Kissinger Indicates Kremlin Is Tempted

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told North Atlantic foreign ministers today that Soviet leaders are under some of their ideologists to use their growing military strength, according to a diplomat who attended the meeting.

But Kissinger was said to have added that in his opinion the Soviet Union is not bent on world domination.

Kissinger was the first speaker at a working session of NATO ministers that has been clouded by concern over the U.S. secretary's campaign-weakened effectiveness.

Kissinger said Soviet military strength is the result of long-range planning and not a reaction to current events, the diplomat reported.

The diplomat said that Kissinger added the warning that since the Soviets are strong, they are tempted to use their strength by the ideologists among them.

This situation, Kissinger reportedly said, is something the alliance will have to learn to live with.

Kissinger was said to have presented his position as a continuing American policy, and not just a policy of the Ford administration.

The source said Kissinger emphasized the importance of Western economic strength, noting that the main aid the Communist world has given to the poorer countries is military aid. There should never be another Angola, Kissinger was reported saying.

West German Foreign Minister Hans Dietrich Genscher told newsmen after the morning session that the level of Soviet armament goes beyond Soviet defense needs. He cited the growth of the Russian navy as a threat to the ocean links between America and Europe.

A senior U.S. official admitted to reporters during the secretary of state's flight from Washington on Wednesday that the U.S. presidential election campaign had slowed Kissinger's diplomatic initiatives, particularly toward the Russians.

He said European officials think that campaign attacks on Kissinger by President Ford's opponents may have weakened the secretary's ability to carry out policy.

But the official said Kissinger will keep U.S. foreign policy on a steady course.

He added that the significance of Kissinger's stated desire to retire by January has been overblown, since the secretary had said months ago that he left eight years in office was enough.

One More Set Of Buyers For Eastern Belt In '76

By TOM BAINES Reflector Staff Writer

The Eastern Tobacco Belt will operate with 25 sets of buyers this year, compared to 24 last year, warehousemen were told here this morning.

Approximately 100 warehousemen attended the Annual Meeting of the Eastern Carolina Warehouse Association Thursday morning in Greenville.

J. W. York, regional director of the Tobacco Division of Agriculture Marketing Service (AMS) of USDA of Washington, D.C. discussed the various problems in the tobacco and warehouse industries. York mentioned proposals for the coming seasons including overselling by the warehousemen and redesignation procedures.

Lionel Edwards, area director of the Tobacco Division of AMS of USDA of Raleigh told warehousemen that several changes in tobacco grades proposed for the 1976 season including the addition of grade M for a mixture of primings of lugs and cutters and the elimination of seldomly used grades.

Edwards explained that the upcoming tobacco season will have 56 sets of buyers distributed throughout South Carolina, North Carolina, and Virginia. The Eastern Belt, which includes Greenville and Farmville will have 25 sets of buyers. Last year the Eastern Belt had only 24 sets of buyers.

He asked the cooperation of the warehousemen in trying to eliminate excessive sand in the tobacco and urged them to ask farmers to make every effort to cut down on the amount of sand in the tobacco.

Jim Sineath, assistant general manager of Stabilization, told the gathering that last year Stabilization bought 259 million pounds, or 18 per cent of the total tobacco crop. On the Eastern Belt alone, 17 per cent of the total tobacco crop went to Stabilization and the average price paid was $88 per 100 pounds.

Sineath also pointed out that problem of sand and explained that the cost factor of cleaning the tobacco and the processing equipment damage caused by excessive sand is costing the tobacco industry much money. Harding Sugg of Greenville, president of the Eastern Carolina Warehouse Association presided at the meeting. Members of the Coastal Plains Association also attended the meeting.

Welfare Costs Up 21.4 Per Cent In 1975

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's bill for family welfare spending rose 21.4 per cent last year to a record high of $24.8 billion, the government says.

The figure covers the cost of the federal-state Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) plan, the federal Medicaid program, and state and local general assistance, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare reported Wednesday.

HEW also said that in January, for the first time since May 1971, the size of state and local welfare rolls edged past one million. These programs, which are not federally funded, had 1,002,629 recipients in 44 states, HEW said.

In addition, HEW said that more than 11.4 million persons received AFDC in January. That program is jointly funded by the federal government and 28 states.

AFDC gained 57,456 persons from December to January, an increase of one-half of one per cent. Nearly 42,000 of them came from 10,316 families headed by unemployed fathers, HEW said.

There are now 621,700 AFDC recipients in families headed by jobless fathers. Last July, there were 495,972.

HEW said seven states accounted for 70 per cent of this increase. They were: California, up 20,442 to 172,920; Ohio, up 6,672 to 81,885; Michigan, up 32,791 to 81,140; New York, up 11,458 to 32,236; Pennsylvania, up 5,568 to 27,904; Massachusetts, up 3,765 to 20,317; and Washington, up 6,948 to 20,822.

HEW said the seven states with the largest number of general assistance recipients were New York, 245,794; Pennsylvania, 149,258; Illinois, 91,996; Michigan, 77,343; Ohio 65,770; New Jersey, 57,304; and California, 55,118.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

CANCER INFORMATION

1-800-672-0943—This is the toll-free number one may use to call in a question to the Cancer Information Service which opens today to serve North Carolinians.

The Service, located at the Duke University Comprehensive Cancer Center, will be manned by staff members and trained volunteers. The N. C. Division of the American Cancer Society is a joint sponsor of the project. Laymen who dial the service will get physician approved answers, Dr. Diane McGrath, director of the service, said. Health care professionals who call will be put in touch with cancer specialists.

The service hopes to get across the early detection, not synonymous with death message, and to provide cancer patients and their families resources for transportation, financial, and emotional help. Some callers may want to talk to someone about what they suspect to be a warning sign of some type of cancer.

The phone will be manned in person from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays, and anyone who calls during other hours will have his call returned during the next working day, Dr. McGrath said.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

BIRD WATCHING

In response to a Hotline appeal for information about a bird-watching club in this area, Dr. Phillip Adler of the Greenville Chapter of the Sierra Club reports that bird-watching is one of the Sierra Club's many activities. The group meets each second Monday at 8 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church. Interested persons may call Mrs. Ruth Trevathan at 752-3365, he said.

Just Frustrated

COLUMBIA (AP) — A 26-year-old Columbia man, recently fired from two jobs and described as "anti-establishment" and "frustrated" by his brother and a friend, was reported in "stable but guarded" condition in a Columbia hospital Wednesday night after he set himself and his car afire.

Adam David Holoman, who said he wanted to "resign from the United States of America," ignited a fire inside his car at the capitol as about 185 policemen and firemen watched.

Holoman suffered second and third degree burns on his face, arms, shoulders, chest and back when the inside of his car exploded into flames.

Reelection Bid For Rountree

Representative H. Horton Rountree today announced his candidacy for reelection to one of the two eighth district seats in the North Carolina House of Representatives, subject to the Democratic Primary on August 17. The eighth house district is comprised of Greene and Pitt Counties.

In making his announcement Rountree said, "I wish to take this opportunity to thank my fellow Pitt and Greene Counties for having given me the honor and privilege of representing them during the past nine years in the North Carolina Legislature. Our two counties are related economically, politically and socially, and family ties between the two run deep." (Continued on page 12)

Old West End Fire Station Is Proposed For Recreation Use

By JERRY RAYNOR Reflector Staff Writer

A request that the Old West End Fire Station be considered as a possible recreation site for the Higgs Community was presented to the Recreation and Parks Commission Meeting last night.

Two representatives from Higgs Community, Carey F. House and Mrs. Donna Whitley, gave facts and comments to commission members.

House presented a rough estimate of $21,450 as the minimum initial cost for a one-year operation. This estimate includes a $4,000 item for repairs to the fire station building, which House commented "may be too low an estimate. It would probably be more accurate to say about $10,000."

Mrs. Whitley, after telling commission members about the success of the recently held first annual Higgs Community Fair "attended by over 300 persons," touched on the need for a place where young mothers can take their children to play and where senior citizens can gather for companionship.

"The economic status of the families in this neighborhood, which is a low income neighborhood, is such that they cannot afford to join clubs that have recreational facilities such as they need for themselves and their children," Mrs. Whitley remarked.

House said he understands the fire station building was marked for demolition, and added he felt putting the building to use as a recreation facility would be practical and that the "building is ideal for many uses for the community."

Commission members informed the two representatives that while they had compassion for their desire to have a community center for Higgs Neighborhood, that it would be up to the City Council to study the request and make a decision. Commission member Rufus Huggins, who is a resident of the community, noted that a community center there would also serve the Pecan Grove neighborhood.

The Higgs representative indicated they will now prepare a presentation to take before City Council in the near future.

Mrs. Peg Henderson, who has been active in a number of the city's recreation programs, and particularly the exercise program, received a special (Continued on page 12)

Death And Flooding As Typhoon Hit Philippines

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — Typhoon Olga swept across the Philippines' eastern coast today, causing seven deaths in the worst flooding in the Manila area in 30 years, authorities said.

At least 10,000 persons were forced from their homes in neighboring Quezon City after the storm dumped more than 16 inches of rain on the city. Tens of thousands of commuters were stranded in Manila and emergency refugee centers were set up in churches and schools.

Navy frogmen rescued 71 persons from a swamped residential area just outside Manila. Ten persons were reported missing in the metropolitan area.

More than 1,500 persons were trapped by six feet of water in their homes in suburban Mandaluyong. President Ferdinand Marcos declared the Manila area and five Luzon island provinces to be in a state of emergency and ordered all but essential businesses closed in Manila and Quezon City.

Communications to many areas outside Manila were cut and officials said they had no reports on damage outside the metropolitan area.

Officials said the worst flooding came in the neighborhood of 25 flood control projects that workers were trying to finish when Typhoon Olga dumped record rains on the city.

Weathermen said Olga remained almost stationary today and predicted "stormy weather tonight and tomorrow" in the same area.

Weather bureau chief Roman L. Kintin said 16.1 inches of rain fell on Quezon City in 24 hours, topping a Manila City record of 15.9 inches set in July 1972 when the country was hit by a major flood.

The Red Cross appealed to the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID) and to local residents for emergency food supplies.

Another typhoon, Pamela, swept through the Pacific area on Tuesday, killing 10 persons on the islands of Truk Atoll in the Marianas.

On Guam, Pamela sent more than 2,100 persons fleeing from their homes for shelter in schools and other public buildings.

Pitt Memorial Hospital To Receive Funds From Service League

The Greenville Service League, at its annual business and luncheon meeting, voted to provide funds to be used for Pitt Memorial Hospital. The money will be used to purchase a bipolar cauterer, which will be used in the operating room and especially for obstetrics.

The meeting of the league was held Wednesday at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Other highlights of the meeting, which ended the league's 38th year of service to the Greenville community, were the installation of new officers, the presentation of the Ormond Service Cup and the President's Tray and the president's annual report.

Officers installed to serve for the next two years are: Mrs. Leon Moore, president; Mrs. Jack Whichard, first vice president; Mrs. Robert VanVeld, second vice president; and Mrs. Don White, treasurer.

Continuing in office for the next year are Mrs. Bernard Vick, recording secretary and Mrs. William Sneed, corresponding secretary. Committee chairmen were recognized by Mrs. Moore.

The Ormond Service Cup, which is given to the member who has shown an outstanding willingness to work, has a variety of activities in which she has participated and has displayed her usefulness to the community, was presented to Mrs. Sam Price by Mrs. Morris Brody.

The President's Tray is given for outstanding and conscientious service as a league and board member. The award was presented by Mrs. J. B. Cummings to Mrs. Donald Bailey.

Mrs. Leon Moore

The past president's pin was presented to outgoing president Mrs. Biggs by Mrs. T. I. Wagner. Special recognition was given to Mrs. C. W. Harvey Jr. and Mrs. J. Hampton Thomas, past presidents of the league, Mrs. E. C. Wilkerson, the only charter members who is still on active status and to the Advisory Board.

Mrs. Biggs announced that a special memorial gift for the new hospital chapel had been presented to the league by the Advisory Board.

Members giving over 100 hours of service during the past year were cited including: Mrs. Robert Abbott; Mrs. P. K. Andresen; Mrs. Donald Bailey; Mrs. Norman Bennett; Mrs. John Biggs; Mrs. Charles Brown; Mrs. Clay Burnette; Mrs. Herbert Carter; Mrs. Donald Cherry; Mrs. Gerald Crane;

Mrs. E. R. Edwards; Mrs. Charles Gilbert; Mrs. James Goes; Mrs. P. L. Goodson; Mrs. James Graham; Mrs. W. R. Guice; Mrs. Tom Haigwood; Mrs. F. F. Hendrix; Mrs. William Heymann; Mrs. William Howard; Mrs. Frank Layne; Mrs. Boyd Lee; Mrs. Henry Leslie; Mrs. Donald McGlohon; Mrs. Leon Moore; Mrs. A. M. Mumford; Mrs. Lawton Nisbet; Mrs. Norwin

Pierce; Mrs. Charles Pope; Mrs. Sam Price; Mrs. Bill Reading; Mrs. John Shannonhouse; Mrs. M. T. Simpson; Mrs. William Sneed; Mrs. Charles Snell; Mrs. Charles Stevens; Mrs. W. C. Taylor Jr.; Mrs. Pat Thomas; Mrs. Ed Turcotte; Mrs. Robert VanVeld; Mrs. Bernard Vick; Mrs. Ercell Webb; Mrs. Jack Whichard; Mrs. Charles Wilkerson Jr.; and Mrs. E. C. Wilkerson.

Members having perfect attendance included: six years, Mrs. P. L. Goodson; five years, Mrs. Donald Bailey; four years, Mrs. Charles Pope and Mrs. John Shannonhouse; three years, Mrs. Percy Cox and Mrs. Frank Longino; two years, Mrs. John Biggs, Mrs. James Goes, Mrs. James Graham, Mrs. Tom Haigwood, Mrs. Knott Proctor Jr., Mrs. Allen Taylor, Mrs. Ed Turcotte and Mrs. Bernard Vick;

One year, Mrs. Richard Capwell, Mrs. Charles Gilbert, Mrs. W. R. Guice, Mrs. Frank Layne, Mrs. William McConnell, Mrs. Donald McGlohon, Mrs. Leon Moore, Mrs. A. M. Mumford, Mrs. M. T. Simpson, Mrs. Charles Snell and Mrs. W. C. Taylor Jr.

The president's report included a summary of the civic activities in which the league has been involved during the past year. One hundred 11 members have given 10,442 hours of volunteer service.

Mrs. John Trotman of "The Daily Reflector" was welcomed as a guest by Mrs. Biggs.

A social hour followed the business meeting. Mrs. Ralph Garrett and Mrs. Walter Harrington poured punch. Serving as chairman of the luncheon was Mrs. Whichard, assisted by Mrs. Edward C. Smith, Mrs. Burnette, Mrs. Charles Carter, Mrs. B. H. Barrett, Mrs. VanVeld, Mrs. Crane, Mrs. Vick, Mrs. Capwell and Mrs. Karl Faser.

Entertainment for the luncheon "These Hysterical Minutes" was provided by 12 members of the league who presented the skit, which was written and directed by Mrs. Charles Stevens.

ANNUAL AWARDS . . . were presented at the Service League's luncheon and business meeting. Mrs. Morris Brody, left, presented the Ormond Service Cup to Mrs. Sam Price and the President's Tray was presented to Mrs. Donald Bailey by Mrs. J. B. Cummings, right.

