Key Witness In Branch Case Says He Lied

Attorneys for Connie Hardee Branch, convicted in Pitt County Superior Court a year ago on charges of conspiracy to murder and being an accessory before the fact in connection with the shooting death of her husband Linwood Branch, have petitioned the court for an opportunity to examine a key witness in the case in an effort to determine if there is sufficient grounds to move for a new trial.

first degree murder charge originally lodged against him.
Wheaton's affidavit said "I testified for the State of North Carolina in the trial of Roy L. Sullivan and Connie Hardee Branch . . ." emphasizing that " . . . this testimony was given under the threat of death by Mr. (Louis) Gaylord, special solicitor, Mr. Eli Bloom, state solicitor, Mr. (Burt) Aycock, assistant state solicitor and Mr. Mark Owens, my attorney."

TIME ON KIDNEY MACHINE?

I have been given this address as a place to redeem soft drink or beer can pull tabs to provide time on a kidney machine for someone: Everett Senior Center, 37 & Oaks, Everett, Wash. 98201. Could you check on the validity of this offer? L.P.

Hotline inquired about the pull tab collection campaign. William A. Tomaras, Supervisor of Senior Services at the Center, said "We became involved at the request of a local Kiwanis Club which had a sponsor for recycling pull tabs for the benefit of the Kidney Foundation. At the end of March the sponsor discontinued the offer, but we continued to collect the tabs in expectation another sponsor would be found. Evidently this never occurred. I contacted the Northwest Kidney Center in Seattle and they were unable to verify that a sponsor had been paying for kidney machine time at the rate of one minute per tab, as we had been told. However, the Reynolds Aluminum Company is currently paying 15 cents per pound of aluminum and a truck from the company comes to our city one afternoon per week to collect aluminum and pay in cash for it. Recently we turned in 421 pounds of pull tabs and received a check for $63.15, which we endorsed and sent to the Northwest Kidney Center. We have become known as a center for collecting these tabs and have had many kinds of groups making contributions. In short, the benefits of the program are not as good as we first understood, but we do feel we are making a worthwhile contribution to a fine humanitarian cause."

We conclude that since Greenville also has an aluminum pickup, perhaps you would be better off to sell the pull tabs and whatever other aluminum you might have and make a contribution directly to the Kidney Foundation yourself, saving the cost of mailing the tabs to Washington. Perhaps some organization could make this a project, also, so individuals would not have to be concerned with selling each pickup day. Check with the Pitt Plaza Business Council Inc. 758-0424, for pickup dates and times.

Teaching The Doctors To Talk To Patients

By GREGORY GORDON
CHICAGO (UPI) — The middle-aged woman was on the verge of tears.

"The diagnosis is suspected stomach cancer," she told the psychiatrist. "It's pretty hard to deal with. I'm so angry."
"What are you angry about?"
A class of fledgling medical students in their first week of school sat in their classroom watching intently while the doctor drew out the innermost feelings of his patient.

"I really don't think it's fair," the woman said, hesitating. "I don't know ... I have a family—children. If I don't survive, I want them to live a good life ... and yet I feel quite angry with them sometimes. I've told my husband."
"Well, what does cancer mean to you?"
"Probably what it means to most people — the first thing you think of is death. I suppose the big thing you concentrate on is pain and the possibility of death."

"Pain. Are you afraid of pain?"
Gradually, the woman began to unveil her feelings. It was a rare classroom experience made readily available by the Chicago Medical School.

Unknown to the students, the woman wasn't a real patient. She was an actress from the Goodman Theater, hired by the school to perform a role as part of a course to help aspiring doctors learn the dynamics of a doctor-patient relationship.

At a traditional medical school, students are not even allowed near a patient until they have completed six quarters of study. But within six weeks after they begin classes at the medical school, they are in hospitals interviewing patients.

"We're trying to give them the idea of how to talk to sick people," said Dr. Lawrence Hirsch, who heads the five-phase program. "All through the school they study anatomy, physiology, pharmacology and the rest. We have them see sick people so they can find meaning in what they study."

At other schools, he said, the student concentrates on acquiring a scientific knowledge of medicine and later considers the human aspect of being a doctor.

"That's not how you learned to speak," said Hirsch, a professor and chairman of the school's department of family medicine. "You started talking when you were a year old. You didn't know the difference between a noun and a verb. It took you several years to learn."

Hirsch said he knows of no other such program. He said medical school faculty members, marveling at the latest class to take the course, say "they have never seen a group so interested in what they're doing."

The five-quarter course follows the concept that relating to patients can be taught. In the first weeks, top actresses and even patients are brought into the classroom or videotaped in interviews with skilled physicians.

Hirsch said some students claimed "they could tell it was a fake" when the actresses performed. "My feeling is that nobody likes to be duped," he said.

After completing the course, students are capable of compiling a patient's complete history, conducting a physical examination and then beginning to consider treatments.

More important, he said, they can keep patients at ease while they do it.

"Actually, it's a matter of feelings," Hirsch said. "There are a lot of things that are taboo in our society. One is the sexual area, another is what other people feel, third are the bodily functions which are not normally discussed in polite society. The students need to determine that there's no difference between hiccupping, passing gas or defecating — or having sex or eating. They're all very normal things. The student has to be comfortable talking about these things."

"There aren't too many people — educated people — who would say, 'Gee, I had an urge to defecate today.' If the doctor can't talk about these things, the patient takes it as a cue that it's wrong to talk about them."

Another goal is to help students recognize their personal hangups.

"Some men (students) don't like women or are afraid of women or are hostile to them," Hirsch said. "Emotionally, sometimes they can't handle it. Some students can't tolerate old people, some students don't like redheads. If the student has a hangup that he can recognize, then he can not only handle his hangup, but a patient who hangs him up."

The most common hangups involve sex. Hirsch combats them by attempting to desensitize his students to the sexual organs.

"I won't call them stag films, but there are films that I use that are very explicit," he said. "It's one of the things that has to be done. By the second or third time you've seen them, you're desensitized."

Other hangups, Hirsch said, can be more subtle but just as destructive.

He offered the example of a dialogue between a doctor and a young woman:

Doctor: "Mrs. Anderson, it appears you have a heart murmur."
She breaks into sobs.

The doctor, bothered by the tears or unaware she wants to talk about her fears, begins shuffling papers waiting for the crying to stop.

After learning to identify his hangup, the doctor might be wiser:

"Mrs. Anderson, it appears you have a heart murmur."
She breaks into sobs.

"You seem to be very unhappy about this, don't you?"
"Oh yes, what's going to happen to my baby?"

"Heavens, Mrs. Anderson this is very common and nothing to worry about. It's not a matter of two or three years. You can live with this for 50 years..."

Mrs. Charles Gilbert, Lending Chest chairman, reported the loan of a wheelchair and a pair of crutches. Through its Lending Chest program, the league offers upon request the loan of medical supplies including crutches, walkers and hospital beds.

Mrs. Norman Bennett reported calls for rent and utilities had been met from the Emergency Charities Fund. The Laughinghouse Hospital Fund Chairman Mrs. Robert VanVeld reported a disbursement for patient care. This fund, named in honor of a former Greenville physician, will provide for any patient, referred to the league by a doctor, medical expenses for such items as ambulance fee, medicine and hospital bills. It doesn't pay individual doctors' fees.

Mrs. Chris Hargett, Civil Defense, surveyed member interest for an upcoming class in first aid. Mrs. W.S. Bost announced a meeting of the Sustaining members.

Mrs. Tom Haigwood announced a workshop will be held to make Halloween favors for the hospital. Mrs. J. Con Lanier reminded members that Operation Santa Claus will begin in the near future and urged them to support the community effort.

Mrs. Donald Bailey reported on a Bloodmobile visit at the meeting of the Greenville Service League held Monday at Elm Street Recreation Center.

The Sept. 30 visit at the Moose Lodge was held due to the shortage of blood in the Tidewater area. A total of 35 league members worked 103 hours and 167 pints of blood were collected. Mrs. Bailey announced the next visit will be three days, Oct. 21-23, at Wright Auditorium on the East Carolina campus.

Adoption Includes Right To Privacy

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I recently saw a TV program that really shook me up. A 30-year-old wife and mother who had always known that she was adopted decided to try to locate her "real" parents.

With the help of a lawyer, she was successful in finding her "real" father. (Her mother had died.) Although the young woman was certain that she had found her natural father and the man at first confirmed that he was, he later denied it.

Abby, I was an unwed mother at the age of 15. I gave my infant girl up for adoption and later married a fine man with whom I had four children. I told him about my illegitimate child, but our children don't know it and neither do any of his relatives—which is the way I want it.

I think it's grossly unfair for an adopted person to go looking for his (or her) natural parents. The couple who raised my firstborn are her "real" parents.

In some states, when an adopted person reaches legal age, he has a right to know who his natural parents are. But what about MY right to privacy?

NAMELESS IN CHICAGO

DEAR NAMELESS: I agree with you. But for another point of view on that subject, read on:

DEAR ABBY: I have always known that I was adopted. I am now 17 and know that when I become "of age," I can demand that my file be opened to me so I can know who my natural parents are.

Abby, I have absolutely no desire to locate them. They gave me up because they felt it would be better for me and possibly for them, too.

The parents who took me when I was 1-week-old, raised me and gave me their love and all the material things they could afford are my "real" parents. No other parents could be more real to me.

I am not saying that I have never wondered what my natural parents are like, but I can truthfully say that my curiosity is not so great that I would risk upsetting their lives by suddenly appearing or risk hurting the parents to whom I owe so much.

NOT LOOKING IN SEATTLE

DEAR ABBY: My husband has always been a very selfish man, but the other day he topped himself when he carried on like a crazy man because I had cut three roses from his rosebushes. The rosebushes have loads of buds on them, and I can't see that I did them any harm.

My husband claims that roses should not be picked in the first year. I always thought that rosebushes produced bigger and more abundant blooms after the flowers were plucked. Who's right?

If my husband is right, I'll keep my bloomin' hands off his blooms.

DEAR N.: Picking roses off the bush the first year will not affect the health of the rosebush. But it might not be too healthy for your marriage.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this for those waitresses who don't seem to know which side their bread is buttered on. I have never seen it fail. Every time my husband and I sit down to order in a restaurant, the waitress looks only at my husband and asks him what he wants. She ignores me completely.

He is the only one who is asked if he wants more coffee. I know that is where the tip comes from, but if the waitress was smart, she would pay a little attention to the woman, because she's usually the one who decides where they dine.

LEFT OUT

DEAR LEFT: Don't blame the waitress for turning to the gentleman for the order. It's customary for him to order for both the lady and himself. However, she should ask the lady (first) if she wants more coffee.

CHICANO EDUCATION
NEW YORK (UPI) — With the exception of American Indians no other minority is less represented in American higher education than the 12 million Spanish-speaking members of society, reports the Ford Foundation Letter.

Although they make up 4.6 per cent of the population, Spanish-speaking persons account for only 0.5 per cent of graduate school enrollment.

For every 100 Mexican-American students who enter elementary school, only 22.5 make it to college and 5.4 graduate—compared with 49.3 whites who go to college and 23.8 who finish.

Pound Cake Is Nation Favorite

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Judging from the many recipes for Pound Cake that appear in "charity" cookbooks compiled by groups all over the country, the dessert must certainly be one of America's favorites. Recently when a new recipe for the cake that deviates from the standard rule came to our attention, we tried it in our test kitchen. It's good enough to pass along to you!

CHOCOLATE COCONUT POUND CAKE
2 1/4 cups sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vinegar
1/2 cup milk
1 cup butter or margarine
1 1/4 cups sugar
1 1/4 teaspoons vanilla
4 eggs
4-ounce package sweet cooking chocolate, chopped medium-fine
3/4 cup flaked coconut
1/4 cup raisins, chopped fine

Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Stir vinegar into milk; set aside. Cream butter and sugar with vanilla. Beat in eggs, one at a time, until thoroughly blended. Add flour mixture alternately with milk mixture, beating after each addition just until smooth. Stir in chocolate, coconut and raisins. Pour into a 9-inch angelcake pan that has been lined on the bottom with wax paper. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — about 1 hour and 15 minutes. Place cake in pan on a wire rack for 15 minutes, then remove from pan and finish cooling on rack.

Harnessing The Sun's Power

Solar energy is really the source of virtually all of our energy on earth, since oil, coal and wood were all formed from animal life and vegetation which owe their existence to the sun.

It has long been a dream of mankind, however, to harness the energy of the sun as it falls on earth to heat our homes and power our industries. We are a long way from that goal but our attention is rapidly turning to the sun for energy as oil and other earth bound fuels become more expensive.

Some 200 plumbing and heating contractors gathered at N.C. State University last weekend for a conference on solar heating. They learned that so far cost is still a deterrent to using solar energy for heating a home.

There are, however, some solar water heaters that are practical and, even though they are initially costly, the eventual savings in energy costs offsets that first expense.

Experts at the conference predicted that industries would pick up the solar-energy-for-heating-water concept to provide the large amounts of hot water they need and avoid the high cost of fuel to do the job.

A problem with solar energy, of course, is the cloudy days when there would be little solar heat available to heat water. The answer here may be enough hot water reserves to last a few days and, for exceptionally long periods, an alternate source of heat.

There are still many problems to be solved in harnessing solar energy to provide heat and power for our homes and factories. The systems yet devised apparently aren't inexpensive enough to provide incentive for their use. But the cost of fuels is skyrocketing and this is going to make solar energy, along with other energy sources more attractive in the future, from an economic standpoint.

At least we are showing renewed interest in this natural source of energy. We must keep working on it until we find a practical answer.

Ford's Vetoes Losing

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, defeated in his battle with Congress over child nutritional programs, is having a higher percentage of his vetoes overridden than any chief executive since Andrew Johnson served in the White House more than a century ago.

Tuesday's decisive Senate and House votes to enact a $2.75-billion nutrition bill over the President's objections marked the seventh time in 14 months that Congress has overridden a Ford veto.

The House tally of 397 to 18 was 120 more than the needed two-thirds, and the 79 to 13 Senate vote was 17 more than necessary, with Republicans breaking ranks to contribute heavily to the tally.

Since becoming president, Ford has vetoed 39 bills. The seven successful overrides give the heavily Democratic Congress a score of 18 per cent. Woodrow Wilson, overridden on six of 44 vetoes, is next highest in the post-Johnson era with about 14 per cent.

Unless Ford and Congress can agree on spending cuts, Ford may get a chance to veto a lot more bills. Rep. Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., says Ford is adamant on cutting spending. He quoted Ford as promising that "if he has to veto 100 bills to hold down spending, he'll do it."

Johnson, a Republican, vetoed 29 bills during his presidency from 1865 to 1869. Congress overrode him 15 times, a score of more than 50 per cent and by far the worst presidential performance in the nation's history.

Since then, virtually all presidential vetoes have stuck. One reason is that in most cases, Congress and the White House have been controlled by the same party.

Agency Repays For Errors

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—The advertising agency which handles the account for the travel division of the State Department of Natural and Economic Resources has paid back nearly $11,000 to the state treasury.

