

New York City On Brink Of A Financial Collapse

By MALCOLM CARTER
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Abraham Beame kept an "open line" to the White House today as President Ford met with high-level government officials to discuss the economic crisis that was forcing New York City to the brink of financial collapse.

State and city officials worked frantically here and in Albany, the state capital, to shore up a multimillion-dollar package of pension funds to meet $250 million in debt obligations the city must meet today.

In Albany, the Court of Appeals, the state's highest, cleared the way for the state comptroller to use state police pension funds to raise $250 million for the cash-strapped city.

But a blip developed in New York City when the United Federation of Teachers continued to refuse to commit $250 million in its retirement funds toward a complex $2.3 billion bailout plan that the state government had put together a month ago to keep New York solvent through November.

Albert Shanker, president of the teachers' union, met with Beame, but the nature of the discussions was not disclosed. Shanker said, however, that he had not changed his position on the use of teacher pension funds.

"I deeply regret that one group is singled out when there are plenty of others with funds, and no pressure is applied on them," Shanker said.

President Ford, meanwhile, called a meeting at the White House with his Treasury secretary, budget director and the chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers to discuss the crisis.

Ford has expressed strong opposition to any federal aid to rescue the city, and a White House spokesman said his position had not changed.

"This does not imply a change in policy in any way," the spokesman said.

On bond markets, analysts said activity was quiet and relatively calm, with most investors apparently awaiting the outcome of the day's events.

Bonds issued by the Municipal Assistance Corp. (Big MAC), the agency set up to try to stave off default, were trading a half point to a point lower.

On the stock market, the crisis pushed some New York City bank stocks broadly lower in heavy trading, while most others were off fractionally.

Gov. Hugh Carey's press secretary said banks and the Federal Reserve System were being asked to stay open an extra hour, until 4 p.m., to give city and state officials more time to try to work out a solution. There was no immediate answer to the request.

Prospective default raised the danger of immediate, major disruptions of the city's life — massive furloughs of city employees, payless paydays, unpaid welfare benefits, school closings and perhaps even a loss of some police and fire protection.

Some financial analysts have warned that default could undermine the stability of the nation's entire financial system and threaten the economic recovery. Others, including the top economic policymakers of the Ford administration, have disputed that view.

Sources close to the talks with the teachers' union said Shanker wanted assurances that the city would back off from such planned economy measures as teacher layoffs and wage freezes, but that he was rebuffed by Gov. Carey.

Finally, just before 1 a.m. the pension fund's board of trustees voted formally not to make the investment, although pledging to meet later in the day to reconsider the action. Asked at that time if a reversal was possible, Reuben Mitchell, a union member of the board, said "I don't really think it's likely, but there is a possibility."

A grim-faced Felix Rohatyn, who heads MAC and has been involved in the city's fiscal crisis all year, declared that "if this stands, the likelihood is very great that we will default."

The immediate loss from a default would be only to holders of the city's debt, ranging from banks to small private investors.

But within a week the city would face payrolls and welfare payments for which it would have little or no cash. Rohatyn said that in that event, the city might furlough nonessential employees in order to conserve its resources for such critical functions as police and fire protection. Asked if teachers would be among the "nonessential" workers furloughed, Rohatyn said "they would be first in line."

Coup Feared

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Senior military authorities fear a coup by radical leftists within the next three weeks to bring pro-Communist Gen. Vasco Goncalves back to power, the independent weekly O Jornal reported today.

The paper said its sources expect the move to be made with Communist party backing before Angola becomes independent on Nov. 11 so that power in the rich African territory could be transferred to a nationalist movement backed by the Soviet Union.

Senior government officials have been telling foreign newsmen the same thing in the past few days.

O Jornal said its sources believe that the Kremlin has been trying to advance the Communist cause in Portugal primarily to use it as a springboard for influence in Angola.

Goncalves was premier from July 1974 until last month.

O Jornal said that since his ouster he has been active behind the scenes promoting the unrest in the armed forces which has kept his centrist and moderate leftist successors from governing with authority.

O Jornal said Goncalves also had been visiting "certain diplomatic missions in the capital" and that these calls were "related to the present political instability."

The inference was that he had been calling at Communist embassies.

Fairer Lending Rules Another Trooper Is Shot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Applicants for credit will be judged on their personal merits and not on the basis of sex or marital status under a new law aimed at ending discrimination in lending, the Federal Reserve Board says.

New regulations based on the law go into effect Oct. 28, although the board said some aspects of the law will be delayed for as much as three years.

The regulations contain these provisions:

—Creditors cannot use sex or marital status as a factor in deciding if an applicant should be given credit. In most cases, banks, credit card companies, department stores, gasoline companies and any firm offering installment payment plans will not be allowed to ask if an applicant is single or married.

However, creditors will be allowed to ask about marital status or a spouse's earning power if a man or woman seeks credit based on the earning power of a husband or wife.

—Creditors cannot ask about an individual's or couple's birth control practices or child-bearing plans, nor can they assume from a woman's age that she may leave her job to have a baby.

—Persons victimized by sex or marital discrimination can sue for actual damages plus fines of up to $10,000. Groups of victims who file class action suits can seek penalties of up to $100,000 or 1 per cent of the creditor's net worth, whichever is the lesser amount.

Some of the provisions of the law, such as a guarantee of a married woman's right to set up her own credit accounts and obtain a personal credit rating, won't take full effect for nearly three years.

Welfare Costs Up, But Industrial Index Rising

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government figures show that the nation's industry marched solidly away from recession in September but that welfare costs rose 20 per cent during the last fiscal year because of the recession.

The Federal Reserve Board said Thursday that the output of mines, factories and utilities increased 1.9 per cent in September, the fifth consecutive monthly increase and the largest gain since November 1964, when the advance was 2.8 per cent. The September increase was the biggest one-month jump in production in nearly 11 years.

More production by industry means more jobs for Americans, and the production report released Thursday clearly was part of the "very encouraging" economic news predicted Wednesday by President Ford.

Additional good economic news is expected Monday when the Commerce Department will report a big increase in economic output during the third quarter, as measured by the Gross National Product.

However, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said Thursday that welfare expenditures increased 20 per cent during the 1975 fiscal year to a total of $22.5 billion.

Nearly $13 billion of the total was for medical care for the poor.

The number of persons receiving benefits under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program increased 2.1 per cent to an average of nearly 11.1 million, of whom eight million were dependent children. But an HEW official, John A. Svahn, said the number of persons on AFDC rolls declined slightly in May and June, probably in part because of the improving economy.

James I. Pate, assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs, said Thursday the GNP increased at least 9 to 10 per cent and possibly more at an annual rate, during the July through September period.

But he said the encouraging figures may lead people to believe things are better than they are — "I'm afraid that in some respects these figures are overstating the strength of the recovery."

Pate said he believes the real growth rate in the economy will slow to about 7 per cent in the fourth quarter and slow even more during 1976.

In its report on industrial production, the Federal Reserve Board said the gains were widespread across the economy in September, with increases in autos, business equipment, household appliances, steel, textiles, paper, chemical materials and power.

It said that during the past five months output of the nation's industry has risen 5.7 per cent from the recession low in April. But the production index, which stood at 116.2 of the 1967 average of 100, still was down 7.5 per cent from a year earlier.

REFLECTOR HOTLINE

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

CALL INSPECTIONS DEPARTMENT
Who is responsible for the care and maintenance of a vacant lot in my neighborhood? Last year we reported the scattered debris and trash around the vacated building on the lot to the City Police, who saw that the area was immediately cleaned. An officer told me recently, though, that vacant lots are no longer under their jurisdiction. No health hazard is involved, but the tall weeds, empty bottles and cans, mud puddles, and general run-down condition of the building and lot are creating an eyesore in an otherwise attractive residential area. F. P.

Hotline does not like to get into specific situations concerning vacant lots that our readers tell us need to be cleaned up. We have been referring people to the Police Department, but now understand that anyone aware of a lot needing attention should contact the City Inspections Department, 752-4137, Ext. 221. We feel we would need to be concerned only if nothing is done after a reasonable length of time after such a situation has been reported by an individual.

HOTLINE APPEAL
WICKER REPAIR?
Is there anyone who repairs wicker furniture locally? Mrs. B. J.

Hotline made a number of inquiries at furniture and antique shops, but turned up no lead. We also talked to George Summerlin of the Eastern Carolina Sheltered Workshop, who says his men can repair any kind of furniture there is—except wicker. He often gets requests, though, he says, and would like to know if there is anyone to whom he may refer potential customers. Anyone who can do this work or knows anyone who can should call Hotline at 752-6166.

RAIL STRIKE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Hundreds of rail travelers were stranded or delayed after nearly 8,000 railway clerks in six Western states walked off their jobs in a dispute with the Southern Pacific over work rules.

presented to the General Assembly.

William Hilliard, executive director of the society, said Thursday that $500,000 has been raised in subscriptions for the insurance company. Members of the society put up the money, the minimum required to start an insurance company.

It will take about two days to get the company started once the preliminary work is done, Insurance Commissioner John Ingram said.

CIA Said Prepared To Pay Mafia $100,000 For Fidel Castro 'Hit'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA was prepared to pay the Mafia as much as $100,000 to kill Cuban premier Fidel Castro at the time of the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion, according to informed investigators.

However, the money was turned down by underworld figures Sam Giancana and John Roselli, who agreed to undertake the mission for free, investigative sources said Thursday.

As a result of the proposal, the CIA paid out "less than $20,000, perhaps less than $5,000" in expense money in the scheme to poison Castro, sources said.

Two sources said Roselli testified earlier this year before the Senate Intelligence Committee that he turned down the money because he felt he was performing a patriotic duty.

However, one of those sources said he was skeptical of Roselli's expressed patriotism, saying Castro's death was "probably worth more than $20,000 to him" as a necessary first step toward regaining the Mafia's extensive gambling interests in pre-Castro Cuba.

Published reports last summer also suggested the Mafia had been told it could recover $500,000 supposedly buried in Cuba at the time of the Castro takeover. In addition, the reports said the Mafia would have been allowed to resume gambling operations under a new regime.

Giancana, a Chicago rackets chief, was murdered earlier this year and never testified before the Senate committee.

Many details of the 1971 plot were made public last July by Robert A. Maheu, a former aide to billionaire Howard Hughes. He said he served as a liaison between the CIA and the Mafia. However, the first hint of how much the CIA was willing to pay to have Castro killed came on Wednesday when Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, a member of the Senate intelligence panel made a passing reference to "a $100,000 hit job on Castro."

Reached by phone Thursday in Las Vegas, Committee Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, confirmed that "a substantial amount of money was offered" and that the $100,000 figure mentioned by Schweiker was "in the ballpark." However, Church said his panel had heard differing testimony on the exact sum offered. He said, "I wouldn't like to verify the amount" without first checking committee records.

A source reading from notes he took during testimony by those involved in the plot said "at least one" witness cited the $100,000 figure. Another source said the $100,000 figure "would not be inaccurate."

Medical Society Calls Insurance-Planning Meet

RALEIGH (AP)—A special meeting of the North Carolina Medical Society's House of Delegates has been called for Oct. 28 to discuss the society's efforts to operate its own insurance company.

The meeting is aimed at telling the 274 delegates what has been done in forming the company. Also, the executive committee will report on proposed changes in the law aimed at making malpractice suits more difficult to file. Those proposals will be presented to the General Assembly.

William Hilliard, executive director of the society, said Thursday that $500,000 has been raised in subscriptions for the insurance company. Members of the society put up the money, the minimum required to start an insurance company.

It will take about two days to get the company started once the preliminary work is done, Insurance Commissioner John Ingram said.

His staff will handle the paperwork, he said.

The new company must be licensed, hire a trained agent and prepare policy forms, Ingram said. The $500,000 in subscriptions will be sufficient as a reserve for the company as premiums will amount to about $2 million a year, he said.

The Medical Society and the North Carolina Hospital Association began working on setting up their own insurance companies after the firms that traditionally offered the insurance refused to renew policies. More than 50 hospitals and between 250 and 300 of the state's 5,500 physicians will be without policies by the end of this month.

