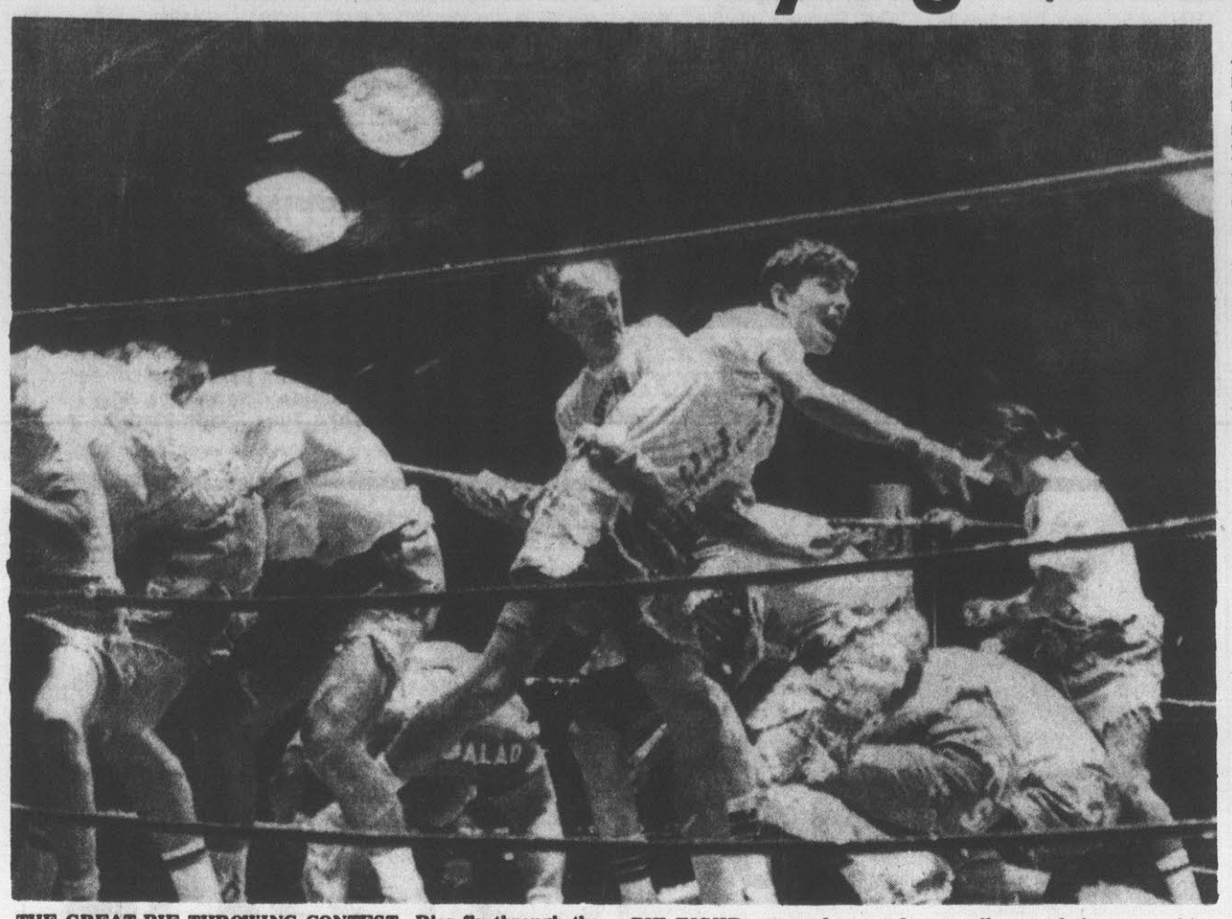
Consumers Paying $1 Billion Electricity Excess



THE GREAT PIE THROWING CONTEST—Pies fly through the air at the Cow Palace in San Francisco on Saturday as two of the teams competing in what was billed as the WORLD'S LARGEST PIE FIGHT gets underway. It was all part of the competition sponsored by the Lions Club of Belmont, Calif. to raise money for the blind. (AP Wirephoto)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American consumers are paying nearly $1 billion a year more in electric bills than they should be because of tax loopholes enjoyed by the nation's 150 largest, privately owned power companies, a study charged Saturday.

The situation exists, the report said, because the utility companies are able to charge their customers for millions of dollars in income tax which they don't really pay the federal government due to accounting methods and tax breaks.

Of the 150 companies studied, 122 charged their customers more taxes than they actually paid, the report said, and 57 of the utilities paid no federal taxes during 1974.

The report was issued by the Environmental Action Foundation after a 12-month investigation by its Utility Project, a group formed in 1972 to study the utility industry.

It said the law allows utilities to pass on to their customers, in the form of higher rates, the cost of income taxes due the federal government. But investment tax credits and depreciation b r e a k s allow the companies to defer actually paying the taxes until later years, and in fact the taxes are really "phantoms," the report said.

"In 1974, these same 150 power companies charged their customers for $1.4 billion in federal income taxes. This is $936 million more than they actually paid to the government," the study said. "Much of this sum was passed on to utility stockholders in the form of extra profits, a transition which falls outside the normal rate-making process."

The report listed as examples Commonwealth Edison of Chicago which paid $26 million in federal income tax but charged its customers over $100 million; Carolina Power & Light which which charged its customers $14 million in income taxes "even though it received a $24 million refund from the Internal Revenue Service;" Public Service Gas & Electric of Newark, N.J., which charged its cutomers $13 million while it received the same amount as a refund for back taxes; and Philadelphia Elecric which "received a $11.2 million credit but charged its customers for $48 million in taxes."

The report said Congress earlier this year increased the investment tax credit for utilities and further liberalized the law in such a way that virtually all of the nation's electric utilities will be exempt from federal income tax as long as the change is in effect.

"This enlarged loophole will probably result in the federal government's refunding of most of the more than $2 billion in income taxes paid by utilities since 1972," the study claimed. "Unless citizens' groups and regulatory commissions are on their toes, most of this windfall will find its way into the pockets of utility stockholders."

Mediated By Syria

Cease-Fire In Lebanon

By MICHAEL KEATS

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Warring Moslem and Christian militias agreed Saturday to a Syrian-backed cease-fire to end three days of fierce urban warfare with bombs, rockets and mortars in Beirut.

Beirut Radio said a cease-fire mediated by Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam went into effect at 9:10 p.m. (2:10 p.m. EDT) to end the fighting in the capital that has claimed at least 50 dead and 100 wounded.

Street battles with rockets and mortars raged in some sectors of Beirut up until the cease-fire was declared but quieted down immediately afterward. Except for sporadic shooting, the gunmen were withholding their fire.

Heavy fighting raged throughout most of the capital during the day but began tapering off a few hours after nightfall. Clashes continued in downtown Beirut, where whole city blocks have been reduced to bombed-out or mortared rubble, up until the cease-fire deadline.

A huge pall of smoke hung over the center of Beirut and fires raged unchecked in the downtown commercial sector. Firemen trying to reach blazes in one devastated area were driven back by gunfire.

Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam — an old hand at coaxing rival Lebanese militias to stop fighting — met with Lebanese government and religious leaders and a Palestinian guerrilla figure to seek an end to the fighting.

Bomb blasts echoed throughout the city, and bombed-out blocks of the once-bustling bazaar area looked more like the shattered ruins of sections of wartime London or Berlin.

Gunmen crouched behind barricades at nearly every corner shooting at anything that moved. Mortar and rocket blasts spread from one area to another. Ambulance attendants were unable to recover dozens

Critical Shortage In Pitt County

September 30 Special Drive Set For Pitt Bloodmobile

A special one-day Bloodmobile visit, aimed at helping to alleviate the critical shortage of blood, is scheduled here for Sept. 30 at the Moose Lodge.

Discussing the important blood drive, Mrs. Ruth Taylor, executive secretary of the Pitt Red Cross, said that it is hoped the 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. visit will gain county-wide support and she issued an appeal to all potential donors in Pitt County to take part in the effort.

According to Mrs. Taylor, the local drive is part of a special Bloodmobile program planned for Sept. 30 throughout the Tidewater Region in an effort to help meet the blood shortage that has accumulated during the summer months.

Noting that this is the first special visit of the Blood mobile to Greenville, she said that one of the most critical aspects of the shortage is that adequate blood supplies are not available to meet the needs of the 59 hospitals in the region.

All of the hospitals need blood daily, Mrs. Taylor explained, and almost every day the local hospital calls for various types of blood. She observed, "We have an acute shortage."

The Red Cross official urged citizens who have had relatives in the hospital who needed blood to consider donating to help replenish the supply. She asked those potential donors to also contact their neighbors and possibly make the trip to the Bloodmobile together.

All civic organizations, businesses and churches are being asked to support the special drive, she said.

She noted that in order for persons to be eligible to give blood, there has to be at least an eight-week period since the last donation.

Volunteer nurses will be needed to assist in the visit, according to Mrs. Taylor, and nurses who would like to help should contact her at the Red Cross office, 752-4222.

Women of the Greenville Service League will also assist in the blood drive, she said, as well as other volunteers.

"I would like to emphasize the importance of this visit and urge everyone who is able to give blood to support the drive on Sept. 30," Mrs. Taylor added.

Jenkins: "Might Run"

East Carolina University chancellor Leo W. Jenkins told the ECU Board of Trustees Saturday that "I might run for public office" in the near future.

Jenkins added that if and when a decision is made on his political plans "you will be the first to know." He said he would seek the advice and guidance of the individual members of the ECU board.

In a frank report to the board on his personal plans, Jenkins said "I honestly don't know what the future will be . . . I might run for public office . . ."

He said that he is fully eligible for retirement at the present time, or that he may elect to continue in the office of chancellor through 1978.

Jenkins has considered entering the political arena as a candidate for governor and it is known that he has received strong encouragement recently to seek a leave of absence from his official duties to run in the 1976 Democratic primary. The primary is still nearly a year away.

In any case, Jenkins told the trustees, "I have said before and I say again I think that our chancellors ought to be strong voices in their areas." At ECU, he said, "we ought to be a strong voice for the East." He said he has encouraged students, faculty and staff at ECU "to become involved" in civic, state and political affairs, and to make contributions in their fields of expertise.

ECU Trustees Authorize Alcoholic Beverages

The East Carolina University administration has been given authority to fix specific rules on permitting use of alcoholic beverages in "certain areas" on the ECU campus in accordance with federal, state and local laws.

ECU trustees voted, 9-2, Saturday to adopt a policy statement drafted by the board's executive committee in response to student requests for relaxation of a policy flatly prohibiting the sale, dispensing or use of alcoholic beverages of any type on campus. James Honeycutt, ECU student government president who is a member of the board, said student sentiment was in favor of relaxing the rigid prohibition.

According to the policy statement presented by trustee Eddie K. Greene of Dunn, the ECU administration would be bound to strict adherence to existing laws and regulations governing use of alcoholic beverages in public places. Greene himself pointed to an ordinance of the city of Greenville which prohibits use, sale or dispensation of alcoholic beverages in public places.

"Certainly this place (Mendenhall Student Center on the ECU campus) would be considered a public place, "Greene said.

Greene and other executive committee members said the committee felt "very strongly" that it would be unwise to permit student fees to be used for purchase of beer and wine for free dispensation at certain events.

Trustees of ECU have been studying for several months a proposal by student representatives last spring that, in order to circumvent present restrictions against sale of such beverages at campus events, student fees be used to buy quantities of beer and wine which would then be distributed free. Opposition to this was unanimous, Greene said.

Trustee Herb Lee of Greenville led opposition to the policy statement, arguing that to relax the present ban "is not enhancing the image of this institution." Lee said he was "Basically opposed" to permitting alcholic beverages on campus and contended that "education is a discipline . . . to learn is a discipline . . . we have to acquire self-discipline."

Dr. James Tucker, Dean of Students Affairs, said no specific rules have been promulgated and that each individual request would have to be considered before consent would be granted.

"What we foresee is not a blast," Tucker said. "We are talking in terms of small groups, not more than 30 or 40 people." He said these would be "social affairs" rather than mass audience and attendance events such as rock concerts and the like. "We would want to try to control it," he said.

Troy W. Pate Jr., a Goldsboro savings and loan executive, was elected new chairman of the Board of Trustees, succeeding Roddy L. Jones of Raleigh who was not reappointed. Ashley B. Futrell, Washington, N.C., newspaper publisher, was re-elected vice chairman and Mrs. Mebane Burgwyn of Woodland re-elected secretary.

Judge Robert D. Wheeler of Greenville administered oaths of office to the six trustees either re-appointed or newly appointed. New trustees are William H. Stanley and John D. Bridgers, Sr. Honeycutt, Pate, Futrell, Greene and Dr. Earl Danielely were re-appointed. The executive committee took under advisement a suggestion by the UNC Board of Governors that no one person serve as chairman more than two terms.

On the alcoholic beverage control policy, Tucker said decisions would be made on individual requests with full consultation and in "every respect consistent with the law." The factors, he said, would include what the law permits and the "time, the place and the event."

Parrott, Duckett Heading UF Goal Buster Divisions

Bill Duckett and Don Parrott have been chosen to head the Goal Buster and Goal Buster Special Divisions, respectively, for the 1975-76 Pitt United Fund drive.

"The Goal Buster and Goal Buster Special Division are two of our most important sources of contributions," commented campaign chairman Tom Taft in announcing the two division chairmen.

Duckett, who is business office manager for Carolina Telephone & Telegraph Co. here, graduated from East Carolina University with a B.S. degree in math and taught school in Beaufort and East Cartaret Counties and Jamesville High School before joining the telephone company in October of 1971.

A member of University Church of Christ, Duckett is married to the former Josephine Davis of Jacksonville and they have a three-year-old daughter.

The Ducketts reside in Greenville at 2706 Shawnee Place.

Taft noted that, "Bill headed the Goal Buster Division last year and had that division's best year ever. His success last year is an indication of his ability and commitment."

A certified public accountant and partner with the firm of John C. Proctor & Co. here, Parott is a native of Oxford and a 1965 graduate of East Carolina University.

He has served as president of the Pitt County Boys' Club and is a past Deacon and member of Oakmont Baptist Church. He is a member of the Greenville Jaycees and University-City Kiwanis Club.

Parrott is married to the former Helen Saunders of Sanford and they have three daughters.

"I know how important the funds raised by the United Fund are to the Boys' Club of Pitt County," Parrott said. "I am proud to be a part of the 1975 United Fund campaign."

Taft pointed out that, "This is Don's first year with the United Fund. His responsibility and commitment to the United Fund promise to make him one of our most successful division chairmen."

The chairman said that Parrott's responsibility in the campaign will be for businesses in the Pitt Plaza area and along Memorial Drive.

Young Men Must Register For Draft

By JAMES KYLE
Reflector Staff Writer

The military draft was ended in November of 1973, but the Selective Service System still exists and young men are still required to register for the draft when they reach the age of 18.

Although registration has been suspended since April of this year, President Ford is expected to issue a proclamation in the near future calling for an annual registration, according to Selma Rogers, clerk of the local draft board. This means that registration would be held once a year for all men reaching the age of 18 in the year. The annual registration will probably be held in March, Mrs. Rogers said.

Since the ending of the draft, the Selective Service System has been undergoing a restructuring involving great cutback. The system still stands in readiness in case of emergency, however.

An agency which once had an office in every county in North Carolina the Selective Service will be cut to around 130 offices in the nation with five in this state by the end of the year, Mrs. Rogers said. Total agency employment is merely a fraction of what it once was, and will be cut even more this year. The expected figure after more cuts will be around 1,500 compensated employes.

However, "We would be ready if we had an emergency," according to Mrs. Rogers. A computer system gives the Selective Service the capability of readily identifying an induction pool of 500,000 men whose processing would be sufficiently complete to commence inductions within 30 days.

With this system, 100,000 men could be inducted within 70 days of an emergency.

In studying the concept of an all-volunteer Army, the Gates Commission recommended a "standby draft," Selective Service director Byron Pepitone wrote in "Selective Service News." It was recommended that the standby draft include as a minimum: "a register of all males who might be conscripted for national security; a system for selection of inductees; specific procedures for notification, examination and induction and an organization to maintain the register and to administer the procedures for induction."

These recommendations are being carried out by the Selective Service Pepitone wrote, and by 1976 the following proposals will help carry out the recomendations: "annual registration, cessation of active classifications at the end of 1975 and development of new streamlined procedures for induction processing in time of emergency."

Although the instrumentation of the all-volunteer Army has enabled the Selective Service System to be largely reduced, it still serves an important function as a kind of "back-up" to the military.

Two Dead In Gun Battle

STATESVILLE, N. C. (AP) — Two persons were found shot to death and a third was wounded in Iredell County Saturday and the sheriff said he was seeking an ex-convict in connection with the shootings.

Sheriff Thomas Thompson said, "Based upon evidence we have been able to gain so far, we have taken out a warrant for Donald Lee Harding."

The dead were identified as Douglas Harding, 33, and Mary Bowen Englebert, 32. Clyde Ray Englebert, 36, found with bullet wounds in the back and head, was being treated at a Statesville hospital.

The sheriff's office said deputies were called to the Douglas Harding residence off N. C. 115 about 3 a.m. and found Harding shot to death, and Englebert wounded.

Spokesmen said an abandoned automobile was found later in the morning in a rural area and in a search that followed, the woman's body was found. It was not immediately determined whether she was the wounded man's wife.

The abandoned car also was registered in the name Englebert, a spokesman said.

Officers also were unable to say immediately what relation there was, if any, between the Hardings. A spokesman said it was thought they might be cousins, but there was no confirmation.

Donald Lee Harding has been free on bail since last May, pending trial on charges of assault with a deadly weapon, armed robbery and possession of an illegal weapon, according to police records.

He was taken into custody after being wounded in an alleged robbery attempt. Officers said at the time it had been thought Harding had been killed in Tennessee in some kind of shooting incident.

Police records indicated Harding escaped from the Huntersville prison unit in 1957 after being imprisoned for auto larceny.

Claims Slain Trooper Had A "Reputation For Violence"

CORDELE, Ga. (AP) — A defense witness testified today in the trial of a young Marine accused of killing a state trooper and a policeman that he saw the slain trooper drunk the night before the shootings.

Thomas G. Portivent of nearby Fitzgerald, Ga., a retired civil service employe, said he saw trooper James Young, 35, drunk at the Moose Lodge in Fitzgerald on May 3.

Marine Sgt. Roy Patterson is being tried on murder charges in connection with the May 4 shootings. The defense contends he was defending himself, his mother and his brother.

Portivent testified that he had known Young for 25 years and that he was "overbearing and had a reputation for violence."

Under cross-examination, testimony revealed that on the day of the shootings, Young had slept until noon, lunched with his mother and reported for duty at 2:25 p.m.

The Marine's mother, Mrs. Bessie Patterson, 52, of Gastonia, N.C., testified Friday that Young had cursed and threatened Roy Patterson's younger brother, Joe.

Mrs. Patterson said she and Joe were kicked and threatened by officers shortly after Young and policeman W. R. Haralson, 50, were slain.

Meanwhile Friday, Bill Montgomery, a reporter for the Atlanta Journal, was removed from the courtroom and sequestered as a witness for rebuttal of Mrs. Patterson's testimony.

He was to be questioned regarding quotes attributed to her in a newspaper article. Mrs. Patterson denied she said "guns are for animals" and that she did not tell the reporter that her sons had been drinking beer on Sunday afternoon, before the slayings that night.

In her testimony, Mrs. Patterson said Joe was driving the car in which she was riding when Young stopped them for a traffic violation. She said Young told Joe, "If you don't shut your goddam mouth, I'll blow your g------brains out."

$48,750 Grant For Greenville

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Congressman Walter B. Jones announced the approval by the Environmental Protection Agency of a grant to the City of Greenville in the amount of $48,750.

Jones said that the grant will be used for the preparation of plans for the construction of a waste water treatment works facility.

Charles Horne, director of Greenville Utilities Commission, will serve as project director for the city, it was noted.

Four Charged In Several Accidents

Damages totalled over 3,000 and four drivers were cited as the result of traffic violations and accidents Friday and Saturday, according to the Greenville Police Department.

An accident Friday morning which caused $1,050 in damages occurred at 12th and Evans streets. Damage was estimated at $500 to the car driven by Van Calvin Fleming, III of S. Evans St., $350 to the car driven by Levy Jones, 1211 Fleming St., and $200 damage to a parked car owned by Janice Marie Baker, Homestead Trailer Park. Jones was charged with failure to yield right-of-way.

An accient Saturday morning at 14th and Evans Streets caused $700 damages to the car driven by Susan Caroline Gross, of Burlington, and $400 damages to the car driven by Vivian Lee Smith, Rt. 3, Washington. No charges have been made.

Mrs. Leigh Griffin Duque, of 417 E. Third St., was charged with a safe movement violation after a mishap Friday afternoon at Third and Reade streets involving a second car driven by Mark Alan Moorman, of High Point. Damage was reported at $300 to her car and $200 to Moorman's.

An accident Friday afternoon at First and Greene Streets resulted in $350 damage to the car driven by Judy Ellen Sasser, 104 N. Harding St., and $100 to the car driven by Charlie Mack Daniel, Jr. of Rt. 1, Stokes. Daniel was charged with a caution light violation.

A third mishap Friday afternoon resulted in a safe movement violation for Ella Mae Shelton, 1409 Railroad St., at the Sutton Service Center, 1105 Dickinson Ave. Damage was reportedly $175 to her car and $195 to the car driven by Jerry Thurman Hodge, of Raleigh.

Williamston Gets Grant

The Williamston Chamber of Commerce has been awarded a $500 travel promotion grant, according to James E. Harrington, Secretary of the N. C. Department of Natural and Economic Resources.

The grant program, established by the General Assembly, awarded $56,850 to 28 organizations across the state. The grants are made on a 50-50 basis to non-profit organizations.

Harrington said $37,150 of the $94,000 allocated by the General Assembly is still available, and applications from other organizations are anticipated over the next several months.

Named To Commission

Mrs. Erica "Ricki" Grantmyre of Greenville was named Saturday to the Sir Walter Raleigh Commission by Governor James Holshouser.

Mrs. Grantmyre was one of two new members appointed to the board. Five members were reappointed Saturday. Terms for the members will expire June 30, 1981.

Mrs. Grantmyre, a housewife, received her A.B. degree from East Carolina University. She serves as a board member of the Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters and as secretary of the North Carolina Federation of Young Repubulicans. She and her husband, Bill, have two children.

Ford On Tax Breaks

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — President Ford, warning that mounting financial pressures may doom the nation's private colleges and universities, vowed Saturday to fight any congressional move to limit tax breaks for fund donors.

"The institutions of private education in the United States are being battered and buffeted in ways that may ultimately jeopardize their survival," Ford said in a speech prepared for the Malibu campus of Pepperdine University, a private school.

"If these institutions should suddenly close, shifting the burden from private donors to public taxpayers, the tax load would be heavy indeed," he said. "America and American tax payers would suffer the consequences. We must not allow this to happen."

Ford's address kicked off a three day weekend of speeches and golf in california.

$18 Million Bond Issue

FAYETTEVILLE (AP) — The Fayetteville Public Works Commission Friday called for an $18 million bond referendum to finance the purchase of electric generating equipment.

If approved, Fayetteville would become the only city in the state to generate its own electric power.

The proposal must be approved by the city council and the State Local Government Commission before being submitted to voters.

The city commission is seeking to purchase, four 20 megawatt "peak generation" units.

Many North Carolina cities generated electricity earlier this century, but they turned to wholesale purchases from private companies in the 1950s.

Kuralt Charges "Glibness"

DALLAS — CBS News correspondent Charles Kuralt says most television anchormen are "glib and highly paid" but "cannot edit and cannot write" the news.

Kuralt told the Radio and Television News Directors convention here Friday that they should stop choosing anchormen on the basis of looks and personality instead of journalistic skills.

"Society depends for its life on an informed citizenry," Kuralt said. "Most people get their information from television. Therefore, substance in an anchorman counts more than style."

Private Schools Stable

RALEIGH (AP)—Despite predictions of a decline, preliminary figures show that enrollment in North Carolina's private colleges is about the same as last year, the N.C. Association of Independent Colleges and Universities reported Friday.

The association said total undergraduate enrollment this year in the 38 schools is 42,823, up 26 from last year. It said although accurate figures are not yet available, the number of North Carolinians also appears to be up.

It marked the first year since 1971 that the aggregate undergraduate enrollment has not dropped.

Free After 12 Years

MIAMI (AP) — For the first time in 12 years, Freddie Pitts and Wilbert Lee woke up this morning in the warm sunlight of freedom instead of the cold harshness of a prison cell.

After spending almost nine of the 12 years on Death Row for murders to which another man has confessed, the two black men were freed Friday when their pardon was filed by Gov. Reubin Askew.

"No bus will go fast enough," Lee said as he and Pitts left the state prison at Starke and nervously prepared to board an airplane for Miami, where they joined supporters for a private celebration.

Attacks Church Doctrine

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest, who crusaded against pornography until his arrest in 1969 on morals charges involving homosexuality, has written a book attacking church doctrine on sex.

The Rev. Richard Ginder, 61, says he seeks to dismantle Catholic arguments against birth control, divorce, homosexuality, and premarital sex in his book, "Binding With Briars: Sex and Sin in the Catholic Church."

"The Church has always considered sex, all sex, pretty much of a dirty business, despite all of its apologists to the contrary," Father Ginder said at the Vincentian Home in nearby McCandless Township, where he has been living for several months.

Investigates Death

CATAWBA, N.C. (UPI) — Catawba County and State Bureau of Investigation authorities were investigating the cause of a fire here early Saturday which claimed the life of a 32-year veteran of the North Carolina Highway Patrol.

The body of 58-year-old Lt. Roy Charles Duncan was burned beyond recognition in a fire that destroyed nearly 90 per cent of his two-story house shortly after midnight.

An autopsy was being performed by the State Medical Examiner to determine the cause of death, authorities said.

Two Shot During Struggle

RAEFORD, N.C. (UPI) — A Highway Patrolman and a Hoke County motorist were hospitalized Saturday afteroon after the motorist allegedly attacked the trooper and was shot as they grappled over the trooper's service revolver.

Leroy McKenzie, 42, of Raeford, was wounded in the stomach after he apparently overpowered trooper J.D. Thigpen and took Thigpen's revolver.

McKenzie was listed in fair condition in the intensive care unit of Scotland Memorial hospital at Laurinburg. Thigpen was hospitalized for observation and treatment of cuts and abraisons recieved in the struggle.

13 Miners Killed

BRISBANE, Australia (UPI) — Thirteen coal miners were killed late Saturday in an underground explosion at the Kianga mine in central Queensland, rescue officials said.

Rescuers who entered the mine confirmed that the 13 were all dead but said the actual cause of death had not yet been established.

Will Not Give Up

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — The Communists, striving hard to keep their slide from power in Portugal's new government from turning into political disaster, said Saturday they would not give up efforts to turn the country into a Sovietstyle state.

Decision On Patricia Hearst Expected Soon

May Be Tried On 19 State Charges

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Patricia Hearst probably will first go on trial here on 19 state charges which could put her in prison for life if she is convicted, according to federal and local prosecutors.

They said the Los Angeles case against her is stronger than federal bank robbery charges she faces in San Francisco.

A decision on legal proceedings against Miss Hearst was expected to be announced during the weekend or early next week. The Los Angeles County district attorney's office and the U.S. attorney in San Francisco conferred on the matter following her arrest.

A U.S. attorney told local authorities the federal case against Miss Hearst "has evidence problems," according to a report by the Los Angeles Times.

William and Emily Harris, who face no federal charges, probably will be brought to Los Angeles next week for arraignment on 18 charges of kidnaping, robbery and assault, according to John Howard, acting district attorney.

The federal charges reportedly relied on a photo and physical evidence which could be challenged, but the state has Miss Hearst's fingerprints at the scenes of several crimes and at least eight witnesses to testify against her.

They include two kidnap victims, one of whom would be the state's star witness, Tom Mathews, 19, of Lynwood, Calif.

Mathews was kidnaped from his home May 16, 1974, allegedly by Miss Hearst and the Harrises as they fled after an Inglewood sporting goods store was shot up.

Mathews told police Mrs. Harris said she wanted to test drive his van which was for sale.

She took him around a corner where Harris and Miss Hearst were waiting. He was held for 12 hours.

Mathews later said it was "fun" to be kidnaped by Patricia Hearst. He said he was sorry she was caught.

"I just hoped they would have just hid and not hurt anyone and not get caught," he said.

Ten minutes after the three left Mathews, Frank Sutton was kidnaped in Griffith Park by two armed women.

The most serious charge against the newspaper heiress and the Harrises is kidnap for the purpose of robbery, which carries a maximum life sentence in prison. They also face one charge of simple kidnaping, five of assault with intent to commit murder, four of assault with a deadly weapon, four of robbery and three of unlawfully taking a vehicle.

All of the charges stem from a two-day spree through the Los Angeles area last May. The police search ended in a fiery shootout in which six SLA members died.

Three Since 1951

Warfare Germ Deaths

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three employes of the Army biological warfare laboratories at Ft. Detrick, Md., have died since 1951 of "accidental, occupation-related" causes, the Army said Saturday.

The workers — a microbiologist, an electrician and an animal caretaker — died in 1951, 1958 and 1964 of causes officially attributed to rare diseases such as pulmonary anthrax and "Bolivian hemorrhagis fever," an Army spokesman said. It is known that scientists working in biological warfare had experimented with anthrax bacillus and other germs.

"Available records indicate that there have been three accidental, occupation-related deaths at Ft. Detrick since 1951," the Army said in a statement. "All three of the individuals were civilian employes of the U.S. Army biological warfare laboratories at Ft. Detrick and were not involved in a human volunteer test program."

"How they (the victims) were exposed to these agents we do not know at the present time," an Army spokesman said.

The Army no longer operates the biological warfare unit.

The Army said the Nov. 25, 1951, death of William A. Boyles, a microbiologist stationed at Ft. Detrick, "was attributed to a presumptive diagnosis of pulmonary anthrax."

The second death, of electrician Joel E. Willard on July 5, 1958, was attributed to "myocardial failure with visceral anthrax as the contributory cause."

The Feb. 10, 1964, death of Albert Nickel, an animal caretaker, was attributed to viral encephalitis, the Army said. After extensive laboratory studies of tissues and fluids and hundreds of tests in animals, the virus was identified as the virus of Bolivian hemorrhagis fever," the Army said.

DUI While Riding A Horse

WILLIAMSTON, N.C. (UPI) — A Martin County man has been given a 30-day suspended jail sentence and fined $100 for riding a horse on a public highway while under the influence of alcohol.

The sentence was imposed Wednesday on Rodney Thomas of Williamston after the arresting officer testified that "the horse was not under the influence" but Thomas was when apprehended riding in a local neighborhood.

Judge Charles Manning also ordered Thomas not to ride horseback on a highway for a year.

He was convicted under a state law that forbids "riding an animal or riding an animal which is drawing a vehicle on a highway" while under the influence.

ALLEY-WAYS FINISHED—Joel Reel, of the Public Works Department, puts the finishing touches on one of the 30 lamps placed in the alleyways behind businesses on Evans Street. The lamps, according to officials, are the final step in completion of the alleys. An automatic system will turn on the lamps each night. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Shriver Candidate For President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sargent Shriver launched what he termed "a people's campaign" for the presidency today, vowing to turn governmental policy away from "the large and the anonymous" to "the small and the personal."

The 59-year-old Kennedy in-law, becoming the eighth Democrat to formally enter his party's presidential contest, said he could not stand aside at a time when "for only the second time in this century, the forward movement of America has been reversed."

"Not since the great depression has America stood in fear of the future," the 1972 Democratic vice presidential nominee said in a statement for the news conference formally unveiling his candidacy.

Shriver, who obtained assurances of noncandidacy from his brother-in-law, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, before deciding to enter the race, said in the statement that his family, including Mrs. Joseph Kennedy and the widows of John and Robert Kennedy had encouraged him to run.

The trustees heard progress reports from Vice Chancellor and Dean Robert Holt, Provost Dr. John Howell, Dr. Joseph Boyette, Dean of the Graduate School, Dr. John Horne, director of Admissions, and other key figures.

Dr. Edwin Monroe, Vice Chancellor for Health Affairs, reported on increased enrollment and crowding of facilities in all of the Allied Health and Social Professions programs. In the School of Nursing, he said, enrollment has doubled over the past three years and the 87 graduates in Nursing this year "again led the state." in passing state board examinations. ECU Nursing graduates have placed highest, percentagewise, in passing state board exams than any other school in the state for a number of years.

Dr. William E. Laupus, Dean of the ECU School of Medicine, presented a progress report on development of the newly authorized four-year, degree granting school, particularly in the areas of developing teaching hospital facilities in cooperation with Pitt Memorial Hospital, faculty recruitment and development of curriculum.

White Named Member Of Education Committee

State Senator Vernon White has been appointed by Lt. Governor James Hunt as a member of the Budget Act Commission on Public Instruction.

The commission was formed by the 1975 General Assembly to study the program of research, development, evaluation and assessment in the Department of Public Instruction.

The commission is to make its recommendations to the 30 day session the 1975 General Assembly with the recommendations to be considered by the Appropriations Committee of the Department of Public Instruction when the budget is finalized.

"The work of this commission is important to education in North Carolina," Hunt noted in announcing appointments to the commission. "I know that Vernon White is especially interested in good education for our children and will do an excellent job."

Senator White served during the 1975 legislature legislative session as Chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture, on the Appropriations Committee, the sub-committee on education and the Senate Education Committee.

ROTC Cadet Assignments Given

Fifteen cadet officers in the East Carolina University Air Force ROTC Detachment 600 have received their assignments for fall quarter.

Each cadet will carry out his or her assigned detachment duties in addition to regular ROTC training and aerospace studies classes. Assignments are rotated at the beginning of each quarter of ECU's academic year.

MARTIN COUNTY, Williamston—Cadet Capt. Roy W. Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Rogers, 207 Williams St., has assumed duties as cadet material officer.

PITT COUNTY, Greenville—Cadet 2nd Lt. Michael Whitehurst, son of Cmdr. and Mrs. William B. Whitehurst, Route 7, has been appointed duties of planning, directing and coordinating the annual AFROTC Dining-In.

It was on March 23, 1775, that Patrick Henry made his famous declaration "Give me liberty or give me death."

Sign Of Progress Being Made

Further development of the ECU medical school took a major step forward last week with the recommendation of approval for a $7.5 million addition to Pitt Memorial Hospital.

The recommendation was made by the Governor's Advisory Council on Health Planning and should be made final by Lawrence Burwell, chief of the Comprehensive Health Planning Agency before the end of the month.

Approval will mean that 88,000 square feet will be added to Pitt Memorial, currently under construction, to accommodate additional clinical laboratories, x-ray facilities, emergency rooms and operating rooms.

Funds for the addition will come from money appropriated by the General Assembly this year for building the medical school.

There was no opposition to the addition at a public hearing held Monday and that was unusual in itself. Later a 100-bed addition will be constructed on the hospital to accommodate the added needs of the medical school. That, however, is not considered critical at this point.

Dean of the medical school Dr. William Laupus expressed his pleasure that there was no opposition to the addition and that approval seems eminent. "... we are extremely pleased with this go-ahead," he said.

It was very important that approval come for the additions to Pitt Memorial since it will be necessary to plan and get the construction underway in order to avoid major structual changes once the orginally planned building is completed. The bed tower addition is not considered critical since enough bed space will be available the first few years of operation and the tower can also be added easily.

There are, of course, many problems to be worked out before the hospital can be adapted to serve both the county and the medical school. The recommendation for approval of the addition to the hospital is an indication that progress is being made, however.

The county and the state jointly will have more than $50 million invested in Pitt Memorial Hospital which will serve Pitt County and the entire east, while also filling the clinical needs of the medical school.

Park Entrance Fee Mulled

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Should you have to pay to visit a state park?

A consultant to the North Carolina Parks and Recreation division thinks so, and has outlined his recommendation in a report now being studied by officials of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources.

In addition to raising more money for parks development and programs, Harold K. Cordell thinks the entrance fee would help cut down on vandalism.

"By charging an entrance fee much better control is maintained over the behavior of users. In fact, parties whose purpose in coming to a park is to create nuisances will likely be discouraged by having to register and by having to pay a fee," Cordell notes in his recommendations which resulted from a survey of park users during June.

About half the states charge a park entrance and use fee, with income ranging from $54,000 a year in Utah, to $2.5 million in New York.

Little Income

North Carolina currently operates the parks system on a budget of $1.17 million, with about $237,000 in revenues generated by camping fees and concession sales.

An entrance fee would be expected to more than double the present income. Campers, under Cordell's recommendation, would not have to pay an additional entrance fee, but would be covered by the camping charge.

Specifically, Cordell is recommending a permit similar to the federal Golden Eagle Passport which could be purchased for annual admission of a vehicle and all occupants to any state park. Yearly cost would be $5. Day users would pay a vehicle admission charge of 50 cents.

The N. C. State Universityy recreation economist thinks charging a fee would be a move toward greater equity in fee administration, since campers are now charged a fee, while other visitors are not. "Day users generate maintenance and operation costs just as do campers. Day users also reap considerable benefits as do campers," he said.

Also, Cordell has recommended a total park fee system with charges for specific park activities; such as swimming; fishing, boating; etc. That move, he says, would "end subsidization of the recreation of a few !(users) through use of general tax revenues."

Can Afford

North Carolina, through use of tax funds for parks, provides a "substantial subsidy" while "most camping and boating users at state park. . . can very well afford to pay for their recreation. . .evidenced by their incomes, camping gear, and boating equipment," Cordell reported.

Cordell also believes charging for particular activities will help determine what kinds of activities should be provided in state parks.

"The primary justification for instituting a fee system based on cost of supplying services is that it provides an automatic and reliable guide to deciding what should and should not be provided for recreation users.

"The current practice for deciding what facilities and services to provide in parks is based on planners' judgment. This offers no assurance that decisions in the best interest of the public are being made," Cordell said in his report.

Comprehensive park planning based on the willingness of users to pay is a superior way, he thinks, especially since park users comprise a relatively small proportion of the total state population.

With a proposal already under advisement to increase the state parks camping fee to $4 nightly; the idea of implementing entrance and other park use fees is likely to generate considerable debate both within the agency, and in the General Assembly which would be called upon to approve any implementation of new charges.

People Do It Better

By DAN HALL
Associated Press Writer

HARTFORD (AP) — Amid the rush toward greater and greater automation, the Connecticut tolltaker is a smiling reminder that machines can't do everything better.

Like many other states, Connecticut began installing automatic toll baskets at its 15 bridge and highway toll stations in the late 1950s to reduce its payroll.

"We found eels, diapers, guns, beer cans . . . all kinds of things in the machines," tolltaker Kenneth Larson Jr. of Orange recalled.

Many motorists soon realized they also could avoid putting anything in the machine.

State officials finally surveyed the number of scofflaws at the end of 1972 and found an average of about 58,500 per month.

During one police crackdown on toll violators, troopers arrested a doctor who admitted he had driven the Connecticut Turnpike regularly and had not paid a toll in three or four years, said superintendent Ralph Marcello at the West Haven Plaza.

That, and growing congestion at manned toll lanes as the number of commuter-card users increased, prompted the state to replace the baskets with human beings in 1973.

The average violation had dropped to about 90 per month a year later, and about 95 per cent of today's nonpayers are identified and reported to the police by the "eyes and ears" that replaced the machines.

The change began bringing in an estimated $300,000 more in tolls yearly, said Arthur B. FitzGibbons, state director of tolls and collections.

It also meant less congestion and eliminated the need for some $200,000 per year in toll plaza expansion.

On the human side, it restored jobs and motoriests began hearing "thank you" again as they parted with their coins. About 800 persons now work in the toll booths on Connecticut's two toll roads and four bridges.

Unfortunately not all car and truck drivers have given up trying to avoid tolls, officials said.

"Even sweet ladies slip you a nickle instead of a quarter, and then smile," said tolltaker

Sunday Morning Notes

East Carolina University has set a new record in enrollment this fall with 11,727 students on the local campus. The old record was set last year when 11,341 enrolled for the fall term.

Local motorists, who suddenly observed the city's streets come to life at the university opened, didn't have to be told there were more students than ever here. The only question was how many more.

A note was found in the vicinity of The Daily Reflector office which read: "Mr. Policeman, This is my grandmother's car. Mine is in the shop. I am a day student. Please do not ticket me. Thank you."

Only the note was found; not the car. Must have been towed away.

Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, who allegedly pointed a loaded pistol at President Ford in Sacramento, reportedly wants to save the redwoods from the polluters.

With friends like "Squeaky" the redwoods don't need any enemies.

A bill which would have the effect of raising tobacco support prices by as much as 10 percent went quickly through the House of Representatives. Then it went through the Senate so rapidly that its sponsor, Rep. Walter Jones, was himself surprised.

The bill did not please Sec. of Agriculture Earl Butz, and all that must give some idea of how well the secretary is regarded in Congress.

INSIDE REPORT

Anti-Pentagon Operation

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—The most recent "scorekeeping" report by the Senate Budget Committee, showing excessive defense spending and reduced non-defense spending, suggests that the much acclaimed congressional budgetary reform is really a Senate shell game to fleece the Pentagon.

In fact, Congress clearly is reducing defense spending and increasing non-defense spending. The reason this does not show up in the monthly scorecard is an accounting change by the Senate staff which, at least temporarily, appears to reduce non-defense for future spending by a huge $27 billion. That accounting change will probably be corrected in time, but the figure juggling reflects a clever anti-Pentagon operation only now becoming clear.

The budgetary reform, while actually cutting Pentagon spending more deeply than domestic programs, gives the opposite impression. If we cut school milk funds, demand liberal budget reformers headed by Sen. Edmund Muskie of Main, you must reduce missiles and aircraft carriers. The result: enough conservative Replublicans joining Muskie to create a new Senate anti-defense coalition endangering long-range defense programs.

Architect of this coalition is Muskie, who preaches "fiscal discipline" but is firmly committee to cutting back the Pentagon and boosting social welfare spending. Such "reordering of priorities" is the goal of Muskie's Senate Budget Committee staff (including its defense specialist, Andrew Hamilton, a former soft-line staffer on the National Security Council).

The game began stacked against defense in the Muskie committee's original targets. The defense target was set below President Ford's request ($3 billion less for current spending, $7 billion less for new budget authority). The non-defense target was set above President Ford's request ($21 billion more for current spending, $17 billion more for new budget authority).

From that uneven beginning, the Muskie committee moved into a budget accounting quagmire navigable by few technicians and no U.S. Senators. The committee's Sept. 2 scorecard shows Congress $4 billion over the committee target in defense budget authority and $9 billion under its target in non-defense budget authority.

How can this be when Congress cuts defense and increases just about everything else? The scorecard answers in a footnote: an accounting change removed $27 billion in long-term authority for public housing. Without that change, non-defense budget authority would be $9 billion above even the Senate's high target. This target may be lowered later to correspond to the accounting change, cut the Muskie committee for now has given a false impression of defense profligacy and non-defense parsimony.

This fits Muskie's Senate tactics. On July 10, he rose to oppose a $180 million addition to the school lunch program on grounds it exceeded his committee's targets. He was overwhelmingly supported by the Senate, amid speculation Muskie had turned from spender to tight-fisted fiscal conservative.

That speculation ended when Muskie dropped the other shoe Aug. 1, the last day before the August recess. Muskie again rose in the Senate to reject the defense procurement bill's final version on grounds it exceeded the target by $5.4 billion (a misleading figure partially caused by the Muskie staff's accountancy). Muskie's message: if you cut school lunches, cut defense as well.

Defense advocates scarcely consider swapping free lunches for missiles a fair trade considering the overall rise in social welfare spending. But Muskie's argument enlisted five conservative Republicans — Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma, J. Glenn Beall of Maryland, Robert Dole of Kansas, Pete Domenici of New Mexico and William Roth of Delaware. They provided the difference as the Senate rejected the bill 48 to 42.

It is no coincidence that all these conservatives except Roth belong to Muskie's budget committee. Relatively junior in seniority, they view the new budgetary process as their avenue to power.

Thus, a new anti-defense coalition has been built on internal Senate politics, on balancing minor social welfare cuts with major defense cuts and on impenetrable budgetary accounting. The Aug. 1 roll call reflects a possible landmark

Other Editors Say Marijuana Laws

(Chapel Hill Newspaper)

After reading as much as possible about Marijuana over the past three or four years, we are still convinced that the drug is dangerous but have some reservations concerning the severe criminal penalties still being administrated for its personnal use. In some states it is moving in the same direction that prohibition took over 40-years ago. Oregon, Colorado, Maine, California, Ohio, and Alaska have already passed laws decriminalizing marijuana for personal use. There are civil penalties for possession of small amounts, and the question has not been settled as to how harshly to penalize the traffickers.

Oregon was the first state to pass such a law. After nearly two years on the books, statistics show that marijuana smoking has not increased greatly, and that most of Oregon's citizens still feel that it was a wise move.

Decriminalization is an outgrowth of the Shafer Commission (National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse) report in 1972 which recommended the limination of legal penalties for private possession and use while retaining stiffer penalties for sellers.

We still consider marijuana to be dangerous. The same thing can be said for alcohol. Oregon and the other states that have passed special legislation seem to have arrived at a sensible balance of marijuana's potential harm and the effect that criminal charges might have forever on a person's life.

North Carolina might not be ready to pass such a law, but it is high time that we gave it serious consideration. What happens in Oregon and the other states should be watched very carefully.

The Ayden Collard Festival was considerably in the news last week, and around here everybody now knows what collards are.

It took the ECU student newspaper, The Fountainhead, to come up with the scientific name for the collard, Brassica Oleracea.

Eating three pounds of collards, as the winner did, doesn't seem too bad. But imagine eating three pounds of Brassica Oleracea?

At any rate, if collards were ever lowly, they have found their nitch now. They have been singularly honored by the successful Ayden Collard Festival, which included even some kind words from a United States senator.

Sen. Robert Morgan, who attended the festival said, "If you want to get philosophical about it, the collard may very well stand for a way of life that ought to be preserved here in the Eastern part of the state."

What higher praise could there be for the once lowly collard?

40 Years Ago Today

September 21, 1935

The work of repainting the court room in Pitt County Courthouse was nearing completion today and the change in appearance of the room was reported as well-pleasing to members of the bar and others who find it necessary to labor in the courtroom.

In the past, the courtroom has been painted in a dark green color scheme which gave it a dreary appearance and necessitated the burning of electric lights practically the entire time that court was in session. In the new dress, the courtroom presents an entirely different appearance with its light walls, ceiling and railings, with the room trimmed in light oak throughout.

Officials expressed the belief that the saving in light bills alone will more than pay for the redecorating in a short time.

Strength For Today

A DUTY TO GO TO CHURCH

Theodore Roosevelt, when he was president, made it a practice when he could not attend church on Sunday to write his minister and tell him why he could not be present. One day in conversation with the president, the minister assured Roosevelt that writing these notes was unnecessary. But T.R. brought his fist down upon his desk, and exclaimed, "It is my duty to be in church every Sunday, just as it is the duty of every soldier to be in line when the troop is assembled. If I am not, there should be an excuse forthcoming to tell why."

In part this heated response represented T.R.'s characteristic way of expressing himself. It also reflected lingering elements of Victorian propriety. Today we would scarcely think that the analogy of church-going to military muster was an appropriate one. But Roosevelt made an important point. If Christians are really sincere about their faith they have a duty to communicate with their Lord. This is what church-going is all about.

Two Factors Of Intimidation

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Two deadly I's are staring down the stock market, intimidating investors, draining away their confidence in the immediate future of industry, discouraging them from making commitments.

The two I's are inflation and interest rates. When fears arise about either of them the stock market letter writers flood the mails with cautionary advisories. Such a time is now. The letters are in the mail.

Inflation adds to the cost of doing business, and sometimes it isn't easy to pass along all those costs to the eventual buyer. High interest rates raise business costs and, in addition, such money away from stock, into bonds.

Both interest rates and inflation have advanced of late and the widespread feeling is that they might rise even more, if not sharply and immediately, then gradually and eventually.

Finding a consensus on anything economic isn't easy today. There are some who claim the economy is surging ahead, but they tend to restrict their definition. What about inflation and unemployment and high interest rates and the depression in two basic industries, autos and housing?

There is, however a consensus of sorts about inflation and interest rates. It is this: There is a real danger both might continue rising; if that occurs, any advance in the economy could be undermined.

Note that the majority of forecasters aren't saying the rise is inevitable and that a return to recession is bound to be a consequence. What they are saying is that the danger is there.

For Wall Street, where a good rumor moves prices as effectively as a fact, a well-founded fear is almost as deadly as a negative occurrence. Fear is anticipatory, and good investors always anticipate.

Investors are being given plenty upon which to ruminate. In one day this week they read these reports:

—From Alan Greenspan, chairman of the President's council of Economic Advisers, that the economic recovery was already five months along but that the possibility of inflation worsening could abort it.

—The Congressional Budget Office said the economy was recovering strongly but that renewed inflation, mainly in food and fuel prices, might cause another downturn next year.

—From the Conference Board, a private nonprofit research organization largely supported by corporations but which seeks to take a nonpartisan position, a report that interest and inflation fears were creating uncertainty.

There are plenty of other reports to fuel the fears. The nation's purchasing agents have expressed fear of rising prices. Some big brokers have said the same. So have some influential banks.

But there is one thing that everyone should remember about The Street and it is this: Today's rationale for the market might be forgotten tomorrow, when a new and more attractive thesis is put forth.

Independents At New Peak

(Copyright 1975, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Republication in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.)

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J.—Republican party affiliation has declined to its lowest point in 35 years, while the ranks of independents are at a record high.

In the latest study, only 21 per cent of adults nationwide call themselves Republicans, while more than twice as many, 44 per cent, classify themselves as Democrats and 35 per cent place themselves in the ranks of the independents.

The proportion of Republicans has trended downward since 1972 when the comparable figure was 28 per cent. This decline—"across the board" in terms of population groups— is one of the sharpest recorded for a comparable period of time.

The percentage of Democrats has declined from 47 per cent a year ago to 44 per cent today, while independents have increased from 30 to 35 per cent over this same period of time.

Independents, now at peak numbers, will play an increasingly important role in elections. President Ford was right when in a recent speech he urged Republicans to "reach out" for independent voters, since independents provide the balance of power in a close election.

Not only is GOP affiliation at a low point, but prospects for the immediate future are far from bright. When independents are asked whether they "lean" to the Republican party or to the Democratic party, they are found to lean 3-to-2 Democratic.

