Candidates Get Federal Money

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury today began handing out checks totaling $1.88 billion to 11 presidential candidates, the first ever to get direct taxpayer subsidies for their campaigns.

The first to claim his money was the one who also is the biggest initial recipient, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., whose check totaled $492,029.84.

Bentsen's check was turned over to his aide, Robert Thomson, after Thomson signed his name to a receipt and showed identification. The check was a standard green, punch-card Treasury check like the ones taxpayers receive for income tax refunds.

Second in line to pick up a check was Walter T. Skallerup Jr. of Sen. Henry M. Jackson's campaign. James C. Neely, an assistant controller in the Bureau of Government Financing, said the other checks would be held until later in the afternoon and then put in the mail if they weren't picked up.

President Ford was to receive $374,422 and Democrat Terry Sanford was to receive $214,050.

Initial checks of $100,000 each are going to Republican Ronald Reagan and Democrats Birch Bayh, Jimmy Carter, Fred Harris, Henry M. Jackson, Morris Udall, George Wallace and Sargent Shriver. These candidates are claiming an additional $4.3 million, but auditors from the Federal Election Commission are still reviewing the claims.

Campaign emissaries planned to pick up the checks today at the Treasury Department.

The money is being paid under a law providing for partial public financing of presidential campaigns. Under the law, the government matches small, private donations raised by candidates. The funds come from persons who voluntarily designate on their federal income tax return that $1 of their taxes may be used for the purpose.

The only major presidential candidate who has yet to qualify for federal subsidies is Democrat Milton J. Shapp, governor of Pennsylvania. To qualify for federal funds, a candidate must first raise at least $100,000 in donations of $250 or less, including at least $5,000 in each of 20 states.

The government then will match up to $250 of every donation the candidate can prove he received.

Plans for the federal money differed from campaign to campaign. The Udall camp earmarked it for delegate-hunting in Iowa, campaigning in primaries in New Hampshire and Massachusetts and for reviving Udall's dormant direct-mail appeals for private donations, which in turn could qualify Udall for even more federal matching money.

Sanford's campaign, which has been running in the red, planned to use the money to pay bills. "It's going to bring us out of the hole," said a spokeswoman. Any leftover cash will go to campaigning in New Hampshire and North Carolina, Sanford's do-or-die contest.

Bentsen's money was slated for primary campaigning in Mississippi, Oklahoma and South Carolina. Reagan's money will be spent "just like any other money we have raised," said Loren Smith, chief lawyer for the Reagan campaign.

Revenue Estimate: $40 Million Shortfall

NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — The General Assembly's Joint Economy Committee was told today that the economic recovery has slowed and that the state can expect a shortfall of revenue of about $40 million this year.

The assessment came from LLOYD O'CARROLL, a fiscal analyst for the General Assembly's Legislative Research Division.

The revenue picture prompted House Speaker Jimmy Green to ask the committee if it is unable to reach any decisions today to furnish within 30 days estimates and recommendations on the state's fiscal situation.

"Until then I want everyone combing through the budget to see where more fat can be trimmed," Green said.

O'Carroll told the committee that a pessimistic view of the state's economy would lead to a shortfall prediction of $58.1 million to an $18.1 million for an optimistic conclusion to $40.1 million for a middle view. The state budget for the 1975-76 fiscal year is predicated on an increase of 9.8 per cent in tax revenues over the 1974-75 fiscal year. Thus far, however, the recession has held revenues increases to about 4 per cent. If that trend continues, Lawing said, the revenue shortfall could be as high as $100 million.

Most economists predict improvement in sales and incomes in the next six months as the economy pulls out of the recession. The question is whether the economy will improve quickly enough to meet the revenue requirements. A shortfall of as much as $70 million could be met with "reversions." Reversions are state dollars that are authorized but not spent because of jobs that are temporarily vacant projects that are delayed, etc. A shortfall of more than $70 million would trigger constitutional provisions requiring the governor to cut spending to avoid allowing the state to go into the red. Even a shortfall covered by reversions would be politically painful since it would deprive the legislature of the opportunity to hand out pay raises to teachers and state employees during an election year.

Resistance Rumors In SE Asia

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Armed forces in the South Vietnamese province of Darlac are on a search and destroy mission to wipe out the remnants of troops still loyal to the former Saigon regime, according to a Hanoi radio broadcast monitored here today.

The broadcast said armed security forces and local militia in the central highlands province captured ringleaders and seized a large quantity of weapons and equipment in late December. They were operating under the slogan: "Search for and destroy the enemy and insure security of the fatherland."

There have been many unconfirmed reports and rumors of resistance against the new Communist authorities in Saigon, but specific information has been difficult to obtain since Westerners have not been allowed outside the South Vietnamese capital. Official broadcasts out of Hanoi and Saigon over the past few months have mentioned resistance activities.

A Saigon broadcast, quoting an article in the city's "Giai Phong" newspaper, said authorities in the capital arrested "many ringleaders of villains, burglars, bandits, brothel owners, gamblers and narcotics addicts" in raids Monday and Tuesday.

In other developments: —South Vietnam's Liberation Radio said Cambodia had decided to provide Laos with 3,000 tons of rice free of charge "to help solve the rice shortage" in that country. The aid was promised in late December when Laotian Foreign Affairs Minister Phoune Sipraseuth visited Phnom Penh and was told that Cambodia would have a good rice crop this year, the broadcast said.

—North Vietnam has decided to lend "gratuitous aid" to Laos in 1976 to help the Laotians overcome immediate difficulties, Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency said in a broadcast monitored today in Tokyo. It gave no amount for the aid but said it would include rice, salt, cement, clothing and medicine.

—Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the Cambodian head of state, hosted a New Year's Day banquet in Phnom Penh after returning from a 41-day tour of Asian, African and European nations, according to a radio Phnom Penh broadcast monitored in Bangkok.

—Cambodia's rulers have proclaimed a new constitution based on the desire to create a "true democracy without rich and poor, without exploitation," according to Yugoslavia's official news agency Tanjug.

Century Old Box Opened

ST. LOUIS (AP) — On New Year's Day of 1876, Ezeriah Williamson Hoopes of Philadelphia wrote a curse on a simple pine box in which was placed memorabilia of the nation's centennial.

The curse, to last until Jan. 1, 1976, declared: "If any dare this box invade, Ere five score years save one, By heaviest curse be on him laid, He ne'er shall have a son, But in old age shall on the world be thrown, Without a friend, Unhonored and unknown."

For 100 years the Hoopes family honored Ezeriah's wishes. But at 2 p.m. Thursday, the box was opened by his grandchildren, Dr. Alban Williamson Hoopes of Oneonta, N.Y., and Dr. Thomas T. Hoopes of St. Louis.

"It was largely more or less what we had expected," said Thomas Hoopes, a curator of the St. Louis Art Museum from 1936 to 1964, of the box's contents.

Inside the box the grandchildren found brochures advertising sewing machines, scales, harvesting equipment, yellowed newspapers, a silk hat and a "Centennial doll baby."

"I remember my aunt when she was a very old lady, told me about how my grandfather had the box made," Thomas Hoopes said. "He sealed it up with nails after each member of the family had made contributions ... letters for posterity telling something of their lives and about life in general."

The grandfather, a Philadelphia accountant who died in 1903, sealed the box with nails and applied two wax seals.

Seven Mexican Trawlers Are Safe In Harbor

OCRAOKE, N. C. (AP) — Seven Mexican fishing trawlers were safe in harbor today after a run-in with a rough Atlantic Ocean and a supply of food and water that gave out two days after leaving port, according to the Coast Guard.

A spokesman at the Portsmouth, Va., Rescue Coordination Center said Coast Guard patrol boats escorted two of the 60-foot trawlers to Ocracoke and the other five to Hatteras Inlet.

The boats, part of a fleet of eight constructed at a Chesapeake shipyard, set out Tuesday from Norfolk, Va., on their maiden voyage to Vera Cruz. One boat turned back almost immediately after experiencing trouble, the Coast Guard said.

The others ran into high seas and strong winds in the Atlantic and apparently their supplies ran out as well, the Coast Guard said. Three were also disabled when the Coast Guard found them Thursday about 20 miles south of Cape Hatteras after an air and sea search in answer to a distress flare.

The Coast Guard said the rescue effort was hampered by a language barrier but a Hatteras Island minister and an Ocracoke woman, both with some knowledge of Spanish, were pressed into service as interpreters.

Two of the Mexican trawlers arrived at Ocracoke about 7:45 p.m. Thursday and three others had tied up at Hatteras Inlet before midnight.

Two others under escort by the cutter Chilula from the Ft. Macon Coast Guard Station at Morehead City were turned over to a patrol boat offshore for the run in to Hatteras Inlet shortly after midnight.

The Coast Guard said the Mexican crews would be questioned about their aborted voyage.

Air Terminal's Threat A Hoax

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The Delta Air Lines freight terminal at Douglas Municipal Airport was evacuated and searched after a bomb threat Wednesday.

Nothing was found amiss. Airport Manager R.C. Birmingham said that although officials believed it was only a crank call, the precautionary measures were taken.

Heroin Dealer Is Arrested

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A man said by police to be responsible for bringing in at least a pound of heroin into Charlotte every week for the last year was arrested Thursday night.

He was booked as 34-year-old Fenton Morris Cowley Jr., with addresses in California and in Nashville, Tenn.

He was charged with sale and delivery of heroin. Police report that at least six major dealers in heroin in Charlotte depended on Cowley for their supply.

New Years Day Fire Costly

HOME HEAVILY DAMAGED—A New Year's Day fire caused heavy damage to a Brook Valley residence. According to fire officials, a fire was reported at 3:12 p.m. at the home of Clifford B. Knight, 112 Oxford Road. Members of the Eastern Pines Fire Department arriving at the scene found the garage area of the home on fire. Firemen, above, look over the point where it is believed the fire started. The garage was extensively damaged and smoke damage resulted to the remainder of the home. Officials estimated the damage at $30,000. The Simpson Fire Department also responded to the alarm. There were no injuries reported, and investigation is continuing. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

MISPLACED STOP SIGNS?

I am quite concerned about the intersection of Bancroft Avenue and Farmville Boulevard. The stop signs seem to be placed backwards. Since traffic has increased on Farmville Boulevard, the stop signs would be more helpful on Bancroft than on Farmville. There was a bad wreck there just before Christmas. D. P.

City Engineer Charlie Holliday says he is very much aware of the intersection you're talking about. He agrees with you that the traffic on Farmville Boulevard is increasing and will increase more as the new hospital nears completion. (Farmville Boulevard crosses Memorial Drive and becomes the Stantonburg Road (Co. Road 1200) which runs past the new hospital.) "We're waiting now for a study of the traffic expected to be generated by the new hospital to be completed by the State Department of Transportation. With this we can formulate plans as to what kind of signal needs to be used at the Farmville-Bancroft intersection. We feel sure it will be a traffic light of some kind, rather than signs. We hope this may be done within the next six months, so we hate to change the pattern for such a short time. Right now there's a long stretch of no stops on Bancroft and we feel a change might cause, rather than prevent, accidents during the interim."

Terrorized Party

NEW YORK (AP) — Armed gangs of young hoodlums terrorized a New Year's celebration at the New York Coliseum, stealing money and coats worth at least $15,000, police said.

