

UN 'Zionism' Vote Sees Threats Of Retaliation

By GENE KRAMER
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly's adoption of a resolution declaring Zionism a form of racism and racial discrimination raised the threat today of U.S. financial retaliation against the United Nations and the supporters of the resolution.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., suggested withholding

American aid from nations that voted for the resolution Monday. President Ford's plans to ask Congress for $848 million for Egypt, one of the Arab sponsors of the resolution, appeared a likely target.

Another candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona, said the assembly vote may result in a "full reappraisal of the United States' participation and its role in funding the U.N."

Sen. Clifford Case, R-N.J., said the assembly action was "an irresponsible action and a victory for no one." Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., said the vote compromised the principles on which the United Nations was founded.
The vote on the resolution, which Cuba joined the Arabs in sponsoring, was 72 to 35 with 32 abstentions and three nations absent. The declaration has no binding force, but the United States and other critics warned that it could provide some countries a legal excuse for reviving anti-Semitism.

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, who never comments on assembly votes, took the unusual step of declaring that the passions aroused by the Zionism issue brought the United Nations to "a critical situation" that could be resolved only through urgent settlement of the Arab-Israeli dispute.
Israeli Ambassador Chaim Herzog said Israel regards the declaration as "no more than a piece of paper." The issue is not Israel or Zionism, he said, but "the continued existence of this organization which has been dragged to the lowest point of discredit."

U.S. Ambassador Daniel P. Moynihan told the assembly it was guilty of an "infamous act."
Zionism is the movement for a Jewish national homeland in Palestine, realized with the creation of Israel and propagated today as the guiding philosophy of the Jewish state and its supporters.
Fayez Al Sayegh of Iraq told the assembly that the target of the resolution was a political ideology based on exclusivity and discrimination against non-Jews.

Riaz Oureshi of Pakistan declared that Zionism was responsible for the expulsion of Palestinians from their homes and their continued dispersion and exile.
The resolution was opposed by the nine nations of the European Common Market, all the other Scandinavian countries and about half of the members of the British Commonwealth.
Its supporters included the Communist countries except Romania, which was absent, most Asian nations and Cyprus, Portugal, Turkey, Guyana and Mexico.

Most Latin-American governments voted against the resolution or abstained.
The issue split the normally solid African group, with 10 abstaining, five opposing and the rest supporting the declaration.
The fire was reported at 5:40 a.m. Monday and wasn't extinguished until 1 p.m. Ten trucks and 50 firemen from six departments helped fight the blaze.

Dismay Over UN Action

EXPLAINS U.S. POSITION—Daniel P. Moynihan, U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, addresses the General Assembly Monday night following passage of a resolution that labeled Zionism "a form of racism and racial discrimination." Moynihan, who ca-

America's "No" vote, told the assembly, "A great evil has been loosed upon the world. The abomination of anti-Semitism has been given the appearance of international sanction." (AP Wirephoto)

Laughinghouse Reelected Redevelopment Chairman

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
Billy B. Laughinghouse was reelected chairman of the Redevelopment Commission last night during the board's annual elections session.

Laughinghouse, who has been a member of the Commission since April of 1967, has served as chairman since April of 1968.

Commissioners, voting prior to the regular monthly meeting, again named Jack Whichard as the Commission's vice chairman for a one year term.

Joe Laney, who serves as executive of both the Redevelopment Commission and Housing Authority, was appointed again as secretary-treasurer.

During the regular meeting, commissioners accepted a bid submitted by Thomas F. Taft for Disposal Parcel D-2 in the Central Business District Project and Disposal Parcel D-3 in CBD.
Taft had offered a combined bid of $61,289.50 for parcels D-2 and D-3 at a price of 76.6 cents per square foot. In qualifying as a bidder on the parcels, Taft had been authorized to bid on either of the tracts or both, as was Blount and Ball Realty which also submitted a bid in the amount of $50,152 for D-2, or 70.1 cents per square foot.

The Commission, in reviewing the bids, decided to reject the Taft proposal on D-3 because it did not represent the minimum required bid of $1.42 per square foot.
Taft's bid of $54,774.36 (76.6 cents per square foot) was approved as the high offer on D-2, which is a large 71,507 square foot parcel fronting on Reade Circle, Cotanche Street and Eighth Street in the eastern half of the block.

D-3 fronts on Reade Circle adjacent to D-2 and continues around Reade Circle to a small frontage on Evans Street. D-3 contains some 8,471 square feet.
The minimum bid for D-2, which is zoned for R-6 (residential) usage, was 67.5 cents per square foot or $48,267.23. Taft's bid was $6,507 over the minimum.
D-3 is zoned for Downtown Commercial Fringe development.

The bid on D-2 will be recommended to the City Council for approval while the D-3 Disposal Parcel will be readvertised for bids if buyer interest is shown in that parcel.
T. I. Wagner, CBD project manager, reported that work on the Evans Street Mall is "pretty much on schedule" with brick paver installation progressing in the first block between Fifth and Fourth Streets.

Wagner said that the first block certainly should be completed by Thanksgiving and most of the block from Fourth to Third Streets should be finished by that time unless bad weather forces delays.
The landscape contractor is expected to come back and finish putting in trees and shrubs after work is completed by the electrical contractor, he reported.
Landscaping can be closed out in approximately five days, it was noted.

Wagner reported that the CBD Project Advisory Committee met on Oct. 28 and received a report on the status of the mall. Another meeting is scheduled for the end of this month, it was noted.
Commissioners concurred in a recommendation by City Engineer Charlie Holliday that a section of Cotanche Street, between Third and Fifth Streets, be resurfaced from curb to curb. Original plans had not called for complete replacement of the street in that section but Holliday suggested that the condition of the street justifies that it be torn up and reworked with a new rock base and pavement. The work would not be done immediately, it was explained.

Premier Fired; Strikes Follow

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Strikes hit Australia's waterfronts today in protest against Governor-General Sir John Kerr's unprecedented dismissal of Prime Minister Gough Whitlam and his Labor government.
Seaman walked off ships and dock workers quit work.
Bob Hawke, president of Australian Council of Trade Unions, said violence in the streets was a "real possibility." He appealed to the unions for restraint.
Hundreds of people appeared outside Parliament House, chanting, "We want Gough! We want Gough!" Some of them beat angrily on the automobile of conservative opposition leader Malcolm Fraser, who was appointed caretaker prime minister by Kerr until a general election can be held.

The business community, which for months has been caining for an end to the Labor government, was jubilant. The Sydney Stock Exchange's index rose 17.32 points to a high for the year of 419.57.
It was the first time a governor-general had fired a prime minister in the 75 years since the formation of the Australian Commonwealth. Kerr's action compounded a constitutional crisis which began 28 days ago with the refusal of the opposition majority in the upper house of Parliament to approve the Labor government's budget. That, too, was a first in Australian history.

Civil War Posing Threat To Angola

By REG SHAY
LUANDA, Angola (AP) — Thousands of Africans lined the streets of Luanda today to welcome Angolan independence and their new chief of state, Agostinho Neto, who was inaugurated president.
Neto declared the new nation independent at midnight under the rule of his Soviet-backed MPLA, the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola.
Two rival nationalist movements did likewise in parts of the former Portuguese territory that they control, and their armies were reported advancing on the capital from north and south.

The midnight celebration in Luanda included jungle drums and bullets and shells streaking across the sky, the nearest thing the MPLA had to fireworks. At times the guns were pointed dangerously low, but all the bullets went over the heads of the revelers.
Two of the shots hit a Red Cross plane that landed safely at Luanda airport. But a Portuguese jetliner bring delegations from the French, Italian, Romanian, and Portuguese Communist parties turned away and flew back to Lisbon.
Troops of the rival FNLA, or National Front, which is supported by China and Zaire, were reported 12 miles north of the city. And a column of some 1,500 troops of UNITA, the pro-Western National Union for the Total Independence of Angola, and of the FNLA were reported 50 miles to the south of the city.
It was believed that the two advancing forces planned to attack Luanda during MPLA independence ceremonies. The FNLA said 17 of its "suicide squads" had slipped into the city to disrupt the celebrations.

The three nationalist movements have been battling each other all year for control of the big, potentially rich territory in southwest Africa. Repeated attempts by other African governments and by Portugal to bring them together failed, and the Portuguese pulled out on schedule, leaving them to fight it out among themselves.
The FNLA now controls the northern part of the country; the MPLA has the center and Luanda, while UNITA has taken the southern half with the help of the FNLA. On Monday all three factions issued separate declarations of Angolan independence.

(Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told a news conference in Washington that the United States "will not stand still for any hegemonial aspirations" on the part of the Kremlin in Angola.)

SBI Agents Testifying In Trial Of Best

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
State Bureau of Investigation special agent Martha T. Owens testified this morning in Pitt County Superior Court that on three occasions, she visited the office of Dr. Andrew Best here and obtained prescriptions for controlled drugs.
On a fourth visit, she testified, she obtained 115 white tablets from the physicians office.
Mrs. Owens was the third SBI agent to testify since presentation of evidence in the case began yesterday.

Dr. Best is being tried on six counts of illegally dispensing controlled substances "not within the normal course of his professional practice." Charges against Best were brought last March following an undercover investigation by the SBI.
Yesterday afternoon, two SBI undercover agents testified that Dr. Best issued them prescriptions for Preludin as a weight control drug after they asked for the controlled substance as a stimulant to keep them alert.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.
Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

LOST TICKET
My wife and I went to Germany to see our daughter and her husband, who's in the Armed Forces. I lost our ticket for the New York to Raleigh-Durham leg of our return trip and had to buy another one. I filed a lost ticket form the very day in May we got back, but haven't received the refund I was promised yet. I've corresponded with both Eastern Airlines and the Davis Military Travel Agency, but nothing seems to help. M. L.

Hotline called Eastern Airlines Customer Service in Raleigh. Dan McNutt checked with the Miami Office and learned there was one missing ticket number holding up the claim. He also found though, that there was a way of learning this number within the office. This was done and he promised you'd have your refund within days. You now report you've received a $93 check from Eastern. A $5 lost ticket fee was subtracted from the original cost of the ticket.

HOTLINE APPEAL
RAGS NEEDED
I help some visually handicapped women with crafts. Two of them are excelling in making braided rag rugs now and are using all the polyester and cotton scraps I can get them. Anyone who would like to donate may contact them or me. The ladies might consider doing a rug for someone at a quite reasonable price if the materials are furnished. N. K.

Anyone having polyester or cotton material that can be made into strips for rug-making may contact Mrs. Nancy King at 758-1603, Mrs. Delia Moore at 758-0465 or Mrs. Mary Williams at 756-4965. Mrs. King will be willing to pick up big batches of material, she said.

No Action At Meet Tonight

Mayor S. Eugene West issued a statement today concerning the nature of tonight's open meeting on the recent Halloween disturbance.
West commented, "This is to be an informal special meeting for the purpose of hearing comments from interested citizens concerning the recent disturbance in downtown Greenville on Oct. 31."
The statement continued, "The meeting is not for action to be taken by the City Council concerning comments by interested citizens. These remarks are to be taped and copies will be furnished to members of the City Council in order that they may carefully consider the feelings of those citizens and how they reflect on the actions of our officers, who were placed in the unfavorable position of having to take action at the time of the disturbance."

The mayor emphasized that no action will be taken at the meeting, which is not considered a call meeting but an open, informal session.

Prisoner Faces Arson Charge

GIBSONVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Arson has been charged to a prisoner after fire destroyed a feed barn at the Guilford County Prison farm.
Officials said Robert Dunlap, 21, of Asheboro was charged. He was serving a five-to-six-month sentence for larceny.
The fire was reported at 5:40 a.m. Monday and wasn't extinguished until 1 p.m. Ten trucks and 50 firemen from six departments helped fight the blaze.

Student Group Reports On Study Of Disorder

A comprehensive study of the Friday night, October 31 disturbance in downtown Greenville has been prepared by an Executive-Legislative Select Committee at East Carolina University and has been presented to the Student Government Association (SGA).
The study includes three basic parts — a report, a list of conclusions and a list of recommendations.
The report states that information contained was "taken from 39 signed eyewitness accounts of students, written and oral statements from the Greenville Chief of Police and City manager, oral statements from the Fire Marshal, the Fire Chief, a fireman, eight merchants whose property received damage and representatives of the downtown nightclubs, the Chief of Campus Security, the Dean of Women and other ECU officials."

Based on the 15 page report, the Select Committee has offered the SGA eight recommendations to be considered: Among these are:
—That the Greenville Chief of Police be removed and replaced by a person of high professional standards who believes in the use of preventive action and who has the respect of the entire community.

—That projects and activities begin as soon as possible which would improve the atmosphere of student-police relations and better their communication.
—That all charges of failure to disperse, inciting to riot and related offenses be dropped.
—Charges of assault, looting or vandalism which came or may come should remain and run their legal course.
—That the students of ECU have a post of ex-officio, non-voting membership on the Greenville City Council with speaking privileges.

—That, in order to avoid future student congestion in the downtown area, the Municipal ordinances concerning beverages (e.g. beer) be re-evaluated for possible change to allow "beer on campus."
—That this legislative body contact a private investigative agency for the purpose of uncovering the complete story of the events of October 31, 1975; and —That this SGA call an emergency session on Monday, November 17 to evaluate the actions taken in response to the above recommendations.

A total of 13 conclusions are attached to the body of the report in which the committee members evaluate factors which in their opinion resulted in an "underlying cause of confusion, panic, injuries and damage which marked Friday night."
Commenting on the study, Jimmy Honeycutt, SGA president said, "The major thing we're concerned with, really concerned about, is making sure that things like this don't happen again."
"The recommendations made by the committee were good ones. The committee did an excellent job, they worked 40 to 50 hours looking into what actually did happen. From their findings, I think it's clear that a lot of students were arrested who were innocent and a lot of people were hurt by police brutality."

"It is an unfortunate matter," Honeycutt added, "and something ought to be done about it."
A public hearing is being held by the City Council tonight at 8 p.m. on the subject of the Friday night, October 31, disturbance. The meeting, announced by Mayor pro-tem Percy Cox at last Thursday's regular City Council meeting, is open to the public with an opportunity to be given to individuals to make comments.

Geo. Wallace Has Finances For Campaign

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, entering what probably will be his last presidential campaign, has a big political bankroll, a strong organization and a set of problems that surely would keep a less combative politician out of the race.

It is the fourth national campaign for Wallace, 56. It's his first from a wheelchair. He says there will not be another unless he wins the White House in 1976 and seeks re-election in 1980. That is not likely.

No political leader outside the Wallace camp suggests that he has a chance of winning the presidency. But he is as usual a force for the Democrats to reckon with, more formidable than ever given the party's big field of candidates. On a crowded presidential primary ballot, a minority often is enough to win, as Wallace showed the Democrats four years ago. His name has led the divided field in early polls.

Wallace's campaign manager, Charles S. Snider, says the governor is better organized, better financed and better prepared than before.

"We're probably in as good a position as the governor's ever been in," Snider said in a telephone interview as Wallace prepared for Wednesday's news conference in Montgomery, Ala., where he is to formally announce his candidacy. The formal announcement is almost redundant. The campaign has been going nonstop since the last one ended.

