

Home Lost Last Night

HOME DESTROYED—Firemen prepare to charge a line during a fire last night that destroyed the home of William Tripp, of Rt. 5, Greenville. According to the Pitt County Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner, Tripp was asleep in the house when awakened by a motorist as flames broke through the roof. When firemen arrived the fire was out of control engulfing the roof portion of the frame dwelling. The value of the home was placed at $50,000 by officials. Members of Pactolus, Staton House, and Easton Pines Fire departments responded to the 11:29 alarm. Cause of the fire was listed as undetermined, and investigation is continuing. No injuries were reported. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

School Bd. Agrees Delay Tennis Courts

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Following a two hour session Tuesday night attended by members of both the Greenville City Council and the Greenville City School Board relative to placement of tennis courts at Elmhurst Elementary School, an informal decision was reached that the school board will for the time being hold in abeyance construction of the courts.

Mayor Percy Cox however, stated that the city manager would be advised at an early date by the council whether or not to release the permit, which was recently denied by the council.

At the beginning of the meeting, City Engineer Charlie Holliday outlined on maps a plan for an east-west connector street that would run across town from Brownlea Drive westward to Memorial Boulevard. The connector road is not a thoroughfare and will consist primarily of 36 foot street widths.

The route generally would be North Overlook to E. Berkley Road, across Elmhurst property to W. Berkley Road, across university property to pick up with Ficklen Drive, across Charles Boulevard to connect with the dectated (but not yet constructed) segment of Sixteenth Street, across Evans on Sixteenth to connect with Howell Street, down Howell to Perkins, across Perkins through a now open field to connect Howell with Hooker Road, and from Hooker Road west, either down May or Lone Street, to connect with Memorial Drive.

Holiday pointed out that maps and plans for such a connector road dated back to 1965. Later Mayor Cox and various city councilmen noted although action has not been taken to carry out construction work to complete the connecting sections on the proposed route, the original plan is not a dead issue.

What was several times termed an urgent need for the east-west connector road south of the railroad was given emphasis by city council members in light of several factors.

Foremost among such factors, according to Mayor Cox, "is an expected 50 per cent increase in rail traffic within the next year."

Council woman Millie McGrath mentioned that the federal regulatory agency, state officials and county commissioners have already given approval for an interconnector rail in Greenville between Seaboard and Norfolk Southern to move shipments of material from Texasgulf. Also, some trains passing through are now 6,000 feet long (over one mile) and longer in length.

Another factor mentioned as supporting the need for the connector road is that of providing another mid-town east-west road to lead traffic into Memorial Drive and on into the fast developing hospital area, in addition to the 14th Street route—which Mayor Cox referred to as a "bottleneck situation" where the street narrows down at Brown-Wood automobile agency on Dickenson Avenue.

Mayor Cox stated he hopes university officials will be amenable to granting right of ways to university property needed to complete the connector road. "After all, we've cooperated with the university on property rights at Reade Street and on other occasions

Hospital Bd. To Air Dismay Over Losing Sum Held In Escrow

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

A meeting has been planned to let Eastern North Carolina legislators know of the Pitt Memorial Hospital Board's displeasure at the prospect of $3.8 million being taken out of the funds put in escrow for a bed tower for the hospital as part of the state's contribution to the ECU medical school-hospital.

The meeting was tentatively set for Monday at 4 p.m. The full board is to invite all four of Pitt County's representatives, as well as many representatives of neighboring counties as possible to be present. In the meantime, a resolution of the board's discontent is to be drafted.

"Pressures are coming from other areas of the state to withdraw the whole $43 million allocated for the medical school," Dr. Lee West said.

Dr. Eric Fearrington said, "It is my understanding that, according to North Carolina law, one legislature cannot obligate another for any funds. So, once the money is taken away, there's nothing that says it's got to be put back. I don't want to see the people of Pitt County left holding the bag when the rooms they're building now are quickly filled and more are needed."

"It disturbs me," said Norfleet Sugg of Pinetops, "that the Eastern North Carolina members of the Advisory Budget Commission, which has proposed this withdrawal, have been so passive about the whole thing. They say the money is needed for other things, but what's more important than health care? We've got to start building a case for a strong political fight, if that's what it takes, and apparently it is."

It was reported that some catching up has been done on receipt of Medicaid payments to the hospital. They're now about 45 days behind.

Some medical data is starting to be processed on the hospital computer. Lab data is being entered, along with the billing data now, it was reported.

Approved were equipment purchases of about $18,800. Included are an MA-1 respirator, a cryostate eye surgery unit, datascopes for the operating room, an 02 analyzer for the anesthesia machine, and miscellaneous surgery equipment.

A printed copy of the affiliation agreement between East Carolina University School of Medicine and Pitt Memorial Hospital was given each trustee, as was a copy of the Liaison Committee of Medical Education report released Monday.

An office capital contract for the Family Practice Center was approved. The $216,000 is to be paid out of Area Health Education Center monies.

Charles Moore, associate dean for administrative affairs at ECU, represented School of Medicine Dean

William Laupus. He said 12 new faculty members have been added, that four additional ones are expected to sign contracts within the month, and four more within two months. Dr. Frank Longino has accepted the position of acting chairman of surgery and Dr. Ed Clement, acting chairman of obstetrics and gynecology, he said.

Committee appointed by W. R. Duke, Hospital Board Chairman, are as follows: retirement—Gretchen Deichmann, J. B. Kittrell, and Glenn Strickland, audit—Midred Indorf, Mack Edwards, and W. R. Carver; ambulance, W. R. Duke, Delton Perry, and Billy Phillips; joint policy—Dr. E.L. Fearrington, Dr. Ira Hardy, Dr. Lee West, Kenneth Dews, and Jack W. Richardson; emergency room—Delton Perry, Eugene James, and James Cheatham; and finance—J. H. Moye, chairman, Robert Monk, Dean Rich, Norfleet Sugg, and Warren McRoy.

Inflation Rate Held Down For 3 Months

WASHINGTON (AP) — Falling prices at the gasoline pump and the third big monthly drop in grocery costs held the rise in consumer prices to two-tenths of a per cent in March, the government said today.

The March increase compared with February's consumer price rise of one-tenth of a per cent and an increase of four-tenths of a per cent in January. The January-to-March figures left consumers with the lowest three-month inflation rate in almost four years.

The Labor Department said the increase for the three months ending in March — a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 2.9 per cent — was the smallest three-month increase since June 1972. It compared with an average increase of about 7 per cent for each calendar quarter in 1975.

Lower beef prices led the decline at grocery counters where prices fell another 1.2 per cent in March. Grocery prices fell 1.5 per cent in February after a decline of four-tenths of a per cent in January.

Gasoline prices fell 1.3 per cent instead of moving up as they usually do in March.

The cut in the nation's inflation rate has exceeded even the most optimistic projections, but the Ford administration had cautioned that the declines in food and fuel are not likely to be sustained.

Maynard Comiez, acting chief economist for the Commerce Department, said in an interview before the price report was issued that food and gasoline prices were beginning to climb higher.

"I don't expect to see a sharp reacceleration in prices, but I do think we might see some increases larger than we have been getting," he said.

Despite the slowing of inflation, the purchasing power of the average American worker fell seven-tenths of a per cent in March because weekly earnings were held back by a reduction in working hours. However, over the year purchasing power was up 4.3 per cent.

The Consumer Price Index stood at 167.5 in March, meaning that it cost consumers $167.50 to buy the same variety of goods and services purchased for $100 in 1967. Over the past year, prices have risen 6.1 per cent, the smallest gain in any 12-month period since the year ending July, 1973.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

POETRY PASSED ON

I am an inmate at the Creswell Corrections Center. I'm sending you a poem written by a friend of mine that I think is very good. Would you please publish it in your column? F. B.

We agree with you that your friend's poem, entitled, "My Carpenter Friend" is quite good, but The Daily Reflector has a long-standing policy of not publishing poetry. Because we thought it so worthwhile, though, we showed the poem to our friend, Tillie Knowles, editor of the Pamlico County News, which has a poetry column. She said she'd be happy to publish it. We wrote your friend for permission to pass it on to her, which he granted. So the two of you can watch for it in Mrs. Knowles' paper within the next few weeks.

ELECTROLOGIST SOUGHT

I would like to find someone who does electrolysis and have had no luck so far. H. B.

The only electrologist Hotline can find in this area is Ruth Cox Forrest at Glenda's Beauty Salon, 200 Greenville Boulevard. She charges $15 per hour, but will pro-rate the amount, according to the actual time taken. Often several sessions of less than a hour each are needed, a spokesman for the shop said.

Electrolysis is the destruction of hair roots by means of an electrical current. One must have received specialized instruction and be licensed in order to charge for the service.

If there are other qualified electrologists in the immediate area that we've overlooked, we'll be glad to run a feedback, of course.

Lebanese Feud While Fighting Goes Unabated

By EDWARD CODY
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) —

Lebanon's feuding politicians argued today over Christian President Suleiman Franjeh's departure from office and Palestinian participation in cease-fire enforcement while the fighting continued at war level.

Police reported 179 persons killed and 302 wounded Tuesday and today. There was heavy fighting during the night in the Christian-held port area and in Beirut's eastern suburbs and adjacent mountain towns.

Leftist Moslem leader Kamal Jumblatt threatened to establish a Moslem-ruled, Socialist state in which the Christians would be reduced to a powerless minority unless Franjeh delivered his signature on a constitutional amendment authorizing early election of his replacement.

Premier Rashid Karami, a moderate Moslem leader, announced last Saturday that Franjeh had finally signed the amendment, but parliament cannot meet to elect his successor until he delivers it to the speaker of the legislature, Kamel Assaad.

Jumblatt said more delay by Franjeh would allow "the national and progressive forces to announce a national rule and change the political, economic and social regime."

Jumblatt's military forces were on their way to establishing such a regime in early April, but Syrian President Hafez Assad forced him to halt the advance.

Franjeh, the symbol to the Moslems of the Christians' unwillingness to relinquish their dominant political and economic position in Lebanon, sent a special envoy to Damascus. His mission was to get Assad to remove the Palestinian guerrillas from the machinery Syria is trying to set up to enforce the war's 35th cease-fire, which was supposed to take effect this week.

Franjeh's chief allies, former President Camille Chamoun and Phalange party leader Pierre Gemayel, who control the two largest Christian militias fighting the Moslems, charged that the planned Palestinian participation was an "infringement of Lebanon's freedom."

Palestinian leaders Zohair Mohsen and Abu Ayad sought to reassure the Christians, saying they will not interfere in election of a new president or the changing of the constitution.

African War Is Urged

MAPUTO, Mozambique (AP) — Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda has called on all "progressive" forces in Africa to throw their full weight behind intensified guerrilla war against Prime Minister Ian Smith's Rhodesian regime.

Kaunda challenged Rhodesia's white minority regime in a state banquet speech Tuesday night marking his first official visit to this former Portuguese colony since it became independent last June.

Kaunda declared Rhodesia was now the mainstay of "enemy defense" and that it held the key to final victory in South African-administered South-West Africa and against apartheid in South Africa.

Cars Stoned By Boston Gangs

BOSTON (AP) — A roving gang of about 100 black youths stoned the cars of whites who drove through their neighborhood during a second night of racial violence in Boston, while the victim of a gang beating the night before clung to life.

Richard Poleet, 34, a white auto mechanic who was dragged from his car and beaten in the predominantly black Roxbury section, was unconscious and on the danger list early today after extensive brain surgery.

One source said, "The outlook is extremely grim. His situation is desperate."

Two people were arrested for allegedly beating Poleet Monday night, and the FBI said it has joined the search for more of the 15 to 20 black youths reported responsible.

Police blocked off a mile of streets through the adjacent Mattapan section for nearly three hours Tuesday night in an effort to stop the stonings there.

They said that at least six whites suffered cuts from flying glass.

At least 10 windshields were shattered in Mattapan before the disturbance ended about midnight. No arrests were made.

Boston has been the scene of sporadic racial violence since a federal court ordered busing of pupils to desegregate the city's schools a year ago.

Extra policemen were on duty in many parts of the city, and volunteers manned a 24-hour crisis information watch in Roxbury and patrolled the streets with two-way radios in South Boston.

Political and civic leaders expressed shock and dismay Tuesday over Poleet's beating and other racial violence that has beset the city.

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis said he was "appalled." He added, "Talk of retribution by one side or the other must stop. It will only lead to further violence."

"It isn't going to be tolerated — this lawlessness on either side," said Boston Mayor Kevin H. White. "There are no excuses."

and we can hope there'll be no tie-up in the stadium area." Cox said rights of way are in hand for all areas except the university property.

Thomas Johnson of East Carolina University said it is his belief that the university also owns a segment of property immediately west of Charles Boulevard that would be required for the proposed road between Charles and Sixteenth Street.

The mayor said "it is my understanding that contracts have been let to put intra-mural fields in the parking lot at the stadium. If that's so, there'll possibly be no parking lot there next year."

Exclamations of "incredible," "impossible," and similar remarks came from those attending the meeting following the statement by Cox.

(On Wednesday morning, East Carolina University Director Bill Cain said that contracts have been let for the "leveling off" of the parking area located between Ficklin Stadium and the railroad.

"As far as I know," he added, "there are no plans to discontinue parking here. The leveling off is simply to make intramural play in this area better." The land now is bumpy and uneven.)

In light of the situation, with school board members holding plans for construction of tennis courts in abeyance, city council members agreed it will be necessary for the council to take early follow up study on the overall status of the east-west connector road in order to make further decisions.

Superintendent of City School Glenn Cox reminded the city council "our request is still before you for permission to build the tennis courts."

Developing Affiliations

ECU—Chancellor Leo W. Jenkins said Tuesday the new ECU medical school staff is already making efforts to affiliate with several hospitals, as recommended in an accreditation committee's preliminary report.