Authorities said the trouble started when several gangs of young toughs crashed the party at the convention hall at Columbus Circle, where thousands of young persons paid $15 to come to listen to rock bands and dance.

Police said a total of 75 persons filed formal complaints. They said that because of limited manpower and difficulty in tracing individual wraps, they were forced to limit their investigation to the holdups.

Nathans Williams, 21, said bands of youths were robbing couples on the edge of the dance floor. He said his $250 leather coat was one of many taken.

"People were getting real uptight and hassling with the special cops," Williams said. "City cops were called but they weren't any help. They said since the crime happened inside the place, it wasn't their responsibility. I had to go out in the weather without a coat. Some New Year's!"

Blind Teacher Insists She Can Cope; Suing Indiana School System

By DIANE SOLBERG
Wabash Plain-Dealer

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Two large football players were fighting as the student teacher walked into the classroom.

She grabbed them both, hauled one into the hall, asked for an explanation and then "gave him a good talking to."

She did the same thing with the other boy and never had a problem with either of them again, she said.

All in a day's work for a teacher — even for one who is legally blind, as is Linda Garshwiler, 23.

"I can't see any outlines. You look like a blob of light sitting here," she told an interviewer. Miss Garshwiler is trying to break tradition in Indiana, where blind teachers are employed only in schools for the visually handicapped. She has filed suit against the school system in the city of Marion, charging officials with discriminating against her blind-

MARKETBASKET SURVEY—Chart shows prices of varied food items recorded in 13 cities, on Dec. 1 and Jan. 1. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Starting the day cost more as Americans started the new year, with an Associated Press marketbasket survey showing price increases for milk, butter, eggs and coffee during the last month of 1975.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973, and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. No attempt was made to weight the survey results according to population density or in terms of what proportion of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents. Among the highlights of the latest survey: —The marketbasket bill was up at the checklist store in seven cities during December, rising an average 3.7 per cent. The bill decreased at the checklist store in five cities, down an average 2.2 per cent, and was unchanged in one. Over-all, the marketbasket at the checklist store rose just over 1 per cent during December.

—Sugar prices declined sharply during 1975, although they remained higher than they were at the start of 1974. The average price of a five-pound sack of sugar at the checklist stores went from 83 cents in January 1974 to a high of $3.02 on Dec. 1, 1974, then dropped to $1.27 by the start of this month.

—The declines in sugar made it appear that food prices were dropping. When sugar was included in the total, the AP survey showed the marketbasket bill declined in seven cities during 1975 and was up in five. (Sugar was not available in the specified size at the checklist store in the 13th city.) When sugar was not included, however, the bill went up in every city, rising an average 13 per cent over the 12-month period.

—Increases in dairy and other breakfast products hit consumers hard during December. The price of a pound of butter was up at the checklist store in all 13 cities, rising an average 7½ per cent. The price of a dozen, medium white eggs was up in 12 cities, with an average increase of 12½ per cent. Milk went up in seven cities and coffee increased in six cities. The increases in milk and milk products reflected a seasonal decline in supplies; coffee prices have been rising since midsummer because of frost that destroyed much of the Brazilian crop.

—On the bright side, pork prices showed signs of decline. Smaller supplies of hogs had pushed prices up to record levels in October, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. As grain prices dropped, however, farmers increased production and consumers are reaping some benefits. The AP survey showed the price of a pound of center-cut pork chops declined during December at the checklist store in eight cities, down an average of almost 10 per cent. The price increased in three cities and was unchanged in two.

Oil Nationalization Is Posing New Problems

By WILLIAM H. HEATH
Associated Press Writer
CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Venezuela's takeover of its giant oil industry, the world's fifth largest, presents the wealthy developing nation with a number of immediate and long range problems.

Many of the nation's 12 million citizens, who overwhelmingly supported oil nationalization, believe the state can run the industry just as well as the foreign companies who ran it for six decades.

Others are not so sure, pointing to potential risks involving administration, technology, marketing and politics.

On New Year's Day, the state took over concessions and property of more than 30 private, mostly U.S.-owned companies under terms of a nationalization law approved by congress and signed by President Carlos Andres Perez.

The takeover is the result of peaceful negotiations between the government and companies — including subsidiaries of Exxon, Royal Dutch Shell, Gulf, Mobil and Texaco — which will receive compensation totaling $1.01 billion. Payment, based on net book value of assets, is being made in government bonds, payable over five years at six per cent interest.

The industry now will be run by 14 state operating companies working largely with the same structure as their foreign predecessors, but under direction of Petroleos de Venezuela, a state holding company that will handle overall management.

Although they will no longer run the industry, the international companies will continue to participate through contracts under which they will buy most of the country's oil production and supply technical aid for a fee expected to total some $160 million a year.

"The government has, in effect, set its hostages free," said a foreign oil company official who asked that he not be identified. "From now on they will be making the investments and taking the risks, not our stockholders." Prior to nationalization, international oilmen complained that while their companies made the investments, they had little control over the industry and had to pay some 98 per cent of income generated by it to the government in taxes and royalties.

President Perez is the first to acknowledge that independent operation of a huge industry — which earned the government $8.4 billion in 1974 and $7.5 billion last year — is a difficult undertaking.

He warned in a nationwide speech Thursday that "the nationalization of petroleum is and will be difficult ... and 'management of the industry will not be an easy task."

Observers agree that the success of state management depends fundamentally on the government's ability to keep politics out of industry administration and to preserve high standards of efficiency achieved by the private, international companies.

Larger And Fewer Farms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The trend to fewer and larger farms continued in 1975, although at a much slower pace than a decade ago, according to the Agriculture Department.

As of New Year's Day, there were an estimated 2,786,000 farms, a decline of 22,000 from Jan. 1, 1975, the department's Statistical Reporting Service said in an annual report.

Those averaged 389 acres each, an increase of two acres from Jan. 1 last year, the report said. A decade ago farms were declining at the rate of about 100,000 a year and were much smaller — 340 acres in 1965.

The amount of land in farms also has dropped in recent years to a little more than 1.08 billion acres, the report showed. That was about 1.3 million acres fewer than a year ago.

Farmland "disappears" for many reasons as more highways, urban sprawl, recreation and other nonfarm uses encroach on the countryside.

Even so, there is more land in farms now than in 1935, when the number of farm units reached a peak of 6.8 million. At that time, according to Agriculture Department records, farms occupied a little more than 1.05 billion acres.

Much additional land was put into farm use during and after World War II as a result of rising crop prices and world demand for more food.

The Jan. 1 estimates showed that the number of farm units declined or remained unchanged the past year in all states except Pennsylvania, where 73,000 were reported, an increase of 1,000 from a year ago.

Texas continued as the leader, with 205,000 farms, down 2,000 from a year ago. The fewest farms were shown for Alaska, where 300 units were reported, unchanged from Jan. 1, 1975.

Zoologist Says Coastal Marshlands Need Action

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—Here's the problem: an owner of coastal marshland can make the most money by developing it as a seaside resort or homes, but that means destroying the marsh which provides a wide range of environmental benefits.

And once the marshland is destroyed it cannot be recreated, at any price.

A University of Georgia zoologist is urging state and federal agencies to face the problem squarely and take firm action to prevent marshland development.

Among the actions Dr. Eugene Odum is proposing are government purchase of marshland, tax breaks for owners who do not develop such areas or direct payments for not developing it.

To dramatize the true worth of marshland, Odum and two colleagues at Louisiana State University, Dr. James Gosselink and R. M. Pope, have developed formulas for estimating the dollar value of unspoiled marshes and estuaries.

They concluded that one acre of marsh-estuary can return up to $100 per year if used for commercial and sport fishing, up to $1,575 annually in intensive oyster cultivation and up to $2,500 a year as a natural water purification system.

But it's greatest value, they said, was as a total life-support system, producing oxygen, absorbing excess carbon dioxide, supporting waterfowl, providing a breeding ground for shrimp and protecting cities and beaches from erosion.

Thought of that way, they set the value of marshland at up to $4,100 per acre per year. That still does not compare to its value for commercial development, but Odum hopes the figures will buttress his arguments for protecting undeveloped coastal areas.

"Demonstrating that marshlands and estuaries have a substantial dollar value in their natural state certainly provides a big boost to preservation of such areas that are in public

Deny Signing Mercenaries

BOSTON (AP) — American officials deny a report by The Christian Science Monitor that the Central Intelligence Agency has recruited indirectly about 600 Americans to fight in the Angolan civil war.

In a story by staff correspondent David Anable, the paper said Thursday that 300 of the Americans already are operating in Angola and another 300 are ready to go when the CIA gets the needed money.

The sources of the information were described as "senior mercenary officers familiar with the situation both in Angola and the United States" who are "close to the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency."

Deputy White House Press Secretary John Carlson said in Washington the story "is without foundation." A CIA spokesman said "the total story is nonsense." Spokesmen for the State and Defense departments said they "have nothing on it."

The Monitor said most of the Americans in Angola are working in the south with the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola. One American group was said to be operating with the National Front for the Liberation of Angola, a northern ally of the former group.

The two factions are fighting the Soviet and Cuban-backed Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola, which holds the central part of the country.

The Monitor said about 150 of the recruits had refresher training last week at Ft. Benning, Ga. And it said about 15 South Vietnamese were among the group awaiting departure.

The American members were described as soldiers recently discharged or on leave from Army Special Forces units in the United States and the Panama Canal Zone.

The paper said recruiting also is underway for more than 150 helicopter pilots and mechanics to handle a squadron of 13 gunships.

Host Meet

The Pitt County Board of Education will host the District II meeting of the North Carolina School Boards Association Wednesday, January 14.

The meeting will be held at North Pitt High School. District II includes around 17 eastern North Carolina counties.

The Board of Education has invited around 200 people, including County Commissioners, Board of Education Attorneys, local school committees, administrators and school principals.

The meeting will begin with registration at 4:15 p.m. and the meeting is expected to adjourn at 7:45. The keynote address will be given by Waverly Akins, past president of the North Carolina Association of County Commissioners.

Woman Named To Iranian Post

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Mahnaz Afkhami, 34, has been named Minister of State in Charge of Women's Affairs, the only woman in the current Iranian government.

A woman previously held the post of Minister of Education, and there are two dozen women in the Iranian parliament.

Commissioners Meet Monday

Pitt County Commissioners will meet for their regular monthly session Monday at 10 a.m. at the Pitt County Court House.

Included on the agenda for consideration is: the approval—based on recommendations from the Planning Board—of plans for the Shady Acres Subdivision and the Garner-Wynne-Manning Subdivision; a suggested civil preparedness ordinance; the hospital budget and, at 2 p.m., the lease of the county farm and tobacco allotments.

Started '76 By Wedding

ANDERSON, S. C. (AP)—Judith Isenhour and Randall Hunsinger say they started the new year off right by getting married at 12:01 a. m. Thursday—one minute after the advent of 1976.

About 30 friends and relatives gathered at the home of the bridegroom's brother for the informal ceremony.

"We just wanted to be first and start the year off right," the 18-year-old bride said.

"People kidded us at first and wouldn't believe we were going to get married at that time of night," said Hunsinger, 20. "We called three ministers before we found one to perform the ceremony, and he's a relative of my wife."

