

Carter Sees Pa. Victory As Crucial Door-Opener

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Jimmy Carter combined a big popular vote victory with an unexpected lead in the battle for delegates and said today that Pennsylvania marked the "last gasp" of any organized movement to stop his drive for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

The former Georgia governor, boasting that "we're now No. 1," had won or was leading for 65 of the state's 178 delegates to the national convention as the vote count continued today. Some results were not expected until Friday.

At a morning news conference, Carter said, "It would be unlikely that I could be stopped now unless I made a mistake and the biggest mistake would be to become arrogant."

There were two separate contests in Pennsylvania — one indicating popular preference, the other to select delegates. With 97 per cent of the vote counted, Carter, with his seventh primary victory in nine states, had 37 per cent of the popular vote.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, who had said he expected to lead the delegate race, ran second to Carter in the popular vote and fourth in the delegate contest.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, who has said he will not campaign in the primaries but would accept the nomination if offered it, said the victory in Pennsylvania gave Carter a lot of momentum, but noted there's still a long way to go before the nominating convention in July.

In an interview on ABC's "Good Morning America," Humphrey said he was giving some consideration to allowing establishment of a Humphrey-for-President committee with his blessing.

President Ford, unopposed in Pennsylvania and apparently assured of all 103 Republican delegates, was in Texas, preparing for the May 1 primary and a potential showdown with challenger Ronald Reagan.

In remarks prepared for a forum in Tyler, Ford issued his strongest rebuttal yet to Reagan's charges that America is second to the Soviet Union in military strength. "Simplistic and superficial charges based on limited information and experience could lead to irresponsible and potentially harmful policy decisions," he said.

With 87 per cent of the 9,638 Pennsylvania precincts reported, Carter led for 65 delegates, U.S. Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona was ahead for 22, Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp had 17, Jackson had 16 and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace had 3. There were 44 uncommitted.

Voters actually cast ballots for only 134 delegates; the other 44 are being apportioned on the basis of the popular vote totals.

In the popular contest, with 97 per cent of the vote counted: Carter had 494,218 or 37 per cent.

Jackson had 330,210 or 25 per cent.

Udall had 251,846 or 19 per cent.

Wallace had 152,785 or 11 per cent.

Shapp had 35,566 or 3 per cent.

Antiabortion candidate Ellen

McCormack had 38,941 or 3 per cent.

Former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris, who quit the race earlier, had 13,628 or 1 per cent.

Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh, who also withdrew, had 16,740 or 1 per cent.

Cancel Visit By Kissinger

By BARRY SCHWEID

Associated Press Writer
KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — The government of Zaire has called off Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's visit to it on Thursday and Friday, and U.S. officials blame Soviet diplomats.

One member of Kissinger's staff said a formal protest to Moscow was contemplated.

"We know for a fact that the Soviets have been agitating with the Ghanaian government and with Ghanaian students over the visit," he said.

U.S. Ambassador Shirley Temple Black sent a telegram Tuesday from Accra saying Ghanaian officials had requested cancellation because the chief of state, Col. Ignatius Acheampong, was sick.

The cancellation was the second for the secretary's first African tour. Nigeria was dropped from the schedule before Kissinger left Washington because of the Nigerian government's recent hostility toward the United States over Angola.

Officials said Kissinger might ask Mrs. Black to meet him Friday in Liberia for a report on the situation in Ghana. He had expected to discuss a commodity agreement with the Ghanaians to protect their cocoa crop from fluctuations in world prices.

Arriving in Zaire Tuesday from Zambia, Kissinger appeared cheered by a reception featuring hundreds of dancers swaying to the rhythm of drums.

He was scheduled to meet today with President Mobutu Sese Seko.

"The history of Zaire is closely linked to that of its friendship with the United States," Kissinger said on his arrival. He said America has always supported the independence of the former Belgian Congo.

The secretary said a major problem for Africa was the attempt by "external powers" to divide the continent into hostile blocs. He made new promises of U.S. help for the uncertain economic situation, the search for racial justice in Africa and the need for African peoples to gain true independence.

Kissinger's demand for black majority rule in Rhodesia within two years, made in a policy speech in Lusaka, Zambia, Tuesday, was condemned by Rhodesia's white rulers and aroused no enthusiasm in its black nationalists.

Dr. Edward Gbellah, vice president of one faction of the African National Council, said the statement was an "anticlimax."

"Dr. Kissinger has offered nothing that is new to the blacks in their fight to free Rhodesia," he declared.

Former Residents Victims

KINSTON — A Kinston couple — former residents of Greenville — were among 37 persons reported dead or missing in the crash of an American Air Lines Boeing 727 jet-liner in the Virgin Islands, Tuesday.

The couple, among about 80 passengers and seven crew members aboard Flight 625 from Providence, R.I., which stopped at Kennedy Airport in New York, were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Charles "Dusty" Skinner of 1000 Pollock St.

Members of the family said Skinner's brother, O. S. "Scotty" Skinner — an American Air Lines executive from Darien, Conn. — was at Kennedy Airport yesterday and saw the couple board the airliner.

Kinston relatives said the couple's names were not included on a list of survivors, and are presumed dead, but noted that two of the passengers were still listed as missing.

Skinner, 68, was a native of Greenville and worked for the E.B. Ficklen Tobacco Co. in Greenville from 1930 until December, 1963. He was a Ficklen vice-president when the firm merged into the new Carolina Leaf Tobacco Co. in January 1964.

He was a sales supervisor for Carolina Leaf in Kinston. Mrs. Skinner, 67, was the former Margaret Pleasants of Huntington, W. Va.

Their relatives include two daughters, Mrs. Hubert Parrott of Kinston, and Mrs. Roy Upchurch of Durham; one son, Joseph Pleasants Skinner of Dallas, Texas, and six grandchildren.

Thirty-Seven Die In Wreck Of 727

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, St. Thomas, Virgin Islands (AP) — American Airlines today reported 37 persons dead or missing in the crash of a Boeing 727 jet-liner on a runway that officials say is dangerously short.

The Knud-Hansen Hospital said it treated 57 persons injured in the crash Tuesday afternoon. There was still some confusion, but it appeared that 51 of the injured were aboard the plane and six were bystanders on the ground.

The hospital said it was holding 19 of the injured for further treatment. Two others who were badly burned were flown to Puerto Rico. The rest were released from the hospital.

The airline said there were 81 passengers and a crew of seven aboard the plane, including three infants. It said the dead or missing included 35 passengers.

Crops Feeling Long Dry Spell

Slight weekend rain showers left Pitt County crops unquenched according to Pitt Agricultural Extension Agent Ed Yancey.

"Tobacco is not growing in the fields too well, although I have not heard of any widespread dying problems," Yancey said. "The main problem is running out of water for the plant beds."

"The corn seems to be growing up well. Small grains such as wheat have drastically had their yields reduced," he continued.

"If the drought continues another week the crops may suffer and many more plants may die."

"The recent cold weather never is good on tobacco because it caused plants in the field to harden which makes topping harder."

Pitt County Forest Ranger Mark Webb explained that the drought has increased the possibility of forest fires.

"In 1975 we had only 16 fires, but this year we have already had 39 fires," he said.

"All burning permits are still cancelled until the area has received a sufficient amount of rain. Persons should also know that our rangers are patrolling the area and charging anyone who has built a fire because of the dry conditions," Webb said.

Asking Increase In Fuel Charge

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The Duke Power Co. has asked for an increase in its fuel charge for June. If the Utilities Commission grants it, North Carolina customers will be paying the most so far this year for their electricity.

The charge is based on fuel costs in previous months. The utility says that last month some of its nuclear generating units were being refueled, adjusted and repaired, and this increased its coal consumption. It said coal costs about five times as much as nuclear fuel.

Duke asked the commission Tuesday for a June charge of $1.12 per 1,000 kilowatt hours, on top of the basic fuel charge of $7.92 included in its rates.

Commission approval of fuel-charge increases or decreases is considered routine, unless it finds fault with figures submitted by a utility.

Three-Day Visit By Bloodmobile

The Bloodmobile continued its three-day visit to East Carolina University today with a 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. blood drive at Wright Auditorium.

Thursday's schedule also calls for a 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. visit, according to Mrs. Ruth Taylor, executive secretary of the Pitt County Red Cross.

The campus blood drive is sponsored by the Inter-Fraternity Council at ECU.

Vernon White Is Candidate Again

State Senator Vernon E. White of Winterville announced today that he is a candidate for reelection to one of the two seats from the Sixth Senatorial District.

White, a farmer and businessman, has represented the Sixth District for the past eight years, serving in the 1969, 1971, 1973-74, and 1975-76 General Assemblies. The district serves Pitt, Martin, Edgecombe and Halifax Counties.

White was instrumental in the 1969, 1971, 1973, and 1975 General Assemblies in helping East Carolina University expand its programs and is securing funds to establish a four-year medical school at ECU. He also served on the Appropriations, Higher Education Committees, and the Medical Manpower Commission that recommended establishment of a degree-granting school at ECU.

Allsbrook Files For Reelection

Julian R. Allsbrook of Roanoke Rapids announced that he has filed as a candidate for reelection as state senator from the Sixth Senatorial District in the August 17 Democratic primary.

The Sixth District, composed of Pitt, Martin, Edgecombe and Halifax Counties, is allotted two Senate seats.

Allsbrook, senior senator in the General Assembly, will be seeking his 11th two-year term. He also served one term in the State House of Representatives.

BURNED OUT

The same night that Hilda Williams' house burned (her need for household goods and clothing for her children and herself was written up in Monday's Hotline column), Mrs. Margaret Joyner's house also burned. It apparently was ignited when flames spread from the other house.

Mrs. Joyner, who lives alone, lost everything she owned. She has been given clothes and dishes, but is in need of almost all other household items, including furnishings for a bedroom and living room and a dining table and chairs.

Anyone who wishes to share with Mrs. Joyner, who has severe physical illness which makes her unable to work, may contact Beverly Wheeler at 758-2167 or at P. O. Drawer 1546. Mrs. Wheeler said anything offered Mrs. Joyner, which she can use, will be picked up from the donor.

Traveling Nurse Provides Care To Elderly, Disabled

By JOHN HAYES
Salem Capital Journal
KERNVILLE, Ore. (AP) — It had been raining hard for nearly a week when Normajeane Haller set out for the Weslow farm on the lower Siletz River. She knew the river would be nearly at flood stage and wondered whether she could cross safely.

Driving down the winding gravel road along the north bank between Siletz and Kernville, she made the long loop around Euchre Mountain and pulled off the road at a small garage beside a creek. By the time she had gathered her nurse's equipment and large limbs as it rushed by, but when Weslow beached the riverboat in the creek mouth, Mrs. Haller stepped in. Weslow swung the craft out into the powerful current, and in a few minutes they both landed on the far bank before the Weslows' farmhouse.

Normajeane Haller is carrying on one of the oldest traditions in the nursing profession: she travels the back roads of the rugged Coast Range bringing nursing care to elderly and disabled people in all parts of Lincoln County.

She is a registered nurse, part of the Lincoln County health department's home health agency. The agency, started in 1966, has become one of the department's most successful and appreciated programs.

With two other nurses, two physical therapists and two office clerks, Mrs. Haller is taking the health department's services into the homes of people who need them most. Her patients avoid the expense and unhappiness that can result from an extended stay in a hospital or a nursing home.

TRIP OF MERCY—Normajeane Haller, a nurse, rides across the Siletz River in Oregon with Joe Weslow to visit Weslow's mother. Because nursing help is available, Weslow's mother need not go to a hospital, where costs would be $100 per day.

Mrs. Haller was visiting Etha Weslow, 75, a cheerful woman who fills an active and essential role in her farming family although she has been confined to a wheelchair since her leg was amputated last year. Recently she also fell and broke her hip.

Without Mrs. Haller's visits she would probably have to be placed in a Portland hospital. Apart from the trauma of being away from her husband and son, it would cost the Weslows about $100 a day.

Mrs. Weslow still does all the cooking and much of the housework. "I've been here 53 years," she said, "and I always had to do for myself."

Nurse Haller made this trip to give her a blood pressure test and a blood sugar test. It is vital for Mrs. Weslow to know whether her low sugar diet is keeping her blood sugar level within reasonable limits.

Mrs. Haller was in no hurry to leave once the tests had been completed. She finds herself serving the elderly patients in ways that sometimes are not directly related to health.

"I find myself acting as an adviser to some of my patients," she said. "They know me, and when they have trouble they get ahold of me."

Mrs. Haller was trained in Baker, Ore., at the St. Elizabeth School of Nursing, and joined the county's program the first year it started. She has been in every valley and mountain community in the county and counts hundreds of elderly patients as personal friends.

Mrs. Weslow's husband, Joe, 77, and her son, Joe Jr., are among the last active dairy farmers in Lincoln County. Despite the elder Weslow's age, he has his hands full managing his herd of cattle. He and his son work the farm every day. The nursing visits have helped to hold his family together and have saved them money.

Send Plumber's Wife A Get-Well Card

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago I had some plumbing done. Due to some financial troubles, I wasn't able to pay the bill within 30 days.

Yesterday I received another bill with a note from the plumber's wife, who does his bookkeeping. It read: "Jim does not expect to take this bill out in trade, so please remit!" And she signed her name.

I sent a check for the full amount and enclosed the following note: "I was not aware that your husband was in the habit of taking his bills out in trade, but if he does, I feel very sorry for you." And I signed my name.

My son saw the note from the plumber's wife to me and recommended that I take it to a lawyer and sue the woman for slander.

What would you do?

INSULTED

DEAR INSULTED: I would send her a get-well card. She is sick. (I would also let the plumber know what kind of statements his wife is sending out with his statements.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 55-year-old woman with a problem I've never seen in your column.

I have been going with this man for six years. He is 43, and he says he can't marry me because he promised his mama before she died three years ago that he wouldn't get married until his daddy got married, as she didn't want his daddy to be left all alone.

His daddy hasn't got anybody to marry, and he isn't even looking.

Abby, I am no spring chicken, and I need to know how I can get this man to either let me quit him or marry me.

NO SPRING CHICKEN IN ADA, OKLA.

DEAR NO: Only a dumb cluck would coop herself up waiting for her boyfriend's daddy to marry. Get another rooster on the roster.

DEAR ABBY: Last night was the last straw. I cannot spend another morning picking up my garbage after my neighbor's dog has spread it all over my backyard. I turned the porch light on, and I could see Sam's tail wagging with his head in my garbage can. Then he tipped the can over, and the garbage was strewn all over my yard.

This morning I called Sam's owner and asked him to please come and clean up my yard because his dog had turned over my garbage can. He asked me how I knew it was Sam, and I told him I recognized him because he comes over every day to defecate on our grass. Then I asked him to please keep his dog tied up.

He said he couldn't because I was the neighbor who complained to the police about his dog's howling and barking when he was tied up. Then he told me to get a garbage can with a good lid on it, and he hung up.

Abby, I am ready to move out of this house because of that dog. Can you help me?

FORT BRAGG

DEAR FORT: There ARE garbage cans with lids that are "dog proof." Ask at your hardware store. It's much cheaper than moving.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Mrs. Nancy Warren was named the outstanding Pilot of the Year during the program meeting of the Pilot Club of Greenville, Inc., held Monday evening at the Ramada Inn.

many special activities in the club with special emphasis on this formation of the Anchor Club at Rose High School. In giving a review of Mrs. Warren's involvement, Miss White mentioned Safety Town, establishment of the Anchor Club and many positions of leadership from a member of the Executive Board to vice president. Mrs. Warren became a Pilot member in April, 1968.

She is a trust officer at North Carolina National Bank and is married to Lt. Clifton Warren, Greenville Police Department. They have two children, Clifton, Jr. and Debbie.

Mrs. Quida Deber and Mrs. Addie Jenkins were presented certificates in recognition of their contribution to the club.

The first Pilot of the year award was presented to Mrs. Ann DeLamater in 1966.

Mrs. Nancy Warren

Miss Ruth White, 1975 recipient acting on behalf of the club, presented her with a silver bowl on which is engraved the names of former Pilot of the Year. She also gave her a plaque engraved with the principles which Pilot members embrace.

Members Hear Guest Speaker

The Home Life Department of the Woman's Club held its April meeting at the club building.

Mrs. Sylvia DeRosett of Belhaven gave a talk on the "Status of Women."

She is a member of the N. C. Council on Status of Women and is also regional coordinator for the counties of Pitt, Martin, Beaufort, Bertie and Hertford. She will meet with the Pitt County Commissioners May 5 to try to organize a Pitt County Council.

The meeting was conducted by Chairman Alya Ray Taylor. The devotional was given by Mrs. Eula Mae Cannon and a silent prayer was given in memory of Miss Elsie Seago.

Mrs. Lila Murphy will serve as new treasurer of the group.

Mrs. Flora Howard, Mrs. Addie Highsmith, Mrs. Virginia Spencer, Mrs. Mary Knapp and Mrs. Cotten Smith were hostesses for the meeting.

Environmental Impact Report

The impact of the National Environmental Research Center on the Raleigh-Durham Chapel Hill area was brought home in an environmental impact statement.

The report said that the population of Wake, Durham and Orange Counties will be boosted by 105,000 if the research facility is completed by the end of the century.

