call for tee times after the field clears.

The annual Men's Superball Championship will be held September 20-21. It is open to all male members, 18 and older, who hold a CGA handicap card. Teams will be drawn according to handicap. Deadline for signups is September 17 at noon.

The seventh annual Reynolds May Four-Ball Tournament will be held on October 11-12. This is a two-man best ball affair.

Members of Pitt County clubs who wish to play may contact their local pro for invitations and entry forms. Brook Valley members will also have to contact the pro shop at the club for these—none will be mailed locally.

The field will be limited to the first 72 teams to sign up and assistant Brook Valley pro Dave Martin says that local people wishing to enter should do so as soon as possible.

The Pitt County Ladies held their tournament at Brook Valley Friday. Harriette White took the low gross award with a 79. Mable Blount won low net with an 83, while Jan Woodward took low putts.

In the first flight, Dorothy Woolles won low gross with a 96, while Bernie Rawl had low net with a 76. Dardie Longino won low putts. Ruth Billica took low gross in the second flight with a 101, while low net went to Dot Aldridge with a 76. Peggy Hallow won low putts.

The third flight's low gross honors went to Martha Garrett with a 106, while Grace Merritt had an 86 for low net. Miriam Martin won low putts. Jackie Langston at 113 won the fourth flight's low gross, with Jennie Johnston winning low net with a 100. Lib Lilley won low putts.

Jr. Tennis Event Set

The Greenville Jaycees will hold a junior tennis tournament on Saturday, September 27, with two clinics held prior to the event.

Four divisions will be held for the tournament, boys 16 and under, girls 16 and under, boys 18 and under, and girls 18 and under. Age as of January 1, 1975, determines age classification.

In addition, separate competition in the age brackets of 8-10, 10-12, 12-14, and 14-16 to determine first and second places. The winners in 8-10 will then meet 10-12; while 12-14 plays the 14-16 winner. The two survivors then meet for the 16 and under title.

First and second place winners in the 18 and under group will be determined by play between 17 and 18-year-olds.

Clinics are scheduled to be held on the two Saturdays prior to the tournament, starting next Wednesday at 6 p.m. at the Elm Street Courts. To be eligible to play in the tournament, contestants must attend one of the two clinics.

In the tournament, matches will be decided by one eight game pro set. Balls will be furnished.

Entry blanks will be available at the clinics.

Pirates Honor Two Standouts

Ken Strayhorn and Harold Randolph earned the first weekly Players of the Week award for East Carolina University for their play in the N.C. State game.

Randolph, who had been credited with 21 tackles in the unofficial statistics from the press box, had his total lowered to 19 by the official survey of the game films, but still turned in an excellent night.

Strayhorn was picked by the ECU football staff as the top offensive star. He carried the ball nine times for 76 yards, and was the leading ground gainer in the game. He averaged 8.4 yards a carry, and added to that with two pass receptions for 15 yards.

"Strayhorn ran the ball quite well," Coach Pat Dye said. "It is obvious that we need to get the ball to him more than nine times and we will do this in the future."

Following the grading of the films, Randolph was officially credited with 13 tackles and six assists, a total of 19 stops. He had one sack of the quarterback for a loss of 10 yards, and tackled two other runners for losses as well.

"It's no surprise to me how well he played," Dye said. "We knew he could do it. He's going to one of the outstanding linebackers around before he's finished."

Ancient Age now gives you more*!

*More proof that is!

Since several leading bourbons recently reduced their proof from 86 proof to 80, you end up paying the same money you did when they were 86 proof.

Ancient Age could have lowered its proof too, but we didn't. We're a great tasting whiskey and a great value.

We figure you've been buying 86 proof bourbon for a good reason—you like it. Besides if you're going to pay for 86 proof why not get it.

When you buy Ancient Age you get what you pay for...86 proof Kentucky Bourbon at its finest.

Bosox Slipping; Will Orioles Laugh Last?

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

A funny thing is happening to the Boston Red Sox on the way to the American League East pennant.

They're slipping—and the Baltimore Orioles could have the last laugh.

The Orioles, all but given up as dead birds less than a week ago, kept their fluttering hopes alive with a 9-1 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers Tuesday night.

Coupled with Boston's 3-2 defeat in 10 innings at Cleveland, it moved the Orioles within five games of the top—the closest they've been since July 8.

While the Red Sox and Orioles were trying to decide the outcome of the American League East, the Oakland A's strengthened their chances in the AL West with a 2-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals in 14 innings.

Indians 3, Red Sox 2
Alan Ashby's run-scoring single in the 10th led Cleveland over Boston. George Hendrick doubled and eventually scored on Ashby's hit to left. The Indians' victory gave them a 9-5 edge over the East leaders, the only AL team to hold the upper hand over Boston this year.

A's 2, Royals 1
Bill North's run-scoring single with two out in the 14th inning gave Oakland its big victory over Kansas City. The victory boosted the A's lead to seven games over the Royals in the American League West.

A two-out error by Kansas City shortstop Fred Patek opened the door for the A's winning rally. Bert Campaneris, who reached base on Patek's miscue, stole second and raced home with the game-winning run on North's dramatic hit.

Angels 5, White Sox 4
Mike Miley drove in two runs with a single and sacrifice fly and Bruce Bochte doubled home the eventual winning run in the seventh inning to lead California over Chicago.

Yankees 9, Tigers 6
New York first baseman Chris Chambliss became the first Yankee to wallop five hits in a game this season in the Yankee's defeat of Detroit. He singled home a run in a three-run first, doubled home one in a three-run third and capped a two-run rally in the eighth with an RBI single. In addition, Chambliss had two more singles.

Rangers 3-4, Twins 0-2
Dave Nelson's two-run single in the ninth capped a three-run rally, leading Texas over Minnesota in the second game for a sweep of their doubleheader. Rookie Jim Umberger stopped Minnesota on four hits and pitched Texas to victory in the first game.

McLain Fulfills Dream Of Front-Office Job

By LES SEAGO
Associated Press Writer

MEMPHIS (AP) — One-time Detroit Tigers mound maestro Denny McLain, involved in a bookmaking controversy five years ago, has fulfilled a long-time dream, a front-office job in baseball.

"My playing days are over," the two-time Cy Young Award winner said as he talked of ticket sales, promotions and making baseball a success in Memphis, home of the International League's Blues and a city that has seen more than one sporting failure.

McLain, briefly suspended from baseball five years ago after being accused of involvement in bookmaking, has been play-by-play radio announcer for the American Association's Iowa Oaks since he hung up his glove in the middle of the 1973 season.

He has, he confessed during a news conference, had a longing for a front office job for several years.

"I think I've got some ideas...of course some of my ideas I borrowed from other people," he said.

McLain, the Tigers' ace for six years, ended his days as a player in 1973 after the Atlanta Braves sent him to Iowa and the Oaks shipped him to Shreveport.