Mrs. Hunsinger returned to her job Thursday night on the third shift at LaFrance Industries, a textile plant.

"I had to ask to get off to get married," she said. "They asked if I also wanted to get off tonight (Thursday) but I haven't been there long and I'm still on a trial period—so I decided to work."

Hunsinger is a student at Tri-County Tec in Pendleton.

Elvis' Security, Trousers Tight

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Security at the Elvis Presley New Year's Eve extravaganza was tight — and so were the star's trousers.

So tight, in fact, that Presley had to make a fast getaway backstage to change after the seat of his pants ripped early in his act at Pontiac Stadium.

Presley brought the crowd of 60,000 to its feet with a rendition of his old hit "Hound Dog."

Concert security was beefed up after a 19-year-old man was taken into custody for threatening to kill the rock star, officials said.

More Snow For Upper Midwest

By The Associated Press
A winter storm has dumped more heavy snow on the Upper Midwest.

A strong low pressure center spread snow from the Dakotas and northern Nebraska to western Michigan overnight.

The storm was drifting to the northeast, and snow had ceased or diminished to flurries over the northwestern plains. But strong winds gusting to over 40 miles per hour still were creating considerable blowing and drifting snow.

The greatest snow depth from the storm was measured at Chadron, Neb. with 20 inches.

Warnings for additional heavy amounts of snow and strong winds were in effect through today from the Dakotas into northern Michigan.

The storm also brought freezing rain and drizzle to parts of northern and eastern Iowa, southern Wisconsin, northern Illinois and northwest Indiana.

There were showers over the southern portions of Illinois and Indiana. A few thundershowers extended into Arkansas and extreme eastern Texas.

It was cloudy over the southern plains and extreme southern rockies, with snow scattered over southern New Mexico and extreme western Texas.

Clouds also extended from the midwest storm into the Ohio valley and central Appalachians. Mostly clear weather prevailed along the northern Atlantic coast, in the central and eastern Gulf states and across most of the West.

Temperatures below ten degrees were recorded over much of the Rockies, plateau and northwestern plains and also in the northern portions of New York and New England.

Temperatures overnight ranged from 71 at Ellington Air Force Base, Tex. to 11 below zero at Laramie and Evanston, Wyo.

Senior Choir To Sponsor Service Driver Charged In Hitting Pole

On Sunday at 3 p.m., the Senior Choir of Mt. Calvary Free Will Baptist Church will sponsor an appreciation service for their organist, Ms. E. M. Porteur, for her faithful years of service to the choir and church.

The Spiritual Singers will render music. The Syncamore Chapel Senior Choir and Ushers are special guest. All choirs and auxiliaries of Mt. Calvary are asked to be present. Eldress Lucy Jones will preside. The public is invited.

Marshall Craig Simpson of 1700 Treemont Dr. was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 5:35 a.m. collision today at the intersection of Cedar Lane and Tenth Street.

Police, who reported the Simpson car collided with a utility pole, estimated damage to the car at $450 and damage to the pole at $25.

Getting The Holiday Message

FOR THE HOLIDAYS, the message at night is glamor with a capital G. At left, for those all-out evenings, there's a cardigan and vest duo bordered in gleamy silver. Both look sensational over a white-on-white paisley bow shirt and long black skirt. At right, it's either a queen on her throne or someone who looks like royalty in a shimmering panne velvet outfit. The ruffled, V-neck top has three-quarter sleeves and antique lace insets. The floor-length skirt adds that final touch of elegance in one of this season's "in" fabrics. (Panne velvet outfit by LollyPops and Roses, other by Russ.)

In 1975, Several Women Were The First Ones

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Margaret Thatcher, 48, was elected the first woman leader of Britain's Conservative Party. If the Tories win the next general election in 1979, she would automatically become the first British woman prime minister.

The general assembly of the World Council of Churches for the first time elected a woman, in fact two women, to the council's six-member presidium. They are Annie Baeta Jagge, an Appeals Court justice of Ghana, a Presbyterian, and Dr. Cynthia Wedel, a psychologist of Alexandria, Va., an Episcopalian and former president of the National Council of Churches.

The first woman conquered Mt. Everest. She is Junko Tabei, 35, of Saitama Prefecture, Japan.

The first woman nominated for the Academie Francaise, Louise Weiss, 88-year-old feminist and writer, got four votes. Six went to Janine Charat, 50, a former ballerina and later nominee. None of the candidates, including the men, was elected.

The first female ambassador to the Vatican, breaking a 900-year unwritten rule, was accepted by the Pope. She is Bernadette Olowo, 27, from Uganda.

Mary Lou Williams at the piano led the jazz mass she had composed, in St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York. It was the first jazz performance ever given in the cathedral.

Africa got its first woman premier, Elizabeth Domitian of the Central African Republic. There are two others in the world, in India and Sri Lanka.

New York got a women's bank, billed as "the first bank in the U.S. organized primarily by women."

Two women were valedictorians and salutatorians of the graduating class of Princeton's class of 1975, the first time a woman has earned either honor in the school's history.

The first woman to head the council of a town council in Algeria is Rabia Ferhat, 33, a school teacher with four children, in Hamadia. In Algeria, it is in country districts where women have made the most advances in political participation.

Karen Stead, 11, from Morrisville, Pa., is the first female to win the Soap Box Derby. She won against 98 other entrants.

Cyndi Meserve, 18, of Livermore Falls, Maine, became the first woman to play on a National Collegiate Athletic Assn. men's varsity basketball team, at Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, where she went to study fashion design.

Barbara Herman, 23-year-old alto, became the first woman in the history of American Reform Judaism to be designated officially as a cantor. Her husband Frederick is also a cantor.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has a woman at the helm for the first time in its 65 years. She is St. Louis lawyer, Margaret Bush Wilson. Later in the year, like many other organizations, the NAACP revealed severe money troubles.

The Girl Scouts elected Gloriz D. Scott, 37, as their first black president.

The YMCA of Canada is the first to have a woman as national president. She is Rayell Andreychuk, 30, a lawyer from Mose Jaw, Saskatchewan.

Kathleen Nolan, who was one of "The Real McCoys" on TV, became the first woman president of the Screen Actors Guild.

Skip The Party, But Investigate Used Appliances

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My sister and I are moving into an apartment soon. Mom and Dad are giving us a lot of furniture they won't be needing, so we're all set there, but we don't have any kitchen equipment.

We can't afford to buy things like a toaster, coffee pot, electric iron, pots, pans and utensils. Also, there are potholders and other kitchen gadgets we'll need but can't lay out the money to buy.

My sis and I thought of throwing our own, "Got A New Apartment but Don't Have Any Kitchen Equipment" party.

My Mom says it would be too much like a bridal shower and it wouldn't be right.

Abby, we're going to have enough trouble paying our rent and grocery bills without the added expense of all the kitchen stuff we need. What do you think of our party idea?

NEEDING THINGS

DEAR NEEDING: Skip the party. But do visit your nearest Goodwill or Salvation Army store and see what is available in secondhand but good-as-new appliances.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl. You see, my sister got pregnant when she was 16, and she had an abortion. Now, all I hear from my parents is, "We are not going to take off you what we took off your sister!"

Abby, I am not my sister. I would like to be able to have company over to the house, but my parents won't allow it. If a boy happens to come over, they tell me if I don't send him away, they will.

I don't want to have to sneek and have the boys come to my girl friend's house to see me, but that is the only way I can ever see a guy. I have never given my parents a reason to distrust me, but they do.

Isn't there some way I can convince them that I won't do like my sister did?

OVERPROTECTED

DEAR OVER: Your problem is one that many girls have, and it is grossly unfair. Your parents should not punish you for what your sister did.

Do not sneek. If you do and are caught, they will have good reason to deny you company.

DEAR ABBY: I am 25 and my ex-husband is still living. He has been divorced for 14 months, but we're 33. We have together. I just never got up the nerve to kick him out because he's kind of helpless.

He doesn't want me to have any friends. In fact, he yells if I leave the house. I am an excellent cook and housekeeper, and serve him three hot meals a day. I do all the yard work, and even the painting and house repairs. All he wants to do after work is sit in front of the TV and drink beer.

We were married for four years and never had any kids. (He can't stand them.)

He hardly ever makes love to me, and when he does he satisfies only himself. If I complain, he gets mad.

He never compliments me and never wants to take me out. But he runs with his friends whenever he feels like it.

Don't tell me to leave him. Abby, I love him.

RUSSELLVILLE, ARK.

DEAR RUSS: If you want to live together, why did you get divorced?

As I see it, you are merely living with a man who treats you as a cook and housekeeper. Obviously, you aren't happy, or you wouldn't have written to me. Insist that he either get some counseling and shape up, or ship out. What's to "love" in a man like him?

DEAR ABBY: My parents fought all the time, and when they finally got a divorce, I was sent to live with my grandparents. Well, they fought worse than my parents, but it was better than an orphanage.

I had a pretty rough life as a kid, but it didn't do me any harm.

I had a morning paper route when I was 10-years-old. I had to get up at 4 A.M. daily. Nobody drove me; I went alone on my bike in the pitch dark when it was sometimes 30 below zero (Sioux City, Iowa).

They say kids learn from example, but it's not always true. My father was an alcoholic, and after seeing what it did to him and his family, you couldn't pay me to take a drink. My grandfather smoked like a chimney, and his breath smelled so bad, I vowed I'd never smoke. And I never did.

Sometimes the bad examples kids see will work in reverse, and instead of imitating those bad habits, kids will try all the harder to do the opposite.

What do you say, Abby?

H. H. IN LONG BEACH

DEAR H.: I say, you could be right, but I still believe that when kids have GOOD examples to follow, their chances for turning out good are a lot better.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SUCCESSFUL BUT TALKED ABOUT IN BEVERLY HILLS!": That's the price of fame. If you want a place in the sun you've got to put up with a few bad blisters.

New Food Books Hail New Year

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Food and wine books make handsome New Year presents. Or, if there was money for you under the Christmas tree, you may want to give yourself one of these.

"Cooking of the Maharajas: The Royal Recipes of India" by Shivaji Rao and Shalini Devi Holkar (Viking, $14.95) has a stunning cover and illustrations, a plenitude of lore and beautifully worked-out recipes. Mrs. Holkar, an American who married the son of a former Maharaja, is as gifted in making clear the intricacies of Indian cooking as Julia Child is in presenting French cuisine. Although "Cooking of the Maharajas" has, of course, an exotic aspect, its recipes can be followed with pleasure by any cook seriously interested in some of the fine cooking of India.

"The Joys of Wine" by Clifton Fadiman and Sam Aaron (Abrams, $35) is one of the most sumptuous of books. Its color illustrations, cover and format are indeed a joy. Along with information on the various aspects of its subject there are inclusions — such as Roald Dahl's "Taste," a New Yorker story of some years back — that are treasures. The mix of excellence in literature and winemanship that the authors of the book represent makes a happy blend.

"American Food: The Gastronomic Story" by Evan Jones (Dutton, $16.95) is a splendid contribution that's right on time for the Bicentennial. A large, handsome book, it's a delight — from its jacket reproduction of Susan Merrett's painting, "Fourth of July Picnic" (courtesy of the Art Institute of Chicago) through its delvings into America's gastronomy and its generous clutch of recipes on which Judith B. Jones, a much-respected cookbook editor, collaborated. The recipes are "a personal gathering from various regions in U.S. history, various regions, and various ethnic influences" and are delicious to choose from for everyday and company use.