"Dean William E. Laupus has begun the process required to develop affiliation plans with hospitals in our areas to supplement our major affiliation with the new Pitt County Memorial Hospital," Jenkins said in a prepared statement. "He and his faculty believe firmly that there will be no problem in having ample clinical cases for our medical students and residents to work with," Jenkins said.

The Liaison Committee on Medical Education, which is the joint accreditation arm of the American Medical Association and the Association of American Medical Colleges, said in a preliminary report released Tuesday that the Pitt County hospital relationship "may be marginal" in value to medical students.

May Not Be Tried In Death Prophecy

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — The misdemeanor case against Mrs. Joann Denton, who allegedly prophesied the death of another woman, may or may not reach trial, an assistant prosecutor said Tuesday.

"Right now it's just another case to us," said Assistant Dist. Atty. Bob Grant, who emphasized that Mrs. Denton does not face witchcraft charges. "Witchcraft is not a crime in this state under the statute," he said.

Grant said Mrs. Denton is charged under a law that forbids the practice of hire of palmistry, fortune telling, clairvoyance or phrenology—the study of the human skull to discern character.

Couple Should Tape Snores

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband says that I snore, but I know I don't. One thing I know for certain is that HE snores; and if I don't fall asleep before he does, I am up all night. He tells ME that HE is up all night because of MY snoring, which is ridiculous because if he were up he wouldn't be keeping ME up with his snoring.

How can we find out the truth? Don't suggest we have a third party sleep with us as I am very old-fashioned.

HATTIE

DEAR HATTIE: Buy, rent or borrow a tape recorder and turn it on when you both retire. Whoever is awake while the other is snoring should say, "I am awake, so YOU must be snoring!" And that should settle it!

DEAR ABBY: I know I've done wrong, but please help me because I'm in such a mess I don't know what to do. I was 15 when my mother died, so my father and I "batched it" for nearly two years. My father finally decided to marry Neva who was 37 and fairly nice-looking. Dad was 57.

Everything would have been fine if I had had any sense, but I started fooling around with Neva when my father was at work. Neva got pregnant. I was scared out of my wits, but Neva said she could make my father think the baby was his, so I shouldn't worry.

Neva had twin boys, and my father was the happiest man on earth. Everything was working out fine until the twins were 8-months-old. Then, with no warning, my father had a heart attack and died. Neva and I were in a state of shock for several days and didn't know what to do.

My father left enough insurance, cash and property for Neva and the twins to live comfortably and for me to go to college. Now Neva doesn't want me to go to college. She wants me to marry her—and help her raise the twins! She says they are as much mine as hers. I want to do what's right, but I don't want to live with Neva the rest of my life. Please help me.

TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: The twins could be your father's—and legally they are his sons, so don't feel duty-bound to marry Neva and sacrifice your college education to stay home and help raise the boys. Keep a respectable distance from Neva, and with a little luck she'll find another man.

DEAR ABBY: Whenever I attend a double-ring ceremony, I wonder if the bride and groom realize that there is no justification whatsoever for a man's wearing a wedding ring.

The wedding ring is a symbol of bondage of females in marriage. It's the last relic of the collar and shackles with which captive and purchased brides were (and in some parts of the world still are) bound to their male masters.

I quote from an old German prayer book (1888): "The wedding ring is for the bride only and is a symbol of her bondage, subjection to and obedience to her master; a sign that she is now no longer free and independent, but that she is bound and chained under the mastery of her husband."

Turn all the ingredients, in the order given, into an electric blender and whirl just until smooth. Batter will be thin. Pouring about 1 1/2 tablespoons of the batter for each pancake, bake on a hot greased griddle (400 degrees if electric griddle is used) until bubbles appear all over the surface; turn and brown other side. Keep hot in a warm oven until all are baked. Serve at once with butter, confectioners' sugar and lemon juice. Makes about 15 three-inch pancakes. Wooden Boxes Basis Of Tramp Art

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Cigar boxes always have been recycled into other boxes for jewelry, dolls, sewing, what-nots, and even into shadow boxes, but one recycling hobby that caught on in the United States before the turn of the century was tramp art, which turned boxes into an art form.

Helaine Fendelman, who collects the folk art, was explaining tramp art at the National Arts and Antiques show, where she had one of the interesting exhibits at the Madison Square Garden show, largely dominated by jewelry.

"Tramp art was made out of pieces of wood from cigar, fruit and vegetable boxes and pieces of pine. These were chipped and carved or notched on the edges, usually with a pocket knife. Glue and nails often were used to hold the pieces together. The chipped art often is in pyramid form, either the motif that decorates the piece or the piece itself. There are early examples in many areas of the world of the art, which traveled to the United States in the middle of the 19th century.

Layering of the notched wood gives a cumulative effect to the pieces so that they look heavy. Many cigar boxes were very soft wood, which was easily chipped. Others were Brazilian mahogany and Spanish cedar.

Her exhibit of the chipped wood pieces included a little pincushion on a pedestal, a piece with little diamonds and hearts that showed great imagination "and could not have been done by a common hobo or bum," Mrs. Fendelman explained. "It had to be someone with skill and intelligence."

A very interesting mirror had three carved eagles, one larger in the top center.

A planter on legs had been made from a dynamite crate. She also showed a beautiful chaise longue with the chipped frame made entirely out of cigar boxes. The springs had come from an old tractor.

Although she had begun her own collection when she received a gift of a piece, she became so interested she now has more than 100 pieces, she says. She planned to write an article on the art, but became so intrigued with the subject that she wrote a book, "Tramp Art," which was recently published.

The book has more than 100 illustrations including grandfather clocks (two have Seth Thomas works), a miniature rolltop desk, a fireplace over-mantle, a 7-foot-tall armoire intricately carved, headboards, picture frames, sideboards and the like.

Styles were often influenced by the country of origin. A maple leaf design on one small chest might indicate that the piece is of Canadian origin. Some with hunting symbols might have been crafted at rustic camps.

The art has often been called hobo art, but it was too well done for hobos to have been the only source, she explained. A tramp of the 19th century was a peddler of his own skills. The original craftsmen were the Wanderburschen - wanderers or trappers - who immigrated to the United States for jobs. Whittling was a favorite pursuit as they tramped the countryside looking for work.

Flowers, animals, patriotic and religious symbols as well as geometric patterns are used as motifs. Some cigar box labels were worked into the overall designs. Many well-carved pieces have the notched cigar box pieces decorating other kinds of boxes which form a base. To be authentic, tramp art must be chip-carved and layered. Matchstick art, which is often called tramp art, was probably done by prisoners, she says.

"In the early part of the 20th century people were given do-it-yourself tricks to do and I think that spawned interest because there are so many tramp art pieces that are almost identical. The items that survived were too good to be thrown away."

Cigar boxes were used because they were available - all but a few states made them and they could be bought for a few pennies.

Mrs. Fendelman and her husband, Burton, who also collects the tramp art, have an antiques shop and are active with the American Museum of Folk Art. They plan exhibits in several cities with the art.

Women Educators Hold State Meet In Pinehurst

PINEHURST - "Pioneers gave us our heritage, values, reasons for a future of service and leadership in meeting the needs of our people." This was the recurrent theme of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society's ETA State convention held recently at the Pinehurst Hotel here.

Attending the three day convention were 400 women educators from North Carolina. Ms. Mildred Bingham, Mars Hill professor of business administration and president of ETA State, welcomed the executive board Friday evening for the first session of the convention.

TE ATA, Chicasaw American Indian Princess, Oklahoma, presented a program of native legends, myths, chants and dance while accompanying herself with rattles and the ceremonial drum. "The uniting of women in spiritual fellowship was realized," Mrs. Pauline Myrick, chairperson for arrangements, said.

Miss Jessie Sims served as consultant to the convention. International Treasurer, Miss Sims reflected the professional expertise and training in her challenging address given at the banquet Saturday evening. A Bicentennial Salute featuring choral reading and creative music was coordinated by Mrs. Billiegarne Garner of Southern Pines, a member of Phi Chapter.

Attending the convention from Greenville, members of Beta Alpha Chapter, were Mrs. Jo Ann Leith, Mrs. Phoebe Owens, Dr. Hermine Caraway, Miss Laura Bell, Mrs. Antoinette Jenkins, Mrs. Sally Klingenschmitt, Mrs. Irma Worthington, Mrs. Nan Shearin and Mrs. Anna H. Cartner.

Spring Onions

In the spring many homemakers eagerly anticipate the arrival of new-crop onions. For these spring time favorites can be used to add extra flavor to a wide range of meat and vegetable dishes. And, as an added bonus - onions can be boiled, baked or roasted—and used in soups, stews and with roasts.

Not only that, spring onions are low in calories.

When you buy fresh onions—look for a firm, dry product. Each onion should be covered with a papery outer scale and be reasonably free from green sunburn spots and blemishes.

Bypass onions with wet or soft necks—they are immature or decayed. Other warning signs are thick, hollow or woody centers in the neck—and fresh green sprouts on the onion.

With each person in this country eating almost twelve pounds of onions each year—it's good to have the spring onion coming to market.

Hints on Salads

Almost everyone munches on a salad sometime during the day. And small wonder. For if you varied all the vegetables, dressings, spices and herbs that are now available, you could serve a different salad every day for years.

When you season a salad at home, chances are you'll reach for the black pepper, onion powder or onion salt—or one of the dehydrated garlic products. And, you might find that a pinch of dry mustard is a delicious addition, too.

Then depending on what you're serving as a main dish, you might try seasoning the salad further with tarragon, curry powder, chili powder, oregano, basil or one of the herb blends.

Another good salad trick is to add an eighth teaspoon of ginger or some ground celery seed to the dressing.

If you're making or blending salad dressings at home, there are some other success hints to keep in mind. For instance, beat the dressing vigorously with an egg beater—especially if you're trying to adjust the flavor.

Also, whenever possible, make the salad dressing the day before you plan to use it. This gives the flavors of the spices and herbs time to mingle.

And one final reminder—you might want to let the salad dressing sit at room temperature for an hour or so before you plan to use it. This helps to bring out the dressing's flavor.

Military Manpower Is Needed

A civilian commission has concluded that reductions in size and cost of the military are not possible for the next ten years.

The Defense Manpower commission which was authorized by Congress to study the cost of the military, expressed concern about the all-volunteer military, calling it "far from a reality."

The commission called for returning to the standby draft machinery with annual registration of young men.

"In the event of sudden major hostilities our volunteer forces would be weakened by casualties, without adequate loss replacements, in time would be unable to conduct sustained operations, and could be annihilated."

The nation must plan to maintain the 2.1 million man military force and the one million civilian military employees in view of the "continuing Soviet military buildup."

The commission has raised points that concern us. We have never liked the idea of dismantling the draft machinery. That move could leave us vulnerable to military manpower shortages in the event of sudden attack.

The volunteer military concept is working better now than at one time, but high civilian unemployment is pushing many young men to join the branches of the military. The civilian employment situation could change rather quickly and create military recruiting problems.

Nobody likes the tremendous costs of maintaining the military, but it is done because strength is what keeps potential enemies from miscalculating and launching an outright attack on us. We have to be certain that we have adequate military strength so that no antagonist will risk attacking us, and that means adequate manpower must be available.

One Way To Support Highway 264 Goal

Some 10,000 bumper stickers have been distributed proclaiming "4-Lane U.S. 264."

The plan was promoted by the Highway 264 Association, which is dedicated to getting the road to Raleigh improved.

No doubt motorists of this area may be asked, "What's a U.S. 264" on trips past Raleigh. Nevertheless the highway project is essential to this area and we should support it in any way possible.

Agencies 'Hide' Employees

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—In bureaucratic jargon, it's known as "work against" juggling of personnel.

To some legislators, it is pure and simple deception and ought to be against the law.

The practice is one used by some state agency managers to get legislative approval for essential people to do one job, then swing them over to do another which the General Assembly might not approve.

How much of it goes on? There's no way to tell without a constant watch, but some lawmakers are convinced the deception is costing North Carolina taxpayers hundreds of thousands of misspent dollars.

Here is one isolated example of how the system works.

At Richard T. Fountain school for juveniles, a check discovered more than $200,000 in annual salaries being paid to shifted personnel.

Shift People

A legislature convinced that the school needed a psychological counseling assistant approved that. A public information assistant was hired to work in Human Resources Secretary David T. Flaherty's office in that slot.

Another psychological services officer was authorized; a business manager was hired at the salary of $16,236 instead, and carried on the books as the psychologist.

House parents are obviously needed to look after the children in the school. But one carried on the books as a house parent was performing clerical work in a regional office—not at the school—and another was an administrator in the regional office.

Another psychological assistant was actually doing data processing work.

Ray T. Shurling, who worked several years as a legislative research staffer, recently took over the reins of the Youth Division of Human Resources.

Shurling has written State Rep. John Ed Davenport, D-Nash, in response to Davenport's inquiry into the situation.

"Yes... this division has heretofore practiced the work-against proposition... and other indiscriminate use of positions..." Shurling said.

Nefarious Activity

Then, recalling his experience in monitoring agencies, Shurling hastened to add that he "on many occasions spoke against this... and this division will never again engage in such nefarious activities," Shurling said.

A source at the Department of Human Resources said that agency now has only three work-against jobs, others having been eliminated over a period of time.

Agency people say the system is regularly used when legislators or top administration officials insist on a job for somebody in a hurry. If no job slot exists, another will be used as a cover.

Legislators, however, do not accept that explanation, suspecting rather that the technique is used more often to cover up agency intentions to hire people not authorized.

"We have only seen the tip of the iceberg," Davenport says. He suspects there are numerous such ruses currently in use in state agencies, and that only a constant, in-depth monitoring would keep it under control.

