Ford And Mao Meet For Earnest, Friendly Talk

By JOHN RODERICK Associated Press Writer PEKING (AP) — President Ford met today with Chinese Chairman Mao Tse-tung for one hour and 50 minutes for what were officially described as "earnest and significant discussions ... on wide-ranging issues in a friendly atmosphere."

The chairman also met Betty Ford, her 18-year-old daughter Susan, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, George Bush, chief of the U.S. liaison office in Peking; Brent Scowcroft, the President's national security adviser; Joseph J. Sisco, undersecretary of state; Philip Habib, assistant secretary of state for East Asian and Pacific Affairs; Winston Lord, director of the State Department policy staff; and Richard Solomon, senior staff member of the National Security Council.

Wang Haijung, vice foreign minister, and two deputy department directors, Tang Wen-sheng and Chang Han-chih, represented the Chinese side.

The audience was the highlight of the first two days of the President's five-day visit to China.

The Chinese took the unusual step of permitting the White House to announce that the meeting was taking place.

Then, in two separate announcements, they permitted disclosure of its length and, following the President's attendance at a ballet performance, issued the full communique.

As is customary, only the written communique was issued and the White House refused to answer questions on it.

The 96-member American news corps accompanying Ford got wind of the meeting when Susan Ford was suddenly called back to Peking in the afternoon from a visit to the Ming Tombs outside the capital.

She had already visited the Great Wall and apparently was summoned to prepare for the audience.

West Europe Inches Nearer Ideal Of Unity

By HILMI TOROS Associated Press Writer ROME (AP) — Western European leaders agreed today on a Common Market passport and direct elections to a European parliament in spring 1978.

The agreement would give Britain and Denmark the option to continue appointing their parliamentary representatives.

Representatives of both nations had expressed doubt they could be ready for a direct vote by that time.

The new European Economic Community—EEC—passport, colored Bordeaux red, is to be issued by each of the nine member government to the community's 250 million inhabitants in 1978. The passports would eventually replace national passports, but specifics of the agreement were not immediately available.

The nine Common Market nations were also trying, on the last day of their summit meeting, to bridge the gap between Britain and its partners on representation at the Paris conference on energy and raw materials scheduled to open Dec. 16. Prime Minister Harold Wilson was insisting on a separate seat for Britain. The other EEC members—France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Ireland and Denmark—want a single delegation to represent the entire group.

'Contingency' Move For Housing For The Elderly

By TOM BAINES Reflector Staff Writer

A resolution directing the submission of a preliminary proposal for construction of 50 units of housing for the elderly was adopted Monday night by the Housing Authority.

The application, to be submitted to the Department of Housing and Urban Development by Dec. 4, is actually a contingency proposal to assure that the city does not lose the Section Eight units for the elderly in case a private developer fails to submit a proposal.

The city, it was explained, earlier prepared a housing assistance plan under the Community Development Program for 50 units of new housing for the elderly and 100 units of rehabilitated housing with 38 of those set aside for the elderly.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development then advertised countywide for 125 units of housing, including 50 units for the elderly through new construction.

The Housing Authority feels that the 50 units designated by HUD are actually the units requested by Greenville in its housing assistance plan.

Under the preliminary proposal for 50 units for the elderly, the units would be built on a site selected by the city under its CDP guidelines and financed through tax exempt bonds.

Section Eight of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 is aimed at providing housing through private development and ownership. Some interest in the program has been shown by private developers in construction of the units here, it was noted, but the Housing Authority's preliminary proposal for the units will assure that an application is on file with HUD in the event that private developers decide not to pursue the Section Eight program in Greenville.

If a feasible proposal is submitted to HUD by a private developer for construction of the units here, the Housing Authority could withdraw its application.

Currently, Section Eight is the only vehicle by which new housing can be provided for low income families.

No Section Eight housing has been constructed in the United States are developers are still feeling their way through the untried Federal housing guidelines.

Executive director Joe

Laney reported last night that word is expected soon from HUD on the results of appraisal and environmental clearance work for the proposed site in the Southside urban renewal area designated for 117 units of new housing.

Laney said that a HUD representative completed appraisals and field work on the site recently and the results should be forwarded to the Authority soon.

In the only other matter on a brief agenda, Mrs. Sallye Streeter, director of tenant affairs, reported that all 531 of the Authority's housing units were occupied during November with the average rent for the five projects amounting to $58.45.

She said that rent averages included: N. C. 22-1 (Meadowbrook), $54.08; N.C. 22-2 (Kearney Park), $59.68; N.C. 22-3 (Moyewood), $59.91; N.C. 22-4 (Moyewood), $61.88; and N.C. 22-6 (Newtown), $54.29.

Denies Limit On Agency's Boards

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer

Earl Wright, an official with Department of Health, Education and Welfare's Regional Office in Atlanta, said this morning that regulations now in effect do not limit the size of Health Systems Agency's governing boards, indicating that North Carolina state officials might be acting outside their authority in trying to limit the number persons on the Eastern HSA board.

Gov. James Holshouser yesterday fired the 21-member convener group he appointed several months ago to establish the HSA in 29 Eastern North Carolina counties from Jacksonville to Elizabeth City and from Goldsboro and Rocky Mount to the coast—including Greenville and Pitt County.

That 21-member health planning board—headed by Dr. L.M. Smith of Murfreesboro—has recommended a 66-member board to govern the Area VI HSA.

Dr. Archie Johnson, a deputy to Secretary of Human Resources David Flaherty said Gov. Holshouser wanted each of the regional boards to be composed of 30 members, and felt that the 66 member board proposed in the east would be too large.

Holshouser in firing the 21-member interim board said there was "disunity of effort ... unwillingness to accept guidelines" and said the only way to solve the problem was to name a new board.

Wright said this morning that Federal regulations under which the HSA's are forming have not been finalized but emphasized, "at this moment, I can find nothing in the proposed regulations limiting the size of the board."

"The only thing," Wright continued, "is that if the board exceeds 30 members, an executive committee of up to 25 must be appointed."

The permanent HAS board will be responsible for planning and grant applications for federal programs in health care and hospital construction in their regions.

Smith said the 66-member board proposed for the Eastern area was recommended because of the size of the area and the feeling that each county should be represented by at least one member.

Congressman Paul Rogers of Florida, who sponsored the bill creating the HSA, said the HSA's must be locally controlled health systems organizations in no way subservient to public or private agencies.

Pitt Commissioners OK Plats For 2 Subdivisions

Pitt County Commissioners yesterday approved plans for two subdivisions in accordance with recommendations of the county Planning Board.

Final plats for MacGregor Downs and Sherwood Greens (section 4) were given approval by the board.

Commissioners also made appointments to the Planning Board including: Robert Wilson as a member from Grimesland Township, Milton Spain from Belvoir Township, and Michael Gaskins from Grifton Township.

The board also named Allen Rountree to another term on the Grifton Planning and Zoning Board for Extraterritorial Jurisdiction and John E. Smith as an alternate member of the Grifton board.

Four members were re-appointed to the Pitt County Development Commission. They included John B. Lewis Jr. from Farmville Township, Bruce Beasley Jr. from Fountain Township, Alf Forbes from Falkland Township and Curtis Hendrix from Greenville Township.

Bonds for county officials and employees were also approved by commissioners yesterday.

The bonds approved included: $5,000 for Sheriff Ralph Tyson, $2,000 for Coroner E. W. Harvey Jr., $10,000 for Register of Deeds Elvira T. Allred, $45,000 for auditor H. R. Gray, $25,000 for tax collector William R. Smith, and $10,000 for Pitt Development Commission treasurer Normal Wooten, as well as a $7,500 blanket bond for other Pitt County employees.

The board took note of the fact that W. W. Speight was first made County Attorney 25 years ago—the first Monday in December, 1950.

A special meeting was set for 5 p.m. December 9 to review recommendations from the tax supervisor regarding a reappraisal of property in the county for tax purposes.

NO SIGNAL PLANNED

There are a lot of accidents where Greene Street runs into the Highway 11-13 Bypass. Couldn't there be some kind of signal there?

Department of Transportation Division Traffic Engineer Gerald England said this intersection will be improved along with the total improvement of U.S. 13-N.C. 11 slated to be completed in 1977. A left turn storage lane for Greenfield Boulevard, which is across from Green Street, will be provided at this time and a taper for the northbound traffic wishing to enter Greenfield Boulevard. Most of the traffic entering the highway from Green Street makes a right turn and will have an entry lane. Some islands will be changed to allow smoother traffic flow through the intersection. The project does not include signalization, England said.

APPEAL SUCCESSFUL

The person who appealed through Hotline for the driver of a green Pinto station wagon who may have witnessed an accident in which he was involved reports that the person he was seeking not only came forward, but agreed to tell authorities what he saw happen. An insurance company investigation is pending.

Cousteau Again Warns Mediterranean Is Dying

By SAMUEL KOO Associated Press Writer UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Only massive international efforts can keep pollution from killing every living thing in the Mediterranean Sea except bacteria and viruses, French oceanographer Jacques Cousteau warns.

If the pollution continues, Cousteau told a news conference at United Nations headquarters Monday, the people of Barcelona, Marseilles, Nice, Genoa, Naples and the rest of the coast of southern Europe might have to move dozens of miles inland.

"The Mediterranean is so sick that only a carefully coordinated project on a massive scale can avert the disaster," the 65-year-old ocean explorer said. He estimated the effort would take seven to 15 years if launched immediately.

"If the Mediterranean continues to be intoxicated to the point of dying, the only organisms that will survive will be bacteria and viruses, and it is too frightening to imagine what this could mean to the people in the nearby areas," Cousteau said.

Cousteau would not set a time for the Mediterranean's death, but he said serious harm already has been done. Coastal areas have been completely depleted of fish, he reported, and the open ocean, once at least seven or eight times less fertile than the Mediterranean, is now 15 to 20 times more productive in terms of fish catches.

Cousteau is secretary-general of the International Conference for Scientific Exploration of the Mediterranean and president of the European Oceanic Association. He said foul sea air has forced him to close the windows of his seaside office in Monte Carlo many times.

Wastes from more than 400 million people living in a great arc stretching from the Ural Mountains in the Soviet Union to Lake Victoria in central Africa find their way to the Mediterranean, Cousteau said.

He estimated that 90 per cent of the basin's sewage is dumped untreated into the sea. The level of mercury in some species of fish caught there is close to or above the safety level — 0.5 parts per million — set by the World Health Organization.

Large amounts of pesticides are carried over the sea from agricultural areas and fall with the rain into coastal waters. Factories and industrial plants dump in a variety of heavy metals and chemical compounds.

David Lillienthal Assails Leadership

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — David Lillienthal's cool control belied his distress. "I'm mad as hell this morning," he said, rising from his desk and handing his listener a brief article clipped from the morning newspaper.

The story told of plans to erect near Belleville, Ill. a $237 million pilot plant for the conversion of coal to synthetic crude oil and "natural" gas. Government and private industry would split the initial costs.

"What in hell have we been doing these past 24 years," said Lillienthal, who as chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority and first Atomic Energy Commission chairman, learned you must always be on guard against inertia.

He referred to Page 246, "Volume Three, The Journals of David E. Lillienthal," in which he describes the technology of coal conversion and relates that a private group was ready to build a much larger plant. That was in 1951.

The technology was available then, he said. Informed people knew an alternative to oil was desirable. An investment banking house, Eberstadt & Co., was willing to raise $400 million if assured by government of minimum prices.

"If we meant business that plant would have been built, and through private financing," he said. Other plants would have followed, costs would have fallen, and today we might have had a "very comfortable" alternative to foreign oil.

Now, in the midst of crisis, he said, we finally get moving on a much smaller plant. There was bite but not scorn in his quiet voice. "There is a timidity, a lack of resolution in the decision centers," he said deliberately.