The publication of "Florence Lin's Chinese Regional Cookbook" by Florence Lin (Hawthorne, $12.95) is an event. During her 15 years of teaching Chinese cooking at New York's China Institute, the author has gained a loyal following. (Some of her pupils are themselves now conducting classes in Chinese cooking.) The cooking demonstrations Mrs. Lin has given in other parts of the country have also won converts to her way of presenting Chinese cuisine. A unique scheme for introducing her recipes, by way of a chart at the beginning of each chapter, testifies to Mrs. Lin's ability to organize material in a helpful way.

"Which Wine?", the Wine Drinker's Buying Guide" by Peter M. F. Sichel and Judy Ley (Harper & Row, $10) is designed for people who feel confused when they set out to buy wine. Sichel knows the wine business — he's the fourth generation of the Sichel family to be in it; his co-author is the neophyte. Together they've written a book that includes brand names and prices and that should help beginning imbibers choose wisely and learn while they are doing so.

Especially for the New Year is "The Food Calendar" by Carol Schneider, (Universe Books, $4.95). Charming color photographs of seasonal foods, information about them and recipes using them open each month of this engagement book. The made-from-scratch dishes are in good taste, easy to make and directions for them are competently written.

'Recipes' Acclaim Julia and Jim

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Ever since the 1890s when a Baltimore lady wrote "How To Cook A Husband" and it was published in a newspaper, "recipes" of that sort have proliferated. These have appeared in homespun cookbooks, produced for charitable purposes, by groups in towns and cities all over the country. Now two such folksy contributions have come out of the U.S.A.'s largest and most sophisticated city — New York.

A few weeks ago the New York Wine and Food Society gave a dinner at the Pierre Hotel to pay tribute to America's best-loved gastronomes, Julia Child and Jim Beard. The dinner program was titled "Julia and Jim ... A Gentle Roasting" and contained two "recipes." Slightly emended because of space limitations, here they are.

HOW TO ROAST

JULIA CHILD

Take 1 charming woman from Pasadena, Calif., and add 1 degree from Smith College. Mix well and pour into the OSS. Blend immediately with handsome Paul Child and let simmer until World War II is over. Then permanently blend Julia and Paul and allow flavors to develop in the U.S. Embassy in Paris for six years. Season with courses at the Cordon Bleu and a sprinkling of French chefs. Add Simone Beck and Louisette Bertholle until L'Ecole des Trois Gourmandes is formed in France's capital.

Return Julia-Paul mixture to Cambridge, Mass., and whip in TV performance. Add TV producer Ruth Lockwood and allow to bubble until the glorious "French Chef" programs result. Let stand for several years.

Stir in interviews on television, radio and in publications plus distinguished awards such as Peabody, Emmy and Ordre du Merite Agricole. Add well-done Knopf books — "Mastering the Art of French Cooking" (2 volumes), "The French Chef Cookbook" (also in paperback by Bantam Books) and "From Julia Child's Kitchen."

Results ... a superb gastronomic creation to delight everyone. Serve warm with a lovely glass of wine. Bon Appetit!

HOW TO ROAST JIM BEARD

Take 1 fresh young boy who's just eaten 1 whole raw onion, season with a childhood in Portland, Ore., where he learns the intricacies of cooking in his family's hotel and allow to ripen thoroughly.

Lift gently and place in New York to simmer. Season with 4 tablespoons of catering firm, "Hors d'Oeuvre and Canapes Inc.," and sample delicious results.

Add numerous cookbooks — "Delights and Prejudices" (Atheneum), "American Cookery" (Little, Brown) and "Beard on Bread" (Knopf) to name a few. Toss with magazine articles, newspaper columns and radio and TV appearances.

Mix in 1 Greenwich Village brownstone, large sprig of teachers and hundreds of eager students. For extra flavor, add dashes of California and Oregon each summer.

Four in a large variety of wines and spirits from major concerns for appraisal and 1 large dash consultancy with Joseph Baum for Restaurant Associates (Four Seasons, Brasserie, Zum-Zum and the now-departed Forum).

Garnish with good plays, opera and friends and allow to roast until perfect. Serve with your finest wine. Bravo!

And what did Julia and Jim eat and drink at the dinner prepared with t. l. c. by Pierre Chef Joseph Melz and the cooperation of six distinguished New York restaurants — La Caravelle, Four Seasons, Coach House, Trattoria da Alfredo, Lutece and Le Cygne? Hors d'oeuvre varies (Mumm's Cordon Rouge Brut); Consomme; Striped Bass (Saint Veran 1973); Mignonette de Veau, Courgette Florentine, Malfatti Parmesan (Chateau-Lascombes 1967); Brie en Brioche (Clos de la Roche 1962); Souffle Glace Framboise (Chateau Climens 1967); and Cafe and Mignardises (Mumm's Extra Dry).

No other than Joe Baum, America's most gifted restaurant and hotel consultant, gave the toast: "To Julia and Jim. May they, their warm kitchens, their loving friends and their appetite for life go on forever."

Engagement Announced

Ms. Mandy Taft and Mr. Roy Gilbert of Greenville announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Taft, to Willie Burn Leach, son of Mrs. Susie Bell Leach of Fayetteville, and the late Mr. Luther Leach Jr. The wedding will take place April 4.

Mormon Women Were Liberated In 19th Century

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

Mormon women were liberated long before that adjective was applied broadly to women seeking equality in work and pay, says Carol Pearson, author, poet, playwright and mother of four small children.

Mormon Church is the popular name for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, to which Mrs. Pearson belongs.

"The first woman state senator in the United States was elected shortly after Utah became a state in 1896," she said in an interview in New York City.

She said the candidate, Martha Hughes Cannon, was 39 years old when she beat her husband in the race. Yet they had a long and happy life together. Mrs. Cannon also became a physician, serving her residency at Deseret Hospital in Salt Lake City.

"By and large, Mormon men seemed to support what their women are doing," said Mrs. Pearson. They still do. For example, her husband, Gerald, borrowed money while he was still in college to publish her first two books of poetry when established publishers rejected them. Both books have since been taken by a leading New York publisher.

Mormons not only talked of emancipation, they acted on it, she said.

Susa Young Gates, daughter of church founder Brigham Young and mother of 13 children, became a prominent lecturer, author, genealogist and church worker.

Mrs. Pearson thinks the lesson to be learned is placing priorities in order, figuring ways for both husbands and wives to realize their potential.

"Men are waking up to the fact that they have been shunted into narrow, stunting types of masculinity," she said.

Early Mormon women did not advocate that every woman seek work outside her home, but they did feel that women should be able to support themselves. In the 19th century, many had to be heads of households, maybe manage a farm or run a retail store while their husbands went on missions, to proselytize for the church.

"Women were forced to develop initiative," Mrs. Pearson said.

Her latest book, "The Flight and the Nest" (Bookcraft Publishers), is filled with many examples of Mormon women who were successful in both careers and home life.

She said Emmeline B. Wells criticized voters in 1884 for opposing a woman president while extolling the leadership virtues of England's Queen Victoria. Mrs. Belya Lockwood was the presidential nominee of the Women's National Rights party that year. Mrs. Wells was editor for 40 years of "Exponent," a Mormon publication.

"Mormon women today are influenced by the 'Fascinating Womanhood' type of thing," Mrs. Pearson said, referring to a popular nonfiction book of antifeminist persuasion, written by a woman who is a Mormon.

"I would hope that the world outside wouldn't mistake her philosophy about women as the official teachings of the church or the way most Mormon women feel," Mrs. Pearson said.

"The church is essentially a patriarchal institution, but I think most men are sufficiently mature that they don't have to have a woman looking up to them so they can look down on her. This attitude can stunt her growth and damage the family."

Soft Drink Tax Proposed

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A multimillion-dollar attack on tooth decay funded in part by a half cent a bottle tax on soda pop has been proposed by Mario Obledo, secretary of the State Health and Welfare Agency.

"We no longer can tolerate a situation in which one-half the California children under age 15 have never been to a dentist, 95 per cent of all Californians suffer from some sort of dental disease, where there are 75 per cent unfilled cavities among Californians and where there are major areas in California with less than one dentist per 3,000 persons," Obledo said.

McGinn Col...

prefers, instead, to explain how Gypsies came by their ways. "We are taught from early childhood that Gypsies have a right to steal from the gadjo. It is our belief that the Bible gives us this right. Although it can't be found in any Bible, the Gypsies believe that when Christ was crucified, a fourth nail which was intended for His heart was stolen by some sympathetic Gypsies.

"In return for this favor, Jesus gave us the right to steal from the gadjo," Marks explained. "A gypsy views a con job the same way a gadjo looks at a saleslady selling a tie or a banker making a loan."

"But we are learning that with an education, we can not only make it in the gadjo world, but we can do it without stealing. We can earn it the way the gadjo's earn from each other.

But the pressures between the new generation of Gypsies and the old is greater than any gadjo or outside influence.

It is here that the pressure on Marks and other young parents to show their elders that making their children and heirs literate will enhance, not detract, from the Gypsy culture, which has survived for 2,000 years with only slight alterations.

"The old people say it will never work," Marks said. "They are convinced it will fail because no Gypsy needs to read and write. We never have. But just one success will take care of the skeptics. A Gypsy will respond to results."

Marks has made himself an example for other Gypsies to follow. He has entered the feared gadjo world on several occasions and proven his point that gadjo's respond.

In 1974 he organized a Gypsy cultural program during the World's Fair here which drew thousands of people.

Inspired, Marks contacted the Smithsonian Institution earlier this year and asked them if they had included the Gypsies in their Bicentennial display which opens in January.

A skeptical official there said he had not and said he would look at Marks plans.

Now ensnared in the Institution are two Gypsy tapestries, one of which was once the top to a covered wagon on which is hand-embroidered all the signs of the zodiac. The wagon traveled from Wichita, Kan., to California during the '49 gold rush.

Also in the display are a traditional gypsy wedding gown and the gypsy flag, a chiffon cloth or rag attached to an axe handle with three ribbons and six coins attached.

Marks also has been stumping for money to educate his people. He has written letters to Pope Paul VI, the Shah of Iran, the past two presidents, half a dozen governors, police chiefs and anyone else he thinks might help the Gypsies help themselves.

He carries the letters he received back around with him. He's most proud of the one he received from the office of the Pope, who held a special audience for European gypsies during the past Holy Year celebrations which ended Christmas Eve night. Most Gypsies are non-practicing Catholics.

"The Holy Father told me the same thing he told a gypsy pilgrim last year—that we remind him of Christ when he was wandering in the desert."

"He said that if we rely on Christ, he will lead us in the right direction for a change. We believe this. We want to do it the right way."

It is estimated it takes just about six gallons of gasoline for a high school driver's education course to teach a student to drive.

RALEIGH (AP) - (NCDA) - The trend on the North Carolina FOB dock broiler market was active today, with the market steady, supplies moderate, demand good.

The North Carolina dock weighted average price is 42.32 cents per pound next week for small purchases of sized plant grade broilers to be picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today is 1,076,000.

The North Carolina hen market had weak tones for next week's trading. Supplies are adequate for the limited demand. Too few sources reporting to release prices.

