Sanity Test Hearing In Assassination Try Set

By MIKE SILVERMAN
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —

A 45-year-old mother charged with firing a shot at President Ford as he left a downtown hotel faces a hearing today to determine whether her sanity should be tested. A Marine veteran deflected the gun and the President was not hurt.

Sarah Jane Moore, 45, a one-time paid informer for the FBI with connections to various Bay Area radical groups, was seized Monday after she fired a .38-caliber revolver at Ford. It was the second attempt on Ford's life in 17 days.

Police said Mrs. Moore, a plump, graying brunette, had been picked up by officers with a .44-caliber revolver in her handbag Sunday and interrogated by the Secret Service because her name appeared on a "questionable list" of persons believed possible threats to the President. The gun was confiscated and she was released.

There was no further information on why she was released pending a court appearance on a charge of illegal possession of a weapon, a misdemeanor under California law.

California law specifies that a person cited for illegal possession of a weapon cannot be held unless police believe certain conditions exist, such as the person may pose a threat to the public or law enforcement officers, if jailing of the person has been requested by another agency, or if the citing officer feels a violation of the law will continue.

The President had been waving to thousands of cheering spectators outside the St. Francis Hotel when the shot rang out like a firecracker about 35 feet away.

Secret Service agents quickly pushed him into his bullet-proof limousine, where he crouched below window level as the motorcade raced off at top speed for the airport with sirens wailing.

Presidential adviser Donald Rumsfeld said later in Washington that Ford was not wearing a bullet proof vest. He first appeared in one during a public appearance in New Hampshire, a few days after Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme pulled a gun two feet from him in Sacramento, Calif., on Sept. 5. The gun did not fire.

U. S. Magistrate Owen Woodruff ordered Mrs. Moore to appear at the hearing today. She was arraigned Monday evening and ordered held on $500,000 bond.

Woodruff set today's hearing after U.S. Atty. James L. Browning asked Mrs. Moore be given a mental examination "in consideration of the bizarre nature of the offense and in view of the response she made to agents."

She faces a possible life sentence if convicted on the federal charge of trying to assassinate the President.

"She said that when the President came out she had a clear shot and a clear view and she was astounded she had so much time," said Patrolman William Taylor, who was present when Mrs. Moore was questioned in the hotel.

"She said she fired and realized she had aimed high," Taylor said. "She said she didn't get a chance for a second shot because she was immediately set upon. She said if she had had a .44-caliber gun she would have hit him."

Police said Oliver Sipple, a 33-year-old ex-Marine from San Francisco, struck the chrome-plated revolver just as it discharged, causing the bullet to ricochet and strike another spectator, John M. Ludwig, a 41-year-old San Francisco cab driver, was treated at a local hospital

Enter Pleas Of 'Not Guilty' To Drug Violations

Two Greenville doctors, charged about six months ago on drug-law violation charges, entered plea of "not guilty" at their arraignment in Pitt County Superior Court yesterday.

Dr. William S. Dawson was charged with eight counts of illegally dispensing drugs, while Dr. Andrew A. Best was arrested on six counts following an undercover investigation conducted by the State Bureau of Investigation and the Greenville Police Department.

The two allegedly dispensed restricted drugs to SBI agents. Trial of the two in Superior Court will come at a later date. Their arraignment yesterday came at the first non-jury team of criminal Superior Court ever held in the county.

for a superficial groin wound and released.

Dozens of police and Secret Service agents waded into the crowd and wrestled Mrs. Moore to the ground. They pulled her back across the street, handcuffed and her nose bleeding, into the hotel for questioning.

"They carried her bodily through the crowd," said Joseph K.P. Armin, a Jaycee chauffeur in the presidential motorcade. "They had to, the crowd was so hostile. The crowd was ready to lunge at her themselves." Several persons yelled "Kill the bastard!" as police led the captive away.

An unemployed divorcee with a 9-year-old son, Mrs. Moore was identified by the FBI as a "possible security informant" who furnished information to the bureau on a regular basis from June 1974 to June 1975 and on a few occasions thereafter in return for expenses.

Browning didn't elaborate on what responses of Mrs. Moore's he felt warranted psychiatric tests. But San Francisco Police Sgt. William Taylor said that after her arrest Mrs. Moore told officers "she didn't know why she shot at the President."

Police Officer Timothy J. Hettrich, 26, who wrenched

the gun from Mrs. Moore's hand after the shot, said he was standing across the street from her and "was frozen for a moment" when he saw her fire.

He said, "I grabbed the cylinder of the gun to disable it, and twisted it away from her."

Stephen Weicker, one of several Junior Chamber of Commerce officials who drove presidential staff cars, said that immediately after the shot, "We were told to drive as fast as the cars would go, all the way around Union Square and onto the freeway."

RALEIGH (AP) — A state agency gave its approval Tuesday to a $7.6 million expansion of clinical facilities at Pitt County Memorial Hospital for use of East Carolina's University's proposed four-year medical school.

The approval came from the Comprehensive Health Planning Section of the State Department of Human Resources.

Lawrence Burwell, head of the section, said his agency had accepted the recommendation of the Governor's Advisory Council on Health Planning in approving the expenditure.

The hospital expansion includes additional space for clinical laboratories, x-ray, services, emergency operating rooms and other facilities.

Burwell said the hospital has been notified it can proceed with the expansion. He cautioned, however, that the approval does not include expansion of the hospital's bed capacity. He said if additional beds are needed in the future, they must be considered in a separate request.

Avers Agencies Ignored Presidential Decision

By DAVID C. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence agencies ignored a presidential decision to revoke the so-called Huston Plan authorizing illegal and unconstitutional methods of gathering domestic intelligence, the chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee said today.

"The decision of the President seemed to matter little," Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho said. The CIA, FBI and other intelligence agencies "continued the very practices for which they had sought presidential authority" in the Huston Plan, Church said as the committee began a second week of public hearings.

The Huston Plan, drafted by former White House aide Tom Charles Huston and signed by former CIA Director Richard M. Helms, the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and the heads of the Defense Intelligence Agency and the National Security Agency, authorized break-ins, wiretaps and mail openings to gather domestic intelligence. Huston was the lead-off witness at today's hearing.

The plan, which was briefly implemented in July 1970 but officially withdrawn five days later by former President Richard M. Nixon at the insistence of Hoover and then Atty.-Gen. John N. Mitchell, "was only an episode in the lawlessness which preceded and followed its brief existence," Church said.

Church also noted that unlawful mail openings had been conducted by the CIA long before Nixon was asked to authorize them in 1970. "The President and Mr. Huston, it appears, were deceived by the intelligence officials," Church said.

Greenville Leads Area In Retail Sales Growth

Greenville led cities in this area in percentage increase in retail sales for the month of June and for the fiscal year, according to figures provided by the N.C. Department of Revenue Statistics.

A percentage increase of 13.3 was recorded in June as retail sales climbed from $14,466,457 in 1974 to $16,391,530 this year.

For the 1974-75 fiscal year, Greenville led area cities with an increase of 10.4 per cent as sales of $183,623,525 reflected improvement over $166,178,626 recorded for the 1973-74 fiscal period.

Cities following Greenville in June and fiscal year percentage increases included: Kinston, $12,814,483 (June 1974), $14,352,870 (June 1975), 12 per cent; $153,629,250 (1973-74), $162,044,189 (1974-75), 5.4 per cent; Washington, $7,701,149, $8,525,384, 10.7 per cent; $89,167,952, $93,298,321, 4.6 per cent; Wilson, $13,846,262, $15,104,819, nine per cent, $153,615,925, $166,753,653, 8.5 per cent; New Bern, $12,870,080, $13,578,505, 5.5 per cent, $136,476,762, $144,249,198, 5.6 per cent; Jacksonville, $13,736,138, $14,466,121, 5.3 per cent, $142,109,769, $152,436,843, 7.2 per cent; Rocky Mount, $20,660,061, $20,987,263, 1.5 per cent, $227,249,111, $250,374,640, 10.1 per cent; and Tarboro, $4,994,117, $4,900,482, 1.8 per cent decrease, $52,591,702, $57,647,791, 9.6 per cent.

Hurricane Eloise Slams Into Florida Panhandle

By JOHN VAN GIESON
Associated Press Writer

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Eloise slammed into Florida's central panhandle with raging surf and lashing rains today, then rushed inland, spawnin tornadoes and carrying with it the threat of flooding.

With punishing winds up to 130 miles per hour, Eloise thundered ashore between Fort Walton Beach and Panama City before sunrise, wreaking havoc in both cities and in a 40-mile stretch between.

But as its vanguard crossed land, winds began to wane.

"With the hurricane over land, its strength should weaken rapidly," said Neil Frank, director of the National Hurricane Center in Miami. "The major threat now is tornadoes, heavy thunderstorms and the flooding they can cause."

At 10 a.m. EDT, Eloise's still-dangerous winds had dropped to 100 m.p.h. The hurricane's center was located about 45 miles southwest of Dothan, Ala., near latitude 31.0 north and longitude 86.2 west.

Trees, power lines and billboards toppled before the onslaught, and the area was plunged into darkness in the gray dawn as power transformers exploded in brilliant showers of blue-green sparks.

Thousands of people along a 100-mile stretch of shoreline had fled in a last-minute rush to escape the oncoming fury of the storm in the darkness of early morning.

In Panama City, a truss manufacturing plant caught fire, from what officials said was either a leaking gas line or a downed electrical circuit. Firemen tried to fight the blaze in screaming winds and rain.

Three tornadoes were reported in the Fort Walton area. One destroyed a house and ripped the roofs off half a dozen others, but no injuries were reported.

Surf riding the abnormally high tides crashed across the unprotected sand dunes of the summer resort area, ripping up roads and highways and undermining the foundations of homes, condominiums and motels built dangerously close to the sea.

U.S. 89, running along the coast for nearly 200 miles from Apalachicola Bay to Pensacola on the far western edge of the panhandle, was reported breaking up under the waves in many places.

No storm-related injuries were reported immediately, but communications were down in many areas and an accounting of the safety of residents would have to wait the hurricane's passage.

Given only a few brief hours of warning, residents of low-lying areas jammed highways leading inland, many of them fleeing in sleepwear covered by raincoats.

Study Asking Protection Of All Candidates

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders are considering asking the Treasury Department for immediate Secret Service protection for all presidential candidates in the wake of Monday's unsuccessful assassination attempt against President Ford.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said that top congressional leaders would meet with Asst. Secretary of the Treasury David R. Macdonald later today to discuss the matter.

Under a 1968 law that extended the Secret Service protection to candidates seeking presidential nomination, a five-member board consisting of each party's Senate and House leader plus an outside representative picked by them would serve as the authority to designate who should receive the protection.

Mansfield said the board decided about two weeks ago to begin protecting candidates on or by Jan. 1, but that now he thinks the protection should be launched "as soon as possible."

Today's meeting was called after Republican Leader Hugh Scott reacted to an assassination attempt against Ford in San Francisco.

Doubts Patty's Reality

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Patty Hearst probably is "not yet enough of a realist to accept treatment" although she needs psychiatric help, her mother told The Atlanta Constitution.

In an interview published today, Catherine Hearst said her daughter "is in and out of reality — and so nervous and pale. She's been through so much she doesn't seem herself, of course."

"She is 100 per cent away from those last tapes," Mrs. Hearst said, referring to a recording on which Patty called her parents "pigs."

"She loves us, loves her sisters, is interested in all of us," Mrs. Hearst said.

"She's improving. I see some improvement every day. But she's been out of touch with reality. We've got to get her some place where she can get treatment. I don't know where she needs to be yet."

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

WHISTLESTOP

Hotline published an item Aug. 22 quoting Police Chief Glenn Cannon as suggesting that whistles be used to call for help in case of street and home attacks.

In response, Mrs. Walker Allen Jr. phoned to tell us of the Operation WhistleSTOP program in Chicago. She provided us with the address of the Edgewater Community Council which sponsors the program to equip whole communities with whistles and an educational program so all its citizens can use whistles to call for help in emergencies and know that when they hear such a whistle, there is a need to summon the police.

We immediately wrote requesting material on the program. Edgewater, a community of 46,000, has about 50 per cent of its residents carrying whistles and it claims a 50 per cent reduction in street crimes.

The initial WhistleSTOP program had a community bank as a co-sponsor providing seed money, and whistlepacs (a high-quality metal whistle, chain, and car window stickers) were sold for $1 each.

Edgewater will provide kits for $1 each plus postage, plus posters and flyers which may be used for publicizing the program and other particulars about how it may be operated successfully. If any organization in this area is interested in investigating the possibilities of such a program here, Hotline will be glad to share the information we have received. Just call 752-6166 and inquire.

Best Quality-Of-Life Cities In West And Midwest

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Cities with the best quality of life are located on the West Coast and in the Midwest, according to a federally funded study of 243 metropolitan areas in the United States.

Portland, Ore., was ranked first among cities with populations of more than 500,000 in the report, released here Sunday by the Midwest Research Institute (MRI). Jersey City, N.J., was the worst city in the same category.

Eugene, Ore., received the top ranking for cities between 200,000 and 500,000 while Mobile, Ala., received the lowest ranking.

And LaCrosse, Wis., was the report's No. 1 city among those with less than 200,000 people. Laredo, Tex., turned up in last place.

Five factors were weighed for determining a city's "quality of life" — environment, social well-being, health and education, politics and economy.

Dr. Ben Liu, MRI economist who directed the project, said 120 statistics falling into the five categories were studied to arrive at an average ranking for each metropolitan area. Per capita income, violent crime index and the number of parks and recreational facilities were among the areas studied.

A goal of the study, financed by a grant from the Environmental Protection Agency's Washington Environmental Research Center, is to aid decision-makers in improving their areas' quality of life, Liu said.

Besides Portland, cities in the large-city category assigned grades within a range considered "outstanding" were, in order: Sacramento, Calif.; Seattle-Everett, Wash.; San Jose, Calif.; Minneapolis-St. Paul; Rochester, N. Y.; Hartford, Conn.; Denver; San Francisco-Oakland; San Diego; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Milwaukee and Salt Lake City.

Other medium-size cities ranked "outstanding" included: Madison, Wis.; Appleton-Oshkosh, Wis.; Santa Barbara, Calif.; Stamford, Conn.; Des Moines, Iowa; Lansing, Mich.; Kalamazoo, Mich.; Fort Wayne, Ind.; Ann Arbor, Mich.; Wichita, Kan.; Duluth-Superior, Minn.-Wis., and South Bend, Ind.