GOP Prospects Improve

Republican leaders, however, can take some comfort from the fact that the proportion of independents who lean Democratic has declined over recent months. In surveys conducted last spring, independents leaned heavily, 2-to-1, to the Democratic party.

GOP Must Win In Registration Drive

To counteract the numerical advantage of the Democratic party, Republicans must not only court independents and dissident Democrats, but they also must try to win the drive to register voters.

The GOP is currently launching such an effort. National Chairman Mary Louise Smith recently said, "This may be one of the most important off-years in the history of the Republican party. We have to get ready now to run the campaigns needed to elect Republicans at every level next year."

At present, the GOP leads the Democrats in terms of the proportion of registered party members, but not by a wide margin. Recent Gallup surveys show 77 per cent of Republicans registered, 73 per cent of Democrats and 62 per cent of independents.

To determine political party allegiance, the following question has been asked regularly since 1940:

"In politics, as of today, do you consider yourself a Republican, Democrat, or independent?"

Following are the latest results and trend since 1972:

	Republican	Democrat	Independent
LATEST (June-Aug.)	21%	44%	35%

(NOTE: The proportion who do not classify themselves in one of the three categories— ranging from 2 to 3 per cent— has been excluded in each set of figures.)

All persons who classify themselves as independents are asked: "As of today, would you say you lean more to the Democratic party or to the Republican party?

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Within the next few days, the United States Coast Guard will publish regulations governing the construction and operation of oil tankers that navigate in domestic waters. These will be final regulations, of particular importance to all those who live by the sea. The rules ought to be the best and wisest that can be drafted—and there is much concern that they are not.

At the risk of producing a purple sentence, it may be suggested that the tanker regulations have serious meaning for all mankind. The world consumes some 2.7 billion tons of petroleum annually; of this amount, roughly 1.7 billion tons must be transported by tanker. On any given day, 30 to 35 million barrels of petroleum products are on the seas.

The world tanker fleet consists of 6,800 vessels. Of these, only 623 are "supertankers," those in excess of 100,000 tons,; but the supertankers have greater deadweight than all the others put together. Another 700 supertankers are under construction or under contract. They are enormous vessels—as large as aircraft carriers, drawing 60 to 90 feet of water—and they are enormously efficient. Highly automated, manned by crews of only 25 to 35 men, the supers ply the sea lanes of the world. And they are a source of world concern.

According to a recent study by the Office of Technology Assessment, the tanker fleet as a whole pollutes the seas with more than half a billion gallons of oil every year. Two-thirds of this pollution results from standard operations, chiefly the washing of tanks; another part results from drydock operations; the remainder results from 600 to 700 accidents each year that leak 200,000 tons of oil into the oceans.

The worst damage from spillage occurs close to shore, where the oil suffocates marine life, kills birds, and does vast harm to the whole ecosystem on which fish, crabs, oysters, shrimp and other marine creatures depend. Less is known of the harm done far at sea, but common sense would suggest that cumulative oil pollution is cause for apprehension.

Most of the world's tankers are under foreign registry—Liberian, Panamanian, Greek, Norwegian, Japanese and British. The U. S. fleet is only the seventh largest. The U.S. is thus not able to control international standards, but our position as the largest importer gives the U. S. significant clout. The Coast Guard could lay down stiff regulations for the protection of U. S. waters and make the regulations stick.

Are the forthcoming regulations stiff enough? Experts disagree. The Coast Guard could have reguired double bottoms. Two years ago, the Coast Guard was strongly in favor of such a requirement. Now the Coast Guard has retreated. These will not be required. Rear Admiral Sidney A. Wallace says the feeling now is that the original assumptions were not valid; double bottoms may present safety hazards (because of trapped vapors), and may create navigational hazards also. A double-bottomed vessel, having run aground, is difficult to salvage. There are arguments both ways.

Neither will the Coast Guard regulations require double hulls. Requirements as to segregated ballast reportedly are mild. Little will be demanded in terms of braking and stopping devices. One of these behemoths, traveling at 16 knots, needs three miles to stop; at six knots, approaching port, a supertanker has to have three-fourths of a mile.

Senator Lee Metcalf of Montana says flatly that the regulations amount to a sweetheart deal between the Coast Guard and the great petroleum companies. The Coast Guard's rules plainly are derived directly from rules proposed by an industry committee created by the American Petroleum Institute. Admiral Wallace denies that this technical study committee was a formal "advisory committee," subject to federal procedural rules, but the distinction is not critical. It appears evident that so far as these regulations are concerned, what the industry wanted, the industry got.

Double bottoms, double hulls, braking devices, segregated ballast, added radar, tough requirements for the training and licensing of tanker crews—all these would cost money. The retrofitting of old vessels to comply with new regulations would be especially expensive and time-consuming. But if the world is going to have to live with supertankers, the world has a right to demand that, whatever the cost, their operations be subject to strict rules that will promote safety and deter pollution. The U.S., through the Coast Guard, should be leading in this effort. An uneasy feeling will not go away that the Coast Guard is not leading, but merely trailing along.

TOO SHATTERING TO BE IGNORED!

Treasury Borrowing To Meet Deficits Can Be Setting Back Recovery

By GEORGE BRYANT, JR.

The nation's thrift institutions, meaning savings banks and savings and loan associations, are feeling the impact of the Treasury's constant scramble to meet the needs of the still-growing federal deficit.

What's happening is that funds which otherwise would be available to finance home mortgages are being diverted. The attraction is the higher interest rates the Treasury is offering on short-term, low denomination securities.

Just this week, so-called "small" savers drew many millions from savings banks and savings and loans to buy two-year notes paying 8.44 per cent interest on denominations as small as $5,000. That beats anything that is offered by the thrift institutions.

And more of the same is in the offing. Within the next several days the Treasury will have an offering of 28-month notes. The guessing is that these securities, also available in $5,000 denominations, also will pay an interest rate close to 8.5 per cent, depending on the bidding.

This drain on the home mortgage lenders comes at a time when the housing industry is still deep in one of the worst slumps it has ever suffered. A tightening in the mortgage market, with tougher screening of loans and even higher interest rates, now is a definite threat to home builders and would-be buyers.

The home mortgage situation, however, is only one aspect of a developing money market picture which has implications for the entire economy. There's danger that the recovery now underway will be cut short. Some students in the field point out that financial markets usually are influenced by economic factors. They are concerned that we now face conditions under which the money markets will become the major influence on the economy.

Since early in the year, there has been speculation that the huge deficits being incurred under the banner of recession fighting might well "crowd out" other borrowers and thus hamper the recovery instead of help it. The alternative was seen as a tremendous and highly inflationary expansion of credit.

There has been some obvious "crowding out" of other borrowers as the Treasury has tapped the markets for more and more deficit money, creating a demand which has pushed interest rates up. Many security offerings by lesser known corporations and some fairly well known ones, too—have been withdrawn. Even commercial banks with plans to expand capitalization by tapping the market have pulled back.

A relatively new element in the overall picture is the financial mess New York city invited. Trouble for the Big Apple had been anticipated for a long time. But it took a crisis to drive the problem home. The result is that states and municipalities, in general, are having to pay higher interest rates on their borrowings. This is bringing on "reexaminations" of spending plans which involve creation of new debt.

This carries with it the prospect of less state and municipal spending for goods and services at a time when recovery has only started. Just what impact this might have can't be measured, of course. But it is estimated that between 15 per cent and 20 per cent of state and municipal borrowings go for the purchase of goods and services.

Complicating the money market picture is the prospect that the Treasury's borrowings will be the dominant force for a long time to come. Current estimates are that financing the deficit will syphon $44-$47-billion out of the market during the six months ending December 31. That's the first -half installment on the 1976 fiscal year deficit which in all probability will exceed $80-billion, and might go much beyond that. And it is something that might well be repeated in the following fiscal year.

The Treasury could, of course, cover this deficit without pushing up interest rates and "crowding out" others. Under the system, it would be possible for the Federal Reserve to "create" whatever credit the government needs. But any such operation would be extremely inflationary — nothing more than printing press money.

While attracting funds from the thrift institutions poses a threat to the housing industry, it is one of the least inflationary methods open to the Treasury, In the economy, it amounts to a transfer of deposits. Borrowing from commercial banks increases deposits—swells the money supply.

It's going to take some time for the financial market picture to take shape and give a firm view of recovery prospects. Guessing among some key financial analysts is that interest rates will push higher, due to heavy Treasury borrowing, rising inflation and Federal Reserve restraint, then drop.

This is another way of saying that a meaning full recovery is far from a sure thing.

There also are the mashers who try to grab female workers' hands, men and women who delight in driving while wearing nothing but a coat, and drivers who enjoy the way toll-takers react to red-hot quarters, heated by cigarette lighters.

change in Capitol Hill defense politicies that deeply worries the Pentagon. On Sept. 5, Muskie helped cement his coalition by successfully opposing the final version of the school lunch bill, thereby perpetuating the notion of a tradeoff.

Defense officials hope to break the coalition by convincing its conservative Republicans that they are victimized by figures which magnify defense spending and shrink non-defense spending. But the impulse for stronger national defense immediately following the Indochina debacle seems to be fading. The desire to equate elimination of free school lunches for children of $200-a-week workers with cuts in military preparedness may be irresistable.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Sept. 21, the 264th day of 1975. There are 101 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1949, West Germany came into existence as the American, British and French occupation zones in Germany were transferred to German control.

On this date:

In 1792, the French Assembly voted to abolish France's monarchy.

In 1938, Czechoslovakia agreed to cede the Sudeten German area of that country to Nazi Germany.

In 1939, during World War II, the Soviet Union and Germany agreed on the demarcation of Poland.

In 1953, during the Korean War, a North Korean pilot landed his Soviet-built MIG in South Korea to collect a $100,000 reward for the first MIG delivered to the U.N. forces.

Ten years ago: President Lyndon Johnson left Bethesda Naval Hospital after surgery for removal of his gallbladder and a kidney stone.

Five years ago: Guerrilla forces in Jordan seized several towns in the northern part of the country as King Hussein's troops fell back.

One year ago: The first four military deserters to be processed under President Ford's amnesty program received alternative service terms ranging from one to two years.

Today's birthdays: Pianist Gyorgy Sando is 63. Former Salvation Army General Frederick Coutts is 76.

Thought for today: People who tell you something for your own good never seem to have anything good to tell you. — Anonymous.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, George Washington reported to the Continental Congress that his soldiers would soon need winter quarters and clothing but his war chest was exhausted and credit strained.

Nobody Will Admit The House Really Exists

If there's anything worse than moving into an unfinished house, it's having everyone refuse to admit that the house exists. So far, the only company to recognize our existence is the telephone company, and it took them three weeks to find the place. At first I thought that this indicated a severe learning disability on the part of their service people, but, after a month of debating with some of the other public servants in Greenville, even I began to wonder if we really were here. Every time I talked to one of them, I got the eerie feeling that Phillip and I had been living in a mirage and that, when I got back to our townhouse, the only thing left would be a couple of empty cartons of Camels lying on a sandpile.

Our problems with being recognized do not stem from the fact that we live on a back road somewhere past Frog Level and halfway to California. No, we are within the city limits of Greenville. The problems stem from the fact that we are one of the first condominiums in Greenville, and Greenville officials figure that since the city's never had a condominium before, such things must not exist.

Last week this assault on my and my house's identities became so severe that I was climbing the firewall. "I can't stand much more of this," I groaned to Phillip. "As homeowners we're entitled to have our trash picked up from our backyard. But the sanitation department won't even empty the Dempsey Dumpster because they say we don't live here and they don't pick up building materials. I DO live here, and since when is 143 Chef Boyardee spaghetti boxes 'building materials?' "

GAIL MICHAELS

"I've suspected it for a long time," he said, tentatively tapping the drywall.

"Can't you be serious?" I screamed. "we look like the site of Greenville's second landfill. I've a good mind not to pay my taxes this year."

Phillip gave a panicky hiss. "Don't say that," he whispered. "Remember who we are."

I struck my best Patrick Henry pose. "I may be the tax supervisor's wife," I declared. "But first and foremost, I am an American. And I have as much right to get my trash picked up as President Ford. So give me sanitation or serve me a warrant!"

"I admire your patriotism dear," he said drily. "But I think your solution is a bunch of garbage."

"Well, what am I supposed to do?" I asked. "I would write a nasty letter, but the post office doesn't believe we're here either. They think we're a figment of our friends', family's, and creditors' imaginations. They keep sending back all our mail."

"I know," he sighed. "Just this week eight people have called me to ask if we have an unlisted house number."

"See there," I gloated. "now what if the trucking company checks with the post office before they deliver the furniture we ordered? "Those poor truckers will be wandering around all over town."

Maybe, so, but they won't be wandering around this town. I checked with the furniture company this afternoon, and they've bypassed our address troubles altogether."

"How did they do that?" I asked.

Williamsburg Is Prepared For Bicentennial Rush Of Tourists

By DANIEL C. RIKER

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UPI) If you want to visit the nation's most famous restored 18th century city in 1976, where Patrick Henry, Thomas Jefferson, George Washington and many others provided the leadership of the Revolution, the time to plan your trip is now.

Space will be tighter than ever before during the bicentennial year. Colonial Williamsburg, celebrating its 50th anniversary in 1976, is suffering from success and even now there are not enough restaurants and hotels in the restored area on busy days.

The unprepared visitor will risk major disappointment.

Nearby tourist attractions, such as Jamestown, Yorktown and a giant amusement park, constructed by the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Co., add to the appeal of the Virginia Tidewater area, less than a three hour drive from the nation's capital, which will be overflowing with tourists for whom the planning has bogged down.

Virginia has proceeded more rapidly than the federal government or most other areas to prepare for the massive influx of tourists expected in 1976 by establishing a series of information centers to ease the confusion.

Williamsburg has made an art of this and consistently provides visitors with concise and easy-to-follow booklets, well-trained personnel and bus transportation, a tremendous boon to foot-weary travelers. Your first stop has to be at the Vistors Center and it is worth every minute.

Colonial Williamsburg's hotel accommodations include the Inn, Lodge and restored cottages and larger buildings, all air conditioned with colonial furniture and room service. The most pleasant are the restored buildings but they're often booked a year in advance.

They are havens on the 90-100 degree muggy days of Virginia's summers. You can quickly refresh yourself and keep the kids quiet (and sometimes out of the way) without having to tramp any distance.

At night, when the town closes down, you can walk the quiet streets and feel closer to the 18th Century than at any other time.

Colonial Williamsburg maintains toll-free telephone numbers in many cities to take hotel and dinner reservations. Sometimes, if they are full, they will help you find another place. A number of new and good accommodations are nearby.

The best food in the area is served at the restaurants operated by Colonial Williamsburg, three of them in restored inns, the King's Arms, Christiana Campbell's and the Chowning's Tavern. Each has its own character and menu, with the King's Arms the most elegant and most expensive. All serve meals by candlelight at night.

Reservations for dinner, made well in advance, are a must. If you are unable to get reservations in the inns, the Visitors Center's restaurant, the Cascades, serves most of the dishes. The meals, mostly of authentic colonial Virginia origin including items such as peanut soup, Virginia ham, spoon bread, and Chesapeake Bay seafood, can be expensive if you order many of the extras but reasonable if you do not.

The wines are very overpriced and poor in quality. Try the sparkling Scuppernong as an aperatif for an unusual experience and the hunt breakfast at the Cascades will keep you full all day.

You can save money by passing up the nice but comparatively expensive lunches in Williamsburg for a short-order place.

Williamsburg is not a one-day stop. You can't possibly see everything in a day and appreciate any of it. It should be a three day visit at least.

With this is mind, Colonial Williamsburg offers one day, three day and seven day tickets. The three and seven day tickets are the best buys. Then, if you want to visit Yorktown or Jamestown or take the kids to the Busch Gardens there won't be the hassle of worrying about missing something in Williamsburg.

There are a number of attractions in and around Williamsburg that rate prime attention. The Governor's Palace, The Capitol, Bruton Parish Church, William and Mary College, the Raleigh and Wetherburn Taverns and Carter's Grove Plantation are the principal ones.

There are several beautifully restored homes, principally the George Wythe House, the home of Thomas Jefferson's law teacher, and the home of Peyton Randolph, the President of the First Continental Congress.

The craft shops have been expanded in number but, in some cases, diminished in size. Some are worth the wait in line but many are not. A couple of stores sell souvenirs, but most are expensive. A clay pipe or some beeswax candles are nice gifts.

The Two Personalities Of Patricia Hearst

WHAT'S IN A NAME? Much trouble if there's a hyphen in it and mother's name comes first. It took 15 months for Paula R. Eder, 32, and her husband, Christopher Linell Jr., 23, of fighting bureaucracy so that their son could have the name Maron Matthew Eder-Linell. (AP Wirephoto)

By SUSAN SWARD

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In her first two days of captivity, Patricia Hearst has often seemed like two different people.

She was Tania, the 21-year-old radical fugitive, arrested with a loaded gun in her purse, who told a matron booking her into jail that her occupation was "urban guerrilla."

And was newspaper heiress Patricia Campbell Hearst, who laid her head on the shoulder of a father she had once reviled as a pig and said "Where else?" when he asked if she wanted to come home.

She was the self-proclaimed revolutionary, subject to a possible life sentence if convicted of bank robbery and other charges, who through her attorney sent "greetings and love to all the brothers and sisters out there."

And she was the pale, slender victim of a kidnaping 19 months ago who told a fellow inmate she was glad to hear her mother say she still loved her; a defendant who offered no objection when her attorney said she would plead innocent to the charges against her.

The woman who at the peak of her revolutionary ardor had vowed, "They'll have to kill me before I go back, there is no surrender," offered no resistance when agents arrested her in a rented house here Thursday. They said she made no move to reach a loaded .38 caliber pistol in her purse and told them of two carbines in a nearby closet.

"I asked her if she was glad it was all over, and she didn't say a word," said Tim Casey, the police inspector who made the arrest.

Her public utterances since then have been limited to brief replies to a judge's ritual questions establishing her name, age and attorney's name. She has given no real hint of her deepest feelings about her arrest, her family, or of her life since her kidnap by the Symbionese Liberation Army on Feb. 4, 1974.

But when Evelyn Broussard, a fellow inmate at the San Mateo County Jail asked her how she was captured, Miss Hearst was quoted as replying: "I wish to hell I knew." And when Mrs. Broussard commented on how long Miss Hearst had been missing, she reportedly answered: "I wish it had been longer."

Patty's 18-year-old sister Vicki said that family members were "on thin ice" when they met with Patty at the jail. "We didn't want to make her defensive so we kept changing the subject if things were getting tense," Vicki said.

Because the family was unsure now Patty would react to them, they aproached their first meeting gingerly, Vicki explained, adding:

"She has always been kind of cool."

Wants Break-Up Of News Media Corporations

By BILLIE BROWN
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Georgia state Sen. Julian Bond called today for legislation to break up corporations which own many newspapers, television stations and radio stations.

"If the United states is to break the stranglehold corporate syndicates now have on information sources, we must have new legislation," Bond said in a speech prepared for delivery to the National Radio Broadcasters Association.

"We know these empires will not be given up without a struggle."

Bond, D-Atlanta, said that in the South, for example, eight companies own more than 65 newspapers, 22 AM-FM radio stations and 10 television stations.

He said the situation is not confined to the South but is more widespread there because of rapid growth in newspaper circulation and advertising.

"In 1974, 248 of the 430 daily newspapers in the 13-state South were controlled by companies owning more than one newspaper," Bond said. "In the same year, companies with interests in two or more television stations owned 126 of the South's 225 stations.

"This situation exists in totalitarian states where it is called dictatorship and thought control; here, we call it free enterprise," said Bond.

On Friday, the chairman of the Federal Communications Commission told the group—which is meeting here for its three-day annual convention—that the FCC will vote next week on whether to exempt spot political news coverage from federal "equal time" requirements.

The federal law stipulates that broadcasters must allow equal time to opponents when they provide coverage of one candidate for political office.

If the FCC votes to exempt spot news, broadcasters could cover a news conference by President Ford, for example, without giving equal time to all presidential candidates.

Loses Initial Round In Bid To Stay In Air Force

By LARRY McDERMOTT
Associated Press Writer

HAMPTON, Va. (AP) — T. Sgt. Leonard P. Matlovich, an acknowledged homosexual, has lost his initial fight to remain in the Air Force, but he says the battle isn't over.

An administrative discharge board heard 3½ days of testimony at Langley Air Force Base. After deliberating for more than four hours on Friday, the board recommended that Matlovich be given a general discharge because he is gay.

When the three-member board of officers announced its recommendation, Matlovich was standing rigidly at attention. He smiled faintly.

"I don't think they like homosexuals," he said after the hearing.

He added that his fight to remain in uniform will continue. "It now becomes a campaign," he said, adding that he would "cross any stream and climb any mountain" to remain in the Air Force.

About 50 supporters applauded Matlovich as he met with reporters. He held up a bicentennial coin which he said had the words "200 years of freedom" inscribed on the back.

"Not yet," he said, pointing to the coin. "It will be, though. All the way. We are going to win. It was my personal loss, but it will be humanity's victory."

The 32-year-old Air Force veteran of 12 years announced his homosexuality six months ago and said he would challenge the military regulations.

The board's recommendation of a general discharge will be reviewed for technical flaws and forewarded to Col. Alton J. Thogersen, the local discharge authority at Langley.

Thogersen can only upgrade the recommendation or leave it unchanged. He cannot render a more unfavorable decision. He will send the transcript to Air Force Secretary John L. McLucas, who will decide on Matlovich's request for a waiver.

The review process will take about two weeks, a spokesman said.

Matlovich, who has served in a limited capacity at headquarters here since March, will remain on active duty until McLucas renders his decision.

David F. Addlestone, a Washington attorney who directed the defense, said he did not expect a general discharge, a separation from the Air Force under honorable conditions.

There are three types of discharges — honorable, general and dishonorable.

Matlovich, a human relations instructor, has an unblemished military record. He served three tours in Vietnam and was wounded once.

Rare Ferret

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists are attempting to determine the historical and current status of the black-footed ferret, considered one of the rarest mammals on the North American continent.

Biologist Danny Swepston has documented evidence of only three black-footed ferrets in Texas within the last 100 years.

Christine Jorgensen Nearly 50, And She's Happy

CHRISTINE JORGENSEN, who always wanted to be an entertainer, has the satisfaction of having careers as an actress, mimic, nightclub entertainer, college lecturer, author, television personality, hatter, cookbooker and incipient novelist. (UPI Photo)

By H. D. QUIGG
UPI Senior Editor

Christine Jorgensen, who always wanted to be an entertainer when she was a little boy, now has the satisfaction of nearing age 50 with a career of actress, mimic, nightclub entertainer, college lecturer, author, television personality, hatter, cookbooker, and incipient novelist.

Miss Jorgensen, in case you are too young to remember 1952, is probably the first—and certainly the most famous—male libber. She was liberated from manhood by Danish sex-switch surgeons and has been a woman now for 23 years.

"I'll be a half century old next May 10 and I'm a great aunt, and I don't feel it and I don't think I look it—considering all the wear and tear," she said in a phone interview at her Laguna Beach, Calif., home.

George Jorgensen, a former GI, left New York in 1950 for Denmark, where he underwent a series of operations. Two years later Christine emerged. On Dec. 1, 1952 the story was broken by the New York Daily News, a morning paper. By that afternoon the George-Christine saga had traveled around the world.

Christine returned to New York and began a nightclub act, singing and doing imitations. She was in nightclubs about 10 years and spent 10 more in the theater as an actress and in lecturing. Recently, she said, Milton Berle suggested she returned to nightclubs in an act with him, and she's thinking it over.

Miss Jorgensen is rather hard to catch up with. She's often on tour. She has been making television appearances. Recently, in New York, she occupied the entire hour of the NBC network "Tomorrow" show.

Her main occupation the last two years has been lecturing at universities; she is an uncommonly articulate person.

"I was startled to realize that I've spoken to more than 100,000 students," she said. "I lecture on human identity and communication. This is very important to young people, not only gender identity but identity of the person. The lectures are sponsored by the student body.

"Young people now are very much with it, with everything. They can ask some very direct questions. But no question is rudely asked."

Asked about the general change in public attitude on sex, she said:

"There's been a tremendous change on every subject. Twenty years ago you wouldn't mention venereal disease on television. Twenty years ago I wouldn't have been permitted on campuses. I was considered sexy. In a way I think it was considered dirty. Americans were brought up to consider sex dirty.

"Everybody was expected to be 'normal' but there is no normal. Nobody knows what norm is. As my father said, there are places in the world where people are expected to eat their next door neighbor—depends on where you are."

She said she was headed for Sweden in 1905 when relatives in Denmark suggested surgery there.

"The surgery on me was a research project. My doctors didn't know of any such case before. It's called sexual reassignment. We're all partly male and partly female. It's not really sex change.

"Now, there are over 40 gender identity clinics in the United States. They are diagnostic, clinical—guide people to where surgery is done."

In 1967, Miss Jorgensen wrote her biography, and in 1969 a film was made of it. She has just completed a Scandinavian cookbook: "It's called 'A Lump, a Pinch, and a Dash'—that's what my grandmother alwasys said—and I'm looking for a publisher.

"And I'm thinking about a novel having to do with Denmark in World War II, relating to the underground. Many of my friends and relatives were in the underground, and the true stories are stranger than fiction. I've got a lot of notes already."

Miss Jorgensen is planning to go into the turban business, "Turbans by Christine," plains ones and fancy, jeweled ones.

"I've always liked turbans," she said. "I have some people making them up privately. Right now they are display in one shop in Palm Springs. We want to get in with the department store chains."

How about her love life?

"Twice I was engaged but never got married. I was never in love with the men I was engaged to, and I was never engaged to the men I was in love with. And now as time passes I make my own decisions, and the harder it is to get tied down.

"The way the divorce rate is going, there's much to be said for single bliss."

Singapore Working To Keep People In Shape

By KOH HAN THUAN

SINGAPORE (UPI) — It's not unusual to turn a corner in Singapore and find a cabinet minister jogging down the road with a few thousand sweating constituents in pursuit.

It's all part of an official "sports-for-all" policy aimed at keeping the people of this increasingly industrialized nation from going to flab.

Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew, in opening the National Stadium two years ago, told the populace he would rather see the facility "used by our students and adults from all over Singapore than to have it filled because of famous world class teams."

Officials got the message quickly. A National Sports Council was formed to plan and implement government policy — the maximum physical development of school children and improvement of the physical fitness of adults.

Today, a close working relationship exists between the council, various sports associations and government ministries.

School children, besides being taught physical education from primary level, are also encouraged to take part in sporting activities outside school hours, with teachers participating as part of their extra-curricular activities.

Government leaders from the ministers down to the lowest functionary often lead huge crowds in mass walkathons, jogging and cycling.

Chan Chee Seng, a high government official who plays a leading role in the campaign, said, "Sports builds camaraderie and good will, besides promoting physical fitness, social peace and economic productivity."

Running tracks, football fields, basketball and badminton courts, swimming pools and parks were constructed all over the island republic to enable the people to play and exercise.

The "sports-for-all" policy fits well with the rugged society Singaporeans are urged to build for national resilience in a fast changing world.

Every year, Singapore's youth take part in an annual festival of precision drill, dance and gymnastic exercise at the stadium.

This culminates in an annual month-long "Pesta Sukan" (Festival of Sports) during which the various sports associations organize open competitions, with foreign teams participating.

Today, Singapore boasts of having more than 40 associations engaged in promoting almost every sport being played in other countries of the world.

Waste-Heat For Lobster

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A manufacturer and two public utility companies are conducting a joint study to determine whether waste heat from electric power plants can help to restore the rapidly diminishing supply of New England lobsters.

They hope to identify potential problems associated with full-scale lobster production.

The final phase calls for construction of a lobster farm, including a hatchery for mating and rearing lobster larvae. If everything goes as planned, the farm would produce about three million lobsters a year.

Dr. J.H. Wright, director of the environmental systems department for Westinghouse Electric Corp., says that rearing New England lobsters in captivity promises many advantages.

He said studies have indicated that lobsters grown in warm water, such as that discharged from a power plant, reach maturity in about two years, compared to the five to eight years needed naturally to reach marketing.

"Another advantage is that lobsters of uniform size and weight can be produced throughout the entire year," Wright said.

The bulk of the natural lobster catch now is concentrated in the warm summer months. Production falls off sharply during late fall, winter and early spring, Wright said.

SPECIAL DAY

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (UPI) — A special day of fast and concern for the world's starving has been set aside on Aug. 2, 1976, during the week-long meeting here of the 41st International Eucharistic Congress.

Sponsoring New Service Course

Pitt Technical Institute in cooperation with Real Crisis Center will sponsor a course in Crisis Intervention and Community Services beginning Wednesday, at 7:00 P.M. at the Real Crisis Center, 1117 Evans St.

The primary goal of this course is to attract and provide comprehensive training for individuals who desire to work for the Real Crisis Center as volunteers in service to the Greenville Pitt County Community.

Course content will include an introduction to the various community service agencies as well as specific training in handling actual crisis situations.

Night Services Set For Week

A week of services will be held at St. Monica Baptist Church, Grimesland, Monday through Friday.

Services will begin each night at 7 o'clock.

Basic First Aid Course Planned By Pitt Tech

Pitt Technical Institute will conduct a twelve hour course of Basic First Aid, beginning at 7:00 p.m. Monday, in room 153 at Rose High School.

Satisfactory completion of the course meets the First Aid requirements of the Pitt County American Red Cross and also the Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA).

Due to the short duration of the course, one should plan to attend the first and all other sessions.

There is a tuition of $3 for the course. No pre-registration is required to attend. Books can be purchased at the first session for a cost of $4.60 (2.00 textbook, $2.60 workbook).

CLOSE LOOK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Too much close work can lead to myopia, or nearsightedness, says the American Optometric Association here. One researcher found that many navy submariners developed this eye problem after spending months in a sub in which the most distant object was only about six feet away.

Danes Beginning Question Welfare State Course

EDITOR'S NOTE — Good schools, free health care, even payments on the TV set. That's what Denmark provides its citizens. But guess what: most now resent it. Most are telling welfare statists to quit coddling the unemployed, get to work, and turn the clock back — or ahead.

By JOHN VINOCUR
Associated Press Writer

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Something has gone wrong in a country where they start offering an optional extra year of high school in the fall so as not to drown the labor market.

Something is amiss in a place where someone can write a book called "Does It Pay to Earn More Money?"

No one suggests that a nation has gone rotten that provides everyone with good schools, virtually free medical care, dignified old age and the right to complain.

But Denmark acknowledges it is in trouble.

The country has been Western Europe's leader in unemployment for the past year with up to 13 per cent of the blue collar work force jobless. Emigration ran to 40,000 in 1974 — the proportionate equivalent to 1.6 million people leaving the United States — and is now up 25 per cent, the highest rate in a century.

And since 1971, when they reached 44 per cent, taxes here have represented a greater part of the gross national product than anywhere else in the industrialized world.

Beyond the statistical horror show, the problem is that Denmark's troubles outpace recession and involve the functioning and growth of its super-welfare state.

Many Danes now believe that the country's recovery depends not only on the standard economic stimulants, but a deep decision on whether people want to continue in the direction the welfare state has brought them.

This direction is one in which 85 per cent of the population gets some kind of money from the state.

That could mean 25 per cent off a subsidized house painting bill, or two-thirds back from the cost of sending a child to a private kindergarten. You can get paid for moving from a private house to an apartment. You can get a tax break for moving from an apartment to a private house.

This direction has also meant that the number of employes in the state sector runs to about 700,000, the same amount employed by heavy industry.

It means, too, that taxes to support the infrastructure are murderous, the kind that make a new Chevrolet cost $22,000 or a small Renault $7,000.

Ultimately the situation leads to a book like "Does It Pay to Earn More Money?" The book tries to answer a question that in most other places would be thought inconceivable: can a salary increase mean less real income?

Danes, particularly those with incomes of around $10,000 a year, are so roped into a system of children's allowances, high taxes and sliding rent subsidies that the extra money from a promotion can take them out of a salary area with more advantageous social benefits.

Economists for two political opposites, the Central Labor Union and the Danish Federation of Industry, have agreed that a working wife often represented no additional income for a couple.

The result is a loss of worker initiative and a society that has maneuvered itself into putting a premium on production.

The Danish experience with unemployment over the last two years, resulting from the oil crisis, less competitive export products and a building boom not dampened early enough, has provided a good look at where the society has gone.

The state provides up to $500 a month after taxes to the jobless, and municipal governments can offer additional money so that rent, mortgage, car payments and even television payments can be met if they are considered a necessity.

A construction worker like Einar Johansen said idleness has made him depressed, but Einar Dahl, a 49-year-old crane operator who has been out of work for the better part of two years, has another view:

"I'll say what other people are too embarrassed to say. In Denmark, unemployment is a paradise. It would take the devil himself now to make a young guy work in a factory. I've got a month's job in August for about $1,200. But because my kids are grown up, I'll pay around 60 per cent in taxes. Under these circumstances, you're being punished to work."

Workers say they feel the Danish system protects them from the whims of employers, but they often add that the country's 12 per cent inflation rate and high home and automobile prices penalize them in relation to wealthier Danes.

Dr. Claus Curdt-Christiansen admits this is so. A physician, he makes about $60,000 a year. He bought a home north of Copenhagen for about $100,000 because he figures deductions to homeowners effectively mean going from a 60 per cent to a 43 per cent tax bracket.

"A man with a quarter of my income couldn't really improve his situation," Dr. Christiansen said. "A Dane has to make about $20,000 a year to have room to maneuver so as to make tax savings."

Facing the world at 17 or 18 in the Danish context has become difficult as well. With unemployment among young people running at about 25 per cent, the state decided to add on an optional extra year of high school for students not continuing toward university degrees.

There is no well-defined, right-left political blame to go with what public opinion polls show is mounting dissatisfaction because both the Social Democrats and the Conservatives have increased the social welfare apparatus during their terms in office. But a gradual movement away from welfare state ideals looks clear.

Gallup polls show that two-thirds of the population think taxes are unfair and 63 per cent feel that the welfare state has gone too far. Another 55 per cent feel Danish society is moving in the wrong direction, a direction they think means undisciplined children, alienation and stress.

There has been a double political result. The Progress Party, the group most aggressively attacking government spending and taxes, has become the third largest political organization in the country. And the old line parties have been pushed into calling for a moderate rollback in both taxes and government expenditures.

Under the circumstances, the alternatives for Denmark's ruling socialists are to make major cuts in the operation of the welfare state while waiting for the economy to begin moving — economists say Denmark is entirely dependent on recovery of its big clients — or to step further to the left.

An attempt to bring industry increasingly under worker control with a greater worker share of the profits would seem to be the only course remaining for the government of Premier Anker Joergensen because any kind of tax increase now would be political suicide.

But a Social Democratic bill that would lead to turning profits into funds run by labor unions got an unpopular reception when presented earlier in the year. What's left in Denmark is a country that has found out it can't really afford its lifestyle, but has not decided with any vigor what to do about it.

Defender Of Pesticides

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A specialist in the field of industrial medicine says pesticides are not harmful to human health as long they are used properly.

"If we didn't use pesticides, there simply would not be sufficient food on the table, and the pest population would quickly become a major health menace," said Dr. Mitchell Zavon.

A recent president of The American Association of Poison Control Centers, Dr. Zavon said, "with all the safeguards our government takes to insure human safety, it is impossible for people to buy food at the store which would contain a harmful amount of pesticides.

"By means of a great invention called a gas chromatograph we now have the ability to measure chemical residues in parts per trillion. This means a millionth part of a foot in the distance from New York to Washington, D.C. — an astounding fact beyond the comprehension of most people.

"In order to pass standards set by the food and drug administration, Zavon said, "any pesticide residues found on any fresh produce must register at 100 x below the no effect level on people for that particular pesticide. Otherwise the entire shipment of fruit or vegetables is destroyed.

"Pesticides may be harmful if misused. However, they are a necessity in our world today and certainly much more of an asset to our civilization than a possible hazard to man's health."

WORN WOOD, BRICKS AND CEMENT . . . in this warehouse loading point combine to create a structure of varied patterns and interesting building materials textures.

A Greenville Gallery Of Unusual Forms

In the area of Greenville enclosed by Tenth and Fourteenth, South Evans and South Clark streets, a rich array of unusual forms can be discovered. Details from large brick buildings, tin sheds and wooden buildings— mechanisms revealed out of context when buildings are demolished; accidents of nature; and unfortunately, transformations that are the result of vandalism, all contribute to forms, textures and patterns that are part of this commercial-industrial landscape.

The gallery of details, a few of which are pictured here, is not unique to Greenville. In any town a similar situation exists to a lesser or greater degree. Sun and rain, hot weather and cold weather, and man's deliberate actions all contribute to the continuing cycle of change.

Today these details exist— tomorrow, next month, next year, the face of this landscape will be altered.

In this century, the imagination of many American artists has been nourished by such areas. Painters, sculptors and an entire new school of constructionist artists have found the commonplaces of American cities worthy of their attention.

A tour of this area of Greenville can be a rewarding experience— an opportunity for each viewer to make their own personal discoveries of unexpected beauty.

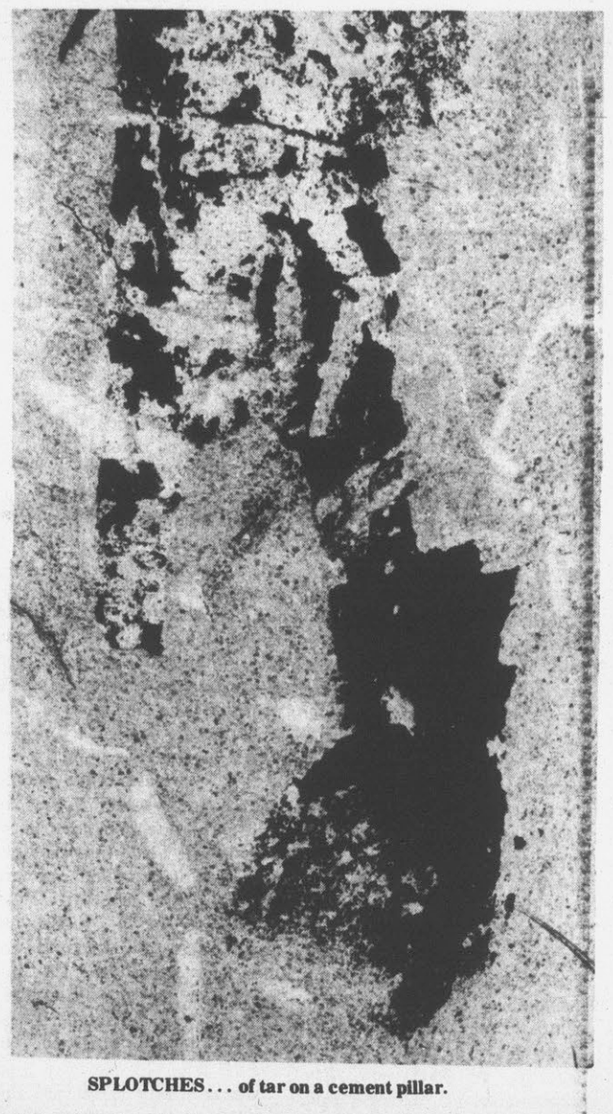
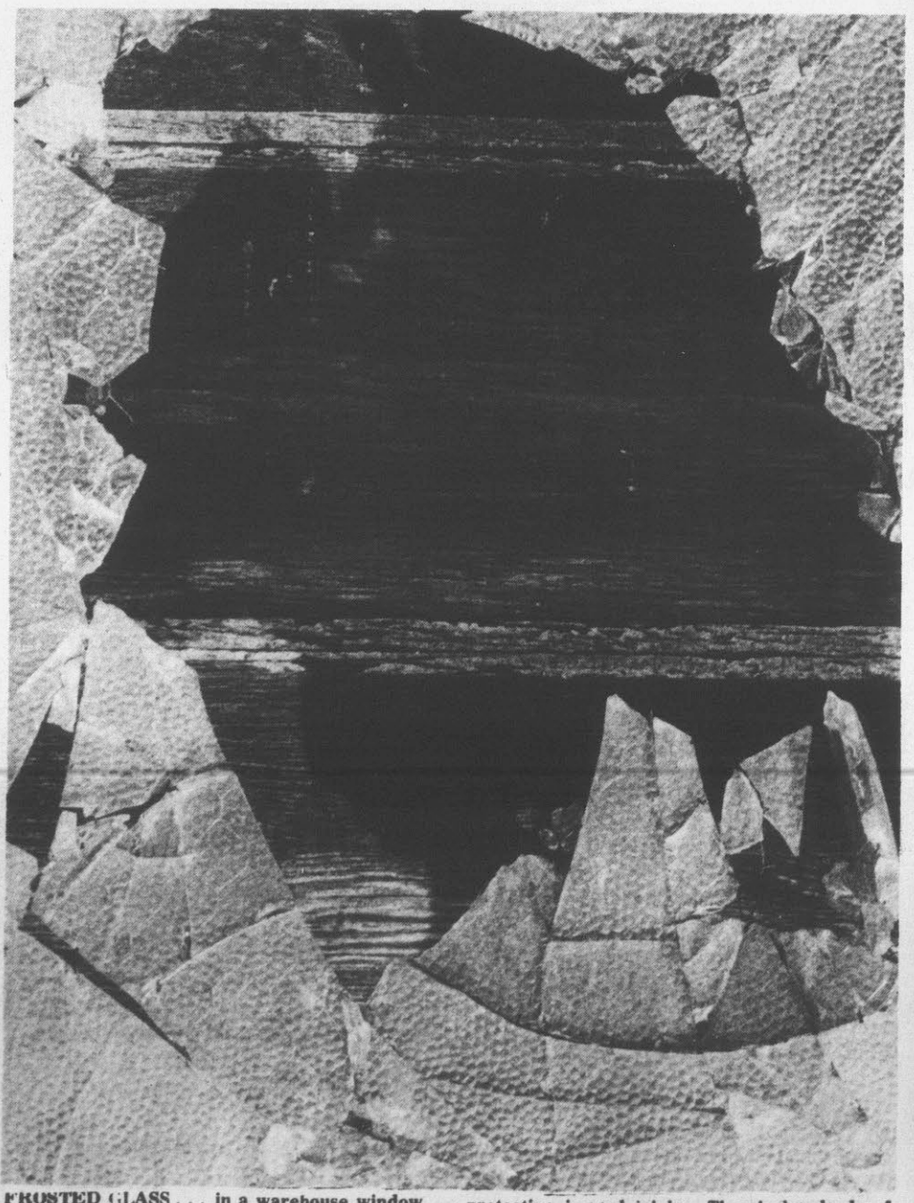
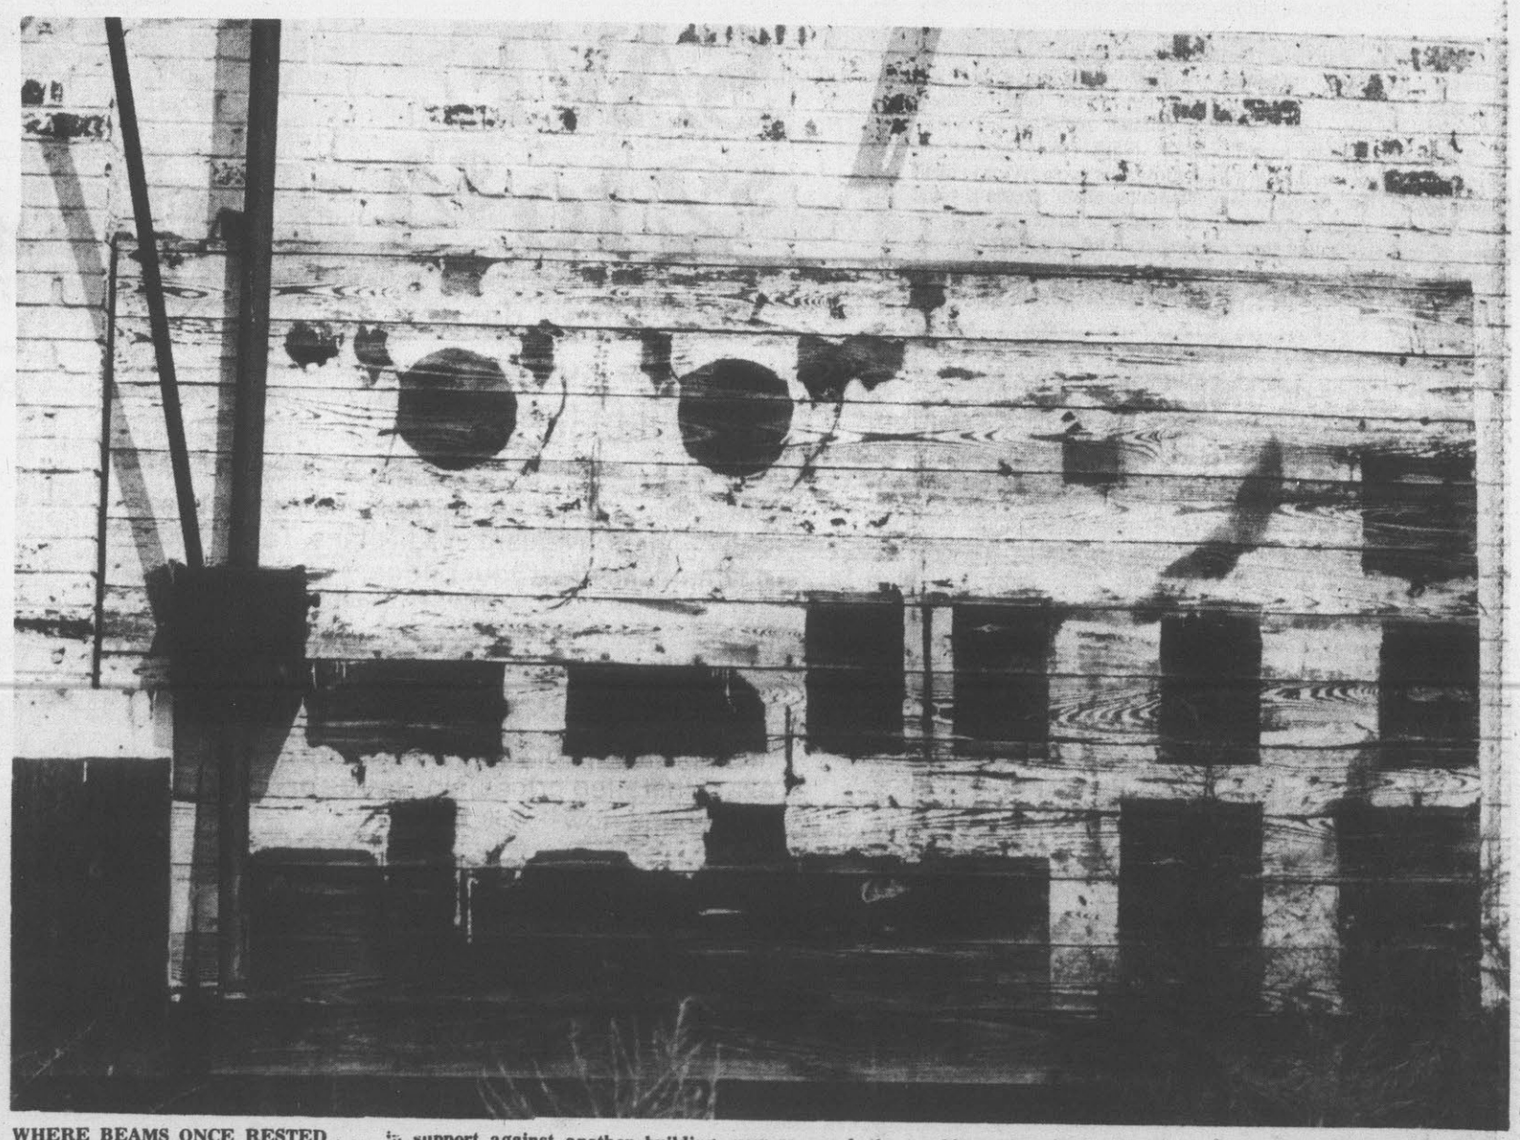
NO LONGER FUNCTIONAL . . . As long as the building housing these pipes and valves stood, these items had a useful purpose. Now standing alone in an open plot they bear a strong resemblance to a contemporary piece of sculpture.



SPLOTCHES . . . of tar on a cement pillar.



FROSTED GLASS . . . in a warehouse window, shattered and splintered, could be a child's dream made real of a cave surrounded by protective jagged icicles. There's hundreds of similar broken windows in this area of Greenville.



WHERE BEAMS ONCE RESTED . . . in support against another building, now removed, the touching point of heavy beams create a formal arrangement of rec tangles and circles against a square of white painted wall.

Pamper The Old Car; Becoming More Valuable

By EDWARD S. LECHTZIN
UPI Auto Writer

DETROIT (UPI) — If you have a good, clean, solid used car, regard it with some affection. It's becoming more valuable.

The best used cars find a ready market any time, but now they are selling at a premium. Used car prices usually begin to dwindle in late summer, but this year many prices were higher in August than in the Spring.

Two-year-old Ford LTDs went up more than $200, as did Chevrolet Caprice models. The smaller cars — Pintos, Vegas and Mavericks — are up in value by more than $100.

Detroit automakers are hoping the higher used car values will take some of the sting out of the $200-plus increases on the 1976 models since, they claim, trade-ins will be worth more. Dealers already say the used car market is stronger now than in years.

A two-or three-year-old used car is "a very lucrative car to have on the lot right now," says John Walsh, general manager of Carlson's Motor Sales in Concord, N.H. At Dan Creed Chevrolet in Buffalo, N.Y., they're selling one used car for every new car instead of the traditional 2-to-1 ratio in favor of the new models.

Most attention is given to the new car market where, in a really good year like 1973, 11.4 million new cars were sold. In the same year, nearly 20 million used cars changed ownership.

Commenting on the strong market, in sharp contrast to Detroit's two-year new car sales slump, George Ross of McMorris Ford in Austin, Texas, said many people are in the position where a used car is all they can afford.

A GOOD USED CAR finds a ready market any time, but now they are selling at a premium. Typical of the sales market is this lot in the Fordham section of New York. (UPI Photo)

In Houston, Texas, Tom Felton of Luke Johnson Ford says, "If it's saleable, it will sell.

"If they are clean and in good shape, you can't keep them in stock at all," he explains. "When new car prices go up, used car prices go up."

Probably no man has kept a closer watch on the escalating used car prices than Jack Heffinger, the Chicago publisher of "The Red Book — Used Car Valuations." It's the bible of the second-hand car business and usually is referred to as the "Blue Book" even though it has a red cover.

