Mixed Results In Tuesday's Primaries

By DAVE GOLDBERG
Associated Press Writer

Rhode Island Democrats have thrown additional question marks into the Democratic race for president by giving Jerry Brown what he says is a victory that makes him the pre-eminent challenger to front-runner Jimmy Carter.

On a primary day in which the voters continued to send out mixed signals and five of the six major candidates involved claimed some sort of victory, the most notable result was in Rhode Island. There a small turnout of voters gave an uncommitted slate 32 per cent of the vote to 30 per cent for Carter, the former Georgia governor, and 28 per cent for Idaho Sen. Frank Church.

Brown, the California governor, had urged voters to vote uncommitted, and when they did, he said they were really voting for him.

In other results from Tuesday's primaries, Ronald Reagan defeated President Ford in Republican voting in Montana and South Dakota but Ford gained a 2-1 victory in Rhode Island and swept all 19 delegates there. That gave the President a 28-11 edge in delegates for the day, although Montana has still to select its slate of 20 at a convention.

Carter, meanwhile, was winning in South Dakota with a 41-34 per cent edge over Arizona Rep. Morris K. Udall, who had hoped to win his first primary and instead finished second for the eighth time. And Church captured Montana easily with over 60 per cent of the vote to 24 per cent for Carter.

So going into next Tuesday's primaries in California, New Jersey and Ohio, which will select 540 Democratic delegates and 331 on the Republican side, this is the way they stand:

Republicans, with 1,130 delegate votes needed for nomination: Ford 805, Reagan 654, uncommitted 144.

Democrats, with 1,505 needed: Carter 903, Udall 308.5, with an uncommitted bloc of 415.5. Brown, who got no official delegates on Tuesday, is far down the list with 18, although he should improve that standing next week in his home state of California where there are 280 at stake.

On the whole, Carter said, it wasn't a bad day.

"We are very pleased about South Dakota," he said, "I really believe that the so-called stop Carter movement has much less significance than it did a week or so ago. I believe there's a growing feeling that an effort to stop anybody at this late date is divisive."

Udall, who has been saying regularly that the nomination is still open, seemed this time to agree with Carter. Udall said that if the former Georgia governor wins a solid victory in Ohio, it "will make it very unlikely that anyone is going to stop him. . . I may well be all over."

Church, however, said his candidacy is still very much alive and said he was satisfied with Rhode Island. He said he didn't consider the results there a victory for Brown because it isn't clear who the uncommitteds represent.

On the Republican side, both Ford and Reagan claimed the day as a victory.

Ford campaign manager Rogers C.B. Morton said the President had done better than expected in South Dakota and Rhode Island.

The Ford forces were particularly happy about their delegate sweep in Rhode Island, accomplished under a complicated formula by winning the vote statewide and in congressional districts and holding Reagan under the 33.3 per cent figure he needed statewide to win any delegates.

Ford himself called campaign workers in Rhode Island and, noting it had rained there during the day, said: "The sun shone in the right spots on the ballot boxes."

But Reagan, in California, said he had never expected to win in Rhode Island and was

City School Board Okays Bids; Hears Report On 3rd St. School

seeding bids for the Greenville Middle School were accepted and the status of Third Street

Elementary School was discussed at a special call meeting of the Greenville Board of Education Monday night.

Board members approved a low bid of $81,700 submitted by the East Coast Construction Company of Jacksonville for basic grading work and for one alternate, that of seeding and fertilizing the school ground. The base bid for draining came to $67,000; and the seeding and fertilizer bid was $14,700, for the $81,700 total.

Two other bids were received — from Barrus Construction Company for a total of $98,835; and Frank G. Vaughn at $89,138.50. Two firms contacted did not submit bids.

The accepted bid runs $1,740 above the cost figure of $79,960 projected in the initial estimate. Two alternates were dropped from the original bid proposal in order to get a bid for the base work and the one alternate considered most essential within or near the original $79,960 estimate. The dropped alternates were for adding mulch to the ground; and adding a drain line and five catch basins in the area enclosing the athletic field portion of the school grounds.

Board approval of the low bid followed a presentation by George Shoe of Dudley and Shoe, Architects, architects for the new school.

Shoe pointed out that since the athletic field is designed for eventual use as a major sports area, it is not essential at this time that the field be drained in the same manner as it will need to be at the time it may be put into full athletic use. He also noted that the base bid for drainage includes "intact" the original design for basic drainage from the roof and the ground adjacent to the building site.

In addition, a stipulation is being written into the bid proposal for the building con-

CB INTERFERENCE

CB radios blare into my home and I can't watch a tv program for the sound or color going off. I called the police department and they said to contact the FCC in Norfolk, but I don't know the address. Mrs. J. T.

Hotline has received a number of calls similar to yours just recently. Ed Wadiak, assistant engineer in charge at the FCC office in Norfolk, said that interference on televisions, radios, and stereos in home near CB transmitters can be caused by problems with the transmitter or problems with the tv, radio, or stereo. It's possible, he said, to put a filtering device on the CB transmitter to prevent "spurious and harmonic radiation" and also to put a high pass filter on the home entertainment appliances to "reduce the level of the CB signal being received." The CB device is likely to cost in the neighborhood of $15 to $20, he said. The addition to the tv or other home appliance would cost about $5.50, not counting installation, he said. Persons who know they have a problem, but do not know whether the fault lies with the transmitter or the receiver may describe exactly what's happening and send it to the FCC, 870 N. Military Highway, Norfolk, Va. 23503 Wadiak said. The problem will be analyzed and an answer sent. A stamped self-addressed envelope may speed up the reply, Wadiak said.

Sunday In The Park Returns

'Wellcome' Name Given To Middle School By Pitt County Board

By SUSAN QUINN
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Board of Education named the new Belvoir Stokes-Pactolus Middle School, Wellcome School at its Tuesday meeting.

Wellcome was one of three selections recommended by the Belvoir Stokes-Pactolus Middle School Advisory Council for the new school's name. The other names that the Advisory Council had recommended were William Pitt School and Golden Leaf School.

The board approved a tentative school calendar for the 1976-77 school year. According to the tentative calendar which must be approved by the advisory councils of each school, school would begin August 8, 1976 and end June 10, 1977 for teachers and would begin August 30 for students and end June 9 for students. The calendar allows for 12.5 vacation days for personnel, eight holidays, for personnel, one student orientation day, 180 student days, and 17.5 workdays for teachers.

The board honored retiring personnel by presenting each of them a certificate of merit. Those receiving certificates included the following: Eva Smith, Thelma Switzer, Marjorie Adams, Olive Smith, Vivian Weatherly, Ina Venters, Korna Owens Walker, Hazel Baker Bass, Lula Beamon, Louise Lee, Dea B. Hawkins, Annie Jackson, Felice Garriss, Maggie Lee McGlohon, Ellen Gorham, Carolyn Chance, and Linda Quinerly.

After hearing a report from Assoc. Supt. Tom Craft and Dr. J. O. Carson about a meeting between the Contentnea Metropolitan Sewage District officials and board members, the board voted to grant permission for CMSD easements to be constructed in front of Grifton School and to not plan to connect the Ayden-Grifton High School to the CMSD at this time.

After recommendations by Supt. Ott Alford and Bobby Stokes the board voted to employ Rodney Bullock to replace Lelon Forlines as Transportation Supervisor upon Forlines' retirement January 1, 1977.

A final examination schedule was passed by the Board. One final examination will be held Friday, June 4, two on Monday, June 7, two on Tuesday, June 8 and one on Wednesday, June 9 with schools dismissing at 11:30 for high schools and 12 noon for other schools.

The board voted to grant permission to Farmville Central Tennis Club to make the tennis facilities available for public use, insure proper supervision and maintenance, provide proper tennis instruction, and promote the game of tennis this summer. Members of the tennis club will pay a $5 membership fee and tennis lessons will be offered for $1 per hour.

W. H. Robinson School principal, Blanie Moye and Jean Averette, director of staff Development for Children with Special Needs, an in-house training program for staff members who work with exceptional children presented the board information about the training. They also presented a copy of Teaching The Learning Disabled, by Bill Gearheart which includes sections and photos of Pitt County Schools.

Janie Manning reported to the board on the status of objectionable material in the

Scotland Neck Sees Arrests

SCOTLAND NECK, N.C. (AP) — Twenty-four demonstrators have been arrested in Scotland Neck in the second consecutive night of mass arrests of picketers protesting the court's handling of a local murder case.

Twenty-one adults and three juveniles were arrested Tuesday night as they demonstrated against the granting of $75,000 bond to Sandra Dupree. Mrs. Dupree, the wife of a white Baptist minister, is charged with first-degree murder in the shooting death of Harry L. Dickens, a 21 year-old black man.

Fifteen black demonstrators also were arrested on Monday night.

On both evenings, most of those arrested were charged with picketing without a permit and failure to disperse. Bond for each was set at $600.

Scotland Neck officials have declared the town under a state of emergency. Forty-eight hours notice is required before parade permits are issued.

A fire broke out at Edwards Fork Commissary about a mile and a half from Scotland Neck shortly after the arrests were made Tuesday. Police believe it was set deliberately, and called in the State Bureau of Investigation.

Protestors were warned Tuesday evening by civil rights leader Golden Frinks to remain nonviolent. He told them the rock-throwing incidents which occurred during Monday night's demonstrations had hurt their cause.

Demonstrations of both blacks and whites have been common in Scotland Neck since Mrs. Dupree, 34, was released on bond. Blacks contend she received preferential treatment because she is white. Whites have supported her efforts to be freed on bond.

Tuesday's incident was the third time blacks have been arrested during the protests. Ten persons were charged with picketing without a permit April 9. Their cases have been continued twice and are docketed for trial in district court June 8.

Suspect Slain After Robbery

EDENTON, N.C. (AP) — An unidentified man was found shot to death and a police officer was wounded Tuesday after officers confronted two men believed to have held up a bank.

"They intercepted them about a block or two from the bank," Police Chief J.D. Parrish said today. "One subject ran. The second subject — the deceased — started firing at the patrol car."

Parrish said Corporal William Spruill was wounded in the leg in a burst of close-range gunfire that shattered front and side windows of the patrol car.

As other officers arrived, the gunman raced into a nearby backyard covered with tall grass, where he was found dead minutes later, the chief said.

Parrish said investigators believe the gunman may have killed himself.

"If they (the officers) had hit him, he would have been lying on the street," he said. "He ran about half block into a yard with high grass. Three shots were heard. The officers never fired into that area."

Parrish said the dead man could not be identified immediately.

"We haven't identified him ourselves yet," he said. "I feel like if he was a local man some of the officers could identify him."

The second man sought in the robbery of a drive-in branch of the People's Bank and Trust Co. remained at large, Parrish said. A Highway Patrol Helicopter joined the search for a few hours Tuesday night but the man eluded the dragnet.

The wounded officer, who was the first to answer the bank alarm and spot the two men, was reported in fair condition in the Chowan Hospital.

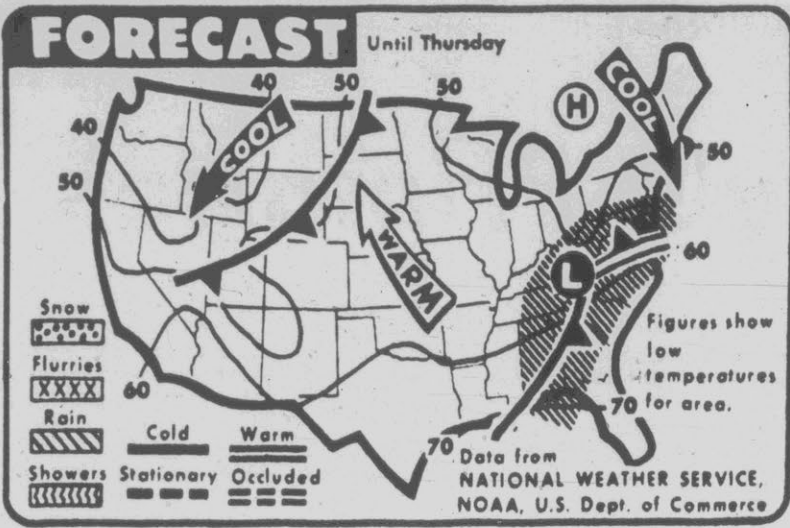

Parrish said the stolen money, which was abandoned during the shootout, was recovered. A man was taken into custody shortly after the shooting and held for questioning. However, Parrish said officers determined the man was not involved in the robbery and released him.

How's The Weather? Rose High Holds Awards Day

WEATHER FORECAST—Rain is forecast Wednesday from the eastern Gulf to lower Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Cooler weather is forecast for the Northwest and for New England but seasonal temperatures are expected elsewhere. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
A flash flood watch is in effect for the North Carolina mountains today.
Showers and thunderstorms wet the state and will do so again Thursday. The rain was heavy at times in the mountains.
Highs today were in the mid 60s to low 70s in the mountains. The range was to the low and mid 80s in southeastern North Carolina.
Thunderstorms began developing over South Carolina Tuesday afternoon. They moved into the southwest mountains of North Carolina by late afternoon, and had pushed eastward into the coastal plain by evening.
Some wind damage was reported near Fayetteville. Warnings were issued for southern coastal plain and southern Piedmont counties in the evening.

Warm, moist air and unstable conditions, coupled with heating and the nearness of a frontal zone north and west of the state, will give North Carolina unsettled conditions the next few days. There will be showers and thunderstorms, especially during the afternoon and evening. Some of the thunderstorms could produce locally heavy rain, gusty winds and hail.
It was warm again Tuesday, with the 80s scattered about, and some mid 90s over eastern counties. The mountains reported a range from 60 degrees atop mile-high Grandfather Mountain to 84 degrees at Black Mountain.

Syrian Troops Move To Strengthen Hold

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian troops and tanks took over the harbor at Sidon, 25 miles south of Beirut, today and occupied the neighboring American oil refinery, leftist Lebanese sources reported.
Observers said the Syrian command was safeguarding its oil supplies before sending troops to Beirut to force an end to the 14-month-old civil war in which an estimated 26,000 Lebanese and Palestinians have been killed.
Syria has been getting much of its military fuel from the Sidon refinery, which is operated by the Mediterranean Refining Co. (Medreco), since Iraq stopped pumping oil through pipelines across Syria two months ago.

Medreco processes crude oil from Saudi Arabia.
Other forward units of the Syrian force that pushed into eastern Lebanon on Tuesday were reported to have stopped at the Dahar Al-Baidar pass 20 miles east of Beirut. Their advance was opposed by leftist Lebanese forces with tanks manning the hilltops along the Damascus-Beirut highway, but there was no word of fighting there.
Security officials said civil-war fighting between the Lebanese Moslems and Christians diminished sharply Tuesday as the leaders of the warring factions concentrated on news of the Syrian advance. But street battles and rocket duels in Beirut stepped up again during the night.
Security officials also reported clashes during the night between guerrillas of the Saiga Palestinian organization controlled by Syria and Palestinian radicals in refugee camps on the southern outskirts of Beirut. The officials had no details, and guerrilla spokesmen refused to comment.

