Terrorists Released By Algeria

By ELIAS ANTAR
Associated Press Writer
ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Algerian officials have released the terrorists who flew here last week with key oil ministers as hostages and are convinced their leader was the notorious "Carlos" wanted by police of several nations, reliable sources said today.

The sources said the group, which seized its hostages in an attack on the Vienna headquarters of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, was sent to a friendly Arab country. Unconfirmed reports said they may have gone to Libya even though one of the three men killed by the terrorists was a leading member of Libya's OPEC delegation.

Algerian officials who spoke to the group's leader said he fitted the published description of Carlos, sources said, and other evidence corroborated his own claim to be the same man who shot and killed three persons in Paris last June.

It was not known, however, if the evidence included such details as fingerprints. French police last week were reported to have obtained a letter written by the Venezuelan and analysis of his handwriting tended to show he was Carlos, who left behind documents when he disappeared last summer.

In addition to the Venezuelan, identified by various authorities as Ilich Ramirez Sanchez, the group included three Palestinians, a West German who was wounded and a European woman.

There was no official announcement concerning the group.

It was not learned if the sixth member of the band, a West German who was shot in the stomach during the Dec. 21 attack, was well enough to travel. He has been in an Algiers hospital, while the other four men and one woman were held in a secluded villa in the Algiers area.

An Austrian airliner brought the six terrorists and 41 hostages to Algiers on Dec. 22. The hostages included 10 oil ministers, among them those of Algeria and Libya.

LaGuardia Reopens To Passenger Flights As Bomb Probe Goes On

NEW YORK (AP) — La Guardia Airport, scene of an explosion that killed 11 persons and injured some 75 others, is open again, but the first passengers to arrive there were nervous about a recurrence.

The first arrival was an American Airlines flight from Dallas, which landed at 10:10 p.m. Tuesday night with 90 passengers aboard. More than a dozen flights landed within an hour, and many of the 1,400 passengers who arrived during that hour grabbed their luggage and rushed away.

"I want my bags, I want to get out," said Levada June, a singer. "I'm scared stiff. I'm terrified."

Meanwhile, hundreds of FBI agents joined the search for the persons responsible for the "25-stick" dynamite bomb blast that left the Trans World Airlines luggage claim area a mass of rubble.

The FBI men, along with New York City police officers and firemen, spent the day reconstructing the scene and interviewing persons who may have been near when the bomb went off.

There was no indication authorities had any leads as to who may have been responsible, and they appeared to discount the numerous calls received after the blast claiming that a wide range of extremist or crime groups was responsible.

"I personally don't place too much faith in these calls," said Chief of Detectives Louis Cottell.

The nervousness was clear to anyone in the airport as the first planes arrived. Several passengers asked a reporter why he was interviewing them, when "you don't have to be here."

Barbara Teschendorf, 21, of Greenville, S.C., said she was irate when she learned her plane would land at La Guardia instead of Kennedy as scheduled.

"When I bought my ticket, I insisted I go to Kennedy because I read about the bombings," she said. "It's absurd. I'm frightened silly. We're just human guinea pigs."

Little more than an hour after first plane landed, the airport was virtually deserted again as air traffic dropped for the night.

Farmville Grant

Congressman Walter B. Jones today said that he had been advised by Harold Duhart of the Regional EPA Office in Atlanta of approval of a $5,255,505 grant for construction of a sewage treatment plant for the town of Farmville.

Jones said this was among the first to be approved under the act which created this particular program. The unusual aspect is that all facets of impact statements and environmental conditions had to be met before this grant could be approved, making it one of the first of its kind to be approved in the entire nation.

Red, White And Blue Launching Of Bicentennial

By The Associated Press
Traditional New Year's Eve festivities will have an added touch tonight as Americans open 1976 with red, white and blue flourishes to observe their nation's 200th birthday.

For the traditionalists, bandleader guy Lombardo will conduct another chorus of "Auld Lang Syne" at New York's Waldorf Astoria ballroom -- his 10th program there in nearly a half-century of New Year's Eve parties -- at precisely midnight.

For others, one of the major events will be in Philadelphia, where the National Park Service will move the Liberty Bell under heavy guard from Independence Hall to an exhibition hall being built to accommodate the crowds of tourists expected during 1976.

Moving the 2,080-pound bell, bought by the people of Pennsylvania at a cost of $303, a distance of one block will cost about $104,000. The Park Service said the chief expense is security for the symbol of the nation's freedom.

"If it doesn't rain and it doesn't snow, we'll have in excess of 50,000 people here," said Douglas Warnock of the Park Service.

Parties are planned for New Year's Eve revelers who will view the move, including a formal dance at the U.S. Mint and a black-tie party at a local tavern.

The traditional lighted ball will drop from the tower in New York's Times Square at exactly midnight. At the same time, a 50-foot Bicentennial banner will be unfurled and hundreds of red, white and blue balloons will be released.

In the Rockies, 35 members of the Adaman Club of Colorado Springs will begin setting off more than half a ton of fireworks from the 14,110-foot summit of Pike's Peak. Officials expect the display to be visible for 100 miles. At the same time, they will hoist the flags of Colorado and the state's centennial flag over the mountain, marking the start of the nation's Bicentennial and the state's centennial.

Despite the planning, weather may force some changes. Today's forecast called for snow spreading from the Rockies into the northwestern Plains and rain, snow and freezing rain moving into New England. Showers and thundershowers were expected along the south Atlantic and eastern Gulf coasts. But rising temperatures were forecast from the middle Mississippi Valley into the southern Plains and over New England.

While most people will be spending the evening with friends or relatives or at parties, much of Fort Lauderdale's police force will be waiting for the annual riot.

For the past several years in the Florida city, young revelers, many of whom police said were celebrating with too much alcohol, have gathered along a store-lined, beach-front road. The celebrations recently have turned to vandalism.

Boston officials reported a sellout for Symphony Hall where Arthur Fiedler will conduct the Boston Symphony Orchestra to kick off a party.

Cuba Boosts Angola Unit

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence sources estimate there are now about 7,500 Cuban soldiers in Angola supporting Soviet-backed forces fighting for control of that West African country.

The increase suggests that the Cuban military commitment in Angola is growing steadily. Last week, U.S. officials were using a figure of about 6,000 Cuban troops there.

One unconfirmed report Tuesday said that a Cuban tank brigade may have arrived in Angola. If so, officials said that would represent the first commitment of a major unit of the Cuban army.

Meanwhile, intelligence sources said Tuesday that three more top Cuban officials have been identified in Angola.

They are Fernando Vecimo, a vice minister in the Cuban ministry of the armed forces; Luis Alfonso Ochoa, a member of the Cuban Communist party's Central Committee; and Jorge Risquel, a member of the party's secretariat.

Last month, U.S. intelligence said Brigadier Gen. Julio Casas apparently was helping the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA) handle military equipment supplied by the Russians. Casas was said to be a close associate of Fidel Castro.

Castro has openly acknowledged his military support of the Marxist MPLA. President Ford has said the Cuban action in Angola has "destroyed any opportunity for improvement in relations" between Cuba and the United States.

Since Ford made this statement, additional Cuban airlift flights reportedly have arrived in Angola. At least three Cuban planes have been serviced at Portugal's Azores Islands en route to Africa.

Cuba had been refueling its Angola-bound planes at Barbados in the Caribbean, but the Barbados government ordered this stopped after the United States registered its displeasure. U.S. officials had anticipated that Guyana's leftist government might allow the Cuban airlift to refuel in that South American country. So far, U.S. intelligence says, that apparently has not happened.

The Russian airlift of weapons and other military supplies to the MPLA is still moving with more than 40 plane loads delivered so far, intelligence sources said. The Soviet planes, mostly huge AN22 transports, were said to refuel in Algeria and Guinea on their long flights from Russia.

Bond Is Set For Branch

RALEIGH — North Carolina Supreme Court Chief Justice Susie Sharp has set a $250,000 bond for Connie Branch, based on a petition for a stay of execution of sentence filled with the court.

Adrian J. Newton, clerk of the N. C. Supreme Court said the petition indicates Mrs. Branch plans an appeal of her conviction to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Mrs. Branch was found guilty in Pitt County Superior Court more than a year ago on charges of conspiracy and being an accessory to the murder of her husband, Lynwood Branch, who was fatally shot in March 1974. She has been free under bond since that time pending an appeal to the N. C. Supreme Court. The state Supreme Court upheld the conviction in an order issued December 17.

Newton indicated this morning that Justice Sharp probably would sign a stay of execution of

STRAYED WATCHES

A friend of mine with a Gulf Credit Card gave me a Cordura lady's watch he had got as a special offer. It broke while still under warranty, so he sent it back to the company. When it wasn't returned in a reasonable time, I wrote to the company. They called to say a replacement had been mailed several weeks earlier. When I told them I still hadn't received it, they said they'd send out another one. It's been nearly a month and I haven't got this one either. B.B.

Hotline wrote on your behalf, in mid-November explaining the situation in full. The company sent a form letter Dec. 22 asking for your account number, but when we checked with you about this, you said that the watch had been received in mid-December and that you are very happy with it. So we sent the company a note to tell them that you are enjoying your watch now.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

"OVERWHELMING"

Response to last week's Hotline and tv appeals for gifts for the J. C. Williams family of Pactolus, whose home burned the Friday before Christmas, was "overwhelming", according to Charles Davenport of the Pactolus Fire Department which sponsored the appeal and Mrs. Mary Johnson, Mrs. Williams' sister, with whom some of the family is living.

Davenport said, "I've never seen anything like it. People just flocked out here to bring things and the calls to us and the Williams never stopped. It's really nice to know that no matter how bad you hear the world is getting to be, people will still help you out when you're in a tight."

Things the Williams cannot use are already being contributed to the Salvation Army, they said. They've gotten big items like a sofa, a washing machine, beds, bed linens, and lots and lots of clothes, they said. "My sister's family appreciates everything everyone has done for them," Mrs. Johnson said. "We'll never be able to thank everyone enough."

Tonight Is Party Time For Many Celebrants

By BETH HATCH
Reflector Staff Writer

Greenville has a number parties scheduled for New Year's Eve, most of which are at restaurants, night clubs and private clubs.

The largest parties are expected to be at the Candlewick Inn, the Greenville Moose Lodge, the Ramada Inn, the Windjammer and Dwight's.

Candlewick has the most expensive party at $20 per person. It starts at 8:30 p.m. and will probably last until about 2 a.m., according to manager Robert Sauter. The evening meal will consist of six courses including champagne, choice of four main dishes, and cherries jubilee flambé for dessert. A continental breakfast will be served about 12:30. Entertainment will be provided by the Monte Cristos.

The Ramada Inn is second in price, charging $35 per couple. Manager Ted Moore said the party will start at 8:30 p.m., with a breakfast buffet at 1 a.m. Entertainment is provided by Tommy Dean and the Girlfriends, with a show beginning at 10 p.m. Free champagne will be served at midnight, and drink setups are free all night.

The Moose Lodge will be the site of a party for lodge members and their invited guests at $15 per couple, said Mrs. Evelyn Baldrée, office secretary. About 400 persons are expected to attend, and tickets have been sold out for several days. A dance will be held from 9 until 1, with breakfast served afterwards.

The Windjammer is sponsoring a party at $10 per couple. The cost includes as much beer as one can drink and 1976 membership.

A private party will start at 8 p.m. at the Greenville Golf and Country Club, with a dance from 9 until 1. A full breakfast will be served at 11:30 p.m., according to (Continued on Page 12)

Size Of New HSA Board Concerns Conveners

By JAMES KYLE
Reflector Staff Writer

The new convener group, appointed by Gov. James Holshouser to form a Health Service Agency Board for the 29-county Health Service Area VI, spent most of their time at last night's two-hour public hearing studying a proposal made by Louis Renn, a member of the old convener group.

The proposal, endorsed by the chairmen of the four Lead

Regional Organizations (LRO), called for the new conveners to "review the proposal of the first group," which was dismissed by Holshouser due to a "disunity of effort, mistrust of leadership and unwillingness to accept guidelines." The old convener group had proposed a 66-member Board with one member appointed by each of the 29 county commissions and the rest proportionately appointed by the LRO's based on the population. "If Board size becomes an issue," the proposal said, "it is suggested that an HSA Board of 47 (this number being half way between 30 and 66) formed according to the guidelines suggested by the first convener group be accepted. This would allow one appointment from each of the 29 counties, 16 allocated to the LRO's on a population basis, one member to Blue Cross and one to the East Carolina University Medical School."

Renn said, "Once you go past 30, the size of the board is academic to me." State guidelines suggest a 30-45 member board. Many feel Holshouser dismissed the old convener group due to their unwillingness to stay within these limits.

One point in the proposal Renn said "non-negotiable" is the appointments granted to county commissions. He said local control is an important part of the proposal.

Convener group chairman, Dr. Clement Lucas of Edenton, asked Renn if he thought it would be acceptable if the conveners chose the Board from suggestions by county commissioners. LRO's and others, Renn said he thinks that "would meet strong resistance from the four LRO Boards because you would be rejecting what has already been done."

Asked if it would be acceptable to have county commissions "review" the appointments they made under the old convener group, Renn said he thinks that would meet "no opposition. It would probably be good."

Convener group members pointed out the importance of setting a precedent in the way the board is chosen. Many feel that the guidelines they (Continued on Page 12)

California Coed Wins Maid Of Cotton Title

MEMPHIS (AP)—Victoria Laughlin, a brown-eyed college student from Newport Beach, Calif., was named the 1976 Maid of Cotton in judging Tuesday night.

Miss Laughlin, 21, a senior at the University of Southern California, is 5 feet 6, weighs 122 pounds, has brown hair and is studying speech communications.

She is director of the student radio station on the USC campus and is a dean's list student.

Her father, Robert J. Laughlin, is a mortgage banker who finances loans for cotton crops in California.

Miss Laughlin was selected from among five finalists out of a field of 18 contestants. The contest is sponsored by the National Cotton Council, which is headquartered in Memphis.

First runnerup was Elise Shelton, 20, Amarillo, Tex., and second alternate was Marci McSherry, 21, Deming, N.M.

Also among the five finalists were Dorothy Dane, 21, New Orleans, La., and Susan Sylvester, 21, Gainesville, Fla.

The new Maid will serve as the ambassador for the cotton industry during the nation's Bicentennial. Her first duty will be to reign over the Cotton Bowl in Dallas Thursday.

In March Miss Laughlin will represent the cotton industry in Washington for a week before embarking on a seven-week tour of the Far East, including stops in Japan, India, Taiwan, Indonesia, Hong Kong, Korea and Thailand.

The other contestants were Sally Cash, Huntsville, Ala.; Laura Conley, Lookout Mountain, Tenn.; Sarah Cox, Latta, S.C.; Debbie Davidson, Arlington, Tex.; Jane Fortenberry, Columbia, Miss.; Sylvia Foster, Jackson, Miss.; Sue Groefsema, Piru, Calif.; Anne Hughes, Memphis; Vikki Hughes, Jackson, Miss.

Postal Increase Now In Effect

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of mailing a letter went up from 10 to 13 cents today, the sixth increase in the last 17 years. And the steady increase in postal rates is unlikely to end there.

Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar has said the letter rate could go up to 15 or 17 cents by 1977 and 23 cents by 1980. Bailar says inflation in the general economy is responsible for rising mail rates.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger refused to block the higher rates on Tuesday, less than six hours before they went into effect at 12:01 a.m. today.

Burger turned down a request from bulk mailers to reverse Monday's U.S. Court of Appeals decision which cleared the way for the increase. The appeals court stayed a lower court order prohibiting the Postal Service from raising rates.

It is possible that the appeals court will order a rollback in rates after a hearing on whether the procedures for increasing postal rates were complied with.

Former Postmaster General J. Edward Day, representing the bulk mailers, told Burger that most mail users could never collect any refunds if the increase is overturned.

On July 21, 1946, Bolivian President Gualberto Villarroel was assassinated.

"It will be impracticable for rank-and-file mail users to receive refunds of the illegally exacted postage," Day argued.

In a brief order, Burger refused to block the increase. He gave no reason.

The new rates include: —A 13-cent charge for the first ounce of a first-class letter and 11 cents for each additional ounce.

—Nine cents for a postcard, a two-cent increase.

—Rates averaging 10.1 per cent in parcel post, 22.1 per cent for second-class mail and 23.9 per cent for third-class bulk rates.

Despite the increase, postal officials expect the largest deficit in the history of the Postal Service during the current fiscal year. Under the old rates, the service was losing an average of about $7 million per day since the fiscal year began July 1.

