Butz Says Higher Price Supports Can Be Costly

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz said today that the price support increase approved by the U.S. House Thursday worked against the long term interest of tobacco farmers.

Butz told a news conference that the North Carolina tobacco grower is in danger of losing ground to Africans and Asians in the export market.

He said the bill, sponsored by Rep. Walter Jones, D-N.C., set an artificially high support level of 99 cents as opposed to 92 cents per pound.

Butz said the House passed the bill with few members present under a "legislative ruse" that changed the number of the bill and fooled its opponents.

He predicted that it would not win Senate approval, adding that if it did, he would consider recommending that the President veto it. Jones has said that he expects little trouble in getting Congressional and presidential approval of the bill. Butz said he did not know whether he would decrease allotments for next year in response to the demands of many farmers.

"At the moment, it appears that answer is going to be yes," he said. A decision will be made later this month. Growers and warehousemen have argued that last year's 15 per cent increase in flue-cured tobacco allotments caused leaf prices to drop this year.

Butz said tobacco growers should worry about increasing the efficiency of production by moving away from heavy use of labor and toward heavy use of technology. He also said he would like to see tobacco allotment leases sold across county lines.

He said that despite this year's drop in prices, tobacco production "must be worthwhile as long as someone is willing to pay 20 cents a pound for the right to grow it."

Last night, Butz criticized big government and said American citizens have given up much of their right of choice. In a speech to the Carolinas Kiwanis district convention, Butz said government has taken over basic decisions from "what sort of programs should be shown on prime time television to...what size cereal boxes breakfast food manufacturers should use."

In a speech that praised free enterprise and capitalism, Butz said economic competition is being replaced with political competition. He said government regulatory agencies affect business at all levels and raise costs to consumers.

He said the best regulation of business is competition from another business. "The best assurance the consumer can have that Sears' merchandise is a good buy is the J.C. Penney store right across the street," he said.

The secretary condemned federal actions that banned DDT and other pesticides found to be killing wildlife. He said those regulations are responsible for the increase in the mosquito population. He also said apples without worms are possible only because of man overriding nature. Butz complained about people on welfare and food stamp programs. Noting that his department administers the food stamp program, he said, "Squeaky was on food stamps; the gal out in California who tried to get the president the other day." He was referring to Lynette Fromme who has been charged with attempted assassination of President Ford.

Though in the midst of tobacco country, Butz didn't mention in his talk to the Kiwanians the problems farmers are currently facing of overproduction and low auction prices. Tobacco farmers have complained that Butz increased amounts of the crop each farmer could grow but the market has shrunk because of inflation.

Butz also said America has been spared totalitarianism only because the people "have held that they are responsible for their own lives." He said that is changing, that people seem to prefer letting the government solve their problems.

Senate Democrats Still Are Unwilling Accept Higher Energy Prices

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats apparently are unwilling to accept President Ford's program of higher energy prices as they were when the plan was offered eight months ago.

The latest evidence came Thursday night when Democrats rejected the President's newest compromise effort, offered by telephone from New Hampshire.

"The President is trying to create pressure on Congress...to knuckle under to the President's plan," charged Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, after the offer was relayed by Acting Republican Leader Robert P. Griffin of Michigan.

"If you don't do this, you're asking for confrontation with the White House and with the House..." said Griffin.

Ford and his Republican backers were urging the Senate to accept a bill, passed quickly earlier in the day by the House that would extend controls on U.S. oil prices through Oct. 31.

During that time, the Republicans hope, Congress would approve Ford's energy plan or come up with a program that the President could accept.

The government's authority to hold down the price of oil and gasoline expired on Sept. 1. Ford vetoed a Democratic bill extending controls for six months, and the Senate fell six votes short in an attempt to override the veto.

Although controls have ended, the oil industry has been hesitant to impose any major price increase until Ford and Congress can agree on how long controls should be reimposed to allow time for working out a broad national energy policy. Ford wants to end controls so that fuel prices will rise to force conservation and give the oil industry more money to find more energy. The aim is to reduce U.S. reliance on imported oil.

But Democrats say they fear sharp increases in fuel prices would trigger more inflation and hamper efforts to pull the national economy out of recession.

Plan To Tighten Border

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. immigration authorities plan to install magnetic and seismic sensors along the Canadian border for the first time in an effort to detect persons illegally entering the United States from Canada.

Robert L. Stewart, assistant immigration commissioner in charge of the Border Patrol, said 35 to 40 sensors will be planted along a 165-mile stretch of the border from eastern New York through one county in western Maine.

The sensors, designed to detect persons crossing the border on foot, will be in place before the 1976 summer Olympics in Montreal, Stewart said in an interview.

The sensors will supplement the less sophisticated vehicle-detection devices already in place on a number of unguarded roads which cross the border, he added.

The U.S. Customs Service also is considering planting its own magnetic and seismic sensors along the border segment near Montreal, said spokesman Ed Kittredge.

Kittredge said the plan is among the alternatives being considered by a Customs Service committee preparing for the expected heavy volume of border crossings during the Olympics and American Bicentennial observances.

Large Grain Crops Ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Grain harvest prospects are down slightly, but the Agriculture Department is optimistic that the bumper crops still predicted will protect consumers against sharp food price increases and enable further sales to the Soviet Union.

Officials said Thursday that farmers will have a record corn crop of 5.69 billion bushels, up 22 per cent from last year. And the wheat harvest, at just under 2.14 billion bushels, also is a record and 19 per cent bigger than in 1974.

Those estimates, based on Sept. 1 indications, reflected a 3 per cent drop in corn prospects from a month ago and a much smaller decline in the wheat estimate.

J. Dawson Ahalt, Agriculture Department staff economist, told a news conference that the reduction does not change the department's estimate of 1975 food prices, currently predicted to rise 9 per cent over 1974. Retail food prices rose 14.5 per cent in each of the past two years.

"I don't think it really changes our estimates on food prices, certainly not for 1975," Ahalt said.

Pitt UF Role For David Brody

Young Greenville businessman David Brody will serve as chairman of the Business I Division of the 1975-76 Pitt United Fund campaign, it was announced today.

In making the announcement, campaign chairman Tom Taft observed "I am pleased to announce David's appointment as head of the Business I Division. His responsibility will be mostly for downtown businesses and merchants with whom he has had considerable contact."

Taft added, "The United Fund campaign has always depended on Greenville merchants for strong support and I am sure David will find them ready to help again."

Born in Sumter, S.C., Brody graduated from The Nun School in Princeton, N.J. and attended the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania.

While in school, he received awards from the Friars Senior Honor Society and Varsity Club of the University of Pennsylvania.

Brody moved to Greenville in 1972 as general managers of Brody's Inc. of Greenville, women's stores. He is currently a member of the Kiwanis Club and Greenville Golf and Country Club.

He is a member of Temple Israel Synagogue in Kinston.

Brody is married to the former Laura Camnitz of Kinston.

College-Bound Scored Lower

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's college-bound students scored lower than the national average on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), but above average on some individual subject testing, state school superintendent Craig Phillips announced Friday.

Phillips said reports from the Educational Testing Service show that for 1974-75, as in 1973-74, North Carolina high school students taking the college entrance examinations scored above the national average on English composition, mathematics, American history and average achievement.

The superintendent said that below average totals were recorded for the state's students in the SAT verbal and math sections and achievement testing on French, Spanish and biology.

H.T. Conner, assistant state superintendent for research for the Department of Public Instruction, said the SAT reflects students' potential to achieve and is not a direct measurement of achievement. He said the individual achievement tests are a measure of students' actual performance.

The ETS reported that 1974-75 scores on all tests declined from last year's scores in the country as a whole and in the southeast, as well as North Carolina. Scores have trended downward during the last decade, but this is the first year scores declined for North Carolina.

Conner says no one has come up with real answers as to why the scores are lower. He said possible factors could be increased television viewing, other distracting activities, less emphasis on education from parents, or poorer instruction.

Another possibility listed was that more students with lower economic and educational backgrounds are taking the tests. Conner said those students tended to score lower.

Park Ranger For Recreation Dept.

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
Something new has been added to the scope of services provided by the Greenville Recreation Department.

At Wednesday night's Recreation Commission meeting, director Boyd Lee revealed that a man with a dog has been hired to fill the role of a Park Ranger for the Greenville Recreation Department. The dog has no official title, unless that of assistant ranger might apply.

Douglas Allen is the man hired for this first Recreation Park Ranger post. He has been on the job since just after Labor Day.

"I'll be working from mid-afternoon til past midnight," Allen said. His duties will be directed mostly to keeping check on the city's scattered recreational facilities — turning out lights at the prescribed time; checking on buildings to be sure they're locked; keeping a watch for possible vandalism, and maintaining curfew standards in park areas, particularly Green Springs Park.

"My truck is equipped with a radio and with a first aid kit," Allen observed, stating he would be able to provide assistance to individuals in emergencies he might confront during his patrol. "I'll be able to contact police when that is needed," he added.

Allen's dog is named Vuse — "pronounced like the word voiced," Allen said. "He's on loan from Ed Perry at the ECU kennels. I'm now looking for a dog to train for my own." The dog chosen to accompany Allen on his rounds will most likely be a German Shepherd.

A native of Greenville, Allen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mayo Allen and is married to the former Helen McAndrews. They have one child, a three year old daughter, Tina. He is a graduate of Pitt Technical Institute and a member of the Body of Christ Church in Greenville.

SIX-YEAR LIMITATION
Our utility room was damaged by water March 8, 1969. At first we disagreed with the $280 offer of an adjuster for the American Manufacturers Mutual Insurance Company. Later, however, we agreed, and asked our attorney to contact the company and let them know we would accept the offer. We've never got it and we don't know why. Mrs. D.B.

We contacted Max Royal in the American Manufacturers Claims Office in Raleigh, which serves this area. He said he no longer has your files, that those over five years old are stored in the home office in Long Grove, Ill. However, he promised to get us an answer as soon as possible. About a week later he called back to explain that his company had indeed agreed to pay $280 damages and had sent you a proof of loss form. They also have records of two letters sent you asking why the proof of loss form was not returned. Your file was finally closed after their three-years contractual liability ran out.

You say you remember receiving proof of loss form and giving it to your attorney and now believe he failed to send it in.

Had the proof of loss form been signed and company yet failed to pay, state law says you could have brought suit any time within six years of the date of loss. Of course, even this time has run out now. You say you appreciate finally having an explanation and feel you have had a valuable lesson.

AVON BOTTLES
Is there anyone in the area who will buy empty Avon bottles? I've heard they're popular as collectors' items. N.F.

Mrs. Brenda Wilson of 715 Mumford Road, Greenville, says she buys Avon bottles. She usually pays from 50 cents to $1, though she has gone as high as $2 for ones she especially needed for her collection. Her phone number is 758-0584.

July's Unemployment In Pitt Showed Slight Rise

Total unemployment in July, 1975, in Pitt County was estimated at 3,130 or 7.7 percent of the total civilian work force.

According to Jim Hannan, manager of the local Employment Security Commission, this shows an increase of 70 persons.

"The increase in total unemployment resulted from an increase in the number of unemployed school graduates and summer job seekers," Hannan said.

The July, 1975, estimate shows an increase of 620 persons since July, 1974, or an increase of 24.7 percent.

"Total employment will probably decrease by over 1,300 workers by October," Hannan explained. "The trend is for both the manufacturing and non-manufacturing sectors to increase their number of workers."

"However, a seasonal decrease anticipated in the agricultural sector will account for the overall decline in the number of people working in October," Hannan added.

Total employment in Pitt County, estimated at 37,440 in mid-July, 1975, registered an increase of 9.4 percent from May, 1975.

This increase is attributable mainly to a continuing seasonal increase in agricultural employment.

A loss of 760 employees in nonagricultural wage and salary employment, was offset by a gain of 3,890 in the agricultural sector and an increase of 80 in the "all other" nonagricultural sector.

The manufacturing sector showed an overall increase of 470 workers, based on place of work.

In the nondurable goods sector, worker increases were noted in all industry groups. Tobacco led the upswing with an increase of 220 workers; apparels increased employment by 170 workers; textiles added 60 workers; and food and other nondurables increased by 10 each.

An employment decrease of 410 was noted in the non-manufacturing sector with government showing a decline of 480.

Worker increases were noted in construction (20); trade (20); service, except domestic (20); and transportation, communication and public utilities (10).

Highway Drivers Appear Ignoring 55 MPH Limit

AND LEAVE THE WALKING TO US—School bus waits for La Farge (Wis.) students as they walk across bridge which local school board says is no longer safe for heavy vehicles. The board

The nation's drivers are still whizzing along highways above the 55 mile per hour limit despite recent increases in gasoline prices, an Associated Press survey shows.

In the survey, AP reporters drove at 55 m.p.h. for an hour during a weekday noontime this week on highways across the country. The test showed that in only one state was the reporter, while driving at the legal limit, able to pass more cars than passed him.

And in that state, West Virginia, the reporter said he believed the test was thrown off by drivers from the opposite direction blinking their lights to warn of a radar speed trap.