The other "outstanding" small cities were: Rochester, Minn.; Lincoln, Neb.; Topeka, Kan.; Green Bay, Wis.; Ogden, Utah; Norwalk, Conn.; Sioux Falls, S. D.; Fargo-Moorhead, N.D.-Minn.; Bristol, Conn.; Danbury, Conn.; Reno, Nev.; Lafayette-West Lafayette, Ind., and Pittsfield, Mass.

The Midwest had 15 metropolitan areas in the top 10 of the three sizes; the West Coast had eight; the Northeast, five; the Mountain States, two; the South, none.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Here are the numerical rankings of metropolitan areas graded in a quality of life research project by the Midwest Research Institute:

White House Fighting A Dual Battle Over Secrecy Rights

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration, fighting a dual battle with Congress over secrecy, is defying congressional subpoenas for documents on U.S. intelligence operations and the Arab boycott against Israel.

House Intelligence Committee Chairman Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., said Monday "all my indications are" that Ford will not turn over subpoenaed documents to the committee.

Ford cut off both documents and witnesses to the committee two weeks ago after it disclosed that U.S. intelligence monitored Egyptian communications before the 1973 Mideast war.

On the second front, Secretary of Commerce Rogers C. B. Morton refused Monday to comply with a House subcommittee's subpoena for names of U.S. companies involved in the Arab boycott against Israel.

Morton said the subpoena would force him to break Congress' own law protecting confidentiality of business information that his department gleans from documents filed by U.S. exporters.

Chairman John E. Moss, D-Calif., of the House commerce oversight subcommittee, called the administration's refusal to comply with the subpoenas issued by his committee and Pike's panel "a pattern of executive arrogance." Moss said he welcomes a confrontation.

Both the Moss and Pike committees are taking basically the same position: that Congress has the right to obtain any information from the administration. Pike's committee adds that Congress also has the right to make public any of that information.

But the administration's arguments are not the same in the two cases. It contends the Arab boycott information's confidentiality was mandated by Congress itself. The administration refuses to turn over the intelligence information on grounds Ford as commander in chief is responsible for its protection.

Skeptical On CIA Offer

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Columnist Jack Anderson says he is skeptical about the Central Intelligence Agency's offer to assist in an investigation of a reported CIA-related attempt to kill him.

"I'll be damned surprised if they come up with anything," Anderson said Monday.

The nationally syndicated columnist said the CIA called his office in Washington on Monday and "offered to fully cooperate ... in getting to the bottom of this."

A CIA official in Washington verified Anderson's disclosure and said: "The agency has advised the Justice Department that if they wish to undertake an investigation, the CIA will offer its full assistance."

Anderson, questioning the sincerity of the offer, said: "CIA people by nature cover up. I wouldn't expect them to uncover for my benefit."

The Washington Post reported on Sunday that an assassination attempt was planned against Anderson during the administration of Richard M. Nixon.

The Post story said a senior official in the White House at the time ordered convicted Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt to kill Anderson in late 1971 or early 1972. The plan involved the use of a special poison.

Anderson, who discussed the report during a news conference prior to a lecture at Carroll College, said he believed the story was accurate. He said he read the story and then called one of his sources who told him he once heard of the plot but dismissed it as gossip.

New Partner In Law Firm

John David Duffus Jr. has joined the firm of Howard & Vincent here as a partner in the practice of law.

J.D. DUFFUS

The attorney received his B.A. degree in political science from the University of Maryland and earned his Master's degree in educational administration from East Carolina University.

He attended both the University of North Carolina School of Law and the University of Mississippi School of Law, earning his Juris Doctor with honors in August of 1975 at the University of Mississippi.

Duffus was admitted to the North Carolina Bar for law practice earlier this month.

He was a member of the 398th Supply Co. of the U.S. Army Reserve in Greenville from May of 1971 until June of 1973 and has been assigned as a member of the 191st Jag Detachment, USAF, in Memphis, Tenn. from July 1973 until now. Duffus served on active duty from October of 1971 until March of 1972.

The new law partner is married to the former Diane Robinson of Little Rock, Ark. and they have a son, John David III.

ECU Will Continue Training Programs

East Carolina University has been awarded two contracts to continue its supplementary training programs for child development workers in four North Carolina counties.

A contract of $25,503 was given by the Opportunity Corp. of Madison-Buncombe Counties to continue ECU's Head Start Supplementary Training-Child Development Associate Program, and the Goldsboro City Schools have given $15,522 to continue the Follow Through Supplementary Program.

Allen Churchill of the ECU School of Home Economics, director of the two programs, said each involves about 20 workers in the Head Start and Follow Through programs who are working toward degrees in elementary education or toward a special certification program, as Child Development Associates (CDA).

The Follow Through program involves staff in the Goldsboro City Schools' Follow Through program, which provides additional aid to former Head Start children through the third grade.

While working as assistant teachers in Follow Through, the 20 participants are earning college credit toward the BS degree in elementary education.

Responded To 79 Fire Alarms

Rural fire departments in Pitt County answered 79 fire alarms during the month of August, according to County fire marshal Bobby Joyner, who noted that only 74 of the calls were to fires.

Joyner, in giving a breakdown of the calls, said four involved houses, 47 were to building fires, six to autos, 10 to grass or woods fires and two were false alarms.

Fire losses during the month amounted to some $149,946 Joyner said, while property valued at $407,054 was saved by the rural firefighters.

Joyner noted that the Farmville and Winterville fire departments answered the most calls during the month, responding to 10 calls each.

Broadway Musicals Are Still Closed By Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — The curtain remained down on nine Broadway musicals today as the impact of a five-day old musicians strike was felt increasingly in the pockets of out-of-work actors, restaurateurs and taxi drivers.

State mediator Vincent McDonnell said negotiators for the striking musicians and the League of New York Theaters met until early this morning but made no progress in settling the contract dispute.

"The longer it goes, the more difficult it is to settle," he said, adding he fears a long walkout would mean the permanent shutdown of some shows.

Vincent Sardi Jr., president of the Restaurant League of New York, estimated that the restaurant business around the theater district was down 50 per cent.

His own restaurant on West 44th Street, he said, had lost "thousands of dollars in private parties booked in conjunction with theater parties."

The taxi industry is losing "a minimum of 3,000 theater trips a day," or about $8,000, said Arthur Gore, a spokesman for the Metropolitan Taxicab Board of Trade.

About 200 actors and actresses from the temporarily shutdown musicals demonstrated in Shubert Alley on Monday for about an hour carrying signs that read "The Show Must Go On."

Theodore Bikel, president of Actors' Equity, said the performers wanted to reopen the shows without the musicians.

"We could play without lights and music," said John Parks, a dancer in "The Wiz." "We aren't getting paid ... This will kill Broadway."

There was no word from the producers on this proposal.

The musicians are demanding a pay raise from $290 to $450 a week over a three-year period. The league wants more productivity.

Meanwhile, Mayor Kenneth Gibson of Newark invited the producers of Scott Joplin's opera "Treemonisha" to use his city's Symphony Hall. That opera was to have opened Thursday on Broadway.

Elizabeth McCann, of Nederland Productions which is producing the show, said technicians would be sent to Newark to see if it were feasible to use the hall.

Two Films At City Libraries

Two films will be shown at the local libraries this week.

The films are: "The Owl and the Lemming", an animated film of short legged plumply stuffed animals made of seal skin by Eskimo artists; and "The Caterpillar and the Wild Animals", based on a Masai story, this animated film tells the story of a disenchanted caterpillar who proceeds to cow the mighty animals of the jungle until he meets a curious frog.

The film showing schedule is as follows: Carver Branch, Tuesday, 4 p.m.; Sheppard Memorial, Thursday, 7 p.m., and East Branch, Friday, 4 p.m.

AcademyNames Cheerleaders

Cheerleaders have been named for the 1975-76 basketball season at Pace Academy.

Those selected to cheer for the Patriots are: Lisa Grant, Jane Edgerley, Martha West, Julie Yongue, Missy Dye, Angela Patrick and Stephanie Schwarz (alternate).

The group plans a bake sale and Valentine Dance later this year to earn money to purchase new uniform sweaters.

Gigi G. Bumgarner serves as advisor.

Service Agency Study Slated By ECU Office

East Carolina University's Office of Community Health Services has announced an agreement with the Beaufort County Board of Commissioners to conduct a study of human service agencies within the county.

William Byrd, Director, said that the study will look at accessibility to dental and medical services in private practice and that the "Human Services Task Force" will consider the services of the general hospital, nursing homes and all of the Human Resources agencies. These include the Health Department, the Area Mental Health Center, the Department of Social Services and Vocational Rehabilitation Services.

Additional subjects of concern to the Task Force will be the health aspects of the Agricultural Extension Service programs and the health services of the public schools.

Couple Weds Saturday Afternoon In Ceremony

MRS. TUCKER EUGENE JOHNSON

Miss Cheryl Diane Carpenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Carpenter of Greenville, became the bride of Tucker Eugene Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Johnson of McLean, Va., Saturday at two o'clock.

The lawn of the couple's home near the Black Jack community was the setting for the ceremony performed by the Rev. James Lee, pastor of St. James United Methodist Church.

The improvised altar was decorated with pots of white mums and baskets of summer flowers.

The bride and bridegroom were presented in marriage by their parents.

The bride wore a white lawn gown of polyester and cotton. It featured an empire waist, square cut neckline and elbow length puffed sleeves. The sleeves and neckline were lace trimmed. A white picture hat and a bouquet of late summer flowers completed her ensemble.

Miss Terry Barnes of Greenville served as maid of honor. She wore a formal length gown. It was rose colored with a round neckline and bertha sleeves. She wore a white hat similar to the bride's and carried a bouquet.

Larry Brown of Falls Church, Va., served the bridegroom as best man.

The bride's mother wore a moss green knit street length dress and a white corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore pale blue linen of street length dress with matching accessories and had a white corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony the guests were invited in for a buffet followed by a cake cutting.

The bride is a recent graduate of East Carolina University. The bridegroom graduate from East Carolina University in 1973. He is at present attending graduate school and is employed by Ormond Wholesale Co. in the data processing department.

After a trip to the mountains, the couple will be at home at Rt. 3, Greenville.

On Friday night, an after-rehearsal dinner was given at the Candlewick Inn given by Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Johnson for the bride's family, and out-of-town guests.

Engagement Announced

MISS DEBORAH LYNN GARRIS . . . is the daughter of Mrs. Neva Garris of New Bern, who announces her engagement to Thomas Earl Hodges, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hodges Jr. of Washington. The bride-elect is the daughter of the late Mr. Roy Cornelious Garris. The wedding will take place May 16.

Cooking Is Fun

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

One of the most fascinating aspects of cookery is the way the same dish pops up in the cuisines of different nationalities and how it is interpreted by each. A favorite example of this is Italian ravioli, Chinese won tons and kreplach from Jewish cuisine.

Another example, less remarked on, is the similarity of German Rote Grutze, Danish Rodgrød and Russian Kissel. All are puddings made of sweetened fruit thickened with cornstarch and all are favorites in their respective countries.

One of the best versions of Rote Grutze we've come upon was devised by Rene Kochmann, who spent her growing-up years in Germany and France but has lived in the U.S. since 1946. When Rene was a little girl her mother made Rote Grutze from fresh raspberries and strawberries. Now Rene makes the dessert with the frozen sweetened berries and adds cranberry juice cocktail. "Adding a little of the flavor of the tart cranberry," she says, "makes the dessert taste the way my mother's did." Using vanilla ice cream as a sauce for the Rote Grutze is another change of Rene's — a quick and delicious switch from the traditional vanilla custard sauce or cream.

RENE KOCHMANN'S
ROTE GRUTZE
Two 10-ounce packages frozen sweetened raspberries, thawed
10-ounce package frozen sweetened strawberries (halved or sliced), thawed

3 tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup cranberry juice cocktail
1 cup vanilla ice cream, melted

In an electric blender whirl the undrained berries until liquefied. Pour through a fine-mesh strainer to remove seeds. In a medium saucepan stir together the cornstarch and cranberry juice cocktail until smooth; add the strained liquefied fruit. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until clear, thickened and boiling; continue to boil, stirring, for 3 minutes. Turn into a bowl; lightly place transparent plastic wrap directly on top of mixture to keep a film from forming; if you use a really light touch the mixture won't adhere to the wrap when it is removed. Chill. Makes 3½ cups. Serve topped with the ice cream. Makes 6 servings. This dessert has lovely flavor and consistency — neither too thick nor too thin.

Choose Furniture For Comfort

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If you are redecorating this fall, keep your anatomy in mind, says well-known interior designer, Michael Greer, of New York.

"The human form is seldom considered, but it is the most important aspect of decorating. Some homes are built for everything but comfort," he contends.

In Greer's experience, people worry about color, style and lots of other things and they may even wind up with a pretty room, but a most uncomfortable one.

"Your back, arms, legs and eyes should be considered when a room is being planned or you are choosing furniture," he contends. "Low coffee tables are hard on the back, armless chairs make the arms seem like excess appendages, dining room chair seats often are too small for capacious post-eriors."

Lighting should be especially important to women as they grow older, he advises. Bright lights "can highlight bags under the eyes." It will also emphasize coarse skin, wrinkles, puffiness. At the other extreme are very dim lights, a strain on the eyes. Then, too, lighting and colors must be considered.

If you want to be a popular hostess, your home should be comfortable. Seating an older woman "or any one wearing corsets" on armless sofas or chairs "can be a terrible thing" for them. How do you rise gracefully in such a predicament?

In fact, some furniture makes little sense to him. For example, upholstered feet on sofas and chairs. They not only become worn and dirty, but what is the point? Furniture feet can be lacquered, painted or even of raw wood and can be easily maintained. Ottomans also invite his scorn. Why not sit on stools or benches? Big ottomans "are ridiculous, bulky and space consuming."

"Coffee tables should never be less than 24 inches from the floor because if a table is lower you can hurt your back bending over it, and as for trying to reach such a table from some chairs or sofas you'd need arms like a gorilla's."

Greer decorates in many areas of the United States. He is simultaneously working in Texas and on Fifth Avenue. His interior design message is comfort, above all. But there is no reason why you can't have a well-decorated home that is also a pleasure to live in, he insists. He likes reproductions of furniture as well as antiques "if the craftsmanship is good" and they serve the anatomy. His own favorite furniture is Louis XVI, but most periods go together, in his opinion.

"I have seven periods in my own apartment — I really like everything but Victorian, because of some of the armless chairs. It was a graceless period. I can't understand why they are bringing back armless chairs. What are you supposed to do, put your hands in your pockets?"

