

McGovern Insists Stand On Integration, Busing

By DON McLEOD
AP Political Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Democrats look like they have overcome the bitter internal reform feud of recent years, but they proved here over the weekend that they have plenty of fight left.

The bombshell of a three-day issues conference came Sunday when George McGovern said the party will have to stand firm on integration and busing and he is ready to make another presidential bid if the other candidates don't hold up.

"I do not want a great political party which nearly lost its soul in Vietnam to sell its soul on the issue of busing," McGovern told a cheering audience at the National Democratic Issues Conference.

"Busing is one way to pay the bill for the ancient regime of racism," McGovern said. "There may be other ways, but none of them will be painless or priceless."

"We cannot hide from it, or lie about it, or postpone it or pretend that we do not hear or see," he said.

What's more, McGovern said the party should not nominate anyone for President next year "who even before he takes it, has perjured the oath ... to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution."

"All of us should warn any candidate who turns to the tactics of racial division and fear that in conscience we cannot support him even if he is a nominee," McGovern said.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, an announced candidate for the nomination, had just delivered a speech in which he said "I have always been opposed to forced school busing."

McGovern said he has no immediate plans to run himself, but is positioning for a possible second presidential nomination in the event that other candidates go soft on the issues, including busing, and the Democratic convention next year deadlocks.

"If the other candidates do not address the whole range of major issues I'm concerned about and if no other candidate emerges as a leading contender," he said later at a news conference, "I might consider, at some later point, getting in."

Asked if he thought his strong defense of busing, particularly in a city where it is such a volatile issue, might redefine the party, McGovern said, "No, I don't."

"The people who have talked the most about busing ... the people who are using it to inflame, are on the other side of the issue," he said. "It is not radical or divisive to be for the rule of law."

Before McGovern's explosive entry, the conference had been relatively mild except for an antibusing demonstration outside the hall Saturday. In marked contrast to their recent history, the Democrats were talking about political issues instead of cutting each other up over rules and party reform.

The one issue that was emerging strongest before the busing outburst was the economy, with speakers almost universally calling it the No. 1 weapon against Republicans next year.

Although the conference was convened by the Democratic Forum, a liberal-oriented group, the 2,000 or so present covered a wide range of party interest and philosophy, and the meeting attracted seven of the party's 10 announced presidential candidates.

'Political Interference' Cited By N.C. Patrolmen

CHARLOTTE (AP) North Carolina Highway Patrolmen say the Patrol is suffering from serious morale problems because of political interference in the organization's work, according to recent interviews with a number of troopers.

In anonymous interviews with The Charlotte Observer 29 present and former Patrol employees said the patrol's work is hampered because of inconsistent application of rules, faulty equipment, and high-level political influence.

State secretary of transportation Jacob Alexander says he is unaware of many of the complaints voiced by the troopers, and the Patrol's commander said morale among his men has improved greatly during the past two years.

Patrol commander Col. E. W. Jones said since he took over the Patrol in Sept., 1973 the morale of his men had gone up 75 per cent.

None of the 29 current and former troopers interviewed by the newspaper would allow his name to be used.

But in the first two parts of the three part series, published in Sunday's and Monday's editions of the Observer, patrolmen detailed what they consider instances of misconduct by superiors.

Among complaints voiced by the men were: -A charge that a trooper was hired on instructions of top gubernatorial aide Gene Anderson in spite of the fact the man had a juvenile criminal record.

-A charge that troopers were used as errand boys by top level state officials, including one instance of having to deliver Gov. Jim Holshouser's golf shoes from Asheville to Raleigh.

-An allegation that one high-ranking patrol officer received a promotion after he organized a political fundraising campaign among troopers in violation of state law and patrol policy.

But the troopers said in interviews that two lower-ranking men involved in the same campaign later received disciplinary transfers.

-Complaints from some troopers that inadequate communications could lead to additional risks for individual patrolmen on assignment.

Troopers interviewed also said they were often forced to buy ammunition out of their own pockets.

And several said the Patrol's higher-ups have put into effect a quota system for arrests, and that troopers who don't meet their monthly quotas can be suspended without pay.

The Patrol denies any quota system exists for arrests.

In Monday's editions the newspaper reported that patrolmen who arrested prominent citizens of a Piedmont town for drunken driving after an upper crust party were sharply reprimanded by their superiors.

The patrolmen declined to name the town, saying that information would lead superiors to guess at their identities, but said they had been issued strict orders not to enter the town again without clearing their actions first with superior officers.

Transportation secretary Alexander said in the only instance he had heard of where such a case occurred—in his native Rowan County—he had the order rescinded.

And Alexander promised to look into the alleged hiring of a trooper with a criminal record, which happened before he became civilian boss of the Patrol

Meeting President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Daniel Patrick Moynihan went to the White House today for a talk with President Ford that was expected to influence his decision on whether to resign as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Newsman spotted Moynihan, who has been at the United Nations less than five months, strolling around the White House grounds with Leonard Garment, a friend who served as a White House lawyer during President Richard M. Nixon's administration and is now a member of the U.S. delegation to the United Nations.

The ambassador said he would have nothing to say in advance of his session with Ford and explained that he and Garment "have been just walking around." Garment is no longer at the White House. No explanation was given for his presence with the ambassador.

Diplomatic sources said Moynihan was ready to resign Friday, but Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Ford's chief of staff, Richard Bruce Cheney, talked him out of it.

Vote Tuesday

RALEIGH (AP)—Farmers and other fertilizer users in North Carolina will vote Tuesday on whether to continue assessing themselves five cents a ton under the "Nickels for Know How" program.

The vote will be on a six-year assessment. If it is approved, it will put an average of $170,000 a year into the Agriculture Foundation at North Carolina State University for agricultural research and education.

Postal Pinch

WASHINGTON (AP) — If current efforts to cut the U.S. Postal Service's almost $7-million-a-day deficit do not succeed, the agency may halt Saturday deliveries or curtail special delivery service, a spokesman says.

The spokesman said Sunday that those cutbacks may come if a program of reduced spending — that so far this year has meant the loss of about 7,000 postal positions through attrition — is not successful.

He quoted earlier statements by Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar that new curtailments, "might have to be considered if we can't turn it around with other economy measures."

New Explosions Of Fighting In Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Moslem and Christian militiamen battled in much of Beirut today with mortars, rockets and heavy machine guns in a large-scale renewal of Lebanon's civil war.

Police reported more than 80 persons killed and 150 wounded since a three-week-old ceasefire collapsed in a new explosion of fighting over the weekend.

Security forces huddled on the floor of the main police station on Martyrs' Square, once the commercial center of the Middle East, while gunmen from both Moslem and Christian street gangs peppered the area with machine-gun fire.

"Bullets are raining on the station from every direction," one policeman reported.

Heavy firing also was reported in six suburbs.

Premier Rashid Karami called an emergency meeting of his reconciliation committee on which all major factions are represented. But the meeting broke up in disagreement within an hour.

Interior Minister Camille Chamoun, one of the leading Christians, and Kamal Junblatt, a prominent leader of the leftist Moslems, didn't even come to the session.

Karami on Saturday night announced another cease-fire, the 13th in the eight months of street warfare. But there was fighting Sunday in all parts of the city except one seaside residential area and the fashionable Hamra shopping district.

Fighting was reported in two other cities Sunday.

A police radio call said 500 Moslem militiamen were attacking the town hall in the Bekaa Valley town of Baalbek, 40 miles northeast of Beirut. Fighting was also reported in the northern city of Tripoli but there was no immediate word on casualties in either city.

"The cease-fire never even got off the ground, not for a minute," one policeman said. "Each armed group is acting on its own, and security forces are unable to exercise any control anywhere."

The security forces have given up all pretense of intervention between the warring street gangs. Armored personnel carriers and tanks stayed in the shrinking safe zone and moved back when gunfire came close.

Sonoco Plant Is Formally Opened Today

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
WINTERVILLE — Formal dedication and opening ceremonies were held this morning at Sonoco Products Company's new Composite Can Division plant east of here.

Charles W. Coker Jr., Sonoco Products Co. president, headed the list of officials on hand for the opening.

The large gathering included company officials from the Hartsville, S. C. corporate headquarters of Sonoco as well as state representatives.

The plant, one of four in North Carolina, produces composite cans for Pringle's Potato Chips, a product of The Procter & Gamble Co., which has a facility in Greenville.

Plant manager Wesley A. Haynes welcomed the gathering on behalf of Sonoco and Sparky McCaskill, president of the Winterville Development Association and substituting for Winterville Mayor Walter Dail, officially welcomed the Composite Can Division to the community and county.

Remarks were also made by Bob C. Goforth, chief of industrial development for the state, Donald R. Russell, vice president-paper and packaging for Sonoco Products Co., and Coker, who began the can division some 12 years ago.

Russell said that the local plant has the production capability of in excess of 200 million composite cans annually. He noted that the plant will operate on a production-prompt shipment arrangement.

The officials took part in the planting of a tree on the plant grounds commemorating the formal opening. Following the planting ceremony, guests were given a plant tour and saw the production line in operation.

Plans for the location of the 45,800 square-foot facility here were announced in January of this year with Sult Construction Co. as the general contractor.

The plant, located on a 12-acre site, was completed in early summer and initial production began in July.

Sonoco Products Co. had net sales of $141,066,759 for the nine months ended Sept. 28 with net income for the period totaling $10,270,908.

Sonoco has 38 plants from coast to coast and has subsidiary companies in Canada, Mexico, Latin America and the United States.

Wife To Collect Nobel Prize

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Mrs. Yelena Sakharov, wife of Soviet physicist Andrei Sakharov, will go to Norway to receive her husband's Nobel Peace Prize, according to Mrs. Sakharov's friends.

The Soviet government refused to grant Sakharov an exit visa so he could attend the Dec. 10 ceremony in Oslo, saying he had "a knowledge of state secrets."

Mrs. Sakharov, in Italy for eye surgery, decided to accept the prize for her husband after talking with him by telephone, her friends said Sunday. She reportedly will be accompanied by several Italian companions.

HOTLINE

752-1336

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

CLOTHES COLLECTORS

Hotline has received a number of responses to its inquiry about groups which collect clothes to pass on to those who need them.

1. The Salvation Army, whose Citadel and office are located on the Farmville Highway just beyond the West End intersection, accept clothes (and also household goods) here and at a drop-off house in the Pitt Plaza Parking lot.

2. The Greenville Moose Lodge accepts donations of clothes and gives them to anyone who presents verification of need from an agency such as Social Services.

3. Pandora's Box, located in a store building at 1123 S. Evans Street, is a service of the Women of the Presbyterian Church. Clothing donations are accepted and then the clothes are sold at nominal prices, with the proceeds being used for benevolent causes. The store is open Friday and Saturday mornings.

4. The Pitt County Information Center collects clothes for specific families with whom it is working. Anyone wishing to donate clothes may call the Center, 752-1111, and inquire as to what is needed, since there is no room for extensive storage.

5. The Pitt County Schools social workers need clothes for school children, many of whom are adult-sized. These may be taken to the Media Resource Center, located in a white cinder block building beside W. H. Robinson school in Winterville.

6. The King's Daughters collect clothes for Indian children. Contact Mrs. Cora Powell in Greenville.

7. St. James United Methodist Church collects clothes for the United Committee for Overseas Relief, which picks up here in February and September. Donations may be left at the church office. Donors are asked to also contribute 10 cents for each pounds of clothing to defray mailing costs.

Coastal Research Awards Received By ECU Students

Research grants have been awarded to ten graduate students at ECU by the ECU Institute for Coastal and Marine Resources.

Biology graduate students Kurt Getsinger and Anthony Hall will study the effects of the herbicide 2,4-D on the nuisance weed Eurasian watermilfoil which clogs Kitty Hawk Bay.

Edward Proffitt, also a graduate student in biology, has been funded to model the flow of ocean-derived salts within a maritime forest ecosystem on Bogue Banks.

Graduate biologist Cynthia Blanck will investigate the usefulness of baldcypress fringes as an index of erosion along estuaries. Dr. Vincent J. Bellis of the ECU biology faculty is sponsor of her project and Proffitt's maritime forest project.

Biology Professors Graham J. Davis and Mark M. Brinson are sponsoring the Getsinger-Hall watermilfoil study.

Graduate geologists Ronald Crowson and Stephen Benton will work with Dr. Stanley R. Riggs. Crowson's project will involve study of submarine rock exposures offshore of Onslow and West Onslow Beaches.

Benton will investigate the evolution of a salt marsh on Roanoke Island through the Holocene sea level rise.

Scott Hardaway, also a graduate student in geology, will study the geologic history of the Blounts Bay estuarine system, under the sponsorship of Dr. Michael O'Connor of the geology faculty.

Carl Bailey of Greenville, a graduate student in geography, and Daniel Kornegay, a graduate student in biology, will investigate the relationship between proteolytic bacteria in sediment and sediment composition in the North Creek embayment.

