BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Nine Americans captured by Communist forces in South Vietnam last spring arrived in Bangkok today along with two Canadians, two Filipinos and an Australian. They were described as "fit and well."

One of the Americans, Paul Struharik, 35, of Barberton, Ohio, a U.S. aid official in Ban Me Thuot, said, "I was captured waving a white flag at my house when I heard them coming through the back gate. The battle for Ban Me Thuot was by that time essentially over. But there were bombs and artillery still going off all over the place."

The 14 civilians were flown from Hanoi to Vientiane, the capital of Laos, and then on to Bangkok in a Laotian plane chartered by the United Nations. U.N. officials said all were "fit and well" although one of the Americans complained of "psychological hardship" during a period of solitary confinement.

The Americans included two missionary couples and the small daughter of one of the couples, two government officials and a student. One of the Filipinos also worked for the U.S. government, and the Canadians were missionaries.

They were captured in South Vietnam in March and April during the collapse of the South Vietnamese army and the lightning Communist advance. They said they were taken by truck to Hanoi in mid-August and confined near Hanoi.

United Nations officials said the missionaries were John Miller, 45, his wife, Carolyn, 37, and their 6-year-old daughter, Lucille, of Houghton, N.Y.; Norman and Joan Johnson, 39 and 38, of Hamilton, Canada; Richard and Lillian Phillips, 45 and 44, of Bloomington, Minn.; and Betty Janet Mitchell, 56, of Bly, Ore.

The American officials were Paul A. Struharik, 35, Barberton, Ohio, an official of the U.S. Agency for International Development; and James Foley Lewis, 31, of Illinois.

The American student was Jay R. Scarborough, 29, of Southern Illinois University.

All of those released today except Lewis were captured in Ban Me Thuot, in the Central Highlands, when the Saigon government abandoned it to the Communists in March. Mrs. Mitchell's husband, Archie, was captured there in 1962 by the Viet Cong and has not been heard of since.

About 40 other Americans are still in South Vietnam. Most of them are believed living in Saigon.

The returnees were flown from Hanoi aboard a Laotian airline DC3 chartered by the U.N. High Commission for Refugees.

Missionaries in Vientiane said members of the group appeared quite thin but otherwise healthy. They said nine reportedly had malaria during their captivity and some were still bothered by diarrhea.

Refuses To Reveal Audit On Southern Bell N.C. Utilities Commission

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina Utilities Commission has refused to make public a Southern Bell Telephone Co. audit which includes information about a reported political slush fund. But the commission has accepted the document as part of its file and says it will consider it in deciding Southern Bell's $62.4 million rate hike request.

Dep. Atty. Gen. I. Beverly Lake Jr. submitted the document as the commission wound up Southern Bell hearings Tuesday.

Lake said Wednesday the commission did not specify what consideration would be given the document, just that it would consider relevant portions.

Lake wants the commission to determine and use in considering the rate hike how the reported slush fund reflected on the quality and integrity of the management of the company.

He asked the commission to enter as evidence for the public record the internal audit Southern Bell had performed. In the same motion, Lake asked that money earned in rate hikes granted with incorrect information because of the fund, which he estimated at $400,000 to $450,000, be returned to customers.

Lake said he was pleased that the commission would consider possible restitutions in the rate hike request, but was disappointed that the document was not made public.

"The people ought to know how their money is being used," he said, saying the reported irregularities would be fraud not only against the company but also against the rate payers.

NO BULLETINS

In February I wrote to Museum Publications of America requesting membership. I sent a $7 check, understanding that I would be provided bulletins about works of art. I have my canceled check, but have received nothing in seven months. J.L.

Hotline wrote to Museum Publication Sept. 4. When there was no answer, we followed up around the first of October with a phone call. Laurie Theiss told us that there have been no new publications since you became a member, that this has been a slack year. She asked us to check with you as to whether you'd like to wait a little longer till a new publication is ready or whether you'd prefer a refund. You asked for a refund and report that you have just got your $7 back.

NO HOUSE TO HAUNT

Hotline appealed Oct. 7 for a house that the Greenville Recreation Department could use as a "haunted house." There was one response, Jim Parker said, but the house offered was too far out of Greenville to be useful. He said the Department would like to offer this kind of amusement next Halloween and will be looking for a house next year well in advance of this date a year from now.

NYC Backers Going Ahead With Bills

By MIKE WATERS

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional backers of legislation to save New York City from financial default are going ahead with their bills, although they concede they don't have the strength to override a promised presidential veto.

In a speech Wednesday at the National Press Club, President Ford said, "I can tell you now that I am prepared to veto any bill that has as its purpose a federal bailout of New York City to prevent a default."

The New York Times, meanwhile, reported today that the city is considering a plan to borrow $4 billion against municipal union pension funds, using the $8.5 billion in assets to guarantee loans to the city. The paper said such a tactic could avert default by the city and restructure its finances for as long as two years.

This could make federal aid unnecessary to keep the city from default, although the newspaper noted such a plan faces possible legal and financial problems.

Congressional supporters of aid for New York said after Ford's talk they see less hope of getting any monetary help to the troubled city before it defaults on its obligations, and there appeared to be agreement that plans to grant the city loan guarantees would have little chance of surviving a veto.

But the Senate Banking Committee, at a meeting today, may approve by a slim margin a bill to provide $4 billion in loan guarantees for the city. (Continued on page 10)

In Beirut Cease-Fire Shattered

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Moslem street fighters pushed back Christian gunmen ringing Beirut's downtown hotels today in fierce combat that shattered an announced government cease-fire.

A left-wing Palestinian guerrilla official whose troops supported the Lebanese Moslems' attack said Christians from the right-wing Phalangist party militia "have suffered a military defeat."

Bassam Abu Sharif of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine made the claim after Moslems and guerrillas overran the Phalangists' last forward outpost and moved into the shadow of the 25-story Holiday Inn, witnesses said.

Youths in green fatigues, armed with Soviet-made AK-47 assault rifles and backed by 50-caliber machine guns, poured through the Qantari district on a downhill run toward the 500-room hotel, already pocked by bullets and scarred by rocket hits and fire.

"Tonight we'll move ahead," a Moslem gunman boasted to an Associated Press photographer following their advance.

"This was just a probe." A spokesman for the 6,000-man Phalangist militia said Christian forces still controlled the Holiday Inn and the Phoenicia, a neighboring 500-room hotel.

The Phalangists also occupied the plush St. George's Hotel on the waterfront — where rich Lebanese and foreigners used to eat oysters flown live from France — after another Christian militia pulled out and the hotel staff fearfully ran up a white flag.

Warring Moslems and Christians were earlier reported to have agreed to a gradual pull-back so security forces in armored cars could establish a buffer zone by nightfall.

At Least 60 Killed In Yugoslav Crash

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — A chartered Yugoslav DC9 jetliner with 127 persons reported aboard crashed four miles from Prague's Ruzyně Airport today, airport sources said.

The sources said at least 60 persons were killed, and many of the survivors were in critical condition.

Most of the passengers were Czechoslovak trade union members returning from a vacation on Yugoslavia's Adriatic seacoast near Tivat, the sources said.

Tanjug, the official Yugoslav news agency, said a crew of five Yugoslavs was aboard the plane.

Czechoslovak officials refused to give any information.

The airport sources said the plane belonged to the Inex-Adria airline and was one of four flights today to Prague from Tivat. It was scheduled to land at 9 a.m. The Prague airport had been shrouded in fog since last Friday for all but a few hours around noon, and today was the first day of normal air traffic.

Police Meet With Gunmen In Bank

By SERGIO LALLI

Associated Press Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — While police marksmen stood watch from nearby buildings, police met inside a bank today with a gunman who took six hostages and threatened to blow up the bank after his holdup attempt was frustrated Wednesday.

Police Chief Lloyd Garey and an FBI agent emerged from their conference with ex-convict Edward O. Watkins, 56, and said Watkins and his hostages — four women and two men — appeared to be in good condition despite their overnight ordeal in a West Side bank.

Garey said he and the agent could hear the hostages talking in another room while they met with Watkins, a former Cleveland parolee with convictions for robbery and parole violations dating back to 1938.

Asked how much money Watkins was demanding, Garey said "around $50,000 or so."

Police have said they won't give in to Watkins' demands. A force of some 200 police officers maintained a vigil throughout the night and morning hours.

Watkins released three women hostages in the first six hours, one of whom said she had a heart condition and two who became ill. Watkins himself was said to be suffering from a heart condition.

One of the women hostages he released told police Watkins had enough dynamite to kill everyone in the bank.

Pleas from police, the gunman's girlfriend, a friend from prison and a judge he reportedly respects failed to end the standoff.

The released women told police Watkins was smoking cigarettes and drinking coffee. They also said he had a pistol and held a shoebox with what looked like a plunger attached.

The drama began at 2:50 p.m. Wednesday, when Watkins was surprised during an attempt to hold up the Society National Bank, police said. Officers responding to a silent alarm surrounded the building, as Watkins ordered nine persons into an employees' lounge in the rear.

Authorities bargained with the gunman over an intercom, while sharpshooters cradling rifles with telescopic sights and infrared spotters perched on roofs outside.

William Rooney of Cleveland, who knew Watkins in prison, said he believed Watkins would carry out his threats to kill the hostages if necessary. Watkins demanded money and a van to take him to Cleveland Hopkins Airport so he could escape.

"The FBI has a whole lifetime to catch me," Watkins told Rooney.

A van was brought to the bank, but Watkins rejected it, apparently fearing it might be bugged, police said.

U.S. District Court Judge William K. Thomas, who sentenced Watkins to 45 years in prison in 1967 for a series of robberies, said Watkins told him he didn't want to spend another day in jail. The judge said the hostages showed courage, even laughing at times.

Watkins, who was put on the FBI's 10 Most Wanted List in 1965 after the string of robberies, was paroled June 6, 1975. He was released to an Idaho cattle ranch, but disappeared less than a month later with the owner's pistol and car.

Pushes Campaign Over Half-Way Mark

Procter & Gamble Contributes $27,000 To Pitt United Fund

A generous $27,000 contribution by the employees of Procter & Gamble's Greenville plant has pushed the pledge and contribution total of the Pitt County United Fund over the half way mark for the current campaign.

Campaign chairman Tom Taft announced that the P&G contribution, which was presented to the United Fund on Wednesday by members of the plant's UF committee, puts the current fund drive over the midway point in the pursuit of the 1975-76 goal of $222,044.

Commenting on the plant's employee effort, which is recorded under the Industrial Division of the United Fund, Taft observed, "I am especially excited to receive this generous gift of Procter & Gamble, not only because it carries our campaign beyond the half way mark, but because it is a remarkable demonstration of human kindness."

Taft added, "Nearly 200 of its (P&G) employees contributed one per cent of their annual wages to our campaign. This example should make every citizen of Pitt County stop and consider and what he or she is doing for our campaign this year."

The $27,000 contribution, it was pointed out, is some $7,000 over the goal established for the P&G employees who closed out their campaign this week.

Making the check presentation to Taft yesterday were plant United Fund committee members Tad Kallini and Janet Mitchell and Harvey Gardner, one of the fair share givers at Procter & Gamble.

The campaign chairman noted that if a person or business has not been contacted by a representative of the United Fund for the current campaign, they should call the Pitt UF office at 758-1604.

Head Start To Screen Pre-School Children

GREENSBORO—Twenty-six local Head Start programs across North Carolina will screen 5,196 pre-school students for physical handicaps and learning disabilities during the month of November.

The screening of the three-to-five-year-olds will be coordinated by Head Start's State Training Office (STO), headquartered at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

According to STO Director Nellie F. Jones, the screening is in response to a mandate from Head Start's national office that 10 per cent of the enrollment opportunities in local programs be made available to handicapped children.

Directors of the 38 Head Start programs in the state were given the choice of whether they wanted to participate in the screening. Fourteen of the programs which decided to do so are located in the eastern part of the state.

"An overall objective is not just to screen the children, but to acquaint the North Carolina programs with local resources they can call upon in their own area," she explained.

The local programs will solicit the help of local agencies and services for the screening and follow-up with handicapped students. Also aiding the effort will be speech and hearing students from UNC-G, UNC-CH, East Carolina University, Western Carolina University, Appalachian State University, Shaw University and community health students from A&T State University.

Just screening the children is of little value unless steps are taken to correct the deficiencies uncovered during the process, Mrs. Jones noted.

Although the screening will be completed in November, it will be late January before the consultant, Bill Wilkerson Hearing and Speech Center of Nashville, Tenn., returns the data. That gives the school year ends in May.

"But we hope some of the programs can continue to work with students who fail the screen and are put on teacher-alert through the summer months," Mrs. Jones reported.

The advent of state-supported kindergarten has lessened the need for Head Start, she noted.

While more and more five-year-olds are being enrolled in public kindergarten, the program has begun working with three- and four-year-olds to give them a "head start" before entering kindergarten.

"And Head Start is the only program that is concerned with the total family, not just the child," Mrs. Jones added.

The emphasis on cooperating with other public service agencies which provide services to pre-school children has coincided with the strengthening of ties between STO and the University.

In 1966 UNC-G received grants from the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity to establish STO and the Head Start Leadership Development Program. These initial grants were operated through the School of Education.

During the fall of 1973, the two operations were combined into one office and administratively transferred to the Department of Child Development and Family Relations in UNC-G's School of Home Economics.

Another major change occurred in February when Mrs. Jones came aboard as the new STO director. Most of STO's present staff also came to work here at that time.