The main reason for the higher rates is increases in labor costs, which account for 85 per cent of the Postal Service's costs. The labor costs go up with the inflation rate in the general economy because of a cost-of-living clause in the labor agreement with the postal unions.

Williamston Bd. Votes To Oust Police Chief

WILLIAMSTON — By a three to two vote, Williamston town commissioners at a call meeting on Monday night voted to oust Police Chief John Swain.

Swain, a member of the Williamston police force since 1950, has been chief of Police for the past nine years.

In November, he was ruled guilty on one charge of conspiring to defraud the federal government in efforts to get more federal funds than the town's 15-member force was entitled to. The court fined him $500 and gave him a six-month suspended sentence.

Town clerk John Boykin said "about 200 or perhaps 250 interested people attended the Monday night meeting. This was the second public hearing attended the Monday night meeting. This was the second public hearing on the issue of whether or not to keep Swain as police chief."

At a public hearing on December 19, the new mayor and five commissioners, four of them newly elected, voted to approve the continuance in service of all department heads with the exception of the chief of police.

At that time, the second public hearing for December 29 was set. "The commissioners at the December 19 meeting said they wanted time to consider all the facts making a decision on Swain," Boykin reported.

As a result of Monday night's action, Williamston is temporarily without a police chief. "We have nobody qualified to move up to the position," Boykin said. "Our former assistant chief, Jimmy Myers, resigned a few months ago to accept an offer as police chief at Apex."

Boykin said that the town board will advertise for candidates for the vacant post. Until one is hired, Boykin said, the police force will be operated by the three police sergeants, one on each shift, with the assistance of the police administrator and J. B. Godwin, the town administrator.

Development Taken Over

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Westinghouse Electric Corp. says it has taken over operation of the Treasure Lake Co. from Westinghouse Credit Corp., a subsidiary.

Treasure Lake Co. is a group of three recreational real estate developments located in DuBois, Pa.; Carrollton, Ga., and New Bern, N.C.

Westinghouse Credit Corp. acquired Treasure Lake in 1973 when the financially troubled development company was on the verge of collapse.

The credit company loaned many land owners mortgage money for their purchase and thus protected its interest.

Treasure Lake will become part of Westinghouse's Community Development unit, which already includes Coral Ridge Properties, Inc., a planned community near Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., of 21 square miles.

The business unit also includes Urban Systems Development Corp. and Half Moon Bay Properties, Inc., near San Francisco.

The president of Community Development is J.P. Taravella, who also is chairman and one of the founders of the Coral Ridge Properties.

Year's 63rd Bank Holdup

By The Associated Press
A Saint Pauls branch of the Waccamaw Bank and Trust Co., opened a bit early today.

A teller reported that two gunmen met her at the door before business hours, forced her to let them in, and made off with an undisclosed amount of money.

Police were searching for a 1968 blue Oldsmobile believed to have been the getaway car. No injuries were reported.

It was the 63rd bank robbery of the year in North Carolina, 24 fewer than last year.

The robbery followed a pair of bank holdups Tuesday in Gastonia and Charlotte.

In the Gastonia robbery, at a branch of the Citizens National Bank, a 16-year-old boy was arrested within an hour and charged with larceny. The robber had asked to convert some change into bills. As the teller was busy with the transaction, he reached over the counter, grabbed a handful of money, and fled.

At Charlotte, a man wearing a red bandanna over his face and simulating possession of a weapon made a teller put money in a brown paper bag which he produced. Then he fled from the branch of the Northwestern Bank in the Doctors Building.

Brewer, Jr. Is To Fill Bench

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. James E. Holshouser Jr. has decided that there should still be a Judge Coy Brewer on the bench in Fayetteville.

The governor announced Tuesday he was appointing Coy Brewer Jr. to a vacant district court seat for Cumberland and Hoke counties.

The new judge is the son of the late Superior Court Judge Coy Brewer, who died earlier this month.

The younger Brewer is replacing Judge D.B. Herring, who was elevated to the Superior Court after the death of the elder Brewer.

Deep Snow In Rockies

By The Associated Press
A winter storm dumped up to six inches of snow on sections of the Northwest and Rockies early today while rain stretched from the Mid-Mississippi Valley through most of the South Atlantic Coast states.

Travel advisories extended from the Canadian border to Mexico and from California to the Northern Plains.

Advisories also were posted for wind and snow in Eastern Nevada and for winds up to 50 miles per hour for the Southern California deserts and mountains today.

Winter storm watches also continued today over Utah, North Dakota and portions of Colorado, Kansas, South Dakota, Wyoming and New Mexico.

Winter storm warnings also remained in effect over the northern portions of New York and Northern Vermont.

Temperature extremes over the nation early today ranged from 76 at Key West, Fla. to five below zero at Evanston, Wyo.

Tobacco Day

The 1976 Pitt County Extension Tobacco Day will be held Friday at 1:30 p.m. at the Farm Bureau Building here.

Subjects of discussion include plant bed management; variety performance; disease control; extending harvest period; mechanization and curing. An equipment display will be on exhibit.

Banks, Govm't Offices Closing

Governmental offices and banks in the Greenville area will be closed tomorrow in observance of New Year's Day, but they will be back open on a regular schedule Friday.

Town offices in Greenville, Winterville, Ayden and Grifton, along with county, state and federal agencies, will be closed for the holiday. Schools are also closed for Christmas, but students in the city and county systems return to classes Monday, January 5.

Tremors Jolted Western Greece

PATRAS, Greece (AP) — An earthquake jolted western Greece today, causing heavy damage to towns and villages, but there were no immediate reports of deaths or serious injuries, police said.

Most of the damage was reported south of Lake Trikhonis and Messolonghi. The villages of Ano and Kato Makrinou were said to be leveled. About 1,500 persons live in these two villages.

Hundreds of homes were reported damaged in other nearby villages, leaving several thousand persons homeless.

Power lines collapsed, cutting off regular communications, but police said they were in radio contact with the worst-hit area.

Police said the quake registered 5.8 on the Richter scale, which measures ground motion as recorded on seismographs. A quake registering 6 on the Richter is capable of severe damage.

The earthquake, which followed three light tremors, rolled through the area for about 25 seconds and sent residents of this city fleeing their homes and offices.

Three old houses in the center of Patras collapsed in a

Malpractice Suit Loses

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Kevin W. O'Quinn, who lost an arm with gangrene in 1967, has been denied malpractice damages by a jury in New Hanover County.

O'Quinn, 21, sued two doctors who treated his arm for $1.1 million. After two hours' deliberation Tuesday, the jury rejected his claim.

The jury found in favor of the surgeons, Drs. Thomas S. Craven Jr. and Bruce H. Dorman.

O'Quinn's lawyers told the jury the doctors should have recognized his gangrene symptoms earlier and claimed they did not treat his original broken arm properly.

The doctors' attorney, Lonnie Williams, said O'Quinn's gangrene symptoms may have been masked by the pain-killing and anti-nausea drugs ordered for him by his father, a local gynecologist.

O'Quinn's lawyers said they would appeal the decision.

U.S. Women Make Wide Variety Of News In 1975

Fashions For Cold Weather

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — During 1975, Patty Hearst was found—finally; the First Lady made news as a First Lady usually does; women broke down some previously all-male bastions and the U.N. proclaimed International Women's Year but Women's Lib wallowed in disension and seemed to be running out of steam.

American women worried about paying the bills and feeding the family — the recession and inflation — and, especially when it hit close to home, worried about unemployment. Women's news ranged in all directions, from Mother Seton becoming the first American-born Catholic saint to Lynette Fromme being convicted of attempting to assassinate President Gerald Ford.

Betty Ford caused a stir with her: "I wouldn't be surprised" reply when asked on TV what she would do if her daughter, Susan, 18, said she was having an affair. Mrs. Ford suggested that, in general, premarital relations with the right partner might lower the divorce rate.

There were cries of outrage, voices of support. Asked later if she had regrets about what she had said, Mrs. Ford said, "I think I was honest." Letters in answer to persons who wrote to Mrs. Ford said that she doesn't believe in premarital relationships, knows that many young persons don't share that view and she was trying to say that she wouldn't withdraw parental love and understanding if she were told about an affair.

ried William Seton, a wealthy New York merchant, had five children before he died. She converted to Catholicism at 30. In Emmitsburg, Md., she established the first native American Catholic order, the Sisters of Charity of St. Joseph's. She has been called "the mother of Catholic education."

One of two new Spanish saints proclaimed this year was a woman, St. Vincenta Maria Lopez Vicuna, 19th-century nun who cared for maids and other women workers and founded the order of the Daughters of St. Mary Immaculate.

Days in Court
A federal jury convicted Lynette Alice "Squeaky" Fromme, 27, follower of Charles Manson, of attempting to kill President Gerald Ford. The judge had told the jury, which deliberated 19 hours, that it could consider a charge of assault. The defense attorney had contended that Miss Fromme did not intend to kill the President when she aimed a gun at him in Sacramento Sept. 5, said that the verdict would be appealed.

PATTY HEARST

Patricia Campbell Hearst, 21, daughter of newspaper magnate Randolph Hearst, was arrested by the FBI on Sept. 18, 591 days after she had been kidnapped by the self-styled Symbionese Liberation Army Feb. 4, 1974.

Patty Hearst, who called herself Tania after a figure from the Latin American guerrilla movement after she joined the SLA, gave her occupation as urban guerrilla at her booking. She was indicted by a Los Angeles County grand jury on 11 counts, including armed robbery and assault, stemming from a May 1974 San Francisco area crime spree. She also faces a federal charge of armed bank robbery and use of a gun to commit a felony. Trial date is set for early in the year.

Susan Edith Saxe, 26, antiwar revolutionary on the FBI mostwanted list for nearly five years, was picked up by the FBI in March while walking on a Philadelphia street. After she pleaded guilty in Philadelphia to federal charges of bank robbery and theft from a federal arsenal, sentencing was deferred until she could stand trial in Boston on state charges of first-degree murder and two charges of armed robbery. Those charges, to which she has pleaded innocent, resulted from a Boston bank holdup, 25 days after the Philadelphia holdup, which netted two women and three men $26,000 and resulted in the death of a policeman. The three men have had differing fates; Katherine Ann Power, 26, from Denver, is still sought.

Sara Jane Moore, 45, divorced, with a son 9, was set for trial in San Francisco on a charge of attempting to murder President Ford. The occurrence was Sept. 22, 17 days after Lynette Fromme's arrest on the same charge. As the President left a San Francisco hotel and started to enter a car, a shot was heard. The gun was deflected by a disabled ex-Marine, then the gun's cylinder grabbed by a policeman. Mrs. Moore had worked as a bookkeeper in the $2-million food distribution program by which the Randolph Hearst family tried to ransom Patty Hearst from the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Joan Little, 20, was acquitted by a Raleigh, N.C., jury of six whites and six blacks of murdering a white night jailer Aug. 27. On that date, Miss Little, who is black, had served 81 days of a seven to 10-year sentence for breaking and entering, the only female in the Beaufort County, N.C., jail. According to her defense, she stabbed the jailer with the ice pick he was using to threaten her, while forcing sexual abuse. The jury, which had a choice of second degree murder, manslaughter or innocent, gave its verdict after an hour and 18 minutes. The North Carolina Court of Appeals rejected Miss Little's appeal from the 1974 conviction but her attorneys will appeal higher and at year's end she was free on bond.

A judge of the New Jersey Superior Court in November denied Karen Anne Quinlan's parents permission to disconnect the mechanical respirator which had kept her alive in a coma for seven months. The Quinlans requested removal of the respirator so that their 21-year-old daughter could "die with grace and dignity," after consulting doctors told them that Karen had irreversible brain damage and no reasonable hope of recovery. The judge's ruling was that the decision was a medical one which must be made by doctors; doctors attending Miss Quinlan oppose withdrawing the respirator. Mr. and Mrs. Quinlan filed an appeal and the state Supreme Court said that it will hear the case.

The judge's decision is expected to make doctors more cautious, as it brought to public consciousness the possibility of criminal charges and malpractice suits in such cases. The decision did not answer the complex "right to life" questions such as when does life end and can a decision to end life be based on the quality of that life.

Hearts and Flowers
Shirley Temple's daughter, Linda Susan Black, 27, married Roberto Falaschi, 33, first secretary of the Italian embassy in Ghana. The bride had been living in Ghana with her mother, the American ambassador there, and her stepfather, Charles A. Black. Her father is actor John Agar.

The youngest daughter of Queen Juliana of The Netherlands, Princess Christina, 27, married Jorge Guillermo, 29, from Cuba. Both are teachers in New York. The bride, ninth in succession to the Dutch throne, chose to forfeit her right to the throne.

Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton, previously married for 10 years, were remarried, exchanging elephant tusk ivory rings, in a mud-hut village in a Botswana game preserve, after 14 months of divorce. The reception was champagne on a river bank for the wedding party, watched by two hippos and a rhino in the water. In Johannesburg the Burtons later picked up some wedding diamonds.

Cartoonist Dale Messick, 69, announced the January wedding, no last-minute postponements guaranteed, of redhaired girl reporter Brenda Starr, ever 23, to Basil St. John, whom she met in 1945.

For the first time in the history of Congress, U.S. representatives got engaged. Martha Keys of Kansas and Andrew Jacobs Sr. of Indiana, both liberal Democrats, both divorced, said they would marry in January, would both run for reelection next year and would both keep residences in their own districts.

New York Gov. Hugh Carey, 56, widowed, father of 12, was seen to squire Anne Ford Uzielli, 32, youngest daughter of Henry Ford II. She was divorced earlier this year and is the mother of two children.

Christina Onassis, 24, daughter and principal legate of Aristotle Onassis, and possibly the richest woman in the world, was married for the second time, to Alexander Andreadis, 30, son of another wealthy Greek shipping family.

Untying the Knot
Dr. Benjamin Spock, 72, and his wife, Jane, 69, married 48 years, separated.

British actress Maggie Smith and actor Robert Stephens, married M 1967, once expected to become a latter-day Lunt and Fontanne, were divorced. Actress Glenda Jackson, 39, is divorcing Roy Hodges, art gallery owner, after 17 years. Actress Vivien Merchant filed for divorce from playwright Harold Pinter, citing author Lady Antonia Fraser as "the other woman." Lady Antonia has been married for 19 years to Hugh Fraser, Conservative member of Parliament.

As the sobs of his wife, Kerstin, 43, were heard in the divorce courtroom, Dr. Lee Salk, 46, pediatrician-psychologist, was given permanent custody of their children, Eric, 14, and Pia, 7. The judge said that he seemed to be "the parent who can best nurture the complex needs and social development" of the children.

The Ann Landers column announced the end of the 36-year-old marriage of Ann Landers to Jules Lederer, without further explanation.

Singer Cher Bono was married to rock star Gregg Allman, separated from him twice. In December there was the announcement of a reconciliation of sorts, another Sonny and Cher TV show.

Erica Jong, author of the best-selling "Fear of Flying," was divorced from her second husband, New York psychiatrist Allan Jong.

The Woman at Home
And what did the woman at home in America worry about and do in 1975?

More families planted gardens to beat the increased cost of the grocery basket, then found there was a metal canning lid shortage. There also was a flower pot shortage, as clay planting took an upsurge and more persons turned against plastic.

Women were more consumer, safety, health, ecology, economy conscious. Does that antiperspirant contain zirconium? Air-conditioners took a sales slump as Americans pared major expenditures and turned to fans to reduce electric bills. Women worried about violence, whether courts are too lenient with juvenile offenders, schools, busing, sharks, whether adoptees should know the truth, when a person is really dead, whether a terminally ill person should be allowed to decide to end life, the fact that more women than ever are dying from breast cancer, that the Food and Drug Administration says that the risk of death from heart attack among women over 40 is four times as great if the woman is on the pill, that estrogen hormones — which many women take to alleviate the symptoms of menopause — are linked to increased risk of uterine cancer, how to quit smoking and lose weight, that there are too few wholesome movies.

They tried to recycle, plan less expensive vacations, some went back to having babies at home. They were bombarded by the Bicentennial and backgammon, felt nostalgic, wore mood-proclaiming rings and Indian jewelry, collected things — miniatures had a big vogue — while their children revived the hula hoop and the skate

BETTY FORD

Mrs. Ford also said in a magazine article that if reporters asked how often she slept with her husband she would say, "as often as possible." The President's press secretary said that Ford "has long since ceased to be perturbed or surprised by his wife's remarks."

Mrs. Ford also campaigned for the Equal Rights Amendment, accompanied her husband on his official visits to West Germany and China, visited South Vietnamese children and former Premier Nguyen Cao Ky at Camp Pendleton, Calif., and had "no indication of any cancer recurrence" following her mastectomy in 1974.

