Hospital's Benefits Increased

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Hospital employees will get eight holidays, rather than six, it was decided at a Hospital Trustees meeting last night, based on the recommendation of the Trustees' finance committee. Employees with more than 15 years of service will now get four weeks' vacation. The previous policy of two weeks after one year and three weeks after five years will be continued.

Registered nurses' and laboratory technicians' salaries were set at $4.75 per hour, and radiologic technicians at $3.69 an hour. All other employees receive a five per cent raise. The report was given by J. H. Moye, chairman of the finance committee.

J. B. Kittrell, retirement committee chairman, reported that retirement benefits have been improved, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1976, at no cost to the hospital. He gave no details.

A letter from William A. Dees, chairman of the UNC Board of Governors was read by acting Hospital Board Chairman Kenneth Dews. He told the Board that he was forwarding to UNC President William Friday a copy of the Pitt Memorial and Pitt County Commissioners' request that top priority be given to the reinstatement of the $3.8 million set aside for the medical school-hospital bed-tower project. He promised that the request would be presented to the Budget and Finance Committee of the Board of Governors.

Assistant Hospital Director Rick Gilstrap presented a list of accomplishments made at Pitt Memorial during the past three years. A few of these are "progress on construction of new hospital; affiliation agreement with ECU Medical School; Professional Standards Review Organization set up; AHEC development and opening of Family Practice Center; Rehabilitation Team development; energy conservation program begun; takeover by Pitt Technical Institute of many hospital inservice education programs; employee banquet established; development of new bylaws, medical audit procedure, and delineation of privileges of the medical staff; intensive nursery, intensive surgical unit, ambulatory medical-surgical unit, and combined labor and delivery areas developed; inpatient services records computerized; and contract management of dietary department begun, night physician emergency room coverage begun.

Dave McRae, rehabilitation director for the new hospital, reported that he is writing job descriptions and recruiting persons to make up the rehabilitation team for the Rehabilitation unit. He told of his concept of the rehab team which would include acute lifesaving, physical rehab, emotional rehab, and job retraining. The Greenville unit will be the last of five in the state. Others are in Asheville, Charlotte, Winston Salem and Fayetteville.

Hospital Director Jack Richardson said bids have been taken for radiology equipment for the new hospital. The only two bidders are Picker and General Electric. Their complicated bids are now being evaluated to determine which is the best deal, he said.

A surveillance nurse for infection control is being considered for the hospital. Dr. Charles Gilbert has volunteered to talk to persons in charge of infection surveillance in other hospitals to determine exactly what is needed, the Board was told.

The administration was asked to send every Board member a copy of the attendance requirements.

Trustee Norfleet Sugg reported that, in traveling in the Piedmont, he has found "no animosity, no resistance" to the Pitt County Board's resolution concerning the retention of the $3.8 million.

Report April Gains In Personal Income

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Higher payrolls in distribution industries helped quicken the growth in Americans' personal income during April, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said personal income increased at an annual rate of 10.9 per cent in April to an annual rate of $1,347.6 billion. That represented faster growth than the 9.6 per cent jump at an annual rate in March.

The latest growth means personal income so far this year is now running 10.5 per cent ahead of the first four months of last year. Personal income increased at 7.9 per cent during all of 1975.

Combined with a reduced inflation rate during the early part of this year, the steady growth in personal income means more money available for spending by consumers as well as more fuel for the economic recovery.

Consumer prices in the January-March period rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 2.9 per cent, lowest in any quarter since the three-month period ending in June 1972.

Personal income represents all wages, salaries and other payments received by individuals before deduction of income and sales taxes. It represents much of the foundation of the economy.

Personal income has now increased for nine consecutive months. The growth in April of $11.6 billion at an annual rate was the largest since February's $12.4 billion.

Commerce said the primary influence behind the gaster growth in April was a $5.4 billion jump in private wages and salaries, which had risen $4.4 billion in March.

The distributive industry sector, which includes freight haulers and other movers of products, provided most of that increase with a $1.9 billion jump, which was more than twice March's $800 million increase, the department said.

Payrolls in commodity producing and service industries increased at about the same rate as in March.

Government wages and salaries also increased at a steady pace, but farm income ended six months of no growth with a $1.2 billion jump in April to an annual rate of $38.1 billion.

d'Estaing To See Historic U.S. Sites

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—

French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing is making Bicentennial visits to historic sites in Pennsylvania and Virginia today after defending detente, urging better trade relations with America and entertaining President Ford.

He visits Yorktown, Va., and Independence Hall in Philadelphia, site of the Liberty Bell, and then returns to Washington to take part with President Ford in the dedication of a sound-and-light display at Mount Vernon, Va. The display is France's Bicentennial gift to America.

On Tuesday, the French president continued to lament that despite the best diplomatic relations, the people of the United States and France don't know enough about each other.

Giscard d'Estaing was reportedly upset by a French poll that indicated barely one-third of the American people regard France as a good ally. And he appeared to be making a personal effort to overcome that impression during his Bicentennial visit, saying the two countries "should know each other better in order to understand each other better."

It was the fifth time in 18 months that Ford and the French president met and their two White House sessions Tuesday lasted three hours. Giscard d'Estaing said he and Ford held "useful and trusting talks."

The White House, reporting that the sessions ranged from international economic issues to Middle East problems and nuclear safeguards and nonproliferation, said, "The two presidents agreed that they enjoyed a parallelism of views."

With the formal discussions over, the French returned White House hospitality by entertaining President and Mrs. Ford at a lavish, white-tie dinner at the French embassy.

A Paris decorator had constructed a huge pink and burgundy tent over the garden, recreating an 18th century room complete with tapestries from Versailles and paintings from the Louvre Museum in Paris as the setting for the 200 dinner guests.

French chefs from Giscard d'Estaing's Elysee Palace came to Washington to help cook the elaborate menu that included pate de fois gras perigord with truffles, lobster with spring vegetables, and quail with grapes—all served with four of the best French wines.

A special Limoges china service with a red, white and blue Bicentennial motif created by Christian Dior had been produced for the occasion.

Among the guests were Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, mother of the late President John F. Kennedy; actors Gregory Peck and Kirk Douglas; actress Olivia de Havilland and actress-model Margaux Hemingway and dancer Martha Graham.

Set Self Afire

COLUMBIA (AP)—An unidentified man set himself on fire in front of the South Carolina State House today while a group of Columbia police and firemen were demonstrating on the Capitol steps for higher wages.

The man drove a car onto the State House grounds and stopped in front of the demonstrators. Then, he set himself on fire. He was pulled out of the car and firemen on the scene began giving him artificial respiration.

The House was in session at the time and members rushed from their desks when word circulated of what was happening outside.

BUS STRIKE ENDS

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A strike which idled Continental Trailways bus service in seven Southern states for 18 days has ended with union workers agreeing to a three-year contract.

Employment In Southeast Is Showing Gains

ATLANTA (AP)—Southeastern employment rose again in March with seven of eight states showing increases in non-agricultural jobs, a federal agency said today.

Job increases in the service industries and in government led the way as nonagricultural employment in the region rose 22,400 to a total of 11.94 million employed in March, the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported.

Other employment increases were recorded over February figures in wholesale and retail trade, finance, insurance and real estate, mining and contract construction.

Decreases were reported in manufacturing and in transportation, communication and public utilities, the bureau said. Total jobs in the Southeast increased just over 250,000 from March 1975, the bureau said.

Employment increases recorded from February to March of this year were: Florida 5,500, South Carolina 5,100, Mississippi 4,800, Tennessee 4,100, Georgia 3,900, North Carolina 1,600 and Kentucky 200.

Alabama had a loss of 2,800 jobs for the month.

Employees in the Southeast worked an average of 40.3 hours per week for $4.05 per hour in March, six minutes less and a penny-an-hour more than in February. The national averages were 40 hours per week at $5.07 per hour, the bureau reported.

Candidate For Pitt School Bd.

Mrs. Ann Creech of Ayden filed Wednesday for Pitt County Board of Education representing the Ayden District.

In filing for the position Mrs. Creech will be running against incumbent Bill McLachorn of Ayden.

Mrs. Creech is a member of the Pitt County Title I Parents' Advisory Council, Chairman of the Ayden Grammar and Ayden Elementary Title I Parents' Advisory Committee, vice president of Ayden Grammar PTA and she organized the Parents' Advisory Council at Ayden Elementary School.

"As a parent I feel that we must have a good school system in Pitt County and I would appreciate the opportunity to participate in the planning of our county system of education," Mrs. Creech said.

"I want to see the county system continue a strong academic program and strengthen the vocational area and including these programs in the Middle School. I feel a strong reading and math program with special programs for exceptional children is essential in the elementary levels. I would

Body Found

MESIC, N.C. (AP)—The body of a man believed to have been involved in a massive coastal marijuana smuggling operation has been found in a shallow grave, authorities said today.

"I believe that it's one of the smuggling ring," said Pamlico County Sheriff Leland Brinson as he prepared to join state medical examiners at the scene.

"I have information—not evidence—but information saying the body was part of the smuggling ring," he said.

Brinson described the situation as an apparent murder, and said he believed the man was killed sometime in December—well before a Jan. 11 raid in which agents seized 22 tons of marijuana and arrested 10 persons.

He said the shallow grave, which was discovered late Tuesday by a U.S. Customs agent working on a tip, is located about 50 yards from a house trailer belonging to Ernest H. Mayo of Mesic, one of eight men convicted in the case.

Ayden Woman Files For Seat In N.C. House

Irma Sermons Worthington of Ayden filed Tuesday as a Democratic candidate for the Eighth District seat in the N. C. House of Representatives. The Winterville native taught in the Pitt County Schools 30 years before her retirement in 1973. She holds degrees from ECU.

She has held offices in the Ayden Democratic Precinct and has served as a delegate and an alternate to county, district and state Democratic Party conventions.

Among her primary interests are continued advancement in all levels of education, encouragement of women to take more active roles in the political process, advancement of the status of women in business, improvement of farm programs and workable plans to reduce crime in North Carolina.

Her professional memberships include the National Education Association, the N.C.E.A., the Pitt County and Greenville units of the N. C. Association of Educators, the Pitt County Greenville Unit of Retired Personnel, the Council for Exceptional Children, the National Council of Science Teachers and the National Council of Mathematics Teachers.

Her civic memberships include the Business and Professional Women's Club, the League of Women Voters, the Women's Political Caucus and the Greenville Women's Club.

Mrs. Worthington is married to T. Wardell Worthington and is the mother of two sons and a daughter.

A HOTLINE APPEAL

SIDESWIPED

I know it may be naive, but we'd like to appeal through Hotline to the person who sideswiped the passenger side of our car either Saturday or Sunday. We noticed it Sunday after it had been parked in the Grace Free Will Baptist Church parking lot. However, it could have happened Saturday, also, when it was parked in Blount-Harvey's lot, in the municipal lot across from Blount Harvey's, and in the Nichols Department Store parking lot. We are hoping that perhaps whoever did it has had second thoughts, yet doesn't know how to contact us. His or her liability insurance would surely pay. If the person can't be found, repairing the damage will cost us over $300. D.M.

Would anyone who either hit or saw someone hit a 1970 Ford LTD, turquoise with white vinyl top, please call Mr. or Mrs. George Minch at 752-2761?

LIGHT TIMING COMING

Why do traffic lights in Greenville seem to turn red just before you get there? In many cities if you maintain the legal speed, lights are timed so you can go through consistently for quite a distance, but here you can expect to stop at almost every light. B.A.

City Engineer Charlie Holliday said that a master control system for all the traffic lights in the city is being installed now. There has been some problem with equipment delivery, so he said he cannot say for sure when it will go into use, except that he's hopeful it will be before the end of the year. Once it goes into use the time-space idea you mentioned should be reality here, too.

How's The Weather? Ford Has Much To Lose Today

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are indicated for the northeast today with scattered showers in the northeast. Colder weather is expected to move into the eastern and northwestern portions of the nation with warmer temperatures moving into the central area. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
The state Division of Civil Preparedness says property damage in Saturday's spring storm may be more than $1.5 million in three mountain counties alone. And damage estimates have not been completed in the central and eastern North Carolina areas hit by six tornadoes.

Three children were killed when a tornado ripped their mobile home near Pembroke.

The torrential rainstorm and flooding caused damage to drops, homes, business and public property that would run as high as $1 million in Haywood County. The figure comes from Bill Perrigo, preparedness coordinator for a 15-county division.

He also says damage has been estimated at between $250,000 and $300,000 in each of Jackson and Macon counties.

It was wet and cool in North Carolina today. An upper-level disturbance pushed a cold front across the state, bringing light showers.

Moreover, severe thunderstorms developed over southeastern Georgia and moved into the southern sections of South Carolina early today. A tornado watch was posted from shortly midnight until 4 a.m. for a large section of South Carolina, reaching as far north as the southern boundary of North Carolina.

Thunderstorms moved out of South Carolina and into the southeastern sections of North Carolina early this morning.

The severe weather in South Carolina, which included a tornado at Summerville, moved northeastward along the coast. At 5 a.m. today winds of 40 to 50 miles an hour were reported 10 miles south of Wilmington.

The showers ended in western North Carolina today but continued in the eastern half of the state.

Investigated 3 Collisions

An estimated $2,050 property damage resulted from a series of three traffic collisions investigated here yesterday by Greenville police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted when vehicles driven by Jessie Brewington of 517 Vance St. and Alma Edwards Heath of 1305 Ragsdale Rd. collided about 10:35 a.m. at the intersection of Greene Street and Mumford Road.

Police, who estimated damage at $1,000 to the vehicle operated by Brewington and $300 to the Heath car, reported no charges.

Again no charges were reported following investigation of a 12:15 p.m. collision on Dickinson Avenue 68 feet West of the Truman Street intersection involving cars driven by Curtis Ray Staton of Route 3, Greenville and Patrick Clark of 608 Ernul St.

Damage was set by investigators at $100 to the Staton car and $400 to the Clark vehicle. Vehicles operated by Raymond Edward Singleton of 1304 North Washington St. and Elsie Owens Bland of Shady Knoll Trailer Pk. collided about 4:14 p.m. on 14th Street, 83 feet West of the Charles Street intersection according to investigators.

No damage resulted to the Singleton truck, police said, while damage to the Bland car was estimated at $250. No charges were reported.

Demonstrate In Computer Vans

The Computer-on-Wheels demonstration van, a project sponsored by the National Science Foundation, will be on the East Carolina University campus Friday, May 21.

The van contains demonstration computers illustrating modern technological advances. It will be parked between Rawl and Wright buildings and will be open to visits by students and others interested in computer technology, according to Dr. Milam F. Johnson of the Computer Sciences section, Department of Mathematics.

League Elects New Officers

Five East Carolina University students have been elected officers for the campus Young Home Designers League. They will serve during the academic year 1976-77.

New officers are: Lois DeNunzio of Vienna, Va., president; Helen Turner of Pink Hill, vice president; Willie Bobo of Wake Forest, secretary; Jeanne Pearson of Raleigh, treasurer-historian; and Libba Narron of Wilson, hostess.

The Young Home Designers League's membership includes student majors in the ECU Department of Housing and Management.

REVIVAL SPEAKER
The Rev. R. T. McCotter of Ayden will be the guest speaker for revival services at Good Hope F.W.B. Church May 17-21. Services will begin each night at 7:30 p.m. and various choirs will perform musical services each night. The public is invited.

President Ford has more to lose than any other candidate as the primary election wheel takes two new spins today, with the Republican stakes highest in his own Michigan territory. It is a day to watch the losers, in Michigan and in the Maryland Democratic primary. No candidate is going to win enough to settle the competition for presidential nominations.

Democrat Jimmy Carter is running in both states, trying to prove that his foes can't stop him, but saying it won't be serious if he loses.

Ford has pronounced victory in Michigan a must. Ronald Reagan said a win over the President in his home state would be something of a miracle.

