

Second Economic Summit Talk Seen As Probability For 1976

By FRANK CORMIER Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials predict there will be a 1976 international economic summit of the sort that produced a tentative accord between the United States and France on currency exchange rates. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told reporters Monday night that he expects another six-nation economic conference next year like the one that brought President

Ford together with the leaders of France, Great Britain, West Germany, Italy and Japan at a 16th century chateau near Paris last weekend. "If the conditions get critical, they will meet earlier," Kissinger said aboard Ford's plane returning here from Paris. The crowning achievement of the three-day summit at Rambouillet was a still-secret agreement aimed at promoting more stable currency exchange rates. The pact was signed Monday by Treasury Secretary William E. Simon and French Finance Minister Jean-Pierre Fourcade. Simon told reporters aboard Air Force One that specifics could not be disclosed but the agreement envisions daily monitoring of currency exchange rates by representatives of 20 nations. The 20-nation committee could recommend stabilizing intervention in world money markets by central bankers when rate fluctuations became erratic without "underlying economic reason."

Exchange rates not only affect world trade and investment but have an impact on everyone. They determine the price individuals pay for imported goods and the amount they receive for items they export. The treasury secretary said the document he signed with Fourcade was being kept secret only so other countries involved could have a look at it first and debate it without feeling the United States and France were trying to dictate to them. He said he hoped the agreement would be approved at an international meeting in January, and that Congress would readily approve necessary changes in the articles governing the operation of the International Monetary Fund. Simon said that, under the agreement, there would be no firm limits within which currency rates might fluctuate. But he said sudden shifts in the value of any currency would be studied to determine if the changes were "irrational." If members of the 20-nation committee determined that a particular currency was losing value without reason, he said, the country involved then would have to decide for itself whether to prop up its value. The agreement represented a compromise between France's long-standing insistence on fixed exchange rates and the U.S. preference for permitting currencies to "float" or fluctuate in value in accord with supply and demand forces in world money markets.

City School Board Votes Reject Price On Property

By JERRY RAYNOR Reflector Staff Writer Members of the Greenville City School Board of Education at the November meeting on Monday night rejected the sale price requested by J. T. Williams for three lots of land adjacent to Sadie Sautler School.

Holmes School in Edenton. The meeting, Cox explained, is one of several being held throughout the state to work on recodifying and revising public school laws. "This will be the first major revision since 1936 in North Carolina public school laws," Cox said. "There's been very little publicity on this, but it's important and can have monumental consequences."

In his progress report on the proposed middle school, Cox pointed out a few architectural changes — primarily a "change of the location of the gymnasium to provide a better connection for services and easier access to the parking lot," and "another change of location with the administration offices and the media center across a corridor from each other rather than the original plan for having the administration building down one side of the central area."

In other personnel matters, the resignation of Mrs. Linda B. Medlin was accepted to be effective January 1, due to transfer of her husband; and two staff members were approved, Sharon Barrett and Benjamin Harrington. The board declined with appreciation an invitation to have a board member serve on the School Safety Committee. The committee, comprised of 17 people, is charged with the inspection of schools for safety and reporting on unsafe factors discovered.

Reporting on the recently held N. C. School Board Association, both Dr. James Bearden and school board chairman Henry Dunn emphasized that one of the most significant issues emerging from the meeting was that of adequate liability coverage for school boards and school staffs. Dr. Bearden said "we probably need to take a close look at the possibility of additional coverage for our school system."

Dunn added that while he felt the annual state meeting in general was productive, he felt "as a whole it was dominated by management consultants who are above our degree of thinking at this point and time in North Carolina. The seminar on (Continued on page 6)

The decision to reject the asking price followed an executive session, with board members stipulating they will notify the owner and again offer him the choice of accepting the $9,000 appraisal value assigned the three lots, each 44 by 100 feet in size, before considering other alternatives. Efforts to acquire the three lots are part of an overall acquisition program to expand the size of the land area site at Sadie Sautler to bring it up to state standards for school sites. Several other lots adjacent to Sadie Sautler have been acquired in the past year.

A change in the school calendar was approved that will move one scheduled teacher workday from Friday, January 2 to Monday, June 14. The change will in no way affect the student holidays, which will remain as previously scheduled. In presenting three choices — denying the teacher instigated request for the change; choosing Tuesday, April 20 (a student Easter holiday); or choosing the June 14 date, Cox opted for a choice of April 20, saying he felt the teacher work day was more needed during the school year than as a fourth day at the end of the year.

The matter of keeping children after school as a disciplinary measure, though not an agenda item, was discussed and a motion approved that will require the notification to parents to be signed and returned to the school prior to such action being taken. It is felt this will eliminate the possibility of students, especially those riding buses, being kept at school and not having transportation home. Cox reported that work continues on preparing a list of qualified substitute teachers to be used by all the city schools. He noted too that publicity on this subject was being prepared in order to solicit names of all prospective persons qualified to be included on such a list.

A request by a teacher for a six-months extension of an already approved six-months maternity leave was tabled for a decision at the December meeting. Board members expressed concern about the possibility of setting a precedent in this case without first looking into the medical history and all the legal procedures applicable. Cox confirmed this was the first instance of a request for an extension to an already approved maternity leave.

Back Chief

WILLIAMSTON, N.C. (AP) — The Williamston City Council voted Monday night to retain Police Chief John Swain, who was convicted Nov. 11 on one count of conspiracy to commit petty fraud. The vote was called by Thurmond Perry, the only council member who will remain in office after Dec. 1.

Records For Leaf Market

The final sales day of another record breaking season on the Greenville Tobacco Market was held yesterday, according to J. N. Bryan, supervisor of sales. Bryan said that the number of pounds sold and the amount of money paid out during the 1975 season here was more than ever before in the history of the market.

season, causing more non-descript and unripe tobacco to be sold. Some 69 sales days were completed this year, compared with last year's 58 sales days.

With final totals complete, Bryan said that the market sold 59,837,094 pounds this year for $60,300,840, a season average of $101.03. He noted that in 1974, the Greenville market broke all previous records by paying out $55,343,914 for 52,309,139 pounds of tobacco. Last year's season average was $105.80.

"I would like to thank the farmers who sold on the Greenville Market this year and to tell them we will continue to make every effort to give them good service," Bryan commented.

Noting the drop in this year's average, the supervisor pointed out that, "The quality of the tobacco in 1975 was not equal to the quality of 1974 due to dry weather during the 1975 growing

He observed, "Early designation will make the operation of the 1976 selling season as successful as the 1975 marketing year. I would like to suggest that farmers designate their tobacco to the warehouse of their choice in Greenville as early as possible for the 1976 marketing season."

BIOFEEDBACK HERE SOON

I've read recently of a new treatment for migraine headaches and other "tension" health problems. Is there a machine available locally for biofeedback? Mrs. M. S.

Dr. Ellis Muther, a New Bern neurologist who practices here one day a week in the office of neurosurgeons, Dr. Ira Hardy and Dr. Robert Timmons, said he will begin biofeedback training in his office in New Bern in December and here probably in January.

"Biofeedback is a principle more than a therapy really," he said. "The machine used indicates the effect that mental tension is having on certain parts of the body. I'll use it mainly to try to help migraine headache and anxiety patients."

"For the migraine headache victim, it will be used to indicate to him exactly what is happening to the frontalis muscle when it goes into spasms and causes his excruciating pain. This muscle is overactive for the person who has these headaches often, but with this training, hopefully he can learn to recognize when they are coming on and consciously start to relax and prevent the spasms from occurring."

"Many of the people who have anxiety and migraine problems would tell you if you ask them that they are not tense. This machine can serve to show them that they're tense most of the time, so much so that they've come to accept it as a way of life and don't even know that they are. The theory of biofeedback is that these people can be taught what to do to make the machine indicate that the tension is subsiding."

HOTLINE APPEAL

NEEDS WITNESS

I was involved in a collision at the intersection of the 264 Bypass and Elm Street last Wednesday about 1 p.m. I was driving a red pickup truck, which received more than $1,000 damage. The other man had a lot of damage, too. A driver of a green Pinto station wagon probably witnessed the accident, and others may have, too. I wish anyone who saw it would call me. S.P.

Anyone who may have witnessed this accident should call Sam Purcell at 756-5991 or 756-2249.

An 'Absurdity' To Kissinger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says the House intelligence committee's votes to cite him for contempt of Congress are "frivolous" and "an absurdity."

Questioned Monday as he flew here from Paris with President Ford, Kissinger said of the committee vote to seek three contempt citations: "I think it's a frivolous citation ... I can't imagine that the Congress will go along with the committee. The whole thing is an absurdity."

For one thing, Kissinger said, the citation was directed at him as chief of the National Security Council staff several days after he was directed by President Ford to surrender that post.

Kissinger also argued that presidential documents he once possessed had been returned to White House files after he was named secretary of state in 1973.

The intelligence committee voted Friday to cite Kissinger for contempt in three cases for refusing to turn over subpoenaed information on covert intelligence operations and intelligence estimates on Soviet compliance with arms agreements. The charges carry a maximum penalty of three years in jail and a $3,000 fine.

If the full House approves the committee's action, the case would be turned over to a U.S. attorney for prosecution. The House is expected to consider the citation next month.

Confirm Rumsfeld

WASHINGTON (AP) — After only brief debate, the Senate today confirmed President Ford's nomination of Donald H. Rumsfeld as secretary of defense.

Rumsfeld, 43, who has been White House chief of staff, succeeds James R. Schlesinger, fired by Ford 16 days ago.

Rumsfeld was the only witness at hearings last week by the Senate Armed Services Committee, which then gave the nomination its unanimous approval.

Before becoming Ford's staff chief, the former Illinois congressman served the Richard M. Nixon and Ford administrations as U.S. ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, White House counselor and head of the now-defunct Cost of Living Council.

Short Agenda For Wednesday

Only four items of business are slated for consideration at Wednesday's 8 p.m. meeting of the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission at city hall.

Items under old business include: rezoning request of Hoke Contracting Co. to rezone approximately one acre located in the northwest corner of Memorial Drive and Langley from Flood Plain to Unoffensive Industry in order to locate an office and workshop for a construction pipe business; Rezoning request of Robert E. Laughter and others to rezone approximately 66 acres bounded by E. Fifth Street, Laurel Street, a line extended along E. Third Street and Ash Street from R-6 to R-9; and, discussion of redesign of Pirate Lane condominiums in response to a request from the Greenville Board of Adjustments.

New business involves a rezoning request of Lakewood Pines Preservation Association to rezone approximately 61 acres located to the west of S. Evans Street about one mile south of 14th Street from R-9 to R-15.

No business is scheduled for consideration by the joint city-county board.

ECU Student Government Votes To Boycott Downtown Businesses

A resolution to boycott downtown Greenville merchants beginning Dec. 9 was passed last night by the East Carolina University Student Government Association.

Vice President Jim Sullivan said the boycott will be held to protest the arrest of about 30 students during a Halloween fracas and because "there has been no official public comment or action by the duly elected authorities of Greenville showing any sign of sympathy or understanding of the plight of the students."

