

Vote To Fully Implement N.C. Kindergarten Plan

By DAVID R. NELSON
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — If the members of the House and Senate follow the urging of their leaders, North Carolina's kindergarten program will be fully implemented this fall—two years ahead of schedule—and teachers and state workers will get a pay raise averaging about 8 per cent.

Next week, the legislature will meet to review the budget for next fiscal year, which begins July 1, and consider the medical malpractice insurance problem. Wednesday's agreement could mean a short session. Hunt said it may not last two weeks. Because teachers and state employees were denied a raise last year, it was given top priority for next year by most legislative leaders. The plan agreed upon Wednesday would give each employe a 4 per cent pay increase plus a flat raise of $300 a year. Green said the 4 per cent raise would cost about $56 million and the flat raise would cost about $101 million. Another part of the agreement is that the state absorb the $7 million additional cost for health insurance for state workers. Blue Cross-Blue Shield has told the state it must raise rates by next fall. The agreement gives lower paid workers a larger increase than those in higher brackets because those in low paying jobs have been hurt the most by inflation, Hunt and Green said. To make kindergarten available to all 5-year-olds, the maximum number of pupils per class allowed by law would be increased from the current 26 to 28. But, the change in law would include a provision requiring that the maximum allowed number of pupils be returned to 26 after two years, Hunt and Green said.

Without the change, only 65 per cent of the state's eligible children will be able to attend public kindergarten next fall. The estimated additional cost to step up expansion of the kindergarten program is about $7.9 million, making the total appropriation about $51 million, Green said.

If the program were to be fully implemented with 26 pupils per class, the cost would be about $63 million, Green said. "My reason for going to the 28 pupils per classroom is that it would allow us to implement the program now and it would reduce the increase of future appropriations required in 1977-78 and 1978-79 by some $22 million," he said.

By the time classes must be cut back to 26 pupils, declining enrollments are expected to reduce the cost. Green predicted the decline will be enough to allow the class size to be cut back to 26 without additional appropriations. Hunt said he's not sure the decline would be that much.

Part of the money for the pay raise and kindergarten expansion would come from a one-time windfall of at least $67 million that would in changing the collection of withholding tax from employers from quarterly to monthly. That way, the state will collect the last months of next fiscal year in that budget period.

Decision Expected Today

Decision On Rezoning Of 46-Acre Area Set In May

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Action on a rezoning request, involving some 46 acres west of the US 264 Bypass and north of 14th Street, will be taken in May by the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission, which held a lengthy discussion on the controversial matter Wednesday evening.

The request by David Evans Sr. and Reynolds May for rezoning the area lying south of the Eastern Elementary School property met with strong opposition by area residents who also opposed earlier attempts by the owners to develop the property.

The current request and development proposal reflected some revisions from the request submitted nearly a year ago by the property owners.

Phil Carroll, representing the owners, said that they are seeking to rezone the tract from R-9 and R-20 (residential) to R-6 and Office and Institutional with the intent of developing R-6 zone with single family quarters and townhomes.

Carroll, noting that a section of the R-6 zone abutting the recreational facilities owned by the city would be planned for townhomes, explained that the present section already zoned for Neighborhood Commercial usage would remain the same. Single family development is projected for the western sector of the property with the townhome concept designed for the middle section of the tract. The property along the bypass would be designated for Office and Institutional development with access off the bypass.

One of the key revisions in the plan from a year ago involves Cedar Lane, it was noted. The current proposal does not provide for extending the present street through the property as called for in the plan last year.

Carroll said that the changes in the current proposal are based on input from citizens of the area. Recalling the difficulty the property owners have faced with past requests, he contended that they have the right to utilize their property with some reasonable use.

He said that access to the O&I property is planned from the bypass in order to avoid routing the traffic through the residential area.

Commissioner Karl Faser asked whether a service road could be provided to handle the business traffic. He cited the speed limit on the bypass as a factor to consider when planning access points.

Faser said that the plan does reflect a change from multi-family development to single family and he noted that the O&I zone has been reduced. In addition, Cedar Lane is projected to remain a dead end street.

Chairman Eddie Howell said that "the man has a right to develop his property."

Carroll, in response to a question concerning the office development, said that it would not be probable to expect that all of the property would be developed before ten to 15 years.

"We feel like... this is a fair type of utilization," he added. Bill Holley of 2912 Rose Street presented a petition containing the names of 140 persons in opposition to a change in the zoning to Office and Institutional or to R-6.

Joe Hayes of 404 Adams contended that the O&I proposal constitutes "strip development" and he stated his opposition to the rezoning. He said the development would be detrimental to the residents of the area.

An appeal to "look at... other cities and don't let that happen to Greenville" was issued by Charles Pennington who said that he had seen similar development in other cities and "I know what can happen."

A request for the rezoning petition to be denied was also stated by W. J. Simmons who said that he did not want the area zone changed to anything other than R-9.

Potential increases in the traffic problem of the area and the traffic safety factor involving school children were cited by Howard Stocks. Stocks asked that the rezoning request be denied.

Rudy Cox of 1618 Greenville Boulevard said he has "been fighting this thing for ten years" and he pointed out that when he bought his property it was "strictly residential." Now, he noted, "we are boxed in" with the exception of property west of the bypass.

W. M. Smith said that he feels it is inconsistent to downgrade the residential areas by changing the zoning from R-9 to R-6. He contended the property in the area has already been downgraded by the Jaycee Park development.

Carroll said that there is a natural buffer on Reedy Branch between the property in question, and the Wright Road home owners. He contended those property owners have not been affected by the recreational development.

Howell explained that since the request did not constitute an emergency situation, it would be tabled until the May meeting.

In other business on the city agenda, approval was given for the final plat of Sharon Subdivision developed by David Evans Jr. The plat included a revision of lots between Howell and Norris Streets, it was noted, and Evans said that single family houses are planned for the lots.

Evans noted that the property was purchased from the Redevelopment Commission and he doesn't consider it a

Plans for a new and innovative bike trail mark the first in-depth joint venture between the City of Greenville and the ECU Student Government Association (SGA).

At a meeting of the SGA earlier this week, a resolution was introduced and approved by SGA to allocate $12,000 in funds to match $12,000 earmarked by the city in early April for a new bike trail beginning in the western part of town along

Arlington Boulevard to Green Mill Run, across Charles Street, along Ficklen (Sanford) Drive, crossing over 14th and 10th Streets and ending on the ECU campus.

Commenting on the SGA action, SGA President Tim Sullivan said "The $12,000 appropriated by approval of the resolution on Monday night will be available during the wum-

mer. Sullivan noted that the SGA allocation is being made with the understanding there will be no major changes in the basic plan for the bike route. "If major changes should develop we would have to re-evaluate the allocation."

Sullivan and City Planner John Schofield both explained

AYDEN — Politicians — including both office-holders and hopefuls — were out in force yesterday at the 54th annual meeting of the John Pierce Fellowship Club, held at Camp Contentment on the banks of Contentnea Creek.

Elected officials at all levels — from mayors and board of education members to members of the Council of State and the U.S. House of Representatives — rubbed shoulders and shook hands with those seeking office in this year's general election and with several hundred political followers.

First District Congressman Walter Jones was there for the barbecue and fried chicken lunch.

Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt had planned to attend but was detained in Raleigh due to a budget meeting, as was Sen. Tom Strickland, D-Wayne) both seeking the Governor's chair.

But Ed O'Herron, another candidate for the Democratic nomination was there as were Waverly Akins and Frank

Persinger New Chairman For Mid-East Body

WASHINGTON, N. C. — Ayden Mayor Ross Persinger was named the new chairman of the Mid-East Commission at installation services in Washington last night. He succeeded Robert B. Spivey of Windsor.

"I accept the chairmanship of the Mid-East Commission with a solid commitment to support these people in a continuing effort for growth and mutual progress for us all. Many challenges are ahead and I am sure that with dedication of this commission working together will continue to grow and conquer ultimate goals," Persinger said.

The officers were installed by Secretary of State, Thad Eure. They are as follows: Chairman, Mayor Persinger; First Vice Chairman, Frank T. Bonner of Beaufort County; Second Vice Chairman, Earl R. Lewis of Hertford County; Secretary, Jack Haden of Williamston; and Treasurer, L. T. Livermon Jr. of Windsor.

Guest speaker of the installation banquet Attorney General Rufus L. Edmisten commended the commission for its planning efforts.

"I am excited by the most recent developments in planning. I have long been an advocate of increasing local control over public decisions. No one is better able to determine the advantages and disadvantages of a new dam, or an alcoholism center, or industrial growth than the people who will be most directly affected by those developments," Edmisten said.

ROSS PERSINGER

Edmisten as the state's chief attorney and law enforcement officer expressed some of his primary concerns within his position.

"Crime and the effectiveness of society's response to criminal activity is not the only serious issue we must resolve in the years ahead. Education, and public health, mental health and economic development are vital to the prosperity of this state and its people," he said.

"We must make commitments in these areas as long as the public wishes to have government provide services that individuals seem increasingly less able to provide for themselves," he said.

A slide presentation entitled "A Picture of the Mid-East Region" was presented at the banquet. The presentation was narrated by Carl Venters, Jr., the first chairman of the Mid East Commission.

CRIME WATCH

I think the 24-hour citizens' neighborhood watch proposed by the Greenville Police Department is a fantastic idea. Maybe my porch furniture wouldn't have been stolen if we could have had it sooner. When does it start? C. B.

Doug Jackson, Greenville Police Department Crime Prevention Officer, says the Mobile Crime Watch Program will start just as soon as enough participants can be recruited, screened, and trained. He says he now has about 30 applications, not all of which have yet been screened. He needs about 50 persons participating. Any licensed citizens' band radio operator is eligible. Not all have to be mobile. Some base station operators also are needed.

The idea is to have private citizens in all neighborhoods of Greenville at all times of the day and night watching for anything unusual to report to police. Other cities and counties that have tried the idea have cut their crime rates, Jackson said. He believes it acts as a deterrent, as well as a way to give law enforcement "more eyes."

Applications may be picked up at the Police Department.

Candidate For Lt. Gov. Cites Interest In East

By JAMES KYLE
Reflector Staff Writer

Democratic candidate for Lieutenant governor E. Frank Stephenson Jr. stressed his strong support for eastern North Carolina in an interview here yesterday.

"My first priority is eastern North Carolina," Stephenson said. "Because rural eastern North Carolina has been forgotten."

Stephenson said roads, medical care and schools in this part of the state have been "forgotten." Eastern North Carolina is "a unique region of the country and folks here are unique," according to Stephenson. "They want a chance to move up and the same opportunities to move up as people in the western part of the state."

The Hertford County native, in the area for a program in Ayden.

said he is "solid behind, the ECU medical school and has a "strong hope for better medical care for eastern North Carolina."

"I come from Murfreesboro and know what it is to have to stand in line to see a doctor," Stephenson said. He said he has been in favor of the medical school "all along."

Better highways for the eastern part of the state is another issue Stephenson favors. He said he would like to see major four-lane highways built from east to west and from north to south in eastern North Carolina.

"The transportation system is not that strong in eastern North Carolina and that hampers us in getting good industry," which Stephenson said he would like to

In-Laws Entitled To 'Choose' Race

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a black woman married to a black man who has very light skin. Nearly everyone in his family is light-skinned, and their hair is thin, like Caucasians.

Some of my husband's relatives are trying to pass as Indians. They go around with their hair parted in the middle wearing headbands. They look ridiculous because the Indians around here don't wear headbands. They even put "Indian" on their drivers' licenses where it says "race."

When one of them gets married, they have a Catholic ceremony, and then at the reception they all sit around and smoke the "peace pipe."

My poor husband is so humiliated because everyone who knows about his relatives looks at him funny.

At first I thought that these people did not want to be considered black because of the hard times minorities have in some places. But, Abby, Indians are more of a minority than blacks are!

I am not prejudiced against any minority. I just hate phony people. What is your opinion?

UPSET IN MARYLAND

DEAR UPSET: You can't pick your relatives, but you can pick your friends, and there is no law that forces you to be friendly with relatives you don't care for. And as for their "passing," if people want to pass, IT'S THEIR BUSINESS.

DEAR ABBY: I have two big, good-looking sons. One is 16 and the other one is 18, and they've been fighting each other since they were old enough to swing their arms.

The 18-year-old just bought a car and drove past his brother walking down the road, and he wouldn't even stop to give him a ride.

The 16-year-old, who's as big as his brother, keeps his clothes in better shape, so the older one helps himself to his kid brother's clothes without asking. These boys fight and cuss each other out like a couple of mule skinner.

What can't they act like brothers?

WEST VA. MOM

DEAR MOM: They do. Cain and Abel.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend (21) and I (19) have a very beautiful love relationship, but he says he doesn't "like" me. He says he "loves" me very often, but that is only when we are in a love situation.

He very seldom takes me places in the company of other people, and he doesn't talk to me very much, but he is a wonderful lover when he is in the mood.

I really love him, and it is very depressing to know that he doesn't "like" me. Or should I be satisfied that he loves me?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: What your boyfriend is trying to tell you, dear, is that you are a very good "love partner," but that's all. If you're looking for a totally satisfying relationship, I suggest that you lose this "lover" and find someone who can "like" you in broad daylight in a vertical position.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a man who comes into someone's home and sits the entire evening in the company of men and women without removing his hat?

MAUDE

DEAR MAUDE: He has no manners, no hair or a new hat.

Cooking Is Fun

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

According to market reports, Americans are buying less sugar than they used to.

It's not surprising. All over the country both Establishment nutritionists and health-food addicts have been warning us that there's too much sugar in our diet.

On every hand we hear of cooks cutting down on the sugar called for in recipes, using honey and corn syrup and looking for low-sugar rules.

An enterprising cook from Minnesota has come up with an interesting method for preparing apple rings minus sugar. This way the rings are simmered in unsweetened apple juice. Tried in our kitchen, we found them good.

APPLE-JUICE APPLE RINGS
1 pound (3 medium) apples
3 to 4 cups bottled unsweetened apple juice

Peel and core apples. Slice crosswise into 1/2-inch thick rings — there should be 4 from each apple.

In a 12-inch skillet heat 3 cups of the apple juice until it bubbles; add apple rings in a single layer. Simmer, turning once and adding more apple juice if needed, until rings are a light amber color and juice is greatly reduced.

Use a wide spatula to transfer to a serving dish or individual dishes, spooning the small amount of reduced juice over them. Serve warm or cold.

Makes 4 servings.

Note: These apple rings may be served for dessert; this way they are delicious with a special topping. To prepare this, remove a pint of vanilla ice cream from the freezer about 10 minutes before serving and turn it into an electric mixer bowl. Beat at low speed just until the ice cream is the consistency of whipped cream.

The apple rings are also good served "as is" with fried or roast chicken, roast pork, bacon or sausage patties or links.

Frozen Chinese-style pea pods benefit from being cooked, after they are thawed, in a little oil. When prepared this way they stay crisper than when they are cooked in water — as package directions sometimes suggest.

Designer Shuns European Look For Timelessness

By SCOTT LATHAM
NEW YORK (UPI) — His parents, reared in Sicily, came to the United States in 1914. His father was a tailor; his mother a clothing finisher. When they lived on New York's lower East Side, where he was born, they worked in a clothing factory.

That's the ethnic side to Sal Cesarani. But despite his name and ancestry, he is a distinctly American designer.

At a time when the European look dominates much of the high fashion scene in men's wear, Cesarani creates clothing with an understated elegance and a sense of timelessness.

"I'm a true traditionalist," Cesarani says. "I will not do the exaggerated shoulder so popular in Europe. I will not do the no-vent look of the guy who wore the George Raft suit."

But his traditionalism doesn't mean that the clothing he creates is dull.

In 1974 he won a special Coty Award for a designer line he created called Country Britches. And recently Cesarani was nominated for a 1975 Coty Award in men's wear.

But his 1976 spring and summer line marks his debut under his own designer label, and soon he will introduce his fall collection.

"It's exciting for me because I try to create clothing men will love and wear," Cesarani says. "I don't like the European silhouette because the high armhole and roped shoulder make it too restrictive. I'm seeking a style that provides the wearer more comfort."

Because of this, Cesarani designs only natural-shoulder suits and jackets. But it's not a square or boxy look.

"I try to bring a contemporary flavor to traditional clothing," the 35-year-old Cesarani explains. "For instance, I might see something from the past — a small detail — and incorporate it into a traditional jacket."

The effect is sometimes startling. Two years ago Cesarani designed a wind-tab collar to add a more sporty, masculine look to some of his clothing. This year, he has changed the approach somewhat and come up with a detachable wind tab. When worn, it forms a natural and elegant extension of the collar; or it can be discarded and the jacket worn naturally. Each look is distinctive.

Cesarani's clothing runs the gamut of the male wardrobe — business suits with peaked or notched lapels, sportswear, outerwear, shirts and sweaters. Cesarani ties will soon be on their way, and all of his clothing is done in natural fibers.

One of the originators of the mix-and-match concept for men, Cesarani chooses his colors and fabrics so that a man on a small budget can create as many as four or five totally different looks from two suits by combining various parts.

The idea is not simply to pick up a single color and carry it off in different patterns — the so-called melange or monochromatic look — but to mix up the fabrics and textures as well.

"What I'm after is a sense of style — not a sense of fashion," Cesarani says. "Style means something. It is perhaps the greatest form of communication. Basically, I want a man to relate to beautiful fabrics."