The faculty sponsors will be Dr. Wendall Allen of the ECU biology faculty, and Dr. Richard A. Stephenson, director of the ECU Institute for Coastal and Marine Resources.

Sue Garner Willis, a graduate student in history, will prepare a history of the fishing industry in Carteret County, under the direction of Dr. William N. Still of the ECU Department of History.

Each student will receive about $2,000 in research funding, and may submit the resulting research report for the Empire Award for significant contribution to coastal marine research.

A certificate and cash award is made each year through a fund established by the Empire Brush Company of Greenville.

Thanksgiving Services Set

The Community Thanksgiving Service, sponsored by the Greenville Ministerial Association, will be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church, located on the corner of Elm and 14th Streets.

The Rev. John N. Miller, special services chairman, extending an invitation on behalf of the association, stated, "We want this truly to be a Thanksgiving worship at which everyone in our city will feel welcome."

Leaders participating in the service include clergy and lay persons, Miller reported. They are: Rev. Richard R. Gammon, host pastor; Miss Bet Yancey, Litany of Thanksgiving; Dr.

Bramy Resnik and Mrs. Mary Anne Mayo, Scripture lessons.

Also Rev. O'Kelly Lawson, sermon; Rev. Gordon Conklin, Thanksgiving prayers; and Dr. Robert Irwin, organist. An offering will be received, of which the Ministerial Association has voted that one-fourth will go to the Yokefellow Prison Ministry at nearby Maury, and three-fourths to Church World Service, a cooperative relief agency to aid the hungry abroad.

In closing, Miller pointed out that the U.S. Congress recently passed a resolution calling on Americans to observe Monday, Nov. 24, as a national day of fasting and to give the money which would have been spent on food to the relief agency of their choice.

Two Wrecks On Sunday

An estimated $1,550 property damage resulted from two collisions investigated by Greenville Police Sunday.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 1:35 p.m. collision on Greenville Boulevard 50 feet East of the Charles Street intersection.

Drivers involved in that collision were identified as Robert Absalom Edwards of Snow Hill and Patricia Jacque Mills of 200 Verdant St.

Police, who made no charges, estimated damage at $600 to the Edwards car and $250 to the Mills auto.

Lorenzo Evans of Route 1, Winterville, was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of an 11:03 a.m. mishap on Charles Street, 450 feet North of the 14th Street intersection.

Investigators reported the Evans car collided with an auto operated by Jackie Earl James of 2103 Southview Dr. causing an estimated $400 damage to the James car and $300 damage to the Evans vehicle.

Chowan Bridge Hit By Barge

EDENTON, N.C. (AP) — A barge broke loose Sunday night and collided with the Chowan River bridge on U.S. 17 about seven miles west of here, the North Carolina Highway Patrol said.

There apparently were no injuries, authorities said today. Traffic has been limited to one lane on the bridge and an inspection team from the state Department of Transportation was due to arrive at the bridge site today to determine the amount of damage.

Further details were not immediately available.

Greenville Moose Mark 25th Anniversary During Weekend

A wet and cold Sunday afternoon failed to chill the 25th anniversary celebration for Greenville Lodge 885, Loyal Order of Moose.

State and district officers were on hand for the occasion, as was Past Supreme Governor James Rivers of Cordele, Georgia, and a large number of fraternal members . . . many accompanied by family members.

A large anniversary class of new members was enrolled in honor of Leon Smith, Jr., who, as a charter member and for 25 years an active worker in behalf of the Greenville lodge shared in the weekend's accolades.

Secretary E. M. Baldree, in presenting a life membership to Smith, told the assemblage that Smith had served on every committee as well as undertaking special projects during his quarter century of building an organization that has earned statewide honors and national honors in the Moose domain. "We could not have picked a more deserving man than the one we honor on this anniversary," concluded

Baldree.

The new members were welcomed into the fraternity by State Director Nander Kozmo and Past Supreme Governor Rivers.

Rivers' informal talk stressed the roles of Mooseheart and Moosehaven in the everyday lives of the Moose and their importance to children of the fraternity and the elderly members who reached a point of needing a home and care.

Earlier, Lodge Governor James Fleming observed he was surrounded by people who made Greenville lodge what it is today, that it was built not by Moose, but by loyal Moose. He said Smith was one of those.

State Director Kozmo assured the new members they had a longtime supporter of the fraternity in Baldree, who came to Greenville in 1958, and has served the highest offices of the state association, the highest elective office in the 2nd degree of the Order, and was currently on the policy-making board for Moosehaven.

Visitors introduced, included Edw. Stallings of the Snow Hill Lodge and Eastern vice president of the State Ass'n; Noah Baker, of Tarboro, past president of the Ass'n; Gordon Brunson of Rocky Mount, another past president; District president Fred Jarvis of Jacksonville; and J. D. Smith, of New Port, who, 25 years ago "planted the acorn" among five Greenville men (among them Smith) which grew into the large and prospering lodge of today.

Saturday evening's anniversary celebration featured a social hour, dinner and dance for candidates to be enrolled, their sponsors, officers, official visitors, and their ladies.

The newly enrolled members are: Robert G. Brice, Ransom Breedlove Jr., Sidney Bullard, Rosario Cappello Jr., James T. Dodson, Fred T. Edwards, Ronald G. Edwards, Patrick S. Finnigan, Jimmy B. Galloway, Perry Thomas Greene, Earl B. Guy, Marlon Haddock,

McKinney, Robert W. McKinney, J. L. McLean, Eddie Martin, Lloyd B. Patrick, J. Daniel Pickett, S. Kevin Price, Ronald W. Read, John S. Robinson, Steve Russell, Robert L. Sues, R. G. Tatum, Jr., William Turner, Sam Viverette, Jimmy L. Walls, Don C. Williams, Jerry E. Willis and Calvin Woodard Jr. Four candidates present from Washington Lodge 1800 were also enrolled into the fraternity.

Merit Award For Chapter

The East Carolina University chapter of Phi Mu Alpha honor society in music is one of 35 campus chapters in the nation selected to receive the Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia Triennial Province Merit Award.

The award consists of a minimum scholarship grant of $200 to be given an outstanding student in ECU's School of Music, and was presented at the recent Phi Mu Alpha regional convention in Atlanta.

Chapters selected for the awards were chosen on the basis of excellence during the triennium 1972-75 in such areas as musical achievement, chapter operations, fraternal tradition, alumni relations, province interaction, membership development and special projects.

Faculty advisor for ECU's Zeta Psi chapter is Robert Hause, conductor of the ECU Symphony Orchestra. Provincial governor is Dr. Charles Stevens, associate dean of the ECU School of Music.

The awards originate from the Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia Foundation, whose national headquarters are in Evansville, Ind.

Philippine Women Write Decree Of Independence

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN
Associated Press Writer
MANILA (AP) — Although Philippine women have long been recognized as Asia's most emancipated, some lawyers here have drawn up for President Ferdinand E. Marcos a martial law decree that is virtually a female declaration of independence.

Designed to provide women with legal equality with males, the decree — still to be proclaimed officially — would legalize divorce, an action that has made it the subject of hot controversy in this land where 85 per cent of the 42 million people claim to be Roman Catholics.

In giving women equality, the decree would also give the men some unusual advantages.

Under its provisions, fathers have the same right to paternity leave as their wives have to maternity leave.

A man can now claim legally he has been raped — although the decree is vague about how he proves the charge.

If a husband wishes, under the new decree's provisions he can adopt his wife's name at marriage; she can keep her maiden name.

There are a few male disadvantages, too.

The decree extends the "unwritten law" to women as well as to men.

The decree provides virtually no punishment if a woman kills in outrage when she catches her husband in the act with a lover — a privilege once extended only to the male.

The lone penalty provided is exile, which attorney Yolanda Javellara, one of the decree's creators, said is rarely imposed.

A man, as well as a woman, can be arrested for prostitution under the new decree draft.

The decree bans discrimination in wages for women doing jobs similar to men's. It also seeks to eliminate the Spanish-style civil law which gave males a firm hold over the lives of their wives and unmarried female relatives.

Under the draft, single women over 21 have the legal right to "qualify for all acts of civil life," a circumstance not allowed under present law.

As a result, wives and single women often could not make decisions about their own property. Legally, husbands must give consent before their wives can accept gifts from other persons.

Under the draft decree, a wife has legal equality with her husband in managing their conjugal property. She also has the right to retain the property she brings into marriage instead of turning it over to her husband for management.

Attorney Javellara said the draft — which President Marcos has not yet seen — has been turned over to a National Commission on the Role of Women, a body created for International Women's Year in 1975. But she and other attorneys have been working on the draft for more than a year. Some of its provisions have already been placed in a newly promulgated labor code. Marcos rules the Philippines by decree under martial law.

She said the National Commission has suggested splitting the decree into several to allow for proclamation of most provisions by the end of the year. Among the provisions to be split off are those permitting divorce, now banned here.

Attorney Javellara said the divorce provisions were expected to strike at the double standard of morality.

She said under present laws, a husband can seek legal separation if he can prove his wife committed adultery, while the wife must prove the more difficult concubinage — her husband actually living for some time with another woman — before she can get a legal separation.

The provision has already aroused opposition from the Roman Catholic Church, which is suggesting the state follow its policy and permit easier annulment of marriage.

Wife Enjoys Sitting Beside Her Hubby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't throw this in the wastebasket. I must have an answer.

Whenever my husband and I are invited out for dinner, it seems to be the rule that everyone should sit by someone else's spouse. If I ask to sit beside mine, I'm accused of being jealous or possessive.

Abby, I don't go out to dinner very often, so it's a special occasion to me, and I like to have my man near me. Sitting next to a stranger at dinner doesn't make me feel very romantic after I get home.

What is your opinion? These people are mostly my husband's business associates.

LONESOME

DEAR LONESOME: Most married people enjoy dinner conversation with someone other than their own spouses. That's the object of socializing. Perhaps you are slightly jealous, possessive or insecure. If so, admit it, and try to overcome it.

How does your husband feel about sitting next to a stranger at dinner? If he enjoys it, I suggest that you learn to enjoy it, too.

DEAR ABBY: This problem is making me physically ill. We live in the suburbs, and my husband works in the city. A bar-type restaurant recently opened near Vic's office that features a "go-go lunch"—complete with nude girls who dance and wait on tables. Vic and several men in his department lunch there daily now.

I am very much upset over this, and Vic knows it, but he makes light of it. He's a hot-blooded Latin, and just the thought of his being aroused by naked girls every day is more than I can bear.

How should I handle this? I've considered meeting him in town for lunches, but the trains don't run at the proper times. Also, I am tied down with small children.

PHILADELPHIA WIFE

DEAR PHILLY: What are your alternatives? Ordering your husband to quit going there for lunch? Sorry, but he's a big boy, and you aren't his mother.

I seriously doubt that the girls are nude. (Topless, maybe, but hardly naked at lunchtime.) After the novelty wears off—and it will—all that nudity will become about as exciting as looking at a lot of dressed turkeys hanging in a butcher-shop window!

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my nose! I hate it.

I am 18 and have a fairly good personality and lots of friends especially at church. But everybody seems to notice my nose, and I think it's high time I did something about it.

What really hurts, Abby, is that there's this guy who goes to my church. I like him a lot, but because of my nose he calls me "747."

If you could see my nose, you'd know what I mean. Where can I find a plastic surgeon who wouldn't charge me a fortune? Even the pastor, in a very nice way, told me I had a nose problem. Help!

"747"

DEAR "747": If you are convinced that you'll never land a guy with that 747, ask your family doctor if he knows a plastic surgeon who would operate now, and let you make monthly payments.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Turkey Is
An economical food.

A source of lean meat.

Convenient and delicious.

Select A Turkey

Sized to meet serving needs.

Protected by an intact plastic bag.

That is young or mature and of either sex.

That needs basting or is self-basting.

Frozen or non-frozen.

Nonstuffed or prestuffed.

With desirable cooking aids: pop-up timer, roast in the bag, turkey lift, etc.

Inspected for wholesomeness.

Officially graded—A, etc.

Turkey Meat Quality Is Protected

When a frozen turkey is thawed in cool temperatures (40 deg. F. or below) before roasting.

When meat surface temperature is 55 deg. or below.

When roasted immediately after thawing.

When nonfrozen turkeys are roasted within 3 to 4 days.

Thaw The Frozen Turkey

In its unopened plastic bag at refrigerated temperatures (40 deg. F. or below). NOTE: A one stop method for prestuffed, frozen turkeys. A maximum of three days may be required to complete the thaw.

In unopened plastic bag placed in a deep container under cold running water for up to six hours. This method for non-stuffed frozen turkeys only.

Size of frozen turkey, air and water temperatures and insulation created by plastic bag influences the rate of thaw.

To Prepare Turkey For Roasting

Use thoroughly washed and clean hands, equipment (utensils) and working surfaces.

Remove intact plastic bag.

Remove neck from the body cavity.