The survey also showed: —The number of speeding tickets is up considerably over the period before the 55 m.p.h. limit was put into effect in March of last year. In some cases the number is more than double or triple what it was in the pre-55 m.p.h. period.

—Police have increased attempts to trap speeders, in some cases adding radar units and unmarked patrol cars. Some of these efforts are apparently aimed at preventing loss of federal highway funds, which can be taken away from states not enforcing the 55 m.p.h. limit.

Earlier this week, the U.S. Transportation Department ordered all states to furnish data showing they were enforcing the lower speed limit.

—Police officials in most states believe that drivers, if not following the 55 m.p.h. limit, are at least driving at speeds below what they did before it went into effect. Many police also said they thought lowered speed limits had lowered traffic fatalities, though safety officials say figures do not necessarily substantiate this.

—Opinions of police varied on whether drivers were complying with the lower speed limit more now than when it first went into effect.

The highest incidence of speeding was reported in New Jersey, where the test driver reported he was passed by more than 200 vehicles on the New Jersey Turnpike and passed only two vehicles.

On the opposite end of the spectrum was New Mexico, where the reporter said he was passed by five vehicles and passed four. But he noted one of the cars passing him was a state patrol car with its lights flashing.

The reporter in New Jersey noted that the biggest offenders seemed to be trucks, most of which seemed to be driving at

A Prize For Good Sermon

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—The Christian Sermon Society, which says some sermons are like sleeping pills, is offering $1,500 in a national contest to improve them.

The contest is open to all Protestant and Catholic clergymen. First prize will be $1,000, second prize $300 and third prize $200.

The heads of five divinity schools will judge entries on interest, relevance, and use of the Bible.

Steven Shoemaker, Presbyterian minister at North Carolina State University, organized the contest. He said, "A good sermon should comfort the disturbed and disturb the comforted."

Two ministers in Charlotte, N.C., had opposing views on the worth of the contest.

The Rev. W. Jack Hudson, pastor of the Northside Baptist Church, said, "I'm for it 100 per cent. By writing things out, it makes you more conscious of your message. A man will think two or three times before he puts his philosophy down on paper."

The Rev. Nicholson B. White, associate pastor of Christ Church Episcopal, said, "I think there is a danger that entering the contest is an ego thing. And I don't think good sermons are works of strong egos. Hopefully, you don't enter God's work in a contest."

Offshore Oil Step Taken

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Interior Department has asked oil companies to tell which offshore areas of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida they would be interested in leasing for oil and gas exploration.

The call Thursday was the first legal step toward opening up petroleum operations off the South Atlantic coast.

The department invited nominations in an area of 20.7 million acres covering 3,726 tracts. The area runs along the three-mile limit of state jurisdictions, following the coastline from Cape Fear, N.C., to Cape Canaveral, Fla. It extends seaward as much as 132 miles.

Environmental and fishing interests were invited to designate areas they think should not be leased.

The call for nominations will be followed by environmental studies. A decision on leasing is tentatively scheduled for November 1976.

Killed With Cement Block

GASTONIA (AP)—Lee Napoli Ellis, 31, was fatally beaten on the head with a piece of cement block at the home of another man in Gastonia Thursday night, police report.

They said that Ellis and Hach Junior Lindale, 28, had argued over Lindale's sister.

Lindale was charged with second-degree murder, authorities said. It was the 24th slaying in Gaston County this year.

Fourth-Highest Error Rate In Food Stamp Programs For Ga.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A study by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) shows Georgia has the fourth highest error rate among the nation's food stamp programs.

The study, released Thursday, said nearly one-third of the 112,000 Georgia households receiving food stamps, and no other form of public assistance, were ineligible. The national average was 17 per cent.

The study also found that 23 per cent of the eligible food stamp recipients received more stamps than they were entitled to, compared with a national average of 26 per cent.

The director of the state Division of Benefits Payments, Mrs. Betty Bellairs, said, "I'm concerned about it, but I'm not really shocked."

"We had an idea it was about this high. But the report covers the months of June to December 1974, and I'm confident that in the report for the first six months this year, we'll show much lower rates."

The study also showed that 13.1 per cent of Georgia's recipients received fewer food stamps than they were entitled to, compared with 10.7 per cent nationwide.

Meanwhile, Sen. Henry

McDowell outlined to the Senate Food Stamp Study Committee on Thursday a plan he says could remove 50,000 ineligible persons from Georgia's food stamp rolls.

The Savannah Democrat told the committee thousands of persons qualifying for food stamps claim fewer dependents than they have, causing more taxes to be deducted from their paychecks. This allows them to show a smaller net income and could allow an ineligible person to qualify for food stamps, he said. They later get the money back in tax refunds by claiming full deductions on their tax returns. McDowell's plan would base eligibility on gross rather than net income.

The Georgia Citizens Coalition on Hunger issued a statement urging the USDA to scrutinize McDowell's proposal to determine its impact.

"We don't disagree with it (the McDowell plan). We disagree with the potential of impact," coalition spokesman Ray Abernathy said.

The proposed changes would affect only one-fourth of the food stamp recipients and the savings in program administration would be minimal, Abernathy said.

The head of the coalition, Richard S. Bent, said more and better trained case workers are the answer to Georgia's high food stamp error rate.

Wife Chokes On Hubby's Dinner Joke

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a husband who thinks he's funny. I had a very nice dinner party at home the other night and was especially proud of the way everything turned out.

Well, when the guests were leaving, my husband said, "Come back soon because the only time I get a decent meal around here is when we have company." Everybody laughed, but I wanted to crawl into a hole.

He said that once before, and it got a big laugh, so he pulled it again.

In the first place, Abby, it's not true. I pride myself on always feeding my family very well. I told him later I didn't think that crack was very funny, but he said, "I was only kidding."

Is there a clever retort I could use in case my husband, the comic, says that again?

TICKED OFF IN TULSA

DEAR TICKED: You could say, (only kidding of course) "The only time my ever lovin' Scrooge gives me money for fancy groceries is when we have company."

DEAR ABBY: Twelve years ago when my brother died, his death wish was that I watch over his wife and children, which I have.

Millie (his wife) never remarried due to some bad experiences with men. She is ill now, and the doctors have given her about six months to live.

Yesterday, I stopped by to see Millie and the kids, and I mentioned a business trip I was going on.

Millie said, "Take me with you. I'm starved for a little love."

Abby, I love my wife and have never cheated on her, but I hate to turn Millie down.

What do I say to this beautiful, sensitive, love-starved woman who has now turned to me for help in the last days of her life?

TENDER CONSCIENCE

DEAR TENDER: Tell her the truth—that you'd like to take her, but you've never cheated on your wife, and your conscience won't permit it now.

DEAR ABBY: When are men going to smell like real men again?

I'm a 20-year-old single girl who's dating no one special, but all the men I date smell like happy hookers. Real nauseating.

Whatever happened to that natural masculine scent men used to have? Makes me wonder if maybe they aren't using a lot of sweet-smelling stuff to cover up the unpleasant odor that comes from not showering.

LIKES REAL MEN

DEAR LIKES: If you like the man, but don't like the way he smells, spend a couple of bucks for a scent you like better and ask him to use it—especially for you.

Officers Elected At Sunday Meet

A program-demonstration highlighted the meeting of the Lakewood Pines Garden Club held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Joe Laney. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. A. E. Dubber and Mrs. W. E. Roseveare.

Preserving foliage and flowers by drying and glycerinizing was the program topic. Mrs. Monnie Hedges, Mrs. Harry Billica and Mrs. W. A. Wright showed results with the various methods discussed.

Mrs. Billica, new president, conducted the meeting and Mrs. Hedges, vice president, introduced the program plans for the year with "participation" as the key word. Mrs. William Reading presented the new yearbooks to members.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Herman Moeller on Chocowinity Bay. All members are asked to bring sea shells and driftwood for making arrangements.

Guests present for the meeting were Mrs. Morris Durham of Milbrae, Calif., and Mrs. Graham Flanagan Jr.

Books Explain Types Of Crafts

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
What happens to the economy when everybody learns how to do everything? People are growing their own vegetables, making their furniture and clothes — even gloves and men's suits — and they are being told how to find semi-precious stones, how to make toys and even to cut their own hair. Books on such subjects make ideal reading for late vacationers.

Interest in handicrafts has grown tremendously. "The Complete Book of Rug Making" may fulfill a need for those enthusiasts now hooked on rug making. The book by, Cecelia Felcher puts it all together. In addition to the whole hooking bit which includes latch hooking, the book covers braiding, embroidering, knitting, crocheting and weaving rugs.

"How To Make Furniture Without Tools" by Clement Meadmore is based on cut-to-order plywood and glue to achieve some handsome chairs, tables, bookcases, desks, stereo speakers and any number of other things. Order form patterns that may be cut from the book are designed to be given to a lumber dealer who can then cut everything to size. The plywood is put together with strong glue and painted or finished in a natural look.

"The Off-Wheel Pottery Book" provides a look-at-no-pottery-wheel message, and why not, say authors Raymond Hull and Ida Claire Larden — the earliest pottery was made without wheels. Pinch, coil and strip forming is explained. The kitchen rolling pin, pie tins (for molds) and cutting boards are all pressed into service as the authors illustrate how to knead and control clay, how to make free-form dishes from slabs and how to shape lamp bases, jugs and vases.

"How to Remodel Your Kitchen and Save $$$" is a book with lots of do-it-yourself appeal as it tells how to plan, place and purchase equipment and how to install it. There's all the information needed for building soffits, installing plumbing and the like. There are a great many sketches showing how to do it all.

"The Art of Shellcraft" by Paula Critchley tells you how to turn those beach shells into handsome mirrors, picture frames and boxes. You'll learn, too, how to clean, store and care for them.

"How To Make Wooden Toys and Games" by Walter E. Schutz is a good book for the wood hobbyist who might want to get a head start on Christmas toys. In addition to directions for making sailboats, doll furniture, doll houses and game-type toys, you can make clock faces or even a little crooked house or playhouse for a child.

Decorating some things one makes gets a big assist in "A World of Embroidery" by Mary Gostelow. Stitches in the encyclopedic book, which might be summed up as everything you always wanted to know about embroidery, include some 177 individual entries of stitches and techniques with

Couple Speaks Vows Friday In Ceremony

The marriage of JoAnn Blythe and Douglas Elwood McPherson took place in a private ceremony Friday, Sept. 5, in the chapel of St. James United Methodist Church. The Rev. Roderick Randolph performed the ceremony.

The bride is daughter of Mr. Julian H. Blythe of New Bern, and the late Mrs. Dorothy H. Blythe. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Anne G. Phillips and the late Mr. Dallas W. McPherson.

The bride's matron of honor and only attendant was Mrs. Clyde E. Pridgen of Greenville and Henry Stith Harris of Greenville was best man.

After the ceremony, the families of the bridal couple entertained at a dinner at the Beef Barn.

Mrs. McPherson is a graduate of ECU and is a sixth grade teacher at Eastern Elementary School. Her husband is a graduate of Atlantic Christian College and is employed by Freuler, Grady and Co., CPA Firm.

The couple will reside in Greenville.

stitch variations from many countries. Blackwork, beadwork, goldwork and mirrorwork are all described.

And just in time for the Bicentennial is "Embroidery Motifs from Old Dutch Samplers" by Albarta Meulenbelt-Nieuwburg. It not only describes the meaning of symbols — flowers, animals, biblical characters — found on old samplers, it provides hundreds of color-coded cross-stitch patterns for re-working old motifs.

"Make Your Own Gloves," a unique book by Gwen Emlyn-Jones, provides patterns and directions for gloves lined and unlined. Among 52 illustrations and 12 patterns ranging from size 6 mittens are those illustrating how to cut holes to insert thumbs and close fingertips. Even buttonholes do not seem beyond one's sewing ability, but patience would be required to achieve a fine job.

There are books on making jewelry, books that give advice on all sorts of craft projects — basket making, quilting, caning, beadwork — and books telling how to decorate the baskets you make or buy. One book, "Handmade Lace and Patterns" by Annette Feldman, includes instructions for tatting and crocheting and some simple hairpin lace in its story of lace with excellent illustrations from museums.

Antique buffs may add two fine books to their library, "Antique American Clocks" and "Antique American Silver," both by Marvin D. Schwartz, consultant and lecturer at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. Many illustrations with history, style and identification can be extremely helpful to the antique collector.

Before going antique shopping in your homemade clothes trimmed with your own embroidery carrying your own crafted basket, you may want to give yourself a haircut using "How To Cut Your Own or Anybody Else's Hair" by Bob Brent. A professional hair cutter, he explains in the introduction to his book that he is not trying to replace professional people. For those who want to cut their own hair or somebody else's he provides illustrations and know-how in step-by-step instructions that show exactly how to proceed in cutting the hair of men, women and children.