"The General Assembly budgets money for particular services, and then the agencies keep the job-title on their books while actually assigning people to other duties... it's a pattern to cheat us," Davenport believes.

He thinks the growing state use of regional offices is another "layer of fat" which will allow further deception by agency people in assigning personnel.

ONE WAY TO LOOK AT IT!

Skips Royal Party

By JEFF BRADLEY

Associated Press Writer LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister James Callaghan stayed away from Queen Elizabeth's 50th birthday ball, and one newspaper suggested he feared attendance might hurt his chances of selling austerity to the unions.

"Should the prime minister be seen dancing the night away in an atmosphere of diamonds and champagne when he is trying to persuade the unions to accept minimal wage increases and further cuts in living standards?" the Daily Express asked.

Other newspaper commentators suggested that the 64-year-old Labor party veteran stayed home because he is a teetotaler and doesn't like late parties.

The official explanation from No. 10 Downing St. was that Callaghan, in office just 15 days, was unable to attend "because of pressure of work." The statement said the queen invited him to dinner next week when they would have a better chance to talk.

Callaghan's two immediate predecessors, Harold Wilson and Edward Heath, interrupted vacations to be among the 530 guests Tuesday night at Windsor Castle. Margaret Thatcher, Heath's successor as leader of the Conservative party, attended with her husband. And both Princess Margaret and her estranged husband, Lord Snowden, were there.

The party began with dinner for 60. The rest of the guests arrived at 10.30 p.m. The dancers paused at midnight to toast the queen and sing "Happy Birthday." There was another pause at 2:40 a.m., the exact time at which Elizabeth was born on April 21, 1926, to the wife of the future King George VI.

The queen's father died on Feb. 6, 1952, but her 75-year-old mother, Queen Mother Elizabeth, was on hand to celebrate with her daughters, the queen's husband, Prince Philip; their four children, Prince Charles, 27; Princess Anne, 25; Prince Andrew, 16; Prince Edward, 11, and Anne's husband, Capt. Mark Phillips.

Is Anybody For Slavery?

WASHINGTON—The ethnic issue has become a major one in this year's campaign. Every presidential candidate, in one way or another, has assured his audiences that, while he is not for ethnic purity, he doesn't believe the government should get into the business of ethnic impurity.

I have a black colleague who is very nervous about the direction the campaign is taking. "They don't talk about unemployment, corruption in government or tax reform any more. They're all tripping over themselves trying to explain that, while they think blacks should live anywhere they want to, the government should not do anything to hurt the neighborhood."

"That's reasonable," I said to Wilson. "If you're a candidate, the ethnic vote is very important in this country and it would be political suicide to get those people mad." "I agree. But what worries me is that some reporter is going to ask a candidate what he thinks about slavery. Suppose the newspaperman says 'Are you in favor of repealing the Thirteenth Amendment?' What's the politician going to say?"

"I'm certain he'll say he's against bringing back slavery," I said.

"I'm not too sure," Wilson said. "The South is very important to the election and most of the candidates might waffle on it, just as they have on ethnic purity."

"Well, one candidate might say, 'Everyone knows my record on slavery, and I don't believe in it. At the same time I do not think it's Washington's job to say to people they can't own slaves if they want them. I think each area should make its own decision on whether they think slaves are good or bad for the community.'"

"I can't believe that, Wilson. Every one of the candidates is an honorable man and there would be a furor if a candidate even hinted he was for slavery."

"Maybe. But then what would happen after the furor is that the candidate would apologize and say he didn't mean it the way it came out. The bad thing is that it would become an issue in the campaign and the reporters would ask all the candidates where they stood on slavery."

"Wouldn't they denounce it?"

"Not during the primaries. There are a lot of states where the proslavery forces could swing an election. What would happen is that one candidate would say, 'I do not believe in slavery per se, but with the high unemployment in the country we shouldn't discard it out of hand.' Another candidate would attack his opponents for raising the slavery issue, but would go on the record as saying, 'The economy comes first, and if we can reduce the welfare bill in this country by bringing slavery back I think it will benefit all Americans.'"

THE INSIDE REPORT

Weakness Of 'Old Guard'

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

HARRISBURG, Pa.—The coalition of formerly feuding Democratic politicians and labor leaders contrived to stop Jimmy Carter in Pennsylvania is burdened by decaying organization, tardy preparation and a stultifying lack of enthusiasm for the coalition's candidate, Sen. Henry M. Jackson.

The nature and weakness of the stop-Carter movement is typified by the private attitude of a prominent Pennsylvania labor leader. "I am every, very dubious about Scoop being nominated, and so is everybody else," he told us. "But that's not what this is about."

What this effort is about is "ABC" — Anybody But Carter. Aware that outsider Carter winning in the April 27 Pennsylvania primary might clinch the presidential nomination, insiders here — worried about doors being closed to them — have temporarily forgotten past blood feuds to unite behind Jackson. Thus, the Pennsylvania showdown mirrors what the race for the nomination has become nationally: remnants of the Democratic establishment desperately trying to survive by stopping Carter.

Never have organized labor and regular party organizations posed so monolithic a front in a Pennsylvania Democratic primary. In Philadelphia, even Mayor Frank Rizzo and his blood enemy, city Democratic leader Pete Camiel, are on the same side. So is Gov. Milton Shapp, operating through his political lieutenant, Democratic state chairman Harvey Thiemann.

After recently agreeing on a unified statewide slate of pro-Jackson delegates, Thiemann and state Public Utilities Commissioner Mike Johnson, the state's top labor political operative, shook hands and agreed how nice it was to be on the same side this time. In the 1972 primary, the establishment was split — L labor and Johnson supporting Sen. Hubert Humphrey (the winner), the party and Thiemann backing Sen. Edmund Muskie (the loser). United in 1976, Thiemann and Johnson feel confident they can crush Carter.

Thiemann's confidence was bolstered by a recent tour of smaller counties, during which he observed no Carter campaign at all. Indeed, hardly any experienced politicians have joined Carter (Pittsburgh's maverick Mayor Pete Flaherty and brother Jim Flaherty, chairman of the County Commissioners, being exceptions). Thus, party leaders see a relatively easy Jackson win with Carter running so poorly he may finish third behind Rep. Morris Udall — a misjudgment stunning in its distance from reality.

The regulars have misinterpreted the absence of familiar faces as the absence of any Carter campaign. Mayor Flaherty, who ran statewide only two years ago as U.S. Senate nominee, was amazed to attend a meeting of Carter supporters in Erie and find not a soul he knew. Carter's backers were insurance agents, small merchants and other white-collar workers — all new to politics.

Such newcomers forming the Carter cadre provide the only presidential campaign activity in many areas — in Scranton, for example. The regular delegate candidates there, while part of the statewide "pro-Jackson" slate formed by Thiemann, say nothing about Jackson and identify themselves as Humphrey supporters.

This points to the real interests of the Pennsylvania ABC movement: electing their own as national convention delegates; pro-Jackson for now but poised to embrace Humphrey. Coalition leaders from Gov. Shapp down show little interest in the preferential primary (or "beauty contest") which will be stressed on national television and could finish off Jackson as a viable candidate.

Nor do some key Jackson backers disguise their true desires. President I. W. Abel of the United Steel Workers, (Continued on page 5)

Other Editors Say Changed His Mind?

(ECU Fountainhead)

Several recent events at East Carolina University may have reflected the end of any gubernatorial campaign this year by ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins.

First, last week ECU withdrew from the Southern Conference and embarked on a most ambitious building program to expand the seating capacity of Ficklen Stadium.

Then, there is the continuing struggle the newly created Med School is going through—growing pains they could be called.

While the Med School has been funded it still has to admit that first student, in fact one projected entry date has been postponed until this coming January and most think that it will be the Fall of 1977 before the Med School, long something Jenkins has worked for, will admit its first student.

The continued struggle with the med school, plus the new expansion on the athletic front, are two programs Jenkins has supported hard over the years.

And, whether he would leave the Chancellor's post to run for Governor with these projects in the works is doubtful we feel.

There is no doubt that the ECU Chancellor would like to run for the state's top post. Jenkins feels he could bring much to that position and on that we will agree.

Many political observers had contended that after getting the Med School approved Jenkins would run for the Democratic nomination for governor as something as a "last hurrah", since state law would force his retirement from his current position in a couple of years.

But, the Med School that he sought so long is still not yet a concrete institution. A bid for the state's top post could result in repercussions that the shaky med school does not need.

Then, there are the new goals for the athletic department at the school. Jenkins has long pushed for a top notch athletic program at ECU. No Pirate booster is more devoted than Jenkins who once dubbed the Pirates' victory of N.C. State in football several years ago "the greatest thing to ever happen to ECU".

40 Years Ago Today

April 21, 1936

The city of Greenville and much of Pitt County observed a holiday today as a great part of its populace joined the march on Raleigh to seek to influence the governor to call a special session of the legislature to consider tobacco compacts.

Though Gov. Ehringhaus told them proposed tobacco compacts to control production of the crop would not give control, more than 6,000 North Carolina farmers voted after hearing him that they still wanted a special session of the legislature to consider the act.

The mass meeting adjourned without the Governor saying definitely that he would not call the session, but throughout his speech contended that new acts would not achieve control.

Investment Clubbers Happier

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — In 1941 a Detroit man began depositing $10 to $20 a month in an investment club. By February of this year he had invested $7,800, withdrawn more than $30,000, and still had an account worth more than $59,000.

The club, the Mutual Investment Club, was one of the four founding units of the National Association of Investment Clubs, now more than 7,000 strong, averaging about 12 members each, all regular investors for the long term.

Even though most club members are amateurs, they often beat the pros over long and short periods. One club, made up of post office workers, reported a gain of 212 per cent from October 1974 to December 1975.

That report encouraged the association, based in Royal Oak, Mich., to take a random sample of ains by about 40 clubs through February. It found the average gain since December 1974, the worst of the bear market, to be 69.9 per cent.

The Dow Jones industrial average during that time gained 59.9 per cent, 10 per cent less than the average club. Sixty-four per cent of the clubs in the sample did better than the average.

For the clubs that stuck it out through the recession, despite declines in value month after month, these results are satisfying and reassuring, but not totally unanticipated.

Although their nerves did quiver, club members were sustained by their faith that over a long period of time their investment philosophy averages out to a gain.

Many clubs did drop out, however. At one time in 1973 the association had 14,100 member units, but that number went down with the averages. Some clubs folded, and others simply ceased to remain members of the association.

Now the trend is about to be reversed. Inquiries are up sharply, and the criterion of history suggests inquiries are followed by applications. Individual clubs also report they are adding to their memberships.

Thomas O'Hara, chairman, recalls that in the fall of 1973, when the fear and despair were thick, the sturdiest of clubs continued to believe stocks were a bargain. They were willing to wait.

Now, said O'Hara, who belongs to the Mutual Investment Club. "We feel that the really big movement in the market is in the two to five years ahead."

With theories, concepts and systems as common in the investment world as they are at the race track, member clubs follow deceptively simple principles to help them achieve their results.

—They invest regularly, usually at monthly intervals, over a long period of time. They do not try to guess whether the market is in an upward or downward trend. Through the worst of times, they continue to invest.

—They keep fully invested in order to put to work for them the principle of compounding. They don't maintain big cash positions. And they reinvest dividends.

—They endeavor to invest in companies whose sales and earnings per share are moving ahead faster than the general economy.

While this seems to be a conservative philosophy, it really isn't. Ask any club that stuck to it during the dark days of the market. "It gives you a pretty aggressive account," said O'Hara.

He explained: "Investing a set sum of money each month has a wonderful mathematical effect. As stock prices decline, that set amount buys a larger and larger number of shares of stock."

"Once stock prices turn around, a price increase applied to the larger number of shares helps increase values rapidly. Long before stock prices reach their former highs, the investors find the value of their accounts exceed their investments."

REACHING FOR FREEDOM

"Build thee more stately mansions,

O my soul.

As the swift seasons roll Leave the low vaulted past Till thou at last art free; Leaving thine outgrown shell

By life's unresting sea." And thus the poet tells us to learn about life from his experiences. There is much to be learned from books, and more from people; but the greatest teacher of all is experience. Every experience educates us either in a positive or a negative fashion.

If the process is what it ought to be, we leave the "low vaulted past" and push into something higher. We learn some new skill out of every failure, some new truth out of every mistake; and we gain some new insight into a larger body of knowledge every time we can be candidly critical of ourselves rather than of others.

Gerald Ford Paid $94,568 For His Income Taxes

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, who paid $94,568.93 in 1975 federal income taxes, only waited a couple of weeks to get a refund check of $11,631.07 from the Internal Revenue Service.

Ford's press secretary, Ron Nessen, released on Tuesday a detailed report on Ford's income tax return, showing the President made $251,991.24 last year and had taxable income of $204,605.83.

Nessen said Ford's tax forms were filed earlier this month and that he received his refund check during the past week.

When asked why Ford "seems to get speedier service (from the IRS) than the rest of us," Nessen gave no answer other than to smile.

Nessen said Ford paid $38,200 more in federal taxes in 1975 than he did the previous year.

Gross income included the President's salary, his $50,000 expense account and $1,991.24 in savings account interest, small dividends and a net return on rental property the Fords own in Virginia, Michigan and Colorado.

"The President hopes this will be a model for the degree of detail on tax information that all candidates should issue to the voters whom they are asking to elevate them to the presidency," Nessen said.

Nessen said $106,200 tax was withheld from Ford's weekly paycheck.

Ford claimed $750 personal exemptions for himself and his wife and three of his four children. He did not claim son Steve, who is working part time on a ranch in California.

When the federal taxes are added to state and local tax payments of $11,941.91, Nessen said, they accounted for 42 percent of the family's gross income — the same percentage as in 1974 when the Ford's gross income was some $104,000 lower because the President had earned a White House salary for only five months of the year.

