Carter Piles Up More Delegates

By DAVE GOLDBERG
Associated Press Writer

Jimmy Carter, at best an outsider when the primaries began, has capped his run from nowhere with a delegate harvest that puts him within a few quick moves of the Democratic presidential nomination.

For the Republicans, the end of the primaries means a continuation of Ronald Reagan's challenge to President Ford. Carter won only in Ohio of the three big states that held primaries on Tuesday. But he picked up more than 200 delegates, and all his rivals but one seemed ready to concede him the nomination.

The one who said he won't quit chasing Carter is Jerry Brown, who won big in his home state of California and was joined with Hubert Humphrey as preferred candidates on an uncommitted delegate slate that won in New Jersey. "I will go forward," Brown said. "I think the nomination is still open."

Humphrey said today he will confer with Brown and Carter before announcing his own plans later in the day. Humphrey has repeatedly refused to enter the race as an active candidate, although he also said he was available for the nomination. He said last week that he would reassess his stand after the last round of primaries.

He said in Washington today that Carter "has a very comfortable lead and I think it would be very difficult to really overcome that lead." He said, however, that he was "very pleased" with the win by the uncommitted delegates in New Jersey.

Ford and Reagan, meanwhile, fought to a standoff that virtually guarantees a fight to the convention in Kansas City two months from now.

Reagan took the California primary and with it the 167 delegates that go to the winner there. But Ford won almost all of Ohio's 97 delegates and an uncommitted slate that swept New Jersey's 67 delegate spots is packed with the President's supporters.

Here is how the delegate count looks with the primaries over:

Carter, who picked up 211 delegates on Tuesday, now has 1,118 of the 1,505 needed for nomination. His closest pursuer is Rep. Morris K. Udall, who has 332.5 Brown, who won 204 in California, has 229 and a number in the uncommitted bloc of over 400 delegates.

On the Republican side, counting the nominally uncommitted New Jersey delegates, Ford's delegate total is 962, while Reagan's is 865.

As the votes were counted Tuesday and even before, it was clear it would be a day for jumping on the Carter bandwagon.

Carter himself told supporters in Atlanta: "I think I'm going to be the nominee."

And at a news conference, he said he had spoken by telephone during the day with three active rivals, Udall, Frank Church and George Wallace; one inactive rival, Humphrey, and Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago, who controls a bloc of 86 delegates nominally committed to Sen. Adlai Stevenson, a favorite son.

"All of them, as a general group, agreed that I would be the nominee," Carter said.

And that was what just about all of them said, finally conceding defeat after a spring of seeing silver linings in cloudy results.

Udall, speaking to supporters in Cleveland after his ninth second-place finish, congratulated Carter on a "solid victory, and a brilliant campaign." He said Carter is now a heavy favorite for the nomination and said he wouldn't engage in a stop-Carter move. But he added that he would not release his delegates because they "cannot be delivered."

These were the figures on the final primaries:

California
With just over 90 per cent of the precincts counted:

REPUBLICAN
Reagan 1,374,294 or 65 per cent
Ford 727,005 or 35 per cent

Reagan got all 167 delegates under the winner-take-all system.

DEMOCRATIC
Brown 1,831,156 or 59 per cent and 204 delegates.

Carter 633,811 or 20 per cent and 67 delegates.

Church 232,886 or 7 per cent and 7 delegates.

Udall 156,449 or 5 per cent and 2 delegates.

The rest of the vote was scattered among five other entries. Democratic Sen. John V. Tunney won renomination over one-time student activist Tom Hayden. Conservative educator S. I. Hayakawa won the Republican nomination.

Ohio
With about 90 per cent of the precincts counted:

Ford 471,582 or 55 per cent and 91 delegates.

Reagan 380,784 or 45 per cent and 6 delegates.

Among Democrats:

Carter 535,970 or 52 per cent and 119 delegates.

Udall 219,291 or 21 per cent and 20 delegates.

Church 144,553 or 14 per cent.

The rest of the vote was scattered in the statewide competition for 38 Democratic delegates. Rep. Louis Stokes won six delegates as a favorite son in his home district.

In other Ohio races, Democratic Rep. Wayne Hays, under fire in the Washington sex scandal, won renomination, but by less than usual against a perennial challenger. And former Sen. Howard Metzenbaum defeated Rep. James V. Stanton for the Democratic nomination to run against Sen. Robert Taft Jr.

New Jersey
With just under 90 per cent of the vote counted in Republican delegate competition, a nominally uncommitted slate of party leaders who actually favor Ford won all 67 convention seats.

In the Democratic presidential preference vote, which was only for show since it committed no delegates, 91 per cent of the precincts had been counted.

Carter had 188,261 or 57 per cent.

Church was second with 64,771 or 19 per cent.

The rest was split three ways.

In the Democratic competition that really counted, 88 per cent of the precincts had reported, and the uncommitted delegate slate led by 75 delegates, Carter for 25. The uncommitted slate was the haven

Meter Deposit Policy Revised

By BETTY HATCH
Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville Utilities Commission Tuesday night increased the amount of meter deposits for some GUC customers and responded to notification that it had not complied with standards set by the Environmental Protection Agency for removal of suspended solids from water supplies.

The proposed increase in meter deposits will go into effect after August 1. Rates for residential users will be as follows:

Permanent homes or mobile homes on owner's property—no no deposit for any utilities;

no deposit with electric or gas heat—$75 for electric or electric and gas, $80 for electric and water or electric, water and gas;

Rented residences without electric or gas heat—$50 for electric or electric and gas, $55 for electric and water or electric, water and gas.

All deposits will be held at each service location for 12 months. Deposits equal to two months average bill may be assessed if bill payment has not been "good."

Commercial users must pay two months (estimated) bill or a surety bond for deposits in excess of $500. Deposits will be held for 12 months. The same conditions apply to industrial users, except where adequate credit can be verified.

The Commission received notification of non-compliance with EPA standards, which is possible cause for a suit. Efforts are being made to improve removal of suspended solids and the EPA will be informed of the schedule of tests and the facilities to be installed.

Several amendments were made to the current budget to allow for increased revenue and expenditures in water, sewer and gas funds. Water fund revenues were up by $127,350, sewer by $80,300 and gas by $42,000. Water fund expenditures increased by $127,350, sewer by $80,300 and gas by $42,000.

A total of $46,351 in write-offs (uncollectable accounts) was approved by the GUC for fiscal year 1974-75. These averaged less than 0.3 percent of sales.

The propane gas rate was increased to $3.50 minimum for the first 150 cubic feet, above the present rate of $2.20 for the first 100 cubic feet. The next 350 cubic feet will be $1.50 ccf. Usage over 500 cubic feet will cost $1.00 ccf. These rates will be effective on all billing on or after July 1.

GUC approved adoption of higher municipal street light rates as proposed by VEPCO: $4.95 per unit per month for 175 Watt (7,000 lumen mercury vapor) up from $4.09; $6.30 for 250 W (11,000 lumen mercury) from $5.16; $8.70 for 400 W (20,000 lumen mercury) from $7.00; $17.25 for 1,000 W (53,000 lumen mercury) from $13.44; $11.85 for 400 W (42,000 lumen sodium vapor) from $9.96; and $10.30 for 250 W (23,200 lumen sodium) from $7.00. An approved fuel charge of $0.00235 per kilowatt hour will be added as of June.

Plans were approved for providing water and sewer service to Section Two of North River Estates, outside city limits. Upon annexation of the area to the city, the GUC will assume responsibility for all water and sewer facilities. The Commission will refund to the owner 50 percent of the cost of a water main.

GRADUATION DAY 1976 . . . The Bicentennial year of 1976 saw about 370 students graduating from Rose High School on Tuesday night at Ficklen Stadium. Good weather again marked the occasion as parents and friends gather in large numbers to witness the 1976 seniors receive their diplomas in the traditional commencement exercises.

"Perhaps the most valuable lesson to obtain is not what we learn, but how to learn. Life is a continual learning process. The time to learn does not stop now, nor will it ever." This old truth, newly stated, was part of the brief talk made by Rose High senior Mike Jeffreys, the only male of four student speakers at Rose High's Commencement exercise last night.

In the annual end of 12-years education cycle marked by the granting of diplomas, approximately 370 seniors marched briskly across the improvised stage on the green field of Ficklen Stadium to receive diplomas from Chairman of the Greenville City School Board Henry Dunn and Rose High principal Robert J. Alligood. School board members sat on the stage as the girls in white gowns and the boys in dark blue proceeded in alphabetical order.

Jeffreys paraphrased ideas from "Jonathan Seagull" and used quotes from the noted poet-writer Kahil Gibran to stress the theme of his talk, "The Race To Learn." "In reaching for a higher plateau," Jeffreys said, "we can gain happiness and inner fulfillment. Yet we can never seek an end, because none exists."

Friends and friendship constituted a predominant thread in

Mary Joanne White, the second speaker, used "Friendship" as the theme of her brief talk. "Whenever we reach out to a friend," she stated, "the friend helps us to forget our own misery and self-pity. . . . The words of assurance that we give to others are often the words we need to hear the most."

Ms. White, speaking about the necessity of leaving behind old friends and finding new ones in the years to come, said "We must simply carry with us the wisdom and hope from previous friendships."

She, too, used words from Gibran as part of her speech, along with a quote from Emerson and a brief folk-tale. The idea of friends and the role of competition in friendship was the theme of Virginia Lynn Gantt, the third student speaker, whose talk was on "The Growth With Friends."

"It is an exciting experience to know that you have done something well, and it must always be a challenge to try to do all that you do to the best of your ability," Ms. Gantt said. She enumerated several milestone achievements at Rose High in recent years, including the state championship in baseball last year and in football and chess this year.

Friends and friendship constituted a predominant thread in each student speech. Anita Whichard, the final of the quartet of students making brief talks, touched on the sad side of friendship in "To Part From Friends."

"Friendships may be stored away to be savored at another point in the competition of life," she stated. "The race to learn is unceasing as we are forced to say farewell to friends." She had a few colloquial words to pass on to her listeners. "Try not to be skeered o' people not likin' you — jest you try ikkin' them . . ."

Like Jeffreys and Ms. White, she employed a quote from Gibran in her talk. "If in the twilight of memory we should meet once more, we shall speak again together and you shall sing to me a deeper song . . ."

The Rose High band played the traditional processional music by Sir Edgar Algar, "Pomp and Circumstance," and the "Star Spangled Banner." Invocation was by Gwendolyn Maye, and Harry Pair introduced the speakers.

Superintendent Glenn Cox presented the graduating class, and Martha Ann Williams conducted the tassel ceremony.

This year's graduating class of about 370 students is the smallest in several years. In recent years the average number of graduates has been 400 plus or minus a few. "It's the smallest graduating class since I've been principal," Alligood commented.

One more time good weather marked Rose High's graduation day. A heavy red sun, lightly veiled by a sweep of brown clouds, settled in the west within a short time after the ceremony began. Martins circled and darted in the sky above the stadium as twilight triggered the immense banks of bright lights surrounding Ficklen Stadium. This was Rose High graduation day in the Bicentennial Year of 1976.

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Jimmy Carter said today he has received pledges of support from Alabama Gov. George Wallace, Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington and Chicago Mayor Richard Daley that clinch the Democratic presidential nomination for him.

Carter said Wallace planned to make "a favorable announcement" at noon, EDT, and that Jackson's statement would come next week.

He said Wallace, Jackson and Daley have begun contacting delegates they control to encourage them to switch to Carter.

The former Georgia governor said the combined weight of those delegates will give him "much more" than the 1,505 delegates needed for the nomination.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

MAGAZINES TO GIVE

Is there any place that could use old Reader's Digests? I have about 15 years' issues of them. I hate just to have the paper in them recycled. J. P.

Hotline agrees with you that there must be some place your Readers' Digests could be put so a number of people could enjoy them. We have called several places, but have come up with nothing so far. The library keeps 10 years of each magazine and has space for no more, and several nursing homes and other similar institutions say they don't have the space either. Hotline is therefore appealing for any group or agency which could make use of them to call us at 752-1336 and leave a message. When we place them we will report in a feedback item.

CIRCULATION—752-3952

Hotline almost every day gets one or more calls about newspapers not received or other complaints which concern the circulation of The Daily Reflector. We try to refer these to the newspaper's Circulation Department but often hours or sometimes even more than a day go by between the time the complaint is filed and our Hotline recording is transcribed. Circulation complaints will get prompt attention if they're called in to our special Circulation number during business or special hours. Business hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays. Evenings there is someone to accept calls between 6 and 6:30 p.m., and Sunday there is someone here from 8 to 9 a.m. The special circulation number is 752-3952.

Firmly Rejected 'Proposition 15'

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California voters, placing their faith in nuclear energy, have firmly rejected the nation's first ballot proposal to restrict the use of nuclear power rather than risk radiation disaster.

Proposition 15, a controversial measure placed on the primary ballot by environmentalists, went down to defeat by a 2-1 margin. Voters appeared unimpressed by dire predictions of the potential for radiation disaster.

In late results, with 54 per cent of precincts reporting, the vote was: yes, 1,086,650 or 35 per cent; no, 2,046,281, or 65 per cent.

The vote in the nation's most populous state was seen as a bellwether of public opinion for at least 10 other states now considering similar proposals. Colorado and Oregon have nuclear safety measures on their November ballots.

The "Yes on 15 Committee," which ran a vigorous campaign for tough safety restrictions, vowed to continue the campaign with fervor.

"We've scared the bejezus out of the nuclear industry," said David Pesonen, a San Francisco attorney who drafted Prop. 15. "We are not going away."

"The voters responded to the overwhelming number of scientific, educational and political leaders who came out against Prop. 15," said Chuck Winner, campaign manager for "No on 15."

He also cited the support of such figures as former Govs. Edmund G. "Pat" Brown and Ronald Reagan, and President Ford. The current California governor, Edmund G. Brown Jr., took no stand on the issue.

The "No on 15" group, supported largely by major utility companies, spent more than $3 million to defeat the initiative.

Rep. Hays Wins, But Scandal's Impact Felt

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Rep. Wayne Hays, facing a showdown with House colleagues over a payroll-sex scandal, has won renomination to a 15th term in Congress.

The 65-year-old Democrat won Tuesday's Democratic primary over Nick Karnick, a 56-year-old Steubenville court bailiff making his fifth run at Hays.

Karnick's best previous showing against the incumbent was 20 per cent, but with 64 per cent of the vote counted, the challenger had 43 per cent of the total — Hays 20,175, Karnick 14,925.

Hays will face Republican Ralph R. McCoy of Woodsfield and William Crabbe, Steubenville's mayor and an independent, in the general election.

Hays retired early to his farm, telling reporters initial returns were gratifying "according to the circumstances and the pressure I have been under."