His advice to young decorators would be to consider the human form before anything else. People should be accommodated, not decorated. It is even terrible to be a guest in a room that makes you feel uncomfortable, he contends. One will not detract from a room by furnishing it to suit one's comfort.

He is against all decorating done merely for prettiness or appearances "like books bought by the yard to fill up bookshelves for people who can't read."

He doesn't like other pretenses — calling ordinary glass "crystal," or for that matter, referring to draperies as "drapes." And as for chaise longue, he doesn't mention it any more, because in type it usually shows up "chaise lounge," confusing the issue even more.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

"Well," I said to my husband as he crawled into bed, "I hope you're satisfied. Your son is gone."

"You act like it was my idea," he said.

"Don't tell me you didn't encourage him to leave."

"All I said was he is old enough to develop some kind of independence."

"If anything happens to him, let it be on your conscience."

"What kind of a crack is that? You went along with it."

"Only because I didn't want him to remember us screaming and shouting at one another. If he just had someone with him . . ."

"Stop worrying. If everything weren't going well, we'd hear."

"The dog misses him already," I said. "He's in the utility room whining."

"Oh for crying out loud."

"I went by his room tonight. It was so . . . so picked up. I never knew he had a double bed before."

"Go to sleep and stop torturing yourself."

"Did you hear something?" I asked bolting upright.

"What did it sound like?" he asked.

"I don't know."

"What do you mean you 'don't know.' Everything has to sound like something for pete's sake."

"If I hear it again, I'll tell you."

"If you don't know what it is, then how will you know when you hear it again?"

"Are you trying to pick a fight with me, because if your conscience is bothering you, take it out on someone else. Admit it! You're worried, aren't you?"

"No."

"You're worried that you sent your son out into a world crawling with murderers, perverts, sex fiends and robbers who would tap you on the head with a tire iron for 35 cents."

"Will you go to sleep?"

"Did you leave the front door open?"

"No."

"I'm going down and open it. Just in case he should come home in the middle of the night. You know how he never carries his keys."

"That tears it," said my husband throwing back the covers and sticking his head out of the bedroom window. "Hey Buddy!" he yelled in the darkness. "Everything okay out there?"

A sleepy head poked through the tent flap. "Aw c'mon Dad, you promised you'd let me camp all by myself."

Who Should Call A Night A Night?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that I am sure is shared by thousands. In fact, I have been on both sides recently. In the case of overnight guests, who should make the first suggestion that they retire for the night? The host or the other couple?

A MATTER OF ETIQUETTE

DEAR MATTER: It's more a matter of common sense than etiquette. Whether you are the host or the guest, when you're ready to retire, simply say, "Let's call it a night, shall we?"

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column where someone said gentlemen used to prefer blondes, but today it seems that gentlemen prefer brunettes. And you said, "No, I think most gentlemen still prefer blondes, brunettes and redheads."

Abby, I am greatly disappointed in you. Don't you realize that you have a lot of black readers who don't happen to be blondes, redheads or brunettes?

LOLLIE IN TULSA

DEAR LOLLIE: The letter to which you refer appeared in Ann Landers' column, not mine.

And Lollie, dear, please don't be too hard on my twin sister because I have seen black women with beautiful red and even blonde hair. Of course, it's not their natural color, but then, neither is mine.

DEAR ABBY: I hear so much criticism of young couples who live together first and then have lovely church weddings, I hope you'll be fair and let an opposing point of view be heard.

After living together for five years, Bill and I were married last June. We had 65 guests at a lovely church wedding, followed by a garden reception in the back yard of our home. (We paid for everything ourselves.)

We both wore white to symbolize the purity of our first and only marriage. We waited for five years to be sure that what God had joined together no man could tear asunder. Standing on that altar in the presence of God, our families and friends was a spiritual experience we shall cherish all our lives as the ultimate commitment.

Everyone present said it was the most meaningful and beautiful wedding they had ever attended.

Some would say that Bill and I had lived in "sin." We think it's a greater sin for married couples to live together in a loveless union, while committing adultery with others.

Two-Day State Meeting Held In Southport

SOUTHPORT — The 85th annual convention of The North Carolina Branch of The King's Daughters was held here Friday and Saturday with 73 members from across the State attending.

Five members of The Patient Circle, Greenville, attended: Mrs. Polly Dail; Mrs. L. L. Rives; Mrs. R. C. Henry; Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell; and Mrs. Cora Powell.

All business sessions were held at the North Carolina Baptist Assembly. Reports of accomplishment were given from the eight circles of the State. The Nursing Scholarship, Student Ministry Scholarship, and Chautauga Scholarship will be continued.

Mrs. James Harper was guest speaker at the banquet held Friday night. Her subject was "Prayer Changes Things."

Mrs. J. R. Holden, past president of the branch, installed the officers for 1975-76. Mrs. Sherrill High of Greensboro was elected President. Serving on the board from Greenville are Mrs. Dail, Mrs. Henry, Mrs. Shackell and Mrs. Powell.

An invitation for the N.C. Branch Convention in 1976 was extended by The Patient Circle of Greenville and accepted.

The International Order of The King's Daughters Convention will be held in Hartford, Conn., May 4.

Heartening Economic Signals

Two stories out of Washington last week might give a little hope for the nation's working out of its economic woes.

Government statistics indicated that the economic recovery might become about more rapidly than economists had predicted. Industrial output went up by 1.3 percent during August, which was the best monthly increase in almost three years.

"It looks very solid. It looks like we're heading up," one government official said.

On another day the government reported that the rate of inflation was sharply down in August with consumer prices up only two-tenths of 1 percent. This was the smallest monthly rise in inflation in three years.

The August inflation rate has to be tempered with a big rise in July of 1.2 percent, and certainly the small August increase could be only a one-month thing. However, there was good news for the consumer in that food prices showed no increase during August, but there were increases in the non-food categories.

The increase in industrial production, coupled with a low inflation rate for August is heartening as the nation seeks to fight its way back to some sort of economic stability.

Growth Era For ECU Has Not Yet Ended

East Carolina University had a new record for enrollment this fall with 11,727 students on campus. This compares to 11,341 enrollment last fall.

As almost everyone knows, most housing in the city is full due to the expanding university and industrial and business developments around the city.

The new record enrollment comes at a time when, only a few years ago, many observers thought that the numbers of students would be stable, or even in a decline. The growth era still has not ended for East Carolina University.

Visions During An Ordeal

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Two words — HAVE WALKED — spelled out with black electricians tape in the cockpit of his boat saved the life of State Rep. Stanford White.

White, still recuperating from his 36-hour ordeal alone and often floundering "straddle deep" in the swampy muck of Stumpy Point, can now talk about that incident.

"I nearly gave up several times. Then, I'd decide I'm not ready to die, and keep going," White said.

A veteran boatman, marina operator at Manns Harbor where he lives, fisherman of considerable repute, and intimately acquainted with the tricky shoals and waters of North Carolina's Outer Banks and sound region, White can look back on his experience and recognize several mistakes — errors which he hopes others can learn to avoid.

"I knew better than to leave the boat, but after being stranded there for so long, I just figured it would be better to walk out," he recalls.

Left Message

Before leaving he took a roll of black tape out of the storage box, and left that message.

Finally, a Coast Guard helicopter did find the boat, and lowered a rescuer who reported that the occupant was gone, probably drowned. The search might have been abandoned, but a second check of the boat produced the message.

White, meanwhile, was less than a quarter of a mile away in the marsh, and heard the helicopter begin its search.

When it finally hovered overhead and lowered a basket, "I was so weak I could hardly get into it. I just crawled in and collapsed."

Having suffered previous heart trouble, White worried that the strain and fear of being lost on Stumpy Point where the Pamlico and Croatan sounds run together, the mainland side, could cause permanent damage.

He is having no heart problems, but his rib cage is so sore he can't stand to touch it. The ribs punctured muscles during efforts to free the boat after running ashore.

All told, White has spent nearly one and one-half months in the hospital since the early June adventure.

It happened on a weekend recess of the General Assembly as he prepared for a family birthday party and shore dinner for his wife, Grace. He lacked fish, and left in his new 20-foot inboard-outboard for a quick haul. He got the fish.

Problems, Problems

The boat, White recalls, was pulling to the left — a minor problem, but one not corrected at the time. That was a mistake.

Thoroughly at home in those waters, White figured he didn't need a compass. That was a mistake.

A fog bank rolled in, so he started for home. A rope on the anchor up front started flapping, so he crawled up there to tighten it. The boat swung left, unmannable, and when White returned to the cockpit he was heading in a different direction.

It wasn't long before he ran ashore on a shoal hard as

Korea Giving Thanks

By PAUL SHIN

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — A vigorous campaign has been launched in South Korea to give special thanks to American servicemen for their effort and role in making this once war-torn country what it is today.

The "thank you" campaign is sponsored by private Korean businessmen as part of an overall program commemorating the 30th anniversary of Korea's liberation from Japanese rule in 1945.

The businessmen sponsor entertainment shows starring top singers and television actresses, take GIs to scenic spots and industrial facilities, invite American soldiers to Korean homes, and give them souvenirs.

The Korean-American Friendship Association which coordinates the campaign said two show troupes have been touring 43 American camps throughout the country since early August.

Each show is sponsored by at least one major business firm which takes care of all expenses.

One of the shows was staged at Osan Air Base, 38 miles south of Seoul, for members of the 314th U.S. Air Division, Korean and foreign newsmen were invited to cover the performance.

Spectators started gathering an hour before the two-hour show performed on an elevated stage set up inside a huge hangar with a backdrop sign reading, "Korea thanks you. Festival Of Stars."

About 1,000 airmen and their dependents and as many Korean villagers applauded, shouted, whistled, giggled and sipped free beer while listening to their favorite musical numbers, "I Cannot Stop Loving You" and "Sexy Dance."

It was a field day for Army Specialist 5 David M. Jackson of Rockhill, S.C., whose birthday happened to fall on that day. He received a birthday kiss from Miss Korea 1974, Kim Un-jung.

"It is marvelous. It is one of the happiest moments I have had during my nine months stay here," said Sgt. Marvin Richardson, Charleston, S.C.

Airman First Class Anthony Cook of Smithton, Mo., said, "I think this kind of program can help bridge a gap, if any, between American GIs and the Korean people outside the base."

Kissinger Plan Backfires

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Rising shock in Congress over what looked like an open-at U.S. commitment to Israel's future military, economic and energy demands is leading to a strange alliance of dovish Senators and hard-nosed Pentagon brass deeply troubled about the now-revealed fine print in Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's Sinai agreement.

In the Defense Department, high officials without exception, both civilian and military, were aghast when that fine print showed the U. S. pleading Israel a sympathetic study "of high technology and sophisticated items, including the Pershing ground-to-ground missiles... with the view of giving a positive response."

Not a single Pentagon official knew in advance that Kissinger was tossing such lethal bargaining counters on the Sinai negotiating table. Indeed, Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger makes no secret in private White House talks dealing with the weapons-for-Israel controversy that he is "upset." As one high-level defense strategist told us:

"We simply cannot justify the Pershing missile for the Israelis. It would be dangerously destabilizing with its 450-mile range and would introduce an overall escalation of the Middle East arms race."

In the Senate, liberal Democrats are taking a lead in the same direction. "Horrendous blunder," Wisconsin Sen. Gaylord Nelson told us. Nelson, whose mail is running 6-to-1 against the agreement (a ratio widespread on Capitol Hill), is now considering an amendment to the Israeli aid bill to compel separate congressional consideration of the Pershing missile — a weapon specifically made for nuclear warheads (although the once-secret American-Israeli agreement specifies only non-nuclear explosives for Israel).

Another liberal Democrat who is a long-time ally of Israel's interests found himself "slightly embarrassed" that the U.S. may now be locked in — despite the ambiguity of Kissinger's fine print — to giving Israel a nuclear-capable ground missile. The Pershing, he told us, "is going to cause us all a little trouble."

Defenders of Kissinger point to the ambiguity as having been carefully stitched in to one implied commitment after another. They claim that imprecision was needed to give hard-pressed Israeli leaders, particularly Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and Defense Minister Shimon Peres, political ammunition to see the agreement — even though it called for a relatively minor Israeli pullback from the Sinai passes and the Abu Rudeis oil fields.

Accordingly, Kissinger can correctly claim that the U.S. has not yet committed itself to the Pershing missile or to most of the other fine-print deals.

More important from the vantage point of President Ford and Kissinger is their argument that even without the new Sinai agreement the powerful pro-Israel bloc in Congress would have voted huge aid sums for Israel. The May 22 letter to Mr. Ford signed by 76 Senators made that explicitly clear by demanding that the President "be responsive to Israel's urgent military and economic needs."

However persuasive in the White House, such

Abating A Big Nuisance

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is about ready to publish some proposed guidelines for the use of federal agencies. The EPA's purpose is to discourage the use of throwaway containers for beer and soft drinks.

Understandably, the beer, soft-drink, bottle and can manufacturers are having conniption fits, but the EPA is on the right track.

The issue here, it seems to me, is more an issue of political philosophy than of economic impact. At the moment, the guidelines are merely proposals; they could not become final until some time next year. Once made final, the guidelines would not have mandatory effect; if a federal agency concluded that returnable containers were not available at reasonable cost, the agency could get out from under the guideline plan.

Even if every federal agency went along with the proposition, sales of beer and soft drinks in throwaway containers would not be significantly affected. The EPA estimates that such sales at federal outlets amount to only 2 to 4 percent of total sales. The EPA also believes the effect on employment is the can and glass industries would be minimal.

Under the proposed guidelines, a five-cent deposit would be required on every carbonated container sold at a federal installation. Non-returnable containers could still be sold, but they would cost a nickel more.

What we have here is one more conflict between the freedom of the individual and the power of the state. The whole history of government comes down to a beer can. The doctrines of a free society hold that customers

To the editor:

In the September 3rd edition of The Daily Reflector, the four major automobile manufacturers in the United States addressed themselves to the problem of air quality versus previously set standards for control of automobile emissions.

The Clean Air Act Amendments of 1970, as passed by Congress, requires that automobile manufacturers must meet 1978 deadlines on auto emission controls. The motor companies claim that they have not yet developed the technology to meet these deadlines, that gas mileage could be reduced as a result and that car costs could increase if the standards have to be met. Currently, there are a number of efforts in Congress to enact additional amendments to the Clean Air Act which would relax and extend the deadline for emission controls.

In the of our present energy problems, it is obvious that some compromises will be necessary. However, the need to keep our environment free of smog and other forms of pollutants must be kept in mind if existing legislation is not to be totally watered down.