NEW YORK (AP) - The new year got off to a sluggish start in the stock market today, with prices drifting ahead in slow trading.

Analysts noted that many investors were taking an extended holiday weekend.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up a token .08 at 852.45. Gainers held a 2-1 edge on losers at the New York Stock Exchange.

There was little in the economic news to give the market any strong push in either direction.

Brokers said these investors who were trading today were doing some bargain hunting among issues which seemed to have been depressed in the last of the 1975 tax selling.

American Telephone & Telegraph's Preferred B shares topped the NYSE's most-active list, up 1/4 at 45 1/4. A 44,500 share block of the issue traded at 45 1/4.

I-T-E Imperial rose 1/4 to 19 1/4 and Gould Inc. was off 1/4 at 27 after opening delays in both issues.

The two companies agreed in principle on a merger plan under which each I-T-E share would be converted into .83 of a Gould share.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose .07 to 47.71.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .27 at 83.75.

Presume 2 Men Dead

SNEAD'S FERRY, N.C. (AP)—Two men remain unaccounted for and presumed dead in the aftermath of a Tuesday boating accident.

The body of Bill Mapes of Cary, an airline executive, washed ashore Thursday about three miles from the point off New River Inlet where a fishing boat capsized in heavy seas.

Still missing are Walter Ketter, 55, of Durham and Richard Smith, 40, of Cary.

The lone survivor of the accident recalled the horror of seeing them swept into the ocean Thursday from his hospital bed.

Michael T. Ketter of Cary, 22, said the weather was windy and cold Tuesday when his group set out to fish near the New River inlet off Snead's Ferry.

A wave capsized the boat, Ketter said. All of the men bobbed up and clung to the hull of the boat for about 15 minutes.

Then the elder Ketter was swept away by a wave.

"I tried to go out to get my father. I pulled him back to the boat," Ketter recalled. But by the time he did, the other two men, exhausted, had gone under.

A few minutes later another wave again swept the elder Ketter from the boat. He last saw his father and Smith face down in the water.

Eventually, Ketter left the boat and managed to swim ashore. He collapsed on the beach, recovered his strength somewhat, and got help from a passing motorist.

Ketter was released from the hospital later Thursday.

The National Safety Council estimated that between 350 and 400 persons might die in traffic accidents in the holiday period that began at 6 p.m. local time Wednesday and ends at midnight Sunday.

The Associated Press counted 426 traffic deaths over the most recent four-day New Year's weekend, in 1973.

During last week's four-day Christmas holiday period, 397 persons died, the lowest highway toll for a Christmas weekend of that length since the AP began counting traffic fatalities in 1946.

Calling For Cease-Fire

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) - An immediate cease-fire in the Angolan civil war is being urged by the National Union for Total Independence, one of the three warring factions, South African press reports said today.

The call was made at the annual congress of UNITA, as the national union is known, in Silva Porto, a central Angolan city, the Johannesburg Star reported.

The call was seen as a peace-keeping gesture by UNITA prior to the scheduled Jan. 10 summit meeting of the Organization of African Unity in Addis Ababa.

The Johannesburg newspaper said that as a next step to a cease-fire, UNITA proposed a three-party conference with the National Front and Soviet-backed Popular Movement, or MPLA.

Describing the MPLA as a "misguided brother and not a mortal enemy," UNITA resolutions said the MPLA had been compelled to violate previous peace attempts by the intervention of the Soviet Union.

UNITA made no mention of South African interventions on behalf of the National Front. Russian intervention and its massive arms supplies were the main cause of the renewal of the civil war, UNITA said.

They learned to water ski and ride bicycles and took part in every other activity they wanted to learn.

"One thing I am grateful for is that my parents raised me in a normal environment," she said. "I've met blind people who have been over-protected and, socially, they are awkward. They are on the level of seventh and eighth graders."

Name Outstanding Citizen

The Outstanding Citizen of Grifton for 1975 will be named Tuesday evening, January 6, at the Grifton Chamber of Commerce annual banquet, at 7 p.m. at the Blue Strawberry Restaurant in Grifton.

Nominations for Outstanding Citizen were sought from organizations and individuals in November, any adult in the Grifton area was eligible for consideration.

Incumbent officers for 1976 will be installed by the Grifton Chamber of Commerce during the banquet. Chamber members may attend the banquet without charge, and others who wish to attend may make reservations at $2.25 per person. All those, including Chamber members, who plan to attend must notify Chamber treasurer Catherine Condon at the Library or Chamber secretary Linda Horton at Horton Engineering so arrangements may be made.

Two Arrests For Larceny

The Pitt County Sheriff's Department reported two arrests on breaking and entering and larceny charges during the holiday period.

Howard Lee Gardner of Rt. 2, Ayden was charged with breaking and entering and larceny following investigation of a robbery at Carl Venters Service Station near Grimesland.

Over $120 in cash and merchandise was reported missing from the store, Sheriff Ralph Tyson said. Time of the break-in was reported at 3:30 a.m., New Year's morning.

The Sheriff's Department culminated a two-week investigation of a break-in with the arrest of two Bethel men and a Tarboro man.

Sheriff Tyson reported that James E. Acklin, 33, and Willie Ray Acklin, 21, both of Rt. 1, Bethel, and Willie Earl Jordan of Tarboro, were all arrested in connection with the theft of two electric guitars from a home in Stokes.

The guitars were reported owned by Craig Thomas Fox, and David Alston Stover, both of Stokes. The instruments valued at $1,500, according to the Sheriff.

Holiday Toll Still Mounts

By The Associated Press - The New Year's holiday weekend traffic death toll across the nation continued to mount today, with winter weather affecting driving conditions over a wide area of the nation.

A total of 150 persons had been reported killed by the pre-holiday hours.

Snow and freezing drizzle hampered travel in the Rockies, the northern and central Plains and a large part of the Midwest.

The National Safety Council estimated that between 350 and 400 persons might die in traffic accidents in the holiday period that began at 6 p.m. local time Wednesday and ends at midnight Sunday.

The Associated Press counted 426 traffic deaths over the most recent four-day New Year's weekend, in 1973.

During last week's four-day Christmas holiday period, 397 persons died, the lowest highway toll for a Christmas weekend of that length since the AP began counting traffic fatalities in 1946.

Two Boys Die In Home Fire

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) - Two teen-aged boys, Michael and Robert Mesetic, died in a fire in their home early today.

Fire badly damaged the lower floor of the two-story home of the Jazo Mesetic family in the western portion of the city.

The cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

Organizing New SCUBA Club

An organizational meeting for a new SCUBA Diving Club will be held January 5 at Kings Barbeque in Kinston.

A happy hour will begin at 6:30 p.m. with a dinner and meeting following.

Persons interested are invited to attend the meeting or contact Anita Davis at 758-4402 for more information.

Anniversary Is Observed

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin E. Sutton celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary Sunday afternoon at a reception held at their home.

Hosts and hostesses were their children, Miss J. Lynn Sutton, Gordon L. Sutton and Mr. and Mrs. Randy E. Sutton. The couple has a grandson.

Guests were greeted by the honored couple and their son, Gordon. Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Randy E. Sutton.

Mrs. Sutton was wearing a red knit dress complemented by a white orchid.

The refreshment table was covered with a white lace cloth and decorated with an arrangement of red roses and silver bells flanked by white candles. Mrs. Linwood Butts served wedding cake and Mrs. Edward Pollard poured punch. They were assisted by Mrs. Sarah Hardee and Mrs. Lena Mills.

Miss Sutton received at the gift table which was covered with a white lace and linen cloth. Mrs. Ann Cox presided at the guest register.

Approximately 50 guests called during the afternoon.

Collided Today At Intersection

An estimated $1,200 property damage resulted from an 8:55 a.m. collision today at the intersection of Tenth and Evans Streets.

Police reported a car operated by Gerald Gardner Young of 901 South Evans St. and a truck driven by Palmer Lee Davis of Route 2, Snow Hill were involved in the collision which resulted in an estimated $500 damage to the Young car and about $700 damage to the truck, which overturned as a result of the impact.

Davis was charged by police with failing to stop for a stop light.

Opening Event

The town of Grifton launched its Hickory Shad Fishing Contest January 1, the opening event of the Sixth Annual Grifton Shad Festival, calling it "probably the first Festival event of the Bicentennial year."

Announcement of the winners of the fishing contest will be made the first day of the three-day Shad Festival Weekend, April 9-11. The contest runs for three months, but peak fishing in the Grifton waters is March, with the first fish usually caught in early February.

Prizes will be given for the three largest fish entered by adults and the three largest entered by children. There will also be a prize for the first fish entered and for the fish caught by the person who travels farthest to Grifton.

Fish must be caught in Grifton waters, roughly defined as Contentnea Creek and other small creeks within 20 miles of Grifton which flow into the Neuse River.

SHORT OF RUNWAY

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) - A DC10 jetliner carrying 364 Turkish pilgrims from Mecca and 13 crew members, landed 20 feet short of the runway at Istanbul airport today. Two persons were reported injured.

Sooners Feel They Are Number One

Lady Pirates Tested Early

By TOM FOREMAN JR.
Reflector Staff Writer

East Carolina's women's basketball team will have no easy sledding when their schedule opens next week. But if everything falls into place, the sledding will all be downhill.

The Lady Pirates open with West Chester State on Jan. 9. West Chester is normally regarded as one of the top teams in the country. Following that game, over a week later the Pirates travel into Big Four Country. They face the Wolfpack of N. C. State on Jan. 17, then motor up I-40 for a Super Sunday encounter with the Tar Heels as a prelude to the Carolina-State game.

Coach Catherine Bolton feels the scheduling of the heavy teams at the early part of the season is important in finding the strengths and weaknesses of her club, and vital to where the team will get its final placement in the pairings for their tournament at the end of the year.

One thing the coach won't have to worry about is whether her team will be ready for the Wolfpack and the Tar Heels. "There's a natural motivation for those opponents. We're already driving towards those weekends," Ms. Bolton said.

In what seemed to be a talent-laden tryout, Miss Bolton has switched her team from the normal two-guard, two-center and a pivot man alignment to a three-forward offense to compensate for the lack of height. Heading the list is Susan Manning, the senior from Bethel. Her primary assignment for the upcoming season will be assists, in addition to the rebounds she will probably be hauling in.

Three more girls will have to fight it out for the remaining two spots on the front line. Sophomore Debbie Freeman is a prime candidate for the spot.

Her competition will come from senior Brenda Dail and Chocowinity native Rosalyn Thompson, a freshman and a good rebounder.

The guard positions will be even more of a tossup than the forward post. Ellen Garrison, a senior, is virtually assured of her berth, if, on nothing else, tenure alone. Marie Chamblee was a starter last year, but is getting tough competition from two freshmen, April Ross and Gail Kerbaugh.

Thanks in part to the high number of candidates, the women's program also has a JV squad, and according to Coach Bolton, the tryouts for that roster were just as competitive as the varsity workouts. The varsity dresses 13 girls, the JV 12.

"Maybe we've got some super stars on this team. We do have a larger number of capable players than a lot of teams have," Ms. Bolton said.

"A lot depends on how the freshmen mature. Even if we don't get off to a good start, I have no reason to believe we're not capable of winning."