Sullivan neags an SGA committee set up to investigate the disturbance which took place in the East Fifth and Cotanche Street intersection area Halloween night. Greenville Police were said to have used tear gas and riot gear to break up a crowd of 500 that gathered there. Damage was estimated at $4,000 and 56 persons were arrested on failure to disperse and inciting to riot. Several students and policemen were injured.

The vote was 30-3 to organize, finance, and support a boycott on the buying of goods from downtown merchants to begin Tuesday, Dec. 9, and continue until "some action is taken which will guarantee such disturbances will never happen again." These actions, the resolution said, include an "apparent change in attitude on the part of civil authorities concerning the use of tear gas and mass arrests of students."

The resolution also authorized the president and speaker of the SGA to retain legal help for the preparation of a class action lawsuit on behalf of the students and set Dec. 8 as the date of the next SGA meeting to finalize details of the boycott.

"We hate to have to resort to a boycott," Student Government President Jim Honeycutt said, "but we feel we have to do what we can to protect the rights of East Carolina students, since no one else seems to be looking out for them."

The resolution stated that the SGA is willing "to reach fair agreements on behalf of the students with city authorities to end the atmosphere of tension and mistrust now existing between the ECU campus and the community of Greenville."

Testimony By 3 Physicians In Best Case

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer

Three physicians testified yesterday afternoon in Pitt County Superior Court as the defense continued to present evidence in the case of Dr. Andrew Best who is on trial on six counts of illegally dispensing drugs.

Dr. Best was arrested March 26 after three State Bureau of Investigation agents, who visited his office between February 4 and March 25, secured prescriptions for the controlled substances Ritalin and Preludin.

All three physicians, Drs. Ray Minges and Jack Koonce of Greenville and Dr. Ernest Furgurson of Plymouth, were presented a set of hypothetical questions by defense attorney Marvin Blount which paralleled Dr. Best's testimony regarding the visits made to his office by the three SBI agents.

The physicians testified that in their opinion the physician in the hypothetical cases acted within the normal course of medical practice within the state and that the prescriptions for the drugs, in their opinion, was for a legitimate medical purpose.

Dr. Minges, who practiced general surgery in Greenville for 17 years before his retirement five years ago, said when questioned by prosecuting attorney Sidney Eagles about a series of hypothetical questions which paralleled the testimony of the SBI agents that in his opinion, the actions by the doctor were within the normal practice of medicine and that the prescriptions were for a legitimate medical purpose.

Dr. Furgurson, on the other hand, said he had no opinion on the State's hypothetical presentation. "Every physician has to use his own judgment," he said. "A human varies. I cannot assess or analyze what was going on in the physician's mind in the theoretical cases."

Dr. Koonce, who faced the State's hypothetical questions this morning when he returned to the stand said he, too, agreed that the actions of the physician were not outside the normal course of medical practice and that the prescriptions were for legitimate medical purposes.

Dr. Koonce, who said "I would like him to fill in the prescription — not sign it in blank" — commenting on a point in one of the hypothetical questions which said the doctor signed a prescription before his receptionist filled in the body of the prescription for Ritalin — noted that such action is "what he's doing the best way he can to get through the numbers of people he's seeing."

Several other people, including among them Herbert Bell Shaw, of Wilmington, Bishop of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, and Ben Irons of Raleigh, an attorney employed by the North Carolina Department of Corrections, have taken the stand and testified to Dr. Best's good character and reputation.

Some Don't Need Great Perot Denies Tax Refund Role Campaign Organization

By G.G. LABELLE
Associated Press Writer

Most people believe a vast campaign organization and millions of dollars are needed to run for president. But Frank Taylor doesn't think so. Neither does Stanley Arnold, nor Richard Chandler Collins.

And Taylor, Arnold and Collins ought to know. Along with such better known figures as Gerald Ford, George Wallace and Henry Jackson, they are all running for president.

Every four years, in fact, while national parties spend millions to gain the presidency, little known politicians also cast hats, slogans, ideas, lesser finances and predictably lost hopes into the ring.

It can be assumed that Taylor, Arnold and Collins are but the first of this year's crop of unknown presidential candidates. They don't like to be thought of as unknown, of course.

Arnold, for instance, is surely remembered by some from his campaign for the Democratic nomination for vice president in 1972. He is now after the party's top spot and expects to finance his jump to the White House through voices from the past.

Arnold, a native of Cleveland, an advertising man and a co-founder of Pick-N-Pay supermarkets, has produced a $10 record album of 14 patriotic songs and speeches, including Mary Martin singing "The Star Spangled Banner" and Franklin D. Roosevelt telling the nation, "The only thing we have to fear is fear itself."

"We'll pave the road to the White House with $10 bills," Arnold said of plans for his record.

Arnold's slogan is "I am not a politician." His platform is to fire Secretary of State Kissinger, save $20 billion a year by putting welfare recipients to work and give the money to those who hire them.

Taylor, 37, a missionary from Bisbee, Ariz., has another unusual plan for campaign financing but no less far-reaching a platform.

He is the candidate of the United American party, which he says has 2,000 members, and he and his campaign staff — his wife Charlotte and their children, ages 13 months to 18 years — are raising funds by gathering metal cans from roadsides and selling them for recycling.

His platform? He wants to end military bases overseas, put a $1-a-gallon tax on gasoline and pay off the national debt.

"It's going to take a while before people take me seriously," Taylor concedes, but he feels his candidacy is no lost cause.

Collins, 52 and a San Ramon, Calif., postal worker, is getting himself known through a sort of chain-letter. His platform calls for a national morals program, more teaching of the Biblical version of creation and a teen-age program similar to the Civilian Conservation Corps of the 1930s.

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — H Ross Perot denies he had anything to do with an amendment approved by the House Ways and Means Committee that reportedly would give the Texas businessman a $15-million tax refund. The amendment was passed after he contributed more than $27,000 to some members of the panel.

Perot also has offered to be excluded from any benefits conferred by the amendment, which he termed "sound legislation."

In a letter released Monday, Perot decried "that I, and not the merits of the amendment, have become the central issue" in a controversy following a Wall Street Journal article on Nov. 7 that described how Perot would benefit if the amendment became law.

That article reported that former Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Sheldon S. Cohen "confirmed that he drafted such an amendment on Mr. Perot's behalf and said it 'apparently was used' as the basis" for the committee amendment.

The amendment, adopted Nov. 4, was introduced by Rep. Phil Landrum, D-Ga. It would allow persons with at least $30,000 of capital losses in a year to take a three-year carryback of losses, lowering taxes owed for those years. It would be retroactive, starting with 1974.

The Wall Street Journal said Perot would gain $15 million in "what may be the most gigantic tax break in history for one person."

The panel adopted the Landrum amendment 20 to 14 as part of a tax-cut bill not expected to reach the floor until next month.

The Journal said Perot gave $1,000 to Landrum's election campaign in October 1974, and $27,400 to 12 others on the 37-person committee.

Perot's statements were contained in a letter dated Nov. 14 to Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of Ways and Means. "Recent press reports have incorrectly labeled this legislation the 'Perot amendment,' stating that the proposal was created for my benefit," Perot wrote Ullman.

"No one representing my interests created this amendment on my behalf. I understand that this amendment was drafted and introduced as part of a proposed tax reform bill several years ago. I knew neither the author nor anything about the origin of this amendment." He continued: "The Ways and Means Committee members who voted for this amendment had no way of knowing of my interest. I sincerely regret that these fine men have been subjected to unjustified criticism."

Stop Hair Loss At Lab Consult's Risk, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss . . . and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done". But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss . . . but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. If you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation. Adv.

Await Decision On Health Rates

RALEIGH (AP)—A request by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of North Carolina for health insurance rate increases of about 40 per cent for 305,000 policyholders is now before state Insurance Commissioner John Ingram for decision.

The requested increases sought by the non-profit corporation apply only to those who are not insured through group policies.

Four days of hearings on the request were ended by Ingram Monday. He said he would rule as soon as he could. He makes such rulings usually about a week after public hearings end.

Tom Kirkpatrick, a consulting actuary retained by the Insurance Department, challenged the request Monday. He agreed that some rate increase is needed but not as much as Blue Cross asked.

For regular non-group coverage, Blue Cross asked an average increase of 40.5 per cent—from $25 to $34 a month for individuals policies, from $37 to $41 for a parent and one child and from $50 to $68 for family policies. Kirkpatrick said an overall increase of 29.7 per cent was justified there.

For student non-group policies, Blue Cross proposed an average increase of 25.9 per cent—from $7 to almost $9 for individual policies and from $14 to $16 for parent and one child and from $21 to $27 for family policies. Kirkpatrick said an average increase of 22.2 per cent should be approved there.

Blue Cross proposed an overall increase of 71.8 per cent for its 65 year-old and over and Medicare programs—from $5 to $8 at the lowest level and from almost $8 to $13 at the highest. Kirkpatrick said the increase there would be no more than 59.4 per cent.

Set Benefit Candle Sale

Members of the joint Band Boosters Club of Greenville will be conducting a benefit sale of holiday candles beginning on Thursday.

Money realized from the benefit sale will be used to support a summer music clinic and for scholarships for gifted young musicians.

The candles, in addition to being excellent holiday gift items, can also provide a backup in the event of power failure during the winter season.

The entire membership of the bands and of the Band Boosters has been organized to supply candles delivered directly to homes of purchasers.

Band boosters have expressed a hope this program will be a success and permit the backing of the band clinic and the scholarship program.

Persons who are not contacted on door-to-door sales drive and who are interested in purchasing these candles are asked to contact Mrs. Sidney Bullart, 752-5111, or Mrs. Chet Kraige, 752-2584 to place an order.

Smoke Damage In House Fire

Greenville firemen reported heavy smoke damage resulted to a house at 2106 South Evans St. yesterday following a fire in the ceiling of the kitchen.

Officers reported the fire apparently started from the kitchen light fixture and said heavy smoke damage resulted to the first floor rooms while light smoke damage resulted to rooms on the second floor of the house.

The fire was reported at 4:50 p.m.

Holding Revival Through Friday

GRIMESLAND — The Rev. J. L. Wilson of Ayden is conducting revival services this week at St. Monica Baptist Church, Grimesland.

Services, continuing through Friday, will begin each night at 7:30 p.m. Various choirs will participate each night.

GOSPEL SING
A Gospel Sing will be held at the Winterville Pentecostal Holiness Church Saturday night at 7:30. The featured group will be the Paul Brown Singers of the Church of God in Wilmington. The Rev. James McCandless invites the public to attend.

Leaf Prices Vary Little

FARMVILLE — Grade-for-grade tobacco prices varied very little compared to sales last Thursday.

Quality grades of leaf and cutter continued in strong demand by practically all the buying companies. Top price paid for quality leaf grade was $1.20 per pound.

Volume consisted mostly of low grade leaf with the exception of several sheets of quality leaf and cutter grades. Non-descript and damaged tobacco accounted for a large percentage of sales, which is expected this late in the season.

Stabilization accounted for 15.10 per cent of gross sales.

The Farmville market Monday sold 741,441 pounds for $716,572 for an average of $96.61 per hundred pounds.

To date the market has sold 40,802,515 pounds for $41,902,302 for a season average of $102.70 per 100 pounds.

The Farmville market will close after the sales on Thursday.

Will Preach On Thursday

The Rev. David Hammond will preach at English Chapel Church Thursday at 7:30 p.m. Music will be presented by Sister Millie Johnson and the Spiritual Singers.