Dear Abby

Blessed Be The Backyard Playground

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Some people seem to think that just because we have a large family, our yard is a public playground.

At this moment I have 16 kids playing ball in my backyard, and only seven of them are mine. My problem is that the kids aren't allowed to play in other yards because they ruin the grass and fall in the flowers. I really don't mind, but it wouldn't hurt some of the other parents to let the kids play in their yard once in a while.

At night, the kids ask me to turn on my yard lights so they can play after supper. The yelling and the screaming can be heard for blocks.

When, oh when, will I have peace and quiet again?

MOM WITH PUBLIC PLAYGROUND

DEAR MOM: Too soon. Count your blessings, Mom. You're lucky your children are occupied in a healthy, wholesome sport. You don't have to worry about where they are, what they're doing and with whom. Anybody can raise grass. It takes special people to raise children.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married to a good-looking cross-country truck driver for 10 years. I'm not the suspicious type, but Friday night he came off the road with two long scratches on his left hip. They are fairly deep scratches, yet neither his shorts or his trousers were ripped. Rather peculiar, right?

When I asked him where the scratches came from, he said they were probably from a feather in one of the motel beds.

Now, Abby, I'd like to believe my husband, but do they still have feather bedding in modern motels? And could anybody get scratches like this from a feather?

NOT DUMB

DEAR NOT: It's unlikely that the scratches came from a feather. It was probably the whole chick. Keep your eyes open.

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and my fiancée is 21. Mary (not her real name) was raised from infancy by her aunt, whom she calls "Mother." She never explained the reason for this, but Mary's real mother, who is this aunt's sister, has suddenly come into the picture, and she sometimes introduces Mary as "my daughter." Not that it matters, but Mary is the image of her real mother.

However, Mary never calls her real mother "Mother"; she calls her "Aunt," which is very confusing.

When I introduce Mary, her "real" mother and her aunt to my family, how shall I introduce them?

I don't like to lie.

ON THE SPOT

DEAR ON: Mary has the right to address both her mother and her aunt any way she wishes, but you should explain to Mary that the discrepancy is confusing, so she should clarify the relationship.

DEAR ABBY: We have three children, ages 4, 8 and 10. Do you think my wife and I should sleep with our bedroom door closed or not?

YOUNG AT HEART

DEAR YOUNG: If you want company, keep it open. If you want privacy, keep it closed. If you want security, keep it LOCKED.

Books Presented To Local Library

The Pitt County Extension Homemakers Council Wednesday presented as a bicentennial contribution two copies of the book, "Treasure Trails in the USA" to Miss Elizabeth Copeland for the Sheppard Memorial Library and the Pitt County Bookmobile.

"Treasure Trails in the USA" was published by the National Extension Homemakers Council.

It contains maps of each state and pertinent facts, photographs and lists of historical areas and sites least known about to help one travel through any state, finding points.

The presentation, made by Mrs. Lyles Russell, County Cultural Arts chairman, is one of the special 1976 activities of local Extension Homemakers according to Mrs. Sue B. May, home economics extension agent.

First Place TOPS Winner Is Recognized

WINSTON-SALEM—Mrs. Allison (Sue) Farmer of Greenville was awarded a trophy at the 13th annual meeting of State Recognition Day Friday and Saturday for Take Off Pounds Sensibly (TOPS) at the Hyatt House here.

Mrs. Farmer was first place in the third division for the entire state by losing 59 pounds in 1975. She continued to lose weight and reached her goal in 1976. She has gone from a size 20 dress to a size 10 by losing 66 1/4 pounds.

Mrs. Farmer said that by losing weight she no longer needs medication for high blood pressure. Mrs. Farmer is a local beautician.

Mrs. Bill Tedder, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Parsley and Mrs. Howard Williams attended the convention.

there, where she is a Mother Of The Church, an usher, a pastor's aide and a member of the Mission Circle. She is also a member of Evening Star Savings Club.

Candidates for the NAACP Pitt County Mother of The Year were nominated by church pastors throughout the county, with the final selection made by a NAACP committee.

First runner-up for the title was Mrs. Margie McNeil of Bethel and Mrs. Mollie Fleming of Greenville was second runner-up.

Mrs. Thomas will represent Pitt County on Sunday, May 23 at Memorial Auditorium in Raleigh, where the state NAACP Mother of The Year will be chosen. Guest speaker for the occasion will be Hon. Herbert Bell Shaw of Wilmington, a Worshipful Grandmaster and a Senior Bishop of the AME Zion Church.

Homecoming Plans Ready

Sunday May 23 People's Baptist Temple will celebrate its 14th Anniversary. The church will celebrate its Homecoming with an attendance drive of 1,000 for Sunday School Services.

"One thousand is a tremendously high figure. Yet, it is completely within the realm of possibility to have this attendance. This figure represents potential Christians, Sunday School teachers, bus workers, choir members and Christian workers," Pastor Barry Bagwell said.

Lester Maddox, former governor of Georgia will be the guest speaker at the 10:30 a.m. service. He will be accompanied by the Getsemane Quartet.

Maddox, who served as the governor of Georgia from 1966-1972 was a former restaurant owner and businessman. Maddox is a member of the North Atlanta Baptist Church. He is York Rite, a Scottish Rite Mason, and a member of the Moose.

Buffalo Bill Carson of the Buffalo Bill movies will present his testimony and perform several sharp-shooting tricks.

Report Thefts From 2 Cars

Electronic equipment valued at $150 was reported taken from vehicles in two incidents reported to Greenville Police yesterday.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Donna A. Lynch of 1607 Chestnut St. reported at 5 p.m. that a tape player, two speakers and one tape, valued at $120, had been stolen from her car sometime Tuesday.

Cannon said the second incident was reported by Paulette Hardy, who said an FM converter, valued at $30, was removed from her car while the vehicle was parked at Pitt Memorial Hospital between 6:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. yesterday.

Investigation of the reports is continuing, the chief said.

Mark-A-Thon

The Greenville Police Department and the Pitt County Sheriff's Department will hold a "Mark-A-Thon" Saturday from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. at Pitt Plaza to mark identifying numbers on FM converters, citizens band radios, tape players and other electronic equipment in vehicles.

Officials of the two law enforcement agencies said special identifying numbers will be engraved on the equipment and the items will be marked with an ink that is invisible under normal lighting conditions.

The purpose of the program is to enable officers to more readily identify items stolen from vehicles and hopefully to prevent such thefts.

A similar marking program conducted two weeks ago resulted in officers marking some 111 pieces of electronic equipment valued conservatively at $15,000.

Spokesmen said individuals wishing to avail themselves of the service should have radios, tape players and converters already disconnected from the vehicle in order to speed up the operation.

Looking To The Next Biennium

Hardly has the Legislature ended its work on the 1976-77 state budget than the attention of the governors office, the research people and committees must turn to the next biennium.

The next budget must be submitted to the Legislature when it convenes in January, only a little more than a year away. By then there will be a new governor and undoubtedly some new faces in the Legislature due to the November election.

One thing we hope will be kept in mind by officials on the local campus, the UNC Board of Governors and the budget makers is that the undergraduate and graduate campus of East Carolina University has been left out of capital improvements for four years.

It's true that the university has received a large amount of money for the development of its medical school—a project that we think is sorely needed.

Nevertheless all of that money will go to the medical school solely for that purpose. In the meantime all of the other higher education institutions in the state system have benefited from a bond issue which was approved by the voters, and Chapel Hill is soon to receive an additional $32 million from sale of the utilities system in Chapel Hill.

Some $3.8 million has been moved from the present fiscal year's budget to 1977-78 to construct an additional bed tower at Pitt Memorial Hospital for the Medical School. That's a necessary project and should be funded. But capital improvements projects on the main campus of the university should be funded, too. The undergraduate and graduate facilities must improve, if the university base supporting the Medical School is to be maintained.

Back To The Think Tank For Watchers

Jerry Brown wins Democratic primary in Maryland; Jimmy Carter just squeaks by in Michigan; President Ford wins big in Michigan and Maryland.

Those results send all the political experts back to the think tanks. It's that kind of year as voters state-by-state continue to search for a leader who will restore integrity in government.

THIS AFTERNOON

Trying Assembly Session

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — The May budget session of the North Carolina General Assembly proved to be a particularly trying one for most legislators.

The private offices, back halls and coffee shops have been the scenes of more complaining than usual by members who felt frustrated by the time pressures, the hardball politics being played, and the system whereby most members were left out of the decisions until finally asked to vote approval so the session could adjourn and go home.

A few random samplings of legislative grousing will illustrate the problem.

"I know now why they called it a mini-session; that stands for minimum input from members," said a veteran member of the House of Representatives.

Hams Gone

"They asked us to come down a couple of weeks early and butcher the hog. We did. Then when the session opened we discovered they had given away the hams and left livermush," complained a member of the House Base Budget Committee.

The reference is to the hard cutting done by that committee, only to have the money spent for new or expanded programs.

"I want to know who these leaders are who are making all the decisions," fussed a veteran senator, who considered himself a leader, upon reading a newspaper report that the leadership had reached agreement on the pay raise question.

Two major problems plagued this assembly, and a host of legislators are vowing never to allow such elements to combine again:

1. Legislators seeking re-election face an August 17 primary, and several also are geared up for higher races; severe pressure was exerted to move rapidly through the session's business.

To do that, both House and Senate reversed the usual procedure in which ideas and proposals are percolated up from the bottom, through committees, onto the floor, and into law. The proposals were generated at the top and pushed downward for hasty approval.

Things were changed overnight; nothing would stick; members felt betrayed at times and blackmailed at others. And the rapidly worsening ill-relationship between House and Senate leaders only made the problem worse.

2. Lt. Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr., is running for governor; House Speaker James C. Green is running for lieutenant governor; and two representatives—Carl Stewart and Billy Watkins—are in a bitter fight for election as speaker of the house in the 1977-78 session.

Who Wins

In numerous instances, those ambitions emerged in putting forth proposals or opposing them—not on merit, but on the basis of who might benefit or be hurt; who might get credit — and votes.

"If I had not already filed for re-election, I'd just quit," one particularly able legislator complained angrily during the confused session. That person is on the important committees involved and is considered a member of the elite leadership group, but his first-hand look at the political jockeying and bitter feuding was upsetting.

A solution to the problems created by the May session must be carefully thought through by legislators, but already prominently mentioned are safeguards against allowing an assembly session and a campaign to run so closely together; changes in the method of choosing committee chairmen and other leadership people so that power would not be concentrated so completely; and guarantees that future sessions have sufficient time to allow membership participation in committee study and debate instead of proposals already written and agreed upon from the top being submitted for a rubber stamping.

REVIEWING HIS RECORD

Provocative Jerry Brown

BY SUSAN SWARD

Associated Press Writer SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Jerry Brown has been a political mix of liberal and conservative in 16 months as California governor. He has made few sweeping changes in state government, but he has made an impact in areas ranging from sex laws to education spending.

Brown, who put a dent in the Jimmy Carter bandwagon by beating him in Maryland's Democratic presidential primary on Tuesday, rarely affects people in a neutral way. He is often viewed as representing the best or the worst of the "new politics" in the United States.

A leader of people, Brown says, must set a tone. He talks a lot about "lowered expectations" and limits on what government can do for people. "I see nothing wrong with a creative pause," he says. Many columnists describe the 38-year-old governor as the most interesting politician in the country today. Provocative, flashy, bright, anti-big government, young, on the move, moving up.

But his foes say he has implemented a "politics of drift" in California since he took over from GOP presidential contender Ronald Reagan. They find him ambitious, cold, shallow, sanctimonious.

Much of the debate centers on the record of this tall, thin, animated politician who often tells reporters about his 16-hour-a-day, six-day work week and calls campaigning his idea of "a perfect day."

Brown, a former seminarian who is fond of Biblical quotes and philosophical dialogue, doesn't do much to clarify his record. He says he is not a sixpoint program man.

Brown's stance — offering more questions than answers — gives fuel to his critics. But he has retained his unprecedented high in popularity polls.

Brown, the son of former California Gov. Edmund G. "Pat" Brown, has taken a conservative tack on several grounds: keeping a no-new-taxes pledge and signing bills imposing mandatory prison terms for heroin pushers ad for the use of a gun in the commission of some crimes.

The state budget, now $11.8 billion, increased by 10.6 percent in Brown's first year in office. That compares to an average annual increase of 12.2 percent in the Reagan years. Brown worked with legislators last year to cut a proposed school finance bill from $220 to $115 million, then used his veto power to cut another $27 million. His finance department officials have testified against proposed spending increases for other social services, including Medi-Cal.

At the same time, he signed a bill sought by liberals abolishing a $40 million annual oil depletion allowance for major oil companies. He issued an executive order forbidding state-chartered savings and loan associations from redlining ghetto areas and denying loans to poor or members of minority groups.

He also pushed for a constitutional amendment, now on the June 8 ballot, which would make it possible to increase bank and corporation taxes on a majority rather than two-thirds legislative vote. And he signed bills liberalizing marijuana penalties and repealing sex laws used against homosexuals.

In his first year, Brown negotiated a landmark compromise law creating a farm labor board to supervise farmworker union elections in the state's $6 billion agriculture industry.

But that board is almost defunct now. Its funds have been cut off by rural legislators who think Brown and the board are biased toward Cesar Chavez' United Farm Workers.

On environmental issues, Brown has trod lightly, refusing so far to take a position on key coastline conservation legislation or a major nuclear safety initiative on the June 8 California ballot.

Brown has sidestepped taking a position on the initiative by saying he wants to see how three bills he has endorsed on nuclear safety proceed through the

Strength For Today

REVELATION IN TIME These are days when we need to remember the wise saying by Ralph Waldo Emerson that the great lesson of life is to believe what the years and centuries say against the judgment by the hours. Our disposition is to pass judgment on the basis of what the hours say. But these judgments will certainly be modified, if not reversed, by the passage of time.

A great preacher used to say that we judge God childishly in finding fault with the tapestries of His providences before they are finished on His loom. It is hard to believe that all things work together for good to them that love God, but the apostle Paul so declared, and the experience of believing men and women confirmed this.

"Make us to meet what is or is to be

With fervid welcome, knowing it is sent To serve us in some way full excellent,

Though we discern it all belatedly."

Debate On B-1 Bomber

It doesn't happen often, but now and then the United States Senate provides a forum for debate in the grand manner. We have been hearing such a debate off and on for the past three weeks. The question is: Resolved, that further funding of the B-1 bomber should be suspended.

Aeronautics. The gentlemanly foes are worthy of each other's steel. Proxmire has the affirmative side. After reading a couple of his speeches against the B-1, I was ready to agree: Funding should stop. But it is a measure of the antagonists' skill in advocacy that after reading Goldwater's rebuttals, I thought he had the better arguments: Press on!

It is a pity that the two senators are debating in a virtual vacuum. This is the kind of story that TV cannot possibly cover. Even the largest newspapers can barely nibble at the edges of the senators' give-and-take. Proxmire and Goldwater are speaking to a handful of colleagues who show up for the morning hour, and they are making their cases in the Congressional Record. The matter is much too important to be left at that.

