Chinese Say Seven MIA Died In Action

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer

PEKING (AP) — President Ford wound up his trip to China today with news from the Chinese on seven Americans missing in action before and during the Vietnam war and a promise by him to normalize U.S.-Chinese relations.

All of the missing Americans are dead, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told a news conference, but the remains of two of them have been recovered. He said that the next of kin of all seven would be notified within the next 48 hours.

The Americans, presumably pilots or airmen, were missing over the last 10 years in or near China, he said.

The last full day of Ford's China visit was marked by a banquet toast in the Great Hall of the People during which the President not only promised to normalize relations but to agree to disagree on attitudes toward the Soviet Union.

Aside from the news concerning the missing Americans, no other major announcements or specific agreements were made.

Ford leaves China on Friday for Indonesia.

In his banquet toast, Ford reaffirmed to China's leaders that the United States is committed "to complete the normalization of relations" with China, but that both would pursue their policies guided by national interest.

China's acting premier, avoiding any reference to the touchy subject of U.S.-Soviet detente that he had attacked Monday, said that although Washington and Peking "share many problems" contacts between Ford and the Chinese leaders have helped "to increase mutual understanding."

Kissinger told the news conference that China had made clear that it would accept the Japanese model in concluding relations with the United States. The Japanese switched recognition from Taipei to Peking in 1972 but continued trade, economic and cultural contacts with Taipei.

Kissinger conceded that the Chinese-American views on Korea were not identical but that both understood the other's position and would "exercise restraint on the Korean peninsula."

Asked when he planned to go to Moscow, Kissinger said a final decision had not been made. But he made it clear he would probably go, and that he would know in the next week or so the date he would leave.

Ford has said he would not send Kissinger to Moscow unless there was a promise of progress on Strategic Arms Limitation Talks with the Soviets.

During the day Ford toured the summer palace, while Mrs. Ford and daughter Susan visited a carpet factory. The Chinese news agency Hsinhua said Susan also witnessed an operation performed under acupuncture anesthesia at a Peking hospital.

In an apparent answer to Chinese complaints that the American policy of detente with the Soviet Union threatens China with Soviet attack, Ford recalled that the 1972 Shanghai Communiqué signed by President Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai expressed "fundamental opposition to the efforts of others to impose hegemony in any part of the world."

"This reflects the realism which is a hallmark of our relationship. And realism is a firm basis than sentiment for sound and durable ties."

Ford said it had been "a significant visit," and that his talks with Chairman Mao Tse-tung and First Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping were "friendly, candid, substantial and constructive."

"We discussed our differences, which are natural in a relationship between two countries whose ideologies, societies and circumstances diverge. But we also confirmed that we have important common points."

Ford, who leaves Friday morning for Indonesia and the Philippines en route home, said "the United States is firmly dedicated to an international order of peace, justice and prosperity for all."

Earlier in the day the President told reporters his meetings with China's leaders had been "very beneficial and very friendly."

"We did here in two days what it took Nixon three to do," said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Cite No Change In Wholesale Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seasonally adjusted wholesale prices showed no change in November, the government reported today, signalling an easing in inflationary pressures.

The Labor Department reported that prices actually fell by four-tenths of a per cent during November, but that after adjustment for seasonal variations the wholesale price index was flat.

The easing in inflationary pressure follows the biggest increase in wholesale prices of the year in October, when the index jumped 1.8 per cent after seasonal adjustment.

The November report marked the smallest variation in wholesale prices since they declined by one-tenth of a per cent in June.

The stable performance means the index is now 3.7 per cent ahead of where it was a year ago. This is the smallest 18-month climb since the year ending in April 1972 and is a sharp contrast to the 23.5 per cent by which wholesale prices had increased in the previous 12 months ending last November.

The Labor Department attributed November's price performance to lower food prices and a moderation of prices for industrial commodities, which had surged in October.

October's increase was the biggest since the same month a year ago and marked the fourth consecutive monthly increase this year.

It was powered largely by higher prices for automobiles, steel mill products and lumber and wood products — all of which remained stable or declined less than one-tenth of a per cent in November.

At the same time, prices for farm products dropped 1.2 per cent in November, their first decrease in three months and the largest since a 1.4 per cent dive in June.

House Refuses Link Tax Cut To Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is pushing toward final approval of a measure that would extend $13 billion in tax cuts into 1976, after fighting off a Republican effort to link the measure with a federal spending ceiling.

President Ford has threatened to veto the tax-cut measure if it does not contain a federal spending ceiling of $395 billion. But Democrats refused on Wednesday to allow Republican leaders to attach Ford's proposed spending limit as an amendment to the tax-cut bill. Democrats voted down the effort 219 to 197. All 219 votes came from Democrats.

Debate on the bill began immediately after the vote and it was indicated a final tax measure could be passed by the House late today.

Congressional failure to extend the tax cuts would cost a married man earning $15,000 a year and supporting a wife and two children an additional $4.73 a week in withholding, or about $250 more in income taxes for the year, IRS figures show.

Both the House and Senate face time pressures to complete work on the tax-cut extension before Congress adjourns for Christmas either on Dec. 12 or Dec. 19. The tax cuts now in effect expire on Dec. 31.

"What the battered America economy, and the long-suffering American people need now," said House Republican Conference Chairman John B. Anderson, "is a decrease in taxes and spending, not an increase in the tax burden on the other side of the aisle."

Following the vote on the proposed spending ceiling, Republican Leader John J. Rhodes accused the Democrats of taking a "bulldozer approach" and branded the tax bill without accompanying spending cuts a "fiscally irresponsible... budget-buster."

Indonesian Gunmen Invade Consulate, Take Hostages

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — Indonesian rebels opened a second front in Holland today, seizing the Indonesian consulate and at least 50 hostages in Amsterdam, officials said. Other Indonesian gunmen holding a hijacked train in northern Holland for the third day shot another hostage.

The rebels are South Moluccan nationalists seeking independence for their islands in the Indonesian archipelago, once under Dutch colonial rule.

Officials said they feared up to 25 children are among the hostages in the consulate building, which also houses a school for Indonesian children and a travel agency. Five children were released two hours after the attack.

Police said six men armed with a carbine, a pistol and knives took control of the consulate at midday. A spokesman said three members of the consulate staff were thought to have been wounded.

The building was quickly sealed off by security men and armored cars.

Witnesses said four men escaped from an upper floor by climbing down a rope. One of the men was wounded when the gunmen began shooting at them, but police fire drove the Indonesians back. All four men were hospitalized with injuries suffered in the escape.

In northern Holland, authorities said the five gunmen holding hostages in a stranded train pushed a man to the door and shot him. He fell to the tracks and was believed dead.

The hijackers killed the engineer and another man when they seized the train Tuesday and have threatened to shoot their 37 remaining hostages one by one unless they are given a flight out of the country.

The shooting on the train occurred just after a mediator, a South Moluccan resident of the Netherlands selected by the Indonesians, left the train. The Indonesians then called the mediator on a field telephone and listed new demands, Dutch officials said.

They repeated their demand for a bus to Schiphol airport and a plane to fly to an undisclosed destination. Then they asked for more food, drink and medical supplies, five railway lanterns and 10 batteries.

Authorities also released a statement apparently typed aboard the train by the gunmen and handed to the mediator. Written in Dutch, it said:

"We are doing this because the people in the train and the Dutch people did not approach the Dutch government 25 years ago when great injustice was done to our people. Queen Juliana said on Nov. 25, 1975: 'Each people has the right to independence.' People of Holland, we are not murderers, but we are prepared to fight for our country and kill again for the future of our country and independence and also be killed."

The statement was signed by the "Free South Moluccan Youth."

The South Moluccan islands passed to Indonesia in 1949 and in 1950 the islanders staged an unsuccessful revolt.

City Is Moving To Annex Bases

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The City of Fayetteville is moving toward annexing Fort Bragg and possibly Pope Air Force Base.

The action would almost double the city's population, bringing it to about 100,000, and would boost income from federal and state shared revenue, city officials said.

No additional taxes on base personnel would be involved since they live on a military reservation, said local officials. Annexation would make Fayetteville the sixth largest city in the state, surpassing Asheville and High Point.

Mayor Jackson F. Lee said today base personnel would benefit from a "closer" and "warmer" working relation with the city on human relations and law enforcement concerns such as drug abuse. But the base would handle its own utilities, garbage collection, police and fire protection.

Lee took the first step toward annexation in a Nov. 18 letter to Gen. Henry Emerson, the commander of Fort Bragg. Final approval must come from the Pentagon, officials said.

Cumberland County commissioner E. J. Edge expressed concern that the move could cost the county $690,000 in sales tax revenues, which could then go to the city. But Lee said the county could change the way the revenues are distributed so the impact would be minimal.

N.C. Lawmaker Faces Charge

TARBORO, N.C. (AP) — State Rep. Larry Eagles, D-Tarboro, has been charged with driving under the influence of alcohol following an accident earlier this week.

Police said Eagles' car struck a parked car about 10:45 p.m. Sunday and caused some $1,500 damage to both vehicles. Eagles represents Nash, Edgecombe and Wilson counties.

He said the monster was "looking right at us with its mouth open."

Rines showed the slide in Concord two days after an announcement was made in London that a scientific symposium scheduled for Dec. 9 and 10 to see Rines' pictures was canceled because of what the sponsors called excessive publicity in Britain.

First word of Rines' discovery and photos came on Nov. 22 in a copyright story in the Boston Globe. Since then, a number of scientists who have seen one or more of the pictures, have commented publicly. Most have praised the clarity of the pictures.

Wednesday night's showing of one of the slides was the first to a lay audience. Rines said the slide was taken by an underwater camera at a depth of 45 feet with a strobe light.

Rines was angered by the publicity given the photographs, particularly in the British press, and had asked that the description of the slide shown Wednesday night not be made public.

A spokesman for Rines emphasized in a telephone interview that Rines and other members of the Academy of Applied Science — the Boston group which undertook the Loch Ness photographic expedition — were leaving it up to the scientific community to determine exactly what the objects photographed are.

British naturalist Sir Peter Scott, who has seen the complete set of Rines pictures, announced in London on Monday the cancellation of the symposium of eminent scientists who were to examine the photos.

The decision, "in no sense reflects in the smallest degree on the nature of the evidence or the integrity of those who obtained it," said Scott, chancellor of Birmingham University.

Scott told reporters shortly after word of the photos leaked last month that the Rines photographs helped convince him the Loch Ness monster is a living prehistoric reptile which may be 40 feet long.

This week, Prof. Herbert J. Howe, a Purdue University paleontologist, said he believed the monster may be a prehistoric reptile dating 70 million years. He said the Rines photographs may reveal the monster is a plesiosaur or ichthyosaur, types of reptiles believed extinct for more than 50 million years.

MORE HYDRANTS NEEDED?

I feel that Greenville firemen were definitely hampered Thanksgiving night in fighting the fire that destroyed the McDonald's Restaurant here because of the great distance between the building and the nearest fire hydrant. We need more fire hydrants on Greenville Boulevard. This situation pointed up the need. D.W.

Don Roark, an area supervisor for McDonald's, agrees with you. He said firemen had to pull a hose about 1,200 feet from a hydrant down the boulevard before they could even begin to fight the blaze. "We're going to petition for more hydrants out here," he said.

Greenville Fire Chief Ray Smith also agrees that more are needed in this fast-developing area. He says he has just got through recommendations for three more which Greenville Utilities promise him will be installed in December. These will be located near Joe Pecheles Volkswagen, in front of the Ramada Inn, and on the street behind the Ramada Inn. More will be added as funds permit, he indicated.

Santa Parade

Joe Gurganus, Jaycee co-chairman for this year's Greenville Christmas Parade, reminded area residents that the popular annual event is set for this Saturday, beginning at 10 a.m.

Gurganus, outlining the parade route, said that the parade will form at the corner of Ninth and Dickinson Avenue, proceed down Dickinson to Washington Street where it will turn left, continue to Fifth Street where it will proceed right at Globe Hardware, then pass through the Five Points intersection at the end of the mall on down to Cotanche where it will turn left and proceed on Cotanche to Second Street for termination near the Willis Building.

The Jaycee spokesman said that the parade is expected to reach the immediate downtown area by 10:20 a.m.

This year's function, he added, will feature five area bands and some 13 decorated floats, as well as other entries such as drill teams, horsemen and automobiles carrying area beauties.

Coordinated by the Greenville Jaycees, the parade is sponsored by merchants, industry and the Chamber of Commerce.

Researcher Shows Slide Of 'Loch Ness' Monster

By H. JOSEF HEBERT
Associated Press Writer

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — A researcher has shown a photographic slide of a rust-colored object purported to be the legendary Loch Ness monster. The object appeared to have two front appendages, a long neck and a head.

The slide showing was the latest in a series of revelations both in the United States and Great Britain in recent weeks concerning a group of pictures taken underwater by an American photographic team last June at Loch Ness in Scotland.

The team was headed by Boston patent attorney Robert Rines, who is also dean at the Franklin Pierce Law Center in Concord. He showed the slide to a group of about 50 students and friends Wednesday night.

The slide depicted an object with distinct features, including the frontal appendages, a trunk Rines said was 12 feet broad and a neck Rines said was 8 to 10 feet long.

"We think it will electrify the world," Rines said.

He said there were other, clearer photographs, some of which were shot at the considerably closer range of 4 feet. He said the monster was "looking right at us with its mouth open."

Rines showed the slide in Concord two days after an announcement was made in London that a scientific symposium scheduled for Dec. 9 and 10 to see Rines' pictures was canceled because of what the sponsors called excessive publicity in Britain.

First word of Rines' discovery and photos came on Nov. 22 in a copyright story in the Boston Globe. Since then, a number of scientists who have seen one or more of the pictures, have commented

Women Present Agenda To Mayor West

A comprehensive list of women's goals were presented to Greenville Mayor Eugene West by a delegation of local women Tuesday.

The goals were included in the National Women's Agenda, a statement of the priorities of more than 90 national organizations representing 33 million American women. The agenda was compiled in response to International Women's Year.

Local sponsoring organizations represented in the delegation were the American Civil Liberties Union, the American Association of University Women, Church Women United, the League of Women Voters, the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, the National Organization for Women and the National Women's Political Caucus.

The agenda requests the commitment of government officials to equality of opportunity for women in all aspects of life. Its specific sections are the political process, education, employment, economic power, child care, housing, criminal justice, media and arts, physical safety and individual rights.

Similar delegations throughout the nation presented the agenda to state and local government officials Tuesday, which was designated National Women's Agenda Day.

Greenville's delegation included Wicket Benjamin, Myra Cain, Mary Daugherty, Judith Donnalley, Jason Donnalley, Inez Fridley, Anne Frost, Tennala Gross, Mildred McGrath, Angela Phillips, Rhea Resnik and Harriet Roseveare.

A copy of the agenda will also be sent to Greenville Mayor-Elect Percy Cox, said Ms. Resnik, delegation coordinator and president of the local league of Women Voters.

Tennala Gross and Mildred McGrath were also among officers of several statewide women's organizations who hosted state government directors at an Agenda Day luncheon at the Raleigh Holiday Inn.

The state luncheon was coordinated by Grace J. Rohrer, secretary of the N.C. Department of Cultural Resources, and State Senators Mary H. Odom of Scotland County and Katherine H. Sebo of Guilford County.

Gov. James Holshouser was given a copy of the agenda earlier Tuesday by a committee representing a cross-section of North Carolina women.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Figures have just been released that the cost of raising a child these days is running close to $100,000.

"Can you believe it?" I asked my husband. "That little number popped up in front of the TV set is costing us $100,000."

We both looked at our youngest son draped over a chair. From the back he looked like Goldie Hawn. His jeans were ripped at the knee. His shoestrings were knotted and threaded into every other loop. A faded T-shirt with the arms cut out covered his chest and he balanced a bowl of cereal, an empty ice cream carton, and a quart of milk on the edge of the chair.

"What's the matter?" asked my husband. "Are we behind in the payments or something?"

"No, it's just that it's expensive raising kids."

"But one hundred thou . . ." he kept repeating.

"Take catsup," I said. "That model consumes two family-sized bottles of catsup a week. Over a 12-month period that amounts to $76.96 . . . or in a 20-year-period $1,539.20."

"I had no idea . . ."

"And that's only one small item. There are clothes, repairs, upkeep, insurance. Why just the care and feeding of his hair . . ."

"Hold it! He hasn't had a haircut in years."

She Looks From Wrong Vantage Point

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I've read you for years but this is the first time I've ever written.

I am a 24-year-old girl who is average in every way except one: I stand 6 feet in my stocking feet!

I have many girl friends and some fellows who are friendly, but men never consider me a serious candidate for a romantic partner. Even guys who are taller than I am treat me like I'm another guy.

When I meet new people, I feel that they accept me—until I stand up and they see how tall I am.

Abby, I know I'm attractive and have a pleasing personality, but I'm getting nowhere.

I am becoming resentful and bitter, and don't know what to do about it.

TOOD—TALL

DEAR TALL: You can turn what you think is a liability into an asset. But first you must start with the top of your lovely head—your mind—because that's where the problem is.

Your self-image is negative, and it reflects in your attitude toward other people.

When you walk in a room, walk tall and smile. Don't grab the nearest chair. Stand and greet everyone you meet with dignity and grace. Whatever you do, don't slump! When you sit, sit tall and gracefully with your long legs together.

And don't come on too strong with men. Believe me, they'll notice you.

Wear tailored clothes, and don't be afraid to wear bright colors.

Forget your height and others will. You will be judged on how you treat people, not on how high you're stacked.

Now get going and just watch the effect you'll have on others.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Seniors Offered Vacation

RALEIGH (AP)—David Flaherty, state secretary of human resources, announced today that some 600 senior citizens will have an opportunity to go on a special winter vacation to Atlantic Beach.

Flaherty told a news conference that the Captain's Bridge, a motel at Atlantic Beach, has offered to make available 50 double rooms to senior citizen groups free of charge from Dec. 15 until Jan. 15.

Jim Lyon, manager of the resort inn, said, "It's a slack season for us. Instead of letting many of our rooms go vacant, we want to put them to good use by having senior citizens visit during this time."