Arab diplomats said the Syrian air force had been alerted for action should resistance to the invasion develop.
Beirut newspapers reported more Syrian troops crossed the border during the night, raising the total in Lebanon to 15,000.
The Syrian government said its latest intervention in the civil war was requested by Moslem units of the disintegrated Lebanese Army and was aimed at ending the war.
"This bloodbath is a crime not only against Lebanon but also against the entire Arab nation," said the statement broadcast by Damascus Radio. "Syria's duty was to move in to stop it and consolidate the legitimacy of President-elect Elias Sarkis."

Parliament elected Sarkis, a Christian, on May 8, but President Suleiman Franjeh, the symbol of Christian resistance to Moslem demands for more political power, has refused to resign.
The Syrian invasion was another attempt by Syrian President Hafez Assad to end the Lebanese war before the Moslem leftist forces led by Kamal Jumblatt and their Palestinian allies wiped out Christian resistance and installed a radical Moslem regime in Beirut.

Selected For Program

Carol Anne Grossnickle, a junior at Rose High, has been selected to attend a pre-college program sponsored by the National Science Foundation at the University of Georgia, Athens, this summer.

Carol Grossnickle
"Neurological Dysfunction in Children" is the subject of Ms. Grossnickle's course in the field of psychology.
The program is for gifted students in areas of physical and behavioral sciences and in mathematics. Students from across the U.S. and foreign countries will attend. Students usually assist a scientist in research work, with much of the student research conducted on an individual basis.
Ms. Grossnickle is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W.F. Grossnickle. She has been active in the French Club for three years and is a marshal.

Girls State Planned For June

GREENSBORO — Over 300 rising high school seniors from every county in the state will participate in the 37th annual Tar Heel Girls State scheduled for June 13-19 at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. Gov. James Holshouser and Attorney General Rufus Edmisten will head the list of speakers at the annual conference, which is designed to give the girls greater insight into everyday politics through simulation of local and state governments.

The conference will be sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary.

The girls will hold mock political conventions, introduce legislation, elect a governor and state officials to Girls State, elect two senators to Girls Nation, elect outstanding citizens and carry out other governmental functions.

Holshouser will speak on Friday, June 18, at 9 a.m. on the "Duties of the Governor's Office." Edmisten will discuss "The Peoples' Attorney" on Wednesday, June 16, at 3 p.m. Dr. A. Craig Phillips, state superintendent of public instruction, will discuss "Education in the Second Half of the Seventies" on Thursday, June 17, at 9 a.m.

Other speakers during the week will include State Rep. Mrs. John Chase of Wayne County, who will discuss "The Status of Women" on Monday, June 14, at 3:15 p.m., and Mrs. Arleen D. Winfield, a social science adviser with the U.S. Department of Labor, who will talk about "Activities Affecting the Contemporary Woman" on Tuesday, June 15, at 2:30 p.m. N.C. Secretary of State Thad Eure will install the new Girls State governor Friday night. The new governor will succeed Miss Beverlee L. Swanner of Washington.

Girls State will end Saturday, June 19, with the election of two senators to Girls Nation.

Parties Given Bride-Elect

A miscellaneous bridal shower was given by Mrs. Lina Hawkins and Mrs. Gertrude Littleton honoring Cynthia Dawn Boyd Thursday.

The bride-elect was presented a corsage by the hostesses. Corsages were also presented to the mother of the bride, Mrs. Jackie Boyd, and to the mother of the bridegroom, Mrs. Doris Shelton.

Guests were greeted by the honoree and her mother.

The refreshment table was covered with a white lace cloth and accented by bridal flowers.

A floating lingerie shower was given by Miss Sharon Edwards and Mrs. Carol Powell honoring Cynthia Dawn Boyd, who will be married June 12 to Jed Mack Leazer.

The refreshment table was decorated with spring flowers in pink and blue.

Come spring, food lovers from far and wide set out for Pennsylvania Dutch country, home of Shoofly Pie and the Seven Sweets and Seven Soups.

Eating is a serious matter in this fertile land nestled in the eastern part of Pennsylvania which embraces five counties. It is the home of the descendants of a number of Protestant religious sects whose members began emigrating around the 17th century to William Penn's colony, which held promise of religious freedom.

The Pennsylvania Dutch go in for hearty fare, such as pork cooked in all sorts of ways, including the inimitable scrapple consisting of bits of meat mixed with buckwheat, simmered and put into cake tins to set. Served sliced and fried, scrapple is a breakfast favorite in this region.

Corn is another standby in Pennsylvania Dutch country. Dried, it is cooked with cream, butter, sugar, salt and pepper. Fresh, it is used in fritters and baked in pies. On the cob, of course, it is served dripping with butter.

Dried apple slices, simmered in water with ham and little dumplings make one of the best known dishes of the region, a delectable creation known as Schnitz un Knepp.

A popular salad consists of dandelion greens over which a hot cider vinegar, egg and sugar dressing laced with tiny bits of crisp bacon is poured. This may have originated in Pennsylvania but it can be assembled in springtime most anywhere in the United States. Here is a recipe that I found good.

- 1 1/2 pounds dandelion greens
- 1/4 pound bacon sliced
- 3/4 cup light cream
- 3 eggs, beaten
- 1 tablespoon granulated sugar
- 1-3rd cup cider vinegar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon paprika

Wash and trim dandelion greens, drain and place in salad bowl. Fry bacon till crisp, cut up, remove bits and drain off all but three tablespoons bacon fat. Add cream and blend. Beat eggs with sugar, vinegar, salt, and paprika. Stir slowly into cream mix. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly till slightly thickened. Pour hot dressing over dandelion greens and toss. Sprinkle with bacon bits. Serves 6. Good with chilled dry white wine.

AAMA To View Film

The Pitt County Chapter of the AAMA will hold its monthly meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Pitt Memorial Hospital Education Center.

Don Boughton will speak on epilepsy and show the film: "Epilepsy: Complex Partial Seizures." This 30-minute film is in color and is approved by the A.M.A. for continuing education credits.

All members are urged to be present and to bring interested guests. All local physicians are invited to participate in the program.

Bud's Fix-Up Could Cause A Break-Up

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune. N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My beautiful 18-year-old daughter is engaged to marry a 22-year-old, conceited fellow with good looks and no character. She and Bud planned to be married in August.

Tonight, my daughter tells me that Bud wants to get married next week! He says a girl he saw only a few times is suing him for the support of a child he claims is his. He says it's not his.

I told my daughter to forget Bud as there is nothing but trouble ahead. He tells her that if she marries him right away, it will fix things. What do you think?

WORRIED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I think if your daughter marries this fellow hastily to supposedly "fix things," the "thing" that could need fixing later will be HER marriage. Bud needs the services of a lawyer far more than he needs those of a preacher.

DEAR ABBY: This morning I took a test for a job in a local school district. I was one of about 30 women.

Before the test began, I heard several women saying that they really didn't need the work; they just wanted something to do while their children were in school. One even said, "I don't need the money."

Well, I DO need the money. My husband has been laid off, and we have a family to feed.

Please tell these women who take jobs just to keep "busy" that volunteer work will keep them just as busy without taking the food out of the mouths of people who need it. Thank you.

NEEDS TO WORK

DEAR NEEDS: I couldn't have said it better than you.

DEAR ABBY: In response to your decision to sign the Living Will, Dr. Peale asserted that there is a variety of opinions on this issue, but that the prevailing Protestant view would be that "God alone should determine life and death. The individual should be in the hands of God, who gave life and whose function it is to take it."

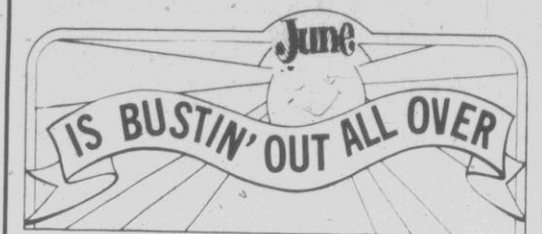

Human beings are not puppets. God has endowed us with minds that He expects us to use wisely and responsibly. We decide when to consult a doctor and whether or not to have surgery performed.

The decision to keep patients alive by artificial means is not made by God, but by doctors. They assume they are carrying out God's will and have been supported by the courts. They become arbiters in life and death.

To declare that "God alone should determine life and death" is simplistic and naive. We must accept responsibility for our actions and be guided by what we believe is God's will and purpose.

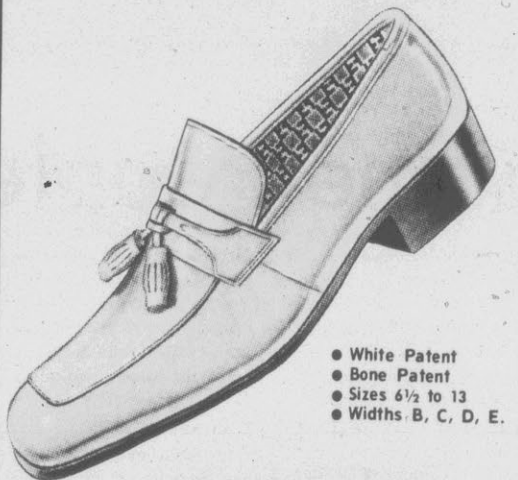

The Psalmist did not ask that God keep him alive forever on earth, but said: "The days of our years are threescore years and ten, and if by reason of strength they be fourscore years, yet is their strength labor and sorrow; for it is soon cut off, and we fly away."

The End For Martha Mitchell

Martha Mitchell was once the darling of the Nixon administration in Washington, but this week she died in virtual obscurity.

The estranged wife of the former attorney general, John Mitchell, developed a form of bone cancer which ended her life at 57 years old.

At one time she was a staunch defender of President Nixon's administration and wouldn't hesitate to make a phone call to friendly reporters to tell them so. They were the glory days in the Washington fantasyland of high government official-dom.

But then the tentacles of Watergate began to wrap themselves around the Nixon administration.

Martha Mitchell sensed that things were amiss, but it appeared that she didn't quite know what.

Gradually friends and then her husband were brought down by the mess and her staunch defense of the Nixon administration turned to dark allegations. Eventually, of course, Nixon, too, fell. By then Martha Mitchell's marriage was in shambles and she was pushed to the sidelines in the eternal struggle for national attention that goes on in Washington.

Martha Mitchell went to the top in Washington affairs with her husband and the Nixon administration. It was a rough tumble back down, and her life came to a sad ending this week.

Graduates Are Better Prepared

Some 136 young men and women graduated from Pitt Technical Institute and 2,842 received bachelor's and master's degrees in ceremonies at East Carolina University last weekend.

It is not the easiest time for these young people to be going out in search of jobs. It is important to recognize, though, that there is ample opportunity in our society for anyone to get ahead.

Thanks to the training these graduates have received at Pitt Tech and ECU they are better prepared to follow their chosen careers.

THIS AFTERNOON

Some People Could Help

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—An experimental camp for troubled children has folded amidst money troubles and administrative bickering, but the leaders believe the stage has been set for future successes.

Some public attention has been drawn to the failure of the enterprise, both through cancellation of funding by the North Carolina Department of Human Resources and by charges of the property owner that his buildings were left in a shambles.

"But we demonstrated that such an alternative method can produce successes; and we proved that when individual citizens care enough to get involved, there can be better ways to deal with children with social adjustment problems, with drug-related problems, at considerable less expense and with more chance for success than in standard state programs," The Rev. Clifton Daniel says.

New Board

Father Daniel is rector of St. Thomas Episcopal Church in Ahoskie, and was one of the organizers of a board of directors which operated Camp Dolphin at Ocean Isle Beach. The board of church people, state employees, and others from communities across the eastern part of the state began operating the camp in February.

It was leased from Richard W. Jennings of Greensboro for some $50,000, and operated on a grant of about $200,000 from the N.C. Drug Commission through the state's Mental Health Division of the Department of Human Resources, specifically the Southeastern Area Mental Health Board in Wilmington.

But Daniel and the new directors, including Father Jess Gaither representing the eastern diocese of the Episcopal Church out of Greenville, obviously took over at a bad time.

The camp, in two previous years, had become a victim of bureaucratic wrangling and improper administration. State auditors disallowed around $47,000 in previous expenditures and the new operators recognized they "faced too many problems and decided to close it down," Daniel said.

"We took it over only this year and we administered it well, but it was closed because of what had gone on before," Gaither said.

"It was axed before we could get into proving success," he added. But there were successes: an average of 20 to 25 youngsters spent some three to six months at the camp working with a staff of twelve in such activities as learning automotive repairs, wood working, basic education leading to high school equivalency, water sports and general camp experiences.

To Cope

"The object was to teach these troubled children to cope in a community which was close, supportive, and caring. One became accountable for his own actions and agreed to live by certain standards as part of his commitment.

"Each came voluntarily, although many were referred by the courts. Primarily, it was designed to provide alternatives; to keep them out of contact with the jails, and training schools," Father Daniel said.

In the short period of operation, the non-recidivism rate ran 25 per cent; usual guidelines label non-recidivism of 15 per cent in such approaches successful, the operators said.

Time was too short to claim true success, however, except for that which both Daniel and Gaither consider the major point: that caring individuals can take on the responsibility for themselves to help those needing it, without demanding more bureaucratic responses from government.

"The real potential is to realize that this is what this country is all about. Government is me. People can take on the responsibility for themselves and do a better job at less cost," Daniel said.

"What I see as exciting is the fact that I felt myself becoming responsible for other people... the job doesn't have to be done by a bureaucracy, by the state," Daniel feels.

And the other exciting aspect, Father Gaither added, is that "the Church is involved... plowing new ground and offering something of value to the people and to the state."

Her Job No Oversight

WASHINGTON—"Hello, Mummy, it's Betsy. I just got a job in Washington." "That's wonderful. What are you going to do?" "I'm going to work for a congressman on his Oversight Committee." "What is the Oversight Committee?" "I'm not really sure. It's something hush hush, because the congressman said if I took the job I'd have to keep my eyes shut and my mouth closed." "That's interesting. What exactly will you be doing for the committee?" "He said he couldn't tell me in the office, but he'd come over to the apartment tonight and spell out my duties. He said I'd enjoy them very much."