Paralyzed from the waist down, frequently in pain, facing constant questions about his health, Wallace is likely to encounter more searching scrutiny than ever before on his proposals for dealing with national problems and his formula for foreign policy.

In past national campaigns, his platform consisted largely of opposition to the things frustrating voters. This time, pressure is on candidates to talk about solutions and not just hit at problems.

Wallace could have problems matching the record he made in winning a half-dozen primaries four years ago. Any time his performance falls short of his 1972 showing, it will be seen as evidence he's slipping.

There are reports of dwindling blue-collar support for Wallace in parts of the South, once the base of his power. There are two Southern rivals waiting to take him on, each hoping to win national spurs by beating George Wallace in his own neighborhood.

Former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford tried and was trounced in his home state in 1972. He now seeks a rematch. Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter is showing signs of headway in his first presidential race.

Health, of course, is the big question for the Wallace candidacy now. He was shot as he campaigned in Laurel, Md., on May 15, 1972, and is paralyzed from the waist down. He takes medication to ease his pain. But Snider says reports of his health problems are exaggerated.

National Democratic leaders are, as always, solidly against Wallace. But instead of open opposition that would hand him an issue as it did in 1972, national party leaders are trying to quiet him with kindness.

"We don't want him to be able to go off campaigning against the national Democratic party," one party official said. "He can't legitimately attack us for having excluded him in any way."

Carey Maps New York City Proposal

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Hugh Carey has stitched together a complex new proposal — involving new state and city taxes, and help from banks and the federal government — to keep New York City from default and stabilize the state's own shaky finances.

New York City residents, who already have the highest sales taxes in the country, would be faced with a one-cent sales tax increase, to nine cents on the dollar.

As state officials worked on the plan Monday, Deputy White House Press Secretary William Greener repeated President Ford's promise to veto what the President has termed a "bail-out" of New York City.

But Greener referred to loan guarantee legislation before Congress "as presently drawn." The new Carey plan would reduce the minimum $4 billion in federal loan guarantees previously sought by the city to $1.5 billion to $2 billion.

To make up the difference, the plan would require heavy support from banks, other investors and taxpayers.

The cash-stricken city once again avoided default Monday, meeting $270.7 million in obligations with funds from various sources, including the sale of state-backed bonds to city pension funds and to the State Insurance Fund.

Ford, meanwhile, met with five Senate Democratic leaders to discuss a Senate proposal to provide $4 billion in federal loan guarantees.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-

Wis., chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, said Ford indicated he wanted to do everything possible to help the city but that he still is opposed to federal loan guarantees.

The House Ways and Means Committee begins consideration today of a bill to provide the city with $7 billion in loan guarantees. Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., said he expects the House to vote on the bill next Monday. He said chances for passage look more favorable than a week ago.

The one-cent increase in the city would cost the average resident an estimated $30 a year and raise $235 million.

In addition, state taxes on corporations and banks would be raised by $315 million this fiscal year, through a 20 per cent surcharge on the corporate franchise tax and the extension to upstate banks of a tax increase imposed on the city banks earlier this year.

The state taxes would not be used to aid the city, but instead to help close a state budget deficit which Carey estimates at $600 million and state Senate Republicans say is about $330 million.

The new state and city taxes would be the capstone of a complicated scheme to combine private funds with federally guaranteed loans to keep the city from default after Dec. 1, when the state's current $2.3 billion financing plan runs out.

Dental Soc. Fighting Admitted Need To Get Dentist In Aurora

AURORA, N.C. (AP)—An Eastern North Carolina dental society is fighting a federal effort to recruit a dentist for Aurora, even though its president admits the need is there.

Aurora Mayor Grace Bonner charged Monday that the dentists "just don't recognize the need for dental aid" in the area and think the federal health program is akin to socialized medicine.

But the president of District

Five Dental Society, Dr. Garland Holmes, of Washington, N.C., says that's not so.

"Our contention is that there are dentists in the immediate area who aren't busy," said the man who heads the group including most of the eastern part of the state.

He suggests that those dentists could go into the Aurora, maybe on a parttime basis, instead of bringing in a dentist through a federal program who might "shut out dentists on the outside, cut out some of the patients from their business."

Both Mrs. Bonner and Holmes say they want the same thing—more dental service for parts of Beaufort and Pamlico County near Aurora.

The effort by the National Health Service Corps in Aurora is one of the first federal tries at putting a doctor or dentist in eastern North Carolina, an area in need of more medical care.

The program has already placed three dentists in western North Carolina. It recruits dentists right out of school and pays for his building and equipment in exchange for an agreement that he will stay there after the two-year trial period is over.

Robert Scholland of Atlanta, regional director of the health corps program, said Monday that he hopes to meet with the dental society soon to work against the opposition to his program in eastern North Carolina.

He said little resistance met the program in Florida and Tennessee, but that some dentists in Mississippi, South Carolina, Georgia and some other states have caused problems.

Scholland explained that the difference is between needs and demands for dental care. He says that while the demand may not be present, illustrated by the fact that the North Carolina Dental Society estimates that only 40 to 50 per cent of the population goes to the dentist, the need is.

Scholland says part of the purpose of the program is to encourage people to get dental care.

Mrs. Bonner complains that the 5,500 people in and around Aurora have nowhere other than Bayboro or Washington to go for dental care.

"By the time you drive that far, 45 minutes there and 45 minutes back and waiting to see a dentist, you have to take a half day or three quarters of a day off to visit the dentist," she said.

More Power Is Sought By Construction Unions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized labor is making a strong effort to win approval of a controversial bill that would give individual unions the power to close down entire construction sites in disputes with subcontractors.

The measure, passed by the House in July, has touched off a Senate filibuster, but backers of the measure hope to invoke cloture on a vote today to get the bill to the Senate floor for consideration.

The bill, which would in effect overrule a 1951 Supreme Court decision, would allow building trades involved in disputes to picket an entire construction site and not just the subcontractor involved in the dispute. The high court ruled 25 years ago that such action constituted an illegal secondary boycott.

Labor leaders backing the bill with both lobbying and thousands of dollars in campaign contributions for congressmen argue that a general contractor and subcontractors are engaged in a single coordinated enterprise and should be treated as one entity in disputes.

AFL-CIO unions have made thousands of dollars in political donations to supporters of the measure. An Associated Press tally of 1975 political donations by 18 AFL-CIO political committees, including all those affiliated with the federation's Construction Trades Department, showed labor's early pre-election donations going mainly to supporters of the controversial measure.

The AP tally showed that the 18 committees gave a total of $93,495 to 78 House members who supported the bill last summer. In the Senate, $15,000 went to Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., who is head of the Labor Committee and a sponsor of the bill.

In the House, $9,000 was given by the unions to congressmen who did not support the measure.

The Senate filibuster to keep the bill from floor consideration is being mounted by Sen. Paul

Declares Privacy Law Stretched

RALEIGH (AP)—A federal regulation aimed at protecting privacy of persons whose names are on law enforcement records goes too far, the Holshouser administration charges.

So it's fighting the regulations. "We're negotiating now and I'm reasonably sure we can get them to back off on some of these things," Sam H. Long III, legal counsel to Gov. Jim Holshouser, said.

North Carolina was scheduled to submit a plan for compliance with the proposed federal regulations by December 16; the deadline has been extended to March 16.

But Long said North Carolina's plan won't be in compliance unless the federal regulations are changed.

And he says that might cause trouble.

For instance, he says, the U.S. Justice Department could hold back $13 million in law enforcement assistance funds; or North Carolina's criminal investigation's could be isolated to the state by the National Crime Information Center denying it access to its files, which include FBI files.

According to Long, the regulations "broken down to the King's English, mean that if you go to the courthouse to ask the clerk if Sam Long was convicted of beating his wife last Monday, they could answer your question. But if you asked if Sam Long has ever been convicted of anything, they couldn't answer."

He said the federal rules would require that a person's name, the nature of the case and a specific date be supplied before information is released.

Long says that means you would have to know the answer to your question before they would answer it.

Long called the regulations "a typical Washington over-reaction" to a "very real problem" of some individuals being harmed by others having easy access to incomplete data in police and court records. He said the records might show that someone was arrested but not that he was found innocent.

Home Care Service Described To Group

SNOW HILL—A program about home care services for the sick and chronically ill was presented Thursday at Snow Hill Primary School by Greene County Health Care, Inc.

Representatives from Greene Lamp, Inc., Greene County Department of Social Services, Greene County Health Department, Neuse River Council of Governments, private rest homes and 13 Greene County churches, attended the meeting.

Gary Lewis, program administrator of Greene County Health Care, briefed the group on the goals, objectives and plans of the health care organization.

Joan Stodghill, aging planner with the Atlanta Regional Commission, told the group that home care services can be divided into skilled nursing and environmental support categories.

After a short question and answer period, the group discussed the necessary steps to develop home care services. The group decided to begin with a registered nurse, license practical nurse, and aide services to be followed by other support services as the program gets on its feet and other needs become apparent. Target date for beginning home care services is Jan. 1.

Wallet Found By Best Friend

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Trent Luttrell, Bakersfield printer, was plowing his yard when his billfold, containing his driver's license and other valuable papers, fell out of his back pocket and was buried in the dirt.

"I dug in the yard three or four days trying to find it, but never could," Luttrell said. "I thought I would never see it again."

"I hated the idea of having to go into Bakersfield to renew all the papers lost with the wallet. But just before I was ready to take off," Luttrell said, "my part Australian Shepherd went on a digging spree and of course you know what happened. He dug up the wallet. It was a little dirty, but otherwise in good shape."

All Saints' Day, Nov. 1, a Roman Catholic and Anglican holiday, celebrates all saints, known and unknown.

Coordinator Is Appointed

The Pitt County PTA Council recently named Linda Harris McKinney as coordinator of the Reading-Math Tutorial Center at the A. G. Cox School in Winterville. Mary Chance was named as her assistant.

Mrs. McKinney has served as a coordinator in the Learning Center at Pitt Technical Institute. She taught in the Asmara British School in Asmara, Ethiopia and did private tutoring of non-English speaking students. She was also employed by the Beaufort County school system.

Mrs. Chance was previously employed as a paraprofessional at South Greenville School.

Mark Birthday Of Founder

The Bahai Communities of Kinston, Wilson, Murfreesboro and Edenton will join the Greenville Community to celebrate the birthday of Bahauallah, prophet founder of the faith.

The celebration will be held this evening at nine o'clock at 300 Contentnea St.

Lanse Johnson of Gainesville, Fla. son of Ludi Johnson, chairman of the local Spiritual Assembly of Greenville, will be the speaker. The public is invited.

Annual Meet Begun By Growth Board

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—The Southern Growth Policies Board begins its annual meeting and legislative caucus on growth management today.

Former Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent, Gov. Jim Holshouser of North Carolina and Gov. Reubin Askew of Florida will be among the speakers at the three-day meeting.

Dent, now President Ford's special representative for trade negotiations, will speak to the group Wednesday night.

The meeting is aimed at developing ways of improving the South's economy through growth management and productivity.

Holshouser ends his term as board chairman at the meeting. Askew, who succeeds Holshouser as chairman, is scheduled to speak Thursday night at the convention's last session.

Among issues to be dealt with by speeches and panel discussions are those concerning utilities and natural and economic resources and how they should be used in a growing economy, as well as how institutions such as state universities can aid growth.

The Southern Growth Policies Board is made up of government officials concerned with coordinating the South's growth.

Modern Math For Parents

The A.G. Cox Reading-Math Tutorial Center in Winterville will conduct a Modern Math workshop Nov. 17 and 18 from 4-8 p.m. for parents of students attending the center.

The purpose of the workshop is to familiarize parents with the basics of Modern Math and enable them to better understand the problems their children may encounter in the classroom.

Linda McKinney is coordinator of the center, Mary Chance is her aide.

Concert Will Be Given Friday

A "Steady State Music" recital-lecture concert is being presented by the Atlantic Christian College Contemporary Chamber Players at 8 p.m. Friday in the choral room of the Hackney Music Building. Marvin Lamb is conducting. Compositions by Lamb, William Duckworth, Thomas Albert, Terry Riley and Phillip Musser will be performed. There is no admission fee and the public is invited to attend.

More AFDC Goes To N.C. Families

RALEIGH (AP)—A state official blames a shaky economy for North Carolina's increasing number of persons getting aid to families with dependent children.

"Although the economy is improving, the labor market is still tight and it's difficult for the less skilled to obtain employment," Judy Poston, head of the income maintenance section of the state Human Resources Department's social services division, said Friday.

She also said that inflation has prompted applications from people who were eligible for AFDC benefits earlier but did not apply.

Last week, the division of social services said that North Carolina leads the nation with its increase of AFDC recipients from June, 1974 to June, 1975, a 23.1 per cent jump.

The department reported that more than 3,500 persons were added as recipients from August to September.

The AFDC program gives a monthly payment for basic necessities for dependent children who have been deprived of parental care and support due to death, physical or mental incapacity or continued absence from the home of one or both parents.

'I Probably Would Have Been A Housewife' Says University President

By ANN ARNOLD
AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Lorene Rogers once turned down a college teaching job offered at only half pay because she was a woman. Thirteen years ago she was denied a professorship, again because of her sex.

She is now the first female president of a major American university. But her appointment has provoked bitter protests from both the University of Texas faculty and student body with some of the most vociferous coming from women's rights exponents.

But the 61-year-old biochemist insists she holds no grudges over past discrimination or the protests about her appointment as UT president.

If she were going to be bitter about anything, she says it would be the laboratory explosion that killed her husband in 1941 and kept her from being a housewife all her life.

"I've never been one who pushed ahead and scratched on the walls trying to climb my way up. I had no plans or ambitions to become a career-woman. If my husband had lived I probably would have been a housewife," she said.

Mrs. Rogers now runs the same campus where she was denied a professorship in 1962 because of her sex. UT Regents voted 5-3 to name Mrs. Rogers as the university's 15th president despite protests by some of the 43,000 students and a demand by some professors she resign.

Lady Bird Johnson, UT's only female regent, voted against her.

Most criticism centered on alleged Regents' disregard for faculty-student opinion. But some of the bitterest complaints came from women's rights proponents who view Mrs. Rogers as an apologist for sexism.

Newspaper articles quoting Mrs. Rogers saying, "A woman would give up her job any day to marry," haven't won her any feminist friends.

"She has done absolutely nothing for women on this campus," said Bobby Nelson, attorney for a woman suing UT for alleged sex discrimination.

The sex discrimination charge, filed in 1971, prompted Mrs. Rogers' appointment as vice president and designation as head of a panel to investigate bias charges.

Critics charged the investigation was a whitewash and the antidiscrimination plan weak.

"These are women who are concerned about a particular case where there is a difference of opinion because of the merits of the case," Mrs. Rogers says. "I do not believe in promoting a woman just because she is a woman."

"There are women all over this campus who have been promoted, had their salaries elevated considerably over the past four or five years because I'm here," she says. "Because I have gone about this in a peaceable fashion I have gotten to the point where I have had real influence."

Mrs. Rogers has drawn even more criticism over her move to block pay raises for 74 faculty members recommended for salary increases by their deans. A number of her most vocal critics were among those cut, but Mrs. Rogers dismisses their charges she set out to punish her critics as "ridiculous."