For the past 20 years Lillienthal, 76, has headed his own company, Development and Resources Corp., a unique concern that combines private enterprise and public goals in the large scale, integrated development of natural resources.

One glittering example is the Khuzestan Province of Iran, as large as Illinois, whose land and people were made to blossom by the development of water power, electricity, irrigation, farming, industry, health care facilities and education.

You don't get things done by writing reports, said Lillienthal, briefly recalling his TVA days, when he learned that nothing fails like disbelief and that action itself, even in a small way, always is more convincing than talk.

"We're constipated by reports," he said. In his opinion we're also paralyzed by negativism, and embued with an attitude unbecoming Americans, that problems are too big to handle.

"Our leaders, public and private, are timid and slow and this becomes contagious," he said.

"We're holding ourselves back. If we let ourselves go we have the human energy and resources to do anything we want to do. Human energy distinguishes this country." This he said, is underdeveloped, yet we act as if we can do no more.

"Energy is a basic characteristic of a country," he said. "If you've got it in the people, they produce the electricity and the gas — and the food and the rest of the country's needs."

He stopped abruptly, fearful he said that people might think he was preaching. Preaching and moralizing, you gathered, were about as useless to him as computer printouts that never were read.

Instead, he said, he'd rather talk about specifics first, generalities later. It is in doing something specific — not talking about it or reporting it or analyzing it — that sets the example to follow, he said.

He gave an illustration: His company had access to a roomful of reports in 1961 that told why commercial coal wouldn't be found in certain parts of the Rocky Mountains. A man investigated. "He walked and walked and walked." He found it.

If we must write reports, he said, we should at least make them appealing not to statisticians but to businessmen "who will be willing to stake their money or reputation or company — reports a man will move on."

Referring to admonitions to save rather than use energy, he declared: "What this country needs is more, not less energy. We can't dally. If we do we'll become more and more dependent on foreign oil."

We cannot, he emphasized, wait 24 years more. "In order for the nation to have a major reliance on coal for fuel, feedstocks, gas, gasoline and oil, we need more than just a relatively little plant in Illinois."

He concluded: "Momentum is the secret of American development. If we wait we lose it. I intend to speak out about it. This is the opening."

Japanese Americans Supporting Yoshimura

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Wendy Yoshimura, facing trial in the shadow of Patricia Hearst, is winning strong financial support from Japanese-Americans determined to give her as many legal advantages as possible.

The "Wendy Yoshimura Fair Trial Committee," which has its headquarters in Miss Yoshimura's native Fresno, Calif., is receiving inquiries daily from prospective members across the country, most of them Japanese-Americans, according to committee officials.

One such donor in New York sent $25 with a note saying the contribution was in memory of his father who suffered discrimination during World War II.

Organizers say Miss Yoshimura's legal fund now contains more than $5,000, plus pledges of thousands more from Japanese-Americans offering to insure her bail, currently set at $100,000, for release from the Santa Rita Prison.

Fresno Judge Mikio Uchiyama, who heads the committee's fund-raising efforts, said, "We are not calling it a defense fund because ... we do not endorse (her) philosophy."

Nor are we prejudging her guilt or innocence....

"We just want to be sure that no matter how it comes out, there will be nothing lacking because there wasn't enough money."

Miss Yoshimura, 32, an artist and onetime Vietnam war protester, was a fugitive for three years until she was arrested with Miss Hearst on Sept. 18 in San Francisco. She faces trial in Oakland on state weapons and explosives charges dating to 1972.

She is the daughter of poor Fresno gardeners with little money for a lawyer, a circumstance which won her much sympathy in the Japanese-American community.

Columnist Ellen Endo, who launched the Los Angeles effort in the Japanese-American newspaper, Rafu Shimpo, said, "The community really has rallied to her cause. It has united the conservative and liberal elements in the Japanese-American community...."

Rafu Shimpo recently appealed to its readers to pledge collateral for Miss Yoshimura's release. Other appeals went out from the Buddhist Church and the Japanese-American Citizens League.

In San Francisco, where the bail effort is being coordinated, Edison Uno reports about $17, 000 in pledges already received.

The Fresno committee has limited donations to $10 or less.

"We limited it to $10 because we didn't want to hit anybody real hard in the pocketbook," said insurance agent Mike Iwatsubo, coordinator of the fund.

So far, he said, $5,042.50 has come in, with donations from as far away as Hawaii, Washington, D.C., Pennsylvania and Louisiana.

Bus Driver Is Suspended

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The 16-year-old driver of a school bus which ran into another school bus last week has been suspended permanently. A school official said the brakes on his vehicle worked in a road test.

However, the young driver, Philip Morris Scott Smith, a pupil at East Mecklenburg High School, said he would fight Monday's suspension.

Eight students from Carmel Junior High School were injured last Wednesday when the bus Smith was driving hit the rear of a bus stopped at a Charlotte intersection. Two children suffered broken arms. All were treated and released at a local hospital.

Smith told police he put his foot on the brake when he saw the stopped bus, but the brake pedal went all the way to the floor and his bus failed to stop.

Walter Neely Jr., a transportation specialist with Charlotte-Mecklenburg schools, said he tried the brake soon after the accident and the pedal did not go to the floor.

Neely said he tested the vehicle again Monday and brought it to a quick stop. He said he was going a little over 20 miles per hour and left skid marks of 12 to 14 feet.

"I am positive I hit the brake and I have witnesses," Smith said when told of the suspension.

Almost all materials needed will be furnished by the university. Classes will begin December 10 and continue through February 24. To enroll, call 758-6563 between the hours of 2:00 and 5:00 p.m. on Monday through Friday of this week, December 1-5, 1975.

School Board Hears Speaker

WILLIAMSTON—In continuing action on the Alliance for Progress program, one covering six eastern North Carolina counties, Dr. Norton Beach, Dean of the School of Education, UNC-Chapel Hill, visited the Martin County Board of Education at its December meeting on Monday.

Dr. Beach talked about the six year program funded by a $350,000 Rockefeller grant to provide additional training to principals and supervisors in schools in the six county area.

Eugene Rogers, superintendent of the Martin County Schools, also announced that Alliance for Progress funds would provide money for educators and county commissioners to attend the forthcoming National School Board Association to be held in San Francisco in April.

School board members heard a delegation representing about 15 cafeteria and lunch room managers talk about salary concerns. With the new $2.20 minimum hourly wage rate to go into effect early next year, it was pointed out the supervisory people would be making little more than workers under them drawing the minimum wage.

School board members, while taking no official action, assured the delegation that efforts would be made to locate funds to upgrade the salaries of cafeteria and lunch room managers.

Rogers also reported that the public sale of old sewing machines on Monday resulted in about 30 machines being sold at prices ranging from $6 to $80, with an average of about $40 per machine realized.

A wooden frame building located at the Hayes School in Williamston will be sold at a public sale to take place Friday.

COMPUTER ERROR

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The state secretary of transportation, Jake Alexander, says a recent Washington report that there are 20 functionally obsolete interstate highway bridges in North Carolina was in error. There was a mistake made in programing the computer.

Roy-Ellis Vows Spoken In Thursday Ceremony

BELL ARTHUR — The Bell Arthur Free Will Baptist Church here was the scene of the wedding ceremony Thanksgiving Day of Annie Monk Ellis and Charles Norman Roy at 4:30 p.m.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. N. Gilbert, pastor, and the brother-in-law of the bride, Rev. W. E. Jones. A program of wedding music was presented by Ingrid Renee Jones of Elizabeth City State University, niece of the bride.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Leander Monk Sr. of Bell Arthur and the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roy of Norwalk, Conn.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a chapel length gown fashioned with a high neckline beaded with pearls and iridescents. The full bishop sleeves were styled with pleated cuffs of beaded pearls and iridescents. The A-line skirt extended into a chapel length train during the ceremony.

Her fingertip silk illusion veil was attached to a headpiece of lace, beaded with pearls and iridescents. The ivory gown and veil were styled by Alfred Angelo. The bride carried a bouquet of pink roses, white chrysanthemums and baby's breath accented by net, greenery, and white lace and bridal ribbons.

The chancel of the church was decorated with two candelabra, each holding seven light candles, greenery and an arrangement of white chrysanthemums and white gladioli. The couple knelt for the closing prayer on a white prie-dieu.

Mrs. Dorothy Monk of Philadelphia, Pa., directed the wedding.

The mother of the bride wore a two-piece purple silk suit and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Dorothy Mason, sister of the bridegroom, was honored with a corsage of white carnations.

The maid of honor was Carolyn Monk of Adelphi, Md., sister of the bride. She was dressed in a floor length shrimp knit A-line gown fashioned with a high neckline and long sleeves with streamers in back. She wore a headdress of baby's breath and carried a yellow carnation with yellow ribbon. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Barbara Sylla of Philadelphia, Pa., and Mrs. Hesta Adams of Adelphi, Md., both sisters of the bride. They were dressed in floor length yellow knit gowns styled with square necklines and long sleeves with cuffs. They wore matching headpieces of baby's breath and each carried a long-stemmed yellow carnation with yellow and shrimp ribbons.

The flower girl was Tanya Tene Ellis of Greenville, daughter of the bride. She wore a floor length yellow dress styled like those of the bridesmaids and wore a yellow ribbon in her hair. She carried a basket of petals tied with shrimp and yellow ribbons.

The ring bearer was Dana

MRS. CHARLES NORMAN ROY

Devon Ellis of Greenville, son of the bride.

The best man was David Roy of Norwalk, Conn., brother of the bridegroom, and ushers were Jeffrey Jerome Ellis of Raleigh, son of the bride, and Dr. C. Vince Adams of Adelphi, Md., brother-in-law of the bride. The bride teaches at E. B. Aycock Junior School, Greenville, and the bridegroom is a supervisor in the engineering department at Burndy, Norwalk, Conn.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth trimmed with silver wedding bells and centered with an arrangement of yellow and pink mums. A white covered table held the three tiered wedding cake.

Mrs. Effie Odom, sister of the bride, served the cake after the bridal couple cut the traditional first slice. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Almetta Pevis, sister of the bride, Mrs. Dorothy Mason, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Hilda Barnes, sister of the bride.

Presiding at the guest register was Mrs. Esther Abraham, niece of the bridegroom. Mrs. Ann Love, niece of the bridegroom, presided at the gift table, which was covered with a white cloth and centered with yellow roses.

The fellowship hall was decorated with greenery, yellow and pink roses.

After the reception, the couple left for a wedding trip to Bermuda.

CARE Holiday Plan Gives Cards Double Meaning

NEW YORK (AP) — Special holiday gift cards for remembering friends, relatives and business associates, which at the same time will help the needy around the world, are being offered this year by CARE.

The cards will inform the recipient that a donation has been made to CARE in his or her name, according to Frank L. Goffio, executive director of the overseas aid and development agency.

"Simply send CARE (660 First Ave., New York, N. Y. 10016 or any regional office) the names and addresses of those on your holiday gift list with your contribution — at least $2 for each name," Goffio advises. "Keep a copy of the list so you can sign and address the attractive cards and envelopes that will be sent to you."

Some examples of how far a holiday gift can go, according to Goffio: $2 serves 12 children a daily bowl of porridge for a month; $5 gives 1,000 children a cup of protein-enriched beverage; $10 provides a group of poor farmers two full days' expert training for growing more food; $15 keeps a nurse on duty a full day training local nurses and tending patients; $25 builds a space for three children in a 40-pupil classroom to educate children year after year.

Abby Readers Make Suggestions On 'Keeping' Busy

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Four girls who work in an insurance office complained that they sometimes ran out of work to do, but their boss doesn't permit them to manicure their fingernails, do needlepoint or read magazines. They have to LOOK busy.