Duke's Blue Devils of 1935 will have the chance to even up a couple of old scores when South Carolina's Gamecocks invade Duke Stadium Saturday to help Coach Wallace Wade's men open their home campaign.

The Gamecocks and the Blue Devils have met twice before on the gridiron and both games were South Carolina victories. In fact, if Duke is able to cross the goal Saturday, it will be the first time they have ever done it.

In 1930, the Gamecocks won 22-0, and the following year they spoiled Wade's debut as coach at Duke with a 7-0 victory.

None of the present Duke boys were here when Duke played South Carolina last, but it is up to them to even up the score for one of those defeats in Durham Saturday.

LOOSEN MY UNBELIEF

There once was a businessman who was a convinced unbeliever. He was, however, a man of fine moral character, generous, and willing at all times to lend a helping hand to his fellows. He was also a regular church attendee. But he went to church largely to pit his own ideas against those of the minister. He had read the worldly philosophers with relish and appreciation and loved to marshal their arguments to prove that there was no God and that Christianity was fable.

Patty's Own Words On Record

By TIM REITERMAN
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patty Hearst's own words may haunt her if defense attorneys try to contend the newspaper heiress remained an unwilling hostage during her 19-month odyssey with the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army.

A bail hearing was scheduled in U.S. District Court here today, and Miss Hearst's attorneys say she will testify or submit an affidavit in a bid for freedom on bail.

Miss Hearst has been held without bail since last Friday, when it was revoked by a judge who cited her taped statements and revolutionary rhetoric.

At that time, U.S. Attorney

James L. Browning revealed the government planned to use Miss Hearst's own words to prosecute bank robbery and weapons charges here. He also pointed out that a pistol was found in her purse and two carbines were found in the closet of the apartment where she was arrested Thursday with another federal fugitive.

In taped communiques, the 21-year-old Miss Hearst has admitted participating in a bank robbery and repeatedly denied she had been brainwashed into joining the SLA, which kidnaped her Feb. 4, 1974.

Authorities say Patty sprayed a Los Angeles sporting goods store with automatic weapons fire May 16, 1974 to help two SLA members escape arrest for shoplifting. She is accused of kidnapping an 18-year-old youth the same day.

Miss Hearst and Wendy Yoshimura, wanted on a 1972 guns and explosives charges, were captured at an apartment here last Thursday. SLA members Emily and Bill Harris were arrested earlier the same day outside their apartment, about 2½ miles away.

Both the Harris and Miss Hearst face federal charges here and state charges in Los Angeles.

If convicted of bank robbery, Miss Hearst would face up to 35 years in prison. She and the Harris also face federal firearms charges with maximum sentences of 10 years in prison and $10,000 fines.

Nineteen Los Angeles County charges have been filed against Miss Hearst and 18 against the Harris. In addition, federal prosecutors say the trio probably also will be indicted on new charges stemming from weapons and explosives found in the two SLA apartments here.

Miss Yoshimura, 32, was arraigned Monday on four weapons and explosives charges. Her bail remained $250,000, and she was scheduled to enter a plea Oct. 6 in Alameda County Superior Court.

Stephen Soliah, 27, who reportedly rented the apartment where Miss Yoshimura and Miss Hearst were captured, has been charged with harboring a fugitive.

pressure of a mandatory deposit will lessen the evil. Ours is a beautiful country. Neither the special interests of the can and bottle makers, nor the libertarian's theories of individual freedom, should override society's effort, in this especially pervasive and obnoxious matter, to keep the country beautiful. Other such efforts have been sustained by the courts. Historic zoning laws, anti-billboard laws, junkyard screening laws—these and many other regulations are infringements upon property rights and personal freedom, but they command widespread public support.

It was Professor Louis D. Rubin Jr., I believe, who once speculated upon the time, thousands of years hence, when archeologists from a distant galaxy would stumble over the dead planet Earth. Alighting from their spacecraft, they would explore what obviously had been roads and highways, and they would be puzzled by millions of identical small green artifacts. The archeologists would take these to be symbols of the religion practiced by the vanished race of Americans. No

In another "thank you" gesture, Korean professors, churchmen, businessmen, journalists and cultural leaders have invited some 300 American soldiers to their homes.

Another 2,000 American servicemen will be invited to 400 Korean homes by the end of October.

The association said the campaign so far has been so successful that it plans to make it a year round project.

"We owe the American servicemen very much for our survival during the Korean War and the economic prosperity afterwards," an association official said. "Now we believe it is our turn to extend our highest appreciation to them."

Deadline

WASHINGTON (AP)—Oil companies have been told to specify by Nov. 3 what offshore areas of the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida they want to lease for exploration for oil and natural gas.

Many oil experts say there is little chance of a major oil or natural gas strike off the Carolinas.

The Interior Department also has asked environmentalists and others to recommend areas between Cape Fear, N.C., and Cape Canaveral, Fla., where drilling should be prohibited for environmental, archaeological or economic reasons.

The department said the process could lead to the sale of leases by November of 1976.

The offshore tracts are administered by the federal government. Private firms can explore only after buying a federal lease.

Reprieve For Rebels' Hostage

By ELIAS ANTAR

Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — A rebel African chief who threatened to execute a French woman archeologist today granted a reprieve while ransom negotiations with the French government continue, the French government announced.

Presidential press spokesman Xavier Beauchamps told newsmen a rendezvous for talks with the rebels had been set "for this week."

Lack Report By Committee

RALEIGH (AP)—State Elections Director Alex Brock said Monday that legally required financial statements have not been filed by an organization which is headed by an aide to Gov. Jim Holshouser and was formed to recruit blacks for the Republican Party.

The head of the North Carolina chapter of the Committee for a Two Party System is Dr. Larnie G. Horton, a gubernatorial special assistant for minority affairs. Brock said Horton has been given until Friday to respond with an explanation for the "apparent" violation.

Horton, a former Kittrell College president, could not be reached for comment.

Brock said Horton was sent a certified letter Sept. 18 telling him of the committee's failure to file a report.

A preliminary check of campaign fund reports of past candidates indicates that the committee contributed to the campaigns of at least four candidates, Brock said. Contributions totaling $3,050 were to candidates for the North Carolina House of Representatives, he said.

Brock said Dist. Atty. Burley Mitchell will be sent a report for possible prosecution; violation of the campaign fund reporting law is a misdemeanor.

The committee was founded in May 1973 by Horton. He and top Holshouser aide Gene Anderson were at the meeting in which it received its charter from the national organization, headed by Soul City founder Floyd McKissick.

Horton, when the committee was formed, said it would hold a statewide voter registration drive as well as recruit blacks for the GOP.

New Counts For Accused Killers

FAYETTEVILLE (AP)—Additional charges have been lodged against two men accused of killing a state highway patrolman in Burgaw last week.

Charged with two armed robberies in separate incidents were Willie Lee Williams, 27 and Joseph Sweat Jr., 21, both of Wilmington. The pair was charged with breaking into the home of an elderly couple north of Spring Lake last May, tying them up and fleeing with money and other valuables.

Each was also charged with in the holdup of a Fayetteville food store last December.

They were arrested Sept. 15 and charged in the shooting death of Trooper Hugh R. Griffin, who had been killed the night before.

Griffin was found dead in his patrol car six miles from Burgaw.

A French military plane was reported on patrol over the area in northern Chad where Chief Hissen Habre of the Toubou tribe has been holding Francoise Claustre, 38, in the Tibesti desert for 17 months. A French spokesman said "an active phase of the negotiations" had begun, which was taken to mean that the plane was in radio contact with Habre.

The French last Friday parachuted a ransom offer of $2.2 million in cash to the chief, a lawyer educated in Paris, along with a radio so he could reply. A French radio journalist who reached the rebel camp during the weekend, Jean-Pierre Farkas, reported that the chief wanted the French to return to a previous offer of $1.33 million worth of medicine, jeeps and other nonmilitary supplies and $888,900 in cash.

The French revised that offer because the Chad government opposed the delivery of any supplies to the rebels.

The French government ordered Farkas' radio station to stop broadcasting his reports and also ordered a correspondent for the newspaper Figaro to stop filing dispatches. The government said their activities might impede its negotiations, but it appeared that it was trying to play down its dealings with Habre because of the opposition of the government of Chad, a former French colony in which 2,000 French troops are still stationed.

Chad's military president, Gen. Felix Malloum, refuses to deal with the rebels and contends that the French negotiations with them are a violation of Chad's sovereignty. Malloum banned French flights over the rebel area, ordered the French troops in the country to stay at their bases and grounded a French helicopter force in the southern part of his country to prevent a commando raid to free the woman.

Mrs. Claustre was in Africa studying Iron Age relics when Toubou tribesmen kidnapped her in April 1974 from the Bardai oasis along with a Frenchman and a West German physician whose wife was killed in the raid. The Frenchman later escaped, and the West German government paid Habre $500,000 to ransom the doctor.

Mrs. Claustre's husband, Pierre, flew to Habre's camp in July in an attempt to secure her release. He is still there, but the rebels have announced no threats to him or demands concerning him.

Recovered 3 Bodies

SYLVA, N.C. (AP)—The bodies of three young Jackson County men have been found in the Tuckasee River at Dillsboro.

Sheriff Fred Holcombe says the cause of death has not yet been determined, but foul play is possible.

The victims, said to be in their 20s, were identified as Roy Wayne Buchanan of the Caney Fork community, and two brothers, Gerald Franks and Billy Joe Franks of the Savannah community.

The sheriff said the bodies were seen by a nearby resident, who called the sheriff's department Monday. The medical examiner, Dr. James E. Oliver, says the bodies were fully clad and probably had been in the water less than 48 hours.

An autopsy was performed. Results are not yet available.

The State Bureau of Investigation is assisting in the case.

Pupils Hurt As Bus Hit Tree

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Eight pupils were injured Monday when their school bus slammed into a tree after the driver was distracted by rowdy pupils, school officials said.

Two pupils were hospitalized overnight and one required surgery for internal injuries, authorities said.

Police said the bus was about halfway through its afternoon route when it wrecked with 28 pupils aboard.

Revival Begins On Wednesday

AYDEN—Revival services will begin at the Ayden Pentecostal Holiness Church Wednesday and continue through Sunday.

The Rev. Tom Holliday of Windsor will be the guest speaker.

Homecoming will be held at the church Sunday. The pastor, Rev. Ola Porter, invites the public to attend.

ALERT SPECTATOR — Oliver Sipple, a 33-year-old ex-Marine from San Francisco, tells how he struck the gun just as it was fired Monday in the direction of President Ford as he left a downtown hotel to head for the airport and return to Washington. (AP Wirephoto)

Ex-Marine Was Shaken By Shooting Experience

By STEPHEN FOX
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "I'm not a hero, I'm a live coward," said Oliver Sipple who authorities say may have saved the life of President Ford.

"It's probably the scariest thing that ever happened in my whole life," added the 33-year-old ex-Marine.

Sipple said he grabbed the arm of a woman, later identified as Sara Jane Moore, who was holding a .38 caliber revolver as Ford was leaving the St. Francis Hotel. Mrs. Moore, a 45-year-old divorcee, was charged with attempting to kill the President.

Sipple said he had noticed Mrs. Moore in the crowd as he waited for Ford to leave the hotel.

"She was there for an hour or two," he said. "Then the President came out and he waved and I started to clap for the President."

"Then I noticed a chrome-plated gun and I screamed 'gun' as loud as I could and grabbed her arm. I don't know when it went off. Next thing I know there are police and Secret Service all over us. They roughed me up some but they apologized after."

Sipple said he just happened to be in the crowd outside the St. Francis Hotel Monday.

"I was going to Fisherman's Wharf and I walked by and saw all the crowds. I asked what was going on and someone said 'The President's there,' and I went down and got in line. I was there about three hours and people were moving away and I just kept going down until I got in the front."

"Why did I do it? It was a gun pointed at the President of the United States, that's why. I seen a gun and I took a dive for it. I don't even know what I felt."

Sipple, a heavy-set blond who served in Vietnam in 1968 and 1969 before receiving an honorable discharge, said he was on full disability because of mental problems relating to his combat experiences.

"I don't like violence," he said. "I got screwed up mentally because of war ... it was enough to wreck me."

Sipple said he only became frightened after the incident. "I was shaking so bad I couldn't light my own cigarette. I just asked them to sneak me out of there (the hotel). I'm still shaking."

"After the entire incident, two policemen grabbed me and one thanked me. Then the Secret Service came and one of them thanked me for saving the President's life."

Four Collisions In Monday's Traffic

An estimated $2,900 property damage resulted from a series of four traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 1:25 p.m. collision on Tenth Street, 45 feet West of the Rocksprings Road intersection involving a car driven by Vincent Earl Gallops of 1504 Ward St. and parked cars owned by John Carlton Taylor of 217 Windsor Rd. and Larry Edwin Snyder of 125 Greenwood Dr.

Police, who charged Gallops with exceeding a safe speed, estimated damage at $1,000 to the Gallops car, $500 to the Taylor vehicle and $125 to the Snyder car.

Adell Gilbert Grimmer of Wallace was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 5 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Memorial Drive.

Police reported the Grimmer car collided with an auto operated by Thomas Leroy Craft Jr. of Ayden, causing an estimated $300 damage to the Grimmer car and $500 damage to the Craft auto.

Peggy Harris Steps of 232 Fairview Way and Coy Hicks of 1012 Fleming St. were listed as drivers of cars involved in a 7:06 p.m. collision on Arlington Street, 85 feet West of the Greenville Boulevard intersection.

Police, who charged Mrs. Steps with improper passing, estimated damage at $200 to the Steps car and $25 to the Hicks auto.

Mary Carmichael Blake of Randleman was charged with exceeding a safe speed following investigation of an 11:27 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Memorial Drive.

Officers said the Blake car collided with a auto operated by Shirley Taylor Braxton of Ayden causing an estimated $150 damage to the Braxton car and $100 damage to the Blake vehicle.

Seek Bank Robbery-SLA Link

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Law enforcement officials are taking a new look at an April bank robbery-murder for possible links with some of the revolutionary comrades of Patricia Hearst.

Sources told The Associated Press that evidence seized in connection with the arrests of Miss Hearst and four of her associates in San Francisco last week was considered at a meeting Monday of three top officials in the state capital.

If prosecutors were to decide a link between the bank robbery and the SLA exists, it would raise the possibility that some members of the terrorist group might be charged with murder, the most serious accusation yet.

On April 21, three men and a woman — wearing ski masks — robbed a branch of the Crocker Bank in suburban Carmichael of $13,000.

One of the men fired his shotgun at a bank customer, 42-year-old Myrna Opsahl, who bled to death from her wound. Officials said there was "no reason at all" for the shooting.

