

Ingram Is Loser In Malpractice Pool Law Ruling

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP)—In a stinging rebuke to Insurance Commissioner John Ingram, Judge James H. H. Bailey ruled North Carolina's medical malpractice insurance pool law unconstitutional today.

Bailey said the law itself was unconstitutional and added that Ingram had made it more so by trying to impose confiscatory rates on insurance companies.

Ingram's attorneys immediately said they would appeal Bailey's decision, which was handed down in Wake County Superior Court.

Bailey's decision should have no immediate impact on the availability of malpractice insurance and health care in the state.

But it may, if upheld by the state Supreme Court, invalidate several laws giving the insurance commissioner the power to set rates for many types of insurance, including auto liability and collision.

Bailey held that the legislature did not provide enough specific guidelines when it delegated the rate-making authority to the commissioner's office. It merely said the rates must be "reasonable, adequate, not unfairly discriminatory and in the public interest."

The commissioner's rate-making authority for other kinds of insurance is based on similar language.

Malpractice insurance is now being provided by one private company and two fledgling, self-insurance programs established by doctors and hospitals.

But should the private insurers decide to withdraw and the self-insurance ventures flounder, the malpractice pool would not be able to function and ensure a supply of insurance if Bailey's decision is upheld.

He agreed with every major contention made by the more than one dozen lawyers hired by the state's insurance industry to fight against the law.

He said the law was unconstitutional for several reasons. It gives Ingram too much authority over rates, denies the insurance companies due process and deprives them of equal protection.

Bailey said the law has been applied by Ingram in an unconstitutional manner. He said the rates Ingram has established are so low they will surely result in substantial losses for companies forced to sell malpractice insurance by the law.

"That amounts to a confiscation of their property," he said.

The 1975 General Assembly, seeking to make certain that doctors could get the insurance, passed the pool law. It requires each of the 350 general liability insurance companies with licenses in the state to sell the insurance.

They can, under the law, share the profits and losses of the coverage in a reinsurance pool.

Before the law took effect in September, many companies said they were unwilling to participate. They said they thought malpractice insurance would be a losing proposition under Ingram's regulation. They said it required knowledge and skills they did not have since many had never sold it.

Late in August, the companies began going to court and winning temporary restraining orders exempting them from the law until the suit was settled.

Analyst Predicts State 'Shortfall' For General Fund

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP)—A legislative committee was told today North Carolina's general fund is almost certain to run short of expectations this fiscal year.

Lloyd O'Carroll, a fiscal analyst for the legislature's Fiscal Research Division, told the Joint Committee on the Economy that indications are North Carolina's general fund will run $20 million to $50 million short of estimates and that with "a severe natural gas shortage which closes a significant number of plants, the shortfall could reach $70 million."

Kenneth E. Flynt, economics officer for North Carolina National Bank, told the legislators it looks like the shortfall will run from $17 million to $35 million.

The projected shortfall compares with a general fund operating budget this fiscal year of $1.756 billion.

After hearing the economic figures, House Speaker Jimmy Green told the committee that he had guessed right in saying that it would be January before a clear picture of the state's fiscal situation is evident.

Frank Justice, special counsel to chairmen of the General Assembly's finance and appropriations committees, listed the options the state has in dealing with a budget deficit. He said these included action by the governor to cut revenue allotments to state agencies and a freeze on state employment by not filling vacancies or creating new jobs.

Justice also noted that the governor, with consent of the Advisory Budget Commission, could order an across-the-board reduction of all general fund appropriations. Or the governor could call a special session of the General Assembly.

Justice said one option would be to do nothing and meet the expected revenue shortfall with reversions. Reversions are unspent appropriations carried from one fiscal year to the next.

Justice noted disadvantages to action such as a freeze on hiring. He said this could result in prisons without sufficient guards and state hospitals without sufficient attendants or a reduction in the number of highway patrolmen and other law enforcement officers which could result in an increase in crime.

There were also disadvantages in an across-the-board cut in appropriations, Justice said, because "It hurts the have-nots worse than the haves."

Reversions normally could be expected to produce about $50 million a year, but the legislature had tightened this year's budget to the point will not run as high this year as usual, he said.

Confirmed

The official canvass of votes polled in Tuesday's municipal elections in eight Pitt County towns confirmed the number of votes reported in Wednesday's edition of The Daily Reflector.

According to Miss Margaret Register, executive secretary of the Pitt Board of Elections, no errors in counting the number of votes polled was found.

Junior Lee Dail of Simpson led the voting in that community with 111 votes. In a typographical error, it was stated in Wednesday's edition of The Reflector that he had received 11 votes.

City Council Hearing On Blue Law Revision Slated

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The City Council last night voted to hold a workshop session on the controversial Ordinance No. 232 or Blue Law in an effort to come up with an amended version for consideration at a public hearing.

The Council, rather than vote last night on the ordinance which regulates business activity on Sunday, indicated that it wanted to give proponents and opponents of the Blue Law a chance to be heard at a public session that would be scheduled as soon as possible.

Mayor Pro tem Percy Cox, who presided in the absence of Mayor Eugene West, told the gathering that the ordinance, he felt, needed to be amended in several places. Cox said that personally, he was in favor of keeping the Blue Law in effect but through an amended version that he said should be more practical.

Councilman John Howard, noting that the local Blue Law was adopted from the Winston-Salem statute, contended that some things contained in the ordinance are "stupid." The ordinance here was passed in 1966.

Councilman Clarence Gray contended that possible it is not quite clear to the public which items are prohibited under the Blue Law and merchants are not sure as to just what they can sell.

"I have had phone calls from ... citizens who don't understand why they can purchase one thing on Sunday and can't purchase another," Councilman Dr. Frank Fuller added. He said there are a number of citizens who would like the privilege of being able to buy what they want on Sundays.

Attorney W.W. Speight, representing some of the local merchants, said that the Blue Law has existed here for nine years and he said it "was a good law then and is still a good law in the opinion of the merchants."

Speight told the Council that if the board decided at the meeting that the Blue Law would be upheld and enforced vigorously, the merchant group would support the action.

The attorney asked, however, that if the Council decided it would repeal the law, local merchants would like to have the opportunity to express their opinions on the matter.

Speight said that the community has "benefitted greatly" in the operation of the Blue Law to "provide a day of grace and change of pace" from the Sunday operation of business establishments.

Cox said that the Council in the beginning was reluctant to amend the Blue Law because the Supreme Court had upheld its validity.

The Blue Law item was brought up last December and was tabled. Several local businesses have indicated desires to be open on Sunday.

The item will be advertised and scheduled for a public hearing no later than February and hopefully before that time, Cox told the gathering.

Community Development Amendments Are Adopted

A series of amendments to the 1975-76 Community Development Program, with the inclusion of the West Meadowbrook project as the key item, were approved Thursday night by the City Council following a public hearing.

The amendments, which basically involve a shifting of priorities from projects that will not be completed this year to other avenues of needed funding, do not affect the overall CDP budget which stands at $1,909,000.

City Planner John Schofield, in discussing the proposed amendments, explained that in the original CDP, a plan of action for the West Meadowbrook neighborhood had not yet been formulated due to restrictions relating to flood plain development. Such a plan had been proposed for the South Evans area, he noted.

The Council, since the initial CDP action, has proposed a plan for West Meadowbrook that can now be implemented, Schofield said.

The CDP staff proposed that the South Evans project be placed in the 1976-77 work program and the major emphasis of the current program year be shifted to the West Meadowbrook Redevelopment Project.

Projects eliminated from the South Evans program in the current budget, as approved last night, include: land acquisition, $171,575; public improvements, $50,000; site clearance, $11,900; and relocation, $126,875.

The West Meadowbrook project could include the following costs: land acquisition, $200,000; sewer extensions, $20,200; drainage improvements, $32,800; street improvements, $72,600; site clearance, $10,000; relocation, $126,875; and advance appraisals, $10,000. The costs total $472,475, Schofield said.

The planner explained that the only other new program proposed for addition to the 1975-76 CDP involved a new street resurfacing project, slated at a cost of $30,000.

Other amendments to the CDP involve either increasing or decreasing budget funding on various projects, including: increase in the appropriation from Moyewood Park improvements from $2,000 to $10,000; decrease in the Code Enforcement Program allocation from $50,000 to $40,000; and reduction in administrative costs by $30,000. Other changes involve planning and management items.

The amended budget will now be resubmitted to the state for a 30-day period, Schofield said. The state will then send it to the Department of Housing and Urban Development with observations and comments.

It was pointed out that the West Meadowbrook segment of the budget reflects an increase from $115,000 for the project to $472,475. The West Meadowbrook discussions drew a large contingent from the neighborhood who attended to learn more about projects for their section.

Joe Laney, executive director of the Redevelopment Commission and a member of the CDP committee on the housing rehabilitation loan and grant program, made a report on the program and received Council acceptance of the report.

Purpose of the program, as

DANGEROUS INTERSECTION

Two children died in a wreck at the intersection where 1774 (the Black Jack Highway) and 1711 (the road D.H. Conley School is on) recently. I waited 10 minutes this morning to get across this intersection. I think most of the accidents here happen when people can't see well anyway and have to pull out into the intersection to see. This is especially true when there are cars parked at a service station next to the intersection. This is a busy intersection, with a lot of school traffic, of course. The next time it might be a busload of kids that gets hit. We need a stop light there. Mrs. J. D.

You are not the only one concerned about this intersection. Traffic Engineer Gerald England says the superintendent of the Pitt County Schools and Congressman Walter Jones both have made official requests that this intersection be safer. He said traffic counts will be made soon and studies of the causes of the accidents that have occurred there will be made. He promised to report the results to Hotline.

POISON HOUSEPLANTS?

Are there any houseplants that might be dangerous if a child were to eat any part of them? Mrs. E. B.

Hotline directed your question to Rita Minton of Flora & Fauna here. She named two that she says are quite poisonous. One is dieffenbachia (or dumbcane), well known to most houseplant enthusiasts. The other is the Christmas poinsettia. Both can make a person or an animal that might consume any part of them sick, she said, and could conceivably cause death if enough were consumed.

Competition As Factor In Degree Of Success Cited At PCA Session

Dr. Leo Jenkins, chancellor of East Carolina University, was the keynote speaker at the 42nd stockholders meeting of the Pitt-Greene Production Credit Association last night at the Moose Lodge.

Approximately 850 farmers and guests from Pitt and Greene Counties attended the meeting, which was presided over by Alton Gardner, chairman.

Jenkins, introduced by Sen. Vernon White, told the group that the United States is the best nation in the world and that there is a national gross income in the U.S. of $1 trillion.

Jenkins said the reason for this high income is competition among the people who want to succeed.