"During the late 60's there were many people who got large raises while many got none. Since the 1970's we've had only straight percentage increases. I was just trying to straighten out some of these things, trying to write as fair a budget as I know how. There was no blacklist."

Mrs. Rogers says she remembers the salary discrimination she faced as a woman too well to engage in such arbitrary tactics.

As a graduate student she scored top in her class and was offered a part-time job as a teaching assistant at half the $120-a-month specified for the post.

"When I asked the professor why he was only going to pay me half what the position normally paid, he said, 'Because you're a girl. I might have to help you,'" she recalled.

"I told him I would not teach that course for half what he paid a man. He taught the course himself rather than pay me the money that was available. He couldn't see paying a girl as much as he paid a man."

Mrs. Rogers left UT to teach at Sam Houston State College in 1947 but returned to the Austin campus two years later as a researcher and eventually assistant director of the Clayton Foundation Biomedical Institute.

"A great deal of the research I was doing was being published under the name of the director. I was making a living and was very in what I was doing. This was so far back in the women's movement that I didn't really expect much more."

When she decided in 1962 that she wanted a teaching post, the chemistry department refused to consider making her a professor even though she had taught courses in the department.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Years ago, I stopped apologizing for the condition of my house. Those who knew me understood why I had a basketball in my bathroom and those who didn't know me didn't want to know they really saw it.

I still indulge myself in the great American pastime, the making-excuses-for-the-condition-of-your-car number.

I have never climbed into a car in my life that the driver wasn't ready with an alibi. Everyone does it. A few weeks ago I entered a car that had nothing in it but a piece of lint and an umbrella and the owner turned ashen and said, "I must apologize. We have children."

"No need to apologize," I said. "What do you on your own time is your business."

"I mean the car," he said.

"If my car was this clean, I'd turn it into a mobile X-ray unit."

I drive a 1971 Dirtmobile and frankly I'm running out of excuses.

My husband opened the door on the passenger side a few weeks ago and a potato rolled out.

"What happened?" he asked.

"Would you believe we're decorating?"

"This is disgusting! Why do I smell onions?"

"Because the ashtrays are full and they overpower the pickles."

"What is that beneath your accelerator?"

"A tennis ball."

"Why is there an umbrella fully opened in the back seat? Don't you know it brings bad luck?"

"We noticed that when we couldn't get it down and we couldn't get it out of the car."

Gallery Owner Serves Patrons

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Women's luncheons, gourmet dinners and important town meetings have been used by one art gallery entrepreneur "to give artists and their works longer exposure." He works at it.

"Ladies have enjoyed lunching in the main art gallery with someone talking about art, so we went to the dinners and we've been extremely successful," explained James Hunt Barker.

His galleries in Palm Beach, Fla., and New York offer art preview guests libation, but so far the convivial art-mix with food has taken place in the Nantucket, Mass., gallery, a large, old, three-story mansion. Barker would like to expand the idea to the other galleries but space has been a problem.

"People like the opportunity to talk at length with the artists and it helps to sell art. After each exhibit the artist's work moves into another room where it can remain on display through the gallery season," he explained.

A quiet, relaxed Southerner — he is from Lexington, Ky. — Barker cannot be nonplused by the most horrendous turn of events. He recently planned a special dinner art preview for some prominent guests and 75 members of the town's land council, a group interested in the preservation of Nantucket. It was discovered that invitations to dinner had been sent to 300 by mistake.

Undaunted, Barker acquired extra food and prepared and served a dinner of cold borscht with sour cream, stuffed chicken and grapes with wild rice, zucchini, salad, sherbet and fruit to the 220 people who showed up.

"It was really a cool performance," said Mrs. K. Dun Gifford, a member of the land council's board. Her husband had worked with Senator Ted Kennedy on the preservation bill (Nantucket Sound Islands) that is before Congress.

Barker gives little talks about the artists before a meal begins. Introducing Cecil Beaton at one luncheon, he described how the artist-designer had particular concern for details of clothes in his paintings. It resulted in several commissions for Beaton.

He uses other intriguing ideas. In showing old costumes that had belonged to his mother and memorabilia of the Victorian age he lamented that the beauty of such ornamentation was seldom captured on canvas. It motivated some women to dress up for a portrait.

Artists often stay at his large home on a cliff if they are visitors to Nantucket. His 19 King Charles spaniels run about the house complemented by his mother's collection of 66 Staffordshire King Charles spaniels on shelves. Gloria Vanderbilt and her husband stayed there, he says, when she had an exhibit of paintings, her first.

At the gallery dinners there is likely to be entertainment, a guitar player or singer or both. Guests are a mix of townspeople, tourists, celebrities from far and near.

Barker's host-chef performance — he does all the cooking, himself — begins at the door. Impeccably attired and with gracious manners he greets guests and sits with them at dinner. While they sip a drink and wander about the gallery, he cooks the food which is served by attractive college students — one was living on a yacht with her parents — who also help in the cleanup.

"For small dinners, I keep guests to 35, the number of steaks I can get in a baking pan," Barker explained in reviewing his shortcuts. "I season the pan before arranging the meat, sprinkle a little red wine and seasonings on top and when it is time I broil it for five minutes or so. The top is brown, middle is pinky, and no one turns it over to see if it is browned underneath. Little potatoes and green beans or other vegetables are partially cooked and brought to high heat while guests eat the soup ..."

Dessert — orange sherbet and blueberries on one occasion — is usually chosen to match the tablecloths which are aglow with light from antique candelabra.

Barker's method of selling art may be expensive — costs have zoomed recently — but he's not about to abandon the popular idea.

Take A Back Seat While In-Law's With The Driver

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem with my mother-in-law. She and my husband believe that it is a matter of "respect" to let her sit in the front next to her son when we're in the car together. Of course that means I have to sit in the back.

I have tried to tell my husband that this has nothing to do with respect and that I should sit next to him. It burns me up, and they both know it.

His mother is 47 and has no disabilities, so there is no good reason for her to sit next to my husband.

I always thought that once married, your spouse becomes the most important person in your life and his family comes next.

It's gotten to the point where if his mother is going along, I just refuse to go. She doesn't drive and won't learn, so you can see that this poses a big problem.

There is no use talking to her because she already knows how I feel. She just thinks I should show her respect and get in the back.

What do you think is the respectable and proper thing to do?

MISERABLE IN BACK

DEAR MISERABLE: When push comes to shove, you should defer to her, not because your husband wants you to, but because she is your elder. Even though she should not have demanded to sit next to her son, since she did, you should have yielded gracefully. Refusing to go along is childish. Knock it off.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 72-year-old widow. I am very active, and believe me, I have all my buttons. My single daughter, Donna, and I live together.

I like people, but my oldest daughter who is married and lives happily with her husband told me that when Donna has company, I should excuse myself and give Donna and her guest privacy. This house is half mine.

Abby, when people reach a certain age, don't they belong to the human race any longer?

WITHHOLD MY NAME

DEAR WITHHOLD: The issue is not age—it's privacy. You need not disappear the moment Donna has company and remain out of sight until the guest leaves, but neither should you join the party the whole time.

Use some judgment, Mother. Your older daughter has a point.

DEAR ABBY: My 14-year-old daughter recently spent a month with her father in Colorado. He and I have been divorced since she was 6-years-old.

She closed a recent letter to me with the following words: "When I was born it was a wonderful thing because I grew up and you were there. I just want you to know that I couldn't ask for a better friend than you, Mommy. I love you!"

Abby, I am a witness to the fact that all children who grow up with only one parent do not go bad.

I would like to tell mothers all over the world that if they treat their children with respect and love, they will almost always make you proud of them.

YOUNG BLACK MOM

DEAR MOM: Thank you for a beautiful letter. It made my day.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Reversing Leaf Quota Trends

Sec. of Agriculture Earl L. Butz last week ordered a 15 percent reduction in the 1976 flue cured tobacco crop.

The marketing quota for the coming year will be 1,268 million pounds as compared to this year's quota of 1,492 million pounds. Acreage allotments will be 684,035, which compares with the 807,746 acres for this year.

The reduction reverses a trend of boosting the quotas. There was a ten percent increase in 1973 and a 15 percent increase in 1975.

Farmers will be notified of their individual allotments which will vary somewhat because of adjustments for overmarketing and undermarketing. The notices will be mailed by local offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

North Carolina is a major producer of fluecured tobacco and it is also grown in Florida, Georgia, South Carolina and Virginia.

The reduction in quotas for next year is certainly welcome news for the tobacco farmer who has been beset by high production costs and only average prices this year.

It is obvious that Sec. Butz made a big mistake in ordering the 15 percent increase in quotas this year. Then he made a second mistake by not taking the plight of the farmer seriously enough to announce the cut in time to do some good on this year's markets.

The announcement of the quota reduction is better late than never, however. It has been obvious for some time to most tobacco observers that a substantial reduction was needed for next year. Sec. Butz has finally announced it and, even late, it will help the tobacco marketing situation.

Adrift On Ocean Of Paper

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Magistrates and court clerks who are being roundly cursed by law enforcement officers for the long delays in processing a suspect under the state's new Criminal Procedures Act say they are being unfairly blamed.

The paper work is not their own idea, but comes from the state Administrative Office of Courts, and is required by the new law drafted by the Criminal Code Commission and enacted by the 1974 General Assembly to take effect this past September.

To put one person in jail requires up to nine different forms — many of them in duplicate, triplicate, or quadruplicate.

A big sheaf of papers with small print and line after line of information is required: the warrant, a bond form, a commitment form, a bond recommendation form, a judgment form, a release order pre-filled, and an appeal note are among the complicated papers.

Long Delay
Nobody denies it is taking magistrates up to half an hour to shuffle the paper on one lockup, and the police officer must stand and wait while it is done . . . and any others waiting to jail a person arrested must await their turn.

Taylor McMillan, assistant counsel to the Administration Office of the Court, confesses that the paperwork is complicated but says the law requires it. He said total paperwork in the courts has been greatly expanded, not just in the criminal area, but in the civil too, requiring a total of some 50 different forms.

The running battle across the state over the pre-trial procedures is complicated: there is the requirement that a magistrate can decide whether a warrant for arrest is justified, or if a criminal summons should be issued; every person arrested must be brought before a magistrate before being locked up, causing occasional violence in the office; search warrants must be used within 48 hours, allow search only for specified items, and require an itemized receipt left behind for anything seized; and police are specifically told not to try to question a suspect before the paperwork is done.

Other Areas
The law goes far beyond those items, however, in an effort to reduce the time jurors and witnesses must spend in court.

Two appearances are required before a district court judge; the "first appearance" within 96 hours so a judge can check the charges, make sure the defendant has counsel, and see if a second court hearing is required. The second appearance is the standard preliminary hearing.

Routine motions for dismissal on flaws, change of location, special jury, or continuance are to be heard before the actual trial gets underway, and intent to plead insanity must be announced beforehand.

Cumberland County Clerk of Court Tommy Griffin pronounces the new law a "total failure" if the purpose was to increase convenience for witnesses, jurors, and the public. It is, he says, only further complicating the process. Both magistrates and clerks protest that the paperwork was increased with no increase in manpower to handle it.

Griffin is outspoken in his criticism of problems in the criminal justice system: "This is our problem—the judges are not working. Statistics show a judge, on average, works three and one-half days a week across this state . . . And I don't know about the DAs, but I guess if the judges are off, they are too."

A legislative commission chaired by State Rep. Liston B. Ramsey, D-Madison, is studying problems in the pre-trial law to see if changes are needed.

The GALLUP POLL

A Dominant Issue For 1976

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J.—Last Tuesday's elections, in which bond issues were rejected in many parts of the nation, reflect the public's belt-tightening mood and give early indication that federal spending and "big government" may be a dominant issue in next year's presidential campaign.

Further evidence of the public's desire to cut back is seen in recent Gallup surveys which show (1) 53 per cent of all persons — and 57 per cent of those who are registered to vote — saying they would vote for rather than against a candidate who calls for a reduction in the number of federal employees by 5 per cent each year for the next four years; and (2) 67 per cent favoring President Ford's tax plan which calls for a cut in federal income taxes if Congress will cut spending by a similar amount.

The survey results reveal that even a substantial percentage of rank-and-file Democrats support both the proposal to reduce the number of federal employees and President Ford's tax plan.

On the issue of reducing federal employees, Republicans vote 70-23 per cent in favor, while the vote is 46-35 per cent among Democrats and 51-32 per cent among independents.

On the President's tax plan, the vote of Republicans is 82 to 10 per cent in favor, while among Democrats it is 58 to 25 per cent in favor. Independents vote 70-18 per cent in favor.

Following is the question asked to determine attitudes on a cut-back of federal employees:

"If a candidate for Congress ran on a platform calling for a reduction in the number of federal employees by 5 per cent each year for the next four years, would you be inclined to vote for him or against him?"

	CANDIDATE WHO CALLS FOR REDUCTION IN FEDERAL EMPLOYEES?
	Would Vote For	Would Vote Against	No Opinion
NATIONWIDE	53%	31%	16%
Registered voters	57	30	13
Non-registered	42	36	22
Republicans	70	23	7
Democrats	46	35	19
Independents	51	32	17

Following are the questions asked to determine attitudes on the President's tax plan. The question focused on the principle involved in his plan and not specifically on the $28 billion tax cut proposed by Ford, which many critics have described as "unrealistic."

"Have you heard or read about President Ford's recent proposal to cut federal income taxes and federal spending?"

Eight persons in 10 (82 per cent) replied in the affirmative. "President Ford has proposed the federal income taxes be cut if Congress will cut spending by a similar amount. Do you think this is a good idea or a poor idea?"

Following are the results, based on the total sample (both those who indicate awareness of the proposal and those who do not):

	FORD'S TAX PLAN
	Good Idea	Poor Idea	No Opinion
NATIONWIDE	67%	19%	14%
Republicans	82	10	8
Democrats	58	25	17
Independents	70	18	12
Informed Group	69	19	12
Uninformed Group	60	19	21

As indicated in the table above, when just the views of those who said they had heard or read about Ford's tax plan (82 per cent) are analyzed, the findings show somewhat greater support for the President's tax plan, with 69 per cent saying it is a good idea.

The question dealing with a reduction in federal employees is based on a survey in which interviews were conducted with 1,558 persons, 18 and older, interviewed in person in more than 300 scientifically selected localities across the nation during the period Oct. 3-6.

The question dealing with Ford's tax plan is based on a survey in which interviews were conducted with 1,553 adults, 18 and older, interviewed in more than 300 scientifically selected localities during the period. Oct. 17-20.

Strength For Today

FIRE!
In one of the major cities of our nation a restaurant was badly damaged twice because of fires started in the kitchen by grease boiling over on the stove.

It is not only boiling grease that starts destructive fires. Fiery tempers do the same thing every day. They boil over time after time, and little or nothing is done to stop them. What fools we are to let this kind of conflagration go on. We point the finger of scorn at a restaurant owner who was so careless as to let his establishment be damaged twice by the same cause, but many of us time after time are equally damaged by the hot resentment, scorching words, and fiery recrimination of our own bad tempers. Furthermore, they have boiled over hundreds of times and we have not prepared ourselves in the slightest against a possible recurrence tomorrow.

We may sin with our tongues today, but we add folly to our sin if, with even less restraint, we do the same thing tomorrow.

"Greetings, America! I'm what you've waited 200 years for . . . your Buy-Centennial!"

