New Officers Elected By Pitt County Farm Bureau

PORTRAIT UNVEILING . . . Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Worthington look at a portrait of Mrs. Worthington which was unveiled during the annual Farm Bureau meeting last night by Mrs. Irby Walker, right. The new Farm Bureau building was dedicated to Mrs. Worthington.

Members of the Pitt County Farm Bureau elected officers and dedicated its new building during the group's annual meeting last night.

The new building was dedicated to Mrs. Alma Worthington, an active Farm Bureau leader since 1940.

During that time, Mrs. Worthington has served as woman's chairman, secretary of the board of directors, first vice president of the Pitt County Farm Bureau and is currently chairman of the public relations committee of the local organization.

She is a member of the Women's Committee of the N.C. Farm Bureau Federation which is composed of 25 women from across the state.

Mrs. Worthington is a graduate of Winterville High School and East Carolina University and was a teacher for several years.

She and her husband, Wilbur, have three children, twin sons, Melvin and Milton, and one daughter, Jeanette. They have seven grandchildren.

The dedication was presented by Mrs. Irby Walker, secretary and treasurer of the N.C. Farm Bureau Federation.

"We are here tonight to pay tribute to a great Pitt County person—a very special lady—a lady who has meant much to her county Farm Bureau, the North Carolina Farm Bureau, and agriculture throughout the state," Mrs. Walker said. "She has always exerted the characteristics of a leader and is respected and admired by all who associate with her."

Mrs. Walker explained that Mrs. Worthington has served long and well with Farm Bureau. She has held almost every office in the county and community units and has served on many state committees.

"She is a woman of Christian principles, a knowledgeable woman, a woman of courage, and a woman who is concerned for the welfare of her fellowman," Mrs. Walker emphasized. "The Pitt County Farm Bureau has a great source of strength in this woman. We take a great deal of pride and pleasure in dedicating this building to Alma Braxton Worthington."

New officers elected to serve for the coming year are: D.R. House, president; Frankie Singleton, first vice president; Ruel Dilda, second vice president; and Mrs. David Smith, secretary-treasurer.

The following delegates were named to attend the state convention in Asheville Dec. 7-10: Mr. and Mrs. David Smith, Mr. (Continued on page 8)

Commission Okays Mall Zoning Plans

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
The Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission last night gave its approval to the creation of a new Downtown Mall zoning district and will recommend adoption of the new district to the City Council.

The proposed mall district, according to City Planner John Schofield, would involve the two-block Evans Street area from Third to Fifth Streets, following the alleyways, and also include the Town Common area along First Street.

Schofield said that the district, as proposed, would end at Fifth Street but could be extended further south if deemed appropriate. The intent of the zoning action would be to continue uses that exist now but to encourage more selectivity in future uses.

The amendment to the Zoning Ordinance to include Downtown Mall would state that the purpose of DM would be, "To protect and encourage compatible development of high intensity uses located adjacent to the CBD downtown mall. The special nature and purpose of the mall is to attract people into the Central Business District and to provide harmonious working and shopping-leisure time and activities. The downtown mall district is designed to accommodate pedestrian activities for all age groups in a healthy and safe environment."

Permitted uses under the DM zoning district would involve a list of some 38 items, including antique store, art studio and gallery, book and stationery store, department store, drugstore, furrier shop, florist, music store, newsstand, professional offices and services, restaurants, sidewalk cafe, and theatres, among other uses.

The special uses section of the ordinance would stipulate that those uses would involve "Activities which, in the opinion of the Board of Adjustments, are compatible with the permitted uses in this district, subject to the provisions of Section 32-75."

The DM district would fall under the same development standards as the Downtown Commercial district and also be added to the districts requiring buffers.

The request for the Planning and Zoning Commission to consider the new zoning district was submitted by the City of Greenville.

The planning board, after hearing from a number of property owners who opposed a request for rezoning, voted to recommend that the Council deny a request by Russell Fleming and J. B. Surles to rezone 8.9 acres off of Tenth Street near the proposed Brownlee Drive extension from R-9 to R-6 in order to construct apartments.

The property proposed for rezoning backs up to College Court Subdivision and also Brookgreen, it was pointed out.

Surles told the board that the initial stage of the development would involve some 2.1 acres and he said, "We would intend to put nice apartments in this area" that would rent for approximately $225 per month.

The developer said that if it would be possible, the sections adjoining the subdivisions might be removed from the plans.

Commission member Karl Faser said that he would rather consider the whole request involving the 8.9 acres as submitted.

Several property owners of Brookgreen and College Court expressed their "strenuous" opposition to the rezoning change, contending that the apartment development would lower the values of their homes.

Dr. Charles Price, who lives on Ragsdale Road, said he feels it is a "poor policy to keep changing the zoning" and he asserted that the city should begin conforming to the zoning policies rather than changing them.

Complications Reported For Ailing Franco

By LOUIS NEVIN
Associated Press Writer
MADRID, Spain (AP) — Francisco Franco's doctors reported today that peritonitis has complicated the 82-year-old general's failing condition.

Calling the long-time Spanish leader's condition still grave, the doctors did not say specifically how Franco had worsened. Private medical sources said the peritonitis — inflammation of his abdominal membrane — could mean death within hours.

The report of a new complication came as Franco's designated heir, Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon, began his duties as temporary chief of state.

The prince met with the Spanish cabinet in an unusually long session that lasted four hours. No details were given.

Franco's medical team said the general's critical heart condition continued basically unchanged.

The medical bulletin said fluid in the general's stomach cavity persists and a study of it "deduces the existence of a peritoneal inflammation process" — peritonitis.

Juan Carlos, the tall, blond grandson of Spain's last king, was appointed temporary chief of state late Thursday by Premier Carlos Arias Navarro and his cabinet.

The action was taken to end the vacuum resulting from Franco's inability to put his endorsement on all major government decisions, a power he vested in himself when he wrote the Spanish constitution.

There was no indication that the stricken leader even knew the government had replaced him.

Again Defer Handgun Bill

By EDMUND PINTO
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A subcommittee's decision to delay consideration of handgun legislation has all but killed chances of House passage of new gun controls this year.

The decision by the House judiciary subcommittee on crime came Thursday after the panel voted 6 to 1 to reject a proposal that would have banned all private ownership of handguns in America. Only Chairman John Conyers Jr., D-Mich., who sponsored the bill, voted for it.

After taking the action, subcommittee members put aside other proposals for handgun controls and elected instead to have the majority and minority counsels list various gun-control proposals. These would include registration, licensing of handgun owners and a ban on "Saturday night specials."

The two lawyers are to report back to the subcommittee

Wednesday, when the panel will begin to draft its own bill. However, Monday is the deadline set by the House Rules Committee for scheduling bills on the House floor for the remainder of the year.

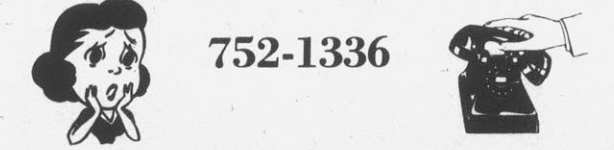

The Rules Committee, which decides which bills reach the floor, has said it would not add to the legislative calendar after that date.

Even before the Rules Committee can be given the legislation, the full House Judiciary Committee must approve it.

Despite the delay, Conyers still insisted Thursday that a gun control bill will reach the House floor before the year is out. He did not explain how.

The only other way for legislation to reach the House floor without going through the Rules Committee is for a two-thirds majority to call for its consideration. There is little likelihood that supporters of gun control can muster that many votes.

P.E.T. HERE?
I have been reading a book on Parent Effectiveness Training after hearing quite a bit about it lately. The ideas appeal to me, but I understand there are courses offered many places and believe my husband and I would benefit by taking one. Is there anyone in Greenville who could and would teach P.E.T.? E.B.

Barry Humphreys, the N.C. Department of Public Instruction Regional Health Coordinator, said he has taught the Parent Effectiveness course here once before, loves to teach it, and will do so again if interest warrants.

Dr. Lionel Kendrick of the Eastern N.C. Drug Program said he and Carol Ann Tucker, also of his program, both are trained to teach P.E.T., and also will be glad to if there are enough parents interested. Dr. Kendrick also teaches a concept called Positive Image Building, which may be adapted to deal with relationships with children, with husbands or wives, with business acquaintances, or whomever.

The P.E.T. idea is to teach parents to talk with their children much as counselors do, using such techniques as "active listening," and establishing problem ownership. The developer of the program, Dr. Thomas Gordon, claims that the use of the concept makes for responsible children who grow into responsible adults, and for children and parents who continue to communicate through the adolescent and teen years.

Both Humphreys and Kendrick say they would be glad to develop classes during the daytime hours, considering this activity an extension of their state-financed jobs and charging only the cost of materials. If either of them or Miss Tucker hold classes after hours, though, they feel they would have to charge the set rate of $50 per course, though there might be some possibility of a sliding scale, based on the family's ability to pay and whether one or both of the parents in the family were taking the course. Interested persons may call either Humphreys at the Greenville City Schools office, 752-4192, or Dr. Kendrick or Miss Tucker, both at the ECU number, 758-6492.

Unveil Prison Plans

RALEIGH (AP)—Correction Secretary David Jones is going to ask the General Assembly for $35 million for a three-stage construction program at Central Prison.

Prison officials unveiled a model of the proposed additions to the 90-year-old prison Thursday.

Central Prison, the state's only maximum security facility, is now severely overcrowded with 1,251 inmates. Jones said the program would cost $14.7 million in the first phase, $13.8 million in the second and $5.9 million in the third.

Jones asked the legislature for $38 million earlier this year, but his department was given only $9 million for construction.

Central prison was built by inmate labor nearly 100 years ago. The imposing brick and stone structure is on the edge of downtown Raleigh.

If the department is granted construction funds, most of the old prison will be torn down with only the relatively new hospital, mental health center and industrial facility spared demolition. The new buildings will be constructed on a grassy area behind the prison.

Design of the new prison is aimed at providing more services, programs and privacy for inmates. The new structures would be six double buildings.

The new complex would be surrounded by an electronic surveillance system with mobile guard patrols.

When completed, the new prison would have a capacity of 1,004 inmates.

PACKARD TO QUIT?
WASHINGTON (AP)—David A. Packard, the former deputy Defense secretary who is in charge of campaign fund-raising for President Ford, plans to resign, a GOP source indicates. It would be the second key resignation from Ford's campaign committee in a month.

Thunderstorm Brings Brief Lull In Factional Fighting For Beirut

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Christians and Moslems bombarded each other with heavy mortars in two Beirut suburbs today after a night-long thunderstorm brought temporary peace to this war-torn Arab capital.

Scattered gunfire also resumed in the downtown hotel district where Lebanese security forces had been sent in at dawn to try to implement a cease-fire.

The heaviest fighting was reported between the Christian suburb of Ein Rummaneh and the Moslem suburb of Chiyah, on the eastern outskirts of Beirut. Mortar crews on both sides lobbed hundreds of shells into areas where Christians and Moslems had kissed and hugged each other during a cease-fire three weeks ago.