Other Editors Say Hold Price Line

(Jacksonville Daily News)

The nation's bill for health care last year topped out at $118.5 billion, up 13.9 percent over 1974's $104 billion. This $14.5-billion growth was the largest dollar increase in history.

Interestingly—and maybe significantly—expenditures on dental care continued a long-term decline as a percentage of health care costs. According to the Social Security Administration, dental care in 1975 accounted for $7.5 billion, or 6.3 percent, of the health care total. This compares to 6.5 percent in 1974, 9.1 percent in 1971 and 10.1 percent in 1950.

Why is the dental care tail getting smaller while the total health care dog is getting bigger? The answer may be found in looking at the level of public funding of health care, suggests Dr. Robert B. Shira, president of the American Dental Association (ADA).

Currently, he points out, governmental bodies pay about 40 percent of the nation's total health care costs. Dentistry, however, is financed almost exclusively through the private sector, with only 5.5 percent of the total national dental bill coming from government funds.

At the same time, dentistry has managed to hold the price line. According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, dental fees have increased slightly less than average prices in the economy during the past seven years.

One reason for this is technology and increased productivity. The high-speed drill, for example, developed by the ADA and offered gratis to all dentists, has been comparable to adding the equivalent of 1,174 dentists, says University of Michigan economist Paul Feldstein.

But the primary reason, says Shira, is the system itself. "The private (dental) practitioner has none of the time-consuming administrative structures of a clinic, which is generally laden with paperwork and red tape."

The dental profession supports national health insurance programs if they can be devised to maximize the impact of federal funds on the nation's dental health, he says. Priorities should be given to care for children and emergency care for all, and public funds should be restricted to those who cannot afford to pay for health care themselves.

But above all, national health care programs should take full advantage of the economics and patient conveniences provided by the nation's existing private dental system which, claims Shira, has given the United States "unquestionably the best dental care and health level in the world."

Proxmire contends that the price is too high for the benefits that would be gained. Largely by reason of inflation, the cost per bomber has soared from $35 or $40 million, as of 1970, to an estimated $84.3 million today. This puts the projected cost of a fleet of 243 bombers somewhere between $20 and $25 billion.

The price would be much higher, as Proxmire sees it, if the Air Force had not kept reducing its design standards in an effort to keep the lid on. The prototypes now being tested will not fly as far, nor as fast, nor have the elaborate "avionics" first contemplated. Proxmire argues that these multiple billions will not buy much of a bomber. He urges that alternatives be considered—refitting the B-52s with more powerful engines, or putting our reliance in cruise missiles.

Goldwater disagrees totally. It is true, he con-

Ground Bone In Meats

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)

There will be some finely ground chips from pig and cow bones in your hot dogs if the Agriculture Department carries through with its plan to let food processors use machines to gnaw meat closer to the bone.

But those bone chips should not be noticeable and, besides, they are a good source of calcium, the department says.

The plan is to allow deboning machines to scrape the bones of processed livestock carcasses. Deboning machines are used now by the industry but not in the final bone scraping manner being urged by the Agriculture Department for processed meat products.

The department's plan would allow processors to include up to one pound of bone chips in every 100 pounds of meat to make such things as pork sausage, canned beef stew and frozen pizza.

Officials say the technique could add nearly one billion pounds of meat a year to the U.S. food supply, about five pounds per American.

The department, explaining the new approach, said, "Under traditional hand deboning methods, loss of meat typically occurs when packing house employees attempt to cut the meat from neck bones, ribs and backbones. Mechanical deboning machines can strip such bones clean of all meat that otherwise would not be gotten by hand deboning."

In the process, however, the department said that "a small amount of very finely ground bone" would be left in the meat. The proposed regulations would allow up to one per cent "calcium content" in mechanically deboned meat for processing.

The plan was criticized by Rodney E. Leonard, director of the private Community Nutrition Institute, who said "there are no microbiological standards" in the proposal and that there is a greater threat of bacterial contamination when such scrapings are processed into food.

Leonard is a former USDA executive who during the 1960s was head of a consumer and marketing agency which included federal meat inspection.

Officials said they recognize the issue is controversial and therefore will hold "consumer briefings" on the proposal, which will be opened for public comment at least through August 25.

The first briefing will be at the department's headquarters (Continued on page 8)

Judge M. V. Barnhill delivered the key speech at a meeting last night held to form a citizens' Law and Order league for Pitt County.

The organization was formed through the adoption of a resolution prepared by a special committee. The resolution was unanimously approved and the group signed membership cards which pledged them to work against any form of gambling in Pitt County.

The resolution called for the removal of all gambling devices, such as slot machines, in the community, especially those in public places.

Report Money To Lend, But—

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — The official statistics show that savings and loan associations have record amounts of money to lend, but a builder in upstate New York complains he can't make sales because his customers can't get mortgages.

"The 25 largest lenders around here haven't made more than a few mortgages in the past few months," he said. "You ask any of the real estate people around here and they'll tell you the same thing."

This is but one example of an American who feels he hasn't as yet participated in the economic recovery. You can find his like in a wide variety of pursuits, including unskilled workers and stock market investors.

As always, economic conditions vary geographically, and they vary also among occupations, age groups and industries, and even by sex. But some people seem to feel the exceptions are more common this year.

One explanation seems to be that some of the problem areas are very close to the basic needs of people.

While the employment situation is improving, for example, more than seven million Americans can't find jobs, and while consumer prices in general have been rising less slowly, the price of a new house has rocketed ahead.

Ironically, the news about a recovering economy seems to make the contrast even worse because it tends to raise expectations. The discouraged worker re-enters the labor force, only to find he can't find a job. The young couple, tired of renting, decides to buy — and finds the price too high.

The typical new single-family dwelling now is estimated to cost $43,700 — far beyond the ability of a couple with gross income of $13,000. And the initial cost is only part of the story; operating expenses also are rising.

The frustration of the homeseeker nevertheless is hardly that of the job-seeker who reads about the recovery and then finds it doesn't apply to him.

Many thousands of these people are now counted as unemployed for the first time in a year. That is, they were listed before as discouraged workers — those who had given up looking — and thus not counted in the labor force.

Now that their hopes are up but their opportunities aren't, these saddest of the sad have ascended into the ranks of the officially unemployed. At least they are now counted, if they are not included in the recovery.

Meanwhile, many Americans listen to some monetary and fiscal officials proclaim that the recovery is threatening to get out of hand and therefore needs to be restrained. They can hardly be encouraged.

No proliferation of numbers can convince the discouraged or the non-participant. As does everyone else, they believe that recovery begins with them.

legislature. He said he prefers the legislative approach to the problem rather than an initiative which would require another vote of the people if any changes were required.

The five members of the state Energy Resources and Conservation Commission, all appointed by Brown, voted three to one with one abstention to oppose the initiative, which has been fought by most of the state's utilities. Brown said the board should not have taken a stand.

The labor unions in California generally have fought environmental measures in the state, harping on a loss of jobs. Conservationists say privately that Brown is afraid to anger labor.

Conservatives watch Brown with a hawk eye, suspicious that some of his liberal appointees will allow state social services to grow and gobble up much of the state's $539 million surplus. Brown has generally named more liberals than conservatives as government agency heads and top advisers. About 40 of his 122 judgeship appointments have been blacks, Mexican-Americans or women. In a few cases, he has retained Reagan appointees, such as Ray Procnier, Reagan's prisons director, named by Brown to head the state parole agency.

Many liberals, however, are far from satisfied with Brown's performance. They had hoped for someone who would spend more money on education, old people, child care and health care.

Since Brown took office, he has left intact the bulk of the welfare reforms pushed through five years ago by Reagan. He abolished a Reagan work-for-welfare scheme that required some recipients to take public service jobs to receive their welfare checks. A Brown administration report called the program a failure. In education, Brown has yet to tackle the state's public school funding crisis. A court decision states California must give its poorer children a better education, and Brown has not backed any proposal to achieve that goal so far.

Greenville Bike Tour Scheduled May 24 As Safety Promotion

A local bicycling venture billed as the "First Great Bike Tour of Greenville" has been planned for May 24 as part of a city-university effort to promote bike safety.

Jim Hix, chairman of a citizens advisory committee that is assisting in the study of a bike path system for the city and university, said that the bike tour is a "joint effort by the city and East Carolina University to promote bicycling as an alternate means of transportation and as a recreational and sporting activity."

Hix, pointing out that the event will coincide with the observance of National Bicycle Week, said that the local tour is designed to call attention to problems that exist in bicycling along city streets and to show what could be included in the city's bike path system.

The city has submitted an application for a federal grant of $96,000 to be used to fund the initial bike paths here, he explained. A bill has been passed by the SGA Legislature at ECU supporting the bike trails and approving $12,000 in matching funds. In addition, $12,000 has been obligated by the City Council as matching money towards the development of the new system.

Hix said that the tour coordinators are "getting excellent cooperation from city and university officials" and many of them have indicated they plan to participate on Monday. He also invited and urged local citizens to take part in the tour.

The tour, planned to involve approximately three miles and take about 45 minutes to complete, will begin at Five Points and proceed along Fifth Street down to the main gate of the campus. The tour will follow a route through campus to Tenth Street at College Hill Drive, then down Tenth to Elm Street, and up Elm to 14th Street with rest stops at the Elm Street recreational facilities. The tour will then continue along 14th Street to Charles, then down Charles and Cotanche Street to Reade Circle, proceeding around Reade Circle to Evans and then back down Evans to the Mall.

According to Hix, the tour will begin at 10 a.m. and will have escort services furnished by the city and also by ECU campus police during the university segment of the tour. Signs will also be placed along the tour route, he added.

Hix said that the proposal for the use of the federal grant and local money calls for the development of a bike path that would connect ECU with Evans Park utilizing a path in the Green Mill Run areas and connecting with a path to be constructed along Arlington Boulevard.

Eventually, the city hopes to develop a bike path system that encircles and covers all of Greenville, including the university, the chairman added. Serving with Hix on the advisory committee that is planning the tour are Larry Zicherman, Edith Webber, Pat Madeley and Greg Pingston.

Discussions concerning possible bike trails for the city have been underway for some time and Hix said that Monday's event will hopefully serve to make the community aware that the city and university are pursuing the bike program.

Various local merchants are cooperating in the tour venture by making bikes available for use by persons who do not own two-wheelers, he said.

Soil Stewardship Week Is May 23-30

Governor James E. Holshouser, Jr., has proclaimed the week of May 23-30, as Soil Stewardship Week in North Carolina.

In calling attention to the need for the conservation of our soil resources, Governor Holshouser cited the wide range of environmental developments which have altered the American scene, called for the understanding of the origins and consequences of these developments, and urged responsible action to conserve all our valuable natural resources.

Robert G. Little of Rt. 1, Grimesland, Chairman of the Pitt Soil and Water Conservation District, in commenting on the action taken by the Governor said "Soil is a basic natural resource — along with water, air, and sunlight — on which all living creatures depend. The homes we live in, the factories and business establishments we work in, the roads we travel on, the clothes on our backs, and the foods we eat are dependent either directly or indirectly on the soil. Through this observance we hope to draw attention to the importance, not only of adequate protection of these soil resources, but also protection of all natural resources to insure that succeeding generations have the same opportunities we have had."

cedes, that specifications for the B-1 have been somewhat reduced, but the new bomber still will perform every conceivable mission. Thus far, the plane's test performance has exceeded expectations. A few weeks ago, it reached a speed of 2.1 Mach, about 1,350 miles per hour. Goldwater argues that refitting the present fleet of B-52s would be a waste of money, even if new engines were available—and he says they are not. The B-1, in Goldwater's view, is a superlative aircraft, worth every penny of its cost. Well, you pays your money and you takes your choice. A third participant in the debate, Senator Robert Byrd of West Virginia, says the $20-odd billion could be better spent on naval vessels, land forces, or other armaments. The immediate question is whether the first eight of the new fleet should be funded now.

My own feeling is that Goldwater has prevailed in this debate. If the basic premise is accepted, that a wise deterrent strategy

Surgeon Charged In Hospital Deaths

By PETER M. HALDEN
Associated Press Writer

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — A surgeon has been charged with murder in the mysterious "Dr. X" case involving the deaths of five patients in a northern New Jersey hospital a decade ago. Medical techniques not available 10 years ago reportedly enabled investigators to find traces of curare, a muscle relaxant that can be fatal in large doses, during laboratory tests of tissues from five bodies exhumed earlier this year. Dr. Mario Jascalevich pleaded innocent to a five-count murder indictment at his arraignment here Wednesday before Superior Court Judge Theodore Trautwein and was later released on $150,000 bail.

Until his name was revealed in court papers, Jascalevich was referred to as "Dr. X" in news reports of the latest investigation into the deaths.

The doctor was arrested early Wednesday as he left his Englewood Cliffs home for his job at Christ Hospital in Jersey City. After the arrest was announced, a hospital official said a board may be convened to consider barring Jascalevich from practicing there. A county grand jury returned a sealed indictment Tuesday charging him with murdering Carl Rohrbeck, 72, Nancy Savino, 4, Margaret Pearson, 26, Frank Biggs and Emma O. Arzi, 70. They were among 13 patients who died at Riverdell Hospital in Oradell in late 1965 and 1966. They were not Jascalevich's patients.

The indictment did not say how the alleged murders were committed. The deaths prompted an investigation in 1966, but the inquiry was dropped despite discovery of 18 empty or nearly empty curare vials in Jascalevich's locker at the hospital.

Bergen County Prosecutor Joseph C. Woodcock was asked why a renewed investigation a decade later produced an indictment.

"One of the main reasons is that the medical arts have advanced in the last 10 years in determining the cause of death," he said. Woodcock said the investigation was reopened after a similar case in Ann Arbor, Mich., and an investigation by a news reporter.

Dedication To Be On Sunday

The new and modern Pitt County Mental Health Center facility, located on Stantonburg Road adjacent to the new Pitt County Memorial Hospital and near the site for the new East Carolina University School of Medicine, will be dedicated in ceremonies Sunday, at 2:00 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Dr. N. P. Zarzar, Director, N. C. Division of Mental Health Services, will be the principal speaker.

The new 12,000 square foot facility located on a 6.12-acre site was constructed at a cost of and provides sufficient space for future expansion. A $300,000 construction grant was awarded to Pitt County Mental Health by the N. C. Division of Mental Health Services on January 15, 1974. The remaining $196,000 was appropriated by the Pitt County Board of Commissioners.

After groundbreaking ceremonies on May 7, 1975, construction began and was completed on March 15, 1976.

Pitt County Mental Health Center has pioneered in the development of community-based mental health services in North Carolina. The center came into being on February 1, 1956, following the organization of the Pitt County Mental Health Association on May 18, 1955, with a stated purpose of establishing a Mental Health Clinic to serve Pitt County citizens on a local basis.

Five Collisions On Wednesday

An estimated $3,550 property damage resulted yesterday from a series of five traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 10:45 p.m. mishap on Fourth Street, 75 feet East of the Elm Street intersection that involved a car driven by Thomas Stamey Worthington of Snow Hill and a parked car owned by Eastern Electronic Devices of 1127 South Evans St.

Police, who charged Worthington with careless and reckless driving, estimated damage at $1,000 to the Worthington car and $300 to the parked auto.

Larry James Graham of 229 Windsor Rd. was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 10:55 a.m. collision at the intersection of Tenth and Washington Streets.