A law passed by the 1975 General Assembly required all liability insurance companies to offer malpractice insurance and participate in a reinsurance pool much like the pool for auto liability insurance. The companies have challenged that law in the courts, claiming it is unconstitutional. A hearing is scheduled for Nov. 3.

In the meantime, insurance companies have been exempted from the law's provisions until it is decided whether the law is constitutional.

The Hospital Association has offered its members $250,000 coverage while negotiations continue with the Lloyd's of London for full coverage. That is below the level of coverage hospitals normally have.

Insurance consultant William McNeary said Lloyd's of London is an association of independent insurance investment syndicates. He said the association has hired a broker, R.E. Potter Ltd., to propose risk programs to the insurance syndicates.

McNeary said progress reports have given an optimistic picture.

Variety Of Entertainment For Returning Alumni

AT RECEPTION FOR CHANCELLOR . . . East Carolina University Chancellor Leo Jenkins talks art with Mrs. Clyde Owens of Greenville and Charles Myers of Rich Square at a reception for Jenkins in Mendenhall Student Center last night. The reception was held in connection with an exhibition of paintings by the Chancellor now on display in the Mendenhall gallery. (ECU News Bureau Photo)

"America Revisited" is the theme of East Carolina University's Homecoming Celebration this year and returning alumni will be offered a variety of weekend entertainment — highlighted by a Saturday morning parade and an afternoon football game in Ficklen Stadium where the Pirates will meet Western Carolina University's Catamounts.

Tomorrow's parade is being billed as possibly the largest parade in East Carolina's history. It will feature 14 floats and ten marching bands, as well as pretty girls, parade horses and marching units.

The parade will begin at 10 a.m. on Elm Street, between 10th and 14th Streets and travel North on Elm to Fifth, then West on Fifth — past the reviewing stand in front of Chancellor Leo Jenkins' residence — to downtown Greenville.

The line of march will then turn North on Washington Street to Third, where it will head East to Reade Street where it will disband.

Those not wishing to watch the parade may attend the ECU-Virginia Military Institute soccer match at 9:30, the ECU-High Point College hockey game at 10 a.m., or a cross country match between ECU and Western Carolina, also scheduled for 10 o'clock.

The annual homecoming football game will begin at 1:30. One of the special attractions scheduled for the homecoming game will be the parachute delivery of the game ball by alumni aviators Lonnie Miller and Gary North.

At half-time, four former ECU athletes — Bill Holland of Goldsboro (baseball and football, 1939), Dave Alexander of Gaithersburg, Md. (football, 1965), Ken Midgette of Raleigh (diving, 1959), and Maurice Everette of Winston-Salem (tennis, 1958) — will be inducted into the ECU Sports Hall of Fame.

Bands scheduled to participate in the parade include ECU's own Marching Pirates as well as high school bands from Farmville, Elm City, Bertie County, (Windsor), New Bern, Smithfield-Selma, Greenville's Rose High, Pamlico County (Bayboro), and Roanoke High in Robersonville as well as the Ayden-Grifton ROTC marching unit.

Following the game the ECU Alumni Association will hold a "Keg" social at the Greenville Moose Lodge, while several bluegrass and rock bands will perform throughout the evening at various locations in the Mendenhall Student Center. Diane Taylor, student chairman of the campus Homecoming Committee said most dormitories on campus as well as sorority and fraternity houses will be decorated for the weekend — all following the "America Revisited" theme, depicting the heritage and history of the Nation.

Two campus art exhibitions will also be available to viewers — a selection of paintings and sculpture in the Kate Lewis Gallery in Whichard Building, and a collection of paintings by Chancellor Jenkins in the Mendenhall Student Union gallery.

Other attractions for the homecoming weekend include a performance tonight by Ike and Tina Turner — billed as the King of blues and the Queen of acid — at 8 o'clock in Mingos Coliseum, and a Mens Residence Council supper and band, beginning at 5 p.m. at the tennis courts on "the hill".

Miniature Airplane Is Anti-Pollution Sampler

HOUSTON (AP) — In a major escalation in the war against pollution, the Harris County Pollution Control Department has formed its own dirty air force — a model airplane capable of lightning-swift samplings of emissions from industrial smoke stacks.

Dr. Walter A. Quebedeaux, county pollution control director, said his department's newest weapon — a 10-pound miniature airplane — zips along at 70 to 80 miles an hour, darting through a smoke stack plume to gather indisputable evidence when pollutants are being released.

"They'll never know when we're coming and never know when we've been there — until they wind up in court," says department chemist James D. Joseph, codeveloper of the airplane.

"We can take it out of the truck, launch it, get the sample and have it back in the truck within five minutes," Quebedeaux said.

The airplane has a 69-inch wingspan and is powered by a 1 1/4-horsepower engine. It has a small vacuum pump that sucks in an air sample on radio command from the ground.

John W. Eaton, a model airplane shop owner, and Joseph used about $400 of their own money to design the device. They say they hope to sell more sophisticated future models to regulatory agencies and to industry as well.

Spokesmen for industries along the Houston Ship Channel, a major target of air pollution control studies, express public support for the airplane but private concern about its use.

"We don't look upon it as a spy in the sky," said an Armo Steel Co. spokesman. "We're environmentalists ourselves and are spending a ton of money to keep our effluent clean."

A spokesman for Shell Oil Co., which owns a refinery along the channel, said, "So long as proper precautions are taken so that they get accurate data, it's fine."

Quebedeaux says industry officials "are just a little jittery about it, and some of them need to be."

Several industry spokesmen declined public comment about the airplane but admitted privately that it could mean big trouble.

"This could establish the greatest anti-aircraft battery out there (along the channel) since World War II," said one.

$110 Day On Farmville Mart

FARMVILLE—Leaf and smoking leaf grades accounted for approximately 85 percent of sales on the Farmville Tobacco Market yesterday.

According to Louis Williams, sales supervisor, primings and lugs accounted for more of the sales than on the previous days this week.

The volume of nondescript grades was off. Wrapper grades accounted for top price of $1.45 per pound. Quality grades of tobacco continued to be in strong demand.

Stabilization receipts accounted for 1.56 percent of total sales. The market sold 669,300 pounds of tobacco for $740,742, giving an average of $110.67 per hundred pounds. To date, the market has sold 29,113,958 pounds, for $29,497,588, at an average of $101.32 per hundred pounds.

Paving Project Bids Accepted By Winterville Aldermen Bd.

WINTERVILLE — The Winterville Board of Aldermen accepted bids from Central Paving Company of Snow Hill for several projects in the town. The contract with the paving company is in the amount of $1.48 per square yard of 1 1/2" of asphalt.

Contracts were let for the following projects: Kennedy Street, 2,600 square yards; East

Blount Street, 2,700 square yards; Hillcrest Avenue, 3,500 square yards; Ange Street, 1,900 square yards; and Drexel Lane, 800 square yards.

The board agreed that 2,000 square yards of paving will be done on Maye Drive if all the assessments are paid on the curb and gutter which has already been completed.

Town Clerk Elwood Nobles explained the assessments were set up on a five-year plan and that some of the assessments are two years past due.

The board agreed the paving would not be done until all the assessment payments have been brought up to date.

The deadline for persons to pay their delinquent assessments has been set for Oct. 25. If the payments have not been made by then, the board agreed a contract will not be let for Maye Drive.

The board agreed to pay Herring-Rivenbark the final payment for distribution lines installed. The amount, to be paid out of the construction account, totaled $1,619.30. The board also agreed to pay McDavid and Associates, Engineers, of Farmville, $4,288.41.

A total of $35,000 (from an industrial grant from Farmers Home Administration) will be sent to Taylor Iron Works toward the final payment for the town's water expansion project.

Board members adopted proposed electrical rates for the October 20 reading. The cost will be $7.27 for the first 90 kwh; $4.07 for the next 120; and $2.96 for the next 390; and the next 900 will be $2.25; all over 1,500 will cost $1.75.

The fossil fuel charge will be $12.24 per 1,000 kwh.

In comparing the proposed electrical rate, Nobles explained that the summer rate for all over 600 kwh was $3.14.

Association Hears James

Some 25 members of the Pitt County Association of Life Underwriters attended the organization's monthly breakfast meeting Thursday at the Three Steers Restaurant.

Guest speaker Jimmy James offered underwriters a three-phase formula for being a good worker. James urged them to "know your product, know your prospects, and know yourself." James said that the successful salesman should motivate himself to work for himself, family and the future.

Scott Smith, Life Underwriter Training Council chairman, issued the last call for members to enroll in Part II of the L.U.T.C. courses scheduled to begin on Oct. 30 at Pitt Technical Institute.

Billy Ellis, the association's public service chairman, reported that his committee approved the purchase of a hospital cart for Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Peron-Backers Set Big Rally

By ALFONSO CHARDY Associated Press Writer BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The Peronist movement mustered supporters for a big rally amid heavy security precautions in the Plaza de Mayo today to demonstrate support for President Isabel Peron.

Mrs. Peron, who resumed her office Thursday night after a 32-day rest in northern Argentina, was to address the crowd from the balcony of the presidential building, the podium traditionally used by her late husband, dictator Juan D. Peron. Political observers expected her to give some indication of new policies and her future course.

Tight security was ordered following a threat, purportedly from radical Peronist guerrillas, to blow up the square. Police checked subway and sewer tunnels underneath the square for explosives but found none.

Senate President Italo Luder, who was acting president during Mrs. Peron's absence, denied a newspaper report that she would take another leave of absence soon and said she was once more "firmly in power."

Meanwhile, there was no let-up in the terrorism that has plagued the country during Mrs. Peron's 15 1/2 months in office. Ten armed guerrillas killed an Italian businessman and his bodyguard in a Buenos Aires suburb. Three persons were killed, apparently by right-wing terrorists, in Rosario, 250 miles north of the capital.

The Peronist rally is the movement's annual loyalty day, held on the anniversary of Peron's release from jail in 1945 after a vast outpouring of his supporters mustered by his second wife, Evita. It was the beginning of Peron's rise to power.

Labor unions organizing the rally said more than 100,000 persons would turn out. But some security officials said the number would be smaller because of fears of violence.

Testifies On False Claims

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP)—A former assistant chief testified Thursday that Williamston Police Chief John L. Swain claimed false overtime work by police officers when applying for federal funds.

James Edgar Myers, now chief of the Apex police force, said that on one occasion he was ordered by Swain to tell a town official that two officers had worked overtime when they hadn't.

Under the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration program, federal funds are used to pay overtime when officers must work extra to cover for other policemen in training.

Swain is being tried in federal court on charges of defrauding the government by using false records to obtain LEAA funds. The indictment charges Swain with conspiring with nine unindicted police department employees between May 1, 1971, and Oct. 31, 1974.

The government finished its case Thursday and the defense was to begin its effort today.

Delta Chapter Members Hear Speaker On Tuesday

GRIFTON—The education, culture, and music of France was the subject chosen by Selina L. Forbes when she spoke to Delta Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma, at the meeting held Tuesday evening at St. Mark's Episcopal Church House, here.

Mrs. Forbes, who formerly taught French at Rose High School and at Eppes High School, was introduced by Dorothy M. Brannon of the Personal Growth and Services Committee as "a woman educator, professional practitioner in action."

Mrs. Forbes, who has also taught music and who is active in music circles in the community, began her presentation with a piano selection, a polonaise by Frederic Chopin. The speaker then traced the development of education in France from its early days under the church to the present time in which an effort is made to provide all French citizens with educational programs to meet their needs from nursery school through graduate school.

To conclude the program, Mrs. Forbes "taught" some French phrases to a group of Delta Kappa Gamma members who have never studied French

Local Resident Named To LINC Children's 100

DURHAM — Myree Hayes of Greenville will be a member of the Children's 100 during the 1975-76 year. Grace Kohrer of Raleigh, head of the Children's 100, said the local resident is one of 100 North Carolinians who will be working as volunteers through the Children's 100 to improve services for preschool children and their parents.

Mrs. Hayes is a member of the psychology department at East Carolina University.