An audit of the firm Louchheim, Eng, and People, Inc., uncovered numerous instances in which the state had been overcharged for advertisements through failure to adequately prove that magazine or television advertisements were actually presented, or were presented in the size (or time) paid for, State Auditor Henry L. Bridges says.

Over an 18-month period auditors discovered 88 instances in which the state was overcharged $15,766.27, and undercharged $6,888.96.

In 60 instances, cash discounts allowed to the advertising agency for prompt payment of bills were either taken and not credited to the state ($2,808.70); or bills were not paid in time to take advantage of an available discount to the credit of the state ($1,395.57)

Superbowl Special
The auditors rejected a $1,000 surcharge on a magazine advertisement printed as a "Superbowl Special."

That advertisement resulted in football game tickets, airline passage, lodging, etc., presented to the governor's office and used by aide Gene Anderson for a New Orleans trip.

The auditors said the $1,000 "should not have been charged to the state since an individual received personal benefit."

The advertising agency was awarded the travel promotion contract after serving as the agency in the election campaign of Gov. James E. Holshouser, Jr.

All told, the auditors pinpointed $14,093.23 which they labeled improperly paid, and asked for a refund. After a conference, the amount was adjusted first upward to $14,770.32, then downward to $10,907.34.

On March 28, James E. Harrington, secretary of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources, asked for the refund. On April 14 he was notified that a check in that amount had been given the state by the agency.

Bridges said it is clear that without auditing of the account, the errors would not have been discovered nor repayment made to the state.

Procedures Questioned

Various reports in the audit file paint a picture of sloppy accounting procedures in billings from the agency to the state department, failure of the state department to demand an accounting, and action by state officials to pay bills even when those bills were being questioned by auditors.

Auditors also questioned the practice of paying not only the 15 per cent commission for placing advertisements, but another 15 per cent commission to cover special art work done by a subsidiary of the agency.

Those production costs have been running about $120,000 yearly on top of the placement commission; both paid the Louchheim, Eng, and People firm either at the Raleigh office, or its Florida office.

"In the current time of an inflationary economy and concern over efficiency in state government, we cannot help but wonder why the Department of Natural and Economic Resources does not administer its advertising program directly," Bridges wrote in one report.

Recently named State Travel Director William Arnold, said he is doing much of the photography, art, and copy work within the department rather than through the agency, and will push for open bidding by advertising agencies in the future.

Jerry Louchheim, head of the agency, was not present at a meeting of the legislative Governmental Operations Commission chaired by State Senator I.C. Crawford, D-Buncombe, which reviewed the audit report. The commission voted to issue a subpoena for Louchheim's presence at the next meeting.

No News In Washington

WASHINGTON—A strike of The Washington Post does not only affect a newspaper or a city. It affects the entire country. Very few people realize how this town works. Because of its size, the only way the government can communicate with itself is through Washington's sole morning newspaper.

For example, when Secretary of the Treasury William Simon gets up in the morning he reads The Washington Post to find out what President Ford's latest economic policy is. The other day President Ford said he was for maintaining the personal income tax cut. This was different from what Simon believed President Ford had on his mind. It was also different from what Simon said our tax policy should be. If the secretary of the treasury hadn't read President Ford's latest switch on taxes, he would have gone to his office that morning and ordered his staff to work on a program diametrically opposed to that of the President.

Take the CIA hearings as another example. Every day the CIA tells a different story to the Senate and House committees investigating the organization. It's impossible for the CIA to get the new story out to all its employees on such short notice. So the CIA leaks its new version to The Washington Post to give the CIA's party line, one CIA executive would be telling one story to the Senate and another executive an entirely different story to the House. This would cause chaos with our national security and could even lead to perjury charges, which is something everyone in the government is trying to avoid.

The Department of Agriculture also can have major problems without a morning newspaper. Usually the only way the President finds out how much wheat the United States has sold to the Soviets is through The Washington Post. It isn't that the department doesn't report directly to the White House; it's just that no one in the White House ever bothers to read a Department of Agriculture report until it's too late, and the deal has been made.

The same is true of HEW. The President has strong feelings about spending large sums of money for health, education and welfare since it only contributes to the deficit. But without The Washington Post Mr. Ford has no idea what bills have been passed that he should veto. In fact the fear in the White House is that if the strike continues for any length of time the President might wind up signing a bill passed by Congress, and then the country would be in a whale of a mess.

It isn't only the Administration that is dependent on a morning paper in Washington. Every representative and senator must read it to find out where he stands that day on a particular issue.

Congress has a different energy policy every day. No one knows what it is until he or she reads The Post.

The only way the legislative branch can keep up on foreign affairs is through the columns of The Post. No one knows what mischief Henry Kissinger has done the day before until he reads it in the paper.

The Pentagon is utterly dependent on a morning newspaper. There is no way the military can plan for war unless they find out from The Post who our enemies are. One day it could be Cuba, the next day Panama, the next day Portugal. The Post is also the only source of information for the U.S. Air Force to know what the U.S. Navy is up to, and it's the only way the U.S. Army is planning.

Even foreign governments depend on their Washington morning paper. There isn't an ambassador in town who can provide accurate information to his home government before he reads the society pages of The Washington Post.

The worst fear in this nervous city is that Cambodia could send another ship like the Mayaguez, and nobody in Washington would know about it.

A site for the proposed armory to be built in Greenville was assured this morning when the Board of County Commissioners adopted a resolution in which the county will join with the city government in furnishing the site with half the cost to be borne by each.

A short while ago, the Board of Aldermen agreed that the city would meet its half of the cost and the matter was placed before the County Commissioners yesterday.

The League of Nations, having declared Mussolini's Fascist government an outlaw among nations, today pondered the nature of sanctions to be imposed against it.

A mandate to Great Britain to supervise such sanctions by a vote of the League assembly was one of the plane discussed. Premier Laval of France hoped to keep the sanctions mild.

The assembly meets tomorrow to carry out the sentence of sanctions passed yesterday afternoon convicting the Italian government of aggression against Ethiopia.

INSIDE REPORT

Wallace's Mystery Visitor

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — One of the year's most mysterious political discussions was held recently in the governor's mansion at Montgomery, Ala., when Democratic national treasurer Edward Bennett Williams quietly slipped in for a secret luncheon with Gov. George C. Wallace.

Williams did not reveal his unannounced journey even to close political associates and in fact took extraordinary precautions to keep it secret. When we asked Williams about it, the famed criminal lawyer minimized the rendezvous and specifically denied he had made a special trip to Montgomery (as is believed in political circles there). Rather, Williams said, he was in the Alabama capital on business and accepted a longstanding Wallace invitation while there.

Just what was said in the private luncheon is also in dispute. Reports have leaked out that Williams, who is considerably more conservative than generally known, was exceedingly cordial towards Wallace's presidential candidacy. Calling that "a lot of bull," Williams told us the luncheon was "purely social — nothing more."

Whatever really was said, the Wallace camp regards Williams as much friendlier than Democratic national chairman Robert Strauss, who hand-picked Williams to be treasurer. The intimate Strauss-Williams relationship has cooled somewhat since Williams publicly compared the Strauss-directed selection of New York as the site for the national convention to "a Russian Trial" where "the verdict was decided before they began."

A footnote: Wallace will not be the guest on NBC's Meet the Press Nov. 9 (a program marking the final appearance of the program's founder, Lawrence Spivak), as Wallace political aides had planned and we reported. That probably will delay Wallace's announcement from the previously planned date of Nov. 10 to later in November, perhaps in conjunction with a Meet the Press appearance now under negotiation.

Cairo Bulletin
A top-secret message from Egyptian president Anwar Sadat asking speedy action on the Israeli-Egyptian Sinai pact has now become the newest administration weapon to prod Congress into approving 200 American civilian technicians for radar duty in the Sinai Desert's new noman's land.

Sadat's missive, under presidential study in the White House the past week, succinctly states this Egyptian predicament: under attack from Syria and other radical Arab states for its unilateral agreement with Israel, Egypt must have the Israeli pullback completed at the earliest possible time. Israel has refused to start the withdrawal until Congress approves the 200 U.S. technicians, a position fully in keeping with conditions agreed to by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

State Department officials now believe the House will approve sending the technicians sometime this week. But the prospect in the Senate is murkier.

At issue there are not the technicians, which the Senate is almost certain to approve when the vote comes, but Kissinger's negotiating tactics in implying American commitments which only Congress can approve.

The secret warning from Cairo to the Ford administration carries this grim message: the U.S.-Egyptian alliance painstakingly constructed the past six years of the Nixon-

Ford-Kissinger administration must be underwritten by Congress or face rising political opposition within the Arab world — and in Egypt itself.

A Gift From McGovern
Whatever interest some of Sen. George McGovern's 1972 financial supporters had in a McGovern national political comeback has been rudely diluted by a strange solicitation from the Senator. McGovern sent his list of campaign contributors a letter praising their "generosity" and noting two newly published books: "Uphill," a widely praised memoir by the Senator's wife, Eleanor, and "An American Journey," a collection of McGovern's 1972 campaign speeches.

"Neither Eleanor nor I expect to make money on these books," McGovern wrote. "Rather, we believe they are books that should be owned and read by those like you who care about the values we cherish."

A prelude to a modest gift rewarding past generous support? Not quite. McGovern offered to sell the two books, which retail for $16.90, for $15.

One liberal businessman, whose 1972 contributions to McGovern were in five figures, fumed over the offer of a $1.90 discount and swore the Senator had received his last cent from him.

Strength For Today

THERE ALL THE TIME
A great sculptor once said, "When I carve a statue, it is a very simple process. I simply cut away all the pieces which do not belong, and presently the statue comes into view. It was there all the time."

This is of course a deceptively simple and somewhat unrealistic description of the sculptor's art. But the statement has a certain amount of truth. Creative living, for example, like creative art, consists of discovering and using the things God created long ago. Most of the troubles and misfortunes in life—the blemishes which mar the natural artistry of God—are created by ourselves.

God has stored the world full of every good gift by which our hearts may grow and take their delight. All we need to do is to discover these things, cut away the evil, the inconsequential, the unworthy—and behold, God's beautiful statue, called life stands revealed before us.

Is The Ford Tax Cut Feasible?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The question that arises immediately in connection with President Ford's proposed $28 billion tax cut is whether it is feasible, economically or politically.

Nearly three-quarters of budget expenditures are what has come to be termed uncontrollable. That is, because of laws and actions made in prior years, like it or not, the government is committed to spend those funds.

If, as the President said, spending seems headed toward $423 billion next year, a $28 billion cut would amount to a reduction of between 6 and 7 per cent, not merely of the one-quarter of the budget under control, but of the total budget.

Whether such an accomplishment is possible, especially in a politically volatile election year, is debatable at best. Rep. Brock Adams, D-Wash, chairman of the House Budget Committee, immediately called it unrealistic.

What are these "uncontrollables" that leave the President and Congress so few options in changing the course of federal spending? The biggest by far are expenditures for Social Security and railroad retirement, accounting for roughly one-third.

Smaller in percentage, but so numerous as to underscore the point, are a basketful of other expenditures, including unemployment assistance, veterans benefits, medicare and Medicaid, housing aid, revenue sharing.

Of growing importance is interest on the national debt, which amounted to "only" $10.3 billion as recently as fiscal 1967 but which had risen to $22 billion in fiscal 1975, the result of more borrowing and higher interest rates.

The President's hope that both taxes and government expenditures can be cut simultaneously is consistent with the economic and political philosophy he has espoused since he took office — and before.

In his view, a growing federal establishments threatens to drain away the prosperity and vitality of America, "as one big spending program after another has been piled on the federal pyramid..."

The bureaucratic superstructure, he maintains, is "taking a larger share of your personal income and creating record budget deficits and inflation," while at the same time "trying to run too much of your daily life."

This is a very basic dispute that underlies almost every political and economic argument in the country today, and it has long been so. It is in the substratum of the American psyche, sometimes quiescent, sometimes boiling.

The President, it now seems, believes the underground rumblings must be quieted or the pyramid, like a volcano, might blow his head. It seems to be his hope that he can seal it off before that happens.

However, a look at some comparative statistics suggest the situation might not exist or be resolved at the federal level alone. The biggest percentage increases in government spending in recent years have been at city and state levels.

Part of this might be due to increases in revenue distribution, or aid from federal government receipts, but not entirely.

Four Death Penalty Sentences And 2 Life Sentences Upheld

RALEIGH (AP)—Four death penalty sentences and two sentences to life imprisonment were upheld by the North Carolina Supreme Court in decisions handed down Tuesday.

The court also ruled that a police chief and two policemen had wrongly been denied disability pensions and ruled in favor of a buyer in a used car dispute.

Albert L. Carey of Charlotte was sentenced to the gas chamber in his second trial for murder in the 1973 holdup of a gas station. The first trial was thrown out because the judge blocked questioning of jurors on the death penalty.

Five members of the high court found no error in the second trial but Chief Justice Susie Sharp and Justice Joseph Branch disagreed, arguing that records of earlier robberies caused prejudice against Carey.

Death sentences were also upheld in the convictions of Larry Bernard of New Hanover for rape and kidnaping, and of Pinkney T. Mitchell and Wallace C. Lanford of Gastonia for the murder of Kathy Smiley.

The life imprisonment sentence of Paul Shepherd of Asheville was upheld. He had been convicted of the 1966 rifle killing of his wife.

He was not tried until 1974 because he spent a number of years in Dorothea Dix State Hospital for psychiatric care and evaluation. The court said evidence at the trial indicated Shepherd knew right from wrong when the shooting occurred.

Shepherd was not subject to the death penalty because the crime occurred before capital punishment was restored in North Carolina in 1973.

The court also approved the life sentence of Wilbur J. Sanders who had been convicted of several crimes in the booby trapping of the car of Albert Stout, a State Bureau of Investigation undercover drug agent. The agent lost an arm and a leg in the bombing.

Eddie Hardy Jr. of Craven County was granted triple damages in a dispute Pamlico Motor Co., a Beaufort County used car dealer, over a used car. The court ruled that recent state consumer protection laws called for Hardy to receive triple his $600 initial award because of the unfair and deceptive practices of the used car seller.

Records of the case showed that Hardy paid $2,350 for what he was told was an undamaged Chrysler under warranty protection with 21,000 miles on it. But, the car had 79,000 miles on it, it had been in an accident and it wasn't covered by a warranty.

High Point officials had no reason to deny disability pensions to Laurie Pritchett, the city's former police chief and former policemen James Fagan and John Cook, the court ruled. Pritchett resigned during an investigation into charges of corruption in the police department.

Mail Improvement Plan In Effect Here Oct. 11

The U.S. Postal Service first-class mail service improvement program will go into effect at the Greenville Post Office October 11, Postmaster H. Lloyd Mills said today.

Under the program, first-class mail will receive service that is equal to or better than airmail.

The major, new service step will extend to all first-class mail weighing 13 ounces or less. "In practical terms, what this service improvement means is that domestic first-class postage now will purchase the level of service that previously only airmail could buy," said Postmaster Mills.

"Under the new program, there no longer will be an advantage in purchasing airmail postage for domestic delivery," he said.

Priority mail (now starting at weight in excess of 13 ounces), which includes air parcel service, and international airmail are unaffected by the improvement program and continue in their present form, the postmaster said.