Nonetheless, Reagan's strategists thought they had an opportunity to make a race of it, and spent more than $50,000 on a television advertising barrage in the days before the balloting.

Michigan's delegates will be shared in proportion to the popular vote, so there is something to be gained even in defeat.

Ford intensified his campaign effort in Michigan after losing five of the last six primaries to Reagan, and said he expected to win.

Sen. Paul Laxalt, the Reagan campaign manager, said a Reagan victory in Michigan "would be tantamount to nomination."

As worrisome for Ford is the fact that Michigan voters can cast ballots in either primary. There is no party registration, and the President's camp is concerned that conservative voters who cast Democratic ballots for George C. Wallace in 1972 may vote Republican, for Reagan, this time.

Reagan has won four times in open primary states, and Ford spokesmen have blamed crossover Democrats for the losses. This time, the President appealed for Democratic and independent votes himself. They also met in Maryland, where the polls gave Ford the edge.

In Democratic competition, Carter faces California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., a new rival, in Maryland, and Rep. Morris K. Udall, an old one, in Michigan.

With his commanding lead in delegate strength, Carter said he could absorb a loss to Brown and, for that matter, to Udall as well. "I don't have to win every primary," he said.

But neither can he afford to start losing regularly. There is a stop-Carter movement out there and it did gain heart when Sen. Frank Church won the Nebraska primary a week ago.

A Brown victory in Maryland would give it more muscle, and a poll published by the Baltimore Sun indicates that race is a close one. In Michigan, Carter is counting on the endorsements and help he got from leaders of the United Auto Workers Union to help him beat Udall again.

Brown has said that Maryland voters hold his campaign future in their hands. But he also said that whatever the outcome, he intends to keep campaigning in Oregon, Nevada, and, finally, in his own California.

An Equal Opportunity Employer

When you need a loan, you need money. Not a runaround.

At most banks, the person you ask for a loan has to ask someone else. But, at NCNB the person you talk to...

is the same person that gives you the answer. Without asking someone else. That's why you get fast, direct answers at our bank.

These days, a lot of banks are talking about loans. The interest you pay, the way you pay it, the times you can pay it.

But somehow, in all of the hoopla, nobody's been talking about one of the biggest hassles in getting a loan.

It's called "The Waiting Game." And here's how it's played: After your interview, you wait for an answer.

Sometimes a few days, sometimes even a week. Or more.

Here's why you're waiting. At most banks, somebody has to ask somebody else (who may have to ask somebody else) about okaying the loan.

The person you ask for the loan doesn't have to ask someone else.

Most of the time, the bigger the bank, the longer the wait. But not at our bank.

We've cut out the runaround at NCNB. The person you talk with about the loan can give you the answer.

The reason for this is simple.

We have $25 million a month to lend and we're going to lend it.

"Direct Answers" is just one way we're working to make it as easy as possible for you to get a loan.

And it's just one reason why we're lending money to more people than any other bank in North Carolina.

How can a bank ask you to sign forms only bankers understand?

One other way we're making things easier: the loan agreement you sign is written in plain English, not "bank talk" and mumbo-jumbo.

We don't have to do this, but we think it's worth it: You know what we expect from you, and, more importantly, what you can expect from us.

So, before you go anywhere else for a loan, come see us.

And see just what it's like to get the money without the runaround.

The White House, reporting that the sessions ranged from international economic issues to Middle East problems and nuclear safeguards and nonproliferation, said, "The two presidents agreed that they enjoyed a parallelism of views."

With the formal discussions over, the French returned White House hospitality by entertaining President and Mrs. Ford at a lavish, white-tie dinner at the French embassy.

A Paris decorator had constructed a huge pink and burgundy tent over the garden, recreating an 18th century room complete with tapestries from Versailles and paintings from the Louvre Museum in Paris as the setting for the 200 dinner guests.

French chefs from Giscard d'Estaing's Elysee Palace came to Washington to help cook the elaborate menu that included pate de fois gras perigord with truffes, lobster with spring vegetables, and quail with grapes — all served with four of the best French wines.

A special Limoges china service with a red, white and blue Bicentennial motif created by Christian Dior had been produced for the occasion.

Among the guests were Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, mother of the late President John F. Kennedy; actors Gregory Peck and Kirk Douglas; actress Olivia de Havilland and actress-model Margaux Hemingway and dancer Martha Graham.

Set Self Afire

COLUMBIA (AP)—An unidentified man set himself on fire in front of the South Carolina State House today while a group of Columbia police and firemen were demonstrating on the Capitol steps for higher wages.

The man drove a car onto the State House grounds and stopped in front of the demonstrators. Then, he set himself on fire. He was pulled out of the car and firemen on the scene began giving him artificial respiration.

The House was in session at the time and members rushed from their desks when word circulated of what was happening outside.

BUS STRIKE ENDS

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A strike which idled Continental Trailways bus service in seven Southern states for 18 days has ended with union workers agreeing to a three-year contract.

Employment In Southeast Is Showing Gains

ATLANTA (AP) — Southeastern employment rose again in March with seven of eight states showing increases in non-agricultural jobs, a federal agency said today.

Job increases in the service industries and in government led the way as nonagricultural employment in the region rose 22,400 to a total of 11.94 million employed in March, the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported.

Other employment increases were recorded over February figures in wholesale and retail trade, finance, insurance and real estate, mining and contract construction.

Decreases were reported in manufacturing and in transportation, communication and public utilities, the bureau said. Total jobs in the Southeast increased just over 250,000 from March 1975, the bureau said.

Employment increases recorded from February to March of this year were: Florida 5,500, South Carolina 5,100, Mississippi 4,800, Tennessee 4,100, Georgia 3,900, North Carolina 1,600 and Kentucky 200.

Alabama had a loss of 2,800 jobs for the month.

Employees in the Southeast worked an average of 40.3 hours per week for $4.05 per hour in March, six minutes less and a penny-an-hour more than in February. The national averages were 40 hours per week at $5.07 per hour, the bureau reported.

Candidate For Pitt School Bd.

Mrs. Ann Creech of Ayden filed Wednesday for Pitt County Board of Education representing the Ayden District.

In filing for the position Mrs. Creech will be running against incumbent Bill McLawhorn of Ayden.

Mrs. Creech is a member of the Pitt County Title I Parents' Advisory Council, Chairman of the Ayden Grammar and Ayden Elementary Title I Parents' Advisory Committee, vice president of Ayden Grammar PTA and she organized the Parents' Advisory Council at Ayden Elementary School.

"As a parent I feel that we must have a good school system in Pitt County and I would appreciate the opportunity to participate in the planning of our county system of education," Mrs. Creech said.

"I want to see the county system continue a strong academic program and strengthen the vocational area and including these programs in the Middle School. I feel a strong reading and math program with special programs for exceptional children is essential in the elementary levels. I would

Body Found

MESIC, N.C. (AP)—The body of a man believed to have been involved in a massive coastal marijuana smuggling operation has been found in a shallow grave, authorities said today.

"I believe that it's one of the smuggling ring," said Pamlico County Sheriff Leland Brinson as he prepared to join state medical examiners at the scene.

"I have information — not evidence — but information saying the body was part of the smuggling ring," he said.

Brinson described the situation as an apparent murder, and said he believed the man was killed sometime in December — well before a Jan. 11 raid in which agents seized 22 tons of marijuana and arrested 10 persons.

He said the shallow grave, which was discovered late Tuesday by a U.S. Customs agent working on a tip, is located about 50 yards from a house trailer belonging to Ernest H. Mayo of Mesic, one of eight men convicted in the case.

Ayden Woman Files For Seat In N.C. House

Irma Sermons Worthington of Ayden filed Tuesday as a Democratic candidate for the Eighth District seat in the N. C. House of Representatives. The Winterville native taught in the Pitt County Schools 30 years before her retirement in 1973. She holds degrees from ECU.

She has held offices in the Ayden Democratic Precinct and has served as a delegate and an alternate to county, district and state Democratic Party conventions.

Among her primary interests are continued advancement in all levels of education, encouragement of women to take more active roles in the political process, advancement of the status of women in business, improvement of farm programs and workable plans to reduce crime in North Carolina.

Her professional memberships include the National Education Association, the N.C.E.A., the Pitt County and Greenville units of the N. C. Association of Educators, the Pitt County Greenville Unit of Retired Personnel, the Council for Exceptional Children, the National Council of Science Teachers and the National Council of Mathematics Teachers.

Her civic memberships include the Business and Professional Women's Club, the League of Women Voters, the Women's Political Caucus and the Greenville Women's Club. Mrs. Worthington is married to T. Wardell Worthington and is the mother of two sons and a daughter.

Voters Approve Hospital Bonds

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Voters of Charlotte and Mecklenburg County approved Tuesday issuance of $10 million in bonds to enlarge Charlotte Memorial Hospital. They also approved $400,000 for three neighborhood ambulance stations in the county.

The hospital enlargement passed almost 2 to 1, 12,785 in favor, 6,435 against.

A HOTLINE APPEAL

SIDESWIPE

I know it may be naive, but we'd like to appeal through Hotline to the person who sideswiped the passenger side of our car either Saturday or Sunday. We noticed it Sunday after it had been parked in the Grace Free Will Baptist Church parking lot. However, it could have happened Saturday, also, when it was parked in Blount-Harvey's lot, in the municipal lot across from Blount Harvey's, and in the Nichols Department Store parking lot. We are hoping that perhaps whoever did it has had second thoughts, yet doesn't know how to contact us. His or her liability insurance would surely pay. If the person can't be found, repairing the damage will cost us over $300. D.M.

Would anyone who either hit or saw someone hit a 1970 Ford LTD, turquoise with white vinyl top, please call Mr. or Mrs. George Minch at 752-2761?

LIGHT TIMING COMING

Why do traffic lights in Greenville seem to turn red just before you get there? In many cities if you maintain the legal speed, lights are timed so you can go through consistently for quite a distance, but here you can expect to stop at almost every light. B.A.

City Engineer Charlie Holliday said that a master control system for all the traffic lights in the city is being installed now. There has been some problem with equipment delivery, so he said he cannot say for sure when it will go into use, except that he's hopeful it will be before the end of the year. Once it goes into use the time-space idea you mentioned should be reality here, too.

Nurse-Midwives Attract New Attention In U.S.

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — A growing number of American women are going through normal pregnancies and delivering healthy babies without seeing a doctor.

They are under the care of nurse-midwives. Feminism, consumer education and a growing demand for more personalized health care has focused new attention on these health professionals. The more than 1,700 American nurse-midwives even include a few men.

They are not backwoods practitioners without formal education. All have completed specialized graduate level training offered by more than a dozen schools to help them guide women through all stages of a normal pregnancy.

A nurse-midwife works with a physician, who follows a pregnancy as it progresses, but is called in only if a sign of abnormality appears.

Deviations are readily apparent to a nurse-midwife, says Sister Jeanne Meurer, associate professor of nursing at St. Louis University.

"Some doctors say nurse-midwives spot more abnormalities than anyone else," she said during a recent convention of the American College of Nurse-Midwives. "We're so schooled in what is normal that when something goes wrong, it's like a red flag."

If a pregnancy and delivery proceed without problems, a new mother may be cradling her baby in her arms after having been guided, coached, cared for and watched over by a nurse-midwife alone.

"She's going to be there supporting her all along," Sister Meurer said. "She's not going to be just popping in to deliver the baby."

Dr. Anita Pepper, a community medicine specialist who flew in from England to address the convention, said European, African and South American countries are well ahead of the United States in acceptance of nurse-midwives.

"In those countries, for a normal delivery it is assumed that a midwife will deliver the baby," she said. "In Holland, where they have the lowest infant mortality rate in the world, the greatest percentage of babies are delivered by midwives."

"We are the only backwards nation, in many ways."

American nurse-midwifery began in its modern form 50 years ago at Frontier Nursing Service in Kentucky. It now is common in New York, New Haven, Conn., and Philadelphia and is beginning to spread to the West Coast, the women said. But obstacles exist.

Sister Meurer defined one as a lack of awareness. She said college-educated women as well as poor women who are accustomed to being cared for in clinics are eagerly accepting the personalized care of nurse-midwives. But working-class women must be told, she said.

Other problems to be overcome include the reluctance of health insurance firms that may be hesitant to pay nurse-midwives for obstetrical care. A certain degree of competition and professional jealousy by doctors exists in some areas.

Sister Meurer emphasized that a nurse-midwife works with the doctor, not against him. She offers services that are backed up by the doctor's presence, but that go beyond what he is able to offer.

"The delivery of the baby is just a small part of the job," she said. "We're involved in prenatal care, postpartum care, future family planning and teaching a mother how to be a good parent. Delivery is such a small part of it. The mother really does that herself."

Dr. Pepper said the trend toward nurse-midwives is growing, and it isn't likely to stop. "Women are a great pressure group because they pay the practitioner. Eventually they'll get what they want."

Canadian Food Different Says Cooking Teacher

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

Americans who think Canadian food is "just like ours" are mistaken, says Jehane Benoit, Canada's best known cooking teacher.

"New Brunswick and Vancouver food have nothing to do with American food," Mme. Benoit said in an interview.

"Only the food of Alberta and Manitoba is similar. On the Gaspe peninsula, they eat mostly their own food. Transportation is so poor that not much is brought in."

"The Lake St. John District near Quebec is known for its exceptionally large blueberries and ouananiche."

Ouananiche, pronounced waw-wah-nish (with the accent on the first syllable), is an old Indian name for fresh water salmon. It is so highly prized that most of the spring catch is reserved ahead of time by Americans, Mme. Benoit said.

Only Canadians in the prairie provinces of Alberta and Manitoba eat like Americans in the Upper Midwest, she said.

"They grow the same things. They are a farming and animal-raising area. Their immigrants came from the same nations."

Recipes from those provinces include wild rice casserole, corn pudding, sticky buns, prairie stew, corned beef hash, barbecue, pancakes and a hearty omelet containing potatoes, cheese and bacon — all dishes associated with hearty Middle Western cooking south of the Canadian border.

Mme. Benoit has been teaching since 1933, when she opened a cooking school and restaurant in her native Montreal. She closed both in 1941 when food rationing began during World War II.

After the war, she was asked to conduct a weekly cooking show for the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. It lasted 21 years, going off the air only about two years ago.

She and her husband, Bernard, now live on their sheep ranch in Quebec province, a few miles north of the Vermont border.

Her long, busy career has included writing seven cookbooks — or 15, if you count both the English and French editions. The latest is "Mme. Benoit's Microwave Cook Book." Published in Canada and distributed in the United States by McGraw-Hill, it focuses largely on continental cookery.

Mme. Benoit said she omitted traditional Canadian dishes such as tourtiere, a pork pie traditional at Christmas, because it cannot be made properly in a microwave oven.

"The bottom crust cooks fine, but the humidity in the filling makes the top crust tough and soggy," she said.

Two earlier Benoit cookbooks now are available in paperback in Canada. One, "The Canadian Cookbook," is the best collection of genuine Canadian provincial specialties we have ever seen.

It includes tourtiere and other traditional Quebec specialties such as maple-flavored desserts, breads and maple-glazed ham, fish and seafood recipes from the Maritime provinces, Acadian seafood and meat pies, salmon specialties from British Columbia, moose and other game from the Northwest Territories and game, wild cranberry pie and hooligan from the Yukon. Hooligan is a casserole of smelts, cracker crumbs, onion and garlic baked in milk.

Mme. Benoit, who currently is working on another microwave cookbook, said her granddaughter is partly responsible for her interest in this relatively new kitchen appliance. The granddaughter wanted a microwave oven for a wedding present.

"The younger generation is more and more going back to the kitchen looking for shortcuts," she said.

She thinks pollution and the need for biodegradable products will create a whole new way of cooking without stoves — just a large counter with outlets for plug-in appliances.