But then he remembers where he came from and where he got his determination to become a designer, working his way through the High School of Fashion Industries and the Fashion Institute of Technology.

"My family lived on the lower East Side — between First and Second Avenues on Fifth Street," Cesarani recalled. "We had lived on Fourth Street, but we moved a block away because the building was going to get heat. I guess my parents gave me a sense of pulling things together."

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

You know what they say. The metric system is like termites. No sense worrying about them until they get here.

Well, friend, they're here. Those creeping, crawling centimeters, grams and liters that threaten to put me in a size 142 girdle and a size 38 sandal have taken over.

The other day at coffee, Madelyn Murk the neighborhood gossip said, "Have I got a flash for all of you." We all sat there like a tableau—our coffee mugs in mid-air, not daring to breathe lest we miss one whip of her vicious tongue. "Remember Ginger, the hostess at the club who wears makeup a meter thick and stands around with her mouth open a kilometer? Well, she has this thing for Jan's husband."

"No!" we gasped in unison.

"Well, you know Jan," she continued. "All wool and a meter wide. She wouldn't suspect anything. Takes everything with a gram of salt. Played right into Ginger's hand."

"I don't know Ginger," said Mayva.

"You do too. She's always got the dry, wild hair that looks like she's down a liter of oil. Pushy! Very pushy! Give her a meter and she'll take a kilometer."

"Well, what happened was one day at lunch, Ardis said to Jan, 'Remember the old gent Ginger was after? The one with one centimeter on a banana peel and one centimeter in the grave? Well, she's got new action now. A married man! And you know something? He's sitting a scant hectometer away from us.'"

"Leave it to Ardis to put her meter in her mouth."

"Don't I know? She was never one to hide her ignorance under a hectoliter basket. Go on! What happened?"

"They looked over and, of course, there sat Jan's husband."

"What did she do?"

"Jan turned to Ardis and said, 'Judge no one until you've walked a kilometer in his moccasins.'"

"That's beautiful," said Mayva. "What does it mean?"

"That means you can go all over God's green hectare and you'll never find anyone with an avoidrpois of human kindness to equal that of Jan's."

"Believe me, if it were me I'd demand my kilogram of flesh."

"What's that in English measurement?" I asked quietly.

"A pound," said Madelyn.

"What the heck," I said. "Put me down for a pound too. Anyone know how to double a kilogram?"

Mrs. DeRosset Is Pilot Club Speaker

Mrs. Sylvia deRosset, regional coordinator for the North Carolina Council on the Status of Women, reviewed the formation of the council and its function in a county at the meeting of the Pilot Club of Greenville, Inc., Monday evening at the Ramada Inn.

Mrs. deRosset prefaced her remarks by stating the council is not to be confused with the "Women's Lib Organization." She stated the council was established in 1963 by an executive order from Governor Terry Sanford. In 1965 the legislature made it statutory, but it remained unfunded until 1973 when a CITA grant was given.

According to the speaker, there are now 30 councils in North Carolina. These are located in the western, central and extreme north eastern counties. She is visiting counties in Region Q in view of establishing a council, and added that Beaufort County has recently organized one.

The purpose of the volunteer endeavor is to investigate need, and initiate change and improvement in the county. She mentioned day care and the increasing number of teenage pregnancies as examples of areas needing consideration. Since a council is appointed by the County Commissioners, she suggested that interested women in Pitt County contact the commissioners and request that a council be established. She also stated that staff members in Raleigh are available to write grants for special projects funds.

Mrs. deRosset gave the club a book published by the North Carolina Council on the Status of Women, and one entitled "Women and the Law."

A native of Washington, she is married to Attorney R. C. deRosset Jr. and resides in Behaven. They are the parents of five children.

During the business meeting, reports were given on club activities. These include donation of lawn chairs to the nursing home, donation of 19 paper back books, High Interest — Easy Reading, to Rose High School Library, parties and a trip for handicapped children, a birthday party with cake for each child enrolled at REAP, donation of a Boy Scout uniform and many articles given to ADAPT. It was reported that the activities of the Anchor Club are a credit to the Pilot Club of Greenville.

Officers were elected and will be installed at the May meeting. Mrs. Lenora Morton, president, presided at both meetings.

They've Met All The Promises

Last Sunday a 12,000 foot addition to the Eastern Carolina Sheltered Workshop was dedicated.

The occasion calls attention to the outstanding service this facility has been furnishing to the area.

The workshop was established in 1965 and, as Claude Myer, director of Vocational Rehabilitation in North Carolina said, "The workshop has come a long way in nine short years. It is presently serving more clients daily than any other sheltered workshop in North Carolina."

"According to my staff," he continued, "the Eastern Carolina Sheltered Workshop is one of the most comprehensive quality programs in North Carolina and Eastern United States."

The workshop has five major programs: the adult day activity program, the personal and should adjustment program, vocational evaluation program, work therapy program and work adjustment program.

Its best known program, work therapy, does furniture refinishing, custom picture framing, lawn maintenance for industries, telephone refurbishing, woodcraft and produces dog and cat collars.

Thus the services offered by the workshop are productive in every way.

The Eastern Carolina Sheltered Workshop has fulfilled all that was promised when it was originally founded. Director Howard G. Dawkins and his staff deserve the community's full support.

Prisons Can Use Bedspace

By BILL NOBLITT
(First of Two Articles)

RALEIGH—If there were some cooperation between state agencies, the overcrowding of state prisons could be relieved dramatically.

Prison officials complain of the 13,000-plus prisoners jammed into a system which at best can house around 10,000. Prison inmates with mattresses slung over their shoulders as they hunt a place to bed down for the night have come commonplace at some units.

Inmates are sleeping in showers, recreation rooms, hallways, prison spokesmen say, and the problem is compounded by the growingly hard-case nature of the prison population.

While admissions to prison remain rather constant, those sentenced are increasingly felons with longer terms who require stricter supervision—gun-grade as opposed to honor-grade.

Central Prison, the maximum security compound near downtown Raleigh, houses 1,322 inmates in crowded cellblocks and dormitories designed for 900.

Meanwhile, state-owned buildings stand idle or little-used containing space which could, if properly utilized, go a long way toward relieving prison crowding.

Traditionally, prisons officials have rejected using such facilities on the grounds they are not secure enough, and that the need for space involves gun-grade prisoners.

For the last couple of years, as the prison population explosion took place, the argument over housing has gone back and forth between Corrections Secretary David L. Jones, prison reformists such as former State Senator Eddie Knox of Charlotte who chairs a prison study commission, various members of the General Assembly, and other state agency heads.

Jones, until recent weeks, was steadfastly opposed to using other available space and held out for millions of dollars in new construction, including two new high-rise buildings and a $34.4 million reconstruction of Central Prison.

That direction, during hard financial times, proved to be slow and uncertain to the degree that one high-rise at Hillsborough has been eliminated, and money slated for it used to add on cells at existing prison units across the state.

Meanwhile, the Knox Commission is ready to turn the heat on the General Assembly in its special session in May to take action to require inter-agency cooperation to "make available existing state facilities for use by the Division of Prisons."

Such legislative coercion is required because so far no steps have been taken to implement the apparent solutions. Prison officials say they run into community opposition on the one hand, and resistance from the other state agencies which own the property on the other.

Gov. James E. Holshouser, Jr., who could have directed the action by executive order, has kept hands off. Knox now hopes to convince legislators to demand the action.

A survey by staff to the Knox Commission found that the training schools have a population of 868 in units with a capacity of 1,700. One or more of the training schools, controlled by the Department of Human Resources, could be turned into prisons. Additionally, the Garner Road campus of the State School for the Blind has been given up by Human Resources and assigned to the State Highway Patrol for a rookie school. Several hundred beds with dining hall, recreation, classroom, and workshop space is available there. Also, state hospitals, especially the tuberculosis and orthopedic units, have empty space.

To overcome the argument that such facilities are not secure enough for prison use, the Knox Commission plans to recommend that a number of major shifts be made involving training schools in which population is steadily declining due to elimination of the non-criminal child such as the truant or disobedient.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Forbodings In Ford's Camp

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK
EVANSVILLE, Ind.—

Through 21 hours of intensive campaigning in Indiana last week, President Ford was forced time and again to defend, explain and refine his administration's positions on North Vietnam and the Panama Canal—adding to the deepening sense of foreboding about November within his campaign.

Vietnam and Panama were not issues of Mr. Ford's choosing. Nor would he have even been here if given his choice. In fact, what he said and when he said it were dictated by the challenge of Ronald Reagan. Forced to make sure of an expected win in the May 4 Indiana primary, which he cannot afford to lose, the President must address Reagan's accusations of softness on foreign policy questions.

This has caused foreboding among the Ford high command, not about winning the Republican nomination (which is considered certain) but about what lies beyond. Preoccupation with Reagan's challenge has delayed even a start at planning the fall campaign. A top Ford operative privately admits that "we never think beyond the next primary election."

What makes this particularly alarming to Mr. Ford's adviser is the increasing possibility that Jimmy Carter, privately viewed at the White House as much tougher than Sen. Hubert Humphrey, may be the Democratic nominee. How best to run against a Georgia peanut farmer—by redoubling the President's Southern effort or by turning to Northern industrial states?

That question is scarcely considered by the Ford campaign in its preoccupation with Reagan.

Finally, last week's swing through Indiana made clear that Mr. Ford has not yet corrected and probably never will correct his defects as a campaigner. His dreary performance here suggests excessive dependence on the risky question-and-answer format, adopted by Ford tacticians as preferable to the President's leaden delivery of set speeches. Whether his campaign style, barely adequate against Reagan, can win in November generates increasing worry in the Ford camp.

The gratitude by Ford operatives to the Reagan campaign for forcing them to organize, so strong in mid-March, has vanished. Rather, Reagan's upset in North Carolina March 23 is now viewed as a calamity. "If it hadn't been for North Carolina," a Ford adviser told us, "we wouldn't be wasting our time in Indiana."

Visiting Indiana is a "waste" because it is so solidly Republican for general elections. But the possibility of Reagan primary wins in Texas May 1 and Georgia and Alabama May 4 makes Indiana indispensable for the President. Hence, last week's study to men because they have a higher incidence of heart attack than women.

They found that death from heart disease is more often caused by any number of things such as smoking, congestive heart failure, physical activity, weight, high blood pressure and a history of heart damage. They also said that occupation or religion, both of little importance when compared with other factors related to heart disease, are still more frequently associated with heart attack than coffee drinking.

This is heartening news, especially to all the coffee clubbers, whose members actually do more talking than coffee drinking. Coffee, after all, only acts as a catalyst, something to use as an excuse to bring everyone together for a chat.

This is a tremendous relief, particularly since the price of the coffee bean is predicted to soar to new heights because of severe frost damage to the crop in South America last year. What with higher prices and no real anticipation of eliminating or reducing our daily consumption, we're glad to know that coffee drinking is no longer considered hazardous to our health. Now if they'll just make some equally heartening discoveries about cigarettes.

GIVE, GIVE, GIVE

A peddler on a street corner was selling lemon squeezers and was holding forth sonorously on their efficiency. He used the utensil to squeeze a lemon and then said with confidence, "I'll give this lemon squeezer to anyone who can squeeze one more drop out of this lemon."

A little old man pushed through the crowd, and, taking the squeezer in his hand, succeeded in squeezing half a dozen more drops from the lemon. The peddler asked him in astonishment, "Who in the world are you, anyway?"

The old gentleman chuckled and pointing across the street replied, "I am the treasurer of the church on the corner."

Some people, when confronted by the constant need of churches for funds, feel like the lemon in the squeezer. As one such person said, "This Christian business is just give, give, give." He was right. That is precisely what it is. We have to give our lives in consecration to get it, and then we have to live our lives in outgoing helpfulness to keep it.

Rights And Regulations

It scarcely made a ripple in the news, but the Supreme Court last month agreed to hear a case that will write some new law in an old conflict. This is the conflict between the rights of the individual and the power of the state. The case involves a contractor and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA).

If I seem to write incessantly on this theme, it is because no other theme strikes me as having greater importance to the American people. Especially in this Bicentennial period, we ought to be thinking long and hard about our fundamental rights and what is happening to them.

The agency known as OSHA, established six years ago under the Department of Labor, is one of a dozen such agencies that have sprung up in the past 10 or 15 years. Its beneficent purpose is to reduce industrial accidents by establishing safety regulations, making inspections, and imposing punishment for violation of the regulations. The purpose is admirable.

The same comment can be made about other regulatory agencies. We have a commission to police racial and sexual discrimination, a commission to protect consumers from hazardous products, a commission to improve the environment. We have agencies to exert federal authority over education, health, housing and welfare. All of them are well-intentioned; all of them perform some useful labor.

But where should the line be drawn between rights and powers? For an answer, it seems to me, we ought to follow George Mason's famous advice: We ought to "recur to fundamentals," which is to say, to the Constitution itself. This is the issue in the case of Frank Irey, Jr., Inc. v OSHA.

Other Editors Say Fears Dismissed

(Cartaret County News-Times)

Doctors have ruled that previous reports linking coffee drinking and heart attacks were probably the result of inaccurate testing.

The Irey company, based in Monongahela, Pa., was engaged in January, 1972, in performing an excavation contract in Morgantown, W. Va. A fatal accident occurred when the sides of a trench caved in. Inspectors from OSHA cited the contractor for violating a number of safety regulations. The agency imposed a $5,000 fine, which subsequently was upheld by OSHA's Review Commission.

Illegal Aliens Target

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal immigration authorities are planning to return thousands of illegal aliens to their home communities in the interior of Mexico instead of just sending them to the Mexican border.

Four years ago the Boston Collaborative Drug Surveillance Program at Boston University reported a statistical link between coffee drinking and acute myocardial infarction, heart damage that results from a blocked artery.

Although we were conscious of this, we didn't permit it to occupy our minds very long, certainly to the extent that it might make us forego that first cup in the morning that is always surrounded by the delicious aroma. We just resigned ourselves to whatever the fates had in store. But we are glad to find out now, that despite these earlier findings to the contrary, we can drink coffee with little fear of heart disease.

I hold no brief whatever for the Irey company. An opinion of the Third U.S. Circuit suggests that the company may have been sorely negligent. If so, the company deserves to be punished or penalized as provided by law. Stick 'em good! But the key phrase is, "as provided by law."

The Immigration and Naturalization Service wants to find out if this procedure will discourage the Mexicans from making repeated efforts to enter the United States illegally, said INS spokesman Verne Jervis.

Doctors reviewed the habits of 649 men between the ages of 30 and 70 who died of heart disease, considering 22 factors that might be associated with heart trouble. Lest anyone think the physicians are guilty of male chauvinism, they limited their study to men because they have a higher incidence of heart attack than women.

The supreme law of our land says, in the forgotten Seventh Amendment, that in suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, "the right of trial by jury shall be preserved." This is among the most venerable of our rights, dating to Magna Carta. The question is whether the government, in its zeal for power, has denied an ancient right.

40 Years Ago Today

April 29, 1936

President Roosevelt maintained his wide lead over Colonel Henry Breckinridge as further returns were received from yesterday's presidential primaries in Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

They found that death from heart disease is more often caused by any number of things such as smoking, congestive heart failure, physical activity, weight, high blood pressure and a history of heart damage. They also said that occupation or religion, both of little importance when compared with other factors related to heart disease, are still more frequently associated with heart attack than coffee drinking.

It is a tremendous relief, particularly since the price of the coffee bean is predicted to soar to new heights because of severe frost damage to the crop in South America last year. What with higher prices and no real anticipation of eliminating or reducing our daily consumption, we're glad to know that coffee drinking is no longer considered hazardous to our health. Now if they'll just make some equally heartening discoveries about cigarettes.

Figures from nearly half of the districts in Pennsylvania gave Roosevelt 360,403 votes to 19,829 for Breckinridge.

Addition of convention delegates from both states brought those listed for Roosevelt to 442, all of those so far selected of the 1,100 to be in Philadelphia for the convention.

New Leader On The 'Big Board'

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) —

There were other considerations too, including Needham's frustrations in dealing with the still powerful "club members," many of them specialists, who are said to fight change in order to preserve privilege, including huge incomes.

mendations." He was named chairman.

James Needham, hired from the Securities and Exchange Commission in 1972 as a problem solver, is being replaced as New York Stock Exchange chairman by William Batten, the merchandiser.

Batten's job is to sell the exchange to investors, regulators and even to its own members as a unique enterprise, a quality auction place that should occupy a central role in the nation's changing securities market.

If he fails, it could mark the demise of the exchange as it now exists.

Sources close to the situation give this as one interpretation of the leadership change at the Big Board, in which Needham, 49, leaves with close to two years remaining on his five-year contract.

The big problem ahead is the formidable one of fitting the exchange into the currently amorphous concept of one central market place, in which an order placed through one exchange is to be the best price available on any exchange.

Needham solved many operational problems, and some say he saved the exchange. He strengthened the board. He made changes that enabled the exchange to handle three times the volume that had almost destroyed it in 1968.

But now, it is said, the exchange's existence remains at stake. If it cannot

During much of the past two years Batten was on another such assignment, this time for the exchange. A director, he was appointed by Needham to study and make recommendations concerning stock specialists, powerful, privileged, controversial floor traders.