The Ford's 1975 state, local and other taxes was nearly double the 1974 figure of $5,985. The President's higher income largely accounted for that, Nessen said.

Of his $50,000 expense account, Ford deducted $23,000 as business expenses. The largest single item in this category was the cost of buying and mailing 35,000 Christmas cards.

Nessen said the Fords spent the other $27,000 in expense money, but could not deduct it.

of every race, creed and color."

Wilson continued, "The best we can hope for is a candidate saying, 'I am not prepared to discuss the slavery issue at this time, but if I am elected President I will appoint a commission to look into it.'"

"Wilson," I said, "I think you're overreacting. I don't believe slavery will become an issue in the campaign. There are so many other important issues like the Panama Canal that I can't conceive of that becoming one."

"What about 'ethnic purity'? No one thought that would be an issue, but when it came up the media ran with it like O.J. Simpson. By the way, where will you stand on it if it does come up?"

"Well, I don't like slavery any better than anybody else," I said. "And I wouldn't vote for anyone who comes out for the repeal of the Thirteenth Amendment. At the same time, if it could bring down the price of cotton and tobacco and increase our balance of trade with other nations, I don't see anything wrong with having a pilot program to see if it would work. But it should be done on a local level. I would hate to see the Washington bureaucrats get involved with it because they would only screw it up."

who delivered a 1972 seconding speech for Jackson and supports him again this year, told us candidly in an interview at the union's Pittsburgh headquarters: "We're Humphrey men. But since Humphrey is not running, we're for Jackson." Abel forecasts Humphrey's nomination.

That union chiefs view Jackson as a faceless proxy for Humphrey adds no zest to the performance of organized labor, entering the 1976 primary campaign far later and far less adequately prepared than in 1972. One Pennsylvania political expert has advised the Carter campaign that labor in this primary is a toothless tiger and no source for great anxiety.

Philadelphia's regular Democrats, one of the last functioning old-fashioned organizations, surely will deliver a huge majority for Jackson. But Carter is strong in the central part of the state, suggesting the statewide outcome will be decided in western Pennsylvania generally and Pittsburgh particularly.

Hence, the Jackson campaign in Pittsburgh at this writing is worth examining. The regular organization is in such decay it is of no use at all. Organized labor has been slow to mobilize. There is neither Jackson money nor Jackson volunteers. Public visibility of his campaign: zero.

Put in those terms, Jimmy Carter's fight against the combined labor-Democratic machine of Pennsylvania is no herculean task. Indeed, April 27 could well demonstrate the final impotency of the old guard in Democratic politics and the final failure of "ABC."

Public Forum...

To walk out now, as the university embarks upon this ambitious plan for athletics and before the med school is finally realized would have to bring a retort from even his closest associates that Jenkins is leaving a job not yet finished.

There are also political considerations in this forum for Jenkins to stay out of the race.

There are already two candidates from the eastern part of the state—the region that Jenkins would draw a lot of his support in the race. Jim Hunt, a Wilson native is the leading contender now and then Senator Thomas Strickland from Goldsboro is another candidate in the Demo race for the top spot.

If Jenkins were to enter the field no less than three candidates would be bying for the east vote. And, in such a race Jenkins would not do as well.

We have no doubts that the New Jersey native could launch a potent state-wide campaign. And, that he would do well in other parts of the state. But, his real base would be in the East and that vote is already split two ways.

Many had thought his run for governor would be his "last hurrah". We suspect the ECU Chancellor can see a better "last hurrah" in completing the work on the med school and launching the Pirates' athletic ship on a sound course.

Court Asserts Public Housing For Suburbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inner-city blacks, often trapped in ghetto areas because of their need for cheap housing available there, may soon find similar low-income housing in the predominantly white suburbs as a result of a Supreme Court decision.

The court, in an 8-0 decision Tuesday, said black residents of Chicago had been confined to public housing projects in ghetto areas of the inner city largely because of federal complicity in discriminatory practices that kept low-income housing out of the suburbs.

Therefore, the justices said, when federal officials are found guilty of racial bias in the placement of low-income housing in a city, federal courts can order them to create housing for the poor in neighboring suburbs.

The court's decision could have widespread effects on construction of new public housing projects in cities where blacks can prove that low-income housing has been concentrated in ghetto areas by governmental efforts to keep the poor confined within city limits.

In the Chicago case, lower courts had held that the city housing authority created a pattern of overwhelmingly white occupancy of low-income units in white neighborhoods and black occupancy in black sections. The courts also held that the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development was similarly responsible for fostering segregation by approving and financing the plans drawn by Chicago officials.

The justices said that since HUD operates irrespective of local boundary lines, it was proper for a lower court to order the federal agency "to foster projects located in white areas" as a cure for the department's past complicity in discrimination.

The court ruled specifically that HUD can be ordered to provide such housing in the suburbs if the federal government has contributed to city segregation through its public housing funding programs.

In the Chicago area, the decision could lead to a housing plan that would span six counties and an area of nearly 4,000 square miles. The Supreme Court said it considered the "relevant geographic area" for blacks seeking low-cost housing in Chicago "is the Chicago housing market, not the Chicago city limits."

The case has become involved in the current presidential campaign. Democratic candidate Jimmy Carter, whose remark about "ethnic purity" of neighborhoods was in response to a question about the case, said the court's decision "suits me fine." He said it would condemn deliberate exclusion of blacks but would leave "a substantial amount of flexibility to local communities."

President Ford, who last week said the nation should not destroy the "treasure" of ethnically identifiable neighborhoods, had no immediate comment.

Under the ruling, courts can order HUD to locate low-income projects in the predominantly white suburbs, even if the suburbs involved have not been guilty of racially discriminatory housing practices.

Although HUD could be compelled to place its own projects in the suburbs, the court said the local governments would not be forced to accept federal subsidies for cooperative projects involving local housing authorities with the federal agency.

Safest Easter Since 1963

RALEIGH (AP) — The Highway Patrol says the Easter weekend this year was the safest on North Carolina highways since 1963.

A total of 14 deaths were counted over the weekend which began at 6 p.m. Friday and ran through midnight Monday. There were 25 persons killed in the same weekend last year, the patrol said.

Col. E.W. Jones, patrol commander, praised his men for their efforts during the holiday. All available troopers were on duty. Jones also said the public deserved credit for being especially careful as the fair weather caused a heavy volume of traffic.

Ford Expected Ask For Missile Funds

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is expected to ask Congress soon for about $300 million to produce 60 additional long-range Minuteman missiles and speed procurement of a new and bigger nuclear warhead.

The move is prompted by the continuing deadlock in U.S.-Soviet nuclear arms limitation negotiations and the steady growth of Russian missile power, Pentagon sources say.

Announcement of Ford's new request may also be calculated to help the President in the May 1 Texas primary, where some political analysts believe he may be running behind challenger Ronald Reagan. However, administration spokesmen are expected to disclaim any political intent.

A Ford request to keep open the Minuteman III intercontinental ballistic missile production line would be a reversal of an earlier decision to shut down Minuteman production. This shut-down decision was reflected in Ford's defense budget for the coming fiscal year.

The recommendation sent by the Pentagon to the White House budget office weeks ago called for $266 million to produce the 60 missiles.

At present, the United States has 1,000 Minuteman missiles in firing position, including 550 Minuteman IIIs, each armed with three warheads, and 450 earlier Minuteman IIs, which mount single warheads.

Under the Pentagon's proposal, the number of land-based Minuteman missiles in launch silos would not be increased, officials said, but the "mix" probably would be changed to increase the number of multiple-warhead Minuteman IIIs and lower the number of Minuteman IIs.

Also included in the package is $56 million to begin production of a bigger warhead for the Minuteman III in 1977, a year earlier than had been planned. The new Mark 12A warhead would have the blast power of about 400,000 tons of TNT, twice that of present Minuteman III warheads. This would give the Minuteman greater ability to knock out heavily protected targets such as underground Soviet missile bases, command posts and industrial plants.

Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld testified in February that it had been decided that the money saved by shutting down Minuteman production could be applied better to accelerating development of a much more powerful advanced missile.

Rumsfeld said the Minuteman, based in underground launch silos, "will become more vulnerable in the future" because of Soviet deployment of increasingly accurate missiles with heavy multiple warheads.

He said the new American MX missile will be a "larger and more survivable ICBM." The MX will be designed to be moved about on trains or trucks so it would be harder to knock out in a surprise attack.

28 Hours Of Bell-Ringing

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — The Hussite Bell Ringers played handbells continuously for 28 hours and two minutes last weekend, and claim a world record.

The seven Winston-Salem high school juniors and seniors surpassed the record of 24 hours, 35 minutes by a team from Atherstone, Warwick County, England, as listed in the Guinness Book of World Records. The North Carolinians expect to be listed in the next edition of Guinness.

To break the monotony of doing their one-hour routine of sacred and secular numbers over and over, the Hussites finally turned their music upside down and played it that way. Toward the end of the ring-a-thon at the Benton Convention Center they got hold of a couple of hymn books and did some sight reading. One selection in their regular program includes a number they play while walking, and walk they did, out of the convention center, across the street and back.

The Hussites use 37 bells, so each ringer is responsible for about five. Some of the lower-pitched bells are heavy, and the players would up with sore muscles.

When anyone felt like quitting, someone would read the itinerary of the trip to England the Hussites plan in July. The ring-a-thon raise more than $1,000 of the $4,200 needed for the trip.

Bike-Car Accidents For Mostly 18-Year-Olds

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — Of all ages, 18-year-old bicycle riders in North Carolina have the largest share of accidents with motor vehicles, a university study has concluded.

The study, conducted by the Highway Safety Research Center at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, also concluded that about 12 per cent of the pedestrians struck by a vehicle are killed.

The study analyzed information on pedestrian and bicycle accidents in the state in 1973 and 1974 for the Governor's Highway Safety Program.

Here are some other key findings of the study:

—Mostly young and old pedestrians were struck by vehicles. Of the three thousand, 417 men involved, 30 per cent were children 12 years old or younger and about ten per cent were at least 61 years old.

—Pedestrian accidents occurred at all times of the year with October being the leading month.

—Pedestrian accidents occur more frequently on Fridays and less frequently on Sundays than other days with more than ten per cent of the accidents occurring between 2 and 8 p.m. on Friday.

—In 83 per cent of the accidents involving a bicycle, no traffic violation by the vehicle operator was reported by the investigating officer. When a violation is reported, that most frequently cited was failure to see if a move could be made safely to avoid the accident.

—Children ten to 15 years old accounted for 46 per cent of the bicycle riders involved in accidents; children under ten accounted for 16 per cent and 18-year-old riders were in nine-point-two per cent of the wrecks, the largest for a single age group.

—Most bicycle accidents were on smooth asphalt roads with no defects; 42 per cent were at intersections of two roads and 15 per cent were at driveway or alley intersections.

About two-thirds of the intersections had traffic control devices, most commonly a stop sign.

LAUNCHING PLANNED—Bill Grant puts final touches on his 42-foot pleasure boat he built in his backyard in a Greensboro to fulfill a lifelong yearning for the sea. His wife Margarate and sons Doug (left) and Steve watch and help, as they have during the nine-month project. The family plans to launch the craft on Thursday. A yacht-moving crew equipped with two cranes and a flatbed trailer is to haul the craft to Morehead City for a maiden voyage to its docking place at Wrightsville Beach.

Million Chickens Killed In Fire

BETHUNE, S.C. (AP)—More than one million chickens were destroyed in a fire Tuesday that swept through the largest egg-producing plant in the United States.

Damage to the plant, located about eight miles north of Bethune, was estimated at between $9 million and $10 million.

The blaze began about 10 p.m. Monday at the Due Fresh Egg Farm and burned itself out about 4 a.m. Tuesday, according to Kershaw County fire marshal Guy Mayer.

Barring Catastrophes, Could Be Year For Travel

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

It may cost more to go, but barring new wars or other major catastrophes 1976 could be a boom year for international and domestic travel.

All indications point to an increase in vacation trips at home during this Bicentennial Year while an improving economy is expected to reverse the long downward trend in travel to Europe and other foreign destinations.

At the same time, predictions are that foreign visitors to the United States will set a new record.

Whatever the destination, travelers generally will pay more for transportation, lodging, food and other travel-related expenditures. According to the authoritative trade magazine The Travel Agent, Americans will spend about $70 billion on travel this year, or $4 billion more than in 1975.

William D. Toohy of Discover America Travel Organization said recently that about 86 million Americans are expected to take a Bicentennial-related trip in 1976, out of a total 150 million expected to travel at home and abroad this year.

Departure by Americans to Europe during the winter months, as well as passport applications, were compared with the previous year, according to figures released by the U.S. Passport Office. Industry predictions are that about 23 million are expected to travel abroad in 1976, mostly to Canada and Mexico.

More than three million Americans visited Europe, including the United Kingdom, in 1975, according to the European Travel Commission, which forecast an increase of about 10 per cent for 1976. ETC's U.S. chairman, John G. Bertram, said an important factor in the uptrend is the strengthening of the U.S. dollar in relation to key European currencies, such as the English pound, Italian lira and French franc.

Some wholesalers already have announced cuts in prices of package tours, which include Britain and Italy.

Industry sources said that the new bargain-priced One-Stop Tour Charters, together with Travel Group Charters and Advance Purchase fares, also should help stimulate transatlantic travel.

With most of the shooting stopped in the Middle East, both Egypt and Israel are hoping for more American visitors in 1976, too. The Christian-Moslem civil war, with the destruction of Beirut's finest hotels, has wiped out once-popular Lebanon's tourist industry.

Many countries in Asia, South America and the Caribbean also are confident of an increase in tourism from the United States despite the big Bicentennial promotions here.