He planned to return to Washington today to join the House in action on key legislation which forced him to postpone until next week a decision on whether to step down temporarily as chairman of the House Administration Committee. He previously stepped aside as chairman of the House Congressional Campaign Committee which hands out funds to candidates.

He is under investigation by the U.S. Justice Department, a federal grand jury and the House Ethics Committee. They are examining allegations of misuse of federal funds.

Elizabeth Ray, a 33-year-old former member of Hays' staff, has charged he put her on the payroll as his mistress.

Hays has admitted a "personal relationship" with her but denied the allegation of misuse of federal money.

Hays fared poorly as a favorite son presidential candidate in the six congressional districts among Ohio's 23 where he was on the ballot. He did not get a single delegate.

Says Senators Are More Likely Target

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Rep. Richardson Preyer, D-N.C., says congressmen "are just not regarded as glamorous figures in this country" and senators are more likely targets for women on the prowl.

Preyer, 56, of Greensboro, made the comment in an interview with the Greensboro Record.

He said congressmen do not attract "groupies" despite what the public might be led to think from a recent Washington sex scandal involving Rep. Wayne Hayes of Ohio.

"I think we all know they (senators) are more glamorous figures than the average House member," Preyer said.

"Since there are fewer (senators than representatives), they get more press coverage and their names are more recognized."

Preyer said senators might offer "a more tempting target to unscrupulous women" than House members.

Referring to publicity on the Hays affair, Preyer said, "The idea that there are a bunch of groupies around us all the time is, I think, total nonsense."

Preyer said some congressmen might be "more vulnerable" than others because some congressmen live in Washington while their families remain in the home district.

"But the great majority are like me. Our families are here and we simply go home every night," Preyer said.

He said it would be wrong if people thought Washington was "a sin city" because of a few instances.

Pineapple Juice Gives Added Flavor

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

SLIMMING SUPPER
Veal Scallop Eggplant
Peas Melba Toast
Pineapple Salad Beverage
PINEAPPLE SALAD
2 cups canned unsweetened pineapple juice
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup thinly sliced celery
1 cup short slivers of green pepper

In a medium mixing bowl sprinkle the gelatin over 1/2 cup of pineapple juice; let stand about 5 minutes to soften. In a small saucepan heat 1/2 cup of the pineapple juice until almost boiling; pour over softened gelatin and stir until dissolved. Stir in the remaining pineapple juice and the salt. Chill until slightly thickened, fold in the celery and green pepper. Ladle into five 1/2-cup molds or 6 ounce custard cups. Chill until set; cover. Unmold at serving time and garnish with lettuce. Makes 5 servings. (The delicate flavor of the pineapple juice comes through because the other ingredients are bland. Do not use frozen pineapple juice in this recipe.)

Afraid Friends Try To Fix Up Steady

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a middle-aged divorcee. For the last two years I've been dating a very attractive single man. We are not officially engaged, but since we've been seeing each other I haven't dated anyone else, and the only time he has is when one of his friends or relatives fixes him up with a "lovely lady" they think he should meet, or when he's asked as a favor to escort a lady somewhere.

I very much resent others casting my gentleman friend in the role of a single available man. When I tell him that I don't appreciate his accommodating others by escorting another lady, or agreeing to accept an arranged date, he tells me I'm being foolish.

How can I handle this annoying situation without appearing possessive and jealous?

NUMBER ONE LADY

DEAR LADY: You can't. Don't blame others for casting your gentleman friend "in the role" of an available man. He doesn't have to accept that role unless he wants to.

DEAR ABBY: Do they sell donkey blinders anymore? If so, I would like to buy a pair for my husband. He never looks at the road when he drives. Instead, he is busy gawking at the young women who are walking along the streets.

He slows down to about five miles an hour to be sure he doesn't miss anything. We've come within inches of having accidents more times than I can count.

How can I get this old coot to keep his eyes on the road? He's 62 and I'm 60.

GAWKER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Even donkey blinders would be useless for this breed of donkey. If you can't get him to keep his eyes on the road, take the wheel. And if he doesn't like it, let him trot!

DEAR ABBY: A friend of ours who is a married woman with children recently lost her mother.

My mother and I disagree on how the condolence card should be addressed.

I say condolences should be addressed to: "Mr. and Mrs. John Jones and family."

My mother insists that the condolence card be addressed only to my friend whose mother died.

Is it proper to console only the party directly bereaved? Or shouldn't my friend's husband and children also receive condolences? After all, her husband lost his mother-in-law, and the children lost their grandmother.

FRIEND OF THE FAMILY

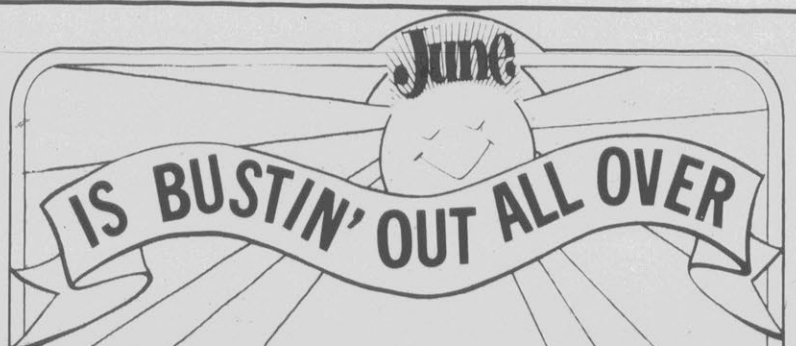

DEAR FRIEND: I vote with you.

DEAR ABBY: About LONG SUFFERING HUSBAND, whose wife would not permit smoking in the house: There is no point in my repeating the damage that smokers do to themselves, but they should realize the suffering they cause others and not expect nonsmokers to remain silent.

I would like to ask that clown this question: If his wife had hay fever, would he expect her to tolerate ragweed in the house?

Oven Canning and Chemicals

We cannot recommend the oven method of canning. And, we can't recommend the use of chemicals and preserving powders either.

For there aren't any shortcuts when it comes to canning foods the safe way.

There are several reasons why oven canning is a no-no. For example, when you can food—it's important to know and control the temperature. But in oven canning—the temperature will vary according to the accuracy of the oven regulator and the circulation of the heat.

Dry heat—the kind you have in an oven—penetrates food that's packed in jars very slowly. This means the temperature of the food probably won't get high enough to destroy dangerous bacteria—including the ones that cause botulism poisoning.

What's more, oven canning could be dangerous—jars might explode—damaging the oven and seriously cutting or burning someone.

Chemicals and preserving powders aren't a good substitute for heat treatments in the home canning of food, either. You can't rely on chemicals or powders to prevent spoilage or to give you a quality product.

So, it adds up to this. Oven canning and chemicals and preserving powders are no substitute for the pressure canner and the boiling water bath.

These definitions will help you to know the differences in the following preserved products: Conserves are made by cooking a mixture of several fruits, often combined with raisins and/or nuts, and sugar until mixture has a thick consistency.

Fruit butters are made from fruit pulp which has been pressed through a sieve or colander and cooked with sugar, and spices if desired, until thick enough to spread.

Jams may be made from riper, less firm fruits that are cooked with sugar until they take on a semi-jelly-like consistency.

Jellies are made by cooking certain fruit juices with sugar until the jelly stage is reached—222 to 223 degrees.

Marmalades are made by cooking one or a combination of fruits, usually including citrus fruits, with sugar. Fruit may appear in small pieces through the clear, translucent jelly-like product.

Preserves are made by cooking small whole fruits or small uniform pieces of larger fruits in a syrup until the fruit is saturated and the syrup is medium to thick.

Pickles are usually made by cooking fruits or vegetables in a vinegar-sugar solution, with or without spices, until desired flavor and/or texture is reached.

Relishes are usually made by cooking a combination of chopped or ground vegetables or fruits, sugar, vinegar and spices until desired consistency and flavor are reached.

We Cannot Choose To Be Alone

There are times when all of us wish that the United States could cut its ties to the world and live alone—isolationism it is called.

We have long ago learned that such a policy is impossible and particularly is that true in this age of rapid travel and quick communication. It is also impossible from the standpoint of trade, and for North Carolina farm interests such a policy would be disastrous.

Sen. Robert Morgan recently toured the Far East and came back convinced more than ever of the need for agricultural trade with that area, particularly as far as North Carolina is concerned.

"The Far East sounds like an odd place to realize some important things about North Carolina agriculture, but during the recent tour I made of Korea, Taiwan and Japan, that is exactly what happened," Sen. Morgan wrote in a recent report.

"These countries are three of the biggest customers for American farm products, including many items grown in North Carolina," he continued. "There is a tremendous market out there for soybeans, tobacco, poultry, to name just three. As one of the agricultural giants of the nation, North Carolina has a tremendous—and growing—stake in supplying this world demand."

The senator saw Japan as one of the biggest customers for food products and also for tobacco. "During the July to February period Japan bought 111 million pounds of unmanufactured tobacco from America, and an additional 84 million pounds of flue-cured leaf."

Citing the U.S. withdrawal from Southeast Asia, Morgan said, should the United States pull out of Northeast Asia as well—in the area of Korea and Japan—these nations could not continue to be friends and trading partners on the same basis that exists now. The power of China and her allies simply could not be ignored."

The senator has made a good point. If things get tough in Northeast Asia we are sure to hear urgings to pull out—that that segment of the world is not important to our welfare.

Eventually though if we follow that line of reasoning we will lose our allies one by one until eventually we will stand alone. And in today's complex world we can't continue to exist like that.

Garbage In The Spotlight

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—When you get right down to it, garbage is what government is all about.

No single subject more clearly illustrates the glories and the frustrations of what government is supposed to do for people.

Thus garbage occupied a central position at a recent gathering of high-level business leaders, city and state officials, and other influential North Carolinians; come together to discuss Productivity in Government.

Sponsored by the combined resources of the N. C. Citizens' Association (top-drawer business organization), the League of Municipalities, and the Association of County Commissioners and featuring a detailed analysis of productivity put together by the national Committee on Economic Development in New York, garbage, nonetheless, made the high-faluting considerations understandable in everyday terms.

Rollaway
Additionally, the subject of garbage is a hot topic in North Carolina these days with more and more critics trying to figure out what to do with it; collect it at curbside, use rollaway collectors, pick it up at the backdoor?

Productivity in state and local government boils down to efficiency and effectiveness. To the businessman, that means turning out at lowest cost the best product people will buy.

To government, efficiency and effectiveness get muddled up with serving people—that's what government is all about, after all—and political decisions make the very terms government and efficiency contradictory.

Take garbage, for example. Everybody has it. It has several aspects: nobody wants to keep it; kept too long it gets stinky; kept even longer, it becomes a health hazard; and as for both visual and nasal pollution, it's tops.

Government, therefore, must band the people together to handle the problem.

Efficiency in government would demand a simple solution: each head-of-household would be assigned a specific date and time on which he would report, shovel and bags in hand, to a pre-determined spot at which he would, under strict supervision, bury his garbage.

Very Efficient
Cheap and efficient. And effective. But not very good for quality of life. The people demand something better than that, so their government must respond at whatever cost.

That cost is getting out of hand for the traditional twice-weekly pickup at the backdoor in most Tar Heel communities. So, many are going toward rollaway buggies; in some, the buggies must be pushed to curbside on certain days. In others, the collection people do the rolling.

In others, told the cost of continuing backdoor collection, the people choose to pay the tab. In Winston, for instance, it costs 58 cents per week more, and the curbs are kept clear.

The planners and efficiency experts are urging governments to look at the cost-benefit ratio. Try telling that to Mrs. Brown, whose cat has been run over. It'll be Friday-a-week before we will have enough dead cats to make it economical to send a truck around.

Garbage helps illustrate another problem of government. Nobody quarrels about the need for its collection. That isn't true of all government services. Not everybody agrees on welfare programs, zoning laws, building codes, speed limits, parking restrictions, tax collections. The idea that the consumers should determine what will be produced, then, runs into the hard rocks of reality. Still, there are numerous state and local programs which serve few clients and would not be widely endorsed as good ways to spend tax dollars. Thus, the political process works as people pressure their governments to either launch, extend, continue, or eliminate services.

So in the final analysis, most participants seemed to agree, there are many ways to improve productivity in government, but local people have to do it themselves. Some, after all, may want to go bury trash every other Thursday, or spend one day a month building roads as they do in Korea. Others might have different ideas about what they want their government to do, and how much they will pay for that.

A 6-POINTER ON THE RICHTER SCALE!

Concern Rising In U.S.

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is increasingly apprehensive over the disintegrating military outlook in Lebanon and is worried that Syria will not be able to control the situation resulting from its invasion of the war-torn nation.

Syria has sent 3,000 new troops into Lebanon since the weekend, increasing its total force there to just under 10,000. U.S. officials attribute the jump to the failure of the original contingent to restore order between warring Lebanese Christian and Moslem factions.

However, a ranking State Department official says Syrian troops have had their noses bloodied by the Moslem leftists in the fighting over the past day or two in spite of the reinforcements and the use of tanks and air power.

This means that Syria now faces a serious loss of face unless it overcomes the opposition. The U.S. sources say Syrian President Hafiz Assad is therefore more likely to get drawn deeper into the situation.

The officials add that Syria did not inform the United States in advance of its troop increase and has not told Washington of its final intentions in Lebanon.

They say they have no clear idea of what Syria is doing with its large-scale intervention, although one policy maker said he tends to believe that Assad means it when he asserts his troops will withdraw once a cease-fire is operational and political stability is achieved.

Other sources believe Assad has intervened in order to install a government in Beirut that will be friendly to him and offset radical Arab forces that he cannot control.

The very fact that there are so many opinions by American experts exemplifies the uncertainty in Washington and underlines the lack of solid information available to policy makers.

It is this confusion that has created apprehension in U.S. circles and has caused officials to back away from their cautious optimism of a week ago.

They deny that the United States ever approved Syria's intervention, either directly or tacitly.

State Department spokesman Fred Z. Brown on Tuesday repeated that the United States opposes any partition of Lebanon and supports the territorial integrity and political sovereignty of Lebanon, eighty of Lebanon.

Privately, other officials are concerned Syria will put so many troops into Lebanon or

We'll Have To Say NO

WASHINGTON — I'm getting sick and tired of all these women revealing their affairs with the leading figures of our time. It seems to me that there was a period in this country when a woman was content to go to bed with a President of the United States, a congressman or a well-known Washington celebrity, and do it for the pleasure of his company.

But recently everyone is starting to blab, and I think I can speak for all future Presidents, congressmen and opinion makers when I say that if these women don't stop being indiscreet we're all going to have to say "No" when they proposition us.

I know this is a harsh measure, and many women reading this are going to say "Why should we be punished because of a few women who want to brag about their affairs?"