Remove heart, liver and gizzard (giblets) from beneath neck skin in breast cavity.

Rinse the non-stuffed carcass in cold water.

Place prepared carcass in roasting pan breast side up.

Place meat thermometer in thickest area of inner thigh or breast muscle.

Roast Turkey

In a 325 deg. F. oven to either of the following temperatures:

Non-stuffed turkey—180 deg. F.

Stuffed turkey—185 deg. F. in the inner thigh so center of stuffing is 165 deg. F. Continuously, while turkey meat temperature is in the range of 50 deg. to 165 deg. F. If roasting is interrupted, a total elapsed time should never exceed 4 hours.

Rate of cooking is affected by turkey meat, temperature, amount of fat, thickness of meat, size of turkey and oven temperature. Thawed turkey roasts in a shorter time.

A Roasted Turkey

Thoroughly cooked is wholesome.

Should come in contact with thoroughly cleaned dishes, cutting surfaces, knives, etc.

Is handled only with thoroughly washed hands.

Should be refrigerated so turkey meat temperature is reduced to 55 deg. F. and below.

May be sliced and served cold or warm or heated immediately before serving.

Can be refrigerated for a maximum of 3 to 4 days or frozen for use at a later time (for up to 4 months).

Strict and close attention to these guides promotes and assures a safe food and your good health.

Fine Example Of Cooperation

A groundbreaking was held Friday for the new Contentnea Metropolitan Sewerage District plant, and construction will get underway.

The plant and pipe lines will serve the towns of Winterville, Ayden and Grifton. The lines will follow the highway rights-of-way from Winterville to Grifton. At Grifton they will go to the new plant which will be constructed on Contentnea Creek.

A district board will be responsible for the operation of the plant and lines, and the individual towns will continue to operate their own sewerage systems.

The facilities are being financed with 75 percent of the funds coming from the Environmental Protection Agency; 12.5 percent from the State Department of Environmental Management and 12.5 percent from local bonds voted by the people of the three towns.

Construction of this sewerage facility is a fine example of cooperation between the three towns involved. Each needed to improve its sewage treatment facilities, and it was more efficient to do it jointly. Winterville, Ayden and Grifton joined together and successfully planned and initiated the project. It will be of benefit to the entire southern portion of the county.

Need Soundly-Operated Transit System

The Public Transportation Commission last week met with ECU representatives last week to discuss the public transit study and its relation to the university student-financed system.

A study is soon to begin by Alan M. Voorhees and Associates on the public transportation needs. The study, to begin in January, is expected to take four months. It is financed with a $25,512 federal grant and $6,378 in local funds.

We would like to see a transit system begun as soon as possible. At the same time it should be carefully planned so that its chances of success will be optimum. We hope the planned study will point the way toward a soundly operated transit system.

Turning To Talented Child

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—More and more attention is now being turned to the talented child in the public schools.

But how do you define gifted or talented? State Department of Public Instruction officials think they may be on the way to an answer.

One of the big problems has been that truly gifted people in music, the arts, or even academics may not be able to display their gifts on standard tests or in regular classroom settings.

Often, the experts say, a language difference related to a different cultural background, short-changing in learning to read in early school years, or other causes can stifle a creative ability and keep it from emerging.

New Programs Spotted and nurtured, the creative spark could become a rare talent. Several leading school districts across the state are moving strongly in the direction of establishing vigorous programs for the gifted.

The trend now is toward a central evaluation and training center.

Regular classroom work is supplemented by frequent sessions with other students or outstanding ability in various fields to exchange ideas and encourage each other.

Still, the problem of pinpointing the potentially gifted child has remained.

A recent study for the State Board of Education by the Institute of Behavioral Research in Creativity in Salt Lake City, Utah may hold some answers.

The report, titled "The Identification of Academic, Creative and Leadership Talent from Biographical Data" holds a clue to the technique. Students at the Governor's School and the Leadership School were used to develop a test to demonstrate that biographical information can help select the gifted child.

Significant results convinced researchers there is "impressive evidence that the biographical approach could facilitate and simplify the selection . . . with generally less discrimination than current procedures."

First designed for high school use, a similar test has now been prepared for use in elementary schools.

Questions on the lengthy test (300 items) are presented in clear, simple language, avoiding technical and highly complex material.

Deep Probe

Still, the probing look at the student's lifestyles, attitudes and responses to a variety of everyday situations appears to give a picture of the child's interests and particularly curiosity.

Subjects covered include what kind of jobs interest one, self-assessments compared to other students, interest in books, music, art, and so on.

Obvious from the questions is the idea that early expressions of curiosity and interest hold a key to talent. Various questions, for instance, ask at what age you first became interested in painting, dance, music, sculpture; how old you were when you first became interested in writing; or in what makes things work, such as electric lights, a vacuum cleaner; or when you first began reading fiction.

The wealth of information gleaned from such an in-depth probing of interests, likes and dislikes, activities, and attitudes may go a long way toward helping teachers spot talented youngsters and channel them into fields, in which they can develop best, the researchers feel.

Researchers say the test can predict creativity, leadership abilities, and academic potential far better than the standard IQ tests, and is not biased against minority students.

The Great Leap Forward

WASHINGTON—The power struggle in Washington goes unabated and foreign ambassadors stationed in Washington are sending long cables back to their countries trying to explain it.

Here is one of the cables sent by a representative of the People's Republic of China who is living in D.C.

"Momentous historical events are taking place here in Washington with the opening salvo of President Ford's Great Cultural Revolution. At first it was believed that Henry Kissinger was behind the cultural revolution to bring disgrace on Defense Minister James Schlesinger. But now Kissinger is in disgrace himself and has been demoted to only one inconsequential post as Secretary of State. He has also been cited for contempt by the People's Congressional Subcommittee. Official American newspapers are predicting he will soon be sent to North Dakota to harvest grain at a state farm run by Agriculture Minister Earl Butz.

"Kissinger is now called a revisionist and counter-revolutionary by a majority of the People's Congress for advocating detente with the Soviet lackeys in the Kremlin.

"Defense Minister Schlesinger has been exiled to the John Hopkins School of International Affairs in the purge, and has been replaced by Donald Rumsfeld, a young member of the Ford clique who has been involved in a power struggle with the Kissinger loyalists for over a year.

"Rumsfeld has denied he was the instigator of the palace revolt, but his picture with Ford has been plastered on posters all over the outside walls of the Pentagon.

"Another victim of the purge was William Colby, Director of the People's

ART BUCHWALD

Central Intelligence Committee. Colby's main crime was that he publicly confessed to the People's Congress about anti-government activities committed by his cadres in the name of national security.

"He is being replaced by another Ford disciple, George Bush, formerly Chairman of the People's Republican Party. He was sent to China when the party fell into disgrace after Nixon's fall from power after the August 1974 revolution.

"The biggest shock was the demotion of President Ford's Vice President, Nelson Rockefeller, who still remains in his job, but only as a figurehead with no power.

"Rockefeller, with no dissent from Ford, was accused by conservative elements of the People's Republican Party, of being a counter-revolutionary bourgeois radical revisionist arrogant dog. The conservative faction led by Ronald Reagan, a former Governor of the province of California, threatened that unless Rockefeller and his ilk were brought to their knees, they would see that Ford was removed from the Presidency at the next People's Republican Congress in Kansas City.

INSIDE REPORT

Carter's Asset In Florida

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

ORLANDO, Fla.—The prospect of little Jimmy Carter, the former governor of Georgia, being transformed into the giant-killer who humiliates George Wallace in the Florida presidential primary is preposterous—but not quite so preposterous as it was early this year.

Indeed, even though no sane Democrat would bet a plugged nickel on Carter's humiliation of Wallace in the March 9 Democratic primary election here, events seem to be conspiring in such a way as to deliver maximum political dividends for Carter.

Most important is the fact that no other Democrat—with the inconspicuous exception of Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp, an almost invisible dark horse—has shown the slightest interest in a statewide race against Gov. Wallace of Alabama here. To the contrary, even Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, who is expected to run delegates in selected congressional districts—mainly Miami with its large pro-Jackson American-Jewish community—is not yet regarded as a serious factor except in Miami's Dade County.

Thus, almost by luck of the draw, Carter has a favored track position which other Democratic presidential candidates in years past have often striven for but seldom achieved: a virtual two-man race against Wallace and his hard-core but quite inelastic force of supporters.

In 1972 winner Wallace got less than 42 per cent of the vote in the presidential primary here, despite the highly emotional pull of an anti-busing provision on the ballot. Most Democrats and many Republican leaders here perceive Wallace at best as holding onto just about that same strength next March, with no sure way to measure whether his paralysis will hurt or help him politically. Another 42 per cent of that 1972 vote was distributed among three other candidates, each of them to the left of George Wallace: Hubert Humphrey, Jackson and Edmund Muskie.

On the far left, the strongest showing was made by Sen. George McGovern with a meager 6 per cent of the total vote cast.

Neutral Democrats doubt that Wallace will be able to pick up more than scattered votes from among the 1972 non-Wallace voters. If true, and if these same non-Wallace voters of 1972 actually go to the polls, they may well vote for the candidate who has campaigned tirelessly for their support—Jimmy Carter.

That theory is by no means ironclad. Under Florida's presidential primary election law, Secretary of State Bruce Smathers must place every probable 1976 presidential candidate on the ballot unless an affidavit of non-candidacy is filed.

That means the huge bloc of non-Wallace voters could vote for any of the 1976 candidates on the ballot, including Jackson. But since Jackson got only 13.5 per cent of the vote in 1972 despite a major campaign, it is unlikely he would get many more votes in March without a full-fledged effort.

That explains why Carter's relentless campaign here (he has been in the state 22 separate times since last Jan. 20) may pay rich dividends and why he ran away with 70 per cent of the straw vote taken last weekend at the first state convention of the long-decrepit Democratic party in 75 years.

Carter's other asset is the proximity of his home state, running some 200 miles along the north Florida border.

Postwar Georgia peanut farmer Carter talks the same language as the conservative farmers of north Florida.

No Democrat in the swollen presidential field is so low-key as Jimmy Carter, who wears a perpetual half-smile and predicts that the 1976 nominee will emerge from the primaries and not from any deadlock convention in New York City next summer.

At a coffee-and-doughnut rally in Lakeland early one morning last week, 150 local Democrats heard Carter's soft-voiced political pitch, which defies precise ideological definition. Carter combines a liberal idiom with some hard-line positions that are anathema to the left, including denial of the right to strike for public employe unions, and the death penalty for certain capital crimes.

He is campaigning to win here—although he won't admit to being an "anti-Wallace" candidate—in a two-step campaign he thinks will decide the democratic nominee next summer: first, beat Wallace in this head-to-head contest; second, win in an early non-Southern state against liberal opposition.

If Carter succeeds in step one in Florida's third-in-the-nation primary, step two will look possible, despite Carter's shadowy standing with the controlling liberal Democrats who remember him as the man who nominated Jackson for President in 1972 and who courted Wallace in 1970.

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

Sometime ago, Charles H. Brower gave a talk before the state Chamber of Commerce. An excerpt from this address follows:

"I'm going to talk quite a bit about a six-letter word. The word is square — SQUARE.

"Back in Mark Twain's day, it was one of the finest words in our language, among the top ten on any lexicographer's hit parade. You gave a man a square deal if you were honest. And you gave him a square meal when he was hungry. You stood four-square for the right, as you saw it, and square against everything else. When you got out of debt, you were square with the world. And that was when you could look your fellow man square in the eye.

"Then a lot of strange characters got hold of this honest, wholesome word, bent it all out of shape and gave it back to our children. Convicts gave it the first twist. To them a Square was an inmate who would not conform to the convict code.

Now everyone knows what a Square is. He is the man who never learned to get away with it. A Joe who volunteers when he doesn't have to. A guy who gets his kicks from trying to do something better than anyone else can. A boob who gets so lost in his work that he has to be reminded to go home. A guy who doesn't have to stop at a bar on his way to the train at night. A slob who still gets all choked up when the band plays America the Beautiful. A square, and strictly from Squaresville.

"His tribe isn't thriving too well in the current climate. He doesn't fit too neatly into the current group of angle players, corner cutters, sharpshooters and goof-offs. He doesn't want to fly now and pay later. He's burdened down with old-fashioned ideas of honesty, loyalty, courage and thrift. And he may already be on his way to extinction."

God bless the SQUARE . . . may his tribe increase!

Death Penalty Stakes

By ROBERT B. CULLEN

Associated Press Writer RALEIGH (AP) — The pain that forced U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas off the bench may be multiplied in the minds and hearts of hundreds of North Carolinians.

Douglas' departure pushed Gov. Jim Holshouser much closer to an unwanted moment of truth; it pushes 95 souls on Death Row closer to the gas chamber.

The liberal champion from Goose Creek, Wash. was one of five justices in 1972 who voted to strike down all of the existing death penalty statutes in the country because they gave arbitrary discretion to juries.