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Mr. Nice Guy's Trouble

The late Alben Barkley used to tell the tale, but the story of the ungrateful constituent probably was old when Cicero was young. It is the oldest yarn in politics, and it always has timely application.

In the Veep's version, he was campaigning one day in Breathitt County, down around Hazard, when an old mountaineer told him straight-out that he was going to support Barkley's opponent in the next election. The Veep was outdone. "Why, Teecece," he said, "the first thing I did, once I got to be senator, was to make your Maw postmistress at Hardshell. I got your Uncle Jeb a job as deputy marshal in Lexington, and he can't even read. Last year I saw you got your crop loan, and when your Cousin Lily got in a family way a couple of months ago, I sent her the government baby book."

"That's all true," said Teecece, rolling his good eye, "and I don't want you to think I've forgotten. But, Senator, what have you done for me lately?"

Gerald Ford is suffering these days from the Barkley Syndrome. Over the past nine months, in an effort to please Republican right-wingers, he has stopped just short of urging honorary citizenship for Genghis Khan. He lifted their hawk hearts with Mayaguez. He has vetoed a string of big-spending bills. He has denounced excessive federal regulation. He has rejected the pleas of sinful Manhattan. Last week he gave his conservative critics the head and hide of Nelson Rockefeller. Has he thus won their hearts and minds? No, indeed. Theirs is the Barkley question: What's he done for them lately?

The dramatic events of a week ago will not improve matters. In dumping Defense Secretary James Schlesinger, Mr. Ford dumped the ablest member of his Cabinet and the figure most admired on the Right. In bringing Elliot Richardson back from England as secretary of commerce, Mr. Ford has honored a liberal viewed with dour suspicion.

In promoting Donald Rumsfeld to Schlesinger's spot, the President has boosted the career of an unreliable whippersnapper too clever by half. So what if Henry Kissinger has been taken down a peg? So what if Rockefeller has been put in the family freezer? The disgruntled Right will not be appeased.

This is the way it is. Nothing on this earth — nothing under moon or sun — will satisfy Mr. Ford's conservative critics. Willy-nilly, they will keep picking at him. He is their Mt. Everest. They climb him because he is there. Some fellow on television the other night was saying that Gerald Ford is the most conservative president since Hoover. I would have termed Ford the most conservative president since McKinley. No matter. He is Mr. Nice Guy. My troglodyte brothers can't stand him.

My troglodyte brothers can't stand anybody very long. Twenty-odd years ago, they were whooping it up for Richard Russell of Georgia. Then Russell made some overtures toward Walter Reuther of the Auto Workers, and it was nix on Dick. For a time, Ohio's Robert Taft was their hero, but Taft made some moves toward public housing. Goodbye, Bob. My beloved trogs once had the hots for Ted Agnew, but he would have disappointed (Continued on page 5)

SALT Split Story

By KENNETH J. FREED Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The stagnation of U.S.-Soviet nuclear arms talks results from an untested American missile and a relatively short-range Russian bomber.

According to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, Russian inflexibility has brought to a stop the efforts to sign a new strategic arms limitation treaty — SALT — that limits offensive nuclear weapons.

He told a news conference Monday that only 10 per cent of the SALT negotiating process is incomplete, but the margin has separated the two superpowers for months. Recent developments show no improvement.

The troublesome 10 per cent focuses on the Soviet Backfire bomber and the U.S. cruise missile system. The first is a sophisticated but rather old-fashioned weapon, the other a fundamental threat to the atomic arms balance.

The question is whether and how many of these weapons should be counted in the formula worked out last year by President Ford and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev to limit the number of offensive nuclear arms allowed each country.

Under the Vladivostok agreement, named for the Siberian city where the two men met, each side would get no more than 2,400 strategic missile launchers or airplanes.

Exactly what are these troublesome systems?

The U.S. cruise missile is essentially a small, unmanned drone airplane that flies at less than the speed of sound and can be launched from a bomber or a submarine. Its advantages include radar-evading ground-hugging flight, mobile launching and pinpoint targeting.

So far, it has not been tested, but it is projected to be able to reach at least 1,500 miles from its launch point, which means a plane or submarine can fire one into any area of the Soviet Union.

The Backfire, a name attached to the plane by Western military experts, is the most President Roosevelt revealed today that he and Prime Minister W.L. MacKenzie, King of Canada, have reached a definite agreement which eliminates unreasonable trade restrictions, thus working to the advantage of both countries.

Commemorating Armistice Day at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, he pledged that America "will ever seek the ways of peace, but must and will protect herself."

He cited discussion with the Canadian Prime Minister as an example of neighborliness. Details of the agreement were not given.

To the editor:

In reference to the discussion last night by the City Council on the Blue Law of Greenville, we felt the public should be informed of something of the goings-on at this meeting. After some discussion by members of the Council, with absolutely no one of them stating a position for this ridiculous law, a local lawyer speaking for the downtown merchants who are much in favor of the Blue Law was allowed to speak in their behalf for at least five minutes, maybe more. After he finished, a spokesman for one of two local business men who were present, tried to say a few words in opposition of this law and was immediately cut down by the Mayor Elect, Mr. Cox, by saying this was not a public hearing and we would hear no arguments. If you listen to one side, Mr. Cox, it would be only courteous to hear the other.

We believe if all the people of this City, especially you ladies who have been refused on Sunday the opportunity to purchase items such as sanitary napkins, diapers or bottles for your baby, toilet tissue, etc., but are allowed to buy that child candy, toys, or yourself cigarettes, all types of make-up and perfumes, gun shells, and most any other frivolous item, should put forth all effort to attend the public hearing on this ridiculous law. (The hearing is presently scheduled for February). We believe all citizens of this city who do not believe they should be governed into what they can buy on Sunday should show their Council what they want in a law. The customers of the stores are being refused and are getting angry with the store when their anger should be directed to the City Council. It is these "Great White Fathers of Morality" who without a referendum crammed this law down our throats and this season, just before Christmas, it becomes the duty of the local law enforcement offices to see to it that it is enforced.

'Tigers' In Corporate World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A tiger stalks the hallways of American industry, and a lot of corporate officials don't know what to do about it, said the authority on business management.

"How do you hold a tiger by the tail without it turning on you?" he asked rhetorically.

The tiger, said Eugene Jennings, management professor at Michigan State University, is the young, ambitious, eager, tough and confident young manager who is determined to rise swiftly into the corporate hierarchy.

In the 1960s this type of person was sought avidly. He was encouraged. He was given all the rope he needed and was told, in effect, to either haul himself up by it or hang by it. The opportunity was there.

Upward mobility was relatively easy in the expansive 1960s. But now, in the 1970s, the economy isn't growing nearly as fast. The potentially mobile manager thus becomes frustrated by the corporation.

Sitting directly above the young tigers, who range in age between 30 and 35, is an immobile layer of older managers, stymied by the recession, and insecure and worn down by the stresses of today's world. Jennings observes that the younger managers often are forced to challenge this upper layer because of the pressures of inflation. Their families are growing, their expenses are rising.

Moreover, he adds, "Many of these tigers were raised by parents with a higher standard of living than they, the young generation can afford." The only way out of their financial pinch, he said, is upward mobility.

They are eager to advance. They are hard-working, willing to learn, ambitious and competitive. They can't easily be intimidated by authority. They scorn incompetence, and know that they have abilities. They might be considered by some people to be squares, said Jennings, who has made a decades-long study of corporate mobility, has written many books on the subject, and is a personal adviser to corporate chairman.

Their ambition in the midst of diminished opportunities is creating serious problems for many corporations, Jennings has found. He advises clients to be observant of "conflict dyads," or areas of potential friction between an immobile upper manager and an ambitious young tiger.

"In a smart corporation they watch for these conflicts and offer the young managers training and skills to help resolve them," he said.

Quinlans Weigh Appeal Action In Karen's Behalf

By STEPHEN M. BROWN
Associated Press Writer
MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP) — One legal battle has been lost, but Joseph Quinlan is thinking today about taking to a higher court his fight to let his daughter, Karen Anne, "pass into the hands of the Lord." Karen, 21, slipped into a coma April 15 and has been sustained in a "persistent vegetative state" by a respirator ever since. On Monday a state judge ruled that the respirator must not be disconnected. Superior Court Judge Robert Muir Jr. said in his decision, "There is no constitutional right to die that can be asserted by a parent for his incompetent adult child." Muir said the court is empowered to protect Karen's interests and decided "the determination whether or not Karen Anne Quinlan be removed from the respirator is to be left to the treating physician. It is a medical decision, not a judicial one." Karen's physicians opposed the family's request to unplug the respirator.

Advise General Plan Retire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has advised Lt. Gen. Brent Scowcroft he should resign from the Air Force before becoming President Ford's special assistant for national security affairs. William I. Greener Jr., a deputy White House press secretary, said Monday that Scowcroft had not been directed to resign. Greener said Scowcroft already has made plans to retire from the military.

"Numb" and "surprised" were words used by Quinlan to describe his reaction to the judge's decision. "We know what she would say if she were here right now," he said. "She'd say, 'Let's end all this. It's time for me to go home now to my Heavenly Father.'" Quinlan said he was still weighing whether to appeal the decision to higher courts and had to consider his other two children.

Julia Quinlan, Karen's mother, said the legal proceedings were "something we felt we must do morally. We had already done everything medically and spiritually. So we had to take it to the courts." "We'll still have the heartache and the anxiety," she said after Monday's ruling. The Quinlans filed a petition in Judge Muir's court in September asking that Quinlan be appointed Karen's guardian and seeking the court's sanction for ordering her respirator disconnected. In a 44-page decision, the judge said that Quinlan's attorney, Paul W. Armstrong, failed to prove that the court should order Dr. Robert Morse, Miss Quinlan's treating physician, to shut off the respirator.

"There is a duty to continue the life sustaining apparatus, if within the treating physician's opinion it should be done. Here Dr. Morse has refused to concur in the removal of Karen from the respirator," the judge said. Armstrong had claimed there were constitutional grounds for granting the Quinlans' petition. Karen's constitutional rights to privacy and self-determination must be weighed against the state's rights to protect life. Muir said, noting that Armstrong conceded Miss Quinlan "is by legal and medical definition alive."

Muir disagreed with the argument that Karen has no hope of recovery. "None of the doctors testified there was no hope," he said. The cause of Miss Quinlan's condition was not certain, although doctors suspected it was due to a combination of alcohol and tranquilizers which she took the night she fell ill.

Ford Advisers Propose Betty Assist Campaign

By FRANCIS LEWINE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's political advisers are about to suggest a bigger 1976 campaign role for Betty Ford than originally had been anticipated.

The First Lady, whose outspoken comments originally were viewed with trepidation even by the President, is now proving to be a heroine in the public opinion polls. One of the President's top-ranking White House aides confides that "from the polls we've seen, the conclusion is that Betty and the kids are a distinct plus for the President."

It also was learned that officials of the Ford campaign committee, after doing some of their own polling, expect to bring up with the President the possibility that Mrs. Ford should take an active part in the campaign.

That decision was disclosed after the latest Harris poll reported Monday that Mrs. Ford is winning overwhelming approval for her outspoken comments over the last year on women's rights and the way she would handle the situation if her daughter, Susan, were having a love affair. The Harris poll came to the conclusion that Mrs. Ford "is supported most by those segments of the public who are least likely to back her husband in the 1976 election," including the "younger and independent elements in the electorate."

The Harris organization said a survey of 1,519 adults nationwide showed that a 60 to 27 per cent majority agreed with Mrs. Ford when she said she "would not be surprised if her daughter had an affair."

A 64 to 23 per cent majority supported Mrs. Ford's statement that if her daughter were having an affair, "she would want to know if the young man were nice or not."

The Harris organization said Mrs. Ford has become one of the most popular of the presidents' wives.

President Ford himself has revised his estimate of his wife's impact. He announced jokingly after her August television interview comments on premarital sex that he figured she had lost him 20 million votes.

But now he tells applauding GOP audiences that his wife is doing better than he is in the polls.

Mrs. Ford told reporters recently that she has no intention of campaigning on her own or speaking out on political issues. However, she said she still intends to press for passage of the Equal Rights

Kilpatrick. . .

(Continued from page 4) them soon or late. Now their idol is Ronald Reagan. Mark it down: If Reagan should be nominated and elected, six months won't pass before the sniping begins.

This is the nature of the breed. Out on the farther reaches of the political Right, no contamination is allowed. No sin is ever forgiven. In the lexicon of the true-blue trog, accommodation is a dirty word; compromise is equated with dishonor; and moderation is no virtue. The hapless Mr. Ford is now beyond redemption.

All right. Ford has been a disappointment. But considering the cards he's picked up — inflation, recession, the stigma of Watergate, the collapse of Vietnam, the frustrations that stem from a hostile Congress — Ford hasn't played his hand too badly. He's clumsy; he's inclined to take inept advice; he doesn't follow through. But conservatives will not make themselves happier — they will only make themselves more miserable — if they succeed in so low-rating and maligning Ford that they destroy his candidacy in advance. He may not have done much for us lately, but if Humphrey wins, Humphrey will do nothing for us at all.

INDIAN RECIPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Genuine Indian succotash was made with corn plus beans, peas or pumpkin, flavored with bear meat or peaches and squash or maple sugar. A recipe attributed to the Iroquois and published in Ottawa, Can., in 1916 directed the cook to cut the corn from the cob with half of a deer's jaw.

Freed Col . . .

(Continued from page 4) sophisticated bomber ever developed by the Russians. It flies faster than sound, can carry nuclear weapons and air-to-ground missiles, has swing wings and is highly rated by U.S. military analysts.

Its range is 2,300 miles, which means it cannot reach the continental United States and return without refueling. It's nearest American equivalent is the F111, an intermediate-range bomber in service for several years.

In fact, that similarity exemplifies the dispute. In demanding that the SALT limit include the Backfire, the United States claims the plane is really intercontinental because it can reach the American mainland and return if refueled.

The Russians counter that the Backfire is really an intermediate-range bomber, and, like the F111, should be excluded from the Vladivostok formula.

American intelligence experts are divided over the objectives the Russians have set for their new plane, with some analysts saying Moscow intends to use it on the Russian periphery.

Other U.S. experts deny that, although so far the Russians have deployed about 25 Backfires in the western Soviet Union and Black Sea area.

Dec. 15 Trial Bank Robbery Ordered For Patty

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst, her thoughts still wrapped in silence, was ordered to stand trial Dec. 15 on bank robbery charges while her attorneys launched a fight for more time to cure the mental traumas they say she suffered while a captive of the Symbionese Liberation Army. Insisting that Miss Hearst is incompetent to stand trial — despite a judge's ruling to the contrary — attorney Albert Johnson prepared to summon psychiatric experts to tell of their secret proings of Miss Hearst's psyche.