Heffinger, who's been in the business of determining used car values for about 25 years, says today's market is more turbulent than any he's ever seen.

"Before the energy crisis of a couple of years ago, used cars depreciated pretty regularty on a quarterly basis," Heffinger says.

"The greatest difficulty in the business now is in the small cars. They're as susceptible to price fluctuations as the grain market.

"A whisper about gasoline prices going up will send the small car wholesale prices skyrocketing. They're like a yo-yo."

Commenting on this fall's used car market, Heffinger says it's stronger than it traditionally should be.

"The new model introductions should take a chunk out of a used car's value, but it doesn't appear to be happening this year. There is a fantastic pentup demand for cars, both new and used.

"There's a strong market coming that will knock your eyes out," predicts Heffinger. "When it will come I"m not sure, probably 1977. But it will come once the economy turns around and becomes stable."

Heffinger traces his firm — National Market Reports Inc. — back as far as 1911 with the Red and Blue books coming out as a separate company in 1923, predating everyone else in the business by at least 20 years.

"We list cars back about eight years. Carrying anything more than that would make the book too larger and besides, past eight years a car is either junk or worth more than it was new."

Heffinger publishes an updated book each six weeks, distributing the 75,000 copies mainly to persons in the insurance and banking industries as well as to dealers, lawyers and government units.

"We check our sources on a continuing basis for information on prices. Many of our book salesmen either have been dealers or have been connected with the auto business," he said. "As a result, we have five guys across the nation who feed back information constantly so we can update."We also check some of the big used car auctions around the country so we have a pretty good idea of what cars should sell for."

Heffinger says used car prices in the South, Southwest and the West Coast are usually higher than on similar models in the East and Midwest, mainly because they're in better condition.

"In Chicago, a 1967-model car is almost solid rust, but the same car in Texas is still pretty clean."

Heffinger recommends a two-year-old model if you're interested in a good used car. That's also the best time to trade because a two or three-year-old car will bring its owner the most money.

And, even as you're buying the new car and picking out the options, keep in mind that someday it will have to be traded in, Heffinger says. Those extras that add to the price tag of the new car will make it a more valuable product when the trade-in time comes.

"One option you can't afford not to buy is air conditioning," he said. "And on the more expensive cars, the options are critical in determining the value of the car."

Heffinger also recommends looking for a used car that's been driven about 15,000 miles a year. The really low mileage cars may not be good bargains because they've only been driven short distances that are hard on an engine.

More people are taking a look at the used car market, says one Detroit analyst, because new car prices are jumping by large margins each year following the relative price stability of the early 1970s.

Playing up Detroit's contention, he says the higher used car prices should make it easier for people to buy a new car because the cash difference the new car buyer has to pay has been cut.

"The industry is getting some flack about the 4 to 6 per cent increases in 1976 prices — a situation that surprises me because almost everything else has gone up more than that in the past year.

"But a lot of deals are going to be made by people trading in two-year-old cars on 1976 models that aren't going to cost any more cash differences than they would have paid for the same type of deal a year ago," he said.

Owners, new car dealers and used car dealers are generally pleased with the strong used car market. Owners see it as money in the pocket at trade-in time, used car dealers like the profit and the quick stock turnover on their lots and new car dealers find more people can trade up to new cars.

If it's all so rosy, what's the problem and who gets hurt?

Credit To Be Given For TV Drama Series

East Carolina University will be offering undergraduate credit to viewers of the television series "Classic Theatre—The Humanities in Drama," to be broadcast over the UNC-TV network beginning Thursday, Sept. 25.

The series comprises 13 original dramas or adaptions from literature by famous dramatists. All performances were produced by the BBC and feature distinguished British performers — Sir Ralph Richardson, Juliet Mills, Janet Suzman, Tom Courtenay and Ian Ogilvy.

Plans and adaptations to be included in the series are Shakespeare's Macbeth, Marlowe's Edward II, John Webster's The Duchess of Malfi, Paradise Restored, a dramatization by Don Taylor about John Milton's later life, She Stoops to Conquer, by Oliver Goldsmith, Voltaire's Candide, Sheridan's The Rivals, Ibsen's The Wild Duck and Hedda Gabler, Trelawny of the 'Wells', by Arthur Wing Pinero, Chekhov's The Three Sisters, Synge's The Playboy of the Western World, and Shaw's Mrs. Warren's Profession.

Persons who wish to view the series for credit will watch each televised Thursday evening performance, as well as a half-hour "Preview" of each play broadcast on the preceding Wednesday afternoon, and repeated again before the Thursday drama broadcast.

Other requirements for credit are purchase of texts and a study guide and attendance at three on-campus sessions to be held on Saturdays during the series.

Campus instructor for the Saturday sessions will be Jeanne Finnan, a member of the ECU drama and speech faculty.

Further details about the "Classic Theatre" TV series and information about receiving credit for participation are available from L. Allen Churchill of the Division of Continuing Education, East Carolina University, Greenville.

Registration deadline for persons who wish to receive credit is September 26, although late registrations will be accepted on a space-available basis until Oct. 4.

Dolly Parton Heads Cast

Country Music Show Thursday

It's a big star-studded evening of country entertainment that's coming to Greenville for two sessions on Thursday at Minges Coliseum.

Dolly Parton, Jack Greene, Jeannie Seely, Moe Bandy and David Willis will all be sharing the spotlight in two shows, at 6:45 p.m. and again at 9:30 p.m. Ralph Emery is to be master of ceremonies.

A benefit entertainment, proceeds will go to the New Pitt Memorial Hospital and the ECU Medical School.

Billed as "Country Music Festival No. 1," the show is being sponsored by the eight Kiwanis Clubs of Pitt and Greene Counties — including clubs in Greenville, Winterville, Ayden-Grifton and Greene County.

"There's one thing the sponsors want to stress the public," Steve Hardy said, "and that is that each seat is guaranteed." Hardy, a Kiwanian, is co-chairman with Les Garner of the entertainment.

"There will also be adequate directing and parking safeguards for those attending," Hardy pointed out. "Members of the highway patrol, the Greenville City Police, the Pitt County Sheriff's office and of the McKenzie Security agency will be on hand to guarantee safe and pleasant conditions for getting into and out of the coliseum."

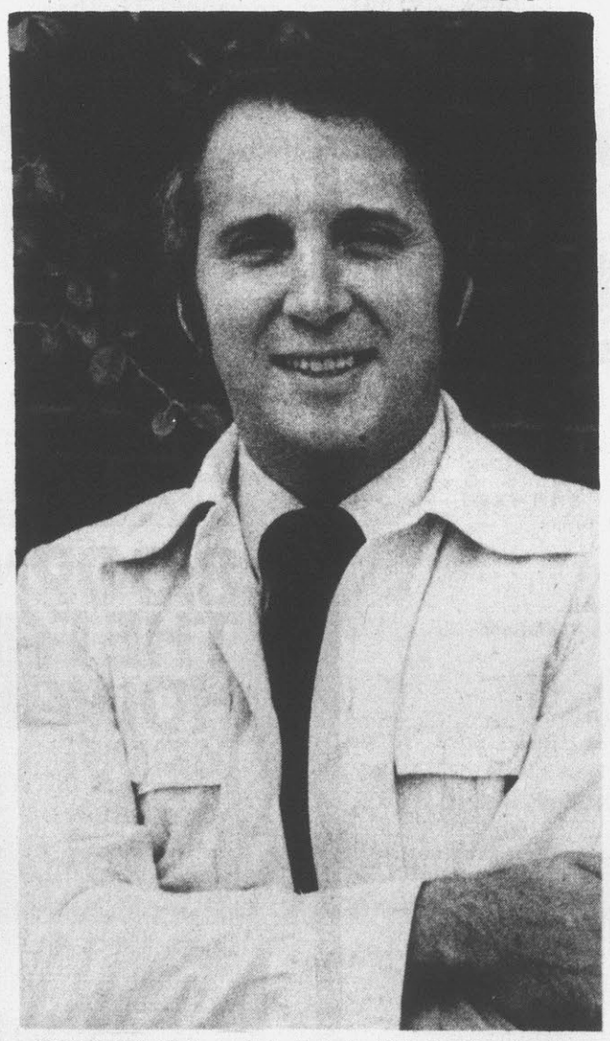
Hardy also expressed the gratitude of the Kiwanis to ECU for making the coliseum available.

Tickets are still available — at $4, $5 and $6, from any Kiwanis member in the two counties or from several merchants — Hendrix-Barnhill, Garner-Wynne-Manning, Record Bar Pitt Plza, Sears, Bob's TV and Appliance (Ayden and Greenville), Hit Sounds and Music, Farmville, and WFAG Radio, Farmville.

TWO BIG NAMES . . . in country music, Jack Greene and Jeannie Seely are among the roster of performers coming to Greenville Thursday at Minges for an ECU-Pitt Memorial Hospital benefit evening of music. Two shows will be given, one at 6:45 p.m. the second at 9 p.m.

Watson Named Director Of Local Boys' Choir

ECU's Brett Watson has been selected to direct the Greenville Boys' Choir as that fledgling group of young singers get ready to begin its first full year of singing.



BRETT WATSON. . .of the School of Music, East Carolina University, has been chosen director of the Greenville Boy's Choir. Auditions for boys to sing in the choir are to be announced soon.

Watson, an assistant professor of Music at East Carolina University and also director of the newly formed ECU Choir, was chosen by a selection committee from candidates submitting applications to the Board of Director of the Greenville Boys Choral Association. He will choose his own accompanist.

A native of Darlington Heights, Va., the bacehlor teacher-musician is now in his tenth year on the faculty of the staff at the School of Music. An undergraduate of ECU, he received his masters degree from the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N.Y., and is currently at work on his doctorate with the University of Southern California, Los Angeles.

Auditions for boys to be members of the Greenville Boys' Choir, Watson said, will be held soon, with public announcements to be made of the times and dates of auditions.

Speaking about plans for this year, Watson said "Primarily, we'll be working in serious music, sacred and secular. Because of the bicentennial year, I intend to concentrate also on some patriotic music.

"I think we'll also be working on rather simple arrangements the boys will be able to sing well rather than trying complicated scores," Watson added.

Early plans include two concerts — "One with the ECU Collegium Musicum," Watson noted. "The other will be a Christmas concert of Medieval and Renaissance carols as well as traditional Christmas music."

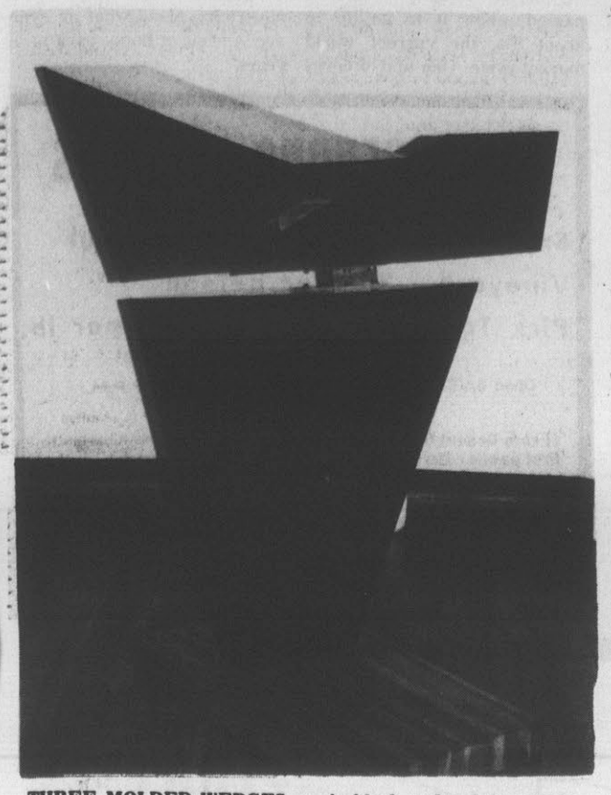
Opening Exhibit Of The Season

Joint Stinson-Williams Show At Art Center



THREE MOLDED WEDGES. . . in black and red form this sculpture by Ron Williams.

Two young Greenville artists — Billy Stinson and Ron Williams have the honor of inaugurating the new season at the Greenville Art Center for 1975-76.

Opening last Sunday (to a large turn-out at the reception), this is a handsome show of sculptures, strong in its individual parts and as an entity. The over-all effect is one of clean-cut muscularity in the larger pieces, tempered by the inclusion of smaller pieces that provide a balancing contrast of softer lines.

Predictably, Billy Stinson exhibits a number of the sculptures for which he is best known — his own ingenuous musical instruments. Gourds remain one of his constant sources of bodies for these lyrical (not always functional) instrument-sculptures. Others have patterns of small holes pierced in the wood or metal to form an intricate filigreed design. All are beautiful.

Stinson is also showing other forms of sculpture; a rugged wood, metal and rope statue of a widow and a large wall sculpture of natural weathered wooden slats tied together with twine.

Ron Williams' work ranges from several lyrical small bronzes to a duo of large polished composition sculptures — minimal in concept and superbly crafted; the surfaces have the apply-skin glow of fine lacquerware.

Williams also shows a painting of a young woman and a fine preliminary study (in pencil) of the same portrait. The only other painting is a large painting of a beach house by Stinson. . . the only unfortunate choice in this show.

Both artists are graduates of the ECU School of Art and both are art teachers in the Greenville City Schools.

The Art Center has on hand an auspicious opener show, one that hopefully will set a pattern of excellence for the entire season.

Jerry Raynor

Band Boosters Clubs Have Merged

Unification is the keynote this school year as Band Boosters Clubs for the individual schools in Greenville have combined to form one City-Wide Band Boosters Club.

The first meeting this year of the newly reorganized combined club will take place on Tuesday at 8:15 in the band room at J.H. Rose High School.

This meeting, which will include election of officers and the ratification of a constitution, is open to everyone with an interest in instrumental and supporting instrumental music within the city schools.

James (Jim) Houlik, spokesman for the Band Boosters Club said "It is hoped this unified approach will provide active support for instrumental music and that this organization will be effective in representing the interests of this important part of the public school program."

Two Day Tractor Pull Event To Benefit Fire Department

A Tractor Pull contest on two days with 14 separate fields of entry will be held at the Pitt County Fair Grounds on Friday and Saturday.

Sponsored by the Carolina Township Fire Department and the Stokes Ruritan Club, the benefit event will begin at 7:30 p.m. on each of the two dates. Admission fee is $3.00 per person with children under 10 admitted free when escorted by an adult.

The seven classes of entries for Friday's event will be — 1,500 lb. Hot Rod Garden Tractor; 5,000 lb. Super Stock; 6,000 lb. Stock; 5,000 lb. Hot Rod; 9,000 lb. Stock; 9,000 lb. Super Stock; and 7,000 lb. Hot Rod.

On Saturday, the seven entry classes are — 1,700 lb. Hot Rod Garden Tractor; 7,000 lb. Super Stock; 12,000 lb. Stock; 9,000 lb. Hot Rod; 12,000 lb. Super Stock; 15,000 lb. Stock; and 12,000 lb. Open.

There is not limit to the number of entries. All interested persons are asked to contact Jamie Barnhill at 758-0326 or Joe McLawhorn at 752-4122 for entry information. No dual wheels will be entered, and sponsors reserve the right to change or cancel an entry for the betterment of the show.

Other entry rules are that no one under 18 will be permitted to operate a tractor, and sponsors are not responsible for accidents.

For this benefit event, for which proceeds will go the Carolina Township Fire Department (Stokes), there is a purse of $2,400 and trophies for those participating.

Tickets are available from the two listed above or from any fireman or Ruritan of Stokes.

A Multi-Media Mozart

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Multimedia Mozart is coming to this Midwestern metropolis.

The Kansas City Philharmonic will launch its 43rd season this fall with three Mozart programs in the Multimedia Forum, an audio-visual communications facility in Crown Center, a city-within Kansas City.

The concerts will be preceded by a three-screen slide presentation on Mozart. There will also be intermission film shorts on Mozart, the prodigy, the composer and the man. Closed-circuit television will provide close-ups of soloists on TV monitors throughout the concert hall. However, there will be no movement of cameras, slides or film while the music is played.

"This is neither a gimmick, nor an effort to tamper with the musical purity of Mozart," conductor Maurice Peress said. "Rather, it will provide Kansas City concert-goers with a fresh format that showcases the talents of our gifted soloists and heightens Mozart's strength with visual dramatics."

Ballet Has Big Season

NEW YORK (AP) — American Ballet Theater completed its most financially successful season this summer and broke the New York State Theater box-office record.

The gross for the six-week engagement with seven performances each week, except the first week which had six performances, was $975,807.40. The New York City Ballet held the previous record for a six-week period, last winter — $928,726.58 for eight performances weekly.

The theater seats 2,737 and has 42 standing-room places. There was a capacity audience at 32 of the 41 performances.

Rudolf Nureyev appeared as a guest artist with the company for the first time and there was a great deal of interest in seeing Russian defector Mikhail Baryshnikov.

HOLLYWOOD BOWL SETS A RECORD

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The box office gross of $141,208 for the two Tchaikovsky Spectacular concerts given by the Los Angeles Philharmonic on Aug. 1 and 2 was the largest for a two-night, regular-season symphonic event in Hollywood Bowl history.

Belote Senior Show

ECU senior art student Charlotte Belote has a showing of sculpture and drawings on view this week in the Upstairs Gallery of the Greenville Art Center.

The show went on view yesterday, and will be up for a brief showing only through Friday of this week.

Jenkins Art Sought For ECU Show

Owners of paintings by Dr. Leo Jenkins are being asked to make a temporary loan of paintings to the university for a planned exhibit to coincide with homecoming weekend.

Persons owning works by Dr. Jenkins and who are willing to place them on temporary loan for inclusion in the exhibit are asked to contact Rudolph Alexander, Associate Dean of Student Affairs and Director of Mendenhall Student Union, at 758-6611.

Hospitality House

A "Bicentennial Salute" is being given on Kay Currie's "Hospitality House" today from noon to 1 p.m. over WITN-TV, Channel 7.

The first part of the show covers a tour of historic Tryon Palace and the John Wright Stanly house. Herb Rea, palace horticulturist and acting director during the director's absence, is the host in showing the 18th century gardens.

In a second part of the salute, U.S. Marines from Camp Lejeune will conduct a historical flag pageant with members of the 2nd Marine Division Drum and Bugle Corps. The pageant is directed by M-G Sgt. Donald Farmer, who has also selected the musical score. Narration is by Sgt. Thomas L. Trulson.

Trouble In Paradise Final Friday Film

Noted stars of past years—Miriam Hopkins, Kay Francis, Herbert Marshall and Charles Ruggles head the cast in Trouble In Paradise, Paramount Picture's 1932 film adapted from Laszio Alandar's play, The Honest Finder. Ernest Lubitsch is the director.

The film will be aired at p.m. Friday over UNC-TV, Channel 25, Greenville, and Channel 2, Columbia as the final movie in the current "Hooray for Hollywood" series.

"Lubitsch seems to be the only director in Hollywood who talks the language of adult people and whose sauve and subtle humor betrays a keen if cynical mind," Alexander Bakshy wrote in The Nation in December 1932.

"Trouble In Paradise is one of the gossamer creations of Lubitsch's narrative art. The story . . . deals with some adventures of two society crooks . . . The opening scene gives the key to the treatment of the story. It shows us a man collecting garbage whom we presently discover to be a Venetian garbage man carrying away his spoils in a gondola to the accompaniment of a raucous song (sung, incidentally, by Enrico Caruso). And so, throughout the picture we see the adroit and impish Lubitsch turn his slightly crooked mirror now to one episode, now to another. It is all thoroughly delightful," Bakshy comments.

Book News

From Sheppard Memorial Library

By JUNE PARKER

With fall coming, Sheppard Memorial Library has received several new books of many different types. One of the most interesting is HAULIN' by Phillip Finch. This book is the story of J.W. Pickett who has been a long-haul trucker for 29 years. He has been self-employed and a loner crossing the country in 50 hours driving night and day. Now, he wonders what it was all for. He still has not saved any money. His wife and foster child rarely see him and now his wife, Doris at 41, is pregnant again which means at least 15 more years on the road. Pickett decides to make one big try to get out of it all. He has to make a haul to California for the mob. He is accompanied by a young college graduate named Lennie who has taken up trucking for kicks and worships Pickett as one of the last old time truckers. As Pickett tries to outfox the mob, the story seems to be moving toward a cataclysm every moment. With this suspense, there is also the story of trucking—the language, the meals, the roar of the diesel, and the long, white line.

The next book is NICE GUYS FINISH LAST by Leo Durocher with Ed Linn. This is the biography of the author's nearly 50 years in baseball. He was raised in a French Catholic household in West Springfield, Massachusetts. He broke into the big leagues in 1925 as a shortstop with the New York Yankees, the greatest team of all time. Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig were his teammates. The next high spot came when he was traded to probably the second greatest team in history, the St. Louis Cardinals, the Gas House Gang. They won the National League Championship in 1934. Here he was playing Dizzy Dean. Then in the forties, he went on the manage the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Giants. The Dodgers under Durocher won their first pennant in 21 years. He was then bitterly traded to the Giants, the hated rival across the river. Throughout the book is his philosophy, "win any way you can." Although suspended for associating with gamblers, Durocher always bounced back. The book is not just baseball. Along with the baseball are the anecdotes of the times that tell of his being a swinger in this pool-hustling, nightclub-hooping era and his fights, women, and legal battles. The reader is in for good baseball history and a few laughs.

R.F. Delderfield has out a new book entitled SEVEN MEN OF GASCONY. This novel is an epic set during the Napoleonic Wars. It tells of the lives, loves, battles, and lasting comradeship of seven soldiers in their close-knit infantry group until the final defeat at Waterloo. It takes the reader from the battlefields, to Paris occupied by Russians, to the councils of the Emperor, and also the ordinary French men and women at home. There is also Nichelette who appears with her canteen and weds three times and is widowed twice. The book shows both an admiration for the noble endurance of men who fight on and on, and a recognition of the futility of wars staged by idols such as Napoleon. In all, the novel is a good story, the kind that can keep a reader up all night to finish.

Albemarle Craft Show Set For 24-28 Sept.

The 17th annual Albemarle Craftsman's Fair has been scheduled this year from September 24-28 to be held at the National Guard Armory in Elizabeth City.

Doors will open each day from noon til 9 p.m. on Wednesday through Saturday and from 1 to 6 p.m. on Sunday. Admission is $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for children.

This year 47 booths are planned with 75 craftsmen scheduled to be on hand to demonstrate 32 different crafts including pottery, woodwork, carving, chair bottoming, weaving, pyrography, leathercraft and many other crafts.

In addition, about 60 4-H Club members will be taking part in the fair which is being sponsored by the Albemarle Craftsman's Guild, the Extension Homemakers Clubs of the Northeastern District and the Elizabeth City Chamber of Commerce.

Eakes-Karl Exhibit In New Bern

Two teacher-artists of the Greenville City School system, Marsha Eakes and Bob Karl, have a joint exhibit currently on view in New Bern.

The show, which will continue through October, is at the Upstairs Gallery of the Henderson House, an 18th century house converted to a restaurant. Henderson House is located at 216 Pollock Street, a few blocks from Holiday Inn and just off East Front Street.

Marsha is exhibiting paintings, and Bob is showing examples of his pottery.

A reception for the two was held Saturday evening.

Dandy Uranium Enrichment Debate Shaping Up

EDITOR'S NOTE — Some call it "corporate socialism," others see it as one answer to an energy-hungry nation's needs. The proposal: uranium enrichment plants, with the government going partners with private industry to build them. The coming fight in Congress promises to be a dandy.

By LEE MITGANG
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It's a tall order, but there's a program on tap that the Ford administration claims will save taxpayers $30 billion, help cure the nation's energy problems, stimulate the economy and create a giant new private industry.

Others say it would be a futile step down a dangerous path with the public taking the risks and big business reaping the benefits.

The idea is to allow private corporations to join forces for the first time with the government in processing natural uranium into the fuel needed to run electric power plants. Fifty-five such nuclear power plants already exist and 70 more are under construction.

Since the dawn of the nuclear age, the government has maintained a monopoly on the process. But under President Ford's proposal, private industry would be allowed to build and own "uranium enrichment" plants which boost the natural radioactivity to the point where it can be changed into power-producing nuclear fuel.

Right now, the government owns three enrichment plants and the processes are kept secret.

But a shortage of nuclear power fuel looms in the early 1980s unless more enrichment plants are built, and Ford believes his program will protect the nation's nuclear secrets.

At the same time, the President says that allowing private industry into the enrichment field would relieve the taxpayer of the $30 billion burden of building eight or 10 new plants which the program's backers say are needed in the next 15 years to prevent a "uranium crisis."

Since 1971, the government has been trying to coax a generally reluctant private industry into the enrichment field. The latest proposals appear to have overcome industry's reservations. Some of the nation's largest corporations have already taken the bait.

The main facets of the Ford plan, as laid out in the proposed Nuclear Fuel Assurance Act now before Congress, are:

—A federal guarantee of $8 billion to cover private industry losses if they occur and if they are beyond industry's control. The administration says such losses are "unlikely."

—A presidential pledge that any nuclear fuel orders placed with the new private producers either by foreign or domestic consumers will be honored, using if necessary the government's own nuclear fuel stockpiles.

—Permission for foreign users to invest in the new uranium enrichment plants, provided that at least 55 per cent voting ownership remains in U.S. hands, and provided no foreigners are granted access to any classified nuclear secrets.

The Ford plan appears to have largely fulfilled private industry's conditions for entering the field, as laid out in a letter written last Dec. 23 to Dr. Dixy Lee Ray, head of the former Atomic Energy Commission, by J. W. Komes of an industry consortium, Uranium Enrichment Associates (UEA), which consists of Bechtel Corp. and Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. Bechtel, based in California, does construction and engineering work in a number of countries.

Depending on the viewpoint, this proposed federal-private partnership has been characterized three ways.

President Ford, boosting his program, says "it will take maximum advantage of the strength and resourcefulness of industry and government."

But a source from the Senate Commerce Committee raises the "corporate socialism" issue he says will figure heavily in the coming congressional debate on private industry participation.

"There is going to be a question on whether this is a kind of halfway house where government is taking all the risks," he says.

Dr. Barry Commoner, a scientist who has been trying to stop nuclear power cold for years, says: "What is being proposed is a rather lopsided partnership between the public and private sectors, in which the risks are public and the rewards private."

The companies themselves admit they would not have gotten fully involved in uranium enrichment without the promise of federal guarantees against potential losses.

"It was a very significant point," says a spokesman for Bechtel Corp., leader of the UEA consortium whose members would gross $300 million a year once the proposed plant goes into operation in the early 1980s.

"We needed a government guarantee," said a Goodyear spokesman. "What the government does through the FDIC (Federal Deposit Insurance Corp). is analogous to what they're doing for us."

"The consortium is buying technology and service from the government, we are simply asking that the government guarantees that it works," said the Bechtel spokesman.

He was referring to the fact that industry would pay the government a royalty for rights to use the secret nuclear fuel enrichment processes. It is also estimated the government would receive an extra $100 million a year per plant in corporate tax revenues once the plants began operating.

But money remains an overriding problem. As big as the $8 billion guarantee figure sounds, in the nuclear scheme of things it's only a fraction of the nearly $200 billion cost to construct the eight to 10 nuclear enrichment plants and 200 nuclear power plants, according to the Energy Research and Development Administration.

The lion's share in the nuclear program is the $150 billion needed by private industry to build the new power plants, of which 55 are already constructed.

The rest of the program's capital needs include uranium exploration and mining, fuel fabrication, reprocessing, waste treatment, and waste storage and disposal.

But the program has run into two serious problems that could mean much more money spent or, according to critics like Commoner, an eventual scuttling of the whole nuclear power program.

The so-called "back end" of the nuclear cycle — the safe storage and disposal of radioactive nuclear waste — "is now essentially at a standstill" because of technical and economic problems, the ERDA says.

Equally crucial are problems in developing a safe, profitable, commercial "breeder reactor." It is the economic key to the whole nuclear power scheme since it enables a power plant to "breed" its own nuclear fuel and thereby cut down on the need to buy uranium fuel.

But the target date for developing a commercial breeder has been pushed back and back. Now few expect it before the year 2000 and many believe it could be years after that.

In the meantime, the price of nuclear fuel has risen rapidly to $53.35 per unit of enriched uranium and legislation pending before Congress would, if passed, allow it to go up to about $76, the current world market price. One unit produces 73,000 kilowatts hours of electricity, about what an average American home uses in 10 years.

Pirates Blank Indians For First Win, 20-0

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina rode the passing arm of Pete Conaty to a 20-0 victory over William & Mary last night, gaining its first victory of the season.

The win left the Pirates with a 1-2 overall mark and a 1-1 Southern Conference record. William & Mary is 0-2 overall and 0-1 in the conference.

Conaty set up the first Pirate touchdown with a 30-yard pass to Willie Hawkins. Hawkins then went in on the next play for 30 yards, and Conaty kicked the PAT for a 7-0 lead just before the end of the first half.

Conaty hit Terry Gallaher for two scoring aerials in the second half, one of nine yards and the other of three, the last just a minute before the end. He kicked one PAT in the half and missed on another.

The two touchdowns to Gallaher raised his total to five in the last two games. He caught three in the loss to Appalachian State last week. He's already halfway to the season record of 10.

It really wasn't a pretty game. The two teams moved the ball around a lot, but the Pirates bottled up the Indians after the first quarter, not allowing them much after that. The Bucs failed in several opportunities to turn the game into a rout.

On the ground, the Bucs ground out 246 yard, while they added 113 through the air. William & Mary got only 105 on the ground and 60 in the air.

Willie Hawkins led the rushing with 122 yards, including one of 51 yards. He also had two pass receptions for 51 yards.

Conaty hit on just eight of 28, and had one picked off.

One of the brighter spots was the punting of Tom Daub. He booted it six times for a 44.0 average, his best mark of the year. Only three punts were returned for a total of eight yards.

Harold Randolph again led the Pirate defense, with 10 individual and four assisted tackles. Twice he threw runners for losses. The Indians, counting pass completions, had only 48 tackle situations.

The Indians started off strong, and completely dominated the first period, using nearly half the period to drive from their own 23 to the Pirate 16 following the opening kickoff. They were helped along by a 15-yard roughing the kicker penalty that gave them their first first down. Tommy Smith picked up 11 yards on the drive and Tom Rozanta, the Indians' freshman quarterback, hit Tom Butler for 30 yards down to the Pirate 21, where the Bucs dug in to halt the drive. A 38-yard field goal attempt by Steve Dalton was off-target.

Jim Bolding, who was hurt in the game, suffering a fractured tendon, gave the Bucs their first field position with a punt return to the Indian 47, but the Pirates promptly surrendered it on a fumble. They got it back on another fumble at midfield, but couldn't move it. Early in the second period, they again got it after Bolding's final return—on which he was hurt—from the 50 to the Indian 39. Again, the Bucs were unable to pick up a first down.

Midway through the period, the Bucs moved from their own 39, with Mike Weaver scrambling for 22 yards on one play. The drive reached the 18 before a penalty helped kill it and a 46-yard field goal try by Conaty was off-beam.

After holding the Indians, the Bucs got the ball back on their own 40 in the closing minutes of the half. After two passes fell incomplete, Conaty hit Hawkins, who dashed 30 yards to the Indian 30. On the next play, Conaty pitched out to the speedy Conely graduate, and he raced 30 yards around the left side of the line, going in for the first Pirate score. Conaty's kick with 52 seconds left made it 7-0.

The Bucs recovered an on-side kick, but two plays later, Lou Case picked off a Conaty pass to end the threat.

The Bucs took the opening kickoff and drove for their second score. From their own 16, it took 16 plays. Raymond Jones got the first down on an 11-yard run to the 36. Jimmy Southerland picked up 12 to the 50 two plays later, and Ken Strayhorn added 10, for a first down on the 39. On the next play, however, Strayhorn suffered a shoulder separation and left the game.

Two plays later, Conaty hit Hawkins for a 21-yard gain to the 23, and Hawkins added nine yards in two plays. Daub picked up a first down at the 11, and after Conaty added two yards, Gallaher pulled in the scoring pass from the nine. Conaty again kicked and with 7:52 left in the period, the Bucs had upped their lead to 14-0.

As the quarter ended, the Bucs moved across midfield again, only to fail to pick up a first down from the Indian 46. After a punt, they drove from the ECU 40 the Indian 23 before turning it over on downs.

The Indians twice crossed midfield after that—only the second and third times in the game, once reaching the 47, and then going to the 44 after a 26-yard pass interference penalty against the Bucs.

Emerson Pickett set up the final Pirate score with an interception at the Indian 21, which he carried back to the two. Conaty lost a yard on first down, and finally after missing two passes hit Gallaher, who made a diving catch for the score from the three with 56 seconds left. The PAT kick by Conaty was wide.

The victory extended the winning streak of the Pirates in Ficklen Stadium to 18. They have not lost at home since the 1971 season.

But they have a three-game losing streak on the road, and that's where they must take their show next Saturday as they travel to Carbondale, Ill., to meet Southern Illinois. The last Pirate road win was against William & Mary last season.

State Slips Past Florida On PAT

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A disputed two-point conversion run by Johnny Evans gave N.C. State an 8-7 college football upset over 13th ranked Florida Saturday night.

The Gators' ranking proved an omen of ill fortune.

They led 7-0 from the first period until an untimely series of fumbles and errors allowed the Wolf Pack to snatch the game away in the final minutes.

With four minutes left, the Gators were on the march with a first down on the N.C. State 34. A reverse to Wes Chandler lost eight yards. In addition, a Gator lineman was detected clipping. The penalty moved the ball back to the Florida 35.

On the next play Tony Green fumbled and Dan Meier recovered for state.

Wolf Pack quarterback Dave Buckey wasted no time cashing in. He lofted a perfect spiral into the end zone on the first play. Elijah Marshall caught it without breaking stride to make the score 7-6.

State Coach Lou Holtz disdained a tie. He had Buckey pitch the ball to Evans on an option play. The fullback lunged for the end zone and the official ruled that he had made it into the corner, despite the protest of Florida defenders.

Field Goal Beats Wake

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UPI) — Junior Gary Davis booted a 26-yard field goal with eight second remaining Saturday night to give Appalachian State a 19-17 victory over Wake Forest.

The Demon Deacons appeared to have the victory as they took a 17-16 lead with just over four minutes to play, but Appalachian turned the last ditch scoring drive into a field goal for their second victory of the season without a loss.

Appalachian State took a 16-10 lead in the third quarter when quarterback Robbie Price jogged off right tackle for a 33-yard touchdown. The extra point kick failed.

Wake Forest then came back with their touchdown on an 14-yard pass from relief quarterback Mike McGlamry to Solomon Everett. Bob Hely then kicked the extra point to give Wake Forest a 17-16 lead with 4:20 left to play. Davis kicked a 22-yard field goal in the second half and halfback Calvin Simon scored on a 28-yard run in the second period to round out the Mountaineers scoring. Simon finished the night with 118 yards on 19 carries for the game's rushing honor.

Quarterback Jerry McManus, who left the game early in the fourth quarter with a bruised back, hit Bill Millner for a 15-yard scoring pass in the first quarter and Hely's 31-yard field goal as the second quarter ended tied the score at 10-10 at intermission.

Hunter Scores Once As Irish Beat Purdue

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) — Safety Luther Bradley, returning after sitting out a year's suspension, ignited ninth-ranked Notre Dame with two fourth-period interceptions and returned one of them 99 yards for the game's first touchdown to help the Irish beat Purdue 17-0.

The intrastate rivals slugged it out for three periods with the Irish in front by the narrow margin of a field goal.

It remained 3-0 until Bradley intercepted a halfback pass by Purdue's Scott Dierking on the Notre Dame 1 and returned it 99 yards, the longest interception return in Notre Dame history.

Only seconds later, Bradley grabbed another pass from sub quarterback Craig Nagel on the Purdue 21 and in seven plays the Irish had their second touchdown, Al Hunter diving over from the 1.

Notre Dame mopped up with the reserves after Tom Lopienski intercepted another Nagel pass on the Notre Dame 45. The Irish drove to the Purdue 4 before Dave Guthrie intercepted Joe Montana's pass in the end zone.

Bradley, one of five Irish football players suspended a year for campus violations, cut off Purdue's only real threat early in the fourth period.

The Boilermakers, with Nagel passing 66 yards to Ncgel Wirgowski, Mike Pruitt and Paul Beere reached Notre Dame's 4-yard line. Two runs by Dierking failed to score before Bradley's first interception.

Purdue failed to make a first down in the opening period when Notre Dame scored on a 29-yard field goal by Dave Reeve.

Just 10 seconds from the end of the half Purdue had an opportunity to tie the score but Steve Schmidt missed a 45-yard field goal attempt.

Spiders Slip Past Furman, 27-21

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Demetri Kornegay plunged over from the four early in the fourth quarter for the go-ahead touchdown as the Richmond Spiders edged Furman 27-21 Saturday in a Southern Conference football game.

The winning 80-yard drive was engineered by junior quarterback Larry Shaw, who had pass completions of 15 yards to John Call and 20 yards to Ted Manwaring. The Manwaring reception gave Richmond a first down on the Paladins' four, setting up Kornegay's touchdown.

Following Kornegay's score, strong safety Rick Crawford intercepted a David Whitehurst pass to set up a 32-yard field goal by Terry Carter.

Furman, which had overcome an early 10-0 deficit to go ahead 21-17 early in the third quarter, was thwarted in a comeback try by another interception and a fumble recovery, the latter coming at the Richmond 40 with 1:35 remaining.

Lolich Reduces Bosox Lead To Four Games

DETROIT (AP) — Mickey Lolich tossed a six-hitter and his Detriot teamates backed him up with a 12-hit attack as the Tigers beat the Boston Red Sox 5-1 Saturday.

The loss cut Boston's lead over Baltimore to four games in the American League's East Division. The Orioles played Milwaukee Saturday night.

Lolich, who had lost his last five starts, gave up a single run in the first and held the Red Sox scoreless the rest of the way.

Juan Beniquez led off the game drawing a walk. He moved up on Dwight Evans' single and then, after two out, he rode home on Carlton Fisk's single to deep short for Boston's lone run.

Rookie Bob Molinaro notched his first major league hit, a triple to left, in the third and then scored as Oglivie singled to put the Tigers up 2-1.

Aurelio Rodriguez opened the fourth with a triple to right, Tom Veryzer and Terry Humphrey walked, loading the bases for the Tigers. Jerry Manual lined to Carl Yaztrzemski for an unassisted double play, but Leflore's second single of the game drove home Rodriguez and Molinaro's second hit, a single to left, sent Veryzer across and the Tigers were up 4-1.

In the eighth, Veryzer doubled, moved to third on Humphrey's single and scored Detroit's final run as Manual banged into a double play.

Field Goals Nail The Citadel, 16-0

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP) — Sophomore Jerry Andrewlavage connected on three field goals to help give Colgate a 16-0 shutout over The Citadel in college football Saturday.

Andrewlavage scored on boots from 29 and 30 yards in each of the first two quarters and added a 37-yard kick midway through the final period, giving Colgate a 9-0 lead.

Sophomore halfback Henry White went five yards for the lone touchdown in the game with 2:05 remaining.

The Colgate defense forced The Citadel into six turnovers with junior safety Mark Murphy making the big plays for Colgate. Murphy intercepted three Citadel passes, the last one setting up Colgate's touchdown in the final quarter.

The Citadel was forced to play most of the game without its second leading all-time rusher, senior fullback Andrew Johnson, who left the game in the first quarter with a knee injury.

Colgate outrushed the Citadel 254 to 144. Senior quarterback Bruce Basile gained 107 yards on 26 carries to lead all rushers.

Passing, Kicking Beat Heels As Terps Win, 34-7

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP) — Maryland combined the nifty passing of quarterback Larry Dick and the talented place kicking Mike Sochko to run up a 34-7 victory over North Carolina in an Atlantic Coast Conference football game Saturday.

Dick passed 49 yards to Kim Hoover in the third period for an insurance touchdown after Sochko had put the Terrapins out front with boots of 38 and 49 yards.

Sochko put Maryland ahead 10-7 late in the first quarter with his 38-yard kick. He applied the 49-yarder for good measure in the second period as the ball barely cleared the goal.

Sochko, a sophomore from Pottstown, Pa., also kicks off and punts for the Terrapins. He showed his punting skill in the closing seconds of the second period when he punted 63 yards to the Tar Heel seven.

Again in the third, he kicked 52 yards into the Tar Heel end zone and added a 45-yarder in the fourth period.

The sophomore kicking performance came after Maryland and North Carolina swapped offsetting touchdowns in the first two and a half minutes of play.

The Tar Heels got their score when Jamie Franklin fumbled on the first play from scrimmage and Bobby Trott recovered for the Tar Heels on the Maryland 24.

Three plays later quarterback Billy Paschall passed 20 yards to Charlie Williams for the score. Moments later the Tar Heel rooters were stunned when John Schultz took the ensuing kickoff and scampered 92 yards to the Tar Heel two.

Three plays later Tim Wilson plunged one yard for the score.

Sochko was robbed of another field goal trial later in the second period. He was all set on the Tar Heel 35 for the try, but a low pass from center messed up the effort.

Dick, who was playing as a substitute for the injured Mark Manges, completed nine of 12 passes for 137 yards.

It was Maryland's second victory of the season against one loss and the Tar Heels were left with a 1-1 record.

The victory enabled the Terrapins to get off to a good start in their defense of the ACC championship and was the 11th straight Maryland ACC victory.

The Terrapins added two more touchdowns in the fourth period as the Tar Heels tried to play catch-up.

One time, North Carolina surrendered the ball on its 43 after a fourth-down try failed. Franklin scored from the four 10 plays later.

In the closing minutes, Steve Atkins ran 14 yards for the final score.

The Tar Heels excelled in one department. They were penalized 13 times for 95 yards, most of them five-yarders for illegal procedure in punting situations.

Virginia Squeeks Past VMI By 22-21

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UPI) — Quarterback Scott Gardner tossed a two-yard touchdown pass to fullback Dave Sloan and Joe Jenkins converted the extra point with 4:37 remaining to play Saturday to lift Virginia to a 22-21 comeback win over state rival Virginia Military Institute.

VMI had a chance to win with 1:09 left in the regionally-televised contest, but failed when Rick Tufaro's attempted 37-year field goal was wide.

Tailback Billy Copeland was Virginia's big offensive gun as the 6-foot-1, 194-pound junior rushed for 190 yards on 23 carries. Copeland's 55-yard gallop to VMI's two-yard line set up Gardner's one-yard touchdown plunge midway through the fourth quarter.

The victory evened Virginia's record at 1-1. The loss was the second straight for VMI, the defending Southern Conference champion.

VMI was led by running backs Keith Giddens and Kim Glidewell.

Giddens rushed for 94 yards, including a seven-yard fourth quarter touchdown. Glidewall ran for 63 yards, scoring on plunges from one and three yards out.

Jenkins, in addition to his winning extra point, booted three field goals of 22, 36, 27 yards.

USC Beats Duke Behind Quarterback Grantz

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Quarterback Jeff Grantz kept for two touchdowns and engineered another by Clarence Williams as South Carolina rolled to a 24—16 victory over Duke Saturday afternoon.

South Carolina dominated most of the game, forcing turnovers and frequently halting the Blue Devils' attack at key points. From mid way through the second quarter and most of the third quarter offensive attacks of both teams sparkled. But in the fourth quarter the defenses began to slow down the vigorous attacks from both sides.

South Carolina sealed its victory with less then three minutes to play when Jacyn Adamski intercepted a Mike Dunn pass. Unable to move the ball, the Gamecocks called in Bobby Marino who kicked a 34 yard field goal.

Grantz claimed the Gamecocks' first touchdown by diving over the line from the one after a 60 yard march downfield in 11 plays on their first possession. That scoring drive was set up by an eight yard Grantz pass to Randy Chastain and a 14 yard pass to Williams.

Grantz scored again in the second quarter, capping a 61 yard drive kept alive by a 13 yard pass to flanker Scott Thomas on the Duke four. Grantz trotted around left end and was untouched in his scoring run.

Williams ran 20 yards over left guard for another touchdown. That score came in a 79 yard drive that opened the third quarter.

Duke's first touchdown came in the second quarter on a run around left end from the four by Chuck Williamson. The other Blue Devil touchdown was in the third quarter on a quarterback sneak from the one by Hal Spears.

Early in the second quarter, Duke's offense started putting its game together and drove to the South Carolina eight before being forced to call in placekicker Vince Fusco to put three points on the board with a 15 yard field goal.

After South Carolina scored its second touchdown to lead 14—3, the Blue Devils continued having trouble with its offensive game until the teams traded punts giving Duke strong field position on the South Carolina 39.

Duke's only other touchdown started with a 44 yard kickoff return by Troy Slade.

Beginning at the South Carolina five, Art Gore picked up three yards in a flying leap over the middle. He repeated the feat and landed on the Gamecock one foot line. At that point, the quarterback sneak by Spears concluded the 53 yard drive.

Rampants Survive Vike Scare, 21-15

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

It was the closest 35-0 football game Ficklen Stadium has even seen.

Well, it didn't turn out to be 35-0, but it just as easily could have. Rose High School won its third straight Friday night, downing the Kinston Vikings, 21-15. The two Kinston touchdowns came on what can only be called flukes. One was a 100-yard kickoff return—after the first kickoff return had been nullified by a five-yard penalty—against Kinston. The other came on a 70-yard fumble return when a Rampant pitchout sailed over the head of halfback Mike Joyner.

Rose dominated the game, but their own mistakes kept them from scoring on several occasions, with penalties and fumbles halting them.

The Rampants ground out 252 yards on the ground, behind 134 by Doug Paschal, playing his first game of the year. They added four on one pass reception.

Kinston had 97 on the ground, and 43 in the air for a 140-yard total. Of that, 65 came during the final 2:32, when Kinston was trying desperately to get back into the game—and came perilously to pulling out thw win. The game ended with the Vikings on the 14.

Paschal scored two of the Rampant touchdowns, on runs on three and one yard. Mike Brewington scored the other, picking up a punt he had blocked and taking it in on a 31-yard play. Wright Hooks added one PAT kick, while Mike Joyner ran a two-pointer.

Kinston's Theodore Sutton scored on the 100-yard kickoff return, while Michael Bryant raced back with the fumble. Hayes Foscue kicked one PAT, and Sutton ran for a two-pointer.

Kinston got the first break of the game, picking off a fumble at the Rampant 41 on the first Rose series. But the Rampants held, throwing Kinston back to the 48. At that point, Brewington raced in on fourth down, getting a piece of the ball—which traveled just five yards beyond the line of scrimmage to the Rose 43.

The Rampants pushed across midfield and drove down to the 30 before turning the ball over on downs. The killer play was a five-yard loss on first down from the 34, when a block was missed.

Kinston again appeared to be held, but on third down, Rose was offsides, and on the replay, the Vikes made the first down and moved it as the second period opened, to the Rampant 43, before Tyrone Perkins picked off a fumble.

After moving to the 40 of the Vikings, however, another missed block caused a long loss dulling the drive.

But Kinston was unable to move after the punt, and Foscue went back to kick from the 31. This time, Brewington got the full shot, and scramble after the ball, scooping it up and moving easily into the end zone for the score. Hooks added the PAT for a 7-0 lead with 6:13 left in the half.

Rose kicked off and Kinston brought it back to near the 40. The Vikes were offsides, however, and Rose elected to take the penalty, hoping to put their opponents into a better hole. It didn't work.

Sutton pulled in the ball with his back foot on the goal line, and darted through the charging Rampant defense to race all the way downfield and score. (Editor's note: Many fans felt the ball should have been blown dead for a touchback. The ball, however, did not cross the goal line, just the receiver's foot, and it is the position of the ball, not the foot, that counts on a touchback.)

Foscue added the kick to knot it at 7-7 with 5:54 left.

Late in the period, Kinston quarterback Robert Bruncati, under pressure by John Mallow, got off a desperation pass that was picked off by Howard Hill at the Viking 32.

After a pass fell incomplete, Paschal went through right tackle for 14 yards, then Trevathan reversed his field on a keeper and added 14 more to the four. Paschal gained a yard, then cracked over on the next play from the three to put Rose back up, this time for good. The PAT kick was blocked, leaving Rose up, 13-7 with 22 seconds left.

Rose drove on their opening series, from their own 40 in the second half. They appeared to have been stopped at the Kinston 49, with a fourth and 10 after a penalty put them into a hole. But no one rushed Trevathan as he went back to kick and he tucked the ball in, racing 29 yards for a first down at the 20.

Paschal got five more, then Trevathan added two. Paschal hit for four, and after a three-yard loss, the big fullback picked up five more. Joyner took a pitchout down to the one, and Paschal hit over from there. Joyner ran over the PAT with a pitchout, giving Rose a 21-7 lead with 6:29 left.

Rose got good field position as the quarter ended after Greg Sasser intercepted a pass at the 47, but failed to convert on a first down at the 34. They got it back on a fumble at the 35, but after getting a first down on the 21, a pitchout by Trevathan was over Joyner's head, and Bryant was there to pick it up and race 70 yards for the score. Sutton got a two-point conversion to cut it to 21-15 with 8:59 left.

Trevathan and the tiring Paschal then drove the ball from the Rose 11 down to the Kinston 27 before the drive ran out of steam, and a field goal atrempt failed from there.

Kinston took with 2:32 left and threw a scare into the Rampants. Working in more of a prevent defense, Rose appeared to have Kinston bottled up on fourth and four at the 49, but Bruncati broke around the left side for 20 yards and a first down at the Rose 31 with under 20 seconds left. Sutton gained three yards, but two passes, one into the end zone, fell incomplete, leaving one second left. A screen pass to Sutton was then completed, but he was smothered at the 14 as the horn went off, salvaging the win.

Rose, ranked as the top 4-A team in the state will get its toughest test of the year next Friday as it travels to Jacksonville to meet the strong Cardinals.

LETTING HIS PRESENCE BE KNOWN—Doug Paschal, Rose High School's All-State back, returned to action last night and let everyone know that he was back in action. On 23 carries, he gained 134 yards, and scored two touchdowns. Here, in this three-shot sequence, Paschal breaks away from two tackles and picks up good yardage. From the opening hit, he picked up seven additional yards. Trying to make the tackle in the first picture is Kinston's Craig Hill and another unidentified teammate. Hill gets only a piece of Paschal's shirt as his teammate is bowled over in the middle shot. At right, Paschal, after spinning, tries to pull away for additional yardage as Tod Tucker (75) and another Vike close in. Rose won, 21-15. (Reflector photos by Tommy Forrest)

College Football Scoreboard

Miami, O. String Broken

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Quarterback Charlie Baggett fired a 66-yard scoring bomb to freshman Kirk Gibson, leading Michigan State to a 14-13 victory over 19th-ranked Miami of Ohio in college football Saturday.