"Airmail stamps will be sold for use on priority and international airmail. They can also be used in various combinations with other stamps for first-class mail," he said.

Customers can exchange airmail stamps, and stamped envelopes and cards at full postage value for ordinary stamps, stamped envelopes and cards. Stationery bearing airmail indicia will be allowed to be mailed at the first-class rate, Postmaster Mills said.

To aid postal customers, maps showing the cities and areas targeted for next and second day delivery for mail from Greenville will be on display in the post office lobby, the postmaster said.

san, nonprofit research and educational organization, shows that in recent years per capita Federal expenditures have fallen slightly in percentage while state spending has tended higher.

In almost any statistical breakdown of governmental spending, whether at local, state or federal level, the fact that steps out of the number in bold relief is that debt is rising at all levels of government.

This suggests, of course, that Americans seem to be expecting more from their governments than they are willing or able to pay for. No problem seems too big to be overcome, but the expense seems to be.

Turning back the growing demand for governmental services will be difficult, politically and economically, because it pits two basic but opposing American views about government that have existed since the Revolution.

Ford seems to be attacking not just the amount of federal spending and the spread of federal control, but a notion he fears might also become ingrained in the American spirit — that bills are indefinitely postponable, and that meanwhile you can get something for nothing.

Mayors Request Revenue-Sharing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Revenue sharing that returned federal money to state and local governments should be reenacted quickly, two North Carolina mayors told a congressional committee this morning.

Fred E. Turnage of Rocky Mount and James R. Hawkins of Durham appeared before the House intergovernmental relations subcommittee chaired by Rep. L.H. Fountain, D-N.C. The mayors represented the North Carolina League of Municipalities in support of a bill sponsored by Fountain to reenact revenue sharing.

The mayors said revenue sharing resulted in small communities getting a fair share of federal funds. Revenue sharing which began in October 1972 and is to expire Dec. 31, 1976.

By the time the program expires, North Carolina is to have received $678.6 million with cities and towns receiving $226 million, the mayors said.

Revenue sharing was former President Nixon's program and gave local government's greater control over spending of federal funds. Turnage said returning to a program of grants earmarked for specific purposes "would subject local governments to priorities imposed upon them without regard to their own specific circumstances or needs."

Hawkins said revenue sharing gave towns more flexibility. "It would be most regrettable if the subcommittee acts in any way to restrict the use of revenue sharing funds," he said.

Democrat Franklin D. Roosevelt, who served a record 12 years in the presidency, vetoed a record total of bills — 635. Congress overrode him only nine times, or about 1 per cent of the time.

Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower vetoed 181 bills in eight years, and Congress only overrode him twice, also about 1 per cent.

Democrats John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson vetoed 21 and 30 measures respectively between 1961 and 1969 without ever losing.

Richard M. Nixon, battling Democratic congresses, vetoed 43 bills in 5½ years and lost five times or about 12 per cent of his vetoes.

Tuesday's action marked the third time in recent weeks Congress has enacted a bill expanding social program into law over Ford's veto.

The other two were bills covering a variety of federal health programs and the appropriations measure for the government's education programs.

Winterville Board Refuses Amend Zoning Ordinance

WINTERVILLE—The Winterville Board of Aldermen Monday night denied a request from the Winterville Planning Board that a zoning ordinance be amended to allow a funeral home in a residential area.

The board reached its decision after much opposition was voiced from Winterville citizens during a public hearing Monday night.

The funeral home would be located at the corner of Boyd and Mills Streets.

John Patrick Jr. presented a petition to the board which had been signed by 11 property owners adjoining the property in question. Willie Elbert presented a petition signed by citizens living away from the property who also voiced opposition to the zoning change.

Reasons given by the petition signers were: the rezoning would lower the value of the property in that section; it was felt a funeral home should not be located in a residential area; and that the funeral home would bring more people into the area and possibly cause trouble.

The town board voted unanimously to leave the zoning ordinance as it is now. The board agreed that the matter should not be put on the town agenda for at least 12 months.

The board opened bids for paving of about 15,000 square feet in Winterville. Bids received were: Central Paving, Snow Hill, $23,884.64; Barnhill Contracting Co., Tarboro, $40,463.40; and Barrus Construction Company, $23,981.10. The contract will probably be awarded next week after board members have had time to study the bids.

Streets involved in the paving project include all of Kennedy Street, Hillcrest Avenue and Maye Drive, as well as portions of Ange Street, East Blount Street and Drexel Lane. The streets already have curb and gutter.

The board approved another payment in the amount of $70,000 to Taylor Iron Works, Inc., for work done on the new water tank.

Henry Klutz, assistant principal at A.G. Cox School, asked the board to have curb and gutter and paving done on Sylvania Avenue, beginning at Church Street and ending at Ange Street. He also asked that a 15 miles per hour speed limit be adopted and signs erected for that same area. He assured the board that the county would pay their share in the project.

Klutz was told the work would be undertaken as a project and done as soon as possible.

Blanie Moye, principal at Robinson Union School, requested that curb and gutter be installed in front of Robinson School and that an additional mercury light be installed. He asked that North Railroad Street be paved in front of the school. The request was taken under advisement and the project will be placed on the town's project list.

Milton Sherman, wrestling coach at D.H. Conley High School, was given permission for the "Matmaids" to conduct a car wash on the town property on Oct. 18 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Proceeds from the project will go toward the purchase of wrestling equipment.

The board agreed to work with the Winterville Ruritan Club with the installation of a flag pole and flag and the intersection of Rural Road 1133 and N.C. 11 as part of the national bicentennial observance.

The town will furnish a concrete slab, photocell and current to the pole for one year and the Ruritan Club will be responsible for seeing that the flag is raised and lowered each day. The pole is being built by Winterville Machine Works.

The town agreed to purchase a half page ad in the D.H. Conley School annual.

Actress Sophia Loren's Rings May Build Church

LLANO, Tex. (AP)—Actress Sophia Loren's "friendship with a poor parish priest in the heart of Texas" may provide a new church for 40 Roman Catholic families in this Hill Country community west of Austin, says the Rev. Anthony Goossens.

"She has charity and compassion for poor people," Father Goossens said of the film star with whom he has corresponded for 10 years.

Miss Loren sent Father Goossens a set of five ruby rings to be auctioned off for money to rebuild the Holy Trinity mission church in his parish, which covers 3,000 sparsely populated square miles.

About 350 Roman Catholic families, mostly Mexican-Americans, live in the parish, and about 40 of them attend the Llano mission church.

"It is a poor parish," said Father Goossens, who drives around it in an old Volkswagen. "I gave them (the parishioners) the good news last week. They all want to write to Miss Loren and thank her."

He said he does not know how he will auction off the rings.

"I have had calls from around the country from people who want to buy them," he said. "We are going to have to go out of the parish, or the state, to get enough money to rebuild the church."

"I really do not know how much the rings are worth. The real value of the rings is that they come from her ... but, of course, she doesn't buy jewelry at a dime store."

The 61-year-old priest went to Houston in 1965 to visit patients in hospitals there. He met a French woman who had just undergone heart surgery and whose trip had been paid for by Miss Loren.

The priest wrote to Miss Loren to tell her of the patient's condition after the successful operation, and the actress "wrote back to thank me. And then I wrote back and told her about our work," Father Goossens said.

The pair continued to exchange letters, and when the Oblate missionary returned to his native Holland for a visit, he arranged to meet with Miss Loren in Rome. He saw her again last December.

"It was then that I told her about the missions and mentioned casually that we were trying to raise money. I suggested that she give something of her own, and she asked me what that could be.

"After I returned to Texas, I wrote to her suggesting she donate a ring. She sent the rings, saying she had used them in a picture very dear to her.

"She said, 'I hope your auction is a smashing success. Please keep me in your prayers.'"

Would Borrow Old Bicycles

"The East Carolina Playhouse needs four or five old bicycles with balloon tires for its forthcoming world premiere production of 'The Flight Brothers,'" Albert Pertalion, director, said. "The Show is a musical history of the Wright brothers, who started off as bicycle manufacturers.

"The Playhouse would greatly appreciate the loan of these old bikes. The greatest care will be taken of the bicycles and program credit will be given to the lenders."

Pertalion said anyone who has such a bicycle and does not mind lending it to a worthy cause, should call 758-6390 and someone from the Playhouse will pick it up.

No Concern

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP)—Voters in one Morganton precinct showed little concern Tuesday about the candidates for City Council. All 37 eligible to vote stayed away from the poll.

The big zeroes were reported by Morganton's Precinct No. 6 as the city re-elected on councilman and named two new ones.

In the only contested race, Richard M.H. Stock defeated Betty Jean Welborn 580-120.

Better Quality Leaf Marketed

FARMVILLE—Some of the best quality of tobacco of the season was marketed yesterday. Several sheets of choice leaf and wrapper grades sold for $1.20 to $1.50 per pound. Other grades were steady to slightly higher in price, with the top practical price continuing to be about $1.15 per pound.

Offerings consisted mostly of leaf and smoking leaf grades, with primings and lugs accounting only for a small percentage of sales volume.

Stabilization receipts accounted for 3.24 per cent of sales. The market sold 386,628 pounds for $420,492.68 for an average of $108.76 per 100 pounds. To date the Farmville market has sold 26,060,364 pounds for $26,083,048.09 for a season average of $100.29 per 100 pounds.

SKIPPER IS A PRINCE—This is the British 300-ton minesweeper Bronington whose new skipper is Prince Charles, 27-year-old heir to the British throne. The prince, who joined the navy four years ago, was given command of the warship Tuesday and the Defense Ministry said his training and experience had "given him an excellent insight into all aspects of naval life". He is a naval lieutenant and is currently a helicopter pilot in a naval commando squadron. (AP Wirephoto)

Wayne Medical Society Is Seeking Special Session

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP)—The Wayne County Medical Society has begun a statewide effort for a special session of the General Assembly to deal with the medical malpractice insurance crisis.

State Insurance Commissioner John Ingram told the society Tuesday night that such a session would be necessary if the question of availability of such insurance is not answered soon.

The doctors began their effort after four area physicians were forced to close or greatly restrict their practices because their insurance had expired.

Six others here face that dilemma by the end of the month. And 25 of Wayne County's 60 physicians are met with the same problem by the end of the year.

Ingram said the problem is statewide.

However, he added that despite the crisis, North Carolina's new medical liability insurance pool will work, and will stand up in court. Many insurance companies are fighting the pool arrangement, and have won exemption pending the court case. Ingram also said that the mutual insurance association being formed by the state medical society will be sound, and that doctors should support it in the interest of "breaking the monopoly."

Until now, the St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance Co. has written 97 per cent of the medical malpractice insurance in the state. The crisis developed when that company, and a number of others, won temporary injunctions from the state law requiring them to participate in a state reinsurance pool.

AT SYMPOSIUM

Dr. Robert E. Cramer of the East Carolina University Department of Geography was among American representatives at the International Symposium on Computer Assisted Cartography in Reston, Va. last week.

A week ago, Ingram assured doctors that 100 companies still remained in the pool. But he conceded Tuesday night that

Bike Safety Film Featured

Rangerettes of Unit 1377, Sheldermine, met on Saturday at the Woodman Lodge for their monthly meeting. Nine girls and two adult leaders attended.

The meeting was on bicycle safety, and featured a film entitled "I'm no fool on a bicycle."

From Unit 317, 18 girls attended camp at Fort Barnhill for a week, accompanied by eight adult leaders.

While at camp the girls engaged in activities such as physical fitness, swimming, archery, riflery, volleyball, kickball, track, basketball and a talent show.

while his office has been able to help some doctors find insurance, the availability has become a critical question.

He expressed confidence that the situation would be temporary, and would be corrected as soon as the doctor's mutual insurance company is in operation.

But some Wayne County doctors questioned how a company formed by people knowing little about the insurance business could survive in the same climate that caused experienced underwriters to pull out.

The doctors here said they felt legislative action putting limits on malpractice awards, and shortening the time for suits under the statute of limitations, would create a more favorable climate.

Dr. Ashton Griffin, president of the Wayne Medical Society, said doctors here are contacting medical societies in the 100 counties seeking their support.

Four Wrecks In City Yesterday

Greenville police reported an estimated $2,350 property damage resulted from a series of four collisions investigated yesterday.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 4:56 p.m. collision at the intersection of 14th Street and Ragsdale Road involving cars driven by Elwood Jackson Jones of 1807 Sulgrave Rd. and Haywood Pell Gibbs Jr. of 211 Hardee Cir.

Police who estimated damage at $200 to the Jones car and $600 to the Gibbs auto, reported Gibbs was injured in the mishap.

An estimated $250 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in a 9:30 a.m. collision on Darden Drive near the Fifth Street intersection.

Officers identified drivers of the vehicles involved as James Thomas Lewis of 302B Darden Dr. and Donald Langley of 411 West Roundtree Dr.

Langley was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

George Savage Long of Washington and Eloise Niles Gabbert of Greenville were listed as drivers of cars that collided about 2:36 p.m. at the intersection of Third and Summit Streets.

Police, who charged Long with failing to see his intended movement could be made in

Prime Goal Of AAUW

"North Carolina is in an increasingly important position to the entire women's movement with only four more states needed to ratify ERA," Dr. Helen B. Wolfe told the members of the American Association of University Women at the AAUW state division convention meeting in Asheville, October 3-5.

"The Equal Rights Amendment must be ratified: With North Carolina as yet uncommitted," Dr. Wolfe, AAUW general director, stated, "no one knows better than this audience the crucial role that North Carolina is assuming in this matter." AAUW made ERA ratification the top priority for the nationwide association at its biennial convention in Seattle last June.

Dr. Wolfe was the keynote speaker at the convention being held at the Rodeway Inn last weekend. She addressed the convention on Women in a World of Many Cultures.

The Greenville branch of the AAUW was represented at the convention by its president, Dr. Wieke Benjamin, N. C. State Division Representative for International Relations, and Mrs. Effie May Taylor.

At a recent convention in Charlotte, the Greenville Church of God was recognized for its accomplishment in this endeavor. The youth of the church raised $3,120 leading North Carolina in monies raised, and the church was awarded plaque.

The church was also awarded a plaque for raising the most money in the membership category, and also for having raised as much as $300 for this project.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina FOB dock broilers market was very active today, supplies were short, demand very good, weights trending heavier.

The North Carolina dock-weighted average price is 47.7 cents per pound this week for small purchases of sized plant grade broilers picked up processing plants. Estimated slaughter 1,097,000.

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock prices moved higher again today after an uncertain start, with traders apparently still cheered by hopes for lower interest rates.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones industrial average had gained 3.78 to 820.29, after being about two points lower in the opening hour. Issues gaining in price outnumbered losers by a narrow margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

As in the past three sessions in which the Dow climbed more than 35 points, investors continued to buy stock on the belief that the Federal Reserve has decided to ease up on the money supply and bring interest rates down.

That belief apparently overcame early concern today over the New York City situation, which deteriorated somewhat when a state court Tuesday temporarily restrained the state comptroller from using pension money to buy state notes.

Llamors led today's upswing. Digital Equipment added 2 1/2 to 128, Burroughs 1 1/2 to 96 1/2, and National Semiconductor 1 1/2 to 47 1/2.