Publishers of the books mentioned are: "The Complete Book of Rug Making," Hawthorne; "World of Embroidery," "The Off-Wheel Pottery Book," "Embroidery Motifs" and "Make Your Own Gloves," Scribners; "How To Remodel Your Kitchen and Save $$$," "Antique American Clocks" and "Antique American Silver," Doubleday; "The Art of Shellcraft," Praeger; "How To Make Wooden Toys and Games," Macmillan; "Handmade Lace and Patterns," Harper and Row; "How To Make Furniture Without Tools," Pantheon; "How To Cut Your Own Hair," Simon and Schuster.

You're Not Secure In A Prison

You'd think prison would be a place of security. It just isn't so.

There are a number of reasons; some of which probably simply haven't occurred to us. But this matter of individual safety (or rather, the lack of it) has been repeatedly brought to attention of North Carolinians.

Hardly a month goes by without report of an inmate being beaten or stabbed. How much of it is indiscriminate or represents selected victims we'll never know. But it's a fact: the dangers to life and limb are uncommonly high for a prisoner.

These thoughts were re-emphasized this week with the knifing of a prisoner at Craggy Prison, near Asheville. The disorders and fires began soon after prison authorities began transporting the inmate to a hospital.

According to the state Secretary of Corrections, David Jones, Craggy Prison is the worst in the state and should have been closed. Another point, not in its favor (or the state's), is that the complex was overcrowded. It was built for 160 inmates and at the time of the disorders was housing 221 persons. At least five prisoners other than the initial stabbing victim were injured to a degree that required hospitalization.

There are a lot of things about imprisonment that "turn off" the average citizen; but the absence of personal safety under normal security precautions simply should not be.

North Carolina is as responsible for the safety of its prisoners as it is for any citizen who is under its protective care.

We know that the prison population has a large share of the criminal element whose backgrounds are rife with violence and tragedy and disappointments and ultimate adoption of a kind of jungle code. They prey on other people.

But even the worst of these are entitled to every protection the state can provide. It's pretty bad when an inmate of a security institution does not have security.

There is reason to believe jails and prisons in North Carolina rank pretty low in the scale of priorities fixed in the public mind. It takes something rather dramatic to change attitudes in that field; and we're told that following one such dramatic instance, jails began moving to acquire full-time matrons.

The Craggy Prison incident alone does not carry with it all that impact. The sum total of a year's such assaults in state institutions would, we think, focus a great deal more attention on needed remedial matters in the prisons.

An End To Tax Break?

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — From filmland to the farmyard, many favorite tax shelters used by wealthy investors to hide from the tax collector are being marked for closing by Congress.

The House Ways and Means Committee, drafting a tax revision bill, is taking aim at assorted legal devices by which some higher-income Americans are managing to earn a lot but pay little or nothing in taxes.

In four working days, the committee has given tentative approval to tax-law changes which would bring about $5.7 billion more into the federal treasury over the coming six years.

"The End" would come, effective immediately, for major tax shelters in movies, including horror and pornographic films as well as general box-office attractions, if the committee's 25 to 0 decision Thursday eventually becomes law.

"Doubtless some successful, and perhaps significant, films have been financed through shelters. But not every film which is shelter-backed necessarily falls in this category. The staff understands that a large number of shelter-backed films include horror and pornographic films," congressional tax staff experts told the panel.

Next week, the committee turns to tax shelters in professional sports franchises.

"Because tax losses may be generated which can be used to offset other income, professional sports franchises have become increasingly attractive tax shelter investments for individuals in high marginal tax brackets," the congressional experts said.

So far, the committee has (Continued on page 5)

THIS AFTERNOON

A High-rise Prison Policy

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—Without a great deal of public debate, and in obvious disregard of a number of alternatives which have been put forth, the Holshouser administration has committed North Carolina to a policy of high-rise buildings for the prison system.

There had been a lot of discussion of the various approaches in different committees of the General Assembly—the committee on governmental waste chaired by State Senator I. C. Crawford, D-Buncombe; the Base Budget Committee chaired by State Rep. Billy Watkins, D-Granville; committees of both houses concerned with corrections, and by a special commission chaired by former State Senator Eddie Knox, D-Mecklenburg.

The Knox Commission, more than any other single body, helped bring the philosophical debate into focus.

Other Ways
In sum, that group made up of legislators, penologists, lawmen, and judges, formulated the belief that numerous other alternatives to building expensive high-rise prison buildings are available.

Suggestions included smaller, scattered prison units with inmates doing the work to renovate and provide single-cells; speedier parole and probation activities; heavier emphasis on work and study release; a thorough review of prison philosophy in North Carolina with some determination of the route which ought to be followed, with more attention to rehabilitation rather than new buildings.

In various other committees of the General Assembly, questions have been raised on merits of the existing high-rise prison unit at Morganton, with prison officials confessing that the structure likely causes more problems than it solves in handling the inmate population—problems involving use of the elevators, surveillance of inmates on various floors, feeding and providing medical care, etc.

Early on in budget considerations prison officials lobbied for over $100 million for new construction; the amount was chopped sharply, but the prisons still got about $6 million to go with about $15 million already in a building reserve for a total of $21 million.

Wanted Plan
"But it was our understanding in providing that amount that they would come back with a plan, an overall plan of where we are going with our prison system," complains Base Budget Chairman Watkins.

At a recent meeting of the governor's advisory budget commission, Watkins' probing of the prison policy was cut off sharply by prompt approval of a proposal by Corrections Secretary David L. Jones to proceed with spending the $21 million reserve.

The funds will go for a 10-story prison at Salisbury housing some 425 youthful offenders; and a twin facility to be built at Hillsborough which will be up for approval next May. In addition, the commission authorized $380,000 to lease, renovate, and operate a prison unit at the abandoned Torrence Lytle School in Mecklenburg County.

Demanding a plan be shown him during that commission meeting, Watkins was told by administration officials: "This is the plan."

Watkins argued that he and many legislators are opposed to high-rises, have said so often, and expected some discussion of philosophy—not just a pre-ordained decision.

Such concentrations of 400-plus inmates not only create control problems within the facility, but make it impossible to find work release opportunities for that many inmates, Watkins says. Other critics complain that the massive sums would be better spent for rehabilitation programs than buildings, while still others are appalled at the per-cell cost of more than $22,000 included in the approved plan.

Living On Beacon Hill

WASHINGTON—The nice thing about the TV show Beacon Hill, which is the American version of "Upstairs, Downstairs," is that you can identify with the characters.

My wife and I were watching this story of an Irish Boston family in 1920 with six servants, and it was interesting how we differed on whom we identified with.

I seemed to be sympathetic with the people who lived upstairs—the Lassiter family. But my wife was on the servants' side.

"Why are you on their side?" I demanded.

"Because they seem to have to do the things I do. Serve the breakfast, make the beds, drive the car, clean the silver and be sure the master of the house is happy. I understand them. They're my people."

"Nonsense," I said. "If I'm the master of the house, then you're the mistress. You shouldn't worry about servants' problems. They seem very happy in their work."

"I may be the mistress of the house, but I also happen to be the servant. In fact, I'm more servant than mistress. If you gave me six live-in help I might not identify so much with the people in the kitchen."

"Ah, but that's the secret of Beacon Hill," I said. "They are taking women like yourself into a fantasy land of butlers, maids and chauffeurs, so you can dream of a life you'll never have. If you start worrying about the servants, all the fun will go out of it."

"You must pretend you're Mrs. Lassiter who can have breakfast in bed, a secretary to type her mail, a daughter to run the house and a staff to give a party for 60 people with a 4 hours' notice. For an hour CBS expects the American woman to forget her cares and make believe she is married to a rich, powerful, loving man who can pick up the phone and solve any personal or domestic problem at the drop of a hat."

My wife said, "I honestly try to pretend. But then I see all those dishes in the kitchen after the party and I say to myself, 'My God, I better wash them tonight, or I'll have to do them in the morning.'"

"But that's wrong," I said. "You mustn't worry about the dishes after a party. When I watch the show, I don't give the Lassiter dishes a second thought."

"You don't give your own dishes a second thought, either," she replied.

"Now let's not get off the subject," I warned. "Millions of dollars were spent to make Americans forget their dirty dishes. Try to imagine yourself in the bedroom. It's 10 o'clock in the morning and you've just finished breakfast. The upstairs maid comes in and asks you which dress you would like to wear. The butler knocks on the door and informs you that Brian, the chauffeur, is at your disposal for the day. Your secretary asks you if you would like her to make a reservation for you at the Copely Plaza for lunch."

"I can't go," my wife said. "Why can't you go?"

"Because I have to wait for the plumber. He promised to come two days ago, and he still hasn't shown up," he said.

"On Beacon Hill the mistress doesn't have to wait for the plumber! She doesn't even have to call the plumber. She has people to do it. If you start worrying about when the plumber comes, you'll never get with the show."

"I don't think I ever will," she admitted. "You know something? I think the program only appeals to men. Most American husbands are like Mr. Lassiter. They have a cook, a maid, a butler, a handyman and a chauffeur. She's called a wife."

"The American woman, on the other hand, has nothing in common with Mrs. Lassiter. The only one in the whole show she understands is the housekeeper. Anything that goes on upstairs on Beacon Hill is pure science fiction. I'll watch the show with you, but I'm still rooting for the people in the kitchen."

I was shocked and said so. "You're a traitor to your class."

40 Years Ago Today

September 12, 1935
The Rural Electrification Administration in Washington, with $100 million at its disposal, stands ready and willing to assist North Carolina in every way possible to bring electricity, including electrical appliances, to the hundreds of thousands of people on farms and in rural sections which do not have electricity available, according to chairman Dudley Bagley of the N.C. Rural Electrification Authority, following his return from Washington Wednesday.

While he received a very cool reception there two or three weeks ago, he was received with open arms on this last trip. It seems that on his first trip to Washington, REA officials thought Bagley was from South Carolina, which apparently does not rate with the REA at all.

On this last trip, however, officials told Bagley they would be happy to cooperate with the North Carolina program.

Laura Ingalls hopped off early today on a projected non-stop flight to New York in an attempt to lower the west-to-east transcontinental record of Amelia Earhart.

The diminutive flier who recently made the quickest east-to-west cross-country journey by a woman flier, was determined to reach New York in less than 17 hours, seven minutes and 30 seconds, the time made by Miss Earhart.

Ford Popularity 'Steady'

By GEORGE GALLUP
PRINCETON, N.J.—Although approval of the way President Ford is handling his job continues to outweigh disapproval, his performance in office is thus far viewed by the public as lackluster.

In the latest survey, 46 per cent approve, 37 disapproved, and 17 per cent are undecided—findings that almost exactly match those recorded in the previous (early August) survey.

While approval outweighs disapproval, the President appears to be off the pace set by his predecessors at a comparable point in time.

1. First of all, one fourth of persons in the current survey, when asked to name Ford's most important achievement to date, say they believe he has accomplished nothing of note. Another 25 per cent are undecided or do not express an opinion.

At the same time, however, many credit Ford with restoring faith in the presidency and respect for the nation, following the Watergate scandals.

2. Comparatively speaking, Ford's performance has been less than impressive. Only twice since October has Ford's popularity exceeded the 50 per cent approval level. Yet after one year in office, both of Ford's Republican predecessors scored better in these popularity ratings. President Nixon had a 66 per cent approval rating after one year, while President Eisenhower had a rating of 71 per cent.

3. Ford cannot boast the rank and file party support given both Nixon and Eisenhower at comparable points in time. Today, about two-thirds of Republicans approve of Ford's performance. After a similar time in office, Nixon and Eisenhower each won approval from nine in 10 Republicans.

4. As many as one-fourth of Republicans who currently pick Ford from a list of 10 men as their top presidential choice either disapprove of his job performance or express uncertainty.

5. Finally, as indicated by earlier surveys, approval of Ford is lukewarm, with mild approval outweighing strong approval by a 3-to-2 margin.

Following is the question asked to measure presidential popularity:

"Do you approve or disapprove of the way (name of incumbent) is handling his job as President?"

Here is the full trend for Ford since taking office:

The results reported today are based on in-person interviews with 1,515 persons, 18 and older, in more than 300 scientifically selected localities across the nation during the period Aug. 15-18.

Other Editors Say We Pay Them?

(Goldsboro News-Argus)

Peace may be dear at any price, but it seems that far too often in recent history the United States is expected to cough up all the money.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has negotiated a settlement of the fighting between the Israelis and the Arabs.

After he gets back to the States we learn that the price tag to American taxpayers will run at least $9 billion over the next three years.

Both Israel and Egypt demanded of the United States large amounts of assistance before they would sign the agreements.

Kissinger agreed that the U.S. would provide Israel with $2.5 billion the first year. Egypt would get between $600 million and $800 million.

Israel would get around $3 billion the last two years and Egypt would receive $2 billion.

Syria also is expected to come in for around $100 million.

Much of what Egypt receives will be designated for military assistance—a rather strange item for a "peace" agreement.

Meanwhile, expense of the 150-man American force which will be camped between the two opposing forces has not been made clear. Sources indicate, to the surprise of no one, that the U.S. will assume most of the cost. (Who else?)

The big losers when war erupts in the Middle East are the countries involved.

The recent wars have been devastating in the loss of lives and equipment.

It seems strange, then, that anyone sees it as incumbent on the U.S. to pay both sides to stop killing each other.