He also began drafting on Monday an appeal to a higher court on the question of how soon the law requires the Hearst trial to begin. Johnson said he will subpoena three psychiatrists and one psychologist who spent some six weeks examining the heiress in her jail cell. Their sworn testimony, if admitted by the judge, would be given at a hearing set for Nov. 20. Johnson says he is sure the four would disagree with the ruling of U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter that Miss Hearst is able to aid in her defense. Meanwhile, at a hearing Monday, the 21-year-old Miss Hearst sat pale and mute, refusing to enter a plea to bank robbery charges. The judge entered a plea of innocent for her. "If Miss Hearst stands mute, then the court will enter a plea of not guilty to the indictment on these charges," Carter said. He then ignored defense protests and set the trial to open Dec. 15. She stands indicted on two federal counts — one of bank robbery, the other of using a firearm to commit a felony — in the April 15, 1974, robbery of a Hibernia bank branch in San Francisco by members of the terrorist SLA, which had kidnaped Miss Hearst seven weeks before.

The slender Miss Hearst, clad in a brown pants suit, did not utter a word during the hearing. She smiled at her parents and a sister in the courtroom and gave them a small wave goodbye as she was led out. It was the first time since her arrest Sept. 18 that she had shown any recognition of her family's presence at her several court appearances.

Corn Crop Above Expectations

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1975 corn harvest is turning out better than expected, and the Agriculture Department says there will be a little more grain to serve as a cushion against next year's food price increases and rising foreign demand.

86 million bushels, over last month's estimate. The expected crop not only would be the largest ever to be harvested by American farmers but would be up 25 per cent from 1974's weather-damaged output of less than 4.7 billion bushels. The current crop record of 5.85 billion bushels was set in 1973.

Department experts had predicted that retail food prices will continue to rise at least through the first six months of next year at an annual rate of 4 to 5 per cent, about one-half of this year's pace. While a bumper corn crop is no guarantee of a decline in consumer food costs, another skimpy harvest following last year's crop would almost certainly have meant much larger price increases through 1976.

Although many cash grain producers may grumble that corn prices are less than they otherwise might be, the huge grain output for many other farmers raising livestock could mean some relief in feeding costs. If that is the case, some increase in grain-fed cattle and hog production and in dairy product supplies could occur over the next six to nine months.

Department economists say the corn crop is enough to allow for some increase in livestock feeding and still meet what appears to be record exports in the 1975-76 season. The report Monday showed that soybean production also is up somewhat from October indications. At 1.52 billion bushels now estimated, soybean prospects are up 3 per cent from last month's forecast and 23 per cent above the 1974 harvest. Sorghum grain prospects, however, dropped 1 per cent during the month to about 770 million bushels. Even so, the crop — ranked next to corn as a livestock feed — is 23 per cent more than last year.

DECA Clubs At Annual Conference

The North Carolina Association of Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) from District I held their annual District Leadership Conference at Farmville Central High School late last week. Contests, workshops, election of district officers, and an Awards Banquet and entertainment were all part of the program. A total of 425 people attended the conference.

A Job Interview Contest was judged by Walter Faulkner of Burroughs-Wellcome and Ms. Susan Cassidy of the Pitt County Health Department. Contest winners were: first place, Sheryl Byrum, Ahsokie High School; second place, George West, J.P. Knapp High School; and third place, Kim Tugwell, Farmville Central.

As of Nov. 1, the corn harvest, now rapidly drawing to a close, was estimated at a record of slightly more than 5.8 billion bushels, the Agriculture Department said Monday. That is an increase of 1 per cent, or scrap tobacco imports used as cheap filler undercut the nation's price support program. Graham called for a tightening of trade policies in a letter to Frederick Dent, United States ambassador for trade negotiations.

Scrap Tobacco Imports Undercut Nation's Price Support Program

Imports of scrap tobacco reached 87.5 million pounds in fiscal 1975, along with 6 million pounds of stems which were imported duty free," Graham wrote. "It is a major concern to us that during the 1975 marketing season about 50 per cent of the mid, bottom of the stalk, filler-type priming grades of flue-cured were taken under government loan at support prices, which after processing, carries prices more than twice that of these imported processed tobaccos used as filler in the manufacture of cigarettes," Graham wrote.

Illegally Held In Jail, Inmate Tried Hang Self

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Because of an administrative oversight, a 42-year old Raleigh man was left in jail six days after he should have been freed. He tried to hang himself on the sixth day. Charles Franklin Witherspoon was found early Sunday morning dangling from the bars of his cell, a rope made out of a mattress cover around his neck. The official notice that Witherspoon was legally a free man the Monday before that was received by the jail Monday, jailer R.A. Harris said.

Court records show that Witherspoon, in satisfactory condition Monday at a Raleigh hospital, should have been set free from the Wake County Jail Nov. 3. That's when the charge he was being held on was dismissed in Superior Court. Dist. Atty. Burley Mitchell Jr. said the new criminal code caused the mistake which kept Witherspoon in jail when he should have been free. "Under the old system, the deputy clerk in the courtroom sent a release order to the jail," Mitchell said. "But the new criminal code which went into effect Sept. 1 does not assign the responsibility to either the district attorney or the clerk of court."

Mitchell said that normally, defendants are in the courtroom when charges are dismissed. Witherspoon was not. Asst. Dist. Atty. Randolph Riley talked with Witherspoon's attorney, John Parker, and agreed to a voluntary dismissal on the breaking and entering charges due to lack of evidence. Witherspoon was originally held on a trespass charge, for which he was convicted, sentenced to 42 days and given credit for 38 days in jail awaiting trial. After those three days were up, he remained in jail on the breaking and entering charge. "We didn't receive any notification on Witherspoon's dismissal until today," Harris said Monday, a week after the breaking and entering charge was dropped and the day after the inmate had tried to hang himself.

Re-Learning To Breathe

BALTIMORE (AP)—It's been three months since 3-year-old Keith Langdon was flown to Good Samaritan Hospital here to learn to breathe again, and while his rehabilitation will take several more months, his doctors say he is making progress.

The youngster injured his spine in an automobile accident near his Garner, N.C., home April 23, forcing doctors to place him on a respirator. Dr. Arthur Siebens, the hospital's chief of rehabilitation services, said Keith remains on the respirator but can now breathe partly on his own for short periods of time.

The boy can also now raise his arms and legs on the left side and is continuing to grow and gain weight, Siebens said, adding that his mother, Sandra Langdon, "is an amazing person and has been a great help." Mrs. Langdon, who is divorced and must accept charitable donations for support, has lived with Keith in his hospital room since they arrived Aug. 6.

A North Carolina construction company loaned a plane to bring the boy and his mother to Baltimore and a National Guard helicopter moved him from the airport to the hospital.

Ombudsman Kept Busy

RALEIGH (AP)—The ombudsman office of Gov. Jim Holshouser says it had more cases and satisfied more people in the last fiscal year than a year earlier but 21 per cent remained not satisfied. Its figures for fiscal 1974-75 showed it handled 37 per cent more cases, 4,884 compared with 3,263 in 1973-74.

Gov. Jim Holshouser announced Monday grants which will be administered by the North Carolina State Economic Opportunity Office. Holshouser explained the program's purpose: "It is designed to conserve energy in housing occupied by low income and fixed-income elderly families and at the same time to provide training for unemployed individuals in the home winterization field."

The money, from the U.S. Department of Commerce and the Community Services Administration, is to be used primarily on a local level by the 35 Community Action Agencies in the state, the governor said.

And, according to a random survey of 240 persons or 5 per cent, 72 per cent were satisfied with their cases' treatment, compared with 54.5 per cent a year before. Figures for the number not satisfied in 1973-74 were not available. The office said 83 per cent were satisfied in areas within the governor's jurisdiction. That includes executive cabinet departments, council of state and boards and commissions. The ombudsman's office was set up in 1973 to investigate the public's complaints or suggestions concerning state government.

Annual Supper By Scout Troop

Boy Scout troop 340 will hold its annual pancake and sausage supper Friday November 21 between 5 and 7:30 p.m. at St. James Methodist Church on E. Zumwalt Brands Detente Failure

SEATTLE (AP) — The firing of Defense Secretary James Schlesinger was a "frightening development" that removes from government the only man telling the public about the pitfalls of detente, retired Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr. says. "Detente is a catastrophic failure," and Schlesinger was publicizing that fact, Zumwalt said in an interview Monday. Zumwalt said that while the United States sells Russia new technology and wheat because of detente, the Soviets "use the unspent funds for military buildup."

Showed Fromme How To Use Pistol

By BOB EGELKO
Associated Press Writer
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — An elderly friend of Lynette Fromme says he showed her how to use a .45-caliber pistol in July and that she grabbed the gun from his table and left his apartment with it.

It is the same gun she pointed at President Ford in an alleged assassination attempt in September.

Miss Fromme was absent from the court Monday during the testimony about the gun by Harold Boro, 66, a retired engineering draftsman with thinning grey hair.

She had been barred from her trial for the second straight day by U.S. District Court Judge Thomas MacBride after refusing to promise to avoid courtroom disruptions.

When MacBride asked her if she would keep quiet and agree to express any objections through her court-appointed attorney, John Virga, she said, "No, I'm the only one who could put on my defense."

The day had begun when a deputy marshal carried Miss Fromme into the courthouse after she blindfolded herself and refused to walk out of jail.

Miss Fromme, 27, a disciple of convicted mass murderer Charles Manson, was ejected twice last Friday after trying to plead guilty and demanding the presence of Manson at her trial.

She was arrested Sept. 5 in a park outside the state Capitol here and charged with attempted assassination of the president. She was the first person to be charged under a federal law passed after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. Secret Service agents said she pointed a loaded .45-caliber pistol at Ford from a distance of two feet.

If convicted, she could be sentenced to life in prison — the same sentence Manson and four followers are now serving for the 1969 slayings of actress Sharon Tate and four other persons.

Boro described Miss Fromme's July visit to his apartment in the rural community of Jackson.

He said she asked to see a .45-caliber pistol, which he had mentioned on a previous visit. He said he took it from a shelf and showed her how to use it. He said he returned the gun to the shelf, but when she expressed interest in a similar model in a catalogue, he brought it out again and laid it on a table.

"She started shoving the pistol into her handbag along with the holster and bullets," Boro testified. "I said, 'What are you doing?' She didn't answer. She abruptly got up and went for the door."

"I tried to stop her at the door. I told her it was too big, too heavy, too dangerous. I said I'd buy one for her."

"She stopped, thought for about five seconds and went out."

Boro said he had shown her how to fire the gun but had not emphasized that it could not be fired unless the slide was pulled back to insert a cartridge into the firing chamber.

The gun seized from Miss Fromme had four cartridges in the magazine but none in the chamber, officers said. The slide had not been pulled back to chamber the first round.

Social Service Work Outlined

Dorothy Bolton and Mattie Rouse of the Pitt County Department of Social Services were the guest speakers at the meeting of the Pitt County NAACP Sunday at Mt. Olive Baptist Church, Ayden.

Miss Bolton outlined the work of Social Services, including protective services, food stamps, aid for dependent children, Medicaid, foster homes and adoption.

She stated that Pitt County Social Services AFDS area involves about 90 percent black and 10 percent white (these are families where the male is disabled or has deserted the family).

According to Miss Bolton, during the peak of the winter season, about 10,000 families receive food stamps. About 8,000 families are receiving food stamps at the present time.

Funding for social services is about 12.5 percent, state, 12.5 percent county and 75 percent federal.

Mrs. Willie Mae Carney of Region 5 stated that the citizens had requested the Pitt County Board of Education to change its 2 p.m. monthly meetings to evening meetings so that parents, teachers, students and other interested persons could attend.

Mrs. Ella Morgan of Region 6 stated that they were successful in electing a black councilman who will serve as treasurer of the newly incorporated village of Simpson.

Henry Bond of Region 3 reported that J. J. Brown had been elected to his fifth consecutive term on the Ayden Board of Commissioners.

Mrs. R. L. Brown requested prayer for justice in the case against Dr. Andrew Best.

Mrs. Lynette Little, chairman of the NAACP queen's contest, explained the contest will be held at Phillippi Christian Church, Farmville Blvd., Nov. 23 at 7:30 p.m. The contestant who has the highest amount of money will be crowned "Miss NAACP."

Meet Held By Seniors

The Elm Street Citizens Club met Thursday with Mrs. Harriett Roseveare, president, presiding.

Lee Williams gave the treasurer's report and the devotion was given by the Rev. Adrian Brown.

Mrs. Retha Dunn and Mrs. Lenora White sang two songs.

Mrs. Sarah Ashton, district president, and Miss Alice Keene, club advisor, gave a report on the delegates convention held at the Great Smoky Hilton, Asheville, Oct. 29-31. Mrs. Ruth Harris also attended.

Mrs. Elizabeth Savage will represent the club at the meeting of the Council on the Aging to be held Nov. 20 at Jarvis Methodist Church.

Members planning to attend the district Christmas party on Dec. 11 should make their reservations with Mrs. Ashton by Nov. 15.

Dr. E. J. Walsh showed a film on cancer research and gave an informative talk about cancer and the various types of the disease.

The following members were named to a nominating committee: Mrs. Helen Synder, chairman; Miss Louise Tucker, and the Rev. Henry Lofquist.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Retha Dunn, Mrs. Mary Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hill and Mrs. Leone Mercer.

Three People Hurt In Three Collisions

Three persons were reported injured and an estimated $2,050 property caused in three collisions investigated here yesterday by Police.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a 12:52 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Evans Street and Reide Circle involving trucks driven by Sellers Mark Gurganus of Route 1, Winterville and Roy Laneau Cribb of 113 North Library St. Officers, who estimated damage to the Gurganus truck and $700 and damage to the Cribb truck at $800, reported both drivers were injured.

Cribb was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of the mishap.

Robert Thomas Tharrington of Rocky Mount was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of an 11:45 a.m. collision on Memorial Drive at the Sixth Street intersection.

Police said the Tharrington car collided with a vehicle driven by Douglas Grigg of Route 1, Bethel, causing an estimated $375 damage to the Grigg car and $175 damage to the Tharrington vehicle.

Steven Neil Tyson of Farmville was reported injured when the bicycle he was riding collided with a pole in the median of Tenth Street near the College Hill Drive intersection about 7:30 p.m.

Investigators quoted Tyson as saying a car forced him to the median and caused him to strike the metal pole.

Investigation of that incident is continuing. Police said that car involved — which did not collide with the bicycle — did not stop.

Demonstrate Over State Dept. Denial

The Greenville Peace Committee held a peaceful demonstration in front of the main Greenville Post Office yesterday from noon to 1 p.m.

They were protesting the recent denial by the U.S. State Department of an export permit to the American Friends Service Committee to send rotor tillers, fishing nets, and instructional equipment for AFSC School in Vietnam. They were part of a concerted effort throughout the South yesterday to call attention to this denial. A formal presentation was made to the State Department at the same times demonstrations were being held in Greenville, Raleigh, Greensboro, Memphis, Knoxville, Atlanta, and other cities.

The American Friends Service Committee is the social action arm of the Quaker religious organization, Father H. C.

Mulholland, co-chairman of the Greenville Peace Committee, said. "The premise of the protest is why should we regard the Vietnamese as our enemy, when only a short time ago they were our allies," he said. "Why should we have spent billions of dollars for arms for them, and now not be allowed to send a few thousand dollars worth of goods for peaceful reconstruction?"

Seven persons participated in yesterday's demonstration here, Father Mulholland said. He and the Rev. H. V. Lofquist are co-chairmen of the peace group.

