Court Erases Spending Limit In Campaigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today struck down campaign spending limits but upheld presidential campaign subsidies and other major provisions of the Federal Election Campaign Act.

In its opinion, the court held that the limitations on campaign spending violate the guarantees of freedom of expression in the First Amendment to the Constitution.

It ruled that limits on contributions, and requirements that they be disclosed, are permissible means to combat improper influence or the appearance of such influence.

As to the spending limits, the court said in its unsigned opinion that they "impose direct and substantial restraints on the quantity of political speech."

The court said the requirements for public identification of contributors, and other financing disclosures, would serve the government's interest in informing the electorate and avoiding political corruption.

The court also curbed the enforcement powers of the Federal Election Commission, saying it could exercise only the kind of investigatory authority which might otherwise be delegated to a congressional committee.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger dissented from the portions of the decision upholding requirements for disclosure of small contributions, upholding the limits on contributions and providing for presidential campaign subsidies.

Justice William H. Rehnquist concurred in most of the decision but contended that provisions for general election financing discriminated against minor parties and independents.

Justice Thurgood Marshall concurred with the bulk of the opinion but said he would have upheld a section limiting the amounts that a candidate can spend from his personal funds or family funds under his control.

Justice Henry A. Blackmun dissented from part of the decision upholding a $1,000 limitation on contributions by individuals and groups to candidates and campaign committees.

Justice Byron R. White dissented from the ruling to strike down the spending limits, saying that they "reinforce the contribution limits and help eradicate the hazard of corruption."

The court's main opinion said:

"A restriction on the amount of money a person or group can spend on political communication during a campaign necessarily reduces the quantity of expression by restricting the number of issues discussed, the depth of their exploration and the size of the audience reached. This is because virtually every means of communicating ideas in today's mass society requires the expenditure of money."

The court has been under pressure to decide the case quickly because of its impact on the current presidential campaign. The justices heard arguments in the case Nov. 11.

Only eight justices were eligible to vote since Justice John Paul Stevens did not become a member of the court until Dec. 19, after the arguments had been heard.

The act was challenged by former Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., an independent candidate for the presidency this year; Sen. James L. Buckley, R-Con-N.Y.; and other individuals and groups. The challenge was based on a wide array of constitutional grounds, including privacy, freedom of speech and separation of governmental powers.

On Dec. 22, the court split 4 to 4 in denying a motion to suspend the act until its constitutionality had been decided.

Since that vote, the Federal Election Commission has authorized payment of more than $3.25 million to 11 presidential candidates and the two major political parties.

The act calls for subsidizing presidential campaigns and conventions with money set aside by taxpayers in filing their income tax returns and limits spending by presidential candidates to $10 million in primaries and $20 million in the general election campaign, plus 20 per cent for fund raising.

The measure also limits spending by Senate and House candidates.

Some New Funding Proposals Heard

By TOM BAINES

The second and final public hearing on the Community Development Program for Greenville for 1976-77 was held last night at city hall. Several new funding proposals were offered to the City Council as the list of requests for shares of the $1.9 million in federal funds increased.

Mayor Percy Cox told the gathering that the Council will now meet in workshop sessions and come up with the list of items that will be submitted to the Department of Housing and Urban Development as part of the city's application for CDP funds.

Cox said that the application deadline for the second-year funds has been set as Feb. 10 and the city must have its paperwork in by that time unless HUD extends the deadline to March.

City Planner John Schofield briefly explained the CDP for the audience and pointed out that due to the city's past participation in HUD programs, it is eligible to apply for $1.9 million for each of three years extending to 1977-78. In addition to the $5.7 million for the first three years, conditional funding has been earmarked in the amount of $2.2 million for two additional years.

Schofield said that the public hearings, which were also conducted last year as the city applied for its first $1.9 million in CDP funds, are required by HUD as a means of informing the public on the program as well as gaining citizen input for funding priorities.

Some 42 projects were approved under the first year of the program here, it was noted, and about ten of those projects are expected to be carried over into the second year of the program. A few of the projects, such as the West Meadowbrook program, is scheduled as a three-year effort.

Flu Outbreak Is Spreading

By JACK STILLMAN
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA (AP) — Influenza has been reported in nine states with outbreaks in five of them, the national Center for Disease Control reported today.

The latest states to be added to the list of A-Victoria outbreaks include Iowa, Massachusetts, New Jersey and New York. Outbreaks were reported earlier in Minnesota and Oregon.

Isolated cases of A-Victoria also have been reported in Arizona, California and Washington.

Health officials in New York City said an outbreak of influenza which hospitalized 74 of 1,600 inmates at the Riker's Island Prison the week ending Jan. 23 has been identified as A-Port Chalmers.

The CDC said this was the first report of the Port Chalmers variety in the United States this year.

One death was reported among the stricken inmates.

The A-Victoria virus was identified several months ago in the Far East and later in Hawaii. Most outbreaks this year are A-Victoria.

Port Chalmers first hit two years ago, and was responsible for last year's epidemic. Both viruses affect patients the same—aches, fever and coughing.

In Iowa, A-Victoria has been isolated from 16 students at the University of Iowa who have been ill since the week ending Jan. 23, the CDC said.

In the same week an outbreak was reported at Lansing, Iowa.

An outbreak of influenza-like illness was reported in the week ending Jan. 16 in an elementary school at St. Paul, where 107 of 300 pupils were stricken. The CDC said Influenza A was isolated from all of these cases but the virus was not characterized.

In New Jersey and Massachusetts, Influenza A was isolated in localized outbreaks, but the CDC said characterization of the virus is pending.

In Georgia, outbreaks of respiratory illness have been reported in two counties in addition to isolated cases throughout the state. Schools were closed in Irwin County last week when about 700 pupils became ill. An outbreak also was reported in Cook County.

There have been reports of respiratory illness in Nashville and middle Tennessee, but the virus has not yet been identified.

The CDC said reports from major cities throughout the nation do not indicate outbreaks are widespread.

However, there is concern among health officials for the elderly and persons with heart disease because persons in those categories have a high mortality rate when respiratory ailments are involved.

Changeover Saturday

"IT'S LIKE A JIG-SAW PUZZLE WITH A PIECE MISSING" ... Malcolm Greene, assistant director of the Greenville Utilities Commission said Friday. The utilities commission has been busy for the past months preparing for a change over from the old 34,000 volt transmission line to a modern 115,000 volt line. Workers above make last minute preparations for the assembly for one of the three substations. Greene said the changeover Saturday will only affect power for about 30 seconds. First plans for the five million dollar project were drawn in 1968, to replace the old line which were constructed in approximately 1940. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

USAGE CONSTANT CHANGED

My electric and water rate for a 36-day period amounted to $191.02. We were out of town during Christmas with the electricity cut off. Last month our usage constant was 20 and this month it was 40, which doubled our reading of the meter. Why are some homes rated 20 and some 40? Should it not be fair to rate all the same? M.S.

Your meter must have been changed during the month if your constant was changed from 20 to 40, George Reel of Greenville Utilities said. The constant is a number assigned to a certain meter, with the rate of speed of the wheel which records usage set accordingly. Many small users have a usage constant of 1 and therefore their reading is actual. A larger user like you has a larger constant, which is, of course, multiplied times the difference between the reading of the present month and of the previous month. For instance if your usage constant is 20 and your reading is 150, your kilowatt hour usage would be computed at 3000. It's just a method to keep the moving parts of the meter from having to move but so fast. If you have further question about the changing of your usage constant or about your bill in general, Reel asked that you call him at 752-7166.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

ASSESSING

"Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" is off the Channel 9 airways according to Ed Fields, program director. Because of the deluge of comments on the show and the fact that most of them with anti-Mary Hartman, the station has discontinued airing the program, which was shown at 4 o'clock each weekday afternoon. "We haven't decided whether we'll change the time slot or simply discontinue it," he said. "We need some time now to assess the situation before a decision is made."

Rose Senior Is Among 6 Morehead Finalists

Virginia Lynn Gantt, a senior at Rose High School and daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert B. Gantt of Greenville, is one of six eastern North Carolina (District I) competitors to be selected as a finalist for the 1976 Morehead Awards for study at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

The six District I finalists were chosen from a field of 21 nominees from 17 counties during interviews in Williamston on January 26. A total of 60 finalists—six from each of the ten Morehead Awards districts in North Carolina, will appear for interviews before the Central Morehead Selection Committee between February 26 and March 1, in Chapel Hill. Scholarship winners will be selected from the 60 finalists and announced at a later date.

In addition to Miss Gantt, the five finalists chosen in Williamston earlier this week are: David Ross Griffin, Camden; Stephen Baxter Watkins, Tarboro; Martha Corbin Bullock, Rocky Mount; Teresa Anne Gardner, Rocky Mount; and Rachel Jane Brown, Rich Square.

Two alternates were chosen. The first alternate is Lou Anne Baldree of Ayden; and the second alternate is Paul Edward Viser of Ahsokie.

The Morehead Awards were established in 1951 by the late John Motley Morehead, a native North Carolinian and a graduate of UNC. Morehead, an engineer and founder of Union Carbide, lived in Rye, N.Y. until his death in 1965.

By EDMOND Le BRETON

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Riding high on two straight spending victories, congressional Democrats are planning to push their antirecession program despite President Ford's demand for budgetary restraint.

The House voted 321 to 80 on Thursday to pass a $6.1-billion bill featuring grants for public works projects and funds to help state and local governments avoid employ layoffs and tax hikes. Sponsors claim the bill would create or preserve up to 800,000 jobs.

Hours before it was passed, Ford's press secretary, Ron Nessen, told reporters the President would veto the bill. A day earlier, Democrats won their first spending battle of the year, overriding Ford's veto of a $45-billion money bill for labor, health and welfare programs.

Ford made no direct comment on passage of the public works bill, but there was no indication he had changed his mind about vetoing it. The House vote margin was far above the two-thirds needed to override a veto. The Senate approved the bill by voice vote Dec. 17.

Talking to a delegation of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, a group that lobbied hard for the public works bill, Ford said he was "not going for some of these quick fixes that some of these people advocate."

Suggesting that his strategy would be to press for extension of general revenue-sharing instead of specific programs backed by Democrats, Ford later told a group from the Young Republican Leadership Conference there had been no forward movement in Congress on his 8-month-old request for the extension.

Revenue-sharing, inaugurated in the administration of former President Richard M. Nixon, gives state and local governments a share of federal revenues with virtually no strings. Some Democrats advocate putting requirements into the plan if it is extended. "I think general revenue-sharing is in very deep trouble," Ford said. "We have to launch a massive effort to get some action." He told the Young Republicans their economic future looks bright "if we keep our cool and don't try some quick fix that won't work."

But jubilant Democrats hailed Thursday's House vote as evidence that their economy-priming program is rolling. Only 13 Democrats voted against the bill, while Republicans divided 52 for and 67 against.

Democratic Whip John J. McFall of California said the House will act soon on a bill to increase from 310,000 to 600,000 the number of federally funded jobs for the unemployed in state and local governments. Ford has recommended phasing out the jobs program.

"Our actions will reduce the heavy drain on the Treasury from welfare payments and unemployment compensation, create hope and opportunity for the jobless and further advance national economic recovery," McFall said. "The House of Representatives has sent a clear, positive message to the jobless of this nation," Speaker Carl Albert said. "The central issue was clear—whether we should put 600,000 Americans to work now ... or permit them to remain idle, contributing little and collecting unemployment compensation and welfare. The House acted affirmatively."

Reversed

The decision of the U. S. Postal Service effective January 1, 1976 to discontinue the photocopy service in the post office lobbies has been reversed, according to H. Lloyd Mills, Postmaster of Greenville.

Effective immediately, the photocopy machines in the lobbies of the Main Post Office and ECU Station are operating and available to the public for service.

PRIME RATE CUT

NEW YORK (AP) — First National City Bank said today it is reducing its prime lending rate a quarter point to 6 1/2 per cent, the lowest the key rate has been since the spring of 1973.

ECU Faculty Member Heads Women's Caucus

By FRANCEINE PERRY
ECU News Bureau

Tennala Abner Gross, assistant professor of mathematics at East Carolina University, was elected president of the North Carolina Women's Political Caucus at the recent fifth annual NCWPC convention on the ECU campus.

A member of the state caucus since its organization in 1972, Ms. Gross has also been a NCWPC Policy Council member for four years and was second vice president this past year.

Politics and the women's movement have been among her chief interests, and the chance to combine both came with her active role in N.C. ERA United last year, when she served as eastern N.C. coordinator for the campaign to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment.

She is also a charter member of the Eastern Carolina Chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW) and the Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters, and a member of the local American Civil Liberties Union chapter, the Greenville Peace Committee and a number of professional and honorary societies.

One of her primary goals as new NCWPC president is to involve more low-income women and "blue-collar" women in caucus activities. And, her varied work experience should prove helpful in achieving this goal.