But Chase Manhattan Corp declined 1 1/2 to 26 1/2. After the close Tuesday, the parent company of Chase Manhattan Bank estimated third quarter profits would be down 50 per cent from a year earlier.

Champion Spark Plug, the most active Big Btard issue, was up 1/2 to 9 1/2.

The NYSE's composite stock index rose 0.16 to 46.08, while the American Exchange's market value index was up 0.08 to 83.79.

Long Agenda For City Council Meeting

Governor LECTURED ON Asking Federal Funds

By FRANK CORMIER Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Ford, having urged a new tax-cut plan tied to curbs in federal spending, rejected a Republican governor's request for more federal funds and gave him a blunt lecture on balanced budgets.

Ford, who announced plans earlier this week for what he said was "the biggest single tax cut in our history," met Tuesday with seven Appalachian state governors in Knoxville, Tenn., and immediately was confronted with a plea for funds.

West Virginia Gov. Arch Moore told Ford more federal money is needed to keep Appalachian highway projects on schedule. Ford wryly recalled that most of the governors in the room had agreed with a Southern Governors Conference resolution calling for a constitutional amendment requiring balanced federal budgets.

Ford said, "fellows, we can't have it both ways." He said the government faces federal deficits in the current fiscal year of up to $70 million, adding, "If you have back-to-back deficits of $70 billion, you're going to have more and more and more troubles in trying to finance your own state and municipal governments."

As the President was touting his new tax cut and spending curb proposal, his proposal was meeting with dour comments from Congress.

House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., called Ford's plan "an impossible one."

A Ways and Means subcommittee chairman, Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, criticized Ford's proposals to reduce corporate taxes and released figures showing that 142 major corporations paid less than half the standard corporate tax rate of 48 per cent last year. Vanik said eight companies paid no taxes while 18 others paid at a rate of 10 per cent or less.

Ford proposed enactment of $28 billion in permanent tax cuts for 1976 if Congress will agree to an identical cut in federal spending. He would require establishing of a $395 billion spending ceiling for the fiscal year beginning next Oct. 1.

Under Ford's $28-billion tax-cut plan, individual taxpayers would receive about $2.6 billion more in tax reductions in 1976 than they did in 1975. White House tax tables show that if the plan is enacted, a family of four with an income of $15,000 would pay $287 less in 1976 taxes than it will this year. A family of four with a $20,000 income would pay $310 less in 1976 than in 1975.

The tables show that a single person with a $10,000 income would pay $249 less and a single person earning $20,000 would pay $264 less.

Ullman's committee began work Tuesday on an assortment of bills to revise tax laws, including the Ford plan. Of Ford's demand for a spending ceiling, Ullman asked, "If the President wants a $395-billion budget, why doesn't he submit a $395 billion budget?"

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, appearing before the House panel to explain the Ford proposal, was asked by Ullman, "Are you sitting there with a straight face and saying that Congress can be expected to put a ceiling on a budget it hasn't seen, without knowing what priorities would be set — to blindly strike out with no information on the budget ... and put a tax cut in place by January?"

Ullman called such a proposal "totally preposterous," adding, "I must say I am rather shocked that the administration would propose such a thing."

Simon argued that Congress could pledge itself to meet the ceiling, leaving details to be worked out later. He stressed that Ford is ready to veto any tax reduction plan not accompanied by a spending ceiling.

Rep. Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., said Ford had told GOP leaders that "if he has to veto 100 bills to hold down spending, he'll do it."

Ullman's criticism won the support of Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., who said imposing a spending ceiling before seeing the President's budget "is like tying infinity to zero — you get nothing."

Meanwhile, in a speech on the House floor, Vanik said the 142 companies had an aggregate income of $46 billion, but were able to reduce their tax liabilities "through entirely legal means."

Vanik listed the eight companies he said paid no 1974 income taxes and their 1974 adjusted net incomes as Ford Motor Co., $351.9 million; Lockheed Aircraft Corp., $29.8 million; Honeywell, $98.8 million; U.S. Industries, Inc., $17.9 million; American Airlines, $26.7 million; Eastern Airlines, $17.6 million; American Electric Power Co., $163.7 million; and Allstate Insurance Co. and subsidiaries, $187.3 million.

Companies which Vanik said paid at an effective rate of 10 per cent or less included Consolidated Edison, LTV Corp.; Occidental Petroleum Corp.; Chase Manhattan Corp.; Texaco, Inc.; Continental-Illinois Corp.; Bankers Trust New York Corp.; Northwest Airlines, Inc.; Mobil Oil Corp.; Texasgulf; Pennzoil Co.; American Metal Climax, Inc.; American Motors Corp.; UAL, Inc.; Delta Airlines, Inc.; McDonnell Douglas Corp.; Bank America Corp.; and Commonwealth Edison.

Vote To Join 5 Other Counties

WILLIAMSTON — Martin County Commissioners on Monday approved Martin County joining in with five other northeastern counties in a northern project to serve a six county in an Alliance for Progress Program. The five other counties participating are Bertie, Gates, Hertford, Chowan and Perquimans.

In bids for equipment to compact material at the Martin County Land-Fill site, Martin Tractor and Truck Company was awarded the chassis bid for compaction equipment at $24,252.22; and Simpson Equipment Company had the successful bid for the compaction equipment body at $16,930.

Appointments made by commissioners included the reappointment of Hassell Worsley of Robersonville to the Martin County Jury Commission; and Sherrill Jurganus was appointed to replace Mrs. Marie Bullock as Superintendent of the Martin County Home. Mrs. Alice C. Rogers was named Assistant Superintendent of the home.

Smith Biggs was awarded a contract to furnish dirt for the county land-fill at a price of 30 cents per cubic yard. James H. McBrayer of VEPCO reported to commissioners on the proposed utilities transmission lines to be installed in Martin County up to the Washington County line near Plymouth.

Teen Chief Tackles Youth Delinquency

BUNNELL, Fla. (AP) — Police Chief Donald Brock says he's ordering an immediate crackdown on this eastern coastal community's No. 1 crime problem — juvenile delinquency. And Brock should know as much as anyone about solving the problem. He's a teen-ager himself.

"The biggest problem we're facing is keeping the juvenile crime rate down," says the 19-year-old police chief. "There is no organized recreation for teen-agers in this city or county. And with nothing else to do, the kids turn to crime."

Brock, a graduate of Bunnell High School and a veteran of 400 hours of police training at Daytona Beach Community College, served as acting police chief of the six-member force in this town of 1,500 for six weeks after the former chief resigned.

The five-member Bunnell Council voted unanimously Monday night to make Brock permanent police chief.

"I'll stay as long as I'm able, physically and mentally. It's an accomplishment for the 18-to-19-year-old group, and they need the encouragement," Brock said Tuesday.

He said reaction to his appointment has ranged from indifference to enthusiasm. "Nobody's balked. As long as I do my share and live up to my part of the deal, I don't expect they will," he said.

"We're a small town, but we have the same problems as any town. We need the support of the people and the kids' attention, which we haven't been getting." "The only thing we can do is start working with the kids, but the law can't do it alone. As long as we work together, we won't have any problems."

Brock, a bridegroom of 10 months, said he has "always wanted to be a policeman."

Sparked Gunfight

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Terrorists attacked a police headquarters in Barcelona early today and sparked a big gun-battle in which police shot and killed three innocent civilians and two of their own officers, police reported.

Police said the latest deaths, in the working class district of La Verneda, came after a group of gunmen drove past the police barracks firing with sub-machine guns.

Police guards, untouched by the bullets, returned fire and in error riddled a second car, killing a couple and their 22-year-old son and seriously wounding a fourth person in the car, police said. The civilians were reported returning home from a wake for a friend.

selected by Greenville voters seven times to head the city government.

Cox announced early that he would not file for reelection to his seat on the Council and the filing deadline passed without his name on the roster as a candidate for mayor. Several weeks ago, however, he announced his intentions to seek the office as a write-in candidate.

Council balloting also established an early trend with Mrs. McGrath, Taft, Fuller, Howard and Gray edging ahead as the first precincts reported in. Miss Jones, Hix, Stallings and Taylor also made bids for the sixth seat on the board but fell short as Precinct 7, reporting last in the council race, gave Hadden enough support to sew up his position on the governing body.

Balloting was light yesterday and even dropped off from the 1973 elections when only a fraction of the registered voters turned out. A comparative figure for Cox and West shows that they received 3,244 and 3,181 votes, respectively, in 1973 in gaining re-election to the mayor and council posts.

Yesterday, they tallied only 2,335 and 1,496 as voters failed to visit the polls this year in even greater numbers.

Register voters in Greenville, as of July, numbered 11,550. The newly elected mayor and Council members will take office at the December regular meeting. The present Council and mayor will serve until that time.

Farmville Central's Jerry Flanagan

Flanagan Holds Farmville Line

By CHIP LAMBETH
 Reflector Sports Writer
FARMVILLE—Farmville Central's football team has won its last two conference games in a row giving them a 3-2 mark for the season. And any continued success by the team will rest on the shoulders of the seniors like Jerry Flanagan.

Flanagan is one of the Jaguar co-captains. He plays both ways in the line and he says that there is a lot more to playing tackle than meets the eye.

"You really have to use your head. Defense is 90 per cent desire — you have to want to play defense. On defense you try to avoid people but on offense you have to try to hit somebody," said the 209 pound, 6-1 Flanagan.

Jerry said his job is even tougher this year because the Farmville Central opponents have been doubleteaming him.

The Jaguars have won more than they have lost but they are not playing the type of football they need to. Why the team has been playing just one half Flanagan can't explain. "The games when we get behind, Coach (Gene) Brewer can get us to play the second half. We will have to get used to playing the second half."

"When you start to get behind and the other team gets some points on the board, they can get tricky and they get tougher."

Jerry noted that one thing that often makes his offensive work easier is the opposing defense. "(Jeff) Wilkes is running off the blocks better. It used to be that you would block and he would hit you in the back. Now he is running off the block better."

"The defense is keying on him. They have to respect him and they can't stop him. They have to do that."

On defense about the only big difficulty Flanagan has had this year is against the wishbone last week at Southern Nash. Not only did the Firebirds have good backs, they had a running quarterback. "You have to watch the quarterback on different deals and be responsible for different things. Most quarterbacks give the ball to the backs. Southern Nash had a quarterback that could run pretty good. "Being in a down position, its hard for the defensive linemen to see the play develop."

Flanagan pointed out that early in the year, pass plays hurt the Jaguars. "The pass hurt a little," he said. "The backs get to keying on the dive and go to sleep. Then they went to the air. They (the defensive backfield) are getting better. Southern Nash didn't complete a pass on us. Most of them will be back next year."

Jerry also has high hopes for the rest of the season. "We're like a hurricane," he said, "the longer we stay at sea, the stronger we get. Most of the team are tired of playing just one half."

Outside of football, Flanagan is also a bus driver, a Boy Scout working on his Eagle rank, President of both the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and the Key Club. In the winter he is a Pat Smith doesn't know what's wrong, Gene Brewer knows somethings missing, Chuck Dunn knows what's wrong and what's missing but can't do anything about it, and Mike Overton is in the background smiling to himself, at the other three.

Smith, coach of the North Pitt Panthers is about at the end of his rope. His Panthers were punted by Overton's Ayden-Grifton Chargers Friday night, 49-0, and it is doubtful things will get better. Smith noted Saturday night that the Panthers' attitude was a big factor in their poor performance this year. And right now, he doesn't know what to do to turn things around.

The Panthers will be running headlong into a Southern Nash team that has lost its last two games, both conference games, and the Firebirds will be hungry for a win at the Panthers' expense.

Southern Nash's second loss came Friday night at the hands of Farmville Central, 28-6, but the Jaguars have yet to put two halves of football together.

"We played one half, still," said Brewer. "We didn't do a lot of things right. We will find out that we have to play both halves."

The Farmville Central coach praised the work of Mike Jenkins. "He did a really good job. He had a touchdown, a pass interception, he was one of the

North Pitt In Upset Victory

BETHEL — North Pitt High School's volleyball team handed league-leading Ayden-Grifton its first defeat yesterday, taking a 2-1 victory over the Chargers.

The defeat kept North Pitt's hopes of a tie for the title alive. The Chargerettes are now 4-1, while the Pant-HERS are 3-2. Both teams have one game left.

North Pitt took the first game,

16-14, then Ayden-Grifton came back for a 15-13 win in the second game. North Pitt won the clincher, 15-13.

In the opener, T. Wilkes of Ayden-Grifton served up seven straight points, while North Pitt's Pat Spencer and Joy Forbes each led off seven.

V. Ellis of Ayden-Grifton and Spencer each had seven in the second game. In the third, Wilkes served eight for Ayden-Grifton, while Spencer served up six more, for a day's total of 20, for North Pitt.

Ayden-Grifton sprinted out to an 11-3 lead in the first game, but the Pant-HERS fought back to win. Then, in the final game, Ayden-Grifton ran out to an 8-0 lead, but the Pant-HERS struggled back, cutting the lead to 8-4, 9-5, 12-5, 12-11, and then 13-11 before moving ahead from there for the win.

Ayden-Grifton travels to Conley and North Pitt hosts Greene Central in the closing game of the regular season on Thursday.

The defeat left Williamston with a 3-3 overall record and a 2-2 mark in the conference. Williamston will seek to climb back above the .500 average in a match at Ahoskie this afternoon.

The Jaguars will be hosting D.H. Conley this week looking for their third loop win. The Vikings couldn't win for losing last Friday night against Greene Central. The Viking defense recovered seven fumbles, some of which they forced, but the offense could not make the most of the breaks. Coach Dunn knows his Vikings have to block better; get back to basic football. The Vikings rushed for a meager 50 yards while giving up a whopping 272 to the Rams, who won their first game, 14-12.

The only bright spot in Friday night's game was Clifton Clemons' pass receiving. Clemons caught on touchdown pass among his seven receptions.

Ayden-Grifton, which got its offense moving the previous week, added fuel to its fire Friday night with its win over North Pitt. Six different backs ran the ball for Overton picking up 239 yards. Dennis Cristiano completed six of 11 passes for two scores and 88 yards adding balance to the A-G attack. The Charger defense held NP to

Rampants Bow In Net Match

Rocky Mount High School nipped Rose High School, 5-4, yesterday in a girls' tennis match. It took a 2-4 game set in the doubles to decide it.

The two teams split the singles events down the middle, each winning three. Rocky Mount and Rose then each took a doubles event to tie the match at 4-4.

The number two doubles event, pitting Kitsy Bailey and Sheri Augspurger of Rose against Lee Bennett and Julie Ward of Rocky Mount was tied at four games each in the pro set, with a two-game margin needed for victory. Neither team was able to gain that advantage until Rocky Mount finally pulled out a 13-11 win to take this game and the match.

The loss dropped Rose to 1-5 overall and 0-1 in conference play.

In an exhibition singles match,

Jenny Riddick of Rocky Mount downed Kathy Murphy, 8-3. Rose will host Wilson on Thursday.