"I believe that the University is very much interested in the program," Mrs. Jones said, "and we're utilizing the services on campus. We think the relationship is a good one and it's growing every day."

The school of Education, through UNC-G's Office of Continuing Education, is offering a course for Head Start administrators. The STO also is sharing its resource center materials with the other child development programs on campus.

Mrs. Jones stated she would like to see an intern program developed for next year. This would benefit UNC-G by offering practicum experience for students while aiding Head Start by funneling trained personnel into the local programs.

All of this helps STO better perform its task of coordinating all training and technical assistance and related services to the 38 full-year and 10 summer Head Start programs in North Carolina, she added.

'Mushroom Lady' Is Herbarium Technician At Miami University

DAYTON (AP) — Mycology, or the science of fungi, can be difficult to teach because it isn't easy to find the right specimens at the right time, and it's almost impossible to keep them in viable condition for long.

When Profs. Harold Keller and Richard Jensen at Wright State University here decided to teach such a course, they turned to "The Mushroom Lady" for help.

"The Mushroom Lady" is not a comic strip character. She is in real life Gene Williamson, the sculptress of hundreds of exact scale models of many species of mushrooms.

Although she hand makes the mushrooms in her basement workshop as a hobby, the pieces are not strictly "arts and crafts." They are so accurate in color and detail that botanists and nature centers around the country are using them for teaching and research aids.

Mrs. Williamson has been a fulltime herbarium technician at Miami University at Oxford, Ohio, for about eight years. She collects, presses, preserves and arranges displays of plant specimens for the library-museum. She also trains students in these operations, and is responsible for the exchange and loan system with other herbariums around the world. She says she "had no real scientific training" with plants before she started working there.

"I became interested in the array of strange mushrooms brought in by the mycology classes and started my own treks into the woods to collect and attempt to identify specimens," she says. "I have read an awful lot of books since then, but pictures just don't show enough."

"I am flattered when the biology students come in to study my models before their exams," she admits. "I sometimes put a live mushroom and a ceramic one on the same base to see if they can tell the difference. I've fooled a few of them."

A long-time ceramics dabbler, Mrs. Williamson finds the fungi a "challenging art form" and attempts to capture accurately the details of the various species in clay for aesthetic as well as scientific reasons. She models her pieces using a freshly collected fungus as a guide whenever possible.

"I have grown some mushrooms on the old stone floor of my basement so that I'd have a supply to work with," she says.

The range of colors, shapes and sizes of the fungi is an unexpected visual delight. "Everyone is familiar with the large and showy wild-flowers," Mrs. Williamson says, "but some of the most interesting and unique organisms are these small, inconspicuous plants."

"Each specimen is different," she continues. "Getting the color to the right hue is the most critical problem." Of the species in her collection, bright red and orange, deep purple, sunny yellow and chocolate brown specimens are not uncommon.

"I experimented with many different types of clay," she says. "One of nature's own materials, white talc clay, turned out to be the purest white and the best texture base I have found. The colors do well on it. It often takes many hours of testing to get the right shade, the one that looks most natural. The sponge mushroom took almost two years and probably 100 different glazes to make it look right."

The hand-modeling process is long and delicate as well. "It can take me anywhere from two to 15 hours, depending on the size of the piece," she explained. "The most important tools for details like the gills are knife blades and wooden shaping tools of various sizes. But I have often gone through my house looking for something like a sharp pencil or my melon baller out to produce just the right effect."

Carefully controlled drying is necessary before the pieces are bisque fired at 1,904 degrees. Several coats of glaze are applied, depending on the desired color and texture, and then the mushrooms are fired again at 1,854 degrees. Mrs. Williamson then mounts them on wood or moss-covered bases in clusters as they would be found naturally in the woods.

"I started all this because my children were grown and gone and I needed something to keep me busy," she sighs. "Now I just can't keep up with it all ..."

Mrs. Williamson is constantly receiving orders from schools, parks departments, mushroom-collecting clubs and others who want permanent collections of their own. She has exhibited her work at Callaway Gardens in Pine Mountain, Ga., the Missouri Botanical Gardens in St. Louis and numerous other plant centers and universities around the country.

"Each summer I find about 50 new species I'd like to try," she says. "I like this idea of being the Mushroom Lady."

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Sometimes I think there is an underground movement at work in this country to destroy the institution of marriage.

First, it was the joint checking account that was a declaration of war for millions of couples. Then, the dual control electric blanket which was responsible for dissolving another million or so marriages. This was followed by the unleashing of Tom Jones whose swiveling hips tore couples apart who previously thought they were happy watching Donnie Osmond.

Now it seems marriage is to be dealt another challenge... the electric mattress.

The electric mattress reportedly will provide separate heat controls for three different sections of the body—the head, middle and legs, and will make it possible to sleep in comfort with only a sheet over your body on the coldest winter nights.

My husband was ecstatic over the idea. "Boy, does that sound terrific," he said. "Imagine. Controlled heat without all those heavy blankets and quilts to wrestle. When was the last time you slept with only a sheet over you?"

"Last night. As usual, you hogged all the covers."

"I hogged what?" he said evenly. "I don't believe this. I got up to get a drink of water and when I came back you looked like a tent that had just been staked to the ground. I spent the entire night perched on the bedrail."

"Don't complain. If I hadn't had a nip of anti-freeze before bedtime, my pipes would have frozen."

"Well, I happen to think an electric mattress might be the answer to our sleeping problems," he insisted.

"You might be right," I said, "but who would have custody of the controls?"

"I consider myself a reasonable human being who can assess what temperature is proper to maintain comfort without excess."

"Don't give me that," I said. "You are the cheapo who taped up the electrical outlets because you said we were losing heat."

"Be fair!" he snapped. "Do you know how many women have the coldest feet in the world?"

"No," I said, "but if you volunteer an answer, you're going to lose your spot on the bedrail."

Idealist Says Decision Making A Child's Right

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: That letter on the "best kind of punishment" was interesting. Punishment is always destructive to a relationship. Just think about how you felt when you were punished.

In a well-functioning family, punishment is unnecessary. Parents respect their children's rights—such as the right to privacy and the right to make their own decisions. And children respect their parents' rights, such as the right to be free from worry about their children's safety at 2 a.m.

Children and parents concede these rights out of love and understanding, not fear or guilt. When those rights conflict, parents and children sit down and work out solutions that satisfy everyone.

Thus, relationships grow warmer and closer. That's what being a parent is all about.

JOY R. IN BEVERLY HILLS

DEAR JOY: You make it sound so super simple. Punishment may be unnecessary, but discipline is a must. Until children reach legal age, their parents are responsible for them, and parents who really love their children will give them guidelines.

I'm all for parents allowing their children to make their own decisions to a point. But while it's wise to let your child stub his toe to learn a lesson, would you let him break his neck if you could avert it?

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 25 years, and if I thought my husband wanted another woman, I would hope that he'd be man enough to tell me. I would not want him in bed with me while his mind was on another woman.

How do you feel about it, Abby?

DAILY READER

DEAR READER: Same as you. But a man who would tell his wife that he'd rather be in bed with another woman is not only cruel; he's an idiot.

DEAR ABBY: We recently adopted a beautiful baby boy who is everything we had ever hoped for in a child.

We were married for 11 years before we accepted the fact that we weren't able to have children of our own, so we decided to adopt. I can't describe the happiness this child has brought into our lives.

Our lawyer advises us not to tell our son that he is adopted since all the records, including the birth certificate, show us as the baby's natural parents.

Abby, there are so many people in this town who know of the adoption. I don't see how we can keep the boy from finding out.

We got him when he was only 3-days-old. He is our child in every sense of the word, and we want him to feel that he is.

Should we tell him he's adopted? And if so, when? We don't want him to hear it from anyone else.

NEW MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I think your lawyer gave you very poor advice. Your son should be told that he was adopted as soon as he is able to understand what it means.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has some relatives who always leave the price tag on gifts they send to us and our children. I just can't understand it. The first thing I do when I buy a gift is to make sure the price tag is removed.

It can't be a coincidence that every gift that comes from these people has the price tag on it. Do you think it could be because they want us to know how much they have spent on us and want us to spend the same amount on them in return?

CURIOS

DEAR CURIOS: I think you've come up with the answer. Ignore the hint and spend what you can afford—and continue to remove the price tags.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Bowling-Ellett Vows Solemnized

CREWE, VA.—The wedding of Miss Ann Barton Ellett and Larry Francis Bowling took place Saturday, Oct. 18, in the Crewe Baptist Church.

The double ring vows were read at 2:00 p.m. by the Rev. Alden Hicks. A program of nuptial selections was presented by Mrs. Guy Hargrave, cousin of the bride, organist, and Miss Mary Lynn Gilchrist, vocalist.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Clarence Edward Ellett of Burkeville, Va., and the late Mr. Ellett, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Bowling, Farmville, N.C.

Escorted by her uncle, Willie Preston Ellett Sr., the bride was given in marriage by her mother. She wore a dress of candlelight peau de soie fashioned with an empire designed bodice, long full sleeves with wide cuffs accented with covered buttons. The A-line skirt extended into a chapel train. Her chapel length veil of candlelight illusion, edged in Venise lace rosettes, was attached to a satin covered band.

Miss Brenda Lee Shriver of Richmond served as maid of honor for her cousin.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Preston Jones of Rice and Miss Debbie Lynn Simpson of Farmville.

Mr. Leroy Bowling served as his son's best man. The ushers were Roy Thomas Bowling, brother of the bridegroom, James Edward Robertson, Von Ellett and Keith Coleman, cousins of the bride.

The ceremony was followed by a reception in the fellowship hall of the church.

After a wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Henderson, N.C.

DEAR ABBY: I believe that the University is very much interested in the program," Mrs. Jones said, "and we're utilizing the services on campus. We think the relationship is a good one and it's growing every day."

NOW Chapter Meeting Tonight

The Eastern Carolina Chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW) will meet tonight at eight o'clock at the First Federal Savings and Loan Building.

Speakers will be Dr. David B. Stevens and Richard Farris of the East Carolina University Equal Opportunity Programs office, who will speak on the controversial Title IX of the 1972 Educational Amendments.

The legislation, passed this summer by Congress, provides that all education programs receiving federal funding reform their operations to entirely eliminate discrimination against students or employees on the basis of sex.

Nearly every school system and college in the U. S. is affected by Title IX, and they have been given until July 22, 1976, to report and initiate changes. Stevens and Farris have studied the regulations and can answer questions regarding the effects of Title IX.

All interested persons are invited to attend the meeting.

Ayden Teenager ECU Annual Rock-A-Thon Got Underway Today

Arrested After Wild Car Chase

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

A 17-year-old Route 1, Ayden youth was placed in the Pitt County Jail early this morning under a $5,000 bond after being arrested by Greenville Police on multiple charges that stemmed from a high-speed chase that left four cars damaged.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Tonnie Anthony Cannon was charged with speeding 85 in a 25-mile-per-hour zone, careless and reckless driving, no operators license, unlawful use of a conveyance, malicious damage to personal property, damage to city property and assault with a deadly weapon.

The chief said the series of events that led to the charges against the youth began about 12:30 a.m. when officers spotted a car—reported stolen Wednesday night from Farmville—driven by Cannon near the intersection of Fifth and Cotanche Streets.

In the seven minutes that followed, officers lost sight of the suspects vehicle; located it again near the intersection of Cotanche and Tenth Streets where they attempted to stop the auto; chased the reported stolen car down Tenth Street, Grand Avenue, Pamlico Avenue and Cherry Street; and placed the driver under arrest after the fleeing car swerved in front of one police car and was struck in the side by it, careened into a parked car, then went on to collide head-on with a second police vehicle stopped in the roadway at the intersection of Cherry and Davis Street.

Chief Cannon said damage to one of the city cars was set at $1,500 while damage to the other police cruiser was estimated at $250.

Damage to the car driven by Cannon—owned by William Earl Hobgood of Farmville—was estimated at $2,100, while damage to the parked car, owned by Harvey Edward Carr of 411 B Hudson St. was placed at $800.

No injuries resulted from the incident, the chief noted.

The annual East Carolina Alpha Phi Omega Fraternity, University Rock-A-Thon, got underway at 7 a.m. this morning, sponsored by members of the ECU student DeForrest Suggs is the rocker volunteer for the 1975 collection drive to raise money for the Pitt County United Fund. DeForrest, accompanied by well-wishers and advisers, climbed aboard the platform at the traditional site at Five Point in downtown

Greenville to begin his long vigil. The fraternity hopes this year to collect approximately $2,500 in the event which is scheduled to last until about noon Saturday.

ECU students have been instrumental in past years in raising substantial contributions for United Fund through this public attention getting marathon.

Slight Drop For Farmville Market

FARMVILLE—Due to an unusual large volume of damaged tobacco, the average dropped slightly yesterday from the previous day on the Farmville Tobacco Market. The marketing of primings and lugs continued to increase in volume as the end of the season approaches.

Quality grades of lemon colors are in stronger demand than any time this season. Non-descript grades accounted for a large percent of sales. Wrapper grades continued to be in strong demand and bring top prices. Several sheets of wrapper grades sold for as much as $1.41 a pound on yesterday's sale.

The Farmville market sold 654,457 pounds of tobacco yesterday for $701,836 for an average of $107.24 per hundred pounds. To date the market has sold 33,049,125 pounds for $33,803,232 for a season average of $102.28 per hundred pounds.

U.S. Is Walking A Thin Line

The United States is walking the thinnest of lines in its Middle East policies, and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat knows it.