Charged In Theft Of Pocketbook

Timothy Paul Shields of Greenville has been charged with larceny in connection with the theft of a pocketbook from a car at 109 Raleigh Ave. Saturday.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Ann Allen of Glendale Court reported that someone took her handbag from her car about 2:12 p.m.

Officers took Shields into custody and recovered a quantity of jewelry reported taken.

Officers said the jewelry was valued at more than $1,000 while $22 in cash contained in the pocket book was also taken.

Held Career Day At High School

The second annual Career Day was held Friday at D. H. Conley for the entire student body.

Representatives from 17 various occupational career clusters were on hand to answer questions the students had and to show what the different occupations had to offer.

Jointly sponsored by the Guidance Department and the Student Council Association, areas represented included health, industry, construction, art, communications, finance, law enforcement, military, technology, social services, and other related fields.

Mrs. A. M. Brown, counselor and coordinator of the event, said a third career day will be held next year and thanked those who participated in the event.

Park Equipment

Some $1,300 worth of park equipment was recently purchased and installed at Jaycee Park by the Greenville Jaycees.

A spokesman for the Jaycees said that the equipment, which is now operational, includes a sliding board, whirl and jungle jim set.

The $1,300 is part of a $6,000 commitment made by the Jaycees to provide needed items for the park, it was pointed out. The chapter is working with the Recreation Department in determining priority items for purchase and construction.

So far, the spokesman said, some $3,500 of the $6,000 has been spent toward furnishing the facility.

The new items, actually the first equipment installed for children at Jaycee Park, is located in the area of the picnic shelter.

Family Rides 'Blue Beast'

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Can a family of six leave jobs and school behind, toss six duffelbags and a couple of pup tents into a van and casually take off for a year of togetherness, traveling throughout Europe and the Soviet Union?

The Morris family did and not only lived to tell the tale, but Jeannie Morris, writer and Chicago television sports reporter, has told it — in her new book, "Adventures in the Blue Beast."

The "Beast" is the camper that served as home base for Jeannie, her husband, TV sportscaster and former Chicago All-Pro football player Johnny Morris, and their four children.

"It was my idea to do it," declared the petite and vivacious author in an interview here. "In 1969 when I started writing a sports column I put every bit I earned into 'The Freedom Fund' and eventually it got to be an impressive figure."

Though "one thing and another" brought that figure to $30,000, none of it came from Jeannie's earlier book, "Brian Piccolo: A Short Season," profits from which were donated to the football player's widow and to cancer research.

Their new blue vehicle in the hold of the ship, the Morrises began their adventure aboard the Queen Elizabeth II in August 1973.

"There was no resistance from the school board, which thought the trip would be educational for the children," their mother recalls. Dan and Debbie, then 16 and 14, dropped out of high school for a year and their father tutored the younger children, Tim and Holly, then 10 and 7.

"They're all four getting better grades than before and all would take the trip again. Johnny and I would do it again anytime," adds the personable author, who gloatingly announces that she is 39, while her husband, a few months older, is 40. "We're almost always the same age, but right now I get to be a year younger," she says, clapping her hands in glee.

"Language was no problem on the trip. Johnny cannot speak any language in the world but he is an accomplished sign linguist. We didn't go by guidebooks, we went by our nose," explains Jeannie, wearing brown slacks and sweater and curled up shoeless on the bed of her hotel room.

"There was always a lot of input about where we should go, but Johnny did the driving and we never knew what the decision was till he made a left or right. You might have disagreements, but it really doesn't matter what you do, whether you go to Brussels or Amsterdam tomorrow — because you have time."

It was an unplanned 12 months, except for one deadline. They had to be at the Russian border at noon on October 1, as prearranged by Intourist. Altogether, they drove 22,000 miles.

"We would never drive any farther than was comfortable. If you're going to do it, and I think everyone who can should, do half the things you originally planned, but do them well," Jeannie advises, pointing out that they stayed six weeks in a little village on the south coast of Crete. "We skipped some places, but when we were there we lived with people, ate what they ate."

"There is a certain luxury in primitive society. There's no freezer and no canned goods, so you don't have the variety but it makes for innovative cuisine. And with all that fresh food I finally persuaded Johnny I could turn our lawn into a garden and all this past summer we've had fresh vegetables."

They tried as they went along to obtain literature to background the youngsters in history and current politics of the countries they visited. At Stratford-upon-Avon they "got immersed" in Shakespeare.

"There were valuable experiences. When Johnny had an infected foot Dan did the foraging, shopping and dealing."

Jeannie relates. "They're all tremendously tolerant now and they'll probably all seek out new people and ideas and have no hangups about new situations because they conquered all the fear that year. They took a big gulp out of life all at once, which puts them a step ahead in terms of maturity."

Always a close family, the six encountered no problems in being thrown so much together. "What makes tension in families is pressures brought from school, from work, from the tedium of housework," Jeannie explains.

"On a trip you take all those outside pressures off." They took along three or four changes of clothing, which they "wore to rags," and camped out about two-thirds of the time. Their only purchases were some copperware and a piece of Delft, both for gifts. For themselves they brought back "zilch. Nothing except our rags," Jeannie admits with a laugh.

"Adventures in the Blue Beast" is published by Rand McNally.

explains. "There is growing awareness that who your blood parents are is important to your own sense of identity."

In the matter of discipline stepparents seem to have difficulty hitting a happy medium. Mrs. Maddox has found. They are either too strict or too lenient. Some stay completely out of it, allowing the natural parent to make all the decisions. In any case, she says, they don't dare to be spontaneous.

"Stepparents have to have the confidence to make their own rules for their own household," she says. "But being very conscious of the fact that they have found happiness themselves they often bend over backwards to try to make the children happy."

Mrs. Maddox, whose stepchildren call her Brenda — "which was fine because there was already a person in their life they called mummy" — believes that children should be asked what they'd prefer, maybe making up a special name that suits everyone.

"Prepare for the fact that a child doesn't easily accept a substitute parent," she advises, adding that death makes step-parenthood harder than divorce. "A dead parent is more apt to be idealized and the child feels disloyal. You can't force love. If it grows it's wonderful but there are a lot of obstacles on both sides, including the fact that the stepchild is a permanent reminder of a former marriage."

"But a lot of people do manage," she says. "The step-relationship can be compared to the in-law relationship. There's a natural rivalry like that between a daughter-in-law and a mother-in-law. Both love the same man from different points of view. If you are aware of this and prepare for it you can deal with it."

Although stepchildren place a great strain on a marriage, Mrs. Maddox learned from her interviews that those contemplating such a marriage don't question the situation because nothing can be done about it.

"It's a package deal," she says. ("The Half-Parent" is published by M. Evans.)

The couple, who live in London, have two children of their own, a girl, 12, and a boy, 5. "Having a new baby does seem to make things better for stepfamilies," their mother says. "It introduces a new element, gives stepparents and stepchildren a shared experience. There is a blood tie, and it creates a feeling of permanence for the family."

Though Mrs. Maddox, an American, legally adopted her stepchildren "to give them a sense of security," she feels there are valid arguments against the practice. "Adoption severs the ties with one side of the family, wipes out kinship links," she

Children Don't Easily Accept A Stepparent

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It's a double emotional load, adjusting to a new marriage and to the pressures of becoming a stepparent at the same time, says Brenda Maddox, who not only has done extensive research on the subject, but is herself a stepmother.

"You get it on the wedding day — the whole colossal new experience to deal with," she says. "You have to be a new mother and new wife or a new father and new husband all at once."

Though half a million adults a year in the United States alone join the ranks, in her interviews with nearly a hundred stepparents, Mrs. Maddox found a common thread — a sense of isolation, a feeling that they "almost didn't dare think about" their situation.

"When you adopt a child both parents are in it together, the ground rules are clearer. There has been very little study about stepfamilies," explains Mrs. Maddox, who has just written a book, "The Half-Parent," dealing with her own experiences as well as her investigation into the subject.

The author, who took on a ready-made family of an 8-year-old boy and a 5-year-old girl when she married their father after the death of their mother, admits candidly that there have been problems.

"I will not say they are like my own children. It's only since we've all stopped pretending to an emotion that we don't have that we are happy, though we still have some tense spots."

It has been 15 years since she married British author John Maddox, moving into his house so that it wouldn't involve too much change for the children, but still "we jarred at every point."

"They felt it was their territory and I was an intruder," explains the attractive 43-year-old brunette. "They had mixed feelings. They were glad to have a substitute mother and insisted that I go to their school things but they didn't want to change their own habits."

The English language has fallen victim to a series of questions that has become so commonplace that people don't even bother to listen to the answers any more.

It first came to my attention while viewing Mary Coyle Chase's great Broadway play, "Harvey." People were forever saying to the hero, Elwood P. Dowd, "Gee, we've got to get together sometime for dinner," and as they walked away he would say brightly, "When?"

They would stop dead in their tracks, fumble for a date and finally get pinned down. I should like to take up the banner of Elwood P. Dowd and help stamp out "filler" talk. Phrases like:

"How was your flight?" Just to prove that no one really cares about my flight, I have replied, "Over Chicago in a blizzard the pregnant hostess slapped Helen Hayes across the mouth, a loony shot a hole in the cabin for the insurance money, and Dean Martin had to bring us in with no landing gear," only to have my host smile and say, "Wonderful. You have luggage?"

"How are you?" is probably the most inane, often-used bit of fluff in the English language. No one really wants to know. I could carry extra sets of X-rays in my handbag and still not get any attention. I once got on the elevator with a boss of mine who never really got around to remembering the names of people who worked for him. He said, "Well, Miss... Early Bird... how are you?"

I looked at him solemnly, said, "I have a 50-50 chance," and got off the elevator leaving him in shock.

Another of my favorites is when people call you on the phone and ask, "Are you busy?" "Compared to what?" brings a silence as they try to remember what they asked.

Some people just don't know how to reply, so they resort to standardized reactions. In telling a group of women about the death of a prominent citizen, I got three standard replies, "Are you sure?" (Reasonably. He stopped breathing.) "You're kidding!" (These are the jokes?) And "I don't believe it!" (What would it take to convince you?)

The granddaddy of all routine questions has to be the one my husband poses every night — "What kind of a day did you have?" — and then leaves the room.

One of these days, I'm going to follow him and tell him. It would serve him right.

Abby Advises: When In Doubt, Do Nothing

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a divorced woman, 23-years-old, with two small children. I met a 44-year-old man. He's a widower with a 15-year-old daughter living at home. He wants to marry me and take care of me and my children.

He has offered me a lovely home, a new car and lots of new clothes. He says he loves me. I told him I wasn't sure I loved him because he's my father's age, but he told me that I would learn to love him.

Abby, can a person "learn" to love somebody? It is hard to pass up everything he's offering me, but I'm afraid my mom and dad won't think he's right for me because he's kind of bald, wears glasses and is not much to look at.

Also, I'm afraid everyone will notice the difference in our ages, and they'll think I married him for his money. Another thing: His daughter acts kind of cool to me. I'm afraid she might think I am taking her father away from her but I swear I'm not.

I had such a bad marriage that this offer is tempting. What should I do?