"I have been working since I was seven years old," she says, recalling her first job, selling a weekly newspaper. As a teenager in Lenoir, she delivered the Charlotte Observer and sold cosmetics door-to-door.

"The Great Depression coincided with my high school graduation," she said. "There was no money for college, and there seemed to be no jobs."

Her first full-time employment, in the spinning department of a branch of the Burlington Mills, was secured after many mornings of walking to the mill before 7 a.m., going in with the regular workers, and persistently coaxing the foreman for work.

"I kept that up for so long, they finally gave me a job," said Ms. Gross.

She saved enough money from the Burlington job to attend Campbell Junior college. Her last two years of study at Elon College were financed by further work at the Burlington plant.

During her junior year, she worked the 3-11 shift, and during her senior year, the 11 p.m.-7 a.m. shift, and somehow managed to maintain Honor Roll grades and be active in campus organizations.

After graduation from college with majors in English and history, she began study toward a degree in religious education, but instead married Duke graduate student Dawyer D. (Jack) Gross, now an associate professor of philosophy at ECU.

Tennala Gross

The Grosses were separated by World War II, when her husband entered the Army and she taught junior high social studies. The war over, Jack Gross resumed his study at Duke, and Tennala became an assistant to Gertrude Merritt, chief of processing at the Duke University Library, whom she remembers as "one of the best bosses I ever had."

When Jack finished his work at Duke and entered the ministry, Tennala held teaching jobs wherever he served, at schools in Alamance, Madison and Haywood Counties. In 1950, their son John Dawyer, now a resident of Raleigh, was born.

The Grosses came to Greenville in 1960, when Dr. Gross joined the East Carolina faculty as Director of Religious Activities. Tennala taught at Greenville's Rose High School for three years, and enrolled in East Carolina's graduate program in mathematics. Upon receiving her MA, she was offered an instructorship, and in 1968, was promoted to assistant professor.

In addition to her teaching and a two-year term as director of the ECU Computer Center, Ms. Gross has conducted workshops for business personnel, math teachers and advanced high school students. Some of her computer research reports have been published in mathematics journals.

She has done further study at Rutgers University, the University of Chicago, N.C. State University and UNC-Chapel Hill.

Ms. Gross is the first eastern North Carolina president of the N.C. Women's Political Caucus. Another Greenville resident, attorney Nelson Crisp, is the organization's new second vice president.

Other 1976 officers are: Mary Hopper of Charlotte, president-elect; Marylyn Gordon of Asheville, first vice president; Josephine Holman of Hillsborough, third vice president; Barbara Kamara of Greensboro, secretary; and Edith Conrad of Greensboro, treasurer.

Janice Hardison Faulkner of the ECU English faculty, a member of the NCWPC Advisory Board, was among the organizers of the state caucus.

Reader Protects Engagement Ring

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: For years I wore my wedding ring first with my diamond on the outside. I had been told by the jeweler that that was the "correct" way to wear them, but I didn't know that it was to keep the wedding ring "closest to the heart" until I read it in your column.

But let me tell you why I don't wear them that way anymore: About five years ago, I was eating peanuts at a ball game, and my diamond ring slipped off my finger into the peanut sack. Luckily, I found it among the peanut shells, and when I put it back on my finger, I put it on first and put on my wedding band on the outside. Sign me... "BETTER SAFE THAN RIGHT"

DEAR BETTER: Speaking from a materialistic point of view, you're protecting the more "valuable" ring. But symbolically speaking, it's easier to replace a diamond than a wedding band.

DEAR ABBY: In reply to FLORIDA RETIREES, who questioned how to address mail to couples living together though not married:

My preference may not be proper etiquette, but it solves the problem for me. I address mail to "Mary and John Smith"—using neither Mr. or Mrs. I use Mary's name first because I know that she is Mary Jones and not Mary Smith, but the mailman doesn't have to know.

GRACE IN MICHIGAN

DEAR GRACE: The mailman probably knows as much as you know, but couldn't care less.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning the boy who expects a girl to kiss on the first date after he has gone to all the trouble of giving her a free show, dinner, etc.:

Your answer was: "A kiss should not be expected in return for an evening's entertainment or anything else. It's strictly a voluntary show of real affection."

You are all wrong. If the girl doesn't like the guy enough to kiss him, she shouldn't go out with him in the first place!

18-YEAR-OLD GIRL

DEAR "18": How is the girl supposed to know how much (or little) she likes a guy until she goes out with him?

DEAR ABBY: This is for D, who was concerned about her male friend because he carried his own salad dressing in a little jar and sprinkled wheatgerm on his food.

D's main concern should be keeping up with him in the bedroom. I don't know about the salad dressing, but I know a man who uses wheatgerm regularly on his cereal, and he's dynamite in that department.

Tryon Palace Symposium To Examine 18th Century Life

By FRANCEINE PERRY
ECU News Bureau

The social history and decorative arts of colonial America will be examined at the eighth annual Tryon Palace Symposium in New Bern March 21-23.

The symposium is presented by the Tryon Palace Commission and the East Carolina University Division of Continuing Education in cooperation with the Tryon Palace Restoration and the N.C. Division of Archives and History.

Among the topics of symposium lectures are 18th century antique furnishings, colonial American music, political cartoons of the Revolution, colonial inns and early American silver.

The symposium is designed for persons interested in the decorative arts of the colonial period: collectors, historians, garden enthusiasts, interior decorators, restoration curators and lay persons.

Symposium speakers and their topics are: "Eye of the Storm: The Tory Establishment in Revolutionary New Bern," Dr. Tom Parramore of the Meredith College history faculty;

"Antiques as a Reflection of History," Dr. Richard McLanathan, director of the American Association of Museums;

"Music in Colonial America," Novie Greene, artist-in-residence at Lees-McRae College, Banner Elk;

"Political Cartoons of the Revolution," Thomas Thorne, professor emeritus of fine arts, College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va.;

"Anatomy of the Chair," Joe Kindig III, York, Pa. antiques dealer;

"American Silversmiths, 1776," John Davis, curator of metal work for the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation; and

"At the Sign of the Liberty Tree," Mary Mason Campbell, Salisbury, N.H. author of "Kitchen Gardens" and several cookbooks.

Others appearing on the program are Dr. Larry Tise of the N.C. Division of Archives and History; Donald R. Taylor, administrator of the Tryon Palace Restoration; Mrs. J. Samuel Mitchener, second vice chairman of the Tryon Palace Commission; and Dr. David J. Middleton, dean of the ECU Division of Continuing Education.

All lectures, some of which will be illustrated with color slides, are scheduled for the Tryon Palace Auditorium at the corner of Pollock and George Sts. in New Bern.

Other symposium events include a light buffet dinner at the Jones House Sunday evening, a candlelight tour of the John Wright Stanly House and tours of the Tryon Palace Complex.

Tryon Palace, the colonial capitol of North Carolina, was the home and headquarters for two royal governors representing King George III. After the Revolution, Tryon Palace served as the first North Carolina state capitol until 1794. The main building burned in 1798.

From 1952 to 1959 the Palace and grounds were restored with funds provided by a bequest from Maude Moore Latham of Greensboro. Restoration was based upon architect John Hawks' original plans, artifacts recovered during excavations at the site, and the inventory of Royal Governor William Tryon. Many furnishings, art objects and interior woodwork to complete the restoration were purchased in England.

Among the gardens of 18th century design surrounding the Palace are the Maude Moore Latham Memorial Garden and the Kellenberger Garden, honoring Mrs. Latham's daughter and son-in-law, both active in the Tryon Palace Commission.

Further information and registration materials for the Tryon Palace Symposium are available from the Division of Continuing Education, East Carolina University, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Registration deadline is March 15, and as only 150 participants will be accepted, early registration is advised.

Feature 'Twirler' Is Title Holder

By WILLIE PATRICK

It's easy, in this year of the Bicentennial, to think patriotic thoughts. It's easy to think of the outstanding men and women who started this country and thus made this year possible.

Many of the concepts popular in 1776 seem to have fallen by the wayside today, though. And if it weren't for people like Lynn Williford, you'd wonder if there will be any celebrations in the next 200 years.

Miss Williford is an 18-year-old freshman from Wilmington. Pirate football fans were introduced to her last fall when the Pirates visited Carter Stadium in Raleigh. Miss Williford made her debut as the feature baton twirler with the marching Pirates.

"I had never seen so many people at one football game," she recalled. "But I had never enjoyed myself so much before, either."

While she was admittedly awed by the huge crowd, Miss Williford put on a performance that awed the crowd as well. She has a quiet confidence in her ability to do things like that. She has been voted America's Most Beautiful Majorette (1974) and first-runner-up to the Majorette Queen for America (1975) in nationwide competition.

Miss Williford says you can't be bashful when performing as she does. She also says you have to work hard and be extremely dedicated to what you think is important. That's why she is in her backyard every summer morning at 6 a.m., starting time for a six-hour workout.

"I start early, take a 15-minute break every hour, sleep during the heat of the day, then finish sometimes around nine in the evening," she said. "I've been doing this for the last nine years."

She took her first lesson at age six. She went to the national championships first at age 10, where she was picked the United States' National Twirling champion in her age group. She has gone to the national tournament almost every year since, winning the North Carolina state title twice. In 1973 she was first-runnerup to the Junior Miss Majorette of America.

Often a person with Miss Williford's devotion will be looked upon as old-fashioned. The "in" thing for today's professional athletes is to demand more money, change teams, change sports, or instigate lawsuits. The motivation behind her actions is much more simple:

"I made myself realize that while there may not be anyone in Wilmington who is doing this, someone somewhere in the country is working this hard as well," she said. "The work is simple a part of achieving a goal I set for myself."

Twirling hasn't been all fun and games for this music and dance major, though. One year she hit herself in the eye and spent the national tournament days in a hospital in Durham, having three holes and a rupture repaired to improve her vision. As a high school performer, she was responsible for working out not only her own routine, but those of eight other squad members.

She points, however, to her family as one of her greatest positive influences in her life. "My mother is my biggest critic and my best friend in this regard," she said. "My father is a former drill sergeant, and helps me with the military strut from the army. My older brother, Chuck, helps me time my routines to music and my younger brother, Tim, helps carry the luggage when we all go to tournaments."

Among the reigning North Carolina Azalea Teenage Princess's other assets are her calm manner under pressure and fashion-model good looks. Miss Williford has put her life and the baton in proper perspective.

Transferee Rituals Held

The Eta Delta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi had a meeting Tuesday at the home of Beth Morin. Transferee rituals were held for Juanita Thompson, who recently moved to Ayden. She was a member of the Epsilon Mu Chapter, Raleigh.

The chapter received a letter inviting them to the N.C. Beta Sigma Phi Convention to be held in Asheville, in May. The members voted Carolyn Powell, president of the Eta Delta Chapter, to be a nominee for the Alpha Omega Award that will be presented at the convention.

The Social Committee reported that a Valentine's dinner will be held Feb. 13 at 7 p.m. at the Greenville Country Club. The members will be allowed to bring guests and possible rushees. The committee is also working on a social for March for spring rush.

The Ways and Means Committee announced plans for a square dance April 24 at the Greenville Moose Lodge. The dance will be from 8:30-12:30 and proceeds will go to the N.C. Society for Autistic Children. Tickets are on sale now from any Eta Delta Chapter member.

After the meeting, a memorial service was held for member, Pat Thigpen, who died Jan. 21.

Informational Coffee Held

An informational coffee, sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club, was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Andy Harris.

The purpose of the coffee was to acquaint women with the work of the club.

Mrs. Skip Collier, club president, discussed the different areas of work in the club. Mrs. Tom Basnight, second vice president, discussed the ways and means projects.

Guests attending were: Mrs. David McNamee; Mrs. Nathan Barnhill; Mrs. John Moore; Mrs. Larry Dunn; Mrs. Tony Brown; Mrs. Dallas Clark; Mrs. David Brown; Miss Carol Edwards; Mrs. Victor Gilbert; Mrs. Pete McClung; Mrs. William Lehman; Mrs. Bruce Wardrep; and Miss Lois Thalacker.

Mrs. Buck Gives Program

The art room of Wahl-Coates Elementary School was the setting for the meeting of the Alpha Iota Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa Tuesday afternoon. As members gathered they were served refreshments and viewed the art work of students that was on display.

A bi-centennial theme was used for the meeting. Mrs. Janice Buck gave a program on "Our American Heritage". She brought different materials that are available from many sources for people to use, especially teachers, in promoting the year. She closed by asking members to share their heritage thoughts that they had written at the beginning of the session.

President Norma Gray conducted the business meeting. Special attention was called to the tentative date of March 13 when a trash and treasure sale will be held at Elm Street Park. Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Lillah Smith, Mrs. Dorothy Brown and Mrs. Evelyn Blue.

Mrs. Crisp Speaks On Equal Rights Amendment

Mrs. Nelson Blount Crisp discussed the Equal Rights Amendment when she spoke Monday evening at the program meeting of the Pilot Club of Greenville, Inc.