Mother-Daughter Banquet Held

The Ladies Aid of the Mount Pleasant Christian Church sponsored a mother-daughter banquet on Saturday evening in the fellowship building of the church.

The theme for the banquet was "Harmony with Christ" and in keeping with the theme a musical emphasis was carried throughout.

For the program, the Good Neighbor Trio from King presented a concert of contemporary religious music.

Hanging planters were awarded the oldest, youngest, and the mother with the youngest child.

Vicki Spargo, a 1974 winner, and Wallace sang a duet accompanied by Koch.

Mrs. J. H. Kinnaman presided at the meeting. Mrs. J. L. Savage gave a report on the state meeting held in Raleigh. She commended Mrs. Florence Holt on winning a national award for her poem "Rededication."

Mrs. Vance Perkins reported on the Author's Luncheon. Mrs. Kinnaman thanked Mrs. Perkins for her part in the project.

Mrs. Kinnaman announced that the bronze plaque had arrived and would be placed at the Bicentennial tree planted on the Town Common.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 8 at the home of Mrs. Kinnaman.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Nancy Willard, Mrs. R. E. Corbett, Miss Agnes Fullilove, Mrs. Virginia Strickland and Mrs. J. A. Watson.

Reader Endorses Church Baby Ban

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune. N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I just read in a local newspaper that a clergyman urges a ban on babies attending church. After what happened at our church last Sunday, I have to agree with him.

Today, parents dress up their kids real cute and take them to church to show them off, but they don't discipline them.

One little girl about 18 months old did everything but swing from the chandelier, and all her mother did was "shush" her by putting her fingers to her lips. Her brother (about 8) kept stirring her up by poking her, and the mother just gave him a few dirty looks.

Another child sitting behind me kept trying to grab my earrings. When I turned around and glared, her mother just smiled. At one point, when announcements were made over the loudspeaker, there was so much commotion from kids yelling that no one could hear the announcements.

The minister was disgusted, but he didn't have the courage to say anything. He should have told the mothers of those unruly children to take them to the bathroom and give them a good learning experience!

What do you think? I am ...
HOPPING MAD IN POCATELLO, IDAHO

DEAR HOPPING: I think you're right. Parents who love their children discipline them. And contrary to common belief, "to discipline" does not mean "to punish." It means "to teach."

DEAR ABBY: My husband owns a garage, and I keep his books and send out the bills.

There is a woman who lives near us who has owed us a bill for over a year. I sent her one on the first of the month (a year ago), but she ignored it.

My husband told me not to send her any more bills and just to forget it. When I ask him why, he tells me to mind my own business. She works and so does her husband, so they can't be hard up.

Why do you suppose he doesn't send her a bill?
"SILENT PARTNER"

DEAR SILENT: Maybe she paid him. In cash.

DEAR ABBY: Re a man who wears one earring: If he wears it on his left ear, it means he's available, or "looking." On his right ear, means he's taken. (This is the straight dope for gay men.)

DEAR WEARS ONE: I believe that's the significance of wearing a flower over one ear. (This is the straight dope for straight girls. Am I right, Hawaii?)

DEAR ABBY: A woman in Montana wrote asking you why her husband had his left ear pierced so he could wear a tiny gold earring in it, and you said you didn't know, but you'd ask.

Well, I know why I wear a little gold earring in one ear. (It happens to be my right ear, however.) It's to show people that I am "holier" than they.

Reflecting A Better Economy

The General Assembly has adjourned after approving a $3.4 billion budget for 1976-77, which no one is entirely satisfied with, but which could have been a lot worse.

Only a few months back there was near-panic among the budget makers as income was falling far below projections and it was totally uncertain how long it would be before the state and nation came out of a dogged recession.

As the special budget session neared, however, the economy brightened considerably. That, combined with some prudent cutting and a one-time windfall, helped the legislators to grant salary increases to state employees.

As the budget was enacted, it provides for a four percent salary increase plus $300 to teachers and state employees. There had been no general raise in 1975-76 and the state workers were certainly not satisfied with the rather modest raise in the second year of the biennium. It was better than nothing, however, and with the present tax structure the Legislature is going to be hard pressed to find funds to continue it next year, and also to provide for the certain demands for additional increases.

Another major step taken by the Legislators in the budget was to provide $11.46 million for full implementation of the kindergarden program. We think this will be most helpful to the state's education program and certainly it was worth squeezing out the additional money to extend this program.

The Legislature left the ECU Medical School appropriation intact with the exception of $3.8 million for a bed tower addition which is to be funded next fiscal year.

It has been an hectic year for the budget-makers in Raleigh. Basically, though, despite the recession, most state government programs have functioned reasonably well, even with tight funds, and some new badly needed programs have been extended.

We don't think that's too bad considering the state's financial condition only a few months ago.

Continuation Of City Housing Policies

A groundbreaking ceremony Tuesday officially got underway the $1.4 million West Meadowbrook redevelopment program.

Mayor Percy Cox and members of the City Council broke ground for the three-year project. The West Meadowbrook area is perhaps the last section where really bad housing is a major problem. Slum clearance and housing improvement have been a part of city policy for around 15 years now. We have made much progress in providing better housing for our citizens and the West Meadowbrook project will be a continuation of this progress.

THIS AFTERNOON

Malpractice Fight Avoided

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — An almost certain showdown between lawyers pleading "right to sue" and legislators speaking for physicians pleading "immunity" was avoided in North Carolina's new malpractice law.

The end result of the new law is that little is changed. Up until the last minute, the proposal submitted to the General Assembly still contained two controversial elements:

—A mutual fund to be drawn on for awards in excess of $100,000; to be held by the State Treasurer and defended by the Attorney General;

—A method whereby a large jury award could be spread out in periodic payments to "protect" the winning plaintiff from his own folly.

Just before the legislative session opened, Dr. John R. Gamble, Jr., D-Lincoln, conceded that the proposals "have things in them that won't fly...we're going back to the drawing boards."

What emerged from the further study was a package which most experts consider a "token gesture" to the medical people.

State Senator Thomas H. Suddarth, D-Davidson County, was from the outset the most outspoken critic of the various steps proposed in the malpractice situation. He first called for a medical-legal review board and pushed unsuccessfully for that.

Throughout he argued loud and long that proposed changes would take away the rights of minors to sue; would remove elements necessary to win a case; would set up a psychological barrier to jurors faced with paying out of the Treasurer's Office funds defended by the Attorney General; and would create numerous barriers to the Constitutional right to seek court redress of a wrong.

As a member of the commission, he delivered himself of a minority report as the lone dissenter and urged that the assembly take no action in haste on such a ticklish subject.

Stay Quiet

Suddarth remained quiet in Assembly debate, and only after it was all over did he comment: "I believe my goal was accomplished. I do not think the law will have any appreciable effect on the public's legal rights."

"My goal has been all along that we help the health care providers without hurting people, and this has been accomplished without needless sacrifice of a basic right of citizens," Suddarth said.

Suddarth thinks the mutual fund as finally established will work to reduce malpractice insurance rates, while providing some competition for the insurance companies—both pluses in his estimation.

Overall, the new law does change the time limit in which suit can be filed to three years in the case of an obvious injury; but allows up to 10 years for suits involving foreign objects left in the body, and four years for "hidden" injuries. For minors, the statute of limitations runs until a year after they become adults.

While case history statistics are sketchy, insurance company figures tend to show that the new time limits exceed the usual times involved in actual suits in the past.

The partial-payment plan was scuttled, and the mutual fund to be made up of money paid in by health care providers will be run by an independent board. Thus, the physician will buy insurance for $100,000 and participate in the fund for coverage above that.

On the question of standard-of-care, the new law says expert testimony supporting the plaintiff must come from someone "familiar with" the usual practice in a similar community; not necessarily barring an imported expert.

Two other elements complete the package: extension of the "good samaritan" protection of law to health care providers other than physicians who seek to help in an emergency; and a restriction on making public the amount sought in a suit.

NATO Survey In Trip

By KENNETH J. FREED

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The dual problems of Communist participation in the Italian government and western Europe's fear of a reduced U.S. role in defense will be the focus of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's trip to Europe, which begins today.

The secretary's first stop was Oslo, Norway, site of the annual conference of North Atlantic Treaty Organization ministers.

After two days at the NATO meeting, Kissinger will spend part of a day in Bonn, Germany, and then will go to Sweden, Luxembourg and England before returning home May 27.

Throughout the tour, the secretary will deal with the impending Communist role in a new Italian government following next month's elections.

Many of the NATO members are skeptical about the gloomy outlook expressed by Kissinger over the Italian situation, pointing out that both Iceland and Portugal have had Communists in their governments without damaging NATO.

At the same time, those questioning Kissinger's view, generally the alliance's northern members, acknowledge that tactical and short-run complications could arise. These deal with Italian access to secrets and participation in the strategic NATO Nuclear Planning Group.

One of the ideas to be discussed in Oslo will be the possible creation of a dual system within the 15 member organization. Thus, governments containing Communists could be given a more restricted role.

A more long-range problem will be the American attitude if Communists indeed become directly involved in NATO government.

Kissinger has made veiled threats that the United States might rerast its own role in NATO if Communists gain influence in the member governments.

Any indication that the United States would lessen its role in European defense, it is feared in Europe, would have a damaging effect on Italy, France, Portugal and the independent Communist governments in Yugoslavia and Rumania.

The Howard Hughes Will

WASHINGTON — It could easily be predicted, but there are now more last wills and testaments of Howard Hughes than there are Pentagon Papers. It seems to me that this year's favorite fantasy for most Americans is that somehow, someday, each one then was the sole beneficiary of the entire Hughes estate.

I have carried around my own fantasies ever since I heard the sad news of the passing of "Dad." This is how I imagine Howard Hughes' last will and testament — the true one — really reads.

"I, Howard Hughes, being of sound mind and body, leave all my worldly goods to my dear friend Art Bookwall who really was the son I never had.

"I only met Mr. Buckwell once on an airplane flying from the Bahamas to Nicaragua, but I was so impressed with his astute knowledge of business affairs, as well as his belief in a strong, no-holds-barred capitalistic system, that I was almost tempted to tell who I was. But I was afraid if I revealed my true identity I would discourage him in continuing our delightful conversation.

"I remember asking him at the time: 'If you had two and half billion dollars, what would you do with it?' and he immediately replied, 'I'd keep it.'

"I liked that kind of answer.

"Then I said to him: 'Mr. Bookwall, how would you keep it?'

"He replied, 'I'd buy tax-free bonds, invest in oil and gas, set up my own foundation and work out some kind of a deal with the CIA.'

"I couldn't believe it. The boy thought just like I did. 'Al,' I said, 'this is just a hypothetical question, but what would you do if you owned seven Las Vegas gambling casinos and all the land to and from the airport?'

"He thought about it for a moment and then replied, 'I would increase the jackpots for the one-armed bandits, personally select every chorus girl we put in any of our shows and use the cash from the casinos to buy off any politician I wanted to.'

Amazingly, these were the very ideas I had been toying with myself. Then he said something that really struck me. Bushwald said, 'And I would use all my influence and money to make them stop testing their damn atomic weapons in the desert outside of Las Vegas.'

"I almost burst into tears on the plane. For years I had been searching for someone to leave my fortune to — someone whom I could trust and respect, and sitting next to me was perfect stranger who could carry on all the things I built up in my lifetime.

"Do you know who I am?" I asked him.

"No," Brucknell replied. "To me you are just a nice kind man whom I enjoy talking to. You could use a manicure and a haircut. But outside of that, you're the perfect traveling companion."

Other Editors Say We Must Wonder

(Washington Daily News)

North Carolinians today must somehow seek to separate truth from propaganda insofar as the State Utilities Commission is concerned.

We hear so much talk about the attitudes of members sitting on this commission that at times we just know what is truth and what is not. We hear the constant flow of talk about "pro-utility" and "pro-consumer" members, and how can we judge except by the decisions each makes? We know of no other way.

But when we read what Jim Hunt, N.C. Lt. Governor and a candidate for governor, has to say, again we must wonder just where truth lies. Mr. Hunt has made quite a statement in expressing the belief that when new members are named to the Utilities Commission, they are subjected to orientation by sitting members and this orientation is "pro-utility." Is that true?

If such is the truth, then the overall picture is worse than we had thought it to be, and surely it is of a nature that immediate steps ought to be made to correct it. Any member going on the Utilities Commission who is susceptible to such orientation ought not be sitting on the commission in the first place.

If Mr. Hunt's observations are true, then what we have in North Carolina is really a very weak Utilities Commission. We as a people ought to take immediate steps to strengthen it.

How can the image be changed? While we cannot advocate election of members because that would make 11 members truly "pro-consumer" oriented, we ought to make sure, if possible, that members are not "pro-utility" oriented either.

Naming members for shorter terms might help. Making more thorough investigations into qualifications will help. And the more we can take politics out of the appointments, the better services members will give.

Again, we are rather shocked to hear that sitting members of the commission can influence new members when they come on the board. It is shocking because we cannot realize new or different thinking. If new members are expected to fit into the existing pattern always, we are whipped before we start.

Before any member takes his or her seat on the North Carolina Utilities Commission, that prospective member ought to answer some searching questions. And then the member ought to be held accountable in the days ahead to the extent that those answers are followed.

Maybe we are not facing up to truth in this matter of the N. C. Utilities Commission in the manner we should.

It is past time that truth spoke out.

PRIMARIES ANALYSIS

Ford Regained Momentum

By WALTER R. MEARS

AP Special Correspondent

President Ford is back in the victory circle in an up-and-down Republican presidential campaign, rearmored for the skirmishes that will point the way to the last big primary election match in Ronald Reagan's California.

Ford won at home in a Michigan runaway, swept Maryland, and regained his momentum after a succession of setbacks. In three weeks, Reagan will be defending his home territory in the season-ending California primary.

As Michigan was a must for Ford, so California will be vital to Reagan, twice elected governor there.

While the President scored his comeback, Jimmy Carter's opponents gained ground in their effort to stop the Democratic frontrunner short of White House nomination.

Carter said they can't do it, despite the trouncing Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California dealt him in the Maryland primary.

Carter won in Michigan, but barely. With only 11 rural precincts left to be counted, he inched past Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona by only 2,317 votes.

Ford said he was really on the road to the GOP nomination after his twin victories on Tuesday with 65 per cent of the Michigan vote and 58 per cent in Maryland.

But the road so far has been marked by twists and detours, for the President and for his conservative challenger. And there may be more ahead, with a dozen primary elections still to come.

Despite Carter's insistence that he can afford losses and is too far ahead to be stopped now, he is encountering unexpected obstacles. It takes victories, not late season losses, to convince wavering delegates that they should sign up and transform a lead into a nominating majority.

So, for all the talk of crucial elections, crises and comebacks, the message of the primaries could turn out to be that there is no decisive message, and that the climactic fights will be waged on the floors at the Democratic and Republican national conventions.

Reagan remains the Republican leader in committed delegate strength, although Ford claims substantial support among GOP delegates who are formally uncommitted.

Carter is far ahead of the Democratic field, with nearly half the 1,505 delegates it will take to win the nomination.

But it now is likely that the primaries will end with no candidate in either party in command of a nominating majority. That points to a season of maneuver and persuasion as the contenders try to win over enough uncommitted support to take charge.

Ford said he had a tremendous win, one that "is going to play very, very well all over the United States." Reagan countered that he didn't think the campaign had changed much. Carter insisted he wouldn't be denied first ballot nomination. Brown said he was just getting started. And Udall declared he would keep campaigning and would go to the convention with more

Strength For Today

THE NATURE OF FREEDOM

What is freedom?

Many, if not most, people would respond that freedom is the opportunity to do what one wants to do when one wants to do it. But freedom of this kind usually degenerates into an invisible and unfelt, but very real, servitude. The people who seek after freedom of this kind are often the victims of selfishness, boredom, and frustration. To be free to do what one wants to do at all times often results in a crisis in which the individual, having tried everything, now wants to do nothing.