"Did he ask you if you could take shorthand or type?" "No, Mummy, that's the wonderful thing about the job. He said most of my work would be done outside the office." "It sounds a little strange." "It's a dream position, Mummy. I can go to the office when I want to and I can stay home if I wish. And it pays $14,000 a year." "You're going to make $14,000 a year?" "Yes, Mummy. The congressman said the Oversight Committee is one of the most important in the House of Representatives, and we have to see that nobody does anything wrong." "I'm still not clear, Betsy, as to what you're expected to do. After all, although you're very pretty, you really aren't too well qualified to work for a congressional committee." "Don't worry, Mummy, I didn't lie to get the job. I told the congressman the truth. I said I couldn't spell and I couldn't add and I was terrible at filing, but he just laughed and said there were enough girls on his committee to do that sort of thing. What he had in mind for me was something none of the other girls could do." "And what exactly is that?" "He said he'd tell me tonight. He's taking me to dinner. Isn't it wonderful, Mummy? I always thought congressmen were so cold and unapproachable. But he isn't that way at all. He's so warm and friendly and he said he wanted to be my friend."

A Look At The Future

By DOUGLAS MONROE

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—The awesome Vehicle Assembly Building at Kennedy Space Center, which once housed the rockets men rode to the moon, is sporting a Bicentennial paint job for the summer.

You can't miss it. Predictably, it features the largest American flag ever painted.

The 52-story VAB, visible for miles over the Florida flatlands at the nation's spaceport, is the focal point of "Third Century America," the Bicentennial Exposition on Science and Technology and the only government-sponsored exposition of the bicentennial year.

Fifteen geodesic domes are scattered at the foot of the VAB, which has been decorated with the giant flag, which measures 209 by 110 feet, and a 110-foot symbol of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration.

Other Editors Say Bright Picture

(Washington Daily News)

Tobacco price supports for this year, 1976, will average 13.7 percent higher than 1975, the government has announced.

To translate the percentage into figures, let us say that in 1975 the government supported flue cured tobacco, the type grown here in our part of North Carolina, at 93.2 cents per pound. And the 13.7 percent raise for 1976 will mean that the flue cured tobacco crop will be supported at about $1.06 per pound this year.

Now, if we might look at the picture from another side, in 1975 with a support price of 93.2 cents per pound here on the Washington Tobacco Market the season's average was $100.30 per 100 pounds.

Now if the market average goes up correspondingly in 1976, then here on the Washington Tobacco Market we might think in terms of an average of about $114.04 per 100 pounds.

The average for 1976 automatically increases under a legal formula tied to advancing farm production costs. The U.S. Agriculture Department makes the announcements of price supports.

Of course tobacco farmers will be pleased to know of the increased price supports. That is only natural, and yet we doubt very seriously that the increase in support price is sufficient to offset the increase in the costs of producing the tobacco crop. We hope it will be sufficient, and we are pleased that we have this increase to look forward to.

All this is being done in the face of very serious attempts in congress to tax tobacco to death, to ban its sale, and to abolish altogether all price supports.

Ironically, some of the very members of congress who are most vocal in their denunciation of tobacco are the most vocal also in their calls for lessening the penalty for marijuana and for hard drug violations. As we have said before, it would appear that some folks want to outlaw tobacco and legalize marijuana.

Here in our own area our annual tobacco crop plays a big part in our overall economy. The Washington Tobacco Market plays a bigger part each year than a lot of people realize.

Right now we are encouraged by the tobacco picture for 1976. And that measure of encouragement comes despite the serious political efforts to stifle the tobacco program altogether.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Blue-Collar Showdown

By ROBERT EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

CLEVELAND—Rep. Morris Udall, liberal darling of fashionable suburban salons, arrived here last week and immediately drove to Klein's Bar for a payday beer-and-chaser with auto workers—setting the tone for a campaign whose outcome could determine the Democratic party's fate in 1976.

Udall, the clear underdog against Jimmy Carter in next Tuesday's Ohio primary, is perceived well to Carter's left in a state where Democrats disdain flaming liberals. Nevertheless, cheered by beating Carter among Michigan blue-collar voters, Udall is concentrating here on wooing working men, particularly around Cleveland.

The stakes are enormous. A

Carter win in Ohio would neutralize his probable California loss and all but assure his nomination. A Udall upset, however, would so fortify suspicions of growing voter resistance to Carter that a battle to the death at Madison Square Garden would be guaranteed.

This poses an irony for a party that has suffered grievously from sectarian strife. Udall, self-appointed guardian of the party's liberal tradition, can only stop Carter's consensus nomination by defeating him in white neighborhoods where anti-black emotion runs high.

Outwardly, the odds against Udall seem prohibitive. With Ohio measurably less liberal than Michigan, Carter leads both in southern Ohio and in conservative areas within the Udall-targeted Cleveland area such as west side Cleveland and suburban Parma. To complicate matters, Sen. Frank Church has scheduled six days in Ohio, threatening Udall's liberal suburban base.

But Udall enjoys an asset here that he lacked in Michigan: help from the United Auto Workers (UAW). Despite UAW president Leonard Woodcock's endorsement of Carter, politically potent UAW regional director Bill Casstevens has put the union behind Udall in Cleveland (and was at Udall's side at Klein's Bar).

Carter and Udall both started from scratch in Ohio last week. Carter's newly arrived manager here is Tim Kraft, architect of Carter's triumphs in Iowa and Pennsylvania. But a new face for Udall arrived in Cleveland May 26 as his Ohio manager: political consultant Mark Shields, who had resisted Udall's year-long pleas for help until personal misgivings about Carter changed his mind.

Shields, who managed John J. Gilligan's 1970 election as governor of Ohio, immediately transferred Udall's state headquarters from Columbus to Cleveland, establishing the new emphasis. Shields is operating autonomously, without direction from Udall's brother and national campaign manager, Stewart. That frees Ohio from Stew Udall's dogma giving priority to precinct organization that handcuffed his brother's campaigns in New York, Wisconsin and other primaries.

Consequently, Shields is concentrating the $250,000 Ohio budget (lavish by Udall standards) on radio and television, especially in the Cleveland market reaching over 40 per cent of Ohio Democrats. One newly filmed TV spot compares the Udall and Carter records to underscore Udall's attack on Carter as a trimmer not to be trusted by working men.

Besides going after blue-collar voters, this attack is intended to provoke Carter into losing his icy composure.

Accordingly, Udall strategists were delighted when Carter opened his Ohio campaign with an angry indictment of anybody opposing his nomination as an

Strength For Today

A PERPETUAL LEGACY

A christian layman of outstanding usefulness in his community and his church wrote the following statement some years before his death and filed it away with his will:

"Believing that no legacy to one's children can compare with that of a clear Christian faith, I desire hereby to record my belief in God as Creator and ruler of all, and as loving Father of all men; and in Jesus Christ, His son, as my Savior and Lord; in the power of the Living Christ to save us from sin and in the future life which I have not the slightest fear to enter.

"My heart's desire for my children is that they may be wholesome, strong and Christian in body, mind and soul; and that they may serve God and men to their several abilities."

With this document this man left an estate against which no inheritance taxes will be levied. He laid up for himself and his loved ones treasures in heaven where moth and rust do not corrupt.

Questions About The Economy

By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — After a three-day holiday with family, any issue-oriented American is certainly happy to be back with the routine headaches, questions, frustrations, mysteries and madness of everyday life.

Worry-free days leave an indolence, an inertia that is incompatible with the modern style, and therefore must be routed abruptly if things are to return safely to normalcy.

Here, then, are some questions designed to begin bothering immediately, but with the staying power to continue disturbing right through the summer.

—Why can we not, in view of our alleged enlightenment, do something about that onerous up-down cycle of the economy?

With all our knowledge of economics — it is difficult to describe the amount of research and analysis being done — we are still victims of the cycle. Our only sure inflation antidote, shockingly, is to throw people out of work.

All those studies that are conducted in universities, government, union headquarters, corporations and elsewhere, when added up or distilled, amount to an argument rather than an answer.

Our response to an economy that threatens to go wild is not to tame it, as we would an animal, but to club it into senselessness. There seems to be no in-between.

We are now faced with an economy that is threatening to exhibit some undisciplined behavior. Will we try to deal delicately with the separate symptoms? Or will we once again bludgeon the whole economy into recession?

—Why can't we come up with a useable definition of unemployment?

With all our statistical astuteness, we still cannot agree on who is unemployed, and the consequences are both painful and ridiculous.

For example, we do not count the worst of the unemployed as unemployed. These are the so-called discouraged workers, a million or so of them at the worst of the recession, who have given up looking for work because, they feel, there is almost no possibility of obtaining it.

This magnificent conceptual deceit serves to keep the jobless rate lower than it should be in recession, and it distorts the picture again during the recovery.

As the economy recovers, what do you think happens to those people who were not even counted as part of the labor force? They resurrect themselves; they become job-seekers. And as such they must be counted.

Since these also are the very last people to obtain jobs, often waiting many months before their applications are acted upon, they add to the jobless rate. This phenomenon is occurring right now.

—What are we going to do about that big burst in car sales, especially in larger-size cars, when we still have to buy imported oil, when we still haven't resolved the problem of potential shortages?

This year could become the second best car-truck sales year in history, with 10.5 million cars and more than 3 million trucks sold. But weren't we supposed to be trying to cut down on our usage of energy?

Close Substitute For Fair

By DONALD SANDERS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —
Talk of a world's fair-type exhibition for the Bicentennial was abandoned years ago, but the nation's capital has come up with a close substitute.

There are few commercial exhibits, but so many free things to do and see that even a resident cannot hope to take them all in.

The Smithsonian Institution has been planning for the Bicentennial for years and the National Park Service almost as long. There are exhibits to appeal to almost any taste; free concerts, puppet shows, and many other events.

One thing that is extremely scarce is a parking space. Visitors from out of the city are advised to use the thousands of free spaces available at RFK Stadium, the North Pentagon parking lot and Ft. Myer South Post, adjacent to Arlington Cemetery.

There are signs on all major access highways directing motorists to these locations; shuttle buses leave for the city every two to five minutes.

A handy guide to what is happening on the national Mall is a brochure called "Summer at the Smithsonian," a reprint from Smithsonian magazine. Subscribers can pull out the 12-page section; others can buy it for 25 cents at museum shops, at the Festival of American Folklife and other locations.

It includes tips on where to park cars and bicycles, on shuttle bus service, food and picnic facilities and foreign language services.

The Folklife Festival, opening June 16 and running until Sept. 6, offers something for almost everyone. More than 5,000 musicians are participating along with craftsmen from every corner of the United States and 36 other countries.

There is an African diaspora section portraying the cultural experience of black Americans and their links to Africa, the Caribbean and Latin America. American Indians will demonstrate stickball, lacrosse, canoe racing, buffalo barbecues, salmon bakes and other skills. A regional America area will feature a timber carnival, ranching, cowboy skills, maritime life and a glimpse at a coal miner's life.

A children's area celebrates the folklife of young people, with ring games, sand castle building, crafts, jokes and a treehouse.

The festival occupies a big area on the south side of the reflecting pool running between the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Monument. On the other side of the pool the Park Service has just opened a 45-acre woodland park, planted with more than 6,000 trees and shrubs. There are winding paths, and benches for visitors to rest.

The Park Service maintains a visitors' information center in the Commerce Department, near the White House, where there are persons to help with accommodations, advice to the handicapped, advice to non-English speaking people and the like. There is even a booth where one may change a baby's diaper.

A larger visitors' center in the old Union Station not far from the Capitol building is due to open on July 1.

Monroe...

The domes house exhibits by 16 federal agencies, 10 U.S. industrial firms and several colleges and universities which give visitors a glimpse into what the future holds for America.

"It is not a fantasyland," says Miles Ross, deputy director of the Kennedy Space Center and general manager of the exposition.

"It is a very practical look at what life is going to be like tomorrow, as opposed to a Buck Rogers' Here's what it could be like."

And, Ross is quick to point out, the exposition "is not a dull science display — it is an alive, exciting place to be."

"We want people to have a good time."

The exposition runs May 30-Sept. 7 and Ross says an estimated 800,000 to 1.2 million visitors are expected.

Visitors can enter firing rooms in the Launch Control Center, a building adjacent to the VAB, for a multimedia report on present and future NASA projects and a simulated Apollo-Saturn 5 launch.

Exhibits in the VAB, portions of which are even now being readied for the Space Shuttle program, include a "Spaceport of Fun," where visitors can fiddle with space hardware and hop behind the controls of a lunar rover.

"It's a real 'hands-on' experience," says Ross. "This is the first time we've been able to make the inside of the VAB open to the public."

Although the exposition was announced last August, it was early this year before NASA officials could get to work on it, with a $3 million grant requested by President Ford from the Department of Commerce's Economic Development Administration.

NASA put up an advance of $500,000 and concession services added another advance of $800,000.

"Some of the professional people who do this sort of thing for a living told us we'd never make it," Ross said. "We were told there was not enough time and not enough money."

But, he said, NASA and its contractors are used to working on schedule and with a budget.

It took some of the same people and tight scheduling that made the Apollo program a success to get the job done, Ross said. NASA also got helpful advice from officials at Walt Disney World.

An intricate master schedule, detailing week-by-week goals for each exhibit, was drawn up and followed. A breakdown schedule plotted the day-by-day action needed to complete the exposition.

"We did just what we do for a launch," Ross said.

When the exposition ends in September, the leased geodesic domes will come down but some of the space exhibits will remain in operation for the guided bus tours of Kennedy Space Center and adjacent Cape Canaveral Air Force Station.

The bus tours will continue to be operated during the exposition.

Some of the government agencies and companies will continue to show their exhibits at other sites after September.

But the exposition as a whole has to stop after Labor Day because the area is needed for the space shuttle program.

Admission to the exposition is $3 for adults, $2 for children 12-18 and $1 for children 3-11. Its gates are open from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

COMPLETED SEMINAR

M. Patrick Paul, Greenville representative for the Ordinary Division of Pilot Life Insurance Co., has completed a three-day career development seminar dealing with insurance sales and service conducted at Pilot's home office in Greensboro.

INCREASING DIVIDEND

Martin Marietta Corporation's board of directors voted to increase the quarterly dividend payment from 32 and one half cents to 35 cents per common share.

Dividends at the new increased rate will be payable on June 30 to shareholders of record at the close of business on June 7.

Martin Marietta Aggregates operates a quarry at Fountain.

ENROLLMENT UP

Enrollment in Blue Cross and Blue Shield of North Carolina grew by 78,747 participants in 1975, according to Thomas A. Rose, president of the not-for-profit health care plan.

Rose said the 4.4 per cent increase brought total enrollment to 1,871,813 people, or 35 per cent of the state's population.

In 1975, he said, the plan paid 3,125,423 claims totaling $467 million for regular Blue Cross claims and government programs. The number of claims rose 14 per cent, while total payments increased 25 per cent over 1974 levels.

STOCKHOLDERS MET

Stockholders of Bancshares of North Carolina Inc., parent company of Bank of North Carolina N.A., met in Jacksonville and reelected six directors to serve until the 1979 annual meeting of shareholders.

Directors reelected were James R. Braswell, Wingate; E. Hervev Evans Jr., Laurinburg; Albert P. Rachide, Jacksonville; John A. Senter, Lillington; James G. F. Whitton, Salisbury; and Harrison H. Williamson, Fayetteville.