"Women can now earn only 50 to 60 per cent of the amount a male working in the same or similar profession can earn," stated the speaker. She noted that the amendment has to be ratified by 38 states, and North Carolina is one of the four states which has not passed the amendment.

Mrs. Blount urged the audience to be in contact with their representatives in support of ERA. She stated that the legislature is meeting for budgetary business only, but if two-thirds of the elected officials agree to consider another issue, action on ERA could be taken.

Mrs. Addie Jenkins, chairman of Projects Division, introduced the speaker.

During the business meeting Mrs. Kay Whitehurst reported that the Outreach Division was conducting a survey in Farmville for prospects in organizing a club there. Mrs. Jenkins reporting for the Projects Division listed many community activities which included a Christmas party and three birthday cakes and parties during December at REAP. She reported that it was not necessary to place a red light bulb on the safety tree on the court House lawn this Christmas season.

Reporting for Internal Affairs Division, Mrs. Juanita McCarthy presented for vote a fund raising project. It was voted to have a "Leap Year" sale Feb. 27-28. Location and hours will be announced.

April 30-May 2 is the date for the district convention in Greensboro.

President Lenore Morton presided at both meetings.

Public Hearing....

Greenfield Terrace, it was explained that the project was not approved in last year's CDP budget but "special care" will be taken to see that it is included in this year's program, according to Cox.

Councilman Dr. Frank Fuller emphasized that while the Council gives its approval to the list of priorities, HUD has the final word on which projects will actually be funded. Last year two of the projects proposed by the city were taken out of the budget by HUD.

Donna Whitley of 1404 Dickinson Avenue, appearing as a representative of the Higgs Neighborhood Association, offered a list of "ways and means of improve life" in the neighborhood and emphasized the need for better lighting.

The spokesman said that the neighborhood has a high crime rate and the association feels that some 32 additional lights are needed. She said the lights would help to deter crime.

She pointed out that the city has received a petition calling for better lighting but city technicians only recommended that trees be pruned in allow existing light to be more effective. Ms. Whitley said that "winter has pruned the trees herself and you still can not see your hand before your face."

Council member Mrs. Mildred McGrath indicated that she "went over there at night and walked it and I didn't like it either."

Other improvements called for by the association included: paving of dirt streets; conversion of West End Fire Station into a family-community center; rehabilitation of old sidewalks; better police protection; street drainage improvements, better enforcement of the Housing Code and building and yard maintenance regulations; preservation of trees; signal light improvements at 14th and Dickinson; public transportation; post office; police substation; and inclusion of a Higgs resident on committees named to investigate the problems.

Appearing as a representative of the city's Little League program, Dr. Dick Douglas requested that some $50,000 be included in the budget for expansion of the program in order for more children to be able to participate.

Douglas said that currently about 180 boys and some girls take part in the Little League program and a lot more children try out for the program than the League has teams or uniforms available.

The $50,000 would be used for lighting at two ball fields and possibly for the construction of a third field and ball park, including equipment room facilities, bleachers, back stop, rest rooms, lights and other necessary equipment.

Addition of the new park would allow for the League to expand the program by six teams, he added.

J. W. Grimes, coordinator of the Riverdale and Greenville Heights improvements program, asked that the Council consider the requests that were proposed for the areas at the first hearing by John Bizzell and he also submitted new requests for the areas.

Grimes, who noted that the overall area covered by the request involved Elizabeth Street west to Memorial Drive and from W. Fifth Street north to Park Drive, asked that the Council consider "better and more street lights" in the 1000 block of Ward Street, on all of Colonial Avenue beginning at 800 block and running to the 1500 block, the 1000 block of W. Third Street and the 1100 block of W. Fourth Street. He also asked that the blind corner at W. Fourth and Nash Streets be corrected.

A member of the audience asked about the status of the South Greenville project and Joe Laney, executive director of the Redevelopment Commission, explained that "a lot of progress" has been made in Southside with several blocks cleared and an active rehabilitation program begun.

Laney said that the Redevelopment Commission is ready to make improvements in the area but he pointed out that it is hard to see evidence of ground improvements in the early phases since a great deal of the action involves paperwork.

Most of the right-of-way on streets in the area has been acquired, Laney reported, and paving should start as soon as the city sets its priorities in that area. Money has been budgeted to get some of the streets paved, it was explained.

City Manager Jim Caldwell said that May 27, 1976 marks the end of the current budget year for CDP and financing will continue on into next year's CDP budget on some projects that were begun in the first year. He said that $1.3 million is needed out of the $1.9 million to continue the current year projects, leaving roughly $600,000 for new 1976-77 projects.

To date, the Council has received requests totaling slightly over $2,000,000 regarding funding allocations. He said that the Council "will have some decisions to make as far as priorities; when drawing up the project lists.

Cox indicated that the Council should be in a position to tell citizens where the various projects stand in the budget process by the Feb. 10 project application deadline.

Tobacco Associates To Hear Georgia Speaker

RALEIGH — Fred W. Voigt, chairman of the Georgia Agricultural Commodity Commission for Tobacco, will be the featured speaker at the 29th annual meeting of Tobacco Associates, Inc., to be held here, March 2, at the Sheraton-Crabtree Inn.

Voigt, a prominent Georgia tobacco farmer and pecan producer, of Waycross, is a member of the 10-member Technical Tobacco Advisory Committee for U.S. trade negotiations. He was named to this Committee, which he chairs, in 1974 by U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz.

Tobacco Associates, a non-profit, non-stock organization, was formed 29 years ago to promote export markets for American flue-cured tobacco. A 1958 charter amendment expanded its activities to include the domestic field. While it does not act as a selling agent, Tobacco Associates works with trade and governmental officials of the United States and foreign countries in the interest of wider use of flue-cured tobacco grown here.

It is financed by a grower assessment and contributions from supporting groups.

Joseph R. Williams, its president, reported the financial condition of the organization, as of December 31, 1975, to be: Total revenue during the year, $723,488.12; total expenses, $564,684.68; current assets, $1,224,743.45; fixed assets, $11,500.82; and total assets, $1,236,244.27.

Williams said that $181,000.00 of its 1976 budget, or 30 per cent of expected income, will be spent on agricultural and cancer research; $240,000.00 for continuation of existing market development programs in Thailand, Austria, Taiwan, Egypt, East Germany, and Jordan. Also, Williams said, pilot programs will be undertaken in Eastern Europe and the Mid-East if political and economic conditions permit.

Williams said that all persons interested in the production of flue-cured tobacco will be welcome and are urged to attend the March 2 meeting. He said the 25-member board of directors for the new year will be elected from the 400 delegated membership, composed of flue-cured tobacco farmers, warehousemen, leaf dealers, bankers, merchants and fertilizer manufacturers from the tobacco producing areas of Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida.

Secretary Of Year Named

Becky Riley, secretary to R.W. Howard, Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., was selected Secretary of the Year at the January meeting of the National Secretaries Association held Monday night at the Three Steers Restaurant.

BECKY RILEY

The other nominees were Brenda Gipson, secretary to W.R. Brannigan, and Dorothy Dausmann, secretary to Roy Berbert, both of Burroughs-Wellcome Co.

Judges for the selection were Mary Quiggins, Secretary of the Year-1974, Brenda Wilson, Outstanding Member of the Year-1975, and Yvonne Hardee, Secretary of the Year-1975.

At the conclusion of the meeting, two new members were installed in a candlelight ceremony. The new members are Chris Kernion and Roberta Herring.

Lou Jones, Wanda Paramore and Verna Shelton, of Procter & Gamble, Sue Lennon of Dunhill Associates and Beth Waitley, secretary to Frank Wooten, were welcomed as guests for the meeting.

All secretaries interested in joining NSA are invited to attend the monthly meetings held on the last Monday of each month.

Duke To Again Cut Fuel Charge

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The Duke Power Co. will lower its fuel charges on March bills, the fourth straight month of such decreases, if the North Carolina Utilities Commission approves.

The decrease for a customer using 1,000 kilowatts would be 49 cents, making the bill $33.11.

However, Duke said it may have to increase rates several months from now, when it shuts down a nuclear plant for maintenance.

AIRCRAFT UP

NEW YORK (UPI) — By 1983, production of general aviation aircraft is expected to be almost double that of 1974, according to a study by the Frost and Sullivan research firm.

Renewed Interest In Primary

North Carolina's March 23 presidential primary promises to be a lively affair. There was interest in it because it posed a rematch of the 1972 primary with George Wallace and Terry Sanford both in the race. Wallace took that one easily. Now Sanford has withdrawn from the 1976 primary, and this brought about a renewed interest in the race from a number of prospective presidential candidates. Wallace, Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter and Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, D-Tex., were already on the ballot. In the past few days Sen. Henry M. Jackson, Rep. Morris Udall and Sen. Fred Harris have announced that they, too, will seek approval from North Carolina Democrats as the presidential candidate. Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and R. Sargent Shriver, brother-in-law to the Kennedys, have also expressed interest in making the race. Observers feel that Jimmy Carter would be the biggest beneficiary of the Sanford withdrawal. On the other hand, Sen. Jackson got the support of former Sen. Sam Ervin and Rep. Richardson Preyer threw his support to Udall. Hanging over it all, of course, is the always strong appeal of George Wallace in North Carolina. With a field of candidates so large, Wallace could draw a large percentage of the votes and win while all the other candidates fractionalized the remaining votes between them. Presidential primaries are rather new to Tar Heel voters and the large field of Democratic candidates is going to be confusing to them. It's going to be quite a primary and the results could be surprising.

Not Much Fight Left In Congressmen

The U.S. House has approved an Angolan aid cutoff by a 323 to 99 vote and thus ratified a bill already passed by the Senate. The cutoff of aid was part of a defense appropriations bill which will be sent to President Ford. Both Ford and Sec. of State Henry Kissinger warned against the action, but it is not difficult to understand Congress' trepidation about Angola aid.

After years of agony over Vietnam there is not much fight left in the Congressmen. Thus the Soviets roll on in taking over another nation, insignificant as it appears to us. We can ignore this takeover and probably the western world won't collapse, but the world is watching as Soviet power spreads. Sooner or later the United States will have to summon its strength to take a stand, or we, too, will fall.

THIS AFTERNOON

Review Malpractice Law

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Copies of tentative changes in North Carolina's medical malpractice law are in great demand as a study commission winds down its work. Lawyers, physicians, and insurance people in large numbers have been milling the proposed changes, with an eye to how procedures would affect them variously. The study commission, chaired by State Rep. Ernest B. Messer, D-Buncombe, has all but completed its work and is preparing the proposed set of new laws for consideration in the May session of the General Assembly. New Ways The detailed proposals hammered out by the study commission contain a number of new directions for handling suits filed by those who claim a health care provider caused damage to them. Equally as interesting are those steps now being tested in some other states, but missing from the North Carolina proposal:

—The commission did not attempt to design a system for arbitration, and rejected a suggestion that a legal-medico panel be set up to review claims and reject the frivolous, but endorse the valid. —No effort was made to propose limitations on attorney fees which often are contingency payments based on winning the suit, and may run to 30 per cent of the award. —No top limit on recovery was established, although a recommendation that insurance liability only provide up to $100,000, while a contingency fund handled by the State Treasurer be tapped for any amount beyond would be provided by physicians and other health care providers for a total of $4 million. Claims would be paid once per year, and if the money ran out, claimants would have to wait until the fund rebuilt to collect. Meanwhile, a number of suggested changes all tending to restrict the possibility of winning a malpractice suit are included among the proposals. Time Limit A time limit is set up allowing a maximum of four years—but generally allowing only two years—in which suit can be filed, and the time starts running on the date of occurrence instead of the date of discovery. A major shift is the proposal that the standard of care must be that of the same or similar communities in which the alleged malpractice took place. In sum, a Duke Hospital specialist could not testify as to what he would have done, or what should have been done, by a doctor practicing in a rural, isolated community. Only another doctor from similar surroundings could say what should have been done. Public attention would be avoided to some degree by a proposal to eliminate the amount of general damages sought from the complaint filed in open court. Thus, news accounts would not mention sensational million-dollar actions which now capture attention. Under the proposal new rules, a promise by health care provider which he could not deliver would not be grounds for action, unless the patient got that promise in writing. The study commission also proposes a method for "compensation sufficient to meet the needs of an injured plaintiff and those persons who are dependent on the plaintiff... while eliminating the potential windfall from a lump-sum recovery..." When the award is more than $100,000, the court could (at the request of either side) set up periodic payments over a number of years, with only the injured person or a dependent to receive the money. This, the commission feels, would end situations in which a person wins his judgment, dies, and leaves the money "to persons and purposes for which it was not intended."