Summary:
 Marty East (R) defeated Julia Ward, 6-2, 6-0.
 Serena Matney (R) defeated Allison Sellards, 6-0, 6-2.
 Kitsy Bailey (R) defeated Helen Wiley, 6-2, 6-3.
 Helen Williams (RM) defeated Sheri Augspurger, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.
 Lee Bennett (RM) defeated Karen Jeffreys, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.
 Charlotte Ward (RM) defeated Peggy Barber, 6-1, 6-1.
 East-Matney (R) defeated Williams-Wiley, 8-5.

minus six yards rushing and blocked a punt at the Panther nine which they turned into a safety.

Overton, with two conference wins behind, takes his team against North Lenoir this week. The Hawks have never been a pushover and haven't been this year. But with the game at A-G and with the offense moving, the Chargers should have less trouble.

Outside of the county, Roanoke let Ricky Spruill have a rest. The Redskins only used him five times but Spruill romped for 216 yards scoring on three of those carries. He galloped 52, 41 and 77 yards on scoring plays as Roanoke beat Saratoga, 50-0.

Ronaake puts its 4-0 conference record on the line this week at South Edgecombe.

Williamston was knocked off its perch Friday night by Washington, 20-13, but the Pam-Pack had to rally in the fourth quarter to do it. Williamston took a 13-0 lead in the opening frame but a TD in the third and two in the fourth gave Washington the win. The winning TD came in the last minute on Kenny's Gray's 49 yard run.

The Tigers host Tarboro this week.

North Pitt can take some consolation in the fact that one team is performing worse than they are. Jamesville has yet to win a football game and they had another tough one last Friday losing to Aurora, 40-6.

Jamesville plays winless Mattamuskeet this week.

Pirates Think Reds Can Go All The Way

By GARY MICHOCES
AP Sports Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds left here with the National League title, a yearning for their first World Series victory since 1940, and a mighty compliment from Al Oliver of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"They'll go all the way. They definitely have the best team I've seen since I've been in major league baseball," said Oliver, whose eighth season ended Tuesday night when the Reds beat Pittsburgh 5-3 in 10 innings in the National League playoffs.

The Reds swept the series in three games even though Pirate rookie John Candelaria pitched superbly Tuesday night, matching a playoff record with 14 strikeouts.

"This is the happiest day of my life," said Reds' manager Sparky Anderson, whose club opens the World Series Saturday in Boston against the American League-winning Red Sox.

The Reds dealt Pittsburgh its final defeat about a half hour after the Red Sox swept Oakland in the AL playoff.

"I'm ready to play in Fenway Park," said Cincinnati's Pete Rose, who provided the key spark in the title-clincher.

It was Rose who belted a two-run homer that helped chase Candelaria in the eighth and gave Cincinnati a 3-2 lead. Then after the Pirates pulled to a 3-3 tie with a run in their frantic ninth, Rose helped the Reds deliver their two-run knockout punch in the 10th.

For a while, it looked like the 21-year-old Candelaria would give the Pirates the reprieve they needed after two convincing losses in Cincinnati. He started with a flourish, striking out the first four batters he faced.

Dave Concepcion stroked a solo homer over the left field wall in the second, but that was the lone hit allowed by Candelaria over the first seven innings.

Al Oliver belted a two-run homer for the Pirates in the sixth to give Pittsburgh a 2-1 lead off Cincinnati starter Gary Nolan.

Candelaria's undoing began in the eighth — after he struck out Ken Griffey and Cesar Geronimo to raise his total to 14. That matched the previous playoff record set by Joe Coleman of Detroit against Oakland in 1972.

But Candelaria then walked pinch-hitter Merv Rettenmund on four pitches, and Rose followed with his two-run homer that landed near the leftfield seats.

The Pirates loaded the bases in their ninth on singles by Willie Stargell and Richie Zisk and a walk to Bob Robertson.

Reliever Rawley Eastwick, who got the victory, then yielded another walk to pinch-hitter Duffy Dyer to force in the tying run, but Rennie Stennet flied out to center to end the inning.

The Reds put the game away with a 10th-inning push that began when Griffey beat out a two-strike punt.

Griffey took second on a balk by Pirate reliever Ramon Hernandez, moved to third on an infield out and scored the winning run on a sacrifice fly by Ed Armbrister.

Rose followed with a single to right and scored the final Cincinnati run on a double by Morgan.

Harsh Penalties Upset Clemson

CLEMSON, S. C. (AP)—Clemson University will comply with the sanctions imposed on its basketball program by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, but university officials are dismayed by the severity.

"It's a persecution, not a prosecution, Clemson's attorney, Joseph B. McDevitt, commented Tuesday at a news conference.

McDevitt said the NCAA apparently does not base its disciplinary procedures on the principle that a school must be found guilty of illegal recruiting beyond a reasonable doubt.

"I'm accustomed to the rules as provided in a courtroom," he added.

Clemson's basketball program was placed on probation for three years. During that period the team cannot participate in any televised game subject to the administration and control of the NCAA or participate in most postseason games. Also, the university will be limited to awarding not more than two grants-in-aid for basketball during the 1976-77 academic year, and three in 1977-78.

McDevitt said the NCAA claimed the university had committed 63 violations in basketball recruiting, and one in football recruiting, but Clemson admitted to only 21. The school was found guilty of 41 by the NCAA infractions committee. The football program received only a public reprimand.

Clemson President Robert C. Edwards said the NCAA ruling will not be appealed.

"Clemson accepts the sanctions imposed by the NCAA and will comply," he told the news conference.

Former Coach Tate Locke, who headed the basketball program when the violations occurred and is now an assistant with the Buffalo Braves of the National Basketball Association, was contacted Tuesday in Detroit.

"I haven't seen any details of the charges," said Locke. "After the length of time this has been reviewing, I can't say I'm surprised."

Bill Foster, who was named basketball coach after Locke resigned under pressure early this year, held a team meeting Tuesday morning to advise the squad of the NCAA's action.

"They were disappointed," said Foster. "We thought it (the probation period) would be a year, maybe two at the outside. But I guess we'll bounce back."

McDevitt said the ban against participating in a televised game under NCAA control will not affect three scheduled television appearances this season. One is a nationally televised contest against Maryland and the other two are regionally televised games against fellow teams in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

McDevitt also said the three-year ban against postseason play will not apply to the annual ACC tournament, held at the end of the season. However, if Clemson won, it could not participate in the NCAA playoffs.

Charlie O: 'You Can't Win 'Em All'

By JACK STEVENSON
AP Sports Writer
OAKLAND (AP) — Boston's Red Sox, inspired by the play of 36-year-old Carl Yastrzemski, fly the American League pennant today after destroying the Oakland dream of four straight titles.

"It's a very strange feeling," admitted the A's volatile owner Charles O. Finley. "But you can't win them all."

Boston, with a 5-3 victory Tuesday night, swept the best-of-five playoffs in three straight and now return home to open the World Series Saturday against the National League's Cincinnati Reds.

"We've won during the season on defense, and that defense won it for us in this series," declared Yastrzemski whose fielding gem in the eighth inning was the turning point of the final game.

Yaz made a diving stop of a drive by Reggie Jackson and held him to a single instead of a double or a triple. One run did score on the play but Sal Bando was stopped at third and the next batter, Joe Rudi, hit into an inning-ending double play.

Sharing the credit was relief pitcher Dick Drago, who threw a fast sinker that Rudi hit on the ground.

In the three games, Boston outdid the A's 31-19 and five of the Oakland starters, Campy Campaneris, Billy North, Billy Williams, Gene Tenace and Phil Garner, didn't get a hit all series.

"They just outplayed us," admitted losing Manager Alvin Dark who piloted the A's to the World Series crown in 1974 after Dick Williams left the helm after winning in 1972 and 1973.

Southpaw pitcher Ken Holtzman tried to go on two days rest after his own defense let him down in the first game that was lost by a 7-1 count.

"It just wasn't there," he said. "I was stiff."

Boston scored an unearned run in the fourth inning to break the scoreless duel between Holtzman and winning pitcher Rick Wise.

The Red Sox added three more in the fifth on hits by Rick Burleson, Denny Doyle, Yastrzemski and Carlton Fisk plus a wild pitch. Cecil Cooper drove in the finale in the eighth.

Cesar Tovar walked as a pinch hitter in the sixth for Oakland and eventually scored on a ground out after Claudell Washington singled him to third. Two more runs scored in the eighth before Yaz and reliever Drago chopped off the rally.

For the series Yaz collected five hits, including a home run. During the season he had played primarily at first base, returning to his old familiar left field when Jim Rice was hurt.

No one was saying much about the coming series against Cincinnati, but Manager Darrell Johnson admitted he probably would start ace right-hander Luis Tiant in Saturday's opening game at Fenway Park.

Also, shortstop Burleson said the fact that the opening two games of the just-concluded playoffs were at Fenway had been a big aid.

"I hope it will be the same in the World Series," Burleson said of the venerable stadium with its short left field wall.

"If we can hit some balls off the wall, I'm sure it will give George Foster some trouble," commented the Red Sox infielder. "When we won those first two games against the A's at home, we knew it would be just a matter of time before we won the series. But I was surprised we won it in three straight."

Recreation Football

Elmhurst and West Greenville battled to a 6-6 tie in the Flag Football League yesterday.

After a scoreless first half, West Greenville got on the scoreboard in the third period. Keith Phillips passed 16 yards to Worsley for the score.

After two exchanges of punts, Elmhurst was helped along by two penalties, and a pass to Roger Williams by Billy Stallings put the ball on the one-yard line. Gordon Douglas scored from there, tying it up.

Michael Spell, Charles Taft and Christopher McLawhorn led the West Greenville defense, while Kent Green, Chip Cayton and Burney Carraway paced the Elmhurst defense.

Baylor had the nation's most improved team in football last year, moving from a 2-9 record in 1973 to an 8-3 record.

Yaz Brilliant In Sox Lineup

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer
OAKLAND (AP) — It was the Boston Red Sox' year of the rookies before Carl Yastrzemski moved back into left field and destroyed the Oakland A's.

"You know you can't pull that on me, Reggie," the 36-year-old Yastrzemski said in a taunt aimed at another of baseball's superstars, Reggie Jackson, early in Tuesday night's third and final game of the American League playoffs.

Jackson, cut down by Yastrzemski in the fourth inning as he tried to stretch a single into a double, was robbed of an extra base hit by the left fielder in the key eighth inning and admitted after the 5-3 defeat, "Yaz was the story."

Five hits by the veteran, including a two-run homer which put the Red Sox back in Sunday's second game after they trailed 3-0, also helped make Yastrzemski the undisputed top performer of the playoffs.

"We thought when Jim Rice got hurt it was a break for us," said A's captain Sal Bando. "It turned out to be the worst thing that happened."

Rice, who played left field most of the season and along with center fielder Fred Lynn gave the Red Sox the best two-man rookie combination to hit the major leagues in many years, broke a hand in late September.

Manager Darrell Johnson made the decision to move Yastrzemski from first base back to left, a position he manned expertly for many years.

"He only needed a few days' practice to brush up," said Johnson.

Yaz, who was resting a sore left shoulder over the final days of the season and had limited game experience, remarked, "I could play left field in my sleep."

In the second playoff game, Yaz fielded the ball on a tricky carom in Fenway Park's left field corner and threw out Bert Campaneris who tried to go from first to third.

"But Yaz doesn't need that Fenway Park fence behind him to play a great left field. He'll prove that here," Johnson predicted before the old pro proved it before 49,358 Oakland Coliseum fans.

"During the season, we won it on defense," said Yastrzemski. "We won it here on defense, too. It would have been an entirely different series if we didn't make the plays."

Players Honored

Willie Hawkins and Zack Valentine were named the Offensive and Defensive Players of the Week for East Carolina University today by the Pirate coaching staff.

The two were singled out for their play against the University of Richmond in Saturday's 17-14 defeat.

Valentine, a 6-4, 195-pound freshman from Edenton, was credited with nine individual tackles and six assists from his defensive end position. He also had one tackle for a loss in the game.

His totals bring him to 28 tackles for the year, second best on the team.

Hawkins, a 5-11, 190-pound sophomore, picked up 42 yards in eight carries. He also caught four passes for 80 yards, including one 49-yarder for a touchdown that gave the Pirates their initial 7-0 lead. Hawkins now has 282 yards for the year, tops in the team in rushing. He is the second leading receiver with 162 yards in nine catches, and second in total offense. His 18 points is the second best on the team, also.

The Pirates travel to Charleston, S. C., Saturday night to meet The Citadel.

Even Anderson Was Unhappy Notre Dame Has Been Stingy With Defense

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP) — Even winning Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson felt sorry for John Candelaria, the pressure-proof rookie left-hander of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"It was quite a performance by the young kid," said an admiring Anderson after his Reds beat the Pirates 5-3 Tuesday night and captured the National League pennant. "It was a shame he didn't win," said Anderson — and if you know the white haired manager, you know he wasn't just blowing smoke at a loser. Candelaria, a 21-year-old who four months ago was toiling for Charleston in the International League, struck out 14 Reds Tuesday night in 7 2-3 innings of pitching with his team's back to the wall. The Pirates had lost the first two games of the National League best-of-five-game championship series. It was win or else Tuesday night. It turned out to be or else, the end of the season, but you couldn't blame Candelaria.

The 6-foot-7 Candelaria, a Brooklyn-born son of Puerto Rican parents, tied a major league record of 14 strikeouts in a playoff game. Joe Coleman of the Detroit Tigers fanned 14 against Oakland in 1972. Candelaria broke the National League playoff strikeout mark of 13 by Tom Seaver of the New York Mets against the Reds in 1973.

Anderson said he was worried in the early innings even though the Reds led into the sixth 1-0 on Dave Concepcion's second inning home run.

"I didn't know if we could win the way Candelaria was pitching," Anderson said. "I told Shep (pitching coach Larry Shepard) this was the best pitching performance against us this season."

Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh just shook his head, rocked in his rocking chair, and observed, "you can't go much better."

"Candy pitched a helluva game," Murtaugh noted of the pitcher he personally scouted in Brooklyn.

Candelaria sat after the game just as cool and relaxed as he was on the mound. He sipped from a can of beer, patiently answered questions from reporters who mobbed his locker space.

"Strikeouts don't mean anything," he repeated for the reporters who came in little late. "I could have struckout 20, but it wouldn't have meant a thing if we lost."

Candelaria seemed more composed than his questioners, who sympathized with the heartbreaking performance.

"It's not the end of the world," he said. "I gave 100 per cent and I'm still happy to be alive," said the 6-foot-7 Candelaria. He appeared to be consoling the writers.

What happened on the eighth inning, two-run homer by Pete Rose, the shot that broke the left-hander's back? It was only the second hit off the Pirates' starter.

"Didn't you see it?" Candelaria asked. "He belted the thing clear over the fence. He still managed a smile as he said it."

Notre Dame Has Been Stingy With Defense

By The Associated Press
The Notre Dame football team, which will play at North Carolina Saturday, has been stingy on defense.

It has given up an average of only 204 yards a game and ranks seventh in the nation in this category. The Irish have yielded only 20 points in four games. They won the first three before being upset 10-3 by Michigan State last week and dropping to a tie for 15th nationally.