DEAR TEMPTED: When in doubt, do nothing. You have too many fears and doubts about this man to marry him. Go slowly, dear. And in answer to your question: No, I don't think a person can "learn" to love somebody. Perhaps in time, you could learn to appreciate his generosity, but that's not love.

DEAR ABBY: I am 39 and Len is 42. We've been married less than a year. My first husband died, and so did Len's first wife.

The problem: Len put two pictures in a large double frame—one of me and one of his first wife. He put these pictures in our bedroom on the dresser facing our bed, and he keeps looking at these pictures when we're in bed. (He's slightly cross-eyed so I can't tell whether he's looking at the picture of me or the one of his first wife.)

I feel very self-conscious with his first wife staring at me from the dresser, but I don't know how to tell him. I wouldn't mind so much if Len kept that picture in another room. Am I making myself clear? How do I handle this?

DEAR INHIBITED: Level with Len. Tell him it's difficult to entertain romantic notions with that picture on the dresser. Len will have to make a choice between a dead wife on the dresser and a live one in bed.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 46 years. He is a good provider, but in other ways he is something else. For example, he never wants me to go anywhere without him. One night, I went to a movie with our daughter, and he was so mad when I got home that the bedroom door was locked and I had to sleep on the floor since we don't have a full-length sofa.

He does all the grocery shopping. I quit going along because every item I'd put in the shopping cart he would put back. I get a Social Security check for $101.94. My husband says that $2 a month is enough for me, and he wants the rest of it.

I am not happy. He has been this way since we've been married, but I stayed with him because of the children, and now it's too late to pull out. I need your help.

DEAR CONFUSED: If your husband has been this way for 46 years, I doubt if you can change him. Have a key made for your bedroom door in case he locks you out again, hang on to your Social Security money and try to keep the peace.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Issue Of Health Won't Fade

To no one's surprise Alabama Gov. George Wallace has entered the presidential race.

The controversial governor was virtually counted out of politics when a bullet cut him down while campaigning in Maryland in 1972.

And, indeed, when it became known that he was permanently paralyzed and would be confined to a wheelchair for the remainder of his life, the feeling was prevalent that Gov. Wallace would never be able to mount a presidential campaign again.

After that, there were frequent reports about Wallace's health, and it was known that he was not the chipper and peppery Wallace who had once built his base in Alabama, then the south and finally began to pick up support in non-southern states.

As time went along it became obvious that Wallace was overcoming the shock that must beset an active man who comes to realize that he will not be able to walk again. Having done this Gov.

Wallace soon regained his old political form and now he seems prepared to storm the countryside in search of votes for 1976.

In announcing his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination, Wallace said he was "The people's choice." He said the people would not allow a repeat of the 1972 Democratic convention and predicted a "political revolution at the ballot box in the primaries of 1976."

Still, the issue of health hangs over the Wallace campaign. He says he is ready and able to carry on the campaign and suggested that other candidates submit to physical examinations, if he is to consider such a course himself.

There now is little doubt that George Wallace is mentally sharp for the campaigning. Other candidates had better consider his candidacy as potentially explosive.

No Disaster, But Not All Farmers Hoped For

Another sales year ended for the Greenville Tobacco Market yesterday.

While it hasn't been the year that farmers hoped for insofar as prices are concerned, we believe it hasn't been a disastrous year either.

Prices rose steadily during the selling season as better tobacco came to market, and we hope that the farmers were able to make a reasonable profit off their crops. With all the problems that beset tobacco these days, a profit-making year for the farmer is quite an accomplishment.

THIS AFTERNOON Attitude Key To Learning

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — A recent probe of reading abilities in North Carolina sixth grades went beyond the surface findings that there has been some limited improvement.

A portion of the study tried to get at reasons some kids learn to read well, while others don't.

The findings touched a lot of bases — teacher adequacy, need for specialists, need for supplies and equipment — but underneath it all lies one major factor which outstrips the others: the attitude of the student toward learning.

"Student attitude toward reading, which is shaped by forces inside and outside the school, was selected by principals (and teachers) as a major obstacle to the teaching of reading..." the report on a statewide assessment of reading progress concludes.

Teachers asked

While gathering test data to see where the students stand, the division of research of the State Department of Public Instruction also polled teachers and principals.

When asked if they felt preparation to teach reading was adequate, more than half (52.3 per cent) said their training had not been entirely adequate.

Another 39.8 per cent gave a definite answer that they feel preparation is not adequate, and only 6.9 per cent felt preparation had been adequate. Those findings substantiate the attitude of the Governor's Council on Goals and Policy which more than a year ago expressed the belief that most of the problem in teaching kids to read is inadequate training of the teachers.

In ranking subjects by importance, teachers agreed with another recent survey of parents that reading is the most important subject. Teachers rank language second, and math third.

Principals included in the survey departed somewhat from the views of teachers. The obstacles listed by them were student interest, supplies and materials, teacher knowledge or skill, and lack of specialists — in that order. On the specific subject matter most important, principals felt the need for specialists in reading, language, and math trailed the need for specialists in social work, psychological aid, cultural arts, and technical or clerical personnel.

Both groups of educators agree on one point — that the student attitude is a major problem, and other areas of the study appear to support that finding.

Reflect Home

The conclusion agrees with that reached by most specialists in recent years: that home surroundings both before a child enters school, and during early school years, have a strong bearing on success or failure.

Reading test results in this most recent study lead to the conclusion that, "Family income levels and maternal education levels were related to achievement... Students from upper income families scored... 21 grade-equivalent months higher than students from homes in which total annual income was estimated at less than $5,000."

Similarly, when the LONDON (AP) — Amnesty International says the Soviet Union so mistreats its 10,000 political prisoners that many are driven to suicide or self-mutilation.

Most of the prisoners are in constant hunger, their work is dangerous or unhealthy, and those in special psychiatric hospitals are subject to random beatings and abusive drug dosages, the report said.

"There are many recorded cases of convicts taking their own lives," it said.

The 150-page report, "Prisoners of Conscience in the USSR: Their Treatment and Conditions," contains photographs, maps of prison complexes and profiles of several better-known "prisoners of conscience." It was released Monday.

It is based on official Soviet information, accounts from prisoners, their families and friends, and underground Soviet writings.

Amnesty International, an independent organization based in London, campaigns for the release of nonviolent political prisoners around the world.

The document said there are about 1 million prisoners in the Soviet Union, and that 10,000 of them are "prisoners of conscience" — persons imprisoned for their political or religious beliefs. The population of the Soviet Union is nearly 251 million.

In one case cited by the report, a prisoner named Opanasenko hanged himself at Perm Colony VS 398-36 in 1974, leaving a suicide note that read: "No more strength to hold out. Curse you, monsters."

The report said Opanasenko's case was typical in that he had served most of his sentence — in this case 22 of 25 years.

Eduard Kuznetsov, a Leningrad Jew serving a sentence for his part in an attempt to hijack a Soviet plane in 1970, was quoted as having seen several fellow convicts "invite death by feigning escape attempts in full view of armed guards."

Incidents of self-mutilation were also cited by Kuznetsov.

"I have seen convicts sew up their mouths and eyes with thread or wire, sew buttons to their bodies, or nail their testicles to a bed, swallow a nail

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

William O. Douglas took his seat on the Supreme Court April 17, 1939. At the time of his retirement last week, he had served some 13,359 days. During these more than 36 years, he was in some ways the Court's greatest adornment, and in some its greatest shame. He ranks as one of the unforgettable Americans of this century.

Douglas served under five chief justices — Hughes, Stone, Vinson, Warren, and Burger. He sat with more than one-fourth of the men ever to serve on the Court. His first opinion, in a case involving the oil depletion allowance, turns up in Volume 308 of the Supreme Court Reports; his name now runs through a hundred volumes more.

Oliver Wendell Holmes is remembered, not altogether deservedly, as the "Great Dissenter." By comparison with Douglas, Holmes was a piker. In 1927, his year of greatest disagreement, Holmes dissented only 16 times. Douglas could dissent that many times in a single month. Over the past three terms, Douglas dissented 107 times in cases decided by formal opinion; he dissented at least that many times on matters decided in chambers.

The most prolific writer in the court's history, Douglas was a glutton for work. Until he was felled by illness, he regularly wrote twice as many opinions as any of his brothers on the Court. Two years ago, when some of his younger colleagues complained of the work load and sought ways to reduce the burden, Douglas scoffed at their protest. Justices, he said, were not overworked; they were underworked.

One of these years, Douglas' record for longevity doubtless will be broken. Justice William Rehnquist, if he lives and serves to the age of 84, could break it. But it seems unlikely that Douglas will be surpassed any time soon as a center of controversy and a target of fierce debate. He had a talent, unmatched since John Marshall, to set the adrenals pumping. He was loathed or loved, but there was no middle ground. Pure silver, this one; but tarnished. In my own view, he should have been impeached and removed long ago.

This is because members of the Court are not subject to the rules of impeachment only, but to something more besides. The Constitution says they are to hold office "during good behavior," which suggests they may be removed from office if their behavior is ungood, or bad.

This was the case with William O. Douglas — not in terms of his private life, which was his own business,

INSIDE REPORT Church's Rogue Elephant

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — A widely overlooked declaration by Rep. Otis Pike of New York that the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) has not been a rogue elephant reflects widening disillusionment with the way Sen. Frank Church of Idaho is conducting his investigation of U.S. intelligence while eyeing a bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Church, chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, last July described the CIA as a "rouge elephant rampaging out of control" in plotting assassinations of foreign leaders — a characterization he since has steadfastly defended. Thus, a flat rejection of that charge by Pike, chairman of the House Intelligence Committee, amounts to both vindication of CIA officials and repudiation of Sen. Church.

Pike's statement was not personally aimed against Church. Nevertheless, it indicates that the general belief Church is fastidiously conducting a model investigation has given way to disillusionment about him within the intelligence community, and by some members (including a Democrat or two) of his committee. While Church's standing on the Democratic party's left wing has been raised to presidential stature, he now may face revolt within his own committee.

The first sign of Church, solemn and studious, running less than a clinically non-political investigation came July 16 in an interview with Muriel Dobbins of the Baltimore Sun. Church predicted the committee's report on political assassinations would reveal the CIA as a "rouge elephant" acting without presidential authorization. Challenged for substantiation on NBC's "Meet the Press" Aug. 17, Church declared: "I think that the statement will be borne out when the evidence is fully disclosed in the report." Nor has he backed down since then.

But some Church committee members believe the rogue elephant charge mainly reflected the chairman's desire to shield President John F. Kennedy from complicity in assassination plots against Fidel Castro. Beyond that, the charge may reflect an anti-CIA bias — by committee staffers and perhaps Church himself — so strong they do not want the agency's misadventures blamed on presidential direction.

With committee members maintaining a facade of unity, such criticism was not made public. Similarly, Pike has never uttered a critical word about his Senate counterpart's conduct of the CIA investigation.

To the editor:

Some time ago I hastily wrote a letter to the Public Forum concerning Greenville's blue laws in which I expressed the opinion that they existed through religiously-induced ignorance on the part of our elected officials. I must admit that I was wrong. It is becoming more and more obvious that the existence of these laws is due to the financial influence of several Greenville merchants who seek to avoid the competition of the free enterprise system by insuring that the more aggressive retailers are harassed into staying closed on Sunday.