Let's Make A Treaty

WASHINGTON—The United States has just signed a new military treaty with Spain. In exchange we will, of course, supply the Spanish with armaments so we can keep our bases there. It seems that we can't make a deal with any army without giving them arms in exchange for friendship. The State Department has been influenced by all the TV game shows and it seems to me that since the American people pay for most of the military aid, we should at least be permitted to watch the U.S. hand out the stuff on television in a game show format. This is just a suggestion. Every week the State Department would produce a TV program called "Let's Make A Treaty." Henry Kissinger would be the master of ceremonies and the audience would be made up of ambassadors from all the countries of the "free world." He would call out a number and the ambassador from that nation would jump up on the stage. Henry would say, "Where are you from, sir?" "Zambia," the ambassador would reply excitedly. "All right, I'm going to ask you a question. If you can answer it correctly I will give you $100 million. Are you ready?" The ambassador, jumping up and down, says "Yes, yes." "The question is: 'Who is the President of the United States?'" The ambassador hesitates. "Gerry Ford?" "That is correct!" Henry shouts, and he counts out $100 million. The ambassador hugs and kisses Mr. Kissinger as the audience goes wild. "Now don't go away," says Henry. "You can keep the $100 million or give it back to me in exchange for what is behind one of the three curtains over there. Joan Braden, will you tell us some of the prizes that are behind the curtains?" "Henry, we have the new version of the Hawk missile, a 1976 Super Sherman tank, a year's supply of cruise missiles, a complete nuclear energy plant which will be installed absolutely free, and a squadron of F-15 fighter planes." "All right, Mr. Ambassador," Henry says, "do you want to keep the $100 million or do you want to go for the prizes behind the curtains?" The ambassador clutching the money looks out at the audience. "Keep the money," some ambassadors scream. Others yell, "Go for the curtain." The ambassador says to Henry, "Can I consult with my government?" "I'm sorry, we don't have time. What's it going to be?" The ambassador hands back the $100 million. "I'll go for what's behind the curtain." The audience applauds loudly. "All right," Henry says. "He's going for what's behind the curtain. We have curtain number one, curtain number two and curtain number three. Which one will you choose?" The ambassador hesitates as the audience shouts out, "TWO!" "ONE!" "THREE!" Finally, he says, "Curtain" (Continued on page 5)

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor: In the Jan. 27 Public Forum, John P. Roberson claimed that Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company has discriminated against union-represented employees by increasing hospitalization insurance premiums for union-represented employees while decreasing premiums for non-union-represented employees. I feel such a claim warrants rebuttal, which I make as an employee and not as spokesman for the telephone company. The union, which represents plant and traffic department employees, negotiated and agreed in June, 1974, that any increase in hospitalization insurance premiums during the three-year life of the union-company contract would be borne by the employees. This contract was ratified by the rank and file membership of the union. In passing the February, 1976 increase along to union-represented employees, the company is following the terms of the contract. If Mr. Roberson is in disagreement with this, his avenue of appeal is through the grievance procedure and ultimately to an independent arbitrator whose decision would be binding on both parties. Hospitalization premiums for non-union-represented employees increased by the same amount as for union-represented employees. However, the company has elected to bear this cost rather than pass it on to non-union-represented employees. The improvement in benefits for these employees is possible because they are not covered by a contract and their wages and benefits may be increased (or decreased) at the company's discretion. It is unfortunate that the contracted employees are not eligible for this benefit improvement, especially those who don't even belong to the union. On the other hand, I am pleased that the company has not restricted my benefits because of a labor contract that I have no association with. Mr. Roberson also stated "that your telephone service has much improved since the Union has entered the picture." No doubt telephone service has greatly improved in the last few years, but for the union to accept responsibility for this improvement is sheer folly. J. F. Havens Jr. District Traffic Manager

The GALLUP POLL

Kissinger Popularity Dips

By GEORGE GALLUP
PRINCETON, N.J. — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has suffered a loss in public esteem since April 1975, but approval of his performance continues to outweigh disapproval. In an early 1976 survey, 48 per cent say they approve of the way Kissinger is handling his job as Secretary of State, 37 per cent disapprove. In comparison, an April 1975 survey showed a greater proportion, 56 per cent, approving and 25 per cent disapproving. Decline in approval of Kissinger's performance is found among all major groups in the population, with the loss occurring across the board. Kissinger has been under a attack from some quarters in recent months and it is generally believed that his prestige and power in Washington have declined. He nevertheless retains a vote of confidence with a plurality of the public. Kissinger fares particularly well among Republican voters, with approval outweighing disapproval by a more than 2-to-1 ratio. Democrats and independents, however, are closely divided in their opinion of Kissinger. Well Known To U.S. Public From a relatively obscure beginning as a foreign policy expert in the first Nixon administration, Kissinger's name by the beginning of the second Nixon administration had become a household word. Approximately eight in 10 Americans were able to identify him, a recognition score usually reserved for Presidents, presidential candidates, or major sports and entertainment personalities. Although many people in public life attract critics as well as admirers as they become increasingly well known, Kissinger during his years in the Nixon administration had largely escaped this fate. A February 1973 image study, in fact, showed favorable opinions of Kissinger outweighing unfavorable opinions by a ratio of 9-to-1. Following is the survey question and trend: "Do you approve or disapprove of the way Henry Kissinger is handling his job as Secretary of State?"

Strength For Today

A GREAT LIFE One of the greatest men the church has produced was William Carey, the father of the modern missionary movement. Carey was a cobbler in England, a man of no education. He became greatly concerned over the fact that the Bible commands the church to engage in missionary activity, yet the church of his day was paying little attention to this injunction. While he hammered the soles of shoes in his shop he studies maps and travel accounts, and composed sermons to deliver to people who had never known Christ. Constantly he urged officials of the Church of England to send him to India. Finally the church did so. Carey learned the native languages and became the founder of Christianity in that country. He had nothing to begin with but a tremendous idea. Anyone who feels constricted by a lack of opportunity or natural endowment may well ponder the circumstances of Carey's life. —by Elisha Douglass

Lower Returns On Corn Crop

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite predicted huge exports, the record 1975 corn crop is bringing farmers about 18 per cent less per bushel than in 1974 when they produced a much smaller harvest, according to the Agriculture Department. Even so, an annual review showed today, corn farmers had a crop last year worth a record of nearly $14.4 billion, up from $14.1 billion in 1974. The crop, officials said, had a "farm value" of $2.49 per bushel against $3.02 in 1974 and $2.55 in 1973. Last year's corn crop was a record production of nearly 5.8 bushels, up 24 per cent from the skimpy 1974 harvest of less than 4.7 billion bushels. Corn exports are moving at a record rate and experts say they will total between 1.4 billion and 1.5 billion bushels in 1975-76. That includes an additional 12 million bushels ordered by the Soviet Union which was disclosed Thursday. Officials said the new Soviet purchases represented corn originally ordered from Argentina but then switched to U.S. suppliers. That raised total Soviet corn purchases from the United States this season to about 350 million bushels. In addition, Russia has bought about 165 million bushels of U.S. wheat, part of the total exports projected to reach between 1.3 billion and 1.4 billion bushels this season. In its annual price review, USDA said the 1975 soybean crop was worth $4.63 a bushel to farmers, down from $6.64 in 1974 and $5.68 in 1973. Overall, the crop's farm value was less than $7.1 billion last year, compared with almost $8.1 billion in 1974 and nearly $8.8 billion in 1973. The 1975 rice harvest was reported at a farm value of $8.74 per 100 pounds, down from $11.20 in 1974 and $13.80 in 1973, the report said. The total crop was valued at $1.1 billion, compared with nearly $1.3 billion in each of the two previous years. Department officials have said the bumper 1975 grain harvests will do much to cool retail food price increases this year. The department says consumers can expect those to rise at an annual rate of 4 to 5 per cent during the first half of 1976, compared with an 8.5 per cent average increase in 1975 and increases of 14.5 per cent in each of the two previous years. The department says lower grain prices have triggered more livestock feeding, which will mean more grain-fed beef, pork and dairy products in the coming year. The analysis today showed 1975 cotton production was worth 48.8 cents per pound to growers, up from 42.9 cents in 1974 and 44.6 cents in 1973. However, because of a much smaller crop, the total farm value of cotton was only about $1.9 billion against nearly $2.4 billion in 1974 and almost $2.8 billion in 1973. The department last Dec. 10 estimated the 1975 wheat crop at an average farm value of $3.49 per bushel against $4.09 in 1974 and $3.95 in 1973. Last year's record wheat harvest was worth about $7.4 billion to farmers, the department said, compared with $7.3 billion in 1974 and $6.7 billion in 1973.

Leads Button 'Poll'

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — If button sales are a reliable indicator, President Ford may be nosing out Ronald Reagan for support among young Republicans meeting here. Frank Enten is selling Ford and Reagan buttons to some of the 1,600 young Republicans from around the United States meeting here for a four-day conference in a local hotel. And he says the Ford buttons are selling better than the Reagan buttons. Enten, an insurance broker in the Washington area, has staked out part of the hotel lobby for his hobby-sideline of collecting and selling political souvenirs, some of them dating back to 1840. He stands out amid the lobby crowds because he is wearing a wide maroon tie with a picture of Robert A. Taft, a souvenir from the 1952 GOP convention. Reporting on his sales, Enten says "a lot of the younger people are for Reagan. You've got a small faction that is pushing very hard for Reagan. You've got some people that are very worked up."

The oldest item in his collection of 3,000 to 4,000 buttons, badges and pictures is a pewter-like token picturing Maj. Gen. William Henry Harrison, "the hero of Tippecanoe," who was the successful Whig candidate in 1840. The button costs $45. Enten says he is a recent convert to the Republican party and that one of the factors has been the warm reception his displays have received at Republican gatherings. "The Democrats don't think it would be proper for me to set up my stand," he said. At the conference, Mary Louise Smith, chairman of the Republican National Committee, urged the group Thursday to work together to elect a Republican president and Congress and said the race between Ford and the former California governor "need not be divisive." An informal conservative group within the young Republican National Federation decided to support Reagan at a (Continued on page 5)

Carolians battled through the fourth snow of the year today with Beaufort reporting seven inches—the heaviest for the section in 18 years. Greenville was covered by a snowfall which fell most of the night and through the day. The weather bureau reported six inches of snow at noon today. Although citizens suffered from the snow, warmer weather was a welcome visitor this morning. The thermometer stood at 30 degrees at 8 a.m., a contrast from the night's low of 19. Local basketball fans were disappointed last night when the Duke All-Americans failed to show up for their game with Greenville High. A wreck five miles outside of Durham prevented the team from getting to Greenville last night, but Greenville coach Reynolds May says the game will be made up at a later date. —James Kyle

Ford Campaigners Disclaim Anti-Reagan Releases

By DAVE RILEY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — New Hampshire officials of President Ford's campaign deny they used fill-in-the-blank press releases attacking Ronald Reagan, but such a release was mailed to a reporter by the President Ford Committee last week.

Reagan, who is vying with Ford for the Republican presidential nomination, said in New Hampshire on Thursday that the Ford organization was using "dirty tricks" in the key primary campaign.

The former California governor, in several campaign stops, backed supposedly were to insert the names of local campaigners in the blanks so it would appear the words written by the Ford committee were actually coming from the local supporter.

"It's a little bit dishonest," Reagan said of the effort. "It comes under the heading of dirty tricks." He said his positions on issues were distorted by the releases.

A Ford campaign spokesman in Concord, N.H., denied that any such fill-in-the-blank releases had ever been used and he called Reagan's charge "absurd."

John Michels, the director of Ford's New Hampshire campaign, said he had never seen any such releases.

But a fill-in-the-blank release was mailed to an Associated Press reporter in Washington on Jan. 21, along with a letter from Ford committee press secretary Peter Kaye, also in Washington. Also enclosed were copies of newspaper stories about Reagan and an analysis of Reagan's record prepared by the Ford campaign staff. It was not clear whether the fill-in-the-blank release was enclosed by mistake in the packet sent to The AP.

No names had been inserted in the blanks on the release in the packet sent to The AP. Kaye could not be reached for comment on the denial by the New Hampshire officials.

There were these other campaign developments on Thursday: —Former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford, who last week withdrew as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, says he will accept no more contributions or federal subsidies.

The Federal Election Commission certified that Sanford is due $2,219 more in federal funds, even though he dropped out of the race last Friday. But Sanford's lawyer, told the commission he will not accept that money, and will return it if the government sends it to him.

Sanford had received $244,069 in federal funds before he withdrew.

—At a Young Republican conference in Washington, Mary Louise Smith, chairman of the GOP National Committee, urged the group to work together to elect a Republican president and Congress and said the race between Ford and Reagan "need not be divisive."

An informal conservative group within the Young Republican National Federation decided at a Wednesday meeting to support Reagan, although the federation itself is not allowed under its constitution to make a formal endorsement.

To counter the group's action, the Ford supporters circulated a list of more than 20 state Young Republican chairmen lining up behind the President.

Trend Of Stability In 'New Religions' Seen

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The profusion of "new religions" that swept the American scene in the past 10 years is now receding, says a noted church historian in sizing up trends in faith foreseen for the rest of the 1970's.

He predicts a "settled down" period of stability for the mainly Christian and Jewish bodies. But "the boom is over" for the various novel cults that have proliferated mainly among the young, says the Rev. Dr. Martin E. Marty, president of the University of Chicago Divinity School.