She took some mid-19th century wallpaper showing Revolutionary War battle scenes off the family dining room wall, where it was put in 1961 by Mrs. John Kennedy, because she found it "kind of depressing." She visited Martha Graham's Dance School in New York, bought a $125 ticket to a gala to raise money for Miss Graham's Dance Company and attended the gala with comedian Woody Allen, who was wearing sneakers. When she was Betty Bloomer, Mrs. Ford had studied dance with Martha Graham in 1939. She decided not to become a professional dancer and went home to Grand Rapids in 1940.

Son Finds Stray Dog And Mother Finds New Love

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I can't understand how this happened, but it did, and here are the facts:

My wife and I have been happily married for 27 years. My trouble began a few months ago when our youngest son found a stray dog. The next day I saw an ad in the lost-and-found section of our newspaper describing the dog and offering a reward for his return.

Of course, we contacted the owner who said he'd be right over to pick up the dog.

Well, a knock on the door brought joy to the dog owner, but sorrow to me because my wife, who is almost 50, is now carrying on an affair with the dog owner, who is a 19-year-old boy! She doesn't know that I am on to the whole business.

Rush your advice, please.

GONE WITH THE DOG

DEAR GONE: It's not unusual for a menopause mama to try to recapture a bit of her youth. But it's usually in fantasy—not in fact. Be patient. It will probably pass.

DEAR ABBY: My son died two months ago, leaving a young widow (I'll call her "Mary") and three small children. He was only 34.

Mary said she was so helpless and upset she couldn't function, and she asked if she and the children could move in with me until she got straightened out. My husband and I welcomed her.

Within a month, Mary was dating nearly every night, and I was the babysitter.

On her first date she asked the fellow in, and he stayed until dawn. I heard noises in the living room, and when I went to investigate I saw them "making out" (I think that's what you call it) on the davenport.

Abby, I'm not saying Mary shouldn't date, but I'm not ready to see my daughter-in-law making out on my davenport so soon after my son's death.

My husband and I had words about it. He's on Mary's side. He says I can't expect her to stop living. I say, she can go on living, but if she wants to make out so soon after my son's death, she should consider my feelings and not do it in my house.

By the way, my husband was not the father of the son who died; he was his step-father. Could that make a difference?

GRIEVING MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Yes. A big difference. I'm on your side. I think your daughter-in-law is extremely insensitive to your feelings to behave as she does. Now that she can function, she should have a place of her own.

JAPANESE SWAN
NEW YORK (UPI) — Yoko Morishita, Japan's top young ballerina, will dance a single performance of the Black Swan pas de deux from Swan Lake in New York Jan. 6 with Fernando Bujones of the American Ballet Theatre. The two young dancers met at the 1974 International Ballet Competitions in Varna, Bulgaria, where both won gold medals. They later danced together in Tokyo with the Matsuyama Ballet Company, where Miss Morishita is a principal dancer.

Hand-Wringing Over Nothing

As good old 1975 mounts up to ride off into the sunset let us breathe a soft prayer for presidential press secretary Ron Nessen.

True, the Secretary of State, the Secretary for Labor, the Secretary of Defense and innumerable other personalities high in the echelons of government have problems; but Ron Nessen puts them all in the shade.

He is distraught and dismayed that when his boss stubs his toe on a stairway, pratfalls while skiing, or sings a finger while cooking breakfast... it is dutifully recorded by the media.

According to the press secretary, such reporting makes Mr. Ford look like an uncoordinated oaf who stumbles all over himself.

Until Nessen began his hand-wringing no one really gave it much thought.

The average Joe knows his president is watched as few other presidents have been... and when queries about news of the day wear thin, his audience resorts to trivia.

Truly, if Mr. Ford never fell on his face just once in awhile we'd have reason to fear he was something more than mortal and an unsafe person to live in the White House.

The American public pretends to expect perfection; but deep in its collective heart there is a dark suspicion of the flawless. Somehow, they figure, he's concealing a dark secret.

"Remember, I'M the one who's bringing you a Happy New Year!"

INSIDE REPORT The Warning Given Bush

Pro-Ford Florida Republicans associated with other state party leaders — such as William Cramer, general counsel of the Republican National Committee and a long-time Ford crony, and drug magnate Jack Eckerd, recently named director of the Government Services Administration — complain they are being left out.

board, thought about whether abortion is right or wrong and how to raise children without so much sex stereotyping. The U.S. fertility rate, the projected number of babies women of child-bearing age will have, hit a new low, 1.862, down from 1.896.

The divorce rate was up further, from 3.8 per 1,000 population in 1972 to 4.6 for the first quarter of 1975, to 4.9 for April. Experts blamed the rise in part on the recession, inflation and a spouse's loss of job, saying that money problems undercut each person's feeling of security, cause anxiety and irritability in general but especially in middle-class persons in their 30s and cause the surfacing of weaknesses in a marriage that under less stress can remain hidden.

Women joined the U.S. armed services in record peace-time numbers in 1975, integrating hundreds of previously male-only jobs, though not combat arms. President Ford signed a bill to permit women to attend all the service academies, starting in 1976.

The International Labor Organization called on husbands to shoulder a bigger share of the housework to help married women who work outside the home. Australia, which first began the practice of giving cyclones women's names, decided to end the practice, as a gesture to International Women's Year. New York changed the title of its Summer Festival queen to ambassador, in 1975 chose Christine Busini, 23, who teaches Middle Eastern dance, "not exactly belly dancing."

Four women were ordained to the Episcopal priesthood in Washington in a service conducted outside canon law. Last year's ordination of 11 women in Philadelphia was later declared invalid by the house of bishops. Some Roman Catholics talked seriously about women being able to become Catholic priests.

The first woman rabbi outside the United States, Jacqueline Tabick, 26, was ordained in London. There are three in the U.S.

In fashion, skirts were longer, summer dresses had the "big look," there was a definite Chinese influence, jumpsuits were in, the layered-look stayed in, money-pinned women tried home sewing, simply bought less.

Two courses for women, the opposite of Women's Lib, packed in the students: Fascinating Womanhood, started in California 10 years ago, and Total Woman, started in Florida in 1971, both telling women to give their husbands endless devotion, admiration and support. reached in August 1974 at 33,000 people. A new program was begun and by July 1975 the number involved leaped to 315,000.

"All these people were counted as employed," he said. "When reports tell us we've had a growth in employment a substantial part is due to the Public Service Employment Program," he explained.

The College Work-Study Program also helped lower the jobless rate. The program, said Killingsworth, had been "jogging along" at 500,000 worker-students. One hour of work in a survey week and they were considered employed, he said.

This past September the number jumped roughly 50 per cent, to more than 700,000, all of whom are counted as employed when, Killingsworth suggests, many of them actually would be without jobs or not in the labor force if they didn't have the government's assistance.

In 1967 more changes were made, serving further to depress the jobless rate. The definition of what constituted job-seeking, and thus who was to be counted as unemployed, was made more rigid. Youngsters 15 and 16 were dropped from both the labor force and the jobless count.

These changes, said Killingsworth, add up to a serious understating of the unemployment condition. "If we applied the old definitions, the unemployment rate today would be at least one full percentage point higher."

Lesson For Nessen

When Mr. Ford's embattled press secretary, Ron Nessen, left for a planned three-week vacation in Key Biscayne following the President's return from China, he told top White House staffers he would be back Christmas Day. That meant deputy press secretary William Greener would go to Vail for the President's skiing vacation.

But White House staff chief Richard Cheney had other ideas. Worried by severe press criticism of Nessen's poor performance in Peking ("a professional disaster," wrote Newsday Washington bureau chief Martin Schram), Cheney strongly admonished Nessen to come home early, take the Vail duty himself, spend more time on the press plane during presidential travels and see a lot more of the critical White House press corps, particularly in informal chats, than he has been.

Nessen bought Cheney's package. Greener's quick confirmation as the new Assistant Secretary of Defense for public affairs gave Nessen a rationale to explain his suddenly shortened vacation so that he could go to Vail with Mr. Ford while Greener went to the Pentagon.

A footnote: Nessen still stands high with Mr. Ford, but the President has been made aware of Nessen critics in the press and worries that if the trend continues Nessen could become a liability.

The late Geraldine Rockefeller Dodge's jewels set a world record for a single owner's jewelry, bringing $2,341,025, almost $200,000 more than was paid for Enid Haupt's jewelry in 1972.

There was a big advertising push in cosmetics and perfume, Revlon paying Lauren Hutton $220,000 a year, Faberge signing Margaux Hemingway for $1 million and signing Lola Falana when they added musk to Tigress. But the hottest model of the year was said to be Beverly Johnson, 23, from Buffalo, a black girl with "white" features, who showed up on the "right" magazine covers.

Caroline and Susan

Caroline Kennedy, 17, was graduated from a private high school, Concord Academy, Concord, Mass., photographed at her graduation blowing bubble gum. She went to London to study art at Sotheby's, staying in the home of family friend Hugh Fraser. After a bomb exploded outside the home at the time she normally would have been leaving in the morning, she moved to the Mayfair home of other family friends.

Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis was widowed a second time when Aristotle Onassis died in March. Reports that she and Onassis's 24-year-old daughter, Christina, were feuding over the inheritance were denied. Mrs. Onassis took a job with a book publisher in New York, not tied to office hours.

Susan Ford's father, the President, spoke at her graduation from Holton-Arms, a private school for girls in Bethesda, Md. Her senior prom was in the East Room of the White House. She was a summer intern photographer for the Topeka Capital-Journal, then joined The Associated Press in Washington to work 20 hours a week. Two female members of the White House News Photographers Assn. opposed her membership application, citing her inexperience as a professional photographer.

Trips and Tribulations

Queen Elizabeth II was the first British ruler to have a Hawaiian holiday, on her way to visit Japan, which she became the first reigning British ruler to visit. Queen Margaret II of Denmark visited Russia, the first crowned head from Western Europe to visit the Soviet Union since its 1917 revolution.

Nearly 28 years after independence in India, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi on June 26 invoked a state of emergency, imposed censorship, suspended civil liberties and arrested and jailed 676 opposition figures. Later, demonstrators against these actions were reported shot and killed by Indian police. Mrs. Gandhi said it was because of a grave internal conspiracy and had nothing to do with a lower court's finding that there had been corrupt practices in her 1971 campaign for Parliament and the supreme court's suspension of her from Parliament while ruling that she could continue as Prime Minister while the court decided her appeal. In November the supreme court reversed the conviction of the lower court.

Isabel Peron, president of Argentina, which is faced with a worsening trade balance and a nearly bankrupt treasury, faced a crisis in office. Bowing to a general strike and other pressure from the labor movement, which had been the main pillar of her support, she agreed to wage demands ranging in some cases to 100 per cent increases. Some called for her resignation. Instead she took a five-week leave, with the president of the Argentine senate in charge, came back on the 30th anniversary of the late Juan Peron's rise to power and said she would carry on as head of state.

SARAH CALDWELL

Sarah Caldwell, director of the Opera Company of Boston, became the first woman to conduct a gala performance by the New York Philharmonic, got her picture on the cover of Time as "music's wonder woman" and immediately was in demand by everybody. When Paul Paray suffered an injury and had to cancel a December appearance with the National Symphony in Kennedy Center, the National Symphony immediately hired Sarah Caldwell.

the peak summer months, 50 to 55 per cent.

The number of tourists dropped from 728,000 in 1972 — the record year — to 625,000 last year, when visitors spent $250 million, also a record.

The forecast for this year is 560,000 tourists, Avi-Natan said. Undoubtedly a contributing factor in the drop in tourism have been Arab guerrilla attacks inside Israel.

Tourism officials don't like to talk about it, showing a reluctance akin to advertising the presence of sharks off the coast of a resort town.

"The security factor is one big problem," one tourism official said. "The terrorists are very open about hitting us and hitting tourists who want to come here."

So with this bad news in hand the hoteliers are demanding a change in government policy to permit more charter flights to Israel.

Chiefly, they are eyeing the lucrative market in the United States, with its five million Jews. Surprisingly only 10 per cent of American Jews have visited Israel since its founding in 1948, Avi-Natan said.

A round trip group fare ticket from New York to Tel Aviv via El Al costs $770, though the airline's spokesman, Arnold Sherman, said the lowest possible fare is $680.

Tourism Ministry spokesman Michael Gidron said a charter flight from New York would cost only $440.

El Al, restricted by the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board to New York's JFK International Airport for landing rights in the United States, argues that if U.S. charter flights went into operation it would cost the airline $16.3 million in losses next year.

El Al has been fighting with the CAB for 10 years to get permits to land in other American cities. If it did, Sherman said, El Al would like to institute a "no frills" flight that would decrease the cost of coming to Israel.

Some charters have been flying to Israel since 1968. There are unrestricted flights from Scandinavia and controlled charters from Europe that are permitted to carry only pilgrims and students. They don't add much to the tourism total and Sherman said the charters "have proven to be bust."

Both Gidron and Avi-Natan disagree.

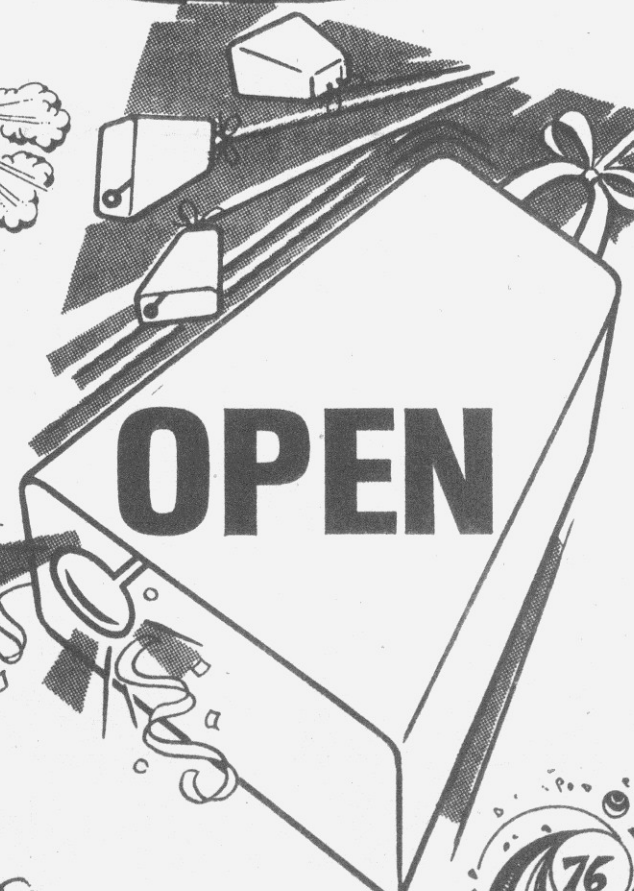

"What we would like to see is charters from places where El Al does not operate," Gidron said, indicating it would involve all major American cities but New York.

"There would be a definite improvement in tourism if there were more charter flights," Avi-Natan said. "The charters will cause an increase, though we don't think they will immediately remedy all our problems."

Larger Tax Bite Awaits Some In '76

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — If you earn more than $14,100 a year, the paychecks you receive after Thursday will be smaller than the checks you received toward the close of the year. The reason is Social Security taxes.

A worker earning $300 a week, for example, will find his or her take-home pay reduced by $17.55 from the weekly pay collected since the Nov. 28 paycheck. And that same worker will have reduced take-home pay for a longer period of time this year.

Workers earning less than $14,100 — or about $270 a week — won't notice any difference.

But the situation means that the more than 15 million Americans whose incomes exceed $15,000 a year will find their budgets more cramped than in the past month or so.

And the economy will be sapped of some of the spending power which has helped pull the nation out of recession, although most economists consider the fluctuations of Social Security withholding to have only a slight impact.

Last year, for example, the resumption of Social Security withholding in January meant about $2 billion more flowing out of corporations' and individuals' pockets into government coffers. Since employers match their workers' contributions to Social Security, half that represented higher withholding from workers.

The $1 billion compares, in turn, with retail sales currently running at about $50 billion a month.

"I don't regard that as much of a factor," said James L. Pate, the Commerce Department's top economist. "I would have if we had had elimination of the 1975 tax reductions."

Income tax withholding levels will not change, however. Although tax bills for the whole year of 1976 will be lower than 1975, the 1975 cuts were concentrated in an eight-month period, so the weekly deduction rate holds steady.

The reason for the fluctuation of Social Security deductions is that the tax is levied as a flat 5.85 per cent of gross wages per pay period. But there is a ceiling on the amount of Social Security taxes anyone pays in a single year.