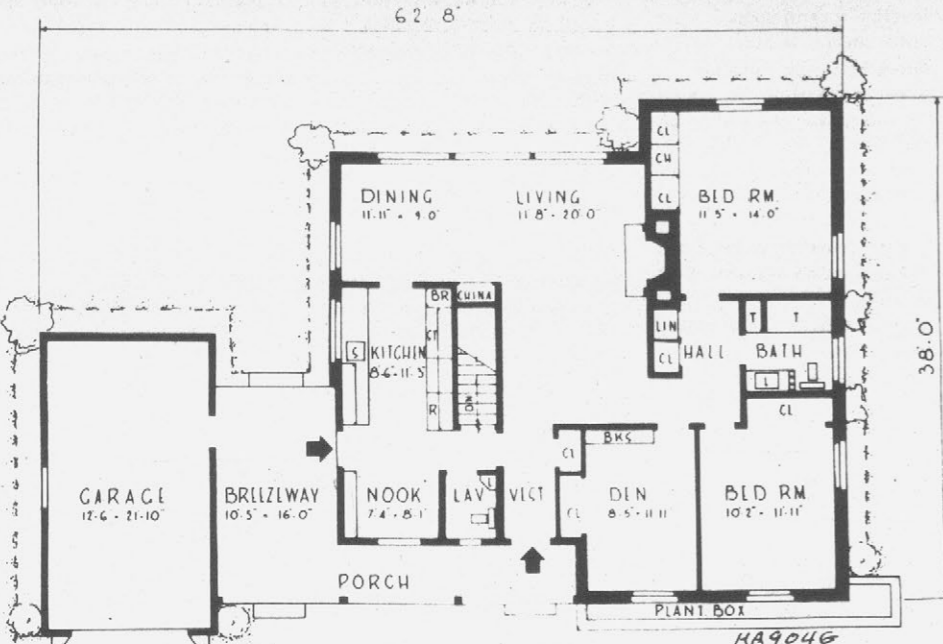

Record Day On Farmville Mart

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Tobacco Market sold more pounds of tobacco for more money yesterday than on any day this season, Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade Sales Supervisor Louis Williams said.

Offerings of primings and lugs continued to increase as the end of the season approaches. Leaf and smoking leaf accounted for smaller volume than on the last sale day. Nondescript and damaged tobacco accounted for a large per cent of volume. Demand for quality grades of leaf and cutters continued, with no signs of weakening shown on yesterday's sale.

Some 832,940 pounds of tobacco were sold for $894,836, for an average of $107.43 per hundred pounds. To date, the Farmville Market has sold 37,629,560 pounds for $38,748,199, for a season's average of $102.97 per hundred pounds.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

EITHER ENTRANCE to this outstanding home leads to good living comfort. Drive into the garage and walk through a protected breezeway to the kitchen. Here's a well-planned work center with bonus feature in the form of a large breakfast nook, plus storage cabinets. Near the kitchen is an extra lavatory and stairs to the basement. If you entertain informally, a guest can leave wraps in the vestibule closet and go downstairs to a large recreation room. The living-dining room is an L with fireplace. Plan HA9046 has 1,330 square feet and was designed by Carl Gaiser, 25600 Telegraph Rd., Southfield, Mich. 48075. Any queries should be addressed to Gaiser, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Tribute To Nurses By County Commissioners

Pitt County Commissioners have honored nurses throughout the county by adopting a "resolution of appreciation and commendation".

"Whereas every day Nurses in Pitt County are dedicating themselves to provide high quality health services to all citizens of Pitt County including even the remote parts of Pitt County," the resolution said, "... be it resolved that during the month of November, the Board wishes to honor all Nurses, Nursing Leaders, and Nursing Educators, and express appreciation for their contributions to the health of Pitt County citizens."

The Pitt Board's action came as part of a statewide celebration of November as Nursing Month, sponsored by the North Carolina Nurses Association.

At the Pitt County Community Health Department, the celebration began with a luncheon, and each day a different nurse is being honored as "Nurse of the Day."

Health Department director Roger Barnaby said "we are justly proud of each of our nurses who are on the front lines daily helping citizens to avoid illness and live a healthier life."

He noted that public health nurses "work in the schools; carry the major responsibility of our clinics—both in Greenville and throughout the county at out Satellite Health Department Clinics; and visit the patients at home for follow up on problems as well as to teach good health practices."

Continuing, the health director said the department's nurses work with all ages, and with persons with a variety of health conditions.

"In addition to our regular health department staff," Barnaby noted, "we are fortunate in having the services of nursing students from the East Carolina University School of Nursing and Pitt Technical Institute to assist in our clinics."

He said the ECU student nurses provide excellent follow-up visits to Health Department patients at home.

"We are grateful to these nursing students and to their instructors for extending our ability to provide services," Barnaby emphasized.

PTA Sponsors Friday Supper

A barbeque supper is being sponsored by the South Greenville PTA on Friday from 5 to 7 p.m. at the school cafeteria.

Prices for the dinners are $2.00 for adults and $1.50 for children. These may be purchased at the door.

Speaker At Nat'l Meeting

Brayom Anderson of the East Carolina University Division of Continuing Education was a speaker at the national convention of the Association of Labor-Management Administrators and Consultants on Alcoholism in Atlanta last weekend.

His topic was "Occupational Program Training: New Innovations."

Pitt Student On Honors List

SEWANE, Tenn.—Jim Bennett Jr. of Farmville, N.C., was named to the headmaster's list at Sewanee Academy for the first grading period.

Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Bennett, was one of 23 students who earned the honor.

The Academy is a unit of the University of the South, which is owned by 24 dioceses of the Episcopal Church in 12 southern states.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—Egg prices on North Carolina markets were about two cents higher Monday. Supplies were moderate to short and the demand was very good. Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby retail outlets were 70.37 cents per dozen for a large white, 63.55 for medium and 55.67 for small.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—Grain prices were sharply weaker at North Carolina grain markets Monday. No. 2 yellow shelled corn was 2.39-2.53, mostly 2.40 in the east and 2.50-2.65 in the Piedmont. No. 1 yellow soybeans were 4.46-4.58, mostly 4.48. No. 2 red oats were 1.35-1.65.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved ahead steadily today in a favorable response to indications of a softening in Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns' position against federal help for New York City.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 5.04 at 840.52. Advancing issues outstripped declines by more than a 2-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Trading was relatively quiet, however, with many states observing Veterans Day.

Burns, speaking to a group of Republican congressmen, said he had grown increasingly concerned about the possible effects of a default by New York City on any of its obligations. He said he hadn't yet switched to the view that federal financial help was needed for the city.

But he added he was "perhaps closer to such a conclusion than I have been in the past."

The central bank chairman also indicated he was willing to take a more expansive approach in the Fed's monetary policies.

His comments on that question came amid a number of signs of a further downturn in interest rates.

General Motors was actively traded, rebounding 1 1/2 to 56 1/2 after a 2 1/2-point decline Monday on talk of a possible government antitrust investigation of the company.

Standard Brands was the Big Board volume leader, down 1/4 at 36 1/4. A 119,600-share block traded at 36.

The NYSE's composite index rose .19 to 47.42, and the American Stock Exchange market value index was up .35 at 83.98.

Resignation May See Policy-Change

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The resignation of the government's civil rights chief leaves the way clear for the new secretary of health, education and welfare to reshape federal school desegregation policy.

The resignation of Peter E. Holmes as director of the U.S. Office for Civil Rights was announced Monday, effective Dec. 1. The office administers anti-discrimination laws and has been embroiled in such emotional issues as busing and school desegregation.

"Mr. Holmes has done a wearing and demanding job extremely well," HEW Secretary David Mathews said. "I regret losing him, but I can well understand his desire to move on to new challenges."

Holmes said he was under no pressure to leave, adding, "I don't have any question about the secretary's own strong commitment to civil rights."

Holmes will rejoin the staff of Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., the Senate minority whip.

Holmes was the sixth director of the office established by the 1964 Civil Rights Act. He has served in the position since April 1973 and had worked in the office since 1969. He previously served for three years on Griffin's staff.

Holmes' resignation will give the new secretary the opportunity to establish the direction in which he expects the civil rights agency to move in the future.

The 39-year-old Mathews, former University of Alabama president and the first Southerner to head HEW, has made it clear during his first three months on the job that he believes the department's traditional policy of threatening federal fund cut-offs to curb civil rights violations is counterproductive.

The threats were instrumental in breaking down segregated school systems throughout the South.

The election of Richard M. Nixon as president marked a slowdown in HEW desegregation activities, a slowdown that has continued under President Ford. As a result, HEW increasingly has found itself under attack in federal courts by civil rights groups complaining that it is not enforcing the law.

In a series of orders, a U.S. District Court judge here ordered HEW to step up enforcement against hundreds of public elementary and secondary school districts in Southern and border states and against 10 state college systems for alleged racial imbalances.

Last summer, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People sued HEW to require a crackdown on alleged segregation in schools in 33 Northern and Western states.

Veterans Day

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina, along with 45 other states, is observing Veterans Day today.

In proclaiming the holiday, Gov. Jim Holshouser noted that more than 2 1/2 million North Carolinians were either in the military or are dependents or spouses of persons killed in war. "Although few wanted to go, millions of Americans recognized the need to respond and sacrifice in defense of our country's interests," he said.

The federal government recognized Veterans Day Oct. 27. State offices were closed today.

An added thorn in the side of the HEW civil rights program is a relatively new amendment prohibiting sex discrimination in schools and colleges. HEW has issued voluminous regulations that will take effect in one to three years but undoubtedly will lead to further litigation.

The civil rights office is charged with overseeing compliance with volumes of laws and executive orders issued to halt discrimination. The office's future role in their interpretation will be decided to a large extent by Holmes' replacement. Mathews has not yet named him.

Baptists Elect Rev. Cecil Ray

ASHEVILLE (AP) — The Rev. Cecil Ray of Dallas, Tex., was elected general secretary-treasurer of the Baptist State Convention during balloting to-day at the group's 145th annual meeting.

The Rev. Mr. Ray received the overwhelming support of the convention's 3,000 delegates. The only other nominee for the convention's top administrative post was the Rev. Claude Asbury of Maryland, who received less than a dozen votes.

The Rev. Mr. Asbury was nominated by Dr. James Buhlman of Oak Ridge, a leader of the convention's conservative wing.

However, in a surprise move, the Ray nomination was seconded by another leading conservative, the Rev. M.O. Owens of Gastonia.

The Rev. Mr. Owens had been mentioned as a candidate of the conservatives, however he took himself out of the running last weekend saying he was too old at age 62.

The Rev. Coy Privette of Kannapolis was expected to be elected president. A vice president, parliamentarian and recording secretary were also to be elected.

The Rev. Mr. Ray, director of the Texas Baptist Stewardship Division, was the unanimous choice of the general secretary search committee.

He will succeed Dr. W. Perry Crouch of Asheville, who reaches the mandatory retirement age of 68 this year.

In other business today, Mrs. Doc R. Oliver of Pine Level was elected over Cliff Cameron of Charlotte for membership on the Meredith College board of trustees.

Mrs. Oliver was nominated from the floor. Cameron had been the choice of the committee on nominations.

The convention also approved a resolution offered by Tom Freeman of Dunn for establishment of a 15-member committee to study Wake Forest University's contract with the Reynolds Foundation.

Freeman said the contract, which provides specific support for the university, was adopted in 1946 and should be reviewed.

Carlis Young, a lay delegate from Shelby, also asked that a 1972 study of pastors' salaries be updated and the results disseminated to the convention's 3,457 churches.

He noted that, by the end of 1976, the government Consumer Price Index will have increased 35 per cent since the study was made.

The meeting began Monday night with President Allen Bailey, a Charlotte attorney, calling for increased work toward racial harmony.

Bailey told the messengers that the highlight of his first full year in office was a joint meeting of black and white Baptist State Conventions.

"The joint convention was indeed a milestone in North Carolina Baptist life," he said.

Douglas said they told the physician they were truck drivers and wanted Preludin to help them stay awake. They said Dr. Best told them on separate occasions that he could not prescribe the drug to help a person stay awake but then gave them prescriptions for the drug as a weight control measure.

Eastman, who visited Best's office on March 6, said he paid $5 following his conversation with the physician, received the prescription and had it filled at a local drugstore.

Douglas told the court that he visited Best's office on March 18, received a prescription for Preludin, paid $7 at the doctor's office, and had the prescription filled at a local drug store.

Both agents testified that they were weighed, and that their blood pressure and temperature were taken by a nurse prior to talking with Dr. Best, but said Best did not physically examine them.

Mrs. Owens told the court this morning that she first went to Dr. Best's office on February 4, talked with the doctor and received a prescription for Ritalin — a stimulant — after telling the physician she needed to stay awake, because "I'm hustling."

The SBI agent, who said Dr. Best's comment to that statement was, "Oh, Oh, you're doing that kind of work," said she paid $5 for the visit to Best's office.

She returned to the office on February 27, and again on March 19 received other prescriptions for Ritalin.

On February 27, she testified, the prescription was written by the receptionist "while I was standing there," then taken into the examination area. "Dr. Best came to the reception area and placed the prescription on the counter. He said 'here it is.' I paid the receptionist and left the office."

On March 19, Mrs. Owens testified, she never saw Dr. Best. She told the court that the receptionist went to the examination area and returned with a blank prescription signed by Dr.

Mangum
CREEDMOOR — Mr. Alvis E. Mangum, 88, retired farmer and deacon in Fellowship Missionary Baptist Church near here, died this morning in Edgecombe General Hospital, Tarboro.

Mr. Mangum was born and reared in Granville County. Funeral services will be held at the Fellowship Baptist Church, near Creedmore, Thursday at 2 p.m. conducted by the Rev. C. Norman Bennett Jr., pastor of Memorial Baptist Church, Greenville. Burial will follow in the Creedmoor Cemetery. Eakes Funeral Home, Creedmoor, will be in charge of the service.

Surviving are a son, Eugene H. Mangum of Zebulon; four stepdaughters, Mrs. Mildred D. Cobb of Rt. 6, Greenville, with whom Mr. Mangum made his home, Mrs. Lambert Morris of Atlantic, Mrs. John Roberts of Lillington, Mrs. Broughton Waller of Durham; three grandchildren and five stepgrandchildren.

The family will receive friends at the home of Mrs. Carl Whitaker, Creedmoor.

Best. She said the receptionist then filled out the body of the prescription.

On her fourth visit to the office, on March 25, Mrs. Owens said she talked to Dr. Best again, saying the pills he had prescribed for her earlier "are making me nervous."

The special agent said the physician's reply was "I think I can give you something here that will calm you down."

Following that conversation, Mrs. Owens said she received a bottle containing 115 tablets and paid the doctor's receptionist $8.

Testimony in the case was to continue this afternoon.

Franco Has Lung Edema

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Gen. Francisco Franco has developed lung complications and medical sources said the symptoms could indicate the onset of bronchial pneumonia.

Information Minister Leon Herrera, reading to newsmen today the latest medical bulletin from the 82-year-old leader's doctors, reported that Franco had developed a lung edema and small congestive spots in his lungs four days after a major abdominal operation.

The new lung complications came only hours after doctors reported that they had stopped the general's artificial breathing apparatus because difficulties in his breathing had eased.

It was the second time in his 26-day illness that Franco was reported suffering from a lung edema — an accumulation of fluid damaging to respiration. The first edema disappeared after treatment.

Some of the best laid construction plans in America end up here.