And this is especially true when we are paying them with money we don't have.

Senator Jesse Helms recently expressed concern that there would be a race between extremists on the Israeli and the Arab side to see who could first kidnap and hold for ransom one of the Americans stationed with the peace keeping force.

Why bother to kidnap anyone?

Mr. Kissinger has already agreed to pay the ransom.

Strength For Today

AFRAID TO DIE?
Most people are afraid to die.

Yet if they only knew it, the thing to fear is a wasted life. There is nothing about death to be afraid of, if one has lived a good life. Death is as much a part of life as being born. A wise man said many years ago, "Do not be afraid to die, but be afraid not to live well."

Nothing brings as keen a sense of despair as looking back over a meaningless, empty life.

It is to the present that we should give our attention.

Eternity is something God attends to; the responsibility for a well-spent present, however, rests upon us. What heaven and hell are to be after death rests in wiser hands than ours, but whether here on earth we live every day in the heaven of love or the hell of selfishness and futility is a choice God has left to us.

Let us therefore not be afraid of death. It is life and its possibilities which alone should give us pause.

Suspicious Of Explanations?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — You suspect that it's your lack of understanding, of course; and you can't be blamed for that. When some of the top officials in the nation give their opinion, who are you to question it?

Nevertheless, you sense that despite your ignorance of the subject matter there is something suspect about the official explanations and the establishment consensus of opinion.

Weren't we sold on the notion that stocks are a good hedge against inflation? Billions of dollars of stocks were sold on that basis, and thousands of people who brought those stocks never again will be so trusting.

Over a long period of time it does seem that stocks rise faster than inflation. But over short periods of time—a few months to a few years—you just can't depend on stocks out-performing prices.

What about prices reacting to the law of supply and demand? It's a very neat theory, but if that's the law then the market place is lawless. It breaks that law.

You don't even need to have been exposed to Economics I in high school to observe that companies and industries with big inventories of unsold goods are raising rather than lowering prices.

If you consider yourself and your family to be typical or average or ordinary—it hardly matters what term is used—you are well aware of the housing paradox. And you might ask how in the world we're going to resolve it.

The problem is this: the typical single-family new house being built today sells for between $37,000 and $41,000 or thereabouts, depending upon the survey used. Contrast this with the median family income of less than $13,000.

Given these figures, a good many mortgage lenders would tell the applicant: "Sorry, you just don't qualify." There are various rules of thumb for measuring an applicant's ability to handle a mortgage, and by most of them a $13,000 income doesn't qualify a family to buy a $37,000 house.

Incomes have been chasing housing prices for several years now and haven't closed the gap. Moreover, there is no assurance that it will be closed, not with land and labor and materials costs as they are.

You might console yourself by saying that somehow it will be worked out—that somebody certainly is working on the problem. Maybe so, but so far they haven't got the answer, and housing remains in the doldrums. And so do prospective buyers.

Senators Will Question Terrorist Hideout Demolished Lockheed Over Payoffs

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee plans to grill officials of Lockheed Aircraft Corp. about company payoffs in Saudi Arabia and Indonesia.

Documents released before today's hearing show Lockheed paid hundreds of thousands of dollars to its Saudi Arabian middleman, Adnan Khashoggi, for use as "under the table" payoffs to government officials.

A Lockheed spokesman declined comment on the documents in advance of the testimony by company officials today.

condition of buying spare airplane parts from Lockheed.

—When it was pointed out that the IRS might question the deduction of the Indonesian kickbacks, Lockheed set up a dummy agency as a conduit to make the payments look like legitimate sales commissions.

—Lockheed padded the price of the C130 Hercules transport planes it sold to the Saudi air force to produce money for Khashoggi to use as payoffs. The price was inflated by $100,000 to $200,000 per airplane, according to one Lockheed memo, with most of the money going to Khashoggi "for so-called 'under the table' compensation to Saudi officials in order to get the contract signed."

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The Argentine army demolished a terrorist hideout with one blast from a 90mm mortar Friday, killing three leftist guerrillas inside the house who had battled security forces for six hours with hand grenades and Molotov cocktails, police said.

On the political front, the Argentine foreign minister announced that President Isabel Peron will start a month's leave of absence Saturday because she is "very tired and her doctors have recommended a rest." He said Senate President Italo Luder will be acting president.

Political violence raged unbated across the country and police reported at least eight new deaths.

Police reports said one shell from a 90mm army mortar virtually destroyed the terrorist house in the Florencia Varela suburb 15 miles south of here. Three guerrillas were found dead in the wreckage but police said other terrorists may have escaped.

The police said they called on the army for support after the leftist Montonero terrorists, hiding in a home, launched hand grenades and incendiary bomb cocktails at advancing officers.

Four policemen were wounded in the six-hour gun-battle, police said. The army issued no report on the battle.

One of the day's other victims was a lone terrorist who was planting a bomb at a monument to Argentine freedom fighter Domingo Sarmiento outside the capital when the device went off, tearing his body to bits, police said.

Police in Tucuman, 750 miles to the north, reported finding the bullet-riddled body of a young man in the center of the city and said he appeared to be the victim of a terrorist execution squad.

The army in Tucuman reported killing three guerrillas of the Marxist People's Revolutionary Army — ERP — in Tucuman.

The latest victims raised the number of deaths in political violence of the left and right to 51 in less than two weeks and to at least 410 since Jan. 1.

Full Accreditation In Counseling Field

East Carolina University's rehabilitation counselor education program, offered through the ECU School of Allied Health and Social Professions, has been fully accredited for a five-year period.

The ECU program is one of about 85 similar programs in operation at U.S. universities, and is among the 17 to have achieved the accreditation status.

Accreditation of the 17 qualifying programs was granted by the Council on Rehabilitation Education, Inc. after intensive evaluation by CORE officials. This is the first year such official accreditation was awarded by the Council.

In a letter to ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins, CORE President

Brockman Schumacher of Madison, Wis. noted that accreditation was awarded after data was collected from a variety of sources: program directors, faculty members, students, graduates, clinical practice supervisors and employers of graduates.

The ECU rehabilitation counselor education program is coordinated by Dr. Sheldon Downes. Its students enter at the graduate level after earning BS degrees in related fields. Graduates of the program are qualified for employment as counselors in vocational rehabilitation programs.

Health Of Justice Douglas Is Uppermost In Observers' Eyes

By GREGG HERRINGTON
Associated Press Writer
YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — For 9½ minutes, the courtroom was silent while William O. Douglas, the senior member of the nation's highest court, started at his hands and shuffled papers.

Two dozen reporters and spectators and the two attorneys sat silently waiting for the 76-year-old Supreme Court justice, crippled by a stroke eight months ago, to say something.

Some fidgeted nervously in the second floor courtroom of the Postal Service building in downtown Yakima while Douglas sat almost motionless for the 9½ minutes. Anxious glances were exchanged.

The silence came after Douglas heard arguments, then asked about six questions, including follow-up questions.

Finally the frail-voiced Douglas broke the silence: "I want to thank you gentlemen for a very helpful and a very spirited argument..."

"I've decided to issue a stay in this case," he intoned.

Douglas had made a surprise decision Wednesday night to come down out of his Cascade Mountains summer home Thursday to hear arguments. He has spent much of the time since his Dec. 31 stroke in hospitals and rehabilitation centers.

Some public figures have called for his resignation, claiming he can no longer handle the job.

At issue Thursday was a request in behalf of financier and Republican party backer C. Arnholt Smith and San Diego accountant Phillip A. Toft. The state of California wants to look at some testimony to a federal grand jury regarding the two men.

Douglas decided to deny the state access to those transcripts until a U.S. appeals court considers the case. So, in the scheme of things, it was a victory for the Smith-Toft side and its lawyer, Doug Simon.

But it was the health of Douglas, not the matter he heard Thursday, that fascinated the spectators and reporters.

In the parking lot before he entered the building, Douglas pivoted in the front seat of Simon's car and placed his arms around his son's neck. William Jr. then lifted his father into a wheel chair.

Douglas looked thinner than he has before. His left arm lay limply across his lap and his legs were motionless.

But his eyes were alert and, in his weak voice, he fielded reporters' questions in short, crisp phrases. There were no asides, no chuckles from Mr. Justice Douglas.

"No," he said, when asked if he was thinking of resigning.

He could foresee no circumstances that would cause him to resign and he intended to stay on the court "as long as the work remains interesting and challenging."

Later, recessing for lunch was another awkward courtroom situation.

Douglas appeared confused about what time it was.

"I'm going to propose that we recess for lunch at 12:30," he said.

Simon rose, pointed out that it was already 1 p.m. and suggested that the court recess for one hour.

Douglas concurred.

First Meet On Tuesday

The Association of Educational Office Personnel of Pitt County will hold its first meeting of the year Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Brewster Building room 103-B, on the campus of ECU.

Mrs. Lucille Sumrell of the Greenville Recreation Department will give the program on arts and crafts.

Office personnel in any educational office are eligible for membership. This includes public, private schools, university or technical institute employees.

Officers for 1975-76 are Mrs. Ursula Glisson, president; Mrs. Vivian Nichols, vice president; Mrs. Janice Jones, secretary and Mrs. Geraldine Robinson, treasurer.

Educational office personnel are urged to attend this meeting and also to mark their calendars for the District 14 North Carolina Association of Educational Office Personnel meeting to be held in Edenton at the Country Club on Tuesday, Oct. 21, when Jean Haddock, district president, of Greenville, will preside.

Speech Faculty Publish Manual

Nine members of the East Carolina University Department of Drama and Speech faculty have published "Your Speech: A Manual," a supplementary textbook for use in beginning speech courses.

The manual is edited by Dr. Helen Vane Steer, associate professor, and includes individual units contributed by Edgar R. Loessin, department chairman; and faculty members Douglas Ray, Patricia Pertalton, Stephen B. Finnan, Jeanne B. Finnan, James L. Rees, Carlton R. Benz and Rosalind Roulston.

A Concluding essay, "The Importance of Speech," was contributed by James H. Walton of the Rockville, Maryland, NUS Corporation.

Copies of the manual are available in the East Carolina University Student Supply Store.

K-of-C Prepare Fund Drive For Service Role

Plans for 1975 Operation Lamb were begun by John Ivey Smith Council No. 6600 of the Knights of Columbus at their meeting Tuesday night.

This is a statewide drive for the Knights of Columbus to solicit funds to aid mentally handicapped citizens of North Carolina. The slogan is "$75 for '75," $75,000 for this year. The campaign will be conducted Oct. 11-18 and the Pitt County co-chairmen are Kevin Carringham and Milton Jenkins.

Bill Twine and Alice Keene attended the meeting and told of the needs of the exceptional citizens of the community. They also showed films and slides of some of the work being done in this area.

The K of C Council was presented a certificate of appreciation for the work done last year in "Tootsie Roll" Operation Lamb.

voted to knock down major kinds of tax shelters in the real estate area, farming, equipment-leasing and in oil and gas drilling when developing an already-tapped field. The panel left shelters available for investing in exploratory wells.

Equipment-leasing practices, growing substantially in recent years, cover such items as airplanes, computers, railroad rolling stock and ships.

Tax shelters are used chiefly by persons with high income to invest some money in a project to build up accounting losses. These losses wipe out their regular income for purposes of computing taxes.

For example, cases from Internal Revenue Service files include a dentist with $156,000 in income who invested in a movie tax shelter and a lawyer with $151,000 in income who invested in a cattle-feeding tax shelter. Both paid no federal income tax. An executive earning $448,000 paid $1,200 because he had a real estate tax shelter.

The committee is coming up with various proposed changes in complicated tax rules. The panel's aim is to chiefly limit the use of artificial kind of losses, and thereby deal with elements which show up in shelter after shelter.

Chappaquiddic Files Still Lost

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Original police records on the Chappaquiddic incident involving Sen. Edward M. Kennedy are still missing, despite assertions by two former police chiefs that they were returned to the files last April.

Officials of the Edgartown police department at Martha's Vineyard, Mass., say they cannot find the documents. "We've looked everywhere. We honestly don't know where they are," Patricia McLeod, a special police officer, said in a telephone interview.

The mystery of the vanished records was raised recently in a book by Carl Gottlieb, a script writer for the movie "Jaws" which was filmed at the time of the Chappaquiddic incident, said in another interview that when he quit the department in 1973, he took some of the records with him.

Gottlieb said he had been told by Jesse Oliver II, then the chief of the 12-member Edgartown department, that the records of the 1969 auto accident that cost the life of Mary Jo Kopechne had disappeared from the files.

However, between the time that Gottlieb talked with Oliver and the book was published, the missing documents—including the original accident report and a copy of Kennedy's first statement to police—were said to have been returned to the department.

Dominick J. Arena, who was Edgartown's police chief at the time of the Chappaquiddic incident, said in another interview that when he quit the department in 1973, he took some of the records with him.

Now police chief in Essex Junction, Vt., Arena said he wanted the papers for his own use in answering questions from newsmen and others. "The problem was that when you get so deeply involved in something, you are constantly being questioned," Arena said. He was among the first officials to reach the bridge from which Kennedy's car plunged, and he later charged the senator with failing to report the accident.