The answer is that those of us in power have our careers at stake, and if we can't have a lovely evening without fear of being exposed in print we're just not going to get involved in extramarital affairs no matter how intriguing they may seem at the time.

Formerly, the beauty of being President of the United States or a member of Congress, or even a member of the press corps in Washington, was that one was able to carry on an assignation with the full knowledge that it would be kept confidential. All of us are very busy men, and the only reason we had an affair was so that we could bring joy and happiness to some poor girl who dreamed of being so close to power.

We did it purely for altruistic reasons and we asked nothing in return for those arduous afternoons and evenings except a little respect and an assurance that our tete-a-tete would not be violated.

But this vow of silence is being broken every day. Every time you pick up the newspaper you read another story about somebody who claims to have had an affair with an important American personality. These women have been egged on, "I'm sorry to say, by scandal sheets and paperback publishers who are willing to pay vast sums of money to print the stories of what it was actually like to be the intimate friend of someone in high office.

There was a time when we used to put a woman in a taxi and send her home contented because she had spent an evening with someone she thought she loved. She would go to sleep dreaming that she had done something to make this a better country for every American.

But now these same women seem to rush home and stay up half the night writing in their diaries of things that are none of the public's business. Well, let me tell you, it's all come to an end. I have talked to presidential candidates, congressmen and senators and they have all told me the same thing: "Enough is enough. If women are going to go bragging like men do about their affairs, they're going to have to find their fun somewhere else."

It's a pity it has come to this because Washington was one of the few cities in the United States where a woman could have an affair with the President of the United States or a ranking member of a House committee in privacy and away from the prying eyes of neighbors.

But now, thanks to a few money-hungry ladies, all of us, from the President on down to the lowliest freshman congressman, will have to take a firm stand.

The next time a secretary or a movie actress says to us, "Voulez-vous coucher avec moi?" we're going to have to firmly reply, "Pas ce soir, cherie."

PRIMARIES ANALYZED

Carter Sees Road Cleared

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
For Jimmy Carter, it may soon be all over but the shouting, with the Democratic presidential nomination in hailing distance.

But Republicans are likely to be shouting at each other before President Ford and Ronald Reagan settle their struggle.

Now, with the long haul of the presidential primary elections at an end, the campaign turns to the final caucuses and state conventions, and to the fence-straddling delegates who have yet to declare a choice.

Carter goes to his task in a dominant position among Democrats, a runaway leader seeking the final commitments to cement his victory.

The closely contested Republican race may become bitter, with Reagan already irate at suggestions that he might risk war, and Ford managers vowing to push that argument.

Ford still holds the Republican lead, but Reagan has narrowed his margin. And they face a battle for custody of every delegate in the nine weeks before the Republican National Convention.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California, runaway winner in his home primary, was the lone Democrat vowing an all out contest to overtake Carter.

The former Georgia governor said his landslide victory in Ohio, coupled with the delegates he picked up while losing in California and New Jersey, had made other rivals, active or potential, believers in his nomination.

Carter won a presidential preference vote in New Jersey, but it was for show, binding no delegates. An uncommitted delegate slate of Democrats who favor Brown or Minnesota Sen.

Hubert H. Humphrey won the competition for nominating votes, leading Carter's entries to two to one.

In Republican finales, Reagan captured California with a landslide, while Ford won Ohio and an uncommitted slate which actually favors the President swept New Jersey.

It added up to 176 delegates for Reagan, while Ford gained 88 committed delegates in Ohio and the virtually certain support of 67 more in New Jersey.

Counting the nominally uncommitted New Jersey delegates, that would put Ford's delegate total at 959, Reagan's at 868, with 148 uncommitted Republican delegates. It will take 1,130 delegates to select a nominee, and there are still 283 to be selected.

Carter led for 211 Democratic delegates in the Tuesday primaries, to put his commitments at 1,118. There are 470 uncommitted Democratic delegates, and Carter claims unseen strength in that column. The Democrats will choose another 138 delegates in caucuses and conventions. It will take 1,505 delegates to win the Democratic nomination. Carter said that by his calculations, he now has between 1,250 and 1,300 nominating votes.

Carter said Tuesday night he had been on the telephone to Humphrey, Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona, Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

"I might say all of them as a general group indicated their belief that I would be the nominee," Carter said. "I believe they unanimously said they would like to see the Democratic party be united... They all disavowed any interest in a stop movement of any kind."

Carter said he didn't think rivals like Udall and Church would stop campaigning. But Udall, his most persistent challenger, and Church, a late entry, both said Carter is in a commanding position. Brown dissented. "In every state I have gone into, Jimmy Carter has lost," he said. "So I will go forward. I think the Democratic nomination is still open."

The California governor said he is going to contest Carter for every delegate.

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

A bill has been introduced in Congress which would force the government to provide a job for anyone who wanted to work. Sounds wonderful. The only trouble is that even government economists admit that by reducing unemployment by only 5 percent would force the present living cost to rise at a rate of 12 to 13 percent each year.

A sure way to encourage more employment is to raise minimum wages again. Every time we raise the legal minimum wage, it wipes out more jobs.

To put it simply, when times are good I might pay somebody $2.50 an hour to cut my grass. But I won't pay $10.00 an hour. I'll either cut it myself or I'll let it grow.

There's a lot of grass we are already letting grow in this country now... a lot of marginal jobs that aren't being done any more. And there are a lot of people, especially teenagers, who would like those jobs at a price people would be willing to pay. Why shouldn't they have the right to those jobs at any rate they, personally, are glad to accept?

Government bureaucrats never die... they just waste away!

M. W. Aldridge, DDS

To the editor:

Congratulations, Greenville. You have managed to stage another coup in the world of business. Greenville, I understand that you have gotten another fast food restaurant. Now how many is that, as if it matters anymore? The real problem though is the location. Has anyone in Greenville not seen the massacre of the C. Heber Forbes property? Can you honestly say that you didn't flinch or get a sickening feeling? Greenville does need restaurants, but not more hamburger ones. This fine old home at 10th and Cotanche Streets could have been left intact and still filled this need. Has anyone heard of Seth Jones in Raleigh, the Henderson House in New Bern, or even the Daniel Boone Inn in Boone? Greenville, they don't "do it all for you"—we have done this to ourselves.

Strength For Today Moderation In Negotiations

CATASTROPHE AND GOD'S PLAN

Within the last six months have occurred the devastating earthquakes in Guatemala and Italy which took the lives of thousands of people.

These catastrophes post again the age-old enigma of God's justice. Why throughout history have so many millions of people died in disasters of this type which seem completely inconsistent with our picture of a loving God? There is no answer to this question. And it doesn't help survivors of the earthquakes a great deal to point out that the ways of God which took the lives of their loved ones are marvelous beyond all understanding. This is merely being descriptive, not responsive.

About all we can say concerning catastrophes of this sort of that God allows the universe to run according to its own natural laws. Although He could abrogate these laws he is reluctant to do so. He could, if he wished, give salvation to every human instantly. Instead, he allowed His own son to die on a cross. There is a plan, but we can do nothing more than accept it on faith.

—by Elisha Douglass

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Labor contracts in the construction industry are being negotiated without the strikes and inflationary wage settlements that former Labor Secretary John Dunlop warned of six months ago.

Federal officials say the moderation is mainly due to high unemployment and competition from non-union labor.

With two-thirds of the 2,800 construction union contracts up for negotiation this year already settled, industry strike activity is at its lowest level in five years. Officials say the wage trend in contracts has been toward moderation.

Federal labor officials say the moderation is due to the high unemployment rate in the industry, which has yet to recover from the recession, and a realization among union leaders that non-union contractors are taking a larger share of the business.

"It has resulted in a bit more realistic and rational approach to bargaining," chief federal mediator James F. Scearce said Tuesday. "There seems to be an air of accommodation at the bargaining table," he commented in an interview. "The number of strikes is way down, about half what they were last year up to this point, and indications are that the settlements are more moderate."

First-year wage settlements are averaging about 7 per cent, less than the 8.1 per cent average for 1975.

It was feared that construction unions, angered over President Ford's veto of a bill expanding picketing rights, would push for inflationary settlements that would influence bargaining in other industries.

Major contracts covering 4.5 million workers, including 500,000 in construction, expire this year. Administration economists feared that a wage explosion would endanger the economic recovery.

Dunlop, who supported the "common situs" picketing bill, predicted "unmitigated hell" in construction bargaining because of the President's veto of the picketing bill.

But with 14.1 per cent of the industry's workforce off the job, the pressure on the industry by union bargainers is lessened. Union leaders have urged that workers vent their frustration with Ford at the polls, not the bargaining table.

Weekday School's Big Cars Still In Big Demand

Mrs. Nancy Lee Nobles has been named director of the Jarvis Weekday School, a nursery and kindergarten sponsored by Jarvis Memorial

United Methodist Church, it was announced today by the Weekday School Committee.

Mrs. Nobles received her B. S. degree in Child Development and Family Relations from East Carolina University. Prior to joining the staff at Jarvis Weekday School two years ago, she served as a pre-school teacher and acting director of the Jefferson Mills Child Development Center and also taught in the Martin County Schools system.

She was a Rotary Exchange Student to Kerang, Australia, in 1968-69 and later returned to Australia as an observer of the kindergartens and infants schools in Melbourne.

Mr. Nobles succeeds Mrs. Lois Patterson, who served as director this past year.

Joining the Jarvis Weekday School as part-time teacher of four-year-olds next fall will be Mrs. Grian G. Salomon, who received her B. S. degree in education, with specialization in art, from Southern Connecticut State College. Prior to moving to Greenville, Mrs. Salomon was part-time teacher for the Day Care Group, Orange, Conn., and first grade teacher at Hooker Elementary School in New Haven, Conn.

Other staff members at Jarvis school include Mrs. Vivian Johnson, kindergarten; Mrs. Sue Toler, five-day class for four-year-olds; and Mrs. Emmy Whitehead, three-and four-year-olds.

The Jarvis Weekday School operates its nursery school and kindergarten during the months of September through May from 9 a.m.-12 noon.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Car dealers here say sales are booming, and much of the boom is coming from sales of big cars.

"We're just about out of the big, full-sized cars now and will probably be out by next month," said Henry Hudson of Gowan Oldsmobile.

Jim Hefner of Town and Country Ford agreed that car buyers in North Carolina's largest city are apparently paying little heed to warnings of gas shortages.

"We are running out of big cars like the LTD," Hefner said. "By the fall there may not be much left to choose from." Cars are selling in Charlotte faster than any year since 1973, a record year locally and nationally.

According to figures from auto companies, Buick sales are up 130 per cent over last year in the area. Plymouth sales are up 54.7 per cent, while Chevrolet sales are up 62 per cent and Ford sales are up 63.5 per cent.

The increased sale of big cars appears to have put a dent in the market for sub-compact. "There will always be a demand for good, small cars like the Chevette with some segments of the population but it hasn't done what we expected it to do," a General Motors spokesman said.

According to company figures, area Ford dealers sold 1,131 Granads and 1,056 LTDs. The compact Pinto, with half the price, got only 683 buyers.

A chimpanzee has a life expectancy of 50 years.

TAX BITE
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The average American family pays almost twice as much in federal taxes now as it did 10 years ago, says the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. By next year, those taxes are expected to reach $5,328 per family, an increase of 99 per cent over a decade ago.

Mears Col...

For Ford and Reagan, the next contest is Friday, when they are to appear separately at the Missouri Republican convention in Springfield, before it selects 19 delegates.

There will be more such forays, as 10 other states complete the selection process.

Both Reagan and Ford's campaign managers forecast victory in the end. "I think this train is pulling out," Reagan said as he celebrated in Los Angeles.

Rogers C. B. Morton, Ford's campaign manager, said "we're in great shape to win on the first ballot" at the Republican convention. Both camps talk that way — as though there could be anything but a one-ballot decision in a two man race.

Morton also said "I thought by this time we would have more delegates than we have."

Reagan was still bristling over Ford campaign suggestions that as President, he might start a war. Reagan claimed that tactic worked to his advantage, but said "I'd rather not have had the backfire..."

It appeared he would have more of it, since Ford strategists said they would continue to press the point they raised after Reagan said that he might consider sending a token force of U.S. peacekeeping troops to Rhodesia. He later said that was a hypothetical response to a hypothetical question, and that he would not send Americans into southern Africa.

But Stuart Spencer, deputy manager of the Ford campaign, said "I think Rhodesia is a national issue," and one that will continue to be raised.

Ford also has asserted that a Reagan-led ticket could lead to Republican disaster in November. Morton and Spencer both said that the delegates ultimately will be swayed by "the electability of the President."

Reagan adopted the same argument. "I have a better chance of winning..." he said. "I do not have to defend positions on such matters as massive deficits."

will move forces into sections near Israel and thereby raise fears in Jerusalem. Israel so far has refrained from intervening, but it has described an indefinite "Red Line" which Syria will not be allowed to cross. The line is not necessarily a physical boundary, but a combination of factors which Israel defines as the limit for protecting its national security.

Israeli officials express deep concern over both the increase in the fighting and in the jump in the Syrian troop level. All these situations lend an air of serious instability that would endanger the entire Middle East, they said.

Danes Can Trade Pension For Life In Old People's Town

By GREGORY JENSEN
COPENHAGEN, Denmark (UPI) — When Lars Nielsen finally retired after a lifetime of work, the first thing he did was to give up his old age pension.

He traded it for the "Old People's Town," Copenhagen's way of making old age dignified, satisfying and complete.

"Our first priority is to provide proper care," said Henning Blume, a city official, on a tour of the town-within-a-city. "But the very next one is to make it like home."

The Old People's Town — "De Gamles By" in Danish — is an institution which doesn't look or act like one.

It is a self-contained town, with a church, library, movie theater, concert hall, hospital and apartment buildings. Traffic flows through its streets, the bicycles and cars belonging to the enormous staff. Its scattered buildings are set among gardens in a 26-acre diamond in northwest Copenhagen.

For pensioners like Nielsen, the 57-year-old town — once a prison workhouse — has been turned into a close approximation of paradise.

In place of government pensions, everything imaginable for a senior citizen's comfort, well-being and self respect is provided free.

There are no rules, no locked gates at night. All clothes — not uniforms — are free. Pocket money is provided. Each apartment house floor has a kitchen and a book-stocked lounge. Meals are at individual tables with afternoon coffee or tea delivered to the rooms.

In the rooms are the pensioner's own furniture, tables and pictures cherished for a lifetime.

"We supply the bed," said Blume, who is vice director of social welfare for the city. "There are clubs, handicrafts, outings, concerts, every kind of activity," he said.

"We have hairdressers to keep the ladies looking their best. They can have a telephone in their rooms if they want, or a radio or television. And of course there is every facility for geriatric care."