Many critics believed the specialists, who are charged with maintaining a orderly flow of buy and sell orders, should be replaced by a computer, facetiously referred to as a "black box."

The specialist often must use his own funds to buy or sell against the trend of prices in his assigned stocks if necessary to maintain a smooth market, that is, one free from wide price spreads between trades.

It is a prized spot, sometimes with a high six-

Methodists Consider Change: Making Bishops 'Temporary'

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Once a bishop, always a bishop — that's the view prevailing through most of Christian history. But United Methodists are considering a break with the pattern. A proposal before their governing convention Wednesday would make bishops serve a limited term of eight years, then relegate them to the clergy again.

This would "lessen the tendency of bishops to become autocratic," said a report presented by Louise Branscomb of Birmingham, Ala. The report said it would be more in keeping with a modern mood of "greater openness and shared responsibility."

Some others also maintained the present permanent status of bishops makes for an unseemly "kingly" image and an "imperial" aloofness from the people. The complaints echoed those of the 16th Century Protestant Reformation.

Cunniff....

Batten said in his study that the specialist was necessary, that the black box wouldn't work. But the study suggested the specialists' conduct be more effectively policed, and urged that allocation of stocks be used to discipline them.

Now Batten has the job of carrying out this and other recommendations. He must establish that the exchange offers the public the very best prices by bringing together in one place the largest number of stocks in open trading.

Some brokers and regulators aren't so certain the specialists should stand in the middle of all this, picking up commissions. They feel that specialists and other floor traders — those who hold "seats," that is, as opposed to brokers in offices — carry too much voting power.

The critics wonder if it wouldn't be better to continue stripping the exchange, and especially floor members, of their exclusive and often restrictive powers, turning more of the work over to machines.

Supporters of the specialist, Batten among them, contend that the myriad individual decisions made by the specialist cannot be programmed into a computer. Better to police and severely discipline the specialist instead.

If the issue cannot be resolved, some brokers are in favor of dealer markets, in which the brokers themselves would buy and sell stocks from their own portfolios, setting their own prices in competition with other brokers.

Rather than being a physical entity, that type of market would be a system of wires, electronic impulses, codes and the like. It would replace exchange floors with scores of brokers interacting face to face.

Batten's job is to save the New York Stock Exchange.

But the majority of a study commission that considered the matter for four years defended retention of the present system under which a bishop, once consecrated to that office, holds it for life whether active or retired.

The custom links Methodists with ancient Christian practice, upheld in Roman Catholicism, Eastern Orthodoxy and the Episcopal or Anglican churches of the world.

"It's an important part of our past and future ecumenical relations," said the Rev. Dr. Merlyn W. Northfelt of Evanston, Ill., chairman of the study commission. "It's of tremendous value."

He said efforts to eliminate it were part of a mood in which "all sources of authority are under attack" and which demands that bishops also "be cut down."

He said that although the "office has been abused in isolated cases, that doesn't mean we should destroy the office."

On the other hand, the Rev. William O. Walker of Corvallis, Ore., said such a change would help eliminate the "aura of episcopal kowtowing" that surrounds bishops.

"The level on which we put bishops is a kingly sort of thing that needs to be de-escalated," he said. "It sometimes turns bishops' heads and they become imperial. I'm concerned not so much with their power as the image of power and what it does to relationships with people."

The issue was referred to a committee for later action at the 12-day meeting, now in its third day.

Although Methodist bishops do not directly maintain the historic bishops' succession, which Roman Catholics, Orthodox and Episcopalians trace back to Jesus' apostles, Methodists have upheld the system as a practical administrative method.

Methodist bishops, surpassing their Episcopal church counterparts in authority, are empowered to appoint and install pastors at will among the 39,000 congregations of the 10 million-member denomination.

Kilpatrick....

Sooner or later, the Supreme Court will have to hear a different but related issue involving the rights of the citizen and the power of OSHA. The act creating OSHA undertakes to authorize the agency's inspectors to make unwarranted searches of private property. This, too, strikes me as an intolerable trespass upon fundamental rights. If OSHA has probable cause to believe that an employer is violating safety regulations, OSHA should be required to go to a judge and get a warrant. Such a procedure would not thwart the law; it would uphold the Constitution.

Granted, it never is easy to draw a clean line between rights and powers. A government without sufficient power to perform its legitimate functions is no government at all; but people whose rights are insecure are no free people. We ought to fight to the last ditch to preserve our diminishing rights—even to a caved-in ditch in West Virginia.

"So far, they have been unable to get landing privileges" but negotiations are continuing, he added.

The contract provides for INS to pay the airline up to $2 million for the ferry operation, Jervis said.

Immigration officials expect that about 17,000 illegal aliens would be returned to interior points during the 20-week period, he said.

Jervis said many illegal aliens from Mexico who are simply returned across the border are left adrift without friends or jobs in border towns. And this may cause them to try once more to enter the United States illegally and live and work in this country undetected.

Miss Greenville of 1976 will be crowned Friday in the 14th Annual Contest sponsored by Les-Gayleettes of Greenville. Beginning at 8 p.m. the contest will be held in the St. Gabriel's School Auditorium.

The six area girls competing in the contest and their sponsors are as follows: Miss Natalie Coley sponsored by Mrs. Lizzie Williams; Miss Patricia Jenkins sponsored by Mrs. Priscilla Tyson; Miss Grace Wilkins sponsored by Mrs. Ruby Taylor; Miss Barbara Jean Payton sponsored by Mrs. Doris Haseley; Miss Cynthia Gardner

According to Sergeant First Class Russ Capello, Jr., Station Commander of the Greenville Recruiting Station, "one of the top priorities of the Army Raleigh District Recruiting Command is to assist teachers, administrators, and state officials in educating and training young men and women, the nation's most valuable resource. "The Army is the nation's largest employer," Capello added, "and we are interested in helping young people develop skills that will benefit the Army, the students, and the employers throughout the state. We have training in more than 400 skill areas to accomplish that goal."

Army representatives are working closely with North Carolina educators in every way possible. One of the means used is the Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery (ASVAB).

At the request of schools, Students taking the test are free to use the results as they wish. Individuals who post entrance-qualifying scores for the services are notified that they are eligible to join.

ASVAB is administered free of charge by the Department of Defense. It's a voluntary test consisting of coding speed, work knowledge, arithmetic reasoning, tool knowledge, space perception, mechanical comprehension, shop information, and electronics information.

The aptitude composites are General-Technical, Clerical, Electronics, General Mechanics and Motor Mechanics. All scores and composites are reported in percentile form and are calibrated against a national sample.

Students taking the test are free to use the results as they wish. Individuals who post entrance-qualifying scores for the services are notified that they are eligible to join.

Truck Stop Is Landmark On Long Trail To Canada

By BRENDAN RILEY
Associated Press Writer
COALDALE JUNCTION, Nev. (AP) — The morning sun glints off a window 10 miles away. A mirage? No, it's a hint of civilization, and it looks good to a trucker after miles of empty Nevada desert.

Drawing closer, the trucker can soon make out a couple of main buildings, several smaller structures, trailers, fuel pumps, big truck rigs and cars. It's Jewel Parsons' truck stop, a landmark of sorts along state Route 95.

The road is a main link on the "Oregon Trail," a truck route running from Mexico to Canada. It's also the main road for motorists driving between Las Vegas and Reno. Jewel, after 30 years here, knows hundreds of the travelers on a first-name basis.

The place is in many ways typical of truck stops across the western United States — 24-hour operations located on isolated stretches of road, which provide a home away from home for truckers and other travelers.

Some truck stops have an air of exclusivity about them. Restaurant counters might be marked "truckers only." Fuel pumps are often limited to diesel for the truckers' rigs.

But Jewel, even though she sells most of her fuel to truckers, welcomes auto drivers too. They'd probably stop anyway. Her place is located in otherwise empty country midway along a 70-mile stretch between the central Nevada towns of Tonopah and Mina.

"We are trying to avoid what happened to Nepal," said one official. Nepal, a Himalayan kingdom which opened to tourism in 1951, is today overrun with 50,000 Western tourists each year and is probably best known abroad for attracting drug-seeking youth.

or they won't stop." "We get a lot more people than just the truck drivers," she says. "On a Friday or Saturday night, all the local people show up."

There's no sign of other buildings around the junction. But Jewel serves miners who dig for turquoise in the nearby Monte Cristo Mountains and ranchers from nearby valleys often turn up.

Besides the accommodations for travelers, her place also serves as a meeting hall for area residents. Mail is dropped off daily and the stop serves as an unofficial post office.

On the walls there are notices about upcoming drivers' license tests, a fund-raiser for the fire department in Mina, maps showing locations of Nevada's legal bordellos — including one just a few miles from the truck stop.

Jewel's a former state assemblywoman and Esmeralda County commissioner. She also served on the state Fish and Game Commission. Why does she stay out in this seemingly barren land where even drinking water must be trucked in.

For one thing, says Jewel, the place is a good business. She says truck stops often fold but hers has operated since the 1940s.

Besides that, Jewel says that dealing with thousands of people over the years has given her enough of a glimpse of human nature to "write a book." "After a while, you can tell what people are like as soon as they walk through the door. You can tell a lot of things about them, besides where they're from. It's interesting."

Then there are the travelers who over the years continue to stop and eventually become her friends, Jewel says.

They're the people who "always stop. They'll go 100 miles out of their way to come by here. I even get Christmas cards from some of them. That's the kind of thing that keeps me going," she says.

Ancient Bhutan Opening Up To Tourists; Avoiding Mistakes

EDITOR'S NOTE — Ancient Bhutan is opening up to Western tourists, but it's trying to avoid what happened to Nepal, another Himalayan mountain kingdom now overrun with 50,000 foreign visitors each year.

By PAUL FINCH
Associated Press Writer
THIMPHU, Bhutan (AP) — Shangri-La. The name still holds its romantic mystique, but the land today has taken on the look of the 20th Century, complete with electric lights, automobiles, an airstrip, soft drinks and cigarettes.

Visitors are still dazzled by thousands of robed and shaven-headed monks chanting their prayers in giant fortress "dzongs" and blowing horns made of human bones, or by masked dancers driving out devils.

But this secluded Buddhist kingdom in the eastern Himalayas, frequently compared to the fictional country of Shangri-La in "Lost Horizon," is slipping inevitably from medieval to modern times.

Bhutan, with 18,000 square miles and 1.3 million residents, was opened to tourism in 1974 and nearly one thousand Europeans and Americans have come here since then on limited and expensive tours.

The drive for tourists is to raise foreign exchange and recover some of the multimillion dollar cost of coronation of King Jigme Dorji Wanchuk in 1974, government officials say.

India, the big neighbor to the south, controls Bhutan's defense and foreign policy by treaty, and began building Bhutan's first vehicle roads in the 1960s.

Bhutan has hundreds of fertile valleys, rain forests, breathtaking waterfalls and unconquered peaks, and a population of Mongolian descent.

By royal decree all Bhutaneses wear the national costume, a bloused robe called the "kho," and argyle socks. Modern footwear has replaced boots, made from wild animals, as a conservation measure.

The farms of Bhutan raise at least five varieties of rice, plus millet and corn. Cows and water buffalo graze everywhere. Market day in Thimphu and the cities of Paro and Punakha are big events, boasting stalls of beef and produce.

"Food has never been the problem of Bhutan," said one Bhutanese. "Many years ago we lost millions to smallpox and other diseases. We need more babies."

All Bhutaneses remember that China, the big neighbor to the north, invaded India in 1962 through little Sikkim next door and that China in 1957 took over Tibet, the ancient inspiration for Bhutan's lama culture. Thousands of Tibetan refugees live in colonies in Bhutan.

"There's a lot of pressure on Bhutan," said a diplomat. "It wants to be the Switzerland of the Himalayas and maybe it can do it."

Last October, Chinese troops clashed with Indian forces in Arunachal Pradesh, an Indian frontier territory immediately east of Bhutan.

Himalayan mountain passes lying both east and west of Bhutan, as well as Bhutan itself, are possible invasion routes if China ever repeats its 1962 attack on India.

Since that war, however, India has created the world's fourth largest army, 900,000 men, and 10,000 of them reportedly are posted in Bhutan. Bhutan, with a national draft, has 10,000 more soldiers.

Large Bhutan families must contribute at least one son to the army for a five-year term. They also contribute a son to the 150 monasteries and he usually becomes a monk for life. One Bhutanese estimated there are more than 20,000 monks.

The ancient military and religious tradition is reflected in the spectacular dzongs, with gleaming white 80-foot walls designed for Middle Age warfare. Towering stone and wood structures inside are covered with blue and gold frescoes.

Bhutan's tiny tourist program shuts down during the rainy monsoon of the summer and during the more severe winter months. No tipping is permitted but a young bellboy will occasionally try to sell a colorful sash made of yak wool or ask a tourist for used clothing.

"We are trying to avoid what happened to Nepal," said one official. Nepal, a Himalayan kingdom which opened to tourism in 1951, is today overrun with 50,000 Western tourists each year and is probably best known abroad for attracting drug-seeking youth.

♣ Q 10 8

The bidding:
North East South West
1NT Pass 3♥ Pass
4♥ Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: Six of ♠.

There is one basic principle that applies to both declarer and defensive play: Carefully assess the possibilities of the hand. East combined logic with a touch of inspiration to upset declarer on this hand.

Four hearts was reached in routine fashion. Although North might have liked his strength to be divided more equally between the major and minor suits, he decided that any opening other than one no trump would cause him rebid problems. When South jumped to three hearts, North was delighted to choose the major suit game in preference to three no trump, particularly in view of his doubtful spade stopper.

West led his top club, dummy played low and East won the king, then sat back to contemplate the defensive prospects. The ace of hearts was a sure second trick for the defenders, but chances of two more tricks seemed remote, especially since the bidding marked West with 3 or 4 points at best.

Since there did not seem to be much hope of a diamond trick, East elected to build his defense on the premise that his partner had the ace of spades. It was not even necessary for declarer to hold two spades; the advantages of a spade shift lay in the possibility of playing a forcing game should declarer hold a singleton spade.

A spade shift was necessary at trick two, but not any spade would do. Had East returned a low spade, declarer would have been able to get home. West would win the ace and continue the suit, and declarer would ruff East's king. Declarer would force out the ace of trumps, and dummy's jack of spades would be a stopper, preventing declarer from being forced again. Declarer would make the rest of the tricks for his contract.

But East shifted to the king of spades! When this won, he continued a spade, forcing declarer to ruff. When East got in with the ace of hearts he was able to lead another spade, and when declarer had to ruff this as well, East could not be prevented from scoring the setting trick with his long trump.

Begin Fight On U.S. Intelligence Oversight Panel

By DAVID C. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate intelligence committee's catalogue of a variety of domestic intelligence abuses marks the end of its investigation and the beginning of a fight over whether a special congressional panel should monitor spy agencies.

In a 396-page report released Wednesday, the committee detailed previously disclosed abuses such as CIA domestic spying, the FBI's Cointelpro program and the National Security Agency's eavesdropping.

"All this occurred because intelligence agencies were ordered to break the law, felt they had a right to break the law, and even felt they had a duty ... to break the law," Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., a member of the committee, said after release of the report.

The intelligence panel declared that "intelligence activities which undermine individual rights must end" and made a total of 96 recommendations, including the formation of a strong congressional panel to guard against future spy agency abuses.

Without the new watchdog panel, "the great work of this committee will have been lost," said Mondale.

But within hours of Mondale's remarks, the Senate Rules Committee voted to gut that recommendation by stripping all budgetary and legislative authority from the proposed watchdog panel.

Rules Committee member Dick Clark, D-Iowa, called the 5 to 4 vote "a direct repudiation" of the intelligence panel's findings that the government used bugging, burglary and blackmail to collect vast information on the private lives and political beliefs of Americans.

The Rules Committee adopted instead a substitute proposed by chairman Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., to convert the proposed watchdog panel to a study group with no legislative or budgetary powers.

Clark, along with most of the members of the intelligence committee, vowed, in Mondale's words, "to fight very, very vigorously" when the issue reaches the Senate floor within the next two weeks.

Clark predicted that the Senate would not take up the issue of revealing the U.S. spy budget, another recommendation of the intelligence committee, until it has resolved the problem of what type of permanent intelligence committee it wants.

Two Republican members of the intelligence panel, vice chairman John Tower of Texas and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, have announced their opposition to creation of a new intelligence committee. The nine other members of the committee appear united in their support of such a panel.

Both Tower and Goldwater are members of the Armed Services Committee, which traditionally has been responsible for monitoring activities of the CIA, Defense Intelligence Agency and NSA. Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., a member of the intelligence committee, declared Wednesday that "Congress bears a heavy responsibility for ignoring its constitutional oversight role."

In its domestic spying report, the intelligence panel recommended:

—That CIA, NSA and military intelligence agencies be barred from domestic security activity except in cases involving their employees;

—That the FBI be required to obtain a judicial warrant before using wiretaps, break-ins or mail openings in domestic investigations;

—That NSA be required to obtain a warrant before monitoring "any communications to, from or about an American" unless it involves foreign spy or terrorist activities;

—That all past intelligence data collected through illegal techniques be locked up and destroyed.

The report, which contained few new revelations of government wrongdoing, made the following major findings:

—"Too many people have been spied upon by too many government agencies." FBI headquarters has over 500,000 domestic intelligence files; the CIA opened nearly a quarter million letters; NSA obtained millions of private telegrams; the Army made intelligence files on about 100,000 Americans; the Internal Revenue Service created files on 11,000 persons and groups because of their political beliefs.