The remaining 12 directors were previously elected to terms which expire in 1977 and 1978.

MERGER APPROVED

Shareholders of Hanover Bank of Wilmington and Planters National Bank of Rocky Mount have approved the merger of their respective banks under the charter of Planters National, it was announced.

The consolidation is subject to final approval by the Comptroller of the Currency.

The resulting bank will have total assets in excess of $248,000,000 based on current statements of condition of the two banks.

GLASS SEMINAR

Carl Knott of Ernest & Knott Glass Co. of Greenville attended a "High Performance Glass" Seminar recently in Atlanta, Ga. The seminar was conducted by the Glass and Metal Institute.

GROSS LOANS UP

According to the weekly survey conducted by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, gross loans at 27 of the large commercial banks in the Fifth Federal Reserve District increased $43,927,000 during the week ending May 19, raising the total outstanding to $15,820,045,000.

Loans to domestic commercial banks fell $67,366,000 while loans other than those to domestic commercial banks, or loans adjusted, climbed $111,293,000. Demand deposits dropped $72,807,000 and time deposits declined $310,000. Investments fell $31,771,000.

Included in the Fifth District are North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, the District of Columbia, Maryland, and most of West Virginia.

enemy of change and reform.

Carter's vulnerability and Udall's difficulty in exploiting it are typified by reactions of the influential leader in one ethnic Cleveland ward. He has rejected Carter's courtship because "there's something about Jimmy Carter that scares me." But after listening to Udall address the Cleveland City Club last Friday, the ward leader told us: "I'm afraid he's too intelligent, too much like Jack Gilligan." Thus, this leader sees a shaky Carter plurality in his ward.

What might yet save Udall, paradoxically, is white resentment over Carter's substantial black support. Endorsement of Carter last week by Zeke Forbes, brother of black city council president George Forbes, "could give Udall the west side," according to one powerful Democrat there. Detroit's black Mayor Coleman Young, who lost white votes for Carter in Michigan with his absurd attack on Udall as a Mormon, could do the same here during an Ohio speaking tour. Udall operatives have been delightedly passing word that former Cleveland Mayor Carl Stokes, now an NBC commentator in New York but still the black most hated by this city's whites, joined the anti-Mormon attack on Udall in a network radio commentary.

Udall is so doctrinaire a liberal that he displays little empathy for urban whites, chiding Carter for not supporting forced racial busing. That makes winning the Ohio primary all the more essential for Carter. If he cannot carry Cleveland's west side against the champion of the liberal suburbs, how would he fare there against Gerald Ford or Ronald Reagan?

Spanish King Opens U.S. Visit

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—A red carpet White House welcome is awaiting King Juan Carlos I of Spain as he officially opens a four-day U.S. visit, the first ever by a Spanish head of state.

The 38-year-old monarch, who arrived Tuesday night with his wife, Queen Sofia, is here to help celebrate the Bicentennial; but the visit is expected to have considerable political and diplomatic impact.

Juan Carlos, who meets today with President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and also addresses a joint meeting of Congress, has been trying to fashion a more progressive regime in Spain after more than 40 years of hard-line rule under Francisco Franco.

American officials believe a successful visit here will enhance the young king's political standing at home.

Privately, these officials express admiration for the way the monarch has begun dismantling some of the authoritarian trappings he inherited from the Franco era without antagonizing old guard Franco backers.

In the six months since Juan Carlos ascended the throne, a ban on political meetings in Spain has been lifted and moves are underway to create a bicameral legislature.

In a gesture to underscore Spain's tolerance for religious minorities, Queen Sofia attended Jewish services at a Madrid ceremony last Friday.

These liberalizing trends, U.S. officials believe, will strengthen Spain's claim to a role in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

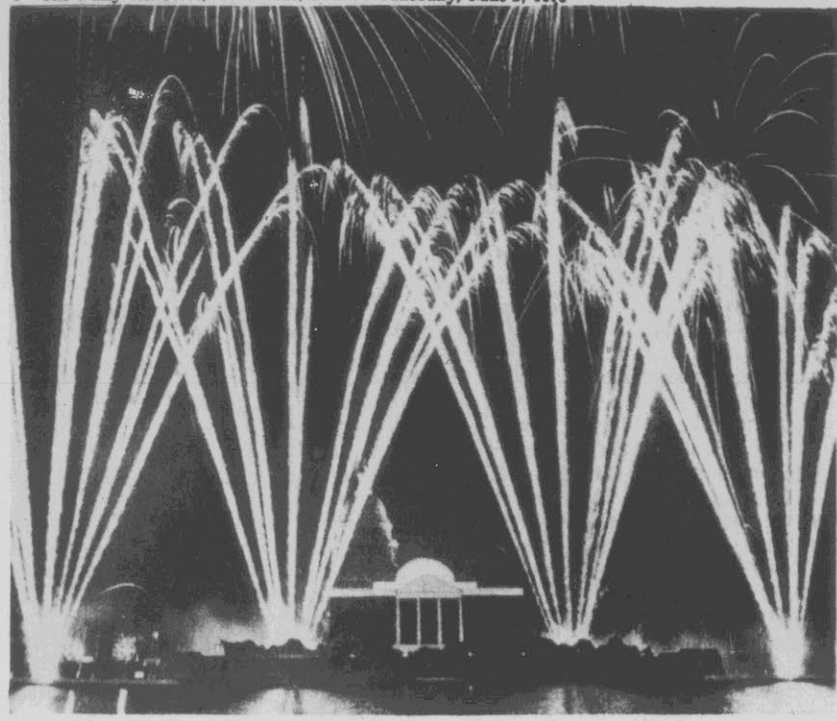

The monarchs came here bearing what is no doubt the weightiest of the Bicentennial gifts the United States will receive this year — a 66-ton bronze and stone sculpture of Don Quixote. The royal couple will unveil the statue Thursday at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

The royal couple, who opened their "new world" journey with a visit Monday and Tuesday to the Dominican Republic, also will emphasize the Spanish contribution to the American Revolution.

They will present a statue of Bernardo Galvez, a Spanish governor of Louisiana, who in 1779 led a successful campaign against the British in Florida. The king and queen fly to New York on Friday where they will meet with United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim, and with business and local Spanish community leaders.

JEFFERSON FIREWORKS—Fireworks light the night sky over the Capitol Tuesday night as the National Gallery of Arts presents its "Eye of Thomas Jefferson" Exhibit. The display was designed to parallel as closely as possible those presented in the eighteenth century. Industrial Site Study Is Approved By Board

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
FARMVILLE—Farmville Commissioners approved an ordinance last night giving the Farmville Economic Council responsibility for administering a $30,000 industrial site feasibility study grant received last week. The Council is to report monthly to the Board on the progress of the study.

The "cutting" of an entrance from the undedicated alley which runs behind stores on the south side of the 100 block of East Wilson Street was approved, subject to the concurrence of Melvin Ellis, keeper of a store in this block. All other storekeepers and building owners have been contacted. The Board was told. The entrance would provide an outlet from the alley into the new municipal parking lot at the corner of Wilson and Contentnea Streets.

proposal to do the same job by airplane.

Commissioner John T. Walston protested the buying of what he termed frivolous items like CB radios for town recreation department trucks and coveralls for policemen to use on the target practice range. Commissioner W. R. Duke said he would go along with the disapproval of the CB radios if Walston would include in the motion a call for a study of the need for some kind of communication equipment for the trucks. Walston concurred, but the motion still failed to carry as three other Commissioners, Jack Farrior, Mrs. Sarah Albritton, and Durywood Little voted against it. All three said they believe that once the budget is set by the Commissioners, specific expenditure decisions should be left to the town administrator. Walston said he feels it is his duty as an elected representative of the people of Farmville to make sure every dollar spent by the town is wise.

The Planning Board was asked to study and report to the Board on requests for a non-contiguous annexation of 32 acres of land owned by Dr. William E. Fulford Jr. and some other city limits extension requests. Town Attorney Jack Lewis pointed out that there are certain steps that Fulford must take before the annexation of his land can even be considered by the Board. His letter of request is not sufficient, Lewis said.

Town Administrator W. A. Martin was asked to compute the actual cost to the town of garbage pickup from Collins and Aikman textiles plant. The cost is currently estimated at more than $16,000. Commissioner Little said he thinks all large industrial and business pickup costs should be computed to see if the town is "coming out" on each of them.

Approval was given for a 30-day extension of a waterline installation contract with F & G Construction Company, which has been delayed both by a change order made by the town and by materials delays.

Approval was given to allow Parker Oil Company to rent any fuel storage tanks not in use by the town at the light plant at $15 per month per tank. One is not in use now and another holding donated contaminated fuel used by the fire department for practice may be available at a later date, it was indicated. It was pointed out that use prevents deterioration of such tanks.

A street resurfacing project for the town's worst worn streets is proceeding, the Board was told.

The Inspection Division reported the demolition of a house owned by L. B. Johnson Jr. at 500 Grimmersburg Street. Value of permits for repairs and additions granted during May was $23,675, the Division reported.

A resolution was passed to apply for a grant from the Mid-East Commission for police communication equipment. If granted, the federal government is to provide 90 per cent or $14,200 to upgrade present radio equipment here and the state will provide five per cent and the town five per cent, or $710 each.

A letter was approved to put "Farmville's name in the pot" for 1976 Mid-East Budget Training Program funds. There is to be no cost to the town for this project.

Payment No. 1, $9,478.91 on the water line extension project to Lewis' Store was approved.

Police Chief Marsdon Canady reported that there are two vacancies on the Police Force that need to be filled.

A motion was made to proceed with a water system extension project along the 258 north as far as Horton's Corner.

A request for a street light at the corner of Belcher and Barrett Streets was turned over to the Street committee.

It was decided to go ahead with the previously used method of fogging of the town with an insecticide mixed with oil this summer, as the Pitt County Health Department has refused to participate in Farmville's

Group Says It Bombed

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP)—A group calling itself "Revolutionary Cell - Brigade Ulrike Meinhof" claimed responsibility today for bombings that injured 16 persons at a U.S. Army headquarters.

And the destruction of two trucks by arsonists at a U.S. Air Force base near here this morning prompted the Air Force to join the Army in tightening security at all West German bases.

In a letter addressed to The Associated Press and mailed in Frankfurt, the group said "the Revolutionary Cell laid bombs in the headquarters of the U.S.-imperialist occupation army, the European nerve center of NATO and all U.S. secret services, and in their officers club."

The bombs went off Tuesday at the U.S. Army's V Corps headquarters here. One had been placed in a lobby of the officer's club and another in an area of shops for military dependents.

West German authorities said they were holding three suspects in the attack.

At Lindsey air station, about 25 miles west of Frankfurt, two trucks were badly damaged by fire early this morning.

Campers Clean Up

Members of Little Contentnea Travelers Camping Club recently participated in the National Campers & Hikers Association's litter survey, collecting some 870 pounds of litter along Highway 264 west of Farmville.

Taking part in the litter survey, involving a 1.2 mile section of 264, were 13 families with 28 members who collected the discarded items totaling 870 pounds in approximately two hours.

The club's participation in the litter program was in conjunction with the designation of the month of May as Litter Survey Month.

Currently, the club has membership of 53 members from 23 families.

Purses Stolen

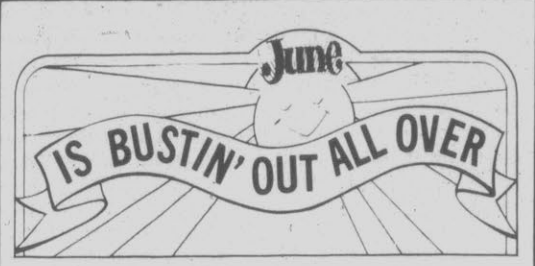

Greenville Police are investigating the theft of money from pocketbooks in two incidents that occurred here last night.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Mrs. James Tingen of Route 4, Greenville, reported at 8:45 p.m. that her purse valued at $10, was taken from her car by a thief who broke a window while the vehicle was parked in a Pitt Plaza parking lot.

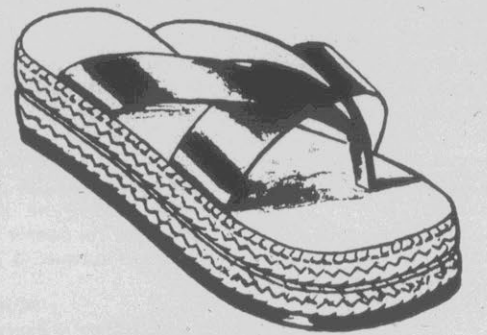

The second incident, according to Cannon, was reported at 12:30 a.m.

The chief said in that case, Janice Crabtree and Beth Duke, both of Henderson and Desi Conyers of Franklinton reported that wallets had been taken from their purses by thieves who gained entrance to their vehicle through a window, while the vehicle was parked in a parking lot off Reade Circle.

About $18 was reported taken from the three purses, along with several credit cards and other items.

HAS Asking $5 Million More

RALEIGH (AP) — The state's private Medicaid contractor has asked North Carolina for an extra $5 million just after having received a $3.2 million advance on its June payment.

If the state can't come up with the extra $5 million Health Applications Systems (HAS) believes it is owed, the company said Tuesday it can't assure that all claims from doctors and health care facilities will be paid this month. State Human Resources Secretary Phillip J. Kirk said he was angered by the announcement. And he said he expects HAS to comply with its contract, which states that the firm will dip into its own pocket if it can't meet Medicaid expenses for the ceiling price it is paid by the state.

But Bergen Brunswig Corp., the Los Angeles-based parent company of HAS, said Tuesday that it would pay claims only to the extent the state makes funds available.

North Carolina had agreed Friday to advance the firm $3.2 million of its regular $14.6 million June payment because HAS had said it was out of cash and could not send out more than 3,000 checks in its final May pay-out.

It appeared that nursing homes and hospitals across the state would have critical problems meeting payrolls without immediate payment of the checks.

Now HAS alleges that North Carolina owes the firm $1.5 million in retroactive nursing home payments the company absorbed and $3.5 million for claims it paid to people who the state should never have certified for the program. Those claims are in error. Kirk said Tuesday. He did not rule out the possibility of a lawsuit if the company refuses to pay its claims. Bergen Brunswig also has announced it is considering canceling the HAS contract if the state doesn't give it more money. Talks on the contract are scheduled for later this week.

Arts Festival At Soul City

The Soul City Cultural Arts and Historical Society in conjunction with the Soul City Bicentennial Commission will be presenting its third annual arts festival on Saturday, June 5. This festival will be an all day "happening," beginning at 11 a.m. with a Bicentennial Flag Presentation to Soul City and a parade starting after the presentation. The parade will start from Soultech I and move on to the Foundation House where there will be booths set up for exhibits of crafts and art. Various churches will be participating at the festival by selling food and beverages.