Robert Beard, director of the state office for aging, said his office will coordinate the groups through local councils on aging across the state. The local councils, he said, will be in charge of transportation and arrangements. Beard added that the senior citizens may have to pay for their food during the visit of five to seven days.

"This will be an excellent opportunity for many of our older adults to get away from home this winter, which can be a particularly isolating time for them," Beard said.

Flaherty said, "I think it's a great idea."

Placed Third In R-6-P Program

RALEIGH—Pitt County placed third in Category V of the 1975 Reduce Six Pests (R-6-P) county participation program and Greene County placed second in Category IV of the same program.

Sponsored by TUCO, Division of the Upjohn Co., in conjunction with the North Carolina State Extension Service.

Ken Bateman of the Pitt County Agricultural Office was presented a cash award of $500 and a plaque. Walter Johnson of the Greene County Agricultural Office was presented a cash award of $650 and a plaque.

Pitt County won the award for having completed an average of 94.0 percent of the first three steps in a four-point program within the allotted time. Greene County won the award for having completed 92.3 percent of the first three steps.

The steps include: immediate cutting or shredding tobacco stalks after harvesting tips; disking or plowing out stalk stubble immediately; returning and disking the field thoroughly two weeks after harvest.

The goal of the program is reducing carryover of six major flue cured tobacco pests, including root-knot, mosaic, brown spot, hornworms, budworms, and flea beetles. Many damaging weed and grass pests are also reduced in the process.

Bright Picture In Camera Sales

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — America's fascination with photography should continue through the next decade, Bank of America predicts.

It reports that gross receipts from camera equipment sales to amateurs in the United States in 1974 probably exceeded $1.5 billion, 10 per cent above the 1973 figure. Professionals and amateurs together were believed to have spent more than $6 billion in 1974. The bank said the financial future of photography is even rosier.

Magistrate Is Sworn In

W. E. "Bill" Whitehurst was sworn in this week as a full-time magistrate for Pitt County.

Whitehurst, a former member of the North Carolina Highway Patrol and chief of the Winterville Police Department served as a magistrate from December 1968 to April 1970.

He replaces Fountain Harrington who retired from the post.

Harrington has been a magistrate in Pitt County since December, 1968 when the old Justice of the Peace and Records Court system was replaced with magistrates and District Courts.

Whitehurst, assigned to Greenville, is one of 10 magistrates serving the county, according to Clerk of Court H. L. Lewis who administered the oath of office.

He was named to the post by resident Superior Court Judge Robert Rouse.

City Policemen Bullet-Proofed

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — Policemen in Gastonia are going to get bullet-proof vests.

The City Council has appropriated $16,600 to equip all 105 members of the force.

In making the request, Police Chief C. C. Elmore said that 132 policemen in the United States had been killed in line of duty last year. However, none has been killed in Gastonia since 1948.

were unhurt.

Police said the two gunmen, "armed to the teeth," tried to rob a branch of the Credit Lyonnais shortly after 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, but were interrupted by guards from a Brink's delivery truck. There was an exchange of shots, a passerby was shot in the foot, and the gunmen herded members of the bank staff and customers into the basement safe deposit room.

The gunmen threatened to start shooting their hostages unless they were supplied with a getaway car and $2 million in $100 bills. Sounds like gunshots were heard periodically from within the bank.

Police cordoned off the area and surrounded the bank but pulled back when the gunmen fired on them. As night fell, the police shone floodlights on the bank.

The gunmen wrecked the bank's telephone switchboard, but police provided a field telephone which the gunmen drew inside and used for negotiations.

Police moved a car into place in front of the bank about 10:30 p.m. and placed four sacks apparently containing money in the door to the bank. The gunmen demanded more money, and when negotiations lagged about midnight one of the men emerged from the bank with a pistol at the neck of a hostage and shouted, "Look out. We're going to shoot everyone."

Shortly after 1 a.m., the gunmen with two women hostages and the four sacks got into the car and roared away from the bank, followed by police cars. After crossing the Seine, they ran into the taxi just off the Champs Elysees.

The two men jumped from the car, began to run and opened fire as the pursuing police approached them. More than 30 shots were exchanged before the North African was killed.

Last September, two bandits held seven hostages for a day in another central Paris bank. They escaped with $1.3 million in a high-speed chase through the city. The money was never found, but six persons are awaiting trial on charges of complicity in the case.

Overseas Market Is Necessary

Those who complain when farmers make a little money, seldom are heard when the farm operator can't get production cost out of what he grows.

Only two years ago the price of soy beans had soared to $11 per bushel and the little beans were being hailed as the answer to the world food problem, because they were so rich in protein.

That was a good time to be in the soybean growing business, of course.

Things have changed mightily since then. The price of soybeans is now running at $4 to $4.50 per bushel and the growers say they can't make money at those prices.

The farmer was the victim of the government's encouragement for heavy plantings of soy beans. The growers also blame AFL-CIO president George Meany for supporting longshoremen in their refusal to load grain headed for the Soviet Union. A moratorium was declared by the president and after it ended the Soviets had already obtained their soy bean needs from other countries.

The United States has the most efficient system of growing food that the world has ever known. The American farmer is capable of cranking up production to take care of our own, and a large part of the world's needs.

We should not expect the farmers to plant huge crops, which have to be planned months ahead, and then find that his markets for the crop have been eliminated. We are going to need free trade in farm products if our food production system is going to operate efficiently.

Most of us are well removed from the farm scene today. Seldom do we stop to consider that the products we find in the super market were produced in large part on American farms. It is only when food supplies run short that we remember the farmer.

If we expect the farmer to continue to increase food production so that adequate supplies will be available, we must see that his overseas markets are unhampered and that he receives an adequate price for his products.

Be Happy Hurricane Season Ended

For those of us who can still remember when Eastern North Carolina was on hurricane alley, nothing could be more pleasing than the official end of the hurricane season.

The National Hurricane Center says there were fewer and weaker hurricanes this year than in the past, and fortunately they all spared our area once again.

The trend in recent years has been to less severe hurricanes. Sooner or later, though, that will change and weather patterns will bring the vicious storms into the North Carolina coast. We should prepare for that time by planning ahead to cope with the high winds and waters.

People Complicate Answer

By BILL NOBLITT

CORE BANK—What to do about the mess on this beautiful island would be easy—if it weren't for people.

The state has bought the 26-mile outer bank with its towering Cape Lookout lighthouse anchoring one end and the acres of creeks and marshlands which make up the backside of Core Bank. The ocean side is a fantastic beach, littered with some of the finest shells on the Tar Heel coast, home to the biggest sea gulls anywhere, and some of the finest fishing surf on the Eastern Seaboard.

Stand alone on a grass-covered dune, bundled warmly against the bitter December wind, and look at the angry Atlantic, and you can imagine how the world was in the beginning.

A Mess

Until you turn slightly landward; or look down. The dune is sand covering the hulk of a rusted out '52 Chevy.

As far as you can see up and down the dunes-line, other rusting truck and auto bodies, hoods open, doors mere jagged pieces of rust, form a landscape more nearly appropriate for how the world will look in the end.

There are thousands of abandoned junk vehicles, brought to the island originally as transportation for fishermen, who knew that the life expectancy would be two years in that salt-laden, narrow stretch of land. The almost-junk cars soon were abandoned, and another cheap one followed to run another year or two up and down the beaches and rutted roadways.

Then, behind the dunes, are the shacks. From a distance, some sections of Core Banks look like a prosperous seafront resort settlement.

Closer inspection shows buildings largely of scrap lumber and plywood hinged together in somebody's basement, hauled to the island by boat, and stood on a flimsy foundation. Many are covered with roofing material. Some are old trailers. Most truly reflect the attitudes of their "owners" that either a storm or the law will wipe them out one day.

There are, at best, 250 such fishing shacks on the island, centered around the five places where fishing camps are located. The fishing camps mainly represent a base of operation for the men who run the boats back and forth from the mainland hauling fisherman, supplies, building materials, and vehicles to the island.

The Residents

A walk through one of the villages, littered as it is with trash, shacks helter-skelter, junk cars right and left, yields handshakes with a cross-section of Tar Heels: A Henderson physician, a Winston-Salem insurance executive, a couple of doctors from Greensboro, two working men from Wilson, a gaggle of school-age kids with their mommas down for a long weekend, a Charlotte businessman with three important clients riding in a gleaming new Jeep.

All are serious about fishing, and that's why they're on Core Bank; that's why they spent several thousand dollars building and transporting a shack to the island and putting it up on land they don't own; that's why many say they spend every other weekend on the island. The fish—and the freedom from telephones, society's rules, family pressures, even freedom from the razor blade, are given as reasons for loving the island.

The state has bought Core Bank and will turn it over to the federal government as part of the National Seashore Park system which will embrace about half of North Carolina's shoreline and form the largest coastal area in public ownership in the nation.

What happens to the people who make their living from the fishermen on Core Bank, and what happens to the sports fishermen and their shacks and vehicles? That's the dilemma state officials are wrestling.

Gag Rule In Nebraska

This is shoptalk, but much more than shoptalk. Justice Harry Blackmun's dismaying opinion in the matter of the Nebraska gag rule is a threat not only to a free press but ultimately to the rights of a free people as a whole. The issue demands attention.

These are the facts: On October 18, six members of a family in the small town of Sutherland, Nebraska, were murdered. On the following day, one Erwin Charles Simants was arrested and charged with the crimes. On October 21, both prosecution and defense joined in a motion to the County Court of Lincoln County, asking that the press be prohibited from reporting anything but the bare facts about the case. The County Court granted the substance of this request, and on October 27 a Nebraska District Court, at the next highest level, in effect sustained the gag.

The Nebraska Press Association immediately appealed the order to the Nebraska Supreme Court, but that court could not be bothered to expedite a hearing. Getting no action, the press association appealed directly to Mr. Justice Blackmun as supervisory justice for the Eighth U. S. Circuit. On November 13, he issued a memorandum urging the Nebraska Supreme Court to act. When that, too, failed to get a response, Blackmun on November 20 acted on his own.

Blackmun dropped a bombshell. He reversed the original gag order in part; he said some kind things about the role of the press; he expressed his feeling that "irreparable" damage could be done to a free press if it were prevented from timely publication of the news. But having said all that, he went ahead to approve, in principle, the ominous doctrine that the courts have power to impose prior restraints upon the press and to jail newsmen who resist such restraints.

The issue, of course, involves the ancient conflict between a "fair trial and a free press." The theory is that an accused person, guaranteed a jury trial by the Sixth Amendment, may be so prejudiced by pre-trial publicity that an impartial jury cannot be chosen. Therefore, the line of reasoning goes, the press may be put under prior restraint in order to protect the rights of the accused.

Those of us who have been in the news business all our lives have to concede that now and then, sure enough, the press has behaved disgracefully. The cases of Dr. Sam Sheppard and Billie Sol Estes come to mind. A couple of other cases figure in Supreme Court reports.

But such instances of truly damaging pre-trial coverage are exceedingly rare. In virtually every celebrated case, the rights of the accused are fully protected by the law: postponement of the trial, change of venue, multiple panels of prospective jurors, peremptory challenges, challenges for cause, examination of jurors, instructions by the judge, rulings on evidence, appellate procedures. The accused is surrounded by a full panoply of protections.

In the Nebraska case, Blackmun now has ruled that all these protections, in effect, may not suffice. The press, he says, may be prohibited from publishing "certain facts that strongly implicate an accused." The press may be prevented from reporting the fact of a confession, or the particular circumstances of arrest, or the accused's criminal record if he has one. Other news may also be banned. "There is no litmus test available." If defense counsel can satisfy a trial judge that "publicizing particular facts will irreparably impair the ability of those exposed to them to

Other Editors Say Federal Debt Size

(The Wilson Times)

New York is receiving its days of grace, regardless of what Mayor Abe Beame says, which is "that the federal government is letting New York go down the drain."

Now, let us set the record straight. Washington is pouring nearly $3.5 billion a year into New York under existing programs. Nearly 25 per cent of the city's government is now paid by federal taxpayers. More than $1 billion a year is given to New York for Medicare alone. Half the city's welfare costs are borne by Washington.

What should be of even more interest to the taxpayer is not the City of New York and its financial plight but what is happening to the nation's debt. New York got in its present situation by living beyond its means, then covering up its peril with a deceptive set of books.

This nation does not have two sets of books but it is spending far beyond its means. The federal government is deeply in hock. This is common knowledge. What is not known is that the official figures give only a faint suggestion of how bad the situation really is.

Since 1960, the federal budget has exploded from less than $100 billion to more than $350 billion and a further increase to more than $400 billion is expected for fiscal 1977. Much of this spending has been financed on the cuff.

Most of the increase has gone for special welfare programs, as medicaid, food stamps, public assistance and the like which by common acknowledgment are out of control. Spending on such programs has expanded from $13 billion in 1955 to better than $170 billion today, and even bigger spending boosts are in the offing.

The budget figures are concealed by various peculiarities of our national record-keeping. The budget figures fail to measure the long-term indebtedness incurred by programs that commit us to exorbitant spending in the future. The true federal debt is $1.14 trillion.

Past Models 'Inappropriate'

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The models of the past, said David Lilienthal, are inappropriate to the "resuscitation" of America after what he terms a serious illness — a period of recession and indecision and inaction, public and private.

This is the opinion of the man who headed the Tennessee Valley Authority, which had its origins in the economically troubled New Deal days of the 1930s, and which is today the nation's largest, resources development project.

"It's a different country today," he said. In his opinion, the nation is stalled, somewhat dispirited, descriptions that were also applied to it in the 1930s, but there are immense differences too.

"Today, the centers of human energy and imagination are widely scattered," he said. "Our sources of energy of all kinds are dispersed. We have multiple sources of strength. The future of America is one of diversity rather than concentration."

In short, Lilienthal urges Americans to look to themselves, to their private organizations, to local leaders, rather than to the bureaucracies of big government or big business which, he feels, may have forgotten their mission.

"It isn't because of the size of big business that I am afraid," he said. "It is the centralization of decision making. It has dampened the initiative and managerial skills within the units," he said. "In centralized decision making, bigness defeats itself."

Lilienthal has faith in diversity. "In the smaller units of a big company is where you find the resourcefulness, the energy, the imagination. Energizing leadership isn't to be found in one place; it is diffused."

He continued: "It's no accident the railroads are bankrupt. This is the conclusion of a lack of spreading the decision making. The great moguls dried up their sources of energy and inventiveness."

The railroads, he said, lost touch with reality, with the needs of the people they were to serve, with their own communities and employees. They

Belgian Choice Is Beer

By RUTH E. GRUBER

BRUSSELS (UPI) — If you order a "scotch" in a Belgian tavern, you will be served a glass of dark, creamy beer.

In a nation where it is illegal to sell hard liquor in pubs, beer has been Belgium's national drink for centuries.

Scotch (or Scotch ale) is only one of a long list of brews — each with a flavor as subtly different as various wine vintages.

Virtually everyone in Belgium drinks beer — in 1974 the per capita beer consumption was 117 quarts.

Beer is drunk in restaurants and at home, but most often it is quaffed in the cafes, pubs and brasseries of which Belgium boasts about 60,000 — or one for every 160 citizens.

These drinking places come in all shapes and sizes, to suit all tastes. Some look more like beer palaces than bistros, large bare rooms set with rows and rows of tables, where people can be seen mulling over their glasses from early morning on into the night.

In downtown Brussels there are still a number of old cafes, holdovers from another era, where one can drink a good glass of the local specialty and munch "tartine fromage blanc" — a slice of bread spread with creamy white cheese and eaten with radishes and green onions.

One of the most typically "Bruxellois" taverns is the Grande Brasserie Ste. Catherine, which occupies a building nearly four centuries old in the heart of the city.

The Ste. Catherine maintains its own brewery outside town to furnish the house beer specialties. These include Gueuze, whose flavor has been described as a cross between beer and wine, and Kriek, a cherry-flavored Gueuze, which tastes like hard cider.

The Ste. Catherine's neighbor, the Vieux Chateau d'Or, was founded in 1597 and claims to be the oldest brasserie in Brussels. It also maintains its own family brewery in a Brussels suburb.

Unlike the Chateau d'Or, which despite its age has a modern formica decor, the Ste. Catherine and nearby cafes such

The offices of the county farm agent, and possibly others including the county health department, will be moved into the dwelling now occupied by L. W. Tucker on Third Street some time between now and the beginning of the year.

The county commissioners in session yesterday purchased the house and it was announced that County Agent E. F. Arnold and his force, now located in the Edwards building, would be transferred as soon as Mr. Tucker vacates the place.

No definite decision was announced as to what other county officers would be located in the new quarters, but it is understood that at least some others would be moved there.

With the date for the closing of the Greenville tobacco market set for the end of next week, only poor grades were being offered for sale today.

The official average for the season remained above the 21-cent parity level, despite the poor grades being offered during recent weeks.

GREATER AND LESSER REWARDS

Oberlin, the great French philanthropist, tells in his memoirs of an interesting experience which illustrates the meaning of Jesus's injunction that when we perform an unselfish act for the benefit of someone else we should not let our right hand know what our left hand is doing.

On one occasion Oberlin was caught in a violent snowstorm while traveling in the mountains of Alsace during the winter. Just before he lost consciousness in a snow drift he was picked up by a peasant and carried to the peasant's hut nearby.

When the peasant refused to accept money for saving Oberlin's life, Oberlin said, "Tell me your name so that I can remember you in my prayers." Smiling, the peasant replied, "Tell me the name of the Good Samaritan." "I cannot," replied Oberlin, "for the Bible does not tell us his name." "Well," said the peasant, "when you tell me his name, I will tell you mine."

Jesus seems to tell us that our heavenly rewards for good acts will be measured by the degree to which we refuse earthly rewards.

Claim Most Nat'l Awards

CHICAGO, ILL. (AP)—The 54th National 4-H Congress wound up Wednesday with North Carolina claiming the most national winners of any state.

North Carolina claimed four more winners during the final day to bring the state's total to 16. California was second with 15 national winners.