Investigators reported the Graham car collided with a vehicle driven by Willard Garris Jr. of Route 1, Ayden, resulting in an estimated $250 damage to the Garris car and $300 damage to the Graham vehicle.

No charges were reported in connection with the other three collisions.

Police reported cars driven by Jimmy Ronald Sawyer of Glendale Ct., and Helen Adams Barnes of Greenville collided about 5:10 p.m. at the intersection of Fifth and Greene Streets, causing an estimated $550 damage to the Sawyer vehicle and $400 damage to the Barnes auto.

A 5:40 p.m. collision at the intersection of Tenth Street and College Hill Drive involved cars driven by Brenda Myers Morton of Route 2, Grifton and Mickey Lynn Ballew of Route 9, Greensboro, according to Police.

Damage from that mishap was set at $150 to the Morton car and $300 to the Ballew vehicle.

An estimated $150 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in a 4:20 p.m. mishap on Memorial Drive, six-tenths of a mile North of the Third Street intersection.

Investigators identified the drivers involved as Ella Denis Moore of Route 3, Washington and Mason Stewart Paramore of Colonial Trailer Pk.

Miss Tugwell competed in four events, operations, merchandising, human relations and communications and was selected as one of eight finalists in the Human Relations Event, and won second place National winner in the Communications Event.

Miss Bennett competed with 78 speaking contestants. Miss McLawhorn was one of two persons nominated for the national office of Southern Region vice president.

Clean-Up Day In Winterville Set Saturday

WINTERVILLE—In conjunction with North Carolina Clean-Up Month and in preparation for the Winterville Bicentennial celebration to be held May 29, A. G. Cox School will hold a Clean-Up Day in Winterville Saturday May 22 from 9 a.m. until 12 noon.

"The students decided last year that this would be a good community project," Principal Glenn Strickland said.

"All of the students of A.G. Cox School will participate in the Clean-Up Day and we plan to cover all of the streets within the city limits of Winterville collecting trash and debris."

Parents of the students will assist in loading the garbage and carrying to proper disposals. A wiener roast will follow the Clean-Up project for all students who participated.

Bids Opened Codes Have An Enforcer

FARMVILLE — Bids on the new municipal waste treatment plant here were opened Tuesday, with low bids totaling $6,156,995.

Crain and Dembo of Durham entered the apparent low bid of $4,238,352 for general construction of the plant. Kinston Plumbing and Heating had the low bid on plumbing, heating, and air conditioning at $62,675. Electron Inc. of Kinston was low bidder on the electrical system, with $335,000. E & R Inc. of Kinston had the low bid of $302,985 on the overhead electrical distribution system. Charles F. Smith and Son Inc. of Winter Park, Fla. bid $1,217,983 on installation of pipe lines.

Town Administrator W. A. Martin said these bids are unofficial, but that they seem to be the obvious low ones on the project which has been in the planning stages for several years.

Sandy Flowers is a new codes enforcement officer with the Community Development Program of the City of Greenville.

Her job is to inspect homes to make sure they comply with the building and housing codes of the City and State, to follow up and see that they're either repaired or condemned. When one is condemned, she must see that it is vacated and removed from the property.

Ms. Flowers' main responsibility at this time will be in the West Meadowbrook area, where Community Development funds are being used to provide grants and loans for home improvement.

A native of Schuyler, Va., she has taken courses at Pitt Technical Institute and East Carolina. She worked for several years running an office for a construction company and learning about drafting and building specifications and the like. She has a six-year-old son, Tommy.

PWP Weekend Activities Set

The Greenville Area Chapter of Parents Without Partners announces its weekend activities.

Friday there will be a Board of Directors meeting at 6:30 p.m. at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, followed at 7:30 by a pot luck supper for all members and prospective members. Youth activities will be provided for those under 18.

Saturday there will be a nature hike at Cliffs of the Neuse. Those wishing to go should meet at Sambo's back parking lot at 11 a.m. and take a picnic.

Sunday from 1 to 5:30 p.m., it's family skating at Sportsworld and from 4 to 6 p.m., family bowling at Hillcrest Lanes.

Membership in PWP is open to all single parents. For further information, one should call 758-9954 after 6 p.m.

NEW FACE IN THE MAKING—Unidentified members of a medical team huddle over Ida Hays during plastic surgery at N.Y. Univ. Hospital. Ida was born 15 years ago with her eyes set twice as far apart as normal, her nose too wide and her lower jaw protruding. (AP Wirephoto)

Disfigured Girl Getting New Face From 8-Hour Operation

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — Next time Ida Hays looks in a mirror, she won't recognize herself. Her hair is gone, her eyes are a bit black and blue. But it's likely Ida will scarcely notice or even care about the temporary embarrassment.

Her eyes will be more than an inch closer together than when she last saw her face; they're the normal distance apart, rather than grotesquely separated. And her nose has been reshaped.

Surgeons performed the facial feats Wednesday in an eight-hour operation, correcting the congenital disfigurement that had put the 15-year-old Ida's eyes twice as far apart as normal — they looked to be at her ears. Her tragic facial appearance was compounded by too wide a nose and a protruding lower jaw.

"Everything went well. We have high hopes of good improvement," said Dr. John Marquis Converse, head of a team of specialists at the Institute for Reconstructive Plastic Surgery who performed Ida's operation at the New York University Hospital.

"It was the most complicated case we've ever had" of its type, and it marked the largest movement yet achieved in placing far-separated eyes closer together, he said.

Ida wasn't transformed into a great beauty, the plastic surgeon said, but her appearance should be greatly improved.

Doctors say it will be about five days before Ida can take a look at the new Ida. She's under intensive care at a hospital with only the tip of her nose and her mouth visible through the bandages.

The surgery to redesign Ida's face was indeed complicated.

First, it involved removing the fore part of her skull, then reaching in to tilt her brain up and backward a bit to provide surgical working room behind her forehead. A drug, mannitol, helped make this possible by shrinking the brain temporarily.

Then surgeons cut out a piece of bone in the center of her face, creating an empty space into which the orbits — the round openings in the skull that contain the eyes — could be pushed closer together after they had been cut free for movement.

Moving the bone orbits inward left a space between them and Ida's temples. So the surgeons took pieces of Ida's hipbone to form wedges filling in those gaps. Her facial skeleton was whole again, but her eyes had moved toward one another.

Her hometown of La Grande, Ore., population 11,000, raised money to help her once medical specialists established that she might benefit from reconstructive surgery. Contributions amounted to $10,000.

Ida's father, Bill Hays, said the "experience could make a very special person out of her. She had to be in some torment in growing up, and her understanding can help her help other people. That's the way she's planned her education, so she can help handicapped people."

Pamlico River Bridge Repairs

RALEIGH—Department of Transportation (DOT) officials have scheduled to adjust the steel circle on the draw bridge on US 17 over the Pamlico River in Washington on June 1 and 2.

The work will necessitate the closing of the bridge to all traffic for a 12-hour period from 7:00 p.m., June 1, till 7:00 a.m., June 2.

US 17 through traffic will be detoured over US 264 and NC 33 in Beaufort and Pitt Counties and River Road (SR 1565) in Pitt County.

Navajo Tribe Money Has Dwindled; Probe Sought

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — The Navajo Nation had $73.6 million in federal cash reserves 12 years ago. But America's biggest Indian tribe is expected to have only $30 million left at the end of this fiscal year.

Several Navajo legislators and a growing groundswell of reservation Navajos are asking what has happened to the tribe's savings, compiled from such sources as mining and timber revenues and held in trust by the federal government. So are authorities, who are investigating reports of fiscal mismanagement.

The Justice Department has been examining tribal affairs for nearly a year; grand juries have indicted three Navajos, two for embezzlement and one for theft, and the tribal council says it may ask the federal General Accounting Office to audit its books.

So far, tribal chairman Peter

MacDonald has declined to give a financial report to the estimated 160,000 Navajos. MacDonald, who took office in 1971, said the tribe's reserves have declined because more money is needed to provide services to a growing population.

Population on the reservation in 1970 was 95,000.

Dissidents have raised a number of questions about:

—A lack of accounting. Several tribal councilmen said the only financial data about the tribal government comes in news reports.

—The $330,000 annual salary and fees received by the general counsel, George Vlassis of Phoenix.

—The Navajo Housing and Development Enterprise, set up by the tribe to use federal money for reservation housing construction, that went broke. It has asked $1.7 million in tribal funds to pay its bills. —The Navajo Arts and Crafts Enterprise, which markets Navajo-made jewelry and rugs. It recently closed its shop here for lack of funds.

—A $13.3 million investment of federal funds earmarked for home construction with American Funding Corp., a Beverly Hills, Calif., investment firm now in receivership.

About 350 Navajo men and women marched on Window Rock, the Navajo capital, earlier this week with a list of grievances against the MacDonald administration. They asked appointment of a blue-ribbon panel to delve into tribal finances. They also sought reorganization of the tribal government.

The council agreed by a two-vote margin to consider the protest during its current spring session.

Todd Scholarship Fund Hits $12,000

The Richard Cecil Todd and Claudia Penneck Todd Scholarship fund at East Carolina University is $1,910 richer.

Dr. Todd, professor of history, and his wife annually match funds for the scholarship raised by Tau chapter of Phi Sigma Pi, national honor fraternity. This year, Tau chapter raised funds totaling $955.14 and checks from the fraternity and the Todds were presented to the Scholarship Fund administered by the ECU Foundation. The latest amounts bring the total to more than $12,000.

Proceeds from the fund are presented annually to the rising senior member chosen to exemplify the fraternity's standards of scholarship, leadership and fellowship. This year's recipient is Randy D. Doub of Pfafftown, N.C., who will be serving as the president of the ECU chapter.

Phi Sigma Pi is East Carolina University's oldest fraternal organization and has been recognized as the outstanding chapter in the nation for the past 10 years. The fraternity requires a grade point average of 3.2 for consideration of membership.

Ronald G. Cook of Fayetteville served as the chapter's Todd Scholarship chairman this year.

New Subway May Ease A 'Nightmare'

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD HONG KONG (UPI) — One of the world's most densely populated cities has decided the only way out of its transit nightmare is underground.

After nine years of study and debate, the Hong Kong government has begun work on what will become southeast Asia's first underground railway, a 10-mile system linking the colony's central district with teeming Kowloon across picturesque Hong Kong Harbor.

Officials say it will be "the most heavily-used railway in the world."

Construction on the $1 billion project, expected to take four years, began in late 1975.

Norman Thompson, chairman of the Mass Transit Railway Corporation set up by the government to build Metro, maintains that Hong Kong must have the underground system by the mid-1980's or the colony will come to a virtual standstill.

And he has figures to support the prediction.

Although Hong Kong has a land area of 404 square miles, most of the 4.4 million inhabitants are crammed into 50 square miles. The mountainous terrain has put a sharp limit on road construction.

The population is expected to reach nearly 6 million by 1991.

The present 190,000 vehicles — 300 per mile — give Hong Kong the third highest traffic density in the world, behind Gibraltar and Monaco.

Officials who have spent years evaluating the need for Metro found that in an eight-year period the growth in public transport demand was overwhelming. By the 1980's, they project 7.5 million travellers a day on the public system.

As streets are dug up, traffic diverted and complaints mount, Thompson has tried to reassure skeptics that any business loss or inconvenience is temporary.

Metro is scheduled to go into partial operation in late 1979 and to be completed by 1980. In time it is expected to be extended to 38 miles.

Corporation executive John Golf said the system will start with 30 electrically-powered trains, 15 in each direction running two minutes apart, with a fare of 20 cents.

Shop owners grumble that business has declined where digging is under way. Motorists and others complain about traffic diversions, possible dangers to passengers, and increased crime. There also are those who contend the money should be used for other social services.

Thompson and his colleagues have rebuttals.

Businesses near the Metro stations will profit from the throngs passing by. Policemen will be on hand at each station, with closed-circuit television monitoring concourses.

Thompson convinced bankers who put up the full $1 billion, with the Hong Kong government guaranteeing the loans.

Thompson said "there is no comparison" to the problems that plagued systems abroad.

"Viability is the first prerequisite of our system," and all the technology has been well proven, he said.

A system of maximum safety precautions to guard against fire or flooding during typhoons will be installed, plus speedy evacuation methods.

No other system has been built so close to the equator. Since Hong Kong is hot and humid for many months, it was decided to air-condition the platforms and concourses as well as the trains.

The government, in setting up the corporation, added the stipulation that the completed railway should "pay for itself."

Marriage Called Stronger Today

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Despite the questions raised by the women's liberation movement, the American family may be even stronger today than previously because young people are making decisions about marriage and their life styles more carefully than they once did, believes Gayle Graham Yates, assistant professor of women's studies at the University of Minnesota.

"I think marriage probably is becoming stronger because it's more deliberate," she said. "The assumption that you have to be married is changing very rapidly. This generation of college students is going to decide — really decide — to get married rather than just drift into marriage as was more the pattern of even a decade ago."

NEW YORK (AP)— The stock market managed a hairbreadth advance today, with concern over interest rates nearly outweighing some good economic news from Washington.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was ahead 1.29 to 990.19. Advances held a 5-4 lead over declines among New York Stock Exchange-listed stocks.

The market held to its recent trendless pattern today, despite news from the government of an upward revision in the first quarter Gross National Product's growth rate to 8.5 per cent from 7.5 per cent.

In addition, traders apparently failed to respond to a Commerce Department report that after-tax corporate profits in the first quarter were up 5.5 per cent.

Analysts said Wall Street remained preoccupied with the upward course of interest rates. With Consolidated led Big Board actives, off 1/2 at 197 1/2.

Xerox Corp., which said it is in "better shape than ever" at its annual meeting today, gained a point at 51 1/4.

Exxon gained 1/2 to 99 1/2. The oil giant's board of directors recommended a two for one stock split.

The NYSE's composite stock index rose 0.06 at 53.97, while the American Exchange's market value index was up 0.04 at 104.71.

Boyles Opines Assembly Did Its Best

Young Kennedy Tries Politics

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Joseph P. Kennedy III, oldest of the new generation of Kennedy men, is getting his baptism in politics by managing the re-election campaign of his uncle, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

The son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy says he will use the experience to decide whether to run for office himself someday.

Although only 23, Kennedy emphasizes that he alone directs the statewide campaign for the Democratic senator, whom he calls "Uncle Ted."

"He's let me have a pretty free hand in this," Kennedy said in an interview. "I'm running this operation."

Kennedy, tall and rugged, presides over a small staff in a barren suite of offices in a downtown Boston office building.

With his boyish face and bushy hair, he looks so much like his father and uncles that people approach him on the street and ask if he's a Kennedy.

Asked if he would like to seek office, Kennedy said, "Certainly it interests me. That's why I'm involved here."

"I'm seeing how the government operates on the federal level."

He was working in Robert Kennedy's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1968 when his father was assassinated. In 1970, he was an advance man for Edward Kennedy.

Although he lacks experience in managing a campaign, Kennedy said he has not had much trouble getting old political hands to take him seriously.

"I think that people realize that I'm not running for office," he said. "It's my Uncle Ted, and most of the politicians in this state take him very seriously and are willing to work with anyone he chooses."

Kennedy, the second of 11 children in his family, will graduate next month from the University of Massachusetts in Boston.

So far, two Republicans, both political unknowns, have taken out nomination papers to oppose Sen. Kennedy, who is seeking his third full term.