Workshop: The S. Charmaine School of Dance group and the soul City Choir. A musical anthology will be presented by the Bob Jones Company at 6 p.m. The John Graham Choir and members of the John Graham Drama Class will be participating as a part of The Third Century Artist Outreach Program. The anthology is entitled "Holy Communion"; the action takes place in a southern church during revival weekend. Shuttle bus service between Henderson and Warrenton will be set up for every hour; pickup from Warrenton will begin at 10 a.m. at the Municipal Parking lot on Macon Road and Bute Street; Henderson's pickup will begin at 1 p.m. at the A & P parking lot on Norlina Road and at the Henderson Mall.

Special Day Is Planned

Bicentennial Day will be held at Little Creek Original F.W.B. Church Sunday June 6. The theme of the ceremonies will be "Old Camp Meeting Day." The entire program for the day will be conducted outside. The schedule for the ceremonies will be as follows: 10 a.m. Sunday School, 11 a.m. Worship Service, congregation will dress in bicentennial clothes; 12 noon lunch; 1:30 p.m. special music from visiting groups; 1:50 p.m. a political speaker; 2 p.m. "Old Fashion Singing"; 2:45-3:30 p.m. fellowship games including sack races, and relay races.

struction that the approved bidder will be permitted use only of an area extending 100 feet from the building site. This is being done to protect the contracted seeded and fertilized area (which begins at the point 100 feet from the building site) from being trampled and damaged. Shoe said in the event of damage beyond the 100-foot point, the contracting firm would be penalized.

Supt. Glenn Cox remarked that a "groundbreaking date" would be set soon, now that the initial bid for work at the site has been let.

Cox, saying that the report he had for board members on Third Street School is "a brief review of the possible alternatives that might exist for the future of Third Street," gave a resume of two reports.

The reports are from the firm of Hayes-Howell and Associates, Architects of Southern Pines; and W. H. Gardner, Jr. and Associates, a consulting engineers firm of Durham. Both reports are based on visits made Monday, May 24 to the site by representatives of the two firms.

W. Calvin Howell's report on the interior and exterior included recommendations for repairs to floors, patching and in some areas replacing plaster walls; and nailing, or removing fiberboard tile ceilings. One comment is "a new acoustical tile ceiling would be a satisfactory solution in most areas and gypsum board ceilings in toilets, etc."

Howell's findings and recommendations for the exterior structure of Third Street School included: Walls—some water leakage has occurred through the masonry. This could be corrected by waterproofing the brick; Windows—Should be repaired or replaced; Roof—of tile shingle and generally in satisfactory condition. Replacement of built-in gutters and wood fascia and trim was also recommended.

General notes by Howell included bringing the building up to meet current standards of the Life Safety Codes and Handicapped Codes for Existing Buildings; and renovating and partitioning toilets.

In his conclusions, Howell noted: "We feel the building can be made safe by replacing damaged floors and by making other necessary changes; and—the building should be repaired, painted, etc. . . to maintain the life of the building.

In suggesting three options, Howell added . . . "we wish to point out these are based on the fact that this campus will continue to be used and that funds are not available for new construction."

The options suggested are: (1) Renovate by phases to allow students to return next September; (2) Hold students out of this building next year. Use this time period to make all necessary renovations; and (3)

Prepare a "Master Plan" . . . that would include a timetable for new construction and demolition of existing structures.

"We feel the existing structure, if renovated, would have an additional use of 10-15 years. The existing building is 47 years old," Howell concluded his report.

The report made by W. H. Gardner, Jr., a very brief (half-page one) listed five items dealing with the condition of lumber in the floors, the steam lines in the crawl space, and crawl space ventilation.

"No inspection was made of the bottom plates and studs of the interior bearing walls," Gardner reported. "These walls should be carefully examined and any rotten lumber replaced with treated lumber."

He concluded his report: "Although I did not make a complete inspection of the existing exterior walls and roof structure, they appear to be in sound condition."

Cox told the board that representatives of the Division of School Planning of the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, Raleigh, had made an inspection Friday and that their report would be available soon.

Cox and others of his staff will be meeting in Raleigh this week with Division of School Planning personnel as well as with representatives of the two inspecting firms to discuss in detail all the alternatives available for considering in making a decision on Third Street School.

"I hope to return from that meeting with options and a price tag on the options for the board to consider," Cox stated.

When the options and cost estimates of various options are known, the school board will meet to consider this information and to make a decision on which direction to take in future plans for the school.

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices settled back today, continuing the slow decline that set in late Tuesday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks slipped more than a point in the early going. Losers took a 4-3 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market continued to be weighed down by concern over rising interest rates.

They also said investors were taking another cautious look at the civil war in Lebanon and its possible effects on the stability of the Middle East generally.

Today's early prices included American Telephone & Telegraph, down 1/4 at 54 1/2; Kraftco, unchanged at 42 1/2; General Electric, up 1/4 at 51 1/2; and Halliburton, steady at 55 1/2.

media center. Ms. Manning explained that when a complaint is received about material used in the schools, a complaint form is filled out and the material is held in reserve use until the media advisory staff can consider the complaint and decide whether the material is objectionable or not. When the media advisory staff makes its decision a written letter about the decision is sent to the person who filed the complaint.

Supt. Alford reported on a reply he received from the Department of the Army First ROTC Division concerning mandatory indoor firing ranges. He explained that the reply from Lt. Col. Paul Kelly was that if the county continued to construct and provide a firing range for each school that the indoor firing range could be delayed with plans to construct it as soon as possible.

Katheryn Lewis, Director of Pupil Personnel presented a brief report on the final evaluation of the Title III project in the Ayden Grammar and Farmville Middle Schools and a report on the Drug-Alcohol Education program.

Director of Occupational Education Carl Toot presented a local plan to Eliminate Sex Discrimination and Sex Bias in occupational education.

In other business the board: —Approved a letter which was sent to the Pitt County Coaches Association by Supt. Alford.

—Approved appropriations totaling $2,356.02.

—Approved persons eligible for career status who have been recommended by the principal and the immediate supervisor in the central office.

—Voted to purchase a plaque listing the names of Teacher-Of-The Year recipients.

—Approved a recommendation that Mrs. Inez Parker, Sam D. Bundy Luncheon Manager, and Mrs. Helen Chapman, custodial worker at Ayden-Grifton High School be granted one year of extended employment.

—Heard recommendations from Supt. Alford that the athletic facilities at each school be considered and determine adequate facilities so as to plan to eliminate differences.

After the meeting the board held an executive session to discuss a personnel matter. After the executive session the board instructed Supt. Alford to meet with the principal and a teacher at Ayden Elementary School to discuss several parents' complaints.

North Pitt Honors Student Athletes With Pig Pickin'

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer

BETHEL—Joy Forbes won five awards, the most for any North Pitt athlete this year, at the North Pitt Sports banquet, held at the school last night.

Miss Forbes, who participated in volleyball, softball and girls basketball, was named to all-conference teams in two sports, volleyball and softball and was chosen Best All-Around in volleyball, Most Valuable in basketball and in softball.

Kathi Manning won three awards being named All-Conference in softball and Best All Around in basketball. She also won the clutch shooter award in basketball.

Four awards were given to varsity football players. Best Defensive lineman went to Ronnie Tetterton. James Carr won Best Defensive Back, Glenn Langley Best Offensive Back and Best Offensive Lineman went to Boyce Johnson. Terry Shelton won the Junior Varsity Award.

In wrestling, Michael Manning was named Most Improved. Randy Tyler Best Tournament Wrestler and Aubrey Wynne Best Dual Meet Wrestler. Wynne was also named the first recipient of the Jimmy Bailey Award.

Kenneth Roberson won the Clutch Shooter award for boys basketball. Jesse Harris was named Best All-Around, Donnie Perkins MVP, Virgil Pilgreen Most Improved. Nicky Hines was awarded most Improved JV player.

Other girls awards went to Cynthia Barnes, Most Improved in basketball, Rosella Weaver Most Improved in Softball and Ellen Dixon Most Improved in volleyball.

Eddie Hemingway won that award for baseball and the MVP in baseball went to Noel Whitley.

James Miller won the Most Outstanding Track Athlete honor.

The Miss Spirit cheerleading award went to Twana Wilkins.

While there was no speaker for the banquet, North Pitt principal James Allen made a few remarks thanking the student athletes for their participation and hard work. "Athletics gives an opportunity to develop whatever talents we have," he told them. "I am proud of you and your parents are proud of you and you are to be commended for the sacrifice in coming here to participate."

he expected to be the team's starting catcher. But, when the season opened young Biff Pocerobla was behind the plate and Williams was on the bench. Most of his work has been at first base.

"It was frustrating, but it's been frustrating for the whole team," Williams said. "No, I did not want out of Atlanta when I was on the bench, but no player is worth his salt unless he wants to play."

"My job is to play when I get called on," he said. "I just would like to get called on more often."

San Diego's first inning run came when Enzo Hernandez, walked, moved to second on a sacrifice by Marv Rettemund and scored when Willie Davis lined a single to right.

The Padres had won four of their last five games and six out of eight before Atlanta's outburst Tuesday night.

"It makes a different having to play catch up," said Padres Manager John McNamara. "When they scored those extra four runs in the fifth, it limited what we could do."

McNamara expressed some concern at the number of pitchers he's used in splitting the first two games of the series.

"We have to get more consistency out of our pitchers besides Randy Jones," he said. "We brought in four pitchers (tonight and five last night and there was no consistency in their performance."

Atlanta Needs All It Can Get

By ED SHEARER
AP Sports Writer

ATLANTA (AP)—"The way we've been playing and making physical and mental mistakes, we need all the runs we can get," said Jim Wynn of the Atlanta Braves.

The Braves got enough runs Tuesday night and ended a four-game losing streak with a 9-1 decision over the San Diego Padres as Wynn collected three hits, Earl Williams smashed a three-run home and Roger Moret hurled a route-going six-hitter.

"That's the first time in a long time we've scored runs with two-out hits," said Wynn, the veteran outfielder obtained during the winter in a trade with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Williams delivered his three-run homer in the first to erase a 1-0 deficit and the Braves got two-out singles from Tom Paciorek, Darrel Chaney and Jerry Royster to highlight a four-run fifth that put the game out of reach.

"There's nothing like clutch hits and the three-run homer helped, too," said Dave Bristol, the Atlanta manager.

Bristol had praise for Moret, who was knocked out by Houston in the first inning Sunday, and credited Williams with handling Moret well, especially setting him down in a rocky first when San Diego scored its only run and left the bases loaded.

Williams has seen only limited duty this year, one in which

Candelaria Ties Strike Out Record With 3-2 Victory

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

John Candelaria watched one fly over the outfield fence in the first inning and whispered: "Oh, well, here we go again."

Candelaria was still pitching in the ninth inning, much to his own surprise. By then he didn't mind giving up another home run to Joe Torre.

"The double play in the fourth inning gave me a lift and I bore down after that," said the youthful Pittsburgh Pirate left-hander after a 3-2 victory over the New York Mets Tuesday night.

A less artistic victory would have pleased Candelaria. He hadn't won a game in nearly a month. But this one had extra luster to it, since Candelaria struck out 12 batters to tie a National League high for the season and allowed the Mets only six hits.

The victory was Candelaria's fourth in seven decisions, but only his first since May 7. The Pirates expected more out of him this season after an impressive showing at the end of last year that included a strong, if losing, performance against the Cincinnati Reds in the National League playoffs.

In the other National League games, the Atlanta Braves walloped the San Diego Padres 9-1; the Philadelphia Phillies stopped the Chicago Cubs 6-1 in a six-inning, rain-shortened game; the St. Louis Cardinals turned back the Montreal Expos 6-2; the Houston Astros nipped the Cincinnati Reds 2-1 and the San Francisco Giants blanked the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-0.

Braves 9, Padres 1

Earl Williams smashed a three-run homer in the first inning and Roger Moret hurled a six-hitter after a shaky start as Atlanta snapped a four-game losing streak by beating San Diego.

Atlanta put the game away with a four-run fifth that featured a ground rule double by Rod Gibeath and run-scoring singles by Jim Wynn, Tom Paciorek, Darrel Chaney and

Jerry Royster. Phillies 6, Cubs 1

Ron Reed, making his first start of the season after 14 relief appearances, pitched a four-hitter and Greg Luzinski hit a two-run homer as Philadelphia beat Chicago in a game stopped by torrential rains in the bottom of the sixth. Reed, 4-1, struck out seven and walked none as the red-hot Phillies won their 18th game in 22.

The rain helped wash out a couple of 12-game Chicago hitting streaks, one by Bill Madlock and the other by Manny Trillo. Madlock was hitless in three trips and Trillo in two, including a line drive into a double play.

Cardinals 6, Expos 2

Ted Simmons socked a two-run homer in the third inning and Ken Rudolph drove in two runs with a double in the seventh as St. Louis beat Montreal. Simmons' homer, his second on the year, came with two out after Cardinal shortstop Don Kessinger reached on the second of three errors committed by Montreal shortstop Pepe Frias.

Astros 2, Reds 1

Rookie Joaquin Andujar fired a two-hitter and Cesar Cedeño drove home the winning run with a sixth-inning single as Houston edged Cincinnati. Andujar, 1-2, picked up his first major league victory as he retired 25 out of 26 Reds he faced during one stretch. Right-hander Pat Zachary, 4-1, was tagged with both Astro runs and absorbed his first major league defeat.

Giants 6, Dodgers 0

Ed Halicki fired a two-hitter for his first shutout of the season and Gary Matthews slugged three hits, leading San Francisco over Los Angeles.

Exchange Moves Into First Place

Exchange took a 5-1 three-hit win over the Graniteers behind the pitching of Gordon Douglas Coke opened the scoring in the first with two big smashes. Chuck Allen and Billy Branigan both slammed two-run homers.

Camp walked in the third forcing in a run as did Richard Pace and Todd Lovette singled scoring one. Michael Worthington was hit by a pitch and Terry Smith walked forcing in two more.

The Optimists got their first in the fourth as Andy Holloman scored on an out. They added five in the fifth. Holloman had an RBI single and Kenny Kirkland a three-run homer. Jeff Porter rounded out the Optimist scoring with a sixth inning homer with none on.

The win gave Exchange a 7-2 record putting them in first place over Big Value and First Federal, both 6-3.

Exchange got started in the first when Billy Bost homered. Douglas kept things going with a single and he scored on a hit by Alison Taylor.

Timmy Little singled and moved around on passed balls giving Exchange a 3-0 lead, in the second.

Three walks loaded the bases for Exchange in the fourth and a single by Billy Kittrell scored two runs.

The only Graniteer run came in the sixth as Lance Searle reached on an error and scored when Mike Tucker walked.

he expected to be the team's starting catcher. But, when the season opened young Biff Pocerobla was behind the plate and Williams was on the bench. Most of his work has been at first base.