The defeat was the first in 25 games for Miami of Ohio, the defending Mid-American Conference champion. Mimai of Ohio missed several opportunities to extend their streak as MSU mistakes gave them good chances to score.

Stanford 19, Michigan 19

Langford, a psychology major from Atwater, Calif., had kicked a 40-yard field goal with 3:41 left to boost the Cardinals, a 34-14 loser to Penn State in their opener a week ago, into a 16-16 tie.

Nebraska 45, Indiana 0

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Quarterback Terry Luck ran for one touchdown and passed for another Saturday while directing Nebraska to a lopsided lead during the first 2½ quarters of play in a 45-0 rout of Indiana.

The tone of the contest—totally dominated by the Cornhuskers, who gained 470 yards rushing—was set on the first play from scrimmage when Nebraska's Dave Butterfield intercepted a Terry Jones pass on the Cornhuskers' 47. Ten plays later Luck crashed over from one yard out and the rout began.

Oklahoma 46, Pittsburgh 10

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — All-American halfback Joe Washington darted through Pittsburgh defense's at will Saturday, scoring three touchdowns as he fired top-ranked Oklahoma to a 46-10 thrashing of the 15th-ranked Panthers.

Washington, leaving Pitt defenders on their backs with his uncanny moves, scored on runs of one, 10 and 15 yards as the Sooners blazed to a 23-0 halftime and breezed to their 23rd straight victory, extending their unbeaten streak to 31 games. Both streaks are the longest in college football.

Sophomore speedster Elvis Peacock scored a pair of touchdowns for the Sooners on beautifully timed pitches from quarterback Steve Davis.

Syracuse Wins On Field Goal

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Dave Jacobs, a pint-sized freshman, kicked a 41-yard sield goal into the wind with 22 seconds remaining Saturday, giving Syracuse a 10-7 football victory over Iowa and its best start in eight years.

Jacobs' decisive boot iame five plays after Iowa gambled on fourth down with nine yards to go but turned the ball over at midfield when a pass fell in complete.

Minnesota 38, W. Michigan 0

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Minnesota quarterback Tony Dungy ran for two touchdowns and passed for another to power the Gophers to a 38-0 nonconference rout over Western Michigan Saturday in the first meeting between the two schools.

Dungy completed nine of 13 passes for 105 yards and tailback Bubby Holmes rushed for 85 yards in 25 carries. The Gopher defense stopped the Broncos' ground game and held quarterback Sollie Boone to zero yards passing.

Kansas St. 32, Wichita St. 0

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Kansas State's Mike Harris strongarmed his way into the end zone three times Saturday as the Wildcats ran over Wichita State 32-0..

Harris, used sparingly, twisted through the line for touchdowns in the first and second quarters, both times from two yards out. He added six more points midway through the fourth period on a five-yard burst.

Ohio St. 17, Penn St. 9

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Archie Griffin and Pete Johnson again provided the inside and outside ground game for third-ranked Ohio State Saturday, combining for 235 yards rushing as the Buckeyes shattered a Penn State hex with a 17-9 victory over the seventh-ranked Nittany Lions.

Johnson, a 248-pound junior fullback, rolled up 107 yards, including an 11 yard run that provided the clinching touchdown in the closing minutes. Johnson also scored on a one-yard plunge.

Georgia Tech 38, Miami 23

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Quarterback Danny Myers scored three touchdowns and passed for another Saturday, engineering Georgia Tech to a 38-23 college football triumph over Miami of Florida, spoiling the head coaching debut of Carl Selmer.

The Yellow Jackets, 1-1, made their home opener a successful one when Myers, stacked up for five losses in his only previous running attempt, scooted 10 yards for a touchdown after 8:47 of the opening quarter, giving Tech the lead for keeps.

Mars Hill 31, Catawba 28

SALISBURY, N.C. (UPI) — Mars Hill quarterback Mark Dickerson tallied on a 73-yard pass play, tipped over from the one-yard line and connected with a two-point conversion in the final period Saturday to turn the tide in the Lions' 31-28 South Atlantic Eight Conference win over Catawba.

The Lions went into the fourth quarter trailing 28-17, but with 12:26 left in the game split end Ferguson Scott bombed to Dickerson for a score. Wide receiver Ron Capps made the catch from Dickerson for the conversion.

Boston College 27, Temple 9

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — First half touchdowns by workhorse running backs Keith Barnette and Glen Capriola got Boston College on the winning track Saturday as the Eagles easily beat Temple 27-9 in college football.

Oklahoma St. 20, Arkansas 13

STILLWATER, Okla. (UPI) — Oklahoma State fullback Robert Turner scored on a one-yard plunge midway through the fourth quarter for the Cowboys' winning touchdown in Saturday's 20-13 upset victory over arch-rival Arkansas.

Expos Win Tight Battle, 3-1

MONTREAL (AP) — Pete Mackanin clouted his 12th home run in the fifth inning and Don Carrithers hurled a five-hitter, leading the Montreal Expos to a 3-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs Saturday.

Mackanin's leadoff shot, his third home run in as many games, was only Montreal's second hit as starter Rick Reuschel of the Cubs and Carrithers hooked up in a pitching duel that saw the first 20 batters in the game retired.

Jerry Morales was the first base runner, slamming a two-out homer, his 12th of the season, for the Cubs in the fourth.

The Expos tied it in the bottom of the inning. Tim Foli walked with one out and after Jim Dwyer flied out, Mike Jorgensen walked and Larry Parrish singled to load the bases. Foli then scored as Gary Carter reached on third baseman Don Kessinger's throwing error.

Pirates Slowed By 8-2 Drubbing

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Reggie Smith's fifth-inning single produced the go-ahead run, and the St. Louis Cardinals scored five more times in the eighth inning to pound the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-2 Saturday.

The loss slowed the Pirates' drive for the National League East pennant. The division leaders started the day six games in front of the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Cardinals, who were mathematically eliminated from the East title chase Friday night by the Pirates, got strong pitching from Harry Rasmussen and Al Hrabosky, who choked off a Pirate rally in the seventh. The pair combined on a seven-hitter.

Pittsburgh starter Jim Rooker was in trouble frequently, and his error allowed the first St. Louis run in the second inning. Bake McBride singled and took third on a single by Mario Guerrero. Rooker then fell down attempting to field Rasmussen's bunt, allowing the run to score.

The Cards got their go-ahead run in the fifth when McBride singled, moved to third on a single by Ted Simmons and scored on Smith's base hit to center.

Chargers Run Past Washington, 19-14

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer

LITTLEFIELD—Three touchdowns in the second quarter and some fine defensive play carried the Ayden-Grifton Chargers to their first win of the season, a 19-14 decision over Washington, Friday night.

The win was the first in three games for the Chargers who evened their record at 1-1-1.

The Chargers dominated the first half piling up 82 yards rushing while holding the Pam Pack to 27. The Chargers started the second half without Ned Craft and Roderick Nobles and that let Washington pick up steam. The Chargers' defense stiffened in the closing minutes to preserve the win.

Craft led the Charger rushing with 69 yards in 18 carries. Terry Morris had 55 in 12 carries.

Both teams had the ball twice in the first period with no success in moving it. But it took the Chargers only five plays in the second quarter to get on the boards. Just under three minutes later, they scored again on interception and two minutes later Craft scored for a third A-G tally.

Washington broke the shut out on the third play of the fourth period as Wayne Matthews returned a punt 60 yards for a TD. An interception set up the second Pam-Pack score a few minutes later.

Ayden-Grifton rushed for 115 yards and added 64 passing. The Charger defense held Washington to 89 yards on the ground and 13 passing.

Both teams drove within the 25 in the first period but both drives ended without a score. The Chargers forced a turnover near the end of the first period on a shanked field goal attempt at midfield gaining possession at their 36.

Craft carried three times picking up a first down at the 49 and a run picked up no yardage, Dennis Cristiano found Paul Ricciarelli open for a 51-yard scoring pass. Vern Davenport added the Pat for a 7-0 lead.

Washington drove to its 44 but a penalty gave them a third and 12. Rudy Smithwick tried a short pass to Elbert Sherrod but it was incomplete. The 'Pack came back with the same play on the next down but this time, Twendie Simpson intercepted the pass and raced 48 yards for the second Charger score. Davenport's kick with 6:27 left in the half was blocked.

On Washington's second play after the kickoff, Kenny Gray fumbled and Greg Garrett recovered for the Chargers at the Washington 23. Craft carried to the 16 and Morris got 12 to the four. From there Craft bulled his way over for a 19-0 lead.

Another fumble, again on Washington's second play after the kick started an A-G drive that was stopped by the clock at the Pam-Pack five.

The Chargers began making mistakes in the third quarter fumbling once and having a pass intercepted. A-G had the ball for just eight plays in the third period.

Ayden-Grifton started the fourth quarter with the ball but could not move it past its 23. Ricciarelli punted to Matthews who raced down the right side 60 yards for touchdown.

Three plays later, Gray picked off a Cristiano pass at the Charger 32 returning it to the seven and after getting help from a penalty, Gray went four yards for the score. The two-point conversion made it a five point difference, 19-14, with 8:46 left to play.

The Chargers dug in and began a time consuming drive that was stopped by a fumble at the 50. Time ran out on Washington after that.

Plymouth Nips Farmville, 14-6

PLYMOUTH—Plymouth scored two times in the second quarter and held off a last ditch come back by Farmville Central Friday night to post a 14-6, nonconference win.

It was the second loss in a row for the Jaguars. Both times, the Jags have waited until the last quarter to score.

The Jaguars did better offensively than Plymouth gaining 280 yards in total offense, 249 of that coming on the ground. Plymouth picked up 168 rushing. Jeff Wilkes led the Farmville Central ground game with 174 yards in 19 carries. It was the second time in two games he has gone over the 150-yard mark.

Plymouth scored first on a six yard pass from Raymie Styons to Zac Tugwell with 9:20 left in the half. Four minutes later, Tom Cherry put Plymouth up by 14-0 scoring on a 23 yard dash and adding a two-point conversion.

Farmville Central ended the shutout in the last frame as Wilkes scored on a six yard run. The extra point attempt failed.

Turnovers helped beat the Jaguars. They lost four fumbles and had two passes intercepted.

Kickers In Loss

WILMINGTON—East Carolina University's kickers bowed in their opening soccer game of the season Friday, falling to UNC-Wilmington by a 4-1 score.

The Seahawks were playing their fifth game and winning their third in the contest.

Fleri scored two of the Wilmington goals, while Steven Paul and Goldeni each scored once. Dave Hovack and Carlos Escobar each added two assists.

The lone Pirate goal, which came in the second half, was scored by Pete Angus.

North Pitt Captures 14-6 Win Over Creecy

BETHEL—North Pitt's Panthers picked up their first victory of the season Friday night with a 14-6 victory over W. S. Creecy High School of Rich Square.

The Panthers scored in the first and third periods in the fairly even ball game. Creecy's lone score came in the final period.

The Panthers, worried by penalties, had two touchdown passes by Donnie Perkins called back because of flags. North Pitt wound up with 202 yards in total offense, while their guests ended up with 183. Both teams lost three fumbles, but neither had a pass picked off.

North Pitt pushed into the lead in the first period. The score came when Perkins hit James Carr for a 28-yarder that put six on the scoreboard. A two-point conversion run fell short.

It stayed that way until the second half, when the Panthers got what proved to be the clincher. Just prior to the score, Perkins hit Tim Corey for 42 yards to set up the touchdown. Perkins then broke away for a 15-yard run to the end zone. He personally carried in the PAT to raise the score to 14-0.

The lone Creecy score came on a one-yard plunge by Reggie Edmonds late in the game. The run for the two-points failed.

One 45-yard aerial for a score-to Jesse Harris—was called back, and another 30-yard bomb also was brought back because of penalties against the Panthers.

Creecy got off one other drive, moving to the 10 before penalties and the North Pitt defense did the job.

The Panthers, now 1-2, open their Eastern Carolina season with C. B. Aycock next week on the North Pitt field.

Southern Cal Downs Beavers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Massive Ricky Bell exploded for two long touchdown runs and gained 215 yards Friday night as fourth-ranked Southern California defeated Pacific-8 Conference rival Oregon State 24-7.

The 215-pound tailback, who opened his season lastweek with 256 yards and four touchdowns against Duke to grab the national leadership in both departments, ran 53 yards for a score with the game only 1:53 old the first time USC had the ball.

Bell's second score came in the third period after a 50-yard punt by Oregon State's Wendel Smith rolled dead at the Southern Cal 38.

Bell skipped around right end for 12 yards, then ran for two and then made a key block for quarterback Vince Evans, springing the passer lose and giving him time to throw.

After scrambling, Evans hit bell for a 17-yard passing gain.

On the following play Evans ran for six yards and then one play later handed to Bell on a sweep around right end.

Bell, dodging and leaping, romped straight up the middle 25 yards for the touchdown with 9:30 gone in the third period to give the Trojans their 24-7 lead in this Pac-8 opener for both schools.

Oregon State, wracked by injuries, got its only touchdown in the first period, tying the score briefly, after Evans fumbled at the USC nine yard line and Bill Ford recovered for the Beavers.

Rams Fall To Southern Wayne

DUDLEY—Greene Central's Rams went down to their third straight defeat Friday night as they bowed to 4-A Southern Wayne, 21-7.

The two teams battled to a 7-7 tie in the first half, but the strength of the Saints was too much for the 3-A Rams in the second half as Southern scored in each period to wrap up the win.

Southern Wayne's first touchdown came after they had received the ball on a punt. They drove downfield with the series climaxed on a five-yard run by Ron Pelliter. The PAT kick gave the Saints a 7-0 lead.

Greene Central, after getting the ball in the second period on a punt, drove 80 yards for its only score. The key play was the touchdown, which came on a 50-yard pass from Torre Allbritton to Thomas Hooker. Ronald Hillard added the PAT for a 7-7 tie.

Two second half interceptions helped Southern Wayne to pull out the victory. They got the first at the 40 of the Rams, and Ricky Loftin raced 38 yards a few plays later for the score. The kick failed, leaving it at 13-7.

Another interception, in the fourth period, gave the Saints the ball at midfield, and a 20-yard run by Loftin brought the final score. Loftin also added the two-point conversion for the final 21-7 margin.

The two teams were almost even in yardage. The Rams had 194 while the Saints has 199.

Greene Central opens league play next week, traveling to Farmville Central.

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Members of the U.S. Ski Jumping and Nordic Combined teams have begun two weeks of training on the country's only plastic jumping facility.

Glenn Kotlarek, head jumping coach, says he hopes his skiers will get in at least 100 jumps during the training camp.

Belhaven Tops Jamesville

BELHAVEN—Belhaven High School romped to a 22-0 victory over winless Jamesville last night in a Tobacco Belt Conference game.

The two teams played to a scoreless deadlock in the first half, but penalties helped to kill the Bullet chances as Belhaven scored twice in the third and once in the fourth period.

The scores came on runs of six, 25 and seven yards by the Belhaven team.

Total offense was fairly even with Jamesville getting 128 yards and Belhaven 121.

The Bullets lost two players due to injuries. Halfback Eric Davis will be out for three to four weeks with a hairline fracture of the heel. Glenn Ellis, a receiver, will miss the rest of the year with a broken thumb.

Jamesville will play host to Bath next week, trying to snap its three-game losing streak.

Rivalries Take On New Meanings

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Rivalries like the New York Jets and Buffalo Bills, the New York Giants and Philadelphia Eagles, the Detroit Lions and Green Bay Packers and others take on a new meaning Sunday.

Not content with getting psyched up over longtime on-the-field feuds, these National Football League teams have found a new way to make their blood boil—the just-ended strike.

"It's going to be a blood match," Richard Neal, the Jets' defensive end said of their opener in Buffalo against one of the non-striking teams. "They're just a lousy bunch!" The Jets' you'll recall, did strike.

So did the Giants—while the Eagles didn't. So Craig Morton and his teammates may feel they have more than one score to settle with Philadelphia. The other is young Mike Boryla's 20-7 manhandling of them late last season. Boryla beat out Roman Gabriel for the starting quarterback job late last season and held onto it during the exhibitions this year.

The Lions—who also struck—and Packers have a rivalry dating back 83 games, more than enough to insure the fans some extra intensity on the field. And, in a sense, both teams are starting fresh in game No. 84.

"A Fresh Start With Bart," is Green Bay's slogan, referring to Bart Starr's debut as head coach. Detroit's starting quarterback is Greg Landry, who was injured most of the 1974 season. But his receiving corps has been depleted with the absence of wide receivers Ron Jessie and Larry Walton.

The New England Patriots, who triggered the brief strike, have plenty of receivers in Randy Vataha, Darryl Stingley, Bob Windsor and more for their opener against Houston. But their No. 1 quarterback, Jim Plunkett, is out with a shoulder separation. Whether Neil Graff can guide the Pats, who have missed virtually an entire week of workouts, is a matter for conjecture.

Washington was the other striking team. But the Redskins missed only one official workout and are primed for their opener against New Orleans, which is missing more with quarterback Archie Manning on the sidelines with a chipped elbow. Bobby Scott will call the Saints' signals.

In Sunday's other openers it's Los Angeles at Dallas, Cleveland at Cincinnati, San Francisco at Minnesota, Baltimore at Chicago, Atlanta at St. Louis, Kansas City at Denver and Pittsburgh at San Diego. On Monday night, Oakland is at Miami.

Dallas, drained by defections and retirements, has 13 rookies on its roster, "the most rookies I can remember us keeping," says Coach Tom Landry. And General Manager Tex Schramm says the Cowboys are "striving to remain in contention while continuing the infusion of new faces." In 1974, Dallas failed for the first time in nine years to make the playoffs.

The Bengals, who staggered through 1974 with a battered roster, enter 1975 up the upswing, having won four of their last five exhibition games. And there's always Coach Paul Brown's pride at stake. He still delights in beating Cleveland, the team he founded 30 years ago—and the team which nudged him into temporary retirement 13 years ago.

The Vikings spent their preseason without wide receiver John Gilliam, a temporary defector to the World Football League before his team folded. He re-signed with Minnesota Tuesday night and will start against San Francisco. "The 49ers are obviously ready, judging by the way they've been playing lately," said Vikings Coach Bud Grant, referring to San Francisco's routs of Denver and Green Bay in its final two exhibition games.

Shunting aside thoughts of a tie, at least one head coach is going to come out on the short end in his debut on Sunday. Chicago's Jack Pardee and Baltimore's Ted Marchibroda go head to head. Atlanta's Falcons will find out just what they got with their No. 1 draft pick when they send quarterback Steve Bartkowski against the explosiveness and improved defense of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Kansas City's Paul Wiggin, another newcomer to the head coaching ranks, spent virtually the whole preseason shuffling five quarterbacks around, looking for a starter against Denver. He's settled on Mike Livingston. Pittsburgh went through that kind of quarterback roulette a year ago. Then Terry Bradshaw's number came up and the Steelers cashed in at the Super Bowl. This year his job is secure as Pittsburgh begins its title defense in San Diego.

Conley Bows To Havelock

HOLLYWOOD—Powerful Havelock snapped the D.H. Conley winning streak at two games Friday night, rolling to a 45-8 victory over the Vikings.

It was the first loss of the year for the Vikes, who led 8-0 at one point in the game. "We looked good in the first period," Coach Chuck Dunn said. "But they were just so big and strong; they just wore us down."

The lone Conley touchdown came in the opening frame. Curtis Clemons took it in on a two yard run. Joey Baggett then tossed to Donnie Cox for the two-point conversion and the 8-0 lead. The score climaxed a 70-yard drive after a fumble recovery.

But in the second period, Havelock began to gain control, wrestling the lead from the Vikes as they piled up 22 points. Chip Kesler ended the first drive with a five-yard run and Ed Dozier's conversion run tied it at 8-8.

On their next drive, the Rams grabbed the lead with Tony Tripp scoring from the one. Dozier again scored the conversion for a 16-8 lead. Then, late in the half, Tripp scored again on a seven-yard ramble, but the conversion failed, leaving it at 22-8 at halftime.

Two more Ram scores went up on the board in the third quarter. Dozier got his lone touchdown of the night, then added his fifth and sixth extra points on a run. Tripp got the other score from the four, and Dozier again ran to bring his point total for the night to 14.

The last score, in the final period, was a one-yard plunge by Herb Quiller and Allen Openshaw kicked the PAT.

Conley had three other scoring threats, but a fumble stopped one and penalities killed the other two. Clemons led the Conley offense with 150 yards rushing.

Kesler paced Havelock with 125, while Dozier added 98.

The Vikings, now 2-1 on the year, open Eastern Carolina Conference play next week, traveling to North Lenoir.

Norfolk St. 9, Fayettville St. 7

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (UPI) — Quarterback Steve Graeff tossed a 17-yard scoring pass to split end Robert Powell to lead Norfolk State to a 9-7 victory Saturday over Fayetteville State in a Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association game.

Fayetteville's Broncos, now 1-1 overall and 0-1 in the CIAA, opened the scoring with a four-yard run by fullback James Godwin as the first half came to a close. Chris Barfield added the extra point and the Broncos led 7-0 at the half.

Williamston Rips Raiders

MURFREESBORO—Williamston High School jumped out to an early lead and rolled to a 32-14 victory over hosting Murfreesboro Friday night.

With Deno Lloyd leading the way, the Tigers clawed their way to 354 yards of total offense, while holding Murfreesboro to just 47 total yards—with minus 15 on the ground.

Murfreesboro got their touchdowns after blocking a punt and on an interception return.

Williamston jumped into the lead in the first period, scoring two touchdowns. Lloyd did the honors on the first, dashing 61 yards for the score. Tommy Gardner added the PAT kick.

Later in the period, Lloyd added his second touchdown, this one on a ten-yard run. It came after Butch Davis had recovered a fumble deep in Raider territory. Gardner's kick made it 14-0 as the period ended.

The Tigers added one more score in the second period. Eric Godard raced 35 yards with a pass from Bermey Stevens for the score, and Williamston took a 20-0 lead into the half.

The Tigers got one more in the third period, as Davis again got to a fumble. This time, he took it back 70 yards for the score.

Murfreesboro put together two scores back-to-back in the final period. The first came after a punt from the Tiger end zone was partially blocked. Donnie Allen finished up the short drive with a two-yard plunge for the score. The other touchdown came when an interior lineman batted down a pass and pulled it in to go 45 yards for the score.

Lloyd finished with 115 yards in 11 carries. Tony Speller added 33 yards in six lugs.

Godard pulled in four passes for 77 yards to lead the receiving.

Williamston, now 3-1, opens Northeastern Conference play by playing host to unbeaten Roanoke Rapids Friday night.

More College Scores

Kansas 14, Kentucky 10

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Eric Franklin's 77-yard run set up Kansas' first touchdown, and the Jayhawks took advantage of numerous Uentucky errors to notch a 14-10 college football victory Saturday afternoon.

Franklin's gallop set up Kansas' second-period score and the Jayhawks scored again in the final quarter, aided by 25 yares in penalties.

Halfback Laverne Smith circled right end for 16 yards with 6:41 left in the game to make the final score.

Navy Shells Huskies, 55-7

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Connecticut's foray into big-time college football abruptly ran aground Saturday as the Huskie's were trounced by Navy 55-7.

The Midshipmen dominated every aspect of the game, scoring almost at will until coach George Welsh started clearing his bench in the second half to stop the U-Conn offense cold. Connecticut didn't get a first down until the final five minutes of the game and wound up with only two.

Army 54, Lehigh 32

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — Sophomore quarterback Leamon Hall and halfback Tony Pyne scored two touchdowns each and accounted for a combined total of 294 yards Saturday to lead Army to its second straight one-sided victory of the 1975 season with a 54-32 triumph over Lehigh.

The Cadets converted eight of 12 possessions into scores and piled up over 400 yards alone in the first half and had a total offense of 643 yards. Hall passed for 184 yards, completing 14 of 19, while Pyne rushed for 117 yards in 21 attempts. The big ground gainer for Army, however, was Brad Dodrill, who rushed 13 times for 153 yards.

Villanova 14, Toledo 10

VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP) — Wide receiver John Mastronardo caught a 14-yard touchdown pass with 38 seconds left to give Villanova a 14-10 college football victory over Toledo Saturday.

Mastronardo's touchdown catch on Brian Sikorski pass was the second score in the fourth quarter for Villanova.

Georgia 28, Mississippi St. 6

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—Former quarterback Dicky Clark raced 71 yards with a pass interception and Ray Goff accounted for two other touchdowns, one on a 70-yard pass play, as Georgia crushed Mississippi State 28-6 Saturday in a Southeastern Conference football game.

Georgia, trailing 6-0 at halftime, took control by marching 76 yards with the second half kickoff, sparked by the running of Goff, who scored on a one-yard keeper.

FLYING VIKING—Kinston's Theodore Sutton is grabbed by Rose High School's Mike Brewington as he gets away from Greg Sasser (on ground) after a leap past the first defender. Rocky Butler (56) and Jay Chenier (13) close in to help Brewington. The Rampants closed down the Viking offense, but a long kickoff return for a score and a returned fumble for another kept the game between the two schools close as Rose won, 21-15. (Reflector Photo)

Red Sox Don't Worry About Who's Following Them—They Just Win

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

The name of the game is scoreboard and the rules are easy to follow: get your team into first place, take the field and look over your shoulder to see if anyone's gaining on you.

"Everybody's looking at the scoreboard," says Boston Red Sox third baseman Rico Petrocelli. "We're looking at it just like they (the Baltimore Orioles) are looking at it.

"But I'm not concerned. We just worry about our game."

There wasn't much to worry about Friday night, as the Red Sox defeated the Detroit Tigers 7-5 to maintain their 4½-game lead over second-place Balimore in the American League's East Division.

"We're loose," added Boston outfielder Dwight Evans. "Everyone's doing a job. It's one guy one game and someone else the next."

There aren't too many next games left. That's why the Red Sox are loose. Friday night's victory reduced Boston's magic number to six for a champagne party—any total of six Red Sox wins or Baltimore losses will end another pennant race.

It's the champagne party that's riding heavily on the mind of Kansas City first baseman John Mayberry as the Oakland A's close in on closing out the Royals for a fifth consecutive AL West crown.

"We're just playing for pride now," said Mayberry after the Royals beat the A's 5-4 but remained seven games behind first-place Oakland with just nine games left this season.

Still, the A's' magic number stood at three as the clubs prepared for tonight's night game—one that could reduce the magical mystery margin to one Oakland victory or Royals loss.

Elsewhere in the AL Friday night, the Orioles kept pace with Boston by trimming Milwaukee 6-5, Texas blasted Chicago 10-6, Cleveland tripped New York 3-2, and California edged Minnesota 1-0.

Red Sox 7, Tigers 5

Petrocelli poked a two-run single in the fifth inning to break a 4-4 tie and propel Boston over Detroit in a game twice delayed by rain for a total of 90 minutes.

Royals 5, A's 4

Al Cowens' two-run single in the seventh inning helped Kansas City nip Oakland.

Orioles 6, Brewers 5

"We've just got to go out and play it day by day," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver after the Birds topped the Brewers but lost the game of scoreboard. "They (Boston) have to win 7 out of 10. We're going out and try to win every game we play."

Rangers 10, White Sox 6

Tom Grieve blasted his 14th homer of the year and Mike Hargrove drove in three runs to lead Texas over Chicago.

Indians 3, Yankees 2

Fritz Peterson picked up his 10th consecutive pitching triumph as Alan Ashby's two-run single carried Cleveland past New York and Catfish Hunter.

California 1, Minnesota 0

Minnesota wasted 12 hits and a three-hitter by Bert Blyleven in dropping their game to California.

Cards, Mets Are Out Of Picture

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

It was a bad night for Willie Stargell but a good night for the Pittsburgh Pirates...and a goodbye for the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Mets.

Stargell got knocked out in a collision with teammate Dave Parker in the midst of Pittsburgh's 7-1 victory over the Cardinals Friday night.

While Stargell was knocked out of the game, the Cardinals and Mets were both knocked out of the National League East pennant race, leaving only the Philadelphia Phillies with a mathematical chance to catch the Pirates. The Phillies kept their slim pennant hopes alive with a 4-3 victory over the Mets.

In other National League games, the Montreal Expos whipped the Chicago Cubs 9-6; the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Atlanta Braves 7-6; the Houston Astros trimmed the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-5 and the San Francisco Giants beat the San Diego Padres 3-1.

Phillies 4, Mets 3

Dick Allen, who earlier tied the game with a double, smashed a home run in the eighth inning to give Philadelphia its victory over New York. Allen's shot over the right-center field fence at Shea Stadium unlocked a tie that existed from the sixth inning, when Allen doubled home Jay Johnstone from second base.

Expos 9, Cubs 6

Pete Mackanin hit his 11th home run and later lofted a sacrifice fly for the go-ahead run in the seventh inning as Montreal defeated Chicago.

Reds 7, Braves 6

A solo home run by Dave Concepcion and a three-run double by Terry Crowley keyed a five-run Cincinnati fifth inning and lifted the Reds over Atlanta.

Astros 6, Dodgers 5

Ken Boswell's two-out pinch single in the 12th inning scored Milt May with the winning run as Houston trimmed Los Angeles. May pinch hit a single and moved to second by Wilbur Howard before Boswell's game-winner.

Giants 3, Padres 1

Gary Matthews' three-run homer in the first inning triggered San Francisco past San Diego, denying Randy Jones his 20th victory of the season. The Padre left-hander, who gave up only three hits overall, was bidding to become the first 20-game winner in San Diego history.

Weaker Teams May Have Wished Strike Had Continued A Week

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Until last Thursday, things looked swell for some National Football League clubs like San Diego, Atlanta, San Francisco and New Orleans.

The strike by five teams threatened to disrupt the first weekend of games and a peek at the schedule tells you why those clubs wouldn't have been terribly upset at that prospect.

Then a tentative settlement was reached in the labor dispute and the opening games were saved. That means San Diego will have to face defending champion Pittsburgh, Atlanta must go against St. Louis, San Francisco has to show up at Minnesota, and New Orleans is due to play at Washington.

They'll be sorry—it says here.

The NFL is always good for an upset or two but don't look for those four underdogs to spring any surprises. However, more than one pro picker has choked on chalk so there's certainly hope for them.

The opening games include some attractive matchups including a duel between two of the league's best clubs when Oakland plays at Miami in Monday night's nationally televised game.

In case you have other things to do over the weekend, here's how they'll all come out:

Pittsburgh 34, San Diego 13

The Steelers were sluggish during the exhibition season but those games didn't count. These do and the Super Bowl champions know it. With Terry Bradshaw's passing and Franco Harris' running guiding the Steeler offense and Mean Joe Greene and Co. handling the defense, the Chargers could be in for a long day.

N.Y. Jets 21, Buffalo 10

Joe Namath could have a picnic with Buffalo's patched-up defensive backfield which is missing three regulars including All-Pro Robert James. The Jets have beefed up their defensive line and O.J. Simpson should provide a stiff test for it.

Los Angeles 24, Dallas 14

The Rams are good...very good. They had shutouts in their last two preseason games and battered the Cowboys when they played last month. Dallas is a sea of new faces, only a few of them as good as the old ones they replaced.

St. Louis 31, Atlanta 3

Defensive end Claude Humphrey, the Falcons' best player, is through for the season. Forget about Atlanta, especially against a club like the Cardinals which enjoys a multiple of offensive weapons headed by versatile running back Terry Metcalf.

Minnesota 19, San Francisco 7

The return of wide receiver John Gilliam should hypo the Vikings' offense. He's Fran Tarkenton's favorite target. The 49ers have two promising runners in Larry Schreiber and Wilbur Jackson but not much else.

Cincinnati 24, Cleveland 20

This one could be close. The rebuilding Browns will be pesky this season but the Bengals won't be caught napping—not with Coach Paul Brown looking for more revenge against his former team.

Denver 34, Kansas City 14

Green Bay 17, Detroit 7

The Packers wouldn't dare lose Bart Starr's coaching debut, and certainly not against the injury-depleted Lions. John Hadl gives Green Bay a professional look at quarterback.

Baltimore 20, Chicago 14

Upset special. Two new coaches, Baltimore's Ted Marchibroda and Chicago's Jack Pardee, debuting in this one and the pick is a hunch that the Colts are in better hands at quarterback with Bert Jones than the Bears are with Bobby Douglass.

Washington 35, New Orleans 7

The Redskins would have beaten the Saints with a healthy Archie Manning at quarterback for New Orleans. With Manning on the sidelines, Washington will win even bigger. And if injured Larry Brown can run for the Redskins, the margin will be still larger.

Philadelphia 21, N.Y. Giants 17

The Giant are improved...how could they not be? But they could hardly afford missing a day's work to go on strike. Philadelphia's Mike Boryla, a promising young quarterback, beat New York badly last year. He'll do it again, although not as badly this time.

Houston 20, New England 3

Roanoke Rips Elm City, 48-0

ELM CITY—Ricky Spruill and Ricky Purvis scored twice and Charlie Smith passed for one and ran for one leading the Roanoke Redskins to a 48-0 rout of Elm City, Friday night.

Spruill led the Redskin ground attack with 145 yards in 10 carries. Purvis added 130 in three carries.

The Redskins took three plays to get their first TD. Smith passed to June Griffin for 31 yards. The PAT failed.

In the second quarter, a punt gave Roanoke the ball on its 23 and from there, the 'Skins put together a 77-yard drive capped off by Spruill's 13-yard scoring run. Reid Bullock added the extra point. A few minutes later, Roanoke regained possession on another punt at its 22. On first down they picked up eight and a second down pass fell incomplete. On third down, Purvis blew through a hole in the line for 70 yards and a third TD. Bullock again converted.

In the third quarter, the Redskins scored on the first plays after a pair of punts. Spruill rambled 59 yards for one score and Purvis 49 on the other one. Smith finished off a 35-yard drive scampering nine yards for a tally. He also added a two-point conversion.

The final Roanoke TD came on a 20-yard run by David Spruill. Spruill also added the conversion.

The Redskins picked up 337 yards rushing behind Ricky Spruill and Purvis and Smith completed five of seven passes for 100 yards.

MERGER PLANS

Plans to merge The Bank of Matthews in Matthews intc Branch Banking and Trust Co. were announced jointly by Thorne Gregory, president of Branch Banking and Trust, and L. E. Funderburg, Bank of Matthews, president.

The officials said the terms of the merger have been agreed upon in principle subject to formal approval by the respective boards and shareholders. The merger terms provide for an exchange of Branch Corp. stock for the oustanding shares of Bank of Matthews common stock.

As of June 30, resources of Branch Banking and Trust exceeded $388 million while The Bank of Matthews had resources of $6.6 million.

DEALER CONGRESS

Joe Vernelson, owner-operator of Greenville Marine and Sports Center here, recently attended Mercury Marine's 1976 Dealer Congress in Dunfrey's Hyannis Resourt, Cape Cod, Mass.

Vernelson was selected to attend the three-day session on the basis of his sales record and performance as a Mercury dealer.

JOINED FIRM

Mrs. Sophio Bridges and Mrs. Anita Dhir have joined Wholesale Fabrics, located on US. 301 bypass between Rocky Mount and Wilson, as interior decorators.

Mrs. Bridges, a native of Rocky Mount, has been associated with several businesses and building contracting firms in the Rocky Mount area for the past four years. She is a 1969 graduate of Northern Nash High School.

Mrs. Dhir, a 1974 graduate of Lady Irwin College of New Delhi, India, has served as a substitute teacher in the Rocky Mount School system since moving to Rocky Mount.

Wholesale Fabric also has a facility at Rt. 3, Snow Hill.

GROSS LOANS UP

According to the weekly survey conducted by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, gross loans at 27 of the large commercial banks in the Fifth Federal Reserve District increased $283,466,000 during the week ending Sept. 10, raising the total outstanding to $15,891,457,000.

Loans to domestic commerical banks climbed $341,774,000 while loans net of these interbank transactions lost $58,308,000. Time deposits went up $34,605,000, the bank reported, while demand deposits fell $385,403,000. Investments declined $18,325,000.

CT&T ELECTION

J. C. Cluen, president of Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co., announced the election of G. W. Lewis to vice president of the company in charge of finance.

The company reported that Lewis is returning to Tarboro from Kansas City where he has been controller for the telephone operations of United Telecommunications since 1971. Prior to moving to Kansas City, Lewis was controller for Carolina Telephone.

The company also announced the elevation of T. P. Willamson to vice president-administration; P. J. Long to assistant vice president-personnel and labor relations; and W. C. Morris to controller. E. B. Gammons, former controller for the company, was named data manager.

OPERATIONS OFFICER

C. D. Langston, president of First State Bank, announced that Richard Pike will join the bank's staff on Monday (Sept. 22) as operations officer.

Langston said that Pike was elected an officer of bank by the First State board at their Sept. 17 meeting.

Pike, who will be located that bank's office at Memorial Drive and Trade Street, has had some six and one half years experience in banking in the audit field and was also associated with a firm in the accounting machine field. He spent four years in the Air Force in the financial services division.

The new officer and his wife, Terry, have two children and attend Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church.

BONDS SOLD

An investment group comprised of five firms, with Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. serving as the lead bidder, submitted the winning bid of 5.9819 per cent on $1,420,000 in water, sewer and parking bonds sold for Greenville by the Local Government Commission.

The investment group included, in addition to Wachovia, Branch Banking Trust Co., Interstate Securities Corp., Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc., and J. Lee Peeler & Co. Inc.

The bonds issued by Greenville included $1 250,000 for water and sewer work and $170,000 parking bonds.

BRANCH MOVED

Manufacturers Life Insurance Co., also known as Manulife-ManEquity, announced that its Greensboro branch has moved to new quarters at 808 Summit Avenue, Greensboro.

"Bingham"

LARGE ROOMS THE RULE IN THIS SPACIOUS CONTEMPORARY.

By Jerry Bishop

Edged in multi-colored stone and contrasting siding, the Bingham shows a design that blends a striking exterior with an interior based on space.

Rooms are large, and none of the four bedrooms measures less than 12 by 12. Beginning with the spacious tiled foyer, open planning is used effectively.

The closeted foyer creates immediate access to all areas of the home and offers an open stairway directly to the basement, hallway to bedrooms, entry to formal living rooms, and a hallway extension to the family room. For formal entertaining, the living room is perfectly placed to welcome guests but discourage cross-traffic. Bordering formal dining room soaks in scenery and extends its boundaries outward via sliding glass doors to the deck.

Beyond the formal living and dining rooms, the home's casual living areas are open and airy and take in, by view and access, the sizable rear patio. The family room stretches 20 feet from foyer to patio to allow plenty of room for family activities, and the kitchen equipted with planning desk, is poised to serve both dining room and family room. A handy niche for washer and dryer is tucked away in a corner of the family room.

Accessible from the foyer or family room, the sleeping wing takes in four ample bedrooms, two large full baths, and a generous sprinkling of closet space. The master bedroom, sizable in itself, annexes a walk-in closet, dressing area with built-in vanity and double sink, and bath with towel closet. Another bath and linen closet are reached through the hallway.

The Bingham luxuriates in storage space and provides, besides the full basement, an oversized double garage with its own storage area and three entrances.

AP Newsfeatures

Sooner or later, all roofs have to be replaced. If the roof is worn and suffering from "old age," limited repairs won't help, since a roof tends to wear uniformly.

The biggest enemy of roofing is the sun, which causes roofing to become dried out, brittle and faded. Wind, rain, hail and temperature changes all play a part.

When it comes to time to reroof, it is well to know something about it, even though it's not what might be called a do-it-yourself project. You've heard the advice time and again about all kinds of construction workers — be sure to check their reliability and performance record. The caution goes double when it comes to roofers, since it is they who must make the decision of whether the new roof can be put on over the old one. A roofer must determine whether the roof decks and supports are still strong enough to support new roofing material and, if so, what steps must be taken to repair gutters, flashing metal drip edges and anything else that requires attention.

Roofing nails used in applying new shingles over old roofing must be long enough to penetrate through the old roofing and at least ¾ths of an inch into the roof decking below. They are longer than nails used in new construction or where the old roofing has been removed. A reliable roofer (try to choose one who has been recommended) will know this, as well as be aware of all the steps necessary to make a good installation.

Among the roof coverings available are wood shingles, ceramic tiles, slate, tern, wood shakes, roll roofing, aluminum shingles, built-up roofing and asbestos-cement shingles, but the most widely used, by a big margin, are asphalt shingles. (You can get a copy of Andy Lang's booklet, "A Homeowner's Guide to the Selection of Quality Roofing," by sending 30 cents and a long, STAMPED, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P. O. Box 477, Huntington, N. Y. 11743.)

Most of today's asphalt shingles are designed to provide satisfactory service for a period ranging from 15 to 25 years. But keep in mind that the labor cost is usually the same whether the life expectancy is 15 or 25 years. Therefore, the costlier shingles, such as those labeled wind resistant, may be the more economical in the long run because the cost of labor and materials is amortized over a longer period of time.

Fire safety is an important consideration when selecting a roofing material. Some materials, such as slate and clay, offer natural fire protection. Asphalt shingles, when tested by the Underwriters Laboratories Inc., gets a Class A, B or C rating. Roofing that is classified as Class C has been tested for light fire exposure, indicating that it will not be easily ignited, will not readily support the spread of fire over the roof area and will not add to the fire hazard by emitting burning brands which can cause new fires. Roofing with a Class A or B label has been tested for protection against even more severe fire resistance. Readily combustible materials, such as wood shingles, can meet the UL standard if they have been chemically treated for fire retardancy.

Self-sealing asphalt shingles that bear the UL label of wind resistant are manufactured with a factory-applied adhesive. The shingles must withstand test winds of at least 60 miles per hour continuously without a single tab lifting for a period of two hours, but they have withstood even higher winds under hurricane conditions.

Designed To Need Less Power

By DOROTHEA BROOKS
United Press International

Harry Tschumi, Little Rock, Ark., started to worry about energy conservation in homes 15 years ago, before it became a national concern.

Today, in Little Rock, there is a group of electrically heated and cooled homes averaging monthly bills 37 per cent lower than other homes in the vicinity.

They are the result of the combined expertise of Arkansas Power and Light Co., Tschumi, an air-conditioning-heating engineer, and Frank Holtzclaw, an area construction analyst from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. The team designed electrically heated and cooled homes that consume as much as 65 per cent less energy and cost no more to construct than homes built under standard specifications.

The folks at Arkansas Power say Tschumi is the man responsible. President of a Little Rock heating and air-conditioning firm bearing his name, he began pioneering a "superthermal" home more than 15 years ago when a survey pinpointed dissatisfaction with comfort and energy costs in homes using heat pumps.

Tschumi says his home required nothing new. "All that was needed," he explained, "was a design specification that provided more carefully installed and thicker insulation, a better vapor barrier, less window area and insulated doors and windows."

Back in the early 1960s, Tschumi said, he and the late Les Blades of Arkansas Power and Light were trying to improve the comfort rating of heat-pump conditioned homes. Heat pumps work on the refrigeration principle. The home refrigerator actually is a one-way heat pump taking heat from air inside and "pumping" it to the outside. Because it has a reversing valve, a heat pump can transfer heat in either direction, taking heat from outside air to heat a home or taking heat from inside air to cool a home.

What they did was control the temperature by more effectively insulating the living area from the outdoor extremes; control air circulation, humidify and dehumidify, as necessary.

But, Tschumi said, "we couldn't convince home builders or buyers to invest in the extra materials. Energy was cheap then and energy savings were just an added bonus."

With the fuel crisis and the need to provide housing low-income families could afford, HUD's Holtzclaw recognized the benefits of the Tschumi-Arkansas Power and Light concept. He designed a home that not only met HUD's requirements but featured construction design and specification that could provide the home with the extra insulation and other features without increasing the cost.

Guy O. Mabry, vice president of Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp., insulation manufacturer, said the Arkansas homes have roughly doubled the insulation normally specified for a new home. They are built with 12 inches in the attic, six inches in the walls and crawl spaces, made possible by using 2 x 6 studs on 24-inch centers instead of 2 x 4s on 16-inch centers, and extending the studs in the attic. The Holtzclaw design also called for one-and-a-half-inch thick urethane foam insulation around the perimeter of slab foundations and six inches of fiber glass insulation under crawl spaces.

In addition to fewer heat conducting studs, the design actually cut framing costs 30 per cent. The window area is limited to eight per cent of the living area and double-pane windows and insulated doors are required. Windows are shaded from direct summer sun, and a power ventilator in the attic reduces peak air-conditioning loads.

A home that normally would call for a two-and-a-half to three-ton heat pump can, in the new design, use only a three-quarter to one-and-a-half-ton unit, Mabry said.

Three conventionally built homes in the Little Rock area had an average monthly electric bill of $48.86, according to Arkansas Power and Light. Homes with the same square footage incorporating the energy conserving features had an average bill of $30.98.

Extending the example to larger homes in areas where the cost of fuel is unusually high — New York State, for instance — the savings potential is enormous, Mabry noted.

To date, more than 100 homes in the Little Rock Area, ranging from 1,100 to 2,000 square feet, have been constructed according to the energy saving specifications. Homes following the standards also have been built in Florida, Texas and Michigan and, Mabry said, 15 more builders have advised Owens-Corning they plan to start construction.

Along with fuel savings, owners of the homes say they have found a bonus in added comfort and quiet.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — We had ceramic tile installed on the upper part of the walls of our bathroom a couple of years ago. It was okay until recently. Now there is a space between the back rim of the bathtub and the wall. Did this occur because the tile installation was not done properly?

A. — Not likely. If the tile installation was poor, the gap would have been immediately apparent. It is more probable that the floor joists have dried out, causing settlement of the tub and thus the space between the tub and tile. In an expert tub installation, what are called "tub hangers" are used to prevent such separation in the event of settlement of the tub. In any case, you can recaulk the area between the tub and tile after removing all old pieces of caulking. Standard caulking tubes are available in hardware stores, lumber yards and some dime stores. You might also consider the installation of lengths of tile along the back edge of the tub if you want a more finished appearance. This should be done after the recaulking.

Q. — The metal float ball at the top of our toilet tank has a hole in it. Water enters the hole and the ball doesn't operate properly. How can it be repaired?

A.—There are several metal patching materials on the market, but you'd be better off to purchase a new float. The old one can be screwed off the horizontal rod to which it is attached. Since it may be rusted in place, work very carefully so that you don't throw the whole apparatus out of adjustment.

Q. — I have heard that a good finish for furniture is a mixture of linseed oil and turpentine. Is this so and what are the proportions of the mixture?

A. — Some persons use a 50-50 mixture. Some use two parts of oil to one of turpentine. It's principally a rub-in finish that requires plenty of elbow grease. After application, the surface must be wiped carefully to remove all traces of oil. It must then be rubbed for at least half an hour with a clean, lintless cloth. Wait 30 minutes or so and repeat the rubbing. You can not rub too hard or too long, because the patina produced by this mixture comes from constant friction. After a week, go through another rubbing session. From that time on, you can rub the wood any time you feel like it. After about a year — and every year thereafter — apply more mixture and go through the whole thing again. You'll have an excellent finish, but be sure you want to commit yourself to something that will require constant attention. Incidentally, use boiled linseed oil in the mixture. You don't have to boil it, but be sure the container you purchase says "boiled" on the container.

(Thirty-five do-it-yourself projects are detailed in Andy Lang's helpful handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

Hari Patient A Pincushion

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Because of a certain unusual type of acupuncture where the needles are left in the body for life, physicians are once in a while encountering patients who are walking pincushions. Radiologists here and in Japan report that X-ray studies reveal the needles can roam throughout the body and may be found literally anywhere.

Dr. Thomas J. Imray, of the Medical College of Wisconsin, and Dr. Yoshihiro Hiramatsu, of Teikyo University School in Tokyo, warn their radiologist colleagues that when the needles are seen in X-ray studies performed for reasons unrelated to acupuncture, they can be confusing because their appearance mimics that of parasitic infections.

This uncommon acupuncture is known as Hari and is still occasionally practiced in Japan. It consists of inserting many fine gold needles through the skin into the tissue underneath.

Maybe He Left Faucet Running

ROSWELL, N.M. (AP) — Jack H. Baker opened his mail recently and discovered three city water bills — one for $.00, one for $10.95 and one for $187,209.08.

Baker, who blamed the bill on a computer error, said, "We've been out of town most of the month and haven't even used much water."

City School Lunch Menus

Lunchroom menus for the coming week at Greenville elementary schools have been announced as follow:

Monday—cheesburgers, tater-tots, dill pickles, sliced tomatoes, applesauce cake, milk;

Tuesday—lasagna, tossed salad, french bread, sliced peaches, milk;

Wednesday—country fried steak, whipped potatoes and gravy, mixed vegetables, rolls, chocolate cake, milk;

Thursday—barbecue on buns, cole slaw, french fries, stewed apples, milk;

Real Estate

By Louis E. Clark, GRI
REALTOR

DO YOU REALLY OWN LAND?

Do you really own the land you live on? Yes, but not unconditionally. There's no question that you, your family, and heirs have strong historic rights to your own land. You can build on it, dig in it, keep others away from it, sell it, give it away, or borrow on it.

But your rights do not override certain public rights. A utility company may buy rights-of-way for power lines. The telephone company may have the right to a five-foot easement for poles along your backlot line. Similar easements are purchased or granted for local electric power lines, underground sewer piping, natural gas lines and water supply piping.

You should know about all easements, rights and claims made on your land while you are living on it. This is the reason for a title search prior to purchase. When it's completed, you'll know if your title to the property is, or is not, free and clear of all "encumbrances" and, if not, what they are.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at LOUIS CLARK AGENCY, IBM Bldg., 100 Reade St., Greenville. Phone: 752-4173. We're here to help!

Ailing Airlines Fearful Of Fare Hike

Thornsby...

"I'm one short of my quota tonight — but here comes Thornsby!"

By MICHAEL DONNE
Financial Times — UPI

LONDON — The world's airlines, in common with many other international trade organizations, are anxiously awaiting the outcome of the Sept. 24 Vienna meeting of the Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

If OPEC fulfills earlier threats and raises crude oil prices by upwards of five per cent, it is inevitable that world air fares will have to rise along with many other consumer prices.

With some fares 50 per cent or more above the levels of two years ago, the airlines fear that further increases could drive away the traffic they desperately need to ensure a recovery from the present recession in world air transport.