Established in 1972 by the Learning Institute of North Carolina (LINC), the Children's 100 is a citizens' group that supports improved programs and services for preschool children. Its member include parents, citizens, professionals, and others interested in the well-being of children.

The Children's 100 helped plan and conduct a 1973 LINC survey of day care services in the state. The results of the survey, conducted with the assistance of more than 600 volunteers, were reported in the 1974 LINC publication, Who Cares for Children?

For the past two years, the group has operated through task forces focusing on agencies and legislation, health and nutrition, parent involvement, expansion of day care services, training for day care staff members, and a resources clearinghouse for day care operators.

Children's 100 task forces, working on the recommendations listed in "Who Cares for Children?" have helped examine and provide information on the new prekindergarten screening and treatment program for four-year-olds, on the new state in-

Kids Score Dad For Excorating Secretary

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Our mother and father were going to a business meeting last weekend when my mother got the flu and couldn't go. My father's secretary, who had planned to go with them, decided that since she had a reservation, anyway, she would go with my father. She left her husband behind.

They are all good friends, but we all know that she cares about my father. There were lots of people there who know them, and we are sure that my father's being seen with his secretary alone caused a lot of talk.

My brothers and I are very upset that our father would do this to Mom, but none of us is saying anything because it might upset her.

We are 13 and 15. Do you think Dad should have take his secretary to this affair?

UPSET FAMILY

DEAR UPSET: Since it was a business meeting, and the secretary was going with your parents, anyway, perhaps your father needed her there for business reasons. I'm not sure I know in which way or how much this secretary "cares" about your father—and neither do you, so don't jump to conclusions.

It might have looked better, however, had the secretary's husband gone along. But don't sweat it, kids—it could have been entirely innocent.

DEAR ABBY: My problem all started Friday night when I asked my dad if my friend could stay all night. My father said he could if we went to bed at 10.

I said, "Daddy, I'm 12 years old—almost 13," and then he said something to me, and I said, "What?" instead of "Sir?" and next thing I knew he said, "Now, it's 9:00 bedtime for you!"

Then I called him a "retarded ape," which was a big mistake because just for that he said I couldn't have any overnight company.

Abby, I am going to lose all my friends and nobody will ever want to stay overnight with me if I have to go to bed at 9:00.

Please help me.

A BABY AT 12

Conference Center Considered

Greenville took another step towards development of a conference center with the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association and ECU representatives voting for a comprehensive study of the plan this week.

The Chamber is asking the Regional Development Institute to make a feasibility study concerning the construction of such a conference center. An ECU committee is cooperating on the project.

Affirmative action was taken after the Chamber group heard Barry Rogers, head of the Center for Continuing Education at Appalachian State University, describe the success of that center.

Rogers said the center was built at a cost of $3 million, but only $100,000 of this came from the state. The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare gave a grant of $300,000, $1.5 million came from bonds and industries contributed the remainder of the money needed.

The ASU center has been very successful in providing conference space for industrials, professional and other groups.

We have long felt there was a need for a conference and/or convention center in Greenville and it may or may not be that what we need could be patterned after the ASU center.

It is possible that we might want to look more toward a large arena type center which could provide space for major conventions, something that the ASU center does not do.

Perhaps initially we might want to construct a conference center, but provide adequate land area for the future construction of a major indoor arena.

These are questions that the Regional Development Institute study can answer for us. The important thing is that we get to moving with the planning and studying and it appears that the Chamber and ECU action last week will initiate the studies.

Community College Goals

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—There is some magic in the words community college which make those institutions more attractive than their counterparts—the technical institutes.

Though both operate under the umbrella of the Community College system, Gerald B. James, president of Rockingham Community College at Wentworth, says some of his students commute many miles, when similar programs are available closer to home.

"There's some magic in the world college. Some who really ought to be in a technical institute come here because mamma and daddy want them to go to college," James said.

As one of the founders of the system in this state, James said he was quite proud of the two titles for institutions and the specific role each would play—"But I think now, that was a mistake."

Two Jobs

The distinction between a technical institute (40 of them in the state) and a community college (17) is simply defined: technical institutes offer general adult education; one-year vocational programs, and two-year technical programs leading to an associate degree. The community colleges offer the same things but add a two-year junior college arts and science program allowing transfer to a four-year college.

James is a member of a General Assembly study commission on community colleges which is just organizing for its work. State Senator Dallas L. Alford, Jr. (D-Nash) is chairman. The commission is still trying to figure out exactly what it is supposed to do, in view of the corresponding establishment of another study commission on public education, chaired by State Senator Edward Renfrow (D-Johnston), which is supposed to study all state school law and recommend changes.

Likely, the two will decide to meet together from time to time to make sure they don't go in opposite directions.

The likely result will be some major changes in the community college system to meet existing problems and abrasion points.

Briefly noted, the problems across the state boil down to these:

There are some community colleges which compete for high school students to beef up enrollments thereby boosting revenues, numbers of professionals hired, and the salary of the president.

There are some public school administrators who very much resent the occupational and trade courses offered at technical institutes, and think they ought to have them in the public schools. Also, some skilled—but not professionally educated—community college employees are paid higher salaries than teachers, a sore point with some.

Limit Age

Until recently it was state policy not to allow enrollment in a community college until age 18 is reached—designed to discourage dropping out of high school. Now, however, a student who is 16 can drop out of public school for six months, then enroll in the community college system. Apparently, he must prove his intention to remain a dropout before the college system can pick him up.

At a higher level, the Community College Division and the Public Instruction Division both operate under supervision of the State Board of Education; universities operate under the Board of Governors.

Superintendent of Public Instruction A. Craig Phillips thinks the single board overseeing his operation and that of Dr. Ben Fountain in Community Colleges leads naturally to conflict which should be resolved by creating a policy board separate from the one overseeing public schools.

That would, in effect, give North Carolina three distinctly different heads to three educational units—a move which some warn would result in more conflict and political game-playing rather than less, and cause even further delay in cooperation and communication.

One often-mentioned solution: submerge the community college operation in the public school system, thereby providing the state a comprehensive kindergarten-Grade 14 public school system, is emerging as a serious alternative.

Dad Takes The Lumps

WASHINGTON—Poor President Ford. With all he's got to worry about he also has to contend with everyone in his family speaking his or her own mind.

Any father can sympathize with what Mr. Ford has to go through every night.

I can just imagine the conversation at dinner time in the White House when only the immediate family is there.

President Ford says "whew, what a day. I vetoed 10 congressional bills, made three Republican fundraising speeches, and had to show the Emperor of Japan every bush in the Rose Garden."

Jack Ford says, "Dad, I have to tell you something."

"What is it, son?"

"Last summer I went skinny-dipping with a bunch of kids at Aspen."

"Was this before or after you smoked pot?" the President asks.

"I don't remember, I think it was after."

"This is too much. How does it look for the President of the United States to have a son that goes skinny-dipping?"

"But Dad, you always told us to be frank with you and tell you exactly what we had on our minds. That's what holds this family together."

"I know that and I respect you for leveling with me. But I have a tough election coming up and there are a lot of people out there who don't approve of mixed skinny-dipping."

Jack says, "Mom said it was okay with her."

"I'm aware of it," the President replies.

Mrs. Ford says defensively, "Well, I would rather we know Jack goes skinny-dipping than have him sneak around and do it behind our backs. At least he's not a hypocrite."

"I agree," the President says, "but if this gets out in McCall's magazine it's going to raise quite a ruckus."

"It won't get out in McCall's," Mrs. Ford says.

"How can you be so sure?"

"Because the only one who knows about it is the Reader's Digest."

"You told Reader's Digest that your children go skinny-dipping?"

"I didn't tell them until they asked me. I'm certainly not going to lie to Reader's Digest," Mrs. Ford says.

"Why does the public have to know everything we do in this family?" the President asks.

"Because that's the way you brought us up," Susan Ford says. "Do you want to know what I did last night?"

The President says, "Can't I read about it in the paper tomorrow morning?"

"I photographed a topless waitress. Mom said it was okay."

Mrs. Ford says, "It was an assignment for the Associated Press and David Kennerly was with her."

"Good grief," the President cries. "Don't you people have any secrets you can keep from me? Do I have to know everything you do?"

"Well," says Jack, "if you want us to have private lives we will, but I don't see how you can trust your family if we can't take you into our confidence."

"Jack's right," Mrs. Ford says. "Some fathers don't even know when their daughters are taking the Pill."

"Who's taking the Pill?" the President shouts.

"Nobody," Mrs. Ford says, "but if Susan were, it would be nice if we knew about it."

"I suppose you said that to the Reader's Digest too?"

"I did not," Mrs. Ford says. "I told it to Good Housekeeping."

Snoop Fears Prevail

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A $62-million deal to buy computers for the Agriculture Department has been killed after congressional criticism that it might lead to federal snooping into the private lives of farmers and other citizens.

The computer plan was scuttled after Congress a week ago approved a $10.8 billion department appropriations bill, but reduced a "working capital" fund intended to help pay for the computers.

Joseph R. Wright Jr., assistant secretary of agriculture for administration, said Thursday that he had notified three computer companies — final bidders on the contract — that the project was canceled. Delivery of the computers was to have begun in December.

Identical letters to the companies said the cancellations were a result of Congress reducing the working capital fund.

Until now, there has been no limit on the fund. But in looking over Agriculture appropriations, Congress fixed an initial lid of $47 million. That was cut to $37 million by House-Senate conferees, a level officials said is too small to begin paying for the new computers.

Wright said on Thursday that the limit ordered by Congress will not prevent individual Agriculture agencies from buying new computers to keep pace with rising demands in such programs as rural housing and timber sales.

Wright said costs would be "substantially more" than $62 million because of the delay and because Agriculture cannot now buy new computers in a one-shot deal.

The department began planning a centralized computer network several years ago, initially to keep track of the mountain of information then involved in federal farm programs for controlling crops.

The GALLUP POLL

Wallace Appeal Analyzed

By GEORGE GALLUP
(Copyright 1975, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Republication in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.)

PRINCETON, N.J.—Gov. George Wallace's tour of Western Europe comes at a time when his support with voters is as high as at the time of his peak strength in the 1968 presidential campaign.

Political observers speculate that Wallace hopes to convince voters by his tour that he is healthy enough to run for President and to demonstrate to voters a concern with international as well as domestic issues.

In the most recent nationwide trial heat, Wallace (tested as a third party candidate) wins 20 per cent of the support of registered voters nationwide, compared to 41 per cent for President Ford and 32 per cent for Sen. Hubert Humphrey. Another 7 per cent are undecided.

In September of the 1968 presidential campaign, Wallace won 21 per cent to 28 per cent for Humphrey and 43 per cent for Richard Nixon. That figure (21 per cent) represented Wallace's high water mark to date. His support dwindled in the closing days of the campaign. Wallace obtained 13.5 per cent of the national vote in the November election that year.

Wallace Voters More Disenchanted With U.S.

Speculation that Wallace has particular appeal with voters who are disaffected or disenchanted with the nation is supported by survey findings.

For example, a smaller proportion of Wallace supporters (51 per cent) than either Humphrey (59 per cent) or Ford (74 per cent) backers say they have "quite a lot" of confidence in the future of the nation.

Little Shift Seen In Wallace's Constituency

Little shift has occurred in the composition of the Wallace constituency since the 1968 election, when he ran as a third party candidate. The basis of his support remains with men, whites, persons with less than a college background, Southerners, and those who classify themselves as independents in politics.

Downscale In Terms Of Socio-Economic Characteristics

Wallace's voter support parallels, in general, the self-perceptions of Wallace supporters.

As determined by another trial heat in which Wallace was matched against Ford and Sen. Edward Kennedy, those who chose Wallace as a third party candidate tend to rate themselves more downscale economically than do supporters of the other two men.

More than seven in 10 Wallace supporters (71 per cent) classify themselves economically as "middle," "lower-middle," or "lower." By way of comparison, 63 per cent of Kennedy supporters, and 54 per cent of Ford supporters do so.

What Voters Are Saying

The reasons voters give for supporting and opposing Wallace sound like a replay of the reasons given when the Alabama governors was running hard for the presidency in 1968.