The wily Egyptian leader played for whatever concession he could get out of American leaders in his visit to the United States.

Sadat well knows that the U.S. won't give up its support of Israel, so he praises President Ford for leaning to "an even handed policy in the Middle East."

He saw U.S. relations with his country improving because of "a greater degree of American understanding of our just cause and our legitimate struggle to establish peace in the area."

He urged President Ford to favor the creation of a Palestinian state, something he knows is not likely to happen in American foreign policy in the near future.

Sadat also called for other concessions perhaps more within reach; the withdrawal of Israel from the Golan Heights and the internationalization of the city of Jerusalem. Neither of these demands are expected to be met any time soon, but they might come with future easing of tensions in the Middle East.

But what Sadat apparently really wants from the United States in return for its friendship is arms aid to replace that lost by the cooling of relations with the Soviet Union. And he might get some help in this area, in return for Egyptian guarantees of continued peace in the Middle East. Through such a move, the United States would hope to keep the Soviet-Egyptian rift going.

Middle Eastern policy is tricky for the Soviets and the United States. Anwar Sadat is well aware of this, and he is building bridges to the U.S., but he expects military aid in return.

THIS AFTERNOON Information Is Power

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Information, in today's fast-moving world, is power.

Information can be used by the ruthless and wily politician to influence public thinking, sway votes, and dictate to men of prominence their decisions and actions on key issues.

Thus, the deep-seated public investment in current behind-scenes debate in law enforcement quarters over who will hold the key to an expanded computerized information system linking North Carolina courts, prisons, police and sheriffs offices, the state's justice Department, and the Motor Vehicles Division into a federal network.

Obviously valuable as a crime-fighting tool, the expanded information system will help lawmen track wanted criminals, spot fleeing murderers, capture prison escapees.

Abuse Possible

But the system is subject to abuses: investigative reports, hearsay, gossip could be fed in; other computerized data such as military records, credit information, educational transcripts could possibly be tapped in.

Potential for mischief is compounded by federal regulations taking effect whether or not North Carolina goes to the new computer limiting access to what has been public court record, so that public and press will be barred effectively from being able to check the background of a potential employee, a candidate for public office, a member of the administration in power.

Already there are reports filtering in of local law enforcement people using that regulation to restrict access to public records in isolated places around the state, and this at a time when the regulations aren't even in effect. They will not take effect until Dec. 16, and then only if the state has agreed to go along with the new program. If the state doesn't agree, extended negotiations are likely.

But those first instances of local abuses likely signal future tendencies of local officials to abuse the system. The chance for abuse is even stronger at the state level.

The Holshouser administration is seeking to take the bite out of Big Brotherism charges leveled by critics of the new system. The result will probably be a proposal for a special commission to have strict supervision of the computer information system.

Such a commission makes good sense—not only for the crime information system, but for all governmental computer activities.

A Special Body

Present administration thinking points in the direction of a totally independent and non-partisan computer commission appointed by the governor, with the safeguard that terms be staggered so that no governor in office will be able to name a majority to control the board.

Such a commission should have three primary functions:

- To set top-level policy on

INSIDE REPORT Conflict In Quick Ruling

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Secret hopes within the Supreme Court of avoiding any 5 to 4 decision on which ailing Justice William O. Douglas might cast the tiebreaking vote are conflicting with the necessity for a quick ruling on the federal election law.

Although no subject is more taboo among Douglas's eight colleagues on the high court, it is known that the court's widely shared desire is to delay cases on which his vote might be decisive. Many close cases now before the court could simply be delayed, no matter what the inconvenience or unfairness to litigants.

But not so with the federal election law, revolutionizing the financing of American politics. The court is under a specific mandate from Congress to rule on its constitutionality with "the greatest possible expedition." Indeed, on Nov. 10, the court will hear arguments for a full day — the longest time allotted a single case in years.

That means no delays, even if Douglas's vote would decide one or more of the issues, each to be ruled on judges under such a law would be a retroactive application. Thus, most legal scholars rule the proposal out as a way to test Douglas's competence.

That puts the court and the nation at the mercy of Bill Douglas's own whim.

When asked recently whether he might retire, Douglas replied that "The thought has never crossed my mind." With 36 years on the high court (longer than any other Justice in history), many politicians think Douglas intends to stay there until after the 1976 election in hopes of a new Democratic President naming a liberal replacement. That would assure the closely-divided court from swinging strongly conservative.

So, say legal scholars close to the Supreme Court, only an act of God can prevent a Justice of doubtful competence from casting probably swing votes on the constitutionality of the election law, thereby shaping the American Political process of the future.

Red Ink Republicans

The Republican National Committee, once a rare model of fiscal responsibility in politics, is in danger of dipping so deeply into red ink that its 145 staffers may be given a Scrooge-like Christmas this year: a layoff that could last throughout December.

This situation was fed murmurs of complaint inside the party against Mary Louise Smith, beginning her second year as President

Strength For Today

WHEN EVERYTHING BECOMES SACRED

"In that day shall there be upon the bells of the horses, holiness unto the Lord, and every pot in Jerusalem and Judah shall be holy unto the Lord of Hosts.

This statement is from the prophecy of Zechariah. It was the ancient seer's way of saying that in the day of spiritual renewal toward which he looked and about which he prophesied, every common thing would be lifted up to heights of grandeur and significance. In that

"Oh, no-no! I can't pull you out, but I'd like to take this opportunity to wish you bon voyage!"

By CROSBY S. NOYES New Intelligence Era

WASHINGTON—These are hard times for the intelligence community. To judge from the expressions of horror and shock from our liberal legislators, we are back in the era of intelligence-gathering which held that "gentlemen don't read other people's mail."

Of course, it's perfectly O.K. for private citizens to steal secret government documents and deliver them by the grateful to sympathetic newspapers. But let the government be accused of reading the mail or listening to the phone calls of a few people suspected of being security risks or involved in the international drug traffic, and the foundations of our fundamental civil liberties are held to be in deadly peril.

It is very fashionable these days to be against any intelligence-gathering activity. It is even fashionable to be against national security. Everything of this sort is automatically related to the excesses of the Nixon administration in the Watergate affair. We are well on the way to a kind of reverse McCarthyism in which the most elementary activities of the various security agencies are denounced as deep-dyed plots against individual freedom.

In this I suspect there is a large element of hypocrisy and political miscalculation. Americans may deplore the need for government snooping on the activities of their fellow-citizens. But most would also recognize the legitimacy of mail interception and phone taps in cases involving national security, kidnapping or organized crime.

It is hard to contend—as some liberals do—that security of communications is a constitutional right guaranteed to all citizens. From its inception, the telephone has been the most

Other Editors Say Gross Comparison

(Jacksonville Daily News)

Spain's execution of five terrorists is a "savagery" that has been condemned by the civilized, democratic leaders of Europe, says Prof. Donald Hindley of Brandeis University's department of politics.

But what of America's leaders? he asks in an impassioned letter to The New York Times. "The public silence of President Ford and Secretary Kissinger during the torture, military trials and executions must fill us with disgust and shame."

We are now celebrating the Bicentennial of the American Revolution, he notes. The American colonists were compelled to resort to force, including rather large-scale killing, in order to free themselves from a despotism gently benign in comparison with Spain's "militarized thuggery." Thus, he claims, today's young Spanish "freedom fighters" deserve our understanding and support.

If comparisons are odious, this is one of the most odious we have seen in a long time.

It is one of the glories of the American Revolution that, unlike almost all others history records, it was unstained by terrorism. The colonists resorted to force against armed soldiers in the field, who were well able to defend themselves, not against innocent civilians — of whom more than a score have been murdered in Spain this year, along with the assassinations of a dozen or so policemen.

If the rebelling colonists had practiced indiscriminate murder of civilians and royal authorities, the British would have been as justified in executing them as the Spanish today, despite the distaste all lovers of democracy have for the regime in that country.

To put Spain's terrorists in a class with America's revolutionary heroes is not only a gross libel against the latter. It makes one wonder what kind of ivory tower some of our presumably intelligent college professors inhabit.

Indian Woman Lawyer

By KAY MCCARTHY
OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)

Patricia Paddley Horse is the first known fullblood Indian woman to be admitted to the Oklahoma bar.

Mrs. Horse, a Kiowa, looks upon her combined role as a woman, an Indian and an attorney with "a combination of pride and a slight hesitancy on my part."

"It's not that widely accepted yet," she said. "I have friends that have yet to congratulate me."

Some Indians believe she sold out to the white establishment by becoming a lawyer. She feels no betrayal of her race.

"I'm fullblood and I can do with it what I want," she said. "I can speak Kiowa, I can eat all the Indian dishes and I can fix them."

"I sit here and think, did that piddly girl that went to Washita (elementary) school, did she really go that far?" Mrs. Horse said, leaning back in her chair to gaze at her University of Oklahoma law degree and the recently won state bar association certificate on her office wall.

"What is being an Indian? Is being an Indian going out on the plains and hunting buffalo?"

Despite occasional criticism, the articulate, outgoing lawyer is swamped with calls and visits at her office at the Indian Affairs Commission. When she returns home to Anadarko, Okla., people with problems stop her in stores and on the street to ask for legal help.

Mrs. Horse, now 36 and a mother of four, married a few days after her 1956 graduation from Anadarko High School.

"Everybody in my high school graduating class was engaged, and I was, too," she said. "Twelve years went by before I got to start my education."

One day she walked into her job as an accounting clerk at the Bureau of Indian Affairs at Anadarko and thought, "Pat, you are stuck here for life. You have no future."

She quit, then enrolled at the University of Sciences and Arts at Chickasha. She went there in the morning, worked at the BIA in the afternoon and attended night classes at Southwestern State University at Weatherford.

The economic war of the League of Nations against Italy steadily gained strength today.

The meeting of the League's sanctions staff announced 36 nations have already agreed to participate.

The League gave approval to two economic sanctions: the "buy nothing from Italy" boycott and the prohibition against the exporting of certain products to Italy.

Tobacco prices continued above the parity price here yesterday as the season's total sales passed 46 million pounds with more than $10 million paid out to farmers.

With the shortening of the days, the closing hour of the daily sales has been set at 4:30, cutting short the amount of tobacco handled daily. Yesterday's average price was $21.50 per hundred pounds.

Confidence Is Less Evident

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — During the few weeks immediately preceding President Ford's statement that the federal government would not intervene to forestall a New York City default, the nation's municipal bond market had been rebounding.

While confidence in the continuation of the improving trend still exists, even if the New York City financial predicament worsens, it is less evident now than it was a week ago.

Through much of this year the market had been badly depressed by what dealers said was a ripple effect emanating from New York, but gradually it was shaking off that fear.

Interest rates paid by municipalities were declining. The value of their bonds was improving. A rally was under way.

To some experienced bondsmen, this suggested investors had evaluated the market and concluded that New York's plight might be segregated rather than interpreted as a symbol of general municipal weakness.

While the President's decision might have worsened New York's situation, some municipal bond authorities still believe the greatest damage to other cities might already have taken place, and that further damage will be relatively light.

Nobody can be certain, however, especially since a fresh consideration has been tossed into the equation in the form of a presidential suggestion that bankruptcy laws be changed to enable cities to more easily obtain court protection.

A plausible consequence of such an eventuality would be to reduce the marketability of bonds holding less than the highest ratings.

Whatever ensues, there is unanimous agreement among bondsmen that the general deterioration of confidence in bonds up to about three or four weeks ago has cost cities and towns throughout the country many millions of dollars this year.

Whatever direction the market takes from now on, however, events of the past three weeks have shown that investment money can become available even though conditions might be less than ideal.

Despite the New York City problems, some good news de-

She graduated in two and a half years, the only woman with a major in economics.

While working at a district attorney's office for a college requirement one summer, she decided to study law.

"It was the most fascinating period of my life," she said. "No one pays any attention to what goes on in the courthouse until they are in trouble. I didn't even know what to do with a traffic ticket."

Mrs. Horse applied for an Albuquerque, N. M., summer program for Indian law students. Officials told her she first must be accepted by a law school.

She won that acceptance from the University of Oklahoma, then went to Albuquerque for the summer and received a scholarship.

She said she almost failed her first year in law school because she was commuting from Anadarko, about 50 miles from Norman. After a long talk with her children, now aged 19, 15 and 12, she moved to Norman, leaving them with their mother.

She and her husband divorced while she was in law school. In her final year there, her mother died.

"I seriously considered quitting law school," she said. "I had taken so much, and she was going to be the one to be so proud of me."

armed, the officials said, and a dusk-to-dawn curfew has been imposed in El Aaiun, the capital. The colonial government has said it fears "terrorist attacks" by the Marxist Polisario Front, which wants independence for the Colorado-size territory.

Civilians have already been evacuated from Smara, a small town in the east, and are being prepared for evacuation from El Aaiun and Villa Cisneros, in the south.

Women and children will be flown to the Canary Islands, off the coast of Africa, during the first week of November. The men and household possessions follow by ship the next week, with the operation to be completed by Nov. 15.

Spanish owners of stores and other commercial establishments have been promised compensation from the government for closing down.

The government is picking up the entire check for the evacuation.

Morocco, Mauritania and Algeria have sent cabinet ministers to Madrid to work out an agreement for the disposition of the Spanish Sahara. Morocco and Mauritania want to divide the territory, claiming historic ties with it, while Algeria wants an independent Sahara which it thinks it could dominate through the Polisario Front.