Jenkins said, for example, there are only 200 items in a supermarket in Russia as compared to more than 10,000 items in an American supermarket.

"We must recognize the inevitability of change" in the world today, and "be prepared to move from one objective to another."

"Whether we like it or not, we must make our living in this new world," Jenkins said. Hopefully, he said, some of the qualities and attributes that made for success in the past are still applicable today.

Among the most important qualities and attributes, he said, is "the burning desire to succeed individually as a people."

"Our nation and state were built on the cumulative successes of individuals," he said. The ECU chancellor urged effective, "maximum" citizenship, saying "America was built by such people."

Wayne K. Stokes of Pitt County was named a director for three years and James E. Manning of Greene County was outlined in the Oct. 1 CDP draft, is to encourage low and moderate income home owners in Community Development areas to maintain their homes at required Housing Code Standards as prescribed by the city.

Cox and Gray have met with residents of West Meadowbrook to keep them informed of what is planned for the area. The mayor-elect assured them that continued efforts will be made to keep them informed on the West Meadowbrook program.

In another item on the long Council agenda, members voted to deny a request by Mrs. Nettie Lassiter for a permit to utilize a mobile home located at 310 Hooker Road as a personal residence.

Attorney Frank Wooten, representing an adjoining property owner, said that the owner was opposed to renewal of the permit, which was first issued in November of 1971. He said that he understood the theory for granting a permit was based on emergency or some unusual situation.

Wooten, saying that neighbors think the mobile home has been on the site long enough, asked if the Council intended to allow the mobile home to be a permanent structure.

Local attorney Robert D. Rouse III, representing owners of the property on which the mobile home is situated, said that letters were secured from Mrs. Lassiter's doctor indicating her health and he contended that she needs someone to give her constant attention and medication.

Wooten said that the mobile home owners had been alternating uses of the unit for several years. He asserted that the deed for the lot had been transferred from mother to daughter three times since the permit was issued.

Council member Mildred McGrath, pointed out that when a permit is issued in an individual's name, it is not transferable.

She said that her main concern was that the mobile home is closer to people who are protesting its location than it is to the people who approve the location.

Rouse said that the owners do not have the financial means to move the trailer or pay rent at a mobile home park.

Mrs. McGrath said that she did not think the matter could be considered an emergency.

The Council voted to deny the request with Gray, who indicated that he was in sympathy with both parties, voting against denial.

Approval was given to a request by the owners of Windy Ridge Subdivision for satellite annexation of the 17.56-acre development on 14th Street Extension some .35 miles from the city limits.

City Engineer Charlie Holliday said that the subdivision, which is not contiguous to the city, is located some 1,000 feet from the nearest city limit point. Annexation is permitted under the Satellite Annexation Law which authorized the addition of Lake Ellsworth Subdivision to the city last year.

The Windy Ridge development will be added to the tax books no later than Dec. 31 of this year, it was stipulated.

City Manager Harry Hagerty reported that annexation of the subdivision would add some $752,235 to the city's tax base and bring it to approximately $190 million.

A request by Cherry Oaks Inc. for rezoning from RA-20 to R-15 of Camelot Subdivision, located on State Road 1725, was approved. The subdivision contains approximately 102 acres. No opposition was voiced at a public hearing on the request.

A public hearing was also held on an amendment to Section 32-139 of the City Code relating to who may petition for an amendment to the zoning ordinance or zoning map.

Council members approved the amendment which points out that any department or agency of the city or property owner or any authorized representative of the property owner may initiate a rezoning request.

Approval was given to a request by the Recreation Commission for a $2,500 appropriation to carry out four improvement projects at Jaycee Park which were recommended by the Recreation Study Committee.

Boyd Lee, Recreation Department director, pointed out that the Council had asked for cost estimates on the four items recommended by the committee. The four projects and their cost estimates included: refocusing of lights on the tennis courts, $250; construction of wind screens, $800; planting of fast growing trees as a barrier, $700; and construction of a taller fence and wind screen for the baseball field.

Lee said that the four items were proposed as a means of helping to alleviate problems and neighborhood objections regarding the operation of the park.

W.J. Simmons, whose property backs up to the park property, said that he is still concerned that the $2,500 would be wasted. He asked if it would actually eliminate any problems at the park.

Hagerty noted that the city is looking into the idea of timers for the park lights would assure that the lights are not on for long when the facilities are not in use. The timers could be set-up on a 30-minute schedule whereby park users would be required to turn the lights on every half hour.

Cox noted that, "We will try to do everything we can to continue using the park." He added that the four steps recommended by the committee are the first in trying to eliminate park problems.

No Brewery Future Secretaries Chapter Organizes For Raleigh

RALEIGH (AP)—The Miller Brewing Co. has decided not to locate a $100 million beer plant in Raleigh because of lack of water and sewage facilities, stage industry hunters said Thursday.

The brewery might still be located elsewhere in North Carolina, said Robert E. Leak. He added that almost any town in the state would be hard pressed to meet the plant's water and sewage needs.

State AFL-CIO official Christopher Scott said he felt the brewing company's decision might have been based on Raleigh's resistance to unionized industries.

But they said their feeling was based on past action by the city's Chamber of Commerce, which has acknowledged that it tells companies with union labor that they might not be comfortable in Raleigh. Labor officials say existing businesses want to keep wages down.

Scott said the AFL-CIO had no direct knowledge of the Miller decision.

Arrested For Tax Evasion

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Attorney Leon Olive, one of Charlotte's 10 most outstanding young men in the late fifties, was arrested Thursday on charges of evading more than $200,000 in federal income taxes.

Olive, 51, was taken into custody under a warrant returned Monday by a federal grand jury in Asheville.

He was charged with understating his taxable income from 1970 to 1973 by $242,000.

Olive was an unsuccessful Democratic candidate for the General Assembly in 1958 and 1964.

LUANDA, Angola (AP)—With independence only four days away, Angola's civil war raged around the capital city today and threatened to spread to the emerging nation's oil-rich coastal enclave of Cabinda.

Future Secretaries Chapter Organizes

Twenty Pitt Technical Institute students interested in starting a Future Secretaries Association at the Institute met Tuesday night to elect officers and make plans for the new organization.

Brenda Gibson and Barbara Evans, representatives from the local chapter of the National Secretaries Association who will sponsor and promote the student organization, met with the students to explain requirements and make suggestions for organization of the club.

It is hoped that a close working relationship between professional secretaries and students will promote interest in the ideals, goals, and standards of professional secretaries.

Students elected to office were Patricia Alligood, president; Sara Moseley, vice president; Marion Joyner, secretary; and Mary Jane Schlenz, treasurer.

Pitt Tech students joining the new organization before Friday, Nov. 7, will become charter members. A candlelight initiation ceremony sponsored by the local chapter of the National Secretaries Association is planned for December.

Restoration Work Honored

RALEIGH (AP)—Historic preservation projects in half a dozen parts of North Carolina have been cited for merit as part of Culture Week in Raleigh.

The state chapter of the American Institute of Architects honored three restoration projects on 18th and 19th century structures: Mordecai House in Raleigh; Victoria in Charlotte; and Thalian Hall in Wilmington.

Uncle Needs Help With Telegram

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: How does one address a congratulatory telegram to newlyweds who are retaining their individual surnames? Western Union couldn't give me an answer.

UNCLE CLIFF

DEAR UNCLE: "Congratulations to Mary Smith and John Jones on your marriage."

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 15-year-old girl with a terrible problem. I wanted to be popular with the dudes, so I smoked grass, got drunk and did things only married people should do. Now I want to change.

I haven't messed around for four months. I took a part-time job as a janitor at a restaurant and I'm getting real good grades, but I'm still called a "whore."

Nobody will give me a chance, Abby. I have no friends. Girls are afraid they'll get a bad name if they're seen with me, and I can't blame them. Boys want only one thing, and since I've stopped putting out, they don't bother with me.

I hate myself. I've been so down and lonely lately. When I was a whore, at least I had someone to talk to. Shrinks are expensive, and there are no free clinics here for counseling.

All my teachers hate me because of my reputation, and I feel too cheap and dirty to go to church. Please help me.

WANTS TO CHANGE

DEAR WANTS: I'm proud of you. You have already grown spiritually, or you wouldn't have thought of going to church or changing your ways.

You're wrong, honey. Your teachers don't hate you, and you're not too "dirty" to go to church.

Pick the teacher you'd like most for a friend and meet her half-way. Also, go to church and give your clergyman a chance to help you. All you need to change your life is the will to do it. Please try and write to me again in six months and tell me how things are going. I care.

DEAR ABBY: In response to that 52-year-old woman who is going with a 34-year-old man. She's afraid her children and others will think she's making a fool of herself. She's also afraid people might think she is his mother.

I am 51, and I've been going with a very handsome, 28-year-old man for over two years.

Doyle and I don't care if someone mistakes me for his mother. After all, I am 23 years older than Doyle and that's old enough to be his mother.

The day I stopped worrying about what other people thought I started living.

I have a son who is older than Doyle, and he says, "Mom, anything that makes you happy is just fine with me."

If people limited their friends to their own age group, they'd miss a lot of fun. I say, enjoy what you have while you have it. It will all be gone too soon.

CALIFORNIAN

DEAR CAL: I'm with you!

DEAR ABBY: In response to the mother-to-be who asked whether some people were uncomfortable in the presence of a woman who was breast-feeding her baby in public, I would like to post a definite YES!

A woman's bare breast is a bare breast, whether it's exposed to nurse a baby or displayed for sexual titillation.

There is no excuse for a mother's nursing her baby in public. She can always find a rest room.

Harvesting of seals, Landau insists. Herds are increasing because the crop of seals that is handled by industry is harvested under government supervision and split by four countries — the United States, Russia, Canada and Japan.

"We have never handled an endangered species — such as otter from South America or Florida. In fact, nobody handles it."

At the moment there is an overabundance of squirrels and ermine, fashion furs of the '20s. Ditto muskrat and raccoon. Ninety-nine per cent of ranch mink is raised, he maintains. The Canadian government's Trade and Commerce Department has made a study of Canadian wildlife and it tallies the harvest each year and whether furs are underharvested or overharvested.

In 18 years, Landau has worked his way up from the stock room to the presidency of Grosvenor Canada and has five youthful designers — their average age is 30, the head designer is 44 — who have "styled some beautiful things," dispelling the notion that "everybody in the fur business is old." He doesn't believe, though, that a good company must put a name designer label in a coat to sell it, even though his company has used some of the great names — Hartnell, Cardin, Heim — in the past. He would rather the company stand behind the product with quality and fashion.

"New ideas in fashion are an important part of the fur business. Tweedy mink — light and dark brown mink — are sewn together for a sporty, tweedy slim-line look that requires 10 miles of thread in each coat," he says.