—"Intelligence agencies have collected vast amounts of information about the intimate details of citizens' lives and about their participation in legal and peaceful political activities." The women's liberation movement was infiltrated by FBI informants; the NAACP was the subject of a 25-year FBI investigation; Army intelligence agents opened files on Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., and Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., and spied on a children's Halloween party.

—"Covert action programs have been used to disrupt the lawful political activities of individual Americans and groups and to discredit them, using dangerous and degrading tactics which are abhorrent in a free and decent society." Under Cointelpro, the FBI used informants and anonymous letters to break up marriages, get people fired and incite warfare among rival groups. The FBI tried to destroy Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. by wiretapping his phones, bugging his hotel rooms, attempting to ruin his marriage and sending an anonymous note that King saw as a suggestion that he commit suicide.

—"The most sweeping domestic intelligence surveillance programs have produced surprisingly few useful results."

Between 1960 and 1974 the FBI conducted more than 500,000 investigations of persons suspected of being subversives, "yet not a single individual or group has been prosecuted."

—Senior officials frequently ignored the possible illegality of intelligence-gathering programs and occasionally carried out activities they knew to be illegal.

William Sullivan, who for 10 years headed the FBI's intelligence division, told the committee, "Never once did I hear anybody, including myself, raise the question: 'Is this course of action which we have agreed upon lawful, is it legal, is it ethical or moral?'"

Publication of the report, entitled "Intelligence Activities and the Rights of Americans," came two days after release of a similar volume on foreign intelligence activities and all but ended an unprecedented 15-month probe of U.S. spy agencies. A subcommittee headed by Schweiker has not yet completed its investigation into the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Charlotte Man Indicted In Gun-Sale Conspiracy

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — John Kiriakos, 40, was released in his own custody Wednesday, a day after being charged in a federal indictment in New York with conspiring with two others to sell and ship 20 cases of handguns and five machine guns from Charlotte to New York City.

Kiriakos, who owns a pool hall in Charlotte, told a reporter, "I haven't sold no guns to no humans in New York, but I've been propositioned."

"I've talked to some guys from New York (who wanted to buy guns) but I don't know who they are. They tell you what they want and how many they want. I've had them ask me if I can get them. That's an everyday affair in the pool room."

Kiriakos, John Trambitas, 35, of Seattle, Wash., and Toni Lavio, 28, of Manhattan, N.Y., are accused of conspiring between last July 2 and Oct. 30 to sell the weapons to a federal undercover agent for shipment from North Carolina to New York.

William Aronwald, chief of the federal-state joint strike force against organized crime in New York, said the indictments allege that Trambitas made arrangements for Kiriakos to sell the machine guns and 1,920 handguns to someone named Daniel Philip Brown. He said Brown has become a government witness.

Aronwald said Miss Lavio was to crate the guns in North Carolina for shipment to New York.

Trambitas was identified by New York authorities as a West Coast distributor of peep show films. Kiriakos said he knew Trambitas because Trambitas operated next door to the pool hall a theater where movies for adults only are shown.

Aronwald said the alleged gun deal did not go through. He refused to say whether the guns were ever in Charlotte, whether they were in the government's possession, or whether any cash passed hands.

"I can't go beyond the indictment," he said. However, he added, "This is part of a general ongoing investigation involving illegal trafficking in guns."

The strike force's eight-month investigation has focused on illegal activities in midtown New York, including the pornography business centered in Times Square.

—"Intelligence agencies have collected vast amounts of information about the intimate details of citizens' lives and about their participation in legal and peaceful political activities." The women's liberation movement was infiltrated by FBI informants; the NAACP was the subject of a 25-year FBI investigation; Army intelligence agents opened files on Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., and Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., and spied on a children's Halloween party.

—"Covert action programs have been used to disrupt the lawful political activities of individual Americans and groups and to discredit them, using dangerous and degrading tactics which are abhorrent in a free and decent society." The FBI tried to destroy Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. by wiretapping his phones, bugging his hotel rooms, attempting to ruin his marriage and sending an anonymous note that King saw as a suggestion that he commit suicide.

—"The most sweeping domestic intelligence surveillance programs have produced surprisingly few useful results."

Citizenship Day Marked

Boy Scout Troop 340 celebrated a Citizenship Sunday at the 11 a.m. service of Saint James United Methodist Church by awarding 13 Citizenship Merit Badges.

The Troop Charter representing 20 years was presented to the institutional representative, Charles Whiteford by the scoutmaster Bill Plueddemann. Plueddemann then presented an American Flag to the congregation. Rev. Rod Randolph accepted the flag for the church.

Eagle scout and assistant scoutmaster, Charles Kernan was the flag bearer followed by the Honor Guard of merit badge recipients. The congregation joined Troop 340 in the Pledge of Allegiance followed by the singing of the National Anthem. Receiving merit badges were the following: Eric Downes and Eric Kingsbury, Citizenship in the World; Kevin O'Neal, Citizenship in the Nation; Art Pittman, Shannon Stanforth, Tracy Cain, David Priestly, Henry Tate, Enoch Reid and Mark Schmidt, Citizenship in the Community. Billy Dough, Wayne McAdams and Mike Livingston earned the merit badge for Citizenship in the Community but were not in attendance.

Stephenson, who for ten years has been director of admissions at Chowan College, said he would like to see more creativity, imagination and hustle in state government, particularly the lieutenant governor's office. He said the main responsibilities for the lieutenant governor are presiding over the state Senate and sitting on the board of education. Since the General Assembly meets only six months every two years, the lieutenant governor has a great opportunity to travel the state, he said.

"I would get out across the state and work with communities," Stephenson asserted. He cited ten years of voluntary experience in community development in Murfreesboro, during which he helped raise over $1 million for public projects.

Commenting on the proposal to make the office of lieutenant governor a part-time job, Stephenson said, "I wouldn't run if it were that way." He said there are many areas in the state where leadership is needed and that the lieutenant governor is in a better position to provide this leadership than the governor, in many cases.

While he is in favor of capital punishment, Stephenson said he is interested in rehabilitation for first-time criminal offenders. He also said the entire justice system in the state needs "tremendous review."

Plea bargaining is one area, according to Stephenson, which has "gone way beyond what it was originally intended to be." He said a good example is drunk driving cases where plea bargaining puts drunk drivers back on the road. The concept of plea bargaining is "greatly abused," Stephenson said.

He also favors stiffer sentences for some higher crimes. "If the U. S. Supreme Court rules capital punishment unlawful, I would be in favor of making a life sentence mean exactly what it says — a life sentence."

If elected, Stephenson said he plans to visit every prison facility, youth center, mental hospital and training center in the state to "personally find out what's going on." He said he is "not basically in favor of building more prisons," although it might be necessary. The state doesn't have the resources for wholesale prison building, he said.

Two Former Trucking Giants In Bankruptcy

Associated Press
Two former giants of the trucking industry, Eastern Freightways and Associated Transport, have been thrown into bankruptcy and are going out of business.

The companies' 6,000 employees in 24 states, including about 1,000 in the Carolinas, have been told they no longer will have jobs after Friday. Only a skeleton staff will be maintained to complete the orderly closing of the 75 terminals.

Since their merger a few years ago, the companies have operated as Associated Eastern.

Burlington, N.C., will lose the most jobs among Carolina cities affected. About 500 employees at the big terminal on Interstate 85 and in the division maintenance center at Burlington will be thrown out of work.

Other terminals are in Asheville, Charlotte, Fayetteville, Raleigh, Hickory and Winston-Salem, N.C., and Greenville, Columbia, Wallace and Charleston, S.C.

Associated Eastern reported revenues of more than $130 million annually. At the end of 1975 it owned 4,700 trailers and 3,330 heavy-duty road tractors. Associate Transport had its roots in North Carolina. The late H.D. "Buddy" Horton of Charlotte was one of the principals in forming it through the merger of several trucking firms in the South and in New England.

The president of Associated Eastern, Myron Shevell, said Wednesday that lending institutions "declined to expend further financing for continued operations."

He said Manufacturers Hanover Trust and the Chase Manhattan Bank, both of New York City, and First National Bank of Boston, leading members of the group of lenders, have agreed to make $4 million available to cover payroll and other costs incurred in closing down both companies.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market abandoned a half-hearted rally try and turned mixed in slow trading today.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 0.08 at 1,000.63, after being about four points ahead in the first trading hour. Gainers still held a 3-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The early buying came on low volume and appeared to be no more than a spillover of the selective buying that took place late Wednesday, analysts said.

Traders appeared to be taking to the sidelines as the session progressed, awaiting the Federal Reserve's money supply figures due after the close today. Wall Street has been concerned all week that the Fed might tighten its money screws and thereby provoke a new rise in interest rates if the money supply increases sharply.

Pittston Co., the Big Board volume leader, added 1/8 to 39. Earlier in the week the company reported higher first quarter profits.

Phelps Dodge declined 1/8 to 44 1/2. The company reported first quarter earnings were 38 cents a share, down from 58 cents a year earlier.

Sperry Rand, which posted a slight gain in first quarter earnings, rose 1/8 to 48 1/2.

The NYSE's composite stock index was up 0.07 at 54.49, while the American Exchange's market value index climbed 0.13 to 102.74.

Spring Meeting Of Historians Friday

A full program is scheduled for the Spring meeting of the Association of Historians in Eastern North Carolina Friday at East Carolina University.

A number of historical papers will be presented, including a presidential address at a Friday evening dinner by Dr. William N. Still Jr. on "William Alexander Kirkland: North Carolina's Naval Maverick." Karl Rodabaugh of the ECU History faculty will present a paper, "Ten Men of High Office in Revolutionary North Carolina. 1775-1783: A Test of Martin's Conclusions in Men in Rebellion." The commentator for this paper will be Prof. Walter Allen of UNC-Wilmington. Prof. Conras Gass of Campbell College will present a paper, "The Education of a Southern Educator: Calvin H. Wiley" with Dr. Joseph W. Congleton of ECU as a commentator. Prof. Charles Bowman of Fayetteville State University will present, "A Bulwark of Liberty: Philadelphia and the Spanish American War of Independence." Prof. Wilkins B. Winn of ECU will be commentator.

Bike Trail...

(Continued from page 1) that the joint $24,000 appropriation has chances of being matched with federal funds on an 80-20 matching fund basis, which would mean the federal government would contribute a total of $96,000 to give the project a total outlay of $120,000. "We must submit the application before June 1 to the Department of Public Transportation," Schofield said. "These particular funds are available only for a demonstration, innovative project, not for the continuation or expansion of an existing bike trail project."

Psychologist To Speak May 14

"Personal Character and the American Presidency," an address by noted social psychologist Gordon J. DiRenzo at East Carolina University, has been rescheduled for May 14 at 2 p.m. in the Biology Auditorium. Dr. DiRenzo was originally scheduled to speak at ECU April 30.

The public is invited to attend the presentation, which is sponsored by the ECU Department of Sociology and Anthropology and the ECU Student Government Association.

Song Program Saturday Night

A singing program will be held at the Grindle Creek Church of God Saturday night at seven o'clock. The Whitman Trio of the Church of God, Benson, will be the featured singers. The pastor, J. B. Morris, invites the public to attend.

PWP Activities Are Announced

The Greenville Area Chapter of Parents Without Partners announces its weekend activities. Friday at 8 p.m. the Rev. Jim Bailey, pastor of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church will lead an informal discussion on "Human Sexuality." Saturday and Sunday there will be a family trip to Nag's Head. For further information one may call 752-4488. Sunday, from 1 to 5:30 p.m. there will be family skating at Sports World, and there will be family bowling from 4 to 6 p.m. at Hillcrest Lanes.

Any single parent is invited. For more information one may call Dave Knowles at 758-9954 after 6 p.m.

A business meeting is scheduled later Friday afternoon. Sessions will be in the ECU Nursing and Home Economics Building.

Open House Drew Crowd

Open house at First Federal Savings & Loan Association's expanded and remodeled downtown mall facility was held Wednesday with a large turnout of customers and other visitors on hand for the activities. A spokesman for First Federal reported that approximately 2,000 persons visited the Evans Mall office during the 10 a.m. until 9 p.m. scheduled open house.

The spokesman noted that First Federal officials were pleased with the response generated by the personalized coffee mugs offered by the firm to visitors. Some 1,000 mugs were ordered, it was pointed out, and they were gone by 3 p.m.

Paul Windsor, illustrator for Procter & Gamble Co., was on hand throughout the day to personalize the mugs.

First Federal recently completed an extensive remodeling of both the interior and exterior of the office. An adjoining office facility was utilized for expansion and both the front and rear of the building received new looks. Landscaping at the rear of the office was also completed to offer customers two convenient entrances.

Zoning...

Approval was also given to the final plat of Section II of Windy Ridge located on Red Banks Road north of Tuckahoe Subdivision.

The Joint City-County Planning & Zoning Commission gave its approval to the revised final plat of Oakhurst Subdivision, Section II located on the old US 264. City Engineer Charlie Holliday reported that the matter involved the addition of two lots.

Approval was also given to the final plat of Colonial Village Subdivision located across the highway from Burroughs Wellcome and adjoining Colonial Park. Holliday, pointing out that the preliminary plat was approved recently, said that the final plat is almost a duplication of the preliminary.

Commissioners voted 6-2 to recommend that Section 32-64 of the Zoning Ordinance not be amended to allow mobile homes as a permitted use in the Highway Commercial district. Voting in opposition to the amendment were Commissioners Arnett Harris, Ernest Eaton, Lyman Ormond, Karl Faser, Jack Wall and Mrs. Ruth Trevathan while J. C. Parker and Don Langston voted against the motion.

Commissioners unanimously adopted a resolution to be presented May 6 at a public hearing by the Department of Transportation on the hospital area road improvements requesting that the five-laning proposed for the Stantonsburg Road (SR 1200) be extended some 1,200 feet to where Arlington Boulevard would intersect with Stantonsburg Road. The resolution also seeks to have the highway improvements extended on SR 1200 and NC 43 all the way out to the Allen Road.

There was State Auditor Henry Bridges; Secretary of State Thad Eure; Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Graham; and Attorney General Rufus Edmisten.

Assistant State Treasurer Harlan Boyles was present, along with Lane Edwin Gill who is not seeking re-election. And Bob Dunningan, a candidate for Commissioner of Labor and Dr. F. Ben Currin, who is seeking the nomination as State Superintendent of Public Instruction, were present.

North Carolina House members Horton Rountree and Sam Bundy and District Judges Robert Wheeler, Charles Whedbee and Herbert Phillips—all seeking re-election enjoyed the sunshine, warm temperatures and fellowship of the meeting.

And Pitt County Commissioners Charles Gaskins, Bob Martin and Bruce Strickland (who are running for re-election this year) and incumbents Alton Gardner, Ed Warren and Burney Tucker were also shaking hands.

And there were more, even Morehead City Mayor Bud Dixon and Craven County Sheriff Leo Harper, attended the meeting—one of the most noted events in State politics.

Club president Sam Bundy of Farmville presided at the meeting during which officers for the coming year were elected. Those new officers included president Bob Martin, vice-president Henry Oglesby, secretary Kirby Smith, Assistant secretary Charles McLawhorn and treasurer Alton Rowe.

Special recognition was given to Harry Stillman of Ayden, owner of Camp Contentment, by Bundy, who said all but two of the 54 annual sessions of the John Pierce Fellowship club have been held at the site overlooking Contentnea Creek.

Rampettes Take Second League Title

Greene Central Captures Meet

FARMVILLE — Greene Central High School warmed up for the Eastern Carolina Conference championships next week by taking a victory in a three-way meet yesterday. The Rams piled up 83 1/2 points to down Farmville Central, which had 61 1/2, and D. H. Conley, which trailed with 21. Greene Central won nine of the individual events, while Farmville Central won four and Conley took one. The Rams and Jaguars each picked up a relay victory. Greene Central had several double winners. S. Warren took first in the triple jump and the 440-yard dash. Tutten won the high hurdles and the high jump, while Haskins took the mile and the 880. Waters won the 100 and the 220. Greene Central and Conley are scheduled to take part in the Colonial Capital Classic at New Bern Saturday. All three will be in action next week at the conference meet at Farmville Central.

By WOODY PEELE Reflector Sports Editor Last year, the record book in the Division I Conference girls' track meet took a beating. Only three of the 14 events failed to see new marks established, and one of those three was tied. This year, however, it was an entirely different story. Rose High School's girls won the title for the second straight year, but not one new mark was established. A couple came within a tenth of a second of tying the old marks, but generally, times and distances were well off the record.

The Rampettes had little trouble in defending their title, piling up 88 points in the three-way affair. Northeastern was second with 46 1/2 points, while Wilson had 30 1/2. Bertie, which was the champion two years ago and the runner-up last year, did not field a team this year. Northern Nash and Rocky Mount also did not field teams. The Rampettes won nine of the events. Northeastern took three and Wilson won two. Rose swept the relays, and had the meets' only double winners. Kristy Gardiner captured two firsts for Rose, winning the long jump and the 440-yard dash. Shirley Johnson picked up first place in the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard dash. Rose also got victories from Bonnie Lee (60-yard hurdles); and Rosie Cox (mile), and from its three relay units. Northeastern winners included Fay Covington (high jump); Annette Bell (discus) and Cathy Riddick (shot put). Wilson's winners were Jennifer Williams (880) and Denise Hargrove (110 hurdles). Rose led from the start of the meet, picking up a first through third sweep in the first event finishing, the long jump, and the opponents never got within nine points of them after that. Rose's next outing will be Monday in an invitational meet here.