Moroccan officials say the Spanish government has agreed to transfer the territory to Morocco and Mauritania. insecure means of private communication. Almost everyone over the age of 30 has lived in a community of party lines where every conversation was assumed to be monitored and in which the telephone operator was always the best-informed gal in town. In every foreign country, the tapping of resident foreigners is automatically expected.

A few years ago, I remember calling Lyndon Johnson's presidential assistant McGeorge Bundy at the White House with an indiscreet question. "Surely," said Bundy, "You can't expect an answer to that—especially over the telephone."

Much the same goes for the sanctity of the mails as an inviolable constitutional right of every American citizen. Many of those now leading the protest against the intelligence services spent plenty of disagreeable hours, as officers in the American Army in World War II, reading the letters of their own enlisted men—a duty made the more distasteful by the presumption that officers' mail was uncensored.

True, we are not in a state of war today. But the principle that the privacy of communication is subordinate to the requirements of national security—and presumably also the war against organized crime in this country—would not be seriously disputed by a great majority of American citizens.

The conflict between the rights of the individual and the rights of society, represented by a democratically elected government, is not exactly new. What is essential today is that these differing—and not always easily compatible—rights be redefined in a way which will protect honest citizens (by legal rather than political definition) without compromising the right of the state to defend itself. It is one of the more urgent tasks of the post-Watergate period.

BANK JOB—Workmen for the past several days have found it difficult to operate on the old Wachovia Bank building on Evans Street. They have been chipping away at the cement and brick front of the old structure as part of a project to remodel the building for another tenant. Cement cutting saws, electrically powered chisels—even pneumatic jack-hammers—have been used on the thick front wall of the old building, but have had a rough time cutting the masonry. "Sidewalk superintendents" who have watched the progress of the demolition project say the building was constructed to prevent bank robberies. These who have been chipping away at the building agree. A Touch Of Winter Is Coming To Carolinas

By The Associated Press
A touch of winter is coming to North Carolina. Highs today and Friday will be in the 50s and 60s. Cold air from Canada is spilling over the eastern United States. The leading edge of this frigid air mass moved from the North Carolina mountains to the coast during the night. This cold front will be offshore by mid-morning. It will be followed by northerly winds 20 to 30 miles an hour, and high in gusts. Small-craft advisories are in effect.

Only a few showers occurred along the front. At Asheville the rainfall was five hundredths of an inch. Hickory had one-third of an inch. All other points reported less than measurable amounts.

Considerable cloudiness prevailed Wednesday ahead of the front. However, many places reported sunshine from time to time through breaks in the overcast. Temperatures continued well above seasonal levels. Highs were mostly in the low 70s. Charlotte topped the list with 77.

Cloudiness persisted into the night. But it began dissipating rapidly and the cold, dry air moved in behind the front. At daybreak, cloudy skies were only over eastern North Carolina. There were mostly clear skies over the western and central counties. Temperatures at dawn were in the upper 50s and low 60s in the east, but were falling rapidly in the clear area.

The full effects of the colder air will be readily noticeable today and tonight. Gusts northerly winds will put a sharp chill in the air today. High readings will range from the mid 50s in the mountains to the 60s along the coast.

The winds will diminish considerably tonight. They will continue from the north and northeast about 10 miles per hour in most places. This will reduce the chances of frost in most areas. Lows will range from the low and mid 50s along the coast to the low and mid 30s in the western and central counties. Some 20s are likely in the mountains. Thus, there is a risk of a freeze over inland sections tonight. A ridge of high pressure will be over North Carolina Friday keeping mostly sunny skies over the state. Highs will be mostly in the upper 50s and low 60s during the afternoon.

Convicted For False Records

MARSHALL, N. C. (AP) — Larry S. Plemmons, a former principal, and five teachers have been convicted in Madison County District Court of falsifying pupil enrollment and attendance records.

Each was fined $50 and assessed court costs Wednesday. Each also faces possible revocation of teaching certificates.

Three other teachers among the nine tried in the consolidated case — Martha Kirkpatrick, Lois C. Moore and Lucille R. Chandler — were found innocent by Judge Robert A. Lacey of Newland.

Similar charges against Mrs. Jewel Church, were carried over for trial at a later date.

Mrs. Church, principal at Hot Springs Elementary School, recently obtained a temporary injunction against the Madison County Board of Education barring it from discharging her from her principal's position.

A State Bureau of Investigation agent testified that several defendants admitted the padding, saying they had been instructed by Mrs. Church, their principal, to make sure their class enrollment did not fall from the previous year.

When asked by the judge why a teacher would want to pad attendance records, defense attorney Lamar Guder said that because teacher allotments are decided on the basis of attendance, high enrollments would prevent the loss of teaching jobs.

Professor Proposes New Agency

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A North Carolina biology professor has proposed that the federal government establish a department of natural resources to oversee development and conservation of the nation's resources.

Addressing the Presidential Public Forum on Domestic Policy, Dr. Paul Lutz of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro said Wednesday his proposed new department should be established in order to make wiser use of the nation's resources.

Lutz, a native of Hickory, acknowledged that such a move would require a reorganization of existing departments and services, but he said a better job could be done with a single agency watching over resources.

He also recommended that President Ford re-establish the position of science advisor at the presidential level.

"A spokesman with cabinet-level status is needed to interpret and encourage conservation measures to the president and to other cabinet members," said Lutz.

Vice President Nelson Rockefeller invited Lutz to participate in the forum and served as chairman of the session.

The forum was attended by three Cabinet members: David Matthews, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare; Mrs. Carla Hill, secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development; and Secretary of the Treasury William Simon.

Pitt Polling Places Listed For Nickels For Know How

The Pitt County Nickels for Know-How Referendum Committee has released the list of polling places for the Nov. 25 vote.

Mrs. David H. Smith, Pitt County referendum committee chairman, said 21 polling places have been established in the county.

The places are as follows: Ayden Tractors, Inc., King Bros. Farm Center, Inc., Ayden; Stokes & Lane Store, Rt. 2, Ayden; K. M. Crawford's, Bell Arthur; Tri-County Feed Mills, Bethel; Belvoir General Merchandise, Belvoir; W. W. Wooten, Falkland; Farmville Hardware Co., & Morgan Grain & Fertilizer Co., Farmville; Fountain Milling Co., and R. A. Gardner, Fountain; Smith-Douglass, Grifton; Hendrix-Barnhill, Inc., Fred Webb, Inc., ASCA Office, and Agricultural Extension Office, all of Greenville; Gardner and Travis Store, Chicod; Tripp's Store, Black Jack; J. P. Davenport's Store, Pactolus; Stokes & Congleton Store, Stokes; and Wooten and Rouse Grocery, Rt. 2, Ayden.

Mrs. Smith explained that any user of feed and fertilizer will be eligible to vote in the referendum. At stake will be an assessment program through which users of feed and fertilizer agree to provide a nickel per ton for agricultural research and education.

The money is collected at the manufacturer level by the N.C. Department of Agriculture and turned over to the N.C. Agricultural Foundation at North Carolina State University.

About $170,000 is collected annually in this manner.

The "nickels" program has been in effect since 1951. The vote on November 25 will determine the fate of the program for another six years.

Damages Heavy In Two Local Wrecks

More than $2,000 damage resulted from two collisions investigated here yesterday by Greenville Police.

Officers reported a mishap occurred at 7:35 a.m. on Memorial Drive 700 feet North of the Fifth Street intersection involving cars driven by Bettie Windham Crawford of Bell Arthur, Ricky David Sutton of 703B Church St. and Rebecca Evans Cherry of Route 5, Greenville.

Damage was estimated by officers at $1,000 to the Cherry car, $375 to the Sutton auto and $35 to the Crawford car.

No charges were reported. Cars operated by Sidney Venable Carraway Jr. of 112 Azalea Dr. and Sharon Smith

Ricks of 111 Hillside Dr. collided with 8:10 p.m. on Elm Street, 726 feet North of the 14th Street intersection, according to police. Officers set damage at $75 to the Carraway car and $600 to the Ricks vehicle.

Again, no charges were reported.

Elect 75-76 Officers

Residents of Tyler Dormitory at East Carolina University have elected new dormitory officers for the 1975-76 academic year.

Newly-elected coordinator is senior student Anna Marie Finley of Berwyn, Pa. Assistant coordinator is Cyndi Towner of Milnerton, South Africa, a freshman.

Susan Sherman of Burgaw is the dormitory's new secretary-treasurer.

The new officers will direct the planning of evening programs and other activities in the dormitory during the year, and will assist Tyler Dormitory Administrator Rebecca Eure.

Student Falls Nine Stories

CULLOWHEE, N.C. (AP)—A 20-year-old sophomore, Lutisha Rose Gay of Zebulon near Raleigh, fell from the eighth floor of the nine-story Scott Dormitory at Western Carolina University Wednesday night. She is in the intensive care unit of Memorial Mission Hospital in Asheville.

The public information office quoted university security police as saying that after Miss Gay fell 75 feet to the ground from a window in her room, a male student was found asleep in the room, apparently intoxicated. He was taken to the university infirmary to sleep it off. He was not charged.

Miss Gay's roommate was not present at the time, the public information office said.

To Cut State Budget Demos Say May Need To Recall Legislature

RALEIGH (AP) — Three top Democratic leaders agree that unless North Carolina's general fund tax collections show a sharp increase by early January the legislature should be called back prior to next May 3 to cut state spending.

The three, House Speaker James C. Greend, Speaker Pro

Tem Kitching Josey, and Rep. Liston Ramsey, D-Madison, chairman of the House Finance Committee, also pointed out that the state's Executive Budget Act empowers the governor and the Advisory Budget Commission to trim state spending as necessary to balance the budget without action by the legislature.

However, Gov. Jim Holshouser does not agree with estimates that the general fund budget is in danger of running into the red. The governor said in a recent speech that reports the general fund budget "will be in serious trouble by the end of this fiscal year are, at best, somewhat exaggerated."

The governor's comments came in the face of a revenue report which showed that general fund revenues showed an increase of only .91 per cent during the first quarter of this fiscal year. The legislature had counted on an increase of 9 per cent for this fiscal year. The governor pointed out that the legislature expected the revenue growth to be slow at first and much faster later on.

Green said that that there is no question but that the legislature will have to meet earlier than the scheduled May 3 "unless revenue figures for the second quarter are better than the first."

Green said he felt that an intelligent decision could be made by about Jan. 20.

"The first two months of the fiscal year, we came up approximately $28 million short of projections," Green said. "There was a further drop in September. We cannot go on with such an average as that."

Asked where he feels the budget could be cut, Green said he would want to meet with chairmen of legislation appropriations committees before answering that.

He noted that the last legislature cut recommendations of the governor and Advisory Budget Commission by $288 million last year in an effort to balance the budget.

"I don't feel the $288 million cuts were noticeable or painful," Green said. "I believe further cuts would be both noticeable and they would be painful."

"I think definitely the leadership of the legislature should not wait until May to do something if they see revenues are going to be substantially less than we anticipated," said Josey.

The doctors asked Dr. James G. Haughton, executive director of the commission, to reopen the deadlocked negotiations with the House Staff Association (HSA), representing the 500 striking doctors. They urged that four senior physicians be named as commission negotiators.

Meanwhile, the HSA said it would try to obey a court order limiting the number of pickets to three at each of the hospital's entrances.

Circuit Court Judge John O'Brien issued a temporary injunction ordering the doctors back to work, but union leaders vowed to defy the order. HSA spokesman Dr. Kevin Geraghy said the striking physicians are willing to go to jail if cited for contempt of court.

The physicians say they primarily want improved patient care but also are discussing wages, fringe benefits and union security. The hospital commission contends that patient care is not negotiable.

The doctors, who are paid $11,660 to $15,200 a year, have been offered increases ranging from $1,400 to $2,225.

Rift Develops In Hospital Bargaining

CHICAGO (AP) — A rift has developed between senior physicians and Cook County Hospital administrators on the handling of bargaining between striking doctors and the hospital's governing commission.

The strike, which entered its fourth day today, has forced 170 senior physicians to assume duties of striking residents and interns at the 1,500-bed hospital, one of the nation's largest.

Dr. Quentin Young, Department of Medicine chairman, and Dr. Jorge Prieto, Department of Family Practice chairman, Wednesday criticized the Hospital and Health Governing Commission for not allowing department chairmen to participate in the talks.

"We believe the governing commission is eager for a prompt resolution but we cannot hesitate to criticize their continued failure to accept what remains the one hope for the solution before irreparable damage is done," the two men said in a statement.

The doctors asked Dr. James G. Haughton, executive director of the commission, to reopen the deadlocked negotiations with the House Staff Association (HSA), representing the 500 striking doctors. They urged that four senior physicians be named as commission negotiators.

Meanwhile, the HSA said it would try to obey a court order limiting the number of pickets to three at each of the hospital's entrances.

Circuit Court Judge John O'Brien issued a temporary injunction ordering the doctors back to work, but union leaders vowed to defy the order. HSA spokesman Dr. Kevin Geraghy said the striking physicians are willing to go to jail if cited for contempt of court.

The physicians say they primarily want improved patient care but also are discussing wages, fringe benefits and union security. The hospital commission contends that patient care is not negotiable.

The doctors, who are paid $11,660 to $15,200 a year, have been offered increases ranging from $1,400 to $2,225.

Waste OK's Simpler

RALEIGH (AP)—Permission to discharge wastes into North Carolina's waterways has become simpler to get as the state has been given control over the issuing of permits, a state official said.