For 1975, the maximum tax was $24.85. Since the figure represents 5.85 per cent of $14,100, employers stopped deducting Social Security taxes from paychecks when workers' salaries hit that level.

For $300-a-week wage earners, the last Social Security deductions were made Sept. 5.

The 1976 rate of taxation remains the same, but the government has raised to $895.05 the ceiling on how much tax may be imposed on one person. That means up to $15,300 of an individual's income will be taxed. And instead of enjoying a Thanksgiving bonus when the tax cuts off, the $300-a-week worker will be paying Social Security taxes for four extra weeks, through Dec. 18 in 1976.

For that $400-a-week wage earner, the payments will run through Oct. 1 instead of Sept. 5.

Junior Bowling Classes Slated

The Greenville Recreation Department in co-operation with Hillcrest Lanes will sponsor junior bowling classes. Boys or girls from 10 to 14 years of age are invited to attend.

Classes will meet on Friday afternoons at 3:45 for five weeks at Hillcrest Lanes. A beginning date will be established after enough people register. There is a $5.00 fee for the lessons. Call the Greenville Recreation Department to sign up for lessons. Telephone 752-4137, extension 251.

Church Begins Phone Service

The Church of God, on Skinner and Spruce Streets, has initiated a new telephone ministry service, "Dial Direction."

"Dial Direction" consists of a brief message of encouragement, inspiration, and motivation to callers. A different message is presented each day by Rev. E.H. Miles, pastor of the church. Rev. Miles is also ECU campus minister for Pentacostals.

The service is available 24 hours a day, and may be reached by dialing 752-1333.

Sen. Scott Said Seeking Oil Money

By BROOKS JACKSON Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott allegedly made repeated requests for Gulf Oil money even while the Watergate scandals were boiling in 1973, according to a Gulf investigative panel.

The panel quoted statements attributed to Gulf's political bagman, Claude C. Wild Jr., who reportedly claimed to have made secret cash payments to Scott of $10,000 a year for about 13 years.

HUGH SCOTT

The special review committee, set up by Gulf to investigate its own illegal political donations in the United States, South Korea and elsewhere, said in a report released Tuesday that in 13 years Gulf disbursed some $12.3 million at home and abroad for political donations and related matters, mostly illegal.

These included $4 million in illegal political gifts to the ruling party in South Korea, $4 million disbursed by Wild to a galaxy of U.S. political figures, $627,000 to Italian political parties, and a $108,000 helicopter to the late Bolivian dictator Rene Barrientos, who was later killed when the aircraft crashed.

The panel also said it found some $2 million in previously undisclosed illegal political payments in Canada, Italy and Sweden.

Committee officials said "it has not been possible — and perhaps never will be — to trace all the funds" paid to U.S. politicians in violation of the law.

The committee's report was critical of top Gulf management and said Gulf chairman Bob R. Dorsey "should have known that Wild was involved in making political contributions from unknown sources. If Dorsey did not know of the nature and extent of Wild's unlawful activities, he perhaps chose to shut his eyes to what was going on."

But the report said the panel's evidence "falls short of demonstrating that Dorsey was informed of Wild's unlawful political activities."

Outlining the Scott incident, the panel said that "even after the initial Watergate publicity erupted in 1973 the senator again requested funds from Wild. Wild apparently told the senator that he could not provide the money any longer, but the senator seemed unable to understand why."

The report was filed with federal court and the Securities and Exchange Commission. The panel, headed by New York lawyer John Jay McCloy, has been probing Gulf's activities since last March.

The report said the Scott story was related by Pittsburgh lawyer Thomas D. Wright, based on his interviews with Wild in 1973 and 1974, when Wright was investigating Wild's activities for Gulf's directors.

Wild himself won't now confirm or deny the Scott story. He recently invoked the Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination and refused an SEC request to testify about it.

Scott was unavailable for comment. He has not denied receiving Gulf payments, but has said he got only political donations and denies that he knew any such donations came from corporate funds. Wright quoted Wild as saying the money was for Scott's personal use.

Shortly after initial accounts of the Gulf payments surfaced in SEC court filings, Scott announced he would not seek reelection.

Anniversary Of Lawson's Exploration

By H.G. JONES, Curator North Carolina Collection
Written for The AP
CHAPEL HILL (AP)—It was 275 years ago this week that John Lawson left Charleston, S.C., on the first extensively recorded exploration of the back country of the Carolinas.

His account remains a valuable source of information on the land and the first Americans—the Indians.

Little is known of Lawson's background in Great Britain, though he obviously was a man of education and some means. His interest in botany may have led him to the land that had been settled by Europeans less than a century.

At Charleston the Lords Proprietors commissioned Lawson to explore the inland section of their colony. He departed Dec. 28, 1700, with five other Englishmen, three male Indians and a squaw. The party generally followed the Santee and Wateree rivers.

In a little over three weeks, the expedition crossed into North Carolina in the Waxhaws. In the dead of winter, they found ice on the streams near present-day Monroe. Some days later they visited the Catawba Indians.

Following the old Trading Path, worn clear by the Indians, the party visited areas near the present cities of Charlotte, Kannapolis, Salisbury and Lexington. Turning eastward, in what is now Randolph County, Lawson and his fellow travelers visited Keyauwee Town, an Indian settlement rediscovered by UNC archaeologists in recent decades.

Further eastward, Lawson and a portion of the group (several had separated to go northward into Virginia) arrived at Occaneechee Town, now Hillsborough, from where a kindly Indian called Enoe Will faithfully guided them through Tuscarora country to Richard Smith's plantation on the Pamlico River near Washington.

There on Feb. 23, the trip ended. In about nine weeks the party had covered only a little over half the 1,000 miles that Lawson estimated. Still, in winter, on foot, the accomplishment was indeed remarkable.

From explorer, John Lawson now became a settler. He built a house beside an Indian town near the present site of New Bern. Apparently well trained as a surveyor, he followed this trade, working as an assistant to Edward Moseley, the surveyor general of the province.

He also occupied his time touching up his journal, and in 1709 he sailed for England to arrange for its publication.

Titled "A New Voyage to Carolina," his book provided a fascinating description of the Indian country. Since its first edition, it has gone through many republications, the latest being edited by Hugh T. Lefler for the University of North Carolina Press.

It has also been plagiarized by various writers, including John Brickell and William Byrd.

Lawson can be credited with helping found two North Carolina towns—Bath and New Bern. A landowner at Bath, he was one of its three commissioners when in 1705 it became the first incorporated town in North Carolina.

While in London for the publication of his book, Lawson became acquainted with Baron Von Graffenried, who was persuaded to select the junction of the Neuse and Trent rivers—where Lawson then lived—as the location of a settlement of Palatines.

Lawson sailed with about 650 Palatines early in 1710. Upon arrival, he laid out the town that became known as New Bern.

The following year, the surveyor persuaded Von Graffenried and a black servant to accompany him on a trip into Tuscarora country to find a new route to Virginia. The journey, taken during the year the Tuscaroras rose against the whites, was disastrous.

The three men were captured and taken to the village of Catechna on Contentnea Creek, near the present Snow Hill. After an Indian-style trial which acquitted the travellers, an argument broke out. Both white men were then sentenced to death, though only Lawson was killed.

Tradition alternately reported that he was hanged, that his throat was cut, and that thousands of splinters were stuck into his body then set afire. Von Graffenried was fortunate enough to win his release and write his version of the event which was, not surprisingly, uncomplimentary to Lawson's behavior.

Von Graffenried proved that history tends to favor those who leave their on viewpoints in writing.

Fear Three Are Drowned

SNEADS FERRY, N.C. (AP)—Three North Carolina men are missing and feared drowned in the capsizing of their 20-foot boat in the choppy Atlantic Tuesday while it was trying to reach shore.

They were identified as Walter Ketter, 55, of Durham, and two men from Cary near Raleigh, Richard Smith and Bill Mapps, ages not immediately determined.

The Coast Guard continued an air and sea search today.

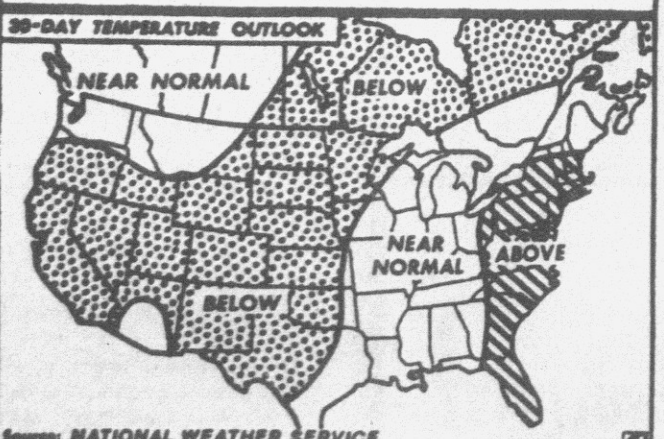

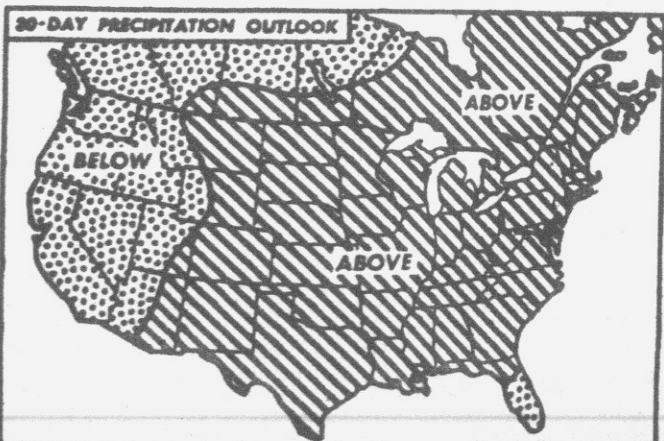

The fourth occupant, Terry Ketter, 22, of Durham, made it to shore at Topsail Island and then was treated at a hospital.

The boat overturned off the New River Inlet near a fishing pier in rough seas and winds of 25 knots.

A 42-foot charter boat, the Joy IV out of Sneads Ferry, sank in 25 feet of water while participating in the search. A Coast Guard vessel removed two persons from the Joy IV before she went down. An attempt to salvage her was to be made today.

CRUISES DECLINE

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, St. Thomas, V.I. (UPI)—Fifty-three cruise ships brought 30,475 visitors to the Virgin Islands during October, according to the Department of Commerce. This was a decline of 5.5 per cent from the same month of 1974.

DR. SHEILA CASSIDY, a British physician, ponders a point during press conference in London, Tuesday. (AP Wirephoto)

Doctor Claims Torture While Held In Chile

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — The British government has called its ambassador to Chile home for an indefinite stay after a British woman doctor reported she was stripped and tortured during two months as a prisoner of the Chilean military junta.

The Foreign Office said the government will submit evidence to the United Nations Human Rights Commission to support the allegations of torture by Dr. Sheila Cassidy.

The government also lodged a strong protest with the Chilean government and demanded a full inquiry into Dr. Cassidy's charges.

Ambassador Reginald Seconde left Santiago Tuesday night after meeting with officials of the Chilean Foreign Ministry. The Chilean government said it would have no statement until it studied the situation further, but the Chilean Embassy in London denied Dr. Cassidy had been tortured.

The sandy-haired, 38-year-old woman, who was arrested because she treated a wounded Chilean leftist while he was in hiding, arrived in Santiago Tuesday night in blue jeans, sandals, a smock and overcoat lent her by U.N. officials. Looking pale and drawn, she told reporters:

"I was stripped naked and tied down to a bed. I was tortured for up to an hour at a time."

Dr. Cassidy was arrested Nov. 1 in the Roman Catholic mission hospital where she worked and was held in the Tres Alamos prison in Santiago until Nov. 14. After her release, she was detained in Santiago until Monday.

She was arrested because she treated Nelson Gutierrez, the No. 2 man of the outlawed Revolutionary Left Movement (MIR). He was shot twice in the leg when he and Andres Pascal Allende, the top MIR leader and nephew of the late President Salvador Allende, escaped from security agents during a gun battle at a farm south of Santiago. The junta expelled three American nuns and an American priest who helped to hide them, and the two wanted men and their girl friends took refuge in two foreign embassies.

Dr. Cassidy said she was asked by a missionary friend to treat Gutierrez.

"I was perfectly aware that helping him could lead to my being detained and expelled," she said. "But I thought it was impossible to refuse to treat someone in these circumstances and to inform police."

Investigating Three Tuesday Accidents

More than $3,300 property damage resulted from a series of three collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from an 11:05 a.m. mishap on Elm Street, 85 feet North of the Third Street intersection.

A car, driven by Hugh Jackson Sawyer of 121 North Harding St. collided with a parked car owned by Elizabeth L. Moore of 209 South Elm St. police reported, causing an estimated $1,050 damage to the Sawyer car and $875 damage to the Moore auto.

Sawyer was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

No charges were made following investigation of a 1:57 p.m. collision on Memorial Drive 435 feet South of the South Village Drive intersection involving cars driven by Charles David Cobb Jr. of 205 Alendale Dr. and Doris Jean Cox of Route 2, Ayden.

Investigators estimated damage at $300 to the Cobb car and $200 to the Cox auto.

Investigation is continuing into a 10:26 p.m. collision at the intersection of Third Street and Memorial Drive, police reported.

According to officers, a car driven by Janis Blackwelder of Route 1, Greenville collided with a parked car owned by James Hoyton Bonner of 1607 West Third St. injuring a passenger in the Blackwelder car and causing an estimated $600 damage to the Blackwelder auto and $300 damage to the Bonner car.

Probing Theft From Railroad

Police today are continuing their investigation into the theft of salt and potato starch from the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad yesterday.

Chief Glenn Cannon said one 16-year-old youth and 11 juveniles, ranging in age from six to 14, are apparently involved in the incidents.

He noted that a box car and a trailer, parked on a siding south of Howell Street, were entered yesterday and a quantity of salt taken from the boxcar. Four bags of potato starch were reported stolen from the trailer, he noted.

Arrest Duo For Robbery

Greenville Police Monday arrested two more local men on armed robbery charges in connection with the December 17 robbery of Smith's Motel on Memorial Drive.

Chief Glenn Cannon said James Howard Johnson, 24, of 508 Battle St. and Lonnie Ossie Barnhill, 20 of 308 Cadillac St. were arrested and placed under $25,000 bond each.

Officers several days earlier had arrested two other men for their alleged participation in the hold-up in which $130 in cash and two shotguns were taken after motel owner Bob Smith was handcuffed by intruders brandishing a sawed-off shotgun.

In addition to the armed robbery charge, Barnhill was charged with breaking, entering and larceny from Harris' Supermarket at 901 West Fifth St. in connection with a December 20 incident there.

Most Other Countries Accept Spying As Routine

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Newsfeatures Writer

While the United States wrestles with its conscience over the activities of the CIA and the FBI, most other nations accept the dirty business of spying as a matter of course.

An Associated Press survey of world spy activity shows that most nations have intelligence organizations, but few permit the public to know much about them.

The public investigations in the United States this past year — involving even presidents in the misuse of the CIA and the FBI for political purposes — have ranged farther than any comparable spy scandal in the rest of the world. They surpass even the 1954 "Lavon Affair," in which it was revealed that Israeli spies sabotaged British and American property in Egypt, or last year's West German scandal, in which that nation's intelligence service, limited like the CIA to activities abroad, was found to be gathering dossiers on domestic politicians.

The AP survey showed: —There is almost no parliamentary oversight on spy activities in other countries. West Germany and Holland are exceptions. Most intelligence agencies answer only to the chief of state, or occasionally the defense minister.

—Intelligence operations in Turkey, Greece, Denmark, France, and a few other nations have been criticized recently, but the criticism hasn't resulted in change. Usually it's ignored.

—Few spy organizations appear to spend as much as the United States does on the CIA and FBI. But whatever the budget, in most nations it is clouded and lost within the budgets of other agencies the intelligence community serves — defense, interior, state. The CIA's annual budget, estimated by some as high as $1 billion, is hidden in other budgets, including those for State and Defense. The FBI's $468.7 million budget this fiscal year is public record.

The spy agency has a thousand names. In Turkey, it's MIT. In Italy, SID. In Chile, DINA. In Denmark, MET. In Thailand, ISOC. In Brazil, SNI. In Venezuela, DIM.

In Britain, call on DI-5 or DI-6. In Israel, MOSSAD and AMAN. In Iran, SAVAK. In the Soviet Union, KGB.

In Great Britain, Defense Intelligence 5 (internal security) and Defense Intelligence 6 (external operations) are so secret they are neither established by statute nor recognized by the common law.