But, as with almost everything else, the cost of travel at home and abroad continues to go up.

Travel industry sources estimate Americans will spend about $8.6 billion on foreign travel this year, or about six per cent more than in 1975.

Some indication of how the domestic travel budget has gone up comes from the American Automobile Assn. Two years ago, AAA estimated a motoring couple paid approximately $57.50 per day, representing $20 for meals, $20 for lodging, $5 for incidentals and $12.50 for each 300 miles worth of gas based on an average of 13 miles per gallon consumption.

This year, AAA said, a couple will pay an average of $67 per day — $25 for a room, $24 for food, about the same for incidentals and $15 for fuel. Since the increase has been spread over a two-year period, the actual cost in the 1976 vacation-by-motor tab will come to roughly 10 per cent.

As usual, Travel Agent said, the overwhelming percentage of vacation trips in the United States will be by car and other vehicles. About 55 per cent will use an automobile, while another 10 per cent will do their touring in a camper. The remainder will go by plane, bus or rail.

Approximately 14 per cent of the motorists will stay at hotels or motels, and 35 per cent will bunk with friends and relatives. Another 25 per cent will use campers, cabins or tents. One per cent will find accommodations on the water, either in cruise ships or aboard small pleasure craft.

While the motor car or recreational vehicle still serves as the principal mode of transportation, travel by plane is becoming increasingly popular. This year, about 28 per cent of all vacationers are expected to travel by air. According to recent surveys by the Conference Board, air travel already shows a 40 per cent increase over a year ago.

Travel Agent says the most popular destinations during the Bicentennial year will include: Disney World at Orlando, Fla., Washington, D.C., Miami, New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Williamsburg, Va., Valley Forge, Pa., and Plymouth, Mass.

Some reports from abroad minimized the effects of the Bicentennial promotion programs in attracting foreign visitors to the United States during its 200th birthday celebrations.

However, the U.S. Travel Service has predicted a record number of 18.1 million — or 15.3 per cent more than the 15.7 million who came in 1975 to set the previous record.

A preliminary report issued by USTS said the foreign visitors are expected to spend $6.6 billion here, compared with $5.48 billion in 1975.

Canada is expected to provide the greatest number of visitors, with 11.7 million crossing the border, up 17 per cent over 1975, followed by Mexico with 2.5 million, an increase of 19 per cent over last year.

Japan is expected to remain as the largest overseas source of travelers to the United States, with a total of 900,000 visitors, an increase of 14.6 per cent. Travelers from Western Europe are expected to show only a slight increase — up to five per cent — while travel from South America will be up, particularly from Brazil and Venezuela.

The USTS report further predicts that the world market for travel will involve 214 million persons arriving at some destination outside their home country who will spend about $37 billion on their travels.

In 1975 the World Tourism Organization reported a total of 213 million international travelers and total receipts of $31.9 billion.

Wallace Hopeful For Good Showing

By The Associated Press
Despite a modest campaign effort in Pennsylvania, presidential hopeful George C. Wallace says he expects a "good showing" in the state's Democratic primary election next week.

Wallace, campaigning in Pittsburgh Tuesday, conceded he has not been doing well in his bid for the Democratic nomination. But he said his campaign is viable and solvent.

Two other presidential candidates, Washington Sen. Henry Jackson and former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, spoke to $100-a-plate fund-raising dinners Tuesday evening. Jackson, in Philadelphia, and Carter, in Pittsburgh, each forecast victory in the state next Tuesday.

Wallace said he expects to spend two or three days campaigning in Pennsylvania before the primary.

All three candidates prepared for more work in Pennsylvania today.

Another of the leaders in the race for the Democratic nomination, Arizona Rep. Morris K. Udall, was in Colorado to lobby for support in the state's May 3 precinct caucuses. He made a series of appearances in Denver and at the University of Colorado in Boulder.

Ronald Reagan, who is challenging President Ford for the Republican nomination, was due in Georgia today. Voting there is May 4.

The former California governor scheduled a full day of campaigning, with rallies, news conferences and television appearances in Macon, Augusta and Savannah on his agenda.

Ford planned to speak by telephone today to a dinner in Milledgeville, Ga., honoring Secretary of Labor W.J. Usery, a native of nearby Hardwick. The President is scheduled to fly to Georgia Friday for some in-person campaigning.

Both Ford and Reagan have done a great deal of work in Texas in advance of the May 1 primary there, and Reagan spent Tuesday in New Mexico, where GOP convention delegates are picked in party caucuses.

Wallace spent part of Tuesday taping radio and television shows and planned campaign stops today in Harrisburg, Philadelphia, Scranton and Erie.

"I'm not doing as well as in 1972, that's academic," Wallace told a news conference. "But I'm not doing as bad as you newsmen imply. Some of you tend to write me off. I hope the voters will show you're wrong."

Wallace has cut back his campaign because of money problems, but he told reporters Tuesday, "We are solvent. We're not going into debt. I believe in paying off what you owe. Some of the other candidates are in debt."

A committee of more than 50 labor leaders who claim to represent 1.5 million union workers in Pennsylvania announced support of Jackson.

Carter, meantime, called the April 27 Pennsylvania primary "the most important primary of the year."

"Public opinion polls show I'm ahead in every part of the state, but we have a problem getting people who support me to go to the polls."

At a meeting of Denver's Democratic Central Committee, Udall said the public should demand specific answers from the candidates.

"Make sure we're talking issues," Udall said. "The function of these middle primaries is to test us out. Don't pick a candidate idly. Let's insist on the details — the specifics."

Reagan, in Albuquerque, warned that the Social Security program is a fiscal calamity and could collapse in 30 years unless it's completely overhauled.

He told more than 2,000 supporters at a rally that revamping the system would be a top priority if he wins the election.

"That program is $2.5-trillion out of balance," he said.

"About three decades or so down the road the young people of today are going to find the roof falls in if our generation doesn't do something about this program."

According to Social Security analysts, Reagan's estimate of imbalances in the system is unrealistically high, and is predicated on the continuation of obligations without including projected revenues from people who will be joining the work force.

In other developments on the political front Tuesday:

—The Federal Election Commission said candidates turned in another $1 million in campaign money requests this week, even though there is no guarantee when, or if, they will get the matching funds.

The new submissions pushed to $2.37 million the total requests submitted since the funding was cut off by the Supreme Court. Congress is working to restart the flow of money.

—First Lady Betty Ford campaigned for her husband in San Antonio, Tex., through the Rio Grande Valley and into Corpus Christi. She planned to head into southeast Texas today.

Nancy Reagan, meanwhile, spoke on her husband's behalf in Denton, Tex., greeted campaign workers in Waco and moved on to Odessa. Her schedule for today includes more work in Odessa and then Kerrville before going to San Antonio in the afternoon.

Expansion At Snow Hill

SNOW HILL — Don Collier, district commercial manager for Carolina Telephone, announced today that $43,000 project is now underway to expand the company's central office local dial equipment here.

The program will provide facilities not only to serve new subscribers in this area, but also to permit higher grades of service for existing subscribers.

"Recently," Collier said, "the growth of Snow Hill has accelerated the demand for telephone service. As a result, the maximum capacity of present equipment has nearly been reached."

In the past 10 years, for example, telephones in service here have increased from 1,600 to more than 3,860.

"The expansion project here was engineered to enable the company to meet future growth requirements," Collier noted.

GOLD FIND
PRAGUE (AP) — A Czech farm worker killed a duck she had been feeding for some weeks for Sunday dinner. When emptying its stomach she saw a curious goldish-colored piece, which she put into her pocket. A trip to the local apothecary confirmed she had enough gold for a ring.

Prepare For Next Quake

By WILLIAM SCHIFFMANN
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — April 18, 1966, was a quiet spring morning in turn-of-the-century San Francisco.

Then, at 5:13 a.m., the unstable San Andreas Fault could absorb the pressure no more. With a shocking jolt the trusted earth turned enemy for 400,000 inhabitants of the city by the bay. The resulting quake touched 8.3 on the Richter scale and the destruction killed 700 people. There was $400 million in property damage.

Another quake of similar magnitude most likely would take more lives in a city of 675,000 people today and would damage more buildings. It wasn't until after World War II that earthquake safeguards were required in building construction.

The plastic earth roils along the San Andreas Fault, just outside the city. Two continental plates sliding against each other unceasingly finally create irresistible pressures and the plates begin to move. Eventually there will be another Great Quake, many scientists believe.

The most recent evidence that major earthquake pressure might be building along the San Andreas Fault is a huge bulge in the earth's crust in the Palmdale area north of Los Angeles.

Scientists say there is no unusual movement beneath the blister, but they are watching it closely for signs of earthquake activity.

"The best estimate of the long-range rate of occurrence of great earthquakes is about one every 100 years," says Robert Wallace, chief of earthquake research at the U.S. Geological Survey.

In a 1972 study, the federal Office of Emergency Preparedness estimated that between 2,850 and 8,840 people would die if a quake matching the strength of the 1906 temblor hit San Francisco. Property losses might reach $10 billion, the study said.

One study lists 11,000 structures built before 1923 that might topple in an earthquake like houses made of match sticks.

In a rush-hour quake, pedestrians would be showered by shattered glass and masonry tumbling from high-rise offices, according to the study.

Cars on the crowded freeway system could be involved in massive smashups, tossed from overpasses or crushed beneath overpasses.

Trains of the Bay Area Rapid Transit system would be derailed. People unlucky enough to be trapped in the 3.6-mile tunnel beneath the bay would experience at least a terrifying period of darkness and danger, the OEP study said. At worst, tons of water might flood the tunnel and drown them.

The federal report estimates that 63 per cent of the city's hospital beds will be rendered useless. The same report forecasts that more than 45,000 injured will need medical treatment of some kind.

The researchers calculate that power plants might be damaged but would continue to function. Broadcast media would be out of commission.

Ed Joyce, head of emergency services for the city and county of San Francisco, has a plan to deal with a major earthquake, but its value is questionable.

Joyce's plan divides the threatened city and environs into four major zones. The main part of the city then is divided into 10 districts corresponding to fire district boundaries. Each would have a mass-care facility run by the Red Cross.

Open areas of the city would serve as staging areas for emergency aid, and a communications network would direct help from other communities.

Fighting the expected fires will be an easier task, he said, because the city learned lessons taught by the 1906 quake, among them construction of a high-pressure, quake-resistant water system.

School children would be relatively safe, due to legislation requiring that school buildings be earthquake resistant.

"By June 30, 1977, every school building in the state will either be in compliance with the law or it will not be used," says Aubrey Calvert, chief of the Bureau of School Facilities Planning.

So far, two of the nine counties surrounding San Francisco Bay have been ravaged by imaginary earthquakes. The program is designed to test emergency reaction times of governments and assistance agencies to a simulated earthquake.

The exercises, which included reports of shattered dams, a train wreck and automobile accidents, was marred by messages unrelied, the failure of county supervisors to schedule time to take part and the selection of a headquarters building which experts said probably would not have survived the quake.

Dr. Francis J. Rigney, a psychiatrist studying earthquakes for the city's Planning and Urban Renewal Association, says there is "a massive public denial of the strong probability of earthquakes. Most people have no idea what to do, and they don't even want to talk about such things."

Bus Plays A Career Role

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—
They can't play a fiddle, pick a guitar or carry a tune. But the buses used by country music performers are important career builders and an expensive investment.

Country music stars are about the only entertainers left who go from town to town for one-night shows. Because of the flexibility needed, flying is impractical.

So most of the big-name country singers own a bus for traveling across the country much of the year for the lucrative one-nighters.

"My bus is very important to me," says Dottie West. "It's my home away from home. I spend more time in it than I do at home."

The buses, familiar sites on the interstates around Nashville, cost up to $175,000. Most can accommodate up to nine persons and are equipped with beds, refrigerators, bathrooms, dressing rooms, sound systems and, of course, CB radios.

"I don't talk on the CB a lot but the driver does," Miss West said. "Other people tell us if we're on top of Old Smoky."

Smoky in CB language means state troopers. The buses are usually equipped with everything for comfortable living except for a shower; there's not enough room for fresh water tanks, bathing is done at motels.

The buses carry the names of the performers on the side—that's good advertising—and this allows Miss West to play a joke on close friend Jeannie Seely.

"When the bus is dirty, we change the sign to read Jeannie Seely," she said.

The buses help in other ways, too. Last fall Dolly Parton and her troupe pulled into Greenville, N.C., 45 minutes before show time. A state trooper, spotting the bus, provided an escort through rush-hour traffic to a good restaurant so the performers could have a decent meal before the show.

The performers say they get lots of requests from persons wanting to drive for them as a living, but the drivers say it's not as glamorous as some believe.

"It was glamorous for a while," said Jim Webb, Loretta Lynn's driver for the last four years. "Now it's just a job. You drive a lot of miles and stay up lots of hours. You're on the road almost every week."

He does more than drive, too. "I'm more or less a road manager—taking care of the bus, making reservations, collecting money." And at 6-foot-4, he's an imposing bodyguard.

Of course, there are funny moments on the road.

"Two or three years ago, we played a club in Longview, Tex.," Webb recalled. "Before Loretta goes on, she always asks me if her hair looks okay. Well, this night, on the way back to the bus after the show, she felt something hit her in the back. It was a hair curler. She had been on stage with curlers in her hair. She's never let me forget it."

James Price drove for Ernest Tubb for four years and has been driving for Bill Anderson for the last five.

"I remember once something happened to the power plant, so I got under there with my hammer. Ernest was all frustrated until he saw that I had fixed it. He said, 'How did you fix that?' And I said, 'With my hammer.' He couldn't believe it."

Price had open-heart surgery a year ago and has been forced to cut back on his driving. He misses it.

"I've always enjoyed driving. When you've been out there that long, it's hard to get off it, especially when you've been with people like Bill and Ernest. They're both wonderful people."