Notre Dame coach Da Devine has announced seven changes in his starting lineup for the game, six of them because of injuries. Rick Slager will start at quarterback.

A capacity crowd of more than 47,000 is expected in Kenan Stadium at Chapel Hill. The game has been a sellout for more than three months.

The Tar Heels have beaten the Irish only once in their 15 meetings. That was 12-7 in 1960. North Carolina is 2-2 this season after coming from behind to defeat Virginia 31-28.

A crucial Atlantic Coast Conference game is coming up this early in the season, N.C. State at Maryland. As Maryland coach Jerry Claiborne sees it, "State has already lost one conference game (30-22 to Wake Forest) and they can't afford another. We only play five conference games this year, so we can't afford to lose any, either, if we hope to win the championship."

Maryland is the defending ACC champion. The Terps have won 11 in a row against league opponents. The last time they lost was in 1973, when the N.C. State Wolfpack beat them 24-22. State won the championship that year.

The Duke Blue Devils will be facing the wishbone offense for the first time this year in the game at Army. The Duke defense showed improvement last week and held the Pitt Panthers to 284 yards total offense in a losing 14-0 effort. Army has averaged 405 yards a game with the wishbone.

Duke is 1-3 and Army 2-2. Army leads the Duke series, 7-3. Duke won 33-14 in Durham last year.

The Clemson Tigers, losers of all four games this season, open their ACC campaign at home to Wake Forest. The Wake Forest Deacons surprised with that 30-22 victory over N.C. State, but have dropped their other three games. However, all were by narrow margins, 14-7 to SMU, 19-17 to Appalachian State and 17-16 to Kansas State.

Wake Forest was idle last week, and has had two weeks to prepare for the Clemson game.

Top Conferences Say Opposed To Playoffs

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Three of the nation's major conferences have reaffirmed their opposition to a national college football playoff although such a proposal may come up for a vote for the first time at the National Collegiate Athletic Association's January convention.

The College Football Championship Feasibility Committee, headed by Temple University athletic director Ernest C. Ca-sale, recommended a four-team, post-bowl playoff to the policy-making NCAA Council last weekend.

The Associated Press learned the vote was 8-4 — five members of the 17-man committee were absent — and three of the negative votes were cast by representatives of the Big Ten, Pacific-8 and Southeastern Conferences.

They were faculty representative Marcus L. Plant of Michigan, a member of the Big Ten; athletic director J.D. Morgan of UCLA, which belongs to the Pac-8, and Boyd McWhorter, commissioner of the Southeastern Conference. The fourth negative vote came from Alan Chapman of Rice University, a member of the Southwest Conference.

The committee fight for a national championship playoff was led by Nebraska athletic director Bob Devaney, who was represented by sports information director Don Bryant, and the Rev. Edmund P. Joyce, executive vice president of Notre Dame. Other affirmative votes, the AP learned, were cast by Casale and representatives of Utah, Dartmouth, North Carolina, Toledo and Atlantic Coast Conference.

Absent committee members were Coaches Darrell Royal of Texas and John McKay of Southern California, athletic directors Elroy Hirsch of Wisconsin and Carl Maddox of Louisiana State and faculty representative William H. Baughn of Colorado.

The playoff opposition from the Big Ten, Pac-8 and SEC stems from a desire to maintain the present bowl structure. The Big Ten and Pac-8 champions meet in the lucrative Rose Bowl while the SEC usually sends at least half of its 10 teams to postseason games.

"While the Big Ten has never adopted an official position, the conference has traditionally been opposed to a national championship playoff because of a long and successful affiliation with the Rose Bowl," said Commissioner Wayne Duke. "We feel a post-season playoff would be a detriment to the present bowl picture."

The championship committee recommended that four teams be chosen by a special panel, with two games to be played a week or so after the bowls and the championship game a week later.

An NCAA spokesman said he felt the proposal would become a formal piece of legislation at the January convention in St. Louis. If approved, it would take affect for the 1976 season.

CALIFORNIA CAPTAINS

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — Air Force cadets from California are captains of the 1975-76 school year baseball, swimming and water polo teams for the Falcons. The Air Force's top hitter the past three years, Jeff Brown from Escondido, will captain next spring's baseball team.

Unbeaten in freestyle dual meets last season, Jim Hogue of LaQuinta captains the Falcon swimming team. Goalie Walt Heidmou of Lompoc, Calif., a three-year letter winner, captains the water polo squad.

Grambling Atop College Poll

By The Associated Press
Grambling, with an impressive 19-12 victory over Oregon State last weekend, remains atop The Associated college division poll, but there was a wholesale reshuffling in other rankings.

Grambling, 4-0-0, received 31 first-place votes and 434 points, widening the Tigers' lead over Western Kentucky, 5-0-0, whose Hilltoppers drew seven first-place votes and 317 points in balloting of the nation's sports writers and broadcasters. Western Kentucky beat East Tennessee State 17-0 last weekend.

The poll took on a new look with Texas A&I's move from fourth to third with two first-place votes and 292 points based on its 49-0 victory over Stephen F. Austin.

Meanwhile, Boise State fell from third to fourth with 253 points after its narrow 35-34 victory over Montana State.

Idaho State, on the strength of its 17-7 victory over Northern Arizona Saturday, moved from sixth to fifth with 207 points. And Northern Michigan, eighth last week, jumped to sixth, receiving three top selections and 182 points after a 15-0 blanking of Youngstown St.

Eastern Kentucky was still at No. 7 with 138 points, followed by North Dakota, up from ninth place last week with 88.

Delaware advanced from 10th place to the No. 9 slot with 79 points, and Montana vaulted from 13th to 10th place with two first-place votes and 76 points.

Rounding out the top 15 were Wittenberg, 68 points; Henderson State, 55; Jackson State, 46; newcomer Western Illinois, 29, and Ithaca, 27.

School Bd. . . .

Board members adopted a resolution honoring the late Lyman Hardy for the years of service he gave the Pitt County Schools as a member of the Grimesland Advisory Council.

The board approved a recommendation from the four high school principals that a new method for reporting to parents the academic and social progress of students be used.

Russ Cotton, principal at Farmville Central, said the proposed method will cut the time teachers spend on report cards by 60 percent. Grades will be recorded in the register twice each school year as compared with every six weeks now.

Cotton said the new method, which is less bulky, will cost a total of $1,835 for the four high schools.

The board approved the new method of reporting upon availability of the money and asked that a committee be appointed to work out the details.

The employment of new personnel for the current school year was approved and two teachers were granted maternity leave.

Treasurers and depositaries for the individual schools were approved. They include: Loys Sumrell, Ayden Elementary, Planters, Ayden; Nancy Bulow, Ayden Grammar, Planters and Southern, Ayden; Elva Smith, Ayden-Grifton, Planters, Ayden; Phyllis Carraway, A. G. Cox, First State, Winterville, Mary Parker, H. B. Sugg, First Union, Farmville; Sandra Cotton, Farmville Middle, Bank of N. C., Farmville; Juanita Williams, Sam D. Bundy, Bank of N. C., Farmville; Rachel Patterson, Farmville Central, First Union, Farmville;

Patricia Dail, Falkland, Wachovia, Greenville; Velma Harper, W. H. Robinson, First State, Winterville; Pearl Frizzell, D. H. Conley, First State, Winterville; Myra Page, Chicod, Wachovia, Greenville; Pat Wilson, G. R. Whitfield, First Citizens, Grimesland; Hilda Alexander, North Pitt, Wachovia, Bethel; Kay Allen, Bethel Elementary, Wachovia, Bethel; Ann Huggins, Stokes Elementary, Southern Bank and Trust Co., Stokes; Barbara Cannon, Stokes-Pactolus School, Southern Bank and Trust Co., Stokes;

Ursula Glisson, Pactolus, Wachovia, Greenville; Maude Hart, Grifton, First Citizens, Grifton; Pauline Tucker, Belvoir Primary, Wachovia, Greenville, and Faye Bullock, Belvoir Grammar, Wachovia, Greenville.

A budget for the Trainable Mentally Retarded Program for the amount of $144,054 was approved. Included in the budget (which is all state money—one hundred percent reimbursement), is nine instructors, 11 aides, hospitalization and fixed monies. The budget figure is based on 106 students being involved in the program.

The 1974-75 audit report for the individual county schools was accepted from the John C. Proctor Co. of Greenville.

The following additional appropriations to the budget were accepted: Telephone reimbursement for Stokes Elementary, Farmville Middle, Whitfield, Bethel Elementary, Bethel Grammar, Chicod, A. G. Cox for the amount of $220.08; ESEA Title I utilities, $17,03.52; Pitt Migrant Program, utilities, $344.02; Stokes-Pactolus, activity bus, $29.30; and Horace Hardee, maintenance, $40.

Board members approved a request from John McKnight, director of testing and research, that a modification in the plans to implement an individualized math program in grades kindergarten through 12 be accepted.

Teachers will use the mathematics objectives, evaluate and keep individual record sheets for at least one math class this school term. Requirements on the individual record sheets have been changed to allow teachers to use various methods of teaching to reach the goals set by the program.

The Army JROTC objectives were approved. They include: good citizenship; self-reliance; leadership; responsiveness to constituted authority; a knowledge of basic military skills; an appreciation of the role of the United States Army in support of national defense and national objectives; and an appreciation of physical education to the accomplishments of these objectives.

The JROTC of instruction consists of three or four years of elective military instruction with a minimum of 96 hours per year.

Board members denied a request from Mrs. Doris Lee that a subdivision just outside the city school district be annexed by the board. Mrs. Lee recently moved from the Greenfield Terrace subdivision which is within the city school district.

Associate Supt. Tom Craft told the board that a request had come from Boy Scout Troop 401 that the board donate an unused wood frame building to the scouts. The scouts agreed to remove the building from the school campus and clean up the lot within 30 days, upon board approval. After a brief discussion of the matter, the board agreed that letting the scouts have the building would be the best thing to do.

An easement of right-of-way was approved for Carolina Power and Light Co. to install underground wiring to the Grifton School cafeteria.

The board will hold their November 4th board meeting at Bethel Elementary School at 3 p.m. Following the meeting, a dinner will be held at the school at 6 p.m. honoring members of the local school advisory councils and those members who are no longer serving on the boards.

The board will hold a workshop session Wednesday, Oct. 15, at 7:30 p.m. at the central school office.

Tourist Menu Idea Promoted

LONDON (UPI) — The English Tourist Board is promoting the idea of inclusive tourist menus, already well established on the continent, in pubs, cafes and restaurants in Britain.

The system provides for a three-course meal at a fixed price and is being tried out in Bath, York and the Northumbrian area. Visitors should look for the red, white and blue Tourist-menu sign with its fork symbol.

Cease-Fire Broken In Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The cease-fire between Lebanon's warring Christian and

Moslem factions broke down today as fierce fighting with mortars and automatic weapons erupted in Beirut. Heavy casualties were reported, most businesses closed behind steel shutters and the state radio broadcast an appeal from security forces to "stop the massacre."

Witnesses said one mortar round exploded next to a bakery where housewives were lined up in a rush for bread, wounding 36 persons, and that another round exploded near a hospital in a Moslem district, leaving several dead and wounded.

Lebanon's civil strife is caused by Moslem efforts to gain more political power, now held largely by Christians; by the presence of armed Palestinian guerrillas the Moslems support and Christians oppose, and by leftists fighting for a better economic deal for the country's predominantly Moslem lower class.

The renewed fighting broke a five-day lull which had been marred only by scattered shooting incidents and an unsuccessful hijack attempt by Arab terrorists at Beirut airport Saturday.

The sound of explosions shook the battered Lebanese capital as it prepared to go back to work after the three-day Al Fitr holiday, ending a month of fasting for Moslems.

The state radio said roads leading into the capital through northern and eastern suburbs, the areas of intense firing, were unsafe.

Buildings were reported burning in the northern suburb of Chiyah. Ambulances could be seen racing through the streets in several areas.

The fighting centered on two trouble spots. Moslems in Chiyah battled Christians in Ein Rummaneh. In the east, mortar shells were reported falling in the Christian quarter of Ashrafiyah, with Christian Phalange militia retaliating. Many Ashrafiyah residents took shelter in cellars.

During previous rounds of the fighting which has killed 6,000 persons since April, food supplies were disrupted in Beirut, the city ran out of gasoline and shops and banks shut.

Anticipating that the latest round would be prolonged, residents formed long lines at bakeries this morning, housewives invaded the few shops and pharmacies which opened and motorists lined up at gas stations.

Two other men who had been in a car with Parks were arrested shortly after Tuesday night's robbery of the Li'l General store on South Hoskins Road.

Commissioner Leroy Redden and Police Chief Cannady were asked to get together and work out a plan for directing traffic at the intersection of Main Street and Anderson Avenue during the busy hours.

Benton said the three were stopped by police shortly after the holdup. The captain said Parks was shot after he apparently tried to flee.

Improvement Funds For Farmville Authorized

By CAROL TYER
 Reflector Staff Writer

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Board passed a resolution last night which will authorize funds for downtown improvements. An application for a grant is being submitted to the Economic Development Administration general improvement to the central business district here.

The board members adopted a resolution to enter into a contract with the Department of Transportation for the replacing of street signs. They agreed to spend up to $900 on the project, but not to replace any in the downtown area designated to be improved until other improvements are completed.

The Town Administrator was authorized to advertise for a car for use by the administrative office. This item has earlier been budgeted from Revenue Sharing Funds, up to $5,000.

The contract with the Rose, Pridden, and Freeman Engineering firm which is responsible for the town's new sewage treatment plant was amended to include an access to records clause for the Environmental Protection Agency.

A house at 212 Railroad Street owned by Glenn Newton was condemned by an ordinance.

Police Chief Marsdon Cannady's request for payment to police officers on six holidays was tabled, with more consideration to be given by the November meeting. The Chief is asking for paid holidays on New Year's Day, Easter, July 4, Labor Day, Thanksgiving, and Christmas. He has checked with several towns smaller than Farmville that do give at least this many holidays. Greenville gives nine, he said.

Eddie Lee Warren of near Farmville was granted a permit for part-time taxi service. James Thomas Bunch, who runs a pool room at 418 S. Main Street, was given permission to sell beer in his business place on Sundays, provided he does not allow pool to be played there on Sunday. If he does this, he will be complying with the town ordinances as they now read, the Commissioners said.

Commissioner Leroy Redden and Police Chief Cannady were asked to get together and work out a plan for directing traffic at the intersection of Main Street and Anderson Avenue during the busy hours.

Car Emission Testing Set

A free Car Emission Clinic to test vehicles for excessive carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons emissions will be conducted Saturday, Oct. 11, by East Carolina University Environmental Health students.

The clinic, sponsored by the ECU Student National Environmental Health Association and the Eastern Lung Association will be held at Pitt Plaza Shopping Center from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Scott Horn, president of the ECU Student National Environmental Health Association said the test takes only 3 minutes and will readily indicate to car owners how well their engines are running.

"If a motor is running properly, the emissions it produce will be minimal. This means better gas mileage and lower operation costs," he said.

The Sun Electric Company will provide the testing equipment for the clinic. And a representative of the company will be present to answer questions from car owners about the test.