Since that time 34 states, with North Carolina in the forefront, have reimposed the death penalty in ways they feel circumvent the 1972 ruling.

The first of a new wave of death sentence appeals, that of Jesse Fowler of Raleigh, reached the high court last spring. Douglas, pale and weak, was wheeled into the courtroom to listen to the arguments. It was obvious that he wanted Fowler's sentence overturned.

His presence was crucial because the four justices appointed by Richard Nixon had said they felt the death penalty was constitutional when they dissented in the 1972 decision. The court decided to postpone a ruling on the Fowler case; it will now be heard after a new justice takes Douglas' place.

It would be foolish to predict flatly that the new justice will favor capital punishment. But it seems likely that Gerald Ford, a conservative under attack from conservatives, will name someone who is philosophically in agreement with the Nixon quartet.

That would tip the balance of the court in favor of capital punishment. It would place the lives of North Carolina's Death Row population in the hands of Gov. Holshouser, who has the power to commute their sentences to life imprisonment.

Holshouser has not used that power, he says, because he does not want to jeopardize the appeals of Fowler and the others. A lawyer working on Fowler's appeal does not completely share the governor's views.

Charles Becton of Chapel Hill said that Fowler and many other prisoners are appealing death sentences on only one ground — that the penalty is itself unconstitutional. A commutation for them would have the same effect as a successful appeal.

Some of the other condemned men are appealing on grounds that a prejudicial error gave them unfair trials. Technically, those appeals would not be jeopardized by a commutation; but Becton agreed that appellate judges tend to be more

Strength For Today

TRAVELING DIFFERENT ROUTES

We should never identify religion with one type of experience and maintain that unless people have that one type they are not good Christians. The coming of God's Holy Spirit is for some people like the bursting of a thunderstorm upon the quiet of a summer afternoon. For other people the coming of the spirit is like the dawning of a new day. There are some people who have grown up in Christian households whose spiritual growth has been such a gradual process that they can never really remember the time when they were not Christians. Spiritual progress for such consists in the gradual unfolding of God's will to their conscience.

But one thing people have in common who experience God in different ways is the desire to live the rest of their lives according to His will.

The important thing is not the manner in which we have a religious experience, but what we do as a result of it after it has come upon us.

—by Elisha Douglas

People May Not Be Convinced

By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — It is often said that in an election year the economy moves ahead, not just because of some cyclical accident but in response to efforts by the administration to make itself look good.

A month or so ago you would have found widespread support for the view the President Ford had obtained a head start on his particular program of making the economy look good. There is probably less support today.

All in all, the consensus of forecasters still is that the economy will move ahead through much of 1976, probably at an annual rate of about 7 per cent. But the public reaction to all this might be another matter.

That is, the indicators might show that the economy is improving, but that doesn't necessarily convince the people that this is so. The phenomenon has been demonstrated in the past—even today.

There is no mystery about it; the fact is that the Gross National Product can grow, but unemployment and prices can rise and consumer confidence, partially as a result, can decline.

In other words, the real world of the voter might tend to be better or worse than the world as interpreted by the leading indicators and the other statistical measurements, no matter how refined they may be.

A month or more ago a good many people subscribed to the belief that the economy was rebounding strongly from the recession. But it seems a lot of other people didn't believe it, because the confidence measurements declined.

More recent statistical information shows that maybe they had reason to be disbelievers. The indicators don't look nearly as robust as they did, and the recovery has settled back into a mixture of weakness and strength.

There is good news, make no mistake about it. The harvest is good. Housing starts, although very low, have recovered a bit. Automobile sales, though relatively low, have improved somewhat.

The U.S. payments balance reached nearly $5 billion in the third quarter, after a deficit of $1.62 billion in the quarter before. Retail sales have recovered somewhat, although they are not vigorous. And interest rates are falling.

But there are some very disturbing reports also, and if the consumer surveys are correct, the public is quite aware of them. The good news, they observe, is not without question marks. And the bad news often is grim.

Inflation seems to be growing worse. The consumer price index rose at an 8.4 per cent rate in October, up from 6 per cent in September and less than 3 per cent in August.

Unemployment is rising; it's back up to 8.6 per cent. Thousands of applicants who had withdrawn from the work force during the depths of the recession are now seeking jobs again. Many aren't finding them.

The rise in personal incomes has slowed, partially as a result of those rising prices. Householders spot this trend well before the government announces it; they discover it right in their own pocketbooks.

In statistical terms the economy will enter 1976 with a great deal of promise. Production is rising. There is more economic activity. The big-name economists are mildly confident.

But in many of those areas that touch people very personally there is some disturbing news. They understand their pocketbook far better than they understand the statisticians.

Edmisten Admits Mistakes But Sees Improvement

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP)—At the close of his first year in office, North Carolina Atty. Gen. Rufus Edmisten admits he has made some mistakes. But he thinks he has also made some improvements in the Department of Justice and is ready to build on those achievements.

Edmisten talked about his year in an interview with the Associated Press.

It started out ignominiously. He was found guilty in a Wake County District Court of failing to file North Carolina income tax returns while he was working in Washington for Sen. Sam J. Ervin. Edmisten dropped his intention to appeal after receiving pressure from Democratic leaders.

Since taking office, Edmisten has found himself embroiled in several controversies.

One has surrounded his handling of the department's probe into allegations of an illegal political slush fund at Southern Bell. Edmisten promised a vigorous investigation.

Five months later, nothing had been done. A newspaper published a story saying Edmisten told his investigators to tread lightly for fear of embarrassing Democrats who had received contributions.

Edmisten denied those reports again in his interview. Now, he says, the investigation has his department's highest priority and no one will be spared. "Why should they be? No one saved me, did they?" he asked, with an apparent reference to his own conviction.

He said the delay in launching the investigation was due to his failure to immediately reorganize his department. "If you're going to fault me, fault me for not taking the time to reorganize sooner," he said.

Another controversy surrounded Edmisten's decision to settle a milk price-fixing suit against eight North Carolina dairies started by his predecessor, Republican James Carson. The settlement was a consent order in which the dairies admitted no price-fixing but promised not to do it in the future.

The settlement came only a few months after Edmisten publicly ordered that his department's anti-trust division, which handled the suit, be "beefed up" and become more active. There were reports that Edmisten had been persuaded to settle the milk case by influential Democrats with ties to the dairy industry.

Edmisten denied them as well. He said a settlement was the best solution. "There was a basis for a case (against the dairies) but it was circumstantial. We decided that it was best to take the consent order rather than spend the money to prosecute the case and possibly lose," he said.

He also acknowledged that he and his staff had done a sloppy job of investigating the activities of the Holschouser administration's Enforcement and Theft Bureau. That investigation resulted in many allegations of illegal activity by the Republicans but no indictments.

"Maybe I should have paid more attention to these things. But I have been doing something about rapes and murders and robberies, and I think they're more important," he said.

Edmisten's anti-crime activities include making special prosecutors available to help overworked district attorneys. "We sent two of them down to Robeson County recently. They held court in a firehouse and cleaned up the docket. That's the kind of innovative approach I think we need," he said.

"I'm also proud of the priorities I've set in law enforcement. For example, I've added five extra State Bureau of Investigation drug agents. And they're not going to concern themselves with minor crimes. There have been too many agents raiding Moose Lodges. We're going after the dealers, and the hard stuff like heroine and cocaine," he said.

Edmisten is also pleased with his progress in helping consumers. He noted that two extra attorneys and an economist had been added to the staff which represents the public before the State Utilities Commission.

More attorneys have also been made available for consumer protection suits. "I believe that by the end of this year, we'll have filed more suits in that area than in all the past years combined," he said.

Edmisten said the largest company which has been sued was a Georgia firm which allegedly sold substandard anti-freeze during the shortage last winter.

There are problems still ahead for Edmisten. He must find a successor to SBI director Charles Dunn, who resigned in September to join the campaign of Democratic gubernatorial aspirant Edward O'Herron. He must bring the Southern Bell probe to a conclusion.

He must also get reelected next year. To that end, Edmisten has made more than a hundred official speeches on law enforcement around the state in the past year, he estimates, and appeared at many Democratic functions.

Smoking his ever present pipe, his round-face beaming at the party regulars, Edmisten appears to enjoy the long hours of politicking that go with cementing his position.

If he wins in 1976, he has made no secret of the fact that he will consider running for the U.S. Senate two years later.

He said he does not know whether he will have opposition for his present post. Thus far, no well-known Democrats or Republicans have announced plans to challenge him.

"This office is the hottest seat in town. There's more to it than I thought there was. We've made some mistakes and I apologize for them. We've learned from them and we're ready to go forward," he said.

Offers Theory On Cherokees

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) - A Wake Forest University professor thinks he has the answer to a question that's been puzzling Cherokee Indians for years: where did the once-vast tribe originate?

Conventional theories have the Cherokees a northern tribe, with a language similar to the Iroquois, that migrated southward until it wound up in the Southeast.

But Dr. David K. Evans, an associate professor of anthropology at Wake Forest, has reached the opposite conclusion.

Linguistic similarities and the tribes' use of blowguns as a hunting weapon point to the possibility that the Cherokees originally came from Central America or the Caribbean, Evans said.

The evidence is skimpy, he admitted, but if it is borne out it could add greatly to the knowledge about migration in the Americas before the coming of Columbus.

Evans has been taking students to Latin America for years as part of Wake Forest's overseas studies program, but by 1977 Evans said the school's research will be expanded to include the North Carolina mountains, where a Cherokee reservation is located.

In a recently written academic paper, Evans noted similarities between the North Carolina Cherokees and several Caribbean and Central American Indian tribes.

Both the Cherokee and the Bribri Indians of Costa Rica used blowguns, the paper noted, and Cherokee battle patterns are similar to those used by a people who live near the Rio Chiriqui (Cherokee in English) in Panama.

Evans says his findings are by no means conclusive, and says a lot more research is needed into the migration question.

But he added, "It's obvious there was a lot more movement between pre-Columbia people than was once thought true."

stringent about trial procedures when a man's life is at stake. A commutation might influence an appellate court to let a trial stand rather than order a new one.

Regardless of whether his legal reasoning is correct or not, Holschouser has made no bones about the fact he would just as soon let his successor decide about capital punishment.

"This is a cup I would just as soon pass," he said last week.

As a legislator, he voted against capital punishment, citing religious grounds. As governor, though, he knows it would be politically unpopular, at least in the short run, to commute all those sentences.

So he will probably let the matter work its way through the courts, hoping that the legal processes will last at least until January, 1977 when the new man will have to worry about it.

"To appease this faction Ford made Rockefeller confess to the disastrous bond crop failure of New York and ordered all photographs of Rockefeller to be taken down from the country's Post Offices.

"The Reagan Guard still does not seem to be satisfied with the purge. There is now a power struggle going on in the People's Republican Party over the leadership, which may be fought out between the factions in the province of New Hampshire. Be advised when President Ford comes to the People's Republic of China next month he will be constantly looking over his shoulder to see if Reagan is standing there.

"At the moment Ford is attacking the People's Congress and blaming it for the failure of his two-year plan. He is calling on the peasants and workers to throw out the People's Democratic Party in 1976.

"How are the masses reacting to all this? So far they have refused to support Ford mainly because every time the President tries to make a Great Leap Forward, he trips over somebody's wheelchair."

Armed Robbery Charged Youth

Reginald Earl Wilson, 17 of 605 Albemarle Ave. has been charged with armed robbery and placed under a $10,000 bond as the result of an incident here Friday.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Willie B. Jackson, 54, of Route 5, Washington, reported that two men, one armed with a pistol, had taken $35 from him about 5:30 p.m. near the intersection of Fifth and Hudson Streets after he had given the two a ride.

Wilson, Cannon said, was taken into custody in connection with the incident about 10 p.m. Friday.

Ten Die In N.C. Traffic

By The Associated Press
Ten persons died in highway accidents in North Carolina over the weekend.

The toll for the year rose to 1,302, but still was 111 fewer than at the corresponding time last year.

There was one double-fatality accident. John Henry Hornbuckle, 27, and Jerry Lee Finch, 29, both of Creedmoor, were killed when a car in which they were riding hit a utility pole near that Granville County town.

Victims of other accidents: Thomas McDowell, 80, of Charlotte, a pedestrian.

Samuel Thomas Jordan, 20, of Lumber Bridge in Robeson County.

Susan M. Dockery, 25, of Hildebran in Burke County.

Edwin D. Rowland, 33, of Wilson, whose car hit a bridge and overturned into the Tar River.

Milton E. Jackson, 20, of Fayetteville, whose car plunged into a creek.

E. Loftin Jacobs, 20, of Clarkton in Bladen County.

Ross Thomas Austin, 17, of Pittsboro Chatham County.

Ronald Kirkman Fuquay, 27, of Graham.