Before his began his slide, McLain had been the toast of baseball, and he even did a two-week stint in Las Vegas, playing the organ. Then he experienced a series of problems including two suspensions handed down by baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

He admitted Tuesday he faces tough problems in his new job.

McLain succeeds another former major league pitcher, former Cardinal hurler Ron Willis, who was fired in mid-season by Blues owner Bernard Kraus after attendance toppled from 1974's 132,000 to less than 75,000 this year.

The Blues, the AAA affiliate of the Montreal Expos, finished 1975 a dismal fifth after an early slump.

McLain said he recognized that other pro sports have experienced difficult times in Memphis. The American Basketball Association's Memphis franchise struggled for four years before folding up and moving to Baltimore last week.

And the new World Football League's Memphis Southmen drew only about 15,000 people Sunday despite the presence of three of pro football's biggest names, Larry Csonka, Jim Kiick and Paul Warfield.

"Baseball can be big in Memphis because it's been big before," McLain said. "But we've got to get people out to the ballpark."

Sports Briefs

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Vic Edwards, fired as coach of the World Team Tennis champion Pittsburgh Triangles, has denied a personality clash existed between him and his players.

Owner Frank Fuhrer dismissed Edwards on Tuesday, saying it was "impossible to bring him back and retain harmony on the team."

Edwards, meanwhile, said he was somewhat surprised by the move since he had discussed a contract with Fuhrer the day before.

Fuhrer mentioned "certain difficulties," Edwards said in a telephone interview. "But naturally I'm wondering why I'd be put off after having won the WTT championship."

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Wayne Croft, seventh-round draft pick from Clemson University, a 6-foot-9, 220-pound forward, has been signed by the Kansas City Kings.

The signing on Tuesday brings the roster to 15 players.

Croft averaged eight points a game in his senior year at Clemson. A native of Bamberg, S.C., he averaged 7.5 rebounds.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Lee McGriff, all-South-eastern Conference pass receiver for the University of Florida, has signed to play with the Jacksonville Express of the World Football League, team officials say.

Spokesmen said Tuesday that the Express roster would have to be cut by one player to make room for McGriff. No announcement was made immediately on a roster change.

McGriff had signed with Dallas of the National Football League but was cut a week ago.

MIAMI (AP) — Wide receiver Mel Baker has been traded and veterans Doug Crusan and Pete Lazetich cut by Coach Don Shula to get the Miami Dolphins roster down to the National Football League's 46-player limit.

Carlton's Back And Phillies Are Happy

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

It's been a frustrating season for Steve Carlton, the National League Cy Young Award winner in 1972 but now a less-than .500 pitcher.

When his pitching record was up Carlton was up, but when his pitching fell on hard times, he was down, often hiding from reporters in the off-limit trainer's room or telling interviewers "I'm not talking this week."

The bouncy, happy-go-lucky Carlton, the cover boy of 1972, returned to Philadelphia Tuesday night, and he was once again an open book.

"I've been pain free for the last three or four games," said the big left-hander, who pitched and batted the Philadelphia Phillies back into the pennant picture with a six-hit, 6-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I've been raising back and throwing the ball. I don't have to finesse, and it makes a difference."

Elsewhere in the NL, the Chicago Cubs nipped the Pirates 6-5; the Montreal Expos edged the New York Mets 2-1 in 10 innings; the San Diego Padres pounded the Cincinnati Reds 11-2; the Los Angeles Dodgers tripped the San Francisco Giants 8-3, and the Atlanta Braves beat the Houston Astros 4-1.

Cubs 6, Pirates 5

The Cubs had slowed Pittsburgh's pennant express but Chicago Manager Jim Marshall expects the derailment to be only temporary.

"The Pirates to me look about the same as they did last year," Marshall said, "and they won it last year."

Andy Thornton rapped his 15th homer, then smacked a tie-breaking single to lead Chicago past Pittsburgh. Bill Bonham and relief pitcher Paul Reuschel combined for a seven-hitter against the Pirates, who made three errors and allowed four unearned runs.

Padres 11, Reds 2

The Reds may be kings of the NL West but the Padres weren't letting them rest on their laurels. Willie McCovey drove in four runs and left-hander Rich Folkers fired a three-hitter to bring the Reds down to earth.

Dodgers 8, Giants 3

Lee Lacy's tie-breaking single in the eighth inning touched off a five-run rally, giving the Dodgers a victory that pulled them 6½ games ahead of the third-place Giants.

Astros 4, Braves 1

Home runs from Marty Perez, Mike Lum and Dave May of the Atlanta Braves powered rookie right-hander Adrian Devine to his first victory of the season. Devine was summoned last week from the Braves' Richmond, Va., farm club.

Big Names Among Those To Feel Blade As NFL Teams Make Cuts

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

It was the Stock Exchange at midday. It was rush hour in midtown.

It was cutdown day in the National Football League.

Players retired, went on waivers, or were otherwise discarded with the rapidity of machine gun fire Tuesday as coaches frantically pared their rosters to the 46-man limit.

And some big names fell victim to old age, poor health, or the simple inability to cut the mustard.

Expos 2, Mets

Jim Dwyer's single and Mike Jorgensen's run-scoring double in the 10th inning sent the faltering Mets to their fifth straight loss. The Mets, who were part of the NL East pennant race a week ago before losing two of three to the Pirates, are now nine games out.

Tight end Marv Fleming, the only player to appear in five Super Bowls, was cut by the Washington Redskins. Center Bill Curry of the Green Bay Packers retired, as did defensive back Cornell Green of the Dallas Cowboys. And veteran linebacker Bobby Bell was placed on waivers by the Kansas City Chiefs. Coaches get to do it all again next Tuesday, when the final trim to 43 players is due.

Fleming, a 13-year veteran, had played in two Super Bowls with the Packers and three more with the Miami Dolphins.

Curry, an 11-year man, had played with Fleming on the Packer team that beat the Kansas City Chiefs 35-10 in Super Bowl I eight years ago.

Green ended a 13-season career that included his becoming an all-pro at strong safety and cornerback, intercepting 34 passes and once playing 182 consecutive games. He'll become a Dallas scout.

Bell asked to be placed on waivers.

There were enough bodies shifted Tuesday to stock a lot of teams for a long time. Running backs and draft choices changed hands like bargains at a bazaar.

The Chiefs acquired defensive lineman Randy Beisler and a draft choice from San Francisco in exchange for defensive back Nate Allen. The 49ers also sent cornerback Frank Oliver to the Buffalo Bills for a draft pick.

That was only the beginning. The New York Jets traded running back Mike Adamle to the Chicago Bears, receiving RB Carl Garrett and a 1976 draft; Cincinnati swapped guard Pat Matson to Green Bay for a future draft; New Orleans got a mystery choice from Miami for wide receiver Melvin Baker, and the Oakland Raiders traded running back Charlie

Court Rejects Attempt

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California Court of Appeal has rejected an attempt by Oakland Athletics' owner Charles Finley to submit additional evidence in his legal fight to get back pitcher Catfish Hunter.