James E. Harrington, secretary of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources, said the federal Environmental Protection Agency has given the state full control over discharge permits. Since 1972, those seeking such permits had to apply to both the state and the federal governments, he said.

"This action to eliminate a dual system will save the taxpayers money, eliminate tremendous amounts of duplication and provide overall closer-to-home service to applicants and citizens of the state," he said.

In making the change in procedure, EPA Administrator Russell Train, said, "North Carolina has demonstrated great capability, patience and cooperation in the development of its permit program... I am optimistic that North Carolina will become a leader in the Southeast in the control of water pollution."

Harrington said the change doesn't mean standards have been relaxed.

Never Miss A School Class
NEWTON, N. J. (AP) — Nobody plays hooky at a school here.

It's the Survival School, which teaches people what to do in case of an emergency — earthquake, flood, avalanche, strike of truckers delivering food, etc.

The unique school is operated by a Mormon minister, Jack Chase. He says enrollment is always good and there is a waiting list. "Those enrolling never miss a class because they are anxious to learn about sprouting and grinding wheat, making yeast and bread, as well as dehydrating food so that it can be preserved for about a year with at least 85 per cent of its original nutritional value."

Sunday Flyers Are Not Alone

LOCK HAVEN, Pa. (AP) — Current general aviation studies of all flying except that done by commercial airlines show that the sky's the limit not only for the weekend hobbyist, but for many others.

According to Piper Aircraft Corp. here, nearly three-fourths of all private flight involves business, commercial, air taxi and commuter travel. One fourth is for personal transportation and proficiency testing and only 5 per cent is for sport.

Dispute Has Broken Out Over Investigation Of NSA

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dispute has broken out within the Senate intelligence committee over whether to make public some facts surrounding the National Security Agency's apparently unlawful interception of Americans' overseas communications.

Some details of Project Shamrock, a program in which at least three U.S. communications firms allowed NSA to make copies of overseas cables, already have been made public by a House subcommittee.

Chairman Frank Church, D-Ill., disagreed, saying Shamrock should be exposed because it no longer exists and because it involved "unlawful conduct that relates to domestic companies in this country."

Meanwhile, Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., said the panel's report on alleged CIA involvement in assassinations has been delayed while two new leads are explored. Schweiker said the new evidence involves two presidential administrations, but he declined to be more specific.

After public debate Wednesday, the panel decided in closed session to submit its proposed report on Shamrock to the NSA to allow the agency to determine if it would reveal intelligence gathering methods.

One of the group had a tooth pulled by the North Vietnamese, who called them "foreigners led to safety by the Liberation Army."

The Johnsons, the Philippses and Mrs. Mitchell were all working in Ban Me Thuot for the Christian Missionary Alliance of New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller were with the Wycliff Society, translating the Bible into the dialects of the Montagnard tribes.

Officers Elected
MAGGIE VALLEY — The 1975-76 officers of the North Carolina Association of Community College Public Information Officers were elected during the group's annual fall conference held at the Maggie Valley Country Club last week.

Joann MacMillan of Fayetteville Technical Institute was elected president of the organization. She succeeded Charlie Russell of Pitt Technical Institute. Other officers named include: Gary Melville, vice president; Stover Dunagan, secretary; Jackie Sumpter, treasurer; Johnna Everett, east director; Barbara Hardy, west director.

Hedgepeth To Preach
The Rev. Joseph Hedgepeth will preach Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at Warren Chapel F.W.B. Church.

The E. B. Williams Traveling Choir will also be present in addition to the pastor and members of Phillip Church of Christ.

Church said Shamrock was one of two questionable NSA activities the panel has uncovered. The other, NSA's monitoring by electronic means of the overseas communications of more than 1,600 Americans, was revealed Wednesday by NSA head Lt. Gen. Lew Allen Jr.

Providing the first official account of NSA eavesdropping activities, Allen told the panel that during a six-year period ending in 1973 the NSA intercepted and analyzed the overseas communications of Americans ranging from political dissidents to suspected narcotics traffickers. Names of those on the lists were provided by other government agencies, including the CIA, FBI, Secret Service, Defense Intelligence Agency and the now defunct Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

The other two Americans were Alan Ward and his wife, Ruth, both 68, of Riverside, Conn. They were kept in the hospital, Ward with cuts about the head and neck and his wife with cuts on the face and knee.

All the injured suffered cuts, bruises or shock. Seven of them were kept in the hospital overnight. The restaurant, the Trattoria Fiori on South Audley street, was wrecked. The bomb exploded just before 9:30 p.m. Wednesday.

THE "GOOD MORNING" MATTRESS — ALWAYS YOUR BEST

Rampants Chase Title Against Titans

Rose High School's Rampants travel to Wilson Friday night to face the Titans in a fateful game for both teams. A victory by the Rose eleven would sew up the Division I title, regardless of what might happen in the final game. A win for the Titans would give them a chance to grab off the berth, instead.

And, heaven forbid! A tie would really throw it into confusion, forcing the Rampants to win again next week.

Rose comes into the game with a 3-0 Division I record, while Wilson is 2-0-1, with the tie coming against Northern Nash.

Rose manhandled that same Northern Nash team this past week, 28-6, erasing one of the challengers to the title, the Rampants are attempting to defend.

That game was one of the better outings for the Rampants, but Coach Dave Bumgarner admits that all didn't go that smoothly. "We sputtered early on offense but we did do some things well. We ran our outside option well, and Doug's (Paschal) long run set up our first touchdowns. Jay Chenier's punt return gave us good position for our second one," the coach said.

Bumgarner added that the Rampants missed on a few things that could have broken it open early.

"Our punting game was a very significant factor in the win," Bumgarner said. "Henry Trevathan kept his cool under their rush and got the kicks away. He kicked well and they never got out of the hole in the first half." Trevathan's kicks usually kept the Knights pinned down inside their 20 during the half, and the defense did not allow a first down during the half.

"We got some good performances from some of the kids that hadn't performed that well for us," the coach said.

Led by Paschal, who rushed for 144 yards, including two touchdowns and a two-point conversion, Rose controlled the ball throughout the first half. Northern Nash came back in the second half to get its game going a little better, and eventually scored early in the final period.

Rose came back immediately, with the offense scoring and the defense adding a score right behind that.

Big Brewington Sparks Defense

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
When the college scouts walk through the gate at a Rose High School football game, you can be sure that they don't have to check their programs to find out who Number 86 is. They already know.

And before the night is over, they are generally licking their lips at the prospects of having Mike Brewington put his name on the dotted line of a grant-in-aid.

"Big Brew" is usually a man that the opposition doesn't walk to mess with, but by the time they hit the ground after carrying the ball, Brewington is usually one of those making the tackle.

"I don't think words can really express his value over the past three years," Coach Dave Bumgarner said of the 6-5, 210-pound senior. "His leadership is indicative of the type individual he is. He is an outstanding athlete, probably one of the best in the state this year."

Brewington's athletic history would seem to bear that up. Last year, as a three sport athlete at Rose, he played in three different State playoffs—football, basketball and baseball. And baseball captured the state championship.

Last week, against Northern Nash, Brewington said he didn't think the Knights had a chance.

"The game meant a lot to us. I'm a senior, and I've set a goal of winning the conference title again. Now we have the chance. Wilson will be ready for us, but I think we can hang in there and win it," he said.

Last year, Brew expressed his hope of playing a little more offense from the end position. This year, he's beginning to get some spot duty there. Against Bertie, he caught two long passes, one for a touchdown, and the other, a long gain that was called back by a penalty.

"I like offense, but I like defense better," he said. "I get to do more. On offense, you either block or go out for a pass. On defense, you get to move more. You have a chance to stop the man on every play. I like the contact."

If the Rampants should win their division in football, it will mean a fourth straight State playoff berth for a team he's been on in the last two years, but he doesn't feel that will be the end of it.

"I think we can get into the playoffs in basketball and baseball again too. We lost some people who will be missed, but we have the people back to do it."

"I think we'll be back in football too. We know how much these games (Wilson and Northeastern) mean. We've got some young dudes on the team who just think that it will happen regardless. We've been winning for three years now, and some of them feel like we're going to win no matter how we play. They're beginning to learn that you have to play to win."

While his athletic life takes up most of his time, Brewington enjoys fishing, especially with his father, assistant coach Jim Brewington. "I also like to work in his business," he added. "Big Jim" is the owner of University Seafood, and Mike spends a lot of time with the business.

"I want to major in business management in college. I enjoy working in the business and I want to keep it up."

Naturally, a football career might also beckon. Brew wants to play college football, and from the looks of the scouts, it's likely that he'll be out there for at least another four years.

Aycock Takes 22-14 Victory

KINSTON—E. B. Aycock Junior High rolled to a 22-14 victory over Kinston Junior High yesterday.

The win boosted the Aycock record to 4-2 on the season.

Kinston built up a 14-12 lead after one half of play, but the Jaguars shut them out in the second half, while scoring 10 points of their own.

Aycock scored first, as Bobby Morehead scored on a 20-yard run. Kinston came back to tie it up, however, scoring from about the 15.

In the second period, Aycock again pushed ahead, 12-6, when Reggie Selby returned a kickoff 85-yards for the touchdown.

Then, later in the period, Kinston gained the lead with a 30-yard pass, then picked up a two-point conversion for a 14-12 halftime advantage.

Aycock came back with Curtis Little going over from the one and Ronnie Chapman running the conversion. That put Aycock up, 20-14. They closed out the scoring in the final period as Ron Butler tackled the Kinston quarterback in the end zone for a safety.

Andre Smith led the Aycock defense, making 14 unassisted tackles.

Aycock returns to action next Thursday, hosting Bertie.

West In Flag Win

West Greenville romped to a 27-6 victory over Elmhurst yesterday in the Flag Football League.

West Greenville got things going in the first period with two touchdowns. Chris McLawhorn scored on a seven yard pass from Keith Phillips and McLawhorn added the PAT. Vincent Murphy scored the second touchdown on a 50-yard run, with McLawhorn again scoring the extra point.

West Greenville added another score in the second period with McLawhorn going 27 yards. William Battle added the PAT for a 21-0 halftime lead.

The final West Greenville score came in the last period as Murphy raced 50 yards. Elmhurst also got its lone score in the quarter, with Donny Daughridge scoring from two yards out.

Tony Clemmons and Donnel Speel led the West Greenville defense, both picking off passes. Jule Budacz and Marshall Rand led Elmhurst, with Budacz intercepting a pass.

Kinston Takes Win

KINSTON—Kinston's junior high school girls' tennis team rolled to a 7-0 victory over the Greenville juniors yesterday.

While Greenville failed to win a match, they did force one extension, in the number two doubles, where it took 16 sets to decide the winners.

Kim Westmoreland (K) defeated Caroline Bruton, 8-3.

Becky Nix (K) defeated Pam Talbert, 8-6.

Catherine Johnson (K) defeated Jan Stoughton, 8-4.

Jennifer Woolees, 9-7.

relatively healthy. Howard Hill and Jay Chenier both suffered slight sprains, but both are expected to be ready to go Friday night.

"All the chips are on the table this week," Bumgarner said. "It has come down to whether we can win this week and wrap it up and not have to depend on anyone else to help us. It will depend on how well we react."

The coach said he expects emotion to play a big role for both teams. "We know that we can wrap it up if we win, and they know that unless they win, they probably won't have a chance at a post-season berth."

Bumgarner expects the Wilson offense to stick mainly to the ground. "They threw early, but that was before their quarterback got hurt. Since then, they've begun to run the ball more."

Guy Ferrell, son of Athletic Director Gilbert Ferrell, has assumed the role of quarterback, and although the Titans have had their problems putting points on the board, they have moved the ball well.

Two of their running backs, Ted Bisette and Randy Edwards, have both run for over 500 yards so far. "They are doing a good job of moving it," Bumgarner said of the offense. "They run an offense similar to that of Northern Nash, but they probably won't take their quarterback outside or pass as much."

The Titans have had their troubles scoring. They have just 89 points in eight games, slightly over an 11 point average. But 42 of those came against Bertie, winless team. Three times they have been held scoreless, but on two of those occasions, they also held their opponent scoreless. Aside from the Bertie game, they scored just 14 points in conference play, seven each against Northern Nash and Northeastern.

"Their defense is their biggest weapon," Bumgarner said. "They've done a good job of holding their opponents down. Northeastern was able to move the ball on them, but could get only a field goal. They did get down to the three before time ran out at the end of the game."

The defense is one aspect of the game that Bumgarner is worried about. "I don't think we can allow it to become a defensive struggle and win," the coach said. "We have to have our offense move the ball and control it as much as possible. I like for our defense to play as little as possible, and to keep the offense out there as much as we can."

A win in the game would not only assure the Rampants of a repeat of their 1974 championship in the league, it would wrap up a playoff berth—one of two the league gets. But should Wilson win, Rose would have to beat Northeastern next week, to get in the playoffs, and would have to hope for a Rocky Mount upset of the Titans, for a Rose championship.

Kickoff is set for 8 p.m.

Bolding Is No. 1

East Carolina's Jim Bolding has jumped into first place in the nation in pass interceptions following his two against the University of North Carolina Saturday.

Bolding now has seven interceptions on the year, in as many games, a 1.0 average. Ken Gregory of Columbia is also averaging 1.0 per game, but has played in just five games.

East Carolina's opponent, Furman brings in the nation's number four interceptor in Mark Gordon, who has grabbed off six in seven games, an 0.86 average.

Furman also has the nation's number 14 kickoff return artist in Jimmy Kiser, who is averaging 23.8 yards per return.