A 27-year-old Wausau, Wis., laborer had this to say about Wallace: "There's no other way to say it—Wallace is a man who is honest and wants what is best for this country. I'd like to see him in the White House."

A nurse from Boston commented: "He's outspoken and dynamic and I like the way he is not afraid to say what is on his mind."

On the other side, a Saegertown Pa., housewife made this comment: "He's reactionary and inflexible. I can't accept his conversion to equality, especially regarding race."

An Illinois homeowner said, "A leopard doesn't change his spots. Wallace remains a bigoted hypocrite."

Following are the questions asked in recent surveys and the results:

"Suppose the presidential election were being held today. If Sen. Hubert Humphrey were the Democratic candidate and President Gerald Ford were the Republican candidate and Gov. George Wallace were the candidate of a third party, which would you like to see win?"

The following table shows the pattern of support for Wallace in a three-way test against Ford and Humphrey:

Per Cent Choosing Wallace In	Ford-HHH-Wallace Test
National	20%
Men	23
Women	18
Whites	22

Strength For Today

WHAT HAVE I DONE?

What have I done to deserve this? How many thousands of people down through the ages have uttered these words in anguish and anger.

Sin brings its punishment, and probably most of the suffering in the world comes about because of sin. But as the Book of Job so strikingly teaches, there is much suffering in the world also which is not caused by sin. It comes upon us to try our characters, and in trying them to develop them.

Of this we can be sure, that the great and loving God who rules the universe can never be engaged in the petty project of personal retaliation. Whatever God is doing to us He is doing because He loves us. He has no motive except to bring us closer to Him and to His purpose. And although He may be hurting us dreadfully, He is hurting us as a surgeon hurts a patient, not in a spirit of revenge, but in a spirit of solicitude and healing.

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

The Greenville City School Board will approve a list of substitute teachers at the October meeting. The Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters urges that the public consider who is to be on this list.

The total number of days in which substitute teachers are employed throughout the year is significant, and serious consideration should be given to the method of their selection. We recommend that qualified teachers (i.e., those holding a valid teacher's certificate) be placed at the top of the list, followed by those who are college graduates, but are not certified to teach. Those persons who are neither certified teachers nor college graduates should not be employed as substitutes except in emergencies. We further suggest that when it is necessary to secure a substitute teacher, every attempt should be made to find one trained in the area where there is the vacancy.

The public has a stake in this, for the quality of education given our children is directly proportional to the quality of the teacher. We cannot when those who are called upon to substitute for the regular teacher are not qualified to teach, but find this to be a convenient part-time job.

Contact your school board members and let them know that you are concerned about quality education for your child.

The Fed Influences Stock Mart

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — If you go back through 10 years of stock market literature you will find repeated predictions that the Dow Jones Industrial Average was headed for 1,000 points and beyond.

Most of the predictions were made during bull markets, when caution is subdued and confidence feeds on itself. These are conditions that brokers love to retain, and one way in which they do it is to issue bullish bulletins.

Despite their efforts, the average during the past 10 years has penetrated and remained above 1,000 points only briefly, in late 1972 and early 1973. The peak was 1,051.70.

Five other ascents flattened themselves out against the so-called barrier, reaching peaks between 943 and 995 points before suffering sharp reversals.

Throughout 1975 the average has remained below 900.

While this tends to suggest that the 1,000-point level is indeed a psychological barrier, a glance at some market charts provides what appear to be a more substantial reason: As interest rates rise, stock prices fall.

The pattern isn't as sharply defined as opposing pieces in a jigsaw puzzle, perhaps, but it is there, unmistakably. In fact, the market plunge of 1974, which dropped the average to 577.60 points, coincided with the record-high 12 per cent prime rate.

Stock prices and interest rates are of course reflections of many economic factors, but they also have a direct bearing on each other. When bond yields exceed the returns on stocks, money is drained from the stock market. When interest rates

Help somebody back to life!

In their view, the Fed, which holds enormous power over interest rates, could be the single most important influence on the stock market. Even hints of lower interest rates could send stocks the other way.

Little is certain about market prices, as everyone from the food shopper to stock market investor has learned over the years, but some events do repeat themselves.

One of them, for example, is that if interest rates do indeed drop sharply you most likely will hear that old echo from the 1960s about the industrial average heading once again toward that great, 1,000-point barrier in the sky.

And another is that if interest rates rise, you won't hear a dull sound at all from the same people. It will sound more like the groaning of a pained bear.

With that historical record as the setting, you can readily understand why many professional investors are analyzing the Federal Reserve Board's activities as closely as stocks themselves.

All Cities Face Increased Cost Of Basic Services

By The Associated Press
Inflation and recession have brought city budgets to the breaking point, according to municipal officials who say they are faced with an increased demand for costly services at the same time their income is declining.

"The cost of maintaining basic services has become so high that it is slowly strangling urban America," said Mayor Kenneth Gibson of Newark N.J. The financial troubles of New York City are mirrored on a smaller scale in other urban areas, particularly in the older regions of the country where industry and people have fled to the suburbs, taking their taxes with them.

"The problem perpetuates itself," said Gibson, a Democrat. "The higher we are forced to raise taxes to provide basic services, the more businesses and homeowners are forced to leave."

"This means fewer jobs, greater demands on city services and fewer taxables (tax-producing properties) to provide them. If we were to cut down on the delivery of services, the result would be the same. More businesses and homeowners would be forced to leave."

It doesn't take long for a city to get into trouble. Bridgeport Conn., was doing fine in the early 1970s. There were budget surpluses and two tax decreases. Then came the recession.

"With the advent of the unemployment problem in the summer and fall of 1974, we saw a substantial drop in our income," said former Mayor Nicholas Panuzio, now commissioner of public buildings for the General Services Administration.

"Consequently we ended up with a $3.4 to $1.5 million deficit that affected last year. I lowered the anticipated percentage of collections to what we thought we could get and we had to raise taxes substantially. And I had to set the lay-off of 500 city employees."

Panuzio did not lay off any police or firemen. "They negotiated their contract. They gave up holidays and time and a-half for overtime and other things that gave us enough savings to avoid laying any of them off."

As he fired other workers, the mayor was forced to budget more money for the city-run unemployment compensation program.

Other cities face different problems. John Gunther, executive director of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, said that in Detroit, for example, firing a policeman with five years experience can cost the city $15,000 in severance pay. Thus far, Mayor Coleman Young has managed to cut the city payroll by $5,000 through attrition and temporary layoffs, avoiding the severance problem. If he has to start actual firings, he says, it will involve a considerable amount of money. Young has taken other steps to save money. "We have shut down recreation centers ... We have closed immunization clinics ... and even cut back on an innovative law enforcement program designed to reach out to people for help in the fight against crime."

The Democratic mayor also is asking the state legislature to allow Detroit to raise the nonresident or commuter income tax from one-half to one per cent. City residents pay 2 per cent.

A key element for many cities is the amount of taxable property that will produce revenue. A new law in Minneapolis is designed to split all new revenues between the inner cities and the suburbs, but most other urban areas are forced to rely on downtown assessments only.

Robert Reischauer, an economist formerly with the Brookings Institution, said cities used to be able to count on a steady annual increase of 8 or 9 per cent in property tax revenues as the value of existing property went up. This isn't happening any more.

A 1973 study by the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations showed that from 1969 to 1970, the latest years for which complete figures were available, the assessed valuation of property in New York went up only 3 per cent. In Cleveland, Buffalo, N.Y. and St. Louis, the figure was less than 1 per cent. In contrast, the assessed valuation of property in Dallas — typical of newer, Southwestern cities with relatively low unemployment and expanding economies — the assessed valuation went up about 26 per cent.

Dick Glauman, an aide to Mayor Henry Maier of Milwaukee, said assessed valuation in the city went up only 1 per cent last year. The city's costs went up 10 per cent.

Glauman said Milwaukee is in relatively good financial shape compared to other northern cities, but he also said the city will have to borrow for capital improvements instead of using cash as it did in the past and warned that some projects might have to be delayed.

Newark's Mayor Gibson said the rate of property tax collection has remained steady at about 85 to 90 per cent, but the amount of assessed valuation has declined. In addition, he said, 60 per cent of Newark's land area is tax exempt because it is occupied by educational or church buildings or by the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey.

Cleveland has about $138 million outstanding in bond anti-ciation notes, city IOUs sold to investors on the promise that they would be paid off when a long-term bond is issued. The anticipation notes are not backed by city taxes or revenues.

Some $1.5 million of the Cleveland notes are due next month. City spokesmen say they have enough money to cover the payments and they say the current city budget is balanced.

Nonetheless, the city is high on the list of urban areas with severe financial problems. One reason is repeated voter refusal to approve an increase in the income tax, now at 1 per cent — the lowest of all big cities in the state.

In an effort to cut expenses, the city is trying to work out a regional approach to some services. Cleveland sold its sewer system to a regional sewer authority in 1972 and relinquished its only city-run hospital to the country more than a decade ago.

Urban officials say they have two immediate concerns: the possible impact of a default by New York City and the renewal of federal revenue sharing.

A default by New York City would make it even more difficult for big cities to borrow money for long-term improvements. A failure to renew revenue sharing could mean cuts in day-to-day operations. The aid program does not expire until Dec. 31, 1976, but officials say action is needed soon so that cities can plan future budgets.

Mayor John Poelker of St. Louis told a congressional subcommittee: "If reenactment is postponed until after May 15, Congress will have to bear the full responsibility for the budgetary havoc that will result at the local level, havoc that can only be resolved by raising taxes or decreasing services."

Poelker, a Democrat, said his city "temporarily deferred a major financial problem until next year, but only because our city employees were impressed with my argument that there was just no money. They agreed to go without any pay raise in the fiscal year that began May 1, 1975 ... We cannot expect them to stand by for another year without any increase."

The current problems in New York City and the resulting difficulty some cities are having in floating bonds could have a side effect in fiscal management techniques.

"Because of the current municipal bond market conditions, local governments are facing the necessity to consider pay-as-you-go financing in whole or part for capital purposes heretofore funded by loans," said Mayor William D. Schaefer of Baltimore.

Thank you, those citizens of Greenville who voted in the past Municipal Election. You have shown your concern for those issues which confront our Community. Many did not express these concerns through the use of the Ballot. Whether their reasons be valid or not valid, none the less, they have missed participating in a major part of their heritage as citizens. May we in the future solve our problems with full participation from all our Citizens through the ballot and effective communication. Most of all a most grateful "THANK YOU" to those citizens who voted for me in the past election. Sincerely yours, Donovan Phillips Candidate for City Council, 1975 & 1977

Water-Walk For Soldier

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—A Ft. Bragg soldier said he can walk on water—with some special shoes he designed—and he plans to prove it by strolling across the Hudson River and the English Channel.

Spec. 5 Walter Robinson said he developed the shoes while stationed in the Panama Canal Zone recently. The shoes are made of plastic foam and he propels himself with oars strapped to his arms. He said he walked the once-walked 51-mile canal in 30 hours.

He said he wants to sell the Army on the idea of manufacturing the shoes. "The shoes enable a person to negotiate fallen trees and debris such as would be found in a flood disaster area. It's also possible to find a small rubber mat to use for the standing, kneeling and sitting positions," he said.

Robinson said he can go about three miles an hour with his shoes. He said he hopes to walk New York's Hudson River in a few weeks and the English Channel next May.

Cooperative Effort Set By Holshouser

"Remembering All People Are God's People" is the theme of a state-wide Mental Retardation Sabbath-Sunday, a project being sponsored by Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish groups in North Carolina, in cooperation with the North Carolina Association for Retarded Citizens, the Office for Children of the Department of Human Resources, and civic groups, parents' associations, and other agencies. The weekend of November 1-2 has been designated as Mental Retardation Sabbath-Sunday by Governor James Holshouser.

The weekend is the high-point of this cooperative effort designed to help increase our awareness of the needs of mentally retarded children and adults, and their families, and of the ways in which clergy and congregations can begin or strengthen ministries to help meet those needs. Clergy are encouraged to focus the sermon or part of the congregational program on that topic. Bulletin inserts will be available for all congregations who wish to participate. Workshops, seminars, and other activities are being planned by sponsoring committees around the state.

