TORNADO DESTRUCTION — At least five persons died Monday when a tornado ripped through the downtown business district of Cabot in central Arkansas. (AP Wirephoto)

Tornadoes Leave 11 Dead In Miss., Ark.

By The Associated Press

Tornadoes have cut a swath of destruction across Arkansas and Mississippi, killing 11 persons, injuring more than 220 and leaving hundreds of others homeless.

State police said six persons were killed in Arkansas and more than 70 were injured. Five were killed and at least 150 were injured in Mississippi, state Civil Defense officials said.

"This is unbelievable, just unbelievable," said Arkansas Gov. David Pryor as he toured the devastated town of Cabot, hardest hit by the twisters that roared through the two Southern states Monday.

Five died in Cabot, a community in central Arkansas 20 miles northeast of Little Rock. The sixth victim in Arkansas was killed when a tornado struck the town of Dresco, about 100 miles north of Little Rock.

State police earlier said six persons had died in Cabot, but officials reported today that a man listed as dead was later found alive there.

Most of Cabot's business district was demolished, and state police said 65 buildings on an eight-block stretch of Main Street were either destroyed or heavily damaged.

In Mississippi, five persons were killed when a tornado tore through the town of Canton.

In Texas, authorities said high winds and tornadoes hit towns near Austin and San Antonio before dawn today, overturning mobile homes, knocking down trees and communication lines and injuring about a dozen people.

A spokesman for the Southeast Travis County fire control district said 40 to 60 persons were left homeless in Garfield, 12 miles southeast of Austin, after a twister "went right through the middle" of the village where there are many trailers and frame homes.

Six persons were taken to an Austin hospital for treatment, the spokesman said, adding that two of them appeared to be in serious condition.

Kerrville police dispatcher Tom Rankin said a tornado later whirled across part of Center Point, about 15 miles southwest of Kerrville and 45 miles northwest of San Antonio, injuring seven persons. He said the injured were taken to a Kerrville hospital but none appeared to be badly hurt.

Tornado warnings were issued today for 56 counties, primarily in south-central and southeast Texas.

Mississippi National Guard troops joined local police late Monday in patrolling the debris-lined streets of Canton and enforcing the 10 p.m. curfew ordered to prevent looting of the town's demolished businesses.

In Arkansas, the Lonoke County sheriff's office said, "The whole main street of Cabot has been flattened."

The Arkansas governor, who arrived in Cabot a few hours after the tornadoes hit, ordered 60 National Guardsmen to the storm-ravaged town. Thirty-five Air Force security policemen other officials, and utility company crews worked to restore telephone, gas and electric service.

Cabot Mayor Willie Ray said he was at City Hall when the National Weather Service telephoned a warning about 3:15 p.m. Ray said he saw the tornado coming and told city officials to "blow the whistle," a warning device which can be heard several blocks from City Hall.

Ernie Bailey, 37, a Cabot real estate salesman, said he watched the tornado approach a school filled with children. Then, he said, the twister "just sort of hopped to the side of the school and went on by."

In Canton, an agricultural town of 10,000 about 20 miles north of Jackson, the tornado cut a five-mile-long swath through residential, business and industrial areas.

Another tornado touched down in the Mississippi town of Newton, injuring nine persons and damaging between 150 and 200 houses.

Broader Role For Planning Members Adopted By City

By TOM BAINES

Reflector Staff Writer
The City Council adopted a policy Monday directing that county members of the Joint City-County Planning & Zoning Commission be involved in decisions concerning subdivision plats within the extraterritorial jurisdiction of the city.

The action, which took place during a special call session, followed a recent request by the Planning and Zoning Commission for direction from the Council as to county member involvement in the subdivision plats.

In the past, it was pointed out, county members of the joint board had participated only in decisions regarding rezoning matters within the extraterritorial jurisdiction but it was brought to the attention of the city that statutes indicate the county members should have a voice on subdivision plats within that jurisdiction.

The Council, in adopting the policy, directed that the Planning and Zoning Commission adopt the procedure for county member involvement.

In another matter concerning the planning board, Council members voted to have City Attorney David Reid draw up an ordinance setting the number of county members on the joint planning board at five, rather than six as currently stated in the city statutes.

City Planner John Schofield said that a letter of resignation has been received from county member Rudolph Scheller. The Council agreed to ask the Board of County Commissioners not to appoint anyone to take Scheller's place and have the ordinance written to stipulate five members.

Membership tenure on the board for the county members would also be the same as that set for the city members under the new ordinance. Members would serve a maximum of six consecutive years (two three-year terms).

Following discussions concerning changes in the extraterritorial jurisdiction, the Council authorized City Manager Jim Caldwell to initiate work to establish natural boundaries that would extend the extraterritorial limits to a maximum of three miles from the corporate limits. The jurisdiction currently averages approximately one to one and a half miles from the city limits, according to Schofield.

The County Commissioners will be consulted on the matter and advised of the wishes of the Council to change the extraterritorial jurisdiction.

Action regarding steps to begin the city bus system was tabled until the April meeting. Caldwell told the Council that he had hoped to have a lease on hand for the members to study but it failed to arrive in the mail in time for the meeting.

Caldwell, members of the Council, as well as transportation board members and city staff representatives visited Suffolk, Va. recently to view the bus operation there.

Due to a change in the federal fiscal year which will now run from Oct. 1 through Sept. 30, resolutions authorizing applications for second year funding, covering the July 1 through Sept. 30 period, for a Police Legal Advisor and Police Juvenile Officer were adopted.

The applications, which will be resubmitted for the new fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, request three-month funding from the

Seven Rioters Are Killed By Israeli Security Force

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Security forces killed seven Israeli Arab rioters today in clashes during an Arab general strike called by the Communists.

The government said the clashes were the first fatal skirmishes between Israeli troops and the nation's 500,000 Arab citizens in the 28 years since Israel became a state.

The strike was called to protest the government's takeover of about 1,600 acres of rocky, unused Arab land in Galilee for Jewish and Arab development projects. The government is to pay for all the land.

The Arabs were shot to death in four villages as rioters fought troops and police with stones and kerosene bombs, police said.

More than 20 soldiers and police and an unknown number of Israeli Arabs were reported injured. Security forces arrested about 200 rioters and suspected agitators. Most of the violence was centered in Galilee.

Border police battled rioters at the home of Nazareth's Communist mayor, Tewfik Zayad, a member of parliament who was regarded as the strike leader.

Violence erupted in about a dozen Arab villages inside Israel. Towns in occupied west Jordan, swept by anti-Israeli riots for the past month, joined the strike in sympathy.

Israeli troops in Arab Jerusalem and west Jordan ordered striking merchants to reopen their shops, breaking open the iron shutters of some stores and welding others shut as punishment.

The government had said earlier that most Arabs appeared to be rejecting the strike call and working as usual.

The strike was centered in Nazareth, in Galilee, and much of the initial violence occurred in two Arab villages north of there, Deir Hanna and Sakhnin.

A police communique said villagers in Deir Hanna attacked an army truck and security patrol Monday night with bottles and burning kerosene flashes.

"Soldiers fired a number of warning shots.... The rioters continued to shower stones.... Seven of the rioters were injured by the shots," and one later died, the communique said.

Eleven soldiers and police also were reported injured.

The two villages and another one nearby, Arraba, were put under curfew. Today Arabs in Sakhnin defied the curfew and attacked patrolling troops and police with stones, torches and burning kerosene.

Budget Workshop

Instructional services in the current expense budget was the area covered in Monday night's workshop session of the Greenville City School board.

City Schools Supt. Glenn Cox said that further consideration was given to the request from the previous week to study the possibility of supplements to the city's coaching personnel.

School board members asked Cox to gather specific information and to come up with recommendations concerning the request. Cox will meet with the juniors and senior high school principals to evaluate information for suggested revisions to the coaching supplement.

Any supplements that might be considered would be from local funds.

Cox said that the workshop last night, the second of a series of three, possibly four planned workshops, completed initial line-by-line coverage of the current expense portion of the proposed 1976-77 Greenville City Schools budget.

At the next workshop, scheduled for Monday, April 5, Cox will have in readiness all the revisions on the current expense part of the budget asked for by the school board members. "No action will be taken at next Monday's workshop," Cox said, "but there will probably be a consensus of opinion on the recommended revisions."

Also at next Monday's workshop, a line-by-line study will be conducted on the capital outlay portion of the budget.

'HIS, HERS, BOTH'

I know a newly-separated woman, employed, who was turned down for a better-paying job when the Greenville Credit Bureau released her husband's bad credit rating. Under the new Equal Credit Law, passed by Congress last year, a woman is entitled to her own credit rating, I understand, regardless of the credit standing of her husband. Yet, I am told the Greenville Bureau is still releasing husbands' credit data to lending institutions and employers who request information on married women. Isn't this illegal? F.R.

"As we update files now, we're marking entries his, hers, and both," says Janie Hudson of the Credit Bureau Division of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association. And if we're called about a wife, we report hers and both, and if we're called about a husband, we report his and both."

"According to the law, however, we cannot update a file except upon the request of the person on whom the file is written or on request of a company wishing to inquire about this person—we just cannot do it on our own initiative. So it behooves everyone to check with us as to how his or her credit is listed. And, this would be especially true for someone recently legally separated, because the change of marital status probably would call for extensive revamping of files."

Anyone wishing to contact the Credit Bureau about his or her file should call 758-4141, or go into the office located at 308 Raleigh Avenue.

CHANGES AT THE CUCKOO'S NEST — Jack Nicholson and Louise Fletcher, who were antagonists as the wacky patient and mean nurse in "One Flew

American Party Entry Against Jones Planned

KINSTON — Michael M. Parker, co-chairman of the Lenior County American Party, said today he will seek his party's nomination for the First Congressional District seat now held by Democrat Walter B. Jones of Farmville.

"Congress is the key to our economic woes," Parker said. "Representatives must be elected who realize that prosperity cannot be established and nurtured by fiscal irresponsibility. A balanced federal budget is a must for public confidence in our economy."

Pledging support for legislation to reduce foreign aid, to return control of health, education and welfare to the local level, and strengthen the nation's defense posture, Parker said his planned door-to-door, grass roots campaign will enable him to "meet the hard-working tax-payers whose paychecks are being eroded by government-produced inflation."

He said "the crucial issue... is whether or not we are going to begin our third century by returning to a Constitutional republic." Local and state governments are most responsive to the will of the people," not the federal bureaucracy," Parker said.

The American Party hopeful is a native of Roanoke, Virginia. He attended Ohio State University, majoring in English, and has attended graduate school at East Carolina University. For the past five years, Parker has taught at Grace Christian School in Kinston.

He is married to the former Sandra Dawson of La Grange and they have three children.

Cuckoo's Nest Sweeps Prestige Oscar Awards

By LEE MARGULIES

Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," a movie whose message of hope and perseverance has special meaning to the people who fought for 15 years to get it made, became the first film since 1934 to sweep the four most prestigious Academy Awards.

"Cuckoo's Nest" was named best picture of the year.

Jack Nicholson, as the leader of a rebellious group of mental hospital inmates, and Louise Fletcher, as the strong-willed nurse who keeps them in line, won the top acting Oscars for 1975. Milos Forman was named best director. In addition, Lawrence Hauben and Bo Goldman took best screen adaptation honors at the 48th annual presentations Monday night.

"To anybody who's got a dream and there's a possibility that it's not going to be a reality, just hang on, it'll be all right," said "Cuckoo's Nest" coproducer Michael Douglas, accepting the Oscar for best picture. That was the message of the film and of making the film.

Comedian George Burns, 80, became the oldest actor ever to win an Oscar. His supporting performance in "The Sunshine Boys" was his first motion picture part in 37 years. Lee Grant, whose NBC television series "Fay" was canceled three weeks after it debuted last fall, was named best supporting actress for her role as an adulteress in "Shampoo."

"It Happened One Night," with Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert, was the only other film to walk off with the top Academy Awards, in 1934.