A team which has five seniors and five freshmen, with little in-between has a lot to look forward to, and the Pirates will get their share of looks in addition to State and Carolina. They will participate in two regular season tournaments at Elon and Rock Hill, S.C., and also travel to Virginia to play against growing Madison College.

Ms. Bolton hopes to make women's basketball at East Carolina more of a pleasure than a drudgery. For the first time this year, a pair of scholarships were awarded, and more will be offered in the future to help attract top prospects. If the first three ECU contests are registered in the win column, women will come whether there's money or not.

Big Four Tournament Matches Unbeaten Fives

By The Associated Press

Wake Forest defends its championship in the sixth annual North Carolina Big Four basketball tournament which opens tonight in the Greensboro Coliseum.

A victory by the Deacons won't be such an upset this time. They are 8-0 this season. Two of the other teams also are undefeated, nationally third-ranked North Carolina with six victories and ninth-ranked North Carolina State with seven. And the other team, Duke, has won six and lost only one, by 86-80 to 12th-ranked Tennessee.

The N.C. State Wolfpack will meet the Duke Blue Devils in the opening game. Wake Forest will play the North Carolina Tar Heels to complete the first night's doubleheader. The consolation and then the championship games will be played Saturday night.

The Greensboro Coliseum has been sold out for weeks, and the teams will split a gate of more than $300,000. The games will not be televised, but they will be broadcast over the radio networks of the schools.

The other three Atlantic Coast Conference schools also will be playing tonight or Saturday night.

Clemson will be home to Biscayne tonight. On Saturday night, Maryland will be home to Long Island, and Virginia will play VMI in Roanoke.

All Big Four teams figure to take on their toughest opponents so far. In compiling their combined 27-1 record they have mopped up against mediocre competition with the exception of teams like Kentucky, Auburn, Virginia Tech and Tennessee.

N.C. State, which has won the tournament three of the five times, has averaged 103.4 points a game this season. All four teams are shooting well over 50 per cent from the floor.

The opening games promise exciting matchups. These include Duke's Willie Hodge vs. State's Phil Spence, and North Carolina's Phil Ford vs. Wake Forest's Skip Brown.

Hodge and Spence have performed almost flawlessly this season, and are the primary reasons for their team's fast starts.

Ford was the most valuable player in last year's ACC tournament, and Brown was last year's Big Four MVP. Ford has the edge in dribbling and passing, and Brown has been a more consistent scorer.

Duke does not have a strong forward to take care of State's 6-7 Kenny Carr, who is averaging 29.1 points a game. Duke probably will try to compensate by beating State in the backcourt. Tate Armstrong, a 6-2 guard, has guided the Blue Devil attack superbly. And he has received a lot of help from freshman swingman Jim Sparker.

Wake Forest doesn't have the size to battle North Carolina's 6-10 inside men, Mitch Kupchak and Tommy LaGarde. Wake Forest's big surprise has been 6-8 senior center Daryl Peterson, little used a year ago. Deacon sophomore Rod Griffin was named MVP in last week's Gator Bowl Classic. But he will need more help from Peterson and from Charlie Floyd if Wake Forest is to win the Big Four again.

MIAMI (AP) — Oklahoma will have to wait a little longer to find out if a 14-6 Orange Bowl victory over Michigan is enough for a second straight national football title. But Coach Barry Switzer has made up his mind.

"I would like to think that we're No. 1," said Switzer, whose Sooners were put back into the national championship picture along with Arizona State, Alabama and Ohio State when UCLA shocked Ohio State 23-10 in the Rose Bowl.

The season's final poll is to be announced late today.

"A 14-0 game would have looked good for the pollsters ... and I hope that the score doesn't discount the way we really played."

"We gave them their touch-down," said Switzer of the defensive effort that kept Michigan in check until a fumble at the Oklahoma two-yard line opened the door in the fourth quarter. Bo Schembechler, whose Wolverines fell 21-10 to Ohio State in the Big Ten title game in November, stayed out of the controversy over who should be No. 1.

"I don't have any opinion on that at all," said Schembechler. "I think Oklahoma is a great team ... one of the finest we've ever met."

"We were just not good enough to beat a team of this caliber tonight, and I emphasize 'tonight.'"

"I would like to congratulate our team for their comeback from the Kansas game," said Switzer, recalling the 23-3 loss that mars the Sooners' record. The Sooners rebounded with a 28-27 victory over Missouri and 35-10 conquest of Nebraska to win the Big Eight berth in the Orange Bowl.

A 39-yard run by reserve wide receiver Billy Brooks boosted Oklahoma into a 7-0 halftime lead and quarterback Steve Davis added a 10-yard scoring run on the first play of the fourth quarter to snare the Wolverines.

But it was the defense, which cut the nation's second best rushing offense to half its normal production by allowing only 169 yards, that controlled the outcome for Oklahoma. The defense Switzer called "super" was led by All-America linemen Leroy and Dewey Selmon and Jimbo Elrod, who accounted for 30 unassisted tackles.

Sidney Brown killed a third period scoring opportunity for the Wolverines, set up by Dan Jilek's recovery of Jim Culbreath's fumble at the Oklahoma 26, by intercepting a pass in the end zone. Two other Wolverine passes were picked off by Scott Hill.

"We gambled all night, more so than usual," admitted Schembechler. His pass-poor Wolverines, who threw less than 10 times a game in regular season, went to the air 20 times in their upset bid. But he blamed the failure to complete only two tosses to execution rather than defense.

Michigan's loss also cost President Gerald Ford, a Michigan alumnus, one dollar. He had made the wager on the outcome with Oklahoma Sen. Dewey Bartlett last month.

Brown Quits As Bengal Coach

By NORM CLARKE
AP Sports Writer

CINCINNATI (AP) — Paul Brown, the dean of National Football League coaches whose success during a 41-year career served as a hallmark of excellence, resigned Thursday as the head coach of the Cincinnati Bengals.

"It's unfortunate," said Bengals tight end Bob Trumpy. "He's the last of the old line coaches. George Halas is gone. Vince Lombardi is gone, and now Paul Brown."

Brown, in a move whose suddenness shocked both his players and assistant coaches, said that he was retaining his position as the team's general manager and named assistant Bill Johnson as his successor.

"We had no inkling of his decision," said center Bob Johnson, who was the first player drafted by Brown when he took over the newly-organized Bengals in 1967. "He was one of the founding fathers of football. He was one of the shaping forces in the National Football League and will probably continue it. He won't stop."

A Bengals spokesman said Brown, who was named to the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1967, was at his winter home on the West Coast and did not elaborate on his reasons for stepping down after guiding the Bengals to an 11-3 season, their most successful season since their inception eight years ago.

However, the 67-year-old Brown had always previously brushed aside questions of retirement. His retirement comes at a time when the Bengals appear to be blossoming into a Super Bowl contender behind quarterback Ken Anderson.

He won a national title while coaching at Ohio State from 1941-43, posting an 18-8 record, then had success with the Great Lakes Naval Training Center team before forming the Browns in 1946.

Coke Takes Tournament

Coca-Cola romped to a 95-69 victory in the finals of the Adult Basketball League's Pre-Season Tournament.

Coke rolled up a 53-33 lead in the first half, and never was in trouble. They outbit the David Wildcats, 42-36, in the final half to wrap it up.

"Albert Holloman led Coke with 31 points, while Mike Board added 20. Donnell Speight led Davis with 19, with Cleveland Johnson hitting 16. Steve Johnson added 11 and Larry Worthington got 10.

The league opens regular play on Monday.

Youth Nite For Pirates

East Carolina University's basketball team returns to action tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Minges Coliseum. The Pirates will be playing host to The Citadel.

Youth Night will be observed at the game. All youths 12 and under, will be admitted free. Junior High, high school and technical institute students will be admitted for $1.

The Bucs go into the game with a 4-5 overall mark and a 2-1 South Conference mark. The Citadel is 2-6 overall and 0-2 within the league.

Dons Are Favored

HOUSTON (AP) — The 14th-ranked San Francisco Dons loomed as the favorite tonight as the Bluebonnet Basketball Classic opens.

The Dons were to meet defending Southwest Conference champion Texas A&M, 6-2, in the second game, following the opening contest matching host University of Houston, 6-1, with crosstown rival Houston Baptist University, 2-7.

The championship and consolation games will be played Saturday night.

Dallas Personnel Problem To Knox

By KEN PETERS
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Chuck Knox says he will have lots to think about when the shotgun-toting Cowboys try to shoot holes in the Rams' rock-solid defense Sunday in the Dallas-Los Angeles duel for the National Football Conference championship and a Super Bowl berth.

While the Los Angeles coach is concerned with Dallas' unorthodox shotgun offensive set, he says he is worried more about the people running the shotgun than the formation itself.

"Dallas has many offensive sets," Knox said this week as his NFC Western Division champions prepared to meet the conference wild-card representative Cowboys. "And it has the players who can give you the big plays. Drew Pearson does it consistently, and Staubach is the kind of quarterback who adds an extra dimension to your offense."

The Rams should remember Staubach-to-Pearson. That combination clicked on a dramatic last minute touchdown pass to topple Minnesota 17-14 last Sunday, but it wasn't the first time the duo had ended an opponent's hopes for a Super Bowl trip.

Two years ago, Staubach hit Pearson with a fourth-quarter bomb to help Dallas score a 27-16 decision over Los Angeles in the first round of the playoffs.

And in the opening game of the 1975 season, the Staubach-led Cowboys handed the Rams an 18-7 setback.

If the play of the Rams' defense in the team's 12-2 season is any indication, however, the Cowboys won't find points easy to come by this time around.

The Ram defense gave up just 135 points in regular season play, and only one team — the 1969 Vikings with 133 — had given up less.

And in the Rams' latest outing, the playoff opener with St. Louis last Saturday, the Los Angeles defense picked off three Jim Hart passes, returning two for touchdowns in the 35-23 triumph over the Cardinals.

Rams defensive coordinator Ray Malavasi explains the team's opportunistic defensive play as "anticipation."

"We don't know what's coming all the time with a team like Dallas," Malavasi said. "We can guess, through scouting reports and statistics, that on a certain down they'll be in this formation and might run this play but we're not positive. We're anticipating."

Knox said the Cowboys are a veteran team. "Of their 22 starters, 21 are veterans, 14 of them guys who played in the Super Bowl," Knox said.

The Cowboys bring a 10-4 record into the game, a sellout that will be nationally televised.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Right-hander Rick Wise, the winning pitcher in the Boston Red Sox' American League playoff clincher, will be honored by the St. Louis chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America this month.

The 31-year-old Wise, who was traded by the St. Louis Cardinals to the Red Sox in 1973, will receive the chapter's Bob Bauman Award for a physical comeback from injuries which hampered him in 1974.

Other players to be honored during the Jan. 26 fete include the Cincinnati Reds' Joe Morgan and Pete Rose and the Cardinals' Al Hrabosky and Lou Brock.

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — Former PGA champion Dave Stockton has a one-stroke lead after shooting a five-under-par 66 in the first round of the $65,000 Lynx Invitational Pro-Am golf championship — the first pro tournament of 1976.

Stockton closed with an eagle two Thursday at the par 71 Laguna Seca Golf Ranch, sinking a two-iron on the up-hill 420-yard ninth hole.