The refusal by Mayor Pro-Tem Percy Cox to allow arguments against these absurd laws as reported by Mr. C. Phillips in the November 11 Public Forum comes as no surprise and serves as another blatant indication of the special treatment extended to these few merchants.

It is an unfair and unwarranted law that restricts the purchase of certain harmless and seemingly frivolously selected items to certain days of the week simply to allow the less enterprising merchants of this city a day off. If they want a day off, that's fine, but it is unfair to require that everyone else take a day off too. Many Greenville citizens and registered voters are becoming increasingly disgusted with a city council and other elected officials who pamper the Greenville gentry at the expense of the majority of the citizens of this community.

To the editor:

The letter by Jannis Shea and Donald Lawler in last Sunday's Public Forum regarding a principal's announcement at E.B. Aycock was one of the most distasteful and destructive I have ever read.

If this is how college professors typically demonstrate their skill in esoteric literary criticism, thank God I learned my grammar in junior high.

Sincerely,
David Pearsall, M.D.

To the editor:

Perhaps the next time Professors Shea and Lawler find enough time to count the grammatical errors in a notice sent by a junior high principal, they might also find time to tutor some of my students from that same junior high. I hope they will not, however, be disappointed to find my classes not delving into the complexities of sentence structure but trying to understand traffic signs, checkbooks, driver's tests, grocery ads, menus, contracts, and job applications.

Dear professors, if you think the problem with North Carolina's literacy rate lies in our principal's punctuation, please spend some time with Greenville students who struggle to learn the sounds of the alphabet.

P.S. I'm certain, of course, that the professors' use of "principle" for "principal" was a typographical error.

Strength For Today

FROM LITTLE ACORNS

During the reign of Queen Elizabeth I, Sir Walter Mildmay, her Chancellor of the Exchequer, slipped away from court one day to found a college at Cambridge University with a generous gift of money. Upon his return the Queen inquired concerning his absence, and Mildmay, anxious to hide the fact that he had given money to found a puritan and dissenting college, answered, "I have been away planting an acorn, and when it becomes an oak, God only knoweth what it may bring forth."

Almost from the beginning the college flourished and fifty years later some of its graduates participated in the founding of Harvard. It has been said with a certain amount of truth that from Sir Walter's gift sprang the American system of higher education.

Who would have thought that from this small investment of money such a sturdy oak would spring! "Great oaks from little acorns grow."

Errors In Money Management

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Why do some people stay afloat when the economy grows turbulent while others sink into financial trouble so deep it may take them years to get their heads back above water?

The American Bankers Association sought opinions from members and financial counselors throughout the country and, after analyzing the replies, reached this generalization:

"It's not always how much money you have or how much you earn that makes the difference, but rather your attitude toward money, your spending and borrowing habits and your style of living."

Topping the ABA problem list is "postponing help."

"Better to face up immediately," it says, explaining that procrastination is often the thief of money as well as time. It offers these suggestions:

First, see the loan officer at the lending bank, loan association or credit union. He or she may suggest refinancing your loan or may suggest debt consolidation — converting all your debts into a single loan.

On mortgages, some lenders may allow you to space out payments for a year or two or permit you to pay only the interest on the loan until you get back on your feet.

If your financial situation is almost out of control, a lender might suggest a family financial counseling agency to provide free assistance in working out money problems.

In extreme cases, Chapter 13 of the Federal Bankruptcy Act might be of assistance. Called the Wage-Earners Plan, it provides court protection while you work your way out of debt.

Among other money management errors, and the ABA's comments:

—ROBBING PETER TO PAY PAUL When you pay off excessive debts by incurring new debts, you're aggravating the problem.

—SPENDING MONEY YOU'RE GOING TO EARN Don't count on it. Many people get into trouble during the past two years after losing overtime pay they had come to consider as regular income.

DIVORCE: THE HIGH COST OF LEAVING. If your marriage goes on the rocks there's a good chance your financial structure will land there too. In some areas divorce ranks as the most common reason for financial problems. Warning: The tremendous financial penalties involved in divorce can be more binding than marriage vows.

—LACK OF EMERGENCY FUNDS. Families should have a reserve, especially when the future is so uncertain. Some money management advisers say the equivalent of several month's income is desirable.

Many families sense the approach of poor economic conditions and tend to build their savings at the correct time. Others, the record shows, continue to spend as if tomorrow's income was certain. It isn't.

Next: More of the common reasons for financial problems.

Local Moose Prepare For 25th Anniversary

Final plans for celebrating the 25th anniversary of the Greenville Moose Lodge were spelled out Monday night with a two-day observation in store for the local fraternal and service organization.

The anniversary has also been designated by the Greenville Lodge as an occasion for honoring one of its own: charter member Leon Smith, Jr.; present, at the institution ceremonies of Lodge 885, the first Secretary of the lodge, a Past Governor, and holder of the highest honor bestowed by the fraternity, the Pilgrim's Degree of Merit.

In designating Smith for the special anniversary tribute, Lodge Governor James Fleming recalled that Smith had served the Moose in many capacities during his twenty-five years of membership in the lodge and in recent years had contributed much of his time and energies toward successful Moose sponsorship of the Red Cross Bloodmobile visits in Greenville.

For the weekend's special occasion, Past Supreme Governor of the Loyal Order of Moose James R. Rivers, of Cordele Georgia, will be the featured speaker. Rivers served as Deputy Supreme Governor of the states of Georgia and Alabama before being elected to the Supreme Council in 1963. He advanced through offices from Supreme Prelate (1971) to Supreme Governor in 1973.

Rivers is active in community life, in the Methodist Church, and as a past president of the Cordele Rotary Club.

North Carolina officers of the Moose Association and District officers have been invited to the Greenville lodge anniversary.

The celebration gets underway Saturday with a social hour at 6:00 p.m., followed by dinner, entertainment and dance. Enrollment of the Anniversary Class is scheduled Sunday at 2:00 p.m.

N.C. Paced Nation In Rise Of Serious Crimes Listed In '74

RALEIGH (AP)—A report released Monday by the Federal Bureau of Investigation shows serious crimes increased 27 per cent in North Carolina last year over 1973.

The FBI's annual report on crime in the United States showed both violent crimes and crimes against property increased more rapidly in North Carolina than in the South or the nation. Crime also increased more rapidly in the South than any other region.

There were 188,307 serious crimes in North Carolina in 1974, up from 148,269 the year before, the report showed. The increase of 27 per cent compared with an increase of 17.6 per cent nationwide and 21.5 per cent in the South.

The crime rate, which takes into account shifts in population, also rose more rapidly in North Carolina than in the nation or in the South as a whole.

The report showed violent crimes increased 13.6 per cent and property crimes increased 29.5 per cent in North Carolina.

Nationally, violent crimes increased 11.3 per cent and in the South they increased 10.5 per cent. Property crimes increase by 18.3 per cent in the nation and by 22.9 per cent in the South.

The report showed there were 54 fewer murders in the state in 1974 than the year before and fewer reported rapes. However, robberies increased by 31.4 per cent and aggravated assaults by 11.4 per cent.

Cumberland County, which includes Fayetteville and Ft. Bragg was one of the most violent metropolitan areas in the country, the report showed. There were 898.4 violent crimes per 100,000 persons in Cumberland County. This rate was exceeded only by Detroit, New York and Miami.

But the murder rate was higher in Charlotte than in Cumberland County, 18 per 100,000 compared with 15.1.

Fourteen metropolitan areas had higher murder rates than Charlotte.

Charlotte led North Carolina cities in total number of crimes with 22,914 followed by Greensboro with 10,374, Winston-Salem with 10,077 and Raleigh with 8,475.

Charlotte's burglary rate was the 12th highest in the nation at 2,399.5 per 100,000.

and not in terms of his work on the Court itself. His extracurricular activities as a member of the Court cannot be forgotten, excused, or condoned.

It was not good behavior for Douglas, as a member of the Court, to serve at a salary of $12,000 a year as head of the Parvin Foundation, knowing the Foundation to be financed by wheeling and dealing in the shadow world of Las Vegas casinos.

It was not good behavior for Douglas, as an associate justice, to write for Playboy magazine. It was not good behavior for him to sell a $350 article to a convicted pornographer. It was not good behavior for him to let his byline appear in Avant Garde and Evergreen. He tarnished his own reputation by thus selling the respectability of the Court. The House Judiciary Committee five years ago sought to paint this over with whitewash. These gross errors of judgment on Douglas's part cannot be obliterated; and in any fair reading of the man's career, they must be given full account.

It has been said repeatedly in the past few days, and it is true, that Douglas was "ahead of his times." In the spring of 1949, more than a quarter-century ago, he wrote the Court's 5-4 decision in Terminiello v. Chicago. The decision reversed the conviction of a rabble-rouser with a poisoned tongue. A function of free speech, said Douglas, is to invite dispute: "It may indeed serve its high purpose when it induces a condition of unrest, creates dissatisfaction with conditions as they are, or even stirs people to anger." The opinion foreshadowed a trend in First Amendment thinking now firmly fixed in our law.

For the brilliance of his mind, the courage of his convictions, and his inexhaustible energy, Douglas will justly be praised. With his resignation, the Court loses its only member capable of writing a quotable line. His was the lively flame, the rocket anger, the splendid explosion and for all his transgressions, the Court will be sadly the poorer without him.

LONDON (UPI) — Turkey has been the Christmas dinner treat in many parts of the world only since the 16th century, when the American wild turkey was introduced in other nations.

Earlier feasts featured everything from a boar's head to goose or bustard. The latter is a game bird indigenous to Europe and Australia.

elephant term was Church's and, had he known, would not have repudiated it. But he was, if inadvertently, bolstering Church's critics inside the Senate committee.

Simultaneously, Church is criticized for stressing headline-grabbing diversions — assassination plots and secret poisons — while neglecting central issues. While deploring Pike's blanket denunciations of CIA operations, intelligence officials grudgingly admit his investigation has easily surpassed Church's in coming to grips with the cost, effectiveness and overall utility of the nation's intelligence effort.

The Church committee's most frequently cited horrible example was its ballyhooed hearing, over live television, on the CIA's disobedience of presidential orders to destroy lethal shellfish toxin. That story, peddled all over Capitol Hill by White House operatives, had been rejected by Pike but was accepted by Church. While enabling the White House to show itself in a better light, it also supplied some evidence — fragmentary though it was — for Church's rogue elephant theory.

Still, the Church committee has been more careful than the Pike committee in safeguarding sensitive information — until recently, that is. After forcing open hearings on communications intelligence activity, Church now wants to make public the assassinations report and hold open hearings on CIA covert activities. The result may be a revolt by committee members, who would be aided — significantly though unwittingly — by Otis Pike's not guilty verdict from the other side of the Capitol.

NEW YORK (AP) — Hopes for a favorable outcome of the New York City financial situation carried stock market prices higher again today in active trading.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 4.88 at 861.54. Advancing issues outnumbered declines by more than a 2-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said it appeared an increasing number of investors were banking on an agreement soon between New York and Washington leaders on a plan to prevent a financial collapse by New York City.

As concern over the prospect of a default abated, brokers added, it appeared the market was paying increased attention to the recent downturn in interest rates.