Several buildings were reported burning out of control with firemen unable to reach them because of the bombardments, the state radio announced.

During the night both sides had pulled back a little in the downtown area to consolidate positions captured Thursday. Thunderclaps, lightning and heavy rain sent Christian and Moslem gunmen scurrying for cover, prompting government radio announcer Sharif Akhawi to proclaim "God's guns have taken over."

The storm scared many Beirut residents who mistook the thunder for rocket attacks. It also cut all telex communications between Lebanon and the outside world.

A young engineer, the only technician on duty, tried to fix the damage but he was shot by a sniper as he stepped out of the building and the central telex facility remained unmanned.

A spokesman for the right-wing Phalange party said Christian forces still controlled the downtown hotel district, and Associated Press correspondent Edward Cody confirmed that several large hotels were "full of snipers."

Staff members of the Phoenicia Hotel claimed the Phalange had withdrawn Thursday night and security forces were patrolling the streets. But Cody reported from the area the Phalange were still in the hotels and the security forces were staying well back from areas where shooting is heaviest.

Congress Told Of Pessimism

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fistful of pollsters have told Congress that the American public is pessimistic about the economy and the nation's leadership, and many Americans feel hard times may get even harder.

They painted a gloomy picture of the public mood in testimony Thursday before the Joint Economic Committee.

Jay Schmiedeskamp of the University of Michigan's Survey Research Center said SRC's latest study showed only 8 percent of the public believes the government is going a good job of handling the economy.

The president of Louis Harris and Associates, Louis Harris, said 81 percent of those surveyed 10 days ago said they believe the nation is still in a recession, though economists say the recession is over.

Schmiedeskamp said 32 percent of those surveyed by SRC said they are worse off financially now than five years ago, and 44 percent said they are worse off than one year ago.

"We have consistently found — typically by margins of five to three — that most people feel that the country's worst economic times lie ahead of us, not behind us," testified Peter Hart, who heads a Washington polling firm.

Harris said increases in spending did not reflect consumer confidence in the economy, but rather confidence that a year from now prices will be even higher.

Some 68 percent of those surveyed by Cambridge Reports, Inc., said they believe the statement, "Over the past 10 years America's leaders have consistently lied to the American people," according to pollster Patrick Caddell. And perhaps most significantly, Gallup Organization, Inc., official Irving Crespi said that for the first time since the question was asked in 1959, there is a significant decline in the way Americans rate the quality of their lives and their expectations for the future.

Explain Jealousy To Young Sons

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: How can I keep my sons, ages 6 and 8, from being jealous of each other? I want them to grow up and love each other, and it hurts me so much to see the terrible jealousy between them. Please help me.

MOMMY

DEAR MOMMY: Jealousy is a natural (though unattractive) human emotion. Remember that, Mommy, and explain it to your children. It may not eliminate the jealousy, but it will help to reduce their guilt feelings about it.

DEAR ABBY: Ron and I have been married for five years and have a child who is 3-years-old. Last week, we went to an amusement park and decided to take in the big attraction there. (It was Fifi La Belle and her star-studded review.) We got a table at the front of the auditorium so we wouldn't miss a thing. Fifi came out in a very revealing costume, and she spotted Ron immediately. (He's very good-looking.) She came over to our table and sat down on Ron's lap and ignored me as though I were invisible. She sang to Ron and made a big fuss over him. He claimed he didn't like it, but I noted he didn't push her off his lap. I laughed along with the rest of the audience, but while Fifi was on my husband's lap, I was burning up with jealousy. She ruined my whole day. Should I have pushed her off Ron's lap? I know it wasn't his fault that she picked on him, but if he didn't like it, don't you think he should have pushed her off?

STILL BURNING

DEAR STILL: It's not unusual for a female entertainer to single out a man and make a fuss over him. It's part of the act and nothing personal. Forget it, dear. Next time, don't pick a ringside table, and you'll not be so vulnerable.

DEAR ABBY: My son is being married in a church at 2 p.m. I am advised by the bride's mother that it is improper to wear a long dress at a 2 p.m. church wedding, so I shall wear a short dress.

The reception begins at 5:30, followed by cocktails and dinner. I am told that a LONG dress is required for this. The church is a great distance from my home—making it impossible to drive home after the wedding to change. So I'll have to take a long gown and matching accessories to the church to change into after the wedding.

My question: Is it absolutely necessary to have two different dresses for this wedding? I will if you say so, but it seems like a lot of trouble to me.

GROOM'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: It's not necessary. The dress you wear to the wedding will do nicely for the reception.

Real Halloween Terror In Central Florida Town

FROM PUMPKIN AND KNIFE—Lois Garrett, for the spirit of Halloween, shows her nephews Daniel, 3, (left) and Vann Vandiford, 5, how a jack-o-lantern is made from a pumpkin. It's that time when youngsters dress up like goblins and ghosts, making their rounds through their neighborhoods. Daniel and Vann are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Vandiford of Fountain. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

CLERMONT, Fla. (AP) — A shadow of real Halloween terror hung over the citrus groves around this Central Florida town today in the specter of sadistic gunmen who "come out of nowhere and melt back into nowhere," police say.

Despite around-the-clock patrols by 60 officers, police warned parents in rural areas of West Orange and South Lake counties to keep their trick-or-treaters off the streets tonight.

"On Halloween a lot of kids will be out pulling pranks, and with a lot of people this nervous, someone might get hurt," said Orange County Sheriff Mel Coleman.

The gunmen, armed with sawed-off shotguns and wearing black ski masks with eerie red eye-holes, have invaded six homes in the past four weeks, raping one teen-ager, smashing the eye glasses of four people and throwing liquid drain cleaner in the face of one woman.

Local gun shops reported a flood of weapons being purchased, and the Lake County Sheriff's office investigated tips on the formation of a vigilante group of up to 150 armed men.

In an effort to calm the residents, state and local police agencies dispatched the 60 officers into the area Thursday night.

"We've got to get these guys before some innocent person is killed," said one worried police official. "But they come out of nowhere and melt back into nowhere."

Authorities said they were fairly certain that all six incidents, in which the number of gunmen varied from two to three, were the work of the same persons.

"They all appear to be related," said Coleman. "Some of their actions border on outright sadism. They seem to derive a sadistic pleasure from some of the things they do."

The most recent attacks occurred Tuesday night.

In the first assault, thieves broke into a house about six miles south of this small citrus town, bound five occupants and raped a 19-year-old woman before ransacking the house and fleeing with $85.

Then 20 miles and two hours later, two masked men burst into the home of James Kelly, 70, near Winter Garden, bound Kelly and his wife and two guests and stomped on their eyeglasses.

Two weeks ago, the gunmen burst into the house of Majorie Bray, 52, in west Orange County and poured drain cleaner into her eyes and mouth before escaping with a television set. Doctors first feared she had been blinded, but they said Thursday she would not lose her sight.

Police said the gang has netted several hundred dollars in cash, jewelry and small electrical appliances in its nighttime raids but appears to be motivated by thrills, not money.

"They're ignoring valuable jewelry," said Lake County Chief Deputy Bob Tanner. "They've passed up a color television set, and in some cases they've taken things like frozen foods, meat, pots and pans and a toaster."

"They're just out getting their kicks. They get enjoyment from assaulting these people."

Learn 53 Banks Could Lose If NYC Defaults

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal bank regulators, after reporting that 53 national banks could have cash problems if New York City defaults on its debts, are seeking more information about the impact of any default on the banking system.

A spokesman for the comptroller of the currency said Thursday that all of the nation's 4,700 national banks have been asked by Comptroller James E. Smith to report the amount of New York city and state securities they have accepted as collateral on loans.

The value of such collateral would be jeopardized if the city defaults on its debts, making it likely that the banks would want borrowers using such bonds to post new collateral on loans, the spokesman said.

"Even if a default doesn't occur, the city and state securities are being traded at a discount; nobody is buying at par value any more," he said.

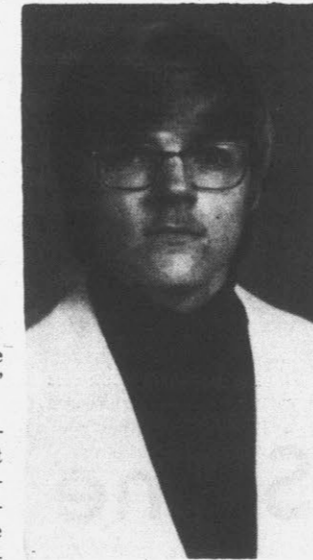

are considered "most critical because insolvency is a distinct possibility in the event of a New York City default. Assets of these nine total $898 million," he said.

Assets of all of the 53 banks that likely would experience some difficulty total just over $4 billion.

But Smith said the over-all impact of a default, if largely restricted to New York City obligations, "while troublesome and unpleasant, would nevertheless, be controllable without serious dislocations to the banking system."

Scholarship For Student

Michael Wade Clendenen, Battalion Commander of the D. H. Conley High School JROTC, has received an Army ROTC Scholarship.

MIKE CLENDENEN

This scholarship will provide him full tuition, books, laboratory fees, and a $100-a-month subsistence allowance. It is awarded on a competitive basis and incurs a five-year military obligation. Upon completion of four years of college, he will be commissioned a second lieutenant in the regular Army.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Clendenen of Grimesland, he is also in competition for the U. S. Military Academy. He says if he does not get a West Point appointment, he will attend the Virginia Military Academy on his scholarship.

He is editor of the yearbook, a member of the Literary Club, the National Honor Society, the Drill Team, the Pitt Rangers, the Rifle team, and has run track. Some of his awards include Expert Rifleman, Superior Cadet, American Legion Academic Excellence Medal, and High Shooter Award.

Loans which are not backed by adequate collateral are more risky for banks. The spokesman said the comptroller's office hopes to have the information from the banks compiled in about two weeks.

Smith recently disclosed to a House subcommittee that 53 national banks could face insolvency or liquidity problems if New York City defaults.

They could require outside assistance from private sources or from the Federal Reserve Board or the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., he said. Most of the 53 banks hold New York City securities equal to more than 40 per cent of their gross capital funds.

A spokesman for the comptroller declined Thursday to release the names of the banks, saying the publicity would "create a run on them and ensure their collapse."

Fourteen of the banks are in New York State, with assets totaling $2 billion, and another 15 are in Florida with assets of $687 million. Of the 14 U.S. banking regions, the only region lacking a bank holding New York City securities was the region encompassing Alaska, Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Washington.

Pentagon Doubts Story Plane Crewmen Still Held In Russia

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A Navy patrol plane which vanished more than 25 years ago was on a top secret intelligence mission off Soviet Baltic territory, the Pentagon has disclosed.

U.S. officials also say they have no reason to believe reports that eight of the 10 crewmen were prisoners in Soviet camps.

After the plane and its crew disappeared on April 8, 1950, the U.S. government gave the impression they were on a training flight from Germany to Denmark.

But a Navy investigating board's report shows the four-engine Privateer was engaged in what was called a "special electronic search project mission" approved by the highest-ranking U.S. admiral in the Eastern Atlantic.