Only a fraction of that number of people will actually be working in the center. Some 12,000 persons and the families are expected. Related jobs and services created by the new payroll would bring about the remainder of the growth.

The center was initiated in 1965 with an appropriation from Congress of $1 million. Congress has now appropriated $25 million for the facilities and eventually $64 million will be needed. The proposed center will be built on a 500-acre tract of land in the Research Triangle Park.

It is not difficult to see that the National Environmental Research Center will have a tremendous impact on the Raleigh-Durham-Chapel Hill area. Not only will it mean a vast new payroll, and its corresponding boost to the area economy, but it also means big expenditures for roads, transportation, water and sewer facilities and schools.

The three counties could grow from 450,000 population to 796,000 population, to become one of the nation's major population centers.

We hope our neighbors will plan carefully for all this growth, for what happens in the Raleigh-Chapel Hill Durham area is going to affect all of us down this way.

Some planning now can eliminate some kingsize problems of the future.

Unhappy Start By Reorganized Board

Tuesday, April 20, the Pitt Memorial Hospital board of trustees expressed its concern over the proposed cut of $3.8 from the ECU medical school funds, which was to finance a bed tower addition to the hospital.

The trustees called for a meeting with area legislators and set the time tentatively for 4 p.m. Monday, April 26.

The meeting was held all right. Unfortunately it was held on Thursday night, April 22—and without any public notice.

That's a bad way for the newly re-organized board, that now includes representatives recommended by the UNC board of governors, to get started.

Meetings should be open to the public, which means letting the public know when they will be held.

Foreign Trade Zone Plans

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Coupled with the recent passage by Tar Heel voters of industrial revenue bond aid to incoming or expanding industry, experts are now launching a push for Foreign Trade Zone legislation in North Carolina.

That move, say the backers, would allow the state to compete strongly for foreign trade.

The big payoff would be in jobs, for North Carolinians, as foreign firms (or domestic ones engaged in foreign trade) took advantage of the breaks provided by the proposal.

A "Documentation Seminar for International Trade" being held this week in Charlotte (Wednesday, April 28) is the scene of the kickoff of the campaign.

While billed as a discussion of various regulations and documents required in foreign trade, the seminar features a key-note talk by John J. DaPonte, executive secretary of the Foreign Trade Zones Board in Washington.

The Push

City officials in Charlotte, the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce, Central Piedmont Community College, and the Metroline World Trade Council have already done the groundwork to push Foreign Trade Zone legislation in North Carolina.

Officials of the State Department of Natural and Economic Resources and the State Ports Authority have been involved in discussions, and proposed legislation is written and ready for introduction in the special session of the General Assembly next week.

Just what is a Foreign Trade Zone, a term unfamiliar to most North Carolinians?

Basically, it provides for a specific area in which firms dealing in foreign goods can receive and handle in whatever way the particular business requires, imported materials without having to pay duty on receipt.

North Carolina has five Ports of Entry through which foreign goods can be imported, processed, and duties paid: Wilmington and Morehead City seaports, Charlotte and the Greensboro-High Point-Winston-Salem area, and Reidsville.

The push is on for speedy action in this state because Georgia has already passed legislation permitting Foreign Trade Zones, and South Carolina is on track to do so shortly.

The zone proposal reaches far beyond the simple idea of importing, warehousing, and selling foreign goods, to embrace manufacturing, assembly, processing, storage, and distribution.

Similar operations would be possible within reasonable distance of any official port of entry, and the law permits "satellite zones" in close proximity to the major Foreign Trade Zone.

The attraction of the device is apparent, for instance, in a brief review of a foreign auto maker: the equipment and machinery, and the continued flow of parts and materials, would enter the plant without duty being paid. If and when a finished car is sold in this country, the duty would then be paid; if the auto were instead exported to another foreign country for sale, there would be no duty fee.

Within the Foreign Trade Zone, goods can be imported and exported duty free. Duty must be paid only when foreign goods are released on the United States Market. For assembly, sale, or manufacture, goods can be warehoused indefinitely, and assembled or converted into finished products.

So far there are 21 such zones in the nation, allowed by federal legislation dating back to 1934, but only recently being seen as a major boost to the local economy.

State legislation would allow various ways in which the zones could be established, either through private action or by public bodies.

Following previous experience, the likelihood would be that a Charlotte group is prepared to establish such a zone of considerable size in which some existing firms would locate, while space is maintained for future development in warehousing, sales, assembly, and manufacture.

Similar operations would be possible within reasonable distance of any official port of entry, and the law permits "satellite zones" in close proximity to the major Foreign Trade Zone.

The attraction of the device is apparent, for instance, in a brief review of a foreign auto maker: the equipment and machinery, and the continued flow of parts and materials, would enter the plant without duty being paid. If and when a finished car is sold in this country, the duty would then be paid; if the auto were instead exported to another foreign country for sale, there would be no duty fee.

The Far-Flung Opinion

WASHINGTON — One of the most important legal decisions of the last 50 years was made in Washington, D.C., last week. U.S. Dist. Judge Charles Richey ruled that employees whose continued employment is conditioned on submission to the sexual advances of their supervisors may sue their bosses for sex discrimination.

Judge Richey, in his opinion, said that, while the case before him involved a female subordinate employee and male boss, the situation could be reversed — and a finding of discrimination could be made where a female supervisor made sexual advances to the male employees in her office.

However, Judge Richey ruled, sexual discrimination probably could not be raised as an issue if the supervisor was bisexual and made demands on employees of each sex.

The reason the ruling has such far-reaching implications is that it sets new guidelines for how bosses can behave during and after office hours all over the country. This is probably how things will go now.

"Miss Roseberry, that's a beautiful sweater you're wearing today."

"Thank you, Mr. Novak."

"And that's a lovely shirt you're wearing, Mr.

Callihan."

"Thank you, Mr. Novak."

"Would you mind staying late tonight and helping me with my report, Miss Roseberry?"

"I-I-I-I guess so, Mr. Novak."

"You too, Callihan."

That night.

"Well, that seems to do it, Miss Roseberry. We got the report finished. What say we go out for a nice dinner?"

"I don't know, Mr. Novak. I think I'd better go home."

"Oh, let's relax. You know I've got my eye on you, and there is a promotion coming up in the department and I think I know someone who might be getting it. Heh, Heh, Heh."

"Well, all right, as long as we make it an early evening."

"You coming, Callihan?"

"Gee, Mr. Novak, I've got a date."

"Well, break it if you want to stay in this job."

"Yes, sir."

A small French restaurant.

"You know, Miss Roseberry, my wife doesn't understand me. You're the only one who knows the pressure I'm under."

"I do, too, Mr. Novak."

"When I want your opinion I'll ask for it, Callihan. Just eat your soup and shut up."

"Yes, sir."

"People think being a supervisor is all peaches and cream. But under this tough exterior, Miss Roseberry, beats the heart of a man with all the same desires and needs for love and affection as anyone else."

"If you hold my hand, Mr. Novak, I can't eat my soup."

"Sorry about that, Callihan."

Two hours later.

"Well, Miss Roseberry, here we are at your apartment. Can I come in for a drink?"

"Oh, it's so late, Mr. Novak."

"Remember what I said about that promotion, Miss Roseberry."

"All right, but just one drink."

"Good night, Mr. Novak."

"Get in here, Callihan. You don't leave until I leave."

Maine Easing Laws

By STEVEN P. ROSENFELD

Associated Press Writer

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) —

Prostitutes in Maine won't have to worry about jail terms after Saturday. Possessing a small amount of marijuana will no longer be a serious crime. But a five-year prison sentence will mean just that — no early release on parole.

A new state Criminal Code, adopted last year and revised this year, takes effect Saturday. It is the first comprehensive rewriting of the criminal statutes since Maine became a state in 1820.

"Most of the controversial provisions of the code pertain to the question of what areas of human behavior should be subjected to criminal law," says state Atty. Gen. Joseph E. Brennan. "We tried to get a lot of junk off the codes to make more time available for police to concentrate on genuine antisocial behavior."

The code includes such stringent provisions as elimination of parole for sentenced prisoners, mandatory life imprisonment for murder under certain circumstances, and mandatory prison terms for repeat burglars and criminals who use firearms.

Homeowners would be allowed to take the life of any criminal intruder, even an unarmed one, who refuses to leave after being warned.

In eliminating indefinite sentences, the code makes Maine unique in the nation. Judges must fix a sentence at a specific number of years or months, not subject to early release for parole. Prisoners can still get some time off for good behavior, however.

"Once a prisoner is released, he's released with no strings attached and no close supervision," said Brennan, who says parole has proven ineffective in Maine.

Among victimless crimes taken off the books are sexual acts between consenting, but unmarried, adults, such as adultery.

Brennan said prostitution is not a major concern of law enforcement officials in this mostly rural state of 1 million. He said he could recall prosecuting only one case in two years of service as county attorney in the area that includes Portland, Maine's largest city.

Under Maine's old laws, prostitutes could be jailed for three years. The new law provides fines of $250 or twice the fee a prostitute receives. Those promoting prostitution or com-

3 Letters To The Editor

To the editor:

At a time when there is much criticism of the Greenville Board of Education, I feel strongly that the people of Greenville should know that this board is not a "rubber stamp" for the City Council or to the School Administration. True, this board serves at the pleasure of the City Council, but we function under the Law of the Land and North Carolina Laws — to serve all the children of the Greenville City School District.

Today the City Council is being pressured by some for an elected school board. Serving as a board member for five years, I feel compelled to inform you, the public, that boardmanship is no 'pie in the sky' position. During the first four months of 1976 the Greenville Board of Education has logged 348 night man hours meeting with the County Commissioners, the City Council, making decisions on the Budget, the new middle school, personnel and the problems of redistricting. No decision or policy is a fly-by-night one. This board debates, debates and debate again on all issues. We don't always agree, but when a decision is made, the board is united in support of that decision.

My hat is off to the City Council as they have done an outstanding job in making appointments to the Board of Education. The present nine members were appointed from nine locations within the city. The board is made up of lay and professional people - a college dean, a dentist, a car dealer, a house wife, a salesman, an industrial supervisor, a postmaster, and two realtors. Regardless of the action that will be taken by the Council, elected versus appointed board, it will be difficult to find superior dedication than that of those who are presently serving, especially when their services are rendered free!

To the editor:

It is a shocking fact to learn that Great Britain is starting to lose skilled workers and talented individuals. They are finding they don't like the great socialistic society that taxes away so much of their income. They are moving elsewhere, where they are better paid for their talents.

According to the New York Times, a British worker earning $10,000 a year pays $3,000 in taxes. In West Germany he would pay only $2,000 in taxes and in France, less than $1,000. In some Middle Eastern countries, salaries are often tax-free.

An executive who makes $40,000 a year in Britain pays about $33,000 in taxes, leaving him the same after-tax income as a worker making $10,000. So why work hard, why try to get ahead, why take responsibility? A number of talented people seem to be deciding it's better to get out of the country.

With our present tax structure, becoming even more pressing with the increased taxation resulting from our inflationary economy where a man earns more to buy less, and consequently pays more tax dollars, will the unhappy situation existing in Britain begin to become a reality in the United States? I must believe this will not occur, but I am concerned!

Strength For Today

STAY AWAKE
A little boy fell out of bed one night. When his mother asked him how it happened, his reply was, "I guess I went to sleep too close to the place where I got in."

The New Testament has much to say about sleeping Christians—the foolish virgins who fell asleep while the bridegroom tarried; the disciples who, on the Mount of Transfiguration and in Gethsemane, dropped off to sleep while their Master struggled in prayer.

Much of the weakness of the church today is due to the pronounced disposition of so many members to drop off to sleep—not just during the sermon but unfortunately during the rest of the week. Every year the church receives thousands of new members, but many of them fall asleep so close to the place they got in that they soon fall out.

What the church needs are members who are constantly awake to their responsibility to make it a force for good in society.

How Some Are Saving Money

By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — If the following items don't help you hold onto the money in your pocket they'll at least explain where some of it is going, and what some of your neighbors are doing about it.

Item One — Many people are opening up Individual Retirement Accounts that enable them to save or invest for their retirements up to $1,500 a year. Those eligible are workers not covered by existing pension plans.

In an effort to attract these savings, many banks have advertised the amount of tax-free savings an individual can accumulate in a certain number of years at a specific interest rate. The totals are always impressive.

However, most of these projections are made on the basis of today's interest rates — which by historical standards are unusually high — continuing for 20 or 30 years into the future. Nice if it happens, but it probably won't.

"A prediction is not a guarantee," cautions the Federal Trade Commission in a new advisory from its Bureau of Consumer Protection.

"Know if there are any risks that would affect the value or safety of the funds you place in your account. Know what interest rate is actually guaranteed and not just hope for it."

Critics claim it took the FTC too long to act, and that some people already are enrolled in such plans without really understanding that the amounts they think they'll get might fall far short of what they receive actually.

Item Two — While many economic indicators show a progressively stronger economy, "one noticeable drawback," says the First National City Bank, is the level of real spendable earnings — after-tax earnings, that is.

"Even though the real spendable earnings series is now 4.5 per cent above the April 1975 trough, it is still 6.4 per cent below the peak it established in October 1972," it observes.

Most of the improvement, the bank says, occurred in May 1975, when the federal government lowered withholding tax rates.

"Since then the level of real spendable earnings has zig-zagged, and currently is virtually the same as it was last May."

Item Three — For the past two months the stock market, as measured by the Dow Jones industrial average, has moved within a rather narrow range of 60 points or so, despite many forecasts that it would move higher.

One reason given for the inability of the market to break through to higher ground is the attitude of professional investors and the institutions, and recent mutual fund figures underscore that attitude.

During March, says the Investment Company Institute, of which most large funds are members, the industry was a net seller of portfolio securities.

Total purchases, it said, were $1.44 billion, while sales totaled $1.58 billion.

The pressure to sell probably was put on the funds by their own investors, most of whom qualify as that species commonly referred to as "the small investor."

Item Four—The American homebuyer borrowed money in 1975 at a rate lower than that paid by the typical corporation, the U.S. League of Savings Associations notes.

The conventional mortgage rate on new single-family home mortgages dropped below 9 per cent at the beginning of 1975, and the slight, fractional drops thereafter brought it below the very best corporate bond rates.

has saved the city more money than the planned pay cuts which precipitated it, the city's controller says.

Controller John Farrell said Tuesday the strike has brought a net savings of nearly $7.5 million. That is nearly $2 million more than the planned $5.7-million pay cut for about 1,800 laborers, carpenters, plumbers and streetsweepers.

The city employees struck March 31 after the Board of Supervisors approved pay cuts of several hundred to several thousand dollars a year for each worker. Carpenters' salaries, for example, were cut from $21,800 to $17,240, some streetsweepers from $17,300 to $12,000. The supervisors' action was based on a referendum last fall in which voters repealed the lucrative city employees' pay formula.

Now, four weeks later, "we have a pretty good picture as far as the costs," Controller John Farrell said. "We're showing a surplus."

One side of the ledger shows a revenue loss of about $504,000, including $96,000 from parking tickets, $144,000 from parking meters, $67,000 in golf course fees and $100,000 in zoo admissions and concessions. In addition, there is about $320,000 in police overtime.

But those costs are outweighed by savings of almost $8 million in wages and salaries normally paid to trade union members and drivers of the Municipal Railway's buses, cable cars and trolleys.

"The net savings is particularly good in the Muni where there has been a $156,000-a-day savings and a $66,000 daily revenue loss from the fare boxes," Farrell said.

The Muni drivers, not on strike, are reported reconsidering their refusal to cross picket lines. They have lost about $1,100 each.

At the same time, there has been great loss and inconvenience to Muni's 250,000 regular daily customers — and to others in the city.

Downtown merchants report their average monthly business of about $42 million down 10 to 25 per cent. School officials say high absenteeism has cost them between $40,000 and $111,000 in state aid.

There are also signs of lack of maintenance personnel — such as a huge water main rupture in Golden Gate Park which created a 40-foot geyser Tuesday. Private repair contractors were called in.

Meanwhile, talks were held between strike leaders and the city negotiator. Executive Secretary John Crowley of the Central Labor Council said AFL-CIO president George Meany would send a representative here.

"Every segment of the labor movement in San Francisco is working for an end to this," Crowley said. "But the real problem is in City Hall. Those bums won't even talk to us."

Three Letters...

To the editor:

My confusion increases concerning the purpose of the additional avenue to move east-west road traffic. If there is to be a 50 percent increase in rail traffic through the city and if this increase will affect both east-west and north-south rail traffic, as it must if this is to be a center for routing of the phosphate around the nation, I fail to see how another road parallel to the railroad will alleviate traffic problems for cars and trucks.

We have for a long time needed additional underpasses or overpasses to relieve the bottleneck created by rail traffic through Greenville. The value of running traffic parallel to the railroads, when the problem is to get beyond the railroads from whatever direction, is questionable. It seems to me that the problem involved in this matter is much broader than whether tennis courts are built or parking for athletic events is available.

The problem has been and after the new east-west route is open will continue to be, if you are on the side of the tracks and need to get to the other side and there are trains on the track, you have only two options. One is on Charles Street and one is on Dickinson. The cost of adding underpasses may be the real difficulty for our city council. If this is so, why do they not present this to the citizens of Greenville and let us know if they are options in use of funds so that we would be aware of priorities and perhaps share with them some of our priorities? Maybe underpasses would be one of them.