One stroke behind at 67 is Bob Risch of Diamond Bar, Calif., who played on the par 72 Corral de Tierra country club course — one of three, being used for the tournament.

Victor Martin of Palm Desert, Calif.; Roy Pace of Longview Tex., and Mark Lye of Napa, Calif., all finished at 68.

Thursday's opening round was played in warm sunshine, but only after the start was delayed an hour for heavy overnight frost to clear.

The low 90 pros and ties after 54 holes will compete in the final round Sunday at Laguna Seca for $12,000 top money.

Air Force senior linebacker Dave Lawson of Shawnee Mission, Kan., holds five NCAA kicking records, including most career field goals and most career points by kicking.

Senior Greg Schneider of Rock Island, Ill., captains the Air Force Academy basketball team.

Bruins Take Glee In Upsets

By DAN BERGER
AP Sports Writer
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — UCLA gets to the Rose Bowl only once every decade, but once here the Bruins take glee in beating the nation's top-ranked football team.

"We don't go very often, but when we do, we do it up right," said UCLA Athletic Director J.D. Morgan as the Bruins dashed into their locker room Thursday after their 23-10 upset of unbeaten No. 1-ranked Ohio State.

It was exactly 10 years ago that UCLA last was in the Rose Bowl. And the Bruins then used a stern defense to stun top-ranked unbeaten Michigan State 14-12.

In both cases, UCLA had lost earlier in the season to their Jan. 1 opponent, but gained revenge. And both times the UCLA offense came into the game heralded, but it was the off-maligned defense which led the foes without a touchdown for the first three periods.

The Buckeyes pushed the Bruins all over the wind-swept field in the first half Thursday, but led only 3-0. The key to UCLA's victory was a change in the offensive game plan, said Coach Dick Vermeil.

"They had been using a man-to-man pass defense and bringing the safety (Ray Griffin) up to help on runs," said Vermeil. "All we did was go to our short passing game. It's awfully hard to cover good receivers with a man-to-man defense."

Quarterback John Sciarra

used the tactic to hit flanker Wally Henry for touchdown passes of 16 and 67 yards and Wendell Tyler, suffering from a painful wrist injury, ran 54 yards for another score to cinch the triumph that gave the Bruins a 9-2-1 record.

Unknown to the Bruins, however, was an injury to Ohio State's Heisman Trophy-winning tailback, Archie Griffin, which probably hurt the Buckeyes almost as much. The 5-foot-9, 182-pound Griffin suffered a broken bone in his left hand on the game's third play. He gained 70 yards on 11 carries in the first half and wound up with only 17 carries.

Vermeil, unaware of the injury which was not revealed until hours after the game, praised many of his players. "Look at what Wendell did," said Vermeil. "That wrist was really hurting. But what did he gain?" Tyler gained 472 yards, his best performance in a season that saw him set a single season UCLA rushing record of 1,216 yards.

"Did your defense stop Griffin as you hoped?" the coach was asked.

"How many yards did he gain?" asked Vermeil.

"Ninety-three," came the reply.

"Then we did real well."

Despite the convincing conquest, Vermeil said, "Over a 12-game schedule, I still think Ohio State is the best team in the nation, and now I think we should be in the top five." UCLA, which lost to Ohio State 41-20 and Washington 17-13 and tied Air Force 20-20, was ranked No. 11 in the next-to-last Associated Press poll.

Woody Hayes, the irascible 62-year-old general of the Buckeyes, ducked out of the Bowl, which earlier had held 105,464 fans, almost immediately after the game. His only remark: "UCLA simply played a great game. They just beat us." He ordered his players not to speak with the news media.

Oakland Moans Over Injuries

PITTSBURGH (AP) — To hear Oakland owner Al Davis tell it, the Pittsburgh Steelers should sit on the bench for the first half of the American Football Conference title game Sunday — just to make it a fair match.

"We've had one injury after another this year. And we're still banged up," said Davis. "We're in trouble."

This approach is a contrast to the pregame banter before last year's playoff meeting between Oakland and Pittsburgh.

Raider Coach John Madden said then that the Oakland-Miami playoff game was the real bowl for superstars and the remark not only fired the Steelers but irritated unflappable Coach Chuck Noll.

"I think we'll have something to say about that," Noll responded. His Steelers went on to beat Oakland 24-13.

The kind of sportspage bravado that inspires the opposition is not part of the Noll game plan.

"I know a lot of people who win the Super Bowl before the season starts. I always thought that's why we play the games. When people stand up and say they're the best, that adds fuel to the fire," Noll says.

And Davis has apparently learned the Noll lesson of the tight lip. Not willing to trigger any short fuse in the Steelers, he is much more conciliatory this year.

"We always thought Miami was the best team in the last 20 years, but now I'm not sure if the Steelers aren't better than Miami was," offered the flamboyant Raider managing general partner in an interview with a Post-Gazette reporter.

"They've got a tremendous advantage at home and they know it," he added, also failing to mention that the Raiders beat the Steelers 17-0 the last time they visited Three Rivers Stadium.

Noll remains unnervingly cool about Sunday's match.

"It's a fun game. Our guys like to play fun games," he says, even as his rival promotes him for a Pro Bowl coaching spot.

"Chuck's got more guys there than anybody else (10) so it just seems right for him to coach the team," says Davis, failing to mention that the coaching job goes to the loser of the AFC title game.

But Davis' "Alas, poor me" approach to Sunday's installment in one of the most intense league rivalries does not jibe with the facts.

Davis has built an organization that has the best record in pro football over the past 12 years. The Raiders used one season to rebuild and have since won their division.

But the Raiders have only made it to the Super Bowl once and Super Bowl II was a 33-14 loss to Green Bay. That silver football has stayed maddeningly out of reach.

"Oh, one of these days we'll win the thing," Davis said casually. "But we're proud of our record. We've stayed up every year. Other teams go up and down. We're in it every year." Until Sunday though, the Oakland bravado is slightly subdued.

Shoestring Play Set Arkansas In Motion

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — The "Great Shoestring Gambit" turned the 40th annual Cotton Bowl Classic into a little Las Vegas New Year's Day and the Arkansas Razorbacks came up holding the ace.

Georgia Coach Vince Dooley gambled on his pet trick play when the Bulldogs held a touchdown lead late in the first half, and it backfired so bad Arkansas scorched the Southeast Conference runners-up 31-10.

"Everyone will second guess whether the play should have been called at that time and place on the field," said Georgia quarterback Ray Goff. "The shoestring play could have been a great one or a sorry one and this one turned out sorry."

"It would have been a great play if it had worked," moaned Dooley.

Georgia held a 10-3 lead with time seemingly running out in the first half. The Bulldogs had thoroughly dominated the Southwest Conference co-champion Razorbacks.

But Dooley decided to deal for some higher stakes. The 12th-rated Bulldogs, seven point underdogs, stopped the Arkansas offense in the first half with stunting linebackers. Forte gained 112 yards to win the most valuable offensive player award while McAfee, who recovered two fumbles, intercepted a pass and made seven tackles, was the top defensive player.

"Arkansas was every bit as good as we expected—maybe better," said Dooley. "They were a complete football team and it showed in the second half."

Georgia made only one first down after Dooley's gamble turned into disaster.

A Southwest Conference coach watching from the press box — who asked to remain anonymous — said: "I wouldn't have touched that play with a 10-foot pole that deep in my end of the field. It's suicidal."

Arkansas finished the year 10-2. Georgia was 9-3.

Lack Of Blockers Is Worrying East Coach

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer
STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Louisiana State's Charlie McClendon, who will be coaching the East team in Saturday's 51st Shrine East-West football game, has three talented running backs who need some help.

"We brought runners, not the blockers," the LSU coach admitted when analyzing the abilities of running backs Sonny Collins of Kentucky, Lonnie Perrin of Illinois and Mike Pruitt of Purdue.

The East will be counting on a group of big linemen, including 257-pound Dennis Lick of Wisconsin and 260-pound Jim Eidson of Mississippi State, to make some running room for the backfield trio.

Quarterback Jeff Grantz of South Carolina also is an excellent runner, and Toledo's Gene Swick figures to be in the game when the East stresses passing. Swick's 8,074 yards total offense broke the NCAA career record held by Jim Plunkett of Stanford.

California Coach Mike White has Cal's All-American back, Chuck Muncie, on the West squad, and if the 228-pound Muncie heads through the line behind Wyoming fullback Lawrence Gaines, 231, it will take sturdy defenders to stop them.

"My approach to this game is to give the public the opportunity to see some great players perform what they do best," says White. That means Muncie will be running a lot and West quarterbacks Craig Penrose and Steve Myer will be doing their share of passing.

"I know I've been called one of the best pro quarterback prospects in college football. Now I want to prove it, and this game gives me a chance," said Penrose, the San Diego State star who led the nation in passing this season.

Myer, from New Mexico, ranked third nationally in passing, behind Penrose and Swick. West receivers include Cal's Steve Rivera and Grambling's Sammie White.

The Shriners, who run the East-West game and have raised more than $4 million for their hospitals for crippled children in the first 50 years of their existence, are hoping for a crowd of about 70,000 in Stanford Stadium Saturday. There will be no television coverage this year.

The East has won the last three games but trails in the series 24-21-5.

Johnson Leads Rocket Victory

By The Associated Press
John Johnson has something to be happy about, having gotten the new year off to a good start in leading the Houston Rockets to victory against his former teammates, the Portland Trail Blazers.

When the Rockets have needed "JJ," which hasn't been often this National Basketball Association season, the 6-foot-7 forward has been there for Coach John Egan. Thursday night he scored 22 points, 14 of them in the final period, to give Houston a 110-107 triumph.

"Johnson has had three good games in a row for us," said Coach Egan after the victory. "There have been periods where he hasn't played much and I've asked him to work extra hard on his own to keep in top shape. He is a pro and he has done it."

Lack of playing time is what led to Johnson's mid-November trade from Portland for forward-center Steve Hawes. But Coach Len Wilkens of the Trail Blazers, who blew a five-point lead in the closing three minutes, found kind words for his former co-worker.

"JJ hit some fine clutch shots on us there at the end," Wilkens said. "You've seen me shoot that way before," a modest Johnson said after the victory. "It feels good, real good. This was a big win for us. I just kind of got lucky."

In the only other NBA game Thursday night, the Washington Bullets recorded a 114-103 victory over the Phoenix Suns. The American Basketball Association took the night off.

Bill Walton's driving layup had given Portland a 103-98 lead with 3:12 left. Then Johnson hit a pair of free throws, Joe Meriweather hit a basket and Johnson connected twice more to put Houston ahead to stay while Portland missed five shots in a row.

Walton, in his second appearance since being sidelined with wrist and finger injuries, hit 13 of 23 from the field and finished the game with 30 points.

Rudy Tomjanovich also scored 22 for Houston.

Bullets 114, Suns 103
There was a similar situation in Landover, Md., as lightly-used Leonard "Truck" Robinson tied his 21-point career high — nearly 13 points above his average — in leading Washington past Phoenix.

"I got a chance to play a little more when Elvin (Hayes) hurt his neck," he said. "I got more involved in the offense and was able to get some good shots."

The 6-foot-7, second-year forward from Tennessee State was high scorer for the Bullets, who had six players in double figures. Hayes and Wes Unseld each had 18, Phil Chenier had 16, Mike Riordan 15, Jimmy Jones 13 and Nick Weatherpsorn 10.