The report, which was recently declassified after being kept secret since 1950, lends no support to recent reports that some of the Navy crewmen may have survived and still be alive inside Russia.

Navy officials said there has been "no credible evidence" from that day to this that any of the crew escaped the plane and ended up in Soviet prison camps.

The investigating board — which was able to gather little hard evidence — accepted Russia's official claim that a Soviet fighter shot down the Navy plane.

However, the Navy disputed the Russian version on two key points:

—The Russian government said the U.S. Navy plane opened fire on Soviet aircraft. But the board said the plane was unarmed, except for one .38 caliber revolver normally carried for security when the plane was parked on an airfield.

—The Russians said the Navy plane was intercepted over Soviet land. However, Navy witnesses told the board the plane was under orders to stay at least 20 miles offshore from Soviet territory, and the board said "it is considered most probable" the U.S. aircraft was over the Baltic Sea when attacked.

Navy investigators apparently based their opinion on the recovery of two life rafts and the plane's nose wheel from the sea, although expert witnesses told investigators the Privateer could have strayed over Russian territory if its radar was out of order.

Interest in the mystery was rekindled last week when John Noble, once a prisoner in a Russian labor camp, and private detective Theodore Grevers said they believed at least eight of the 10 Navy crewmen may still be alive.

They cited no first-hand evidence, but quoted other former Soviet prisoners.

Grevers said today that he's not surprised at the Pentagon's disclosure that the plane was on an intelligence flight.

"That's what I've alleged all along," he said.

Grevers said he has "more than circumstantial evidence" that the men are still alive.

He said John Noble and William Marchuk, former Soviet prisoners, talked to the crewmen in Camp Vorkuta in Siberia. The crewmen told Noble and Marchuk they were "fearful they'd never see their homeland again," Grevers said. The men also told Noble and Marchuk the Russian government had informed them the United States had lost interest in getting them back, Grevers said.

The Senate Intelligence Committee was said to be interested in the case. A spokesman for the committee said that Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, had received a letter calling attention to the case and that a "polite response" had been sent in return. The spokesman said the committee staff would look into the matter, but he indicated no major investigation was planned.

White House Press Secretary Ronald Nessen told newsmen that as recently as 1973 U.S. officials had asked the Soviet Union to "provide whatever information it could" about the fate of the fliers.

Nessen said the Soviets replied in January 1974 that the American Navy men could not be found in Russia.

Winterville C-of-C Met

WINTERVILLE—The Winterville Chamber of Commerce conducted several items of business at the group's meeting recently.

Paul Hunsucker presented a plaque to John G. Weathington in honor of his grandfather, the late Fred Weathington, who was a former owner and operator of Clover Farms Grocery.

The board welcomed three new members to the organization. They are: Ray's Barber Shop; Woodrack Gallery; and The Depot Restaurant and Grill.

Members voted to support David Gradis, a teacher at A.G. Cox and Conley High School, if he decides to sponsor an arts and crafts festival.

The board agreed to check with the Town of Winterville concerning the paving of an alley behind the stores on N. Railroad Street and parking in front of the stores.

Abbott Hunsucker reported that the attorney firm of Howard, Vincent and Duffus of Greenville had rented a space in the Woodrack Galley with the following hours: Tuesday and Thursday, 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

Future Up To New York Leaders

President Ford has heard all the dire predictions of adverse effects on the nation's economy if New York goes bankrupt, and still he says that the federal government will not bail out the city financially.

The president did soften his stand somewhat by telling New Yorkers that the federal government will assist in assuring police and fire protection for the residents of the nation's largest city in the event of a financial failure for New York City.

He also proposed legislation which would allow New York City to petition the federal courts to intervene, if it is unable to meet its obligations. Once the courts intervened there would be a moratorium on creditors suits and the city's basic functions would continue.

No doubt the president's stand seems harsh to the spend thrifths who got New York City finances in the terrible condition they are in today. But these people who made the mess seem willing to propose only one solution: let the rest of the nation pay for their wasteful ways.

Obviously it would be comforting to the New York politicians if the federal government would come to their aid. The problem is, though that the waste would go on and the federal government would be continually sending money to New York to make up what ever deficits its leaders chose to pile up. Worse, there are other governmental units in the country watching to see if the New York strategy works. Soon we would have other local politicians threatening the nation with economic ruin if the federal government didn't pay up.

No one wants to see New York go bankrupt. Certainly we don't. But the financial day of reckoning has come for New York's leaders. They can show responsibility by cutting spending and finding new sources of revenue and soon the city can be back on a sound financial basis. Obviously, though, that is not going to be done until it becomes clear that the federal government is not going to ship money in.

President Ford said the city's creditors—the banks and pension funds—will not be wiped out. "How much they will be hurt will depend upon the future conduct of the city's leader," the president said.

We agree.

Domino Theory Again

By GEORGE GEDDA

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

"You have a row of dominoes set up. You knock over the first one, and what will happen to the last one is the certainty that it will go over very quickly."

With these words 21 years ago, President Dwight D. Eisenhower outlined the "falling domino principle" to demonstrate the strategic importance of Indochina to the Western world.

Persuaded that Eisenhower was right, a succession of American presidents went to great lengths to assure that the domino scenario would not be played out.

Now, it has been exactly six months since the Communists moved into power in South Vietnam. That event brought an end to one of the most divisive episodes in American foreign policy history but it also marked the beginning of the central test of the domino theory.

As long as the American-backed government in Saigon was able to survive, the validity of the domino theory could not be proved. With Saigon's fall, would other neighboring countries follow suit "very quickly," as Eisenhower had predicted, or was the whole theory a pipedream?

In the six months since the National Liberation Front flag was hoisted for the first time at the presidential palace in Saigon, both hawks and doves can point to events in Indochina and elsewhere which suggest each was right all along.

But the consensus is that it is far too early to write the final chapter on the wisdom of American policy in Indochina.

The period between last April and June was one of tumultuous change in Indochina. Almost simultaneous with the collapse of the Saigon government was the victory of the Khmer Rouge movement in neighboring Cambodia. This was followed quickly by the Communist success in Laos. One U.S. official called this "dramatic evidence of the domino theory set in motion."

Elsewhere, the changes have been less startling. But there has been a perceptible decline in American influence in some areas.

Within five days after the fall of Saigon, Thailand, the western neighbor of Laos and

Sense Fear Of Unknown

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — While some members of the North Carolina Senate can provide several reasons for wanting to change the rules and strip the lieutenant governor of his powers, fear of the unknown which lies ahead, and acquaintance with past practices, are really prompting the move.

On the surface, senators pushing for the change say a division is needed between the legislative and executive branches, and the lieutenant governor is a member of the executive.

They also point to the fact that North Carolina is one of only 10 states in the nation which still invests the power to name committee members and chairmen in the lieutenant governor.

The new way, being pushed by a group led by State Senator Kenneth C. Royall of Durham, would provide a Committee on Committees chaired by the president pro tempore (elected by the majority party) to make those powerful appointments.

Senior Control

Critics of this approach, however, see it as a "little federal" system leading to control of the senate in the hands of a few senior members.

The method of membership on the Committee on Committees would be by the senior state senator from each of the state's 12 Congressional districts.

That would, some argue, lead to more legislators remaining in office longer and winning re-election by warning constituents that defeat would eliminate them from the power position.

Those favoring the change see as a major benefit that same seniority element rejected by critics: the continuity in leadership provided by a committee having control over the committee process, rather than a new lieutenant governor who could wipe out existing chairmen and committee assignments to suit his own designs.

There are, however, two key elements which go beyond those surface arguments:

1. The likelihood that the next lieutenant governor will come from the outside, not from within the membership of the senate.

2. Disenchantment among some senators with Lt. Gov. James B. Hunt's use of appointive powers to enhance his election bid next year in the race for governor.

Several veteran legislators are worried that as the race for lieutenant governor shapes up now, their next leader will not be one of their colleagues, and could quite likely be a person with no legislative experience.

Fear Newcomer

Turning the vast powers of legislative control over to such a newcomer, some fear, would be traumatic. The issue is compounded by the recognition of some that it is possible for Chapel Hill Mayor Howard Lee, a black, to win.

Prejudices aside, many senators see the front-runner at this time as Wake County Attorney Waverly Akins who is running on a foundation of service as a county commissioner and former president of the statewide County Commissioners' Association. He lacks legislative experience.

And even of the two serious contenders with legislative experience — both are representatives, not senators: House Speaker James C. Green who won few friends in the upper house with his outspoken criticisms and open confrontations on legislative matters earlier this year; and Herbert L. Hyde.

The additional element of the power of the lieutenant governor being used to keep supporters in line, and punish some who would not pledge support in the coming governor's race, further pushed the idea of a change. There is, then, more to the situation than legislative leaders attempting to work out a formula for the best use of the time and energy of the state's lieutenant governor.

The GALLUP POLL

Ford's Popularity Is Same

(Copyright 1975, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Republication in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.)

PRINCETON, N.J.—President Ford's popularity remains unchanged despite his heavy campaigning during the recent weeks.

In the latest survey, conducted in early October, 47 per cent say they approve of the way he is handling his job as Chief Executive, while 37 per cent disapprove and 16 per cent are undecided.

These findings virtually match those recorded in three earlier surveys conducted since early August.

Presidents normally set aside the final months of pre-election years to grassroots political activity, but Ford has outdone his predecessors. No Chief Executive in recent history has travelled so much as has Ford during the last few months.

Although his frequent grassroots trips to various parts of the nation may have had the important effect of swelling the coffers of local GOP organizations, his trips do not appear to have boosted his stock with the nation's voters.

Following is the question asked to determine presidential popularity:

"Do you approve or disapprove of the way (name of incumbent) is handling his job as President?"

Here is the trend since early August:

FORD POPULARITY

Analysis By Key Groups

While President Ford fares poorly among certain traditionally Democratic groups, such as Jews and blacks, he scores well among other Democratic groups such as Catholics and young people.

Among Jews and blacks, disapproval of Ford's performance far outweighs approval. Among Catholics, on the other hand, approval outweighs disapproval. In fact, Ford's rating among Catholics matches his rating among Protestants.

Among young adults (18 to 29), approval is higher than it is among older adults. This despite the fact that young adults have traditionally leaned Democratic in their party preferences.

The President's rating is highest in the Midwest, next in the West, then in the South, and is lowest in the East.

The following table gives the full breakdowns, based on a combination of the last five national surveys and interviews with 7,753 adults:

The Passport To NYC

WASHINGTON—I decided to go to New York City the other day. After what President Ford and Secretary of the Treasury William Simon and Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board Arthur Burns have been saying about the city I first checked with the State Department to make sure that I wouldn't be jeopardizing my citizenship.

I was put in touch with someone from the passport division.

"I'd like to go to New York City," I told him, "and I was wondering if there were any restrictions on my passport for making the trip. I know we're not allowed to go to Albania, North Korea, Cuba and Uganda, but I'm not clear on what the United States policy is on New York."

"What is the purpose of your trip?" the State Department official asked me.