He says all of them aren't likely to disappear in the immediate future, but some already have declined, leaving only traces. He said the survivors have "hardened," and, in general, no longer arouse the fascination they once did. Although they had "claimed" to be anti-institutional alternatives to the organized religion they condemned," he says, "they are now the most organized forms of organized religion around. That is, they rely on extreme discipline." He says the main sign that their heyday is done is that "whereas the claims of these hit-and-run gurus used to be entertained seriously," they now are "treated either as mildly amusing, only mildly alarming and sometimes as being 'on the take.'"

Dr. Marty, a Lutheran, writing in Context, a semimonthly analysis of trends issued in Chicago by the Claretian Fathers, a Catholic order, says "non-hardened" marginal groups have survived by "secularizing themselves." As an example, he cites "transcendental meditation," a technique which now disavows any religious links, although Dr. Marty says its religious roots were obvious when it first was imported to this country in the late 1960s.

He says other "exotic" religious styles, such as neo-Pentecostalism, also are slipping and that "the hardline Jesus movement has long ago 'had it.'" Of the various groups, he says, "their glamor is gone. The number of affluent young people and bored suburbanites on which they drew is decreasing.

Hard times have been here long enough to cut down on the luxury of people free to drift." As for the main bodies of organized religion, he says they are entering "a settled-down period" in which "expectations seem lower and a more realistic generation has learned to be surprised by small gains and graces."

A stabilizing trend is evident after several years of shrinking membership, he said. "Only when measured against the artificial boom of the 1950's has there been great loss," he says. "Many are also beginning to recognize that many of the losses must have come from the ranks of those who joined superficially in the 1950's revival. Except for their presence in the pews, they do not seem to be missed. Financial offerings, a good American test of faithfulness, do not seem to have suffered."

Evangelist Will Speak

A Methodist Evangelist, the Rev. Robert Thom of Louisville, Ky., will speak to the Greenville chapter dinner-meeting of the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International Monday night, Feb. 2.

Missionary To Talk On Sunday

The Rev. Milton Bagley, a missionary of the Wesleyan Church to the Republic of South Africa, will speak at 11 a.m. Sunday at the First Wesleyan Church on the New Bern highway.

A graduate of Bethany Bible College, Sussex, New Brunswick, and Pioneer Theological Seminary, Rockford, Ill., Rev. Bagley served as a pastor for 17 years before leaving for South Africa in July, 1971, to serve at the Mt. Frere Wesleyan Mission in Cape Province.

Thirty-one missionaries serve along with national workers in the Southern African Bantu work which comprises 119 established churches, 137 pioneer churches and 69 preaching points. Educational missions of The Wesleyan Church include 22 schools with 2,260 students. Two medical dispensaries provide help for the physically afflicted. Bible schools at Joy Mission in Swaziland and Immanuel Mission near Port Shepstone train young people for the work of the ministry. Bagley will tell about his work in the Republic of South Africa and of the people and growth of the church. Curious will be on display.

Meetings will be held for three nights beginning Friday at 7:30 p.m. Meetings will be held in the fellowship hall and a brief discussion will follow. Saturday the men of the church will have a prayer breakfast at 8 a.m. at Tom's Restaurant. A special meeting will be held for the ladies at 11:30 a.m. with Ruth Nelson officiating. The public is invited.

REV. MILTON BAGLEY

The Wesleyan Church serves in 34 countries, including Canada, Great Britain and the United States. While the major emphasis in the overseas outreach of the church is placed on gospel evangelism, an extensive medical and educational program has been carried on by the denomination in several areas of this world-wide gospel enterprise. The pastor, H. A. Lewis, invites the public to hear Rev. Bagley.

REV. ROBERT THOM

Rev. Thom, author of a best seller entitled "The New Wine Is Better," will give his personal testimony to Christ. The dinner-meeting will begin at 7 p.m. and will be held at the American Legion Building located at St. Andrews Drive. The program will begin at 7:45 p.m. All interested persons are invited to attend. Thom is an ex-Naval officer and has been awarded seven World War II decorations. He has spoken to Full Gospel chapter meetings and conventions throughout the world. In the early 1960's, he spoke at East Carolina University for a dinner-meeting sponsored by the Greenville Full Gospel Chapter. John Montgomery, president of the chapter, will introduce Thom.

Sees Larger Fish Catch

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP)—A state official says legislation to extend U.S. territorial water to 200 miles offshore could increase the American share of the annual river herring catch and allow federal management of depleted fish stocks. "If in fact we can control the high-seas harvest of river herring, then it will result in improved harvest of river herring in this state," said Edward G. McCoy, director of the N.C. Division of Marine Fisheries, Thursday.

"But the effect will not be immediate, because the stocks have to be rebuilt," he said. River herring include several types of fish which spawn in fresh water streams, but spend most of their lives at sea. McCoy said Russian and other foreign fishermen have obtained a large portion of the river herring catch off U.S. shores in recent years and said, "We feel they were a large factor in the reduction of stocks." The Senate Wednesday passed a bill which would require foreign fishing vessels to get permits from the U.S. before fishing within a 200-mile limit.

DILIGENT SEARCH

We all know the shock of losing something we value. A misplaced book or valuable papers — even a treasured heirloom — gone astray can frustrate us for hours or even days. Diligent search often ends the mystery, but the memory of our exasperation lingers.

Yet while the loss of something material is easily grasped, many of us never realize that we may be missing important intangibles . . . like the secret of a richer, more satisfying life.

This search needn't take long, though. Millions find the faith that fulfills — every Sunday in church.

So can you.

Miller Claims Shutdown Threat Would Make Players Free Agents

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Believe it or not, Catfish Hunter may be a free agent again.

Hunter, whose free agency 13 months ago brought him a five-year, $3.75 million contract with the New York Yankees, may be on the open market once again if the owners carry out their no-play threat for spring training.

That's the opinion of Marvin Miller, executive director of the major league baseball players association, who responded on Thursday to the owners' threatened shutdown of spring training camps if the players and owners don't reach agreement on a labor contract by then.

"If the owners delay the opening of spring training, it would constitute a breach of every players' contract similar to what happened in the Catfish Hunter case," Miller said.

Rampants Dump Northern Nash

Rose High School's wrestlers added another victim to their growing list last night with a 40-21 romp past Northern Nash. The Rampants won nine of the 13 weight classes. Northern Nash picked up three wins by pins and one other on a decision.

Rose's nine wins included one forfeit, two pins and two superior decisions. Johnny Harris boosted his record to 13-0, while James Cherry went to 10-0 and Mike Alexander is now 8-0. Tyrone Perkins is now 8-1-1, while Ronnie Goodall is 8-1-2, and Rocky Butler is 7-1.

Rose, overall 12-1, plays host to Wilson on Monday.

Summary:
100: John Lawler (R) pinned Tim Couch, 5:39.
107: James Cherry (R) won by forfeit.
114: Jesse Baker (R)

decided Johnny Mitchell, 5-0.
121: Mike Morgan (NN) pinned Mike Norfleet, 3:49.

The Adult Basketball League began winding down play last night with four games.

In the only game played at Elm Street, Eaton took a 55-40 win over Carolina Telephone. Eaton led at the half, 26-14. Herb Wright led Eaton with 20 points, while Will Jackson had 16 and Sam McDonald had 10. Leonard Montie led CT&T with 17, while Dallas State added 13.

In the opener at South Greenville, the Moose nipped Allen Dean, 56-55. Ricky Eason hit a free throw with one second left for the win. The Moose had come back from a 25-23. Allen Dean led at the half. James Parker led the Moose with 14, while Eason had 13 and Ed Coburn had 10. Terry Haire led Allen Dean with 14, while Donald White had 12 and Charles Wynne had 10.

The Davis Wildcats took a 70-50 win over the Henrahan Hawks in the second game. Davis held a 35-21 lead at intermission. Larry Bradley led the winners with 14 points, while Steve Johnson had 13 and Larry Worthington had 10. The Hawks were led by Adonis Grant and Phil Duffy with eight each.

The final game saw Greenville Utilities take a 78-49 win over the Man's Room. GUCo held a 35-25 lead at the half. Tom Mullins led GUCo with 22, while James Clemons had 18 and Mike Handly had 10. Jeff Worthington led Man's Room with 18 and Ray McLawhorn added 12.

Oregon State Upsets Oregon

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
Whenever the Oregon State Beavers and Oregon Ducks get together, fur flies, tempers flare and emotions flame.

— he turned us around. I think Oregon State will agree now he is a great basketball player."

Both Harter and Coach Ralph Miller were not especially enchanted with having a non-conference game between the backyard rivals. They were openly critical, pointing out that it was hard enough competing in the rough Pac-8 race without adding a fourth game to their intense rivalry.

In other games involving ranked teams, No. 3 Nevada-Las Vegas beat Seattle 107-77 and Wichita State upset 20th-ranked West Texas State 63-55.

"We just weren't ready to play at the start," said Oregon Coach Dick Harter, whose team trailed 9-0 and 11-1 in the early going. "But the kids kept their composure in a very difficult situation."

Ron Lee, who helped the Ducks upset the Beavers in their last meeting just a week ago, scored 28 points and enhanced his position as one of the best all-around guards in the country.

"I don't think that I've ever seen him play better," said Harter. "He made the big plays

Cox Takes Two Wins

GRIMESLAND — A. G. Cox Junior High School took a pair of games from G. R. Whitfield yesterday.

Cox took the girls' event, 33-11. Ann Hardy led Cox with 10 points, while Jackie Hansley and Mary Cannon each had four to pace Whitfield.

Cox also won the boys' game, 46-26. V. Evans led Cox with 23 points, while Greg Moore had nine for Whitfield.

Cox Gains 4th Victory

Cox Realty continued to roll along in the Women's Basketball League last night, winning its fourth straight.

Cox downed Little Mint, 47-22, in the opener. Cox rolled up a 25-14 lead in the first half. Jolly Jones led Cox with 22 points, while Carol Cutler and Margaret Johnson led Little Mint with six each.

Krispy Kreme stayed a game behind the leaders with a 55-14 romp past Book Barn. Krispy Kreme had opened up a 23-8 lead at intermission. Vangie Jones led Krispy Kreme with 35, while Sandra Stokes and Sandra Spivey each had four for Book Barn.

Pirates End Road Play In League Facing Davidson Five Saturday

East Carolina faces another tough test Saturday night as the Pirates travel to Davidson to meet the Wildcats.

Coach Dave Patton feels that this could be a key game in the hopes of the Pirates to climb back into the upper division. "Right now, we are battling just to get one of those home berths for the first round of the Southern Conference tournament," Patton said.

East Carolina goes into the game with a 5-5 Southern Conference record, while the 'Cats come in with a 1-4 mark. Davidson is 5-13 overall, while the Pirates are 7-11.

"But they are a very tough team to beat in Davidson. And the way we've been playing lately leaves a lot of room for discussion too," the coach warned.

Davidson will be coming off a win, having downed the University of California-Santa Barbara last night, 74-67. The Pirates will be coming in following two straight losses, to Virginia Military Institute and St. Peter's.

game at St. Peter's. In that, the Bucs came back following a poor performance in the first half to stay with the Peacocks, but it was too late by then. "Our second half showed that we can play like we're supposed to."

But Patton also noted that the Buds have had games like that before. "We just don't have nay confidence at the start of the game. And by the time we see that we can play with them, we're too far out of it."

The coach pointed to the shooting percentages in the game as an indicator of the Pirate confidence. "We shot only 31 per cent in the first half of the game, then came back and shot 62 per cent in the second. And we were taking the same shots most of the time."

"So we're still beating ourselves. Even in the second half, we came out and cut the lead back to 12 points, and came down the floor five straight times with a chance to cut it even more. But the first time, we took a poor shot and the next four times, we turned it over. That's 10 possible points that we lost a chance at."

Patton also felt that the officiating didn't help the Pirates. "They just don't call the same game up there they do down here. But they threw in stuff from everywhere, and that didn't help us either. One time, a guy fell down was looking at the floor, and still threw the ball into the hoop. How do you beat stuff like that?"

"We can't wait for someone to have a bad night," Patton added, "we've got to make them have bad night."

The Wildcats are one of the teams in the league that the Bucs have gained a victory over, having downed them, 85-82, in Minges earlier. The contest will be the final league game on the road for the Pirates.

"I've seen them two or three times since we played them," Patton said, "and they've been playing a whole lot better. They still play with enthusiasm and confidence."

If Davidson has a weak point, it is their team speed and quickness. "We're supposed to have a lot of this, but we haven't shown a lot of it."

Patton feels that the fact that the Wildcats have fallen to the Bucs will aid in the preparation of the Pirates. "It should help our confidence, and we really need a shot in the arm."

by Earl Garner with a 13-5 average, while Reggie Lee is at 11.9, Larry Hunt at 10.3, and Al Edwards at 10.1. Hunt leads the rebounders with a 9.4 average.