Douglas' father, actor Kirk Douglas, tried to turn Ken Kesey's novel of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" into a movie 15 years ago, but he was never able to get the

4-H Fashion Revue Held Four Days In May Crucial To Primary Campaign By Reagan

FASHION REVUE WINNERS . . . Mike Davis, 4-H Extension Agent, presents ribbons to 4-H fashion

"Swing Into Spring" was the theme of the annual Pitt County 4-H Fashion Revue, held Saturday night at the American Legion Building in Greenville. Thirty-seven 4-H members representing eight 4-H clubs participated in the event. The stage which was decorated as a spring garden provided the setting for the modelling of the fashions.

The winner of the Fashion Revue in the Junior Division was Lynette Bullock of the Falkland Hustlers 4-H Club. Winners of the Senior Division were Brenda Roberson and Cassandra Worsley of the Bethel Goldens Eagles 4-H Club. Miss Roberson and Miss Worsley were chosen to represent Pitt County in the State Clothing Camp in May. Ribbons were presented to each of the 37 participants in the fashion revue.

The fashion revue is the highlight of the year for those who chose the sewing project in 4-h and completed their garments. Each garment was judged prior to the event, for construction and during the event on proper fit and appearance. Judges for the fashion revue were Teresa Turner assistant Home Economics Extension agent; Ann Hunsucker, Home Economist; Mrs. Linda Boyette, Associate Home Economist Extension agent; and Pat Johnson, assistant home Economics Extension agent. Alissa Moore, Miss Greenville was the commentator for the program.

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — For Ronald Reagan, the first four days of May loom as crucial ones, with a set of presidential primary elections his managers believe will make or break his campaign for the White House. First, Reagan plans an effort to define in his own terms the issues of the campaign for the Republican nomination. That process begins with a nationally televised speech by the former California governor. Reagan's address is being taped today in Hollywood and will be televised at 10:30 p.m. EST Wednesday by the NBC television network, which is charging $100,000 to carry the 30-minute address. With that, Reagan's camp hopes to revive the challenge to President Ford, winner in five out of six of the early primaries. Reagan's win was in the most recent test, a week ago in North Carolina. The campaign overhaul was in the works before Reagan's upset, 52-per cent victory there. John P. Sears, his campaign manager, said the initial goal is to define the issues in Reagan's own terms instead of responding to what has been said about him.

Sears said Reagan was able to do that in fashioning his North Carolina victory, concentrating on questions of foreign policy and defense — and on charges that the administration is letting the United States slip to No. 2 in military might.

Reagan began his race vowing to challenge what he called the "buddy system" in Washington. He apparently wants to go back to that theme.

The television talk will include a plea for funds, but Sears said he doubts it will bring in much more than the program costs.

Success or failure of the new Reagan push will not get its major test for a month. Reagan is not entered in the April 6 New York primary, and has dropped his personal campaign for the Wisconsin primary the same day. Ford will campaign in Wisconsin Friday and Saturday.

"We don't have great expectations," Sears said. "There isn't any plan for Reagan to go there...."

Instead, the Reagan strategy aims at three primaries in the South and one in the Midwest, all during the first week of May.

Texas, with 100 GOP delegates, votes May 1. Sears said a victory there is essential. Then, on May 4, there are three more primaries, in Georgia, Alabama and Indiana with 139 delegates among them.

"Get going there, and we'll have a good shot the rest of the way," Sears said. By the same token, he acknowledged that defeats in those primaries would effectively eliminate Reagan as a credible candidate. Reagan himself avoids settling on any state vote as crucial to his campaign, saying only that he intends to be in the race all the way.

Bankruptcy Is Near For Post Office: Bailar

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The deficit-plagued Postal Service may be bankrupt within a year unless the Treasury Department agrees to grant new loans to the postal agency, says Postmaster Gen. Benjamin F. Bailar.

Bailar, for the first time placing a time limit on the ability of the Postal Service to remain in operation, told the Senate Post Office Committee on Monday that some action must be taken in two to four months to prevent new cutbacks in service.

Bailar's testimony came on a day when in 10 major East Coast cities business deliveries were reduced to once daily. Such cutbacks, along with the closing of rural post offices, prompted the Senate panel's hearing.

Meanwhile, the House Postal Service subcommittee was to open hearings today on a bill to abolish the Postal Rate Commission, which has been criticized for lengthy deliberations that have contributed to the rising deficits in the Postal Service.

The House on Monday approved $150,000 for the Ethics Committee investigation on a vote of 278 to 87. Flynt said the probe would start immediately. He said investigators were instructed "to find out who and how many people made improper distribution of the Pike committee report." He said he was optimistic the probe will succeed.

Flynt said 11 investigators will begin interviewing between 350 and 400 witnesses this week.

rebellious state of mind" among the public and members of Congress.

Bailar also bitterly told the Senate panel that his cries for help have fallen on deaf ears at the White House. He said administration budget advisers have refused to meet with him to discuss the Postal Service financial crisis. "Their inaccessibility and attitudes are deeply disturbing to me," he said.

The Postal Service expects to lose a record $1.5 billion this year.

Discussing the Postal Rate Commission, Bailar told the senators the length of the panel's deliberations on whether to make the old 10-cent letter rate permanent delayed by almost six months the increase to 13 cents last December. The delay cost the Postal Service more than $1 billion dollars and was "prolonged to the point of threatening the economic future of the Postal Service," he said.

The commission, an independent agency, took almost two years to decide to let the 10-cent rate become permanent, clearing the way for the hike to 13 cents. While the commission pondered the matter, inflation increased Postal Service costs, but rates were frozen.

Probers May Not Quiz Newsmen In Investigating House 'Leaks'

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — CBS correspondent Daniel Schorr and other reporters might not be interviewed during the House investigation into the leak of its intelligence committee's controversial final report, sources say.

who gave them details of the secret report might appear to be infringing on freedom of the press. The source said committee members expect the reporters would refuse to reveal their sources anyway.

Investigators are optimistic after a preliminary inquiry that they might be able to find out who leaked the report to the public without calling any reporters, according to sources.

But the Ethics Committee has made no formal decision against calling reporters, the sources said in interviews Monday, and several members do want to call Schorr.

Schorr has acknowledged that he arranged through an intermediary to have the Village Voice, a New York City weekly, publish a copy of the report, which remains classified. Schorr has declined to say how he obtained the report.

The sources say committee investigators probably will interview staff members of the intelligence panel, on a voluntary basis at first as a matter of House propriety and not with the idea of trying to find out if one of the committee members leaked the report.

ranking Republican, Rep. Robert McClory of Illinois, said that at the request of Ethics Committee chairman John J. Flynt, D-Ga., he has already turned over a memorandum on the intelligence committee's security procedures.

The House on Monday approved $150,000 for the Ethics Committee investigation on a vote of 278 to 87. Flynt said the probe would start immediately. He said investigators were instructed "to find out who and how many people made improper distribution of the Pike committee report." He said he was optimistic the probe will succeed.

Flynt said 11 investigators will begin interviewing between 350 and 400 witnesses this week.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

As a grandmother, I intend to be an absolute bore about my grandchildren. I intend to travel with a projector, a screen and 200 lifelike slides showing them chewing on clothespins and standing on their heads. I will produce from my handbag (with or without request) recent urine samples, a tape of them gargling milk at the dinner table and clever sayings that will put Art Linkletter out of business.

As a mother, however, I refuse to inflict my children on anyone. (God knew what he was doing when he gave them to a dictator.)

Consequently, I often find myself at the mercy of women with Super Children. Super Children are unmitigated joy. They can always be counted on to do and say the right thing. They always make the team, have fewer cavities, skip acne, know what they want to be in the third grade, have their paper displayed at Open House, and always remember to bring home the Mother's Day card from art class.

I have made a study of Super Children and have come to the conclusion that the only difference between Super Children and Normal kids is in the interpretation. For example:

Normal Kids	Super Children
Forgetful	Preoccupied
Fat	Healthy
Sloppy beasts	Academically geared
Weirdo who won't get a haircut	Nonconformist
Lazy bum	Deep thinker
Flunked out	Victim of a poor teacher
TV addict	TV critic
Cut from the team	Saved from a prejudiced coach
Forgot me on Mother's Day	Is saving his money for my operation
Oversleeps in the morning	A recessive gene

I recently decided to test my theory on two mothers of Super Children with kids away at college. I ambled over to one and said, "Does Martha write home much from school?"

"No," she answered, "Martha is so well adjusted and secure that she can cope with independence. What about your daughter?"

"She doesn't write either."

"Too bad," she sighed, "I guess that tells you where you rate."

I went on to the other woman and asked, "Does Phyllis write home often?"

Oh, yes," she said. "Three times a week. Phyllis is a very loving girl. She has always been close to me. What about your daughter?"

"She writes three times a week, too," I said.

"What a pity," she said. "I'd worry to have a child so dependent."

I get the feeling I lose the minute I open my mouth.

Unknown Heart Ailment Fatal

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A 20-year-old former high school athlete who died after a pickup basketball game last week had a diseased heart caused by a childhood illness, an autopsy has disclosed.

Neither the youth, Eddie H. Baucom Jr., nor his family, knew of his heart condition. "I suspect it was scarlet fever...that the heart muscle was affected by that," said Dr. Hobart Wood, the Mecklenburg County medical examiner, who performed the autopsy.

Mrs. Edgar Baucom Sr. said Monday that her son had two short bouts with scarlet fever between the ages of 4 and 8. Baucom had been taking a year off from Western Carolina University to work in his father's moving and transfer business.

He had participated in several sports and was voted the most valuable football player at North Mecklenburg High School in 1974. His family said he had never had any physical problems because of his sports activities. He took the required physical exam for athletes each year.

The physical exam form used in the Charlotte area and in about 90 per cent of North Carolina high schools has no question in the medical history section about scarlet fever. It does ask about "Known past illness of more than one week's duration." And it requires checks of most parts of the body, such as the heart, lungs and abdomen.

Mrs. Baucom said her son's scarlet fever lasted only a few days each time.

Several Charlotte doctors said a history of scarlet fever would not necessarily indicate damage to the heart. Even if further tests were made, there would be no guarantee that a heart problem such as Baucom's would show up, they said.

Collected About $800 In Drive

About $800 was collected for the Pitt County Heart Fund by the Sigma Nu Fraternity to roadblock operation held here Saturday.

This is a $100 increase over last year's collections by the fraternity in a similar Heart Fund drive, according to Chip Mayo, Drive chairman.

By 1949, communism had spread into southeastern Europe, and over China and North Korea.

Life Sentences For 4 Killers

By TONY LEDWELL
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Four Black Muslims convicted of some of the random Zebra street slayings that terrified city residents during the winter of 1973-74 have been sentenced to life in prison.

Superior Court Judge Joseph Karesh ordered the maximum punishment Monday, saying that the more than 20 attacks, 14 of them fatal, were "vicious and terrifying crimes."

Larry C. Green, 23, J.C. Simon, 29, Manuel Moore, 31, and Jesse Lee Cooks, 30, showed no emotion as Karesh sentenced them individually.

Green spoke briefly to assail reports that police officials were concerned about the safety of Anthony Harris, a former companion of the defendants who was the key prosecution witness against them.

"We have nothing to gain by the death of Anthony Harris, but the San Francisco police department does," said Green. He did not elaborate.

Karesh solemnly read the names of the 14 persons who were killed either by gunfire or stabbing. The defendants, however, were charged with only three of the slayings.

The four were convicted of murder, conspiracy and assault on March 13 after one of the longest trials in California history. It lasted 376 days, and 181 witnesses testified. The jury deliberated 3½ days.

The prosecution argued that the Zebra killings, named after a police radio band, were the work of a racist black cult bent on slaying whites.

Attorneys for all four filed notices of appeal as soon as sentences were imposed.

Armed Robbery Nets But $25

Police are investigating an armed robbery at Bill's Amoco station at West End Circle here last night that netted robbers an estimated $25 in cash.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Lee Joyner, an attendant at the station, told officers two men walked into the station—one with his hand in his coat pocket—threatened the use of a weapon, and demanded money.

Cannon quoted Joyner as saying he opened the cash register and gave the robbers about $25 in cash. The two intruders, Joyner said, were wearing stocking masks.

The incident occurred about 7:35 p.m.

Miss LuAnne McLawhorn Is Bride

MRS. JOHNNY MARVIN MOORE

KINSTON — Miss LuAnne McLawhorn became the bride of Johnny Marvin Moore Sunday at 3:00 p.m. in a double ring ceremony in the First Pentecostal Holiness Church here.