They asked, "What should we do?" And you, Dear Abby, the very paragon of honesty, suggested that if they like their jobs, they should keep "looking" busy.

That's not like you, Abby, and it's not honest. There are always extra things to do around an office. You should have advised the secretaries to find such work and honestly do it.

Why didn't you?

CLERGYMAN READER

DEAR READER: Because the secretaries insisted that there was absolutely no work for them to do. But you make a good point, which didn't occur to me until several readers suggested that the girls obtain permission to do typing for charitable organizations.

DEAR ABBY: You asked if any of your readers had ever witnessed a wedding at which the minister asked, "If there be anyone present who knows any just cause why this couple shall not lawfully be joined together, let him speak now or forever hold his peace," and someone actually spoke up.

Well, I have. It was at my wedding. When the minister spoke those words, my father, who was terribly nervous and is slightly hard of hearing, stepped forward and in a clear, strong voice said, "I DO!"

Poor darling thought the minister had asked, "Who gives this woman in marriage?"

I knew my father had been rehearsing that "I do" for weeks, so I quietly said, "Not now, Daddy." But it was too late; the church was already rocking with laughter. Sign me...

BLUSHING BRIDE

DEAR ABBY: While a young couple was visiting us the other evening, my wife pulled out her breast and nursed our 6-week-old son in front of our guests. It bothered me, and I told her so after they went home.

My wife asked the wife of the other couple if it was okay for her to nurse the baby in front of her husband, but she didn't ask if it was okay with me. If she had, I would have told her it wasn't okay and she should seek the privacy of the bedroom.

My wife thinks I am ridiculous and old-fashioned. What do you think?

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Your wife should have asked you and respected your wishes.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for your column on fire prevention. A friend told me that when she had a fire, she was in such a panic when she called the fire department that she couldn't remember her OWN address. Now she keeps the number of the fire department and her own address near every phone. It is also vital for babysitters.

PALOS VERDES READER

DEAR ABBY: I am 14-years-old and ashamed to admit it, but I still wet the bed.

When my friends ask me if I can spend the night with them, I make up an excuse like: "My mother won't let me."

Abby, I know it's a sin to lie, but I just can't tell them that I still wet the bed. Can you help me?

ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: There are more kids your age who still wet the bed than you would believe, and it's nothing to be ashamed of.

Ask your mom to get a "wet alarm." (It's advertised in leading mail-order catalogues—and it really works! After you've tried it, write again and tell me if it worked for you. I care.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell the next reader who asks what to do about a flooded basement to call the fire department. We help in any emergency not involving a crime: sudden illness from simple fainting to heart attacks; accidents from falling out of bed to auto collisions; electrical power failure (anything from a blown fuse to a high voltage wire that could be very dangerous).

We give emergency aid and call an ambulance, doctor or any other agency as required.

We'll even come out and check your home to make sure it's fireproof. Please spread the word, Abby. We want to help.

FRIENDLY FIREMAN
SUN CITY, CALIF.

DEAR FIREMAN: I'll spread the word. The printed word reaches more people than smoke signals.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 30-year-old bachelor. For the last year I've been going with a very pretty, 28-year-old school teacher. I have asked her to marry me, but she says she is not in any hurry to get married.

She told me that she has been taking birth control pills for the last four years "in case she gets raped."

We have never been intimate. Don't get me wrong. I'm no angel. I've tried, but she won't let me. She claims she is still a virgin. As far as I know, she doesn't date anyone else. How do you figure this pill business?

LEARY IN SANTE FE

DEAR LEARY: It's possible, of course. But I find it a little hard to swallow.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

You may not believe this, but I've never met a perfume I couldn't handle.

And I've had them all. The scents that promise to make me more of a woman and him more of a man. The ones guaranteed to start a fire. And the fragrance that drives tall, dark strangers to pacing the beach because they can't get me out of their minds.

That's why I was challenged by a commercial the other night in which a housewife threw aside her soap pad and her apron and burlesqued her way out of a pair of rubber gloves singing, "I've been sweet and I've been good, I've had a whole full day of motherhood."

The next scene switched to their bedroom where she spritzed on some perfume and whispered, "But I'm gonna have an Aviance night."

I have just had possibly the first Aviance night with a GP rating.

It began at 10:30 p.m.: Saturated with scent, approached snoring husband and leaned over to turn off TV set.

10:40: Husband bolted upright and said, "Did I win the car?"

10:43: Asked husband if he noticed anything.

10:44: Husband noted the dog was "gassy" and would I put him outside.

10:45: Dramatically rose from chair and asked spouse if there was anything I could do for him.

10:48: "How about making some popcorn?" he asked.

10:59: Husband sniffed and said, "Do you smell something?"

11:02: Perched provocatively on the arm of his chair, I said huskily, "Tell me about it."

11:04: "It's this glass," he snarled. "You mixed me a drink

Court Nominee Well Regarded

President Ford has named John Paul Stevens as his nominee to fill the Supreme Court position which was vacated by the resignation of ailing Justice William Douglas.

The general opinion of those who study Supreme Court nominees seems to be that Stevens is an able man. He will clearly be more conservative than his predecessor, but he cannot be categorized as liberal or conservative based on his opinions as a U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals judge.

Stevens is well regarded by the legal profession and the general feeling seems to be that he will make an able justice. For that reason it is not felt that there will be any major difficulty in getting the nomination confirmed in the Senate.

Certainly the Senate should look over the Stevens nomination carefully, but the nation doesn't need a major controversy over the nominee such as occurred with two of President Nixon's choices. While that doesn't mean that the Senate shouldn't study Stevens' background, we can hope that nothing will be turned up that will bring on a bruising fight.

The choice of who will serve on the Supreme Court is one of the most important decisions that a president has to make. It looks as if President Ford has chosen carefully in nominating John Paul Stevens, and unless something unforeseen is turned up we can expect that his nomination will be confirmed.

Bike Race Idea Merits Consideration

Let's not just brush that Murphy-to-Manteo bicycle race under the rug.

To begin with, it's an imaginative idea; secondly, if it works the race could be a money-maker for North Carolina and the communities involved.

Bicycle racing is a big thing in Europe; bigger than most people on this side of the ocean imagine. For reasons we cannot understand over here, bike racing captures the public interest in Belgium, France, Italy and neighboring states. People wait in the streets to watch the cyclists sprinting past ... not mere hundreds of people, but thousands.

Not all "imported" sports and games click with the American public, but enough do to make one more import at least a sporting proposition.

The proposal merits serious consideration. North Carolina has a lot of tourist attractions and a goodly number of major sports activities which bring added money into the state. One more, with the extra novelty bicycle-racing brings with it, shouldn't be shrugged off.

As of today the number of bike-racing aficionados in eastern North Carolina might be counted on one's fingers; but who's to predict what tomorrow will bring?

Disagree On Drug Sources

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — While agreeing to work together on a drug crackdown around the Ft. Bragg military camp, the camp's commanding general and the state's attorney general are in strong disagreement on where the drugs come from.

The pushers are preying on his men, says the general.

Yes, says the attorney general, but the pushers are mainly military men, or former ones.

Is the state's concentration of military bases responsible for the flow of dope into and through North Carolina, making this state the most important conduit 'certainly in the Southeast, perhaps in the nation'?

"That might have been the case four, five, or six years ago, but not any longer," says Lt. Gen. Henry E. Emerson, who met with Attorney General Rufus Edmisten recently to talk about more effective ways to combat drugs.

Hit Soldiers
His concern, Gen. Emerson

says, is that dope pushers are attacking his men. "The stuff is available on the streets ... hard stuff, heroin, LSD. And that is something new, and we must take precautionary steps."

While sounding the alarm, the general admits having a problem, but denies that it is damaging combat readiness of his troops. "They are not staggering on duty ... not dying of overdoses."

The ready availability is his chief concern, and the stuff is coming in to all sorts of isolated parts of the state. "We can't prove it exactly, but we don't think it is coming through the base ... it was at one time, but now it is being handled by people in little, ole towns all over — 40 and 50 miles away," Gen. Emerson argues.

Edmisten doesn't necessarily agree.

"Military bases do have access to transportation, and they have numerous personnel who have been to the countries where illegal drugs are readily accessible.

"And, they know how to get it into this country," Edmisten says. He points to the overabundance of present and former military men among the ranks of convicted and suspected drug pushing operators.

At one time, drugs from the Far East, especially Vietnam and Cambodia, dominated traffic into this nation. Now, says Gen. Emerson, the major supplies come from Mexico, including the influx of heroin which he is so alarmed about now.

Isolated Ports
Edmisten recently complained that isolated stretches of Carolina coastline and ready availability of rural airstrips are providing readymade ports of entry for drugs. Much of the stuff is received in North Carolina, then transported out of the state for sale in higher use sections of the country.

Haywood Starling, acting director of the State Bureau of Investigation, confirms Edmisten's suspicions: "There is, as best we can tell, more heroin coming into and through North Carolina than any other part of the United States, certainly the highest flow through any state in the Southeast."

How serious is the problem?

Edmisten pointed to recent crackdowns in some eastern counties which netted numerous dealers and their stores.

"If we had the manpower, we could march through this state and make the same kinds of massive arrests anywhere in the state," Edmisten said. He is pushing for more manpower when the General Assembly convenes next Spring.

Recent statewide studies of drug arrests and conviction figures, cases handled by drug abuse centers, and medical treatment in overdose cases pointed at the concentrations of young people around military bases and colleges as the most significant concentrations of drug use in the state.

But the question still remains, where is the pipeline?

A FINGER IN THE PIES!

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Angola's Tide And Time

Time is running out in Africa. In another few weeks, unless the United States provides decisive leadership for the Western world, Angola will be lost to Communist domination. The situation is bleak, but it is not beyond redemption.

One of the melancholy factors is that few Americans know much or care greatly about Angola. It lies for a thousand miles along the southwest coast of Africa, an immense land, almost as large as Britain, France and Spain combined. Until last month, it was a province of beleaguered Portugal. Next month, for all practical purposes, it could become a virtual satellite of the Soviet Union.

It is a maddening spectacle to watch, this disintegration of Angola. They say that chickens come home to roost, and in this grim business we have a henhouse full.

It might have been possible for the Central Intelligence Agency to avert this calamity—but the CIA has been crippled by a moralizing Senate. At one time, before detente, we might have confronted the Kremlin boldly; but the Ford-Kissinger administration is obsessed with detente and would not be beastly to the Reds. If domestic political considerations did not weigh so heavily, the President might do what needs to be done; but the President is thinking politically now.

Two major groups are contending for control of Angola. The MPLA, directed by Angostinho Neto, is supplied, armed, and financed by the Soviet Union; it controls the capital at Luanda and a part of central Angola. The FNLA, directed by Holden Roberto, is oriented toward the West; it controls most of the rest of the country, including Nova Lisboa and the major port at Lobito.

Other Editors Say An Impossibility

(Washington Daily News)

Americans might bemoan the fact that the Secret Service cannot be absolutely sure in its protection of the president or of presidential candidates.

In recent times President Ford has supposedly been attacked twice. Candidate Ronald Reagan has been allegedly attacked with a toy gun. Now to use this word "attacked" might represent a stronger action than is the real case. But the point in mind, as we look at the picture, is that regardless of how much we try to protect a president or a presidential candidate, the job is simply impossible to do perfectly.

We could have a hundred men around a given individual protecting him from attack, but in a distant window might be a killer with a sharpshooter's mind and if he has a gun to match the mind, a candidate could fall.

Let us not forget that President Kennedy was killed in this manner. Let us not forget also that Robert Kennedy was slain by an assassin. Let us not forget that George Wallace will forever be a cripple because protection was inadequate and a would be killer gunned him down.

So long as presidential candidates go out after votes, so long as they mingle with the crowds shaking hands, and so long as they do not cooperate completely with the Secret Service, then we shall likely have attacks made upon people on many occasions.