"It was frustrating, but it's been frustrating for the whole team," Williams said. "No, I did not want out of Atlanta when I was on the bench, but no player is worth his salt unless he wants to play."

"My job is to play when I get called on," he said. "I just would like to get called on more often."

San Diego's first inning run came when Enzo Hernandez, walked, moved to second on a sacrifice by Marv Rettemund and scored when Willie Davis lined a single to right.

The Padres had won four of their last five games and six out of eight before Atlanta's outburst Tuesday night.

"It makes a different having to play catch up," said Padres Manager John McNamara. "When they scored those extra four runs in the fifth, it limited what we could do."

McNamara expressed some concern at the number of pitchers he's used in splitting the first two games of the series.

"We have to get more consistency out of our pitchers besides Randy Jones," he said. "We brought in four pitchers (tonight and five last night and there was no consistency in their performance."

Blyleven Gets Ticket To Texas

By BRENT KALLESTAD
AP Sports Writer
BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Bert Blyleven, a young man with an ambitious future, is a man on the spot.

Blyleven was the key player in a six-man trade Tuesday night that sent the talented pitcher and infielder Danny Thompson to the Texas Rangers.

"I know everyone will be expecting a lot of me," said Blyleven, who was playing out his option at Minnesota. "My goal is to be consistent like I think I have been with the Twins the last six years."

Minnesota received infielders Roy Smalley and Mike Cubbage, veteran pitcher Bill Singer and minor league pitching prospect Jim Gideon in the trade.

"I think without any question, Blyleven will pitch the way he's capable of at Texas," said Twins Manager Gene Mauch. "His record is impressive and now his mind is clear having all his monetary problems behind him."

The 25-year-old Blyleven will become the Rangers highest paid player, having agreed to a three-year contract calling for $550,000 in salary and deferred payments.

"The last two years or so have really been tough," said Blyleven, who had a 99-90 record since joining Minnesota in June 1970 at the age of 19. He was 4-5 at the time of the trade.

"I expect to be in Texas a long time and hope to win more than 100 games there," continued Blyleven. "I feel good and think I can help them win. They've got a good club."

Thompson, who also joined the Twins in 1970, was elated with the trade. The veteran infielder, who was also unsigned, agreed to contract terms with the Rangers and will receive a salary of $38,000 from Texas — about $11,000 more than he was offered by the Twins.

Thompson has a lifetime average of .252 and was hitting .234 this season and enjoying the best year of his career at shortstop.

While Minnesota players accepted news of the trade skeptically, Mauch and Twins owner Calvin Griffith liked the deal.

"I don't think Twins fans will really know just how good a deal we really made until some time has elapsed," said Mauch. "It's the kind of a deal you'll have to evaluate as time goes by."

Mauch plans immediately to install Smalley at shortstop and Cubbage at third. Singer will join the starting rotation and Gideon is being reassigned from Sacramento to the Twins' AAA farm club at Tacoma in the Pacific Coast League.

Several Twins players wondered aloud why Blyleven was sent to a team in the same division. Minnesota players were nearly unanimous in their feeling that he would easily finish the year with between 15 and 20 victories.

White Sox Protest Game

CHICAGO (AP) — Lenny Randle's run-scoring double with two out in the 16th inning gave the Texas Rangers a 6-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox Tuesday night in a game played under protest.

Jim Sundberg singled with one out in the 16th and was forced by Gene Clines, who then stole second and scored on Randle's only hit of the game.

The White Sox, battling back from a 5-2 deficit, tied the game 5-5 in the eighth inning when Jim Spencer doubled and scored on a single by Buddy Bradford.

The White Sox played the game under protest on grounds the Rangers used an ineligible player in starting pitcher Bill Singer. Long before the game was over and shortly after Singer had been knocked out in the sixth inning, it was announced that he had been traded to Minnesota in a six-player deal bringing pitcher Bert Blyleven to the Rangers.

The White Sox contended that Singer's contract already belonged to the Twins when he started the game.

Farmville Edges Grifton

GRIFTON—Farmville scored three runs in the top of the fourth and then held off a Grifton rally to take an 8-6 win in Pitt County Babe Ruth league action last night.

The winning pitcher was Phillip Gordon. He struck out seven and gave up three hits but walked seven.

Taff Beats Farmville, 9-7

Gene Pittman singled in the bottom of the eighth driving in Carlton Wall with the winning run as Taff edged Farmville, 9-8, in a Senior Babe Ruth league game last night.

Taff had taken a 2-0 lead in the first on a sacrifice by Pittman and a fielder's choice and added two more in the second on Max Joyner's two-run single.

Both teams scored once in the third and three times in the fourth. Farmville got a run back in the fifth as Clark May scored on an error.

In the seventh, Farmville rallied for the tying runs. One run scored on an out, and the next two were forced in on walks.

Neither team was able to score again in the rest of the seventh. Farmville went down in order in the eighth and got the first runner Taff runner at the plate.

Wild Pitch Helps Tigers Rally For 8-7 Decision

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

It was like an LP record for Milwaukee relief ace Ed Rodriguez ... only in this case LP stood for Losing Pitcher.

Rodriguez also picked up a WP ... but that stood for the wild pitch he threw, capping a three-run Detroit rally in the ninth inning that enabled the Tigers to beat the Brewers 8-7 in the opener of Tuesday's (twilight) doubleheader.

Rodriguez then surrendered two runs in the ninth inning of the nightcap — the last on Ben Oglivie's two-out homer — as the Tigers completed a sweep by a 6-5 score.

The evening must have seemed like a nightmarish instant replay to the Brewers, who also saw Detroit rally twice Monday night with two runs in the ninth inning and two more in the 11th to post a 5-4 victory.

In other American League action, the Texas Rangers edged the Chicago White Sox 6-5 in 16 innings, the Kansas City Royals downed the Oakland A's 5-2 and the California Angels beat the Minnesota Twins 6-4.

The White Sox, battling back from a 5-2 deficit, tied the game 5-5 in the eighth inning when Jim Spencer doubled and scored on a single by Buddy Bradford.

Parsons Leads GN Standings

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Unlike Richard Petty's runaway to his sixth national stock-car driving title last year, the 1976 climb is a tight one with Benny Parsons narrowly clinging to the top rung.

Parsons has 1,996 points in the Grand National circuit of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing. Cale Yarborough is only 14 points behind with 1,982. Petty is third with 1,898.

Then come Bobby Allison, 1,816; Lennie Pond, 1,730; Dave Marcis, 1,693; Richard Childress, 1,628; Darrell Waltrip, 1,514; Buddy Baker, 1,508, and Frank Warren, 1,480.

Junior Meet Scheduled

There will be a Junior Olympic Track and Field meet at East Carolina's Bunting Field Saturday, June 5. Registration will begin at 9:00 and Field events will begin at 10:30 a.m.

The trials in the track events will also begin at 10:30. A one dollar entry fee will be charged of all entrants.

The meet is expected to draw participants from all over Eastern North Carolina and qualifiers from the local meet will advance to the sectionals to be held here, June 12. From there, the top four qualifiers will go on to state competition.

The age divisions will be: nine and under, 10-11, 12-13, 14-15, 16-17 with the age as of January first, 1976 being the cut off.

Royals 5, A's 2
Amos Otis broke a 1-1 tie in the third inning with his ninth home run of the season, giving him the American League lead. The A's runs came on homers by Don Baylor in the first inning and Sal Bando in the A's seventh as Doug Bird became Kansas City's top winner with his sixth triumph.

The Royals got only six hits off Stan Bahnsen and three relievers but they stole five bases, two apiece by Hal McRae and Frank White. In the third inning, Fred Patek walked, stole second and scored on a single by Tom Poquette. Otis followed with his two-run win in both ends of the twin homer.

Angels 6, Twins 4
Nolan Ryan won his first game in exactly a month, scattering seven hits — including home runs by Larry Hisle and Craig Kuskick — while walking five and fanning seven. Ryan had dropped five decisions since his last victory May 1.

The Angels scored four times in the fourth inning off rookie Pete Redfern, an uprising highlighted by Andy Etchebarren's two-run single.

The Cincinnati Reds won the 1975 National League West race by 20 games, beat Pittsburgh in the NL pennant playoff, then beat Boston in the seven-game World Series.

Smith's Charges Begin To Decrease In Numbers

RALEIGH (AP) — At least five of the 53 basketball players originally in camp for the Olympic team trials are no longer practicing.

Among those who did not show up for practice Tuesday was Darrell Griffith, the only high school player at the tryouts.

Griffith's roommate Wesley Cox said that Griffith had a sore knee and hoped to continue to practice when it improved. The Louisville Male High player was one of the most heavily recruited high school players in the country this year.

Other players lost to attrition Tuesday were Steve Grote of Michigan, Ed Owens of Nevada-Las Vegas and Mike Richardson of Montana.

Grote suffered a collapsed lung after Monday night's scrimmage and was hospitalized. Owens went home with "various aches and pains," and Richardson left after suffering a pulled hamstring.

The best known player to drop out so far was Marquette's Bo Ellis. Unable to finish the mile run, he left Monday afternoon complaining of stomach pain.

According to the Olympic hopefuls, Coach Dean Smith is working them hard.

"I'm too tired to talk," moaned Indiana's Scott May after the morning workout. May was the 1976 college player of the year.

Smith said he is developing a running, pressing team.

"I don't think there's going to be that much difference between the first and twelfth men on the team," he said. "And when you have depth, the way to take advantage of it is to lengthen the game by running." Smith is still searching for quality big men. He brought part-time N.C. State starter Glenn Sudhop, 7-foot-2, into camp Tuesday and said he looked good in the morning workout.

And Arizona's center Robert Elliott grabbed several rebounds and sharp passes during an impressive morning scrimmage performance Tuesday.

Ramsay Named To Replace Wilkins

By KEN DONEY
Associated Press Writer
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — "It's going to take a healthy Bill Walton" to turn Portland into a winner, says new Portland Trail Blazers Coach Frank Ramsay.

"Like I had a healthy one, right?" responded Lenny Wilkins, who was fired by the National Basketball Association club after completing two years of a four-year contract.

Ramsay's hiring was announced at a news conference Tuesday, making him the fourth coach in the six-year history of the Blazers.

"I had heard some rumors the past couple of weeks, but I still didn't think anything would happen," Wilkins said in a telephone interview. "I mean why should I? We had a lot of injuries, other problems I don't think any coach could control."

Ramsay was dismissed by Buffalo on May 3 after the Braves lost to Boston in the Eastern Conference semifinals. "He's not fired, he's just not rehired," Buffalo publicist Mike Shaw said at the time.

Ramsay coached at Buffalo for four years, the Braves reaching the NBA playoffs the last three.

Wilkins had completed the second year of a four-year contract. The Blazers were 38-44 the first year, their best record ever, and 37-45 the past season despite numerous injuries, notably to Walton.

Wilkins, who previously coached Seattle for three years and played in the NBA for 15 years, said he "didn't think it was right . . . but he's the one making the decisions," a reference to Lawrence Weinberg, Blazers president.

"I know that it's a high risk business," he said, "but I don't think you can overlook the fact that Bill Walton was hurt and out of the lineup, that Geoff Petrie started off well, then was hurt and out, and that Lloyd Neal was injured and out....

"When you're winning, everyone thinks you're a genius," Wilkins said. "Next year, what if he (Walton) stays healthy? Everyone will think he (Ramsay) is a genius. Ironically, it could happen."

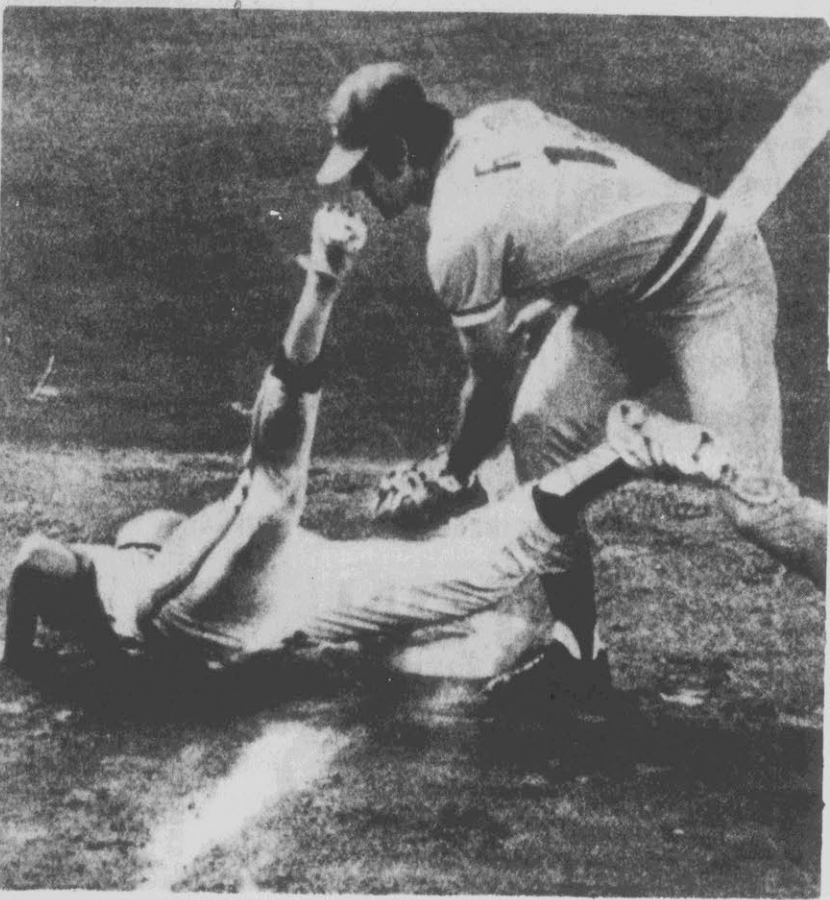

Wilkins wasn't wishing Ramsay any ill luck, just predicting what might happen next season if the Blazers stay healthy.

"I think this is the best coaching opportunity in professional basketball," Ramsay said at the news conference. "I took the position here for that reason."

Ramsay's contract is for two years with an additional option year.

Ramsay, who was coach and general manager of the Philadelphia 76ers for six years, said, "The only mixed feeling I have is that I am replacing a guy for whom I have a great deal of respect."

At Buffalo, his first team was 21-61 in 1972-73. The next three made the playoffs with records of 42-40, 49-33 and 46-36.

Elon Rides Break Into Two-Shot Lead

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Elon College, which got into the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) championship golf tournament as the host team after losing in district play, has a two-stroke lead after the first 18 holes of the 72-hole tournament.

Elon's best four shotmakers required 294 strokes at the Alameda Country Club course today to lead the 32 NAIA district champions.

Sam Houston is runnerup with 296 and Pembroke and U.S. International are tied for third with 297.

Will Brewer of David Lipscomb College fired 37-31-68 to take the individual lead. He had a one-over-par 37 on the front nine but fought back with a course record-tying 31 on the back nine of the 6,700-yard course.