British publications are covered by the so-called defense notice or d-notice, under which they are asked not to publish certain security information, including anything about DI-5 and DI-6.

So when Newsweek magazine and other foreign publications reported this year that Maurice Oldfield, a 60-year-old bachelor and career intelligence officer, had been named Britain's top spy, the first notice the British public got of it was when British newspapers picked up the foreign report.

As director-general of DI-6 and general overseer of both intelligence departments, Oldfield reports directly to Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

The only other insight the British get into the activity of their spies is in the annual "supply estimate" which the government submits to Parliament. It simply lists the amount of money a given operation will require for the year. The treasury estimated 22 million pounds ($46.2 million) for security forces.

But Parliament knows that this is only part of the action. There is more spy money hidden in other appropriations, notably the defense budget.

The government rarely tells parliament anything about security matters. Inquisitive MPs are rebuffed.

Like Britain, most countries have separate intelligence agencies for internal security and espionage abroad, roughly corresponding to the American FBI and CIA.

China's foreign espionage comes under the international liaison department, which reports to the central committee or the Chinese Communist Party. The service is headed by Keng Pa'u, 66, former ambassador to Burma, Sweden and Finland. Most of the information gathering is done by journalists and diplomats stationed in other countries. One Chinese newsman has been expelled from India and Mauritius, and has served in Africa and the United Nations.

Inside China, intelligence activities come under the Ministry of Public Security, which refugees call the most feared organization in the nation. It is headed by Hua Kuo-feng, but little is known of him except that he was vice governor of Hunan Province and became vice chairman of the Hunan Revolutionary Committee during the cultural revolution.

Russians aren't told much about their KGB, Committee for State Security, which operates at home and abroad. Funding is secret. But the Soviet constitution specifically sets up this function of government in Article 14.

The KGB is headed by Yuri Andropov, a Politburo member. He keeps a low profile, and is the only figure known to be KGB who appears in public.

Allen Dulles, one-time head of the CIA once called Israel's secret services "among the world's best." They were set up before the Jewish state was born in 1948, and now law governs their operations. It wasn't until 1957 that the late Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion told Parliament of the existence of Shin Bet, the department of internal security.

But even before that Israeli agents had established a reputation for exploits like Hijacking Czech weapons bound for Syria and sinking the ship that carried them. Before the establishment of Israel, agents had duplicated the entire files of the British police force in Palestine.

After Israeli agents kidnaped Nazi war criminal Adolf Eichmann in Argentina and brought him to trial in Israel, the government publicly outlined the secret services.

The Israeli spy services report to the Prime Minister and the Minister of Defense. The MOSSAD is responsible for intelligence and special operations abroad. AMAN is the department of military intelligence. Shin Bet is a domestic operation against subversion. The Police Special Branch reinforces Shin Bet with its powers to make arrests and searches.

The public knows that MOSSAD handles at least some anti-terrorist activities, chiefly in Europe. But the name of the public servant who heads MOSSAD is unknown. He heads a secret committee which receives reports from all the services and reports in turn to parliamentary committees on foreign affairs and defense.

Spy funds are concealed in the defense budget. There has never been a parliamentary investigation of the secret services, nor any public expose with the exception of the 1954 "Lavon Affair."

In that fiasco, Israeli agents sabotaged British and American property in Cairo to discredit the Egyptian government and persuade Britain to keep its forces in Egypt. Two agents were executed, six were jailed, and two committed suicide.

A subsequent inquiry concluded that the scheme had been hatched by Defense Minister Pinhas Lavon and his military intelligence chief without the knowledge of MOSSAD or the government.

The Egyptian intelligence operation, foreign and domestic, is provided for in the constitution, is responsible to the president and is funded by his office. The Director usually comes from the military or police ranks.

Currently, he is Kamal Hassan Ali, 48, a former major general in charge of armor. He could be replaced or kept on by a new president, and except for presidential investigations there is no system for review.

Under President Gamal Abdel Nasser, the secret service was active at home and abroad. Newspapers, now free to print material from that era (1956-1970), have attacked that former service for political killings.

Elsewhere in the Mideast, Syria has the reputation of being most concerned with intelligence gathering. The National Security Bureau, which shelters at least seven separate services, reports only to President Hafez Assad.

Nowhere in the Arab world are there legislative or parliamentary controls over intelligence services.

France maintains three intelligence organizations, all created by executive action without approval of the national assembly or senate.

In West Germany, the 1974 arrest of Guenter Guillaume, aide to Chancellor Willy Brandt, brought Brandt's resignation and exposed the security forces to intense public scrutiny. The German intelligence service, which like the CIA is limited to activities abroad, was found to be gathering dossiers on domestic politicians.

Dutch intelligence follows the world pattern of secrecy, even to its funding, but it is controlled by a permanent commission of parliament representing all the political parties with the exception of the Communists.

Some countries have only internal intelligence activities, but no foreign espionage, or very little. Malaysia is an example. So are Mexico, Poland, Belgium, Switzerland, Austria, and Norway, although all have effective internal security forces.

And one Japanese government official, asked about his nation's intelligence apparatus, said, "Ours are so tiny — just a pygmy among giants."

Change-Out In Water Meters

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — This city has just launched the largest, fastest water meter change-out program ever undertaken in the U.S. — and expects to save $1.8 million in doing so.

The change-out involves replacement of 80,000 meters in just two and a half years and constitutes the largest single meter order ever placed with Rockwell International Municipal and Utility Division.

The primary savings will come about through the installation of magnetic drive, sealed register water meters.

How Tar Heel Representatives, Senators Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON—Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Dec. 18 and 19, the days immediately preceding the holiday adjournment.

HOUSE
CONCORDE Adopted, 199 for and 188 against, an amendment banning for six months landings by the Concorde and other supersonic aircraft at all U.S. airports except Dulles International near Washington, D.C. The amendment was attached to HR 9771, which revises the 1970 Airport and Airway Development Act. The bill was passed, and cleared for Senate action after the holiday recess.

In 1971 Congress killed construction of an American-built SST on environmental grounds. Many of the same environmental issues were at stake in this vote.

Pending before the Administration is a request by France and Britain that the French-British Concorde be granted limited landing rights. The amendment was designed to slow, if not quash, this request.

One supporter, Rep. Norman Lent (R-N.Y.), said, "I do not believe that any reasonable person can read the environmental impact statement" without concluding that the Concorde is "a clear and active menace."

One opponent, Rep. Dale Milford (D-Tex.), criticized what he considered to be "hysteria surrounding the whole concept of commercial supersonic flight." He warned that the amendment would encourage France and Britain "to boycott American aviation products."

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L. H. Fountain, (D-2), David Henderson, (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Stephen Neal (D-5), Richardson Preyer (D-6), Charles Rose (D-7), W. G. Hefner (D-8), James Martin (R-9), James Broyhill (R-10) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "nay."

TRUCK WEIGHT Rejected, 139 for and 275 against, an amendment rolling back from 80,000 lb. to 73,280 lb. the maximum truck weight allowed on the Interstate Highway System. The higher weight limit took effect in early 1975.

The amendment was proposed to a bill (HR 8235) authorizing federal funds for highway construction and maintenance. HR 8235 was passed and sent to the Senate.

Supporters said the higher limit imperils public safety, and increases maintenance costs by wearing down highways quicker. They said the amendment would set a much-needed federal standard for states to follow.

Opponents said that in the interests of shipping efficiency and profitability truckers should be allowed the higher weight, especially since trucks have been slowed by the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit. They said also that the amendment would infringe upon the rights of numerous states which now adhere to an 80,000 lb. weight limit on intrastate highways.

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Rose, Hefner, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "nay."

TAX CUT VETO Voted, 256 for and 157 against, to override President Ford's veto of a bill (HR 5559) extending 1975 income tax reductions through the first half of 1976. The 265 "yeas" fell short of the two-thirds majority necessary to override.

Ford vetoed HR 5559 on grounds that any loss of federal revenue through reduced taxes should be balanced by a comparable cut in federal spending, in the form of a ceiling on outlays.

After sustaining the veto, Congress passed and cleared for the White House a similar tax reduction containing a non-binding pledge to reduce federal spending. Ford signed that measure, thus extending 1975 income tax cuts through June 30, 1976.

One supporter, Rep. Al Ullman (D-Ore.), said 1976 tax reductions had to be adopted before the holiday adjournment, to prevent withholding rates from rising on Jan. 1. He added: "To permit such a tax increase at this time would be to risk economic disaster."

One opponent, Rep. Pierre du Pont (R-Del.), criticized HR 5559 as economically unsound. He said: "If we cut taxes without matching those cuts with spending cuts, we will, in effect, be borrowing money to pay for the tax cuts. He added that federal borrowing fuels inflation and thus cancels the benefit of lower taxes."

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Rose, Hefner, and Taylor voted "yea." Martin and Broyhill voted "nay."

SENATE
ANGOLA Adopted, 54 for and 22 against, an amendment barring new funds to aid anti-Communist factions in Angola. At issue was an Administration-requested authorization of $28 million, to fund continuation of CIA activities offsetting Soviet and Cuban intervention in the Angolan civil war.

The amendment was proposed to a bill (HR 9861) authorizing $112.3 billion for U.S. defense purposes through Sept. 3, 1976. HR 9861 was later passed and sent to the House, where it will not be acted upon until after the holiday adjournment.

Supporters warned against a Vietnam-type plunge into internal Angola affairs. They also criticized any U.S. alignment with South Africa, which is also aiding anti-Communist forces in Angola. Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) said the amendment would encourage Administration negotiations to "get the Soviets out, get the Cubans out, (and) get the South Africans out."

Opponents advanced the Administration's view that the U.S. must not curtail its present efforts to oppose Soviet and Cuban intervention in Angola. Sen. Robert Griffin (R-Mich.) criticized the amendment as "an unfortunate, irresponsible action."

Sen. Jesse Helms (R) voted "yea." Sen. Robert Morgan (D) voted "nay."

RAIL AID Adopted, 51 for and 29 against, the conference report on a bill (S 2718) authorizing $7 billion for a variety of programs to revitalize the nation's railroads. The measure would, in part, help to salvage several bankrupt railroads, phase out lightly-used lines, diminish the Interstate Commerce Commission's authority over freight rates, and improve passenger service in the Washington — Boston East Coast corridor.

The measure was later passed by the House and sent to the White House, where President Ford was set to veto it for being too costly.

One supporter, Sen. Lowell Weicker (R-Conn.), said the bill would "take the railroads off the orphan list and welcome them into the (nation's) transportation family." Sen. Vance Hartke (D-Ind.) called S 2718 the most significant piece of rail legislation since 1920.

One opponent, Sen. Howard Baker (R-Tenn.), expressed President Ford's view that not enough fat had been trimmed during the House-Senate conference. For example, he cited the $2.4 billion loan authorization to improve Washington — Boston passenger service as an "unjustified luxury." Helms and Morgan voted "nay."

Jimmy Olson, A Culture Hero

By VICTORIA GRAHAM
 Associated Press Writer

Last fall in Tiffany's, someone recognized the dapper Larson as the actor who played the overeager, scrape-prone copyboy, Jimmy Olson in the 1950s television series "Superman." He was surrounded by autograph seekers whose children watch daily television reruns of the Man of Steel.

"The attention was for Superman and Jimmy Olson, not my poems or plays," admits the 41-year-old Larson who filmed his last "Superman" episode in 1960 and launched a serious career of playwrighting.

"I don't mind talking about those days. It was great fun," says the slightly graying Larson, sitting in his room at the Chelsea Hotel, New York nexus for artists and writers.

"But please, go easy on Jimmy Olson," laughs the compact, energetic Larson, adjusting his brown velvet suit and heading for the Martha Graham anniversary gala.

His latest major work is the libretto for Virgil Thompson's opera, "Lord Byron," just published by Southern-Peer Music Co.

Next season the Geoffrey Ballet will perform Larson's dramatic poem, "Orpheus Times Light Squared." Last season a small scandal erupted over the choreography of his poem, "The Relativity of Icarus," when some critics said it was an erotic ballet.

He has written numerous one-act plays and two well-received full-length plays in rhymed verse, "The Candied House" and "Cherry, Larry, Sandy, Doris, Jean, Paul."

Larson, a bachelor, lives in Los Angeles in a Frank Lloyd Wright home, enjoys skiing and divides his time in Switzerland between long mornings of writing and long afternoons on the slopes.

"I always wrote, from the time I was 15," Larson says, "but at first I didn't think I could earn my living writing." He was discovered by a talent scout as he was costarring in his own play, "Balguna Del Mar," about college students Easter week escapades in Balboa and Laguna, Calif.

Then for eight years he was Jimmy Olson in the early days of television.

"I was told 'Superman' wouldn't amount to anything, and I might as well do it and take the money," he recalls.

Larson never made much from his contract, sometimes $250 a week, or from small residuals which have run out.

"After Superman I quit acting and took up the life of a playwright in New York." He received grants and commissions for work. At one time he was reluctant to discuss his Superman days for fear it would jeopardize his grant-income.

"But I don't mind it now," Larson says. "I used to idolize silent film comics like Buster Keaton. Now we've become mythical figures like the people I admired so."

Airport Tax Is Among Highest

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — Colombia has one of the highest airport exit taxes in the world. Travelers leaving Bogota via Eldorado international airport must pay 700 pesos (about $22.50), but foreign tourists may apply for a partial exemption at the tax office downtown.

With the appropriate exemption, tourists pay only about $6.50.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks bounced upward today in buying credited to hopes that the market would start off the new year on a strong footing.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average if 30 industrials was up 3.38 at 855.79, and gainers out-distanced losers by about a 2-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Trading was fairly active. Brokers noted no particular news developments to account for the market's rebound from its mild decline Tuesday.

They said activity was dominated by last-minute tax maneuvering and portfolio adjustments by investing institutions getting ready to make their yearend reports.

In the midst of that churning, they said, it looked as though some traders were buying in the hope of riding the market upward once the pressure of yearend tax selling was removed from it.

Ryder System was the most active issue on the Big Board, up 1/2 at 9 3/4 in trading that included several medium-sized blocks.

Glamor issues posted some moderate gains, with IBM, up 1 1/2 at 224 3/4, setting the pace.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed stocks gained .16 to 47.53 in the first hour.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .27 at 82.73.

Syntax, the Amex volume leader, showed a 3/4 gain at 30.

Conveners...

(Continued from page 1) set will be used by the Board in its by-laws, which it will make up as soon as it is chosen. It was pointed out that the convener group will be defunct once the Board is chosen.

Lucas told the audience the convener group has "no preconceived notions about any aspect" of the Board's make-up. He said the purpose of the public hearings held Monday and Tuesday nights were to "solicit comments and suggestions and ideas that you (the public) may have concerning the development of the board."

In addition to Renn, the conveners heard from H.O. Capps, chairman of the Currituck County Board of Commissioners. Capps said the Currituck County Commissioners favor a Board of 30-45 members over a larger Board. He said they also feel that "every county should have a representative."

Also appearing before the conveners was Phil Calhoun, director of human resources for Duplin County. He said he is "concerned about precedent" in choosing the Board. "We must have a method for 'turning the rascals out,'" Calhoun said, if the board is not responsible to the public.

He asked that the conveners "set a precedent such that it will be responsible to the elective process. We want our elected officials to join in the selection" of Board members.

Lucas announced that the convener group will meet again January 2, at 7:30. The meeting will be held at the Willis Building on the corner of First and Reade Streets.

VACATION'S END

HILO, Hawaii (AP) — Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller and his family have ended an 11-day Hawaii vacation and were scheduled to arrive home in New York today.

Seeking Directory Ruling's Reversal

RALEIGH (AP)—Partly as the result of objections by the blind and other disabled persons, Atty. Gen. Rufus Edmisten today asked the state Utilities Commission to reconsider its decision allowing Southern Bell Telephone Co. to impose a charge of 20 cents for directory assistance calls in excess of five per month.

The charge brought heated objections from many blind and disabled persons in the state. They contended the charge placed an undue burden on them since directory assistance is the only way they have to find telephone numbers.

The attorney general's office argued that the Utilities Commission erred in finding that "charging for directory assistance is an appropriate means of requiring those subscribers who use the local directory assistance service to pay a portion of the costs incurred to provide the service." It said evidence provided by Southern Bell indicates the cost of the directory assistance service is only 12 cents a call.

The attorney general's office also contended that exempting the blind, mentally and physically impaired persons from the directory assistance charge is not discriminatory since the law provides that "No public utility shall as to rates or services, make or grant any unreasonable preference or advantage to any person or subject any person to any unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage." It said in fact this law seems to show that blind, physically and mentally handicapped people are subject to unreasonable disadvantage by the commission order.