As we look at the picture the arrests have been made, but in reality both the arrests made for attacks on President Ford and the attack made on Ronald Reagan wished them to be. That is most important. Lynette Fromme could have killed President Ford. Michael Lance Corvin could have killed Ronald Reagan. They merely frightened people, and they were arrested. Let us not forget that they might have been charged with murder with just a few changes in the makeup of the story.

The thought is frightening, and while we realize that presidential candidates in the public eye must take many chances it comes down to a decision which must be made as to protection of presidential candidates and punishment for those who try to attack candidates.

America apparently is spending too much time and money protecting those who attack presidential candidates and not enough time and money prosecuting and punishing those who are guilty.

It is time first of all to put our house in order. The Secret Service can only try to give adequate protection.

The Secret Service alone just cannot do the job.

INSIDE REPORT

Ford And The China Chill

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON—The chill that started cooling President Ford's trip to China long before he left Washington raised the prospect of outright postponement during Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's preparatory visit to Peking last month.

Although he specifically did not recommend postponement or cancellation, Kissinger did advise Mr. Ford that he had that option. In fact, the option was immediately discarded. Such a move would have been read by the Chinese as an obeisance to the Soviets.

Stunned by the lack of warmth that greeted him when he arrived in Peking Oct. 19, Kissinger recommended in a secret cable to the White House that Mr. Ford sharply curtail the original plan for the trip. That plan had projected a week-long stay in China with ceremonial trappings, putting the Ford trip roughly on a par with the historic 1972 visit of former President Nixon.

But the chill that descended on Kissinger the moment he arrived in Peking in October demanded abrupt change. Kissinger recommended that the Ford visit be radically downgraded by cutting it to four days, eliminating frivolous ceremony and adding a couple of other stops on the Asian tour. The recommendation was carried out.

The chill in the Washington-Peking connection comes at a time when Mr. Ford could not even begin to do what the Chinese Communists want: speed the divorce between the U.S. and Nationalist China. With Ronald Reagan and the Republican party's right wing breathing down Mr. Ford's neck, final repudiation of Taipei would be presidential suicide.

Lifewise, the President seems totally unable to deal with other major concerns in Peking: the slow unraveling of the U.S.-dominated North Atlantic Treaty Organization; continuing glaring publicity over excesses of American espionage, particularly foreign assassinations; what the Chinese perceive as general unsteadiness in the American government.

All this deeply troubles Peking, where the U.S. connection is given only one value: a brake on Soviet expansionism. Washington's instability the last three years, however, deeply worries Chinese leaders.

That explains the chill over events leading up to Mr. Ford's visit, a climate which top presidential aides doubt the President will be able to warm up.

Thus, only one limited

40 Years Ago Today

December 2, 1935
The British Cabinet debated today the question of tightening the iron rings of sanctions imposed on Italy for initiating a war of occupation in Ethiopia.

Talk of peace in east Africa, the purpose of the sanctions, languished as British attention turned to an oil embargo to freeze Italy into submission to the will of her sister states in the League of Nations.

Combined Ethiopian armies, totalling 400,000 men, were reported today to be ready to attack the Italian forces in northern Ethiopia, perhaps at dawn tomorrow.

Strength For Today

KEEPING TRAFFIC OPEN
Road maintenance crews repairing streets or roads seldom shut down arteries of traffic entirely. Instead they repair one section at a time, always leaving a lane of traffic open so that the commercial life of the area can go on as usual.

The repair of lives, when damaged by some unfortunate circumstance, should be carried on in the same way. We should try to solve our problems in such a way that the stream of traffic is not interrupted by what we are doing. We will repair a little here and smooth a bit there so that life goes on about us at the same tempo as usual. It is terrible indeed when one adjourns purposeful living for a time because of a sorrow or disappointment—because of something which has roughed life up for a while and made the going hard.

Do your repairing on the side. Keep at least one lane carrying the stream of your life experiences open at all times.

Less Agency Control

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has assigned a special committee to push for changes intended to promote business competition and benefit travelers, television viewers and many other consumers.

But some officials fear that election-year pressure from big business may cause Congress and possibly the White House to delay that effort and other reforms in the antitrust laws.

The centerpiece of the attack is an effort to diminish the power of government regulatory agencies to set rates and operating conditions in the industries they control. Department officials believe the agencies, which have developed since the 1930s, too often side against consumers and shield existing businesses from the pressures of competition.

There are conflicting estimates about the financial impact on consumers if the department succeeds in the drive to reduce government regulation of industries which account for about one-twelfth, or $120 billion, of the U.S. economy annually.

Department officials say they consider it's reasonable to assume that regulated industries charge about 10 per cent more than if they faced normal competitive pressures.

By that estimate, consumers might save as much as $12 billion a year if those industries lost the protection of most government regulations.

While the department argues for more competition, those who support the regulatory agencies contend that some industries are so vulnerable to financial failure that they could not survive cut-throat competition and the public would lose vital services.

The supporters also say that government regulation is necessary to insure that some companies, such as the airlines, serve communities needing them even though some operations may lose money.

Some administration officials blame intense industry lobbying for a significant but little-noticed defeat which the House Rules Committee delivered to the antitrust reform drive last month.

Public Forum

To the editor:

Because of the many phone calls directed to members of the Pitt County Humane Society about neglected and sick yard dogs, we want to inform the public that there is a City Statute to cover such conditions. Section 5-19 of the Animal Control Ordinance covers such cases and may be checked out at the Animal Control Office at City Hall or copies may be obtained at the City Animal Shelter.

Complaints or notifications of such cases may be made by writing to the Animal Control Office at City Hall or by phoning the City of Greenville, Animal Control Office, who will send an officer to investigate such cases as they have the authority to obtain corrections of all conditions of neglect or nuisance. Section 5-22 also takes care of neglected or sick animals for which complaints are made, particularly when owners leave town.

A Short-Cut For NYC Funds

By DAVE RILEY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's $2.3-billion plan for federal aid to New York City is taking a short-cut through Congress, and backers of the proposal say they expect it to win approval.

New York Mayor Abraham Beame is scheduled to meet with congressional leaders today as the House begins consideration of the plan Ford offered to help the city avoid default.

Congress returned from its Thanksgiving recess on Monday and began plans for dealing with the proposal House leaders immediately agreed to scrap the aid bill already under consideration and to substitute the Ford plan as an amendment, which means the measure does not have to travel through committee to reach the floor.

The President announced last week that he had changed his staunch opposition to any aid for New York. He outlined a proposal that would offer federal loans to the city during each of the next three years. The loans would be repayable each year at interest rates up to 1 per cent higher than the federal government pays to borrow money.

The Ford plan requires New York to revamp its fiscal system and keep its financial affairs under tight control.

The measure the Ford plan replaces had already won approval from the House Banking Committee and would have called for the federal government to guarantee repayment of private loans to New York. Ford's opposition had given that plan little chance of success.

The Ford measure was introduced in the Senate by Republicans John Tower of Texas and Jacob Javits of New York. Javits called Ford's plan "the very minimum" to assure New York's fiscal survival.

House Majority Whip John J. McFall, D-Calif., said the Ford measure should pass easily now that the President is behind it, although conservative opposition still is expected.

And there was still the threat in the Senate of a filibuster from Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., who told his constituents in a weekend speech that Ford's measure would "reward bad management."

Cutting off a filibuster would require the votes of 60 senators. Acting Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said he did not see any problem in getting that many votes.

Beame, in Miami Beach, Fla., Monday for the annual meeting of the National League of Cities, said he thinks New York can avert default if Congress acts quickly on the Ford plan.

Beame said Ford's turnaround on New York aid "had a tinge of politics to it." He added that "politically, his first actions in denying us aid undoubtedly had hurt him very badly. As for this action, it's hard to say immediately how it will affect him."

malignant—what then?
Instead of decisive action, we get murmuring noises. In his speech of Nov. 24 in Detroit, Secretary Kissinger had only this to say: "We cannot ignore the substantial Soviet buildup of weapons in Angola, which has introduced great-power rivalry into Africa for the first time in 15 years. This Soviet involvement is resented by African nations most of all, but the United States cannot be indifferent while an outside power embarks upon an interventionist policy so distant from its homeland and so removed from traditional Russian interests."
Cannot ignore? Cannot be indifferent? From all surface indications this is precisely what our flabby policy has been. The Soviet Union, tossing its Helsinki pledges to the winds, is made of sterner stuff. Behind the Kremlin's walls, detente is not the be-all and the end-all.
There is a tide in the affairs of men, said Brutus, which taken at the flood leads on to fortune. The Ford administration hesitates at the thought of Soviet reaction, while senators roll their pietistic eyes at the horrid CIA. We are missing the tide; and it may not return in Africa for a long, long time.

Other House and Senate members may bow to the industry pressure unless there is a greater public demand for the proposed reforms, the officials said.
At any rate, the department has made "a long-term commitment" to the reform effort with creation of the special committee in the antitrust division, said Jonathan C. Rose, a deputy assistant attorney general who is responsible for its operation.
The reform movement involves these proposals:
—Legislation lifting many of the restrictions on industries subject to government regulation. These include truck and bus lines, cable television, and the major airlines.
—Legislation which could apply antitrust laws to the agriculture and insurance industries for the first time.
—Legislation authorizing state attorneys general to sue antitrust violators for triple damages on behalf of the citizens of a state.
—Reform or repeal of the Robinson-Patman Act which prohibits manufacturers from offering special low prices, such as quantity discounts, to some merchants and not to others.
—Repeal of fair trade laws which allow manufacturers to set the retail sale price of their products.

Hearings Begin On CP&L Hike

RALEIGH (AP)—Hearings began today on Carolina's Power and Light Co.'s record rate increase request that would give the company an additional $82 million a year.

The 22 per cent increase will be argued before a three-person panel of the state Utilities Commission.

If the full increase were granted, the typical customer who uses 1,000 kilowatts of power a month would see his bill go from $30.13 to $37.12. Actually, that customer is already paying $34.07 because CP&L was granted an interim 12 per cent rate increase in August. The company said it needed additional funds immediately. If the final decision by the commission gives CP&L less than 12 per cent, customers will be refunded overpayments they made while the interim increase was in effect.

One of the primary reasons the company gives for needing the increase is to attract investment capital. In February, the firm's bond rating fell from A to BAA with Moody's Investment Corp. of New York, though it is still A with Standard and Poor.

The Utilities Commission has set aside four weeks for the company to present its evidence and for opponents to argue their case.

Deputy Atty. Gen. I. Beverly Lake will oppose the increase. He said CP&L's earnings have improved and the increase isn't necessary.

The three commissioners to hear the case are George Clark, Lester Teal and Barbara Simpson. They will make a recommendation in the case to the full commission.

Earlier this year, the General Assembly expanded the commission from five to seven members and authorized it to hear cases in panels of three. That was done to help ease the backlog of cases pending before the commission.

Claims Fear Of Blackmail

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Richard M. Nixon personally ordered secret files on wiretaps of newsmen and government officials moved from the Justice Department to the White House for fear that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover would use them for "blackmail," John D. Ehrlichman says.

Ehrlichman, who was a top aide to the resigned president, said Nixon had been urged to move the files to the White House by Robert C. Mardian, the assistant attorney general in charge of the records.

In a deposition filed Monday in connection with a suit challenging the legality of the wiretaps, Ehrlichman said Mardian was afraid of the late FBI director and worried that he might send his agents to break into the office and remove the files.

He said Mardian feared he might be harmed by Hoover or his agents.

Ehrlichman testified that Hoover "was not above blackmailing the President" and that he might use the wiretap files "to secure whatever he wanted from the President," including a guarantee that his job would be protected.