Rescue Trio By 'Copter

HATTERAS, N.C. (AP) - Three Selma, N.C. men were in good condition late Sunday after the Coast Guard rescued them from a four-day ordeal that started when their small boat went aground Thursday in the middle of the Pamlico Sound.

The three were plucked by helicopter from the stricken craft soon after noon Sunday after worried relative had notified the Coast Guard that they were overdue in returning to Selma from a fishing expedition.

Coast Guard spokesmen identified the men as John Ballard, 69, of Selma, and John Stevenson, 55, and his son Albert, 20, also of Selma.

With gale warnings in force along the North Carolina coast, and winds gusting to 45 knots, the men would have been in for a very rough time if they hadn't been located, a Coast Guard spokesman said.

But as it was all three were reported in good condition on arrival at the Hatteras Coast Guard station after they were ferried from the sanbank where their 17-foot boat ran aground, five miles east of Hatteras.

Safety Training Gear For Airlines Queried

WASHINGTON (AP) — Simulated safety equipment on which some airline crews get emergency escape training may be so unrealistic as to be useless, the National Transportation Safety Board says.

A board spokesman said Sunday that evidence from two non-fatal crashes showed crews had problems operating emergency exit doors.

The crashes involved a Western Air Lines crash March 31 at Casper, Wyo., and an United Air Lines crash Oct. 16 at Seattle.

"Many times when we don't have just a black hole in the ground after a plane crash, but we have a live crew to work with, we can discover things like this," the spokesman said.

He said the board has recommended to the Federal Aviation Administration that in training crews, airlines should be required to use "accurate and realistic equipment and procedures which accurately simulate emergency conditions . . ."

In the Seattle crash, the board spokesman said, "It was found the door the stewardess had trained on — a simulated one — had a throw on the handle of 30 degrees. In other words, you had to turn the handle 30 degrees to the right.

"But, in the real plane you had to turn it full circle. So, when she turned it 30 degrees and it wouldn't open, she figured it was jammed."

The passengers and crew were able to escape the plane through other exits, he said.

In the Wyoming crash, two flight attendants reported difficulties in opening two separate cabin doors. Both attendants were able to rotate the handles and open the doors partially but not completely.

"Both flight attendants had received initial and recurrent emergency training using an actual aircraft door and using the mockup containing a B-737 door," the board noted.

"However, neither flight attendant had ever opened an aircraft exit door with an evacuation slide attached; nor is Western's mockup door equipped with a slide," it said.

"Our investigators noted that the forces required to operate the mockup door are noticeably less than those required to open an actual aircraft door with the slidepack attached."

Thus, neither flight attendant "was adequately prepared to anticipate the forces necessary to open a cabin door in the emergency mode," the board concluded.

Probing Theft Of Money Bag

Greenville Police today are continuing their investigation into the theft of more than $330 from the By-Pass Exxon service station on Greenville Boulevard here yesterday afternoon.

Chief Glenn Cannon said station employees left a bag containing more than $330 in cash as well as a number of credit card sales receipts on a counter in the station when they outside to wait on a customer. When they returned, the bag and money were gone.

NEW YORK (AP) —
The stock market declined slightly today, keeping a cautious eye on efforts to deal with the financial woes plaguing New York City.

Trading was quiet. The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 2.99 at 837.77, and losers held a slim over-all lead over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

The focus of attention was on the New York State Legislature, where efforts to agree on new tax measures to help the city hit a logjam over the weekend.

The aim of the tax package is to add to the city's revenues and at the same time encourage President Ford to relent in his opposition to federal help for the city.

Brokers also noted some uneasiness over recent signs of an upturn in interest rates.

Weyerhaeuser, the most active issue on the Big Board, dropped 1/2 to 34 in trading, marked by a 50,000-share block at that price. The company announced completions of the purchase of some mills and other facilities from Evans Products.

Xerox fell 1 1/2 to 50 1/2 in active trading. A Barron's magazine article discussed signs of increased competition in the copier business, long dominated by Xerox.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks slipped .19 to 47.19 in the first hour.

The American Stock Exchange market value index eased .05 to 84.32.

'Interested' In Oil Hunt Fires And Explosions As Warships Collided

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nine oil companies have expressed interest in exploring for oil off the Atlantic Coast from Cape Fear, N.C., to Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Two areas generated the most industry enthusiasm to the collision of the U.S. aircraft carrier John F. Kennedy and the cruiser Belknap reported.

One is 60 miles east of Brunswick, Ga., and the other is 68 miles off Charleston, S.C. The lease of drilling rights for the South Atlantic is tentatively scheduled for next November.

Thirteen responses came in from the public. They included favorable replies from state officials in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Several groups asked that drilling be avoided close to shore.

But only one, the Coastal Environmental Coalition of Charleston, S.C., opposed oil exploration altogether.

The coalition said drilling could harm shrimping, fishing and wildlife areas, and could result in unusually damaging oil spills.

Identities of the dead and missing were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The fire aboard the 1,047-foot carrier, one of the largest warships in the world, was put out in 10 minutes, and damage was slight, the Navy said. It added that capability for flight operation was not impaired, and the ship joined in the search for the missing men.

But the 547-foot cruiser was badly damaged. There were numerous flashback fires, blazes that were put out and then started up again, and it was two and a half hours before the fires were brought under control.

A spokesman who flew over the Belknap reported its superstructure was "a twisted mass of steel and all charred."

The Navy gave no indication of the cause of the collision but ordered an investigation.

The collision occurred in rough seas and "reduced visibility," the Navy said, during night flight operations in the Mediterranean about 70 miles east of Sicily. The Navy refused to say whether either ship had nuclear weapons aboard.

A Soviet destroyer was in the area at the time, but its "help was not asked, and it did not offer," the Navy said. The Soviet and U.S. fleets in the Mediterranean usually observe each other's movements.

There were terrible fires," the sailor injured in the collision of the U.S. aircraft carrier John F. Kennedy and the cruiser Belknap reported.

David Vollmer of Waupaca, Wis., was below decks aboard the cruiser about 10 p.m. Saturday when the collision set off explosions aboard the Belknap and fires aboard both ships.

"We were trapped below decks, but fought our way to the deck," reported Vollmer after he was flown to a navy hospital near Naples.

The Headquarters of the 6th Fleet said four men were killed, four were missing and 16 were injured, five of them seriously. Three of the dead and all of the missing were members of the Belknap crew; 55 of the cruiser's 350 crewmen were thrown overboard.

Identities of the dead and missing were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Randle, Failing To Produce A Winner, Fired By Virginia

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
AP Sports Writer
CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Sonny Randle, fired with three years left on a five-year contract as University of Virginia football coach, may have put his finger on the problem two weeks ago after a 61-10 loss to East Carolina, where he won two Southern Conference titles. "How long have they been losing here? How many coaches have they had? That ought to tell you something."

The answers were 22 losing seasons in the last 23 and four coaches fired during that period. But Randle should have known what he was stepping into in December 1973, for the 39-year-old former National Football League star played at Virginia in 1957-58-59. Yet Randle, who had a 22-10 record in three years at East Carolina with 9-2 marks and league titles in 1972 and 1973 and a promise the school would back his big-time program, couldn't wait to get back to Virginia. The firing of Don Lawrence in 1973 gave him his chance. The Cavaliers went 4-7 his first year, although his tough practice sessions cost him as

New Faces May Make Pirates A Contender

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)
Last year, East Carolina University's basketball Pirates surprised a lot of people and eventually finished second in the league, earning a berth in the National Commissioners' Tournament.

During the off season, Coach Dave Patton came up with three good freshmen recruits, and people are picking the Bucs to be a challenger for the title this year. Patton, however, isn't approaching the season with that much cockiness. He feels his Bucs have a chance, but that they will have to do some improving.

"People have got to realize we lost some good people, and that these freshmen are just that, freshmen. They are going to make freshman mistakes."

But probably the biggest pre-season problem has been the slow recovery by center Larry Hunt to an ankle injury sustained the first day of practice. Hunt returned to drills a week ago, and has participated in the scrimmages. "I hope that by this weekend, he's going to be ready to go. He's about 60 per cent right now, but he's come a long way since the first day he was back."

Patton has been pleased with the attitude of the players so far, but said that the team hasn't shown him "the little things that you have to do to be a winner. I hope this will come."

While the team is more or less on his schedule for getting ready for the year, Patton feels the injury to Hunt has hurt in the defensive and rebounding preparation.

"I'm disappointed in the team defense and the rebounding. I hope we'll do a better job when we start playing someone besides ourselves," Patton said. "We're going to have to do better in rebounding if we want to stay on the court against our first two opponents."

Biggest cause for worry, according to Patton, is that the team is playing defense passively. "They are waiting for the offense to act, rather than being aggressive and causing things to happen."

Offensively, the Bucs have looked good. "I'm pleased with our shooting both from the floor and line. I'm pleased with the way we're moving the ball. But I'm not pleased with some of our people movement and some of the ball-handling. Some of the players seem to be in a hurry, and they are rushing things."

While he admits that it is hard for him to judge, Patton says people who have watched the team feel that it is quick and fast, possibly faster than last year.

This, of course, in the Pirate game plan is a key factor. They used it last year both in running the break and in their pressure defenses.

There is good balance on the team in academic classes, with three seniors, sophomores, and freshmen. There are four juniors.

The seniors are Al Edwards, Earl Garner and Henry Lewis. Edwards is the team captain.

"He's come into the role of a leader well," Patton said. "It's a big burden for him, but I'm pleased with both his leadership and play. He's got a lot of maturity."

Garner has been the leading scorer for the team during pre-season scrimmages. "He was hampered last year having to play behind (Gregg) Ashorn. But we knew that he would be a fine player. He's just had an adjustment period and he's gone through it."

Lewis has been the number two rebounder so far. "He's greatly improved and we're counting on a lot of help from him."

Juniors include Hunt, Reggie Lee, Buzzy Braman and Tommie Williams.

"We're still waiting on Larry to come around," Patton said. "But I wouldn't bet against him being ready Saturday. He's had a good attitude too. He's not trying to force himself and he hasn't been frustrated because of the injury."

Lee has shown improvement too. Outstanding as a freshman, Lee went through a hard sophomore year. "I've been pleased with him both on and off the court," the coach said. "He's certainly capable of playing. He's doing everything right now."

Cincinnati, Miami Lose Both Their Games And Star Players

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

The short-range effects really aren't all that bad. Wounded pride, after all, fades with time.

But wounded bodies are a different matter — and with time running out, those could be literally killing blows to a few National Football League teams.

Cincinnati, smack in the middle of the league's tightest divisional race, suffered a shocking loss Sunday at the hands of the previously winless Cleveland Browns 35-23.

And worse, Bengals quarterback Ken Anderson, who had been slicing up Cleveland's secondary the way he's cut up just about every other pass defense, was knocked out of action with a bruised chest. The extent of the injury was still in question today.

In Miami, the Dolphins wished there was a question about the seriousness of quarterback Bob Griese's injury — but there isn't. He's out for the rest of the season and scheduled to undergo surgery today to repair a torn tendon in his right big toe.

That tear also helped Baltimore tear up the Dolphins. With Griese out and Earl Morrall ineffective, the Colts rallied for a 33-17 victory. But it was a costly one for Baltimore, too, when quarterback Bert Jones suffered bruised ribs. Like Anderson, Jones' status was uncertain.

In the rest of Sunday's action, Atlanta beat Denver 35-21, Minnesota defeated San Diego 28-13, Buffalo belted New England 45-31, St. Louis ripped the New York Jets 37-6, Oakland nosed out Washington 26-23 in overtime, Dallas defeated Philadelphia 27-17, Los Angeles routed Chicago 38-10, Green Bay crushed the New York Giants 40-14, Kansas City beat Detroit 24-21 in overtime and San Francisco slipped past New Orleans 16-6.

Tonight, Pittsburgh is at Houston with first place in the American Conference's Central Division at stake.

Browns 35, Bengals 23
Cincinnati could have taken at least a temporary lead in the division — but the Browns in general and quarterback Mike Phipps in particular decided it was time to do something about their dreadful record.

Phipps burned the Bengals on 23 of 36 passes for 298 yards and two touchdowns. Pruitt kicked in with 121 yards rushing and two TDs, one on a pass from Phipps.

Anderson completed 13 of 20 for 292 yards and two touchdowns before giving way to John Reaves, who had little success. He hit on just four of 11 for 68 yards and threw an interception that was returned by safety Jim Hill 56 yards for Cleveland's last score.

Colts 33, Dolphins 17
The Colts, with their fifth straight victory, moved within a game of the Dolphins in the AFC East — and right into the playoff picture.

Marty Domres replaced Jones and kept the Colts moving — although it was really Lydell Mitchell and Don McCauley who kept them going. Mitchell ran for 106 yards, 32 of them for a touchdown, and McCauley scored three times from one yard out.

Falcons 35, Broncos 21
While some quarterbacks were going out, Atlanta's Steve Bartkowski was coming back.