"The average age of patients here is 87," Blume said. "Morale, you might say, is very high."

There is also, unsurprisingly, a waiting list. It got so long for the 1,450 places in the Old People's Town — its patients outnumbered by 1,580 doctors, nurses and staff members — that Copenhagen built another one.

This one, on the city's northern outskirts, resembles a modern apartment complex. Again its 835 staff members outnumber the 783 senior citizens who live in its mixture of single rooms and small apartments for married couples. "Bystaevaeparken," as the sprawling center is called, was designed specifically for occupation by the elderly. Opened in 1971, its facilities are even more complete and modern than those of the Old People's Town.

"But the feeling now is that these places may be too big," Blume said. "Some feel old people should not be separated, should stay within the community."

"So for the last five years or so the emphasis has been on what we call 'protected' dwellings."

Under this system, he said, the city does everything it can to keep a pensioner in his own home. It pays his rent. If necessary, it will remodel his home, installing elevators and aids such as wheelchair ramps. It provides cleaners, cooks, visiting nurses. Copenhagen — with a population of 600,000 of all ages — now has 7,300 such "protected" dwellings.

"But you know, when you get to a certain age, none of this may be enough," Blume said. "Some old people need constant attention. Some are in need of continual medical treatment. Some cannot cope on their own.

"And there are some, really, who do not want to be on their own. Many prefer the company of other old people."

"For these we have Bystaevaeparken and the Old People's Town. These places are not quite like having your own home. But they are not like institutions, either."

"We hope they are the best of both."

Investigate 3 Break-Ins

The Pitt County Sheriff's Department is investigating three vehicle break-ins that occurred Monday at the parking area for Prepshirt Manufacturing Corp. resulting in the theft of two citizens band radio sets and a tape deck.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that Prepshirt employee Sadie Braxton reported the theft of a CB radio, valued at $150, from her car while employee Margaret Benson reported that a CB set, valued at $200 was taken from her Jeep.

In addition, Ethel Smith, also an employee at the firm, reported the theft of a tape deck and two speakers, valued at $100, from her car.

The incidents were reported between 4 p.m. and 5 p.m., it was noted.

Vehicle break-ins, resulting in the theft of several CB radios, have been reported at other industrial parking lots in recent months, the sheriff said.

Catnip, a member of the mint family, is an aromatic herb whose odor attracts cats.

School Board Hosts Luncheon

The Pitt County Board of Education hosted a luncheon for the Pitt County Commissioners and the Pitt County Board of Realtors Tuesday at A. G. Cox School in Winterville.

A. G. Cox students presented "Let George Do It," a musical program which salutes the bicentennial and George Washington. The students were directed by Ms. Bonnie Langston and Mrs. Belinda Haitcock.

Following the luncheon and the musical program the Board of Realtors met in a conference room at the school.

All City Schools Said Inspected

Greenville City Schools Supt. Glenn Cox said today that all schools in the Greenville school system have been inspected by the City Inspections Department.

"The inspectors have found some discrepancies to their codes in a number of the buildings," he said, "but none that we do not believe can be corrected this summer."

There was no talk of condemnation of any of the buildings, other than Third Street School, which was condemned in late May.

Pitt Budget Study Begun

Pitt County Commissioners this morning began hearings on the proposed 1976-77 county budget, which if approved as proposed, would total $16.2 million and mean an increase in the tax rate.

More than a half-dozen persons spoke at a public hearing on the budget that opened the board's session. Individuals, as well as several persons representing groups such as the League of Women Voters, Parents for the Advancement of Gifted Education, and the Greenville Chamber of Commerce Merchants Assn., urged more financial support for the Greenville city schools than is currently proposed.

Those speaking this morning in support of increased appropriations for education also requested the commissioners to consider reinstating a special Greenville district levy of 20 cents per $100 valuation for capital outlay items needed by the city school system.

The action, effective July 1, came on a 4-2 vote Tuesday after lengthy arguments over the controversial regulation.

Guilford County Commissioner Robert Shaw spoke strongly against the regulation.

The commission reverts to its old policy, which exempts a welfare applicant's home from consideration when determining whether the applicant is eligible for AFDC (Aid to Families with Dependent Children) payments.

The $25,000 assessed valuation cutoff figure remains in effect for persons who apply for Medicaid assistance. This is a federal regulation.

Abolish Policy

RALEIGH (AP) — The state Social Services Commission has voted to abolish its two-month old policy of refusing to allow welfare payments for persons who own property valued for tax purposes at $25,000 or more.

The action, effective July 1, came on a 4-2 vote Tuesday after lengthy arguments over the controversial regulation.

Guilford County Commissioner Robert Shaw spoke strongly against the regulation.

The commission reverts to its old policy, which exempts a welfare applicant's home from consideration when determining whether the applicant is eligible for AFDC (Aid to Families with Dependent Children) payments.

The $25,000 assessed valuation cutoff figure remains in effect for persons who apply for Medicaid assistance. This is a federal regulation.

Deformed Face Is No More; Joy In The Heart Of 15-Year-Old Girl

NEW YORK (AP) — Ida Hays stole a glance in the mirror, her first since they took the bandages off, and laughed for joy.

She had made a pact with herself not to look until the swelling went down but she could not resist. After all, what she beheld was not just a 15-year-old girl with a new face but Ida Hays with a new life.

She studied the face: "I like it," and contemplated the life: "Now no one will stare at me, I will be happy."

Ida Hays is the celebrated girl from La Grande, Ore., who underwent a remarkable operation May 19 to repair a face deformed from birth. Interviewed Tuesday for the first time since the surgery, she pronounced the operation a qualified success. "Not just for me but for other people," she said. "A boy at the hospital has the same problem I had but was afraid of the operation. Now he's going ahead with it because of me. Isn't that great?"

Ida's problem was that her eyes were separated by twice the normal width. In a 10-hour operation, a team at New York University Hospital reduced the space from slightly more than two inches to slightly less than one, rebuilt Ida's nose, and filled the resulting gap between her eye sockets and temples with bone taken from her hip.

It was the most severe case of orbital hypertelorism, as it is called, in the experience of the hospital's Institute of Reconstructive Plastic Surgery.

Ida's deformity was not, of course, her only problem, but it was the cause of all the others.

Once again in the company of her parents at their hotel near the hospital, and in a truly ebullient mood, Ida could reflect with equanimity on a childhood of stares and taunts now, she believes, behind her.

"My first day at pre-kindergarten was the first time I realized I was different," she said. "I came home and cried."

"When we moved from Seattle to La Grande I was in the sixth grade and went through the same thing."

"Every day, or nearly every day, I would come home, go to my room, turn up the record player as loud as it would go, lie down on my bed with my cat Strikey, and block out the whole world."

When the baby was two weeks old, mother and daughter went through a genetics clinic at the University of Washington, but learned nothing. Over the years they went to other hospitals, other universities. Information was scarce.

About a year ago the Hays' search for answers began to gather steam. A vocational rehabilitation counselor gave them hope, so did a teacher. So did Ida's orthodontist, who steered her to New York University Medical Center's plastic surgery institute, one only a handful equipped for her need.

"The doctors told me I should think it over," Ida said. "They told me there were risks, that I might lose my senses of taste and smell. I told them I had thought it over. They asked me if I had any questions. I told them I had one: when?"

Ida lost neither taste nor smell. The danger had been in temporarily repositioning her brain, to give the doctors room to work. Her brain, by all outward evidence, is as seen as ever.

Demonstration Is Announced

Rev. H. C. Mulholland and Rev. H. V. Lofquist announced there will be a demonstration of the Greenville Peace Committee Thursday afternoon between 4:00 and 5:00 p.m.

The Committee is advocating the reduction of military spending and the non-funding of the B-1 bomber. Members of the committee will distribute leaflets on the Evans Street mall between Fourth and Fifth Streets.

The demonstration is part of a nationwide demonstration. Interested persons are invited to take part.

Bulldogs Hand Pirates First Defeat

Williamston Meets Fred T. Foard In State Championship Series

WILLIAMSTON — The Williamston Tigers open their quest for a second straight State 3-A Baseball Championship tomorrow night in Hickory, going against Fred T. Foard High School.

The Tigers take a 20-3 record into the best-of-three finals to be played at Legion Field at Hickory, while the hosting Foard team, also the Tigers, brings a 15-6 record into the fray.

Thursday's opening game will be played at 8 p.m., with the second game on Friday also at 8 p.m. Saturday's third game, if needed, will be played at 2 p.m.

"I don't know anything about them," Coach Dink Mills of Williamston said of his opponent in the final series. "They are supposed to have an outstanding pitcher."

Tommy Gardner will get the call for the call for the first game, putting his 12-0 record on the line. Artie Rogers is slated for the second game. He takes a 7-2 record into the playoffs.

"If we go to the third game, we'll probably come back with Gardner," Mills said. "We also have Don Wynne and Eric Godard in relief."

Tim Hardison is the leading hitter for the Tigers of Williamston, carrying a plus .400 batting average. The right fielder was hitting .392 going into last week's game with Pembroke, and came up with two hits in three trips. "He's really been doing the job for us in the clutch this year," Mills added.

For Williamston, it will be the third time to the State finals in the nine years Mills has been leading the pack. During his tenure, the team has won seven of nine conference titles, and on two other occasions, aside from the three trips to the finals, the team made it to the Eastern finals.

They first won a state title under Mills in 1969, when they took the 2-A title, then last year won their first 3-A crown. "The thing about it," Mills said, "is that we're doing it with a 2-A enrollment."

While a trip to the finals is nothing new to Williamston, it's the first time there for the Fred T. Foard version of the Tigers.

Their six losses are somewhat deceiving in that three came in the first three games of the season. They have a young team, with only three seniors in the starting lineup.

Veteran coach Jerry Copas is in his 15th year at Foard, but only in his third year as baseball coach. "This team is really a year ahead of where I thought it would be," he said.

Foard beat East Lincoln, a fellow conference member, to gain the finals, 4-3. It was only the second loss suffered by East Lincoln, and both of those came at the hands of the Tigers.

Tim Whitener is the top pitcher for Foard. The junior righty has an 11-3 record, but is unbeaten in five complete post-season games.

Leading the hitting is senior catcher Ricky Weaver, slugging at a hefty .567 batting average. He has cracked six homers this season, hitting two in one game twice.

While most observers pick Williamston as the favorite due to its experience, they note that Foard has had a habit of winning the close ones. All but one of its post-season victories came on one or two run wins.

WILSON — East Carolina University joined the ranks of the defeated here Tuesday night by dropping a 6-0 decision to Atlantic Christian College in summer baseball action.

The Pirates tagged Bulldog starter Jerry Hobgood for six hits and as many free passes, but could put together only a single scoring threat. ECU loaded the bases with one out in the eighth, but couldn't score. Hobgood did about everything but sell popcorn for the Bulldogs, slapping three singles in as many official trips to the plate in addition to his pitching performance. Batterymate Don Koontz had two singles and an rbi to help pace the hosts, now 1-1. ECU falls to 2-1.

The hosts struck first in the second inning. With two out, Koontz's first hit was followed by a two-base throwing error by Pirate starter Pete Conaty and a similar move by Pirate shortstop Jerry Carraway, thereby producing a run.

In the third, Conaty issued two walks and three singles, making the score 4-0 in favor of the hosts.

Conaty left at the end of the sixth in favor of reliever Glenn Card. Card was nicked for two runs in the eighth, only one of which was earned.

East Carolina placed runners in scoring position in the first, second, third and fifth innings as well as the eighth. Pete Paradossi and Bobby Supel walked to lead off the first two frames and advanced on groundouts to the infield to third base, but no further.

Sloppy baserunning cost the Pirates runners in the third and fifth. In the third, Robert Brinkley was picked off second base to kill one threat and in the fifth, Carraway was caught napping at third to kill another. Paradossi was the leading

Pepsi Upsets Carolina Dairy

Mike Norfleet's bases-loaded double in the top of the fifth broke a 3-3 tie and carried Pepsi to a 7-3 victory over Carolina Dairy last night.

The win was the second for Pepsi but it was the first loss for Carolina Dairy. Carolina Dairy is 3-1, Pepsi 2-2.

Both teams scored two times in the first. Robert Morehead and Marty Worthington led off with singles for Pepsi. Morehead scored on a sacrifice by Calvin Parker and Worthington scored on an out.

With one out in the bottom of the inning, Peter Pace singled and Bobby Woronoff walked. Rufus Sutton singled in Pace and an error let Woronoff score.

Morehead led off the fifth with a single and Worthington was safe on an error. Parker beat out an infield hit and Norfleet's double scored Morehead and Worthington and Parker. Al Shackelford reached on an error scoring Norfleet.

Carolina loaded the bases in the bottom of the inning on walks and got a pair of hits in the sixth but failed to score again.

Morehead and Worthington had two hits each for Pepsi but no one had more than one for Carolina Dairy.

Coca-Cola In Upset Of Jaycees

Michael Worthington slammed a two-run double in the fourth and Billy Brannigan a two-run homer in the fifth and Jeff Camp pitched a seven hitter as Coca-Cola upset the Jaycees, 8-3, yesterday.

The loss dropped the Jaycees back to a game's lead over Coke and Lions and a half-game in front of the Optimists. The Jaycees are 8-3, the Optimists, 7-3 and Coke and the Lions are 7-4.

The Jaycees started off with two in the first with one run scoring on an error and a second on a hit by Chuck Coggins. But Coke bounced into the lead in the bottom of the frame on a double by Billy Brannigan. Terry Smith had reached on an error and Johnathan McGee had singled scoring Smith. Raynor Casey singled and both McGee and Casey scored on Brannigan's double.

Todd Lovette walked and Skip Cannon reached on an error opening the fourth. Worthington doubled them both across and he scored on an error.

Mike Pollard doubled and scored on Henry Goodson's single for the Jaycees their run.

Casey singled and scored on Brannigan's homer in the fifth for Coke.

Southern Tournament Will Be In Roanoke; VMI May Pull Out

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — The semifinals and finals of the 1977 Southern Conference championship basketball tournament will be held Tuesday-Wednesday, March 1-2, at the Roanoke, Va., Civic Center.

League athletic directors voted Tuesday to move the tournament to Roanoke after a two-year run in Greenville, S. C. Just as in the last two years, opening round games will be played the previous Saturday on the home courts of the highest seeded teams.

Because Richmond is now out of the conference, the team which finishes first in the regular season will draw a bye with first round games being played Feb. 26 on the home floors of the teams that finish second, third and fourth.

Three new members have been admitted to the conference, but the three — Tennessee-Chattanooga, Marshall and Western Carolina — will not be eligible for the title in the 1976-77 season.

Only Appalachian State of the teams now in the league plays all three of the "probationary" members.