The ceremony was performed by W. J. Forehand. A program of nuptial music was presented by Larry Jones, organist, and Mike Berry, vocalist.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. McLawhorn of Kinston, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal gown of candlelight silk satta over peau de soie. The princess styled gown featured a colonial neckline, sheer yoke and straight sleeves of Nottingham and Venise lace. Bridal pearls embellished the yoke, sleeves and centered the Venise flowerettes that adorned the front of the gown, which flowed into a full chapel length train. The skirt and train were bordered with a lace ruffle.

The bride's shoulder length veil of imported silk illusion was bordered with Nottingham lace and fell from a Camelot cap of lace centered with pearls. She carried a prayerbook used by her mother in her wedding. The prayerbook was centered with red sweetheart roses, pink miniature carnations and baby's breath with candlelight satin streamers tied with bridal knots interspersed with baby's breath.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin W. Moore of Rt. 2, Kinston.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. McLawhorn of Rt. 6, Greenville.

She carried a pink lace fan with sprays of pink and burgundy miniature carnations, baby's breath with matching ribbon.

crepe and styled identical to that of the honor attendant. They carried burgundy lace fans with sprays of flowers.

April Dawn McLawhorn of Kinston, sister of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a dress of pink silk organza with tiers of ruffles encircling the sleeves and full skirt.

The ring bearer was John Stokes of Greenville and the father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Jay Darah and Chuck Jenkins, both of LaGrange. Stephen McLawhorn, Randall Davis, Tony Moore, Bobby Merritt and Lloyd Earl Wiggins, all of Kinston.

A reception given by the bride's parents was held immediately following the ceremony in the church fellowship hall.

The parents of the bridegroom entertained at a rehearsal dinner at a Kinston restaurant honoring the couple Saturday evening.

A bridesmaids luncheon was held Saturday given by Mrs. Jack Alexander and Mrs. E. J. Darrah.

Fraternity Helps ECU Administrator

When an East Carolina University administrator lost his secretary and couldn't hire a new one because of the state government's employment freeze, an ECU fraternity and their "little sisters" decided to help out.

"Word got around that I had lost my secretary and couldn't replace her," said Dick Blake, a retired Air Force Colonel and the assistant to the Chancellor at ECU.

Then he received a call from James Thompson, of Rocky Mount, president of Kappa Alpha, one of the fraternities at ECU. Thompson offered some volunteer help from his fraternity's "little sisters", a group composed of the girl friends of the fraternity brothers.

At first, five of the women signed up but that number has been increasing from day to day.

"They arrive at different times for one and two hour shifts," said Blake.

"They answer the telephone, take messages and type. They're a great help."

The administrator said the hiring freeze Feb. 26 caught him by surprise. His secretary was to leave March 5 and he was in the process of interviewing aplicants for the job when the freeze was announced. He immediately wrote to the State Budget Office asking that an exception to the hiring freeze be made but his appeal was refused.

"I'm really very happy with the students' help," said Blake. "They've turned what I thought would be a difficult situation into a very pleasing experience."

Babysitting Grandfather Beats Six-Year-Old

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have two children ages 3 and 6. My husband doesn't like to hire sitters. He says it's too expensive, but I notice he has money for his boat and a storeroom filled with the latest in hunting and fishing equipment.

Anyway, the last time we went out for an evening we left our kids overnight with his parents. The next day, our 6-year-old had welts and bruises all over his little body. He told us that his Granddaddy had whipped him with a leather belt for telling a fib!

My husband didn't seem at all upset. He said whoever kids are left with has a right to punish them any way he sees fit.

Abby, we have never whipped our kids with a belt, and I say nobody else should, either. Please settle this.
MONTANA MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I agree with you 100 per cent. NEVER leave your children with those grandparents again and tell them why. "Granddaddy" sounds as though he needs a thorough checkup. (Physical and mental.) And where was "Grandma" when all this was going on?

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is a beautiful, bright young woman who has a mind of her own. For seven years I have been trying to train her not to overdraw on her checking account, but without success. Have you any suggestions?
GEORGE A. KELLOGG

DEAR GEORGE: If after seven years you haven't been able to train her, give up. At this stage of the game, it's obvious that she has YOU trained.

DEAR ABBY: About that woman who was embarrassed by her boyfriend's bad grammar. My glamorous mother was divorced 20 years ago. When she started dating again, she wouldn't even consider dating a man who said "We wasn't" or "He don't."

For the last six months, her constant companion has been a man who says, "We wasn't" and uses "youse" for the plural of "you." But he is the sweetest, kindest, most patient man she's ever known. He's a big success financially, too.

If Mom had stuck to her original standards, she would have cheated herself out of plenty. Also, this man in her life has made her a lot easier to live with.
HER DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Neither glamour nor grammar guarantees a good relationship.

Highway Corridor Study Ahead

According to Department of Transportation officials, a study is expected to be initiated soon concerning a highway corridor to the east in the area of U.S. 264 and U. S. 64. Contrary to what had been believed locally, the contract for the study has not been made, DOT officials say. It is anticipated that the study, which will cost $60,000 to $70,000, will be done by an out-of-state consulting firm. Tom Taft, a local attorney and president of the Highway 264 Association, is asking the Department of Transportation for a meeting to discuss the information that will be used as a basis for the study. He also asked about provision for public input as the study proceeds. The Highway 264 Association, of course, favors a limited access route in the area of the present U.S. 264 and the decision which is finally made will vitally affect Greenville, Washington, Farmville and many other communities along the present U.S. 264 route. There is nothing unreasonable about Taft's request for a meeting with DOT officials, and we would think that DOT would be willing to make public, statistics and other information it will furnish to the consultants for preparing the study. We would also think that DOT and the consultants, when they are chosen, would welcome all the public input they can get as the study gets underway. The proposed corridor, after all, should be placed to serve the largest number of people possible in the central eastern area.

Bowles' Health Problem Is Regrettable

Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles has dropped out of the race for Democratic gubernatorial nomination due to a health problem. Bowles, who has been a major figure in Democratic party affairs and in state government, came near winning the gubernatorial election in 1972. He won the Democratic primary but lost to Gov. Holshouser in the general election.

It had been considered certain that he would be in the race for the nomination this year, so his announcement came as a surprise. We regret that the health problem has caused "Skipper" Bowles withdrawal from the race, but we hope that his services won't be lost to North Carolina state government.

THIS AFTERNOON

Fewer DUI Convictions

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Despite a sharp increase in numbers of arrests, stiffer penalties for refusing to take a breathalyzer test, and district attorneys who are taking more cases to trial, the conviction rate in drunk driving cases in North Carolina is declining. A total of 59,677 persons were arrested for driving under the influence in 1975. On January 1, 1975, a new state law took effect making it against the law to drive with a blood-alcohol level of 0.10 per cent or more. Prior to that date, having a higher breathalyzer reading meant the arresting officer still had to prove that ability was impaired. More Guilty The new result of this would seem to be more convictions, but figures show otherwise. Currently available only for arrests handled by the State Highway Patrol (which is the bulk of the cases) statistics show those found guilty as charged declined from 63.7 per cent to 62.7 per cent from 1974 to 1975. Cases not pressed (dropped without trial) declined from 13.5 per cent to 10.9 per cent, demonstrating that district attorneys did carry more drunk driving cases to court. Not guilty verdicts showed a sharp increase from 6.4 per cent to 9.2 per cent; and those found guilty of a lesser offense also increased slightly from 16.4 per cent to 17.2 per cent. Ironically, a look at comparative figures from the past nine years shows that those found not guilty ran pretty consistently between six and seven per cent until 1975 when the jump of almost three percentage points to 9.2 per cent occurred. Motor Vehicles Commissioner Edward L. Powell says drawing conclusions from the figures is difficult because statistics do not allow one to judge the strength of cases, the aggressiveness of district attorneys, or the reaction of juries to defense presentations. Local Problem Powell said his effort is to provide the statistical data so that local law enforcement and court personnel can better determine problem areas and work out steps to correct them. Powell thinks one possible explanation for the sharp increase in not guilty verdicts may be the law which made 0.10 per cent the level above which driving is illegal. More than 8,000 of the 1975 arrestees blew less than 0.10 per cent, even though driving ability could have been impaired. But jurors have that 0.10 per cent line in mind, and defense argument that the breathalyzer reading fell below that point could influence decisions. Ben F. Loeb, Jr., a member of the faculty at the Institute of Government in Chapel Hill who specializes in alcoholic beverage and motor vehicle law, has taken a look at the changed law and the shifting conviction figures. He reached this conclusion in a recent issue of Popular Government magazine, published before 1975 figures were available, but based on the first six months: "The 1973 session of the General Assembly enacted excellent laws, but the statistics thus far do not indicate that these new laws are having the desired effect. The problem may be the lenient attitude the public has (while) district attorneys and trial court judges are popularly elected officials and are of necessity sensitive to the prevailing mores and attitudes of their constituents. Loeb reported that conviction rates vary sharply from county to county with the highest being Polk, Rutherford, Transylvania, Scotland, and Hoke; while the lowest rates are in Lincoln, Gaston, Alexander, Yancey, and Rockingham.

GARDEN COULD STAND SOME BRISK WEEDING!

Peanut Issues Raised

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Ford administration farm officials are gleefully hoping former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter's connection with the government's $150 million peanut subsidy program will provide the kind of public and political pressure needed for Congress to kill or radically change the program. A hotly debated farm issue for years, federal peanut subsidies burst onto the national political scene over the weekend when Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz said Carter, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, has been "growing fat" for years on peanut subsidies. "I'm going to disturb his little playhouse," Butz declared.

Carter said Monday through a spokesman that he did not receive peanut subsidies, but a USDA spokesman said the Carter farm near Plains, Ga., had collected about $1,280 in 1971 and $1,448 in 1973. Although those payments hardly were big enough to make Carter financially fat as Butz said, another USDA official said later that the subsidies help all peanut farmers directly and indirectly at the expense of taxpayers.

Carter's brother, Billy, and their mother, Lillian, own a warehouse in Plains that serves as the middleman between 100 to 150 area farmers and the factories that purchase peanuts for making peanut butter and candy. The family also owns about 4,000 acres devoted to raising peanuts and some corn. Jimmy Carter showed income of $41,398.85 from the warehouse in calendar year 1974.

Kenneth E. Frick, administrator of the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said the news headlines generated by Butz and Carter will help publicize what he called an out-moded farm program. "I'm sure it helped to have continued publicity on this thing, and of course this is what the secretary has been trying to get at," Frick told a reporter. Frick, whose agency handles federal farm programs, has been outspoken in favor of plans to scrap the peanut program. He said the Carter issue will help "bring to everybody's attention how out of date this program is" and how much it is costing taxpayers.

Basically, surplus peanuts are passed along to the government after growers get "price support loans" guaranteeing them a minimum price. Frick and Butz contend the allotment system allows farmers to produce too many peanuts at exorbitant federal costs and want Congress to change the law. Asked if Butz' criticism of Carter indicated the administration will try again in Congress for a peanut overhaul, Frick said there was no plan at this time to advocate new legislation. "We tried and we've been rebuffed at all attempts," Frick said. "So we've decided to just stay in the background. Hopefully, people will try to correct this outdated program themselves."

Many other warriors might be mentioned. Senator James L. Buckley (C-R, N.Y.) is promoting a bill that would give the victims of bureaucratic blunders fair compensation for the damage they suffer. Senator William Proxmire (D-Wis.) is spreading the field of bureaucratic tomfoolery. The

Curbing The Regulators

The same mail that recently brought word of the Great Bat Agreement also brought words of cheer from Congressman Del Clawson and Senator Paul Laxalt. In the continuing battle between the bureaucrats and the people, things may be looking up for the people. That hopeful prediction naturally has to be hedged. The bureaucrats are like the marching Chinese, who could walk four abreast to the end of time. Clawson and Laxalt are not immortal. Nevertheless, the people may have some reason for encouragement in the war against foolish and needless regulation. This kind of regulation recently surfaced in a formal consent agreement obtained by the Consumer Project

Safety Commission (CPSC). In arriving at the Great Bat Agreement, the CPSC swung the whole might and majesty of the United States Government against a danger to Western civilization. This was the danger presented when the striking component of an aluminum baseball bat accidentally separates itself during a swinging motion from the one-piece rubber grip and knob component. Clawson and Laxalt are not concerned with aluminum bats, as such, but with the broad picture of excessive or overweening regulation of our lives. Clawson, a Republican from Los Angeles, is now actively pushing a bill he introduced last fall to give Congress a specific power of veto over rules promulgated by the regulatory agencies. He has 136 co-sponsors and recently won unanimous approval of his bill at the subcommittee level.