Randall Edwards, who drives for Marty Robbins, is a newcomer to the profession. He's been on the road since January.

"It's enjoyable most of the time. We run into some problems. But it's good company."

Told that Robbins had complimented his driving, he said, "I don't know how he would know—he sleeps most of the time."

Webb, who like many of the drivers used to drive for a commercial bus line, recalled an accident while driving near Rockwood, Tenn.

"A state trooper ran me off the road on Interstate 40. I was in the left lane and he was changing lanes. Luckily I had a flat shoulder."

Democracy Is Up For Debate

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP)—"Is Democracy Out of Date?" will be the question for discussion at the 1976 Five College Alumni College to be held July 11-17 on the Smith College campus here.

The week-long session, which is open to the public, is sponsored by member institutions of Five Colleges Inc.: Smith, Mount Holyoke, Amherst and Hampshire Colleges, and the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

Faculty members from the Five Colleges will join Alumni College participants in exploring political, economic, scientific, social and geographic factors affecting constitutional democracy today.

Expect Another Aerosols Ban

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—The Arthur D. Little research consultant firm has advised its clients who produce aerosols that a ban on the use of fluorocarbons in aerosols can be expected within two or three years. The possibility of a ban is greater than many companies realize and it may become effective more quickly than generally believed, the firm says. Fluorocarbons are suspected of depleting the protective ozone shield around the earth, thus increasing the possibility of skin cancer.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market stepped ahead briskly again today, building on its heavy climb through the 1,000 level in the Dow Jones industrial average on Tuesday. That average of 30 industrial stock prices was up more than two points after opening trades, and rising New York Stock Exchange issues held a 3-1 lead on those declining.

The Dow has jumped nearly 23 points this week in enthusiasm over the economy's growth in the first three months of the year as measured by the Gross National Product.

And the Commerce Department said Monday that the GNP price deflator, a measure of inflation, posted its lowest rate of increase since 1972 during the first quarter.

As the start of trading today, the Labor Department said the consumer price index during the same period rose at its lowest three-month pace in almost four years.

Today's early prices included American Telephone & Telegraph, up 1/4 at 56 1/2; General Electric, up 1/4 at 54; and U.S. Steel, up 1/4 at 81 1/2.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average shot up 15.35 to close at 1,003.46. The advance was broadly based, with rising NYSE issues taking a 12-3 lead on those declining.

Lived In Car At Shopping Center

CHARLOTTE (AP) — An unemployed construction worker, his wife and their 18-year-old daughter lived for most of three weeks in their broken-down car parked at a Charlotte shopping center.

The man, Don Whittington, 44, and his family used toilets in nearby gas stations.

A policeman heard of their plight and got friends to join him in contributing toward temporary accommodations in a motel.

Some social agencies in Charlotte report the family has been uncooperative with them in the past.

Profits Up For NCNB Corp.

GREENSBORO (AP) — The NCNB Corp., the financial holding company whose flagship is the North Carolina National Bank, has reported that profits have been steady to higher in the last three quarters.

They were 26 cents a share for the first three months of this year.

This compared with 25 cents in the third quarter and the 20 cents in the last quarter of 1975, but was down from the 34 cents in the first quarter.

Chairman Thomas I. Storrs gave the results Tuesday at NCNB's annual meeting in Greensboro, the first time the meeting has been held outside Charlotte.

Substituting As Demo Speaker

Congressman Walter Jones announced that Senator Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia will be unable to attend the Northeastern Rally scheduled for April 23-24 in Dare County.

Jones said, however, said that Congressman Dawson Mathis of Georgia will be present as principal speaker for the Democratic rally.

Mathis, it was noted, presently serves as chairman of the Oilseeds and Rice Subcommittee of the House Agriculture Committee and on the House Committee on Administration.

Dare County will serve as the host county for the rally with the other 20 counties of the First District serving as co-hosts.

Aycock Glides Past Jaguars

By CHIP LAMBETH

FARMVILLE — Three errors in the top of the sixth inning helped C. B. Aycock push over two runs and a three-run homer in the seventh, gave the Falcons a 10-5 win over Farmville Central, Tuesday.

Aycock had picked up three runs in the first on four straight hits but the Jaguars came back in their half of the inning to tie the game. A third inning homer gave the lead back to Aycock. Both teams scored once in the fifth. Aycock won it in the sixth. Falcon pitcher Ed Finch threw a one-hitter at the Jaguars fanning nine, walking two and giving up no earned runs. Ricky Smith was the loser giving up 11 hits, striking out four and walking two. He did not pitch that bad, his backup was just not that good. The Jaguars committed eight errors, Aycock four.

With one out in the first, Finch doubled and took third on a passed ball. Glen Lancaster singled him home and an error on the play moved Lancaster to second. Curly Summerlin singled him to third and another error let Lancaster score with Summerlin going to second. Edward Pittman tripled Summerlin home.

Farmville Central tied the game with a first inning rally. Mike Jenkins led off with a walk and stole around to third. Tommy Cobb and stole second and both scored as David Winborn bounced a ball off Summerlin's cheek at third. Lonnie Jones, running for Winborn, stole second and error on the play moved him to third. He scored as David Joyner beat out an infield hit.

Finch's lead-off homer in the third gave the lead back to Aycock, 4-3.

Jackie Dunn walked in the fifth, stole second and scored on Summerlin's single to center. Jenkins walked in the bottom of the fifth and moved to second on an error. Cobb reached on an error scoring Jenkins.

Rex Pennington opened the Aycock six with a single and moved to second on a throwing error and took third as Chuck Pace reached on a miscue. Dunn walked leading the bases and Finch doubled to left scoring Pennington and Pace for the winning runs.

Randy Pittman finished the Jaguars with a three-run homer in the seventh after two other batters had reached on errors.

Finch led the hitting with three and Summerlin and Randy Pittman had two each.

Pergerson Leads Buc Netters To Better Year

East Carolina University's tennis team has a new addition this year and ECU coach Neal Peterson couldn't be happier. Mitch Pergerson, a junior college transfer from Louisburg Junior College, has joined the 1976 Pirate netters and his 8-4 record has sparked this year's squad.

Pergerson, a junior from Roxboro, N.C., has dedicated himself so much to his game and to his teammates that he has become one of the most popular members of the team.

"I just can't say enough about Mitch Pergerson," says Peterson. "His dedication to himself and to the other members of the team makes him a WILMINGTON—The East Carolina tennis team blanked the Seahawks of UNC-Wilmington on Tuesday afternoon, 9-0. It was the second win in two days for the ECU club, upping the record to 7-10 for the year.

East Carolina had little trouble with the Seahawks, winning all but two matches in two sets. Doug Getsinger was extended to three sets in the number six singles, while Getsinger and Bob Neff had a third set at the number two doubles.

"I have to be happy with our effort," said coach Neal Peterson. "The entire team jumped on Wilmington quickly and did not let up."

The Pirates will close out the regular season next Tuesday against Atlantic Christian College on the Bulldog's home courts. The Southern Conference tennis tournament will be played April 29-May 1 in Richmond, Va. Summary:

Tom Durfee (ECU) defeated Gordon Dean 7-5, 6-2.

Furman Takes Lead, Pirates Still Close

By WILLIE PATRICK
Special to the Reflector
FLORENCE, S.C.—Discounting the obvious numerical difference, one would be hard pressed to believe that rounds of 75-71 represent any sort of vast change.

East Carolina's Rob Welton could break that theory, though, when describing his 71 shot here Tuesday in the second round of the Southern Conference Golf Tournament. Welton's total was the best of the day, and matched with Monday's 75, the senior from Annandale, Va., moved into second place in the medalist rankings. His description makes one think he could have done even better.

"I could have had a 68 or 69 very easily," said Welton. "My left side which controls your swing in golf was in good control today."

"I was happy with today's round for a pair of reasons. First, it picked up the team score, and second, last year I started well here and played well for 13 holes, then faded when it counted. I didn't fade today (Tuesday), though, and I don't plan on doing so in the finals."

The Pirates will need another sub-par round from Welton and divine guidance as well if they wish to unseat Furman as conference champions. The Paladins lopped eight strokes off their first day 377 for a 369 and a 746 total. East Carolina slid to second with a 749, having kept within Coach Mac McLendon's goal of three 75s per day by shooting a 375 to go with Monday's 374.

The biggest surprise of the tournament has been the rapid demise of Appalachian State University's chances for a good showing and possibly the title. The Apps came in at 392 for the day for a two-day total. The University of Richmond, competing in its last tournament, moved into third with a 388, for a 778 two-day total.

William & Mary heads the second division with a 797, followed by The Citadel, 813; VMI, 815; and Davidson, 818.

While Welton was adding a 37 on the back nine to his front nine 34, teammates Mike Buckmaster and Tripp Boines found the front nine hazardous, coming in at 43 and 42, respectively. Both had led the Pirates overall Monday (74,73) but both came in on the back with a 38 and 42, for an 81 and 84.

Steve Ridge blistered the back nine for a 34 to give him a 72 for the day and a 149 for the tournament. He is tied with teammate Keith Hiller, who added a 75 to Monday's 74 for third place. Both Ridge and Hiller trail Welton, who is in second, and Furman's Ken Ezell, whose 70-73 puts him alone in first with a 143.

Frank Acker cut two strokes off Monday's 78 for a 76, while Phil Bell's 84 rounded the second day ECU total off.

While the Pirates had never in the last three years led this tournament until Monday and Tuesday switched places with Furman by an identical number of strokes, they are excited about the final round of the tournament, and what it could mean for the team.

McLendon, down to his last set of fingernails, is as excited as his team, but is excited in a cautious way. "We did not play that well as a team, if you look at all the scores," said McLendon. "But our top five stayed with our goal of three 75s per day."

"The only difference in Furman's club and ours is that they know how to win... they've been here before. We haven't won this tournament in a while, but you know, you have to start sometime."

Maybe Wednesday will be that time for the Pirates.

Chargers Top Greene Central

SNOW HILL—Ayden-Grifton High School got two-hit pitching from Dennis Cristiano last night as it rolled up a 5-0 victory over Greene Central.

Cristiano fanned nine batters in tossing the no-hitter, but walked six. Loser Thomas Hooker struck out 13 and walked two but was tagged for nine hits. He also saw five errors behind him.

Ayden-Grifton pushed into the lead in the third inning scoring a single run. Paul Ricciarelli reached on an error and stole second. Jed Hardee then singled him in.

The fourth saw two more

Chargers cross the plate. Vern Davenport singled and Steve Noble walked. Both moved up on a passed ball and scored when Rod Kornegay singled.

The final two runs came over in the fifth. Ned Craft singled and Mike Teachey got a hit. Teachey stole second and both runners came in on Davenport's hit.

The Chargers host Farmville Central on Friday, while Greene Central entertains Conley on Thursday.

Warriors Rip Detroit Pistons

BY JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

When Detroit Coach Herb Brown was asked if there was any one area in which his team was weakest, he answered: "Yeah, basketball."

But, the Golden State Warriors can make almost any opposing coach feel that way. The defending National Basketball Association champions opened their quarter-final series against Detroit Tuesday night with a 127-103 victory. Phil Smith scored 26 points.

"We were horrible," Brown said. "The Warriors played well. They can just break you down, and I'm sure that contributed some to our being horrible."

Rick Barry was held to 13 points but he tied his season high for assists, handing out 11.

In the night's only other play-off game, the Phoenix Suns took a 3-1 lead in their quarter-final series against Seattle, beating the SuperSonics 130-114. The Warriors-Pistons series continues in Oakland Thursday night, and Phoenix travels to Seattle for Game 5 Sunday.

Tonight, the Boston Celtics, after drawing a bye through the first round, begin their quarter-final series against the Buffalo Braves, and the Cleveland Cavaliers take a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven quarter-final series into Washington. Bob Lanier led Detroit with 18 points, 14 of them in the first quarter.

The Warriors, who drew a first-round bye and have not played in 10 days, showed early signs of rustiness, falling behind 18-12. But they outscored the Pistons 12-0 to move ahead for good, taking a 65-51 half-time lead.

In Phoenix' victory, Paul Westphal tied his season-high point production with 39, and Keith Erickson added 31 points. Seattle's Fred Brown was held to eight points in the first half but led a third-quarter surge that brought Seattle within five points. He wound up with a team-high 33 points.

Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn is worried about the Celtics' long layoff. "We're ready physically," says Heinsohn, "but I don't know how sharp we'll be after such a long layoff 10 days."

Meanwhile, Buffalo Coach Jack Ramsay, whose Braves reached the quarter-finals by beating Philadelphia, says his team is both physically and mentally sound.

Washington Coach K.C. Jones will have to find a remedy for the poor shooting of Elvin Hayes and Phil Chenier if he hopes to even up his team's series with Cleveland.

Sixth Game Of Series May Be Heated Affair

By The Associated Press

There's no love lost between the New York Nets and San Antonio Spurs, and tonight's sixth game of their American Basketball Association playoff series promises to be a heated affair.

The last time the clubs met in San Antonio, the game was marred by an all-out brawl in which the Spurs' George Karl and the Nets' Brian Taylor were the initial combatants, but the Nets' Rich Jones—a former Spur—was the most effective.

After that game, San Antonio General Manager John Begzos called Jones "Garbage with a capital G. Trash." Nets Coach Keven Loughery was incensed at that remark and accused Begzos of "inciting hysteria" and "trying to incite a riot."

All of which provides a highly charged backdrop for tonight's sixth game of the best-of-seven ABA semifinal series. The Nets took a 3-2 lead with a thrilling 110-108 triumph at Uniondale, N.Y. Monday night and can wrap it up with a victory tonight.

In the other ABA semifinal set, the Kentucky Colonels hold a 2-1 lead over the regular season champion Denver Nuggets, and will try to extend their advantage in Game 4 at Louisville tonight.