The appellate court denied the move Tuesday and will make a final ruling later on an Alameda County Superior Court decision that allowed Hunter to become a free agent.

After a baseball arbitrator declared Hunter a free agent on grounds that Finley did not pay him according to terms of a contract, the pitcher signed with the New York Yankees. He has won 20 games so far this season.

Greg Stone of Seattle will captain Army's golf team next spring for the second year in a row.

Coaches Want Larger Limit On NFL Teams

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

National Football League owners may be paying four fewer salaries a year, but with

from injuries this preseason, coaches are nearing their wits' end with 43-man rosters.

"I'm selfish. I'd like to have as many players as possible for my team," says Coach Charlie

Winner of the New York Jets.

"Right now I've got 19 guys who are injured in one way or another.

"In practice today, I had only one running back—Steve

Davis—who could run. So we had to walk through all our plays.

"I had only five defensive backs who could run and three wide receivers, so you can see that if we were going into a league game, we'd be in a difficult situation."

Most teams in the NFL are in the same rocky boat—playing with skeleton crews while the injured skeletons heal.

Miami Coach Don Shula was a member of the committee which cut rosters from 47 to 43 because of "the economics of the sport."

"I sat in when those rules were made. After they're made, you abide by them. You can't bend the rules to fit your own particular situation," said Shula.

That's not to say he wouldn't like to. Shula was brought to the painful decision of placing linebacker Nick Buoniconti and safety Dick Anderson on the injured reserve list, rendering them ineligible for the entire season because of the new roster rules. Previously, a player could be placed on injured reserve and brought back before the season ended.

No longer.

"This year, he's gone for the season as far as you're concerned," says Winner. "That leaves you two choices: count

him on the active roster and play short for a time, or put him on injured reserve. If you get people hurt at key positions, you're in trouble with

That means the New Orleans Saints are in trouble. Quarterback Archie Manning is out for a month with a chipped elbow. The New England Patriots are in trouble; quarterback Jim Plunkett underwent surgery

Sunday for a shoulder separation and will be lost for six to

Likewise the Atlanta Falcons, without defensive end Claude

injury; likewise Buffalo, which

Greene and Robert James.

"I'd like to see the 47-man roster restored," said Washington Redskins Coach George Allen.

"Everybody now is finding out, with all the injuries that are occurring, how it hurts all the teams."

It appears too late to change

now. "This was decided upon by the owners and it's 43, it's good enough for me," according to Buffalo Coach Lou Saban.

There are those that would disagree.

Price Is Right For Appalachian

BOONE—A year ago Robbie Price was a nervous young man fighting for a job as the starting quarterback at Appalachian State University.

This season he makes "Cool

Hand" Luke look like a nervous wreck.

"I feel much more confident entering this season," says

Price. "I know I will have to be a team leader this season and I have more confidence in the entire team. One of the keys is that I know my teammates and their individual abilities much better this season. That helps me a great deal."

ASU's offensive coordinator

Buddy Sasser points to a mature

the Mountaineers.

"Robbie has matured a great deal in the past year," says

Sasser. "He worked hard last

April and he came to practice this year ready to play. He knows we are counting on him

this season and he has accepted

Last season Price battled Phil

Coccioletti for the starting spot.

Now he faces stiff competition from sophomore Chris Swecker and freshmen Mike Cansler and Tom Gary.

"I'm not looking at the competition," says Price. "The quarterback who starts the first game will be the best choice and will be the best for the team. We have some talented quarter-

Price has found the ASU wish-bone attack to his liking.

"I guess my greatest asset is my scrambling and the offense gives me a chance to use my best

bone puts more pressure on the defense in a greater number of areas. When they commit themselves on defense they have created a weakness. I am there to exploit that weakness.

"I wish every team we played this season would key on me thinking I will carry the ball a great deal. When they do that it will open the game for another back. If they don't work on me then I will burn them. If they do work on me someone else can burn them."

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

THIS BAVARIAN CHALET is adaptable as a second home as well as a permanent one. The family room is the focal point of the first floor, very spacious with spiral stairs. The downstairs bedroom has a large closet and is almost square. It has plenty of space for furniture grouping. The upstairs sleeping rooms are in open design but there are folding doors which completely close. Architect for Plan HA878G is Carl Gaiser, 25600 Telegraph Rd., Southfield, Mich. 48075. The plan has 1,067 square feet on the first floor and 432 in the loft. Anyone wishing to know the cost of the blueprint can write to Gaiser, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

How Votes In Senate, House Were Applied

BY ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON—Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Sept. 3, when the August recess ended.

HOUSE.
GOVERNMENTAL PERFORMANCE—Adopted, 226 for and 168 against, an amendment dealing with a federal program to make state and local governments operate more efficiently. The effect of the amendment is to change to 50-50 the federal-state funding ratio for federal grants awarded under the Intergovernmental Personnel Act of 1970.

Under the present formula, the federal government puts up 75 percent of the cost and the state or local participant puts up 25 per cent. State and local recipients are required to use the money to improve the quality of their service to taxpayers.

The amendment was attached to a bill (HR 4415) extending the Intergovernmental Personnel Act through Sept. 30, 1978. HR 4415 authorizes $50 million a year to fund the program. The bill was sent to the Senate.

Supporters said the original intent of Congress was that programs under the act would eventually be funded on a 50-50 basis, beginning in July, 1975. Rep. John Rousselot (R-Cal.) said the "breathing spell" for the states has ended and that it "is time that the federal government stop funding programs that states would ordinarily have little interest in if it were not for the federal funds."

One opponent, Rep. Spark Matsunaga (D-Hawaii), said the amendment would "gut the entire bill" because state and local governments will find it difficult to come up with the 50 percent matching payments.

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L.H. Fountain (D-2), Stephen Neal (D-5), Richardson Preyer (D-6), Charles Rose (D-7), W.G. Heffner (D-8), James Martin (R-9), James Brothill (R-10), and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "yea." Rep. David Henderson (D-3) voted "nay."

Rep. Ike Andrews (D-4) did not vote.

BUSING—Tabled, 42 for and 35 against, an amendment preventing the Justice Department from "promoting" school busing as a remedy in school desegregation lawsuits. The amendment's effect would have been to keep the Justice Department from advocating busing. But it would not have impaired Justice's role of enforcing court-issued busing orders which might result from such lawsuits.

The amendment was proposed to a bill (HR 8121) appropriating $6.2 billion for the departments of State, Justice and Commerce through Sept. 30, 1976. HR 8121 was later passed and sent to conference with the House.

In general, supporters of tabling the amendment favor busing as a desegregation tool. Opponents to tabling generally oppose busing and said the amendment expressed what they see as a growing national tide of anti-busing sentiment.