Laxalt, a Republican first-termer from Nevada, is marshalling support for a highly desirable measure aimed at the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA). His bill would relieve small businessmen of at least some of the expense and harassment they now suffer from OSHA's badgering. The two Republicans are not alone in their combative efforts. Senator Sam Nunn (D-Ga.) is girding for one more fight against the intolerable burdens of federal paperwork. Senator Edmund Muskie (D-Me.), chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, is pushing a bill to require a regular review and reauthorization of federal programs. His thought is to abolish those governmental activities whose necessity cannot be periodically justified.

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor: Some time ago I urged the public through your forum to get the facts on the abortion issue. I made known the availability of the pro-life educational services of the Greenville Chapter of N. C. Right to Life, Inc. The recent increasing focus by the media on the abortion controversy and in particular and editorial in the "News and Observer" (March 27, 1976) prompt me to urge again the acquisition of a thorough knowledge of the facts. The above editorial entitled "Catholic Authority Injuring itself" is a continuation of the attempt of pro-abortionists to label opposition to the Supreme Court decision on abortion as strictly a "Catholic Issue" and thereby, to discourage such opposition. The editorial refers to the appearance of two Roman Catholic prelates before the House Judiciary subcommittee as "disturbing and sad." Disturbing to the pro-abortionists? Yes. But what is so sad about the statements of Terrence Cardinal Cooke—"If we wish to eradicate poverty, let us destroy the causes of poverty—do not destroy the life of the poor and defenseless unborn child. If we wish to correct violations of women's rights, let us do so—do not violate the right of the unborn child to continue living." The word limitation of this forum does not allow for further analysis of the above editorial except to say that the labeling of the abortion controversy as strictly a "Catholic issue," is clearly refuted and termed "a myth" in a booklet by the Rev. Bob Holbrook of Texas, head of Baptists for Life. The booklet is entitled "A Baptist Preacher Looks at the 'Catholic Issue' of Abortion."

The time is past due for all Americans to awaken from their apathy and realize that the issues involved in the abortion controversy go beyond the protection of the human being in the uterus to the protection of all human life and to the preservation of our democracy. INSIDE REPORT

Underline Ford Weakness

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — President Ford's wholly unexpected defeat in North Carolina has brutally stunned his supporters here because it points up weakness in the politically indispensable South which does not yet threaten his nomination but seriously menaces his reelection. While Ford tacticians were assigning plausible tactical reasons for Ronald Reagan's first primary victory, Republican political strategists were taking a broader, darker view. "I think that this is a very interesting and very clear picture of how the South feels," a nationally prominent Ford supporter told us. What makes this so critical is today's imperative — reversing the reality of a generation ago — that a Republican must win the South to be elected President. This, then, is the question posed Wednesday at the White House: what can the President do not only to turn back Reagan in other Southern states but to confront the more deadly challenge in Dixie of Jimmy Carter? The absence of easy answers explains the sudden departure of euphoria from the White House. With confident Ford political managers having shut off North Carolina polling two weeks before the election, nobody in the Ford camp dreamed of losing. Their immediate explanations for defeat derived from obvious differences between North Carolina and previous primary victories. The Washington-based Ford campaign team headed by California political pro Stu Spencer was much less in control of North Carolina (managed by Gov. James Holshouser) than in New Hampshire and Florida. Partly for that reason and partly because the White House wanted to heal old wounds, the anti-Reagan attack ended after the Florida victory. Freed of attacks against him structured by Spencer and his public relations expert, Peter Kaye, Reagan in North Carolina had to worry only about newsmen's nagging about when he was going to drop out (which Ford staffers feel developed sympathy for Reagan). Moreover, the unexpectedly large turnout meant that far more than disciplined Republicans turned out by Gov. Holshouser's efficient organization would vote in — and thereby decide — the election. "I suspected we were in hot water when I heard about the turnout," a Ford insider confided. But that begs the larger question: why did non-organization Republicans feel compelled to vote for Ronald Reagan? The answer is a Reagan campaign more highly ideological and more geared to national security policy than previous efforts. The attack on the Ford-Kissinger foreign policy, pursued hesitantly even after his New Hampshire defeat, reached full flower in North Carolina with a 30-minute Reagan telecast across the state. The telecast which probably turned around the election was put on the air by the Reagan high command only after long pleading by state campaign manager Tom Ellis, an astute North Carolina political veteran. He finally got agreement after offering to raise the money for its presentation. From that 30-minute program, the Reagan campaign extracted highly effective 30-second and 60-second TV spots contending that there would be "no more time" for national survival if Ford-Kissinger policies persisted. The fact that Reagan was en route to Los Angeles Tuesday night instead of presiding over a victory celebration in Raleigh shows the winners were as surprised as the losers. Nevertheless, Reagan's telephone polling in every major North Carolina city last week did substantiate how effective the defense-oriented campaign had become. That was why Reagan cancelled next week's campaigning in favor of

Note Of Spring For Consumers

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Like a crocus peeking out of the snow, the ordinary consumer, an extraordinary specimen, seems to feel an economic spring in the air, even if there might be a nip of frost from time to time. The supermarkets are getting into price wars and the surveys show people growing more confident and electricity consumption is rising and the banks have money to lend and the unions are talking stiff bargaining terms. Normalcy, abnormal as it might seem to be, is returning, the consumer seems to say, as surely as warm weather is headed north, and you need not await its arrival, because it's the direction not the destination that counts.

Yes, the supermarkets in some areas are fighting among themselves to see who can make the biggest price cuts, and that's the right direction in the view of the consumer, even if some food chains consider it abnormal and even dangerous. Supermarket chains seldom have been big earners on the basis of profits to sales, although the figures are better when measured by the return on investment. On the former basis, earnings are less than 1 cent per $1 of sales. Price wars, some fear, eventually destroy competition by forcing some of the smaller, weaker chains out of business, leaving consumers with fewer choices and less of an opportunity to exercise choice. Of immediate importance to the consumer, however, seems to be that the direction of prices is back to "normal," which in most minds means a return to the good old days that never were until memory and imagination created them. That same feeling is behind the sudden upturn in our use of electricity, which in 1974 and 1975 grew only by a total of 2 per cent, the result of fears about shortages, rebellion against prices and a general recession. In the first 11 weeks of this year, however, consumption has risen 5.7 per cent. Car sales are up too. And to the chagrin of Detroit, which tried to accommodate consumer demands for more efficient vehicles, some of the strongest sales are in the bigger, heavier, more energy-consuming cars.

The growing confidence, which some analysts still fear may be premature, has been especially noticeable during the past few months, as indicated in the Survey Research Center's latest quarterly report. After showing no gain between August and November 1975, said researchers for the center, which is operated by the University of Michigan, confidence improved "substantially" between November 1975 and February 1976. The improvement occurred among all income groups, it said. "All attitudes and expectations in the survey showed improvement, without exception," they said. And they noted that buying attitudes toward houses and cars were improving fast.

project off the ground. Michael got interested in it five years ago and with coproducer Saul Zaentz fought to get financial backing amid a widely held feeling that the project couldn't be a success because it was depressing and dealt with crazy people.

Their dream paid off and so, in other ways, did those of Miss Fletcher, Nicholson and Forman.

Miss Fletcher, who had given up acting for 11 years to raise her children, won the role as Nurse Ratched only after five big name actresses had turned it down. Accepting the Oscar, she provided the most touching moment of the evening as she faced a national television audience and said, her voice breaking with emotion:

"For my mother and my father, I want to say thank you for teaching me to have a dream. You are seeing my dream come true."

She delivered the message in sign language at the same time. Her parents, both deaf mutes, were watching from their home in Birmingham, Ala., she told reporters later.

For Nicholson it was the first Oscar win in five tries. He previously had been nominated for "Easy Rider," "Five Easy Pieces," "The Last Detail" and "Chinatown."

"Well," he said with a grin, "I guess this proves there are as many nuts in the Academy as anywhere else."

Forman, a native of Czechoslovakia, also had special reason to savor his directing Oscar. With him at the ceremonies at the Los Angeles Music Center were his twin 11-year-old sons. He was reunited with them Sunday night after five years. They flew in from Prague, where they live with their mother, from whom Forman is separated.

"The reunion was a great thrill," Forman told reporters backstage. "But I asked them if they wanted to see my film and they said, 'Well, we would rather see 'Jaws.'"

"Jaws," the biggest grossing picture of all time, won three Oscars — for sound, musical score and film editing. The only other big winner was "Barry Lyndon," which won for art direction, costume design, scoring adaptation and cinematography.

Best original screenplay went to Frank Pierson for "Dog Day Afternoon." "I'm Easy," written and performed by actor Keith Carradine in "Nashville," was named best song.

"The Man Who Skied Down Everest" won as best documentary feature and "Dersu Uzala," a Russian production directed by the great Japanese filmmaker Akira Kurosawa, was named best foreign language film.

Mary Pickford, the first superstar of films and a founder of the Academy, was presented a special Oscar. The 82-year-old actress did not appear on stage but was seen in a prerecorded interview, in which she remarked, "You've made me very, very happy."

Burns, ever the comic, was in complete control as he made his acceptance speech for the Oscar, capping a distinguished career. "Making 'Sunshine Boys' was so exciting that I'm going to make a picture every 37 years," he cracked.

Backstage he was more reflective when asked what he thought about inheriting the role after the death of his closest friend, Jack Benny. "It was a pretty tough part for me to take," he acknowledged. "But look, life goes on. You can't quit show business — not at my age. I'm starting a whole new career."

FIRE STRIKES STOKES HOME — Fire severely damaged the Jerome Perkins home in Stokes late Monday afternoon. According to Pitt County Fire Marshall Bobby Joyner, the fire was confined to the den area of the brick home, completely destroying the room. Damages were estimated at $50,000. Smoke and water damage resulted in the remainder of the house. Joyner also said the owner, Jerome Perkins, was slightly injured during the fire. Volunteer fire fighters from Stokes, Bethel, and Station House responded to the 4:07 alarm. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Says Bishop Teamster Contract At Alive, Well Critical Stage In Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Carolina Atty. Gen. Rufus Edmisten says Bradford Bishop is alive and well — somewhere in the world.

Bishop, 39, is sought for the slayings of his wife, mother and three sons in their Bethesda, Md., home March 1. The bodies were found the next day in a shallow grave near Columbia, N.C.

In Washington on Monday, Edmisten told reporters that he feels Bishop is still alive, although he has not been seen since the day of the slayings when he left his job as a midlevel official of the State Department.

"As far as I'm concerned, Mr. Bradford Bishop is still alive," Edmisten said.

"I have never said that Bishop did any criminal act whatsoever," the attorney general added. "I think we still must indulge in the good old American presumption of innocence."

"However, I would certainly like to talk with Bradford Bishop as would a good number of law enforcement people all over America," Edmisten said. FBI tracking dogs had picked up Bishop's scent in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park in Eastern Tennessee where the fugitive's car was located. But despite days of searching in the vast and rugged park, no other sign of Bishop has been found.

On Monday P.W. Kruger, the head of South Africa's Criminal Investigation Department, discounted reports that Bishop was hiding in his country. Kruger said the U.S. Embassy in Pretoria had asked the police to keep a lookout for Bishop.

The FBI says a similar alert had gone to all U.S. embassies around the world.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. — The trucking industry's contract talks have reached what Labor Secretary W.J. Usery calls "a critical stage" in the race against a Teamsters strike threatened for Wednesday midnight.

Usery and James Seare, acting director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, met all day Monday with labor and management negotiators and planned another session today.

Usery, who said a strike would be bad for the industry, the union and the nation, said late Monday that the talks were

"at a very critical stage" but refused to elaborate on their progress.