"I knew things just had to start going my way. I don't live that bad," he said after returning from four weeks of inaction due to a dislocated shoulder, shrugging off three early interceptions and throwing two touchdowns to Alfred Jenkins.

Vikings 28, Chargers 13
Minnesota's Fran Tarkenton completed 24 of 32 passes against San Diego to run his career total to 2,841, surpassing Johnny Unitas' record of 2,830.

Running back Chuck Foreman rushed 33 times for 127 yards and three touchdowns to help keep Minnesota unbeaten and keep the Chargers the only winless team.

Bills 45, Patriots 31
Buffalo, also a game back of Miami, rode O.J. Simpson's four touchdowns past New England. Simpson, the NFL's leading rusher, was held to just 69 yards but scored on runs of one and two yards and on a pair of three-yard passes from Joe Ferguson.

Cardinals 37, Jets 6
Terry Metcalf's two touchdown runs, one on a 52-yard draw play, and Jim Hart's two scoring passes to Mel Gray, one of them a 74-yard bomb, blew out the Jets and kept St. Louis atop the NFC East, a game ahead of Dallas.

Raiders 26, Redskins 23
"We beat George Allen. That just tickles the hell out of me," said Oakland's George Blanda, who missed a 33-yard field goal in the waning seconds of regulation play, then hit from 27 yards out in overtime to down the Redskins.

Cowboys 27, Eagles 17
Preston Pearson ran five yards for one touchdown and set up two others by catching more than 100 yards' worth of Roger Staubach's screen passes in Dallas' victory over the Eagles.

Rams 38, Bears 10
Two early touchdowns runs by Lawrence McCutcheon and Jim Bertelsen and two more by John Cappelletti enabled the Rams to breeze past Chicago.

Packers 40, Giants 14
John Hadl passed for 275 yards and two touchdowns and rookie Will Harrell caught one scoring pass and threw another to lead Green Bay's rout of the Giants.

Chiefs 24, Lions 21
Jan Stenerud's 26-yard field goal at 6:44 of sudden-death overtime carried Kansas City past the Lions. Detroit forced the extra period on Errol Mann's 44-yard field goal on the final play of the fourth quarter.

49ers 16, Saints 6
Larry Schreiber's touchdown sweep just two minutes into the game provided the only points San Francisco needed to beat New Orleans. Gene Washington's TD catch from Steve Spurrier and Steve Mike-Mayer's field goal in the fourth quarter broke it open.

many as 20 players before the season started.

But he might have dug his own grave last spring when he predicted a winning season this fall and said he'd resign if he didn't have one. He later backed down from that threat, but he couldn't escape a 1-10 record, nine losses in a row and a record 428 points given up.

Bowl Choice

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The University of South Carolina was selected today to face nationally ranked Miami of Ohio in the Dec. 20 Tangerine Bowl post-season football game, the Orlando Sentinel Star reported.

An official announcement was not expected until sometime later this afternoon.

But the Sentinel Star said it had learned that the selection panel tagged the Gamecocks over Virginia Tech and San Jose State.

South Carolina Coach Jim Carlen accepted the invitation in a 9:30 a.m. telephone conversation with bowl officials, the newspaper reported.

Woody's Ramblin's

BY WOODY PEELE

The ending wasn't as nice as one would have hoped for, but the outcome was satisfying. East Carolina University's football team ended the 1975 season Saturday night with a 28-12 victory over the defending champion Virginia Military Institute Keydets.

Looking back on the year, there was some frustration, but a six-game winning streak that closed out the year made up for a lot of it. Included in that streak was victories over North Carolina and Virginia, two Atlantic Coast Conference schools.

Coach Pat Dye wasn't too pleased with the play of his team in the game, citing the two-week layoff caused by an open date, and the fact that the Bucs had to go through exams during this final week of practice. And despite two big interceptions, one returned for a touchdown, Dye didn't feel the defense did a real good job. "The defense did come up with the big play when we needed it," he said, referring to several goal line stands. Twice VMI had to settle for field goals, twice more they came away with nothing, scoring a touchdown only on their last penetration.

Still, the coach was proud of his team, and the way it turned the season around. Seven weeks ago, things were not nearly as bright. The Bucs had won just two of their first five games, and had lost to Richmond after leading 14-0 at the half.

While it was that game that probably cost the Bucs the Southern Conference title (assuming everything else went as it did), it could well have been the factor that turned the season around. The Bucs decided that they wanted to be a good ball club. They beat The Citadel the next week, 3-0, in a tremendously tough defensive struggle, and after that, the wishbone offense came alive to score the outstandings wins posted during the rest of the season.

And while it was a very good year, despite losing the league title, the Bucs have a lot going for them next year. The majority of both the offense and defense will be back next year. That should make East Carolina at worst a co-favorite to win the title, probably with Appalachian State. Fittingly enough, the two close out the season next year in Greenville.

An 8-3 record is a good one. It will not hurt recruiting at all, and combined with who some of the wins came against, should help at lot. Coach Dye and his staff should turn in a good crop of freshmen.

It would be so nice if they could have gotten a bowl bid to go along with it.

As of this writing, no bid had been issued to the Tangerine Bowl, but in all likelihood, it went, or will go to South Carolina. And while not trying to be sour grapes, any bowl bid should go to a team with a better record. And there were others in the running who topped the Gamecock's 7-4 mark.

The Sonny Randle era at Virginia turned out to be a short one. Randle not only couldn't get his coaching philosophy over to the Cavaliers, he got his own life mixed up in the process.

Randle will probably be back, somewhere else. His failure at Virginia, a bitter one for him since he wanted to make his alma mater a winner, was one that probably could have been predicted. If he couldn't do it, who can?

Probably no one. Football traditions at Virginia are not ones to make a coach plan a lengthy stay.

Mueller, Whitcombe, Radford Capture N.C. Tourney Titles

East Carolina's Phil Mueller, Ron Whitcomb, and Mike Radford all captured titles in their respective weight classes Saturday night in the finals of the North Carolina Invitational Tournament in Chapel Hill, N.C. East Carolina and North Carolina each crowned three individual champions while North Carolina State and Virginia had two champs apiece in the non-scoring tournament. Mueller, a transfer from the University of Wisconsin at Stevens Point, pinned North Carolina's Carl Hoffman in the finals and was named the Outstanding Wrestler in the tournament. Mueller also won by fall in all three of his matches prior to defeating Hoffman. "Phil's performance in the tournament was simply remarkable," commented East Carolina wrestling coach John Welborn, "especially against the competition he was facing. To pin four straight opponents in any tournament is a real accomplishment. Phil's gotten off to a great start and I'm just hoping he will continue wrestling as well as he has been during the last two weeks." Mueller took second in last week's Monarch Open and also placed second in the Neptune Invitational earlier in the year.

Whitcomb decided North Carolina's Steve Brier, 12-9 in the finals of the 177 pound weight class while Radford wrapped up the title in the 190 pound class with a 13-2 decision over Steve Castle of UNC. Whitcomb and Radford both have three tournament titles to their credit this season with identical 11-0 overall records.

John Warwich of Virginia edged the Pirates' Paul Thorpe, 6-5 to win the 150 pound class.

East Carolina also had two third place finishes and one fourth. James Kirby defeated Rod Buttry of North Carolina

State to take third in the 126 pound class. Tom Marriott who was upset in the second round by North Carolina's Ron Jurgens came back to stop N.C. State's Phil Whitehouse to win third place in the 142 pound class. John Williams was edged 4-3, by Virginia's Bill Midlin and finished fourth in the heavyweight division.

"I think this tournament was an indication of how tough North Carolina State and Carolina are going to be this year," said Welborn. "Both of these teams have improved tremendously from last year plus the fact they've got some outstanding freshmen prospects. We've really got our work cut out for us if we're going to beat them in dual meets this year."

The Pirate grapplers return to action December 12-13 in Bethlehem, Pa., in a tri-meet against nationally ranked teams Oregon State and Lehigh along with Indiana State.

Virginia Looking For New Coach

ic Director Eugene F. Corrigan said Sunday in announcing Randle's firing.

Corrigan did not elaborate on the comment, but publicly aired personal problems and a lack of communication with his players may have played as much a part in Randle's dismissal as his record.

In saying an immediate search would begin for a successor, Corrigan reaffirmed the school's commitment "to build a program as fine as any in the ACC with continued emphasis on football. I am convinced that such a program can be constructed within the existing framework of this institution."

But his statement that "I do not expect that by changing coaches we can bring about this metamorphosis right away" sounded much the same as previous statements when coaches were let go.

Randle told a Lynchburg television newsmen he would have no comment now or in the future. It was the same thing he had told the Cavalier Daily, the student newspaper, in an interview last week before he knew — but suspected — he would be out of a job.

Houston Can Tie Up AFC Central

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers quarterback Dan Pastorini made a curtain call after his film debut here Friday night, and he'll face the Steel Curtain defense of the Pittsburgh Steelers tonight in a nationally televised AFC Central Division showdown.

The two teams are key figures in an American Football Conference Central Division power struggle, the Steelers leading with an 8-1 record and the Oilers a step behind at 7-2.

The Cleveland Browns made the race more interesting Sunday when they upset Cincinnati, dropping the Bengals to an 8-2 record. A Houston victory tonight would throw the division into a three-way tie for first place.

Pastorini plays the part of a marijuana smuggler in a film that also stars his wife, June Wilkinson, and the cool-headed quarterback isn't likely to get stage fright on national television for his second duel this season against Steelers quarterback Terry Bradshaw.

Pastorini and the Oilers were tied with the Steelers until Bradshaw threw a TD pass in the final 38 seconds for a 24-17 victory Nov. 9 in Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll hopes to get similar results tonight, but thinks it will take something new.

"We have to come up with something a little different both offensively and defensively," Noll said. "They've got pretty good memories of what happened last time and everybody kind of prepares for the things you did before. So you have to work at a new wrinkle."

Pastorini had good passing success in his previous battle with the Steeler defense and its front four, the Steel Curtain. But Pastorini will be facing a stiffer pass rush tonight with the return of tackle Joe Greene and end L.C. Greenwood.

Another duel will be between Houston kick returner Billy Johnson, who leads the AFC in punt returns, and Steelers punter Bobby Walden. Johnson shares the NFL record for most kicks returned for touchdowns in one season, four.

Walden successfully kicked the ball away from Johnson on four of his five punts in the Nov. 9 game and placement specialist Roy Gerela squibbed his kickoffs away from Johnson.

Houston's running attack should be at full strength with rookie Don Hardeman and Ronnie Coleman as the starters. Pittsburgh will counter with Franco Harris, the AFC's No. 2 rusher, and Frenchy Fuqua, subbing for injured Rocky Bleier.

Both running attacks face tough assignments. The Steelers must go against the No. 1 defense against the rush in the AFC, while Houston will be opposing the third-rated rushing defense.

Petty Glad Its Over

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP) — Richard Petty wearily admits he's glad the 1975 stock car season is over. Buddy Baker wishes there were a couple of races left on the schedule.

It's easy to understand why they both feel the way they do. Petty won an unprecedented sixth National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing Grand National championship, capturing 13 of 30 races run during the season and winning an all-time record $311,255.

Baker, winless in 1974, scored four triumphs including the last two events-capping his season with a $31,250 victory Sunday as he dominated the Los Angeles Times 500 at Ontario Motor Speedway in NASCAR's 1975 finale.

"I really am glad the season's over," Petty said after his Dodge dropped out with a broken engine on the 169th lap of the 200-lap race.

Patton Worried About Bucs' Defensive Play

(Continued from page 9) Braman has matured also. "We're getting a lot of leadership at the point from him. He believes in himself, and he has the ability."

Williams, up from the junior varsity, has looked good in the last two scrimmages, but Patton is worried that the numbers might hurt him at the start. "We can take but 10 on the road, and we've got a lot of guards already."

The sophomores include Dean Hartley, Clay Windley and Wade Henkel.

"Hartley didn't get off to a good start, but he's starting to come. He's been the most consistent of our rebounders among the big men. He's going to be able to help us in the middle."

Windley is another whom Patton feels will be a good player. "He needs to work on his defense and shot selection. He fires quickly and this has hurt him. He certainly has the talent to play."

Henkel "is another guy I've been very, very pleased with," Patton said. "He's more mature, more aggressive. But he's his own worst enemy and tends to get down on himself if he makes a mistake. I'm pleased with his board play, but he can do better there too. He can be a double figure rebounder for us."

The freshmen include Billy Dineen, Tyrone Edwards and Louis Crosby.

Dineen is the shortest Pirate, just 5-11, but he's been playing like a big man. "If anyone is a surprise, he is," the coach said. "We knew he was good, but he's ever better than we thought. He's going to have four good years for us. He's the type floor leader we've needed. He's a hollar guy and he gets people where they need to be. He's a fine ball handler and competitor from the word go."