Record Yields

ATLANTA (AP)—Most crops in the South are expected to show record yields when final figures are in for 1975, the 6th Federal Reserve Bank says.

Record production is indicated for corn, soybeans, tobacco, grain sorghum, sugar cane and rice.

Economist Gene D. Sullivan said Tuesday only cotton production will show a decline.

Nevertheless, higher production will not result in higher gross income because of price declines, Sullivan said.

"On balance, crop farmers' incomes will still be unusually high by historical standards," he said.

Corn production is up 9 per cent, sugar cane is up about 18 per cent and soybean production should be up about 20 per cent, the economist said.

He said the South's pecan crop should regain some ground lost in last year's sharp decline.

The order was sought by the News and Observer Publishing Co. after the board met privately to select a new member to fill a vacancy.

Board Ordered

RALEIGH (AP)—Superior Court Judge James H. Pou Bailey has ordered the Wake County Board of Education to observe the state's open meeting law.

Bailey's temporary restraining order requires the board to give 48 hours' notice of all meetings and to hold all meetings in public.

The order was sought by the News and Observer Publishing Co. after the board met privately to select a new member to fill a vacancy.

Fighting Curse Of Loneliness

BREMERTON, Wash. (AP) — Widow Dorothy Fletcher has set up an organization to help combat what she says is "one disease we can cure" — loneliness.

The mother of seven children and founder of "Loneliness Anonymous" puts out a monthly newsletter to help single people find each other. She advertises for lonely people in the personal column of a local newspaper and then, for $10, places a brief description of any respondents in her newsletter.

Lady Bears Are Looking Ahead

By TOM FOREMAN JR.
Reflector Staff Writer

It seems that all the troubles of Bear Grass basketball runs in twos. If the boys are having problems, the girls are suffering the same way.

Boys' coach Jerry Rogerson complained that his team's lack of height accounted for their poor showing up to this point. Girls' coach Churchill Briley says that the lack of height with his girls has kept them from reaching a better standing than 4-4. Foul, indirectly, has been a burden of the girls teams as well, in that they have not been able to benefit from the other team's fouling where it counts the most—at the free throw line.

"We spend a half-hour each day at the end of practice working on free throws," Briley said. As of yet, their labors have turned in only minimal success, with the best free throw shooter on the team averaging 65 per cent.

Despite the .500 record, Briley thinks he will be in the thick of the conference race. Leading his team is sophomore Patricia Taylor, averaging 18 points per contest. Following her is Janice Holliday at 11 points, and Lou Rawls at seven points. Rounding out the top five are Donita Harden and Kay Rawls.

Briley does not get much of a chance to go to his bench, primarily because the team is steeped in youth. Most of the talent this year will return for next year's schedule, and with conference competition being so tight, Briley doesn't have the time to look at some of his younger players yet. He says that next year, most of them will get to see a lot more time.

The two players that do come off the bench are Debra Jo Peaks and Darlene Rogerson.

Briley is hoping several of his players will come around this year to give him a shot at the title. "I feel we can compete with everyone. We are lucky to beat Chocowinity," Briley noted. His stiffest combat this year will come from Belhaven, a team he has scouted but has not seen himself.

"They're our first game after the Christmas holidays. They are a real strong ballclub, and have indicated they have some good players." One of those players for Belhaven is averaging nearly 20 points per game, and is described by Briley as "real quick."

Size, the factor which plagues the boys team, hurts the girls team as well, but Briley believes he can cope with the problem with the proper adjustments. Officiating, he thinks, has improved over last season.

"I haven't had a ballgame all year where I've thought the officiating was bad." But it will take more than good officiating to keep the Lady Bears above .500, a goal they haven't attained in many seasons. If Briley can shake off the similarities between his ballclub and the boys team, the season will be indeed brighter.

WINTER PARK, Fla.—East Carolina University rebounded from what Coach Dave Patton called the "worst effort of the year," to play one of its best games last night, nipping Marshall University, 70-67.

The Pirates, who led throughout most of the second half, sprinted out to a 10-point lead with just over two minutes to go, but the Thundering Herd's pressure defense, along with some questionable calls, allowed Marshall to put on a comeback that gave them the opportunity to tie it up with eight seconds left.

At that point, the Herd's Pete Polo went to the line with a one-and-one with the Bucs leading only 69-67, but missed on his first try. On the ensuing battle for the rebound, Reggie Lee came away with the ball, and was immediately fouled. He hit one of the two shots, providing the final margin with two seconds left to play.

The win was a satisfying one for the Pirates, who looked as if they had wandered into the Tangerine Bowl Tournament by mistake on Monday night when co-host Rollins College romped to a 96-73 win over them. Marshall fell to the other co-host Stetson, to set up the consolation meeting. Rollins gained a 54-51 overtime win over Stetson for the title.

East Carolina still had some shooting problems, hitting only 42 per cent from the field. But they played a much-improved defense, limiting Marshall to only 32 per cent, including a 22.7 percentage in the second half. Marshall stayed in the game only through their fine free throw shooting, hitting 18 of 20 shots in the second half. That included eight of nine in the final two minutes of play, allowing them to make their comeback.

The Bucs held a slight 53-50 rebounding edge. Marshall's Earl Williams led the rebounding with 16 big pull-downs. Larry Hunt paced the Bucs with nine, while Earl Garner added eight.

"Our defense played much better," Patton said. "We played harder as a team. If we keep playing this way, we'll win our share."

The coach said that it was "great to see them come back this way after the way they played on Monday night. I said before the game that it wouldn't be a typical consolation game, and it wasn't. Both teams showed a lot of class and went at it hard. Both wanted to win."

"It was our best sustained effort and concentration this year. I think everyone played well. We didn't handle the ball too well at times, especially right at the end, but everything came out okay." East Carolina had 22 turnovers to 17 by Marshall.

After Wade Henkel hit on a drive. A few minutes later, Polo hit off a rebound and Ken Hurst hit a jumper to run the lead out to 23-16 and it looked at that time like Marshall might turn it into a rout.

But the Bucs eased back, with Lee and Louis Crosby each getting baskets. After another Herd bucket, Ty Edwards and Billy Dineen each hit to trim the lead to 25-24. Marshall held on, however, and took a 33-30 lead into the dressing room.

Al Edwards sparked an early second half surge that sent the Pirates into the lead. After Edwards' first bucket, Marshall got a three point play, but Edwards followed with another shot and Lee made a free throw. Earl Garner's jumper then put the Bucs up, 37-36, and they never trailed again.

A free throw and a basket by Edwards ran the margin to four, 40-36.

Marshall stayed with the Pirates, however, tying it at 46-46 and 48-48. Buzzy Braman made two free throws, followed by a basket off the fast break by Crosby. Braman then hit another shot, running the lead out to 54-48. Marshall cut it back to three, 54-53, and again at 56-55, but with 4:54 left, the Bucs started a string that ran them out to a 10-point bulge.

Hunt started it off with two free throws and Garner hit a

Big Four Blood Ready To Flow

By The Associated Press

The stage is set for this weekend's annual bloodletting known as the North Carolina Big Four basketball tournament.

Three of the teams are undefeated. They are Wake Forest, which has won eight games, North Carolina State seven and North Carolina six. And the other team, Duke, has won six and lost only by 86-80 to Tennessee, which is ranked 12th nationally.

The three other Atlantic Coast Conference teams also have winning records. Maryland, ranked No. 2 nationally after Indiana, is 9-0. Clemson is 8-2 and Virginia 4-2.

ACC teams have won 48 games while losing only five this season.

The teams are idle tonight and Thursday night.

On Friday, Biscayne will be at Clemson and the Big Four Tournament will start in the Greensboro, N.C., Coliseum. North Carolina State, No. 9 nationally, will meet Duke in the first game. And then North Carolina, third nationally, will play Wake Forest to complete the opening doubleheader. The consolation and championship game will be played Saturday night.

Also on Saturday, Maryland will be home to Long Island, and Virginia will play VMI at Roanoke, Va.

Maryland and Clemson won tournaments Tuesday night, and Wake Forest and Duke beat clubs from New England that had come to the warmer South for the Christmas-New Year's holiday.

Maryland won its own Invitational, 66-59 over Princeton, shaking off the Tigers in the final two minutes.

Clemson won the Charlotte Invitational 72-54 over host Davidson.

Slowdown Fails To Halt Maryland String

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Pete Carril would love to play "Beat The Clock," but his players are much too slow for that. So he plays "Stall The Clock" instead.

"We did what we could," the Princeton coach said after trying to slow down Maryland's second-ranked smoothies Tuesday night in the Maryland Invitational Tournament.

Maryland's jet-setters streaked by the deliberate Tigers 66-59 to win the tournament and further enhance their lofty position in the college basketball polls.

Lefty Driesell, whose fast-moving Terps usually hit astronomical figures, was resigned to a low score because of Princeton's relatively quiet offense.

In a consolation game of the Maryland tourney, eighth-ranked Alabama swamped Seton Hall 100-64.

Maryland wasn't the only hometown winner in tournaments Tuesday night. UCLA claimed the championship of its own Bruin Classic by beating Purdue 99-86; No. 6 Marquette won the Milwaukee Classic with an 82-66 victory over co-host Wisconsin; 10th-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas wrapped up its Holiday Classic with a 108-94 triumph over 17th-ranked Michigan and 13th-ranked Washington blitzed Texas Tech 83-61 for the championship of the Far West Classic.

Elsewhere, 14th-ranked Rutgers beat Georgia Tech 94-87 in the championship game of the Poinsetta Classic; Long Island University surprised Centenary 80-78 in the finals of the All-College tournament; Missouri won the Big Eight Tourney with a 79-69 decision over Kansas; California took the Lobo Invitational with an 82-68 decision over West Virginia and Brigham Young won the Old Dominion Classic by beating Old Dominion 80-77.

Clemson stopped Davidson 72-54 to win the Charlotte Invitational; Southern Cal won the Rainbow Classic with an 81-73 triumph over Iowa; Louisiana Tech turned back Northeast Louisiana 76-63 to win the Pacemaker Classic; Idaho State took the Indiana Hall of Fame Classic by whipping Indiana State 76-74 in double overtime; Virginia Commonwealth turned back Michigan State 80-75 for the championship of the VCU Classic; South Alabama defeated Mississippi 70-54 in the finals of the Senior Bowl Tournament and Utah took the Kodak Classic with a 91-89 decision over Canisius.

In other games, No. 18 Kentucky upset No. 5 Notre Dame 79-77; 19th-ranked San Francisco whipped Los Angeles State 99-84 and DePaul stunned 20th-ranked LSU 70-67.

Two free throws by Mo Howard and another by John Lucas, all in the same play, helped Maryland shake off Princeton. The Terps, 9-0, led 53-48 when Howard was fouled by Armond Hill near midcourt.

Carril was incensed because Hill had fouled out, and drew a technical foul. Howard made both of his free throws and then Lucas added the technical foul shot to make it 56-48. The Terps built the lead to 61-50 before squandering part of it in the final minute on turnovers.

Richard Washington poured in a career-high 33 points to pace UCLA over Purdue. Washington was joined by Jim Spillane, who shattered Purdue's zone defense with an assortment of jumpers that accounted for 17 points.

Bo Ellis and Butch Lee each scored 20 points to lead Marquette's runaway conquest of Wisconsin. Eddie Owens scored 32 points and Robert Smith added 20 as Nevada-Las Vegas beat Michigan.

Washington beat Texas Tech as James Edwards scored 26 points and Clarence Ramsey 21.

Mike Dabney connected for 30 points to lead Rutgers past Georgia Tech. Earl McCain hit a five-foot jumper with five seconds to give LIU's surprising Blackbirds their triumph in the All-College tourney. Willie Smith scored 27 points to lead Missouri over Kansas.

California got 16 points from Carl Bird and shot 63 per cent as a team to beat West Virginia. A free throw by Steve Craig and two foul shots by Troy Jones in the final minute gave Brigham Young its victory over Old Dominion. David Brown and Colon Abraham each scored 14 points to lead Clemson's victory over Davidson.

Louisiana Tech won the Pacemaker on two late free throws by Jim Woolridge. Ed Thompson's two free throws with 29 seconds left in double overtime propelled Idaho State over Indiana State. Virginia Commonwealth defeated Michigan State behind a 19-point performance by Gerald Henderson. Albert Gardner totaled 23 points, triggering South Alabama over Mississippi. Jeff Judkins' 25 points powered Utah past Canisius.

Rick Robey's tip-in after a missed free throw with two minutes left gave Kentucky its tense victory over Notre Dame. Bill Cartwright poured in 27 points, boosting San Francisco over Los Angeles State. DePaul's Ron Norwood scored 29 points to lead the Blue Demons past LSU.

Two Gain Rec Finals

Coca-Cola and the Davis Wildcats moved into the finals of the Adult Pre-season Basketball Tournament finals last night. The two will meet tonight at 7 p.m. at Elm Street Gym for the championship.

Regular league play will get underway Monday.

In the opening game, Coke rolled to a 77-49 victory over the Henrahan Hawks. The going was tight in the first half, as Coke held only a 28-27 lead at intermission. But Coke blew it out in the second half with a 49-22 margin over the Hawks.

Albert Holloman led Coke with 29 points, while Robert Carraway added 14 and Dennis Wilkerson hit 12. Phil Duffy led the Hawks with 11, while Mike Jackson and Allen Jackson each had 10.

The Wildcats gained a 52-46 victory over the Moose with an opening surge at the start of the second half. Down, 21-19 to the Moose at the half, the 'Cats scored 18 straight points at the start of the second half to take command. They outlit the Moose, 33-25, during the half.

Larry Worthington led the 'Cats with 23 points. Bobby Parker and Randy Eason each had 11 for the Moose.

Two Panthers Claim Titles

MOREHEAD CITY — North Pitt's wrestlers captured two firsts in the West Cartaret High School Invitational Wrestling Tournament yesterday.

The Panthers, who carried only seven wrestlers to the eight team event, finished in fifth place with 64½ points. West Cartaret won the title, while Havelock finished second.

Winning titles were Randy Tyler at 134-pounds, and Aubrey Wynne at 147. The Panthers also took a second, a third, and a fourth, to place five of the seven men.

The Panthers return to action on Wednesday, January 6, traveling to meet D. H. Conley. Summary:

100: Charles Barker lost on a pin to Harvey of Kingston.

107: Clay Pilgreen was decided by Colver of Kingston, 13-5.

114: Charles Brown pinned Writsel of Havelock; was pinned by Chesson of Plymouth, and pinned Davis of East Cartaret for third place.

121: Bobby Clemons pinned Parker of East Cartaret; pinned Brumley of Northeastern; and was decided, 5-0, by Stone of West Cartaret for second place.

134: Randy Tyler decided Johnson of Kingston, 22-0; decided Cottle of New Bern, 9-8; and decided Hall of Northeastern, 18-8, for first place.

147: Aubrey Wynne pinned Harding of Havelock; pinned Carter of Northeastern; and Young of Plymouth for first place.

Heavyweight: Ricky Stokes decided Willis of East Cartaret, 1-0 in overtime; was pinned by Wooten of Kingston; and was decided by Murphy of Havelock, 6-5, for fourth place.

Little Consolation As Southern Takes Three Consolation Titles

By The Associated Press
Not that it's much consolation, but the Southern Conference may be able to claim as many consolation titles as anybody in holiday basketball tournament action.

Conference teams finished third Tuesday night in three tournaments, but Davidson's Wildcats were turned back in their bid to take home the only championship, dropping a 72-54 decision to Clemson in the finals of the Charlotte Invitational.

Virginia Military's Keydets, East Carolina's Pirates and Furman's Paladins all won preliminaries to title games, Furman at the expense of another league team, The Citadel's Bulldogs.

The Keydets, 7-2, trounced

Pacific 72-58 in the Hall of Fame Classic at Terre Haute, Ind.; the Pirates, 4-5, edged Marshall 70-67 in the Tangerine Bowl; and Furman, 2-5, squeezed out a 72-70 overtime victory over The Citadel, 2-6, in the Poinsettia Classic.

It was the final action for conference teams until The Citadel goes to East Carolina for a league scrap Friday night. Five more clubs will be in action Saturday night in non-league games.

David Brown and Colon Abraham scored 14 points each as Clemson of the Atlantic Coast Conference put five players in double figures in beating host Davidson, 3-6, at Charlotte. Bruce Harman added 12 points for the Tigers, 8-2.

Clemson built a 13-point lead at intermission and Davidson never got closer than nine points in the second half. John Gerdy had 15 points and Jay Powell 12 for the Wildcats.