Millions of dollars go down the drain every year on thoroughly detailed building projects whose estimates exceed their budgets.

The reason they get out of hand is as old as the cliché about too many cooks. There's one party doing this, another doing that and still others doing other things.

No single source has control.

And this is where the difference lies between us and others. We handle every phase of a building project. So we have complete control. There's no way our plans can exceed your budget because your budget is our starting point.

So if you really want to build a building—not just draw plans—give us a call. Now. Anytime.

Higgins Again ACC's Player

By The Associated Press
Middle guard Tom Higgins, a standout in North Carolina State's 15-14 victory over eighth-ranked Penn State, has been named defensive lineman of the week in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

His selection, announced today, marked the first time any player has earned the honor five times in a single season.

Strong side safety Dennis Smith, a standout in Clemson's 38-35 victory over North Carolina, was selected as the defensive back of the week, winning the award for the first time.

Higgins, named to the line-man honor for the second straight week, finished Saturday's game with eight individual tackles, 10 primary hits and two assists in leading the Wolf-pack defense.

He accounted for two quarterback sacks, one for a minus 10 yards, the other for minus eight yards. He earned a total of 46 tackling points, highest ever for an N. C. State player under Coach Lou Holtz.

Higgins is a 6-2, 229-pound senior from Colonia, N. J.

Smith, a 166-pound Clemson senior from Elba, Ala., recovered two North Carolina fumbles in addition to a key pass interception in the closing minutes of the game.

His first recovery set up Clemson's initial scoring drive from the Tar Heel 20, and the second killed a North Carolina drive at the Clemson 21.

With less than two minutes left in the game and Clemson ahead by 38-35, Smith intercepted a Billy Paschall pass intended for wingback Charlie Williams.

Smith returned the interception 36 yards and Clemson ran out the remaining one minute and 19 seconds.

In addition, Smith was in on five tackles and batted down one Tar Heel pass.

Earlier, N. C. State quarterback Dave Buckley and Duke center Billy Bryan were picked by a committee of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association as the offensive players of the week.

Buckley, a senior from Akron, Ohio, was selected for the honor for the second straight week and for the fifth time of his collegiate career.

Bryan, a sophomore from Burlington, N. C., has been picked once previously this season.

PROMOTED TO FIFTH DEGREE — Bill McDonald of Greenville has been promoted to the 5th degree black belt in the Goju-Shorin style of karate. McDonald went through a test, broken down into two four-hour sessions, which consisted of his demonstrating flying kicks and techniques involving Dim-Muk, the art of using pressure points to various central nerve areas of the body. The testing board was set up and approved by the South East Karate Association, the governing body for karateists in this part of the country. McDonald received unanimous approval of the board for promotion.

Nebraska Vaults Into Second On AP Listings

By The Associated Press
That Ohio State is still the No. 1 college football team in the nation isn't exactly a shocker. It's who's chasing the Buckeyes that makes the news.

It's not Oklahoma, that's for sure. Fate, hard luck, time ... call it what you wish ... finally caught up with the defending national champion Sooners last Saturday and dropped them from the runner-up role.

Now it's the Nebraska Cornhuskers who own second place. And what was a tight battle for first place in The Associated Press poll has become a comfortable cushion for Ohio State.

A week ago, Coach Woody Hayes' troops held a slender 49-point edge over Oklahoma in the balloting. Now, owning 49 of the 58 first-place votes cast by the nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters and a holding total of 1,138 points, the margin over Nebraska is a more secure 84 points.

OSU's 40-3 rout of Illinois helped — but more help came from Kansas' 23-3 upset of the Sooners. That dropped Oklahoma down from second to sixth place in the poll. And it enabled the Jayhawks to sneak into 17th place in the poll, the first time all season they've been in the Top Twenty.

Nebraska, which received eight first-place votes and 1,054 points, moved from third to second by virtue of its 12-0 whitewash of Kansas State. Texas A&M's Aggies, who received the other first-place vote, also moved up a notch to third with 875 points following a 36-3 romp over Southern Methodist.

Michigan's Wolverines, sixth a week ago, clawed their way into fourth by ripping Purdue 28-0 and, for their efforts, receiving 721 votes. Alabama's Crimson Tide had to struggle before downing Louisiana State 23-10 and stayed fifth in the balloting with 687 votes.

Oklahoma was next with 621, followed by Texas, remaining in seventh with 605; Arizona State up two places to eighth with 393; Notre Dame up three spots to ninth with 252, and Colorado up four notches to round up the Top Ten with 223.

Penn State fell out of the Top Ten, starting off the Second Ten with 214 points following its 15-14 upset loss to North Carolina State. Arizona's Wildcats knocked off San Diego State's previously unbeaten Aztecs and climbed from ninth to 13th with 206 points.

Southern California got a new head coach for next season in John Robinson. But the Trojans, with John McKay still at the helm, lost for the second straight week, falling to Stanford and falling from ninth to 13th with 186 points.

Rounding out the Top 20 were Florida, down from 11th 14th with 111 points; California, up from 18th to 15th with 107; Miami of Ohio up from 17th to 16th with 88; new-entry Kansas 17th with 56; Missouri up one spot to 18th with 53; UCLA, rejoining the Top Twenty in 19th with 50 points after a one-week absence from the poll, and Georgia, another first-timer this season with 47 points for 20th.

San Diego State, 13th a week ago, Maryland, 16th last week, and Pitt, 20th in the previous balloting, fell out of the Top Twenty.

Here are the Top Twenty teams in The Associated Press college football poll, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total points.

Contest Winners

John Foster of 1415 E. 14th Street, captured first place in last week's Daily Reflector Football Contest.

Foster correctly picked the winners in 22 of the 32 games listed. His victory, however, came on the basis of his point total guess. He hit the correct total of 73, scored in two different games, right on the nose.

Second place resulted in a tie between Peggy Oxford of 106 N. Ash St. No. 5, Greenville, and Tim Ozment of Lot 12, Azalea Garden, Greenville. They also had 22 right, but were both one off the correct point total with 72 as their guess.

Six other people also had 22 right, but were further off in their point guess.

The final contest of the 1975 season appears on the following pages.

Dallas Fumbles Away 34-31 Loss To Chiefs

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
DALLAS (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs may not be Super Bowl material, as their rookie Coach Paul Wiggin claims, but they were All-National Football League in recovering fumbles Monday night.

Kansas City and Dallas fumbled 12 times in their nationally televised stumblethrono. The Chiefs got back three of their mistakes and pocketed all five of Dallas' gifts, cashing three of them into touchdowns.

The result was a 34-31 victory over the Cowboys and crewcut Wiggin found it all a little difficult to believe.

"We beat Dallas! ... God darn ... we beat Dallas ... We beat Dallas," he kept repeating.

Wiggin, acting at times almost like he had caught the winning touchdown pass himself instead of Ed Podolak, gushed, "I'm really excited about being part of this football team. This win probably is as exciting as our win over Oakland."

Kansas City is now 4-4 and still alive in the American Conference Western Division, trailing Oakland by two games.

Dallas, 5-3 for the year, sank a game behind Washington and St. Louis in the National Conference East.

Podolak scored touchdowns on runs of 1 and 11 yards in a 43-second span just before halftime and snared a five-yard scoring pass from Mike Livingston with 10:07 left to play for the game-winner.

The lead changed hands like a National Basketball Association game with the ball caroming about on a perfectly dry night as though the players were soaked by a rain storm.

"Fumbles just flat beat us ... I can't explain them ... they just happen," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry, a veteran of 16 NFL campaigns.

Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach's nine-yard touchdown run and a 31-yard Toni Fritsch field goal gave Dallas a 10-3 lead after Jan Stenerud's booming 51-yard three-pointer. Then strange things began to happen.

Preston Pearson of Dallas fumbled into the Cowboys' end zone and Chief defensive end John Matuszak claimed it for a touchdown.

Staubach flipped a 15-yard touchdown pass to Golden Richards but Podolak countered with a one-yard touchdown run. Then Doug Dennison fumbled the kickoff away to Chiefs' rookie Morris LaGrand. Forty-three seconds later Podolak dashed 11 yards to give Kansas City a 24-17 halftime lead.

Richards snared a 47-yard bomb from Staubach to even matters in the third period before Stenerud kicked a 44-yarder for a 27-24 lead.

Staubach scratched back to hand Dallas a 31-27 lead with a one-yard touchdown run, and then came in series of back breakers.

Robert Newhouse fumbled the ball away to Emmitt Thomas to set up the game-clinching touchdown. Staubach, who had been on target all night, suddenly turned wild and served up two interceptions to kill any thoughts of a comeback.

Spiders Get Nod

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Richmond, winner of the Southern Conference football title, has been picked to win the league's basketball championship.

A poll of the eight conference coaches gave the Spiders 52 points for their last year in the league. East Carolina had half of the eight first-place ballots but totaled only 48 points for second place.

The Spiders were 7-7 in the conference and 10-16 overall in 1974-75, but have added seven promising transfers and a freshman to the coming season's squad.

Big men Clyde Mayes and Fessor Leonard are no longer playing for defending champion Furman, leaving the Paladins tied for third place with William & Mary at 40 points each.

Davidson ranked fifth with 36, Virginia Military Institute was sixth with 29, Appalachian seventh with 19 and the Citadel eighth with 10.

Seeded Players Capture Event

The top seeded players captured first place in every event but one in the Greenville Junior Invitational Tournament this weekend.

The lone upset came in the 18 and under boys division, where second seeded Scott Sciotto of Fayetteville downed top-ranked Fred Hodges of Henderson, 6-4, 6-7, 6-2.

The second-seeded player came in second in each of the other events.

Kim Westmoreland of Kinston took the girls 14 and under title, defeating Frances Marcus of Kinston, 7-5, 4-6, 6-4.

In the 16 and under girls, Katherine Tolson took first back to New Bern, downing Gray Clark of Tarboro, 6-2, 6-3.

Terri Kirk of Raleigh downed Marty East of Greenville, 6-2, 6-4, in the girls 18 and under group.

Jeffrey Britt of Durham defeated Jeff Dunlea of Wilmington in the boys 14 and under, 6-2, 6-3. In the boys 16 and under, Nicholas Petrou of Henderson downed David Daniel of Greenville, 6-3, 1-6, 6-1.

Next year's tournament has been slated for Nov. 13-14. It will be fully sanctioned by the USTA and the STA.

Few Bids Will Be Given Early

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer
Now that the National Collegiate Athletic Association has reinstated its restriction on bowl invitations, very few bids are likely to be handed out at the first opportunity anyway.

The respective bowl committees will fan out to college football games across the country Saturday. But instead of bearing invitations, in most cases they'll be traveling empty-handed.

However, one week later there may be a stampede to line up the best possible post-season attractions.

"It's very confused," one bowl spokesman told The Associated Press Monday. "The same teams are in the Orange, Cotton and Sugar Bowl pictures. And there are so many things to be decided."

Like the Big Eight champion-

South In Flag Win

South Greenville moved past Eastern, 26-6, yesterday to gain the semi-finals of the Flag Football League's playoffs.

South Greenville pushed over all they needed in the first period as Paul Taylor ran in from the five. Taylor then hit Timothy Harris for the PAT and a 7-0 lead.

Taylor then scored again on a 10-yard run for a 13-0 halftime lead.

Matt Rose connected with Dwayne Fisher for a 40-yard touchdown that put Eastern on the scoreboard and closed the gap to 13-6.

Taylor intercepted a pass and returned it 52 yards for another South Greenville score, upping it to 19-6. The final came with Taylor hit Marvin Williams on a pass. Harris got the PAT for the final 26-6 lead.

Defensive standouts for South Greenville were Michael Davis, Daryl Hines and Terry Wilks. Top defenders for Eastern were Robert Sailed, Joe Joyner, and Kenny Kirkland.

South Greenville will meet the regular season champs, the Dolphins, on Wednesday.

ship between Nebraska and Oklahoma on Nov. 22, with the winner going to the Orange Bowl; the Southwest Conference race to determine whether Texas A&M, Texas or Arkansas will be the host team in the Cotton Bowl, and the Big Ten (Ohio State-Michigan) and Pacific-8 scrambles to decide which also-rans will be grabbed by someone other than the Rose Bowl.

Out in Pasadena, the Rose Bowl is sitting pretty. They don't have to scout anyone since they automatically get the Big Ten and Pac-8 champs.

The other bowls are considering the following teams:

Orange: Big Eight champion (Nebraska or Oklahoma) vs. Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Michigan, Notre Dame, Ohio State, Penn State, Southern California, Texas, Texas A&M.

Cotton: Southwest Conference champ vs. Alabama, Michigan, Nebraska, Notre Dame, Ohio State, Penn State, Southern Cal. Two from that crowd also are Sugar Bowl possibilities, along with the loser of the Nov. 28 Texas-Texas A&M game.

Gator: Florida, Georgia, Maryland, North Carolina State, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Penn State, Texas, Texas A&M.

Liberty: Arkansas, California, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Missouri, Navy, Oklahoma, Southern Cal., Tennessee, UCLA.

Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl: "We're looking at the same teams most of the other bowls are looking at," according to Weldon Humble, chairman of the selection committee. The Bluebonnet would love to have the Southwest Conference runner-up against Colorado.

Fiesta: Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Maryland, Missouri, North Carolina State, Notre Dame, Southern Cal., Texas, Texas A&M, UCLA.

Sun: Arkansas, California, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Kansas, Maryland, Missouri, North Carolina State, Penn State, Pitt, Texas A&M, UCLA. Pitt would have received an invitation had the Panthers not lost to West Virginia last weekend and they could be right back in the picture by beating Notre Dame Saturday.

Peach: Arkansas, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Maryland, North Carolina State, Tennessee.

Tangerine: Miami of Ohio is in as the Mid-American Conference champion. Opponents under consideration are Colorado, Georgia Tech, Maryland, Navy, North Carolina State, Pitt, South Carolina and Tennessee.

USC Has New Coach

By JACK STEVENSON
AP Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The University of Southern California is counting on a former Oregon end, John Robinson, to replace a former Oregon half-back and bring further football glory to the Trojans.

Robinson, 40, whose career nearly parallels that of John McKay despite an intervening decade, will head the Southern Cal football fortunes in 1976 when McKay goes to the professional ranks.

Robinson, a former Southern Cal assistant coach, faces a tough assignment. He replaces a man who has coached more USC victories than any other and gone to the Rose Bowl on eight occasions, winning four.

One big difference is that Robinson is leaving the professional ranks with the Oakland Raiders, to return to the collegians. McKay is making his first try at the National Football League in coaching the new Tampa franchise that begins next year.

Also McKay, a halfback, played in the Cotton Bowl with Oregon in 1949 and Robinson, an end, was in the Rose Bowl in 1958. Oregon, with McKay, lost to Baylor, and Oregon, with Robinson, lost to Ohio State.

At USC, Robinson, a somewhat surprise choice, starts his era following a winning coach. McKay to date has a 126-38-8 record with games against Washington and UCLA remaining. But after a 7-0 start this season, the Trojans lost to both California and Stanford after McKay announced his move to Tampa.

HOW MUCH IS YOUR BANK CHARGING YOU FOR "FREE CHECKING"?

Lately, every bank and its uncle is offering you "free checking."

In fact, if you have regular checking, "free checking" is probably what your bank says you've got.