Edwards, in contrast, is the biggest Buc at 6-11. "He probably had his best game Saturday," Patton said. "He's moving better without the ball, and hitting the open man better. But he needs to rebound more and be more aggressive. It's something he has to learn. He's going to be a fine player; he has all the tools. It'll just take him time to make the adjustment."

Crosby, who was the most highly recruited player around, could come around quickest of the freshmen, Patton feels. "He can do it all — shoot, pass, handle the ball, play defense and rebound. He's a fantastic jumper, he has tremendous quickness and is a great passer. Right now, he's trying to make the impossible pass, forcing it a little. But when he gets his control, he's going to be able to thread a needle."

"We have to remember that he's a freshman, and he's going to play like one at times," the coach added.

Right now, the Bucs are mentally ready to play Maryland in the opener on Saturday. "We're tired of playing ourselves. I don't know if we're physically ready yet, but I guess we'll soon know."

B78-13 BLACKWALL

All-Weather 78

Goodyear's "All-Weather 78" tire is built with polyester cord that's tempered in an exclusive process for optimum strength and resilience. The wide 78-series tread is "reverse molded" — a technique borrowed from race tire production. The rib tread is well grooved, providing plenty of traction edges for decisive grip. In every detail, this tire gives you honest quality, at a price that's in step with the time.

Energy Czar's Flying Trips Under Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — By-passing commercial airlines, Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb flew on Air Force or chartered planes that burned 19,000 gallons of fuel this year on speechmaking trips aimed at encouraging energy conservation, a senator said today.

An FEA spokesman confirmed Zarb had made the trips but disagreed with the conclusions of Sen. William Proxmire, who called Zarb a "winged wastrel of energy, fuel and taxpayers' money."

Proxmire said that on at least half the 13 chartered flights Zarb flew "in a plush, four-engine Air Force jet which burned enough fuel in an hour to supply the average American driver with enough gasoline to drive for an entire year."

In response, the FEA said that on eight occasions, Zarb flew a six-passenger four-engine Air Force Jet Star because commercial flights would not have allowed him to meet his schedule. And on four of the trips mentioned by Proxmire, Zarb chartered a small twin-engine Piper because there was no other way to fly into four small towns, the FEA spokesman added.

Proxmire, a Democrat from Wisconsin, released a list of the 13 charters arranged by Zarb during the first 10 months of the year, along with the cost of the flight and the estimated fuel usage.

Seven of the trips were mainly for speeches to urge local business or civic groups to conserve fuel. In several cases, Proxmire said, Zarb could have taken a commercial flight at a far lower cost and at little or no loss of time.

For example, Proxmire said a May 9 trip from Washington to Little Rock, Ark., cost the government $3,053 and more than 2,500 gallons of jet fuel. "At 12:55 p.m. on that date a direct commercial flight was scheduled to leave Washington National Airport and arrive in Little Rock at 3:10 p.m. (local time)," Proxmire said.

"According to FEA records, Mr. Zarb's first scheduled event in Little Rock was set for 5:30 p.m. This cost of Mr.

Zarb's chartered round-trip flight was more than 20 times greater than the round-trip commercial coach fare," Proxmire said.

But the FEA spokesman said Zarb could not take advantage of the 12:55 p.m. commercial flight because Zarb testified until mid-afternoon before a House committee and had to fly back to Washington late that night to fulfill a schedule of commitments the following morning.

No Charges In Saturday Mishap

No charges were placed following investigation of a 3 p.m. Saturday collision on Greenville Boulevard near the Memorial Drive intersection.

Officers identified the drivers involved as Jesse Lee Ingram and Levander Little, both of Ansonville.

Damage was estimated at $1,200 to the Ingram car and $1,300 to the Little auto.

No injuries were reported.

Next Year Better For Tobacco

RALEIGH (AP)—This year was a dud, but next year promises to be a lot better for flue-cured tobacco sales, North Carolina tobacco men say.

didn't match the 1974 levels, despite greatly increased production, said Dr. Charles Pugh, an extension service economist.

North Carolina growers sold about 924 million pounds at an average price of $99.82 per 100 pounds. That compares to last year's 770 million pounds that drew an average price of $105.36. Gross income for the crop this year was about $930 million, some $106 million more than was grossed last year.

Connie Jernigan, extension agent in Wilson County, said, "I would say that the 1975 crop was profitable. There was not as much profit as last year. Expenses were greater and the average price of tobacco was about 4 cents a pound less."

Weather had a lot to do with a farmer making a profit, according to John Cyrus, chief of the field crop section of the state Department of Agriculture. Those who had good weather fared better than those who had crops damaged by drought and/or excessive rain, he said.

When the selling season opened in July and August, many farmers were unhappy with the prices and one group of growers temporarily shut down a warehouse in Columbus County. Prices went up as better quality leaf reached the warehouse floors, but they never reached last year's level.

After continuing complaints by farmers and tobacco country lawmakers, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz announced a 15 per cent reduction in next year's quotas.

Cyrus said the support price is based on a formula that considers farmer costs. It is expected to rise from this year's $93.20 to about $105.80 next year, he said.

The 1975 selling season is virtually over. The crop was hurt by bad weather in some areas and profits suffered from low auction prices, high production costs and an oversupply of leaf, tobacco men said of the season when interviewed last week. Some growers made money, but others didn't even match expenses.

Next year's sales are being eyed with hope because the support price has been jacked up while quotas were cut about 15 per cent.

Overall, though, most industry insiders believe this year wasn't all bad. "The margin of profit was not as great this year as it was in 1974, but this is not to say that tobacco did not continue to be a good, profitable crop," said Dr. W.K. Collins, a tobacco crop specialist with the Agricultural Extension Service.

While profits were there, they

Louisville Likes A Good Nickel

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Chances are 10 to one that somebody who makes a 10-cent phone call here will use two nickels.

Louisvillians and their respect for the 5-cent piece are posing peculiar problems for the Federal Reserve Bank. Dimes go begging in Louisville, while banks want to stock up on nickels.

Stewart's Department Store confirms it; people want change in nickels, not dimes. Nobody knows why.

The Federal Reserve is fighting back. It has asked fast-food restaurants to give change in dimes, not nickels.

Broke Town Govm't Just 'Disbanded'

WATERTOWN, Wis. (AP) — In 1853 officials of this southeastern Wisconsin town had a money problem like New York City has today — whopping debts and not enough money to pay them.

But what Watertown did to solve the problem New York probably would never do: they simply disbanded elected government for ten years.

In effect, the mayor and aldermen hid out to avoid bondholders and court judgments.

Watertown, a rail center with a population of 7,500, was one of the largest cities in Wisconsin when voters approved an $80,000 bond issue in 1853 to aid the Watertown Railroad Co., the first of several bond issues to aid railroads.

Although the deals carried second mortgages on the railroads' property, the mortgages were of little help when the speculators who held the bonds began demanding payment.

By 1878, Watertown's indebtedness, including principal, interest and court judgments, had reached a whopping $750,000. The entire assessed value of the community was little more than a million dollars.

The townspeople were incensed, and repudiation of the bonds became the major political issue.

"I don't care a damn for all the railroads and all the bondholders in the country," an unnamed candidate for mayor said at the time. He was elected.

But not for long, since Watertown's solution left the city virtually without a government as officials sought to escape process servers. This is how it

The outlook for United States agriculture through mid-1976 continues strong, although major uncertainties remain.

Agricultural adjustments, particularly in domestic livestock feeding, continue to be tied to developments in Foreign Markets and the U.S. economy.

A number of key factors influencing the outlook are now materializing. The long-time grain sales agreement between the United States and the USSR has been announced, and the moratorium has been lifted.

Crop conditions have stabilized in recent weeks, following some deterioration this summer. Record or near-record output is in sight for soybeans, wheat and feed grains.

However, total 1975 crop receipts still will be below year-ago levels. At the same time, cash receipts from livestock and products this year will be up, reflecting the strong price picture through the fall, probably enough to more than offset the decline indicated for crops.

For 1975 as a whole, total cash receipts from farming may be only slightly higher with gross income around $102 billion. On the expense side, farmers are apparently not purchasing as much feed, feeder livestock and fertilizer this year.

However, prices of production inputs continue to rise. Total production expenses this year probably will be up some $3 to $4 billion.

As a result, realized net income in 1975 may total about $25 billion. However, net income this year would still be the third largest on record.

In appraising the agricultural outlook through mid-1976, the critical factors are the export levels for U.S. grains and the responsiveness of domestic livestock producers to current and expected feed-product price relationships.

The Crisis In Natural Gas: Paying More For Less

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States appears destined for a chronic shortage of increasingly expensive natural gas for at least the next 10 years.

Prodded by the gas industry and President Ford, Congress has moved toward ending federal regulation of wellhead gas prices, hoping to stimulate production that way.

Even deregulation-backers don't advertise a quick cure; at best, they say, it may keep a bad situation from getting too much worse. Shortages this winter are expected to be especially severe.

"In the 1970's, even with deregulation, there is not going to be any surplus of gas, ever," says Edward Calland, vice president of Columbia Gas Transmission Corp., a pipeline which says it already is badly short of gas for its customers. "There is going to be a shortfall from now on. We won't be able to meet unrestricted demand."

Gas-burning electric power plants will generally be the first to have their gas cut off under federal and state priority plans, says the Federal Energy Administration — FEA. They will be followed by other large industrial users. Residential and other essential gas users would be the last to face serious curtailments.

Some industries may not be able to afford substitute fuels, the FEA warns, and some are simply unable to switch to other fuels.

If such industries can't get natural gas, they will shut down, bringing unemployment and economic depression to communities that depend on them.

The FEA said that industries requiring natural gas to keep going include: the chemical industry, motor vehicle parts, textiles (the bulk of them in North Carolina, the state facing one of the worst shortages), fertilizers, primary metals, stone, clay and glass, food processing, paper, machinery manufacturing, and — ironically — the petroleum industry itself.

From last April through next March, interstate pipelines expect a shortage of 2.9 trillion cubic feet of gas, 19 per cent of their requirements.

But the FEA estimates they could get another 200 billion to 400 billion cubic feet, now unused within the producing states, if deregulation frees them to buy it — at triple the current regulated price.

The FEA says other fuels are available, largely because of the nation's economic slowdown, to replace most of the missing gas this year.

Switching fuels will multiply costs. The Federal Power Commission — FPC — reports that electric utilities paid an average of 48 cents for one million BTUs — energy units — in the form of natural gas, in 1974.

As coal, the same energy cost them 71 cents; as oil, it cost $1.92.

When power plants and other industries switch from gas to coal or oil, their higher fuel costs will show up as higher consumer prices for electricity, merchandise and services.

Gas bills, too, are rising. Restrained by federal regulation, it took 12 years for the wellhead price of natural gas to rise 4.6 cents to an average of 18.6 cents per thousand cubic feet.

In only two more years, by 1974, the average climbed almost 12 cents to 30.4.

Last December, the FPC raised its ceiling price to 50 cents, plus annual one-cent increases.

Even without further ceiling increases, the recent price hikes will gradually increase future consumer bills as contracts at old, low prices expire and are replaced at the higher prices.

If federal regulation ends, New Jersey gas utilities are already purchasing synthetic gas at prices up to $5.00 per thousand cubic feet to cope with this winter's shortage.

While the price trend is up, the supply trend is down. Compared with 1973 gas consumption of 22.6 trillion cubic feet, the nation as a whole had a 9 per cent shortage last year and "almost everybody was able to squeak through," reports the Federal Energy Administration. This year, the over-all shortage is estimated at 11 per cent — 19 per cent for interstate pipelines — and although other fuels are available, the FEA warns of scattered industry closings.

Next year's shortage is forecast at an over-all 16 per cent; concentrated on interstate pipelines, that could mean regional shortages of 24 per cent or more, and substitute fuels may become unavailable if the general economy improves.

Gas industry forecasts indicate it may be 1985 before production could return to its 1973 level.

"We project a deep slump in domestic gas production, which could be only partially alleviated by deregulation," said Calland. "The rest of the gap would have to be filled, eventually, by gas from the arctic and new offshore areas, imported liquefied natural gas and synthetic gas."

These gap fillers are not expected in large quantities much before 1985.

The chances for improving the outlook are slim. Just to keep up 1973 consumption plus an allowance for unavoidable losses, the FPC says, the gas industry would have to add to its reserves some 25 trillion cubic feet of gas each year for the next decade.

In fact, it has managed to add that much gas in only two years out of the last 30. Since big gas fields are usually easier to find than small ones, it seems likely that most of the jumbo fields have already been discovered; and 20 years of offshore drilling has brought nothing in the 25-trillion-foot league so far.

"I wouldn't expect many more of the 'elephant' gas fields," said a key industry supply analyst. "It's not a bright picture. It's a dismal one."

North Carolina Looks For Washington Help

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state with the nation's worst natural gas shortage is looking to Washington and the weather for help in avoiding a crisis it fears could drive North Carolina back into recession.

Under Federal Energy Administration allocations for this winter, North Carolina's gas distributors can expect only about 48 per cent of the gas they would normally get.