"Tourism," I replied. "I thought I'd catch a few shows, go to dinner at a good restaurant and maybe do a little shopping."

"At the moment the United States has no official restriction concerning an American citizen visiting New York City, but I am obligated to warn you that you'll be doing it at your own risk."

"Why is that?" I asked.

"If anything happens and the city goes down the drain we won't be able to protect you. As you know, the President has broken off all diplomatic ties with Mayor Beame and the situation is very tense. Why can't you go to China or the Soviet Union where we have good relations?"

"I'd just like to see New York," I said, "You never know when the curtain will go down on that part of the world, and if I don't do it now I may never get another chance."

"I can appreciate your feelings on that," the State Department official said, "but I must tell you that you couldn't have picked a worse time. By visiting New York you will only be contributing to its economy and encouraging Abe Beame to stay in power. The President and the secretary of the treasury believe New York City must be taught a lesson if it ever hopes to become a part of the Free World again."

"I know what you're saying," I told the man. "But I still think a visit there won't hurt American foreign policy. I'll appreciate the United States more than ever when I get back."

"If you insist I can't stop you," the official said angrily. "But we will have to make a routine check with the FBI to make sure you have no relatives there."

"But I do have relatives there. I have three sisters and an aunt."

"That puts a different light on things. How do we know you won't be blackmailed by the secret police?"

"I thought they didn't have secret police in New York any more," I said. "I heard Beame had to cut them out of his budget."

"I forgot that," the State Department official said. "By the way, you're not going with Jane Fonda are you?"

"I'd like to. I didn't know she was going."

"We have information she and Dr. Spock are planning to attend a Jets game at Shea Stadium. They expect to meet with Joe Namath."

"That's terrible," I said. "But I assure you my visit isn't political. I just want to see the Statue of Liberty and the Metropolitan Museum of Art."

"All right, bring your passport in and we'll certify it for (ital) one (unital) trip. But, remember, you're going to be in enemy territory and anything you say or do will reflect on the United States of America. When you come back the White House would like to debrief you."

"That's all right with me," I said. "I'll keep my eyes and ears open. If there's anything I can do to bring New York to its knees tell the President he can count on me."

Other Editors Say Prof. Toynbee

(Greensboro Daily News)

Professor Arnold Toynbee, who died last week at 86, was an historian by profession but a philosopher and prophet by inclination. His monumental opus, A Study of History, was published in 12 volumes over 40 years. It attempts not only to describe the rise and fall of 26 different civilizations, but also to interpret their course according to Toynbee's elaborate theory of historical cycles. It is more revelation than history—a distinction Toynbee himself would not have eschewed.

Toynbee, after all, was never popular in established academic circles, where philosophers bearing generalities are always regarded with considerable skepticism. But Toynbee was a typical. His tastes were catholic, his traditional British education firmly grounded in the classics, his erudition astounding.

Toynbee also irritated his more secular colleagues by emphasizing the role of spiritual rather than material forces in determining the course of history. He rejected what he called "the dogma that life is just one damned thing after another," and suggested that the end of history will reveal the Kingdom of God. But Toynbee did not believe history inexorably bettered itself in this process. He was temperamentally drawn to the tragic and pessimistic, though he once said "the human race is going to choose life and good, not death and evil."

It was only in his later years that Professor Toynbee's books received serious attention as works of scholarship. And well they should have. If he did not always succeed in his professed goal "to be a student of human affairs studied as a whole," it can be said of him that his effort was magnificent. While many of his historical colleagues labored in lesser vineyards, Toynbee applied a broader vision to his craft. It was a flawed vision, but no less grand for that. Future students of history may disagree with him, but they cannot afford to ignore him.

Telegrams addressed to Governor Ehringhaus urging the chief executive to appoint Judge Walter L. Small of the Superior Court bench to the place on the State Supreme Court vacated by the death of Judge Willis J. Brogden, were signed and sent today by practically every member of the Pitt County Bar Association.

Judge Small is holding a criminal court term here this week. He is from Elizabeth City and is among those unofficially named in Raleigh as being considered for the high court bench.

A number of other Superior Court justices are included in the list being named by political observers as having a chance to receive the appointment.

Strength For Today

WHERE ARE THE DEAD?

It seems strange that more people do not ask the question, Where are the dead? It is impossible to conceive of the number of people who have died since the world began. What has happened to them?

If these lives were snuffed out for all eternity, or if the dead are in some state of suspended animation, then everything that religion teaches us is wrong. If, on the other hand, these people have passed on into another sphere of living, then there is a prodigious activity going on which our senses cannot apprehend, but which is vastly greater and more significant than anything happening on this side of the grave.

Does it not seem strange, then, that people go through life unconscious of the presence of the great heavenly host that must be around us! They do not speak of us, but certainly they must be engaged in some activity. Perhaps they are more deeply conscious of us than we are of them.

Could See Unwanted Effects

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — President Ford's plan to permit a New York City financial default rather than commit the federal government to a loan guarantee program conceivably could produce some of the very effects he seeks to avoid.

The intent of the Ford effort is to isolate the New York City problem and avert making it a responsibility of citizens elsewhere in the nation. It seeks to avoid a direct federal involvement.

But some members of the financial community suggest it could spread rather than restrict the ailment and that it might eventually force the federal government into making guarantees.

The issue seems to have become so complex as to transcend political and philosophic points of view. Some financial men preface their remarks with expressions of sympathy with the President's intent but wonder if it can achieve its goals.

Talks with bond dealers and analysts make clear their concern about even further damage to the keystone of the municipal market, the "full faith and credit" guarantee of repayment on general obligations bonds.

Fears that this sacrosanct principle was being abandoned already has caused a substantial rise in borrowing costs for hundreds of municipalities throughout the country. An added threat now seems to exist.

Under the Ford plan a new chapter would be added to the federal bankruptcy law to permit municipalities to default without first obtaining approval of 51 per cent of bondholders.

It would also seek to create debt certificates to meet the short-term needs of the city in default, and holders of these certificates apparently would possess a stronger claim to repayment than even the original bondholders.

The question arises of whether a market can exist under such conditions.

"Destroy full faith and credit and what do you have?" asked Brenton Harries, president of Standard & Poor's, which rates most municipal bonds. He attributes the higher prices municipalities must pay today to a deterioration of confidence in that concept.

The Ford plan of permitting the city to default, if need be, runs into further obstacles because of an abundance of laws and regulations and codicils that prevent trustees of funds from investing in a city in default.

Police Dept. No Guarantee Included 'Slowdown' In Nuclear Plant Sale

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Police started a slowdown today after rejecting as too low a pay increase proposed by City Council.

The president of the Asheville chapter of the Fraternal Order of Police, W. L. Dillingham, said Thursday night's vote for a slowdown was unanimous. He said the FOP wants a 10 per cent raise for patrolmen, beginning Saturday, or 15 per cent to take effect Jan. 1. Patrolmen now make $8,970 a year.

The City Council approved Thursday a new pay package affecting more than half the city's 963 employees, including all police and firemen. It would raise salaries in a range of between 5 and 30 per cent a year. A patrolman's salary would have been raised by an annual rate of 10 per cent.

Dillingham said the slowdown would be by only the city's 100 patrolmen. Police cars will patrol their beats. Dillingham said all needed calls will be answered. He also said only hazardous traffic violations will be cited, and only felony arrests made.

Dillingham said officers will report to work at regular shift-change times, in uniform.

Mayo Richard Wood Jr. said that any refusal of a law enforcement officer to carry out his responsibilities would be subject to discipline under the city's Civil Service regulations. He said the city's responsibility to provide law enforcement to its citizens would be carried out under any circumstances.

John Scott Trotter Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP)—John Scott Trotter, a Charlotte, N.C., native who was Bing Crosby's musical director, has died at age 68.

Trotter died Wednesday at Mount Sinai Hospital of an undisclosed ailment.

Recently, he supervised the music for the Charlie Brown television specials, the "Babar" specials and scored and conducted the music for the Charlie Brown movie.

He also conducted pop concerts and was guest conductor for symphony orchestras.

While at the University of North Carolina, Trotter became the pianist for Hal Kemp's collegiate band. Later, he became the band's arranger when it became a leading professional dance band in the 1920s.

He left the Kemp band in 1936 and moved to Hollywood, where he scored the music for a Bing Crosby movie, "Pennies From Heaven."

Crosby then asked Trotter to become the musical director for his radio show. Their association continued until Trotter's death.

A family spokesman said Trotter's body was to be cremated and a memorial service was to be held at a time to be announced later.

Survivors include a sister, Margaret Kinghorn of Laguna Hills, Calif.; and three brothers, William and Thomas of Charlotte, and Robert of Eugene, Ore.

edly carries no guarantee the plant will work, and would bind the buyers from suing if the plant is found defective.

According to the terms of the proposal, contained in a 160-page document obtained by the Charlotte News, Duke Power said it would "not be responsible for . . . the failure of the plant to commence operations or its subsequent breakdown."

In addition, the utility would "require that the agreement involved include a covenant not to sue . . . and a release which absolves Duke of any liability to other parties under federal and state antitrust and public utility laws" which might arise.

But the company has agreed to arrange for "purchase and delivery of the initial core fuels required for the operation" of each unit at the proposed plant. The proposal made no firm commitment to assist the buyers in finding additional nuclear fuel although it did not rule out the possibility.

Utility officials declined comment.

The offer to sell the $1.2 billion facility to North Carolina and South Carolina cooperatives and municipal power companies came at a Charlotte meeting last week.

A second meeting is scheduled for Nov. 21.

Earlier, Duke Power officials had said the buyers would be responsible for operating the plant although Duke would complete construction and supervise start-up tests.

Marshall Lancaster, executive director of Electricities of North Carolina, said Thursday "initially Duke had spoken like" it would operate the plant.

"I imagine if we want Duke to operate it, that will have a price tag on it," Lancaster said.

But Lancaster said he did not foresee any problems with the sale and his group was prepared to begin negotiations at any time.

Duke Power received federal approval to begin construction of the plant on Lake Wylie last August. The sale was proposed as a means of raising capital to offset financial problems expected by the 1980s, utility officials said.

To Thailand's south, Malaysia, anticipating an upsurge in rebel activity, is expanding its security forces and recently purchased 41,000 American M-16 rifles.

Most U.S. officials agree the key to Southeast Asia's future rests with Vietnam which, in practical terms, has become united under Hanoi's rule since the events of last April.

As these officials see it, Hanoi, with some $4 billion in abandoned U.S. weapons at its disposal, has the capacity to nourish insurgent movements elsewhere in Southeast Asia for years to come. But it is not clear yet whether Hanoi has such plans.

Thailand is the country most vulnerable to Hanoi-inspired insurgency, with Laos serving as a corridor of easy access for any arms shipments Hanoi wishes to deliver to Thai rebels.

The smuggling of weapons to insurgents in the north and the northeast of Thailand has been going on for years but western observers say it is more open now than ever.

Officials here say Thailand may be more resilient to guerrilla activities than is widely believed. The nation never has been controlled by foreigners and, unlike Vietnam, rebel forces can't make headway by appealing to anti-colonialist instincts.