Named national winners Wednesday were Sylvia Howey of Monroe, Rt. 6; Mary Landen, Lilesville; and Stanley Rash of Clemmons. Also honored as one of eight national alumni award winners was Dr. C. Brice Ratchford, a Gaston County native and president of the University of Missouri.

The North Carolina delegation of 36 will return home Friday with $12,200 in scholarships.

Seven of the state's national winners are from Union County. State 4-H Leader Chester Black said that is a record for one county.

as A La Mort Subite and A La Lunette, retain the character and decor of turn-of-the-century bourgeois Brussels.

They are high-ceilinged but dark, with carved wooden paneling and many wall mirrors.

Old postcards of A La Lunette, near the Place de la Monnaie, show patrons 75 years ago drinking from the cafe's trademark — enormous champagne-glass shaped goblets that hold nearly two-thirds of a quart of beer just as its modern customers do.

The number of cafes in Belgium has dropped by about 10,000 in the past decade. This reflects the growing trend toward drinking at home, influenced by changing lifestyles, television and a tough campaign against drinking and driving.

Although production has nearly doubled since 1950, and consumption has risen, the number of breweries has dropped from 663 in 1950 to 185 in 1974.

Beer is still the national drink, however, and likely to remain so.

their prosecutor's offices, in their courts. The people have a right to know whether mental institutions have released maniacs, whether parole boards have erred grossly in their judgment. Our right is to report these things.

The Nebraska gag rule is far more serious than the case of the Pentagon Papers in 1971. That, too, involved prior restraint, but the facts were quite different. Blackmun's order, if affirmed by the entire U.S. Supreme Court, will invite every defense attorney, in every important case, to move for a gag; and trial judges, thus encouraged, will stop our presses. We can't let it happen.

He concedes that "no major activity today doesn't require government action, but participation, not intervention," especially for financing and assistance in coordinating the various elements of a project.

But the leadership, he reiterates, must come from private efforts. He sees special opportunities ahead for companies structured in private enterprise involving themselves in public service — at a profit.

"A demonstration of furthering the public interest through private efforts will do as much to restore public confidence that has been shaken in government as about any other single thing," Lilienthal said.

His own company, Development and Resources Corp., is a model of that. Founded 20 years ago, after Lilienthal left the chairmanship of the Atomic Energy Commission, it is a profit-making concern that tackles large scale, integrated, natural and human resource development throughout the world.

It has developed an entire province of Iran, planned for Brazil and Colombia the future developments of entire valleys, conducted floodplain and environmental studies in the United States.

None of these projects could succeed, or even have meaning, he believes, without utilizing and developing human resources, and serving the needs of human beings. Humans are both the source of the energy and the goal of its usage.

Keeping that in mind, while shedding our defensive attitude and instead demonstrating in small ways that problems can be dealt with at the local level, the country "can change almost overnight," said Lilienthal.

"I think we needn't look at these things as if they take forever," he concluded. "We can turn things around much sooner than you think — perhaps five years to turn defensiveness into being American, affirmative and vital."

Evans-Novak...

nothing was pinned down.

That expertise became critical when Reagan opened his presidential campaign No. 20 with dangerously meager preparation on defense issues. Interviewed by Lou Cannon of the Washington Post, Reagan conceded he gave a "bad answer" to a defense question at his opening press conference and added he would welcome any assistance from Schlesinger.

With Schlesinger willing to help, a call from Reagan staffers is expected shortly. This is a most unpleasant surprise for the White House, which did not expect Schlesinger's performance on NBC's "Meet the Press" Nov. 23, painting a bleak picture of the U.S.-Soviet military balance. Since Mr. Ford's political aides thought Schlesinger would make no political waves, his refusal to endorse the Ford candidacy was particularly unnerving.

Even then, however, the White House saw his "Meet the Press" appearance as valedictory.

In fact, it is only the beginning. Avoiding any corporate or academic job and working out of a modest office here at the Johns Hopkins School for Advanced International Studies, Schlesinger plans a crusade for adequate defense spending. Forthcoming are an appearance on CBS's "Face the Nation", articles for Reader's Digest and Fortune and selected speaking engagements.

Much of this will be aimed at convincing the business community it should not validate V. I. Lenin's prophecy that profit-hungry capitalists would sell the rope for their own hanging. He will attempt to show U.S. businessmen that an uncritical quest of detente without adequate defense is suicidal.

But Schlesinger will also target the Ford administration if it persists in the $7-10 billion reduction in the next defense budget which triggered his firing. Preferring to look upon this budget cut as a political aberration, Schlesinger will not hesitate to attack the President if it is not corrected. Similarly, he will go public against any strategic arms limitation (SALT) agreement if Mr. Ford agrees to Soviet demands for prohibiting U.S. cruise missiles.

Thanks to the bungled Halloween Massacre, Dr. Schlesinger has been transferred from a shadowy don to a vital public figure whose word carries heavy weight. That he is refusing to return to the shadows deeply affects President Ford, the President's campaign for election and the nation's security policy.

Hikers Can Be Bird-Watchers

NEW YORK (AP) — Hikers can be bird watchers, too. According to "The Magnificent Continent," just published by Rand McNally, the 2,000-mile hiking tract called the Appalachian Trail is also the route for one of our continent's major avian flyways.

The new book, which depicts and describes 100 of America's most scenic areas, reports that air currents, rising from the Appalachian Mountains below, allow a wide variety of hawks and other birds traveling the flyway to migrate vast distances with little expenditure of their own energy.

Find Budget Savings In Gasoline-Use

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP) — Saving on gasoline costs is one way to save in the family budget in general.

There are approximately 118.4 million licensed drivers in the United States and it's no longer only the husbands who drive the family car.

According to Carl N. Rowe, research associate of Mobil's Central Research Division here, the average motorist is now knowledgeable about the factors which influence the fuel consumption of his automobile — and over which he or she can exercise some control.

Rowe has some information to pass on, gleaned from the Mobil Economy Runs in the late 1950s and '60s, current research and general knowledge in the industry.

1. While waiting for a train to pass or in a Main Street traffic jam, most drivers let their motors idle under the impression that turning the motor off and then on again consumes more gasoline. That's wrong. Idling an engine more than a minute at a time uses more fuel than shutting the engine off and restarting.

2. All of a car's power-driven accessories indirectly consume gasoline, from the windshield wipers to the air conditioner. At 60 miles per hour, with the air conditioner off and the car getting 16.25 miles to the gallon, turn the air conditioner on and you get 15 miles to the gallon.

3. Gas scientists say that one should develop the habit of driving as though there were a raw egg between the foot and the accelerator. Tests have shown that varying speed as little as 5 miles per hour, in contrast to maintaining constant speed, can siphon from 7 to 9 per cent more gasoline out the tank.

4. When the U.S. government set 55 m.p.h. as the maximum speed during the gas-saving crusade last year, many persons assumed that was a car's optimum speed for saving gas. Not so. In large-scale tests done on many cars, the biggest consumption increase came in the 50 to 70 m.p.h. range.

5. True or false. The modern automatic steering-wheel gear shift that has become standard equipment in recent years results in better fuel economy. False. Manual transmission gives more miles per gallon.

6. Millions of persons buy high-octane gas under the misconception that it gives superior mileage. High-octane has nothing to do with mileage. Its function is to hold down engine knock.

The right choice of an efficient engine lubricant, on the other hand, can increase gas mileage for the average car as much as 10 miles per tankful by drastic reducing of engine friction.

7. The economy-minded motorist should do errands in one long trip instead of several short ones. Cars fall far short of their mileage potential until they warm up. On short trips they never warm up. In 10-degree weather the fuel penalty for short trips is even worse.

8. In a series of traffic lights, try to drive so you don't have to come to a complete stop because of a red light. In other words, drive slower and use the brake pedal as seldom and as lightly as possible. Braking dissipates the energy — the gasoline — that was spent putting the car in motion. Watch all activity on the road and predict what's going to happen moments ahead.

9. When a complete halt is necessary, avoid rapid acceleration. The quick getaway can consume up to 18 per cent more fuel than moderate accelerations.

10. Underinflation of tires adds to fuel consumption.

11. Approach hills at maximum practical speed, holding a steady foot through most of the climb and decelerating slightly just before the crest. On the downgrade, let gravity bring the car to the desirable speed.

12. Faulty spark plugs demand overfeeding by gasoline. Replacing spark plugs every 12,000 miles will deposit dividends in the gas tank.

13. For an accurate idea of your car's gas consumption, measure it over a span of three or more fillings. Today's fuel tanks are irregular in shape and present many opportunities for air pockets which prevent accurate refill.

Therefore, you could be led astray by the method of "filling er up" and then dividing the distance traveled by the number of gallons used.

14. A car that weighs 5,000 pounds is going to consume approximately twice as much gasoline as one of 2,300 pounds. Gas consumption doubles in direct proportion to car weight. It is in the dealer's showroom that America's gasoline horoscope is cast.

Cigarette War Back In Court

CHICAGO (AP) — The border warfare between Illinois Department of Revenue agents and Illinois residents who purchase bargain cigarettes in Indiana has moved back into courtroom skirmishing.

Judge Donald J. O'Brien of Circuit Court admonished Revenue Director Robert H. Allphin for giving roundabout answers Wednesday during a hearing on a possible contempt of court citation involving cigarette importation. Allphin told the court he did not know his department's actual current policies on stopping motorists carrying cigarettes back into the state.

Chicago attorney Kenneth K. Dikowsky has charged that revenue agents have been violating O'Brien's order barring them from using the Illinois Cigaret Tax Act against ordinary citizens.

O'Brien ruled in April 1974 that the tax act applies only to persons engaged in selling cigarettes for a living—not those who claim to be buying them for their personal use.

Dikowsky represents a number of Illinois residents stopped by the agents, as well as a Hammond, Ind., cigarette seller who says constant spying on his stand by the Illinois agents is endangering his livelihood.

Dikowsky maintained that the agents paid no attention to O'Brien's order and even continued their practice of keeping certain Indiana tobacco stands under surveillance with binoculars to know which Illinois residents to stop.

Allphin told reporters last week that his agents have been ordered to cease stopping the motorists, but he said the departmental order did not go through until O'Brien's decision was upheld by the Illinois Appellate Court. Allphin said his department has appealed the decision to the Illinois Supreme Court.

Offer Carson $1 Million Role

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television entertainer Johnny Carson has received an offer of $1 million to appear in a motion picture version of author Irving Shaw's new book, "Night-works."

Shaw was a guest Tuesday on Carson's "Tonight Show" and talked about the book, which is about a down-and-out resident of a sleazy hotel who finds a dead man with $100,000 in his pockets.

During the talk, agent Irving Lazar walked on camera and offered Carson what he said was a $1-million check if he would take the starring role, saying it would only take 10 days to film.

A spokesman for NBC said Carson was thinking about the offer.

Inmate Wants To Build Yacht

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina Parole Commission is considering the plea of a 66-year-old man serving a life sentence for murder who wants to be placed on work release so he can build his own yacht.

Chairman Jack Scism of the Parole Commission, said Wednesday Robert E. Porth made his unusual request in a letter to Fred Morrison, chairman of the Inmate Grievance Commission. Morrison turned the letter over to Scism.

"I've put off answering it," Scism said. "I'm inclined to oppose such a request because it would be inconsistent with the provisions under which work release was established."

Under work release, a prisoner works at an outside job during the day and spends his nights and weekends behind bars. He thus can pay the state for his own support, help provide for his family and accrue a nest egg for his eventual release from prison.

Before he was convicted in Forsyth Superior Court in 1966 for killing his wife, Porth was a senior engineer for Western Electric. He has been in Central Prison in Raleigh 8½ years.

Under commission policy, Scism said no lifetermer can be considered for work release until he has served 10 years. He said Porth's file shows one year and five months of pre-trial credit on his record.

James Cline, a member of the parole commission, said Porth's request is not consistent with the guidelines under which work release was set up but that he is not "unalterably opposed" to it.

Scism pointed out if such a request were granted for Porth, nothing would prevent another prisoner applying for permission to go on work release to build a race car or some similar project.

Porth has said that when, or if, he's freed, he plans to sail the seas and repair radio equipment for other mariners.

Porth works in the electronics shop at Central Prison. Secretary of Correction David Jones estimated Porth has saved the state $100,000 because of his electronic skill and ability to build such things as public address, closed circuit television and alarm systems.

Porth said he doesn't expect any problem paying for the materials to build his yacht.

Porth has maintained his innocence and has offered to pay $500 to anybody who will help him prove that his wife's death was not a homicide.

The Parole Commission refused to review Porth's case when he became eligible for parole consideration in September.

Avers Patty Seeing Health Deteriorate

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A defense attorney claims Patricia Hearst "is in worse shape" physically than a week ago, but sheriff's officers deny her health is deteriorating.

"As far as we know her physical condition is just as good as when she arrived," Asst. Sheriff Eugene E. Stewart said Wednesday. He said she weighs within a half a pound of what she weighed when taken to the San Mateo County jail 11 weeks ago.

Earlier in the day, attorney Albert Johnson said Miss Hearst has lost five pounds in jail, has an eye infection and the only medication she has received "is multipurpose vitamins and one aspirin."

Stewart said if the newspaper heiress' attorneys feel she is being mistreated, they have the right to have their own physician examine her "and they haven't done that."

Miss Hearst has been held without bail since her arrest

Sept. 18. She is charged with participating in a 1974 San Francisco bank holdup with members of the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Johnson said defense attorneys may take a private poll to sound out the attitudes of San Franciscans on the Hearst case.

He said he believed Miss Hearst could get a fair trial here but that it was possible he and chief defense counsel F. Lee Bailey might ask for a change of location before the Jan. 26 trial date.

Kentucky was the 15th state admitted to the Union.

Intelligence Suspects 'Satellite War'

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence officials are concerned that Russia may be trying to develop devices to blind American satellites guarding against a surprise missile attack.

According to one intelligence report, a U.S. early warning satellite was illuminated by a strong infrared radiation source beamed from Western Russia on five occasions since Oct. 18. Two other satellites picked up infrared signals Nov. 17 and 18, the report said. The early warning satellite, which was illuminated for up to four hours at a time, is in a synchronous orbit more than 22,000 miles in space, sources said. When in a synchronous orbit, a satellite travels at the same rate of speed as earth and thus appears stationary.

The satellite was not blinded, sources said, but intelligence analysts say the development suggests that ground-based lasers, if properly placed, might be used to neutralize the ability of U.S. satellites to detect missile launchings from the Soviet Union.

Evidence that the Russians may be experimenting with such devices is still far from conclusive, the analysts say, but they described the illuminations of the U.S. satellites as potentially significant.

Analysts say they are satisfied the satellites did not pick up natural phenomena, glare of fires on the ground or cloud reflections.

Under the 1972 nuclear arms agreement between the United States and Russia, both sides are barred from interfering with "national means of detection," principally satellites.

In May 1972, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said, "There is no way they could use an antisatellite system without, in effect, causing us to abrogate the treaty."

However, Kissinger said the strategic arms limitation agreement "doesn't prohibit them from testing" an antisatellite system.

Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., retired chief of naval operations and a possible senatorial candidate from Virginia, has accused the Soviets of cheating on that agreement, including interference with United States means of monitoring Soviet compliance.

Former Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger disputed Zumwalt's contention that Kissinger had been less than candid with President Ford on allegations of Soviet violations.

The State Department also denied Zumwalt's charge against Kissinger and said, "We have no evidence of violations" by the Russians.

Later, Zumwalt refused to retreat from his allegation.

Dionne Warwick Given Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Dionne Warwick and husband Bill Elliott have been granted a divorce after 10 years of marriage.

Miss Warwick, 34, told Superior Court Judge Leopoldo Sanchez on Wednesday that her marriage had irreparably broken down.

Elliott, 41, a drummer and actor, filed the suit for dissolution of the marriage last June 3. Miss Warwick's manager, Paul Cantor, said Elliott is seeking $5,000 a month in support fees. He has already been paid $10,000 to cover various costs. In his suit he listed his income as $500 a month and hers as $100,000 a month.

A community property trial is expected to be held next year. Miss Warwick will have temporary custody of the couple's two sons, David, 6, and Damon, 2.

Wheelbarrow Robot May Answer Terrorist Bombs

By RONALD E. COHEN
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Terrorist bombs have become almost as much a part of daily life in Britain as afternoon tea. The British army has a funny-looking little robot it thinks might be the answer to the bombings, and British industry is trying to sell it to the rest of the non-Communist world.

The device is the Wheelbarrow Mark VII. The multifunctional gadget has been used for two years in strife-torn Northern Ireland, and metropolitan police recently acquired the robot to try to stem the rising tide of terrorism in London.

Made by Morfax, Ltd., a major British defense contractor, the electric-powered robot can climb stairs, disarm bombs, tow vehicles, shoot its way into buildings, break windows, open car trunks and pick suspect items up in its mechanical arms for removal to safe areas.

All this is done remotely, with an explosives expert operating an electronic control box at a safe distance from the suspected bomb. Wheelbarrow is equipped with lights and a television camera, and the remote operator can manipulate the robot by watching a small video monitor.

The standard vehicle costs $11,200, minus shipping and duty. The deluxe model, equipped with all conceivable extras, runs $17,400.

Morfax and the British government put the robot through its paces at a recent invitation-only demonstration at the British embassy. Interest in the curious little machine ran high among U.S. military personnel, the Secret Service, the FBI, federal agencies and local police and fire officials who attended.

A Morfax spokesman said Wheelbarrows are in operation in the Irish republic, the Netherlands, Canada, Kuwait and Argentina, and the firm has gotten inquiries from dozens of other non-Communist countries. He said he believed the machine is a must for airports, harbors, oil refineries and chemical plants "as part of a complete, total security system."

Col. Mike Newcombe, representing the British army, said the basic idea for Wheelbarrow was sketched on a restaurant tablecloth in a dingy airport, "because we faced a bombing campaign the intensity and complexity of which we had not ever met before."

"The most precious aspect of it to me is that I can sit 100 meters away from a bomb situation, and I can send my friend in there to do the dirty work for me," Newcombe said.