Horn said he hopes the clinic will help make people aware of air pollutants and at the same time show the value of proper vehicle maintenance.

Whither George Dickel?

With or without the rocks? Either way it's superb Tennessee Sour Mash Whisky.

Why? It's mellowed through charcoal. For a smooth, expensive taste.

What? The thought that quality always takes a little longer.

How? Tennessee Coffee. Add one jigger George Dickel to hot coffee. Sweeten to taste. Top with generous dollop of whipped cream and enjoy.

George Dickel Sour Mash Sippin' Whisky.

There's a little bit of Tennessee in every sip.

Dolly Parton Too Busy Working Toward Goals

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) —

Dolly Parton sits behind the booth-type breakfast table on her bus and runs her fingers through the long hair of her younger brother, Randy. A little later, she and another brother tap their fingertips against each other's while a sister, a cousin and other members of her band sip on cans of cola between shows.

"It makes being on the road a whole lot easier for me than many entertainers," she says. "We all love each other. I can be alone when I want to but I'm never faced with being lonely."

After appearing with Porter Wagoner for several years, Miss Parton, at 29, is on the verge of becoming a superstar on her own in country music. She stands a good chance of winning the Country Music Association's female entertainer of the year award next week and is up for election to the group's board of directors.

The closeness with her band and backup vocalists — all but three of them are "family" — and the unadorned bus they tour on belie her image as a sexy but innocent Cinderella.

"I know my hair is out of the '60s, my clothes are '50s and the shoes I wear are from the '40s," she says. "But I like looking like I came out of a fairytale."

"The people who criticize the way I look are the same ones running around telling everybody, 'Do your own thing.' Well, I am. They're not going to change me."

Small children look at her as if she were a fairy godmother and high school girls rush up for autographs, putting to rest the notion that teenagers have been consumed completely by rock and roll.

State troopers and deputy sheriffs assume a protective roll, surrounding her except for when she's on the bus or on stage, all the while smiling confidently like favored courtiers.

Asked if she ever thought of performing in the plain slacks and black and red printed blouse she relaxes in between shows, Miss Parton replies no.

"Anybody can look like a common Joe. Only stars can wear rhinestones," she says mockingly, laughing at herself and her stereotyped image.

Her desire for success came while growing up in poverty in East Tennessee. She says her song, "Coat of Many Colors" about a mother making a coat for her daughter out of rags is an experience out of her own childhood.

"I don't guess I really have any heroes," she says. "I never had posters of Elvis Presley up on the wall like everybody else. I was too busy working toward my own goals."

As a songwriter, Miss Parton probably is more responsible than anyone else for breaking the stereotype of women as mothers, loving wives or honky-tonk cheaters in the lyrics of country songs.

She has written more than 2,000 songs, many of them reflecting her own independence.

Married to an asphalt contractor nine years, she says her husband "is a friend and I love him."

"Performing on the road satisfies the gypsy in me. He pretty much likes to stay at home," she says. "Occasionally he'll come along when he feels he needs to get away, but I don't think he's ever been on this bus."

"He has his interests and I have mine, and he's never tried to stand in the way of what I want to do. Sure, we've had disagreements, but they've never been over my career."

They don't have any children of their own but they have helped raise five of her younger brothers and sisters, which Miss Parton says is enough to satisfy her motherhood desires for the time-being.

"Someday I may want to have children of my own, but it'll only be when I feel that I am ready to give up part of my career. Besides, you can look at songwriting as a mother-type thing."

"You first conceive it and then it develops. You labor with it to get it out, but afterwards it's sort of on its own and you no longer have that much control over what becomes of it." Many of her songs have been picked up by other artists. Merle Haggard had a hit with her "Kentucky Gambler" and Danny Davis and the Nashville Brass have just completed recording an instrumental version of "The Seeker."

She says that because she's a country person, she'll always consider herself a country performer. However, she'd rather have her music looked at as being Dolly Parton songs rather than country songs.

"When I wrote 'Down From Dover' several years ago, the record company didn't want me to record it. It was too far ahead of its time. Now that kind of song is accepted," she says.

But, before performing the same song in front of a rural audience, she couches it in terms of "a girl getting in trouble, something that happens in the best of families sometimes."

"I do have this image that I have to protect among some older country fans," she says. "But that doesn't mean that I don't like a good time."

"Not that I do actually do anything bad. Usually its playful type things like throwing bread across the table at somebody in a restaurant or a water fight, stuff like that."

"But my thoughts are my own. I wouldn't dare put them down on paper or in a diary. They might hurt some people and offend others."

"Personally, I can't be shocked by anything that another person does," she says. "Nobody can reach so deep into my soul that they can hurt me beyond recovery; my soul is between just me and God."

South won the king of spades and cashed the king and ace of hearts. Though he had apparently four certain losers (a spade, a club and two diamonds), he had devised a plan that might succeed if West had started with a doubleton spade, as seemed likely from the lead and East's play to the first trick. He led a diamond to the queen. West won the ace and exited with his last spade. Declarer took the ace, cashed the queen of diamonds and threw West on lead with a diamond.

West was down to nothing but minor-suit cards. If he cashed the ace of clubs, declarer would discard dummy's spade loser on the king of clubs, so West was forced to lead his remaining diamond. This merely postponed the moment of truth, for declarer had an elegant counter. Instead of ruffing in dummy, he discarded the lone club.

The defenders had taken three tricks, but West was well and truly employed. If he returned a low club, declarer would discard dummy's spade and win with the king; if he led the ace, declarer would ruff in dummy, return to his hand with a trump and discard the spade loser on the king of clubs. Either way, the defenders had shot their bolt and the contract was brought home.

Team Approach On Nutrition

JACKSON, Tenn. (UPI) — First grade teacher Lori Murchison and food service manager Nancy Edwards use a team approach to nutrition education.

Coordinating lessons with cafeteria demonstrations, they give first graders at J.B. Young Elementary School a chance to make some of the foods they study in classes. For example, a lesson on breads and cereals was followed by a participatory biscuit making session in the cafeteria kitchen.

Raleigh Mayor Is Turned Back

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Clarence Lightner, the first black mayor of a predominantly white major Southern city, was defeated Tuesday in his bid for a second two-year term.

Lightner polled 5,644 votes while former legislator Jyles Coggins led the three-man field with 10,201 votes and Councilman Oliver Williams came in second with 7,524 votes.

Raleigh's council elections are nonpartisan. Williams or Coggins will be elected the city's new mayor in the Nov. 4 general election.

Lightner refused immediate comment on his loss. Legal problems in the mayor's family during the last year hampered Lightner's reelection effort. In January his wife, Marguerite, was tried on a charge of conspiring to receive and dispose of stolen goods. She was acquitted by a jury after a highly publicized eight day trial.

Last summer the mayor's son, Lawrence, was jailed 20 days for contempt of court. A judge ruled that the younger Lightner had made an obscene gesture while leaving the courtroom after being called to face a charge by his wife that he struck her.

Last week, Lightner's daughter, Debra, was accused of credit card fraud after several days of publicity surrounding the investigation of Miss Lightner's involvement. The charge is a misdemeanor.

In other contested Raleigh races Tuesday, incumbent Jack Keeter, Randy Hester, J.C. Knowles and former council member Michael Boyd won the primary for two at-large council seats and incumbent Ronald Kirschbaum and Donald Bryant won the North Raleigh district primary.

All council terms are for two years.

Tight Fit Can Result In Acne

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Pressure or rubbing by turtle-neck sweaters, football helmets and bras can cause acne, say researchers at the University of Pennsylvania. Observing acne patients at the medical school here, Dr. Albert Kligman and Otto H. Mills found that nervous rubbing of the skin or the chafing of tight apparel caused eruptions of the skin ailment.

How N.C. Representatives And Senators Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were reported on major roll call votes Sept. 25 through Oct. 1.

HOUSE

POSTAL SERVICE — Adopted, 267 for and 123 against, an amendment to return to Congress financial control over the U. S. Postal Service, thus ending its five-year-old status as a quasi-governmental business. The amendment requires that the Postal Service budget be authorized and appropriated by Congress, and that all postal revenues go into the U. S. Treasury.

The amendment was attached to a bill (HR 8063) authorizing FY 1976 no-strings-attached subsidies of the Postal Service and making certain changes in the 1970 Postal Reorganization Act. A vote on final passage of HR 8063 was delayed at least until the following week. The Senate has not acted.

The 1970 act sought to establish a profitable, efficient postal service free of political interference. But the service, which has continued to chalk up staggering deficits, is perceived by many congressmen as performing worse today than it did five years ago.

Rep. Bill Alexander (D-Ark.), the amendment's sponsor, said that the Postal Service should be "accountable to Congress and the public" because it is "a major federal agency, the second largest employer of federal employees, spending huge sums of taxpayer's money (and performing a vital government service."

One opponent, Rep. James Hanley (D-N.Y.), said the amendment would "pull the rug out from underneath the Reorganization Act." He said that "in the long run, with prudent management, we are going to generate revenue" and that rehabilitation is so difficult that more time should be allowed "to get it on the track."

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L. H. Fountain (D-2), Stephen Neal

(D-5), Richardson Preyer (D-6), Charles Rose (D-7), W. G. Hefner (D D-8), James Martin (R-9), James Broyhill (R-10) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "yea."

Rep. David Henderson (D-3) voted "nay."

Rep. Ike Andrews (D-4) did not vote.

FEDERAL PAY RAISE — Tabled, 278 for and 123 against, a resolution (H Res 688) disapproving President Ford's recommendation that a five percent pay raise for Members of Congress and many federal employees be enacted this year.

By tabling, and thus killing, H Res 688, the House in effect voted in favor of the five percent level and against the 8.66 percent level proposed by the Advisory Committee on Federal Pay. The Senate earlier disapproved a similar resolution, and thus the five percent hike will take effect.

This vote was on the amount of the increase, not the merits. Earlier this year Members of Congress voted to make themselves eligible for the annual cost-of-living pay hikes available to civil servants and to some other federal employees.

The five percent hike will raise salaries of House members and senators to $44,625. The 8.66 percent hike would have put salaries at $46,184.

There was no floor debate on the tabling motion.

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Neal, Preyer, Hefner, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "yea."

Rose voted "nay."

Andrews did not vote.

RHODESIAN CHROME — Rejected, 187 for and 209 against, a bill (HR 1287) requiring the U. S. to obey the United Nations-sanctioned embargo on trading with white-ruled Rhodesia. The effect of the vote was to leave untouched the 1971 law under which the U. S. has skirted the embargo and imported chrome ore and ferrochrome from Rhodesia.

The U. N. sanctions were imposed in 1966 to protest

Rhodesia's allegedly racist regime. U.S. non-compliance with these sanctions is designed to prevent dependence on Soviet chromium.

Since enactment of the 1971 law, the Soviet Union has supplied approximately 50 percent of the chrome ore imported by the U. S. Rhodesia has supplied about 13 percent. Imported Rhodesian ferrochrome has met roughly 10 percent of U. S. ferrochrome needs.

Supporters said the 1971 law should be repealed since it has not lessened U. S. dependence on Soviet chromium, yet has harmed the domestic ferrochrome industry. They said that the law has set the harmful precedent of encouraging major international powers to defy U. N. sanctions, and has economically propped up the "racist" Rhodesian government.

Opponents said demand for the high-quality steel manufactured with chromium has increased and that passage of HR 1287 would cause scarcities and inflation. Some argued that ignoring U. N. sanctions concerning what they termed internal Rhodesian matters is no different than the U.S. practice of trading with the Soviet Union despite repressive Soviet emigration policies.

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Hefner, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "nay."

Rose did not vote.

CIA BUDGET — Rejected, 147 for and 267 against, an amendment designed to make public this year's total appropriation to the Central Intelligence Agency. Although the CIA budget is presently available for extremely limited congressional scrutiny, it is hidden within other Department of Defense appropriation items. The size of the CIA's budget this fiscal year is thought to be approximately $750 million.

The amendment was proposed to a bill (HR 9861) appropriating $112 billion to the Department of Defense for FY 1976. HR 9861 is headed for final passage.

Supporters said Congress must assume its responsibility to oversee the CIA. Rep. Robert Giaino (D-Conn.), the sponsor, said, "I am concerned about the ability of this nation to . . . protect itself against a secret all-powerful government which can turn evil."

Opponents said the amendment would damage national security. Rep. Robert Sikes (D-Fla.) said it could lead to "full disclosure of anything and everything we've tried to keep secret from our enemies."

Andrews, Preyer and Hefner voted "yea."

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Neal, Rose, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "nay."

SENATE
NATURAL GAS SHORTAGE — Tabled, 57 for and 31 against, a deregulation amendment to abolish federal price controls on natural gas sold in interstate commerce. A 52 cents per 1,000 cubic feet ceiling now exists on such gas. In contrast, the present average price of interstate gas is $1.25 per 1,000 cubic feet.

The amendment was proposed to a bill (S 2310) to partially decontrol interstate gas prices through June 30, 1976. S 2310 is designed to avert natural gas shortages this winter in several northern states by giving gas companies a profit incentive to increase sales outside of their state boundaries. S. 2310 is headed for passage.

Supporters of the defeated amendment advocate complete and permanent decontrol of natural gas prices as a partial solution to the energy crisis. They say that higher profits will encourage more exploration and higher production.

Opponents said the amendment would destroy the temporary, emergency thrust of S 2310. Although they generally favor partial decontrol to avert a natural gas shortage this winter, most of them favor price ceilings over the long run.

Sen. Robert Morgan (D) voted "yea." Sen. Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

Salmon Wait To Be Caught In Cleaned-Up Lake Ontario

CHINOOK SALMON such as these are being hooked by thousands of anglers swarming the shores and waters of Lake Ontario. (UPI Photo)

TORONTO (UPI) — The salmon run every day just 15 miles from downtown Toronto. Thousands of anglers swarm the shores and waters of Lake Ontario, once in danger of death by pollution, to bag salmon up to 18 pounds and a yard in length.

Thanks to successful anti-pollution measures and a largescale stocking program, under joint efforts by Ontario

Province and New York State, Lake Ontario has become a new fishing mecca and anglers are hauling out record catches of salmon.

Instead of a trek of many miles into northern salmon country, fishermen now have only a 15-mile drive from downtown Toronto to the sleepy little suburb of Port Credit.

An official of the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources estimated that the average salmon being landed weighs in at 10 pounds. Catches as large as 18 pounds and a yard long have been boated.

On weekends the mouth of the Credit river swarms with thousands of anglers from surrounding heavily populated areas. Even on week days upwards of a hundred boats ply waters just off the shoreline and more troll up and down the lower Credit.

There is no season on the salmon, most of them Coho with some of the larger specimens of the Chinook variety. The catch is most bountiful in late September when the fish mass to fight their way up river to spawn and die.

Fishermen already are reporting taking their limit of five in as few as three hours.

The craze has bestowed a late season bonanza on sport and tackle shops. Proprietors report a big demand for fluorescent red flatfish and fireplug lures, the most popular and effective.

"We had 40 to 50 dozen sent to us by express bus last week and they're all gone," one sports shop owner said. "Now they're grabbing up anything in fluorescent red — Tadpolllys, Lazy Ikes, Canadian Wigglers, you name it."