Meanwhile, the conference could find itself back to seven members by the end of next year.

East Carolina already has voted to withdraw at the end of the 1976-77 school year, William and Mary is reported ready to announce a similar move later this month, and Virginia Military Institute now is reported giving the matter consideration.

Lt. Gen. Richard L. Irby, VMI superintendent, said Tuesday the school's athletic council will meet within the next two weeks to consider its future in the league in view of the possible withdrawal of William and Mary.

The athletic directors voted to move the semifinals and finals of the basketball tournament to Roanoke for two main reasons — its failure last year

Deacons Play As One Team

By JIM McELROY
Associated Press Writer
ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Most people think of golf as an individual sport, but Wake Forest's defending national individual champion says with him and the rest of the Deacons the team comes first.

Jay Haas, a 22-year-old senior who will be turning pro before the year is out, said if he had to choose between his retaining the individual crown or Wake Forest claiming its third straight team title, "It would be no contest."

"The whole team has pointed toward this tournament all season and the main thing for me to do is play solid and help the team," he said.

"That's what everybody came down here for, not to win the individual championship. Of course," he added, "it would be nice if that went along with it."

Haas will be battling 185 other golfers in individual play and the Deacons will be tussling with 28 other teams in the four-day, 72-hole National Collegiate Athletic Association championships.

The tourney is being played over the par 72, 7,258-yard University of New Mexico South course.

The top threats to Haas are teammate Curtis Strange, the 1974 champion, Brigham Young's Mike Reid and Mike Brannan, Oklahoma State's

Chicod In Victory

CHICOD — Chicod gained a 9-6 victory over the Winterville Indians in the Southern Pitt Little League yesterday. Chicod banged out seven hits in the game, while the Indians had nine.

Leroy Edwards was the winning pitcher, walking one and striking out seven. He also led the Chicod hitting with two, while Roy Lassiter added a home run.

ference standings again next season.

The agreement to move the tournament to Roanoke was for one year only, said VMI Athletic Director Tom Joynes, chairman of the league's organization of athletic directors.

In a picture of golf winners in Monday's edition of the Daily Reflector, Mike and Wallace Woolees were incorrectly identified as winning the senior division of the Father-Son tournament. They actually finished second. Winning the senior flight were Ben and Ben Harrison, Jr.

There Are A Lot Of Ways Morgan Can Beat You—Homers, Sacrifices

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The "MVP" in Joe Morgan's credits not only stands for "Most Valuable Player" — but "Most Versatile Player" as well.

The Cincinnati second baseman likes to brag that he can beat you any number of ways — and Tuesday night, he did it the easy way with two home runs and a sacrifice fly.

"I don't think there are many things out there I can't do," said Morgan after his three RBI led the Reds to a 10-5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates, "and there are a heck of a lot of things you can do."

Morgan, who won the MVP Award last year while leading the Reds to a World Series victory, is hitting the ball with more authority this season. His two shots Tuesday night gave him four in two nights and 11 for the season, tying him with George Foster for the lead on the Reds.

In other National League action, the Atlanta Braves beat the Chicago Cubs 7-3; the Houston Astros blanked the St. Louis Cardinals 2-0; the San Diego Padres defeated the New York Mets 3-0; the Philadelphia Phillies routed the Los Angeles Dodgers 14-2 and the Montreal Expos ripped the San Francisco Giants 9-49.

Cincinnati rookie Santo Alcala, 6-1, had a shutout until giving up three runs in the seventh inning and bowing to relief help from Fred Norman.

The Reds jumped on Pittsburgh starter Jim Rooker for four runs in the first inning with the aid of leadoff doubles by Pete Rose and Griffey, three walks and a two-run single by Dave Concepcion.

Braves 7, Cubs 3
Jerry Royster hammered a two-run homer and Rod Gilbreath had four hits including a triple and a double to lead Atlanta over Chicago. The triumph was the fifth straight for the rejuvenated Braves while the Cubs lost their fifth in a row.

Phil Niekro, 44, scattered eight hits, including a solo homer by Bill Madlock, before being replaced by Adrian Devine with two outs in the ninth.

Astros 2, Cardinals 0
Veteran Larry Dierker fired

a five-hitter for his 100th-career complete game and scored two runs in leading Houston over St. Louis. Dierker, 6-5, outdueling St. Louis right-hander Bob Forsch in going the distance for only the first time this season. Forsch, 1-2, allowed merely four hits over six innings.

Padres 3, Mets 0
Right-hander Dave Freisleben hurled his third shutout in four starts since being called up from the minor leagues last month to spark San Diego over New York.

Phillies 14, Dodgers 2
Bob Boone knocked in two runs in a six-run fifth inning to help Philadelphia rout Los Angeles. The victory, the Phillies' 17th in 21 games on the road, lifted them 7½ games over Pittsburgh in the National League East.

Expos 9, Giants 4
Larry Parrish scored three runs and knocked in a pair with a double and two singles as Montreal capitalized on five San Francisco errors to beat the Giants. Veteran left-hander Woody Fryman, 7-3, scattered 12 hits before getting ninth-inning relief help and the Expos chased rookie Rob Dressler, 1-3, with four runs in the fourth for a 6-1 lead.

John Lucas To Try And Combine Pro Life In Basketball, Tennis

By BERT ROSENTHAL
NEW YORK (AP) — Can John Lucas find happiness on both the basketball and tennis courts?

He's going to try. Lucas, a college All-American in both tennis and basketball, was the No. 1 pick in Tuesday's National Basketball Association draft, by the Houston Rockets.

After quickly signing a five-year, no-cut contract for a reported $850,000 with the Rockets, the 6-foot-4 Lucas said he also was negotiating with a franchise in World Team Tennis and probably would sign with a WTT member — which he did not identify — next week.

"Eye-hand coordination is the most important factor in both sports," said Lucas, who reached the third round of the recent NCAA tennis tournament at Corpus Christi, Tex. "The footwork in tennis also helps me as a guard in basketball.

"But right now, my primary concern is playing basketball," added Lucas, who averaged 18.3 points a game in four years as a starter at Maryland. The Rockets, operating under new Coach Tom Nissalke, acquired the No. 1 draft on Monday by trading center Joe Meriwether, guard Gus Bailey and their first-round pick to Atlanta for center Dwight Jones and the Hawks' top choice.

The Rockets and the other teams, meanwhile, chose 175 other players in the 10-round draft which lasted 2 hours, 5 minutes.

Four of them were from Indiana's national champions. All-American forward Scott May, the College Player of the Year, was the No. 2 pick, by the Chicago Bulls. Two others, guards Quinn Buckner and Bob Wilkerson, also were drafted on the first round. Buckner, like May a member of the U.S. Olympic team, was selected by the Milwaukee Bucks, and Wilkerson went to the Seattle SuperSonics.

Indiana forward Tom Abernethy was chosen on the third round, by the Los Angeles Lakers.

The only starting member of Indiana, NCAA winners to avoid the draft was All-American center Kent Benson, a junior.

The other 1976 Associated Press All-Americans, forwards Adrian Dantley of Notre Dame and Phil Sellers of Rutgers, were high picks in the draft. Dantley, a junior who decided to pass up his last year of college eligibility for the pros, was taken by the Buffalo Braves in the first round. Sellers went to the Detroit Pistons in the third round.

In addition to May, Buckner and Dantley, two members of the 15-man Olympic team were chosen. They were centers Mitch Kupchak of North Carolina, by Washington in the first round, and Scott Lloyd of Arizona State, by Milwaukee in the second round.

Dantley also was one of seven college undergraduates or high school eligibles from a list of 16 to be chosen. The others were forward Richard Washington, by Kansas City; guard Larry Wright of Grambling, by Washington; forward Norm Cook of Kansas, by champion Boston; guard Johnny Davis of Dayton, by Portland; forward Lonnie Shelton of Oregon State, by New York, and forward Jacky Dorsey of Georgia, by New Orleans.

Washington, Wright and Cook were selected in the first round, the others in round two. Kansas City announced shortly after the draft that they had signed Washington. Terms were not disclosed.

Other first-round choices included: Alabama center Leon Douglas, by Detroit; Virginia forward Wally Walker, Portland; Centenary center Robert Parish, Golden State; Princeton guard Armond Hill, Atlanta; Oregon guard Ron Lee, Phoenix; Michigan State guard-forward Terry Furlow, Philadelphia; Kansas State guard Chuckie Williams, Cleveland, and Texas A&M forward Sonny Parker, Golden State.

Guard Marshall Rogers of Pan American, the major college scoring champion last season, was picked by Golden State in the second round, and backcourtman Archie Talley of Salem, W.Va., the college division scoring leader for 1975-76, was chosen by New York in round nine.

Kupchak, contacted in Chapel Hill where he and other members of the U.S. Olympic basketball team are training, described Washington as a "well established" team which he considers as a winner.

"I have always played for a winner and it would be hard to change myself to a losing team," Kupchak said. He said he had not heard from Washington Tuesday night and he said he wanted to know "what I can and can't do" regarding signing with the pros and his place on the Olympic team.

Kupchak had said he would not rule out signing with the pros and dropping out of the U.S. team before the Olympics. Kupchak said he came in contact with many scouts from professional teams during his Tar Heel playing days. And he said many expressed an interest in him as a prospect.

But he said, "You know they all aren't telling the truth if they all say they want to pick you."

In the second round of the NBA draft, Milwaukee picked South Carolina's Alex English and Cleveland selected Maryland's Mo Howard.

Duke's Willie Hodges was picked by Kansas City in the fifth round.

Cox Rolls By Pitt Plaza, 17-6

Cox Realty put together a 10-run third inning and romped to a 17-6 victory over Pitt Plaza last night in the Babe Ruth Prep League.

The win kept Cox hot on the trail of the league-leading Graniteers, with a 5-2 record. Pitt Plaza is now 1-7.

Cox picked up the opening lead with a run in the top of the second. Bobby Hopkins reached an error and stole second. He scored when Jeff Wilson reached on another race.

Pitt Plaza came back with three runs in the bottom of the inning to take the lead, 3-1. Reggie Morris opened up with a double and scored on Scott Southerland's hit. Southerland stole second and third and Danny Agee walked, also stealing up. Southerland scored on a passed ball and Agee came in when Steve Hall reached on an error.

Then, in the top of the third,

Cox put it away with its 10-run outburst. Junior Neal opened with a walk and Grant Stackhouse also got one as did Marc Sasser, leading the bases. Mike Thurber and Rickey Sutton both walked, driving in two runs, and Hopkins reached on a fielder's choice, getting Sasser at the plate. Wilson reached on an error, scoring Thurber, and Willie Langley walked, driving in the fourth run. Neal reached on a fielder's choice scoring the fifth run, and walks to Steve Irwin and Stackhouse brought in two more. Sasser singled in Neal and Irwin and an error let Stackhouse score for an 11-3 lead.

Cox added one in the fourth, two in the fifth and three in the sixth, while Pitt Plaza got two in the third and one in the fifth. Southerland and Sasser each had two hits to pace their teams. Cox Real. 01(10) 123-17 6 3 Pitt Plaza 032 010-6 5 8

New Jersey Brought Win

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

Fritz Peterson couldn't win in Ohio but new jersey was just the ticket. Actually it wasn't a new jersey. It belonged to Nelson Briles.

Peterson wasn't in any primaries running for president. If anything, he was running for his life after going winless in the first two months of the baseball season in Cleveland.

The Indians dealt him to Texas and Tuesday night he made his first start for the Rangers. He made it in disguise, wearing Briles' jersey because his own had been lost en route from Texas to Baltimore.

Peterson got relief help from Steve Foucault in the eighth inning and beat the slumping Orioles 6-3 for his first victory in four decisions. And afterwards, the Rangers ignored him and congratulated Briles on the victory.

"I felt strong. I could have gone all night," said Briles. "I didn't feel like I pitched."

Elsewhere in the American League, Detroit downed Yankees City 3-1, the New York Yankees beat California 4-2, Oakland edged Boston 6-5, Milwaukee blanked Chicago 2-0 and Minnesota clipped Cleveland 3-1.

Gene Clines drove in two runs for Texas and Jim Sundberg and Jeff Burroughs doubled home one each as the Rangers closed to within 1½ games of front-running Kansas City in the AL East.

Doyle Alexander, 3-3, took the loss, the eighth defeat in the last 10 games for the Bad News Birds.

And there was more bad news for Baltimore. Slugger Reggie Jackson has a possible cracked bone in his right wrist and could be lost to the club for an extended period.

Tigers 3, Royals 1

Lefty Dave Roberts tossed a seven-hitter to up his record to 5-4 for Detroit. Jason Thompson clubbed a two-run homer and Rusty Staub had an RBI single for the Tigers. Hal McRae, who singled in the lone Kansas City run, had three hits to raise his league-leading average to .356.

Yankees 4, Angels 2

Duck Ellis, 5-4, broke a personal four-game winning streak with a five-hitter for New York. Chris Chambliss drove in two runs with a first-inning triple off Gary Ross, 3-7, and then scored on Craig Nettles' single. Nettles added a solo homer in the seventh.

A's 6, Red Sox 5

Gene Tenace smacked a pair of home runs and drove in three runs for Oakland. Pinch-hitter Ken McMullen singled and pinch-runner Larry Lintz stole second, took third on an error and scored on Bill North's single to put the A's on top for good in the eighth. Dwight Evans and Cecil Cooper homered for Boston.

Brewers 2, White Sox 0

Bill Travers raised his record to 7-2 with a five-hitter. Don Money singled in one run and Bill Sharp scored the second on a throwing error by Chicago catcher Brian Downing. Bart Johnson, 3-6, absorbed the loss.

Twins 3, Indians 1

Bill Campbell, 7-2, hurled 5 1/3 innings of one-hit relief as Minnesota handed Cleveland its fourth straight loss. Butch Wynegar and Steve Braun had run-scoring singles and Mike Cabbage had an RBI triple for the Twins. Dennis Eckersley, 3-5, was the loser.

Putting Results

The second round of Junior Putters of America summer play was held last night at the Greenville Putt-Putt.

Jefferson Standard downed Jerry's Sweet Shop, 15½ to 14½, while Coca-Cola topped Smith-Waldrop Motors by the same score. Buck's Gulf downed J. H. Hudson by a 15½ to 8½ score.

Leading scorers for Jefferson Standard, now 1-1, were Allen Parks and David Johnson with six points each. Jerry's (0-2) was led by Gordon Clark with six, Laura Vincent with 4½, and Loel Mauger with four. Coke (2-0) was paced by Rodney Speight and Lori Woodard with six each. Smith-Waldrop (1-1) was led by Wally Norris with 5½, Mark Grossnickle with five and Gene Tripp with four. Buck's (2-0) was led by Lisa Leggett with six, Irving Bennett with 5½, and Scott Alford with 3½. Hudson (0-2) was paced by Gray Finnegan with 5½.