"I have to admit—I'm somewhat red-faced—that I had some of the originals," he said. "I didn't realize there were no copies in the files. But since then I've sent them all back. You could come in here with a search warrant and you wouldn't find anything."

Oliver was suspended as police chief for accepting money from Universal Studios, makers of "Jaws," and other alleged improprieties. He has since resigned but supports Arena's claim to having returned the Chappaquiddic material. "He sent the records back last April and they were there in the files when I left the department in June," Oliver said. As to what happened to the documents since then or why the present department officials can't find them, he said, "I have no idea. That's their problem."

Four Collisions In Greenville Traffic

More than $2,400 property damage resulted yesterday from a series of four traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police.

Heaviest damage, police said, resulted from a 4:30 p.m. collision on Greenville Boulevard at the Arlington Boulevard intersection, involving cars driven by Carol Ann Tucker of Winterville and Elvin Woodrow Mills of Route 2, Farmville.

Officers, who estimated damage at $400 to the Tucker car and $600 to the Mills auto, made no charges.

Joseph Alfred Nunn of 203 Westhavan Dr. was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident following investigation of a 5:48 p.m. collision on Memorial Drive, 1,000 feet South of the Langley Street intersection.

Officers reported the Nunn truck collided with a car operated by Jesse Junior Cayton of Route 8, Greenville resulting in an estimated $300 damage to the Cayton car and $250 damage to the Nunn truck.

Investigation of a 10 a.m. collision on Memorial Drive north of the Third Street intersection resulted in Alvin Lehman Tyndall of Farmville being charged with following too close.

Investigators reported a truck driven by Tyndall collided with a truck operated by Mary Wooten Cogdell of 303 Dudley St., resulting in an estimated $300 damage to the Tyndall vehicle and $200 damage to the Cogdell truck.

Cars driven by Gail Louise Stamper of Reno, Nevada and Larry Miles Dunning of Greensboro collided about 5:45 p.m. at the intersection of Memorial and Village Drives, according to police.

Officers, who estimated damage at $200 to the Stamper car and $175 to the Dunning vehicle, charged Miss Stamper with exceeding a safe speed.

Church Holding Luncheon

St. James Methodist Church is honoring its ECU faculty members and Methodist ECU freshmen at a covered dish luncheon this Sunday at 12:15 p.m. and also invites them to Sunday School and Worship Services.

St. James is also celebrating its 23rd year of ministry Sunday. Two laymen will be recognized for their service during the past year.

Bus service will be provided to call dormitories before Sunday School, Worship and afterward. A host family from St. James will be seated at each table during the luncheon, with students and faculty being served first.

St. James encourages students and faculty to participate in the life of programs of the church.

QUARTERLY MEET
Quarterly meeting services will be observed at Little Creek F.W.B. Church, Rt. 1, Ayden this weekend. The public is invited.

THINK SAFETY...
...Think Sunday

We can't miss them — these signs along the intersections of our streets. They protect our school children from physical harm. We see the sign... and slow down.

Most of us are deeply concerned about the safety of our youngsters... and these signs can be a reminder of a further obligation our society has to its youth. There are dangers in life for which only religious training and faith can prepare us.

Boys and girls approaching maturity deserve the spiritual protection which Christian education provides.

Whenever you approach a school crossing, slow down! But, just don't think safety—think SUNDAY!

Lebanon Army Creates Buffer

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Army troops manned three buffer zones between warring Christians and Moslems in northern Lebanon today. There was no resistance to their deployment. About 2,000 troops took positions between the Moslem city of Tripoli and the Christian town of Zagharta five miles to the east, and on the northern and southern outskirts of Tripoli. Army patrols also joined police security units in the streets of Tripoli, Lebanon's second largest city 50 miles north of Beirut.

Troops were dispatched to the Christian village of Beit Mallat, 18 miles northeast of Tripoli, where three persons were reported killed and six wounded in a Moslem attack Thursday.

The fighting was reported intensifying as the troops raced to the scene.

Sporadic shooting and explosions were reported between Tripoli and Zagharta Thursday, but Tripoli was calm.

A traffic accident nine days ago touched off clashes between the two religious communities in the Tripoli area, and there was hard fighting for three days after Christians killed 12 Moslems in a bus ambush last Sunday. More than 100 persons have been killed and 250 wounded.

Although more than 2,000 persons were killed in Christian-Moslem fighting in Beirut and eastern Lebanon earlier this year, the army was not previously ordered to intervene because the Moslems contended the officer corps was pro-Christian.

But there was unusual pressure on the government to take action this time because Premier Rashid Karami is a Sunni Moslem from Tripoli, President Suleiman Franjeh is a Maronite Christian from Zagharta, Franjeh's son, Tony, is a Christian leader in the area, and Karami was put into office in July to end the communal warfare.

The heads of Lebanon's two main Moslem communities, Mufti Hassan Khaled of the Sunnis and Imam Moussa Sadr of the Shiites, endorsed the use of the troops.

The Christians in Zagharta also hailed the troop intervention.

Work Slowdown By Asheville Policemen

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Police plan to begin a work slowdown at 3 p.m. today after receiving what they considered an unsatisfactory response to a demand for an immediate 25 per cent raise.

"This is a protest action. We will do nothing to hurt the public," said Detective Sgt. W. L. Dillingham, president of the local chapter of the Fraternal Order of Police, after the slowdown vote Thursday.

Dillingham said policemen would report to work as usual, but that they would "filter" all calls and answer only emergencies. He said felons would be arrested, but public drunks would not be picked up, and minor traffic regulations would not be enforced.

Asked about possible disciplinary action under city civil service regulations, Dillingham said, "If one is dismissed because of this, all will leave."

Police protection will be provided for a football game tonight at Memorial Stadium between Asheville High and Pisgah High schools, Dillingham said. The 18 policemen assigned to the game are off-duty officers paid by the city school board, he said.

Mayor Richard A. Wood Jr., asked about the possible violation of city regulations should a slowdown occur, answered, "No comment" about suspension of officers.

He was asked about the general walkout threatened by police should an officer be suspended. Wood said, "There's a very heavy burden on every police officer on the position he takes on this matter. But the civil service rules will be enforced."

Firemen asked for an immediate 30 per cent raise at Thursday's City Council meeting which turned down the policemen. Firemen left apparently satisfied with promises from several councilmen that increased pay for all city employees would be given "highest priority."

The firemen indicated no threat of a work slowdown.

The pay raises asked by the police and firemen would amount to about $526,000 a year. The city finance director said the money is not presently in the budget, and would probably require an increase in city taxes.

Bicyclist Hurt In A Collision

Ann James Johnson of 103 Kendleworth Dr. was injured this morning when the bicycle she was riding collided with a car about 8:20 on Charles Street, 460 feet South of the Southview Drive intersection.

Police identified the driver of the car involved as Luke Best of 1407 Colonial Ave. and estimated damage at $25 to the car and $30 to the bicycle.

No charges were reported.

Scholarships To 5 In AFROTC

Five cadets enrolled in the East Carolina University Air Force ROTC program have been awarded Air Force scholarships.

Each scholarship covers full tuition cost, laboratory expenses, incidental fees and an allowance for books, as well as $100 a month in non-taxable pay.

The five cadet recipients are William Kevin Johnson of Havelock, David Charles Devoe of Fayetteville, Robert M. Haley Jr. of Durham, Bernard Francis Lambe Jr. of Limestone, Maine, and William Michael Pryor of Rockville, Maryland.

Top-Rating In Telethon

Col. C.R. Blake, chairman of the Pitt County Democratic Telethon Committee, announced that Pitt Democrats received a top rating in the state for their participation in the National Democratic Party Telethon in July.

Blake said that Pitt's pre-telethon contribution was the second highest in North Carolina in terms of the amount given per registered party member. In counties with more than 10,000 registered Democrats, Pitt County was the highest, he noted.

According to Blake, Pitt's 23,000 Democrats raised approximately $1,000 prior to the telethon. He added that the amount is equal to about ten per cent of the state's pre-telethon contribution.

Half the net proceeds of the telethon go to support the programs and operations of the National Democratic Party, it was explained, while the remaining half is returned to the individual states for support of state and county party operations.

Cites Volume Of Leaf Sales

FARMVILLE—Leaf grades accounted for most of the volume on yesterday's sale here, according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

He said cutters and smoking leaf were next in volume. Offerings consisted of more nondescript grades than on previous days. Top price on several piles of choice leaf grades was $1.20 a pound. With the marketing of more quality grades, the average for the week was the highest of the season. The market sold 380,652 pounds for $407,645 for an average of $1.07.09 per hundred pounds. To date the market has sold 17,657,252 pounds for $17,071,297, averaging $96.68. Stabilization receipts amounted to 4.83 per cent of gross sales.

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock prices rebounded half-heartedly from three days of broad losses today, despite news several major banks boosted their prime rates a quarter point to 8 per cent.

The noon Dow Jones industrial average had gained 6.49 to 819.15, with issues gaining in price outnumbering losers by nearly a 2 to 1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange. Glamors and blue chips dominated the list of point-sized gainers, however.

During the session, First National City Bank and several other major banks increased the rate charged on loans to their big business borrowers, the first such rise since Aug. 8. But analysts said the market had already factored that bad news into stock prices in the previous three sessions when the Dow index declined more than 27 points.

Federal National Mortgage, the Big Board volume leader, fell 1/4 to 13.

On the American Exchange, the market value index added 0.08 to 83.80.

The NYSE's composite stock index added 0.26 to 44.62.

Bucs, ASU Meet In Key Southern Game

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
Each week, the bulletin board in the hallway at Scales Fieldhouse contains information about the upcoming East Carolina University football game. Usually, it contains lineups, formations, and other necessary information for the players. This week, the board is covered with black paper. It has only one message: "23-21." And every player who passes by knows what it means.

Last year, East Carolina, as the defending Southern Conference champion, went to Boone to meet Appalachian State University. The Mountaineers stunned the Pirates with a 20-0 halftime lead. But in the second half, the pendulum swung to the Bucs, who rushed back to take a 21-20 lead late in the game. They had the opportunity to salt it away with just one first down, but they failed to pick it up twice, once because of a penalty, and the other time, well, they just didn't make the yardage.

Appalachian got the ball, and a desperation field goal of 47 yards with a strong wind behind it, easily cleared for the 23-21 victory.

It is a loss the Pirates haven't forgotten.

"We've lived with it for a year," Coach Pit Dye said. "We are looking forward to the game."

Dye noted that Wednesday's practice was the "best we've had since I've been at East Carolina." Dye said this was due to good coaching by his staff and good follow-through by the players. "If we can get this kind of intensity every day, we'll be okay, and our potential will be unlimited. And if we can do it in practice, we can carry it over into the game."

Because of this, Dye feels better about this week's game than last week's with State. At that time, he called the offense sluggish—and it turned out that way in Saturday night's 26-3 loss to N.C. State.

Dye, however, plans no changes in his offensive lineup, with the possible exception of quarterback. Jimmy Southernland may get the starting bid over Mike Weaver.

"We want to get the ball to our halfbacks (Ken Strayhorn and Willie Hawkins) more. But we have to make our basic plays go, too."

The coach sees Appalachian

State as a bigger team than State in the offensive line. "They run from the wishbone, but they do it a little different from us. And despite the fact that we run the wishbone, it's difficult to defend. I hope that we've improved on our defense. We did make a lot of mistakes last week that could have killed us in a close game."

One area that particularly bothers Dye is the kicking game—both offensively and defensively. Appalachian has the number one punter in the country in Joe Parker, and they have an outstanding return man in Devon Ford, whose returns last year were a killing part of the game against ECU. "We can't keep giving up the ball in the four-down zone (inside the 30) either. In two of our last three losses (Richmond and State) we gave up easy scores. It doesn't take many of those to kill you."

Dye praised the Appalachian linebackers, Mike Staton and Julius Thomas, as two of the best. "They also have an outstanding secondary." They use good techniques, and I look for a good ol' fashioned game if we carry out our part of the bargain," Dye said.

Offensively, Dye has respect for the ASU quarterback, Robbie Price, and in the other runners, notably Emmitt Hamilton. Ford, who also plays split end, is a danger at all times.

"I don't know how much difference it will make by our having played a game," the coach said. "Playing State had to show us some of our mistakes, so we've had a chance to improve. But at the same time, Appalachian got a chance to see what we can do. We haven't been able to scout them in return. They, also, could be hurt by first game mistakes. And they've also had a full year to prepare for us."

Dye feels that emotions will be a big factor in the game—for both teams. "They know they have to beat us to have a chance at the title (due to their schedule), and we remember what happened last year. When you get beat like that, you don't forget, and you should fight a little harder."

Kickoff for the game is slated for 7:30 p.m. in Appalachian State's Conrad Stadium.

'The Hawk' Flies High As Pirate Speedster

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
A few years back, East Carolina had a couple of running backs that were referred to as "Crump" and "The Horn."