He said the State "picked up two additional months of taxes" by the General Assembly action. "Their rational... the economy will improve," and with an improving economy, the state will receive additional revenue.

"If the economy does improve as expected and anticipated by the General Assembly," Boyles said, "we will be in good financial shape."

But according to Boyles, "if the economy does not improve, do we increase taxes? Do we look to other windfall revenues or do we curtail several of the services and programs?"

Commenting on another topic, Boyles said the use of industrial revenue bonds can be "a vehicle through which the state can act with the private sector" in the development of new industry and expansion of established industry to improve the economy of North Carolina.

But he emphasized the use of the bonds "must be administered in a very cautious and judicial manner, or else, it can serve to the detriment" of the counties and State government.

He said default on industrial revenue bonds would reflect unfavorably on state and county government financing.

Boyles, who is secretary of the Local Government Commission (the state agency which regulates the sale of bonds for every county and municipal government) indicated that North Carolina is in an enviable position today because of good management practices.

Under the industrial bond program, the Local Government Commission (a branch of the Treasurer's office) would review the financial position and solvency of the industry.

"If adequately capitalized and the risks involved are minimal," Boyles explained, the Local Government Commission would approve the issuance of bonds for construction of facilities for the industry.

Under the plan, Boyles said, county commissioners would form an agency to hold title to the industrial property and lease payments by the industry to the agency would cover repayment of the bonds. When the bonds are finally retired, according to Boyles, the county agency would arrange for title of the manufacturing facility to be transferred to the industry.

He said the financing bonds, in addition to providing additional property tax revenue to the county involved and stimulating the economy, "provides interest savings (of up to 30 per cent) to the industry when compared with what it would cost them on the open market."

Boyles explained that the General Assembly resorted to the use of a "windfall" to fund the pay increases... the acceleration of the collection of income tax withheld from employees wages. "A windfall is a utilization of non-recurring revenue to fund recurring expenses," he said.

But he said the President asked him what he'd like for his birthday, and "I told him if he could just arrange a visit out here, that would be fine."

Harlan Boyles, candidate for state treasurer, feels the General Assembly "did the best they could under the circumstances" on the state's budget in its recently concluded special session.

He was in Greenville today, meeting local area residents, shaking hands and attended a luncheon of the North Carolina Citizens Association which met here today.

The candidate has been a Treasury employee for the past 20 years — Deputy State Treasurer for the past 16 of them.

"It was a tremendous job trying to respond to the salary needs of teachers and state employees," without an increase in taxes.

However, the candidate said, "how wise the action they resorted to," is another matter. "That has to be seen."

Boyles explained that the General Assembly resorted to the use of a "windfall" to fund the pay increases... the acceleration of the collection of income tax withheld from employees wages. "A windfall is a utilization of non-recurring revenue to fund recurring expenses," he said.

Saturday Is Proclaimed Poppy Day In Greenville

Saturday has been proclaimed "Poppy Day in our City," by Mayor Percy R. Cox.

Friday evening and all day Saturday American Legion members and volunteers from other organizations will be selling red paper poppies throughout Greenville. Money contributed is used solely for providing assistant to veterans of the Armed Forces and their families in time of need.

Mrs. Sarah Ashton, treasurer of the American Legion, said that virtually all of the $1,010 collected last Poppy Day has been used to provide groceries and other needs of veterans and their families. She said the reserve in this special fund is the lowest it's been in years, although last year's contributions were record-breaking for Greenville.

"I urge all citizens of our town to join with me in the wearing of this Memorial Flower as together we remember the sacrifices of so many in defense of our freedom," Mayor Cox said.

Belton No-Hits Wilson As Rose Wins

Mike Belton fired a no-hitter and Mike Brewington slapped a two-run homer as Rose High School gained a 3-0 victory over Wilson Fike yesterday and kept its hopes alive for a return trip into the State 4-A Playoffs.

The Rampants, now 13-8 overall and 8-6 against Division I competition, travel to Northeastern of Elizabeth City this afternoon for their final game of the regular season. A victory over the Eagles, currently 5-7, would wrap up the title for them.

A defeat, however, might leave things up in the air. Bertie currently is 6-6, but plays a doubleheader today, meeting Northern Nash in an afternoon game and Rocky Mount in a night contest. The Falcons travel to Northeastern on Friday.

Even if Bertie wins its remaining games, however, a Rose win would sew up the league's second berth, since the Rampants topped the Falcons in two of their three meetings.

Northern Nash has already won the title and clinched one of the playoff berths. Rose, with a victory would be lined up to meet South View of Fayetteville on the road next week.

Belton's no-hitter was not a very pretty one. He experienced some control problems, walking seven batters, and hitting another. But he also struck out ten, having it when it was really needed.

The best of the defensive plays behind him came in the sixth, when right fielder John Coffman speared a ball hit by Donald Ellis with a running catch, saving the no-hitter at that point.

Rose got just five hits off Steve Summerlin, but they were enough. The Rampants got off a threat in the opening inning, when a walk and a single put runners on first and third but it came to nothing.

The Rampants got all they needed in the third, however. David Dixon opened the inning with a walk, then stole second. But he waited while a strikeout and a pop fly put two men away. Brewington then stepped in and lined one over the fence in left center, providing the Rampants with a 2-0 lead.

The other run came in the fifth. Dixon again walked and was sacrificed up. Belton helped himself with a single to center, easily scoring Dixon.

Wilson had a few changes, but could never get the hit to break it loose. They had men on second in the first, fourth, and seventh, and loaded the bases in the fifth.

Ozzie Virgil, a Dominican Republic native, coaches third base for the Montreal Expos.

but each time, Belton got out of the jam.

Controversy reared its head for both teams, too. Rose coach Ronald Vincent argued about a fly ball in the second that could have gotten things going for the Rampants. Greg Lee hit a fly to center, and Babe Allen raced in, making a diving catch, but the ball bounced loose when he hit the ground. The umpires both ruled, however, that he maintained control long enough, despite Vincent's protests.

Then, in the fourth, Ellis attempted a bunt with runners on first and third. The ball was popped up between home and third and the mound. Belton made a diving attempt at it, but it, too, bounced out of his glove. The umpire gave the safe signal, but the runners held up, and Eddy Connolly picked it up to start a double play from third to second, getting the two lead runners. Wilson coach Gilbert Ferrell argued first that the umpire's signal was confusing to the runners (he swept both arms upward and outward), causing them to hold up. Then, he claimed the infield fly rule should have been in effect. Neither argument helped him.

So it boils down to today's game. A win wraps it up, a loss leaves it up in the air.

Yas Slowing Down? Not One Bit

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

Carl Yastrzemski has played more games than any other man wearing Boston's red Sox but that doesn't mean he's slowing down.

Yastrzemski, the man with the marathon name, set a longevity mark Tuesday night by playing in his 2,293rd game, surpassing the record held by Ted Williams.

If you think that game was one to remember, then what about No. 2,294?

The 36-year-old Boston slugger slammed three home runs Wednesday night to power the Red Sox to a 9-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers. Yastrzemski, now in his 16th year in the major leagues, had never hit three homers in one game before.

In fact, he hadn't hit three homers this season and was batting .198 entering Wednesday night's game, embarrassing figures for a lifetime .291 hitter.

Yastrzemski finished with four hits, four runs batted in and four runs scored.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Baltimore Orioles beat the Milwaukee Brewers 5-3; the New York Yankees nipped the Cleveland Indians 3-2; the Kansas City Royals downed the Oakland A's 5-2, and the Chicago White Sox trimmed the Minnesota Twins 4-1.

The victory was the seventh in the last eight games for the Red Sox, while Detroit lost its fourth straight.

The Red Sox, defending American League champions, are now in fourth place, six games behind the frontrunning New York Yankees. They play the Yankees four games beginning tonight in New York.

"I'm glad to see us playing well because we're running into those dudes," said Boston Manager Darrell Johnson.

Ron LeFlore tripled for the Tigers to extend his hitting streak to 22 games, equalling a streak by Al Kaline in 1961. But the Tiger record is 40 consecutive games set by Ty Cobb in 1911.

Royals 5, A's 2
Consecutive singles in the first inning by John Mayberry, Hal McRae, Al Cowens and Frank White highlighted a three-run first inning that led Kansas City over Oakland.

The Royals strafed three Oakland pitchers for 15 hits. Paul Splittorff picked up the victory, evening his record at 3-3. Mike Torrez, 4-4, was saddened with the loss.

Yankees 3, Indians 2

Cleveland Manager Frank Robinson flashed the steal sign to Duane Kuiper from his position as the baserunner at first base. He had no trouble seeing that it didn't work, although he wouldn't second guess himself after the game.

"I just thought it was good baseball," Robinson said. "If the throw goes through, the runner goes home. I'd rather go for the plate than let the runner get caught at second. It was a gamble, obviously, but I thought it was worth it in that situation."

The situation was that Cleveland was losing 3-2, with the tying run on third and Ray Fosse at the plate. Fosse, batting .076 on 1-for-13, was about to face a 1-2 pitch, when Robinson broke for second.

But the move backfired when catcher Rick Dempsey fired to second baseman Sandy Alomar, whose relay back to Dempsey nailed pinch-runner Kuiper at the plate.

Orioles 5, Brewers 3

The Orioles continued their mastery over Milwaukee, beating the Brewers for the 10th time in a row and 16th time in the last 17 meetings.

Rose scored two in the second and three more in the fifth. Jackson and G. Westry each had four hits for Northern Nash, while L. Macklin, L. Whitley, Richardson, M. White and A. Jackson each added two.

Mark Belanger, Baltimore's hot-hitting shortstop, rapped a run-scoring triple in the first inning and has now had 14 hits in his last 31 at bats.

Mike Cuellar, 39, raised his record to 2-3 but yielded 42-year-old Hank Aaron's second home run of the season and No. 747 of his career.

Northern Tops Rose

NASHVILLE—Northern Nash rolled up a 19-5 victory over the Rose High School girls' softball team yesterday.

The Lady Knights pushed in seven runs in the first inning, including three on a homer by P. Jackson, to put the game out of reach. They went on to add two in the second, as Jackson again homered, and picked up two more in the third. Five crossed in the fourth and three in the fifth.

Rose scored two in the second and three more in the fifth.

Jackson and G. Westry each had four hits for Northern Nash, while L. Macklin, L. Whitley, Richardson, M. White and A. Jackson each added two.

Rose was led by Shirley Johnson with four hits, while Jill Carney and Karen Jeffrey's each had three, and Marty East and Lou Foreman added two each.

Rose, now 2-7, plays host to Northeastern today in the final game of the season.

Rose 020 030 0—5
N. Nash 722 530 x—19

Wilson had a few changes, but could never get the hit to break it loose. They had men on second in the first, fourth, and seventh, and loaded the bases in the fifth.

Ozzie Virgil, a Dominican Republic native, coaches third base for the Montreal Expos.

After Threatened Cancellation, Ali's Fight Is Back On Again

By JOHN VINOCUR
Associated Press Writer
MUNICH (AP) — An American promoter of Muhammad Ali's title defense against European heavyweight champion Richard Dunn reported today that the fight was close to cancellation, then said a problem involving a $225,000 shortage had been resolved.

"The fight's on. We've gotten satisfaction," said Robert Arum, a New York lawyer whose Top Rank, Inc., has control of the television rights to the fight here Tuesday.

After a morning of discussions with the German promoters of the fight — Promot, GMBH — Arum said that an agreement had been made on the payment of Ali's taxes that satisfied the parties. Arum had asserted that the Germans were $225,000 "away from the figure that the contract specified." Arum met with the German group during the morning and said he had given them a Monday deadline to produce the money. Then after more talks he reported that the problem was resolved.

There was no comment from Promot, a corporation grouping two German lawyers, a tax accountant and a diamond merchant.

Some of their cash difficulties apparently came from ticket sales that were under expectations.

Spirits Of St. Louis Find New Home Where Stars Once Played

By VERN ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — The Spirits of St. Louis of the American Basketball Association, leaving their home because of financial losses and nonsupport from the fans, are moving here where six months ago the Utah Stars folded for the same reasons.

"We're here to stay," announced a confident Harry Weltman, club president and general manager, to a Wednesday news conference.

He said St. Louis "is not really a basketball town." He later said a study by club owners indicated pro basketball could succeed in Salt Lake City with adequate "community involvement."

The question now, however, is how much does the community — the ABA's smallest market — want to get involved with pro basketball? Stars owner Bill Daniels repeatedly tried to sell his team before it folded in December. Declining attendance, personnel problems and a losing record were among problems blamed for the demise.

Man who says he has raised more than $600,000 in order to get the Spirits moved here, has said Salt Lake City "is one of the better franchise cities in the nation." On Wednesday, he said the folding of the Stars was not a major concern since he believed it had been more because of inadequate financing than lack of public support.

The Spirits have several attractions for Utah fans. Moses Malone, Ron Boone, Randy Denton and Steve Green played here with the Stars before Daniels sold them to St. Louis. Young Malone and Boone, a playmaker, were favorites.

The Spirits also have temperamental and high-priced Marvin Barnes to lure crowds into the Salt Palace next season.

Spirits officials, who reportedly lost $4 million in the past two seasons, negotiated with Utah business interests to share ownership of the team, which had a 35-49 record last season and was trailed only by the now-defunct Virginia Squires. Weltman declined to specify what arrangement was agreed upon. Published reports indicate owners Ozzie and Daniel Silna and Weltman will retain 70 per cent ownership, and local investors will get the remaining 30 per cent.

Weltman and Walters have declined to identify the Utah investors.

Still ahead for the new Utah franchise is a team name, a coach and a contract with the 12,200-seat Salt Palace. None of those, Walters said, looms as indissoluble.

The name, he said, probably would be supplied through a contest, though Walters said he would like it to be Utah Stars. ABA Coach Joe Mullaney ran the team to the end of last season on a partial season contract, but apparently won't be back.

Agreement with the Salt Palace is around the corner, Walters hinted, since "we have reached agreement in principle."

TOUGH TO SEE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Johnny Vander Meer is the only pitcher to hurl back-to-back no-hitters. Oddly enough, the second of his classics came on June 14, 1938 — which also happened to be baseball's first ever night game.

Optimists Pin Loss On Jaycees

The Optimists came away with a 3-1 upset victory over the previously unbeaten Jaycees yesterday in the North State Little League.

The game was a pitching duel between Mike Pollard of the Jaycees, who scattered three hits, and Jeff Porter of the Optimists, who allowed just two.

The Optimists are now 3-1 in the league, while the Jaycees are 4-1.

Porter struck out 11 and walked seven, while Pollard fanned nine, walked three and hit one.

The Optimists got one run in the second. Tony Heath walked, moved up on a passed ball and a stolen base and scored on Paul MacMillan's single.

Another run crossed in the third. Sammy Hodges walked, took third on two passed balls and Jeff Porter walked. The two runners pulled a double steal, scoring Hodges.

The Jaycees got their lone run in the fourth. Pollard walked and scored on Henry Goodson's double.

The final Optimist run came in the fifth. Michael Moon doubled, stole third and scored on a passed ball.

Hiller Wins Golf Crown

Keith Hiller, a member of the East Carolina University golf team, captured the Brook Valley Golf and Country Club's Men's Club Championship this past weekend.