Ford Says Rival Trying Harder, Swinging Wilder

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
TYLER, Tex. (AP) — President Ford, facing a potential showdown primary here with challenger Ronald Reagan, accused his opponent today of trying harder and swinging wilder because he is behind in the race for Republican convention delegates.

In remarks prepared for a public forum at Tyler Junior College, Ford said, referring to primary battles in which he bested the former California governor: "Somewhere between the snows of New Hampshire and the sunny climes down in Florida, the focus of this year's Republican campaign for the presidency began to shift away from the growing strength and prosperity of the American economy to a new and complex issue: the strength of America's military forces."

"Now, I've been down the campaign trail before and I know there's a reason why a challenger will try to shift his attack. It's called second place. It makes you try harder — and swing wilder, too."

In other remarks for later in the day, Ford decried "simple solutions to complex problems" and expressed determination to keep Americans safe from crime at home and from war and aggression abroad.

Trying to stake out his own issues in the face of challenges to his defense leadership by day night to campaign up to the eve of a Saturday primary in which he says Reagan is the front-runner.

But he wound up with the pledge to "continue to insure that the United States of America is unsurpassed in military capability" — a pledge he seems compelled to make everywhere because of Reagan's persistent campaigning on that issue.

Ford's talk to the lawyers in Fort Worth was to follow a public forum in Tyler and a meeting with campaign workers.

Although the President devoted the bulk of his Fort Worth speech to crime, he concluded, "Let us remember that crime is just one threat to peace and security of all Americans. At the federal level, we must fulfill our obligation to provide national security as well as personal security."

On preserving peace at home and abroad, Ford said, "There are no easy answers, no simple solutions to the complex problems of personal and national security. But our determination to solve these problems is in itself a source of strength. And our warning to those who threaten our security at home or abroad is the same: Americans will never be intimidated and Americans will keep the security and independence we have had for 200 years."

Ford flew to Texas on Tuesday night to campaign up to the eve of a Saturday primary in which he says Reagan is the front-runner.

The President came to Texas via Louisiana, where he went through a heavy round of public activity in the Shreveport area, whose television and radio stations have large audiences in East Texas.

Ford does not face a primary test in Louisiana.

The first stop on Ford's four-day trip, the longest he has made during the campaign season, was at Barksdale Air Force Base, La. There, with B52 bombers lined up nearby, he declared, "I pledge to you today that as long as I hold this honored office, I intend to see to it that the United States will never become second to anybody."

Reagan has been arguing that the Ford administration has permitted the Soviet Union to gain military supremacy.

More Charges May Come Up

By STEVE LAWRENCE
Associated Press Writer
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Steven Soliah, judged innocent in a federal bank robbery trial, may still face charges of harboring his underground lover, Patricia Hearst.

Federal prosecutors in San Francisco refused Tuesday to rule out the possibility that charges of aiding the newspaper heiress would be reinstated against the 27-year-old housepainter.

"There are a number of possibilities," said Asst. U.S. Atty. David Bancroft. "We are evaluating all options and reviewing all evidence which has come to light since Sept. 18."

Soliah, who has said he lived with Miss Hearst during her last days as a fugitive, was charged with harboring her when they were arrested in San Francisco Sept. 18. But that charge was dropped after Soliah was indicted here for allegedly helping steal $15,000 from a Crocker National Bank branch in suburban Carmichael on April 21, 1975.

A customer, Myra Opsahl, was killed by a shotgun blast fired by one of the robbers. Prosecutors said Soliah was not the triggerman. A jury of eight women and four men found Soliah innocent in the bank robbery case Tuesday after 6½ hours of deliberation.

The verdict came moments after state officials said a key witness for Soliah, Emily Toback, might not have been where she said she was on the morning of the robbery.

Soliah said later the jury's decision was the "right thing. I didn't know what to expect, but I'm glad it happened."

During the trial prosecutors produced two eyewitnesses who identified Soliah as one of four bandits who entered the bank shortly after it opened at 9 a.m. They said he ran down the center of the bank, wielding a shotgun.

But Soliah said he was in San Francisco when the robbery took place, and Miss Toback, a San Francisco masseuse, partially supported his story.

She said Soliah was with her the night before and the night after the robbery. But she said she couldn't remember whether Soliah was still at her home when she left that morning for a physics class at 11 a.m.

United Methodists Seeking Remedy To Shrinkage

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — United Methodists eyed a threatening shadow creeping over their church's life — a steady shrinkage in size — and weighed measures Tuesday to stop it.

As one of the largest, most broadly inclusive bodies in American Protestantism, the church typifies a problem besetting most of the major, mainstream denominations — falling membership.

"We run the risk of becoming extinct," observed the Rev. Dr. Melvin G. Talbert of Nashville, Tenn., head of the Methodist Board of Discipleship.

"But we'll turn it around. We've always made our most dynamic witness when faced with our most perilous moment."

That was a prime concern, among a host of others, as representatives of the 9.9-million-member church went into the first working session of a 12-day quadrennial governing conference — the longest, most infrequent of denominational assemblies.

It brings together representatives of a diverse spectrum of Christians with a characteristic American variety of their own — a cross-section of economics, politics, race and doctrine spread across the nation.

As descendants of founder John Wesley, they play down precise creedal conformity, emphasize the "heart-warming" sense of God's grace and pragmatic activism to implement righteousness in contemporary society.

But in the last decade, membership has declined by 1 million, throwing Methodists into second place in size among Protestants behind the 12 million Southern Baptists. The loss of another million by 1985 is projected from present trends.

"The signs are clear — the crisis can become even deeper," Bishop James S. Thomas of Des Moines, Iowa, said Tuesday night in a keynote "State of the Church" address reflecting thinking of the church's 100 bishops.

The message said people are "hungering for affirmation" of faith in a time when religion, secularism and commitment to sundry cults such as astrology and Satanism go hand in hand, and added:

"Our major task is to proclaim the message of Christ's redeeming love so clearly and demonstrate it so joyously that we will move from uncertainty to vitality."

Extensive proposals were on the agenda for re-enforcing personal evangelism among members as means of drawing new believers into the fold — a process lacking in recent years, according to a church study.

Although assumptions sometimes have been that church social action was driving out members, the study found that departures have been no greater recently than in past periods of growth.

The actual cause of the net slump was found to be not dropouts but rather a shrinking number of new converts enlisted by profession of faith.

"The problem is intake, not exodus," Dr. Talbert said. "Our people must recognize again The responsibility of being evangelists themselves, of taking the initiative, of going out and getting other folks to come to church."

In the present climate of spiritual searching, he said, "We have the possibility of one of Our greatest hours."

About 3,000 Methodists took part in opening services Tuesday in Portland's Memorial Coliseum with a celebration of holy communion.

"Oh, for a thousand tongues to sing my great Redeemer's praise," they chanted from Wesley's famed hymn.

Bishop W. Ralph Ward of Rye, N.Y., outgoing president of the church Council of Bishops, told the gathering including 984 regionally elected voting delegates:

"We've nibbled our way into lostness. The zeal of our intent has dimmed. The great claims we have made for Christ have suffered benign neglect ... but there is hope. The commitment can be renewed."

Something Else On Amy's Mind

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Eight-year-old Amy Carter was pleased that her father, former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, won Pennsylvania's Democratic presidential primary. But she had something else on her mind.

"Mommy, when are you coming home?" Amy asked Rosalyn Carter, who telephoned from Philadelphia to Carter's hometown headquarters in a renovated depot Tuesday night.

Carter also spoke briefly to about 150 cheering supporters who sipped soft drinks and munched peanuts.

Carter's 77-year-old mother, Lillian Carter, also was pleased when she learned of the victory.

"I'm so very happy Jimmy has won another primary," she said of her eldest son. "We're all so thrilled. Now excuse me, I must go home."

Merit Winner

Sheryll R. Eason of Farmville has been selected as one of 1,485 winners of college-sponsored National Merit Scholarships.

Miss Eason was a Morehead Scholarship nominee, Political Science Club president, member of the National Honor Society, assistant annual editor, member of the Keyette Club and student government and is the state secretary of Church Youth Fellowship. She plans to attend ECU and study English Education.

Lawyers Hit Proposed Changes

By DAVID R. NELSEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Changes in state law proposed by a commission that studied the medical malpractice insurance problem have been attacked by lawyers but were supported by doctors and hospitals.

In reviewing the suggestions now before the joint Senate-House insurance committee, some medical profession spokesmen intimated that attorneys opposed some of the changes because of selfish interests. Lawyers, on the other hand, said some of the changes would be bad law.

Also at Tuesday's meeting, a spokesman for North Carolina Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill said the hospital could save money by insuring itself. The hospital is part of the medical school at the University of North Carolina and is operated by the state.

In arguing against some of the proposed changes, Ted West, speaking for the Caldwell County Bar Association, said medical malpractice suits were being singled out for special treatment. Changes should be made for all types of civil suits if they are needed, he said.

Speaking for the state Bar Association, John Haworth reviewed each of the suggestions the organization supported or opposed. He, too, told the panel that any changes should be broader than just malpractice. One of the special treatment suggestions opposed by Haworth would end the practice of the suit asking for a specific amount of money. Haworth said if that is a good idea for malpractice suits, it should be extended to all civil suits. He noted that the dollar figure mentioned in a suit is what makes news.

"It is our concern...that individuals who sustain injury or damage through the neglect, carelessness, deliberate wrongdoing or incompetency of any professional—doctor, lawyer, engineer or whatever—are afforded fair and equitable opportunity to obtain redress from the responsible party," he said. Some of the suggested changes wouldn't result in lower insurance rates and wouldn't guarantee availability of the insurance, Haworth said.

Dr. Ed McKenzie, speaking for the Rowan-Davie Medical Society, supported the changes. "A crisis clearly exists. There's an urgent need for the General Assembly to act on this matter at the earliest possible time," he told the panel.

To emphasize the need for action, McKenzie said that the cost of malpractice insurance for one teaching hospital in the state went from $33,400 in 1973 to $132,000 this year and it will be $500,000 next year. The increases came even though there hasn't been a claim against the policy in that period, McKenzie said. He did not name the hospital.

Dennis Barry, director of North Carolina Memorial Hospital, said several other medical school hospitals have begun insuring themselves and saved money at it.

At the University of Florida in Gainesville, the hospital went to self insurance more than four years ago, he said. In that time, the hospital has paid about $500,000 in claims and other expenses but the equivalent protection through buying insurance would have cost about $2.8 million, Barry said. Similar programs have been instituted in Kentucky and Arizona, he said. Barry said his hospital's insurance premium in fiscal year 1971-72 was $73,000. This year it is $279,000 with a possibility of it reaching $900,000 in fiscal year 1977-78, he said. In the five years when the premium would have cost about $279,000, the insurance company paid a total of only $13,000 in claims against the facility, Barry said. The university system's board of governors has approved the proposal, Barry said. "This program would allow us to deal more effectively with the malpractice situation we are facing." If approved by the legislature, Barry said the self-insurance program would not require any additional appropriation even though the hospital would need to hire additional staff to handle the paper work.

Retired B-W Workers See Greenville Plant; 'Amazed' By Changes

By STUART SAVAGE

If there is one thing that Unicorns are, it's loyal.

Twenty-nine of them—all retired Burroughs-Wellcome employees—visited the B-W pharmaceutical plant here yesterday. Most were amazed at what they saw.

Sue Volpe worked for the firm for 42 years before retiring a year after B-W moved operations to North Carolina. She came to Greenville as a supervisor in the advertising and stationary department. "I loved it down here," she said, but returned to New York to be near her family.

Miss Volpe explained that the Unicorns were formed about 18 months ago by 75 former B-W employees—most of them still living in the Tuckahoe area where B-W was formerly located. And she is the "Number 1" Unicorn... the president.

More than 580 years of service to B-W were represented by the 29 former employees that paid their own travel expense to make the trip to North Carolina this week. Miss Volpe's sister, Mrs. Ann Terilli, with 43 years of service led the group in length of service.

The Unicorns get together regularly for meetings and luncheons, Miss Volpe said. "It's a social thing... to reminisce and talk." This, she said of the North Carolina trip, "is the biggest thing."

They came by train to Raleigh, B-W, acting as host while they are in the state, bused the group to Greenville yesterday. They were to visit Raleigh today and leave for New York on Thursday.

"It's a very good company to work for," Miss Volpe emphasized. "B-W" she said, stands for "Best in World" among it's employees.

As the only one of the retired employees to come with B-W to Greenville, Miss Volpe wasn't surprised at what she saw here, but she said the biggest thing with most of the 29 visitors was "the size of the plant," here, "the modern equipment that they use."

Burroughs-Wellcome, she said, "They are the best. Today I feel like we're having a family reunion." In all the years, she worked for B-W, Miss Volpe said

"I liked everybody." Mrs. Terilli, who retired in 1968 was a supervisor in the ampule Department. "They call it Sterile Products now," she noted.

"Needless to say, they are the best," she said of B-W. She went with the firm "right out of school," and said had she not retired before the move to North Carolina, "I would have followed them..."

She said Tuckahoe is "really a ghost town now," even though "U.S. Vitimin took over the plant. But they don't compare..."

Winifred Buckley, with 12 years service before her retirement ("I took time out to have my children," she explains.) said of the local facility, "I really think it's wonderful... such an improvement... unbelievable."

She retired before the B-W move in 1969, but she emphasized her years with the firm were "the best years of my life. It's a wonderful company to work for."

Another Unicorn, Isabelle Bases, was with B-W for 15 years. She retired in 1970 "just before they moved."

She was a Medical Department employee and is proud of the fact that her oldest son—a medical doctor engaged in cancer research—has visited B-W's Research Triangle headquarters to lecture on his experimentation with B-W drugs.

DR. F.C. GONZALES

"If I had been younger," Mrs. Bases said, "I would have come. I just can't grasp it... can't find words..." to describe the facilities here.

"It makes me sad," she said, "that I'm not part of it any longer."

But she said B-W has earned the fine facilities they have here. "They earned it through the quality of their products and the welfare of their personnel."

Mrs. Bases feel, however, that Tuckahoe didn't suffer too bad financially by the B-W move. "U.S. Vitimin Co. took over the plant. They are expanding now," she noted.

Louis Ortega was a registered pharmacist in New York and New Jersey for 22 years—including 13 years as pharmacist at the Waldorf Astoria Pharmacies—before he joined B-W in 1944 where he was employed in sales until his retirement in 1969.

For his first three years with B-W, Ortega was a special representative in Mexico, then moved to New York.

How does the Greenville facility compare to the old Tuckahoe plant—"You can't say it," Ortega said. "It's too good. We were cramped in the old..." plant. "This... it's out of the ordinary... way ahead... fantastic." Burroughs-Wellcome is "moving ahead so much."

Dr. F.C. Gonzales is a Unicorn, too. And he was a B-W Medical Department employee for more than 24 years, in charge of the Medical Department for Latin America. He consulted with physicians, but "took early retirement," when B-W moved South.

"Beautiful" is the way he described the production facilities here. "They have done a very wonderful job. You have been very lucky to get them," the Mexico native said.

Burroughs-Wellcome, according to Dr. Gonzales—who was trained as a surgeon in Mexico, came to the U.S. in order to do research then joined B-W as a consultant—"has a beautiful name in the pharmaceutical industry."

The physician, who wrote circulars in Spanish for B-W drugs, said when he retired from the Medical Department, there were seven physicians. "There are 70 now..."

Nancy Sivik, with 29 years service, was a scheduling supervisor in the production control department in Tuckahoe.

"My mother was in poor health and her doctor advised me not to move," so she didn't come to North Carolina. But she says of the plant here, "It's a beautiful place... certainly expanded a lot compared with the facilities in Tuckahoe."

Violet Spray, "one of the oldest retirees (in terms of age, which she keeps a secret) was with B-W for 30 years. A cost-accounting department employee, she says of the new facility, "I think it's sensational... it's fabulous to me."

Sikh Becomes A Counsellor

LONDON (AP) — Preetam Singh, wearing an elegant white silk embroidered turban, made law court history as the first member of the Sikh religious sect to become a Queen's Counsellor.

The 31 other new QCs were traditional long grey wigs as they were called within the bar Tuesday at the London high court.

The Sikh religion, a very strict monotheistic sect from the Punjab region of India, forbids the cutting of hair. This makes it impossible to wear a wig and is the reason most Sikhs wear turbans.

QCs are the top officers in the British legal system and are chosen from the ranks of senior barristers.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain is forecast to stretch from the northern Plains through the Mississippi valley today, with snow in the Dakotas. Warmer air is expected to move up

By The Associated Press
It's the same old story-dry weather to continue in North Carolina—and farmers and forest rangers are crying.

There is a slight chance of scattered showers over the weekend.

It was sunny today. Highs were in the mid to upper 60s, except slightly cooler in the northern mountains and along the Outer Banks.

It will be slightly warmer Thursday. The overnight lows will range from the mid and upper 30s in the mountains to the 40s in the east.

A persistent dry northwesterly wind flow aloft is associated with a ridge of high pressure through the nation's mid-section. This continues to block the intrusion of rain.