Davidson is led by John Gerdy with a 16.3 mark, while Eppa Rixey is at 11.3 and Jay Powell at 10.0. Rixey is the leading rebounder with 5.9 per game.

Davidson and East Carolina stand almost even in most categories. The 'Cats are averaging 73.0 points a game as compared to 70.6 for the Bucs. Davidson is allowing 78.9 and East Carolina, 80.3.

In field goal shooting, Davidson is hitting 46.6 and East Carolina 45.6 per cent. At the line, Davidson is making 69.5, and East Carolina 68.4.

Only in rebounding is there a real difference. The Bucs are recovering 50.7 per cent of the loose balls, while Davidson is getting 47.6 per cent.

Tipoff is set for 8 p.m.

Following the Saturday meeting, the Bucs return home for a Tuesday night game with William & Mary, the league's leader.

"We got 20 minutes out of them this time," Patton said, referring back to Tuesday's

Buc Wrestlers Again Defeat North Carolina

CHAPEL HILL — East Carolina University's wrestling team once again maintained its domination of the University of North Carolina, taking a 24-13 win last night.

The Pirates fell behind in the first two matches, and battled back to gain the lead with two matches left. East Carolina took the final five matches on the way to the win.

North Carolina moved out to as much as a 13-3 lead after five matches, but they were never able to win again. Paul Thorp, at 158, got the Pirates going again, and Ron Whitcomb, at 177, threw a pin on his opponent to put the Bucs ahead, 15-13.

Follow-up victories by Mike Radford and D. T. Joyner sealed the Tar Heel's fate.

"It was a great win," said Coach John Welborn. "I was concerned with the lower weight classes, but Osman wrestled a great match to help us there.

Whitcomb put us ahead with a pin as the turning point of the match. After Radford got his decision, Joyner wrestled one of the best, if not the best, match of his career."

The win boosted the Pirate record to 6-2, while Carolina's drops to 6-5.

Kinston Tops Rose

Rose High School's young girls' basketball team dropped their third straight game last night, but piled up their biggest total in bowling 53-35 to Kinston.

Kinston jumped out to an early lead and built up a 10-point advantage in the period, 18-8. They continued to pull away in the second quarter, outlasting Rose, 15-10, for a 33-18 lead at intermission.

A poor third period was the telling blow as the Rampant girls got only two points to 10 for Kinston. That made it 43-20. Rose came back with a 15-10 advantage in the final period. Dargeelyn Loftin led Kinston with 21 points, while Brenda Goodly had 14 and Bonita Richardson had 12. Cheryl Taylor led Rose with 16 points.

The Rampant lassies will travel to Rocky Mount on Monday.

Kinston — Loftin 21, Smith 2, Gaddy 14, Richardson 12, Chapman 4, Dowson, Richards, Williams, Gardner.
Rose — Jeffers, Loggett 2, P. Taylor 5, C. Taylor 16, Hackett 2, Daniels 2, Knott 2, Wooten 4, Jenkins 2, Payton, Carney, Scott, J. Cox, Johnson, Gray.

Clinics Set At Greenville

The Greenville Golf and Country Club will hold several clinics for members during the month of February, it was announced today.

Assistant Pro Mike Bernhart said all of the clinics would be free to the members, but each is limited to the first 20 to call the pro shop or to sign up there.

The first will be held on Monday, February 16, with part one of a session for lady beginners (those who have not played nine holes of golf, or who have a 36 or higher handicap). The session, from 9 to 11:15 a.m., will cover rules, putting and chipping.

The same day, from 2 to 3 p.m., a clinic on sand traps will be held, open to advanced and beginning women. Those attending are urged to bring a sand wedge if they have one.

On Thursday, Feb. 19, the second part of the beginner clinic will be held from 9 to 11:15 a.m., covering rules, and wood and iron shots.

An afternoon session, from 2 to 3:30 p.m., for advanced women, will cover trouble shots with the irons and woods.

An advanced women's clinic will be held on Friday, Feb. 20, from 9 to 11 a.m., covering rules, with a question and answer session and an examination following. Another clinic, from 2 to 3:30 p.m. the same day will be on iron and woods.

A junior girls (9-16) clinic will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 24, from 4 to 5 p.m., and a junior boys (9-16) will be held on Thursday, Feb. 26, from 3:30 to 5 p.m.

A men's clinic will be held from 9 to 10 a.m. on Saturday, Feb. 28.

Plymouth Takes Tiger Grapplers

WILLIAMSTON — Plymouth High School showed Williamston's wrestlers why it is top-ranked in the Northeastern Conference last night, rolling to a 56-12 victory.

The Tigers were able to capture only two weight classes from the Vikings, both on pins. Of the remaining 11 weights, Plymouth took five by pins, one by forfeit, three by major decisions and one by a superior decision.

Williamston's Sam Short, who lost his first match on Wednesday, bounced back to win and up his record to 10-1.

Williamston goes to West Craven on Wednesday.

Summary:
100: Darrell Garrett (P) decided Timmy Warren, 15-4.
107: Lewis Hall (P) decided Larry Gray, 15-5.
114: Curtis Chestnut (P) decided Reginald Speller, 12-2.

121: Robert Staton (P) pinned William Slade, 1:46.

VCU Loss: The Butler Did It

By The Associated Press
Virginia Commonwealth basketball Coach Chuck Noe summed it up succinctly: "Butler killed us."

Jeff Butler, a 6-foot-8 junior, poured in 25 points to lead Richmond's Southern Conference Spiders to a 71-65 victory over VCU Thursday night in the first meeting ever of the two Richmond teams.

In other games involving Southern Conference teams, Davidson downed University of California-Santa Barbara 74-67 while Virginia Military fell to the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay 76-74 in overtime.

Richmond, now 9-7, built a nine-point lead early in the second half, then threw back a series of challenges to hand the Rams their seventh defeat in 16 games.

The Spiders went to the free throw line five times in the last 3:37 and came away with nine of a possible 10 points.

Besides his scoring, Butler pulled down 16 rebounds to lead the Spiders to a 45-35 edge on the boards.

"I play every game the same way," said Butler. "Tonight, it just seemed that everything was coming into my hands. If we shoot the way we usually shoot, we would have killed them. As it was, we had to put them in their place."

"Basically, I thought we played as well as we can play," said Richmond Coach Carl Stone. "We played an excellent basketball game."

John Gerdy led the way with 23 points in Davidson's surprising victory over the California team.

The victory was only the Wildcats' fifth in 18 outings.

The Gauchos, 0-6, loss to nationally ranked UCLA in their last outing, but not before leading 26-24 at halftime.

Brian Boettcher hit two foul shots with three seconds remaining in overtime to give Wisconsin-Green Bay its victory over VMI.

The Keydets led 72-69 with only 10 seconds remaining in regulation play, but Jerry Blackwell was fouled on a lay-up and converted the three throw for a three-point play to send the game into an extra period.

Boettcher led the winners with 20 points while Will Bynum paced VMI, now 11-7, with 20.

Rally Falls Short For Knicks As Hawks Win

By The Associated Press
For the Atlanta Hawks, it was the worst of times and the best of times; for the New York Knicks, it was just the end of time.

The Knicks, down by 20 with less than 5½ minutes to play, rallied to within one point before losing 112-109 to the Hawks on Lew Hudson's pair of last-second free throws in a National Basketball Association game Thursday night.

"I'm happy with the victory but disgusted at the manner in which we won," said Atlanta Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons. "We played some of the best basketball we've ever played and we played some of the worst basketball we've ever played."

Knicks Coach Red Holzman had nothing tangible to be happy about since his club's comeback didn't bring back the victory.

"It was a very nice comeback but we didn't win," said Holzman, whose last-quarter juggling act put substitutes Butch Beard and Eugene Short on the court and they combined for 15 points to fuel the Knicks' resurgence.

But it was all in vain.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Kansas City routed Houston 119-96; Golden State downed Philadelphia 123-114, and Milwaukee beat Phoenix 105-96.

In the American Basketball Association, San Antonio whipped Indiana 136-112 and Virginia beat Kentucky 108-104.

With four seconds left in the game, Walt Frazier hit a basket to cut the Atlanta lead to 110-109 but the Knicks were forced to foul Hudson, who coolly sank the last two of his 24 points to wrap up the victory.

Kings 119, Rockets 86

Kansas City Coach Phil Johnson doesn't want the All-Star break to slow down his high-riding Kings.

"We're finally showing a killer instinct," said Johnson after the Kings' third easy victory in a row, a 33-point joyride over Houston. "In fact I'll be sorry to see the All-Star break come up with the way we're playing. I'd like to keep it going."

Nate Archibald's 21 points paced a balanced attack for the Kings.

Bucks 105, Suns 96

Kevin Restani, playing only nine minutes — all in the fourth quarter — led a final-period surge with eight of Milwaukee's 30 points, carrying Milwaukee over Phoenix.

Warriors 123, 76ers 114
The Warriors frittered away a 13-point lead in the fourth quarter, trailed 102-101 but spurred for the victory over Philadelphia, which was led by Doug Collins' 32 points.

Squires 108, Colonels 104
Sven Nater, acquired from New York two days ago, scored 21 points and grabbed 13 rebounds for Virginia, who needed Dave Twardzik's two foul shots with six seconds left to seal the victory, their eighth in 45 games.

Spurs 126, Pacers 112

James Silas tossed in 32 points and handed off for a career-high 15 assists and George Gervin had 27 points to lead San Antonio over Indiana. The Spurs totaled a club-record 47 assists in the game.

Billy Knight led Indiana with 28 points.

ACC Could All Win

By The Associated Press
This could be the first time in the 22-year history of Atlantic Coast Conference basketball that all teams finish the season with overall winning records. The closest to that was last year, when Virginia at 12-13 was the only loser, and Duke and Wake Forest broke even at 13-13.

All seven teams are now over .500, ranging from North Carolina's .875 on 14-2, to Duke's .588 at 10-7.

The figures seem to show that all the ACC teams have improved this season, not just the usually nationally ranked ones like North Carolina, Maryland and North Carolina State.

Although Duke is the big loser, five of the seven games it has lost have been by six points or less. And four of the losses have been to teams still in the top 10.

ACC teams were idle Thursday night and have an open date tonight. But all will be playing Saturday.

Seventh-ranked Maryland will play an afternoon game at 10th-ranked Notre Dame which will be televised nationally, beginning at 4 p.m. The Terps will be playing their third top 10 team this week. They lost to fourth-ranked North Carolina last Sunday, and beat N.C. State, No. 8, on Wednesday.

N.C. State will be at Virginia in a regionally televised game, beginning at 2 p.m.

On Saturday night, Clemson will be at North Carolina, Duke will be home to West Virginia, and Wake Forest will be at St. Francis of Pennsylvania.

Soviets Look To Top Performance

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) — The Soviet Olympic team, from a country raised on winter sports, comes to the Winter Games with hopes of at least matching the victorious team performance at Sapporo in 1972.

And along with East Germany, the Soviets are expected to win big again. A latecomer to the Winter Games, the Soviets have dominated these Olympiads almost from the time they first competed in 1956.

This year they have strong chances of winning medals in six major events: cross country skiing, biathlon, figure skating, speed skating, hockey and bobsled. The Russians have never done well in Alpine skiing, primarily because they don't have the kind of mountainous geography or tradition for such events.

Since they do not harbor any hopes in these events, the Russians will have to clean up in most others. Their chances are good.

In hockey, the Soviets are overwhelming favorites, with Czechoslovakia the only real threat. The squad will be made up of the top players from Moscow clubs, two of which earned a 5-2-1 record against National Hockey League teams earlier this year.

In cross country skiing, a Soviet national pastime, the main hope for gold lies with a 33-year-old school teacher, Galina Kulakova, who will be competing in her third Winter Games.

She won all three women's gold medals at Sapporo and all three at the 1974 world championships. Soviet sports observers say recent trials in the Caucasus mountains showed her to be in tremendous form.

In men's cross country skiing, three of the four members of the victorious relay team from Sapporo return with confidence that four years has not slowed them down.

In figure skating, the Soviets remain preeminent in pairs and ice dancing, with good chances for a top performance in men's singles.

Irina Rodnina, seven times world champion, and her husband Alexander Zaitsev recently won the 1976 European championships in Geneva and are likely prospects to win the Olympic pairs' gold medal.

Ludmila Pakhomova and Alexander Gorshkov, also a husband-wife team, are the best contenders in ice dancing. Their colleagues, Irina Moiseyeva and Andrei Minyayev, won last year's world games — Pakhomova and Gorshkov did not compete — and are also strong favorites.

World champion Sergei Volkov, who performed poorly in Geneva this month, is a top contender for men's singles in figure skating.

In women's singles, the Soviets will field 12-year-old Yelena Vodorenzova as the youngest contender, but that will be her only distinction.

The Russians claim they can seriously challenge in all men's and women's events in speed skating. Tatjana Averina, holder of five world records and a co-favorite with America's Sheila Young in the sprint events, is a gold medal hope along with 500-meter world record holder Yevgeny Kulikov and 5,000-meter world titlist Yuri Kondakov.