Fox is being "flattened" so that it no longer has a bulky, unflattering look, and one coat made of lynx weighs under two pounds. Some furs are worked in a way that keeps them from matting in the rain. A classic trench coat is sheared seal with a lynx collar. "The seals are part of the harvest made for the U.S. government — revenue of the pelts goes back into the U.S. economy."

"That plain trench coat could not have been sold years ago when furs were styled with classic wide collars, big sleeves and great fullness. Some furs, such as red fox, were considered low forms of life then, but now are popular because they are interestingly worked," he contends.

Dried Foods Preferred By Chase Family

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

Jack and June Chase and their four children plan to celebrate both Thanksgiving and Christmas with meals of dried food — from choice, not necessity.

Chase is a former English and reading teacher in Roxbury Township schools in a New Jersey suburb of New York City. He and his wife, both former Presbyterians, converted to the Mormon Church about 12 years ago. Their unconventional holiday meals are simply an extension of the way they live all year.

"The church is very deep-rooted in self-sufficiency," he said in an interview. "They used to say you should keep two years' supply of food on hand. Now it is one year."

"The concept of dehydrated food for storage is ingrained in the Mormon faith, but it never had gotten East (because most Mormons live in the West)," said Chase.

Their church does not require its members to live entirely on dried foods, but that is what the Chases decided to do a few years ago when they began studying dehydrating and freeze-drying processes. They ended up making it their occupation. Chase and his wife work as a team in their store and mail order business, selling dried foods and equipment, including an electric dehydrator for home use that operates on only 75 watts.

Instead of roast turkey, the Chases' Thanksgiving dinner will feature skinned, boned, freeze-dried chicken, which the whole family prefers — even 4-year-old Mark, their youngest. They also have three daughters, 8, 10 and 12.

Most of the trimmings will be traditional in concept, but made entirely from dehydrated or freeze-dried ingredients, including the marshmallows on the squash.

The stuffing will be made with homemade whole grain bread, for which Chase even grinds the grain with a stone mill. Other vegetables will include sweet potatoes, creamed onions, corn and peas. Plus apple sauce, waldorf salad, homemade bread and rolls, homemade ice cream and three kinds of pie: apple, peach and blueberry.

No cranberry sauce?

"We prefer raspberry-apple sauce instead," Chase said, but added that they sometimes do have cranberry sauce made with dried berries, just as the alternative sauce is made with dried apples and raspberries.

Come Christmas, Mrs. Chase has promised quiche lorraine, chicken in several exotic casseroles, possibly veal parmesan or a beef casserole, harvard beets and creamed onions or onions with peas.

The Chases previewed their Thanksgiving dinner for this writer. The flavor, texture and quality of the waldorf salad was particularly good. Peas, corn and applesauce compared favorably with fresh in flavor and texture. The wholewheat bread was a revelation, moist and delicious.

Chase said packing food in nitrogen gas helps keep it fresh even after a can is opened, provided it is resealed promptly each time with the plastic lid that comes with the can. He said nitrogen is heavier than air, so gas loss even from an open can is slow if the contents are scooped out instead of poured.

The pecans in the salad were made from wheat germ. They would never be mistaken for their natural prototype, but they do taste like pecans and contain far less oil, which causes rancidity during prolonged storage at room temperature.

The freeze-dried butter was another surprise. Made from pale yellow powder and reconstituted with cold water, it firms up like regular butter and has the true dairy flavor, but with less fat and cholesterol. Chase said he does not know how it compares with the cholesterol count of dairy case butter or margarine.

What started as an exploration of a new faith for the Chases has become a life-style that even their children's friends admire. He said the three older daughters asked for school lunch money just once, then went back to homemade sandwiches.

Nor do they envy their peers' way of eating.

"Quite the contrary," said Chase. "They're always asking if they can bring friends home for dinner and to spend the night."

Cranberry pie is as authentic for Thanksgiving as the more usual pumpkin pie. The Pilgrims are said to have made dough cakes for their first harvest festival with dried wild cranberries provided by the Indians.

Don't Close Doors Too Quickly

The Pitt County commissioners last week approved converting the old Pitt Memorial Hospital facilities west of Greenville into a county office building.

The change would be made when the new hospital complex is completed late next year, or early in 1977.

Ever since it was definitely decided that the new hospital would be built there has been consideration by the county of what to do with the old building. Now apparently the decision has been made to use the structure for offices.

The commissioners authorized a space study by ECU's Regional Development Institute. The study will identify the needs of various county departments and agencies. Then planning will get underway for locating offices in the hospital building.

We don't have strong objections to using the old hospital for county offices. It is well to keep in mind, though that renovating a hospital for office use is not quite the same as designing a new office-type building from scratch. There is bound to be some wasted space in the building and some of the construction used in the building is not necessary for office use.

Barbs For Highway Patrol

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — The North Carolina Highway Patrol is increasingly drawing some barbs from members of the General Assembly.

Efforts by the patrol command to establish a training school and headquarters compound in Raleigh is being vigorously fought by a small band of legislators, but signs point to even stronger resistance to the school as more facts emerge.

Two relatively minor points aside from plans for the patrol school are also coming under criticism:

—A scheme to have troopers use their patrol car loudspeakers to warn passing motorists of minor speeding violations would "cause some heart attacks" critics contend;

—Landscape lovers among assemblymen are complaining that too many troopers are driving across highway medians and tearing up the lawn when no emergency exists.

Criticism of the patrol is usually lowkeyed among politicians, and generally directed at the top leadership and prefaced by disclaimers that the men on the road are not under fire — just the officers.

Earlier this year, the top command was roundly criticized by members of the legislative commission probing waste in governmental spending when it came to light that a civilian personnel officer was in charge of that patrol function, rather than a uniformed trooper. It took direct threats of special legislative action from State Rep. John Ed Davenport, D-Nash, and State Senator I. C. Crawford, D-Buncombe, to remove the civilian.

The assembly took direct action earlier on another matter: a trend toward overloading the patrol command staff with officers at the expense of troopers working on the road. The legislature ruled that the officer ranks must be held to a percentage of total patrol manpower.

Meanwhile, the Highway Patrol training school

We know the county has considered the possibility of medical use of the building, such as a nursing home type facility or other health care. We assume that these uses have been ruled out.

We can accept the commissioners' judgment on this. But even now we feel that they should keep an open mind on possible medical uses for the building. It could be that some private corporation would come along with the idea of purchasing the property for nursing home care. Since the building might be more suited for this than office use, the commissioners could still consider selling it and using the funds to build a new office facility.

It is also possible that it might be found the old hospital can be used in conjunction with the new Pitt Memorial, what with the medical school now developing. Certainly if there is any such need, it should be considered.

We assume that all the possibilities have been explored by the county commissioners. If they aren't feasible, then we should proceed with the county office building concept, but even now we shouldn't close any doors on possible medical uses for the building.

proposed for the 347-acre Garner Road Campus of the Gov. Morehead School (closed and students transferred) in Raleigh is coming under closer study.

State Rep. Liston B. Ramsey, D-Madison, and chairman of the House Finance Committee, has been joined in his fight against that proposal by the Governmental Operations Commission chaired by Senator Crawford. The commission has notified the governor's Advisory Budget Commission of its opposition.

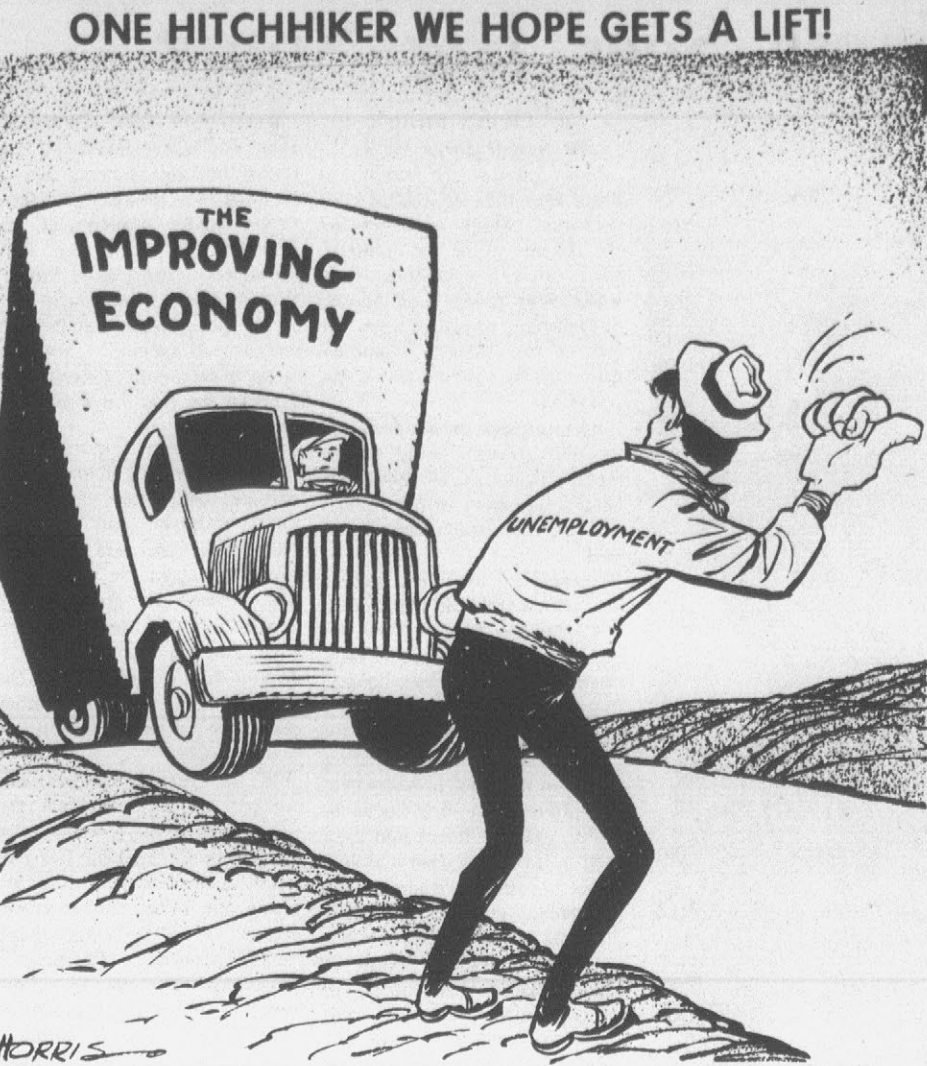

Ramsey has produced a probe of the school proposal carried out by legislative staff members to back up his claim that allowing the school to be established and approving the minor investment of $132,375 at this time is just the start of work which will eventually run into the millions of dollars.; The present land and buildings are valued at $7.6 million, and plans call for renovating and air-conditioning 12 buildings at a cost of $920,000.