The Teamsters, who earn $7.18 to $7.33 an hour and $44 a week in benefits under the current National Master Freight Agreement, originally sought a $2.50 hourly hike and $36 weekly more in benefits over three years. They have cut their demands to $1.75 an hour and $17 a week.

But the union is also insisting on a cost-of-living allowance without a ceiling on adjustments, arguing that members were penalized more than 50 cents hourly in 1974-75 wages because of the current 11-cent ceiling.

Last weekend, union members overwhelmingly authorized a strike, which would be the Teamsters' first nationwide walkout. They rejected a contract offer from Trucking Employers Inc., which represents 16,000 trucking concerns in the bargaining.

The offer, rejected by 10-1, would have added 85 cents to hourly wages and $11 a week to fringe benefits over a 39-month period.

The Ford administration fears that a strike idling the nation's trucks — and with them the movement of food, goods and heavy freight — would severely impair the progress being made in the nation's economic recovery.

Usery said, "We are not making any preparation at this time to seek a Taft-Hartley injunction. We're seeking to negotiate an agreement." But he added that "after Wednesday, the President and the administration will certainly have to protect the health and safety of the nation."

The Taft-Hartley Act could be invoked — in the event of a strike — to force resumption of work during an 80-day cooling-off period.

Another factor complicating efforts to head off a strike is the possibility of wildcat walkouts by dissident Teamsters.

Meanwhile, the Pittsburgh-based Fraternal Association of Steel Haulers, representing 5,000 owner-operators across the nation, voted to ignore a strike if one is called.

mobilizing for a nationwide television address. Far from using that forum to bow out of the race as was widely speculated, Reagan wanted to apply nationally the North Carolina hard line.

That hard line could win Southern primaries in May after an April expected to be unproductive for Reagan — most significantly Texas May 1, followed by Alabama and Georgia May 4 and Tennessee May 6. Losses there by the President would not threaten his big delegate lead but would reveal worrisome vulnerability down South.

To respond by resuming the Spencer-Kaye attack on Reagan full force would connote desperation. Firing Henry Kissinger as Secretary of State would signify even more panic. Some advisers suggest the two cabinet members most popular in Dixie — Treasury Secretary William Simon and Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz — hit the Southern campaign trail.

But to secure his Southern flanks against Reagan today and perhaps Carter tomorrow, the President may have to take more clearly conservative positions — especially on foreign policy. That is one reason the North Carolina defeat so galls the White House, where there had been hope Mr. Ford could move leftward this week after yet another Reagan primary loss.

rebellion in Congress against needless regulation is attracting liberals and conservatives, Republicans and Democrats alike.

The rebellion has a long way to go before it becomes a successful revolution. Every day's Federal Register brings a new swarm of proposed rules and regulations. It is impossible for even the most dedicated members of Congress to keep up with the epidemic plague. According to U.S. News & World Report, more than 100,000 federal employees are engaged in regulatory work; their busy minds and industrious fingers never stop.

Many federal regulations, to be sure, are both necessary and just; the country would be in trouble without them. But many others are lightweight products, manufactured for bureaucratic sport, and these present far more of a hazard to a free society than you will find in five million aluminum bats.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once more the Supreme Court hears arguments on the question of whether the death penalty is such cruel and unusual punishment that it should be banned.

Is the death penalty an "insane lottery" as lawyers for convicted men claim, or is it "a means of self-defense for the members of society" who have a right to be protected, as one state claims?

The lives of 468 people on death rows in 30 states depend on the answers based on arguments heard by the court today and Wednesday.

One of the cases is from North Carolina, the appeal of James Woodson and Luby Waxton. They were sentenced to die upon conviction of fatally shooting a woman from Dunn during the holdup of a store in 1974. Deputy Atty. Gen. Sidney Eagles of North Carolina will present arguments for the state in defense of the death penalty. Atty. Gen. Rufus Edmisten also is in Washington for the court session.

It has been nearly four years since the Supreme Court ruled 5-4 that the penalty, as then applied, was unconstitutional. All nine justices wrote separate opinions in that 1972 case of William Henry Furman v. Georgia. Most of them objected to the fact that judges and juries had wide discretion in deciding who shall live and who shall die. This led to unconstitutional arbitrariness, many of the justices ruled.

Since then 34 states have passed new laws designed to meet the objections and death row cells are filling anew. The cases being heard by the court represent a cross-section of the approaches legislatures have taken to the capital punishment question.

Pre-School Day Set April 1

Pre-School Day will be held at Belvoir Primary School Thursday April 1 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. for children who will be five years old by October 16, 1976 and for children who will be entering first grade who are not attending kindergarten at the school now. It will not be necessary for the children to attend, but parents are requested to take the child's birth certificate, shot records, school medical examinations form, and completed information blanks.

Another capital punishment case was argued last April before the court but the justices never decided that issue.

Lawyers for the six men appealing their death sentences claim not much has changed since the court's ruling in the Furman case. "Florida's non-mandatory death penalty statute permits the same discretionary sentencing system condemned by Furman v. Georgia," said lawyers for Charles William Proffitt, whose case is before the court.

Lawyers for Troy L. Gregg, sentenced to die for a double murder and armed robbery, said the Georgia law involves "a series of uncontrolled discretionary judgments that operate to spare the lives of some defendants while others in similar circumstances are sentenced to die."

The state of Georgia answers that the argument "is nothing more than a demand that we revert to a system of mandatory penalties fixed for narrowly categorized crimes so that regardless of mitigating circumstances or the personal history of the defendant, the death penalty would be automatic once guilt was determined."

In the case of Stanislaus Roberts, sentenced to death for killing a service station attendant in Lake Charles, La., defense lawyers also complained of "the unfettered power of the jury to spare or doom a convicted capital defendant...."

The Legal Defense and Educational Fund of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People says of the 468 people on death row, 246 are black. There are nine women.

The Justice Department, which will also have a chance to argue before the Supreme Court, has said in a brief that poor people and blacks would be hurt by the abolition of capital punishment because they are "disproportionately the victims of murder."

The government said "blacks are not a higher proportion of those sentenced to die than they are of those arrested for the most serious types of murder."

Guerrilla Bands In Gun Battles

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Troops and police killed nine leftist guerrillas in gun battles as Argentina's new military president, Gen. Jorge Videla, took office.

Videla was sworn in Monday, five days after his military junta ousted President Isabel Peron because her administration was unable to cope with political terrorism or the nation's grave economic situation.

The killings brought the toll to 20 since Mrs. Peron's ouster. At least 211 persons have been killed since Jan. 1, and the toll during Mrs. Peron's tenure was more than 1,700.

The news agency Noticias Argentinas reported that a force of about 25 guerrillas attacked a police station at Moreno, 15 miles west of Buenos Aires. The police killed three of the attackers and then pursued the rest of the band.

The guerrillas took several schoolchildren hostage and made a stand five miles farther west at Jose C. Pez. In a second encounter there, six guerrillas were reported killed.

By The Associated Press
Communications between Beirut and the outside world were broken today, but reports from the Lebanese capital Monday night said leftist Moslem militiamen were driving their Christian foes back into Ashrafiya, the city's traditional Christian quarter, and threatening their hold on the port of Beirut.

Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat was urging the Moslems to accept another Syrian proposal for a cease-fire. But Kamal Junblatt, the leader of the Moslem leftists, said he would not agree to a truce until Christian President Suleiman Franjeh resigned and the Christians agreed to give up more power to the Moslems than they have promised so far.

Franjeh, holed up in the Christian stronghold of Jounieh, 12 miles north of Beirut, was reported determined to hold on to his post.

Police estimated that more than 200 persons were killed in fighting Monday, raising the toll in 11 months of Christian-Moslem civil warfare to an estimated 14,000 dead. But police admitted their estimate was only a guess since they were staying out of the battle zones and could not count the bodies.

Moslem militiamen and Palestinian guerrillas who captured the Hilton Hotel Sunday night advanced through alleys and back streets to a lumber market just off the port and 500 yards from the abandoned headquarters of the Phalange, the right-wing Christian party whose militia is the strongest of the Christian forces.

There was savage house-to-house fighting, and the Moslems vowed to destroy the Phalange headquarters, on the western edge of Ashrafiya. Although the party has transferred its offices and officials deeper into the Christian quarter, capture of the headquarters would be another symbolic victory for the Moslems.

The Christians, who have dominated Lebanon's political and economic life since it became a nation after World War II, have said they will agree to a 50-50 sharing of power with the Moslems, who now are in the majority. But Junblatt, since his leftist forces and their Palestinian allies obviously hold the upper hand militarily, has been demanding more.

The U.S. State Department warned other countries against sending troops to intervene in Lebanon. It said the U.S. government is ready to help try to find a political solution but that foreign military intervention "contains great dangers and must be avoided."

Expect Phillip Kirk To Be Flaherty Successor

RALEIGH (AP) — Phillip J. Kirk Jr., administrative assistant to Gov. Jim Holshouser, will become state Secretary of Human Resources Friday succeeding David T. Flaherty, The Associated Press has learned.

An official announcement of Kirk's appointment is expected Wednesday or Thursday. He has served as gubernatorial aide since 1973. His new job pays $33,000 a year.

Flaherty, who announced his resignation Monday, will formally become a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination later this week.

Kirk, 31, formerly served as a state senator from Rowan County. Prior to that he was a school teacher in Salisbury.

Dr. Archie Johnson, Flaherty's part-time assistant secretary, originally was slated to become secretary, but this was altered about a week ago.

According to reports, gubernatorial aide Gene Anderson had vetoed Johnson because Johnson's wife was working for the presidential campaign of Ronald Reagan, whom the Holshouser administration opposed.

Anderson denied that he had any role in Johnson dropping from the picture. Johnson said he had heard rumors about Anderson's influence, but they came after he himself had decided not to seek the job.

Johnson said that if he became secretary he would have had to give up his professorship in the University of North Carolina system, take a pay cut, and relinquish his leadership roles in several professional groups.

In announcing his resignation, Flaherty pointed out a long list of things he feels he has accomplished as secretary. Mental hospitals, health care, welfare, food stamps, aid to the blind, the retarded and the handicapped, and youth training schools are under the department.

Flaherty refused to discuss what he considers the most significant decision of his administration, the contract with a private firm to handle the state's Medicaid program. The state pays $405 million for two years to a California firm, Health Applications System, to process and pay all Medicaid claims.

Flaherty and the company contend that its superior computer technology will help it eliminate duplicate, excessive and fraudulent claims.

An investigative study of the program, including its cost, has been made by the U.S. Congress's General Accounting Office Flaherty has a preliminary draft of the GAO report.

Divers Hunt Matthews

HAMILTON, N.C. (AP) — Eight U.S. Navy scuba divers joined the search Monday for Donald Matthews Jr., a former state highway commissioner who disappeared Friday.

Members of the Hamilton Gun Club found Matthews' empty boat on the Roanoke River after he failed to meet a friend, Alvin Everett, at the gun club for a hunting date at 5 p.m. Friday.

Everett said Matthews, 50, was a good swimmer, an expert scuba diver and had fished on the Roanoke River since he was 10.

Shortly before noon today, Martin County Sheriff Raymond Rawls said that the Navy Scuba men started their search at 6 a.m. this morning. "They're covering the river in the area he was known to be in section-by-section," Rawls said. "Visibility is poor and the undercurrent is very strong, with logs rolling on the bottom of the river from the force of the current."

Rawls said the Navy divers said it was one of the most difficult search operations they had ever encountered.

It took the senior at Central Cabarrus High School five hours. "There were a lot of steep hills. I pushed as much as I could," he said.

The extra effort was supplied by his girl friend, Tonda Holland, and by other participants in the Cabarrus County March of Dimes Walkathon.

Participants solicit sponsors, who pledge a certain amount for each mile. Helms had 12 sponsors but he is not yet sure how much his effort will bring in.

Thirty-two hundred persons raised $63,000 in pledges in four recent walkathons for the Greater Piedmont Chapter of the March of Dimes, which fights infant diseases and polio. The walkathons started in Concord, Charlotte, Gastonia and Monroe.

Guest Speaker On Wednesday

Elder Ernest Johnson of Hertford will be the guest speaker at Brown's Chapel Holiness Church Wednesday at 8 p.m. for the youth department.