East Carolina has named its co-captains for this Saturday night's 7 p.m. game in Ficklen Stadium.

Heading the offensive unit will be Ken Strayhorn and Wilbur Williamson, while Cary Godette and Bolding will captain the defense.

The Pirates will be seeking to wrap up a fourth straight winning season against the Paladins; who come into the game with a 4-4 overall mark. East Carolina is 5-3.

Lifting Blackout Cost NFL $9 Million

By TOM SEPPY
AP Sports Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle said today National Football League clubs lost more than $9 million in revenues during the 1974 and 1975 seasons as a result of the lifting of the television blackout on sold-out home games. Rozelle said a decrease in season ticket sales meant lost revenue of more than $8.4 million, while the remainder of the losses came from game program sales and the value of radio rights. He also told Congress the antitrust law produced more than 1 million no-shows — ticket purchasers who do not attend — last season which, the NFL believes, will result in a decrease in future ticket sales. In testimony prepared for the House communications subcommittee, Rozelle said season ticket sales by NFL member clubs had shown a steady annual increase prior to 1974, the first full year in which the antitrust law went into effect. "The number of season ticket sales decreased for the first time in NFL history in the 1974 season, the first season following the enactment (of the law)," he said. "The trend downward has continued to the 1975 season."

Rozelle said there has been a total decrease of 150,674 season ticket sales since 1973, 55 percent of the total decrease coming from teams which had regularly televised home games during the 1973 and 1974 seasons.

NFL member clubs who televised three or more of their games in 1973 and 1974 accounted for a decline in season ticket sales of $7,908," he said. "The net result is that fully 93 percent of the decrease in season ticket sales comes from those member clubs who were required to televise some or all of their home games locally during the 1973 and 1974 seasons."

Rep. Torbert H. Macdonald, D-Mass., chairman of the subcommittee, and Rozelle are at odds over the impact of the measure, which Macdonald wants to make permanent. Macdonald said no one has shown that the law has done any damage.

Don Ruck, vice president of the National Hockey League, and Simon Gourdine, deputy commissioner of the National Basketball Association, testified Wednesday in opposition to making the law permanent. Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn is to appear Friday.

Ruck said, "There is not a shadow of a doubt that this will do financial harm. We have enough problems."

Gourdine, appearing for NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien, urged the legislation be extended for no longer than three years to gather more evidence on the effects of the law.

Macdonald's legislation would make permanent a law prohibiting home games of professional football, baseball, basketball and hockey from being blacked out on local TV if they are sold out 72 hours in advance. In addition, the bill would change the 72-hour cutoff for post-season baseball, basketball and hockey games to 24 hours.

A similar bill which would extend the law for three years was introduced in the Senate last week by John O. Pastore, chairman of the Senate communications subcommittee.

During Wednesday's hearings, Macdonald repeated several times that the sports leagues "have not factually indicated any harm has come from the legislation."

"Not only has the public benefited by television but so have the sports," he said. "TV revenues to pro sports have escalated."

Giants' Montefusco Is Named As National League Rookie Of Year

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — John "The Count" Montefusco, who not only talked but also played a good game of baseball this year with the San Francisco Giants, was named the National League's Rookie of the Year today.

Because the cocky hurler put his money arm where his mouth was, the Baseball Writers Association of America accorded him top rookie honors ahead of Montreal's brilliant young outfielder-catcher, Gary Carter.

"I really think this is great," said the swaggering, 25-year-old pitcher after learning that he had outscored Carter 12-9 in the voting. "It's the biggest thing that's happened to me in my whole life. I've been shooting for it all year."

"I want to be the best pitcher in the majors and this is the start of it. This caps off the whole year beautifully."

Three other players received one vote each from the 24-man BBWAA board, two from each of the National League cities. They were Montreal third baseman Larry Parrish, second baseman Manny Trillo of the Chicago Cubs and pitcher Rawly Eastwick of the Cincinnati Reds.

As a high school shortstop, Montefusco was ignored in the free agent draft by all 24 major league teams. But he was signed by Giant scout Buddy Kerr following the draft in 1973 and went on to post a 9-2 record at Decatur after Kerr converted him into a pitcher.

After winning 15 games in the minors in 1974, Montefusco joined the Giants late in the season and won three games for them. The hard-throwing right-hander established himself as a strikeout artist in spring training this year and went on to become San Francisco's bread-and-butter pitcher with a 15-9 record and 215 strikeouts.

His victories were the most ever by a Giant rookie and his strikeout total narrowly missed tying the first-year record for pitchers established by Grover Cleveland Alexander, who had 227 in 1911.

Montefusco, a New Jersey native transplanted to Belmont, Cal., was known for braggadocio throughout his freshman year. His own cheerleader, Montefusco became a quick favorite with Giant fans not only for his baseball talents but also for his colorful, boastful behavior.

Among Montefusco's most euphoric moments was a strikeout of Johnny Bench, Cincinnati's All-Star catcher. "That was my 200th strikeout," Montefusco said at the time and made sure to remember it by sending the momentous baseball back home to his mother.

Montefusco had four shutouts, pitched 244 innings and wound up with a 2.88 earned run average, seventh best in the league.

TCU Coach, After 17 Losses, Not Worried

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer
FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Normally, you'd expect wolves to howl, heads to roll and fans to revolt. But such is not the case at Texas Christian University, where the Horned Frogs have lost 17 games in a row, the longest current losing string in major college football.

"The wolves aren't at the door," a TCU official said this week. "If anything, it would appear that Coach Jim Shofner's job is secure."

"Even though we've lost 17 in a row, it's not something that happened when Shofner got here," said Dick Lowe, a Fort Worth oilman and one of the university's major supporters. "It's something that had been building up for a long time ... he came into a bad situation and it wasn't one he could turn around in two weeks."

With a little luck, he said, TCU could become competitive next year. But, as Dallas columnist Blackie Sherrod wrote, "If it were not for bad luck, TCU would have no luck at all."

Some trace the misfortunes to 1966, when a heart attack felled Abe Martin, whose teams won the Southwest Conference in 1955, 1958 and 1959.

From his hospital bed, Martin chose assistant Fred Taylor as his successor. Some said it was a decision based more on loyalty than objectivity. Whatever, Taylor's teams, riddled with key injuries, failed to win and he was replaced after four years by Jim Pittman.

Pittman (from Tulane) was a proven, successful major college coach that was obtainable," said Lowe. "It was a very rational, well thought-out decision."

But Pittman died of a heart attack midway through his first season. Under the circumstances, TCU had little choice but to elevate his top assistant, Billy Tohill, to the head job.

Tohill's freewheeling style did not fit TCU's image and, it is said, he would have been fired if again tragedy hadn't intervened.

Tohill nearly lost his life in a car accident. "We had to give him another year, but things didn't get any better," said one source. "The program went downhill and we had to make a change."

"We wanted to stay in football and we wanted to do it on a big-time basis. And we wanted a person with impeccable character, integrity and personal morals."

Shofner, then a San Francisco 49er assistant, was a logical choice. He had been an all-conference running back at TCU in the mid-1950s and later spent a year at the Dallas Theological Seminary.

He accepted the job in December 1973 and it was the following year, in the Frogs' season opener, that TCU last won a football game, beating the University of Texas-Arlington 12-3.

Before the season ended, Kent Waldrep, a popular and talented halfback, suffered a broken neck, dealing TCU more personal tragedy.

"Last year is gone and there's no use dwelling in the past," Shofner said. "We're looking to the future."

When the 1975 campaign opened with a 24-7 loss to UT-Arlington, some speculated that TCU could not survive as a major college contender. "Regardless of the losing streak, we're right where we expected to be for the most part of the year," said Shofner. "The team has a reasonable, sensible goal, which is to show improvement each week. . . ."

Dot Aldridge Has Hole-In-One

Greenville Golf and Country Club member Dot Aldridge recorded a hole-in-one while playing with friends at the Eden Golf and Country Club.

The ace came on the 153-yard par three hole. Mrs. Aldridge used a three-wood for the shot over water. Playing with her were Julia Painter, Irene Bircher and Mable Blount.

Two Greenville golfers have turned in best rounds. They are Ed Leahy, a 44, and Louise Webb, a 39. Both were recorded on the front side.

Helen Bach captured first place in the Ladies Day event last week. A "No Alibi" Tournament was held, with the worst hole thrown out. Mrs. Bach had a 25. Second place went to Peggy Barnes and Tee Ficklen, each with 26; while Sara West and Clara Shackell tied for third with 27. Tied for fourth with 28 were Dorothy Wooses, Betty Akin, Harriette White and Putt Carter.

The junior girls championship was won by Martha West in the 11 and over division. Second place went to Liza Taylor. In the 10-and-under division, Katherine Land took first place in a put-off

Erving Sparks Nets To Win

By The Associated Press
Billy Paultz came back to New York and found no northern hospitality upon his return.

The former New York Net said it was "distracting" playing in his old stomping grounds — but the most distracting thing was seeing Julius Erving on the other team for a change.

"It's one thing playing with him and saying he's tough and one thing playing against him and saying he's tough," said Paultz after watching the spectacular Erving lead the Nets to a 112-99 American Basketball Association victory over the Spurs Wednesday night.

Erving scored 39 points on 18 of 25 shooting from the floor but that was only a part of his extraordinary efforts. He also blocked five shots, made five steals, grabbed seven rebounds and had three assists.

"When I saw how tough he was at the very beginning, I knew we were going to be in for a long night," said Paultz.

In the other ABA games, the Indiana Pacers beat the San Diego Sails 105-100; the Spirits of St. Louis whipped the Virginia Squires 104-100 in overtime and the Denver Nuggets stopped the Utah Stars 122-113.

Erving had his hand in just about every phase of the game, leading the Nets to their third victory in four starts and into first place of the ABA East. The Nets took the lead for good early and continued to pour it on.

They shook off a late San Antonio comeback threat with a six-point burst that put them into an 85-71 lead in the third period. The closest the Spurs, 2-2, got after that was six points.

When the Spurs came back to 91-85 on a jump shot by George Gervin, Rich Jones hit a basket and Brian Taylor made a three-point play to pull the Nets away.

Jones finished with 22 points and Taylor had 15. Gervin led the Spurs with 31 points while Larry Kenon contributed 24 and Billy Paultz 19. Swen Nater had 20 rebounds for the winners.

Pacers 105, Sails 100
Indiana's Billy Knight and Billy Keller scored 25 points apiece and the Pacers turned back a San Diego fourth-quarter comeback to beat the Sails, Knight, a 6-foot-6, second-year forward who had averaged nearly 40 points in Indiana's first three games of the season, pumped in 17 in the first period as the Pacers jumped off to a lead they never lost.

Spirits 104, Virginia 100
Freddie Lewis, Gus Gerard and rookie Rudy Hackett each scored four points in overtime as the Spirits of St. Louis downed Virginia. Lewis had hit a free throw to tie the game at 92 with three seconds remaining in regulation play after the Spirits had blown a 19-point third-quarter lead.

Nuggets 122, Stars 113
David Thompson, Dan Issel and Ralph Simpson combined for 72 points to lead Denver over Utah. The game was marred by a league record of 83 personal fouls. Six technicals were called against the Denver bench, resulting in the ejection of Coach Larry Brown and assistant Doug Moe.

Lanier Breaks Out Of Slump

By The Associated Press
Bob Lanier went from a slump into a streak all in one night.

After shooting inconsistently in his first two games, Detroit's big man could hardly miss Wednesday night — and the Los Angeles Lakers had to pay for it.

Lanier scored 44 points to outshine Kareem-Abdul Jabbar and lead the Pistons to a 112-99 National Basketball Association victory over the Los Angeles Lakers.

"I've been shooting horribly," said Lanier. "I only had 12 of 29 the first game and 7 of 18 the next ... I practiced yesterday and shot horribly. I just started hitting."

Lanier scored 14 points in the first period and 13 in the last to help the Pistons pull away from the Lakers before a capacity crowd of 11,176 in Detroit. The Pistons star also had 16 rebounds.

"That's probably the best I've ever seen him play," said Los Angeles Coach Bill Sharman.

In the other NBA games, the Boston Celtics stopped the Golden State Warriors 115-106 and the Seattle SuperSonics defeated the Kansas City Kings 92-91.

Detroit made its move early, scoring 12 straight points midway through the first period to turn a 15-14 lead into 27-14 advantage. Los Angeles never got very close the rest of the way.

Abdul-Jabbar scored 30 points for the Lakers while Cazzie Russell added 16 and Don Ford 15.

Celtics 115, Warriors 106
Boston shook off Rick Barry's hot shooting and rallied behind John Havlicek in the second half to beat Golden State, trailing 71-61 in the third period, the Celtics were ignited by veteran captain Havlicek, who scored nine points as Boston narrowed the gap to 83-82.

The Celtics then raced ahead in the fourth period 99-90 as guards Charlie Scott and Jo Jo White drove for successive baskets.

The Warriors, who whipped Boston three out of four times last season before going on to the NBA championship, closed to within two points, 105-103, with three minutes left. However, Havlicek scored two quick baskets to pull the Celtics out of danger.

SuperSonics 92, Kings 91
Rookie Bruce Seals hit a lay-up off a Slick Watts pass with only two seconds to play, giving Seattle its victory over Kansas City. Seals teamed with guard Fred Brown for 30 of Seattle's 36 third-quarter points in a period during which Kansas City could only muster 15. Seattle led by as many as 12 points in the third quarter.

Seals wound up with 25 points, high for the Sonics, while Brown had 17 and Watts 12.