North Carolina depends solely on one gas supplier, Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Corp. of Houston. Transco expects that its producers along the Gulf Coast will have little more than 60 per cent of the gas its customers need for the winter heating period that began last week. From that 60 per cent, Transco must distribute gas to customers based on the FEA allocations.

In addition, North Carolina has a higher percentage of industrial gas users than any other state. Under federal allocation plans, residential and small business customers get first call on available natural gas.

Thus, a firm such as the Brooklyn, N.Y., Union Gas Co.,

with a demand that is 64 per cent residential, will not face as severe a curtailment this year as North Carolina Natural Gas Co., which sells only 20 per cent of its gas to residential customers.

Last year, the state managed to weather a 38 per cent curtailment with only minor economic disruptions. But last year's winter was unusually mild, cutting down residential demand. Industrial demand was down due to the recession.

No one knows what this year's winter will be like. And, as Gov. James E. Holshouser pointed out recently, the state's textile mills and factories are back into nearly full production.

Many of them cannot operate without some form of clean, gaseous fuel. Textile mills — one of the state's major industries — use natural gas to singe fabrics in a final finishing process.

State officials have predicted as many as 55,000 workers could be laid off if winter weather is cold and no help comes from Washington.

Help could arrive in two forms. The Federal Power Commission may approve a new allocation plan more favorable to industrial users. And Congress could approve emergency legislation allowing Transco to go outside the normal interstate market where the FPC regulates prices, buy gas from the Gulf Coast's intrastate markets at unregulated prices and resell it to North Carolina and other customers.

Some industries have prepared for the worst. Cannon Mills, known for sheets and towels, has signed a private contract to buy gas intrastate for shipment to North Carolina, if the FPC approves. Others have been buying up propane, an acceptable alternative fuel.

Propane is more expensive than natural gas, however, as would be buying natural gas outside regulated interstate channels. The unregulated intrastate price is about four times that of the regulated price of 52 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

This leaves many industrial users with only expensive alternatives to natural gas. And many companies are small and would find it difficult to make their own arrangements for alternative fuels.

Holshouser and other state officials have been actively seeking to improve the situation, but with precious little success since any action will depend on federal officials.

ports the Federal Energy Administration. This year, the over-all shortage is estimated at 11 per cent — 19 per cent for interstate pipelines — and although other fuels are available, the FEA warns of scattered industry closings.

Next year's shortage is forecast at an over-all 16 per cent; concentrated on interstate pipelines, that could mean regional shortages of 24 per cent or more, and substitute fuels may become unavailable if the general economy improves.

Gas industry forecasts indicate it may be 1985 before production could return to its 1973 level.

"We project a deep slump in domestic gas production, which could be only partially alleviated by deregulation," said Calland. "The rest of the gap would have to be filled, eventually, by gas from the arctic and new offshore areas, imported liquefied natural gas and synthetic gas."

These gap fillers are not expected in large quantities much before 1985.

The chances for improving the outlook are slim. Just to keep up 1973 consumption plus an allowance for unavoidable losses, the FPC says, the gas industry would have to add to its reserves some 25 trillion cubic feet of gas each year for the next decade.

In fact, it has managed to add that much gas in only two years out of the last 30. Since big gas fields are usually easier to find than small ones, it seems likely that most of the jumbo fields have already been discovered; and 20 years of offshore drilling has brought nothing in the 25-trillion-foot league so far.

"I wouldn't expect many more of the 'elephant' gas fields," said a key industry supply analyst. "It's not a bright picture. It's a dismal one."

Q.1—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠9 ♠AJ7 ♠AKQ762 ♠83

The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 ♠ 2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠

What action do you take?
A.—Bid three hearts. There is a great temptation to bid three no trump, but don't give in. Partner rarely has something in the black suits for his raise, for he certainly can't have much in the reds. However, no trump will play better from partner's side because his black-suit holdings will be protected from the opening lead, so show your heart stopper and leave the decision to him.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K4 ♠AJ98 ♠KQ76 ♠AJ10

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 NT Pass 2 NT 3 ♠

What action do you take?
A.—Double. Had East passed, you would have continued on to three no trump because you hold a maximum. That action, however, would now be risky—East might hold something like seven spades headed by the ace-queen and an outside ace, and three no trump could be defeated with a spade lead. So take your profit from three spades doubled and be content.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AQ83 ♠AKQ9 ♠95 ♠954

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

What action do you take?
A.—Bid three spades. Since your hand is worth 16 points at spades, your first inclination might be to jump to game. But partner's preference could have been based on poor three-card support, which would make the spade game a very shaky undertaking unless partner had full values for his two-over-one response. You would be delighted if partner's next bid was three no trump.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠95 ♠AQJ63 ♠K87 ♠K62

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—One no trump. Do not rebid your hearts, even though you have a good five-card suit. It is more important to tell partner that you hold a balanced minimum than that you have five hearts.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K ♠A982 ♠A10654 ♠Q94

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
Pass Pass Pass 1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Dble. Pass 4 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—One no trump. Do not rebid your hearts, even though you have a good five-card suit. It is more important to tell partner that you hold a balanced minimum than that you have five hearts.

Will Re-Test Contraband Drug

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
AP Science Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The contraband and controversial drug Laetrile will be tested in a special experimental study on mice at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center.

This marks another step in the long and tangled history of the purported anti-cancer drug, which lures thousands of cancer patients to a Laetrile clinic in Tijuana, Mexico, each year. The U.S. government has banned its use in this country. Laetrile also is said to be available in underground fashion in the United States, with one source estimating that some 20,000 people may be using it.

Now Sloan-Kettering is planning to do a "blind" study of the possible value of the drug in inhibiting the spread of tumors in mice. The researchers who conduct the study will not know which mice are being given Laetrile and which mice a dummy substance.

The decision to go to a blind study came after another study, one that is still in progress, produced some "preliminary, positive data" that have led one researcher to believe they confirm some earlier findings of his. It is "entirely too early" to draw any conclusions from this, the institute said.

Added to the problem is the fact that a number of other studies have produced strongly negative results, results showing no anti-tumor effects of Laetrile, or as it is called chemically, amygdalin. It is a derivative of apricot pits.

Here is a brief history of the laboratory research work:

— Preliminary work at Sloan-Kettering by Dr. Kanematsu Sugiura, done between September 1972 and June 1973, indicated that amygdalin had inhibited the spread of tumors in mice. Efforts by others to duplicate these results failed.

In a series of experiments, Dr. Sugiura used approximately 142 mice; 87 were treated with amygdalin, 55 were used as controls and not treated.

Among those treated, 23 or 26 per cent showed a spread to the lungs from breast cancers. Among the untreated controls, 45 or 82 per cent showed such metastases.

The mice used were of a strain bred to produce spontaneous breast tumors, a system Dr. Sugiura feels is closer to the human system than mice given transplanted tumors.

In the efforts to confirm Dr. Sugiura's work, a series of experiments were undertaken by three other scientists using approximately 237 mice; 112 were treated, 125 were controls. Of those treated with amygdalin, 81 or 72 per cent exhibited metastases. Of the untreated, 72 or 51 per cent did.

"There were actually more metastases in those treated," a spokesman said. "There's the basic discrepancy."

This effort at confirmation was conducted by Dr. Elizabeth Stockert and Dr. Franz Schmid, both of Sloan-Kettering, and Dr. Daniel Martin of Catholic Medical Center in Queens, N.Y., where the special mouse strain is bred.

Two other studies were carried out under contract for the National Cancer Institute: one by Arthur D. Little, Inc., of Cambridge, Mass., and the other at the Southern Research Institute in Birmingham, Ala. Both these studies were strongly negative. Both employed the method of transplanted tumors.

In commenting on his results, Dr. Martin of Catholic Medical Center told Medical World News: "I flatfootedly and categorically tell you that Laetrile is without activity against spontaneous tumors in mice — period."

Because there were unexplained differences in the findings of the investigation, Sloan-Kettering continued studying Laetrile with two additional studies, one on leukemia in progress, not conclusive and not reported in the medical literature is highly unusual in science. But Laetrile proponents on the West Coast have been receiving information "leaked" from someone at Sloan-Kettering and using it to publicize Laetrile and to charge that Sloan-Kettering was trying to cover up the facts.

The supporters of Laetrile are determined in their efforts to overcome legal bans on Laetrile. The Food and Drug Administration, in 1963 said there was no evidence of any merit and refused to allow interstate shipment of the drug. Customs officials have uncovered an international smuggling operation to import the drug from Mexico and West Germany.

Sloan-Kettering's position is that there does not appear to be sufficient scientific data to justify clinical trials, that is trials with human patients, with the controversial drug.

Hunting Trilobites Can Become 'Fever'

By F. N. D'ALESSIO
CHICAGO (AP) — One of the most-hunted animals in the Midwest this year doesn't even have a chance of making the endangered list. It's the trilobite, which has been extinct for well over 200 million years.

In what is perhaps the ultimate nostalgia trip, thousands of amateur fossil hunters have been combing the dry remains of what was once the great inland sea in search of the big-eyed invertebrates. Like live-animal hunters and fishermen they mount their finest specimens, guard their special spots jealously and gripe about the big one that got away. If their quest fails, they can even imitate the unsuccessful angler who buys a fish on his way home.

Prof. Arthur Blocher of Amboy, a retired college teacher who sometimes acts as a volunteer guide for collectors visiting the north central area of the state, explains the glamour of the trilobite through its extreme age. It's the oldest animal that looks like an animal to the layman.

Trilobites first began crawling across the shallow seafloors back in the Cambrian period, which began about 600 million years ago. Perhaps a hundred million years later they were the dominant form of life on earth, watching such upstarts as fish and the earliest amphibians swimming their first strokes. When they finally died out some 250 million years ago, reptiles and insects were already on earth.

The trilobite consisted of three basic parts, a head, cylindrical shaped thorax and tail. It was segmented in many sections.

Blocher, who says he has more than 6,000 trilobites himself, calls the collecting urge "a fever." He's quite willing to infect others, but he does complain about the behavior of some of the recent fossil hunters. He says they clutter up likely sites and enrage local farmers by collecting without permission and leaving gates open.

There are other complaints, as well — from quarrymen, mining companies and even the state government.

Woodfin, Jr., Next Station, Administrator, C.T.A. of the Estate of Cherry P. Stalon, Respondents," said Order of Court bearing date of November 18, 1975, the undersigned Commissioner will, on the 22nd day of December, 1975, at 12:00 o'clock, Noon, at the Courthouse door in Greenville, North Carolina, offer for sale to the highest bidder, for cash, that certain lot of parcel of land lying and being situated in the City of Greenville, Pitt County, North Carolina, and more particularly described as follows:

Being located in or near the Town of Woodfin in the section known as "Bama," BEGINNING at a point about 95 feet west from a stake on the west side of Pitt Street, 300 feet south of the southwest corner of the intersection of Pitt and Mill Streets; running thence in a westerly direction to a northwardly direction with the eastern boundary of McClellan Street; thence in a northwardly direction with McClellan Street, about 95 feet to a stake; thence in a southwardly direction with McClellan Street, 50 feet to a stake; thence in an easterly direction at right angles with McClellan Street, about 95 feet to the point of beginning, the said lot is the western half of Parcel No. 2 described in deed from B. Wilson to C. Waldrop, recorded in Book T-20, at Page 590 in the Pitt County Registry. The eastern half of said lot having been previously conveyed to Mary Brewington, and being also the identical property conveyed to Alma Cox Madison and husband, Edward C. Madison, by deed of Edna T. Waldrop, dated November 24, 1942, recorded in Book D-24, Page 718 in the County Registry. This house and lot is known as 1713 McClellan Street.

The successful bidder at this sale will be required to deposit with the Commissioner ten per cent (10 per cent) of the first $1,000.00 of his bid, and five per cent (5 per cent) on all over $1,000.00 to show his good faith, and will be made subject to 1976 ad valorem taxes, and said sale will be made subject to confirmation of the Court.

This 20th day of November, 1975.

LOUIS SINGLETON,
COMMISSIONER.
Nov. 24; Dec. 1, 8, 15, 1975

Roasting Poultry in Bags Or Foil

Birds wrapped for cooking in special roasting bags or in aluminum foil require shorter cooking time for tender, juicy results. Like birds roasted in a bag, birds roasted in foil are self-basting. In addition, foil permits the use of higher temperatures, and thus shorter cooking times.

TIMETABLE FOR FOIL-WRAPPED ROAST TURKEY
Roast to an Internal Temperature of 185° F
Oven temperature hot to very hot. (425° - 450° F)

Dressed Weight (In Pounds)	Total Cooking Time (In Hours)
7-9	2 1/4 - 2 1/2
10-13	2 3/4 - 3
14-17	3 1/2 - 4
18-21	4 1/2 - 5
22-24	5 1/2 - 6

To roast chicken in foil, roast at 400° F for about 1 1/4 hours.