True freedom consists in the ability to do what one ought to do. We are free when we are free of ourselves.

True freedom is always a matter of the inner heart. A man is free when his willpower is free; and no matter how free he be in other ways, if he cannot exercise his willpower to do what he knows to be right, he is a slave.

 delegate support than anyone but Carter.
 These were the numbers they were talking about:
 Michigan
 With 96 per cent of the precincts reporting,
 Ford 672,986 or 65 per cent.
 Reagan 351,734 or 34 per cent.
 The balance was uncommitted.
 That meant 55 nominating delegates for Ford, 29 for Reagan.
 Among the Democrats, with 99 per cent of the precincts tallied,
 Carter 305,902 or 44 per cent.
 Udall 303,585 of 43 per cent.
 Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace had 7 per cent, 2 per cent were uncommitted, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, Fred Harris, Sargent Shriver and Ellen McCormack got 1 per cent each.

In terms of delegates, that meant 69 for Carter, 58 for Udall. They were apportioned on the basis of congressional district pluralities as well as the statewide vote.
 Wallace had two delegates, with four uncommitted.
 Maryland
 With the count complete, Ford 94,784 or 58 per cent.
 Reagan 68,916 or 42 per cent.
 That gave Ford all 43 delegates, because he carried every congressional district.

On the Democratic side, Brown 283,956 or 49 per cent.
 Carter 216,687 or 37 per cent.

Udall got 5 per cent of the vote, Wallace 4 per cent, Jackson and Mrs. McCormack 2 per cent apiece and Harris 1 per cent.

In separate balloting for delegates, with 99 per cent of the precincts counted, Carter had 32, Jackson 10, Udall 7, and 4 were uncommitted. The popular vote primary had no bearing on delegate selection, and Brown had no delegate slate entered. His delegate support had to come from uncommitted Democrats, and from those who ran in the name of dropout candidates.

Nationwide, Reagan now has 514 delegates in his column, Ford 432, with 383 uncommitted Republican delegates chosen so far. The nominating number is 1,130.
 Carter wound up with a national total of 712 delegates; Udall was in second place with 274.5.

Now the primary procession moves on to two regional tests, with six states voting next Tuesday. Arkansas, Kentucky, Tennessee, Oregon, Idaho and Nevada are the next contests. Among them they have only 176 Republican delegates to award, and 179 Democratic nominating votes.

But there is momentum and psychological headway to be gained by the winners, whatever the delegate stakes.

Business Notes

CASH DIVIDEND

The board of directors of Eckerd Drugs Inc. declared a cash dividend of eight cents per share, payable on June 15 to the holders of its common stock as of June 1.

David H. Rankin, president, said that this is the 43rd consecutive quarterly cash dividend declared by the company since it went public in 1965.

Rankin said that at the end of the fiscal year on April 3, the company was operating 231 drug stores and 38 apparel shops, in addition to three office equipment locations.

COMPLETED COURSE

George Anthony Whitehurst of Greenville recently completed a three-week course at the Investors Diversified Services regional training school at Florida State University.

The training schools are designed to prepare new IDS sales representatives for careers in providing financial services for individuals, group, and businesses, it was announced. Graduates of the schools continue their training with seven weeks of field training and 42 weeks of advanced study.

Whitehurst is now an accredited IDS sales representative in this area.

HIGHEST QUARTER

Pic 'N Pay Stores Inc., self-service shoe chain, had the highest third quarter sales and earnings in the company's history, according to an announcement by Alvin E. Levine, president. He noted that results for the first nine months were also a record.

In the 13 weeks ended March 27, sales were $11,953,976 compared with $10,066,870 in the third quarter of 1975, he said. Net income was $827,280 or 28 cents per share compared with $772,378 or 26 cents per share in the year-ago period.

In the 39 weeks ended March 27, sales were $36,858,503 compared with $29,807,146 in the first nine months of last year. Net income was $7,727,503 or 92 cents per share compared with $2,022,779 or 68 cents per share in the comparable period a year earlier.

TOP FIELDMAN

H. B. "Buddy" Holcomb Jr., former Grifton resident and currently senior sales representative for Fireman's Fund in Birmingham, Ala., has been named "outstanding insurance fieldman" by the Insurance Fieldmen's Association of Alabama.

Holcomb received a plaque in recognition of his selection during the IFA annual meeting recently in Guntersville, Ala.

Formerly associated with Grifton Insurance Agency, Holcomb is a graduate of East Carolina University. He is married to the former Margaret McArthur of Graingers and they have three sons.

NEW CORPORATION

Fiat Distributors Inc. and Fiat Motor Co. Inc. in a joint announcement reported consolidation of their activities effective June 1 to form Fiat Motors of North America Inc. covering the U.S. and Canada.

Fiat is the fifth ranking import car sales leader in the U.S., selling over 100,000 automobiles in 1975.

Relates Role In Drug Ring

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Thornton has pleaded guilty to conspiracy. More testimony was expected today from a government witness who testified Tuesday that he participated in a heroin smuggling ring that smuggled heroin worth from $100 million to $300 million into the U.S. from Thailand. Freddie Clay Thornton, 40, of Detroit, was on the stand all day Tuesday. He was the first witness in the trial that opened Monday. Leslie "Ike" Atkinson, a former Army master sergeant, is on trial on charges of conspiring to run a drug import ring from prison. He and nine others are accused of conspiring to import heroin. Atkinson is now in federal prison in Atlanta on conviction of importing heroin. Atkinson's daughter, Leslie Sharon Atkinson Arrington, and her husband, Michael Otis Arrington, both 24, are also on the trial. The Arringtons are additionally charged with possession of heroin. Thornton testified that Mrs. Arrington had relayed information between him and Atkinson. Thornton said he ran the operation in Bangkok, Thailand. Thornton has pleaded guilty to conspiracy. He testified that heroin was smuggled into the country by courier or hidden in furniture being shipped home for servicemen. Testifying that he was having problems Thornton told the court that he came to Goldsboro, N.C.—the alleged headquarters of the operation—last August to report his difficulties to Atkinson. He testified he met Mrs. Arrington who asked him to write what he wanted relayed to Atkinson: "I'll take it to daddy so he can read it," Thornton quoted her as saying. The next night, Mrs. Atkinson told him she had seen her father and she passed on some notes, Thornton testified. "As I read the notes, she would explain to me what the notes said," he said. One note was for James Smedley, 53, also indicted in the case but now in custody of Thai authorities, and told him, "Jimmy get your behind back here in the states...the feds are really looking for you," Thornton said. He said one note read, "If anything of mine comes up missing, somebody's butt is going to hang." He testified another note said, "To whom it may concern: Freddie is in charge." Thornton said Mrs. Arrington told him, "If there are any doubts about it, show them the notes. They will recognize daddy's handwriting."

Claim Arson Is Indicated

SCOTLAND NECK, N.C. (AP)—Authorities say arson is suspected in fires that scorched the rear walls of two stores in racially troubled Scotland Neck early Tuesday. Authorities refused to speculate, however, whether the fires were linked to recent controversy over the case of Mrs. Sandra Dupree, a white minister's wife accused of murdering a black man in March. "We were lucky we caught the fires so soon," said William Draper, a volunteer fireman who helped extinguish the two blazes which burned simultaneously. In a telephone interview, Draper called the fires arson. "They set them on fire by throwing what appeared to be kerosene and gasoline," he said. According to Draper, the outside back wall of the P&P Food Store was burned badly. The other fire scorched the outside rear wall of Rose's 5&10 store, he said, and caused some smoke damage inside.

Engineers Will Meet Friday

Texan Hailed As Best New Playwright

By TOM BRYAN
WASHINGTON (UPI) — It's a long way from the wind-blown, sun-baked campus of the University of New Mexico to the marbled grandeur of the Kennedy Center in Washington, and Preston Jones says the 20 years of the journey is frightening to contemplate.

Jones, who turned his talents to playwriting only four years ago, is making theatrical history here. Not one but three of his plays, presented as "A Texas Trilogy," are being performed alternately at the Kennedy Center's Eisenhower Theatre to rave reviews and standing-room audiences.

The Washington Star called Jones "a born playwright." Washington Post critic Richard Coe wrote that he'd seen nothing so emotionally moving on stage since Arthur Miller's "Death of a Salesman" premiered in 1949.

The three Jones plays, all set in the fictitious, decaying West Texas town of Bradleyville, are "LuAnn Hampton Laverty Oberlander," "The Last Meeting of the Knights of the White Magnolia" and "The Oldest Living Graduate."

The Post said "Magnolia" would have won a Pulitzer Prize last year, if all the judges had seen it and had it reached Broadway.

The Pulitzer judges may have their chance this year, for producers Roger L. Stevens and Robert Whitehead plan to take the Jones trilogy to New York, possibly this fall, after two months at the Kennedy Center.

"Magnolia" was understood to have received one 1975 Pulitzer judge's vote last year after it played alone at Washington's Arena Stage.

"A Pulitzer for my 'Magnolia'?" Jones exclaimed. "I don't believe it!"

Jones was an actor-director at Dallas Theater Center for years before he wrote his first real play, "LuAnn," in 1972.

"Magnolia," a ribald comedy, was inspired by memories of Jones' hard-drinking, girl-chasing fraternity days in the 1950s, especially the hocus-pocus of the Kappa Alpha Order's initiation rites.

"I always wanted to write a play about the boys," he said in an interview. "Let's face it, that wasn't a B-movie fraternity situation. I am amazed at the way we turned out, and surprised that we are not all in alcoholic wards."

What's frightening, said Jones, is that it all happened 20 years ago.

"I've always been preoccupied with time," he said. "It's a weird thing to me. I can't believe that we are sitting here in Washington 40 years old, and have children who are almost as old as we were then."

"It's the time thing that scares me in a way. I don't think death scares me as much as time. Maybe being an actor over the years made me more aware of it."

He considers the characters, not social issues, to be the most important thing about his plays. "I try to make them as real people as I possibly can on the stage," he said.

There is Red Grover, the grousing bar owner in "LuAnn" and the cynic in "Magnolia," and L.D. Alexander, chief wizard of the Knights. And crotchety, senile Colonel Kincaid in "Magnolia" and "Graduate," brilliantly played by Fred Gwynne.

These characters "aren't any one person I knew," Jones said. "I try to make my characters two or three people that I've known."

His skill at investing mundane situations with life and drama through his life-like characters has prompted the most praise from the critics.

His Kennedy Center audiences have found themselves laughing on the outside and crying inwardly with sadness.

"I never write just comedy or tragedy," Jones said, acknowledging some criticism that his plays occasionally make too fast a transition between the two.

Jones is eager to return to the Dallas Theater Center and resume work on production of "A Place on Magdalena Flats," a story based on the life of his older brother, Jim. The play was commissioned by the Kennedy Center's American Bicentennial Theatre.

He also is writing a comedy about life in the artists' colony at Santa Fe, N.M.

Jones rejects all interest in politics, even though he is counting on Washington in an election year to provide a big boost for his newfound career as a playwright. Some local critics are calling him the best new American playwright in years. "Politics are the furthest thing from my mind," Jones says. If the apparent shift toward political conservatism means America is returning to the small-town values portrayed in his plays, Jones quipped, "time seems to be on my side."

PRESTON JONES turned his talents to play writing only four years ago, and now has three of his plays performed alternately in the Eisenhower theater. (UPI Photo)

Gulfspray's tougher than the toughest Gulf State bugs.

High heat. High humidity. The Gulf States have both. That's why they breed the toughest bugs. But Gulfspray Insecticides are scientifically formulated to be even tougher. Take Gulfspray

Ant/Roach Killer. Unlike ordinary sprays, it shoots straight into cracks and crevices where roaches hide. Kills 'em fast. Kills 'em dead. And keeps killing up to two weeks if residues are not removed. Gulfspray Ant/Roach Killer. If it works in the Gulf States, it'll work anywhere. It's tougher than the toughest Gulf State bugs.

Contribute To A Fight

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's two major utilities have contributed $15,000 to fight restriction of nuclear power in California.

The contributions, which are legal, were acknowledged by the Duke Power Co. of Charlotte and the Carolina Power & Light Co. of Raleigh.

Duke contributed $9,000 and CP&L $6,000 to the No. 15 Committee, which is opposing Proposition 13 on the June 8 California ballot.

Adoption of the measure would impose tough standards on nuclear power plants in California. Supporters of Proposition 13 say it is an effort to ensure the safety of nuclear power plants. Opponents label it a measure that would end the use of nuclear power to generate electricity in California, and stall the development of nuclear power in the nation.

Reports filed with the California secretary of state show that opponents of Proposition 13 had raised more than $2 million and supporters $634,000 as of the end of last month.

Duke and CP&L said Tuesday their contributions are out of profits earmarked for stockholders, and do not affect customer rates.

"We did it because we have such a tremendous stake in nuclear power and we think it is protection...to our customers and shareholders," said a spokesman for Duke.

And a spokesman for CP&L said, "We believe nuclear power is vital."

Dr. Forrest Is Named To Serve Advisory Group

Dr. Lewis Forrest of the ECU School of Home Economics has been selected to serve on the State Superintendent of Public Instruction's Advisory Committee for Certification of School Food Service Personnel.

According to State Superintendent A. Craig Phillips, the main objective of the committee is to review the publication Recommended Standards for Certification for School Service Personnel in North Carolina.

The committee will be asked to suggest appropriate revisions to the publication and to develop strategies for implementation of the recommended standards for certification of school food service personnel.

The publication was produced jointly by the Department of Public Instruction and the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

How Tar Heel Representatives, Senators Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes May 6 through 12.

House
FLEXIBLE WORK WEEK Voted, 240 for and 112 against, to scale down a proposed experiment with flexible work hours in executive branch agencies. The vote adopted amendments whose chief impact was to make the experiment voluntary rather than mandatory for approximately 240 federal departments and agencies.

The amendments were attached to HR 9043, later passed and sent to the Senate, which authorizes a three-year trial with work schedules other than the unvarying eight-hour-day and 40-hour-week. The innovation is intended to improve employe morale and productivity and ease commuter snarls. Congressmen generally agreed that the "flexitime" program deserves a trial. At issue was whether it should be voluntary, or mandatory for all federal agencies not exempted from it by the Civil Service Commission.

Rep. Edward Derwinski (R-Ill.) sponsored the amendments that removed the mandatory provision. He said it was "totally contrary to efficient management policies, because it will force agencies to seek exemptions rather than simply allow the (Civil Service) commission to select willing agencies for the experiments."

One opponent, Rep. Stephen Solarz (D-N.Y.), said "the more agencies that participate in the experimental program, the better our ability will be to evaluate their effectiveness."

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L. H. Fountain, (D-2), Stephen Neal (D-5), Richardson Preyer (D-6), Charles Rose (D-7), W. G. Hefner (D-8), James Martin (R-9), James Broyhill (R-10) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "yea."
Reps. David Henderson (D-3) and Ike Andrews (D-4) voted "nay."
"THE FED" Passed, 279 for and 85 against, a bill (HR 12934) making organizational changes in the Federal Reserve System, which sets national monetary policy by such acts as regulating credit-availability and the amount of currency in circulation. It was sent to the Senate.

One provision would make the term of the Federal Reserve Board chairman coincide with that of the U.S. President who appoints him or her, thus achieving better coordination of fiscal policy (set largely by the President and Congress) with monetary policy (determined by the Fed.).

The bill also adds three more "public" positions to each of the 12 regional Federal Reserve banks boards in order to better diversify those banker-dominated bodies; requires Fed monetary policy to pursue full-employment and other objectives of the 1946 Employment Act and requires that the chairman of the board of governors testify quarterly to congressional banking committees.