Physically, Wheelbarrow is a gangly device that looks like something out of Buck Rogers. It is built like a miniature tank, with tracks rather than wheels. Its most striking feature is a long arm extending in front that can rotate 360 degrees and move about 140 degrees up and down.

The arm carries the television camera, a five-round shotgun and a mechanism that can lay an explosive charge to neutralize suspected bombs. Both the disruptive charge and the shotgun can be activated by remote control.

At the end of the arm are nail-sharp edges to break car windows or glass doors.

The operator can maneuver Wheelbarrow using either direct sight or the television system. If the robot must enter a building, guns can be fired remotely to nail doors open so it does not get locked inside.

The vehicle weighs 430 pounds, is 27 inches wide, 48 inches long and 32 inches high — with boom arm folded. It can travel 100 feet per minute, and its two lead-acid batteries can run slightly more than two hours without recharging.

"Wheelbarrow can do nothing to prevent terrorists from planting bombs," a Morfax spokesman said, "but it can do considerable to minimize the damage and the destruction."

His words were echoed by Newcombe.

"To me, that machine is a godsend. It cuts down the number of long, lonely walks I have to take looking for explosives."

Officers Are Installed By Board Of Realtors

Jeannette Cox, owner of Jeannette Cox Agency Inc. here, was installed Wednesday night as the new president of the Greenville-Pitt County Board of Realtors.

JEANNETTE COX

Installation of the new president took place during the organization's annual Christmas session at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Other officers installed for 1976 by Allen D. Aldridge, 1975 president of the N.C. Association of Realtors, Inc., included Les Turnage, vice president; Caryn McCue, secretary-treasurer; and Lee Ball, state director.

Directors installed for the coming year were Jeannette Cox, Lee Ball, Terry Shank, Les Turnage, Dan Powers and Collice Moore.

Long time, Realtor A. B. Stallworth was named as the recipient of the Board's annual Realtor of the Year Award.

During the awards ceremonies, Lee Ball received a past president's plaque in recognition of his service tenure as head of the local group.

The Board of Realtors made a $1,000 donation to the Pitt County Memorial Hospital Fund during the session. Accepting the donation was G. Henry Leslie, chairman of the Hospital Gifts Committee.

A native of Jacksonville, Ms. Cox has been in Greenville since 1959. She attended East Carolina University and has completed a number of schools and seminars for residential properties.

Engaged in the real estate business since 1970, she was chosen in 1971 by the Business and Professional Women's Club of America as one of the outstanding women of America. She is a graduate of the Realtors Institute in Chapel Hill.

The new president, who served as vice president of the board last year and as secretary in 1970, has operated her own firm here since April of 1972.

The Greenville-Pitt County Board of Realtors was organized in November of 1949.

Workshop In Bulk-Curing

A bulk-curing workshop will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Office, 203 W. Third St.

Rupert Watkins, engineering specialist at North Carolina State University, will lead the discussion on rack filling, heat distribution, box curing and other tobacco curing practices.

Public Service To Be Honored

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina Public Service Award Society announced Wednesday that R. Philip Hanes Jr. of Winston-Salem will be honored at a reception and banquet in Winston-Salem Jan. 14 as 1976 recipient of the North Carolina Public Service Award.

Hanes is chairman of the board of Hanes Dye and Finishing Co. of Winston-Salem and Bunch-Kelly Co. of Conover.

Previous winners of the award include former U.S. Sen. Sam J. Ervin, the late B. Everett Jordan, a former senator; and former Gov. Bob Scott.

School Bus Hit Side Of House

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—A school bus taking 25 children home from the Edgewood Christian School crashed into the side of house Wednesday. Seven students were taken to a hospital for treatment, but only one was detained.

A highway patrolman quoted the bus driver as saying the brakes failed when he tried to stop for a traffic signal.

No one in the house was injured.

It was the second recent accident involving a bus from the Edgewood school. In October a bus carrying 19 children collided with a car and overturned. No one was seriously injured.

FBI Said Domestic Spy Agency Since FDR's Time

By DAVE RILEY

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI was used as a domestic spy agency to delve into the private lives of American citizens, and its agents supplied information from those operations to five presidents or their aides, according to congressional testimony.

Evidence presented to the Senate intelligence committee on Wednesday showed that the FBI was used by the nation's top politicians to spy on newsmen, government officials and civil rights leaders as far back as the presidency of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Testimony indicated that the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and his aides never refused any president's request for political information.

"We followed our orders," said Cartha DeLoach, who was a top Hoover aide in the 1960s.

Senate committee counsel John Elliff testified that evidence found in Hoover's files showed the FBI tapped the home telephones of President Roosevelt's top aides at the President's request. He said Roosevelt also asked Hoover in 1940 to furnish reports on hundreds of persons who endorsed Charles A. Lindbergh's opposition to U.S. involvement in World War II.

Testimony also revealed that while Harry S. Truman was president, Hoover regularly sent to the White House letters in which he dispensed "tidbits of political intelligence."

During the Eisenhower administration, the FBI sent the President reports on the activities of Southern governors and congressmen who opposed integration, although a White House request to the FBI in 1956 asked only for a briefing on racial tension, the committee was told.

The senators were told that the late Robert F. Kennedy, as attorney general during his brother's presidency, personally authorized FBI wiretaps on New York Times reporter Hanson Baldwin and his secretary, four government employees and civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr.

Testimony also showed that President Lyndon B. Johnson asked for FBI name checks, the compiling of information, on seven journalists, including NBC commentator David Brinkley, columnist Joseph Kraft and Associated Press reporter Peter Arnett, who was covering Vietnam.

In fact, said Elliff, the FBI systematically conducted such checks on any congressmen, public officials or other prominent persons in whom Hoover had taken some interest.

Johnson also asked for "purely political intelligence about United States senators" that had been encountered by the FBI during other intelligence activities, and Johnson aide Bill Moyers asked the FBI near the end of the 1964 presidential campaign to report on all persons employed by Republican candidate Barry Goldwater.

Johnson's administration also asked for FBI checks on dozens of persons who signed telegrams to the President questioning U.S. policy in Vietnam and of persons who voiced skepticism of the findings of the Warren Commission, which investigated the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The bureau also was ordered by a Johnson aide to investigate Justice Department and Treasury Department officials because the President was not satisfied with their conduct of an investigation of Bobby Baker, Johnson's former Senate aide.

In addition, the FBI made checks of all of the members of a Senate subcommittee headed by Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., after the panel threatened to launch an investigation of the FBI in the mid-1960s.

Earlier testimony had outlined a campaign by Hoover to discredit King as a leader of the civil rights movement.

Witnesses have told Congress that the FBI engaged in a harassment campaign against King that included sending poison pen letters to the rights leader and his wife and bugging his hotel rooms.

DeLoach on Wednesday told the panel the Hoover campaign against King began in 1962 when King warned civil rights workers that "Southern-born, reared and educated" FBI agents should not be trusted. Hoover was bitter and resentful of the statement, DeLoach recalled.

Former Atty. Gen. Nicholas DeB. Katzenbach told the committee he believes he never received or read three FBI memos initialed by him authorizing continuation of the FBI wiretaps on King. He said he had refused a request for a King wiretap just three weeks before the memos were written.

He did not say he believed his initials were forged, but said, "I strongly believe I would have had such a recollection."

Katzenbach told the panel he defends the FBI disruption of such organizations as the Ku Klux Klan, telling the senators, "You can't do a criminal investigation without using disruption."

He said he thought any wrongdoing by the FBI was due largely to "the historical accident" of Hoover's long tenure as head of the bureau. He said he thought age affected Hoover's judgment and that improper activities resulted from "the transgressions of an angry man who served with great distinction for too long."

Bill Extends U.S. Limits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee is sending to the full Senate a bill to establish a 200-mile fishery zone off U.S. coasts to protect depleted fish stocks.

The committee voted 9 to 7 Wednesday to send the bill, designed to stop foreign fleets from overfishing U.S. coastal waters, for final Senate action. The Senate has approved similar extensions twice before.

The bill, which would extend American jurisdiction from the present 12-mile limit, is opposed by the State and Defense departments.

The State Department opposes the measure on grounds that unilateral action by the United States might jeopardize current negotiations for an international "law of the sea" treaty.

The Defense Department has expressed concern that other nations might retaliate by establishing 200-mile territorial sea limits, going beyond fishery control to restrict navigation in straits between nations and infringe on other rights of the open sea.

As approved by the Armed Services Committee, the bill becomes effective Jan. 1, 1977, to give time for international negotiators to complete work on a treaty.

Earlier Senate bills died when the House failed to act. However, the House already has passed a similar bill which carries an effective date of July 1, 1976.

If the Senate approves its measure, differences between the versions will be resolved by a House-Senate conference committee.

Claim Votes To Beat Down Filibuster Try

By MIKE WATERS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress could approve a $2.3 billion rescue bill for New York City early next week, just days before the city faces a serious threat of financial default.

Meanwhile, the Senate Appropriations Committee today takes up a separate measure which actually makes the money available for the loan. President Ford's rescue plan, already approved by the House, survived its first Senate opposition test when a vote of 57 to 23 killed a move Wednesday to send the measure to the Senate Banking Committee, thus delaying the bill. The show of strength by the bill's supporters indicated they may have the votes to block a threatened filibuster by Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala. That vote is set for Friday.

Senate Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia said supporters have the 60 votes needed to block Allen's filibuster.

"We've got the votes if they're here. It's just a question of absenteeism," Byrd said.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, said, "We feel reasonably convinced that if this legislation does not become law by Dec. 11, or a few days after that, nothing can prevent a bankruptcy of New York City."

Between Dec. 11 and March 1, $1.6 billion in New York City bonds come due.

During the debate on the Senate floor, Allen said the loan bill is being rammed through Congress without committee hearings in either chamber. Allen said he objects to federal loans to New York City at a time when banks are unwilling to take the risk of helping the city out of its crisis.

"If it's reasonable for the secretary (of the Treasury) to make the loans, why wouldn't it be reasonable for the banks to make the loans? It's not for a long term, it's for seven months," Allen said.

During the debate, Proxmire said the Ford proposal is the minimum amount of assistance needed to prevent New York from defaulting. Ford said he would veto any other bills. And Proxmire warned that if the bill is not passed nothing can prevent a bankruptcy of New York City.

"It may well be that New York City may not be able to survive with this assistance because this assistance is too little," he said.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Jr., Ind.-Va., said that the banks of New York, which hold much of New York's bonds, should disclose how they would benefit from Ford's bill.

Proxmire answered by saying that the New York banks are taking a "beating" on the fiscal crisis and he added they are "taking a loss, a very big loss."

Faces Prison If He Returns

CESKE BUDEJOVICE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — The prison sentence of American helicopter pilot Barry Meeker, tried in absentia, has been upheld by a regional court.

The court ruled on Wednesday that the 10-year sentence given Meeker and the 6-year sentence given his assistant, Thaddeus Kobrzynski, and the 3-year sentence handed an East German woman, Helga Neukirchner, must be served.

Meeker, 33, of Hartford, Conn., flew 11 East Germans from Czechoslovakia until border guards stopped him on Aug. 17. Meeker escaped but Kobrzynski and Mrs. Neukirchner were caught.

If Meeker should ever return to Czechoslovakia, he would have to serve the sentence upheld by the three-member regional court panel.

Plan Basketball Play For Adults

Organizational meetings and practice for persons interested in Winterville Adult League basketball will be held next Monday, Tuesday and Thursday at 8 p.m. at A. G. Cox gymnasium.

The league is open to men and women living or working in the Winterville school district and everyone planning to participate must be signed up by Thursday night, Dec. 11.

interested in careers in the real estate profession.

Formal presentation of the funds was made by H. W. Wheless, owner of Wheless Real Estate Services here, and chairman of the chapter's scholarship committee, and Joe Hayes, staff appraiser with the N. C. Dept. of Transportation.

Hayes and George West of Louisburg are members of the chapter's scholarship committee.

Accepting the funds, ECU School of Business Dean James Bearden noted that ECU real estate students "will be the initial beneficiaries" of the award, but that the real estate profession will ultimately benefit from the gift.

"We are fortunate to have organizations such as the Society of Real Estate Appraisers who are sufficiently interested in our program to provide special financial support in furtherance of our undertaking," he said.

Dr. Bearden said several scholarship recipients will be selected within a few weeks.

Founded in 1935, the Society of Real Estate Appraisers now has 18,000 members in 184 chapters throughout the U. S. and Canada. Members include full-time professional real estate appraisers and analysts and trainees of appraisal programs.

Qualified members may receive three professional designations: Senior Real Estate Analyst (SREA), Senior Real Property Appraiser (SRPA), and Senior Residential Appraiser (SRA).

The local chapter's 90 members include 35 who have received professional designations.

Sikkim's Ex-King Kept Under Guard

OFFICIAL GREETING—Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi is greeted by Sikkim Chief Minister Kazi Lhendup Dorji on her arrival in Rangpo. (AP Wirephoto)

By MYRON L. BELKIND
Associated Press Writer
GANGTOK, Sikkim (AP) — The royal flag of Sikkim still flies from the palace of Palden Thondup Namgyal. But its display is only symbolic, to soothe the feelings of the former monarch of the picturesque Himalayan state. For Mr. Namgyal, as he is now known officially, is only a private Indian citizen and his 2,800-square-mile kingdom is India's newest state. It has a population of some 250,000. Dethroned last April after abolition of the 333-year-old monarchy, the former Chogyal (king) is a virtual prisoner in the palace from where he reigned for a decade with his American-born queen, former debutante Hope Cooke. She now lives in New York City with their two children. Armed Indian police surround the palace grounds, barring all visitors except those who receive special permission from the police commissioner. The ex-Chogyal can leave the palace when he wishes, but he must tell the police where he intends to go. Once surrounded by a coterie of Indian and Sikkimese advisers and a large staff of servants, the 52-year-old Namgyal is now a lonely man facing an uncertain future because of mounting financial difficulties and animosity from the state's antiroyalist political leaders. An annual government grant of two million rupees (about $250,000) used primarily to maintain the palace has been cut off.

The move forced the Chogyal to dismiss more than half his personal staff, leaving him with about ten servants, including a cook, a bearer, some sweepers and a driver. The Chogyal last met newsmen formally on April 14 of this year, the day Sikkimese voted 59,637 to 1,496 in favor of Indian statehood. At the press conference, the Chogyal said the referendum was illegal and unconstitutional and should have been conducted by neutral body instead of Indian authorities who organized the poll in just three days.

Miller said one tactic might be to coerce manufacturers to place one dollar in a trust fund for nutritional advertising every time they spend a dollar to advertise "junk food." He indicated he considers "junk food" to include most ready-to-eat breakfast cereals, sugary snack foods and fast food items sold at roadside chain outlets. Miller is a professor of maternal and child health at the School of Public Health at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. He also called for high taxes on alcohol and tobacco so that "only the very richest among us would be able to indulge in them."

Losing To 'Junk Food'

GREENSBORO (AP)—The president of the American Public Health Association says it is "nonsense" to think the public can be educated into correct nutritional habits while millions of dollars are spent to promote "junk food." Dr. C. Arden Miller called for government control of such advertising in a speech Wednesday at the closing session of the North Carolina Health Convocation. Miller said one tactic might be to coerce manufacturers to place one dollar in a trust fund for nutritional advertising every time they spend a dollar to advertise "junk food." He indicated he considers "junk food" to include most ready-to-eat breakfast cereals, sugary snack foods and fast food items sold at roadside chain outlets. Miller is a professor of maternal and child health at the School of Public Health at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. He also called for high taxes on alcohol and tobacco so that "only the very richest among us would be able to indulge in them."

By government order, his car no longer flies the royal standard. Government officials, who deny the Chogyal is under any form of house arrest, say he is kept under heavy guard to protect him from hostile Sikkimese. However, the Chogyal's friends maintain the new government is afraid to let him move about freely because he could become a focal point of political opposition from persons who might be disenchanted with Indian statehood.

School Boom

RALEIGH (AP) — A study foresees an enrollment boom in North Carolina's community colleges and technical institutes. It says 1.1 million persons may want to attend one of the 57 institutions five years from now. That would be double the present enrollment. Whether that many can be accommodated depends upon the willingness of the General Assembly to pour substantially more money into the school than it has. The study is by the Research Triangle Institute.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market lost more ground today after some seemingly encouraging news on wholesale prices failed to halt the slide that began at the start of the week.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, off 35.18 points from Monday through Wednesday, was down another 4.41 at 821.08 by 11:30 a.m. today.

Losers took a 2-1 lead over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

At the opening, the government reported that its wholesale price index was unchanged for November—a markedly improved performance over its climb at a 21.6 per cent annual rate the month before.

But the brief rally attempt that greeted that news faltered within an hour with the Dow gaining only about 2 1/2 points before falling back again.

Analysts said the market still seemed to be suffering from concern that the economic recovery might be running out of steam.

Schering-Plough was the most active issue on the Big Board, down 7/8 at 53 1/4.

Occidental Petroleum resisted the downtrend, gaining 1/4 to 14 1/4 in active trading. The company and Libya announced settlement of a dispute on oil agreements.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index dropped .11 to 46.14 in the first hour.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .11 at 82.62.

Probe Death From Fire

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Bureau of Investigation is probing the death of a 22-year-old patient at Dorothea Dix hospital who died Nov. 22 from a fire allegedly deliberately started under his bed by a fellow patient.

Although it notified the SBI, the hospital made no public disclosure of the incident.

The victim was identified as David H. Bullock, a patient assigned to the Caswell center for retarded children in Kinston, but temporarily at Dorothea Dix for surgery.

Bullock, a mute was unable to call for help when an ignited trash can was shoved under his bed. He could not get out of the bed because he was unable to walk.

Dist. Atty. Burley Mitchell said he was not sure a charge would be filed because of the mental capacity of the suspect in the case.

Henry

WILSON — Mrs. Alice H. Henry of Rt. 3, Wilson, died Wednesday morning in Wilson Memorial Hospital. She was the wife of Sammy K. Henry.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Hemby Funeral Home, Fountain.