Some suppliers have resorted to painting silver Fireplugs red to meet the demand.

Despite some remaining chemical pollution, Ontario officials have given the salmon a stamp of approval, providing the diner doesn't make salmon a three-meal-a-day, every day habit.

New York State authorities have warned fishermen on the U.S. side of Lake Ontario of inordinately high deposits of a chemical called PCB in the fish. They set a standard of five parts per million as a dangerous level.

But Ontario officials said the PCB content is noticeably lower on the Canadian side of the lake. They said the chemical would have to be ingested in relatively massive doses for it to be harmful.

And even on the 7th day they don't rest.

Since January 1975, these people have been working 7 days a week, on 3 shifts, to make lids for home canning jars. That's how hard we've been trying at Ball to meet the demand. Ball has increased production of replacement lids by 30% over last year because of the effort these people have given.

Even so, some people haven't been able to buy enough lids.

If you have any extra lids, won't you please share them with your neighbor.

Bargain Tips For Clothing

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Mrs. Ruth Ann Wilson, extension clothing and textiles specialist at Penn State University, said consumers are bargain hunting and choosing lower price items in the search for clothing this year.

Mrs. Wilson suggested that consumers shop wisely for durable items that are appropriate, and repair, alter or recycle present clothing to extend its use, and shop the thrift stores.

Birds, bats, dragonflies, spiders and fish depend on the mosquito as a food source.

Care Label For Yard Goods

NEW YORK (UPI) — When you buy fabrics by the yard, be sure the sales clerk gives you a care label to go with each piece. The label should match the information on the label of the bolt of fabric. Both give instructions for washing, bleaching, ironing or dry cleaning.

Complaints about missing labels should be directed to the store manager or owner. If they do not reply positively, notify Care Labels, Federal Trade Commission, Washington, D.C.

Farmer Knows His Wealth Is In The Soil

By MARGARET BAILEY
HOMEDALE, Idaho (UPI) — Burt Trueblood is a different kind of farmer.

He realizes that both Brer Rabbit and Brer Fox have a right to their place in nature. And he says that most farmers fail to take care of their best friend — the earth.

"You have to look at the whole picture," is Trueblood's motto.

For the past 11 years he has worked the 200 acres homesteaded by his parents in 1912 at Central Cove near the Idaho-Oregon border.

His dark eyes glowed brightly beneath a chrome yellow, billed cap shading his leathery brown face as he talked about scientific innovations that have helped him improve the land.

Trueblood said the farm had not produced enough to pay water and tax bills the last three years before he returned from Alaska to take over the fields. Some of the area was classified by soil surveyors as "Class Four" which generally is considered best suited for home building, of low quality for crops.

The techniques he has used to improve the soil have in the past three years resulted in wheat crops which in some cases were 2½ times greater than the per acre average for Idaho and alfalfa seed crops which also surpassed the state yields.

A tour of his fields turned up ears of corn 16 inches long and not fully developed — growing from soil Trueblood said was some of the farm's poorest.

"It takes a lifetime to build up the soil," said Trueblood. "And it takes a lifetime to tear down the soil."

He discussed incidents of successful farms deteriorating in the hands of sons or second owners who abuse the land after it was built up by the earlier owners.

"A farmer's wealth is in his soil. If you have the finest equipment in the world, it doesn't amount to anything without good soil."

Interrupting his explanations on the importance of reconciling Man's plans with Nature's needs, he pointed to a woodpile stacked to provide "a front door and a back door" for wild rabbits.

"The bunnies have to have a place, too."

In another field, a bee house stood at the edge of his alfalfa crop so it was backed by a hedgerow. In the summer, the shelter housed leaf cutter bees that are essential to alfalfa seed production. In the winter, it was protection for a fox.

"He has a right to be here, too."

There has been little left to chance in his program to improve the land. Using the agriculture education he got at night school in Alaska, he has carefully planned crop rotations, the time of year to plow to cut wind erosion, even the size of tires that will cause the least damage to the soil.

"Managing the soil properly takes finding the crop that is best suited to the soil," he said.

He used chemical fertilizers to give the crops a boost when he first started but is relying on plow-down to build the soil's water retention quality and nutrient levels so he can become independent of the chemical additives.

With the improvements in the soil quality, he has found a decrease in the number of times he needs to irrigate the land to produce a given crop.

Each time a field is irrigated, it washes away part of the soil's nutrients, he said.

He cited fields that had needed up to eight irrigations per year 10 years ago and that this year required only three. The decrease is saving him in man hours lost to irrigation chores, fees for water use and in mineral losses.

Plowing at the right time of year will cut down on the loss of topsoil to wind erosion. He pointed to a field where he said a gully was filling in with the topsoil blowing from one of his neighbor's fields.

He feels the "phase one" soil building program is completed now for his farm and the high yields can be maintained indefinitely if the practices of crop rotation, avoidance of wind or water erosion are continued.

Trueblood said he uses short-lived insecticides to help control pests in his crops but prefers to rely on the natural enemies of pests. He said it seems the more potent the poison, the lower the cost which makes it a sacrifice to use the less harmful chemicals.

Trueblood said many of his practices do not reap a quick monetary return from the land and can be more costly than traditional farming techniques.

"The only way we can continue to have an agriculture and produce the food needed for the world is to do these things," he said.

"The soil is a God-given trust to be used and improved and returned in a better condition than when you got it."

Asked if the sacrifices have been worth it, he looked around at the small home his parents built for their barn, at the two black Labradors bounding after a pheasant in a field of stubble and beyond to the hills rising above the fields of green and gold.

"It's gratifying," he said.

Offshore Oil Rush Ready

By THOMAS WESTBURY
The Beaufort Gazette
Written for Associated Press
BEAUFORT, S.C. (AP) — A sprawling complex of oil industries to process increasing foreign imports and potentially rich off shore petroleum wells is about to spring up along the south Atlantic coast within the next 10 years, industry and government reports indicate.

Even as the nation strives to develop an energy plan of its own, it becomes more dependent upon foreign oil, imported primarily from the Middle East. Industry spokesmen say the Atlantic coast is the logical place to receive imports from overseas.

The Coastal Plains Regional Commission, an arm of the federal government, has already pinpointed areas along the shores of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia for the location of oil refineries, petrochemical plants and onshore oil storage facilities.

But unless local governments carefully prepare for a potential heavy influx of industry, permanent changes may occur in the environment and in the social lives of coastal residents. Industry officials cite several reasons for choosing the south Atlantic coast for development of an oil-related industrial complex.

One is the increasing American dependence on imports. As much as 40 per cent of all oil used in the United States is from Europe, and the Atlantic coast is the logical place to receive the supplies of crude, explains Lee Henning, a Chevron Oil Co. vice president.

The "ideal" location to receive that oil would be the northeast where consumption is greatest, Henning says. He adds when a refinery is proposed there "you have a battle on your hands with environmentalists. The South has proven much more receptive to industrialization.

"The politics are much better in the Carolinas," he believes.

Another reason for locating oil industries along the south Atlantic coast is a government plan to lease offshore drilling areas along the outer continental shelf. The Interior Department in September called for lease nominations from oil companies with actual sale of tracts tentatively scheduled for November 1976.

Chevron, one of eight companies aiding in the coastal plains commission report, will probably participate in the offshore search, Henning says. His company last year bought 7,000 acres in Jasper County to build a $400 million refinery. Soon after, BASF Wyandotte Corp. announced plans to build a petrochemical plant near Savannah, Ga., near the Chevron site.

The refinery would increase the Jasper County tax base seven-fold and create demands for new services for the expected influx of thousands of newcomers.

In a 1974 report, the President's Council on Environmental Quality said massive development along the coast without land use controls would probably result in permanent degradation of the environment and a radical change in its residents' lifestyles.

A council analysis of the Charleston area showed heavy industrialization would create as many as 75,000 new jobs by 1985, doubling the port city's population.

The report studied the effects of offshore oil drilling and deepwater terminals. It said adverse weather conditions make the South Atlantic the highest environmental risk area along the eastern seaboard.

The petroleum industry will face a more hostile environment from weather than it did in the Gulf of Mexico, Alaskan waters or the North Sea, the report said. The habitat most in danger from oil production is the highly productive but fragile marshlands inshore.

While accidental oil spills usually receive the most publicity, the environmental council said, it is normal daily operation of tankers that produces the most severe ecological effects from routine discharges and ballast cleaning.

Don't Often See Adults Reading

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Youngsters read less, not only because they watch television but because they don't often see adults reading today.

That's the conclusion reached by Dr. Nicholas Long, a child psychiatrist in Washington, D.C. He said that modeling themselves after grownups is one of the chief learning methods used by children.

"Television exposure, of course, is another factor behind the decline in reading," Dr. Long adds. "Children see major events reported in 90 seconds on a newscast. If a shooting war can be covered in less than two minutes, then a 200-page book seems just too long to read."

String Bikinis Encounter Ban

WELKOM, South Africa (AP) — String bikinis called "tangas" have been banned by city swimming pool authorities because "they reveal too much of the women's bottoms," a city official announced.

The city fathers, the official said, however, have no objection to ordinary bikinis.

Scientists See Limit To Waste

By JOHN USHER

New York (UPI) — Man must end his wasteful ways in this century or face a total collapse of the world's food and energy resources early in the next.

This is not a statement by a streetcorner prophet of doom of the "beware the end is nigh" variety, but the conclusions of a prestigious team of scientific researchers.

Three years ago a research team from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology directed by Professor Dennis L. Meadows released a report, titled "Limits to Growth," which said a sustained growth in population, the use of raw materials and energy by governments and industry would lead to worldwide collapse early in the 21st century.

Three million copies of the report sold in 34 languages and sparked controversy around the world.

Next month Prof. Meadows will direct an international conference at The Woodlands, near Houston, Texas, which will examine the problems of moving away from policies of growth.

The MIT report, sponsored by the Club of Rome, a group of about 100 international businessmen and scholars whose aim is to examine long-range problems facing mankind, made two general conclusions:

— Global growth trends in population, material consumption and energy use can not be supported even for another century.

— Man's ingenuity and the earth's resources are sufficient to support the current population at stable levels of material consumption, if there is a deliberate attempt to alter current growth trends.

The MIT team based its conclusions on a computer analysis of interrelated trends in world population growth, agricultural production, industrial output and pollution.

Critics said the report did not give enough consideration to man's technical genius. Third-world politicians saw it as an attempt to check economic progress in the underdeveloped countries.

The five-day conference in Texas beginning Oct. 19 is the first in a series of five biennial symposiums sponsored by the Club of Rome, the University of Houston, and wealthy Texas oilman George P. Mitchell.

The sponsors said the objective of the conference is to encourage international debate on the alternatives to growth and the implications of those issues for mankind.

"The debate will reach past the question of whether and where there are limits," Meadows said.

"Clearly limits of some sort exist and they are already having a negative effect on the global quality of life," he said. "Part of the debate will assume that we do face some limits and will attempt to formulate a response."

Mitchell, head of the Mitchell Energy & Development Corp., did not fully agree with the pessimistic conclusions of the "Limits to Growth" report, but recognized the importance of the questions it posed. He is personally financing the 10-year program of research and debate.

"The Mitchell Prize," a $20,000 award for the four best papers submitted to the conference analyzing the problems inherent in a transition from growth to equilibrium of population, material consumption and energy use, will be awarded at the conference.

Sicco Mansholt, former president of the European Economic Community, and Herman Kahn, founding director of the Hudson Institute, will be among prominent participants in the debates. Others include Yujiro Hayashi, director of the Japanese Institute for Future Technology; Hans Linneman, a Dutch economist and director of the Club of Rome's project on feeding the world's population from now until the year 2000; and Maurice La Mantagne, a Canadian senator and former secretary of state.

RECYCLING DECLINES
NEW YORK (UPI) — The recycling boom is waning because of unfavorable economic conditions, according to the National Association of Recycling Industries.

The trade association says there has been a 50 per cent drop in use of recycled materials, including paper, aluminum and copper.

Shark Facts As Awesome As Fiction

By LILLIAN O'CONNELL NEW YORK (UPI) — The year 1975 may go down as the Year of the Shark.

The best selling novel "Jaws" is now a smash hit movie and suddenly the great white shark is on everyone's mind. But few realize that the facts about the carnivore are as awesome as the fiction.

Dr. Gareth Nelson, associate curator in the Department of Ichthyology at the American Museum of Natural History, says sharks have some of the same mystic as dinosaurs.

"Jaws" is an indication of this," Nelson said. "Sharks have a special appeal to people — especially little children, who have the idea that the shark is something that can eat them up."

"Bike in fairy tales — being eaten up by the big bad wolf, and all that. And dinosaurs personify that. The big monster shark does, too. And to a lesser extent, bears and lions. But bears and lions, they're furry, they're warm, they're cuddly almost. Dinosaurs and sharks are not."

The average length of an adult great white is 18 feet, according to the National Geographic Society. One taken off Cuba measured 21 feet. The tooth of a great white dredged up from the Atlantic Ocean floor measured more than five inches long.

Large or small, fast or slow, peaceful or aggressive, every other shark — and all marine creatures as well — give sea room to the great white shark, the Society says.

Nelson agrees, referring to the great white shark as "a high-class predator."

"There aren't very many animals that would eat a great white shark. I don't know that any animal has ever been recorded that eats one," Nelson said, adding "maybe a killer whale could dispose of a white shark."

"And, of course, there are smaller white sharks that could be eaten by larger sharks. There are sharks that eat other sharks from time to time."

Nelson points out that you can only speculate on how rare the great white shark really is.

"In general it is true that there are some fishes that man thinks are very rare because he sees them very seldom. This is only because man has not yet gained access to the areas of the world where these organisms are abundant," he said.

"Almost all fishes are abundant somewhere. Man knows about things that live in fresh water and he knows about things that live along the fringes of continents and islands. He knows very little about what goes on in the open ocean and precious little about what goes on in the deep sea."

Rare or not, we do know, according to Nelson, that the great white shark has been positively identified by its distinctive teeth in 32 attacks on human beings and boats — more than any other shark. "This doesn't mean that the great white shark has attacked more people than any other kind of shark. It means that for the times that the shark could be identified, he has attacked more," Nelson said.

In 1916 a shark or sharks attacked five swimmers along the New Jersey coast. Four died and the fifth lost a leg. Shortly afterward a fisherman caught a great white shark with human remains in its stomach.

"Most bathers never see the shark that bites them. They have no idea that there's a shark doing anything," Nelson explained. "And they feel something, a bump or something like that. They usually don't feel any pain if they've been bitten even. And before they know it, they may have been extensively damaged by a shark. In some cases the first indication they have is when they discover that a big chunk of their leg is gone."

All sharks can do damage if they want to attack, but Nelson says the most common sharks never bother people. "They're not interested in eating people. Sharks don't make a living eating people. They're looking to eat what they always eat."

"Sharks tend to investigate people and one way they do is to bite. But generally they take a bite or two bites and then they go away. Tiny sharks don't bother you. If you're in the water with a tiny shark, he's going in the other direction."

And when you go down to the beaches of the world, especially in warm regions, are you sharing the water with that "tiny" shark? Nelson says, "Yes."