The strong, cool surface ridge of high pressure that has been supplying the state with cool weather this week continued its dominance today and will do so Thursday.

However, it will moderate a little each day.

That was the case in the west Tuesday, but not in the east. Under a cloudless sky, the maximum readings were mostly in the 60s. A few places edged into the low 70s. Western sections were up a few degrees. But the eastern counties were down several degrees from Monday.

The wind was greatly reduced, and this made for a much more pleasant day.

A gentle breeze maintained itself through most of the night. This, coupled with the dryness of the air, prevented the formation of frost, except for possibly in the mountains. Early-morning temperatures were mostly in the upper 30s and low 40s, with some near freezing over the northern interior.

It got down to a freezing 32 in Raleigh-Durham this morning. This was a record low for an April 28 and the third time this month that a new low for a date was reached.

The other new lows were another 32 Tuesday and 27 degrees on April 10.

Decision Up To Communities

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Carla A. Hills, secretary of housing and urban development, says local communities will see a need to supply low-income housing for the poor outside of city ghettos without the government forcing it on them.

She said in an interview Tuesday that current federal incentives in the form of money for low-income housing and community development projects are adequate to entice suburbs to provide housing for low-income workers who need to follow the jobs to the suburbs.

Mrs. Hills' comments came a week after the Supreme Court ruled in a case involving low-income housing in Chicago that a federal court has the authority to order metropolitan-wide public housing programs for Chicago and that HUD could be ordered "to foster projects located in white areas" as a cure for the agency's past complicity in discrimination.

Civil rights advocates have said the significance of the decision will be determined by HUD's willingness to disperse concentrations of low-income and segregated public housing, located mostly in central cities, which have become generally poorer and blacker as people and businesses move to the suburbs.

She said she doesn't know what the district court will do in Chicago or what the full repercussions of the Supreme Court decision will be there, where HUD and the local housing authority are to draw up a new housing plan. But she said as far as the national impact is concerned, "I think federal policy has caught up to the spirit of the court decision."

Mrs. Hills says it is indispensable that the suburbs receiving the benefits of the shifts should shoulder the burden of housing the people who are attracted to the relocated businesses.

HUD has two primary programs affecting low-income housing.

One involves $3.2 billion spent last year and $3.8 billion earmarked this year for comprehensive community development grants replacing the former categorical grants for model cities, urban redevelopment and other programs.

The community development money generally can be spent as the recipients choose, but there are some strings attached. One requires communities to provide a detailed plan for meeting the housing needs for both current residents and commuters who work there.

The community could simply refuse the money rather than provide low-income housing. In the Chicago case, the court indicated that communities that don't want to cooperate with the ruling don't have to apply for the federal funds.

"But I think most communities do want to address those needs," Mrs. Hills said. "I think that we aren't going to find a lot of communities shirking their responsibility" to supply the low-income housing.

The second program provides subsidies for qualified people to shop for their own rental housing and also promises developers a certain proportion of subsidized tenants prior to construction of new housing.

No Non-Italian Successor Seen

By ENRICO JACOMINI
Associated Press Writer

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The 19 new cardinals Pope Paul VI has named reduce the Italian bloc in the Sacred College to only 29 of the 118 eligible to vote for the next Pope. But the general feeling in the Vatican is still that Paul's successor will be an Italian.

"Anything can happen, but nobody here is prepared for a non-Italian pope," said one veteran Vatican journalist.

Only three of the 19 cardinals named Tuesday were Italians. The announcement stressed the international character of the Roman Catholic Church and said the Pope's choices were a "significant" selection that made the College of Cardinals "a faithful image of the entire church."

The elevation of the 19 at a consistory on May 24 will bring the total membership in the Sacred College to 136, but 18 of these could not vote in an election for a new pope because they are 80 years old or over.

Pope Paul said he named two other cardinals "in pectore," keeping their identities secret. It is a procedure used in the past for prelates in Communist countries, and they will not sit or vote with the other cardinals until their identities are revealed.

The naming of the first cardinals from the Dominican Republic, Senegal, Uganda and Nigeria gave the Third World countries 47 representatives among the 136 princes of the church. But no one believes that they could ever get together as a solid voting bloc.

This leaves the Italians the largest national group. The United States is second with 12. Then come France and Brazil with seven each and Spain with four.

The Italians have the advantage of tradition; the last "foreign" pope was Adrian VI, a Dutchman, who headed the church briefly more than 400 years ago.

The Italian cardinals have another enormous advantage. Most of them are members of the Curia, the church's central administration. They live in Rome, and they are skilled far beyond most of their colleagues in other countries in church politics at the center.

The Italians were already a minority when a successor to Pius XII was elected in 1958. The French joined forces with them to put over Angelo Cardinal Roncalli, who had been a popular papal envoy to Paris.

Pope Paul's election was considered a certainty because

Tax Take

Local one per cent sales and use tax collections in Pitt County during March totaled $165,931, according to a report by J. Howard Coble, secretary of the State Department of Revenue.

Totals of other neighboring counties included: Beaufort, $76,986; Greene, $10,293; Lenoir, $120,549; Edgecombe, $82,766; and Martin, $51,077. Total collections of the 96 participating counties amounted to $9,950,950, Coble reported.

Pope John had repeatedly indicated he was his choice. But Paul has given no indication of a favorite.

Ladies Night For Kiwanians

Three new members will be inducted into the Greenville Kiwanis Club at the Annual Ladies Night Program Wednesday, at 7 p.m. The program and buffet dinner will be held at the Masonic Temple on Charles Street. Dave Stevens, vice-president, will conduct the induction service.

Don Bailey is chairman of the Ladies' Night Committee. He has arranged for the Pitt County 4-H Bicentennial Singers to present a program of patriotic music.

No Bond For Mrs. Dupree

NASHVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Bond was denied in Superior Court Tuesday for Sandra Dupree who was returned to jail on a charge of first degree murder.

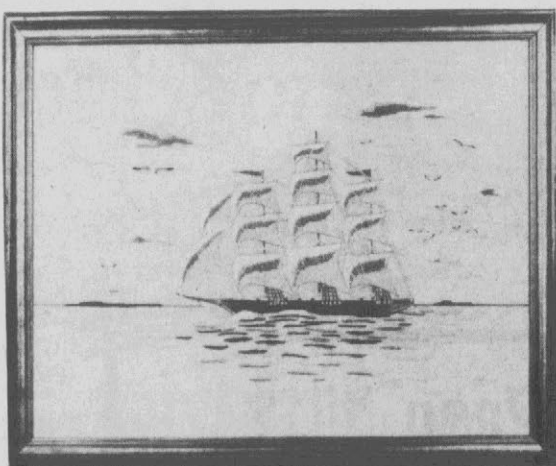

Mrs. Dupree, 34, sobbed as she left the court. "They're taking me away from my children," the mother of four said. "Everybody else gets a bond. Why not me?" she said.

The wife of a white Free Will Baptist minister, Mrs. Dupree is accused in the shooting death of Harry Lee Dickens, a young black man, in Scotland Neck last month. He was gunned down in his front yard.

Mrs. Dupree was initially released on $10,000 bond by a Halifax County magistrate. That bond was not continued by District Judge Joseph D. Blythe after a preliminary hearing April 20. Blythe's refusal to grant bond was appealed to Superior Court where Judge L. Bradford Tillery upheld the action.

By state law, accused persons are not entitled to bond in capital cases, though a judge has the discretion of setting bond.

Plan Activities For Returning Alumni

East Carolina University alumni returning to the campus for this year's Alumni Day Saturday, May 29, will be treated to a variety of social and recreational activities.

The day will begin with the second annual Alumni Tennis Clinic at 9 a.m. in Minges Coliseum. The two-hour clinic will feature professional instruction in basic tennis fundamentals by ECU tennis coach Neal Peterson and other instructors.

From 9:30 a.m. until noon, Mendenhall Student Center will be open to alumni visitors, with soft drinks and coffee served in the lobby. Bowling and billiards facilities will be available to alumni at a reduced rate.

At 10 a.m. life bridge master Miriam Martin will host an Alumni Bridge Party with several gifts and prizes to be given to winners. The Bridge party will be held in Mendenhall and will run for two hours. Forty participants will be accepted.

From 10 to 11 a.m., alumni may tour the campus in buses accompanied by guides. Special features of the tour will be ECU's new buildings.

The annual Alumni Luncheon and Association Meeting will begin at 12:30 p.m. at the Greenville Golf and Country Club, with ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins as guest speaker.

At 2:30 p.m. in Mendenhall, 12 East Carolina classes will hold reunions. Classes scheduled for reunions, and their chairpersons are:

Class of 1916: Eva Pridden Causey of Tarboro; Class of 1921: (To Be Announced); Class of 1926: Frances R. Smith of Greenville; Class of 1931: Hannah Turnage Fitzgerald of Kinston; Class of 1936: Ethel Vick Armstrong of Wilson; Class of 1941: Maisie Castleburg Freeman of Dunn; Class of 1946: Katie Owen Morgan of Lillington; Class of 1951: Leon R. Ellis of Seaford, Delaware; Class of 1956: Garland W. Tuton of Jacksonville; Class of 1961: Jannie Harris Preddy of Franklinton; Class of 1966: Joan Powell Greene of Dunn; and Class of 1971: John J. Cooper of Fayetteville.

At 7:30 p.m. a cocktail party for alumni will be held at the Lake Ellsworth Party Room, on the 264 By-Pass.

The party is sponsored by the Pitt County ECU Alumni Chapter, who will provide hors d'oeuvres and setups. Alumni and their guests are invited to attend in casual dress.

Further information about ECU Alumni Day activities is available from the ECU Alumni Association, East Carolina University, Greenville, N.C. 27834. Early reservations for the tennis clinic and bridge party are advised.

School Of Arts To Fight Curb

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina School of the Arts will fight a proposed legislative curb on out-of-state enrollment.

The arguments of the school at Winston-Salem will be that talent doesn't stop at state boundaries, and that it has been accepting more North Carolina students.

It passed around to legislators this week a memo rebutting some of the contentions of Rep. Liston D. Ramsey, Madison County Democrat, who had succeeded in getting a budget committee to adopt a recommendation to limit out-of-state students.

Under the Ramsey proposal, the school would be required to have 50 per cent North Carolina students this fall, and to increase that by five per cent a year until 75 per cent of the student body is from the state.

Robert Suderburg, the chancellor, said enrollment this fall is expected to be half from North Carolina. "Every effort (to recruit North Carolina students) has been made," Suderburg said, "with the result that the in-state percentage has increased 9.2 per cent in the past two years."

The memo said that in the current school year 51 per cent of the students are from North Carolina and 49 per cent from outside, while a year earlier 41.8 per cent were from the state.

Suderburg also disputed Ramsey's statements that the school has not recruited students in the western part of the state, and that tax money should not be spent to educate out-of-state students.

Foundry Works To Replace Bells

By IVA DRAPALOVA
Associated Press Writer

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Business booms at the only bell foundry in Communist Czechoslovakia, even though hardly any churches are built here nowadays.

Rudolf and Kveta Manousek, assisted by their 19-year-old son, Petr, work all day to replace some of the 12,000 Czech bells melted down for the Nazi arms industry by the Germans occupying the country in World War II.

The family studio-workshop, situated in a charming Baroque house opposite historic Zbraslav castle, has enough orders to keep them busy until mid-1978.

Because the Manouseks painstakingly handcraft their products on traditional lines, they turn out only 25 to 30 bells a year.

They also restore and clean bells from old Czech churches at the rate of about 10 a year.

Their biggest restoration job to date was cleaning up Zikmund, an ornate 17-ton monster cast by Czech master Tomas Jaros in 1540 for St. Vitus Cathedral in Prague.

Zikmund is too big to be handled in the workshop, so the three Manouseks had to climb the 400 steps of the cathedral tower every day and work under constant pressure from the wind that gusts through the open belfry even on calm days.

Rudolf Manousek, 67, learned his craft from his father, the first Czech bell founder to break into a domain monopolized for 300 years by German firms.

The elder Manousek's workshop, established in 1908 near Brno in Moravia, at one time employed more than 50 workers.

His son moved to Prague when the family business was nationalized in 1948. He established his present workshop with the help of his 49-year-old wife, a sculptor.

The time-consuming process of making a bell starts when designer Manousek chooses the "profile" or shape, which determines the future tone.

There are ten different bell tune categories and endless combinations to choose from. A bell must be designed so that its tone does not clash with the sound of bells from neighboring churches. If a set of four or five bells is to be cast, they must be designed to harmonize with each other.

Once the basic design is selected, a male mold is built over a cross-shaped iron base by shaping layers of rough and then finer lay over a core of piled bricks. It is then left to dry slowly for three weeks to two months, depending on the size and weather conditions.

Relief work and ornaments are added, dried again and then covered with a mixture of fine clay, matted cow hair, graphite and beer known here as "cirlem."

This female mold must dry for several weeks before the bell can be cast from a molten alloy of 78 per cent pure copper and 22 per cent pure tin, heated to 1,200 degrees centigrade.

The crucial cooling process lasts up to 50 hours.

Restoring old bells requires expertise, too. Corrosive deposits must be removed mechanically and chemically before the surface can be conserved with silicone wax, a modern replacement for the beeswax used in earlier times.

Another job that defies the amateur is welding a cracked bell. It must be preheated to 450 degrees centigrade, the welding material must be identical to the bell alloy and the technique used is old-style flame welding, as electric arc welding is unsuitable.

Bells are usually melted down for recasting if they are beyond repair.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices moved generally lower again today, plagued by concern over the course of interest rates.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials declined nearly three points, and stocks falling in price outnumbered gainers by nearly a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers noted continued concern that the Federal Reserve was clamping down on the supply of money, which has been rising rapidly in the past three weeks. They said Wall Street has been holding back on its stock buying until it sees what this week's money supply figures look like after the close Thursday.

Another sharp rise in those figures could lead the Fed to clamp down even further on credit, a move that might bring on a new rise in interest rates.

In economic news today, the government said its index of leading economic indicators fell 0.4 per cent in March, the first monthly drop since October. The index is supposed to provide a clue to where the economy is headed in the coming months.

Among today's prices, Federated Department Stores declined a point 5/4, Digital Equipment slid 1 1/2 to 177, and Halliburton was off 1 1/2 to 151 1/4.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 7.25 to 995.51. Losers led gainers by an 8-5 margin among NYSE-listed issues. Big Board volume totaled 17.76 million shares.

The NYSE's composite stock index was down 0.29 at 54.25, while the American Exchange's market value index dropped 0.54 at 102.82.

March Decline By Index

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government said today that its index designed to indicate future economic trends declined in March for the first time in five months, adding a somber note to upbeat economic reports of recent weeks.

The Commerce Department said its composite index of leading indicators dropped by four-tenths of a per cent last month. It was the first decline since a five-tenths of a per cent drop in October and followed on the heels of a seven-tenths of a per cent increase in February.

The significance of the March decrease was not clear since economists generally consider it takes three months of successive increases or declines to signal a turnaround in the economy.

For example, the economy continued growing late last year despite no change in the index during September and the drop in October.

The March report comes in the midst of other economic indicators showing that total output of goods and services advanced at a relatively rapid 7.5 per cent annual rate over the first three months of this year, that inflation is still inching along at an annual rate of less than 3 per cent and that employment is increasing while joblessness declines.

A slower growth rate and more rapid inflation in the months ahead, however, would be in line with what most economists expect.

QUARTERLY MEETING
Quarterly Meeting will be observed at Allen Chapel May 1-2. The Rev. J. L. Tyson will conduct the 11 a.m. service Sunday.

RECEIVES AWARD . . . Mrs. William Worthington of the Pitt County Farm Bureau presents a $25 Saving Bond to Wayne Worthington winner of Farm Bureau essay contest.

Tribute Paid Farmville Man

Mrs. Irby Walker of Raleigh paid tribute to the late Mr. Ben Lewis of Farmville for his leadership in Farm Bureau during the 1936-1961 period at the Pitt County Farm Bureau Board of Directors meeting last night. Mrs. Ben Lewis presented a cressel for entrance of the new Farm Bureau Building and a plaque honoring Lewis will be placed on the furniture.

Wayne Worthington, a junior of D. H. Conley High School won a $25 Saving Bond from the Pitt County Farm Bureau women's Committee for his essay entitled "What is Good About America."

Pitt Tech... Wreck...

The big jet was arriving on a flight from Providence, R.I., and New York. Most of the passengers were vacationers from the East Coast. Eyewitnesses said the plane overshot the landing mark at the Harry S. Truman Airport and tried to regain full power but failed to get in the air again.

It withheld their home addresses, but the Knud-Hansen Hospital made public those of the injured. The plane hit a four-foot embankment at the end of the runway, skidded 300 yards across the road that connects the airport and Charlotte Amalie and slammed into a Shell gasoline station and the St. Thomas Bay Rum factory.

The tail section ripped off and turned over. The fuselage skidded several hundred yards further. Its nose smashed into a palm tree. The right wing and landing gear were thrown 50 feet.

A huge ball of fire shot hundreds of feet into the air. Heavy black smoke covered the scene as survivors scrambled from emergency exits.