Ricky Day's layup for The Citadel with three seconds left sent the Bulldogs into overtime against Furman, but the Paladins took an 86-80 lead in the extra period and remained in front.

Craig Lynch had 25 points and Jim Strickland 21 points and 14 rebounds for the Paladins. Junior Rod McKeever scored a tourney record 38 points for The Citadel. The title was won by 15th-ranked Rutgers with a 94-87 decision over Georgia Tech.

East Carolina overcame a 33-30 halftime deficit against Marshall in the third-place game in the Tangerine Bowl, won by Rolins 54-51 over Stetson in overtime. Earl Garner had 13 points, Buzzy Braman and Reggie Lee 12 each and Al Edwards 11 for the Pirates.

Hitting their first nine shots from the floor, VMI's Keydets took a 22-12 lead over Pacific and remained in front the rest of the way in the Hall of Fame Classic, in which Idaho State was the champion with a 76-74 squeeze past Indiana State in double overtime.

Ron Carter had 22 points and John Krovic 17 for the Keydets, off to their best start since 1920-21.

"We shot well early and forced them out of that big zone," said VMI Coach Bill Blair, who thought the Keydets were hurt by a layoff between Dec. 13 and Monday night's 88-60 whipping by Indiana State.

"Had we played a game before this week, we might have won this thing," said Blair.

Arkansas Is Very Confident

DALLAS (AP) — "When someone tells you right out that they're going to beat you," confessed Georgia quarterback Matt Robinson, "then it becomes a personal challenge."

"It's really amazing that a team should have that much confidence," added teammate Ben Zambiasi, a linebacker, also touching on perhaps the most unique aspect of the 40th Cotton Bowl.

"I guess those comments will help us get up. We've been underdogs all year long."

He and Robinson spoke out in response to declarations of near invincibility by their New Year's Day foe, the supremely confident Arkansas Razorbacks.

Bruins Shoot For Revenge

By GEORGE STRODE
AP Sports Writer
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — UCLA has a date with history Thursday when the Bruins shoot for an avenging, upsetting Rose Bowl football victory over top-ranked Ohio State.

The Pacific-8 Conference co-champions have not appeared in the New Year's Day granddaddy of bowls since 1966. That was the year the Bruins fell 13-3 to Michigan State in the season's opener, then stunned the national champion Spartans 14-12 in the Rose Bowl.

The stage is set for a historical repeat. The unbeaten Buckeyes face the task of handling the Bruins a second time after thrashing them 41-20 in the fourth game of the season.

A sellout throng of more than 106,000 as well as millions more via television (NBC-TV, 5 p.m. EST) will see if the Bruins, twice beaten and once tied in 11 games, can sever Ohio State's 11-game winning spell.

Old history buff Woody Hayes, the Buckeyes' crusty 62-year-old coach, downplays the importance of UCLA's accomplishment a decade ago.

"I'll bet our kids can't name one player on the Rose Bowl teams of 1966," said Hayes. "Football players are very un-historical."

Dick Vermeil, 39, UCLA's second-year man, thinks it's much more important that the Bruins have not appeared in the spectacle in 10 seasons. "I'm as enthusiastic as my kids. We had to tone them down at our first Rose Bowl practice they were so excited," said Vermeil, the architect of the Bruins' nationally third-ranked total offense.

Hayes sees no complacency from his squad, appearing in its fourth straight Rose Bowl to

Sooners' Connection

MIAMI (AP) — Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer, his tongue firmly planted in his cheek, says he has one big advantage over Michigan in the Orange Bowl football game Thursday night.

"I think (senior quarterback) Steve Davis being an ordained Baptist minister gives us a connection — the pipeline he's got," said Switzer, his eyes rolling toward the heavens during Tuesday's coaches' luncheon.

Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler, who'll have freshman Rick Leach leading the Wolverines, confirmed: "He's (Leach) not only giving up three years of experience, but divine right."

"I don't know if any other freshman quarterback has been able to take a team into a game like the Orange Bowl," added Schembechler in a more serious vein. Leach led Michigan to an average of almost 29 points a game, but both coaches indicated Michigan's defense was the key.

"We believe in defense because we think you can win defensively easier than you can offensively," said Schembechler, whose 8-1-2 Wolverines have allowed only 215 yards and 10.5 points a game.

"This is the finest defense, regardless of size, we've ever played against at Oklahoma," said Switzer of Michigan's smaller defenders.

Both coaches praised the matchup, with Schembechler saying: "We may have lost the conference...but we darn sure won the opponent."

Michigan, ranked fifth, got into the game after losing the Big Ten title 21-14 to Ohio State. The victory put No. 1 Ohio State in the Rose Bowl against UCLA, a team it beat 41-20 in the regular season.

tie a record by Southern California's teams of 1967-70.

"They're playing for a national championship. That should be plenty of motivation. This squad is more mature, a little quicker than last year," said Hayes, the fourth winningest coach of all-time.

The Buckeyes, playing in the Rose Bowl for the sixth time in eight years, dropped an 18-17 loss to Southern California in their last appearance Jan. 1.

Ohio State was pressed only once in 11 regular season victories by Michigan in the final game. The Buckeyes limited opponents to seven points a game, averaging 34 points and 400 yards themselves.

UCLA's attack rolled up 432 yards a game, but sputtered for 276 against Ohio State.

John Sciarra, the Bruins' All-American quarterback, gained nothing in 14 rushes and hit only 7 of 16 passes in the first meeting with the Buckeyes. The senior signal-caller accounted for 1,907 yards this season.

Just as Sciarra is the vital link in the Bruins' attack, so is quarterback Cornelius Greene for the Big Ten Conference titleholders.

The lithe, fleet-footed senior has run for 29 touchdowns and passed for 17 more in his three-year starting career with the Buckeyes.

Greene, the 1974 Most Valuable Player in the Rose Bowl, was accorded the same honor in the Big Ten this season over his more heralded teammate Archie Griffin, the lone two-time Heisman Trophy winner.

Michigan, ranked fifth, got into the game after losing the Big Ten title 21-14 to Ohio State. The victory put No. 1 Ohio State in the Rose Bowl against UCLA, a team it beat 41-20 in the regular season.

Very Likely Rozelle Rule Case Is Not Finished; Appeal Is Next

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A ruling that the National Football League's Rozelle Rule violates antitrust laws appeared headed for higher courts today as debate raged over whether the decision will wreck professional sports.

Judge Earl Larson of U.S. District Court ruled Tuesday that elimination of the rule binding a player to one team would not harm the NFL's competitive balance or quality of play.

The ruling said in effect that the NFL cannot restrict players from selling their services in a free and open market.

Larson ordered the NFL and its 26 teams to cease enforcing the rule, but imposition of the judgment was stayed to give the league an opportunity to appeal.

Judge Larson's ruling came nearly six months after completion of a trial in a suit brought by former Baltimore Colts player John Mackey and 14 current and former NFL players.

Before NFL officials in New York asked club owners not to comment on the decision, President Max Winter of the Minnesota Vikings said he was positive there will be an appeal "as soon as our lawyers have studied it."

And Dallas Cowboys president and general manager, Tex Schramm, said he "anticipated the case would be appealed and the final judgment would be made by the Supreme Court, if necessary. What action follows from this point obviously is a matter for the league's general counsel."

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, after whom the rule is named, confirmed that league attorneys were studying the matter, and no decision on an appeal would be made until their findings were known.

Rozelle said he was "disappointed" with the ruling. Winter said he was "absolutely astonished," and Schramm added, "Obviously, I am disappointed."

But in Los Angeles, the reaction to the ruling from Mackey was quite the opposite. "Oh, am I feeling good, we won, it's likewinning the Super Bowl," the former All-Pro said.

"This isn't only a victory for football players. This is a victory for every man in America. Everyone has scored a touchdown."

Mackey said the ruling should have a positive effect on players' dealings with club owners.

"I'm not saying all owners are bad. They're not. There are some fine ones," he said. "But it's going to make those owners who are bad, who haven't learned how to treat players properly, treat them with respect. It will not give the players a little edge, make owners treat them with respect and dignity."

The first step in taking the issue to the Supreme Court would be an appeal to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis. That would give the NFL a chance for a delaying action to decide on how it will ultimately meet the situation.

Ed Garvey, NFL Players Association executive director, saw no major disruption of the league nor widespread movement of players.

By and large, people don't want to move. They want to stay where they are, because they are married or have kids in school, Garvey said in Washington.

Knicks Glad Of Confidence

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer
Coach Red Holzman says it's a matter of confidence. His players talk about things like intensity and movement on the court, or intangibles like positive thinking and team unity.

Whatever it is, the New York Knicks are glad they've found it.

76ers 114, Pistons 108
Steve Mix, who has stepped in for the injured Billy Cunningham, celebrated his 28th birthday with a season-high 28 points for Philadelphia, hitting eight of 12 from the field and all 12 free throw tries. Guards Doug Collins and Fred Carter added 26 points apiece and George McGinnis had 22.

After stumbling to an 8-19 start, the Knicks have turned their season around. Tuesday night's 114-88 rout of the Phoenix Suns was the Knicks' sixth consecutive National Basketball Association triumph and eighth in the last nine games.

Earl Monroe, playing brilliantly during the Knicks' surge, dazzled the Suns with 27 points over the first three periods to help the Knicks build a 25-point lead, then sat out nearly the entire fourth quarter.

Elsewhere in the NBA Tuesday night, the Golden State Warriors whipped the Boston Celtics 133-101, the Philadelphia 76ers beat the Detroit Pistons 114-108, the Cleveland Cavaliers edged the Kansas City Kings 110-106, the Buffalo Braves topped the Milwaukee Bucks 118-106, the Washington Bullets trounced the Chicago Bulls 96-81 and the Seattle SuperSonics topped the Los Angeles Lakers 112-100.

The Knicks shot 51.3 per cent from the field and outscored Phoenix 26-16 from the free throw line. About the only bright ray for the Suns was reserve forward John Sumate, who had 21 points and 11 rebounds in just 24 minutes.

Warriors 133, Celtics 101
Rick Barry scored 25 points, 18 of them in the first half, as the Warriors rolled up their highest point total of the season. They led 65-46 at the half and 106-69 after three periods in the stunningly one-sided game.

Cavaliers 110, Kings 106
Campy Russell poured in a career-high 35 points, including two clutch free throws with 25 seconds remaining, as the Cavs posted their 10th victory in the last 11 games and dealt the sagging Kings their 10th consecutive loss.

Braves 118, Bucks 106
Bob McAdoo, back in high gear for the Braves after his brief suspension one week ago, tossed in 40 points, grabbed 11 rebounds and handed out eight assists.

Bullets 96, Bulls 81
Phil Chenier hit 17 of his 25 points in the second half for the Bullets, who led by 20 points in the third period and turned back a mild Chicago rally as the Bulls' record dropped to 8-24.

Sonics 112, Lakers 100
Fred Brown netted 34 points and Tom Burleson 22 for Seattle, which took advantage of 20 Los Angeles turnovers in the second half to erase a one-point halftime deficit.

Computer Provides Answers To Medical Questions

NEW YORK (AP) — The physician is puzzled because his patient has not responded to the new wonder drug as expected. What are other doctors doing in similar cases?

A young nursing student wants to find out why the elderly Chinese gentleman in her charge refuses to let her sponge-bathe him. Personal idiosyncrasy? His culture? Does she have bad breath?

How do you deal with a patient who has a phobia about rats, the psychiatrist wants to know. What's new in cancer detection by nuclear magnetic resonance?

What do all of these questions have in common? All were asked of reference librarians at Downstate Medical Center (State University of New York) in Brooklyn.

It may never replace him in the charm-and-charisma department, but when it comes to supplying information about the treatment of patients and research for the prevention and cure of disease, the library's computer terminal has Marcus Welby all beat.

About 250 times a month, the typewriter-like machine points the probing eyes of a central computer in Albany — known as the SUNY Biomedical Communications Network — toward the accumulated knowledge found in more than three million articles and books.

Somewhere in that mass of words may lie the answer. The trick is to find it.

"When you consider that the Downstate library alone receives 3,000 different periodicals — the National Library of Medicine, 18,000 — you realize how big the job is," says June G. Rosenberg, assistant librarian. Until about five years ago, anyone at the center who wanted to study the literature on a given subject would have to spend days, if not weeks, tediously picking through voluminous indexes for clues to the right article in the right journal, she explains.

With the help of the electronic bloodhound, however, the librarian can usually sniff out precisely the bit of information that doctors and other health professionals need to do a better job — and in minutes, Mrs. Rosenberg says.

The key to success? Asking the computer the right question. Mrs. Rosenberg and Robert J. Lord, the two reference librarians at the Brooklyn medical center, are trained to do "computer searches of data bases" to locate reports, articles, and books in print.

Merely asking for a bibliography on, say, the common cold is not nearly enough, Kenneth E. Moody, director of Downstate's library, explains. "If you insist on a single-heading search, the librarian may well answer, 'All right. But back your truck up to the door so we can load it up.'"

"Although we are now in the fourth generation of computers and they can do a lot of things," Moody says, "they're still quite stupid. You have to tell them exactly what to do."

Frequently, Mrs. Rosenberg says, the doctor gives the librarian a list of subject headings he's picked up from "Index Medicus," the reference bible for the medical profession. "But what we need," she says, "is a specific statement of what he wants. We look for the key words that will yield the precise information he's looking for."

One doctor who could not narrow down his subject headings had to cart off a bibliography that filled two large cartons; another, from a search covering only a six-month period, got references to 194 articles.

The quest for the right way to phrase the question so that the computer will track down the right answer leads both researcher and librarian through MESH, the Medical Subjects Term index. From this they develop a series of terms to either broaden or narrow the subject headings. Once the "search strategy" has been set, the librarian types the question into the terminal of the information retrieval system she has selected.

The Downstate library has computer terminals linked to the National Library of Medicine and to the DRACON (the data base of the National Clearing House on Drug Abuse and Alcoholism) as well as the SUNY Biomedical Communications Network. Through these services, the Downstate researcher has access to almost limitless nuggets of medical information. Data for the years 1973 to 1975 are stored for immediate retrieval, and it takes about 15 to 20 minutes from query to print-out. Requests for older information are relayed to the computer and stored for retrieval in the evening; the references are then either mailed or teletyped to the library.

"Obviously, the computer offers some dandy advantages over traditional methods of research," Moody points out. "One is speed. Another is greater accuracy. Sometimes, also, the computer brings together researchers studying different aspects of the same problem."

"Occasionally, the computer fails to turn up a single reference. This, believe it or not, may be a good sign," says Mrs. Rosenberg, "if the researcher is looking for an original research project worth its weight in grant money."

Once the reference material has been located, the librarian gets it into the researcher's hands so he can read it. There are 38 research institutions, medical schools, and governmental agencies in the SUNY network alone, and trying to locate the library with the needed material may lead the librarian on a merry chase across the nation and even the world. "We'll even go to Russia to arrange a transfer," Moody says. Interlibrary loans are arranged in writing, by telephone, or by teletype.

See Record In Paid Benefits

NEW YORK (UPI) — Benefits paid by insurance companies this year could top the record set last year. The Insurance Information Institute says through the first six months of 1975 the companies distributed $11 billion in benefits within the United States, up $700 million from the first six months last year when total benefits were $21.5 billion.

Variation In Bread Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A loaf of white bread cost 53 cents a pound in Washington this year, compared with 73 cents in Paris, but only 41 cents in Rome, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture. These figures are from a new booklet, "Food Prices Here and Abroad." Single copies are free from Room 459-A, Office of Communication, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Quartz-Watches In Big Demand

NEW YORK (UPI) — Quartz watches constitute the fastest-growing segment of the watch market today, according to Seiko Time Corporation.

These highly accurate timepieces are run by a small, scientifically aged quartz crystal oscillating at many thousands of times per second, micro-miniature circuitry and a tiny micro-step motor which translates these oscillations into constant one per second impulses.

Bloody Civil War Battle Was Fought 113 Years Ago Today

By DOUG STONE
Associated Press Writer
MURFREESBORO, Tenn. (AP)—A Yankee bugler struck up his song, a Confederate answered from the other side with a horn and the soldiers sang till dawn, then tried to kill each other. It was 113 years ago today.

To mark a unique and bloody battle of the Civil War, the cannons again have been firing this week at the Stones River National Battlefield, which is preparing a series of Bicentennial events.

The historic Dec. 31, 1862, battle was preceded by the encampment of a Wisconsin unit—1st Brigade Band, 3rd Division, 15th U.S. Army Corps—along the banks of the river.

Confederate forces were deployed on the opposite side to engage the Union detachment, composed more of musicians than infantrymen.