A pursuit driving course complete with skid pads, roads simulating rural areas, and a complex simulating a congested urban district is planned at a cost of $585,495.

An outdoor firing range, and other necessary equipment, will push the cost to around $2 million initially. Annual operating costs would run about $500,000. Of course, much of that cost is already being paid for patrol functions in other locations.

A primary concern of legislators is the duplication of dormitory, classroom, cafeteria, gymnasium and other facilities either existing or being built at the N. C. Criminal Justice Academy in Salemburg. The legislative staff study suggests that the justice academy and patrol school should really be run jointly, and raises the question of moving the Salemburg facility to Raleigh to use the patrol school site — which will remain considerably "under-utilized" by the patrol.

But that move is likely ruled out by plans already underway for construction of new buildings at Salemburg costing $2 million.

Hunting For Business

WASHINGTON—There has been criticism in Washington lately over defense contractors entertaining Pentagon officials at hunting lodges and other places of ill repute. Former Secretary of Defense Schlesinger in referring to Northrop's entertainment policies said, "We have seen only the tip of the iceberg."

The latest word is that one aircraft firm even hired girls to accompany the guests on their trips into the woods.

I have a lobbyist friend from an aerospace company who thinks the hunting-lodge scandal is overkill.

Milbank told me, "All we were trying to do was give our senior fighting men some rest and recreation and now they're trying to hang us for it."

"What you say is probably true," I told him, "but you'll have to admit it doesn't look good in the papers that your company was flying high-ranking officers off to shoot pheasant, duck and what have you, while you were trying to sell them rockets and airplanes."

"Do you think a hunting weekend is going to influence a general into buying a certain kind of rocket or airplane? We never even talked about rockets or

Other Editors Say An Experience

(Goldsboro News-Argus)

In some classrooms in our schools today the Pledge of Allegiance has gone the way of The Lord's Prayer. It is never mentioned.

Some students, even some teachers, take the attitude that they owe nothing to this country but hostility and resentment. It is an attitude which invariably reminds us that the ships and the planes still run and the way out is open to everyone.

Up in Shelton, Conn., schoolteacher Paul Hatje had an experience that, in its beginning, must have been a familiar one to many teachers.

When he stood to receive the Pledge of Allegiance in his homeroom, he stood alone. Finally, after some encouragement, three boys out of 21 students joined him.

Then Hatje had an idea. "I remembered a book called 'America in Verse' and I took it to school hoping that it might help solve the problem." And, although Hatje is a teacher of Science rather than English, he proceeded to read from the book, starting with "Our Dream" by Thomas Wolfe. The students seemed to be receptive, so Hatje read on, delivering several selections of writings by President John F. Kennedy. "There wasn't a stir of the slightest murmur, so I kept going," he said.

Finally, he concluded with part of Wolfe's "The Promise of America:

"So then, to every man his chance — to every man, regardless of his birth, his shining, golden opportunity — to every man the right to live, to work, to be himself, and to become whatever his manhood and his vision can combine to make him — this, seeker, is the promise of America."

Hatje said as he turned to recite the Pledge of Allegiance, all but one of the students were standing with him.

"I was overwhelmed by the whole thing," he recalled. "I really choked up."

Schoolteacher Hatje had good reason to be "choked up." As a U. S. Marine he had served in the Korean War, 1950-53. Thirty-three thousand Americans died in that war, including 4,267 Marines, so that people in a strange land with a strange language might live in freedom. Better than most, he knew why it was important for his homeroom students to know why we salute the Flag of the United States.

Peace Policy Logic

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)

American foreign policy is now openly rooted in the theory that world peace requires U.S.-fueled arms races abroad.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger signaled this position Thursday in testimony before the House International Relations Committee on the administration's new foreign aid bill.

"All foreign policy still begins with security," he asserted.

The possibilities for reaching peace by restricting arms sales to other countries are diminishing, he said.

"Instead, regional stability is increasingly bound up with the maintenance of stable balances of power through carefully considered transfers of defense equipment," Kissinger said.

Translation: More U.S. arms supplied around the globe is the way to peace and order.

Kissinger came to this conclusion by using this logic.

"This is a world in which the level and quantity of international military transactions will be substantial," he said.

His next statement was that more nations have an arms industry and more countries have the money to buy arms.

Therefore, the secretary concluded, "It is of substantial political importance to the United States that we be able to respond to the felt needs of nations with which we seek constructive relations across the broad range of contemporary issues."

If America fails to compete, Kissinger said, "the United States cannot expect to retain influence with nations whose perceived defense needs we disregard."

In his testimony, he said the United States maintains four criteria for giving or selling military equipment abroad: What is the threat to the nation; what is the American interest in avoiding that threat; what is the competition from other arms-selling nations; what are the consequences if there is no U.S. response.

But, to repeat some Kissinger quotes, it is important that the United States "respond to the felt needs of nations" and "the United States cannot expect to retain influence with nations whose perceived defense needs we disregard."

In other words, if a country perceives a need for more arms, the Ford administration will attempt to supply the equipment.

The GALLUP POLL

GOP Voters Prefer Ford

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J.,—If the 1976 Republican convention narrows down to a choice between President Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan, GOP voters currently say they would favor Ford, by a margin of 58 to 36 per cent.

Ford is also the top choice of Republicans when they are asked to name their first choice for the nomination from a list of 10 men who have been mentioned as possible Republican presidential candidates. Nearly half, 48 per cent, select Ford, while 25 per cent favor Reagan. Sen. Barry Goldwater (7 per cent) and Vice President Nelson Rockefeller (5 per cent) are the only other men on the list to receive more than 3 per cent of the vote.

This question was asked to determine the first choice of GOP voters from a list of possible presidential candidates:

"Here is a list of people (respondents were handed a card with 10 names) who have been mentioned as possible presidential candidates for the Republican nomination in 1976. Which ONE would you like to see nominated as the Republican candidate in 1976?"

Here are the results which closely parallel those reported in early September:

First Choices Of GOP Voters For '76 Nomination	Percentage
Gerald Ford	48%
Ronald Reagan	25
Barry Goldwater	7
Nelson Rockefeller	5
Elliot Richardson	3
Charles Percy	2
Howard Baker	2
James Buckley	1
John Connally	1
Mark Hatfield	1
No Preference	5

This question was then asked of Republicans to determine Reagan's strength in a direct showdown against Ford:

"Suppose the choice for President in the Republican convention in 1976 narrows down to Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan. Which one would you prefer to have the Republican convention select?"

Here are the results:

Ford Or Reagan (Vote of GOP) (Voters Nationwide)	Percentage
Ford	58%
Reagan	36
Undecided	6

Ford campaign strategists have been concerned about the possibility of a challenge from the right wing of the party. However, when the vote given the three men on the list who are identified with the conservative wing—Reagan, Goldwater and Sen. James Buckley—is combined, the total conservative vote is outweighed by the more moderate vote by about 2-to-1. This ratio closely parallels the division in the Ford-Reagan match-up.

Vote Of Independents

Ford is also the current top choice of independents for the GOP nomination in 1976, winning 26 per cent of their vote compared to 20 per cent for Reagan.

Ford also leads Reagan in a two-way contest (51-40 per cent), but by a smaller margin than among Republicans.

With Republican party affiliation at an all-time low, the GOP must obviously nominate a candidate who has the widest appeal among independents and dissident Democrats. And although independents lean 2-to-1 Democratic in their basic political outlook, they remain important to GOP presidential fortunes because they have voted Republican in every presidential election in the last quarter-century with the except of 1964.

Following are the first choices of independent voters nationwide for the 1976 GOP nomination:

First Choices Of Independent Voters For '76 GOP Nomination	Percentage
Ford	26%
Reagan	20
Goldwater	10
Rockefeller	8
Percy	6
Richardson	5
Baker	4
Connally	4
Hatfield	3
Buckley	1
Don't know	13

And here's how independents split in a two-way Ford vs. Reagan contest:

Ford vs. Reagan (Vote of Independents) (Nationwide)	Percentage
Ford	51%
Reagan	40
Undecided	9

The latest findings are based on in-person interviews with 339 respondents who classify themselves Republicans and 501 who consider themselves independents out of a total

Coping With Political World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—One of the "basic beliefs" of the International Business Machines Corp. is "respect for the dignity and the rights of each person in the organization."

Is this basic belief contradicted by doing business in South Africa, where an apartheid policy segregates blacks from whites and discriminates against them politically and economically?

Some critics, including church groups, tend to think it is. They contend that IBM should challenge South African government policy or withdraw from the country.

Frank T. Cary, IBM chairman, disagrees. "We're not political," he said in an interview. "We're politically neutral."

IBM has carefully defined its position on this and other challenges presented to multinational companies—challenges that often are made more complex by the belief of some that no task is too formidable for a powerful business to undertake.

A distinction must be made between the activities and responsibilities of a corporation and those of a government, said Cary. "We are a business organization. Our job is to make goods and services and be a good member of the community."

Certain critics, he said, "think we should try to change the political situation in South Africa, but I don't think business can or should take on that responsibility."

The South African condition, he repeats, is a political rather than a business ethics problem.

"The fact that I do business there doesn't mean I approve of South Africa," he said, "or the Russian or Beirut or Irish or any other political situation. American firms do business in a country for nonpolitical reasons."

"I don't have to have political conditions of which I approve. On the other hand, if conditions exist that prevent individual dignity and responsibility and the pursuit of excellence and providing the best customer service or other things we firmly believe in, then I think that would be an ethical problem for the IBM company."

He continued: "I think you have to draw a line. I don't want to imply that IBM isn't capable of making its own ethical considerations."

"We would not — I would not — operate in a society that forced us to practice racial inequality. If we are unable to treat employees with dignity and responsibility or had to practice social discrimination, that would be grounds for withdrawing."

Such conditions, Cary said, "would conflict with our basic beliefs." But on what he terms the political situation, the company is neutral. "We are not running the government," he said.

IBM employs 1,000 workers in South Africa, all South Africans, 125 of them black. No blacks have what Cary calls "prestige" jobs. There are no black officers or black salesmen.

This situation is not the result of IBM policy, Cary makes clear, but a condition of the country.

Strength For Today

SINCERITY AND CLEVERNESS

Socrates said centuries ago, "The surest way to live with honor in this world is to be in reality what we would appear to be."

There are many people who would substitute cleverness for sincerity. The great mass of people, they argue, have but little appreciation for virtue and think more of the clever man than they do of a good man. Therefore, the way to please the mass of mankind who can appreciate little that is good is to be clever. Sincerity just doesn't get much of a reward; it doesn't pay off.