The Sixth Annual Commencement Exercises will be held at D. H. Conley High School Thursday at 8 p.m. The ceremonies will begin with a processional of the 1976 graduates followed by the invocation by Donna Lambert. Special musical selections will be presented by Rick Mobley, Joey Baggett, Patricia Stancill and Timothy Devinney.

Principal J. R. Carraway will make remarks and announcements and D. H. Conley will award the diplomas. Senior Class president Dawn Branch will lead the seniors in turning the tassels and Geneva Mobley will present the benediction.

Autopsy Shows Sergeant Killed

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — An Air Force sergeant whose body was found Tuesday in a wrecked car was killed by a bullet wound to the head, investigators said.

Highway Patrolmen who were investigating a wreck on U.S. 301 south of here found the body of T. Sgt. Frank Marion Jackson, 39, of Pope Air Force Base.

Trooper Billy Thomas said the wreck "looked a little suspicious."

"There wasn't enough damage done to the car compared to the injury," Thomas said.

Deputy Sgt. Dob Connerly of the Cumberland County Sheriff's Department said an autopsy showed Jackson died from a bullet wound to the head. Jackson was apparently the car's only occupant.

"I'd rather not say what kind of weapon it was," Connerly said.

Skid marks from the car indicated it left U.S. 301 and broke through several roadside signs before hitting a fence.

The work is to be done in three phases and will be completed by December 31, 1977. Phase One will assess the use people are making of the fish and wildlife in the watershed. The assessment will include a telephone survey of landowners' knowledge of fishing and hunting activities, a fishermen's creel survey, a trapper's success survey, and a listing of the use people make of the watershed resources; such as, birders, hikers, student nature lovers and others.

Phase Two will study the fish resources of the watershed. Samples of the fish and associated food organisms will be made in the streams at 22 different locations in the watershed. These samples will provide information on fish species by number and sizes. The ponds and lakes in the watershed will also be studied.

Phase Three will study wildlife resources in the watershed. The numbers, diversity and distribution of the various wildlife species will be assessed. Wildlife habitat will also be evaluated. Vegetative species by habitat types, their relative abundance, and their food and cover values will be examined.

The Little Contentnea Creek Watershed Project was approved by Congress Aug. 22, 1966. Construction of the project has been delayed by environmental considerations. The project work plan lists works of improvements consisting of conservation land treatment measures on 46,125 acres, 207.1 miles of stream channel improvement, and two warm-water impoundments, and 270

A similar incident occurred in Haywood County May 17.

Yacoub Sadeq Sabti, a University of North Carolina at Charlotte student from Kuwait, wrecked his car after being wounded in the face with a shotgun blast.

Sabti has been released from the hospital and authorities say they are closing the investigation because Sabti and two passengers in the car have not provided any information that would help an investigation.

Phase Three will study wildlife resources in the watershed. The numbers, diversity and distribution of the various wildlife species will be assessed. Wildlife habitat will also be evaluated. Vegetative species by habitat types, their relative abundance, and their food and cover values will be examined.

The project work plan lists works of improvements consisting of conservation land treatment measures on 46,125 acres, 207.1 miles of stream channel improvement, and two warm-water impoundments, and 270 acres of wildlife wetland habitat improvement. These improvements were selected as measures needed to accomplish the sponsors' four objectives which are: (1) to accelerate the rate of planning and installation of land treatment measures on individual farms; (2) provide five-year frequency flood protection to cropland; (3) provide adequate outlet channels for on-farm drainage systems; and (4) to mitigate damages to fish and wildlife habitat.

The Little Contentnea Creek Watershed Project is sponsored by Pitt Soil and Water Soil and Water Conservation District; Edgecombe Soil and Water Conservation District; Pitt County Drainage District No. 1; and the Town of Farmville.

Caril Is Hoping For Anonymity

By EDWARD W. HOWARD
Associated Press Writer
YORK, Neb. (AP) — Caril Ann Fugate will be released from prison after serving 18 years for murder but her desire to settle down in obscurity and perhaps get married and raise children may be just a dream.

Her chances for anonymity on the outside were threatened Tuesday when the chairman of Nebraska's Parole Board, John Greenholtz, said Miss Fugate would report to a parole officer in St. Johns, Mich., after she is freed.

Greenholtz' revelation of Miss Fugate's parole address may have upset a plan to set Miss Fugate up with a "new identity."

His comment was the first indication of where Miss Fugate is going.

"I do not wish to give interviews today or in the future," said Miss Fugate as she appeared before the board.

"I'd like to just settle down, get married, have a couple kids — you know, dust the house, clean the toilet — you know, just an ordinary little dumpy housewife. That's all I want to be — wash the socks, you know, burn the toast."

The board's vote was 4-1 to grant Miss Fugate's request for parole. She will be released June 20, apparently for the new start in Michigan.

About 30 persons attended the hearing. The board's decision brought applause.

Now 32, Miss Fugate accompanied Charles Starkweather, the red-haired mass killer, on a rampage in 1958 that left 10 dead. Starkweather was the last man executed in Nebraska's electric chair — 17 years ago this month.

Miss Fugate said Starkweather forced her to go with him, but Starkweather swore that his companion, then 14, was a willing accomplice in as many as six of the murders.

Starkweather's victims included Miss Fugate's mother, stepfather and 2-year-old half-sister.

She was convicted of first-degree murder in connection with her part in the death of one of Starkweather's victims, Richard Jensen.

During her prison years, Miss Fugate became a member of the Nazarene Church. She taught Bible classes, babysat for worshipers attending Sunday services and occasionally delivered sermons.

"I would just like to say thanks," said Miss Fugate before being led quickly from the room with tears in her eyes.

Maybe Million Dogs Share New York City

By DAVID L. LANGFORD
NEW YORK (UPI) — Just down Lexington Avenue from Grand Central Station, between one of those step down delis and a spiffy liquor store, a giant of a hairy dog abruptly halted and squatted.

The little lady at the other end of the leash could only budge him a few inches until a furious shopkeeper gave him a whack on the backside with a broom.

Outside some nearby apartments a tall and haughty woman feigned nonchalance. She smoked a cigarette and looked away as her fidgety, clipped poodle in the gutter tried to potty.

Sharing the sidewalks of New York with the muggers, the hookers and the neglected garbage this spring are somewhere between 600,000 and one million dogs.

They are despoiling the Big Apple with up to 250 tons of droppings each day.

Thus, with all their other woes, New Yorkers are now being asked to train their doggies to use sewer drains as sort of outdoor johns.

"It's depressing as hell, if not a health hazard, to step in dog stuff," said Dr. Alan Beck of the city public health department's Bureau of Animal Affairs. "It eats away at your self esteem."

"People trip on it, slip on it, and it breeds flies."

"It's at least as undesirable as human feces on the streets, or throwing garbage out the window, and we've all decided that's not a good idea."

But the dog issue is one of the hottest topics in a town beset with problems both social and fiscal.

Numerous public hearings have been held to try to resolve it, and one councilman uses it his sole campaign platform.

Mothers complain that their children are in danger of contracting worms by playing in dog-infested parks, but the dog lovers counter with a suggestion they keep their children on a leash.

No one seems to have an answer to appease both the dog and antidog factions, least of all the Bureau of Animal Affairs and its dog litter specialist, except stricter enforcement of existing "leash and curb" laws.

Signs are posted throughout the city warning pet owners to "Curb Your Dog," reminding them that the law forbids using sidewalks as doggie johns. But the dogs can't read.

There is one imaginative proposal in the works, however. A pilot project temporarily shelved during the fiscal crisis would attempt to train dogs to defecate in specially-constructed sewers in the area of Carl Shurz Park, where Gracie Mansion, the official residence of Mayor Abe Beame, sits overlooking the East River.

The plan is to widen the sewer drains enough to allow dog feces to pass through then teach the dogs to straddle them.

"That's fine for a Great Dane," barked one dog owner at a recent hearing. "But what about my little Pekingese? He'd fall through."

Despite the impassioned arguments that the city's children are in danger of contracting disease, Beck admits his office has found little evidence of a direct health threat.

While in some other areas there have been cases of children picking up roundworm eggs passed in the feces of dogs, Beck said, "We have not seen any such cases in five years in New York City."

Beck is much more disturbed about another canine menace. "Let's look at the other end of the dog," he said. "Dogs perse are a major problem, but not necessarily because of their litter. Unquestionably, the biggest problem is dog bites."

The health officer said more than 35,000 dog bites were reported in the city last year and probably an equal number went unreported. About 75 per cent of the victims required medical attention.

"Most of them were children and about 37 per cent were bitten on the face," he said. "We have an office in every borough just for handling animal bites."

Beck blames the dog owners for failing to keep their animals under control.

"A third of the dog population is allowed on the streets without appropriate supervision," he said.

That's a log of dogs.

The ASPCA in New York last year licensed 325,000 dogs and

Beck says "there are at least twice that many in the city. It probably comes close to one million."

Beck takes those figures to deduce that the dogs each day dump between 150 and 250 tons on litter on the streets each day.

"Of course," he added, "It's distributed over a fairly large surface area."

Says Cruise Ship Life Is A Bore

VANCOUVER, Canada (AP) — Luxurious fringe benefits aside, Mike Robbins says he's just part of the cruise ship package — "like the soup and the fish and the one-armed bandits."

His job as entertainment director aboard one of the world's last great ocean liners, the P and O's Oriana, allows him to spend the winter cruising the South Pacific and the summer cruising the Mediterranean.

It brings him a handsome salary, a personal servant and a pleasant cabin — as well as long hours and gray hairs.

Robbins' task is keeping 1,500 passengers happy for up to six weeks at sea.

"There are lots of hot-shot kinds in mohair suits waiting to take my job," he says. "They all have names like Troy Vanoy and think they've got something new and exciting."

"I tell 'em, 'Fine. What are you like at 3 a.m. when the world's most boring person has got you cornered — and it does happen — can you still be nice when you're so tired you want to cut your throat?"

"And then can you get up and do it again the next day?"

As one 16-hour day follows another, Robbins says all those South Sea islands begin to look alike.

"I peer out the porthole to see if they've moved any of the plastic palm trees and then I close the curtains 'til we leave."

He has a wife and five children at home in England. His wife hates his job, which keeps him away from his family for all but a few months of the year. But he says, "I'm a pro. I go where the money is."

His frenetic life won't last for ever — at least not aboard the Oriana. She stops at Vancouver en route from Sydney, Australia, to Southampton, England. These days the 42,000-ton Oriana is the last of the P and O line to call there. Within a few years, she won't be back at all.

"The market is all cruising now," says Vancouver P and O manager Mark Quayle. "And they find the optimum size for cruise ships is 20,000 tons. We will never see her like again."

BBC Is Not Ready For 'The Adams Chronicles'

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The British Broadcasting Corp. from time to time sells its prestige shows to American public TV. So what happens when it gets the chance to buy "The Adams Chronicles" and return the fiscal favor?

It has said no dice — at least, not now — according to Robert Kotlowitz, a program executive at New York's WNET, which produced the 13-part bicentennial drama series with a whopping $6.7 million budget.

Variety magazine, the show-biz bible, last week said the BBC had a "long-running option" to buy the series about the historic Adams family of Massachusetts, "but dropped out after viewing the product."

"The BBC rebuff was ablow to WNET production prestige," it added.

T'aint so, insists Kotlowitz. He says the BBC had no option to buy the series and "they haven't bought it for a number of reasons, none of them having to deal with the program itself."

"They have a very complicated set of problems over there," he explained, citing a severe budget crisis currently afflicting the BBC as one of three reasons the Adams series rang up a no-sale there.

"Number two is that there are severe problems in terms of English performing unions in terms of importing American-made production," he said. He meant that the unions gripe to the BBC and the government that American-made, American-acted shows on British TV take away English jobs, a gripe American unions make about English shows on public TV here.

The third reason the BBC cited for a no-sale, he said, "is a quota system that allows the BBC to import only a very limited amount of American production" for showing on its airwaves.

The BBC here had no immediate estimate of what percentage of American programming is allowed on TV in Britain.

"The Adams Chronicles" originally was budgeted at $5.2 million. The money came from the Andrew Mellon Foundation, the Atlantic Richfield Co. and the National Endowment for the Humanities. But it went $1.5 million over budget, WNET says, because of a seven-week delay caused by a writers' strike and by script revisions made to insure historical accuracy.

Kotlowitz said he didn't know exactly how much the BBC was asked to pay for the series, but insisted "there was not an enormous amount of money involved."

"We pay in America — not only WNET but the entire public television system — about $20,000 to $30,000 an episode for

BBC product we show here. "And they (the BBC) generally pay a bit less because the size of their audience is less. And we certainly were operating within those parameters." WNET says the series has been bought for showing in Mexico, Ireland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland, Greece, Belgium and Germany so far, and that it currently is being offered to commercial TV in Britain.

Charged In Break-In

A 23-year-old Winterville man was arrested early Tuesday by Pitt County deputies and charged with a break-in at a Rt. 1, Winterville home.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that deputies arrested George King Jr. of Box 502, Winterville at the home of Nancy Barrett of Rt. 1, Box 557, Winterville.

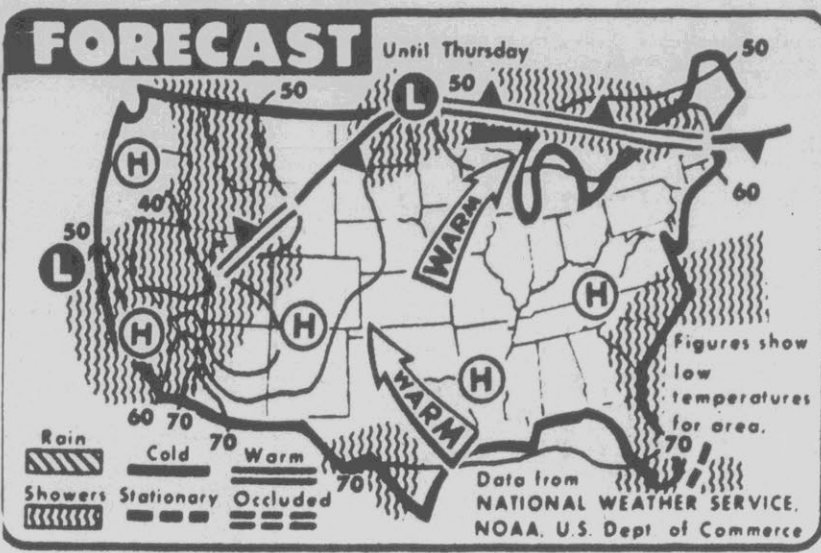

Sheriff Tyson said that Mrs. Barrett told deputies she returned home around 11:45 p.m. Monday and discovered King asleep on the floor in the house. She reported the incident to the Sheriff's Department at 12:10 a.m.