"The city situation has been sitting very heavily on the market," observed John J. Smith at Fahnstock & Co.

Trans World Airlines was the most active issue on the Big Board, up 3/4 at 7 3/4. A 100,000-share block traded at 7 1/2.

Also active were Braniff, up 1/4 at 7 3/4; UAL, 3/4 higher at 26 1/2; and Pan American World Airways, up 1/4 at 5 1/2.

Analysts said it appeared investors were doing some buying in the group on the thesis that an economic recovery and travel prompted by the bicentennial observation next year would improve the industry's earnings picture.

The NYSE's composite index rose .21 to 48.61 in the first hour.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .26 at 85.86.

Commendation To 3 Seniors
Three seniors at Rose High School have been named "Commended students" in the Merit Program by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

The three receiving letters of commendation, according to Rose High principal Robert J. Alligood, are Rebekah L. Dough, Carol A. Kelsey and Charles S. Kernan.

The three are among 35,000 students nationally to receive the Commended student award on the basis of their high performance on the 1974 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test-National Merit Scholarship Test. This group of students are in the less than two percent level of high school students expected to graduate in 1976.

Swine Field Day Planned

A swine field day involving a tour of the facilities at the Upper Coastal Plain Research Station east of Rocky Mount is scheduled for Thursday, according to Pitt Extension Chairman Ed Yancey.

The tour at the agricultural experiment station, a cooperative research effort of the N.C. Department of Agriculture, the Extension Service, and N.C. State University, will center around the facilities of the Swine Developing Center at the station.

Included in the tour will be stops at the center's farrowing, breeding, nursery, gestation, feed mill and finishing facilities. An insulation demonstration will also be conducted and should be of interest to farmers who have older buildings, Yancey noted.

Research at the station, one of 15 agricultural research facilities in the state, is conducted on tobacco, corn, soybeans, cotton, peanuts, forage crops, special crops and beef cattle, as well as swine. The station has 441 acres of land.

The site is located some five miles east of Rocky Mount between Highway 43 and U.S. 64. Yancey said that persons seeking more specific information should call the extension office at 758-1196.

Agribusiness Ass'n Being Formed Here

Agri-business leaders from throughout the county met this morning to discuss and lay the foundation for the organization of the Pitt County Agri-Business Association.

The 28 invited leaders, representing a cross section of the agriculture and business community of the county, gathered at a 7:30 a.m. breakfast session at the Holiday Inn.

Goals of the new association, the establishment of which is sponsored by the Pitt Extension Service, are to foster support of agriculture and promote education of the agri-business community.

The group will also serve in an advocate role on behalf of programs and policies beneficial to agriculture. The association will serve as a major information source for farmers and other agricultural interest in the county.

Larry Land, sales manager at Coastal Chemical Corp., was named temporary chairman of a steering committee that will be appointed to set up the association bylaws and develop goals of the organization.

Henry Riddick of the county extension staff will offer leadership to the group and work with the association on behalf of the Extension Service.

The next meeting of the Agri-Business Association is set for late January.

NOT A LEG TO STAND ON—Cincinnati wide receiver Chip Myers holds tight after catching a pass from quarterback Ken Anderson for a first down early in last night's game. Making the stop are Buffalo's Steve Freeman (22), Tony Greene and Tom Rudd (54). (AP Wirephoto)

Anderson Passes Bengals Past Buffalo, O.J., By 33-24 Score

BY NORM CLARKE
AP Sports Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — How good was Cincinnati quarterback Ken Anderson Monday night?

Teammate Chip Myers thinks Anderson's 447-yard aerial assault against the Buffalo Bills puts the young National Football League signal caller at the head of the class.

"I've never a day when a guy was so precise," said Myers, whose seven receptions for 108 yards helped the Bengals overcome a 197-yard rushing feat by O.J. Simpson for a nationally televised 33-24 victory over the Bills.

"He's by far the best quarterback in the game," said Myers. "Every pass he had time to throw was perfect."

The fifth-year pro from little Augustana (Ill.) College called it "my best performance."

Even the vanquished Bills agreed that Anderson was something else.

"Anderson was unreal," said Simpson, who fell three yards shy of breaking Jimmy Brown's all-time career mark of five 200-yard games.

"He's cool, efficient ... the best we've ever played," said Bills' defensive end Walt Patulski.

Anderson, hitting 30 of 46 passes with no interceptions, shredded the Buffalo secondary to shatter by 95 yards his former club record of 352 yards set last year against Houston. He fired a pair of touchdown passes to Lenvil Elliott and Charlie Joiner and methodically moved the Bengals the length of the field when necessary. "We knew we'd have problems with the pass," said Simpson, "but he just picked us apart."

The victory put the Bengals, now 8-1, back in a first-place tie for the American Conference with the Pittsburgh Steelers, who face a stern test Monday at Houston. Buffalo dropped its fourth game in the last 15 outings to fall to 5-4.

Cincinnati never trailed in the offensive free-for-all, twice building 10-point leads and opening the margin to 13 early in the fourth quarter.

But Simpson, who bolted for 154 yards in the first half alone, kept the Bills battling back. Buffalo closed the gap to 30-24 with eight minutes left, but Anderson marched the Bengals 79 yards for an 18-yard field goal by Dave Green that provided breathing room.

"The game went the way we were afraid it would go," said Cincinnati Coach Paul Brown. "We couldn't stop them and they couldn't stop us. We threw a lot because seven points came so suddenly."

Contest Winners

Vivian Congleton of 1910 E. Ninth St. is the winner of this week's Daily Reflector Football Contest.

Mrs. Congleton correctly picked the winners in 27 of the 31 games listed in this week's contest. She won, however, on the basis of her pointed guess, hitting the correct total of 70 right on the nose. Those points came in the 38-32 victory by New Mexico over Wyoming.

Second place went to Warren Robbins of 2601 S. Memorial Drive, who also had 27 right. He was two points off on the point total with a guess of 68.

One other person also missed just four games, but was further off the total.

The Penn State-Temple game, listed on the schedules for this past weekend, but played earlier, was not counted in the contest. The tie between N.C. State and Duke was counted wrong since it is possible a pick a tie.

The contest wound up the 10 weekly runnings for the 1975 season.

Robinson Surprised When Citadel Picked To Finish Last In S.C.

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

CHARLESTON, S.C.—Perhaps it's an indication of how good the Southern Conference could be this year. Or maybe it's just somebody's idea of a bad joke.

At any rate, the Southern Conference Sports Information Directors in a pre-season poll picked The Citadel to finish last in this winter's basketball standings.

"It surprised me," Coach Les Robinson said. "But it may be good. It's been an incentive for us to work harder. I really feel this year's race is a wide open one and that anyone can win."

One of the glaring reasons why it is difficult to explain why the Bulldogs were picked to finish last is that all five of their starters from last season return. "Apparently the SIDs didn't think much of this," Robinson said.

"We didn't do everything

West Is Flag Champ

West Greenville captured the Flag Football League's post-season playoffs yesterday with a 25-0 rout of Elmhurst.

After holding off an initial Elmhurst threat that included a 50-yard run by Chip Little, West Greenville took over and Vincent Murphy's 40-yard run set up the score. Keith Phillips hit Chris McLawhorn for the score and a 6-0 lead.

Just before the end of the half, Phillips hit Murphy for another touchdown pass. Murphy ran over the PAT for a 13-0 lead at intermission.

On the first play from scrimmage following the second half kickoff, Anthony Ford broke loose for a 40-yard run for the next West Greenville touchdown. That ran the lead to 19-0.

Ronnie Worsley ran 50 yards for the final touchdown, giving West Greenville their 25-0 edge.

Worsley, Michael Spell and William Battle led the West Greenville defense, while Jule Budacz, Marshal Rand and Edward Frazier pace Elmhurst.

wrong last year, but we do need to build our confidence. We lost a lot of games in the last five or ten minutes after being ahead much of the way. So maybe we weren't in the best of condition," Robinson said.

For this reason, The Citadel has been having two-a-day drills. "We're also working on our mental conditioning so we'll be ready to play for the full game." In just over two weeks, Robinson had put his team through 29 practice sessions.

"We're trying to make the morning practices as pleasant as a practice can be at 6:15 in the morning," the coach said. "It's mostly an offensive session. We go to basics—fundamentals and defense in the afternoons."

Leading the returning starters is 6-0 guard Rodney McKeever, a junior. "He's one of the best guards in the South," Robinson says unashamedly. "We're going to utilize his talents to try and win more. Basketball is a team game. We have tended to go with him too much and our opponents tend to defend him more." Despite the defense, McKeever averaged 23 points a game last season.

Richard Johnson, a 6-8 senior, returns at center. "He's done an outstanding job. He's one of the best shooting big men in the conference."

Mike Ange, a 6-6 sophomore, was on the All-Rookie team last year, and Robinson is hoping that he'll be a little more consistent this year. He's a forward.

Ricky Day, a 6-5½ junior forward and Rick Barger, a 6-0 guard, round out the returning players. "They are consistent players," the coach said.

Chris Davis, a 6-6 freshman, was the leading scorer on the only undefeated high school in South Carolina last year. "He's a pure outside shooter," Robinson said.

Jimmy Mathis, a 6-6 freshman, has the height and strength to help on the boards later in the year. Dale French, a 6-7 freshman, will "help a lot and has the most potential of the inside people," Robinson said. Rick Swing, 6-3, will push the backcourt men for a starting job.

John Rodgers, a 6-4½ junior, and Don Server, a 5-8 junior, have both shown improvement.

"Our schedule is tougher than last year," Robinson said. "But this may help us in the long run.

We didn't do that bad last year outside the conference, but our league play hurt us.

"We are going to try and not structure the offense around McKeever this year. We're still going to be able to run, except against a much bigger team. We just want to do a better job of what we tried to do last year."

If the Bulldogs succeed, they probably won't end up last.

Tangerine Is Checking Bucs

East Carolina University's football Pirates are under consideration by the Tangerine Bowl, it was confirmed yesterday.

Officials of the bowl told East Carolina University Athletic Director Bill Cain that the school was one of seven the committee was considering. Miami of Ohio is already in as the host team through a pact with the Mid-American Conference. Miami won the MAC title for the third straight season and is currently 9-1 on the year.

Of the seven, one removed itself from contention yesterday by accepting another bid. West Virginia, one of the seven, will meet N.C. State in the Peach Bowl.

The remaining six include the team with the current longest winning streak, Arkansas State, which has won its last 12 in a row. Arkansas State is currently 10-0 on the season and winds up the season Saturday against Louisiana Tech.

The others are Navy, 6-4; South Carolina, 6-4; Tulsa, 7-3; and Virginia Tech, 7-3.

East Carolina currently also holds a 7-3 mark, and will close out its season Saturday at 7 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium, playing host to conference foe Virginia Military Institute.

The Tangerine Bowl committee was to meet again Thursday and told Cain that it would decide then which teams it would visit this weekend.

Navy has its traditional game with Army left, while South Carolina meets Clemson, Virginia Tech takes on Wake Forest, and Tulsa meets Houston.

Nebraska Putting All On Line With Sooners

By ED SHEARER
AP Sports Writer

Nebraska, one of the nation's top college football powers, is laying it on the line with an "either-or" policy — and as a result, it may not participate in a bowl game for the first time in seven years.