The wiretap files were removed from Mardian's office in 1971. They were found in 1973 in a White House safe.

Ehrlichman's deposition was filed in a suit by former White House aide Morton Halperin, whose telephone was tapped for 21 months in an attempt by the White House to halt information leaks to the press. The telephones of 17 newsmen also were tapped.

Negotiating For New TV Series

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Singer Cher and ex-husband Sonny Bono, who ended their marriage as well as their popular television variety show last season, may be headed for a new series together.

Jay Bernstein, a publicist for Bono, declined comment on reports the entertainer was negotiating with CBS for a new series with his former wife, possibly as early as February.

Cher was married to rock music star Gregg Allman on June 30, three days after her divorce from Bono. Nine days later, she filed for divorce from Allman but withdrew the petition in August.

Then, last month, Allman filed a petition at Macon, Ga., saying the couple was separated again and asking that the marriage be dissolved.

Both Sonny and Cher went on with separate variety shows at the start of the fall season. His was canceled while hers — although still on the air — has suffered declining ratings.

Hines, has been a member of the board since 1960, while Martin replaces Calvin Henderson who was not re-elected in the Nov. 4 municipal election.

Mayor Walter Dail expressed appreciation to Henderson for the fine job he had done during his four years on the town board.

The town board accepted the canvass results of the Pitt County Board of Election for the Nov. 4 election. The cost of the election was $297.11, including $100 for administration, clerical and record keeping.

Mayor Dail made the following appointments to the aldermen: Hines, mayor pro-tem in charge of the electrical and fire departments; Bobby Crawford, water, sewer, sanitation and drainage; and Martin, police, rescue and recreation. Mayor Dail will be in charge of the street department and will assist Crawford with drainage.

Martin was appointed to a four-year term on the Contentnea Metropolitan Sewerage District, effective Dec. 4. He replaces Calvin Henderson.

Town Clerk Elwood Nobles explained the new cost of paving to property owners will be $2 per foot for property adjoining the street. Paving done during November will be billed on the new schedule.

A Christmas tree will be placed on the town lot and will be lighted on Dec. 12.

The board heard a request from Statewide Industries for the annexation into the town limits of six acres of land adjoining the present, Sonoco site.

The property is a proposed site for a new plastics plant that has a pilot operation in Ayden.

Mayor Dail was asked to look into the cost to the town to provide services to the site before any action is taken by the board.

Two Meetings Held By Williamston Town Bd.

WILLIAMSTON—Two meetings of the Williamston Town Board were held Monday night; the first by the outgoing mayor and town commissioners, the second by the new mayor and new slate of commissioners following a swearing in ceremony held between the two meetings.

Among old business agenda items was a public hearing to consider a zoning ordinance amendment that would make used car lots a permissible use for downtown commercial zone. With no objections offered from the public, the outgoing town board approved the amendment.

Also approved was a pre-application requesting $500,000 in HUD sponsored Community Development funds for the expansion and completion of the town's ongoing community development project.

A final item on the old business agenda was that of a requested cul-de-sac at the end of Price

Street, which was approved.

After competing action on the three old agenda items, the board adjourned at 8 p.m. and reconvened at 8:15 p.m. Rev. Jack Holt offered a prayer, followed by a review of the history of Williamston given by Judge Charles H. Manning.

Judge Manning then performed the swearing in ceremony for Robert H. Cowen, Williamston's first new mayor in 20 years; and for the five member board of town commissioners... Thurman Perry, William Honeyblue, John Rogers, John Hayden and David Hughes. Perry is the only incumbent remaining on the town board and was elected mayor pro-tem.

In a brief meeting, the new mayor and commissioners pledged support of public projects started by the former mayor and board of commissioners; approved a resolution to retain all the current town employees; and established a 7:30 p.m. hour on the first Monday night of each month as the meeting time for the board.

A special meeting was set for Wednesday night this week to conduct a public hearing on the third action stage of a Housing Authority neighborhood development project. Other items are also expected to appear on the Wednesday schedule.

Just before Thanksgiving, the outgoing board of commissioners, the mayor-elect and commissioners elect held a special meeting to honor N. Cortez Green, who has served an uninterrupted 20 year span as mayor of Williamston—from 1955 until this year. Prior to that, Green had been a town commissioner continuously from 1929 until elected mayor in 1955.

A portrait of Green was unveiled at the event honoring him for his long public service.

No Signs Of Opposition To Stevens As Justice

By MIKE MOORE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nomination of John Paul Stevens to the Supreme Court appears to face only the question of when rather than whether the Senate will confirm him, according to preliminary indications.

President Ford's selection has met with generally favorable reaction in the legal community and in Congress, where so far there have been no signs of serious opposition to the nomination.

The Senate Judiciary Committee is to begin hearings Dec. 8 on Stevens, who is Ford's first nominee to the high court, Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said Monday.

After a lengthy conversation, Eastland emerged to say Stevens seemed "very pleasant and capable."

Eastland said that if the committee's hearings are to be completed before Congress leaves for Christmas recess, there will have to be practically no opposition.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., deputy majority leader and a member of the Judiciary Committee, said he doubted the Senate could act on the nomination before adjourning, especially if recess begins Dec. 12.

Byrd told reporters there would a better chance if, as appears likely, adjournment is delayed until Dec. 19.

In naming the 55-year-old jurist to the court, Ford said he hoped the Senate would act promptly to bring the court to full strength. Stevens was nominated to fill the seat of retired Justice William O. Douglas.

"It is fair to assume they mean to colonize Africa..." Moynihan said the only restraint on the Soviets is opposition from China and "the fact that the United States will call them in stances of open military operations, as indeed the secretary of state has done."

"Blocked at one point, (the Soviets) shift to another," Moynihan added.

He said the anti-Zionism resolution "was seen as an Arab initiative, but was it?"

The ambassador noted that a member of the Soviet-bloc, the Ukraine, was among sponsors of the resolution, "which directly served an announced Soviet cause."

Moynihan recalled a 1971 Pravda article accusing Jews of anti-Semitism and a public campaign in Russia including a television documentary in which former Israeli leader David Ben-Gurion's face was superimposed on a picture of Adolph Hitler.

Two days after passage of the Zionism resolution in the U.N. General Assembly, Moynihan said a Russian news agency writer likened Zionism to the kind of racism practiced in Hitler's Germany.

WASHINGTON (AP)—United Nations Ambassador Daniel P. Moynihan said today recent moves by the Soviet Union in Angola demonstrate an intention to "colonize" all of Africa.

Moynihan also accused the Soviets of engineering a recent United Nations resolution declaring Zionism to be a form of racism.

In a speech to the fourth "Pacem in Terris" convocation sponsored by the Center for Democratic Studies, Moynihan said the United States should expect the Soviet Union to expand its influence wherever the United States is unlikely to intercede.

Schools Idled In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP)—In anticipation of what may become a lengthy public school teachers' strike, the Pittsburgh Board of Public Education has furloughed more than 700 nonstriking employees.

About 3,700 teachers and 700 aides represented by the Pittsburgh Federation of Teachers walked off their jobs Monday after rejecting the board's final contract proposal, forcing suspension of all school activities for the city's 62,000 public school pupils.

A board spokesman said 400 nonunion teachers, counselors and other professionals and 317 food service workers were laid off, and the status of another 1,400 nonstriking employees would be determined as the strike continued.

The spokesman said the only school district employees not subject to layoff were 155 security aides.

Other casualties of the strike included 33 day care centers, Head Start programs, interscholastic athletics and various groups who use school buildings for meetings and recreation.

The day care centers, run by the school system, are subsidized by state and federal funds administered by the state Welfare Department.

The Urban League runs a similar program, but Robert Sorrell, assistant executive director, said the League's centers have "little room, if any" for the 500 children in the school district centers.

Teachers, meanwhile, said they planned to set up tutoring centers for some students, especially high school seniors, if the walkout continues into the new year.

Teachers currently earn $8,700 to $16,700 a year. The union had asked for annual raises of $1,300 to $3,500 beginning in January, but the board's last offer was a $1,000 across-the-board annual pay hike, effective next September.

Pitt Chairman For Ford's Campaign

Mrs. Barbara Ellis of Greenville has been named Pitt County campaign manager for Pres. Gerald Ford's election campaign.

The announcement of Mrs. Ellis' appointment was made by President Ford Committee co-chairman for North Carolina, Mrs. Margaret King and Jim Peden Jr.

Mrs. Ellis is active in community affairs and politics in Pitt and is currently serving as vice-chairman of the Pitt County Republican Party and second vice-chairman of the Pitt County Republican Women's Club. She is also a member of the League of Women Voters, the Clio Book Club and serves as treasurer of the Eastern Carolina Chapter of the National Organization for Women.

Mrs. King, noting Mrs. Ellis' active role in the Republican Party said, "I think Barbara's appointment is indicative of the many party leaders in North Carolina who are helping us organize a strong county-wide campaign for Gerald Ford."

"President Ford has come many times to North Carolina to help the Republican Party, and it is paying off with strong support for his nomination and election among our Republicans."

Disaster Area Due Crop Losses

LILLINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Harnett County has been declared an agricultural disaster area by the County Commission as a result of crop losses caused by bad weather this year.

In a meeting Monday, the commission heard a report from several farm agencies that said 1,500 of the county's 2,200 farmers suffered losses from alternating periods of drought and rainfall between May and August.

Farmers lost $6.75 million because tobacco yields were 20 per cent below normal, the commission was told. Also, there was a loss of $4.5 million because corn, soybeans and other crops were as much as 20 or 35 per cent below normal, the report said.

The county has applied for federal loan guarantees amounting to $2.5 million to aid stricken farmers.

Cincinnati Has Woman Mayor

CINCINNATI (AP)—Bobbie Sterne has been sworn in as Cincinnati's first regularly elected woman mayor, succeeding Theodore Berry, the city's first black mayor.

A 20-year veteran of Cincinnati politics, Mrs. Sterne was first elected to the city council in 1971. The council elects the mayor from among its members.

She will serve only the first year of a two-year term, since the Democratic and Charter parties alternate the mayor's seat at the beginning of each term. The coalition of the two parties has held a city council majority since it was formed in 1971.

East Carolina Wrestlers Again Should Be Cream Of Loop's Crop

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer
(One of a series)

East Carolina's wrestling team has been in three tournaments already and have done very well winning one, taking an unofficial championship in a second and taking three individual titles in a third. But Coach John Cannon Welborn is running out of ammunition. Injuries have taken their toll of the Pirates wrestlers and Welborn is down to a handful of healthy grapplers. He had a fine group when the season started, he said, but right now, "We're beat up. Out of 30 I have 15 or 17 that can wrestle. Right now we are depleted. We have a lot of good kids hurt."

Welborn was hoping the injuries would clear up over the Thanksgiving holidays and the Pirates would return full strength.

The Bucs got the year off right winning the Thanksgiving Open for the umpteenth time in a row. The weekend before the break three Pirates took individual titles in the North Carolina Collegiate Wrestling tournament.

When they return to full strength, Welborn expects the Pirates to have good depth, something that has been a strong point for the Bucs in past seasons. He hopes to have at least two healthy wrestlers at every position.

So far, Welborn has been trying to give his freshmen and sophomores a lot of wrestling time. "Experience is vital to a freshmen or a sophomore," he said. "We have four or five starting a match. They need as much tournament time as they can get."

But with the good showing so far, the team has not given Welborn a lot to sing about. "We haven't looked like I want us to look," he said. He expects better things after the wrestlers return.

At 118, Welborn has two young wrestlers in sophomore Jeff Curtis and freshman Wendell Hardy. "Jeff was a North Carolina state high school champion at Greensboro. He'll be a favorite in that position but he is injured," said Welborn. "He'll be pushed by Hardy, a freshman. He was a Virginia state champion and needs experience. He will get better as the season goes along."