Janie Harkley and Mildred Short are in charge of the service. Johnson will be accompanied by his congregation.

The pastor, Bishop R. A. Griswold, invites the public to attend.

Rampettes In Second Victory

Rose High School's girls track team captured their second victory of the season yesterday, downing Northeastern, 62-52.

The Rampettes swept the three relays to give them the victory. Rose also took six of the individual events, while Northeastern took five wins. Three of those Eaglette wins were sweeps, however.

The Rampettes travel to Bertie on Wednesday for their

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Indiana Hoosiers were handed the No. 1 ranking at the start of the season, but that doesn't mean anything unless you can earn it on the court. They did — 32 times. The "perfect" Hoosiers capped a glorious 32-0 season Monday night with a businesslike 86-68 victory over Michigan in the NCAA finals, ending a long quest for college basketball's

Holy Grail. "If we don't deserve to be national champions, then I don't know who does," said Indiana's superlative guard, Quinn Buckner. "We won all our games. What else can you do?"

The Hoosiers survived several pitfalls on the road to the championship — including a mild mid-season slump that relegated Buckner to the bench. During this time, they struggled to beat Michigan twice by close scores.

Despite what Buckner called "peaks and valleys," Indiana made it through the Big Ten season undefeated, a performance that Michigan Coach Johnny Orr called "unbelievable."

Benson Picked Tourney's MVP

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Kent Benson, the Most Valuable player of the 1976 National Collegiate Athletic Association Basketball Championship, might best be described as a Dave Cowens in a college uniform.

Castle, Ind., didn't allow a little thing like a cast on his left wrist to deter him. He's been playing with torn ligaments, and has plans for an operation during the off season.

And to hear Knight tell it, Benson has yet to reach his peak.

"Benson has developed well at Indiana," observed Knight, who has encouraged the big guy to be aggressive.

"He'll develop even more next year," Knight said. "He's done an outstanding job and he'll do even better," the coach advised.

The 6-foot-11 Benson bulls to the basket and seems to have a nose for the ball, just like Cowens, the star center of the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association.

Benson, a 245-pounder with the moves of a guard, scored 25 points, grabbed nine rebounds and handed out two assists as he muscled the unbeaten Indiana Hoosiers to the national collegiate basketball championship.

Indiana crushed Michigan 86-68 Monday night to complete a march through one of the toughest brackets in NCAA tournament history. The Hoosiers beat four of the Top Ten ranked teams en route to their third title in eight postseason ventures.

Both winning Coach Bobby Knight and loser Johnny Orr put the finger on Benson as the major difference between the two Big Ten rivals.

Knight observed that Benson deserved the MVP accolade.

"He played an outstanding game," said the Indiana coach. "He did an outstanding job on the boards. He got the ball for us."

Benson, a junior from New

Roanoke got a run in the fourth, and tied it up with two in the fifth. They added two more in the sixth to pull out the victory.

Miriam Lawrence had three hits to pace Bear Grass, while Darlene Rogerson and Angela Colettrain each had two. Carolyn Duggins and Sheila Hoskins had three for Roanoke, while Mary Langley added a solo home run.

Bear Grass had a threat in the seventh ended when Duggins, playing short field, caught a ball for the third out with the bases loaded.

Miriam Jones was the winning pitcher, while Vickie Holliday got the loss.

Weep Not, Michigan: Detroit Sweeps Pair

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

For the State of Michigan, there was some good news out of Florida to go with the bad news from Philadelphia Monday night, which is the route you might expect Florida-Philadelphia news to go.

While the University of Michigan Wolverines were winding down the basketball season by bowing to Indiana in the national championship game, the Detroit Tigers prepared for the upcoming baseball season by sweeping a pair of seven-inning games from the Chicago White Sox, 8-3 and 1-0.

Braves defeat the winless Mets 8-4.

And the nightcap produced a near-perfect no-hitter by Ray Bare and Billy Laxton while most of the sports writers in the press box at Lakeland, Fla., were watching the basketball on television.

Bare hurled five innings and only one Chicagoan reached base when shortstop Tom Verzyer committed a throwing error on Alan Bannister's third-inning grounder. Bannister was rubbed out attempting to steal and Billy Laxton finished up with two perfect rounds.

Laxton, who came with Rusty Staub from the New York Mets in the Mickey Lolich deal, became the winner when Staub led off the bottom of the seventh with a home run off Cecil Upshaw. In the opener, Ben Ogilvie and rookie Bob Molinaro each drove in three runs.

The good news-bad news syndrome also hit the Boston Red Sox camp. Cecil Cooper hit a two-run homer and Bill Lee pitched five scoreless innings in a 5-1 decision over the Houston Astros. But Jim Rice spiked himself in the left ankle trying to make a diving catch.

Ted Simmons drove in two runs with a homer and single in a seven-run third inning that lifted the St. Louis Cardinals over the Cincinnati Reds 11-4. Brent Strom and Bill Greif combined on a five-hitter and Willie Davis and Dave Winfield homered to lead the San Diego Padres over the Cleveland Indians 7-0.

Rice, who missed the 1975 playoffs and World Series with a broken wrist, suffered a deep puncture and needed three stitches. Trainer Charlie Moss said the slugging outfielder would be out for two or three days barring complications.

Texas' Jeff Burroughs raised his spring average to .500 with three singles and a three-run homer in the Rangers' 12-7 triumph over the Kansas City Royals.

Don Sutton, rumored bound for the Mets in a swap for Tom Seaver, allowed one run and six hits in seven innings as the Los Angeles Dodgers bowed to the Montreal Expos 3-2 on Bombo Rivera's ninth-inning pinch double.

Ex-Dodger Jimmy Wynn hit his first spring homer, a three-run shot that helped the Atlanta Phillies bowed to the Pittsburgh Pirates 12-1 as Bill Robinson slugged a three-run homer.

Phil Roof hit a two-run homer as the Minnesota Twins defeated the Baltimore Orioles 8-5 and the California Angels managed only three hits off a trio of collegians and bowed to UCLA 2-1 in 10 innings.

Squaws In First Win

ROANOKVILLE — Roanoke High School opened the girls' softball season yesterday with an 8-6 victory over Bear Grass.

Skins Bow In Track

MICRO — North Johnston High School pulled out an 82-54 victory over Roanoke High School yesterday as the Redskins opened its track schedule.

Bear Grass pushed over a run in the first, but the Squaws came up with three in their half of the inning. It stayed that way until the fourth, when the Bears added four, then tacked on one more in the fifth.

Former major league catcher Carl Sawatski is the new Texas League president. He replaces new National Association president Bobby Bragan.

Roanoke got a run in the fourth, and tied it up with two in the fifth. They added two more in the sixth to pull out the victory.

Ricky Sprull was a double winner for Roanoke, winning the 100 and 220-yard dash. Lowell Williams also was a double victor, taking the high jump and the 440-yard dash. June Griffin won the 880 yard run, and Larry Williams took the mile. Roanoke's 880-yard relay team of Lowell and Larry Williams, Griffin and Ronnie Hudgins also pulled out a victory.

Miriam Lawrence had three hits to pace Bear Grass, while Darlene Rogerson and Angela Colettrain each had two. Carolyn Duggins and Sheila Hoskins had three for Roanoke, while Mary Langley added a solo home run.

Bear Grass had a threat in the seventh ended when Duggins, playing short field, caught a ball for the third out with the bases loaded.

Miriam Jones was the winning pitcher, while Vickie Holliday got the loss.

VERSATILE BABE

BOSTON (UPI) — While playing for Boston in 1919, Babe Ruth saw action in 130 games — 111 as an outfielder, 17 as a pitcher and four as a first baseman. He batted .322, led the league with 29 home runs, 114 RBI and 103 runs, and posted a 9-5 pitching record with a 2.97 ERA.

Rampants Win Golf

Rose High School, returning to the golf links after several years without a team, captured a victory in the opener yesterday, handily defeating Wilson.

The Rampants finished the 18 holes with a team total of 316 stroke, while Wilson was far behind with 365.

Gary Corda led the Rampants with a 75, and gathered medalist honors over the Brook Valley Country Club course. Cam Dudley and Sid Ashby carded 80's while Molt Massey had an 81. Bill Collier had an 83 and Carl Thurber, 86, but their scores did not count in the team totals, only the low four.

Wilson was led by Tim Brown with an 81.

The Rampants return to action next Monday, traveling to Wilson.

No Prediction From Johnson On Boston

By DAVE O'HARA
AP Sports Writer
WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — As the defending American League champions, the Boston Red Sox figure to be the hunted rather than the hunter as the favorite to repeat in the East Division.

"Everyone will be gunning for us, but it's kind of nice to be chased instead of doing the chasing," Manager Darrell Johnson said with cautious optimism.

Just a year ago, the Red Sox were picked to finish no better than third, behind the Baltimore Orioles and the New York Yankees. They surprised everyone by holding off Baltimore, sweeping Oakland three straight in the championship playoffs and then taking Cincinnati down to the wire in the World Series.

"We became a good solid ball club last year, and we're even better this year," Johnson said. "For one thing, we'll have Carlton Fisk from the start. Then we helped ourselves by getting Ferguson Jenkins, a seven-time 20-game winner, and a left-handed reliever, Tom House."

Johnson shies away from predicting another pennant. However, he says: "If I were a fan, I probably would think we'd win again."

After fighting on virtually even terms with Cincinnati before bowing to the Reds in the ninth inning of the seventh game of the World Series last October, the Red Sox are loaded with confidence.

"Barring injuries, there's no reason we shouldn't do it again," says captain Carl Yastrzemski as he prepares for his 16th season in Boston.

The Red Sox are loaded with talent at just about every position, with the only possible weakness being a capable backup shortstop for Rick Burleson. Fisk, plagued by injuries during his career, is in top shape and being counted upon to play 135 or 140 games. He appeared in only 79 games last season, but hit .331 with 10 homers and 52 runs batted in.

Yastrzemski is set at first with Cecil Cooper or Deron Johnson ready to give him a rest when needed. Veterans Doug Griffin and Denny Doyle, acquired from California last June, probably will share the second base job. Rico Petrocelli is set at third and Burleson at short.

The Red Sox boast one of the top outfielders in baseball. Fred Lynn and Jim Rice, who com-binated for more than 200 RBI as rookies, could be even better. And Dwight Evans is on the brink of stardom. Bernie Carbo and Rick Miller are looking for more work.

Jenkins and House join a proven pitching staff. Jenkins will be in a starting rotation with Luis Tiant, Rick Wise and Bill Lee. Reggie Cleveland and Dick Pole are counted upon for both starting and relief duty.

Jim Willoughby, acquired last July, will be No. 1 right-handed reliever. Southpaw Jim Burton will help House in the left-handed relief department. Rookies Don Aase and Mark Bombardier are trying to win jobs.

OH, PLEASE—Michigan cheerleader Sue Hicks has that look of "Oh, please, let us win," but it apparently didn't do any good as her team lost to Indiana in the NCAA Championship game last night, 86-68. (AP Wirephoto)

There's No Doubt Now About Who's No. One

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Michigan knew it was all over when with 44 seconds left Indiana Coach Bobby Knight began removing his star players one by one and hugging them joyfully as Hoosier partisans cheered.

"I'm happy for them," the elated Knight said afterward, "and for those people who have invested part of themselves in this team."

"No question, Indiana is the No. 1 team in the country," acknowledged Michigan Coach Johnny Orr when the buzzer finally ended his 86-68 nightmare, giving the undefeated Hoosiers their 32nd season victory and the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball title.

A grinning Quinn Buckner, Indiana's tenacious guard, boasted, "We won all our games. What else can you do?" Michigan almost pulled off an upset but ran out of gas and into foul trouble with 10 minutes to go.

"We made a great effort," Orr said, specifically referring to the Wolverines' strong first half when they led 35-29. "But they were stronger in the second. We are proud to have lost to one hell of a basketball team ... They're damn good, I'll tell you that."

Indiana won despite losing 6-foot-7 guard Bobby Wilkerson in the opening minutes. He suffered a moderate concussion in a collision with Michigan's Wayman Britt.