The Pitt County Association for Retarded Citizens and the First Presbyterian Church will host a workshop for ministers and other interested people Oct. 16 from 10 a.m. to noon at the First Presbyterian Church. Chaplain Bill Gaventa, who works for the Division for Disorders of Development and Learning of the University of N. C. at Chapel Hill, will be the speaker. His work involves ministering to mentally retarded people and their families.

Balloon Brings Edenton Reply

It took a little longer to get a response this year but the second annual "Balloon Sunday" at Temple Free Will Baptist Church still prompted an interesting result.

Church pastor, the Rev. Richard Kennedy reported that following the release on Sept. 7 of some 300 balloons by the children of the Sunday School, a letter dated Oct. 9 was received from a lady in Edenton who had found the slip of paper contained in a balloon launched by 13-year-old Todd Landon of Greenville.

Each slip of paper, as in the case of last year's balloon effort that gained a response from Quonechaug, R.I. some 600 miles away, contained a Bible verse and the request to "Please Write Me," along with the name of child.

In her letter to Todd, Mrs. Stanley Blanchard of Rt. 2, Edenton explained, "The other day I was walking in the yard at the end of some corn rows and I came across this little paper rolled up. I opened it up to see what it was and I saw the message on it."

Mrs. Blanchard continued, "I am sure as my husband picked the corn he popped the balloon. I am writing you hoping you will win your Bible and spread the good news across the world, as you go out and witness in the Lord Jesus' name."

According to Kennedy, the notes in each balloon asked the

Federal Employee Health Plan Rates Will Spiral January 1

By DON WATERS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Blue Cross-Blue Shield says rates charged to some six million federal workers, who make up the largest single employee group covered by the plan, will spiral by about 35 per cent Jan. 1.

The increase will mean that a federal employee now paying an average of $154 per year for comprehensive coverage of his family will find his premiums increased to $208 next year.

"The use has been very high in the past year and costs continue to rise," Blue Cross spokesman J. S. Nagelschmidt said Thursday night in explaining the sharp boost in rates to federal workers and dependents.

In the last year, Blue Cross-Blue Shield collected about $900 million in premiums for protection of federal workers and their families. The workers pay 40 per cent, the federal treasury the rest.

But Nagelschmidt said the hospital and medical insurance plans took a loss from government coverage and that the projected increase would re-cut that deficit and meet anticipated rises in medical costs.

Nagelschmidt said the new rates, which will affect 5,800,000 persons, have been approved by the Civil Service Commission and will be announced officially next Monday.

He said government families made increasing use of hospitals and physicians for their ailments in 1975. And he said the fear of malpractice suits prompted many hospitals and doctors to practice "preventive

Lay Leader Facing Church Court Trial

SALISBURY, N. C. (AP) — Dr. S. Gregg Singer, professor of history at Catawba College and a lay leader of the ultraconservative wing of the Southern Presbyterian Church, has been charged with disturbing the peace of the church. He will be tried by a nine-member church court.

Singer is president of Concerned Presbyterians Inc., a national conservative group. The Concord Presbytery, the ruling body of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S. in central North Carolina, voted to put him on trial. The charges were first made by the session or ruling body of his congregation, the Franklin Presbyterian Church in Salisbury, of which he is an elder.

He is charged with sending unsolicited literature to church members, and making remarks that threatened the peace of the church.

Singer is a critic of what he calls the liberal trend of the Southern Presbyterian Church and its deviation from a biblical orientation.

The charges were studied by a nine-member committee headed by the Rev. J. Whitner Kennedy of Hickory. Kennedy said the committee found that the charges were "well founded," and that there was "a strong presumption of guilt."

If convicted, Singer could be reprimanded, stripped of his position as an elder, be forbidden to take communion, or be excommunicated.

Lodge Sponsors Saturday Dinner

Mount Calvary Lodge No. 669 is sponsoring an appreciation dinner for the Orders of Eastern Star Ladies Delight Chapter No. 524 and Pride of the East Chapter No. 10 Saturday at 6:30 p.m. at the lodge hall.

The dinner, for members only, is to honor the group for outstanding services rendered to the chapters.

MAKING PLANS

Do you like to build things... a bird house or a skyscraper? If you are such a person, you know that plans are involved, often difficult ones. Usually we use the drawing board before we start building.

Making plans may be called foresight or looking ahead — and we all know that this is necessary whether building an object or building your life.

As you make plans for the future, don't overlook one of the most effective and time-honored aids in building a strong character — your church! Like millions before you, you may find just what you need to make your plans succeed.

Achieve success? This is what we all want and what we plan for. Start your planning now by going to church next Sunday.

Sanford Hints N.C. Defeat May Not Force Dropout

SANFORD SEEKS VOICES—Former N.C. Governor Terry Sanford talks with students of National Maritime College in Antrim, New Hampshire, while on a speaking tour of several ANTRIM, N.H. (AP) — Former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford, who said in May he would drop out of the race for the Democratic presidential nomination if he loses his home state primary to Alabama Gov. George Wallace, may have changed his mind.

Wallace defeated the liberal Democrat's last-minute North Carolina primary bid in 1972. Wallace received 51 per cent of the vote to Sanford's 37 per cent.

"A win (in North Carolina) would be completely crucial to my success," Sanford said during a campaign trip in New Hampshire Thursday.

However, he declined to repeat he would abandon his candidacy if Wallace won.

"Ask me the day after the primary," he said, but added he was confident he would win the North Carolina race March 23, one of 20 state primaries he plans to enter.

Sanford, one of eight announced candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination, said he is the best Democrat to challenge conservative Wallace.

"I am precisely the opposite of Wallace," Sanford said. "I was governor when he was governor and we approached problems completely differently," especially civil rights and education.

Sanford, currently president of Duke University, kicked off his New Hampshire campaign telling college students American society can be perfected.

"The great revolutionary spirit of the world is not Communism. It is Americanism and the great spirit of the American Revolution," Sanford, now president of Duke University, also told about 200 students at Nathaniel Hawthorne College.

He received a standing ovation and an honorary doctorate of humanities degree at Hawthorne and then traveled to Keene State College.

Sanford, 57, who first drew national attention with his strong support of John F. Kennedy 1960, also called for "a radical change" in the management of the nation's economy.

If elected, Sanford said, he would work for full employment. He said the country has never had a "full employment" policy and he accused past administrations of being more concerned with money than people.

Sanford said he would use temporary government jobs as a backstop to ease employment "fluctuations." But he said he would concentrate on encouraging "full production" in the private sector and therefore full employment. Lowering interest rates and giving the President more control over tax adjustments were two suggestions Sanford made.

He criticized President Ford's economic policies, accusing him of "killing" the housing market and the equity market by raising interest rates and setting the stage for more inflation by allowing a giant government budget deficit.

"A $50 billion to $75 billion deficit from a conservative President would be ludicrous if it wasn't a tragedy," Sanford said.

During an interview with the Associated Press, Sanford called the new campaign finance regulations "a terrible problem."

He said the limitations on the amount of individual campaign donations are creating a "reverse psychology" among former large contributors.

"You have to talk longer to the (former) big contributors to get them to give $250," Sanford said. He attributed it to an "elitism" among those who traditionally were willing to make campaign contributions of $10,000 to $50,000.

The new law sets $2,000 as the maximum individual contribution to a campaign. However, to receive matching federal tax money for a contribution a candidate must receive $100,000 in donations in 20 states. That money must consist of individual contributions not exceeding $250.

Sanford said the "over-all effect" of the new law is "wholesome," but he said the public is not yet aware of its need to contribute to campaigns.

He said he would like to see a few large contributions allowed early in a campaign to get it started.

Sanford, who has attracted to his campaign staff former George McGovern and Eugene McCarthy backers, said that he shares with McGovern "considerable hope that the future can be better." But he added what is needed, and what he also has, is "the pragmatic idealism of John Kennedy."

Area Survey Wife Is Suing Charlie Rich

Interviewers from the Survey Research Center of The University of Michigan will begin contacting families in Pitt County this week in their regular quarterly Survey of Public Attitudes.

This is part of a national survey of 1,500 people being conducted in 74 areas of the United States between now and the end of May. The survey asks respondents to express their views about present business and economic conditions, as well as possible future trends. In addition, it asks about a variety of other topics including attitudes toward children and how people use their time.

Results of the interviews will be published in statistical form. Findings are never identified with any individual person or address. Each interview, however, becomes part of the broader national cross-section of opinions.

Data collected in this survey will be analyzed by The University of Michigan social scientists. Their analyses are used by business leaders, government agencies, students, and educators who seek a better understanding of the conditions and opinions existing in the United States today.

Virginia Lamsche and Barbara Rupert are the interviewers for this area.

PARTY COMES FIRST
CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller said Thursday he would shun his Democratic nephew and support the incumbent Republican governor if the Republican can run for reelection.

MEMPHIS (AP)—The wife of singer Charlie Rich has filed a Circuit Court petition, seeking a divorce on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

The petition, filed by Mrs. Margaret Ann Greene Rich, 42, is asking alimony and child support and custody of the couple's minor son, Jack Michael Rich, 8.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for Charlie Rich Enterprises said the singer was admitted to Baptist Hospital in Memphis, for treatment of a badly infected insect bite on the foot.

Rich has cancelled singing engagements for the next two weeks, possibly for the rest of the year, said Sy Rosenberg, his manager.

On the Country Music Association awards ceremony Monday night, Rich was introduced to present the Entertainer of the Year honor, which he received last year.

Instead of reading the winner's name, Rich rambled, then set fire to the card bearing John Denver's name.

"Charlie was sick," said Rosenberg. "He had taken pain pills for his insect bite on the foot."

Mrs. Rich did not ask for possession of their home in Memphis.

The divorce petition said Rich, 43, and his wife separated Oct. 8, 1975, but that Rich has stayed at their home on occasion since the separation.

High school sweethearts, the couple married in May 1961 in Forrest Park, Ark.

They had three other children beside Jack Michael: Renee Annette Rich Carver, 22; Charles Allen Rich Jr., 21, and Laurie Lynn Rich, 19.

The marriage was the first for both. Rich has said that "Margaret Ann and I dated all the way through high school and it was just sort of a foregone conclusion that we would get married some day."

New Staff Consultant

Bill Williamson has joined the Eastern Regional Alcoholism Services staff as an occupational program consultant.

BILL WILLIAMSON

Williamson, will work in the 32-county Eastern Mental Health Region through the 13 Mental Health Centers in developing programs within business, educational systems, governing bodies, and industries for troubled employees. About 10 per cent of the employees of these fields of work have problems of some nature that affect their work performance, it is estimated. Of these problems, about 50 per cent are alcohol abuse-related. Other problem areas include marital relations, child behavior, legal objective, and money. The objective of the programs Williamson hopes to develop is to provide a resource where these people can get help in solving their problems in the early stages before they begin affecting their work performance.

Williamson, a former employee of the Western Electric Company and of the N.C. Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, and his wife are living in Greenville.

Pirates Host Western For Homecoming

Rose Runs Past Bertie Falcons, 37-0

Bucs Seeking Fourth Victory

The last time East Carolina University's Pirates met Western Carolina's Catamounts was 12 years ago. The Bucs rolled to a 50-0 win over Western that Homecoming afternoon.

Saturday in Ficklen Stadium at 1:30 p.m., the two teams renew their old rivalry, but Coach Pat Dye isn't looking for a victory of those proportions.

"I have no idea what type game it's going to turn into," Dye said. "But I know that we're going to have to play just as good a defense as we did last week, and we're going to have to get our offense in gear."

Dye said that the Pirates have had a good week on the practice field, and he looks for them to play a good game for the returning grads. "But I'm still waiting for us to put it all together—offensively and defensively and kicking."

The Bucs will have to operate their offense without the man who had led them most of the year, quarterback Pete Conaty, out for the rest of the year with a shoulder separation. Planned surgery for him on Monday was not done, however.