Hopkins

TARBORO — Mrs. Martha Hopkins of 1301 E. Baker St. died Wednesday morning in Edgcombe General Hospital, Tarboro. Funeral arrangements are incomplete at the Hemby Funeral Home, Tarboro.

Hudson

Mr. Lonnie Paul Hudson, 57, died Wednesday.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Vanceboro United Tabernacle Holiness Church Friday at 3 p.m. by the Rev. Sam Weatherington and the Rev. John White. Burial will be in the Lewis Family Cemetery.

A Craven County native, he spent his life in the Vanceboro and Wilma communities, where he was a retired farmer.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Elva M. Hudson of the home; three daughters, Mrs. Allen L. Stokesberry, Mrs. Donald R. Mills, and Mrs. James Frank Lewis, all of Vanceboro; a brother, Woodrow E. Hudson of Vanceboro; two sisters, Mrs. Floyd B. McLawhorn and Mrs. Gus Kite, both of Vanceboro; and three grandchildren.

The family will receive friends at the Wilkerson Funeral Home Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m. The body will be at the church one hour prior to the service.

Suit Challenges Limits On Age

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The operator of The Swingers Club topless bar has filed a $25,000 suit challenging the city code that bans topless dancing by girls under 21.

The suit against the city was filed Wednesday. That was several weeks after the manager, Mike King, and a 19-year-old topless dancer were arrested the day after the club opened in Wilmington.

Elvis Presley Slowing Down

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Elvis Presley is back on stage after a bout with fatigue, but this time he's taking it just a bit more slowly.

At age 40, the rock 'n roll singer has orders from his doctor to take it easy. The hips that shook so wildly and shocked an older generation move in a more casual manner now.

Instead of the usual two shows a night, Presley will do just one, except on Saturday when he'll do two.

NEW TAX

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — The government has imposed a new tax of two per cent of their total payroll on all companies in Colombia. The money goes to the Family Welfare Institute to run state orphanages for the thousands of abandoned children, called "gaminers," who are roaming the streets of Colombia's big cities.

Beavers Expand Range In Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Beavers are rapidly expanding their range in Texas and reoccupying areas from which they were trapped by man in the 19th century, according to state parks and wildlife officials.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is encountering problems in central Texas, with the large rodents stopping up drains of numerous man-made lakes and stock tanks.

Engineers want the impoundments to drain slowly after each rain and reduce the danger of floods. The beavers, however, prefer higher and more constant water levels to get them closer to trees which are their food supply.

State biologists report beaver populations exist even within the city limits of Texas' capital.

Obituaries

Cole

Mr. Thomas R. Cole, 80, a retired pharmacist, died Wednesday at his home, 1731 Beaumont Drive.

Funeral services will be conducted in the Wilkerson Funeral Home Chapel Friday at 11 a.m. by the Rev. Richard Gammon, his pastor.

Mr. Cole, an Orange County native, was a graduate of the Macon School of Pharmacy in Macon, Ga. He operated Cole's Pharmacy in Sanford for many years, coming to Greenville in 1969. He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church, the Greenville Kiwanis Club, and the N. C. Pharmaceutical Association and was a World War I veteran.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Mary P. Cole of the home; two daughters, Mrs. Richard Worsley and Mrs. Jack Tyler, both of Greenville; six grandchildren; and a sister, Mrs. Nell Spear of Hendersonville.

Cities Look To Shared Revenue

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN Associated Press Writer

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — The National League of Cities is prepared to ask Congress to waive its new budget procedures in order to re-enact general revenue-sharing quickly next year.

Meantime, a Dallas City Councilwoman, Rose Renfro, intended to try today to get the nation's largest organization of urban officials to take its first public stand on school busing.

Mrs. Renfro, who is attending her first national conference of urban officials, said she would offer a resolution to put the city executives on record as favoring a constitutional amendment to ban busing to achieve school desegregation.

The busing stand and the revenue-sharing proposal are among the policy resolutions being voted on today as the 3,000 delegates conclude their convention work.

As the busing issue has developed over the last half decade, city officials at such conventions have repeatedly refused to deal with it and leaders among the mayors here said they thought it unlikely that Mrs. Renfro would be successful.

The revenue-sharing resolution was expected to win overwhelming approval. The mayors have made renewal of the five-year $30-billion program their top legislative priority. They are backing President Ford's proposal to extend the program for 5 1/2 years past its expiration at the end of 1976.

The $39.8-billion extension bill has met resistance in Congress despite the mayors' pleas for quick action to avoid disrupting their budget planning. The resolution urged Congress to waive its new budget procedures, which take effect Jan. 1, and which would prevent consideration of the measure until after May 15.

Other resolutions call for such new federal initiatives as a national health insurance program for every American using both government and private resources.

Rose Seeks State Crown In Charlotte

State Gives Bucs Lesson In Basketball

Wolfpack Romps To 117-81 Win

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

RALEIGH — East Carolina University's basketball budget might have to be enlarged this year. Many more games like last night's 117-81 defeat at the hands of the N.C. State Wolfpack, and the box office is going to start charging admission.

After all, if the Pirates want to stand around and watch, they might as well take a seat in the stands and make it really easy for the opposition.

Not that it was very hard last night. N.C. State gave the Pirates a lesson in how basketball should be played. They ran, they hustled, they worked for the shot, they stole the ball, they hit the floor for the loose ball, they had movement away from the ball.

In general, they played. East Carolina didn't.

The most surprising thing about the game was that East Carolina outshot the Wolfpack percentage-wise, and outrebounded them by one, 37-36. Perhaps the reason for the percentage (ECU shot 56.7, State 53.6) was that East Carolina shot 24 less times, making just 11 less.

Sloppy ballhandling, the almost-complete absence of movement without the ball, the general lack of hustle, and the complete lack of aggression, both on offense and defense, keyed the Pirates.

Turnovers were a big thing. East Carolina threw the ball away 33 times, and State stole it on 18 occasions, easily reading the telegraphed passes. State had only 15 turnovers and only twice had the ball stolen.

Oddly enough, 31 fouls were called on the Pirates, and four of the ten players who made the trip under the NCAA restrictions on travel squads fouled out. Two more finished the game with three fouls each. State had just 21 fouls called on it.

That produced a difference in free throws of 14 attempts — and as many made. The Pack hit 27 of 34, while East Carolina had 13 of 20.

Newcomers Darnell Adell and 7-0 Glenn Sudhop sparked the Wolfpack, along with veteran Kenny Carr. Sudhop, who made 10 of 15, led the State scoring with 26 points. Carr finished with 25, while Adell had 19. Al Green had 15 and Phil Spence had 12.

About the only Pirate who looked like he was playing ball was freshman Ty Edwards, who scored 10 points on five of six shots. But he fouled out early, playing only 14 minutes.

Al Edwards led the scoring with 15 points, while Wade Henkel hit on 14, most of them coming in the final 10 minutes of the game. Reggie Lee and Larry Hunt each added 12.

East Carolina was in it for a short while. After Carr gave the Pack the initial lead, Al Edwards put the Pirates into a tie at 2-2, and Lee was awarded a basket on a goal tending call for a 4-2 edge. Edwards hit again to up it to 6-2 with 18:00 left in the half.

But a baseline jumper by Carr and two quick baskets by Adell pushed State back up, 8-6, before Hunt made a free throw and Edwards added two for a 9-8 edge. Ty Edwards hit from the baseline to up it to 11-8 with 15:40 left, but that was the last Pirate lead.

A free throw by Sudhop and a drive by Green tied it up, and Adell's jumper with 14:08 left put State ahead for good. Green added two free throws and Adell a jumper from the lane for a 17-11 lead before East Carolina could score again.

State steadily pulled away after that, moving out by 12 midway through the half, 29-17. East Carolina cut it back to eight several times, but free throws, by Sudhop, Adell and Spence over a minute and a half span pushed the lead out to 45-29 with 4:46 to go. East Carolina cut it back to 51-39 at the half.

East Mecklenburg Is Favored In Finals

The final rung of the ladder is now within reach of the Rose High School Rampants. Whether they are able to grasp it will be learned Friday night.

Rose travels to Charlotte to meet East Mecklenburg's Eagles for the State 4-A Football Championship. Neither team was expected to be there, so no matter which one wins, it will be something of a Cinderella story.

The Rampants gained the finals by upsetting top-ranked Richmond County, 31-14, last week. East Mecklenburg upset East Forsyth, 14-7, to make their way into the final round.

Oddly enough, the Rampants will be going for their second straight 4-A championship, having won the baseball title last spring. And in that final, they beat out a Charlotte team, Harding, for the title.

Rose brings an 11-2 mark into the contest, while East Mecklenburg's 10-2-1 record is only slightly less impressive. Both teams went 8-2 during the regular season. The Eagles' tie came in the first round of the playoffs, a 7-7 deadlock with Page of Greensboro. They advanced by having the most yardage, then beat High Point Andrews, 20-10, in the second round. Then, previously unbeaten East Forsyth fell last week.

Coach Dave Bumgarner is a little worried about the attitude of his team going into the game. Rose is rated an underdog in the contest, with most Charlotte observers figuring their victory over Richmond County was a fluke.

How To Get There:

From U.S. 29, Tryon St., turn left on Eastway and follow it to Independence if going to Ramada Inn-Coliseum. Rose headquarters. Turn left on Independence. Ramada, is on left.

From Ramada, you may return to Eastway, and turn left, or you may go on east on Independence to either Sharon Amity Road or Rama Road, turning right onto either of these. Follow either of the three to (Old) Monroe Road, and turn left. East Mecklenburg is located out of the Charlotte city limits on Old Monroe Road on right side of the road.

"I think our kids are ready to play," Bumgarner said. "I just don't want them to start thinking about what they're going to do after the game. I want their whole attention on the game. Richmond County had big plans for a victory dance after last week's game. We had nothing planned; our celebration was spontaneous. I don't want anybody making any plans to celebrate something that is still in doubt. I'd rather things just take their natural course."

Bumgarner admitted that he was worried after Richmond County ran up an early 14-0 lead. "But I told our players before the game that the team that made the least number of mistakes would win it. I told them we had to capitalize on their mistakes, and we did. When we came back and tied it at 14-14, the game was over. When we went ahead 17-14, it was really over. They never got things going again, and we dominated every phase of the game after that."

The coach also noted that the Rampants' mascot, a plague with the school emblem on it has been returned. "It really was stolen out of our dressing room. It was found taped up on the wall of the Richmond County locker room and returned to us on Saturday."

The Rampants are all in good physical shape, and John Mallow, defensive linebacker who missed last week's game,

Farmville Girls Run Past Conley

FARMVILLE—Farmville Central's girls opened the 1975-76 basketball season with a 44-19 romp past D. H. Conley last night.

In a junior varsity game, Conley rolled to a 68-37 win. No varsity boys' game was played. Farmville Central held the Valkyries scoreless in the first period while scoring nine points of their own. In the second frame, the Lady Jaguars continued to pull away, 11-7, holding a 20-7 halftime bulge.

Farmville outthit Conley again, 10-6, in the third period, building the lead to 30-13. They finished up with a 14-6 margin over Conley.

Julia Moye led the Farmville output, nearly equaling the entire Conley output with 18 points. Mary McCracken was high for Conley with eight.

Rampant Wrestlers Have Depth Enough To Take Divisional Title

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer

It seems the big news around Rose these days concerns football. But there is another sport cranking up and Ron Williams hopes people will be talking a lot about it before its season is over.

The Rampant wrestling team, Williams admits, is in a rebuilding stage. But, he hopes, one that will build right into the top seat of the Division I race.

"The majority (of the team) will be sophomores," Williams said. "We have three seniors that will be back that are lettermen, and a number of juniors." The sophomores are inexperienced, he said, but that's at the high school level. "They did wrestle in junior high. They have done pretty good. We hope that as the season progresses and by the time we make the conference, they will be able to help us out. We will hold our own."

One thing Williams is happy about is depth. Below the crust of last year's team was nothing but vacant space. This time around, Williams has at least two wrestlers at every position but one, and in some slots, three.

The Rampants return a let-terman at 96 in John Lawler, a junior. "He's recovering from an injury," said Williams. "Behind Lawler is Ricky Valentine. Ricky will wrestle the first week. He may give John some competition but John has the slight edge. I think that will be it for 96."

"At 105 is a sophomore, James Cherry. Backing him up will be Clifton Hagen. I expect Cherry to come around pretty good," Williams said.

Two sophomores are working at 112, Timmy Allen and Mike Norfleet. Norfleet wrestled at Aycock and has attended wrestling camps. "They will help at that class."

About the only weight that doesn't have two men is 118. But Jesse Baker seems to be doing the job of two wrestlers. "I think Jesse can be a good wrestler," Williams said. "He knows a bit of advanced wrestling and can help us out."

From just one in a class, Williams jumps up to three at 126. Mike Alexander, a two-time conference champion, is back and Williams feels he could take the state this year. Behind him are Greg Gambrell and David Telfair. Of the latter two, Gambrell has more experience.

Another trio is working at 132. Senior Jimmy Davis is back for his third year and being pushed by Virgil Tyson, who Williams says is a very strong kid, and David Jackson. "I expect James Tetterton to hold down the spot (at 138). Johnny Harris is coming along real well and will be an asset." Also at this class is Bobby Wilson.

Williams has great expectations for another wrestler. "At 145 we'll have a senior letterman back, Tyrone Perkins. He should have his best year yet. Jeff Campbell is also wrestling here and will come into his own. He will help us out and may move to another weight class to avoid wrestling Perkins."

Tyrone picked up a great deal of experience over the summer wrestling with the AAU team that met the team from Denmark during the summer.

Last year, Ronnie Riddick had a tough time getting into the action having to wrestle behind Ronald Randolph at 155. Still, he finished second in the conference. This year, he is on top in the class. He will be pushed by Howard Tucker, a sophomore. Tucker might change weights before its over with.

At 167 are Terry Wells, Raymond Wooten and Frank Clark.

Two sophomores will be at 188, Bernie Fleming and William

League May Add Four

Four additional teams may be added to the North Carolina Collegiate Summer League, it was announced today.

The four, who have expressed interest in joining the league are Appalachian State, Campbell, Elon and Atlantic Christian. ASU and Campbell have participated in the league in the past.

A meeting will be held sometime in January to firm up the league, and set a schedule for this summer's play. Other members of the league are UNC-Wilmington, Methodist, Louisville, UNC-Chapel Hill and East Carolina.

Abdul-Jabbar, Scaring Opponents To Death, Leads Lakers To Win

By the Associated Press

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the Los Angeles Lakers' towering center, not only is a menacing figure with a basketball, but now he is virtually scaring opponents half to death.

Abdul-Jabbar scored 29 points, grabbed 21 rebounds and blocked 11 shots — a record for Cobo Arena in Detroit — sparking the Lakers to a 118-110 victory over the Pistons Wednesday night. The triumph lifted the Lakers' record to 15-8 and put them one-half game ahead of idle Golden State in the Pacific Division, although they trail the Warriors, 12-6, by a few percentage points.

"Kareem played what might have been one of his better defensive and rebounding games," said Lakers' Coach Bill Sharman. "Besides the 11 blocks, he must have had another 10 'scare'."

In other NBA games, the Chicago Bulls edged the Boston Celtics 109-106, the Philadelphia 76ers beat the New Orleans Jazz 102-94, the Milwaukee Bucks whipped the Portland Trail Blazers 114-92, and the Houston Rockets extended their winning streak to five with a 107-101 triumph over the Seattle SuperSonics.

Cazzie Russell led the Lakers with 31 points. Russell, Abdul-Jabbar and Donnie Freeman paced a 21-6 Lakers' spurt in the fourth period that enabled Los Angeles to pull away from an 87-87 tie. John Mengelt scored 26 points for Detroit.

Bulls 109, Celtics 106

Chicago, with the league's worst record, 5-13, posted only its second victory in the last 13 outings, upending Boston with the help of Bob Love's 35 points and Bob Wilson's 20. But Coach Dick Motta still wasn't satisfied.

"We're not playing aggressive yet," he said. "We'll get it together. We've been in every ball game. We've been a little frustrated. This will help a lot."

Dave Cowens topped the Celtics with 26 points, but missed two close-in field goal attempts and a critical free throw in the final two minutes.

76ers 102, Jazz 94

Philadelphia built a 20-point lead in the second period, fell behind by one point late in the third quarter, then regained momentum in pulling away from New Orleans. George McGinnis paced the 76ers with 27 points. Ron Behagen led the azz with 23 points and Jim McElroy and Aaron James each scored 20.

Bucks 114, Trail Blazers 92

Bob Dandridge came off the bench and scored 11 of his 21 points during a 21-2 Milwaukee burst in the first half that propelled the Bucks to a 40-18 lead and past Portland. Brian Winters was high for the Bucks with 22 points, while Dan Anderson scored 17 for Portland. The Trail Blazers' Geoff Petrie, averaging over 21 points per game, played only nine minutes because of a knee injury and scored two points.

Rockets 107, SuperSonics 101

Calvin Murphy popped in 26 points and substitute Dave Wohl contributed eight points and seven assists in 25 minutes in keying Houston's triumph. Bruce Seals led Seattle with 16 points.

may be able to play this week. He has had a cast removed from his leg and is limbering up to see if he can be ready.

"We're in good mental shape too. It's been a long 18 weeks from the start of practice to here. Our players have worked for this moment, however, and we've had two good days of work (through Wednesday morning) and our players realize that they are not picked to win... again."

East Mecklenburg is a big team, perhaps the biggest faced by the Rampants this year. "Like every other team we've played, they've got me worried," Bumgarner said. "They run straight at you and tell you they're going to beat you man-to-man. They have a tough defense that makes things happen for us, and they have two real big men up front. And they are a good team, you don't get to the finals without being good."

The Eagles run from a pro set and are very basic, running right up the middle most of the time. They do not pass often, and use few fancy things in their offense.

The key man in the offense is Wally Schacht, their 5-10, 180-pound fullback. He's rated by the Charlotte News as the top fullback in Mecklenburg County. Through the first 11 games, he had rushed for 823 yards on 211 carries, and now is approaching 1,000 yards. He's averaging 4.0 yards a carry.