One supporter, Rep. Henry Reuss (D-Wisc.), said: "The object... is to make the Federal Reserve more responsive to the public interest and help make monetary policies work with, not counter to, fiscal policy in achieving our country's economic goals."

No opponents spoke during floor debate. Nearly all of the members voting against were conservatives who disliked provisions such as the coordination of the Fed chairman's term with that of the President. Jones, Fountain, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Hefner, Broyhill and Taylor voted "yea."

Rose voted "nay."
Henderson and Martin did not vote.

DISCRIMINATION Rejected, 121 for and 272 against, an amendment to exempt professional fraternities and sororities from regulations requiring colleges to either cease supporting organizations which discriminate by sex or lose federal aid. The amendment was proposed HR 12851, a bill extending federal higher education programs, later passed and sent to the Senate.

The amendment sought to protect sororities and fraternities organized by professional interests such as law or medicine from a 1972 federal law aimed at ending sex discrimination in education.

Its rejection leaves intact Department of Health, Education and Welfare regulations including campus professional societies in the discrimination ban.

A supporter, Rep. Dawson Mathis (D-Ga.), said that campus social fraternities and sororities are exempted from coverage of the 1972 law, and professional groups should also be exempted because "the primary thrust of these (professional) sororities and fraternities over the years has been social anyway..."

An opponent, Rep. Bella Abzug (D-N.Y.), said sexual barriers to professional group membership "constitute a very serious discrimination against women," adding that "when there are two separate societies... the men's organization is usually larger and more prestigious."

Jones, Martin, Boyhill, and Taylor voted "yea."
Fountain, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Rose and Hefner voted "nay."

Henderson did not vote.

Senate
WOMEN'S RIGHTS Adopted 46 for and 45 against, an amendment increasing by $2 million — from $3 million to $5 million — the appropriation for the National Commission on the Observance of International Women's Year. It was attached to a $12 billion supplemental appropriations bill for fiscal 1976 (HR 13172), later passed and sent to conference with the House.

The funds would finance state, regional and national conferences on the status of women. President Ford has requested and the House has approved the $5 million figure.

Sen. Charles Percy (R-Ill.), a supporter, said: "... a national commitment to assess the role of women in the U.S. for the purpose of better assuring them equal rights and responsibilities of citizenship is long overdue. The $5 million requested for these conferences is low in comparison to similar conferences..."

Sen. Joseph Montoya (D-N.M.), an opponent, said: "If we are going to be fiscally prudent and at the same time help the women to organize themselves into a national forum with input from the state and regional groups, this $3 million will be adequate." Sens. Robert Morgan (D) and Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

DISADVANTAGED STUDENTS Rejected, 25 for and 64 against, an amendment to appropriate an additional $1 billion in fiscal 1976 for remedial education programs for poor children, bringing to about $3 billion the year's expenditure for Title I of the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

The amendment was proposed to the supplemental appropriations bill HR 13172 (above).

Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.), a sponsor, said the amendment posed "a question of the allocation of priorities in this country... That $1 billion could be obtained by delaying the funding of the B1 bomber program for one year."

Some opponents were unenthusiastic about the remedial education program, while others argued that the amendment busted the budget ceiling approved by the House and Senate.

Sen. Frank Moss (D-Utah) said education in fiscal 1976 was "richly provided for" and that "breaking the budget is not justified."

Morgans and Helms voted "nay."

Begin Bid To Bar Concorde

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Opponents of the Concorde are launching a major legal offensive against the supersonic jet today as the object of their opposition sat on an airport runway only 15 miles away.

A three-judge appeals court was to hear the case five days before the first scheduled U.S. flights by the controversial plane were to begin. Two days earlier, French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing arrived on a Concorde at nearby Andrews Air Force Base for a state visit.

The suits before the appeals court challenged the Feb. 4 ruling by Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman Jr. that authorized Air France and British Airways each to operate two Concorde flights daily into New York's John F. Kennedy Airport and one flight daily into Washington's Dulles International Airport for up to 16 months.

Coleman said the 16-month test period would allow the government to determine whether the plane was environmentally acceptable. He said he would decide after that time whether the British-French built plane should be given permanent landing rights at the two airports.

The court hearing was the first major legal test for the controversial plane since Coleman made his ruling. A previous legal test brought by the three counties near the two airports was tossed out because it was filed in the wrong court.

The suits raised several major questions: whether Coleman had authority to rule on the Concorde; whether he could rule before the federal government had set noise standards for supersonic jets; whether he should have considered the aircraft's safety as part of the environmental impact statement; and whether the Concorde must have a U.S. certificate of airworthiness before it can fly here.

Air France and British Airways, the only two airlines to purchase the $60-million Concorde so far, plan to begin flights to Dulles on Monday.

No date has been set for the start of Concorde service to Kennedy. The Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, which operates Kennedy, has banned the Concorde for six months. The two airlines are challenging that order in a New York court.

Those challenging the Concorde included the Environmental Defense Fund, which was joined by seven other environmental groups and 27 congressmen; the Aviation Consumer Action Project, a Ralph Nader organization; the State of New York; and Fairfax and Loudoun Counties, Va., where Dulles is located, and Nassau County, N.Y., which is adjacent to Kennedy.

Woman Elected As Church Moderator

BALTIMORE (AP)—The wife of a Harlem minister, Dr. Thelma Davidson Adair, has become the first black woman to be elected moderator of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

In voting Tuesday night that ran to an unprecedented four ballots, Dr. Adair defeated the Rev. John Galbreath of Pittsburgh, 364-307. Voting came as the 188th General Assembly opened its annual session here.

The moderator is the church organization's top elected official and serves a one-year term.

Dr. Adair was elected from a field of five candidates, including Mrs. Virginia Davidson of Rochester, N.Y., P.E. MacAllister of Indianapolis, and Martha Martin of Cincinnati.

About 685 voting commissioners, representing the church group's 2.7 million members, participated in the election. Dr. Adair led on each of the four ballots.

Dr. Adair, a graduate of Columbia Teachers College in New York, has long been active in church affairs and has taught in public schools, universities and seminaries. Married to the Rev. A. Eugene Adair of the Mount Morris Presbyterian Church in New York, she is the mother of three children.

Her election capped an opening day that saw the church's chief administrative officer declare that a sharp membership decline appears to be leveling off after a decade.

Since 1965, the church has lost about 600,000 members. Hope for a reversal in that trend was voiced by William P. Thompson, the stated clerk of the church.

Thompson told the commissioners that last year's loss of 65,556 members was the least since 1969 and 20,000 fewer than the previous year's decline.

Furthermore, he said there were 162,000 new members received in 1975, while church school membership went up by 16,500 to a total of 1.064 million.

Bride-Elect Honored

At Thursday Party

Miss Teresa Diane Cayton, bride-elect of Norman Ray Pollard Jr., was entertained at a party Thursday given by Betty Ann Woolard of Morehead City.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and 12 guests were in attendance at the party which was held here.

CHECK FOR WORLD HUNGER—Dr. J. Harry Haines, with the United Methodist Committee on Relief, Division of Missions, was presented a check for $1,200 by the president of the Senior High UMYF, Lydia Hayes. The money was raised by 60 young people who participated in a 15-mile walk-a-thon to help the world hunger situation. It was sponsored by the United Methodist Youth Fellowship of St. James United Methodist Church.

Mixed It Up

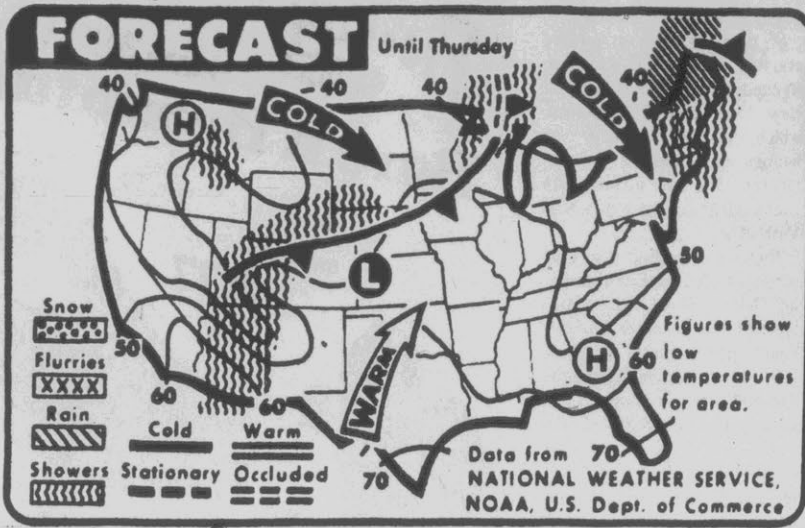

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—Two Columbia high school students almost got better than an 'A' in their chemistry class.

The Lower Richland High School students heard their teacher describe Tuesday how to make nitroglycerin and put the words into action.

Firemen, an Army ordnance squad and an expert from the University of South Carolina were summoned. Firemen took a small vial of the volatile liquid outside, doused it with a chemical substance and exploded it. School officials said the pair had heard teacher Ann Addison give the formula for nitro in a morning laboratory class. As she went on with the lecture, they mixed it up.

Then a school spokesman said, the two apparently decided to tell what they'd done. The building was evacuated while firemen took the container into an open field nearby.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST—Showers are forecast today in northern New England, Idaho and stretching from Arizona into the Plains states.

Colder temperatures are due in the northern portion of the nation with warmer weather in the Southwest. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Record low temperatures came to North Carolina early today.

They followed tornadoes, heavy rain, gale force winds, and hail of golf-ball size which damaged crops and property Tuesday. No injuries were reported.

Snow flurries even fell for a few moments atop mile-high Grandfather Mountain about 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Temperatures over the state warmed into the mid 60s to low 70s later today after the chilly morning.

It will be sunny and warmer Thursday, with highs from the mid 70s to the low 80s.

High pressure centered over the Middle Mississippi Valley was responsible for the fair and cooler weather across the Tar Heel state Tuesday and early today. The cold front that ushered in the cooler and drier air triggered showers and thunderstorms as it moved across the state. Several tornadoes and funnel clouds were reported in the Piedmont and Coastal Plains.

Wind and hail damaged tobacco and corn in Cumberland County.

Tornadic winds overturned a camper-trailer and uprooted trees in New Hanover County. Rainfall in the 24 hours ended at 2 o'clock this morning was generally one-half inch. Heavier amounts included six-tenths at Cherry Point, eight-tenths at Rocky Mount and Wilson, and 1.11 inches at Hickory.

High temperatures Tuesday ranged from the 60s in the mountains to the 70s and low 80s elsewhere. They included 62 at Canton, 64 at Asheville, 80 at Raleigh-Durham and 82 at Wilmington.

The full effects of the cooler air behind the cold front were felt during the night. As skies cleared, temperatures dipped to record or near-record levels. A record low for the date was established at Raleigh-Durham when the mercury dipped to 41 degrees early this morning. The old record was 43 set in 1973. And at Charlotte it got down to 42 degrees, tying the record low for a May 19th. Overnight lows across the state were generally in the upper 30s and 40s.

Small-craft advisories are in effect for North Carolina coastal waters and sounds. Fair weather will continue Friday and Saturday. The next chance of showers will be Sunday.

Fertilizer Prices Drop

WASHINGTON (AP)—The average price of fertilizer has dropped 19 per cent during the past 12 months, increasing the chances that its use will be expanded and crop production will be boosted.

And that could have a soothing effect on consumer food prices.

The Agriculture Department's fertilizer price index showed a drop from mid-April 1975 to mid-April 1976, along with a drop of 8 per cent from last Oct. 15 when the previous survey was made.

For example, the average price nationally of anhydrous ammonia, used as a nitrogen source for corn and other crops, was $191 a ton on April 15. Last fall the average price was $219 a ton and on April 15, 1975, it was $265 a ton.

Fertilizer prices soared following the Arab oil embargo in late 1973 as fuel costs climbed and sent shock waves through the petrochemical industry. Natural gas plays an important role in making the nitrogen used in fertilizer.

With the decline in fertilizer prices from their peaks, farmers may be inclined to use more on key crops and thus boost production this year. This could have a significant impact on total corn output, if farmers get good weather during the crop's growing season over the next few months.

Scout Troop To Attend Service

The Boy Scout Troop of the Red Oak Christian Church will attend the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday along with other Eagle Scouts.

Billy White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin White of Winterville and a member of the Red Oak Boy Scout Troop, will receive his Eagle award Sunday.

All Scouts and friends are invited to attend the service.

Lost One More Appeal Of Case

RALEIGH (AP)—A round has been lost by Durham attorney Jerry Paul in his federal court fight to avoid returning to jail for a contempt of court citation he received last summer while serving as chief defense attorney for Joan Little.

A recent order issued by U.S. District Court Judge Algernon L. Butler denied Paul's petition for federal relief from the contempt order and 14-day jail term imposed on him by Superior Court Judge Hamilton H. Hobgood. The contempt citation came at the end of Miss Little's celebrated murder trial.

Attorneys for Paul could not be reached for comment Tuesday. They had indicated previously they would appeal as far as possible. They have 30 days to file an appeal with the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals.

After serving five days of his sentence, Paul was freed pending appeal of the case. The contempt citation was upheld by the state Court of Appeals and the state Supreme Court refused to hear the case.

Paul, who also faces charges from the North Carolina State Bar for his conduct during the trial, was found in contempt for remarks to Hobgood during jury selection in the Little case.

He criticized Hobgood for restricting attorneys' questioning of prospective jurors and accused the judge of imposing an archaic standard of justice. "The court finds that (Paul's) statements...were contemptuous and exceeded the permissible bounds of professional conduct and vigorous advocacy," Butler wrote.

"A court cannot tolerate any disruption of court proceedings. There are certain elementary standards of proper conduct which must be observed by attorneys as officers of the court which were not met in the instant case," he said.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved ahead today, adding to Tuesday's scattered gains.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed nearly 2 points in the early going, and gainers took a 5-3 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts reported a positive response to President Ford's victory Tuesday in the important Michigan presidential primary election.

Brokers said investors tend to regard Ford's economic policies as a known quantity and those of most other presidential aspirants as unclear at this point in the campaign.

Today's early prices included Eastman Kodak, up 1/2 at 100 1/2; General Electric, ahead 1/2 at 51 1/2; Warner-Lambert, down 1/2 at 33; and Champion Spark Plug, unchanged at 11 1/2.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average gained 1.81 to 989.45.

Advances just barely outnumbered declines among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index edged up .08 to 53.92.

Big Board volume was a moderate 17.41 million shares. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .12 to 104.43.

Cooler temperatures and strong winds dominated the weather in the Pitt County area Tuesday evening. The high temperature was recorded at 74 degrees in Greenville Tuesday and the low temperature was recorded at 50 degrees, according to the Greenville Utilities Department. The Wednesday 8 a.m. temperature was recorded at 50 degrees. Wind gusts were recorded at 32 miles per hour by the Pitt Greenville Airport Tuesday night but according to the Greenville Utilities Department there were no major power outages due to wind damage.

No Posting

Chief Glenn Cannon said today that Greenville Police have received a number of complaints in recent weeks about individuals posting advertisements on utility poles and trees along city streets and sidewalks, and indicated that if the practice is not stopped, those violating the city code will be prosecuted.

According to the chief, the main violators in the past few weeks seem to be individuals holding yard sales. He said signs have been attached to utility poles and to trees along sidewalks advertising such sales and their location.

Cannon also noted that with the coming election, supporters of various candidates might use poles and trees to post advertisements in support of office seekers, which is also a violation.

He suggested that individuals wishing to post yard sale posters placed them on stakes on private property and remove them when the sale is over.

Charged In 2 Break-Ins

Deputies arrested Jimmy Ray Carmon, 25, of Rt. 1, Box 546, Ayden, and charged him with breaking, entering and larceny at Amos Norris' Grocery on Rt. 1, Box 573, Ayden on May 16, as well as a break-in at the store on Feb. 23, according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

He said that three cases of wine, valued at $57.20, were reported taken from the store in the Feb. 23 incident while $4 worth of wine was stolen on May 16.