Washington In Win Over Tigers

WASHINGTON — Washington High School edged past Williamston yesterday in a dual track meet, 75-61. The two were winding up their regular season with the meet. Both will be taking part in the Northeastern Conference meet Saturday at East Carolina University. Washington took first place in eight of the 14 individual events, leaving the other six to Williamston. The Tigers closed the gap by winning both of the relays, but it wasn't quite enough to overcome the Washington depth. Washington's Rogers won four events—the shot, the high jump, the discus, and the high hurdles. The Pam Pack also had double winners in Warren, winning the triple and long jumps, and in Peed, taking the 100 and the 220. Williamston's Rodgers won the mile and the 880-yard runs. Summary: Shot put: Rogers (Wa) 52.9; Bailey (Wa) 47.0; Stephenson (Wa) 44.3. High jump: Rogers (Wa) 6.0; Taylor (Wm) 5.10; Warren (Wa) 5.8. Pole vault: Stevens (Wm) 11.6; Smithwick (Wa) 11.0; Johnson (Wa) 8.5. Discus: Rogers (Wa) 143.3; Thompson (Wa) 124.7; Bailey (Wa) 112.8. Triple jump: Warren (Wa) 41.3; Taylor (Wm) 39.8; Williams (Wa) 39.8. Long jump: Warren (Wa) 19.10; Williams (Wa) 19.5; Lanier (Wm) 19.3; Griffin (Wm) 18.0; Bell (Wm) and Williams (Wa), tie for second, 15.5. Mile: Rogers (Wa) 4:56.5; Cooper (Wa) 5:19.0; Speller (Wm) 5:31. 100 Peed (Wa): 10.0; Lanier (Wm): 10.4; Chapman (Wa): 10.5. High hurdles: Rogers (Wa) 16.0; Hodges (Wm) 16.5; Small (Wa) 17.4. 220 Peed (Wa): 22.6; Williams (Wm) 23.3; Chapman (Wa) 23.6. 880 relay: Williamston (Lanier, Rhoads, Williams, Reed) 1:34. 880 Rogers (Wm) 2:12.5; Black (Wa) 2:12.8; Gibbs (Wa) 2:13. Low hurdles: Hodges (Wm) 20.9; Bailey (Wa) 21.8; Herman (Wm) 22.4. Two-mile: Chesson (Wm) 11:25; Fowle (Wa) 11:45; Ore (Wm) 12:51. Mile relay: Williamston (Lanier, Griffin, Bell, Moore) 3:55.9.

Play The Red Might Win It

By DICK JOYCE AP Sports Writer LOUISVILLE (AP) — Johnny Campo, the round trainer of Play The Red, looks more like a railbird at a New York track than one of the nation's top trainers ready to send his mount into Saturday's Kentucky Derby. "I'm a bad guy, I'm from New York," joked Campo wearing his ever-present two-colored baseball cap. "I was born in Harlem and moved to Ozone Park (Queens). My father was from Italy, a carpenter. What am I doing with horses?" Aqueduct is located in Ozone Park and Campo, 38, began getting involved in horses at the age of 15. He groomed horses for Lucien Laurin and the late Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons for two years and later for Eddie Nelyo "who taught me everything I know."

Campo feels Elocutionist will be in the running. All three colts galloped Wednesday. "Everyone's talking about the two speed horses — Honest Pleasure and Bold Forbes — but I think they're forgetting about Elocutionist who also has a lot of speed," said Jolley. Jolley, ever the pessimist despite his colt's nine straight victories, doesn't feel Braulio Baeza, who rides Honest Pleasure, and Angel Cordero, who has the mount on Bold Forbes, would allow themselves to be trapped into a speed duel. "I think there is as much a chance for a slow pace as a fast pace Saturday," he said before heading for the golf course. Bold Forbes is second choice behind Honest Pleasure on the basis of his three straight victories, including the Wood Memorial. Owned by E.C. Cashman, Elocutionist has registered four victories, a second and a third in six starts this year. He has three straight wins, including the Arkansas Derby in his next-to-last start. As a 2-year-old, the Paul Adwell-trained son of Gallant Romeo-Strictly Speaking won all four starts.

Smith's Basket Ties Series At Two Each

By BOB GREENE AP Sports Writer When Randy Smith is determined, there's apparently nothing anybody can do about it. "I was just determined to put the ball in, no matter what," Smith said after his 25-foot jumper swished the through the net with three seconds left in the game. The basket lifted the Buffalo Braves to a 124-122 victory over the Boston Celtics and knotted their best-of-seven National Basketball Association quarter-final series at two games apiece. In Wednesday night's other NBA quarter-final, defending champion Golden State crushed Detroit 128-109. "I was supposed to go to the hoop, but the middle looked congested, so I pulled up for the jump shot," Smith said. "When he (Coach Jack Ramsay) called the play (during a timeout), I was just determined to put the ball in, no matter what. JoJo White was playing off me and I saw big (Dave Cowens) in the middle." Smith wasn't alone in the heroics department for Buffalo. Bob McAdoo scored 30 points, grabbed 17 rebounds and came up with four steals before fouling out late in the game. And guard Ernie DiGregorio scored 19 of his 21 points in the second half while handing out 10 assists. Then there was rookie John Shumate, who came up with a key block as time ran out. After Smith's game-winning bucket, Boston called time out, getting the ball at midcourt. The inbounds play went to Nelson, who got off a jumper just before the final buzzer. But it was blocked by Shumate. Cowens, whose tip-in tied the game at 122-all, setting the stage for Smith's heroics, led the Boston scoring with 29 points while White added 28 and Nelson 27. Warriors 128, Pistons 109 Rick Barry scored 25 points and stole seven passes to lead Golden State past Detroit and into a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven series. "Rick Barry is the catalyst for that club," said Pistons Coach Herb Brown. "Phil Smith had a great game too, but Barry had a great offensive night, his first in five games.

He breaks you down so many ways." Smith led the Warriors attack with 28 points. But Barry also had 11 assists and seven rebounds' as Golden State marched out to a 60-48 halftime lead, then outscored Detroit 15-2 in the opening minutes of the third period to put the game away early. DENVER (AP) — The 1979 Women's International Bowling Congress Tournament will be held in Tucson, Ariz., delegates to the organization's annual meeting decided Wednesday night. The 1977 tournament will be held in Milwaukee, Wis., and Miami will host the 1978 tournament.

Campo met with success since 1968 when he began training on his own. Play The Red is owned by Max Gluck's Elmenendorf Farm. In addition, Campo trains for eight owners, including himself. Play The Red, a fourth-place finisher in the Wood Memorial, was among those entered when the entry box opened at 7 a.m., EDT, today for a $4,000 fee per horse. Owners must ante up another $3,500 on Saturday for the $125,000 added derby which will have its 102nd running before a crowd of more than 100,000 at Churchill Downs. Campo has trained three previous Derby horses but claims Play The Red, winner of only one of five starts this year, is only his second "legitimate" Derby contender. The other, he said was Jim French, who finished second to Canonero II in the 1971 derby. Twice A Prince, 12th in 1973, and Media, fifth last year, also ran in the 1 1/4 mile derby. "He might not show it today, and he might not show it Saturday," said Campo. "But Play The Red's a good horse."

Sr. Ruth Tryouts

Tryouts for the Senior Babe Ruth League will be held Friday and Saturday at Guy Smith Stadium. The Friday tryouts will be from 6 to 8 p.m., while Saturday's will be from 9 a.m. until 12 noon. The league is open to all boys 16-18. Those who have not previously registered may do so at the tryouts, but should report by 5:30 p.m. to do so. Fred Shaffer, after scouting 28 years for the Chicago White Sox, now scouts at the major league level for the Oakland A's.

Tigerettes Top Pack

WILLIAMSTON — The Williamston High School girls took a track victory from Washington in a dual meet yesterday. The Tigerettes finished the afternoon with 47 points, while Washington had 36. Williamston won five events, as did Washington, but the Tigerettes picked up both of the relay events. No mile relay was held. Washington's Gibbs took first place in the discus and the shot, while V. Speller of Williamston won the long jump and the 100. Washington's Langley won the 440 and the 100-yard hurdles. The two will take part in the Northeastern Conference meet on Saturday. Summary: High jump: Bennett (Wm) 4.8; Hicks (Wa) 4.6; Langley (Wa) 4.0. Discus: Gibbs (Wa) 92.2; Brooks (Wa) 88.3; Smith (Wa) 87.8. Shot put: Gibbs (Wa) 31.2; Brooks (Wa) 30.3; Perkins (Wm) 24.7. Long jump: V. Speller (Wm) 13.11; Bennett (Wm) 13.10; 100 V. Speller (Wm) 12.0; Brown (Wm) 12.4. 440 hurdles: Hicks (Wa) 9.4; Ruffin (Wm) 9.5; Langley (Wa) 10.0. 440 relay: Williamston (Bennett, V. # Pirates Again Chasing Indians

East Carolina will be carrying 28 men to the Southern Conference Track and Field Championships at Davidson College this weekend in an attempt to dislodge William & Mary from the top spot they have held for a decade.

The Pirates will be entered in 16 of the 20 events at the championships, being absent in the distance runs and pole vault. ECU will have as many as five in some events and will try to have enough depth to beat the Indians in John Randolph's last season.

East Carolina has had as many as 15 players injured at one time this season but will have everybody in top shape for the championships.

"We are in the best shape of the season right now," said coach Bill Carson. "We have been working real hard for the last two weeks and everybody is back."

Marvin Rankins (13.9) and Sam Phillips (14.0) are the favorites in the 120 yard high hurdles, while Phillips has also run a 54.7 in the 440 intermediate hurdles.

In the sprints, the Pirates should have some of the best in the conference with Carter Suggs, Larry Austin, Donnie Mack and Calvin Alston leading the way. Suggs and Alston have run 9.6 in the 100 yard dash while running the event only once during the season. Austin and Mack have yet to run the 100 because of injuries.

In the 220, Alston has set a new varsity record of 21.1 while being only a freshman. Suggs has run 21.75 in his only 220 this year.

Charley Moss (48.8) and James Freeman (48.9) lead the 440 contingent while Charles Avery (1:53.2) and Jim Willett (1:53.7) have led the 880 runners this season for the Pirates.

The East Carolina relay teams in the 440 (40.9) and mile (3:14.5) have good chances to claim conference crowns.

In the field events, George Jackson leads both the long and triple jumps with leaps of 23'6 1/2" and 49'11 1/4" respectively. Curt Dowdy and Al McCrimmon have high jumped 6'8" to lead the Pirates in that category.

Tom Watson leads the Pirates in three of the four weight events with 52'5 1/2" in the shot, 149'10" in the hammer and 148'8" in the discus. Lafan Forbes has thrown the javelin 204'4" lead ECU in that event.

East Carolina Seeks To Climb

After finishing with its best regular season conference record in many years, the East Carolina tennis team enters this year's conference tournament today in Richmond, Va., with thoughts of improvement.

The Pirates have finished seventh the last two years and no better than fifth the past ten years. This year's team was 2-4 in the conference, beating William & Mary for the first time in many years.

"It would be a great accomplishment for us to finish sixth in the conference championships," said Coach Neal Peterson. "We will definitely be seventh and with a couple of good individual efforts, we can finish sixth. The top five in the league are just too tough."

Mitch Pergerson in the fifth flight, Tom Durfee in the first flight and the second flight doubles team of Doug Getsinger and Bob Neff seem to be in the best position to do well in the tournament.

Pergerson leads the contingent with a 3-3 conference mark and 9-4 overall record at number five singles, while Durfee was 2-4 in league play and 9-8 in all matches at number one.

Getsinger and Neff finished 5-9 overall in number two doubles but came on strong at the end of the season to win their last three matches.

"Mitch Pergerson has an excellent chance to do well for us," added Peterson. "He has been great all year. Tom Durfee started off slow and won nine of his last 12 matches. He is really doing well at this point. Our number two doubles team also came on strong at the end of the year."

The Pirates seem to have a good shot at sixth for the first time three years and could very well get it.

Young Only One Who Believes He'll Win

by ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Sports Writer

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — "I've got a fight next month, the 25th, in Munich, Germany, against a big bad English guy," said Muhammad Ali.

The heavyweight champion was talking about Richard Dunn two days before fighting Jimmy Young Friday night in the Capital Centre — a fight almost everybody but Young expects him to win.

"Don't let my record fool you just because I don't have a lot of knockouts," said Young, who has a 17-4-2 mark with just five knockouts in a pro career dating back to 1969.

"You all have been around boxing a long time," he said to reporters. "Haven't you heard of upsets?"

The 27-year-old Young completed his training with three good rounds of sparring against Mike Koranicki and then watched Ali work out.

"Spying on me," shouted Ali when he saw Young. "Tryin' to figure out what kind of whup-ping you're gonna get?"

Ali spouted poetry, posed and postured, much to the delight of a crowd, which paid $4 apiece, to jam the hotel ballroom training site. But he did little else — some shadow boxing, rope skipping and work on the heavy bag — to the chagrin of at least one fan.

"I spent part of my unemployment check to see you," shouted a man. "Now you take off that robe and get into the ring and do something." The request went unanswered.

Ali is getting $1.6 million for his 18th title fight while Young is getting a purse of $75,000, by far the largest of his career, and $10,000 in expenses.

"It means the heavyweight championship. It means I'll be on top in the heavyweight division," said Young of his title shot. "Most of all it means money."

Young has been a fulltime fighter for just five months. Before that he worked as a truck driver, welder, construction worker and longshoreman while he pursued a boxing career plagued by managerial problems.

He was a longshoreman when he outpointed Ron Lyle in February 1975 in the fight which is the main reason he got a title shot.

"This is gonna be a good fight," said Young. "I promise you."

Tourney Results From Greenville

Several women's golf tournaments were held recently at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

In a three-club tournament, Joan Warren took low gross honors with a 43. She was followed by Dardie Longino with a 44 and Nancy Monroe with a 45.

Gail McClelland, Isabel Rivers and Betty Kitrell tied for low net with 33, while Ann Whitehurst, Joan Hooper and Jane Joyner were tied for second with 34. Clara Shackie and Ann Evans tied for third with 35.

In a Ladies Captain's Choice tournament, Joan Hooper and Isabel Rivers tied for first with Tee Ficklen and Katie King with 40s. Dorothy Doyle, playing alone, tied Ann W. Evans and Margaret Sutton, and Peggy Hallow and Bertie King for second with 42.

The Ladies Match Play tournament is now underway. The championship flight has reached the finals, with Betty Akin and Joan Hooper meeting for the title.

A Ladies Ringer Tournament is now underway and will continue through Labor Day. Ladies are reminded to up-date their scores in this event as they improve each hole.

The Men's Match Play Tournament will begin shortly, with the pairings posted this weekend. Two weeks will be allowed for each round. Those wishing to play should sign up immediately and pay their entry fee.

Among other upcoming men's tournaments are the Member-Guest on June 19-20; the Father-Son on June 5, for sons eight and up; the Men's Club Championship, July 10-11; the Pitt Club of South Carolina at County Championships, July 17-18 at Farmville and Greenville; and the Pitt County Junior Championships, July 20 at Greenville, for boys and girls 9-15.

A Ladies Mixers Appreciation Day event will be held on May 21. A Captain's Choice Tournament for beginners and advanced players will get underway with a 9:15 a.m. shotgun start.

The Greenville Ladies Invitational Tournament is set for June 22 with a 10 a.m. shotgun start.

A Ladies Beginner clinic is set for 4 to 5 p.m. on May 13. Limited to the first 20 to sign up, it will cover chipping and putting. A similar clinic for youths, 6-12, will be held from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. the same day.

Junior Tournaments will be held at the club on June 10. The boys tournament will involve three age divisions. An 18-hole tournament will be held for 12-15 year olds; a nine-hole for 9-11, and a three-hole for 6-8. A boys and girls toddler event will be held for 3-5 year olds. A chipping and putting tournament will be held for girls 6-10, and a nine-hole tournament for girls 11-15.

Bucs Are All-Loop

Three members of the East Carolina University golf team have been named All-Southern Conference. The top ten finishers in the conference tournament automatically receive the All-Conference honors.

Rob Welton, a senior from Annandale, Va., placed in the individual standings, while Keith Hiller, a sophomore from Avon, Ohio, finished sixth, and Steve Ridge, a junior from Greensboro, finished eighth.

The East Carolina team finished second in last week's tournament held at the Country Club of South Carolina at Florence.

Coaches In FB Clinics

The East Carolina University football staff will hold six coaching clinics in North Carolina and Virginia during the first two weeks of May. These clinics are open to all coaches from high school level down to little league levels.

The following is a list of times and places for the clinics:

Tuesday, May 4th—Greensboro at Forest Oaks Country Club (6:30 p.m.-11:00 p.m.)

Wednesday, May 5th—Raleigh at Sheraton Motor Inn (6:30 p.m.-11:00 p.m.)

Wednesday, May 12th—Wilmington at Holiday Inn (6:30-11:00 p.m.)