Those days are gone, as are Carlester Crumpler and Les Strayhorn. But there's another "Horn" in the backfield, Les' brother Kenny, and he's got a new running mate.

Now, you just might be hearing about "Hawk" and "The Horn."

Hawk is sophomore Willie Hawkins, a graduate of D.H. Conley High School here in Pitt County. While a prepster, he set the gridiron ablaze with his speed and moves, and now he's ready to do it for the Pirates of East Carolina.

Last Saturday night, against N.C. State, Hawk carried the ball only five times, but he picked up 35 yards, a highly respectable 7.0 yards per lug. He also caught one pass for five yards.

Tigerettes Claim Win

WILLIAMSTON—Williamston High School's girls tennis team opened its season with a 5-5 victory over Northeastern High School of Elizabeth City.

Williamston captured five of the six singles matches to put the match away. Northeastern came back to sweep the doubles, but it did them no good.

The match was a hard-fought one, however. In the singles matches, four went into third sets, and two games during the afternoon went to the seventh games.

Williamston makes a return visit to Northeastern on Tuesday in its next match.

Summary:
Nancy Sharp (W) defeated Sheri Commander, 6-1, 6-2.
Sissy Taylor (W) defeated Cindy Meekins, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.
Rachel Roberts (W) defeated Patricia Stiles, 7-6, 4-6, 6-2.
Segried Barrow (NE) defeated Debbie Moble, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1.

Lisa Robertson (W) defeated Bonite Beattie, 6-3, 3-6, 6-0.
Susy Orton (W) defeated Sharmin Belvins, 7-5, 6-2.
Meekins-Commander (NE) defeated Sharp-Roberts, 8-5.
Stiles-Barrow (NE) defeated Kristi Rogerson-Lucia Peele, 8-3.

Harper-Foster (NE) defeated Lisa Roebuck-Beth Boyd, 8-3.

Willie Hawkins

will be. I made the trip last year, but I didn't play except for the specialty teams. We don't like to lose, and we want revenge for last year." Appalachian rallied for a 23-21 win over the Bucs on a last-minute field goal last year.

When not on the football field, Hawkins enjoys basketball and listening to music.

Aside from making the first team, Hawkins has set no other goals for himself for this year. "I've got a goal, but it's a team goal—to win the Southern Conference championship again. I think we're going to get ourselves straightened out in time to do it too."

And that apparently means by Saturday, since the ASU game is the kickoff of the conference season.

Baby Rams Take First

SNOW HILL—Greene Central's junior varsity football team rolled to a 13-0 victory over Washington last night. It was the opening game of the year for the Baby Rams.

Ronnie Waters scored the first touchdown for Greene Central, going in from the one-yard line. The other score came on a three-yarder, also by Waters. Russell Brann kicked the PAT following the second touchdown.

THREE TIES

Koosman Stifles Bucs As Mets Take 7-0 Win

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

"Jerry Koosman pitched to me better tonight than any pitcher ever in the major leagues," said Pittsburgh's Al Oliver, who had one of those nights: three strikeouts and a double play in four trips to the plate.

Koosman, who had lost four of his last five decisions, stifled the Pirates on six hits Thursday night, pitching the New York Mets to a 7-0 whitewash that cut Pittsburgh's lead over Philadelphia in the National League's East Division to five games.

The Philadelphia Phillies, meanwhile, moved to within five games of the Pirates by beating the Montreal Expos 5-0 in a game halted by rain in the seventh inning.

Dave Kingman, purchased by the Mets from the San Francisco Giants in February, tied a club record when he belted his 34th home run of the season in the fifth inning. It equaled the most ever hit by a Mets player in one season, a mark set by Frank Thomas in 1962, the team's first year.

It also kept Kingman tied with for the major league lead with Mike Schmidt, who belted his 34th homer for the Phils Thursday night.

Phils 5, Expos 0
Larry Christenson, 10-5, limited Montreal to three hits in the game which was halted by rain in the seventh.

The Phils got two runs in the first inning, helped by a pair of wild pitches by Montreal starter Steve Rogers, 10-11. Garry Maddox had a run-scoring single in the third, Schmidt hit a solo homer leading off the fourth and Larry Bowa scored his third run of the game in the seventh.

Dodgers 5, Reds 2
Steve Garvey's 15th homer

backed the seven-hit pitching of rookie Rick Rhoden and allowed the Dodgers to win their season series from Cincinnati 10-8.

But that was small consolation for Los Angeles, which was expected to battle for the pennant in the NL West but instead finds itself 17½ games behind the Reds, who clinched first place last week.

Cubs 12, Cards 6
Two-run singles by Manny Trillo and pitcher Rick Reuschel highlighted a six-run first inning for the Cubs, and St. Louis never caught up. It was the 11th loss in the last 15 games for the slumping Cards, who got home runs from Lou Brock and Keith Hernandez.

Astros 4, Giants 3
Rob Andrews' tie-breaking single in the 12th inning drove in pinch-hitter Roger Metzger with the winning run for Houston. Metzger had walked and moved to second on Skip Jutze's sacrifice. After Ken Boswell walked, Andrews singled up the middle.

Cubs Bow To N. Bern

New Bern High School's junior varsity football team romped to a 28-0 victory over the Rose High Rampant Cubs yesterday.

It marked the second straight shutout loss to the Rampants. Rose had a threat early in the game when New Bern fumbled away the kickoff, but they were unable to push the ball in. One other threat in the third period was also crushed.

New Bern grabbed the lead in the second period, scoring on a four-yard run by Ellsworth. Sidberry added the two-point conversion for an 8-0 lead. They came back with another score just before the half as Hale scored from the six. Sidberry again converted for a 16-0 edge. The final two scores came in the final period. Ellsworth ran one over from the 12, and passed to Sampson 10 yards for the final score.

Rose returns to action next Thursday, traveling to Kinston. New Bern 0 16 0 12-28

Holland Jumps Into The Lead

For sale! One used, and slightly cracked crystal ball... Cheap!

We've discovered that we need a new one after last week's opening games. Thank goodness for Roanoke or we would have had a perfect week among the area high schools.

Our picks went down to defeat after defeat for a disastrous 1-7 record on the week. No way to recoup, so we'll try and forget it.

As far as our panel of experts went, some were experts, and some—same fellow again—proved not to be. The scores ranged for 9-1 to 5-5. Oh, well.

There is plenty of high school action this week, and we'll take a look at that first.

Roanoke will be at Williamston for the annual inter-county rivalry of Martin County. The Redskins are as tough as the Eagles ever were. They look like they're on the warpath again, and the Tigers are their game. Roanoke to win it.

North Pitt travels to West Craven. The Panthers nearly pulled it off last week, leading until the final period. This week, the assignment is tougher, and we have to pick West Craven to win it.

Farmville Central goes to Eastern Wayne in a battle of former Eastern Carolina Conference foes. The Warriors nipped Greene Central last week, while Farmville topped Williamston. It should be a good game, and we'll pick the Jaguars to ease by.

West Cartaret is at Conley. The Vikings showed surprising strength last week, and they have the home field advantage this time out. We must go with Conley to win this one.

Ahoskie goes to Ayden-Grifton. The Chargers, ranked as one of the top teams in the 3-A ranks, were upset last week by Kinston. They may get it all together—but not against Ahoskie.

Chocowinity is at Jamesville with both teams looking for their first win. Jamesville got badly beaten last week, while Chocowinity has a loss and a tie to its credit. Chocowinity should add a win to its list.

Woody's Ramblin's

BY WOODY PEELE

Greene Central goes to Washington for a tough game. The Rams seem to have a rough slate before going into their conference games, and it may help them then. But in this one, the Pam Pack will come out on top.

George Holland leads our panel of pickers following the first week with a 9-1 record. He missed only the Missouri-Alabama upset. Jack Whichard, Joe Jenkins and Diane Allen all are one back at 8-2, while last year's leader Tom Baines struggled in with a 6-4 mark. This writer stumbled in at 5-5.

Rose travels to New Bern to meet a team with two games behind it, one a big loss and the other a big win. The Rampants will be without hard-running Doug Paschal and that should turn it into a defensive contest. The panel, in full knowledge, still gives Rose the consensus pick, five calling wins, and one, Miss Allen, looking for a loss.

East Carolina goes against arch-rival Appalachian State, and the panel turns in a similar decision. This game is probably one of the most important in the Southern—and is extremely important to the Pirates. A win is almost a must for them. Our panel feels last year won't be repeated. All pick the Pirates except Holland, who gives his nod to Appalachian.

Other consensus picks: Citadel over Presbyterian; Cincinnati over Richmond; Clemson over Tulane; Tennessee and Maryland, toss-up; Virginia over Navy; Furman and Tennessee Tech, toss-up; Delaware over VMI; Southern Cal over Duke; State over Wake; and Ohio State over Michigan State.

Stars From North Carolina Help Southern Cal In Quest For Win

By DAN BERGER
AP Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) —

When Duke meets fourth-ranked Southern California tonight in the college football opener for both schools, the stars are likely to be quarterback Vince Evans of Greensboro, N.C., and tackle Marvin Powell of Fayetteville, N.C.

Funny thing is, though, that both play for favored Southern Cal, not for the Blue Devils, whose home base is North Carolina. Southern Cal rarely recruits outside California, but when the Trojans do go farther afield for their talent, they usually come up with experts.

Evans, despite a proclivity to fumble, inherits the spot owned last year by Pat Haden, the sure-armed passer who helped the Trojans achieve a 10-1-1 mark and a No. 2 national ranking.

Powell anchors a solid offensive front wall that averages 238 pounds.

The Duke-Southern Cal clash is one of two major college games on tonight's card. The other sends Texas-Arlington against Texas Christian.

Top-ranked Oklahoma opens defense of its mythical national championship on Saturday by hosting Oregon at Norman, Okla.

Elsewhere Saturday among the Top Ten, No. 3 Ohio State goes to No. 11 Michigan State, No. 6 Nebraska entertains Louisiana State, Mississippi State is at No. 7 Auburn, Mississippi at No. 8 Texas A&M and Stanford at No. 10 Penn State.

Duke will be one of the six Atlantic Coast Conference schools to play this week as the league's 23rd football season gets into full swing. Only North Carolina, which opened with a victory over William and Mary last week, is idle.

Fans in North Carolina and parts of Virginia will be able to see the Duke at Southern Cal game on television, starting 11 p.m. Carolina time.

Clemson, the preseason pick in some quarters for the ACC crown, opens at home Saturday afternoon against Tulane. At the same time, Maryland will be at Tennessee and Virginia will be home to Navy. Wake Forest will be at N.C. State Saturday night in the first league game of the year.

Southern Cal Coach John McKay has two worries. His defensive line is very young and inexperienced, and he still hasn't found a tight end worthy of the name.

The Trojans send 17 Californians and five imports against a Blue Devil team that's quarterbacked by a Woody Hayes escapee. Hal Spears, a 6-foot-1, 183-pound passer hails from Ironton, Ohio, where former Duke halfback George McAfee saw him and signed him.

The Duke squad is lighter than the Trojans. And an interesting matchup is Duke's offensive line against the USC defensive front five. Gary Jeter, perhaps one of the nation's top tackles, heads the Trojan group. But he's been hurt and may see only limited action.

The Devils field four seniors and a junior on their offensive line. And the junior is center Billy Bryab, considered one of the finest in the game.

Troy Slade, Duke's flet kick returner, may keep the Devils in good field position with his twisting runs. The 180-pound senior has returned 78 punts in three seasons for a total of 738 yards.

However, McKay says one of his biggest pluses this season may be the kicking of junior college transfer Glenn Walker. The USC team averaged just 38 yards per kick last season, and McKay feels that Walker could add as much as 10 yards to that average.

"If he kicks in games as well as he kicks in practice—I have to put that if in there—we'll be in great shape, 100 per cent better than last year," McKay said.

Dempsey, Happy To Be Playing For A Winner, Kicks Oakland

By JACK STEVENSON
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Place-kicking specialists Tom Dempsey observes, "It's nice to win, but it's nicer to be on a winning club."

After two seasons with New Orleans and four with Philadelphia, the booter came to the Los Angeles Rams this year in exchange for a draft choice.

He could be the man to help solve the kicking problems of the Super Bowl contenders and his field goals of 26 and 32 yards on Thursday night provided the points in the Rams' 6-0 National Football League preseason victory over the Oakland Raiders. Many in the crowd of 68,630 thought it might be a preview of the Super Bowl.

For the Rams and their stellar defense, it was the second preseason shutout in a row and for the Raiders the first loss after five victories in which they'd averaged 30 points per game. Dempsey's kicking foot is minus toes yet he holds the NFL record with a 63-yard field goal while with New Orleans and holds the Philadelphia mark at 54 yards.

Tom missed his first try, a 31-yard attempt, but Oakland was offside. "Shame on you if you don't miss the second one," he commented after scoring with his No. 2 attempt. In the same second quarter he hit a 32-yard shot and those were the only points.

Both field goals came after interceptions of Ken Stabler passes — the first by Eddie McMillan and the second by Dave Elmendorf.