The wreckage burned for nearly two hours. Firefighting efforts were hampered by a lack of water, and private water trucks responded to an emergency call.

The plane also brought down telephone and electrical lines, backing out a third of Charlotte Amalie for several hours.

Pilots have complained for years that the airport's 4,650-foot main runway is too short. "We have a very short runway," Fire Chief Rudolph Jennings said. Another fire department official said it is "extremely short and they know it is critically dangerous."

Federal Aviation Administrator John McLucas inspected the airport on April 13, and the Virgin Islands Ports Authority gave him a $50-million improvement proposal. FAA officials and airline representatives at the time described the airstrip as marginal in terms of safety. FAA officials began an immediate investigation of the crash. Three inspectors arrived from San Juan, Puerto Rico. William R. Haley, who heads a nine-member National Transportation Safety Board team, was expected in St. Thomas today.

The pilot, Arthur Bujnowski, 53, of Huntington, N.Y., and his first officer and flight engineer were among the survivors who were released after treatment. They refused to talk with reporters.

Special Programs Added To Sidewalk Art Show

Three programs of musical events and a couple of demonstrations of crafts will enliven the annual sidewalk art show coming to town Saturday, beginning at 9:30 a.m. on the Mall downtown.

At 10:30 a.m., a Suzuki Program of violin music will be presented featuring Pamela and Patricia Bath, Jennifer O'Neal and Serena Matney, all violin students of Mrs. Joanne Bath. Beginning at 11:30 a.m., Bluegrass and folk music of America will be performed by William and Liza White, a brother and sister team. Twelve year old William is a banjo player, and 15 year old Lisa sings and plays the guitar.

At 2:30 in the afternoon, members of the Community Dance Theater under the direction of Christina Williams will be in performance with three dances — "Salute to the Navy," "Salute to the Army," and "Ballet West."

Craft events will center on pottery demonstrations by ECU art students, who will be located at the corner of Evans and Fourth Streets during the entire show time. They will also have for sale pottery made in the Art School. All proceeds realized from the sale of their work will go to a Summer School Scholarship Fund for ECU art majors.

Another craft, textiles, will be displayed by the Craftsmen East Group. They will demonstrate weaving techniques at a location between Fourth and Fifth Street. All persons wishing to enter works of show in the annual show are reminded that entry time is all day Friday and up until 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

No Show

The performance of "Hot Grog," the Chapel Hill based play now at the Roxy Theater on Albemarle Street, has been cancelled for tonight only. Performances will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday night according to the performance schedule previously established.

Caroline Given A Check-Up

BOSTON (AP) — Caroline Kennedy has been admitted to New England Baptist Hospital here for what a family spokesman described as a routine physical checkup.

The 18-year-old daughter of the late President John F. Kennedy was accompanied by her mother, Jacqueline Onassis, who told reporters Tuesday night Caroline was doing "just fine" and would be hospitalized only one day. Miss Kennedy flew to Boston from London, where she is studying art.

Revival Begins Friday Night

A revival will begin at the United Church of God Friday night at 7:30. The featured group will be the Full Gospel Travelers of Elizabeth City.

A singing will be held Sunday afternoon beginning at 2:30. The Full Gospel Travelers will be present with other local singers. Special singing will be held each night according to the Rev. Woodrow Tew. The public is invited to attend.

Chargers Get Revenge For Only Defeat In 18-5 Romp Past Pitt

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer
BETHEL—On a chilly Thursday night earlier this month, Ayden-Grifton hosted North Pitt in what the Chargers hoped would be an easy win. They were wrong.

A-G was beaten, 6-5, by the Panthers and so Tuesday when they went to the Panthers' place, the Chargers were out for a measure of revenge on two counts. Not only was the loss a tough one but it was the only one for the Chargers this season.

Chargers had chased it down, Vernelson, Whitley and Brown had all scored.

A-G added some distance in the top of the second as Rod Kornegay led off with a walk, moved to third on a wild pitch and a steal and scored on a balk. Hardy tripled and scored on an error.

North Pitt led the bases on Teachy in the third but Teachy got out of it with a strike out. A-G put two on in the fourth with a passed ball and a hit.

Paul Ricciarelli opened the A-G fifth with a double and Kornegay singled. Ricciarelli scored on an error on the play. After Kornegay stole up, Hardy walked as did Cristiano. Ned Craft singled scoring Kornegay and Hardy and an error on the relay scored Cristiano. Another Panther error on the same play let Craft, who had moved to third, score also.

Tuesday, they demolished the Panthers with an 18-5 win, keeping them at the top of the Eastern Carolina Conference standings with an 8-1 record.

A-G's Mike Teachy went all the way as compared to North Pitt's using four pitchers. Teachy walked two, struck out three and gave up eight hits. North Pitt started with Jay Bedsworth, put in Aubrey Wynne in the third, Tom Corbett in the fifth and finished with Mike Manning who relieved Corbett in the sixth.

Bulldogs Top Bucs

WILSON — Atlantic Christian College handed the Pirates of East Carolina their eleventh loss of the season yesterday on the Bulldog courts, 7-2, in the finale for the Pirates.

Only Jim Ratliff and the number one double team of Tom Durfee and Randy Bailey were able to register victories for ECU, which dropped their second match of the year to the Bulldogs.

The Panthers put up a brief rally in the seventh getting two tallies. Brown reached on an error and scored as Wynne's fly to center was dropped. Roy Briley singled and a sacrifice by Pritchard scored Wynne. Briley had a pair of hits for North Pitt, Kornegay had three, Davenport two for A-G.

The first inning seemed to indicate a high scoring game with A-G pushing in four runs and North Pitt three. But not until the fifth, did things really erupt as the Chargers added six and put up four more in the sixth.

Bedsworth walked the bases loaded in the top of the first then gave up a walk to Teachy forcing in the first A-G run. Vern Davenport singled driving in Jed Hardy and Dennis Cristiano and a hit by Steve Noble scored Teachy.

The Pirates leave today for Richmond, Va., to compete in the Southern Conference Tennis Championships with a 7-11 overall mark and 2-4 league slate. Coach Neal Peterson is hoping for a better finish than in the past for the Pirates, who have finished seventh the past two years and out of the top four for the last decade.

Jamesville Wins To Tie Leaders

JAMESVILLE—Jamesville High School held on to a share of first place in the Beaufort-Hyde-Martin Conference with a 6-4 victory over Bath last night.

The Bullets are now 7-1 and deadlocked with Chocowinity and Bear Grass.

Bath scored first with a run in the top of the first. Larry Anderson walked and scored when Denny Smith reached on an error.

with one in their part of the third. Davis was hit by a pitch, stole second, took third on an out, and then stole home.

In the fourth, Jamesville pushed over the winning runs. Danny Lilley walked and Larry Pierce singled him in. Jerry Anderson walked, and a double steal scored Pierce from third, where he had advanced on an error.

North Pitt used three hits and two errors in the bottom of the inning to cut the lead to one. Dwight Vernelson reached on an error and Noel Whitley singled. Roy Brown singled to left but the ball got loose and by the time he

“We have a good chance to finish sixth in the championships this season,” the first-year mentor stated. “We are going to have some surprising people there. Tom Durfee and Mitch Pergerson could do really well.”

The Bullets came back with three in their half of the first. Jerry Ange walked, as did Robbie Hardison and Billy Brown, loading the bases. A walk to Eric Davis forced in Ange, and Jeffrey Holliday singled in Hardison and Brown.

Bath added three in the top of the third for a 4-3 lead. Anderson singled and Smith tripled him in. Mark Cutler singled in Smith, and Lenny Waters' hit brought in Cutler.

The Bullets promptly tied it

RED OAK — Friday night, Mike Belton tossed what most pitchers would have enjoyed, a four-hitter with 11 strikeouts. But it didn't make him happy. In that one, he and the Rose High School Rampants bowed, 3-2 to South View in the semifinals of the Gaylord Perry Tournament.

Yesterday, he was back on the mound—this time against Division I league leader Northern Nash.

Lenoard reached on an error and Craig Smith got one of three Belton walks. Both of them moved up on the second out, and a hit by Jay Davis to left scored both to tie it up at 2-2.

The Rampants pushed back ahead, this time for good in the third. Belton walked, and Jim Wilkerson ran for him. With two away, Eddy Connolly lined a hit to left, and when the ball got away from the fielder, Wilkerson raced all the way home, with Connolly ending up on second. Mike Shank then ran for him, scoring on a ground-rule double to right center by Jimmy Averette. Wright Hooks followed with another hit, scoring Averette for a 5-2 lead.

The rally ran out of steam there, and the next man grounded out. Belton then struck out the side in the sixth, and the first two in the seventh, for five in a row, and a grounder ended the game.

The Rampants return to action on Friday, traveling to Wilson to meet the Fike Titans.

And this time, things were a little more to his liking. He gave up only three hits, and he again struck out 11 batters. And this time, he came away a winner, 5-3.

The victory for the Rampants kept them in second place in the league and kept alive their hopes for a first place finish in the conference. Rose is 5-3 in the loop and 10-5 overall.

For Northern, it was the first defeat in the loop, dropping them to 6-1. They are 10-4 overall.

The meeting was the second of three for the two teams. The first saw Northern take a 1-0 victory over Rose in Greenville, as Tim Sykes tossed a one-hitter at the Rampants.

This time, the Rampants were intent that no such gem would be on Sykes' record. They attacked early, and despite a comeback by Northern, kept their poise to pull out the victory.

David Dixon opened the game with a line drive single to center, just over the head of the second baseman. Jay Chenier followed with a walk. Belton then helped himself with a double to centerfield, driving in both Dixon and Chenier.

Northern came back, however, to score two unearned runs. With one down, Mike Dixon picked up a third hit with a double in the fourth, but died there. He was the last Rampant to make it on base.

After setting down the side in order in the fourth, Belton was tagged for a third Knight run in the fifth. Royce Wells walked with one down, and Mike Lenoard hit what appeared to be a routine single to right. But the ball took a crazy bounce over Jeff Aldridge's head, and Lenoard ended up with a double, and Wells went to third. Then, with two away, Mike Adams reached on an infield hit, scoring Wells.

The Tigers pushed into an early lead in the first inning. Mike Jenkins walked and stole second. Scott Evans singled, and an error on the play let both runners score.

Conley came up with one run in the second Roger Jenkins walked and moved to third on a sacrifice and an out. Joey Baggett then singled him in.

Farmville added another run in the third. Jenkins reached on an error, stole second and took third on a wild pitch. Tommy Cobb singled him in.

The Vikings rallied for a pair of runs to tie it in the bottom of the third. Kevin Adams walked and Nugie Worthington singled. Both then scored on a hit by Randy Edens.

Farmville moved back out with three in the fourth. Emerson Hobgood walked and Donald Holloman singled. David Cockran reached on an error, scoring Hobgood, but Holloman was thrown out. Jenkins singled Dot Brown had a home run with two on in the first for Williamston. Sissy Taylor led the Tigerette hitting with three in four trips while Sharon Speller added three in as many trips.

Williamston is now 6-1 overall and 4-0 in conference play. The Tigerettes host Bath on Thursday.

Jaguars Run Past Conley

HOLLYWOOD—Farmville Central rallied for six runs in the sixth inning yesterday to gain a 12-6 victory over the D. H. Conley Vikings.

The Jaguars pushed into an early lead in the first inning. Mike Jenkins walked and stole second. Scott Evans singled, and an error on the play let both runners score.

Conley came up with one run in the second Roger Jenkins walked and moved to third on a sacrifice and an out. Joey Baggett then singled him in.

Farmville added another run in the third. Jenkins reached on an error, stole second and took third on a wild pitch. Tommy Cobb singled him in.

The Vikings rallied for a pair of runs to tie it in the bottom of the third. Kevin Adams walked and Nugie Worthington singled. Both then scored on a hit by Randy Edens.

Farmville moved back out with three in the fourth. Emerson Hobgood walked and Donald Holloman singled. David Cockran reached on an error, scoring Hobgood, but Holloman was thrown out. Jenkins singled in Cockran, and a hit by Evans scored Jenkins.

The Jaguars put the finishing touches on in the sixth, scoring six runs to run out to a 12-3 lead. Neil Gordon reached on a fielder's choice and Jenkins singled. Evans reached on a fielder's choice, loading the bases. Cobb singled in one run, and another scored when David Winborn reached on an error. David Joyner reached on an error. The sixth run scored on Cockran's hit.

Conley rallied for three in the bottom of the sixth on a two-run homer by Donnie Cox.

Conley returns to action on Thursday, traveling to C. B. Aycock, while Farmville plays host to North Pitt.

McGlothen Returns Too Soon For Giants As He Hurls Victory

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

As far as the San Francisco Giants are concerned, Lynn McGlothen's suspension didn't last long enough.

Returning from a five-day suspension for last week's beanball incident with the New York Mets, McGlothen was nicked for 10 hits but only one run in pitching the St. Louis Cardinals to a 7-1 victory over the Giants Tuesday night.

His audience included National League President Chub Feeney — the league offices are in San Francisco — who meted out the suspension that delayed McGlothen's scheduled start by two days after the pitcher admitted throwing at New York's Del Unser.

In other games, the Los Angeles Dodgers downed the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-3, the Cincinnati Reds trimmed the Philadelphia Phillies 7-3, the New York Mets nipped the Atlanta Braves 6-5 and the Chicago Cubs defeated the San Diego Padres 4-2.

McGlothen fell behind on Von Joshua's leadoff triple, Derrel Thomas' single in the first inning. But the Cardinals bounced back with four in the second off John D'Acquisto, who was wild. St. Louis collected two hits and five walks in the rally.

A walk to Reggie Smith, Willie Crawford's double and Keith Hernandez' infield single made it 1-1 and Crawford scored the go-ahead run on Hector Cruz' sacrifice fly. Lee Richard's bases-loaded walk and Don Kessinger's sacrifice fly capped the rally.

Dodgers 5, Pirates 3
Doug Rau, with last-out help from Charlie Hough, hurled his ninth straight victory over two seasons. The Dodgers, who have won four straight and six of eight, jumped on Bruce Kison for three runs in the third inning with the help of an error by catcher Manny Sanguillen and added two more in the fourth. Ted Sizemore, who had three of the Dodgers' nine hits, Steve Garvey and Ron Cey drove in runs in the third inning.

Reds 7, Phillies 3
Cincinnati pounded Tom Underwood for five runs in the first inning, two on Johnny Bench's double. When the Reds added two runs in the second inning the game became a breeze for Jack Billingham, who scattered eight hits until giving way to Will McEaney in the eighth.

Pete Rose led off the first with a single. After Dave Concepcion struck out, George Foster and Tony Perez singled for the first run. Bench's double drove in two more, Bob Bailey singled to score Bench and Joel Youngblood tripled to score Bailey.

Rookie Bruce Boisclair drilled a two-run, two-out double off reliever Pablo Torrealba in the ninth inning to cap a three-run rally. Dave Kingman, who hit his eighth homer of the season in the seventh inning, singled to lead off the ninth and one out later Jerry Grote legged out an infield single. With two out, John Milner delivered a run-scoring pinch single and Boisclair doubled to knock in the tying and winning runs.

Cubs 4, Padres 2
Manny Trillo drove in two runs with a single and a sacrifice fly while Ray Burris picked up the win with eight-inning help from Oscar Zamora and Buddy Schultz. Burris allowed five hits, including a second-inning homer by Hector Torres.

Tournament Set At Brook Valley

A Mixed Spectacular Tournament will be held Sunday at Brook Valley Country Club.

A sign-up sheet will remain on the bulletin board until noon Friday, and pairings will be made up that afternoon. Teetimes will start at approximately noon, and a cook-out will follow. Those wishing to play should sign up by noon Friday.

The Ladies Club Championship will be held tomorrow and the following Thursday, May 6. The tournament covers 36 holes. Flights were established from the handicap roster. Sandra Smith is the defending champion.

The Men's Club Championship will be held Saturday and Sunday, May 15-16. Any male member of Brook Valley, 16 and over, who has an established handicap at the club may sign up prior to May 9. Flights will be set up according to handicap. The tournament will cover 36 holes, and about 95 have already signed up. Tommy Boone is the defending champion.

The deadline for entries for the Member-Guest Tournament is Saturday. The tournament will be played on Saturday and Sunday, May 29-30.

Jeanette Thomas recently defended her title in the New Bern Ladies Invitational with another victory.

A junior spectacular will be held Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. for all Brook Valley girls and boys, 10-18. Those wishing to play should be at the clubhouse by 4:15 p.m.

Ellen Fleming shot two of her better rounds with a 97 followed by a 92, her best ever. Henry Leslie had his best nine with a 45. Cooka Garrett had a 59 for her best nine with a birdie on 17. Billy Wells had his best, a 38-35-73. Sam Brooks had his best, a 76, and Ernie Holt had a 42-40-82 for his best 18 hole score at the club.

Williamston Downs Cougars

WILLIAMSTON—The Williamston Tigers moved into sole possession of first place in the Northeastern 3-A Conference yesterday with a 6-0 win over Ahoskie.

The Tigers got the shutout behind the three-hit pitching of Tommy Gardner. He struck out seven and walked two.

Williamston got its first run in the first. Mike Koesy walked and scored on a hit by Ken Herman.