The member airlines of the International Air Transport Association, representing the major scheduled airlines of the world, will meet late this month in Oslo in preparation for setting the levels of thousands of passenger fares for the year beginning next April 1.

It is already clear that further rises in fares, to meet continued world-wide inflation will be proposed by some major airlines.

The airlines' fuel bills have risen nearly three-fold in price since late 1973. This part of their operating costs is up from about 11 per cent of the total to between 25 and 28 per cent, depending upon which part of the world a company operates in. But at the same time, other costs of all kinds have continued to soar.

Wages and salaries, interest rates on new equipment, en route navigation charges, landing fees and general overheads — those have all been rising, although at verying rates in different countries.

In Britain alone, landing fees have already risen by 35 per cent this year. They are being raised again by 15 to 19 per cent at British Airports Authority airports from November 1. IATA now estimates an average annual increase in "user charges" — landing fees, navigational charges and so on — of 20 per cent against 10 per cent some years ago.

There was a time, in the mid to late 1960s particularly, when the world air transport industry, backed by strongly rising traffic, was able to absorb at least part of these general cost increases.

This meant not only that there was a time lag before increases were passed on to passengers in the form of higher fares, but also that the fare increases themselves were often smaller than the overall rise in costs. The difference could be met by higher revenue yields stemming from the rising volume of traffic.

Over the past two years, this situation has changed dramatically. Most of the world's airlines are experiencing declining or static traffic. They are reporting losses or at best only marginal profits.

Preliminary figures issued by the International Civil Aviation Organisation, for example, show that in 1974, the airlines of the 128 ICAO contracting states collectively earned revenues of $31.51 billion, or 16 per cent more than in the previous year, but their operating expenses rose faster, by 17 per cent, to $30.5 billion.

This $1 billion surplus on operating account was probably substantially eroded, however, by higher interest rates and taxes, which would have left either a very small net profit for the world air transport industry as a whole, or a loss. In either case, in view of the large number of airlines involved, it is clear that many must have lost huge sums in 1974.

The result is that the "cushion" that once existed has gone, so that any new increases in costs of any kind are having to be passed on to the pasenger as fast as possible —just as soon as the airlines themselves can agree, under the IATA unanimity rules, on what the new fares should be, and just as soon as the governments approve them.

Gardening Questions

Q. What is the best way to handle caladiums after they finish growing? (M.J., Charlotte)

A. Gradually prolong the period between waterings. This will make plants go into dormancy. Dig tubers and place them in a pot after they have dried. Pack peat moss or old sawdust around tubers. Keep them in a cool (60 degrees) dry place until next spring. Then, sift out the sawdust or peat and replant. If you have grown caladiums in pots, move them into storage without taking tubers from pots. (Henry J. Smith, extension landscape horticulturist)

Q. My pecan trees are full of fall webworms. What should I do? (Mrs. P. C., Fayetteville)

A. Fall webworms actually do little damage. Your trees are going to love their leaves shortly anyway. The first generation of webworms, which appears in the summer, can damage a tree if they defoliate it. (Jim Baker, extension entomologist)

Q. What is "sized" seed? (R. E., New Bern)

A. Seed which have been separated into different categories according to size. This is accomplished by precisioned machinery. Sized seed are more likely to give a uniform stand because the seeding rate is more even. (W. W. Reid, extension horticulturist)

Q. We're about ready to begin construction of our new home. It will have a large basement. Will it be o.k. to scatter the excavated subsoil over what is to be our lawn and garden area? (M. A., Morganton)

A. Preserve the topsoil, and haul away the subsoil. Scattering or filling the garden with excavated subsoil causes great disappointments and future expense in getting plants to grow. (Henry J. Smith, extension landscape horticulturist)

New Standards Meet Problem

WATER PROBLEMS

NEW YORK (UPI) — According to Douglas R. Oberhamer, executive director of the Water Quality Association, "more than 80 per cent of the country suffers from water that is unpleasant, harmful to health or damaging to plumbing systems and attached appliances.

"Happily, revised Federal Housing Administration property standards require that plumbing in all new housing be designed to accept equipment that will correct these problems," Oberhamer said.

Reinforce The Back Door, Too

CHICAGO (UPI) — If you make it hard enough for a burglar to enter your home, he'll probably try someplace else, says an insurance group.

In a booklet designed to help people burglar proof their homes, the State Farm Insurance Companies here says professional thieves prefer homes where the entry is easy.

To thwart thieves, the insuror recommends first a deadbolt or pin tumbler cylinder lock instead of a spring latch type, The companies also suggest extra reinforcement for back doors, the burglars' preferred entry.

In U.S. Grow Soviet Patents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Union was issued 28 per cent more U.S. patents in 1974 than in 1973 according to Intellectual Property Owners, a nonprofit group seeking to preserve property systems as a part of our free enterprise type of government.

"This is another indication," IPO's Executive Director T. L. Bowes said, "that foreign nations have so increased their patent activity in the United States that our technological leadership could be endangered and we could find ourselves paying so much more to foreign nations for importing new technology that we reverse a flow of billions of dollars that is now going into the U.S. Treasury."

City of Greenville
P.O. Box 1905
Greenville, North Carolina 27834
Telephone: (919) 752-4137

TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS:

The City of Greenville proposes to request the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to release Federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL-93-383) to used for the following three projects:

Project 1

A) Rehabilitation Loan and Grant Project

B) To provide loans and grants to residents in deteriorating housing to be used for renovation and repair in compliance with the Minimum Housing Code.

C) The project area is generally bounded on the north by West Meadowbrook, on the east by Greene Street, on the south by the Southside Project boundary and on the west by Memorial Drive. The area includes the following census enumeration districts: E.D.'s 15, 17, 25, 26, 27 and 28.

D) $100,000—Project costs

Project 2

A) Sidewalk Design and Construction

B) To construct approximately five miles of sidewalks in residential areas that will connect these areas with schools and recreational facilities.

C) The project area includes West Third Street, Tyson Street, Bancroft Avenue, Fleming Street, Howell Street, Perkins Street, North Overlook Drive, Cedar Lane, South Wright Road and West Ragsdale Road. The area includes the following census enumeration districts: E.D.'s 17, 21, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 32 and 33.

D) $79,200—Project costs

Project 3

A) Purchase of the West Greenville Recreation Center site from the School Board

B) This project would purchase the building and ten acres from the School Board which are currently leased.

C) The site is located at West Fifth Street and Nash Street.

D) $120,000—Project cost

It has been determined that such request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and, accordingly, the City of Greenville has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL-91-190).

The reasons for such a decision not to prepare such statements were as follows:

Project 1

The Rehabilitation Loan and Grant Program is designed to correct substandard housing conditions and prevent the spread of blight. All the structures effected by this project are existing and do not impose any environmental hazards. The improvements to these structures should improve neighborhood environmental conditions.

Project 2

The proposed sidewalks would be constructed in well-established and developed residential areas on existing City rights-of-way. Provisions will be made to control any off-site erosion damage, which is not considered to have any major impact. The Environmental Advisory Commission feels that the positive impact of the proposed project will outweigh any possible construction impacts.

Project 3

The proposed project involves the purchase of a currently leased recreational facility. There are no planned site improvements. The existing environmental conditions, which are considered to be positive, will not be altered.

Environmental Review Records respecting the within projects have been made by the City of Greenville which document the environmental review of the projects and more fully sets forth the reasons why such Statement is not required. These Environmental Review Records are on file at the City Hall and are available for public examination and copying upon request at the City Planner's office between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. during weekdays.

No further environmental review of such project is proposed to be conducted prior to the request for release of Federal funds.

All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the City of Greenville to the office of the Mayor. Such written comment should be received at the City Hall on or before October 10, 1975. All such comments so received will be considered and the City of Greenville will not request the release of Federal funds or take any administrative action on the written project prior to October 10, 1975.

TARHEEL TOYOTA HAS NEW OWNERS WITH NEW IDEAS

Corolla 2-Door Sedan

Corolla 4-Door Wagon

Why Do We Offer A 100,000 MILE WARRANTY?

Read For Yourself Our Reason

Every car dealer in the country is talking "dependability" these days. At Tarheel Toyota, we've decided to do something about it. A new car warranty that's longer than any other warranty in the world (exclusively for Tarheel Toyota). Bill Draper can tell you why: "Nobody else in the world has a car like this. I've seen how the Toyota is made, the quality of the workmanship, the integrity and the craftsmanship that go into this car. I know the Toyota inside and out."

Until now, most new car warranties haven't been much more than discounts on the car repairs you knew you'd need. Our warranty is our guarantee of faith in Toyota.

"Nobody else in the world can put this kind of warranty on their car. My faith and my knowledge and experience with Toyota tell me I can do it. Toyota builds an automobile to last."

Our knowledge of the Toyota comes from research, from first hand information from our service department and from a great number of satisfied Toyota customers. For 100,000 miles or 3 years from the day you purchase your new Toyota, we guarantee to replace or repair your motor, transmission and rear end, if they fail under normal driving conditions. We'll ask you to keep the vehicle properly maintained and we'll ask that you bring it back to Tarheel Toyota for any repairs covered by this warranty. We're offering the 100,000 mile, 3 year warranty in addition to the new car warranty offered by Toyota Motor Sales, USA. It's a promise, a guarantee of Toyota quality, Toyota dependability.

TARHEEL TOYOTA

12 MONTHS OR 12,000 MILES USED CAR WARRANTY

This guarantee applies to cars selling for $1000.00 and up. On a 50-50 basis. All work must be done in our shop. This warranty does not apply to any sport cars, high performance or air cooled engines or 4 speed transmissions (except economy cars). Most good used cars (even if they look like new) are only guaranteed for a month. Or for a thousand miles. No more. And some are not guaranteed at all. But at Tarheel when we say a used car is in excellent condition, we're willing to stand behind it. We're willing to do something a little extra for it. So we guarantee its motor, its rear end, and its transmission for twelve months or twelve thousand miles. If you're in the market for a better used car, come out to Tarheel and look at ours. We'll show you some as good as new. Guaranteed. Asterisk denotes warranted car.

A blend of the best.

At River Hills you get the best of country living. Beautiful homes, large lots, gently rolling hills, and plenty of trees. But you don't have to give up the conveniences of city living. Besides the scenery you'll find:

Underground Utilities
Storm Sewers
Curbed & Gutter Streets
City Sewage
Eastern Pines Water

River Hills

River Hills is just East of Greenville in one of the area's best looking natural settings. If a blend of the best of city and country sounds good to you, drive out and look around.

Children's Home Society To Sponsor Club Meet

SQUIRTS SQUIRT — Little Jonathan Pitt tries to quench his thirst while cycling with mom and dad but, things got out of hand so to speak, and more experienced hands were needed to quell the pangs of thirst that developed from Jonathan pointing out directions. (AP Wirephoto)

The Children's Home Society will sponsor a meeting for the Junior Woman's Clubs in this area Monday, beginning at 12 noon at the Ramada Inn.

Following the luncheon, the women will meet at the First Federal Building, Greenville Boulevard. A film entitled "I Am 17 and Pregnant" will be shown.

The workshop is being held to make the services of the Children's Home Society more widely known to the public.

Junior Woman's Clubs throughout the state have previously assisted the Society in disseminating information to the public.

At the workshop, the women will see the film and discuss various problems and solutions encountered in out-of-wedlock pregnancies.

The Children's Home Society works closely with school guidance counselors, physicians, public health nurses, local departments of social services and other appropriate groups who make counseling and other related services readily available in all communities.

Services in this area of the state are provided through the Society's office in Greenville. Appointments may be made by the client herself or through referral of a physician, minister or other individual.

Statewide Award

Alton D. Harris, clinical assistant professor of environmental health in the East Carolina University School of Allied Health and Social Professions, received the N. C. "Sanitarian of the Year" award at the N. C. Public Health Association's 62nd conference last week in Asheville.

Harris, who is also director of environmental health at the Craven County Health Department, was one of the early promoters of the environmental health degree program at ECU and assisted in its development.

A Wake Forest alumnus, Harris was formerly with the Beaufort-Hyde Health Department before transferring to Craven County in 1955. He is active in professional organizations on the state and national levels, and has been president of North Eastern Environmental Health Association and the N. C. Mosquito Control Association.

During the past year he chaired a National Environmental Health Association task force.

Faculty Of Library Science Adds Two

Benjamin R. Guise and Louis J. Gill have joined the faculty of the East Carolina University Department of Library Science this fall.

Dr. Guise comes to ECU from San Jacinto College, Houston, Texas, where he was director of libraries. He has held library and teaching positions at Middle Tennessee State, Purdue, North Texas State and East Texas State Universities.

He holds degrees from East Texas and North Texas State Universities and has frequently served as a library consultant and an educational media specialist.

Gill was previously assistant professor and director of library science at the West Virginia College of Graduate Studies, a branch of West Virginia University. His career has also included positions at Northern Michigan University and at various New Jersey high schools.

He has degrees from Pennsylvania State Teachers' College, Seton Hall University and Rutgers University, and has done additional study at Wisconsin, Wayne State, Kentucky and Maryland Universities.

Near $4 Million In Research, Service

About 150 special research and service projects, with budgets totaling nearly $4 million, were active on the East Carolina University campus during the fiscal year 1974-75.

All the projects were funded by grants from federal and state government agencies and private corporations and foundations, according to an annual report to Chancellor Leo W. Jenkins. Total amount of the grants was $3,919,860.

Primary recipients of outside funds were ECU faculty members who directed projects in the sciences or health-related fields, although some funds were also awarded for projects in the humanities and social sciences. Public service sponsored by the ECU Division of Continuing Education received an approximate total of $287,000.

An additional $18,359 was awarded 19 departments at ECU by the ECU Research Council for individual research projects.

The year's report to the chancellor was prepared by the ECU Office of Sponsored Programs, a campus agency which coordinates outside funding.

Heirloom Books Become Keepsakes

FROM BABIES TO BUTTERFLIES . . . heirloom books can be decorated with almost any scheme and also transformed into a heirloom jewelry box.

Any type of old book, imagination and plenty of glue can be used to create a new type of keepsake—heirloom books.

"This is such a clever way of using momentoes you have been saving over the years or making a gift you can share with a special friend," said Mrs. Lucille Sumrell, director of the arts and crafts program for the Greenville Recreation Department.

"All types of crafts are on the upswing and are gaining in popularity. Everywhere you look, there are books and classes in just about every interesting area. There is no excuse for anyone not having a chance to learn things they are interested in.

"Here in Greenville, we have the Recreation Department, Pitt Tech, Art Center and East Carolina University—where some classes are offered at either little or no charge," added Mrs. Sumrell.

"Many of the things you can use in crafts are found at home and you don't have to purchase expensive equipment to make treasured keepsakes," she continued.

The idea of heirloom books was intraoduced by Mrs. Sumrell at the Recreation Department late last spring. There was such a demand and interest expressed that she began her fall program on the books last week. The classes are offered on Tuesdays during the morning, afternoon and evening and again on Wednesdays. Participants can set their own pace at the classes, which are kept informal.

"From babies to butterflies, grandma's favorite recipes, wedding invitations, family pictures—the ideas are unlimited one can use to create the heirloom books," Mrs. Sumrell pointed out.

1. Open paperback to the center and work on one half of the book at a time. Fan the pages and adhere them together every 10 pages or so with spray adhesive or super glue, three or four times during this process. Curl up corners of a few pages to add to the illusion of age.

2. Using ½ brush completely cover the front of the book with Mod Podge. Apply Mod Podge to all spaces between pages you can reach easily. While still wet with Mod Podge, re-roll the four corners of pages to keep that dog-earred appearance. Let dry. Coat the back of the book with Mod Podge.

3. Paint the back cover of the book with acrylic paint of your choice that will complement the print you have selected. If the paint or Gesso needs sanding, use no. 400 wet or dry sandpaper.

4. Using brush, apply 3 coats of white acrylic paint or Gesso over entire book. Allow 20 to 30 minutes drying time between each coat.

5. Adhere transfers to the book.

6. Apply varnish

7. Another Method

Follow directions 1-4

A. Make a decal-it transfer-trim excess from around design.

B. Use decal-it to adhere the transfers to the book. Apply two coats of decal-it to the entire front of book. Let dry. To give the pages an antiqued look, apply one coat of crackle-it (thin coat for small close cracks; thick coat for large wide cracks). Let dry overnight.

C. With cloth, rub age-it into cracks. Wipe off excess with a soft cloth. Let dry for 24 hours. Apply two coats of protect-it for a final coating.

D. Paint page adages with Liquid Leaf or rub on Treasured Gold or Treasured Jewels and buff to a sheen with a soft cloth.

UNC Geology Department Adds First Women Faculty Members

By JOAN HILL

CHAPEL HILL — It's a rare thing to find a woman geologist on the faculty of a major university.

It's almost unheard of to find two.

"Even small women's colleges like Smith have mostly men in their geology department,,' says Judith Spiller.

Spiller, an instructor, and Dr. Judith Moody, an assistant professor, are the first women faculty members in the 150-year history of the geology department at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. They both joined the faculty last fall.

Women geology professors are not only unique at UNC but across the country. According to a 1970 national survey women account for slightly less than four per cent of all those involved in the earth sciences (geology, geophysics and geochemistry) and for only two per cent of geology professors.

Perhaps what has kept women out of geology is that it has long been considered a "rough and ready" masculine field. Backpacking over rough terrain, camping out in remote areas, conducting scientific experiments under extreme survival conditions—some men think that's pretty rugged for women.

Not really, Moody says. "It's been demonstrated that women have more stamina than men. Women geologists have worked on scientific teams in the Antarctica and remote regions of northern Canada, and if they can survive that they can survive about anything."

Spiller agrees. "I was told geology was too arduous for a woman—that you have to hike long distances with back packs, camp out and all that. But I've noticed," she says with a laugh, "that very few field research teams stay more than a half-mile from a motel."

Although both Spiller and Moody have done their share of field work during the years spent earning their credentials, that's a small part of what most geologists do. Proficiency with a microscope is as important as with a pick ax.

Geology is a descriptive and quantitative science. Geologists study the composition and structure of the earth, how rocks are arranged in the earth's crust, how they got to the surface and under what conditions they were formed. Now studies are expanding to the ocean, the atmosphere and the moon. The science has become more specialized and analytical with the development of sophisticated equipment and techniques.

Some of this specialized equipment soon may be added to the UNC geology department under a grant from the National Science Foundation or the Energy Research and Development Administration (formerly the Atomic Energy Commission). A laboratory will be established to do experimental mineral synthesis. Moody, whose specialty is petrology (the study of rocks), will direct the project.

Such research has many practical applications. There is a national demand for synthesized crystals in the electronics industry for instance. And in North Carolina, where the mineral industry is big business, (over $116 million in 1972 according to the "Minerals Yearbook"), such research could develop uses for minerals naturally occurring here. The state is rich in feldspar, clay and olivine—used to make bricks—and the combination of talc and feldspar is also used to make ceramics and fine china.

Spiller, whose speciality is paleontology (the study of fossils) works in the past. She tries to determine conditions that existed on earth at a given time in history by studying patterns of natural variation and using statistical methods to document them. This information is extremely useful in exploring for oil, since oil occurs in rocks deposited in certain environments. A microscope and a computer are her tools.

Both women say geology has given them a greater appreciation of and concern for the environment. They try to impart this feeling to the students in the undergraduate courses they teach.

"Since we have to live in this environment," Moody says, "we should all be concerned with preserving it. The NASA Apollo mission has shown us that the earth is finite. We must treat it with care. Man and technology will destroy the earth if we don't work at preserving it. Teaching young people an appreciation for the earth, and training them as future scientists is an important part of our work."

Would they recommend a career in geology to other women? Emphatically yes, they say, even though it seems to take more determination and energy for a woman to get ahead in the field than for a man. But both were determined to earn their degrees.

Moody earned her B.S. in chemistry and M.S. degree in mineralogy at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, where she established another "first." She was the first woman teaching fellow. She was also the first woman to earn a Ph.D. in geological sciences at McGill University in Montreal, Canada.

Spiller holds her B.S. from Columbia and is currently completing her Ph.D. from State University of New York at Stoney Brook, Long Island.

"Sometimes it's hard to convince your male colleagues of your seriousness," Moody says. "You have to be very persistent, very sincere about what you're doing."

Recent statistics indicate increasing numbers of women now have the "persistence and sincerity" it takes to make their mark in the earth science field. Of all those studying for degrees in earth sciences last year, women accounted for 18 per cent of the bachelor's, 15 per cent of the master's and 10 per cent of the Ph.D.s.

Drowning Is Routine For Stunt Girl Roberta Gibbs

By GREGORY JENSEN

LONDON (UPI) — Roberta Gibbs spent the other day drowning in the River Thames —again. It's getting to be a habit.

"I don't really specialize in drowning," she said. "I suppose I fall down stairs more than anything else. But I do seem to drown a lot."

Miss Gibbs is a brown-haired beauty of 33 who belongs to that select breed which was called "stuntmen" before women's lib.

In those days, men in wigs and padding did the dirty work whenever movie heroines had to burn to death or jump between moving trains. No more.

"It's really ladies first with us now," Miss Gibbs said in an interview. "Only when all the girls on the stunt list have turned down a job can a man do it."

There are 13 girl stuntpersons on Britain's register, but eight are specialists. Roberta and four other anything-goes girls spend their days being blown up in cars, falling from great heights or drowning in the Thames.

"The last time I drowned was for Alfred Hitchcock, that lovely man, in 'Frenzy'," she recalled. "A Bit tricky, that — stark naked under Westminister Bridge in January.

"It's the coldest I've ever been. They had to drag me out, because you get to a stage in cold water where you just can't do anything."

Her latest drowning was more aftermath than actually going under.

"It was mostly lying half-buried in mud, face down," she said. "Then they picked me up and stuffed me in a plastic bag."

It takes a hard heart to treat Roberta Gibbs that way. Her 35-24-34 figure hardly seems made for burying, and it is an injustice that "I've spent 10 years in front of cameras without showing my face."

That is slowly changing, partly because hard-pressed movie makers no longer hire two girls where one will do.

"I seem to be acting more and more," Miss Gibbs said. "I guess I'm the stunt girl who gets the lines."

Her lines off a movie set often include phrases which stop conversation cold.

"I was raped in that one," she will say. "That's something I never thought I'd get paid for."

Or she will mention "having

Couple Weds Saturday Afternoon

Miss Judy Creech, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Smith Creech of Greenville, and Terry Almond, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Almound of Mt. Pleasant, were united in marriage Saturday at 4:00 p.m. at Immanuel Baptist Church by Rev. Irby Jackson, using the double ring ceremony.

The background of the church was centered with a fifteen semi-circle candelabra flanked with tall standards of greenery and southern smilax. Bouquets of white mums, gladioli and pom pons were designed in cornet candelabra. Preceding to the altar were seven branched candelabra. At the altar was a prie-dieu where the bride and bridegroom took their vows and knelt for the closing prayer and benediction. Pews were marked with bridal satin and greenery.

Wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Michael Haithcock.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal white gown of dotted swiss, styled with a high neckline encircled with Venise lace. The empire bodice featured a bib effect formed by the Venise lace, with tiny buttons extending down the neckline. Venise lace trimmed the cuffs of the long sleeves, the hemline and attached chapel train.

She wore a bouffant illusion veil attached to a tiara headpiece of organza flowers, highlighted with seeded pearls. She carried a semi-cascade bouquet of mint green carnations, gold daisies and miniature white carnations.

Mrs. Leroy Savage Jr., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a formal gown of beige organza, fashioned with an empire bodice, trimmed in green, a ruffled high neckline, long sleeves and bib effect highlighted with orange, green and white embroidered flowers. She wore a mint green picture hat and carried a natural fireside basket filled with yellow, gold and orange fall flowers and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Pat Meakin and Miss Marcia Ashworth of Greenville, Mrs. Dottie Harcum and Miss Becky Rose of Franklin, Va., and Mrs. Linda Barnhardt of Concord. They wore dresses, and carried baskets identical to those of the honor attendant.

The flower girl, Miss Paula Freeman, was dressed in a mint green formal and carried a basket of rose petals. Terry Basinger of Concord served as best man.

Ushers were Jerry Creech, brother of the bride, of Greenville, Chip Furr, Gerald Goodman, Billy Cox and Joe Barnhardt, all of Concord.

Mrs. Creech chose a formal gown of apricot crepe and Mrs. Almond wore a formal gown of mint green crepe. Both wore cymbidium orchid corsages. The bride's grandmothers, Mrs. C. H. Poole and Mrs. H. H. Creech, wore miniature white carnation corsages.

After a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, Tenn., the couple will reside in Concord.

The bride graduated from Rocky Mount Senior High School and attended Chowan College. She is employed by Cabarrus Memorial Hospital.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Mt. Pleasant High School and attended Central Piedmont College. He is employed by Cabarrus Convalescing Center.

Miss Karen Smith poured punch, and Mrs. Sherry Vannoy served the wedding cake, after the bride and bridegroom cut the first slice.

Pre-nuptial events included a miscellanieous shower given by Mrs. Charlie Meakin and Miss Marcia Ashworth on Wednesday night, a dinner on Friday night given by Mrs. C. H. Poole, grandmother of the bride, Mrs. S. A. Campbell and Mrs. Tommy Whitfield, aunts of the bride, a breakfast Saturday at noon at the Ramada Inn given by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Dayson, Dr. and Mrs. Wilbur Castellow, Miss Anne Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Harris, Dr. and Mrs. Doug Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Warren.

MRS. TERRY ALMOND

Storm-Phelps Vows Exchanged

MANTEO—The Elizabethan Gardens at Fort Raleigh here was the scene of the wedding ceremony Saturday at 5:00 p.m. of Sherrill Caredwyn Phelps and Michael Lynn Storm, both of Salvo.

The Rev. Charles W. Duling, grandfather of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Charlotte D. Phelps of Greenville, and the late Mr. Robert D. Phelps, and Mr. and Mrs. Chet Storm of Raleigh.

The bride wore a full length gown of unbleached muslin and lace with a chapel length veil. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Pamela Matthews of Nags Head was matron of honor and was dressed in a full length floral gown of blue and tan.

The best man was Charles Littlepage Allen of Richmond, Va., and ushers were Steve and Gary Storm of Nags Head, brother of the bridegroom.

After a wedding trip to the mountains of North Carolina, the couple will reside in Salvo.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina University and is employed by the National Park Service, Cape Hatteras National Seashore. The bridegroom is a graduate of St. Petersburg Junior College, St. Petersburg, Fla., and served in the U.S. Navy. He is a ranger with the National Park Service, Cape Hatteras National Seashore.

Leader Reports Given At Meet

Two leader reports were given at the meeting of the Extension Homemakers held Thursday afternoon at the Sweet Gum Grove Community Building.

Mrs. Mae Briley, family life leader, reported on "Prayer As We Grow Older" and Mrs. Mayo J. Rogers, citizenship, reported on "Nature's Beauty."

The program for the afternoon was given by Mrs. Evelyn Spangler on "Metric In Everyday Use." The devotional was given by Mrs. Eric Whichard.

After the business session conducted by Mrs. Margaret Briley, president, refreshments were served by Mrs. Eloise Futrell.

Bridal Couple Entertained

Miss Judy Pennington and Meck Worley Jr. were honored at pig pickin' Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Campbell of Plymouth and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Browning of Greenville.

The bride-elect was honored with a corsage of yellow daisies.

Special guests included the parents of the honorees, Col. (Ret.) and Mrs. James C. Pennington of Murfreesboro and Mrs. and Mrs. Mack V. Worley of Wilson.

The wedding will take place Oct. 25 in the First Presbyterian Church, Greenville.

Dinner was served buffet style to the 30 guests who attended.

On The Local Scene

by Rosalie Trotman

Mrs. Lucille Sumrell, director of the arts and crafts program for the Greenville Recreation Department, is being called Betsy Ross of the department.

The State Special Olympics Director Shelton Blackburn asked the Greenville Recreation Department to design a banner to represent the state at the International in Mt. Pleasant, Mich.

The banner was designed by Alice Keene and Carol Whiteford. The banner was then handmade by Mrs. Sumrell. The banner has a yellow Special Olympics logo surrounded by yellow letters reading 'North Carolina Special Olympics' on a medium blue background. (Yellow and blue are the Special Olympics colors.)

'The banner was carried in front of the North Carolina delegation when they entered Short Stadium on the Central Michigan University campus before 16,000 spectators that had gathered for the opening ceremonies," said Miss Keene.

Special Olympics is a year around training and athletic competition program for mentally handicapped citizens originated by the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation in 1968 with one meet and 1,000 participants. The program has now grown to some 2,000 meets serving over 300,000 special citizens.

This year, over 200 special athletes in Greenville and Pitt County were involved in Special Olympics with a basketball tournament in March and a track and field meet in April.

Two athletes from Greenville competed in the Southeast Regional Basketball Tournament, Atlanta, Ga., and one advanced from Atlanta to the National Basketball Tournament, Louisville, Ky.

In the spring track and field, there were approximately 180 participants with 60 of these athletes advancing to the area meet in Wilson and 33 going on to the State Special Olympics, Raleigh. In the state meet, two from the Greenville program qualified for the International Special Olympics in August.

At the International Special Olympics, there were 3,000 athletes from the 50 states and six countries.

"The Internationals were truly the greatest event in most of the athletes' lives. The spirt of the Internationals is summed up best by Baron DeCoubestin, father of the Modern Olympics: 'The most important thing in the Olympic Games is not to win but to take part, just as the most important thing in life is not to triumph but to struggle. The essential thing is not to have conquered but to have fought well,' " said Miss Keene.

Fashion Notes

Some separates are so closely coordinated they look like suits. Consider the vest-blazer-skirt combinations everywhere for fall. They follow lean, classic lines and look great in combinations of solids with plaids in coordinated colors.

Cotton poplin and muslin, called toile in Europe, are fashion favorites there. Poplin with a chintz finish is used for rainwear. Toile colors range from Chinese blue to the natural, unbleached look.

If you wear tinted eyeglass lenses, coordinate your makeup: choose pink or red lip and cheek colors to go with pink lenses or peach, orange and copper shades with amber. Almost any lip and cheek colors look good with blue, green and gray lenses.

Even mink is being quilted to fit the Chinese look for fall. One manufacturer shows a blazer in alternating stripes of ranch and beige mink.

this fight with a girl on a rock 70 feet up," or that "snakes are lovely to work with, all slinky and soft and smooth."

Miss Gibbs came to this odd career through an extra's role on "Tom Jones."

"I got totally fascinated with the stuntmen," she said. "They seemed to have an exciting life. And they made all that lovely money."

Her first stunt job was falling down stairs. Two dozen movies and numberless television stunts later she boasts the formidable repertory outlined on her business card:

"Horse falls, cars crashing, heights, racing, falls, fights, judo, wrestling, unarmed combat, knife, firearms, explosives, lions etc."

"One thing I won't do is falls or dives into water," she said. "Falls on dry land, okay. But not into water. I don't know why. I just don't like it."

Like all stuntpersons, Miss Gibbs knows she is going to be hurt occasionally. Her worst accident came when she crashed a horse into a tree for a television show.

"But the most battered I've ever been was falling down just two stairs for Karen Black in 'The Great Gatsby,'" she said.

"They needed about 12 takes to get the dialogue right, and by that time I had no skin left on my legs."

WATER SAFETY

CHICAGO (UPI) — Water safety is just as important in the family bathroom as it is in a swimming pool.

A manufacturer of tub and shower safety treads says about 275,000 disabling injuries a year occur in bathrooms. Most are caused by slips and falls, and most of the victims are children under four years of age and the elderly.

To minimize risks, the manufacturer suggests:

Always hang wet clothes, swimsuits and hosiery to drip-dry over the tub, not the floor.

Install a sturdy grab bar on the wall, and a nonslip surface on tub and shower floors, and replace scatter rugs with decorative rubber safety treads.

Never touch an electrical fixture or appliance with wet hands or while standing on a damp floor.

Bowman-Southard Vows Solemnized On Saturday

MRS. MICHAEL LEE BOWMAN

RALEIGH—The Cathedral of the Sacred Heart here was the scene of the wedding ceremony of Carol Leigh Southard and Michael Lee Bowman Saturday at 11:00 a.m.

Monsignor Francis J. Murphy performed the double ring ceremony nuptial mass.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Lee Southard of Winston-Salem, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Bowman of Raleigh.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Miss Susan Matt Bowman of Raleigh was the maid of honor and the bridesmaid was Miss Virginia Elizabeth Bowman of Raleigh.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers were John Forrest Southard of Winston-Salem, and James V. Matt II of Millersville, Md.

A buffet luncheon was held at the cathedral hall followed by a cocktail party at the home of the bridegroom.

The couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride is a graduate of St. Mary's Junior College, Raleigh, and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She is an eighth grade teacher in the Washington City School System and is currently doing graduate work at ECU. The bridegroom is a graduate of Campbell College, Buies Creek, and is the assistant personnel director at East Carolina University. He is also doing graduate work at ECU.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

I overheard Mother talking recently and poked my head into the living room where she was watching TV.

She was alone.

"Do you mind if I talk to you about. . . diarrhea?" asked the nervous little man on the screen.

"You bet your sweet bird I mind," said Mother. "I told you the last time to knock it off with the smutty stuff."

"Just two words," he insisted, ignoring her.

"No!" said Mother, flipping the knob to another channel.

On seeing me staring at her she said, "Served the turkey right. He doesn't know me that well," and sat back to watch a drain unclog.

"How long have you been talking to the TV set, Mother?"

"A couple of years now," she said. "I guess I started when Mr. Whipple began to squeeze the Charmin. I told him then, 'Whipple, you keep that up and they're going to put you in a home.' Besides, I don't talk to the TV set. I only talk back to commercials. You should try it sometime. Gets rid of all your hostilities. Like this one."

I watched a full-grown women submerge a loaf of bread in six quarts of cooking oil. Mother cupped her hands around her mouth and yelled, "Five per cent of Americans are on welfare, fathead, and you waste a whole loaf of bread to see how much grease you use."

"It looks fun," I admitted, "but I'd feel like a fool talking to a TV tube."

A commercial came on of a girl who weighed about 58 pounds saying, "I need girdle support here (over her stomach) here (on her hips) and here (pointing to her backside)." I went in for a closer look. She would have to have a fat transplant to keep breathing.

"You want to see a stomach?" I shouted at the tube. "I'll show you a stomach that's beyond a girdle. It needs a vise."

I sat back rather pleased with myself.

"You see," said Mother, "doesn't that make you feel better?"

I had to admit she was right. In the weeks to come I released my hostilities on one commercial after the other. Then, one day I was on the phone and had just finished saying, "You're boring and don't hang up on me! You have never had an original thought in your life and don't worry. . . I won't call you anymore at the office!"

"Who was that?" asked Mother.

"The time of day recording."

"That's a relief," she sighed. "I thought you were talking to yourself."

Women's Fashion & Sew

Designer Revolutionizes Home Sewing

By HELEN LINDER
Fashion Editor

"I am so busy adjusting my patterns, that I can hardly find time to sew" a typical home seamstress said to Dusan Mrak.

In the closets or work baskets of every home seamstress lurk half-finished garments: a dress with no hem on it, a blouse with sleeves basted but not sewn, pants cut out but never attempted. These are fitting failures, garments that the potential wearer tried on, sighted and took off with a hopeless shrug. Perhaps she ripped out the seams and tried again. Perhaps her patience wore thin when she again tried it on and it just didn't fit.

Dusan Mrak, head of the American Fashion Institute, a New York based firm which was founded in 1968 said - " It seems that most of the giants in the home sewing industry try d a m n h a r d, to make her sewing efforts as difficult as possible. It starts with the pattern. When she opens the envelope, she finds 12 to 18 pattern parts in it, every one of which has to be proportionately adjusted. That in itself is virtually impossible, but she tries for 4 to 6 hours, and ends up with a mess. By the time she thinks it is ready to cut on fabric, she is fed up and has no will or desire to complete the garment. She is constantly faced with buying cheap fabrics with the thought in mind "If it doesn't come out right, it won't cost too much."

We know very well, that if she were sure the pattern will fit, she would buy better quality fabrics to make longer lasting and better looking garments."

Mrak lectures to thousands and thousands of women each year on his US and international lecture tours. He speaks six languages and his demonstrations include some of the most amazing short cuts and easy sew techniques. One that impressed this writer most is, when he demonstrated to me the innermost secrets of the garment industry, was of how simple it is to create fashions at home by copying almost any famous designer with the aid of the basic pre-fitted sheath pattern. Look at the illustration of an elegant design in your Sunday paper, which in ready-to-wear may cost anything from $80.- to $165.-, Mrak demonstrated how any novice or advanced seamstress can make it in less than 15 minutes, at a cost of less than $20.- in her exact individual size and shape.

As Pattern designer Dusan Mrak began his technical career as an advisor with the manufacturers of Mercedes - Benz. Today he is director and founder of the American-Fashion Institute in New York City. His jump from cars to designing patterns for women's fashions is an interesting story. In 1961 he accepted a position with a South African firm in Frankfurt, Germany and one of his assignments was to promote women's fashions. This work took him to some of Europe's most famous Fashion houses, and became intrigued with the pattern - making techniques of Europe's leading designers.

By 1972 Mrak perfected a simplified pattern-making and fashion-designing method that can be quickly mastered by anyone capable of following easy step by step directions.

Knowing that all home sewers could not come to New York City for study and training, he decided to take his pattern concepts to the women themselves. Now with a crew of trained seamstresses he goes all over the United States promoting his techniques and making his new sewing ideas available to everyone.

Mrak's lectures are loaded with fun and laughter. He would call two ladies to the podium, one an average figure, the other as difficult as possible to fit. He asks the first one, - "Have you ever made a pattern - for yourself from scratch?" The answer of course is "No." Than he continues, - "Now you will make one in 20 minutes for this lady here." Sighs are heard from the audience - "this we must see" - But she makes it - for the first time in her life. The same lady comes back the following day wearing finished garment, smiling happily. She states: "In 3 hours I have learned more with Dusan than in all my 20 years of home sewing. "W h e r e w e r e y o u a l l t h i s t i m e ?"

Mrak's pattern making techniques enable anyone to make exactly fitted pattern in 20 minutes. He has found the answer to the problem of finding patterns to fit the myriad of shapes and sizes which people come in. His method is unique and designed to be used by 12 year olds and up.

He further states, -"Most women have $ 60 to $ 150 worth of standard size patterns at home. Half of them have never been even used."

With his method - you never need to buy another pattern again!

This unique sewing approach will be a stimulus to the entire home sewing industry. Most important, Mrak says, if a woman is able to make beautifully fitting, up-to-the-minute fashions, she will add immeasurably to the pleasure and satisfaction she takes in home sewing.

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, SEPT. 21, 1975

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You can look into whatever is of interest to you today and come up with some excellent ideas under which to operate better in the future. An excellent time for planning.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A good day to reach right decisions where personal matters are concerned. A good day and evening for social gatherings.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take some time for analyzing your goals, so you know how far you have progressed and how to proceed in the future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Getting together with congenials and planning how to be mutually helpful is wise today. Stay within your budget. Be cheerful.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Fine day for meeting with friends and discussing future plans. Take some time for engaging in your favorite hobby.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can get so many inspiring ideas that it would be well to put them down on paper so that you won't forget them later on.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Your hunches are particularly accurate now, so be sure to use them. A new attitude with mate can be better for both of you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Meet with family members and reconcile with everyone with whom you've had a misunderstanding. Make the future brighter.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Put those new ideas to work that will make your responsibilities easier and more profitable. Take health treatments.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make appointments with friends for the good time you desire. Showing more devotion for closest tie is wise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try to organize your home affairs more intelligently so that there is more harmony. Avoid an argument later in the day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Attend the services of your choice that will help to renew your mind and elevate you thoughts. Happiness can be yours.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A fine idea will make it possible for you to add to present abundance. Consult a trusted friend and follow advice given you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will have the mentality of a leader and would do well at the head of some organization. Teach to complete whatever has once been started. The mind is keen. Be sure to give religious training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1975

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You can enhance goodwill of others during day, but some unexpected annoyance and delay may develop in the evenig to hinder any new course. Be patient.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Your charm gains much you wish during day. Be understanding of others in p.m. Don't turn against kin for small things.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Build up ego of others during day, then get into your own activities intelligently. Handle duties you enjoy. Relax in p.m.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Gain assistance of a good friend for some project important to you. Know what you want to do, then use positive methods.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Gain support of some bigwig for special talents you have. Do not argue with anyone. Day hours are best for public work.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Steer clear of new projects now. One whose background is different from yours can be of help to you. Study matters well in p.m.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Day hours are best for specialized work. Tonight you need to beware of taking chances of any kind. A loved one shows devotion.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be more charming with a partner who will then be eating out of your hand. Get rid of any tense situations. Handle civic matter.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get at duties important to your way of living. Co-workers or co-associates will be most cooperative during day, but be alone in p.m.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get into activities you like during day, but take it easy tonight. Gain the goodwill of one very important to you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Keep promises made to kin and get rid of outside entanglements. Quietly eliminate friction anddon't bring up debatable points.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Reach a better understanding with regular associates and increase production thereby. Handle correspondence. Quiet p.m. at home.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make your property more valuable and add to present income. Adjust budget so it works more efficiently. Relax tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be a delightful person everyone will look at and want to do for, so your progeny could be spoiled easily and accomplish little in life unless you teach early to work and stand on own two feet. Then there is success, particularly if every opportunity to study is given. There can even be fame here. Give good religious training early for best results, also.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

FLAG CODE

NEW YORK (UPI) — The U.S. flag code provides the basic rules for displaying and caring for the flag, according to the World Book Encyclopedia.

When the U.S. flag flies with other flags, the code requires that all staff heights be equal and the U.S. flag be on the right. There are two exceptions to this: the United Nations flag flies above all flags at U.N. headquarters in New York and the church pennant flies above the U.S. flag while naval chaplains conduct services at sea.

FARMLAND OWNERS

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Texas has more farmland owners than any other state, an economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service says.

"Of the 3.3 million farmland owners in the United States, Texas has 267,000 of them, followed by Iowa and Illinois," said Dr. Wayne Hayenga.

Chronic Busybody Sets off Spat

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend I'll call "Mrs. Busybody" who phones me almost every day to ask, "What did you do last night?" And if I tell her I attended a party, she asks, "Who all was there?"

Last week, my husband and I attended a small dinner party at the home of a woman who is also a friend of Mrs. Busybody, and the hostess made me promise not to mention the party to our mutual friend.

Sure enough, Mrs. Busybody phoned the morning after the party asking, "What did you do last night?" Naturally, I had to tell her. (How could I have gotten out of it?)

Now my hostess is angry with me because Mrs. Busybody let her know immediately that I had told her about the party.

How can a person avoid getting in the middle like I did?

TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: First, you don't have to promise not to tell anybody anything. (Say, "I won't volunteer any information, but if I'm asked, I won't lie.")

And you aren't compelled to answer any questions you don't want to answer just because someone has had the nerve to ask.

DEAR ABBY: I am employed as a housekeeper for a rich lady. When things don't go to suit her, she never tells me to my face. Instead, she writes it on a piece of paper and puts it where I will find it, making sure she is never around when I read it.

Abby, I can understand English, and she can speak it, so why doesn't she tell me what's on her mind instead of sending me these notes all the time?

Don't tell me to ask her. She is a very touchy lady.

IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: Why don't you write her a note and ask her? If you can stand one more note, that is, because that's probably how she'll reply.

DEAR ABBY: Should a young person be able to question a rule that is set down by his (or her) parents? My parents often allude to the times when children accepted their parents' rules without question.

I think that's wrong. I want to know the reasoning behind the rules. I also think I should be able to question decisions that are supposedly for my own good.

I'm 17 and old enough to be able to take part in some of the decisions that will affect my life. And I don't think a person my age should have to accept rules he doesn't understand or agree with.

My parents think I'm showing disrespect, but all I am doing is asking for a little more respect from them. Am I out of line?

A YOUNG READER

DEAR READER: No. A 17 year old should be able to question a rule applied to him (or her) by a parent. The wise and patient parent will explain it. But the ultimate decision rests with the parent until the child is of legal age.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Had To Buckle Down

COMEDY STARS—Dick Gautier stars as the dashing Robin Hood and Misty Rowe plays the beauteous Maid Marian in "When Things Were Rotten", executive producer Mel Brooks' free-wheeling comedy version of the adventures of the outlaw of Sherwood Forest and his merry men, which airs Wednesdays (8-8:30 p.m.) on Channel 3W-5.

Dick Gautier (nobody ever calls him Richard) is more than just a colorful, versatile actor assuming the identity of the legendary Robin Hood. Dick, whose pursuits include writing, painting and songwriting among many other interests, prepared for his starring role as the Sherwood Forest swashbuckler in "When Things Were Rotten," airing on ABC Television, Wednesdays, 8 to 8:30 p.m., with the intensity of a heavyweight champion training for the defense of his title against a formidable opponent.

Dick, a natural southpaw, learned to fence with his right hand in order not to cross - literally - his antagonists in dueling scenes. He also took riding lessons to improve his horsemanship. And he dieted off 15 pounds, to a svelte 170, to prepare himself for the rigorous give-and-take his six foot, one-inch frame would be exposed to.

Additionally, Dick delved into the historical background of Robin Hood and acquired considerable information about the 12th century English hero. He is also familiar with the work of the various interpreters of the folk figure.

"Douglas Fairbanks played Robin Hood in a silent film," Gautier says, "and Errol Flynn took the part in a 1938 talking picture. And in 1955, Richard Greene starred as Robin Hood in a TV series made in England. The character is endlessly fascinating to actors and audiences.

"Our version of Robin Hood will be different from all the others," he added, in what could be the understatement of the decade. "The series creator is Mel Brooks, and I can sum up his point of view in two film titles, 'Blazing Saddles' and 'Young Frankenstein.'"

Dick, whose forte is comedy, was chosen by Brooks to play the series lead over a long list of performers, including several stars.

Dick remembers: "Brooks and producer Norman Steinberg - a brilliant guy - looked at all the tests, and the day after my audition called and said they'd made a decision.

"Brooks was on the phone, and Steinberg on the extension.

"'You want the part?" Brooks asked. 'Take it. It's yours.'

"'What terms?,' I asked.

"'You get three costumes and a sword. Also, a little money.'"

"Who," said Gautier, "could turn down an offer like that?"

Palance Is Really A Homebody

"It's refreshing to be the good guy," Jack Palance says with no small trace of irony. "It hasn't happened to me often."

The contrast between his new television starring role as police Lt. Alex Bronkov and his long-standing screen image as the personification of villainous aggression is not lost on the accomplished actor. But even more ironic is the contrast between his ominous screen image and the soft-spoken landowner and collector of paintings and fine antiques he is in private life.

Palance reports for work as a no-nonsense detective on special assignment for the mayor of a large city, in "Bronk," which premieres Sunday, Sept. 21, 10 to 11 p.m., on CBS - TV and Channel 9-11.

Palance's starring role in the new adventure series incorporates some real life interests, such as barely musical skills with the harmonica and a penchant for vintage automobiles. Several of Palance's passions are beyond the means of a police detective such as Bronk, however.

Palance, who won an Emmy Award for his stunning performance in "Requiem For a Heavyweight," is a landowner, with acreage in his home state of Pennsylvania and a working ranch in California; a collector of fine Spanish antiques; and owner of a small art collection that includes the works of several well-known impressionists.

"I've always traveled so much when I work," Palance confided, "that I decided long ago to make a physical and emotional commitment to a place and call it home."

"Pennsylvania is 'home,' the ranch is 'home,'" Palance said, looking around inside his motor-home dressing room between filming scenes for "Bronk." "Everywhere else I go is 'on location,' as far as I'm concerned. And when I see a painting or an antique I like, the first thing I think is that it would look just right for my home."

Grandstand

"'Grandstand' might turn out to be 'The Tonight Show' of sports for NBC," says Jack Buck, host of NBC-TV's new concept in Sunday sports programming — "Grandstand" — which premieres Sept. 21.

"I love it! It's live," says Buck, a veteran broadcaster who will link all the day's events, working out of the NBC Studios in New York. "'Grandstand' has an unpredictability that excites me and will entertain the viewers."

The premiere of "Grandstand" corresponds with the beginning of the National Football League's regular season. The series will feature live coverage of events occurring around the world and include the reporting of sports news and the presentation of sports features and mini-documentaries. Don Ellis is executive producer of "Grandstand"; Bill Fitts, producer.

Buck, currently principal play-by-play announcer for the St. Louis Cardinals (an association that will conclude at the end of the current baseball season), will continue as sports director of KMOX Radio in St. Louis, Mo.

The father of eight, Jack Buck has been a member of the Cardinal radio-television team since 1954 and its primary announcer since 1970. One of the original sportscasters for the American Football League, he later did NFL play-by-play for CBS for 11 years, broadcast the 1968 World Series between Detroit and St. Louis, and covered Super Bowl IV between Kansas City and Minnesota.

A graduate of Ohio State University, Buck's first sportscasting assignments were radio play-by-play for OSU football and basketball in 1948.

Buck has covered Big Ten basketball, St. Louis Hawks (NBA) and St. Louis University basketball, University of Missouri football, St. Louis Blues (NHL) hockey, boxing and soccer.

NBC Research Results

NBC Research estimates that more than 127,000,000 people viewed some part of the three television networks' first full evening of programming for the 1975-76 season (Monday, Sept. 8).

It was estimated that viewers in over 56,000,000 homes watched part of premiere night on NBC, CBS and ABC.

The A.C. Nielson Company figures for the 1975-76 season reveal that there are now 69,600,000 television homes in the United States, an increase of 1,100,000 over last season's base of 68,500,000.

Burt Reynolds Stars In Drama

Burt Reynolds and Sarah Miles star in "The Man Who Loved Cat Dancing," a drama of a brooding, tortured ex-cavalry officer who is redemmed by the love of a spirited, independent woman, on "NBC Saturday Night at the Movies" Sept. 27, 9 to 11:20 p.m., on Channel 6-7. Lee J. Cobb, Jack Warden and George Hamilton also star.

Ex-cavalry officer Jay Grobart (Reynolds) is released from prison after serving time for slaying the man who attacked and killed his Indian wife, Cat Dancing.

Grobart is in the process of staging a train robbery in the desert for funds he thinks he needs to get his children back, when Catherine Crocker (Miles), who is running away from her weak-willed husband (Hamilton), runs smack into the middle of the crime.

Circumstances force him to take her prisoner, and as they flee from their respective pursuers, her hatred of him and his disdain for her gradually turn to respect, and then to love.