Hiller had a 148 to take a one-stroke victory in the 36-hole event. Second place went to Tommy Boone with a 149. Dick Evans took third, also with a 149. Boone picked up an eagle three on the second hole of a playoff to take second.

Frank Hill won the first flight with a 155, while Skip Collier was second with a 162. Jim Ward II, also with a 162, took third.

W. L. Allen Sr. won the second flight with a 161, while Johnny Pinner was second at 162. Tommie Little was third, also with 162. Wesley Haynes won the third flight, shooting a 161. Rhett Honeycutt was second with a 166, and Edwin Clark, third, at 167.

Dick Miller won the fourth flight with a 165, while Horace Topping was second at 170, and Wilbur Castellow was third at 171. Joe Wilson was the fifth flight winner with a 167, followed by Jack Wall at 175 and John Patrick at 176.

L. G. Catlett took the sixth with a 175, followed by Bob Pinkston at 179 and Larry Talbert at 184.

Joe LaMotte won the senior flight's low gross at 150, while Ercell Webb was second at 154. John Patrick took low net with 140.

During the tournament, Bobby Boone picked up his first hole-in-one with a four-wood on the 176-yard par three fifth hole. He was playing with Bill Pellisero, Dr. Wallace Woolles and Bill Smith.

A Jack and Jill Twilight Mixed Spectacular will be held tonight. A shotgun start at 5:30 p.m. will be held for the nine-hole event.

Bertie Nips Aycock Runners

Undeclared Bertie Junior High School pulled out a victory in the pole vault, the final event of the day to stop a bid by E.B. Aycock's track team for an upset yesterday.

The vault victory gave Bertie 72 points in the meet, while Aycock finished with 65. Kinston trailed with ten.

Bertie won seven individual events, while Aycock won five.

but gained both of the relays. Bertie's depth proved the difference.

Curtis Little was a double winner for Aycock, winning the shot with a school record toss of 56 feet, 3 inches, and taking the 100-yard dash in 10.1 seconds.

Other Aycock winners included: Calvin Paige in the high jump, 5-10; Newman Martindale in the 880, 2:22.9; and Durwin Clemons in the 220, :23.6. The team of Joe Smith, James Murphy, Paige and Quinton Eaton won the 880 relay in 1:39.2, while the team of Little, Perry Murphy, Smith and Clemons took the 440 relay in 45.4, another new record.

Bertie winners were: Haggard in the long jump, 18-11, and in the triple jump, 38-5 1/4; Basnight in the discus, 138-5; Hill in the low hurdles in :15.3; and in the 440 in :53.9; and Saulsbury in the mile in 5:14.5.

Aycock travels to Wilson next Wednesday for the conference meet.

Tigerettes Take Title

PLYMOUTH — Williamston has wrapped up its conference girls' softball title. The Tigerettes finished off their drive with a 9-1 victory over Plymouth yesterday.

Williamston picked up three runs in the first and added another in the third. They got three more in the sixth and two in the seventh.

The lone Plymouth run came in the fourth.

Vanessa Teel pitched the victory, allowing just four hits. Brenda Styns picked up two of those, and was the only girl in the game with more than one hit.

Williamston is now 13-1 overall and 9-0 in conference play. The Tigerettes close out the regular season on Friday against Bear Grass, and enter State Playoff competition next week.

Willston 301 003 2-9 6 1

Ankle Might Be New Problem Area For Dodgers' Tommy John

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Tommy John's left elbow was a sore point last year for the Los Angeles Dodgers. This year, his right ankle is a sore spot.

John, who lost all of last season because of elbow surgery and cost the Los Angeles Dodgers one of their top pitchers, has been tattooed by batted balls two games running now. "Don't laugh if you see me wearing shin guards next time out," said the left-hander after his ankle was belted by a Ken Henderson drive during Wednesday night's 4-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

John, pitching well at the time, wasn't seriously hurt but was removed from the game after the seventh inning as a precautionary measure. The last time out, a smash from the bat of Al Oliver chased him from the game with Pittsburgh.

In the other National League games, the Houston Astros beat the San Diego Padres 9-4; the Pittsburgh Pirates nipped the St. Louis Cardinals 7-6; the Philadelphia Phillies nudged the New York Mets 2-1 and the Cincinnati Reds outscored the San Francisco Giants 5-4.

Steve Yeager slugged a two-run homer to back the combined six-hit pitching of John and Mike Marshall. The Braves had taken a 1-0 lead in the first inning on a run-scoring single by Ken Henderson. But in the second Steve Garvey singled, stole second and two outs later, Yeager homered into the center field pavilion off loser Dick Ruthven, 4-5. It was the fifth home run for the Los Angeles catcher.

The Dodgers added a run in the third when Ron Cey was hit with a pitch with the bases loaded. The Dodgers added a fourth run in the fifth inning on doubles by Bill Buckner and Dusty Baker.

John, 2-2, scattered five hits over seven innings and Marshall worked the last two innings and earned his eighth save of the season.

Astros 9, Padres 4
Bob Watson's three-run homer in the eighth inning highlighted a five-run rally that sparked Houston over San Diego. After Rob Andrews broke a 4-4 tie with a bases-loaded single off Padre reliever Mike Dupree, Watson iced the game with his second home run of the year.

Singles by Ken Boswell and pinch-hitter Larry Milbourne and a walk to pinch-hitter Leon Roberts loaded the bases in the eighth and set the stage for Andrews and Watson to put the game away.

Pirates 7, Cardinals 6
Duffy Dyer's pinch-hit single climaxed a four-run Pittsburgh rally in the top of the ninth, lifting the Pirates over St. Louis. Nine walks from Cardinal pitchers, including seven in the final two innings, helped the Pirates overcome home runs by Mike Tyson and Willie Crawford in the third inning and a 6-1 St. Louis lead.

Phillies 2, Mets 1
Run-scoring singles by Jerry Martin and Mike Schmidt carried Philadelphia to its 11th straight road victory. Larry Christenson, 4-1, checked New York on five hits before being chased with nobody out in the seventh. Tug McGraw, the one-time Mets' relief ace, put down that threat but gave up an eighth-inning run on Jerry Grote's pinch-single.

Reds 5, Giants 4
Johnny Bench and Tony Perez belted two-run doubles, powering Cincinnati over San Francisco. Bench doubled in the fourth off loser John Montefusco, 4-3, and Perez' two-run blast capped Cincinnati's scoring in the eighth. The game also featured the 2,600th career hit for Cincinnati's Pete Rose.

Chargers Nip Vikes
KINSTON—Ayden-Grifton's Eastern Carolina Conference champions picked up a 1-0 victory over Kinston in the final regular season game for the Chargers last night.

The lone run came in the opening inning of the game. Rod Kornegay reached on an error and Vern Davenport walked. Ned Craft singled and a walk to Steve Noble forced in Kornegay. Ayden-Grifton offered only one other threat, as Jed Hardee walked in the third and stole both second and third.

Kinston loaded the bases in the first and put two on in the second, but never threatened again. Ayden-Grifton used four pitchers in the game, who limited the Vikings to just two hits. The Chargers got just three of their own.

The Chargers finished up with a 20-2 record on the year, and will now meet the winner of the Northeastern Conference, either Williamson or Plymouth, next week in the first round of the 3-A State Playoffs.

Andretti Seen Among Sure Bets To Qualify For One Of Places

By MARC ROSENWASSER
Associated Press Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) —

Something has to give this weekend when 25 drivers try to cram their cars into one of the 10 spots left in the 33-car starting lineup for the Indianapolis 500.

"It's like trying to put six gallons into a five-gallon bucket," said one veteran track observer. "It's just not going to fit."

One driver almost sure to qualify is 1969 winner Mario Andretti. The dark-haired Pennsylvanian missed the first round of qualifications last weekend when he was in Belgium, driving in that country's Grand Prix.

Andretti has been consistently running his car between 183 and 188 miles an hour, well above the 180 mark expected to be good enough to qualify. He turned in two laps over 187 m.p.h. on Wednesday.

Janet Guthrie's fortunes are not nearly as certain. The 38-year-old New York physicist has yet to run anywhere near 180 m.p.h. and there are growing doubts about the firepower of her blue Volstedt-Offenhauser racer. Her top speed this week has been 171 m.p.h. Wednesday she managed just 168.161.

Changes have been ordered. "We're going to put a later-style motor in the car," said Rex Hutton, chief mechanic on Miss Guthrie's car. "This motor has about 600 miles on it. It's getting tired."

Hutton admits Miss Guthrie's time is limited, but he says she can still increase her speed in time to qualify over the weekend. "We wanted to start her off slower so she could get used to the track."

"She's been very consistent — now she should have some speed, too."

Which is not to say her path into the race will be easy if she does. Looking to get into the race to compete for some $1 million are a flock of other less-publicized drivers. Seven cars not yet qualified have been clocked over 180 m.p.h., and at least 10 more are thought to have a good chance also to top that speed. Track observers say there are others who cannot be completely discounted.

Among those given a chance of cracking the lineup are 16-year-veteran Lloyd Ruby, Salt Walther, Jerry Grant, Mike Hiss, Eldon Rasmussen and rookie Spike Gehlhausen.

Few, if any, of the drivers who qualify this weekend are given a good chance to win the race — not with Johnny Rutherford consistently averaging 189 m.p.h. and Bobby and Al Unser, A.J. Foyt, Gordon Johncock and Tom Sneva all comfortably above 185. But that shouldn't dull the competition.

The 1977 Super Bowl football game is set for Jan. 9 in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif.

Baseball Camp Slated At ECU

East Carolina University's first baseball camp will be held this summer, with two two-week day camp sessions.

The first session will be held from June 14 to June 25, with the second from June 28 to July 9.

A $70 charge per session will be made for each youth attending. Enrollment forms can be obtained from the East Carolina baseball office, or at Greenville Little League fields.

The camp is open to youths 10 and up, but an enrollee cannot have completed his high school eligibility.

The sessions will begin daily at 9 a.m. and last until 12:30 p.m. Monday through Friday of each week. A break for provided refreshments will be held during the morning.

Instructors for the camp include just-retired ECU baseball coach George Williams, new coach Monte Little, former coach Earl Smith and Dr. Edgar Hooks of the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation at East Carolina. In addition, some of the East Carolina baseball players will be available for question and answer sessions.

The topics to be covered in the camp include: grip for throwing the ball, how to throw and catch, fielding positions, pitching and catching, play of the infield and outfield, strategy, double steals, double plays, hitting, running, sliding, and cutoff plays, in addition to other subjects.

Campers should provide their own shoes and gloves. The camp will provide all bats and balls, and will use the ECU fields, pitching machines, and all campers will also receive a t-shirt.

Further information can be obtained by contacting the baseball office.

TERRY RETURNS WEST
MARCO ISLAND, Fla. (AP) —

Ralph Terry, the New York Yankees' World Series pitching star of 1962 through his seventh game 1-0 win over the San Francisco Giants, is returning to the west. The 40-year-old native of Big Cabin, Okla., is the golf pro at a nine-hole golf course in Hutchinson, Kan. He also works there for an oil and natural gas investment firm.

Terry recently toured the Florida PGA golf circuit and played in the annual Tony Lema Memorial Pro-Am. At the Marco Island event, Terry was in the company of former Yankee teammates, Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris and Manager Billy Martin. Terry was a teaching golf pro at Cedarhurst, N.Y., last year.

Computer Hobby Intriguing To Young Amateur

By RHONDA SEEGAL
Associated Press Writer
BURLINGTON, Mass. (AP) — "One day at school I saw this funny-looking thing with blinking lights," said 17-year-old Roger Walker of his first encounter with the nation's newest hobby: the digital computer.

"I dropped in to see what it was, then I just kept coming back. I really got hooked on it," added Walker.

Computers — for a long time highly sophisticated and vastly expensive machines requiring platoons of technicians, programmers, mathematicians and engineers to run — now are being sold and used by amateurs. It's happening just the way ham radios and high-fidelity sets passed into the hands of hobbyists of earlier generations.

The nation's first electronic computer, developed at the University of Pennsylvania's Moore school in the 1940s, took several years to build and cost close to $20 million. But technological developments have made it possible to build an equivalent computer for as little as $500.

The advance which makes possible hobby computers is the "microprocessor," a device which does everything the room-sized original at the University of Pennsylvania could do — yet fits on the area of a fingernail and is only millimeters thick.

"This hobby didn't exist five years ago," said Douglas Callihan, 35, a network radio technician in Boston. "Except for the very wealthy, no one had them in his house."

"We used to consider ourselves fortunate when freshmen had calculus. Now we are getting students who have already built their own computers," said Peter Jessel, a computer scientist at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge.

These small, inexpensive and versatile computers can be used for many things, from playing games to solving very technical problems.

"You can connect the computers to your television to play video games, like ping-pong, or you can connect it to a speaker to play music," Jessel explained.

Walker uses his to grade students' tests.

Geoffrey Feldman, 24, a freelance engineer from Amherst, says he's pursuing more sophisticated goals.

"I dropped out of school, and I'm using the computer to educate myself. I'm getting about 10 times the education for the cost," Feldman says.

"Electronic music is getting very involved, and the computer can take over some of the work," he explains. "I had known people were making microprocessors, and I knew it was just a matter of time before the prices began to drop."

"I play games — like backgammon or chess; store some tax information and eliminate a lot of paperwork from my life," Callihan says. "I'm also using it for a lot of common garden variety things, like watching the house with devices that act as eyes."

to do domestic tasks," said Dr. Steve Ward, an MIT professor. "They have become cheap enough so that we can expect them to have a serious impact on household management within the next decade."

"It's not a freak idea. It is the second revolution for computers: computers for the people. It is the beginning of a new kind of computer marketing," according to Halligan. "It is a new retail distribution method of what used to be a very complicated product."

His customers, ranging from age 10 to 65, can buy all kinds of computer parts, including the processing unit, the memory, and connections to hook computers to items already in the home. Halligan says an entire system runs from $700 to $1,200. When completed it looks like a small box and can sit on a table.

"The 'biggies' are starting to catch up to this thing," Feldman adds, referring to the computer "kits" being sold by large computer firms, including Intel, Signetics and MOS Technology.

"It's an exploding marketplace," says a spokesman for Intel, the nation's largest producer of microprocessors. Intel's sales last year totaled $137 million.

Staffs at The Computer Store are trained to help untangle the electronic knots. "There are some people who are clumsy, so we do have backup here. If they really mess something up, we'll help them get it working," Halligan says.

Halligan and Brown also sell the computer hobbyist magazine, BYTE, and display information about the New England Computer Society, a hobbyists' club.

BYTE Magazine published by Carl Helmers, 28, and Virginia Peschke, in Peterborough, N.H., is the best known of the hobby publications. "We have 50,000 subscribers, and it keeps going up," Helmers says. "I think we'll top out at 200,000 to 300,000 people building kits in two to three years."

Until recently, inexpensive computer equipment was not readily available to the general public. But now Massachusetts hobbyists have their own specialty shop, "The Computer Store," here.

Sidney Halligan, 45, and Dick Brown, 43, are owners of the store, one of about a dozen computer hobbyshops in the nation.

"With the low cost and the availability of these computers, they are going to be as much a part of everyday life as the toaster," Halligan believes. "The younger people are going to be in the computer age whether they like it or not."

"Now that there are low-cost computers, the pressure is mounting to develop programs

New Growth In Churches

NEW YORK (AP) — Membership in religious bodies in the United States has risen after losing ground in recent years, according to the National Council of Churches.