Another run crossed in the second. Lee Pearson doubled, and moved up on an error. Gardner singled him in. The third run came in the fourth. Gardner singled and Eddie Odum ran for him. He stole up and took third on an error.

Herbie Rogers singled Odum in. The Tigers doubled their score with three in the sixth. Greg Roberson singled and Rogers reached on an error. Koesy doubled over Roberson, and Herman reached on an error, letting both Rogers and Koesy score.

The victory boosted Williamston's overall mark to 11-3, and their conference record to 5-1. Ahoskie, who went into the game tied with the Tigers, is now 4-2.

The Tigers return to action on Thursday, hosting Roanoke.

Bucettes Top Meet

BOONE — The East Carolina Women's golf team captured first place in the Appalachian State Invitational Tournament yesterday.

Barbara Haverly took first place in the individual event, finishing the 18-hole tournament with a 79. Her teammate, Marsha Person finished in third place with a 90.

Their combined team score of 169 was good enough for the team title, beating out Appalachian State, Winthrop and Wake Forest.

The meet closed out the season for the Bucette Golfers.

Chocowinity Upsets Bears

CHOCOWINITY—Chocowinity High School handed the Bear Grass Bears their first Beaufort-Hyde-Martin defeat yesterday, taking an 11-8 victory.

The loss left the Bears with an 8-1 league record and a 9-2 overall mark. The Bears are tied with Chocowinity and Jamesville for first.

Chocowinity pushed into the lead with two in the first. Deans walked and stole up. Kellum singled him in, then scored on a hit by Mitchell.

Bear Grass got a run in the third. Jerry Wynne reached on a fielder's choice and stole second. An error on the play let him come the final two bases.

Three more came over in the fourth, giving Bear Grass a 4-2 lead. Dickie Williams walked and stole second. Dwayne Baker singled him in, and also stole up. Richard Knox singled to score

Southern Nash Defeats Rams

SPRING HOPE—Southern Nash scored three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning without the aid of a hit to beat the Greene Central Rams, 4-1, Tuesday.

The loss evened the Rams' record at 7-7 overall and lowered it to 5-4 in the conference.

The Rams scored first getting a run in the second as Ronnie Whitley singled, was sacrificed to second and scored when Mike Chance reached on an error.

The Firebirds tied it up in the last of the fourth when Robin Fassnacht scored on Scott Fassnacht's fielder's choice. Robin had walked with one out.

In the sixth, Fred Bass led off with a walk and was sacrificed to second. Perry was intentionally walked to set up a force but the plan backfired. GC brought in Donald Wooten to pitch and he walked Scott Fassnacht. Strickland was hit by a pitch scoring Bass and B. Glover and Joyner reached on fielder's choices scoring Perry and Strickland with the winning runs.

Ronnie Whitley and Floyd Adams had two hits each for the Rams.

Northern Tops Rose Rampants Win, 9-0

Northern Nash High School scored nine runs in the final two innings to outlast the Rose High School girls' softball team, 14-10 yesterday.

Northern pushed over single runs in the first through fifth innings, then got three in the sixth. They added six more in the seventh.

Rose had scored two in the first and two more in the fifth before getting one in the sixth. The Tampettes added five in the seventh, but fell four short.

Lulu Richardson was the winning pitcher. Alayne Jackson led Northern with five hits, while Tammy Wells added four, and Patricia Jackson, B. Harrison and Laverne Whitley each had three.

Fran Gray led Rose with five, while Karen Jeffreys had four, Susan Dickerson and Marty East had three, and Barbara James, Stephanie Hall, Peggy Leggett, and Lou Foreman each had two.

Rose, now 1-4 overall, plays host to Wilson Friday.

In the top of the sixth, the Bears got another run. Knox reached on an error, was sacrificed up, and scored on Jimmy Peaks' hit.

Chocowinity took advantage of Bear mistakes in the bottom of the sixth to charge ahead with nine big runs. Jefferson singled and Caldwell reached on a fielder's choice. Jones was hit by a pitch and Wall's single score two runs. Mills reached on an error, scoring a third run, and Deans walked. Kellum singled and an error on the play scored all but Kellum. Mitchell walked and Jefferson's hit scored two runs. Caldwell singled in Jefferson with the final run.

The Bears rallied for three on a solo homer by Alton Cratt and a two-run homer by Dickie Williams.

Aycock In 18-8 Win

E.B. Aycock Junior High School exploded for 11 big runs in the third inning yesterday and rolled to an 18-8 victory over Bertie Junior High.

Bertie grabbed the initial lead in the game with a first inning run, but in the third, Aycock charged ahead. They scored their 11 runs on seven hits, two walks and four Bertie errors.

After that, Aycock added four in the fourth and three in the fifth. Bertie came back to score four in their half of the fourth and three more in the sixth.

Will Sanderson led the Aycock hitting with four in five trips, while Robert Morehead was three for five. Ronnie Chapman and Mike Williams were both two for four. Williams' hits were both doubles.

Bertie's C. Blanche had a three-run homer in the sixth.

Aycock, now 4-3, travels to Southern Nash on Friday.

Suns Take Series With Sonics

PHOENIX (AP) — "It was definitely one of our better games," said Coach John MacLeod, in an understatement, after Phoenix' 123-112 victory over Seattle that enabled the Suns to capture their best-of-seven National Basketball Association Western Conference semifinal playoff series 4-2.

"I thought we played good solid team ball and did a much better job on the boards," added MacLeod Tuesday night. "Now we're going to take the playoff against either Golden State or Detroit one game at a time."

Golden State and Detroit have two victories apiece going into Game Five of their playoff tonight in Oakland.

Keith Erickson came off the bench to lead the Suns with 24 points and was followed by Paul Westphal, Ricky Sobers and Gar Heard with 18 each.

Bruce Seals and Slick Watts led the Sonics with 24 points each while Tom Burleson and Fred Brown had 22 apiece.

"They just outplayed us," said Seattle Coach Bill Russell.

"They played consistent ball throughout the playoff. They were just playing better."

The victory assures Phoenix of its best season in the eight-year history of the franchise, besting the 1969-70 record when the Suns lost to the Los Angeles Lakers in a seven-game playoff.

Shooting 61 per cent from the floor in the first quarter, the Suns built an 11-point lead with 2:31 to go before Seattle narrowed it to 25-23 at the horn.

The Suns stretched it out by 14 points in the second quarter and ended the half with a 60-50 advantage. Phoenix shot 59 per cent to 46 for Seattle and outscored the Sonics 35-27 in the quarter.

Westphal led the way to intermission with 14 Suns' points while Bruce Seals had 12 for the Sonics.

Two other NBA playoff series resume tonight. The Boston Celtics, leading 2-1, go against the Buffalo Braves in Buffalo, while the Detroit Pistons and Golden State Warriors, tied 2-2, square off in Oakland.

The remaining quarter-final series will be resolved Thursday night, when a record crowd of more than 21,000 will jam the Coliseum in Richfield, Ohio, to watch the Washington Bullets meet the Cleveland Cavaliers in the seventh game of their hard-fought series.

Sparkplug Ernie DiGregorio of Buffalo and veteran captain John Havlicek of Boston were the focus of much pre-game speculation in Buffalo. DiGregorio ignited the Braves to their only victory of the series, a 98-93 decision in Game Three Sunday, and there was speculation he may regain the berth in the starting lineup he lost early in the season.

Braves' Coach Jack Ramsay was not saying.

Havlicek suffered a torn muscle in the arch of his left foot in the series opener and sat out the other two games. He said the foot had improved considerably, but it is still questionable whether he'll be able to play tonight.

Detroit has been the surprise of the NBA playoffs, and Golden State Coach Al Attles is wary.

"I expect their guys to be emotionally high," he said. "None of the experts expected them to get this far, and now they've got a shot at it."

Roanoke Tops Elm City, 8-6

ROBERSONVILLE — Roanoke High School rallied for four runs in the sixth inning to take an 8-6 victory over Elm City yesterday.

The Redskins pushed over three to take a first inning lead. Ken Gurganus singled and Reid Bullock doubled. Ricky Jenkins drove in Gurganus with a single and Eddie James singled in courtsey runner Doug Lane. An attempted double steal saw Jenkins cut down, and Greg Roberson walked. Willie Spruill singled in James.

Elm City came up with a run in the second. Tim Williams singled and moved up on an error. A passed ball put him on third, and after Randy Jenkins walked, a double steal scored Williams.

Roanoke got another run in the second. Bullock reached on a fielder's choice, and Lane ran for him. Charlie Smith walked and Jenkins singled in Lane.

In the third, Elm City added two more. Tony Pollock reached on a fielder's choice and Tim Williams walked. Jenkins also walk, and a walk to Steve Stutts scored Pollock. Harold Williams was hit by a pitch, forcing in Tim Williams.

Elm City tied it at 4-4 with one in the fourth. Elbert Inman singled and Joe McCullen singled. Both moved up on a balk and Jay Sharp hit a sacrifice fly to score Inman.

The visitors then pushed ahead with two in the top of the sixth. Inman walked and stole up, taking third on an error. McCullen walked and a double steal scored Inman, with McCullen moving on to third on the play. He scored on a passed ball.

Roanoke came back to score four in the bottom of the inning, however, to take the win. David Spruill singled and Gurganus got a hit. Bullock brought in one run with a sacrifice fly. Smith walked and Lane again ran. Jenkins doubled in Gurganus to tie it. James hit another sacrifice to score Lane, and a triple by Greg Roberson scored Jenkins.

The victory upped the Roanoke record to 5-3 in Eastern Plains Conference play, and to 5-10 overall. The Redskins travel to Williamston on Thursday.

SRO Sign Out For Final Game

DENVER (AP) — The Kentucky Colonels, last year's champions, meet the Denver Nuggets, the league's winningest team over the past two seasons, in the deciding game of their semifinal playoff series tonight before an expected American Basketball Association record crowd.

The Nuggets placed standing room tickets on sale at the McNichols Sports Arena late Monday after more than 17,000 reserved seats were sold out for the seventh game of the series. The winner of the game meets the New York Nets, victors over San Antonio in the other semifinal playoff series, for the ABA championship.

The Colonels' hopes to repeat as league champions depend in large measure on guard Bird Averitt, who has played key roles in his team's three wins so far.

It was Averitt who sparked the Colonels to a 119-115 double-overtime victory in game 6 of the series on Sunday after he shook off an attack of tonsillitis and a fever.

This time, Averitt is going to have to overcome a slight pull of an achilles tendon to play, but the team's doctors say the star guard will be healthy enough to be in the lineup.

Denver's concern is not so much injuries as officiating, which Coach Larry Brown has repeatedly criticized.

Brown has expressed concern over the way rookie star David Thompson has been treated by the officials in the six games of the series.

"They've (the officials) got to let David play," Brown, the league's coach of the year, said. "He's been called for charging at one end of the court and then draws the defensive foul at the other when his man does the same thing."

Orioles Rally Past California And Ryan

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Brooks Robinson and Mark Belanger, a pair of "good-field, no-hit" ballplayers, drove the California Angels batty.

First the anemic Robinson broke up Nolan Ryan's bid for a no-hitter and then the light-hitting Belanger broke up the ballgame — and the result was a 3-2, 10-inning victory for the Baltimore Orioles Tuesday night.

"I don't have many game-winning hits," said Belanger, whose bases-loaded single in the 10th knocked in the winning run. "In ten years, I've had two, maybe one."

The game-winning hit came off an "up and in hummer" from reliever Dick Drago.

"He struck me out on a ball up there last time and I was looking for something inside," said Belanger, a .257 hitter this season. "I got it and the ball landed where nobody was."

Robinson, also known more for his glove than his bat, got the first hit of the game off the hard-throwing Ryan — a one-out, run-scoring triple in the seventh inning. Robinson was batting .116 at game time.

Ryan, who has thrown four no-hitters in his career, had struck out 11 batters and walked eight before giving up Robinson's bloop triple into the left field corner that cut the California lead to 2-1.

"I never gave a no-hitter a thought, the way I was throwing," said Ryan. "I was struggling early, I was consistently behind the hitters and walking a lot of them. I didn't have the kind of stuff to throw a no-hitter."

In the other AL games, the Detroit Tigers routed the Oakland A's 10-2; the Cleveland Indians trimmed the Minnesota Twins 7-5 and the New York Yankees nipped the Texas Rangers 1-0. Rain and cold weather wiped out the Milwaukee-Chicago and Boston-Kansas City games.

Tigers 10, A's 2

Rookie first baseman Jason Thompson collected four consecutive singles and drove in two runs and Rusty Staub hit a grand slam home run to lead Detroit over Oakland. Staub's homer, the seventh grand slam of his career, came off ace reliever Rollie Fingers to climax a five-run outburst against Fingers and Jim Todd in the eighth inning.

The 21-year-old Thompson, called up from Evansville just last Friday, singled in a run in the first inning and singled home another in the fourth against Vida Blue, 1-3.

Indians 7, Twins 5

A pair of solo home runs by George Hendrick, his first homer of the season, and a strong relief performance by Jackie Brown sparked Cleveland past Minnesota.

Brown, 1-0, came on in the fourth inning and pitched out of a one-out, bases-loaded jam. He struck out five while holding the Twins scoreless for 3 2-3 innings before being removed in favor of Dave LaRoche in the eighth.

Yankees 1, Rangers 0

New York's Oscar Gamble slashed a run-scoring single to center in the top of the ninth inning to snap a tight pitching duel and the Yankees celebrated Manager Billy Martin's return to Texas with a victory over the Rangers. Dock Ellis, 2-0, handcuffed the Rangers with four hits before needing last-out relief help from Sparky Lyle. Gaylord Perry, 2-2, was the hard-luck loser for the Rangers.

Roanoke got another run in the second. Bullock reached on a fielder's choice, and Lane ran for him. Charlie Smith walked and Jenkins singled in Lane.

In the third, Elm City added two more. Tony Pollock reached on a fielder's choice and Tim Williams walked. Jenkins also walk, and a walk to Steve Stutts scored Pollock. Harold Williams was hit by a pitch, forcing in Tim Williams.

Elm City tied it at 4-4 with one in the fourth. Elbert Inman singled and Joe McCullen singled. Both moved up on a balk and Jay Sharp hit a sacrifice fly to score Inman.

The visitors then pushed ahead with two in the top of the sixth. Inman walked and stole up, taking third on an error. McCullen walked and a double steal scored Inman, with McCullen moving on to third on the play. He scored on a passed ball.

How Cledus Maggard Changed

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)— Jay Huguey—better known as Cledus Maggard—has been a janitor, cab driver, statistical accountant, television writer, actor, director, novelist, opera singer, disc jockey, driving instructor, quality controller, advertising executive and hot dog stand employe.

Finally, he's found satisfaction in country music. "I'm having the time of my life," says Maggard, 34, whose single "White Knight" was No. 1 earlier this year and whose album of the same name currently is in the top 5. "I'm meeting people who are genuine, down-to-earth and with no pretensions. I've yet to meet the first bumpkin who doesn't know what he's doing." No one in country music can rival his background. Roy Acuff may be the "king of country music," but Maggard surely is the champion of zig-zag careers. A sample of what he's done: —Appeared on television in "The Saint," "The Avengers," "Wagon Train," "Naked City" and "Coronation Street." —Studied at Covent Garden Opera School, London. —Made more than 200 television and radio commercials. —Wrote for the television show, "That Was The Week That Was." —Studied at the YAT School of Dance and Movement, London. "The White Knight," about CB radios, was recorded almost by accident, while working for a Greenville, S.C., advertising firm, he was asked to listen to a CB radio to get advertising ideas. He had never heard one before.

He listened for an hour, got the idea for the song and recorded it at a local studio, thinking the ad firm would distribute it as Christmas gifts. But a major record company heard it, bought it and it became a hit on both the country and pop charts—a "cross-over." Huguey didn't even know what "cross-over" meant. The name Cledus Maggard wasn't chosen in a neatly paneled conference room with record company executives pondering for hours over its ramifications. "Someone called and asked me how I wanted my name to appear on the record," Huguey recalled. "I put the receiver down, thought for about 30 seconds and said, 'Cledus Maggard.'"

Maggard was a fictional name he had used previously in radio skits. Now, he's a changed person. "I used to be a cynic—cynical about people and performing. Now, I've regained naivety I haven't had since I was a teen. I have an enjoyable outlook on life; I don't see the professional jealousy I used to see." He admits that his new career has left him dizzy with surprise. "My wife and I were sitting around New Year's Eve, thinking about what could have happened in the past year. We figured becoming a country singer would have been about 100 down the list."

Workshop On Teenage Pregnancy Set May 5

A workshop to study the high risk involved in teenage pregnancy, medical, social, and emotional, will be held Wednesday, May 5, beginning at 8:30 a.m. at the Willis Building, corner of Reade and First Streets here. The Mid-East Commission Family Planning Program, the ECU School of Allied Health and Social Professions, and the Office of Community Health Services are sponsors of the workshop. The all-day forum is said to give the participants a view of "viable alternatives to offer teenagers who might otherwise face the future with limited options because of an unplanned pregnancy." Bee Mayo, Family Planning Program administrator, will welcome the group. George Shackelford, a consultant in health education with the N. C. Department of Public Instruction, and Thomas Vitaglione, director of the N. C. Statewide Family Planning Program, will address the topics, "Why Should Schools Be Concerned?" and "Contraception for Teens—Legal Barriers." Dr. Marcos Pupkin of Duke University School of Medicine will speak on "Adolescent Pregnancy Medical Risks" and Dr. William Laupus, Dean of the ECU School of Medicine will talk about "Children's Children."