Monarchs Top ECU

NORFOLK, Va. — Old Dominion, ranked sixth in the South, scored two late goals to take a 4-2 victory over the East Carolina soccer team last night.

The Monarchs pushed out into a 2-0 lead in the first half of the game, but just prior to the end of the half, Danny O'Shea hit for the Bucs to cut the lead to 2-1.

In the second half, Pete Angus scored an early goal to tie it up at 2-2. But two late goals by Old Dominion enabled them to pull it out.

"I was quite pleased with our play," Coach Curtis Frye said. "It was a great defensive effort against a team that is 10-0 on the year and ranked as they are."

The loss dropped the Pirate overall record to 3-5-2.

East Carolina will play host to William & Mary on Saturday at 11 a.m., with the winner of the match capturing the Northern Division championship in the league. That winner will then host Southern Division winner Appalachian State on November 8 for the overall Southern Conference title.

Bucettes In Defeat

RALEIGH — N.C. State's women's volleyball team spotted East Carolina University a game, then came back to take a 2-1 victory in the match yesterday.

East Carolina won the first game, 15-13, but the Wolfpack women came roaring back to take the second contest, 15-9. Then they ripped the Bucettes, 15-3, in the final game.

The loss tumbled the Pirate ladies to 5-11 on the season. East Carolina's next outing will be in the Appalachian State Tournament at Bonne, this weekend.

Heels Out To Snap String

By The Associated Press
North Carolina will be trying to snap a three-game losing streak in its Homecoming football engagement with Wake Forest Saturday.

The Wake Forest Deacons turned in their best performance of the year last week, routing Virginia 66-21. At the same time, the Tar Heels were being upset 38-17 by East Carolina after close losses to Notre Dame and North Carolina State.

Wake Forest is 2-2 in the Atlantic Coast Conference, and could almost assure itself of a first-division finish with a victory. The Deacon quarterbacks, Jerry McManus and Mike McGlamry, have combined for over 1,000 total defense, and have had a hand in 15 touchdowns. And their running back, Clark Gaines, is the second leading rusher in the ACC.

With James "Boom Boom" Betterson sidelined for the last three weeks by a leg injury, the North Carolina running attack has been led by tailback Mike Voight. He has gained 735 to move among the national rushing leaders.

N.C. State can assure itself of a winning season by whipping South Carolina at home, but that's more easily said than done. The State Wolfpack is 5-3. It will have only two more games after the South Carolina game, at ninth-ranked Penn State and at Duke.

The Wolfpack coach, Lou Holtz, says that the most noticeable improvement in South Carolina this year is in its defense. The Gamecocks are 5-2, and Holtz says the coaches have sold the players on how important defense is. The game will be regionally televised, starting at 4 p.m.

Fourteenth-ranked Maryland is home to Penn State, and bowl scouts will be watching the game. The Maryland Terps, 5-1-1, have had plenty of time to prepare, since they had an open date last week. Penn State is 7-1 and has beaten the Terps 20 times in their 21 meetings. Maryland beat the Nittany Lions only in 1961 in its home Byrd Stadium, 21-17.

Duke will be at a Georgia Tech team which is among national rusing leaders on an average of 376.4 yards a game. Tech is 5-2 against Duke's 3-4.

Tech leads the series 23-18, and there has been one tie. Duke was the only team to shut down the Yellow Jackets' wishbone attack a year ago, winning 9-0.

Clemson's freshman quarterback, Willie Jordan, is just 73 yards shy of becoming the 20th Tiger to gain 1,000 yards in a season. He has a chance to add to his 927 yards in the home game against Florida State.

Clemson and the FSU Seminoles have 1-6 records, and will be at Vanderbilt. The Virginia coach, Sonny Randle, said that because of injuries as many as nine starters might not make the trip to Nashville—but that was last Monday, and time is healer.

MOREHEAD, Ky. (AP) — After meeting with Morehead State University President Adron Doran Wednesday, football coach Roy Terry decided this season will be his last, completing four years of directing Eagle teams.

"I was not asked to resign. It was strictly a personal decision by myself and my family," Terry said.

Terry had a 3-6-1 record with his first Morehead football team and in 1973 his squad was 6-5. Last year the record was 3-8 and this season, the Eagles are 1-5 with five straight losses.

Decaffeinated Coffee May Not Be The Answer

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Coffee drinkers trying to avoid excess stomach acid may have as much a problem with decaffeinated coffee as with the regular brew, medical researchers say. An unknown ingredient in coffee appears to cause as much or more stomach acid secretion as caffeine, throwing doubts on the practice of people with ulcers trying to avoid acidity by drinking decaffeinated coffee, according to the study. Because caffeine has long been known to cause gastric acidity, doctors have generally recommended that patients with peptic ulcers avoid beverages containing caffeine. The study to be published Thursday in the New England Journal of Medicine "suggests that current clinical recommendations based upon the known actions of caffeine may have little relevance to the predicted harmful effects of caffeinated beverages or the expected safety of decaffeinated beverages." The studies were carried out by Dr. Sidney Cohen, chief of the gastrointestinal section at University of Pennsylvania

Hospital in Philadelphia, and Dr. Glenn H. Booth Jr., of the General Foods Corp. Technical Center in Tarrytown, N.Y. In tests with eight men and women over a six-month period, the report said "responses to regular coffee and decaffeinated coffee were remarkably similar" when looking at acid secretion.

Acid secretion with both types of coffee was higher in all cases than with caffeine taken alone in equivalent amounts contained in regular coffee, the report said. Cohen said in an interview that another finding was that both kinds of coffee increased the tightness or pressure of a ring of sphincter muscles at the connection between the gullet and the stomach. Low pressure in these muscles causes the discomfort called heartburn, and previous observations that coffee may induce heartburn were not supported by the new study, Cohen said. Cohen said most previous studies on the effects of caffeine had been done with caffeine by itself and the results applied to the beverages. The new observations put this practice in question, he added. Cohen said more research was needed on the beverages themselves to see how now unknown ingredients both affect and work with caffeine.

$200 Million In Fraudulent Land Sales

By W. ROBERT WELLER
Associated Press Writer
Carolyn R. Scheer, a 43-year-old teacher from Wisconsin, said she bought her New Mexico land as an investment to keep "until my youngest daughter goes to college." But it turned out she needed the money sooner, so she asked Rio Rancho to sell her undeveloped land for her. "I guess they never made a commitment to sell it for me," she said. A federal grand jury in New York returned an 80-count indictment this week charging the developers of Rio Rancho with fraudulently selling $200 million of "undeveloped semi-arid desert lots." The developers also built the town of Rio Rancho, a bustling community of 6,000 residents near Albuquerque. The people there — except for minor complaints — apparently are happy with their lots. Bob Ayles of the Albuquerque Better Business Bureau said most of the problems arise from attempts by people like Mrs. Scheer to sell their land in undeveloped Rio Rancho Estates.

Developer, has denied all the charges. Mrs. Scheer bought her land — hoping to use it to pay for college for her 12-year-old daughter Laura — after succumbing to years of letters encouraging her to attend a promotional dinner — "It was very convincing. They had testimonials in the movies. They also had at least one couple who had been out and visited their property who gave a testimonial that everything that was being said was true." She paid $260 down and was to pay off the purchase price of $2,600 for a half acre in eight years of $31 monthly payments. She says the state of Wisconsin had approved the agreement. She had paid about $1,000 when she stopped making payments. Stefan A. Jasinski, 34, an engineer, from Rochester, N.Y., said, "They are not telling the full story about what Rio Rancho is about." He said his half acre — which cost $2,500 — is four miles from the developed section and there are no sewers or water. He bought his land five years ago after attending a dinner.

"We have a report worked up by us, advising people that there is no resale for property of that sort," Ayles said. He added that the number of complaints has been relatively small. New Mexico Atty. Gen. Toney Anaya said his consumer protection division has received "a fairly substantial number (of complaints) over the years, maybe a couple of hundred, that we turned over to the Federal Trade Commission early in the year." The indictment charged the defendants had boasted that purchase of undeveloped Rio Rancho Estate lots would yield "financial security for the purchaser's retirement or the education of his children and for other financial objectives, all of which were false."

Less Auto Deaths In 1974 Than In 1973

RALEIGH (AP)—Traffic accidents in North Carolina claimed fewer lives and resulted in a lower number of injuries during 1974 than in 1973.

A study by Department of Motor Vehicles also says one person was killed in a traffic accident every six hours in the state. One person was injured every eight minutes and an accident was reported every four minutes.

There were 1,583 persons killed in 1974 and 1,892 in 1973; 1974 injuries totaled 68,104, some 5.5 per cent below the 72,069 in 1973, the study released Tuesday showed.

Here are other findings of the study:

- Since 1935, there have been 28 years where the fatality total exceeded 6,000. (That doesn't include this year which has already exceeded 1,000.)
- Total accidents reported in 1973 amounted to 121,552, some 3.4 per cent below the 1973 number.
- Of all accidents, 32 per cent involved only one vehicle.
- One of every 20 registered vehicles was involved in an accident.
- The highest accident period for urban areas was 2 p.m. to 6 p.m.
- Rural accidents occurred most frequently from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m.
- Some 54 per cent of the fatal accidents occurred at night.
- But, 35 per cent of all accidents were at night.
- Friday was the most common accident day with 19 per cent of all of them.
- For fatal accidents, 55 per cent were on Friday, Saturday or Sunday.
- Thirty-one persons were killed for each 100,000 North Carolinians.
- Seventy-nine deaths were motorcyclists.
- There were 28 male bicyclists killed and six female.
- In the past 25 years, only 67 female bicyclists have been killed.
- One of every 16 licensed drivers was involved in an accident.
- For each person killed in 1974, there were 43 injuries.
- On the average, there were 115 deaths for each 100 fatal accidents.
- Speeding was the leading violation in fatal accidents.
- Six per cent of all accidents and 7 per cent of the fatal accidents involved mechanical defects.
- Of all fatal accidents, 18 per cent of the drivers involved were known to have been drinking and that was a known factor in 19 per cent of all injury accidents.
- In 77 per cent of all accidents, at least one driver violated a traffic law.
- Of all persons in accidents, only 10.97 per cent were wearing seat belts.
- Of drivers killed, 23 were wearing seat belts and 863 weren't.
- For passengers killed: one in the middle front seat wore a belt, 48 didn't; eight in right front seat wore a belt, 312 didn't; one in left rear seat wore a belt, 41 didn't; none sitting in the middle rear or right rear seats wearing a belt was killed while 22 and 56 persons were wearing belts.
- Seatbelt wearers amounted to 2.4 per cent of those killed and 8.34 per cent of those injured. On the other hand, 11.61 per cent of those involved in accidents who were not injured were wearing belts.

JONESBORO, Ga. (AP) — Former Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., says all the facts of the Watergate debacle still have not been revealed.

"I'd like to have Nixon tell the truth about Watergate," Ervin said during a question and answer session at Clayton Junior College Wednesday night.

The 20-year veteran of the U.S. Senate, who chaired the Senate Watergate Investigation Committee, also said he felt the pardon of former President Nixon by President Ford was a mistake.

"He should've waited until the law had taken its course," he said. "All men are equal before the law."

Ervin added, "Only the guilty need pardons. The president's power to pardon is greater than the Almighty's, if I read my Bible right. The Almighty has to wait until the sinner confesses and repents."

Schlesinger Warns On Heavy Defense Budget Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger today renewed a warning that heavy cuts in the U.S. military budget would cause severe damage to American military strength.

Schlesinger made the statement one day after the Senate defense appropriations subcommittee rebuffed his previous warnings by approving a bill $7.2 billion below President Ford's original budget request.

The panel approved a bill providing $90.6 billion for defense. The House has voted $90.2 billion.

The secretary appeared on the NBC TV's "Today" show.

Besides pleading for restoration of $2.6 billion in House approved defense spending cuts, Schlesinger indicated:

—He is inclined toward selling arms to Egypt so it won't rely again on the Soviet Union for weapons.

—Reports of his disagreements with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger are "exaggerated."

Differences between the subcommittee's defense spending bill and the House measure will be resolved by a conference committee before a final bill is sent to Ford. The President had asked for $97.8 billion.

Adding $406 million to the House-passed appropriation, the Senate panel passed the bill on to the full Senate appropriations panel for further consideration next week.

Schlesinger has said that the total slash in the defense budget will reach at least $9 billion when Congress considers later measures covering military aid and military construction, on top of the main defense budget.

Schlesinger stressed, as he has repeatedly, that the Soviet Union's military spending is rising each year while, he contends, the amount of resources the United States applies to defense is shrinking because of inflation and congressional budget reductions.

If this continues, he said, "the worldwide military balance could collapse." He declined to predict when this might occur.

"The trends are adverse and we must reverse the trends," Schlesinger said.

—He is inclined toward selling arms to Egypt so it won't rely again on the Soviet Union for weapons.

—Reports of his disagreements with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger are "exaggerated."

Bass Tournament Underway

NAGS HEAD, N.C. (AP) — Paul Chamblee of Raleigh, N.C., had a catch of 26 pounds 1 ounce Wednesday to take the lead going into today's second round of the $15,000 winner-take-all Bass Masters Classic at Currituck Sound.

About 4 pounds behind Chamblee was Tom Mann of Eufaula, Ala., with 22 pounds 3 ounces.

Last year's top ranked pro Bill Dance of Memphis, Tenn., was third with 19 pounds 12 ounces. He was followed by Jimmy Houston of Pahlquah, Okla., with 19 pounds 1 ounce.