Sen. Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay." Sen. Robert Morgan (D) did not vote.

TRAFFIC FATALITIES
THE HAGUE (UPI) — Traffic fatalities went down by 17.7 per cent to 2,546 in Holland last year compared with 1973, the Central Statistics Bureau announced.

Flocking To Notre Dame

By ALINE MOSBY
PARIS (UPI) — Notre Dame Cathedral and its vast square have become this summer's evening music and marijuana hangout for thousands of young people from all over the world.

Bare-chested Turkish immigrant workers twirled and stomped on the square on a hot August night while a compatriot played their native tunes on a hornpipe beneath the statue of Charlemagne.

A mob of young people surrounded American tourists strumming country and western music on guitars. Wine-sipping crowds watched dark-skinned youths chanting Caribbean tunes beneath cathedral portals carved with the figures of the 28 kings of ancient Israel.

The sweet smell of marijuana drifted over Viviani Square to mingle with the odors of incense and candles wafting from the cathedral.

One visitor, Barbara Fee, of Toledo, Ohio, said, "Just walking across this square at least five fellows tried to pick me up and one asked if I smoked hashish."

As dawn's light touched the rose window of the 700-year-old Gothic cathedral, the story of the night littered the square: empty wine and beer bottles, cigarette stubs, contraceptives, crumpled paper cups. Pigeons pecked at rotting apple cores and hunks of bread.

City street cleaners sweep up the garbage before Parisians start to work. Police under the let-youth-alone regime of President Valery Giscard d'Estaing stay away from the square except to direct traffic or prod illegal sleepers on the square's few remaining blades of grass.

But one of Notre Dame's keepers, Father Naz, complained, "The youth certainly are not there to re-enact the passion of Christ as youth did in the Middle Ages."

"They've organized a drug traffic," said the priest in indignation. "Last night a dozen Congolese and Gabonese immigrants were selling African rings and bracelets. This morning when I came at 7:30 I counted 29 sleeping bags on the square. The police must be on vacation, too."

On Ascension Day, French and foreign faithful had filled Notre Dame for a special mass when a storm dumped rain on the square.

"Suddenly a thousand young people ran into the church from the square with their trombones, guitars and tom-toms. They blocked the door and people could not leave," Father Naz said. "There was nothing we could do."

Viviani Square was cleared of cars and turned into a pedestrian mall last year after an underground parking lot was built — the first time the area in front of Notre Dame had been clear since its construction began in 1263.

In less time than it takes to knock off a liter of red wine, the French and foreign youths who mill around the Latin Quarter in the summer discovered that the cathedral square was a nifty place to gather.

By August, Father Naz said, "young people were using the square for illegal camping. I have seen English and Dutch out there making coffee with gas cookers. In French cities 'le picnic' is forbidden. The police have become very gracious to foreigners, I must say."

tourism, said Father Naz, Notre Dame is "as popular as the Eiffel Tower," with a steady stream of buses disgorging camera-toting visitors from around the world.

This year the priests put up signs saying, "This is not a museum, but a church. Please observe silence and wear proper attire."

Each Sunday the Notre Dame organist gives concerts. These have become a favorite with large crowds of young people who sit on the floor and the altars.

Nuns stand by the doorways with boxes for offerings. But neither the adult nor the young tourists leave much money "to cover even the incredible cost of maintaining the organ," sighed Father Naz. "To the youths this is a free haven." But the blue-jeaned youths milling on the square get their come-uppance from Notre Dame each evening when the 13-ton great bell in the south tower bongs its seven-centuries-old call to evening mass. The deep, bittersweet chimes easily drown out the guitars and tom-toms below.

Shadi Grows Living Rugs

EL CERRITO, Calif. (AP) — Colorful flowers make the designs in three Persian rugs and one old-fashioned quilt in the hillside garden of Sundar Shadi. More than 8,000 plants were used to create living rugs and a quilt. There are 35 different plant varieties and the quilt has five kinds of marigolds. The Persian rugs all have different borders and designs.

It has not been an easy nor an inexpensive hobby, however. Shadi uses about 35 pounds of snail pellets to protect the fragile plants and has had to eliminate about six gophers who were chewing holes in the "rugs." A further expense is the plants themselves. He buys flats from the nursery so they will all be blooming at the same time. They usually cost around $500 to $600 for this summer project.

Shadi has lived in the same place since 1935. During the holiday season he features Christmas scenes which attract thousands and create a traffic jam of viewers.

Bolivian Mines In Deep Trouble

LA PAZ (UPI) — The recession of the industrialized nations has plunged Bolivia, a landlocked nation that lives by the export of minerals taken from its Andes mountains, into an extreme crisis.

The mining minister, Col. Jose Angonia Zelaya, said recently that 1975 mining exports have suffered a 30 per cent decline. Instead of the $300 million earned in 1974 by the export of tin, copper, lead and other minerals, Bolivia is likely to earn only $200 million this year, the same sum as in 1973, the minister said.

Since 1973, the costs of extracting minerals have tripled, he said. Mexico was the home of the first civilization in North America. In the 10th century, Mayas, arrived in Mexico from Central America.

Choo Choo On The Right Track

By BYRON DAVIS
Associated Press Writer
CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — The Chattanooga Choo Choo stopped running from Pennsylvania Station's Track 29 several years ago, and even Amtrak, the National Rail Passenger Service, no longer serves this city.

But, running or not, the Chattanooga Choo Choo is thriving — as a motel-restaurant complex in the old Southern Railway station that once bustled with passengers.

It has been two years since the entertainment complex opened. It has drawn more than 2.5 million visitors and put smiles on the faces of 24 investors who remember how some people laughed at the original idea.

A success from the start, the Choo Choo is adding a convention center that will accommodate up to 1,500, a concert hall and a new entertainment center.

"We hope to bring in headline entertainment," said B. Allen Casey, board chairman.

It was Casey who talked 23 others into investing a minimum $100,000 each to launch what was then described as a $6 million project. As more facilities are added, the complex becomes even more valuable.

"When we started, we aimed at the tourist business," Casey said. "But so many people told us they wanted to have their conventions here that we decided to build a convention center."

He said the first convention is booked for mid-October.

When completed, the new convention and entertainment facilities will complement a huge dining area in the old terminal building, row upon row of shops, 48 converted train cars that now contain plush, Victorian sleeping quarters and a modern, 100-room Hilton Motor Inn with an indoor, all-weather swimming pool. The Inn also is slated for expansion.

Casey and Harlan "Bud" Mills, president, are the management team that runs the Choo Choo. Both work long hours and say they love it.

"We are fortunate in having stockholders who agree in plowing our profits back into the business," said Casey. "That's why we can pay for expansions like the convention center."

He estimated a $5 million gross this year.