The future role of China and the Soviet Union in Southeast Asia is another question mark. Since April, there has been a sharpening of the Sino-Soviet conflict as both powers compete for influence in the area.

Curiously, this conflict may become a source of stability in Southeast Asia — and a barrier to fulfillment of the domino theory. There are signs that China sees the maintenance of the U.S. role in Southeast Asia as its best assurance against Soviet domination of the region.

In a recent meeting with Chinese officials in Peking, Philippine President Marcos brought up the subject of American bases in the Philippines. Far from demanding an end to the U.S. military presence there, the Chinese refused even to discuss the subject, Marcos said.

Earlier this year, as the Congress debated whether or not to provide South Vietnam and Cambodia with last-minute military aid, some American officials revised and broadened the old domino theory.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, among others, invoked a global domino theory and expressed concern that a failure by the United States to continue supporting U.S. allies in Indochina would raise questions in Europe, Israel, Japan and South Korea about American steadfastness.

Events thus far do not appear to have borne out Kissinger's fears. Most American allies, U.S. officials say, were relieved at the turn of events in Indochina, reasoning that the United States could finally concentrate again on areas where American vital interests are less ambiguous. In September, without help from the Soviets, Kissinger achieved the Sinai disengagement he failed to reach five months earlier, and Moscow is being rebuked by Egypt for stirring Arab discord.

In Portugal, the fortunes of the moderates have improved considerably — at the expense of the leftist parties. The fall of Indochina does not appear to have affected U.S. relations with long-time allies. Fears last May of an outbreak of hostilities on the Korean peninsula have receded, and South Korean authorities say they are confident there has been no weakening of the American commitment there. Relations with Japan, according to both Tokyo and Washington officials, have never been better.

Still, U.S. officials say the full impact of the Communist victories in Southeast Asia will be apparent only after several years pass.

BANGKOK

Capital and chief port of Thailand, Bangkok for the tourist on a flying visit is a rich string of impressions jammed together with traffic. Bad traffic, but worth braving to see—the wats, for instance. These glorious Buddhist temples number in the hundreds and are national architectural treasures. A rule for tourists: take off your shoes before entering. That's common courtesy in these parts. Among the wats thread the klongs, canals with sampans, floating markets, houseboats and commercial and sightseeing boats. Beyond the old city centered along the Chao Phraya river, the modern city sprawls out across rice paddies. A cheap way for the fast moving tourist to eat is to grab a snack from a portable restaurant, perhaps a plate of noodles or a fried squid from a shop on wheels or set up on a boat. If you've time before the plane leaves, don't overlook the Dusit Zoo, the race track, the gem stores, the teak handicrafts....

Given Control Over Wastes In Water

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina has been given control over discharges into the state's waterways, eliminating the need for federal permits, a state official said.

James E. Harrington, secretary of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources, said the state now has sole authority over issuing permits. Since 1972, both state and the federal permits were needed, he said.

"North Carolina has demonstrated great capability, patience and cooperation in the development of its permit program... I am optimistic that

Kung-Fu Evangelist To Crusade Here

Beginning this Sunday at 10 a.m. nationally recognized Karate-Kung Fu expert, Evangelist Mike Crain, will begin a crusade at People's Baptist Temple, 2020 W. Greenville Blvd., where Dr. Barry Bagwell is pastor.

Mike Crain is president of Judo and Karate for Christ and the Fort Bluff Youth Camp. He sponsors the largest Kung Fu and Karate Camp of its kind in the U.S. at Dayton, Tennessee.

Each year Crain speaks to over a half million teenagers in high schools and junior high schools on physical fitness, self-defense and drug abuse.

He was featured in Newsweek of 1971 and has been featured on a CBS special on John Hart's program of 1972. Sports Illustrated carried a three-page article about the Kung Fu and Karate camp.

Crain was filmed in a new TV special called "Thrillseekers" in which Chuck Connors introduced him as the Karatist preacher.

Crain was second person in the world to lie on a bed of nails while 50 pounds of concrete was broken off his stomach with a sledge hammer.

In Kansas City, Crain achieved a new world's record when with his elbow he broke ice seven feet thick weighing 1,000 pounds.

Mike uses these feats of Kung Fu and Karate to attract an audience to the church sponsoring him. He also takes this opportunity to preach. About 6,000 professions of faith were recorded last year in his crusades.

Nightly services will be at 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday, preceded by a 6:30 service Sunday night. The pastor invited the public to attend.

Edward Singers Anniversary

The Edwards Singers will celebrate their first anniversary Sunday at 3 p.m. at Holy Temple Church, Rt. 6, Greenville.

Sterilized Milk

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—A sterilization process that will allow milk to keep its freshness and taste for up to six months without refrigeration has been developed by two food researchers at North Carolina State University.

Until now, milk heated enough to be sterile tasted like what it was: cooked milk. But the researchers, Dr. Harold Swaisgood and Violetta Janolino, say their product has a flavor you can't tell from regular pasteurized milk. The secret is an enzyme, sulfhydryl oxidase, which they have succeeded in isolating, and which removes the cooked flavor from sterilized milk. The enzyme was first discovered in raw milk eight years ago.

However, it will still be a few years before stores may be able to stock milk on open shelf and householders able to buy several months supplies without worrying about refrigeration space. "We're not done yet," Swaisgood says. "We have to test the quality of the milk over a long period to see if there are any problems. There could be more enzymes that we have to deal with."

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned upward today, failing to mount a lasting rally on the news of prime rate cuts at some major banks.

Trading was relatively quiet. The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 4.09 at 835.33. Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 5-4 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow climbed a little more than a point in the early going after New York's First National City Bank announced a reduction in its prime rate from 7 1/2 to 7, following a similar cut Thursday by the First National Bank of St. Louis.

Several other large banks followed suit during the morning, but the rally attempt quickly faltered.

Analysts said the market still seemed to be dominated by caution over the threat of a financial default by New York City and its possible effects on the securities markets and the economy.

Safeway Stores, the Big Board volume leader, fell 2 to 43, and Winn-Dixie lost 1 to 35 1/2. A Wall Street Journal story reported that an influential research house had taken the two stocks off its recommended list.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index edged up .02 to 82.82.

John Sledge, president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau, told the group that the strength of any organization, especially a farm bureau, depended on the loyalty of the people back home. Resolutions on the various commodities, including livestock, peanuts, tobacco, field crops, were presented to the group for their approval.

The building, containing 2,100 square feet, is of brick construction and was completed in July. The facility, used for Farm Bureau affairs, includes a kitchen, large storage area and a large conference room.

The portrait of Mrs. Worthington will be placed in the building.

Every day, a million people living in a typical American city generate about half a million tons of wastewater.

Sewage systems in many cities cannot cope with these amounts. So wastewater is not cleaned thoroughly before it's discharged into rivers and lakes, and contributes to their pollution. The same rivers and lakes we rely upon for our drinking water.

Union Carbide has developed a wastewater treatment system called UNOX. It cleans the dirty water of towns and cities faster, cheaper, and uses less energy and space than any system devised before it.

The Unox System uses high-purity oxygen instead of air. The oxygen is forced into a series of closed treatment tanks where it increases the efficiency of the microorganisms that feed on pollution and improve water quality.

Nearly 100 cities are now using or installing the Unox Sys-

Commission . . .

Schofield said that letters were mailed to adjoining property owners notifying them of the requested zoning action. Only two or three of the property owners attending the session said they received the letters.

Mrs. Ruth Trevathan, board member, said that she is opposed to any downgrade in zoning and offered the motion to deny the request.

The Greenville board also gave its approval to the preliminary plats of Sections II and III of Cambridge Subdivision, located east of Hooker Road and opposite Fairlane Subdivision. Earlier approval was given to Section I and that area is now developed, it was noted.

The joint planning commission gave its endorsement to a request by the Greenville Board of Adjustments to consider the addition of "flea market or roadside sales stand" to a compatible commercial district.

The board will recommend to the Council that "flea markets" be added to the zoning ordinance as a special use permitted under Highway Commercial zoning districts.

In addition, the "flea market" special use provision under Highway Commercial would call for one parking space for each employee and two spaces for each 100 square feet of sales area.

Schofield said that the Board of Adjustments has been getting a large number of requests for flea market permits and the board felt that a little more control over the requests was needed. The city felt that Highway Commercial would be the best zone for the flea markets, the planner added.

A request by Dr. Charles Pace to amend the Medical Arts zoning district to include "residential quarters for resident manager, supervisor or caretaker" and "apartments" was recommended to the Council for denial.

Pace said that he would like to be permitted to build an apartment on the second floor of his office and he contended that it would be also good to have some apartments in the area to deter break-ins at medical offices. He said that the area is deserted at night and over the past ten to 12 years there have been numerous break-ins.

The old Medical Arts zoning district allowed quarters for resident managers, supervisors and caretakers, Schofield said, but the new MA zone does not.

Faser said that the board spent "considerable time" in developing the new MA district and he would be

He pointed out that "these courageous patriots have preserved our freedom and enhanced the liberties inherent in our way of life" and he asserted, "it is both fitting and proper that we recognize the valor and honor of those who served."

Planning Survey Of YMCA Feasibility

Terry Shank, chairman of the Greenville-Pitt County Board of Realtors' Make America Better committee said a survey will be conducted "within the next three weeks" is an effort to determine the feasibility of establishing a YMCA program here.

Mrs. Shank said Earl Armstrong, the YMCA regional executive for the Southeastern states met here Wednesday with 10 leading citizens to hear their opinions of the needs for a YMCA program and the community's ability to support such a project.

Armstrong also met Wednesday night about 30 individuals in a training program designed to teach them how to interview persons for a feasibility study.

Results of the feasibility study, according to Mrs. Shank, will be tabulated and a steering committee will then "go ahead with plans, or wait until a more opportune time to begin a YMCA program." She estimated that the cost of a YMCA program—hiring an executive and funding "Y" activities—fr the first year would be about $50,000. Mrs. Shank added that "in two or three years, we would need facility or our own. Until then, we could use facilities Greenville now has to offer."

Always-Tough Paladins Invade Ficklen

One might think that the coach of a team that had just beaten the University of North Carolina wouldn't be worried about a seemingly lesser opponent. But you can guess again! Coach Pat Dye is quite worried about the Furman Paladins, and he fears that the Pirates may be in a great deal of trouble if they are looking back and basking in the light of that 38-17 win over the Tar Heels. Or even looking forward to doing battle with the University of Virginia next week.

"The kids act like they know what's coming up," Dye said. "But one of the things I've learned here is that when you play Furman, everything goes out the window. It's a whole new ball game."

Perhaps no where in the Pirate tradition is one which gains such a high fury as a Paladin-Buc meeting. Furman always comes into the game with fire in its eyes. And despite the fact that Furman has dropped the last 10 in the row, the sparks always fly.

Take last year for example. Furman played the pants off the Pirates, outdoing them in everything. But a final period flurry by the Pirates, including some last second defensive standouts played, enabled the Bucs to take a 15-12 win over the Paladins. It not only spoiled the chances of the Paladins to win the Southern Conference championship, it started them on a spiral downward as it took them weeks to recover from the loss.