Jones was subdued following Monday night's game, but did criticize Begzos for his comments. "It's unfortunate he's running around doing things like that," Jones said. "All we're out there trying to do is play ball. I'm not calling any names but it's something I don't think should be going on in this game."

Nets star Julius Erving showed what the Nets feel should be going on in Monday's narrow victory. Offensively he poured in 32 points, and defensively he blocked a shot by San Antonio's Mike Gale in the final five seconds to preserve the victory.

"It's all in a night's work," Dr. J, the ABA's most valuable player each of the past three seasons, said with a smile.

The Nuggets, who waltzed to the regular season crown, find themselves one game down and going against Kentucky's home-court advantage tonight. Denver Coach Larry Brown feels play has gotten too rough, and that his club has not gotten an even break from the officials.

"It's become a physical series, and there's no chance for us in that type of game," Brown said. "I don't think many teams can play with these folks' rules and be successful against Kentucky."

But he's not ready to give up just yet.

"We have some people who respond to challenges," he said. "We've just got to come back." Colonels Coach Hubie Brown, meanwhile, isn't looking for any comeback from his club. He's happy where right now.

"I just hope we can maintain our tough mental attitude," he said.

Hit Batters Sparks Exchange By Teams

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

New York batters hit the St. Louis pitchers hard Tuesday night—almost as hard as Cardinals pitcher Lynn McGlothen hit two Mets batters and nearly sparked a brawl.

The hitting by the hitters took place in the first two innings, when Felix Millan, Del Unser and John Milner each slugged two-run homers to help New York carry a 6-0 lead into the third inning. That's when McGlothen started hitting the batters.

"I'm a big league pitcher and I want to be around a while," said McGlothen, who hit Unser and opposing pitcher Jon Matlack in the third, causing a charge from the Mets dugout led by slugger Dave Kingman.

McGlothen, who was ejected for his tactics, continued to defend his action. "I just think a pitcher has a right to try to contain the hitters. If a pitcher feels like he's been intimidated, he has to do something. I hit them as a certain measure that had to be done."

Cardinals Manager Red Schoendienst, who along with New York shortstop Bud Harrelson was ejected from the game in the third inning, managed a light comment.

"Mac McGlothen was wild all night. I'm surprised he hit anybody if he was trying," said Schoendienst.

But New York emotions were militant against what had taken place.

"I think it's bush," said Matlack, who pitched a six-hitter for the 8-0 victory. "I really think I have no respect for the man McGlothen, even though I did before. When a guy hits a batter Unser after a home run, it's one thing. But not when the score is 6-0. Everybody's got to pitch inside, that's part of the game. But not a foot-and-a-half inside."

In the other NL games Tuesday, Philadelphia topped Pittsburgh 5-1, San Diego bested Cincinnati 7-5, San Francisco outscored Atlanta 12-11 in 10 innings, and Los Angeles clipped Houston 6-3. The Montreal at Chicago game was rained out.

More

Phillies 5, Pirates 1

Mike Schmidt, who is "fun to watch when you're on his side," according to teammate Jim Kaat, cracked his sixth home run in three games to tie six other players for the major league record and lead the Phils past the Pirates.

Kaat pitched a six-hitter in one hour, 47 minutes and hit a two-run double—"My first hit in three years"—to help Philadelphia.

Padres 7, Reds 5

Pinch-hitter Jerry Turner's bases-loaded single keyed a three-run San Diego rally in the eighth inning as the Padres handed Cincinnati its fourth defeat in five games.

The Reds were trailing 4-0 and held hitless by Bill Greif until the fifth, but scored five times in the seventh to take the lead.

Butch Metzger, 1-0, got the victory in relief and combined with Greif, Mike Dupree and Dave Tomlin to snap a 22-game hitting streak by Pete Rose.

Giants 12, Braves 11

Gary Matthews hit two home runs—his second winning the game in the 10th inning—two singles, scored four runs and drove in three to lift the Giants past the Braves.

San Francisco trailed 8-1 at one point.

Dodgers 6, Astros 3

Los Angeles pinch-hitter Ed Goodson drove in Ron Cey in the sixth inning for the run that beat Houston. John Hale had a two-run triple in the second, with two other RBIs coming from Dusty Baker and the other from Steve Garvey.

Ryan's Actions Speak Louder Than Words

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Nolan Ryan's actions speak louder than his words.

To listen to the California Angels' charismatic pitcher, you'd think he's really having his problems.

"I'm still fighting my rhythm and my delivery," he said in the Angels dressing room at Anaheim Stadium Tuesday night. "Maybe I need more work, maybe it's the five-man rotation we have ... I'm just not in the proper groove."

Sounds like he'd just been knocked from the box by a barrage of home runs, right?

Actually, the hard-throwing right-hander had just blanked the Baltimore Orioles on three hits, pitching the Angels to a 5-0 victory. What's more, he struck out 12 batters, the 72nd time in his brilliant career he's fanned 10 or more but the first time since June 14, 1975.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Cleveland Indians defeated the Texas Rangers 9-1, the New York Yankees edged the Chicago White Sox 5-4, the Boston Red Sox routed the Minnesota Twins 12-3, the Milwaukee Brewers edged the Kansas City Royals 5-4 and the Oakland A's beat the Detroit Tigers 6-5.

Ryan, 2-1, has allowed eight hits in 25 innings this season. He stopped Kansas City on four hits last week, after losing his first start of the season against Oakland even though he only allowed one hit in the seven innings he worked.

Bill Melton drove in three runs with a double and a single to back Ryan's 24th Career shutout, and Dave Chalk added three hits.

Melton singled home one run in the sixth and doubled in two more in the seventh, bringing his season RBI total to 10. Sacrifice flies by Chalk and Jerry Remy accounted for the other Angels runs.

Red Sox 12, Tigers 3
The Red Sox, held to six home runs in their first nine games, raked Tiger pitchers for four homers Tuesday night. Dwight Evans drove in four runs with a homer and a double, while Jim Rice, Carl Yastrzemski and Carlton Fisk also homered.

Yankees 5, White Sox 4
RBI singles by Thurman Munson and Chris Chambliss helped the Yankees beat Chicago behind the standout relief pitching of Tippy Martinez, who held the White Sox scoreless for five innings.

Martinez replaced starter Dock Ellis in Chicago's four-run third and held them scoreless until the eighth, when he gave way to Dick Tidrow and then Sparky Lyle.

Indians 9, Rangers 1
Gaylord Perry returned to Cleveland, only to be routed in a seven-run seventh inning and tagged with the loss. Alan Ashby's two-run single and Frank Duffy's two-run double highlighted the burst, though both came off relievers who followed Perry, traded by the Indians last June.

Brewers 5, Royals 4
Pedro Garcia drove in two runs and scored twice to pace the Milwaukee attack in a game twice delayed by rain, for a total of one hour 22 minutes.

Pete Broberg checked the Royals on two hits through five innings, then Billy Champion and Ed Rodriguez preserved the victory.

A's 6, Tigers 5
Don Baylor, obtained from Baltimore in the controversial Reggie Jackson trade, singled home Claudell Washington to cap a three-run rally in the ninth that lifted Oakland to victory. Joe Rudi had tied the game with a two-run single.

Memphis Seeks Spirit Team

MEMPHIS (AP)—A group of Memphians is to meet with owners of the Spirits of St. Louis in New York Friday about the possibility of moving the American Basketball Association franchise to Memphis, the Commercial Appeal reports.

The newspaper said in its Wednesday morning edition that the Memphis group will include Mike Storen, executive vice president of the now defunct Memphis Grizzlies and former president of the old Memphis Sounds ABA franchise, and businessman Stan Waxman.

Waxman was active in an unsuccessful drive last summer to keep the Sounds in Memphis. The team eventually moved to Baltimore where it folded before the 1975-76 season started.

Waxman said the meeting will just be exploratory. "We going strictly to discuss. We're listening."

Storen could not be reached for comment.

The Spirits have drawn poorly in St. Louis this season despite such young basketball talent as Marvin Barnes and Moses Malone.

The Spirits also had their trouble with personnel changes. Former Sounds coach Joe Mulaney finished the season as the Spirits coach, after Rod Thorn was dropped in mid-season.

Here's How They Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes April 9 through 15.

House
BASE CLOSINGS — Rejected, 152 for and 202 against, an amendment requiring the Defense Department to give Congress at least three years notice of plans to cut a military base's level of operations by 50 per cent or more.

Retroactive to 1973, the amendment was aimed only at averting the Army's substantial reductions of force and closings this year at some 30 bases nationwide. It was proposed to HR 12438, the fiscal 1977 defense procurement bill later passed and sent to the House.

Rep. Leo Zeferetti (D-N.Y.), a supporter, said: "... decisions whether to move a defense installation or shut it down should be made with emphasis on the human element and the impact on the local economy."

One opponent, Rep. Richard Ichord (D-Mo.), said: "This amendment would require the operation of our defense forces not for the primary purpose of defending the U.S., but for the economic concerns of local, self-serving interests."

Rep. Walter Jones (D-1) voted "yes."

Reps. L. H. Fountain (D-2), Ike Andrews (D-4), Stephen Neal (D-5), Richardson Preyer (D-6), Charles Rose (D-7), W. G. Hefner (D-8), James Martin (R-9), James Broyhill (R-10) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "nay."

Rep. David Henderson (D-3) did not vote.

B-1 BOMBER — Rejected, 177 for and 210 against, an amendment that sought to delay production of the B-1 bomber. This rejection left intact the Air Force's plan to spend about $960.5 million in fiscal 1977 to buy its first three B-1's.

The amendment, proposed to HR 12438 (ABOVE VOTE), specified that the money could not be spent until after Feb. 1, 1977, and then only if the President certified to Congress that purchases of the controversial B-1's would be in the "national interest."

The Air Force envisions the B-1 as its next manned bomber, replacing the B-52 and supplementing the offensive power of land- and sea-based missiles.

Supporters of the amendment generally questioned the technological performance of the B-1 and raised the concern of whether the plane would help or hurt the nation's military capability. Rep. John F. Seiberling (D-Ohio), the sponsor, said Congress faces "no compelling need to give final authorization to the production phase" at this time.

Opponents generally hailed the B-1 as a valuable and long-overdue addition to the U. S. arsenal. One complained that "for eight years we have studied and re-studied the B-1." Another opponent, Rep. William Whitehurst, (R-Va.), said the delay would add "approximately $1 billion per year to its cost and therefore... is not fiscally sound."

Jones, Fountain, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Rose, Hefner, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "nay."

Henderson did not vote.

against, a motion to send back to conference committee a conference report on S 644, a bill authorizing $191 million through 1978 for the Consumer Product Safety Commission and altering some of its powers. The motion instructed House conferees to disagree with Senate language empowering commission attorneys to bring court actions without Justice Department approval. The conference report was later approved and now awaits Senate action.

One supporter, Rep. Caldwell Butler (R-Va.), said allowing the commission to bring suits on its own "will result in a wasteful duplication of resources and efforts." An opponent, Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin (F-Calif.), praised the Senate language on grounds it would "eliminate the possibility that the public will be denied speedy protection from a dangerous product."

Fountain, Andrews, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "yea."

Jones, Neal, Preyer, Rose and Hefner voted "nay." Henderson did not vote.

Senate
FOOD STAMPS — Passed, 52 for and 22 against, a bill (S 3136) to reform the food stamp program by strengthening its administration, reducing the numbers of middle-income persons receiving stamps and broadening benefits for the poor. The bill was sent to the House.

A supporter, Sen. George McGovern (D-S.D.), estimated that the bill would eliminate at least a million recipients, including college students, at an annual savings of at least $240 million, and insure that "no family with a gross income, even before deductions and taxes, above $8,000 is going to get food stamps."

One opponent, Sen. Clifford Hansen (R-Idaho), called the bill a "fraud." Rather than tighten the program, he said, it would expand the scope and cost by extending benefits to more poor while it "opens new loopholes" for those with higher incomes.

Sen. Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

Sen. Robert Morgan (R) was present but did not vote.

BUDGET — Adopted, 62 for and 22 against, a resolution expressing the Senate's recommendations for fiscal 1977 spending and deficit levels. S Con Res 109, now before the House, is Congress' answer to the Administration's proposed FY 1977 budget. It sets targets of $412.6 billion in expenditures and a $50.2 billion deficit for the year, with anticipated revenues of $362.4 billion.

While disagreeing over spending levels in the 17 major budget categories, supporters generally viewed the resolution as a prudent master plan for the 1977 budget. Opponents objected on a variety of grounds. For example, Sen. William Roth (R-Del.) said the resolution failed to "impose the tough discipline needed to reduce spending levels," while Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.) complained that the military expenditures were too high.

Helms voted "nay." Morgan did not vote.

A Gallup poll uses 1,500 interviews to form a random sample.

Dismay Over Wolf-Shoot

By JOHN GREELY
Associated Press Writer
JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — For the past year, the State of Alaska has had a standing offer: take a wolf off our hands. No takers.

So in a move that has outraged people living in states where the wolf is virtually extinct, government biologists are shooting the animals from airplanes and helicopters.

The wolf body count since mid-February: about 85. Each one has cost about $1,000 to track down and kill. The state hopes to kill 200 or about 2 percent of the state's wolf population.

"This offer still stands," says Gov. Jay Hammond, himself a retired wolf hunter. "We would rather export wolves than kill them."

"However, this takes money and willing recipients. Both, to date, have been in short supply."

Hammond says the wolf packs must be thinned. Biologists say the animals are gobbling up too many moose and caribou and have developed a taste for pet dogs.

Environmentalists who tried to stop the killing say wolves are getting a bum rap.

Alaskan officials were serious when they asked if other people would like to have a wolf.