Phoenix, which now has lost six of its last seven games, was led by Paul Westphal's 25 points. Dick Van Arsdale added 21.

Coach Angry Over Sticking

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer
It wasn't the loss that mattered to Bep Guidolin. As coach of the second-year Kansas City Scouts, he had seen more than his share of those.

It was something more than that. He was insulted — enraged — by the Philadelphia Flyers. One of his few solid players, left wing Guy Charron, suffered a stick cut over his right eye in the last minute of play and required stitches. Seconds later Craig Patrick was high-sticked by Ed Van Impe, needed stitches and may have suffered a broken nose.

"They are just a bunch of hatchets," the fuming Guidolin said after the 4-2 defeat. "They're just out there trying to kill somebody with their sticks. Then they complain about getting penalties."

"What we need is a couple of guys in here to do the same thing, just like they did. We ought to bring in a couple of butchers who can't even skate but just swing their sticks at everybody in the league and try to chop their heads off."

Bep Guidolin had finished. His team had played to the best of its ability, outshot the Flyers 39-34, and even had a three-man advantage in the last minute when two Philadelphia skaters were penalized and goalie Denis Herron had been pulled from his net.

But the Flyers' Bill Barber skinned a shot into Kansas City's empty net, negating any chance of a tie and sealing the triumph.

Elsewhere in the National Hockey League, the Los Angeles Kings outscored the Buffalo Sabres 9-6 and the Toronto Maple Leafs downed the California Seals 5-1. In the World Hockey Association, the Calgary Cowboys topped the Edmonton Oilers 5-1.

Don Saleski and Rick McLeish scored second-period goals two minutes apart to break a 1-1 tie, then Philadelphia goaltender Bobby Taylor survived the last-minute Kansas City rush to lead the Flyers past the Scouts.

Taylor, making his first appearance of the season after Wayne Stephenson started the first 35 games, stopped 17 shots in the third period.

Tom Bladon opened the Flyers' scoring with 11 seconds remaining in the first period. Kansas City got goals from Wil Paiement and Charron.

Kings 9, Sabres 6
Butch Goring scored three goals, one of them in a six-goal second period, as the Kings took a 5-1 lead but saw the Sabres pull within 7-6 before pulling away again.

Maple Leafs 5, Seals 1
Right wing Lanny McDonald scored twice and added an assist to pace Toronto past California.

Cowboys 5, Oilers 1
Ron Chipperfield scored twice and set up what proved to be the game-winner for Calgary. Cowboys goalie Don McLeod picked up his seventh assist of the year on another Calgary score.

Nothing New In CBS Probe Of King Death

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — CBS News offers tonight a one-hour TV study of the 1968 assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., whether James Earl Ray did it, and, if so, whether he acted alone or as part of a conspiracy.

Ray pleaded guilty in a Tennessee court in 1969 to King's slaying in Memphis, but renounced that plea, to no avail. He later failed in a federal court bid to withdraw his plea and go on trial, but a new effort by him now is pending before a federal appeals court.

In tonight's show, correspondent Dan Rather says CBS News, in its probe into the slaying of King, the black civil rights leader and Nobel Peace Prize winner, tried to interview Ray in prison.

"But due to the repeated advice of his lawyers, he wouldn't talk for this broadcast," he adds. "So the best witness stands mute."

Like CBS' two-part November study of President John F. Kennedy's assassination, tonight's show revisits the scene of the slaying, restudies the evidence and interviews various persons, ranging from one of Ray's current lawyers to a Memphis landlady who rented Ray a room.

In the Kennedy shows, CBS cautiously concluded that while "it may never be established" whether Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone, "the evidence indicates" that Oswald "probably did" shoot Kennedy.

There's none of that in tonight's show. CBS fails to turn up any evidence of a conspiracy to kill King and doesn't offer any opinion, even a cautiously-worded one, on whom it thinks may have killed him.

It simply says, among other things, that Tennessee's case against Ray as a lone assassin "was not as air-tight as we had been told," that no one saw the fatal shot fired and that there's no evidence Ray was near the scene of King's death "at the moment of the murder."

And it reiterates that "what seemed to be unquestionable proof — an unqualified plea of guilty — now is in legal contest" and that a federal appellate court decision on Ray's case may come soon.

So, despite its work, the show winds up sounding the let's-have-an-independent-investigation call CBS News first made at the end of its November probe into the Kennedy assassination.

At that time, it said "history will be less confused" if new congressional probes are made about information CBS said was withheld from the Warren Commission by the CIA and the FBI.

Tonight, it says that regardless of the court decision Ray gets, doubts about the circumstances of King's assassination still will remain and "an outside investigation is now needed" to attempt to resolve those doubts.

It said the probe could be made either by Congress or by an independent commission appointed by the president.

On Monday night, CBS will air the last of its four-program series on the shootings of major American leaders. It says that

Only 4 Spills In Many Probes

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — More than 18,000 oil and gas wells have been drilled in U.S. offshore waters, including 15,200 in the Gulf of Mexico.

The Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Co. says only four significant oil spills have occurred from offshore exploration, and none resulted in permanent damage to the environment.

The gas company said only about three per cent of the outer continental shelf has been opened by government for leasing.

a return cue-bid of his ace. South felt he was justified in contracting for twelve tricks.

Fearing the possibility of a ruff in dummy, West got his side off to a good start by leading a trump, thereby removing one of dummy's entries. Declarer, acting more on reflex than thought, noticed he could take a club finesse, so he won the opening lead in dummy and ran the queen of clubs. West won the king and returned another trump, and declarer suddenly realized his predicament. He could discard two diamonds on the ace of spades and third club, but there was no way to get to dummy after unblocking the ace of clubs. Declarer took one diamond discard on the ace of spades and the queen of clubs and claim his slam.

Had declarer not been so mesmerized by the club finesse, he might have seen the winning line. He could afford to lose a club if, in so doing, he could establish a club trick to take care of a diamond loser. After winning the jack of hearts, declarer should simply have led a club to the ace and conceded a club, establishing dummy's queen. He could then get back to dummy with the king of hearts, discard two diamonds on the ace of spades and the queen of clubs and claim his slam.

Games, Parades And Tragedies Usher New Year

By The Associated Press
America ushered in the New Year with parades, Bicentennial events and the usual football games. But fires in the United States and an airline crash and a cafe fire overseas lent a touch of tragedy to the new year.

And others had to cope with a storm that dumped 19 inches of snow on parts of Wyoming and Nebraska.

As millions of Americans sat home Thursday to watch 11 hours of televised football, nearly 14 million spectators lined the streets of Pasadena, Calif., for the 87th annual Tournament of Roses parade. Police said it was the largest crowd in the pageant's history.

In Philadelphia, early risers and those who stayed up all night made a pilgrimage to the new home of the Liberty Bell on the first day of the nation's Bicentennial.

The famed bell was removed from Independence Hall early Thursday and placed in a newly built pavilion designed to accommodate the millions of visitors expected in 1976.

In Washington, President and Mrs. Ford welcomed the new year in quiet fashion. Ford caught up on some paper work in his Oval Office, signed some bills, then spent part of the day Thursday like millions of others — watching football.

Southern California had some of the oddest weather. Snow fell

Thursday at San Diego for the first time since Dec. 13, 1967, but it melted almost as soon as it landed.

A morning earthquake centered 20 miles east of Los Angeles was reported by the California Institute of Technology. There were no reports of injuries or property damage.

Pope Paul VI opened the year appealing for lasting peace.

"Nothing can be for man's well-being unless people live in harmony; respect each others' rights and engage in friendly discussion and constructive talks," the 78-year-old pontiff told a gathering in St. Peter's Square Thursday.

For some, the first day of 1976 will be remembered as a day of tragedy.

Fires swept through homes from New England to the West Coast on New Year's Eve and into Thursday, killing more than 30 persons. Many of the victims were children, and some of them perished while their parents were away at celebrations.

A party at a crowded, two-room cafe in La Louviere, Belgium, ended with 16 dead and 33 injured when a flash fire stampeded revelers, and a Lebanese jetliner crashed into a Saudi desert in Lebanon

Thursday, killing all 82 persons aboard.

Kacy Coody, 2, was killed in a Maryville, La., cemetery when the top portion of an old tombstone fell, crushing his head and chest. The boy's parents were taking him for a New Year's visit to the grave of his great-grandmother.

In some places, the New Year remained as violent as the old.

In Portugal, national guardsmen fired into a crowd at Oporto, killing three civilians. In Northern Ireland, terrorist bombs in Catholic and Protestant pubs killed three drinkers and injured others.

Begins Serving Church Sunday

Dr. Harold W. Deitch will begin his ministry at the Red Oak Christian Church Sunday. He comes to Red Oak from the First Christian Church, Salem, Ohio, where he served as minister for 22 years.

Dr. Deitch was born in Martins Ferry, Ohio. He graduated from Kentucky Christian College and did his graduate study at Butler School of Religion, Butler University, Indianapolis, Ind.

During his ministry, he has received 1,800 new members into the church. For the past 10 years his church has had the distinction of being in the Upper Ten of the Christian Churches of the United States in the number of baptisms.

He has traveled around the world and has conducted preaching missions in Australia, Jamaica, and Puerto Rico. He is a Mason, Shriner, Kiwanian and an honorary Kentucky Colonel. For 20 years he has been on the Salvation Army Advisory Board.

DR. H. W. DEITCH

On March 24, 1975, Bethany College in West Virginia (the oldest college established by the Disciples of Christ) honored him with the honorary Doctor of Divinity degree for sending so many young people into the

Handcuffed In Cab Trunk

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A Charlotte cab driver lay handcuffed in the trunk of his yellow cab near Landis Wednesday while a young man who described himself as a professional killer fired six shots through the back seat into the trunk.

The first bullet from the .38 caliber revolver hit 61-year-old James C. Pressley in the thigh. The others missed him by inches. The bullets made a circular pattern about a foot in diameter.

"He was trying to make sure he didn't miss me," Pressley said.

Pressley, the father of six, said that his fare, about 18 years old, pulled the gun, handcuffed him, robbed him of about $90, forced him into the trunk, and drove through Concord and then to Landis about 30 miles from Charlotte.

It took Pressley about 45 minutes to get out of the trunk by breaking the fiberboard wall separating it from the back seat.

Pressley, who has been driving taxis off and on since 1939, said he had been robbed once before, in 1940.

McGovern On Asian Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern is on a three-week trip to Asia that will take him to Pakistan, India, Bangladesh and North Vietnam.

His press secretary said McGovern, chairman of a Senate subcommittee on Near Eastern and South Asian affairs, will meet officials of the countries for discussions on international relations and foreign aid.

He said McGovern was visiting Hanoi "mainly to consider relations with the Vietnamese government and the over-all political situation in Southeast Asia."

McGovern left by commercial jet on Thursday. He was accompanied by members of his staff.

Yoga Classes Start Tuesday

The Greenville Recreation Department will again hold Yoga classes starting Tuesday, January 6. Mrs. Joan Courter is conducting a class for continuing students only. The class will meet each Tuesday from 5:30-7:00 p.m. at Elm Street Center for six weeks. The fee for the continuing class is $16.00.