The Rams also intercepted four Oakland passes while giving up three themselves in the defensive struggle that cost the Raiders a chance to become the first Oakland team to go through the exhibition season undefeated.

Both clubs, highly rated in the NFL race, finishing with 5-1 records going into the regular season.

Elder Happy Over Round

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — "My game has kind of come around," Lee Elder said, paused, considered and then offered a wry smile.

"It'd better come around or I'll be seeing all those smiling faces on those Monday mornings."

Elder, in a deep slump since his heralded appearance at the Masters this spring and facing the possibility—even probability—of dropping back into the ranks of the qualifiers next year, uncorked a spectacular six-under-par 65 Thursday for the first round lead in the $200,000 World Open Golf Tournament.

"I'm putting better," Elder said. "That's been the trouble all year."

Elder, now 83rd on the season's money-winning list—he needs to advance to 60th or better to escape the Monday morning qualifying rounds next year—had missed the cut in three of his last four starts before making a change in his putting stance.

"I'd been too closed," the 41-year-old Elder said. "I opened up my stance a little and now I can accelerate through the ball better."

And that, he said, was the key to his best round of the season, a 28-putt, six-birdie effort that lifted him two strokes clear of one of the strongest fields of the year.

Tom Weiskopf, Rod Funseth, Pat Fitzsimons and rookie Danny Edwards shared second with 67s on the historic 7,007-yard, par-71 No. 2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club.

Ed Sneed, Elder's playing partner, Jim Dent, Rod Curl and John Schlee were at 68. Lee Trevino birdied his last hole for a 69 that left him very much in contention.

Jack Nicklaus birdied all the par five holes on the course he ranks among the world's half-dozen best, dropped another 25-foot putt but bogeyed three of four holes at one stretch and settled for a 70.

"I'm closing in on it," he said.

Arnold Palmer, just past his 48th birthday, and defending champion Johnny Miller had 73s. Palmer got his on nines of 33 and 40. He birdied four of six holes on the front nine but also had a pair of double bogeys.

Grudge Match

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Saturday's opening-day battle between Michigan State and Ohio State is shaping up as a grudge match critical in shaping the Big Ten race.

The season won't end for the loser, of course. Neither the Rose Bowl nor other post-season games will be out of reach for a team with a single loss.

But both coaches, the Spartans' Denny Stolz and the Buckeyes' Woody Hayes, are anxious to establish their teams as early favorites in the conference scramble. This game, plus Michigan's tussle with Wisconsin, should provide an early indication of where the top talent lies.

The rivalry has been spiced up by last year's 16-13 upset by MSU. And despite its strong seasonal success recently, OSU has lost three of its last four games against the Spartans.

Both teams jumped a notch in The Associated Press poll this week without donning game gear. OSU is now third and Michigan State 11th going into the initial battle. The Buckeyes were 10-1 last year, MSU 7-3-1.

Ladies Golfing

TARBORO—Four Greenville Golf and Country Club women were among winners yesterday in the Eastern North Carolina Ladies Golf Association's first fall tournament. The event was held at the Hilder County Club in Tarboro.

Harriette White took first low gross honors in the championship flight, while Betty Lou Howard had second low gross in the third flight.

Virginia Wiggers had second low gross and Jane Joyner had second low net, both in the fourth flight.

SNOW HILL—Farmville Central had taken a 3-0 lead in a tennis match with Greene Central when rain forced a halt in the match, which will be completed today.

Farmville Central's girls had gained victories in the two, three and four singles, and held a strong lead in the number one singles when the rains came.

Beth Turnage had downed Pams Edwards, 6-0, 6-0; while Jennifer Counterman had won a 6-0, 6-0 match over Sheila Wade. Margaret Yelverton beat Celeste Mewborn, 6-3, 6-0, and Sandra Stoddard was leading Teresa Whitley, 6-3, 5-1, when that match was halted.

You'll See He's Idled By Candid Camera

Very Busy Man

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — ABC did a rotten thing to journalism last season when it pink-slipped Carl Kolchak, the great Chicago wire service reporter, just because his Friday night show had no audience.

Tonight, ABC is trying to make amends with a television news reporter in a series called "Mobile One." Jackie Cooper plays the ace reporter. He works for KONE-TV, which has a busy newsroom.

You know it's busy because there's a guy running around saying, "I want to bump the wheat deal off the five o'clock and use it as the lead on the six o'clock."

Jackie Cooper is also busy. In an hour tonight, You'll see him:

- Violate union rules by working without a soundman.
- Help rescue a child from a cliff with KONE's helicopter.
- Get shot at while covering a holdup.
- Give moral support to a crippled cowboy friend.

—Save an old movie actor's mansion from the evil tax collector.

—Help free an innocent murder defendant, even though he himself is jailed for refusing to reveal his news source in the case.

—Miss a brushfire story.

He's sent to cover stories by news producer Maggie Spencer — Julie Gregg — who wants each story covered right now. She says things like, "You'd have it yesterday for Barbara Walters."

He says things like, "I protect my sources. Every reporter does." This is to a scared woman, an ex-convict who on a confidential basis gives him information that could clear the murder defendant.

He gives the information to the district attorney, but refuses to identify his source unless she wants this done and will testify in the case. The D.A. says he doesn't like Cooper's attitude.

Cooper says, "You don't like my attitude? Well, you won't like it any better on the 11 o'clock news tonight" when he breaks the big story.

By JAMES C. ROGAL
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — "Candid Camera" helped put Norman Gottschalk out of work.

The long-run television hit has received the credit — or the blame — for starting a trend toward using "real people" in television commercials rather than professional actors.

"The fellow with the pear-shaped tones and the wonderful enunciation is just not in style anymore," said Eleanor Engle, director of member relations for the Chicago local of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists.

Professionals such as Gottschalk have been going out of style since "Candid Camera" became popular, according to William Ross, executive vice president and executive creative director for the J. Walter Thompson Advertising Agency in Chicago.

But for Gottschalk, a professional actor for more than 40 years who worked mostly in the old days of radio before moving to television commercials, the trend has meant a scarcity of jobs.

"I made my last TV commercial more than a year ago," he said. "I've had nothing since. They don't audition actors for the 'real people' commercials ... but actors can be real people. Hell, they are real people."

Not in the eyes of advertisers.

"The idea is to add credibility to the commercial," Ross said. "Real people aren't necessarily as interesting or as trained as professionals, but if you put words in the mouth of a performer you are making a dramatization and you have to say so."

Under new Federal Communications Commission guidelines, a performer in a commercial actually must use the product being sold. Otherwise, the viewer has to be told.

But the premise that the technique lends veracity to a commercial is disputed, particularly by those connected with the performance side of advertising.

"I think it's dishonest because knowing the business the way I do, I know it's all staged," Gottschalk said. "If it were done for real, without prior interviews and staging and all the rest, there would be dozens of people around to see what was going on."

Nevertheless, the technique has been effective. Said Ross: "You have to assume these commercials have been successful or they wouldn't continue to be made."

Anybody who makes a commercial is paid on the same scale as a professional under AFTRA and SAG—Screen Actors Guild—contracts. It amounts to less than most people believe.

Unless a commercial is run nationally, residuals are paid only for the first 13 weeks of air time. The first time a commercial is aired, the performer receives $158. The second time he gets $83; the third through the 13th $65, and $27 for every subsequent airing. After 13 weeks the money stops even if the commercial doesn't.

Say Power Companies Paid No Income Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—A study by the Federal Power Commission says that Duke Power Co. and the Carolina Power & Light Co. paid no federal income taxes last year, although they earned $177 million.

The two were among 76 of the nation's 215 largest utilities that paid no federal income taxes in 1974, the study said.

A Duke Power official called the figures misleading. Officials of both North Carolina utilities said the profit figures don't include money tied up in expansion and in other special allowances permitted by the Internal Revenue Service.

Duke's profit last year is listed in the study as $105 million, 13.3 per cent of its operating revenue. Besides paying no federal income taxes, Duke accumulated a $1.23 million tax credit that can be used to offset future taxes, the study said.

CP&L is listed as earning $72 million, 16 per cent of its operating revenue, and gaining tax credits of $23.9 million.

Remi Taylor, Duke's manager for income tax, said that for tax purposes, Duke had no profit, but a $61 million loss. He said Duke's rate of return on investment was inadequate, and below that the North Carolina Utilities Commission allows.

Taylor said the FPC figures count as profit $72 million which Duke spent for expansion and $29 million it paid in special dividends, which it was obligated to do under long-term contracts. He also said the IRS gives special treatment to fuel costs, depreciation, and pollution-control expenses. Taylor said this relieves Duke of most federal taxes, although it did pay about $30,000 in one special category. The director of public relations for CP&L, Albert Morris, said his firm had a $44 million loss for tax purposes. He said the $72 million the FPC listed as profit includes about $54 million tied up in expansion. He also said his firm's profit is below the rate authorized by the Utilities Commission.

Both spokesmen emphasized that the IRS allowances are meant to encourage utilities to expand, and to attract money for improved services.

Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., who requested the FPC study, said the figures show "the electric utilities are in much better shape than they would have us believe."

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1975

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are able to get much of value accomplished early in the day by your own resourcefulness, but later adverse circumstances may arise and nothing is apt to be as it appears, so avoid making decisions then. Carefully study how to get out from under difficult conditions.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle official duties early in the day, then get right at proven business matters. Await a better time to increase popularity.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get data in a.m. needed for a new interest. Later, take it easy. Keep promises made and don't make any changes.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle responsibility wisely in a.m. and do nothing risky about credit, debts. Don't argue with mate, but be kind.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Strengthen associations with others in a.m. Breaking any regulations that apply to you could be disastrous right now.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Handle accumulated tasks and don't go off on tangents you would regret later. Build up your energy with health treatments.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan recreations early and then relax, otherwise nothing could go right for you in afternoon or evening. Please loved one.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can straighten out any situations effectively in the a.m. at home. More charm is required later in day. Clear up dissension.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Shop, do errands early, then relax. Not a good evening for trying to put over big deals. Prove you are conscientious.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can handle any weekend financial affairs very nicely in a.m., but later try to cut down on expenses. Do repairs.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Making plans and doing whatever most appeals to you in a.m. is fine, but don't argue with anyone at all later.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Talk over with others any monetary matters of importance and then try to build up your savings account. Make a better budget.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Listen to friend's suggestion. Get busy on whatever will improve your position in life. The social could be disappointing now.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be a born perfectionist, and will learn easily and quickly early in life from books, courses, etc. There is a tendency to become absentminded later in life, so teach to stay on the straight and narrow path and to make sure healthful exercise is a routine. Teach to be more alert to the tactics of others.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Threaten A Lot Of Dead

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A letter purportedly written by a member of the "family" of Charles Manson, convicted in the Sharon Tate murders, threatens the death of five people for every day Manson remains in prison, the Atlanta Constitution said today.

The Constitution said the letter was written two and a half months before Manson disciple Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme was charged with attempting to assassinate President Ford.

The newspaper said the letter, dated June 12, was sent to the Los Angeles Times which turned it over to federal authorities. The Constitution said it obtained a copy Thursday.

"If by July 12 our LOVE (Manson) and our family are not released, then on July 13 you'll find your first five dead PIGGIES and five more every day until they are released," the Constitution quoted the letter as saying.

"We swear if you don't, then all of you PIGS are going to need canoes to paddle through the blood that's going to fill the streets."

The Constitution said an FBI spokesman in Los Angeles confirmed the letter.

"The Los Angeles Times did receive the letter and turned it over to postal authorities who gave it to us," the spokesman said, according to the Constitution. "The case is still under investigation."

Apollo was the god of sun and youth for both the Romans and the Greeks.

FINAL STOP—President Gerald Ford, left, speaks in the main square in Portsmouth, N.H. Thursday night as Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate Louis Wyman looks on. Ford's speech in Portsmouth was his final speech for the day in New Hampshire during a 13-town swing campaigning through the state. (AP Wirephoto)

Hearing-Screening Of Pupils Underway

Screening of a number of Greenville City School students is being carried on this week in an effort to detect hearing problems.

The screening, being done at the Greenville Moose Lodge, involves over 2,000 students in kindergarten, first, second, fourth and sixth grades. It is being conducted by Dana Phillips and Sue Johnson, speech pathologists for the city schools.

The tests are being made because of the importance of hearing to a child's progress in school and general well-being, Ms. Johnson said.

If a hearing problem is detected, the child involved will be re-screened in October, Ms. Johnson said, and his parents will be notified along with referrals to doctors.

A number of volunteers are helping in the screening, Ms. Johnson said, which will be completed Monday.

The bidding:
South West North East
2 ♠ Pass 3NT Pass
6 ♠ Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: King of ♠.

Here's a chance to test your playing skill. Cover the East and West hands and see how you would play six clubs after a diamond lead. Assume you reached the slam on a straightforward auction. Though South is, perhaps, slightly weak in terms of point-count for a forcing two-bid in clubs, his hand contains only three losers. After North shows a balanced hand with at least 8 points by his jump response in no trump, South decides that, no matter what his partner holds, there should be play for six clubs.