Last year, too, the Pirates were coming off a fine effort against N.C. State, and everyone was saying that the Bucs should go undefeated the rest of the way. Furman proved that it might be myth, and the following week, Appalachian State, completely burst the balloon with its 22-21 win.

This year, the Bucs are coming off another stellar performance, and the fans and some of the press, Dye said, are continually reminding the Pirates of it.

"This game will follow the tradition," Dye said. "I expect it to be a very tough one. For one thing, they have a hell of a football team. Their statistics are very comparable to ours, and they have a simple offense that takes advantage of what the defense does and just counters it. They are very hard to defend."

"Furman has an outstanding quarterback in David Whitehurst, who is big and strong and can do it all. Their backup, Jimmy Kiser, is an outstanding runner." He also stands 14th in the nation in kickoff returns.

"Their fullbacks are strong, and Larry Robinson is a class runner at tailback," Dye added.

He also praised their defensive line, which returned almost intact from last year. "They did a great job against the wishbone last year, and they've beaten Appalachian this year, so they are bound to have confidence in themselves. They have two outstanding linebackers and a great nose guard."

Furman runs out of the I-formation, and will run leads inside and sweep outside. They also run some veer offense from the same formation.

"It all boils down, really, to whether our people are going to do what they are capable of," Dye said. "If they beat us, I want them to beat us at our best. We can't look back or ahead; we have to be ready."

The Pirates do have some injuries, and several people may be questionable, Dye said, but did not elaborate.

The coach also heaped praise on the specialty team of the Bucs for their punt coverage. Last week, the team allowed minus seven yards in punt returns, and kicker Tom Daub averaged 48.4 yards a kick a new school record. The Bucs are allowing only 3.3 yards per punt return. Their per kick return mark is just 1.7 yards per return.

"Our football team has made a lot of things happen on defense," Dye said. "We've had 19 interceptions and recovered 15 fumbles in eight games. That's better than four a game. And we figure a team making a turnover loses 30 yards at least in field position, so we're gaining over 120 yards in position a game."

Furman and East Carolina are right up against each other in the Southern Conference statistics—just as they are in the standings, tied for third place with 2-2 records in the league.

The Bucs are second in total offense, 334.6 per game, while Furman is third with 323.6. In rushing the Bucs are second with 230.8, followed by the Paladins at 212.6. Passing, Furman ranks second with 111.0, while the Pirates are fifth with 103.9. In scoring, the Bucs are second, 23.3, and Furman, third at 20.4.

On defense, the Paladins are third in total defense, 277.9, while East Carolina is fifth at 299.8. Against the rush, Furman is second at 158.7, and East Carolina third, 176.9. Furman is fourth against the pass, 119.1, while the Bucs are sixth at 122.9. East Carolina is tied with Furman for second in scoring defense, as both are allowing 15.3 per game.

Robinson leads the Furman rushing with 78.9 yards a game, best in the conference. Whitehurst is averaging 137.3 yards in total offense, second best in the league. Overall Furman has five backs who have rushed for 100 or more yards.

East Carolina is led by quarterback Mike Weaver, averaging 69.7 yards a game in total offense. However, he has not been playing in a "full-time" role most of the time.

Ken Strayhorn has regained the rushing lead for the Pirates with a 52.6 yard average, while Willie Hawkins is next with a 51.3 mark. Seven Pirates have rushed for over 100 yards so far this year.

Citadel Joins Spider Chase

By The Associated Press
The Citadel Coach Bobby Ross says "each game gets bigger and each team gets better" as his Bulldogs head into the stretch run they hope will enable them to overhaul Richmond's Spiders in the Southern Conference football race.

While front-running Richmond, 4-0 in the league and 4-3 over-all, is playing Saturday afternoon at Georgia of the Southeastern Conference, the Bulldogs will be trying to sneak within half a game of the Spiders in a home game against Appalachian State's Mountaineers.

The Citadel and Appalachian both are 5-2 against all opposition, but the Bulldogs stand 3-1 in the conference with three games left to 1-2 for the Mountaineers, knocked out of the running in a 24-17 defeat last weekend by Richmond, which has two league games remaining.

A second weekend conference scrap has East Carolina's Pirates, 2-2 and 5-3 with a three-game winning streak going, at home Saturday night against Furman's Paladins.

Two other afternoon non-league scraps have William and Mary's Indians, 0-7, facing Virginia Tech's Gobblers, 4-3, in the Oyster Bowl at Norfolk, Va., and Davidson's Wildcats, 0-5, at Kenyon. Virginia Military's Keydets, 2-5, have the weekend off.

The Citadel leads the nation in scoring defense, having yielded just 35 points, and hasn't given up a touchdown in 13 quarters, but Appalachian has the league's most potent offense, even though it was shut down fairly effectively last weekend by Richmond.

"They are very big and have excellent speed at their skilled positions," says Ross of the Mountaineers. He's particularly impressed by linebacker Julius Thomas and quarterback Robbie Price, the conference's individual leader in total offense. "Most of our kids have started for us two or three years," says Ross of his defensive unit. "They have a lot of pride in themselves and they're getting great leadership."

Appalachian Coach Jim Brakefield says The Citadel "has put together a fine defensive unit and we will have to play much better football this Saturday than we did against Richmond in order to win."

The Mountaineer coach is especially mindful of Bulldog linebacker Brian Ruff and quarterback Gene Dotson. He says Ross "has some fine personnel all over the field. They are a solid football team."

"This will be a real challenge for our coaches and players to get ready to play this week," says Coach Pat Dye of East Carolina, which upended North Carolina 38-17 last week. "I'm just glad we have Furman at home."

Furman Coach Art Baker says the Pirates "are a good looking football team. They have some big, strong people who can really run. We have our work cut out for us this week."

"This is a great in-state rivalry—probably as big as any I've been associated with," says William and Mary Coach Jim Root of the game with Virginia Tech. "The first thing I heard when I came here was, 'Coach, you only have to win one game a year—Tech.'"

Although the Indians have scored only four touchdowns all season, Tech Coach Jimmy Sharpe says "it's the kind of game you can wind up losing. William and Mary will be highly motivated, and they run the kind of offense that has given us the most trouble . . ."

Sharpe, too, has had some offensive troubles, blaming it on "a lack of consistency." But he says the Gobblers' offense is "potentially explosive."

Although Richmond has a crucial home game next week against The Citadel, Coach Jim Tait doesn't feel his Spiders will let down at Georgia, which has won five of seven starts. "We hope we can be competitive," says Tait. "It's just a challenge for us to play against a great SEC team."

A CAREFUL COACH
LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Indiana University's football team had 2-9 and 1-10 seasons the past two years and when Coach Lee Corso attends alumni gatherings he is extra cautious of his remarks, sometimes.

When presented with a watch at one alumni session, Corso said: "I'm not going to wear this for at least 24 hours. After the past two seasons I'm a little edgy about anything that ticks."

Wilson Tops Cubs

Wilson's junior varsity scored two final period touchdowns to down the Rampants Cubs of Rose High School, 12-6, yesterday.

All of the scoring came in the final period of the game as the schools swapped touchdowns. Rose had threatened early in the game, driving to the eight on its first possession before being held on downs.

In the second half, Wilson drove to the 12 but an interception by the Cubs stopped that drive.

Finally, Wilson managed to break the ice and score the first touchdown. It came on a 13-yard run by James Barron.

Rose came right back with a score to tie it up, with Dino Staton scoring on a 15-yard run. But another touchdown by Wilson late in the game, gave the Baby Titans the win. Joel Bradbury got it, on a five-yard run.

The loss left Rose with a 2-7 record. They close out the season next Thursday, traveling to Elizabeth City to meet Northeastern.

Will End Confusion

The East Carolina University athletic department asked today that future donations to the Clarence Stasovich Memorial Scholarship Fund be made out with that designation.

"There was some initial confusion as to how to make the checks out," Business Manager Earline Leggett said. "We hope that this will clear it up."

Checks for the scholarship fund, established in memory of the late athletic director, should still be sent to the East Carolina Athletic Department, Minges Coliseum, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Cross-Country Meet Is Here

East Carolina University will play host to the Southern Conference cross-country meet Saturday at 11 a.m. in the Allied Health-Minges Coliseum area.

William & Mary's Indians, who have dominated the sport for years, are expected to win another title in this year's running. Furman, which had been expected to give the Indians a test for the title, is listed as the top choice for second place.

"It'll be William & Mary all the way," East Carolina track coach Bill Carson said. "Furman started strong, and they were expected to really give William & Mary a fit, but injuries have knocked Furman out of a chance to really challenge. But there should be a real fight for second place between Furman, Appalachian State, Richmond and VMI. East Carolina, The Citadel and Davidson will probably battle for sixth."

"Our kids will run just as hard as they can for the best position, so it should be a pretty good race," Carson added.

Individually, Carson looks for Chris Tulou to lead the field for William & Mary. "James Rasch of Furman has been hurt and I'm not sure of his status, but he could run well too. Louis Blount

Green In 28-0 Win

The Green team gained a 28-0 victory over the Blue in the Tackle Football League yesterday.

The Green scored twice in the first period to sew up their win. Clavin Nesbit scored on a 10-yard run for the first touchdown, then came back with a 13-yarder for the second. Chris Ross added the PAT for the 14-0 halftime lead.

Nesbit scored his third touchdown in the third period, this time going in from the three. Jamie Bradley got the PAT to up it to 22-0. Then, in the final period, William Frizzell scored on a 40-yard run.

Ashley Taylor, who recovered two fumbles, and Jamie Bradley, who got another, led the Green defense. Calvin Jones with an interception and a fumble recovery led the Blue defense.

of Appalachian should also finish high, as will Mac Collins of William & Mary. There are other good people in the race, but these should be the leaders."

Overall, Carson sees the conference as improved.

The meet will be run over a six-mile course which begins near the Allied Health Building. The first two miles is in that vicinity, while the final four cross Charles Boulevard, and are in the Minges Coliseum area. "Someone could watch just about the entire race by moving around the coliseum area," Carson said. "The finish line will be right behind Scales Fieldhouse."

Commissioner Ken Germann will be on hand to present the championship trophy — probably again to William & Mary.

Bucs Host Booters

East Carolina's soccer team meets William & Mary Saturday at 11 a.m. with the winner moving on to the finals of the Southern Conference.

The match pits the two leaders in the Northern Division of the conference. The winner will then host Southern Division winner Appalachian State for the title on November 8.

Appalachian is the defending league champion.

Ashley Taylor, who recovered two fumbles, and Jamie Bradley, who got another, led the Green defense. Calvin Jones with an interception and a fumble recovery led the Blue defense.

Rose Netters Bow To Wilson

Two of the doubles events took 18 sets to decide, while several of the singles were extended to more than 12 games. No one scored a shutout set.

In exhibitions, Sally Augspurger of Rose downed Lou Ann Davis, 8-4, while Wilson's Eileen Rodri downed Kathy Murphy, 8-5.