Other workshop session topics include "Family Life Curriculum Development," "Communicating with Teenagers About Sex," "Resources—People and Materials—How To Use Them Effectively," and "Educating Males for Sexual Responsibility." For more information, one may contact Ms. Marie Arnaud at the Pitt County Health Department, 752-4141.

Research Paper Is Presented

RALEIGH—Miss Marla Gail Tugwell, Meredith College senior from Farmville, presented a research paper at the North Carolina Phi Alpha Theta regional meeting held on the Meredith campus Saturday, April 24.

Miss Tugwell, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Streeter Tugwell of Bynum Drive in Farmville, read her paper, "Gold Mining in North Carolina: 1799-1861," during the morning session of the conference. Phi Alpha Theta, the second largest honor society in the nation, is an international honorary society in history. It aims to instill in its members a love and a study of history and a search for truth through the historical method.

Seek To Avoid Reaction In Testing Of Vaccine

By CARL MANNING
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)— Researchers hope to know by July 1 how much swine flu vaccine can be given children to protect them from the virus without causing an allergic reaction, according to Dr. Peter F. Wright.

Wright, a Vanderbilt University medical school professor, is coordinating a nationwide testing program of the vaccine among school age children. Congress recently approved $135 million for the development and distribution of the swine flu vaccine across the nation. Officials plan to immunize the entire country by November, when it is feared the swine flu may reappear. About 2,000 children will be given the vaccine at about 12 universities throughout the nation within the next month, Wright said Monday. He said swine flu would affect children in high frequency since children have less resistance to it than adults.

Honor Society Officers Named

Members of the East Carolina University chapter of Phi Eta Sigma, National Honor Society for Freshmen, have elected new officers. Chartered at East Carolina last May, Phi Eta Sigma recognizes academic excellence during a student's first year at college. The local chapter has a membership of 80 students, and Dr. John D. Ebbs, Professor of English, serves as faculty adviser.

Accounting from Greenville; Vice President, Deborah Lynn Grafton, a Mathematics major from Durham; Secretary, Cheryl Shanahan, a Nursing major from Virginia Beach, Virginia; Treasurer, Beverly Joanne Durham, an Accounting major from Greenville; Senior Adviser, Mary Rose Griffin, a History major from Greenville; and Historian, Deborah Sue Boyce, a Mathematics-Psychology major from Fayetteville. These students will assume their duties as officers in September and serve during the 1976-77 school year.

State Unit Is Organized

The newly-formed North Carolina Gay Union (NCGU) met Saturday in Chapel Hill for the purpose of bringing together representatives of various gay organizations in North Carolina to define objectives for the group. Judi Willis of Greenville was elected state coordinator. Also elected were a vice-coordinator-treasurer and secretary for the state group. An executive committee of delegates will be elected by members at large.

TV Log

Goals established at the state meeting were: lobbying for repeal of anti-sexual laws affecting consenting adults; determining political candidates' positions on such legislation; providing programs, seminars and speaking engagements on gay-related matters; and coordinating releases throughout the state. The newly formed NCGU is an outgrowth of the Southeastern Gay Conference held April 2-4 in Chapel Hill which was attended by over 300 representatives from 11 southeastern states.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, APRIL 29, 1976

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is no day to take any chances with money since a chain of unpleasant events could occur. A course of action you had in mind should be delayed until tomorrow. Stick to the practical.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study your monetary position and make corrections where they are necessary. Don't consult your regular adviser who is not up to par today.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Doublecheck whatever you plan to do today and make sure it is right. Take care not to argue at any social meetings you may attend.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get rid of dull tasks early and later you can engage in other activities that are important and interesting. Show more devotion to mate.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't expect much help from others for a plan you have in mind, since they are too absorbed in own affairs right now.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Try not to spoil your good reputation in any way by overt acts. Higher-ups are too busy now, so postpone seeing them until next week.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Use tact and wisdom in personal matters today. A new contact may not be so good for you. Don't neglect health treatments.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have responsibilities that require wise handling, so attend to them quickly in the morning. Sidestep one who is a troublemaker.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Find out what is causing difficulties between you and associates, and then you can eliminate the trouble. Don't lose your temper.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't let temptations interfere with the important work on your schedule. Be careful of one who is working against you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) The planets are not favorable for any recreational activities but fine for doing practical work to better your position in life.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Instead of fussing over annoyances, be more cheerful with others for best results. Not a good day for entertaining.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Much care in motion is important since accidents could happen very suddenly today or tonight. Be tactful with associates.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she may seem to have the wrong ideas where money and property are concerned and should be taught to correct thinking. Teach not to borrow unless absolutely necessary. Be sure to give religious training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Opening lead: Six of ♣.

He grabbed his king and reached partner with the ace of hearts, then East cashed the king of clubs and gave West a ruff to set the contract.

To prevent the club ruff, declarer's object should have been to keep East off lead. By making judicious use of dummy's ace of trumps, all he needs to do is find West with one diamond honor.

Correct technique is to win the ace of clubs at trick one and lead the queen of diamonds from dummy. If East does not cover, declarer discards his king of hearts. West can win, but he had no way to get to East for a ruff.

If East covers the queen of diamonds, declarer ruffs and enters dummy with the ace of spades to lead the jack of diamonds, again discarding the heart if East cannot cover. As the cards lie, this plan would succeed. If it turns out that East has both high diamond honors, declarer has lost nothing. When East covers the second diamond, declarer ruffs again and now leads the queen of spades, and hopes trumps are 2-2. This line leaves declarer no worse off than the way he actually played the hand and assures the contract whenever West happens to have a high diamond.

South's attempt to bring home his four spade contract was certainly reasonable. However, by combining his chances he could have developed an even better line, which would have delivered the game.

The bidding was short and to the point. After North's opening bid and East's overcall, South simply bid what he thought he could make.

West led the six of clubs in an attempt to get a ruff. Since he held the guarded king of spades and partner rated to have a quick entry, this was a sound attacking move. It was obvious to all at the table that the lead was a singleton, so declarer rose with dummy's ace and tried to draw trumps as quickly as possible. After cashing the ace of spades, he crossed to his hand with a diamond ruff and led the seven of spades. West was not fooled.

NOTICE OF RESALE IN THE GENERAL COURT OF JUSTICE SUPERIOR COURT DIVISION BEFORE THE CLERK FILE NO. 76SP3

North Carolina
Pitt County
ROBERT T. LEE CANADY and wife MARY V. CANADY vs.
NANNIE BELLE CANADY (Mrs. Frank Canady)

By authority of an order of H.L. Lewis, Jr., Clerk of Superior Court of Pitt County, North Carolina, dated the 5th day of March, 1976, the undersigned Commissioners offered for sale to the highest bidder, for cash, on April 12, 1976, the following described real estate: And, whereas, within the time allowed by law, an upset bid was filed with the Clerk of Superior Court, and an order issued directing the commissioners to resell said real estate upon an opening bid of $3,200.00.

Now, therefore, the undersigned Commissioners will offer for sale to the highest bidder, for cash, at the courthouse door in Greenville, North Carolina, at 1:00 o'clock on the 10th day of May, 1976, at an opening bid of $3,200, the following described real estate:

Lying and being in the Town of Ayden, Pitt County, North Carolina, and being known as 403 W. Planters Street, and lying on the southwest corner of the intersection of Planters Street and High School Street, and fronting 53 feet on Planters Street and being 147.5 feet deep, being lot No. 1 as shown on map recorded in Map Book 3, Page 179 of the Pitt County Registry, to which map reference is hereby made for a full description, and being one of the lots conveyed to Frank Canady and wife, Lottie Canady, (Lottie Canady now being deceased) by Minnie E. Kinlaw, et al, by Deed Dated October 30, 1941, and recorded in Book X-23, Page 357 of the Pitt County Public Registry.

The highest bidder at the sale shall be required to make a cash deposit of ten (10 per cent) per cent of the successful bid pending confirmation or rejection thereof by the Court. This sale is made subject to any encumbrances or unpaid taxes, if any.

Thousands Visiting Computer 'Doctor'

By BRIAN DEWHURST
Sydney, Australia (UPI) — Thousands of Australians are pouring out their most personal physical and psychological problems to a new kind of "doctor" these days.

The "doctor" is a computer. By talking to the computer and undergoing a few simple tests, Australians can get thorough medical examinations without paying a cent.

Medicheck in Sydney and the Shepherd Foundation in Melbourne provide the free medical service under a grant from the Australian government.

Patients referred to the clinics by their doctors sit in private cubicles and press buttons to answer questions which appear on a TV-like screen.

Males answer an average of 160 questions, females a few more.

The questions begin demographically: What sort of house do you live in and whom do you live with?

The questions then trace the family background, probe symptoms, seek drug, drinking and smoking habits.

There are fringe psychiatric questions such as: Are you happy in your job? Do you enjoy sex? Have you ever contemplated suicide?

Only five persons in five years have found the questions too personal to answer.

After about 40 minutes of button pushing in the darkened cubicle, a patient is taken by a nurse for tests of hearing, vision, body fat, respiration and blood pressure.

The jawbone and chest are x-rayed. An electric cardiograph and a full bio-chemical blood test are next. The final test is urine.

Men spend about 90 minutes at Medicheck and women about 15 minutes longer because they also have a breast x-ray.

Cancer of the breast — the most common form of malignancy in women — is detected in two out of every 1,000 examinations.

The complete results are sent to the patient's doctor, who decides what treatment, if any, is necessary.

Only the clinic's medical staff and the private doctor see the report. The patients' names are coded and locked in a safe.

The interview by the computer is simple. If an answer is wrong, like if a patient says he is both married and single, the computer will reject the information and repeat the question.

If a subsequent answer contradicts an earlier response, the computer cross-examines by repeating the earlier question.

Patients who don't understand a question can push another button to call for assistance from a nurse. Only one person in 240 makes a mistake.

"The clinic provides a preventive checkup for middle-aged people," said Supervisor Dr. John Brand.

"It also looks for abnormalities in people over 18 years of age who complain of vague illnesses which a private doctor hasn't the time or equipment to investigate.

"Some of the questions are very personal because good health depends on personal satisfaction with life," he said.

"Almost all minor illnesses stem from drinking and smoking habits, unhappy marriages and sex problems."

Medicheck examines 80 patients a day and has accumulated 50,000 patient records since it opened in 1971.

Government officials call the computers when they want information on community habits. The clinic, for example, is the source for a current survey on alcohol and drug consumption among different economic groups.

Medicheck has a staff of 35, including four doctors. It will open a second clinic in May and will introduce multi-language questionnaires to cater to Australia's large immigrant population.

Medicheck was started by a $1 million foundation set up by Sir William Tyree, an Australian millionaire electrical equipment manufacturer.

It had few patients for the first 18 months because doctors were suspicious of computers trying to usurp their role.

But today, so many doctors refer patients to the clinic that it takes two months to get an appointment.

Handicapped Visit Shrines

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House. "There are 58 steps leading up to the Lincoln Memorial," says Jim Jeffers, "but for handicapped people like me in wheelchairs, it might as well have been 5,800!"

Jeffers recently became the first "wheelchair person" ever to enter the memorial chamber of the nation's most popular historic shrine without being carried bodily up its 80 feet of stairs.

As executive director of the U.S. Architectural and Transportation Barriers Compliance Board, he accomplished this feat while inspecting renovations being made by the National Park Service at a cost of nearly $1 million.

The alterations will permit people in wheelchairs, with crutches, braces, or other physical handicaps, to view the statue of Abraham Lincoln close up.

Jeffers says that an estimated 17 million Americans will visit Washington during the bicentennial year, and approximately 3 million of them will be handicapped.

According to Jack Fish, head of National Capital Parks, the local field office of the National Park Service, extensive landscaping and regrading was needed at the front of the Lincoln Memorial to install a concrete ramp with an easy 5 per cent incline for wheelchairs.

The new ramp leads from the street to the ground floor of the memorial, where restrooms have been remodeled to accommodate wheelchairs, and an elevator installed to whisk visitors to the main floor.

In addition to the Lincoln Memorial, National Park Service is also spending over three quarters of a million dollars to remodel the Jefferson Memorial and the Washington Monument to improve access.

Ramps for wheelchairs are being installed in nearly 200 sidewalk curbs around the Mall, the Washington Monument, and the Ellipse near the White House. HEW Assistant Secretary Stanley B. Thomas Jr. is chairman of the Architectural and Transportation Barriers Compliance Board, composed of the nine major federal agencies that spend over $32 billion a year for construction of buildings and transportation facilities. The board's mission is to monitor compliance with federal law which requires barrier-free access for handicapped people to public housing, office buildings and transportation systems.

During the bicentennial year, according to Thomas, the Lincoln Memorial will be a national symbol of an "Accessible America."

"The nation's capital belongs to all Americans," Thomas said. "We are making sure that in our bicentennial year, America's handicapped citizens are given equal rights of access, as an example of what can be accomplished all over the country. We hope that our 17 million visitors will return to their communities to take a new look at the many barriers which keep handicapped people from full participation in cultural and business activities."

He noted that these might range from sidewalk curbs to lack of elevators and restrooms in public buildings and places of employment.

Jim Jeffers, a native of West Virginia, has lived and worked in Washington for three years, but until his recent inspection visit had never been able to enter the capital's most popular tourist attraction.

As he looked out from the Reflecting Pool and the Washington Monument in the distance, he said, "It's truly inspiring. From here, it seems that nothing is impossible!"

George Pullman, American inventor and businessman, was born March 3, 1831.

Japan Exports Of Steel Drop

NEW YORK (UPI) — Japan exported more than 33 million tons of steel last year, with about a fifth of the total earmarked for the United States, according to the Japan Steel Information Center. This was a drop from the 36.5 million tons exported in 1974. The center noted that while exports to most areas were lower, the exception was the Middle East, which bought more than five million tons compared with 3.54 million the previous year.

New Flying Platform Is To Be Ferry

By ROBERT C. MILLER HONOLULU (UPI) — The Navy has erased the "secret" label from a multi-million dollar sea-going contraption described by its inventor as "two torpedoes and seven hydrofoils."

Civilian transportation officials who took the first cruise on the Stable Semi-submersible Platform (SSP) see it as possible multi-million dollar ferry, a solution to coastal and inter-island transportation problems.

The SSP, a large floating platform built like a catamaran, was described by its admittedly-biased crew as the greatest marine invention since the screw propeller.

The Navy, which built the 90-foot experimental craft named the Kaimalino, described the SSP as a possible billion-dollar substitute for its conventional hull warships.

The neutral observers on the two-hour cruise into Hawaii's rough Molokai Channel predicted a sharp drop in the sales of seasick pills if the round-hulled passenger ships are replaced by the flat, floating SSPs.

The 190-ton Kaimalino, which in Hawaiian means "Calm Seas," was designed and engineered by Pearl Harbor Navy and Civilian engineers. But a difference in construction costs forced the Navy to have it built by a Maryland shipyard at Curtis Bay.

Since its arrival in Hawaii more than 14 months ago, the 25-knot, gas-turbined Kaimalino has been used by the Naval Undersea Center at Kaneohe Bay in what the navy describes as "a variety of on-going oceanic programs."

"The SSP," explained its inventor, Dr. Thomas G. Lang of the Naval Undersea Center in San Diego, "is really nothing more than a floating offshore oil platform built catamaran-style atop two oversized torpedoes powered by gas turbines. In the Kaimalino, two helicopter engines were used because they were cheaper."

The catamaran configuration provides a wide, stable base on which automobiles, airplanes, helicopters, freight and passengers can be accommodated. While the hulls travel through and beneath the water, the platform rides above the waves. Test runs proved the SSP's motion is relatively unaffected by the state of the seas.

"Original construction costs are higher," admitted Tom Hughes, civilian design engineer, "but not much."

The 500-ton SSPs would be ideal for Hawaii's inter-island needs, officials said.

Inventor Lang said he built his first hydrofoil while a teenager when he and his father converted their outboard at Lake Elsinore in Southern California. The 47-year-old Cal Tech graduate likes to show his faded color pictures of the Lang & Lang outboards zipping along in their early hydrofoils.

In 1951 Lang went to work for the Navy in San Diego, where he became its expert on torpedoes.

"I can't honestly say when the idea of the SSP first hit me," he said. "I started making a few crude drawings, then we produced a few models and everybody got more and more excited about the possibilities the more we got into it."

The Pearl Harbor Naval Shipyard drew up the plans and specifications for the Kaimalino. Construction was started in March, 1970 on the $2.6 million hull, and the ship was launched three years later. After outfitting, she was brought to Hawaii under wraps in January, 1975.

The two gas turbines mounted aft drive the convertible pitch props by a series of chain drives. The torpedo tubes carry the fuel supplies underwater. A center work well enables the craft to carry out undersea research work.

State Transportation officials estimate the cost of each 500-ton SSP ferry at about $10 million.

A ferry run of 96 miles between Nawiliwili and Honolulu would take about four hours. The longest inter-island run, 140 miles between Honolulu and Kawaihae on the big island, would take nearly six hours.