Alexander Tikhonov, twice Olympic biathlon champion, returns to his third Games with hopes for continuing the string of gold medals. He still is considered the fastest at the distance of 20 kilometers (about 12½ miles) and has dominated recent competitions.

Rod Curl Patiently Takes Hawaiian Lead

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

HONOLULU, Hawaii (AP) — Patience paid off for Rod Curl. "I'd been playing good. If you're playing good, it's just a matter of time until the putting comes around. It came around today," the happy little guy said after his brilliant eight-under-par 64 had set the pace in the first round of the $230,000 Hawaiian Open Golf Tournament.

"It could have been better, but how do you complain about a 64?" Curl asked.

"I touched the cup on five putts that didn't fall. It might have been a 60."

He paused and grinned broadly.

"But I more than made up for it on those long ones. You can't figure to make those."

He scored three times from 30-35 feet, didn't make a bogey and didn't miss a green, but keyed his round by the surprising power that is packed in his 5-foot-5 frame. He reached one par-five in two and two-putted for birdie and scored two others when his massive drives let him use a nine iron for approaches on par four holes measuring 411 and 447 yards.

"It was the most perfect day you could have," Curl said. The temperature was in the 80s.

The tropic sun was bright and warm. The trade winds were but gentle breezes, swirling through the palms and banyan trees.

The weather set up some of the lowest scoring of the year on the pro tour. There were 16 scores of 67 or better. There were 71 scores — almost half the field — at 70, two under par on the 7,219-yard Waialae Country Club course.

Big John Jacobs, like Curl one of the game's long hitters, was alone in second at 65. The group at 66 included Hale Irwin, Bob Murphy, Al Geiberger, Ed Sneed and rookie Barry Jaeckel, son of movie actor Richard Jaeckel.

There were nine at 67, including U.S. Open champion Lou Graham. Arnold Palmer, who blew a chance to win this tournament a year ago, had a 68 and Lee Trevino was five strokes off the pace at 69. Defending champion Gary Groh shot 73 and must improve if he is to qualify for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Jack Nicklaus and Johnny Miller are not competing.

Waldrop Doesn't Seek Olympics

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Tony Waldrop has no pretensions about running the 1,500-meter race in the Olympics. Marty Liquori has openly acknowledged his desire to run — and win — the 5,000-meter race in the Summer Games at Montreal.

Tonight, the twin shall meet — in the mile — at the 69th Wanamaker Millrose Games in Madison Square Garden. Asked about his aspirations for the Games, Waldrop said, "If you'll think back, I've always said that I wasn't that interested in the Olympics. Even as a kid, I felt that way. If I feel something else is more valuable, I'll concentrate on that. Right now, getting a Ph.D. in cardio-respiratory physiology is more important."

Liquori, meanwhile, has set his sights on winning the gold medal at the Olympics — in the 5,000. "I've never had a lot of speed and I have always trained more or less as a 5,000 runner," he explained.

His critics have said he is planning to run the longer race because he doesn't want a confrontation with world record holder John Walker of New Zealand or former world record holder Filbert Bayi of Tanzania.

Although the 5,000 will be run in the Millrose Games, Liquori has decided to compete in the shorter race. It will be his seventh Wanamaker mile, a race he won in 1969, 1970 and 1971.

Waldrop ran the first sub-four minute Millrose mile — 3 minutes, 59.7 seconds — in 1974. He carries an eight-race indoor winning streak into the Garden — seven victories in 1974, all under four minutes including the record of 3:55.0 — and one this year. He sat out the 1975 indoor season but was active outdoors, winning the Pan American Games 1,500-meter title.

Waldrop and Liquori will be matched against four other milers — Brigham Young graduate Paul Cummings, winner of two one-mile and two two-mile races this season; former NCAA mile champion Ken Popejoy of Michigan State; National AAU 1,500-meter champion Leonard Hilton, and Georgetown University sophomore Jim Peterson.

The mile is not the only event with an outstanding field.

The 60-yard dash has teenage schoolboy sensation Houston McTeer; Ivory Crockett, who shares the world 100-yard record with McTeer; NCAA indoor and outdoor sprint champion Hasely Crawford; Steve Riddick; Reggie Jones, and Dr. Delano Meriwether.

The high jump has world record holder Dwight Stones, Pan American Games champion Tom Woods and former world record holder Pat Matzdorf.

The pole vault has NCAA and Pan Am champion Earl Bell and indoor amateur record holder Dan Ripley.

Illinois football coach Bob Blackman is in his 27th season as a head coach.

Finns Frost U.S. Icemen

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) — All the talk seems empty now about another Winter Olympics' medal for the U.S. hockey team.

Publicists and others have been portraying the Americans as having a good chance to win the bronze medal at the Innsbruck Games, finishing behind the Russians and Czechs.

There was even talk of the miracle of 1960, when the Americans stunned the Russians at Squaw Valley, Calif., to win the gold, or 1972, when the U.S. team upset the Czechs to win the silver medal.

But this time somebody seems to have forgotten the Finns.

On Thursday in Helsinki, the Finnish national team sent the American Olympic squad to an embarrassing 9-2 defeat. That came one day after the same two teams had met, with the Finns winning 9-3.

This is the same Finnish team which now heads here, and thus the American medal hopes in this sport must be considerably in question.

The routs in Finland were worse than the scores indicate. In Wednesday's game, the Finns led 7-1 after two periods. On Thursday, it was 7-0 after two periods.

Tempers flared in the final period and there was a wild, fist-swinging, free-for-all. U.S. players Jeff Hymanson and John Taft and two Finns were assessed five-minute penalties for fighting and the game ended with each team having only three players on the ice.

"Our team is young and it takes time to get used to the European rinks," U.S. Coach Bob Johnson said in reference to the Olympic-sized rink which is about 20 feet wider than the average American arena. "The Finns were far better tonight."

Obviously, at one point in Thursday's game, the Americans had a two-man advantage on the ice and could not score.

"Our forwards were a big disappointment," Johnson said. "But I'm sure they will get better for the Olympics."

They'll have to if the young U.S. squad composed entirely of collegians is even to qualify for a shot at medal.

Twelve nations have entered hockey teams here, but only six can compete for the medal. So next Monday and Tuesday there are six games, with winners emerging into medal competition. The Americans play Tuesday, drawing tough Yugoslavia.

"We have to improve day by day and be quite ready at the Innsbruck Olympics," said team manager Art Berglund.

But time is running out, and much improvement seems necessary. Former Illinois football star J.C. Caroline coaches the Illini defensive secondary and has been on the staff since 1967.

Opening lead: Ace of ♠.

Excessive zeal snatched defeat from the jaws of victory on this deal from a recent rubber bridge game at New York's Cavendish Club.

With stoppers in all suits, North might have rebid one no trump rather than raise partner. However, we agree with his actual choice in view of his potential ruffing value in spades. South's jump to four hearts was a little pushy, but the vulnerability offered handsome rewards for making game. West's double can only be attributed to veniality, and it's unfortunate that East had to be a co-sufferer.

Left to his own devices, declarer would almost certainly have gone down one or two tricks, depending on how he tackled the hand. But the double placed virtually every card and declarer was able to play the hand as if the cards had glass backs.

West's opening lead of the ace of spades did not harm declarer's cause. At trick two West shifted to the six of diamonds, covered by the nine and ten and won by the ace. Declarer led a low heart to the ten, then led a low club from dummy. With nothing to guide him, declarer would probably have played the queen when East followed with a low club. However, declarer decided that East would not refuse to win a trick in the light of his partner's double, so West became marked with the king. Declarer therefore finessed the ten, intending to finesse West later for the king if the ten lost to the jack. This became unnecessary when West won the king.

West led another diamond, but declarer spurned the finesse. He won the king, cashed the king of spades and queen of clubs, and led a low heart. West did the best he could by rising with the king and returning a spade, but declarer was on top of the situation. He ruffed in his hand, discarding a diamond from dummy, crossed to the queen of trumps and discarded a diamond on the ace of clubs. A club was ruffed with the nine of trumps, and when West had to follow, the contract was home. Declarer lost only one spade, one heart and one club.

How do you choose the best opening lead? Charles Goren has the answer. For a copy of "Winning Opening Leads," send $1.25 in cash or check, payable to NEWS-PAPERBOOKS, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 259, Norwood, N.J. 07648.

Capital's Better Known Women Work

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — With one eye on the dollar sign and the other on avoiding conflicts of interest, many of the capital's better known women are taking jobs.

The problems of conflict of interest were accentuated earlier this week when Marion Javits, wife of Sen. Jacob B. Javits, R-N.Y., resigned her $67,500-a-year job as publicity agent for Iran's national airline after being criticized for possible conflicts. Her husband, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is involved with a number of U.S. foreign policy activities affecting Iran.

These working women, most of them wives of prominent politicians, joined the workers' ranks from motives that encompassed boredom with the tea-party, bandage-rolling, ladies-luncheon syndrome or a desire to establish their own identities or contribute to the family income.

The jobs also were varied. Joyce Rumsfeld, wife of the secretary of defense, helps out in a Georgetown boutique. Lou Tower and Antoinette Hatfield, senators' wives, are in the real estate business.

Perhaps the most successful businesswoman of them all is Betty Talmadge, wife of the senator who's chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee. She runs a multimillion dollar meat brokerage business.

For many, it's the first time they have had a job. Most have waited for their children to at least grow old enough not to be met after school. Usually the women try to keep their schedules flexible to allow for official related events prior to the meeting.

Reporting that February is recognition month for Boy Scouts, Whitehead noted that Feb. 8 will be recognition Sunday at Jarvis while Feb. 24 has been designated for the Blue and Gold Dinner at the church. Feb. 28 has been set as the date for the Scout-A-Rama at the Pitt Fairgrounds.

Awards presented by Packmaster Jim Whitehead included: Wolf badges to Patrick Barnes, Bruce Thompson, Scott Pollard, Jason Adams, Brian Allgood, Todd Crouch, Frank Raby, Kent Lee and Mark Baker; and Bear badges to Traye Fugua, Durell Wyont and Tim Rogerson.

In addition, Bruce Thompson received a Gold Arrow for his Wolf Badge, Doyle Kirkland received his Silver Arrow Point, Sean Collins received his artist, scholar and showman awards for Weblos, and Brian Averett was presented his artist, scholar and traveler awards for Weblos. One-year pins were given to John Paul Haggard, Michael Smith and Frank Raby.

Boys who will be inducted in the Order of Akela at the February meeting include Patrick Barnes, Bruce Thompson, Scott Pollard, Jason Adams, Brian Allgood, Todd Crouch, Frank Raby, Kent Lee, Mark Baker, Traye Fugua, Durell Wyont and Tim Rogerson.

Theme for the pack meeting was the circus and the various dens participated in circus-tor, who works in a gift boutique as a saleswoman.

Like Mrs. Tower, 55, who went to the University of Maryland for her real estate license and started a real estate firm with two partners last fall, most of the women have had little background in business.

"But I wanted to make some money," said Mrs. Tower, the mother of three college-age daughters. "Without outside income or independent wealth, it's hard to keep a house in Washington and another somewhere else." Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., and his wife own a house in Texas and an apartment in Washington.

Almost all the women interviewed said they deliberately chose jobs that would pose no conflicts of interest for their husbands.

TV Did Well In Filming A Novel

By LEE MARGULIES
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — ABC commendably widens the parameters of American TV programming Sunday when it unveils the first episode of its mammoth, 12-hour dramatization of the novel "Rich Man, Poor Man."

And even if the opening two-hour installment and the one that follows on Monday had nothing else going for them, they would merit watching for the powerful performance turned in by Edward Asner, better known as gruff Lou Grant of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

As it happens, though, there is quite a bit more going for "Rich Man, Poor Man."

Before getting into that, let's digress a moment to take note that Danny Thomas is returning to television tonight as the star of "The Practice," a new half-hour comedy on NBC.

If your sense of humor tends toward the sarcastic, this show is for you. Thomas, his hair gray and disheveled, plays a crusty old doctor who delights in wisecracks, either putting people on or down.

But back to "Rich Man, Poor Man." Following Sunday's showing, ABC will air the next installment, also two hours, on Monday. One-hour episodes will follow on each of the next six Mondays. The drama will conclude with another two-hour chapter on Monday, March 22.

Following the lines of Irwin Shaw's novel, "Rich Man, Poor Man" deals primarily with the contrasting lives of two brothers and a girlfriend over a 20-year period but also depicts some of the ways America grew and changed during that time from the end of World War II to the mid-1960s.

The pace of the first two chapters Sunday and Monday is slow, but the characters are rich in detail — which is to say that the film, at 12 hours, is not unlike a novel. The plot may not be compelling in itself, but the people make it interesting.