Elon lost to Gardner Webb by one stroke in the District 26 tournament.

Other top finishers in team play were:

Francis Marion, 298; Gardner Webb and Christian Brothers, 301; Edinboro State, 302; St. Bernard, 306; Moorhead, 307; and defending champion Texas Wesleyan, Willamette and Wisconsin-Lacrosse, tied at 308.

In individual scoring, Mike Free of St. Bernard and Tom Randall of Francis Marion shot 69s to trail Brewer, followed by: Jerry Kennedy of Edinboro State and Tim Skogen of Wisconsin-Lacrosse, 70; David Braxton of Elon and Gary Backlund of USI, 71; Bill McIntyre of Sam Houston and Willis Nance of Pembroke, 72; and Randy Davis of Christian Brothers, John Evans of Sam Houston, Mike Roshelli of Pembroke and Jim Zimmerman of Gardner Webb, 73.

One hole in one was recorded in first-round play, by Jim Gerecki of Moorhead State at the par-three 17th. But he wound up with a round of 85.

Eldridge Wants Run Own Race

NASHVILLE (AP) — Despite the obvious physical resemblance between mother and daughter, Kay Eldridge does not want to be known simply as Wilma Rudolph's daughter.

"It makes me made when people talk to me as her daughter. She and I are different people," she said. "I'm me. People who talk that way are saying I have to do like she did."

Eldridge, a Charleston, W. Va., high school graduate, will be on Tennessee State University's track squad this fall.

She will be working with the TSU track coach Ed Temple, who tutored her mother to three gold medals in the 1960 Olympics.

By The Associated Press
OAKVILLE, Ont. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus and defending Canadian Open champion Tom Weiskopf on Tuesday officially opened the Glen Abbey Golf Club, a course designed by Nicklaus which will become the permanent site of the Open.

Nicklaus had his troubles, however, in an exhibition round played to inaugurate the 7,226-yard, par-72 layout. He shot a three-over-par 75, while Weiskopf carded a 71.

Tar Heels Complete 2,100-Mile Journey

BAXTER STATE PARK, Maine (AP)—Two college students, who trudged through snow most of the way, have become the first hikers in 1976 to complete the more than 2,100-mile Appalachian Trail.

Star Ellis, 21, and Cutler Ferchaud, 20, both of Shelby, N.C., ended their trip at Baxter State Park Monday, exactly five months after they set off at Springer Mountain in Georgia on New Year's Eve.

The pair, who will be juniors at North Carolina State University this fall, said they encountered snow in every state along the way. Ellis, a zoology major, recalled plunging up to his neck in a snow bank while hiking through the White Mountains of New Hampshire.

Ferchaud, a student of wild-life biology, said it had been his long time dream to hike the full length of the trail, especially in winter. "Anyone can do the trail in summer," he said.

Ellis claimed he embarked on the trip to get away from civilization and the luxuries of modern day life. "I learned to appreciate the many things I've taken for granted, such as my Mum's cooking and my home life," he said upon his arrival here.

The hikers said they often went without passing anyone on the footpath, which is generally well traveled during the summer months. During the 400-mile stretch from the Smokies of North Carolina to Mt. Rogers in Virginia, they said they saw no one.

Ferchaud said he lost about 15 pounds and Ellis at least 20 during the trip.

Claiming that the last 500 miles was the hardest psychologically, Ellis said the mile-high Mt. Katahdin here, where the trail ends, was the "pot of gold at the end of rainbow."

Park officials gave the pair special permission to climb the peak at their own risk. The mountain, which is still snow-covered, has not yet been opened to the public.

During the American Revolution, approximately 5,000 blacks served in the Colonial army.

Chicano Sitcom Latest Entry

NEW YORK (AP)—"Viva Valdez," a new situation comedy that seems to be a blend of "Sanford and Son," a Spanish-accented "Good Times" and "Chico" minus "The Man," has been set loose on ABC.

ABC says it's about "a closeknit Chicano family in East Los Angeles beset by generation gap problems as the parents try to cling to traditional values while coping with four contemporary-minded offspring."

Papa Valdez (Rodolfo Hoyos) operates a plumbing business. His oldest son, Victor (James Victor) helps him do this. His second-born, Ernesto (Nelson D. Cuevas) chases girls. His daughter, Connie (Lisa Mordente) goes to high school. His youngest son, Pepe (Claudio Martinez) is 12 years old. His wife, Sophia (Carmen Zapata), tends house.

The scheduled Monday premiere of this summer series concerned Pepe. Seems he and Pop were going to a father-and-son picnic and he'd begun worrying about the ancient looks of his father, age 59.

"When he stands next to the other fathers, he looks like their fathers," he complained to Victor.

Pepe wondered aloud why his folks waited so long to cause his birth. Victor jokingly told him he was an "accident." This made the kid understandably sad and set the stage for the rest of the half hour.

There were pauses to introduce cousin Jerry (Jorge Ramirez), show Mom sewing and griping about a bikini Connie planned to wear and let Ernesto put the bite on all to finance a night with a "heavy date."

But the dominant theme was Pepe's feeling he was an unwanted child, which came out publicly when he told Pop, "You didn't want me when I was young. I don't want you when you're old."

The last four or so minutes of this show—it seemed like quadruple the time—was spent with the kids, cousin Jerry and Pop trying to get Pepe to unlock the door of the bathroom in which the kid had repaired to brood about his lot in life.

Sure, he was finally convinced he was loved and wanted, even though his arrival on this earth wasn't planned.

I, pardon the personal reference, have the feeling even less planning went into the script, which not even standout acting efforts by Hoyos and Miss Zapata could overcome.

True, one episode does not a series make. But if the writing in next Monday's "Viva Valdez" isn't better, methinks it'd be wise for ABC, the thespians and viewers all to bid it adios and quickly.

NBC says it's definite now: Betty Furness, the former TV pitchwoman turned consumer affairs specialist for WNBC-TV here, will be the "temporary" cohost of "Today" this summer. She'll start next Monday.

She's succeeding Barbara Walters, whose last live gig on the show will be Thursday, when "Today" devotes its closing half hour to a salute to her 13 years before the program's cameras.

NBC is still mum about who'll be her permanent replacement. But I'd bet—with play money, of course—it will be a relative unknown name of Kelly Lange, who now labors at KNBC-TV in beautiful downtown Burbank.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Look into all statements, contracts, or reports to eliminate possible errors in figures or facts. Matters requiring charm are favored.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't argue about monetary matters today, but get on the policy level. Join congenial friends for recreation and enjoy yourself. Be jovial.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Improve conditions at home with cooperation of kin. Don't be so demanding. Avoid one who rubs you the wrong way.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get busy at whatever will help you gain fond desires; forget anxieties for now. Cooperate with others to become more productive.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study your monetary status carefully. Don't follow advice of those who are greedy or you could lose assets. Avoid trouble.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make your appearance more attractive and change your style somewhat. Avoid bigwig whose ideas you don't approve of. A charming social p.m.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sep. 22) Keep agreements to the letter and don't go on any tangents that could prove costly. You can keep one promise you like easily.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Enjoy company of good friends and get excellent results. Not a good day for business matters. Study them carefully first.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Handle civic matter so you need not be pressured any longer about it, but don't expect a busy party to help you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Your ideas are good for making your life more worthwhile and business affairs more successful, so put them in operation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Handle business and civic matters. Not a good day to run off to any amusements when you have so much to do that is important.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't involve kin in outside affairs, but handle them yourself. Keep a promise you have made and it pays off handsomely. Guard reputation.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make your environment more attractive and operable and don't run away on some tangent and waste time. Cooperate with co-workers.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she can accomplish a great deal in life provided the lesson of perseverance is learned early, as well as the art of working along with bigwigs and not trying to buck them and thereby lose out where it counts the most. Teach to smile more and charm others into doing what is desired of them. Give cultural advantages early in life and also permit to participate in healthful sports.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

UF Checks Are Mailed

Checks totaling over $6,000 are being mailed to 11 communities in the county toward their local community services as a result of their contributions to the Pitt County United Fund.

Joe Tripp, executive director of the Pitt UF, explained that each community that contributes towards the United Fund gets a certain percentage of that contribution back towards its local community services functions.

Administrators of the various community services handle the money returned to their agencies as they see fit, Tripp noted.

Communities receiving checks towards their community service activities include Greenville, Ayden, Falkland, Chicod, Bethel, Fountain, Grifton, Grimesland, Simpson, Stokes, and Winterville. Farmville, Tripp pointed out, retains its community services funds when the overall contribution to the United Fund is made.

Opening lead: King of ♣.

The art of being a bridge detective is not as difficult as it may seem. The bidding and play yield an abundant amount of evidence, so it's simply a matter of learning to put the pieces of the puzzle together. Consider this hand.

North-South did well to get to four spades after West's barrage. A cautious North might have passed, in which case West would have bought the contract, for South can do no more. However, North had his eye on the vulnerability and decided that a stab at four spades was worth the risk.

West started with his two top hearts, declarer ruffing the second round. The best chance to avoid two diamond losers was to project an end-play, so declarer started by leading ace and another trump. Had West held the king, this plan might have succeeded. Unfortunately, East won the king of spades and shifted to a diamond. Declarer played low and West won the queen. He exited with a club, and in the fullness of time declarer was forced to concede another diamond trick for down one.

Better planning would have brought the contract home. There was no certainty that West held the king of trumps for his four heart overcall. But what was sure was that the endplay could not succeed if West was allowed to retain exit cards in clubs. Declarer should have put this knowledge to good use.

After winning the ace of trumps, declarer should play three rounds of clubs. When West discards on the third club, declarer can revert to trumps. East can win the king and shift to diamonds, but this time West is in trouble after he wins the queen. He has been stripped of his exit cards.

If West returns a heart, declarer can ruff in dummy and discard his diamond loser. If West leads a diamond, he is giving declarer a free finesse.

Note that it would not have helped East to exit with a club or his last trump rather than a diamond. Declarer wins and endplays West by leading a low diamond from his hand toward the jack-ten.

Richter Warns Of Creaky Buildings

By JACK V. FOX
PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Dr. Charles Richter, whose name is synonymous with earthquakes, has a standard reply when people ask him when California can expect its next big quake.

"Tomorrow morning," he replies.

Richter is jesting, of course, (we hope), but his answer is a dramatization of his ardent belief that the West Coast must be shaken out of its apathy to the extent that it tears down literally thousands of creaky buildings that could be death traps.

The Los Angeles area last month got a warning from Dr. James H. Whitcomb, a geophysicist at Cal Tech's seismological laboratory, that an earthquake as great as the 1971 quake is likely any time within the next 12 months.

Richter, who headed the laboratory until his retirement in 1970, does not make such a precise prediction but he defends Whitcomb against those who criticize him as an alarmist whose warning serves only to create anxiety.

"It is true that there is not much the average person can do about preparing for an earthquake," he said in an interview in his suburban home.

"Nature's catastrophes are unavoidable in whatever form they come. So far as earthquakes are concerned, you can do things like removing heavy objects from top shelves and making sure that the chance of fire is reduced to a minimum."

Richter, now 76, himself lives only a mile from a foothill fault and he certainly is not advocating that people flee en masse from the nation's most populous state.

"But what we can do is shake government administrators out of their complacency," he said. "Studies have shown that in past earthquakes 90 per cent of the loss of life resulted from collapse of structures that any engineer could have established were unsound — public buildings, old industrial plants, tenement rows."

Richter will go down in history as the creator of the "Richter scale" — a complicated measurement of the magnitude of a quake at its epicenter based on seismological readings from a number of points at widely varied distances.

Richter had been appointed head of the seismological laboratory in 1927. He knew virtually nothing about earthquakes, was doing graduate work in physics but took the job mainly because it enabled him to stay in his home area of Pasadena.

"In 1932 we were compiling a catalogue of earthquakes we had recorded and there were so many that we decided there should be some differentiation of their magnitude. It was just sort of haphazard that we came up with the formula that later became the Richter scale."

The scale does not go from zero to 10 as is often reported. It is open-ended, so that the theoretical scale of 10 would mean infinite disaster on earth. The two largest quakes ever recorded measured 8.9.

The first occurred in 1906 off the coast of South America and the second in 1933 off Japan.

The 1906 magnitude was fixed on the basis of readings of instruments that were so accurate in 1900 that they still are being used today.

The year 1906 had the most violent earthquakes in modern history. It was the time of the great San Francisco quake which has been estimated to register 8.3 on the Richter scale. There were two other tremendous quakes that same year.

The year 1933 also marked the devastating earthquake in Long Beach which Richter says marked the first time that government officials were shaken into making changes in building safety codes.

The 1971 Los Angeles quake which was centered in the San Fernando Valley was rated at 6.4. It was minor compared to the last great quake along the San Andreas fault in 1857 which extended all the way from San Luis Obispo to San Bernardino, a distance of 150 miles.

In the 1971 quake which occurred at one minute past 6 a.m., Richter was awakened from his sleep and dashed into his living room where he had a seismograph.

Was he scared like everybody else?

Richter's reply was that of the true scientist.

"I don't know about everybody else but I wasn't scared," he said.

"Within 15 seconds I could tell by the movement and the fact that the tremors did not accelerate that it wasn't one of the magnitude that we had been expecting."

Richter sounded almost as if he had been disappointed.

Gunshot Broke Quiet Of Town

By DAVID R. NELSEN
Associated Press Writer
SCOTLAND NECK, N.C.

(AP) — Until recently, residents say, this eastern North Carolina town of 3,000 had never known a racial disturbance or even a demonstration.

On March 11 that tranquility was shattered by a single gunshot. Whispered rumors of the Ku Klux Klan have swept through the black community, and organized protest demonstrations have surged out of both white and black neighborhoods.

Harry Lee Dickens, a 21-year-old black man, was gunned down in his front yard by a .22 caliber pistol shot to the head as his two older sisters watched in horror.

A white woman, the wife of a fundamentalist minister, was accused in the shooting. Four days later, Dickens died and Sandra Dupree, a 34-year-old mother of four, was charged with first degree murder. By state law, she faces the gas chamber if convicted.

Mrs. Dupree was free on $1,000 bond for four days while Dickens clung to life. When he died, her bond was raised to $10,000. After a series of hearings, that bond was revoked and she was jailed for three weeks until a new bond of $75,000 was set.

The death and the initial low bond for Mrs. Dupree enraged many blacks. Golden Frinks, a professional civil rights activist who works North Carolina for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, led blacks in protest every Sunday, demanding an end to what he called favored treatment for Mrs. Dupree. Frinks also organized a boycott of white-owned businesses downtown.

Whites, primarily those who are among the 118 members of the Hope Free Will Baptist Church where the Rev. Harvey Dupree is pastor, rallied to Mrs. Dupree's support. They, too, began demonstrating on Sundays. On several occasions, the two groups came close to encountering each other. So far, violence has been avoided.