Schacht has scored 17 touchdowns this year, and is the leading scorer in the school's history. He also doubles as a linebacker and is listed as one of the best in the league.

Joining him in the backfield is halfback Fred Stitt, a speedster, and quarter back Hunter Hobbs, who carries the ball only seldom. Stitt missed last week's game with a shoulder injury, but is expected to be ready this week.

Offensively, the team makes very few mistakes, and likes to grind out the yardage. They also capitalize on others mistakes, and have an outstanding punt return game, returning one 75 yards for a score last week.

Oddly enough, the punt coverage game is one of the brightest spots in the Rose game. They have allowed only three yards all season in returns.

Defensively, the Eagles are led by their two tackles, Audrey Truesdale, 6-1, 243; and Chip Bryant, 6-1, 250.

Kickoff is set for 8 p.m. on the Eagles' home field. Two hours later the New State champ will be crowned.

Early in the second period, East Carolina cut it back to eight, 51-43, as they hit the first two buckets. But Carr hit two charity shots, then scored off a steal. Sudhop added a shot from underneath to run it out to 57-43, and State was on the move again.

They upped it to 65-47 on a shot by Sudhop, then ran off 10 in a row for a 75-49 edge. That margin held for some time, until State hit another hot streak between 6:42 and 4:51, running off 12 in a row, including three-point play. That upped the lead to 105-67, and Coach Norm Sloan began to go to his bench shortly after that.

The loss dropped the Pirates to an 0-2 record, having given up 244 points while scoring 165 in the two games. They get their first taste of South Conference action on Saturday, traveling to Lexington, Va., to meet the VMI Keydets.

Veeck's Bid Rejected By AL

By MIKE HARRIS
AP Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Chicago White Sox and Bill Veeck remained in baseball limbo today after American League owners rejected his initial bid for the team and gave him one week to raise the ante.

Veeck, the man who introduced bat day and midgets to baseball while owner of three teams over three decades, was told Wednesday night by the owners his offer included too much debt and not enough cash.

"I'm sort of in shock," said Veeck after being told he must come up with $1.2 million more in debt money for the sale to go through. "I didn't anticipate this. The requirements in this (new proposal) are quite a bit more stringent than other teams that have been admitted in recent years."

"I'm neither optimistic nor pessimistic," he added. "It's possible (to meet the asking price) and we'll try."

The attorney for the group Veeck is representing, David Cohen of Philadelphia, was definitely pessimistic.

"It's not impossible, but it is improbable," Cohen said. "It's going to be seven days, 24 hours a day of backbreaking work."

Lee MacPhail, president of the American League, and the owners and general managers met for more than six hours before MacPhail emerged to announce the league counter-proposal and deadline.

"The league clubs considered the proposal and financial information and financial structure proposed by Mr. Veeck and found it did not meet league standards," MacPhail said.

He said eight teams voted against the bid, three voted to accept it and one team abstained. The vote on the league's counter proposal, he said, was 10-0 in favor, with two owners already gone from the meeting to catch planes. Nine votes are needed to pass such a resolution.

"It was a matter of structure and relationship of debt to equity," MacPhail said. "We've had difficulties in some instances with our clubs. In each instance it was because the team's undercapitalized."

"We've asked Mr. Veeck for additional capital — unencumbered equity," he added. "If Mr. Veeck can meet these arrangements by our league meeting Dec. 10, it will be acceptable to the league."

Veeck's $8.55 million offer to current Chicago owner John Allyn, according to a prospectus seen by The Associated Press, consisted of $4,080,000 in debentures, $720,000 in stock sales and $3,750,000 in assumed loans from two Chicago banks.

Allyn, who has lost an estimated $8 million in six years as owner of the White Sox, was to retain about 20 per cent of the stock under the original proposal.

Veeck said the venture involves about 50 persons, many of them old friends from his previous baseball days, including Bill DeWitt, chairman of the new group.

Veeck owned the White Sox from 1959 through 1961, when he left baseball for reasons of health. He previously owned the St. Louis Browns — now the Baltimore Orioles — and the Cleveland Indians.

Atlantic Coast Teams Pick Up Easy Victories

By The Associated Press

Two of the three nationally ranked basketball teams in the Atlantic Coast Conference, Maryland and North Carolina State, won easily Wednesday night.

The third team, fourth-ranked North Carolina, makes an early-season visit to New York tonight to play Seton Hall in the first game of a Madison Square Garden doubleheader. It will be the night's only game for an ACC team. Purdue and Rutgers meet in the second game.

Second-ranked Maryland ran off strings of 9, 10, 15 and 12 points in routing DePauw 99-42. Six Terps were in double figures, including 17 by Steve Sheppard, 16 by Lawrence Boston and 14 by John Lucas.

N.C. State, ranked No. 13, also brought its record to 2-0 by trouncing East Carolina 117-81. Glenn Sudhop, a 7-foot-1 freshman center, scored 26 points, and sophomore forward Kenny Carr had 25 for the winning Wolfpack. State used a pressing man-to-man defense and created 33 turnovers.

Fired-up Duke, playing at home as were Maryland and N.C. State, gave eighth-ranked Tennessee a game of it before succumbing 86-80. Duke never led. But the Blue Devils back from two 13-point deficits in the first half to tie at 51-all four minutes into the second half. They trailed by only 81-80 with 1:23 left in the game.

The Tennessee coach, Ray Mears, said, "We knew we had to scramble to win in this gym. Duke is very good on its home court, and Bill Foster is a great coach. He hurt us with his changing defenses throughout the game, and they deserve a lot of credit for coming back the way they did. I thought our team played very well under pressure in the second half."

Foster said, "We let them get too far ahead early. It's extremely difficult to come from that far behind and maintain your momentum. They were extremely quick, and they hurt us early with their outside shooting."

The high pointmakers were Willie Hodge with 29 for Duke and Bernard King with 20 for Tennessee. Tate Armstrong also had 20 for Duke.

Skip Brown scored 26 points to lead Wake Forest past West Virginia, 93-80. The Deacons, in bringing their record to 2-0, went into their four-corner offense when they led by eight points with four minutes remaining, and built the lead to the final 13.

Virginia, also 2-0, rolled over Washington & Lee 101-57. All five Cavalier starters hit in double figures, including a game-high 20 by freshman Otis Fulton. He also had 15 rebounds.

Clemson defeated Furman 92-

86 in overtime, aided by 20 points by freshman Derrick Johnson and 20 rebounds by Tree Rollins.

Furman was leading 82-80 with just over a minute remaining when Crag Lynch tied the game on a follow-up of a shot by Ray Miller. Rollins put Clemson ahead at 84-82 when he grabbed a rebound and scored 35 seconds into the overtime.

Furman led 39-32 at the half.

Gray Team Is Now Complete

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Quarterbacks Scott Gardner of Virginia and Phil Rogers of Virginia Tech are among the final 13 players to accept invitations to play on the South squad in the 38th annual Blue-Gray Football Classic Dec. 19, it was announced today.

The latest additions raise to 27 the number of players to join the South team, coached by Baylor's Grant Teaff. The remainder of North squad is scheduled to be announced Sunday.

The 6-3, 215-pound Gardner was ranked as the nation's No. 11th passer this season with 133 completions out of 272 attempts for a total of 1,547 yards.

Rogers, more of a runner, rushed for a total of 762 yards under the Wishbone offense to lead the Gobblers to a 8-3 record this season.

Also joining the South squad are running backs James "Boom Boom" Betterton of North Carolina and Wayne Morris of Southern Methodist.

Wide receiver Troy Slade of Duke, who hauled in 43 passes this season for a total of 654 yards, will join the pass-catching corps.

Rounding out the South's offense are tackles Henry Shepard of Southern Methodist and Mike Hughes of Baylor.

Also accepting invitations to televised all-star contest were defensive backs Tony Green and Curtis Jordan of Texas Tech and Ken Quesenberry of Baylor.

Tackle Rick Gibney of Georgia Tech and nose guard John Oliver of Baylor are the final additions to the defensive line.

Handling the place kicking chores for the South will be Bubba Hicks of Baylor, who finished the season with 20 field goals in 32 attempts and 61 out of 64 extra points during his career.

Spiders Stun Davidson Five

By The Associated Press
Richmond's Spiders have posted their second straight Southern Conference basketball victory while two other league teams have fallen to Atlantic Coast Conference clubs.

The Spiders got 19 points each from John Brown and Craig Sullivan for a 75-62 victory over Davidson's Wildcats Wednesday night.

North Carolina State buried East Carolina 117-81 and Clemson clipped Furman 92-86 in overtime.

Richmond grabbed the lead for good midway through the first half on Brown's layup after whittling away at an early Wildcat advantage.

The Spiders hit several cold spells and went nearly three minutes in the second half without scoring, but Davidson's freshman-laden team was unable to capitalize. During one Richmond slump, the Wildcats took the ball down court three times, only to lose it on turnovers.

John Gerdy led Davidson with 24 points.

The victory improved Richmond's over-all record to 2-1 and their conference mark to 2-0. Davidson fell to 1-1 over-all and 1-0 in the league.

N.C. State's 13th-ranked Wolfpack used 26 points from freshman Glenn Sudhop and 25 from Kenny Carr to rout East Carolina 117-81.

Darnell Adell had 19 points and Al Green added 25 for the Wolfpack.

Al Edwards paced the Pirates, now 0-2, with 15 points, and Wade Henkel had 14.

Freshman Derrick Johnson scored 20 points and Wayne "Tree" Rollins snagged 20 rebounds in Clemson's 92-86 overtime victory over Furman, 0-2.

Rollins' field goal 35 seconds into the extra period put the Tigers ahead for good.

Ray Miller led the losers with 24 points and Craig Lynch had 21.

Maryland Gets Second Big Win

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Depauw played Maryland and got caught with its points down. It was rather embarrassing.

"We didn't get much out of it," admitted Depauw Coach Elmer McCall after his team was humiliated 99-42 Wednesday night by Maryland's second-ranked basketball team.

The Terps toyed with their lesser rivals, rolling to a 55-20 halftime lead with clinical ease.

"Until about three years ago, we used to benefit quite a bit from such games," McCall pointed out. "I don't think Maryland gets much out of it, either — that's what it amounts to."

"Maryland has an outstanding team. We didn't play well enough in order to make them play their best. I think they're going to be better than last year. Everyone knows how good their guards are, but I think their deep men this year have more mobility and shoot better."

In other games involving the ranked teams, No. 8 Tennessee beat Duke 86-80; No. 10 Cincinnati crushed Wright State 118-70; No. 11 Arizona coasted over Idaho 88-62; No. 13 North Carolina State trounced East Carolina 117-81; No. 14 Alabama ripped LaSalle 78-57; 17th-ranked Auburn whipped Western Carolina 88-76 and 19th-ranked Arizona State walloped Seattle-Pacific 90-76.

The Terps scored the first nine points of their mismatch with Depauw, later ran off strings of 10 and 15 points in the first half and opened the second half with another 12-point string.

Steve Sheppard led Maryland with 17 points, Lawrence Boston had 16 and John Lucas 14 among the six Terps who scored in double figures. Jeff Halgren scored 12 points to pace the losing Tigers, 1-2.

Ernie Grunfeld converted a three-point play with 42 seconds left to trigger Tennessee past fired-up Duke. Robert Miller and Gary Yoder scored 23 points each as Cincinnati crushed Wright State with a 66-point second half.

Al Fleming and Gilbert Myles scored 19 points each as Arizona coasted past Idaho. North Carolina State, led by 7-1 freshman center Glenn Sudhop's 26 points and sophomore forward Kenny Carr's 25, trounced East Carolina.

Alabama, led by center Leon Douglas' 19 points, reeled off 12 straight points in the second half to easily defeat LaSalle. Mike Mitchell scored 25 points and Eddie Johnson 24 as Auburn whipped Western Carolina. Overcoming a sluggish first half, Arizona State rode the 27-point scoring of Scott Lloyd over Seattle-Pacific.

Despair For Very Young In Hospital

By PAUL RECER
Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — You're 6 years old, and you've been in bed, in a hospital, day after day, for weeks and weeks.

You don't understand what you've done wrong, but for some reason people are doing things to you that hurt. Today they stuck you with needles, and tomorrow it'll be the same. Who knows what they'll do the next day.

You don't get to see your friends, you can't run and jump or go to school and even your mother and father are acting differently.

Life's no fun any more, but just pain and strangers and long, long hours of boredom. Somehow, it doesn't seem worth it. Why go on and on and on?

This, say doctors, is the classic line of reasoning for the very young and chronically ill who are hospitalized for long periods of time.

This deep despair can bring on withdrawal, the loss of a will to live and eventually death.

"All children interpret illness as a form of punishment," says Dr. Barry Bowser, the chief of physical medicine at the Texas Children's Hospital here.

For a child, a hospital can be the worst possible place to receive that punishment.

"It's a hostile environment," said Bowser. "It's painful. It's unfriendly. There's nothing good that happens. So, why not leave any way you can."

One way is to just lose the will to live and to simply fade out, said the doctor.

"Children can actually die for no real medical reason," said Bowser. "They just drift away."

Finding a way to nurture that flickering will to live is a major problem for hospitals caring for the very young. At the Houston Medical Center, experts in communication and medicine are using television to battle the withdrawal syndrome of young patients.

The Houston chapter of the American Women in Radio and Television, using $5,000 of its own funds, recently took over one channel of a closed circuit television system at the Medical Center and is programming it exclusively for sick children.

The channel's shows are planned for patients aged 2 to 13. Twenty-six buildings of the medical complex receive the closed circuit system and the special programming is expected to reach about 350 young hospital patients daily.

It carries standard children's programs, such as "Sesame Street," "Lassie" and "Charlie Brown," and also some programs designed to explain away fears of surgery and to stimulate the will to recover.

Pilot's Case Heard Today

ATLANTA (AP) — A hearing was scheduled to get under way today on a Federal Aviation Administration move to revoke the commercial pilot's license of an Eastern Airlines pilot who was at the controls last year when a DC-9 jet crashed while approaching the Charlotte, N.C., airport.

The crash in September 1974 on a flight from Charleston, S.C., to Charlotte took 72 lives. The plane had 82 persons aboard.

A Charlotte news account said James Daniels, 37, copilot who was at the controls at the time of the crash, was prepared to testify that he misread his altimeter by 1,000 feet as the plane descended into ground fog, crashing about three miles from the airport.

Daniels, who makes his home in an Atlanta suburb, also contends that the FAA must share some of the blame for his mistake, according to a news story carried in Thursday's editions by the Charlotte Observer.

The news account said Daniels noted that two years before the crash the FAA had its own study which showed that the altimeter in question had a history of being misread by pilots.

The FAA, which is seeking the license revocation, has said that Daniels "failed to exercise at all times the degree of care, skill, judgment and responsibility required" at the time.

MOSCOW (UPI) — Despite massive capital investment in agriculture, the Soviet Union has increased grain production by little more than two per cent annually during its 1970-1975 development plan.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates that the Soviets will produce only 160 million metric tons of grain this year compared with 222 tons in 1973 — the only year of the plan

NOT OFFICIAL

ATLANTA (UPI) — Georgia, widely known as "The Peach State," has no official state nickname — and, in fact, South Carolina produces more peaches annually.

with an above target harvest.

This will bring the five-year total to about 927 million metric tons, compared with 838.8 million tons in the previous five-year plan.

This was only half the growth rate planned as a result of agricultural investment estimated at $173.6 billion.

On top of this, subsidies designed to keep prices stable were scheduled to reach $50 billion this year — more than the announced defense budget.

Despite the subsidies, many foodstuffs are more expensive than anywhere else in Europe, both in absolute terms and in relation to the low incomes of Soviet workers.

The drafting of tens of thousands of industrial and office workers and troops into the fields every year adds billions of dollars to the agricultural bill in terms of pay and the loss of industrial production.

The crop failures have necessitated importing grain in large amounts — 39.4 million tons as a result of the 1972 setback and up to 30 million tons this year at an estimated cost of $4.5 billion.

The Soviets also have contracted to buy between 30 and 40 million tons of grain from the United States over the next five years, at a possible cost of $1 billion a year.

On the rare occasions that they allude to harvest failures — never to the foreign grain purchases — newspapers usually describe how Soviet farmers have had to perform heroic feats against frost, drought and rain.

But even in the controlled Soviet press, an observant reader can pick up reports of tractors without spare parts and trucks without tires or roads on which to drive.

That is not all. Western agricultural experts estimate the Soviets lost about 88 million tons of grain in the first four years of the current development plan — more than they imported — because of waste caused by poor handling and storage.

More than 30 per cent of the Soviet working population is engaged in agriculture — the vast majority tied to the land as firmly as 19th century serfs because farm workers are denied documents allowing them to travel in their own country, even for a holiday.

But there is a lack of rural amenities and workers on state farms are paid less than those in industry. Workers on collective farms are paid less again, and the Soviet Union is finding it increasingly difficult to recruit skilled tractor drivers and mechanics.

Private farming, which the government has sworn to abolish for ideological reasons, is one sector where Soviet agriculture booms. It produces one quarter of the gross agricultural product on three per cent of the arable land.

Karl Menninger, At 82, Still A Man In A Hurry

By PATRICK A. MALONE
TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) — For more than 50 years, Karl Menninger has explored the dark cave of the human mind. No ordinary spelunker, his life is a roster of firsts. And he's in no mood to quit now.

The truth is that Karl Augustus Menninger, M.D., is in a hurry. "Anybody as old as I am is thinking about dying — thinking about it quite often," the 82-year-old patriarch of the Menninger Foundation mused recently. "You want to get as much done as you can before you die."

No one, save Karl Menninger, would protest if he retired tomorrow. He's done more since his 65th birthday than many do in a lifetime. In the last 17 years he's written three books and dozens of articles and book reviews, had two collections of his writings published, visited hundreds of prisons and given countless speeches.

In 1925 Menninger wrote his first article on psychiatry and prisoners; forty-three years later came his best-selling book, "The Crime of Punishment." Also in 1925, the Menningers opened a facility for disturbed children, separate from their psychiatric clinic begun earlier that year in a remodeled farm house. The two concerns of crime and children came together in 1964 with the founding of The Villages, a nonprofit home meant to spawn a series of facilities around the country for neglected and abandoned children. It is the project perhaps closest to Menninger's heart.