One of ECU's best performers, Paul Ketcham returns at 126. "He has won a number of titles," said the coach. Ketcham will be depended on heavily. He is a senior.

Behind Ketcham is James Kirby, a freshman from Virginia. "He was a state champ and is getting better. He placed third in the N.C. Collegiate. Ketcham won the Thanksgiving Open but was upset by one point in the N.C. Collegiate. He is very consistent."

More experience returns at 134 in Paul Osman, a sophomore.

- Gardner-Webb 104 USC-Spartanburg 77
- Atlantic Christian 79 Belmont Abbey 66
- Western Carolina 81 Mars Hill 78
- Campbell 74 High Point 73
- Central Wesleyan 81 Lander 70
- The Citadel 81 UNC-Wilmington 63
- Newberry 88 Presbyterian 76

"He has a lot of potential. We might bring him down a weight later. We expect real good things from Paul."

Behind Osman is Clay Scott. "He's a sophomore. He won the Monarch Open at 142 and has potential. He was injured last year, off and on this year, and is injured now. He will help us," said Welborn.

Another big name in ECU wrestling, Tom Marriott returns at 142. Tom is a three time Southern Conference champion from New York. He has won a large number of titles and his knowledge will be a big help for the Pirates.

Also at 142 is Bucky Baker but he is currently sporting a knee cast. Welborn says he is an outstanding wrestler, with the cast off that is. He is expected back around the first of the year.

"At 150 is Paul Thorpe, a sophomore. He was conference champion and North Carolina champion. He will give us strength. He's got a lot to learn but did a great job as a freshman."

Paul Prewitt, a junior, was out last year recovering from elbow surgery. He is doing a good job this year. Also at 158 is Roger Burns. He started last year but was ineligible the first quarter this year. He will be trying to get his starting spot back once he is eligible.

"At 167 is Phil Mueller, a junior," said Welborn. "He sat out last year. He transferred from the University of Wisconsin. He placed second in the NAAIA as a sophomore and won the N.C. Invitational. He will help us. We also have Mark Peters. In time he will be a solid performer."

The Pirates have another conference champ at 177 in Ron Whitcombe. He won the N.C. tournament for the fourth year and is another solid performer. Backing him up is Mitch Burr, a transfer from Western Carolina. He has improved and Welborn expects to get help from him.

Two-time conference champ Mike Radford returns at 190. He East Carolina University's Pirates must try to rebound quickly from their devastating loss to the number two ranked Maryland Terapins Saturday night. Tomorrow night, they face the 13th ranked N.C. State Wolfpack in Raleigh.

The Pirates, in bowing to Maryland, 127-84, suffered one of their worst defeats, and saw the Terps tie the all-time high against an East Carolina team.

"We kinda stood around and watched," Coach Dave Patton said. "We didn't play hard. We opened up real good, but after Al (Edwards) got his third foul—he and Reggie Lee were keeping us in the game—a couple of things went wrong. We got down by ten points and suddenly realized who we were playing."

"We didn't play defense, we didn't rebound, we didn't play offense, we didn't have teamwork, and we didn't hustle," Patton added.

"They were number three (last week) and they played like it. A lot of times you run up against a ranked team who doesn't play to their rank, but they did. And I think knowing that either the first or second ranked team was going to lose, they wanted to impress someone," Patton said. He was referring to the fact that Terp Coach Lefty Driesell left his first unit in the game, despite the margin, until just minutes remained. "I'd like to be able to return the favor some day."

Patton said that if anything good came out of the game, it was the players realizing that they have to work if they want to have a good team. "You don't get anything free of charge in this game; you've got to work like the devil for it."

The coach was pleased with the way the Bucs played during the first 15 minutes of the game. "But I was disappointed in our defense. I put them in a passive defense, and this is something that's not my style. I don't like to play this way; I want to be aggressive. That and our board play were the biggest disappointment."

Patton also expressed pleasure in the way Al Edwards and Reggie Lee played. "They were not awed by Maryland," he said. Patton also got a surprise from big 6-10 Tyrone Edwards, who played unlike a freshman. "He took a big step toward becoming a college level player in the game," the coach said.

One of the problems faced against Maryland could be a problem against State, too, Patton warned. "If we let them control the boards like Maryland did, we're going to get killed," he said. "They're tougher on the boards than Maryland is. They've got a big man in the middle and two premier forwards in Phil Spence and Kenny Carr. And they have one of the best guards around in Al Green. (State Coach Norm) Sloan said he thinks they'll be a better team at the end of this year than they were last year, and I agree with him.

"We're going to have to get Spence and Carr off the boards and control them ourselves. If we do this, keep our poise and play the defense I know we're capable of playing, then I think we can make a game of it."

Patton probably will start Tyrone Edwards at the center, with either Larry Hunt, Wade Henkel or Earl Garner at the big forward, while Al Edwards will handle the small forward. Buzzy Braman and Lee will be the guards.

Tipoff is set for 7:30 p.m. in Reynolds Coliseum at State. The next Pirate outing will be in the Southern Conference against VMI at Lexington, Va., Saturday.

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Four repeaters, led by Ohio State's Archie Griffin, the 1974 Heisman Trophy winner, have been named to The Associated Press 1975 college football All-America team along with Oklahoma's Selmon brothers, Leroy and Dewey.

The Selmons thus completed a family sweep which began when their older brother Lucious was named to the 1973 All-America team as a middle guard. Leroy is a 256-pound defensive tackle while Dewey is a 257-pound nose guard.
In addition to Griffin, major college football's first 5,000-yard rusher, the other repeaters from the 1974 All-America team are center Rik Bonness of Nebraska, defensive end Leroy Cook of Alabama and defensive back Pat Thomas of Texas A&M.
The Selmon brothers are joined on the 1975 squad by teammate Jimbo Elrod, a defensive end, giving Oklahoma three men on the front five.

Joining Griffin in the backfield are a trio of stars from the Pacific-8 Conference — quarterback John Sciarra, who guided UCLA to its first Rose Bowl in 10 years; running back Ricky Bell of Southern California, who led the nation with 1,875 yards, just six short of the NCAA single-season record, and running back Chuck Muncie of the University of California, who broke every school rushing, all-purpose running and scoring mark in leading the Golden Bears to a share of the Pac-8 crown.
The tight end is Mike Barber of Louisiana Tech, a member of The AP's Little All-America team a year ago when Tech was a College Division school.

The rest of the offensive line consists of wide receiver Larry Seivers of Tennessee, tackles Mark Koncar of Colorado and Bob Simmons of Texas and guards Randy Johnson of Georgia and Ted Smith of Ohio State.
Joining the Selmons, Elrod and Cook on the defensive front five is 6-foot-5, 270-pound tackle Steve Niehaus of Notre Dame. His selection marks the 12th consecutive year a Notre Dame player has been named to the first team.
The linebackers are Greg Buttle of Penn State, Sammy Green of Florida and Ed Simononi of Texas A&M. The defensive backs in addition to Thomas are Mike Haynes of Arizona State and Chet Moeller of Navy.
Bell, who was virtually Southern Cal's entire offense this season after moving from fullback to tailback, carried 357 times in piling up his 1,875 yards and rushed for 13 touchdowns. His season average of 170.5 yards a game is the fourth best in NCAA history.
Muncie's total of 1,460 yards on the ground ranks fourth in the country this year and is the third best in Pac-8 history, surpassed only by Bell and Southern Cal's O.J. Simpson, who gained 1,709 yards in 1968. Muncie also caught 39 passes for 392 yards and threw three passes, completing all of them for 50, 46 and 46 yards. The 46-yarders went for touchdowns.

Griffin, who is favored to become the first two-time Heisman winner today, carried 245 times for 1,357 yards.

Dolphins Win, 20-7; Morrall May Be Lost

By JOHN R. SKINNER
AP Sports Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Earl Morrall did what he's supposed to do. He came off the bench in place of sidelined Bob Griese and quarterbacked the Miami Dolphins to victory over New England.

But now the question is: will someone have to come off the bench next Sunday in place of Morrall?
Morrall's 41-year-old body held up long enough to lead Miami to an easy 20-7 National Football League triumph Monday night, but a knee injury may leave the Dolphins depending on an inexperienced third-stringer at quarterback.

Morrall completed his first 13 passes to complement a strong running attack. He had the Dolphins ahead 17-0 in the third quarter before leaving the nationally televised game with ligament damage in his left knee.

Coach Don Shula said Morrall's status for Sunday's American Conference East Division first-place battle between the Dolphins (8-3) and Buffalo (7-4) was up in the air.

With Griese out for the remainder of the season, Don Strock is the only reserve available.

"If Earl's out, we'll look around — but this late in the season, it's hard to find anyone," Shula said.

Shula's fretting didn't draw any sympathy from Patriots' Coach Chuck Fairbanks.

"We were just overmatched," said Fairbanks. "They have a hard road to the Super Bowl but have the potential to get there."

Morrall ended up with 14 completions in 17 attempts for 135 yards but Fairbanks, a 1954 Michigan State teammate of Morrall, warned, "They will miss Griese. I thought Earl played well ... but he's not Griese."

Morrall was still walking after the game and predicted, "I'll be ready (Sunday)."

He completed seven of his passes to his backs and relied on the running of Don Nottingham (55 yards), Benny Malone (52 yards) and Norm Bulaich (37 yards) to control the game.

"I've got to keep up my image," said Morrall, a 20-year veteran trying to re-live 1968 and 1972 when he replaced injured Johnny Unitas and Griese to lead Baltimore and Miami to conference titles.

The Patriots (3-8), who had scored 31 or more points in their three previous games, were held in check until a 75-yard drive in the final five minutes led to quarterback Steve Grogan's five-yard scoring run.

Miami led 14-0 at halftime on a one-yard run by Nottingham that capped a 65 yard drive and a six-yard Morrall to Bulaich pass play that followed Freddie Solomon's 41-yard punt return to the Patriots' 22.

A fumble by the Patriots' Sam Cunningham at the Patriots' 24 on the first play of the two 25-yard field goals by Garo Yepremian.

Spiders Inch Past Mounties

By The Associated Press
"I'm just glad we learned the lesson without losing," said Coach Carl Slone after his Richmond Spiders blew all but one point of a 14-point bulge in the last 5:05 of their Southern Conference basketball game against Appalachian State.

Slone said the Spiders, favored to win the league title, were "standing around a lot" against the Mountaineers. But Richmond escaped Monday night with a 53-52 victory that moved the Spiders into a tie for the conference lead with William and Mary's Indians at 1-0.

Four league teams took on outside foes and, unlike Saturday night when they went 1-4, came out with four triumphs.

Virginia Military's Keydets, 2-0, routed Liberty Baptist 106-58; William and Mary, also 2-0, drubbed Eastern Connecticut 74-55; The Citadel's Bulldogs, 1-1, trounced UNC-Wilmington 81-63; and Davidson's Wildcats opened with a 110-81 romp over Wofford.

The Spiders held a 49-35 lead over Appalachian with 5:05 left before they starting turning the ball over. The Mountaineers went on a 17-4 tear that came within a point of pulling out a victory.

"Maybe I should have told my boys to go after it," said Coach Bobby Cremins of Appalachian's last-second plan. "But they (the Spiders) had just thrown it away two times and I thought maybe they would throw it away again."

Slone said, "We got careless, trying to make fancy passes. Our ball-handling was bad. . . We were playing out of control."

John Brown had 22 points and Tony Marshall 10 for the Spiders, while Calvin Bowser had 15 points and Ed Kane 10 for the Mountaineers, who shot 58.5 per cent from the floor and 68 per cent in the second half but suffered 28 turnovers to just 14 for the Spiders.

VMI, down by 11-10, ran off 23 straight points over a nine-minute span to build a 33-11 lead before Liberty Baptist scored again. Ron Carter scored 18 points and Will Bynum 17 for the Keydets.