Jack Warden portrays Coleman, Grobart's confederate, and Lee J. Cobb appears as Wells Fargo agent Harvey Lapchance.

Visits Royal Lovers

Barbara Walters takes viewers to the Palace of Versailles, Yves St. Laurent's designer salon, and Cartier's as she explores the opulent world of contemporary European royalty, in "Barbara Walters Visits the Royal Lovers," a 90-minute daytime special to be colorcast on NBC-TV Thursday, Sept. 25, 1:30 to 3 p.m.

Filmed on location in Paris and Copenhagen, the special not only deals with the glamorous aspects of royal living, but examines the world of royalty as it reflects today's values.

The program focuses on the Duke of Orleans, a pretender to the throne of France, his wife, the Duchess, and on Queen Margrethe of Denmark and her husband, Prince Henrik.

In France, Walters tours the magnificent Palace of Versailles with its Director General, Gerald Vander Kamy, and the Duchess of Orleans. Their visit includes the newly restored apartments of Marie Antoinette which up until now have not been viewed by the public. Vander Kamy and his wife Florence are the only people living at Versailles and he is directing the restorations which are being financed by donations from wealthy Americans.

During her visit to Versailles, Walters is guest at a gala ball presided over by French Valery Giscard d'Estaing, to commemorate the opening of the restored rooms.

Also in France, Walters is fitted for a gown by Yves St. Laurent, borrows jewels at Cartier's, dines with royalty at Maxim's and attends the races at Chantilly.

A tour of the newly designed La Defense section of Paris is also part of her trip. Walters' guide is Pierre Salinger, former presidential press secretary and currently a writer and roving reporter for L'Expres, the popular French magazine. Salinger's tour includes an explanation of the transition from old to new which is taking place in the city.

Walters' host in Denmark are Queen Margrethe, who at 32 is Scandanavia's youngest monarch, and her husband, Prince Henrik. Highlights of Walters' stay are visits to Tivoli Gardens and Rosenborg Castle in Copenhagen where she views the Danish Crown jewels, and tours of the Fredereksborg and Amalienborg royal palaces.

A cruise on the royal yacht Danneborg to attend a regatta and a view of Elsinor Castle, the setting of Shakespeare's "Hamlet," cap Walters' Scandinavian visit.

During her interviews with the royal couples, Walters explores possible areas of concern in their lives: how royal couples differ from other young couples who live well, how much personal freedom royalty is allowed, the reasons for maintaining a monarchy in modern times and the role of the monarch in today's society.

Also featured in the special are the Duke and Duchess of Bedfore, the Duke of Sabran, members of the international set Alexis Lichine and Mrs. Rita Lachmann, columnist Maggie Nolan and American songstress Talya Ferro.

ROYAL GAME OF CARDS—Barbara Walters (back to camera) looks on as the Danish Royal Family—Queen Margrethe, Prince Henrik and their two sons—play cards, in "Barbara Walters Visits the Royal Lovers," a 90-minute daytime special focusing on the lives of contemporary European royalty, to be colorcast Thursday, Sept. 25 (1:30-3 p.m.) on NBC-TV.

Season Premiere For "McCloud"

Jessica Walter guest - stars as a ruthless record firm executive in "Park Avenue Pirates," the season premiere of "McCloud" on the "NBC Sunday Mystery Movie" series, Sept. 21, 9 to 11 p.m., on Channel 6-7.

Dennis Weaver stars as Marshal Sam McCloud, a New Mexico lawman assigned to temporary duty in New York. The guest cast includes Raymond St. Jacques, and singers Barbi Benton and Lorna Luft in their acting debuts.

Country music star Shannon Forbes (Benton) goes to McCloud for help when her manager is incapacitated - and later dies - from the effects of a hallucinogenic drug given him by recording executive Jessica Wright (Walter).

FIGHTS CRIME—Al Pacino stars in the true story of a young New York cop who fought crime in the streets and corruption in plush offices in "Serpico," on "The ABC Sunday Night Movie," Sunday, Sept. 21, at (9-11:30 p.m.) on Channel 3W-5-12.

"Serpico" Makes Television Debut

Al Pacino stars in the headlined drama of an honest cop whose refusal to accept corruption among his fellow officers costs him his peace of mind, his girlfriend, and almost his life, in "Serpico," a television premiere on "The ABC Sunday Night Movie," Sept. 21, 9 to 11 p.m.

New York Times critic Vincent Canby called the movie "a galvanizing and disquieting film .... most provocative, a remarkable record of one man's rebellion against the sort of sleaziness and second - rateness that has affected so much of American life . . ."

The real Frank Serpico was a New York Police detective - hero cop, Medal of Honor winner, 11-year veteran of the department - who learned slowly and painfully that his idealized world of "good guys against the bad guys" existed only at the Police Academy.

Serpico was a maverick from the start, insisting that - as a plainsclothes cop - he must dress and act the way people dress and act "on the street." He defended his bushy moustache and sneakers as necessary tools. He won that battle, and dressed as he chose, but from the first time he reported bribery attempts he found himself in a "no-win" situation.

Police officials paid lip-service to Serpico's war on top-level corruption, but not until he and another honest colleague took their story to the New York Times did real action begin - action that led to such violent reaction that Serpico became a marked man.

Opera Takes The Spotlight

One of the best 'Pops' programs of all times features the two great Metropolitan Opera stars Richard Tucker and Robert Merrill Sunday, Sept. 21, at 7:30 p.m. on UNC-TV.

Taped about one year before the death of Richard Tucker, this performance, with his great friend Robert Merrill, captures the essence of Tucker's genius. There's a small 'Pops' table and two chairs on stage for the two singers. Richard Tucker launches into the haunting "Sunrise Sunset" and when Robert Merrill sings "If I Were a Rich Man," Tucker raises a quizzical eye—and then beats the table in a kind of hilarious joy. The two Metropolitan Opera stars join together in "To Life, To Life"—and the house comes down. It's a splendid performance.

Turning to classic opera, Richard Tucker sings "Vesti la giubba," the intense, beautiful aria of the sad clown from 'I Pagliacci.' Robert Merrill then does the "Toreador Song" from 'Carmen,' and a more swashbuckling performance has yet to be seen.

Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops complete a perfect night with the Overture to 'La Forza del Destino,' "Intermezzo" from Cavalleria Rusticana,' and "Dance of the Bufoons" from 'The Snow Maiden.'

Robert Merrill's operatic career began when he was 26 and Arturo Toscanini heard him sing. Toscanini was so impressed by the young baritone that he asked Merrill to sing the role of Germont in Toscanini's radio broadcast of "La Traviata" with the NBC Symphony—the first opera broadcast approved by Toscanini for release on records.

Merrill now has 25 operas in his repertoire, and has recorded the music of "Porgy and Bess," "Carousel," "Showboat" and "Fiddler on the Roof." In the summer of 1970, he stepped into the world of musical comedy starring as Tevya in "Fiddler on the Roof."

Richard Tucker began his singing career at six in a synagogue on New York's lower East Side. He eventually worked his way to one of Conservative Judaism's top cantorial posts at the Brooklyn Jewish Center, but Paul Althouse, the celebrated Metropolitan Opera tenor, persuaded him to switch to the operatic scores of Verdi and Puccini.

Not long after, Tucker made his debut at the Metropolitan Opera House as Enzo Grimaldi in "La Gioconda" and "Time" magazine pronounced him, "probably the finest tenor in the business."

Love: Element Of Survival

It could happen to a family on a ship today or tomorrow.

The stories which will be brought to you in "Irwin Allen's Swiss Family Robinson," seen Sundays, 7 to 8 p.m., on ABC-TV. are that timely.

Contemporary Decorating
Contemporary decorating can boast a touch of warmth. To many people, contemporary design means all-white rooms furnished in chilly chrome and glass with sharp corners, and uncomfortable chairs. It's a look they think of as cold and sterile, and it very often is. Any decorating style taken to extremes is inclined to look overly stiff and more like a store display than a home, whether it's in contemporary or traditional. The idea is to balance with pieces from other periods and interesting accessories.
To make your home truly interesting make use of today's wonderful world of wall to wall carpeting. We have the largest display possible. Eastern Carpet Inc., 602 West Greenville Blvd., Greenville. 756-1944. "Carpet is our Business, Not a Hobby." "Where There's Always A Sale.

Daly Has RX For Boredom

For James Daly, it's back at the old stand for another year of starring as Dr. Lochner, but in his private life, it's an entirely new outlook this year.

Dr. Lochner is the genial chief of staff on "Medical Center," which is in its seventh year on CBS-TV and seen Mondays (10 to 11 p.m.).

Daly, an ctor with a 30-year career in films, stage and television, recently determined that enjoying life is better than jousting at windmills. So, he has given up his home in the posh Los Angeles area of Mandeville Canyon and purchased a condominium apartment at the beach, not at the movie colony of Malibu but at Venice, an area once known as the home of flower children and hippies.

"I'm pretty conservative, really," Daly says. "But after a recent bout with acute hepatitis, I've been forcing myself to do things I just used to fantasize about. I've decided that I'm going to releax and enjoy life. At the same time, I'm enjoying life with intensity. It boils down to a lesson I learned at great cost — anger is too debilitating, and tantrums don't get you anywhere."

Daly has found many ways to keep his energies at a peak, while enjoying life. An antique store he started in partnership was recently sold at a profit, and he has now embarked on a real-estate venture—buying houses, improving and decorating them, and selling them, at a profit, naturally.

"I keep saying I would like to do a play during a 'Medical Center' hiatus, but I really don't know if I mean it," Daly says. "I remember how I felt in former days on the stage. I was always excited to get the part, and during rehearsals and the out-of-town tryouts, but once we were settled in for a long run, I was restless."

Perhaps this partially explans Daly's new life at the beach. His penthouse apartment, overlooking a boating marina and the beach, is a place to shut out the rest of the world when desired, but is not removed from a fast-moving society where something new is always in the wind.

Ken Stabler: 'Super-Lefty'

Some quarterbacks have it, and some don't: it's as simple as that. As far as Ken Stabler is concerned, having 'it' is obvious. As a starter, the Oakland Raider quarterback has enjoyed amazing success. In fact, the team's record is 23 and 6 since he became a regular starter. Stabler will direct his team against the Miami Dolphins in the season's premier of the ABC Monday Night Football Game of the Week on September 22. The game will be televised from the Orange Bowl in Miami, Florida, beginning at 9 p.m. Ken enjoyed an excellent career at the University of Alabama, and was taken in the 1968 draft by the Raiders as the heir apparent to veteran Darrell Lamonica. He missed his rookie season with a knee injury, and personal problems compelled him to quit the team during the 1969 training camp.

This was a frustrating period for Stabler, who went into a game when victory was assured or sent in to rally the team when it was behind.

"I was always going into the game in situations I didn't create," he said. "That's what I couldn't stand. You want to play this game for a long period of time. I even asked to be traded a couple of times. It took a while to adjust."

In 1973, the Raider offense bogged down, and Ken finally got his chance against St. Louis. Ever since, the blonde Alabamian has been starting quarterback.

Stabler is the first truly successful left-handed professional quarterback. Being left-handed has never bothered Ken.

"I've always had a natural ability to throw. When I was playing pee - wee ball, I started out as an end, but the coach asked me if I wanted to play quarterback, and I said, 'Fine,' and that's all I've ever played."

To exhibit just how successful "the Snake" has been, he has won seventy games, lost 10, and tied 1 since his high school days. Yet, he attributes his success to the great talent of the Raider organization.

Last season, many people felt that the most exciting game occurred when Oakland and Miami met in the NFL playoffs. "The week of the Miami game everybody was intense; there was a lot of enthusiasm," stated Ken. "We knew we were going to beat 'em."

One Alice Isn't Here

Notice something different about Alice Frame in the NBC-TV drama "Another World"? Sure, she's still blonde, and she's still pretty, and she's still mourning the death of her husband . . . but . . . Well, just relax now, because you're not going out of your mind. It's still Alice, but it's not still Jacqueline Courtney who's played the role of Alice for the past 11 years. Her contract terminated the last of August and her decision to leave was "a mutual decision between myself and the producer," says Jacquie.

The 'new' Alice is Susan Harney, who has appeared briefly on such TV series as "The Secret Storm."

"Sunrise Semester"

"Anthropology of the Middle East and North Africa" and "Magic, Faith and Healing" will be the course offerings during the fall term of "Sunrise Semester" during its 12th season on CBS-TV.

The courses on the award-winning series offer full college credit at New York University and other institutions, and are taught by members of the faculty of Washington Square and University College of Arts and Science of New York University.

Professor Dale F. Eickleman will conduct "Anthropology of the Middle East and North Africa," which will be transmitted by CBS on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, beginning Monday, Sept. 22. The goal of this course is to look beyond the rush of current events in the vast region stretching roughly from Morocco to Afghanistan in order to comprehend the cultures and societies of this area and how people in them make sense of their world.

Since anthropology is the comparative study of societies and their cultures, the course has two related themes. The first is to provide a deeper understanding of the world-view and social conduct of North Africans and Middle Easterners. The second is to assess the contribution that the study of the Middle East and North Africa has made to the anthropological and historical understanding of societies in general.

"Magic, Faith and Healing," to be transmitted Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, beginning Tuesday, Sept. 23, will be conducted by Professor Ari Kiev. This course focuses on the universal features of social support and therapeutic systems. The links between culture, personality and the concepts and techniques of folk psychiatry will be studied in the light of their relevance to the needs of the developing world.

The course examines the impact of social change on the lives of people in the developing world, in an effort to understand the special sources of human problems in these societies.

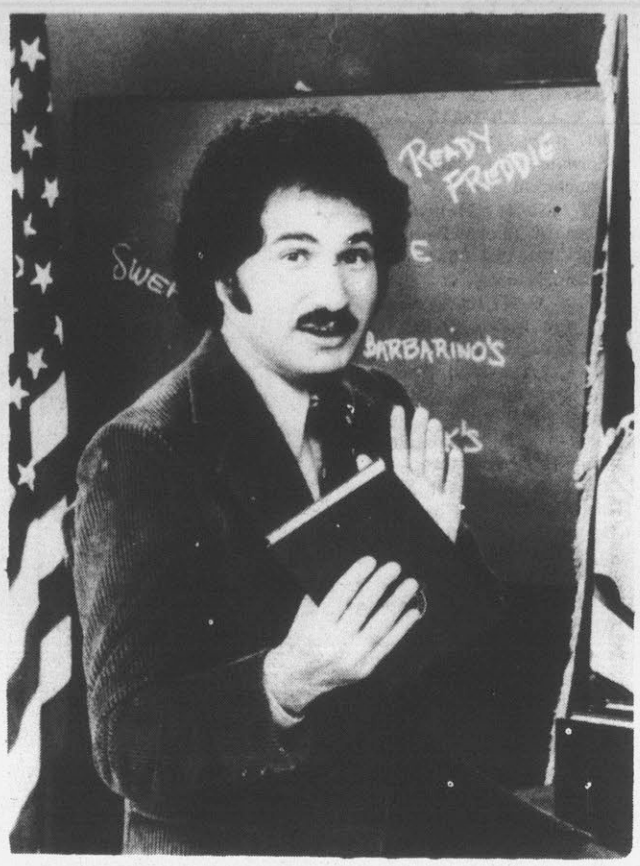
Kaplan Talks About 'Kotter'



NEW ASSIGNMENT—Gabriel Kaplan stars as Gabriel Kotter, who is assigned as a teacher to the same New York high school from which he graduated in "Welcome Back, Kotter," airing Tuesdays (8:30-9 p.m.) on Channel 3W-5-12.

One normally starts firing questions, but this was not the case. First, Gabe Kaplan did a 'warmup,' perhaps 15 to 20 minutes.

He treated those listening to his comedy. Get 'em laughing, then, maybe, they won't ask so many tough questions. At least this was the idea which crossed one's mind.

Kaplan WAS funny! He went through his routine, some of it TV, some of it nightclub-ish. He had all in hysterics. However, it didn't work. The tough questions came anyway.

It's accepted that "Welcome Back, Kotter" (seen Tuesdays, 8:30 to 9 p.m., on ABC-TV) is a comedy, but hopefully, you will get serious sometimes because school is a place to learn, not to cut the fool?

"I'm sure that all of you went to school with some of the characters in the show, and you can identify with them, can't you?

No, not really.

"Well, the show is basically about me, my young life. These were real kids in my life at school in Brooklyn. Now, as 'Gabe Kotter,' I return as a remedial academics teacher at the high school I once attended.

"Kotter hopes to show his effect on the students," Kaplan continued. "Every show is sort of a 'cartoon.' One of my ideas is that the parents of these kids come in because I think the parents are just like the kids."

The comedian, who tried playing minor league baseball but didn't make it, later went to work at one of the resort areas in upstate New York, watched the comedians work and decided "That's what I wanted to do with my life. This series evolves from my act. I do one segment about the classroom."

He said when he was 10, he attended the "Howdy Doody" show once, and remembered some characters he saw in the youngsters. Later, he put that to use. "Really, I was a good kid. My favorite show, when I was growing up, was 'Father Knows Best'."

Is your comedy accepted everywhere?

"My appeal as a comedian surprises me, really. I do well in New York — I always have — and also in the fringe places that are not big cities, like college campuses, and nightclubs in the South. I have been accepted well in Las Vegas, and I believe the reason for that is there are mature audiences in Vegas."

Do you think the show will be accepted in all parts of the country?

"In the big cities, yes, but we do worry about the smaller towns. Perhaps, people will not be able to relate to the characters as much as those who have experienced it. That's what we intend to find out. If we see a change is needed, then we'll do it. A good TV series is one which is accepted everywhere."

Albert 'Digs' Mini-Gardens

The line from the old nursery rhyme, "Mary, Mary, quite contrary, how does your garden grow?," is also a question often asked of Eddie Albert, who stars with Robert Wagner in the series "Switch!," seen Tuesdays, 9 to 10 p.m., on CBS-TV.

Sandwiched in among a versatile career which includes almost 70 motion pictures, the television series "Green Acres," Broadway, records and one-man concerts, Albert uses whatever spare time he can find to work in areas he has been highly concerned about - ecology, poverty and pollution.

His latest project is so-called "mini-gardens," wherein Albert, among others, is convincing governors, mayors and concerned private citizens to make land not currently in use available to individuals to grow their own gardens. In practice, this is especially appealing to apartment dwellers, senior citizens, teenagers, and minority groups, who do not have land of their own on which to grow food.

New License Plates

Tim Conway may have to invest in a new license plate for his car. People all over southern California have learned to recognize his car from the plates, which read, "13 WKS," Conway's way of reminding himself and the world that he has never lasted longer than 13 weeks as a regular on any television series, including his own.

Now that he's a regular on "The Carol Burnett Show," Saturdays, 10 to 11 p.m., on CBS-TV and Channel 9-11, Conway is so optimistic about his future he plans to 'retire' his license plates.

Looking back, Conway now thinks that this is what he really wanted all those years, to be a regular cast member, along with Harvey Korman and Vicki Lawrence, working with Carol Burnett, whom Conway calls "the greatest, funniest and nicest lady who ever lived."

Jon Voight Portrays Willing, Eager Teacher

Jon Voight portrays a willing, eager and forceful young teacher who finds the challenge of a lifetime when he tries to introduce a group of poor isolated black children to the world around them, in "Conrack," to be shown for the first time on television on "The CBS Thursday Night Movies," Sept. 25, 9 to 11 p.m., on Channel 9-11. Paul Winfield also stars.

Conrack is the true story of an outgoing and genial teacher who is soon able to overcome the fears of the children in his class - painfully ignorant youngsters who live on a small isolated island off the coast of South Carolina. The children, who are amazed at Conrack's fund of knowledge, learn how to swim, read and add, and all about Babe Ruth. Soon, they find their egos and their expectations for a better life are growing under Conrack's tutelage.

But their warm-hearted friend becomes the center of controversy as knowledge brings fears to the school's leaders and Conrack is involved in a tug-of-war between his own hopes and his struggles with the backward administration.

The film is based on the book, "The Water Is Wide" by Pat Frank.

'Fear' Is Well-Written Story

"I think 'Fear on Trial' is an important, well-written work and deals with a subject that hit close to home to many people in our industry," says George C. Scott.

"I'm certainly old enough to have been involved," Scott remarks of the blacklisting practices of the 1950s. "Fortunately for me, I simply wasn't being hired anywhere, so I didn't happen to get blacklisted from anything. I'd been acting for a number of years and couldn't get a job. I missed it, but I certainly knew many people who were dreadfully affected by it."

"Fear on Trial," a two-hour, made - for - television film about the blacklisting of popular radio entertainer John Henry Faulk in the late 1950s, will be broadcast Oct. 2, on CBS-TV.

A Hilarious Movie

CUTE AND COY—Goldie Hawn as Marion, a young woman who vaccillates between two lovers while touring the French Riviera, strikes a coy pose in "There's A Girl In My Soup," a madcap comedy on "NBC Monday Night at the Movies" Sept. 22 (9-11 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

Peter Sellers and Goldie Hawn star in "There's a Girl in My Soup," a comedy on "NBC Monday Night at the Movies" Sept. 22, 9 to 11 p.m., on Channel 6-7.

Internationally famous cooking authority Robert Danvers (Sellers) also considers himself an expert on the subject of women.

When by chance he runs into pretty Marion (Hawn), she woefully tells him that her boyfriend, Jimmy (Nicky Henson), has found another girl.

Danvers invites Marion to stay with him and at first chafes at having to sleep on the sofa and endure her mediocre cooking. But after taking her on a tour of France, he is bewitched by her.

Returning home, Marion receives a call from a contrite Jimmy, who begs her to come back.

As she vacillates between the two men, Danvers, a confirmed bachelor, finds himself so smitten that he proposes marriage.

("There's a Girl in My Soup" is a sophisticated comedy designed for mature audiences, and parents may feel it is not suitable for children.)

Investigates Sister's Suicide

A young woman's investigation into the seemingly unmotivated suicide of her sister leads her to an exclusive academy where she is caught in the same satanic grip that drove her sister and others to their deaths, in "Satan's School for Girls," the "CBS Late Show" Wednesday, September 25 at 11:30 p.m. on CBS-TV.

Roy Thinnes, Pamela Franklin, Kate Johnson, Jo Van Fleet and Lloyd Bochner star in the 90-minute feature which co-stars Cherl Stoppelmoor, Terry Lumley, Gwynne Gilford and Frank Marth.

The drama unfolds as Martha Sayers (Terry Lumley), a student at an exlcusive old Salem, Mass., girl's academy, drives in terror to the home of her sister Elizabeth (Pamela Franklin), Martha's only living relative. Martha panics when she finds her sister has gone out. When Elizabeth returns, Martha has taken her own life and the police are unable to uncover evidence of foul play. Determined to learn what drove her once-happy, well adjusted sister to suicide, Elizabeth enrolls under an assumed surname at the Salem Academy, where she is greeted warmly by the headmistresss (Jo Van Fleet), a handsome young instructor, Joseph Clampett (Roy Thinnes), and befriended by a lovely student named Roberta (Kate Jackson).

IMMORTALIZED

John Beradino's profile, with its strong bones and noble nose, would look right at home on a nickel.

However, Beradino, a star of the daytime series, "General Hospital," is the only actor whose visage is visible on a more valuable medium of exchange - baseball bubble gum cards! The former second baseman (St. Louis Browns and Cleveland Indians) felt complimented recently when he autographed a card for a young boy who exclaimed, "Gee thanks Mr. Beradino. I bet I can trade this even up for a Johnny Bench."

"You have to admire a kid like that," Beradino observed. "He's a real optimist."

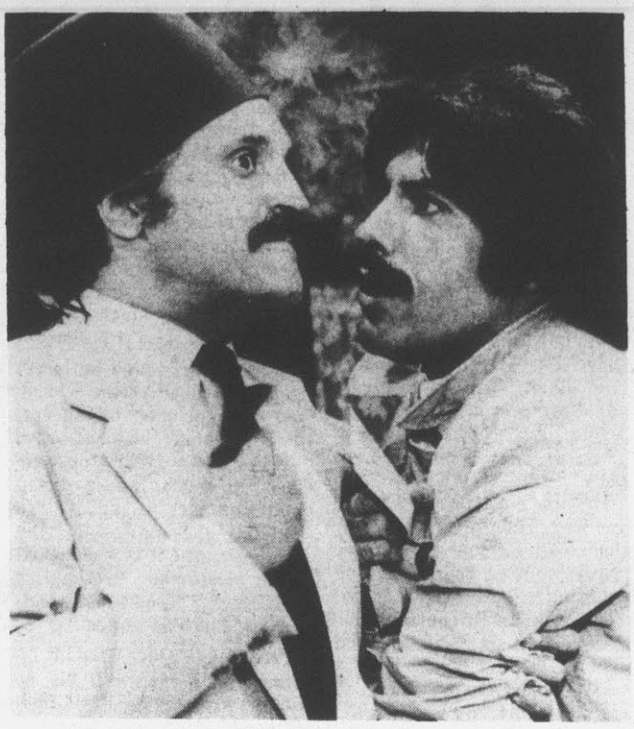
Tony Has Secret Weapon



BIZARRE CHARACTERS—Guest star Hal Linden (left) and Tony Orlando portray bizarre characters aboard the Orient Express train, in a comedy sketch on "Tony Orlando and Dawn" Wednesday, Sept. 24, (8-9 p.m.) on Channel 3N-9-11.

When a performer goes into the audience as part of his act, is it fun? Or is it like being mauled by a bunch of lions?

Singer Tony Orlando, a master of the art, finds it exciting and exhilarating, and he thrives on the unexpected challenges that turn up. In fact, he has made his end-of-the-show concert spot a highlight of the "Tony Orlando and Dawn" variety series, which returns for its second season on Wednesdays 8 to 9 p.m., on CBS-TV and Channel 3N-9-11.

"You have to remember that I always use music when I work with the audience," Orlando says. "And there isn't a situation you can't meet with music.

"Our musical director, Bob Rozario, keeps a beat going in the orchestra. It's like a heartbeat, so there's never any empty silence.

"No matter how shy someone is, you'd be surprised how they loosen up if you ask them to beat time to a song. They don't have to know music—anyone can pick up the rhythm.

"If response is a little cool at first, I can always warm people up by starting a competition between different sections. Or I make them laugh by having them sing silly background sounds—ba-beep, ba-beep or ga-doo, ga-doo.

"Once you get the audience with you, they'll follow you anywhere. I've had them stand up on cue, stamp their feet, and wave their arms.

"The secret is that though they might feel silly, they're all silly together. And of course, I'm leading the way, so they know who looks the silliest."

Orlando sometimes encounters obstacles that would daunt a lesser man. Once he started talking to an elderly lady, and realized she spoke very little English.

"But I had the background music," Orlando explains, "so I got her to beat time and we picked it up so it looked as though she was leading us all in 'Talk to the Animals.' I don't think she wanted to stop when it came time to end the show."

'Stage Grandfather' Involved In Show

You've heard of stage mothers. But, did you ever hear of a "stage grandfather?" They've got one on NBC-TV's "Little House on the Prairie" — the company hair stylist Larry Germain.

Germain has persuaded two of his grandchildren, 8½-year-old Jennifer and 6-year-old Perry, that a career in show business is a wonderful thing. The youngsters are two of the children who attend the country school in the popular series.

Actually, Jennifer and Perry are third-generation show business, since their father is make-up man Mike Germain of "Emergency!"

To reach the location of the "little red schoolhouse" in the Simi Valley, the Germain children and their mother must set out from their Pacific Palisades home in suburban Los Angeles at 6:15 a.m. on workdays, leaving 3-year-old Jeff with a babysitter (often his grandmother). They get home at 5:30 in the evening, which makes it a long day.

"Frankly, I'd rather have the kids go to summer camp," Mike Germain says, "but my dad thinks it's just wonderful to have them do 'Little House' and he even brushes Jennifer's hair before every shot."

The big payoff is when the school shows go on the air and the family assembles to watch. "There I am!", the usually blase Perry will shout, but little Jeff, not understanding why his brother and sister are on screen and he isn't, will cry, "Where's Jeff" Where's Jeff?" When he's a little older, all he has to do is mention to his grandfather he'd like to be among those present. Larry Germain thinks there's no business like show business.

It's Easier To Play One Than Be One

His three years as a private investigator helped convince Sean McClory he'd rather act one than be one.

He gets his chance in his co-starring role as retired policeman Pat McShane, who works as legmen for his attorney daughter, in "Kate McShane," new legal drama starring Anne Meara in the title role which is seen Wednesdays, 10 to 11 p.m., on CBS-TV.

"It's a great part, because as Kate's father I have a good family relationship, as well as a working partnership, with her," McClory said. "It's a kind of offbeat situation that we hope will add warmth and realism to the show."

McClory's stint as a private eye in Los Angeles came years ago, between acting jobs, and was never intended to be a full-time career.

"But being an actor helped when it was necessary to, say, mislead people," McClory noted. "Could I help it if they maybe thought I was an insurance man instead of a private detective?"

McClory had a close call on an insurance case in which he was to take movies of a man believed to be faking a bad back.

TV Doctor Is A Saint

Let's face it . . . until now, there's been no real similarity between TV medicos and the real article. On TV, a doctor is unswervingly dedicated to his profession. He not only cures 'what ails' each week, but also solves the emotional problems usually nagging his patients. Should a patient have the audacity to even mention his inability to pay his bill . . . well, heaven forbid! The TV medico immediately brushes that very minor problem aside. Definitely a saint is the TV doc, a combination of Swietzer and Dear Abby.

The new medical series which debuted recently just may change that image to a more realistic one. The hour-long anthologv series, "Medical Story" which airs Thursdays, 10 to 11 p.m. on NBC-TV and Channel 6-7, just may bring a badly needed air of reality to TV's depiction of medics.

Executive producer Abby Mann vows that on this series they will be shown neither as saints nor heavies, but rather as they actually are - human beings with weaknesses and sometimes even being capable of misjudgments.

There will be a segment dealing with sterilization of women without their knowledge; one about a factory which produces chemicals which give employees cancer and a doc who discovers evidence of this; another about an elderly woman who wants the right to die with dignity; a lobotomy story; unnecessary operations; one on malpractice, in which the doc loses the suit, also a patient.

If all these sound different from the usual medico yarn, that's precisely the intent. Remarks Mann emphatically: "There is something obscene about so much money being made from sick people. We are changing the image of the doctor, because it is a distorted image. I loathe lies. I resent lies on other TV programs which have created this image."

Producer Chris Morgan interjects, "There will be no supermen in the series." Both producers say that their stories are based on real-life cases.

Their approach in "Medical Story" isn't apt to win them any invitations to speak to the AMA, but - on the other hand - taking the halo off the medico's head might be the healthiest move for everybody.

HOLLYWOOD—The new season is underway but already plans are being made for mid-season replacements. James Arness may very well find his way back to the tube in January in a new western series. This one would be for ABC, and while Jim has said he'd like to wait until next Fall, the powers at be are hopeful they can premiere the show at the start of 1976. It'll be called "The Macahans."

At NBC, it appears that Mac Davis won't have a new series, but will do several specials for the network. Rich Little or McLean Stevenson may yet find their way on the tube in January through.

Richard Thomas of "The Waltons" and his wife Alma have bought a new home, sufficiently big enough for the family they plan to have in the near future.

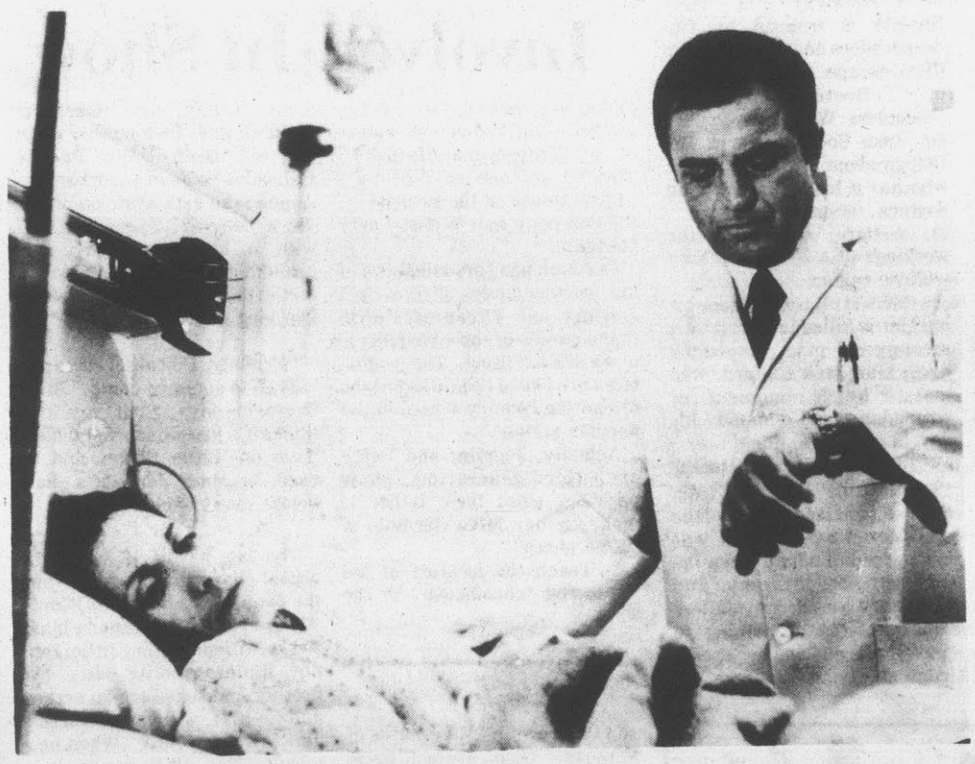
Chris and Linda Day George just recently sold their huge home and are moving to a much smaller residence, which proves that inflation does exist in Hollywood as well.

Something that only a handful of TV viewers know is that Joe Silver, who stars as Lee Grant's ex-husband in "Fay," is the same actor who starred as record producer Larry Prince for several months last year in daytime's "Love of Life."

That serial, by the way, begins it's 24th year on CBS-TV September 24. "Days of Our Lives" begins its eleventh year on NBC come Nov. 8th.

Jackie Jackson of the Jackson Five and his wife, Enid, are calling it quits after their 10 month marriage. She's filed for divorce.

Jack Lord won't mind flying 6000 miles from his "Hawaii Five-O" base to New York, now that a one-man showing of his paintings has been selected as the opening attraction at Manhattan's new posh gallery, the Lourve II.



TEST CASE — Vince Edwards stars as a gynecologist who becomes the center of an anti-abortion controversy in "Test Case," on "Medical Story," Thursday, Sept. 25 (10-11 p.m.) on Channel 6-7. Edith Diaz plays a pregnant woman who attempts an abortion on herself. When the doctor makes a decision as to which life will be saved — mother's or baby's — he comes under attack.

PHYLLIS' SISTER

Doris Belack, who portrays Anna Craig in ABC-TV's daytime series, "One Life to Live," will play the sister of Phyllis Diller in the feature film, "Looking Up," which began filming in mid-September in New York. "It's about a lower middle class Jewish family and their hopes and dreams. Just a human story. No sharks in this one," says Doris.

"Classic Theatre"

When "Classic Theatre—the Humanities in Drama" debuts on UNC-TV Thursday, Sept. 25, at 8:30 p.m., with "Macbeth," the first of more than 25 hours of TV programming, it will be bringing to the TV screen four centuries of great plays which will stimulate as well as entertain.

Many of the 13 BBC dramas are being seen for the first time by U.S. viewers, who will find in several as much excitement as in a score of modern cops and western shows. Others dig deeply into the tortured minds of neurotic characters in tragic situations. And there are some that amuse and entertain with a wit and sparkle rarely seen outside the racy, ribald, romping 18th century theatrical scene.

Two top-ranking members of Britain's theatrical royalty—the Royal Shakespeare Company—will be wearing regal robes when they star in "Macbeth."

Eric Porter, who can tick off his roles in 27 of Shakespeare's 36 plays, is the Scottish Thane. Janet Suzman is adding the role of the ambition-driven Lady Macbeth to her ample personal roster of the Bard's heroines—Rosalind, Beatrice, Cleopatra, Katharaina, Viola.

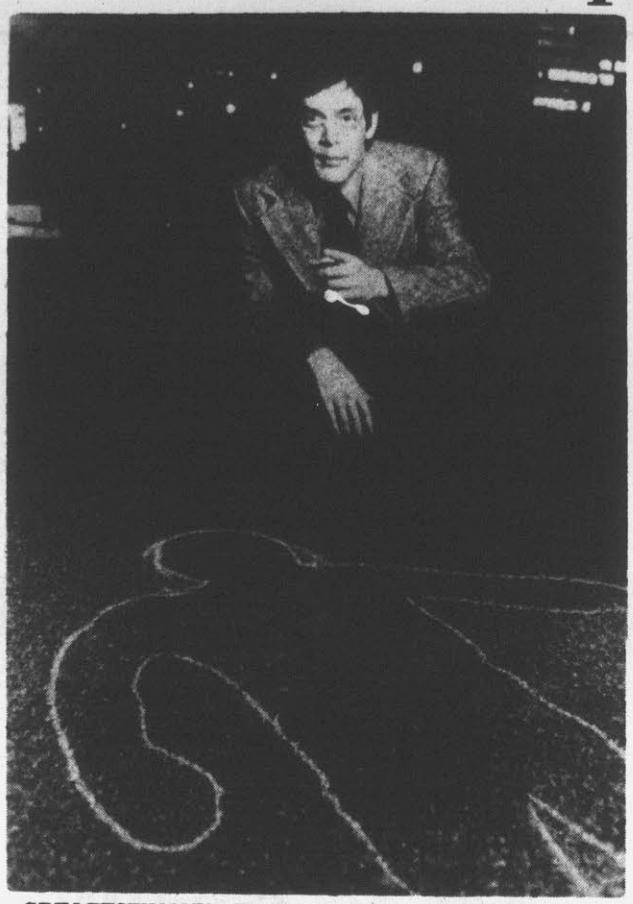
Another Silliphant Creation



GRIM TESTIMONY—Chalk marks on the sidewalk offer grim testimony to the death of a girl who was murdered in front of 15 silent witnesses when Raul Julia stars as a police detective in "Death Scream", a world premiere presentation on "The ABC Friday Night Movie," Sept. 26, (9-11 p.m.) on Channel 3W,5,12.

Over the past few years, Stirling Silliphant has become one of Hollywood's busiest writers. His credits have included such blockbusters as "The Poseidon Adventure" and "The Towering Inferno," and he won an Academy Award for his screenplay for "In the Heat of the Night." Consequently, a story has to be very special to get him involved with television these days.

Silliphant is the writer of "Death Scream," a suspense drama which will have its world television premiere on "The ABC Friday night Movie," Sept. 26, 9 to 11 p.m., on Channel 3-5-12. It is a stark drama about a young woman whose murder was witnessed by 15 of her neighbors who did nothing to help her and refused to cooperate with the police. It is a story he felt could be best done for television.

"This was not like a 'disaster' film such as 'The Towering Inferno,' where you write to fit the giant screen," he said. "This story was an intimate one about people and how and why they react to certain situations. I felt that television was the best medium for it and I wrote it just for TV."

An all-star cast including (in alphabetical order) Lucie Arnaz, Edward Asner, Oscar winner Art Carney, Diahann Carroll, Kate Jackson of ABC's "The Rookies," multi-award-winner Cloris Leachman, Tina Louise and Nancy Walker, star in the film, and Silliphant was an interested observer on the set.

"It's always good for a writer to watch actors working with his words," he noted. "And when you have such people as Art Carney, Ed Asner, Cloris Leachman and Nancy Walker you can learn a lot from them. I'm never upset when an actor wants to change my words. Most of the time he's right; I was writing for me and not for him. Most actors, though, respect what a writer has done."

NICE GUY

What's a nice guy like Henry Polic II doing in the Robin Hood series, "When Things Were Rotten?" Counting his blessings and playing the villainous Sheriff of Nottingham, that's what. Henry, who co-stars in the series, originally auditioned for the role of Prince John, another nefarious character in the series. Until he was set as the sheriff, Henry, who is new to television, had played nothing but nice guys in stage roles.

Cueing Tigers Is Part Of Job

Actor Vince Edwards, making his feature film directorial debut the hard way, stood on a rugged mountain peak at dusk facing a pair of ravenous Siberian tigers.

Since the unpredictable felines, wighing 500 pounds each at 20 months, had fasted for two days in order to hone their acting talents, Edwards ordered all non-essential crew members into trucks before the big cats were freed from their cage. As they scrambled to comply, Edwards, who wrote the "Maneater" screenplay with Marcus Demain and Jimmy Sangster, joked, "I can't say I didnt know what I was getting into."

In "Maneater," the "CBS Late Movie" airing Friday, Sept. 26, at 11:30 p.m. on Channel 9-11, four campers vacationing in a motor home which becomes disabled, are deliberately set up by an eccentric wild animal trainer as prey for his two starving tigers.

Ben Gazzara and Sheree North star as campers Nick and Gloria Baron. Richard Basehart is the special guest star as trainer Carl Brenner. Also starring are Kip Niven as Shep Sanders and Laurette Spang as Polly, the other couple in the vacationing party.

Jackie Cooper's New Series

Jackie Cooper, star, and Jack Webb, executive producer of the new ABC series, "Mobile One," seen Fridays, 8 to 9 p.m., on ABC-TV, sat at Universal Studios ready to quizzed about the TV-newsman idea for a show.

Is a pair of Jacks enough to win the 8 o'clock poker game Friday nights?

Cooper had a hearty laugh. Webb didn't think it was so funny. He replied, deadpanned as usual: "Well, we've got one Jack, at least." Hmm, so much for that.

Jackie, you stopped acting in a TV series 13 year ago, and went to directing. Now, you are back to acting. Was there nothing around to direct?

"There is just so much TV you can direct. One of the reasons I quit was that I was getting a little grouchy as a director. A series right now would allow me possibly to be financially secure for a while, and if later pictures that I want to do are not successful, I won't have to worry about it too much."

Cooper, 53 this month, started acting at age three in the "Our Gang" comedies, advanced to "Skippy" with Wallace Beery, and by age 20, had worked with all the greats in the industry at that time. In 1955, he started "The People's Choice" on TV, which ran three years, in 1959, he began "Hennesey" for another three years. In 1962, he started directing.

He did come back to answer that first question with: "You have an unknown in 'Big Eddie' (new show) and you also have three established comedies ('Sandford,' 'Chico' and 'MASH'), but I think there would be place for a drama.

Inherit the wind.

If you like the idea of tooling down the open road in an open car, guess what?

The good old reliable, practical, utterly sensible Volkswagen people make a nice impractical, senseless, utterly frivolous convertible.

With the top down, the Volkswagen convertible puts the wind in your hair, the sun on your cheek, and the stars in your eyes. You are at the mercy of the elements.

But with the top up, the elements are at your mercy.

Rain won't leak in since the top overlaps the windshield frame. Cold won't seep through because the top is layered—vinyl above, leatherette below. Sound is kept to a minimum due to the good inch of padding that separates the two.

So, you see, it really isn't as drastic a character change as it may seem.

The same scrupulous inspection routine and the identical yearly improvements that go into the making of every beetle, go into the making of every convertible.

Ergo, the same economy that comes out of driving the beetle remains reassuringly intact with the topless version.

One thing more.

Don't go searching high and low on the dashboard for the control that works the top.

The mechanism that raises and lowers it is right at your fingertips. In fact, it is your fingertips.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY YOUR 1975 CONVERTIBLE.

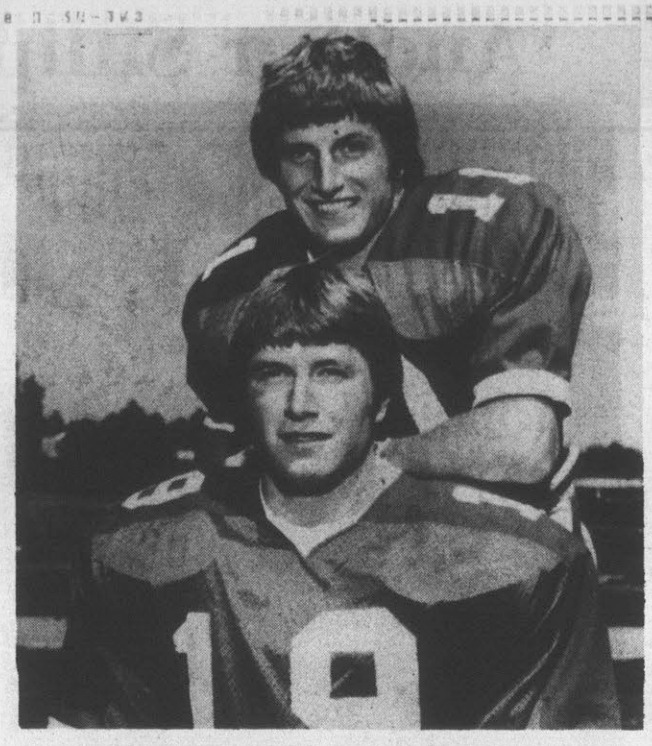
Showdown On Saturday

Professional bowlers Judy Soutar and Vesma Grinfelds, will meet in the final roll-off of the previously announced $50,000 Showdown," to be broadcast on "CBS Sports Spectacular," Saturday, Oct. 11.

Brent Musburger will be host for the CBS-TV Sports Broadcast from the Circus Maximus Room of Caesars Palace in Las Vegas, Nev.

The winner will earn the right to face top amateur bowler Carolyn Anderton in a single match, winner-take-all, for $50,000.



TWIN TEST—Sensational twins Dave and Don Buckey will test the tough Michigan State defense when N.C. State challenges the Spartans in the College Football Game of the Week on Saturday, Sept. 27, at 1:30 p.m. on ABC-TV.

Twin Brother Act Is Ready

In the Fall of 1975, the students of North Carolina State and the populus of Raleigh are estatic about their football team. One of the main reasons that Wolfpack-mania reigns strong can be directly attributed to those phenomenal twins from Akron, Ohio — Dave and Don Buckey. N.C. State meets tough Michigan State in the NCAA Game of the Week on Saturday, Sept. 27. on ABC-TV. Broadcast time is 1:30 p.m. from the Michigan State Campus at East Lansing, Michigan.

Coach Lou Holtz, who holds a sparkling 26-8-2 record for his three years at State, flatly declares that quarterback Dave Buckey is "the finest college football player in college football." One need only to look at Dave's outstanding statistics to understand Coach Holtz's enthusiasm. The slender Rifleman has thrown for an eye-opening 59 per-cent accuracy, 16 touchdowns and 2,775 yards. He has already been selected pre-season All-America by both Game Plan Magazine and Family Weekly.

Dave needs only 13 yards this Fall to surpass the school's total offense record, set by former All-American Roman Gabriel. In the 15 games he has started as quarterback, State has won 12, tied one and lost only two.

A sound fundamentalist, Buckey runs the Pack offense with the precision of a surgeon. He passed with a sparkling 65% accuracy last season, completing 105 of 162 attempts for 1,481 yards and 8 touchdowns. The stylish quarterback was named national Back-of-the-Week by the Associated Press for his brilliant play against Virginia last season. He brought the Pack from a 21-0 defeicit against the Cavaliers to a 22-21 win setting the school record with 314 yards in total offense. Dave also tied the school mark with 23 completions in the game for 306 yards.

As a freshman, the Akron Ace won the Most Outstanding Player award in the Peach Bow, guiding the Pack to a smashing 49-13 victory over West Virginia. He also powered a high-geared offense to a 31-31 tie with the Houston Cougars.

Dave was an all-round top athlete at Kenmore High in Akron, Ohio, lettering in football and baseball. The six-foot, 167 pound senior is an economics major.

Don Buckey, Dave's twin is often referred to as "the other Buckey," but he is an outstanding football player in his own right. He has been the Pack's leading pass receiver the past two seasons and owns a career mark of 68 catches for 1,184 yards. The yardage mark is already a school record.

Troops Are Helped

Veteran soldier Amos (Mike Kellin) and a raw young recruit, Tom (Daniel Tamm), haul a cannon from Albany to Boston to help George Washington's troops in "Frostbite," to be colorcast on NBC-TV's "GO-USA" Saturday, Sept. 27, 12:30 to 1 p.m.

Washington desperately needs additional heavy weapons, so the two men are sent with a dismantled cannon drawn by a mule across what is now the Knox Trail to open the way for 60 additional big guns that will follow if they get through.

On the trail, Amost and Tom (nicknamed Frostbite by the veteran) face bitter cold, broken equipment and armed Tories. When Amos dies, Frostbite must covercome many obstacles to complete the mission.

This fictional drama on historical events was written by William Lewis, produced by Chiz Schultz and directed by J. Phillip Miller.

"GO-USA" presents stories keyed to America's Bicentennial observance.

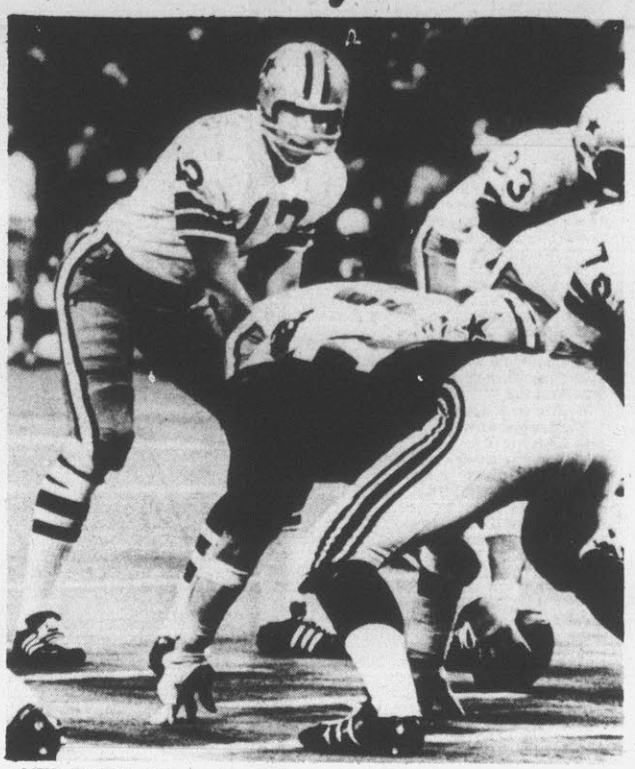
Cowboys Face New Challenge



NFL GAME—Roger Stauback, the Cowboy Dodger, will direct Dallas against the Los Angeles Rams on the NFL Game of the Week on Sunday, Sept. 21 on CBS-TV at 1 p.m.