Thursday, May 13th—Fayetteville at St. James Inn (6:30 p.m.-11:00 p.m.)

For further information about these clinics, contact the East Carolina football office (919) 758-6330.

Roberts Gets Second Win Over Oakland A's

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

Now hear this, you Oakland A's: You have seen Mr. Roberts at his very best.

"I don't think I can pitch any better," Dave Roberts, a 31-year-old left-hander, said after limiting hard-hitting Oakland to two hits and one unearned run in pitching the Detroit Tigers to an 8-1 victory Wednesday.

It was the second triumph by the newly acquired Roberts over Oakland this season and raised his record to 3-0, all complete games. His earned-run-average is 1.00 and he has allowed just 13 hits in 27 innings. In other American League action, the Baltimore Orioles downed the California Angels 4-2, the Milwaukee Brewers defeated the Chicago White Sox 4-1 and the Cleveland Indians crushed the Minnesota Twins 9-0. The New York-Texas and Boston-Kansas City games were rained out.

Oakland's only hits off Roberts were an infield single by Bert Campaneris in the third inning and Ken McMullen's gift double in the ninth, a routine fly ball that left fielder Alex Johnson failed to catch.

The Tigers jumped on Mike Norris and Dick Bosman for six runs in the third inning. Johnson tripled for one run, then Willie Horton and Jason Thompson singled in a run apiece. After a single by Aurelio Rodriguez, John Wocken-fuss doubled in another, Tom Verzyer's infield single brought home the fifth run and Gary Sutherland hit a sacrifice fly.

Orlotes 4, Angels 2
A surprise double steal and Brooks Robinson's run-producing double helped Baltimore score three fifth-inning runs as the Orioles finally gave Ken Holtzman some batting support. After the Angels tied the score in the top of the fifth, Paul Blair opened the bottom half with a single and Bobby Grich walked.

With third baseman Bill Melt-on charging for a possible punt, the Orioles worked a double steal and the throw from catcher Andy Etchebarren to short-stop Dave Chalk covering third went into left field. Blair scored on the error and Grich reached third, scoring on a sacrifice fly by Andres Mora. Robinson's RBI double followed a single by Tony Muser.

Brewers 4, White Sox 1
Don Money singled home two runs in the third inning, then scored on a double by Robin Yount as Milwaukee beat knuckleballer Wilbur Wood. In the ninth, Hank Aaron's single, Sixto Lezcano's double and Gorman Thomas' squeeze bunt accounted for Milwaukee's final run. Milwaukee's Bill Travers was nicked for an unearned run in the first inning and was relieved by Ed Rodriguez in the ninth.

Indians 9, Twins 0
Dennis Eckersley and Don Hood combined on a four-hitter and Rick Manning drove in three runs with a single, double and homer. Eckersley, whose wife entered a Cleveland hospital Wednesday night to have the couple's first child, allowed a pair of singles in six innings. He fanned six, walked none and stretched his scoreless string to 15 innings. The Indians tagged Bert Blyleven for all their runs and 11 hits in five innings and beat the Twins' ace for the ninth time in 13 career decisions.

McKeever Quitting

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—The Citadel's Rodney McKeever, the Southern Conference basketball player of the year, has resigned from the school.

Citadel president Lt. Gen. George M. Seignious II said the decision was not related in any way to basketball, the coach of the school.

McKeever, a junior guard, averaged 20.5 points per game last season, earning all-conference and all-state honors for a second straight year. As a sophomore, he averaged 23 points per game and had a 15 point per game average as a freshman. He scored 1,358 points in his three years at the Citadel and was the school's third highest scorer in his history.

McKeever's resignation is effective immediately. School officials declined further comment.

He has one year of eligibility remaining and could transfer to another school. Citadel coach Les Robinson said he would assist McKeever if he wants to transfer.

ROME (AP) — The Italian track and field team for the Montreal Olympics will be drastically trimmed because of the country's economic crisis, the president of the Italian Federation said Wednesday.

The Federation has set qualification limits much tougher than the ones allowed by the International Olympic Committee. Primo Nebiolo told a news conference.

This should cut the team to about 20 or 25 athletes, he said. There were 44 Italian track competitors in Munich in 1972.

Bucettes Take Meet

SALISBURY, Md. — East Carolina University's women's track team captured the final mile relay event to squeeze out a victory over Salisbury State and Towson State yesterday.

Hosting Salisbury was 7-1 going into the meet.

Debbie Freeman captured first place in the discus with her best throw of the year, 117 feet. Linda McLean won the 100-yard dash in 12.4 seconds, and also took the long jump. Donna Williford was second in the latter event.

Sherry Rape won the two-mile run in 13:49, and Jeanette Whitfield took the 440 in 67.2 seconds. Jean Evans won the 880 yard dash.

Further details of the meet, along with the score, were not made available to The Daily Reflector.

East Carolina travels to Florida State for a meet tomorrow.

Netters Take Win

The Greenville women's tennis team rolled to an easy 9-0 victory over Rocky Mount yesterday in an East Carolina Tennis Association match.

The Greenville team lost only two sets in the singles and one in the doubles, and was only extended in one other set in the singles on the way to the win.

Thompson Leads Nuggets To Win

By JOHN MOSSMAN
AP Sports Writer

DENVER (AP) — Spurred on by a league-record crowd of 18,821, David Thompson and his Denver Nugget teammates saved their best for last.

With Thompson scoring 40 points and the Nuggets unselfishly passing off to the open man, Denver buried the Kentucky Colonels 133-110 Wednesday night in the seventh and deciding game of their American Basketball Association semifinal playoff series.

The victory margin was the largest of the series for the Nuggets, and propels the regular-season ABA champions into the final series against the New York Nets beginning here Saturday night.

Although he started slowly, there was no stopping Thompson in the final three quarters as his varied assortment of shots from the 15-20 foot range and an occasion dunk ended the Colonels' season prematurely.

"David has a history of playing well in the big games," said Denver Coach Larry Brown. "He had been kind of frustrated in the series because of foul trouble, but we just wanted him to be more involved in the offense. He really came ready to play."

Kentucky Coach Hubie Brown called Thompson "outstanding. It was a tribute to his great athletic talent."

The 6-foot-4 rookie forward with the magical leaping ability scored only two points in the opening quarter but came alive with 12 points in the second period to help the Nuggets rally from a seven-point deficit to a 57-56 lead at intermission.

Denver pulled away to a 94-82 lead at the end of the third quarter, during which the team shot 60 per cent from the floor.

With Thompson hitting eight straight shots and the Nuggets' other forward, Bobby Jones, tossing in seven in a row, it was no contest the rest of the way.

The Colonels, plagued by turnovers and poor shot selection, got no closer than nine points in the final period.

Crisp passing that set up easy baskets made the difference in the second half. As a team, Denver had 36 assists, and guard Ralph Simpson had 14 of them.

"It's great to play with a bunch of guys who get you the ball when you get open," said Thompson, who himself recorded five assists along with 10 rebounds.

Former Colonel Dan Issel added 24 points and 12 rebounds for Denver, and guard Chuck Williams had 19 points.

"You look at people like Artis and David and you expect them to get you over the hump," said Denver's Brown, referring to Kentucky center Gilmore and Thompson.

Gilmore, however, wasn't his usually imposing self, finishing with a sub-par 17 points and 11 rebounds. Forward Maurice Lucas led the Colonels with 23 points and 15 rebounds, and guard Bird Averitt had 21 points.

Denver, which has never before made it to an ABA championship series, held a 9-5 edge over New York during the regular season, but dropped the last two meetings.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain is forecast today for the Pacific coast, the south-central states and over Iowa and surrounding states. Snow is expected in the western portions of the

Dakotas and colder temperatures for New England; warmer in the Great Lakes area and the Pacific northwest. (AP Wirephoto Map)

RALEIGH (AP) — The weatherman has bad news for North Carolina: it may not rain for another month.

The National Weather Service's 30-day outlook anticipates the same weather pattern that already has kept rain away from the state for nearly a month will remain.

All is not lost, though, because John R. McClain, head meteorologist at the Raleigh-Durham Airport station, says it's near impossible to predict weather a week in advance, let alone a month.

Causing the drought is a high pressure system that has stayed in the area, despite several low pressure systems coming through, McClain said. The lows were too weak to break up the high and dump the needed moisture on the state, he said.

The rain will come someday, he said. "It'll come eventually, but there's no way for me or anybody else to say when."

Hardest hit by the dry weather have been farmers and foresters. Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham has said the crop loss so far is in the millions of dollars and still climbing.

The state and federal forest services have been fighting fires all over the state, some of them burning thousands of acres. Many of the fires have been intentionally set, said Tom Hegele of the state Forest Service. There were few fires reported Wednesday, Hegele said. The fires that broke out were quickly brought under control, he said.

Because of the drought, all burning permits have been cancelled and the state park service banned all fires, including smoking, in the state parks.

Presuming no rain falls before Saturday, this month will be the driest in the Raleigh-Durham area since 1887. Only one-sixteenth of an inch has been recorded while the normal rainfall is slightly more than three inches. The longest drought in North Carolina's history—32 days—was in November and December of 1965 and the current dry spell is only five days away from equalling that mark.

However, a gradual change is taking place in the upper-level air pattern and rain is a possibility in western North Carolina Friday. There was light rain in the mountains early this morning.

Maximums today were mostly in the high 60s. They were in the mid 60s Tuesday, hitting 70 at Hickory and Wilmington.

Electronics Export Crackdown

By BERNARD HURWITZ
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Bay Area firm has been charged with illegally exporting $3 million in sophisticated electronics manufacturing equipment to the Soviet Union in what may be the start of a federal crackdown on such transactions.

The federal indictment returned Wednesday against I.I.

Industries Inc. paints a cloak-and-dagger picture of fictitious firms, mysterious foreign "middlemen" and complex equipment disguised as washing machines and ovens to avoid detection by customs authorities.

It alleges that the Sunnyvale, Calif., firm, three of its officers and three West German nationals violated U.S. law forbidding exportation to Communist bloc countries of any goods which will "significantly increase ... present or potential military capability."

Asst. U.S. Atty. James H. Daffer said the equipment in question is used to make semiconductors, electronic devices which could be used in guidance systems for missiles. He added, however, that authorities did not know what use was made of the equipment by the Communists.

The indictment names Gerald R. Starek, president of I.I.; Carl E. Storey, vice president for sales; and Patrick O'Conner, the comptroller. Also indicted were Richard Mueller, Friedrich Linnhoff and Volker Nast, all West Germans now out of the United States.

The indictment charges the defendants conspired to export the prohibited goods to the Soviet Union between April 1, 1975, and last Jan. 17.

Company officials had no comment on the charges. According to the indictment, the equipment was sent to Russia through a convoluted international path that included sales to phony firms in the United States, Canada, Switzerland and West Germany.

On Dec. 3, the grand jury charged, I.I. Industries shipped equipment to Allen Electronics in Overland Park, Kan., where it was picked up by Linnhoff, also known as Paul Allen. He then allegedly delivered it "falsely invoiced as commercial washing machines and industrial ovens" to an exporter.

Daffer said the California firm also made shipments to two fictitious firms in Montreal — Semitronic Ltd. and USA Trade — which consigned the goods to a customs freight forwarder. He in turn sent the merchandise on to West Germany or Switzerland.

Once in Europe, Daffer said, the equipment was transhipped to the Soviet Union. He did not elaborate further on this aspect of the case. Mueller was identified as an employee of Semitronic of Switzerland, a firm which received several instruction manuals for the equipment. Linnhoff was identified only as a former Luftwaffe pilot and Nast as connected with a Hamburg firm called Reimer-Klimatech-

Exporting such equipment is punishable by a fine not more than five times the value of the goods involved, or $20,000, whichever is greater. Violators also face a maximum prison sentence of five years.

N.E.R. Official To Speak At Banquet

Dr. Arthur W. Cooper, assistant secretary of the N. C. Department of Natural and Economic Resources, will speak at the annual banquet of the East Carolina University chapter of Sigma Xi honor society in scientific research.

The banquet will be held today at the Greenville Golf and Country Club and will conclude the year's activities for the ECU chapter.

A native of Washington, D.C., Dr. Cooper, has degrees from Colgate and Michigan Universities. Before joining the N. C. government staff, he was a member of the N. C. State University plant ecology faculty.

Other items on the Sigma Xi banquet agenda include presentation of a Facility Research Award by ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins, and presentation of awards to outstanding undergraduate and graduate student researchers.

The following newly-elected chapter officers will be formally installed: Grover Everett (chemistry), president; Tullio Pignani (mathematics), president-elect; Susan J. McDaniel (biology), secretary; and Joseph G. Boyette (biology), treasurer.

3 CB Radio Units Stolen

Greenville Police are continuing their investigation into the larceny of three more citizens band radios from vehicles here.

Chief Glenn Cannon said that Melvin Hudson Boyd of 104 Nichols Dr. reported yesterday that a CB radio valued at $197 had been taken from his vehicle while parked at Rose High School.

Cannon said entrance to the car was gained by thieves unlocking a car door.

Walter Pierce Page of Elizabethtown, the chief said, reported Tuesday that a CB radio, valued at $189 was taken from his truck parked on New Street sometime between 1 p.m. and 5:30.

A CB radio valued at $225, according to Cannon, was reported taken from a truck owned by Billy Ray Rouse of Route 4, Greenville.

Cannon said that larceny, reported at 10:20 p.m. Monday, occurred while the vehicle was parked in a grocery store parking lot on North Greene Street.

Shot His $50

MEMPHIS (AP) — Not many people can approach David Leake when it comes to blowing cash.

Leake, 16, was given $50 by his mother to buy clothes and shoes, and he set out to find a fool-proof place to stash his cash.

"My nephews always hang around by my room," he said. "I knew they wouldn't go looking down the barrel of my shotgun, so I stuffed it there."

True to his plan, his nephews didn't find the money. But what Leake couldn't foresee was the rat in the front yard and his sudden urge to shoot it.

"I fired three times before I saw the money going everywhere in pieces. All I said was 'Oh my God,'" he said, while holding a plastic bag of shattered bills. "It would have been worse if I missed the rat."

The victim of the tragedy was still lying in the yard with specks of $10 bills in its side.

Leake, with his first $50 blown, cannot look to his mother for a second, she has flatly refused to give him another $50.

A spokesman for the Federal Reserve Bank in St. Louis says his only hope is to mail the pieces to the Treasury Department in Washington, which has the facilities to piece the bills together. He will be reimbursed for the bills for which a majority of the note can be formed.

Meanwhile, Leake feels he has most of the bills, which included three $10 bills, three $5 bills, a $2 bill and three $1 bills. However, he is keeping a watchful eye on the yard where still fluttering fragments have attracted several chickens which peck at the notes.

"One thing about that rat," said Leake. "He died rich."

BENEFIT PROJECT

The Auxiliary to the American Postal Workers Union will be selling hotdogs from the Frosty Morn Hotdog Wagon located at Harris Supermarket, Memorial Drive from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday, May 1. Proceeds from the sales will be given to the North Carolina Zoo.

Kissinger's Dog Changes Home Life

By RICHARD H. GROWLAD
UPI Senior Editor
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Henry A. Kissinger rises every morning at 6 o'clock, but his dog Tyler does not.

Therein lies the secretary of state's trouble. Russia, China, the Middle East and the sayings of Ronald Reagan and Sen. Henry Jackson may rupture Kissinger's mood occasionally, but his woes with Tyler are an everyday thing.

This is not to say Kissinger dislikes his golden Labrador retriever. Friends say the secretary has developed a master's dotting fondness for the dog.

They report that until Tyler came along, Kissinger would rise at 6 a.m. and gallop off from his Georgetown house. But these days, especially when his wife Nancy is away, Kissinger must not leave the house until the dog has been roused and fed.

And Tyler apparently is a slugabed. Kissinger, who has a maid in now and then but no live-in servants, feels he cannot just let sleeping dogs lie and go off to the State Department.

Tyler would rather sleep until 9 a.m. So the secretary of state must call, nudge, poke gently, tickle, pat and finally hoist the dog to its feet, feed him and see to the dog's toilet before joining his Secret Service escort for the drive to work.

The dog mornings are but one result of Tyler's coming. Mrs. Kissinger gave the dog to Kissinger as a birthday present.

This surprised some Kissinger friends, who never figured him for a dog man. Indeed, the secretary showed his unfamiliarity with the geopolitics of dogdom in his first dealings with Tyler.

Other masters might pat a dog's head or stroke his back or tweak an ear. Kissinger at first was observed bending over and, with the flats of both hands, patting the dog's sides.

Possibly at first to please his wife, Kissinger progressed. It was a trial. Asked by friends what a man with his German-Jewish background was doing with a dog named Tyler, Kissinger said, "It is one of my wife's WASP jokes."

There were signs of growing affection for Tyler. During one trip overseas a year ago, fellow travelers noted Kissinger was suddenly distracted from matters of state. It turned out that a cable from Washington reported Tyler had swallowed a shoelace.

It seems the Kissinger dog also chewed up lamp and curtain cords. This did not turn off the secretary. In fact, Tyler ate better and better.

Dogs are said to develop like their masters. The once-sleek Tyler's middle began to bulge. Perhaps for both their sakes, Kissinger has started walking Tyler around the block at night, trailed by his Secret Service bodyguards.