An eight-point spree in the first half rallied William and Mary from an 18-16 deficit, and the Indians controlled the game after that with Ron Satterthwaite scoring 19 points and John Lowenhaupt 12. Lou Canady had 18 for Eastern Connecticut.

Mike Ange scored 23 points and Rod McKeever 20 as The Citadel evened its record with 52.4 per cent shooting accuracy and a 38-25 edge off the boards.

Davidson ran up a 13-2 lead in the early minutes and romped past Wofford as John Gerdy scored 23 points and Eppa Rixey and Tom Dore 16 each. Two other Wildcats were in double figures.

All conference teams are idle tonight.

Conley Matmen Bomb New Bern

NEW BERN—D. H. Conley High School opened the 1975-76 wrestling season last night with a 50-21 romp past New Bern.

The match was close through the first six matches, which saw the two teams tied at 18-18 at that point. But Conley then won six of the seven remaining matches to come away with the easy victory.

Overall, Conley took nine of the 13 weight classes, winning one by a forfeit, one by a major decision, and six by pins. Of New Bern's decisions, three came by pins.

Conley travels to Southern Nash on Thursday for its next outing.

Virginia Gets Win

By The Associated Press
Virginia, the last Atlantic Coast Conference basketball team to open its season, has done so successfully, 113-65 over Hampden-Sydney.

The Cavaliers, playing at home, scored 17 unanswered points early in the game. The total of 113 was the most they have scored since their school-record 117 against Baldwin-Wallace in 1972.

Wally Walker led Virginia with 27 points although he played only 21 minutes.

ACC teams are idle tonight but all except North Carolina will play Wednesday. DePauw will be at Maryland, Temple at Duke, West Virginia at Wake Forest, East Carolina at North Carolina State, Virginia at Washington & Lee, and Clemson at Furman.

North Carolina will be at Seton Hall in New Jersey on Thursday's only game.

Daryl Peterson, who scored 21 points in Wake Forest's 94-90 opening-game victory over Richmond Monday, has been chosen as the ACC player of the week.

The 6-foot-8 senior center also hauled down nine rebounds and blocked three shots.

Last year his best single-game effort was only 12 points. His coach, Carl Tacy, said, "Peterson had an outstanding game, and it was his rebounds and points that kept us in the game in the early going." He had 11 points in the first six minutes of play and 15 at half-time.

Others considered by a committee of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association in the first weekly poll of the season were Steve Sheppard of Maryland and Pil Ford of North Carolina.

Sheppard scored 28 points in the 127-84 victory over East Carolina. Ford had 15 points and a school-record 14 assists in the 115-75 victory over Howard.

Maryland freshmen center Larry Gibson, who had 14 points and 14 rebounds in the victory over East Carolina, has been chosen the ACC rookie of the week. The 6-foot-10 native of Baltimore, who was chosen in a preseason poll to be the league's top newcomer, teamed with another newcomer, sophomore Lawrence Boston, for 31 rebounds. That was only five fewer than the entire East Carolina team had.

Gibson was picked for the honor over Al Green, who had 19 points in North Carolina State's 103-75 victory over The Citadel.

Indiana Firmly Atop Cage Poll

By The Associated Press
There's no doubt about who's No. 1 in college basketball these days.

Indiana planted its feet firmly on the top rung of the college hoop ladder by thrashing defending NCAA champion UCLA 84-64 Saturday night. That impressive performance, before a national television audience, helped the Hoosiers strengthen their grip on the No. 1 spot in The Associated Press' weekly rankings, released Monday.

Indiana, which had been top-ranked ... but not by much ... in the preseason ratings, was voted No. 1 by all but one of the 53 sports writers and broadcasters participating in this week's voting. They gave the Hoosiers a whopping 1,116 points. Tennessee received the only first-place vote that eluded Coach Bobby Knight's powerhouse.

UCLA, meanwhile, dropped from second to fifth place in the poll. Maryland, an easy 127-84 victor over East Carolina, took over the No. 2 spot with 862 points.

Marquette, which opens its season tonight, was ranked third with 777 points. North Carolina was No. 4 with 696 points after beating Howard 115-75. UCLA was No. 5 with 539 points and Louisville was No. 6 with 430 points following its 79-74 victory over Memphis State.

Completing the Top Ten, in the balloting based on games played through Saturday Nov. 29, were Kentucky, Tennessee, Notre Dame and Cincinnati. Kentucky opened its season Monday night with a stunning 89-77 loss at Northwestern while the others all had easy opening victories last week.

Arizona stayed in 11th place after beating Oregon State 96-67 in its opener, and made its record 2-0 with a 119-80 romp over Midwestern Monday night. San Francisco jumped three places up to 12th after opening with a 98-66 victory over UC-Santa Barbara.

The rest of the Second Ten showed North Carolina State, Alabama, Providence, Michigan, Auburn, Kansas State, Arizona State and Washington.

TV Series Need New Locales

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — This is a bit radical, but I think the networks each year should invite cities other than New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco to serve as the locales of new series.

other day as I looked at the networks' new program schedules for January. Fun City, LA and the City by the Bay are amply represented as settings for new and returning programs.

But places like Worcester, Mass., Peoria, Ill., or even faded Short Pump, Va., are not ticeably absent from the lineup of TV locales.

True, Minneapolis hit the big time in 1970 as the setting for the hit "Mary Tyler Moore Show." Indianapolis and Milwaukee are the locales for two new situation comedies coming up this winter.

The rest of America? Well, Chicago is represented in "Good Times" and "The Bob Newhart Show," while the nation's 50th state is showcased in "Hawaii Five-O." But that's it. Television's Big Three still have most of the action.

The Los Angeles area is particularly laden with TV cops and gunshows. It is there you'll find Cannon, Bronk, Joe Forrester, Harry O, Starsky and Hutch and the gang from "S.W.A.T.," "Police Woman" and "Police Story" keeping the streets safe for decent citizens.

In January, two more cops, the Blue Knight and Jigsaw John, will join LA's law-and-order crew. If there's a car crash, a fire or a natural disaster, the "Emergency" crew will give first aid.

All this is on a weekly basis. Every fourth week or so, Colombo also arrives, scratches his head, takes off his raincoat and solves a crime.

San Francisco is a bit lighter in crime-fighting. It now only has the cops in "Streets of San Francisco" pounding a weekly beat, but in February a New York cop will move there in a show called "Superstar."

One suspects he'll get fourth-week support from "McMillan and Wife."

Considering its size, New York is very light on law and order now. Kojak and Ellery Queen are the only weekly crime-solvers, with assists coming every fourth week from a gen'darme called McCloud.

But the Big Apple is very heavy on laughter, and not just because it's still trying to sell municipal bonds.

At least eight situation comedies with a New York-area setting will be with us at mid-season.

San Francisco currently has only one sitcom but the Los Angeles area has four in the mid-season schedule.

The stranglehold New York,

Los Angeles and San Francisco have on series' locales must be ended. The Big Three should be ignored next season and other American cities given a chance.

Watch Out For Thieves

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Yuletide is a time to keep your guard up, says insurance man David Glass.

Glass, who is loss control manager for Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies, says houses and apartments are more vulnerable at holiday time when parties, seasonal visiting, last-minute shopping and fewer daylight hours leave the way clear for break-ins.

To thwart burglars, he suggests: Light entrances. Don't give thieves a shadowy place to work.

If you must leave town, a recording on an automatic telephone answering device can help protect you. Record a message that you are out of town, but that guests are staying in your home when you don't want disturbed. Then add that callers should leave a name and number for you to return their call.

Locking doors and windows won't guarantee safety from burglars, but it could prove enough of an irritant to make a thief look for easier victims.

Secure the door of an attached garage. If a thief can enter there, he has both a quiet place in which to work and access to your tools.

Keep valuables out of sight. Instead of leaving unwrapped gifts around the tree where they can be seen through windows, put them away.

The presence of police in a neighborhood is a powerful deterrent to theft, particularly if they will make patrol checks of your home on request.

Arrange an exchange system with neighbors: keep an eye on their home, ask them to keep an eye on yours, call the police if either of you sees anything suspicious, such as a strange car cruising the neighborhood.

Big Savings In Direct Deposits

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Starting in December, the new direct deposit system for Social Security checks will save $1 million a month in postage when an automatic electronic transfer system goes into service. It will supplement mail delivery of checks and will be available to 30-million Social Security beneficiaries who currently can have their monthly checks deposited in their banks by the Treasury Department.

the safer suit contract. Unfortunately, his play was about 1,600 points below his greed, so he ended up with a small loss instead of a large profit.

North made an intelligent bid at his second turn when he elected to raise his partner's suit despite the fact that he held only a doubleton honor. South checked on aces and for a few moments considered trying for a grand slam. Eventually discretion got the upper hand, but South decided to take a "sure" profit by playing in the higher-scoring contract of six trump.

West made his normal lead of the queen of diamonds, and declarer was quite pleased with his dummy. It seemed that there were thirteen tricks off the top, so South won the king of hearts and crossed to dummy with the ace of clubs. He discarded a diamond on the king of hearts and then tried to ruck clubs. Unfortunately, East turned up with a club stopper, and when he got in with the club, he led a heart to his partner's queen. Down one.

South was a victim of bad luck as much as his own voraciousness. Had he been content to play six clubs, nothing could have stopped that contract. More to the point, however, is the fact that six trump should also have been made.

Declarer should have realized that his contract was cold unless clubs broke 4-1. Therefore, his efforts should have been directed toward countering a bad break in that suit. After winning the king of diamonds, the correct line is to unblock the ace of hearts and lead a low club to dummy's eight. East can win the trick, but cannot do declarer any harm. South wins any return, crosses to the ace of clubs, discards a diamond on the king of hearts and then runs the clubs for his contract.

Fewer, Weaker Hurricanes In 1975; Seen Continuing Trend

By CINDY ROSE
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Despite the killer hurricane Eloise, the 1975 Atlantic season continued a trend that has seen fewer and weaker hurricanes than in the past, the head of the National Hurricane Center says.

"In the past few years, there hasn't been a super hurricane, but we don't know when the lull will end," Neil Frank said as the season officially closed Sunday after spawning six hurricanes and two other tropical storms.

Frank said the season kept up the pattern of the past four or five years during which the major storms formed in the Gulf of Mexico instead of coming to life in the deep tropics and strengthening in a race across the Atlantic.

"Most of the hurricanes formed in the higher latitudes — east of the Bahamas — and didn't have the power of the super ones," he said.

Frank pointed out that Eloise, which killed 34 people in Puerto Rico, 25 on the island of Hispaniola and two in the United States, got only a three in a rating system that tags the biggest storms with a five.

Eloise crossed Puerto Rico, Haiti, the Dominican Republic and brushed Cuba before taking its torrential rains, 140-mile-per-hour winds and 16-foot tides into the Florida Panhandle, devastating the coast from Fort Walton Beach to Panama City.

Damage estimates from Eloise in Florida ranged from $100 million to $150 million.

The remnants of Eloise contributed to extensive flooding in the northeastern United States, causing 10 deaths and an estimated $150 million in damage.

"Here we've had another year where the large population centers again didn't have a hurricane," Frank said. "A lot of lessons were learned in the Panhandle."

Frank said that Panhandle residents made last-minute preparations as Eloise rushed toward land but had done little pre-planning to be ready in case a hurricane hit.

"Many residents thought they didn't have a bad hurricane problem up there. Eloise was the first one of the century," he said. "It had been over 80 years since a bad storm had hit."

Among the other hurricanes since the season began June 1, Blanche hit Nova Scotia, Caroline struck Mexico near Tampico and Faye sideswiped Bermuda while Doris and Gladys did not hit land. Tropical storms Amy and Hallie brushed the Carolina coasts.