Since opening, the Choo Choo has added shops that feature glass blowing, leather work, dolls, boutiques, candy, 1890 photo tinctures, model railroads, railroad movies, antiques, potted plants, homemade ice cream, a goldsmith, an art gallery and book store.

"We turn down at least eight potential shop operators for each one we accept because they wouldn't fit into the motif of the project," said Mills.

The motif emphasizes an 85-foot, free-standing dome and concourse that house the main restaurant, and flowers, fountains and statuary that were inspired by Denmark's famous Tivoli Gardens.

Just as important as the Choo Choo's financial success is the impact it has had on the community.

Until work began on the project in the spring of 1972, the old, abandoned railroad station stood at the south end of downtown as a haven for rats, pigeons and winos.

Property values in the area have risen dramatically since the Choo Choo opened a year later. Another group of investors, following the Choo Choo's lead, bought the vacant Grand Hotel across the street and converted it into a shopping mall.

"We've created an industry with a $1 million payroll," said Mills.

"We've got 350 employees," added Casey, "and their average age is about 21. A lot of youngsters are financing their college education by working for us."

No one is more enthusiastic about the Choo Choo's success than Bob Elmore, executive director of the Chattanooga Convention and Visitors Bureau.

"This has brought new visitors to town and added a major new tourist attraction to Chattanooga," he said.

It also has brought inquiries from other cities that don't know what to do with decaying railroad stations of their own. Among them are St. Louis, Cincinnati, Fort Worth, Pittsburgh, Nashville and Knoxville.

Food Co-Ops Are Good Help For The Retiree

By United Press International
Food co-ops can help retirees on fixed incomes solve budget problems, says Art Danforth, secretary-treasurer of the Cooperative League of the USA.

Until now, co-ops' most enthusiastic supporters generally have been young people, for obvious reasons. Many have large families and/or low incomes. Presumably they also have the strength and stamina to cope with co-op pickup and distribution chores. This is one area in which retired persons might need help.

Harry Leichter, organizer of the Dale City, Va., Food Buyers Association, suggests turning to able-bodied neighbors, including teen-agers, for aid in transporting and distributing heavy cases of food.

A food co-op consists of a group, usually about 15 to 20 families, who get together to buy food in bulk at wholesale prices. Members are responsible for picking up, sorting,

Payment generally is required in cash in advance. A lot of time and hard work is involved, said Leichter in an article in the "AARP News Bulletin," a publication of the American Association of Retired Persons.

Many co-op members say the effort pays off in substantial savings and better quality food than they are accustomed to buying at retail stores.

Leichter says 20 families is the ideal number for a neighborhood co-op, although the larger the group, the lower the prices.

He also advises: Decide what you want to order, then shop wholesalers for the best prices.

Be prepared to borrow or lease a truck if none of your members has a vehicle suitable for bulk pickups and delivery to a distribution center where each family must claim his purchases and pay for them.

Churches, community centers, schools or even the garage or basement of a member's home are possibilities for rent-free distribution centers.

Retirees with business experience would be good choices as coordinator and bookkeeper-treasurer.

Volunteers also should be recruited to take orders, distribute food and keep records.

To cover operating expenses, establish an annual membership fee that may be as low as $4 a family. A co-op needs money for phone calls, scales, mimeograph supplies, gas, possible legal fees and truck rental fee, if you cannot borrow a delivery vehicle.

The first step, though, should be a check with your state tax office to determine what permits and license are required, and whether a sales tax or taxes must be collected.

Inflation Didn't Stop Travel

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Americans refused to let inflation cancel summer vacations this year, but they stayed closer to home, spent time in one place rather than traveling around and searched for bargains at hotels and restaurants.

An Associated Press survey of major tourist areas showed the number of visitors in every area was higher than it was in 1974 when the gasoline shortage cut sharply into summer motoring.

There was plenty of gasoline this year. The only problem was figuring out how to pay for the fuel, the lodgings, the food and the sightseeing that make up a vacation.

Michael Frucci, executive secretary of the Cape Cod Chamber of Commerce said 1975 "was a very good year." He said he expected statistics on over-all resort business to be up 12 per cent from 1974, making this year the best ever.

At the same time, some restaurants reported business was off.

"People are economy minded and are looking for less expensive places to eat or are bringing their own food," said one operator of a hotel with a restaurant. "Even at breakfast time, we found people eating less."

Florida officials said tourism business was up about 10 per cent from 1974. But they said that while the northern part of the state was doing well, the southern part, including Miami, was suffering.

"Tourists have tended to pull in their horns," said Hal Cohen of the Miami Tourist Development Authority. "They're not traveling much more than 300 miles from their homes. This has worked to our disadvantage. North and Central Florida can still draw on tourists from other states."

The Automobile Club of Michigan said a comparison of 1974 and 1975 figures showed routing requests by state residents for Michigan only were up 11.5 per cent for the Upper Peninsula and 44.6 per cent for the Lower Peninsula, indicating people stayed in the state rather than take a long trip elsewhere.

The club said private campgrounds reported people were staying twice as long as they did last year and added that

Separates The Chicks

PETALUMA, Calif. (AP) — Heimer Carlson of Petaluma is a chicken sexer, one of the half-dozen men and women in Sonoma County who, within seconds, separate the valuable brooders from the less desirable roosters.

After 41 years and more than 40 million chicks, Carlson can discern sex at a rate of 900 per hour with an accuracy nearing 100 per cent.

Chicken sexing evolved in this country during the Depression when it was an economic necessity to know the cockerels from the pullets. Just out of high school in 1934, Carlson was one of the first students of this Japanese imported art, training at the H and N Hatchery in Petaluma, where he now works on a contract basis.

Those were the days when Petaluma was the chicken capital of the world.

Those days are gone, yet the chicken sexer is still an important part of the poultry world because to date no one has come up with a machine as accurate and gentle.

NEW YORK (AP) — Okay, gang, tonight's new series line-up is "Doctor's Hospital" on NBC, "Kate McShane" on CBS, and "When Things Were Rotten" and "Starsky and Hutch" on ABC.

The bidding:

1 ♦ INT Pass 3NT
Pass Pass Pass
Opening Lead: Seven of ♦

South was unlucky that a bad break in a side suit ruined an excellent three no trump contract. North was unlucky that he cut a partner who did not make adequate provision therefor.

North-South bid quickly to their optimum contract despite an adverse opening bid. South's no trump overall showed the equivalent of a no trump opening bid, and North, with 11 points, a five-card suit and a supporting stopper in spades, had considerable in reserve for his jump to game.

West led his top spade and South, in the hope of making a second spade trick later, played low from dummy. East's ten forced the king, and declarer set about running the clubs. He received a stunning jolt when East discarded a heart on the first club. Declarer had only eight top tricks, and there was no way to make a ninth without a good present but is arrested for an explosively bad past.

One comment from the radical gives you an idea of it all: "I just guess I'm not ready to hold hands with the Establishment."