The Council released a Yearbook of American and Canadian Churches that reported 132,287,450 persons are members of religious groups, a gain of 1,042,311, or less than 1 per cent, over 1974.

The yearbook also showed that the percentage of the U.S. population holding formal membership in churches in 1975, 62.3 per cent, was up from the 1974 total of 61.9 per cent.

Constant Jacquet Jr., editor of the yearbook, said 223 religious bodies in the United States were surveyed. He said a factor in church growth seemed to be "aggressive missionary activity, efforts by religious groups to reach people in many situations."

The highest rates of growth were recorded by the Roman Catholic Church, the Southern Baptist Convention, the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-day Saints (Mormon), the Assemblies of God, and Jehovah's witnesses.

Many Fear Violence Becoming 'Norm' To Children

By DONAL O'HIGGINS
BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — The senior police officer tossed the local newspaper across his desk and pointed to the headline.

"There's your answer," he said.

The newspaper story told of a 13-year-old girl arrested on a Belfast street for carrying a fully-loaded rifle.

"Compared to some we have caught, she's a veteran," the police officer added.

The story coincided with a full-page government advertisement in Northern Ireland newspapers asking parents if they knew what their children did after nightfall.

The advertisement warned that more than 300 teenagers were in Ulster jails convicted of crimes ranging from murder and armed robbery to possession of explosives.

"Many more could be there, but they blew themselves up," it added.

The advertisement reflected the mounting concern in official quarters at the number of youngsters caught up in the three-way struggle involving the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA), the British army and the Protestant paramilitary organizations.

Police chiefs backed up the warning in a report just sent to Britain's Northern Ireland Secretary Merlyn Rees.

"Many young people have been procured by adults to engage in vicious acts of violence," the report said. "It is vital that parents should be fully aware of this distinct trend and should protect their children against the influence of evil men."

But for the 30,000 children living in Northern Ireland's so-called troubled areas, the whirlpool of violence has become the norm of life.

For nearly seven years now they have lived in the shadow of gunmen. Their streets have been the cockpits of bloody guerrilla warfare. Their heroes have been the men who lie in ambush along the darkened alleyways of the ghettos.

Their games, played out on the bruised and ugly streets, reflect the savagery they see around them.

In the wave of deaths across Ulster which began in August, 1969, nearly 1,500 persons have died. More than 100 of these were under 18 years of age, and 40 of them were still school age.

The youngest victim was Alan Jack from Strabane, just 5 months old when a bomb blew his pram to bits. Another was Angela Gallagher, 7 months old when a sniper's bullet hit her.

The toll of injured has run into hundreds.

Edward Whiteside, director of one of Northern Ireland's Child Welfare Societies, believes the damage may be irreparable.

"God alone knows what price the future will exact from us for the corruption of our youth," he said. "These violence-charged kids of today are the parents of tomorrow."

Some time ago the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children (SPCC) opened a "mothers and toddlers" playgroup in Londonderry in an attempt to wean the kiddies from the atmosphere of violence that pervades the embattled city.

"At first it was rather frightening," Whiteside said. "We had 3-year-olds prattling about barricades and bombs. Everything was bang, bang. They knew the words of sectarian songs, but they had never heard a nursery rhyme."

Whiteside said that even the toys of the kiddies became a problem. Little wooden hammers to knock wooden blocks became potential weapons in the hands of the 3-year-olds.

"We found we had to chain the hammers to the desks," Whiteside said. "Otherwise, they became offensive weapons."

"It seems that even at three years of age, we are already too late," he added. "We need to catch them at birth."

Youth involvement in the IRA is widespread and organized. The IRA has at its command the green-uniformed Fianna, its junior branch, a trained and disciplined force of front-liners, ready to act in whatever capacity it is ordered.

For the Protestant paramilitary Ulster Defense Association (UDA), many of its recruits come fully-trained in the use of rifles and even automatic weapons by courtesy of the British Army Cadet Corps, which still teaches youngsters how to shoot straight despite the fact its own soldiers often end up as the targets.

Dr. Morris Fraser, a psychiatrist at the child guidance clinic at the Royal Victoria Hospital, maintained in a report several years ago that school children in both communities were being taught guerrilla warfare tactics by illegal organizations.

The violence comes in many shapes and in many forms along the darkened streets the youngsters call their homes.

It can be a gasoline bomb lobbed across a wall, a sniper's bullet, a rock-throwing battle with a rival gang.

Or, it can be personal harassment growing out of the British army's struggle to flush out the gunmen from the maze of ghetto homes.

For 9-year-old Bernard Lynch and his 12-year-old pal, Jim Crawford, it came with sudden viciousness.

A teen-age gang from a nearby Protestant street grabbed the two young Roman Catholics while they were playing in a small park near their home in North Belfast.

Jim and Bernard were pinned to the ground. Gasoline was sprinkled over them. An older teen-ager tossed a match and scampered away.

The two boys lay screaming in agony as the flames engulfed them. Quick action by Jim, the oldest, saved both from death or horrible disfigurement. He rolled out his own flames, then pulled Bernard to the ground and smothered the fire with his coat.

Whatever the physical injury, the mental scars run deep as little Bernard Lynch sits with his mother, Kathleen, in the tiny parlor of their two-story home just two weeks after the ordeal.

"He just huddles to himself all the time," says Mrs. Lynch, the mother of six other children. "I can't get him to move out of the house. He shivers, and walks in his sleep."

Bernard clutches his mother anxiously each time she attempts to move away.

Dressed in a multi-colored jersey, his face flushed and scarred, Bernard is asked what he thought of his attackers.

He hides his face in his hands.

"They were bad people," he says. Nothing more.

His mother puts her arms round him. "I know I should not be bitter," she says, "but sometimes it is hard — very hard — not to be."

Bernard's father, Patrick, a muscled man in his mid-thirties, is less forgiving.

"I want to catch that gang myself," he says softly, "just to have a little time with them before the police arrive."

The Lynchs moved into an area known as "the Bonem" after they had been firebombed out of their old home.

Since then, their life has been one of virtual siege. Their home in Ballynure Street is part of a tiny Roman Catholic enclave surrounded by militant Protestants.

The area is one of the deadlied in the city. Sectarian gun battles and IRA attacks on patrolling British troops are commonplace.

Outside the Lynch home, hordes of children play on the concrete sidewalk.

"They have no where else to play," says Mrs. Lynch. "There is only one small park in the area and that has become a battlefield."

For their teenage sons and daughters the only amusement at night is a discoteque in nearby Ardoyne. But to get there, the youngsters must first run the gauntlet of a maze of hostile streets.

"We are terrified each time until they get home again," Mrs. Lynch says.

The only alternative for the teen-agers is to crowd the tiny parlors to watch television or roam the narrow streets.

"We have no social clubs, no milk or coffee bars, no dance halls, no community center," Mrs. Lynch says. "All we have is the street and trouble. Of that we have plenty."

trouble waits." Sam McGrane teaches school in the violence-swept Andersonstown Roman Catholic area of West Belfast. He has watched his pupils grow up in the tension-filled atmosphere of barricaded streets and raided homes.

"We try to insulate the kids for six hours a day," he said. "But the troubles are there waiting at the gate and again when they get home."

A few weeks ago, McGrane asked his class of under-10s to write a short poem on "growing up."

He reached in a drawer and pulled out some exercise books. "Here's one effort," he said:

"I found a big stone
"To throw at a soldier.
"I'm going to get a gun
"When I'm a little older".

McGrane reached for another:
"I'm only nine years old,
"My father's son.
"When I grow up,

"I'll buy a gun
"And shoot those British soldiers...
He produced a third poem, written by an 8-year-old pupil:
"They didn't kick me,
"Or break my arm.
"But what they did
"Does me more harm.
"For they shot and killed
"My brother, Sean."

McGrane shakes his head. "Violence seen or violence contemplated ran right through them all," he says. "What price the future?"

The British army has tried to break down the barriers of hostility surrounding their presence in the province. But the army readily admits there has been little progress in the hardcore areas.

"We have tried several schemes before and we have several going at the moment," a British officer said.

"We don't relish publicity because in the past our projects ended up being bombed out of existence."

One such attempt ended in tragedy. Nick White, a 34-year-old British army sergeant, tried his hand at bringing the youth of both communities together. He quit the army, married a local girl, and opened a disco along the "peace line" between the warring factions.

For a while, teen-agers from both areas danced, sang and listened to records together. Then, on March 13, Nicky White, known locally as the "good Samaritan," paid the price.

Gunmen waylaid him and left his riddled body as a warning of what happens in Belfast to those who would seek to bridge the centuries-old gap of sectarian hatreds.

But the effort still goes on. Army youth teams run adventure playgroups, organize holiday projects and outings.

Success has come only in "soft" areas.

"We don't despair of getting into the trouble areas," an officer said. "Some day, perhaps."

And the welfare societies keep trying.

The SPCC runs about 54 playgroups across the province. "Sometimes I think we are making headway," Whiteside said.

But the other day one of his child welfare trucks was hijacked by a group of gun-toting kids.

"That sort of makes me wonder," he said.

Snag Looms On NBC Contract

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Some 1,700 striking NBC technicians, newswriters and other employees vote tonight on a new four-year contract. If they approve it, they'll end their seven-week strike and return to work Monday.

That's the word from Ed Lynch, head of the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians (NABET), whose members at NBC walked off the job April 1 after failing to reach agreement on a new contract.

"I hope they accept it," says Lynch of the proposed contract that would give most of NBC's engineers and newswriters $500 a week in the final year of the pact. Balloting is to end by midnight Friday.

The union, whose members struck NBC facilities here and in Washington, D.C.; Cleveland; Chicago; San Francisco, and Burbank, Calif., has recommended approval of the proposed contract.

But there could be a snag. Lynch says the contract could be turned down for the entire membership if any of NABET's 14 units at NBC facilities vote to reject the proposed agreement.

He said the agreement to which NABET and NBC say they've tentatively agreed "simply says neither party is obliged to sign (the contract) if any unit doesn't ratify it."

The majority of NABET members at NBC are technicians. But the union's jurisdiction also includes all newswriters, as well as building maintenance men here, air conditioning technicians here and in Burbank, and mailroom staffers and messengers in Chicago, Lynch says.

If any NABET unit rejects the proposed contract, he said, the union's negotiators will try to learn why and resolve any differences. Asked what happens if the unit still balks, he would say, "Anything can happen."

On Wednesday a week ago, NABET members rejected an NBC contract offer on which the union had made no recommendations.

The main issues in the strike have centered around operation of the new light, hand-held TV cameras called "minicams" used in news coverage, additional fees paid NABET crews when they aren't given a full hour for lunch when in the field covering news stories, and work schedules.

However, "in recent weeks it has been money," said Lynch, whose troops are being offered a total increase in pay of 38 percent over four years.

NBC's technical supervisors and management personnel have filed in for the strikers since the labor dispute began, occasionally with obvious technical difficulties.

But the network says the strike only has forced one program change — postponement of a new daytime game show, "The Fun Factory," scheduled to premiere in mid-April. Its planned time slot currently is being filled with repeats of "Magnificent Marble Machine," which it was to replace.

Cross-District Busing Ordered

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Some of the 23,000 students in Wilmington's city and suburban school systems will be bused to classes beginning in 1977 under a court-ordered desegregation plan that cuts across school district boundaries.

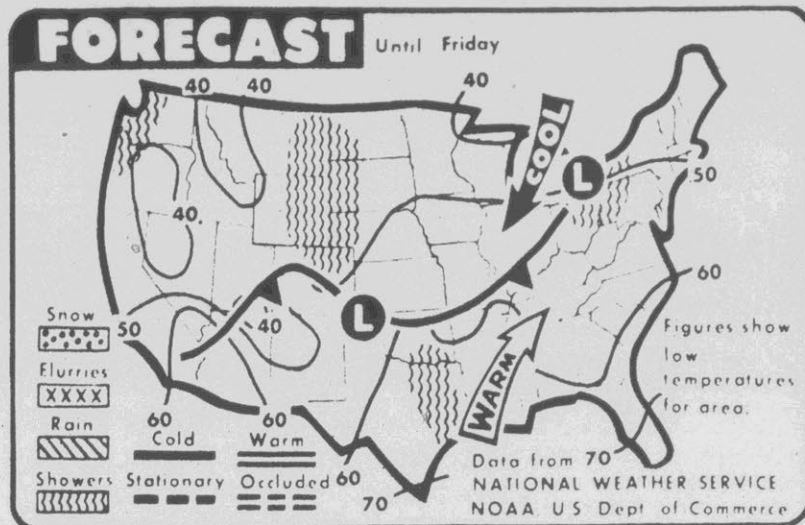

It wasn't known immediately how many of the pupils in the mostly black city system and the primarily white suburban districts will be affected by the order issued Wednesday by a panel of three federal court judges.

Federal courts in at least two instances have required busing across current school district lines to meet the 1954 U.S. Supreme Court ruling banning separate-but-equal schools systems.

Louisville, Ky., is operating under a court-ordered busing plan which cut across school district boundaries and led to the merger of city and county school systems. A court-ordered desegregation plan for Indianapolis has been stayed for an appeal.

The Supreme Court ruled in 1974 in a case involving Detroit that cross-district busing is a valid tool for integration only when it has been proven that the suburban school districts also were intentionally and illegally segregated. In that case, the court found that only De-

WEATHER FORECAST—Showers are due today in eastern Texas, the Pacific northwest coast, the Rockies and northern Plains and the eastern Great Lakes area. Cooler temperatures are indicated in the Midwest and warmer temperatures moving into the southeast (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
A warming trend began in North Carolina today after a record-cold low overnight at the Raleigh-Durham Airport.

It got down to 46 degrees at the airport, equalling the record cold for a May 20th set in 1945 and also tied in 1953 and 1968.

Skies were sunny today and temperatures got into the low to mid 80s. Exceptions were some 70s in the mountains and on the Outer Banks.

Skies will continue fair tonight. Lows will range from the 40s across the mountains to around 60 along the coast. It will continue sunny Friday. Temperatures will warm to near 90, except for the low to mid 80s in the mountains and on the Outer Banks.

High pressure centered over the Gulf states will dominate the weather across North Carolina through Friday.

A weak cold front will push southward through the state Friday night and Saturday. As a result, the outlook for the weekend is for partly cloudy skies with high in the mid 70s to mid 80s. Overnight lows will be in the 50s.