Friendship and success in one's calling are two of the most satisfying things in life. They are achieved not by cleverness but by sincerity. Success in love is much to be desired. The wise marry not cleverness but sincerity. All things worth having come as a result of sincerity. Cleverness is a condiment, not a food.

Two Wrecks Youth Appreciation Will Preach Observance Slated On Sunday

More than $1,000 property damage resulted yesterday from two traffic collisions investigated by Greenville officers.

Police reported heaviest damage resulted from an 8:43 a.m. collision on Tenth Street, a tenth of a mile East of the Anderson Drive intersection which involved cars driven by Jimmy Edward Woodard of Greenbriar Trailer Pk. and Richard David Lee of 509 West Fifth St.

Damage was estimated at $10 to the Woodard car and $600 to the Lee auto by officers who charged Lee with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

Cora Marriner Wilson of 112B Stencil Dr. was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 10:50 a.m. collision at the intersection of Third and Pitt Streets.

Investigators said the Wilson car collided with an auto driven by Charlie Ray Edwards of 203 West Dudley St., causing an estimated $150 damage to the Edwards car and $300 damage to the Wilson auto.

Quality Leaf Is Still Being Sold

FARMVILLE—Notwithstanding the increase in less desirable tobacco being marketed, an unusually large amount of quality tobacco also is being sold, Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade Sales Supervisor Louis Williams said.

Prices went as high as $1.35 on yesterday's sale. The heavy volume of good tobacco is responsible for the high market average. Volume of leaf and smoking leaf continued to decrease as primings and lugs increased. The market sold 775,868 pounds for $631,282, for an average of $107 per hundred pounds. To date 36,796,620 pounds for $37,853,362 for a season's average of $102.87 per hundred pounds.

Beginning Monday all markets will start sales at 8:30 a.m.

Building Fund Benefit Sale

FALKLAND—Handcrafted items, homemade jellies, pickles and canned goods, "trash and treasure" items, and hotdogs with homemade chili are among the items to be sold at the Falkland Community Building Saturday from 3 to 8 p.m.

The sale is being given by the Young Adults Sunday School Class of the Falkland Presbyterian Church to make money for the church building fund.

The Community Building is located beside the old Falkland School building on Highway 43, about 10 miles north of Greenville.

Homecoming At Church Sunday

Homecoming will be observed at Little Creek FWB Church Sunday.

Morning services will begin at 11 a.m. with the pastor, Elder Jesse L. Wilson, delivering the sermon. He will be assisted by the Senior Choirs, ushers, and officers. Mrs. Barbara Wiggins of Grifton will be the guest speaker.

Dinner will be served. At 3 p.m. the Rev. F.R. Peterson, choir, ushers, and congregation of Mount Olive Baptist Church in Ayden is in charge. The public is invited.

A series of observances have been set in Greenville to mark National Youth Appreciation Week, November 10 through November 17.

The event, under the auspices of the Optimist Clubs of America, is the subject of a proclamation signed by Mayor S. Eugene West. In his proclamation, Mayor West notes "The accomplishments and achievements of young citizens deserve recognition and praise of their elders," and asked the citizens of Greenville "to join with the Optimists in expressing appreciation and approval of the contributions of youth.

"We have faith," he concludes, "in the ability of today's youth as they assume responsible roles in the future of mankind."

Among activities to be carried out in observance of National Youth Appreciation Week will be acknowledgement of young people in church services on November 9 or 16.

Other activities will include the 17 members of Coach Robert Carraway's Little League team being honored at a dinner on Monday; and the meeting of about 25 Rose High students with Mayor West and other officials on Thursday.

The Rev. Ronald Creech of Durham will preach at Grace Free Will Baptist Church Sunday at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

REV. RONALD CREECH

He is promotional director of the N. C. Association of Free Will Baptists, consisting of eight district associations and 170 churches from the mountains to the sea. He also serves the association as Director of Capital Church Bonds, Inc., and as editor of its official publication, The Free Will Baptist Witness.

He has been preaching for 27 years and has been moderator of the N. C. FWB Association. He is a graduate of the Free Will Baptist Bible College in Nashville, Tenn.

Grace Church pastor, the Rev. Chester Phillips invites the public. The church is located at 400 Watauga Ave., Greenville.

SUNDAY SPEAKER
Evangelist Billy Kelley will be at Sheldermine Baptist Church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and Sunday night at 7:30. Everyone is invited to attend by Pastor Travis Smith.

sequence of the larger political and social environment. "Very few blacks in that environment get a high school education," he noted. But, he said, IBM has brought blacks into many jobs they did not have a number of years ago. They serve as customer engineers, secretaries, switchboard operators. "There is change," he said, "but not fast enough."

Within the area of activities that are strictly IBM's there is equality, he said. "We give black and white the same pay for the same work. They have equal opportunity. There is dignity." While it is one of the world's largest and most profitable companies, IBM feels there are limitations on its ability and even its right to influence and hasten changes beyond its own immediate areas of concern. "Foreign policy is a matter for the State Department," Cary said. "Corporations should not be running around making U.S. foreign policy."

PUPPET SHOW

Someone else is pulling the strings. Someone else is speaking behind the scenes. Someone else is making the audience laugh, or even cry a little.

By any chance, does that remind you of yourself? Do you sometimes feel that you are a puppet, not a person? That someone else is putting words in your mouth, calling your plays?

Well, the Church won't stand you on your own two feet and cut the strings. But it will help you find the right kind of scissors . . . to get a new perspective, to reassess life, and yourself . . . to be your own person.

Who, after all, wants to be the star of a Punch and Judy show?

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today hesitating while it absorbed a wide variety of economic news. The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 3.47 at 837.45. But gainers held a slight over-all edge on losers at the New York Stock Exchange.

Trading was fairly active.

On the plus side, New York's First National City Bank lowered its prime lending rate for the third week in a row, cutting the key rate on corporate loans from 7 1/2 to 7 3/4 per cent.

Analysts also saw favorable portents for interest rates in the continued lag in the nation's money supply, as shown in weekly Federal Reserve figures issued after Thursday's close.

The slack trend in the supply of cash and checking account deposits in the economy, Wall Streeters reasoned, gives the Fed room to loosen its credit policies further without dropping its fight against inflation.

On the other hand, however, the money supply lag raised some questions about the availability of funds in the economy to feed the recovery from the recession.

Brokers also noted a continuing sensitivity in the market to the uncertain financial outlook of New York City.

Commonwealth Edison topped the Big Board's most-active list, unchanged 29 1/2. A 100,000-share block traded at 30. The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks slipped .03 to 47.31 in the first hour.

The American Stock Exchange market value index was up .04 at 83.27.

Coast Guard Tracks Down Tanker That Spilled Oil Off Fla. Coast

By BILL CRIDER
Associated Press Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Coast Guard says a ship that fouled the Florida Keys with an oil spill last July has been tied to the crime by a greasy "fingerprint" it left on the blackened beaches.

The accused pollute-and-run perpetrator: an 825-foot tanker named "Garbis," due to dock in Philadelphia tonight.

A Coast Guard spokesman said the captain of the Garbis will be greeted with a charge of failing to report an oil spill, a criminal offense.

In addition, the ship and its owners, Garbis Maritime Corp. of London, were charged with violating the federal Water Pollution Control Act.

The case marks the first time the Coast Guard has used a new laboratory technique which it said can provide sure proof as to which ship was the source of an oil spill.

If the tanker is convicted the technique promises to sharply reduce careless or deliberate oil spills by ships, since it could bring the Garbis' owners a $5,000 fine plus a $300,000 assessment.

The $300,000 is what it cost to try to clean up beaches from Marathon, Fla., to Dry Tortuga early last July when an estimated 60,000 gallons of crude oil washed ashore from one of those "mystery spills" that often plague coastal waters.

Ships have always simply pumped contaminated oil over the side. Many kept on doing it despite a 1972 law against it, since such spills were impossible to trace.

In this instance, the Coast Guard was primed for action.

The Coast Guard Research Development Center at Groton, Conn., had discovered that a ship leaves an indelible chemical fingerprint on oil put in its

The body will be taken to the church from the Farmville Funeral Home one hour prior to the services.

Williams

PARMELE — Funeral services for Mr. Luzelle G. Williams will be conducted Saturday at 3 p.m. at Olive Branch Baptist Church here by his pastor, the Rev. Walter Austin. Burial will be in the Pinelawn Cemetery in Bethel.

A member of Olive Branch Church, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Clara Little Williams of the home, and a daughter, Mrs. Brenda Kay Pless of New Haven, Conn.

The body will be taken from Phillips Brothers Mortuary to the Olive Branch Church this evening for viewing from 7 to 9 p.m.

holds. A quick check was made of known ship positions, in relation to the Florida spill. There were 250 "suspect ships." When they docked in ports along the Atlantic or Gulf coasts, Coast Guardsmen went aboard to take samples of their oil.

Since ships use oil for fuel, every kind of ship was checked, freighters as well as tankers. The Coast Guard said the matching sample, the telltale "fingerprint," was found in oil taken from the Garbis when it reached New Orleans last July 24, a few days after the oil spill.

"Just like Sherlock Holmes investigating a murder," a Coast Guard spokesman said at Groton. "We can determine who could have been there at the time, get their fingerprints, match 'em up."

FRIDAY AFTERNOON, NOVEMBER 7, 1975

Bucs, Cavs (Sonny) Collide Saturday

Saturday afternoon, the game many East Carolina fans have waited for arrives. The Pirates of East Carolina visit Charlottesville, Va. for a 1:30 p.m. game with Sonny Randle's Cavaliers. Randle, who used to make comments about comparing

"apples and apples" when referring to the Southern Conference and the Atlantic Coast Conference, has already said he expects to get bombarded with apples.

There are probably a few fans who will take an apple along, but Coach Pat Dye is only interested in one fruit—the fruit of victory.

"The ACC seems to think that the Southern Conference is not on their level, so this gives us a lot of incentive," Dye said. "But I'm not sure that we (the Southern) may not be an overall better conference. If you take away State and Maryland, I think that you could put us and Richmond and Appalachian into the ACC and it would be quite a battle."

Dye pointed out that this would be the sixth meeting between ACC and Southern teams this year, and a victory for East Carolina would even the series at 3-3. Appalachian beat Wake Forest and East Carolina beat North Carolina. Carolina downed William & Mary (winless), while State beat the Pirates and Virginia nipped VMI by one point early in the season. It's the only win the Cavaliers have managed.

"I really don't think this game means as much to our staff and players as the in-state ones with Carolina and State," Dye said. "The ACC thing is the big incentive."

Virginia brings a potent offense into the game, although the Cavs have had some trouble scoring. They rank second in the ACC in total offense, averaging 346.2 yards a game. They rush for 181.6 and pass for 164.6.

They're scoring 17.6 points per game.