The officials who met Monday, Sacramento FBI agent-in-charge Paul Young, Sacramento County Sheriff Duane Lowe and U.S. Atty. Duane Keyes, also discussed two sketches of suspects in the case.

There was no official comment on the continuing investi-

Deal Boosts Coal Prices

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Tennessee Valley Authority said today it has renegotiated a coal contract with Peabody Coal Co., boosting the price paid for a ton of coal from $8.33 to $12.

The amended contract is on coal Peabody mines for TVA from the agency's No. 9 seam at TVA's Camp Breckinridge coal reserves near Uniontown, Ky.

Peabody will deliver 5 million tons of coal a year from the mine to TVA's Cumberland Steam Power Plant in Stewart County, Tenn.

TVA also announced it has purchased 100,000 tons of coal from Texas Energy Services, Inc., in Eastern Kentucky for test purposes at its Bull Run Plant near Oak Ridge, Tenn.

The Bull Run facility has had fly ash emission problems with a low sulfur content coal it has been using. TVA said the test coal is of a different quality than that now being used at Bull Run.

gation of the Carmichael robbery. But the sources told The AP that the sketches closely resembled some of the individuals currently linked to the Symbionese Liberation Army, which kidnapped Miss Hearst on Feb. 4, 1974. They would not identify which individuals were being discussed.

The sketches — of a white woman between 25 and 35 with brown hair and glasses and a white man in his 20s with blond hair and a mustache — were released by the FBI in June. The drawings were based on descriptions given by the landlords who rented Sacramento garages where the stolen cars used in the robbery were hidden.

Police said in April that a fifth person may have been waiting outside the bank in a second getaway car.

An apparently unspent communique claiming responsibility for the robbery by the New World Liberation Front reportedly was found in one of the apartments searched after the arrests of Miss Hearst, William and Emily Harris, Wendy Yoshimura and Steve Soliah in San Francisco.

Authorities are known to be checking for links between the NWLF, SLA and a series of bombings in the San Francisco Bay area.

Sanford Maps Priority Drive

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Terry Sanford's presidential campaign's political organizing efforts will concentrate on Massachusetts and North Carolina because of financial difficulties, but the candidate himself will continue to criss-cross the nation.

Sanford, a former North Carolina governor who is seeking the Democratic presidential nomination, will open a campaign office in Raleigh Thursday. He has one in Boston, also.

"We'll hold it to those two states," said his national campaign coordinator, former Vermont Gov. Philip Hoff.

"We're holding where we are and not expanding at the moment," he said in a telephone interview.

Sanford's campaign is $40,000 in debt. That, says one source, is the result of "trying to run a national campaign without the money."

Hoff said basic expenses will be reduced. And he said the campaign will rely more on volunteers and will have a professional staff that is paid less.

If Sanford can raise $5,000 in individual contributions of less than $250 in 20 states, he can qualify under a new campaign law for $100,000 in matching federal money at the beginning of 1976.

Hoff said the requirements have been met for 12 states and that in 12 other states, it's "getting close."

Though the "primary concentration" will be on raising money, Hoff said Sanford will be making speaking trips throughout the country, including a West Coast trip planned for October.

Massachusetts' presidential primary is the second one held; the first is in New Hampshire. Sanford said he will enter the New Hampshire primary but will consider Massachusetts his first test.

In 1972, Sanford lost to Alabama Gov. George Wallace in North Carolina's presidential primary.

Chief Sees No Police Slowdown

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — Chief John Worsham claims he has "noticed no appreciable slowdown" despite a police worked slowdown called to protest "intolerable wages" and working conditions.

A spokesman for the New Bern Police Officers Association said the slowdown, which began Sunday, involved 25 officers below the rank of captain.

The policemen said Monday they would respond only to emergencies and would quit doing routine police matters such as issuing traffic citations until the city council considered their complaints.

Police in Asheville and Raleigh have also threatened work slowdowns over wage and working condition complaints.

Flash Flood Watch In Portions Of N.C.

By The Associated Press
A flash-flood watch is in effect for the central and western portions of North Carolina today and tonight.

There already has been heavy rain—four inches in the 24 hours ended at 2 a.m. today at New Bern. Greensboro had two and one-quarter inches in that period, and Charlotte almost two and one-half.

Streets in some cities are covered with water. Wrightsville Beach reported winds of up to 43 miles an hour Monday. Wind damage was reported in the eastern suburbs of Wilmington, toward the beaches.

This rain was not caused by Hurricane Eloise. Her remains will be affecting Tar Heel weather by late tonight and Wednesday.

The rain so far was caused by excessive moisture in the air, east to northwest winds over the western portions, and a frontal zone through the east-central portion.

The rain has saturated soils. And with a likelihood of more heavy rains, the risk of flash flooding of small creeks, streams and low-lying areas, plus streets, remains high for the next few days.

Small-craft advisories are in effect south of Hatteras to Cape Fear. This is because of gusty winds associated with thunderstorms.

Highs today will range from the middle 80s on the coast to the 60s in the mountains.

Highs Monday were in the 80s in the east, but mostly in the 60s and low 70s in the western half. The great range is because a warm frontal zone lies through east-central North Carolina.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — (NCDA) — Trends on the North Carolina hog markets today are steady to $1.50 higher. Wilson 62.50-63.50; High Falls 61.75-62.75; Rocky Mount 62.50-63.00; Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Elizabethtown, Pink Hill, Pine Level, Chadbourn, Ayden, Laurinburg and Benson 64.00; Kingston 62.25-63.25; Salisbury 61.00 and Tarboro and Bethel 60.50-61.00.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Stock market posted a moderate decline today, encountering more of the profit taking that set in on Monday.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 4.22 at 816.18 after Monday's 9.39 drop.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 2-1 margin in quiet trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers found little in the economic news to give stocks a strong push in either direction.

The principal source of the selling seemed to be disappointment over the market's failure Monday to extend the strong rally of late last week.

Advance estimates by OPEC-watchers have been that the group will settle on an increase of 5 to 10 per cent.

Eli Lilly was down a point to 53 on top of a 7½-point slide Monday on the company's estimate of flat 1975 earnings and reports that the Food & Drug Administration was reconsidering strict controls on a drug marketed by Lilly under the brand name Darvon.

The selling spilled over into some other drug issues, with Merck, the Big Board volume leader, dropping 1½ to 67, and Schering-Plough losing 1½ to 50½.

Gold stocks were fractionally lower in the wake of another big drop in world bullion prices.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .22 to 44.92 in the first hour.

The American Stock Exchange market value index slipped .36 to 84.24.

Obituaries

Boswell
ALEXANDRIA, Va.—Mr. Allen L. Boswell, 53, died here Sunday.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 2 p.m. at the Joyner's Funeral Home Chapel in Wilson by the Rev. Bill Ewell. Burial will be in Maplewood Cemetery in Wilson.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Eilene Shaffer Boswell of the home; three sisters, Mrs. J. M. Naron and Mrs. Joe Faulk, both of Wilson, and Mrs. William Smith of Black Creek; three brothers, Gray Boswell of Cary, Rupert Jay Boswell of Greenville, and Caney Boswell of Wilson.

The family will meet with their friends at Joyner's Funeral Home Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. At other times, the family will be at the home of Mrs. Joseph Faulk, 1731 Ridgeway, Wilson.

Bullock

Mr. Joseph Murphy Bullock, 66, retired meat cutter, died Monday in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

A funeral service will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Chapel of the Wilkerson Funeral Home, by the Rev. Bobby Bazen. Burial will be in Pinewood Memorial Park.

Mr. Bullock, a native of Pitt County, was formerly employed with the N. C. Highway Department. He was a veteran of the U. S. Army, and was a resident of Brownwood, Tex. for 14 years. From 1956 until his retirement in 1971 he was employed with Colonial Stores in Winston-Salem. Since 1971 he had lived in the Sheldermine community, and was a member of the Ardmore Baptist Church in Winston-Salem.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Blanche Williams Bullock of the home; and two sisters, Mrs. Annabelle B. Mills of Winterville, and Mrs. Mable B. Dail of Washington.

Hailey

Funeral services for Mrs. Lizzie Foreman Hailey will be conducted Thursday at 4 p.m. at Phillips Christian Church by the Rev. E. B. Williams. Burial will be in Brown Hill Cemetery.

A Pitt County native, she lived here most of her life and was a member of Phillips Church. Surviving her are four sisters, Mrs. Ella White of Winterville, Mrs. Catherine Moore of Farmville, and Mrs. Frances Jordan and Mrs. Hattie Foreman, both of Fountain; six brothers, Charlie Foreman of Rt. 4, Greenville, Essom Foreman of Washington, D.C., Dave Foreman of Baltimore, Md., Robert Foreman of Farmville, John and Junior Foreman, both of Fountain; four grandchildren; and several great grandchildren.

The family will receive friends at Phillips Brothers Mortuary Wednesday from 8 to 9 p.m. The body will be placed in the church one hour before the funeral.

The U.N. General Assembly on Monday, the PLO would be excluded and the Soviet Union relegated to a background role.

However, Syria would have to sit down at the same table with Israel for the first time and negotiate with representatives of the Jewish state.

The talks would be held in Europe, probably in Geneva or Vienna.

Israel has indicated its willingness to make a second withdrawal on the Golan Heights as part of an interim agreement or a final peace settlement. But it has warned repeatedly that it will never surrender all of the territory occupied during the 1967 war.

Sinai Pullback Terms Initialed

By HANNS NEUERBOURG
Associated Press Writer
GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Egyptian and Israeli military negotiators completed an agreement early today setting forth the procedures to be followed in Israel's second troop withdrawal in the Sinai desert.

In a 15-minute ceremony following a final session of almost 18 hours, the Egyptian delegation signed the bulky document and the Israelis initialed it.

The Israeli government had announced previously that it would not sign until the U.S. Congress approved the stationing of American civilian electronic experts in the buffer zone between Israeli and Egyptian forces. U.S. officials expect this approval next week.

Gen. Ensis Silasvuo, the Finnish commander of United Nations peacekeeping forces in the Middle East who presided over the negotiations, said he was confident this Israeli "procedure will not materially affect the agreement reached by the military working group."

Israel could delay its compliance with the agreement until it signed. But Israeli forces in Sinai were reported late last week to be in an "advanced stage of evacuation" already.

The negotiations ended shortly before dawn, more than five hours after the midnight deadline set by the Israeli-Egyptian agreement which Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger negotiated. Gen. Silasvuo had the clock stopped at 11:35 p.m., and the U. N. communique announcing "full agreement on all items of the agenda" was dated Monday.

The documents cover the details of the Israeli military withdrawal behind the Mitla and Gidi passes, the creation of the new buffer zone, the return of the Abu Rudeis oil fields to Egypt and the Egyptian occupation of the former U.N. buffer zone.

It was expected that the texts would not be made public until Israel signed.

Paul Expects To Lose Appeal Of Joan Little

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina Court of Appeals heard lawyers argue the appeal of Joan Little from a breaking, entering and larceny conviction today.

Her chief defense counsel told newsmen he expects an adverse decision and that the case will be carried to federal court.

Miss Little was serving a 7-10 year sentence on the conviction for breaking into some house trailers when she stabbed jailer Clarence Alligood to death. In a sensational trial, Miss Little was acquitted of murder charges after saying that Alligood sexually assaulted her.

"I always expect the Court of Appeals to be adverse," Jerry Paul told a reporter, "in answer to a question after the court session."

Paul said he considered the Appeals Court "incompetent," in answer to another question.

In his arguments for a new trial, Paul's associate, James Keenan, contended that incompetent "hear-say" testimony was admitted at her trial in Beaufort Superior Court and that the trial judge erred in his charge to the jury.

After the session, Paul indicated to reporters he expects the Appeals Court to uphold the conviction and that an appeal would be carried to federal court.

Keenan contended that allowing Miss Little's brother, Jerome, who was a co-defendant to testify against his sister without informing the jury that he had pleaded guilty to one count in the indictment was improper.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Andrew Vanore, who argued the case for the state, defended the admission of the brother's testimony.

Chief Appeals Court Judge Walter E. Brock asked Vanore about the inclusion in the record of the case on appeal testimony given by Miss Little after the jury had rendered its verdict which amounted to a "full confession."

"Isn't this a voluntary confession," Brock asked.

Vanore replied that it was "quite voluntary" but that the state felt there was "plenty of evidence" to sustain the conviction without its relying on Miss Little's testimony.

Nine Items For Planning Agenda

Nine items of business are scheduled for action by the Joint City-County and Greenville Planning and Zoning Commissions on Wednesday night at city hall.

Items on the joint board's agenda include: rezoning request by Cherry Oaks Inc. to rezone 102 acres known as Camelot Subdivision from RA-20 to R-9; preliminary plat of addition to Red Oak Subdivision;

Request by Dr. Charles Pace to amend the Medical Arts zoning district to include residential quarters for resident manager, supervisor or caretaker and apartments;

Consideration of a request by the Greenville Board of Adjustments to consider the addition of "flea market or roadside sales stand" to a compatible commercial district; and discussion of an amendment to Section 32-139 of the zoning ordinance.

Business on the Greenville board agenda involves: rezoning request of Robert E. Laughter and others to rezone approximately 66 acres bounded by E. Fifth Street, Laurel Street, a line extended along E. Third Street and Ash Street from R-6 to R-9.

Satellite annexation request by Cherry Oaks Inc. for the Windy Ridge Condominiums on 14th Street Extension; consideration of the revised preliminary plat of Westhaven Subdivision, Section III; and Rezoning request of Mrs. John Collins to rezone the northwest corner of E. Fifth Street and Harding Street from R-6 to Office and Institutional.

The planning sessions will begin at 8 p.m.

Anguished Hunt To Find A Cure

LAKE WORTH, Fla. (AP) — Leo and Shirley Flannery, in an anguished search for a cure to a rare disease that has afflicted four of their children, have turned to heavy vitamin doses, bio-feedback, a psychic and even a "knock-down, drag 'em out healer."

"We're looking everywhere for treatments," he says.

His wife adds: "Doctors have the attitude that we should control the seizures and keep the children comfortable, but we won't quit looking."

The disease, called myoclonic epilepsy, hit Rick first in 1966 when he was 10 years old. Now he can't walk, is unconscious most of the time and has so little control of his muscles he can barely swallow.

His two younger brothers and a sister were struck by the disease as they, too, neared their 10th birthdays. Only 16-year-old Liza has escaped. The hereditary disease causes seizures and gradually claims the voluntary and reflexive muscles, doctors say.