Entrance to the business on May 16 was gained by breaking in the front door, the sheriff said. Damage to the door was estimated at $25.

Bond for Carmon was set at $2,000 pending a first appearance hearing in District Court here.

Two Grants

Congressman Walter B. Jones today announced that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Office of Education, has awarded two grants as follows—$60,000 to East Carolina University and $30,000 to Pitt Technical Institute.

The purpose of the two grants is to provide federal support for cooperative education programs including the planning, establishment, expansion, or carrying out of such programs in institutes of higher education. Cooperative education programs are those which alternate periods of full time academic study with periods of full time public or private employment.

The family will be at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H.A. Pierce of Rt. 1, Ayden and will receive friends at the funeral home from 2 to 4 p.m. today and from 7 to 9 o'clock tonight.

Heinsohn: Boston's Poise Was Difference In Championship Game

By GEORGE STRODE
AP Sports Writer
CLEVELAND (AP) — "Just another Tuesday night in Cleveland, that's all," chortled Coach Tom Heinsohn of the Boston Celtics, a smile brightening his usually dour face. "Our poise was the difference. We had chances to get blown out several times," Heinsohn reflected of his team's 94-87 triumph over the Cleveland Cavaliers that propelled Boston into the National Basketball Association finals for the 14th time.

was a dream come true. "I've wanted all my life to make the NBA championship. It's my biggest thrill. It's fantastic," he said after scoring 20 points. "When we came into the locker room," said Heinsohn, "the guys were happier for Scott than for themselves. Charlie has taken more jazz for so long, it's indecent. He's done everything I asked him." So now Scott goes against the Western Conference champion Suns, the team that traded him to Boston for Paul Westphal last year.

How does he like his new team's chances against his old club? "You should ask how do you like Phoenix' chances against Boston. I like the Celtics' chances against anybody," he responded. A horde of writers kept asking the fourth-year man from North Carolina to describe his steal. Scott patiently obliged, saying: "Carr came out to get the ball. I was overplaying him and denying him the pass. He was killing us down the stretch. I knew that made it three points, they couldn't catch up with the basket. It put the pressure on them." Carr, brilliant in reserve with 26 Cleveland points, sat chagrined in front of his locker, muttering, "He came off a pick. I didn't see him. He got between me and the ball. That was it."

Bill Fitch, the NBA Coach of the Year supposedly headed for the Los Angeles Lakers, bristled over questions about it. "I'm not much for talking about those things. I have no discussion of my future. That's been true in my six years here," he snapped. Boston eliminated Cleveland 4-2 in the best-of-seven series, but Fitch wasn't overly impressed after White had scored 29 points, Dave Cowens 21 and Scott 20. "I wouldn't take anything away from the Celtics," he said, "but if we had Jim Chones (broken toe) when the season ended, we could beat anybody. Boston got by playing one good half tonight."

The Phoenix Suns are the next target Sunday of the Celtics in Boston in an ironic twist. Charlie Scott, a member of the Suns last season, was Tuesday's hero. "The single play of the game was Scott's steal," said Heinsohn. Scott, who teamed with fellow guard Jo Jo White for 49 points, picked off Campy Russell's pass intended for Austin Carr. He drove unmolested for the deciding stuff shot and an 88-85 lead with 1 1/2 minutes left. For Scott, often maligned for his defensive weaknesses, it was a dream come true. "I've wanted all my life to make the NBA championship. It's my biggest thrill. It's fantastic," he said after scoring 20 points. "When we came into the locker room," said Heinsohn, "the guys were happier for Scott than for themselves. Charlie has taken more jazz for so long, it's indecent. He's done everything I asked him." Jamesville Downs Bears

JAMESVILLE—Jamesville High School pulled out a 6-5 victory over Bear Grass yesterday to keep its Beaufort-Hyde-Martin title hopes alive. The win left the Bears with a 12-2 record, and a complete season. Jamesville is now 11-2, and has a game at Chocowinity on Thursday. A victory for the Bullets would tie the two teams for the league title, and leave up in the air which would advance into the 1-A state playoffs.

Jamesville got its first two runs in the first. Ray Pierce singled and Jerry Ange doubled. Eric Davis singled to score both runners. Another Bullet run came in the second. Toby Holliday singled and Ange doubled again. Robbie Hardison walked and another free trip, to Billy Brown, forced in Holliday. The Bears came up with two in the third. Jimmy Peaks singled and Dickie Williams cracked out a home run. Bear Grass added two more in the fourth to take a 4-3 lead. Jeff Bullock walked and Alton Cratt reached on a fielder's choice. Williams singled, and an error on the play let both Bullock and Cratt score. In the sixth, Jamesville pushed back out, 5-4. Ange opened with a game-tying homer. Brown singled and Davis reached on a fielder's choice. A wild pitch scored Brown. The Bears tied it up with one in the top of the seventh. Danny Rogerson was hit by a pitch and came around when Jerry Wynne reached on an error. But the Bullets got the winning run in the bottom of the seventh. Danny Lilley singled and Duke Stone reached on a fielder's choice. Both moved up on a fielder's choice, and Holliday's single ended the game.

Williamston Nears Crown

WILLIAMSTON — Williamston High School assured itself of no worse than a tie for the Northeastern Conference championship yesterday with a 14-6 victory over Edenton.

But the Tigers' championship hopes still ride on the outcome on Friday's game at Ahoskie. The Tigers are one game ahead of Plymouth, but must have a win over the Cougars in their last game to maintain that lead and claim the league berth in the 3-A state playoffs.

Edenton scored first in the game, getting a run in the first on a solo homer by Harrison Winborn. Williamston came right back with one in the bottom of the inning. Ken Herman singled and moved up on an error. He scored on Tim Hardison's single. In the third, Williamston added two more. Hardison walked, and Lee Pearson double. An error on the play let Hardison score. Eric Godard then doubled in Pearson. Edenton came back with two in the fourth to tie it up. Tony Nixon doubled and Winborn walked. Morgan then singled in both runners. After the Aces picked up three more in the top of the fifth to take a 6-3 lead, Williamston exploded in the bottom of the frame for seven to put it out of reach. Tommy Gardner singled, and runner Eddie Odum moved up on a wild pitch. Godard walked and both advanced on a balk. Greg Roberson walked, and Herbie Rogers reached on an error, scoring Odum. Mike Koesy doubled in Godard and Roberson and Herman singled in Rogers. An error let Koesy score, and Butch Davis doubled in Herman. An error let Davis score for a 10-6 lead. Williamston closed it out with four more in the sixth. Now 9-2 in the conference, Williamston now travels to Ahoskie Friday, seeking to wrap up the title. Yanks Put Together Two Rallies To Take 11-6 Win Over Indians

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer
Billy Martin said the big play came in the 10th inning. Frank Robinson said there shouldn't even have been a 10th inning. The New York Yankees, trailing 6-1 after eight innings, erupted for five runs in the ninth, then came up with five more in the 10th to beat the Cleveland Indians 11-6 Tuesday night in the longest American League game so far this season. Sandy Alomar and Thurman Munson had two-run singles for the Yanks in the ninth and Lou

Piniella finally snapped the tie with a two-run single in the 10th. But the big play, according to Martin, the Yankees' manager, came in the 10th when, with two runners on base, New York third baseman Graig Nettles dove to his right to knock down a line shot off the bat of George Hendrick and turn it into a forceout. Robinson, the Indians' skipper, took a dimmer view of the matter. "We shouldn't even have been in the 10th inning," he said when asked about the play by Nettles. "We should have been in the ninth and then in the clubhouse." Elsewhere in the American League, the Boston Red Sox beat the Detroit Tigers 5-3, the Kansas City Royals defeated the Texas Rangers 3-1, the Chicago White Sox blanked the California Angels 5-0 and the Minnesota Twins edged the Oakland A's 4-3 in 11 innings. Milwaukee at Baltimore was rained out. The New York-Cleveland game was one inning short of the St. Louis Cardinals' 17-inning, 4-3 victory over the New York Mets April 19, the longest game in the majors this year. Sparky Lyle, 3-1, pitched six scoreless innings of relief to get the victory in the four-hour, 28-minute marathon. Indians starter Fritz Peterson, staked to a 5-0 lead in the first three innings, tired in the ninth. With his team ahead 6-1, Peterson allowed two singles to start the inning and was relieved by Dave LaRoche.

innings — to tie the game. Royals 3, Rangers 1
Amos Otis hit his seventh home run of the season to tie Cleveland's George Hendrick for the American League lead and Al Fitzmorris scattered seven hits to raise his record to 5-0 for the Royals, who moved into first place in the Western Division, 10 percentage points ahead of the Rangers. White Sox 5, Angels 0
Bart Johnson stifled California on three hits to record his first complete game of the year and his first victory since his initial appearance of the season. Pat Kelly's belted a three-run double for Chicago, and Bucky Dent drove in the White Sox' other two runs. Twins 4, A's 3
Dan Ford singled home pinch-runner Steve Brye in the 11th inning with the winning run for Minnesota. Twins starter Dave Goltz went all the way, scattering seven hits.

Union Carbide Pops Kiwanis

Union Carbide rolled up a 16-5 victory over the Kiwanis in the North State Little League yesterday. Union Carbide is now 2-2, while the Kiwanis are now 0-5.

In the second, two more crossed. Greg Wright reached on a fielder's choice and Jeff Wilson walked. Both scored when Eric Sawyer reached on an error.

The third saw three more come in. Kenny Waters singled and Swayne Fisher reached on an error. Livingston also was safe on an error, loading the bases. Joyner reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Waters, but getting Fisher at third. Vince Hankins walked to reload them, and wild pitches brought in both Livingston and Joyner.

From that 6-0 lead, Union Carbide went on to add four in the fourth, four in the fifth, and two in the sixth. The Kiwanis got three in the bottom of the third. David Welborn singled and Jay Holly got a hit. John Jordan walked, and a walk to Todd Jordan forced in Welborn. Spencer Mayo singled in the other two. The final two came in the fifth. Waters led the Union Carbide hitting with three, while Joyner and Wright each had two. Mayo and Welborn each had two for the Kiwanis. U.C. 123 442-16 10 1 Kiwanis 003 020-5 6 9

The Greenville Recreation and Parks Department held the finals of its One-On-One Basketball tournament recently. In the 11-12 age group Donald Warren defeated Ryner Bullock. In the 13-14 age group James Murphy took top honors over Junior Blount. James Hawkins defeated Don Joyner in the 15-16 age division. The 17-18 age group was won by Ronnie Dawson who defeated Jackie Payton. Ronald Bowen defeated A.J. Tyson in a close match for the 19-25 age group.

But the Bullets got the winning run in the bottom of the seventh. Danny Lilley singled and Duke Stone reached on a fielder's choice. Both moved up on a fielder's choice, and Holliday's single ended the game. Bear Grass 002 200 1-5 6 3 Jamesville 210 002 1-6 10 2 Wynne and Peaks; Brown, Stone (6) and Holliday.

The Greenville Recreation Soccer League closed out its season yesterday with an All-Star game against a Kinston team. In a preliminary game, Greenville I beat Greenville II, 1-0, in a game for 7-9 year-olds. Scott Davis scored the lone goal on a penalty kick. The All-Star game, played against St. Gabriel's of Kinston, ended in a 1-1 tie. The Greenville goal was scored by Alonza Taylor. The game was for 9-15 year-olds.

Game Is Delayed

Rose High School's baseball game with Wilson, scheduled for Tuesday, was postponed because of wet grounds. The game has been reset for this afternoon at 4 p.m. at Guy Smith Stadium. Also postponed was a game between North Lenoir and D. H. Conley. It will not be rescheduled. Conley also had a softball game between the Valkyries and Greene Central rained out. It too will not be rescheduled.

Strange Stays Alive In Field

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) —“Some days 400 hitters in baseball go out and strike out four times. That’s the way I felt,” defending North and South Amateur golf champion Curtis Strange said after barely avoiding elimination in Tuesday’s second round.

Strange, who finished 1-up and three-over-par, was luckier than his Wake Forest teammate Jay Haas, who became the first major casualty of the 76th annual event.

Haas, of Belleville, Ill., lost 1-up to Robert “Boots” Widener, 39, of Medina, Ohio. A senior on Wake Forest’s twice national championship team, Haas was two-down until he birdied the 17th to send the match to the final hole. Both Haas and Widener had bogeys on 18.

Strange never trailed over the 7,051-yard Pinehurst Country Club championship No. 2 course, but had the roughest time of the headlines. The Virginia Beach, Va., native birdied the par three, 165-yard 17th hole to take the lead for the final time over James Hamilton of Reading, Pa.

“Everything I did was wrong today,” Strange said after his first over-par performance in the tournament in two years. “I just played bad. But I’ve been playing too good lately to worry much about today.”

Other favorites, such as British Amateur ace Vinny Giles, U.S. Amateur titleholder Fred Ridley and veteran Dale Morey advanced to today’s double round which will trim the field to eight.

Giles was also unhappy with his play however, after taking a four-up advantage at the turn over University of North Carolina golfer William Butner of Plymouth, Mass. Giles finished with a 4 and 2 win.

“I played well for 10 holes and then I played like a dog...more like a mongrel puppy,” he said.

The prospect of a championship match pitting two brothers continued as champion Strange’s identical twin Allan knocked off Wake Forest golfer David Thore of Reidsville, N.C., 1-up on the 20th hole.

Allan Strange is in the lower half of the bracket and faces North Carolina State University’s William Hamilton in the third round.

Morey, the 56-year-old 1964 North and South champion from High Point, N.C., worked his swing to perfection in a 4 and 2 win over David King of Beltsville, Md.

“This is the best test of golf in the United States, and it’s in the best condition I’ve ever seen it,” he said. “It’s the fairest test of golf, too. There are no tricks out here.”

Morey said he was unconcerned about playing two rounds today.

“I’m playing better each day,” he said, “and I feel I’ve got my game under control. I hope my legs will hold out for 36, but I hope I’m in better shape than most players my age.”

Waldrop Retiring

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Tony Waldrop, who once ran 11 straight miles sub-four-minute miles and set a world indoor record of 3:55.0, has given up competitive running.

“If I had continued running, I would have tried for the Olympics,” the University of North Carolina graduate student and assistant track coach said Tuesday in a prepared statement. “But that’s never been an overwhelming goal of mine.”

Waldrop’s announcement came just one day after the U.S. Olympic track coach, Dr. Leroy Walker of North Carolina Central University in nearby Durham, said he was optimistic that Waldrop would be a candidate for the team in the 1,500 meter event.

“I’m starting on a new program in school and I’m not going to have time to run,” Waldrop said. “I’m going to do a year and a half of undergraduate work and then be involved in a graduate study in physiology.”

“Running is still fun, but this program is something else I wanted to do. I want to devote most of my time to it.”

Waldrop, who is from Columbus, N.C., said he would continue to work out with the university track team, and “if somebody just wanted to play around, I might run on a relay team. That’s the only way, though, I can see myself running again.”

Graniteers Win, 10-0

The Graniteers romped to a 10-0 victory over Auto Specialty yesterday in the Babe Ruth Prep League.

Kenny Barnes hurled a one-hitter at the Specialty team. He struck out six and walked five. The Graniteers picked up four runs in the first inning. Tom Brown walked and Shelton Wilson also got a walk. Walks to Barnes and Teddy Gartman forced in Brown. Dwayne Alligood reached on an error, scoring Wilson, and a hit by Jay Whitehurst brought in the other two.

The second saw five more runs error, scoring Brown. Barnes singled in Wilson and Gartman singled. Alligood singled and Rick Uhlman reached on a fielder’s choice, getting Barnes at the plate. Whitehurst reached on a two-base error, scoring Gartman and Alligood. Uhlman scored on Tom Messick’s hit.