East Carolina compares by likewise having the second best offense in the Southern, picking up 338.9 yards a game. They are rushing for 240.8 and passing for just 98.1. Scoring has a 23.0 average.

On defense, the Pirates have allowed 295.2 yards a game, 172.4 per game and 122.7 through the air. They've allowed just 14.7 points a game.

In contrast, Virginia is giving up 437.6 yards a game, 304.6 on the ground and 133 through the air. They are allowing 33.5 points a game. In each instance, except rushing where they are sixth, the Cavaliers are last in the ACC in defense.

Dye would like to think that the Pirate's young defense will be able to stop the Cavs. "You win on defense. I hope ours will hold up. This puts a lot of pressure on them, I know. But I believe that you win on defense and keep from losing on offense. The kicking game also is an important phase, especially in a close game."

In that, the Pirates could come out on top. The Bucs have allowed very little return yardage, less than 3.3 per return in punts. Virginia has given up over 10 yards per return.

"They have a well-balanced offense. They throw well and run well, but I feel like they'll run more unless they get behind,"

Dye said.

Leading the offense, of course, is All-American candidate Scott Gardiner, the quarterback. Gardiner stands 11th in the nation in passing, and leads the ACC in total offense with 147.9 yards a game.

The top runner is David Sloan, averaging 87.2 yards a game. Bill Copeland is next with 65.0 per contest.

Gardiner is averaging 12.6 completions per game, and has had 15 picked off in 209 attempts. Chief targets have been Tom Fadden, catching 4.9 per game for a 12.9 average, while Jim Wicks had a 12.3 yard average.

Gardiner should provide an acid test for the Pirate defense, led by Jim Bolding, who leads the nation in pass interceptions with eight in as many games.

On defense, the Cavs use a wide-tackle six, a defense which held the Pirates in check against The Citadel. "They have the films of that game, so I'm sure that we'll see it from them. But we didn't run a true wishbone against them, and I'm more confident in our game now."

Mike Weaver will be at the controls of the wishbone machine, averaging 61.2 yards a game (although he did not play full time in a number of them).

Kenny Strayhorn leads the rushing attack with 59.1 yards a game, while Willie Hawkins has 48.6 per game.

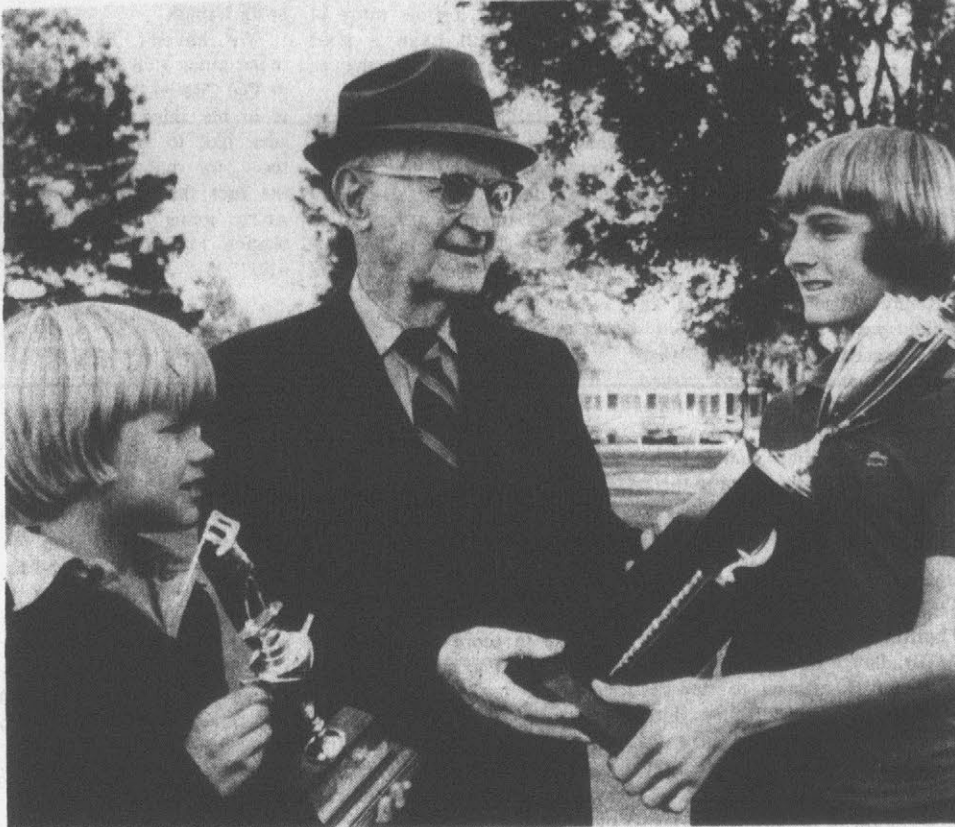

It all shapes up as a master meeting. It will be Sonny Randle and his team meeting the team Randle used to coach. The Bucs will be seeking their fifth straight win and their seventh in 10 starts.

Virginia will be looking for its second win on the season, and the snapping of a six-game losing streak.

Dye also discounts the story Randle has been telling around Cavalier camps about his scout at last week's game being told by Dye and the players that East Carolina would "kick Virginia good."

"I think their players are too intelligent to fall for this kind of gimmick," Dye said. "It takes more than a gimmick to get a team ready."

Nevertheless, when it's over, people will be comparing those famous red fruits. For the Pirates, a victory would put things in apple-pie order.

Navy Seeking To Post First Winner Since '67

MIAMI (AP) — Navy turns to its potent defensive unit tonight in a bid to beat the University of Miami and claim its first winning football season since 1967.

The Midshipmen, 5-3, haven't managed more than 17 points in their last six outings. But the defense, which ranks third in the nation, has kept Navy rolling.

"They've built themselves a battleship," Miami offensive line coach Pat Ruel fretted Thursday. Ruel's charges were able to clear the way for only 204 yards and seven first downs last week in a 21-7 loss to Boston College.

Navy fell 31-10 last week to Notre Dame, but Miami Coach Carl Selmer pointed out, "Navy's defense was sitting over on the lumber when most of those points were scored." Five turnovers killed Navy against the Irish.

Of Miami's own offensive problems, Selmer said, "Sometimes I get the feeling we try to do too many things on offense. We'll try to simplify the offense against Navy."

Miami needs a victory to avoid its sixth losing season in seven years. The Hurricanes, who will be celebrating homecoming, have a 1-5 record and need victories in all four remaining games for a .500 season.

But even if Miami should upset the Midshipmen, its hopes are slim to avoid the losing mark — two of the three remaining opponents are Notre Dame and Florida.

Navy will employ six Floridians against Miami, and Selmer is countering with hopes that sophomore fullback Ray Gannon from Randallstown, Md., can provide the punch he has lacked at fullback.

The game is expected to draw less than 20,000 fans to the Orange Bowl. After drawing 37,203 for its opener against Oklahoma, Miami's home attendance fell to 18,901 for Colorado and 15,306 for Houston.

NO HELP ON PUTTS
FAR HILLS, N.J. (AP) — Effective January 1, an amateur golfer no longer will be able to have his caddy positioned behind the ball when he putts.

The rule is being expanded for 1976 with the following paragraph: "While making the stroke, the player shall not allow his caddy, his partner or his partner's caddy to position himself on or close to an extension of the line of putt behind the ball."

Ohio State's top-ranked Buckeyes and No. 6 Michigan, heading towards another Big Ten showdown, will face some talented running backs Saturday. Ohio State invades Illinois and Michigan is host to Purdue, and both schools are heavily favored.

The fact that both Ohio State and Michigan had difficulties last week against Indiana and Minnesota, respectively, should work in favor of the Big Two with little chance of another week of letdowns.

The Big Eight's Big Two, second-ranked Oklahoma and third-ranked Nebraska, appear to have an easy time of it this week. But anything can happen in the Big Eight although usually the Sooners and Cornhuskers are left fighting for the league title. Oklahoma will be at home to Kansas and Nebraska travels to Kansas State.

In other Saturday games, Southern Methodist will be at No. 4 Texas A&M, Baylor will be at No. 7 Texas, North Carolina State will be at No. 8 Penn State and Stanford travels to No. 9 Southern Cal.

Saturday night, No. 5 Alabama is at Louisiana State, Wyoming is at No. 10 Arizona State and No. 15 Arizona goes to No. 13 San Diego State.

Tennis Event Is Completed

The Greenville Golf and Country Club recently completed the annual Jack Stoughton Memorial Tennis Tournament, which included play in 14 events.

Brad Brown won the 14 and under boys division, while Bart Greene was the runner-up. Mike Murad took the 19 and under boys, downing Herb Bailey.

Carlie Wille won the ladies' championship singles, defeating Myra Hill. In the first flight, Mary Everett defeated Jane Blount. Bonnie Perkins won the second flight over Kathy Proctor.

Jim Bailey took the men's championship singles, with Walter Jones as runner-up. John Hill won the first flight over Sellers Crisp.

Janet Stoughton and Lib Proctor won the ladies' championship doubles over Myra Hill and Ruth Trevathan. The first flight went to Dee Fearington and Linda Davis, who beat out Kitty Joyner and Ruthie Greene.

In the Men's championship doubles, Walter and Doug Jones took first place. Jim Bailey and Knott Proctor were the runners-up. Billy Johnson and Graham Flanagan won the first flight over John Griffin and Julian White.

Carl and Carlie Wille won the mixed doubles championship, defeating Rae Daniel and Doug Jones. In the first flight, Joe and Linda Davis beat out Bill and Blance Monroe for the title. Allen Taylor and Harriett Wooten won the title over Charles and Barbara Wilkerson.

Jamesville In 30-12 Victory

ROBERSONVILLE — Jamesville High School captured its second victory of the year yesterday, downing the Roanoke Junior Varsity, 26-12.

Jamesville took a lead in the first half, but Roanoke came back to hold a 12-7 advantage going into the final period. The Bullets then rushed over three touchdowns to take the win.

Jerry Ange scored the first Bullet touchdown in the second period, going 48 yards on a quarterback sweep. Toby Holiday kicked the extra point for a 7-0 edge.

In the third period, Roanoke came up with two scores. Danny Brown cut the lead to 7-6 by scoring from the two. Then Clay Roberson put the Papooses ahead by blocking a punt and returning it 31 yards for the score, making it 12-7.

But in the last quarter, Jamesville bounced back. The Bullets appeared stopped deep in their own territory, but Ange faked a punt on fourth and long yardage from his own end zone. He completed a pass to Rufus Simmons for the first down at the 32. Then, on the next play, Simmons hit Eric Davis for 78 yards and the score. Holiday's kick returned the lead to the Bullets, 14-12.