Brisk westerly winds blew across North Carolina Wednesday.

day. Skies were sunny in the afternoon, and temperatures generally rose into the low to mid 70s. However, it remained in the 60s in the mountains.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, MAY 21, 1976

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Rely upon your intuitions which are accurate now, but do some additional double-checking as others may not give you the facts as you understand them and you are likely to need some additional information to cement an interesting plan.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Listen to the advice given you by some very wise person you know. Evening should be spent at home.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be sure the campaign you are pursuing privately is right for you before you go on with it. Postpone handling a puzzling responsibility.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get needed backing from bigwig and avoid an associate who isn't thinking straight today. Consider matters well before reaching important decisions.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get good pal's assistance to improve set-up for personal activities. Handle only that work that is absolutely necessary today.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Take care of those affairs that will give you added prestige and monetary comfort and then you can have a good time with congenials.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get needed data to proceed with new interests. Be patient at home and a problem straightens out naturally.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Go to that bigwig who can give you the added support you need now to handle some important matter well, using a different approach.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Use different tactics in handling some matter that is important to you and get far better results. Build up savings. Be charming.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't be so positive about stating your ideas which need more study first. Get out of that feeling of despondency.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Put your finest skills to work for profit, prestige, and pleasure. Forget a private anxiety and concentrate on the constructive.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Give more attention, affection to family. Avoid friends today not properly attuned to you. Spend time reading, improving your lot in life.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can reach a really fine understanding with partners. Don't argue with higher-ups, or you get into trouble.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be charming, practical and down-to-earth and should be taught early to use only standard and orthodox methods for best results throughout the lifetime; otherwise there will be confusion, especially where foreign affairs are concerned. A fine business person in this chart, provided you teach right ethics early and give good religious training.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

College Honors Busing Judge

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr. will receive an honorary degree from Holy Cross College on Friday.

A college spokesman said Garrity will be honored for withstanding criticism of his racial integration school busing orders and for enforcing the law in Boston.

The judge's 91-year-old father is the college's oldest living alumnus, and the judge's son is to graduate from Holy Cross this year.

ELECTRICITY COSTS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fuel — coal, oil and nuclear energy — and taxes account for almost half the average household electricity bill.

Bad breaks can wreck seemingly impregnable contracts. South had the opportunity to test the distribution at virtually no cost when he became declarer at six clubs on his hand from a rubber bridge game at New York's Cavendish Club. Failure to do so proved expensive.

North drove to slam as soon as his side located a fit. When South showed up with only one ace, there was a risk that North-South were off two quick heart tricks. Fortunately, all turned out well in that department.

West led a heart. East won the ace and returned the suit to dummy's queen. Declarer cashed the ace and king of trumps, and was mildly dismayed when West showed out on the second round. Since the only transportation to his hand was in trumps, declarer now tried to cash the ace-queen of diamonds. East ruffed for down one.

Declarer could have played the hand in a slightly better way. Since the contract had little chance if all the missing diamonds were in one hand, declarer should have cashed only the king of clubs after winning the queen of hearts. Then, he should have cashed the ace of diamonds. If both defenders followed to this trick with low diamonds, declarer can revert to trumps and he would make his slam if diamonds split 3-2, or if trumps divided 3-2 and something favorable developed in the spade suit.

However, when the jack of diamonds falls under the ace, the contract becomes a virtual laydown. Declarer crosses to his hand with the ace of clubs, learning of the trump break. Since it is most unlikely that East started with one diamond and only two hearts, declarer must now cash the king of hearts and sluff dummy's queen of diamonds!

The rest is simple. A low diamond is ruffed with dummy's jack of trumps, and the last two trumps are drawn. The king and ten of diamonds extract West's remaining cards in the suit, and the rest of declarer's diamonds are good. The slam coasts home.

Manmade Harbor Has Exceeded Expectation

By HUBERT J. ERB
Associated Press Writer
ROSTOCK, East Germany
(AP) — East Germany, which was left without a major seaport after World War II, has developed a thriving manmade harbor here that already needs expansion only 16 years after it was built.

The port, inside a sheltered Baltic Sea cove, handled 14 million tons of cargo in 1975 and the volume is growing by about one million tons a year, government officials claim.

This has been accomplished despite delayed development of a transportation system that had to be built again from scratch. Rail traffic has been restored, and a road-building program is under way.

In comparison, the older port at Hamburg in West Germany, which is fed by an inland water system of canals and rivers in addition to a modern rail and highway system, handled 52.6 million tons in 1974.

As the war ended, the Russians occupied the old German seacoast from Koenigsberg in East Prussia westward to just short of Luebeck, now in West Germany.

Koenigsberg remains in Russian hands and is the Soviet Union's largest naval base on the Baltic. The other major ports — Danzig and Stettin — were given to Poland.

Rocks from all over East Germany were brought in as fill when the Costock port was built between 1957 and 1960. A harbor and a 36-foot-deep channel were dredged.

Siegfried Silberbach, 45, harbor director since 1973, said plans are being made to make the channel six feet deeper.

"Then we must develop the oil section of the harbor further," said Silberbach. "You must be able to unload any tanker, regardless of size, within 24 hours."

Soviet and East German ships provide about half the tonnage handled in Rostock, Silberbach said. West German ships account for about a quarter of the traffic, an aide said.

Silberbach said 92 per cent of all cargo leaving and entering the port by land moves by rail. A Rostock-Berlin autobahn — the first major highway construction in East Germany since the war — is half finished.

The new road will mean a development of container freight at the port, Silberbach said, with what he called "roll-on, roll-off" handling — trucks carrying their loads onto and off the ships.

The Soviets rely on the East Germans as shipbuilders for the growing Russian merchant fleet. A harbor tour showed three ships, including an 18-ton container carrier, under construction.

WANT A PET PEANUT? — Jimmy Carter's campaign workers at Plains, Ga., have found an interesting way to pass the time on primary election nights while awaiting the voting results. They have begun to manufacture "pet peanuts." A peanut, a little white paint, a pair of ears, a tail and a painted-on face complete the job. The pets sell for a dollar each with money going to Carter's campaign fund. (AP Wirephoto)

Cleanup Now Nearly Done

SUMMERVILLE, S.C. (AP)—The tornado which cut through Summerville about 2:35 a.m. Tuesday did an unofficial $700,000 damage, but injured only one person slightly and cleanup operations are almost completed.

Most of the trees and building debris have been removed, and town councilman Thomas W. Bailey said all roads were clear by Wednesday. Despite heavy damage to power and telephone lines, electricity was restored to most homes by 2:30 p.m. Tuesday and a spokesman for Southern Bell Telephone Co. said all telephone service was to be restored by Wednesday night.

Evaluators from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers have prepared what a spokesman described as an "unofficial preliminary report" showing that the storm did about $700,000 damage to an area one mile long by one-fourth mile wide.

Specifically, the report cites commercial damage at about $390,000, residential damage at $400,000, power line damage at about $120,000, telephone line damage at $50,000, tree damage at about $30,000 and debris cleanup is estimated to cost $70,000.

The report also mentions 200 damaged or destroyed trees and 15 damaged businesses.

Space Studies Aid Crop Yields

HOUSTON (UPI) — Study of the earth's resources from space can help scientists find ways to feed a rapidly expanding population, according to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

NASA says studies already completed by the Skylab program and other space flights have allowed accurate estimates of the acreage of wheat, barley, corn, rice and other high nutrition crops.

The studies also have allowed scientists to pinpoint locations of crop diseases and insect infestations and to determine anticipated crop yields.

Organized Publishing Company To Get Ahead

By JOHN J. MULLINS
Associated Press Writer
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Students at Harvard College, seeking a better chance for a job after graduation, have formed their own publishing house.

"Being a young writer and trying to get into publishing can be frustrating," said John Whitman, a senior from Bethesda, Md., and editorial chairman of The Undergraduate Press. "There is no real set-out route to get into the field of publishing."

Whitman and three other undergraduates were chosen for the executive board in a competition last spring. Another competition now under way is aimed at getting 20 new members.

The Undergraduate Press is chartered as a regular campus organization. Students receive no course credit for their work.

The Press hopes to publish its first three books next fall. They are planning: "Is There Life After Harvard?" a guide to job hunting and career planning; a book on French mannerisms and gestures, and an anthology of short prose.

The first was written by Harvard students, assisted by members of the staff of Harvard's Office of Career Services and Off-Campus Learning. Text of the French book is by Laurence C. Wylie, professor of French civilization, and photographs are by Rick Stafford, university photographer.

The anthology will contain work by Harvard undergraduates and by college graduates living in the Boston-Cambridge area.

"Our business people are looking around for small presses" to print the books, Whitman said.

Staffers also are looking into distributing firms, although some distribution will be done by the Harvard University Press, which also provided some of the original financing. "Ultimately, we'd like to set up a college network" to distribute the books, Whitman said. That project would involve getting students at other universities to interest their university bookstores in selling the books.

Arthur J. Rosenthal, director of the Harvard University Press, had a hand in founding the Undergraduate Press.

Talk of such an organization began three years ago after he was invited to speak on book publishing at one of Harvard's residential houses.

"There was a tremendous influx of students who seemed to be very, very interested in publishing," Rosenthal said. The job market was tight at the time, he said, and he thought if students could get experience in the entire publishing operation, from the handling of manuscripts to reaching the book buyer, they could "see if they really wanted to go into the field and get a leg up on getting a job."

Also working with the undergraduates is a board of three faculty advisers, and a group of founders. The latter group is composed of professionals in the publishing field.

LEGAL NOTICE

The North Carolina Clean Water Bond Act of 1971, as amended, requires that public notice be given of receipt of each eligible application for a State grant from funds allotted for use in the various counties of the State to aid in financing the cost of construction of water supply system projects.

The Division of Health Services has received an application from the Town of Ayden in Pitt County for a State grant under the North Carolina Clean Water Bond Act of 1971. The application seeks a grant of $4,541.00 from funds allocated for use in Pitt County. This grant would be applied as a portion of the construction cost of a water supply system project. The proposed project consists of 2700 lineal feet of 6 inch PVC water main. The proposed water extension will loop two existing lines and will make water available to 23 existing lots and 1,000 LF of road frontage along SR 1122. May 20, 1976

TOYOTA FOR PRECEDENT
ALL NEW TOYOTAS ON SALE PLUS OUR USED CARS ARE GUARANTEED 12 Months or 12,000 Miles.
 This guarantee applies to cars selling for $1000.00 and up. On a 50-50 basis. All work must be done in our shop.
 Most good used cars, if they're guaranteed at all, are only covered for a month or two. At Tarheel Toyota, we're just as willing to back our good used cars as our good new cars. So we guarantee the motor, transmission and rear end for 12 months or 12,000 miles. This warranty applies to all cars selling for $1000.00 or more on a 50-50 basis with all work being done in our shop. It doesn't apply to any sports cars, high performance engines or 4-speed transmission (except economy cars). If you're in the market for a BETTER USED CAR, COME OUT AND LOOK AT OURS. We'll show you some as good as new. Guaranteed. Warranted Cars

Resurgence Of Radio Attracts More Playwrights

By TOM HARRIGAN
Associated Press Writer
MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Playwrights Edward Albee, Archibald MacLeish and Terence Rattigan are in Karl Schmidt's worldwide stable of writers. Schmidt also wants Arthur Miller and Tennessee Williams to sign up to write plays — for the world's public radio stations.

Creative juices which have alternately flowed to the stage, radio, film and television in recent decades are returning to radio, says Schmidt, artistic director of the Earplay series of dramas for public radio.

"In Europe, all the best writers work for radio," he says. But in United States' commercial broadcasting "all of the creative energy goes into those imaginative 30 seconds garbage pits," Schmidt declared, referring to huge sums for production of commercials.

The Earplay series is being produced primarily in Minneapolis, with occasional trips to other locations, using funds provided by the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

Well known U.S. actors and actresses have been used for some new productions to be broadcast starting in October. Members of prestigious repertory casts are used for other works.

A highlight of the 1975-76 series of Earplay programs has been MacLeish's new work, "The Great American Fourth of July Parade." It is a dialogue between Thomas Jefferson and John Adams, as they might comment on present day America.

Schmidt, 53, is a University of Wisconsin professor and a former manager of the public radio network in Wisconsin. He sees the plays commissioned by Earplay eventually reaching other media beyond the 180-station National Public Radio network.

Earplay was able to provide only $2,000 for Albee's new play, "Listening," produced in New York and directed by the author. But the International Commissioning group that includes Earplay came up with a nine nation guarantee of $13,000, enough to bring Albee into the fold. It is expected he will clear about $20,000 when other national public radio systems buy rights, while retaining rights for other media.

"When you create that kind of market opportunity for a writer, you are producing a service beyond just noncommercial radio," said Schmidt, who thinks Albee's play will be a stage production later.

Although the Albee and MacLeish works are the attention getters, Schmidt says the overall aim of Earplay is to develop new writers, giving them a chance to have their work displayed.

"A writer learns more from having a play produced than from all other things combined," Schmidt said, "and the writer is the most important animal in the whole business."

Schmidt says there has been "interest both ways" in an original radio play by Arthur Miller. Miller's "Death of a Salesman" also could be an Earplay production shortly, since "George C. Scott said he'd be happy to have us along if he remounts another production," Schmidt said.

The Guthrie Theater Company of Minneapolis has been used for several new productions, including original plays and classical stage works.

Robert Lansing, a 1960s' television star in "Twelve O'Clock High," was cast in MacLeish's "J.B." recently, along with Nancy Marchand of the 1975 TV series, "Beacon Hill."

The lead in Henrik Ibsen's "A Doll's House" was played by Broadway and Guthrie actress Cara Duff-MacCormick, who also has a role in the new movie "All the President's Men."

Aiding Schmidt in stereo production techniques on several of the dramas was John Tydeman, a director on loan from the British Broadcasting Co. He has 15 years experience in such drama work, mostly for radio.

"The top playwrights in England and Europe do most of their work for noncommercial production," said Tydeman, "If you are going to have excellence in the arts, it has to be subsidized. The BBC provides an outlet for 70 new writers a year and produces about 700 new plays."

Earplay has reached the point where it goes over about 20 new scripts each month.

Schmidt feels "we may be seeing a reversal of what many people feel is an unfortunate one-way street of creativity from the BBC to U.S. noncommercial broadcasting."

One of the new writers, Anne Leaton, Fort Worth, Tex., got the basic $1,000 fee for a half-hour play, "The Sound of the Planet Dissolving." Subsequent sale of her work to Canada, England, Sweden, West Germany, South Africa, New Zealand and Australia has earned another $8,000, and her play is being considered by several other radio organizations in other nations.

Those Manikins Were Moving

ABERDEEN, S. D. (AP) — When is the hand, or the whole body, quicker than the eye?

Aberdeen shoppers found out for themselves recently when Northern State College students posed as manikins in a downtown department store window as a stunt to promote the student production of "South Pacific."

The students, dressed as characters from "The Wizard of Oz," "Lion in Winter" and "Camelot," tried to attract the attention of passersby with winks, quick movements and taps on the window.

Reactions ranged from doubletakes and screams of surprise to "That one's a person. They're ALL people!"

Some Senility Due To Disease

CHICAGO (UPI) — Elderly persons believed to be senile may have a treatable disease instead, according to a team of physicians here conducting a study to separate treatable from nontreatable cases.

Using the newest radiological tool, computerized tomography, Dr. Michael S. Huckman, radiologist, and Drs. Jacob Fox and Jordan Topei, neurologists, at Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center, found that three of the 60 patients believed to be suffering from senile dementia had other diseases.

When treated, the patients were relieved of their dementia totally or partially. One patient had pernicious anemia and two lacked thyroid hormone.

Jewish Guide In Scandinavia

NEW YORK (UPI) — Interesting and informative is the booklet "Jewish Life in Scandinavia," available without cost from Scandinavian Airlines-SAS or Scandinavian National Tourist Offices. The illustrated, 16-page brochure outlines the 350-year history of Jewish community life in the Nordic countries and also can serve as a tourist guide to points of special interest for Jewish visitors to Norway, Denmark, Sweden and Finland.

The "Star-Spangled Banner" was not designated the National Anthem until 1931.