Rose's next outing will be in the sectionals, next Wednesday and Thursday in Wilson. The Rampant girls will enter Marty East and Serena Matney as a doubles team, along with Kitsy Bailey and Sheri Augspurger. Karen Jeffreys and Peggy Barber will compete in the singles competition. Rose, Pirates Both Are Picked Normally, you don't see people celebrating when they lose, but this week, a lot of people around the Daily Reflector have been quite pleased that they missed a game or two last time around.

Everybody missed the East Carolina victory over North Carolina, and three of us missed out on the Rose win over Northern Nash. But not a tear has been shed over it. We're all quite happy with the outcome.

Nevertheless, there were some not-so-hot records turned in last week, but Jack Whichard with an 8-4 week, continued to hold onto first place.

Right now, Jack has a 72-21 record, picking up two games on Tom Baines, who's 6-6 week tumbled him to 69-24. Joe Jenkins, who also was 8-4, climbed into Baines' back pocket with a 68-25 record.

George Holland is now 64-29 while we are 63-30, as both of us went 7-5. Also going 6-6 was Diane Allen, now 59-34 overall.

In our high school ranks, the upsets continued as Conley spanked C.B. Aycock and Williamston stopped Edenton. Our mark of 3-2 left us with a 33-21-1 record for the season.

To a certain extent, there really isn't much of a race left in any of the conferences unless something astounding happens—and that always remains a possibility.

There are two cross-county games this week that will keep the folks of Pitt going. North Pitt visits Farmville Central in one, while Conley is at Ayden-Grifton for the other.

In the North Pitt-Farmville clash, the Jaguars are coming off a heartbreaking loss to the Chargers that just about killed their chances of a title and a playoff berth. North Pitt, however, has nothing to lose in the game, and could come off rather well. We look for Farmville to come away with the win, however.

Ayden-Grifton, while still tied for first, really can't win it unless Greene Central loses. They may also be down, while the Vikings must be up following their win over Aycock. Still, the odds say that Ayden-Grifton should win.

Plymouth visits Williamston in a Northeastern Conference game. The Tigers may have a letdown following their upset of Edenton. Plymouth has been playing very good ball too. We hate to go against the only team to stop the Aces, but we must. . . Plymouth is our choice.

North Lenoir is at Greene Central, and the Hawks are more like plucked chickens this year. Greene Central will keep rolling along.

Finally, Creswell is at Jamesville in a game that will mean last place in the Tobacco Belt Conference. Neither team has league win, but I'll go with Jamesville to come away with the game.

Our panel, after splitting down the middle on Rose last week, has no such feelings this week. The game with Wilson should be much tougher than last week's and we will be greatly surprised if Rose rolls up a big point total against the Titans. This week, everyone goes with Rose, 6-0.

The Pirates too, didn't get a vote last week, but this week, things have changed. Right down the line. . . one, two, three. . . all six go with the Pirates:

One thing about it, however, traditionally, when these two meet, everything goes right out the window.

In the rest of the poll, we pick Appalachian and Citadel as a toss-up; Georgia over Richmond; Florida State over Clemson; Penn State over Maryland; State over South Carolina; Notre Dame over Navy; Virginia Tech over William & Mary; Georgia Tech over Duke; Carolina over Wake; Vanderbilt over Virginia, and Kentucky over Tulane.

Only ACC Teams With Winning Marks Take On Outside Opponents

By The Associated Press
The only two Atlantic Coast Conference teams with winning records, Maryland and North Carolina State, play outsiders Saturday as the football season moves toward the homestretch.

The 14th-ranked Maryland Terps, 5-1-1 after an open date last week, are home to an old nemesis, Penn State, 7-1. The Nittany Lions have beaten the Terps 20 times in their 21 meetings. The last Maryland victory was at home in 1961. Bowl scouts will be watching the game.

N.C. State, 5-3, will be home to South Carolina, 5-2 after being beaten 24-6 by LSU last week. The game will be televised in the ACC a ea, beginning at 4 p.m. Their last three meetings, each won by the State Wolfpack, have been high-scoring games. It was 42-27 last year, 56-35 year before that, and 42-24 in 1972.

Nothing will change at the top of the ACC standings. Duke, 2-0 in the conference, as well as Maryland, 3-0, will be playing an outsider. The Duke Blue Devils, 3-4 in all games, will be at Georgia Tech, 5-2, in a series which goes back 42 years. Tech has won 23 times, Duke 18 times, and there has been one tie.

Wake Forest will be at North Carolina in the only league game. Each needs a victory to remain in contention for a share of second place.

Wake Forest, 2-2 in the league and 2-5 in all games, went on a 66-21 victory binge over Virginia last week, its highest point total in 34 years. At the same time, North Carolina, 1-2 and 2-5, was losing its third straight game, 38-17 to East Carolina.

The game will match the two leading rushers in the ACC. Tailback Mike Voight of North Carolina tops the league with an average of 122.5 yards a game, the ninth best in the nation. Running back Clark Gaines of Wake Forest is the No. 2 rusher in the conference, averaging 96.3 yards a game.

Clemson will be at Florida State in a game matching teams with 1-6 records. And Virginia, also 1-6, will be at Vanderbilt, 3-4

After this week's five games against outsiders, the ACC will have only eight nonconference games during the final three weeks of the season. The league record against outsiders is 8-19-1.

tough on a given afternoon as evidenced by its stunning 20-7 upset of Alabama in the season opener.

Oklahoma is rated a little more than a two-touchdown choice against State and Nebraska is favored by six points against Missouri.

In other games involving the top 20, No. 1 Ohio State hosts Indiana; No. 4 Southern Cal visits California; fifth-rated Texas A&M plays at Arkansas; No. 6 Alabama meets Mississippi State at Jackson, Miss.; No. 7 Michigan tackles Minnesota; No. 8 Texas plays SMU; ninth-ranked Penn State takes on No. 14 Maryland and No. 10 Arizona State meets Utah.

Elsewhere, it's No. 11 Florida at Auburn; No. 13 UCLA hosting Washington; Navy at No. 15 Notre Dame; 16th-ranked Colorado at Iowa State; 17th-rated Arizona at Brigham Young; No. 18 San Diego State at Pacific and Miami, Ohio, tied for No. 19 with Oklahoma State, hosting Toledo.

Steve Davis runs Oklahoma's awesome wishbone attack and All-American halfback Joe Washington is the prime weapon. Charlie Weatherbie is due back from an injury for State but sophomore Scott Burk, considered a better runner, may start anyway.

Nebraska, at 7-0 off to its best start since 1971, visits powerful Missouri, 5-2 and rated 12th. If comparative scores mean anything, the Tigers could be in for a long afternoon. The Cornhuskers routed Colorado 63-21 a week ago while Missouri lost to Colorado 31-20 earlier in the season.

Big 8 Leaders Meeting Rivals

The college football spotlight focuses on the rugged Big Eight Conference Saturday where Oklahoma, ranked second nationally, and Nebraska, ranked third, put their unbeaten records on the line against traditional foes.

The Sooners, 7-0 this season, will be gunning for their 28th straight victory when they visit Oklahoma State at Stillwater. The Cowboys, 5-2 and ranked 19th, tuned up for the game with a 35-19 shelling of Kansas last week.

Southern Cal's John McKay Said Ready To Accept Tampa's Offer

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — John McKay of Southern California was expected to announce today that he was quitting his college job at the end of the season to coach the National Football League's Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

The Tampa Tribune reported today that McKay would make his announcement in California at 2 p.m., EST.

A spokesman for the Southern Cal athletic department said, however, that no news conference was scheduled and that the Trojans were to leave Los Angeles for their Saturday game with California at 1 p.m.

It has been widely speculated that McKay, one of the nation's most successful college coaches, has decided to join the pros.

McKay, in quest of his eighth straight victory, has coached USC to three other undefeated seasons, four national championships and eight Rose Bowl berths.

The Tribune said that if plans go as expected Bucs' owner Hugh Culverhouse will make the announcement simultaneously in Tampa. McKay and Culverhouse have been negotiating since mid-summer.

The son of a West Virginia coal miner, McKay last year was president of the Football Coaches Association of America.

In California, the Long Beach Press Telegram also reported that McKay has decided to make the jump to the pros.

McKay was quoted as saying earlier this week that pressure had become "tremendous" on his family, coaching staff and Trojan players.

"It's just unfair for everybody to have to live with this," he said.

The report said McKay had met with USC President John Hubbard to tell him of the decision and that McKay had recommended longtime assistant Dave Levy to become head coach and another assistant, Craig Fertig, as athletic director.

McKay would stay until the end of the season, including any bowl appearances by the Trojans who are currently 7-0 and ranked No. 4 in the nation.

Reportedly, the offer from Tampa "includes various possible roles over a 15-year period" and involves more than $1 million in salary and fringe benefits including a provision to buy a percentage of the team after five years.

McKay, 52, has been at Southern Cal since 1960 and has also been the Trojan athletic director for the past five years.

Haywood, Newest Knick, Looks Forward To Trip

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer
Spencer Haywood, the newest Knick, can't wait to get out of town.

Haywood, the object of media overkill since coming to the Knicks from Seattle one day before the start of the National Basketball Association season, is looking forward to New York's five-game road trip to the West Coast next week just to get some time to himself.

"I was just overwhelmed by the whole New York experience," said the soft-spoken Haywood. "The whole New York thing has had me up in the air. I think when we get on the road I'll have some time to calm down."

Haywood has been looking more at home with the Knicks in each outing and Thursday night he looked downright comfortable scoring 26 points and pulling down 11 rebounds as New York beat Kansas City 117-113.

"I felt better tonight, more relaxed," he said. "You can't do anything unless you're relaxed. I came here with a lot of ideas about changing numbers and what not, but it's not going to be like that.

"I'm just going to play my heart out and try to win for the Knicks and then go home and try to live my own life."

Cleveland beat Chicago 108-91 in the only other NBA game played Thursday night. San Antonio edged San Diego 102-100 in the lone American Basketball Association contest.

Haywood scored 10 points and pulled down seven rebounds in the first quarter for the Knicks, but ran into foul trouble and was less effective the rest of the way.

The Kings, trailing 26-14 late in the first period, rallied behind speedy Nate Archibald to go ahead 55-54 at the half. Archibald scored 19 points in the first half. He added 14 more in the third period but Walt Frazier and reserve center Neal Walk led the Knicks to an 85-82 lead after three and the Kings never caught up. Haywood and John Gianelli sank two free throws each in the final minute to ice it for New York.

Frazier scored 32 points and Earl Monroe and Walk had 16 each for the Knicks. Archibald finished with 35 points, only two in the final period, and Scott Wedman added 25 for the losers. New York is 2-3 while Kansas City is winless in three tries.

Cavaliers 108, Bulls 91
Bingo Smith scored 22 points as Cleveland won its first game in three outings. The Cavs pulled away in the second half and led by as many as 19 points late in the game. Dick Snyder added 17 points for Cleveland while Bob Love topped Chicago with 17.