Relative newcomers Peter Strauss, Nick Nolte and Susan Blakely are excellent in their respective roles as Rudy Jordache, a straight arrow young man driven by ambition to be wealthy; Ton Jordache, the tough, rebellious younger brother who's always taken a back seat to Rudy at home because his parents never meant to have him in the first place; and Julie Prescott, Rudy's high school sweetheart, who longs for the excitement in life that their small home town in New York can't offer.

But they are overshadowed in the first two episodes by Asner, who plays the boys' father, Axel Jordache, an intense, gimp-legged German immigrant who slaves in his bakery to support his family, fiercely bitter about what life has dealt him. He is terrific.

Court Upholds N.C. Sterilization Law

RALEIGH (AP)—Among a bundle of decisions handed down Thursday, the North Carolina Supreme Court ruled the state's sterilization law valid, rejected a Southern Bell appeal of a rate case and ruled that frozen concentrated orange juice is not a soft drink.

In the sterilization case, the court said the law revised by the 1974 General Assembly was "a valid and reasonable exercise of the (state's) police power."

In writing the unanimous decision, Associate Justice Dan K. Moore said, "The people of North Carolina have a right to prevent the procreation of children who will become a burden on the state."

Under the law, the Department of Social Services may petition the court to have a person sterilized. Physicians are called to testify on whether the person would be likely to have children with serious mental or physical deficiencies.

The state has the power to order sterilization when there is evidence that the person would be unable to care for a child or when it appears the offspring would be incompetent, the decision said.

Earlier decisions by the U.S. Supreme Court allow sterilization as long as it is not done in a discriminatory manner or as punishment, the court said.

The case at hand was from Forsyth County in which Joseph Lee Moore, 15, was to be given a vasectomy. District Court Judge A. Lincoln Sherk had declared the state law unconstitutional, a decision reversed by the high court.

Attorneys for the boy had contended that the law was too vague and didn't safeguard the boy's constitutional rights.

During the district court hearing, it was revealed that Moore has an IQ of 40 and a mental age of 8. The Forsyth County Department of Social Services said it sought sterilization because it was concerned that the boy "would procreate a child or children who would probably have serious physical, mental or nervous disorders or deficiencies."

The North Carolina Civil Liberties Union, which supported the boy's case, said the ruling would be studied before it is decided whether to appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Southern Bell Telephone Co. had appealed a Utilities Commission order in April 1974 granting about $8.3 million of a requested $33.8 million rate increase. The increase was requested in July 1973 and the commission conducted a hearing in November and December with its order coming the following April.

In its appeal, the company said the commission had not properly figured the firm's costs and had not allowed a sufficient profit.

In rejecting the appeal, the court noted that Southern Bell filed another request for higher rates in July 1974 and, after refiguring the company's costs and profits, the commission allowed a $36.2 million rate increase.

The court said that commission order rendered the appeal moot, meaning there was no longer a basis for the company's complaint. "A dispute between the parties to this appeal no longer exists," the court ruled.

The decision also said, "this court will not entertain or proceed with a cause merely to determine abstract propositions of law or to determine which party should rightly have won in the lower court."

In the orange juice case, the court rejected an effort by the state Department of Revenue to impose a "crown tax" on the concentrate even though no such tax is imposed on bottled orange juice that is not concentrated. The "crown tax" is for soft drinks.

A Wake County Superior Court had ruled that the tax applied to orange juice concentrate. The suit was brought by state Revenue Secretary J. Howard Coble to collect $1,119,996 from Institutional Food House Inc., which distributes orange juice concentrate and other food items to restaurants, schools, hospitals and other commercial clients.

The court based its decision largely on the testimony of W.W. Brown of the Lykes Pasco Packing Co. of Dade City, Fla., who made it clear that

Long Distance Telephone Call May Cost More

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — If you make long distance telephone calls, the chances are your monthly telephone bill will be going up on Feb. 12.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Co., filing for rate adjustments Thursday, said the average residential telephone bill will increase by about 10 cents per month. The average business customer will pay about $2 a month more if the Federal Communications Commission approves the new rates as expected.

The new rates submitted to the FCC would increase the cost of long distance calls made over short distances, while reducing the cost of calls made over longer distances. Calls in which operator assistance is required would undergo the sharpest increase.

For instance, a three minute direct-dialed evening call from Chicago to San Francisco would drop from 84 cents to 80 cents, but a station-to-station call between the same cities requiring operator assistance would rise from $1.90 for three minutes to $2.15.

AT&T says the hikes will make long distance calls about as expensive as in 1953 when the company began lowering its long distance rates.

The FCC approved a similar rate pattern on an interim basis last March 9, increasing

Don't Trust U.S.

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Belgium's defense minister says Europe can no longer rely on the United States for its military protection and that the Soviet-proclaimed effort to ease tension between the East and West is a dangerous illusion.

"Europe can no longer satisfy itself by trusting the Americans," Paul Vanden Boeynants said in a speech made available Thursday. It was delivered privately to a conference of Christian business executives Wednesday.

"Today we are eating out of the Americans' hand," he said. "What will become of us if the United States' nuclear umbrella were to disappear tomorrow? We'd be in real trouble."

"Europe must unite not only politically but also militarily," he said. "It is a necessity for our security."

"People say that if something goes wrong, the Americans will help us," Vanden Boeynants said. "But let us be cautious. Although it is clear that America's interests, not America's duty, prevent Europe from falling under Soviet domination, it is also clear that the Americans will leave us to our fate if they realize that the Europeans are not prepared to defend themselves or contribute to the necessary effort."

Accusing the Soviet Union of "aggressiveness and expansionism," Vanden Boeynants condemned the reluctance of the North Atlantic allies to strengthen their armies in the face of the Soviet Union's continuous military build-up.

about two-thirds of the interstate long-distance rates and either decreasing or keeping the others the same.

The precise amount of increases faced by each customer would depend upon the number and type of interstate calls made, their distance and duration, the time of the day and the day of the week.

Under the proposal, the shorter the distance the more the increase.

For instance, a one-minute daytime customer-dialed call from New York to Los Angeles would drop from 56 to 54 cents. A one-minute daytime call from New York to St. Louis would stay at 50 cents and a call from New York to Detroit would rise from 49 cents to 50 cents.

The AT&T filings followed an FCC decision Jan. 19 raising the company's rate of return on its interstate service rate from 8.74 per cent to 9.5 per cent for a $225 million a year increase.

AT&T has won three rate increases since Jan. 26, 1971. Previously, there were nine reductions, starting in 1953.

Consumers also have been hit with a flurry of local telephone increases the past year. AT&T, which through its Bell System operates about 85 per cent of the nation's telephones, reported rate increases were approved in 38 states last year and new increases are pending in 25 states and the District of Columbia.

Arafat Alerts His Guerrillas

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Yasser Arafat ordered Palestinian guerrillas throughout Lebanon on maximum alert against Israeli attack today and withdrew regular units of the Palestine Liberation Army from Beirut.

A spokesman for Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization said the alert followed reports of an Israeli troop buildup along the Israeli-Lebanese border, almost daily Israeli reconnaissance flights over Lebanon in the past 10 days and several violations of Lebanese waters by Israeli gunboats in the last 48 hours.

"Israel may be preparing a large-scale attack against guerrilla bases in Lebanon," he said. "They usually do these things whenever they feel the Lebanese civil war is fizzling out."

Lebanon's Moslem premier, Rashid Karami, also warned that Israel might try to sabotage the cease-fire between warring Moslems and Christians worked out by Syrian mediators last week.

Unconfirmed reports said some of the PLA troops with-

Club Sponsors Gospel Sing

The D. H. Conley Literary Club will sponsor a gospel sing Saturday from 6:30 to 11 p.m. in the School Gymnasium.

Featured singers will be the Melody Makers, the Gospel Chargers, Johnny Wooten's Voices of Zion, Rodger Ingram's Rivalettes, the Male Chorus, and Waterside's Male Chorus.

This program is being given in an effort to support the annual staff in purchasing this year's school yearbook. The public is encouraged to attend.

Accepting No Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford says he will accept no more contributions or federal subsidies, bringing his long-shot Democratic presidential campaign to an end.

Sanford said he is leaving the race whatever his legal status under the new federal election law. A spokesman said Sanford may return some money to the federal Treasury after all campaign bills are paid.

Acting on the basis of a letter which said Sanford might resume an active campaign, the Federal Election Commission on Thursday certified that Sanford is entitled to $2,219 more in federal funds even though he dropped his campaign last Friday.

Sanford's lawyer advised the commission that he will not accept that money, and will return it if the government sends it to him.

The lawyer said the letter was written as the result of confusion over exactly how to shut down a presidential campaign that has received federal aid. Sanford had received $244,069 in federal funds before he withdrew.

Sanford issued a statement saying "the confusion came about because neither the FEC nor I knew whether I must remain a candidate legally until the campaign is wound down and the debts are paid off."

A second letter said Sanford had told campaign aides to accept neither contributions nor additional matching funds.

Two Escape In Bank Robbery

CRAMERTON, N.C. (AP) — Two gunmen robbed a branch of the Citizens National Bank of an undisclosed amount Thursday in the ninth bank robbery of the year in North Carolina.

They escaped in a light-colored Cadillac. Cramerton is a textile town near Gastonia.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market surged ahead again today with trading volume soaring once more to record levels.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 7.48 at 976.23. Gainers outpaced losers by about a 3-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Opening-hour volume on the Big Board reached 12.10 million shares, easily surpassing the record of 10.95 million for the first hour set two weeks ago Thursday.

Analysts said the Dow's 17.40-point upsurge on Thursday had rekindled the bull-market sentiment that has swept through Wall Street since the start of the new year.

Thursday's gain was attributed partly to anticipation that New York's First National City Bank might lower its prime rate again this morning from 6 1/2 to 6 1/4 per cent.

Citibank fulfilled those hopes today, putting its basic charge on corporate loans at its lowest level since the spring of 1973.

Citicorp, First National City's parent holding company, led the active list, as it has for most of the week, and rose 3/4 to 32 3/4.

Getty Oil rose 6 1/2 to 17 1/2. The stock advanced more than 10 points over the two previous sessions after the company raised its estimate of the uranium reserves at an Australian site in which it holds an interest.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index picked up .55 to 53.67.

At the American Stock Exchange, trading was halted shortly after 11 a.m. because of equipment trouble, and then resumed at 11:30 a.m. The Amex market value index reading for the first hour was not immediately available.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

A chance of showers late Sunday, becoming fair Monday. Increasing cloudiness Tuesday. Warming trend begins Sunday.

LOOKING FOR A HANDOUT—Members of the wild herd of fallow deer that roams Belle Isle public park in Detroit have found this winter's blanket of snow too thick for their natural foraging. So they've adopted a trick from their human friends—use that sad and hungry look to put the bite on passing motorists. The Friday forecast calls for two to four more inches of new snow for the herd to contend with. (AP Wirephoto)

Kunstler And Hearsts Dispute His Trial Role

By PAUL STEVENS
Associated Press Writer
ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Attorney William Kunstler and the parents of Patricia Hearst are locked in a dispute about whether the Hearst family asked the radical lawyer to represent Miss Hearst.

Kunstler said in an interview Thursday that Catherine Hearst made a "direct request" to hire him in June 1974.

"Never at any time did I offer to employ him," said Mrs. Hearst. "My only hope was that through his contacts he could get her to give herself up."

F. Lee Bailey, Miss Hearst's lawyer, said Kunstler's remarks, "made in the midst of jury selection, deserve the attention of the New York bar and I shall bring them to their attention."

Kunstler said he had made the statement about defending Miss Hearst "many times in the past."

In the interview Thursday, Kunstler denied he called the Hearsts "pigs" at a news conference in Dallas on Tuesday. "I didn't say that. And I don't know how that got in there because that is not my style. I thought I said 'members of the ruling class.'"

A transcript of the news conference shows the following exchange:

Kunstler: "... And the Patty Hearst trial starts today. I had the very deep pleasure of turning that case down, which is probably one of the nicest things I've ever done."

Reporter: "Why is that?"

Kunstler: "Well, I would never work for the Hearsts under any circumstances and Mrs. Hearst came to see me. I won't work for pigs. Essentially that's it. I only work for people I respect and the ruling class is not the people I respect."

Kunstler has been an adviser to the lawyer for Symbionese Liberation Army members William and Emily Harris. The Associated Press erroneously reported earlier that Kunstler was chief counsel for the Harris couple.

Grifton Fire Is Controlled

GRIFTON—The Grifton Volunteer Fire Department was called to a fire at Shelby Allen's Restaurant at 1 p.m. Thursday.

The fire which started in the bar-be-que pit caused an estimated $500 damages to the loss of two pigs which were cooking at the time and $500 damages to equipment in the pit, according to fireman Gary Johnson.

"The timer on the bar-be-que must not have turned off," Johnson said. "We used a fire extinguisher to extinguish the fire," he explained.

Johnson explained that if the Grifton fire department cannot be reached at the time of a fire, that persons should either call the Pitt County Sheriff's Department or the Lenoir County Sheriff's Department and the alarm will be sounded.