At latest report, Kissinger has only one complaint. He explained at the White House recently that Tyler has gotten permission to join him and his wife in bed.

"That isn't so bad," Kissinger said, "except that he tries to push me out of the bed."

Resorts Meet Platform Tennis
TAMARRON, Colo. (UPI) — Platform tennis, played on a scaled-down, enclosed court, has made its transition from crowded metropolitan areas to leading summer resorts.

At Tamarron, a $40 million year-round hotel complex in southwest Colorado near Durango, four courts were installed last autumn and have been in constant use throughout the winter months.

Platform tennis is played on a raised court 44 feet long and 20 feet wide (compared with 78 feet by 36 feet for a regulation tennis court.) A brightly colored sponge-rubber ball is used, and a paddle resembling an outsized ping pong paddle with holes for reducing wind resistance is wielded by players.

KILLER TORNADES
HOUSTON (UPI) — About 95 per cent of tornado-related fatalities are caused by only two per cent of all tornadoes, according to the National Weather Service.
The NWS says the killer tornadoes are usually large, fast-moving funnel clouds which hug the ground with unusual persistence.

FORGET CONGRESS? — Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan gestures as he addresses a rally Wednesday night in Atlanta. "We will ask the people of the United States to make America so strong that no other nation would dare break the peace by testing the United States," Reagan said. (AP Wirephoto)

Orders From God And Govm't Clash Today For Vigil Group

By MARC WILSON
Associated Press Writer
GRANNIS, Ark. (AP) — For the Nance clan awaiting the second coming of Christ, today is the day orders from God and the federal government clash.

At first, only a few townsfolk detected the secretive behavior of the group of 24 living isolated on the outskirts of Grannis, waiting and hoping for the second coming and the end of the world.

Only a few friends and relatives, in the beginning, suggested the vigil be called off. Then, residents of this southwest Arkansas town of 177 circulated petitions asking that something be done to stop what some called "this nonsense."

County officials scoured law books for violations. A judge ordered six school-age children removed from the house and returned to school because he said they had violated state law requiring children to attend school until they have completed eighth grade or are 16. He also told the Nance family they were following false prophets. Vacant homes owned by vigil members were vandalized and burglarized.

None of the pressures cooled their zeal. Then the federal government stepped in.

The Farmers Home Administration said today — the vigil's seven month anniversary — is the last day the 24 legally can stay in the three-bedroom brick home where the wait began Sept. 29.

Vigil members said they simply can't leave. God, they have said, told them to stay put, to never leave the house. The message they claim they received from God was two-fold — that the second coming of Christ is near, and that they must remain in the house until He comes.

"It is simply no longer their house," said Lee Cook, assistant state director of the FHA. "Since April 6 the house has been federal government property. They have no legal right to be in the house."

Cook said Gene Nance obtained an FHA loan in 1974 to buy the house.

Charge Youth In Night Incident

Greenville Police last night charged 17-year-old Bobby Earl Miller of 100E Lakeview Terr. with damage to real property following an incident at R. S. Pollard's Grocery at 203 Wade St.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Miller was charged at 11:15 p.m. after officers, called to the scene, were told that someone intended to break into the grocery and wanted to be "locked up."

Officers placed Miller in the Pitt County jail under a $100 bond.

Entertains Cub Scouts

Dr. Will R. Wallace, minister of the First Christian Church here and president of Wahl-Coates PTA, presented a singing and guitar performance for Cub Scouts of Pack 33 Tuesday evening.

Dr. Wallace sang six selections while the scouts accompanied him. One selection, "The Bear Song," was a solo number by Wallace.

The program was held in the auditorium of Wahl-Coates School. Wallace was introduced by Cub Master James C. Sullivan.

Other highlights of the pack meeting was the presentation of awards:

A Bobcat Award was presented to Ray Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Evans; and Wolf Awards were received by James (Jim) W. Carter Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. James W. Carter; Lee Lewis, son of Dr. and Mrs. Jasper L. Lewis; and Paul Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Sullivan. Sullivan also received a Gold Arrow Point.

Special guests for the evening included Dr. Rexford Piner, principal of Wahl-Coates School; and parents of the scouts.

Pastor Leaving After 13 Years

Rev. Chester Phillips, pastor of Grace Free Will Baptist Church, will give his farewell sermon on Sunday, closing a 13 and one-half year pastorate at the church.

Since coming to Greenville, Rev. Phillips has seen Grace Church grow from the original 175-capacity auditorium to the contemporary new building which seats 750. The new building also includes four offices, a printing room, a kitchen, a full-sized gymnasium, and a church budget that has increased eight-fold.

Other ministry activities in which he has been involved have been a morning conversational radio broadcast, "Coffee With The Pastor," a program aimed at students and commuters going to work for the past four years, he has served as acting chaplain with services each Sunday at the Alcoholics Rehabilitation Center.

Rev. Phillips says "This has been one of the highlights of my ministry here. I appreciate the cooperation of the ARC directors and staff."

Among guest ministers brought in by Rev. Phillips have been men such as Dr. Hyman Appleman, Dr. Del Fehsenfeld, Dr. Bob Jones, III, Dr. Bill Rice, Dr. Peter Ng and the evangelist Joe Boyd.

REV. CHESTER PHILLIPS

Rev. Phillips and his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Phillips, a teacher of English and journalism at Rose High for the past 12 years, have three children—Mrs. Cindy Joyner, a teacher in the Pitt County Schools; Dean, a junior at Liberty Baptist College in Lynchburg, Va.; and Kent, a junior at Rose High.

The Phillips family will be moving out of the state during the month of June.

Spring Revival Begins May 3

WINTERVILLE—Spring revival services have been scheduled May 3-7 at the Winterville Free Will Baptist Church beginning each evening at eight o'clock.

The visiting speaker will be the Rev. Willis Wilson, pastor of the Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church near Winterville. The Rev. Jack Mayo, pastor of the Winterville church, will be assisting in the services. Special music will be held each evening. The public is invited to attend.

BAKE AND YARD SALE
A bake sale and an yard sale will be held at the Meadowbrook Pentecostal Holiness Church on Munford Road Saturday at 10 a.m. The sales will be sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary of the church.

Inspired Renaissance In Southern History Study

By Dr. H.G. JONES, Curator North Carolina Collection For the Associated Press
CHAPEL HILL (AP) — In 1903 a Raleigh newspaper editor commented on a visitor who had been conducting research in the State Library: "He is a young man of ability and industry, true to the best traditions of the State, and gives promise of a career of great usefulness."

"Fifty-eight years later, the Chapel Hill Weekly noted, "A great man has passed. His work will live in the Southern Historical Collection and in the volumes to be published by authors and scholars yet unborn."
 "During the intervening years, Joseph Gregoire de Roulhac Hamilton brought about a renaissance in the study of southern history and became the model against whom other collectors of source materials are now measured. His success inspired others both to seek out and to use the rich documentation which has made southern history a major field of study in the twentieth century."

"To his friends, he was "Roulhac" Hamilton, from his mother's maiden name. But jealous citizens of other southern states sometimes called him "ransack" Hamilton, an identification that he accepted in good humor. It attested to the effectiveness of his work."

"Born at Hillsborough in 1878, Hamilton received his M.A. degree from the University of the South and then taught a year at Horner Military Academy at Oxford before going to Columbia University for two years of graduate work."

In 1904 he became principal of Wilmington High School and continued his research on his dissertation, the subject of which was the Reconstruction Era in North Carolina.

With his doctorate in hand, Hamilton joined the faculty of the University of North Carolina in 1906, and within two years he was chairman of the Department of History.

Hamilton's interest in teaching and writing were matched by his concern over the fate of southern historical materials. Although state governments around the turn of the century began to assume their obligations of preserving public records, no university had done much to collect and make available for study private manuscript — letters, diaries, account books, and the like.

Recognizing that the story of the southern states could never be told without these raw materials, the young professor spent more and more of his time in locating and persuading owners to place manuscript collections in the University of North Carolina Library.

By 1920, with the full support of University Librarian Louis Round Wilson, Hamilton adopted the concept of a Southern Historical Collection and ten years later the university trustees formally recognized the collection and named him its full-time director.

 Citing as enemies of history, "fire, too-zealous housewifery, mice, dampness and excessive heat, and the silver moth," Dr. Hamilton made hundreds of tours of the South in search of manuscripts. He was virtually without competition, for few others appeared concerned with historical sources.

And so to Chapel Hill came, time and time again, Hamilton's old Ford, loaded with manuscript treasures. Others were shipped or mailed. Historians soon followed and hungrily studied the hitherto unused materials. Books and articles on southern history multiplied.

Nobody knows how far Dr. Hamilton traveled in salvaging documents; one estimate is over a half million miles. But one thing is certain: he drew from every state in the South the cream of historical manuscripts.

The results were two-fold: first, the concentration in Chapel Hill of the most outstanding collection of private papers relating to the South; and second, the awakening of the collecting zeal in other states.

Alabamians, Texans, and other southerners got their dander

His Career Is In Mannequins

GERING, Neb. (AP) — Max Schachter's world is strewn with broken heads, cracked torsos and loose limbs. He refinishes mannequins for a living.

"The way I look at a mannequin is the way I see a woman," says Schachter, 62. "The first thing I think of when I see that mannequin is, 'How will women look at that?'"

Schachter, who started his trade at 14, uses a van to pick up broken forms from stores in a seven-state area. He repairs them in his Scottsbluff shop.

Skull injuries are taped, then covered with spackling to smooth out the shape. Broken and bruised spots first must be sanded. When body parts are beyond repair, Schachter makes new ones from clay.

"When you're going down a highway with a carload of mannequins, or carrying a body in your hands, you get more giggles and laughs than you can imagine," he said.

up as they saw their history being carted off to North Carolina, and the result was the establishment of manuscript collections in many other universities and historical societies.
 In addition to building the Southern Historical Collection,

Dr. Hamilton led a multi-faceted career. He was a popular professor, and students flocked to his classes. He was also a visiting professor at Harvard, Michigan, Chicago, and Southern California.
 He was a prolific author: His book on Reconstruction in North Carolina was for two generations the standard work in the field, and he wrote seven other books and edited at least a dozen more. His biographical articles numbered over 100.

 For 16 years Hamilton was editor of the James Sprunt Historical Publications and in 1921 he established the book review page in the Greensboro Daily News. Columbia University in 1932 gave him its Distinguished Alumni Medal, and he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa by the Alpha Chapter at William and Mary College.

 He was president of the North Carolina Literary and Historical Association in 1920, the Southern Historical Association in 1943, and the Historical Association of North Carolina in 1954.

 Dr. Hamilton retired from the SHC in 1948 and died in 1961. As predicted by the Raleigh editor in 1903, he had indeed lived up to the promise of "a career of great usefulness."

Turkey buzzards hover, hour after hour, in sky over La Grange, Calif., soaring effortlessly on 6-foot wingspan.

Pair of buzzards in identical pose show off breadth of powerful wings, secret of dramatic airmanship.

Photographer's favorite bird: turkey buzzard.

SOARING SCAVENGER

These are pictures with a message—equal time for buzzards! "The best flyer and the most useful bird" he knows, says the photographer, Al Golub, who took these pictures of turkey buzzards near La Grange, Calif.

The more you look carefully at the buzzard and discount its unsavory reputation, the more attractive a member of the earth's community of living creatures the bird turns out to be.

Above all, seen in its natural element, the air, the buzzard is a vision of power and grace, an aristocrat of the skies. Admittedly, in closeup it just doesn't have a pretty face—although that red, naked head is highly efficient for tucking in to a rotting carcass. But ecologists, considering the buzzard in its natural context, give it full marks as a tireless scavenger, an indispensable recycler of carrion without whom our great outdoors would be far less appealing.

Photographed by Al Golub.

Buzzard's naked head isn't pretty—but it's efficient for digging in to carrion and for scavenging.

Perhaps he's brooding on past—these long lived birds may survive up to 100 years.

Study Of Dying Strikes Home

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "The time I have left on the upside of this earth, I'm going to live it the best and happiest I know how." The words of a dying man, the Rev. Bryant, 56, the black pastor of a Baptist church.

"I prayed that the chemotherapy wouldn't work." The tearful, frustrated words of Harriet, whose husband, Bill is slowly dying. They have two sons, aged 8 and 10.

"Oh, feel the air! Know it." The joyous words of Sally, 46, as two ambulance attendants carry her outdoors to the sunshine. She's leaving the hospital for the last time, going home for the last time.

The Rev. Bryant, Bill and Sally died last year, all victims of cancer. But their insights and those of their families into the process of dying have been captured in an extraordinary documentary called "Dying."

Produced by WGBH in Boston and filmed over a two-year period by producer-director Michael Roemer, this program is scheduled for national broadcast on public TV tonight. We urge you to watch it.

Despite the grimness of "Dying," the treatment of the theme is unusually sensitive and compelling. It provides considerable reason for us to take another look at our own attitudes toward dying and death.

The show starts slowly with a young widow, identified only as Sandy, recounting her feelings when she learned her 29-year-old husband, Mark, a graduate student, had cancer and only five months to live, at most.

She says she was pregnant at the time. But the knowledge he had at least five months left, she adds, "was like a gift to me. We might see our second child born and maybe see the spring together."

Then, after Maynard Mack, a Yale professor and consultant on the show, explains its original premise and how it evolved into its final form, the documentary focuses on the lives of its three main subjects.

In examining the last months of the three Boston-area cancer victims studied in this 97-minute program, Roemer uses no narration and provides no information other than that supplied by those being filmed, plus the dates of his subjects' deaths.

Sally, her shaved head showing an ugly, fist-sized depression where surgeons tried to remove her brain cancer, is a portrait in warm courage and Yankee stoicism, even though at the start she recalls: "Before I was sick, I was such a big, healthy redhead ... just having a wonderful time. And then — down, down, down."

Harriet, whose dying husband wears a hairpiece to cover scars left by an unsuccessful operation, is a study in torment, a woman who wants his suffering ended now, wants a chance to start anew, remarry, live a normal life with her sons.

The Rev. Mr. Bryant emerges as a cheerful, gutsy, dignified testament to faith. Told by his doctor he's doomed, he nods and softly says: "It's all right. We're goin' forward. Ain't a thing in the world a man can do in a case like that except put his trust in God ..."

Funds Plea By Privette

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP) — In an effort to raise funds and establish name recognition in the East, Coy Privette, candidate for Republican gubernatorial nomination, purchased 30 minutes of television time on WTN-TV here Wednesday night.

The television address was somewhat unusual as the primary will be Aug. 17, but Privette ran the program as a test for possible use elsewhere.

In his talk, taped last week, Privette called for tough treatment of violent criminals and stops on state spending. Privette resigned from the pastorate of a Kannapolis Baptist church to run for nomination against David Flaherty, Jacob Alexander and Wallace McCall.

Privette called for mandatory imprisonment of those who use guns to commit a crime and said, "Trying to control crime by outlawing guns is like trying to stop wrecks by outlawing cars. The fact is if guns are outlawed, only the criminals will have guns."

In supporting the death penalty, he said, "I do definitely believe capital punishment is a deterrent to cold-blooded murders. We should not only keep it, but we should use it."

He complained that the state budget has gone from $1.3 billion in 1970 to more than $3 billion now and said government has grown because the public expects it to do too much. But, he said, "there are many things government does that are good and proper."

Increasing the $10,000 inheritance tax exemption, set 40 years ago, to $50,000 would help maintain family farms, he said. By raising the exemption, heirs wouldn't be forced to sell part of a farm to pay the tax, he said.

Museum's Show Looks Like A 'Time Capsule'

CHICAGO (AP) — The Art Institute of Chicago's 72nd exhibition of contemporary American art looks like a newly opened time capsule of what was happening in this country more than a decade ago.

The show, presented annually or biennially since 1888, undertakes to survey recent developments in art around the country.

This one, however, seems to have been drawn largely from the trendy galleries in New York City.

The eight-week show includes 62 works by 38 artists, most of them from the New York area. Only one, the amusing Jim Nutt, represents Chicago's vital art.

Being, as it is, an assemblage of artists promoted by the art establishment, the show is monotonous, repetitious and boring, with a few exceptions. Claes Oldenbreg of New York, the most talented of the Pop artists, won one of 12 $1,000 prizes for his 10-foot steel sculpture of a clothes-pin.

Oldenbreg's work is always exciting. He is also represented by a 6-foot typewriter eraser and a dripping "Alphabet-Good Humor" bar made up of melting letters of the alphabet.

Richard Estes of New York paints realistically in photographic detail and is represented in the exhibition with a picture of a segment of a city block featuring "Paul's Bridal Accessories." The work is interesting but shows little artistic development.

The most interesting abstraction in the show is Helen Frankenthaler's "Blue Seducer," an exciting, powerful piece, 5 by 11 feet, painted in heavy pinks and blue. She is a New Yorker.

Roy Lichtenstein, the New York Pop artist noted for use of Ben Day dots, is represented by "Cow Triptych," a three-panel work. His technique here is similar, using hatch marks, but each panel represents a progression of his view of the cow.

Jim Nutt of Wilmette, Ill., a Chicago suburb, uses amusing monster-like cartoon figures in his drawings and constructions.

The other artists represented are those from the New York area: Ellsworth Kelly, Jasper

Woman Candidate Mixes Peanut Butter, Politics

EDITOR'S NOTE—If the Secret Service van parked out front a bit much, the 10-year-old taking official phone calls seems less than enough. Both typify Ellen McCormack's run for the presidency: a mixture of politics and family life. She hopes the idea catches on.