Taking his place will be both Jimmy Southerland and Mike Weaver. "We have the utmost confidence in both of these young men," Dye said. "Both of them have proven themselves. Mike led us all last year, and Jimmy has taken the team in for several touchdowns this year. It's really a good situation for us to be in."

Current number three quarterback is freshman Steve Greer. "He knows the offense, but he doesn't have the experience. We'd like to be able to get far enough ahead for him to get some playing time. He's been getting a lot on Monday's however, in scrimmages."

Barry Johnson will take over the kickoff duties handled by Conaty, while Larry Paul and Ken Ashby, a junior college transfer, will handle the placekicks. "We really haven't decided between them yet. But both have kicked well in practice."

Western Carolina, despite its 2-3 record, brings into the game

"the two best backs we've seen this year," Dye says. They are Darrell Lipford, with 592 yards in 110 carries, a 5.4 average, and Herb Cole, with 338 in 63 hugs, also a 5.4 average.

"They are two of the best around," Dye said. "They have an outstanding tight end in Mike Green (6-3, 238), who is a good prospect. They have two excellent quarterbacks in Danny Dalton and Jeff Walker."

Dalton had hit on 33 of 78 pass attempts for 391 yards, while Walker had 15 of 36 for 202 yards. Each of them has thrown for three touchdowns.

"They have good split ends and a good offensive line. They play a wide-open offense," Dye said.

Western runs its offense out of the I, and the quarterbacks both like to drop back for the pass. "So we'll really have to be alert not only to the pass, but to the screen pass and the draw," Dye said.

Denensively, Western isn't a big team, but has outstanding quickness, according to the coach. "They are very aggressive and have a lot of hustle. They have two cornerbacks who are the best we've seen. They have great speed and ability. They are a real well-coached team."

Jeff Ciccone is the leading receiver with 15 catches for 213 yards. Wayne Tolleson had 117 yards in seven catches, while Green and Cole have each caught nine aerials.

Willie Hawkins leads the Pirate rushing with 327 yards, while Ken Strayhorn has 228. Weaver has hit five of 20 passes for 118 yards while Southerland has connected on nine of 13 for 65 yards.

During the halftime ceremonies, four more inductees will be installed in the East Carolina Sports Hall of Fame, joining the 10 charter members inducted last year.

The four are: Dave Alexander, former football great; Maurice Everett, tennis champion; Bill Holland, baseball star; and Ken Midyette, NAIA diving champion.

Five Rampants Score In Decisive Victory

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
Rose High School Football Coach Dave Bumgarner has been waiting to see his Rampants take a big victory. "We need it," he said.

Last night, before a sparse but enthusiastic crowd, the Rampants did just that, pounding hapless Bertie Senior, 37-0.

Rose rolled up 324 yards in total offense in the game, mostly on the ground. There was never much doubt as to the outcome after the first period, when Rose pushed in two scores for 14-0 lead.

Dominating play completely, the Rampants rushed 66 times for 234 yards. They added eight pass attempts, hitting on six of them for 90 yards. Before it was over about everyone with a blue shirt on got in the game.

Bertie managed just in total offense. They ran off only 32 plays, and actually had minus yardage in the second half. They had 40 yards rushing in the first half, and minus 11 in the second.

Bertie's best threat came on the kickoff returns, where they recorded 95 yards in six returns.

The Falcons got only two first downs, however, and never had possession of the ball in Rampant territory. Their deepest penetration was their own 30.

Rose divided up the scoring pretty well, with five different players scoring touchdowns. Doug Paschal got the first on a two-yard run, and Mike Brewington got the second on a 20-yard pass from Henry Trevathan. Mike Joyner scored from a yard out, and Mike Brown went over from the three.

Robert Williams got the last on a 14-yard run. The Rampants added two PAT kicks by Wright Hooks, one by Jule White, and a two-point run by Paschal.

They also added a safety when Joe Godette tackled punter Marshal Bennett in the end zone.

Rose scored on its second possession. Taking over at the Bertie 49 following a short punt, the Rampants drove in eight plays, after twice being hurt by penalties. Paschal got ten yards in two carries to the 30, but a penalty put it back on the 35. On second down from the 33, Trevathan hit Brewington at the one, but again Rose was penalized, back to the 48 for having an ineligible receiver downfield.

So, on second and 28, Trevathan hit Joyner for 29 yards and a first down at the 19. Paschal then carried four straight times for nine, six, two and two yards—the last for the touchdown. Hooks' kick made it 7-0 with 5:25 left in the period.

Just two plays later, Tyrone Perkins recovered a Falcon fumble at the Bertie 42. On the first play, Joyner raced all the way for the score, but off-setting penalties cancelled it. Paschal ripped off 20 yards on the next play to the 22. After a two-yard gain, Trevathan found Brewington open for the touchdown pass, and Hooks' kick ran it out to 14-0 with 2:58 still to go in the first frame.

After just crossing the 50 on its next possession, Rose drove for its third score the next time it got the ball. That drive started on the Rampant 34. It took a fourth and one quarterback sneak at the 43 to keep it going, but Rose continued to eat up yardage on the 17-play drive. The longest play was a 17-yard pass from Trevathan to Paschal, putting the ball on the 10. Two plays later, Joyner went over from the one and a two-point pass try failed. Leaving it at 20-0 with 2:09 left in the half.

In the closing seconds of the half, Rose nearly made it again, getting the ball on the 20 when Brewington forced a fumble which Ricky Cannon recovered. But an interception on the final play of the half ended the threat.

Rose scored again on its opening drive of the second half. The drive went 67 yards and 13 plays. The drive took mostly medium distance plays, with Rose having only one third down in the series, and getting first every other play after that. Paschal opened the door with two carries for 14 yards to the seven. Joyner put it on the three and Brown went over from there. Paschal ran over the PAT for a 28-0 margin with 4:51 left in the quarter.

Rose was unable to move it on their next series, but backed Bertie up and forced the safety after that. Bennett, back to punt from his own 18 saw the ball sail over his head on the snap. He tried to run it out of the end zone after chasing it down, but Godette led the tackle crew for the safety. That ran it out to 30-0 with 11:22 to go in the game.

Rose went down to the 18 with the second string playing, but gave it up on downs. Then, after getting it back, they drove in for the final score, going 48 yards. Max Blount picked up 21 yards on the second play for a first down at the 18. Williams finally took it over from the 14 with 2:28 left, and White added that PAT after Rose was twice penalized before the try. That left it 37-0—the final margin.

The victory raised the Rose record to 6-1 overall and 2-0 in Division II play. They get their toughest conference test next week when they face Northern Nash, rated the top opposition for the Rampants in their quest for a second straight league title.

'Almost' No Problems In Fifth Pan-Am Day

By JERRY GARRETT
AP Sports Writer
MEXICO CITY (AP) — The VII Pan American Games almost made it through one day without controversy.

Emphasize "almost." As the fifth day of the problem-plagued Games began today, the United States tied the Cubans in gold medals, 26-26, and jumped out to a healthy 66-50 edge in total medals. The gold-silver-bronze count for the Americans was 26-24-16 with the Cubans at 26-16-8. Next was Canada at 5-6-12 with host Mexico following with 3-5-11.

Thursday's schedule started out innocently enough, but just as it had each of the three previous days, officialdom came down with a case of foot-in-mouth disease.

This time it was in the women's 200-meter finals where young Americans Chandra Cheeseborough and Pamela Jiles finished 1-2 in a photo finish that took hours to sort out.

But just before the medals were to be handed out, a misinformed official told Miss Jiles she had won. So she joyfully accepted what she thought was her second gold of the Games. Later, when the mix-up was discovered, the medals were tearfully exchanged.

Two disputes left over from Wednesday's comedy of errors were mediated Thursday. A jury of appeal let stand the results in the men's discus, even though it was conceded the Cuban who won the silver medal used an illegal disc. Americans John Powell and Jay Silvester took the gold and bronze medals.

The Yanks fared better in the three-day equestrian finals where a protest had been lodged over the accidental disqualification of world champion Bruce Davidson of Unionville, Pa., in the middle of an impressive run. An official thought Davidson was Canadian Jim Day, who was ousted for a minor rules violation.

Davidson was allowed to resume his ride from the point of disqualification. He finished with a silver medal behind Tad Coffin of Stratford, Vt., the gold medal winner.

The U.S. equestrian team also earned a gold medal — one of eight Thursday for the Americans.

After three days of Cuban domination in weightlifting, the United States finally made a successful challenge. Lee James of Clarksville, Tenn., won two gold medals of three in the light heavyweight weightlifting categories. Cuba's Abel Lopez won the other gold, and both silvers. James had the third silver.

In middle heavyweight, the Americans did even better with Phil Grippaldi, Belleville, N.J., winning two golds and a bronze, and Frank Caspours, Hillsdale, N.J., adding a silver and two bronze.

Both U.S. gold medals in track and field were Pan Am records. Miss Cheeseborough, with Miss Jiles four-hundredths of a second behind, traveled the 200 meters in 22.77 seconds, bettering a mark Miss Jiles set in preliminaries, and Tom Woods, a senior at Oregon State, triumphantly cleared 7-foot-4½ inches on his final try in the high jump.

Guyana won its first gold medals of the Games, thanks to University of Southern California sprinter James Gilkes, a legal resident of the small South American country. Gilkes won the 200 meters with a clocking of 20.43 seconds. Diane Jones of Canada easily outdistanced runner-up Gail Fitzgerald of East Orange.

N.J., 4,673 points to 4,486 in the women's pentathlon. Miss Jones' sister, Joanne, was seventh.

Mexicans set the pace in the 5,000-meter run, Domingo Tibaudiza of Colombia and Ted Castenada of Colorado Springs, Colo., swept past them in the late going and finished 1-2 in the event. Rodolfo Gomez, the Pan Am torch lighter last Sunday, held on for third behind the winning time of 14 minutes, 2 seconds.

Cubans Maria Sarria and Hilda Ramirez led an assault on the Games' women's shot put record, that in all was exceeded by the first five finishers Thursday. The winning throw of 59 feet 1¾ inches was nearly eight feet better than the old mark.

Pair Are Champions

EDENTON — Sissy Taylor and Nancy Sharp of Williamston High School captured the doubles championship in the Northeastern Conference tennis tournament yesterday.

The two girls combined to win their opening match on Wednesday, then took the semi-finals and finals on Thursday for the title.

Overall, Roanoke Rapids won the team title, while Williamston finished fourth. Misses Taylor and Sharp downed Annette Rountree and Shirley Brown of Ahsokie in the semifinals of the tournament, 6-2, 6-0. Then they beat Carol Branch and Amy Morgan of Roanoke Rapids, 7-5, 6-1 to clinch the title.

The tournament activity wound up the regular season for the Williamston netters.

Netters Take Third Straight

ROCKY MOUNT—Rose High School's girls' tennis team concluded a fine week for them, winning their third straight match with a 7-2 decision over Rocky Mount.

The victory boosted the Rampant record to 4-6 on the year.

Rose captured five of the six singles, losing only in the number six event. Their other loss came in the number two doubles.

The match was hard-fought, however, with three of the singles matches going three sets before a decision.

Karen Jeffreys (R) defeated Helen Wiley, 7-5, 6-0.

Charlotte Ward (RM) defeated Peggy Barber, 6-3, 6-2.

East-Matney (R) defeated Ward-Williams, 8-2.

Bennett-Wiley (RM) defeated Bailey-Augspurger, 8-2.

Jill Carney-Cindy Talbert (R) defeated Ward-Wimberly Burton, 11-9.

Kickoff for the game is set for 1:30 p.m.

Rampants Last In Loop Meet

WILSON—Wilson Fike High School rolled to a second straight cross-country title in Division I yesterday, easily outdistancing the other teams.

Wilson finished with 29 points, while Northern Nash was second with 44. Rocky Mount finished third with 66 points, while Bertie had 106. Rose finished with 110. Northeastern does not field a team.

Wilson took the top two positions as King won the individual title in 12:51, and Goforth followed him in at 12:52. Hardy of Northern Nash was third in 13:14, while Jones of Rocky Mount was fourth in 13:20.

Whitehead of Northern Nash finished fifth in 13:21, while Wilson's Ellis and Cox were next in 13:36 and 13:38, respectively.