Joan Little Is A Speaker

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Joan Little, the defendant in a controversial murder trial in Raleigh, N.C., is to speak at the University of Alabama Thursday, the dean of students' office said Monday.

Miss Little, who still faces a prison term for breaking and entering in the Tar Heel State, was acquitted earlier this year of the murder charge stemming from the stabbing death of a jailer. She claimed that the jailer was trying to force her to have sexual relations with him when she struck out with an ice pick.

She is free pending appeal to the North Carolina Supreme Court of the breaking and entering charge. Miss Little's attorney, Jerry Paul, has said that he would take the appeal of the breaking and entering charge to federal courts, if necessary.

Her appearance is being sponsored by the university's sociology department. Students had asked the school's University Program Committee to sponsor the appearance, but there was not enough money available.

The students then turned to the department for its backing.

Rio Prepares For Carnival

By EDGAR MILLER
RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Long before carnival you can begin to feel the tingle of excitement for Brazil's biggest celebration.

From now until Carnival in late February, preparations will crescendo until they reach the thunderous climax of color and song in the three days before Ash Wednesday.

The main activity at the moment is in the samba schools, actually clubs of dancers and musicians whose annual parade and competition is one of the highlights of the street carnival celebration.

Since this year's carnival ended, work has been going on toward elaborating the theme and details of the samba school presentation for next year. Each of the dozen large schools as well as a like number of smaller schools present a theme, usually taken from Brazil's history or mythology, which is elaborated with a samba written especially for it and acted out in fantastically elaborate costumes.

In a large school, more than 2,000 persons take part in the parade. These samba aficionados virtually live the entire year for that one hour of glory when their school will be on parade down Rio's broad President Vargas avenue.

Typical of these samba experts is Carmen Goes Telles, a dancer with the Imperio Serrano school, one of Rio's most famous.

Besides the dancers and the musicians, hundreds of others are also involved in making the costumes the paraders will wear. The more elaborate the costumes will cost up to thousands of dollars. Just the material for Carmen's outfit costs $300.

Money for the costumes and other expenses is raised through various fund-raising events throughout the year.

Diaper Law Is Enforced

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Horses without their diapers Monday were cited by police.

Charles Parker, operator of the Charlestonian, a tour carriage pulled by horses, allowed his horses to wear diapers.

He said he "got a lot of ridicule" during the day. On top of that, he noted his horses "don't particularly care for them."

One tourist who rode in Parker's carriage said he thought the green cloth diapers were "kinda dumb."

A new ordinance passed by the Charleston City Council last month went into effect Monday.

It says all carriage tour horses in the city must wear something to keep the streets from being soiled.

David Fuller, stable manager for Charleston Carriage Company, received a summons issued by police Monday morning, but was still behind his diaperless two-horse team in the afternoon.

Fuller, whose case comes before municipal court today, says he intends to continue to operate the carriage team without diapers.

His boss, Daniel E. Hydrick III, has asked for an injunction to prevent the city from enforcing the ordinance.

Hydrick says horses are dignified animals and that they look ridiculous with diapers.

No other tour operators were working Monday.

Rob't Williams Will Ask Jerry Paul To Defend Him

MONROE, N.C. (AP)—Black activist Robert Williams says he will ask Joan Little's lawyer, Jerry Paul of Durham, to defend him when he returns to North Carolina to fight a racial kidnapping charge.

The Michigan Supreme Court rejected Monday Williams' fight to avoid extradition. Williams, former president of the black separatist Republic of New Africa, a movement seeking to make a black republic from five Southern states, said at his home in Baldwin, Mich., that he was ready to go back to North Carolina. "I've been preparing myself psychologically for this; I'm ready to go into legal battle," he said. "I think I've waited long enough in this trumped up thing."

Paul defended Miss Little, a black woman acquitted in state Superior Court in Raleigh last August of a murder charge in the icepick-slaying of a white jailer she said sought to rape her.

At the North Carolina capital in Raleigh, a spokesman for the state attorney general said it would be up to Union County authorities at Monroe to decide whether to prosecute Williams.

In August of 1961, Williams invited freedom riders to stop in Monroe on their way back from Mississippi. Seventeen of the 45 on the bus accepted and began daily picketing of the courthouse to protest local segregation.

On Aug. 27 fighting erupted among local whites and freedom riders. A policeman was shot and wounded while trying to disarm a black. And a carload of whites said they had been fired upon in a black neighborhood.

That night, Mr. and Mrs. G. Bruce Stegall, an elderly white couple from nearby Marshville, said they were driving down a street near Williams' home when about 200 blacks stopped their car.

Mrs. Stegall said they were taken to the Williams home, where Williams threatened to kill them unless police freed blacks arrested in the riot.

The Stegalls were later freed unharmed. Stegall died at the age of 65 last January.

Mrs. Stegall said Monday that she was not sure whether she would testify if Williams were tried, because she had been quite sick recently.

She said she would prefer that a trial not be held. "If he (Williams) would just stay out of town, I think that would be better," she said.

She was asked whether she and her husband had been kidnaped. "We were tied up for three three hours. I guess you would call that kidnaping," she replied.

Williams and four others were charged with kidnaping. Williams fled to Cuba. The others were tried and convicted in 1964. However, their convictions were overturned on the ground that blacks were excluded from the grand jury which indicted them.

They were indicted again in 1965. But they failed to appear for retrial. Their bail was claimed by the state, which has not pursued the case.

Williams is a former president of the Monroe County chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He had said last April that he would subpoena FBI files on the kidnapping charges if he were forced to return to North Carolina. He said that while he was abroad the FBI and the CIA had tried to discredit him in the eyes of American blacks.

Williams had been fighting extradition since his return to the United States in 1969 after eight years of self-imposed exile. Upon his return, he was arrested by FBI agents in Detroit as a fugitive. He claimed his return to North Carolina would place his life in danger.

However, "If I run any more, it would indicate I am a criminal," he said in an interview Monday. "I am completely innocent."

He said the charges were an outgrowth of the Nixon era.

Cuban Sports Plan Vetoed

By GEORGE GEDDA

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, irked by Cuban "meddling" in Angola and Puerto Rico, has vetoed a plan to improve U.S.-Cuban relations through sports, American officials say.

Inspired by the way "Ping Pong diplomacy" helped thaw U.S.-China relations four years ago, State Department officials had looked favorably on a plan for U.S. major league baseball players to compete against a Cuban team next March in Havana.

Kissinger acknowledged last week at a news conference that such a plan had been in the works but said it was shelved. He did not give any reason.

Officials later disclosed that he rejected the idea because of Cuban military involvement in support of the pro-Moscow faction in Angola's civil war and Cuba's insistent demands for Puerto Rican independence.

Another factor, officials said, was Cuba's vote last month in favor of a United Nations resolution linking Zionism with racism.

State Department sources confirmed a report in Sports Illustrated magazine that two independent television producers, Barry Jagoda of New York and Richard Cohen of Dallas, have spent more than a year trying to arrange a trip to Cuba by U.S. major league players.

The magazine said an agreement to play ball was reached at an October meeting in Mexico City involving Jagoda and Cohen, baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Cuban sports officials. It said the ABC network was willing to pay $165,000 for television rights.

American officials acknowledged the game still could be played next March if U.S.-Cuban relations improve in the coming months.

But one official expressed doubt that this would happen because of domestic political considerations. With Republican presidential primary elections scheduled for February and March, any gesture toward Cuba at that time could cost President Ford conservative support in those primaries, officials said.

The last professional game involving U.S. and Cuban teams was played in Havana in 1960, a few months before the two countries broke diplomatic relations. In those days, major league rosters were filled with players who had come from the Cuban leagues.

Third Largest

RALEIGH (AP)—Eastern North Carolina had its third largest crop of flue-cured tobacco this season and grossed a record amount of money for it, the Federal-State Market News Service reported Monday.

The crop totaled 523,216,211 pounds, up 103.3 million pounds from last year, though it was smaller than the 1951 and 1955 crops, the service said.

While total value of the crop was a record $529.2 million, up $84.5 million from last season, the average price of $105.15 per 100 pounds year was down $4.76 from the 1974 record.

The highest average price reached during the season was $110 on Sept. 20.

Some 90.9 million pounds of leaf went to the Stabilization Corp. That amounted to 17.4 per cent of gross sales. In 1974, only 2 per cent went to stabilization.

The season opened July 15 and the last market closed Nov. 26 after 75 days of selling, 14 more than in 1974, the service said.

Governor Dissolves Health Bd.

RALEIGH (AP)—A lack of cooperation has led to Gov. Jim Holshouser dissolving an eastern North Carolina interim health planning board so he can appoint a new one.

In a letter to each of the 21 members, Holshouser said there was "disunity of effort, mistrust of leadership and unwillingness to accept guidelines" and the only way to solve the problem is to name a new board.

David Flaherty, secretary of Human Resources, said a new board will be appointed soon.

Louis Smith of Murfreesboro, chairman of the dismissed board, said the panel had done "an excellent job" and said the problem was a difference in viewpoints between those who prefer centralized government and those who prefer local control.

The board represents 29 counties in eastern North Carolina and was to nominate a permanent board and then go out of existence. The board, named last spring, disagreed with the administration in Raleigh on the number of positions on the permanent board. There are six such boards in the state.

Dr. Archie Johnson, a deputy to Flaherty, said Holshouser wanted each of the regional health boards to be composed of 30 members, but the eastern interim panel wanted to nominate a 66-member board. He said the governor thought that size board would be too large.

The permanent board would be responsible for planning and grant applications for federal programs in health care and hospital construction in their regions. Under Holshouser's plan, the boards would be composed of health care consumers, health professionals and local government officials.

The eastern interim board represented the 29 counties from Elizabeth City to Jacksonville and encompasses Rocky Mount, Goldsboro, Kinston, Wilson and New Bern.

Johnson said two of his deputies met with the interim board Nov. 21 to solve the problem, but it was fruitless. He also said six of the panel members had resigned before Holshouser fired them.

Smith said the group decided on a 66-member permanent board because there were so many counties to be represented and that each county should have at least one member.

"We had done an excellent job of deciding on the composition of the permanent board and the selection process," he said.

Warns Russia Would Step In

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasir Arafat has warned Lebanese leaders that if the U.S. 6th Fleet were called in for assistance in Lebanon's civil war, the Soviet Navy would oppose it.

In an interview broadcast Sunday on Hungarian television, Arafat said "Progressive Arab peoples will not allow the United States to turn Lebanon into a second Vietnam."

In 1958, during another crisis in Lebanon, the 6th Fleet brought Marines to Beirut's beaches.

Cochairman For Pitt Task Force

DURHAM — Rhea Resnik of Greenville has been named co-chairman of a Pitt County task force on reading. She joins Myree Hayes, co-chairman, as head of the county task force. The local effort is part of a statewide project sponsored by Citizens United for the Improvement of Reading.

John R. B. Hawes, Jr., executive director of the Learning Institute of North Carolina (LINC), which is coordinating the project, said its major goal is to bring together all available resources in a concentrated effort to improve reading in the state.

The county task force will become informed about reading resources and needs in the county, select ways to support reading improvement and get special projects under way. Citizens United and LINC will provide assistance in all stages of the effort, Hawes said. Task forces have been formed in most of the state's 100 counties.

Retraining

Mrs. Ruth Taylor, executive secretary for the Pitt Red Cross, issued a reminder that retraining classes for currently authorized water safety instructors will begin Dec. 4 at Memorial Gym.

Mrs. Taylor said that the first class will be held from 7:30 to 10 p.m. in Room 104 at Memorial and the second session is set for Dec. 5 from 4-6 p.m. and from 7-10 p.m. The third meeting will be on Dec. 6 from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m.