In one of those quirks of war, the two sides tried to outplay and outsing each other before the dawn crescendo in which cannons and rifles ended the song, leaving 23,000 men either killed or wounded in the snow.

To mark the moment in history, sometimes labeled the Battle of the Bands, a reorganized 1st Brigade Band of civilians from Milwaukee, Wis., has re-enacted the battle.

Events leading up to today's anniversary also have included the dispensing of the kind of K-rations troops ate back then and the firing of such weapons from the past as a 12-pound Napoleon cannon.

Antique instruments salvaged from the period are being demonstrated along with lessons on civil war military music.

The original band instruments of the time have little resemblance to modern musical instruments. The antique horns were designed to face backward over the shoulder of the bandsman so troops marching in his wake could hear the sound. The last of the instruments were made in 1865.

To preserve the illusion of conditions as they were, Park Supt. James Sanders has placed a temporary ban on automobile traffic and electric lights. Illumination for night demonstrations comes from candles handed out to visitors, lanterns, campfires and moonlight.

The union forces in the battle had been organized by Edwin Kimberly of Brodhead, Wis., to march with Gen. William Sherman on his campaign through the South, a march that still rankles descendants of Confederate veterans.

The battle was for control of Murfreesboro, a city situated just south of Nashville and occupied by Confederate forces at the time Union contingents were pressing south.

It has been discovered that many Indian arrowheads were made from flint.

Research Is By Dog Sled

CHICAGO (AP) — It isn't every Ph.D. candidate who uses a dog sled in his research.

Roger Powell, a University of Chicago graduate student in biology, uses the sled to study the fisher, a member of the weasel family, as it wanders about the Ottawa National Forest in western Upper Michigan. Powell has a three-year grant from the U.S. Forest Service to study fishers. He started his study of fishers in September 1973.

The fisher kills porcupines. Porcupines eat the green inner bark of trees when the snow is deep. Some of the maple, birch and hemlock trees eaten by porcupines are valuable as timber.

The Forest Service reintroduced fishers into the Ottawa National Forest some years ago to limit the porcupine population. In the early 1900s loggers reduced fishers' habitats and they were also heavily trapped for their dark brown fur.

Powell figures that the Forest Service program is working and the local porcupine population is now only about 25 percent of what it was before the reintroduction of the fishers. His Ph.D. thesis will be on what fishers eat and how much energy they expend, related to the ecological balance in the forest.

Advocate Of The Elephant

PETER BEARD, 37, has become known as a sort of jet set Ernest Hemingway, except he records Africa with a camera. (UPI Photo)

By WILBORN HAMPTON
NEW YORK (UPI) — The struggle for man to adequately feed and provide for himself and his family often has been blamed for the incidence of heart strain.

If the competition is bad for man, think what it must be like for elephants.
Peter Beard is one of the last advocates for the elephant and other animal population of the planet. And his prognosis for the future of elephants, as with most wildlife, is desperation.

Yet he still argues the case for the record with history as the final jury.
"It is too late to undo what has been done," he said in a recent interview. "Our concern is too late. It's a farce."

Beard, who returned to the United States from Kenya on "my prostitution trip" to promote his latest book, talked about the new book, another on elephants which will not be published soon and East Africa in general.

Beard, 37, has become known as a sort of jet set Ernest Hemingway except Beard records Africa with a camera in the way Hemingway did with fiction.
His marriage in 1967 was the socialite wedding of the year in New York and when it ended in divorce three years later, Beard entered a psychiatric clinic to land from what he called "a big drug trip." He has since been romantically linked with such jet setters as Lee Radziwili and Candice Bergen and his current girlfriend, Barbara Allen, is an assistant to filmmaker Andy Warhol.

But his good looks and "beautiful people" society are deceptive. His friend and neighbor in Kenya, William Holden, admitted the first time he saw Beard, "I thought he was a dilettante snob. But if Peter told me today that black was white, I would believe him."

The rounds of cocktail parties and champagne breakfasts he has been attending in New York are a long way from the snows of Kilimanjaro and leave Beard cold. But he realizes their necessity to draw attention to his book and, more importantly, his Africa.

The new book, "Longing for Darkness," is a collection of tales by Kamante Gatura, a Kikuyu who was once saved, adopted and later employed as cook by Isak Dinesen and who now works on Beard's farm near Nairobi.

Miss Dinesen, the Baroness Karen Blixen, once lauded by Hemingway as "the greatest living writer," spent 17 years from 1914 to 1931 trying to run a coffee farm in Kenya when it was still British East Africa. Her first book, "Out of Africa," was based on her experiences and the figure of Kamante appears prominently. It was from this book that Beard drew to collect "Longing for Darkness."

The book, published by Harcourt Brace Jovanovich at $19.95, also contains 160 original photographs, captioned from Miss Dinesen's books on Africa, and includes an afterword by Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis by way of a letter from her to Kamante.

It is one of Beard's purposes with the book to show how greatly Africa, and especially Kenya, has changed in just a few short years.

"How impossible it is to describe to anyone the isolation, the enormity of space of Kenya up until even 1960," he said. "The Africa of those days was seething with wild life and predators. Lions were vermin. Man was on a precarious survival trip. And the odds were against civilization."

Then, the humans began to get the upper hand.
"The real crime is in the greedy short-term selfishness of human expansion," he said. "Unprogrammed expansion. There is a spiritual need for space and wilderness. Now everything is national parks and picnic grounds."

It is the loss of the Africa which Miss Dinesen knew and about which Kamante writes in his broken English that Beard mourns. And he insists that his observations are a post mortem and not a diagnosis and prescription for recovery.

"We are all living for hope," he said. "But I have no messages. I am recording. I am enjoying myself by giving an accurate recording of what I see."

"We have been going in the wrong direction," he said. "The 'Green Revolution' is like putting a band-aid on a cancerous sore."

Beard believes that the dilemma in which wildlife finds itself today is entirely through the fault of humans who have dominated the world with little or no thought or regard for the other creatures who inhabit the planet.

He also believes that whatever efforts humans are making to correct the imbalance in population densities are misguided, too late and erroneous and are being made only to ease our own guilt.

"Our whole attitude has become artificial by guilt," he said. "This is a human dominated world. It's not an animal problem but a human problem. We talk about 'second class citizens' among humans and deplore that they exist. But what if you were 200th on the list."

SPONGE DIVING

Sponge diving in and around Tarpon Springs, Fla., is as often as not an exhibition for tourists these days. The use of synthetic sponges has overtaken the use of real sponges and fishing for sponges is no longer a paying business in itself. What used to be a fleet of over 200 sponge fishing boats at Tarpon Springs has dwindled to a group of 10 to 20, and sponge fishermen find they can make more money doing something else.

Nevertheless, the tradition survives. There is still some demand for natural sponges and the fishermen, many of Greek ancestry, carry on their trade to a certain extent—filling in spare time with demonstrations showing visitors how they work. Demonstrations include getting suited up, as well as the actual diving. The real sponges they fish for are living marine animals which grow in oddly shaped colonies attached to underwater surfaces. It's their light, fibrous and absorbent connective structures which sponge fishermen harvest and which, trimmed to bath size, squish the soap suds so nicely.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Study ways to organize your affairs to yield much greater returns. Uncover flaws in your methods and replace with more satisfactory ones.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Plan how to make the new year a better one. Learn how to handle bigwigs better, also. Make this a happy family time.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study fine new ideas. Make new acquaintances which can blossom into fine friendships. Evening is best for this.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get rid of duties left undone as the old year closed and handle them carefully. Follow hunches in p.m., but not in daytime.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Forgive that partner who was only out of sorts when speaking hastily. Come to a better understanding with all in p.m.

Don't be so quick to concede defeat if you land in a seemingly hopeless contract. Try to conceive of a distribution of the cards that will allow you to scrape home, then base your play on the existence of that distribution.

We approve of South's decision to open with a demand bid—surely any hand that rates to make game opposite a well-placed queen in partner's hand is too strong for an opening bid of one in a suit. North's decision to bid three spades freely is another matter. With only one trick and a questionable ruffing value, we would pass after the overall. If he wants to, North can show signs of life at his next turn, either by giving his partner a jump preference or by cue-bidding the ace of diamonds. In view of North's free bid, we can hardly disagree with South's determination to reach slam.

West led his top diamond, and when dummy came down, declarer saw that he was faced with a well-nigh impossible task. After winning the ace of diamonds, he would be in dummy for the first and probably the last time. Therefore, it would be senseless to use this one entry to take the trump finesse, for that would mean that he would later have to lead clubs from his own hand, thus losing two tricks in the suit. It was more constructive to use dummy's lone entry to lead a club toward his hand. East rose with the ace and returned a diamond, which declarer ruffed.

South's chances had improved considerably, and they became even rarer when he cashed the ace and king of trumps, dropping West's queen. A careless declarer would now draw the remaining trump, and end up losing control for down two. But having come so far, declarer was not about to falter at the last hurdle. He tested hearts by playing the ace and king, and his foresight paid dividends when West showed out. After cashing the queen of hearts, it was routine to ruff a heart in dummy, return to the closed hand with the king of clubs and draw the outstanding trump to claim the slam.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan how to become more efficient in future and get busy handling work you left undone which is important to you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Rid yourself of tensions at home, then you can have a fine social evening. Do creative work that you like.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Relieve any tensions at home early, then you can get much done without worry. Entertain in p.m., but don't stay up late.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Difficulty in communicating is possible during day, but the evening is fine. Make a new plan for happiness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Analysis of your monetary position may seem bleak in a.m., but later you find it better than you thought.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Help others more during day instead of expecting them to help you, and in a few days they give you all the aid you need.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You may feel you have not progressed sufficiently recently, so analyze the situation well and make needed improvements.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Steer clear of an old friend who is in a depressed mood which could rub off on you. Tensions lift in p.m.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will have a most serious manner literally from birth and should be taught early to cultivate a sense of humor. Give as fine an education as you can, since there is much ability at organizing. Much success is possible in big business, government, teaching, etc. Upon maturity the nature becomes lighter and real popularity sets in. Give sports early, also, and religion.

Some Goodies For TV-Watchers

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Tonight, the night before National Hangover Day, contains a few TV goodies you might enjoy watching if you don't plan to do much more than sip coffee and sigh, "Big deal," as 1975 ends.

ABC will kick off the New Year's Eve fare at 7:30 p.m. EST with coverage of the Sugar Bowl football dispute between Penn State and Alabama.

Thirty minutes later, CBS' "Tony Orlando and Dawn" show will do a New Year's Eve special.

At the same time, NBC will serve up a 90-minute look at the 42nd King Orange Jamboree Parade in Miami, with the float-by-float descriptions handled by Joe Garagiola and Anita Bryant.

The live-it-up part of the evening starts at 11 p.m. EST, when the Public Broadcasting Service offers public TV stations "New Year's Eve at Pops," a live show from Boston produced by WGBH there.

It'll feature dancers from the Boston Ballet, Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops and assorted music to go whoopee by, including "The Procession of Bacchus."

At 11:30 p.m. EST, NBC's "Tonight" show, taped several hours earlier, will start denoting the passage of another year.

At the same time, CBS will start ringing in 1976 with a live New York show whose music ranges from soul to sweet. Aretha Franklin is handling the former, Guy Lombardo and his band the latter.

The ABC competition, on tape, is mod music, "New Year's Rockin' Eve '76," hosted by Neil Sedaka and featuring the Average White Band, Melissa Manchester, Freddie Fender and KC and the Sunshine Band.

Both CBS and ABC plan to switch to Times Square here as midnight draws near for live coverage of the way Fun City inmates bring in 1976.

On New Year's Day, if you feel up to watching TV at the wretched hour of 10 a.m. EST, you'll find live coverage of the Cotton Bowl Festival Parade on CBS and the Junior Orange Bowl Parade on NBC.

At 10:45 a.m., NBC will offer a Rose Bowl parade preview that includes a performance by trumpeter Doc Severinson with the All-American High School Band. (Play softly, Doc, some of us may not be well by then).

At 11:30 a.m., both NBC and CBS will cover the Rose Bowl parade live. Then they'll get down to serious bowl business.

CBS will fire the first round at 2 p.m. EST with the Cotton Bowl battle between Georgia and Arkansas.

At 4:30 p.m., NBC will check in with the granddaddy of all bowl bouts, the Rose Bowl game, which this year has UCLA doing battle with Ohio State.

If you're not bowled over by nightfall, NBC will strike again at 8 p.m. EST with coverage of the Orange Bowl game in which Oklahoma will grapple with Michigan.

That, thank heaven, will be the last special show for New Year's Day 1976.

Nurse Says She Cheated With Drugs

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A licensed practical nurse who admitted cheating patients of pain-killing drugs after she became addicted to narcotics has been placed on three years' probation for embezzlement of narcotics from a local hospital.

Evelyn Holloman, 35, voluntarily surrendered her nursing license and entered a drug counseling and rehabilitation program shortly after her arrest here June 22.

But she told a probation officer she never allowed a patient in pain to suffer. Mrs. Holloman said that if a reduced dosage didn't relieve a patient's suffering, she would contact the treating physician for additional dosages.

Mrs. Holloman said she became addicted to pain killers after she developed back pains which a doctor diagnosed as psychosomatic.

She told authorities she now finds her actions "incomprehensible," but that over a two-year period she often gave her patients at De Paul Hospital only half their prescribed doses of Demerol, a pain-killer, and then took the rest herself.

Sometimes she discarded half the dosage, shooting the medication into the air, Mrs. Holloman said, in her frustration with the hospital.

Mrs. Holloman "became enraged," said probation officer Sharon Adams, upon learning that hospital authorities hadn't confided to her that a doctor diagnosed the back ailment which hospitalized her in 1973 as psychosomatic — of psychological origin — and prescribed a placebo, sterile water, instead of a pain killer.

When she returned to work, Mrs. Holloman, still suffering from back and neck pains, began to take narcotics and became addicted, said defense attorney Tazewell T. Hubard III.

Mrs. Holloman pleaded guilty to the embezzlement charge at her Circuit Court trial here last October.

Ford Cites 'A Bad Signal'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford says he is optimistic that all forces are working toward a compromise on the Angolan conflict but feels a Senate vote to cut off U.S. aid is a bad signal to the world, The Washington Post said today.

The newspaper said Ford expressed cautious optimism on Angola during an interview aboard Air Force One as he returned from his Colorado skiing vacation.

In the interview, the Post said, Ford also:

— Criticized what he called "CIA defectors" who have publicly identified other agents, resulting in the death "of one fine official and ... (which) could result in the death of others ..."

— Conceded he might finish behind Ronald Reagan in some early primaries but repeated his vow to stay in the running for the presidency regardless. He called it "not inconceivable" that the GOP might offer Reagan the vice presidential candidacy.

On Angola, Ford was quoted as saying the Senate cut-off of funds to the former Portuguese colony 10 days ago is "a bad signal around the world."

The President said he saw "nothing on the surface" to indicate the Soviet Union has eased its backing of one of three forces warring in the African nation, the newspaper reported.

But Ford reportedly said his optimism is based on "the money we're spending, small as it is, the actions of other nations, the Organization of African Unity, and the spirit of compromise that may be developing among the three forces in Angola."

Filling Stadium To Hear Elvis

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — More than 90,000 persons are expected to jam the newly completed Pontiac Stadium tonight for Elvis Presley's New Year's Eve concert.

Stadium promotions director Jerry Barron said sales of tickets at $15, $11.50, $8 and $6 were "brisk" and that beefed up security has been arranged to protect Presley from fans.

"Sometimes the ladies get excited," Barron said, noting that Presley must "come to the center of the field to get on stage." "Hotel rooms have been sold out for miles around," he said, adding that ticket orders had come from as far as New York City and Las Vegas, Nev.

I Want this new two story brick home. 4 bedrooms, even a red one, too! 2 1/2 baths, formal dining room and living room enhanced with lovely blue carpet, family room with fireplace, just lots and lots of room. And Mom, the kitchen is fully equipped with disposal, self-cleaning oven and dishwasher — all joining the breakfast nook, which has pretty wainscoting and wall paper. This home qualifies for the full $2,000 income tax credit if the contract is signed by December 31, 1975. Dad, this is a real savings to you, not to mention the excellent interest rate of 7 3/4 per cent.

THE HOMEBUYER'S TAX CREDIT EXPIRES DECEMBER 31.

The 5 per cent tax credit is making home buying history. But time is running out, because you must sign a contract by December 31 to qualify. At Greenville Development Co., this could mean up to $2,000 in additional savings on your new home. Please drop by to see us. We have homes that are eligible for the tax credit. Better hurry though. Uncle Sam can't wait much longer.