The other run came in the fifth. Brown singled and stole both second and third, scoring when Jeff James reached on a fielder’s choice. Auto S’ty 000 00—0 1 Graniteers 450 01—10 8

Expansion Aims To Be Set Up

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP)—Atlantic Coast Conference athletic directors are expected to disclose guidelines for future expansion at the conference’s spring meeting here today.

If adopted, admission to the seven-member conference will require an equity payment much like the buying of a franchise in the National Football League. Prospective members also have to meet other academic and athletic criteria to be considered for membership.

The University of South Carolina and Virginia Tech, both independent, have indicated they want to join the league. South Carolina left the conference in 1971.

The expansion guidelines are expected to be discussed during today’s general meeting, which will close the spring meeting. However, the specific membership applications of South Carolina and Virginia Tech are not expected to be taken up.

“It’s feasible, but very unlikely,” said commissioner Robert C. James of the possibility of formal discussion of membership petitions. “We have been very low-key where expansion is concerned, at least publicly, because we didn’t want to embarrass any school. We have never encountered a situation like this before in the ACC. Expansion really hasn’t been something we’ve considered until recently,” James said.

“Quite frankly, the terms we set as necessary for membership might not be acceptable to certain schools seeking admission. Until we had formulated some official posture on requirements for expansion, we have tried not to discuss the matter any more than we had to. Without some guidelines, we had no way of knowing what was expected,” he said.

“If the conference expresses itself on expansion (today), I think it will also cite some prerequisites, and put our requirements on record for all to see,” he said. “Up until now, this has not been the case.”

Braves Might Face Suspension

HOUSTON (AP) — Atlanta Braves Manager Dave Bristol and Coach Vern Benson face a possible fine or suspension after an alleged bumping and pushing incident with an umpire in Atlanta’s 3-2 loss to the Houston Astros Monday night.

Bristol and Benson were informed by telegram Tuesday to appear at a Friday hearing in the San Francisco office of National League President Charles Feeney.

The alleged incident involving umpire Harry Wendelstedt occurred in the ninth inning with the score tied and a runner at third base. Ken Boswell hit a grounder to shortstop and the throw caused first baseman Darrell Evans to stretch to his right. Wendelstedt ruled Boswell safe, saying Evans’ foot was not on the base, allowing the winning run to score.

Both Bristol and Benson charged onto the field to argue the call when the alleged incident occurred. Both deny the charges. Feeney, in San Francisco, said, “I have in mind what I am going to do, but I want to talk to the parties involved first. I have talked to people in Houston who saw the incident and whose opinion I would value.” Bristol and Benson will not be the only Braves visiting Feeney this week. Braves owner Ted Turner has a meeting scheduled with the league president for Thursday. Feeney called that meeting after Turner said he would give

After Failing To Bunt, Robinson Blasts Game-Winning Home Run

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

Home runs can be either a surprise or a shock — it depends which side you’re on. Bill Robinson surprised not only himself but just about everyone else in the ballpark Tuesday night when he blasted a three-run homer in the ninth to help the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the St. Louis Cardinals.

To tell the truth, he really wanted to bunt. “I’d tried bunting and that didn’t work,” said the Pirate outfielder.

St. Louis relief ace Al Hrabosky forced Robinson to swing away after getting two strikes on him.

“Hrabosky is a power pitcher; he throws a lot of fastballs,” said Robinson. “It seems that as hard as he was throwing, that was as hard as I was swinging and trying to hit it. When I had two strikes on me, I just said, ‘Well, if I strike out I’ll still be happy.’ (But) home runs always come when you don’t expect them. I didn’t think the ball was going to go out.”

Hrabosky admitted it was a mistake pitch. “The pitch was just where I didn’t want it,” said the left-hander known as the “Mad Hungarian” for his flamboyant manner.

In the other National League games, the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Cincinnati Reds 5-0; the Atlanta Braves stopped the Houston Astros 3-2 and the San Diego Padres trimmed the San Francisco Giants 7-6 in 11 innings. Two games were rained out — Philadelphia at New York and Chicago at Montreal.

Dodgers 5, Reds 0
Rick Rhoden fired a three-hitter for his first major league shutout and had three hits and Joe Ferguson slammed a three-run homer as Los Angeles beat Cincinnati. Rhoden scattered three singles, walked four and struck out three for his third victory of the season without a loss.

The Los Angeles right-hander broke a scoreless tie with a run-scoring double in the fifth inning, only the third hit off loser Jack Billingham, 4-3. An inning later Steve Garvey doubled, Ron Cey walked and then Ferguson slugged his fifth home run into the center field pavilion.

Braves 3, Astros 2
Jim Wynn’s run-scoring single in the 10th inning provided Atlanta with its victory over Houston. Dave May led off the Braves’ 10th with a double to right-center field off Houston reliever Mike Barlow, took third on Jerry Royster’s single into center and scored when Wynn’s hard-hit grounder bounced off Houston shortstop Roger Metzger’s glove into left field.

Padres 7, Giants 6
Dave Winfield hit a one-out double and scored on Fred Kendall’s force-out grounder in the 11th inning, lifting San Diego over San Francisco. Winfield doubled with one out off loser Rader, 2-2, and, after Doug Rader was walked intentionally, Kendall grounded to Speier. His throw to second forced Rader but the relay to first was late and Winfield, running all the way, beat Willie Montanez’ throw home. Butch Metzger, 4-0, got the victory in relief.

Rookie Crop May Be Thin

By JERRY GARRETT AP Motorsports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The crop of rookies for this year’s Indianapolis 500 is likely to be pretty lean unless ideas and conditions change drastically by the weekend.

Only two rookies, Vern Schupp and Bobby Olivero, are among the 23 qualifiers so far. Among six other hopefuls, the one considered the best prospect, Jerry Sneva, doesn’t even have a ride at this point.

Of those who do have cars assigned to them, Spike Gehlhausen, who crashed in pre-qualifying practice last Saturday, is considered the only “probable.” Billy Engelhart is rated “possible” but all the others, including Janet Guthrie, are considered “not likely” in an informal Associated Press poll of officials, veteran observers and other drivers.

Sneva, 27, brother of front row qualifier Tom Sneva, passed his rookie test last year but is being asked to take a “refresher test” this year before being cleared to practice at speed and qualify for the field.

“The refresher is the big problem,” Sneva advised. “They’ve divided the driver’s test in two 20-lap halves this year. Before this it was in four parts and the refresher was only the final 10-lap part. Now it’s the final 20-lap half.

“And not very many people here feel they can afford to put 50 miles on a car just for a refresher test. It sure makes it harder.”

The younger Sneva eclipsed many of his brother’s records in winning the Canadian American Modified Racing Association title in 1974. He won 30 of 37 races that year.

One of the pollsters commented, “It’s a shame, really.

That kid really knows how to drive a race car.” Gehlhausen’s probable status is contingent upon repairs being made well enough and fast enough on his damaged McLaren.

“We should have it done soon,” advised 1975’s top rookie in Indy racing. “I’m not too worried at this point.”

At least 20 other cars are considered potential qualifiers this weekend and observers forecast a speed of 180 miles per hour will be needed to insure a starting position in the May 30 race.

Foremost among drivers not already in the field is 1969 winner Mario Andretti, who should be a cinch.

S. Nash Gets Win

BETHEL — Southern Nash captured a 12-0 shutout victory over North Pitt in a girls’ softball game yesterday.

Southern Nash pushed over three runs in the second inning and added two in the third. They got one in the fourth and finished up with six in the sixth.

In the sixth, Edwards hit a grand-slam homer to help the six run drive. Farrell, Edwards and Riley each had three hits for the Lady Firebirds, while Hall, Lamm and Morgan each had two. Weaver and Morris had three each for North Pitt, while James and S. Atkinson each had two.

North Pitt returns to action Thursday, traveling to Greene Central.

Aycock In 5-0 Win

E. B. Aycock Junior High School rolled up a 5-0 victory over Nash Central yesterday.

Aycock pushed over two runs in the second inning. George Wilson reached on a fielder’s choice and Will Sanderson was safe on an error. Reggie Selby singled in Wilson, and Marty Worthington got a hit to score Sanderson.

The Jaguars added another in the third. Robert Morehead reached on an error and stole second. Joey Mattheis doubled to score Morehead.

The final two came in the sixth. Wilson walked and stole up. He scored on Worthington’s hit. Walks followed to Lee Hardee, Morehead and Mattheis, scoring Worthington.

Aycock is now 7-5, and has two games left, both on the road. They travel to Rocky Mount on Thursday and to Bertie on Friday.

By LOUISE A. REID
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE (AP)—Arab states offer a gold mine for American investment, but U.S. objections to the Arab economic boycott of Israel could jeopardize the potential, the United Arab Emirates ambassador to the U.S. says.

"By 1980, U.S. exports to Arabs are expected to exceed $10 billion," Saeed Ghobash said Tuesday, adding each $1 billion of exports means 90,000 jobs to Americans.

The U.A.E. encourages foreign investment by lacking restrictions on entry or repatriation of capital and offering free feasibility studies and financial aid, he said.

But bills introduced in this country against the almost 30-year-old boycott could cause "curtailment if not the elimination of U.S. business interests in the Arab world and Arab involvement in America," he said.

The bills, promoted as a means to end discrimination, are actually designed to "destroy the growing economic ties between the U.S. and the Arab countries," he told the Governor's Conference on International Trade and Investment here.

"I must emphasize that this boycott is not directed against a certain ethnic or religious group. The boycott is political...as you well know the Arab states are at war with Israel."

Ghobash also said U.S. imports have failed to keep pace with the needs of his country, a sparsely populated desert land with the second largest oil reserves in the world and one of the highest per capita incomes.

"While U.A.E. demands for food, manufactured and household goods have spiraled, there have been little or no growth in U.S. exports of such items...and American participation in projects as engineers, architects, consultants and contractors has been limited."

Referring to Gov. Ray Blanton's trade mission to the Middle East last November, Ghobash said, "The initiative shown by Tennessee officials and businessmen is in contradiction to the overall slack in U.S. exports to the U.A.E.

"There are a number of Tennessee businessmen supplying our booming economy with building materials and consumer goods and many consultants, contractors and architects are in the process of finalizing contracts for major projects."

Among projects are Holiday Inns being built in two U.A.E. states and a joint project by Tennessee Valley Authority and University of Tennessee designed to raise the U.A.E.'s agriculture productivity.

Holiday Inns are headquartered in Memphis. Tennessee American Contractors Inc., is negotiating to build an $8 million floating concrete docking facility in the U.A.E.

The company, comprised of five Tennessee contracting firms, is headed by Gene Blanton, Gov. Blanton's brother and executive assistant.

The governor told the conference his trade mission could result in $25 million in contracts for Tennessee businesses in 90 days. He refused to name companies involved.

He also said Tennessee will have to increase efforts to remain competitive with other states in foreign trade.

"Georgia, I understand has two offices in Japan and a couple in Europe and South America. In the past two years, they've located 20 Japanese industries in Georgia... I believe it will be necessary for Tennessee to have a similar setup in the future if we dare to be competitive."

He said contracts under negotiation include:

—Two companies negotiating long range sales agreements expected to be followed by construction of a facility in the Mid East to produce their companies' product.

—One company has forwarded feasibility studies for large-scale projects requested by a lot of companies.

—Preliminary plans call for a Tennessee team to visit the Sudan and discuss educational and agricultural technology.

Greenville JCs Earned Awards At Convention

FAYETTEVILLE—The Greenville Jaycees received a variety of awards here during the North Carolina Jaycees annual state convention.

Awards presented to the Greenville chapter included: first place in the chapter's population division in the drug abuse area of competition; first place in the division and overall "sweepstakes" for spiritual development;

First place in division for membership recruitment; second in division for publications (local chapter newsletter); second in division for wives recognition; third in division for health and safety; third in division for economic development; and third in division for government involvement.

Two More CB Radios Stolen Here Tuesday

Greenville Police are investigating the larceny of two citizens band radios from vehicles here yesterday.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the first incident was reported at 3:50 p.m. by John Epperson of Eastbrook Apts, who said a CB radio was taken from his car while the vehicle was parked in a lot near the intersection of Fourth and Cotanche Streets.

Cannon said the second incident was reported at 11:25 p.m. Harold Wayne Ross of 2600 Cherokee Dr.

The chief said a CB radio valued at $280 was reported taken from the Ross truck while the vehicle was parked at Guy Smith Stadium between 10:25 p.m. and 11:25 p.m.

Greenville Jaycees also received the Blue Chip Award "for excellence in achieving growth and meeting qualifications of chapter management and leadership training." The award, presented to approximately ten per cent of the chapters in the state, recognizes the local chapter as "one of America's outstanding Jaycee chapters."

The 1975-76 president of the Greenville Jaycees, Hal Smith, was also presented an award for membership recruitment plus the "outstanding Local President Award," one of about 30 presented out of 300 state chapters.

Smith was installed as a district director of the North Carolina Jaycees, serving as a member of the N.C. Jaycees Executive Committee.

State Jaycee officers elected included: Joe Hollowell of Edenton, president; and Lee Shillito of Hickory, John Fletcher of Concord, and Chuck Bradley of Brevard as state vice presidents.

Some 30 members of the Greenville chapter and their wives or dates attended the convention.

No Stars In 'Big' Movie

FRANCIS THOMPSON compares frames of conventional 35 mm film used in most movie houses to IMAX frames, which are nine times larger. (UPI Photo)

By DAVID DUGAS
PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The biggest movie ever made has no stars and runs only 48 minutes.
It's not "Gone With the Wind," "The Sound of Music" or "Jaws."
But it is big.
It is a spectacular called "American Years" which recently had its world premiere in the only theater that is ever likely to show it, a specially-constructed auditorium in the new $11.5 million, Living History Center built in Philadelphia to commemorate the U.S. Bicentennial.
Although the theater seats only 875, its screen is 93 feet wide and 70 feet high. Its inventors say it is the biggest ever made.
Is big better?
A number of processes developed in the 1950s offered huge wide screens. There was the original Cinerama, filmed and projected with three overlapping frames. CinemaScope and VistaVision offered superwide movies using single cameras with special lenses and frame dimensions.
Expositions and amusement parks have offered 360-degree motion pictures filmed with numerous cameras.
Yet most of the systems billed as revolutionary 20 years ago have all but vanished from regular movie houses, leaving behind only the now-conventional wide screen and stereophonic sound.
Now there is Imax, with a picture bigger than any previously seen and, says inventor Graeme Ferguson, it is better.
"Size is not primary as far as we're concerned," says the 46-year-old Canadian who conceived the process and named it "maximum image." He claims it provides a picture "five times" as clear and steady as any previous system.
"It's the fidelity of image and relation of the audience to the screen that counts," says Ferguson. "There is none of the graininess you see with conventional film. The field is so enormous that the audience isn't aware of the picture's edges. People feel they're in the picture and part of the action."
He spoke from the blue-carpeted projection room of Philadelphia's brand new Imax theatre, his voice carrying easily over the hum of the truck-sized projector.
Ferguson had made various experimental films when the idea for Imax came to him in 1967. He and fellow Canadian filmmaker Roman Kroitor, his brother-in-law, were talking about a film Kroitor had made for Montreal's Expo '67, "Labyrinth."
"I asked Roman why it had been made with five 35mm cameras instead of one big one. He said there wasn't such a thing. I said, 'Wouldn't it be nice if there was?'"
The two men set about sketching a system that would film and project movies with the equivalent of nine normal 35mm frames. To design it, they went to another friend, Bill Shaw, a former manufacturing engineer for the Ford Motor Company who had turned to designing bicycles, skates and other sports equipment.
"He'd never been in a projection room in his life," says Ferguson, grinning and pointing to Shaw.
"If I'd known anything about ordinary projectors, I probably never would have tried it," says Shaw, now director of development for what is called Imax Entertainment Limited, headquartered in Cambridge, Ont.
With further help from an Australian inventor, Ron Jones, who had devised a unique film movement method, and Jan Jacobsen, a Norwegian camera designer, Imax went into business.
The first film, "Tiger Child," had its premiere at Osaka's Expo '70.
Four years later that 15-minute experiment had led to a 23-minute movie, "Man Belongs to the Earth," which Ferguson and Kroitor produced for Expo '74 in Spokane, Wash.
Permanent Imax theaters meanwhile have opened in Toronto, at CircusWorld in Florida, and Cedar Point, Ohio.
San Diego, Calif., has a marine version using a bowl-shaped screen and "fish eye" lens.
On July 4 an Imax theatre, somewhat smaller than Philadelphia's, will open at the Smithsonian's new National Air and Space Museum in Washington, D.C., with a 26-minute film entitled "To Fly."
Like "American Years," it was directed by American documentary film-maker Francis Thompson, whose Oscar-winning "To Be Alive" was a major attraction at the 1964-65 New York World's Fair.
Ferguson sees a steady growth of Imax cinemas. He has talked to potential exhibitors abroad including the Arab oil countries of Saudi Arabia and Kuwait.
The Imax, with its dazzling clarity projected by 10,000 watts of light, is most impressive when it captures a raging forest fire or, with a camera fitted in the nose of a plane, the awesome grandeur of the Grand Canyon.
Put the camera on the front of a car speeding along country roads, as was done for "American Years," and viewers clutch the arms of their seats.
"It's best suited for action, adventure and spectacle," he says. "I think movies such as '2001,' 'Lawrence of Arabia,' 'The Towering Inferno,' and 'Earthquake' all could have benefited from it — virtually anything where you're anxious to have the people feel they are in the picture themselves."
Hollywood's "disaster epic" producers and directors have seen Imax and expressed interest in using it, Ferguson says. "But until we can promise them more theatres, we have to move slowly. What we really have to do is make the most of what we're doing now."
It took the 67-year-old director 20 months to film and edit the 60 scenes that take "American Years" from Colonial to contemporary times. It opened to the public April 30 with hourly showings from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Tickets are priced at $3.50 for adults and $2 for children under 18.