The unbeaten Cornhuskers, currently ranked second in the nation, voted twice Monday to reject a Fiesta Bowl invitation and either accept a bid to the Orange Bowl or none at all.

That situation developed after Coach Bear Bryant of Alabama surfaced to deny his team was ducking anybody, as charged by the coaches of Nebraska and Oklahoma. But Bryant admitted he hand-picked Penn State to face his team in the Sugar Bowl game.

The flurry of activity two days after the opening of bowl invitations left only one berth definitely open among the 11 major bowls — and possibly two, if Oklahoma beats Nebraska Saturday in the showdown for the Big Eight title and the Orange Bowl berth awaiting the winner.

Oklahoma, ranked sixth, has agreed to face the Western Athletic Conference champion — either Arizona State or Arizona — in the Fiesta Bowl, but Nebraska declined to join in the agreement.

"It's just that all the players want to put all their eggs in one basket, and that's defeating Oklahoma," said Coach Tom Osborne of Nebraska, which twice has used bowl victories to nail down national championships in The Associated Press poll.

The definite vacancy is in the Tangerine Bowl, where six teams reportedly are still under consideration to provide the opposition for Miami of Ohio. Another spot was filled Monday when West Virginia accepted a bid to the Peach Bowl.

The bowl line-up looks like this:

—Rose Bowl, Jan. 1: Big Ten champion (Ohio State or Michigan) vs. Pacific-8 champion (UCLA, California or Stanford).

—Orange Bowl, Jan. 1: Nebraska-Oklahoma winner vs. Ohio State-Michigan loser.

—Cotton Bowl, Jan. 1: South-west Conference champion (Texas A&M, Texas or Arkansas) vs. Georgia.

—Sugar Bowl, Dec. 31: Alabama vs. Penn State.

—Gator Bowl, Dec. 29: Florida vs. Maryland.

—Fiesta Bowl, Dec. 26: Arizona State or Arizona vs. Oklahoma, or team to be determined if Oklahoma earns Orange Bowl berth.

—Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl, Dec. 27: Colorado vs. Texas A&M or Texas.

—Liberty Bowl, Dec. 22: Southern California vs. Arkansas or Texas A&M.

—Sun Bowl, Dec. 26: Pitt vs. Kansas-Missouri winner.

—Peach Bowl, Dec. 31: North Carolina State vs. West Virginia.

—Tangerine Bowl, Dec. 20 — Miami of Ohio vs. opponent to be selected.

Both Osborne and Coach Barry Switzer of Oklahoma have criticized Bryant, charging he was bypassing their teams in favor of 11th-ranked Penn State. The Sugar Bowl, however, denied Bryant had applied pressure to bypass the Big Eight powers.

Braves, Dodgers In Big Trade

By KEN PETERS
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, disappointed after finishing 20 games back of Cincinnati in the National League West, went looking for a defensively sound, power-hitting center fielder and a left-handed pinch-hitter.

The Atlanta Braves also sought power, but they were more interested in speed and versatility.

Officials of both clubs said they got what they were looking for Monday when the Dodgers dealt Jimmy Wynn, Lee Lacy, Tom Paciorek and Jerry Royster to the Braves for Dusty Baker and Ed Goodson.

"We feel Baker will be a big aid to our ball club in our bid to win the National League West," Dodgers Vice President Al Campanis said. "And Goodson adds value to our club at first base, third base and as a left-handed pinch-hitter."

In Atlanta, Braves Vice President Eddie Robinson said: "We have added speed to our lineup in Lacy and Royster, and also got good power-hitters in Wynn and Paciorek."

And the trade, in negotiation since August, apparently pleased most of the players.

Baker, a native Californian, was reportedly unhappy in Atlanta and had asked to be traded, indicating Los Angeles was his preference. He had been billed as Hank Aaron's replacement. His failure to live up to the billing cost him popularity with Braves' fans.

Both Lacy and Paciorek, used on an irregular basis by the Dodgers, had indicated they would like to go somewhere where they could play more.

Wynn, while not happy with the trade, said he wasn't bitter. "I thought I was a permanent fixture on the club," he said. "But it's part of baseball. You live one season, die the next and get traded."

"The Dodgers are definitely a first-class organization," Wynn added. "They treat everyone like a man as well as a player. It's hard for me to leave such a beautiful organization."

Baker, 26, who throws and bats right-handed, has been used in right field for the Braves for the past 1½ seasons. He batted .261 last season and hit 19 home runs with 72 runs batted in. His best season of eight in the majors came in 1973 when he hit 21 homers, drove in 99 runs and stole 24 bases.

Wynn, 33, batted .248 with 18 homers and 58 RBI last season after hitting 32 homers and driving in 108 runs to help the Dodgers win the National League West flag the year before. That was his first season with the club after a trade with Houston which sent Claude Osteen to the Astros.

Campanis said Wynn's defensive play—hampered by an elbow that bothered him after surgery prior to the 1974 season—was the main reason the Dodgers wanted a new center fielder.

"Jimmy displayed defensive weaknesses even in '74," Campanis said. "And we felt that his arm never really came back from the surgery of last winter."

Campanis also indicated that, because of injuries to outfielders Bill Buckner and Joe Ferguson, another trade may be imminent.

Goodson, a 27-year-old who plays first or third, came to the Braves from the San Francisco Giants last season and finished with a .208 batting average in 86 games. His best year was 1973 when he hit .302 with 12 homers for the Giants.

Lacy, used at second base then shifted to the outfield by the Dodgers, hit .314 with seven homers and 40 RBI. Paciorek, an outfielder, hit .193 with one homer and five RBI in a disappointing season. He was a onetime Pacific Coast League batting champion.

Royster, an infielder, has spent most of the time either with the Los Angeles farm club in Albuquerque or sitting on the Dodger bench since being drafted in 1970.

Robinson said the Braves were particularly pleased to get Lacy.

"Lacy is one of the better young hitters in the league," he commented. "He could play second or third base for us and Royster can play shortstop, second or third. We should have a very interesting spring training."

Wynn, nicknamed the "Toy Cannon" for his ability to crash homers despite his 5-foot-9 stature, said he would have to have a different outlook in Atlanta, which normally draws sparse crowds.

"I know the main thing I'm going to have to block out of my mind," he said, "is playing before 35,000 people in Los Angeles as opposed to playing before 1,200 in Atlanta."

"But I'm going in there to do my best, just like I did when I came here from Houston. I'm going to try to give them some leadership, since they really haven't had any since Hank Aaron left."

The 13-year veteran said he thought he was completely over the elbow problem which led to his trade. "There is no doubt in my mind that I can play center field on a regular basis. My arm is strong and I can still get around," he said. "I don't see why the Dodgers think otherwise."

Squires' Fate Is Due Today

By LARRY McDERMOTT
Associated Press Writer

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The final piece of a financial puzzle being assembled to keep the Virginia Squires of the American Basketball Association alive for the rest of the season either falls in place today or the team becomes the league's third casualty in five weeks.

The outcome was to be announced at noon, EST.

If favorable, officials said it would mean the naming of a new coach — probably within 24 hours — to replace Al Bianchi, fired two weeks ago after serving as the only coach since the franchise moved here five years ago.

Jack Ankerson, the Squires' general manager, said after a second meeting of stockholders Monday night that a single telephone call sometime this morning would either bring good news or spell death for the local franchise.

Should the franchise fold, it would join the Baltimore Claws and the San Diego Sails in what appears to be the slow demise of what started out as a 10-team league.

In addition, the Utah Stars and the St. Louis Spirits are reported in trouble financially, although the Stars met their payroll Monday and a spokesman there never had been any doubt they wouldn't.

But both the Squires and Stars were sued Monday by the Chicago Bulls of the National Basketball Association, who claimed they were owed $13,000 by Virginia and $17,000 by Utah for exhibition games.

At a Sunday night meeting of about 20 of the 100 investors and again Monday night, the underlying motive for propping up the Squires and enabling them to complete the season was the hope of inclusion in a merger or admission to the NBA.

"There's no question about it. You have people who have put up substantial amounts of money over the years. They have a lot at stake," said Ankerson, who added:

"If you throw in the towel now, you have nothing, you've thrown it all away. They believe all the ABA teams remaining at the end of the season will be in the NBA next year."

The Squires, 1-12 this year and drawing crowds of about 3,000 per game, needed an additional $400,000 to complete the season, and the players' latest paychecks already are now two days late.

Just as Sunday night, the stockholders at their second consecutive meeting Monday couldn't raise the entire amount among themselves.

Neither he nor investors would discuss the potential source of the additional money.

Southern Cal Tumbles Out Of AP Grid Poll

By HERSCHEL NISSENON
AP Sports Writer

Ohio State, Nebraska, Texas A&M, Michigan and Alabama held onto the top five spots in The Associated Press college football poll today while Texas moved up to sixth place ahead of defending national champion Oklahoma and Notre Dame and Southern California dropped completely out of the Top Twenty.

With two weeks left in the regular season, Ohio State received 46 first-place votes and 1,136 of a possible 1,160 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters following a 38-6 rout of Minnesota, the unbeaten Buckeyes' 10th consecutive triumph.

Nebraska received 11 No. 1 votes and 1,058 for a 52-0 mauling of Iowa State. Last week, Ohio State led 49-8 in first-place votes and 1,138-1,054 in points.

The other first-place vote and 887 points went to Texas A&M, a 33-14 winner over Rice. Michigan, which meets Ohio State Saturday, earned 756 points by defeating Illinois 21-15 while Alabama trimmed Southern Mississippi 27-6 and totaled 671 points.

Texas climbed from seventh to sixth with 609 points by downing Texas Christian 27-11 while Oklahoma needed a late touchdown and two-point conversion to nip Missouri 28-27 and slipped from sixth to seventh with 590 points.

Arizona State held onto eighth place by trouncing Pacific 55-14 but Notre Dame, No. 9 a week ago, bowed to Pitt 34-30 and disappeared from the Top Twenty. It was believed to be the first time since a 2-7 record in 1963 that the Irish were not in the rankings.

Colorado moved up from 10th to ninth by beating Kansas 24-21 while idle Penn State rose from 11th to 10th.

The Second Ten consists of Arizona, Florida, California, UCLA, Georgia, Miami of Ohio, Pitt, Missouri, Arkansas and Maryland. Last week it was Penn State, Arizona, Southern Cal, Florida, California, Miami, Kansas, Missouri, UCLA and Georgia.

Pitt, which dropped out of the Top Twenty a week ago following a loss to West Virginia, made it back by whipping Notre Dame. Arkansas reappeared following a four-week absence by trouncing Southern Methodist 35-7 and Maryland climbed back in after a week's absence by edging Clemson 22-20.

Here are the Top Twenty teams in The Associated Press college football poll, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total points. Points based on 20-18-16-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

1. Ohio St. (46)	10-0-0	1,136
2. Nebraska (11)	10-0-0	1,058
3. Texas A&M (1)	9-0-0	887
4. Michigan	8-0-2	756
5. Alabama	9-1-0	671
6. Texas	9-1-0	609
7. Oklahoma	9-1-0	590
8. Arizona St.	10-0-0	432
9. Colorado	8-2-0	326
10. Penn St.	8-2-0	308
11. Arizona	8-1-0	222
12. Florida	8-2-0	196

Jenkins Goes To Red Sox

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox, who missed winning the World Series by one game last season, have acquired veteran pitcher Ferguson Jenkins, a righthander with a habit of winning 20 or more games a year.