NBC's medicine show, starring George Peppard as a chief neurosurgeon, has competent acting. But it suffers from a dread TV disease called rehashplotitis, compounded by switchitis.

Those who witnessed last Thursday's "Medical Story" on NBC saw the dedicated young intern put his career on the line by accusing a veteran surgeon of greed and unnecessary surgery that kills a patient.

In tonight's "Doctor's Hospital," a dedicated young intern puts her career on the line by accusing a veteran surgeon of having lost his skill and killing a patient with sheer ineptitude. If M.D. rehashplotitis spreads, this'll be the year the entire nation turns its head and coughs at the mere sight of a sawbones.

Alas, the disease already has spread from surgery to flatfootery, as witness ABC's "Starsky and Hutch," a hip young undercover cop series emitted by the makers of "The Rookies" and "S.W.A.T."

It stars David Soul and Paul Glaser as "with-it" fuzz who tonight chase a salt-and-pepper (black and white) duo of holdup men.

In last night's "Joe Forrester" premiere on NBC, Lloyd Bridges, as a wise old beat cop, also chased a salt-and-pepper team who, disguised as plainclothes cops, also committed stickups.

Despite a strained ending, "Forrester" had good acting, a fair plot, reasonably good dialogue and believable characters.

Not so "Starsky and Hutch." It is an amateur hour of acting and dialogue, accented by gunfire and ceaseless, tire-burning 180-degree chase-sequences turns by Starsky, who can't even do a 180 correctly.

letting West gain the lead. When West eventually did so, he still had a spade to lead through dummy's queen, so declarer ended up down one.

The 4-0 club split was most unfortunate, but declarer could have neutralized the threat had he taken it into account. It would not have helped him to duck the first spade, for East can then defeat the contract by shifting to a diamond.

Since East is marked with long spades, West is the defender more likely to have the club length. In that case, East cannot have a quick entry to his spades, even if he can set them up. Therefore, the almost sure-trick line is for declarer to play dummy's queen of spades at trick one!

East must win the trick, otherwise declarer has two spade stoppers. He can now force out the spade king, but that won't help the defense. (A diamond shift would be equally unavailing.) When East shows out on the first club, declarer simply allows West to win the second round of that suit. Now West is unable to get his partner on lead. His best return is a diamond, but declarer wins the ace, clears the ace and queen of hearts and then takes three more club tricks and the king of hearts, thus making exactly nine tricks.

How do you choose your best opening lead? Charles Goren provides the answers in his new book, "Winning Opening Leads." For a copy write to "Goren Leads," in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 259, Norwood, New Jersey 07048. Enclose $1.25 in cash or checks, payable to NEWSPAPERBOOKS.

'Billy Joe' Director Faces Big Odds

By MARIAN FOX
Associated Press Writer
GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP)—Max Baer was unhappy, trying to film a sensitive love scene in "Ode to Billy Joe" with clouds, crop dusters and dove hunters working against him.

"All this has combined to make Max uptight," said Gail Fondren, a nurse from Itta Bena, hired to bandage cuts and pass out suntan oil to the crew turning Bobbie Gentry's song into film. "He's trying to get things done and he can't."

The director's bad mood and the nature of the scene relegated the locals and the press to a dusty road about 200 feet from the actors, directors, technicians and golfers clustered near the edge of a small, spring-fed pond near Greenwood. Temperatures were in the low 90s.

Dust, heat and the strong smell of chemicals being sprayed on cotton and soybeans kept most non-movie makers in the shade of the "honey wagon," where there was cold beer and ice water. Trailers marked as dressing rooms and prop wagons offered most of the shade for bystanders.

"Can we hold it, please," the assistant director yelled through a megaphone. "Can we hold the traffic. We're going for film now." At that, everybody started whispering and state police blocked the road with patrol cars.

Howard Stanton, owner of the pond and surrounding land, lowered his voice. "I'm not charging them anything to use the land," he said. "It's just good for Mississippi business for them to be here and it doesn't hurt the land."

Stanton is not in the movie, but his mother, his son Lin and his daughter-in-law Leslie are among the 200-300 locals making their first movie.

From across the pond, Robby Benson's Billy Joe McAllister raised his voice above the generator truck, "...in a very healthy manner."

"Save the arc," said the assistant director, meaning cut off the arc light that was smoking on one side of the set and stop the cameras.

Stanton resumed normal speaking. "Lin here is going to jump off the bridge," he said as a young man with a cold can of beer walked around the corner. "He's been home all morning practicing his line, 'AAAAAaaaaaargh.'"

"I was state diving champion for two years and I've made higher jumps than 76 feet," Lin said. He is at least 20 pounds heavier than Benson. "They said they would pay me $500 to make the jump. I get another $500 if it takes more than one day."

"They should have left the word 'Jesus' out," said Lin, referring to one of Benson's lines. "It just doesn't sound right when he says it."

"When people from New York come here and try to talk like us, you can always tell," said Leslie, who was in a crowd scene filmed at Itta Bena.

Filming stopped for an hour while equipment was being moved around to film the scene from another angle. Shooting had started at 6:30 a.m. and Benson and his co-star Glyniss O'Conner headed for the dressing rooms to relax. Max Baer slouched in a chair on a small pier over the pond while a blonde in a pink halter and jeans massaged his back.

Baer, an actor turned director, played Jethro Bodine in the television comedy, "The Beverly Hillbillies," but dislikes being reminded of it. To his chagrin, young aides wore specially-printed sweatshirts with "Jethro's Girls" and "Jethro's Boys" on them.

"He was really peeved when he first saw them," said Gail Fondren, "but an hour later, he was wearing one."

Some of the LeFlore County residents have theater experience, but Wil Long of Greenwood said he "got to drinking with some of the crew and the next thing I knew I had a Screen Actors Guild contract..."

As to what Billy Joe threw off the bridge, none of the locals knew. And if anybody in the crew knew, they wouldn't say.

Removing The 'Him' From Their Hymnals

By PATRICK O'KEEFE
Greensboro Record Writer
Written For The AP
DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Some Christians are taking the "Him" out of the hymnals.

They say if humans were "in the image and likeness of God," then God must be both masculine and feminine.

"Unfortunately, some folks are attempting to see this as 'neuterizing' God," said the Rev. Robert Young, chaplain at Duke University.

"It's more positive than that."

Under the Rev. Mr. Young's guidance, a group of male and female Duke students who believe in equality between the sexes are rewriting not only hymns and prayers but passages of scripture. Ultimately, an entire "nonsexist" Bible may develop.

For instance, in a standard translation, John 15:13 reads: "Greater love hath no man than this that a man should lay down his life for his friends."

The Duke group has converted that passage to: "Greater love has no one than this that one should lay down one's life for a friend."

The Rev. Mr. Young said there has been no major opposition. "We aren't making total breaks, anyhow. We still use the 'Glory be to the Father and to the Son and to the Holy Ghost,' and, of course, the Lord's prayer, starting, 'Our Father, who art in heaven...'" he said.