Stan Lilley scored on a two-yard run for the next score, and Davis picked off a Roanoke pass and returned it 82 yards for the final tally.

The win ended the year for the Bullets, who close with a 2-8 record.

Rose In 'Must' Game

Rose High School's Rampants will play host to Northeastern High School tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium.

The game is the final regular season game for both teams. It has added importance in that the Rampants must claim a victory or a tie to gain a place in the State 4-A Playoffs for a third straight year.

A loss, unless other upsets occur in the conference, would eliminate Rose from any chance of returning to the playoffs.

Rampants, Bucs Are Favorites

A couple of hundred years ago Benjamin Franklin said, "We must all hang together, or we will all hang separately."

Well, this week, our panel has decided to hang together. There's very little difference in our picks from top to bottom. Of the 12 games we are taking a look at this week, there are nine that everyone went right down the line on.

We're just hopeful that two of our picks will come out right this week—the Rampants over Northeastern, and the Pirates over Virginia.

Jack Whichard continued to lead the pack with an 84-22 record, and has put a little more breathing room between him and second place Tom Baines, now 80-26. Joe Jenkins is hanging on to third with a 77-29 record, while George Holland is still clinging to fourth at 72-23. This writer is 72-34, while Diane Allen is 69-37.

In the high school picks, we are now 36-23-1 after a 3-2 week last time out.

And in this, the final regular season weekend, there are some key games indeed.

Principal among them is the clash between Roanoke and North Johnston. Both are unbeaten in league play, and the winner takes the title and the State Playoff berth. It should be some kind of a game, and we'll pick the Redskins to pull it out.

Two of the Eastern Carolina games mean a lot. C.B. Aycock is at Ayden-Grifton, and the Chargers must win to hang onto a share of the championship. The Falcons have been up and down, but the Chargers should be able to handle them.

Greene Central hosts upstart Southern Nash, which has won its last two. The Rams need the win to not only gain half of the championship, but also the playoff berth. A loss would give it to Ayden-Grifton—providing the Chargers win. Nevertheless, I believe the Rams are too close now. They'll win it and move on into the playoffs.

Duke-Wake; Clemson-Carolina Highlight ACC Football Weekend

By The Associated Press

Two Atlantic Coast Conference games are on tap for Saturday — Duke at Wake Forest and Clemson at North Carolina — while the other league teams meet the outside foes.

—Maryland will be at Cincinnati.

—North Carolina State visits Penn State.

—And Virginia hosts East Carolina.

Duke-Wake Forest

Duke and Wake Forest meet in Winston-Salem in a crucial conference game for both. Duke, 2-0 in the league and 3-5 in all games, is in second place and a win over the Deacons would give the Blue Devils a tie with Maryland, 3-0, for first.

Duke had beaten Virginia and Clemson, while the vastly improved Deacons, 3-5 overall, are in third place with a 3-2 conference record. Wake Forest is coming off impressive wins over Virginia and North Carolina on the road, and Duke will be looking to rebound from consecutive losses to Florida and Georgia Tech.

Clemson-North Carolina

Both North Carolina and Clemson will be trying to shake disappointing slumps when they clash in Chapel Hill. Clemson, one of the pre-season favorites in the ACC race, will bring a 1-7 record to Kenan Stadium. The Tigers are 1-2 in the conference. The Tar Heels are 2-6 overall and 1-3 in the league, having lost the last four games.

PICKS UCLA

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Howard Schoenfeld, national junior tennis champion and winner of the Pepsi-Cola junior international, plans to enter UCLA in February. His father, Dr. Leslie Schoenfeld, is a faculty professor.

Schoenfeld, 17, weighs 145 pounds and hopes to add at least 20 pounds on his six-foot frame to gain more power in his game.

Woody's Ramblin's

BY WOODY PEELE

North Pitt goes to Conley, and the Panthers have a chance to have their best season ever with a victory. Conley, while losing some tough ones, has shown that they can be hard to handle. Unless the Vikings are off their tempo, I'll look for them to win.

Farmville Central is at North Lenoir. The Chargers still may have some outside hopes of a title spot, but only if two upsets can occur. They're probably not going to be looking for them, so they'll have their eyes on this game—and they should win it.

Our panel of experts, which bombed out last week in picking the Rose game, are trying to pull the Rampants through again. Northeastern will probably give them all they want, but we look for a victory. It's a 6-0 slate for the Rampants to win and move into the playoffs next week.

The Pirates go to Virginia for their meeting with former Coach Sonny Randle. A lot of emotion will be going on on both sides of the field this weekend. It promises to be one whale of a game, but we can't get any unanimity here. Miss Allen likes Virginia, but the rest of us, by a 5-1 margin, pick the Pirates.

Other consensus picks: Richmond over The Citadel; Furman over Western Carolina; North Carolina over Clemson; Maryland over Cincinnati; Pittsburgh over West Virginia; South Carolina over Appalachian; VMI over William & Mary; Duke and Wake Forest, a toss-up; Penn State over N.C. State; and Auburn over Mississippi State.

Richmond Spiders Out To Clinch Southern Conference Grid Title

By The Associated Press

Richmond's surprising Spiders can clinch the Southern Conference football championship Saturday with a victory over The Citadel's Bulldogs.

Richmond is 4-0 in the league and 4-4 over-all while The Citadel is 3-2 and 5-3.

"We have had a long, hard series over the years with The Citadel and I expect this one to be as tough as any Richmond-Citadel game," said Spiders Coach Jim Tait. "They have an excellent defense and are having a great year."

The Bulldogs will be without starting quarterback Gene Dotson, who suffered a knee injury in last week's loss to Appalachian State. Dotson will be replaced by senior Rod Lanning, who was the starting signal caller in the Bulldogs' victories over William & Mary and Davidson.

Freshman Kenny Caldwell will replace Dotson as The Citadel's punter. It was Dotson's punting that kept Virginia Military in the hole in the Bulldogs' 6-3 victory over the Keydets two weeks ago.

The Spiders are coming off a tough defeat at the hands of highly favored Georgia last week, losing 28-24 after leading 24-21 in the final period.

The Citadel Coach Bobby Ross said, "I don't care how mentally down some people say Georgia was, any team that can go to Athens and play like Richmond did has something going."

Ross said, "This Richmond team is different from recent teams in that it runs more at you. They still have a good throwing game, but they're much more physical."

The Bulldogs will have to defeat the Spiders to have a chance of winning the conference title.

After Saturday's game, Richmond plays only William & Mary in the league and The Citadel has Furman.

Tied with the Bulldogs for second place in the conference are East Carolina's Pirates, 3-2, 6-3, who have a nonleague encounter at Virginia Saturday.

William & Mary, 0-8, travels to VMI, 2-5, and Appalachian State, 2-2, 6-2, is at South Carolina.

Furman, 2-3, 4-4, entertains Western Carolina. Davidson, 0-2, 1-5, coming off its first win of the season against Kenyon, hosts Lehigh.

"We haven't beaten Richmond since I've been coaching at The Citadel," said Ross, who is in his third season. "We'd sure like to win one against them, for that reason and for the fact that we've got to if we're going to retain any chance to win the conference title."

Green Is Champion

The Green defeated the White, 26-18 yesterday to win the playoff championship of the Tackle Football League. Green earlier had won the regular season title.

The Green scored on a pass from Jamie Bradley to William Frizzell for a 6-0 lead. But White came back to tie it up, with Kenny Wilson scoring on an eight yard run.

Green came back with another score when Mark Shank passed to Chris Ross. Shank hit Ross again for the PAT and a 14-6 lead. White then fumbled the kickoff and Frizzell scored three plays later from 15-yards out, running the lead to 20-6.

White came back with a score as Marshal Heath scored from the 10 to cut the lead to 20-12 at halftime.

Bradley scored on a 15-yard run for the Green to run the margin to 26-12 in the third period. Wilson scored on a 15-yard run to cut the lead to the final margin.

Heath, Bill Lee and David Holley led the White defense, while Frizzell, John Meeks and Ashley Taylor led the Green.

The Flag League will hold its tournament next week, Monday through Thursday. The Eagles meet the Steelers in the first game, while the Cowboys and Redskins meet in the second.

The Eagle-Steeler winner meets the Dolphins the next day, with the finals set Thursday.

The Dolphins won the regular season with a 7-0-1 record, followed by the Redskins, 4-4-0; the Cowboys, 3-4-1; the Steelers, 3-5-0, and the Eagles, 2-6-0.

Cubs Take Final Win

ELIZABETH CITY—Rose High School's junior varsity closed out the 1975 season on a winning note, downing Northeastern's Baby Eagles, 16-12.

The victory boosted the Rose record to 3-7 on the year.

Northeastern scored first, going 71 yards on the first play from scrimmage after the kickoff to take a 6-0 lead.

Later in the second period, Northeastern drove to the Rose 11, but fumbled and the Rampants began an 89-yard scoring drive. That ended when Scott Brady went over from the one. Dino Staton then got the two-point conversion for an 8-6 Rampant Cub lead.

Northeastern came back in the third period, springing another long run, this one of 93 yards, to score. That put the Eagles back ahead, 12-8.

But Rose came up with a final period touchdown to claim the win. Staton capped a 58-yard drive with a two-yard plunge for the score. Brady passed to Reggie Spain for the conversion and the final 16-12 margin.

Staton led the Rampant offense, rushing for 126 yards in 33 carries.

Baby Rams Win Finale

SNOW HILL—Greene Central's junior varsity closed out the 1975 season with a 20-6 victory over North Johnston last night.

North Johnston held a 6-0 lead going into the second half, but Greene Central came up with two third period scores. Linwood Battle tied it up on a 76-yard fumble return for the first touchdown. Russell Brann then scored the second touchdown on a quarterback sneak for a 12-6 edge.

In the final period, Lindwood Belcher scored from the three, and Colin Beaman passed to Shea McLawhorn for the two-point conversion.

The win made Greene Central's Baby Rams 6-2-1 on the year.

State leads the series 10-1-0.

Maryland-Cincinnati

Cincinnati Coach Tony Mason notes that Maryland Coach Jerry Claiborne uses the Wide Tackle Six defense, similar to that used by Southwest Louisiana, which Cincinnati defeated last week. "But that's like putting a Piper Cub up against a 747," Mason said in sizing up the Terps. Cincinnati is 4-3 and Maryland is 5-2-1 and 3-0 in the ACC. A win by the Terps would enhance their chances for a third straight bowl bid.

East Carolina - Virginia

Virginia Coach Sonny Randle puts his prestige on the line when he entertains East Carolina, where he coached for three seasons before moving to Charlottesville. The Cavaliers have a dismal 1-7 record and are 0-4 in the conference. East Carolina of the Southern Conference is 6-3. Randle said, "The ECU coaches and players feel they are going to come in here Saturday and kick our fannies good. I'll go along with that unless we get the effort we got against Vanderbilt last Saturday." Vandy won 17-14 but Randle was pleased with his team's improved performance.