Taylor of Northern Nash was eighth in 13:45, followed by Donnie of Northern Nash in 13:52, and Taylor of Rocky Mount in 14:00.

Johnny Evans led the Rose team with 14th place in a time of 14:27. Other Rose finishers were Jimmy Davis, 18th in 14:50; Robert Vick, 21st in 14:54; Michael Norfleet, 28th in 15:11; Walter Kortsehak, 29th in 15:14; Mickey Finn, 31st in 15:24; Jeff Barber, 34th in 15:58; Michael Dyer, 35th in 16:01; John Lawler, 37th in 16:07; and Mike Jeffreys, 40th in 17:53.

Some Changes In The Lineup

Despite the fact that there was very little difference in last week's picks, there was a little movement in the standings of our panel of experts.

Three 12-0 cards, by Joe Jenkins, Jack Whichard and this writer, outdid the others. As it now stands, Whichard continues to lead the pack with a 54-15 record. That represents a game more advantage over Tom Baines, now 52-17. Jenkins has moved into third place with a 50-19 record.

George Holland is now 48-21, while one game back we find ourselves with a 47-22 mark. Diane Allen has fallen behind, now 44-25.

This week, you'll find that Whichard and Jenkins have looked over each others' shoulders again. But the rest of us have some differences of opinion.

In the high school ranks, our 5-2 week last time out has left us with a 27-15-1 mark for the year.

Of course, we can't count it for this week's record, but we'll pick Rose High School to beat Bertie—in fact, a good score would be 37-0.

Farmville Central puts its unbeaten mark on the line in the Eastern Carolina Conference, against once-beaten Charles B. Aycock. The Falcons may want to get back quickly after losing their first league outing last week. But Farmville has things rolling now, and unless they look ahead to Ayden-Grifton next week, they should win it.

Ayden-Grifton meanwhile goes up against Greene Central, winner of its last two outings. The Chargers, however, will be able to stand up against the Rams—unless, of course, they are looking ahead, too.

D. H. Conley will seek to get back on track with Southern Nash. The Firebirds are reeling, and Conley could snap back in this one. We'll go with the Vikings to take it.

Woody's Ramblin's

BY WOODY PEELE

North Pitt goes to North Lenoir, were the Panthers have a shot at another one. This one could be very close, but I'll have to take North Lenoir.

Williamston will host Ahoskie in a key Northeastern Conference game. The loser will just about be out of the race with two losses. It could be quite a battle, but we'll go with Williamston to pull it out.

North Edgecombe visits Roanoke. There's little to worry about here. North Edgecombe is winless and will still be Saturday morning.

Jamesville goes to Manteo. The Bullets have their troubles, and they'll still be seeking a win Saturday morning, too.

East Carolina plays host to Western Carolina at Homecoming. The Bucs have been spotty all year. Their offense clicked in high gear against Southern Illinois, and their defense played an outstanding game against The Citadel last week.

This could be a very hard fought game, however, as Western can't be taken lightly. The panel, however, looks to the Bucs. It's a 6-0 margin for them.

Other consensus picks include: Appalachian State over Lenoir Rhyne; VMI over Richmond; Duke over Clemson; State over Carolina; Citadel over Davidson; Georgia Tech over Auburn; Furman over Holy Cross; Rutgers over William & Mary; Maryland over Wake Forest; Virginia Tech over Virginia; and Boston College over Navy.

Perez Sparks Cincinnati To 6-2 Romp Over Boston For 3-2 Lead

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — The Boston Red Sox find themselves on the critical list after being hit and run over by the Big Red Machine.

After looking sick in the first four games of the World Series, Tony Perez suddenly regained his health with two home runs as the Cincinnati Reds beat the Red Sox 6-2 Thursday night and took a 3-2 stranglehold in the best-of-seven game classic.

The National League champions can polish off the Red Sox Saturday in the sixth game at Fenway Park, where Jack Billingham will face Boston left-hander Bill Lee.

"I never get down on myself," said Perez, who had fought a torturous batting slump before breaking it Thursday night before the appreciative, roaring hometown fans in Riverfront Stadium.

Cincinnati's all-time RBI leader had gone hitless in 15 World Series appearances before smashing a hanging slider from Reggie Cleveland over the left-center field wall to give the Reds a 1-1 tie in the fourth inning.

In the sixth, Perez got another good pitch from the beefy Boston right-hander and parked that one a little higher over the left-center field fence. Two men were on base at the time and it gave hard-throwing Don Gullett a handsome 5-1 lead.

Perez had tried everything to crack the distressing drought. He told reporters that his superstitious wife, Pituka, urged him to try driving a different way to the ballpark for Game 5. Also, she took Tony shopping before the game to "spend money" and try to get his mind off the Series.

"She tried everything to get me back in the groove again,"

Perez said.

Perez has been in slumps before but never worried about them.

"I've hit a lot worse," he said, "but in a World Series everyone knows about it."

While the Cuban-born star was making life miserable for the American League champions with his bat, Gullett was making them look sick with his arm. The Reds' best pitcher gave up just two hits to Boston through eight innings and then three more in the ninth before being forced from the game with just one out to go.

"I lost a little bit in the ninth," said Gullett, explaining he got cold while waiting during a long Cincinnati eighth inning.

When the chunky southpaw gave up two-out singles to Carl Yastrzemski and Carlton Fisk, Manager Sparky Anderson was Johnny on the Spot.

"Sparky came out and said, 'You're not going anywhere,'" Gullett said. "There's two outs," Anderson told me. He wanted me to work from the windup because I have better stuff than you, but I didn't."

When the obviously tired Gullett gave up a run-scoring double to Fred Lynn, Anderson revisited the mound and got the left-hander out of the game. It came Raulo Eastwick, who blew three pitches by the dangerous Rico Petrocelli for the clincher.

The Cincinnati kid gave up a run in the first inning on a triple by Denny Doyle and Yastrzemski's sacrifice fly before Boston's ninth-inning flurry. Along with Perez' four RBI, the Reds got a run in the fifth on Gullett's single and a double by Pete Rose and one in the eighth on Dave Concepcion's sacrifice fly.

Aycock In 14-0 Win

E. B. Aycock Junior High School rolled to a 14-0 victory over Nash Central yesterday. The victory boosted the Jaguars to a 3-2 overall mark so far this year.

After a scoreless first period, Aycock pushed over its first touchdown in the second frame. Ronnie Chapman got the score, racing 24 yards for the touchdown. Curt Little ran in the extra points for an 8-0 edge.

It stayed that way until the fourth period, when the Jaguars got their second score. Little got that one on a 53-yard ramble.

Nash Central offered one threat, moving to the Aycock five before fumbling it away.

Little led the Rampant offense with 100 yards rushing. Aycock travels to Kingston on Wednesday, Oct. 29, for its next game.

Texas Open Is Putt Contest

By STEVEN M. EAMES

Associated Press Writer
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Lee Trevino predicts that Woodlake Golf Club's dry, fast and wide open course will make the Texas Open "a putting contest."

He repeated that opinion after shooting a one-under-par 71 Thursday, this time calling the 7,038-yard, par 72 course "a turkey shoot."

"I say it's a putting contest because there's no trouble anywhere else," Trevino said of the course, which has no out-of-bounds markers and little rough, and is fast and dry for lack of appreciable rain since Sept. 1.

"You can hit it anywhere," the spicy Trevino added.

Such statements, which he has repeated often since he arrived here Tuesday, drew a cool reception from veteran Miller Barber, who tied at 66 with Gil Morgan for the first round lead, and defending champion Terry Diehl.

"You've got to hit it down the fairway and onto the green first," Barber said after firing his 66. However, he said the Woodlake course is "more wide open."

Diehl, who knocked 19 strokes off par in winning the tourney last year, drew up heatedly when first asked about the Trevino assessment. Then he said he "shouldn't make any comment on that."

Trevino has said that tournament officials should let more rough grow, put in out-of-bounds markers and narrow the fairways. He said Woodlake is a good course otherwise.

SuperMEX, trying for his first victory in a Texas tournament, offered to come to the course three weeks before this event next year to show officials where to let the grass grow.

He said a more challenging course would bring in bigger names and help the $125,000 tourney grow.

Barber and Morgan have goals this year besides the $25,000 first prize. Barber is trying to prolong an eight-year string of winning at least one tournament per year and Morgan, 66th on the top 60 money earnings list, is trying for an exemption from qualifying at next year's tourney by moving to above No. 60.

VMI, Richmond Clash In Battle For Sole Possession Of First

By The Associated Press

Virginia Military's Keydets meet Richmond's Spiders in the Tobacco Festival game Saturday in Richmond in what may be their toughest test in defense of their Southern Conference football championship, and Coach Bob Thalman says "we should be ready to play a great game."

Both VMI and Richmond take 2-0 league records and 2-3 overall marks into the scrap, and Thalman says "I think it's great that both teams are undefeated in the conference. It makes the game all that much more important."

As the only teams still unbeaten in league play, the two have an inside track on the title, especially since The Citadel's Bulldogs—who stand 1-1 and play seven league games to six for VMI and Richmond—must face both the Keydets and Spiders away from home.

But The Citadel is nothing short of a cinch to tie the VMI-Richmond loser for second Saturday, since the Bulldogs have a league date at Davidson. The Wildcats lost their only conference start 55-0 to VMI and have been routed in three games over-all.

The afternoon nonleague schedule has East Carolina's Pirates, 3-3, at home against Western Carolina; Furman's Paladins, 2-3, playing host to Holy Cross; and William and Mary's Indians, 0-5, at Rutgers.

Appalachian State's Mountaineers, 4-1 over-all, have the night spotlight all to themselves with a nonconference game at home against Lenoir Rhyne, which accounted for 914 yards in total offense last week in a 69-14 rout of Davidson.

"We have just been super pleased with the way practices have gone this week. There have been lots of enthusiasm and spirited workouts," says Thalman of VMI's preparations for Richmond, the only team to beat the Keydets in league play last year. Richmond Coach Jim Tait says "we think we're a little better than people thought we would be. VMI has a fine football team. We'll play a good, solid football game."

The winner? "We think Richmond has a good football team, but we're planning to win," says Thalman.

"I know we'll be competitive and I hope we're gonna win it," says Tait.

Coach Bobby Ross of The Citadel says "our game with Davidson could be a struggle. I'm very concerned with our offense." With the Wildcats having given up 1,765 yards and 150 points in three games, Ross will have a right to be concerned if The Citadel doesn't romp.

Western Carolina "will bring a team into Greenville that will present a big challenge to us," says East Carolina Coach Pat Dye. "This is another of those games where the opposition really takes East Carolina as a team to beat. We'll have our hands full."

Coach Art Baker of Furman, whose Paladins got back on the winning track last week by beating Presbyterian 35-7, says "we're going to have to get the same kind of effort this week" against Holy Cross.

Because "we have not been able to field the same offensive unit from one game to the next and that sure hasn't helped our efforts," William and Mary Coach Jim Root plans to put together what he calls a "Frosh Connection" against Rutgers.

That will consist of five freshmen in the backfield and at the end positions who have seen action so far but not always together in William and Mary's worst start since 1955.

Red Sox Don't Feel That They're Whipped

By DAVE O'HARA

CINCINNATI (AP) — Beaten in the fifth game? Yes. Down 3-2 to the Cincinnati Reds in the World Series? Yes. A whipped team? Definitely NO.

That summed up the general feeling among the Boston Red Sox today as they returned home, faced with the task of winning two in a row from the Reds for the city's first World Series championship since 1918.

Except for southpaw Bill Lee, the Red Sox talked softly but with the confidence they've shown all year after dropping a 6-2 decision to the Reds in Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium.

Lee, listed as the starting pitcher for Saturday's sixth game at Fenway Park, released personal tension by sipping tea and wise-cracking with writers.

"I like pressure," he said. "I'm going to show up. What else can I do? I'm not gonna lie down and play dead. I won't have cardiac arrest. I'll do what I can."