In the main, he said, the Duke group has been substituting "God" for the pronoun "Him" whenever possible and, in some instances, praying, "Oh God, our Father-Mother."

So far, the group has left intact the masculine pronouns referring to Jesus Christ.

"Jesus was more than a man. He was the fulfillment of 'personhood' for all persons, both men and women," the Rev. Mr. Young said.

However, he said, "There are students and some faculty who in their own private prayers are referring to God as 'She' or 'Her.' But that kind of thing is still very personal, not public."

TVA Participates In Electricity-Sharing System

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Wednesday, September 10, 1975—29

JUMBO BEANS—Walt Johnson of suburban Robbinsdale (Minn.) sent for and planted some "New Guinea Jumbo Beans" this summer; but he didn't anticipate these results. The stalks climbed about 20 feet high and produced this bean, one of several on the vines, which is over two feet long and weighs about 40 pounds. (AP Wirephoto)

By BYRON DAVIS
Associated Press Writer
CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — The nation's demand for electricity has become so great that power systems have been forced into playing a game of musical electric chairs, shifting power back and forth across the country.

The Tennessee Valley Authority, the nation's largest producer, imports power from other systems, even in summer when it is exporting power that it will get back when winter demands in the Tennessee Valley are greatest.

This back and forth swapping is not new, but it has been only in recent years that TVA and other systems have been able to exchange power over long distances.

"TVA has had interconnecting lines with neighboring systems since the 1930s, which have been used mainly for emergency help back and forth," said Lee Sheppard, assistant director of information for the agency.

"In the 1960s, extra high voltage lines were developed. These made it possible to transmit large quantities over great distances where it had not been practical before."

This summer these lines came in handy when TVA found itself without 1.2 million to 1.9 million kilowatts from a nuclear power plant at Browns Ferry in north Alabama. The Browns Ferry plant was disabled by a fire in March and will not be back in production until next year.

Largely as a result of the loss of Brown's Ferry's capacity, TVA in recent weeks increased power imports from other systems to keep air conditioners running during a heat wave.

TVA can exchange power with systems in 20 states from Pennsylvania to Texas. "TVA began building a trunk system of high capacity lines years ago," said Sheppard.

"These were interconnected with systems to the southwest, the northwest and large companies and groups of companies in almost every direction from the Tennessee Valley."

But Sheppard said a nationwide network that would permit transfer of power from coast to coast is not yet practical.

"In effect, the whole country east of the Rocky Mountains is interconnected on a grid system," he said. "There are limitations on how much power you can ship and how far. We wouldn't get power from Montana, for instance."

"We would not normally shift power from here to New York. It has been done a couple of times in dire emergencies, but this required shifting it from our system to another and from there on to New York, and that is expensive."

"Most of the systems we're connected with face their highest demand in the summer. Our heaviest demands are in the winter because so many homes in the valley are all-electric. So, we have long-term agreements to get power from these other systems in the winter and pay it back in summer."

"This means that instead of having a fluctuation, we must produce about the same in summer and winter. This gives us the equivalent of having another large power plant in winter without having to build one," Sheppard said.

TVA also gets the advantage in power trading agreements of being able to produce it for less than most other systems, but not having to pay the difference when paid back.

"Power is continually moving between one system and another for a variety of reasons," Sheppard said.

"You could get into a situation where one system has a plant knocked out by storm damage and another system immediately picks up the slack. But that works both ways."

The man responsible for moving power between TVA and other systems is Ralph Ferguson, chief of the system loading branch at Chattanooga.

"Our system line is tied quite heavily to all neighboring systems and we exchange power all the time. A turn of the dial is all it takes, but this has to be coordinated to the minute to make sure that when a man on one end is turning a dial there's a man on the other system doing the same thing, either to pick up power for to release it," said Ferguson.

When TVA has to pay for imported power, it usually costs more.

"Last month we paid an average 1.7 cents per kilowatt hour for power that we bought, and we only charge our distributors 1.5 cents," Sheppard said.

At the same time, TVA was shipping 1.2 million kilowatts a day to other systems.

"The bulk of this was under seasonal commitments to Mississippi Power and Light, the Illinois-Missouri Power Pool and Southern Services which includes utilities in Alabama, Georgia and Florida," Sheppard said.

"Our power imports have been running at a level of 2.5 million kilowatts, but that will drop this month as we come out of the summer air conditioning season."

"You shoot for a system that has enough capacity to supply your own peak demands, but this is not an exact science. Our power purchases will decline this fall, but will pick up again this winter. We hope that by the time we hit our summer peak next year, we will have Browns Ferry back in operation," he said.

Might As Well Sleep On Job

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. (AP) — It really happened one night recently in Walnut Creek. The police reported that for the first time in months the midnight to 8 a.m. shift had no cases.

No one called in for help from the police. There were no reported family fights, drunk drivers, mental cases or any other routine occurrences that are the meat-and-potatoes of suburban police work.

Police can recall about eight instances of noseless shifts during the past several years.

Free Elephants Face Extinction

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — Progress threatens the survival of the only remaining herd of "free" elephants in South Africa that live outside game parks.

They roam the forests around Knysna, midway between Cape town and Port Elizabeth on the Indian Ocean seaboard. But a new freeway cutting through the forests will cut their ranging territory in half and lead to the herd dying out, environmentalists fear.

The elephants are rarely seen and it is believed their number is already down to about 11.

Deer-Hunting Carries Risks

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The opening of the deer season is a time of danger to the hunter.

Deer hunting accounts for more casualties than any other kind of hunting, statistics show. The use of bright clothing and a wide, safe zone of fire will help keep the hunters safe, advise safety experts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be with people and gain the goodwill of others who can be helpful in future. Attend social affairs that are worthwhile.

Report Some Millionaires Avoided All Federal Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-four American millionaires managed to avoid paying a penny in federal taxes in one recent year, according to Internal Revenue Service data released by a member of Congress.

Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, said in a House speech Tuesday that seven of the millionaires had a total adjusted gross income of $17,783,008, an average of $2.54 million per person.

"There were also 17 (other) millionaires who avoided any tax after calculating their tax deductions and credits," according to IRS information for 1973, Vanik said. He did not identify the millionaires or explain the tactics they had used.

In addition, there were "54 individuals with adjusted gross incomes of between $500,000 and $1 million who paid no federal income tax and 292 individuals with adjusted gross income of between $200,000 and $500,000 who paid no individual income tax."

Vanik, a member of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, also said that 15 major oil companies paid foreign governments about eight times as much tax as they did to the United States in 1974.

He said "it is appalling to note" that the companies listed payments of $9,554,112,000 to foreign countries, but only a reported $1,309,136,000 in U.S. federal income taxes.