The University of Nevada at Las Vegas — whose sports teams are "The Wolfpack" — asked for one as a mascot. They were turned down because the animals must go to a wilderness or semiwilderness area.

Another stipulation: all costs of catching and transplanting the wolf must be borne by the out-of-stater. This could easily reach several thousand dollars.

Folks in the 49 other states, most of which haven't had a wild wolf in 70 years, have been "noticeably uninterested" in the transplant offer, says Ed Huizer, deputy commissioner of fish and game.

Says a veteran Washington state backpacker: "Seeding the forest with wolf cubs might seem like a nice idea to an armchair conservationist."

"But I'd like to see his face when he peaks his head out of a tent one morning in the Cascades and finds a hungry wolf prowling around outside."

Alaska is the last bastion for the wolf. There are estimated to be 8,000 to 12,000, about the same number of a half century ago.

Wolves have been hunted as a predator and game animal for decades in Alaska.

The federal government first placed a bounty on the Alaska wolf's head in 1915, then launched a statewide 10-year predator control effort against the wolf in 1948. Traps, poison and aerial shooters — one of whom was Hammond — were used.

The governor figures he took about 250 wolves in eight years. He flew a single-engine plane with one hand and shot with the other.

Now Oversupply Of Sunflowers

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Sunflowers blossomed as an agricultural crop in Texas for one year, but farmers are shying away from them now.

"Texas sunflower acreage shot from 5,000 acres in 1974 to 375,000 last year, and now mills and markets are over-supplied," said Dr. John Bremer of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Some crushers have enough sunflower seeds on hand to last about three years."

Bremer said the 1976 sunflower crop in Texas will be down to about 100,000 acres.

Surfing Combines Skills And Thrills

RIDING THE CURL—Poised on the face of one of Hawaii's giant waves, an expert surfer rides the curl, competing for the winner's purse in the Professional Surfing Championships. Once a wild ride as surfers tried to out-macho each other in risking the biggest and fiercest waves around, the sport now puts the emphasis on skill. (Photo courtesy Surfer Magazine.)

HONOLULU (AP) — When the Big Kahuna speaks everyone listens.

The Big Kahuna is a mythical Hawaiian witch doctor, a demi-god, who watches over surfing. At his command waves rise and surfers fall.

Right now, according to George Downing, the Big Kahuna is brewing big magic for surfing. Downing should know because he is a Big Kahuna in his own right. He is considered to be one of Hawaii's greatest living surfers, one of the most influential in the sport since the legendary Duke Kahanamoku.

The Duke, a full blooded Hawaiian, was three times a member of the U.S. Olympic team and winner of two gold medals for swimming the 100 meters freestyle event.

Called the world's greatest surfer, he turned surfing into a celebrity sport by teaching the Duke of Windsor, Douglas Fairbanks and scores of other notables how to ride the waves at Waikiki. Then, he popularized the sport in California and Australia and went on to appear in movies.

Duke Kahanamoku set the record for the world's longest surfing ride, a mile and a quarter across Waikiki Bay, ending up on a ripple against the sands of the Royal Hawaiian Hotel beach. George Downing duplicated this feat but stopped short of the beach by 10 yards to keep the Duke's record intact.

A man who respects tradition is George Downing. And a man who is intent on making surfing as popular a sport as baseball and football. Ever since he gave up winning all the surfing titles around, Downing has worked to develop a standard of professionalism for the sport. Now he is ready to launch it upon the world, with a world series of professional surfing to be held on four continents this year, including events in Australia, Japan, Hawaii, Brazil and the United States.

The sport has changed greatly from what it was in the Duke's time, Downing notes. In the early days of the sport, the main point of surfing was the long ride. Surfers used heavy redwood boards 17 feet long to ride a wave from its peak all the way to shore. Then, the emphasis changed to the trick ride, with surfers riding in tandem or with one standing on the shoulders of another. In the 1950s, the sport was transformed into the wild ride as surfers tried to out-match each other in risking the biggest and fiercest waves around.

Downing, 44, survived this period with a worldwide reputation for daring and skill. Many of his contemporaries, however, did not. They fell victim to crushing waves 25 feet high or a forest of pilings in the path of their waves. The high rate of injuries and fatalities gave surfing an unpleasant image and for a while threatened the existence of the sport.

Downing was one of the first to realize the damage done to the sport and sought to transform the wild ride into the skilled ride, where performance was judged on a surfer's ability to maneuver his board into zig-zags and turns while riding the face of a wave.

"The emphasis on skills will open the sport to everyone," Downing claims. "There's no need to search for the biggest and highest waves, because zig-zags and turns can be performed even on small waves. No one has to prove he can beat a big wave or be ashamed of not facing up to the rough ones."

For the professionals, though, there is still enough risk to excite the most ardent thrill seeker. Professionals surfing in competition under Downing's skill system earn their highest points for performing maneuvers in large waves and close to the point where the curl of the wave collapses. Here, the slightest mistake in performance can lead to a wipeout under tons of raging water.

Downing has also announced an award to any surfer in professional competition who can ride his board in a 360 degree loop down, up and around the face of a wave. The surfer who can perform this skillful maneuver will get a cash prize of $1,000 donated by Japan's Sake industry association, according to Downing.

"We're trying to make surfing more interesting for both the participant and the spectator," Downing says, "and to make it into something everyone can do. For anyone who can swim, it's a lot safer than skiing and a lot more fun."

Army Says: Learn The Language
By HUBERT J. ERB
Associated Press Writer
BERLIN (AP)—After three decades of service in Germany, the U.S. Army has launched a mandatory program to teach its troops the language of the host country.

The educational work done in the Berlin Brigade is held up as a model of what can be accomplished in classroom work now under way at all Army installations in West Germany. The Army also is taking steps to expose new commanders to German before they leave the United States.

Getting often reluctant GIs to study German is a pet project of Gen. George S. Blanchard, commander of U.S. Army Europe.

In a West Berlin interview, Blanchard said he has broadened an original 40- to 50-hour concept for younger new arrivals to include a mandatory program of up to 120 hours of instruction for senior officers and noncommissioned officers.

The Army chief of staff, Blanchard said, has approved giving all new battalion, brigade and division level commanders assigned to Germany a 120-hour course at the Army language school in the United States before they depart for Germany. This program takes full effect July 1.

A knowledge of German is indispensable to better community relations as well as important operationally, Blanchard declared.

He said that added language capability is but another logical step for the Army in Europe as it becomes more qualified in its men and much better equipped.

On the personal side, Blanchard added, it becomes a question of helping to give especially the young soldiers in Germany a sense of fitting in among the German population.

"I've never seen an American soldier who has a good German friend who is unhappy in Germany," the four-star commander observed. Blanchard said the most effective teacher he has seen so far was a young German girl teaching at one Army post.

"The first thing she taught the soldiers was how to meet a young German girl without getting their faces slapped," he added. "You don't just say, 'Hello, Baby!'"

Blanchard maintained that changed times, tighter money, fewer marks to the dollar and other influences have caused the GI in Germany to turn in on himself more and more. But, he said, the effort to get the men out of the barracks and circulating is an objective that must be undertaken.

Sgt. I.C. James White of Louisville, Ky., who is taking the course in West Berlin, said: "I've been in Germany 11 years, three tours, and this is the first time I ever studied German. Before I learned it all mixed up. This program is straightening it out for me. But how well it comes across is still up to the ability and interest of the guy taking the course."

Friend Of Jazz Included In Publication Series

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Sid Mark, a friend of jazz in broadcasting for almost two decades, this week kicks off a 13-part jazz series on public TV. It's called "Mark of Jazz," and you should keep an eye and ear out for it.

The Public Broadcasting Service plans to feed the show to PBS stations Thursday night. But check your TV listings to be sure that's when it's on in your area. Not all stations follow PBS' national schedule.

The lead-off witness in Mark's half-hour show — and the one next week — is high-note trumpeter Maynard Ferguson and his big, roaring band.

Mark, who coproduces as well as hosts the series, is an old pal of the Canadian-born Ferguson, whom he knows from the late 1950s.

The relaxed, joking beginning establishes an easy-going rapport, which is followed by some fine, shouting big-band work and solos on tunes ranging from the jazz-rock "Chameleon" to a fine old tune, "Got the Spirit."

The latter, written by Slide Hampton, a trombonist in one of Ferguson's earlier bands, was an up-tempo gospel song when I first heard it way back when.

But in Thursday's program, it shows up in a new arrangement Ferguson describes as "a jazz, rock, blues, rag, spiritual, gospel march." And he's not kidding.

Ferguson, who puts on a great show as always, is a hard cat to record for TV. His upper-register trumpet work always comes out tinny-sounding on the wee, wretched speakers of most television sets.

But in this show, audio engineer George Snead has just about done the impossible — recorded Ferguson so well that the trumpet sounds almost as good on the TV speaker as in person.

It makes for a pleasant premiere of this series, produced by WHYI in Philadelphia on a shoestring budget of $60,000, according to a spokeswoman for the station.

The series, which in future editions features such folk as drummer Buddy Rich, pianists Ramsey Lewis and Ahmad Jamal and guitarist George Benson, originally was intended only for showing in Philadelphia.

But someone at PBS saw "Mark of Jazz," liked it and suggested popping it on the national schedule, WHYI's spokeswoman said.

So see the first pop this week. You'll enjoy it.

More Women Playing In Major Symphonies

By DONALD SANDERS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Here's the latest statistic for the record book of the women's movement: the number of women instrumentalists in major American symphonies has increased 36 per cent in the past decade.

The American Symphony Orchestra League, which came up with that conclusion, also found women concentrated in those orchestras where pay is the lowest.

"Orchestras with the highest budgets, longest seasons and most generous salaries tend to have the fewest women musicians," the study said. "Whether this is a natural reflection of the kinds of work being sought by women, or a factor of the women's movement not yet having influenced longstanding employment patterns cannot be determined without further study."

The league's study classified a major symphony as one with a budget of $1 million or more; a metropolitan orchestra as one with a budget of from $100,000 to $1 million; an urban orchestra has a budget of $50,000 to $100,000; and a community orchestra has a budget below

Advisory Body Meets Thursday

A Participant Advisory Council will be held free of charge for all persons wishing to learn more about health, their bodies and health issues in the community.

The advisory council will meet April 22 at 8 p.m. at the Pitt County Health Department. The council is sponsored by the Mid-East Commission.

The study counts more than 6 women now serving in major orchestras as principals or section leaders and indicates that the number of women principals and concertmasters also increased in groups with smaller budgets, classified as metropolitan and urban-community orchestras. The data that led to the 36 per cent increase in instrumentalists was not immediately released by the league.

It found that in the period 1964-74 the number of women orchestra managers increased 154 per cent in metropolitan orchestras and 100 per cent in urban and community orchestras. But it said the figure remained relatively constant in major orchestras, with two women managers now.

The study found that six women now serve as orchestra music directors.

The league also did a more recent sampling which showed that in 1973-74, women constituted 42.4 per cent of the players in urban and community orchestras. In 1974-75 it found that the number of women in metropolitan symphonies was 40.6 per cent while 24.9 per cent made up major orchestras.

Opening lead: Ten of ♠.

Since declarer has the advantage of seeing all of his side's assets, he can manipulate the play with a certain amount of cunning to mislead the defenders. Today's declarer performed a considerable feat of legerdemain to bring home a contract that seemed booked for defeat from the opening gun.

South adopted a rather aggressive attitude in the auction. Since his only quick tricks were in the opponents' suit, he might have been wiser to pass three spades. Even though his partner had jumped, North was a passed hand and the chances for game were sketchy at best. North, however, had a most suitable hand, so four spades was by no means an unreasonable undertaking.

West led the ten of hearts, and declarer was not pleased with his prospects. It was certain that East held no more than one heart, and there was no fast way to draw trumps, since declarer was missing the ace. It seemed inevitable that East would get at least one heart ruff, and that the fate of the contract would depend on the diamond finesse. Rather than rely on the position of the king of diamonds, declarer elected to pursue a devious course in an attempt to conceal his distribution.

The first step in declarer's plan was to win the opening lead with the king of hearts, rather than the jack, planting in West's mind the thought that East held jack-third of hearts. Stage two was to lead the jack of spades, with all the innocence of a player about to take a finesse. West saw no reason to go up with the ace, and that was that. Declarer led a second trump, drawing both outstanding cards in the suit.

West tried his best by underleading the ace of clubs, but his overall had marked him with that card. Declarer shot up with dummy's king and conceded a diamond trick. The defenders took their club trick, but that was their third and last trick, for declarer later disposed of his jack and three of hearts on dummy's long diamonds.

Your DAILY HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The best part of today is early morning, so be up early if you want to accomplish much of value. It becomes difficult to get your points across later. There is also apt to be problems with transportation. Keep calm, poised.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) During a.m. a friend can be of great assistance. Don't expect much cooperation from anyone later. Postpone personal decisions.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Handle career matter well in a.m. Later you may discover that higher-ups are not apt to go along with your ideas, desires.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Your intuition is fine for handling present responsibilities. Change your tactics if obstacles occur. Relax in p.m.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Give attention to some association matter in a.m., then you can do the work necessary later. If others oppose you, await a better day.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Schedule your time and activities wisely or you get little done. Take better care of your health. Relax with family in p.m.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Relieve tensions with relaxation. All appears well with mate, but a quarrel may start if you take the bait. Don't lose your temper.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Disturbances may come up at home that should be handled quickly. Be gentle. Study new interests but wait for action.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) See persons early who can assist you. Drive with utmost care and be careful of other drivers, those who may be intoxicated.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study financial affairs to know exactly where you stand. Make no definite decisions about investments. Postpone seeing experts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Improve appearance in a.m. Later handle bothersome problems tactfully. Postpone entertainments, recreation for the time being. Study.