"When you lose someone so suddenly you don't have much time to think about a lot of things," Knight said. "You just try to think of a replacement. We tried a couple of guys and then we went for more quickness with Jim Wisman. Jimmy did a great job in moving the ball from side to side, getting it to the people who could score. It's interesting that he has played hardly at all previously in the tournament."

Wisman came in with 42 seconds left in the first half, and he stayed all the way in the second half when the Hoosiers broke the game wide open.

"Wisman was the difference that allowed them to run their offense," said Michigan's Steve Grote. "We never had a better first half against Indiana, nor a worst second half. This was the first time they really beat us."

It was the third time Indiana has beaten Michigan this season — the others 80-74 and then 72-67 in overtime.

Orr said Michigan was running well and shooting well until his club got into foul trouble early in the second half, and eventually lost two players — Britt, team captain, and freshman Phil Hubbard, who had fouled out in the two previous Hoosier games.

"They were getting the shots, and we were fouling them before the ball dropped in," Orr said. They just wore us down."

Spurs Capture Win Over Nets

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — When Dr. J is having problems, the New York Nets often seem to have problems.

And Dr. J is tired, says Coach Kevin Loughery of the superstar on his American Basketball Association team.

Dr. J, of course, is the fabulous Julius Erving.

But Erving was contained — at least for the first half — by San Antonio in general and Larry Kenon in particular as the Spurs dumped the Nets 116-101 Monday in the night's only ABA contest.

San Antonio held Erving to just four points in the first half as Erving connected on only one of eight field goal attempts and was two for two at the free throw line.

Erving was his old self in the second half scoring 20 points, but the damage was done and

San Antonio was never in real trouble after intermission.

"The Doc (Erving) really needs a rest," said Loughery. "He has played almost 40 minutes a game all season and not many of our people even play 30 minutes. He had a bad night tonight in the first half. But he came back strong in the second half."

The Nets Coach blamed offensive problems and early foul trouble for the loss. "We played very poorly in the second quarter and I think that was the turning point of the game."

"We had won nine out of 10 before coming in here tonight. But we have a lot of nagging injuries, nothing severe, but a lot of our people need rest," he added.

San Antonio was not without its own offensive fireworks. James Silas pumped in 33 points and four other Spurs were in double figures. George Gervin had 24, Kenon 20, Billy Paultz 17 and Mike Gale 11.

The San Antonio victory clinched the ABA regular season championship for the Denver Nuggets. The Nets need one more victory to clinch second place. And the Spurs need any combination of three Kentucky losses or three San Antonio wins to clinch third place.

National Asks Kuhn To Act

By PAT LEISNER
Associated Press Writer
TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The National League, unable to agree on expansion, has asked Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn to block the American League from putting a new franchise in Toronto next season.

"We'd like him to hold off on American League expansion," said Chub Feeny, National League president, after a four-hour meeting Monday in which the 10 owners in favor of expansion failed to sway Cincinnati and Philadelphia, which are opposed. A unanimous vote is required.

"That's very interesting," said an American League spokesman when advised of the NL action, "but we have no further comment."

Unless Kuhn steps into the picture, the National League will remain at 12 teams in 1977 while the American League jumps to 14 with expansion franchises in Seattle and Toronto. Such a move apparently would leave Washington, D.C., out in the cold and might put baseball in hot water if certain members of Congress decide to press the point. Kuhn has been politicking for expansion to the nation's capital.

The AL, which needed only nine affirmative votes to expand, beat the NL to Toronto last week.

Feeny said the following resolution was forwarded to Kuhn: "Resolved that the commissioner be advised that the National League clubs wish him to consider the failure of the NL Toronto-Washington, D.C., expansion plan by a 10-2 vote in light of the best interest of baseball and that he is requested to take such action as may appear to him to be appropriate and in the best interests of baseball with regard to such subject."

"It puts him in a helluva spot," said Charles Bronfman, board chairman of the Montreal Expos. "It suggests he take the voice of 10 and use his powers in the best interest of baseball and go along with the National League."

Roanoke Net Loss

ROBERSONVILLE — Plymouth High School handed Roanoke High School its third loss in five starts in tennis yesterday, 6-3, despite a valiant effort by the Redskins that included a surprising win in the doubles.

The problems for the Redskins started when Lee Everett, ahead in his singles match with a 6-4 win in the first set, fell and injured a hand. That left the six-man team without a partner for Street Lee.

So Lee took on the Plymouth doubles team by himself—and came out with an 8-1 victory.

It wasn't enough, however, as the Redskins couldn't pull out enough wins otherwise.

Summary:
Michael Joyner (R) defeated Barry Harris, 7-6, 6-4.
Carl Hayes (R) defeated Arthur Fields, 6-4, 6-1.
Dana Outten (P) defeated Tony Joyner, 6-1, 6-1.
Ronnie Lewis (P) defeated Michael Clay, 6-1, 6-1.
Bryan Williams (P) defeated Lee Everett, by forfeit.
Lee (R) defeated Cullipher-Bill Brown, 6-1.
Lewis-Harris (P) defeated Joyner-Joyner, 6-5.

Walters Sees Uphill Road

DAVIDSON, N.C. (AP) — Gary Walters, formerly of Dartmouth, the new basketball coach at Davidson College, is out to rebuild the school's winning tradition — tarnished in recent years — but he admits it will be an uphill road.

Walters told newsmen and students at the college Monday, a day after his appointment at the Southern Conference school was announced, that he wants the team to stick to fundamentals.

"My philosophy in basketball is basic. My high school and college coaches were insistent on a good defense," he said.

"I hope that we can reestablish the winning tradition of Davidson basketball, but we recognize it will not be an easy job."

Walters was named to replace Bo Brinkels, who was dismissed three weeks ago after a 5-21 season.

Davidson had been a national power in the middle 1960s under Lefty Driesell, now head coach at the University of Maryland.

Walters was voted New England coach of the year for the 1975-76 season. He turned around the basketball program at Dartmouth after a number of disappointing seasons for the Ivy League school.

Dartmouth's record last season was 16-10, its best year since 1958.

Walters is a former Princeton player and has been head coach at Middlebury and Union colleges and an assistant at Princeton.

One of the first areas he will concentrate on is recruiting, in an effort to bring Davidson back to the national rankings, he told the news conference.

"Our main task is not to bring in numbers but to deliver quality. I have hopes of signing some able prospects, but everyone realizes we are getting a late start," he said.

"I think the school's academic excellence is Davidson's strength, and can be a selling point in our recruiting."

He added that he hopes the Wildcats don't play as rough a schedule as they have in recent years, saying, "At times it looked like it was suicidal. It was not necessary to play too many tough teams in succession."

Ironically, one of the teams the Wildcats meet next season is Dartmouth's Big Green.

Jaguars Take 7th

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central's tennis team continued to roll along yesterday, downing Williamston, 7-2.

The victory was the seventh straight for the unbeaten Jaguars this spring.

The lone Williamston victories came in the number four singles and the number one doubles. After the singles were over, the Jaguars held an insurmountable 5-1 lead.

The Jaguars return to action on Tuesday, April 6, traveling to meet Greene Central.

Summary:
Eric Pierce (FC) defeated Parnaz Green, 7-5, 6-3.
Stuart James (FC) defeated Jim Manning, 6-3, 6-1.

Braves In Top Offer

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta Braves owner Ted Turner has met again with former Dodger pitcher Andy Messersmith and apparently has made him the highest offer to play this season, a Braves spokesman said today.

"He met with Messersmith yesterday in Tampa during the National League meeting," said team spokesman Bob Hope.

Radio station WGST in Atlanta reported that Turner met secretly with Messersmith's agent, Herb Osmond, Sunday night and offered the former Dodger super star $1 million over five years.

Hope denied there was a secret meeting but said Turner is pursuing the issue.

"I think the figure is a little distorted—it's a little on the high side," Hope said of the reported figure. "The only thing indicated is that the Braves offer, according to Messersmith's agent, is the highest offer...and that's third-hand. I don't have the facts on it."

Messersmith, a right-hander and twice a 20-game winner, won 19 games last year with the Los Angeles Dodgers and is now a free agent.

Turner was first in line when Messersmith was officially declared a free agent earlier this year. Last week, Turner said he informed Messersmith's agent that the offer "will be withdrawn within the next few days if we haven't received a decision from him."

Turner reportedly was at the Braves' West Palm Beach training camp but was unavailable for comment.

Behind-Scenes TV Book Ready

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Shanks, a genial native of Lebanon, Ind., began in TV here in the mid-1950s as an actor. He later became a "gofer," as in, "go fer coffee, kid," a talent booker, producer, writer and director.

Currently ABC's vice president for late night and dawn programs, he now has a new credit, author, having written a 306-page book called "The Cool Fire: How to Make it in Television."

It's a remarkably thorough, yet humorous explanation by an insider of how big-league television works, from what function a producer performs to network structure, from contracts to cable TV.

It even includes such things as what to expect when presenting a program idea to an advertising agency committee, "The part of it (the committee) with grey hair will do most of the talking."

"Where it is young, it will carry a manila folder and frown ... it will arrange itself around a huge conference table, buffed to a shine as if waiting for the Potsdam conference rather than for the frail television idea that you are rapidly losing faith in. And the silence is deafening."

Shanks, who among other things produced "The Merv Griffin Show" for four years, got into the management side of TV as a hirer of talent for the "Tonight" show back when Jack Paar headed it.

He says he got into the how-to-make-it-in-TV book business as a result of teaching a night class about TV last year at a scholarly Fun City emporium known as the New School for Social Research.

"I was telling an editor friend of mine about the class one night and he said, 'Hey, there might be a book in that,'" Shanks recalled. He said the editor introduced him to another editor and work commenced.

"I was rather intrigued by the idea," he said. "I'd read some other books about television, and while they're valuable to a certain extent, I didn't think they were always very realistic as far as having an inside point of view."

He said he hoped to remedy that with his book, which goes on sale in April. He thinks the tome will have its biggest sales among college students who are studying broadcasting and intend to get into it.

Shanks, who joined ABC in 1972 as vice president in charge of East Coast program development, was asked if his bosses were a mite worried about one of their executives writing about the industry.

"Not at all," he said. "They were most gracious about it. That had crossed my mind, but I notified the people I should have notified about what I was doing and everyone was delighted about it."

"By now, they know all about it, and I think they're rather pleased. I really shouldn't speak on their behalf. But anyway, nobody's come in the office and said, 'Get your coat and get out.'"

14-Year-Old Is A Gun-Fighter

BY EDWARD CODY
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Thunder has been living by the gun for more than a year now, and he's proud of it.

The uniform of the leftist Moslem Ambushers militia flaps on his slight frame, but he swings his AK47 assault rifle around like any other soldier.

Thunder is 14. His real name is Bassam Awdeh.

Until civil war became a way of life in Lebanon, he was a pupil in a Beirut elementary school, studying Arabic and English. He still knows how to say, "What is your name, mister?"

As a rocket exploded just above him Saturday, his companions ran for safety. Thunder laughed cockily and taunted them in his native Arabic.

"What are you running for?" he said. "It's just incoming from those Phalangist dogs."

The Phalange party militia, the largest Christian fighting force, had occupied the three-tower Starco office complex for six months, until Thunder and a band of older Ambushers took it over last week after fierce fighting.

"I was in on the first attack," Thunder boasted.

Thunder and his comrades moved into a wrecked office that used to house a travel agency, cooking their food on a hot plate and taking sporadic shelling from Christian positions.

The teen-ager picked up a telephone and said he was dialing a Phalange office on the Christian side of Beirut.

"Brother of a whore," he shouted into the receiver, following up with stronger obscenities. "I'm not going to give you a chance to speak; no, brother of a whore," he cried and slammed down the phone.

Thunder's father is still working at his old job as an ironer. But most of his seven brothers also have been caught up in the war.

"Why are you fighting?" he was asked.

"For Lebanon," he responded quickly. "So Lebanon will not be subjected to these black events, so it will remain the Lebanon we always knew, a country of tourism."

Dog Vaccination Clinics Planned

"In a continuing effort to keep Pitt County free of rabies, the Pitt County Community Health Department with the cooperation of the local veterinarians are once again sponsoring an annual series of dog vaccination clinics April 5-6," Health Director, Roger J. Barnaby, announced today.