Spurs 102, Sails 100
Larry Kenon's 15-foot jump shot with 22 seconds left gave San Antonio its margin of victory. James Silas topped the Spurs with 29 points, George Gervin added 23 and Kenon had 20. Bo Lamar scored 26 points for San Diego.

Hunt Illegal Deer Hunters

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Federal agents are tracking down Southeastern hunters who falsify applications for permits to hunt deer in national wildlife refuges, federal agents say.

Spokesmen for the Fish and Wildlife Division of the Department of the Interior said Thursday about 700 permit applications, most from Georgians, are scheduled for investigation and possible criminal prosecution.

More are expected as the hunt for cheaters spreads through the Southeast, the spokesmen said.

"There are prominent business people and some law enforcement people right here in the Atlanta area" under suspicion, one federal agent said.

About 28,000 applications were submitted this year for about 14,000 permits to hunt on federal refuges in Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina and Arkansas, agents said.

In attempts to better their chances of getting permits, "these people have devised a scheme to beat the computer by submitting false names and using somebody else's Social Security number," a spokesman said.

Robert Barber, who is in charge of issuing permits in the Southeast, complained that hunters don't consider cheating immoral.

"When they're out drinking beer with their buddies, they brag about poaching a deer, but they don't brag about robbing a gasoline station," he said.

The investigation was started after agents received complaints from honest applicants, a spokesman said.

Georgia officials said the state is considering a similar investigation of abuses in applications for permits.

David S. Sledge
 University Condominiums, Sales Office
 Greenville, North Carolina 27304

Dear David:

It is the decision of the Executive Board of Sobalco Co., Inc. to increase the prices of our University Condominiums from the current price of $19,900.00 to $21,500.00.

We think this increase is more than justified by the wealth of physical improvements we have facilitated at the University Condominiums. Additionally every appraisal technique that we have access to shows that the Condominiums are worth appreciatively more than we've sold the first two-thirds of them for.

Please advise that the approved price raise will take effect November 1, 1975.

With Every Good Wish,
David S. Sledge

A NEW OWNER! A NEW IDEA!

100,000 MILES OR 3 YEARS NEW CAR WARRANTY

Why Do We Offer A 100,000 Mile Warranty?

Read For Yourself Our Reason

Every car dealer in the country is talking "dependability" these days. At Tarheel Toyota, we've decided to do something about it. A new car warranty that's longer than any other warranty in the world (exclusively for Tarheel Toyota). Bill Draper can tell you why: "Nobody else in the world has a car like this. I've seen how the Toyota is made, the quality of the workmanship, the integrity and the craftsmanship that go into this car. I know the Toyota inside and out." Until now, most new car warranties haven't been much more than discounts on the car repairs you knew you'd need. Our warranty is our guarantee of faith in Toyota. "Nobody else in the world can put this kind of warranty on their car. My faith and my knowledge and experience with Toyota tell me I can do it. Toyota builds an automobile to last!" Our knowledge of the Toyota comes from research, from first hand information from our service department and from a great number of satisfied Toyota customers. For 100,000 miles or 3 years from the day you purchase your new Toyota, we guarantee to replace or repair your motor, transmission and rear end, if they fail under normal driving conditions. We'll ask you to keep the vehicle properly maintained and we'll ask that you bring it back to Tarheel Toyota for any repairs covered by this warranty. We're offering the 100,000 mile, 3 year warranty in addition to the new car warranty offered by Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A. It's a promise, a guarantee of Toyota quality, Toyota dependability.

12 MONTHS OR 12,000 MILES USED CAR WARRANTY

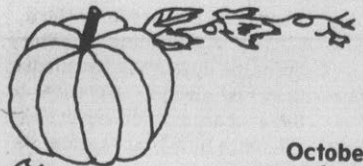

This guarantee applies to cars selling for $1000.00 and up. On a 50-50 basis. All work must be done in our shop. This warranty does not apply to any sport cars, high performance or air cooled engines or 4 speed transmissions (except economy cars). Most good used cars (even if they look like new) are only guaranteed for a month. Or for a thousand miles. No more. And some are not guaranteed at all. But at Tarheel when we say a used car is in excellent condition, we're willing to stand behind it. We're willing to do something a little extra for it. So we guarantee its motor, its rear end, and its transmission for twelve months or twelve thousand miles. If you're in the market for a better used car, come out to Tarheel and look at ours. We'll show you some as good as new. Guaranteed. Asterisk denotes warranted car.

'Categorical Denial' By Agnew

By JOHN WOODFIELD
Associated Press Writer
CROFTON, Md. (AP) — Saying that a "crushing blow" and intense pressure led to his resignation as vice president, Spiro T. Agnew has categorically denied again that he was guilty of anything except a single count of income tax evasion.

"The only thing I ever admitted was a single count of tax evasion. I categorically deny the rest and someday, when the various court cases are over, I'll be able to speak freely," he said Thursday in an exclusive interview at his office here with The Associated Press.

Agnew said he "didn't have the slightest thought of resigning, nor had I even considered it" when he made a speech two weeks before his resignation denying all of the charges against him that were being leaked to the news media and vowing to fight to the end.

"But I received a very crushing blow between the time of that speech and my resignation that changed my entire outlook," he said. He did not specify what the "blow" was.

"You have no idea what pressures were on me to resign," Agnew said. "You have to remember that a vice president has no power base from which he can fight. He has only that power delegated to him by the president."

Meanwhile, in Richmond, Va., Thursday, I.H. Hammerman II, a self-confessed "bagman" for Agnew, won reversal of his 18-month prison term.

In a decision sharply defining the limits to which prosecutors can go in offering leniency in plea bargaining, the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals apparently was convinced that prosecutors misled Hammerman into pleading guilty to tax charges in return for what the defendant thought was a guarantee that he would not be prosecuted.

The court declared that he be allowed to withdraw his guilty plea and face new proceedings

Historians At Area Meeting

Twelve representatives from East Carolina University attended the fall meeting of the Association of Historians in Eastern North Carolina at Methodist College in Fayetteville.

Attending from ECU were Walter T. Calhoun, William H. Cobb, Charles P. Cullop, Eugene W. Goll, Donald R. Lennon, Bodo Nischan, Charles L. Price, Fred D. Ragan, William N. Still and Wilkins B. Winn from the ECU Department of History, and Ralph Scott from the Department of Library Services.

Dr. Ragan appeared on the program, and Dr. Still served as president at the meeting. His term of office runs through the academic year 1975-76.

The spring meeting of the Association will take place at ECU.

before a judge, probably one brought in from another district.

The appeals court decision said that it was largely because of Hammerman's testimony that Agnew "resigned his office in disgrace" and pleaded no contest to a tax evasion charge.

Agnew said he is increasingly frustrated at "newspaper articles that consistently make note of a 40-page 'exposition of evidence'" released by federal prosecutors following plea bargains which forced his resignation.

Agnew said he has never seen a transcript of the plea bargaining, but has requested a copy.

The former Maryland governor and Baltimore County executive emphasized that another part of the agreement was that he be allowed to deny the entire 40-page document, which spelled out a series of kickbacks during his terms of office in Maryland.

"The government's case for extortion, bribery and conspiracy rested entirely on the testimony of individuals who had already confessed to criminal acts and who had been granted total or partial immunity in exchange for their testimony against me," Agnew said.

"There is absolutely no corroboration nor physical evidence to support these allegations and I have constantly denied them.

"Yet every time a story about me appears in the media, there is always reference to these charges, but never any reference to my categorical denial."

Two Qualify As Bidders On Property In CBD

Two developers qualified as bidders on disposal parcels in the Central Business District on Thursday during a special call session of the Redevelopment Commission.

Lee Ball of Blount & Ball Realty Co. here, in qualifying to bid on Disposal Parcels D-2 and D-3 on the west side of Cotanche Street between Reade Circle and Eighth Street, proposed the development of approximately 60 efficiency apartments in a three-story building.

Ball said that construction would involve a pre-cast concrete building with a total development cost of $700,000. Adequate parking would be provided, he assured commissioners.

Disposal Parcel D-2 fronts on Cotanche Street and involves some 1.7 acres while D-3 is located on the south side of Reade Circle running from Evans Street about half way back to Cotanche. Both D-2 and D-3 together comprise approximately 1.9 acres.

Lester Brown qualified as a bidder on behalf of the L. B. Garris heirs on Disposal Parcel D-3 and indicated a proposal to utilize the small parcel for parking for Taff Office Equipment Co. and the adjoining dentist office.

Brown said that the parcel might also be used to accommodate future expansion of the building on Evans Street.

Both developers were qualified as bidders subject to review and approval by the commission staff.

In another item on the agenda, commissioners accepted the low appraisal offer submitted by Nelson-Wallace Inc. of Greenville for appraisal of the Eppes School property. The offer was for $500.

The Eppes property is included in the Community Development Program for possible purchase by the city for conversion into a city-operated West Greenville Recreation Center. The property is currently being leased from the city school board for use as recreation center.

Gets Ten Years In Mail Fraud

RALEIGH (AP)—A Sugar Grove attorney, Allen Sharpe, has been sentenced to 10 years in prison after being convicted of 20 counts of mail fraud.

Sharpe, 34, was also fined $10,000 by U.S. District Court Judge Franklin Dupree Thursday.

Sharpe was convicted of fraudulently billing customers of Cameron Brown Co. of Raleigh for legal work done by a non-existent law firm.

Claim Product Caused Fatal Cancer Of Liver

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A Greensboro couple is suing a drug company and others for $6 million, accusing them of marketing a dangerous product that caused fatal liver cancer in their infant daughter.

Ord and Joan Ellias filed the suit last week in U.S. District Court in Miami, Fla., claiming that their child was treated with a plastic spray bandage called "aeroplast."

The suit further contends the product, manufactured by Parke, Davis & Co. of Detroit, contains vinyl chloride, which some scientists believe causes cancer in laboratory animals.

Parke, Davis and Sherwin-Williams Co., which packaged the spray bandage, have been named defendants.

Also named was the North Shore Hospital in Miami, where the child was reportedly treated with the product in 1973.

In Detroit, Dr. Joseph Pitelli, medical director of Parke, Davis, said "aeroplast" contains no vinyl chloride. He said the product is still on the market.

The Ellias claim Sherwin-Williams failed to test for vinyl chloride after canning the product. They also said the hospital was negligent in not recognizing the potential danger in the product.

In addition, the suit contends that in October 1973, the infant, Charlene, underwent surgery at the North Shore Hospital to correct a constricted tube in her stomach.

Aeroplast allegedly was used to cover the incision.

After the Ellias moved to Greensboro about five months later, they noticed a lump in the baby's stomach. The Ellias said they took the child back to Miami for an examination in April 1974.

Nematode Workshop

A nematode workshop will be held Nov. 5 at 2 p.m. at the Farm Bureau Building on Greenville Blvd., cosponsored by the Pitt County Agricultural Extension service and the N. C. Department of Agriculture.

The workshop will present information on nematodes and will demonstrate the principles in analyzing soil samples for nematodes. County residents are urged to attend the workshop and bring soil samples for inspection. The workshop is free. Analysis of soil carries a $1 charge.