Normally, it strikes one of four children in the rare family that it hits, said Roswell Eldridge of the National Institute of Health in Bethesda, Md. In the Flannery family, both parents inherited one defective gene — possibly from an ancestor as far back as a hundred generations ago, he said.

Rick's brother, Mike, 18, cannot walk without support and cannot speak clearly; Laurie, 14, gave up her place on the swim team because her body shakes so much; Pat, 13, sleeps with his eyes open because he has seizures when he closes them.

"The kids have never complained," Mrs. Flannery said. "They want to please us so much that they would come out of seizures laughing."

Daily medicine for the four children costs almost $300 a month. An electric bed for Rick was $600, a stomach pump $160.

Later Today

RALEIGH (AP) — Insurance Commissioner John Ingram finished hearing arguments on medical malpractice insurance this morning and said he would announce his decision later today.

The St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance Co. has asked Ingram for a substantial rate increase and a fundamental change in the rules governing malpractice policies.

Wine Seminar Set In October

LANDAU, Germany, (UPI) — People wanting to taste the various Rhineland-Palatinate wines but also interested in plucking the grapes can do so between Oct. 11-18 at an International Wine Seminar.

The whole arrangement, including room and board, tasting the wines and harvesting the grapes costs $114, according to the Verein Suedliche Weinstrasse (Southern Wine Road Club) in Landau.

Record Day On Market

FARMVILLE — Marketing of more quality smoking leaf grades was responsible for the highest average of the season Monday on the Farmville Tobacco Market, sales supervisor Louis Williams reported.

Williams said that for the first time this season, smoking leaf grades accounted for almost as much volume as leaf grades yesterday and very little non-descript tobacco appeared on the warehouse floors.

The sales supervisor noted that prices on most grades were from two to four cents higher than on the previous sales day with the top price reaching $1.30 per pound on several piles of wrappers. The volume of leaf and lugs continued to decline in volume, he said.

Stabilization receipts yesterday were the lightest of the season, he added, as only 2.13 per cent of gross sales went to the government loan program.

The market sold 751,982 pounds Monday for $832,678, an average of $110.73 per hundred pounds. To date, the market has sold 21,092,072 pounds for $20,700,802 in averaging $98.14 per hundred.

Believes Syria Is Ready

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger thinks Syria may agree next week to negotiations with Israel for another Israeli withdrawal on the Golan Heights, a senior American official said today.

The talks could be held at the informal Middle East conference Kissinger proposed Monday as an alternative to the dormant Geneva peace conference.

Even though the Syrian government has attacked Egyptian President Anwar Sadat for his recent agreement with Israel, U.S. officials held out hope that Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam of Syria will give Kissinger a green light when they meet next week. These officials said Kissinger's proposal could provide a forum for negotiations without the threat of a breakdown over the Palestinian issue.

Syria has championed the Palestinian cause while Israel has said it would boycott Geneva if the Palestine Liberation Organization was seated there. If there is agreement on the "informal" approach Kissinger advocated in a policy speech to

Furman's Baker In Awe Of Appalachian Power

MARSHALL JOHNSON
AP Sports Writer

Furman's Art Baker says in his three years as a football coach in the Southern Conference, he believes Appalachian State's Mountaineers "impressed me more than any other team I've seen."

Despite the fact Furman has lost its first two games, Appalachian State Coach Jim Brakefield says the Paladins

"have looked good and we'll expect to have our hands full with Coach Baker's team."

All of which is a way of saying Appalachian goes to Furman to meet the Paladins Saturday night in a game that's crucial to the league championship hopes of both.

The Mountaineers are tied for the lead at 1-0 with Richmond's Spiders as a result of a 41-25 drubbing in their opening game of East Carolina's Pirates, who won the title in 1972 and 1973.

Last weekend, Appalachian knocked off Wake Forest, which had gained a share of the Atlantic Coast Conference upset of the nationally ranked North Carolina State.

After losing its opener 17-5 to Tennessee Tech, Furman went down 27-21 last Saturday to Richmond, dropping to 0-1 in the conference race. It was Furman's fourth straight defeat over two seasons.

"There isn't anything they don't do well," says Baker of the Mountaineers. "They have a good inside running game and a good outside running game."

Defensively, Baker says the Mountaineers "are sound and they may have the best secondary we have faced in some time."

Brakefield's biggest worries are Furman's two backfield stars, quarterback David Whitehurst and running back Larry Robinson.

"We know that Robinson and Whitehurst can move the ball and we've always had a tough time with Furman," says Brakefield. "We respect Furman, especially after their game with Richmond."

So much for the negative aspects.

On the positive side, each coach believes his offense is beginning to jell.

"We are very pleased with our offense," says Brakefield. He had special praise for quarterback Robbie Price's direction of a last-minute drive that set up the game-winning field goal in the victory over Wake Forest.

Against Richmond, Baker says "our execution had been so much better" on offense until the Paladins lost the ball on a fumble at the Spiders' 40 with 1:35 left that might have prevented them from pulling out the game.

But there's one problem Brakefield doesn't have, that of getting his team up after four successive defeats.

"I think we have the kind of team that can come back," says Baker.

Come Saturday night, he'll find out.

Johnson Is Lost

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—Citadel fullback Andrew Johnson was scheduled for knee surgery today and will be lost to the team for the season, Bulldog Coach Bobby Ross announced Monday.

Johnson, Southern Conference player of the year in 1974, was injured in Saturday's game at Colgate that The Citadel lost, 16-0. Ross said the powerful senior was hit as he faked into the line in the first period.

The coach had counted on the Savannah, Ga., senior for most of this year's offense. He said, "We've got to change our offensive philosophy and hitch up our belts."

Ross tapped freshman Alvin Perkins to replace Johnson in the starting lineup for Saturday night's game against Wofford.

Damascus, the 1967 horse of the year at the age of 3, was trained by Frank Whiteley.

Bucs Rip Phils For East Flag

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark may not have been the only man in Three Rivers Stadium that didn't know his team was eliminated from the National League East race but he was the only one who admitted it.

"We aren't out of it if we win every game and they lose every game," insisted Ozark after Pittsburgh walloped the Phils 11-3. Told that his team was seven games back with just six to play, Ozark said, "That's news to me ... it's disheartening."

If Ozark wanted more confirmation he could have dropped by the Pirate clubhouse where the champagne was flowing and congratulations being exchanged all around.

"This is a great way to win a championship, beating the team that has been chasing you," said Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh who knows a division title when he wins one.

"We're used to winning," said outfielder Dave Parker. "Even when we went bad this year the Phillies didn't gain any ground on us and we just felt 'Hey, it's meant for us.'"

"I haven't been on a championship team since I was 14," added reliever Kent Tekulve. "We won the Babe Ruth League or something."

It was the fifth division crown in the last six years for the Bucs.

Elsewhere in the NL, Houston beat Cincinnati 5-1, San Diego edged Los Angeles 6-5 in 11 innings and St. Louis and Montreal split a double header, the Cardinals winning the first game 6-4 in 12 innings and the Expos taking the second one 8-5.

The Bucs brought out the big bats Monday night to end Phillie hopes of a miracle comeback. Pittsburgh built a 6-3 lead over the first seven innings, then wrapped it up with five runs in the eighth.

Dave Parker and Richie Zisk drove in four runs each, Parker with two singles and his 23rd home run and Zisk with two singles and a double. Ozark tried to stem the tide with seven pitchers and the first one, Tom Underwood, 14-13, took the loss.

Bruce Kison, 12-11, and Tekulve teamed for a seven-hitter for Pittsburgh.

Next stop for the Bucs will be the NL pennant series against the Reds, who clinched the West Division weeks ago.

Padres 6, Dodgers 5
Hector Torres led off the 11th inning with a home run to give San Diego the victory, snapping the Padres six-game losing streak. San Diego tied it in the ninth on a two-out wild pitch by knuckleballer Charlie Hough.

Cardinals 6-5, Expos 4-8
Ted Simmons won the opener for St. Louis with a two-run homer in the 12th inning, snapping a five-game Montreal winning streak. The Cards tied it in the ninth on an error by Montreal first baseman Nate Colbert.

The Expos came back in the nightcap on the strength of Jim Lytle's two-run pinch single in the sixth.

Captains Chosen

Team captains for the East Carolina-Southern Illinois game were named today by the ECU coaching staff.

Ricky Bennett, who returned to action Saturday, and moved to a new position—center—will head the offensive unit. Bennett, usually a guard, played the entire game at the center spot.

The defensive captain will be Cary Godette, defensive end, while Greg Pingston will head up the specialty unit.

It was also announced that it is unlikely that Ken Strayhorn will be able to play in this week's game with the Salukis. Strayhorn suffered a slight shoulder separation in the second half against William & Mary. At first it was thought that he would be ready to play by Saturday, but team doctors have decided to give him at least one week's full rest.

Jim Bolding, who injured a tendon, is also out of the lineup for the game. He may miss two to three weeks, with Steve Hale moving into his safety spot.

The Bucs will be seeking to even their record at 2-2 in the game in Carbondale, Ill., this weekend. Kickoff is set for 2:30 p.m. Eastern time.

Contest Winners

Chris Holder of Rt. 4, Box 62-D, Greenville, captured first place in the second of the weekly Daily Reflector Football Contests this week.

Holder correctly picked the winners in 24 of the 32 games listed. He won, however, by coming closest to the point total. The actual total was 62 points, scored in UCLA's 34-28 win over Tennessee, and in Navy's 55-7 win over Connecticut. Holder has a guess of 63, just one off.

Second place went to Jerry T. Carter of P.O. Box 3453, Greenville, who also had 24 games right. His point total guess was 64, too off the actual 62.

One other person also had 24 right, but was further off the total.

The two ties were counted wrong on all ballots, since rules allow the picking of a tie.

The third contest appears on the following two pages.

Injuries Dampen Win For Oakland Raiders

By JOHN R. SKINNER
AP Sports Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Oakland Coach John Madden finally found out what it's like to win a National Football League season opener. But injuries have cooled his excitement over the Raiders' convincing 31-21 conquest of the Miami Dolphins.

Madden apparently lost defensive tackle Kelvin Korver for the season with knee ligament damage in Monday night's victory, Oakland's first opening success in six years. A team spokesman also said fullback Marv Hubbard was probably lost for three weeks with a shoulder injury.

On the bright side was a defensive effort that thoroughly dominated Miami in the first half and quarterback Ken Stabler's expert dissecting of a Dolphin defense, a defense noticeably missing injured veterans Nick Buoniconti, Dick Anderson and Manny Fernandez.

"We got off to a good jump .. then in the second half, it seemed something would always happen to give Miami a little lift," said Madden after breaking Miami's 31-game winning streak at home.

"They proved they're still a fine team. They kept coming back at us," Madden said of the Dolphins, whose offense was without World Football League defectors Larry Csonka, Paul Warfield and Jim Kiick.

The Raiders jumped on top 17-0 on plunges of two and one yards by Pete Banaszak and a 25-yard field goal by George Blanda. Oakland upped the lead to 24-7 on Mark van Eeghen's yard run in the third period.

NFL Rift Still Has Not Closed

By TOM SEPPY
AP Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — A new contract proposal that relaxes the controversial Rozelle Rule and could cost the 26 club owners an estimated $30 million in new money over five years still has not brought about a National Football League labor peace.

The NFL Management Council, representing the owners, made its latest proposal to the players union Monday, but day-long negotiations apparently have failed to resolve the wide differences between the two sides that have been prevalent in talks over the past 20 months.

Negotiations under the supervision of federal mediators continued today.

After the prolonged sessions, Sargent Karch, council executive director, said management had responded to a challenge by union president Kermit Alexander to make a final offer and give it's "best shot."

"We have today given our 'best shot,'" Karch told newsmen. "Like other unions, they would like to get the moon, everything they demand. They don't believe we have given them everything we can give. We hope they will accept the package."

Alexander and other union leaders and player representatives present at the meeting declined to comment specifically on the owners' latest proposal, going from the joint session with management into a union meeting that lasted late into the night.

W.J. Usery Jr., chief federal mediator who has been conducting the current negotiations, appeared frustrated by the apparent impasse but would only say: "We know it's going to be hard, difficult. We're going to work at it. We're not satisfied until we get an agreement."

The management council's latest offer came as a result of an agreement reached last Thursday which ended a strike by five clubs and permitted the playing of the opening weekend of the 1975 NFL season.

Under the terms of the agreement, negotiations could continue for two more days and then the management proposal, with any changes agreed upon, is to go to the rank and file players for a vote, with the results being made known by Oct. 2.

The last collective bargaining agreement expired Jan. 31, 1974. Since that expiration, the league has been hit by two player strikes, one of which was for 42 days during the 1974 preseason.

Chief among the roadblocks to reaching a contract agreement has been the Rozelle Rule, which empowers the commissioner to make the compensation when a player joins a second team after his option year and the two clubs cannot agree on his worth.

Under the offer, no player with four years experience would be forced to change teams. The proposal also says any player with four or more years experience who signs a contract of three or more years may become a free agent at the end of that contract, without having an option year.

Other points in the proposal would set minimum salaries of $18,000 for veterans with increases to $21,000 in four years, establish a maximum $31,500 for the Super Bowl champion players and considerably increase medical, life insurance and pension benefits.

Robinson Rehired

CLEVELAND (AP) — Frank Robinson, major league baseball's first black manager, will manage the Cleveland Indians for a second year. General Manager Phil Seghi made the announcement today.

With six games to go to the end of his first season, Robinson has piloted the Tribe to a current fourth place finish in the American League's Eastern Division with a record of 76 victories against 77 losses.

The Indians face two more games here with Milwaukee after Monday night's 7-6 victory, then wind up play in a four-game series at Boston.

Robinson said recently he'd like to return as manager but without his playing role. He was active as designated hitter early in the current season, but he dropped out under a combination of a muscle injury and improved hitting by other Tribesmen.

Details of the new contract weren't disclosed.

But it took a 102-yard kickoff return and three interceptions, all in the fourth quarter, to kill the Dolphins.

"There wasn't any excuse for the runback," said Dolphins' Coach Don Shula of Harold Hart's return which came after Norm Bulaich had ended an 80-yard drive with a yard plunge to cut the lead to 24-14.

"We relaxed when it looked like he was going to down the ball in the end zone and then the lane opened up," added Shula.

Hart explained, "I thought about downing it because I wasn't sure how deep I was in the end zone. But when I saw Jesse Phillips wave me on, I just took off. I knew I had it once I cut toward the sidelines."

Miami cut the lead to 31-21 when Mercury Morris added to his second period touchdown run of four yards with a one-yard plunge. And the Dolphins, with over five minutes to get back in the game, were on Oakland's 38 when Art Thoms blocked and then caught a Bob Griese pass.