"Every case of suffering or underdog mistreatment I hear about — that fellow's me. To the extent that he's an underdog or persecuted or picked on or suffering or hurt or captured, I suffer with him."

I want to see it lessened, so when I succeed to any extent I'm happy. Even when I don't succeed I like to stir people up to the inequity of it."

He decided some time back that the traditional doctor's role — giving comfort, easing pain, curing disease — was not enough.

Twenty-two years ago he told a convention of the National Association for Mental Health: "I want to concentrate on this psychological fact that while everyone agrees that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure and that a stitch in time saves nine and so forth and so on, there is something about prevention which interests everyone less than cures or attempted cures. There is some kind of curious resistance in all of us to the idea of preventing anything, and we act only when we are forced to do so. And sometimes not even then."

His actions matched his words. As his wife Jean describes it:

"He says he spent the first 50 years of his life in treating people, and he was going to spend the last 50 years in prevention."

His passion for prevention began in earnest in the 1950s with speeches, magazine articles and scholarly papers. Increasingly in the 1960s and 1970s he prodded for prison reform and better facilities for abandoned children.

"I sometimes feel as if I would like to scream out to the American public that they are squirting gasoline on the fire," he told a congressional hearing in 1971. "The prison system is now manufacturing offenders, it is increasing the amount of transgression, it is multiplying crimes, it is compounding evil."

He's no saint. Karl Menninger the man has as many quirks and contradictions as any of us. His favorite animal is the mighty grizzly bear, but two of his favorite pastimes are painting and putting in the garden. He can be alternately kind and concerned with patients or brusque and dismissive of people who bore him.

Nor is he a Pollyanna. He's seen hundreds of prisons, talked to countless inmates and wardens, been a victim of crime himself. His beliefs are thus tempered by a certain cynicism, a recognition that not all people are good.

"Look!" he bellowed at an interviewer recently. "If you know a road is rough and bumpy, you don't be surprised or hurt or something if it turns out to be rough and bumpy."

Car Thieves Do Operate In Moscow

By HOWARD A. TYNER
MOSCOW (UPI) — Lock your car doors, comrade. Don't park on dark streets or lose your vehicle registration papers, either.

Gangs of car thieves are operating in Moscow.

With cars increasingly common in a city that had few private vehicles only a decade ago, the car theft problem has become so serious that police set up a special department to deal with it.

This unusual disclosure was made recently by the government newspaper Izvestia, which as a rule follows the Soviet practice of playing up crime in the West while all but denying its existence at home.

Statistics on the growth of car thievery in the Soviet Union are not available. Izvestia just said that a special police unit had been established "to improve efficiency in preventing this sort of crime."

Yet official concern clearly is reflected both by the need authorities felt to create the new department and by their decision to publicize the struggle against one highly successful robber band.

How did the gang operate? Much the same as its Western counterparts.

There were 12 men in all, each an "expert." One was a document forger, another the actual thief. A distinguished-looking gang member acted as the bogus "owner" when stolen cars were being sold. Others acted as go-betweens or drivers.

"Sometimes they stole a car spontaneously, just when they saw it," Izvestia said. "Sometimes they would search entire areas of the city to find a car with exactly the right color."

The stolen vehicle would be hidden while the forger, named Silivonov, prepared "clean" registration papers and other documents.

Then — in a city where buying a new car requires a wait of a year or more — the sale was no problem.

In one case, Izvestia said, the gang sold an old black Volga Sedan, which retails new for $11,920, to two brothers from Uzbekistan for $15,900.

Before police managed to track them down, the gang snatched 18 cars and disposed of them all successfully.

But private cars — there are only about 150,000 of them in Moscow — are not the only target for thieves. Izvestia said taxis, trucks, motorcycles, buses and even mobile cranes are fair game.

Col. Mikhail Klukov, a member of the new bureau, blamed "drunkards" and thrill-seekers for most of the thefts, which he said were "a stairway to the prisoner's dock because sooner or later practically every stolen vehicle is found."

In the case of the Silivonov gang, the penalty was severe. Izvestia said he was jailed for 14 years and his accomplices for no less than three years each.

Have Roles In PTA Program

Dr. Mel Markowski of the Child Development and Family Life Department of East Carolina University and Mavis Williams of the Greenville City School Optional School Program will participate in a PTA Mini-Conference on "Parenting" Dec. 10.

Gene Causby, assistant state superintendent for personnel relations and public affairs, also will be on the program.

SELLING DINNERS

Voted Against Loans For NYC

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten of the 11 congressmen from North Carolina voted Tuesday against President Ford's $2.3 billion measure to aid New York City. However, the measure passed 213-203.

The other member of the House from North Carolina, Rep. David Henderson, voted "present."

Will Pay For Alaska In Eight Hours

By ROBERT C. MILLER
PRUDHOE BAY, Alaska (UPI) — The worker's paradise espoused by the Soviets is a capitalistic reality here in the blizzard-swept tundra of northern Alaska where generations of Russians once suffered and froze seeking a few paltry rubles' worth of furs.

The Americans are determined to bring to their world some 26 trillion cubic feet of poisonous, explosive gas and an estimated 9.6 billion barrels of near-boiling oil that lie thousands of feet below the permanently frozen land where Russia's hunters trapped the Arctic fox and the mink.

If successful, about an eight-hour flow of crude oil through the 47-inch Alyeska pipeline will repay the Americans their $7.2 million purchase price of Alaska 108 years ago.

Even at today's acknowledged "cheap" petroleum prices the 11 companies developing the Prudhoe Bay field and the 798-mile pipeline will gross some $18 million a day, seven days a week and no holidays when the oil flows at full capacity into the tankers docked at Prince William Sound.

The best estimates of Atlantic Richfield's engineers put the total cost of developing the 200-square-mile Prudhoe field at $6.5 billion. An equal sum is being spent on the 42-month pipeline project that will traverse Alaska and feed the oil into the ice-free port of Valdez.

Only for fighting his wars has man ever spent more money for human achievement.

After the expenditure of that $13 billion will come the task of getting the estimated 26 trillion cubic feet of natural gas to American kitchens. By all estimates this project — due for completion in the early 1980s — will be the biggest construction job ever attempted.

Every hour the Prudhoe oil stays in the ground costs the participating companies thousands of dollars. Speed is essential, and few sacrifices too great to meet the deadline of late 1977 when the first valve is scheduled to open sending the 165-degree crude on its four-and-a-half-day trip across the Brooks Range and central Alaska to the waiting tankers.

To guarantee that there will be no work stoppages the oil companies and construction firms have offered the highest wages in the world and the most luxurious fringe benefits in return for no-strike labor contracts.

During a recent visit of Norway's King Olav V, the Atlantic Richfield cook, who broiled the King's steak, got paid nearly as much as His Majesty.

A political appointee in the defeated Egan administration left his cluttered desk in the capitol at Juneau for an $1,100 a week truck driving job on the pipeline.

Most of the sub-contractors work on a cost plus arrangement where they are paid their costs of completing the job plus 20 per cent of these expenditures. Thus, there is little attempt to pare labor costs.

The big wages go only to the craftsmen — the welders, the mechanics, drillers, carpenters and millwrights. All hiring is done through the unions who are held responsible for providing and maintaining not only an adequate, but a trained, skilled labor force.

The highly-unionized welders average between $55,000 and $65,000 a year plus fringe benefits. They have, upon occasion, shown such a royal disdain for their fellow workers that they have relegated them to seats in the rear of the buses shuttling between the base camps and job sites.

Prudhoe Bay offers the very latest in luxury accommodations in what has to be one of the most miserable environments. For 56 days in mid-winter the sun never rises above the horizon and the temperatures drop to between 55 and 60 degrees below zero fahrenheit.

The sub zero temperatures when combined with an arctic blizzard occasionally drive the temperatures to a chill factor equivalent to 115 degrees below zero.

British Petroleum and its partner Standard Oil of Ohio have spent millions on their housing facility which includes a jogging track, swimming pool and imported greenery.

BP and Atlantic Richfield who are drilling the 150 producing wells at Prudhoe for themselves and their nine partners have done everything possible to entice and keep their drillers, roustabouts and riggers happy under what are undoubtedly the worst working conditions in the world.

Atlantic Richfield's 210 employees work 12-hour days, seven days a week and are then flown out at company expense to their homes in Fairbanks, Barrow or Anchorage for a week's rest.

Each job is performed by two men, one working one week, the other working the alternate week. One veteran driller who has been on the North Slope for six years points out that it is the only job in the world where he gets paid for 52 weeks work while working only 28.

An Atlantic Richfield spokesman said the system eliminates the need to provide housing for dependents and gives the company an average 42-hour work week for each employee.

Other contractors vary their working conditions by offering trips "to the lower 48" and working ten days on with four off.

The food is undoubtedly the best served anywhere within the entire arctic circle and thousands of square miles outside of it. For although the wages are the prime inducement, the contractors have found that the living conditions, accommodations and food are equally important, particularly as no liquor of any kind is allowed at Prudhoe or in the pipe line camps.

Because of the great demand for jobs, the companies have been able to demand and get the best possible talent in all the required trades, and they have the right to fire workers for incompetency. Several top executives of one of the prime contracting firms were fired when Alyeska decided there were too many bodies and not enough muscle being applied on the job.

Many of the welders and construction types quit as soon as they make their bundle, "but," explained one contractor, "we never have many labor problems as there are always plenty of volunteers to fill the vacancies."

RADIATION FOG—The ocean vessel African Sun is shrouded in a cloud cover called "radiation fog" as she enters Duluth harbor from Lake Superior. The fog is caused by cold air over warmer water. The National Weather Service estimated the water temperature at 41 degrees with the air temperature at nearly zero. The ship was to pick up grain for African ports. (AP Wirephoto)

Teacher Is Busy At 92

ROSWell, N.M. (AP) — If Dr. John Smith isn't the oldest active teacher in New Mexico — and perhaps in the nation — the students and faculty at the Roswell campus of Eastern New Mexico University would like to know who is.

Dr. Smith, who was 92 in November, has been teaching mathematics and physics since the school was launched in 1958. He has missed only three days' teaching, because of illness.

It was in 1950 that Dr. Smith had to retire because of age as head of the physics department at New Mexico Military Institute where he had taught for 20 years. He immediately sought employment at the Walker Air Force Base, where he was an electronics repairman until offered his present teaching position.

Dr. Smith started his career at 21 in a one-room schoolhouse in southern Indiana, at $48 per month. He now contributes his salary to the Golden Age Scholarship Fund, established to assist needy students at Eastern.

Bombs Blasted Miami Offices

ROBBED AGAIN—Officer Bill McNamara of the Boston Police Tactical Patrol Force antiriot unit goes into his intoxicated act and is shortly confronted by a suspect who lifts his wallet and takes off. The suspect is then arrested. McNamara and his partners have been robbed more than 400 times this year. (AP Wirephoto)

By DAVID POWELL
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Guards were posted at all government buildings in Miami early today after four federal offices were rocked by bomb blasts Wednesday night, police said. One other bomb was defused.

No injuries were reported. Several officers narrowly escaped harm when one bomb, found during a city-wide search for other explosives after the first blast, went off before an attempt was made to dismantle it.

That blast was at a local Social Security office. It caused minor damage, mostly broken windows. Similar damage was reported at the local FBI headquarters and two post offices.

Police said they were searching for a man and woman seen speeding away from one of the post offices. But investigators said they had no idea who was responsible for the bombs.

Various Cuban exile groups have claimed responsibility for a number of bombings that have occurred in the Miami area in recent months.

By early today, however, no one had claimed responsibility for Wednesday's blasts, which came about a year after a similar wave of bombings. Those bombings, also unclaimed, were on the anniversary of the death of Cuban freedom-fighter Antonio Maceo on Dec. 7, 1898.

Officers said the first explosion Wednesday came at 8:18 p.m. when a small pipe-bomb went off outside a three-story building housing the Miami offices of the FBI and the Justice Department.

An FBI spokesman said several bureau employees were inside at the time. The bomb was set behind a newspaper rack outside the building's lobby.

Police Sgt. William Maltz characterized the device, made with a 2 1/4-inch galvanized steel pipe, as "a wake-up" bomb.

"It's just to let us know they're around," Maltz said.

The second explosion occurred at 8:50 p.m. outside the downtown post office.

The third came 10 minutes later at a post office branch.

The fourth detonated outside the Social Security office at 9:40 p.m.

An unexploded device was found near the Florida State Employment office when a derelict picked up a brown paper bag he thought might contain a wine bottle, police said.

The man took it with him until he discovered it was an explosive device; he then called police.

A pedestrian was the victim of a hit-and-run accident near the scene of one of the bombings, but police said the incidents were not related.

Bomb-squad experts carefully examined two other bags found on sidewalks during the search but they contained only trash.

Plan Basketball For Youngsters

The Greenville Recreation Department Basketball Programs are forming for boys and girls in the fourth through the eighth grades. Registration and practice will begin on the following dates:

December 8th, 4:00-5:00 p.m., Junior Division, ages 13 and 14; December 9th, 3:30-5:00 p.m., Pee Wee Division, ages nine and ten; December 9th, 3:30-5:00 p.m., Midget Division, ages 11 and 12.

The division will be determined by a participant's age as of January 1st, 1976. Registration and practice will be conducted at Elm Street, South Greenville, and West Greenville Gyms.

Pathet Lao Install Red Premier And Red President

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Red banners waved over the streets of the Laotian capital today as loudspeakers announced a pro-Hanoi Communist has been named premier and the country's "Red Prince" named the president of the new People's Democratic Republic of Laos.

The Information Ministry said at a news conference that Prince Souphanouvong, the president, would preside over a 45-member Supreme People's Council while Premier Kaysone Phomvihane would head a 39-man cabinet.

The ministry said King Savang Vatthana, whose abdication was announced Wednesday, would be "supreme adviser" to the president, while Prince Souvanna Phouma, the premier for the past 13 years, was appointed "adviser to the government."

Souvanna Phouma, a 74-year-old neutralist whose activity has been curtailed by heart trouble in recent years, had previously been reported preparing to retire to France. He was believed to be in Vientiane.

Informed sources said the 68-year-old king had moved from the royal palace in Luang Prabang, the royal capital 150 miles north of Vientiane, to his farm outside that city.

Souvanna Phouma and 63-year-old Souphanouvong are half brothers and cousins of the dethroned king.

Kaysone, who is in his 50s, is the son of a Vietnamese father and a Laotian mother and was educated in North Vietnam. He joined Ho Chi Minh's Indochinese Communist party in 1946 and became a pioneer member of the Communist Pathet Lao movement in Laos, of which Prince Souphanouvong became the titular head.

A mystery man to Westerners, he emerged as chairman of the Laotian Communist party — the Lao People's Revolutionary party — when the Pathet Lao announced its formation in October. Informed sources said he had come to Vientiane from Vieng Xay, the Pathet Lao headquarters in northeastern Laos.

The president presumably will be a figurehead, a status many Western experts believe Souphanouvong has had in the Pathet Lao for years. The power apparently will be exercised by the premier.

In Washington, State Department spokesman John Traftner said the changes "confirm the Pathet Lao's domination of the government.... I wouldn't say it comes as a surprise." Traftner added that the United States will maintain diplomatic relations with Laos, the only one of the Indochinese countries where it still has a diplomatic mission.

Vientiane broadcasts on Wednesday announced the creation of the People's Republic, ending the 600-year-old monarchy and the 19-month-old coalition of conservatives, neutralists and Communists which Souvanna Phouma headed. But the Communists took control of the government last spring, driving all leading conservatives into exile, and the premier was powerless since then.

The People's Republic will seek closer ties with "Vietnam, Cambodia and other Socialist nations" but "will not join with any group of countries," the broadcast said. But with large troops in eastern Laos and expected to play a dominant role.

Thieves Pick Bones Of Beirut In War's Lull

By NICK LUDINGTON
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Armed thieves and hooligans are picking the spoils during a lull in Beirut's Moslem-Christian war.

Three armed men entered a businessman's apartment in the center of the so-called "safe" Hamra Street shopping district one noon this week and started loading up valuables.

The maid started screaming. The screams brought guards from the Palestine Research Center around the corner. The guards opened fire, killing one of the robbers and wounding another one. They, too, were Palestinians.

That night a gang knocked down the wall of a Chevrolet agency with a bulldozer. They drove off with 23 cars worth more than $100,000.

The next night BBC correspondent Chris Drake came home to his apartment in the "safe" seaside Raouche residential district. Shortly after, the doorbell rang. Through the peephole he saw the building's doorman with two others. He let them in. Waving a Russian rifle and a Luger pistol, the two strangers shouted "Fellows! fellows!" (money, money).

Drake was relieved of $400, and the bandits drove off in a Mercedes sedan.

Security forces are struggling with a wave of looting, holdups and thievery, a breakdown of law and order produced by eight months of civil war.

Nearly every man and boy in Lebanon has a weapon. Common criminals pose as political activists when confronted by the police, who are supposed to remain neutral in the civil war between religious and political factions. Swagging members of the private Christian and Moslem armies feel themselves above the law and succumb to the temptation to loot and steal.

Moslem looters following the advance of Moslem private armies picked clean the comfortable apartments and expensive shops of the Qantari district.

Christian militiamen who occupied the Holiday Inn as a firing post looted the hotel of food, drink and television sets. They also punched a hole in a wall and carted off the neighboring First National City Bank's calculators, typewriters and other office equipment.

The police blame much of the stealing on poor Palestinian refugees from the crowded, squalid camps around the city. The organized Palestinian guerrilla groups deny their men are involved, but their names are being used.

Investigate 2 Accidents

An estimated $850 property damage resulted yesterday from two collisions investigated by Greenville Police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from an 11:41 a.m. collision at the intersection of Fourth Street and Rotary Avenue involving cars driven by Donna Sue Zills of Shady Knoll Trailer Pk., and Ryan Stanley Pollard of Route 6, Greenville.

According to police, who charged Pollard with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety, an estimated $350 damage resulted to the Zills car and $250 damage resulted to the Pollard auto.