Team captain Carl Yastrzemski, who led the Red Sox to their last pennant in 1967, recalled the drama of the past two days of that championship season as he looked ahead, hopefully, to two games with Cincinnati this weekend.

"I keep thinking back to 1967 when we beat the Minnesota Twins two in a row to win the pennant," Yaz said. "I know we can do it with the Reds. The fans will give us a tremendous lift in our ball park."

"This puts them one up, but they still have to win four," said third baseman Rico Petrocelli, the only other Boston player still around from the 1967 team.

"Sure, we're behind 3-2 in the series, but now we're going home to our ball park," Petrocelli said. "We're just going to have to go like heck Saturday. You can bet we'll be ready. We've come from behind all year, and we can do it again."

Most admitted the team did not play very well in the field, the Red Sox gave due credit to Cincinnati southpaw Don Gullett for a fine pitching performance which gave the Reds the series advantage. Gullett allowed only two hits until tiring in the ninth and needing relief help.

"Sure, I think we can still do it," said Boston shortstop Rick Burleson. "Why not? We're going home looking to win two. Gullett pitched one hell of a game. But now their best is gone, and we still have our best ready for them in Boston."

"I'm not taking anything away from their other pitchers. Cincinnati has darn good pitching, but Gullett has been rated their best all year. We have Lee ready for Saturday and Luis Tiant ready for Sunday."

Manager Darrell Johnson agreed with Burleson.

"They're one game up, and you certainly have to give them the edge. But we have two things going for us," Johnson said. "We're going home and we have our two best pitchers ready."

Morocco Plans March to Reinforce Claims

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
Associated Press Writer
RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Recruiting began today for a march of 350,000 unarmed Moroccan civilians into the Spanish Sahara to reinforce their government's claim to the northern part of the disputed territory and its rich phosphate deposits.

Announcing the "peaceful" invasion, King Hassan II said in a broadcast Thursday night that he would lead the columns into Morocco's southern neighbor.

The king did not indicate when the walk would begin, but officials said preparations — particularly provision of drinking water — would take several weeks at least.

Hassan announced the march a few hours after the International Court of Justice in an advisory, nonbinding opinion, said Morocco and Mauritania, the Spanish Sahara's neighbor on the east and south, had links to the desert territory's nomadic tribes when Spain took it in 1884.

But the court said it could not recognize Moroccan and Mauritanian claims to sovereignty over the territory itself, and that it had no evidence to invalidate the Spanish and Algerian proposal for the colony's 80,000 inhabitants to decide their future in a referendum.

The Spanish government viewed the ruling as an endorsement of its referendum proposal. There was no immediate reaction from Algeria or Mauritania.

The 105,000-square-mile stretch of barren Atlantic coastline contains one of the world's largest deposits of phosphate. Morocco, already the world's largest exporter of phosphate, claims the northern part and Mauritania the eastern and southern.

Algeria has 18 miles of border with the Spanish Sahara.

Moroccan officials contend that the Algerians want a weak independent state in the hope of obtaining a corridor to the Atlantic, but the Algerians insist they are interested only in the principle of self-determination for the people.

Both Morocco and Algeria have moved sizable troop units to the borders of the Spanish colony, and government sources in Madrid said the 15,000 Spanish troops would fight if the Moroccan army invaded.

Hassan said all the marchers would be unarmed "since we do not want war with Spain," and "no tyrant, not even one totally devoid of faith would dare to give an order to fire on 350,000 persons without arms."

He said the Moroccan army would not intervene if Spanish forces attacked the marchers, but "if we meet any forces other than Spanish forces, we will resort to self-defense."

However, Moroccan officials said the marchers would cross the border in the region of Tar-faya, on the coast 300 miles west of Algerian territory.

Certainly, the winning line is not always found at the table and sometimes is only uncovered in post-game analysis. But don't let that lead you to the conclusion that most of the hands featured in bridge columns are figments of the authors' imagination. Bridge experts do make most of the fine plays described, as witness this hand from the recent European Championship.

Declarer at three no trump was the young Swedish star Per Oluf Sundelin. South's rebid of one no trump showed a better than minimum opening, for there was no need for him to take any action over the overall unless he had extra values.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, OCT. 18, 1975

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when you are able to find out more readily just where you are headed. It is advisable now that you handle any questionable matters in a formal manner.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Take time to make long-range plans for the future. Be more sociable with persons of character and importance. Be poised.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Engage in activities today that appeal to you most, but put prejudice aside for best results. Show devotion to mate.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Getting together with good friends is fine today. Show that you are a kind and considerate person. Don't be too talkative.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make sure you carry through with any agreements made with higher-ups. You can handle a civic affair wisely.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Ideal day to start building on a new foundation that could increase abundance. Be more willing to accept changes.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study well whatever promises you have made and then carry through conscientiously. Come to a fine understanding with mate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A good time to improve your surroundings. Don't permit an opponent to take advantage of you. Evening is fine for romance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take care of matters you were unable to do during busy work week. Engage in favorite hobby. Catch up on your reading.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Engage in recreations that you really like. Showing more affection for mate safeguards your position with this person.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If the situation is tense at home, don't make matters worse by using the wrong words. A time to count your blessings.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Handle any communications in a most intelligent way and remain cool at all times. Obtain the facts and figures you need.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study new ways of advancing in your line of endeavor. Look to a successful person for new ideas. Relax at home tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be full of ideas, but should be taught to differentiate between the good and the bad. Your progeny requires a good academic training in order to become successful. Be sure to give ethical training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

100,000 MILES OR 3 YEARS NEW CAR WARRANTY

Celica GT

ONLY TARHEEL TOYOTA DARES TO MAKE SUCH AN OFFER

12 MONTHS OR 12,000 MILES USED CAR WARRANTY

This guarantee applies to cars selling for $1000.00 and up. On a 50-50 basis. All work must be done in our shop. This warranty does not apply to any sport cars, high performance or air cooled engines or 4 speed transmissions (except economy cars). Most good used cars (even if they look like new) are only guaranteed for a month. Or for a thousand miles. No more. And some are not guaranteed at all. But at Tarheel when we say a used car is in excellent condition, we're willing to stand behind it. We're willing to do something a little extra for it. So we guarantee its motor, its rear end, and its transmission for twelve months or twelve thousand miles. If you're in the market for a better used car, come out to Tarheel and look at ours. We'll show you some as good as new. Guaranteed. Asterisk denotes warranted car.

More than 300 marchers will be calling on area residents for contributions. This year's campaign is built around the "Athletes Vs. MS" theme. Ara Parseghian is the national chairman for the drive to fight this crippling disease of the central nervous system, which most often attacks adults between the ages of 20 and 40.

The Greenville area chapter of Ducks Unlimited continued to do its part for waterfowl conservation last night by raising a gratifying sum to be channeled into the national DU pot.

With the chapter enjoying its most successful annual dinner meeting ever, members combined to raise approximately $22,000 on behalf of the critical northern waterfowl conservation effort.

Last night's total was an increase over the roughly $16,000 raised at the 1974 dinner session, local DU officials pointed out. Total membership attending the annual DU fund-raiser at the Greenville Golf and Country Club was approximately 200 and included several guest sportsmen from out of town and a visiting official from the national Ducks Unlimited staff.

The gathering also included an enthusiastic group of young sportsmen who are registered as members of Ducks Unlimited through the organization's "Green Wing" program, open to youth 16-years-old and under.

Popular items on display last night included the 1975 limited edition print of the year, "Symphony of Autumn" by Larry Toschick, "Misty Morning — Mallards" framed print by David A. Maass, "Drake Woody" framed DU print by Basil Ede, and the 1975 DU commemorative shotgun, as well as other items of interest to sportsmen.

Dr. Ray Minges, coastal and eastern sponsor chairman, reported that the Greenville chapter now has some 47 sponsors on the membership rolls and ranks second only to Greensboro which boasts 65

Order Steps To Disbar

RALEIGH (AP)—Disbarment of a Raleigh attorney accused of falsifying documents has been ordered by the North Carolina State Bar Council.

Thursday's action against W. Frank Brower was taken after the lawyer and his attorneys failed to appear at a hearing before the council. The council is the governing body of the state regulatory agency for attorneys.

Brower has 10 days after receiving notification of disbarment to appeal the action to Superior Court.

The council found Brower guilty of unethical practices in three divorce cases he handled. The council's report said in 1972 Brower was involved in falsifying the signature of a woman whose husband had hired Brower as his divorce attorney. The signature was on a form consenting to the divorce.

In another case, the council said Brower agreed to file divorce papers even though neither partner in the marriage was a North Carolina citizen.

The third accusation was that Brower had told a client who didn't know where the whereabouts of his wife to sign his wife's name to a consent form or get someone else to do it.

Council records showed that fees in the cases ranged up to $325.

State Fair Opens Today

RALEIGH (AP)—The 108th North Carolina State Fair opened in Raleigh today and more than 500,000 persons are expected to visit during its eight-day run.

The fair has the usual array of livestock, crafts and carnival attractions. Entertainment will feature performers such as Brenda Lee, Jim Stafford and the Duke Ellington Band.

There are two new permanent buildings this year. A round crafts pavilion will house the "Village of Yesteryear" and a new livestock arena with 450 horse stalls and room for 1,000 head of stock has been added.

There will also be contests such as for apprentice bricklayers and farm tractor competition.

Senior citizens, who are admitted free on any day of the fair, will have a special day on October 22.

To encourage those attending the fair to ride buses instead of driving their cars, the fair's management is selling reduced price ride and admission ticket books through bus companies.

A huge traffic jam is expected Saturday when an anticipated 100,000 fairgoers and 50,000 football fans try to squeeze through the same two-lane access roads at one time.

The football fans will be headed for adjacent Carter Stadium, where N.C. State plays North Carolina in a game that has been sold out for months.

Officials at N.C. State are advising fans to budget an extra 90 minutes of travel time if they plan to see the kickoff.

The fair's budget of more than $1 million is raised through admission fees and other revenues.

Will Run For Labor Office

RALEIGH (AP)—A former chairman of the state Democratic party has announced his intention to run for state labor commissioner in next year's elections.

Eugene Simmons of Tarboro is the first Democrat to make the move. The job is now held by Republican T. Avery Nye, appointed by Gov. Jim Hollibaugh after W.E. "Billy" Creel died. Last week, Nye fired 13 of the department's employees, most of the Democrats, but Simmons said his decision wasn't influenced by that action.

Simmons said he wanted to seek the office in 1972, but didn't want to oppose Creel. A tobacco warehouseman, Simmons was the state Senate reading clerk in 1959, 1961 and 1967 through 1974. Former Gov. Bob Scott had appointed Simmons to a $25,000 a year job in the newly organized Department of Natural and Economic Resources, even though the job had been phased out during reorganization.

He was state Democratic chairman in 1970 and 1971. A major problem, Simmons said, is raising money for the campaign. "Numerous friends of mine have announced for other state offices. To a certain extent, I will be competing with them for the campaign dollar," he said.

UNC Jogger Still May Face Charges

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Even though university officials filed the charge originally, the district attorney says only he can decide whether the case against a jogging math professor at North Carolina State University is to be dropped.

Wake County Dist. Atty. Burley B. Mitchell Jr. said Thursday he'll decide sometime before the Nov. 10 trial date whether to prosecute Prof. Robert T. Ramsay, 35.

Ramsay was arrested last week when he refused to quit jogging on the track that goes around the football team's practice field. Coach Lou Holtz was afraid the jogger was spying on the closed practice for the University of Maryland.

N.C. State played Maryland Saturday and lost 37-22. Ramsay was arrested by a campus security guard and charged with obstructing the officer who was performing his duty. Later last week, acting Chancellor Jackson A. Rigney ordered the charge be dropped.

But, Mitchell said, "A complainant cannot withdraw a criminal charge. This is a case of the state versus the defendant." Mitchell said he has the authority to drop the charge but hasn't had time to consider the case.

Ramsay said he jogs four miles a day. He said he's a loyal Wolfpack supporter and has never had any connection with Maryland.

He said the association would seek improvement firemen's lives and the department's operation. Goals of the his group were listed as establishment of merit raises for firemen, addition of three men to each shift and upgrading of insurance standards.