Vanik identified the 15 oil companies as Occidental, Texaco, Mobil, Gulf, Atlantic Richfield, Standard of Ohio, Getty, Ashland, Standard of California, Standard of Indiana, Union of California, Sun, Phillips, Continental and Cities Service.

He said two other firms, Exxon and Shell, were omitted from the survey "because information provided to the SEC (Securities Exchange Commission) made computations impossible."

Vanik spoke as the Ways and Means Committee moved Tuesday to end farm tax shelters used by wealthy city dwellers to virtually escape paying taxes.

Martin School Board Asks Release Of Funds

WILLIAMSTON—The Martin County Board of Education has requested the release of an additional $450,000 from the 1972 school bond money apportioned to the county. This amount would be used to cover a number of construction projects in county schools, including additional work at the new Roanoke High School now under construction.

The Roanoke High School, Martin County's newest high school facility located between Robersonville and Gold Point, is being used by students this year although final construction work is still underway.

In another capital outlay budget action, the board informed that bid openings for an addition at Jamesville High School and an addition at Bear Grass School would be opened on September 16. The Jamesville addition will include an auditorium; the addition at Bear Grass is for an addition to the occupational area of the school.

Board members again maintained their position in recommending an $8,200 liquidated damages assessment against the W. G. Dunn firm of Greenville. The case arises from work done by the construction firm at East End School in Robersonville, which had a November 1973 stipulated completion date, with work completed May 1, 1974. A spokesman for the firm contends that shortage of steel and other unavoidable developments prevented completion on the stipulated date.

FCC Unable To Stop Mail Protesting Unplanned Action

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission seems unable to stop an avalanche of mail urging it not to do something it never considered doing.

The letters and postcards involving religious broadcasting total about 1.3 million, says Harry Shockor, the FCC's chief of administrative services, who oversees the mail.

But that's 600,000 more than the estimate on Aug. 1, when the commission explained in a public notice that there was never any question of banning religious broadcasting from the airwaves, as almost all the letter writers feared.

The FCC made the explanation in denying a petition for a freeze on applications by religious institutions for television or FM radio channels reserved for educational stations.

Two Los Gatos, Calif., broadcast consultants, Jeremy D. Lansman and Lorenzo W. Milam, contended that the assignment of more than one educational channel in a community to a religious group deprived minority groups of access to the scarce channels.

Their petition, filed last Dec. 5, brought the snowballing avalanche of mail and phone calls to the FCC.

The FCC, in denying it, said: "As a government agency, the commission is enjoined by the First Amendment to observe a stance of neutrality toward religion, acting neither to promote nor to inhibit religion."

The FCC pointed out that the case never did not involve religious programming on any commercial network or station. It involved only the channels set aside for educational use.

And the two consultants have insisted repeatedly that they were not against religious broadcasting but only those institutions which use channels to present a one-sided view.

But the mail continued unabated, spurred by many ministers, who continued to exhort their churchgoers from their pulpits or in church bulletins to write the FCC in protest.

The 1.3 million letters and postcards dwarf the previous high for mail to the FCC, 110,000 letters when the FCC was considering last year whether to ban advertising from children's TV shows.

The quantity of the mail ruled out answering it even with form letters. The mail is being piled up in a basement storage room to be kept until Monday, after the period for appealing the Milam-Lansman decision, FCC officials say.

Then it will be disposed of, they say.

'Hour Of Power' Series Begun

NEW BERN—The broadcast of Hour of Power began last month on Channel 12, WCTI-TV Sunday at 9:30 a.m.

On Sept. 28, opening the new fall season, the Rev. Robert Schuller, of the Garden Grove Community Church, Garden Grove, Calif., will be joined by Hollywood star Dean Jones.

Later services in the series will include opera singer Mary Costa and Air Force Col. Heath Bottomly.

GOP Calls For Record Crowds

By DON McLEOD
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican party has issued the formal call for the largest convention in its history, with nearly 5,000 delegates and alternates to meet in Kansas City, Mo., next summer.

The first formal step in convening the GOP's bicentennial-year presidential convention was taken Tuesday at the close of a three-day meeting of the Republican National Committee during which Kansas City was chosen as the host city.

There will be at least 2,259 delegates, 911 more than attended the 1972 convention in Miami Beach, Fla. There will be an equal number of alternates seated in Kansas City's Kemper Sports Arena when the convention opens Aug. 16, 1976.

Under the party's complex bonus system, there could be as many as four additional delegates, depending on the outcome of the special Senate election in New Hampshire next week and gubernatorial races this year in Kentucky, Louisiana and Mississippi.

The bonus system was installed in its present form at the 1972 convention by conservative forces looking to the future presidential nomination of then-Vice President Spiro T. Agnew or some other conservative.

The system awards bonus delegates based on the state party's success in federal elections, and favors small states and traditionally conservative areas.

Despite Agnew's political demise, and the unanticipated presence of an incumbent Republican president still in the contest, the system might still have favored a Republican challenger, such as former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

But Richard M. Nixon's landslide victory in 1972, carrying every state except Massachusetts and the District of Columbia, meant that all but those two got the bigger chunk of bonus delegates for going Republican in the most recent presidential election.

This not only scrambled the ideological slant of the next convention but also accounts for the exceptionally large number of delegates.

The bonus system is still under challenge, however, from a lawsuit filed by the party's liberal Ripon Society.

Exemptions Are Opposed

RALEIGH (AP)—Exemptions to the state's law requiring special provisions for handicapped persons in public buildings were rejected Tuesday after the exclusions were opposed by representatives of disabled citizens.

The state Building Code Council had been asked to exempt dance halls and gym and swimming pool locker rooms from having special facilities for the handicapped. The unanimous vote came after eight spokesmen for the handicapped said disabled persons do use such facilities.

Michael Newman, a Winston-Salem architect, had asked the council in a letter to exempt those facilities because he believed they weren't used by the handicapped.

State law requires ramps or easy access to public buildings, and also demands special toilet facilities for persons in wheelchairs or on crutches.

Filing Period

The filing period for candidates seeking municipal offices in Ayden, Bethel, Falkland, Fountain, Grifton, Grimesland, Simpson and Winterville begins Friday (Sept. 12) at noon and ends Oct. 3 at noon.

According to Miss Margaret Register, executive secretary of the Pitt Board of Elections, the registration deadline for voters in the eight municipalities is Oct. 6 at 5 p.m.

Voters will elect a mayor and five commissioners in the towns of Ayden, Bethel, Fountain and Grifton while a mayor and three councilmen will be chosen in Falkland, five aldermen (from which the mayor is chosen) in Grimesland, three town councilmen (from which the mayor is chosen) in Simpson, and two aldermen in Winterville.

A non-partisan plurality election for the eight municipalities will be held on Nov. 4, Miss Register said. Municipal elections are scheduled for Oct. 7 in Greenville and Farmville, with a runoff, if necessary, planned for Nov. 4.