Copeland Honored

By The Associated Press
Tailback Billy Copeland, who finally got the Virginia attack in high gear against VMI, and North Carolina State receiver Elijah Marshall, who caught a scoring pass against Florida, are the Atlantic Coast Conference football players of the week.

Copeland, a 6-1, 195-pounder from Charlottesville, Va., rallied the Cavaliers from a 21-9 deficit with 13:44 remaining to play by exploding on a 65-yard run to the VMI one-yard line.

After scoring then, the Cavaliers marched 55 yards to tie the score, and placekicker Joe Jenkins added the extra point for a 22-21 victory.

Copeland carried the ball 23 times for 190 yards, the ninth best performance ever for a Virginia runner.

"Billy's run really ignited us," said coach Sonny Randle. "He had an outstanding game for us."

Marshall, a sophomore from Whitsett, N.C., came on early in the game as a replacement for Don Buckley, who suffered a broken nose on the fifth play. He had four catches for an even 100 yards, including a 38-yard scoring pass from quarterback Dave Buckley, Don's twin.

With less than four minutes remaining in the game, and Florida leading 7-0, the Wolfpack recovered a fumble on the Gator's 38-yard line. On the first play, Buckley rolled out and threw the TD strike to Marshall, who was two steps behind the Florida safety at the five. A two-point conversion provided State with the 8-7 victory.

Earlier, N.C. State middle guard Tom Higgins and Maryland back Ken Roy were picked by a committee of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association as the defensive players of the week.

Sooners Still Lead Grid Poll

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer
Ohio State and Southern California became Oklahoma's top challengers in The Associated Press college football poll today in the wake of Michigan's 19-19 tie with Stanford.

The surprising deadlock dropped Michigan from second to ninth in the rankings.

Oklahoma, the preseason favorite after winning the 1974 national championship, held onto the top spot with 56 first-place votes and 1,192 of a possible 1,200 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters following a 46-10 trouncing of Pitt that dropped the losers out of the Top Twenty.

Ohio State defeated Penn State 17-9 and moved up from third to second with three first-place votes and 1,031 points while Penn State fell from seventh to 12th. Southern California, a 24-7 winner over Oregon State, climbed from fourth to third. The Trojans received the other first-place ballot and 954 points.

Nebraska jumped from sixth to fourth with an impressive 45-0 walloping of Indiana while Missouri defeated Illinois 30-20 and retained fifth place.

Texas went from eighth to sixth by downing Washington 28-10. The Longhorns were followed by Notre Dame, up from ninth to seventh thanks to a 17-0 blanking of Purdue. Texas A&M was up from 11th to eighth after a 39-8 drubbing of Louisiana State, with Michigan ninth and UCLA 10th after defeating Tennessee 34-28. The Bruins, 12th a week ago, replaced Tennessee in 10th place while the Vols fell to 16th.

Alabama, which began the season in second place only to lose its opener to Missouri, got back to 11th by crushing Clemson 56-0. Rounding out the Second Ten behind the Crimson Tide were Penn State, Arizona State, West Virginia, Arizona, Tennessee, Oklahoma State, Stanford, Florida and Maryland.

Last week's Second Ten consisted of Texas A&M, UCLA, Florida, Alabama, Pitt, Arkansas, Arizona, Arizona State, Miami of Ohio and West Virginia.

Arkansas dropped out by losing to Oklahoma State 20-13 and Miami was ousted via a 14-13 loss to Michigan State.

Trio Of Schools Set To Open In Volleyball

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer
There is an experiment going on in three Pitt County high schools and one Greene County school this fall in girls athletics. The four schools have formed a volleyball league and things are constantly looking brighter.

After a few days of shaky beginnings, the small league has become better organized and play will begin this afternoon with Ayden-Grifton visiting Greene Central and D.H. Conley hosting North Pitt.

Three of the coaches all agreed that it was hard at first to recruit girls to make up the teams. But once a few came out, more came so that one coach actually had to cut the team.

to set up their shots."

She pointed out that it only took a hour for the four coaches to organize the schedule and that the whole season will be an experiment.

"I think that next year it will be like basketball in that you have 30 or 40 come out and you can cut down and not build up."

people interested and get some at a match. It won't be an empty gym."

Not only does Ayden-Grifton have a new sport, the Chargers have a new coach to go along with it. Patricia Woodard has 14 girls on the A-G team. "We had to cut several. We had 18 and kept 14," she said. She said the main six girls will be Vickie Whitehurst, Vivian Ellis, Peggy Wilkes, Cindy Potter, Karen Hasely and Amy Kilpatrick.

She also had her problems with teaching the game. "We've done right much practicing and not much strategy yet."

Miss Woodard analysed the prospective spectator saying, "Some will be out because of interest and some out of curiosity. We won't know (about numbers of observers) until we see what the response is."

She also noted a similar lack of knowledge of the team's existence by the A-G student body. "Right now, I'm not sure they know about it. Some of the football players have come by and asked why they can't have a boy's team." Like her two fellow coaches she hopes it will be a good drawing card.

The four teams (the fourth is D.H. Conley) have a schedule of six games, facing each other twice. The matches will be played twice a week through Oct. 6.

Sarah Moore: Shadow In Radical Underground

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —
Sara Jane Moore, a middle-aged bookkeeper, was a strange traveler in the shadowy radical underground, welcomed by some groups as a comrade but suspected by others as an informer. Her recent past suggests she was both—a personality laced with bizarre contradictions. Most bizarre of all, she was a paid FBI informant who was arrested Monday for taking a shot at President Ford. As the tangled trail of her involvements emerged, it showed that Mrs. Moore, 45, who called herself "Sally," was a onetime suburban matron with a country club membership, the devoted mother of a nine-year-old son, a dedicated conservative and a radical "groupie" who flirted with involvements in the Symbionese Liberation Army, the United Prisoners Union and Vietnam Veterans Against the War.

"She was a strange woman," says a man who worked with her on the Hearst kidnap food giveaway, "a very strange woman."

The FBI acknowledged that she was hired as "a possible security informant" from June 1974 to June 1975. She was fired for telling an underground newspaper about her clandestine job.

Even before she spoke out about her informant status, Mrs. Moore was suspect in the underground. Establishment types who worked with her on the food giveaway weren't too sure of her either; she eventually was fired.

After she blew her cover last June, Mrs. Moore tried to gain acceptance in the radical community but was shunned by many. She began giving interviews on her sojourn as an informant.

At least two radio stations were puzzled when "Sally" phoned to report the capture of Patty Hearst and two SLA comrades last Thursday — before the FBI had announced it.

Then, Sunday night, San Francisco police were tipped anonymously that Mrs. Moore had a handgun. Two officers went to her house and asked if she had a gun.

"She said yes and then took it out of her purse," Lt. Frank Jordan said. "The gun was confiscated, she was cited and released pending a court appearance."

Those who knew her on the left and right were shocked and unable to explain her motivation. The U.S. Attorney asked that she immediately undergo mental examination.

"This is incredible," gasped Jack Paladino, who worked with her on the People In Need food giveaway. "She was kind of a power groupie. She kept looking for a place where the power and the action was."

A. Ludlow Kramer, former Washington state Secretary of State who administered the PIN program for Randolph Hearst, said he finally fired Mrs. Moore.

"She said God had sent her to work on the program," he recalled. When ousted, she flew into a rage, he said. "We had to remove her and she sort of flipped out. She yelled and screamed. She was a difficult person to work with."

Her FBI period apparently followed. In interviews, Mrs. Moore gave colorful accounts of her adventures underground.

She said she came from a country club past in West Virginia, was divorced and making $50,000 a year as a bookkeeper when she joined PIN, met radicals and agreed to help the FBI.

Inmate Killed

RALEIGH (AP)—Corrections officials said a suspect would be charged with murder in the stabbing death of an Odom Correctional Center inmate.

Terry Giddeons, 22, died Monday afternoon after being stabbed early that morning with a knife fashioned from a steel arch support removed from a shoe.

A spokesman said another inmate who would be charged murder in the death of the Wallace man was being held in isolation. His name was withheld pending the filing of charges.

Giddeons was serving a 12 year sentence in the Northampton County prison. In 1969, he was convicted of voluntary manslaughter in Pender County.

Julie Still Sees

Father As Same

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP) — "I don't see my father any different," said Julie Nixon Eisenhower. "I have, growing up in politics, a very real sense of human frailty."

Mrs. Eisenhower, daughter of the former president, was here Monday to tape a television show. She said her parents entertain dinner guests about three times a week and have been developing hobbies.

She said her father plays golf and her mother does a lot of gardening.

Mrs. Eisenhower also said her husband David, grandson of the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower, wants her to have her own career.

Multitrade Bargaining Helps To Assure Peace

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — They call it multitrade bargaining when they talk officially.

It's really just a case of good old-fashioned working together. But, whatever you call it, it has helped keep peace in Toledo's building trades industry for nearly five years, an abnormally tranquil time that is the envy of many a city.

Building trades workers have walked out in disputes in several Ohio cities this year, but not in Toledo.

"Here's how the labor peace plan works:

Management and labor voluntarily place their negotiations in the hands of two groups: the Northwestern Ohio Council of Construction Employers and the Northwestern Ohio Building and Construction Trades Council.

Common contract expiration dates and common bargaining appear to be the keys.

Both labor and management have spokesmen who do the actual negotiating, but representatives of each specific union and each firm sit at the table. They know exactly what is going on. Now and again one or both groups will caucus to give additional instructions.

"There's an awful lot of reasoning going on in the sessions," said Harley Dunbar, a founder of the employer's group. "It creates a climate that I think is probably more academic. You get into what makes sense, instead of getting your bristles up. And, there's social pressure to get the thing ironed out."

Frederick Rudolph, a general contractor who serves as president of the 19-member employers group, said the approach stimulates greater understanding of the various points of view.

This, he said, has resulted in less exorbitant demands from the unions and provided "a give and take between management and labor that we've never had before."

Harold Hauter, president of the unions' group, which represents some 9,000 workers in about 33 organizations, agreed. He said the common approach had reduced competition among unions stemming from members clamoring for particular benefits they see another union getting.

"We work things out together," he said. "Such leap-frogging did occur in the past, but it's gone by the wayside with our common approach, and this is a very important advantage."

Both men agreed multitrade negotiations have resulted in quicker agreements and reduced the possibility of strikes. Harry Morell, executive secretary of the workers' organization, said Toledo's building trades had only two strikes in some five years.

"I think that without our plan there would have six or eight," he said.

The management-labor cooperation now extends beyond contract negotiating. The groups try to work together continuously on establishment of such programs as equal employment procedures, safety and health standards and, at times, legal assistance.

Auto Parts In Bigger Demand

MIAMI (UPI) — Fewer new car sales are proving a boon to the automotive aftermarket, according to Al Weiner, president of Renard Manufacturing Co., Inc., manufacturers of automobile diodes.

Weiner said that recent figures show that of the 105.3 million cars on the road today, 20 per cent are from three to five years old, and 25 per cent are from five to eight years old.

In addition, only 6.5 million cars were scrapped last year, a 1.5 million decrease from the eight million scrapped in 1973. As a result repair companies all over the country are recording stronger sales, Weiner said, and there has been an upsurge in the demand for parts.

Lillian Woo Is Candidate

RALEIGH (AP)—An announcement by consumer advocate Lillian Woo Monday that she will seek the Democratic nomination for state auditor next year was immediately followed by incumbent Henry Bridge's declaring himself a candidate for reelection.

Bridges, 68, has been auditor since 1947. He said he would stand on his record and pledged a "continuation of the conscientious and studious effort to increase the efficiency of the function of the auditor's office."

Mrs. Woo, 37, is a former member of the State Milk Commission. She also was a former special assistant for consumer affairs to the attorney general.

She filed a political committee report Monday that said she would be a candidate for state auditor and that Thomas E. Reid of Raleigh would be her campaign treasurer.

Mrs. Woo is currently director of the Consumers Center of North Carolina. She is a former president of the North Carolina Consumers Council.

A native of Honolulu, she is the wife of an IBM executive.

Ford And Nixon Talk On Phone

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — President Ford and former President Richard M. Nixon spoke for five minutes over the telephone last weekend.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Monday that Ford finished a round of golf at Monterey, Calif., and then placed a call to Nixon at San Clemente. Nessen said he didn't know what they talked about.

Veterans Day Is Back To Nov. 11

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Ford has signed legislation returning Veterans Day to Nov. 11 beginning in 1978.

The new law, which a White House spokesman said Ford signed last weekend, ends the practice established by Congress of celebrating the holiday on the last Monday of October.

The holiday honors the nation's military veterans.

Silence Poses Obstacle To Confirmation Move

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)

Thomas Kleppe's past silence on conservation and environmental issues may prove to be the main hurdle facing the North Dakota millionaire as he seeks confirmation as interior secretary.

Those opposed to Kleppe's nomination have asked whether his experience as a wax manufacturer, a politician and as head of the Small Business Administration qualify him to take over the Interior Department.

The Senate begins confirmation hearings today on his nomination.

Representatives of many environmental protection groups expressed acute disappointment when President Ford nominated the 56-year-old Kleppe to head a department with heavy impact on the environment.

In a large sense, Kleppe faces the opposite problem encountered by his immediate predecessor, former Wyoming Gov. Stanley K. Hathaway. In a grueling set of hearings, Hathaway was forced to defend his extensive and controversial record on environmental and conservation issues.

Hathaway quit after less than six weeks on the job, and friends blamed the strain of the hearings for mental pressures that led to his hospitalization and resignation.

Suicide Drug

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—The pain killer Darvon has replaced sleeping pills as the most popular drug in North Carolina for committing suicide, says the state medical examiner's office.

Dr. Page Hudson, the chief medical examiner, says his office recorded 30 deaths from Darvon in 1974, more than the deaths by all sleeping pills. He added that deaths from overdoses of Darvon in the state in the first quarter of this year are three or four times as many as from barbiturates.

In a report in the latest issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Hudson and Dr. Arthur J. McBay say that the growing use of Darvon to commit suicide probably is not restricted to North Carolina.

Egypt has textile plants, chemical, steel, cement and fertilizer factories and a film industry supplying the Middle East, Africa and Asia.

One Tar Heel Lived 130 Years

By Dr. H.G. JONES, Curator
North Carolina Collection
Written for The AP
CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Who was the oldest person ever to live in North Carolina?

We may never know, but one candidate for the distinction was Cross Woodis who complained before his death about 1880 that liquore had shortened his years.