Twenty-five of the 30 contestants caught their eight-bass limit in the event's first round.

Nearly 224 largemouth bass were caught Wednesday, weighing a total of 412 pounds 13 ounces. The first day total puts the Classic record of 620 pounds 8 ounces within reach for this year's three-day tournament, which winds up Friday.

Houston won $700 in daily bonus money for catching the first day's big fish, a 6 pound 12 ounce largemouth worth $100 a pound.

Defending champion Tommy Martin of Hemphill, Tex., ranked 15th with 14 pounds 14 ounces.

The season's top-ranked pro, Roland Martin of Broken Arrow, Okla., was 17th with 14 pounds 4 ounces.

The anglers are fishing in an area that covers 125 square miles of brackish waters behind North Carolina's upper Outer Banks, which separate the sound from the Atlantic Ocean.

Snubs Sadat

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Hugh Carey joined Mayor Abraham Beame in snubbing President Anwar Sadat of Egypt today, leaving the burden of New York hospitality on the shoulders of Vice President and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Sadat was to meet this morning with Thomas Murphy, chairman of the board of General Motors. Then he and his wife were to motor to the palatial Rockefeller estate in Pocantico Hills, north of the city, for lunch.

The New York schedule announced for Sadat by the State Department also included a meeting with Gov. Carey this morning, but a spokesman for the governor said this had been done without the governor's concurrence and Carey could not see the Egyptian today.

Drugs Cause Deformity

CHICAGO (AP) — Anticoagulant drugs given to pregnant women for heart and related problems is resulting in the birth of deformed infants, a University of Chicago radiologist says.

Previously these deformed infants were thought to be the result of genetic or environmental causes, Dr. K. Jeffery Kranzler, pediatric radiology director at Chicago's Wyler Children's Hospital, said in an interview Wednesday.

Kranzler reported last month at a Society for Pediatric Radiology meeting in Atlanta on eight such cases he studied. In addition, he said, he knows of three more and that others are attributed to other causes or not reported.

Wins UN Vote

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — North Korea and China have won a United Nations vote on the Korean question for the first time since the 1950-53 Korean War.

But it was only a partial victory because another resolution favorable to South Korea and the United States was adopted during the same tumultuous session Wednesday night of the General Assembly's main political committee.

Investigating Crater

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal agency is investigating reports that a large crater has been sighted in Siberia, where the Russians were believed building a nuclear breeder reactor, the Chicago Tribune said today.

Joseph Foucard of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission was quoted as saying in Washington that the commission and the Energy Research and Development Administration had been alerted to the incident.

A United States satellite passing over Siberia reportedly detected a large crater where American scientists believe a breeder reactor was under construction. The reports said fallen trees ringed the crater, as though smashed by an explosion.

Douglas In Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas is in Walter Reed Army Hospital for the third time this year, suffering from what is described as a "slight fever."

The hospital said a few hours after Douglas was admitted Wednesday that he "is comfortable and is expected to be released in a few days."

Seeks To Remove Judge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Symbionese Liberation Army members William and Emily Harris are seeking to remove a judge from their case — a complication that could delay their scheduled Nov. 24 trial.

The Harrises, fugitive traveling companions of Patricia Hearst, were to submit motions to the court today in their kidnapping, assault and robbery case.

But an appeal filed for them on Wednesday by Deputy Public Defender Edward Rucker asked that the case be halted until the dispute over Superior Court Judge Homer A. Bell is resolved.

Loses Privileges

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — Jailed newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst lost her visiting privileges for one day because she watched television at a prohibited time, the sheriff says.

"She and a couple of other girls were watching television at a time when no television is allowed," Sheriff John R. McDonald Jr. said in an interview on Wednesday. "They knew they weren't allowed to do it but they went ahead and did it anyway."

Dick Van Dyke Clean Denver Is Polluted Fills Vacancy

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Tonight, Dick Van Dyke is checking in with a one-hour NBC special in the "family hour" slot vacated by the canceled "Montefuscos" and "Fay" series.

His show, "Van Dyke and Company," is one of three comedy-variety pilots that may become a Monday night series in mid-season. The other efforts will star McLean "M-A-S-H" Stevenson and Mac Davis.

Having Van Dyke back on the tube usually is a happy occasion, if only because he loves sight gags, which are rapidly becoming an endangered species on television these days.

Alas, tonight's proceedings, save for two classic skits, aren't as sprightly as one might expect from a talent like Van Dyke, particularly when he also has the support of Carl Reiner and Mary Tyler Moore, two famous sidekicks from his first television series.

Things start off smartly enough when he opens the show by declaring it's the first time "I get to do exactly what I want," then, as the camera pulls back, we see he's a dummy manipulated by a huge man.

But his opening monologue is too low-key to strike sparks, ditto an ensuing Greek folk dance number, ditto another brief monologue about word pictures that leads into a so-so office skit with Reiner.

A filmed segment on jogging and how allegedly noncompetitive it is proves a moderately funny forum for exaggeration.

But his "special mystery guest" bit with Miss Moore is nothing more than the two stars seated on stools, exchanging pleasantries as their two electronically-created alter egos snipe at the dialogue.

And comedian Gabe Kaplan's contribution, which lasts about a minute, consists mainly of appearing in a short skit in which he appears on hand to launch the second half of the show.

Ike and Tina Turner also are billed as featured performers. While we didn't see Ike, we did see Miss Turner shake, rattle and roll through a song which was followed by one of the show's best moments.

Said moment occurred as Van Dyke's chat with Miss Turner was abruptly pre-empted by a realistic-looking "Sports Exclusive" bulletin about a championship golf game in Hawaii.

We won't reveal the details, but you should stay tuned for it, as it is one of the finest spoofs of televised big-time golf we've ever seen.

Stick around, also, for a caper called "The Great Roboto Jr.," which is near the end of the show and has Van Dyke cast as a robot magician, a mechanical performer whose efforts go wildly astray.

Calling the skit funny doesn't do it justice. If there were more like it in the show, Van Dyke might easily be the newest contender for the sight-gag crown once worn by the late Ernie Kovacs.

Still, there's always hope. Lord knows, Van Dyke has the ability and imagination to do good eyeball humor on a weekly basis.

And if NBC gives him a weekly show, we hope he avoids feeble spoken sketches and stool-sitting and really concentrates on his remarkable gift for making people laugh without saying a word.

DENVER (AP) — Despite its reputation for clean mountain air and bright, sparkling sunshine, Denver's air is as polluted as any in the country, experts say.

The same mile-high altitude and Rocky Mountain sunshine which have made the city famous are blamed for fouling the air its 1.5 million residents breathe.

The state Air Pollution Control Division concluded in a recent study based on 1974 data that "this small amount of information indicated that in downtown Denver the air pollution problem was of a magnitude greater than or equal to that in much larger metropolitan areas."

One state pollution expert said the continued expansion of suburbs around Denver "seems to indicate that the problem is going to get worse." One federal study examined blood samples taken from nonsmokers in 18 cities. Denver blood donors were found to have higher levels of carboxyhemoglobin, produced by carbon monoxide, than perhaps in any other city.

The levels for Denver residents were more than 10 per cent higher than those found in blood samples of persons living in Los Angeles.

State and federal officials say the high pollution levels result from a combination of factors:

—Denver's mile-high altitude provides a high penetration of ultra-violet sunshine, necessary to produce ozone from automobile exhaust.

—The city's climate produces long-lasting air inversions, particularly in winter, preventing the escape of carbon monoxide poured out of motor vehicle exhaust pipes into the surrounding air.

—Denver residents' love for the automobile rivals that found anywhere in the country. A state official estimates there are 800,000 motor vehicles in the metropolitan area, one for every 1.3 persons. The cars are driven an estimated 18 million miles daily.

Data collected at six sampling stations in the area indicates the federal eight-hour standard for carbon monoxide, nine parts per million, was exceeded at one station 29 per cent of the time.

The standard permits one reading above the recommended level per year. Beyond that, the government says impaired vision, poor physical coordination and heart problems may result.

The "Denver Plan" to reduce metropolitan air pollution has resulted in one new regulation designed to reduce automobile traffic into the city.

Employers with more than 50 persons on the payroll must facilitate car pooling. And progress is being made to reduce the amount of gas vapors escaping during transfer of fuel from the refinery to the truck and from the truck to the retail outlet.

Straw Poll Claims Carter In Lead

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter is the front runner among Democratic presidential hopefuls according to a straw poll conducted by The Des Moines Register.

Carter was a choice of 23.4 per cent of those a poll conducted Saturday at the party's annual Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner here. Seven of the 10 announced Democratic candidates spoke at the dinner.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota was Carter's nearest challenger with 12.3 per cent. Humphrey is not an announced candidate, but has said he will take the nomination if it is offered to him.

Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana is Carter's nearest competitor among the announced candidates, the poll showed. Bayh received 10.23 per cent of the vote.

Following were Sargent Shriver (8.5), Morris Udall (7), Fred Harris (5.5) and Scoop Jackson (5.1). Terry Sanford, George Wallace, Lloyd Bentsen and Milton Shapp all received less than 1 per cent.

About 4,000 persons attended the dinner, but only 1,094 votes were cast in the straw poll. Iowa will be the first state to start the Democratic presidential nomination process in 1976 when it holds precinct caucuses Jan. 19.

A month ago, the state Democratic party conducted a straw poll, and Carter was the leader with 9.9 per cent of the 5,762 votes cast.

If you examine all four hands, it is obvious that South's three no trump contract should be defeated two tricks. At the table, however, the winning defense is not that easy to find. Follow West's reasoning as he decides what to do at the second trick.

The auction followed standard lines. With a balanced 13 points and stoppers in every suit, South's two no trump response to his partner's one spade opening was automatic. North had little to gain by rebidding his spades because he also had a balanced hand, so his raise to three no trump, describing a minimum, was equally correct.

When defending against a no trump contract, the lead of an ace is a conventional request to partner to play his highest card in that suit. West made that lead here in an attempt to locate the queen of diamonds. While it was odds-on that declarer had that card, it was just

Who is George Dickel?

That blue-chip Tennessee Sour Mash Whisky, of course.

The party pleaser that's charcoal mellowed. And oh so smooth.

The only love you'd ever want to share.

The only name you'll ever need to remember for Smooth Sippin' Whisky.

There's a little bit of Tennessee in every sip.

A NEW OWNER!
A NEW IDEA!

100,000 MILES
OR 3 YEARS NEW CAR WARRANTY

Why Do We Offer A 100,000 Mile Warranty?

Read For Yourself Our Reason

Every car dealer in the country is talking "dependability" these days. At Tarheel Toyota, we've decided to do something about it. A new car warranty that's longer than any other warranty in the world (exclusively for Tarheel Toyota). Bill Draper can tell you why: "Nobody else in the world has a car like this. I've seen how the Toyota is made, the quality of the workmanship, the integrity and the craftsmanship that go into this car. I know the Toyota inside and out." Until now, most new car warranties haven't been much more than discounts on the car repairs you know you'd need. Our warranty is our guarantee of faith in Toyota. "Nobody else in the world can put this kind of warranty on their car. My faith and my knowledge and experience with Toyota tell me I can do it. Toyota builds an automobile to last." Our knowledge of the Toyota comes from research, from first hand information from our service department and from a great number of satisfied Toyota customers. For 100,000 miles or 3 years from the day you purchase your new Toyota, we guarantee to replace or repair your motor, transmission and rear end, if they fail under normal driving conditions. We'll ask you to keep the vehicle properly maintained and we'll ask that you bring it back to Tarheel Toyota for any repairs covered by this warranty. We're offering the 100,000 mile, 3 year warranty in addition to the new car warranty offered by Toyota Motor Sales, USA. It's a promise, a guarantee of Toyota quality, Toyota dependability.

USED CAR WARRANTY

This guarantee applies to cars selling for $1000.00 and up. On a 50-50 basis. All work must be done in our shop. This warranty does not apply to any sport cars, high performance or air cooled engines or 4 speed transmissions (except economy cars). Most good used cars (even if they look like new) are only guaranteed for a month. Or for a thousand miles. No more. And some are not guaranteed at all. But at Tarheel when we say a used car is in excellent condition, we're willing to stand behind it. We're willing to do something a little extra for it. So we guarantee its motor, its rear end, and its transmission for twelve months or twelve thousand miles. If you're in the market for a better used car, come out to Tarheel and look at ours. We'll show you some as good as new. Guaranteed. Asterisk denotes warranted car.

The Unit Board meeting of the Pitt County Heart Association was held in the board room of Home Savings and Loan Association. W. S. Corbitt, president, introduced the speaker, Charles Roberts, assistant executive director of Field Services for the North Carolina Heart Fund.

Roberts gave the criteria for the North Carolina Unit of the Year Award. He emphasized the importance of community medical and educational programs as well as fund raising.

The board was told that activities should be conducted on a year round basis, not a short term emphasis. Roberts said, "Volunteers can be proud of their services because they are helping to wipe out America's number one killer-heart attacks and related cardiovascular diseases".

Dr. Dan Warren, fund raising chairman, was called on to give the year's goal and some of the fund raising projects. He announced that the goal for Pitt County is $22,000 and said that this is a joint undertaking and joint responsibility that will be reached only with maximum cooperation.

Dr. Warren reminded the board members that memorial gifts may be made anytime during the year by making checks payable to the Pitt County Heart Fund and sending them together with the pertinent information to Nancy Warren, NNCB, Greenville.