Deputies arrived at the Barrett home and charged King with breaking and entering. Bond was set at $200 with a hearing scheduled for June 20 in District Court here.

Nothing was reported missing in the incident, the sheriff said.

Offer Trip To Raleigh Program

"If My People," a musical experience in worship, is to be presented at 8 p.m. Friday, June 11, at the Dorton Arena in Raleigh.

For the event, Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church is providing a church bus to go to Raleigh. The bus will leave Jarvis parking lot at 4:30 p.m. Friday. There is no charge for the bus ride. Those going are asked to bring a bag dinner.

"If My People," by Jimmy and Carol Owens, is now on a major national tour.

high pressure centered over southern Missouri. This stable air mass will result in light winds making for hazy and hot afternoons over much of the eastern part of the U.S.

Shows will develop over the mountains during the afternoon and evening hours today. Temperatures this morning were rather mild with readings appearing in the upper 50s and mid 60s over the state.

Early morning fog giving way to hot and hazy days will be the weather picture into the weekend. Temperatures will climb to highs in the 80s and low 90s with overnight lows mainly in the 60s.

Summer-like weather will hold into the weekend with hot hazy afternoons and mild fair nights. This will provide excellent recreational weather across the state except for some scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers in the mountains.

Scout Fun-O-Ree To Be Staged Saturday

A free "hot dog" lunch will close the Fun-O-Ree scheduled for Saturday at West Greenville Field (old Epps High Stadium). The event, sponsored by the Sunrise District Boy Scouts, will honor new Scouts and Cubs who have joined during the May-June roundup program of the district.

Ray Parker, chairman of Sunrise District, said that he expects approximately 100 new Scouts and sponsors to take part in the event. Parker said that lunch will be served at 12 noon to the new members.

Boys who wish to join may attend also but must bring the membership fee of $2.00 and discuss membership with one of the several Scoutmasters or Clubmasters present. Once accepted by a unit the new member may participate in the program.

Herman Waters of Troop 289 of Fountain will be in charge of the activities. Bernard Haselrig will direct the registration process and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Jetter will direct the lunch.

Unit Leaders are expected to be present from Fountain, Farmville, Bethel, Stokes, Pactolus and Grimesland. Boys from these areas are invited. Prospective members from Ayden, Simpson, grifton and Winterville may also take part as the Sunrise District is now trying to recreate units in those communities. The activities will begin at 10 a.m. and close about 12:30.

FORD'S CHOICE—Shirley Temple Ford, U.S. Ambassador to Ghana, above, has been named as President Ford's choice to be the new U.S. chief of protocol. White House sources confirmed Tuesday. Mrs. Ford will succeed Henry Catto, who is scheduled to get a United Nations post in July. (AP Wirephoto)

Certain defensive card combinations contain a built-in blockage. If declarer can recognize these situations, he can exploit the blockage to his advantage. Consider this hand.

Since the spade suit was unguarded, North elected to open his hand one diamond rather than one trump. When South bid one no trump freely over East's one spade overall, North showed his power by raising to two no trump—there are those who would consider that action conservative and raise directly to game. However, South had enough to go on to game himself, especially since his spades rated to be worth more than 4 points behind the overcaller.

West led the two of spades. East rose with the ace and returned the seven, and the fate of the contract hung in the balance. Had declarer taken the spade finesse, he would have been defeated. West would win the queen and return the king, forcing out the king. When East got in with the ace of diamonds, he would be able to cash two more spades to defeat the contract.

However, declarer had taken note of West's low spade opening lead. Since East surely held five spades for his overall, West could have only three. With three low spades, West might have led his top card. The low lead seemed to suggest that West held an honor, and that could only be the queen.

Having reached this conclusion, declarer went up with the king on the spade return. West was faced with a Hobson's choice. If he followed low, his queen would block the suit; if he unblocked the queen, declarer's jack would be a trick. Whatever he did, declarer would come to nine tricks by knocking out the ace of diamonds and then, if necessary, spurning the club finesse.

Cab At Your Door For Fifteen Cents

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — In these days of astronomical taxicab fares, imagine phoning for a cab to come to your home, riding to a doctor's office, a shopping center or a friend's house and paying only 15 cents with no tips allowed. That is the service now being provided in six areas of the sprawling Los Angeles metropolitan community under a $1 million program sponsored by the City Demonstration Agency. The service is designed principally for use by senior citizens, persons with physical handicaps and those in hard-ship financial condition but requests on the Dial-A-Ride system can be made by anyone in the districts. In the month of March, the latest for which figures are available, 38,603 rides were furnished in the areas, which have a population of slightly more than 500,000. It is theoretically possible to get a taxicab or van at your doorstep within 30 minutes of calling but the system tries to get users to put in their requests least 24 hours in advance. The areas served are Beverly-Fairfax, Hollywood, Pacoima, Westlake-East Wilshire, East-Northeast and greater Watts. Riders are restricted to trips within their own area boundaries, all of which are part of the city of Los Angeles. The East-Northeast and Watts areas have had the programs for about two years. They were extended last December to the other four sections and usage has increased steadily.

Summer's Recreation Program To Begin June 21

Monday, June 21st, is the official opening day for the Greenville Recreation & Parks Department's summer activities program. Most of the programs have little or no charge. Where registration is limited, Greenville citizens will have priority over other registrants.

Tot Lot: This program is for pre-school children ages 4-6. The program is held at Elm Street Center, South Greenville Center, and West Greenville Center from 9:00 a.m. to 11:45 a.m., Monday through Friday. At Elm Street there is also an afternoon session from 2:00 to 4:45 p.m. Planned activities will include arts and crafts, games, outdoor activities, and singing. Each child is asked to bring 25 cents daily for refreshments. Participants may register at locations of their choice on Monday, June 21, between 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. Registration is limited to 50 per session.

Evans Park Day Camp: The day camp at Evans Park will be held in three, 1 week sessions, beginning June 28th. This program is for children ages 7-12; the hours are 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. Activities for the camp will include games, sports, crafts, nature study, putt-putt golf, roller skating, bowling, and swimming. Registration for each session will be for 30 people and anyone interested should register at the Elm Street gym on Monday, June 21st between 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.

Playground Program: In the past, various playgrounds throughout the city have been staffed with recreation personnel for seven weeks during the summer. This year there will be no personnel on the playgrounds everyday but rather there will be a mobile recreation unit that will travel around to various locations throughout the week. There will be four instructors traveling with the unit who are specialists in sports and games, arts and crafts, and music. The mobile unit will be carrying a variety of items such as ping pong tables, trampolines, games, musical equipment, volleyball equipment, and other supplies. With this type of program there will be more structured and organized activities for all ages, and certain areas in the city that are not located near parks will be able to be reached. The schedule for locations for the mobile unit is as follows:

Monday 9:00-12:00 Meadowbrook Center — 2:00-5:00 Woodlawn Park
 Tuesday 9:00-12:00 Hillside Park — 2:00-5:00 Belvedere Residential Area
 Wednesday 9:00-12:00 Greenfield Terrace Park — 2:00-

5:00 Peppermint Park
 Thursday — 9:00-12:00 — Kittrell Goodson Park Area — 2:00-5:00 — Lyndale Residential Area
 Friday — 9:00-12:00 — Jaycee Park (by Eastern Elementary School on Cedar Lane)
 There will be no required advanced registration for these programs. Registration cards will be filled out the first day the unit visits the location. The program will last seven weeks—June 21-August 6.

Ice Skating & Roller Skating: Twin Rinks Recreation Center and the Recreation & Parks Department are sponsoring a "Skating Day." Every Wednesday, starting June 23rd and running until August 4th, from 10:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. (five hours). The cost is $12.00 for seven sessions and individual sessions will be $2.00. Tickets for this will be on sale at Elm Street Gymnasium from Thursday, June 10th until Friday, June 18th.

Putt-Putt: The Putt-Putt Golf Course of Greenville and the Recreation & Parks Department are sponsoring a "Putt-Putt" morning each Thursday. The usual rate for putt-putt is $1.00 per game.

Each game will be 60 cents (including shoes) and persons are invited to bowl as many games as they would like during this two hour period. A bus will be picking up children from the three centers — Elm Street Center at 9:15 a.m., West Greenville at 9:25 a.m., and South Greenville at 9:35 a.m. Children should make plans to meet at one of these centers to ride the bus.
Movies: The Recreation

Department will have a movie night every week for six consecutive weeks at the three center, West Greenville, South Greenville, and Elm Street. One week will be Cartoon Week and the next week will be "Thriller Week." Cartoon showings are for any age child while the "thriller" movies are recommended for children ages 10 and over. Movies will be shown at West Greenville on Tuesday nights, and South Greenville on Thursday nights. Show times are 7:00 p.m. There is no charge but refreshments will be available for a small charge.

Neo-Fascist Italians Try To Hold Own

By VICTOR L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer
ROME (AP) — Italy's Neo-Fascists, accused of resorting to violence in an anti-Communist crusade, are battling to hold their own in the upcoming national elections.

The Neo-Fascist Italian Social Movement—MSI—won more than two million votes on the strength of an anti-Communist line four years ago, becoming Italy's fourth largest party.

The political heirs of World War II dictator Benito Mussolini haven't changed their message this year. They have plastered cities with posters proclaiming, "no to communism, yes to freedom." Party leader Giorgio Almirante crisscrosses the country declaring the MSI crucial to save Italy from its leftward lean.

But the party, which claims 420,000 members, has been badly tainted by campaign violence, including the slaying of a Communist youth during an MSI rally near Rome. An MSI member of parliament, Sandro Saccucci, has been implicated.

The MSI also faces the dilemma of having its anti-Communist message backfire in the June 20-21 voting. The campaign could scare potential voters into the camp of the Christian Democrats, where their ballots would be more effective in the battle against the Communists.

One pre-election poll by the Demoskopie public opinion organization shows this may be happening. It said the Christian Democrats were making a slight gain, mainly at the expense of the MSI, and no change for the challenging Communists.

The poll shows the MSI getting 5.5 per cent of the vote, down from almost 9 per cent in the last national election in 1972.

In recent years the party has shown slippage in local and regional voting. At its last congress, in 1973, the MSI resurrected the image of Mussolini and pledged "peace and order in the country by all means."

In line with its campaign to depict itself as the party of law, order and patriotism, the MSI had enlisted a number of retired generals and other military officers to its ticket this year.

One of them, Gen. Vito Miceli, former head of the Italian national intelligence agency, spent time in jail on charges of conspiracy in an alleged right-wing plot two years ago.

The charges are still pending, although Miceli would be protected by parliamentary immunity if he is elected.

In the last election the MSI signed on Adm. Giono Birindelli, who resigned as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's Mediterranean naval chief to run for parliament. But he quit the party two years later, claiming other MSI leaders had refused to take court action to fight charges it was Fascist.

The party also goes under the name Destra Nazionale, or National Right, a grouping of the Social Movement and members of the former Monarchist party. The Monarchists would like to bring back King Umberto II, who went into exile in Portugal in 1946 after a referendum made Italy a republic.

Court Costs Rise July 1

RALEIGH (AP) — Court costs are going up in North Carolina, effective July 1.

Under legislation enacted by the General Assembly last month the cost will rise from $25 to $27 in the district court criminal division, Bert Montague, director of the administrative office of the courts, said Monday. Superior court criminal costs will increase from the present $40 to $48.

Civil costs will also rise, from $16 to $24 on the district court level, and from $26 to $34 in superior court.

One of the reasons for the increase is the expense of running the state's court system.

"Anyone who has been cited for a traffic offense and intends to waive his appearance by paying costs must do so on or before June 30 to get advantage of the current lower rates," Montague said.

"Whether the payment is mailed in or hand-delivered, it must get to the clerk's office before July 1 to qualify for the present $25 rate."

Rob't Vesco Is Ready For Day In Court

By JOHN VIRTUE
 SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UPI) — U.S. financier Robert L. Vesco says he's ready for his day in court — but in Costa Rica, not the United States. That day may come soon, since a Costa Rican architect, Carlos Rechnitzer, has launched a law suit against Vesco.

This will be the first time Vesco has faced charges in a Costa Rican court since he took up residence in this Central American nation in 1972.

Vesco, formerly of Boonton, N.J., is wanted by the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) for stock manipulation.

In addition, he was indicted in 1973 with former Attorney General John Mitchell and former Commerce Sec. Maurice Stans on charges of securing favorable treatment for his business interests by making a $200,000 contribution to the re-election campaign of former President Richard M. Nixon.

Vesco avoided prosecution by fleeing to Costa Rica and Stans and Mitchell were acquitted of the charges.

Rechnitzer claims he lost $224,000 in stock he had bought in the Overseas Investors Syndicate (IOS). That's the mutual fund the SEC says Vesco used for his own purposes after taking over Bernie Cornfeld's former empire.

Vesco, 39, has already won one favorable decision in a Costa Rican court. A 1973 attempt by the United States to extradite Vesco failed when a local judge ruled the extradition documents were not in order.

Vesco, in a reply to Rechnitzer's accusation, said the architect had been counseled on his law suit by the SEC and by the U.S. embassy in San Jose.

He said he welcomes the opportunity to go before a "just and impartial court" and that he would present all the facts regarding his relationship with the IOS.

"I now have the comforting feeling that I live in a country where it is the courts, and not some propaganda, which decides the honesty of individuals, without judging or condemning them beforehand, and without denying them the right to defend themselves," Vesco said.

Although Vesco is one of the most talked about men in Costa Rica, most people know him only through his press releases as he seldom appears in public.

He leads a secluded life, either in his walled-in, heavily-guarded block square complex on the outskirts of San Jose or on one of his several ranches in the interior.

Streets around the San Jose complex are constantly monitored by closed circuit television. Guards check out all cars which slow down or stop in front of the complex, which is near the equally heavily-guarded Russian embassy.

Neither Vesco nor members of his family venture out without bodyguards.

He invested heavily in the Country Day School attended by his children and has them transported to and from the school by two or three carloads of armed guards for fear of kidnaping.

Vesco has five children ranging in age from less than a year to 16. The youngest was born in Costa Rica.

Vesco's local payroll has numbered as many as 32, including guards and chauffeurs. Those who have lived in the complex include Donald Nixon, ex-president Richard M. Nixon's nephew.

Costa Rican justice works slowly, so the suit against Vesco could last for months. He could very well be a Costa Rican citizen by the time court decision comes, since he'll complete the minimum five-year residence requirement on July 28 of next year.

Vesco claims he has renounced his U.S. citizenship but is afraid he might be kidnaped by the Central Intelligence Agency if he went to the U.S. embassy to formalize it.