The Red Sox announced early today that they acquired Jenkins, a Cy Young award winner in 1971, from Texas in a deal that sent outfielder Juan Beniquez, and pitcher Steve Barr to the Rangers.

The Red Sox also tossed in a minor league prospect to be named later and an estimated $250,000 for Jenkins, who has won more than 20 games per season from 1967 through 1974.

Jenkins had a 17-18 record last season, his second with the Rangers. The Rangers acquired Jenkins from the Chicago Cubs, where he joined the majors as a rookie in 1960.

The Chatham, Ontario, native had 157 strikeouts last season while giving up just 56 walks. He surrendered 40 home runs, but went the distance 22 out of 37 games.

He and Bob Lemon are the only two righthanders since 1920 to win as many as 20 games in seven seasons.

Jenkins, 32, joins righthanders Luis Tiant, Rick Wise and Reggie Cleveland on the Boston pitching staff, and with lefthanders Bill Lee and Roger Moret, should give the Red Sox good pitching depth.

Benequiz, who joined Boston in 1971 but spent a couple of seasons in the minors, is leaving a team rich in outfield talent. He faced stiff competition from rookie sensations Fred Lynn and Jim Rice, from veterans Carl Yastrzemski and Dwight Evans, and from Bernie Carbo and Rick Miller.

Last season he batted .291 with 2 homers and 17 RBI. He was used sparingly in the World Series, going 1-8 for .125.

Both Osborne and Coach Barry Switzer of Oklahoma have criticized Bryant, charging he was bypassing their teams in favor of 11th-ranked Penn State. The Sugar Bowl, however, denied Bryant had applied pressure to bypass the Big Eight powers.

Seeks New Contract

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Basketball coach Bill Foster is negotiating his contract in view of the probation recently placed on Clemson by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Because of recruiting violations committed before Foster became coach, Clemson has been limited to a maximum of 10 scholarship players in three years. "It's not the same job that I took when I came here," he says.

Foster, former coach at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, succeeded Bates Locke who resigned at the end of last season.

The NCAA has placed Clemson on three years probation for recruiting irregularities committed while Locke was coach.

"I'm not looking for an insurance policy," Foster said. "I've never had a loser and I don't think I'll have one this year."

Foster said he never expected Clemson to be punished as severely as it was. "If I had known that, I would have thought again before taking the job," he said.

New Nielsen Figures Indicate Gain In TV-Watching At Home

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — TV folks are starting to breathe easier. The Nielsen figures for a thing called HUT, homes using television, finally have shown a wee gain in evening viewing for the first time this season.

TV sets in 1,200 homes. They provide immediate data on set usage and what programs are being watched and when. But they don't record the number of viewers at set-side.

That's done in diaries kept by 2,300 unmeted households, with a third of the homes filling in the diaries one week, another third the next week and so on, according to Nielsen.

It says it gets the diaries about 12 days after a given reporting period. The diaries say who and how many in each home watched which program and when. From this also comes data on the viewers' sexes, ages and other important demographic material.

Because the combined diary and meter figures showed set usage down and viewership slightly up early this season, the networks sent their experts to Nielsen two weeks ago to ask what gives.

Developing A Program Nixon Says Americans Need To Regain Faith

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon says American lives may have to be threatened by war to rekindle Americans' belief in the United States and in the country's need for strength.

In his most extensive remarks since he was forced from office by the Watergate scandal, Nixon told the Ladies Home Journal, "We are so cynical, so disbelieving — it may take the shock of an invasion in Korea or in Thailand. If American lives are threatened, we may regain our sense of belief in our country and our need for strength."

Businessman-author William M. Fine conducted the unpaid, copyrighted interview for the Journal in May at Nixon's home in San Clemente, Calif.

Blames Old Viewpoints

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Carter Heyward, one of 11 women whose ordination as priests caused a furor among Episcopalians, says women were discriminated against because of an antifeminist interpretation of the Bible.

Nixon noted the potential peril in a dispirited America: "We are a compromised country at the moment. The Communist countries don't need any troops or military acts right now."

"They can just keep adding pressure points and take strategic advantage in the Far East and Middle East. Japan will be questioning its position regularly. We gave the Philippines their independence too soon, I fear."

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Conditions lighten now and you will be able to think out a logical plan. Put it into action. You can state your views to others so they understand them and they will join forces with you for a successful project.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get your finest capabilities before bigwigs who can help you capitalize on them. Secure data needed for successful planning.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You now hit on a good idea which can add appreciably to your present prosperity so you don't have to work so hard.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Decide what you personally want and then go after your aims in a positive way. Contact good friends; make new ones.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan advancement with experts in a.m. Any group affairs are good for you to express yourself more forcibly.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Join with congenials for amusements in spare time. Making new contacts is relatively easy and they can be helpful.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Contact bigwigs who are able to help you further your career in the right direction. Handle credit matters wisely.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get ahead now by going into new avenues of expression more suited to your particular mentality, talents. Expand.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Follow hunches which are good now and you can become more successful. Close tie views you favorably. Be kind.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Contact allies and reach a fine agreement. Get into some important public work that can add to prestige. Improve community standing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get all that work out that will make a fine impression on higher-ups and gain the goodwill of fellow workers.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) In early a.m., plan for recreation later with congenials, and then get work done. Show special courtesy to loved one.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can handle basic matters well now, so make projects work that have been difficult before. Use tact to remove home tensions.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be a dynamic young person who will require more sleep than most because of the nervous energy that is used up early in life and also will need the right kind of diet. Educate along lines for career that will require both logical reasoning and practical application, strength of mind and body. Fine ability at coming up with right answers to problems. Religion and sports a must here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

West led his top heart, declarer called for dummy's queen and East smirked as he played the king: "Cover an honor with an honor." Declarer graciously allowed

Small Quantity Made Available

NEW YORK (UPI) — Shoppers looking for small amounts of packaged produce now have the law on their side. An amendment to the New York State Agriculture and Markets law requires merchants to post a sign conspicuously announcing that smaller quantities of fresh fruits and vegetables are available upon request. The law defines small quantity as an amount, by weight or volume, that is smaller than the amount offered for prepackaged sale.

East's problem was that he heard the wrong drummer. The advice he should have hearkened to was: "Take time to work out the play of the hand before you commit yourself to the first trick."

From West's opening lead, it is obvious that declarer holds A-10-9 in hearts, and therefore has two tricks in the suit. Thus, it costs East nothing to play low on the first heart. On the contrary, that play may gain by keeping open lines of communication between the defenders.

Observe the effect of this play. Dummy's queen wins the first trick and declarer loses a club to West. But now West still has a heart to return, and East can force out declarer's remaining stopper. Sooner or later he must gain the lead with the ace of clubs, and he will be able to cash his heart tricks for a two-trick set.

Back To The Grass Roots

By KENNETH L. WHITING
Associated Press Writer
KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — The Malaysian government has launched a grass-roots campaign to enroll its citizens in a fight against Communist subversion. The aim is to monitor every dwelling in this nation of 12 million people.

Called "rukun tetangga" — Malay for community self-reliance — the campaign got under way in August under the direct supervision of Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak's office.

Razak says it "has great significance in the context of community and national development in which the people themselves will play the main role in safeguarding peace and security."

No able-bodied male between 18 and 55 may get out of the emergency measure.

At the village level every 10 homes form a unit under a "residence head." Every member of a household older than 14 is responsible for the activities of his family. The family will be held jointly responsible if one member strays from the straight and narrow.

Ten residence heads report to a "village sector head" who in turn represents their areas at the "village peace and development center." Whole communities are to be held responsible for the misdeeds of individual families, informed sources said.

The organizational structure varies slightly in cities but the idea is the same — involve people at the grass roots in guarding their neighborhoods and keeping track of strangers.

About 20 units have been formed so far. Hundreds are expected to be on duty within a year.

Local sultans, but not their relatives; those with diplomatic immunity, and the blind and mentally disabled are excused. The regulations don't exclude women but they are not expected to be enrolled, an official said.

Men who try to avoid duty face fines the equivalent of $4,000 or three years in prison or both.

The first rukun tetangga was organized in Kuala Lumpur's Kampong Kasipillay, a 3½-square-mile district with about 7,000 residents, mostly Indians and Chinese and a few Malays.

Dr. M. Jayaraman, head of the unit, said his men uncovered no Communist rebels but that petty thefts decreased by 60 per cent and there have been no major crimes since round-the-clock patrolling started.

The men are scheduled to be on duty not more than twice a month, once for a day tour and once at night. Each tour lasts four hours. Those who draw night assignments are to get the next day off from their jobs with pay whether in private enterprise or government bodies.

They wear red arm bands with the white letters R.K. and carry nightsticks, flashlights and whistles. None is armed.

While on patrol, the men are deemed police officers with rank and powers of constable.

Rukun tetangga was put together in the face of a revived Communist insurgency which a few weeks ago added urban guerrilla warfare to its older jungle ambush tactics.

Engineers To Meet Thursday

The Eastern Carolina chapter of Professional Engineers of North Carolina (PENC) will have its monthly meeting Thursday at 6:30 p.m. at the Beef Barn restaurant.

The guest speaker is Larkin Little, secretary and loan officer of Home Savings and Loan Association. He will present a series of slides on the tax-sheltered individual retirement account made possible by the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974.

Guy H. Cheek, P.E., president of PENC, will also attend the meeting as a guest of the Eastern chapter.

All members are urged to attend. Guests are invited to attend.

Urges Support For 'Know-How' Will Help Iran Farm Program

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz says the United States has agreed to extend high-level technical assistance to Iran to improve farm production.

Butz, who met with Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi on Sunday, is touring Iran and Israel after attending the conference in Rome of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

The November 25 vote, if favorable, will extend the program for six years.

By giving their approval to the program, Sledge said that all users of feed and fertilizer agree to assess themselves a nickel on each ton of feed and fertilizer they buy. The funds will be used to support agricultural education, research and extension at North Carolina State University.

Competition In Poetry Opened

RALEIGH—The Peace College literary magazine "Prism" and the North Carolina Arts Council jointly announce the fifth annual poetry competition for North Carolina senior high school students.

Winning poems will be published in the 1976 issue of "Emerging Voices," Peace College, Raleigh, N.C. 27604.

Cash prizes will be awarded for the three most outstanding poems in the sophomore, junior and senior divisions. First prize is $15; second, $10; and third, $5. All other poems accepted for publication will be designated special-merit winners.

The competition is open to any student currently enrolled in the tenth, eleventh or twelfth grade in a North Carolina high school.

Each student may submit two poems, each of which should be no more than 20 lines in length. Each poem should be typewritten in triplicate on standard-sized paper. The author's name should not appear on the poem but on a separate page listing name, address, high school class, teacher's name, and name and address of school.

For return of poems and critical comment from a professional writer, a stamped, self-addressed envelope should be enclosed.

This year special awards will be available for poems written in observance of the nation's bicentennial. Five special awards will be presented: a top award of $15 and four awards of $10 each.

The rules for submitting poems in the bicentennial awards program are the