LET'S TALK TURKEY!! ABOUT THESE HOMES

You won't find a nicer home in beautiful Englewood. Where else can you find 1839 square feet for $43,500? Three bedrooms, 2 baths, formal living room with fireplace, dining room, large eat-in kitchen with washer, dryer and pantry area, den, double carport and nice yard for the children. You'll love the neighborhood, so let's go look at it!

One of Brook Valley's Finest — If you need four bedrooms, this is the house for you. You'll find all the rooms you need . . . formal living and dining . . . eat-in kitchen, den with fireplace . . . walk-in attic, storage and plenty of closets. View of the lake and clubhouse in the front, golf course in the back. An excellent buy!

Another choice area — Cherry Oaks — another choice home. This one has it all — including pool membership. Formal living and dining — family room with fireplace, kitchen with built-ins, mud room, 3 bedrooms and 2 baths — drapes and refrigerator remain so it's just perfect for you apartment dwellers! All it takes is one phone call for you to see this home. Mid forties.

If you love Greenville, but want to live within just minutes of the city, we have the house for you! It's a charming 3 bedroom, 1 1/2 bath home in Bethel. Located in a nice area. This home is only a year old and the price is right — $24,500.

A starter home you can't afford to miss. It has everything you need for that first home — 3 bedrooms, 1 1/2 baths, living room, large kitchen with dining area, garage and large patio in back. In city school district and it's just waiting for you to come on over. You may have heard that you can't buy a home in a nice neighborhood for under $25,000 — but here it is and only $23,500.00.

Brook Valley — Two lots for sale — under $10,000 each.

Now that summer is gone we don't think too much about those utility bills, but for those warm summer days next year, the trees provide the breeze and shade and the privacy for this home you'll rarely need the central air this one has. It's got the formal living and dining rooms, roomy kitchen and breakfast room, three large bedrooms and large 22 x 13 den with bookcases and fireplace. It also has a two car garage. This house is located in Cherry Oaks. We'd love to show it to you close up, for you can hardly see it for the trees from the street. 50's.

Are you looking for a nice home on a quiet street so the children can play safely? This house just fits the bill. It is on a cul-de-sac and situated on a 130 x 185 foot lot. That's plenty of space to roam! Large living and dining rooms, kitchen with breakfast area, 3 bedrooms, 2 bathrooms, fireplace in den with sliding glass doors opening on to a deck, eat-in kitchen with built-ins. Start packing your bags because you'll be ready to move once you see it. Mid 40's.

Looking for a brand new house by one of Greenville's finest builders? We have it and it's almost finished. It's located in beautiful Club Pines on a wooded lot. It has everything you're looking for — Formal living and dining rooms, 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, fireplace in den with sliding glass doors opening on to a deck, eat-in kitchen with built-ins. Start packing your bags because you'll be ready to move once you see it. Mid 50's.

This house is convenient to everything — University, shopping, you name it. It's located in Stratford Subdivision and just might be what you've been dreaming about. It has a living room and dining room, eat-in kitchen, 3 bedrooms, 2 baths and den with fireplace for those cold nights ahead. Well established yard with fenced area for the children. The price is right; call us and we'll show you why. $41,400.

OKAY — So you've read all the ads and just cannot find exactly what you've been looking for and you refuse to move unless you do. We have the solution for you — we've got an excellent lot in College Court just waiting for your house. It is a corner wooded lot suitable for building. A three minute walk and you're at Eastern School. This choice area lot won't last long — Don't delay — See it today!

12 MONTHS OR 12,000 MILES
USED CAR WARRANTY

This guarantee applies to cars selling for $1000.00 and up. On a 50-50 basis. All work must be done in our shop. This warranty does not apply to any sport cars, high performance or air cooled engines or 4 speed transmissions (except economy cars). Most good used cars (even if they look like new) are only guaranteed for a month. Or for a thousand miles. No more. And some are not guaranteed at all. But at Tarheel when we say a used car is in excellent condition, we're willing to stand behind it. We're willing to do something a little extra for it. So we guarantee its motor, its rear end, and its transmission for twelve months or twelve thousand miles. If you're in the market for a better used car, come out to Tarheel and look at ours. We'll show you some as good as new. Guaranteed. Asterisk denotes warranted car.

Cosby Sees East A Hotbed Of Talent

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Cosby is in town. So he fell by Broadway's famed Stage Delicatessen for eats, an interview and to collect a sum in excess of $2 from a pal who erred betting him on the Rams-Eagles game.

"Que sera, sera," the comedian chortled as he counted the receipts and his pal managed a pained smile. "What will be, will be."

He ordered matzo crackers, spinach and green beans to soothe a mildly upset stomach, urged your observer not to mention this test his younger fans consider it a balanced diet, and began being interviewed.

The topic was "Cos—The Bill Cosby Comedy Hour," an ABC special he taped here this week. It will air Monday night and may become a weekly series in January. It is rumored the show will come from New York.

"You'd better believe it," said Cosby. Asked why, he launched into a line one often hears these days about the ample supply of fresh young talent in singing and comedy now working in Gotham.

We mentioned that you can find the same fresh talent in Los Angeles.

"Not like you have here," said Cosby, who got his big break in 1963 at a Greenwich Village cafe and later starred in movies, CBS' "I Spy," an NBC series about a school teacher and a CBS comedy-variety series that folded in mid-season.

"I'll take you to a place called Catch a Rising Star," he said, citing one of several cabarets that have sprouted here recently. "You'll see in one evening 25 comedians, 25 singers."

"You go to the Improvisation, Reno Sweeney's, they're all there, young people trying, young people who can't fly to California. And I've seen an awful lot of talented kids I want to get a start in television

... so they can get their feet wet and know what it's about." For the past seven years, Cosby has lived in Massachusetts. He was asked why, if he felt so strongly about East Coast talent, he did his CBS comedy-variety series in Los Angeles.

"Because the network wanted me to do it out West," he said. "They felt there was more talent out West, the facilities were better out West, the producer lived out West."

He said Fred Silverman, then CBS' programs chief, was the one who wanted his show out West. Silverman now is ABC's program chief. Why does Silberman now think Cosby could do a variety series here? "Because he found out I was right," Cosby laughed.

The 38-year-old performer has a serious sideline — education. He's devoted a considerable chunk of his time to making educational films for kids and appearing in public TV's "Electric Company" series. He started out to be a teacher and, despite his show biz success, says he's still working on his doctorate in urban education from the University of Massachusetts and hopes to get it in 18 months.

intended to promote the writing and use of cases based on field research in business.

The Intercollegiate Case Clearing House, based at Harvard University, is cosponsoring the workshop, which will draw business professors from the entire Southeast.

In addition to the Case Workshop participation, Dr. Keusch will present a paper at the annual meeting of the Southern Management Association, held in New Orleans Nov. 13-14. Professor Keusch's paper, based on some of his research in the area of long-range planning, is entitled "Directional planning: Some Further Considerations." Dr. Hill has been nominated for the Board of Directors of the Southern Management Association for the period 1975-78.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1975

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Early a.m. delays can be wiped out by some dramatic activity. Prepare for a most interesting afternoon and evening when all kinds of pleasures and happy events could take place if you are ready and in the mood to enjoy them. Accept invitations, or entertain.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) An outside affair seems difficult early, but the right solution soon occurs to you. Improve surroundings later. Find new wardrobe items.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Garner all data about new outlet before you get into it, then you can make a fine new ally. Enjoy pleasures later.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get work done. Then you can come to a fine understanding with regular associates, gain desired support. Home pleasures in p.m.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Handle private matters early. Later you may have some unexpected visitors. Expand talents. Come to better understanding with mate.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Some personal matter has you stymied early, but later all works to your advantage. Spend as little as you can for entertainment.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Fine day to show your best talents to others and gain their backing. Enjoy favorite recreations. Get rid of anxieties early.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't try to force anything in a.m. After lunch you can get much accomplished intelligently. Entertain congenials at home in p.m.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Iron out situation that presents delays. Then you can be with good friends. Take any needed short trip in afternoon.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study your financial status early. Later, improve it. Be alert to the fine opportunities around you. Avoid a heavy drinker.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Being forceful with others in a.m. could bring much trouble. Use tact, then you have a good day. A newcomer could be helpful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Turn a bothersome anxiety into an opportunity to advance. A trusted adviser isn't understanding in a.m., but turns helpful later.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A pal may disappoint in a.m., but later either changes or you get great assistance from another friend. A personal desire is gained by p.m.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will require a good deal of education since the mind is inquiring and your progeny wants to make big headway in the world. The life becomes successful once the forte is found, since there is a fine ability to coordinate theory and practicality. Don't neglect religious training early.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Opening lead: Ace of ♠.

Follow the play of this hand. At the end, tell us whether you agree with declarer's line of play, or whether you would have done differently. And, if so, why?

South had a close decision at his first turn of whether to raise to two clubs or respond one no trump, but his fifth club made the raise preferable. When North showed a powerful hand by introducing a new suit at the three-level, South decided to take his chances at a contract of three no trump.

West led the ace of spades,

just in case his partner held the queen. We have discussed in previous columns that the lead of an ace against a no trump contract requests partner to play his highest card. When East followed to the first trick with the six, West shifted to the jack of diamonds.

Declarer could count only six top tricks. It was obvious that the rest of the tricks would have to come from the club suit. So declarer won the queen of diamonds in his hand and ran the nine of clubs. He continued with a low club, and when the king appeared declarer took his club and diamond tricks, and with eight tricks in the bag, he crossed to the king of hearts for his ninth trick and then finessed the jack of hearts. Since the queen of hearts dropped under the ace, declarer made three overtricks.

Ladies and gentlemen of the jury, what's your verdict on declarer's line of play? Though it seems that declarer played the hand as well as possible, he could have improved his chances slightly. On the actual line, he would have been defeated had East held the king of clubs.

There was no way to make the contract if East held the guarded king of clubs. However, since declarer needed only four club tricks for his contract, it would have been slightly safer to lead a club to the ace rather than finessing, to protect against East holding a singleton king of clubs. When the king of clubs does not drop, declarer continues with the queen of clubs, and when West has to win the trick, the contract is iron-clad.

Admittedly, the odds of East having the singleton king of clubs are only about 6%, but such extra chances should not be overlooked.

Will Attend Workshop

Two professors from the School of Business at East Carolina University will participate in an Intercollegiate Case Workshop, sponsored by the Southern Case Research Association, to be held Nov. 10-12 in New Orleans.

Dr. Joseph A. Hill and Dr. R. B. Keusch have been accepted for this Case Workshop, which is