The conflict has affected most of the town, though residents say the tensions are not as high now as they were at first. Bob Robinson, editor of the weekly newspaper, The Scotland Neck Commonwealth, stopped by a local tavern recently and was punched in the eye by a man who said he was tired of reading about the case.

Because of high emotions in Halifax County, the July 5 trial date was moved to Henderson about 60 miles away.

A week before the shooting, Mrs. Dupree's eldest son, Mark, 14, was in a black neighborhood selling the national weekly newspaper "Grit" as a fund-raising project of his all white Christian school where his father also teaches.

Mark apparently had a disagreement with two younger black boys and, he has admitted, he pulled a knife. Jesse Alexander, 25, a large black man, said he saw what was happening and took the knife from Mark.

The next week Mark was selling Grit in the Dickens neighborhood, four blocks from his home, when the shooting occurred.

Gatsby C. Dickens, mother of the shooting victim, said she doesn't understand what happened or why Mrs. Dupree was freed on bond.

"All I know is that my son got shot right in the front yard for no reason at all. Ain't nobody done nothing about that," she said.

A short, 346-pound woman who takes medication for obesity, Mrs. Dickens said she and some other blacks have been harassed.

"It seems to me that the biggest majority of white peoples in this town is holding me responsible for what's going on. And then, they (area blacks who demonstrated) been getting threats from the Ku Klux Klansmen and stuff like that," she said.

Although some blacks said in interviews that notes saying "we are watching you" and signed by the "KKK" have been put on doors and cars, Police Chief William Joyner said he has received no such complaints. He also said there is no known Klan activity in the area.

Just minutes before the shooting, Dickens had gone outside to chop some wood, Mrs. Dickens said. "I hear a car come squealing on brakes," she said, adding that she then heard the girls yelling, "Don't shoot my brother."

She went out and saw that her son had been shot and a woman was standing there, gun in hand. "I was hollering and crying asking her, 'Why did you shoot my son? Why did you shoot my son?' She never parted her lips to me."

Mrs. Dickens said she saw the woman drop the pistol into her purse as she got into the car and drove away.

The older sisters have testified in preliminary and bond hearings that they saw Mrs. Dupree approach Dickens with a shiny object in her hand.

A left shoe and glasses identified as Mrs. Dupree's, and a can of tear gas without a top were found at the scene.

Robert Alvin "Bobby" Bell, 16, a neighbor of the Duprees, said in a statement filed with the court that Mrs. Dupree and Mark arrived home that evening and "she was screaming that a 'nigger' man had tried to kill Mark. She also stated that he (the black man) had knocked her down three times."

Dickens' sisters have told the court that their brother did not attack Mark or Mrs. Dupree. But, Mark said that before the shooting, Dickens knocked him down and demanded $5.

Shortly after the shooting, Mrs. Dupree and Mark swore out assault warrants against Dickens, the police chief said. The warrants were never served and are marked, "defendant died."

Mrs. Dupree was treated that day at the local hospital where records say she was "tense, somewhat withdrawn...in severe distress." Dr. G. V. Bynum also wrote, "She...stated she had feared for her life about one week."

The police chief said Dickens was a "typical boy," not known as a troublemaker. Dickens had been home from the Army about two months before the shooting. He had been given an undesirable discharge after being absent without leave too many times, his mother said.

Mrs. Dupree has refused interviews with newsmen on advice of her attorney, Arthur Vann. However, in her first talk with a reporter, she told The Associated Press that, "As far as I'm concerned this is not a racial thing...the color doesn't enter in...I'm not prejudiced at all."

A quiet-spoken woman who glows when speaking of her family and her church work, Mrs. Dupree said "it's been torture" since the shooting. One of the most difficult parts, she said, has been what she calls the one-sided reports in the media. "Mr. Vann says we don't want to try this in the press, just hang up, forget it," she said.

Despite silence from her side and an eagerness to talk on the part of the Dickens family and black leaders such as Frinks, Mrs. Dupree said she has received letters of support from old friends who read of the incident.

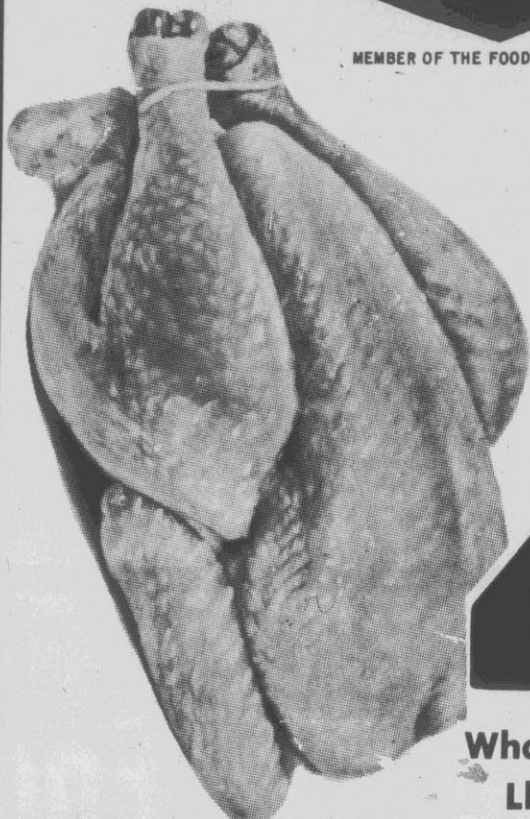

"When they heard just the one side they were just ringing, calling, 'I know you, I know you as a person. You cannot have possibly conceived to have done such a thing,' you know," she said while standing in front of the doorway of her home adjacent to the church.

The support has helped her

Women Voters Fight For Rights

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Newfeatures Writer
The pretty, sandy-haired lady from Louisville smiles gently, but the button on her turtle-neck sweater reads, "See you in court."

Dot Ridings, 36, mother of two young boys, has been to court twice in the last two years to join the fight for open public records and open public meetings in Kentucky.

She is president of one of the 1,400 local leagues of the League of Women Voters, a 56-year-old, 136,000-member organization born of the women's suffrage movement and the 19th amendment that gave women the vote. Two years ago it admitted men for the first time.

For those who want to look at a broad range of issues, who want to explore and present both sides of every question, who don't mind the drudgery of political study, the League is the major organization.

It attracts serious, middle-class women whose husbands are professionals or businessmen and who have children and nice homes, but feel that isn't enough. The League demands time, which tends to eliminate the single, working woman.

The League takes stands only when it reaches a consensus, one of its prime characteristics. It does not back candidates. It pits those candidates against each other as in its current televised Presidential Forum '76.

An active member drags her children with her to meetings, sits attentive through endless, dreary sessions of local commissions and pores over mountains of budgetary minutes.

Few public officials will deny the effect of the League's dispassionate, thorough studies of issues ranging from the need for a family court in the Virgin Islands to national campaign financing.

"The strength is we have the time to do things," Dot Ridings explains. "I feel a surrogate role because I know there are people, my husband included, who feel much the same way about the need for governmental action by citizens, and simply don't have the time to do it."

"They can't be there at fiscal court when it meets every Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, I can."

Early League women often encountered the displeasure and discomfort of local officials.

That has changed. "Now they tell us when meetings are," says a Las Vegas League member, "so we don't have to follow them around."

The organization's information-gathering aspect was what first attracted Dot Ridings to the League. She was a reporter for the Charlotte, N.C., Observer, researching a story on a "speaker ban law" which gave officials wide discretionary powers in banning speakers from state campuses.

"The best source on this issue was the League of Women Voters," she recalls. "They produced a document that gave me everything I needed."

Mary Updegrave, 48, of Crystal Lake, Ill., says, "I had a three-year-old child, I lived in a suburban neighborhood, I was a college graduate, and I was extremely bored with talking about various kinds of floor wax. I saw an article in the paper and said to a neighbor, 'Let's go.' We went and I was hooked."

Two weeks after the birth of her first child, seven years ago, Dot Ridings joined the League. This year she missed her husband's swearing in to the bar before the Kentucky Supreme Court because she was attending the League's national convention in New York.

"I think I would be a worse mother if I didn't have something like this that I'm really interested in," she says. "It keeps you alive. I think I would be much more of a shrew if I were a stay-at-home."

Laura Watson, 44, of Mesa, Ariz., says her daughter has often wished that her mother had a regular job with regular hours because League work is never done. Still, she says, her teen-agers and her husband are proud of her. "I feel that raising my children is the most important thing that I do. If I can provide the world with two good citizens I have done an outstandingly good job."

As a League president Dot Ridings puts in some 20 hours a week in the League office, some 20 hours at home, where she has her own office and does free-lance writing. But most of ten League members work out of the kitchen or the dining room and some keep their files in shoe boxes under the bed.

In the last two years, Dot Ridings' League helped moderate the violence-prone tension of court-ordered busing of school children.

The League joined a coalition of other Louisville groups, helped round up the support of businessmen and helped man a 24-hour rumor control center where League members handled phone calls and slept on cots.

The League collected enough money, mostly in small contributions, to send Dot Ridings and three colleagues to Washington to testify before the Senate Judiciary Committee. "We wanted them to hear things they might not hear from the extremes of the argument," Dot Ridings says.

The League also wrote every candidate for office, urging them not to aggravate the situation by playing on the busing issue.

Gunshot...

through the difficult period, she said. Her most trying time, she said, was the three weeks in jail. At one hearing when bond was denied, she collapsed in the courtroom wailing. "They're taking me away from my children" as supporters held Bibles aloft.

"I have an inner strength and inner peace that pacifies anything...God gives me that strength...If God be for us, who can be against us," she said, adding that she advised youth in the church "to stand for the Lord and serve Him, love Him, trust Him with all your heart. If He's for you, if He's on your side, it doesn't matter who is against you."

Still limping slightly from a polio attack when she was 3, Mrs. Dupree said she wants little from life. "I've always said give me a roof over my head, food on my table and family and love and I'm happy."

Mrs. Dupree said her children are important, particularly her 8-month-old daughter. Her other sons are 12 and 6 years old. "They're just a wonderful group of boys. But this precious little girl just put the icing on the cake," she said.

Mrs. Dickens was also a mother of four, three of them girls.

Not all League work is as dramatic as that.

Dorothy Bird, 44, of Durango, Colo., says her League took on the U.S. Postal Service which wanted to build on the banks of the Animas River and convinced it otherwise. The only trouble is that now the General Services Administration is eyeing the same site.

Bea Levinson, 42, of Las Vegas, Nev., credits the League with getting air pollution standards for Nevada earlier and stronger than other states. One League member has gone on to the state legislature and others are working on state commissions.

Vicki Lowell, 34, of Falmouth, Mass., is part of an established League that provides the community with a "candidate's night." She says that "if we didn't have it the town would think something was wrong."

The League has always led on many social issues. In 1920, when it was founded, it adopted a list of 96 action items, including collective bargaining, child labor laws, minimum wages, civil service, public health. By 1924, its president could announce that two-thirds of the list had become law.

For all its success, the League finds itself, in this Bicentennial year, with its membership down by some 15,000 from 1972.

Will Help Fetchit

CHICAGO (AP) — World heavyweight boxing champ Muhammad Ali headed a list of entertainers and sports figures who gathered for an 85th birthday benefit to raise funds to pay hospital bills for veteran black entertainer Stepin Fetchit.

Fetchit, still hospitalized from a stroke that paralyzed his right arm, made his first public appearance at the benefit Sunday night since suffering the stroke April 21.

Among those who joined Ali were actor and Broadway star Ben Vereen, comedian Henny Youngman and Bob Love, a forward for the Chicago Bulls of the National Basketball Association.

Fetchit, whose real name is Theodore Lincoln Perry, starred in 26 films between 1929 and 1935. Officials at Michael Reese Hospital said Sunday he is in fair condition and is "improving."

Not Buying Votes, Just The Meals

By BARBARA FRYE
TALLAHASSEE, FLA. (UPI)

— It's a movable feast for Florida legislators, a nightly party with no pretensions about its purpose.

Each night they gather at The Trailers, an after-hours spot where steak and cocktails for lawmakers, are always on the house, just a 10-minute drive from the Florida capitol.

The menu never varies. It's T-bones for the men, loin strip for the ladies, baked potato, salad and all the cocktails you can hold.

The Florida Mobile Home and Recreational Vehicles Association pays the tab — estimated at nearly $25,000 a year — and there is no secret about its purpose.

"People sometimes get the wrong impression, but we don't buy votes," says Bill Olsen, the affable executive vice president and lobbyist who runs The Trailers.

What it does buy is guaranteed entry for Olsen and his members to a legislator's office to talk about legislation affecting the mobile home industry.

"Legislators know me. I can get in and explain our viewpoint," he said, leaning back in a comfortable chair off the patio where as many as 100 legislators and their guests are served on an average night.

He figures about 50 legislative bills a year effect the association. This year, his chief interest is a "bill of rights" for mobile home landlords and tenants.

His most successful year was 1965 when the lobby helped push through a bill allowing mobile homes, even when used as dwellings, to buy license plates instead of paying a property tax like other residences. In 1967, with prodding from the industry, the legislature made Florida the first state in the nation to enact a uniform construction code for mobile homes.

Most senators and representatives make the short trip to The Trailers several times a session, some more frequently. A few never go. Two go so often, they insist on paying the cost, which Olsen insists is $5 a head.

In his twice yearly reports to the House and Senate, Olsen says, "To be safe, I figure it at $7 apiece."

His report for the 1975 session was $8,400, which included only the price of the food and drink for each legislator. Lobbying rules, written by some of Olsen's guests, don't require him to report overhead, or which legislator ate the meal, and legislators must report gifts only if they exceed $25.

Olsen says "lobbying" is forbidden at The Trailers, which he runs as a family place, with wives and children welcome. He has a pond where the kids can fish while mom and dad relax.

"They don't want to be harassed about some bill. They come to have fun."

Olsen, who lives in Madiera Beach when the Legislature is not in session, said the idea began as an educational project in government for the association's members, which now number more than 900 mobile home dealers, manufacturers and park owners.

"Only two or three of them knew what a senator or representative looked like. They didn't know a damn thing about how government works."

Now, he says, they know more legislators and more about the lawmaking process than any group. They come in droves, sit in the legislative galleries and dine at The Trailers with their hometown legislators.

It began in 1961 with one trailer and a barbecue pit on land borrowed from an association member. Now there are four trailers and the group bought nine wooded acres four miles from town in 1972.

"That was a good investment," Olsen recalls. "We paid $1,800 an acre and land right next to us just sold for $7,500 an acre."

A legislator can just drop in, but most phone ahead for a reservation, and you don't have to be a friend of the mobile home lobby to dine.

"One guy who's always introducing bills that hurt us comes a lot," he said.

Although The Trailers always figures in at least one news story per session about the "wild nightlife" of legislators, Olsen says it's a quiet place with never a fight.

"A late night is 11:15," he said.