Over the last decade, the Dallas Cowboys have been one of the strongest teams in the National Football League. They always finish in the upper echelon of the NFC's Eastern Division, have won several conference titles and one Super Bowl. The team is led by one of the most complete quarterbacks in the game - Roger Staubach, the "artful dodger." Roger and the Cowboys meet the Los Angles Rams in a pre-season contest on Sunday, September 21, at 1 p.m., on CBS-TV.

A 33-year-old, six-year veteran, Staubach appears ready for superstardom. He also envisions a return by his team to the success of the past.

"I think it's fair to say that we are a team in transition, so don't write us off too quickly," warned the former Navy standout.

Last season was a major disappointment to the Cowboys, as they finished out of the playoffs for the first time in eight years. A horrendous opening in the 1974 season left the team at 1-4, but finished strong, too late - however - to close at 8-6. The offense began to improve dramatically, near the end, but the defense remained suspect. Only the lowly Giants gave up more points than the Cowboys in the NFC Eastern Division.

Dallas also lost Calvin Hill, the mainstay of their running attack, to the World Football League. Can they improve enough to return to the playoff?

A confident Staubach feels that they can. "Firstly, you've got to remember that the Cowboys have a winning tradition and as corny as that sounds, it still means a lot regarding our attitudes," he explained. "Secondly, we did get good personnel in the draft who can help us on defense. And thirdly, I think the schedule is in our favor."

Yet, the team has a long way to go throughout the lineup. All-Pro veteran Bob Lilly has retired, and his absence leaves a big hole. Ed "Too Tall" Jones has tremendous promise, but must still mature. Randy White, the outstanding athlete from the University of Maryland, will certainly help.

Robert Newhouse will take up some of the slack caused by Hill's loss, but probably not all of it. The Cowboys still have two of the finest pass receivers in Drew Pearson and Golden Richards.

If there is one good sign in the Dallas horizon, it's their schedule. Although they still face some toughies, many of their opponents are less than super.

Mitchell Is Rare

Lydell Mitchell is one of those rare running backs who breaks records whenever he puts on a football uniform. First, he took on the Penn State record book. Then the NCAA. After a year he started causing revisions in the Baltimore Colt records section, and now he's made the National Football League Guide obsolete. Lydell and the Colts will challenge the Chicago Bears at Soldier Field in Chicago. This NFL Game of the Week will air on NBC-TV Sunday, Sept. 21, at 2 p.m.

After setting the Colt's single-season rushing record in his first full season with the club, in 1973, at 936 yards and climbing to seventh place in just two seasons with the team on the Colt's career rushing list, Mitchell has now wiped out O. J. Simpson's record of 39 carries in one game. O his way to a career high 156-yard game in a Baltimore 35-20 victory over the New York Jets, Lydell carried the ball 40 times. His performance was more than quantity of carries.

It was Joe Thomas who possibly saved Lydell's career in Baltimore two years ago. Thomas took over as General Manager of the Colts prior to the 1972 season and inherited Mitchell, who was drafted by the previous regime. The coaching staff, which was a holdover from the previous regime, however, wanted to release Mitchell after training camp.

Garagiola Says Watch 'Buffaloes'

Joe Garagiola, who has had two daytime games shows on TV, says he'd take another "if I had the time. I always enjoyed being the hero to a woman contestant, giving her a prize. But, I've got too much schedule. It's such now that I can't do as many guest shots as I'd like. Although I miss the 'Today Show,' I have no regrets leaving it. I do miss it because it allowed me to show myself as someone other than a baseball announcer, but it was just taking too much of my life and my family comes first."

He says he has plenty of ideas for his pre-game show, "Baseball World," and "one thing I've been checking on is how Hollywood has treated the game of baseball in its films. I've got the sports fan. What I'm looking for is that 'fringe' fan, someone who will enjoy the pre-game show, baseball fan or not."

Garagiola likes "many sports, but I can't say which is No. 1. Football has done a better job of merchandizing itself, and I would like to see baseball do more of that, but it's a different story. You can get a no-hitter one day, then get your brains beat our the next. Pro football has time to build itself from Monday to the game on Sunday, and fans don't care about leaving home at 10:30 in the morning and getting back at 6:30. But, let a baseball game, which started at 8 o'clock get them home at midnight, and they grumble."

Would you comment on your football counterpart, Howard Cosell?

"Aw, listen he does it his way, and I do mine. Cosell does, from time to time, call some game or athlete mediocre. He should know because, at times, what he says rates in the same category. I'll never do football broadcasts because the game I don't know that well."

What can be done to improve the game of baseball?

"For one thing, an announcer can tell what could happen when there is a pause in the game. They could enforce the pitcher throwing the ball rather than let him fool around on the mound. When there's a rain delay, show movies on a screen anything like that . . just don't let them sit there. Giveaways are good because people like those things."

Would you comment on player salaries and will the expense put the game out of business?

"I like to see a ballplayer get what he thinks he's worth, but not 3.9 or 3.7 million or whatever it was. If I owned a player like that, I'd make him sleep in a deep freeze 'cause I wouldn't want anything to happen to him.

Golf Cart Is Somethin' Else

Calling Flip Wilson's new customized golf cart, the Rolls Royce of carts is not just idle flattery. With brass RR Flying Goddess and radiator grill, RR hub caps and outsized brass head lights, the golf cart could well compete for "CART of the year."

Flip, who has devoted the last 18 months of his sport's life to golf, will find the $18,000 cart well appointed in all areas. For one thing, it comes complete with color television, refreshment bar and quadraphonic FM-AM 8 track tape deck. There is also a loud speaker amplifier in case the soft spoken Flip would like to communicate with people on the course. If his voice gives out, Flip can always honk the three chrome Italian horns which sound off in harmony.

The seats are done in gold metal plate and spell out Flip's name in blue metal flakes which have been hand sewn into the gold. The roof of the cart is also gold metal with a gold fringe. The sun roof, should Flip choose to use it, is blue metal.

The outside of the cart holds more than 40 layers of luminous blue paint which catches the sunlight and reflects the entire spectrum of the rainbow.

The lavish cart was designed by George Barris, long famed for his fantastic customized cars. Barris and his associates took more than 2 months to complete Flip's special cart, with a team of four men working full time. Barris admits the cart is one of the most lavish he's ever designed. Other clients have included Bob Hope, Bing Crosby, Glen Campbell, Frank Sinatra.

FALK TO STAR

Peter Falk and Jill Clayburgh will star in "Griffin Loves Phoenix," a bittersweet love story which will air as a two-hour motion picture this season on ABC-TV.

Falk, a four-time Emmy winner, will be making his first TV film since the pilot for his "Columbo" series. Miss Clayburgh recently completed her co-starring role as Carole Lombard in "Gable and Lombard" with James Brolin.

Grand Prix. A thoroughbred at the track and on the road.

Starting now, there's no need to settle for an also-ran imitation Grand Prix. Because we've just made the real thing so affordable.

In fact, it's as easy to own as a lot of mid-sized cars. And Grand Prix gives you all the makings of a champion.

Like a responsive 350 V-8. Variable-ratio power steering. Power front disc brakes. Steel-belted radial tires. And Pontiac's famed Radial Tuned Suspension. To help you through the turns as well as the stretches.

You also have the inside track on comfort. With a plush interior featuring special touches like a custom cushion steering wheel. A cockpit-like instrument panel. Cut-pile carpeting. An electric clock. And a column-mounted dimmer switch.

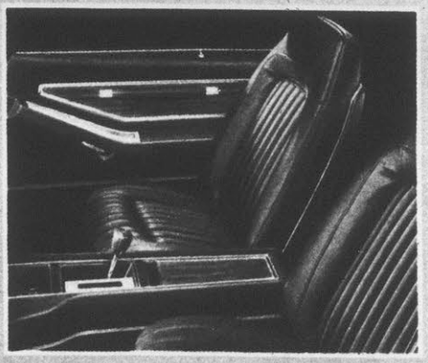
Grand Prix's standard full-width notchback seat.

Grand Prix SJ's instrument panel.



Grand Prix LJ's available leather bucket seats.

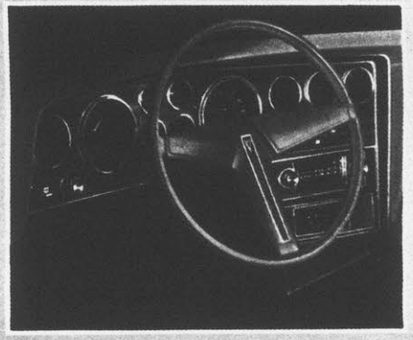
Grand LeMans' available instrument panel.



Grand LeMans. A mid-sized Pontiac so plush it's bound to make some big waves.

Leave it to Pontiac to make a big splash in the mid-sized market. With the luxurious new 1976 Grand LeMans.

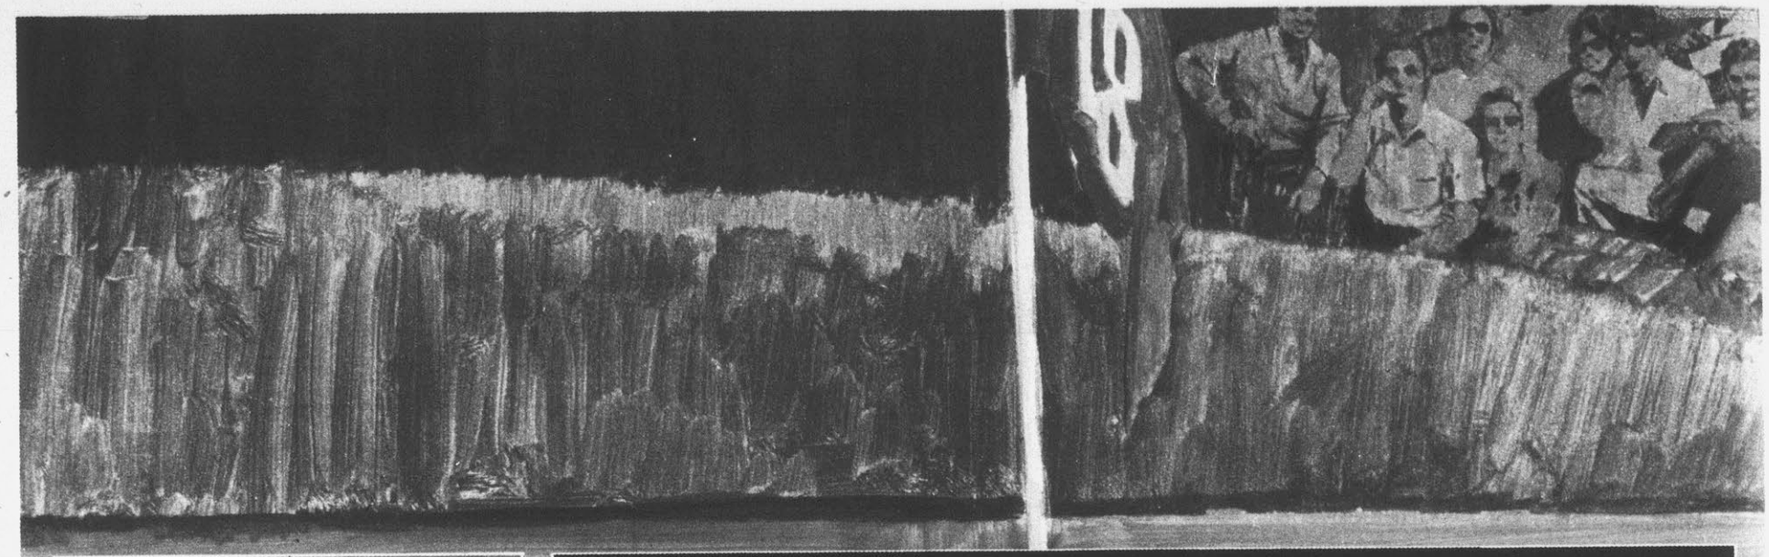
Its elegant new styling and superb engineering should make Grand LeMans a favorite in its class.

That goes for long cruises, too. Where Grand LeMans is outfitted with luxurious appointments and a smooth-sailing Radial Tuned Suspension to pass even the toughest shakedown with flying colors.

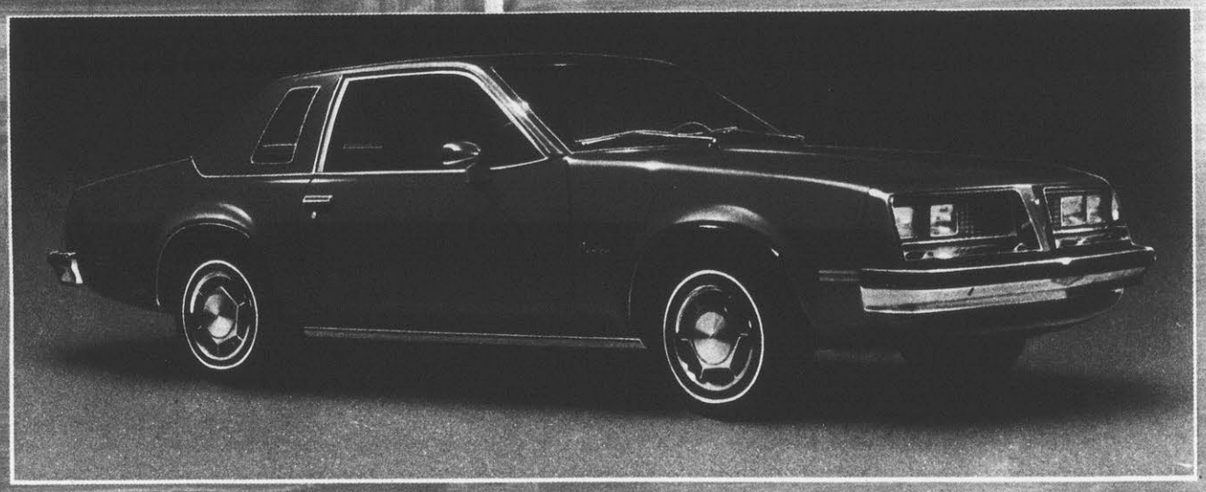
And just in case you want to run with the larger, more luxurious classes, there's a shipload of equipment you can order. Like automatic temperature control air conditioning. A sunroof. Your choice of four different styles of cordova tops. And a small, yet spirited 260 V-8.

1976 Pontiac Grand LeMans. The pride of the LeMans fleet.

Grand LeMans 2-door Hardtop Coupe.



Sunbird



Announcing the first Sunbird.
A stylish little Pontiac that's sure to be one of this year's big winners.

Sunbird's available custom interior.

Let the tour begin. Sunbird has arrived. And the small car field will probably never be the same again. Just check Sunbird's scorecard.

It starts with a look that's got Pontiac written all over it. With dual rectangular headlamps set in a bold split grille.

It follows through to an interior that's pure clubhouse. With contoured front bucket seats. Cut-pile carpeting. A deluxe steering wheel. And a cockpit-like instrument panel.

And finishes up with a 4-cylinder engine and floor-mounted 3-speed as standard equipment. With an available 231 V-6 and new 5-speed transmission to back them up. For Pontiac's kind of performance.

Sunbird's instrument panel with available rally gauges.

Astre's available custom interior.

Astre. The little Pontiac that handles long drives as well as short putts.

Efficient operation is par for the course for the '76 Pontiac Astre. It's got just the right equipment to handle the entire tour. Like a nifty 140-cu.-in. 4-cylinder engine. And an available 5-speed.

This one can go the long route, too. Up to 7,500 miles between scheduled oil changes. And up to 22,500 miles between scheduled spark plug changes. To help save you money on maintenance.

A little Pontiac that goes a long way with plenty of style. That's Astre.

Firebird's standard interior.

Formula Firebird. A truly exciting sport.

With one brilliant stroke, Pontiac combined plenty of style, comfort and performance in the '76 Formula Firebird. The result is truly impressive. One look at the dramatic Formula Appearance Package you can order will tell you that.

But make the tour. And discover a bucket seat interior as comfortable as a 5-stroke lead. And top-notch equipment for a championship performance.

1976 Formula Firebird. It's the next best thing to a hole-in-one.

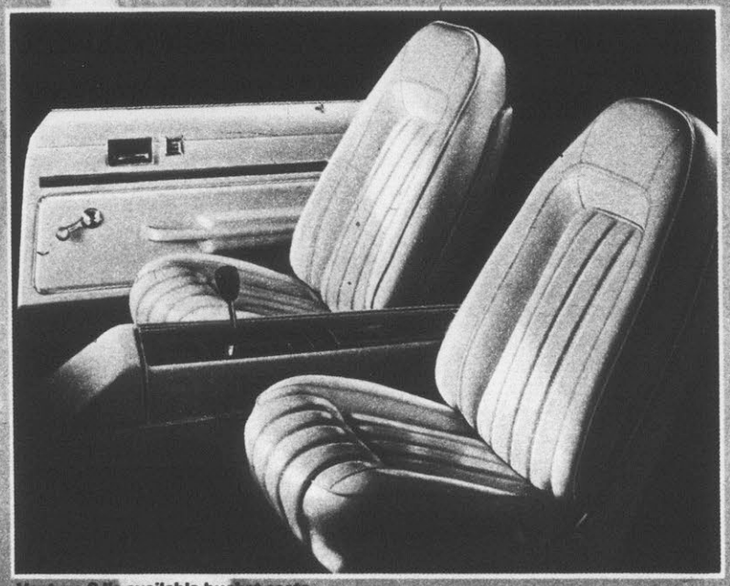
Ventura SJ's standard instrument panel.



Ventura SJ's available bucket seats.

Anyone for comfort, style and performance? You don't have to hit the international circuit to find all three in a great 4-door sedan. Pontiac's compact Ventura SJ offers it all.

Its plush interior is reminiscent of those found in more expensive imported sedans. With cloth or Morrokide upholstery. Cut-pile carpeting. A custom cushion steering wheel. Even map pockets on the doors!

Ventura SJ's scored some points in engineering, too. With a High Energy Electronic Ignition. A practical maintenance schedule that allows Ventura SJ to go up to 7,500 miles between scheduled oil changes. And up to 22,500 miles between scheduled spark plug changes. To help you with your operating expenses.

And a tough 250-cu.-in. Six. Or any of three available V-8's. Including the small 260 V-8.

Bonneville Brougham's handsome interior.

Bonneville Brougham. A smooth performer that takes long runs in stride.

Impressive. Even for an all-star like the '76 Bonneville Brougham. It's Pontiac's new luxury leader. A pro all the way.

Pontiacs just don't come any plusher than this one. Plush enough to almost make you forget where you're going.

But don't worry. Bonneville Brougham's 400 V-8 and Radial Tuned Suspension will get you there on time—smoothly, quietly, in style. And you can't ask for much more than that. Even from a pro like Pontiac.

Grand Safari's standard interior.

Grand Safari. One of the league's classiest workhorses.

If plenty of running room is part of your game plan, take a page out of Pontiac's '76 playbook. Go with a winner. The '76 Grand Safari.

It's simply one of the plushest wagons Pontiac's ever built. And one of the smoothest riding. Thanks to Pontiac's Radial Tuned Suspension.

So load a lot of passengers. Or open the Glide-away tailgate and load up to 105-cu.-ft. of cargo. Turn the key. And run to daylight in a '76 Grand Safari.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR JOHNNY RODRIGUEZ, country singer

I've heard you have a jail record. Is this true?—M.S., Los Angeles, Calif.

● More or less. About five years ago at a party, a friend said, "Why don't we get some barbecue?" So we went to a nearby ranch, stole three goats and barbecued them. Then a Texas Ranger came by and caught us. I took the rap by saying I'd gotten the goats by myself. I went to court and was given three years probation for goat-rustling. But good came out of it: The ranger heard me singing in my cell shortly after my arrest. He was impressed and arranged a meeting with someone in the business, and, to cut a long story short, that's how my career began.

FOR MICHAEL LEARNED, star of "The Waltons"

I've never seen you play a role in which you revealed your body. Why?—Dora Rinker, Kokomo, Ind.

● I don't approve of nudity unless there's a good reason. As for my stripping, unless it were a back shot, I'd be shy. Also, it would embarrass my family. Nudity is okay—for someone else (perhaps if I were built like Brigitte Bardot I'd feel differently). The truth is, I don't fancy standing naked in front of a few people on a studio set that will be watched by millions on the screen.

FOR MARLO THOMAS

Since females outnumber males, do you think in the near future women will take over American leadership?—G. Hoffman, Waterbury, Conn.

● For many years women have outnumbered men without taking over. The important thing about women taking their rightful place in the world is that they finally know they have the brainpower and equipment to do so—and they can do so on an equal basis with men.

FOR RODNEY DANGERFIELD

What was the worst slight you ever had?—E.P., Lorain, Ohio

● The time my friends called off their party because they heard I was in town.

FOR CARLTON FISK of the Boston Red Sox

How did you get the nickname "Pudge," and does it bother you?—Kenneth House, Franklin, Mass.

● I got the name because I was chubby as a kid. Even after I lost my chubbiness the nickname stayed with me during high school, college and into professional baseball. I prefer to be known by that nickname.

FOR JIMMY COCO, star of "The Wild Party"

You were in the play, "Last of the Red Hot Lovers," but were overlooked for the movie version. Did that make you bitter?—S.G.S., Huntington, W. Va.

● Not doing film versions of stage plays is almost the norm (Julie Andrews didn't do "My Fair Lady," Ethel Merman missed out on "Gypsy," and Carol Channing was ignored for "Hello Dolly.") But I was miserable about the failure of my TV show "Calucci's Department." I loved that show. The network should have moved it to another time slot so it wouldn't have had to compete with "Sanford and Son."

FOR SENATOR BARRY GOLDWATER (R-Ariz.)

There has been some talk that conservative Republicans want Ronald Reagan to forget the Presidency in 1976 and go after the Vice-Presidency. Do you think he could get it?—Robert Moore, Austin, Tex.

● No. When you select a candidate for Vice President, you select someone young enough to be a strong candidate for the Presidency next time around. In 1980 Mr. Reagan would be too old to be a strong Presidential candidate.

FOR ERMA BOMBECK, author-columnist

Don't you ever run out of funny things to say?—Frank Sharp, Pottstown, Pa.

● I run out of funny things to say three times a week, but I tell myself, "If Pauline Frederick can keep laughing, so can I."

FOR JOHNNY WEISSMULLER

● Never, in all the 20 years I was leaping off elephants and swinging on vines. I thought I was accident-proof until a recent embarrassing accident in Las Vegas. I sat down on a rickety chair that collapsed. I collapsed, too, with a broken hip, and wound up in the hospital.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

I heard that when Peter Fonda was asked to be a judge at last year's Miss Universe pageant, he declined because he didn't own a tuxedo. What's the real reason?—Henrietta O'Brien, Putney, Ga.

● We'll let Cindy Adams, who helps run the Miss Universe contests, answer that one: "When I approached Peter about being on the panel, he said, 'I haven't got a tux. In fact, I don't even own a tie.' So I teased, 'If you don't own a tie, then you don't own an invitation.' I told him I'd ask him again this year. I did, but couldn't reach him because he was traveling. I really wanted him to join us in San Salvador, and was prepared to paint a black satin stripe down his leg if he was still tuxedo-less! Had he come, he'd have been the healthiest one around. Peter Lawford got hit by a car and could scarcely drag himself out of bed; Ernest Borgnine broke his toe; Lee Strasberg had a fever of 103, and Sarah Vaughan succumbed to 'tourists' disease.'"

(Prentice-Hall, $6.95)

The Greatest Supersalesmen I've Ever Known or Heard Of

Art Linkletter: A good salesman "always takes 'no' for a starter."

BILLY ROSE

I first met Billy Rose in 1936 when I was an ambitious 23-year-old and he was riding the rainbow. I was directing radio operations for the Texas Centennial Exposition in Dallas for a modest stipend. He was being paid $1000 a day to help Fort Worth stage its own rival Frontier Centennial. He decided to get some technical advice in setting up a public-address system and sent for me.

Wide World

At our first meeting, I began learning a fundamental lesson in showmanship (and salesmanship), although it didn't sink in for a while.

The cocky little showman disagreed with practically every suggestion I made about the public-address system. I soon concluded that he didn't really want any advice from me. It shook my confidence until I realized, on thinking it over, that we were both right. My experience with sound systems had been in places where pleasant background music and unobtrusive announcements were best. But Billy was staging outdoor shows that had to be big, brassy and "circusy" to succeed. "I don't let 'em think!" Billy insisted. "I give 'em excitement."

"When 'People Are Funny' succeeded, Billy Rose began crowing whenever he saw me, 'Now you're catching on, Art. Now you're catching on.' "

His flashy extravaganzas in Fort Worth far outdrew the tasteful historical pageants in Dallas. He put up huge signs, "Be Educated in Dallas—Have Fun in Fort Worth." If you were given that choice, which road would you take? Which would any human being take in his spare time?

Billy taught me that people want to be excited. They want fun. He rubbed that in. I remembered this lesson when I began staging "People Are Funny." Many gags on that show were extravagant slapstick that I didn't personally care for: pies in the face, elephants, banana peels. But I used them because Billy had taught me that people enjoy such stunts. As the show succeeded, Billy began crowing whenever he saw me, "Now you're getting the idea, Art. Now you're catching on."

ARTHUR GODFREY

Arthur Godfrey has been the very opposite of a high-pressure seller, so much so that he's almost caused heart attacks among makers of some products he was supposed to be plugging.

This red-headed ex-sailor has been my "opposite number" during my 40 years in broadcasting. When I was learning the tricks of the microphone trade in San Diego, he was the early-morning broadcaster for a station in Washington, D.C. Years later we were running mates for Pillsbury, teaming up to broadcast its first Bakeoff from the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria. Arthur and I have traded quips on each other's programs and have met at many world premieres, state fairs and banquets. I like him. I admire his unique persuasive ability. His style is completely different from mine, but the results are much the same: We convince the average person we are telling the truth.

Godfrey's trademark has been his folksy, friendly, easygoing way of talking. He refuses to get excited about what he's describing. He is amused and unflustered, with a calm air of authority underneath it all. Unhurried, colloquial, even ungrammatical at times, he gives listeners the feeling that here is an unpretentious neighbor dropping in to exchange gossip and pass along a few tips. Listening to a typical Godfrey show is like eavesdropping on a party line.

Often he seems to be kidding his sponsors. The chuckle in his voice lets you know he doesn't take himself or his wares too seriously. There's none of the listen-damn-you manner so common on the air. Yet his sincerity and knowledgeableness keep you listening.

He started all this in his first wake-up show in Washington, tweaking the pompous claims that were handed him to read. "Marvelous fur coat for $115," he would read, then snort in disgust. "Imagine anyone dumb enough to believe it's mink for that kind of dough. It's probably dyed rabbit."

While the sponsor and station bigwigs were picking themselves off the floor, Arthur continued, "But where in the world are you gonna get better dyed rabbit than at Hamilton's Fur Store? Those coats would probably fool a real mink for a while. And of course it's gotta be a bargain for only $115."

Before they could get to the phone to fire him, the bosses found that customers were flocking to buy the furs. His kind of selling riveted listeners' attention because it was so different. He had made fun of the commercial as an obvious exaggeration. This convinced his audience that he was honest and independent. Then he followed with a frank, believable analysis of how good the offer really was.

"Godfrey's trademark has been his folksy, friendly, easygoing way of talking. He refuses to get excited about what he's describing."

It's a clever selling strategy. In later years, with a coast-to-coast following and an astronomical income, Arthur Godfrey proved that it works for many kinds of products.

HENRY J. KAISER

Henry Kaiser was a miraculous salesman as well as a master builder. I watched him at close range during World War II, beginning when he hired me as a broadcaster to talk women into taking hard-hat riveting jobs at his five vast shipyards in Richmond, California. Later we were personal friends. I learned a lot about salesmanship from him.

On one of his first trips to Washington in 1939, he went in search of a $9-million government loan to build a magnesium plant. The likeliest source was the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, a vast labyrinth ruled by a granite-faced Texas banker, Jesse H. Jones. Kaiser wrangled an interview with the top man himself, who coldly asked Kaiser what experience he'd had with magnesium production. Kaiser, an honest salesman who never tried to fool people, answered, "None."

"Then you won't get a dime from the RFC," Jones said.

Kaiser always took "no" for a starter—that is, as the normal response. He kept right on talking. Finally, to get rid of him, Jones said he would think it over. Kaiser pressed, "When can we talk again?"

"Call me at my office tonight about nine," Jones said. When Kaiser phoned, Jones was gone. He called Jones's room at the Shoreham Hotel. No answer.

Early next morning Kaiser phoned again. Mr. Jones was sleeping and could not be disturbed. Kaiser phoned every 20 minutes until Jones came on the phone. "I'll see you in the lobby in half an hour," Jones said. But when he came out of the elevator he strode past Kaiser without a flicker of recognition.

Henry Kaiser believed in shock—in capturing people's attention by doing something surprising. So undeterred.

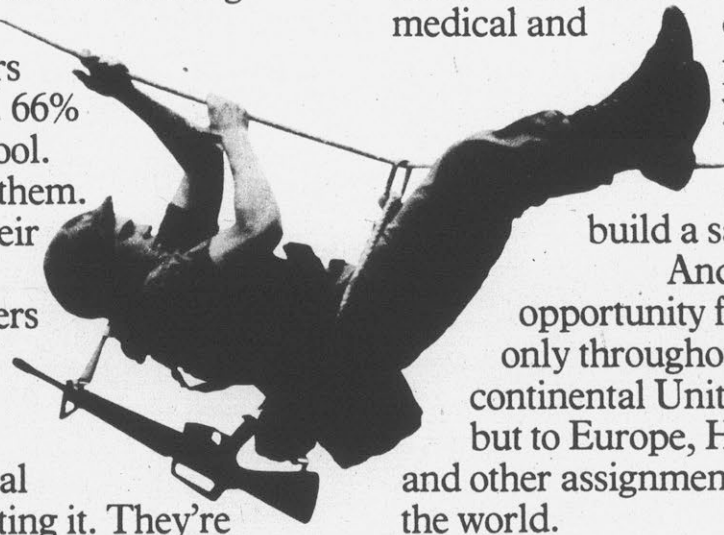
400,000 volunteers in two years. But the big news is the kind of people coming in.

Today's Army is getting a unique view of today's young people.

In the last two years without the draft, over 400,000 young Americans have chosen to serve in the Army. As a result, the Army today stands at full authorized strength and is, in fact, ahead of schedule for fielding 16 ready divisions.

Not only are the numbers impressive, but so are the people. 66% of them have completed high school. 14,000 have some college behind them. And they'll be able to continue their educations while in the Army.



According to commanders in the field, today's young volunteers are making terrific soldiers. They're looking for personal challenge, and getting it. They're at an age where they want to test themselves, and they're doing it. In return for responsibility, opportunity and maturity, they're giving 100% to the job of soldiering.

It's a good situation, and getting better. And perhaps not so surprising when you consider what today's Army has to offer:

We start a young soldier at $344.10 a month, with a raise to $383.40 in just four months.

For those who qualify, there are over 200 specific job-training courses to choose from. Most of these courses develop skills that can be used in civilian life.

The opportunities to continue a formal education are varied and extensive. We have soldiers who go on to complete high school. Soldiers who start and finish college. And some who even acquire advanced degrees.

Today, the Army's educational opportunities have been expanded with the introduction of "Project Ahead"—a program that involves over 1200 colleges and universities and enables a young person to enlist in the Army and start college at the same time. And all with the Army paying up to 75% of the tuition costs.

In addition to salary, there are the traditional benefits of food, clothing, housing, medical and dental care, and 30 days' paid vacation each year. All of which allow the more enterprising to build a savings account.

And there is the opportunity for travel. Not only throughout the continental United States, but to Europe, Hawaii, Korea and other assignments around the world.

The Army offer reads well, but it doesn't come easy. It takes intelligence, courage, discipline, teamwork, pride in self and love of country. It says a lot for America that, in just two years, 400,000 young people have volunteered to serve in its Army.

Hollywood's Most Famous Designer:

By Edith Head
In conversation with Helen Dorsey

Edith Head

Do-it-yourself decorating has never been easier, less expensive or more fun!

I'm married to an architect and decorator so I've kind of grown up living this whole do-it-yourself thing—where you get a look that you like without spending too much. I've learned that a successful room represents the individual personality of the person who decorates it. Today this is much easier to achieve because—just as in fashion—we're no longer bound by convention.

My favorite economical way to create a major new effect is to use fabric. You can take the same room and make it look five different ways just by your fabric selection.

Let's take a specific room, the bedroom. You want it to be warm and cozy, so you choose a fabric in a predominating color—maybe a blue and white—and apply it to one large wall. Or you can select a self-adhesive-backed wallpaper with a fabric-like texture. Paint the other walls either blue or white.

If you can't afford carpeting, get small washable rugs or mill ends. Of course, if you can hand-braid rugs, that's even better. Or you can buy inexpensive copies of old rag rugs in most department stores.

Then you must do pillows! White pillows, print, checked, blue-and-white gingham, solid blue or blue-and-white striped. In other words, you don't have to use the same patterns throughout. This gives you the eclectic look.

You can accomplish miracles with pictures! Here you can carry through the same color scheme using white frames, buying them at secondhand shops or dime stores. One of the most important accents in this whole look is mirrors—to reflect the room's color and theme and to achieve a more intimate, personalized atmosphere. You might place large white-framed mirrors over dressers or a chest of drawers.

For a comfortable, old-fashioned touch, you can add a wicker rocker, sprayed with white paint. Make a fabric-covered pad for a headrest and fasten it on. Remember leftover material can be used to make floor-length coverings for a table. This gives a touch of elegance to a bedroom. Also you can cover the headboard in a fabric that complements your color scheme. Above all, your bedroom should reflect your personality!

I must add a word about decorating bathrooms. Now this sounds silly, but I have absolutely covered our bathroom walls with pictures. It looks like an art gallery! I used old pictures—photographs of people I've worked with and pictures of people I don't even know—anything that amuses me. You have no idea how amusing it is to go into the bathroom and see all those faces looking at you!

If you ask me, decorating is very similar to designing a woman's dress. The overall effect must reflect your personality and be pleasing to the eye!

MUST MAKE YOUR BODY SUPPLE AS A TEENAGER IN DAYS OR PAY NOTHING!

Glamorous European beauties have cherished this astounding beauty secret for years. But, at last, we have discovered their secret and share it with you. Our "Loofah Pad" contains thousands of tiny "fingers" that work with our unique beautifying program that banishes beauty-robbing Cellulite in just minutes a day.

Only Minutes A Day

In a matter of days you'll have a younger, more glamorous looking body without strenuous dieting, rigorous exercise or nerve-shattering pills. And, you achieve this miracle in the privacy of your own home, for a tiny fraction of what it would cost to attend a European beauty salon.

Everything You Need In One Kit

When you mail the coupon, we will send you everything you need to wage your war on

CELLULITE: Miracle Loofah Pad, complete beauty program, instructions showing you precisely the proper way to use it.

Sensual European Ladies Swear By It

They say the program turns your own bath into a full-fledged European Health Spa. International magazines say the plan effectively attacks problem areas, as it creates a sensually smooth skin. Other authorities say nothing can banish ugly Cellulite bumps except this treatment. Diets alone can't do it. Exercise can't do it. Even surgery can't do it!

So send the coupon now. You have nothing to lose but your embarrassing bumps. The complete Cellulite kit will be rushed to you by return mail. Use it for 10 days. You must be positively delighted with the results, or return the proof of purchase slip for a full refund — no questions asked. Remember, this program is not available in stores anywhere.

The Fascinating Story of LOOFAH

About 500 years ago, a Korean king, Sochong the Great, ordered his men to find a sponge strong enough to cleanse his body but gentle enough not to scratch his skin. It did not take very long for his men to find SUSEMI (Korean name for loofah).

He finally ordered loofah to become the royal bath sponge. The Japanese and Europeans later adopted it.

Many doctors recommend loofah for its ability to stimulate the skin while the juice of loofah soothes the body.

READ WHAT WORLD RENOWNED AUTHORITIES SAY ABOUT CELLULITE:

Famous Health Magazine
"During my residence in Paris, I was intrigued by . . . loofah, which, except in Europe, was not yet so much in vogue. The accompanying tag declared it excellent for cellulite, or peau d'orange — skin of an orange."
"I asked the pharmacist for an explanation of peau d'orange. He described the condition and the loofah, he said, was part of the massaging action needed to help break down and dissolve the fat accumulations."

A Best Selling Book On Cellulite
"Surface friction brings nourishments to the skin. Wet or dry, the friction rub is equally efective."
"Aside from helping to break down cellulite bulges, the dry friction rub leaves the skin so smooth that practically every Frenchwoman includes it as part of her daily beauty routine."

Banish Those Cellulite Bumps Forever,
by Catherine Russek
"The loofah, a Swedish sponge or mitt, is an instrument of massage. This will smooth your skin, flaking off the dray outer layer and leaving you smooth as the proverbial baby."

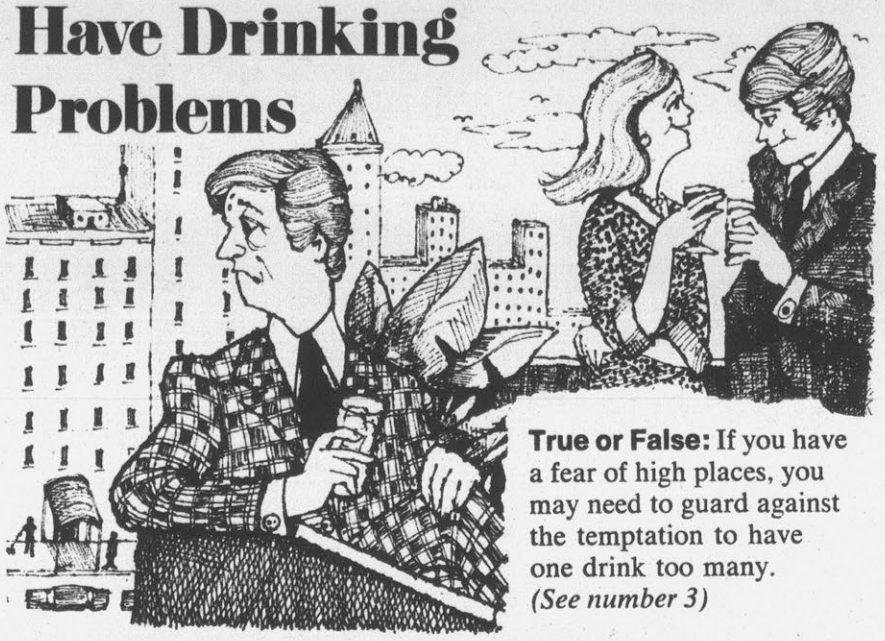
Strange Reasons Why People Have Drinking Problems



True or False: If you have a fear of high places, you may need to guard against the temptation to have one drink too many. (See number 3)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Nobody knows why even a small amount of alcohol gives some people a hangover, while others are comparatively immune to side effects.

2. The hand you use to lift your glass provides a clue to whether you may be likely to develop a tendency to imbibe more than you should at times.

3. If you have a fear of high places, you may need to guard against the temptation to have one drink too many.

4. Alcohol makes things seem better than they are.

5. Alcohol loosens the tongue.

6. Psychologists have never been able to pinpoint the reasons why some people can enjoy an occasional drink without being tempted to overindulge, while others are inclined to drink until they become drunk.

ANSWERS

1. False. A study called "Hangovers and Attitudes Toward Drinking" has shown that subjects "who had negative attitudes toward alcohol (considered it harmful and detrimental) experienced more frequent and severe hangovers, regardless of the amounts they drank, than those who had favorable attitudes toward drinking (considered it to be a pleasant and relaxing pastime when done in moderation)." Other investigations have shown similar findings.

2. True—according to the findings of a university study which shows "a high incidence of left-handedness" among persons who find it easier to start drinking than to stop. It's interesting to note in this connection that a University of Kansas study has shown a number of marked differences in personality characteristics between left- and right-handed persons.

3. True—as evidenced by the studies of a team of Veterans Administration psychologists, which showed that the fear of heights is much more prevalent among people who find it difficult to stop after one or two drinks. As the investigators note, further research will be needed to find out the reasons for this curious phenomenon.

4. True. One of the commonest reactions to alcohol is euphoria—a heightened sense of well-being that makes everything seem better than it is, at least until the effect wears off. While the euphoric state lasts, as one investigator observes, "Jokes seem to be funnier, companions more congenial and risks less hazardous."

5. True—and though this may have the effect of making some people more interesting, it also can result in many a person's undoing. ("How could I have said all those things? How can I face those people again?") On the credit side, university investigators have determined that "moderate amounts of alcohol, by loosening the tongue, facilitate the pronunciation of foreign languages." But it's also pointed out that too much alcohol impairs learning, producing slurred speech and making it difficult for the person to enunciate words in his own language correctly!

6. False. Research of alcohol-behavior conducted at the University of Michigan shows that "drunkenness is associated with a variety of indicators of poor adjustment, such as marital unhappiness, low sense of competence in one's work, a feeling that one doesn't have control over his own actions and lack of trust in others." These findings suggest that the man who has problems with liquor has problems with his life.

Smart Cooking To Beat the Clock

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen adapts two traditional Chinese recipes. "I find that cooking like the Chinese do can save time," says Marilyn. "Make sure you have all your ingredients assembled and ready to go before you begin and the step-by-step cooking will be easy."

Meal-in-a-Dish, and in a Jiffy, Chinese-Style

STIR-FRY NOODLES AND BEEF

6 tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup soy sauce
½ cup sherry or chicken broth
1 can (13 ozs.) chicken broth
1 pkg. (12 ozs.) wide egg noodles
Salt
4 qts. boiling water
6 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 lb. broccoli, cut into 1-inch pieces, or 2 pkgs. (10-oz. size) frozen broccoli spears, cut into 1-inch pieces
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon garlic salt
4 drops hot pepper sauce
1 can (15 ozs.) bean sprouts, drained
1 can (16 ozs.) water chestnuts, drained and sliced
1 can (4 ozs.) pimientos, drained and sliced
¼ cup slivered boiled ham, optional

1. Cut flank steak into 1-inch wide strips. Cut each strip crosswise into ½-inch slices. In bowl, toss meat, cornstarch, soy sauce, sherry and ½ cup chicken broth; set aside.

2. Gradually add noodles and 2 tablespoons salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, about 8 minutes or until tender. Drain in colander.

3. Meanwhile, in 5-qt. Dutch oven over high heat, heat 3 tablespoons vegetable oil. Add broccoli, and cook, stirring quickly and constantly (stir-fry) until broccoli is crisp-cooked, about 2 minutes.

Walter Storck

Chinese meal-in-a-dish makes a unique, fast family dinner.

4. Add all remaining chicken broth, sugar, garlic salt and hot pepper sauce. Heat to boiling, reduce heat and simmer 3 minutes.

5. Stir in bean sprouts, water chestnuts, pimientos and ham. Cook until heated through, about 1 minute. Remove from pan; set aside and keep warm.

6. In same Dutch oven, over high heat, heat remaining 3 tablespoons vegetable oil. Add meat mixture and stir-fry until meat is cooked, about 2-3 minutes. Add bean sprout mixture and noodles. Reduce heat to medium; cover and cook 2 minutes. Toss until well-mixed. Serve immediately.

Makes 6-8 servings

QUICK SHRIMP TOAST

1 can (6 ozs.) medium shrimp, drained
1 egg
Dash garlic salt
2 teaspoons sherry
2 teaspoons sesame seeds, optional
4 thin slices white bread, crusts removed Vegetable oil for frying

1. Mash shrimp with fork on sheet of waxed paper.

2. Beat egg lightly with fork in small bowl. Add shrimp, garlic salt, sherry and sesame seeds; blend well.

3. Spread shrimp mixture smoothly and evenly on bread slices.

4. Pour about ½ inch vegetable oil into skillet. Heat until just hot but not smoking.

5. Add bread with shrimp side up. Fry until bottom is golden brown. Turn and fry quickly, about 15-20 seconds, on opposite side. Drain on paper towels. Cut into triangles, serve immediately.

Makes 8 triangles

WHAT'S SMART?

Stir-frying keeps the food moving constantly so that all of it cooks quickly, evenly. There is a nutritional advantage here: nutrients are better retained because the food is crisp-cooked and doesn't lose vitamins and minerals in a lot of water. Budget tip: If you don't want to use flank steak, use thinly sliced, boneless chuck steak. It may be cheaper in your market.

People and You

The "I Don't Want to Discuss It" Squabble

One of the commonest kinds of husband-wife battles is the "You Can't Get Me to Fight" situation. Psychologists Gerald Mozdzierz and Thomas Lottman explain that the husband or wife who takes the I-Refuse-to-Argue-About-It attitude often adds to rather than stops the battle. Ignoring the spouse's anger by hiding behind a newspaper, leaving the room or simply refusing to reply leaves the other person with the infuriating feeling of being ignored. Few things, say the psychologists, are as emotionally devastating as being ignored by someone important to you. The result is the "ignored" person is driven to fighting harder, dragging out worse and worse insults and threats in an attempt to make the mate respond. The I-Refuse-to-Argue people may feel they're the winners of these sessions because they "haven't lowered themselves" by discussing the matter. But frequent replays of these frustrating bouts can completely undermine marriage communication. One of the best "cures," say the psychologists, is for you to decide if you are involved in this kind of routine. If you are, try to recognize the pattern next time, and try to stop it.

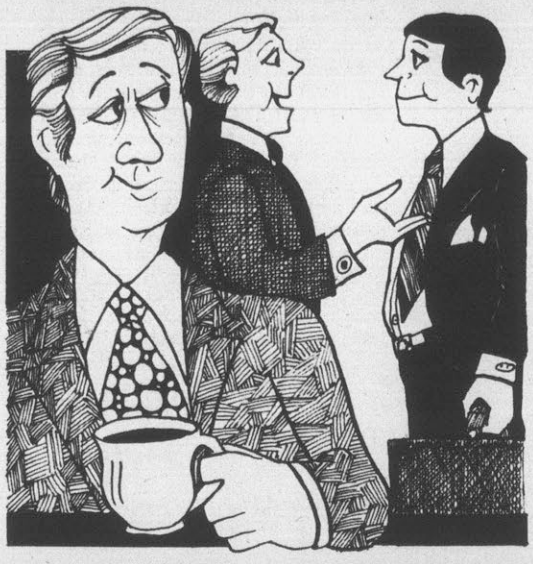
Tips on How to Get That Job– Even in a Sluggish Year



"Most people get jobs through chance meetings, an overheard conversation, a recommendation from a friend of a friend. Your objective: to increase the chance those quirks will happen."

By Virginia B. Warren

Why do some people get jobs when times are tough while others, just as qualified, don't? Experts say the job-getters not only work harder at job-hunting, they also use smart, proven techniques. For example:

The Information Interview. Here's how it works: First, zero in on a field that really interests you. It may not even be what you've been trained for, or what you've done in the past, but it must be what you enjoy. Read up on that field and write down questions that occur to you, things you want to know more about. Now make an appointment to see the head of a company in your chosen field. Tell him you're making a survey, collecting information for a paper or article you are writing—whatever. Do not say you are looking for a job. The word "job" should never come up during the interview, unless he mentions it.

In most cases the interviewee will be flattered that you came to him as an authority. Chances are he'll talk on and on, because he's talking about his favorite subject. He'll think you're someone special because you're interested in his favorite subject. He may say: "We could sure use somebody like you around here." Or: "If you want a job, I know a guy who's always looking for good help in his shop."

The Reference-Referral Technique. Forty Plus, a non-profit cooperative designed to help executives and professionals over 40 get jobs, tells its members: "When you're turned down, always ask the employer to suggest another company that might be interested in your skills. End all Information Interviews by asking advice about someone in a similar company you might interview. In every case be sure to write a short note thanking the interviewer for his help." Many a job has been gained after an unpromising initial interview.

Buick

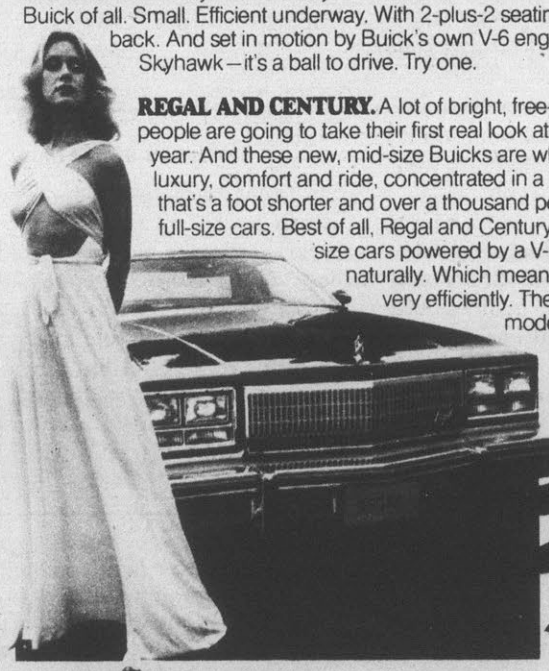
SKYHAWK. Aerodynamic. Gutsy. Nimble. The most free-spirited Buick of all. Small. Efficient underway. With 2-plus-2 seating. Hatch in back. And set in motion by Buick's own V-6 engine. Skyhawk—it's a ball to drive. Try one.



REGAL AND CENTURY. A lot of bright, free-spirited people are going to take their first real look at Buick this year. And these new, mid-size Buicks are why: Buick luxury, comfort and ride, concentrated in a package that's a foot shorter and over a thousand pounds lighter than most full-size cars. Best of all, Regal and Century are the only American mid-size cars powered by a V-6 engine. The Buick V-6, naturally. Which means they span time and distance very efficiently. There are nine Regal and Century models in all. Any one of which is a nice way to enter the House of Buick.

BUICK V-6. The only V-6 designed and built in America. The Buick V-6 shares many design efficiencies with its Buick V-8 brethren. Which means when you step on the accelerator, it responds with authority. It also is sparked by our High-Energy Ignition system which sends 35 percent more voltage to the spark-plugs than a conventional ignition system, eliminates the points and ignition condenser and helps produce impressive overall operating economy. And, because there are 25 percent fewer cylinders to feed, you get the efficiency of a six. All this makes for a very spunky, very efficient, little engine.