He had done pretty well, though. According to his biographer, Woodis was 130 years old when he died. If we base his age on the census of 1860 when he was listed as 100, he would have been only 120 at the time of his death. But, what difference would 10 years make at that age?

Sometime after he was a century old, Cross Woodis gave up hard drink, but he still enjoyed chewing tobacco, smoking his pipe and playing his fiddle. Most of all, he enjoyed telling tall tales.

We would perhaps know nothing of Cross Woodis except for a tiny sketch published in 1905 by Alfred Nixon, a former teacher, county surveyor, sheriff and school superintendent, who served as Lincoln County's clerk of superior court from 1898 until his death in 1924. Nixon, who as a youngster knew Woodis well, based his information on the old man's own account.

A mulatto, he was born free but bound to a white man named Curtis until he was 21. Woodis, according to census records, was born in Mecklenburg County long before the Revolution. He spent many years in Cabarrus County but lived in Lincoln County in his advanced years. He had a cabin on the farm of William King near Catawba Springs. As a young man Woodis married a free black woman who, when the southern state began restricting the rights of free Negroes, insisted that the couple move to the free state of Ohio.

Woodis told her to go ahead with her relatives and he would follow. He never did, except for a visit. After years of separation from his first wife, he married another free black woman in North Carolina.

Apparently Woodis was primarily a farmer, but he worked at various jobs—fisherman, hunter, horse racer, well digger and water witch. With a forked peach tree sprout, he was almost unerring in locating water for his clients.

The census taker of 1860 reported that Woodis was the only farmer in Lincoln County growing rice—perhaps a natural outgrowth of his ability to produce water from the ground.

Woodis was remembered as shriveled and stooped but retaining a remarkable degree of his senses, particularly his memory and wit. He claimed to have killed a British soldier while guarding a cache of guns during the Revolution, a claim that Nixon accepted as true.

In later years, neighbors sought out "Uncle Cross" to hear his stories, many of which he exaggerated.

In Cabarrus County, Woodis said, he dug a well so deep that when he hit water he could hear roosters crowing in China. Always on the lookout for bee colonies, he said he once found a tree filled with honey along the Catawba River, but that when he tried to get to the honey the tree toppled into the water, sweetening the river "five miles up, and I don't know how fur down, sir." Nixon once asked Woodis what was the biggest lie he ever told. Indignantly, the old man replied, "By de gods, sir, Mr. Nixon, I never told a lie in my life." Then, with a slowly developing grin, he admitted that he had just told his biggest lie.

Throughout the area the ultimate characterization of a prevaricator was to be accused of being "as big a liar as Old Cross."

But it was all in fun. The centenarian was loved by both whites and blacks, and Nixon wrote, "I never heard anything dishonorable charged to his account."

Cross Woodis died at the home of a daughter in Mecklenburg County about 1880 and was buried at a Presbyterian church for blacks at Caldwell, a few miles from Cowan's Ford.

The first skyscraper in the United States was built by the Home Insurance Co. in Chicago. Originally in 1885 it was only 10 stories. Two were added later.

Short Life For Some Of Shows

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Okay, gang, time for the biannual Fearless Forecast in which we predict which of the 26 regularly-scheduled new series on television will prosper or poop out.

As in past years, the Forecast is conducted without reference to tea leaves, or their equivalent, the Nielsen ratings. All of it is, as Quasimodo might say, just a hunch. Here then, the Forecast:

SATURDAY — Howard Cosell, the Mouth that Roared, got off to a tame start with his live variety show. But it has promise and will do at least a season. Not so "Matt Helm." "Doc" also will turn his head, cough and expire shortly.

SUNDAY — "Swiss Family Robinson" will again be shipwrecked — or is landwrecked as the case may be — by January. "Family Holvak" will be similarly uprooted. "Bronk" may solve crimes, but he'll be gunned down by year's end. "Three for the Road," on the other hand, will pick up strength and wander about for at least a year.

MONDAY — "Barbary Coast" will soon leave San Francisco for the San Andreas Fault, but "Phyllis" might escape the Big Shake for a year. But only a year. "The Invisible Man," of course, hasn't a ghost of a chance.

TUESDAY — "Welcome Back, Kotter" is picking up script strength and will graduate to another season. "Joe and Sons" will last as long as Jerry Stiller is featured in it. "Switch" gets maybe a season, but "Beacon Hill," which started on the top, will be at the bottom by January, its characters more jumbled than now. "Joe Forrester," meanwhile, will pound the pavements into a second season.

WEDNESDAY — "When Things Were Rotten" will get Sherwood Forest defoliated, but it'll take a season. "Starky and Hutch" — yechh. Half a season. "Kate McShane" will lose her final case by midyear at about the same time "Doctor's Hospital" is closed.

THURSDAY — "On the Rocks" will pound its way to a second term, making big jokes out of little ones. "The Montefuscos" will be out of pasta by January, while the liberation of

"Fay" will continue for at least a year.

"Ellery Queen" also will last a year, but "Medical Story" will be DOA by mid-season, despite intensive efforts at script-to-mouth resuscitation.

FRIDAY — "Mobile One," about a TV reporter, probably will get the Big Story — about its cancellation — from the January newspapers. "Big Eddie," about an ex-gambler, may last a year if CBS lets Sheldon Leonard associate more with the spirit of Damon Runyon. If not, we make book this show won't even place in the mid-season Futurity.

We end the Fearless Forecast with a reminder to stay tuned for the big show ... life is only the station break.

Auto Industry Cites Smaller, Improved Engines

By PETE YOST
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — The Big Three automakers say smaller engines, increased use of catalysts and better engineering account for improvements in gas mileage reported by the Environmental Protection Agency for 1976 cars.

The EPA said Monday its tests show General Motors Corp.'s new mini-car, the Chevrolet Chevette, gets the best gasoline mileage of any new U.S. model.

At 33 miles per gallon, the Chevette is tied with two Japanese models, the Datsun B-210 and the Subaru, for the most efficient use of fuel.

GM cars averaged 16.6 miles per gallon, up 8 per cent from 1975 models and 38 per cent from 1974. Ford Motor Co. cars averaged 17.3 miles per gallon, up 27.5 per cent from 1975 and 21.8 per cent from 1974.

Chrysler Corp. averaged 16.4 miles per gallon, up 5.5 per cent from 1975 and 19.7 per cent over 1974.

American Motors was alone in showing a decline in gas mileage, averaging 18.3 miles per gallon, down 3.5 per cent from 1975 but up 11.6 per cent over 1974.

The new model cars — foreign and domestic — averaged a theoretical 17.6 miles per gallon, compared to 15.6 miles to the gallon last year and 13.9 miles in 1974, the EPA announced. That means gas mileage improved 12.8 per cent from 1975 and 26.6 per cent from two years ago.

Most of the progress resulted from installation of catalytic converters on more models to reduce exhaust pollution, according to EPA Administrator Russell E. Train.

Ford, which showed the greatest improvement in gas mileage, is installing converters on all 1976 cars, compared to having converters on only 65 per cent of the 1975 cars.

The converters guarantee low emissions, permitting the companies to retune car engines for greater fuel economy. GM had catalysts on all 1975 models, while Chrysler and AMC used the devices on some cars.

A Ford spokesman said the use of catalysts improved gas mileage. Smaller engines also were factors in better fuel mileage for the Ford Maverick and Ford Granada, the company said.

Refinements in engineering, new engines and introduction of smaller cars like the Chevette accounted for GM's increase in gas mileage, a spokesman said.

"This is convincing evidence that the free marketplace is working to meet both the nation's goals and the public's personal transportation — more efficiently and more effectively than could arbitrary legislation," said E. M. Estes, GM president.

The improvements brought the auto industry more than halfway toward President Ford's target of a 40 per cent increase in gas mileage by 1980.

The EPA emphasizes its test results do not guarantee the same fuel economy in on-the-road driving. Actual fuel economy varies, depending on each motorist's style of driving and condition of his or her car and engine.

Diplomas Barred

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—A temporary restraining order has been issued against a Texas firm the North Carolina attorney general's office says sells diplomas.

Trinity Christian College of Brownsville, Texas is accused of selling fraudulent college diplomas in the Fayetteville-Ft. Bragg area to military personnel who needed degrees for advancement in the service.

The attorney general's office said for $500, the firm would supply the soldiers with diplomas, transcripts and honors certificates.

It said that an investigation showed there to be no study courses conducted by the college, and that the college was actually an abandoned church in Brownsville.

A hearing has been set for Sept. 29 in Wake County Superior Court. In July, a Texas court ordered the same principals listed in the complaint to cease operating in violation of state law.

Urge Senate Save Toxins

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Two Duke University physiologists believe there is a beneficial use for the mass poison ordered destroyed by President Nixon in 1969 but recently found in a Central Intelligence Agency vault.

Drs. Toshio Narahasi and John W. Moore have asked that the 11 grams of saxitoxin be saved for research into the causes of multiple sclerosis and related diseases, and for a better anesthesia. This toxin is able to block nerve impulses and muscle movement. After the impulses are blocked, scientists can transmit other messages over the same nerves.

Narahasi and Moore have asked the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, which has been investigating the CIA, to save the toxin for research. They suggested that it be given to the National Institutes of Health or a similar agency for distribution to researchers. Scientists at Yale and the University of Maryland have made similar pleas.

The committee has suggested in a letter to President Ford and CIA director William Colby that this be done.

Puzzled Over Plague Of Mutilations

By WILLIAM C. MANN
Associated Press Writer
DENVER (AP) — Carl Whiteside's full-time job is trying to catch phantoms with a surgeon's precision and disappear into the night.

Colored pins protrude from the eastern half of a Colorado map on Whiteside's office wall at the Colorado Bureau of Investigations. Each pin represents a mutilated cow. "These crimes seem so bizarre, so senseless, so pointless," said Whiteside, 33, the CBI agent assigned to track down those committing what Gov. Richard Lamm called "one of the greatest outrages in the history of the Western cattle industry."

The pattern was set in Colorado one night in April, just after the snows melted. A rancher in Elbert County, east of Colorado Springs, found the shell of a dead cow, its tongue, sex organs, rectum and other body parts carefully carved out.

Since then, sheriffs in almost 20 of the plains counties of eastern Colorado have reported 128 more mutilated cattle, including a dozen in recent weeks. Whiteside said the Colorado cases bear striking similarities to incidents that first occurred at the turn of the decade in Minnesota, then spread to Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. Since mutilations began in Colorado, others have been reported in Wyoming, Montana, New Mexico and, this month,

Idaho. "The sheer number of reported mutilations lends itself to the idea that some kind of organized group is doing it," Whiteside said. "The motive is the problem. In most criminal cases, you find the motive, and you'll find the criminal."

"You understand the profit motive in a robbery, or lust in rape, or whatever. But as I said, this crime is senseless. There's certainly no profit motive. The body parts they're taking are not worth anything."

Cattlemen have begun posting armed guards at night. Because of theories that the mutilators are using a helicopter, there have been uncorroborated reports that choppers have been fired on.

Ranchers are accustomed to dead cattle. The rancher's guideline for generations has been that 2 per cent of a herd will be lost to disease or weather.

Why the fuss over 129 cattle, some of which have been proved in laboratory tests to have been mutilated by animal predators or carved up after dying natural deaths?

Sheriff George Yarnell of Elbert County, the hardest-hit area with 63 mutilations, said: "It's also the principle of the thing. They're doing this and getting by with it."

Yarnell said that at least some of the animals being cut were dead before the crime. That proves to him that he's not dealing with ordinary criminals.

"Anyone that would want to cut on a critter that's been dead a couple of days in hot weather ... the odor is sickening," Yarnell said.

FIRE DESTROYS PIER—A spectacular fire destroyed Pier 37 on the San Francisco waterfront early Sunday morning. The fire alarm near the Fisherman's Wharf also destroyed a smaller supply building and an old ferryboat, and heavily damaged a small restaurant and part of another gigantic pier warehouse. Five firemen were hospitalized but were not seriously injured. Unofficial damages were estimated at in excess of a million dollars. (AP Wirephoto)

ARRAIGNED IN OAKLAND—Wendy Yoshimura, who was arrested with Patty Hearst, is brought to the courthouse in Oakland on Monday where she was arraigned on four weapons and explosives charges which a prosecutor call "extremely serious". Miss Yoshimura was being arraigned in Oakland while across the bay in San Francisco a shot was fired at President Ford as he left the St. Francis Hotel. (AP Wirephoto)

Foodland Store Opens Tomorrow

A new Foodland grocery store outlet is opening today at the West End Shopping Center, with an official grand opening ceremony scheduled for 9 a.m. tomorrow morning with a ribbon cutting ceremony.

Housed in the building formerly occupied by the A and P Food Store, the new grocery shopping facility is jointly operated by John Langley, president of Shop-Eze, a food store chain based in Washington, N.C., and Ormond Wholesale Company of Greenville, a sponsoring wholesale agency for Foodland Stores.

Hours of operation planned for the West End Circle Foodland store are from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and from 1 to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

Langley, who for 18 years was associated with Ormond, said the Foodland store "is a locally owned operation, by people in Pitt County."

Manager for the new store will be James Wilson, with Beeny Lilly as assistant manager. Bill Phillips will be the meat manager.

"We have expanded all departments that were previously in the store," Langley said, "and have also included a delicatessen for hot carry out foods."

"The entire store has been repainted, redecorated and our new sign is in place," Langley added.

The election features a primary battle within the tiny U.S. Labor Party, a Marxist-oriented group which fielded candidates for various state offices in the 1974 general election.

Stanley Ezrol faces Mark Englander for the Labor Party nomination for mayor.

In the Democratic mayoral contest, three-term Mayor John Belk faces state Sen. Jim McDuffie, whom Belk defeated two years ago.

Belk has received backing from the city's two daily newspapers and much of the Charlotte banking and commercial interests.

McDuffie has the support of several neighborhood action groups which have sprung up in the last few years to promote the interests of their neighborhoods.

In the GOP mayoral race, veteran local political leader Henry Wilmer is opposed by Jim Warner Jr., and Herb Neubauer.

The Democrats have 13 council candidates and the Republicans nine. The seven receiving the most votes from each party will advance to the general election in November.

THE TIME HAS COME TO PUT PRICE & PRIDE TOGETHER AGAIN.

A&P has always stood for two things:

Price & Pride.

Price & Pride together made the great A&P great.

Then, somehow, we let Price & Pride get out of balance.
We forgot our own philosophy:

Price without Pride is no bargain.

And we suffered for it.

The time has come to put
Price & Pride together again.
And we're going to do it.

If we can't do it,
nobody can.