Vesco is the wealthiest man in this temperate, mountainous nation of 1.9 million. He admits to investments of $25 million, but others say his holdings could reach $60 million.

He says his holdings are in land and government bonds, which would put any Costa Rican government in a dilemma if it had to extradite him. If he pulled out his investments, he might rock the Central Bank.

Figueres was president in 1972 when he reportedly invited Vesco to pull up stakes in the Bahamas and settle and invest in Costa Rica.

Country Singer Skeeter Davis Is 'Refreshed'

SKEETER DAVIS, looking back on her suspension for 15 months from the Grand Ole Opry, says there were benefits for her. (AP Wirephoto)

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Skeeter Davis says she's been reborn in the last few years.

In December 1973, she was suspended for 15 months from the Grand Ole Opry for protesting on the air the arrests of members of a religious crusade on charges of creating a disturbance.

"I felt like a child without a home," she recalled. "I was shocked."

But now, looking back on it all, she says there have been benefits.

"It fed me spiritually," the talkative blond said in an interview at her producer's office. "I put my life in order as a Christian. I have Jesus first in my life now instead of in the background."

"The whole thing deepened my Christian commitment; my career used to mean the most to me, but the suspension made the priorities of my heart right."

"When the door closed on the Opry, God opened other doors. I lost some (appearance) dates, but still was financially blessed. God took care of me. Yes, it was like being reborn."

Miss Davis, 44, was able to perform overseas during her suspension, which would have been difficult otherwise. She also was able to participate in Christian crusades.

After the suspension was lifted, she felt refreshed.

"I think the best testimony is when there has been hurt and then reconciliation with love. It's Christ-like."

Miss Davis, who joined the Opry in 1959, has not been a Christian in word only. Throughout her career, she has refused to perform where liquor is served.

"I've never felt the Lord wanted me to work there," she explains.

And her witness for Christ is always present. In 1973, she asked a reporter in mid-interview, "Are you a Christian. Do you believe in God?"

Just as she has changed priorities, she expects similar changes in America this Bicentennial year.

"I believe a revival will sweep the country in the aftermath of Watergate and all the bad things. Maybe our tears will cleanse our faith."

"After being in other countries, I see how they respect us. They look to us as leaders."

In line with her commitment, she's concerned about increasingly liberal lyrics in country music.

"Some of the country artists need to take heed that the lyrics are almost off-color."

A Baptist who worships at an interdenominational church, she also thinks gospel music needs improving.

"I've said it before—gospel songs sound the same."

Other than her Opry appearances, her own career is changing. She has switched record labels and is now being produced by Pete Drake. "I Love Us" will be out soon as her first single in two years.

"I really think it's a good record, and I don't think I've ever said that publicly about one of mine before."

Tapeworm Is Arctic Foe

EDMONTON, Canada (AP) — Man's best friend may be his dog but not always above the 59th parallel in North America, where he and other animals may be hosts of a parasite causing lung problems for hunters, trappers and their wives and children.

Dr. Richard Cuthbert, of the University of Alberta Hospital here, reviewed 25 years of x-ray studies of hydatid disease of the lungs and traced the life cycle of the disease-causing parasite. He found the ailment occurs in North America almost exclusively in native Indians and Eskimos of Alaska and Canada.

The parasite is the hydatid tapeworm which travels through animal hosts such as the dog, wolf, coyote, Arctic fox, sheep and moose before being eaten by man. It settles in the liver and the lungs, forming cysts in the latter that are visible on x-ray studies.

Patients studied were 55 Indians, five Eskimos and four white patients. Of these 33 were men ranging in age from 3 to 63, with a median age of 12 years; and 31 were women from 5 to 68 with a median age of 14 years. This indicates a high incidence of the disease in children.

British Trade Old Skills For Needed Skills

By ROBERT MUSEL — LONDON (UPI) — Britain is offering new skills for old to millions of workers who must adapt to changing industrial conditions or accept a loss of status and earnings. The workers are in jobs which will be eliminated or downgraded as new processes and techniques usurp the old and new demands by buyers push older products out of the market. The problem is not confined to Britain—the European Economic Community estimates one in eight workers in Europe must retrain by 1985. But Britain is a leader in the field with nearly 60 years of experience since it first began to help disabled soldiers in World War I. Some 10,000 disabled are still trained under that scheme every year. In addition, with some 1,250,000 unemployed and redundancy or dismissal notices hanging over the heads of many others, the British have organized the Training Services Agency to meet the heavy demand for workers expected during the coming economic upturn. The agency sponsors a Training Opportunities Scheme, known as TOPS, which provides free training for anyone over 19 who has no job or will give up a job to train for a new one. Some are training at a Government "Skillcentre," some at technical colleges and some in industry on government subsidies. Students are paid to learn. The Department of Employment, which has overall control of the project, has set up well over 50 of these Skillcenters and many more are planned. The typical Skillcenter is a modern factory-type building where workshop layout, machinery, hours, time-keeping and other routines follow normal industrial practice. The trainees receive full-time instruction in the trade of their choice, usually for six months though some courses take twice that long. The present courses cover more than 50 occupations and are intended to bolster essential knowledge with practical experience. A spokesman for the department said demand is presently heavy for engineering and construction industry skills. Computer programming, interior design, animal nursing and food catering are among other popular courses. The advent of North Sea oil has led to a spurt in enrollments for oil platers, riggers, welders, electricians and pipe fitters. One project is a diving training center—one of the highest paid jobs in the British maritime oil fields. The opportunities for retraining cover a wide field. The famous Wedgwood potteries are taking some apprentices. One of the most successful was Malcolm Harnett, a truck driver who two years later saw his work exhibited at the Royal Academy of Arts in London. One of the problems TOPS finds most difficult is overcoming the reluctance of older people to give up a lifelong skill for a new one. Hundreds of thousands of booklets describing various aspects of the retraining scheme are being distributed and officials of the Training Services Agency hope these will encourage the more senior citizens to prepare themselves for the inevitable changes in the pattern of British industry.

Picture-Taking Now A Ritual

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Each year for the past 27 years, George Spiropoulos, a restaurateur, and his brother-in-law, Charles Mouloupolous, have had their pictures taken with a department store Santa Claus and have sent it to their mother-in-law. "At first, we were embarrassed, standing in line with all the little kids to get our pictures taken with Santa, but now we're used to it," Spiropoulos said.

This Is How They Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes May 27 through June 2.

House
FEA EXTENSION Adopted, 194 for and 172 against, an amendment extending for 18 months rather than 39 months the life of the Federal Energy Agency. It was attached to HR 12169, a bill authorizing $215.8 million in fiscal 1977 funding for the FEA, later passed and sent to the Senate.

The FEA was created by Congress in 1974 to pull the nation through the energy crisis induced by the Arab oil embargo. Subsequently, the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) was established creating much duplication between the FEA and ERDA.

Virtually all members agreed that the FEA should be terminated at some future date, although not as soon as June 30, 1976, the original termination date. Disagreement centered over how long the agency should be kept alive beyond June 30.

The sponsor of the 18-month extension, Rep. Floyd Fithian (D-Ind.) said the Dec. 31, 1977 termination date would give the new President and Congress a full year to decide how to phase out FEA and transfer some of its functions elsewhere. "The FEA has demonstrated conclusively the law of bureaucracies," Fithian said. "It has grown unconscionably, and its growth has not only been in terms of performance, but in terms of budget as well."

Opponents of the amendment said the 39-month extension had been arrived at as a compromise. Rep. John Dingell (D-Mich.) said that amendment would not provide enough time for orderly transition into a new federal agency structure for energy policy, assuring that "Congress will be in an almost intolerable position and that the President will be compelled to act under very difficult conditions."

Reps. Stephen Neal (D-5) and W. G. Hefner (D-8) voted "yea." Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L. H. Fountain (D-2), David Henderson (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Richardson Preyer (D-6), James Martin (R-9), James Broyhill (R-10) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "nay."

Rep. Charles Rose (D-7) did not vote.
KOREAN AID Adopted, 241 for and 159 against, an amendment to delete a $290 million ceiling on fiscal 1976 and 1977 military aid to South Korea, thus restoring the $490 million aid level requested by President Ford. It was attached to a $6.2 million foreign military aid bill (HR 13680), later passed and sent to the Senate.

Supporters of the amendment said the higher aid level is needed to help South Korea become militarily self-sufficient in the face of new threats of aggression from North Korea. "Any major reduction in our present programs could be misunderstood by North Korea as a sign that the U.S. commitment to the security and independence of the Republic of Korea had weakened," said Rep. Edward Derwinski (R-III).

Opponents said the lower aid level would help force the South Korean government to end abridgements of the rights of Korean citizens. "All we ask here is to place some pressure upon a political dictator in South Korea," said Rep. Ronald Dellums (D-Calif.), who added that Congress is annually "bombarded with propaganda that the North Koreans are going to invade South Korea. . . But nothing has happened in the six years that I have been here."

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Preyer, Rose, Hefner, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "yea."

Neal did not vote.
Senate
ABSENTEEISM Moved, 41 for and six against, to direct the Sergeant at Arms to round up absent senators in order to achieve the quorum (51 members present) necessary to conduct legislative business. With the Memorial Day recess just ahead, absenteeism on this Friday, May 28, was high.

Sen. Robert Byrd (D-W. Va.), the majority whip and sponsor of the motion said: "I move that the Sergeant at Arms be directed to compel the attendance of absent senators. This does not mean they will be subject to arrest, but it means that there will be a serious effort to persuade them to come in."

There was no pro-and-con debate. The vote produced a quorum.
Sens. Jesse Helms (R) and Robert Morgan (D) did not vote.
AFRICAN AID Rejected, 29 for and 45 against, an amendment to prevent the southern African nation of Mozambique from receiving U.S. military aid. It was proposed to the fiscal 1977 foreign military aid authorization bill (S 3439), which at week's end was headed for passage and a conference with the House.

Supporters of the amendment sought to prevent Mozambique from using up to $25 million in U.S. military aid in its guerilla war against white-ruled Rhodesia. They noted the irony that many opponents of their amendment traditionally dislike sending foreign aid to repressive governments, such as the dictatorial Mozambique regime.

"It's an up or down vote on whether or not we are going to say here in Congress that we are not going to support a police state such as Mozambique is," said Sen. James Allen (D-Ala.), the sponsor.

Opponents called the authorization for southern African countries, including Mozambique, an essential follow-up of the new African policy recently set forth by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, and noted the bill's prohibition against recipient countries using the funds for guerilla warfare.

One opponent, Sen. James Abourezk (D-S.D.) said: "I guess everything comes full circle. I never thought I'd would see the day when the senator from Alabama would quote the Washington Post in support of an argument. I never thought either that I would see Sen. Allen come down hard in support of human rights."

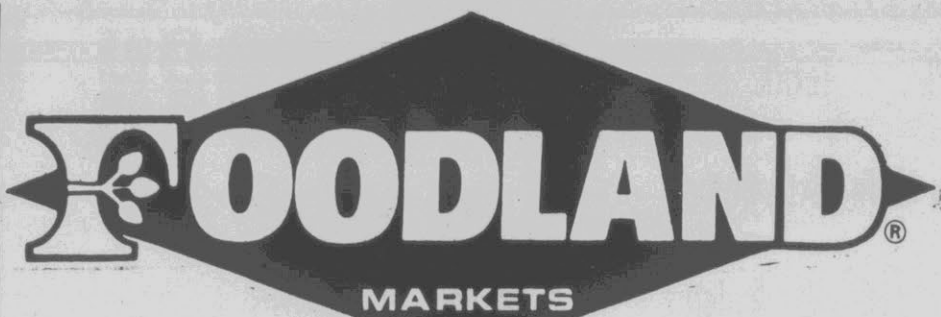

Helms and Morgan voted "yea."

Volunteers Aid Big City

HELPING HAND—Volunteer reading tutor from the New York City School Volunteer Program gives individual help to children during school hours. Volunteers receive professional training and supervision to assist them in helping youngsters improve in basic skills.

NEW YORK (AP) From tutoring school children to keeping watch over the lonely elderly, from working in hospitals to doing research, New York City citizens are pitching in to help in the city's fiscal crisis.

The campaign to mobilize an initial 10,000 volunteers to fill service gaps is spearheaded by the Citizens Committee for New York City, formed last fall.

"We're striving to maintain the quality of life in the city as best we can through programs of voluntary action," says executive director Dennis Allee, citing threatened closings of day care centers, libraries and hospitals; reduced programs for senior citizens and students, and reductions in police, fire and sanitation services.

More than 3,500 responded to the committee's first full-page newspaper ads calling for volunteers, Allee reports. Some 30,000 volunteers are already involved with public agencies and a large additional number perform various tasks through the 10,000 block associations in all five boroughs.

The program is being carried out jointly by the city administration and the committee and, in announcing the plan Mayor Beame stressed that it "is aimed at supplementing (not supplanting) the efforts of city employees in attempting to maintain city services during these difficult times."

"The people — our people — are the city's single greatest resource. And, we're asking this enormous talent pool to give time, even as little as three hours a week, to help the city weather the crisis," said Allee, an urban expert who supervises a small staff in donated office space in midtown Manhattan.

Working with the Board of Education, trained volunteers tutor students in language and mathematical skills on a one-to-one basis.

Ten retired employees of a large insurance company, for example, devote two mornings a week to students in a Harlem school, transported there by company bus and returned to headquarters for a free lunch.

Six thousand persons in 25 precincts belong to the Civilian Car Patrols and another 5,300 Auxiliary Police patrol neighborhoods, reporting to the police department via citizen band radio.

BRAVO, the volunteer ambulance service in a section of the borough of Queens, maintains free ambulance service 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

A former geologist works as much as 12 hours a day at the American Museum of Natural History, studying fossil vertebrae retrieved from a Nebraska riverbed.

Other volunteers visit merchants in their neighborhood in an effort to obtain discounts for the elderly or seek out vacant lots for planting vegetable gardens, with the harvest to be distributed to needy families.

Still others, such as a group on the Lower East Side, make daily telephone calls to old, lonely and infirm area residents, providing what is in many cases their only lifeline to the outside world.

The unemployed are offering their talents without pay in order to "keep a hand in" their respective fields. An out-of-work art teacher works with former drug addicts in a rehabilitation center and an expert in remedial reading instructs former convicts, whose reading ability is so deficient they are unable to apply for a job.

For other volunteers, the city's need offers an opportunity to see if they want to change careers. A dissatisfied accountant, who has been tempted to apply to law school, spends two afternoons a week helping out the overloaded city law department.

For students "career experience" is available in a wide range of fields, from language instruction to psychiatric research, hospital training to library work, social work to urban studies field experience. More than 16 area colleges have established centers where students can apply for volunteer work that will be helpful to them in their areas of interest.