Childnapping Laws Fail In Many Cases

By CHARLOTTE MELTON WASHINGTON (UPI) — "My ex-husband abducted my little boy..."

"I don't want to spend the rest of these children's young lives looking over my shoulder to see if he is there to snatch another, since nothing was done when he did it the first time."

This cry for help could have come from thousands of divorced wives or husbands whose custody of the children is thwarted when a former spouse decides to take the law into his (or her) own hands.

The problem is illustrated by a custody dispute over the two daughters of Pittsburgh banker Seward Prosser Mellon. A Pennsylvania court awarded custody to Mellon, but his former wife later won custody in a New York court.

Mellon claimed she was able to obtain the order by abducting the children when they were visiting her in North Carolina. She says the children willingly accompanied her to New York, where they were seized leaving her Brooklyn home by persons apparently working for their father.

Children often are moved from state to state just ahead of a pursuing parent. Sometimes, a parent exercising visiting rights refuses to give up the children.

Because courts in one state are not obliged to honor child custody court orders in another state, conflicting orders frequently result. In all this, the children suffer sometimes lasting psychological harm.

A uniform, nationwide law would allow the state with original jurisdiction to keep sole control of the case, and to use its contempt power to punish violators.

Just such a child custody act, fashioned by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, is effective in 10 states.

Wisconsin passed its law a few weeks ago under prodding by Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Wis. Steiger had written state legislators and Gov. Patrick J. Lucey after he tried unsuccessfully to help two constituents, both of them fathers who had lost custody of their children because of their former wives' self-help efforts.

"There's a problem and there's an answer," Steiger said. "Once people think about it, I don't believe there'll be any trouble solving it."

Legislatures in Delaware, Ohio and Pennsylvania are considering child custody bills. A court ruling in Minnesota has the same effect as law. Other states with child custody laws are Michigan, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Maryland, Massachusetts, North Dakota and Oregon.

Prof. Brigitte M. Bodenheimer of the University of California Law School at Davis, who drafted the uniform act, feels optimistic.

"It goes back to Solomon," she said, referring to the Bible story of how the ancient Hebrews solved the dilemma of two women claiming the same child. "Only one can have custody."

"I'm hopeful now. We've had some bad experiences lately so that people are beginning to want to do something about it."

But, she added, "judges get involved, too, and attorneys get involved. It's very hard sometimes to say to a parent 'You go back where you came from.'"

Attorney Archibald Eccleston 3d of Baltimore, who represents Parents Without Partners, told UPI that childnapping has increased sharply with higher divorce rates and the greater mobility of Americans.

"It is flat-out plain damn silly for the government not to do something," Eccleston said. He noted that the House Judiciary Committee is considering legislation that would make child snatching by non-custodial parents illegal under the federal kidnaping act.

The measure, introduced by Rep. Charles E. Bennett, D-Fla., carries a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

"From the volume of mail I have received," Bennett said, "it is clear that child snatching is a major national problem."

But the Justice Department has informed Congress it does not want to get involved in custodial disputes under Bennett's bill, so a uniform state law appears to be the only solution.

"No act in my whole portfolio cries out for passage more than this one," says John M. McCabe, legislative director for the uniform laws conference. "There's a hole in the law. This plugs the hole."

Comfort In Nonslip Tub

United Press International

Louis H. Ridgeway slipped as he was getting out of his tub two years ago and thought there had to be a better way to take a shower without risking life and limb on a slick, hard surface.

Ridgeway thinks he has found the way. His plastics and fiberglass company in Jonesville, S.C., is manufacturing a soft bathtub.

Its outer layer of soft vinyl is bonded to a half inch of foam that is supported by fiberglass for rigidity.

The shape of the tub is also different. One end is much deeper than the other.

"I thought the deepest part of the tub should be at the end where one's largest part sits," Ridgeway said in a telephone interview.

Prices range from about $440 for a five-foot-long model to $1,250 for a heart-shaped tub for two.

"We have had a tremendous reaction," Ridgeway said. "It kind of scares me; persons wanting to be distributors are waiting in line."

He said he took two years to design a tub that is both soft and long-lasting. It comes with a 10-year guarantee.

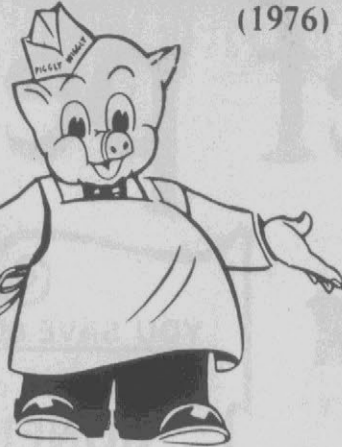

Ridgeway says it is almost impossible to slip in the soft tub.

Mystery In Old Statues

MASSIVE STONE EAGLE stands outside a tomb of an extinct Indian civilization in south-central Colombia. (UPI Photo)

By PIETER VAN BENNEKOM SAN AGUSTIN, Colombia (UPI) — For the past 25 centuries, a group of massive stone statues has been staring down at the Colombian landscape while hardly anyone knew or cared about them. All that is beginning to change. Built by an extinct but obviously highly civilized Indian tribe, the statues are spread over a wide area 6,000 feet up in the central Andes range near the source of Magdalena River, 375 miles southwest of Bogota. They had been discovered in three stages—in 1913-14 by German K. T. Preuss, in 1936-37 by Spanish archeologist Gregorio Hernandez de Alba and in 1971-72 by Colombian Luis Duque Gomez. The series of massive, masked statues around ancient graves represent a sort of watchmen, complete with primitive arms and some indication as to what kind of person lies in the grave they are guarding. Some carry arrows and harpoons, indicating that a great hunter or fisherman was interred under the massive stones. Another carries a skull, leading specialists to believe that grave was reserved for a priest who had the power of life or death and made human sacrifices. The tallest measures more than 21 feet although only the top 14 feet are above ground. Another statue, with a graphic description of a human birth complete with obstetrician, woman in labor and newborn baby, is more than 14 feet tall. With modern dating methods, a piece of petrified wood found in one of the cenotaphs has been X-rayed and placed at 555 B.C. The high level of civilization of the San Agustin culture is evident from the ceremonial fountain, the prize piece of the entire complex. Through intricate hydraulic engineering, the ancient Indians diverted the course of a small tributary to the Magdalena to let the crystal clear mountain spring water run through a series of bathtubs, canals and aqueducts. The sculptured fountain was discovered in 1913 by the German Preuss. Townsfolk came to do their washing in the royal bathtub, but the fountain is well protected now with a roof against possible damage by sun rays or rain and a guardian to keep out local laundry enthusiasts. Despite the recent discoveries, much remains underground because funds are insufficient to continue excavations. And little is known so far about the tribe which left behind these colossal monuments and then vanished, seemingly from the face of the earth. Not even the name of the Indians has been established and historians simply call them the "San Agustinos." The tribe also had some kind of script, a mysterious series of scratches with pictures, that no one has yet been able to decipher. Some graves have lids in the form of crocodiles, indicating the builders had links to far-away areas. No crocodiles are found within 1,000 miles of San Agustin. The sleepy town of San Agustin in south-central Colombia has only one dirt trail linking it with the outside world, but its archeological park now attracts more than 30,000 tourists annually, some 6,000 of them foreigners from all parts of the world. Grave robbers and culture poachers also have shown interest in the historical mystery. One of three hilltop statues had its nose smashed and the two parts of its face patched together with wire. A plunderer broke the face of the statue with a sledgehammer when he tried to separate the nose to see if there was any gold inside. In other areas of Colombia, gold has been found in the noses of pre-Colombian relics. Almost anyone in San Agustin can guide tourists to the homes of the poachers and grave robbers who have 2,500-year-old relics stashed away in a corner and offer them for sale for as little as $10. "When you figure that some of the sites are accessible only after a day's horseback ride, you can imagine how big a task it is to guard all these places effectively," says a member of the local tourism police department.

Bahama Flight Schedule Cut

NASSAU, Bahamas (UPI) — Bahamasair, the national carrier, has reduced its schedule both within the Bahamas and between the islands and Miami in an economy move. Service between Nassau and Miami has been cut to three daily flights, from the five provided during the early winter season. The airline has also cut the number of flights between Nassau and Freeport and has suspended its daily service between Freeport and Miami. Service to the out-islands has also been reduced. The airline will introduce a weekend service between Freeport and Miami on a trial basis April 25.

War Recalled By Survivor

ED HECK stands on the wing of a B-29 torpedero plane similar to the one he piloted during the Battle of Midway in June, 1942. (UPI Photo)

By GEORGE BOOSEY
TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Only five of the 38 torpedo planes launched from U.S. aircraft carriers in the Battle of Midway in June, 1942 came back. Ensign Ed Heck was the pilot of one of them.

For his role in the crucial Pacific battle against the Japanese, Heck was awarded the Navy Cross, second only to the Congressional Medal of Honor. He made a career of the Navy, retiring in 1960 with the rank of commander.

Heck, now 57, is director of maintenance information services at the American Airlines Maintenance and Engineering Center in Tulsa and is helping organize the Combat Pilots Association, a new group headquartered at Los Angeles.

The CPA was started two years ago to "promote a strong and effective military aviation organization," Heck said. CPA members hope the organization eventually will become a lobbying force in Congress.

The organization has had two national conventions — called "Group Gropes" — where members get together and tell war stories.

The Battle of Midway is the most memorable for Heck. The Carthage, Mo., native was only 23 when the 38 torpedo planes undertook the mission against overwhelming Japanese forces seven months after Pearl Harbor.

"Most of them were shot down before we ever got to dropping range," he said. "They were shot down by Japanese fighters."

The planes swooped down, trying to get to within 50 or 100 feet of the water before launching their torpedos at the target ships. "You had to lead the ship," Heck said. "If your lead was incorrect, you missed the target. You had no homing capability."

And, Heck can also recall how delays kept his carrier, the Enterprise, from reaching Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941.

"The carrier was scheduled to be in the harbor early that morning, but there were delays," he said. "Therefore, we were off the coast of Oahu when the Japanese attacked. Some of the aircraft had been launched and arrived at Pearl Harbor about the time of the attack and were shot down. "When the ship received word, we were, of course, put immediately on alert."

"My squadron stood by all day Dec. 7 for a launch to conduct a torpedo attack. Late that afternoon my squadron was launched along with others, dive bombers and fighter aircraft, for an attack on the Japanese fleet."

"However, we never made contact, for reasons unbeknownst to me. We went to where it was supposed to be, but it wasn't there."

Heck, who also served on carriers during the Korean War, joined the Navy Reserve in the fall of 1939.

"My objective in wanting to join was with the intent that after my three years with the fleet, I would go into commercial aviation," Heck said. "But, before I had completed my three years, World War II had started and I couldn't get out if I had wanted to."

But after the war Heck decided to remain in the Navy.

"World War II generated a lot of military pilots and the opportunity to go into commercial aviation was very poor," he said. "I decided I would prefer a Navy aviation career rather than a career in commercial aviation. With no regrets."

Heck said the CPA has a nationwide membership of 1,200 to 1,500, including about 30 members in the Tulsa and Oklahoma City areas.

"We feel we need 40 to 50 members to have a real effective chapter," he said. "We're a little shy of that."

The CPA's third annual convention will be held in November, probably in San Diego, Heck said. "Unfortunately, in my estimate, the title is misleading," he said.

Membership is not limited just to veteran combat pilots, but to anyone who underwent combat training, including all pilots, navigators and radar operators, Heck said. There also are associate memberships available to persons who never trained for combat but share the organization's goal of supporting a strong national defense.

"The reason for it is the organization is not limited to old fuds," he said. "We also want young bucks."

DEAD END HIKE—Members of the Alaska House of Representatives have dug into their own pockets to start a fund for Paul Roberts. Roberts, shown here at the start of a 750-mile hike from Anchorage to Keno Hill in the Canadian Yukon, began his trek to win a $6,000 bet he made with Alaskans in a bar. They said the Honolulu resident wasn't as hardy as native Alaskans. When Roberts reached Keno Hill, he found an envelope containing two dollars and a cruel note. (AP Wirephoto)

Parisian Spring Finds Natives A Bit Morose

By ALINE MOSBY
PARIS (UPI) — That annual springtime spectacular, April in Paris, has opened again. This year the local audience appears morose.

The gloomy grayness of the Paris winter is gone. The chestnut trees have exploded into soft greens along the River Seine and the "grands boulevards."

Cafe owners have put tables and chairs back on the sunny sidewalks and Parisians are quietly resuming coffee or wine sipping and people watching. Windows are flung open and canaries sing in cages on window sills.

The flower stand is back on the corner next to the Opera house. Instant yellow and red flower beds have been packed into gardens around the Eiffel tower and other monuments.

Japanese tourists, cameras at the ready, troop around the dazzling fountains on the Place de la Concorde, turned on again after their winter silence.

Swedes and Dutch and Germans crowd into the Louvre and American youths are back with their guitars in front of Notre Dame cathedral.

The first pink-tipped white asparagus, fat strawberries and tiny melons of the season are arranged in the open street markets that have flourished in Paris neighborhoods since the Middle Ages.

Despite the spring sweetness, Parisians are protesting about life more than usual. Students have been taking to the streets with signs and rocks to agitate against university reforms, designed to make more of them into practical job earners instead of specialists in medieval poetry.

Newspapers report that their readers are alarmed over a government proposed capital gains tax law — France's first — even though it is aimed mainly at building and land speculators.

President Valery Giscard d'Estaing's third reform for spring is worker participation in industry management, but even the unions protest that, apparently because it's a capitalist not Communist president trying to install it.

The president also launched another of his stubborn campaigns to try to shake the French loose from their tradition-bound society by recognizing workers as middle-class. The government put up posters around town saying, "Priority to Laborers."

The poster photographs show a rugged, handsome fellow who looks like a cigarette ad hero except that he wears a steelworker's helmet instead of a cowboy hat.

But at least the sun sparkles on the polluted but peaceful River Seine an hour longer than in past centuries.

The French, slow to accept any change in their habits, have accepted Giscard's new daylight savings time to save electricity and oil bills.

The European community could not agree on even this small innovation so France's neighbors are starting summer hours in different months and France stands alone with its time change, causing confusion at airline and train terminals.

The newly-emerged April sidewalk cafe watchers note that tight blue jeans are back in style after a one year of being eclipsed by skirts.

The "in" top to go with them is the traditional blue-and-white striped Brittany fisherman's sweater which buttons across the shoulder.

The "in" drink now among young swingers is absinthe, potent and illegal, with a champagne chaser.

Brigitte Bardot has given up films to devote her life to protecting animals, but the big evening pastime still is the cinema.

Paris has more movie houses per capita than other capital, possibly because French television is more for patient, intellectual adults than for people seeking popular entertainment.

The most attended films in Paris are "Police Python 357," a French gangster movie, and the American "One Flew Over a Cuckoo's Nest."

The scandal of the theatrical world was the showing of the ballet to Claude Debussy's "Afternoon of a Faun" at the Paris opera in two versions the same night: the 50-year-old one by the Russian Nijinski and the 1953 version of American Jerome Robbins.

Again, the French do not like tampering with tradition.

The favorite television show is "Le Petit Rapporteur" (The Little Reporter), which millions of French watch while eating their Sunday dinner.

Six news reporters spoof the current news or cover offbeat odd stories with camera crews.

One week a reporter flew off in medieval costume, feather in cap, mandolin and all, to try to rescue poor Princess Margaret from her husband-less castle.

Another week the show hopped to New York where a "Petit Rapporteur" asked New Yorkers to walk down steps to prove that not every American keeps falling down like President Gerald Ford.

Retail Ads See Revenue Growth

NEW YORK (UPI) — Retail advertising was first in bringing in newspaper advertising revenue during last year's fourth quarter, according to the Newspaper Advertising Bureau. Revenues from retail ads were at a $5.3 billion annual rate during the period, a gain of 11.4 per cent from the final quarter of 1974. Classified ads, second, rose 10.5 per cent to a $2.6 billion annual rate.

NEW! Gable-Mount Ventilator Kit. . .

24<sup>95</sup>
511

This Leigh Model 511 features a 10" fan blade to quietly cool the living areas of your home as much as 15 degrees, and the adjustable thermostat makes it all automatic! Easily installed in attic window or gable louver.

049361

POWER ROOF
VENTILATOR KIT. . .

409

This Leigh Model 409 power roof vent is controlled by a thermostat to automatically turn on as soon as the heat in the attic gets above a temperature you select. Once it's on, the vent will remove 580 cubic feet of air per minute until the preselected temperature is reached.

Is Your Home Properly Ventilated? (9 Out Of 10 Aren't)

If your house can't "breathe" properly, you have moisture problems! Poor ventilation can cause your house to deteriorate. In addition, proper ventilation has important comfort and money-saving benefits. . . Many homeowners are finding the high cost of energy prohibits the full-time use of air conditioning units. Proper ventilation of your attic will reduce these operating costs significantly. And in non-air conditioned homes, proper ventilation is an inexpensive answer to greater summer comfort! Visit Moore's today and see at a glance how easily a Leigh Ventilator can be installed to operate in your home from our mounted display models.