By KAY BARTLETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer
MERRICK, N.Y. (AP) — Ellen McCormack was running a bit late for her Monday morning appointment with the press. She had a conflicting engagement with her son's fourth grade reading teacher. First things first. The second interview of the day had to wait while she made a 10-year-old John — now home for lunch — a peanut butter sandwich. And John wasn't too happy anyway. His dog, Nimbus, a black Heinz 57-probably heavily spiced with terrier — had been tied up in the backyard.

"Why is my dog tied up?" he asked the candidate for the presidency of the United States of America, his mother. She is Mrs. Francis John McCormack, housewife, mother of four, grandmother of two, a Roman Catholic, a former Girl Scout leader and PTA activist, a 1944 graduate of All Saints High School, the wife of a deputy inspector of the New York City Police Department and suddenly a contender for the Democratic nomination for the highest office in the land. She's called the "Pro-Life Candidate" or the "Anti-abortion Candidate" and she's been criticized for being a one-issue candidate and has been called a "tool of the bishops." She says she doesn't mind the "Pro-Life" tag, but says she does have other positions. "I don't think the other candidates take my other positions very seriously," she admits. Her grass-roots campaign, backed by Pro-Life and Right to Life groups across the nation, has qualified her for matching federal funds as well as Secret Service protection around the clock. Her one-story, stucco and wood home in a modest section of Long Island, is now distinguished by the van in the front that the Secret Service uses as an office. She initially did not want constant protection. She felt she needed it only when speaking before large crowds. But one of her lessons in practical politics was that the Secret Service does not work that way. If they are assigned to protect a person, it's all-or-nothing. She also had to bend to the wishes of her supporters and get an unlisted telephone number.

"My daughter, who has the same name as mine, received several obscene telephone calls one day. She was very upset. I told her I was sure the calls were for me," recalls Mrs. McCormack. But that was it. An unlisted telephone was installed the next day. Mrs. McCormack is a rather tall, friendly woman who does not look her 49 years. Her only lines are the laugh lines around her mouth. She has black hair, with only a hint of gray in front, dark brown eyes, and high cheekbones that announce her Irish ancestry. Besides freckle-faced John, she has three daughters, all in their 20s. The eldest, Kathy, is married and the mother of two children. Does she really think she can win? "I know the odds against it," she says. Her ambition is to win 4 per cent in the remaining primaries. She already has secured two delegates, one from Wisconsin and one from Massachusetts. By her candidacy she "hopes people will get motivated to get back into the political arena." "I'm running to get people back to doing their jobs. The members of the Supreme Court are basing their judgments on public opinion and sentiment and not the interpretation of the law. Congressmen will no longer face controversial issues. They say what they think people want to hear. They won't be honest with you." Although Mrs. McCormack does speak on issues other than abortion, her intense anti-abortion feelings come to the front. On Egypt and Israel: "We arm both sides and then ask them not to shoot each other. I would cut off arms and send in a man who will go to the little people and teach them to live together. I would like to choose an emissary to send to Egypt and Israel. Abortion is a terrible action of violence both against the mother and the baby and our government supports it and our government then wants to go into another country as a peacemaker?" Mrs. McCormack has received $170,000 in federal funds and has raised $225,000. Under the law, a candidate must raise $5,000 in 20 states with no individual giving more than $250. She has been criticized for receiving the funds by people who feel she is a cause, not a candidate. Rep. Charles Wiggins, a California Republican, called it a "perversion." "I don't think it is," she says. "HEW (Health, Education and Welfare) pays $50 million a year for abortions. And most feminist groups are financed by the government. No one questions that." She admits the federal funding law probably will be changed and agrees that she may be part of the reason for changing it. But she strongly favors such a law, pointing out that it does give people other than leading politicians the chance to run.

And Mrs. McCormack's campaign has none of the top-level politician to it. There is no office and, in trying to reach her, one ends up leaving messages with a 10-year-old child whose mother is a member of the Pro-Life Action Committee. There are titles among the nine members of the committee, but jobs vary from day to day. There is no speech writer, as such. It's a joint effort. The large bulk of the money is being spent on television commercials, including a recent five-minute spot.

Grand Ole Opry Rocks To The E. Street Band

By LOUISE A. REID
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE (AP)—Familiar foot stomping and hand clapping rocked the Grand Ole Opry. But it wasn't because of Minnie Pearl's jokes or Roy Acuff singing "Walbash Cannonball." Instead, the floors vibrated Wednesday night as Bruce Springsteen and his E. Street Band became the first hard rockers to perform in the 50-year history of the country music tabernacle. The show almost had a country flavor. Springsteen had unsuccessfully sought to have singers Dolly Parton and Roy Orbison, one of his influences, join him. But both were busy elsewhere. It was part of the maiden Southern tour for the 26-year-old New Jersey native catapulted to national attention last fall via simultaneous cover stories in Time and Newsweek magazines. About that time, Springsteen cancelled a scheduled appearance here at the last moment because of low ticket sales. He'd been around for several years but primarily as an East Coast attraction. "D.J.'s have given him a hard time in this town," said Dale Heddeston, 21, in the audience. "The first time I ever heard of him was when he was on Time." Robert Chick, 27, said, "He was too 'big city.' Down here what's big is (country singer) Charlie Daniels." Although Springsteen plays sold-out audiences in the big cities of the Midwest and East, the Opry lacked a "sold out" sign. About a third of the 4,500 seats were vacant. But, Glen Brunnar, Springsteen's public relations manager, said a capacity crowd wasn't expected. "We knew he wasn't going to sell the way he did in Phoenix and Houston, L.A., Philadelphia, Boston and New York." Brunnar said. "The intensity of the reaction is the same in smaller as in the bigger markets. The only difference is he's not drawing as big a crowd." Springsteen wanted to appear at the Opry because it satisfied his criteria of performing in a small place with good acoustics. But, Brunnar said, Opry officials weren't sure they wanted him. "There were some questions whether he's too loud, too rock and rollish." "Apparently the guys who run the Opry went up to Louisville and watched the show to make sure there would be no problems with booking him."

The only other rock stars who have performed at the Opry are Jackson Brown, a country rocker, and Joni Mitchell, of folk rock.

Giving Recital In Petersburg

PETERSBURG, VA.—Mamie Ellene Maye of Greenville will give her senior organ recital at Christ and Grace Episcopal Church here Sunday at 4:15 p.m. She is to be a cum laude music graduate of Virginia State College and is the daughter of Mrs. Beatrice C. Maye of Greenville and the late J. W. Maye Sr. She will perform compositions by Buxtehude, Bach, Mendelssohn, and Schroeder. A premiere performance of Dr. Undine Smith Moore's "Variations on 'Nettleton'" will be featured. The British evacuated Boston on St. Patrick's day, March 17, 1776.

Treatment For Eroding Areas

Treatment has begun on 1,035 acres of eroding land in the Mid-East Resource Conservation and Development Project (RC&D). These areas are located in Beaufort, Bertie, Hertford, Martin, and Pitt Counties which make up the project area. The treatment areas are those secondary roads and school ground sites which have soil erosion and water disposal problems. Some $450,000 in seeding materials, furnished to local sponsors of the projects, are being provided by RC&D.

The secondary road systems in the project area are being treated by the North Carolina Department of Transportation using materials provided through the Mid-East RC&D also. The Soil and Water Conservation Districts in the five counties are prime sponsors in the treatment and control of soil erosion on these older roadways.

Seeding is being done on road banks and shoulders to reduce soil loss keeping the soil in place rather than allowing it to clog our water courses.

The Mid-East RC&D Project and its sponsors, the Boards of County Commissioners and the Boards of Soil and Water Conservation Districts are concerned with the natural resources and their proper care with planned development in the five-county regional area. The concern is reflected in the 143 initial project measures outlined in the Project Plan, "Natural Resources for Today and Tomorrow," which indicates work and attention needed for erosion control, recreational facilities, soil surveys, flood control, fish and wildlife concerns, and many others. Local input is essential and necessary for program activity.

McDonald Speaks At LWV Dinner

The Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters (LWV) held its seventh annual dinner meeting Tuesday night at the St. Paul Episcopal Church Parish Hall.

Dan McDonald, assistant director, Division of Resources Planning and Evaluation of the N.C. Department of Natural and Economic Resources, was the guest speaker. McDonald discussed the N. C. Water Resources Framework Study now being made by the N. C. Department of Natural and Economic Resources. The purpose of the study is to identify major needs and problems in water and related land resources and to suggest courses of action to meet these needs and problems.

According to McDonald, the framework study describes the state policy in water resources management and development and the present situation of N. C.'s water resources. The heart of the study is a series of studies focusing on each major river basin in the state, including the principal needs in each and possible solutions.

Copies of the studies are now being distributed to interested groups and individuals who are being asked to express their views on how the State's water resources should be managed, developed, conserved and utilized. These views will be incorporated in a document, soon to be published, designed to serve as a policy guide and an aid in decision-making processes.

LWV business following McDonald's presentation included a report by Ann Frost on the N.C. LWV Council held April 10, the announcement of a petition drive by the local LWV for an elected Greenville City School Board, adoption of the budget for 1976-77, and recognition of those Board members whose terms have expired.

The following persons were elected to serve on the Greenville-Pitt County LWV Board of Directors: First Vice President, Ann Frost; Second Vice President, Mary Alvan; Treasurer, Dorothy Pierce; and directors, Mary Daugherty, Paula Blumenfeld, Artemis Kares, Elaine Schaal, and Shirley Taylor. Elected to the nominating committee for 1976-77 were Frieda Scharf, chairperson; Irene Hanifan; and Mary Roscoe.

Rhea Resnik, president, commented that the Greenville-Pitt County League is an outstanding one... the size of our League is enormous as compared to other Leagues in cities of comparable size... We are regarded by the State League as one of the most active in the state.

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING ON THE PROPOSED WIDENING OF A PORTION OF NC 43, SR 1200 (STANTONSBURG ROAD) AND SR 1267 IN GREENVILLE AND PITT COUNTY Project 9.8022056 U-302

The North Carolina Department of Transportation, Division of Highways will hold the above public hearing on May 6, 1976 at 7:30 p.m. in the District Courtroom, 2nd Floor New Annex of the Pitt County Courthouse in Greenville, N.C. The hearing will consist of an explanation of the proposed project, right-of-way requirements and procedures, and relocation advisory assistance. The hearing will be open to those present for any statements, questions, comments, and suggestions of material pertaining to the proposed project. Additional material pertaining to the proposed project may be submitted for a period of ten days from the date of the hearing to Mr. George E. Wells, P.E., Manager of Highway Design, North Carolina Department of Transportation, Division of Highways, P.O. Box 25201, Raleigh, N.C. 27611.

The proposed project consists of widening NC 43 to a 64' curb and gutter street from the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center to NC 11 and US 13. The existing 100' right-of-way will contain most of the construction, but easements will be acquired where required. SR 1267 will be widened to a 64' curb and gutter street from the West City limit to US 13 and NC 11. An 80' right-of-way with easements will be acquired for this portion of the project.

A set of plans and an Environmental Report are available for public review and copying at the Division Office of the North Carolina Department of Transportation, Division of Highways in Greenville, N.C.

PUBLICATION NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that on May 10, 1976, the City of Greenville will submit to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development a request and certification for the release of funds. The request and certification relate to the application of the City of Greenville, North Carolina, for a grant of funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 for the purpose of undertaking the projects hereinafter described:

1. Purchase of a new fire truck
2. Renovation of the old Memorial Baptist Church educational building for use as an activity center
3. Street lighting project

The City of Greenville has prepared an environmental review record respecting the above-described project for which the release of funds is being sought. The environmental review record is available at the City Hall between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, where the same may be examined by the public and copies thereof obtained.

The applicant requesting the release of funds for the above-described project is the City of Greenville, North Carolina 27834. The applicant's chief executive officer is Percy R. Cox, Mayor, of the City of Greenville, North Carolina 27834.

The City of Greenville will undertake the project described above with Block Grant funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. The City of Greenville is certifying to HUD that the certification is that upon its approval, the City of Greenville may use the Block Grant funds, and HUD will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. HUD will accept an objection to its approval of the certification only if it is one of the following: (a) that the certification was not in fact executed by the chief executive officer of the applicant, or (b) that the applicant's environmental review record for the project is inadequate.

The required decision, finding or step applicable to the project in the environmental review process. Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 58), and may be addressed to HUD Area Office at 2309 West Cone Boulevard, Greensboro, N.C. 27408. Objections to the release of funds on bases other than those stated above will not be considered by HUD. No objection received after June 1, 1976, will be considered by HUD.

The City of Greenville
Percy R. Cox, Mayor

Spring CLEARANCE
PLUS OUR USED CARS ARE GUARANTEED
12 Months or 12,000 Miles.
 This guarantee applies to cars selling for $1000.00 and up. On a 50-50 basis. All work must be done in our shop.
 Most good used cars, if they're guaranteed at all, are only covered for a month or two. At Tarheel Toyota, we're just as willing to back our good used cars as our good new cars. So we guarantee the motor, transmission and rear end for 12 months or 12,000 miles. This warranty applies to all cars selling for $1000.00 or more on a 50-50 basis with all work being done in our shop. It doesn't apply to any sports cars, high performance engines or 4-speed transmission (except economy cars). If you're in the market for a BETTER USED CAR, COME OUT AND LOOK AT OURS. We'll show you some as good as new. Guaranteed. * Warranted Cars

Logging Operation Increasingly Turns To Horses

By WILLIAM MONROE,
Corvallis Gazette-Times
PEDEE, Ore. (AP) — Jerry and Charlie Harpole, sons of a Portland physician, operate Horse Drawn Forest Products, one of 50 or 60 horse logging outfits in Oregon.

With the help of their cutter, Butch Winters, their company makes $200 to $300 per day. Horse logging is becoming increasingly popular here because increasing amounts of timber need thinning, lessening the competition among trees for space and sunlight.

Horses maneuver easily in the deep woods, leaving fewer scars on earth or trees. And they don't cost as much as machines.

Carbon, Jerry Harpole's horse, eats up to 50 pounds of grain and part of a bale of hay each working day at a total daily operating cost of $6.

Hours are flexible. There is no urgency to get a slowly growing timber stand thinned.

During November, for example, the crew left the woods to take a 30-day contract with a local Christmas tree farmer. After the Yuletide timber was down and shipped to market, they started again in the stand, where they have been working since late summer a few miles southwest of Peede.

The three men and their two horses work as a team. Winters chooses and cuts down unneeded trees, then slices them into 16-foot sections — a popular size for mills.

He cuts, cleans, bucks branches and slices logs with a chain saw, working quickly over each tree like a two-handed swordsman.

The Harpole brothers move their horses in and out of the falling timber amid flying wood chips. Each animal is equipped with a heavy harness, attached to a length of chain used to choke and pull the logs.

The horse is backed up to the log with voice commands, "Back, back, whoa-up." Chains clatter as the choke is set.

"Okay, run!" Man and horse move out, the horse almost running to maintain momentum on the log while one of the Harpoles runs alongside to keep up, dodging sticks and snags on the way.

The horse has an uncanny sense of direction and distance. He stops without order when the log is exactly beside the log pile.

"Good pull, Carbon," Jerry Harpole tells him.

Carbon is more than a tool. He is a companion. Between Jerry and the horse is an un-seen bond, built in the two years they have been together.

The horse knows when to pull, where to go and where to stop.

A measure of Jerry's love is the fact that he knows the horse's exact age — 18 years on April 20.

There are more and more young stands of timber, planted early this century, coming to maturity for their first commercial thinning and large companies are turning to horses for the job.

An average working horse can pull a Douglas fir log two and a half feet in diameter and 16 feet long through the woods to one of many piles, or "decks," of logs lying on the forest floor. Percherons are horesdom's "gentle giants." They are about the only variety used in the woods. Horses don't start work in the woods until they are 5 or 6 years old. That gives their big bones a chance to harden before their bodies are put to the strain of heavy loads.

More Women In Engineering

NEW YORK (AP) — Though they account for only 1 or 2 per cent of practicing engineers, women are beginning to make themselves felt in the profession of engineering — especially at the Polytechnic Institute of New York.

While only 5 per cent of the Institute's students are women, this represents a fivefold increase in the female enrollment over the last 10 years.

The undergraduates elected their first woman student-body president last December and recently the "Polytechnic Engineer," the school's undergraduate technical journal, published its first women's issue. All six of the major articles in the magazine were written by women undergraduates (although one was a joint effort with a male), as were both editorials in the issue.

Misidentified Gun Victim

JACKSON, Ga. (AP) — An Associated Press story Monday from Jackson incorrectly identified a shooting victim as Horace Fallen.

The story also quoted a police spokesman as saying that a cocaine deal was the source of "bad blood" between Horace Fallen and Moses Pearson.

In both cases, the story should have used the name Curtis Fallen, a brother of Horace Fallen of Jacksonville, Fla.

Curtis Fallen was one of three persons killed and 13 wounded by Moses Pearson before Pearson took his own life early Sunday in a two-state rampage in Florida and Georgia, police said.

LONG TENURE

BOSTON (UPI) — Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., Representative from Massachusetts' 8th Congressional District, has held his post since 1952, when he succeeded John F. Kennedy.