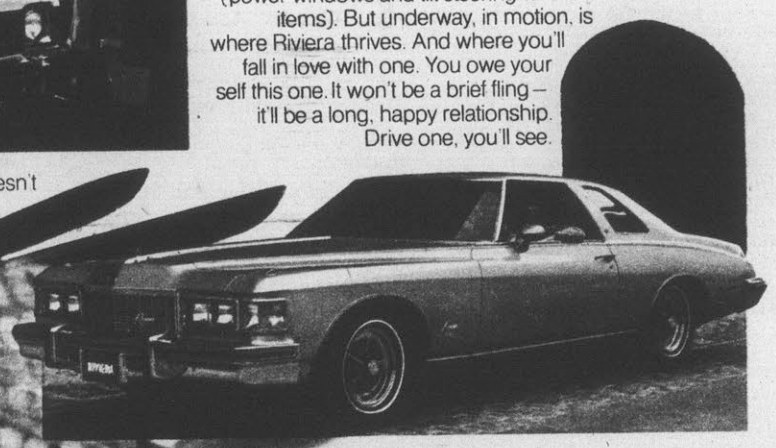
Contacts Are the Key. Eighty percent of job openings are never advertised. The more people you talk to, the better your chances of making a deal. Tell everybody that you're job-hunting—even the person sitting next to you on the train. Most people get jobs through chance meetings, an overheard conversation, a recommendation from a friend of a friend. Your objective is to try to increase the chance those quirks will happen.

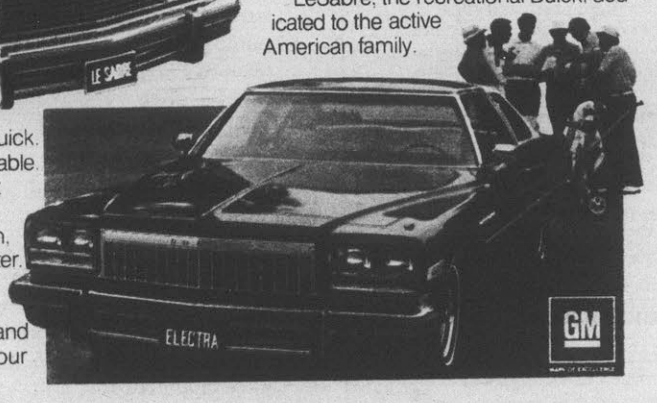
k 1976: ee Spirit.

RIVIERA. Pictured below is a car that has fostered more than one person's love of car. Obviously, its classic look does much to stir the soul. As does the opulent Buick interior (power windows and tilt steering wheel are a few standard items). But underway, in motion, is where Riviera thrives. And where you'll fall in love with one. You owe your self this one. It won't be a brief fling—it'll be a long, happy relationship. Drive one, you'll see.



SKYLARK S/R. Built to the discipline that a practical car doesn't have to be bland. Its small size and Buick V-6 engine make it practical; its cockpit makes it dashing. With high-rise, ribbed velour bucket seats (the passenger side reclines), console-mounted shift lever, etc. Skylark S/R—practicality with flair.

LeSABRE. Here is a car that occupies a unique position. It is the only six-passenger, full-size car in the world that you can order with a V-6 engine* It's just another in a series of progressive steps that Buick engineers have taken to improve the efficiency of our cars. But LeSabre is more than efficient. As long as there are Little Leagues and car pools and vacations, families will need LeSabre's six-passenger room and large trunk. And, because LeSabre is a Buick, the brood will travel in comfort, heck, in luxury. It's nice to have a car with real talent on your side. LeSabre, the recreational Buick, dedicated to the active American family.



ELECTRA. The ultimate Buick. Accommodating. Comfortable. Opulent. But decidedly not ostentatious. Buick Electra is more than transportation, it's a vehicle of real character. A source of genuine satisfaction. We think you'll find it most enjoyable. Electra and all the new Buicks are at your Buick dealer now.

Sharper Résumés Are a Must. Long, wordy job résumés are a "no-no" in today's job world. "Write a one-page letter instead of a résumé," urges the head of a job-counseling committee. "Employers want to get the message fast. And don't expect one résumé to fit all situations. It won't. Write more than one letter or résumé, rearranging the same basic contents to fit different employer's needs. Make it direct, simple, strong—like a telegram."

A man who screened job résumés says: "The purpose of my first reading of résumés was to reject 90 percent of them." If you send a résumé, here's that man's advice:

- Wait five days before sending in your résumé. The bulk of answers to the ad will arrive immediately. Yours will get there when the avalanche has slowed down. The employer will know by that time what he doesn't want.
- Boast about yourself in your résumé. Don't be meek.
- Sort through your experiences with an eye to what is valuable to an employer. Bernard Haldane, author and counselor on the subject of careers, tells of a high school student who felt he didn't have any valuable assets. After questioning, the boy said he had delivered newspapers for three years without missing a day. "This showed that he was dependable. Employers like that," said Haldane, adding, "Most people overlook their best skills when filling out application forms."

Explore Specialized Want Ads. Newpapers carry good want ads, but there are also hundreds of trade magazines that run want ads in specialized fields. These can be seen in many libraries, and some even appear on newsstands.

Tip: Psychologist Joyce Brothers has this tip for Situation Wanted ads: "Offer a reward for information that results in your getting a job. People who advertise without offering a reward get only 10 percent as big a response."

Demonstrate Your Skills. An ad copywriter got a job in 1932, when competition was keen, by analyzing a department store ad, rewriting it and sending the rewrite to the advertising manager. She turned out to be the only applicant who demonstrated her ability to do the work. A similar approach can be taken in many lines of work.

Don't Scorn Temporary Jobs. Says columnist Sylvia Porter: "Companies that are reluctant to hire workers during economic slumps usually increase their reliance on temporary services." Remember: temporary jobs sometimes lead to permanent employment.

Other Job-Hunting Tips from the Experts:

- When an application form requires you to state the salary you want, don't do it. If you're asked to state what you made in your last job, don't lie about the amount. Employers often check.
- Avoid personnel offices. Go directly to the executive offices or to the head of the department you want. If they want you, they'll hire you, then send you to personnel to fill out the necessary forms.
- Dress carefully. Look at the company's annual report for pictures of top executives. Dress the way they dress.
- Be persistent. A company may have turned you down a couple of months ago, yet may need you now. Situations change.

AMAZING IMPORTED ORCHID COLLECTION

3 Exotic Orchid Plants flown by air from Siam only $1.49 each!

Now save up to $15 on genuine, blooming-size Paphiopedilum orchid plants from Siam (Thailand). Beautiful "Paphs" are the orchids recommended best for beginners by leading magazines — easy to grow in any home. Now yours with a unique one-year money back guarantee on this exclusive first-time offer!

If you'd like to enjoy the thrill of growing fabulous orchids — and proudly displaying these exquisitely beautiful flowers in your own home — now you can do it all simply, inexpensively and without any risk.

This is made possible for the first time through an exclusive import arrangement with one of the leading orchid specialists in Siam (Thailand) where these plants orginate and grow naturally. Here are rare and lovely "Paph" orchids that could cost up to $10, $15 and more. But now you get them for the incredibly low price of only $1.49 each — just $4.47 for all 3 (plus postage and handling) — on this special offer. All plants are sent to you by first class air mail. Guaranteed to arrive in perfect condition — indeed, guaranteed unconditionally for a full year — or your money back!

"Paphs are in — Paphs are the rage!"

Imagine orchids that can actually stay in gorgeous flowering bloom for up to 2 and 3 months at a time! "Paphs" — Paphiopedilum orchid plants — are praised by orchid experts in newspapers, magazines and on television for their rare, colorful beauty and simple care. Now you can get them at tremendous savings through a special arrangement with one of the largest orchid exporters in the Far East!

The world's most exotic house plant — spectacular indoors, or outside in warm weather

These rare flowers bring exotic beauty to any room in your home — and make a stunning display outdoors on patio or porch in warm weather. Many of these fabulous "Paphs" actually stay in glorious, flowering bloom up to 2 and 3 months at a time!

You'll be dazzled by a rainbow array of exciting colors and hues — deep delicious purples, sparkling greens, warm soft shades of golden yellow — in assorted flower shapes and sizes. Even when not in bloom, "Paph" orchids are lovely conversation pieces. Indeed, some orchid fanciers actually delight in the lush foliage-leaves flecked with varying shades of jungle-green as much as in the spectacular flowers, themselves!

And if you act now, you can be among the privileged few to proudly display these unusual orchid plants in your own home! Exotic "Paph" orchids will be admired by friends and neighbors. And you and your family will enjoy their rare beauty year after year!

3 important reasons to order now

1. Real genuine orchids! "Paphs" — Paphiopedilum orchids — are authentic orchid varieties. Don't confuse them with plants that may happen to have "orchid" as part of their name. "Paphs" are described in leading orchid publications and horticultural books.
2. Easy care! "Paphs" are hardy orchid types that grow and thrive in normal, moderate situations. That's why orchid experts and leading magazines recommend them as best for beginners. "Paphs" are easy to care for in any home.
3. Remarkable savings! Call or visit any orchid specialist, florist or nursery. See if you don't find "Paphs" selling for up to $10, $15 and more. But now you can get genuine "Paph" orchid plants at a fraction of those costs!

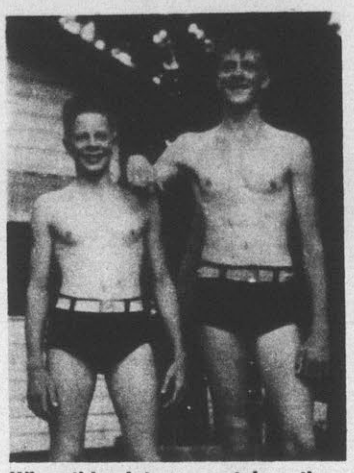
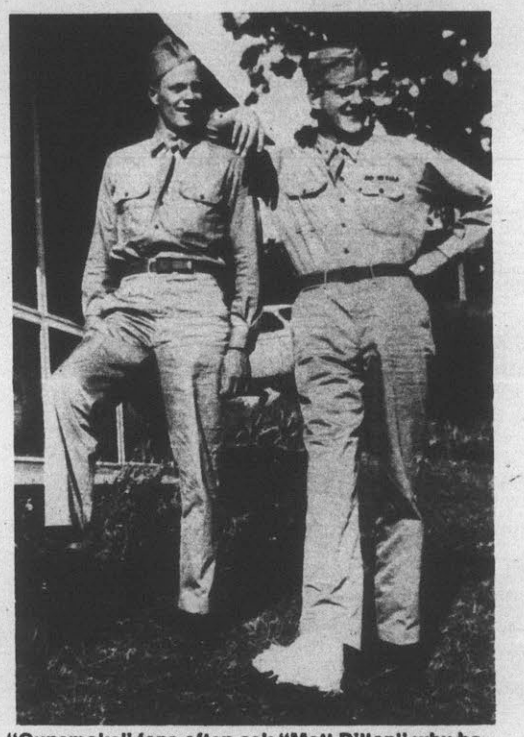
Leaves From a Family Album...



When this picture was taken, the "Mission: Impossible" hero still had a bit of growing up to do before he could fill Matt Dillon's shoes. Since then, things have equaled out a bit.

Can You Guess Who These Brothers Are?

(Don't Peek at the Captions)



"Gunsmoke" fans often ask "Matt Dillon" why he sometimes walks with a slight limp. Arness answers that he was wounded at Anzio in World War II. This photo, showing Jim with a cast, was taken shortly after he was returned to the States and was waiting to get out of the Army. Jim, born in 1923, is three years older than Peter, born in 1926. Birthplace of both: Minneapolis.

For years, one of the most frequent questions asked of our "Ask Them Yourself" Editor has been: "Is it true Peter Graves and James Arness are really brothers?"

Jim and Peter are the sons of Rolf and Ruth Aurness (note the spelling), now divorced. Their mother lives in Carmel, Calif.; their father lives with Jim on Jim's ranch.

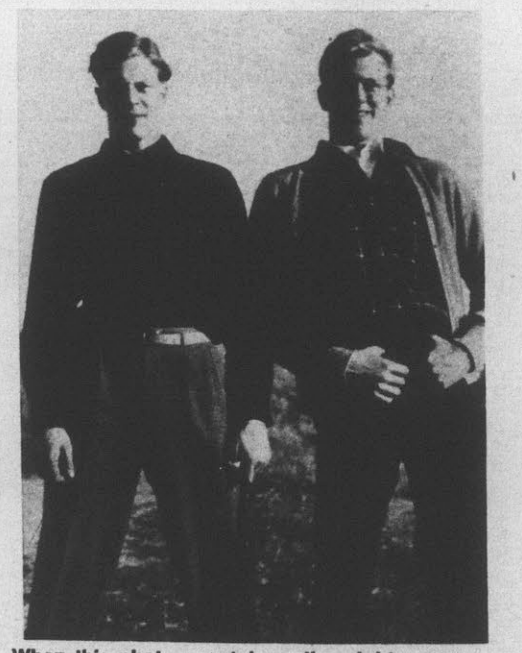
Recently, Peter and Jim returned to Ox Lake. The lake looks pretty much the same—rustic, loaded with pine and birch. But the boys, of course, have changed. Just a little.



When this photo was taken, Jim, right, was already beginning to get the famous "Matt Dillon stance." For that matter, Peter was beginning to look pretty tough, too. You can almost hear the voice saying, "Your mission—should you accept it . . ."

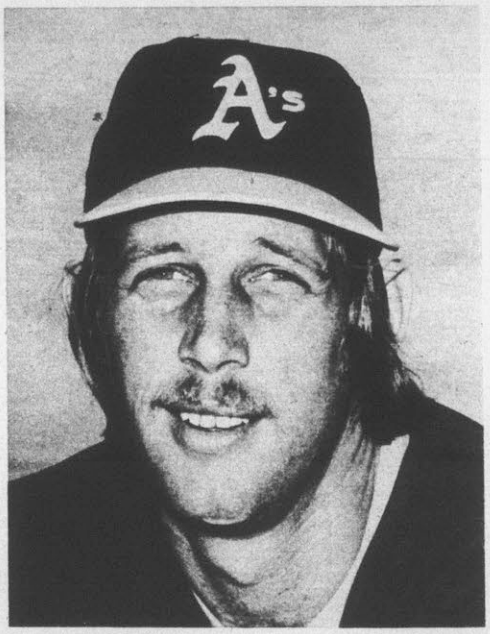
Sports Mini-Profile

JOE RUDI: His Father Disapproved of "That Baseball Foolishness"



Joe Rudi's biggest problem was convincing his Norwegian-born father that in America you can make a good living playing ball. Rudi, a leading hitter on the front-running Oakland Athletics, was an outstanding baseball and football player on his high school team in Modesto, Calif., but he could never get his father to come see him on the field. "He kept telling me to stop this foolishness and concentrate on preparing myself for a real career," Rudi recalls. "He would remind me over and over again that in Norway young men worked hard learning to be shipbuilders or fishermen or engineers and didn't waste time fooling with bats and balls." When Rudi's hand was broken by a pitched ball, his father became more convinced than ever that sports was his son's ruination. The injury also caused big-league scouts, who'd expressed interest in young Rudi, to turn away. But Don Pries, a scout for the Athletics, had faith in the boy and arranged for medical treatment that made his hand whole again. . . . Rudi signed with the A's and ended up right back in Modesto on the farm team. His solid hitting made him a town favorite and induced his father to begin attending his games. "He converted and became such a fan that now you can't keep him away from the ball park," Rudi says. Rudi married his childhood sweetheart. He was called up to the majors in 1967. He crashed the .300 batting mark in 1970, but then had a letdown when he had to spend a lot of time on Marine Reserve duty. Now he's back to hitting well again and has developed into a gifted fielder. Spectacular catches—including one in last year's All-Star game—have become his trademark. —By Barry Abramson

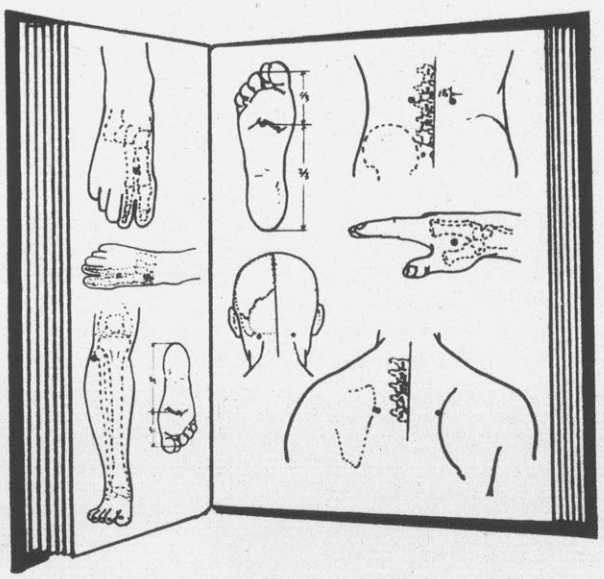
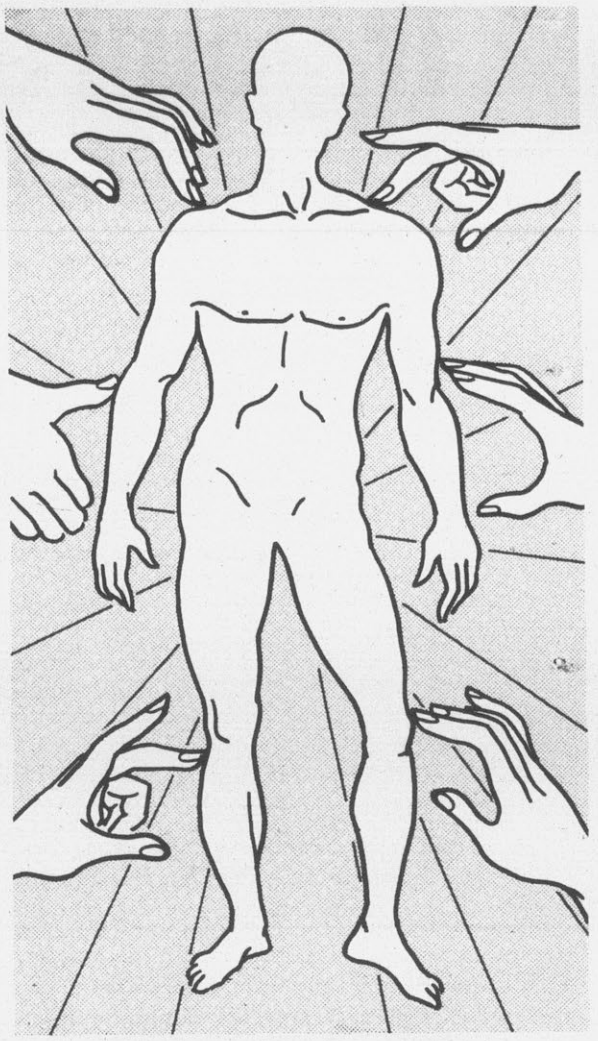
PUSH PAIN AWAY WITH YOUR FINGERS!

Fast, safe, easy self-treatment combines modern therapy with ancient SHIATSU technique. Report in top U.S. medical journal confirms therapy like this now being used to relieve pain in some Chinese hospitals.





This could be the most important health announcement you've ever read, if you suffer from any of 38 ailments. Here are just a few for which you can get specific help:

Aches and Pains • Dizziness • Stiff Neck • Fainting • Headaches • Head Colds • Indigestion • High Blood Pressure • Insomnia • Sinus Trouble • Tension

This announcement concerns one of the safest, most effective home techniques ever devised to relieve human suffering. It can be extremely fast-acting and easy to use. And it does not involve drugs. (As you know, even some drugs formerly considered safe are now being questioned by many authorities.)

Moreover, once you have discovered the secrets of this technique it costs you nothing to use. Those who have tested it thoroughly agree that it works. It is a completely natural, safe treatment you apply with your own fingers to certain points of your body. Yes, you literally push pain away with your fingers. Already many thousands of people here and in the Orient have been helped by treating these points with this technique.

A physician who is perhaps America's greatest specialist in the control of pain reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association (September 2, 1974), that even some Chinese hospitals now use this finger pressure technique instead of acupuncture to prevent and relieve pain.

Pedro Chan, one of America's leading lecturers and researchers in the field of acupuncture, has been teaching the techniques he developed to eager professionals from coast to coast. Now for the first time, he is making this exciting knowledge available to the general public in a report that could make medical history.

The Insomnia Treatment Alone Could Be Priceless To You!

Doctors, registered nurses, and professional therapists who have observed the success of this technique are learning it, both for their own use and for their patients. You can learn it in minutes. It is simple to use with very little effort on your part. The insomnia treatment alone could prove to be worth many, many times the cost of Pedro Chan's book.

From The Foreword By A Doctor

"During my recent trip to China, I witnessed treatments using finger pressure . . . The method is simple, easy, and causes no pain to the patient. Mr. Chan, an associate of mine in Chinese medicine, has used his experience, and others', to illustrate with simplicity, the essence of finger acupuncture. This appears to be the first guide book of such a technique in the English language, and should be a good guide for those beginners without previous knowledge of acupuncture."—James Y. P. Chen, M.D.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Pedro Chan is an acupuncture research associate at the White Memorial Medical Center, Los Angeles, and visiting lecturer at the School of Acupuncture, Acupuncture Research Institute, Los Angeles, and Pacific Hospital, Long Beach. Currently, he is editor for the Acupuncture News Bulletin. He comes from a traditional Chinese medical family. His father is a doctor in Macao.

How does this amazing technique accomplish its miracles? There are small electrical currents in the body—currents that medical science can measure. When we feel pain, these currents convey messages to the brain. Now with Pedro Chan's amazing technique, simply by pressing the correct spot on your body in the correct way with your finger, you can lessen pain or even "turn it off" just as if you were turning an electric switch.

This technique relieves pain. It works, yet requires no expensive equipment. No surgery. No needles. Nothing but your own fingers and the knowledge this important volume brings you. The technique is simplicity itself. You just look at the appropriate chart. Massage the correct point with your finger as directed. That's all there is to it!

Relief That Can Make You Look and Feel Years Younger

Follow Pedro Chan's simple instructions and you will feel a pleasant, soothing warmth flooding the painful area. And soon—relief! Glorious relief! Relief you never believed possible. Relief that will show in your appearance. This vitally important book has over 100 illustrations! They show you in sharp, clear detail exactly which points to press to relieve the ailment you're treating. Photographs are used on every page to make the instructions easy to follow.

You're protected by our money-back guarantee. You risk nothing. And you have the most priceless possession on earth to gain—your own and your family's well being. Why put up with needless suffering any longer when a lifetime of help could be at your very fingertips, day and night? Send the coupon right now, so this remarkable technique can bring you relief that much sooner—and so you'll have it on hand the next time you or a loved one is stricken with pain.

NOTHING TO LEARN OR MEMORIZE. JUST PRESS WITH YOUR FINGER TO PUSH PAIN AWAY!

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE:

If Pedro Chan's technique does not give you immediate relief, return the book within 30 days and you will promptly receive a full refund. So mail your coupon today.

You can't be turned down for this Insurance if you're 50 to 80!

Here is a life insurance policy that can be yours for the asking if you inquire before October 31st. No ifs, ands, or buts! Not only is no physical examination required, but the policy is actually issued to you without a single health question!

PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS* is an individual life insurance policy that guarantees to accept every man and woman between 50 and 80 who applies during the guaranteed acceptance period—regardless of any other insurance carried.

PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS is underwritten by Colonial Penn Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, specialists in serving the specific needs of America's older population. This protection is recommended to their members by two of America's highly respected national nonprofit organizations of the mature: the National Retired Teacher's Association (NRTA) and the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP).

A Protection Breakthrough for Every Older Person!

PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS is a distinctive concept of life insurance, achieved as a result of the years of effort Colonial Penn has devoted to meeting the insurance needs of mature people.

The goal was a life insurance policy we could make available to all mature people—a policy whose cost would be reasonable and whose benefits would be worthwhile. With PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS, the Colonial Penn Life Insurance Company has succeeded.

HERE'S HOW PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS CAN DO THIS FOR YOU: During the first two years that your policy is in effect, your coverage is reduced. If you should die during the first policy year, the benefit paid to your beneficiary is $100. If death occurs during the second policy year, your beneficiary receives $250. Once two years have passed, you are covered for the full face amount of the policy.

PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS enables the older person to obtain worthwhile benefits for his insurance dollar—and, at the same time, guarantees acceptance for all applicants—even those who ordinarily wouldn't qualify for life insurance.

PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS provides increasing cash values which begin after the first or second year.

As a matter of fact, after only ten years, you can stop paying premiums and still receive paid up life insurance coverage of at least one-half the original face amount of your policy.

The cost? JUST $6.95 A MONTH

No matter what your age, your sex, or the condition of your health, you pay just $6.95 a month. The amount of coverage you receive is based on your sex and age. However, once you are insured the amount of your insurance will never go down, and your payments will never go up!

Act Now—You Have Nothing to Lose!

To obtain full information on PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS in time to take advantage of this opportunity to become insured, please mail the coupon before October 31st. Between future guaranteed acceptance periods, you may be required to meet the company's underwriting requirements in order to obtain this protection.

With PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS insurance...

- Everyone between 50 and 80 can get this life insurance—no one will be refused!
- You receive a policy created for the needs of mature persons!
- There are no health questions!
- There is no physical examination!
- This policy provides increasing cash values which begin after the first or second year!
- Your insurance cannot be cancelled for any reason as long as you maintain your premium payments.
- You know that this policy has been recommended to their members by both the National Retired Teachers Association and the American Association of Retired Persons!

REMEMBER—To take advantage of this guaranteed opportunity to obtain PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS without answering any questions about your health, please mail the coupon before Friday, October 31, 1975. Full information and your guaranteed issue application will be on their way to you at once by mail.

No broker or agent will visit you and you will be under no obligation to purchase the policy.

Even if you are not old enough for this insurance, you may want the information for another member of your family or for a friend.

FREE 1975 SOCIAL SECURITY HANDBOOK

To introduce you to our PRIME LIFE 50 PLUS life insurance policy, we'll mail you "YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY HANDBOOK FOR 1975" absolutely FREE, whether you apply for the insurance or not.

This informative 32 page booklet explains the new rates, benefits, disability payments, family and widow's payments, Medicare and many other important facts you should know.

Greatest Supersalesmen

he bustled through the Shoreham's whirling doors just as Jones was stepping into a limousine. Beaming as happily as if he'd been invited, he brushed past the startled chauffeur and scrambled in beside Jones.

Faced with such huge good humor, Jones joined in Kaiser's laughter, and chuckled all the way to the RFC. As he entered his private office with Kaiser beside him, he handed his wallet and watch to his secretary. "Take these before this fellow gets them," he said. He granted Kaiser the loan.

BILL ZECKENDORF

Bill Zeckendorf's goal was nothing short of astounding: to get the Alcoa Corporation to pay $43 million for 260 acres of movie studio land in the heart of Los Angeles—land on which he had proposed to build a big complex of office buildings, apartment towers, theaters, restaurants and shops to be called Century City. Zeckendorf's dreams had outrun his resources and he was on the brink of bankruptcy.

Wide World

In mid-August 1960, he picked up the phone and called Alcoa in Pittsburgh. Alcoa's chief executive, Frank Magee, agreed to see him at 10:30. Zeckendorf arrived punctually for the most critical negotiation of his long career. Most of Alcoa's top executives were assembled. Zeckendorf had never met any of them. Magee made the introductions, sat back and said, "Well, tell us the story."

In his own office Zeckendorf was a notable showman. He would confide to his staff that "our office lends credence to our ideas." He sometimes spent as much as $200,000 on miniature buildings to help prospective backers visualize the wondrous developments he had in mind. But there was no setting, no chance for exhibits in Pittsburgh. Zeckendorf's persuasion-kit contained only a map of the site.

This turned out to be all for the best. The Alcoa men were conservatives who would have resisted a spectacular presentation. So he talked quietly about what might be done with the open land in Los Angeles.

Now came the crucial moment. He had to tell them the staggering price. But he had thought of a legitimate way to make it look more attractive.

"The price," he said, "is $43 million. But it need cost you only $18 million."

They waited skeptically.

He explained that the movie studio expected to lease back 80 acres for its own use. "That lease can be sold for $25 million," he went on. "So if you want to sell that off, your exposure is only $18 million."

After some discussion, Magee asked Zeckendorf, "When do you want an answer on all this?"

"Today."

Around the room, mouths fell open. "How can we give an answer today?" Magee asked. "This is so big, it's revolutionary!"

Zeckendorf stood up. "Well, Frank, if you won't give me an answer today, I'll have to go somewhere else. You shouldn't have asked me down unless you really meant to do business. That doesn't mean you have to buy, but I thought you wanted to give it serious consideration, which means immediate consideration."

No one spoke.

More calmly, to hide his tension, Zeckendorf suggested, "Why don't you fellows think it over? I'm going to have lunch at Westinghouse, and I can be free after lunch. I'll come back."

After a long pause, Magee said, "All right, if that's convenient."

Zeckendorf left, wondering if he had pushed too hard. After all, nobody at Alcoa had even seen the land he was asking them to buy. And there was no time to check his cost estimates, or to verify that the movie company would really sell on the terms he suggested. If Zeckendorf had permitted it, Alcoa might have studied the matter for months. But he couldn't afford to permit any postponement. He was facing bankruptcy within days.

After lunch, the same group of men awaited him silently, their faces as expressionless as before. Magee began to talk in a monotone. Zeckendorf gathered he was explaining why Alcoa would not venture into real estate.

". . . and we don't understand real estate," Magee concluded. "Nevertheless, we are going to do this."

He resumed talking in the same montone. Zeckendorf told me later, "I heard what Magee said, but I didn't grasp it for several seconds, and then I wondered if I'd heard right in the first place."

Finally Magee said, "Now, what do you want us to do?"

"Give me a deposit of two and a half million," Zeckendorf said at once. And that was how the great Century City development, which you must have seen if you've been in Los Angeles in the last decade, got started. FW

Plant Now . . . Step Back . . . and Watch Out!

Amazing Super-Growing Species Soars Into A Magnificent Tree IN JUST ONE YEAR!

And if you think that's startling — just wait 'til you see the spectacular show when it starts to flower — Actually smothers itself in such lavish masses of bouquets, its branches appear to bend from the sheer mass and weight of the magnificent blooms.

That's the kind of wondrous results reported by the U.S. Gov't. Plant Research Stations . . . Botanical Gardens . . . and University Plant Scientists on what is undoubtedly the most fantastic flowering shade tree ever introduced in America — the incredibly beautiful Paulownia . . . the only flowering shade tree in all of nature that can do all of this and more:

READ WHAT THE EXPERTS SAY ABOUT THE INCREDIBLE PAULOWNIA . . . THE FASTEST GROWING FLOWERING SHADE TREE EVER DISCOVERED!

HEIGHT: Gov't. Plant Scientists and Botanical Experts report 18 to 22 feet of growth the very first year on specimen trees.

That's more growth IN JUST ONE SINGLE SEASON than even a fully matured 15-year-old flowering dogwood, or prize star magnolia.

SPREAD: University Researchers report beautiful ornamental spread of nearly 40 feet at maturity . . . packed with thousands of magnificent flowers. Think of it. Not only does it surge skyward in the most spectacular burst of beauty you've ever seen . . . but, also arches out in a magazine-cover display of color-drenched branches.

BASE: Leading editors report: Tree of unusual merit . . . grows in almost any soil . . . and below-zero root-hardy, too. Yes, because nature has endowed this landscape-artist's "dream-tree" with super-growing strength . . . because it is virtually resistant to most every common disease . . . requires practically no care at all. You simply plant it and forget it . . . it's as simple as that.

A TOWER OF BEAUTY IN JUST ONE SINGLE YEAR!

Yes, who says you have to spend a small fortune for a flowering shade tree? — and then spend half a lifetime waiting for it to grow? It used to be that way — BUT NOT ANY LONGER. Not since we have finally tracked down the one single tree in all of nature that hoists itself high, so fast you can literally measure the difference in both height and spread from week to week . . . or take a yardstick and measure the incredible difference in feet from month to month!

GROWS IN ANY SOIL — REQUIRES NO SPECIAL CARE — SOARS INTO A MASTERPIECE OF LUSH, GREEN BEAUTY IN JUST A MATTER OF MONTHS!

Best of all, unlike most trees that demand sprays, pesticides, insecticides and constant pampering . . . the only thing you do when you plant Paulownia is water it and enjoy it. That's why leading botanical gardens . . . landscape artists . . . garden editors . . . can't stop raving about its indescribable beauty . . . its super-growing, super-flowering ability . . . its trouble-free maintenance. Is it any wonder that every leading expert has hailed Paulownia in the most glowing terms . . . recommended it again and again for home-owners who want a stunning display of both beauty and shade . . . and with practically no more work than a couple of sprinkles a season.

VITAL STATISTICS FROM LEADING EXPERTS

MATURE GROWTH SIZE — 45 to 60 feet

MATURE GROWTH SPREAD — 35 to 50 feet

ZONE OF HARDINESS — completely root-hardy from deepest south to as far north as Montreal, Canada. Flowers beautifully even after 10 below zero winter freeze.

ONE YEAR GROWTH RATE — Experts report range of up to 22 feet the first year after planting on specimen trees under optimum conditions, up to 15 to 18 feet under poorer conditions when pruned for foliage growth only.

FLOWERS — When tree is at blooming size, in just a few short years, you'll enjoy thick panicles of fragrant lavender blooms. Highly recommended by landscape artists as specimen planting for front lawn.

SOIL REQUIREMENTS — Natural strength and vigor allow it to soar full forth in even poor soil. You can plant it anywhere.

CARE — No special care whatsoever. No spraying. No dusting. No special feeding. Naturally resistant to most every disease, pest or insect.

TAKES BUT 10 MINUTES TO PLANT — REWARDS YOU WITH A LIFETIME OF BEAUTY STARTING THIS VERY YEAR!

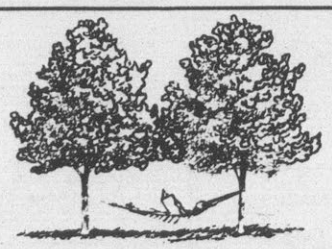
ONLY A LIMITED SUPPLY YET AVAILABLE FOR RELEASE TO THE PUBLIC — FULL SUPPLY WON'T BE READY UNTIL 1976 . . . SO ACT NOW!

Now, the price of this super-growing shade tree is not the $20 or $30 you might expect . . . and probably be glad to pay. On this special introductory offer it is a mere $3.95 . . . yes, only $3.95 for this magnificent shade tree that rewards you with such a glorious display of growth IN JUST ONE SINGLE YEAR!

However, since supply is still sorely limited . . . it will take our growers at least another year or two to propagate enough trees for full nationwide distribution. Therefore, this may be your only chance this year to plant and enjoy this wonder-tree entirely at our risk. And since now is the time to plant, you must act now!



Here's a luxury sight you don't have to wait half a lifetime growing — a matched pair of flowering showpieces, so strong and sturdy you can actually sling a hammock between them.

Never Has There Been A Faster Growing, Flowering Shade Tree Introduced To America — Royal Paulownia

Yes, plant this Fall — see it soar forth in a tower of beauty in just one year! It's the most spectacular splurge of both growth and beauty of any shade tree ever brought to this country. And it's so easy to grow even a child can do it.

And Remember: Satisfaction is guaranteed. You must be thrilled in every way with this wondrous flowering shade tree or RETURN AT ANY TIME within 90 days for a full refund of your purchase price. Use the No-Risk Coupon below.

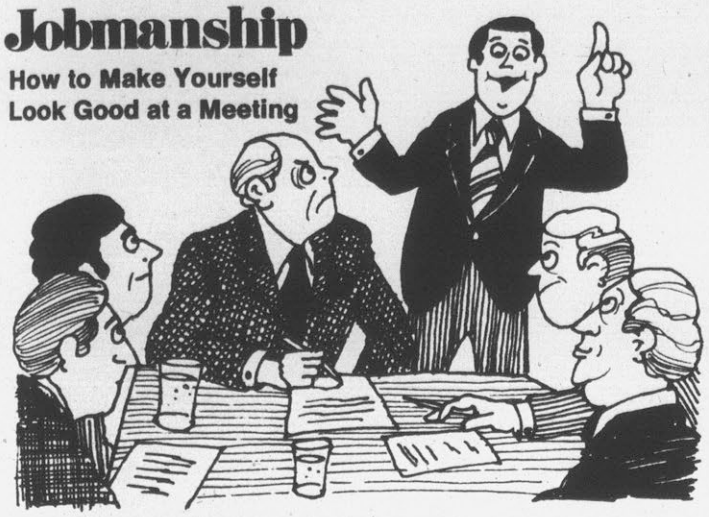
How to Make Yourself Look Good at a Meeting



There are so many ways to make yourself look bad accidentally at a meeting that you can often look good simply by avoiding the traps. Whether it be a sales, department or union meeting, meetings set the stage for you to impress others with your ability or to attract wholesale disapproval. Thinking and speaking positively is your best approach. Forget the hatchet work. Let someone else make that mistake. If you feel you must try to eliminate an idea, don't attack it. Instead support another approach. In other words, don't be against the other person's idea, be for another suggestion. Remember that other people in meetings probably feel as vulnerable as you do. So if you want to offer a better idea, try saving the previous speakers' egos by building your idea on theirs; i.e., "What's been said is good, and could we also consider . . ." In his book, "I Hate to See a Manager Cry," management consultant Martin Smith suggests you counter open attacks on you at meetings by (1) Never acting excited despite your real feelings. Emotion from you will make people think there may be something to the comments. (2) Never saying, "You're wrong." Instead, once again, concentrate on the positive. Try "I see what you mean, but there are facts you may not be aware of. Once you see the whole picture, you may change your mind." Now you've put him on the defensive. You've made it seem as though he's irresponsible, that he spoke up without checking into all the facts. If he persists, he's going to be the one to look emotional.—By S. R. Redford

The Diet Watch

Do You Really Need a "Dinner" for Dinner?

The less traditional a dieter is, the more successful he or she may be at eating less. If we're traditional, we risk eating more. Why? "Some of us," points out a New York psychologist who specializes in diet problems, "think that even on an evening when we may not be in the mood to eat a regular dinner, we nevertheless ought to—it's traditional to eat meat, vegetables, dessert: dinner food." Often, though, we'd really prefer to have something light. It's worthwhile to adjust our thinking, to break out of our idea of what a specific meal "ought" to consist of. Go untraditional—have a supper of shredded wheat with milk, topped by strawberries. Or scrambled eggs with a slice of bacon and a cup of coffee, if it suits your mood. Almost invariably these will add up to fewer calories. More than that, psychologically we get greater satisfaction from eating something we have a taste for rather than a meal we're not interested in. And that means less desire for a late snack.

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

ON THE FLY

I have discovered oft that flies
Are rarely taken by surprise.
I've swatted quickly as I could,
But my reflexes aren't too good.
The fly that seemed quite unalert
Escapes unswatted and unhurt.
It must, although too small to see,
Have had its tiny eyes on me.
It must have had each leg and wing
All ready for an upward swing.
I don't like flies, I don't require them,
And yet I grudgingly admire them.

The other day I saw a picture of a group of men sitting around a table, and each wore long hair, stretch pants, boots and fancy jackets. They were signing the Declaration of Independence. —Conrad Fiorello

One of my first-grade pupils asked me during lunchtime, "Did you know I am half German?"

"No," I said. "Is your mother German or your father?"

She thought for a minute and then answered, "I think it's my little sister."

We were visiting friends one evening, when their 5-year-old son Steven asked our 14-year-old whether he had watched "The Wizard of Oz" on television. Our son replied that he had watched the football game instead. Steven, wide-eyed, answered: "Oh, you must be a daddy!"

FRANKIE VALLI
"Kiss the public's feet . . ."

Veteran performer Frankie Valli, who had his first taste of success in 1956 when he formed The Four Seasons group, is back on top once again. He told FAMILY WEEKLY why he's so exasperated with some of today's new music stars: "Many of the new groups start off with the concept that they're sensational. But many of them are an insult to anyone's intelligence. Some actually leave the stage after three songs if they're not pleased with their reception. Without an audience where would they be? They don't realize it should be the other way around—the audience should walk out on them after three songs if they're not satisfied. Ticket buyers pay big prices to see concerts and are responsible for the huge salaries of performers. Entertainers should kiss the feet of the public."

STILT-WALKING
Biggest thing since hula-hoops

Want a quick, fun way to get healthy? Try stilt-walking, the latest craze in Europe. Not since the hula-hoop has any single gimmick gained such popularity there. But stilt-walking is more than just another fad and, because of its healthful benefits, may be here to stay. In the words of one doctor, "It's good for muscle tone and helps breathing tremendously."

History on wheels: For those of you who can't make it to Washington, D.C., or Boston to celebrate the Bicentennial, let the celebration come to you—via the American Freedom Train. This 25-car train, which will stop in 80 cities in its 17,000 mile journey, is carrying a fascinating collection of historic documents and artifacts, priceless art objects and sports and film memorabilia that has never before been displayed together. From the handwritten draft of the Articles of Confederation to the first television set (ca. 1930) to Judy Garland's dress from "The Wizard of Oz," no aspect of America's history or culture has been overlooked. For sports enthusiasts, multiple-screen monitors show replays of the great moments in sports, from Jack Dempsey's 1919 heavyweight crown victory to Jackie Robinson's famous World Series steal against the New York Yankees to Secretariat's Triple Crown victory. In Green Bay, Wis., where the train stopped last month, one resident said, "Without the Freedom Train, we wouldn't have had any link with the Bicentennial. Our heritage here is more regional than in the East because we're so physically removed from the great cities that took part in our nation's founding. That whistle-tooting train changed all that."

Crack open a Zane Grey book and ride into a vast, rugged land with no fences to limit a man's freedom—or diminish his dreams.

It's a world where broken-nosed, bullet-scarred men ride hard, hunt bravely and shoot straight—or die early.

Where the Indians still don war paint to collect scalps and the buffalo roam in thundering herds. Where the land is still up for grabs—waiting for men with courage enough to tame it.

If this is the world you would like to explore, let us send you—for only $1—three of the greatest books Zane Grey ever wrote:

The Thundering Herd.

Riders of the Purple Sage.
Probably the most popular Western ever written. In the midst of fiery action, a mysterious rider and the girl he loves gamble their lives in the winning of the West.

Wild Horse Mesa.
A Western "Moby Dick" that portrays a man's desperate search for the King of the Horses.

These are hard-cover books, smartly bound in sunset red, desert tan and cavalry blue, with tinted page tops and golden stamping, They're the first of what could be a library of Western classics you'll be proud to own.

And to introduce you to The Zane Grey Library, we'll send you all three books (regularly $13.17) for only $1.

We think you'll be impressed. And you'll want to own others in the series as they become available.

They will include: Wildfire, Fighting Caravans, The Hash Knife Outfit, Maverick Queen, Thunder Mountain, The Vanishing American, Dude Ranger, and many more.

Because we print in large quantities, and because we sell directly to the public, we can offer our subscribers beautifully bound Zane Grey books for only a fraction of what you'd expect to pay—only $4.39 each plus postage and handling.

The Zane Grey Library
Roslyn, N.Y. 11576

Please enroll me as a subscriber and send me at once my three hard-cover Zane Grey classics. I enclose no money now. After a week's examination, I will either keep my books and pay $1 (plus postage and handling) or return them.

Also reserve for me additional volumes in The Zane Grey Library series. As a subscriber, I will get advance descriptions of future volumes. For each volume I choose, I will pay $4.39 (plus postage and handling). I may return any book at the library's expense for full credit and I may cancel my reservation at any time.

Prince Valiant

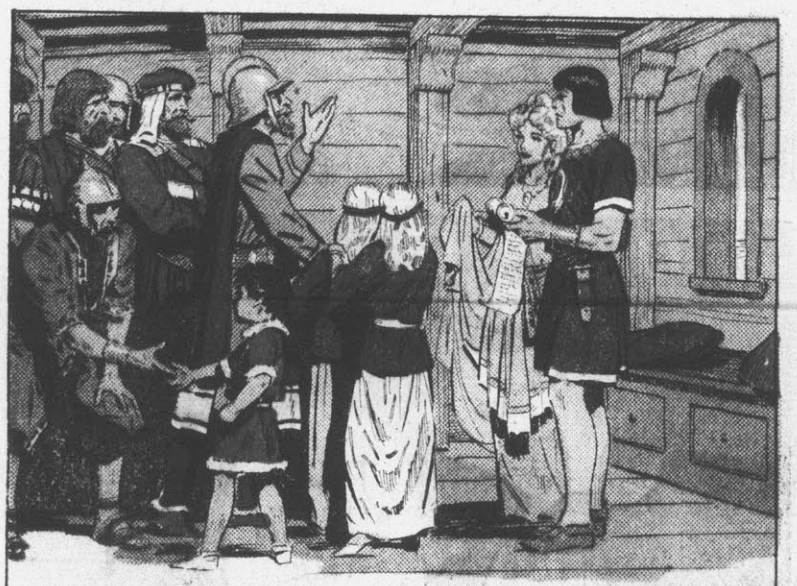
IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR

BY HAL FOSTER

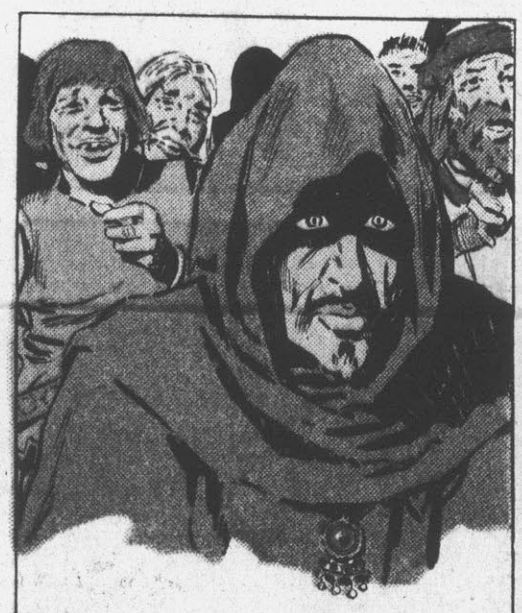
Our Story: GUNDAR HARL SAILS HIS SHIP FAR OUT ON THE SEA, AWAY FROM THE ROCKS AND SHOALS. HERE HE CAN SAIL SAFELY NIGHT AND DAY. NOW IN NEED OF SUPPLIES, HE TURNS SHOREWARD GUIDED BY THE SNOWCAPPED PYRENEES.

FROM A TOWER ON HIS PALACE THE GOVERNOR SEES THE SHIP APPROACHING FROM THIS STRANGE DIRECTION, FOR ALL OTHER VESSELS COME ALONG THE COAST.

AND FROM HIS CAVERN HIGH ON THE MOUNTAIN-SIDE, HASHIDA THE SORCERER, WATCHES AND WONDERS. DID IT COME FROM SOME STRANGE LAND BEYOND THE HORIZON?



THE GOVERNOR IS OVERJOYED TO LEARN THE VISITORS ARE THE FAMOUS WARRIOR PRINCE VALIANT AND QUEEN ALETA OF THE MISTY ISLES... THE EXCUSE HE NEEDS FOR A PUBLIC HOLIDAY... FOR LAST YEAR THE CITY HAD BEEN SACKED BY BELLA GROSSI AND HIS SAVAGE PIRATES, AND THE HARDWORKING CITIZENS NEED A HOLIDAY.



HASHIDA COMES DOWN FROM THE MOUNTAIN AND JOINS THE MERRY CROWD, INTENT ON LEARNING ANYTHING THAT HE CAN TURN TO HIS ADVANTAGE.

HE WATCHES THE GLITTERING PARADE WIND ITS WAY TO THE PALACE TO THE SOUND OF TRUMPET AND CYMBAL. THEN HE SEES ALETA, POISED AND SMILING, HER FACE RADIANT WITH HAPPINESS..... AND FOR THE FIRST TIME IN HIS DOUR LIFE HIS HEART IS TOUCHED.

DOAGIE, MY COUNTRY'S DIPLOMATIC PLANE IS DELAYED - AND THAT IS OUR ONLY WAY OUT OF HERE!

WE'LL STALL, FLAXEN!

AH-HEM!

MILTON CANIFF

DOAGIE HOGAN IS POSING AS THE GRANDSON OF RASPUTIN - AND CLAIMING TO BE THE HEAD OF THE RUSSIAN CHURCH

MEMBERS OF THE MEDIA REQUEST AN-AH-INTERVIEW WITH HIS HOLINESS!

I'D BETTER DO IT, FLAXEN! IF I COP OUT, THEY'LL REALLY DIG!

TELL THEM YES! WHEN HIS PRAYER TIME IS OVER!

NEWSPERSONS! -RASPUTIN III! HE WILL SPEAK IN ENGLISH!

YOUR HOLINESS, WHERE HAVE YOU BEEN ALL THESE YEARS?

MY FATHER ESCAPED AFTER MY GRANDFATHER WAS MURDERED! WE HID IN THESE HILLS, SUPPORTED BY FRIENDLY, RELIGIOUS PEOPLE!

BUT UNDER THE NEW REGIME, WE NEEDED SANCTUARY - AND FOUND IT HERE! HOW CAN YOU BE HEAD OF A CHURCH WHICH WAS DISSOLVED IN 1917?

RELIGIOUS GROUPS HAVE BEEN 'ABOLISHED' SINCE TIME BEGAN... ...AND HAVE RISEN FROM THE ASHES!

WHAT HAPPENED TO YOUR FATHER? WHO WAS YOUR MOTHER? ARE YOU IN LOVE WITH FLAXEN?

HEY, PONYTAIL!

WHAT ARE YOU DAY-DREAMING ABOUT?

ONE GUESS! OKAY..., WHAT'S HIS NAME?

RAY RICKS! AND HE'S CRAZY ABOUT ME! HE IS? HOW DO YOU KNOW?

WELL, HE MADE A BIG PASS AT ME IN STUDY HALL YESTERDAY!

IT WAS VERY OBVIOUS! REALLY!

AND THERE HE IS NOW! NICE!

HI, RAY! REMEMBER ME?! HMMM

GEE, I'M SORRY... HAVE WE MET BEFORE? WHAT!

I THOUGHT HE MADE A PASS AT YOU YESTERDAY! WELL, HE SAID HELLO!

HÄGAR The Horrible

by DIK BROWNE

MOM, HOW DOES THE SUN GET UP THERE IN THE SKY?

I DON'T KNOW, DEAR. ASK YOUR FATHER.

DAD, HOW DOES THE SUN GET UP THERE IN THE SKY?

THAT'S EASY, SON.

EVERY MORNING A GIANT SOCCER PLAYER KICKS IT UP THERE, AND SINCE IT'S VERY LIGHT IT FLOATS SLOWLY ACROSS THE SKY AND FINALLY FALLS ON THE OTHER SIDE AT NIGHT.

THANKS, DAD.

GLAD TO HELP YOU, SON.