"As a convenience to the citizens of Pitt County," Barnaby stated, "clinics will be conducted in 20 different locations and are scheduled during the early evening hours, which enables people to take advantage of these public clinics."

"The vaccine will be administered by licensed doctors of Veterinary Medicine using the latest advancement in vaccine development," he further stated.

"It is important that all dog owners keep their dogs immunized up to date," Barnaby explained, "for although Pitt County has not had any cases of rabies for many years there is always the threat of the disease being brought in from other counties or other states which have a rabies problem, especially in their wildlife."

Barnaby pointed out that North Carolina requires that all dogs be vaccinated at four months of age and to be vaccinated again the following year. When this level of immunity has been obtained, mature dogs are only required to be vaccinated at three year intervals. "It is very important that this level of immunity is obtained the first two years of the dog's life," Barnaby said. He added, "Vaccination tags must be displayed at all times."

Graduation For Square Dancers

To the calls of Allemande Left and Do-Sa-Do, a unique graduation was held Sunday night at the Elm Street Gym for members of three square dance classes.

Under the auspices of the Tar River Twirlers, a local square dance club sponsored by the Greenville Recreation Center, over 150 dancers and observers attended the event.

The three classes have undergone several months of lessons conducted by Jerry Powell, caller for the Tar River Twirlers, Ed Bridges, caller for the Green Acres Square Makers of Williamston, and Pete Starke, caller for the Tar Heel Swingers of Rocky Mount. Included in Jerry Powell's class was a group of young people of elementary school age.

Interest was shown in the graduation by other square dancers in the area. Clubs from Rocky Mount, Wilson, Washington, Williamston, and Kinston were represented.

A special feature was the "Carolina Stars," a demonstration square dance group from Havelock, which performed routine enhanced by their red, white, and blue Bicentennial costumes.

Over a dozen clubs hold regular weekly dances in cities throughout the Coastal Plain. An area dance is held each month in a designated city. In addition, many special dances are held such as the Tar River Jamboree sponsored by the Tar River Twirlers.

In a candle-light ceremony, the members of the graduating classes were told that square dancing requires dedication, responsibility, and the ability to have fun.

and in 1957 achieved the unique feat of winning every major national team championship. Besides bridge, Crawford was an expert at many card games and backgammon, and was the author of several books on bridge and other games.

This hand is from one of the 10 Board-a-Match National Team titles that Crawford won. At the other table, his teammates had bid four hearts and made all the tricks when West elected to lead a diamond.

At Crawford's table, the bidding went as shown, and Crawford found it most revealing. Obviously, dummy held a highly distributional hand, and almost certainly a diamond void was one of its features. A long club suit was surely going to be in dummy, and from his own holding in the suit Crawford reasoned that it would run. Therefore, it was mandatory that the defenders collect their tricks quickly, and the only suit in which they could have fast tricks was spades.

So despite the no trump opening bid at his right, Crawford led the king of spades. In response to his partner's signal he continued the suit, and scored a ruff for a two-trick set to win the point. How important this was can be judged from the fact that Crawford's team won the event by half a point.

Attorney Doubts Patty Hearst Will Be Tried On State Charges

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — A member of Patricia Hearst's defense team says he would be surprised if the newspaper heiress ever goes on trial on state charges.

Miss Hearst, convicted of bank robbery after trial in a federal court in San Francisco, was arraigned under tight security Monday in a state court on 11 felony charges of kidnaping, assault and robbery. She was calm and expressionless as she stood before Superior Court Judge Jack E. Goertzen to hear the charges read.

The charges Miss Hearst and William and Emily Harris face stem from a May 1974 incident in which she shot up an Inglewood sporting goods store to cover an escape by the Har-ises after an alleged shoplifting attempt. Two kidnapings and a car theft followed. Hearst was ordered to return to Los Angeles April 14 to enter pleas to the state charges. That is two days after she is to be sentenced on the bank robbery conviction. "I can't imagine her being tried anywhere in the world," said Al Johnson, one of her attorneys. "It would not be possible to get a single juror who was not aware of her prior conviction."

Prep Schools Enjoying Resurgence Of Popularity

By SHELLY COHEN
Associated Press Writer

Prep schools for a time looked like the dodos of the educational world, headed for sure extinction. Now many of these secondary schools face record high applications and in some cases have set limits to halt ever-increasing admissions.

Day schools, boarding schools, city schools, country schools — all are experiencing a resurgence of popularity, despite a depressed economy and their own high tuitions. Educators agree it's a phenomenon with no single explanation.

They cite unrest in the public schools, including turmoil over forced busing, teacher strikes, a permissive atmosphere and parents' worries over college entrance exam scores, which have nosedived nationally.

"There is a dietary deficiency in the scholastic lives of young people today in school," said Joshua Miner, admissions director at Phillips Academy in Andover. "Kids and parents are feeling it. ... Tennis with the net down is no game. It's disrespectful of young people. ... They respect standards. They need them."

At Phillips, the nation's oldest private school, admissions were up 17 per cent this year and 14 per cent the year before, Miner said. The school had a record 2,300 applicants this year for 380 seats.

At the Holderness School in Plymouth, N.H., enrollment has gone from 75 in 1951 to 210 this year, and trustees have set a limit at 220.

"There is no one factor you can pin it on," said headmaster Donald C. Hagerman. "It's the whole attitude of parents and adults saying, 'What are we going to do?'"

Hagerman said the now-coed school experienced a decline in applications three or four years ago and then "suddenly things turned around."

The headmaster points to problems in the nation's public schools as the major reason private schools are flourishing.

"Declining (public school) budgets, cutting out of programs in some of the schools, strikes and the lost time in school — parents are beginning to look for alternatives," Hagerman said.

Mary Frances Wagley, headmistress of St. Paul's School for Girls just outside Baltimore, Md., said that in Baltimore's public schools discipline is the main problem and parents may be reacting to that by sending their daughters to private day school instead.

"I don't think it's that they fear violence, but you just can't make forward progress in the class where the teacher's attention has to be focused on discipline and not on teaching and learning," she said.

Miner agreed, saying, "Parents can't tell what's going to happen next year in the public school situation. It isn't white flight. They are really, really concerned with stability. And when you compound that with our attempt to solve some social problems, such as the inequity in our minority situation, through education — which is coming out of the hides of children. Why it's absolutely criminal."

It hasn't been all roses for the nation's private schools. In the past five years, 30 schools have closed — 19 of them boarding schools, which were hit hardest by declining enrollments in the late 1960s and early 1970s.

But in that same period, 36 new schools were accepted into membership with the National Association of Independent Schools. To be eligible for full membership they must have been in operation five years. In all, about 80 new schools have been founded in the past 10 years, about 80 per cent of them day schools, according to the association.

Parents have been willing to pay and pay dearly in some cases to insulate their children from the problems of the public schools and to assure a good "basic education."

Tuitions range from some $2,200 a year for day schools to as high as $4,500 at boarding schools. Day school tuitions have more than doubled over the past 10 years.

Mrs. Wagley pointed out that "the cost of a Chevrolet and the cost of an independent school education have probably inflated about the same proportion, and it may be that kind of choice is being made — between a new Chevrolet and a year at school.

"Our tuition averages out to about $10 a day. Locally, that's about the same as a half-hour tennis lesson and much less than the cost of a riding lesson. It's really a bargain."

There is some evidence that more students are coming from the middle class, and that private schools are no longer the exclusive preserve of the social elite.

One survey taken by the independent school association of four coed day schools found that only 15 per cent of the students came from families with incomes in excess of $50,000, while 60 per cent came from families with incomes between $25,000 and $50,000 a year.

If students have changed, so have the schools themselves.

In the past 10 years, more than 180 schools have gone coed, either by adding students of the opposite sex, or merging.

Five years ago, students were rebelling against the highly structured atmosphere of private schools. "By and large it was the kids themselves who chose not to return or not to go to private school," said John Chandler Jr., vice president of the association.

Hit by the slump in applicants, "schools generally began talking, listening, planning to make their environments more attractive and by letting the school get active in the community," Chandler said.

"There was a new kind of communication and dialogue. Teachers came out from behind the desk, rather than lecturing."

Indictment Must Be A Mistake, Claims Ex-Congressman Gardner

RALEIGH (AP) — "It's got to be a mistake," former Republican Congressman James C. Gardner of Rocky Mount said after hearing that he had been indicted on eight counts of violating the North Carolina securities law.

"Everything I've ever done has been handled by my attorneys in the proper way. This sounds like a witch hunt to me," Gardner said Monday.

State Atty. Gen. Rufus Edmisten, a Democrat, said attorneys on his staff obtained the indictments from a grand jury in New Hanover County. The same charges were also returned against a business partner of Gardner, Peter MacQueen of Wilmington. They were partners in a project to build a Family Inn motel in Rowland, N.C., in 1973.

Gardner, who ran unsuccessfully for governor in 1968 and again in 1972, said he was "totally caught by surprise" by the news of the indictments.

He and MacQueen were charged with failing to properly register their stock offering and themselves as dealers with the office of the Secretary of State. If convicted, they face prison sentences of one-to-five years and fines of $1,000.

According to the indictment, Gardner and MacQueen held sales meetings in several cities and took in $180,000 from 13 contributors.

Under the Family Inns venture, individual investors would build a motel and then lease it to the parent company. Gardner was the major stockholder. Almost as soon as they were built, the motels began losing money. Gardner said the energy crisis was to blame, but a former official in the corporation, David Wilson, charged him with mismanagement in 1974.

In a telephone interview, Gardner said he no longer has any interest in the motel chain. Charles Dameron, his attorney, said he was confident all legal requirements had been met in the sale of the stock.

Gardner and Dameron said they had talked with investigators from the Department of Justice but had not testified before the grand jury.

Gardner was a founder of the Hardee's hamburger chain and of the Carolina Cougars basketball franchise. He was also owner of Brandywine Bay, a bankrupt real estate development near Morehead City.

Moose Lodge Votes New Board April 5

In the absence of Governor James Fleming, Jr. Gov. Thomas Jamieson presided Monday night at the weekly meeting of the Greenville Moose Lodge at which twelve new members were enrolled into the fraternity.

The meeting was marked by presentation from the Mooseheart enrollment department of a portrait of Director Herbert Heilman to the local lodge's membership committee chairman Jerry McLawhorn for completion of the first quota of new members during the year.

McLawhorn was also recipient of a certificate and pin for having signed 25 new members; and a pin was presented Leon Smith for having reached a plateau of signing 75 members.

Acting Governor Jamieson reminded election of new officers for Lodge 885 would be held next Monday night.

Civic affairs committee chairman William Barnes called attention to the free blood pressure clinic offered Pitt County residents, and the service would be provided two more Wednesday evenings between the hours of 6:00 and 9:00.

Entertainment committee chairman Otha Joyner, it was reported, has a dance scheduled for next Saturday night with music by "The Monitors", of Wilson.

Secretary E.M. Baldree announced the Eastern North Carolina Legion of the Moose degree team, comprised of Greenville lodge members, would be competing next weekend in the international Legion ritual competition. The team consists of James Harris, Francis Tyson, John Simonovich, Thomas Jamieson, Jerry McLawhorn and Lloyd Wilson. Baldree, as Herder of the Legion, will accompany the team to Florida.

Jamieson again called attention to the Legion Ceremonial planned for Greenville in April, and said the number of out-of-town visitors to be expected would run anywhere between 500 and 1,000, and planning to host the gathering required was now underway.

Proclaimed For Poultry

The month of April has been proclaimed "Poultry Products Month in North Carolina" by Mayor Percy Cox.

In his proclamation, Cox observed, "the poultry industry is important to our city, state, and nation for its input into the economy in terms of jobs and income, and as a reliable source of vital protein which is essential to the health of our citizens."

The mayor pointed out that the "poultry industry is the state's largest food industry, providing not only our citizens, but families in other parts of the nation with wholesome, nutritious poultry products."

North Carolina, the mayor said, ranks fourth among the states in the production of commercial broilers, third in the production of turkeys and fifth in commercial egg production.

Pitt County, it was noted, is currently the second largest egg producing county in the state.

"It is fitting that we recognize the contributions of the poultry industry to the well-being of our city and state, and its citizens and commend members of the industry for their achievements," Cox added.