Gordon Lee Sutton of 105 Osceola Dr. was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of an 8:25 a.m. collision at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Hooker Road.

Officers said the school bus driven by Sutton collided with a car driven by James Guy Wilson of 215 Crestline Blvd., causing an estimated $250 damage to the Wilson car. No damage resulted to the bus.

Myths Surround 'Stars And Stripes'

EDITOR'S NOTE — The first flag to represent the emerging United States was unfurled 200 years ago. Betsy Ross didn't design it. Nor did she design the Stars and Stripes later approved by Congress as the nation's flag.

By DON MCLEOD
Associated Press Writer

Springing like the new nation from British roots and American invention, the flag rallied the founding fathers to the causes of freedom and independence.

Our first national flag was born in the first winter of revolution. John Paul Jones claimed he ran up the first one 200 years ago this week, on Dec. 3, 1775.

In the camps of a rag-tag army or on ships in wintry seas, that bit of fluttering color kept spirits up for six years of fighting. But when the war started, Americans had no flag of their own. So, they improvised as they had for every other need.

First they adapted British ensigns by adding mottoes, and emblems. They also invented some all-new flags, based on colonial traditions. But there was no uniformity to these flags, no national standard, just as there was no nation yet. The American flag was born as the nation was born, slowly and piece by piece until it was whole.

The first European flag to fly over America was the Black Raven of the Vikings, and Columbus brought the royal arms of Aragon and Castile 550 years later. The first English standard here was the Red Cross of St. George, brought by John Cabot in 1497.

Other early flags included the Union, a field of blue with a diagonal white cross and a superimposed red cross; the Red Ensign, a red flag with the union in the upper corner, and a Puritan version of the Red Ensign, with what the Puritans saw as an "idolotrous" cross reduced to a white square. This was the first Americanized flag.

Later, the Puritans put the cross back in the flag and set a pine tree on one arm to keep it American. A version of this flag with a blue field flew at Bunker Hill.

As the Revolution approached, Americans invented new banners to show anger at England. A popular method was to sew mottoes on existing flags. The most famous was the Red Ensign hoisted by the people of Taunton, Mass., in 1774 bearing the watchwords "Liberty and Union."

The same year Pennsylvanians unfurled a Red Ensign with a coiled rattlesnake and the warning, "Don't Tread On Me." The snake became one of the most popular symbols of the rebellion. The tree, usually

Guerrillas Vow Reprisal

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Palestine guerrilla command today promised "immediate reprisals" for the big Israeli air raid Tuesday, and the Lebanese and Egyptian governments asked the United Nations Security Council for an urgent meeting to take up charges of aggression against Israel.

The Palestinians said it was "the biggest attack in the history of Israeli assaults against Palestinians in Lebanon," and a message on behalf of Pope Paul VI called it an "inadmissible gesture of violence."

Lebanese police said seven more bodies were recovered today, bringing the toll to about 100 killed and more than 150 wounded in the attacks on refugee camps and guerrilla bases in northern and southern Lebanon.

A telegram sent to Lebanon on behalf of Pope Paul VI said the pontiff was deeply saddened by the attack, which he felt "exasperates tension in the region and Lebanon."

Pope Paul appealed to all sides to put an end "to similar acts and show moderation and a concrete will to favor the way toward pacification." Vatican Secretary of State Jean Cardinal Villot sent the telegram to the papal nuncio in Beirut, urging him to convey the Pope's condolences to Lebanese authorities and relatives of the victims.

a pine, was the other leading symbol of dissent.

Stripes were commonly used on flags and took on special meaning in the Revolution. The radical Sons of Liberty had a flag of red and white stripes that the British tagged "the rebellious stripes." There also were attempts at signifying the 13 colonies, such as 13 rattles on the snakes or 13 mailed hands grasping a chain.

But there was still no one flag which stood for all the colonies. A pine tree flag was the ensign of the unofficial little navy of gunboats George Washington launched at Boston in the fall of 1775. It probably was the first flag adopted by a national force.

But the first truly national American flag grew from the British Red Ensign under which colonial soldiers had marched shoulder-to-shoulder with English troops in frontier wars.

To make it American, they sewed six white "rebellious stripes" over the red field, giving the effect of 13 stripes "symbolizing the number and union of the colonies." It was known as the Grand Union because in the upper left quarter, the British Union remained to symbolize a continuing allegiance to the crown.

No one knows just when that flag was conceived. There are several references in documents of the time, however, to Continental flags in use during the fall of 1775. But the first recorded hoisting was on Dec. 3, 1775, on the new navy's flagship Alfred at Philadelphia.

"It was my fortune, as the senior of the first lieutenants, to hoist myself the flag of America the first time it was displayed," claimed John Paul Jones.

The Grand Union, now almost forgotten, was a proud flag in U.S. history. Washington carried it across the Delaware in 1776, but only the Stars and Stripes are in the famous painting.

With Independence declared, the Grand Union lost its meaning as a symbolic bridge between British loyalty and American rights, and with no official design set, the varieties of the flag were many.

In fall 1776, William Richards, a ships chandler supplying the navy, wrote he could not provide flags because no design had been set. There is no recorded response, but Richards finally got flags because records show payment to Elizabeth Ross "for making ships colours."

Scholars scoff at the claim that Betsy Ross designed the flag, but she probably sewed some of the first. And she may at least have taken the many-pointed stars of heraldry and trimmed them to five points.

At any rate, two weeks after Richards' payment to Betsy Ross, Congress finally acted on June 14, 1777. Sandwiched among some business of the Marine Committee, Congress approved the following:

"RESOLVED, that the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

There is no other record of the birth of our flag. The true designer has never been found, although there have been several claimants and it may actually have been the work of several people.

The Stars and Stripes first appeared at the battle of Bennington, Vt., on Aug. 16, 1777. This flag, a private interpretation and never an official army banner, still survives and is the oldest Stars and Stripes in existence.

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Maintain your cool and your poise, for everyone will want to organize efforts on a more constructive basis now, but will find problems interfering, especially where some new outlets are concerned.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are having problems where your career is concerned, so take no risks, especially with your reputation. Pay bills. Avoid troublemaker.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Some new venture needs further study before getting into it, or you could lose your shirt. Don't argue with a new contact.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle obligations without further procrastination, efficiently and conscientiously. Don't argue with mate; be understanding.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Show partners appreciation and you get along much better with them. Avoid one who isn't friendly. Try to find out why.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Delve right into all that work ahead of you and don't feel sorry for yourself, or you alienate others. Take health treatments.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't overspend on recreation, or you will later regret it. Do not argue with mate, or it could become serious.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A gentle word to those at home instead of anger is best. Don't work so hard in the future so your nerves won't be on edge.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Exercise greater care in driving and avoid accidents. Don't be sarcastic; sweeten your disposition. Change your diet.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't commit yourself heavily whether in money, work or whatever. Make necessary changes where feasible and feel happier.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Forget about getting into that argument that could hurt you more than it would others. Improve health and appearance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't fall into self-recrimination, but find out the cause of problems and get rid of them. Plan for better things.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Show particular loyalty to partners and allay any fears. Avoid the social today since it could bring unhappiness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have a knack for solving problems and should be given a chance to do so, or this youngster will be apt to create some just for the fun of solving them. Slant the education along such lines and there can be much success in the field of government, police work, big business, etc. Teach early not to lose the temper. Religion is a must here.

Another Try In Sit-Com Field

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Okay, so "The Montefuscos" and "Fay" flopped on Thursday nights. NBC will try, try again with two more Thursday sitcoms premiering tonight — "Grady" and "The Cop and the Kid."

Neither will cause belly laughs. Still, I'd put the latter series in the "has promise" category. It's about a white, pot-bellied, middle-aged cop who becomes the legal guardian of a young black kid.

I'd put "Grady," a "Sanford and Son" spinoff, in the "they-better-pray" category. It stars Whitman May in the slow-talking Grady Wilson role he had as a frequent visitor to Fred Sanford's home in Watts.

In tonight's debut, he tells Fred he's leaving that black Los Angeles community to live in nearby Santa Monica with his daughter, her husband and their two teen-aged kids, who are moving there from Chicago.

Can you see the ocean from the new home, Fred asks.

Yes, says Grady, provided you go down the hallway, go out in the kitchen, descend a flight of stairs "and take the Number Six bus — in five minutes — there it is."

I wish he'd taken the bus back to the studio for a decent script. The one he has tonight is so strained it must have been pushed through a screen door.

"The Cop and the Kid" stars Charles Durning as the middle-aged bachelor cop and an appealing preteen newcomer, Tierre Turner, as the kid. Its opening script is weak, but the show is sprightly in acting and pace.

The plot concerns how the cop becomes the legal guardian of the kid. They first meet when the kid, jaywalking out of a poolroom, almost is run over by the cop's car and cries, "Why don't ya honk, honky?"

They meet again when the kid steals a radio from a store. The cop chases him, tumbles over some trash cans and lies there gasping from an asthma attack. The kid stops, helps him and is arrested.

It turns out that the kid, a foster home runaway, is basically decent, though not above demanding from the cop a court plea for leniency, lest he tell the court about the cop's asthma and cause his retirement.

The court is so impressed by Durning's plea it makes him the boy's guardian. Durning and Turner work well together and with better scripts this series may get a lot of fans.

The Rev. Jimmie Dixon of Winterville will preach at Bethel Chapel Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Plant's Power Not Yet Needed

RALEIGH (AP)—The president of Carolina Power & Light Co. has conceded that his company does not yet need the power its new Brunswick nuclear plant is capable of producing, but he defended at a rate hearing Wednesday the company's decision to build the plant.

President Shearon Harris, wound up nearly 11 hours of cross examination during which he said that because of the downturn in the economy the output of the Brunswick plant will not be needed until 1977.

Harris' testimony came during the second day of a hearing before the state Utilities Commission on CP&L's request for a 22 per cent rate hike that would cost CP&L customers $82 million a year. The commission already has given the company permission to place 12 per cent of the request in effect on an interim basis.

During direct testimony, Harris said his company needs all the increase to improve its financial position. He pointed out the company's bonds have been downgraded in recent years, forcing it to borrow at higher interest rates.

The Brunswick nuclear plant took center stage in the hearing Wednesday. David H. Permar, representing the N.C. Oil Jobbers Association which opposes the increase, said CP&L's own records show the plant's first reactor, a $400 million unit that began commercial operation last month, will not be needed until 1977.

SEVEN TRIBES

BOSTON (UPI) — Seven Indian tribes once lived in Massachusetts: Nausets, Nipmucks, Pennacooks, Mohicans, Pocumtucs, Wampanoags, and Massachusetts.

Still, he said the company wants its customers to begin paying for it now.

Deputy Atty. Gen. I. Beverly Lake said that whether CP&L is allowed to ratchet up the rates it seeks in order to pay for the Brunswick plant has emerged as the key issue in the rate case.

Harris said that over the 30-year life of the plant customers will reap benefits. CP&L officials have said that delaying construction of the plant would have increased its cost.

Ky Fights Saigon Recognition

By NGUYEN ANH TUYET
WASHINGTON (UPI) —
Nguyen Cao Ky, South Vietnamese former Vice President, says America should exert world pressure to prevent persecution of the Vietnamese people by Saigon's Communist rulers but should not recognize the new regime.

Ky said resumption of diplomatic relations between the United States and Saigon would not "solve" the sufferings that his countrymen have been going through since the Communist takeover seven months ago on April 30.

"The world pressure is necessary to prevent the Communists from killing our people little by little, especially those who opposed them for many years," he said.

"In my personal opinion, the U.S. government should not establish diplomatic relations with the Communists. It would not solve anything. But, of course, we cannot force the American government to do this or that."

In hopes of averting reprisals against Vietnamese who either worked for or supported the American-backed regime of President Nguyen Van Thieu, he said the United States should mount an international campaign to muster world opinion against possible atrocities.

Ky denied a report that he had advocated the return of American troops in South Vietnam to rally former South Vietnamese soldiers who were opposed to the Communists and who have been launching armed resistance against Saigon, mostly in the rice-rich Mekong Delta.

"This was something unimaginable and unrealistic. I never asked for such a thing," he said at his house in the Washington suburb of Fairfax.

Ky said a new American involvement in Asia is out of the question as far as he can see.

His house is sparsely furnished. The living room was bare of furniture and in the dining room there were no decorations around the table and six chairs.

For the interview, Ky wore a turtleneck sweater and gray trousers — a sharp contrast to the black flight suit with violet silk scarf and pistol slung on his hip which was his standard attire in South Vietnam. An American acted as an agent for the re-introductions and answered the telephone when it interrupted the interview.

Aside from lecturing at colleges, Ky makes use of his old acquaintanceship with American businessmen and bankers as contacts for his Vietnamese friends and refugees. Many of the contacts are for Vietnamese he has not met before but for whom he feels a responsibility as a former political leader.

His wife, Mai, a beautiful former Air Vietnam stewardess, busied herself in the kitchen during the interview and served green tea in Japanese glassware to her husband, an Air Marshal in the old South Vietnamese air force who was involved in a coup which led to him becoming premier in 1965 and vice president to Thieu in 1967. He was dropped from the ticket by Thieu for the 1971 elections.

Ky displayed none of his well-known outspokenness which once led him to remark that Adolf Hitler was one of his heroes.

Since coming to the United States six months ago as one of the 100,000 Vietnamese refugees, he has been giving lectures on college campuses at up to $2,500 a time to try to pay the rent and support his family of a wife and five children. He said that some of the money he earns from lectures goes to the National Center for Vietnamese Resettlement, a non-profit organization based in Washington.

Ky said that reunification of the two Vietnams, recently proclaimed by the Saigon and Hanoi leaders, was designed to show the world a semblance of unity.

"In fact, the country has been unified under Hanoi for a long time," he said. "It was Hanoi which conquered the South, not the Viet Cong. China would not like that because it means a pro-Soviet Union country is at the border. So she will try to influence Saigon to resist it."

"But I don't think Saigon has the strength to do it."

Honor Scout For Heroism

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A 16-year-old Explorer Scout who drowned in a flood Aug. 27 while trying to rescue neighbors in Charlotte, will be honored with the highest award for heroism given by the Boy Scouts of America. He also is being considered for Carnegie hero award.

The Honor Medal with Crossed Palms is to be presented to the mother of Lyndon Maurice White, now Mrs. Tillie Davidson, in a ceremony probably next month, scout officials say.

National Boy Scout official Ted Oakley said, "This award is given maybe twice a year and there have been many years when it was not given at all."

White drowned when he was swept from a damaged bridge at night as he tried to rescue neighbors stranded by rising creek waters. Earlier, he had rescued an elderly woman and a young mother and her infant.

The citation accompanying the medal reads: "In giving his life to save lives, Lyndon demonstrated character and courage of the highest order and exemplified the scouting ideal of selfless service."

White, who was president of Explorer Post 244, is also being considered for a national heroism award from the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Banana Costs About Same

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Bananas cost about the same now as they did 20 years ago, according to a Texas A&M University marketing specialist.

"If you consider the increase in wages during the last two decades, this means bananas really cost less than half as much today in terms of real income," said Gwendolyn Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist.

Bananas must be picked when green. If allowed to ripen on the plant they split open and are tasteless, she said.

Untouchables Near-Slaves

By S. G. ROY
NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Ram Phal had a debt he couldn't possibly repay. So he and his wife, Harbans, fled their village 12 years ago. He was 15. She was 10.

Until he fled, Ram Phal was trapped in the vice of bonded labor — a cruel legacy of Indian feudalism that has forced millions of poor peasants into slavery to pay their debts.

Ram Phal, a houseboy of the untouchable caste, inherited his bondage from his father, who died a pauper with a debt unpaid.

"My father had borrowed 200 rupees ($26) from his landlord for my wedding expenses," Ram Phal said. "The interest rate was 50 per cent."

"He bonded his labor to the landlord and pledged my labor also in case he died with the loan unpaid."

"My father worked for three years and in return got a morsel of food every day. When he died not a rupee was paid back and the loan had increased to 350 rupees."

"I guessed there was not a chance of repaying the loan, and I might have had to work free for how many years I did not know. So I and my wife fled the village one night and trekked to New Delhi," he said.

Bonded labor is most prevalent in the villages, where 80 per cent of India's 600 million people dwell.

The victims of the system are mostly simple tribesmen or landless untouchables. They incur debts to pay for the weddings of their sons and daughters or for the celebration of religious festivals. The interest rates are exorbitant.

According to studies by social scientists, the begar system has forced wives and daughters into brothels and ensured the slavery of babies, still in the womb.

"Bonded labor is the most horrendous form of human exploitation," a study by the Indian Institute of Social Sciences said discussing the case of a tribe of Indian hill men who sold 45 women into prostitution in 1969 to pay their debts.

Of 41 bonded workers interviewed in another survey, nine had worked for more than 10 years to pay off debts, one for 19 years and another for 30 years.

A $7 debt forced one man and his family into bondage for 22 years, the survey said.

But now a new federal ordinance may give bonded laborers a way out and end the centuries-old form of slavery forever. Only time will tell if it works.

Last Oct. 24, a presidential ordinance abolished bonded labor, cancelled the debts of bonded laborers, promised to return property confiscated by greedy landlords and money lenders and ordered the release of all bonded workers jailed for failure to pay their debts.

Ram Phal, however, is still afraid to return to his village.

"How do I know the law will be carried out?" he asked.

Others may share his fear. For bonded labor, or "begar" as it is called in Hindi, was abolished 25 years ago by the Indian constitution.

But the constitutional clause was rarely enforced — partly because of official lethargy and partly due to the power of landlords and money lenders.

No one knows how many Indians work in bondage. But estimates run high into the millions.

Better-Kept In Fiberboard

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Homogenized milk holds its flavor and nutrient value better in fiberboard containers than it does in plastic or clear glass bottles.

A study at Pennsylvania State University showed up to two days protection from off-flavors for milk in such containers exposed to fluorescent light. Dr. Paul S. Dimick, associate professor of food science, said milk in plastic and glass containers developed off-flavors after only 12 hours of exposure to light.