Beggars Are Disappearing

By PAUL CHUTKOW
Associated Press Writer
NEW DELHI, India (AP) —

The outstretched hand of the beggar is no longer a familiar sight here in India's capital. The thousands of lepers, ragged children and others who used to work on foreigners and better-off Indians for their bare subsistence have all but disappeared from downtown streets under the pressure of a Delhi administration crackdown on begging.

In the past year, nearly 5,000 beggars have been arrested and thousands more have fled to other cities or to the villages they had abandoned for the promise of the city.

The crackdown is part of an eight-month-old drive to clean up the capital and turn it into a model modern city, in part by bulldozing slums, moving lower class housing outside the city and beautifying the streets.

Critics charge that the entire approach of the federally controlled Delhi administration is cosmetic, removing the symbols of poverty without giving much attention or feeling to poor people or the causes of their plight.

But P.C. Kumar, the administration's joint director of social welfare, says Delhi is making "good progress" with the age-old problem of what to do with beggars.

"We are doing our best to see there is not a beggar on the road," Kumar said in a recent interview. "I don't think you can find a beggar very easily in Delhi today."

The same cannot be said of most large Indian cities, including Bombay, which recently moved thousands of beggars out of the city without arresting them. In a few weeks most were back.

"Of course driving him away is not solving the beggar problem. He'll just go elsewhere," Kumar said.

"Our answer is to put them in jail, I mean a certified institution, a beggars' home. We consider begging a social problem rather than a crime so we don't call them jails," he went on.

"In Delhi's nine certified institutions we try to determine a beggar's acumen, his strengths, and then we put him to work, to sort of rehabilitate him.

"Many, but not most, of the beggars have physical infirmities and we see that they get medical care," Kumar said. "Those who don't have limbs are put in what we call training-cum-production centers where the handicapped are kept. "Lepers are kept in a different place because of the disease and beggars' children are sent to a special home," he said.

Kumar said that in the beggars' homes many learn a trade which enables them to earn a living after serving the one-to-three years term the anti-begging act prescribes. "The problem is many of them just don't want to work."

First Grade To Perform

The Bottle Cap, Coffee Can, Butter Bean Band made up of members of Anna Thomas' first grade will perform in the Wahl-Coates Auditorium Wednesday at 9:30 p.m.

The program grew out of a unit of study on music and rhythm taught by ECU student teacher Sharon Hawkins Ms. Thomas said. Instruments were made by the children themselves from household items. Included in the program will be children's favorites like "The Little White Duck," country western tunes like "Gloom, Despair, and Agony," and pop songs like "How Sweet It Is."

They will hula to "The Little Grass Shack" in homemade grass skirts and leis, and will march to "You're A Grand Old Flag." The program will intersperse with the children's versions of several tv commercials.

The highlight of the program will remain a surprise, Mrs. Thomas said. Invited besides parents and kindergarten through sixth graders to Wahl-Coates are ECU and Greenville City School personnel and the general public.

Grad Received Degree, Honor

RALEIGH — Miss Deborah Ann Briley was graduated from N. C. State University Saturday. She received the B. A. degree in speech communication.

She was awarded the honor of being the outstanding student in the Speech Communication Department.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Ann Harris Briley of Raleigh and the late Lt. Col. James L. Briley and granddaughter of Mrs. Ruth Hargett Harris of Greenville.

PERCY FOREMAN says it takes talent to be a defense lawyer. (UPI Photo)

Percy Foreman Says Courage Key Ingredient

By RONALD L. LITTLEPAGE HOUSTON (UPI) — Percy Foreman, the free-wheeling attorney who has lost only one client to the electric chair, figures anybody can be a prosecutor but it takes talent to be a defense lawyer.

"It doesn't take long for a prosecuting attorney to learn a few trick questions," he said in an interview. "I could make a first class prosecuting attorney out of any 12th grade high school student without him ever attending a law school."

At 73 with silver hair, Foreman is just as fiery and confident as ever.

"I may not be right, but I'm never wrong," said the man who built his reputation defending more than 1,000 accused murderers — he quit keeping count — including socialite Candace Mossler and James Earl Ray, the man convicted of assassinating Martin Luther King.

Only one of his clients went to the electric chair — "you can't win 'em all" — and only about 50 wound up behind bars.

One of his secrets, he says, is strict obedience from his clients.

"If you have to take the time to explain to every client why he should do this or why he should do something else, hell, it limits your ability to represent other people," he said. "It takes the time you could be spending on other cases."

"I don't waste any time. I'm very demanding. I tell them what to do and if they want to know why, I tell them. 'By God, because I said so.' People don't like me very much while I'm representing them, but most are happy when the cases are over."

Foreman said if he ever had time to write a book it would be on how to hire a lawyer.

"The public in general seems to have the impression that if the man has a law license, he knows everything any other lawyer knows, which is not true."

"But you can't make a defense lawyer that way."

Foreman has no plans to retire. He likes to say, "I'll die in a courtroom."

He simply likes his job.

"If I didn't get paid for it, I would do it for nothing," he said. "I'm old enough to retire if I wanted to, but I don't know where I could go or what I could do where I would have a sense of helping people or as much satisfaction in doing something that I think makes my life count."

"I think next to the desire to want to live, to preserve our life, the desire to make it mean something is the second most fundamental instinct in human nature. Everyday I have a chance to help somebody. Everyday there's something."

Foreman is as large in life as he is in legend.

His 6-4, 230-pound frame spills over the large leather chair that sits in his cluttered downtown office. He greets visitors with a hearty handshake and powerful glances. He has a great bulbous nose and tiny eyes that dance with laughter one moment and pierce the next.

The tales that make him famous are numerous and they add to his presence when he enters a courtroom — a presence that makes opposing prosecutors nervous and juries pay attention.

He has defended the famous and obscure, winning national headlines in sensational criminal cases.

He also made his mark in divorce cases, winning one client $6.5 million in cash and $3 million in oil wells, stocks, real estate and art objects.

He quit school at the age of 14 "because I knew everything they could teach me."

At 16, he cornered the shoe shine market in his East Texas hometown of Livingston and branched out into a bill collection agency.

He is a self-made millionaire from real estate wheeling and dealing and has accepted fees from clients ranging from old refrigerators, rifles, rugs, mattresses and jewelry to a warehouse full of juke boxes.

Foreman and his German-born wife, Marguerite, live in a River Oaks estate in Houston with their 18-year-old daughter. An adopted son is a deputy sheriff in nearby Galveston.

Foreman at times has been in trouble with the law himself.

He was acquitted on charges of adultery and operating a policy racket. He has paid fines for letting the weeds grow too high on his property and he once shelled out for 122 parking tickets. He spent over a week in court fighting a drunken driving charge and lost.

Last fall he was indicted on charges of obstructing justice in connection with wiretapping charges against the two sons of the late oil billionaire, H.L. Hunt.

Last month, Nelson Hunt and two others pleaded no contest and were fined $1,000 each. Charges were dropped against W. Herbert Hunt and Foreman and two other co-defendants were granted separate trials. Their cases are still pending.

When Foreman is before a jury, his client is overshadowed and it's Foreman who is on trial. It's a form of theatre and he's been known to cry, pray, threaten, act like a hayseed or quote Shakespeare.

"To be a good defense attorney, there are certain qualities you must have from birth," Foreman said. "In the first place, courage in the courtroom is more important than brains. If I were hiring a lawyer and had to choose between one that was all brains and one that was all guts, I would take the guts."

"All a trial is is group selling and it's the hardest kind of selling. It's the selling of a concept — of your client's point of view."

"People ask me how many murder cases I've tried and I tell them I've been tried in more than a thousand because I think the lawyer is more on trial than the defendant. For everything the defendant says in a courtroom the lawyer says at least a hundred times as much."

Foreman began practicing law in the late 1920s after a stint as a lecturer while attending University of Texas Law School. He is sure and confident in the trade he has practiced for over five decades.

ESC Taking Fraud Action

In an effort to control fraud the Employment Security Commission (ESC) of North Carolina is sending out forms NCU1-528 a request for earning information form in its Benefit Payment Control operations.

Forms NCU1-528 are generated by a computerized program. Claim records are initially screened to prevent the sending of attached claimants. Claimants with earnings that would reduce the Weekly Benefit Amounts would be eliminated in this process. Some would in effect be mailed for claimants who have filed attached claims and whose wages have been reported by their employers at the time of their layoff.

Individual forms will be sent to the employer. In businesses which receive 100 or less $28 forms the ESC requests that at least 25 per cent of these be screened. Businesses which receive more than 100 of the $28 forms are requested to screen a proportionately higher amount than 25 per cent.

Won't Escort Magna Carta

WASHINGTON (AP) — An original copy of the 761-year old Magna Carta goes on public display in the U.S. Capitol for one year, beginning June 3.

The document is being sent to the United States as England's bicentennial gift.

A delegation of 25 American congressmen will accept the document in a London ceremony next week, but Speaker Carl Albert said Monday they will not bring it back on the airplane with them.

"The British have told me the Royal Air Force and not the Speaker of the House is going to be entrusted with bringing over the Magna Carta," Albert told reporters.

The congressional delegation, which leaves for London Sunday, is the one the House briefly refused to approve on grounds it was a junket. The House reconsidered and approved the trip after much criticism from House leaders.

The copy to be displayed in the Capitol's rotunda is one of only four remaining originals of the charter that English barons forced King John to approve June 15, 1215.

It broke the absolute power of English kings and set out basic rights of man that became fundamentals of English law and the U.S. Constitution — even though the barons secured those rights primarily for themselves.

Among other things, it prohibited special taxes without the barons' approval, provided for trial by a jury of peers and required freedom for the church.

It also provided for election of 25 barons as guardians of the charter, considered a forerunner of parliamentary government.

South's rebid of four hearts was the action of a man for whom all things go right. Actually, it was not as much a stretch as the point-count would suggest, for the hand had tremendous playing potential — a smattering of the right cards in dummy could easily result in game.

West did not relish the prospect of having to make the opening lead. Since declarer's hearts rated to be solid, a trump lead might

Jack Le Seur Will Speak To Arts Council

Jack Le Seur, of the North Carolina Arts Council, will be in attendance tonight for the meeting of the newly established Pitt-Greenville Arts Council.

The meeting will take place at 7 p.m. in the A. J. Fletcher Music Center, East Carolina University.

Le Seur will discuss problems related to financing the local arts council and fund raising methods for all local arts organizations associated with the council.

All area arts and crafts organizations which can qualify as tax-exempt corporations are encouraged to attend this meeting. Representatives wishing additional information are asked to contact Dr. Charles W. Moore at the School of Music, telephone 756-0562.

In 1970 U.S. land area exceeded 3.5 million square miles and the population density was 57.5 persons per square mile.

Pitt Students Are Graduates

Pitt County students who graduated from Meredith College May 16 are as follows: Marjorie Anne Barnette and Marla Tugwell of Farmville; Bettina King, Nancy McLawhorn May, and Susan Grace Merritt of Ayden and Patricia Lou Cavendish and Carolyn Howard of Greenville.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A strange day when there can be an unusual amount of conversation between persons in many ways, so it is necessary not to believe all that is told you. Doublecheck facts, figures, and any other type of statements made, since errors in stating or interpreting can be rife now. There is need for this extra precaution.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Work privately on your true aims. Use care in the handling of social affairs and don't irk your friends in any way.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Handle those outside activities awaiting your attention, then you can get into personal matters of importance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Some new project needs to be discussed with a bigwig before you get into it. Study a new contact's ideas, select the best.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Think out how to have more rapport with mate. Then get busy on that new ambition that means much to you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get into the basic issues in that relationship with a partner and don't rely on what appears on the surface for best results.

VRGMO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Schedule work for maximum accomplishment. See what co-workers have to suggest. Follow the best suggestions and forget the rest.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plan in a.m. how to make your affairs work more efficiently, then get to the work required. Improve understanding with mate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Give your home needed attention, then enjoy other activities. Avoid one who is using you for own purposes. Show you have will power, character.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Schedule work to get much done. Listen to kin's suggestions. Plan to entertain some at home in p.m.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Financial affairs should be handled early in the day. Get data needed to do a fine job. Listen to what an adviser has to suggest.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get into personal duties early, then go after practical aims with gusto. Favorites come easily your way and you make big headway.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get private backing needed to improve business, then attend to personal aim. Get good results throughout. A charming, social p.m.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be a fascinating person with many ideas of an unusual nature who should have the finest education possible so these traits can be put in operation to the greatest advantage, otherwise this could become a most disappointing life due to lack of theoretical and practical knowledge. There is no limit to the depth of thought here, so handle your gifted progeny most carefully. Religion a must here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Our new Apple Turnover is not a piece of cake.

If you thought the Rebel Yell was a scream, wait till you get a taste of our new Apple Turnover, a gravity-defying ride you have to see to believe. It's just one of our new rides at Kings Dominion this year and we recommend it for strong stomachs only. If the Apple Turnover is too tough for you we have 25 other exciting rides including the new Kilimanjaro Express, a most unusual trip through a 60-foot man-made mountain. Our monorail through Lion Country Safari has a rare addition, too: 10 Bengal tigers joining Africa's wildest animals in their natural habitat. At Kings Dominion we've got a lot more in store for you this year.

Why it makes more sense to lease a Mercedes-Benz than any other make of luxury car sold in America. Even after 5 years, a Mercedes-Benz holds its value better than any other make of luxury car. That saves you money when you lease. Because a car that retains its value better, is a better value at the end of the lease. The result: Lower expenses for us, lower leasing costs for you. Come in and talk to our leasing specialist. See why it makes more sense to lease a Mercedes-Benz than any other make of luxury car.