The problem, of course, is the $100 minimum balance most of those "free" accounts require.

Because, if you're like most people, you can't afford to let $100 lie around the bank doing nothing.

But, if you choose not to keep the $100 balance, you may find yourself paying $40 or $50 a year in service charges.

Either way, it gets very expensive.

FREE CHECKING. IS IT, REALLY?

We did some calculating, not long ago, to see how much "free checking" was costing the average person.

And the answers we came up with certainly didn't look "free" to us.

For one thing, you were losing the interest you could have been earning on that $100 balance.

For another, if your balance fell to $99.99 for one day, you had to pay a service charge for the whole month.

Which, when we looked at it from your point of view and not just from ours, hardly seemed fair.

THE HIGH COST OF FREE CHECKING

These figures are based on statistics which show that the average person writes 16 checks per month and drops below the $100 minimum balance 6 months per year.

96 checks (16 checks x 6 months) at average cost of 13¢ per check $12.48

Interest earned on $100 minimum balance, if deposited in 5% regular savings for one year 5.12

Total annual "free checking" cost . . . $17.60

"Sure, I've got free checking. I pay for it by the month."

"We don't have free checking. We can't afford it."

OUR BANK REALLY OR FREE CHECKING?

"My free checking account cost me $4.58 last month."

"My bank says I have free checking. I say 'Phooey.'"

So we decided to see if we could find a better way.

We came up with The Triple Option. Three ways to get checking with no service charge. And with no minimum checking balance.

Pick the option you like, then stop by and open your account. (If you bank with us now, and you want The Triple Option, just ask to have your account switched over.)

HOW THE TRIPLE OPTION WORKS.

You get no-service-charge checking if you keep $500 in regular savings.

Or if you start an automatic savings program and make deposits of $25 or more a month.

Or if you have Cash Reserve. Even if you're not using it.

Just choose the one option you think works best for you.

Then you won't ever have to pay service charges again. No matter what your checking balance is. No matter how many checks you write. The NCNB Triple Option.

It's for people who can't afford the high cost of free checking, any more.

THE NCNB TRIPLE OPTION

OPTION 1

Ask us to set up an NCNB Automatic Savings program for you, with deposits of at least $25 a month.

OPTION 2

Maintain a balance of $500 or more in NCNB Regular Savings.

OPTION 3

Add NCNB Cash Reserve to your regular checking account.

The Triple Option is offered in addition to our present checking plans.

Indicted, But Not Resigning

RALEIGH (AP)—F. Roland Danielson said after being indicted Monday on charges of failing to pay taxes that he plans to remain chairman of the Wake County Board of Education.

Danielson was accused of not paying sales and employment withholding taxes in the operation of two corporations for much of 1974.

Danielson told reporters he was surprised by the charges, which he said came about as a result of banks freezing accounts of two financially-ailing corporations he headed.

No trial date has been set. Civil lawsuits totaling more than $1 million have been filed against corporations Danielson heads, asking for payment of unpaid debts.

The charges handed down Monday by the Wake County grand jury were the first criminal charge against Danielson.

Two corporations, FRD Enterprises and the Sheraton Motor Inn in Dunn, were also indicted. FRD oversees several restaurants at Hilton Inns.

"I would like to say at this time that this case was a misdemeanor. There was no need to go to the grand jury at all. These charges came out of a corporate delinquency in which the banks froze accounts," Danielson said.

Danielson, also head of the interim school board which oversees merger of city and county school systems, was charged with 12 misdemeanor tax violations, each carrying a maximum $200 fine and 30 day jail sentence.

Ran Out Of Burial Funds

RALEIGH (AP)—A program the General Assembly established to pay for burying migrant workers is out of money after five burials and four months in operation.

If money had not run out last week, two other dead migrants might have been eligible for the free burial.

The temporary end of the program is because the legislature only gave the program $1,500, Bill Newman, deputy director of the Migrant and Seasonal Farm Workers Association, said.

"They (legislators) didn't want to do it at all," Newman said. "We've been fighting for this a long time."

The bill enacted by the legislature authorized spending up to $400 on each burial of an indigent migrant worker and up to $200 to send the body to a family in another state.

John Tanner, a program coordinator in the Department of Human Resources who administered the program, said the program will be revived next July 1, since the legislature provided another $1,500 for operations for the fiscal year beginning then.

Newman says if anyone else dies before then, the association will have to look to church and other groups for donations to pay for the burials.

Farm Scene

By EDWIN L. YANCEY
 County Ext. Chairman

Curtis Hendrix, Pitt County Chairman for Farm-City Week has announced a tour for Tuesday, November 18 to celebrate the event. Farm-City Week is an annual nation-wide observance. The 1975 theme is "A Declaration of Interdependence."

The Pitt County Farm City Tour will include a visit to the A. C. Monk Tobacco Company in Farmville. A farm Machinery display at Farmville Implement Company will show the mechanization that has continued to improve the productive capacity of Pitt County farms. Worthington Farms, Inc. a family owned farm, producing tobacco, corn, soybeans, peanuts, hogs, and eggs will complete the tour.

The Pitt County Extension Homemakers Clubs will provide refreshments. The Pitt County Farm Bureau, Greenville Lions Club and the Ayden community will provide bus transportation.

The tour will assemble at the Pitt County Farm Bureau Building at 402 Greenville Boulevard. The tour will begin at 1:30 p.m. and should end by 5:30 p.m. Hendrix invited interested persons to call 758-1196 to reserve a place on the tour.

Hendrix also announced that several other activities will be held in observance of Farm-City Week. The Greenville Kiwanis Club, Greenville Rotary Club and the Farmville Kiwanis Clubs will have special programs with farm guests in attendance. Plans are being made for an open house at the Joe Wilson Poultry Farm on Sunday afternoon, November 30. Open house at a local industry

More Vets Need Care

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — A North Carolina Congressman was told Monday that medical services at North Carolina's four Veterans Administration hospitals are good, as far as they go, but the demand for health care is increasing.

Rep. Bill Hefner, an 8th district Democrat, chaired the first in a series of national hearings on the status of medical services for veterans.

Witnesses told Hefner that the depressed economy and the rising average age of World War II veterans, now 53, mean the demand for medical services from the VA hospitals is increasing.

They testified that there didn't appear to be enough money for the additional space, supplies and people needed to cope with the demands.

Reports indicate that North Carolina has more than 600,000 veterans eligible for medical benefits through the VA, and as many as 60,000 possibly qualifying as service-related "disabled" veterans.

Monday's hearing at the Salisbury VA Hospital was planned by the House Committee on Veterans Affairs, of which Hefner is a member.

Vinson Out Of Hospital

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Former Rep. Carl Vinson has been released from the hospital a week before his 92nd birthday.

He was hospitalized a month ago for treatment of circulatory problems. Vinson, who lives alone, went to the home of friends after his discharge from the hospital Monday.

A former Armed Services Committee chairman, Vinson served in the House for 50 years — longer than anyone in history.

Big Bash For Burton Birthday

LONDON (AP) — Richard Burton, sticking to a no-alcohol pledge that helped him win back Elizabeth Taylor, has celebrated his 50th birthday by drinking mineral water. It was champagne for everyone else.

The Burtons flew in from Johannesburg, South Africa, for the party Monday in Dorchester. They were remarried last month in Botswana, in southern Africa.

Among those at the party to greet the Burtons were the show business famous — Sir Ralph Richardson, Stanley Baker, Dame Margot Fonteyn. The guest list of 130 included Burton's eight brothers and sisters and their families.

Schlesinger Is Applauded

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Schlesinger, fired last week by President Ford as defense secretary, got a round of applause from 4,000 people who worked under him as he left the Pentagon for the last time.

Schlesinger reviewed a military honor guard Monday and was honored with the applause of the military officers, civilian officials and other Defense Department workers at the ceremony.

In taking his leave, Schlesinger reaffirmed his belief in U.S. military strength as the underpinning of American foreign policy.

"Only the United States can serve as a counterweight to the power of the Soviet Union," he said in a speech on the lawn in front of the Pentagon. "There is no one else waiting in the wings."

GOOD TREATS

NEW YORK (UPI) — For a nutritious Halloween treat at children's parties, make jack o'lantern salads from grated raw carrots mixed with a little mayonnaise. Use raisins for the eyes, nose and mouth. Or make individual desserts from orange juice, grated carrots and unflavored gelatin. Use shallow, rounded teacups as molds, and make eyes, noses and mouths with raisins after unmolding the desserts on serving plates.

'Woman Alive' Doesn't Hack It

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Woman Alive" is a new public TV series transmitted Tuesday nights by the public Broadcasting Service. Its aim is to "illustrate what defines the women's movement, who is affected by it and how."

A tall order, but Ronnie Elbridge, executive producer of the WNET series here, is trying to fill it on a $650,000 budget for 10 half-hour programs.

Unfortunately, the series' good intent comes to naught in its fourth edition tonight. The show contains:

—Three tunes, one a funny job at the idea that "women need men to get by, all performed by Malvina Reynolds, a 75-year-old singer and composer primarily known in folk music circles.

—A documentary about three teen-aged Minnesota girls.

—A brief commentary by historian Judith Papachristou, who sharply disagrees with those who feel the women's movement is a passing fad that began in the 1960s and now is running out of steam.

Tonight's effort doesn't hack it because its major segment, the documentary called "Between Times," is so bereft of focus and impact it seems little more than aimless filming and wishful editing.

It follows its three subjects, all from an unidentified Minneapolis suburb, as they work, play and muse about their lives in the week prior to the start of their senior year in high school.

That they're close friends is clear. That they're practicing for another year as cheerleaders also is clear. But that's it.

We hear their observations on matters ranging from why one became a cheerleader to another's admission she didn't realize a lot of her classmates were on the pill.

But there's precious little about what they want to do with their lives, and nothing about how they think the women's movement affects them.

Granted, one show does not a series make. And coming programs on how men are responding to changes brought on by the women's movement or the parallels between racism and sexism, to list two topics, may be much better.

Still, public affairs programs about women are so rare you can count them with one hand. And it'd be nice if each "Woman Alive" program could stand as a reason for the additional funding for the series WNET now is seeking.

But tonight's show doesn't. I only hope it's atypical.

Disclose Mao's Speech Impaired

NEW YORK (AP) — Chairman Mao Tse-tung, his speech impaired to the point he cannot talk normally, mouths his words and is interpreted to foreigners by three women lip readers, reports say.

Newsweek magazine says the 81-year-old Chinese Communist leader is still alert and able to communicate — so much so that he was able to tell Secretary of State Henry Kissinger that he was attempting too much, "like catching 10 fleas with 10 fingers."

May Apply For Planting Mixes

Applications are being accepted now by the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission for free planting materials to improve wildlife populations and hunting in the state.

The materials are provided annually on a first-come, first-served basis.

Applications for the planting materials and more information on the program may be obtained by contacting the Soil Conservation Service on Agricultural Extension Service or the district wildlife biologist in this area who is Sam Poole, 507 Darby Ave., Kinston, N.C.

According to Roy Beck of the SCS, the materials available include:

- an annual seed mixture consisting of cowpeas, soybeans, millet, Egyptian wheat, and annual lespedeza. It is designed to be used in small food patches near existing cover and the patches must be replanted each year.

- a permanent seed mixture composed primarily of shrub lespedeza seed, reseeded soybeans, and a few types of annuals. This mixture is designed to provide lasting wildlife food supplies in "odd" corners of fields and other places where these plantings will not be grazed, plowed or burned.

Two other types of plantings are available in limited quantities for special situations. One consists of shrub lespedeza seedlings which are basically in the same manner as the permanent mixture except they must be hand or machine planted. Also, sericea lespedeza is available for use with shrub lespedeza in field borders, turn rows, ditch banks, and spoil banks to provide additional cover for wildlife.

Materials are bagged and delivered in time for spring planting.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when you can make much progress by following proven methods, but if you take any chances, you could go backwards. Take steps to put charm in your surroundings.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have private worries that need your attention without delay, so you can put them behind you. Show more devotion to mate.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Good day to gain the support of devoted friends. Attending social affairs now bring excellent results. Show that you have charm.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle obligations conscientiously and improve your position in life. Don't neglect to pay bills. Take it easy tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Discuss those ideas you have with experts before you put them in operation. Don't waste time with unambitious persons.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Associates expect certain things from you, so don't disappoint them. Mate views you in a good light now, so be affectionate.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Try to please associates as much as you can and add to profits you now enjoy. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Even though much work has to be done, plan a little time for a more efficient system of doing it. Improve your appearance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Put creativity to work where your regular routines are concerned and get excellent results. Plan amusements for tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have to handle a fundamental matter at home in a careful way to get the results you want. Express happiness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Doublechecking any written material for possible errors is wise now. Evening is best time to visit congenials.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Use good business methods in handling a vital financial matter that comes up today. Take the advice of an adviser.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take the health treatments you need and then engage in business or social affairs. Strive to achieve your aims.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those high-minded types who has to be nurtured so that the wrong persons don't take advantage and corrupt your promising progeny. Be sure to give ethical training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

EGGS IN DEMAND

HONG KONG (UPI) — More than 9.9 million pounds of fresh eggs were sold to the state in China's Inner Mongolia Autonomous Region during the first half of 1975, according to a radio report from Huhehot, the region's capital city.

Set Electric Monkeys Are No Use Pattern

WASHINGTON (AP) — With three weeks of intensive work in December 1985, George Westinghouse and his associates, working from a French model, developed a practical transformer for high-voltage alternating current. This meant that electricity could be transmitted long distances at high voltage (and low cost) and then stepped down to whatever voltage a customer required.

Much of the country's burgeoning new industry, however, was committed to direct current, which was not nearly as flexible as alternating. These big-business interests prohibited Westinghouse's high-voltage system a deadly danger. Cities and communities were persuaded to pass laws forbidding its transmittal through their streets. As a final coup de grace (they thought), his enemies induced New York state to adopt the Westinghouse high-voltage system for use in executions.

However, within a few decades, 97 per cent of the electricity in the United States was generated by the alternating current that is almost universal today.

HOUSTON (AP) — Medical researchers here say inflation has hit the monkey business, forcing scientists to use the monkeys for more than one laboratory study.

"We're trying to recycle monkeys so we can reuse them in experiments," says Dr. John Jardine, head of the experimental animal department at M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute.

The researchers are careful that the effects of one experiment do not prejudice the results of other experiments the animals are used in, Jardine said.

Institute researchers have imported rhesus monkeys from India for experiments in radiation treatment of cancer and growth of cancerous tumors. Jardine estimates M.D. Anderson uses about 100 research monkeys a year.

He said the rhesus was more representative of man than any other monkey.

Two years ago, Jardine said, a pregnant rhesus monkey cost $125. Now the same monkey costs $450.

"We're trying to decide whether to keep on using monkeys in research," he said.

Researchers say the reason for the monkey shortage is that India and some South American countries have stopped exporting monkeys for fear of depleting their own natural supplies.

This handicaps medical researchers who say they have always imported monkeys because it was cheaper than producing their own.

But researchers may have found the solution. M.D. Anderson and the UT Health Science Center are operating a primate breeding farm near Austin, and some of the domestic monkeys are beginning to arrive in Houston Laboratories.

At the University of Texas Dental School here, researchers use monkeys to study plaque,