When dummy comes down, you are not wildly enthusiastic, but the contract has several chances. One line is to ruff the opening diamond lead, cash the ace of hearts and then lay down a high club in the hope of dropping the eight. Indeed, that would be the only way to play the hand if you were in seven clubs.

However, the eight does not come down, so you have to resort to the second string in your bow. You draw the remaining trump and lead a low spade toward dummy. When West plays low, you try to guess whether he holds the king or the jack, but as the cards lie he has neither and you are doomed to defeat no matter what you do.

There is available a line which guarantees the contract against almost any distribution. The first step is to ruff the opening lead with a high trump, then cash the ace of hearts to free dummy's suit. Now lead a low trump. Naturally, one of the defenders will win this trick with the eight, but now the second trump in dummy is established as an entry.

Note that this line will succeed even if the trumps break 3-0, providing that the defender with the trumps has at least four hearts. You will be able to discard all your spade losers while he follows helplessly.

When should you double—for penalty or for take-out? Charles Goren explains all about doubling in his latest book. For a copy, write to "Goren's Doubles," in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 259, Norwood, New Jersey 07648. Enclose $1.25 in cash or checks, payable to NEWS-PAPERBOOKS.

Greenville Area Survey Slated

The University of Michigan's Survey Research Center, conducting a study on attitudes and opinions about various groups in the United States, will have an interviewer in the Greenville area for the next few weeks. Virginia Lanche will serve as interviewer in this area for the Center. Results from the interviews will be analyzed and published in statistical form.

Most Of Fatalities On Secondary Roads

RALEIGH (AP)—Thirty-one per cent were on state highways over the Labor Day weekend were credited with putting a dent in the state's improving traffic death rate.

At the end of last months, the 1975 toll was 7 per cent below the 1974 rate, but at the end of July the year's toll was 9 per cent below the 1974 figures, Edward L. Powell, commissioner of motor vehicles, said Thursday.

Most of the fatal accidents occur on North Carolina's secondary roads and "drivers (should) exercise extreme caution, especially in these areas," Powell said.

As of Thursday, 1,000 persons have died on North Carolina highways, he said.

The department's monthly compilation of accident figures showed that 157 persons were killed in August compared to 156 in August 1974. There were 10,072 accidents in the month compared to 11,506 in the same month last year.

Of those killed in August, 29 were pedestrians and three were bicyclists. Some 6,115 persons were injured in accidents.

As for violations, there were 2,165 drivers cited in August for "unsafe movement," 1,589 drivers ticketed for speeding, 1,093 charged with following too closely and 508 accused of driving under the influence of intoxicants.

For the first eight months of this year, department figures show there were 81,261 accidents resulting in 953 deaths and 46,856 injuries.

Also, the department noted that of the 31 persons killed in Labor Day weekend accidents, none was known to have been wearing a seat belt. Some 52 per cent of the weekend's fatal accidents were on rural roads, 19 per cent were on state highways, 16 per cent were on U.S. highways, 10 per cent were on interstate highways and 3 per cent were in municipalities.

In 1876, farmers in Manitoba, Canada, started to export wheat.

ARE WE CRAZY!!!

100,000 MILE WARRANTY ?

HOW DO WE DO IT?

Every car dealer in the country is talking "dependability" these days. At Tarheel Toyota, we've decided to do something about it. A new car warranty that's longer than any other warranty in the world (exclusively for Tarheel Toyota). Bill Draper can tell you why: "Nobody else in the world has a car like this. I've seen how the Toyota is made, the quality of the workmanship, the integrity and the craftsmanship that go into this car. I know the Toyota inside and out."

Until now, most new car warranties haven't been much more than discounts on the car repairs you know you'd need. Our warranty is our guarantee of faith in Toyota.

"Nobody else in the world can put this kind of warranty on their car. My faith and my knowledge and experience with Toyota tell me I can do it. Toyota builds an automobile to last."

Our knowledge of the Toyota comes from research, from first hand information from our service department and from a great number of satisfied Toyota customers. For 100,000 miles or 3 years from the day you purchase your new Toyota, we guarantee to replace or repair your motor, transmission and rear end, if they fail under normal driving conditions. We'll ask you to keep the vehicle properly maintained and we'll ask that you bring it back to Tarheel Toyota for any repairs covered by this warranty. We're offering the 100,000 mile, 3 year warranty in addition to the new car warranty offered by Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A. It's a promise, a guarantee of Toyota quality, Toyota dependability.

12 MONTHS OR 12,000 MILES USED CAR WARRANTY

This guarantee applies to cars selling for $1000.00 and up. On a 50-50 basis. All work must be done in our shop. This warranty does not apply to any sport cars, high performance or air cooled engines or 4 speed transmissions (except economy cars). Most good used cars (even if they look like new) are only guaranteed for a month. Or for a thousand miles. No more. And some are not guaranteed at all. But at Tarheel when we say a used car is in excellent condition, we're willing to stand behind it. We're willing to do something a little extra for it. So we guarantee its motor, its rear end, and its transmission for twelve months or twelve thousand miles. If you're in the market for a better used car, come out to Tarheel and look at ours. We'll show you some as good as new. Guaranteed. Asterisk denotes warranted car.

Sen. Hollings Wants S.C. Law School Professor To Be Fired

COLUMBIA (AP)—Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., has requested that University of South Carolina Law School professor John E. Montgomery be fired, while also hinting that Dean Robert W. Foster is "on his way out." The State reported from its Washington bureau Friday.

Wood Spool Is Being Replaced

By MOLLY BOLTON
Associated Press Writer
MILO, Maine (AP) — Things are winding down for the wood spool, and soon the onetime staple of the home sewing kit will be little more than a nostalgic memory for most home seamstresses.

Faced with competition from plastic spool makers, the American Thread Co. of Stamford, Conn., one of the nation's largest producers of industrial thread, has announced it will close its only wood spool plant next spring and buy plastic spools instead.

The plant, based in this small town since 1902, has been the "last holdout in the industry," said Charles S. Johnson, a company vice president. "All our competitors switched to plastic spools some time ago," he said.

The reason for the switch is simple economy. Company officials say birch spools cost between 2½ and 4½ cents each depending on size and that plastic spools can be produced at half the cost.

"There's a lot in wood spools that make it very costly," Johnson said, adding that the birch spool plant requires a complicated production procedure as well as a lumber supply operation.

"When you work with plastic it goes through an ejection mold and bangs it out," he said.

Economy also will contribute to keeping a few wood spools on the market, however. Some plants will still produce birch spools for special orders too small to justify the cost of a mold for plastic production.

One such producer is a plant in Dixfield owned by Coats and Clark, Inc., a threadmaker that switched to plastic spools eight years ago. The plant now manufactures small wood products, but plant manager Lloyd E. Smith said it still makes about 500 wood spools a week — a drop in the bucket compared to American Thread's 55 million yearly.

Johnson said it was "fair to comment on specific charges and allegations.

Meanwhile, the head of the campus chapter of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) said this week that the accreditation of the entire university has been jeopardized by the trustees' action to admit the 14 students.

Raymond A. Moore said the potential consequences of the heavily criticized and controversial trustees' decision include loss of accreditation for the law school by the American Bar Association, full loss of accreditation by USC from the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and censure by the AAUP.

Moore outlined those possibilities in a letter to T. Eston Marchant, chairman of the USC BOARD of trustees. Moore urged Marchant and the board to rescind the decision, explain more fully why they made it, and—or make a full disclosure of charges against the law school which claim that its grading procedures may have been compromised in screening potential law students this year.

Hollings, who met with reporters in his Capitol office Thursday, said he went to USC officials not to get his son, Michael, into law school but "to get Montgomery out."

The controversy stems from last week's decision by the USC board of trustees to lower law school admission requirements to permit some 14 students below the normal grade cutoff to enter law school.

The group affected included Hollings' son and sons of Sen. Edward E. Saleeby, D-Darlington, and Rep. S. Norwood Gasque, D-Dillon., all of whom has been enrolled in a special summer program for students with marginal grades.

Hollings insisted that his son is not involved in the current controversy concerning law school admissions or the summer program in which some 111 students were enrolled. He said Michael has decided to take a job at a bank, even though he is entitled to go to law school this fall under the trustees' ruling.

In the only specific charge apparently directed at Montgomery, Hollings charged that his son was treated unfairly, that he had done well on a particular examination and was shocked to receive a "D" at the end of the summer program.

However, Montgomery said the grade Michael Hollings received was exactly what he obtained in the course. The law professor said his was not the only grade affecting Hollings' final average. He added that the examinations were graded anonymously so that discrimination would have been impossible if any had been intended.

In Washington, Hollings also said, "Generally speaking, I hear that Dean Foster is on the way out...and he is leaving in October." The senator indicated that the dean has applied for a job elsewhere.

Hollings called the dean a "weak administrator" but not "sinister."

Earlier this week, Foster told a gathering of law students that he had received "attractive offers" elsewhere and he told The State "statements being made in this situation might well chill those opportunities."

Beyond that, Foster declined

Flea Market Bids Are Submitted On ECU Med School Base

The fourth annual Greenville Fall Flea Market has been scheduled for Sunday at the Tice Drive-In Theater, near Pitt Technical Institute on the Kinston highway. Hours are from noon until 6 p.m.

Mickey Elmore has announced that the event is expected to attract over 40 dealers and several thousand browsers during the day. Dealers and persons exhibiting will include local people as well as out of town exhibitors from various parts of North Carolina.

The public is invited to attend and there is no admission charge.

The annual event is sponsored by the Greenville Collectors Club which meets regularly during the year. At a recent meeting, Francis Belcik showed and described postcards and books collected during a summer trip to Europe.

Collectors in any field interested in information on the Greenville Collectors Club can call Elmore at 752-3456.

Firms in Wilson, Rocky Mount and Kinston are apparent low bidders for more than $400,000 worth of renovations to Ragsdale Hall which will become operating base of the new School of Medicine at East Carolina University.

Ragsdale Hall, a former dormitory faces on Fifth Street near the heart of the ECU main campus. Built in 1923 with the addition of a wing in 1953, the facility has been unused for the past two years.

ECU officials said bids which were opened and reviewed this week were within budgeted appropriations for the Ragsdale renovation project which eventually will total some $550,000. Recommendations to accept low bids and alternatives have been forwarded to the University of North Carolina General Administration for final approval.

In addition to administrative and faculty offices, Ragsdale will contain both teaching and research laboratories, classroom space and two basement areas for other medical research purposes. The facility has 36,978 square feet of space.

Apparent low bidders on the renovation were:

General Construction—James D. Little Construction Co., Wilson, $167,945.

Mechanical—Jones Cooling and Heating Inc., Wilson, $84,513.

Plumbing—Kinston Plumbing and Heating Inc., Kinston, $55,600.

Electrical—JAC Electrical Co., Rocky Mount, $92,689.

Officials said overall renovation costs will also include design fees, contingencies and costs for movable equipment.

Rules Death Due Heart

Pitt County Coroner and Medical Examiner E.W. Harvey Jr. has ruled that a 72-year-old Rt. 1, Ayden died of a heart attack during a fight with another man on Wednesday night.

Harvey, who made the ruling following an autopsy on Charlie Edwards of Rt. 1, Box 22, Ayden, said that Edwards experienced a cardiac failure during a struggle with Julius Station, 81, of Rt. 3, Ayden.

The coroner confirmed that Edwards was shot once in the leg with a small caliber pistol in the struggle but he noted that the autopsy revealed that death resulted from heart failure.

Station, according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson, was arrested on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill pending the outcome of the autopsy. Tyson said following the ruling that the assault charge would stand against Station.

Newspaper Hiking Prices

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—The Columbia State newspaper said today its prices on the news-racks will be increased from 35 to 50 cents on Sunday and from 15 to 25 cents on weekdays. Home delivery prices will not change.

In a front page announcement, the State said the increases result from soaring costs generally. It especially blamed a hike in the cost of the newspaper's basic raw material—newsprint.

It said in two years, the cost of newsprint has jumped from $168 per ton to $270, an increase of 63 per cent. The newspaper said it anticipates further increases in January.

"Frequently, the total cost of newsprint alone in a newspaper will exceed the price of the newspaper vended from the rack. In addition, the tremendous increase of rack thefts and vandalism has contributed materially to costs in rack sales," the announcement said.

Why there's a shortage of Miller High Life.

We're brewing more Miller High Life® Beer than ever. But Americans are also drinking more Miller High Life than ever. In each of the last two years, we've experienced greater sales percentage increases than any other major brewer in the industry. And this overwhelming demand has created shortages in some areas.

If you're having a problem finding enough of our beer, please accept our apologies. We're working around the clock to bring you an adequate supply as quickly as possible.

We're even building another brewery, our fourth, which will be in operation early next year. There's only one thing we refuse to do. And that's rush our brewing process.

Because it's the quality of our beer that has made us a success in the first place.

America's quality beer. Since 1855.

Your local Miller High Life Beer and Miller "Life" Beer Distributor will be closed from September 9th to September 17th. Your patience during this shortage will be greatly appreciated.
